STANOLIND PROGRAM FOR CURRENT YEAR EXTENSIVE

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company will participate in drilling 948 wells in 1948, according to President E. F. Bullard. The total cost of the program will be about $69,000,000.

In 1947 Stanolind participated in drilling 844 wells with a total cost of $50,600,000.

Included in this year's drilling program are about 100 wildcat wells of which four are in the open waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Once again heavy expenditures for geological and geophysical exploration have paid off by reducing the number of dry holes, Bullard said. In 1947, 88 per cent of Stanolind's new wells produced oil or gas. Of the 88 wildcat wells drilled, in which Stanolind had an interest in 1947, 36.3 per cent produced oil or gas.

Reflecting today's increased costs, number of deep test wells, and the highly expensive wells in the open Gulf, the average cost of Stanolind wells drilled in 1948 is expected to be $72,600 compared to $60,000 in 1947.

Robot Dowsing Finds Underground Water As Forked Stick Did

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor TULSA, OKLA. (AP)—A robot dowsing, which detects underground water much like the human dowsers used to do it with a forked stick, is one of the new things at the International Petroleum Exposition.

This water locator is shown by the Dowell Company of Tulsa.

The robot dowsing, like the old stick, also has a forked end. One leg of this fork is a strip of gold and the other a strip of zinc. The dowsers said their forked sticks bent irresistibly downward when passing above underground water.

The gold-zinc fork does the trick electrically. The fork is lowered down a well in a steel housing. An insulated wire runs from each metal strip, to the top of the well, to join in a meter there.

An Electric Battery This arrangement is really an electric battery. Whenever the fork enters water in the well, electric current starts running between the gold and zinc and up to the dial.

The next two steps are technical, and about as hard to understand as why the old dowsers' sticks bent downward. They include adding an electrolyte to the water in the well and then withdrawing some of the same.

After that comes the magic. As the dowsing fork goes down the well, it shows the point or points at which water is entering. And it shows how much water is entering at each point. All this takes place in water that may be a mile or more underground, and might be the water that is the inflow of water level. Even if the water is pouring in at several points the dowsing locates them all and tells how much at each one. This information enables the driller to know where to seal the well to get rid of the water.

TEXAS OIL DOUND-UP— Expensive Drilling Platforms Dot Horizon Of Gulf Coast

By MAX B. SKELTON Associated Press Staff

Gulf Coast tidelands oil operations are beginning to assume massive proportions.

Expensive drilling platforms now dot the horizon along the Louisiana coast and indications are that by Fall there may be 50 or more rigs in operation.

Oil companies, despite the prolonged controversy over federal or state ownership of the submerged lands, are making rapid strides to produce oil from open, unprotected waters of the gulf.

The latest developments include: The first commercial oil producer in deepwater, Kerr-McGee's discovery well 10.5 miles off Terrebonne Parish on May 4 began flowing regularly at rates as high as 600 barrels daily. The well is in water 17 feet deep.

Magnolia Petroleum Magnolia Petroleum on May 13 said its well eight miles off Coon Point showed 1,027,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with a trace of distillate, when tests were made with perforations at 7,268 feet. Other tests now are in progress.

Humble Oil and Refining Company on May 18 announced that its first tidelands project, 7.5 miles off Grand Isle, topped salt at 7,607 feet and found an oil sand at 7,104 feet. The company also said five rigs will be in operation off the Louisiana coast by Fall.

A second Kerr-McGee project on May 14 had reached a depth of 12,600 feet and had encountered several minor oil and gas showings.

Texas-Louisiana oil explorations on coastal land have centered around salt deposits in many areas and companies leaving current tidelands explorations hope to find a similar number of salt domes in the two states.

Five Confirmed Five such tidelands salt domes have been confirmed to date.

J. Ben Carsey, assistant chief geologist for Humble, last week said recent geophysical information indicates the continental shelf adjacent to Louisiana may not have as many domes as the adjoining land area.

He reported, however, that the survey indicates there are 18 "topographic features" or hills on the ocean bed within 3.5 miles of the Louisiana coastline, 51 within 10.5 miles and 245 within 31.4 miles.

Carsey said any attempt to estimate the ultimate production from the continental shelf by applying the known production of adjacent land areas would be to assume that a similar number of structures would be found in the Gulf.

Four Million Barrels By such an assumption, he said, the continental shelf along Texas and Louisiana might be expected to hold four to five Billion barrels of oil within the 31.4 mile zone, 600 million barrels within the 10 mile zone, and 300 million barrels within the 3.5 mile zone.

Humble's current tidelands test is proceeding in 47 feet of water and Carsey predicted offshore exploration will continue to areas having depths of from 50 to 100 feet but that it will be extremely difficult.

Rogers, Morrow Spat Over Committee Post

BROWNWOOD —(AP)—Woodville Rogers of San Antonio, pro-Union leader, cracked back Saturday night at Wright Morrow, Houston attorney.

Morrow, a leading candidate for Democratic national committeeman from Texas, said earlier in the day at Houston that "Mr. Rogers apparently prefers anybody to me as national committeeman from Texas. This is not surprising to me because Mr. Rogers and I have seldom, if ever, agreed in political matters."

Replied Rogers, who earlier last week announced his opposition to Morrow:

"Wright Morrow quit the party in 1944 and the first time he comes back to church he wants to be superintendent of Sunday School."

Rogers said he would attend the pro-Truman caucus at 8 p. m. here Monday.

Morrow said "Mr. Rogers may now be for Truman but in 1944 he was for Henry Wallace for vice president. After bolting the state convention, he was seated as a delegate to the Chicago convention, and voted for the nomination of Henry Wallace along with several of his present political running mates."

The average speed of U. S. freight trains reached a peak of 16.7 miles per hour in 1939 and 1940 (up from 11.5 miles per hour in 1921) but has declined slightly since.

Ending Of Strike May Bring Lower Prices On Meat

By The Associated Press

The possibility of larger meat supplies at lower retail prices cheered housewives Saturday as CIO meat handlers prepared for a return to work in most packing plants throughout the nation Monday.

Sources in the meat packing industry said settlement of the 67-day-old strike against three of the "Big Four" meat packers Friday probably would result in a spurt of livestock receipts for two or three weeks. Bigger receipts, they said, probably will be reflected in lower retail prices.

The strike was ended against Swift, Armour and Cudahy on the basis of a nine-cents-an-hour wage increase offer the CIO Packing-house Workers Union previously rejected.

Wilson Strike Continues
However, the union said the strike against Wilson and Company's seven plants will continue. The union said Wilson had decided not to rehire any strikers involved in alleged strike violence although the other packers agreed to submit this issue to arbitration.

Wilson countered Saturday with a challenge for the union to take a back to work vote among Wilson workers under supervision of a government agency. The company said its workers were overwhelmingly in favor of returning to work but that the union had not submitted company proposals to them.

The union replied, accusing Wilson of "misrepresentation, half-truths and completely erroneous statements of fact."

Tribe Will Meet Cats

The Midland Indians open a three-game series with the Balinger Cats at 3 p. m. Sunday in Indian Park here. The second tilt will be Monday night and the third Tuesday night.

Bill Atwood's Cats are hot competition for Harold Webb's Indians. In a recent series at Ballinger, the Tribe took two out of three. The spice of two ex-Indians trying to beat the club which cast them away will be interesting. Midland released Willie Wynn and Bill Gilten and they ended up at Ballinger.

Webb's warriors are surging upward in the Longhorn League after a shaky start. A streak of winning brought the locals to the first division quickly. Ballinger would like nothing better than to stop this march.

The game Sunday afternoon marks the second daytime appearance of the Indians at home this season.

U. S. Links Indians Queens Hold Ryder Cup Sweeper

BIRKDALE, ENGLAND—(P)—America's links queens retained the big silver Curtis Cup Saturday by defeating the best women golfers that England, Scotland and Ireland could offer.

