Big brother Paul Eck, of La Grange, Ill., jumped at the invitation to appear in the La Grange Kiddle pet show. He didn't have any real pets, but he had a good idea. Paul dressed up like a wild man, and dressed his young sisters Cynthia and Nancy as "typical women." Mother's old fur came in handy. With his caged sisters making ferocious faces, Paul and his pygmies were hit of the show.

Major Leagues—Boston Braves Go Into Tie With NY Giants For NL Lead

By JOE REICHEL, Associated Press Sports Writer
With the season nearly on a third game, the gap between the co-leading New York Giants and Boston Braves and the fourth place St. Louis Cardinals in the National League is only one and one-half games. Pittsburgh is in third place, a game behind the leader.

The tight situation does not end there. The fifth place Phillies are only two and a half games off the pace. Only eight and a half games separate the last place Chicago Cubs from the leaders.

For comparative purposes, the fourth place Detroit Tigers in the American League are eight games in back of the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

The Braves, who dropped out of the lead Saturday when they suffered a double loss to Cincinnati, bounced back into a first place tie with the Giants Sunday by dumping the Reds twice in Cincinnati, 6-7 and 10-5. The Reds blew a six-run lead in Bobby Sturgeon with the winning run to climax a four-run ninth-inning rally.

In the second game Bob Elliott's fifth inning home run with two mates aboard gave the Braves a commanding lead. Hank Sauer of the Reds hit his 18th and 19th home runs and tripled in the second game.

The Giants and Cardinals split a couple of close decisions. The Giants won the first game, 8-7, and the Cards took the second, 8-2, snapping a five-game losing streak.

The Cards squeaked a ninth-inning giant uprising to eke out a second game win. Harry Brecheen, who was charged with the first game defeat, retired the last two men in the ninth of the nightcap with the tying and winning runs on the bases.

Ralph Kiner hammered out his 18th and 17th home runs of the season to lead the Pirates to a 9-2 second game victory over Philadelphia after the Phils had copped the opener, 8-7.

Johnny Schmitz registered his sixth victory of the season and his third over Brooklyn when he hurled the Cubs to a 3-1 victory over the Dodgers in Chicago. Gil Hodges' spoiled Schmitz' shutout bid with his third homer.

The New York Yankees salvaged the final of a four-game series with the Cleveland Indians, defeating Bob Feller and the Tribe, 5-3. Feller had a 1-0 lead for five innings, but a triple by Joe Di Maggio

Black Indians ended a three-game losing streak Sunday when they defeated the Lamesa Tigers 15-9 in Indian Park in spite of rain and lack of fans.

The Tribe got off to a four-run lead in the first frame and were never headed. The Tigers came within one run (5-4) in the third but the Indians stretched on out ahead.

Wednesday night the Black Indians meet a white team, the Jal Grassers, in Indian Park. Bobby Walker, Midland boy, will pitch for the Grassers.

Colts, All-Star Game Cancelled
A scheduled game between the Midland Colts and Odessa All-Stars at Midland Sunday was cancelled because of rain. The teams are Latin American lines.

The Colts will travel to Grandfalls for a contest this week on Sunday.

Maxwell Takes WT Golf Crown

ABILENE—(AP)—Bill Maxwell of Abilene Sunday added the West Texas Golf Association championship to his Texas Junior and state high school crowns.

He defeated Don Cherry of Wichita Falls, one up, in the 36-hole final.

Cherry got off to a bad start, losing the first three holes of the morning round and winding up at lunch time with a par 71 to Maxwell's four-under-par 67. But he nearly overtook the Abilene youth in the second round, firing a 67. Maxwell's score on the second 18 was 50.

The Tigers went above the .500 mark for the first time in weeks when they defeated the Senators in both ends of a doubleheader in Washington, 8-3 and 9-2.

Rain forced the postponement of the scheduled doubleheader in Boston between Chicago White Sox and the Red Sox.

Texas League—Houston Holds League By Beating Dallas 7-0

By The Associated Press
Each Texas League game produced some stellar hitting. One of the best was Pete Bryan's four-hitter that beat Dallas 7-0. It enabled Houston to maintain a game and a half lead over second place Fort Worth.

