Varied Interests Add Spice To Girl's Life

By ALICIA HART
NEA Feature Writer

The bachelor girl who envies her married friends can spend her time to better advantage making a fuller and more stimulating life for herself.

The more stimulating her interests are, the better will be her chances to swap her life of single blessedness for one of married bliss, contends a bachelor girl who has written a book on this subject.

One way to make life more stimulating, says Jean Van Evera, author of "How to Be Happy While Single," is to choose a creative hobby. Painting or sketching, for example, are absorbing, don't require great talent to enjoy and are amenable to indoor or outdoor assignments, depending on your whim. More value of hobbies such as these, says Miss Van Evera, is that they help you to expand your circle of friends by bringing you in touch with other enthusiasts.

Volunteer service work provides another rewarding interest for the bachelor girl, maintains the author. The feeling of lending a helping hand, of creating and participating in community life is a wonderful tonic for the emotions.

What type of volunteer work does she recommend? Almost any service for which you have an inclination or talent. If you enjoy children, such a service job might be with Girl Scouts or Camp Fire Girls or it might be tutoring a sick child or a friend. What is important, says Miss Van Evera, is that you find a niche to suit your talents and then accept the responsibility of sticking by your volunteer work.

Altrusa Club Names Officers With Grace Wallace President

Grace Wallace was elected president of the Midland Altrusa Club for next year at a business meeting Tuesday night. She was advanced from the office of vice president and program chairman. The retiring president, Katherine Shiver, who has filled the office since the club was organized last summer, will become a member of the board of directors.

Estella Brown was named vice president for the year; DeAlva Brewer, recording secretary; Bernice Boone, corresponding secretary, and Laura Jesse, treasurer. Geraldine Simmons and Maurine Mims were elected directors for two-year terms to serve with Mrs. Shiver and the holdover directors, Ada Phillips and Sue Coleman.

The meeting marked the close of business for the club's first year, and reports were made by officers and committee chairmen. They showed that program emphasis during the year has been on public affairs, local and national, and on international relations; that the main financial project has been a contribution to the Midland Woman's Club building fund, with other gifts including a sum to the National Heart Foundation and to scholarship funds of Altrusa International; that the club and its members have participated in a variety of civic and welfare projects locally.

WATCH THOSE CORNERS

It took a queen to make some use of corners. But things have come a long way since the day Good Queen Victoria told her decorators to "put something in those bare corners."

Today, thanks to the "moderns" we have unit furniture especially ideal for the smaller rooms which seem to be the rule instead of the exception these days.

You can well imagine how the room illustrated above would look if the main area of the room had been used to "house" the various pieces. Thoughtful planning solved everything here, and the once neglected corner now doubles in brass as a dining room, library and china closet.

... and still leaves plenty of room for comfortable chairs and movement.

If the lack of space seems to be your problem, don't cut corners - make use of them. Try out various combinations. It might start out as a jigsaw puzzle, but when you finally get it together it makes a mighty pretty picture.

Some of you might have trouble putting the pieces of this "Fuzzle" together. We can help you get the right answers. Call on us at any time.

Truth Is Stronger Than Fiction

It's graduation time. Across the land, young men and women getting out of college are being advised by our leading citizens how to meet the world.
Graduates are being told these are troublous times, that the threat of war hangs over us, that freedom is in peril from Communism, that population is outrunning world resources, that our health, security and education need new safeguards, that a hundred other dire circumstances prevail.
Most of this may well be true. Certainly there have been more restful moments in history.
But however bleak the outlook, the graduation speakers are not counselling a mood of hopelessness. Something can be done about it. Much depends, they say, on how the graduates themselves meet the challenge.
Nothing new in this kind of talk, of course. For long years every graduating class has been told to stick to its chin and face down the world. General exhortations to virtue are standard commencement fare.
We voice the fervent wish, however, that this time the speakers cut through the welter of the world's dilemmas and talk in simple, human terms that may serve as real guideposts to the graduates.

Here's one approach we think of offhand that we would like to hear:

"You students are leaving the college world, where truth is the great, single, unifying goal. You are entering the outside world, where truth competes openly and often violently with falsehood, half-truth, and propaganda. You will bump into baffling mixtures of these elements."

"If you are ever to play any useful part in bettering the world, learn quickly to recognize these cheap alloys that corrupt truth. Resist their intrusion into your own thinking. War upon them wherever you find them. 'Distortions of truth are a prized weapon in the battle of ideas raging today. But truth is stronger and will blunt that weapon, however lethal it sometimes is.'"

"You will need courage to combat the users of falsehood and propaganda. They will too seldom be your avowed enemies. They may be in positions of power. They may even be, on occasion, your friends."

"But if you flinch from fighting them, you will go down in the struggle to bring peace and order and justice to this complex world."

