Dona Neeb, however, knows what it is -she's up in Oscodo, Michigan, visiting daughter Jo Ann and family. The temperature there hovers around the zero mark and the snow is five feet deep on the ground. Mrs. Neeb writes that the country, despite the weather, is beautiful, with Lake Huron's banks a solid mountain of ice and the pine and spruce trees laden with blankets of powdery snow. Mrs. Neeb will re-main with her daughter until sometime in February when her son will return from a military mission.

mission. A good friend informed us last week that her husband found a wedding band ring near Market Street. They are anxious to find the owner. The ring is initialed and easily identifiable - look in the Star's classified section for more details on this one.

Livestock Show met at the court-house Monday night to deter-mine a possible site for future livestock shows for the youth of our county. President of the She-riff Posse. "Blondy" McIntosh called on M.L. Green, president of the livestock show organiza-tion, to present the problem of a possible location for furture shows. Several sites were dis-cussed. Cross Plains represent-nitives has offered a site and a building if the permanent site would be located there. Blanton Scott, Clyde stockman, has indi-cated that the old Denton Val-ley School facilities might be available for livestock show pur-poses. There are three possible sites in Balrd under considera-tion. One of these is use of a por-tion of the Sheriff Posse Rode Grounds, on which a permanent building, might he anaced. The Grounds, on which a permanent building might be placed. The Sheriff Posse indicated full co-operation on the project.

Steps are underway toward a blue print for a permanent building for the Callahan Coun-ty Jr. Livestock Show, Also, plans are in progress toward a charter for the livestock show organization.

Honoring W. D. Boydstun on his 85th birthday, and his 68th year in business in Baird, coffee and cake were served at his store Saturday, Jan. 16. His three daughters were present for the occasion. Reading from left to right are: Mrs. Herman Harper, Abilene; Mrs. S. L. Stokes, Corpus Christi; Mr. Boydstun and Mrs. W. D. Ferguson of Brownsville. The cake was decorated in the pioneer theme, of covered wagons, teams of horses, and scenes of times reminiscent of the days when Mr. Boydstun first started in business here. Many old and new friends called to extend their well wishes and pay honor to this b-usiness man who has seen many changes take place during the past century.

Revolutionary War. A curious fact about the film-ing - and one that would have delighted the Shavian sense of irony - was that, some 183 years after the event itself, the Uni-ted States carried the War for Independence to English soil. Battle scenes involving George III's Redcoats and the ragged colonials were staked in peaceful Dryham Park, Hertford-shire, England, about an hour's drive from London.

Some of the funniest and most biting lines Shaw over wrote were assigned to General John - "Gentleman Johnny" - Bur-goyne, commander of the British forces, and a man of ex treme sophistication, wit and grace. As Gentleman Johnny, Sir Laurence Olivier gives one of the most brilliant performan-
