JET THEATRE STAGES UNSCHEDULED SPECTACULAR Screen and ticket office of drive-in theatre go up in flames

Spectacular Fire Razes Screen Of Jet Theatre

Fire that started like a torch at the top of the screen destroyed the projection screen and ticket office at the Jet Drive-In Theatre on US 87 south at 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Five policemen were dispatched to the scene to handle traffic, and firemen were hampered in efforts to combat the blaze for lack of a water connection.

Damage to the screen, storage room underneath, and the ticket office, was estimated to run between $20,000 and $30,000 by Manager Ike Robb.

The first alarm was received at the Fire Department from the VA hospital. A few seconds later the projectionist called, firemen said.

Showers Bring Happy Smiles To Area Farmers, Ranchers

Showers which fell Wednesday night brought happy smiles to the faces of farmers and ranchers, agree that the rain was not sufficient to the need but they hastened to add that it would be of great help. It will be of particular benefit to the ranchers in that it will help sprouting weeds and grass needed for early pasture.

A gauge caught .19 of an inch in rains that fell from 9 p.m. to around midnight. Texas Electric Service Co. switching plant had .15 of an inch and the downtown plant .20 of an inch.

There was no wind and no electric disturbance as the big drops pattered down on the parched countryside.

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Five persons still were unaccounted for today as firemen prepared to tear down the walls of the fire-ravaged New Golden Hotel.

Gen. Walker Takes Poke At Reporter

BY RADIO INTO BRAIN

Electronic Device Bypasses The Ear

HOUSTON (AP) — A 17-year-old youth has invented a device that he claims transmits sound by radio impulses directly to the brain, bypassing the ear.

Youth With Hearing Invention

The inventor is Pat Flanagan, a junior at Bellaire High School. He said his invention consists of two insulated electrodes which fit over the temples without contacting the ears.

Pat Flanagan, 17, a Bellaire High School junior, shows his invention—a device that may revolutionize the hearing-aid industry.

The Possibilities Are Tremendous

At first glance, the prospects for an invention by a young Houston lad named Pat Flanagan would seem to be an improved hearing aid, which would be great news for the deaf and hard of hearing, but rather mundane as a scientific achievement.

Some valuable conclusions—but until now, there was no prospect of learning to read minds from these brain waves, much less of actually sending radio signals directly into the brain, thus bypassing the sensory mechanisms.

French On Guard As Oran Civilians Flee Terrorists

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—Some 250 Europeans boarded planes for France Wednesday night as French troops stood guard to counter Secret Army Organization (OAS) efforts to prevent the departure.

Climax To Stormy Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edwin Walker, the retired Texas general, took a swing at a newspaper reporter today just after he completed two days of stormy testimony before Senate investigators.

Walker named these two in response to questions by Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

Walker resigned from the Army last fall with a bitter blast at his superiors after being removed from command of an Army division in Germany and admonished for making derogatory statements publicly about prominent Americans.

When Walker returned to the witness chair today, Bartlett asked what the former general meant Wednesday when he said, "It is evident that the real control apparatus will not tolerate militant anti-Communist leadership by a division commander."

Lathes Handle Big Jobs

Bill Ballard, lathe operator for Southwest Tool and Machine Co., does a threading job on drill stem in the shop at 901 E. 2nd. The shop has a 34-inch, a 24-inch and an 18-inch lathe to take most jobs brought in.

Small Industries Are Important Too

By M. A. WEBB

Small industry in Big Spring plays an important part in community life.

One of the oldest doing extra heavy work in the machine field is Southwest Tool & Machine Co., 901 E. 1st, where Jimmy Johnson Jr. is manager. The firm started at Foran 35 years ago and moved to Big Spring several years ago.

The main work is repairing, rebuilding, and servicing equipment for oil field machinery and for heavy industry. A lot of the work is done in the field where welding, both acetylene and electric, is needed. Heavier jobs are brought to their shop where three big lathes, drill presses, hydraulic presses, planers, and other machines are available. One 34-inch lathe is the largest in the area.

"We can build some equipment outright," Johnson said, "and often have to make a piece of machinery because it is needed quicker than it can be ordered."

BIG DRILL
A drill press with a radial arm reaching six feet and capable of drilling a four-inch hole stands ready for use when needed. A 100-ton hydraulic press can separate or put together equipment where pressure is needed. It can be converted into a boring mill.

Six men are employed by the firm at present, and two office personnel round out the force at the plant.

Three portable welding outfits, mounted on trucks, are ready to go day or night and they cover a radius of some 50 miles of Big Spring. Drillstem and pipe can be cut and threaded in the plant to any length.

An industry in great demand while construction in Big Spring grows is cabinet building. Oliver's Cabinet Shop, 710 E. 4th, designs and manufactures kitchen interiors, built-in appliances, special wood work, and furniture. From pencil and paper to the finished product work turned out in the well-equipped shop will add to the finest home or business. Fixtures fit when installed.

Hardwood paneling can be installed in any type building and either hardwood or modern plastic tops built on cabinets.

WATER SOFTENING
Water softening is a big business in Big Spring. Aubrey E. Stafford, who operates the Culligan Soft Water Service at 503 E. 6th can furnish a softener in homes or for business and industrial use where soft water is a necessity.

Distilled water is provided for all purposes where required. Many housewives use water softeners in their homes, and laundries and self-service laundries use soft water for better cleaning in their machines.

Another industry in Big Spring which aids in home and business lighting and decorating is the Hall Venetian Blind and Awning Co., 105 W. 15th.

A. G. Hall, a resident of Big Spring for 52 years, started the business in 1937, and has grown with the demand.

Aluminum is used in all venetian blinds, with colors to suit the customer, and sizes made according to specifications. Awnings for business and residential houses are built to fit the demands of the particular building.

Stock blinds are kept on hand, but Hall will go to a building, prepare specifications, and build the blinds in the size and color best suited.

In addition to the awnings and blinds customers may have draperies made or may order ready-made sizes, colors, and materials. Mrs. Hall is in charge of the drapery department.

Another industry which goes into the home and makes sleeping more pleasant is the mattress man. Big Spring has two mattress factories.

The Big Spring Mattress Factory, owned by T. J. Mitchell, 813 W. 3rd, builds mattresses to order, cleans and rebuilds old mattresses, or tufts old mattresses in felt, fluffy layers, and builds box springs.

Patton Mattress Factory at 817 E. 3rd renovates, builds new, and rebuilds and sterilizes mattresses. This company also builds custom-made king-size beds, special head boards, Hollywood beds, and rubber mattresses, as well as box springs.

Both pick up and deliver their products.

Big Spring also has two industries to give light to their customers. The Flo-Lite Neon Sign Co., 305 NW 12 and Sig Rogers Sign and Neon Shop, 404 Douglas, create, build, repair and maintain signs for businessmen and firms.

Rogers provides aerial crane erection for really big signs. He provides window signs, boards, places Gold Leaf lettering on doors, trucks, windows, silk screen processing, and builds reflecting road signs.

Antonio B. Quintana, 44, Roscoe, is in the Howard County Hospital Foundation with serious concussion, numerous cuts and abrasions and a badly injured hand as result of a traffic accident at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday night.

Highway patrol officers said the accident occurred one half mile east of Big Spring on IS 20. It involved the late model pickup being driven by Quintana and a big tractor pulling a trailer loaded with hay.

Both vehicles were going east. The bigger truck was driven by E. B. Henderson, 58, of Artesia, N. M. Like Quintana, he was alone in his vehicle.

An officer said that Quintana rammed his light pickup under the rear end of the trailer being pulled by Henderson. The pickup was demolished and the big truck immobilized.

Quintana was taken to the hospital by River Ambulance.

Future Homemakers Mark Special Themes This Week

Homemaking classes at junior high and high schools in Big Spring are celebrating FHA week with a special theme for each day this week.

There are nearly 500 of these future homemakers in 12 classes at the high school and six classes at each of Runnels and Goliad Junior High.

The girls, ranging in grade from the ninth through the twelfth, began the week Sunday with "Church Day." Some girls took a friend to Sunday worship with them.

Monday was "Color Day," with each student wearing red and white. Tuesday teachers in the schools found their desks brightened with an apple, coffee and cookies were provided in the teachers lounge at the high school.

Students of special education were treated to cookies and punch Wednesday at Goliad Junior High as part of the FHA Week program.

"We had about 20 pupils out and it worked so well the girls may invite more of the special education students," Mrs. Fern Alexander, teacher at Goliad, said. The day's theme was "Doing Things for Others."

Today students from the two junior high schools have been invited to be guests of the homemaking classes at the high school. A film entitled "A Desk for Billy" will be shown Friday to impress upon the girls that much of their success will depend on their own initiative.

Moms of homemaking students will get a special treat Saturday as their pupils do work for their mothers.

The girls receive instruction in all phases of making a home, a lifetime task for which most are preparing themselves. Mrs. Alexander said. They learn to cook, sew, make home improvements, decorate the home and handle budget matters, to mention only a few aspects of their instruction.

Punch And Cookies

Working in modern laboratory classrooms, the girls have most of the facilities of home in which to work. There are stoves, sinks, closets and rooms to decorate. They also have desks with built-in sewing machines and ironing boards—the first such installed in any school in West Texas.

Homemaking begins at the ninth grade and can be taken any year thereafter. Two years of homemaking can be used to replace one year of credit for science. The course may be taken for three years, but a pupil may gain extra credit by accepting two summer projects. Each is for one-half credit.

Instructors of homemaking are, at the high school, Mrs. Jack

Cardwell, Edna McGregor and Janice Spaeth; at Runnels, Mrs. Betty Conley and Mrs. Florence Lennox; and, at Goliad, Mrs. Fern Alexander and Mrs. Lucille Brokaw.

