Texas Candidates Swing Campaigns Into High Gear

By The Associated Press
An old age pension of $50 a month was advocated Wednesday by Rep. Lyndon Johnson, candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Oske Stevenson, who is after the same job, was on record with an assertion that President Truman's civil rights program is "a political move."

George Paddy, another leading contender for the Senate post, again charged Stevenson with making secret promises to union labor leaders to secure their endorsement at Fort Worth a week ago.

Johnson, who Tuesday matched Stevenson's prediction of victory with one of his own, came out for higher old age pensions in a radio speech at Brownwood.

He said the $50 a month was needed to offset the cost of living increase.

Name-Calling Starts
Stevenson termed the civil rights program a "political move" at Galveston. He arrived there from Orange-Port Arthur - Beaumont area.

Paddy used Stevenson's name for the first time in a radio speech at Corsicana. In making similar charges earlier he had referred to him only as an opponent.

Meanwhile Casa March invaded Austin in his bid to be governor. Governor Beauford Jester, seeking reelection, released a statement of his own in the capital city.

Jester said living conditions in rural areas must be improved by providing more roads, better schools, public health and hospital programs, recreation activities and the other necessities for finer and happier living.

Expense Accounts
March proposed a new tax, one on the refining of gasoline, in a radio speech at Austin. He would use the revenue from his proposed tax on gasoline refining to pay a state G. I. bonus of $1 a day for every day spent in military service up to 18 months.

Campaign expenses and donations in first reports filed with the secretary of state yesterday showed:

Johnson spent $1,080 and received a donation of $1,000 from Mrs. Claudia T. Johnson, his wife. Stevenson reported expenses of $5,386 and Paddy $5,579.

March filed a report of $1,222 and said contributions amounted to $1,056. Roger Q. Evans, another candidate for governor, reported expenses of $2,679 and donations amounting to $1,222. Governor Jester's expenses were listed at $456.

Super-Cargo Planes Can Carry 222 Soldiers

The Douglas C-124 cargo aircraft, recently ordered for the U. S. Air Force, shows the great variety of loads it can carry. The big craft, 2 1/2 times larger than the war-famous C-54, has a built-in nose ramp, enabling it to accommodate heavy tanks, field guns and even bulldozers. Operating from the same size field as the C-54, the new plane is said to be able to carry a load of 50,000 pounds, or 222 fully-equipped troops, for a distance of 1,200 miles and return.

Don't Worry About Johnny's IQ Is Latest Advice Of Educators

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Don't worry too much about your child's IQ. He may be a mental giant one day and turn out to be a normal, or even a subnormal child, a week later.

It depends upon emotional factors, the kind of test taken, who gives the test and who interprets the results, says Sister Mary Corde Loring.

Sister Mary Corde of the faculty of Maryknoll Teachers College, Ossining, N. Y., asks in an article written for "The Catholic School Journal":

"What good is an IQ?" Her answer: "Not much good!"

An IQ short for Intelligence Quotient, is based on a series of mental tests and is supposed to show how intelligent a child is.

But, says Sister Mary Corde, unless the examinations are of the best, the tests given by qualified personnel, and the results interpreted by experienced teachers, "it is easy to see what grave injustice can be done to children."

It is common knowledge, she says, that obtained IQs vary from day to day and from year to year. Case histories show that children's obtained IQs may vary as much as 20 points due to emotional factors.

In School X, points out Sister Mary Corde, every child had been given a group mental test. It was

High-Topped Shoe Will Be Fall Favorite

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

You may take your choice next Fall between spat shoes, booties and buttoned footgear that requires an old-fashioned buttonhook.

There's news in the Fall shoe lineup, with new silhouettes, new colors, new leather combinations, new heel shapes. The shoe designers have decided it's high time they shared headlines with the dressmakers and the milliners. And this Fall headlines will go to the feet.

Biggest news in the Fall shoe story is the higher shoe, whether buttoned, buckled or laced. Closed toes and heels are the thing, and heels themselves take on new shapes, mostly the curved French type, in either medium or high styles.

