Demo Chiefs Order Bailot On Horse Racing In Texas

Referendum For May Election

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee ordered today that a referendum on horse racing betting be placed on the May 5 primary ballot.

The governing body of the state Democratic party at the same time passed a resolution saying it strongly opposed the referendum and recommended to Texas voters that it be overwhelmingly defeated.

The votes on both actions were verbal with only a scattering of "no's."

Voters will be asked to pass or reject two propositions: To let the legislature decide the racing question or to ask the legislature to call a statewide ballot on the issue.

PETITIONS

The referendum was asked in petitions containing about 200,000 signatures. Spokesmen for the committee said a spot check showed the petitions contained a sufficient number to force the referendum.

The same petition was to go before the state Republican Executive meeting here today also.

"I think this referendum will become an issue in the governor's race," said committeeman Jim Griffin of McAllen. "Some of the candidates are going to take this up and it will become a vital issue. This referendum will become a dead pigeon."

E. C. Fannell of Fort Worth, chairman of the resolutions subcommittee, stressed that the committee placed the referendum on the ballot because of the wording of the present state election law, which says such referendums must be placed on the ballot by the committee if asked by 10 percent of the voters at the last party primary.

VOTING BOXES

The committee also faced a controversy over Republican voting boxes, centering around efforts of Harris County Clerk R. E. Turrentine to make Republicans put primary ballot boxes in each of the county's 278 precincts. The GOP plans only about 200 voting places.

Turrentine says he will refuse to certify GOP candidates for the November general election unless there is a voting place in each precinct. The State Democratic Committee has encouraged other

More Snow For Midwest

By The Associated Press

More snow fell atop the heavy covering across areas in the Midwest today as a storm which swept across the Rockies headed into the upper Great Lakes region.

Thunderstorms rumbled across the Southeast and tornadoes lashed sections of Georgia. Rain, with some hail, and drizzle, extended over much of the eastern third of the nation.

Dr. Reiff, H-SU Prexy, Dies Sunday

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Evan A. Reiff, president of Hardin-Simmons University here since 1963, died Sunday night. He was 84.

The Oklahoma-born educator and minister had undergone four operations for an ulcer condition since Feb. 6. Hospital attendants had listed his condition as critical the past month.

Dr. Reiff entered a hospital six days after submitting his resignation Jan. 25 as president of the Baptist school here, effective July 1.

He was widowed and three children, all of Abilene, survive.

Dr. Reiff became president of Hardin-Simmons in the summer of 1963. He left a like position at Sioux Falls (S.D.) College to move here.

During his administration, Hardin-Simmons' enrollment rose from 1,385 students to 1,728 last fall and the value of its land and buildings increased from $6 million to $11 million.

Dr. Reiff was a native of Bartlesville, Okla. He became an ordained Baptist minister in 1920, took a bachelor of arts degree the next year from Oklahoma Baptist University and subsequently a master of arts and doctor of philosophy from the University of Iowa.

Before coming to Texas he also had been pastor of churches and taught school in Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Abilene's First Baptist Church. Hardin-Simmons will be closed all day Tuesday.

Ejected

Roy M. Cohn, attorney for the struck Fifth Avenue Coach Line in New York City, grimaced as he and his associates were forced to leave a New York television studio where officials of the Transport Workers Union were waiting to discuss issues of the strike with the bus line's president, Harry Weinsberg. Cohn arrived at the studio to represent Weinsberg who was in Dallas. Transport Workers Union president Michael Quill, presiding over the union-paid program, said, "We instructed our men to get them out and that they did." (Weinsberg personality sketch is on page 1-B.)

Myers Defense May Be Insanity

RUSK, Tex. (AP)—The defense indicated it will plead John Edwins Myers insane and the state asked the death penalty as the Chicago killer went on trial today for one of four murders he admits.

Myers freely told newsmen and officers of killing four persons, one a 11-year-old girl, in a slaying spree reaching from Illinois to Texas.

Myers, a short, slender man, was in shirt sleeves but wore a tie, as he sat impassively while attorneys questioned prospective jurors. One juror was selected out of seven persons questioned in the morning session.

State appointed defense attorneys Orvan Jones and Richard Stone, both of Jacksonville, Tex., asked each juror if they held any prejudices against a plea of insanity as a defense for murder.

Myers and his girl friend, Donna Marie Stone, were arrested near Midland in West Texas last September.

Jobless Pay Revamp Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy urged Congress today to broaden the federal-state jobless pay system on a permanent basis. He said prompt action is especially urgent to reduce hardships of unemployment and to stimulate business.

In a letter to both houses of Congress, Kennedy described legislation he presented last year as "essential to assure sustained prosperity and to strengthen our manpower base."

The administration program would cover an additional three million workers now unprotected by the jobless pay system, extend benefit periods by 13 weeks under certain conditions and increase compensation in most instances.

Brakeman Shot In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH (AP)—Tommy Presley, 31, a brakeman, was shot in the face Sunday night while riding a Rock Island freight train through Fort Worth's North Side.

Doctors said Presley, reported in fair condition, would lose the vision in his right eye.

Presley told detectives a pellet flew through a six-inch opening he had left in the window of the cupola atop a caboose.

Officers said the shots probably were fired by a juvenile.

Later, two motorists told police they thought they also had been targets of pellet gunmen.

Revised Cotton Grading Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department will start displaying samples this week of proposed revised standards for each physical grade of upland cotton.

The proposed revisions have been developed by a panel representing the U. S. cotton industry and department cotton experts. They will be submitted to the universal standards conference meeting here May 24-25. This conference must approve the changes.

The samples will be displayed at Dallas beginning Thursday.

Annual County Youth Stock Show To Open

Howard County's 25th Annual FFA and 4-H Club Fat Stock Show opens its doors on Tuesday at 8 a.m. It will continue through Thursday night when a big auction sale will climax the three-days exposition.

Herb Helbig, county agent and general show superintendent, said that everything is in readiness for the show.

"We had a crew out at the County Fair Barns today policing the grounds, setting up the pens and placing hay in the stalls. Insofar as preparations are concerned we are ready today to begin receiving the animals."

"The weighing in is set for 8 a.m. Tuesday. The entire first day will be devoted to getting the animals weighed in, officially entered and assigned stalls."

Wednesday morning at 9 a.m., Swede Hanson, San Angelo lamb expert, will begin judging the lambs. Present indications are there will be 104 lambs entered in the show. The public is urged to attend.

At 2 p.m. (the catalogs erroneously stated the time to be 1 p.m.) Calvin Holcomb, Seminole County farm agent, will begin judging the steers. Twenty-two steers are expected to be in the competition.

The annual junior stock show is sponsored by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Howard County Junior Livestock Association.

On Thursday at 6 p.m. a barbecue will be served to all exhibitors, workers, officials and buyers. This will be followed at 7:30 p.m. by the auction sale. Randall Sherrard, who has wielded the hammer at these sales for many shows, will be auctioneer.

High Winds Make Miserable Weekend For Area Residents

Rusk, Gromyko Talk But Reach No Settlements

GENEVA (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko spent three hours today discussing Berlin and disarmament problems without reaching any settlement.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain bowed out of the talks temporarily to allow Rusk to emphasize Western views on the issues.

The discussions took place over a long lunch at the Soviet villa. Both men were accompanied by experts.

Because of the length of the discussion, the Berlin review presumably went further than a mere repetition of previous U.S. complaints over Soviet harassment tactics in the air corridors to the isolated city.

The United States in the past has proposed putting the access routes to Berlin under international supervision, but this has been rejected by the Russians. Whether Rusk went into detail on the American proposal could not be determined immediately.

The discussions will be continued Tuesday when Gromyko is a luncheon guest of Rusk, informed sources said.

A British spokesman said Home's temporary withdrawal from the foreign ministers' sessions was a logical development since the Americans and the British are speaking in Geneva with one voice.

Rusk, Gromyko and Lord Home—here for the opening of the 17-nation disarmament conference Wednesday—conferred Sunday night at dinner but reports were that little progress was made.

The Western Allies called on Russia to stop harassing Allied air traffic to Berlin lest increasing tensions there endanger the disarmament negotiations.

Gromyko denied knowledge of

East Germans Shoot Briton

BERLIN (AP)—A British army chauffeur shot by East German border guards was in serious condition today. Soviet authorities expressed regret for the incident.

The wounded man, Cpl. Douglas Frederick Day of the Royal Air Force, was operated on in an East German hospital at Potsdam for a bullet wound in the stomach.

Day, driving a staff car, was taking a British officer to the Potsdam headquarters of the British liaison mission to Soviet army headquarters in East Germany at midnight Saturday.

The British protested to the Russians that the East German guards fired without warning at the clearly marked car, spraying it with about 30 machine-gun bullets. The incident occurred near the village of Stahnsdorf, half a mile inside East Germany.