"Presuming you do stand up for truth, don't resort to your opponents' tricks to beat them. Propaganda is not the antidote for propaganda."

"Don't rely upon name-calling and label-pinning. People, like the world, are complex. No short labels fit them. They are not conveniently divided among saints and sinners. In their personalities they are white and black and all the shades of gray between."

"Judge people as total human beings, in the full light of their experience."

"If you can go out from here equipped with these attitudes, you will have made a big start toward helping crack the problems that beset us all."

Blow To The Bookies

A woman out West has been given a drug called glutamic acid in the hope it may change her personality and cure her irresistible gambling urge.
Even if the drug works, we predict it won't get into common use. Just let a little of the stuff get sprinkled around at Hialeah, Santa Anita or some of our other gaming palaces and the proprietors will be hollering: "Unfair trade practice!"

Take a tip from the successful painter: he's always brushing up on his business.

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1949, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Acheson reports constantly to Truman; Byrnes didn't, but set stage for resignation; Acheson pleaded with Byrnes; Marshall learned lesson, had special secretary to report minutely to White House on moment-to-moment developments.

WASHINGTON — White House insiders marvel at the way Secretary of State Acheson reports to President Truman on almost every detail of the Paris conference. The White House is almost as up-to-date on what the foreign ministers are talking about as Acheson's own assistants in Paris.
Acheson tells friends that he learned about White House reports from Jimmie Byrnes, who was in Moscow in 1946, had told part of the story to close friends. During that time he saw the President five times a week, in addition to being summoned on other occasions, and was constantly embarrassed at not being able to report on what was happening at Moscow.

Several times Acheson cabled Byrnes asking for reports, but sometimes he never even got an acknowledgment. Dean figured that the messages went to Byrnes's devoted secretary, Miss Cassie Connors, who probably reasoned to herself that Byrnes was tired and shouldn't be bothered with reporting to Washington.

"At one time, Byrnes cabled: 'Tell Maud (Mrs. Byrnes) that my cable is better.' But he cabled little or no information to Truman.
Newsmen Scoop Government
What got Truman particularly irked was that the final protocol signed at Moscow was broadcast by the Moscow radio long before Byrnes cabled it to the State Department. Therefore, the President, who had flown out to Independence, Mo., read the final results of the morning papers almost before he got a report from the State Department.

Truman was further irked when Byrnes, flying back from Moscow, sent a message to Bill Benton, assistant secretary of State for public information, telling him to arrange for a radio broadcast in which Byrnes would report to the American people.
When Byrnes arrived, Acheson went to the airport to meet him and, while driving home, Jimmie casually mentioned his forthcoming broadcast. "What broadcast?" asked Acheson. Byrnes told him.

"Knowing that Truman was irked, Acheson hinted that it would be wise to report to the President before going on the air.
Truman, however, had gone down the Potomac on the yacht Williamsburg—perhaps as a deliberate rebuff to Byrnes. This made the secretary of State highly indignant, and Acheson had a hard time explaining that this was Truman's only way of escaping a constant stream of callers. Truman, he explained, had been just as busy as Byrnes.

This led to a heated argument between Byrnes and Acheson while driving from the airport; but, in the end, the secretary of State flew down the Potomac to see Truman, got stranded by bad weather, and became further annoyed when Acheson implied that he hadn't fully reported the Moscow proceedings. To settle the argument, Acheson had a complete set of the telegrams he sent to Byrnes, and the replies Byrnes had sent him, placed before Truman so he could judge for himself.

Field Training Set For WAC Reserves

Members of the WAC section of the Organized Reserve Corps will receive Summer field training this year on a national scale for the first time since establishment of the Corps. Sgt. Provision has been made to hold two 15-day orientation training courses at the Women's Army Corps Training Center, Camp Lee, Va. These are for WAC Reservists assigned to units which will train at camps not having suitable facilities for women personnel, and for WAC personnel not assigned to units. ## THE DOCTOR SAYS

Tetanus Toxoid And Antitoxin Fight Deadly Lockjaw Disease

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
Lockjaw, or tetanus, is an extremely serious disease. In recent years about 700 deaths have been recorded from this disease annually. It can be prevented, however, by the use of an antitoxin which has been available which counteracts it, providing it is given before the active symptoms develop.
The germ which causes lockjaw is present almost everywhere on the soil and on objects which have come in contact with the earth. The germs are carried into the tissues by the penetration of a rusty nail or other object. Here, deep in the tissues, the germ grows and produces a toxin which is carried by the blood stream through the body.
Toxoid Prevention
Actually the most effective measure in combating lockjaw is to produce its own antitoxin by the production of a toxin which is injected into the body. This is done by giving two or three injections of a tetanus toxoid, which causes the human body to produce its own antitoxin. During World War II an astonishingly small number of cases of tetanus occurred among our soldiers and sailors because military personnel were given toxoid injections.
Toxin and antitoxin combined with diphtheria and whooping cough vaccine. No serious disadvantages have been discovered, and, since the disease is so serious when it does occur, this is a method well worth while. If a person who has received the toxoid later is injured in such a way as to cause fear of the disease, all that is necessary is to give another injection of the toxoid. The toxin practically never produces unpleasant reactions and this is another advantage over antitoxin.

