

Diplomacy Fails In Berlin Deadlock

Only Direct Action Holds Any Hope Of Breaking Blockade

BERLIN—(P)—Only two courses of action have any hope of breaking the Soviet blockade which is strangling this city and bringing Europe closer to war than at any time since Munich.

UN Council Orders Halt Of Holy War

LAKE SUCCESS—(P)—The Security Council Thursday night ordered the war in Palestine stopped. It was the strongest decision in United Nations history.

The 11-nation council gave the Jews and Arabs three days to cease firing and committed itself to back up the decision with force.

The final vote came on an American resolution after three days of debate. The ballot was 7 to 1 with only Syria in opposition.

The Soviet Union and Argentina abstained. The Soviet affirmative voters—just enough to approve the plan—included the United States, Britain and France.

It marked a British break with the Arab world, but during the closing hours of debate, Sir Alexander Cadogan sought to soften the blow by explaining carefully that his government was not endorsing any suggestion that the Arabs are the aggressors.

Israel is expected to comply with the order. Arab delegates have told the council they could see no chance of the Arab countries accepting.

Under the council order, failure of the Arab side to comply within three days automatically "demonstrates" breach of world peace. The council then is committed to immediately consider invoking its most potent weapons under the UN Charter—diplomatic sanctions, economic sanctions and international land, sea and air forces.

The most drastic would be to send an armored column up the International Highway leading to the city, announcing to the Russians the Western Allies will fight their way through if necessary.

This would leave it up to the Soviet Union whether they want war or peace.

There is every indication they want peace and would not fight. However, the risk of war is always there.

The second action that could be taken would be for the Western Powers to assert the same type of "technical" questions on the Soviet Union in the rest of the world that the Russians are exerting.

Technical difficulties might be found with the accreditation of Soviet representatives in Japan, making it necessary for them to leave. Soviet ships could be held indefinitely in quarantine in U. S. harbors.

The Panama Canal could develop the same type of trouble as Germany's canal leading to Berlin. It is believed here that, until measures of this kind are taken—making the Soviet Union weigh the cost of the blockade against losses elsewhere—no end can be achieved to the stalemate.

Fresh Disorders Break Out As Italian Strike Is Halted

ROME—(P)—Fresh disorders erupted in Italy Friday as a Communist-led general strike sputtered to a halt.

The Communists called off the strike after Premier Alcide de Gasperi's government said it would use force to break the "insurrection."

The official end of the walkout at noon came amid scenes of wild tumult in the Chamber of Deputies where Christian Democrats and Communists engaged in fist fights.

There was repeated in miniature the strike-bred disorders which had swept the country for 36 hours.

At least 13 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in the Communist-sparked rioting. Even before the hour set by the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGIL) for the end of the walkout, the strike virtually had collapsed.

A back-to-work movement began late Thursday. The CGIL knuckled under when de Gasperi's government stood firm against this most serious challenge yet to its authority.

In the last hours of the strike 16 persons were wounded, three seriously, in a gun battle in Bologna. Police used their guns on strikers after they were fired on from the windows of the Chamber of Labor office there.

Disorders also occurred in Milan and Palermo as die-hards strove to enforce the walkout right up to the noon hour. Authorities regained control of Genoa, one of the major trouble spots.

Togliatti's Condition Worsens Police and troops moved vigorously in putting down rioting, arresting strikers who resisted them. This was in line with the get-tough policy outlined by Interior Minister Mario Scelba and de Gasperi.

The strike followed an attempt two days ago on the life of Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti. A physician's bulletin said Togliatti had passed a "rather agitated night" and that his general condition was more depressed. "Bronchopneumonia" developed at the base of the lungs, the bulletin noted.

Earthquake Tremors Hit Central America

CLEVELAND—(P)—Two earthquakes, occurring in or near Mexico or the Gulf of Mexico, were recorded Friday by John Carroll University's seismograph.

Seismologist Henry F. Birkenhauser said that if the shocks took place on land, as was believed the case, they probably caused some damage.

The first tremor was recorded at 1:15 a. m. (CST) and the second at 1:21 a. m.

Republicans Whet Knives At 'Turnip Day' Congress Recall

WASHINGTON—(P)—Republicans whetted their legislative knives Friday to chop down any political crops which may sprout from President Truman's "turnip day" recall of the 80th Congress.

Vigorously they assailed Truman's summons to return July 28 as "cheap politics" but they also dropped broad hints that if there is any vote harvest to be gathered in the special session it will not be a one-party reaping.

One member of the House Republican Steering Committee, who refused to allow use of his name, suggested that GOP lawmakers may open some investigations of the Democratic Administration. Just what might be investigated he did not say. But he told reporters one or two good investigations could provide a lot of campaign ammunition for the Republican Party.

In Missouri, the President said, July 28 is "turnip day"—the best day to sow seed for a good harvest. But it was clear that in calling back Republican lawmakers on that date to make good on their platform promises it was a Democratic vote harvest Truman had in mind.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was silent on the special session call. From all sections of the country GOP Senate and House members sounded a mounting chorus of opposition to the special session. To some, resuming the lawmaking chores which they considered finished June 30 will mean simply a halt to their vacations. But to more it will mean a halt in campaigns for November reelection.

Short Circuit Blamed For B-29 Crash Fatal To Nine U. S. Airmen

SALINA, KAN.—(P)—A short-circuit in its electrical system was blamed Friday for the flaming crash of a B-29 in which nine crew members were killed and another injured critically.

Col. Leslie C. Mulzer, commander of the 301st Very Heavy Bombardment Squadron at Smoky Hill Army Air Base, said an electrical fire broke out in the rear section of the bomber as it was making its final run to land at the base late Thursday.

Three crew members escaped with minor injuries by parachuting when the plane was less than 1200 feet from the earth.

Colonel Mulzer explained that all crew members on B-29's carry parachutes but because of the low altitude of the bomber when the fire was discovered the others obviously lacked time to bail out before the crash.

None of the crewmen were Texas residents.