The car was on an official trip and had every right to be where it was, Brig. J. R. Holden, chief of the British mission, told the Soviet liaison officer.

The East Germans claimed the car ran through a stop signal, ignored warning shots and had to be brought to a stop by shots aimed at the tires.

Boll Weevil Center To Open

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major offensive against the boll weevil, cotton's most destructive pest, gains momentum with the dedication of the Agriculture Department's new boll weevil research laboratory at State College, Miss., March 22.

The laboratory will be the center for a concerted effort by the department and several Southern state agricultural experiment stations to develop more effective measures for dealing with this pest.

The department estimates the weevil has cost cotton growers $10 billion in crop losses since 1892, when it first was found in this country. Congress provided $1.1 million to build the laboratory.

NEVER SEEN BEFORE BY MAN Experts To Get Samples Of Tasmanian Monster

HOBART, Tasmania (AP)—Pieces of a mystery monster discovered half buried in the sand on Tasmania's lonely west coast will be flown to interested foreign scientists overseas on request in an attempt to solve the origin of the carcass, described as "something probably never seen before by man."

Only a handful of people have seen it so far—the first being the two men who did not report the find when they first came across it 20 months ago.

It is about 20 feet long, 18 feet wide, 4½ feet thick and is estimated to weigh between 5 and 10 tons. It is decomposing beneath the sand, but the portion exposed to the air has not rotted.

Local experts claim the creature is marine but for a variety of reasons is not part of a whale.

Science knows of no invertebrate of this size and shape," he declared. "The fact that it has not decomposed despite its exposure to the atmosphere for at least 20 months is exciting and puzzling. I think we have discovered something probably never seen before by man."

Local experts claim the creature is marine but for a variety of reasons is not part of a whale.

21 Die Violently Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

There were at least 21 violent deaths in Texas during the weekend, including 14 in traffic accidents.

The fatalities were reported to The Associated Press in the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Foreign Secretary Home reported, "We talked about preliminary talks. You have to get used to a lot of talks."

Rusk did not say what specific Berlin incidents he protested but three matters are understood to have been covered by him and Home. Those were the wounding of a British military chauffeur by an East German border guard half a mile inside East Germany, the scattering of metallic snow by Soviet planes in the Berlin airways Friday to confuse Allied radars and increasing use of the corridors by Soviet aircraft in an evident harassment campaign.

Political Campaign Interest Sharpens Focus On Austin

By The Associated Press

Political campaign interest focuses on Austin even more strongly than usual the next couple of days.

State executive committees of both the Democrats and Republicans were meeting in the Texas capital Monday, and most statewide office seekers will gather in Austin for the giant news conference and dinner Tuesday night.

Capital correspondents for wire news services and major newspapers will quiz the candidates about campaign issues at the news conference. It was arranged by Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society.

One candidate for lieutenant governor in the Democratic primary pulled out during the week-end. Dist. Clerk Gene Smith of Tarrant County said he found many of his friends had prior commitments in this race and urged him to wait until 1964.

Don Yarborough, a candidate for governor, said in a statement Sunday:

"A political revival is sweeping Texas that old line political professions are not aware of. The people are crying for leadership—a cry that apparently cannot be heard by professional politicians who are content to conduct their campaigns from lavish headquarters in Austin."

John Connally, another candidate for the state's top office, said Sunday if he is elected, he will meet with every legislator this summer to map a plan of action.

"Before the next session of the Legislature begins (in January), I will know the problems, policies and thinking of every section, every city, every town, village and community in the state," he said.

Connally picked up the support of the San Antonio News and Express in his race. In a Sunday editorial, the newspaper said Connally "has that fresh and vigorous leadership" that Texas needs.

Wheatley scheduled Dallas and Tyler television appearances Monday.

Plans of gubernatorial candidates Monday included:

Jack Cox in Austin for the Republican committee meeting.

Connally in Houston for a campaign workers' breakfast, a public coffee and Kiwanis Club meeting, after which he was flying to Fort Worth to address the Petroleum Landman Club.

Gov. Price Daniel was at the Democratic committee meeting in Austin.

Marshall Formby campaigned in Austin and San Antonio.

Don Yarborough opened his Harris County campaign headquarters in Houston.

Keith Wheatley of Stamford, a Democratic candidate for railroad commissioner, declared:

"Too long Austin has been crowded with politicians who, if the truth be known, were neither conservatives nor liberals. They were just lackeys."

Winds Abate Over Texas

By The Associated Press

Texas got relief Monday from dust churning winds which scourged broad stretches of the state in a series of dips below freezing before dawn in the Panhandle, where a little snow fell around Borger 24 hours earlier.

Temperatures in other sections ranged up to the middle 50s on the coast.

Except for a lonely cloud or two, skies were clear throughout the state and expected to stay that way at least another day.

The m e r c u r y dipped below freezing before dawn in the Panhandle, where a little snow fell around Borger 24 hours earlier.

Temperatures in other sections ranged up to the middle 50s on the coast.

Blinding clouds of silt were blamed for a two-car crash which killed Carl A. Davis, 52, of Borger and injured two other persons Saturday near Dimmitt in the upper Texas Panhandle. About the same time tornadic winds damaged five homes in the northwest edge of Pampa and the wild breezes fanned a roaring fire across 2,000 acres of pasture north of Spearman.

There was at least some damage from the ripping winds Sunday.

In Dallas, a 75-foot section of concrete wall 18 feet tall collapsed at a building project and a woman knocked down by a sudden gust suffered a broken ankle.

Near Fort Worth the wind tore down a wall and smashed the floor of a fishing barge at Benbrook Lake.

It was so dry the humidity dropped below 10 per cent Sunday at a few spots in West Texas and it remained as low as 25 per cent at some places early Monday.

While the northwest half of the state was due to warm a bit Monday, forecasts promised another cool night for most of Texas.

The readings in early morning ranged from 21 degrees at Lubbock up to 57 at Galveston.

Want To See A Horse Show? Look Under The Nearest Bush

By BOB GRAY
Editor, The Texas Horse Magazine
Written for the Associated Press

The term "horse show" in America today means a whale of a lot more than it used to mean. Time was when Americans thought of a horse show as a social affair—a high-toned gathering of wealthy folks, dressed in cutaway coats and derby hats, riding English saddles on fine gaited horses. Horses like Thoroughbreds, Tennessee Walkers, Morgans, Arabians. Cowboys called them "high-tailed" shows and couldn't get over those derby hats.

The classic type of horse show is still going strong and more Americans than ever wear the fancy clothes and ride the high-stepping horses.

COWBOY SHOWS
But cowboys have their shows now too—and you can find one under every bush, if you look. There's an average of at least one stock saddle type of show every day of the year in Texas! What's more the western breed of horses—Quarter Horses, Appaloosas, Pintos and Palominos, mostly—have created thousands of exhibitors who never dreamed of owning a horse a few years ago. These new horse show enthusiasts don't have to go far to compete, either.

In 1961 there were no less than 150 registered Quarter Horse shows in Texas alone, more than 700 nationally. The Appaloosa breed staged 33 Texas shows last year—and nearly every one of the 200 or more riding clubs and Sheriffs Poses in Texas put on at least one show during the year. So did countless FFA, 4-H and civic club groups. So, conservatively, there will be at least 400 western horse shows in Texas this year.

BIG DIFFERENCE
There will still be thousands of people, though, who won't know the difference between this kind of show and a rodeo. There is a big difference—although both are often called a "show." Rodeo contestants don't like that term because some people have the notion that rodeo isn't actually a sport. It is, of course, and a rugged one. The only thing that rodeos and horse shows do have in common is calf roping and barrel racing.