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Writer for NEA Service
Many old-timers in bridge will recall playing "Twenty Questions" at the home of the late P. Hal Sims in Deal, N. J., years ago. I was interested in learning how the Van Deventer family got started on "Twenty Questions" and built it up to the largest chain radio program in the country.
It is heard on 425 stations across the nation every Saturday night, except on the Pacific Coast, where it is rebroadcast on Sunday nights. Although the family developed "Twenty Questions," Fred has never given up his newscasting. He still broadcasts news daily over a New York station.
After moving from Detroit to New York, the Van Deventer family often discussed the possibilities of a quiz program. One night at dinner, the daughter, Nancy, said: "Dad, why not 'Animal, Vegetable, Mineral'?" It took a long time to get the program under way, but today, when Bill Slater introduces Florence Rhoad, that Mrs. Van Deventer, Bobby McGuire, the youngest on the program, is Bobby Van Deventer.

I asked Van Deventer if there was any luck in coming up with the right answer on "Twenty Questions." He said, "Certainly, just the same as there is in bridge. I think I was pretty lucky to make six clubs on today's hand, but, of course, the rest of the family helped out."
Van Deventer won the opening lead of the jack of clubs with the queen and then led a heart. North jumped in with the ace and immediately tried to set the contract by cashing the ace of diamonds, but Van Deventer trumped this. He cashed two more clubs and led a heart, which he won with the queen in dummy. He now led the queen of diamonds, which South did not cover, so he discarded a spade. He now proceeded to cash the jack and the ten of diamonds, upon which he discarded his losing spades, thus making six clubs.

★ WASHINGTON COLUMN ★ Farm Income Insurance Plan Looks Good On Paper, But ...

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Department of Agriculture experts have been wrestling with the problem of how to make Secretary Brannan's new farm plan pay its own way, as it goes.
Briefly, the idea is simply this: If farmers are to receive support price payments or guaranteed minimum income in years when prices are below normal, why shouldn't they pay something back to the government in years when prices are above normal?
The idea sounds fine in theory. Instead of being just a system of crop insurance to protect the farmer against bad weather, it would provide price insurance or guaranteed annual income insurance. It would remove the curse of the "subsidy" label tacked on all present farm price support programs. It would stabilize the farm economy and make it self-supporting in bad times.
But whenever the experts sit down and try to figure this out on a sound, actuarial basis, they run into trouble.
Experts Stumped
First, how would such income insurance premiums be collected? Using income tax returns as a basis for collection has been suggested. But the income tax return always has been considered a confidential report by the citizen to his government. Making it a semi-public document, for use even by government insurance premium collectors, would destroy this sacred relationship.
Also, out of 6,000,000 farmers, about 2,500,000 produce income of less than $1000 a year and so make no income tax returns. Under compulsory income or crop insurance, returns would have to be filed. Remembering how many charges there were of farm income tax frauds last year, the experts believe any system of farm insurance would open the gates to wide violation of the law, just as in prohibition days.
Farm income insurance could not be handled on a voluntary basis, the experts believe. Only 20 per cent of the farmers would sign up for an insurance scheme, the government would not be able to shut off relief payments to the 80 per cent not cooperating, in a bad crop or general depression years.
Experience has shown there is plenty of political dynamite in the plight of distressed farmers. The heat would be put on Congress to appropriate relief for these poorer farmers, whether they were participating in the insurance scheme or not.
Again, suppose farmers paid income insurance premiums for seven far years, and got nothing out of it. They would be inclined to say, "To heck with this!" and drop out. Then would come a lean year. They'd be in there yelling for relief just as loud as ever. And the government would be unable to say them nay.
In good years, no records are kept on what the farmer sells his crop for. That's his private business. Under an insurance scheme such records would have to be kept. The temptation to chisel would be great. Only solution would be for the government to buy all farm produce, or verify all sales. Too much regulation.
Benefits Would Vary
Again from the practical standpoint, it is probable that livestock farmers would pay in more premiums than they would get back in benefits. Grain farmers might get back more benefits than they paid in premiums. Livestock farmers soon would get tired of this arrangement, even though the grain farmers loved it.
The only solution for this would be to set up separate insurance reserves for each crop. But it might be impossible to build up adequate