Brazil To Pay For Seizures

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brazilian President Joao Goulart has promised his government will make fair compensation for expropriated utility properties.

And, President Kennedy has accepted an invitation to visit Brazil sometime this year.

Those were the two major developments in two days of talks between the heads of state. The Brazilian president made his pledge of fair compensation in a joint communique issued Wednesday.

There have been protests in this country over seizure recently in Brazil of a subsidiary of the American-owned International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and the attempted expropriation of a Canadian telephone firm's subsidiary.

Although the communique did not go into these instances it declared Goulart intends to maintain conditions of security which will permit private capital to perform its vital role in Brazilian economic development.

No date was set for Kennedy's visit to Brazil, but White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that Mrs. Kennedy planned to accompany the President.

Brazilian sources said August has been tentatively fixed as the date.

3 Gainesville Residents Drown

GAINESVILLE (AP)—Three Gainesville residents drowned after their small boat upset in Lake Texoma Wednesday.

Three women fishing close by saved a fourth occupant of the craft by tossing her a line.

James Beams, his wife and Joe Foster went down as the boat capsized 20 feet from shore in the lake's upper end. The Beams were parents of five children.

Foster's wife was saved by the three women, who pulled her into their boat. The rescuers were Mrs. Jake Wheeler of Gainesville and Mrs. Tommy Harrell and Mrs. Ellen Suggs, both of the Sivells Bend community.

One man stood at the back trying to start an outboard motor and the other three passengers were in the front of the boat as it overturned, witnesses reported.

THE LAW
By A Christian Writer

In Romans 7:1-7, the apostle pictured God's people as having been married to the law and bound by it, like a woman is bound by the law to her husband. But as the woman is bound to her husband only while he lives; so we "also are become dead to the law by the body of Christ," and have become married to another, who is Christ. Thus it would be spiritual adultery for us to be married to Christ and under the law at the same time.

"But now we are delivered from the law . . ." (verse 6).

The apostle goes on to identify this law as being that which in Old Testament times said, "Thou shalt not covet" (verse 7). So we search the Old Testament and find that this statement is found nowhere in the post, except in the ten commandments. Thus we know the ten commandments are included in the law that died in the body of Christ, and no longer has dominion over God's people.

Thus we are not bound to the ten commandment law. We are bound to Christ. Under Christ we have laws parallel to nine of the ten commandments; but we have no sabbath law. If we are not married to the law, we are not required to keep the sabbath. If we are married to the law, we cannot be married to Christ. That would be spiritual adultery.

You are always welcome at the church of Christ, 200 West Highway 86, T. H. Farber, preacher (an Australian preaching mission '81 May 26), Box 1282.—adv.

Upward Trend Continues For Lake's Water

Water delivered by the Colorado River Municipal Water District during March continued an upward trend for the year. Production figures compiled by O. H. Ivey, assistant general manager, showed 699,366,000 gallons for the month, a gain of 8.96 over March of 1961. Part of the increase was due to initial deliveries of water to the Sinclair-Standard of Texas repressuring unit in the Iatan-East Howard oil field.

For the first three months of the year the district delivered 1,893,000,000 gallons to its customers, an increase of 9.88 per cent. for the period compared to last year.

Member cities drew 461,395,000 gallons in March, an increase of 8.41 for the month. Odessa required 263,089,000, a gain of 10.87, Big Spring 161,603,000, a gain of 6.45, and Snyder 36,703,000, a decrease of 2.06.

The oil companies took 237,953,000 gallons for repressuring, and this was 10.04 per cent higher than March a year ago. However, the 1962 totals included 15,436,000 from Sinclair-Standard (which started deliveries on March 12), and without this the percentage increase was 2.91. Most of the companies draw the heaviest portion of their water in the forefront of the year in order to make sure that they come up to minimum contract quantities.

All of the CRMWD system is in good condition for summer peak demands, Ivey reported. The last of the preventative maintenance program carried on during the winter is being completed on the Snyder reservoir. Thus far, demand for water has maintained an even pattern with no pronounced surges on peak days. Hot spring days, however, may change this.

Ready For Sale

Ernest Barbee and Lucian Jones, set to go with their sales pitch. Proceeds from the sale go to the various charities sponsored by the club.

Evening Lions Club Launches Annual Broom Sale Friday

The Big Spring Evening Lions Club annual broom sale begins Friday and will continue through Saturday. Sale details were finalized at a breakfast meeting of the board of directors, earlier in the week.

The city has been divided into six districts with a team named to work each of them. At 4 p.m. Friday the teams will leave their base armed with brooms, mops, dust cloths, and other household items, which they will offer to housewives and businessmen at nominal prices.

All of the profits, with no deductions for expenses, will go to the various charities sponsored by the club. Chief among these is the Lions Club Home for Crippled Children at Kerrville.

Another is the program for aiding the blind. Committees regularly canvass the schools and institutions for the names of children in need of glasses, and whose parents cannot afford the purchase. These children at the expense of the club, are taken to doctors for examinations, and fitted with proper glasses.

Named to head up the teams which will work the city on the broom sale are: general chairman, Earl Penner; Don Crockett, David Yater, Ernest Barbee, Bert Shive, Lucian Jones, J. B. Hollis, Squeaky Thompson, Bob Tawater, Cotton Mize and Virgil Perkins. J. B. Hagood and Durwood Walker will make deliveries on pre-sale orders.

Denies Book Is Subversive

AUSTIN (AP)—A volume mentioned at a legislative hearing on school textbooks in San Antonio is not subversive, Lyman Jones, publications director of the Texas AFL-CIO, said Wednesday.

The Rev. W. S. Arms Jr., head of an organization that calls itself University Baptist Temple and which meets in the basement of the YMCA, told the committee he found the book on a piano in an Austin YMCA library. Arms said the book was distributed by the AFL-CIO.

"The book to which the Rev. Arms referred was distributed by the AFL-CIO and contains hymns, marching songs and folk songs," Jones said.

"It definitely does not contain any songs which call Nikolai Lenin 'our leader' as the Rev. Arms stated."

Dies In Collision

ITASCA (AP)—James Tackett, 18, of Grandview, near here in North Central Texas, died in a collision of his car and a two-ton truck Wednesday at the north edge of Itasca. Officers said the auto skidded in front of the truck on paving slick from rain.

DeVaney Urges Additional Funds In Screwworm Fight

C. H. DeVaney, Coahoma, vice president of the Texas Farm Bureau, Wednesday urged a U. S. Senate subcommittee to approve a proposed $500,000 increase in the funds suggested to be used in the eradication of screwworm flies.

Speaking in Washington before a meeting of the subcommittee, DeVaney said that the southwestern states are ready to cooperate financially with the federal government in the program and that if the $500,000 additional funds are not allocated as asked, the overall money for the program would be diminished by a million dollars.

The full $3,000,000 asked by the Department of Agriculture for the program was requested by the departmental witnesses, and spokesmen from Texas. DeVaney was one of those heard.

It was pointed out that the screwworm takes $100,000,000 toll annually from stockmen in Texas and that, according to scientists, a $3,000,000 or $3,500,000 campaign at this time could eliminate the pest almost completely.

The program calls for the release of sterile male screwworm flies along the border between the U. S. and Mexico. The females come in from south, breed one time and, after depositing their eggs, die. By mating them with impotent males, the eggs would be sterile and the usual crop of screwworms would not hatch.

Male flies treated with radioactive material are left sterile. The plan was pursued in Florida with the result that loss from screwworms was practically eliminated.

Pearce Johnson, an Austin attorney speaking for southwestern raisers of cattle, sheep and goats, told the Senate subcommittee:

"The most tragic thing that happens would be to have all funds depleted with the end of this flesh-eating pest in sight, and see him continue to grow, spread and prosper on the $100 million per year bite he takes out of the agricultural economy of the nation because of the lack of a few dollars."

Army Ship Can Do Pushups

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The biggest ship in the U.S. Army can do pushups.

An experimental landing craft, the 338-foot long vessel is getting an overhaul at a Jacksonville shipyard. It is named the Lt. Col. John U. D. Page.

The push up part of the ship's design is a special plunger under the bow. This hydraulically operated device permits the ship to push itself off a beach if it gets aground during a landing operation.

DEAR ABBY

Forewarned Is Forearmed

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and am engaged to a very jealous boy. He insists on seeing me every night. When I come home from work I have my washing and ironing to do, and I like to go to a movie with a girl friend once in a while. He allows me to have one night away from him every two weeks. And then he gives me the third degree about what I did and who I saw. I think I am entitled to one evening a week away from him. He says because we are engaged he is entitled to all my time. Is he right?

DEAR OWNED: If this is a preview of how you two are going to get along after marriage, I suggest a LONG courtship. He is far too possessive, and you are justifiably resentful. A jealous fiancé makes a miserable husband. Forewarned is forearmed.

DEAR ABBY: Can you settle an argument that has been going on for 15 years? Should an anniversary be celebrated when one mate is dead? Or should you still go on sending gifts and cards to the one who is living? I say, what difference does it make? If one person is still living and able to say, "Today is my anniversary," then that person still has an anniversary. My wife says it takes two to celebrate an anniversary and it is not proper to celebrate it alone. Sign me, TIRE D OF ARGUING.

DEAR TIRE D: Your wife is right. It takes TWO to celebrate an anniversary.

DEAR ABBY: I went with Joe for four years. I am 28 and he is 35. We were more than just friends, if you know what I mean. We had our good times, but I went through more misery than I care to talk about. He promised marriage, but it was only conversation. He was a liar and a cheat, but when a woman loves a man she'll overlook a lot. I finally made the break and, believe me, my love for him is dead. He owes me $300. In order to get it I will have to see him again. He didn't give me a "note" or anything so I'm out of luck there. I don't want to start up with him again. But how else can I get my money?