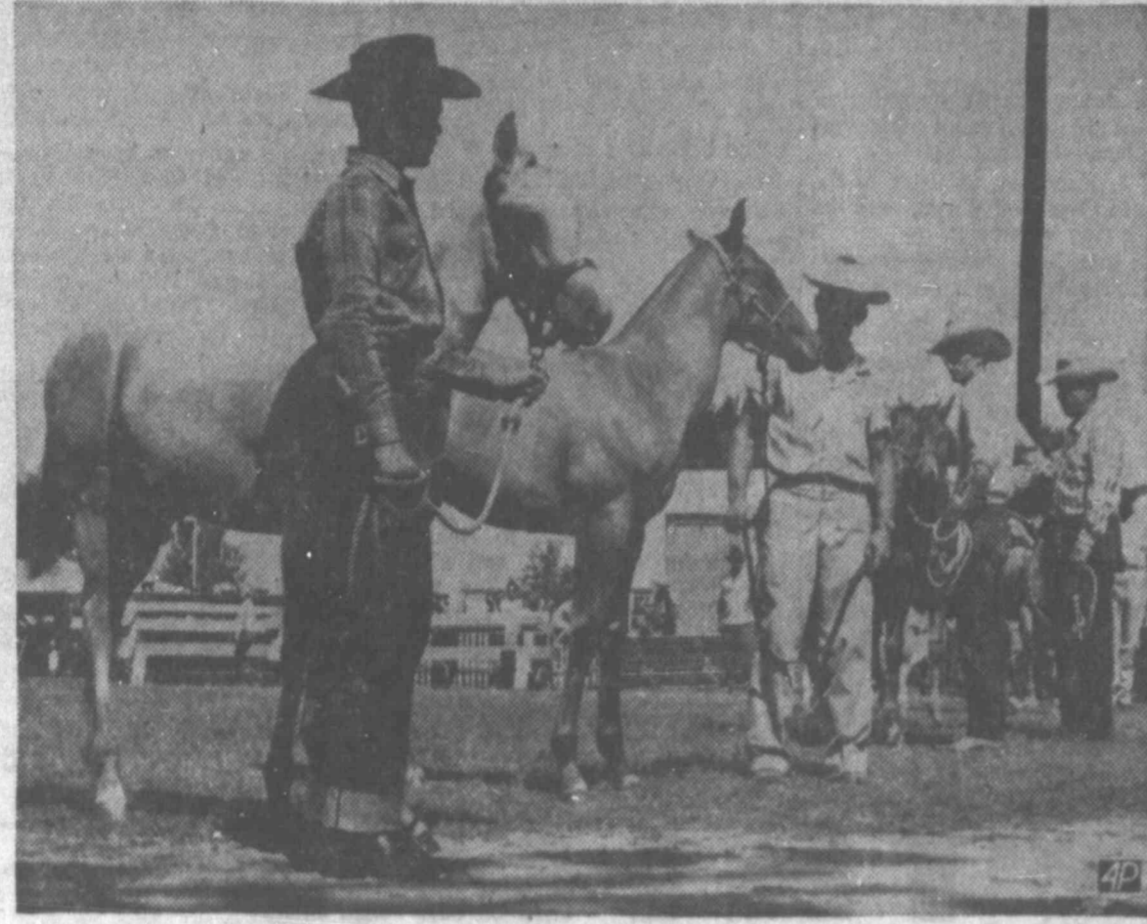

Western horse shows come in all sizes and flavors. The Quarter Horse shows have cutting, roping, reining, barrel racing and pole bending contests. Appaloosa shows have cutting too but also stake racing (similar to pole bending) and an Indian-like contest called the prairie stump race. The unregistered or "open" youth shows have classes for just about any kind of horse that shows up. Nearly all stock horse shows have halter classes, where a judge picks the horses he thinks are built the best. Since all judges don't see horses alike, you may get ignored at one show and find your horse is grand champion at another.

NOT FOR AUDIENCE
Surprising to many is the fact that western horse shows are staged for the exhibitors, not an audience. Few have any admission charge. The people who stage them seldom care whether the general public shows up or not. Except for big shows in big cities, there's little advance publicity about these shows. Few shows seek it.

It isn't unusual in Texas to find an isolated riding arena, miles from any town, surrounded by a sea of trailers. Inside, there may be a packed throng of horses from 500 miles away—to compete against other horses. If a stranger wants to watch, fine. If not, fine.

The owners aren't after fat purses, although small ones are given at shows and the cutting purses are getting bigger. It is mostly the pleasure of competition and the drive to win. There is nothing a horseman would rather be than first.

Perhaps the most frequently-

Horse Judging

Halter classes at today's western horse shows are well-filled since there is competition here for everyone, of all ages and abilities. The teen-ager with a good built horse has as much chance to win as his elders since the horses are judged on conformation. Performance classes demand more specialized training for both horse and rider.

asked question about horse care is: "How much should I feed my horse?" Trainers, breeders and veterinarians can only give an answer that's very general. Most horses get from 4 to 12 quarts of feed daily and all the prairie hay they'll eat. It depends on the horse's age, size and the exercise he gets. Some get fat on nothing, others skinnier on a lot.

Specially, though, if you're starting your horse on grain, you might feed two quarts a day at first and gradually increase it until the horse looks good, feels good and doesn't leave any feed in the trough. For what it's worth, I have an 8-year-old mare, she's ridden about four times a week and I feed her twice daily. Using a coffee can as a measure, I give her five pounds of oats and one pound of wheat bran at each feeding. In very cold weather some corn is added. She's been on that diet three years and does well on it.

Maybe you've heard about the ranch foreman who did very little walking. He'd saddle up just to go from the barn to the house. "Don't you ever walk anywhere?" a visitor finally asked. "Friend," said the foreman, "if the Good Lord had wanted me to walk he would have given me four legs."

A Swift Kick In The Twist

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas School Superintendent W. T. White straightened out the twist with a swift kick in the Dallas schools' after-school recreation program.

Dr. White unceremoniously tossed out twist sessions from after-school physical education programs after he found out some of the schools were twisting instead of doing pushups.

One school principal said the after-school program attendance picked up when students found out they can get their exercises with gyrations instead of calisthenics.

"We have folk dancing but we don't get into any particular dances," Dr. White said. "We try to stay away from any faddism or anything that might be interpreted as popular activity rather than stressing educational and recreational intent."

"We don't have time for the twist," he said.

Not voting—Wright. Senate: No roll calls.

Direct Approach

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—When a Des Moines mother answered her door the other day a nice-looking teen-age boy was there. He said:

"I've seen your daughter at basketball games, and I couldn't find anyone to introduce me. So I thought I'd come over and ask you to please do it."
F. S. He got the introduction; and what's more he was invited to stay for supper.

Reward On Ice

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—It cost a person his blood to see the Ice Follies this year.

Persons who donated a pint of blood at the Red Cross Center were given a free ticket to the ice show at the War Memorial.

MEN PAST 40

Troubled with GETTING UP NIGHTS
Pains in BACK, HIPS, LEGS
Tiredness, LOSS OF VIGOR

If you are a victim of these symptoms then your troubles may be traced to Glandular Inflammation. Glandular Inflammation is a constitutional disease and medicines that give temporary relief will not remove the causes of your troubles.

Neglect of Glandular Inflammation often leads to premature senility, and to incurable conditions.

The past year men from 1,000 communities have been successfully treated here at Excelsior Springs. They have found soothing relief and a new zest in life.

The Excelsior Medical Clinic, devoted to the treatment of diseases peculiar to older men has a New FREE BOOK that tells how these troubles may be corrected by proven NON-SURGICAL TREATMENTS. This book may prove of utmost importance in your life. No obligation.

American Nazi Chief Slugged

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—"I am an American and I believe in freedom of speech and freedom of religion," said Ed D. Cherry, 22, the Jewish student who slugged the leader of the American Nazi party.

"In fact," added Cherry, "I even married a Catholic girl several months ago."

Cherry said he rose from the audience at a San Diego State College meeting last week to debate with Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell—not to poke him in the jaw. He said he swung when Rockwell tried to brush him away.

Rockwell had been invited to the school by a campus group that champions free speech. Cherry, who could be disciplined by the school, said that he wished he had left the meeting when Rockwell's talk turned to the Jews.

Rockwell said a large percentage of Americans accused of having Communist affiliations had Jewish names.

"I am not pugnacious," said Cherry, who was the lightest member (135 pounds) of San Diego's varsity football team last year. "I can take a lot of ribbing about being a Jew. I get it all the time."

Cops Have Their Frustrating Days

HOUSTON (AP)—Mrs. June Crosby, a Houston housewife, was embarrassed. But she was also happy.

She saw a plane nose over and plunge down in north Harris County. She quickly called the sheriff's office.

Six patrol cars and an ambulance started looking for the plane.

They found it in an open field—in a man's hand. It was a radio-controlled model.

"I've never seen such fast action in my life," Mrs. Crosby said. "It makes me feel good to know they respond so quickly."

The officers had no comment.

Good news for asthmatics
Specialist's discovery now makes it possible for bronchial asthma sufferers to quickly relieve choking, coughing, wheezing and other symptoms without use of internal drugs or harmful injections. So safe you can get Dr. Gull's Green Mucousin in either chewing or compressed form without prescription. Ask your druggist for it.

BE WISE

By A Christian Writer

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: a good understanding have all they that do His Commandments . . ." (Ps. 111:10)

God's word makes one wise. "Then has known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make them wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." (II Tim. 3:15.)

He that hears and obeys the Word, is like a wise man that built his house on the solid rock (Matt. 7:24-27).

There is an earthly wisdom. "But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy." (Jas. 3:15-17.)

So be wise. "Fear God and keep His commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." (Ecc. 12:13.)

Keep all God's commandments. Do not rebel against immersion, or anything which He has commanded. Be too God-fearing to add anything to the Word of God, or to take anything away therefrom.

Come and let us study the Word together

Now in progress: Wednesday night lecture series. Speaker this Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., Richard Williams, from 25th Street Church, Snyder, Tex. Subject: "Blessed are the Meek."

