Snow Shoveling Sisters

Sisters Juliette Marie, right, Camillus, center, and Willibald shovel an accumulation of snow from a boardwalk in front of their home at Houghton, Mich., the college town that lays claims to title of "Snow Capital of the Midwest." Boardwalks are common in the area to make snow removal easier. To date 13 feet, one inch of snowfall has been recorded. (Story on Page 2-A).

City Fire Insurance Rate Going Up April 1

Your fire insurance rate is going up. For a homeowner with a $10,000 policy, the added cost will be approximately $5 per year. Big Spring lost five per cent of its fire insurance credit, effective April 1, according to figures released by State Insurance Commissioner William A. Harrison in Austin Wednesday.

This showed an increase of $10,182.23 which resulted in a five per cent penalty, or decrease in credit. "A part of Big Spring's credit loss is due to an insufficient number of firemen for the city's population, and part on insufficient equipment," Meador said. "We now have a five per cent penalty because of these and a potential water shortage for fire fighting in the downtown area. We have added fire hydrants under the Master Plan bond program and have other protection included in the plan for this year which will help our situation in the future."

to 25 per cent credit over the past five-year average. However, with the loss of the lumber yard last month, it may lose a portion of the credit effective next April. Some cities losing credit this year may gain it back next year. Area cities, and credits or losses effective April 1, are: Abilene—penalized by a change of no credit to 5 per cent penalty. Andrews—penalized from 30 to 15 per cent credit. Colorado City—penalized from 10 to 5 per cent credit. Lorraine—unchanged at 25 per cent credit. Midland—unchanged at 10 per cent credit. Monahans—unchanged at 5 per cent credit. Odessa—unchanged at 15 per cent credit.

U.S. Puts Up New Satellite

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has a new satellite in orbit—one it doesn't want to talk about.

New fire fighting equipment, additional water downtown, more men, and new stations, may prevent the credit from dropping lower next year, provided there are no major losses in 1962, Meador said Thursday morning. The State Insurance Commission sets up the rates each year and a 25 per cent credit is the maximum. The rate setup gives a city a state reduction if it had low fire losses, based on the five year average, and a rate increase if the losses are high.

Robert Lee—rewarded with change from 15 to 20 per cent credit. Snyder—penalized from zero to 5 per cent penalty. Stanton—unchanged at 25 per cent credit. Sterling City—improved from 10 to 15 per cent credit. Sweetwater—penalized from 20 to 15 per cent credit. Wink—unchanged at 25 per cent credit. San Angelo—unchanged with a 5 per cent credit.

DEAR ABBY

Kitchen Is Off Limits

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when dinner guests leap up from the table as soon as the last bite is swallowed, start carrying dishes to the kitchen and even wash them? I know they are trying to be helpful, but they irritate me. I live alone and would prefer to wash the dishes at my leisure when my guests have departed. After the strain of having prepared a company dinner, I want to turn my back on the dishes, enjoy my guests and relax. When my guests INSIST on "helping" me, it means three or four women in my tiny kitchenette "working" while I stand and direct the operation. It's a mess. What's the answer? IRRITATED

DEAR ABBY: Just lately, four teen-agers beside myself saw a hit-and-run accident. We chased the car and got the license number. We went back to the scene of the accident and gave it to the policeman who had just arrived. They caught the man and gave all the credit to the police. We aren't looking for any medals, Abby, but this is just another example of how the teen-agers are smeared all over the front page when they do something bad. But when they do something good, somebody else gets the credit.

DEAR ABBY: Can a couple get married by proxy? With him overseas and me in the States?

DEAR ABBY: How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, care of Big Spring Daily Herald.

Teen-Ager Worried Even Washington

NEW YORK (AP) — George Washington, too, worried about the teen-ager.

friendly aid and council (especially in such a place as Annapolis); otherwise the warmth of his own passions, assisted by the bad example of other youth may prompt him to actions derogatory to virtue and that innocence of manners which one could wish to preserve him in.

Washington, in a letter to young Custis' tutor, the Rev. Jonathan Boucher, an Anglican clergyman in Annapolis, said in part:

"For wch. reason, I would beg leave to request, that he may not be suffered to sleep from under your own roof, unless it be at such places as you are sure he can have no bad examples set him; nor allow him to be rambling about at nights in company with those, who do not care how debauched and vicious his conduct may be."

Palo Duro Park Amphitheatre OK'd

MARSHALL (AP)—Preliminary plans for a $135,000 outdoor amphitheater in Palo Duro State Park received approval from the State Parks Board Tuesday.

Washington said he had the youth's well-being at heart and would be sorry "to see him fall into any vice, or evil course, which there is a possibility of restraining him from."

It would be built and operated by the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation. Architect Earl Page said the board's decision means a contract for the project can be awarded in early spring.

The letter was one of 42 letters and documents of the Revolutionary War period presented to Columbia University by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Berold of New York City.

The board also:

Columbia made it public in connection with the Washington birthday observance today.

Deferred action on a dam and lake in the Palo Duro Park.

Custis was Martha Washington's son by her first marriage, to Daniel Parke Custis. Washington reared the boy as if he were his own son.

Granted an easement to Kerr County to widen a highway through Kerrville State Park.

Keep him "as much as possible under your own eye," Washington told the tutor.

Freedoms Foundation Makes Awards

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Freedoms Foundation made awards Wednesday to over 1,000 individuals, organizations, businesses and schools for things they did in 1961 to advance "the American way of life." Forty Texas winners were included. Prizes total $100,000.

Top winners, headed by FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, will be honored at ceremonies on the 230th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Freedoms Foundation is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political group created, it states, to build "an understanding of the spirit and philosophy of the Constitution and Bill of Rights." Hoover won the $5,000 George Washington Award for the most outstanding individual contribution to American freedom during 1961. This is the second time the FBI director, who has served 38 years under 6 presidents, has been honored with the foundation's highest honor.

Space Mystery: A Glowing Shadow Trailing Astronaut

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Strange specter in space: Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. and shadow of ice.

It is one mystery about Glenn's round-the-world adventure that hasn't been solved yet.

It began at sunrise over the Pacific as Glenn sped toward the United States on his first of three orbits around the earth. Minutes later he reported: "The only really unusual things so far were the little particles, luminous particles around the capsule—just thousands of them—right at sunrise over the Pacific."

from the heat shield of the spaceship, reflecting sunlight?
Or were they the lost needles of Project West Ford, the plan to put a belt of tiny wires into orbit around the earth to act as a reflector for radio and television signals?

It is not likely that the shower Glenn saw was the needles because they were put into a higher orbit and very likely did not spread because the package carrying them failed to open.

Was this some new magic nature had dreamed up to confound man's first steps away from his world?
Some things can be deducted. The particles seemed to be traveling with Glenn in his orbit. That would likely mean that they came somehow from the spaceship itself and had the same speed, the same orbit.

Glenn noticed them at sunrise when they glowed. So they likely reflected sunlight, and didn't have a glow of their own.

One source close to the Mercury project offers one of the simplest and most plausible of the possible explanations:
One of the cooling devices in the spacecraft, which uses water to remove heat, vents the water into space through an exhaust tube. This would produce a water vapor in waterless space, a vapor moving with the spacecraft.

The droplets, frozen into crystals in the frigidly of space, caught the light as the sun rose up before the hurtling spacecraft, giving Glenn a strange companion—a glowing shadow of frozen sequins in space.

Not A Scratch — Until After Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. suffered only one minor injury Tuesday—and that happened after he had returned to earth.

Glenn slightly skinned the knuckles of his right hand when he blew the escape hatch on the side of the Mercury capsule after it was lifted aboard the destroyer Noa.

Snow? Man, You Haven't Seen Anything Like Houghton

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP)—Snow is only a piddin' 32 inches deep, and only snow flurries came Wednesday in this Upper Michigan college town that lays claim to "snow capital of the Midwest."

Tuesday wasn't much of a snow day, either. Somewhere between half an inch and an inch fell, lifting the season's fall to 13 feet, 1 inch.

Back in the 1949-50 season it really snowed—23 feet, 5 inches worth. That set a record for this copper-mining country on the Keweenaw Peninsula that juts into Lake Superior from Upper Michigan.

The season's first snow usually can be expected around Nov. 18, and it has snowed as late as May 2.

So it isn't big news in the Houghton Mining Gazette when a few inches paralyze New York or Detroit.

Right now Gazette Publisher Jack Rice has to stand up if he wants to look through his living room's picture window. Snow's too high for an outside look sitting down.

Folks don't go outside through the first door they come to. That's because they don't try to keep more than one pathway cleared to the outside.

And usually that pathway is across a boardwalk—an elevated wooden walk supported by two-by-fours—that runs out to the street, reached by steps carved in the snow. Boardwalks are put out before the snows come.

Authorities are keeping a special vigil against roadside snow caves dug by children. They are afraid passing snow plows might collapse them on the little fellows.

Snows, especially when driven into road-plugging drifts, have forced school closings. But so far this winter schools have been closed only five days, and the record for a season is only 16 days.

East German Youth Finds Texas Refuge

GALVESTON (AP) — "I think a person would have to be crazy to accept Communism."

That's what Ferdinand Keller, 16, told a reporter during an interview recently.

The same statement landed Keller in an East Berlin jail a few months ago, he said.

And it's one reason the slim, dark-haired youth fled his home in East Berlin and reached the United States.

"The secret police came to my house and said they wanted to talk to me. They kept me in jail a week before they talked," he said.

When the police did talk to Keller, they warned him against making further statements against the Communist regime.

The death of Keller's mother in April ended his last tie with East Germany. His father, a German soldier, died some time after World War II in a Russian work camp.

The Berlin wall was not built until August. Keller crossed the border with no difficulty.

Keller slipped aboard the S. S. Emma in Barcelona Nov. 15 and found a coffin-sized hiding place. A crew member brought Keller food and water.

But his future is a question-mark.

Leon Harper of Texas City, who had been aboard the ship without knowing Keller was stowed away, gave the youth a ride to Texas City.

Harper and his wife, whose 19-year-old son was killed in an accident last year, took an immediate liking to Keller.

So did the Harpers' 17-year-old daughter, Suzy.

When Keller finally admitted to them he had entered the U. S. illegally, they began trying to find ways for him to remain in the U. S.

It would take an act of Congress. That's what the Harpers—and Keller—are trying to obtain.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., 40, was congratulated Wednesday by the 40 Plus Association for proving spectacularly that life begins at 40.

"We have awarded you honorary membership," wired David Abrams, executive director of the organization of displaced executives over 40 who seek to help each other get jobs.

"We know you do not need our services and hope they never will be necessary. Feel free to call on us at any time we may serve."

Space Has Valuable Military Advantages

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy faces a knotty problem in trying to preserve space for peaceful exploration. It already carries a military imprimatur, Soviet and American.

Before the first unmanned satellite was launched, strategists and technologists began shaping plans for the day when orbiting space ships would haul lethal loads of thermonuclear destruction.

Kennedy, well aware of all this, gave his views on the problem Wednesday at his news conference when he commented on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal that the United States and the Soviet Union work together in space exploration.