Questions and Answers

Q—Where was Lake Bonneville?
A—This is the name given by geologists to a fresh-water lake which existed thousands of years ago. It covered what is now Utah, as well as parts of Idaho and Nevada. Q—What was the closest presidential election in our history?
A—The election of Rutherford B. Hayes 19th president of the United States, i. e., a successful candidate was elected by a majority of one vote.
Q—Who is considered the founder of the Zionist movement?
A—Theodor Herzl, born in Budapest in 1860. Influenced by the anti-Semitic reaction of the Dreyfus affair, he published "The Jewish State" in 1896, which advocated a theory of Jewish nationalism and which later led to the creation of the Zionist movement.
Q—How long has natural gas been used for lighting homes in this country?
A—As early as 1824, on the occasion of Lafayette's visit to this country, a house in Fredonia, New York, was illuminated by natural gas in his honor.
Q—When was Gounod's "Faust" first played?
A—Faust, one of the world's most popular operas, was first produced at the Theatre Lyrique in 1865. It was Gounod's first and most lasting success.
The first locomotive built in America for actual common-carrier service was "The Best Friend of Charleston," which made its first trip in 1831. On the first run, the engine fell into a ditch but held the rails on later attempts.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

BEA COSGROVE woke suddenly. The fire had died down to a large bed of coals, and a few flickers from some half consumed pieces of wood. She looked out the stars, realized it was nearly morning. Already the first light was bringing grayness and pre-dawn chill.
She looked at the figures stretched out under the shelter, counted the mounds of covers.
One was gone.
The fatigue which had betrayed her into deep sleep struck again. She wanted to lie back on the mattress. Just lie there and not think what that missing person might mean. She had tried to stay awake and watch. And she had failed.
Bitterness at her own weakness drove her from the bed. The others got no sign of life as she moved cautiously from the shelter, and hurried down the trail toward Fisherman's Cove.
She went first to the unit pile of wood which made the beacon on the cliff above the cove. There was no sign anyone had visited it.
She retraced her steps to the main trail. In the growing light she found a line of footprints branching off to the left. A multiple line of footprints, passing and repassing, that showed clearly in rain-softened spots of earth between rocks.
She followed the prints to the rim of the cliff, saw the shallow empty hole which had been scooped by fingers in wet earth, saw the uprooted stone which lay on its side next by. The footprints were blurred here, soiled. She went to the tip of the cliff, lay full length on her stomach.
The cliff did not drop so abruptly here. It was broken into ledges and fissures, sloped to the fire, buddled close together in the cruel bright light.

They looked tired. They were dirty. And one of them had killed three times.
They saw Bea now and they threw questions. "Is the surf down? Is the Simpatco in sight? Is it smooth enough for a landing?"
She said, "Fred Sillwell is dead." In the silence she tossed one other word. "Murdered."
She saw the killer look at her. It was fatigue, not fear she felt. She opened her fingers and let the gold piece drop to the ground.
She left them on the cliff, paid no attention to their calls, their talk and their preparations.
Never before had she seen so conscious of complete isolation.
A woman is always alone. Bea told herself.
No matter how willing to give, a woman must have some reciprocity or she was drained and twisted. In her desperate need she had tried to make Jim something he was not, under a cover of thinking of his welfare. She had sought vengeance for her failure and hurt, not Jim's.
Bea tripped, fell heavily and realized she had been running. It was too late for turning now. There was no place to run, so place to hide.
Now, at a time when she longed for a night, hot bath, the odor of violets, the smoothness of silk against her skin and deference and politeness from a man, she had to face the result of a pattern of actions in which she had played a part. She thought of Miguel Oak's broad shoulders, his understanding smile, the strength she needed.
She put such thoughts and hurried on to face what she knew must come.
At the entrance of the Cave of the Gaspas, she hesitated. She listened to the panting, which had frightened her on that day which now seemed so long ago. She made herself go inside, moved cautiously until she found the flashlight in the same place. The light helped.

Bright Future For Beach Wear

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—Undimmed brilliance is promised colorful beach shoes and bags by fabrics that wash. Shoes with uppers of rubberized fabrics, soles of sponge, cork and rubber can be tossed into the washing machine. Bags of rubberized canvas can be washed clean with a wet rag or dunked into a soap and water bath.

Bags have extra added attractions. They're bigger. When they're barrel-shaped, as is the twin-handed, two-toned beach bag of red and white rubberized canvas shown upper right, they can pack a change of clothing to the beach. When whipping carryalls, such as the huge two-toned blue and white bag shown lower right, have wet and dry compartments and slide fasteners, they keep dry duds safe, separating them from drippy towels and swimming suits.