5 ways telephones help businessmen get ahead . . .

- 1) Want to increase sales? Between personal visits, keep in close touch with local and out-of-town customers and prospects by phone.
- 2) Ideas don't watch clocks. Wherever you are, whatever the hour, phone in "brain storms" to your company's message-recording service.
- 3) Use a Speakerphone to let co-workers join your meetings, whether three floors or 3,000 miles away.
- 4) Use your telephone to order supplies, drum up business, cut down paper work, save steps and time.
- 5) Last-minute thought before leaving on a business trip? Stop at a public phone and call your office.

Let's face it, gentlemen. There just aren't enough hours to accomplish everything you want. Get help the easy way. Make full use of today's modern communications services. (Bosses have a way of noticing the men who pull more than their weight.)

YOUR TELEPHONES . . . the more you use them, the greater their value.

Call by number . . . it's twice as fast

MRS. J. W. GRAHAM JR.

Joan Anita Robison, J. W. Graham Are Wed

LAMESA (SC) — Joan Anita Robison and J. W. Graham Jr. were united in marriage March 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Klondike Baptist Church with Rev. W. A. James, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church of Seminole, officiating the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Audry Robison and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill W. Graham.

Vows were repeated before an archway entwined with greenery centered with a bow of pink satin ribbon with streamers flowing to candelabra flanking the arch.

A large basket of rose-colored gladiola, white stock and greenery formed the background.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of white imported silk organza and nylon tulle, imported from England, over deep lustrous satin. The gown was an original design created by Mrs. Gaston Robison of Lubbock, an aunt of the bride.

The bodice was fashioned with a scooped neckline, outlined in scalloped re-embroidered alencon lace and had fingertip sleeves with appliques of alencon lace on the wrists and shoulders.

The bouffant skirt, appliqued with re-embroidered lace was accented by a bustle of deep lustrous satin and silk organza, centered with four large handmade roses of satin and silk organza.

Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations.

Teressa Robison, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Myers, Mrs. Weldon White, Mrs. Quinton Aikart and Eugene Graham, the bridegroom's sister.

Shelby Graham, the bridegroom's brother, was best man.

A reception was held in the church parlor after the wedding ceremony. Mrs. Vernon Holcomb registered guests.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio the couple will reside in Klondike.

Forum Hears Frazier Talk

The Modern Woman's Forum, which met Friday in the home of Mrs. A. B. Wade, was entertained by Bruce Frazier who spoke on "The Beauties of Texas." Frazier outlined to the club the many interesting and educational sites of Texas, beginning his talk by calling to attention those places near Big Spring. During his talk he gave important facts concerning the geology of West Texas, explaining the Permian Sea of long ago. He brought to attention the Big Bend National Park, Sonora Caverns, State Park, museums and other attractions in Texas.

Thirteen members and three visitors attended the session. The next meeting will be at Coker's Restaurant, March 23, with Mrs. Fred Whitaker as hostess.

Husbands Guests Of Fidelis Class

Husbands were guests of members of Baptist Temple Fidelis Class when they met at the church and then went in a group to the bowling alley Friday evening.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Posey joined the couples for the affair and returned with them to the church for refreshments. There were 18 in the party.

Mrs. R. E. Stewart With Daughter

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Mrs. R. E. Stewart of Marathon, Texas, is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Glen Babb, who suffered severe burns last week when her clothes caught fire from an open grate in her home. She is recovering satisfactorily after being hospitalized.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore and children of Sand Springs were recent guests of Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stephens.

Mrs. Fred Chaney is in Brownfield with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Barrett, who is recovering from recent surgery.

DATE BOOK

Past Noble Grand Club, Big Spring Lodge 284, meets tonight at 7:30 p.m. with Mrs. A. C. Wilkerson, 705 East 16th. All members are reminded to bring material for quilt block.

Elbow P-T-A will elect new officers Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the school cafeteria. The 4th and 5th graders will present a film, "Communist Encroachment." An executive meeting will be held at 7 p.m.

Former Resident Returns For Visit

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Jack Davenport who has been coaching for nine years at Stephenville High School, was a recent visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wagner in Ackerly this weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Parker of Santa Anna were Sunday guests of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter were Sunday guests of Mrs. Carter's mother, Mrs. T. J. A. Robinson, and sister, Mrs. Euta Hall, in Big Spring.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Just because Saturday and Sunday showed what one might expect during the early spring of the year—(sand and wind in case you stayed under cover or were out of town)—doesn't mean it's going to be that way all spring. One will find that the sand tends to cleanse the air and days following a bad blow will be quite wonderful. Of course, there may be a number of days together that are simply unfit for people to live in, but there will be better ones and they make it worth the while. So don't have a faint heart, stay with us. We can sweep this out.

MRS. W. A. LASWELL, MRS. TOMMY GAGE and MRS. CHARLES TOMPKINS are expected to return today from San Antonio, where they have attended at least one performance of the opera. They had planned to hear "Carmen." This is the fourth year the three have attended the opera and combined this trip with one to visit relatives who live there.

What's this magic that is Arkansas? It's beginning to take on great meaning to me. First we lose good friends and neighbors the Floyd Parsons, to Little Rock, then we get a society editor, Kathleen Dozier, from Fayetteville, who I think, must know everyone in the state, and then we find that our barber, PHIL GROZIER, who has trimmed the men in our family for as long as he was in business here, has bought a piece of Arkansas and has gone there to live. There are others, too, so there must be something in the Ozark ozone.

MRS. RAY EBLING has learned of the quiet passing of her aged grandmother, MRS. EDITH T. MORRIS who was 92 when she died Thursday in Bloomington, Ill. Mrs. Morris was very active for her age and her great interest was the Order of Eastern Star. In fact, she had attended a meeting of her chapter the week of her death. Burial was Saturday in Indianapolis, Ind., according to word from Mrs. Ebling's father, the REV. IRVIN E. DEER.

Robinson-Walters Vows Pledged In Afternoon

LAMESA (SC) — Wedding vows were exchanged by Henrietta Louise Christina Walters and R. B. Robinson at 2 p.m., March 11, in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robinson.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Christina Jung of Frankfurt, Germany.

Couple's Bridge Held At Glasses'

GARDEN CITY (SC) — The Thursday Night Couple's Bridge Club met at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. David Glass. Winners of high score were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson. Second high was won by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Reynolds.

Visitors in the Edward Teale and A. J. Cunningham homes Sunday were Mrs. John Chaney and Mrs. George Amos from Big Spring, and Mrs. Phil Smith of Hamlin, Texas.

W. T. Hamilton, minister of the Lamesa Church of Christ, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by the bridegroom's father. Her informal wedding gown of white satin was accented with silver lace featuring a fitted bodice and three-quarter length sleeves. It was imported from Germany.

Mrs. Shirley Chestnut, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor and J. F. Robinson, the bridegroom's brother, was best man.

For a trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a powder blue suit with black accessories.

The couple will reside in Abilene where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Air Force at Dyess AFB.

The bride is a graduate of Kobling, Germany High School and Robinson was graduated from Lamesa High School.

Miss Greathouse Engaged To Wed

LAMESA (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Austin announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Lynn Greathouse, to Ronnie Lee Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones. The wedding will take place in June.

Gift Tea Held By Ruth Class

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mrs. Ken Deatherage of Abilene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gibson of the Payne Community, was honored recently with a pink and blue gift tea, in the home of Mrs. C. N. Stubblefield of the Payne Community.

Hostesses were members of the Ruth Sunday School Class of Payne Baptist Church and Mrs. Parker Jarman.

Mrs. Jarman was in charge of decorations and Mrs. Stubblefield greeted guests. Mrs. Charles Williams was in charge of recreation. Twenty seven guests were served by Mrs. Peggy Redman of Big Spring, Mrs. Grand Beach and Mrs. T. L. Holman of Colorado City.

He Hears

Five-week-old Jimmy Bias of Grand Rapids, Mich., is probably the youngest person ever to be successfully tested and fitted with a hearing aid. He was born Jan. 28 with no outer ear openings. His sister Kathy, 4, demonstrates how Jimmy reacts to the sound of her voice.

Cancer Clue Seen In Gland Interplay

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Like a tiny driver wearing a helmet, a pea-sized gland deep in the brain may steer the body away from cancer, or toward it.

Researchers reported some of the strange interplay between the driver—the pituitary gland—and its helmet, which apparently gives it instructions.

This silent partnership between the pituitary and helmet-shaped hypothalamus may be the critical link between the hormones and the brain—a link that, should it fall—may lead to cancer.

Dr. Erhard Haus, University of Minnesota pathologist, told of work with mice which demonstrated the link.

Female mice of a kind that normally develop breast cancer were used. Bits of pituitary gland were grafted into these mice. The hormones stimulated by the additional pituitary gland material enhanced the growth of breast cancers in these mice.

