Russians Call Off Rail Block

BERLIN—(P)—The Russians did an abrupt about-face Saturday and called off an hour-old rail traffic block which would have cut off food and coal from 2,000,000 Germans in Berlin's Western sector.

The end of the crisis came when the Russians advised American and British authorities that freight trains could move normally again from Western Germany to Berlin. The first freight train from the American zone moved into the Russian zone from Helmstedt on the British zone border an hour later.

Late Saturday night two trains, one British and the other American, had arrived in Berlin.

The Russians gave no explanation of their order or its withdrawal and gave no assurance for the future.

More Propaganda

Meanwhile, the German Communist press beat the propaganda drum and hinted Germany could hope for a reduction in Russian reparations demands. Russia already has cut demands from Finland, Hungary and Romania.

Allied observers interpreted Saturday's hints as another step in trying to create counter-propaganda against the Marshall Aid Plan for Western Germany.

Saturday's crisis came to a boil shortly after noon. The Russians had refused to permit the Americans to move a freight train in the American sector freight yard at Anhalter. Railway officials had alerted American troops to move the train with their own switch engines and to take over the necessary signal towers, if needed, to accomplish it. An order was sent out to the U. S. Army constabulary to seize the signal equipment if no settlement was reached.

Soon afterward the Russians issued the order to free the train.

Truman Blasts Russia

BERKELEY, CALIF.—(P)—President Truman challenged Russia Saturday to prove its desire for peace by ceasing its tactics of "coercion" and "open aggression."

In blunt language, the President said the Soviet government's refusal to work with its wartime allies for world peace and recovery was "the most bitter disappointment of our time."

He flatly rejected any separate conference with Russia on differences affecting other countries. He said "no nation has the right to exact a price for good behavior."

"The door is always open for honest negotiations looking toward genuine settlements," Truman declared.

He invited Russia to show its good faith in Greece and Korea. Reviewing U. S. Position

In a major foreign policy speech at the University of California commencement exercises, the President asserted in his frankest review to date of this country's position:

1. The United States refuses "to play fast and loose with man's hopes for peace" by making "deals" with other great powers at the expense of weaker nations.
2. The "cleavage" that exists today is not between Russia and the United States, but "between the Soviet Union and the rest of the world."
3. Russia and her satellites should withdraw their aid from guerrillas in Greece and permit North Korea to unite with South Korea.

"The world lives today in a twilight period, between a war so dearly won and a peace that still eludes our grasp," the President said.

Blames Russia

The reason he added, "lies largely in the attitude of one nation, the Soviet Union." Truman said the United States is always willing to negotiate international differences when they are susceptible to negotiation but he said "there is nothing to negotiate when one nation habitually uses coercion or open aggression in international affairs."

"What the world needs in order to regain a sense of security is an end to Soviet obstruction and aggression," he added.

Truman said the United States is not struggling against Russia "for any territory or for economic gain."

"We have no hostile or aggressive designs against the Soviet Union or any other country," he said.

Armies Are On Alert

CAIRO—(P)—Both sides charged continued violations of cease-fire orders Saturday and threatened to blow up Palestine's two-day-old truce.

Both Arabs and Jews marked out "both bread" front lines which appeared to criss-cross and invite dispute.

Count Folke Bernadotte, the UN truce-maker, flew with his top aides to Amman, Trans-Jordan, Jerusalem and Damascus, Syria, to take a "first-hand look at the powder-bag situation. His observers were busy at Tel Aviv, Haifa and elsewhere checking equally dangerous spots.

An Arab League representative routed Bernadotte from bed at 4:30 a. m. and handed the mediator a note saying "The Arab government reserves the right of quick action in reply to criminal Zionist attacks."

Reprisals Threatened

Israel's army chief of operations already had voiced similar warnings in a statement to newspapermen, and threatened reprisals for raids on Arab capitals.

Col. Count Thornd Bond, Swedish military advisor to Count Bernadotte, said in a statement Saturday night he had received from the Egyptian government "four complaints in which the Egyptians alleged they were attacked by Jewish UN observers were ordered to investigate."

Officers of Israel's forces at Haifa declared the "cease-fire order was violated" in a statement by Syrians firing on the Golan Heights settlement on the eastern shore of Lake Galilee. An official spokesman from Tel Aviv said the Arabs were "heavily attacking" the settlement.

Further North, Jewish official spokesmen said the Arabs were launching heavy attacks against Mahanayim and Karat Sabab Saturday night.

Commanders Move Authority

An "order" was issued by UN headquarters of the Arab armies had given commanders in the field authority "to severely counter-attack" in event of "organized Jewish attacks." They were instructed to ignore individual incidents but to order reprisals if they were ordered to draw the line.

The Amman headquarters said Jews attacked the Syrians in the Nazareth District, on the north side of the Arab triangle in Central Palestine, Friday night, and also attempted a raid on Beisan.

The Syrian complaints apparently arose from three thrusts which the Syrians said they made on an armistice eve in which they claimed the capture of 10 Jewish villages and the killing of more than 20 Jews.

"It may now be revealed," said a Tel Aviv communication, "that the defense army of Israel succeeded in opening a new supply route to Jerusalem a few days before the cease-fire order came into effect."

Midland Paving Is Big Topic

One of the most popular topics of conversation in Midland currently is the recently adopted paving program under which it is proposed to pave 400 blocks of city streets.

"Will my street be paved?" "When will the paving start?" "How much will it cost?" "Will all the paving be in one section?" "Will the city share in the cost?" are among the many questions asked in cafes, stores, hotel lobbies, on the sidewalks, and in the homes.

The topic is running neck and neck with heated discussions regarding tremendous interest in paving in Midland. Fred T. Hogan, chairman of the Planning Commission, told the City Council recently in recommending the big program that citizens want paving and are willing to pay for it.

Funds earmarked

The council adopted the 400-block program and earmarked $120,000 of available street improvement funds to finance the city's share in the project. It also was decided to ask for $100,000 blocks at a time.

The city manager was instructed to prepare an ordinance adopting the state paving law, and to submit at the next meeting recommendations for the creating of paving districts within the city.

City Manager H. A. Thomason said Saturday plans for launching the extensive program are in full swing, but that it will be 60 to 90 days before the paving is completed.

Water Situation Becomes Critical

Another urgent appeal for water conservation was issued Saturday by City Manager H. A. Thomason as Midland's critical water situation became even more acute with the continued hot and dry weather. He had appealed to citizens Wednesday to conserve water in every way possible during the current emergency.

The city manager said the water reserve Friday night was the lowest it has been this summer, and the storage tanks were far from full Saturday morning. Despite his first appeal for conservation, Thomason said water from lawns was running in gutters in various sections of the city Saturday.

He urged residents not to water their lawns and gardens during the day or after midnight. He recommended lawn watering be done between 6 p. m. and 11 p. m. More water for lawns and gardens is available after 8 p. m. when air conditions in the downtown store and office buildings are cut off for the night. The city's huge storage tanks will fill between 11 p. m. and daybreak if the conservation program is followed, he said.

Production Increased

Thomason said plenty of water is available to meet the city's needs if citizens will conserve it in every way possible. The city is producing more than 4,750,000 gallons of water daily from wells at Cloydedale and Rosedale, an increase of several hundred thousand gallons over last summer. Yet citizens not only are using all that can be pumped into the city, but are pulling down the reserve in the tanks. He said water rationing will be necessary if the conservation program is not successful.

Texas Democrats Can't Even Agree On Rail Schedule

AUSTIN—(P)—Texas Democrats can't seem to get together—even on which train they will ride to the national convention at Philadelphia. Maybe they'd better hitch hike.

The Republicans are in about the same shape, with their national convention less than 10 days away.

All In Confusion

These major facts emerged from the confusion in both delegations on whether there is or isn't an "official" train to carry the politicians to their respective conventions:

1. Democratic National Committeeman Myron G. Blalock of Marshall said there is no "official" Democratic special to Philadelphia because only the delegation itself could designate such train, and it has not.
2. State Executive Committee Chairman Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro said a Missouri-Kansas-Texas train leaving Dallas and Fort Worth July 8 is the official convention special by designation of the committee at its January meeting.
3. Blalock and some other members of the Democratic delegation will ride the Missouri Pacific to Philadelphia. Gov. Beauford H. Jester and some of his close friends will travel together in a "special car" attached to the Katy Democratic choo-choo.
4. There is no "official" Republican train. One group of delegates will travel by Katy, another by Missouri Pacific, but R. B. Creager, Hillsboro, Republican national committeeman, said personally he would fly.

Calvert and Blalock agreed on this: any delegate or alternate can take any route he chooses to the Democratic convention.

"They can go on horseback if they want to," Calvert cracked.

Blalock said this would be a fine opportunity for the good-time boys and girls to stay at home. He was referring to folks who have no official business.

"They will find there's a lot of work and not much fun up there," he warned. "The accommodation situation in Philadelphia, from the pleasure standpoint, is tough."

Blalock, who has been ill, has announced he would retire at the end of his term. The Brownwood convention named Wright Morrow of Houston to succeed him. Morrow will ride on the Jester train to Philadelphia, a Katy official said.

Blalock is national committeeman until the National Convention names his successor.

Senate Group Restores Most Of ECA Funds

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Senate Appropriations Committee voted $4,000,000,000 for the European Recovery Program late Saturday—restoring most of the slashes made by the House.

The committee voted unanimously to put the vast aid program on a 12-month basis instead of the 15 months approved by the House.

The effect of the action is to give the Economic Cooperation Administration a total of $5,055,000,000 instead of the $3,300,000,000 asked by the administration.

Senator Bridges (R-ME), said the committee's decision represented an increase of $950,000,000 over the House approved figures for ECA.

While the committee was unanimous on shifting the program from 15 back to a 12-month basis, there was strong disagreement over the total amount to be given ECA.

Reporters outside the committee room could hear angry voices.

Senator Vandenberg (R-MICH) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, led the appeal for restoring the House cuts.

Midland Fair Clears $5,000 On 1948 Rodeo

Although the financial statement for the recent Midland Rodeo is not complete, J. Homer Epley, secretary-treasurer of Midland Fair, Inc., said Saturday the profits will total approximately $5,000. The 1947 rodeo netted about $4,000. Epley said this year's show established a new high in attendance.

Receipts from the rodeo are divided more or less equally between the fair association, Everett Colborn and associates who furnish the stock, and the government, Epley said.

The veteran fair official said plans are underway to remodel and improve facilities at the rodeo plant. The project will cost an estimated $15,000. Epley said all profits are put back into the plant and equipment as no dividends are paid by the association.

Truman's Wish Will Be Granted

By The Associated Press

President Truman called Saturday for a definite appointment by campaign against. And the Republicans got ready to give him one—at their Philadelphia convention opening a week from Monday.

Truman, speaking to a trainload of voters in California, noted that he had been running against the field. He said he's looking forward to the time when he can campaign against "a definite fellow who has a record."

"Then we'll see what's what," he said. "and it's going to be up to you to decide whether you want the country to go forward or whether you want to go back to 1920."

The field in the Republican race is a big one, with 14 names to be on the first ballot. Leaders in pledged delegates and pledged claims are: Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 148; former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, 92; and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, 81. Backers of such men claim more than 300 votes on the first ballot, with 681 needed to nominate.

the gas will be put into that concern's big line to California. Walter S. Hallinan, president of Plymouth Oil Company, which together with Slick-Urachel Oil Company, drilled the discovery well for gas and distillate production from the Ellenburger, to open the Benedum field, said in Pittsburgh, Pa., that it was contemplated that the new line will transport, when it is built and in operation, at least 30 million cubic feet of gas per day from the Benedum area.

Hallinan also revealed that Plymouth and Slick-Urachel are considering the building of a recycling plant in the East-Central Upton County area for the extraction of liquid gas fuels from the petroleum yielded by the wells in that territory.

Such a plant, if constructed, would cost between four and five million dollars.

emphasized. "We are not waging a 'cold war.'" Proved Peaceful Intentions He said the United States proved its peaceful intentions by dismantling the greatest military machine in history; demobilizing the armies which swept across Europe and the Pacific; proposing to share its secrets of atomic power under proper guarantees for its peaceful use; and contributing nearly twenty billion dollars in loans and grants to other nations.