LEARNED A LESSON DEAR LEARNED: You learned a lesson, and it cost you $300. Forget the debt—and the debtor. I think you got off cheap.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SICK AT HEART: Forgive him. You never know when you might need the same kind of understanding.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wake Aims Scattergun At Practically Everyone

(Continued From Page 1) ... Walker said the Communists take over Cuba and part of Korea and spread into the Congo.

Walker said this apparatus accomplished its propaganda through the United Nations, adding: "The United Nations is the nearest thing to the Tower of Babel that's ever been built."

Walker said the effort was to sell out our traditions, our constitution, our sovereignty, our independence.

CAN'T NAME THEM Bartlett told Walker that if the country faced such a peril the Senate investigators were entitled to the names of those involved.

"Will you name these people?" the senator pressed. "I cannot identify those who are completely in control of the apparatus," Walker replied, but added that he could identify those who follow the soft-Communist line.

Finally Walker said, "Dean Rusk" and quickly added that he understood Rusk was on the staff of the late Joseph "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell in China.

Walker said the "agrarian reform highlights" led to a takeover of mainland China by the Communists.

The ex-general said Rusk had been a member and supporter of the Institute of Pacific Relations, adding that its activities and those of Owen Lattimore were a matter of record in reports by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

OTHER NAMES? "Are there other names?" Bartlett asked. "Walt Rostow, who has been in control of operations of the CIA since 1954," Walker replied.

Bartlett asked for other names but Walker said he believed Rusk and Rostow had so much influence, additional names were unneeded.

"I want to unify the greatest force in the world," Walker said. "It is the only circumvention to war."

Walker had named some figures at the Pentagon in his first day of testimony.

HEAVIEST FIRE He aimed his heaviest fire at Adam Yarmolinsky, special assistant to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in testimony Wednesday.

Of Yarmolinsky—one of those whom Walker contends made a "scapegoat" of him—he said: "His connections with communism have certainly been close and his activities have aided communism."

Yarmolinsky told a reporter he had nothing to do with the Walker case and that Walker's charges were irresponsible. "It happens that I have a public record as an anti-Communist," he declared.

"My whole public record goes in the opposite direction from these charges," he said.

He said it was true, as Walker charged, that he had attended some Young Communist League meetings.

He was a junior in high school at the time, he said, and went against his parents' advice—because "I was curious."

"I went to a couple of meetings and saw what was, and didn't go again," said Yarmolinsky.

of Oklahoma City and Medford Evans of Dallas, a consultant. Before the long day was done, Walker in his statements and under questioning from senators charged: "That the armed forces were 'paralyzed by our national policy of 'no win' and retreat from victory."

That he was a victim of this policy—"I was charged with nothing, I have been found guilty of nothing, I have been punished for nothing."

BLAMES PRESIDENT That the President was to blame for his removal and admonishment—"the chief executive was both prosecutor and judge."

That his observation indicates "that control (of the military) has been taken from the hands of those legally responsible for it and placed in hands not fully identifiable, but which operate through the media of mass communication, the U.S. Department of State, and the information offices of the services."

"In soldier language," he went on, "the PIO's (public information officers) run the Army. What the average soldier does not realize is the extent to which outside media run the PIO's, and unidentified forces run the media."

After Walker read his prepared statement, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., asked Walker why he was critical of a book used in the Army reading program—"What You Should Know About Communism," by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet.

Walker said it implicitly encourages "accommodation with the enemy—competitive coexistence."

JUST HEARSAY Pressed by Symington, Walker conceded he had not read the book, that "my knowledge of it is only by hearsay."

While he was on the subject of books, Walker said former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, when he wrote "Crusade in Europe," had the assistance of a ghost writer who "could also be checked." Walker didn't name the writer.

As the long hearing ground into late afternoon and a discussion of communism, Walker brought up McNamara's aide, Yarmolinsky. He said if he were McNamara he would fire him.

"We are curious about Mr. Adam Yarmolinsky," he said.

"Later he barked back to him, saying: 'His connections with communism have certainly been close and his activities have aided communism.'"

Yarmolinsky told a reporter he had nothing to do with the Walker case and that Walker's charges were irresponsible. "It happens that I have a public record as an anti-Communist," he declared.

"My whole public record goes in the opposite direction from these charges," he said.

He said it was true, as Walker charged, that he had attended some Young Communist League meetings.

He was a junior in high school at the time, he said, and went against his parents' advice—because "I was curious."

"I went to a couple of meetings and saw what was, and didn't go again," said Yarmolinsky.

Walker was specifically testifying on Army information and indoctrination programs for troops. The committee is investigating allegations that military officers' anti-Communist speeches and efforts have been muzzled. But the testimony often went far afield.

The Senate Caucus Room was crowded as the lean ex-combat officer told of his troubles and what he thinks is wrong with the Army and national policy.

Walker first read a 9,000-word prepared statement. Two associates sat by his side, occasionally prompting him and correcting his pronunciation. They identified themselves as Attorney C. J. Watts the inquiry—Walker denied he tried to influence votes of his soldiers, although he insisted some past top U.S. officials had leftist leanings or were misguided.

Under questioning by Thurmond, Walker said a number of magazines that he contended were "soft on communism and assisted the Communist party line" were in Army libraries in Europe. If he had his way, he said, he would have banned them.

He listed the magazines as The Nation, The New Republic, The Reporter, The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, and the foreign policy bulletin of the Foreign Policy Association.

MENTALITY QUESTIONED "He's an idiot," said Gilbert A. Harrison, editor of The New Republic, when asked for comment.

Max Ascoli, editor and publisher of The Reporter, said he had been under attack recently from some newspapers and periodicals "for being too hard on communism."

"I am sure he (Walker) has never looked at a single copy of The Reporter—or he looked and didn't understand, in which case I don't understand how he was graduated from West Point," said Ascoli.

Carey McWilliams, editor of The Nation, commented, "The remarks of General Walker are absurd."

"This is the pattern of most of his peculiar brand of wisdom on most subjects," McWilliams added.

Walker also launched into a defense of the John Birch Society, a militantly conservative organization, of which he is a member.

He had been accused of using Birch Society literature as a basis for his troop indoctrination program, but the Army investigation decided this was not true.

Walker said segments of the "ultra-liberal press" are attacking the Birch society.

This attack is merely a diversionary one, he said, a "propaganda front" to cover up the real intent—to weaken the armed forces.

Publisher Dares Walker To Talk Without Immunity

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The publisher of the Overseas Weekly today challenged former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker to make his accusations against her paper in a public forum where he could be held responsible.

Mrs. Marion Rospach, the weekly's publisher, also said that Cyril Means of New York, vice president of the paper, has asked to testify before the special Senate subcommittee hearing Walker.

Walker has assailed the paper repeatedly since it published a report last April accusing him of distributing material from the John Birch Society to troops under his command in Germany.

The report prompted an Army investigation and Walker was relieved of his command and admonished. He resigned his commission.

In his testimony before the subcommittee Wednesday, Walker called the Overseas Weekly "vicious, immoral, corrupt, destructive and subversive."

NO NAMES He did not name the newspaper but Sylvester was correspondent for the Newark News before joining the Defense Department.

The News would not comment on Walker's remarks and Sylvester was not available.

Statement
Edwin A. Walker, former Army major general, reads a prepared statement while testifying before a special Senate Armed Forces Subcommittee in Washington.

Walker said he "was a scapegoat of an unwritten policy of collaboration and collusion with the international Communist conspiracy."

Teachers To Hold McAllen Meeting

Three members of the local Classroom Teachers Association will be among about 1,000 Texas teachers congregating in McAllen Friday and Saturday for the Sixth Annual Convention of the Texas CTA.

Attending from Big Spring will be Margie Newbrough, Richard Gonzalez, Cleo Carlile and George Dyer.

The convention officially begins Saturday morning. In addition to regular business meetings, the teachers will hear a report by the state president, Mrs. Elizabeth Little, Corpus Christi, on teaching and teacher education.

Pedestrian Is Hurt In Mishap

Mrs. Hope Davis, 1701 W. 3rd, was taken by River ambulance to Webb AFB Hospital at 8 p.m. Wednesday, where she was treated for bruises and cuts, and held for observation, following an accident at West Third and Gregg.

She was walking across the street when she was struck by a car driven by Royce Carol Cone, 703 W. 6th. Police investigating said Cone was making a left turn off Third onto Gregg during the rain.

The rains brought a rash of accidents from noon to midnight Wednesday, but no other injuries were reported in the seven wrecks investigated by police. One hit and run was reported.

Locations and names of drivers of vehicles involved in the collisions, were: 710 Gregg, James Palmer, 811 E. 14th, and Mary Jones, 1202 W. 16th; Fourth and Birdwell, Ruby Brooks, Rt. 2, and Raymond Lilly, 1101 Marjio; East Second and Rannels, a parked pickup owned by Pioneer Natural Gas Co., and a driver who left the scene; Fourth and Gollard, Roy Wheelers, 1102 E. 13th and Peggy Cross Creek, Stanton;

Third and Main, Wade Pool and Richard Clinton, HCJC; Birdwell, Gene Young, Brownfield, and James A. Watson, 1602 State; 800 Block of NW 12th, Margaret Freeman Jones, 806 Pine, and Willard Hill Denton Jr.

Lodge Schedules Initiation Here

Major Degree Exemplification for about 50 new district candidates will be held in Big Spring by Council 142 of the Knights of Columbus, according to Grand Knight Jack Turner.

The local council voted Tuesday to host the council for the district, which includes councils in Odessa and Midland. The date of the initiation will be announced later.

Daniel Foresees More Water

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel said today that water conservation projects completed or begun in Texas in the past 5 years will increase storage capacity 169 per cent from the total for the previous 44 years.