"When men reach beyond this planet they should leave their national differences behind them," said Kennedy.

"I think it is particularly important now, before space becomes devoted to the use of war," to have agreement on the peaceful use of space, he said.

Soviet cosmonauts Maj. Yuri A. Gagarin and Maj. Gherman S. Titov and U.S. astronaut, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., have flown their orbits alone. But soon space ships with two or three men aboard will be launched to make scientific flights.

This will bring the nations a step nearer the time when manned space stations will exist.

Inspects Orchid Plant

Mrs. Mary Proebstle of Brazoria admires one of the 9,000 orchid plants she and her husband have collected to add to their hobby. Alfred Proebstle and wife have been interested in orchids for more than 20 years. They have a 176-foot-long greenhouse in which they keep their estimated 9,000 plants.

New Orchid Bears Name Of Texan

BRAZORIA (AP) — Alfred Proebstle of Brazoria has had an orchid named for him.

It is a hybrid plant, grown by Proebstle's friend and a hybridizer, Harold Patterson of Bergenfield, N. J. It bloomed for the first time last year.

Proebstle and his wife, Mary, are also prominent orchid growers. Their 176-foot-long greenhouse contains an estimated 9,000 orchid plants, one of the largest collections in the South.

Their interest in orchids began more than 20 years ago when another friend, George Pring, superintendent of the Botanical Gardens in St. Louis, asked, "Alfred, why don't you grow orchids?"

To which Proebstle, already an experienced horticulturist, replied that a person couldn't very well grow orchids in this area.

Shortly after that Proebstle produced the only pure white-blossomed Australian lilies ever grown from a batch of seed pod sent from the Kew Gardens in England. Pring congratulated Proebstle by sending him 29 orchid plants.

"The orchid is considered the highest form of plant life, and to grow it successfully is considered the ultimate in horticulture," Proebstle says.

He said a person can pay from $2 to $10,000 for an orchid plant, and that of the 30,000 different varieties of orchids, he estimates he has collected 6,500.

For several years the Proebstles have served as flower show judges throughout the country.

House Torpedoes Urban Affairs Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has torpedoed President Kennedy's plan to establish a Cabinet-level department of urban affairs. But he says there will be such a department "sooner or later."

The lopsided 264-150 House vote Wednesday also killed Kennedy's plans to put a Negro, Robert C. Weaver, in the Cabinet for the first time. Weaver, now head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, would have become the urban affairs secretary.

In turning back Kennedy's reorganization proposal 111 Democrats, mostly Southerners, joined 153 Republicans. Thirteen Republicans crossed over to support the President, voting with 137 Democrats for the plan.

At his news conference Kennedy blamed his expected but stunning setback on sectionalism.

He said: "If we in this country began to adopt the system that everyone who lives in a city area voted against these things which were of assistance to the farmer, and everybody who comes from a rural area voted against those policies which provided a better life for people in the city this country would come to a grinding halt."

Expressing regret that Congress had rejected the plan, Kennedy said he still regarded creation of such a department vitally important. "I don't think it is so much the administration's loss as it is a loss for the cities and the country," he said.

In a statement blistering the Republican party as "blindly obstructionist," Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey took no note of the heavy Democratic vote against the plan. If Democrats had gone down the line for President his proposal would have gone through.

"By a ratio of more than 10 to 1, the House Republicans put partisan obstruction ahead of the needs of the nation," Bailey said.

Battle Line, a publication of the Republican National Committee, again accused Kennedy of attempting "to becloud the issue with a cynical appeal to racial prejudice." Battle Line said Kennedy "emerged from the urban affairs fracas as a man struck down by a boomerang."

The publication said Kennedy had injected a "false race issue" when he said he would appoint Weaver to head the department. "Kennedy's election-year attempt to embarrass Republicans bears the mark of planned deceit," Battle Line said.

Two House Democrats who are Negroes saw a political bonanza in the whopping rejection of Kennedy's plan.

"The Republicans have really cut their throats," said Rep. Robert N. C. Nix, of Philadelphia. "They have shown as clearly as it possibly could be shown that they don't care anything for the people in the cities."

Nix added: "Anyone who says the President injected racism is saying to all the world that we are a prejudiced, immature people. They are destroying the image of America everywhere in the world."

Another Negro member, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., said: "The vote was a vote of prejudice, and all minorities will react against it." He said the issue "guarantees that the Democrats will be back in an off year," and added, "it's too bad it has to be at the expense of a worthwhile thing."

The entire issue was heavily charged with politics from the beginning, Republicans declared any notion that they were opposing Weaver personally, and sev-

By A Christian Writer
According to plan and prophecy, the old covenant that God made with Israel when he led them out of Egypt, was done away; and Jesus is mediator of "the new covenant" (Jer. 31:31-34; Heb. 8: 8-13; Heb. 12:24; Gal. 4:21-31).
Did old covenant which was done away include only ceremonial things? or did it also include the ten commandments? It included it all. The ten commandments are also called the covenant.

He added the United States would come up with "new and concrete proposals" for joint enterprises that could be undertaken without delay.

Kennedy opened his news conference with a statement noting that twice before he had offered the same sort of proposition Khrushchev advanced.

Glenn's memorable flight and the possibility of U.S.-Soviet cooperation in space dominated the half-hour meeting with newsmen.

Kennedy also disclosed a special board of inquiry is determining whether U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers violated the contract under which he made his ill-fated reconnaissance flight over the Soviet Union on May 1, 1960.

Government officials have interrogated Powers in secret ever since he was released Feb. 10 in a prisoner exchange with the Soviets.

He Should See The Texas Variety

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Mosquitoes are neither as big nor as clever as they were when James G. Paulk was a boy back in Sycamore, Ga.

The way he tells it, the folks fought a losing battle with them. Conventional window screens wouldn't even slow down the skeeters.

Folks then tried chicken wire on the windows, but the fiends licked that problem. Big mosquitoes would push the little mosquitoes through the chicken wire and then the little mosquitoes would open the door and let the big mosquitoes in.

The big mosquitoes in turn would hold up the bed covers while the little ones went to feasting.

Paulk, who is supervisor of the City Fire Prevention Bureau, spun his story Wednesday to capture a Lions Club trophy as 1962 champion liar.

Manager Dies

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Russell Carr, 52, manager of a Wichita Falls brokerage house, died Wednesday, apparently from a heart attack.

Will he leave us on the ground?

The space race is one thing. But let's not forget. It's just part of a far greater competition! Today, we're engaged in an all-out economic race that pits our system—motivated by the demand of a whole people, against a "planned" system—set in motion by the "I demand" of one man, supported by a single ruthless clique! If we win this race, we can go on, not only to higher living standards for ourselves, but to the practical elimination of poverty (and its dangers to civilization) from any area of the world!

Fortunately, we have the production skills needed to win this contest. But a great question remains. Can a free people provide the all-important demand that makes the sales, that encourages the investment, that stimulates still greater production, for both public and private use? An advertising agency's job is to help answer that question in the superlative affirmative! What an exciting, demanding, challenging time to be engaged in advertising!!! City To Fete Glenn But Won't See JFK

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The high school band polished its instruments. The mayor prepared a special proclamation. The Chamber of Commerce readied a big red, white and blue "Welcome home, John" banner.

The nearby town of Cocoa Beach, which prides itself as "Spacetown, USA," was getting set to let go Friday with a big open-arms greeting to Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., first American to orbit the earth.

The joy was tinged slightly with disappointment.

TO BYPASS

The townsmen had hoped President Kennedy would ride through on his way to greet Glenn at the cape. But word got around Wednesday that the President planned to bypass Cocoa Beach and fly right to this missile test center to give Glenn a medal and make a quick inspection before returning to Palm Beach.

Somewhat ruefully, City Manager Jerry A. Singer said "It would have been a privilege to have the President come into our town. But he said he understood the President had his reasons for doing it another way."

And, Singer said, it wouldn't prevent this space age boomtown from showing it is "bursting with pride" at the historic accomplishment scored by Glenn last Tuesday.

class—as guests of Kennedy on his plane bound for Washington to Palm Beach.

The President invited along Glenn's wife, Anne, their son David, 16, and daughter Lyn, 14; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr.; and Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Castor, Mrs. Glenn's father and mother.

From Palm Beach, the astronaut's relatives were due to turn around and fly here aboard an Air Force plane, with the President following on Friday.

WEEKEND

Kennedy will spend the weekend at the family's winter home at Palm Beach, Fla., visiting with his father, Joseph P. Kennedy.

The elder Kennedy is recuperating from a stroke suffered Dec. 19. The President's wife and their two children, Caroline, 4, and John Jr., 1, flew to Palm Beach Wednesday in the family plane.

At his news conference Wednesday Kennedy called Glenn's mission a "magnificent achievement." The President said it goes "far beyond our own time and our own country."

"The success of this flight, the new knowledge it will give us, and the new steps which can now be undertaken, will affect life on this planet for many years to come," he said.

Cocoa Beach, which considers itself Glenn's second home, will show its feelings for him during a slow-moving motorcade which will carry the red-haired, green-eyed Marine war hero the 20 miles from Patrick Air Force Base to the cape.

SCHOOL'S OUT

Brevard County schools will be out. And thousands of persons from other central Florida communities, perhaps from even further away, are expected to flow into Cocoa Beach and line the broad highway that forms its main street.

snarl, perhaps bigger than the one last Tuesday when about 55,000 persons jammed the beaches to watch Glenn's rocket take off.

Mayor Thomas S. Kennedy was drafting a proclamation of welcome to mark Glenn's return.

Many are likely to drive down to Patrick Air Force Base to see Glenn land and possibly witness his reunion with his family.

The motorcade will move from the Air Force base to the south gate of Cape Canaveral, passing under a 100-foot "Welcome home" banner stretched across highway A1A.

Glenn is due to reach the cape's own airfield about 15 minutes before the President's planned touchdown at about 10:30 a.m. There, they will meet again—Glenn visited the President at the White House early this month.

TO SEE PAD

Kennedy probably will look in on the ground control center, heart of the man-in-space operation, and see Pad 14 from which Glenn blasted off.

At Hangar "S," where Glenn prepared for his great adventure, Kennedy will present him with the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal—the climax of the day.

The President will return to Palm Beach about noon, and Glenn then will face what promises to be a heavily covered news conference before he and his family go off on what a space agency official said will be a quiet weekend.

Next Monday, the Glenns will link up with the President again at Palm Beach and fly from there to Washington where this country's ranking space explorer will receive the thanks of Congress and the fullest possible honors.

Minister Is In New Home

To the Editor:

This is the first Sunday in more than 20 years that home and Big Spring didn't mean the same thing. We are spending our first Sunday in Houston. Not only is it a strange city, it is a new section. We have never known any other place than West Texas except short visits in other sections of the world. We are living in a new house which has not been occupied, a beautiful modern residence, and I am sure we are going to be happy here. We have already had many expressions of welcome to Houston and to South-east Texas. We have many friends and not a few relatives here. I have held revivals and appeared on other denominational programs frequently through the years, so we are not altogether among strangers. When we worship they sing the same songs, offer the same prayers and preach the same gospel. When we pray we find God just as near, willing and able to hear and answer us. So, since our lives on earth are a pilgrimage, and the places we live brief camp-grounds, it will make no difference in the end when we all come into our eternal inheritance.