Russia, he said, has rejected participation in the European Recovery Program; maneuvered "for delay and for propaganda effect in every international conference, used its veto 'recessively and unreasonably' in the United Nations; used indirect aggression in Eastern Europe and 'extreme pressure' against others in the Middle East; and intervened in the international affairs of other countries through Communist parties 'directed from Moscow.'"

Man's hope for peace, the President said, "is too sacred to be trifled with for propaganda purposes, or selfish advantage by any individual or nation." "We are interested in peace—not propaganda," the President said, and added that the United States is "determined to keep strong for the sake of peace."

Its course, he said, will remain unchanged. "I do not propose that we shall be turned aside by those who would see us fail."

Fame And Fortune Await Conquest Of Paper Napkin

By STANLEY FRANK
Are you a frustrated pioneer, lacking only a new world to conquer, a frontier to explore? Then, here's an idea which you might use to gain everlasting gratitude of your fellow man as well as a bank account that will make you exceedingly popular as long as it lasts.

All you have to do to command plinths of fame and fortune is solve this problem: How to eat comfortably and heartily while using nothing more than paper napkins to preserve that desirable appearance of not having eaten anything. If you've tried dining out in public, where you're more or less reluctant to have people see you with egg yolk on your physiognomy, you know how impossible it is to control one of those little, starched, paper napkins which some cafes insist on folding off on you. Napkin Slipped You pull the napkin from a metal holder and spread it on your lap. By the time you're reached for the shrimp fork, the napkin has slipped to the floor or, being aerodynamically perfect for heavier-than-air flight, has floated off toward the front door.

You grab another napkin and hold it with one hand while consuming your cocktail. After while, however, you absent-mindedly reach for a cracker with one hand and the butter knife with the other. You inadvertently get a little butter on the tip of a finger and reach down to wipe it on your napkin. Your napkin already has flown. Chances are you fail to realize this in time to keep from getting butter on your best slacks or shirt, as the case may be. By this time, regardless of how even-tempered you are, you're in no shape to enjoy food. You go ahead and eat, of course, but your stomach is having one nervous rigor after another. Poor Cleanse!

You grab another napkin and clinch it with an iron grip. Now and then you dab at your face. The stiff paper does little good as a cleanser, but it's the best you can do unless you want to use your handkerchief or shirt tail. You would tuck a corner of the napkin under your belt, but this leaves little, if any, outside surface to be used in keeping the manual digits dainty. Any way, you were cured of doing this a long time ago when you forgot to remove such a napkin and walked out on the street with it waving gaily from your waistline. The memory of the amused expression on people's faces keeps you from trying this any more.

You keep pulling more napkins from the holder. Presently you have a knee-deep pile of them around you. This is a definite fire hazard and keeps you from enjoying your post-meal cigarette with your coffee. Besides, you're self-consciously certain everybody in the joint is watching you in hilarious glee. Grimly-Furled Lips Finally, you jerk several napkins from the holder at once, wipe your hands on the wad of paper, smear it across your grimly-furled lips, and quit the ignoble quest as quickly as possible. Your meal has been ruined, there are grease spots on your trousers, and you're not too sure there isn't yet some evidence of food on your frowning countenance.

There's your frontier. It's as challenging as any Kit Carson ever faced. Carson could at least enjoy a meal without worrying about paper napkins floating around. He could brush the back of a muscular hand across his mouth and advance against unknown enemies, strengthened by a full and happy stomach.

Indians Squeeze 9-8 Win

The Midland Indians edged the San Angelo Colts 9-8 Friday night to take the first tilt of a two-game series. It was a narrow squeeze for the Tribe which looked listless at times.

San Angelo banged the deal open in the first frame with two runs on two consecutive errors by the Redskins and two straight hits. The fire was then put out.

Midland, after a scoreless first frame, got one run in the second with Prince walking and Specht singling him in. But in the third the home nine exploded for four tallies with three hits including Prince's triple. San Angelo had tagged two in the first of the third.

The Indians came right back strong in the fourth with four more runs and it was a good thing they did. They got the four with three walks and two hits, including Prince's triple. San Angelo had tagged two in the first of the third.

Weldon Stewart pitched his ninth win of the season against three losses. San Angelo got 13 hits to Midland's nine but failed to concentrate them enough to win. Fery pitched.

Clyde Perry turned in a good fielding performance for Midland in the latter stages of the game, roaming way back for some fine catches. All the Indians hit at least once safely except Stewart. Nipp got two knocks. Prince added a triple to his many licks of the season.

School's out and so are the checkbooks of the baseball owners. Young phenomena are being signed and for a pretty penny.

Willard Nixon, a 19-year-old of Lindale, Ga., who set a Southeastern Conference record with 20 strikeouts in a game, is headed for Boston and the Red Sox.

Hugh Frank Radcliffe, a 19-year-old Thomaston, Ga., high schooler, signed on the dotted line for the Phillies for a reported $40,000. Radcliffe, you earned, struck out 28 men in a nine-inning game a few weeks ago.

The boys are getting the berries to sign these days. Curt Simmons, great young prospect, drew down $60,000 for his John Henry on a Philadelphia contract.

Wonder what they will be offering Pistol Pete Pate of St. George, S. C., who has a record of 184 strikeouts in 81 innings. Pete will be 18 in August and he has two more years of high school left. In 10 games pitched this season he gave up only 23 hits and one earned run. He fanned 25 in one game. He's a lefty.

The gold rush is on right now because high school boys cannot be signed until their classes are graduated.

Clubs attempting to jump the gun were whacked with $500 fines, and lost the right to dicker further with the youngsters in question.

A player obtaining a bonus of $6000 or more must come to the parent guardian after one season in the minors, or be subject to draft. Once with the parent club, he cannot be sent out without waivers.

If John A. Richardson, Midland nurseryman, could grow hair like he can grass, he sure would be our boy. We would really be after him. He would make a million bucks from us and 999,999 more.

Rich is the fellow responsible for that grass infield which is developing so rapidly out at Indian Park.

Webb was despaired when at the start of the season there was just a sparse clump or two of Bermuda showing up on the infield. Rich answered the call, developed some sort of formula, and shot the chemicals to the soil.

Wow! How that grass did grow. Why it's ready for mowing.

You fans have seen the almost fantastic growth. It has occurred practically right under your eyes.

Come on, Rich, go to work on that hair formula, will you, huh?

Fans, friends and neighbors, "Jim Prince Night" belongs to everybody. Merely taking the lead is the Kiwanis Club.

Members of all civic and service clubs are asked to join with the Kiwanians at noon June 21 for a luncheon to honor Prince, Baseball Day in Midland, and present Jim the Midland Indians baseball team and their management.

Then that evening comes "Jim Prince Night." A ceremony will be held at the park when George Trautman, president of all minor leagues of baseball, will present Jim his honors for being the leading batter of baseball in 1947. Everybody come.

Midland merchants, fans and friends of baseball are joining in contributing gifts for Prince. These will be given the slugging first baseman as a token of his esteem among his home folks.

Jim Prince brought national attention to Midland with his great record of last season. He is a leading performer this campaign.

It is our opportunity and privilege to show Jim Prince that he is an honored citizen, our well-liked sportsman on the field of play. Jim is a prince of a fellow, his name fits well. Let's shower him good.

Merle Coleman, business manager and pitcher for Texarkana this season, has been named player-manager of the Odessa club of the Longhorn League, it was announced by Dick Burnett, owner of the Texarkana and Dallas baseball clubs.

Odessa has a working agreement with the Dallas club.

Shortstop Shirley Breedlove and Pitcher Frank Kacher also were optioned from Texarkana to Odessa.

Legion Team Merits Help From Public

Placards are being placed in Midland business firms, which are backing the American Legion Junior Baseball team of this city. The team is known as the Junior Indians.

Tickets for home games will go on sale soon. The team is working out daily and will represent Midland in district competition. Help is needed and urged. It is merited.

The Midland team is sponsored by the Woods W. Lynch Post of American Legion. Cooperating is the Murray-Young Motors, Ltd.

All citizens are urged to back the youngsters and attend their games. Fans are urged to encourage the Junior baseballers.

A scrimmage game will be played at 8:30 p. m. Monday among the Midland boys. The public is invited. Game site is the new high school stadium location in West Midland.

Midland boys still are asked to come out for the team. Enough boys are needed for a team to scrimmage the regular Legion. Joe Robertson, coach, invites all boys of the city to come out.

Citation Wins Triple Crown

NEW YORK —(AP)—Calumet Farm's Citation streaked to an easy victory in the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes Saturday and became the eighth horse in history to achieve the Triple Crown.

The King Ranch's Better Bell was second, six lengths behind, with W. L. Brann's Escudru third. The Calumet champion equaled Count Fleet's record for the stakes by touring the mile and a half in 1:23 1/5.

Heavily back by the crowd of 42,046, Citation paid $240, $230 and $210. Better Bell paid $2.70 and $2.10. Escudru paid $2.10 for show.

Citation broke on top despite a slight stumble at the gate and led all the way, except for a brief moment when Faraway got a head margin at the half mile call.

The Warren Wright speedster was piloted by Eddie Arcaro, who became the first jockey to ride horses to two Triple Crowns. Arcaro guided Calumet's Whirlaway to Kentucky Derby, Freshwater and Belmont victories in 1941.

Texas Electric Show Of '48 Opens Tuesday Night At High School Here

The Texas Electric Show of '48, the largest show of its kind ever presented in this section opens at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Midland High School. The show is too large to be presented in any single building so the gymnasium, auditorium and part of the school grounds will be used to stage the exhibits and varied entertainment features which are a part of the show, according to E. L. Miller, Texas Electric Service Company district manager, who is directing the presentation of the show here.

The attraction will be in Midland three days, and is being arranged in co-operation with Midland dealers in electrical equipment for the home, electrical distributors and manufacturers. More than 50 makes of well-known electrical appliances will be on display in the gymnasium, many of them being demonstrated for the public. The show is free, and will be open from 6 to 11 p. m. Tuesday through Thursday.

Colored searchlights and power searchlights again will sweep the skies above Midland, but this year they will have a new look, as color filters have been added to make red, blue, yellow and green beams of light. Special flood lights are being installed to illuminate the school grounds and surrounding area. Unusual lighting effects also have been arranged for the gymnasium.

Continuous entertainment for visitors will be presented at the electric show. The feature entertainment will be "Theater of Atoms," a clear-cut and readily understandable explanation of atomic energy, which will be presented twice each night in the high school auditorium. Raymond E. Schiff, brilliant young research scientist of Westinghouse Laboratories, will use 11 different pieces of apparatus to demonstrate nuclear energy, atom smashing and many other interesting features pertaining to the Atomic Age. These shows will be at 7:30 and 9:30 each night.

Reddy Kilowatt performs. Reddy Kilowatt, starring in a special puppet show, will be presented four times each night on a special stage in the gymnasium at 7, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock. Reddy talks and sings, along with other members of the puppeteers' troupe, including Labyrinth, Jackson and the dancing skeletons. The puppet show is directed by Walton and O'Rourke, internationally famous for their large-sized and life-like puppets. Following each performance, the puppeteers bring two smaller Reddy Kilowatt puppets to the gymnasium floor to talk to the children.

The Farm and Ranch Electrical Exhibit will be located in a tent on the school grounds, housing the latest electrical equipment for the modern farm and ranch. Water pumps, milk coolers, electric milkers, barn cleaner, soil heating cable and many other electrical conveniences will be on display. Live baby pigs, fed each hour from bottles, will be used to demonstrate the electric pig brooder, and live chickens will live in the electric chick brooder.

Booths Being Installed. Much of the equipment for the show here arrived Friday and Saturday from Big Spring where the show closed Thursday night, and workmen were busy Saturday night getting set for the show's opening.