WEATHER Partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers Friday night and Saturday in North and Central portions of West Texas. Not much change in temperature. Maximum temperature Thursday was 96 degrees, minimum 74 degrees. Minimum Friday was 74 degrees.

Strikes In Italy

(NEA Radio-Telephoto by Julius Huml, Staff Correspondent) Marching in protest parade on the second day of a general strike that almost paralyzed all of Italy before it was called off, Communists carry a large portrait of Palmiro Togliatti, their wounded leader, through the streets of Rome. The strike was ordered in retaliation for the attempted assassination of Togliatti.

Three-Day Rites Planned For Burial Of Pershing

WASHINGTON—(P)—The most elaborate military funeral since the burial of the unknown soldier was being prepared Friday for General of the Armies John J. Pershing.

The ceremonies will cover a three-day period. Thousands of Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force troops will take part in them.

From posts hundreds of miles away they are already being drawn into the capital for a last and vast national tribute to the gallant World War I commander who died Thursday at Walter Reed Army Hospital here.

Detailed funeral plans announced Friday by the Army, fixed the start of ceremonies for Saturday.

Pershing's body, clad in standard blouse and pinks of an Army officer, will then be taken to the chapel at Walter Reed. There relatives, close friends and long-time fellow-patients at the hospital will bid him farewell.

At noon Sunday, the general's body will be taken to the capitol grounds, there to lie in state 24 hours.

For two intervals during the 24 hours, the public will be permitted to file past for a last look at the austere old officer.

The military cortege that will tread slowly up Pennsylvania Avenue—the "Route of Presidents"—to Arlington National Cemetery Monday will include the customary sad remembrance for a dead cavalryman—a riderless horse.

The horse will be black, his trappings black, the saddle empty, the stirrups reversed. Thus Pershing, who began his Army career as a cavalry officer, will end it with a token of the old-time cavalry near at hand.

President Truman will be there, with the Cabinet and other high officials.

LONDON—(P)—The U. S. Embassy said Friday 60 American Superfortresses are flying to Britain to increase the European Air Force of Lt. Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of U. S. Air Forces in Europe.

The announcement said the B-29's are coming to England for a short period of temporary duty. They already are on the way, the Embassy said.

Five Persons Die In Airplane Crash

JUNCTION CITY, O.A.—(P)—Five persons were killed Friday when a converted Army training plane crashed in wooded area near Junction City and burned.

The bodies were burned beyond recognition but Marvin J. Hester, rural storekeeper, said the victims appeared to be three adults, a small boy and a baby.

Truman's Foreign Policy: Others Ran It

By PETER EDSON

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The outstanding fact about President Harry S. Truman's administration record in foreign policy is that, by and large, he has let people who knew more about it than he did run it.

Historians will record some pretty important developments in U. S. foreign policy in the first four post-war years: The so-called Truman Doctrine of aid to Communist-threatened countries in danger of losing their independence, the so-called Marshall Plan for aid to Europe, U. S. trusteeship over the Pacific Islands, the British Loan, unification of Western Germany and currency reform in that area, the shaping of atomic energy policy at home as well as abroad, the Rio and Bogota Pan-American Conference declarations, the Geneva and Havana conferences which drafted the International Trade Organization charter, the San Francisco Conference which drafted the United Nations Charter, the setting up of the United Nations as a going concern.

Practically the first thing Harry Truman had to do when he took over the Presidency after Roosevelt's death was make the decision on whether to go ahead with the San Francisco Conference.

Tough With Molotov He decided it should go on. What's more, he prevailed upon Stalin to send Molotov to the conference to signify Russia's full participation. What's still more, when Molotov arrived in Washington on his way to San Francisco, he saw the President three times. In these conferences Truman talked to Molotov in pretty tough terms, telling him—for the first time that anyone had dared lay down the law to the Russians—just what they would and could not have in the United Nations Charter.

As long as Truman confined his conduct of foreign policy to this simple and direct support of policies worked out by his experts, the President got along all right.

In the selection of his top advisers and administrators in foreign affairs, the President's record generally is good. He inherited E. S. Stettinius as Secretary of State. Kicking Stettinius upstairs to be the first U. S. representative at the United Nations, Truman appointed James F. Byrnes.

Byrnes spent most of his time away from his office, conferring in the Council of Foreign Ministers and getting agreement on the first peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland. In his absence, the man who ran the State Department was Under-Secretary of State Dean Acheson. And the credit for planning and directing the major constructive policies of the Truman administration probably

ONCE FELT MISERABLE; RETONGA GAVE RELIEF

Plagued By Nervous Indigestion for Many Miserable Years, California Woman Describes Relief Brought Her by Retonga.

"It's hard to express in words the grand relief Retonga brought me after years of awful discomforts from nervous indigestion," rejoices Mrs. Grace Vreeland, respected resident and home-owner of 636 E. 78 Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Vreeland describes her case as follows: "I would blot up terribly after almost every meal and suffered agonies from gas pains. The hours I lay awake seemed like ages and I felt so fatigued and sluggish that I'd put off doing my housework as long as I could. My bowel action was very poor, so I had to resort to regular doses of harsh laxatives. None of the medicines I tried seemed to do me much good, until I tried Retonga.

"The relief Retonga brought me was just too grand to describe in words. I can now eat almost anything without fear of discomforts afterwards. I have no trouble sleeping, feel full of pep and able to do my housework as it should be done. My constipation has been relieved. Too, I feel wonderful and my husband says he can see a big difference in me since I started Retonga."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, borderline Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. If the first bottle fails to give you gratifying relief, your money will be refunded. You can get Retonga at all good drug stores, including Midland Drug Co. —(Adv.)

It Couldn't Happen, but It Did

The chances were decidedly against a shiny new 1948 car crashing into a dusty old 1898 cabriolet, but it did. It happened in New York, where the ancient horse-drawn vehicle carries passengers around Central Park. The car, which had been stolen, slammed into the cabriolet, but no one was injured.