The visitors triumphed in four of the six singles that made up Saturday's program and halved a fifth despite rain and wind. That lifted their score to 8 1/2 to 7 1/2, equalling the widest margin of victory in the competition that started in 1922.

The U. S. women never have been defeated in Curtis Cup play. In addition to the Curtis Cup, the U. S. now holds the Walker Cup, involving male amateurs; the Ryder Cup, for male professionals; the British Women's Amateur crown and the British Women's title. The British pen title stayed on this side of the Atlantic last year by a single stroke.

Singles Matches
Friday the United States forces won two of the three foursome matches and here is how they added to their totals Saturday:
Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., defeated Jacqueline Gordon, England's foremost woman player, 5 and 3.

Jean Donald of Gullane, Scotland, upset Dorothy Kirby, the Atlanta radio announcer, 2 up.

VERNON
Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., defeated Mrs. A. M. Holm of Scotland 3 and 2. Louise Suggs of Atlanta, U. S. women's champion, rallied to gain a halve with Philomena Garvey, Irish queen.

Polly Riley, Fort Worth insurance representative, repeated her Florida victory of last winter over Maureen Ruttle 3 and 2.

Dorothy Klei, California flying instructor, mastered Mrs. Zara Bolton 2 and 1. Mrs. Bolton was a last-minute substitute for Mrs. Diana Fishwick Critchley, who became ill during the night.

Carl Erskine pitched the Fort Worth Cats to a 2-1 victory over the Tulsa Oilers in the series final Saturday night. It was the slender right-hander's seventh triumph of the season.

Tom Jordan's home run over the left field fence with one out and two mates aboard in the 10th inning gave the San Antonio Missions their sixth straight victory over the Beaumont Exporters.

The Shreveport Sports combined a ninth inning double with a single to produce the winning run as the Sports defeated the Houston Buffs 2 to 1. Houston left 12 men stranded on the bases.

Shortstop Bill Serena led the Dallas Rebels to a 4-2 victory over the Oklahoma Indians in a Texas League game Saturday night. Serena knocked in three runs with his fifth and sixth home runs of the season and scored another run after his double set off a rally.

Harbert Leads Way Into PGA Quarter Finals

ST. LOUIS—(P)—A trio of slammers paced by one of the longest hitters of them all, Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., led the way into the quarter finals of the 30th Professional Golfers Association championship Saturday as most of the tournament hot shots came successfully through the third round.

Not far behind him Sammy Sneed, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., clubber, and Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., both of them noted for their long hitting, turned in decisive victories.

Sneed whipped Leland Gibson of Kansas City 5 and 3, and Bulla routed Ky Laffoon of St. Andrews, Ill. 6 and 5.

Tribe Hurts Loop Leader Vernon 7-2

Ralph Blair of the Tribe bested Gerald Fahr, ace of the Dusters, in a side battle of pitchers.

Midland looked like a different ball club defensively. Carrel Nipp turned in another fine game in his right field garden post.

The Redskins scored two runs early. In the first frame they tabbed thudily: with two outs, Perry erred on, Prince doubled, Nipp was hit by a pitched ball, Eddie Mellillo hit scoring Perry and Prince. ## Bearden Hurts Shutout Over Boston Red Sox

CLEVELAND—(P)—Rookie southpaw Gene Bearden won his third straight game Saturday for the league-leading Cleveland Indians, shutting out the Boston Red Sox 7 to 0 on six hits before a ladies' day crowd of 28,997.

The Indians unleashed a 13-hit barrage, including Eddie Robinson's sixth home run of the year.

The game was a scoreless mound duel between Bearden and Boston's Jack Kramer until the fourth inning when big Eddie Robinson put the Indians ahead by clouting a home run with Larry Doby on base.

The Indians counted another run in the sixth when Doby beat out a roller to short and went to second on Vern Stephens' wild throw. Manager Lou Boudreau singled him home.

Kramer retired for a pinch-hitter after six innings. His replacement, Harry Dorch, was treated rudely by the Tribemen, who belted him for a single tally in the seventh and three in the eighth.

The win gave the Indians two out of three in the series with the Red Sox.

The Importance of "Stepping Down"

Here is the story of a new principle of design that has rocked the industry and given Hudson unique beauty not possible in any other type of car.

Hudson has a new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame*, part of which is a rugged base structure that permits lowering floors and seats down within the frame. The sketches below illustrate this design problem and show how Hudson's recessed floor provides a low, streamlined silhouette, yet preserves head room.

NEW HUDSON

Here is the long, low, gracefully streamlined Hudson—only five feet from ground to top. You see how the streamlined roof comes down sharply over the rear-seat portion of the car, as compared to the other types of roof lines shown in sketches to the left. But Hudson floors are recessed down within the frame, seats are lowered, so you get more than ample head room.

The "step-down" principle requires years of engineering work, the development of new production techniques and equipment, and millions of dollars of highly specialized new plant investment. Perhaps this explains why Hudson alone offers this vital new design principle today.

You'll probably expect the motor car that is the talk of the nation to offer you even more than beauty and comfort. And it does! Your nearby Hudson dealer will show you The Importance of "Stepping Down"—also its results in riding and driving ease, performance and safety. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

*Trade-mark and patents pending.

THE recessed floor in the new Hudson is now widely known as the "step-down" feature—is the talk of the automobile world. And rightly so! This interesting development is the key to a new kind of motor-car beauty never before obtainable.

Other cars are attracted by Hudson's low, streamlined silhouette and free-flowing lines.

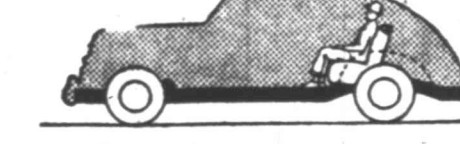

Only Hudson, because of its exclusive recessed floor that you step down onto, is able to offer streamlined, low-built beauty without asking you to give up interior head room.

Let's take a frank look at the motor-car designer's problem. Since streamlining an automobile reduces available head room for rear-seat passengers, to achieve a low silhouette and maintain adequate head room, both floor and seats must be lowered to compensate for the lowered roof. The recessed floor is a necessity.

But it is difficult to lower floors and seats, because in all cars, except Hudson, they are built on top of a frame. Only