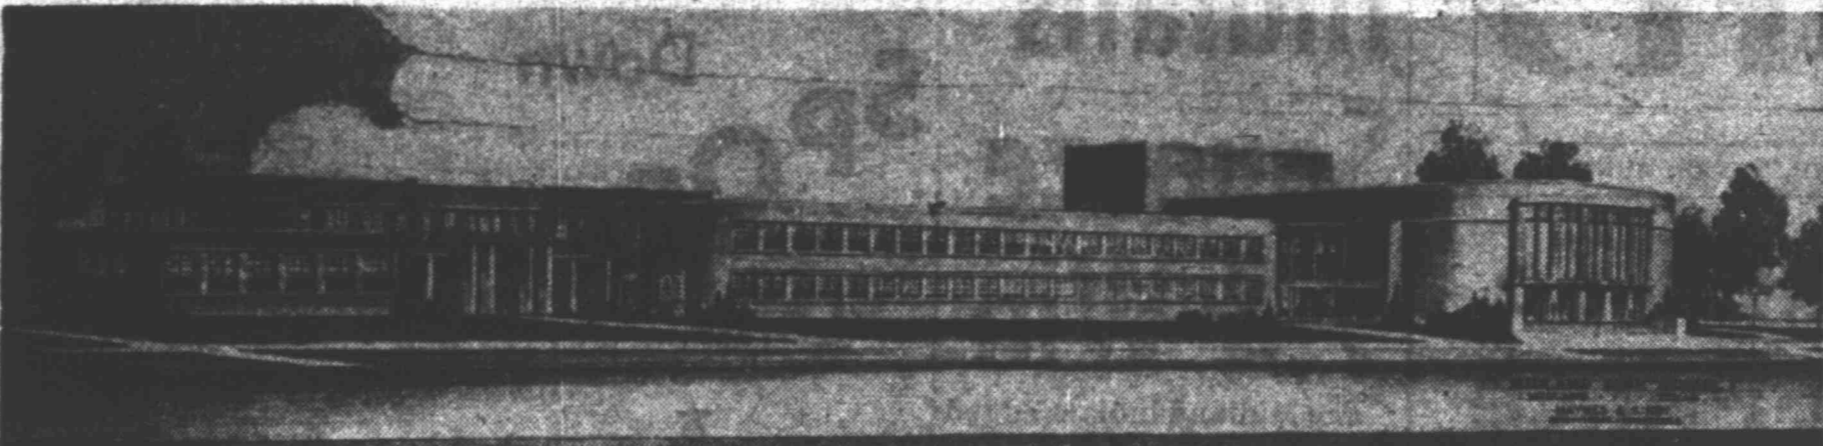

The Texas Electric Show was organized three years ago by the Texas Electric Service Company to enable users of electric service to see in one great exhibit all of the newest appliances and electrical equipment for the home.

34,000th Recruit Is Toasted By Dallas Recruiters

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Servicemen and vets will get a kick out of what happened to Jack Vinson of Coolidge, Texas.

Jack, a lean, brown-eyed, 23-year-old ex-paratrooper, became fed up with civilian life the other day and decided to get back into the Army.

Memories of his first enlistment, during the wartime, crowded his mind as he entered the North Texas Recruiting Office at Dallas. That first enlistment was a whirl of tough sergeants, long lines of half-frightened men, and no nonsense.

But now when he walked into the recruiting office door he was treated as a celebrity.

Capt. Howard W. Bowden, acting commander of the station, sprang to greet him as did Staff Sgt. Rufus B. Shelton.

Here's why: Vinson happened to be the 34,000th recruit in the last two years. The station had never celebrated any other recruit—the 25,000th or the 30,000th for instance. It had been waiting for the 34,000th man—and Vinson was it.

"We all were pretty excited, waiting to see what sort of fellow the 34,000th man would be," Bowden told us.

While Bowden and Shelton congratulated him, Vinson stared in shocked surprise. The Army had never been like this.

"I didn't know what to make of it," he said.

There was some apprehension as he took his medical examination. Would he make it? No long examination line this time—the former combat paratrooper received individual attention.

Captain Bowden and Sergeant Shelton again congratulated him when the doctors pronounced him physically sound.

More Handshaking. There was more handshaking at the swearing-in ceremony, too. No long line for this ceremony, either—just the 34,000th man looking somewhat abashed by all the fuss.

Old Glory was brought out and Master Sgt. Chester Powell took pictures as Vinson raised his right hand for the oath.

Former member of the 82nd Airborne Division, Vinson first joined the Army in June 1942. He fought in Italy, jumped into France in the southern invasion and fought into Germany. He had his narrow escape northeast of Aachen, Germany. His company was ordered to infiltrate the enemy lines. They crossed a mine field, found themselves surrounded and trapped.

The Germans poured mortar and machine-gun fire into their ranks. Of the company's 60 men, only 20 managed to fight their way out and recross the mine field to safety. Vinson was one of the 20.

But he figures the Army offers a good life.

"I've been working as a shipping clerk," he said. "I was bored—I've been wanting to travel."

Under the peacetime system, Vinson was allowed to choose his own branch of the service and theater of operations. He picked the 11th Airborne Division in Japan.

"I know I'll like it," he said with a grin, "but I don't expect to get the fine treatment I received on this second enlistment."

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Only Twenty-Three Texans Actually Will Cast Votes For U. S. President

By TEX KASLEY
WASHINGTON—(AP)—A million or so Texans will go to the polls this year, but only 23 actually will cast a vote for the President of the United States.

They, however, will be mere firebrands who send in their ballots to Washington after the issue has been settled in the November general election.

The electoral college method of choosing the president and vice president is the explanation.

A far cry from the institution envisioned by the founding fathers of the republic, the electoral college now functions as an archaic method of formally tabulating the will of the people. The electors' votes still are sent into Congress and counted, but it's a perfunctory operation.

Oddly, it is a device which can and has prevented the will of the majority from being reflected in the seating of a president.

One interesting case in which the loser had a larger popular vote than the man who became president occurred in 1876. The winner was President Rutherford B. Hayes.

The loser was Samuel J. Tilden of New York.

Two Sets of Electors

In that case three states submitted to Congress two sets of electors each. They were Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida. A special commission comprised of five senators, five representatives and five members of the U. S. Supreme Court was set up to decide which should be recognized. A predominantly Democratic House group voted three to two for electoral slates pledged to Democrat Tilden; the situation in the Senate was reversed. The Supreme Court members, most of whom had been appointed originally by Republican presidents, voted three to two for the Hayes-elect.

There are now the same number of votes cast in the electoral college as there are U. S. Senators and Representatives, a total of 531.

Each state has an electoral strength equivalent to its congressional delegation—two senators for each state and approximately one representative for each 300,000 population. Thus, Texas has 23 electoral votes. New York has 47.

Under the present system, the entire electoral vote of a state goes to the party, receiving the largest popular vote. All of New York's 47 votes would be cast for a Republican president if 51 per cent of the people voted for the Republican electors and 48 voted for the Democratic electors.

That brings up the pending proposal by Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls that the Constitution be amended, so that the electors are chosen on the basis of, or in direct proportion, to the popular vote.

The advantage of this, he argues, is that it would remove the "undue influence" minority groups have where their vote, he says, can swing an entire electoral slate to one party or the other.

Meet Qualified Man

The original theory behind the electoral college system was that the electors should get together and decide among themselves who was the most qualified man for the job.

The electors themselves were chosen by the state legislatures, who in turn were elected by a relatively small percentage of the population, land holders.

Under this set up, an aristocracy, the president and vice president should be picked on the basis of their ability and not political affiliations. George Washington met all qualifications, and had popular appeal too, so the plan got off to a good start.

Thomas Jefferson, however, believed in a Democracy more as we have it today. He espoused the party system.

The Texas political situation four years ago was one of the most interesting of its kind in recent times.

The Democratic party at its May convention decided that the state's 23 electors should not cast their ballots for anyone holding certain civil rights views—specifically it was an anti-fourth term for Roosevelt directive.

Action Nullified

In the Fall convention of the party, after Roosevelt had been nominated at Chicago for a fourth term, the state Democratic party was controlled by pro-Roosevelt forces who nullified the action of the May convention. The dispute between the two factions went to the Texas State Supreme Court for settlement, and that tribunal held that the Fall convention had foremost authority. The anti-Roosevelt forces then entered an entirely separate slate of electors on the November election ballot, under the head of "Regular Democrats." Had they received more votes than any other party's slate of electors, they could have cast Texas' 23 votes for any one of their choosing. Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia so happened to have been the man they mentioned often.

In some states the electors' names appear on the ballot; in others they are mentioned collectively and in an incidental manner as being pledged to a particular party's candidate.

After the November election, the secretaries of state for the various states draw up sealed and beribboned documents certifying how the electors cast their vote and send them to Congress. Before a joint session of the House and Senate these documents are opened and the count recorded.

Reporters Appointed

The electors themselves do not come to Washington; in some states they don't even go to the state capital.

A story is told how a number of years ago the secretary of state in Texas called the electors into session in Austin but found some missing. He promptly appointed reporters in the press room in the capital as proxies. The electors do not receive pay, but only expenses when they journey to their state capital.

Many years ago a messenger was

Texas' Dirt Farming Wealth Dwarfs Income From Farm And Ranch Lands

By ROBERT E. FORD
 DALLAS—(AP)—Non-Texas whose occupation of the state's agriculture shows with a mental picture of grassy plains covered with cattle would do well to take another look.
 Modern farming and diversified crops are rolling in the money to the plain dirt farmer. Virgin land still is going under the plow.
 Ranchmen still doing well, but Department of Agriculture figures put in focus the relation of agriculture and ranching in the state's wealth.

On January 1 this year, the total value of cattle, exclusive of milk cows, on Texas ranches was $606,841,000.
 Last year however, the value of agricultural products, including vegetables, nuts and fruits, was more than double that figure, or $1,446,219,000.
 Contrast that with royalties and lease payments to landowners in 1947. These amounted to only $300,000,000 the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association reports.
 Lucrative Year
 Last year was unusually lucrative for Texas farmers, with cotton and wheat leading the way. Prices of some minor crops were a little lower. But there are years when a Texas farmer can't make a dime.
 Like this year. Dry weather and a late freeze forced farmers to plow up their oats in some instances because they were so poor. Grasshoppers are infesting some cotton sections. Other years, grain and cotton crops aren't worth harvesting. Price drops can turn a well-to-do farmer into a debtor over night. Cotton sometimes rots in the field for lack of pickers. The wheat crop this year is expected to be only about one-third last year's record-breaker because of drought.

Still, a lot of money will be made in Texas agriculture this year, although the picture is spotty.
 Contributing to Texas' fabulous farm wealth are:
 1. Great north-south distance—801 miles—and the consequent varieties of climates, which means that every month of the year a commercial crop is being harvested in Texas.
 2. The 500 varieties of soil which

Candidates Speed Up Speaking Schedules

By The Associated Press
 Two senatorial candidates are speeding up their speaking schedules in the scramble for Democratic Primary votes this week.
 Both Lyndon Johnson and George Peedy head for East Texas, Johnson traveling by helicopter to reach out-of-the-way spots, Peedy by car. Peedy continues his heavy radio speaking schedule.
 Coke Stevenson will make one major radio broadcast, but has announced no formal speaking itinerary for the week. He will be at his ranch Monday and Tuesday, and makes a radio speech from Austin Thursday.
 Tuesday night Roger Q. Evans will open his gubernatorial campaign at a rally in West, McLennan County.

Californian Here When City Only RR Bunkhouse

Eugene Boydston, now living in Roseda, Calif., claims to see quite a difference between the modern Midland and the city as it was when he first saw it.

Now 79, Boydston passed through here Saturday enroute to Kansas City.

He first came to Midland from Indiana with his father, he said. He was a lad of 12, and he said his father came by train, on passage, to Big Spring and Midland. He believes it was in 1889 or 1890. His father earned good money by selling railroad tickets, for a commission, to land-hungry people in the East and North, and it was with a train full of land seekers the man and boy came here.

No Horses

The train stopped overnight in Big Spring for the reason there were no horses in Midland, Boydston said. They were using in Big Spring in those days, he related, and some inebriate cowboys who were quite handy with six-shooters. Next day the train came on to a spot on the prairie which was destined to become the oil and cattle capital of the Permian Basin. The only building visible was "Section House No. 29," Boydston said, but there was a man on a platform selling lots, sections and townships when the train pulled to a stop.