With The Voyageurs—Midland Scouts Cross Oklahoma Enroute To Camp

EMPORIA, KAN.—The Midland "Voyagers," members of Explorer Scout Post No. 85 of Midland, spent Thursday night at Dryer Park here, arising early Friday to continue their trip to the Border Lakes region of the U. S. and Canada. After arriving here late Thursday, the Midlanders swam in the YMCA pool and visited with Ed Mammon who soon will take a group of Kansas Scouts to the Wilderness Canoe Base in Minnesota. The Voyageurs left Midland Wednesday afternoon, and spent that night in Palo Duro State Park between Plainview and Amarillo. They had breakfast Thursday in Amarillo before driving east on U. S. 66 Highway to Clinton, Okla. They continued on to Selling, Okla., in time for lunch. During the afternoon they drove through the Oklahoma dust bowl to Enid where they turned north on U. S. 81, arriving in Wichita, Kan., in time for dinner at La Petite Marmite. The 15 Midland Scouts, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith and Al Kelley, are traveling in three automobiles furnished by Kelley, Ben Gray and Goodrich Hejl. They are scheduled to arrive at their Wilderness Canoe Base late Sunday.

Veterans Treated For Syphilis May Still Have It

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Thousands of veterans who took the Army's penicillin cure for syphilis may still have the disease without knowing it, the Veterans Administration said Friday. The agency urged veterans to check periodically with their private physician or local health department. The VA said in a news release: "Contrary to the popular belief that penicillin is a cure-all for venereal disease, between 20 and 30 per cent of the cases treated with the drug are reported to be 'failures.'" Furthermore, said Dr. Bascom Johnson, Jr., the agency's assistant chief of syphilology, penicillin treatment for gonorrhea in many cases might have masked the presence of syphilis. "The comparatively mild dosage for gonorrhea would not cure syphilis contracted at the same time," Johnson told a reporter. "Veterans who contracted gonorrhea during the war and who did not have follow-up blood tests for syphilis once a month for four months should undergo checkups." Medical authorities estimated the number of U. S. servicemen treated for venereal disease during the war at 800,000. Penicillin treatment, to be successful, must extend over a period of months, officials said. In persons who falsely believe they have been cured, the infection may spread, assume the symptoms of other diseases and ultimately induce insanity by attacking the brain. Johnson said preventive treatment is of utmost importance in meeting the threat, 20 years hence, of widespread insanity among veterans currently infected with syphilis. Veterans must obtain this treatment privately however. VA is restricted to treatment of active ailments and is forbidden to go into preventive medicine, Johnson said. Furthermore, VA limits its treatment of venereal disease to patients who have proof they contracted the disease in connection with military service.

Jews Announce New Air Raids On Egypt; Arabs Flee Jerusalem

CAIRO —(AP)— The Israeli high command announced in Tel Aviv its planes attacked Egypt for the second time and dropped seven tons of bombs Friday on Tell El Arish Airfield near the Palestine border. The announcement said the raid caused heavy damage. At the same time, it announced a new Egyptian air attack on the Tel Aviv area Friday. The Jews struck from the air at Cairo Thursday night in the first attack of the Palestine war on the Egyptians' capital. Details of the attack, which followed an Egyptian air raid on Tel Aviv, were not announced. Moslem Brotherhood demonstrators protested Jewish shops in Cairo in an angry protest against the attack on the capital. The crowd of 1,000 gathered in front of the Al-Azhar Mosque and attempted to march down Al-Azhar Street in the commercial district. Police charged with clubs and dispersed the crowd. A Haifa dispatch said Israeli forces smashed Arab resistance at Treh, four miles south of Haifa, and eliminated the last threat to their supply highway between Haifa and Tel Aviv. In Western Galilee, heavy fighting was reported by a Lebanese communique.

Example For Campaign

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has taken credit, without too much dispute, for inaugurating a bipartisan foreign policy during the 1944 presidential campaign.

For it was General Marshall who asked Governor Dewey to cancel a projected speech in which the Republican nominee was about to disclose that his opponent's government had cracked the Japanese code before Pearl Harbor.

Now General Marshall, as secretary of state, has once again made a proposal to halt politics at the water's edge. And again Governor Dewey is cooperating.

In 1944 our foreign policy was chiefly concerned, of course, with the defeat of two enemy powers in world conflict, and with the integration of our efforts with those of our allies to achieve that end.

This year the United States is not expending its blood and treasure to preserve its national existence. The nation is at peace, but the peace is an uneasy one.

For this reason it is more difficult to preserve a bipartisan foreign policy in 1948 than it was in 1944.

But today there are those—conservative Republicans and radical former Democrats—who would have us abandon free nations to a threatened loss of freedom.

Against this background of possibility, it is encouraging to see that Marshall, as the President's chief aid in foreign affairs, and Dulles, as Governor Dewey's chief adviser in the same field, are going to work together at a level above the coming months' political turmoil.

It is as important now as it was four years ago that our basic foreign policy should not be torn apart by domestic politics. For today this nation and every other nation are like families living in an apartment house with thin walls.

So let us hope that the example set by Secretary Marshall and Dulles may serve as a bipartisan pattern between now and November. Few holds will be barred in the major parties' quest for domestic victory.

Midland County Deputy Sheriff Ed Edwards and Bill Felts manned the police station while the regular police staff attended the barbecue.

Radio Political Talks Bring 'Static' From Hot Program Listeners

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

A couple of radio executives give us the word that political candidates pick their broadcast time with great caution, mindful of the fact that when they replace a popular program it costs votes.

Time listeners, it would seem, are likely to scratch the name of the one who does them out of latest installment of their favorite mystery or soap opera.

Candidates really stay clear of replacing the hot programs, one of the radio experts told us. "When they do step in and take away the time of a popular show, our switchboard is flooded with complaints."

The politicians are fortunate in one thing—this is Summer time and some of the best of the radio shows are taking a vacation.

Radio stations are not compelled by the Federal Communications Commission to sell radio time to any candidate. If they sell time to one candidate, however, they must make an equal amount of time available to his opponents during a similar broadcast period.