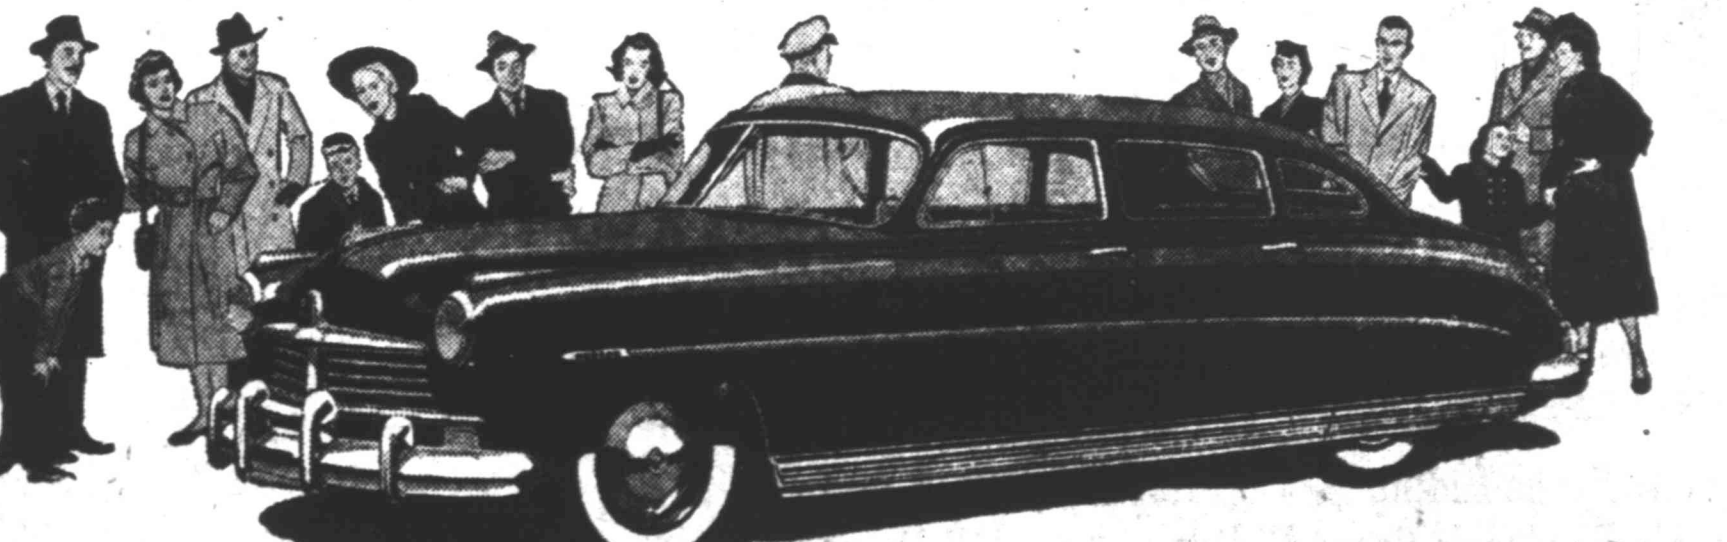

OTHER CARS
The car above cannot be streamlined because the need for head room above the rear seat (which is built on top of a frame) makes it impossible to lower the floor.

OTHER CARS
Of course, it is possible to adopt free-flowing lines without recessing the floor, as sketched in the car above, but over-all height must be raised, and this destroys the possibility of a low silhouette, which is the mark of the modern motor car.

This time it's Hudson

Make no mistake about it—the catcher is the brains and eyes of his ball club. At the next game you see, watch the catcher. You will find him hard at work. You will find him—crouching, signaling, receiving, throwing. You will find him a busy man.

We are not, in this piece, trying to tell Wayne Specht of the Indians how to catch. We are not putting him on the spot with a lot of imaginary charts and formulas that are perfection. Wayne may have devised his own ways and means and that is well and good. Still and all, catching is a most important baseball position. Most boys don't like to catch. From sandlot days they are shy of foul tips smashing fingers and the like.

Basically the catcher receives the throws of the pitcher. Actually he tells the pitcher what to throw. He studies the batters. He gives a cleverly concealed signal to his pitcher what to throw.

Before going into his receiving stance, the catcher usually gives his signal from a squatting position. What kind of signals—well that is Specht's and others' secrets. May be one finger for a fast ball, two for a curve, wiggle for a change of pace. The catcher designates the spot to which he wants the ball thrown while he is in the squatting position. And after he gives the signal.

You, no doubt, have watched clever catchers like Tony Truesdale of the Big Spring Bronchos, work and have seen them analyze the batter, then signal to the rest of the team where the batter is apt to hit. Catchers study the batters.

Good catchers have a stance which allows them to throw without shifting their feet. Take one step and throw, say the best of catchers. They take the ball directly back to the ear, turn their shoulder, step and throw. They take only one step.

Tomorrow or when you see your next game—look at the catcher. You can appreciate him. That right, Specht and Worsham?

—SL—
Robert Roll, Sr., rolls in nine Louisville leagues weekly, an accomplishment which ranks him as the second busiest bowler of all time. His record is exceeded by only Chester Smith of Detroit, who at present is rolling in 11 leagues weekly. But Roll is the only keeper of record to roll seven nights a week in league competition. He gets in two leagues each on Tuesday and Wednesday.

—SL—
Midland's Indians sure have been on the warpath as the week's statistics of the Longhorn League will show. Midland climbed from sixth to first (tie) in team batting with a mark of 300. ## Dickson Hurls, Bats Cards To Win Over Braves

BOSTON — (AP) — Although slammed for three home runs, Murray Dickson Saturday pitched and helped bat the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-4 victory over the Boston Braves before 11,443 fans.

The Cards got off to a two-run lead in the first inning on one hit, Nippy Jones' single, which followed three walks issued by Boston starter and loser Johnny Sain, and an error by Bill Salkeld.

Tommy Holmes clouted his fourth homer of the season in the third inning to bring the Braves, who had scored once in the second, into a 2-2 tie.

That deadlock lasted until the seventh when Dickson doubled to left field and scored on Red Schoendienst's right field bingle.

Geoff Heath powdered his fifth homer of the year in the ninth and Salkeld hit his first in the same inning for the Braves' final tally.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —
By STANLEY FRANK

One of the biggest, if not the biggest, runs of cattle ever sold in Midland marked the opening of Midland Auction Company's new plant Thursday.

A total of 1,700 head went through the ring. But, with buyers from many parts of Texas and several other states in the audience, the market was strong and active. Fat calves and yearlings brought $26 to $28.50, medium calves $22 to $26. Fat cows sold at $21 to $23.50, medium kinds $17 to $21. Canners and cutters brought $13 to $17. Fat bulls sold at $22 to $23.50, medium ones $19 to $22.

Stocker steer calves sold at $27.50 to $29, heifers $25 to $26.50, stocker cows $17 to $18.50, and cows and calves $15 to $20.

Wool sales in the Midland area have been reported at prices ranging from 54 to 65 cents a pound; one 45,000-pound clip was contracted not long ago at 60 cents. Walton Herral of Rankin has sold 8,000 pounds of ewe wool at 65 cents. It was reported here a few days ago.

C. C. Thomas, secretary-manager of the Midland Production Credit Association, reports that at a recent PCA meeting in Houston it was announced that PCA loans in Texas now total an all-time high of $52,000,000.

It also was reported that 27 associations in Texas have reduced government stock to $5,000; 14 years ago the government owned $10,000,000 in stock in Production Credit Associations of the state.

Clayton and Dow Puckett, Fort Stockton ranchers, were in Midland recently. They said Pecos County is dry as... well, you know.

Henry Neal, Rankin ranchman, says his stock could use some nice green feed, but he isn't figuring on going to Colorado with them. He has arranged for some grass near Strawn, Texas.

Lea Aldwell last week shipped a bunch of sheep from his ranch near Stiles to Colorado grass.

Dave Elder of San Angelo and Rankin was a recent visitor in Midland.

A good sheep shearer can make up to $25 a day this year, with shearing prices at 25 and 26 cents—that is, if he gets half the money, as is usually the case.

W. W. Percitull last week returned from his Midland home after undergoing an operation on an injured knee in Dallas. He is assistant manager of the Midland Production Credit Association.

Charley Cox of Garden City, Jim Thornton of Pyote, Ed Guy Branch of Rankin and Frank Williamson of Midland attended the May meeting of directors of the Midland Production Credit Association here Thursday.

Jack-rabbits are a pest in West Texas, as ranchmen and farmers will agree. But in Australia they are a serious menace to agriculture. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent there in attempts to eradicate, or at least control, the rodents, and untold additional losses have resulted from their destruction of pastures and farm crops.

The weird thing about it is that there were no rabbits in Australia at all until about 100 years ago. Some colonists imported the champion multipliers of the four-footed animal kingdom, a few pairs at a time, and rabbits' being what they are, the continent soon was overrun with them.

Take the case of one Thomas Austin. According to Fairfield Osborn's new book, "Our Plundered Planet," which gives the reader to suspect the world will fairly soon be depleted of its food-producing resources unless mankind learns some sense, here's what happened to Austin:

In 1859 he imported 24 wild rabbits from across the ocean and put them on his Australian ranch. Three years later, rabbits began to be referred to as pests instead of pets in that section of Australia. And six years later, Austin killed, at considerable expense, 20,000 rabbits on his and his neighbors' property. He was forced to admit, says Osborn, that there were 10,000 rabbits remaining alive.