Young Boydston and his father stayed here three days, he said, and the only recreation they could find was rabbit-hunting in areas now counted the business and residential sections of Midland.

New Winkler County Hospital Has Formal Opening Saturday

KERMIT—The new and completely modern Winkler County Memorial Hospital will open at 7 a. m. Monday following dedication ceremonies and an open house Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Hundreds of visitors streamed through the hospital between 1 and 9 p. m. Saturday, and an even larger crowd of visitors from over West Texas and New Mexico is expected Sunday between 1:30 and 5:30 p. m. George Berryman is the administrator of the new institution.

The Sunday afternoon program will be broadcast over KCRS of Midland from 3 to 4 p. m. City, county and hospital officials will appear on the radio program. The public is invited to attend the program and to inspect the hospital.

Construction of the modern, brick, one-story $325,000 hospital was started June 1, 1947, with the J. W. Bateson Construction Company of Dallas as the general contractor. Wyatt C. Hedrick of Fort Worth was the architect.

Cars Should Be Thoroughly Checked Before Leaving On Vacation Trips

You'd think as much money as is spent in an effort to impress the public with the importance of taking good care of an automobile, that nobody would leave on a vacation trip without being sure his car was in top running condition.

Oil companies spend millions of dollars every year, and hire expert advertising men at fabulous salaries to convince motorists everywhere that it's economical and of enormous importance to have enjoyment of a vacation in top-notch motoring.

Vacation trips are hard on an automobile. There's likely to be mountain climbing ahead, or travel through deserts that would make West Texas look like an oasis. There'll be long days of hard driving through heat and dust and traffic.

Stalled Autos

And yet, despite all the admonitions they receive by the contrary, too many vacation trippers blithely leave home without doing more than filling up their cars with gas, oil, water and air. And garages along the highways become cluttered up with stalled cars; blown-out tires litter the roadside; unhappy people in sun suits and dark glasses stand morosely around waiting for repairs when they might as well have been continuing toward their favorite resort or fishing stream.

Midland service stations and garages, therefore, are bringing an extra message to citizens who plan to take to the open road this summer.

They advise motorists to be certain their tires are in excellent condition, able to take the beating hot pavements and high, sustained speeds will give them.

They suggest vacation-planners put fresh, clean oil in crankcase, transmission and differential, and that all the rest of the car be given an extra good lubrication job just before the trip begins.

Other Suggestions

The radiator should be clean, though it takes a flushing job to make it that way. A good battery is a necessity, and the generator and

GM-UAW Plan May Be Pattern

The new General Motors-UAW wage contract might be the blueprint for a brake that industry and labor can apply to the pressure of inflation. At least it gears the demand for cost-of-living increases to the cost-of-living index. And that makes sense.

No one can seriously deny the justice of advancing wages to meet higher living costs. But the approach to these adjustments has been on a hit-or-miss basis up to now. It followed the traditional pattern of one side's asking for the moon while the other set a rock-bottom figure. Eventually they compromised. But the compromise was often preceded by a strike which cost the workers far more than they won, and sometimes erupted into violence.

Now the union and General Motors have avoided a costly work stoppage and have come up with a solution which may set the pattern for the rest of the auto makers. If that happens, perhaps we shall eventually see the same formula applied to steel and, who knows, even coal.

The UAW statement announcing the agreement called the contract "a staggering blow" to the policies of the Chrysler and Ford Companies. Perhaps it is. But it also represents, we think, an achievement of industrial statesmanship in which intelligence on both sides replaced table-pounding.

Management in this case has made the greater concession. There is no ceiling on the increases the company agrees to pay. As long as the cost-of-living index goes up, GM wages will rise at the ratio agreed upon. The union, on the other hand, will take no more than a five-cent cut when prices drop, no matter how low the cost index dips.

The company might not have had to make these concessions. Two UAW unions at GM, one of them the big Buick local, had voted against a strike. This surely was not because the members did not want more pay or that they were willing to give up the struggle for more before it started. Rather it probably meant that the workers knew the financial beating that they would take in another drawn-out strike. This was their notice to their union leaders to find a better and less costly road to agreement.

The new agreement should be a big incentive for the company to try to keep prices down. At the same time it gives notice that the union does not consider wage increases to be like the changing seasons, which come automatically without regard for the state of the world in which they occur.

If this type of agreement could become standard in our basic industries it might act as an effective price control. Steel, particularly, has a profound influence on the country's living costs. If the steel companies knew that every time they raised prices it would cost them money, they would probably make very earnest efforts to avoid an increase.

There would still be inflationary pressures if this basis of wage agreement was adopted generally, but they should certainly be less dangerous. We hope that the GM-UAW contract works out as well as it promises to, and that it will be copied widely and successfully.

Engineers have made $67,000 worth of improvements on the acoustics of Philadelphia's Convention Hall. Let us imagine, however, that this will eliminate either echoes or dead spots from the forthcoming political oratory in that auditorium.

Pettiest Kind Of Politics Bars Alaska And Hawaii Statehood

By PETER EDSON
 NEA Washington Correspondent
 WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Not the least of the black marks to be charged against the record of the 80th Congress are failures to take final action on admission of Hawaii and Alaska as forty-ninth and fiftieth states. Underlying reasons in both cases appear to be perfectly trivial—the playing of the most petty kind of politics.

Behind Senate rejection of the House-passed Hawaiian statehood bill was a desire on the part of Senator Hugh Butler's Public Lands Subcommittee on Insular Affairs to take another junket to the Pacific paradise. The Hawaiians have already been honored by some 30 congressional investigating committees in this country. It is beyond question a lovely place to hold an investigation, particularly when Uncle Sam pays the expenses and the Hawaiians lay out the hospitality the way they do.

But what is really in the minds of all these congressional probes is the fear that some day the Hawaiians might elect a congressman or senator named Moto or Takahashi. In view of the record of the Neils, or native-born American citizens of Japanese ancestry in the last war, that argument should no longer be valid.

Alaska Plea Came Late
 The Alaskan statehood case is considerably different. President Truman last month sent Congress a special message asking that Alaska be admitted to statehood. The message was too late. It got lost in the end-of-session scramble and didn't have a chance.

Dr. Ernest Gruening, territorial governor of Alaska since 1939, and E. L. Bartlett, Alaskan delegate to Congress in the last four years, have been urging statehood continuously since the end of the war. In the last few months they have put on a drive. Governor Gruening came to Washington and tried to get action at this session of Congress. Always, however, there was something more important for the White House to take up with Congress. When the President did act, nobody in Congress wanted to get behind the measure and push.

For Hawaii, there had been plenty of push. Hawaiian delegate Joseph R. Farrington introduced a bill to admit the islands to statehood immediately after the Republican Congress convened in 1946. The House went to bat and passed the bill a year ago.

A Senate public lands subcommittee was supposed to go to the island last December for an on-the-spot investigation. The special session of Congress made that impossible, so Senator Guy Cordon of Oregon went alone. He brought back a favorable report, but the Senate stalled. Senator William F.

Odessan Slashes Throat After Assault Conviction

ODESSA—(AP)—S. A. Hostetter, 63, cut his throat in the district court room here Friday afternoon immediately after a jury had convicted him of assault with intent to murder. He died immediately after reaching a hospital.

Hostetter whipped a knife from his pocket and slashed his throat as Judge Alton Chapman of Floydada was preparing to sentence him to 10 years in the penitentiary. The jury convicted Hostetter in connection with the shooting last July 13 of Francis Bell, who later married Hostetter's divorced wife. It recommended the 10-year sentence.

Desires Charge
 As Judge Chapman ordered Hostetter to stand and receive sentence, the defendant jumped to his feet and shouted:
 "I don't want to go. I never violated any laws. None of my family ever went to the penitentiary."
 Hostetter then whipped a knife from his pocket and slashed his throat. He was rushed to a hospital but died immediately after reaching there.

Hostetter's trial opened Thursday. He testified that Bell frequently visited his home, and that he had provided his wife with a pistol for her protection. Mrs. Hostetter denied that there was anything between her and Bell, he said.

Hostetter said he saw his wife with Bell in a cafe booth the night of last July 12. He went home and got his revolver and met the couple near a rooming house after they left the cafe. Seven shots were fired. Bell was struck five times, but recovered.

After the shooting, Mrs. Hostetter divorced her husband and married Bell.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—This country's 14-year-old Reciprocal Trade Program passed out of existence Saturday night but its chances are good for a limited revival next week.

The Senate decided to vote Monday on a one-year extension of the Trade Agreements Act, which expired at midnight. Senate leaders had hoped to reach a vote Saturday but abandoned the idea because too many members wanted to speak on the issue.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The market was steady to a shade weaker on stockers, but strong on butcher cattle at the Midland Livestock Auction Thursday. Receipts number 1,000 head.

Fat calves and yearlings scored $26 to $29.50. Medium offerings brought $23 to $26. No choice fat cows showed up, but some medium kinds went at $18.50 to $22. Canners and cutters brought $18.50 to $18. Fat bulls brought $22 to $23.50, with medium ones at $19 to $22. Stocker steer calves and yearlings brought $25 to $27, heifers $21.50 to $24.

Some Midlanders who have been around sheep practically all their lives say they never before saw anything comparable to what happened in Upton County before rains brought up a little sheep feed.

Whole thickets of young mesquite trees in one part of the county will die because starving sheep ate the bark from the trees. Bark is peeled from the ground to a point on each tree as high as a sheep can reach, according to reports of witnesses.

Most of Upton County now is showing considerable sheep feed, and sheep are showing a resultant improvement in condition, observers report; however, more rain will be needed to assure mature growth of range plants.

Bert Lowe last week shipped about 100 head of steer yearlings, which he had bought in the auction sale here, to his ranch near Durango, Colo.

A. V. Blasingame of Ackerley reports that area is in excellent shape after recent good rains, and crops are off to a good start.

Jim Thornton, who ranches near Las Vegas, N. M., says that territory has been in good shape all Spring, but recently an eight-inch rain added to feed and water supplies.

W. E. Perry of Stanton has several hundred head of cattle, including yearling and two-year-old steers as well as mother cows, near Canon City, Colo., and says the cattle have gained weight right along since he moved them up there.

Henry Neal, Rankin ranchman, was a visitor here last week.

Several Midlanders who lived here "away back when" should remember a horse named Feterita.

Feterita, we are told, was owned by an early-day farmer here. He was a work horse. His owner was a talkative individual who was prone to believe anything he owned was pretty good. A group of Midland women, thinking to have a little fun out of the farmer, began flattering him about the sorrel work horse.

With many a sly wink and concealed grin, they persuaded Feterita's owner that the horse looked as good as anything to be seen around Lexington, Ky., and that the animal should be able to outrun anything that walked, crawled, wiggled or flew.

They told the farmer they could get rich on Feterita by matching him in races. But, they advised, Feterita should be correctly shod before being taken on the track.

The women, being experts on matters pertaining to the track, naturally supervised the shoeing job. They had a blacksmith give Feterita the heaviest, most cumbersome pair of shoes he could make.

Dad Hasn't Always Been 'Head Man'

Dad's had his ups and downs in history. He hasn't always been the popular guy who will be honored next Sunday with gifts and affectionate Father's Day, greeting cards.

Back in the Stone Age, the family's "head man" was a tyrant. As he grew older, one of his sons usually disposed of him in a fierce hand-to-hand battle and then "took over" the family.

The first known tribute to fathers is by Pindus, a Babylonian. It was written on clay tablets about 12,000 years before Christ, and implored the gods to grant his father good health and "enduring days."

In Biblical times, it was considered a crime punishable by death for a son to disagree with his father. Early Romans called down the curses of the ancestral "Numina" or family gods on children who cut themselves loose from parental authority.

Throughout pre-Christian Northern Europe, it was a disgrace for any son still in his teens to appear publicly in his father's presence. Greeks Really Trusted Dad

Among the ancient Greeks, when a son was old enough to marry, his father selected his wife for him—with no questions asked. The same belief in Dad's matrimonial wisdom was held in India, where children were betrothed in childhood, and sometimes a young man was not permitted to unveil his bride until after the wedding ceremony.