Registration Begins Today For Convention

The national president of the association of American Business Clubs is expected to arrive today to help kick off the 1962 Sixth Regional convention here.

Ralph W. Kemp, Dayton, Ohio, is expected here at 5 p.m. He will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Duffy McKeel, Odessa. Mr. McKeel is a past national president of the association.

More than 250 men and women have indicated that they will attend the convention which begins at the Settles Hotel with a social gathering at 7 p.m. The hotel will be the center of activities for the convention.

Registration continues through Friday, with the first business session for delegates set at 9 a.m. Garner McAdams, president of the local ABC club, will welcome the members.

Committee meetings and business sessions will continue until Saturday afternoon. A luncheon style show for wives of delegates is slated for 12:30 p.m. Friday at the Big Spring Country Club. Both members and their wives will have dinner and a beatin party that evening at the club.

The convention will be climaxed with a Governor's Ball at the Cosden Country Club Saturday at 7 p.m.

Dignitaries from both District 6-A and 6-B have indicated they will be present for the convention. Big Spring is included in District 6-A.

Kemp will be accompanied here by his wife. The two of them were to get the "red carpet" greeting at the Settles today.

Other dignitaries expected include Keith Kingley of Tuscola, Ill., national first vice president, and Judge Eugene E. Jordan of Amarillo, who as Sixth Regional director will preside over the local meetings. Jordan is judge of the 47th judicial district at Amarillo.

Trustees Extend 11 Contracts

LAMESA (SC)—The Lamesa Independent School District trustees Monday voted to extend contracts of 11 top officials of the system.

One-year extensions were awarded to high school principal Bill Reeves, athletic director O. W. Falls, head football coach Al Langford and visiting teacher E. Green. All of their contracts now run through 1965.

Contracts of six other school principals were extended a year to $1965 and Reeves was granted a slight salary hike from $8,359 a year to $8,600.

A tax report submitted at the regular meeting showed total current collections at $461,989 or 93.7 per cent. With delinquent tax collections added, the total collections were tabbed at $474,827 for a 98.35 per cent.

Tindol Loses Freedom Bid

James Tindol, who is serving the unfinished part of a 15-year sentence in the state penitentiary for rape, and who has another 15-year term ahead of him for murder when he completes his present sentence, lost his bid to escape the second term Wednesday.

An appeal he had filed before the State Court of Criminal Appeals was rejected and his conviction in the 118th District Court here confirmed.

The hearing on Tindol's appeal was described as perfunctory. No record had been submitted by the defendant in the case and the hearing before the court took but a few seconds.

Tindol was tried here on March 23, 1960 for the murder of William Walter Gatlin, elderly yard worker. Gatlin was beaten into unconsciousness in a fight on Valentine Day in 1959. He lived for two months after the beating but never regained consciousness.

A district court jury found Tindol, who had been at liberty on parole on the rape sentence at the time of the slaying, guilty as charged. It fixed his punishment at 15 years in prison.

In the meantime, Tindol had been returned to the state penitentiary to resume serving his rape sentence on a parole violation order. He is now nearing the end of his first sentence and will soon begin serving the 15 years for the Gatlin slaying.

Man Admits 65 City Burglaries

Sixty-five burglaries in Big Spring were cleared up Thursday morning, following the arrest of an ex-convict caught Wednesday burglarizing El Sombrero, 305 N. Gregg.

Patrolmen Jimmy Ellison and Ruben Gonzalez caught the man in the act of breaking open the cigarette machine in the building and arrested him without a struggle. He was taken to the police station and held for investigation.

Detectives Aubrey Hurley and Jack Jones began questioning the man Thursday morning and said, that he had admitted 65 burglaries since he was released from the penitentiary at Huntsville in May, 1960.

"We have not filed charges yet, but we will as soon as we get a statement and have the burglaries listed," Hurley said. "We will probably spend most of the afternoon getting detailed information before charges are filed in all the cases."

The juke box and cigarette machine at the J&M Cafe, 501 NW 4th, was burglarized shortly after 1:15 a.m. Thursday and two men were seen running from the building. An unknown amount of money was taken.

A cash register, cigarettes, and change, were taken between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m. Wednesday from LaPaloma, 304 N. Gregg. Attendees had gone to eat and came back to find the items missing. All cigarettes except the bottom packages in each section were taken.

Four airmen were arrested and jailed following theft of hub caps from the used car lot owned by Richard Peterson at East Fourth and Benton. They were seen parked on the lot with lights out. Police, using the license number of the car and a description, found the four men and some of the hub caps.

Police said charges had not been filed Thursday morning pending further investigation by Webb AFB personnel. One of the men was carrying a billfold and driver's license issued to a man who is now serving a sentence in the Texas penitentiary for robbing pay telephones in the Lubbock area.

Forrest Gambill Is Improved

The condition of Forrest Gambill, who submitted to an amputation of his left leg above the knee at a Houston Hospital, has taken a substantial turn for the better, friends were advised here today.

Gambill and his two children, Clinton and Cheryl, plan to return this weekend and then will go back to Houston for the Easter holidays.

They are staying with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, 11942 Wink Drive, Houston 24. For a time it was feared Gambill might lose use of his right foot, but it has improved.

More Laborers Than Farmers Attend Meet

More laborers in search of jobs showed up at the farm labor conference in the 118th District Courtroom Thursday morning than there were farmers looking for help, a spokesman for the Texas sor of the meeting, said.

The conference was to continue to 3 p.m. The object of the session, it was explained, is to bring available local workers in contact with farmers in need of help. The farmer and the worker confer at the meeting and if a mutual agreement can be reached the farmer hires the worker.

One spokesman said that the reason so many farmers were absent was probably because the impression prevails there is no local farm labor available and that they probably do not feel a trip to the meeting would be fruitful.

About 150 possible farm workers had been contacted and had agreed to report to the meeting.

Battle Brews Over Guard Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressmen opened fire today on the Army's controversial plan to break up eight battle-starred National Guard and Reserve infantry divisions.

Meanwhile, the Army braced for a salvo of objections from another flank—governors of some of the 21 states affected.

The plan contemplates reorganizing much of the manpower in the four Guard and four Reserve divisions into eight more flexible brigades of between 3,000 and 4,500 men each. Many units now part of the divisions would be assigned to support the regular Army, if needed.

At the same time, the Army plans a six-division force of priority National Guard divisions that would be ticketed for early call-up in an emergency to back up the 16 regular Army divisions.

The Army did not name the priority divisions, but they are expected to include the 49th Armored of Texas.

Lady Meat Judge

Sue Diller, a Texas Tech senior from Albany, confers with Henry Elliott, manager of the Meats Industry Laboratory at Tech in Lubbock. Miss Diller is the first girl to make a Tech judging team, and one of the few ever to compete on any meats judging team.

Tech Coed Has No Trouble Picking Out The Best Cuts

LUBBOCK (AP)—Most co-eds and even housewives find trouble picking out the best cuts of meat at the supermarket. But Sue Diller has no difficulty.

She is the first co-ed to make the Texas Tech meat judging team. Coach Dale Zinn says she is leading the team in practice. "She's particularly strong in writing reasons, a big part of the contest," Zinn says.

Miss Diller is one of the few women ever to compete on any meats judging team. She won the berth by placing in the top four in Tech's meats judging and grading course last semester.

The co-ed is a senior animal

Castro Insults Ecuador Chief

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro called Ecuador's President Carlos Arosemena a drunken coward Wednesday night and predicted he might meet a worse fate than Argentine President Arturo Frondizi.

The Cuban prime minister said that Arosemena was on his way to becoming "a prisoner of the military" who, Castro said, forced Arosemena to break diplomatic relations with Cuba Tuesday.

"Any day they'll grab him and take him to an embassy," Castro said in a televised speech to the first National Congress of Young Communists.

"Any day he'll wake up in an embassy. It is possible that the military will act with him worse than with Frondizi as he has been more cowardly than Frondizi."

Argentina's military leaders ousted President Arturo Frondizi last week and imprisoned him on a naval base island off Buenos Aires.

Castro said Arosemena spent long days "completely inebriated" and that he had been known to remain intoxicated for a week. He added that photographs of the Ecuadorian president during drinking sprees exist.

There had been speculation that Castro might announce sentences for 1,179 captives of last year's Bay of Pigs invasion but he made no mention of the prisoners, whose trial ended Tuesday.

West Says 49th's Morale At A Peak

DALLAS (AP)—The general commanding the 49th Armored Division says his big Texas outfit is at a peak in morale.

Furthermore, Maj. Gen. Harley West said Wednesday, the mail he gets at Ft. Polk, La., indicates the public is about 9 to 1 in favor of the court-martial of Pfc. Bernis Owen.

Owen, a Searift, Tex., reservist, was sentenced to six months at hard labor in the Ft. Polk stockade for disrespect. Owen was tried after he labeled as a "hilarious climax to a chain of injustices" an order by West halting "we want out" demonstrations.

West, visiting in Dallas, said the mail was arriving by the "bushels" and most of it states the "action should have been taken sooner."

"The trouble is this got to be Pfc. Owens vs. Maj. Gen. West," the general said. "I didn't convene the court. His battalion commander brought the charges."

"But after all, the young man got himself in trouble because I permitted him to exercise free speech."

West said he allowed the "we want out" demonstrations to go on for several days. No one has been or will be punished for those gatherings, he added.

West said Owen was "tried for comments that a soldier should not make in regard to a legal order."

The general reported morale of his Texas National Guard division is at an all-time high now with maneuvers coming up May 1.

"These troops of mine are hardly conditioned to the weather and the handling of heavy equipment," he said.

Asked when he expected the 49th to be released, West said: "No one knows the answer to that."