Once upon a time, in Western Australia, the commonwealth built a fence 2,000 miles long. It cost about $2,000,000, and was supposed to keep rabbits away from a big part of the continent. But by the time it was finished rabbits already had managed to get through it and start raising little rabbits on the other side.

Of course, Australia's trouble resulted partly from the fact that, while originally there were no rabbits on the continent, neither were there any factors to control infinite increases in the rabbit population once it got started.

FIVE MEN FINED HERE IN JUSTICE COURT

Four men were fined on traffic counts and one for being drunk in public in justice court here Friday and Saturday.

One was fined $18, including costs, for illegal passing; another was fined $14.20, including costs, for the same offense; one was fined $23.40, including costs, for hauling an over-width load, and another was fined $23.20 on the same count. A fifth man was fined $23 for being drunk in a public place.

Two other complaints were filed in the court against an Odessa man charged with hauling an over-length load and with failing to provide proper clearance lights on his truck.

Fence post crops are grown on many farms, often in gullies where the trees serve a dual purpose of crop and control for erosion.

Unique Features Assure Rapid Handling Of Stock

Midland Auction Company's new plant just South of the railroad tracks East of the city was hailed this week as one of the most complete and elaborate setups of its kind in Texas.

The sale building itself, made of a converted Army building, is 84 feet long and 37 feet wide. It was moved here and set on its foundation by Poyner Brothers of San Angelo. It houses the sale ring, a cafe, office and lobby, rest rooms and livestock scales. Concrete floors throughout the building, a complete public amplifying system which enables announcements to be conveyed from the sale ring to the cafe and lobby, and air conditioning are facilities of comfort and convenience built into the structure.

LITTLE IN MUCH

More than 98 per cent of the earth's crust is made up of only eight of the ninety-odd known elements. They are oxygen, iron, silicon, aluminum, calcium, sodium, potassium, and magnesium.

The term "democracy" often had disreputable and low-class connotations until the middle of the 19th Century.

Unique Features Assure Rapid Handling Of Stock

Midland Auction Company's new plant just South of the railroad tracks East of the city was hailed this week as one of the most complete and elaborate setups of its kind in Texas.

The sale building itself, made of a converted Army building, is 84 feet long and 37 feet wide. It was moved here and set on its foundation by Poyner Brothers of San Angelo. It houses the sale ring, a cafe, office and lobby, rest rooms and livestock scales. Concrete floors throughout the building, a complete public amplifying system which enables announcements to be conveyed from the sale ring to the cafe and lobby, and air conditioning are facilities of comfort and convenience built into the structure.

One of the outstanding unique features of the building is a porch, 15 feet wide, extending the whole length of the building's South side. Always shady during the afternoon, it provides a cool place for visiting stockmen to rest.

While the building is one of which stockmen of the area and businessmen of Midland can be proud, the pens are the feature of the new auction layout which really demand superlatives for description.

Cattlemen and cattle buyers who have seen livestock auctions in all parts of the state say without quibbling the Midland Livestock Auction pens are the best they've ever seen, with the possible exception of those at such terminal markets as Fort Worth, San Antonio or Houston.

Rapid Handling

About 200 pens, capable of taking care of upward of 2,000 head of livestock at a time, were built by W. T. Holden of San Angelo. Their construction and arrangement are ideally adapted for rapid handling of great numbers of cattle. Gates are of metal, making them light and easily swung as well as durable. A catwalk extends over the pens, so buyers can quickly see everything in the yards before the sale starts. A variety of chutes make it possible to load and unload sheep, cattle and hogs from single and double-deck trucks, pickups or automobile trailers.

Concrete-floored hog pens are equipped with concrete troughs and soot will be covered with a shed roof. A hay barn also is to be built near the pens, and as soon as arrangements can be made with the T&P Railway, a spur is to be laid to the pens so livestock can be loaded or unloaded at the auction company's pens instead of at the old stockpens as at present.

Electric lights on high poles make it easy to work in the pens at night. Future plans call for paving the road leading into the pens and a wide parking strip in front of the building.

WANTED FOR SWINDLING

Constable N. W. Talkington of Midland went to San Angelo Saturday afternoon to get a man wanted here on charges of swindling with worthless check. He is alleged to have passed a $104 "hot" check here.

Economy Featured In Attractive House

This two-story house achieves economy in construction by being planned as two 16 by 28 units placed one above the other. These measurements make possible utilization of the greatest amount of building materials in standard sizes, thus eliminating much expensive special cutting which is wasteful of both material and labor. It is planned for comfortable and convenient living as well as for economy, and the exterior appearance is distinctive and attractive.

Modern 'Built-Ins' Add Charm And Efficiency To New Or Rebuilt Home

Increased use of efficient "built-ins," such as attractive lounges, bookcases, storage cabinets, radios, dressing tables, beds, lamps, and new room heating units, is reported by the nation's home builders.

A "built-in" is a piece of furniture or home equipment which can be efficiently fitted or designed directly into a house, in contrast to units installed separately or free-standing. Bookcases, of course, have long been the most popular built-in item, but building specialists say much more now is being done in the modern home.

Chief advantage of built-in units, according to home management specialists, is their contribution to better living in less space. Heating Equipment For example, a built-in radio in its simplest form need be only a cabinet as part of a bookcase with cutouts for control buttons and speaker.

New type heating units, in contrast to the older free-standing cast iron radiators, may be recessed in walls with only an attractive outlet grille showing. Noteworthy among the new heating units available today are convectors designed especially for this purpose. They can be installed on almost any hot water or steam heating system and their installation can be planned while the house is still in the blueprint stage.

A built-in lounge or window seat is always an attractive possibility. If space for such construction is

PARADE ADVERTISES BAPTIST BIBLE SCHOOL

Lead by a fire truck loaded with youngsters, a parade here Saturday afternoon advertised Vacation Bible School which opens Monday at the First Baptist Church.

Following the fire truck were several decorated cars. The parade traversed residential and business streets of the city during the afternoon.

Other major furniture items. Even the davenport, itself, may be built-in, if desired. Not all "built-ins" need be constructed in new homes. Many times an existing house lends itself admirably to construction of built-in furniture and equipment.

Houses Now Stamped Out

IRVINGTON, N. Y. — (AP) — A method of "stamping out" concrete houses, which its developers estimate may save $250 to $300 a room in construction costs, has now been evolved.

Exterior Of House Should Be Closely Inspected; Repairs Made Promptly

The exterior of the house should be carefully inspected with Spring's arrival and immediate steps taken to make repairs before they become big items of expense, it was urged by the Construction Research Bureau of New York, clearing house for building information. Rumpus Room Gains Wide Acceptance

Developments in modern home design in recent years have seen the wide acceptance of the single story ranch-style house, and the usefulness of a rumpus room, or play room, for family recreation and relaxation. Only in the last decade has the rumpus room become a part of the average house. Such an area was practically nonexistent in the early 20's, but today, regardless of the style of the house, a separate recreation room is provided if possible.

To Mark the Place FOREVER...

There may be peace and beauty at a grave in the cemetery... it may have the most constant, devoted care... and yet, without a memorial, it is but another unmarked, unnoticed grave. One step - the erection of a lasting memorial - will transform a simple cemetery plot into an inspiring shrine of memory. One word - a name carved proudly into stone - will bring distinction and honor forever.

Memorials

A visit to our shop and memorial display will give you an opportunity to choose from a great variety of designs and material. If not convenient to visit us, phone 3366 for a representative.

Johnson Launches Senate Campaign

AUSTIN — (P) — Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) launched his campaign for United States senator Saturday night with a step-by-step stand on political issues and called for his opponents to do likewise.