But Indian women had their revenge. An odd law decreed that if a father got into debt, his wife could sell him into slavery to pay off the creditors. This was just the opposite of some African countries, where the husband could put the wife upon the auction block.

And in African Sudan today, Dad definitely comes out second best. After bearing five children, a wife there may return to her parents, leaving Papa to look after the kiddies.

Trials of Family Man Ecuador, too, recognizes Dad's trials as a family man. There it is customary for an expectant mother to be put out of the house while her husband is coddled and humored until he recovers from the shock of becoming a father.

In the United States, statistics show that women own an ever-increasing portion of the national wealth. Dad, in danger of becoming the "forgotten man," many sociologists believe. But while Dad may be short of his tyrannical powers, the annual outpouring of affectionate sentiments on Father's Day greeting cards shows Dad's place in his family's heart is stronger than ever.

FLAMES DESTROY ARMY WAREHOUSE OKLAHOMA CITY—(P)—Flames which towered 150 feet in the air destroyed one warehouse as part of another at Tinker Field here Saturday night.

Loss to the building was not yet calculated, but $50,000 worth of "paperwork" forms and regulations went up in the blaze. Lt. Col. O. W. Joyland, deputy commander of the Air Force Materiel Center, said.

Unidentified Couple In Wreck Saturday On Garden City Highway

An almost-new Chrysler sedan was wrecked Saturday morning on the Garden City highway about 25 miles southeast of Midland, officers here said.

An Ellis Funeral Home ambulance rushed to the scene, but a passing motorist brought the car's occupants, a man and a woman to Midland for treatment. The pair reportedly received treatment from a doctor here. They did not go to the hospital, officers said.

The car was brought to Midland and left at a repair shop. When found on the highway it was upright, but indications were it had overturned.

Army Hopes To Save Big Aluminum Plant

PORTLAND, ORE.—(P)—Army engineers began an ingenious attempt Saturday to drop a plug into a narrow flood channel and save a $48,000,000 aluminum plant near here.

The attempt began as the costliest Columbia River flood in history climbed slowly here toward its third crest in three weeks.

Damage continued to mount in the multi-millions. The known death toll was 38, including five from Vanport. The Red Cross said its steadily dwindling list of Vanport missing was down to 22.

Upriver the situation seemed as the crest passed.

Fate Of Draft Bill Hinges On House Rules Committee Vote

WASHINGTON—(P)—The fate of draft legislation in this session of Congress hinges on a House Rules Committee vote expected Monday. One man may swing it.

If that committee decides to give the bill the legislative right of way, Congress still may be able to complete action on it before the scheduled recess next Saturday.

A poll Saturday by reporters showed the 12 Rules Committee members to be split this way on the issue: Six in favor of sending the bill to the floor, five opposed and one not committed, Representative Harney R-Ind. said.

A tie vote would keep the bill in the Rules Committee. Harney repeatedly has opposed both the draft and universal military training.

More Pressure Is Expected From Russia

LONDON—(P)—The International committee for the study of European questions expressed belief Saturday night that Russia's army could sweep to the Atlantic and Mediterranean "in a fairly short space of time."

The committee discussed the possibility of an east-west war and decided it was not inevitable. On the contrary, it said it is probable Russia will bring strong pressure in coming months on the other powers to gain maximum political advantages.

CONNECTICUT DEMOCRATS WILL BE UNINSTRUCTED

Beverly Thorne Weds A. R. Snider In First Methodist Church Rites

Nuptial vows were read for Miss Beverly Ann Thorne and A. R. "Boo" Snider Thursday evening in the First Methodist Church by the Rev. H. H. Hollowell. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Thorne, Jal, N. M. Snider is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Snider, 319 South Fort Worth Street.

Two baskets of white gladioli and daisies superimposed against palms and ferns accented the altar. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white two-piece crepe suit fashioned with a peplum and lace insets on the sleeves. She wore a halo hat and gold kid accessories. The bridal bouquet was of white gardenias arranged on a white Bible.

Traditional wedding music was played on the organ throughout the ceremony. F. B. "Top" Hale was the best man for the bridegroom.

Reception Held
A reception was given in the Scharbauer Educational Building immediately after the ritual.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered cake. Flowers and candelabra flanked the cake.

Mrs. G. W. Burt presided at the punch bowl while the bride's mother cut the cake. June Higdon was in charge of the guest register.

About 25 Midlanders attended the marriage and reception. Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Plattley, Kermit, and Mrs. S. R. Snider, Jal, N. M., also were present.

Cool And Convenient, Say Braids Wearers

Bangs are definitely passé this season, say fashion authorities. But braids are just as definitely in. Whether worn coronet style, twisted in buns over the ears, fastened at the nape of the neck, or simply allowed to dangle in the time-honored pig-tail fashion, they will be a chic Summer hair dressing style.

Braid wearers have another advantage—they can participate in tennis, swimming, and other sports without having their pleasure marred by the knowledge that their hair is becoming stringy or disheveled. Braids are especially recommended for Summer motoring trips, both because of their convenience and because they enable their wearer to arrive at her destination without looking, as one staunch braid devotee put it, like a wind-blown rose.

The variations of braid decorations are endless. To make the braids appear thicker, try braiding one of the full, soft scarves so popular with Winter suits and skirts through them. Or give your ensemble color by fastening the ends of your braids with perky plaid bows.

Teen-agers have found that a string of artificial daisies twisted into the braids gives an appealingly demure look, as do single real flowers pinned among the braids. A large rose, either artificial or real, gives an agreeable effect when pinned to the end of each braid.

Coronet Style

The choice of braid style which is most becoming varies with the wearer, but girls with round faces will probably get the best result with a high coronet style, and those with long faces may find that flat buns worn over the ears are most attractive.

If worn coronet style, the braid should always be pinned so that it stands on end rather than being laid flat across the head. And almost any of the styles will be more attractive if a soft wave or pompadour is arranged to frame the forehead.

Whatever trimming or style is chosen, the result is likely to be most gratifying, so perhaps you'd better forego the annual Summer feather-cut and give braids a try.

Not Only Bars Have Brass Rails

HOBOKEN, N. J.—(AP)—A brass rail doesn't make a bar, Steve Soles learned, and the lesson cost him $10.

A startled police sergeant watched the 29-year-old Soles amble into headquarters, plant his foot firmly on the brass rail and order a glass of wine.

The mistake resulted in his arrest on a charge of intoxication. Police Judge Charles DePasio decreed the $10 fine.

Reports Hit-Run, Police Nab Driver

O. E. Sears reported to police Friday that his car was struck by a hit-run car at the intersection of Loraine and Missouri Streets.

Police later arrested a motorist and he was charged with reckless driving.

Sears' car was damaged and the driver is arranged to frame the forehead.

Whatever trimming or style is chosen, the result is likely to be most gratifying, so perhaps you'd better forego the annual Summer feather-cut and give braids a try.

Complete Cast Of Community Theater Play, 'On Borrowed Time,' Listed

The full cast for the Community Theater's seventeenth production, "On Borrowed Time," was announced Saturday by Joe Koegler, chairman of the theater's casting committee.

An unusual treatment of the comedy that centers around a six-year-old boy, Pud, and his 80-year-old grandfather, "On Borrowed Time" is regarded as one of the most successful comedies by contemporary playwrights.

Elvin Weatherbee, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Weatherbee, Sr., 1907 West Washington Street, has been cast in the role of Pud. A West Elementary third-grader next year and a member of the Children's Theater, Elvin has appeared in several school plays, but this will be his first major theater part.

Creath Has Role

Norris Creath, who has enacted a variety of Community Theater roles during the last three years, will play the part of Grampa. This role is the one that brought stardom to Dudley Digges, veteran character actor of stage and screen, when "On Borrowed Time" was first produced in New York in 1938.

Leon Valdes, who in little more than a year of acting with the Community Theater has appeared in important roles in "Papa Is All," "State of the Union," and "Years Ago," will be seen in the demanding role of Mr. Brink. Morris goes will remember Sir Cedric Hardwicke as Mr. Brink in the motion picture version of "On Borrowed Time."

Louise Showalter as Granny, Myrtle Ratchiff in the role of Demetria Riffle, and Billie Reid as Marcia Giles constitute the feminine side of the cast.

Bill McMorris, who played the judge in "Dear Ruth," will return to play Dr. Evans. Jack Menish, male lead in "Guest in the House," will play Grimes. Don McKibben, whose last appearance with the Community Theater was in the role of Corliss Archer's father in "Kiss and Tell," will enact Sheriff Burlingame.

Outstanding Cast

Lee Warren Hays, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hays, Dr. W. A. Waldschmidt, and George Cone, Jr., who played the young lieutenant in the theater's recent production of "Dear Ruth," complete the cast.

A large number of Midlanders responded to the casting call for this play, and the casting committee, including Loretta Marsh, Bill Single, and Koegler, believe they have assembled one of the best theater casts to date.

The 18th Community Theater production before the Summer shutdown and the third on the season membership tickets, "On Borrowed Time" will be presented in the City-County Auditorium June 24, 25, and 26, according to Director Art Cole.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food in a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this: Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must be normally broken-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment, sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently causes a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should feel better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-doses of soda and other alteratives to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Denman-Norris Wedding Rites Said At El Paso

Miss Nona Kathleen Denman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Lohman, El Paso, became the bride of Sam Norris, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. Norris of Wink, Saturday afternoon, June 5.

Norris is the grandson of Mrs. O. G. McCall, Midland, and the late Dr. C. G. McCall, early day Midland physician.

The ceremony was in the Church of St. Clement, El Paso.

Before large altar arrangements of white gladioli, calla lilies, seven-branched candelabra, with a fern background, the couple repeated the marriage vows.

Pews for the families were marked with bouquets of white carnations and satin bowknots.

Bridal Attendants

The nine bridal attendants were dressed in cameo pink, yellow and azure blue, wearing orchid corsages.

For her wedding the bride wore a white satin gown designed with a hoop skirt, falling in a long scalloped train. Her bouquet was of orchids encircled with stephanotis.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Cortez.

Pink and white gardenias formed a base for the five-tiered wedding cake, which centered a pink organza covered table.

The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. McCall, assisted at the guest register.

After a wedding trip, the newlyweds will be at home in College Station, where the bridegroom will enroll in his senior year at A&M College.

WE the WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

"No hats" was the rule for business sessions at the recent national convention of the League of Women Voters.

The reason given for the ban was that "high and fancy hats prevent proper visibility for action on the floor."

Those business sessions must have made a refreshing sight. A group of clubwomen at work, without their fancy hats!

It's a safe bet that nine out of 10 of those women looked far more dignified and far more intelligent than they would have looked in the hats they might have worn.

For there is something about clubwomen's hats that puts them in a class by themselves. They are, as a rule, the highest, fanciest, most flower-bedecked bonnets to be found anywhere.

HAT STOPPER
It's as though each clubwoman had purposely combed the town to find the most eye-arresting hat to be had—a hat to impress every other woman and thereby give its wearer complete self-assurance.

Taken one by one, the clubwomen's hats might not be too ludicrous. But put them all together—long feathers next to fluffy feathers, red roses beside lilacs, big brims and tall crowns—and the effect is usually overwhelming.

In such a gathering you can't see the women for the hats; much less have "proper" visibility for action on the floor.

Advertise or be forgotten.

AMAZED AT QUICK ACTION OF MERTOX

"For the past ten years I have been troubled with severe gas pains which seemed to press against my heart and made it difficult to breathe. I had a pain under my heart that was almost unbearable times," writes Mrs. Alma Cummings of Waco.

"My food would not digest and scored on my stomach. I had bad dizziness and when these attacks occurred I felt all pulled up. My appetite has greatly improved and I can now eat lots of things that I couldn't eat before taking this wonderful medicine.

"Since taking Mertox I feel like a different person. It certainly is wonderful to get up in the morning and do a day's work, without that tired, worn-out feeling. I certainly was amazed at the quick action of this medicine."