Then extracts from the hypothalamus part of the brain were injected into mice that were also implanted with pituitary gland material. The hypothalamus counteracted the cancer-causing action of the pituitary material, Dr. Haus told the American Cancer Society's annual science writers' seminar.

Dr. Sheldon C. Sommers of the Scripps Memorial Hospital, La Jolla, Calif., told of a 10-year study to determine factors that cause cancer.

One cancer-causing situation involves abnormalities in the human being—without any help from outside influences.

This situation usually occurs in cancer of the breast, prostate gland, the lining of the womb and, in women, the lung.

In these cases, too much stimulation over a long period of time from the female hormones causes a sort of benign overgrowth in the womb, the prostate in men, the breast and the female lung.

Later cancer develops in some, and the action of the pituitary and adrenal glands also goes awry.

Priest Scores St. Pat's Day

NEW YORK (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest of Irish descent suggests St. Patrick's Day parades can have "bad effects" for Catholics.

The Rev. Edward T. Cooke, writing in the current issue of Information magazine, a national Catholic monthly published here by the Paulist fathers, says St. Patrick's Day celebrations are harmful to the church, Catholic schools and the Irish.

Father Cooke, curate in Our Lady Queen of Peace church in Maywood, N.J., noted that he had marched in New York's St. Patrick's Day parade four times as a high school student in the late 40s.

"There, under the scrutiny of television cameras, is a show of might and power and numerical size that strikes fear into the hearts of some Americans that these forces might be used for undemocratic purposes," Father Cooke said.

"We stand the risk of being misunderstood—of being thought of as divisive, of being judged a threat to public institutions."

Father Cooke also scored what he called the "anachronism of continuing to use 'the great day for the Irish' as the day for parading American Catholic education, as if the two were bound together inseparably."

2,392 Rattlers Captured In Sweetwater Hunt

SWEETWATER (AP) — There are 2,392 fewer rattlesnakes roaming the rocky countryside near Sweetwater.

Volunteers captured the rattlers in the annual three-day hunt of the Sweetwater Junior Chamber of Commerce. Bob Jenni, reptile curator of Oklahoma City's Lincoln Park Zoo, is taking them home with him.

Jenni will keep some in his zoo, sell some to other zoos and extract and sell the venom of others.

He was going through his snake handling act Saturday night when one of the reptiles struck him twice on the forearm. Jenni gave himself emergency treatment and finished the act before going to a hospital.

Sunday night Jenni was back performing. His only noticeable effects were a swollen arm, chest and neck. Describing the bites, his 15th and 16th, he said: "It smarted."

Lad, 17, Admits Slaying His Family

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — A slight 17-year-old high school boy, under psychiatric treatment for two years, was quoted by police today as admitting he killed his entire family — parents and two brothers — because he felt they would be better off dead.

The slayings in the central New Hampshire community of Newport, a town of 5,500 population about 50 miles northwest of Concord, left neighbors saddened and puzzled. Blond and bespectacled, the boy was considered bright. He was in the last year of high school.

The youth was scheduled for a juvenile court arraignment today behind closed doors.

Arrangements were begun for the funerals, presumably a joint service, in the Methodist Church of the Good Shepherd at Newport Wednesday.

The victims were Francis L. McGrath, 37; his wife, Wilena, 40; and their sons, Peter F., 13, and Charles A., 2.

New Hampshire law forbids publication of the name of a juvenile involved in crime. Juvenile hearings are secret and the disposition may not be published.

Police quoted the 17-year-old as saying in explanation of the shootings Saturday night: "I was thinking about their suffering. They always have troubles."

Police said the youth told them he first thought of killing his parents last Friday.

Police said he told them he arrived home from his supermarket job Saturday night and found his parents angry at each other. The parents went out shortly afterward.

The boy told police he got a Japanese rifle and shot Peter in a hallway. Then he went into a bedroom and killed Charles in his bed.

When Mr. and Mrs. McGrath arrived home a half hour later, the mother was shot through the head as she stepped out of the car. The father tried to drive away but a rifle slug through a car window stopped him. The boy told police his father got out of the car and started to run. A shot felled him.

After shooting his father, the son said he struck him on the head with the butt of the rifle.

The boy then drove to the State Hospital at Concord and asked to see a doctor. Arnold Paradis, hospital police officer, noticed the boy's blood-spattered clothing, put handcuffs on him and took him to police headquarters.

The youth told police his father worked for Maynard, Mass., for Raytheon Co., makers of electronic equipment, and was home only on weekends.

Mrs. Johnson Heads Rayburn Memorial Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, wife of the vice president, was named Sunday by the Texas State Society to head a special committee which will select a memorial to the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

About 500 members of the organization voted to sponsor a special memorial to the longtime Texas representative who died late last year. It would be placed in the $70 million House office building now under construction and expected to bear his name.

Rep. Bob Casey of Houston, outgoing president of the society, named Mrs. Homer Thornberry, wife of another Texas congressman, and Federal Judge Gene Worley to serve on the committee with Mrs. Johnson.

As president for next year the 1,000-member organization elected Tom Bartle, a former Houstonian here as a vice president of Lykes Brothers Steamship Lines.

Former Rep. Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls is first vice president and Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen second vice president. Sen. Ralph Yarborough was elected historian.

25-Year-Term For Slaying Of Mother-In-Law

DALLAS (AP)—A jury has convicted John Lawrence Smith of murder and assessed his penalty at 25 years for slaying his mother-in-law.

Smith's wife, 18, who is expecting a second child, burst into tears when the decision was read and had to be helped from the court.

The wife testified her mother was seeking to break up the marriage and had hired a moving company to remove part of her belongings from the couple's apartment.

The slaying occurred last May 6.

Winner Fights For Bus Line

By ANDREW MEISELS
NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm an investor," says Harry Weinberg, "not a gambler."

Investor or gambler, Weinberg has been winning steadily since 1953. With an original stake of $3 million, he has built the largest transit empire in the country—worth an estimated $100 million.

HARRY WEINBERG
He's used to winning

Currently, he is the central figure in the biggest game he ever entered. Playing against him are Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York and the Transport Workers Union. At stake is the Fifth Avenue Coach Lines Inc., the largest private bus line in the world.

The TWU is striking the line. Wagner wants to seize it. Weinberg wants to hold on to it and make it pay.

NO MILK

Weinberg complained that "we inherited a cow that has no milk." Wagner declares that "Weinberg is not going to leave town with his carpetbag full of money." But he insists that Weinberg will have to leave.

On a television broadcast, Wagner said Weinberg and his associates should "abandon any hope of running a bus line in this city."

"You're through," Wagner added to Weinberg, contending he and his associates were guilty of "deliberately inviting a strike."

Weinberg and the city are even further apart in discussing money. Weinberg estimates the bus line would lose $6.6 million in 1962. The Transit Advisory Commission, citing city accountants, estimates the firm should make $800,000 with no layoffs or curtailment of service.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the New York Legislature have been drawn into the fray—to say nothing of 1.5 million bus riders who have had to change their commuting habits since the strike began March 1.

UNKNOWN

All this revolves around a husky, clean-shaven 53-year-old man who was a comparative unknown here a month ago.

Harry Weinberg was born in Austria and was brought to the United States by his family at the age of 4. The family settled in Baltimore, where Weinberg's father opened an automobile repair shop.

Weinberg started building his fortune in real estate in Baltimore. In 1953, learning that the privately owned Scranton Transit Co. in Pennsylvania was in financial difficulty, he became interested and began buying stock and second-mortgage bonds.

By 1960, Weinberg owned the line.

Spurred by this success, he began quietly in 1957 to buy stock of the Honolulu Transit Co., explaining that "I liked the city and the climate."

Financial interests in Honolulu began a court suit to prevent Weinberg from getting control, but by 1960 he had won there, too.

Then he bought into Dallas Transit in Texas. By last spring, he was in control.

Casting about for another transit line, his eye fell upon the Fifth Avenue company which, like many another bus line, has been in financial difficulties for some time.

Weinberg and his longtime right-hand man, Baltimore lawyer Lawrence I. Weisman, 34, began the fight for control of Fifth Avenue last May. As his left-hand man for the occasion, Weinberg hired former Senate subcommittee counsel by M. Cohn, along with Cohn's law firm of Saxe, Bacon and O'Shea.

Last January, the Fifth Avenue line had been struck by the TWU for four days. To help it out of its distress, the city agreed to eliminate the line's 5-cent transfers, thus making all riders pay the full 15-cent fare.

Weinberg gained control of the company Feb. 17 and took over the posts of president and chairman of the board, waiving the $65,000 salary.

ASKED RELIEF

Weinberg demanded emergency relief from the city. He suggested raising the fare to 20 cents—a plan strongly opposed by Wagner. He suggested having the city lease the lines on a cost-plus basis, which in effect would have been a subsidy.

Barring these, he said, the company would be forced to lay off 1,500 workers to cut costs.