In a radio speech from Woodridge Park here, where he made his political debut 11 years ago, Johnson labeled "three bold signposts" on "the road we shall travel toward a better tomorrow" as preparedness, peace, and progress.

His program for progress, he said, would include laws protecting the public from both selfish labor and selfish capital, and a federal hands-off policy of such state functions as civil rights.

"Without preparedness, there may be no peace; without peace, there can be no progress," the congressional Armed Services and Atomic Energy committee member declared.

Johnson listed five points for preparedness: (1) a strong industrial system, (2) the world's most powerful Air Force, (3) and (4) an Army and a Navy adequate to any task, and (5) continued scientific development.

"What have we done, and what can we do, for peace?" Johnson answered the question with six points:

"One. We can strengthen the United Nations.

"Two. We can keep open the free channels of trade.

"Three. We can turn atomic knowledge to the peace.

"Four. We can stand up to the war-makers and say, this far and no farther, as we did in Greece and Turkey.

"Five. We can help free men with the Marshall Plan.

"Six. We can tell the world about America."

Johnson called the civil rights program "a farce and a sham—an effort to set up a police state in the guise of liberty."

He closed his speech with a pledge to serve "with honor and honesty . . . to do credit to you who elect me . . . to our state . . . and to our nation."

New Delphian Chapter Here Slates Seminars

The Delphian Society's organizational meeting in Midland will be conducted at 9:45 a. m. Thursday in Hotel Scharbauer by Mrs. Ann Becker, Delphian supervisor of Dallas, as part of a nationwide program to urge women to take a more active part in helping solve the basic problems of American democracy.

One major issue will be analyzed and discussed in each seminar, with an appraisal of both the situation in which the problem has developed and the possible solutions.

Since the keynote of the seminar is individuality, each member will consider the pro and con opinions as well as the fact, and after discussion arrive at her opinion independently. In no instance, states Mrs. Becker, will members act collectively on any issue.

Charter members here include Mrs. W. D. Anderson, Mrs. E. W. Cowden, Mrs. Carl Barnhart, Mrs. R. M. Barron, Mrs. Taylor, Cole, Mrs. C. W. Chancellor, Mrs. R. E. Gile, Mrs. O. F. Hedrick, Mrs. W. F. ## Novel Kitchen Shower For Brides Uses Gifts As Table Decorations

By NEA Service
Planning a kitchen shower for a June bride?
You'll boost your reputation as a hostess if you'll plan an imaginative table setting which elevates the party status of practical gifts. To make a festive show of these, work out a plan beforehand with the donors of the gifts and set a table for clever display.
Custard-cup candle holders, picture dinner plates and dish towel drapery set the pace for the cleverly decorated table shown in the photograph above.

Green and white cross-barred Irish linen dish towels are gathered into swags around the edge of a plain green linen cloth. Attached to the gathered-up ends are small kitchen gadgets such as measuring spoons.

A glass baking dish filled with white daisies, green foliage and blue iris makes the centerpiece. More daisies float in the custard-cup candle holders. Candles are fastened in place with modeling clay.

Pie tins alternating with layer-cake tins are used for dinner plates and a hot main-dish casserole is served in covered pottery oven dishes. Simple tumblers and colored plastic-handled cutlery complete the place service.

Favorite recipes typed on the backs of recipe file cards and autographed by the guests on the front make the placecards which are held upright by clothespins.

After dinner or supper, dishes are washed and table decorations dismantled and packed up to be carried home by the happy bride-to-be.

French Brother And Sister Reunited; Need Interpreter

NEW YORK (AP)—Two rehaired French orphans, brother and sister, got together again after a year's separation—but they had to have a translator to talk to each other.

Paulette Ziotogorski, eight, came here a year ago as the foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Winthrop of Queens. She left brother George, 11, in a Paris orphanage where they had lived since the Nazis took their parents away four years ago.

Then Mrs. Winthrop's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dorin, of Brooklyn, decided to bring the boy here and adopt him.

He arrived to find that, in the intervening year, his sister had forgotten her native language. George can't speak English. But he's learning—with his sister's help.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug-grocery and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcostrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if redoubtable pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 47 Pounds
"When I commenced to take Barcostrate, I weighed 212 pounds. I now weigh 165. I lost 47 pounds on the first two bottles. I feel so much better after losing that weight. I think it is a wonderful medicine and thanks to Barcostrate."—Mrs. George Greer, Chalmers Courts 4, Apt. 1, Austin, Texas.

Mr. Retail Grocer . . .

You have long been conceded past master in the use of the power of suggestion, by means of display and conversation, in helping your customers make better selections and in helping yourself make greater profits. We also realize that you know better than anyone else that your profits depend directly on the general prosperity of the people in your trade area.

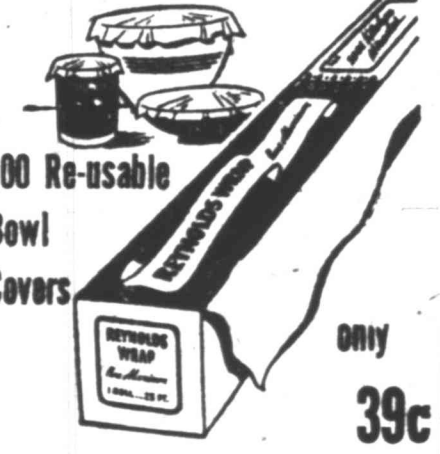

We think you can use that power of suggestion to good advantage to yourselves, your customers and Midland people in general by simply 'pushing' the sales of MILK, produced and delivered in Midland County, which would discourage the consumption of milk trucked and shipped in from distant points. Every time a carton of this 'outside milk' passes through your checking stands, its purchase price leaves town immediately. It will eventually cause reduction of local dairy herds and retard employment of local people, your customers.

Thank you, Mr. Retail Grocer.

Popular Film Will Open Sunday At Yucca Theater Here

One of the most widely-read and best-loved novels in recent years, George Agnew Chamberlain's "Scudda-Ho! Scudda-Hay!" comes to the screen of the Yucca Theater here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Twentieth Century-Fox's brilliant Technicolor film version starring June Haver, with Lon McCallister.

A story of young love, heart-stirring emotions and violent conflict, the picture, produced by Walter Morosco and directed by F. Hugh Herbert, was filmed in the rich tradition of the studio's sensational "Home in Indiana" and "My Friend Flicka."

Twentieth Century-Fox, quick to appreciate the undeniable appeal of the story, purchased the screen rights while it was running serially in a national magazine. The novel was then published in book form, and later condensed in Reader's Digest to be acclaimed as one of the most unusual and heart-warming stories of the year by millions of additional readers.

By that time, Morosco, already preparing the production, assigned well-known stage and screen playwright Herbert, who had authored such successes as "Margie," "Together Again," "Kiss and Tell" and "Home Sweet Home" to adapt it for the screen.

Industries Find Conditions Good In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, P. R.—(NEA)—Seventeen new industries that will employ almost 3,500 workers with an annual payroll exceeding $3,000,000 have been brought to Puerto Rico by the Industrial Development Company since the program to encourage private capital got into swing.

This includes only those concerns for whom the Development Company has provided factories in large part at government expense. It does not include the successful fishing rod business that Harry Keller, of Newark and New York, has established with 55 employees; or the bamboo furniture business Keller has just started, which already is using around 60 workers in two different communities. Nor does it count the employment or payroll of a new textile plant for which the final contract was not signed when this list was prepared.

And it takes no account of at least nine industries already working, or installing equipment, that provided their own plants though the Development Company has helped them in other ways.

The new industries for which the Development Company has gone all out range from a dye works that expects to use only 11 employees up to a cotton print mill, to employ 750 persons, that the big mainland company, Textron, Inc., is installing.