There is a soft dressmaker look to most of the newest shoes, even those designed for wear with suits. Draped vamps, fabric and leather combinations, delicate strap and filigree treatments all contribute to a ladylike effect.

With all the new styles rampant, the pump remains the favorite shoe style for Fall—but it has a different last, a more pointed toe, a curved heel. Straps also are important in the Fall picture, from the one-strap pump to the bootie height with five or six straps from instep to ankle.

Ties and oxfords also are back, in both tailored and dressy styles. And prices—they're still up. In most cases a little higher than last season.

Schoch Warns Of Gas Depletion In Texas

AUSTIN —(P)—Unless consumption of natural gas is decreased, the age of chemical industries in Texas may soon be only a memory, veteran University of Texas Chemical Engineering Professor Dr. E. P. Schoch warned in a prepared statement Wednesday.

Doctor Schoch said statistics show the annual gas withdrawal is increasing more rapidly than the state's gas reserves.

The future of chemical industry is linked closely with that of gas production because "cheap natural gas is the largest material item that brought the chemical industries to Texas," he said.

Research into relieving the situation is in progress at the university, Schoch said.

Business Woman Solves Problem Of 'Birds And Bees' By Publishing Book

Lois Pemberton (right) and daughter, Rhonda: The psychologists wouldn't know where to begin.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There comes a day when every parent of an adolescent child must face the ordeal of a "little talk" on the facts of life. All parents dread it, most of them fumble it, and some skip it altogether.

Two years ago Lois Pemberton realized the time had come for that "little talk" with her daughter Rhonda. And being an efficient business woman, Miss Pemberton (the Miss is for professional purposes, and she has spent most of her working years in the promotion and public relations fields; went about her task in a business-like way.

The result is a book called "The Stork Didn't Bring You," which the Hermitage Press is publishing.

Miss Pemberton, who doesn't look much older than a bobby-soxer herself, began by getting a lot of books on sex education. She sent away for the booklets on the subject put out by the 48 state health departments. Having plowed through the required reading, she reached these conclusions:

Some of the books were aimed at parents rather than children.

Others obviously were written by physicians or psychologists with the principal purposes of impressing their colleagues.

Several dripped with saccharine sentimentality.

Some others were written in a way that would scare a child half to death.

There wasn't one that she could bring herself to give to Rhonda.

Next, Mrs. Pemberton talked to a number of parents whom she considered enlightened and progressive, and who had survived the "little talk" ordeal. But it turned out that they blushed and stammered and couldn't remember what they had said to their children.

So, the only thing that seemed left to do was tell Rhonda the facts of life as simply, frankly and intelligently as she could. The mother made a few notes on the essential information, and the daughter's questions suggested more notes. When it was all over Miss Pemberton had the old notes and a new idea—"Why not write a book?"

The writing job took six months. But the day she took an outline of Arthur Cepos, president of Hermitage Press, was only the beginning.

"I knew the book would be a very difficult job," Cepos says. "But after I had seen the first two chapters in the rough, I also knew that Pem could do it."

More Inflation

Prices are zooming again. The brief halt in this Spring's upward spiral was too good to be true. We're off for some more inflation.

Food prices are getting back to their all-time high of last Winter. Clothing is up, fuel is up, some rents are up, electrical gadgets are up, automobiles are up. Building materials, building labor and the overall cost of construction are climbing.

The third round of wages faltered temporarily, but as prices stiffened and began climbing employers found it hard to resist union demands, though it seems clear that the pay boosts will be reflected in more price boosts which will call for a fourth round of wage demands. And so on ad infinitum, which is how a Latin now might say "until something busts."

Closing one eye it is easy to see that workers ought to rescue the nation from inflation by passing up raises so as not to push up prices any higher. Obviously industry can't go on absorbing pay boosts forever. Closing the other eye it is easy to see that business ought to absorb rising costs for the good of the country. Obviously workers can't be expected to be satisfied with present pay scales when the cost of living goes up. Being realistic, it is safe to predict that workers will do their best to maintain their buying power, and capital will do its best to make a bit of profit above cost. The see-saw will keep going until one of two things happens.