The beach shoes shown with this oversized beach bag are shining white examples of the strollers that can be kept white by washing. Uppers are made of rubberized fabric, soles of cork and rubber for insulation against hot sand and pavement. Sandals shown left with criss-crossed straps of rubberized fabric braid, which can also go into a washing machine for a quick cleanup, have a thick sponge midsole for cooler comfort, a rubber outsole for a nonskid grip on slippery surfaces.

Mexico Discovers Antimony Deposit

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—An official of the Mexican Geological Institute reports the discovery of what may be one of the largest antimony deposits in the world.

The ore is in the Sierra de Coronado Mountains in San Luis Potosi State, only seven miles from a railroad. The deposit was discovered by A. J. Martines of the institute.

The United States uses much antimony in its metallurgical industries. Formerly this was imported from China but the U. S. Engineering and Mining Journal said in its May issue that Russia rapidly is obtaining control of Chinese antimony, tin and tungsten.

Prisoners Protest Loss Of Home Brew

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—They lost their homemade beer—and 40 prisoners went on a brief sit-down strike at Central Prison Wednesday.

They laced about on their jobs in the sheet metal shop but took up their tools when Warden Joe Crawford promised to investigate their case.

The prisoners, Prison Director J. E. Moore said, complained because the man with the beer, lifer William A. Cook, was placed in solitary.

Moore said Cook made the beer from potato peelings, meal and sugar which he had appropriated.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing. How quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugstore and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcostrin. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if you describe pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, waist and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Detroit's Trucks Challenges Raschi For Mound Honors

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, Detroit's strong-armed right-hander, is challenging New York's Vic Raschi for American League pitching honors.

Trucks even is outshining Hal Newhouse, his illustrious southpaw pitching mate. With the season only one-third gone, the 30-year-old Alabamian already has won nine games against three losses. Only Raschi, with 10, has won more. Newhouse has won seven.

Trucks gave further indication Tuesday night he was out to make this his greatest year when he limited Philadelphia to one hit as the Tigers blanked the Athletics 4-0. Only a fifth-inning single by Hank Majeski prevented him from hurling the season's first no-run, no-hit game.

The Tiger fireballer fanned six to increase his league leading strikeout total to 73. He is the only pitcher to hold victories over every club. At this rate, he appears a cinch to better his best previous season of 16 victories and 10 defeats in 1943. He had a 14-13 record last year.

Raschi notched his 10th triumph

Odds On Cerdan Dip On Eve Of Battle With Jake La Motta

DETROIT—(AP)—Marcel Cerdan, the careful fighting man from French Morocco, risks his world middleweight title for the first time Wednesday night at Briggs Stadium against squat Jake La Motta, an eight to five underdog from New York's Bronx.

Cash from Jake's home province, where he has an interest in two small fight clubs, beat down the price on Cerdan who opened a five to 12 choice. It may go even lower by ring time for the 15-round bout, scheduled at approximately 9:00 p.m. (CST). The fight will not be broadcast.

Dallas City Council Votes Rent Decontrol

Mayor Wallace Savage invoked a World War I anti-profiteering ordinance and named a three-man committee to keep an eye on landlords who treat tenants unfairly.

SPORTSLANTS

BY SHORTY SHELburne

Votes for the major league all-stars are rolling in at the sports desk here and more are expected this year than ever before since the races in both leagues are very tight. New stars have taken the spotlight in many positions while many of the old favorites are on the injured list and will not be able to play in the classic this season.

Joe DIMaggio heads the list of injured.

Here are the players named in majority in the ballots already cast by baseball fans in this area: AMERICAN LEAGUE: Jim Hegan, catcher; Mickey Vernon, first base; Joe Gordon, second base; Lou Boudreau third base; Phil Rizzuto, shortstop; Ted Williams, Tommy Henrich, and Dale Mitchell in the outfield.

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Andy Sem-enick, catcher; Eddie Waitkus, first base; Eddie Stanky, second base; Bob Elliott, third; Alvin Dark, shortstop; Stanley Musial, Ralph Kiner, Willard Marshall in the outfield.

—SS— Here is the ballot again. Clip it out, fill in your teams and mail it to Sports Slants:

Following a conference with league President Hal Sayles here Saturday night, Harold Webb has announced all the Midland Indian's remaining home games will start at 8 p.m.

Sayles and Webb decided it was too late when the games were completed if they started at 8:30 p.m. The league office has issued a order to speed up play and the new starting time is in keeping with that policy.

—SS— The Midland Indian roster has been changing rather rapidly here of late. New players have been signed and old ones have been traded.

Pat Romanello, a catcher by trade, appeared in the lineup at third base here last weekend against Sweetwater. He comes from Lawton, Okla. Stanley Hughes is on the temporary disabled list with an arm injury. He is spending a short vacation at his home while he is out of the lineup.