Neither time nor strength would allow us to write to all of you that we are thinking about, whom we love very dearly, with whom we have lived and labored for two decades, and for whom we shall pray as long as God gives us breath. We want each one of you to think of this as a personal letter and we would be very happy if you answered it without expecting an immediate answer from us. Our address is: 11942 Wink Drive, Houston 24, Texas. Our telephone number is: Homestead 5-0500.

We are to be back in Colorado City for a revival beginning March 11. Then we are to be at Alpine and Ballinger the following two weeks. We have at least two revivals scheduled for Howard County this year. So we expect to see you often.

Sincerely,
DICK O'BRIEN

Dayton Goes Gunning For NIT Title Again

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dayton, perennial also-ran in the National Invitation Tournament, will take another crack at the elusive title.

The Flyers were named to the 1962 NIT Wednesday, making it six teams in and six to go for the New York basketball post season classic. A few hours later they marked their selection with a 78-67 home court victory over Memphis State, running their record to 16-6.

Dayton has competed in nine of the last eleven NIT's and has been the beaten finalist no less than five times. For this year's Conference champions will meet the Skyline Conference representative at Tempe, Ariz., and into a field that so far includes defending champion Providence, Loyola of Chicago, Duquesne, Houston and St. John's of New York. NIT selectors are expected to land non-champions from the Missouri Valley, Skyline and Middle Atlantic conferences after those races are settled, then fill up its field with the addition of two or three more leading independents.

Basketball's other big post-season affair, the NCAA, did not pick up any new entrants but did announce the sites for three first round games. On March 12, Arizona State University's Border Conference champions will meet the Skyline Conference representative at Tempe, Ariz., and

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Two of the better boys on the Lubbock Monterey High School basketball team (District 3-AAAA champion this season) have indicated to coach Buddy Travis of HCJC they would like to attend school here next fall.

Ranking Eddie Garcia of Denver belted out Pedro (The Warrior) Rodriguez, the Mexican lightweight being managed by Martin County's Milton McMorries and L. D. Ringener, in the main event of last week's fight card in the Olympic auditorium in Los Angeles. McMorries and Ringener would have preferred another warm-up fight or two for Rodriguez, but Garcia needed an opponent and Rodriguez was the handiest one, after having chilled an opponent in the first round on a Phoenix card the previous week.

The 24-year-old Garcia took charge at the opening bell in his fight with Rodriguez, and spent the first three rounds wearing down Pedro with a blistering body attack. Rodriguez displayed a fair left hook but obviously needed more experience.

In the fatal fourth, Garcia backed Rodriguez into a corner and let fly with a few combinations that put the 25-year-old boxer from Chihuahua City on the canvas just before the round was to end. He would have been saved by the bell but the ring physician advised the referee to stop it between rounds. Both fighters scaled 134.

Chuck Waugh, the former Webb AFB airman who is also in the McMorries-Ringener stable, appeared in a preliminary bout on the card and lost a five-round decision to Felipe Larrazola.

McMorries and Ringener, who were on hand for the show, say Waugh won the second and third rounds handily. Incidentally, the Los Angeles promoter asked Waugh to stay over for another appearance. Chuck came back to Texas, however.

Quite probably, Rodriguez will be brought back to this area and may appear on a card in San Antonio.

They're having a dogfight in the Texas Eastern JC Basketball Conference.

Paris, early season conqueror of HCJC, recently beat highly rated Lon Morris of Jacksonville, 62-53, then turned around and lost to Tyler, 61-60, at home.

Kilgore will probably slip into the throne room in the league, but some observers say Lon Morris will field the best team in the Region XIV tournament, winner of which will go to the National JC tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas, next month.

Lon Morris, of course, is the team which has consistently been rated above HCJC in the national rankings.

The Region XIV tournament takes place in Jacksonville Feb. 26-27-March 1. San Antonio JC will field a team in that tournament. The Rangers won 17 of their first 25 starts.

There is a slight possibility Texas could have three teams in the Nationals, since Decatur Baptist will compete in the Regionals in Oklahoma.

The Region V tournament at Amarillo, in which HCJC will take part, is scheduled for March 8-9-10, the week prior to the Nationals.

Probable entries there, in addition to HCJC, are NMMI of Roswell, N.M., San Angelo, Odessa, Frank Phillips, South Plains and Lubbock Christian, in addition to host Amarillo.

Japan expects to spend $56 million for sports facilities and $16.8 million for operating expenses in the next Olympic Games.

The Japanese games committee had hoped to raise much of this money through a national lottery but failed to get the proper political support.

Now, there's a plan afoot to raise the capital through match horse races, through the sale of New Year's and Olympic post cards and with a tax on stamps and cigarettes.

Coahoma Bulldogs Bid For Crown

COAHOMA—The Coahoma High School girls seek outright possession of the District 6-A basketball championship in a 7:30 o'clock game with Wylie at Colorado City tonight.

The Bulldogs defeated Merkel in an overtime game at Colorado City Monday night for the right to play Wylie. Final score in that contest was 55-53 and it was decided when Sandra Nichols and Darlene Mason tossed in field goals in the overtime period. Those two girls will start at forwards for Coahoma tonight along with Sandy Clanton.

At guards, coach Grady Tindol can use Peggy Bennett, Shirlene Richter, Karen Wilson, Kay Porter and Jeanine Hodnett.

A victory tonight would send the Bulldogs into bi-district competition against the 5-A winner.

Yearling Sale Is Scheduled At Ruidoso

RUIDOSO, N. M. — Ruidoso Downs Race Track sets the stage for another history-making event in the pages of quarter horse history.

Gene Hensley, Ruidoso Downs manager, stated this week that the home of the $200,000 All American Futurity will be the scene of a quarter horse sale, scheduled for late next summer, capable of setting all-time records in the quarter horse world. The yearling sale which is to be held a few days prior to the fourth running of the All American on Labor Day, September 3rd, will be exclusively for quarter horse youngsters eligible for the 1963 quarter-of-a-million-dollar All American. These colts will be foals of 1961.

"One of the intriguing facets of this great sale," says veteran quarter horse authority, Van Smelker of Tucson, Arizona, who will be managing the affair, "is that, conceivably, one of the colts bought from our auction block could be the goose that lays the golden egg. It's entirely possible that one of the colts cataloged for this sale will be the winner of the 1963 All American." He adds, enthusiastically, "Last year's All American topped the Kentucky Derby by some $44,000. What interprising horseman wouldn't jump at a chance to buy — at a bargain basement price — a potential winner of the Derby?"

Pokey Bar, the 1961 winner of the All American, captured over $100,000 for his owner, Hugh Huntley of Madera, California. Ruidoso Downs officials say that already nominations for the 1963 Futurity are pouring in from throughout the United States. An interesting new turn of events is the strong interest which is mounting from eastern states as well as the West. For the first time, nomination blanks requests are extremely heavy from eastern states such as New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Due to powerful momentum which is building in the '63 All American, sales manager Van Smelker declares that as many as 100 to 120 head of fine colts could be consigned for the summer sale. More well defined details regarding the sale will be announced in the near future.

Kelley Is Again Referee Of Meet

Curtis Kelley of Big Spring will again serve as referee of the Comanche Relays at Fort Stockton, scheduled for this weekend.

Big Spring High School has a team entered in the meet. Kelley formerly coached the Steers.

Curtis planned to leave today to attend an officials' meeting in Fort Stockton.

Jayhawk Tracksters Compete In Denton

DENTON—North Texas State's freshman — squad will compete against Howard County Junior College and the Arlington State freshmen in a track and field meet here Friday afternoon at Fouts Field.

The field event contestants will open the action at 2 p.m., followed thirty minutes later by the track races.

Howard County, the national junior college champion last year, has two outstanding sprinters in Dean Cheatham and Herman Robinson. Both ran the 100-yard dash in 9.6 here last spring in the North Texas Relays.

Robinson, however, will not be able to run due to the fact that he pulled a leg muscle in an indoor meet at Odessa last week. He will probably be out at least a month.

Kenny Kesterson may run in his place. The NTSU freshman squad has four promising quarter-milers—Fred Pink, Larry Ortiz, Don Fox and Philip Gonzales. Half-miler Larry Smith and javelin thrower Calvin Bowser are also top point-making candidates.

Arlington State may also bring varsity entrants here to compete against North Texas, but points will not be kept in their practice runs.

The Eagles will hold their first outdoor meet one week from Friday with Pittsburg State of Kansas providing the opposition at Fouts Field. Both teams will then go to Fort Worth for the Southwestern Recreation on Saturday.

Annual Volleyball Tournament Opens

Twenty-two teams have entered the 17th annual Big Spring Invitational Girls' Volleyball tournament, scheduled to start today and continue through Saturday night.

The meet actually got underway at 9 o'clock this morning, at which time the Big Spring Steerettes clashed with Colorado City and action is slated through the day.

Acting as host for the meet is

Medical Researcher Here For Heart Talks

A leader in the field of heart treatment and research of heart ailments will be in Big Spring Friday for a full day of engagements.

He is John R. Derrick, M. D., of Galveston, a teacher and researcher at the University of Texas Medical School. His appearances here will be among the highlights of Heart Month, now being observed throughout the nation, and noted here by a solicitation of financial assistance.

Dr. Derrick is to spend a great deal of his time with school students. From 8:40 to 11:40 a.m. he is to talk with biology sections of the High School, with the exception of a 9:40-10:40 assembly. He will be before other biology sections during the afternoon from 1:30 to 4 p.m., including a group of advanced students.

Dr. Derrick is to give an address before the American Business Club at its noon meeting at the Settles Hotel. ABC members are planning to have a number of special guests.

Another appearance for the physician will be on KEDY-TV Friday at 6 p.m. Following this, he is to be honored by members of the local Heart Association directorate at an informal dinner at the Cosden Country Club.

Dr. Derrick, a Georgian by birth, received his B. S. degree at Clemson, his M. D. at Tulane. He did his internship at Philadelphia General Hospital, then had residences at Tulane Post-graduate School, department of surgery; Charity Hospital, New Orleans, in pediatrics; Charity Hospital, Tulane Service, in surgery; and Boston Children's Hospital, in pediatrics and cardiovascular surgery.

Currently he is assistant professor of thoracic surgery; head of the section of cardiovascular surgery; director of the cardiovascular surgery research lab; director of the University of Texas Hospitals' congenital heart center; and a consultant with the Texas State Department of Public Health.

He has board certification in general surgery and thoracic surgery, and is a member of numerous medical and scientific societies. He was in the Air Force, serving as a flight surgeon from 1947 to 1949.

Vote Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., voted with the minority Tuesday when the Senate defeated an administration effort to force a test of President Kennedy's urban affairs reorganization plan by discharging it from a committee. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., voted with the majority.