The union warned at once that the layoff of a single man would mean a strike.

Weinberg called for an immediate meeting with Wagner.

Wagner said he would not be rushed into such a session. He said the city's Transit Advisory Commission was still obtaining information on the company's finances.

Weinberg, Weisman and Cohn warned that unless a session with the mayor could be arranged for March 1, they would lay off the first 29 workers that day.

An angry mayor accused Weinberg of trying to blackmail the city into a fare increase.

On the appointed day, the line began laying off the workers. Immediately, the TWU declared itself on strike against the line, which, along with its subsidiaries, operates in Manhattan, the Bronx and Westchester County.

PART SETTLED

The Westchester segment of the strike has been settled, but the great bulk of the buses are still idle.

Wagner, a Democrat, has called on the New York Legislature to empower the city to take over the Fifth Avenue line. The heavily Republican body has not yet acted.

The GOP majority leader has urged that the city act under existing machinery. Rockefeller, also a Republican, said he would have to review the facts before deciding whether to support legislation to authorize the takeover.

Weinberg hasn't budged. His lines in other cities all charge higher fares than 15 cents—18 cents in Scranton, 23 in Dallas and 25 in Honolulu.

"You cannot sell a product at the same price you did years ago, when all costs have been rising," he has said.

Weinberg's home is still in Baltimore, where he and his wife have an apartment. Their son, Morton—a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Williams College who holds a masters degree in history from Harvard—is a vice president of Scranton Transit.

QUICK MANNER

Weinberg is an energetic man with a gravelly voice and quick manner whose working day begins at 5:30 a.m. and sometimes runs till midnight or later. He is frank in saying that his main interest is making money.

Weisman, who has been his chief counsel for a dozen years, says that when his boss seeks escape literature, he reads balance sheets.

Foreign Oil Shutdown Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., said today the United States needs no longer consider whether another Middle East "incident" will deny oil to the Free World but "need only speculate as to when this might occur."

He said the most influential oil spokesman in the Middle East has "warned" the Free World that sometime in the future Arab nations will be in a position to shut off all oil moving from their fields into Western markets.

Arab nationalism has brought on disruptions in the flow of Middle East oil twice since World War II, he said in remarks prepared for House delivery today.

"And now the threat of a third and even more serious crisis has been threatened by Abdullah Tariki, the oil minister of Saudi Arabia," Steed said.

Steed said that in the Feb. 17 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Sheikh Tariki stated that some day "we will unite," and once "we are strong enough to shut down all the wells, and close the Suez Canal and shut off the pipelines—even if only for a few days—the companies will suddenly see a great light."

"Sheik Tariki has served notice in language plain and blunt as to his desires and intent," Steed added.

Steed declared this country "cannot afford and cannot indulge in dependence for its security, and for the security of its allies, on any oil except its own."

Steed, chairman of a House Small Business subcommittee which recently investigated oil imports, said that since 1956 oil imports have climbed 450,000 barrels a day while crude oil production in this country remained static. Domestic oil exploration, discovery and drilling has dropped, he said.

His Prediction Came True

RENSELAER, N. Y. — Ben Handford will always remember his last half-hour as a member of the police force here.

He was set to turn in his badge at 8 p.m. He planned to take a less-dangerous job as a store manager.

Sitting in a police car with his partner, Patrolman Thomas Poole, Handford said, "Only a little while to go — we'll probably get some nut with a gun."

Twenty minutes later, they arrested a man at gunpoint after a high-speed chase. The man had a shotgun and several shells beside him on the front seat of his automobile.

DEAR ABBY

He Causes Knitted Brows

DEAR ABBY: The boy behind me in Freshman English brings a knitting bag to school and knits in class! He appears to be normal in every respect, but how can this be? At first everyone giggled and made remarks; but now nobody pays any attention to it. He is very good-looking, clean-cut and polite, but a little on the effeminate side. I would really like to get to know him better but my dorm sisters tell me there must be something wrong with him. Can a boy be normal and knit in public?

ON THE LEVEL
DEAR ON: He certainly can. And any male who knits in public is obviously masculine enough to defend himself.

DEAR ABBY: I think I am

psychic. My husband is in the Navy and stands guard duty now and then. When he has guard duty, he has to sleep at the barracks. Something told me, the last time he said he had guard duty, that he really didn't and that he went out with another woman instead. I did some checking and found out he got a buddy to take his duty and he did not sleep at the barracks. When I told him I knew he wasn't at the barracks, he admitted it; but denied there was a woman in the picture. Should I believe him? And how do you account for my knowing as much as I did without being told?

PSYCHIC WIFE
DEAR PSYCHIC: Call it a combination of knowing your own husband and a woman's intuition. Believe him this time, but don't give him too much rope or he'll skip again.

DEAR ABBY: Tell UNUSUAL BREED that he is not as "unusual" as he thinks he is. As a young man, some fifty years ago, I determined to stay "pure" for the woman I married. And I have known many other young men along life's way who had the same idea. From a backward look of over seventy years, I can attest that it was a good idea. Although death took two wives from me, I have never violated that principle, and I can truthfully say I have—

NO REGRETS
DEAR ABBY: My boy friend's birthday falls four days before mine. If I give him a gift, do you think he will think I am doing it so he will give me one?

SHIRLEY: If you think he'll think that's the reason—he probably will, too. (P. S. Is it?)

DALLAS (AP) — Candy Barr, possibly Texas' best known stripper until she went to prison on a narcotics charge, will not be granted parole this month, Jack Ross, chairman of the Pardons Board, says.

Ross said that although she became eligible for parole this month, a review of her case will not be held until next February. Pardon board members said that under her sentence of 2 to 15 years she will not be eligible for parole until she has credit for 3 years and 9 months.

Had she had a good record, prison officials said, she would have been eligible for parole early this year.

However, they said, she lost some credit because of trouble when she first went to the penitentiary.

Ross said the stripper later adjusted to prison life.

The stripper who has performed in many places in Texas and other states and made a firm of sorts was convicted of possession of marijuana.

She pleaded that she did not know the weed was in her room—that it was in a package given her to keep for a friend and she did not know the contents.

Science Study Path Is Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The president of the National Science Teachers Association urges a middle course between what he called two extreme positions on how science should be taught in American schools.

J. Darrell Barnard of New York University said one teaching group thought of science as "organized knowledge, something to be studied and learned."

They regard a good textbook and lab manual as the best basis for the course, he said.

At the other extreme, are teachers who believe that the "science classroom should be designed to open the doors of science to the student by providing opportunities for exploration and self discovery."

"Possibly there is a middle ground," Barnard said in outlining the program objectives for the annual convention of the organization of 27,000 teachers.

In a message to the convention, President John F. Kennedy declared his hope that "the resounding voice" of the science teachers "will continue to be heard by ever increasing numbers of our youth in response to their nation's need for trained and dedicated scientists, engineers and technicians."

The President said the nation will be facing a growing demand for highly qualified scientists and engineers as national research and development programs expand.

"Stating a problem, however, is not to solve it," the President's message said.

"I have instructed my scientific aides to make recommendations on specific measures that can be taken within and without the government to meet our requirements," he added.

EATONTOWN, N. J. (AP) — Life can be lively for the highway toll collector.

A tally man on the Garden State Parkway was proffered his prescribed quarter by a monkey perched behind a driver's seat.

Another time a motorist tried bribing his way through the toll gate with one of the deer he was carrying home from Canada.

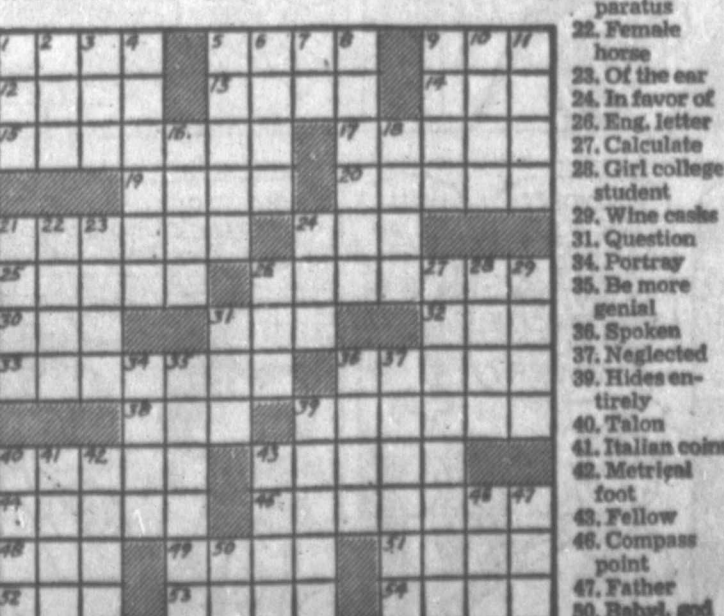

Then there was the toll paid from on high. A Navy blimp dropped startled collectors a white handkerchief. Inside was a quarter with the message, "The Navy always pays its way."