Ben Deen Sheets, a rookie hurler from Baylor University, was signed last week by Webb. Glenn Patton is being treated for a back injury which is serious enough to keep him off the mound for at least 10 more days.

Ray Coss, the fleet footed outfielder who has been out with a bad arm, is due to get back into the lineup sometime this week. He was released by the Indians but stayed here on his own and worked his arm back into shape.

—SS— Coss' case is a good example of the way Webb will go out of his way to help a promising young ball player. He knew Ray was plenty serious about playing ball and that he would work his arm in shape again if given a chance. So, Webb let him

By The Associated Press
 Just about everything besides the pitchers ran in seven in Texas League baseball Tuesday night. And the pitchers ran to 17.
 First-place Dallas and second-place Shreveport weren't in on the run of "naturals." Their game was postponed because of wet grounds in Shreveport.
 Third-place Fort Worth scored seven runs in the eighth inning to give hurler Joe Landrum his seventh victory of the season 22-2 over Beaumont. The loss skidded the Exporters into seventh place.
 Oklahoma City's hurler, Tommy Reta, notched his seventh victory of the season at the expense of the fourth-place San Antonio Missions 8-3.
 And the Tulsa Oilers exploded for seven runs in the first of the ninth to defeat the Houston Buffs 11-5. The win moved Tulsa from seventh to sixth place.
Race For Top Tights
 Shreveport trailing Dallas by a game and a half, can move into first place by sweeping a twin bill with the Eagles Wednesday night. And Fort Worth now has only one game behind Shreveport.
 Seventeen hurriers toiled on the mound in the three games.
 Fort Worth raked four Beaumont pitchers for 18 hits in the Cats' whopping victory. The Exporters committed five errors.
 Oklahoma City pounded three San Antonio moundmen for 14 safeties, including Ray Murray's homer in the second. Ed Levy homered for the Missions in the second frame.
 Tulsa and Houston each used four pitchers in the wild affair at Houston. Walter Cress was the winning hurler.

Condition Termed 'Fair'

CHICAGO—(P)—Eddie Waitkus, 29, Philadelphia Phillies star first baseman, was shot near the heart early Wednesday by a 19-year-old girl who told police she was a "fit case for a psychiatrist."
 Hospital attendants reported his condition Wednesday morning as "fair."
 She shot Waitkus with a .22 caliber rifle just after he entered her room in the fashionable Edgewater Beach Hotel on Chicago's North Shore. He went there after receiving a note from her that it was "extremely important" that he see her. She told police later she was not acquainted with Waitkus.
 Three stitches were taken in the right side of Waitkus' chest to close the wound. He did not regain consciousness in Illinois Masonic Hospital for more than two hours.
 The tall, dark-haired girl was identified by police as a Ruth Ann Steinhausen, a typist employed in a Chicago Loop office. She earlier gave a fictitious name and a Boston address.
 Miss Steinhausen calmly told reporters she had had an "urge to kill somebody" which had built up within her for about two years. Police Captain John T. Warren said she told him she had been undergoing psychiatric treatment for a nervous disorder.
 Dr. Edward J. Kelleher, director of the Municipal Court Psychiatric Institute, said the girl "apparently is either schizophrenic or deep in the influence of a major hysteria."
Re-Enacts Shooting
 Accompanied by Police Sergeant Albert Bruns and an assistant state's attorney, Miss Steinhausen re-enacted the shooting in her twelfth floor room of the hotel where the Philadelphia team is housed during its series with the Cubs.
 In her statement to police, Miss Steinhausen said she greeted Waitkus on his arrival at her room by saying: "I have a surprise for you."
 Then, police said she told them, she went to a closet, got a .22 caliber rifle and shot Waitkus.
 Taken to the hospital by police, the girl did not answer when Waitkus asked her: "Why did you do it?"
 Police Sergeant Albert Bruns said she told him later: "I'm sorry I shot him, but I don't know why."
 Captain Warren quoted her as telling him: "I'm a fit case for a psychiatrist."
 Waitkus, who is single, is playing his fourth year of major league baseball and his first with the Phillies. The Phillies, who came to Chicago Tuesday for a series with the Chicago Cubs, are staying at the Edgewater Beach Hotel.
 Waitkus, left-handed batter and fielder, was one of the most popular Cub players during his three years with the team. His home is in Melrose, Mass., a Boston suburb.
Held Without Charge
 Warren said Miss Steinhausen told him after she shot Waitkus, she telephoned the hotel switchboard operator. She told Edward Purdy, the hotel house detective, "I just shot a man. There's a long story behind this, but I'm not going to