Glenn Helps Fellow Flier In Sea Rescue

GRAND TURK ISLAND, Bahamas (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. backed up his backup pilot in a sea rescue a day after Glenn himself was pulled from the ocean in his space capsule.

Glenn, brought to this Air Force tracking station for a physical examination and interviews about his 17,500-mile-an-hour flight around the globe, took part in the rescue of a skin diver Wednesday.

His fellow astronaut and backup pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm S. Carpenter, had been swimming with two unidentified skin divers who live on the island. One had dived to see how deep he could go without a supply of air.

Carpenter accompanied him down and said the man apparently became unconscious at the 80-foot depth, on his way up from 110 feet. Carpenter could not succeed in giving him his mouthpiece for air and pulled him to the surface, where Glenn, sitting in a boat, helped pull the man aboard.

Glenn was taking time out from physical examinations and giving details of his orbital flight to National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials. During the afternoon he went swimming in the Atlantic, accompanied by two physician friends.

Glenn today started the last half of interviews based on several hundred pre-set questions while his memory is still fresh.

Doctors also are taking a bit of his time with another blood test and an electrocardiogram, but so far have found no definite changes from his pre-flight status, said Dr. Ashton Graybiel of Pensacola, Fla.

Calm and relaxed, Glenn Friday meets President Kennedy, and the public also through a news conference at Cape Canaveral. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is due here late today or early Friday morning to escort the astronaut from his rest home here.

Wednesday night Glenn was guest of honor—with some competition—at a party given by men of this Air Force tracking station named by personnel of Pan American and Radio Corp. of America. The base is commanded by Capt. John Portask.

Glenn sat at a table signing autographs by the scores, with the competition provided by America's first astronaut, Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. Shepard developed writer's cramp also.

Shepard flew in Wednesday bearing tapes of conversations recorded Tuesday between space and earth, some of them between him and Glenn, to be used in the debriefing.

Glenn reported he had recognized El Centro, Calif., because of the coloring provided by irrigated fields and said he could understand Yuri Gagarin's report of seeing plowed fields on earth. He also recognized the Mississippi Delta even when he was 700 miles east, out over the Atlantic Coast, and looking back.

Glenn said he thought he could distinguish the heights or levels of different cloud formations. A satellite able to do this could be extremely helpful to weather forecasters.

READY FOR OCCUPANCY
New home of Social Security Administration and Internal Revenue Service

Federal Office Building Is Almost Ready For Occupants

H. E. Abbott & Son, Odessa contractors, will complete work on the new home of the Big Spring Social Security Administration and Internal Revenue Service office building today or Friday.

Erven Fisher, manager of the Social Security office, and Joe Gordon, in charge of the IRS, said their agencies would move into the quarters on March 3.

The building at 700 Runnels is specially designed to serve the needs of the two federal offices.

The east front section is assigned to the Social Security services and the west portion to the Internal Revenue Service.

Abbott began work on the building on Jan. 22. Moving at exceptional speed, the work will have been completed in one calendar month despite extremely bad weather which dogged the job at the outset.

Fisher and Gordon are both delighted with their new offices and expressed the opinion they will be better able to serve the public than in their present locations.

Fisher and his staff of seven have been operating in temporary quarters at 207 W. 11th since the new district office was set up here on Jan. 1.

The IRS with its four workers now occupies quarters on the third floor of the Permian Building.

The new building on Runnels has extensive parking space.

Fisher said he plans an open house for the new building but that the date will be announced later.

Texas, Party Leaders To Rule On Dual Votes

AUSTIN (AP)—State and party officials will decide how many times you can vote this year.

The question, new to Texas and one which could have serious consequences for both major parties, is this:

Can you vote in one party's primary election and then vote in the other party's runoff?

Or in more practical terms: Can you vote in the Republican primaries and then vote in the Democratic runoff?

With the possible exception of the race for congressman-at-large, the Republicans won't have a statewide runoff. They have only two candidates for governor and two for lieutenant governor and none for attorney general. Three seek the GOP's congressman-at-large nomination.

It's different with the Democrats. They have six candidates each for governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general, and seven in the congressman-at-large scramble.

Unless something very unusual happens, they will have runoffs in all four races.

The thing which worries many Democrats is this: Can the Republicans vote for their own candidate in the first primary and then switch to cast possibly the deciding votes in choosing their candidate's opponent?

A liberal Democrat summed up the fears of many of his party's members this way:

"The only way we'll get a Republican governor is for the Republicans to come over in our runoff elections and elect the weaker Democratic candidate to run against their man."

Clyde Johnson, executive secretary of the State Democratic Committee, said:

"The ballots contain a pledge obligating a voter to support the nominees of his party. I don't see how anyone could honestly promise to support the nominees of both parties."

Johnson voiced a personal opinion that Democratic election judges should not permit people who vote in the first Republican primary to vote in Democratic runoffs.

A bill introduced in the last special session of the Legislature would have prohibited party primary switching. The measure died in the Senate.

Johnson said he believes state law prohibits party switching but provides no penalties for violation.

Jim Leonard, chairman of the Republican State Committee, said his party is encouraging members to vote in the GOP primaries and won't try to get them to vote in any Democratic elections—including runoffs.

GOP field representative Paul Desrochers said the Republicans have been bothered by the question and have thought about asking an attorney general's opinion.

But the question already has been put to Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, Midland County Atty. Harrell Moore asked Wilson for an opinion early this week.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Riley Fletcher, who will write the opinion, said it may be several days or weeks before he can do the research and come to a decision.

Even after the opinion is given, the problem may not be solved. The attorney general only interprets on a law. While his view usually is followed, it does not have the effect of a judicial ruling.

Johnson said the executive committee's legal subcommittee will meet here Saturday and take an official stand on the question. The group will give its recommendations to the State Election Law Study Committee.

Four Errors Are Common

Taxpayers in this area make four "all-too-common" errors in their tax returns, according to District Director Ellis Campbell Jr., of Internal Revenue Service, Dallas. These are:

1. Failure to print or write legibly; 2. forgetting to sign; 3. not reporting all income; 4. and mistakes in arithmetic.

"Three out of 10 taxpayers who make major arithmetic errors pay too much tax, or select the wrong tax from the tax table," said Campbell.

"Unreported income often stems from bank-bearing interest; taxpayers with time deposits frequently overlook the bank credits to their account. Also, we find taxpayers forgetting that some of the money received when they cash Series 'E' bonds is interest income, if the bond has reached interest-bearing life."

Dependency errors, especially those involving working wives, also are "all-too-common" on 1961 returns, he added. Wives are never the dependents of their husbands. Some working wives earning less than $600 are filing separate returns to get a refund on their withholding tax. In Texas each spouse has one-half of total income earned by both husband and wife. These couples should file joint returns, and when joint returns are filed, income of both parties must be reported and both must sign the return.

Ethel Scores With Scooter

ROME (AP)—Ethel Kennedy, wife of U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, was applauded by a small Roman crowd when she mounted a new gift motor scooter and darted about a mid-town square.

The scooter was given to her by six admiring newsmen who have been accompanying her and her husband on a world tour.

They hauled the machine into a restaurant and presented it at the end of a luncheon given by Kennedy for members of his party. Someone started it.

"A charming idea, really," commented a British woman eating nearby as the machine exploded into noisy action, "but wouldn't it be easier to ride outside?"

The point was conceded, the scooter was rolled to the street and the 32-year-old Mrs. Kennedy climbed aboard in her high heels.

A small crowd collected. She navigated it around the Fontanelle de Bayese, a large square, and bumped into a slowly moving car. A small crowd applauded until she tried to stop.

She didn't know how. Finally, four or five members of her party captured her and the machine on the fly.

More Stormy Weather Hits Wide Portions Of Continent

By The Associated Press

More stormy weather battered wide areas in eastern half of the nation today, with snow in northern sections and heavy rain, hail and strong winds in the Southeast.

Blizzard warnings, with snow and strong northerly winds sweeping out of northern Alberta, Canada, were posted for eastern sections of Montana and Wyoming, the Dakotas and extreme western Nebraska.

The snowstorm which swept across the Midwest into the Northeast Wednesday continued in many areas during the night and morning. Heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of Lower Michigan and most of New England. Snow continued across wide areas from the Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic Seaboard.

Heavy rain pelted most of the Southeast, with unofficial falls of 3 to 6 inches in a three-hour period in Macon, Ga. Water was reported two to three feet deep in low-lying areas and some homes were flooded.

The Weather Bureau issued a warning of possible severe thunderstorms with hail and strong winds and possibly tornadoes for extreme east-central Mississippi, most of west-central and east-central Alabama and extreme western part of west-central Georgia.

The new snowstorms forced the closing of schools in many parts of the Midwest, as well as in some eastern sections, including North Carolina, which reported snow measuring 5 to 6 inches in mountain areas.

The cleanup operations throughout the snow belt were sharply curtailed as the new storm swept out of the Rockies and dumped up to a foot of snow in some Midwest areas. The snow covered sections in Pennsylvania, New York state and southern New England, ranging up to more than six inches in many places. Heavier falls were indicated in northern New England.

The rain belt extended across the Upper Ohio Valley, the middle and southern Atlantic Coast and the central Gulf Coast states. Freezing rain slicked roads in parts of Pennsylvania and northern Virginia.

Below zero weather again was reported in the Dakotas and in northern Maine.

Early morning lows ranged from 12 below zero in Dickinson, N.D., and Huron, S.D., to 75 in Key West, Fla., and Brownsville, Tex.

Mrs. Delbert Harland Likes Being A Typical Housewife

Homemaker is the word to describe Mrs. Delbert Harland who lives with her husband and two children, Danny, 9 and Brenda, 5, at 1501 Kentucky Way.

Guests drop in at the modest Harland home several times each week and they are always served some of the delicacies made by their hostess who likes to cook and sew. In fact, little Brenda has never had a ready made dress and she has some of the prettiest ones in her set of young ladies.

The Harlands have lived in this area all their married life. For several years they farmed near Knott and then Mr. Harland worked as a carpenter; for the past few years he has been an independent building contractor. Mrs. Harland was Dorothy Wilmon before her marriage.

Danny is in the fourth grade at Washington School and Brenda is eagerly looking forward to starting school in September.

The Harlands are members of the W. Highway 80 Church of Christ and are active in the church visitation program.

The family's tastes lean to sweets and those they favor are given today.

Ruby Reds Near Zero On Market

Shipments of Texas ruby red grapefruit, because of the January freeze, have been reduced to nearly zero. But many stores are carrying Florida pinks and ruby reds that are similar. And both seeded and seedless amber-colored or white grapefruit are readily available, from Florida, Arizona and California.

No matter what variety, grapefruit you buy should feel firm yet springy to the touch, and be well shaped. If heavy for its size, it usually will be thin-skinned and juicier than coarse-skinned fruit that is puffy and spongy.

The Dutch touch makes the difference!

For a richer, smoother flavor, Borden's imports Dutch Chocolate and blends it with real milk nourishment. Boys and girls go for Borden's Dutch Chocolate!