Tax exemption and ready-made factories have been a big attraction to industries already signed up and to others, notably in the textile field, that are seriously considering such a move to Puerto Rico.

But another big selling argument used by Teodoro Rocco, Jr., the Development Company's aggressive president and general manager, is a big pool of low-cost labor.

In February cane-cutting and processing was about at its peak. This is the island's big employer. Yet that month the Insular Bureau of Labor Statistics found 65,000 who had no jobs at all, and more than 145,000 who had less than 30 hours work a week. There are many villages back in the hills whose people have had no regular employment, other than government-made work, for years.

Fishing Rod Plant
Harry Keller, starting his fishing rod and furniture plants, settled where there were 200 such families. He has farmed out part of the weaving of palm leaf seats to another village, 90 miles away in the mountains, whose people had been without work since cigar-making blew up before the war.

Currency Redemption Division Of Treasury Restores Mutilated Money

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There are a lot more ways to get rid of money than by spending it.

If you're one of the fortunates to whom inflation means you've got more cash on hand than you know what to do with, here are some tips on how to get relief:

Termites love that folding stuff. A few grand stuffed in the raft-

With patience and a pin, currency redemption expert Mrs. Guila F. Burke is picking apart $5000 worth of exhumed money.

ers of the attic will provide dessert for them for several months. A fat roll of tens or twenties tucked in the toe of an old shoe and buried in the back yard will be well on the way to complete decay within six months. Fold, say eight or nine one-thousand-dollar bills into small wads, place them carefully in an old auto battery and bingo, the acid will eat them up in a hurry.

Not Recommended

The above methods of licking inflation, however, aren't recommended by the U. S. Treasury. In fact the job of the Currency Redemption Division of that agency is to restore money which has suffered such treatment. It takes skilled experts who have been trained for many months to do this work. They must have utmost patience and a thorough knowledge of all kinds of paper currency in order to be able to identify the notes as to denomination, kind and genuineness. Only women—about 18 of them now—are used for the task.

The girls do this work with high-power magnifying lenses. No chemicals are used. Tiny fragments are sorted with tweezers and pins and assembled on special blotting paper.

This year it is estimated the girls are on their way to redeeming in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 through their efforts.

No End To Cases

There is practically no end to the strange cases which involve semi-ruined money. A calf chewed and swallowed a $70 roll of bills. The animal was killed and what was left of the money was sent to the Treasury where full value was eventually paid.

A small-town bank burned several years ago. The charred debris found in the small vault was listed as the remains of $100,000. But $120,000 was identified. It was discovered that a bootlegger had slipped $20,000 in without having it recorded.

Rotted money is most difficult to handle. It will not separate as easily as burned currency. And notes must be separated because payment is made for faces of notes only; the backs have no reimbursable value according to law.

The pet peeve of the redemption experts is ashes. Money can be burned and still retain its shape. But when the remains are crumpled and ground into powdered ashes, nothing can be done.

After mutilated money has been identified and recorded the remains are destroyed completely.

Psychiatry Is One Of Most Neglected Fields In America

This woman is undergoing electric shock treatment at Patton State Hospital in California as a mental patient. She has a chance to be cured, but experts say America's mental health program is so inadequate most hospitals merely keep the mentally sick in custody, rather than make any attempt at treatment.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Psychiatry, the glamor field of medicine in the spotlight of publicity, is actually one of the most neglected aspects of public health in America.

That's the dismal picture painted by leading psychiatrists for the nation's top doctors and public health experts. Assembled in Washington by the Federal Security Agency for a realistic look at America's health, they were told that while 30 to 60 per cent of all persons seeking treatment from doctors today have mental illnesses, there is only one trained psychiatrist available for every 35,000 persons in the U. S.

Dr. William C. Menninger, of Topeka, Kans., one of the country's outstanding psychiatrists, and other leaders in the field, listed these facts to show how little is being done for the mental health of U. S. citizens:

Fifty Per Cent
Close to 50 per cent of all the hospital beds in the U. S. are occupied by mental patients. Altogether there are only 2,700 psychiatrists in public hospitals. This means that one doctor frequently has to care for from 300 to 500 hospitalized patients. In some cases each psychiatrist cares for 1,000 to 1,200 patients. As a contrast, in general hospitals, one doctor takes care of 20 to 25 patients.

New Machine Opens Secrets Of The Heart

OMAHA.—(AP)—A new electric ear hears sounds from the human heart never heard before, and offers a new approach toward controlling heart disease.

This ear is a machine that turns the sounds of a beating heart into beams of light. Then it takes pictures of the sounds, recording them as squiggles on a roll of photographic paper.

The machine was designed and developed by Drs. Lowell F. Dunn, Walter Rahn, Jr., and Dr. Albert Freed at the University of Nebraska college of medicine. It is far more sensitive and accurate in its hearing than a trained physician with his stethoscope. It tells more than electrocardiographs, the machines that record the heart's electrical waves.

Sounds are picked up with crystal microphone placed over the heart. They are amplified and turned into moving beams of light, flashing across three cathode ray tubes.

Frequencies Measured
One tube shows the darting flashes of low frequency sounds. Frequency is the number of vibrations per second. Another shows the middle-frequency sounds, and the third the high frequency sounds of fast vibrations.

The built-in camera rapidly takes pictures, and the developed film shows three separate wiggly lines of all three frequencies. The paper has a fourth line, an electric timer that shows the instants when the heart is pumping or relaxing.

These permanent pictures can be compared with the heart sounds later on in life or during an illness to learn exactly what changes occurred. This may make it possible to spot heart diseases earlier, or to learn what heart sounds may show about the cause and start of heart disorders.

The stethoscope and human ear cannot do this comparison anywhere near so accurately. Like anyone else, doctors vary in how well they can hear or what particular sounds they can hear.

Heart sounds range from 10 to 800 vibrations per second. The human ear cannot hear any of them below 30, and at 30 they have to be loud to be audible. The machine can pick up even the slowest vibrations.

Changes in the low dull sounds might give warnings of changes in the strength of the heart long before the human ear could perceive them, Doctors Dunn and Freed said.

Heart murmurs cause special kinds of wiggles to appear on the lines in the electric ear. It can show the start, duration, and frequency of the murmur. With this information the physicians have begun working out a system which promises to show fairly accurately whether a murmur comes from a damaged heart or a not-serious cause.

The electric ear is a large machine in its present form, and isn't something a physician can carry with him. But it will be a new tool for hospitals or schools or Army or Navy medical examination centers.

Mailcarrier Dumps Mail In Buses When His Feet Get Tired

PITTSBURGH.—(AP)—His feet were tired, a veteran mailman told a U. S. commissioner in answering charges that he delayed the mails. The carrier, Lawrence J. Thoma, 44, of Etna, was ordered held on $1,000 bond for a hearing. Postal inspectors said he not only delayed the mail but also dumped some of it in buses. Thoma said he intended to deliver the mail later—but his feet just got tired.

Small Change Becomes Big Problem In Cities

CHICAGO, ILL.—(AP)—Small change has become a big problem in some of the nation's biggest cities.

A boost in transit fares has put the penny in big demand. Detroit, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago have had to get millions more small coins to meet the demand for small change, the American Municipal Association reported recently.

Detroit hiked its streetcar fare from 10 cents to 13 cents last month. The transit system saved up 1,300,000 pennies to make change. Another 1,200,000 pennies were obtained at the Federal Reserve Bank when calculations indicated the initial stock would not be enough.

Chicago's streetcar and elevated-subway trains expect to handle some 750,000,000 more pennies this year than last. Streetcar fare was boosted recently from 10 cents to 11 cents and elevated fares from 12 cents to 13 cents.