The balloon may burst with a loud pop, and then we would have another depression. Or production may, eventually, satisfy the huge remaining demand for consumer goods. Then the curve ought to flatten out at some level of inflation yet to be determined.

Meanwhile our already too small supply of many items is called on to provide for the European-Relief Program. Our contribution to the ERP is not dollars. It is goods. It is 20 per cent of our cotton, close to five per cent of our coal, more than half of one per cent of our steel, eight per cent of our farm machinery, three per cent of our trucks, more heavy electrical equipment than we can spare.

The fundamental long-range reason prices are too high, and rising again, is because as a people we have more money to spend than our store-keepers have goods to sell. Take more off the store shelves, and the tendency will be for prices to rise yet higher.

This is no argument against ERP. The fate of the world and of our country depends upon the success of ERP.

It is an argument for making ERP work. Not as a relief program, though we want to give relief, but as a recovery program. The best thing ERP could do would be to make Europe self-sufficient, to the extent that she had something to sell us for everything we sell her.

We are paying billions in taxes to finance ERP. That is something to gripe about—as income tax installments come due. But the big price we may pay is in added inflation. For that, it is utterly essential that we get our money's worth in a sound, self-supporting, democratic Western Europe that will stand with us against all forms of authoritarianism including the Bolshevik.

A scientist contends that talking to one's self is no sign of insanity. That should make most of us feel better these days.

A cynic is a man who doesn't realize just how much obliged he really should be for living.

Don't blow up when your tire does. The opinions of those with you are much harder to change.

There ought to be some way to convince flies that human beings carry germs.

Hearing Scheduled On Steel Plant Transfer

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A War Assets Administration hearing was scheduled here Wednesday on complaints over management policies of the Lone Star Steel Company's government-built pig iron plant in Texas.

The complaints were made by Carl L. Estes, publisher of Longview, Texas.

War Assets Administrator Jess Larson said Estes charged company officials had failed to live up to public promises to employ war veterans and to deliver pig iron for veterans' home construction.

Final transfer of title to the $30,000,000 development at Daingerfield, Texas, is scheduled to take place Thursday at the plant. Estes requested that final disposition be withheld until a hearing was conducted on his complaints.

Yugoslav Reds Defy The Storm

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The alleged defection of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and his captains from the Red laws of the Moscow Kremlin still is surrounded with mystery, but this much is clear:

There is a break at a strategic point in the Bolshevik Western front:

This is the first serious setback of the kind which Russia has encountered among its slave states. The staid London Times, in an editorial headed "Tito Called to Heel," says: "Nothing so apparently unlikely has happened for a long time, and nothing so destructive of Communist unity since the expulsion of Trotsky by the Bolsheviks."

We have had a demonstration that the Bolshevik Maginot line is vulnerable.

The Yugoslav Communist Party Tuesday night showed its independence and defied the storm by rejecting the charges of the Moscow-dominated Cominform that Tito and his followers had departed from the Marxist line.

Berlin Crisis Grave
This Tito debacle certainly isn't calculated to strengthen the Bolsheviks' hand in their effort to achieve a political coup in Germany by a food blockade which threatens some 2,000,000 Germans in the American-British-French zones of Berlin with hunger, if not starvation.

A good many people are asking whether this atrocity is likely to result in war. I don't think so. The situation in Berlin is grave. However, there are no indications that the Muscovites intend to push the matter to the point of gunfire.

The Democracies are facing the issue with firmness and determination, though without rashness. They are reported to be planning tough diplomatic moves to force Moscow's hand. They also discussed the question of the United Nations being asked to take a hand, but decided that further efforts should be made to settle the imbroglio by direct negotiations among the Big Four before calling in the peace organization. However, the Berlin City Council asked the UN to intervene.

The whole nasty situation presents a picture which Moscow could take no pride in having framed for exhibition in the National Art Gallery.

HOUSTON LISTS EIGHT NEW CASES OF POLIO

The custom of embalming had its origin in ancient Egypt.