The Station Decides
Should a candidate desire to take over the time of a network show, it is up to the radio station to decide whether or not to sell him this particular time. If the station decides "on the basis of public service, convenience and necessity" to allow the candidate to buy the time, the station advises the network the regular show will be replaced. That's all there is to it—the station has the say in what it's going to broadcast.

About charges: Politicians for state or national offices pay more for radio time than the candidates for city or county offices.

One of the radio men told us the staff of his station always enjoys the situation when two candidates for an office happen to be at the station at the same time.

"While one of the candidates is broadcasting and the other is waiting his time to talk, they watch each other through the glass partitions."

Johnson Attends Funeral Of Relative

GREENVILLE, TEXAS (AP)—Lyndon Johnson, candidate for the Senate, interrupted his campaign tour Friday to attend funeral services for a relative at Blanco, Texas.

The candidate, who spoke here late Thursday and spent the night here, said he hoped to talk at El Paso at 4 p. m. Friday and at Wichita Falls Friday night. Johnson is attending funeral services for his uncle, Sterling Price of Austin, a retired State Land Office employe.

Johnson said the number one job facing the United States now is the creation of an impregnable defense. He proposed that "energy and attention" should be concentrated on that job.

The candidate made a speech of less than five minutes here after his helicopter landed on the market square. He told an audience of about 1,000 persons he "already made it speeches today and I'll make this one short."

The DOCTOR Says

Diet Of Expectant Mothers Requires Careful Attention

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The diet in pregnancy is important because the needs of two must be supplied. The infant is starting from scratch and has to build bone, muscles, organs and all the other tissues. The rate of growth of the fetus (unborn child) is terrific, and it needs a lot of different substances in a hurry. If these substances are not supplied in the mother's diet, the child takes them away from the mother at the expense of her own health and nutrition.

Calcium for bone production and iron are examples of substances particularly needed. Physicians recognize this and urge plenty of milk and vegetables in the diet. There is some difference of opinion on the exact amount of meat and other protein foods necessary, but there is no doubt that larger quantities of proteins are needed by women when pregnant than at other times.

Don't Eat Too Much
Although the diet must supply adequate quantities of certain substances to both mother and to infant, there is no excuse for tremendous overeating. Nature endows most pregnant women with excellent appetites and if they eat all they wanted most of them would eat too much.

As one writer put it, the pregnant patient does not have to eat for two her own size. The gain in weight caused by the growth of the child alone usually does not amount to much more than about 15 pounds. Any weight gained beyond that amount is the mother's and consists principally of fat.

Some obstetricians feel there is no need of total weight gain greater than 30 or 35 pounds during the entire pregnancy. If the diet supplies the necessary minerals and other needs of the child the excess weight gained by the mother is likely to be a drag on her both during the pregnancy and afterwards.

A pregnant woman should be guided by the advice of her obstetrician in matters of diet, as in other aspects of her motherhood.

Texas League— Buffs, Oilers Gain On Cats

By The Associated Press
If the Houston Buffs want to climb back into second place in the Texas League they'll have to knock Tulsa out. They get the first of three chances to do this Friday night in Houston.

Tulsa and Houston both won Thursday night to move into their series with the Oilers sporting an eight percentage point advantage. Tulsa defeated San Antonio 8-4, and Houston beat Oklahoma City 5-2.

In other games, Shreveport dropped league-leading Fort Worth 8-3, and Beaumont handed Dallas a 5-2 licking.

an important win to the Cleveland Indians' pennant drive.

When Veeck, Tribe president, signed the ageless negro pitcher to his first major league contract on July 7, some observers said it was just another of Veeck's stunts to keep the turnstiles humming.

But Paige is demonstrating he still has some stuff in his right arm which critics allege is anywhere from 39 to 50 years old.

Paige shuffed out of the bullpen in Philadelphia's Shibe Park Thursday night in the second game of a twilight-night doubleheader against the second-place Athletics and gained credit for an 8-5 Cleveland victory.

The triumph enabled the Indians, who won the first game 6-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Crenshaw, to increase their first-place margin over the Athletics to two and one-half games.

The twin setbacks to the A's margin over the third place New York Yankees to one percentage point as the world champions beat the St. Louis Browns 4-2.

The Boston Red Sox took a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 13-3 and 3-1.

Rae Scarborough hurled the Washington Senators to a 4-1 seventh-inning conquest over the last-place Chicago White Sox.

The Boston Braves pulled six games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League's pennant race, beating and tying the Chicago Cubs while the Pirates split with the New York Giants.

Johnny Sain posted his twelfth victory 2 to 1 in the first game, allowing seven safeties. The second game was called at the end of 13 innings because of darkness with the score tied 1-1.

The Pirates clipped the Giants 4-3 in the first game. Ralph Kiner blasted his twenty-fourth home tripper for the Pirates in the eighth inning to tie the Cincinnati's Hank Sauer for the major's home run leadership. Ray Poat hurled the Giants to a 10-3 triumph in the second game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers moved into a fourth-place tie with the Giants, beating the Reds 5-3.

At St. Louis, Dutch Leonard hurled the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-1 victory, over Harry Brecheen and the Cardinals.

Durocher, Ott, Shotton In Shake-Up

NEW YORK —(P)— Mel Ott resigned Friday as manager of the New York Giants and was succeeded by Leo Durocher, whose job as pilot of the Brooklyn Dodgers was turned over to Burt Shotton.

Shotton was pulled out of semi-retirement a year ago by Brooklyn and led the club to the pennant after Durocher was suspended by Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Durocher had been manager of the Dodgers, the Giants' arch rival, since the start of the 1939 campaign. Ott has been boss of the Polo Ground outfit since 1942. He joined the club as a player 23 years ago, when only 17.

The announcement of Durocher's resignation and Shotton's return to the Dodgers was made by President Branch Rickey at Cincinnati. He flew there from Brooklyn after conferring with Durocher Thursday night.

Ott, one of the best liked members of the baseball fraternity, will take a brief vacation and then return to the Giants staff in a capacity still not determined.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, said Durocher would take over the club Friday night in Pittsburgh. Shotton is expected to take over direction of the Dodgers at once in Cincinnati.