He described activation of the division in terms of a poker game: "When you've got a big stack of chips in front of you and you're calling a bluff, the bigger the stack the better. We will not be replaced until there is some one to replace those chips."

He pointed out, however, that two regular Army divisions now being trained will be ready by August and September.

3 Children Die In Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Three children died Wednesday in a flash fire that destroyed their Coney Island home. The fire wrecked three adjoining bungalows before it was brought under control.

Burned to death were Carlos Delgado, 4, his brother, William, 3, and a sister, Lidia, 2. The tots had been playing in a bedroom that contained a gas heater.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Delgado, in another bedroom when the fire broke out, were unable to rescue the children. They were treated for burns at a hospital.

Aggies Change Meeting Place

The meeting of the Texas A&M Club, set for Cosden Country Club at 7:30 p.m. today will be held instead at the Big Spring Country Club. The time will be unchanged, club officials announced.

husbandry major with emphasis on the animal science option.

"I first enrolled in zoology when I entered college," she said. "I guess I was scared of all those boys in animal husbandry. There were just too many of them."

She was reared on a ranch near Albany. The ranch includes 960 acres in Texas and 3,470 acres at Deer Trail, Colo.

"During the winter we keep the cattle on the ranch at Albany, then move them to Colorado for the summer," Miss Diller explained. "This makes the climate better for our feeder calves."

Sue has other talents that come in handy around Tech's animal husbandry department. For example, last year she edited the Block and Bridle Club's annual report covering the year's activities. It won fifth place in a national contest against 30 other reports.

"It's a lot like a scrapbook, and boys just don't enjoy working on such things as much as we girls enjoy it," she said.

Miss Diller also is the club co-historian.

She isn't sure of her plans following graduation. "I might use the training to work for the government in meat grading and inspection," she said. "But it also will be valuable to me as a housewife by helping me get the most and the best for my money."

Miss Diller said her fiance is a cotton farmer near Slaton.

Sparks To Attend Annual Workshop

Doyle Sparks, science teacher at Runnels Junior High School, has been selected to attend the Fifth Annual Petroleum Workshop to be conducted at the University of Houston.

He was chosen by the West Texas Oil Information Committee school committee. Expenses are paid and teachers attending receive three hours credit for taking the course. It will be conducted June 6-26.

Others from the West Texas area selected for the course are Don E. Stacy, Andrews; Howell F. Vineyard, Colorado City; Freddie M. Stuart, Crane; James R. Emmons, Midland; and Elmon R. Higgs, Odessa.

Rice's Mother Dies Wednesday

Mrs. Lula Rice, mother of George Rice, a teacher at the Senior High School, died Wednesday. She had been living with her daughter in Batesville, Ark.

Mrs. Rice was a former resident of Stanton, moving to Batesville about five years ago.

Funeral was to be at 2 p.m. today at the Baptist Church in Jayton with burial to follow in the Jayton Cemetery.

Survivors include one son, George Rice, Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Bob Whitaker, Batesville; five sisters, Mrs. Bake Robinson, Odessa, Mrs. Robert Eaton and Mrs. J. B. Lacy, both of Comanche; Mrs. Wick Raley, Miles; and Mrs. Florence McCully, Brownwood; and two brothers, Earl Knudson and Russell Knudson, both of Albuquerque, N. M.

Found Dead

HOUSTON (AP)—Longshoreman Frank Blackwell, 38, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Otis Blackwell, 33, were found dead of gunshot wounds at her home Wednesday. A .25 caliber pistol lay near the bodies, police reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The minister of the church that Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson attends in Washington is a former Texas minister.

He is Dr. George R. Davis of the National City Christian Church, of which President James A. Garfield was a member when he was in the White House.

Dr. Davis formerly of Wichita Falls, came here with his family last July. While in Wichita Falls he formed friendships with Sen. John Tower, Rep. Graham Purcell (formerly of Big Spring) and former Rep. Frank Icard.

Johnson takes issue with those who say the Texas congressional delegation has lost the power and influence it once enjoyed.

Comments along this line have been heard since the death last November of Speaker Sam Rayburn. It's also been said that Johnson, as vice president, isn't in a position to influence legislation as he did when he was Senate majority leader.

Johnson, discussing the matter with friends, said he recently spent several hours visiting on the House side of the Capitol. This caused him to comment:

"I can tell you the Texas delegation is still regarded as one of the most outstanding and influential in the nation."

He then mentioned several in the delegation who rate at or near the top of committees—Reps. Olin Teague, George Mahon, Bob Poage among others.

"And our three new members, (Henry B.) Gonzalez and (Ray) Roberts and (Graham) Purcell, have all been well received by the leadership," he added.

A congressman just can't make everyone happy, says Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, no matter what he does.

To prove his point he cited two letters he has received recently.

"Why doesn't Congress just pack up and go home?" asked one constituent. "They're not doing the country any good. The President leads them around by the nose."

The other writer said: "Why on earth did Congress reject the President's plan to create a Department of Urban Affairs... doesn't Congress owe him enough loyalty to approve his program?"

Many Texans, individually and in groups, bring their views here in person. To do so they spend a lot more than a postage stamp.

Rep. J. T. Rutherford of the Odessa-Midland to El Paso district, is one who reports a deluge of visitors, saying:

"In one 14-hour day, I was

Soil To Mexico Goodwill Gesture

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A Container with soil from Goliad, Tex. is being sent to Puebla as a goodwill gesture.

Goliad was the birthplace of Gen. Ignacio Zaragoza, commander of the Mexican force which defeated the French in the Battle of Puebla May 5, 1862.

The Texas city was part of Mexico when Zaragoza was born.

Wells Sold

HOUSTON (AP)—Ashmun-Hillard Co., headquartered at Midland, has sold interests in 36 West Texas oil wells to Continental Oil Co. for an undisclosed price, a spokesman for the buyers said Wednesday. The wells are in Andrews County's Fullerton Field.

Council Buys Five Vehicles

LAMESA (SC) — Lamesa City Council accepted low bids on five new vehicles at a regular meeting Monday.

Bill Kidd Motor Co. submitted the total low bid of $3,560 on three 1962 Mercury cars for the police department and Lumus Motor Sales furnished a bid of $2,553 for a pair of water department pickup trucks. Trade-in vehicles were considered by the bidders.

A committee from the Lamesa Evening Lions Club appeared to discuss taking over the city-owned North swimming pool for operation on a lease basis. No firm agreements were reached, but the committee will report information furnished by the council to its board of directors.

Financial assistance to the Dawson County public library was ordered raised from $170 to $270 a month and requests for two street lights approved. Four other street light requests were tabled.

Called on by delegations of postal workers, representatives of trade union councils, farmers with bracco problems, a group working on sugar beet matters and a man representing the oil industry before the Federal Power Commission. All of these groups were from West Texas.

That's how Arlington National Cemetery got started.

For 20 years after the Civil War, quartermaster teams scouted Southern battlefields, relocating graves and establishing new national cemeteries.

It wasn't until 1890, when the veteran population numbered 1,300,000, that the question of providing veterans with grave plots was given serious thought. There now are 22,500,000 veterans.

Office seekers in Howard County have a busy weekend ahead.

Three rallies in four days are on tap and most candidates will do all in their power to make appearances at each.

First of the rallies will be Friday night at the Coahoma High School. This will be a pie supper and the general public is invited to be present. The activities get under way at 7:30 p.m.

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, who acts as intermediary for his fellow office seekers, said he had notified all candidates of the date.

Saturday night, the Howard County Farm Bureau has slated a "Measure the Candidate" program in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium. No pie supper or other entertainment feature is arranged for this event. The candidates will be given a chance to appear, be introduced and answer questions by the audience on their qualifications. This event is also slated for 7:30 p.m.

Monday, the candidates move to Center Point school where a pie supper and speaking is slated for 7:30 p.m. So far, the office seekers have attended rallies in Big Spring, Elbow and Gay Hill.

It is possible, Bailey said, other communities may want the candidates to visit them before May 5, date of the first primary election.

Live it up!

Presenting the cars for the lively life: 3 New Lively Ones from Ford!

New Galaxie 500 XL!

Start this one and you really start something. Available with Thunderbird V-8 power up to 405 hp (coupled to a 4-speed stick shift), the XL outperforms America's most expensive cars. Standard features include all-new bucket seats with a Thunderbird-style console in between. The XL needs service only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles. Hardtop or convertible. Definitely not for pedestrian tastes!

New Falcon Sports Futura!

Here's a hot new number from the compact leader. The tempo starts fast with foam-padded bucket seats and a handy console in between... hits a new high note with a stylish new Thunderbird roof (vinyl-covered if you want it)... then goes into the lively melody of an optional 170 Special Six engine. Economy with a flair is the Sports Futura idea... it's priced below many standard compacts.

New Fairlane 500 Sports Coupe!

Don't flirt with this one unless you mean it. It has foam-padded bucket seats with a console in between... and an all-new optional "200" Challenger V-8 that packs 164 hp. Fairlane's room, ride and performance are bigger in every way, but this new fine car costs less than many compacts.

Pause For Refreshment

Mrs. Jimmie Jones is shown serving an afternoon snack to her son, Milton, who often is stricken with "hunger pains." Mrs. Jones tries to keep plenty of cookies and milk on hand for Milton and his friends when they come in hungry from an afternoon of play.

Jones Family Prefers Fresh Vegetable Meal

Mrs. Jimmie Jones finds a great deal of satisfaction in cooking for her family. This time of the year, they're especially easy to please because of an abundance of fresh garden produce on the market.

Mrs. Jones says that her husband and son, Milton, relish a meal of practically any kind of fresh vegetables served with roast or steak and cornbread.

Cooking is a pleasure in the Jones kitchen. It is arranged so that Mrs. Jones need take no more than a step to get to any part of it. Since the kitchen and den are combined, she always has someone to talk with while she cooks. Their home, located at 3000 Parkway, is pleasantly pretty throughout. Mrs. Jones has made all her drapes; she is accomplished in the art of sewing as she is in culinary arts.