Paid Or Not Paid Is Big Question On Officer's Fine

TEMPLE—(P)—Police Chief W. M. McDonnold says he did stop payment on a $10 check he sent the president of the Big State League in payment of a fine.
 Said McDonnold:
 "Payment was stopped, is stopped and will stay stopped. Baseball officials do not fine peace officers, and that's that."
 Big State League President J. Walter Morris had said earlier in Dallas that payment on the check was stopped.
 Morris assessed the fine against McDonnold for shoving an umpire after a game at Temple. McDonnold said he pushed the umpire to get him out of reach of an angry crowd.
 McDonnold sent Morris a check for $10. When Morris announced the fine had been paid, the chief of police declared:
 "This foolishness has gone far enough." That's when he first said he had stopped payment on the check.
 McDonnold said the fine was publicity stunt or gag. Morris said he meant business.

Just how high is "HIGH COMPRESSION?"

WHEN the talk turns to cars and car engines these days, that's a topic you hear much about. And probably most important of all, that high compression is only one measurement of a good engine. There's the fundamental matter of engine efficiency—power output per cubic inch of displacement, engineers call it. On that score, Buick stands where it always has—just about tops in its field! Which means, in very simple words—better go see for yourself. The fun you get from your car—the pleasure and satisfaction it gives you—are best measured in just one place—behind the wheel. So we invite you to see your Buick dealer for a firsthand test of Buick. Take it in your own two hands and find out how good it feels, how full of get-up-and-go. It won't take long to make it pretty clear that the place to get your order in is the place where you get Buick power.

Daddy Ringtail And The Cricket Song

Daddy Ringtail was sitting on the porch of his monkey house, listening to the forest murmurings and chirpings that come when the night is near. The moon was beginning to peep from behind the tops of the trees.

Everything seemed happy enough, but suddenly Daddy Ringtail jumped from his chair and climbed a little way down the very tall tree. He stopped when he came to Mr. Cricket's house, for there was the cricket, sitting on the porch of his own little house with his chin in his hands. He wasn't singing at all.

"My, you gave me a fright," Daddy Ringtail said. "When I didn't hear you singing, I thought something had happened."

"Something has happened," said the cricket. "Someone has moved into the house down below me, and the someone sings so much better than I do that I am ashamed to sing at all."

Daddy Ringtail listened. He heard the new family, and he heard their song. It sounded like: "Katydidd! Katydidd!"

Daddy Ringtail didn't understand at all. He turned to the cricket and said: "Who is Katy? What did she do?"

"It's just a song," said Mr. Cricket. "Katy isn't anybody, and she didn't do anything."

Mr. Cricket shook his head very sadly. "It's a pretty song," he said. "Such a pretty song. Much prettier than mine. I shall never sing again."

Now Daddy Ringtail liked the song of the Katydidd—for that is the kind of bug that they were. But he liked the cricket song, too. "Mr. Cricket," Daddy Ringtail said, "I remember now about Katydidd. Later in the summer they get to where they can't sing at all. All Katydidds are that way."

"Oh!" said Mr. Cricket. That's too bad. They have such a pretty song."

"Maybe you'd like to sing with them," Daddy Ringtail suggested. "While they can still sing at all. That would be even prettier."

And that's what Mr. Cricket did, because it's fun to sing with people. Happy day!

Air War Against Grasshoppers Gets Going Wednesday

SHERIDAN, WYO. —(AP)—The big air war to head off a new grasshopper plague started Wednesday on the ranges of Wyoming and Montana.

From five bases, poison-laden planes took off on the first flights of a month-long aerial "bombing" campaign. The goal is to wipe out the grasshoppers in their favorite nesting ground.

"We are just beginning to give them hell," said Leo Iverson of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For three weeks, parties of bug experts under Iverson's supervision rode over a 30,000,000-acre danger zone, picking out the worst grasshopper concentration places.

They pinpointed on county maps the areas where the hopper population was "critical," where 30 to 200 could be counted in a square yard.

New poisons concealed in a brain the grasshoppers like, were to be spread over these areas by planes.

Heat, Drouth Bring Deaths, Forest Fire Threats In Northeast

By The Associated Press

A mid-June heat wave and drouth threatened crops and fanned fears of serious forest fires in the Northeastern States Wednesday.

Meanwhile, as the death toll in the New England heat belt mounted to 15 in the last three days, the flash floods and storms in North Texas took the lives of 11 persons.

In the Pacific Northwest, there also appeared danger of forest fires because of lack of rain for weeks. Fire hazards are reported in forests of Northwest Washington and Northern Idaho as well as in the Cascade Mountains and the coastal forests of Washington and Oregon.

But over much of the Middle West, showers and thunderstorms have brought needed moisture to farmers, brightening an already favorable crop outlook. The rains were general Tuesday over the North Central States, with heavy falls in parts of Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, and Missouri.