TRY AGAIN FRIDAY—

Sports Take Opener, 7-4

At 8:30 p. m. Friday in Indian Park here the home Indians again vie with invading Sweetwater's Sports. It is the second game of a scheduled four-tit engagement. A doubleheader is slated Saturday, beginning at 7 p. m.

In 13 games played this season, Midland has won four and Sweetwater nine.

A hit batsman, a fielder's choice, a double, a walk, a triple and an error by Midland brought Sweetwater four runs in the first half of the first inning Thursday night and the Sports went on to win over the Indians 7-4 in a series opener in Indian Park. The double was by Dunlap and scored one. The triple was by Jackson and scored two.

Perry's error of E. Peacock's bullet scored the fourth run.

With such a nice lead, Claude Horton, veteran hurler just out of the Texas League, kept the Indians quiet except in the fourth, when they notched three counters. Horton bested rookie Sam Van Hooser of the Tribe although both gave 10 safeties.

The only time Midland was in the ball game was in the fourth. Jakes grounded out. Presley walked. Prince hit a long-ball homer over the centerfield wall. Nipp singled. Perry grounded out. Specht singled scoring Nipp. Van Hooser struck out.

Collins Doubles

The Tribe notched one run in the seventh. Specht hit. Van Hooser hit into a double play. Mellilo singled. Collins doubled scoring Mellilo. Jakes struck out.

Sweetwater, which has had Midland's number all season, counted four big ones in the first, added one each in the third, fifth and sixth frames.

Towry ousted Charley Tims of Arlington 6 and 5 Thursday while Crannell battled to a one up, 36-hole victory over Gervis McGraw of Abilene.

Both finalists are members of North Texas State College's crack links team.

WT-NM League— Lamesa Lobbies Loss Seventh Straight

By The Associated Press
Lamesa lost its seventh straight game Thursday night, bowing to Abilene 10-0 as Burns Coopland pitched a two-hit shutout. Coopland struck out 13 batters.

Face-setting Albuquerque had little trouble with Clovis, winning 10-1; Pampa nosed out Lubbock 7-6, and Amarillo downed Berger 14-1.

Virgil Richardson hit a three-run homer for Lubbock in the third.

Buck Lewis and Paul Halter hit home runs with two men aboard in a six-run seventh inning that saved up Amarillo's decision over Berger.

Longhorn League— Broncs Stretch As Tribe Drops

By The Associated Press
Big Spring's Broncs walked off with an 15-3 victory over Odessa Thursday night and increased their Longhorn League lead to four games.

The second-place Oilers get two more chances Friday night and Saturday to see if they can't whittle the Broncs to size.

Del Rio defeated Vernon 5-2, while Sweetwater edged Midland 7-4 and San Angelo beat Ballinger 16-9.

Abilene Netter Plays In Navy Semi-Finals

The other semi-finalists are Chief yeoman Edward J. Serues of Hingham, Mass., and Lt. K. K. Jones of the Anacostia Air Base, Washington, D. C., and Abilene, Texas.

During the recent Odessa series the Indians drew 4,000 for three games. That is an average of over 1,400 per game. You will remember the stands bulged all three engagements, two nights and a Sunday afternoon.

When you consider that home game attendance in Indian Park last year was something over 30,000 for the season, attendance this campaign is better.

Playing Del Rio right on the heels of the hot Odessa series, the Tribe drew 1,200 paid admissions in two nights.

ROUND'N' UP THE STRAYS

Ralph Blair is resting his pitching arm for 10 days. The scrappy little right-hander, 10-game winner, had the hitting score wing from Webb but the skipper found it out. Texas Centennial Smith, that's his right name, is one of the pop boys at Indian Park and is a good seller. He lives baseball and he loves to be around the players and soak up the life of the game.

R. Logsdon is an ardent Midland fan and he believes the boys should earn an extra prize or so for extra base hits. Introducing Jimmy Chauncey who will be bat boy of the Indians while regular Pete English is on vacation (Buchanan Dam, fishing). Gordon Headlee, all-state guard from Odessa, will enter SMU in September, a Dallas Mustang supporter reports.

Jess G. (Buck) Munday of Pampa will be line coach in football and head track coach at Schreiner Institute, J. J. Delaney of the school announced. This column prematurely picked a Longhorn League All-Star set of teams and we wrongly grouped the combination cities. We grouped Midland, Odessa, Big Spring and Del Rio as a West unit, whereas the League grouped Sweetwater with the first three we named and put Del Rio with Vernon, Ballinger and San Angelo. Now in just what way is Del Rio East, we ask the League?

Scientists Object To Handling Of 'Loyalty Tests'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Some atomic scientists are objecting to the way the government has handled accusations against the loyalty and character of people working on secret atomic projects. The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has not disclosed how many employes may have been released for security reasons. Some scientists say that because there has been no announcement it is likely not more than a very few people, if any, have been dismissed.

But M. Gerson and M. L. Lesser, atomic scientists at Oak Ridge, Tenn., writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, say two research men at Oak Ridge have been suspended pending a hearing and six others notified there is "uncertainty" over their cases. T. E. DeWitt, assistant professor of chemistry and member of the Institute of Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago, says in the same issue that several employes in the Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago; several at the Brookhaven, N. Y. laboratory and one at the Hanford, Wash., plant also have been notified.

Atomic officials who were asked about this said it is the policy of the commission not to comment on any loyalty cases. They added that the issue is not over the giving away of atomic secrets to spies or other governments. Such a case probably would be a criminal one, handled by the courts.

But the Atomic Energy Act requires the AEC to keep a check on the character, loyalty and associates of the thousands of persons working in atomic plants and related projects who have access to secret information. The main purpose is to weed out any likely to become disloyal in the future, or ones who may carelessly give out secrets by accident—just by talking too much. Rules for Local Hearings

The Commission has issued a set of rules, called the Interim Procedure, for local hearings. Analyzing the situation and the hearings that have been held, Gerson and Lesser, members of the Association of Oak Ridge Engineers and Scientists, propose some changes. These are based on a study made by a group of Association members. They say two problems are involved:

1. Dealing with people who disclose atomic secrets. Who under the AEC Act would be tried in courts of law? 2. Constantly checking employes to be sure they are and will remain completely trustworthy.