Although Mrs. Jones keeps books for her husband's business, she still finds time to cook occasional family meals for Jimmie, Milton and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alexander Jr. Tacos with colavo salad is a combination that they all enjoy. When she has time, she bakes a cherry pie, a favorite of her daughter.

Mrs. Jones has no trouble disposing of sweets at her house. Milton and his friends are always "completely famished" after playing football or baseball. However, they sometimes settle for crackers spread with peanut butter.

During the summer months the Jones family likes to barbecue ham or chicken outdoors. These meals are rounded out with baked beans and salad. Mrs. Jones says that her husband is a good cook when it comes to grilling or barbecuing steaks and hamburgers.

Meals are planned so that groceries are purchased only once during the week. Mrs. Jones can usually find the makings of a balanced meal anytime, if she will just take inventory of her pantry. Too, her 60-pound freezer helps to keep a good supply of food on hand.

When asked how she makes her cornbread, Mrs. Jones laughed and said, "Oh, a dab of this and a dash of that." She has been baking it for so long that she no longer measures anything and has forgotten the original recipe. However, she figured the correct amounts and listed that recipe along with some other favorites of her family.

CORN BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups cornmeal
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 1/2 tbsps baking powder
- 1/2 tsp baking soda
- 1 cup buttermilk

Combine dry ingredients in sifter and sift. Then add buttermilk. Blend well. Put in greased pan. Cook until brown at 475 degrees.

TACOS

- 1 1/2 lbs. ground lean beef
- Garlic salt
- Table salt
- Hot sauce
- 3 tbsps tomato sauce
- 1/4 lb. grated cheese
- 12 tortillas

Melt one tablespoon of grease in skillet and add ground beef. Keep turning with fork until all the meat is very fine pellets. Sprinkle with garlic salt and salt to taste with table salt. Add a dash of hot sauce; put in three tablespoons tomato sauce. Turn the heat down to low and stir frequently. Cook about 15 minutes longer. Now put two tablespoons of grease in a skillet over moderate heat. When grease is hot, put in one tortilla. Brown on one side; turn and brown on the other side. Take care not to get them too crisp. Drain on paper towel. Press top side with additional paper towel. Then fold in half. Finish the rest of the tortillas in same manner. You may need to add more grease from time to time. Now fill the tortillas with cooked ground beef holding together with toothpicks. Place in a shallow pan and cook for 15 minutes in a 450 degree oven. Remove from oven and add grated cheese to top of meat.

COLAVO SALAD

- 2 extra ripe colavos, mashed and creamed
 - 1 small grated onion
 - Dash of tabasco sauce
 - 2 extra ripe tomatoes, grated
- Combine ingredients; add one teaspoon lemon juice. Salt to taste. Sprinkle with a dash of red pepper. Serve on lettuce leaf.

COCONUT CAKE

- 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
 - 1 1/2 cups sugar
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 tsp salt
 - 1/2 cup shortening
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 1/2 tbsps. vanilla
 - 2 eggs
- Boiled frosting
Flaked or shredded coconut
- Line two nine-inch layer pans with paper; or grease and flour. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add shortening, 1/2 cup milk and vanilla. Beat two minutes at medium speed or 200 strokes with spoon. Add remaining milk and un-beaten eggs. Beat two minutes longer. Pour into prepared pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from oven; cool on wire rack. Spread with frosting. Cover top and sides with coconut.

Ham For Easter Lends Festive Air To Meals

Ham is the meat to buy for Easter meals. No matter what style or kind you select, ham is an appropriate entree for holiday dinners, luncheons, breakfasts, and snacks. It can be prepared for a variety of attractive main courses and its rich, good flavor combines well with lots of seasonal foods—like cranberries, pineapples, or sweet potatoes.

Ham comes in a wide assortment of styles and kinds—whole or half hams, shanks, butts, and slices—and in almost any size you prefer. They all come as ready-to-eat or cook-before-eating and should be cooked accordingly. Glazed ham steak makes a fine dinner entree for a company meal. For this recipe, buy a ready-to-eat whole or half ham and cut a 1-inch thick center slice, or buy a ready cut slice at the market. Crushed pineapple, sherry wine or orange juice, and enticing ginger give festive flavor to the glazing sauce. Here is the recipe:

GOLDEN GLAZED HAM STEAK

- 1 slice ready-to-eat ham, 1 inch thick (about 1 1/2 pounds)
- 1 tbsps. fat
- 1 tbsps. cornstarch
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 tsp. ginger
- 1 9-oz. can crushed pineapple
- 1 tbsps. lemon juice
- 1/4 cup sherry wine or orange juice

Brown ham in hot fat in a skillet. Meanwhile, mix cornstarch, sugar, and ginger; add remaining ingredients and heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Place ham in a shallow baking dish and cover with sauce. Bake at 325 degrees F. 1 hour. Serves 4.

With busy Easter schedules, the late morning is a convenient time to entertain, and ham again lends itself to the menu. Here is a holiday brunch menu with delectable glazed ham balls as the main course:

- Fresh Fruits in Orange Juice
- Holiday Ham Balls
- Scrambled Eggs
- Coffee Cake

Buy cook-before-eating ham for the meat balls—again you can select a large piece and use only a part of it, or the leftovers; or you can buy only a pound of it for this recipe. Piquant flavor and a juicy glaze highlight these unusual meat balls.

EASTER HAM BALLS

- 3 cups ground cook-before-eating ham
- 2 3 lb. ground fresh pork
- 2 slices bread, cut into small cubes
- 2 3 cup milk
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 3 cup brown sugar
- 1 3 cup vinegar
- 1 3 cup water
- 1/2 tsp. dry mustard

Mix meat, bread, milk and salt and shape into balls 1 inch in diameter. Combine sugar, vinegar, water and mustard and heat to boiling. Place balls in casserole and cover with sugar mixture. Bake at 350 degrees F. 1 hour, turning occasionally. Serves 6.

This recipe is easily adapted to appetizer serving, too. Simply shape the mixture into miniature meat balls and bake about 45 minutes. Keep the tiny ham balls hot in a chafing dish and serve with wooden picks or other cocktail skewers.

Use Easter Leftovers To A Good Advantage

A common question around the typical housewife's kitchen right after Easter is "What am I going to do with all this leftover ham?" There are many methods of serving ham leftovers, but why not have another complete meal from it?

Ham and pea casserole offers both appetite appeal and nutritional value.

HAM 'N' PEA CASSEROLE

- 3 tbsps butter
- 3 tbsps flour
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 2 cups diced cooked ham
- 1 No 303 can peas, drained
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- Dash of nutmeg
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 2-3 cups cooked, mashed yams
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Melt butter; add flour and blend. Gradually add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add ham, peas, celery, onion and nutmeg. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Turn into greased one-quart casserole. Combine yams and 1/2 teaspoon salt; mix well. Arrange yams over other ingredients. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes.

Breakfast — Most Important Meal

The modern breakfast is keyed to the changing tempo of American life. The huge and hearty breakfasts that belonged to days of hard physical labor are no longer needed so generally. As a result of modern ways of living and the hundreds of conveniences at home and at work, most people lead a sedentary life.

From many standpoints, breakfast is the most important meal of the day. It must provide not only a sufficient quantity, but also the right kinds of food.

The quantity of food should be adapted to the age, sex, and activity of the individual. The kinds of food needed — and the nutrients required — are essentially the same for all persons.

Medical and nutrition authorities have formulated a basic breakfast pattern consisting of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. This modern breakfast may be supplemented with other foods such as eggs or breakfast meats, for persons whose energy needs are higher.

A breakfast of average servings of each of the foods in a basic breakfast pattern provides about 600 calories and makes an excellent contribution of almost every essential nutrient.

Vegetable Market Is Tightened

Supplies of some items continue rather tight for this time of year, the Agricultural Marketing Service says of the Texas fresh fruit and vegetable situation. Adverse weather has been a factor.

Grapefruit and oranges are abundant, and wholesale apple prices still are reasonable, though delicious and winesaps are some higher than a week ago.

Best buys among vegetables include plentiful potatoes, greens and green onions, tomatoes, turnips and rutabagas. Supplies of other vegetables are showing signs of a "break-through" but nothing major has developed yet.

South Texas onions are arriving at lower prices. Quality is very good. Texas lettuce is starting. Watermelon prices are lower, but still high.

Also lower this week are asparagus, eggplant, artichokes, Mexican cantaloupes, lettuce and tomatoes.

Bananas, pears and lemons are some higher than last week. Cabbage and yellow squash remain high and scarce. Russet potatoes advanced slightly. Louisiana strawberry shipments have slackened off and prices are a bit higher. More Florida potatoes and Mexican pineapples are showing.

Broilers, turkeys and eggs remain economical and abundant. Milk production is increasing and lower support rates effective April 1 may result in lower consumer prices. Supplies of red meats continue abundant. Vegetable fats and oils remain plentiful.