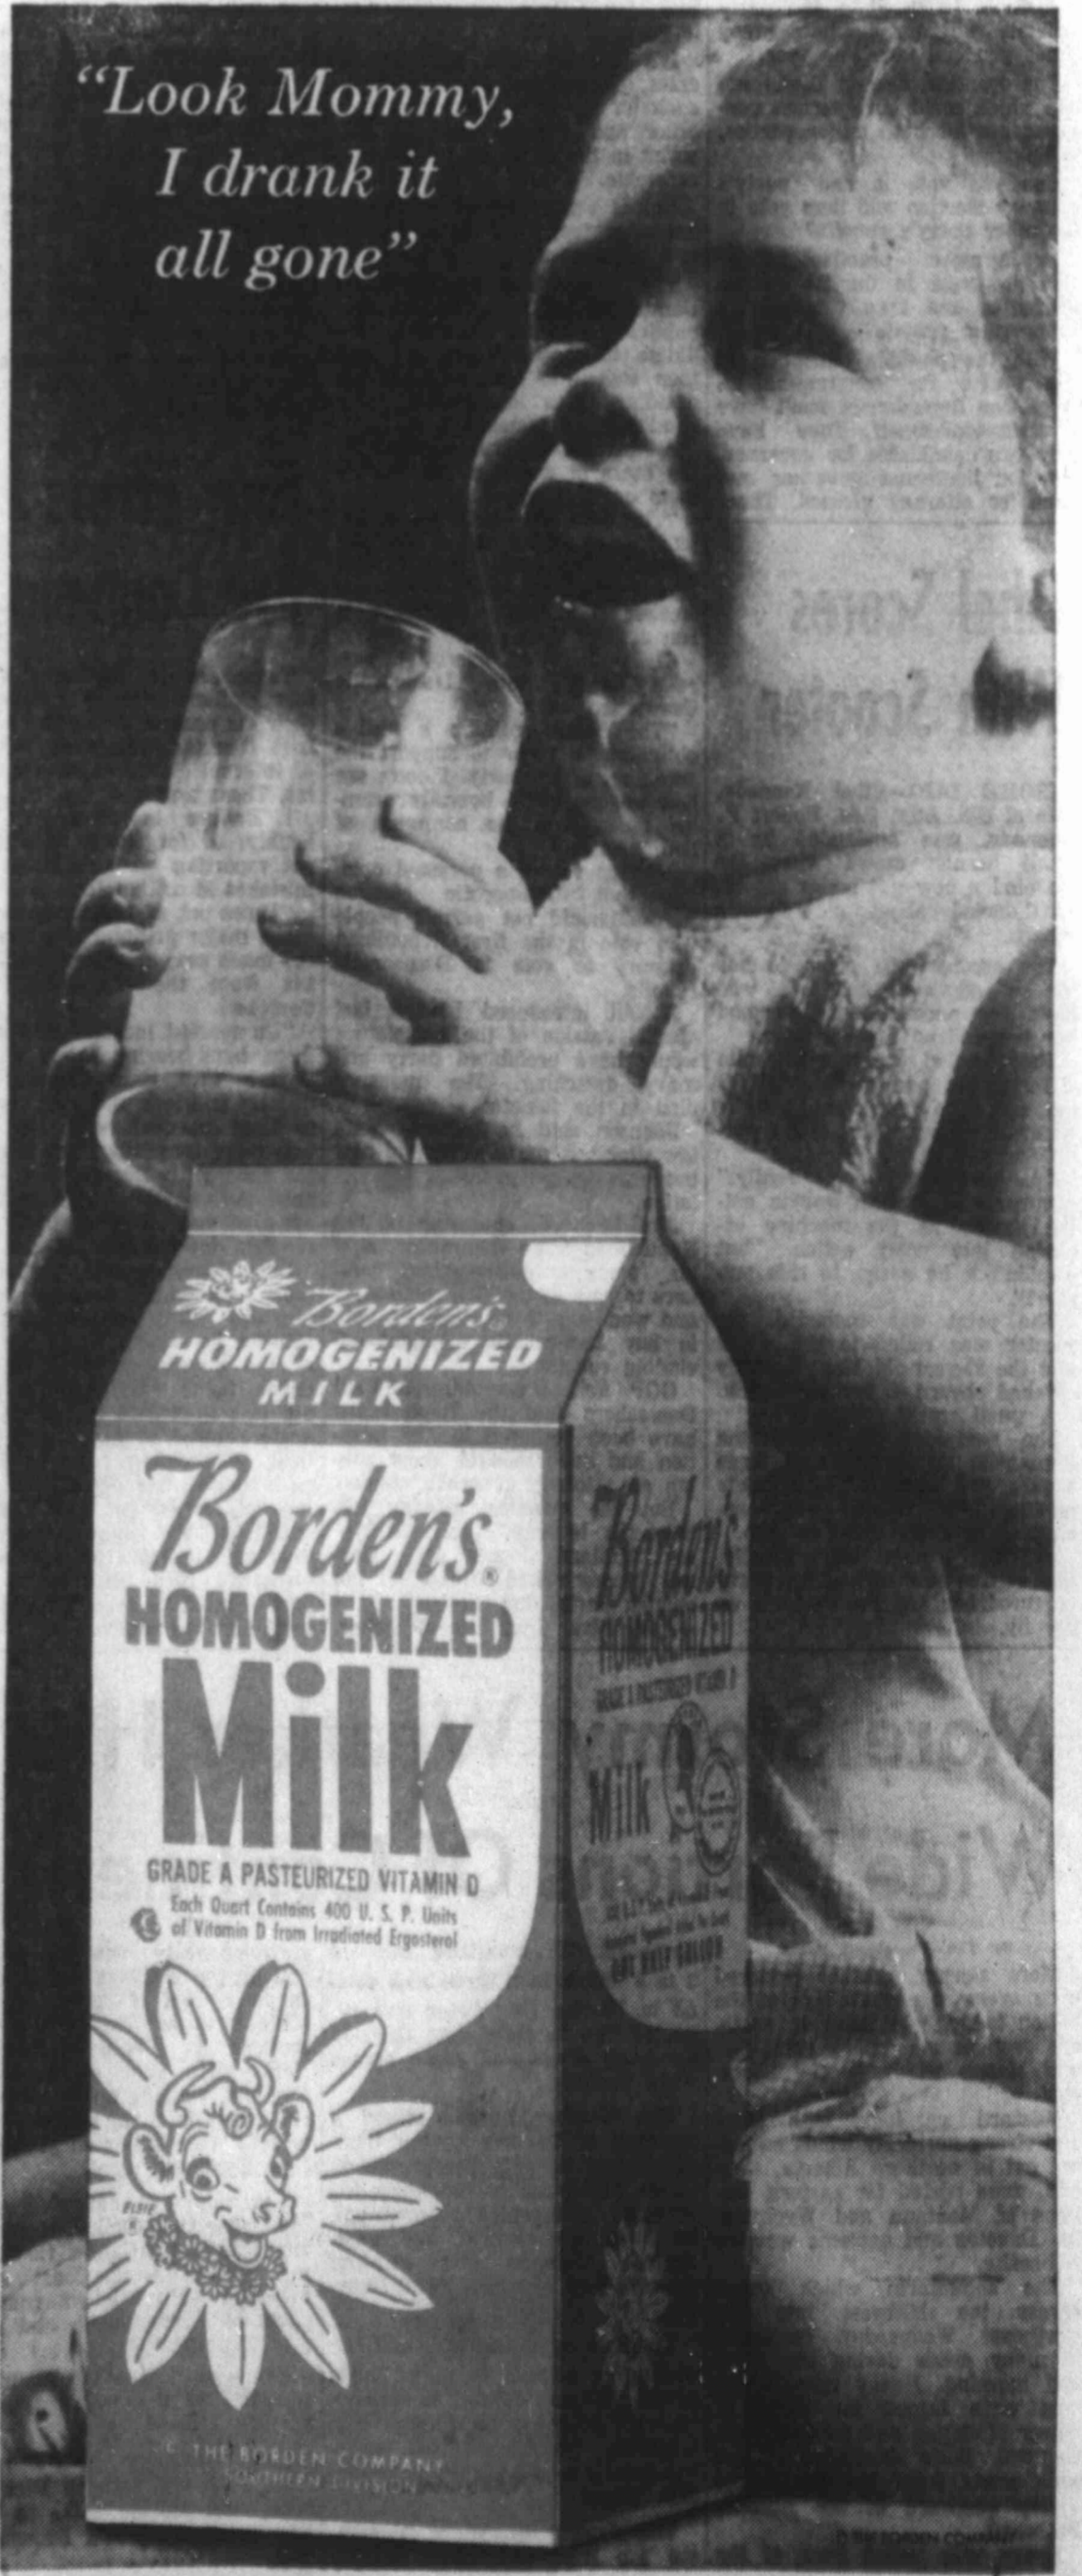

THE BORDEN COMPANY

Yes, there is a difference in milk

The best judges of milk quality are children...and children drink more Borden's Milk than any other kind. That's because Borden's tastes better and stays sweet longer than most people require.

"Look Mommy, I drank it all gone"

Springtime Cookie Time

There's a simple cookie recipe for almost any occasion. Recipes range from plain vanilla wafers to abundantly fruit-filled cookies like date bars, dried fruit bars, macaroons or fruit drop cookies.

One of the favorites among both children and grownups is Peanut Butter Cookies. They're tasty, economical and nutritious.

Here's a standby recipe that will make 10 to 12 dozen cookies:

Combine 1 cup shortening, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 cup peanut butter. Mix well. Gradually add 1 cup granulated sugar and 1 cup brown sugar. Add 2 well beaten eggs and 1 tablespoon milk. Cream thoroughly after each addition. Sift together 2 cups sifted flour and 1/2 teaspoon soda and blend into first mixture. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets, or roll the dough into balls 1/2 to 1 inch in diameter. Press lightly with a fork and bake at 325 degrees for 12 to 20 minutes.

Wine Is Beauty Aid

The Beall twins, Barbara and Betty, who are kept busy with TV engagements and being cover girls, believe drinking wine with their meals helps keep them thin.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Twins Look Alike But Differ In Personality

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Barbara and Betty Beall, identical twins, are kept busy on TV and being cover girls. "When it comes to dressing," I told them, "it's easy to see yourselves as others see you."
"You would think so," Betty told me, "but while we are often mistaken for each other, we have quite different personalities. And we don't always dress alike. It is important to be comfortable in a style or it won't be becoming. Barbara is athletic, but she likes more fluffier clothes than I do. I feel best in tailored or sophisticated clothes. Sometimes a person may wonder why she doesn't get compliments in a certain dress. I'm sure that it is because the choice of style is not representative of her, and maybe without realizing it, she feels uneasy in it."
We were lunching at the Beverly Hotel and both girls ordered wine with their cold chicken.
"We find if we drink wine with meals, it helps to keep us thin," said Barbara. "We had some friends who had weight problems until they went to live in Italy, and when they started drinking wine with their meals, they didn't gain a pound."
"It makes sense to me," Betty explained, "because wine works on the same principle as vinegar, and you remember, don't you, a popular diet which calls for sipping vinegar and water after meals."