"We are concerned with the way in which the second principle can, in practice, be abused," the two men write. "Assuring that employes are completely trustworthy may be changed to assuring that employes hold exactly the same political opinions as those held by persons in political power."

They recommended that all accusations be backed up by witnesses; that the prosecution be required to prove the accusations are true, as in a court of law, and that the prosecution be required to explain why the accusations, if true, might lead to a future disloyal act. Under present rules, prosecution witnesses are not necessary. Thus the accused may not have the chance to confront his accuser, may not even know who he is. Officials of the AEC say this is necessary because:

1. They do not have authority to subpoena witnesses. 2. The FBI investigates the cases, and the FBI feels it is necessary to protect the people who give it information. Furthermore, AEC spokesmen say, the accusations are not "charges," in the legal sense, but represent information about an employe which it seems necessary to have the employe explain. But Lesser and Gerson say an adverse decision can seriously cut the earning power of an employe, because the Bulletin article suggests all decisions should be subject to review by federal courts.

The employes now has the right to appeal to the commission's personnel security review board, headed by former Justice Owen J. Roberts, but not to the courts.

A statement by the Oak Ridge association says at least some accusations are no more than "unsubstantiated" rumors. AEC officials emphasize these accusations did not come from the commission itself but are statements from people who know the employes involved and in the interests of security must be investigated. They also emphasize they want to work out a way to do this which will be least objectionable to atomic workers. Present rules, they say, are subject to any change that might ease some of the problems.

Mobile, Alabama, Expands Rapidly

MOBILE, ALA. — (AP) — Small French sailing vessels glided up Mobile Bay to trade with the Indians back in 1711 when good King Louis XV ruled this capital of the Louisiana colony. That was the beginning. Now, some 230 years later through a succession of five flags, the Gulf port of Mobile is making rapid strides toward becoming one of the nation's leading foreign trade ports. The U. S. Department of Commerce said it ranked sixth among United States ports in foreign tonnage handled in 1947, being exceeded only by New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Norfolk. Twenty years ago it ranked twenty-fourth. Once tied by tradition and trade practices to Europe, the port has since the war made a decided swing southward to do more business with its more prosperous Latin American neighbors. To a lesser degree it is stepping up its services to the Far East and Africa. Last year, one-fifth of Mobile's $107,500,000 worth of exports went to Latin America, and more than two-thirds of its $25,000,000 worth of imports came from there. Cotton Small Items

Up until 30 years ago, cotton, lumber and naval stores represented the bulk of exports and tropical fruits most of the heavy import cargo. Now the picture has changed. Cotton has all but passed out of the picture. Lumber and naval stores shipments are giving way to steel and iron products and manufactured goods. During and since the war, coal, foodstuffs and other relief cargo have made up a large part of the volume. Basic ores—iron, bauxite and manganese—make up the heaviest volume of imports. Bananas from Central and South America; nitrate from Chile and crude rubber from the Far East add to the tonnage. A big factor in the stepped-up shipping activity is the Alabama state docks, completed in 1928 at a cost of $10,000,000. The concrete wharves have berthing space for 22 ships at one time, with railway tracks and storage sheds at ship- bulk material handling plant and throughout the year.

million-dollar cold storage facility for perishables. Carved out of swamping marsh grass and thick undergrowth only a mile and a half from Mobile's business district, the state facilities are the heart of Mobile's port activity. The Alabama State Docks & Terminal owns and operates its own terminal railway. Sprawling over the 550-acre tract occupied by the docks, the railway system includes about 45 miles of track over which more than 300 loaded cars are handled daily. Now a $5,000,000 expansion program is under way at the state docks, and another $3,000,000 enlargement program is in the engineering stage. Altogether this expansion will provide five new piers. Bird's feathers grow only during short moulting seasons, and not the clinic within two weeks.

BUILDERS of DESTINY

The Church occupies a distinctive place in the life of a community. Its imposing architecture and the atmosphere of sanctity that surrounds it mark it as an institution that rises above the sordid things of this world.

Other institutions—banks, stores, warehouses, shops, factories, schools—all have important functions and serve the people in their respective fields. But the Church ministers to the spiritual needs of men and serves the interests of the soul.

The life of any community would be incomplete without the influence of the Church in the lives of the people. No family, no home, no life can fulfill its highest destiny without religion to point the way to peace and spiritual security.

Whether you live in a city or small town or in a rural community, you will find that the churches there are deeply interested in you and would gladly welcome you to their services and fellowship. They will lead you in the way of God, which is the way of life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bitter Reprieve

By Drexel Drake

THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling has stolen a $10,000 diamond necklace and handed it over on security on a $10,000 gambling debt to racketeer Harry Blaine. To cover the theft, perpetrated while his wife slept, Sterling makes it appear a professional burglar. He then goes to Edgewood Country Club to spend the night and establish an alibi. Along with the necklace, he has also taken a sealed packet from his wife's safe. This Marcus discovers later, in $10,000 worth of which Blaine had withdrawn from the bank to give him.

Next morning Falson Lt. Talon arrives at the Sterling household. Mrs. Sterling has been found murdered in bed. The wall safe in the room has been ransacked and everything points to robbery. Talon discovers a piece of gummed tape with a stub dated the previous day made out to Blaine's name. The man, Blaine, tells him Mrs. Sterling always kept her diamond necklace in the safe.

At the club, Sterling excuses himself from an early golf date. He has to get rid of Blaine's cash. He asks the desk clerk for two large envelopes, puts himself at a desk over...

XVII

FROM the envelope he had taken from Blaine's safe, Sterling extracted the packet of $100 bills still held together by the gummed band. He wrapped it in two of the club letterheads, using bits of the gummed tape to hold the ends together. He inserted the new packet in the smaller of the two plain envelopes he had obtained at the desk, sealing a piece of gummed tape to secure the flap.