No immediate relief from the hot and humid weather appeared in sight for the New England area and a close watch was being kept on the dry forests. Temperatures are in the 80s on the coast and in the 90s inland.

Forest fire hazards are at the peak in New Jersey, now in the 24th day of a drought, and with no rain forecast before late Thursday. Truck farmers face serious damage to the crops. In Fair Lawn, N. J., police declared a state of emergency because of the low water supply.

House Committee's Probe Into Educational Field Plain Witch Hunt, Says College Head

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON —(AP)—In its search for Communism and Communist influence, the House Un-American Activities Committee now is going into the field of education.

The committee has picked at random about 100 schools, big and small, and asked for a list of their textbooks in general use.

What caused this? The main spring was a petition from the Sons of the American Revolution.

A number of top educators already have protested the move taken by the committee but the chairman, Rep. Woods, Georgia Democrat, says:

"For a couple of years the committee has been receiving complaints that some of this country's school books are slanted in favor of Russia. From whom did those complaints come? From parents, children and others."

So, Rep. Wood says, when the petition came from the Sons of the American Revolution, the committee decided to act and sent out its letter asking for the names of the textbooks used.

Only A Check

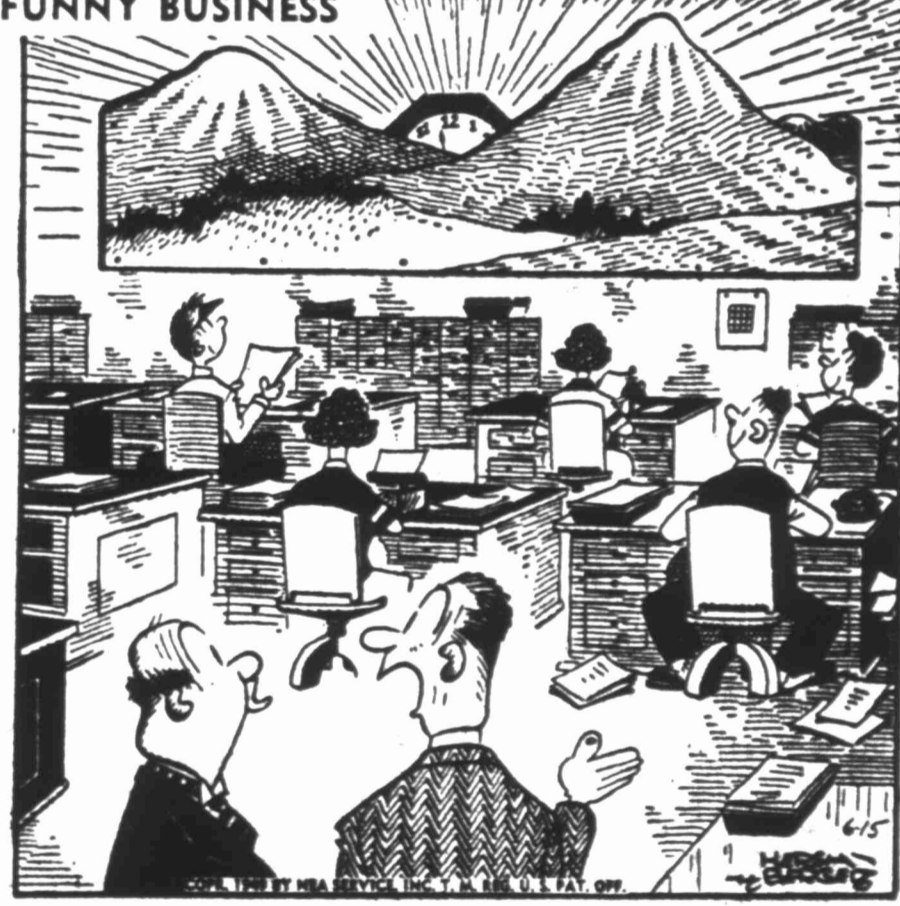

The committee needs only the names, for it can get copies of all the books listed from the nearby Library of Congress, Wood says.

But who'll check the books, looking for Communist propaganda? Wood says that can be done by the staff of about 35 people who do research for the committee and put together the various pamphlets on Communism issued by the committee.

Rep. Nixon, California Republican and a member of the committee, explains that this is only a check and that if it turns up something the committee considers worth investigating, then it will investigate.

Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, president of Cornell, explains that this is only a check and that if it turns up something the committee considers worth investigating, then it will investigate.

"Infiltration, not by those attacking Communism, but by those who, under the guise of attacking Communism, attack something quite different." He said he referred to academic freedom.

"Five o'clock is so important to our employes that we dramatize it, with the clock disappearing behind mountain scenery!"