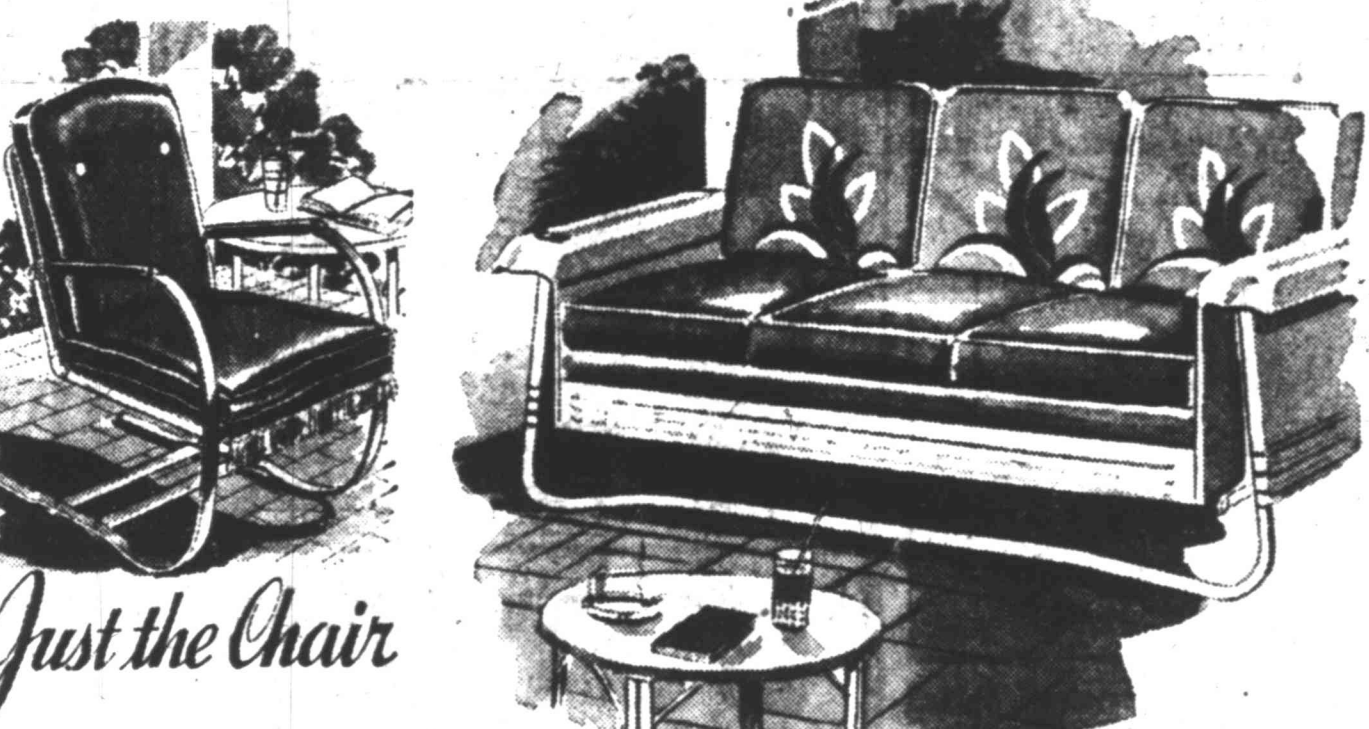

In New York, transit officials ordered 10,000,000 dimes in preparation for the subway fare increase from five cents to 10 cents, effective July 1. The New York Federal Reserve Bank was asked to supply 10,000,000 extra pennies to make change for transfers.

THE STORY: Jessica Gordon, aristocratic southern belle, has eloped with Yankee soldier Tom Blake in defiance of her father and in spite of her own qualms. At Tom's insistence, she is living with his mother and sister, Lucy, while he is overseas. They are working people and Jessica, accustomed to being pampered, tries to accommodate herself to their kind of life. Tom's sister is cool to her and his mother openly antagonistic. She makes friends with Doris, a girl next door, who suggests she should be happier if she had a job. On the morning she is to apply for one, an attack of dizziness overcomes her. Tom's mother says harshly: "Unless I miss my guess, my girl, you're pregnant."

chance like that, honey? He's gorgeous."

Tay Hayden and Mary Belle. An odd little stab of envy stirred Jessica. Suppose—just suppose that Tay and Mary Belle—silly, of course, to imagine anything so ridiculous as their marriage.

But a year later, when Betsy was staggering about learning to walk, a letter came from Tay's sister Evelyn announcing Tay's engagement to a girl he had met in Kentucky—Mary Belle Evans.

The invitation to the wedding arrived right on the heels of that letter. Never a word from her father. Letters from Tom in Germany. Now the war in Germany was over and Tom was held with the army of occupation but soon he might be home. What then?

JESSICA forced her mind to consider just what Tom's return would mean to her. What did Tom feel toward her?

His letters told nothing. They carried no hint of the infatuation which had made him follow her blindly about a little Kentucky town three years before. That brief interval when they were together... the wedding... the trip to Akron... Tom's departure. How long ago those events seemed now. Tom was a stranger who had entered that silly care-free life she had led in Kentucky and had taken her away to live with a woman she hated. A woman who still refused to accept her as her daughter, who criticized everything she did, what she wore and how she cared for her child, who established an arbitrary set of morals which Jessica must follow because she was Tom Blake's wife. This or that was right, and this or that was wrong.

Lucy abided by her mother's judgment always.

Lucy had her work to occupy her mind and she concentrated upon that work and labored slavishly for her employer. Her life was molded into a pattern of strict adherence to duty. Her mother and the man for whom she worked limited her horizon.

Useless to try to wake Lucy up, thought Jessica. A born old maid and quite satisfied to be one.

This afternoon had been an example of how impossible it was to alter Lucy. Always she reverted to type, as when she showed such open disapproval at the airport, attaching significance to a casual conversation, magnifying a chance acquaintance.

What had the man felt?

ONLY Jessica let her thoughts travel back to the short time when she stood absorbed in the scene at the airport and forgot that she was Jessica Blake with a 3-year-old daughter and a husband who would shortly return from overseas. It had been fun, a reprieve, something apart from the drab existence she led with Lucy and her mother.

Encouraged by the man's bright glance of admiration, stung by Lucy's silly disapproval, she thought seriously of how she could find independence for herself and Betsy.

She must. Otherwise she would have no choice when Tom returned but meekly to accept his decision for their future.

Jessica rose and turned on the light and rummaged in her dresser drawer for the ring she had kept hidden ever since her marriage. It was a ring which had belonged to her mother, a cluster of diamonds in an old-fashioned setting.

The day following the airport adventure, Jessica gave the excuse of shopping to her mother-in-law and persuaded her to watch Betsy for a few hours in the afternoon. She dressed with unusual care. She dropped the ring in her purse and set off. She had no idea of values and planned to visit a downtown jeweler and have the ring appraised. There should be enough money from its sale to repay the old debt to Mary Belle and leave her enough money to take some kind of training. She must and would be free before Tom came home.

Sometimes the failure of the opponents to bid makes it more difficult to get into the right contract. However, that did not prevent Mr. and Mrs. Howard Zacks of New York City from arriving at a grand slam contract in hearts on today's hand. Mr. and Mrs. Zacks recently won the Eastern States team-of-four championship with Charles E. Sanders and Jack L. Cushing.

Mrs. Zacks (South) had the type of hand on which most experts like to open the bidding. Probably many West players would showed strong support in hearts and the ace and king of diamonds. Otherwise, what would justify an original bid vulnerable, and now a free raise? So he decided that there was no need for further bidding and went to seven hearts.

There was no play to the hand, as Zacks ruffed the opening spade lead and took three rounds of trumps.

The Zacks won the match, as their opponents at the other table stopped at six clubs. They made seven but, of course, lost the match.

overall with one spade, but when the hand was played in the Eastern States Tournament, West passed. Zacks in the North then bid two hearts. With most players the jump bid of two is a deliberate slam try, but the Zacks use this bid to call for suit controls immediately.