You can get Mertox from any Texas drugist at the new REDUCED price.

Make Drab Walls Dramatic With Stenciled Motifs

Unusual decorative effects which can be achieved with paint pictured here include two-color 'panels' and marbled borders on walls and door, and the 'inlaid' border on the linoleum rug. The girl, inset top, is stenciling a pattern on the walls with paint to simulate wallpaper.

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Use paint to fake the attractive wallpaper, fine paneling or inlaid linoleum which you need for redecorating if budget restrictions deny you one or all of these home-furnishing aids.

Thanks to improved chemical formulas of some new paints you can cover almost any interior surface—and that includes bold-patterned papers, wood or brick—with one coat, a time-and-labor saver for the amateur decorator.

After you have freshened up walls with a solid background coat of paint, you can get a "wallpaper" effect by stenciling on a pattern with paint of a contrasting color. Stencil motifs which you cut out yourself on heavy paper should be simple—stylized flowers and leaf patterns are easy to make. You can, if you like, make stencils in different sizes and alternate the designs on the wall.

Space Stencil Motifs
Space the motifs about six to eight inches apart. Hold the stencil paper against the wall with one hand while you paint in the outlines with a round stencil paint brush.

Or you may prefer to "panel" your wall. To achieve this effect, plan your panel large enough so that it will fill most of the side of the wall. Then a previously-painted background can be used as a border. The panel may be squared off at the corners. More effective, however, are curving, baroque-styled corners. If you choose the latter, cut out paper patterns the size of the corners. Tape the paper corners on the wall, lining them up accurately with a ruler. Trace their outlines with a soft lead pencil. Then draw straight or curving lines to connect the corners and complete the panel outline. After you have painted the panel, you can heighten the illusion of a third dimension by bordering it with a fine painted line in a darker color or in gilt.

"Marble" Door Frames
To imitate the soft shadings of marble for wall borders or door frames, you will need two or three different pale-toned paints—blue, white and yellow, for example. First paint the marble "veins," using a fine-pointed brush and black paint. Let these dry. Then, brush two or three strokes of each pale color close together on the wall. While paint is wet, literally smear the colors together by wiping with a clean soft rag. This blends colors together and subdues the too-sharp outlines of the black veins. As you work down the wall, painting and wiping, make sure color sections are blended into each other.

A plain linoleum rug can be converted into a distinguished floor covering by painting on an "inlaid" border. If your linoleum is light-colored, you might make a dark border by painting two three-inch strips parallel to each other and about eight inches apart.

You can also combine straight strips on the sides with curving strips at the corners. Cut out strips from paper the width your painted strips will be to use as a pattern. Tape paper strips to floor and outline them. Remove the paper strips and fill in the outline with paint. As you paint, hold a piece of cardboard along the edge of the pencilled outline to guide your brush and to insure a sharp straight demarcation between dark border and pale linoleum. While the paint is still wet, blot carefully with a rag to pick up some of the color. This will give the rug border the same mottled effect as the linoleum.

Women Hold Key To World Peace, Says International B&PW Prexy

By MERILL SWEDLAND
AP News Service
INDIANAPOLIS — When Sally Butler went to work in the Indianapolis post office during the first world war, the postmen called her a hillbilly from Southern Indiana. They didn't like the idea of women working in the post office throwing mail sacks around, even if man-power was scarce.

Today, she's president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, directing some 800,000 women in a fight for equal opportunities in making a living and making the peace.

"We don't want to displace men," she said. "We just want to see jobs given to the best qualified person—man or woman."

But Miss Butler isn't content to let her B&PW clubs spend all their energy on such goals as the so-called "equal rights" amendment to the federal constitution. It's no longer enough for a business woman to get interested in her job and her company.

The earnest, energetic woman from the hill country thinks women may hold the key to world peace.

The men haven't found any program to keep us out of war. Maybe the women can't either, but they can't do any worse. It'll take the best that all of us have. The price of peace is assuming the responsibility of citizenship.

She learned about responsibility 50 years ago on a farm in the White River Hills above Paragon, Ind., a small town 40 miles southwest of Indianapolis. She was the youngest of 13 children and pitched in like the others after their mother died.

Tears still come to the eyes of this efficient, graying woman of 56 when she remembers her father and his advice. It took her far from an Alice-in-the-land life.

"Try to be all that you inherited from your father, besides all you can gain from your surroundings. If you don't do that, you're not measuring up to your best."

When the postal service called for women to fill jobs, she decided that was how she could do her part in the first world war. She quit school teaching in her hometown school in Paragon, and has worked for the government ever since. In the last war she had already met thousands of women through B&PW clubs, and transferred to the Treasury Department to help sell war bonds. She even studied law at night and passed the American Bar. Today her ambitions "because law opens a lot of doors."

She has stayed on in savings bond work, but now she spends at least half her time traveling as international and national B&PW president. She has been to Europe in 1946 and again in 1947 and convinced her that Europeans don't dislike Americans.

"Sometimes they couldn't understand our delays, but they accepted it. What impressed me was the way they held their opinions. They don't have to continue our sin indefinitely. They're proud—they don't want to be paupers."

When she went to Europe in 1946, she took along dozens of nylon hose for clothes-hungry women there. They showered her with jewelry and souvenirs and even offered to share their food.

Miss Butler came home convinced the women of the world can help promote peace by spreading understanding and confidence across international borders.

Her apartment on the north side of Indianapolis shows a mixture of Victorian chromes and modern simplicity. She herself looks exactly like an efficient business woman.

"It's my own generation, and the one before it. I think a woman's place is in the home," she said. "The younger men are more likely to think of men and women in terms of ability."

As a career woman, she has little time for housekeeping, but she believes woman's housewife methods are needed in the administration of foreign aid.

"Who better than a woman can judge what's needed in clothing and food?"

In the end, she thinks world peace hopes rest in the spiritual tone of the home.

"We've gotten too far away from the fact that religious life has a great bearing on the achievement of a nation."

Miss Butler's childhood in a devout Methodist family makes her believe "the divine being won't let dictators prevail." The jolly farm girl who showed the men she could toss mail sacks with the best of them says "we can't be sitting and waiting for God to do it all."

Florida City Ordinance In 1908 Predicted 1,000 Passenger Planes

KISSIMMEE, FLA. —(AP)— Are a thousand-passenger airplanes in the offing? They are if a municipal ordinance proposed as a joke by the mayor and city attorney of Kissimmee nearly 40 years ago proves as prophetic in this field of aviation as it has in many others.

The measure, suggested in 1908 when there probably were less than 25 airplanes in the world, would have imposed a license tax on aircraft, required them to carry parachutes and regulated low flying. It would have licensed airports too—a step which now has been taken by 39 states—and it even forecast airspeeds of over 200 miles per hour.

The only catch in the Kissimmee ordinance is that it never was adopted. The proposal was printed in the Kissimmee Valley Gazette. The day after it appeared, the mayor declared he had been "ridiculed out of town" and planned to leave the next day for California.

However, his mind was changed by the attention the proposal drew. Scores of tributes were paid the "wise and farsighted" mayor and city attorney. Requests for copies of the ordinance came in from foreign countries.

This still didn't make Kissimmee adopt its ordinance. But it wouldn't have to make many changes to put it into effect today—thought it might see fit to eliminate the provision requiring airplanes to carry and use bells, whistles or horns.

American Cited For 1947 Safety Record

DALLAS — The National Safety Council cited American Airlines June 3 for its 1947 safety record. Between the last accident fatal to a crew member (Dec. 28, 1946) and the end of 1947 American flew the phenomenal total of 1,502,699,000 passenger miles without fatality to either crew member or passenger. The airline had flown more than double that number of passenger miles—3,000,730,513—without an accident resulting in the death of a passenger. Neither of these figures has ever before been achieved in the history of aviation.

Combined with the record of American Overseas Airlines, an American Airlines affiliate that also received a safety award, the American Airlines System has accomplished 1,708,984,000 passenger miles of North American, Trans-

Atlantic and European flying without fatality to a passenger or crew member and 3,292,688,519 without fatality to a passenger.

The safety of your Deposits is our first concern!

WHAT IS A BANK CHECK?

When you write a check on your bank, you merely ask us to take some of your own money on deposit here, and pay it . . . for you . . . to the owner of your check.

Your funds remain in the bank until you need them. Then you write a few words and a few figures on a legal check form, asking us to pay some of it for you.

FIVE GOOD REASONS FOR HAVING A CHECKING ACCOUNT:

- 1 Convenience of paying bills by mail No time wasting trips around town.
- 2 Convenience of getting money when you need it. You usually can cash checks where you are known
- 3 Permanent receipts for every payment. Your cancelled checks are legal receipts.
- 4 A record of your spending is easily kept on your check stubs. Important for tax purposes.
- 5 Your money is safe in the bank. There's danger in leaving it around the house.

Exercise Gives Summer Glamor

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Whip out your bicycle, tennis racket, golf sticks and swim suit, and exercise for health and beauty. You don't have to be an expert at any sport to enjoy it. The real purpose of engaging in it, besides your competitive spirit or love of the sport, should be to treat your muscles to a toning and your lungs to a good deep breathing tonic.

One of the most beneficial exercises for women is swimming. Perhaps you can't swim the English Channel or wear a bathing suit as can Esther Williams. Maybe your best and only "stroke" is the dog paddle. But don't be discouraged. Whether you put on the puppy water act or do the breast stroke, swimming in any fashion will give play to a great number of muscles. It will help develop lungs, slim down hips and stomach, strengthen back and shoulders. It will add grace to the walk.

Golf will help slim the waistline through twisting and bending. Fencing is wonderful for the bean-pole type of a girl who wants to develop the calves of her legs. Horseback riding is good for back muscles and carriage. Tennis not only develops the forearm but strengthens the entire body. Bicycling is particularly good for the legs and will slenderize hips if you are persistent about it.

If you work in a sitting job, so much more important will it be for you to exercise. Besides outdoor sports you will need to do some bending and stretching. During the day you should take a few seconds away from your job to change your position, stretch and do some deep breathing.

One movie star has a good method to help develop deep breathing. She inhales as much air as she can, then slowly exhales it with a whistle. She finds this controlled breathing develops chest expansion, permitting deeper breathing. The exhaling, she says, can be timed to show progress, and if the whistle is steady your control is good.

When on your vacation or weekends at the beach, walk barefoot whenever possible. It will help strengthen the arches and is particularly beneficial to the girl who usually wears spike heels.

Walking is an invigorating sport. There is nothing quite like a brisk walk which can bring roses to your cheeks and help keep your body slim. This is one exercise which can be done whenever the spirit moves you.

President Truman has nominated Tracy S. Voorhees of Brooklyn, N. Y., to be assistant secretary of the Army. Voorhees, a 57-year-old attorney, served as a colonel in the judge advocate general's department during World War II.

Three obsolete buses of the St. Louis, Mo., Public Service Company, two of which are shown above, are now home to 10 people. Mr. and Mrs. William Chaney, and their four children, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yates, and their two children, all live in the crowded quarters. Below is the inside of one of the buses. The families, unable to find other living quarters, purchased the old vehicles and now live in them on the outskirts of the city.

Cornell's Formula For Keeping Young

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures

CHICAGO—Lady, would you like to look 10 years younger? Want to know how? Take this tip from Katharine Cornell, who just passed 60, but looks 40 and sometimes younger: Don't worry, fall in love, do something that is important to you.

Worry is the number one wrinkle-maker, Miss Cornell said in an interview. But wrinkles don't matter too much, either. "They add a mature charm in a happy face, giving it character," she says.

In case you think the actress hasn't anything to worry about, how would you feel at the prospect of seeing $50,000 go out the window for good?

That's the share of investment Miss Cornell and her director husband, Guthrie McClintic, stand to lose on their production of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" in which Miss Cornell starred here.

Her happy marriage, the theatrical star says, accounts for much of the youthfulness attributed to her. She and McClintic just celebrated their twenty-sixth anniversary—"more than a quarter of a century of love," as she puts it.

The stage, naturally, has a corner on her time. The way she feels about it, you can lose years as long as you have something—whether it's needlework, acting or shooting pool—that is important to you. For Miss Cornell, the theater fills this need.