Health Giving Eggs A Flavorful Treat To Eat

STUFFED EGGS

- 6 hard-cooked eggs
 - 2 tbsps mayonnaise
 - 1 1/2 tbsps. cider vinegar
 - 1/4 tsp. salt
 - 1 tsp prepared mustard
 - Paprika
 - Lettuce
- Shell eggs and cut into halves lengthwise. Remove yolks and mash with mayonnaise, vinegar, salt, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Spoon back into cavities of whites; ruffle with fork tines; sprinkle with paprika. Serve on lettuce with Italian salami (thinly sliced) olives and celery. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Beauty Expert

Yvonne de Carlo talks of fashion, individuality and weight in today's Hollywood Beauty. She appears frequently in the "Follow the Sun" TV series for 20th.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Now Follows Trend In Style And Fashion

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—"When it comes to eye make-up, I was ahead of my time," Yvonne de Carlo reminded me. "Remember what a struggle I had with the make-up men to let me outline my eyes with a black line? Now everyone is doing it, and it is no longer distinctive. But I don't mind. There was a time when I went all out to be different. I used to go against fashion deliberately."
"I was young and insecure, and my idea of being individual was keeping my hair long when everyone had their short, and not wearing high-fashion clothes. But one day someone put me on the list of the world's most-dressed women, and that gave me a jolt. I decided right then to make an effort to go along with what was being worn."
Yvonne was shooting a "Follow the Sun" TV show at 20th Century-Fox studios, and she remarked that she was wearing one of her own dresses. (Usually the studio furnishes a star's wardrobe.)
"Seeing myself on camera is a great help. When I look in a mirror, I see only one part of me at a time—front, back or side. But when I see myself from every angle such as in a photograph or in a film, I can be much more objective and critical."
"Are you suggesting that when in doubt be photographed in a dress?" I asked.

"Yes," she replied. "Get out your little camera and have someone take several shots of you from different angles. Then you'll know definitely what is good or bad about your costume. Your hair, figure and posture are important, too! It's what's in the dress that makes the difference. Sometimes a person doesn't realize that she is putting on weight until she sees herself in a photograph. Often it's a shock. I don't have a weight problem because I have a plan. I stay away from desserts. I never think of them. I finish my meal with coffee and maybe fruit, and if I feel like having something sweet, I eat licorice. I think people who have trouble keeping their weight down eat too many sweets and sandwiches."
Figures and fashion go hand in hand. If you aren't satisfied by your reflection in the mirror, let Leaflet M-8, "Exercises to Correct Figure Faults," help you. Weekend Events Slated For Women At BS Club

The "International Fashion Fair" and luncheon and XYZ convention luncheon and style show are planned as outstanding events this weekend at the Big Spring Country Club.
The XYZ affair is scheduled for Friday, with fashions to be presented by Swartz. Sponsored by the club's Ladies Golf Association. The Saturday luncheon will feature "Fashion Fair," also by Swartz.

A feature of Saturday's event will be the appearance of International Wives Club members in their native dress. Friday evening at the club,

Designer Moore Said To Be 'In Bad Taste'

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Associated Press Fashion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Her official courtier, Oleg Cassini, said today the unfavorable criticism that Jacqueline Kennedy received at the Fashion Forum in Philadelphia was in "appalling bad taste."
Other topnotch designers in the garment district here also rushed to the defense of the First Lady, who twice has been on the world's best dressed lists.
Designer John Moore touched off the controversy as a panelist on the subject of "what I would dress a woman?" when he declared, among other things, that Mrs. Kennedy's clothes appeared twisted and ill-fitted, and that her skirts were too short. He said that her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, was much more elegant.
"Actually, the people involved should not be dignified by a statement," replied the irate Cassini. He said he had been sickened by the whole incident. "The appalling bad taste involved only showed bad manners, which are truly a discredit to the industry. I don't wish to comment further," he said.
John Vasdekis, executive vice president of the Cassini organization, also took exception, saying: "Ill-fitting dresses for Mrs. Kennedy are completely out of the question. She has many, many fittings. Every dress we make fits her like a glove."
Bill Blass, designer for Maurice Rentner, defended Moore's right to criticize, but didn't agree with his view.
"I think both the ladies (Mrs. Kennedy and Princess Radziwill) are extraordinarily well dressed," he said.
Jacques Tiffegu, French-born designer with the Monte-Sano dress house, said, "Well, in a way I agree. But what can you say? Who is perfect? Her skirts are a bit too short. Oh, how I would love to dress her. How beautiful I would make her. She is typical of the young generation, so... what is the word... casual?"

"I don't permit myself to judge anyone I don't know," Pauline Trigere said of Mrs. Kennedy.
Mamie Eisenhower's favorite designer, Mollie Parnis, had nothing but praise for the lady who has taken over the White House closet.
"I think Mrs. Kennedy is a really great First Lady, the greatest influence on fashion we have ever had," she said.

Peaches 'N Honey Is Delightful Ham Glaze

It's just about time to begin planning the glaze and garnish for your Easter ham. You'll want a decoration that is spring-like, gay as the Easter bonnet, and at the same time easily prepared. Being free to spend the day with family and friends is important on this, one of our most cherished of holidays.

For modern convenience many homemakers prefer the fully cooked short shank style ham. These may be jelly-glazed and served without further cooking or simply heated to 130 degrees internal temperature. Those who like to bake their own will select the cook-before-eating ham which is heated to 160 degrees internal temperature on a roast meat thermometer.

Whatever style you choose, the ham should be refrigerated at 36 degrees to 40 degrees to retain fine quality and flavor, and should be used within seven days. It is not recommended that hams be frozen because rapid flavor deterioration takes place in cured meats.

Place ham on a rack in a low sided open pan. Heat in a slow oven (325 degrees). Insert a roast meat thermometer for accurate test of doneness.

MENU
For the Easter dinner try French Onion Soup, peaches 'n honey style ham, scalloped potatoes, broccoli with sauce, jellied fruit medley, hot biscuits, watermelon pickles, fresh rhubarb pie and coffee.

HAM, PEACHES 'N HONEY STYLE

Heat a ham, either the fully cooked or cook-before-eating style, according to the directions on the wrapper. One half hour before time indicated on the schedule, remove ham from oven. Pour off drippings. Remove shank skin if present. Cut fat into diamond shapes. Drizzle 3/4 cup of honey over surface of ham. Place drained canned peach halves around ham. Spoon a teaspoonful of honey into each peach half. Return ham to oven to brown glaze and complete baking. Serve ham with peaches 'n honey.

2 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
2 drops tabasco
Thaw frozen scallops. Remove any shell particles and wash. Place in boiling salted water. Cover and return to boiling point. Simmer for 3 to 4 minutes, depending on size. Drain. Cut scallops into 1/2-inch pieces. Blend flour, mustard, salt, and pepper into fat. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Stir in mushrooms, cheese, parsley, tabasco, and scallops. Heat. Serve over omelet.
6 egg whites
1-3 cup water
1/2 tsp. salt
6 egg yolks
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add water and salt, mix well. Fold into egg whites. Pour omelet mixture into hot buttered 10 inch frying pan and spread evenly. Cook over low heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until lightly browned on bottom. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 12 to 15 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cut part way through center of omelet and fold in half. Serve immediately on a warm platter with Scallop Sauce. Serves 6.

A Healthy Way To Start Your Day

BRAN MUFFINS
1 envelope active dry yeast
1/2 cup warm water
1/2 cup ready-to-eat bran cereal
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup boiling water
1-3 cup sugar
3/4 tsp. salt
1 egg (well beaten)
2 to 3/4 cup sifted flour.
Dissolve yeast in warm water. Mix together the bran, shortening, boiling water, sugar and salt; cool to lukewarm. Stir in dissolved yeast. Add beaten egg; add enough flour to make a firm dough, beating in with mixer, then if necessary using a spoon. Cover bowl; refrigerate overnight. Using ice cream scoop (No. 24, about 3 tablespoons), put a scoop of the dough into 16 muffin-pan cups (each 1/2 cup size). Or use two spoons to add dough to cups. Cover; let rise until doubled in bulk—1 1/2 to 2 hours. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 20 minutes.

Chop Treatment
Steep a few pinches of oregano in a few tablespoons of olive oil; brush the mixture over lamb chops before broiling.

Take Extra Time In The Kitchen With Daughter

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Assistant Press Food Editor
When your pre-teenager comes into the kitchen and wants to help bake and frost a cake, let her. Good cooks are often made by patient mothers who let the young do food jobs that are fun.

When your youngster first helps you cook, it won't save you time. It will probably take you longer to do a job with her help than if you did it alone. But eventually she'll gain skill and then you'll find her a real aid.

The children who have "helped cook" in my own kitchen, have taken great pride in learning to do things "the professional way." They like leavening off dry ingredients in graduated measuring cups and spoons with a small spatula. They like learning to use the electric mixer for creaming butter and sugar. They enjoy measuring liquid ingredients in a glass measuring cup with a lip and holding the cup at eye level for an accurate "reading."

Above all they get a real thrill out of garnishing their handwork. If your youngster makes this Banana Oatmeal Cake, tell her she can flute a banana by peeling it and then running the sharp tines of a kitchen fork down the banana lengthwise. When the banana is sliced, each slice will have a pretty fluted effect. Five of the slices can go over the center of the frosted cake; with a cherry added in the middle she'll have a flower garnish with edible petals!

BANANA OATMEAL CAKE
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs
1/4 cup buttermilk
1 1/2 cups quick-cooking rolled oats
1 1/4 cups mashed banana
Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in eggs thoroughly, one at a time. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk; stir in rolled oats, then banana. Turn into two well-greased and floured 8-inch round layer cake pans. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 25 to 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Place pans on wire racks to cool for 10 minutes; turn out; turn right side up. When cold, fill and frost with Chocolate Frosting.
CHOCOLATE FROSTING
1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 to 3 tbsps. milk
1 tsp. vanilla
2 squares (2 ozs.) unsweetened chocolate (melted)
Mix butter and sugar; stir in 2 tablespoons of the milk, the vanilla and melted chocolate. Add remaining tablespoon milk if necessary to make spreading consistency.