Therefore, when East came in with a two-spade bid and Mrs. Zacks bid three hearts, she denied the ace of spades. With the jump forcing bid by her partner a demand for controls, if she had held the ace of spades or was void in that suit, she would have bid three spades.

It was now easy for North to analyze that the three-heart bid

We All Got Rhythm, Educator Maintains

CHICAGO, ILL.—(AP)—A music educator says the song, "I Got Rhythm," applies to everyone.

No one is born entirely without rhythm, according to Dean John W. Beattie of the Northwestern University School of Music.

Beattie says some children become "rhythmless adults" because teachers try to make them sing before they are ready.

He says youngsters should be encouraged to move rhythmically before they're taught to sing.

White graduation dresses that boast "new look" styling will add their charm to commencement-day snapshots posed by sweet girl graduates for the family's camera fan. The organdy dress worn by the girl posing for her picture, center above, features crisp tailoring in the tucked bodice and long, full skirt. A black velvet bow ties at the Peter Pan collar. Narrow bands of white net circling the bodice and full-gathered skirt highlight the ballerina-styling of the pique dress, inset bottom left. The two-piece pique frock, inset top right, owes its dressy look to a double ruffled peplum and a pearl-buttoned basque top.

'New Look' Seen In Fashions For Graduates

By ERSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—The white splendor of the sweet girl graduate's dress is enhanced this year by "new look" styling, its added length to hemlines, widens the sweep of skirts and gives classic design a touch of frou-frou.

Polling a big popularity vote with the class of '42 is the long graduation dress of chiffon, marquisette or organdy which doubles as a summer dance frock. As appealing as the befringed charmer this year is the sheer dress that owes its distinction to crisp tailoring. For example, the details that put style's magic touch on a tailored organdy dress, which is outstanding in New York collections, are a prim little collar and shadow-band, tucked inside horizontally on the snug bodice and full, long skirt.

The short dress which climbs down to the ankles this year also swirly a full skirt. Designed for a career beyond commencement day are ballerina-styled dresses which will go to parties, slim little suits which will go everywhere. The key to the good styling of these fashions is a dress-up look built on simple lines. A classic pique-suit, for example, with a long, flaring skirt and a brief high-buttoned bodice over its greater look to a double-ruffled peplum edged with eyelet and a Dickens-styled collar.

A simply styled frock of bird's-eye pique which shows the ballerina influence on graduation fashions owes its dress-up airs to multiple rows of white net which run horizontally through the bodice and full-gathered skirt.

New Dog Ordinance Is Effective June 1

Police Chief Jack Ellington Saturday reminded dog owners that June 1 is the deadline for vaccinating dogs and for obtaining license tags for them.

The tags are available at the police station. Certificates showing that dogs have been vaccinated against rabies within the last 60 days must be presented when applying for licenses, Ellington stated. He said provisions of the recently adopted dog ordinance will be strictly enforced beginning the first of next month. The ordinance provides that dogs running loose will be picked up and impounded even though they have been licensed.

TEC Manager Explains GI Unemployment Pay

Veterans claiming GI unemployment allowances between school terms may be expected to take "any reasonable work within their physical abilities," John D. Bechtol, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office here said Saturday.

It is a violation of federal law for veterans to claim unemployment pay for periods covered by GI subsistence allowances, he said. The law requires that veterans receiving unemployment payments be available for suitable work, and that the payments shall stop when jobs are found for veterans or when they refuse jobs and are not actively seeking work, Bechtol said. The TEC administers Title Five of the GI Bill of Rights. Bechtol said the veteran who has finished his school term will be given every assistance in finding the type of work he wants, and that while unemployed he is eligible for readjustment allowances.

Small Town Dog Gets Lost In City Of 65,000

PARIS, ILL.—(P)—Rex, the Paris bus riding canine, is just a small-town dog after all.

He has been riding buses in this city of 8,000 for years. Recently, however, he accompanied his master on a 25-mile automobile trip to Terre Haute, Ind. There he jumped from the car and became lost in the city of 65,000.

A Terre Haute resident noted that his license was issued at Paris. He telephoned the Paris city clerk, learned the name of the dog's owner, and returned him.

Simplicity Reigns In Selection Of 'New Look' Bridal Headdress

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

There's something about a bride whether she wears blue or white, diamonds or rhinestones, a girl about to be married hardly needs to be told that her wedding day charm is the simplicity of her grooming.

Most girls, no matter how flamboyant their choice of costumes for street or ordinary formal wear, choose only the most ladylike fashions in which to say their "I do's."

This year there is a "new look" in bridal headdresses, as in everything else. But still simplicity reigns whether the bride selects a romantic Spanish mantilla or a tulle bonnet in which to make her vows. Be sure to select a headdress which will complement your hair—do whether short, medium or long.

Hair is shorter than it was during last year's bridal season. But few brides want a really short hairdo which may be completely concealed by the veil. Although the hair should not be too long and trailing down below the neckline of the wedding dress, there should be enough of the hair showing to complete the look of femininity which every bride tries to achieve on her wedding day. (To the nape of the neck is a good rule.)

The most popular bridal hair styles, reports the American Hair Design Institute, are the simple, parted-in-the-middle coiffures which can be worn either page-boy fashion or with soft curls in back.

The girl who already has cut her hair short, and can't do anything about it can wear several of the brushed forward styles to relieve the severity.

If you need a permanent wave by all means arrange to get one several weeks before the wedding day. The bride should certainly look familiar to her friends and husband-to-be and many a last-minute permanent has been a disappointment if not a shock.

Such things as startling hair arrangements or a new shade of hair dye are other taboos. Everybody wants to see the bride gay, happy, and unadorned with artificial embellishments. No bride will get criticism on her wedding day if she sticks to the simplicity formula. But if she deviates from this path, she is inviting unpleasant comment on the most important day of her life.

Child Modeling Is Booming Business

NEW YORK (AP)—The child model business—sparked by dotting manias whose children are photographic—is booming.

An advertisement featuring a child at play, a gurgling baby or a mother-daughter combination has strong consumer pulling power. The teen-age girl model of the type that grandma called "wholesome" is in big demand to sell products in magazines and newspapers.

And thousands of mothers are willing to pay the expense of $50 or more to list their child with a recognized agency and take the gamble for success.

One man riding the crest of this newly expanding business is Walter Thornton, a former GI of World War I, who created the "pin-up girl" of World War II. Pvt. Thornton pinned his girl's picture to the canvas wall of his tent. The pin put a hole in the tent, and the sergeant put Thornton on K. P. Idea Was A Winner

The new soldiers, however, lived in lush barracks and could pin up pictures of pretty girls without punching a hole in the wall. So one day in 1940 Thornton dug about 5,000 photographs of girls out of the files of his famous model agency and shipped them off to Ford's. N. J. The idea, as you know, was a winner.

Thornton has been in the model agency business since 1931, but only in the last five or six years has he stressed child models. Now it accounts for 45 per cent of his business and is still expanding.

He isn't the only one, of course, but he operates with more child models and over a wider field on a mass production basis than any other agency.

Bum's Bum Is Nice

How does a child become a model? Well, take your own case. You have a beautiful child. Maybe you don't think so yourself, but people stop you on the street and comment. "My, what a beautiful child!"

So you take the child to a model agency. There your child will be accepted as a model, or you will get the most gentle bum's rush ever devised by man.

Thornton turns down 50 to 75 per cent of the 100 to 150 persons who apply weekly. The percentage varies with other agencies. Rejection is painless: "Madam, I'm afraid your child is not quite the proper age. Perhaps in a few years or so. Yes, he is beautiful. In a few years, perhaps. Thank you. It was nice meeting you, too. Good-bye, now."