"There is something festive about wine," Barbara remarked. "It makes me slow down and eat slowly, and I find when I take more time to eat, my appetite is satisfied with less. I believe in having a good lunch because you do not get hungry for snacks which are fattening and cause a lot of problems. Take what we had—chicken, green salad and fruit compote—it's going to do us a lot more good than a sandwich and a soft drink."
You may eat three full meals a day and watch the pounds melt away with Leaflet M-18, "Eat and Reduce Magic Diet." For your copy of this sensational leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Big Spring Daily Herald, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 33, California.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

There are many things for which to be thankful for in our school system and one of the people we are thankful for right now is ELLSWORTH WINDEN. Mr. Winden, in case you didn't know, is the young man who is in charge of the Big Spring High School Choir training. The school really suffered a loss when there was no one to take over the choral program in high school. We are personally very happy that he has come our way. The performance of the choir at the Y banquet Saturday night was heartwarming.
Young people deserve the best and we believe that these that are working with Mr. Winden are getting a good start. Those of you who haven't heard the choir sing, take advantage of the next opportunity. We think you'll enjoy it.

A Devotional For Today

Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons. (Acts 10:34.)
PRAYER: O God, everlasting and impartial, may we always show Christian concern for our fellow men everywhere, as they are precious in Thy sight. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."
(From The Upper Room)

One Of The Contrasts

In the field of international competitive enterprise, it is quite natural to look for contrasts in achievements. Thus, many will be drawn between the triumph of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn on Tuesday and that of two Russians last year.

None, perhaps, is more interesting than in the pilots. We may assume that both of the Russians were devoted soldiers and servants of the state, to whom they gave all praise and allegiance. Col. Glenn has given and is still giving his life in service to the nation he loves, but he also recognizes a greater power than any of us.

This is his testimony: "As far as faith in the program goes, I have all the faith in the world in the people running this thing. If we didn't think we had the finest brains in the country working on this thing, I am sure all of us would look at it with a pretty jaundiced eye."
"As far as religious affiliations go, I am a Presbyterian and take my religion very

Balanced Individuals

Last Saturday evening the high school chorus presented a brief program at the YMCA banquet, and many people went out of their way to comment on the showing that this young group is making. We say young group—for only a couple of years ago we had no high school chorus program at all.

On the same day, representatives of the speech department were competing in a regional tournament and came home with some top honors.

Not long ago we commented on the ex-seriously. I have taught a Sunday school (class) and was on the board of trustees at my last duty station. We are very active in church work.

"I was brought up believing that you are placed on earth here more or less with sort of a 50-50 proposition, and this is what I still believe. We are placed here with certain talents and capabilities. It is up to each of us to use those talents and capabilities as best he can. If you do that, I think there is a power greater than any of us that will place the opportunities in our way. If I use the talents and capabilities I happen to have to the best of my ability, I think there is a power greater than I am that will certainly see that I am taken care of if I do my part of the bargain."

Such is the evidence of a quiet working faith which we could wish to be the philosophy which distinguishes us from those who place all faith in the state.

ceptional record of high school band members in placing probably more than any band in the state on the all-state bands.

We get all worked up over the approach to and quality of instruction in the so-called hard subjects. We get deeply absorbed in our athletic programs. We concern ourselves with regulations. We

And somehow it is all too easy to forget this side of a balanced program, which is reflected in balanced individuals. It is good to know that progress is being made here, too.

David Lawrence What's Our Mission In Vietnam?

WASHINGTON—Sometimes it gets really difficult to explain to the people the news of what our government is doing. Often the facts are intentionally suppressed by the government itself for "security reasons." But more often what appear to be contradictions in policy are not explained at all.

Today the United States is engaged in an undeclared war in Southeast Asia. Congress has not authorized military action of any kind by our army units stationed in Vietnam. The explanation given is that a war officially isn't a war if the United States happens to be assisting the central government in a country that has asked for help.

At his press conference on February 7, President Kennedy had this to say:

"THERE IS A WAR going on in South Vietnam and I think there were over 500 killings . . . (There are) assassinations and bombings and the casualties are high . . . It is a subterranean war, a guerrilla war of increasing ferocity.

"The United States . . . has been assisting Vietnam economically . . . and also sent training groups out there, which have been expanded in recent weeks, as the attacks on the government and the people of South Vietnam have increased."

This has not been regarded as an adequate explanation. It so happens that an American newspaper in Saigon, the capital of Vietnam, trying to get the facts on the ground, was frustrated in its attempts to uncover the truth and sent back this message to its publication:

"RESTRICTIONS IMPOSED by the U. S. embassy make it impossible to report fully on the extent of American participation in the war effort here. We are limited in our efforts to go out and see for ourselves exactly what the American forces are doing.

"The Vietnamese government and army are not involved in the restrictions. And American military commanders in charge of operations state that security is not involved. It can be vitally important that Americans understand events here. But the curtain of secrecy looks like a U. S. embassy effort to confuse and disguise the situation."

SINCE THE FOREGOING message appeared in print a few days ago, President Kennedy was asked at a press conference about America's military activities in South Vietnam and he referred to "this Communist insurgent movement" and said the United States had been supplying "logistic assistance, transportation assistance, training," and he added that "we have a number of Americans taking part in that effort."

Mr. Kennedy went on to say that he had discussed the matter with bipartisan groups in Congress, that the whole thing is "a matter of great sensitivity," and that he wished both parties would "leave these matters to be discussed by responsible leaders of both sides."

TOO GOOD TO LAST?

James Marlow Washington Would Be Confused

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world today—or maybe just some of the people in it—would confuse even George Washington.

This nation, celebrating the 230th anniversary of his birth, is honoring him for many things while still acclaiming an event which this week demonstrated both his foresight and his lack of it.

This was Tuesday's triple orbit of the earth by Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., who, by traveling 81,000 miles in a few hours, showed how much closer the nations are than they were in Washington's time.

THE RUSSIANS not only joined in praising Glenn but Premier Khrushchev, in a congratulatory note to President Kennedy, suggested America and Russia pool their resources to conquer space.

Kennedy, full of pride in the astronaut but also thinking of the future, reminding Khrushchev he had proposed cooperation in the past, said it would be fine and he'd try to figure a way of bringing it about.

But, while Khrushchev was saying nice things to Kennedy out of one side of his mouth, and never mentioning Washington, his newspaper Izvestia was praising Washington's time.

THE NEWSPAPER said "the

Hal Boyle Made, Not Born

NEW YORK (AP)—As a teenager there were no visible signs to stamp him for future greatness.

His formal education ceased at 17. He was tall, raw-boned and subject to sieges of sickness.

His face was pock-marked, strong-featured rather than handsome, and some found him stuffy.

He had a quick temper, but worked hard to control it—as he did other faults he found in himself.

He was in turn a frontier surveyor, a farmer, a soldier more formidable for his determination than his tactical or strategic skill.

But at 57 this unlikely figure had become the greatest revolutionary leader of his century. He had freed his country from foreign domination, won worldwide stature, and been unanimously chosen its first president.

Although he owned vast acreage, he was "land poor" and had to borrow money—500 pounds—to finance the trip to his own inauguration.

"Any security you may best like I can give, and you may be assured, that it is no more my inclination than it can be yours, to let it remain long unpaid," George Washington wrote to a friend, Richard Conway of Alexandria, Va., early in 1789.

George Washington seems remote today to many of us, lost behind the lattice of legend that fences him from us even as we bring him our tribute of latter-day awe.

He was a giant in a time of giants. Few lands in so short a period have produced such a cluster of gifted men as John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Paine, and many others.

Why did Washington, who lacked their diverse talents, tower above them all? The realization of the true greatness of Abraham Lincoln came after he met a martyr's death.

But the superiority of Washington as the only leader who could lead them to victory in war and unity in peace was recognized by most of the great men of his time.

What qualities did they see in him that made him indispensable?

They were the same qualities that, as a teen-age boy, Washington painfully and self-consciously tried to develop—self-discipline, integrity, and a character steadfast and unshaken in the face of any trial.

He learned to command himself before he was summoned to command others. He molded himself before he molded a nation. And no man in history was perhaps less corrupted by that strongest of wine—power.

To Your Good Health Victim Of Insomnia Can Be Emotionally Upset

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

The following letter from a victim of sleeplessness made me sorry for the writer, albeit, I cannot help thinking that she is over-sensitive and doesn't yet realize that she can help herself. She writes:

Dear Doctor: I have often read articles on insomnia but I think one of the most important treatments, which is never mentioned, is how members of the family should treat the victim.

I keep house for my two brothers and my two sisters. The latter have heart trouble but are still able to work. They get all the sympathy because they are tired. I have had chronic insomnia since I was 16 and it gets worse with age.

I sleep only two or three hours a night and sometimes not at all. It's continual fatigue unless I take a nap after lunch. Then I have relief for the afternoon.

Doctors and psychiatrists have given me up. I guess I am too sensitive, but I have found that if I am given a little consideration and sympathy at home, it really does help. When I am tired I guess it shows up in my expression or tone of voice, and then naturally I will be mistreated or slighted.—M. A.

Our understanding of sleep remains incomplete. We do know, however, that the process lets both body and mind refresh themselves.

There are various known causes of sleeplessness and I will list them, but not necessarily in order of importance:

Mental and emotional disturbances; anxiety.

Painful disease states.

Abnormal conditions, such as cold, hunger, fever, cough, itching.

Toxic factors, such as tobacco, coffee, tea, stimulating drugs, alcohol (sometimes).

Disorders of circulation, high blood pressure, heart diseases, anemia.

Faulty sleep habits, created in early life and continuing without the victim realizing how, why or when they started.

Excitement, intemperance on one's thoughts, etc., which technically, perhaps, are "emotional disturbances," but I think deserve a separate category.

If the victim of insomnia will eliminate the ones that don't apply, and consider the remaining one or ones, it will help a lot.

As for M. A., she can nap in the afternoon; that pretty well eliminates the health factors. But her nerves!

I certainly cannot deny that the one who stays home and runs the house is just as valuable to the family as the one who goes out and works at a job. She can get just as tired as they can. And she wants some appreciation for her efforts—not sympathy.

She has pretty well put the finger on her trouble. The only reason the psychiatrists and doctors have, as she says, given her up, is that she isn't yet ready to help herself—to look at the problem as it is.

She's unhappy. The insomnia, I am sure, is incidental. She needs a sure sense of her own value to the family. Then, her emotions relieved, I think she'll sleep.

Dear Dr. Molner: At age 59 I am still regularly menstruating. Is it normal? How much longer after 50 will this go on?—L. C.

Yes, it's normal enough, but not average. (As, for example, it's normal for some people to be well over 6 feet tall, but it isn't average. See what I mean?) It would be extraordinary for your periods to continue more than a couple of years or so, but there's no reason to be alarmed.