Across the face of the sealed envelope, he wrote boldly:

Miss Wilson: Please hold these papers in your desk for me, I may not get to the bank before Monday. M. S.

Sterling held the packet up against the light. The envelope, with the help of the double letter-head wrapping, was totally opaque. Using a block printing style instead of his natural bold script, Sterling inscribed the larger envelope to his secretary, Miss Isabel Wilson, at the Harbor Trust Company on downtown Broadway.

McKenney on Bridge

recovered the packet... handed Davis a half dollar. "Keep the change, Bob," he said as he accepted the proffered stamps.

CROSSING the foyer after he had dropped the envelope into the mail box, he passed Johnny Greer... chubby, effervescent assistant club manager, whose daytime post was behind the foyer desk. Sterling acknowledged a beaming greeting, then went directly to a telephone booth. He had Miss Wilson on the wire with remarkably little delay.

"I'm at Edgewood Country Club with some prospective bank customers," Sterling told her.

"Yes, Mr. Sterling."

"I've just remembered that Mr. Davenport may phone me this morning. It's fairly important. Miss Wilson. If he calls, explain that I had to be out here unexpectedly, and suggest that he call me out here."

"I understand, Mr. Sterling. It's D-A-V-E-N-P-O-R-T, is it?"

"That's right. I don't recall the initials."

"I'll take care of it, Mr. Sterling. Anything else?"

"Well, no... oh, yes! Just remembered, not that it's important, I had some file papers with me I thought I might want to refer to, but I didn't want to be bothered with them over the week-end. I've mailed them to you... a sealed packet you can hold in your desk for me. I'll get it from you Monday."

"Very well, Mr. Sterling." Sterling hung up. He stood grinning at the phone. A Mr. Davenport calling him at the bank? Of course, he couldn't recall having met any Mr. Davenport. But he had given Shaw and Crabfield an excuse for passing up the first-nine holes... for loitering around the clubhouse. Never could tell when someone might ask questions. He glanced at his watch. Just about time to go to the locker room, get into his golf shoes, and walk over to the 10th tee to keep his appointment with Shaw and Crabfield. He had a feeling of having done a good job of burning bridges as he stepped out of the booth.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. WILLIAMS

Today's hand is from my former associate, Col. Russell J. Baldwin, tournament manager of the American Contract Bridge League. It is his name that is associated with mife in the McKenney-Baldwin movements which are used in tournaments throughout the country. During the war, Baldwin's mathematical ability was employed by the government in ballistics.

Although Baldwin seldom plays bridge, he is an outstanding card player. He figures every play with mathematical precision, as he did in today's hand.

North's bid of two spades over two hearts was an ace-showing bid, and did not necessarily show a spade suit.

Baldwin won the opening lead of the queen of clubs with the ace. Then he took three rounds of trumps, and when East discarded the king of clubs on the last round of diamonds, Baldwin had a clear picture of the hand. He knew that East had held only two diamonds, and he felt sure that he had only two clubs. That left him with five and four in the major suits.

At this point Baldwin cashed the ace, king and queen of hearts, discarding two clubs from dummy, then he led the small club, East was squeezed and let go a spade.

West's best defense at this point was to give declarer a ruff and a ruff, so he continued with a club. Baldwin trumped in dummy, and East let go a heart. Declarer also let go a heart, then led a spade from dummy to the king and laid down the last diamond.

Once again East was squeezed.

If he let go a heart, Baldwin's last trick would be good. If he let go a spade, Baldwin would lead the jack of spades, overtake in dummy with the ace, dropping the queen, and the ten would be good for the last trick.

At trick No. 4, Baldwin had correctly read East's distribution and knew that from then on, East was going to be squeezed.

What Democrat, Ky., Needs Is Democrats

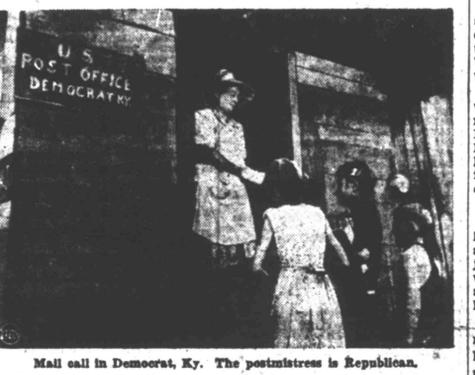

DEMOCRAT, KY. — (NEA) — There is a famine of Democrats this year in this 55-year-old mountain hamlet that started out to be a Democratic stronghold.

Back in 1893 the dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, Elhanon King, dedicated Democrat's future to the party of Jefferson, Jackson and President Grover Cleveland. Today Republicans are in the overwhelming majority. The vote is about 10 to 1.

Even Democrat's post office is run by a Republican, Mrs. Lizzie Williams. The Postmaster General couldn't find a Democrat who'd take the civil service examination to become Democrat's postmaster.

"I reckon now there must be altogether as many as 10 Democratic families that get their mail here," said Mrs. Williams recently. "But she adds, 'We have mighty fine people up here, even if we have been out off from the rest of the world for so long.'"

Mail from Whitesburg, the county seat, has been brought in by mule-back since the settlement first approved of its name. Twice-a-week deliveries improved after Millstone, seven miles south, became a rail station. But mail pouches are still brought in by muleback. Carrier R. C. Cook makes one round trip each day between Millstone and Democrat, his safety against swollen creeks and earthshakers dependent upon a sure-footed, ridge-climbing donkey.

Access To Outside

This year Democrat is gaining access to the outside world. In addition to a paved highway to the coal camps of this Kentucky Virginia border country, a railroad branch line will put Democrat near the end of a spur track to new coal fields.

And Democrat is beginning to change from a rural mountain town to a mining center—run by Republicans who are building new homes and stores, and predicting an era of prosperity for everyone.

Proposals to change the town's name have found strong opposition. "It wouldn't seem right," Mrs. Williams said. "Democrat under any other name couldn't be any more strongly Republican."