SPACE NEWS

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn Sr., parents of the astronaut, are doing a little scientific research of their own these days.

They are testing the packaging and freezing ability of buttermilk. Ever since the senior Glenn told a nationwide audience he spent the time of his son's orbital flight drinking buttermilk, the Glenn house in New Concord has been besieged with buttermilk.

"We got buttermilk from New York State and buttermilk from the local dairy and even the neighbors are bringing buttermilk," Glenn said. Now they are expecting an eight-gallon can of buttermilk from Harry J. Clark, a dairyman in Smith Falls, Ont.

"We've been experimenting with the buttermilk we have," Glenn explained, "putting it in plastic containers and in the freezer. We know we can freeze regular milk and we suppose it will be all right with the buttermilk."

Glenn said he isn't discouraged by all the buttermilk since everyone around likes it. Glenn added, however, that if his son makes the trip to the moon, he might mention that he also likes T-bone steaks.

first three astronauts to orbit the earth.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the couple promised to bring up the triplets to be as courageous and brave as their famous namesakes, Yuri Gagarin, Gherman Titov and John Glenn.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The success of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s earth orbit has eliminated some of the steps in planning future flights into space, Lt. Col. John (Shorty) Powers told the Florida Society of Editors.

Powers, Project Mercury information officer, told the editors Glenn's flight increased both the altitude and speed of man's flight capabilities about fivefold in one step.

Uncertain Vote May Produce Quite An Impact

UNCERTAIN, Tex. (AP)—Ninety-two of the 99 qualified voters here balloted 87-5 last week for the sale of all alcoholic beverages.

Uncertain is now the only area in Harrison County which permits the sale of alcoholic beverages. It is a resort area which has about 200 residents, on the shore of Caddo Lake, about 14 miles northeast of Marshall in far East Texas.

The city, which includes 219 acres, was incorporated in November of last year.

Misty Survives, Foals A Filly

CHINCOTEAGUE, Va. (AP)—The most famous Chincoteague pony of them all foaled a filly even as a count showed 55 ponies died in last week's savage coastal storm.

Misty, the storied 16-year-old pony who was evacuated from this ravaged island when the floods struck, gave birth to a third offspring at Pocomoke City, Md., Sunday.

That was about the only bright news to reach pony-owners and fanciers on Chincoteague.

A final count showed 55 of the little ponies perished in the flood on nearby Assateague Island, where they roam wild. Ninety died on Chincoteague.