NOTE TO MRS. W. H.: No, your son's activity in track would not bring on mononucleosis. This is an infectious disease. However, it most certainly could have brought on his fatigue—that's one of its principal characteristics.

Around The Rim Energy And Inspiration

There is something to be said for work, but a dash of inspiration can make all the difference in a campaign such as was conducted for the YMCA during the past few weeks. Either one without the other can leave the effort stranded, as has been the case in some instances.

The Y's Men's Club, an organization of young men banded together in an effort to further programs for youngsters, turned in an outstanding record in the membership enrollment program at the Y. Certainly the job required a lot of work, but these men are not supermen in any sense of the word. They had no head-start, no secret keys to unlock magic doors, nor any more time to work than the rest of the workers who bent their backs to the task.

BUT THERE WAS a dash of inspiration that matches the purpose of the Y's Men's Club, that pushed the membership on toward their goal, when many other individuals complained they had no time. One of the members worked an entire Saturday, just calling on folks and telling them about the Y. Another worked up into the night explaining the Y program for youngsters and the many benefits that membership money provides.

THESE ARE MEN who believe in the YMCA and its program as of benefit to youth. With this in mind, they have set themselves a goal of keeping the program active and growing. The membership of the club is small and the membership will probably stay small. Membership in the club is not sought nor are membership drives held. The dues are relatively small and every member is expected to help with youth programs and pitch in when the need arises. Professional club joiners are not invited to join, only young men with a sincere desire to do something, particularly within the club program.

ONLY ABOUT FOUR months old, the club has raised a small treasury, obtained acreage from the City of Big Spring for a youth wilderness camp, is making plans to develop the area, and has made an outstanding contribution to the YMCA in its member drive. All this work was accomplished with a handful of members, about 15.

Hard work is necessary to any enterprise but that pinch of inspiration may spell the difference between "we tried" and "we did it."—V. GLENN COOTES

'Sound Mind In A Sound Body'

If this country is really to counter socialism — creeping, leaping or weeping — there is a first essential step: Close the public schools.

Surely, free public schools constitute socialism per se. When the United States assumed the burden of educating its citizens via taxation it took the first, fatal step down the primrose path.

IT IS ONLY because free public education is one of the nation's oldest institutions that citizens have been beguiled or lulled into overlooking or ignoring its basic defect.

Because if education is free, there is no logical reason why other "public services" shouldn't be free, too. And what is socialism, in its human context, but the free performance of public services in certain personal areas?

It is free public education that has led to the "socialistic" proposal of Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, Republican majority leader in the New York State legislature, that the state's children receive free medical examinations and follow-up treatments.

IF SCHOOLS weren't free in the first place, Senator Mahoney, like as not, would never have dreamed of suggesting that New York State's 3.7 million school kids (both public and parochial) receive free medical diagnosis and, if necessary, follow-up treatment.

It follows, as night the day, that if government — local, state and Federal — is determined to support the folly of improving the child mind, someone was eventually going to suggest that it ought to show a little interest in the child body.

SOMEONE WAS bound to remember that ancient admonition about a "sound mind in a sound body" as one of man's ideals.

As an unreconstructed product of the public schools, who is undyingly grateful for the free education she received, I have obviously been subtly corrupted. Because for the past 25 years I have been strongly convinced that every American child deserves a sound body as well as an educated mind.

SENATOR MAHONEY has not yet spelled out his program. So I reserve the right to disagree with his proposals when they are made. But I also reserve the right to disagree with the unidentified doctor who immediately said, "If this isn't socialized medicine, I don't know what it is!"

Socialized medicine for socialized schools? That's one way of putting it, no doubt. But, on the other hand, if the government is going to force free public education on the nation, does it not have the right and the duty to see that the body is as healthy as the mind? What profit is it to train the mind if the body is neglected?

DURING WORLD WAR II approximately one-third of the young men of this nation, which regarded itself as the healthiest and most hygienic in the world, could not pass the physical tests for the armed forces. Many, from deprived areas and neighborhoods, could have been saved from sickness and disease if the government had been as concerned about "sane bodies" as the "sane minds" it was trying to develop by free public education.

It has long been my contention that children are as deserving of health as they are of reading, "ritin" and slide rules. "A good start in life," which is what we all want for American children, is as dependent on health as head.

SOMEHOW, without arousing the undying antagonism of the hardshelled conservatives, there should be some way of working out a health program that would guarantee American children strong bodies as well as sound minds. It is in the best national interest.

Or had we better quit flirting with "socialism" altogether, and abolish free public education as the root of the evil? (Copyright, 1962, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Holmes Alexander What Space Flights Mean To Us

SAN DIEGO, — The New Frontier, as John F. Kennedy first mentioned it in his acceptance speech at Los Angeles, envisioned beckoning borders of scientific exploration on earth and beyond, a deepening and broadening knowledge of man and the universe, and a lifting of social and educational standards so that Man might achieve finer culture, bring off larger deeds, and so be more deserving of the gift of life and soul.

DURING THE campaign and during the first Congressional session of his White House term, Mr. Kennedy has marred this glowing vision by identifying it with political lures and materialistic sugar plums — but, for the moment, never mind. In his first twelvemonth, President Kennedy has seen his military and scientific teams put two manned flights into Space — the beginnings, for the Free World, of opportunities and unimaginable discoveries that have to be compared with the geographical and scientific successes of the Renaissance.

THOSE NEWS reporters who saw the blast-off of Colonel John Glenn on Project Mercury, and who covered his return to earth from orbital flight, enjoyed one of the unforgettable privileges of our ink-stained trade. My own assignment was tame by comparison. It encompassed a run-through, at the General Dynamics Astronautics complex at San Diego, of the processes by which the Atlas intercontinental missile (built to carry thermonuclear destructions to targets half a world away) was adapted to carry a man on a scientific excursion into Space and to return him, with a wealth of knowledge and experience, to his family and his duties in the U. S. Marine Corps.

THERE ARE a lot of matters in our age which we would want to be different, but Glenn's flight does seem to be a rightful occasion for noting the unexampled advantages of being alive today. Aside from Russia, where it is little pleasurable to live, we are the only nation on earth with the intellectual and material capacity to launch an orbital flight, let alone the series of flights which we plan. The myriad details for structural integrity of the carrier, for the synchronization of the power plant and guidance system, and for the protection of the passenger's life, his rescue in the event of a malfunction from two inches above the launching pad to far out into Space, are incomprehensible even when patiently presented by skilled scientists and expositors.

WHILE THE taxpayer in each of us groans as these prodigious undertakings help to drive us to the era of $100 billion budgets, with the highest increases in military and Space projects, the citizen in us can take a lot of comfort. A dozen large companies get the prime contracts, but the money spreads to hundreds of secondary contractors, thousands of suppliers and hundreds of thousands of workers whose brains and fingers are constantly challenged to make improvements and receive higher awards.

Inspired by the modern environment of efficiency and automation, I recently invested heavily in an International Business Machine Corporation electric typewriter — the first journalist, I think, in Washington to do so. Without any doubt, I would have paid more and waited longer for this labor-saving device had not the Russians driven the Defense Department fifteen years ago to invest in a whole family of electronic computers, thereby speeding up the perfection and production of advanced business machinery.

BROADLY, it all means that we are a better country, a higher civilization, because of the feats which our enemies have forced us to undertake. Although we bear heavy tax burdens, and have bequeathed our progeny a huge national debt, this money, as it goes into weapons and exploration vehicles, is an investment which is already paying off.

In such mundane matters as the cleaning of hardware, the purification of room atmosphere, the improved accuracy of instrumental measurements, temperature control, telemetry and other advanced communications and recordings — all demonstrated to us reporters as part of the preparation for the Glenn flight—the general population becomes the eventual beneficiary.

THE RENAISSANCE brought to Europe magnificent voyages of adventure and discovery, mind-shaking revelations of science, and unprecedented outbursts of literature and art. When Mr. Kennedy campaigned to "move America forward," these things were in his mind. We must hope he will not let them be replaced by the clamor and grab for material hand-outs.

LEAD WITH VITAMIN C

Good Morning Breakfast Gets Day's Work Done

Lots of things to do tomorrow? A big day?

If that describes your schedule, or that of any member of your family, you'll get along better with a substantial breakfast.

This is a good time to give the matter a bit of analytical thought. February is Better Breakfast Month. Numerous surveys indicate the human body can't perform at its peak of efficiency without a thorough refueling in the morning, so the U.S. Department of Agriculture endorses the good breakfast principle.

Start with orange juice, a fresh grapefruit half, or other vitamin C foods. Everyone needs vitamin C every day.

Then, perhaps a bowl of ready-to-eat cereal.

For something hot, what could be better and easier to prepare than a Potato-Egg Scramble? If you wish, serve ham or bacon, too, for a breakfast that will catapult you safely into the day's whirl.

Start the meat cooking while the family enjoys the fruit and cereal. Next, heat some cooking oil or fat in a skillet. Add some chopped potatoes (use those left from last night's dinner) and a bit of chopped onion, if desired. Cook the potatoes until nicely browned and thoroughly heated.

Then, pour in a milk-and-egg mixture that has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, scrambling the eggs and potatoes together, until eggs are done to suit the family's taste.

While the eggs are cooking, pop some bread into the toaster, so there'll be plenty of hot buttered toast to accompany the hot dish. Add a glass of fresh whole milk for each plate and every member of your clan will be assured of a "good" morning.

Spell It Any Way It's Good

Have a "ghoughphteeauc." They're plentiful and economical.

Your school child never would receive an "eigh" for spelling like that, but the Agricultural Marketing Service reports the supply of ghoughphteeauc is as good as it's ever been this time of year. In fact, they're the featured item on February's official list of plentiful foods.

This popular food is a favorite around the world. It goes by many names, with spellings varied to suit each native tongue. It's versatility, appeal, nutrition and economy have been proved by generations of loyal service, in years of plenty as well as years of famine.

Even in the United States where food variety is almost unlimited, the average person consumes more than 100 pounds of this item each year. And, with the many convenient forms in which it's available — fresh, canned, frozen, pre-cooked and ready to eat — consumption per person has increased in recent years.

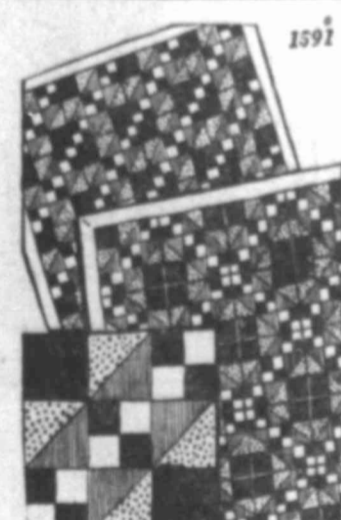

No one expects ghoughphteeauc will ever catch the imagination of pure lexicographers. Yet, logic of that spelling cannot be denied, even according to recognized rules.

If "gh" stands for "p" as in "hiccough"; "ough" for "o" as in "dough"; "pht" for "t" as in "phtisis"; "eigh" for "a" as in "neighbor"; "ite" for "i" as in "gazette"; "eau" for "e" as in "beau"; and "c" for "s" as in "city," the word has to be pronounced "potatoes."