The DOCTOR Says Constant Fear Of Diseases Is As Bad As Illness Itself

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Some people make themselves miserable worrying about catching diseases. This is particularly true of those who read a good deal about various diseases. Physicians are not exempt from this kind of worry; one famous physician-scientist remarked that while studying medicine he imagined he had everything he read about except housemaid's knee!

There is a lot of difference between being afraid of getting every disease in the medical books and knowing that such diseases exist. Avoidance of careless exposure to disease is good. Also it is good to recognize serious symptoms early so that the disease responsible can get prompt treatment. Constant fear and worry about getting sick, however, does not accomplish anything worthwhile.

One should not forget that nature is a great healer. Most people who become sick, even with serious conditions, recover entirely. Others who fall ill progress to a stage where the disease from which they suffered has been conquered even though some bad effects may remain. Still others may even suffer serious effects such as the loss of a limb from disease or injury and yet be able to resume reasonably active and useful lives.

Another thing people should remember about the many diseases and injuries which may afflict mankind is, even though people could get a great many diseases they never do. The chances are that the average person will encounter only a few of the serious conditions described in the books.

The constant fear that one might catch plague, cholera, typhoid, tuberculosis, or whatnot is far worse than the actual danger to which we are exposed. The people who are always anxious are worse off than those who use reasonable precautions and then take their chances without undue worry. The worrier becomes what is known as a neurotic. The proper point of view to take is to use reasonable caution without constant anxiety.

'Stratovision' Brings GOP Convention To Midwest

The first full-scale demonstration of "stratovision" lifted television reporting of the GOP convention from the New York-Philadelphia area and, for the first time in history, boosted it into receivers as far west as Cleveland, Ohio. Long-distance television broadcasts hitherto have been impossible, because the broadcast area is limited to the distance of the horizon from the broadcasting antenna—generally less than 50 miles. A B-29, right, equipped as a broadcasting studio, flew in lazy circles 28,000 feet over the Pittsburgh-Morgantown area. The convention was televised over coaxial cable from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh through the air to the stratovision plane, which... casts to Cleveland. Winged television like this can broadcast to receivers within a 500-mile radius. The Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Company and Westinghouse Electric, which developed the aerial relay, visualize coast-to-coast broadcasting over a network of stratovision planes, as shown on map above, within a few years.

Heavies Hustle In Scramble For Bomber's Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been less than five days since Joe Louis laid his crown aside but already there is considerable stirring in heavyweight boxing ranks.

Here are the rapid fire developments:

1. Edward Charles, the Cincinnati light heavy who is rated a leading contender, is reported ready to "fight from one to 10" for the championship and, as a starter, is signed to meet Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland in Washington August 2.
2. Gus Lesnevich, the world's light heavyweight champion, who is one of the "big three" in the heavy picture that includes Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott, expressed delight over the prospect of a September bout with Walcott.
3. Walcott said he didn't think much of a proposed tournament to decide Louis' successor. He said he figured that his two bouts with the Brown Bomber earned him a sort of "crown prince" role and he should fight either Charles or Lesnevich, not both, for the title.
4. Jack Solomons, leading British promoter, counted himself in on the deal and announced he plans to have a part in the series to determine the new champion.

Bucky Says Yanks Will Win Again

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Bucky Harris of the New York Yankees put his neck in a noose Wednesday by predicting flatly his world champions would win the American League flag again.

This sudden burst of frankness might have been prompted by Tuesday night's victory over the formidable Boston Red Sox.

A season record Yankee Stadium crowd of 70,491 saw Ed Lopat hand-cuff the Sox with three singles. Ted Williams got one of them to extend his consecutive hitting streak to 15 games. But his average dropped three points to .412.

The victory enabled the Yankees to move into second place, six percentage points ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics and only one game behind the front-running Cleveland Indians.

Flycatcher Bobby Feller gave a display of his old-time form, pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 6-3 triumph over the Tigers in Detroit. Feller fanned eight and scattered eight hits in beating his old rival, southpaw Hal Newhouser.

Washington snapped the Athletics' seven-game winning streak, defeating Philadelphia 5-3.

The Chicago White Sox moved within two and a half games of the seventh place St. Louis Browns by defeating the Browns 4-1.