Most folks here agree with her and remark they have a lot of fun joking and punning about Democrat's name.

"Everyone wants the benefits of progress but we couldn't get along without our Democrat jokes," explains W. P. Nolan, who runs the county seat weekly.

Bevan's Words Come Back to Haunt

British Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, who recently described Tory party members as "lower than vermin," finds his words splashed on his door. Vandals painted "Vermin Villa" on Bevan's home in London's Chelsea district. They added: "Home of a loud-mouthed rat."

Politics Must Have Its Own Animal Acts

By HAL BOYLE
 PHILADELPHIA —(P)—Political conventions are getting more and more animal.
 Unless Hank Wallace can pull a rabbit out of his hat at the national conclave of his Third Party here next week, he may have difficulty in impressing the dazed citizens of the City of Brotherly Love. Because the Republican and Democratic conventions have convinced them that politics is going zoological.
 The parade of the four-footed folk here began with the arrival of "Little Eva," who came with one trunk and a worried look to support the presidential candidacy of Senator Robert Taft.
 Then came a national convention of the Elks, who had their political problems too—in lodge measure. Donkey Serenade
 No sooner was the last weary antler out of town than the donkey serenade of the Democrats began. And a few of the delegates lived right up to the traditional stubbornness of the animal on their placards. They walked right out of the party harness.
 But the final touch was ornithological. The friendly Allied Florists of Philadelphia, who had put together a 4,000-flower American flag for the Republicans, outdid themselves for the Democrats.
 They plucked 8,000 flowers and fashioned them into a gigantic floral liberty bell. And beneath the bell they cooped up 48 pigeons to represent peace.
 Hard To Regulate
 The idea was that after President Truman arrived on the platform the pigeons were to be loosed and soar up like man's ancient white hope of a world free of war. But pigeons and peace are hard to regulate. When the birds were released it was long past midnight, well beyond their bedtime hour. They stuck drowsily in their cramped cage.
 "Shoo" said Convention Chairman Sam Rayburn of Texas. "Shoo."
 A few finally did bolt the coop—but they whirred aimlessly around, tipped through the white hair of a platform dignitary, or settled on nearby electric fans.
 It was just a case where people for once were having more fun than pigeons.

Taylor Resigns As Director Of Bank At Rankin

RANKIN—At a meeting of directors of The First State Bank of Rankin Wednesday, B. S. (Pappy) Taylor, one of the bank's organizers and a director of the institution since it opened in 1927, resigned due to advanced age. Clay Taylor, son of B. S. Taylor and a former employe of the bank, was elected to fill the vacancy created by his father's resignation.
 The elder Taylor has lived in Rankin since 1914 and was in the mercantile and grocery business here until 1942, when he closed his store. He was born in Dyer County, Tenn., in 1866. Other living children are Mrs. Roy Hinnant, Mathis; Mrs. Ray Dunlap, Ozona; Mrs. J. T. Dameron, Van Horn and Miss Maggie Taylor and William, Grimm and Jay Taylor all of Rankin.
 Other directors of The First State Bank are J. M. Lackey, Barnhart; H. M. Noelke, Merton; O. W. Parker, Iran and J. P. Rankin, H. F. Neal and Dunn Lowery, Rankin.

Women's Bureau Aims For Equality

WASHINGTON —(P)—Thirty years ago the government, up to its ears in World War I, found to its combined male amazement that women made pretty good workers, even in gun factories.
 So on July 8, 1918, the gentlemen asked a group of ladies to organize a "women in industry" committee to advise men on how to get women into factories.
 Two years later the committee became the women's bureau of today—but only after Congress had wept over the fine flower of womanhood going into commerce and industry.
 Woodrow Wilson signed the bill which set up the women's bureau in July, 1920. He got the bill only in the 11th hour of the 66th Congress because die-hards were battling it out in the house appropriations committee, trying to cut off funds.
 Traditionally Exploited
 As it was, that Congress voted $250,000 for congressmen to mail free seeds to constituents against $75,000 for the women's bureau, which was supposed to better the conditions of 5,000,000 working women.
 Traditionally, women have been the exploited workers of the country: Getting less pay for the same work, being fired first, getting promotions last.
 World War II came along. Male brass, both in and out of khaki, thanked its stars for the women's bureau.
 American women were still underpaid, and the women's bureau still got pennies compared to other bureaus. But its staff jumped to the guns and issued a rain of pamphlets to show men how to employ women in factories.
 By 1943 the employer who needed more help had to hire women. This "fine flower" rose to 12,000,000 workers.
 Women workers have now dropped back to 17,000,000. The bureau reports that 80 per cent of them have to work. They're either supporting themselves or themselves and others.
 Through the years the women's bureau has taken a curious course in Washington. It has refused to lobby. Instead it has printed facts—after trotting through factories and factory towns—which were then issued to organized women's groups such as trade unions, Y. W. C. A. and league of women voters.

Peddy Says Foes Cut Each Other's Throats
 PORT ARTHUR, TEXAS. —(P)—George Peddy, candidate for the U. S. Senate, says two of his opponents, Coke Stevenson and Lyndon Johnson are "cutting each other's throats."
 At Beaumont Thursday, Peddy said: "These two opponents have exposed each other's past records in a manner which has been both revealing and astounding. I have watched them cut each other's political throats and make their dubious political trades seeking to fool the voters, while I have gone steadfastly forward with my own campaign, promising nothing that I will not fight to fulfill."
 The candidate said he was opposed to "the dictatorship of crooked and violent labor leader bosses of the North and East who seek to bend the working people of Texas to their will. . . ."

Donations Aid Clinic For Sick, Injured Birds
 TENAFLY, N. J. —(P)—Mrs. Herbert E. Carnes, bird chairman of the New Jersey State Garden Club, says she now will continue a one-woman clinic for sick and injured birds.
 She had announced earlier that she could accept no more patients because of difficulty in getting "natural foods" for them.
 Five boys, however, guaranteed supplies of worms, caterpillars and assorted insects throughout the Summer.