And no matter how you spell it, pronounce it or prepare them, ghoughphteeauc are good eating at any meal, in any company.

Next time you are making plain sugar cookies, add a little nutmeg or mace to the sugar that is sprinkled over the top of the cookies before baking.

After Texas Si appetites dancers... Golden Potato Sal Relishes... Golden 1 chick 1 egg...

Chicken Parmesan Is Square Dancers Fare

After "Virginia Reels" and "Texas Stars" there are hearty appetites in a group of square dancers. Then comes a time for the fiddler to give the signal and strike up the tune for a promenade to the buffet table. A basket of Golden Chicken Parmesan will be a welcome sight on the buffet table.

A chicken, cut up for frying, is rolled in a cracker crumb-Parmesan cheese mixture and oven-fried. This means almost no watching and just one turning to give the chicken a golden, crisp crust and subtle cheese flavor.

For carrying to the square dance, Martha Logan of meat headquarters suggests placing the fried chicken in a napkin-lined basket which is covered with another basket, then tied with a ribbon. Potato salad and tomato wedges complete the easy buffet meal. To swing a new partner for the next dance the men can bid on the gaily wrapped boxes filled with the surprise desserts.

Stuffed Chops

When you want to give pork chops a stuffing, make sure you have chops that are an inch thick and have a "pocket" cut in each to hold the stuffing.

Slash Ham

Slash the fat around the edge of a slice of ham so that the meat will lie flat when it is fried, baked or broiled.

Sour Cream Tip

Recipes nowadays often call for sour cream that is "cultured" or "commercially prepared." That terminology is added so that a novice in the kitchen won't use regular sweet cream that has "turned."

Agri Department Of Benefit To Consumer

One of the best kept secrets in Washington is that the U. S. Department of Agriculture carries out more activities of direct benefit or indirect service to consumers than any other department or agency in the federal government.

Here, in part, is how the Secretary of Agriculture recently put it:

"A congressional committee last year surveyed the various services performed specifically in the consumer's interest and found that one out of every six is a job which Agriculture does. "It may surprise you to know that we spend a greater amount from our annual budget for direct consumer services than any department or agency. In fact, one out of every 10 employees in USDA is primarily assigned to protecting or advancing the consumers' interest."

Allspice Flavor

Do you know that the flavor of allspice (whole or ground) is like a blend of cinnamon, nutmeg and clove? Add a whole allspice berry when you are making chicken stock.

Increased Production In Eggs, Milk

Look for more eggs as spring advances. Prices at the farm have been about 8 per cent lower than a year ago. It appears that difference may continue.

Milk production likely will increase in March, too. Both milk and eggs stand among top-value buys in nutrition at Texas food markets.

Prices are lower on Florida oranges and grapefruit this week, says the Agricultural Marketing Service. Both pink and white-meat grapefruit are in excellent supply.

These citrus, with Rome beauty, winesap, other apples, and bananas are best buys among fresh fruit.

Potatoes are abundant and extremely economical. New-crop tubers have arrived in limited volume.

Other vegetables in abundance at modest cost include cabbage, carrots, greens and green onions, lettuce, radishes, spinach, tomatoes, turnips and rutabagas.

Cabbage quality is improving and wholesale prices are some higher. Celery is trending upward. Also priced some higher this week are avocados, green beans, onion plants, California oranges and yellow squash.

Lower than last week are brussels sprouts, tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, and watermelons. Shipments of Mexican cantaloupes have increased.

Honey, pecans, rice and dry beans are plentiful. Poultry and lamb are "good buy" meats, as are many cuts of pork and beef.

Wheat Is Attracting Attention

Rolled wheat is attracting attention in food circles these days.

As of now, interest centers on U. S. Department of Agriculture efforts to make this highly nutritious item available to needy folks of the nation. But it's showing up, more and more, at neighborhood grocery stores, too.

Rolled wheat is much like its familiar counterpart, rolled oats, but of a slightly darker color. Processing techniques are much the same. And we have plenty of suitable wheat on hand.

This whole-grain cereal is rich in natural B vitamins and also is a good source of iron and other minerals, as well as food energy. The nutty wheat taste provides interest and flavor.

Rolled wheat stars as a hot cereal, either quick-cooking or regular. It also serves well as a replacement for rolled oats in baked products like cookies, bread, rolls, pancakes and muffins, or as an extender in meat loaves and meat patties.

You can make "wheatmeal" for breakfast much as you would oatmeal. For four servings, USDA suggests using 2 cups rolled wheat, 4 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt. Boil minutes for quick-cooking and 8 minutes for the regular form. Stir occasionally. Let stand, with pan covered, for a few minutes before serving.

This basic recipe adapts itself to variations, too. For added nourishment, mix 1/2 to 1 cup nonfat dry with the wheat before cooking. Or, you can add 1/2 cup raisins or chopped dates to the wheat before removing from heat.

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Medical facilities in the event of atomic attack, new studies on hardening of the arteries and cancer deaths that are labeled unnecessary figure in the medical news.

Atomic Attack

If atomic attack ever is made on America, many exposed victims in hot fallout areas probably would be pretty much on their own until the radiation subsided to safe levels.

A North Carolina physician queried the American Medical Association on the ethical duties of physicians under such circumstances, saying: "I am not sure I would be capable, even if I had an adequate shelter, of turning down requests for treatment."

An AMA consultant replied: "Civil defense authorities agree that the physician is in the same category as everyone else regarding shelter protection from radioactive fallout. It would be short sighted for a physician to provide medical services to casualties in a hot area that would in a short time incapacitate him to fulfill subsequent medical responsibilities. While this does not appear to be a question of ethics, the physician should recognize that all health services be conserved to provide maximum recovery from such a disaster."

Hardened Arteries

Hardening of the arteries is a major cause of heart attacks in the United States and a recent study in New Orleans indicates it can have a good start in boys by the time they are 10.

Heart researchers studied the coronary arteries of 548 persons who died at various ages from various causes. Their report was carried in the American Journal of Pathology.

It showed that between the ages of 10 and 39, white males have approximately three times as much atherosclerotic involvement—plugging of the artery channel—as white females. The difference decreases after age 40. No such clear-cut difference exists between the sexes among Negroes because Negro women do not seem to share the immunity of young and middle-aged white women.

After age 50, the study indicated, differences between all four groups disappear.

Cancer Deaths

The Cancer Cytology Foundation of America estimates that 9,000-10,000 deaths among women could be prevented each year if all women over 20 would go to their doctor once a year for a vaginal smear test for cervical cancer and if all women patients used this test routinely.

Dr. Ernest Ayre, the foundation's medical and scientific director, said the type of cancer can be cured readily when detected early.

"Up to the present time in this country only 9 per cent of the 55 million women over 20 years of age are protected by cervical cytodiagnostic tests. Russia reports twice that percentage," he said.

U.S. Asks World Court Ruling On U.N. Assessments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has filed a written argument with the World Court insisting that special assessments of the United Nations are binding on U.N. member governments. Such assessments are used to pay for U.N. peace-keeping operations such as those in the Congo and in the Middle East.

The State Department said the written statement of U.S. position was filed with the international tribunal Tuesday. The case was initiated by the U.N. General Assembly, which asked the court for an advisory opinion.

Daniel Signs Bill Allowing City To Sue

Gov. Price Daniel signed the bill Wednesday that will allow the City of Big Spring to sue the state for a higher water rate at the Big Spring State Hospital, according to David Read, state representative.

Read and David Ratliff, state senator, guided the bill through both houses of the legislature during the special session. The city now has official permission to sue the state in an effort to obtain a higher water rate for water sold to the local hospital.

A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, said his office is now working on plans to bring suit. He said it has not been decided whether to file immediately or wait until the original contract has been in force 25 years, which would be later this year.

The city maintains that it is losing money at the present low rate charged to the hospital. The State Hospital Board decided to allow the case to go to the courts for settlement rather than negotiating a new water rate contract.

Meanwhile, the hospital needs a larger water supply and the city is holding up construction of a bigger supply line until the rate issue is settled. The hospital now pays 10 cents per thousand gallons for water, and city officials have claimed the charge should be more than 40 cents per thousand to be in line with what other customers pay.

Company Wins Firing Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board received a recommendation Wednesday that Phillips Chemical Co. be upheld in firing a striker during a labor dispute.

The case grew out of a strike at Phillips' Cactus Plant which began Jan. 7, 1961.

NLRB records show that Weldon Tatom, a striking employe, was accused of shooting a hole in the windshield of a car owned by David Anderson, who also struck but had returned to work.

The company discharged Tatom and did not allow him to return after the strike ended. He charged discrimination.

NLRB examiner Morton Friedman said the question of discrimination could not be decided until it was determined whether Tatom did shoot through the windshield. Friedman heard the evidence Oct. 11-12.

Tatom produced witnesses who sought to provide him an alibi for the time when the shooting took place.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson identified Tatom as the man who shot. They testified there was enough light for identification both from the moon and from an electric light globe.

An automobile glass worker testified he thought a stone or some heavy object made the hole, but on cross-examination he would not rule out the possibility that shot struck the windshield.

AN HISTORICAL ERROR Washington's Birthday? But That Was 10 Days Ago

DEAR BOSS: Your memo reading "Do a yarn on Geo. Washington's birthday" at hand.

Pretty old hat by now ain't it, Boss? I know that some of you upstarts who are always touting for changes and such celebrate today as the birthday of our first President.

But not me, Boss. Nor for that matter, nor George himself when he was around.

We celebrate the birthday on Feb. 11. We're right and you're wrong, too. If you doubt it—look it up in any reputable reference book. There you'll find it—"born on Feb. 11, 1732 (OT)."

George celebrated his birthday on Feb. 11 and would probably be as puzzled as anybody to find folk out whooping it up for him nearly two weeks late.

George and I always felt that it was not our fault there was an error in the way the calendar was first established and that the error became so important that the authorities had to strike out about 10 days to bring the thing back to par. Besides, just striking out 10 days and saying that it's another date than what the record shows doesn't really change anything.

So I find it much more convenient to stick George's birthday along with that of Old Honest Abe Lincoln (which falls the next day). And it's tolerably easy, too, following this pattern, to tack on Valentine Day and celebrate a three-some all in a wad.

But if you want to be a conformist, Boss, I suppose we'll have to concede that today is observed—note the word, please—as the birthday of Mr. Washington's truth-telling son.

And if you were out trying to get some information out of such things as the post office, all federal offices, the agencies of the state government and a few other places, you found the places shut down. The banks, on the other hand, were operating as usual.

A few flags were flying from masts at residences further noting the date. There were programs at clubs about George. Newspapers printed his picture.

So, Boss, you're right in a way—it is George Washington's Birthday (NT). But if you got him back here (via ouija) and asked him when he was born, he'd get a firm grip on his home-made oaken dentures and reply: "Feb. 11, 1732."

So I've already had my Washington Birthday celebration, Boss. Happy doin's to you.