The first three teams in the National League had a bad day as Boston, St. Louis and Pittsburgh all went down to defeat.

The New York Giants piled five home runs to swamp Warren Spahn and the Braves 11-3 at Boston. Sid Gordon paced the Giants' 17-hit attack with two home runs, one with the bases loaded.

The St. Louis Cardinals were whipped 3-1 by the Chicago Cubs.

A pinch single by Howie Schultz in the fourteenth inning scored Ted Kluszewski from third with the run that gave the Reds a 6-5 victory over the Pirates in Cincinnati.

A two-base miff of a fly ball by centerfielder Carl Furillo paved the way for two Philadelphia runs which gave the Phils a 2-1 victory over the Dodgers.

Texan League—Buffs, Cats In Two-Way Scrap For Loop Lead

By The Associated Press

Houston picked up one percentage point in the Texas League Tuesday night, but faces a tough fight to keep the lead.

The Buffs collected only four hits off San Antonio's Emory Rudd and Ray Minor but managed to win 3-2. Second place Fort Worth withstood a four-run Tulsa rally to squeak out a 5-4 decision.

In two other games, Dallas climbed to within a half-game of fourth place by beating Oklahoma City 5-0, and Shreveport jumped on Beaumont 10-2.

More than just the league lead will hinge on the see-saw battle for first the next few days. The host team for the annual all-star game will be determined by the team on top after the July 4-5 holiday games.

Cloyd Boyer won his fifth game of the year in setting San Antonio down with six hits.

Fort Worth built up a 5-0 lead before Tulsa scored one in the seventh, then exploded for three more in the eighth.

The 1948 Famous Slugger Yearbook is out. We received a copy. It has a lot of Jim Prince in it.

Then we see Prince again on the page "Hall The Sweet Swingers of 1947." A head picture of Prince is shown along with Ted Williams and Harry Walker.

The yearbook, published by Hillier & Bradley Company, makers of the famous Louisville Slugger bats, contains a lot of baseball facts and figures, information and pictures. Some of this year's features are: "How To Bat" by Lefty O'Doul, major league batting champion; "Box Louisville Slugger Bats Are Made," major league batting stars of 1947, World Series facts, and many others.

Any of you fans who would like to see the book drop around here we will be glad to show it.

Wish all fans would call up and comment constructively when they disagree with us as did Al Kelley, one of Midland's fans.

Al disagreed with our selection of a Longhorn League All-Star team in the instance of Tom Traspueso, pitcher.

Traspueso, pitcher, with the good point: if player popularity, sportsmanship and ethics of baseball dominate a selection then Tony would not make the team.

We leave it at that. And we appreciate Al's point and his criteria of an All-Star ball player.

Bitter Reprieve

Belgium, President Roosevelt appeared before Congress this afternoon and asked for more than a billion dollars for arms to make this country impregnable," said the voice.

"Just to drown out our own voices," Sterling said. "It won't bother us if we sit over here." He led the way across the room to where he had been sitting, indicated a chair beside a low coffee table for Bindle.

"Why would it bother us?" Bindle said, walking toward the chair with withheld decision. "We ain't got much to say to each other. You know why I'm here."

"From the bar Sterling asked, 'Will it be soda or gingerale?' 'If it's all the same to you, I'll take it straight.'"

"Your hat and coat?" Sterling suggested, reaching out his hand. Both of Bindle's hands were deep in the side pockets of his coat. He freed his left hand and tossed his hat to a nearby pedestal. "I'll keep the coat," he said. "I shouldn't be long." He followed Sterling along the hall and into the library.

Again Bindle took sweeping inventory, halting just inside the large room. He frowned at the radio, its monotone of news announcements just barely audible.

"Sterling went to the radio... turned it up so that the announcer's voice became clear. 'While the Nazi hordes moved on through social meeting, even if it is nice in here. You got a phase, Sterling. You're based. Young. You ain't 50 yet are you?"

"Twenty-nine," Bindle had picked up a glass. He was holding it aloft, studying it against the blaze of ceiling light.