Southpaw Vic Johnson turned in a two-hitter in the seven-inning nightcap of a double-header that Beaumont and Oklahoma City Split. Beaumont had won the first 5-2 behind the seven-hit hurling of Ed Kowalek but the Indians took the afterpiece 1-0 as Johnson proved invincible.

Fort Worth snapped a seven-game losing streak during which the Cats tumble out of first place. Carl Erskine gave up only six hits as the Cats whipped San Antonio 9-0.

The top hurling duel came in Tulsa's 1-0 victory over Shreveport. Harry Perkowski of Tulsa and Gerth Mann of the Sports each gave up only six hits.

WT-NM League—Lamesa Hurler Besis Pampa Twice In Twin Bill 10-8 And 3-1

By The Associated Press
Lamesa used Chris Haskins on the mound in a double-header Sunday and he licked Pampa 10-8 and 3-1.

At the same time Amarillo's Gold Sox were beating Clovis 8-5 to move within two games of the leading Odessa and Albuquerque was holding the pace in third place by clouting Borger 17-9.

Abilene was continuing its drive out of the doldrums by winning its fifth straight victory 8-3 over Lubbock.

WE THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

A girl can just about figure out what kind of mother-in-law a young man's mother will make, if she would ask herself these questions about her:

Does she think her son is without faults?

Does she worry constantly about her son's job or his health or his safety, as though he were still a child instead of a man?

Does her manner toward her prospective daughter-in-law seem to be lacking in warmth and real friendliness?

Is she a woman who boasts that she has given up everything for her son?

DOES SHE SPOIL HIM?

Does she spoil her son by waiting on him and catering to his every wish?

Does she try to influence her son in matters that concern his career?

Does she act as though it would be a great tragedy if her son ever left his home town?

Is her son her favorite topic of conversation?

Is she the kind of person who seems to "enjoy" poor health, having her son worry about her?

If she asked herself these questions about a young man's mother, a girl could get a pretty good idea of the kind of mother-in-law she would make.

The more "no's" she gets in answer to the questions, the better. If she gets mostly yes answers, then she had better be prepared for mother-in-law troubles if she marries him.

Summer entertainment will be no fun nor will it strengthen the reputation of the party-giving hostess if she is limp and irritable from advance preparations when the guests arrive.

A clear hostess knows that a casual summertime party where guests can relax is a more successful affair than a fussed-over one which puts guests on their dignity and taxes her nerves and temper.

Better than trying to impress the guests with unusual recipes which require laborious hours spent over a hot stove is to plan an informal meal. Plan one which can be prepared in advance or can be cooked in a few minutes before the time comes to serve it.

You'll also avoid fatigue if you'll delegate some of your hostess' duties to your family.

Invite your young son or daughter to be "co-host" with you and your husband. Let your child invite one or two friends if he or she chooses. Under your supervision, the youthful "co-host" can help you plan the food, shop for it and assist in making whatever preparations are necessary. After the guests arrive, enlist the youngster's help in serving and washing out for the guests. This social responsibility will relieve you of a burden and will give the young recruit good training for the future.

Red-Led Union Bosses Scream

The insistence of our home-grown Communists on civil rights is so contradictory as to be ludicrous. But it isn't funny. It is bad enough to insist upon them in the name of a political philosophy which, as practiced in Russia, does not permit civil liberties to exist.

A New York department store has been asked to fire three of its union employes by the union's pro-Communist leadership. Their sin is that they have opposed their CIO union's support of Henry Wallace for President, and the contribution of their own dues to Communist-front organizations.

One of the three summed up the case very ably amidst the hoots and boos of a Red-led union meeting. He said: "The union is opposing the Mundt Bill as thought control in America. Its officials evidently want to establish their own thought control by expelling us, because we dare to oppose them. This is the issue, and nothing else."