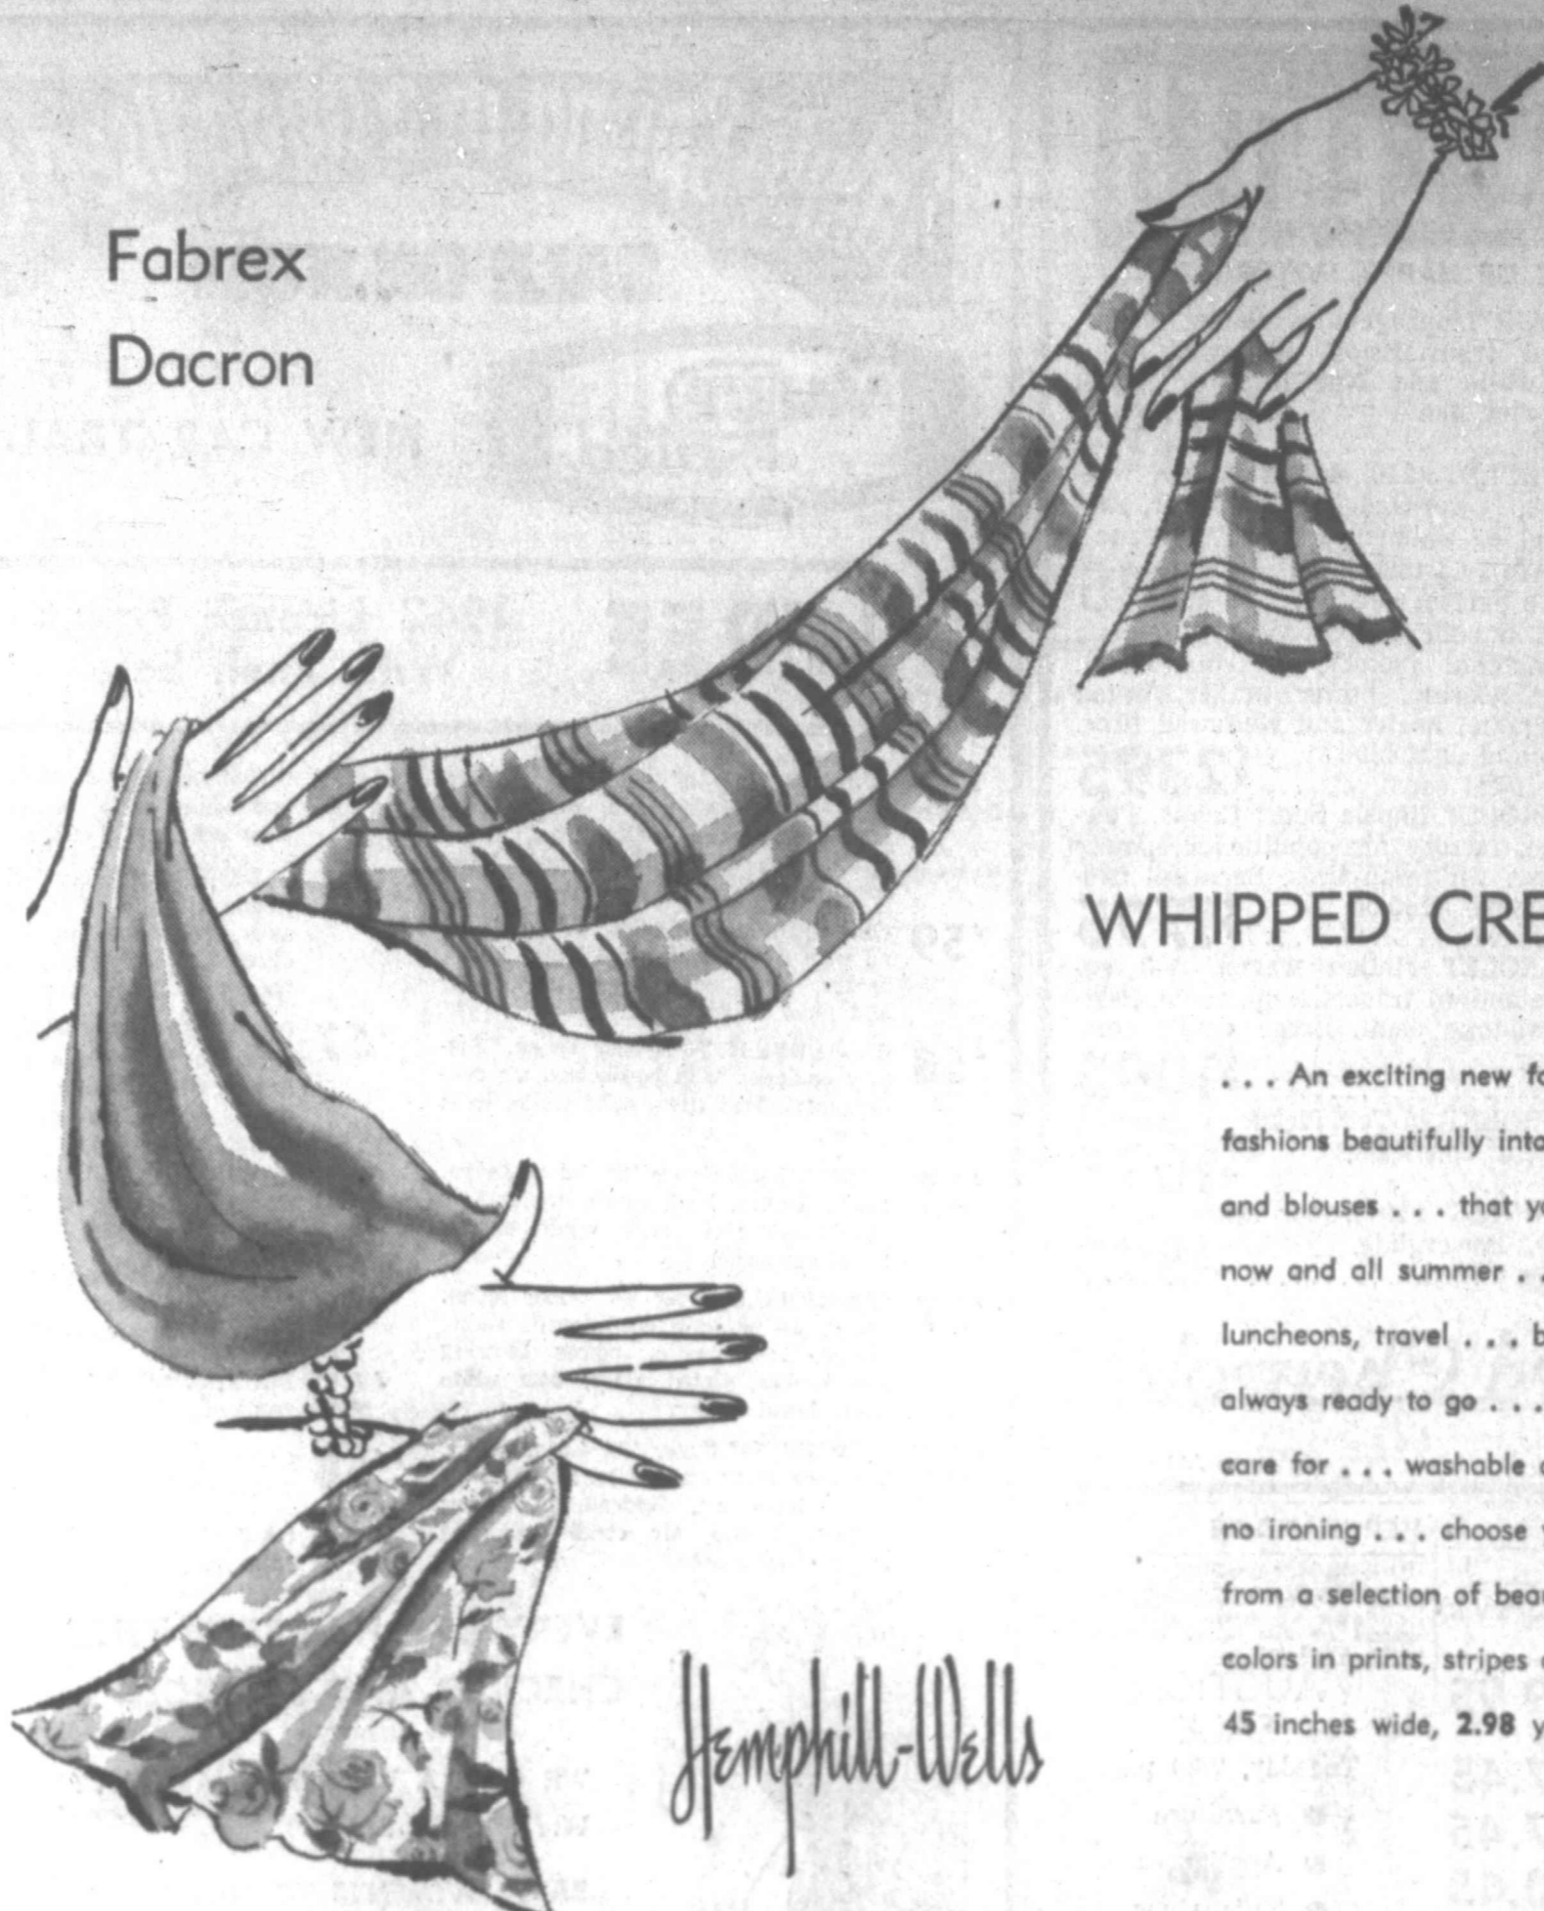

Four Army helicopters will remove the dead animals from the two islands today, lifting them by rope and depositing them in trucks, which will take the carcasses to a mainland farm for burial.

Lyndon Readies Campaign Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—At President Kennedy's suggestion, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is scheduling political campaigning likely to take him into a dozen key states before the November election.

The vice president is understood to have agreed to be the principal speaker at four party fund-raising rallies to be chosen by national chairman John M. Bailey. Johnson already has filled this role in New Jersey and Minnesota.

Screwworm Aid Thanks Given

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel has thanked Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida for the loan of equipment used in Texas' screwworm eradication program.

Daniel wrote Bryant that Texas and the Southwest hope to achieve the success Florida did in eliminating the screwworm menace.

"I wish to express my sincere appreciation on behalf of the livestock industry of Texas and the Texas Animal Health Commission for your generosity in permitting us to use some of the equipment belonging to Florida in our new plant at Moore Air Force Base, Mission," Daniel said.

The Mission plant will be built by the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation and the animal disease eradication division of the Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture. It will be capable of producing 75 million sterile flies a week for use in the program.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has appropriated $800,000 for the screwworm eradication program in Texas.

New Recordings Show Jazz Evolves With Civilization

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Jazz has been said to reflect a civilization in motion.

If that is true, and if it means, as some say, that jazz should be constantly evolving, looking for new ways to say new things, then comes the big question: How? Evolve, but how?

Improvisation? Let the musician create the music as he plays it, giving jazz an exciting, free, here-and-now quality? But good musicians can be mediocre composers.

Write jazz out or work it out? Take the security road and say good sound is better than bad? But security can be the path to routine, not inspired, performance.

Write jazz out or work it out? Take the security road and say good sound is better than bad? But security can be the path to routine, not inspired, performance.

In Carisi's "Mon Taj," for example, every part sounds as if it is being improvised. The musicians are not playing in harmony; every one is stretching out on his own, sometimes producing a kind of counterpoint, sometimes dissonance. But the listener, far from feeling torn apart, feels a unity which must have been carefully thought out before the playing. You know only one atmosphere—the Taj Mahal by moonlight.

Jazz composed by Eddie Sauter for string orchestra, with Stan Getz improvising all the way on tenor sax makes up the album called "Focus." (Verve)

The gifted soloist, Getz, improvises in search of the new, but within limits. This music swings, usually in a blue mood; Getz follows a melodic line, and he "fits in" with his orchestra.

Milt Jackson, vibraphone virtuoso of the Modern Jazz Quartet, may be said to belong to a different branch of the cool school from Getz. "Statements," the Milt Jackson Quartet (Impulse) shows Jackson searching for purity of sound — through almost perfect control of his instrument. His solos — of interesting material, some of it written by Jackson — are so brilliant you expect them to catch and reflect light like gems.

The album notes say the quartet's recording session mood was relaxed—a note of more than passing importance where the creation of jazz is concerned.

If you want to listen farther out, there's "Ornette!" by the Ornette Coleman Quartet (Atlantic). Music leaps from Coleman's alto sax in fragments, "away from the bondage of harmonic and formal conventions."

But if you are, after all, a traditionalist, and Coleman's sound reminds you of the squeaks and squawks of an inquisitive child left alone with a horn, there are new records, and good ones, for you.

There is "Jonah Jones - Glen Gray" (Capitol) if you crave clean trumpet technique with a big band that swings.

Dixieland comes in two hot new packages. "Breaking It Up on Broadway," the Dukes of Dixieland (Columbia) and "Dixieland Supper Club," Red Nichols and the Five Pennies (Capitol). You can choose between them on the basis of whether you want to hear "Lady Be Good" and "Hey Look Me Over" or "Sentimental Journey" and "Canadian Capers."

And in the aptly named album, "Swing Low, Sweet Clarinet," Pete Fountain, the Jubilee Singers and Orchestra (Coral) provide spirituals, New Orleans style.

Convicted Killer Executed

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Convicted killer Harold D. Wooley smiled broadly as he entered the Colorado Penitentiary gas chamber.

Seven minutes later he was dead.

Wooley, 39, was executed last week for the 1959 murder of wealthy Denver socialite William Scott Wright.

Wooley was convicted Feb. 18, 1960, for the death of Wright, 37. During his trial, a written confession was admitted in which Wooley said he fired one shot into Wright's head as the man slept in the living room of his Indian Hills cabin southwest of Denver.

In his confession Wooley said that he and his girl friend, Mrs. Pearl Walker, wrapped the body in a sheet and canvas, loaded it into Wright's car, and buried it under rocks in Clear Creek Canyon west of Denver.

The decomposed body was found about three months later.

When arrested, Wooley and the woman were living in their victim's Denver home, collecting and endorsing checks from rental properties Wright owned. Before confessing, they claimed Wright had left on a business trip and asked them to look after his business.

Mrs. Walker, who was convicted in a separate trial March 13, 1960, is serving a life sentence for her part in the crime. She visited Wooley in his cell before the execution.

Mrs. Walker made a last ditch attempt to save Wooley's life last week when she said that she, not Wooley, fired the shot that killed Wright.

Gov. Steve McNichols called Mrs. Walker's statement a fabrication.

POWERFUL NEW PLUNGER CLOGGED TOILETS in a jiffy!

TOILAFLEX Toilet Plunger

NEVER AGAIN that sick feeling when your toilet overflows.

Ordinary plungers just don't seat properly. They permit compressed air and water to splash back. Thus you not only have a mess, but you lose the very pressure you need to clear the obstruction.

With "Toilaflex," expressly designed for toilets, no air or water can escape. The full pressure plows through the clogging mass and swishes it down. Can't miss!