"Everything the best, Sterling. Even your glasses," Bindle set the tray and poured from the bottle. He swallowed his drink without a pucker. "Smooth," he said, setting down the glass.

HE fished a leather case from an inner pocket... took out a cigar. He held it up and admired it, much as he had admired Sterling's glass. It seemed to be a characteristic gesture. He employed the utmost care in stripping off the broad red and gold band from the fat cigar. For a moment he studied the band, then abruptly he was rolling it between his stubby thumb and fingers, and when it had become a small wad he dropped it into the ashtray on the coffee table.

Sterling came across with his lighter. Bindle had carefully bitten off the end of the cigar. Bindle gave attention to the lighting, made sure of an even ash.

"My one weakness, Sterling: good cigars." He filled his lungs with the heavy smoke, sent a huge puff eastward. The top of his head was relatively narrow, the more so because of sparsely spread hair marked by bald spaces above the temples.

The right temple was marked by a welt of scarred tissue. Sterling was studying Bindle through the cigar smoke, conscious that he was being studied in turn by those beady black eyes half covered by deceptively lazy lids.

"It's been a nice social visit, Sterling," Bindle spoke at last. "Now let's get to business. You know why I'm here."

should cover up the East and West cards. Otherwise, you will find it much of a problem.

West wins the king and ace of spades and declarer trumps the third spade. The problem is to see to it that declarer loses only one trump trick. The correct play is to go over to dummy and lead the nine of hearts. If East plays low, South must play low. West will show out, and then declarer is all right. If East covers the nine of hearts with the ten, South covers with the king. When West shows out, declarer goes over to dummy and plays another heart to the ace-eight.

Declarer must not take it for granted that the hearts will break three-one and lay down the king of hearts before going over to play from dummy. If he does, he will lose two heart tricks, which will defeat the contract.

Small Oranges Have Citrus Experts Baffled

LOS ANGELES—(P)—The mystery of California's midsize oranges has citrus experts baffled. For four years the state's Valencia oranges representing 55 per cent of the total crop have been steadily dwindling in size.

Things have reached the point where some critics have quipped that many current oranges could double for golf balls.

"Too much cold weather during the growing season may be the reason, but no one knows the positive answer," L. H. Wohlwend, general sales manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, explained.

The recent severe drought didn't help any. This season's Valencia are slightly smaller than the 1947 crop.

RELIQS BACK IN POLAND

WARSAW, POLAND—(P)—Personal properties of Tadeusz Kosciuszko, Polish hero who helped Americans win their independence, have come back to their rightful resting place. Flags, uniforms, rifles, souvenirs and trinkets which were carried out of Poland by the Germans have been recovered and placed in the Polish army museum.

The Rosetta Stone, containing inscriptions in three ancient languages, provided the key that unlocked the mystery of ancient Egyptian hieroglyphics.

Holy Land Under Uneasy Truce

Jews have been more successful militarily. They have kept their boundaries inviolate, overrun western Galilee, beat off Syrian and Lebanese invasion in north, pushed into Arab triangle, contained Egyptians in south, not lost single settlement in Negok.

Time is important Jewish ally. During truce Jews will consolidate and train military forces, make purchases abroad, erect new settlements of strategic points, expand and streamline government services.

Jews military record is more than matched by Arab in setting up Israel's government and putting it into operation.

Greater stumbling block to peace than existence of Jerusalem. Abdullah is determined to conquer it, Jews determined never to give it up. UN wants it internationalized.

Israel's only defeats—Kfar Etzion, Jerusalem's Old City, Sheikh Jarrah, Latrun—were all inflicted by Arab Legion. Outside the Legion, Arab war potential is weak.

Strongest hope for peace is direct negotiations between Israel and Trans-Jordan, only two states which have scored victories.

Map above shows how opposing Israeli and Arab forces lined up as trumpets blew the "Cease Fire" for the truce arranged by UN. It also highlights some of the factors that will decide whether the uneasy truce can be solidified into permanent peace.

Frugal Fuel Experts To Go On Annual Mileage Marathon

WOOD RIVER, ILL.—(NRA)—The nation's stingiest men with a gallon of gas are hiding inside their garages again with the shades pulled down, getting ready for their annual Mileage Marathon.