This is not an isolated case. Many unions have persuaded employers to sign contracts which not only give the union the right to say whom shall be hired, but also the right to demand that the management dismiss any worker who interferes with "the harmonious relationship among the employees," or words of similar effect.

The result is that, under such a contract, a Communist-controlled union has a true Soviet weapon for enforcing discipline among the membership. Its leaders, shouting democracy and civil rights, can toss a man out of his job for failing to toe the party line, or for efforts to inject real democracy into the union's operation.

It can take a man's job, as is the case with the three department store workers, for trying to oust the Red leaders from the union. And when a company has signed such a contract as is mentioned above, it must sit in as an accessory to these Moscow-inspired practices.

The top CIO leaders have finally broken with the Communists in their midst over the Henry Wallace question. Several of their unions had beaten the reluctant chiefs to the punch by ousting pro-Communist leaders. But they apparently are helpless in the face of contracts with these purge clauses which give the union heads sole voice in determining whom shall be fired as well as hired.

The Taft-Hartley Law, which labor propagandists have made into such a horrific bogeyman, doesn't seem able to do anything about such contracts, either. Perhaps it may have to be changed and strengthened to give a worker job security and protection from subversive-minded union bosses.

This would not be a perfect solution. There are certainly conceivable cases where a union would need a guaranteed defense against a professional trouble maker or perhaps a company-planted stooge. But such cases could not outweigh those in which men can only think, act and vote according to their convictions at the risk of losing their jobs.

We believe that loyalty and democracy will continue to win out among the CIO unions. But they must at least start on even terms with subversion and dictatorship. They cannot win when short-sighted or intimidated employers are the contracted partners of Communist union bosses in undemocratic practices.

We think that the 20-year-old Chinese girl who is never hungry should come to the United States. If a divorcee with two children can offer herself as a wife for $10,000, and get plenty of takers, this meek wonder from China ought to be able to demand a cool million.

Six-Power Plan For Germany Presents Challenge To Russia

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The new six-power plan for Germany will be a great thing—if it works.

The United States, Britain, France and the Benelux countries of Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg have taken a bold step in their agreements to unify the three western zones of Germany, set up a provisional German government and bring the rich industrial Ruhr under international control of these six powers.

This presents the Russians with a "fait accompli" as the diplomats call it—a "thing done." The challenge is what the Russians can do about it and what they will do about it.

The first great problem is whether international control of the Ruhr will work. There is a precedent for it. There was international control of the neighboring Saar industrial basin under the League of Nations back in 1920-25. It didn't work.

The set-up now planned is a 15-vote International Authority for the Ruhr. The United States, Britain, France and the Germans will have three votes each, the Benelux countries one apiece.

The job of this authority will be to allocate the coal and steel produced in this area to industries where it will do the most good. The Ruhr basin covers about 1,000 square miles and is roughly equivalent to a 35-mile area around Pittsburgh, only with 4,000,000 people in it instead of a million plus.

Since the end of the war the Russians have been agitating for international control of the Ruhr. What the Russians wanted, of course, was a voice in its administration—for their own benefit.

British Foreign Minister Bevin has stoutly maintained, however, that there could be no Russian participation in administration of the Ruhr unless there was at the same time international control over industrial production in the Russian zone of Germany.

Since it is most unlikely that the Russians will ever agree to this, there would seem to be little immediate danger that the Russians will be granted a voice in control over Ruhr coal and steel.

Whether any international authority can control production of an industrial area like the Ruhr is a problem that only time can solve. The six powers are now in agreement on principles. But it has taken nearly three years to reach this agreement. And if these six powers have learned anything out of their postwar experience, it should be that where everybody is boss, nobody is boss.

The Ruhr is not to be internationalized in the sense that it will be a separate country. Only its heavy industries will be internationally controlled, to make sure that the Ruhr does not again become an arsenal for the rearming of Germany against the rest of Europe. Politically and governmentally, the

Poison Ivy Is Tricky Irritant; Prevention Is The Best Policy

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D., Written for NEA Service

Thousands of people develop a history of irritation of the skin every year either through pure carelessness or because they do not know enough to recognize poison ivy when they see it.