She and her husband plan to return from here to their home at Martha's Vineyard, Mass. There she plans looking over a forthcoming script of "For One Sweet Grape." This is being adapted especially for production by Miss Cornell from the historical novel by Kate O'Brien, the Irish author.

Buenos Aires (Argentina's capital) is a Spanish phrase meaning good air.

'Good Citizenship Begins At Home' Is Dad's Day Theme

Sunday, June 20, will mark the thirty-ninth Father's Day in history. Started by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd in 1910, Father's Day has become a national holiday.
Dedicated to building a strong American through wholesome child upbringing, the 1948 theme is "Good Citizenship Begins at Home—Honor Father, Builder of Our Children's Future."
With spotlight on the presidential election, attention is focused on citizenship. It is more important than ever before for the father to rear the child in the true spirit of democracy, neighborly love, fair play. The father must share in his child's activities and make him feel secure; he must be objective about seeing his child's faults and recognizing his weaknesses. And, most important, he contributes to making the home of his child's haven; and only by accepting the responsibility of being a parent, can the father be the man his child thinks he is.
In making its annual awards, the National Father's Day Committee followed these doctrines of democracy with the hope of helping to make this a better world.
Observing this year's Father's Day, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCAs and Boys Clubs of America, all over the country are carrying out this theme in their programs.

No Polio Reported In Tri-County Area; Precaution Is Urged

Dr. F. E. Sadler, director of the Midland-Ector-Howard County Health Unit, said Saturday no cases of polio have been reported in the tri-county area this year.
He added an appeal to all citizens to be particularly careful about personal and general cleanliness, however. In addition to exercising extreme care in preparation of food, citizens should take care to keep homes, yards and alleys free of trash, standing water, and other breeding places for flies and mosquitoes, he stressed.
Garbage cans should be kept clean and their contents disposed of frequently and properly, he said, and such cleanliness measures should be practiced by all residents because single exception might result in polio infection among children of the area.

"You Can Taste The Difference"

What's the Nimblest Number on the highway?

THAT's a big question, taking in a lot of territory, and we'd be the last to deny you the right to your opinion.

But, sir—before you slip up behind this ddy Supra with the idea of giving it the go-by, better figure what you're up against!

It's big, certainly—six-persons roomy and two-tons hefty as it takes to the road.

But take a look at the size of that bonnet—it isn't there just for show! It's filled to the brim with straight-eight power—and a very special kind of power at that.

For Buick's the only car on the road today that puts Fireball power under your treadle foot.

It's the only car in which pistons are specially shaped to roll each tiny fuel charge into a compact ball that lets loose with extra lift and surge.

And that means that this cleaned fleetster is exactly what it looks like—a star performer.

A nudge on the gas treadle—and it's gone with the wind.

A swing of the wheel, and this low-sprung carriage takes curves with the ease and sureness of straightaways.

As for rough spots, even they won't slow you down, so smoothly does this beauty take all kinds of going in its stride.

You can see, of course, how steady it is. How the body rides level and unperturbed while four soft coil springs soak up the jars and jolts.

As for handling, well once you've tried it, we know exactly what you'll do.

You'll see the nearest Buick dealer, with or without a car to trade, and get a firm order in right now.

Irish Linen Accessories Will Be Milady's Favorites

Irish linen accessories will add their crisp touch to costumes this summer. The girl, center above, twirls a white parasol as a costume accent for her afternoon print dress. More linen refreshers

By ERSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Irish linen, the fabric of the tropics, makes high-styled accessories which can be used to touch up costumes from head to toe with heat-defying crispness.

Jackets, hats, bags, parasols and shoes of linen fill stellar roles in best-designer fashion showings. Linen sandals and pumps write fashion's footnotes in chalky white. If a gal wants to carry her costume color down to the ground, she can have white shoes dyed to match. As ready to oblige a lady's whims is the linen parasol which will spread its charms in white or take dye to match a summer dress.

Hats of linen bridge the millinery gap between the veil-stung bonnet and the tailored beret. One outstanding beret, as tailored as a French sailor's, has a headband of black or navy blue linen and a piping to match. A jaunty skimmer like this responds to the su-

sembling needs of cover-up sun dresses of navy blue or black linen which are usually touched up with white.

Fabric handbags take fashion cues from their betters of tailored leather. As far as handbags can go from proxy "envelopes" and slip-covered affairs, the new styles in linen go. The smartest are corduroyed with fine tucks which permanently pressed give texture interest and provide more resistance to soil.

Linen jackets designed to shrug off the heat rival the colors of garden blooms. Simply styled jackets, which range in type from long-torso sheaths to pert boleros, owe their dash to such colors as jonquil yellow, geranium pink or lilac. Any one of these is qualified to crisp up the wilted look of city black or navy dresses.

Permian Basin Water Group Will Meet Here

A meeting of the Permian Basin Water Works Association will be held in Midland Tuesday night, with members of the city's water departments as hosts, A. B. Cole, Sr. said Saturday.

More than 300 association members and their families are expected to attend. The association covers a large area extending from Monahans to Colorado City and from Lubbock to McCammy.

A barbecue at Cloverdale Park will highlight the quarterly session. A program and business meeting will follow the meal.

Children Hear Tales Read By Mrs. Heald

The Children's Story Hour was held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Children's Room of the Midland County Library.

Mrs. E. C. Heald, Jr. read two stories: "Wings for Feet" by D'Annunzio and "Some Soup", an old folk tale, another installment of "The Wizard of Oz."

Children who attended were Don Devore, Margie Jo Crisman, Mary Dancy Cook, Lawrence Black, Marjorie Shook, Loran Shook, Robert Lee Williamson, Tad Kubie, Sandy Kubie and Mike Atkinson.

It was a custom to exchange eggs on New Year's Day in ancient Paris, the egg being a symbol of the beginning of life.

Deavenport Family Reunion

Fifty-eight members of the John Deavenport family met in an annual reunion at the Bluebonnet Hotel, Sweetwater, June 5-8. Among those attending the event were, seated, left to right, Mrs. G. R. Short, Gainesville; Mrs. Cecil Davis, Midland; Mrs. Alice Deavenport, Galveston, and Mrs. W. R. Newcom, Vernon; and standing, left to right, R. M. Deavenport, Temple; Brown Deavenport, Stanton; Herbert Deavenport, Midland; J. B. Deavenport, Norman, Okla.; and Paul Deavenport, Duncan, Okla. The family will meet next year at Mineral Wells.

A scientific "color eye" said to be accurate within one-half of 1 per cent will fill a long-felt need in paint and textile industries where accurate color matching has been dependent on skillful use of the human eye. For years all kinds of foods and many beverages have been prepared in cans. Strangely enough the prime necessity of life, water, has only recently been canned with success. Despite a long-standing need for such a product.

India And Pakistan Live As Peaceful Neighbors After Birth In Bloodshed

By G. MILTON KELLY
NEW DELHI, INDIA. — (AP) — India and Pakistan, born in bloodshed and hatred 10 months ago, are learning slowly to live as peaceful neighbors.

Rumors have spread that Hindu-Muslim fighting may break out in communal riots again and security precautions are being tightened. These rumors have spread from Hindu refugees living in India who say they have heard outrages again will be perpetrated against Hindus still living in Pakistan and that revenge must be prepared against Moslems still living in India. The hard lot of the refugees contributes to the danger of new outbreaks, but the fact remains the situation has quieted remarkably in recent months.

Economic circumstances and the danger of outside interference have been compelling factors in the India-Pakistan peace.

The new dominions have a wary eye on their Russia neighbors. High officials of both, speaking off the record, say they have little fear of invasion by Soviet Armies. Their fear is of invasion by Communist ideology.

Rarely Mention Russia
Officially, the leaders speak of a variety of other reasons for improved India-Pakistan relations and rarely mention Russia openly in that respect.

The two countries still glower across their frontiers, and the leaders make frequent statements that are militant and provocative.

But old tensions have eased greatly, and the threat of a real shooting war that arose from the sporadic fighting in the northern state of Kashmir has subsided.

Since Independence Day, Aug. 15, 1947, the dominions have clamped a lid on religious rioting among the Moslems and non-Moslem communities. They signed an agreement for the protection of religious minorities. They stopped the paralyzing rush of refugees from the trouble areas which gave them together the problem of finding homes and a livelihood for 12,000,000 displaced persons.

Division Of Finances
They settled amicably the problem of division of finances and assets of the old United India. They completed a friendly one-year trade agreement. Now, jointly, they are attempting to work out with Britain a settlement of the Empire's sterling debt to them which is estimated at 1,200,000,000 pounds ($4,800,000,000).

Each dominion has made strides also in solving domestic problems. This has not been done spectacularly. But it is significant for all that.

India has chosen a course toward the left and is following it cautiously. Premier Jawaharlal Nehru's government frankly is seeking a compromise between militant Socialists and middle-of-the-roads, warning that Socialism must come slowly to avoid upsetting the economic structure.

In Pakistan leftists have little influence on the government which is kept in tight check by Governor General Mahomed Ali Jinnah. Recently, the Moscow News Time called both India's controlling Congress Party and Pakistan's Muslim League "very imperialists blindly following an anti-people's policy. Both governments silently noted the article.

When the British quit India last August they left behind 600 independent princely states whose rulers' word was law to nearly a quarter of the 400,000,000 people in this sub-continent. Today only Hyderabad, the princely state with a Moslem ruler and a Hindu majority population, has refused to surrender its sovereignty and join either Pakistan or the Indian Union and give representative government to its subjects.

Next, Nehru said, come projects assuring the people freedom from want and freedom from foreign economic domination.

Both Nehru and Jinnah warned the people early that the fruits of freedom would ripen slowly. They did not then anticipate the bloody riots in the Punjab which in three months killed half a million people and caused uncounted deaths among the refugees.

No Major Riot
There has been no major riot since Mohandas K. Gandhi was slain January 30 after his fast in protest against communal disturbances. But in some sections it still is an uneasy peace that makes recovery difficult.

Reluctantly leaders concede that living conditions generally have failed to improve even to the modest degree hoped for in the first year of freedom. Big industrial and irrigation programs too, have not made the progress hoped.

But they say they believe a sound start has been made and has proved their countries worthy of self-government.

Baby-Sitting Pays His Way To College

AP Newsfeature
MCKINNVILLE, ORE.—Richard Strieby, who is baby-sitting his way through college, finds the whole thing fitting neatly into his career. The 18-year-old red-headed freshman, only male baby-sitter in McKinnville, started his evening profession last January to help finance himself through Linfield College.

The only trouble he had was right at first, when he advertised as a "male baby-sitter." He had to add a postscript explaining he was a "male-sitter." People thought he meant he only sat with male babies.

"I'm doing all right," says Strieby. "At first I said the kids would have to be in bed. I didn't get many jobs that way, so I go now whether they're in bed or not. I keep them occupied by playing games or reading. One fellow I entertained by allowing him to study my suspenders."

A practiced hand with children because of a younger brother and sister in his home town of Everett, Wash., Strieby understands about diapers, strained baby foods, and bottles.

Strieby, an honor student, says baby-sitting is very practical for college students. "You can study and be paid for the time. And the babies provide a lot of material for them."

Babies crying? That's one of the things that gives him pointers. His fellow-students have just elected him Linfield College yell king for

To bring you more we've built a 10-story structure in the open Gulf

Designing and building the equivalent of a 10-story structure in the open sea called for all the ingenuity and skill of the country's best engineers. Utilizing carefully controlled directional drilling, as many as seven oil wells can be drilled from this structure.

Your need for oil is today so urgent that the oil industry is searching for and producing oil in locations once considered impractical for exploration and production. The most spectacular of these locations is in the open Gulf of Mexico, where Humble and other oil companies hope to find beneath the Continental shelf some of the oil you need.

To prove this region, and to produce oil from it, calls on the best engineering skill and scientific knowledge available in the United States, and requires the investment of huge sums of money.

The Humble Company now has off-shore drilling operations under way in water 50 feet deep, eight miles off the coast of Louisiana. The drilling rig rests on what can be best described as the tenth story of a building, with the first four stories under water. The structure is built to withstand the worst weather the Gulf develops.