These fuel misers—a small group of oil company engineers, scientists and laboratory workers—are working in top secret, sunning up the family sedan for the big day. Late this month, 30 or more of them will start out over a carefully surveyed road course, each one trying to get further than the others on a single gallon of gas.

They can make a gallon last a long time.

In 1942, last year of the Marathon because of wartime gasoline restrictions, the winner averaged a startling 88.3 miles per gallon. In 1941 the prize mileage was 58.8 per gallon; in 1940, 55.7 miles; and in 1939 it was 49.7.

Although rules of the contest contain many complicated formulas and slide rule calculations, they are actually quite simple. No car may be lightened below its normal weight, no mechanical gadgets or "gas savers" may be used, and the fuel must be a regularly sold grade, not tampered with or improved with special ingredients.

Innocent Diversion
Started in 1939 as an innocent diversion for the annual picnic of the research laboratories of Shell Oil Company at Wood River, the Mileage Marathon stirred up a lot of interest.

Through each contestant closely guards the methods he uses to achieve maximum mileage, it is no secret that motors are tuned to watch-like precision, that every friction point is lubricated to perfection, that the driving speed is carefully calculated, and that techniques of starting, stopping and driving are studied in fabulous detail.

The laboratory men on a "scientist's holiday" keep slide rules hot with calculations and make many secret practice runs over the course at night to determine the most economical speeds and to perfect timing techniques.

The winner of the last Marathon averaged 14.95 miles per hour with a 1937 De Soto, while the second place finisher averaged 13.35 miles per hour with a 1940 Studebaker. Eleven different makes of cars were entered.

Stagger Average Owner
The amount of work which goes into each machine would stagger the average car owner, and the scientists admit their elaborate preparations have very little practical applications for ordinary driving. Since the marathon has but one idea—that of maximum mileage from one gallon of gasoline—every other consideration of motoring is given second place. Still, they say, the winner has shown that any driver can probably improve his mileage by keeping his car in top condition and by driving at moderate speeds.

Although each car is theoretically supplied with one gallon of gasoline, the actual amount measured into the tank is carefully calculated in relation to the weight of the machine. Based on complicated formulas, performance curves and handicap charts, the contest rules provide for enough fuel (again theoretically) to drive each car 26 miles.

College-Bred Felines Are Non-Meat Eaters

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—(P)—Eight college-bred cats have never tasted meat—mouse or otherwise—and don't seem to miss it.

The cats are full-grown and the first ever to be fed an entirely artificial diet since they were weaned. They live in cages at the Yale Nutrition Laboratory near hundreds of white mice and rats, but show only a neighborly interest. Their food consisted of a fatty, pasty ration composed of table sugar, casein from milk, mineral salts, lard, corn oil, and all the known vitamins. Although they never had meat or whole milk, their growth appeared to be normal. On 10-month-old tomcats weights 10 pounds, and had a thick coat of fur.

The cats are being studied by Dr. Willard A. Krehl, assistant professor of nutrition, and Isaac D. Weil, research assistant, of the department of physiological chemistry at Yale School of Medicine. The next question is whether the cats raised in the laboratory on artificial food can propagate themselves. One purpose of the nutrition studies was to learn exactly what the cat needs in food to grow and be healthy. Thousands of cat owners will be interested. Further, the cat may help answer some puzzles about nutrition in man and other animals.

Higher Meat Prices Predicted For Fall

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Agriculture Department predicted Wednesday that prices for meat-on-the-hoof, now at record levels, will go even higher this Summer and early Fall. That means a further boost in retail figures can be expected.

Prices of hogs, cattle and sheep jumped eight per cent between mid-May and mid-June as shipments to market dropped off and consumer demand for meat held strong. A further drop in supplies is expected in the months immediately ahead, the department said, adding that strong consumer buying could be expected to push retail meat prices still higher.

The department offered little hope for a material increase in meat supplies before 1950. It said cattle numbers are becoming smaller and smaller, with small prospect for a boost in hog shipment before late 1948.