Poison ivy grows only in North America from Canada to Mexico. It is entirely absent from other parts of the world. There is no poison ivy season, as the stalk is dangerous in winter even when leaves are not growing.

Everyone should learn to recognize the three-pointed leaves of poison ivy. Much of the trouble comes from failure to recognize it. Some people are more sensitive to the poisoning than others, but anyone may fall a victim.

There is no sure quick cure for ivy poisoning. Several preparations for the skin are helpful and there are some extracts from poison ivy which seem to be helpful in prevention and in some cases in treatment.

XXIX
JESSICA found Doris deep in the scattered sheets of the Sunday paper. She was glad to take care of Betty. She would be glad of company, she said, for Bill had gone off early that morning and the house was lonesome and deserted. She wanted to delay Jessica and was eager to discuss the events of the night before, but Jessica told her that she must return and persuade Tom to get some sleep.

"Any change?" asked Doris.

Jessica shook her head. She returned to the Blake house, dreading the moment when Tom should show real alarm at Lucy's absence, possessed by a growing uneasiness as the noon hour came with the doctor's visit and still no word from Lucy. Genevieve prepared a dinner from the food Mrs. Blake had put in the refrigerator for the Sunday noonday meal. There was a roast and browned potatoes and a vegetable, a mince pie, excellent food which Tom scarcely touched. He was nervous and roved about as Genevieve sat with his mother while Jessica tried to eat and found the food unpalatable.

After dinner, Jessica persuaded Tom to lie down and rest for a while. He went into the little back room which had been his in boyhood. Had he guessed he would be unwelcome in the room they had shared together before he went away?

Jessica sat in the room with the sick woman, feeling more and more low-spirited as the afternoon advanced with no word from Lucy and no change in the inert figure on the bed. Surely there must be some sign of life in that rigid figure.

Once Jessica imagined there was the slightest flicker of an eyelid. Several times she bent over

David. Jessica tried to bring her thoughts to David. Right now she was unable to think of David, for the day was over and night was coming fast, and still no word from Lucy.

Doris gathered together the sheets of the paper scattered on the sofa. "Have you read these?" she asked.

"No."

"I want you to read this," said Doris. She selected a sheet and pointed to a headline.

"I don't want to read about that fire. It's made trouble enough," said Jessica.

"More than you think," said Doris.

"I don't see—" Jessica's voice died abruptly as she caught a glimpse of the boxed-in story on the front page:

UNIDENTIFIED GIRL IN CITY HOSPITAL

She dropped the paper quickly. "The doctor told us about that girl last night," she said soberly. Then, caught by something in Doris' face, she asked, "But why should this interest me? Because Mrs. Blake was there?"

"Partly," Doris looked ill at ease, her round face grave.

Jessica picked up the paper, sat down and began to read.

The girl in the story had been unconscious when found, she could speak now but refused to say anything. She was horribly disfigured by burns on her face although her body was almost untouched by the fire. She would bear the marks of the fire forever. Her identity was a mystery.

No clue? Yes, there was a clue. The clue was the high point of the story. The girl wore a ring, an unusual and valuable ring, and by means of this ring the authorities hoped to solve her identity.

For an instant Jessica's horrified eyes stared unbelievably at an illustration and the words under it:

CAN YOU IDENTIFY THIS RING?

She could. There was no doubt in her mind about the ring's identity. It was her mother's ring which she had sold to the jeweler on Main Street. The ring Hugh Linton desired and had purchased.

Wartime Bomb Plant At McGregor Now Largest Farm Research Project

By MARTHA COLE
McGREGOR, TEXAS (AP)—Farmers have taken over a vast wartime ordnance works and set the TNT plant to turning out fertilizer for 17,000 acres.

Bluebonnet farm at McGregor, 20 miles west of Waco, in Central Texas, will be the nation's largest agricultural research project.

The farm was once the Bluebonnet Ordnance Plant, which sent 5,000,000 pounds of explosives to the South Pacific. The War Assets Administration kept the four bomb load lines and a booster explosive line to lease as separate plants to industrial firms.

Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College got the rest—17,483 acres (about 27.3 square miles) and 400 buildings.

"Eventually we intend to have the best research farm in the nation, as well as the biggest," said Supt. H. O. Hill.

The college acquired the farm in January. Right now it's mostly just empty buildings and fields covered with wild flowers and that haze of row crop farmers—Johnson grass.

239 Igloos

There are two groups of "igloos," 220 in all, rectangular rooms with thick concrete walls. Earth has been piled on three sides up to the roof and on the fourth side is an approach area and a door.

During the war bombs and the makings of bombs were stored there. Next year there'll be goats, sheep and cattle munching placidly in their pens around the shelters.

"Each flock we're experimenting with will have its own private apartment," Hill said. "One igloo for LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill has called on Britain's youth to give up dreams of emigrating and remain at home to help in the mother country's fight for economic recovery.

That fight, he said in a vigorous address to 8,000 members of young conservative clubs, will require the prompt ending of the Labor government's program of nationalization, and a defeat of Socialists in an early election.

The federation concluded its annual session here, naming Arch Harper of Lubbock as president.

Phaup was a tactical officer at Midland Army Air Field during World War II and saw several Midland Rodeos. He said he has seen several traveling rodeos in Richmond, but none will compare with the show presented in Midland.

While stationed in Midland, Phaup announced several football games for KORS. He now is manager of the program department of Richmond's WMBG.

DOWN SPORTS LANE with TANNER LAINE Citation began a brief, well-earned vacation Monday, praised as the greatest American thoroughbred race horse since the days of Man O'War more than 25 years ago. Fresh from his thrilling Belmont Stakes triumph Saturday, a victory which clinched the coveted Triple Crown, the Calumet Farm star prepared to move on to Chicago in search of further conquests. "That's the best we've ever had," said Ben Jones, Calumet general manager, after Citation's mile and a half victory in the Belmont. He's one of the best of all time." Son Jimmy Jones, the Calumet trainer, smiled and nodded agreement. "There's no doubt that Citation is the best horse seen on an American race course in many long years—one of 'the horses of our time,' Jimmy said. Citation is scheduled to leave Belmont Wednesday for Arlington Park, along with Armed, Faultless, and other members of the nation's most powerful racing stable. The Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont victor is getting a five week's rest before returning to the racing wars. His next major objective is the $60,000 added Arlington Classic July 31. Jimmy Jones said Citation probably would tune for this in the $25,000 Dick Welles Stakes at Arlington July 21. Then he will go after the $60,000 American Derby at Washington Park, Chicago August 28. Babe Ruth's uniform with the famous No. 3 on its back was officially retired Sunday. The occasion marked the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Yankee Stadium. In addition to Ruth, all the living members of the 1923 Yankee team were on hand as were stars of other Yankee teams, which included Bill Dickey, Babe, Lefty Gomez, Joe Gordon and many others. A crowd of about 50,000 defied rainy weather to witness the celebration. The fans nearly raised the stadium roof with a tremendous cheer when Babe was introduced. He came strolling out of the visiting team's dugout, wearing his familiar uniform and swinging a bat. He obliged photographers by posing for them with his familiar swing. Holdout— (Continued From Page One) mitted subgroup will hear contestants over delegate seats. Chief of these is a battle between Taft and Dewey followers to seat their delegations from Georgia which has 16 nominating votes. Taft personally will invade Dewey's stronghold for a New York City speech Wednesday before a convention of sales executives. The Republicans have picked all of their delegates, but the Democrats have slightly less than 100 to go in rounding out the list for their July 13 convention. President Truman, heading back toward Washington from his Western trip, apparently has about enough delegates in line to give him the nomination on the first ballot. But there are disputes not only over those simply claimed for the President but those formally pledged to him as well. As for the anti-Truman revolt in the South touched off by the President's Civil Rights program, two Dixie Democrats disagree in the radio broadcast Sunday over what effect it will have at the convention. Former Gov. Ellis G. Arnall of Georgia said he doesn't think the revolt will be able to stop Truman's nomination, and that if he is chosen the Southern states actually will vote for him in November. Final Speech But Senator Sparkman of Alabama insisted the revolt is real and that the South should try to get another man picked at the convention. Truman, taking a Sunday lull in his critical blasts at Congress, headed for Los Angeles and the fifth and final major speech of his trip. The President is due to return to Washington Friday. Highlight of the opening celebration was a radio program over KCRS, Midland, Sunday afternoon. Officials of the Kermit Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club, city, county, and schools were speakers. The $250,000 hospital opened Monday. One of the most modern institutions of its kind in West Texas, its opening marks completion of one of the first projects sponsored by the Kermit Chamber of Commerce. The Kermit Lions Club and other civic organizations assisted in getting a $350,000 bond issue for the hospital approved in 1946. Free medical care will be given the first maternity case handled by the hospital, according to a vote by the Board of Directors. John Reed of Kermit is president; other members are J. P. Moore, Harvey Mitchell and Clyde Bone of Kermit, and E. E. Bracken and Glenn Claiborne of Wink. Accidents— (Continued From Page One) ming hole near Waco, where he lived. Lee Radke, 17, slipped off the bank of an old gravel pit near Hillsboro and drowned in 17 feet of water. Others Deaths The body of an unidentified negro woman was found badly mutilated in a Dallas alley, and police said they arrested a negro suspect who admitted in a statement that he slashed the woman. Five-year-old Donald David Taylor's brain was punctured by a piece of wire while he was playing with several other small children at Aransas Pass. He died in a Corpus Christi hospital. His playmates were unable to explain how the accident occurred.