On this platform are living quarters for the crew, which will work around the clock in shifts. There is storage space for all the materials needed to meet foreseeable drilling conditions. And, above all, the structure has been designed to provide a safe home for crew members beyond reach of the ocean waves.

You are asking for more oil than ever before in history, and the oil companies' decision to risk drilling in the open Gulf is a good example of how the oil industry is doing everything that possibly can be done to provide you with more oil.

You can help this effort by making your personal demands for petroleum products reasonable, by cooperating with programs designed to conserve oil products for the uses to which they are best adapted, by the exercise of patience as the oil industry acts to meet the need.

The barge, Cap, a converted LST, is anchored about 25 miles from the large structure as construction begins on one of several smaller drilling platforms to be erected off the Louisiana coast.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaret Brucker

XXVIII

SHE felt ashamed and guilty. She went into her own room and moved the sleeping Betsy back into her crib. She flung herself across her bed and pulled the blanket close about her shivering body. Already, gray dawn crept through the long front windows of her bedroom.

It was Sunday morning. This was Sunday morning, and in just a few hours she had planned to leave this house forever, put the past behind her and enter upon a bright and carefree future. Now she lay dispirited and uncertain.

"You and I will never be happy together, Tom. We never loved each other." That was what she had planned to say so glibly. "Our love didn't last. It's dead."

Love she thought now bitterly. Love had no place in the pattern of events this night had tossed into her future. For how could she leave at once and abandon Tom and Lucy in the face of trouble?

Finally she fell into a heavy sleep and did not open her eyes until the November sun was high in the sky. For an instant she could not bring her thoughts into focus. The events of the night before were unreal, like a terrible dream. This was the day—she set up and buried her aching head in her hands as she remembered. This was the day she was to meet David.

There were voices outside her door. Betsy's low chuckle, quickly hushed by a deep voice. The door flew open and Tom came in with Betsy perched on his shoulder.

"Daddy!" cried Betsy, with a fatuous smile. "Look—Daddy. She patted her father's blond head.

JESSICA snatched up her robe and huddled it about her bare shoulders. She was startled, at a disadvantage.

Tom explained, "I heard her cry and came in. I've been getting acquainted with my daughter." He sat down on the bed beside Betsy and fondled the baby's soft curly head, but did not glance toward Jessica.

Jessica bit her lip. She asked, "How's your mother this morning?"

"No change." Tom rose and paced back and forth. His voice lost color and became dull and anxious. "I called Genevieve Miles this morning, hoping that she might know where to locate Lucy. Genevieve didn't go with the group which left yesterday. She says it will be impossible to get Lucy until afternoon. She promised to come right over and help me."

Jessica met this announcement with angry silence. Why should Genevieve Miles enter into their affairs?

She made the excuse that she must dress. She was irritable when Betsy proposed that her father stay and dress her. She saved an awkward situation by hinting that she could manage Betsy better alone, and Tom left with a baffled expression on his tired face. Must she always hurt Tom?

Later she led Betsy downstairs and found Genevieve bustling capably about the kitchen, a print apron tied over her best rayon print, her cheeks flushed with excitement, her small eyes curious.

Genevieve refused any offers of assistance. The breakfast was ready. Excellent coffee and toast and bacon and eggs. Genevieve hurried about importantly, urging Tom to eat what she set before him. But Tom made an excuse and went back to stay with his mother. Any interest he might have had earlier in either Jessica or Betsy was lost now in deepening anxiety as he awaited the doctor.

GENEVIEVE sat opposite Jessica and delicately sipped her coffee, her cup held in a hand with the little finger rigidly extended. "Queer that you don't hear from Lucy," she said.

"You said that she was off on a hike."

"I said if she went off on a hike, she would be back this afternoon."

"Where else would she go?" demanded Jessica.

Genevieve said, "I wonder." Her small colorless eyes were hard and expressionless.

"What do you mean?"

Genevieve set her cup down carefully in the saucer. She picked up a bit of toast and nibbled daintily. "Maybe she went some place else."

"Without telling her mother?"

Genevieve finished her toast and wiped her fingers daintily on her napkin. Her thin lips parted in a sly smile. "Lucy didn't tell her mother everything."

"Why should she?"

"You thought she did?"

"I don't concern myself with Lucy's affairs."

But she did concern herself with Lucy. Right now a cold, apprehensive chill shook her as she met Genevieve's sly glance. What did Genevieve mean? What did she know?

Suddenly Jessica lost her self-control. She said furiously, "You despicable little traitor! You never were Lucy's friend. You just spied on her and tattled to her mother, Lucy."

Tom came in, suddenly and without warning. He said, "Have you heard from Lucy? I thought I heard you speak her name."

Genevieve answered, "No. No, we haven't heard." Her sly glance traveled from Jessica to Tom and back again.

Should the voice her own anxiety? Jessica wondered. No. She couldn't add to Tom's burden now. She said briskly, "I'll go and stay with your mother just as soon as I come back from taking Betsy across the street."

With only a brief explanation, she hurried Betsy away. Doris would take care of Betsy. Could Doris know something about Lucy's whereabouts?

Why should Lucy go away and tell no one about her plans? (To Be Continued)

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

With the great success achieved by Cincinnati, Ohio, in their recent Midwest regional championships tournament, it would not be surprising if they were to invite the national championships to Cincinnati one of these days. They have not had a national since 1932, yet many of the same people who were leaders in bridge then are still active.

Mrs. Charlton Wallace, Jr., of Cincinnati, gave the today's hand, and it is an example of the care she exercises in her play.

When West opened the queen of spades and the dummy went down, she stopped to count. She had two spade tricks, a heart, three diamonds and the ace and winning with the ace of spades. Then she cashed her two good diamonds and played the king of clubs. When West dropped the ten, she knew she was on the way to victory. She led a small club to the ace, West showing out, so Mrs. Wallace led a spade from dummy, throwing West in. He cashed his good spades but then was forced to lead a heart into the ace-queen.

king of clubs. She had to knock out the ace of diamonds immediately if she was to get three diamond tricks.

The next question was, how could she get the ninth trick? If the heart finesse worked, she would not have any trouble, but if West held both the ace of diamonds and king of hearts, she could not make the hand by taking the finesse.

She correctly won the first spade trick with the king and led a diamond. When West played low she won in dummy with the jack of diamonds and led the king. West won this trick and led back the jack of spades. Again Mrs. Wallace refused to hold up.

Fight Between Eagles Blacks Out Towns

PALSTAFF, ARIZ.—(AP)—A battle between two eagles plunged half a dozen small northern Arizona communities into darkness.

Arizona Power Company linemen reported the eagles apparently had fought over the body of a young goat while perched on the cross-arm of a pole carrying a 44,000-volt wire.

Charred bodies of the eagles and the goat were found at the foot of the pole in a tangle of wire, insulators and burned cross arms. The towns were without electric power throughout the night.

Sound And Lasting Investment Urged For Home Builders

A home should be planned as a sound, permanent investment. Good planning pays dividends in comfortable, gracious living, and creates high resale value in case of future sale.

After a floor arrangement is selected that will provide the greatest comfort and convenience for the various members and interests of the family, careful planning should continue with the use of first-grade building materials and equipment. Many new materials have been developed since the war. Only by use of the highest grade materials does a home builder get the fullest value from his dollar.

New ideas of architects and designers should be considered and used if they will add to the family's enjoyment of the home.

Locate Garage With An Eye To Space, Utility

There are three main choices for location of the garage: Attached to one side of the house, beneath the house, or standing alone at the rear of the yard. The latter location is generally discarded today because of the large amount of space sacrificed for driveway.

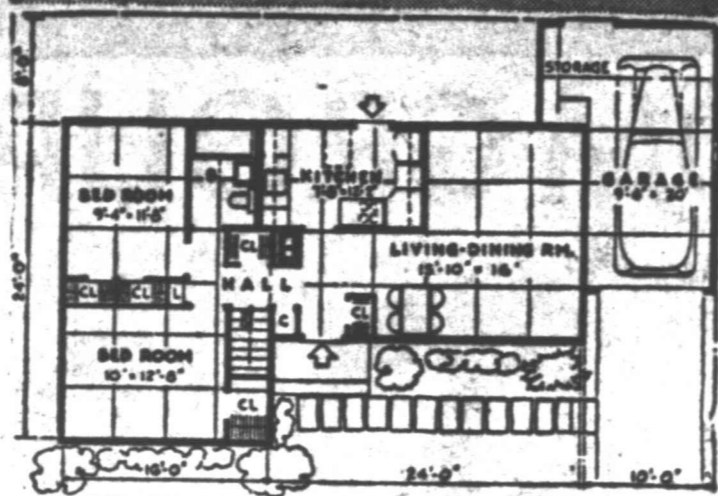

Most widely-used is the garage attached to the front of the house because it is more accessible and convenient in all weather. Care should be taken, however, that the entrance is in harmony with the rest of the house and that a fire-barrier such as fireproof mineral wool insulation is placed between garage and house wall. A new idea is to provide a back door as well as a front entrance so the car can be driven into the back yard for washing or other work. Efficient automatic doors are now available at a cost which is not excessive.

Examine Circuits Before Adding New Electric Outlets

Before adding even one more outlet to existing electrical installations, a householder should check the circuit to prevent an overload.

The standard electrical code limits each circuit to 15 outlets except under a few special conditions. To determine how many outlets are on an existing circuit, loosen the fuses for that circuit and count the number of outlets which are dead. If there are less than 15, it is safe to add another outlet.

If the proposed addition would cause this limit to be exceeded, it is necessary to run a new circuit from the fuse box to the new work. A qualified electrician should always be employed.

Diaper Paper Combats Atomic Contamination

OAK RIDGE, TENN. — (AP) — are spilled on laboratory tables. Atomic scientists at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies report a new use for diaper paper.

The scientists say they have found the absorbent paper quite useful in soaking up stray radioactive materials. The institute is conducting research in the technique of using radiolabeled, or "tracer atoms," in research. Occasionally some of the atoms, which will "contaminate" anything with which they come in contact, come in handy. It is spread over the tables and then can be folded and disposed of. Thus a table is quickly "decontaminated."

Double Duty Rooms Required In Small Home

With the trend toward smaller homes and at the same time diversified family activities and interests, architects say that every room in the house should be made to do double and even triple duty, since few home owners can afford the luxury of additional rooms for special uses.

Accordingly, many small homes today are designed so activities can be absorbed in areas other than the living room. A bedroom furnished as a study solves the problem of quietness for mental concentration. An alcove can be used for hobby work which can be placed out of sight if adequate cabinets are provided.

By combining dining and living room, more space is available for large groups. Lines of division are achieved by arrangement of furniture or low bookshelves or cabinets. Since it is not always possible to provide a special recreation room, careful arrangement of kitchen-dining space will permit children to entertain here without interfering with other members of the family in the living room.

The main essential is thoughtful planning and arrangement of furniture and storage space so that every square foot of area in the home can be used to best advantage.

QUONSET 32 . . . NEWEST MEMBER OF THE FAMOUS QUONSET FAMILY!

Here is the new Quonset 32, a building engineered for real economy. The new Quonset 32 (32'x80') erected on a concrete foundation for only $1.65 per square foot, including 12'x12' door and two windows on each end. With other doors and windows, prices are slightly higher. The Quonset 32 comes in shorter or longer lengths in multiples of 18 feet. This structure may be adapted to meet any live-load condition by installing extra ribs as may be required. Ribs for this purpose are available in kits.

... and it's framed with ALLOY STEEL

Now you pay no more to get the increased durability and permanence of a building framed with high-tensile low-alloy steel. You will like, too, the efficient design of this newest Quonset. The 32-foot width makes it large enough for scores of commercial, industrial, and farm uses. The patented nailing groove in the Stran-Steel framing members permits steel sheathing to be nailed on securely, and makes it easy to arrange the interior to suit your needs. Extra doors and windows can be provided at minimum additional cost. Other Quonsets, in 20', 24', 30', 36', 40', and multiple units, are available in any width and length.