Congress— (Continued From Page One) the Communist Party and its activities. Also passed by the House but bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee with the cork likely to stay on. A bill to give states jurisdiction over submerged coastal oil lands. Known as the oillands bill, it has passed the House but appears fated for a Senate pigeonhole. Slim Chace. Anti-lynch and anti-poll tax bills. The former has a slim chance to win Senate approval but there are no plans to consider it in the House. The Subwinkle bill, to exempt from anti-trust prosecution rate agreements made by railroads with Interstate Commerce Commission approval. The President vetoed this last Saturday, and the Senate will decide Tuesday or Wednesday whether to override or sustain the veto. If the Senate overrides, the House probably will follow suit. Meetings Monday or Tuesday of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and of the House GOP Steering Committee will decide the final fate of many of the "doubtful" bills. The meetings also are expected to provide a definite answer to the question of whether Congress will adjourn next Saturday or recess and return after the Philadelphia political conventions.

Western Powers Take Offensive

By WES GALLAGHER.

BERLIN —(AP)—The Western Powers have taken the political offensive against Russia in Germany on a large scale for the first time since the end of the war.

This offensive is aimed at winning not only Western Germany politically but all of Germany including the Soviet-controlled eastern zone.

Soviet reaction to this offensive may tell whether the East and West are in danger of plunging into war in the near future.

This, in brief, is the significance in Germany of the recent six-nation conference in London. The conference laid down a blueprint for Germany's political and economic reconstruction.

It proposed the creation of a constitution and government on federal lines. It has been generally supposed this government was designed for the Anglo-American-French zones of Germany only.

But authoritative sources reveal no such limitation is intended. On the contrary the Germans will be encouraged to set up a government which can lay claim to representing all of Germany.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, said the Frankfurt government was intended to "take in as much of Germany as possible."

She said she did not know her arm had been broken until she left the theater.

State Prisoner Is Expert In His Work

HUNTSVILLE —(AP)—Prisoners at the main unit of the Texas State Prison here realize the nearby Sam Houston State College offers a lot of "book learning" but they've discovered one course that isn't offered.

It is how to open a safe when you don't know its combination.

Someone at the college athletic director's office recently forgot the combination to the office safe.

The safe was hauled to the nearby penitentiary where an inmate "expert" had it opened almost before the college men could tell what his trouble was.

The "expert" prefers to remain anonymous.

No reason was given for including western compositions for the first time. The audience of 3,000 seemed to like the idea.