A Devotional For Today

Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. (Matthew 16:24.)
PRAYER: Thou knowest, O Lord, that we want our body, mind and spirit to be useful instruments in Thy service. Grant us the power of self-mastery. Enable us to discipline ourselves so that we may be fit for Thy service. For Jesus' sake. Amen.
 (From The 'Upper Room')

No Easy Task

The selection of Albert K. Steinheimer to be the city manager at Beaumont is a compliment to both him and to the City of Big Spring. This marks the second consecutive time that a major Texas city has called on Big Spring to furnish a city manager, and it reflects credit not only on the individuals but upon the city in having had the quality of men that others want.

Certainly we wish Mr. Steinheimer well in his new opportunity. As with any individual who attempts to administer effectively and to look out primarily for the interests of the municipality, a manager inevitably will draw some fire and opposition. This is part of the penalty of being the administrator.

On the whole, Mr. Steinheimer has achieved a commendable record during his tenure. Some of his problems have been inherited as a consequence of a number of years of austerity and extra caution in financial matters. Out of a recognition of this, the Master Plan program was developed. This was a community undertaking, but the manager stunted no effort in support of it. Things have moved so rapidly it would be little short of miraculous if some of the decisions were less than perfect. Yet, the general picture has been one of progress and vigor.

In view of the retirement of two seasoned members from the city commission, the change does come at an inopportune time for Big Spring. It is generally acknowledged that Mayor Lee Rogers and Commissioner John Taylor were two key men on the commission. Their services and counsel will be sorely missed, particularly when it comes to selection of a seasoned, capable successor to serve as our new city manager. Citizens will need to be understanding of this problem which the commission now faces.

Bright Spot

When bank call figures were in last weekend, the four banks in Howard County reported $41,175,974.90 on deposit, a gain of $6,630,162 over a year ago. This figures out to 19.2 per cent increase, and seldom has our county experienced such a pronounced increase in deposit totals. It has never seen the deposit total climb by that volume within a year's time.

Loans of $15,067,049 were up by $3,573,

183, or 31 per cent, and total resources of $44,521,186 were up by $6,866,640, or 18.2 per cent. The gain is stimulating as the result of the healthy margin. It is most encouraging because it was spread well among the banks and represented a general pattern. Alongside of reports from the area, ours certainly was one of the best, and it reflects again the bright spot which centers in this vicinity.

Supreme Court Appointment

WASHINGTON—When a vacancy occurs on the Supreme Court of the United States, the American people expect the President to consider carefully all lawyers with judicial experience and to select the best man to fill the post. Yet all of the judges today on the federal bench in each of the 50 states of the union were passed over by President Kennedy when he chose Byron R. White to be a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

THIS IS THE TRAGIC FACT that emerges as the American people are told, in effect, that it seemed most important to the President to reward a political benchman and a friend of long standing who has never sat on the bench in a federal or a state or a county or a city court.

Without asking the advice of members of Congress or requesting the various bar associations to submit the names of prominent lawyers qualified for the post, the President—within a few days after he learned that Justice Whittaker planned to retire—made up his mind quickly to give the post to a friend who has had no judicial experience whatsoever.

IT WILL BE ARGUED that President Eisenhower appointed Earl Warren as Chief Justice even though he, too, had never sat on the federal bench. But two wrongs do not make a right. This correspondent, on Oct. 1, 1953, wrote as follows:

"Politics has often played a part in choosing members of the judiciary—including selections to the Supreme Court of the United States. But that doesn't make it a commendable practice.

The designation of Governor Warren of California to be Chief Justice of the United States will be acclaimed by the politicians as a smart appointment but will be disapproved by those members of the bench and by practicing lawyers who that, when it comes to selecting justices for the Supreme Court of the United States, the choice should be made from the ablest jurists in the nation."

MR. EISENHOWER, however, did turn to the bench when he appointed four other men to the Supreme Court—Justices Harlan, Brennan, Whittaker and Stewart. Every one had had experience either on the federal bench or on the highest court of a state.

It certainly must be discouraging to the many judges who have dedicated their lives to the law to find the principles of a merit system being ignored by President Kennedy.

The American Bar Association itself, moreover, has a special responsibility to the nation, unfortunately did not measure up either in this instance. It has a regular committee which, when called upon by the Department of Justice, passes on the qualifications of prospective nominees for the bench. This committee, in a statement last week, said Mr. White appears to be "exceptionally well qualified" for appointment to the Supreme Court, and then, somewhat apologetically, added:

"ORDINARILY OUR committee might hesitate to accord this rating to a lawyer of Mr. White's comparative youth when appointment to the Supreme Court of the United States is concerned. However, our committee has worked closely with Mr. White for more than a year and we've had an unusual opportunity to observe him under a variety of circumstances. We have developed a high regard for his rugged adherence to principle, his sense of fairness, his intellectual capacity, his even temperament, his soundness as a lawyer."

IN OTHER WORDS, the committee personally liked "Whizzer" White. They must also have known, however, that in his work as deputy attorney general during the last 12 months he had sifted all the recommendations for the appointment of nearly 100 federal judges and didn't find a single Republican anywhere who was qualified for a new appointment to the bench until recently when, after a public furor about it, two Republicans were nominated by President Kennedy. This same bar association committee had found among these appointees seven men who were "not qualified," but they were nevertheless named federal judges. Did Mr. White protest, or was his sense of fairness rubbed off somewhat as he expediently obeyed the political requirements set down for him by the administration?

MR. WHITE WAS the head of the National Citizens Committee for Kennedy during the 1960 presidential campaign and has been a close friend of the President for 20 years. The New York "Times" in an editorial said about the new appointee:

"Certainly he has not yet achieved the scholarly legal distinction that would justify his appointment as a great and inevitable one. Indeed, his most noted public role to date has been as chairman of the Citizens for Kennedy."

MR. KENNEDY wasn't elected to the highest office in the land to reward his friends and political lieutenants. Supreme Court justices don't serve just a four-year term. They are appointed to serve for life — through different administrations. Mr. White, who is only 44 years old, is expected to interpret the Constitution in behalf of all the people of the United States, not just Democrats but Republicans as well, and not just "liberals" but "conservatives," too. That's where the title "all-American" can really come to mean something besides achievements on the football field.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — The National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center near here flies an American flag with 50 stars during good weather but flies one with only 48 during bad weather.

A spokesman said the center was overstocked with 48-star flags when the new one became official.

MIAMI — Nearly 100 shoppers waited impatiently for a store in a suburban shopping center to open.

The doors opened six minutes late. One employee explained to an irate customer that the manager caused the delay with a lecture on "how to keep customers happy."

DANNEMORA, N. Y. — More than 90 per cent of the 2,048 inmates of Clinton State Prison took educational courses in one year.

Everyone's Out Of Step But Walker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The right-wing former Army major general, Edwin A. Walker, repeatedly stumbled and mispronounced and his hands trembled as he read from a 31-page prepared statement.

The statement by this extreme anti-Communist — who quit the Army after being admonished for dabbling in politics and what he said about prominent Americans — was more than just a defense and an explanation.

If all he said before the Senate Armed Services subcommittee Wednesday could be boiled down into one sentence this was it:

"I'm right." By the same token anyone who disagreed with his conduct was wrong if not worse.

HE SEEMED to see malignant and sinister forces at work in high places.

He was critical of the Kennedy, Eisenhower and Truman administrations, and particularly of President Kennedy, of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara; of the press; of the State Department; and of others.

He was even critical of a book which, under questioning, he had admitted he hadn't read. He presented the picture of a man who feels enormously discriminated against, if not persecuted.

AFTER investigating him last year—while he was in command of the 24th Division in Germany—the Army slapped him for:

1. Labeling as pink or Communist former President Truman, other leading Democrats, and segments of the American press and television-radio industries.

2. Trying to influence his troops, contrary to Army regulations, in voting for members of Congress by recommending the use of voting materials not obtained through military sources.

At the end of the probe Walker said the Army investigators had given him "full opportunity to present my side of the case." That wasn't what he said Wednesday.

BITTERLY complaining because Secretary McNamara had released the report of the investigators, Walker said:

"The secretary's presentation was so worded as to give the impression that I had had a fair and just trial. He said the way the investigation was conducted had been 'highly irregular and unjust.'"

In 1959, shortly before he died, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles so much admired a book—"What We Must Know About Communism," by Harry and Bonora Overstreet—that he recommended it to President Eisenhower and bought several copies for other friends.

But in his statement Wednesday Walker condemned a number of books—including the Overstreets—because, he said, they "implicitly encourage accommodation with the enemy—competitive coexistence, which is fundamentally the Communist line."

Sen. Stuart Symington, who said he and his wife had read the book and enjoyed it, asked Walker to say specifically what was wrong with it. Walker admitted he had never read it.

Late in the day Walker singled out Adam Yarmolinsky, a McNamara aide, as a particular enemy of his and said his connections with communism have been close and that his actions aided communism. Yarmolinsky denied this, said his record had been anti-Communist.

New Comedy Team

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a feeling in some show business circles that the time is ripe for the explosive emergence of a new comedy team, such as the gold mine combine once made up by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis.

Since they parted a number of years ago amid protestations of sweet sorrow and some acrimony, other comedy teams have risen but none has quite taken their place.

Two youthful song-and-chuckle merchants who do not take goal very much in mind are Steve Rossi and Marty Allen.

Since they joined three years ago, they have been slowly maturing their act in night club appearances here and in England, and their comic catch phrase, "Hello dere," has caught on with some success.

Their financial rating has gone up, too. Their annual earnings are in the six-figure bracket.

Steve, the singer, is tall, dark and handsome. He hails from New York, and bears up well under the distinction of having once been briefly a leading man with Mae West in an act featuring a forest of masculine muscle.

Marty, who used to play stick ball in the streets of Pittsburgh, is an ex-juggler juggling champ. The natural clown of the pair, he resembles an ambulant lunatic.

dry bag topped by a tousled mass of hair.

Winding up an appearance here, the boys talked of the changing trends in comedy and their hopes for a platinum-plated future.

The night club field is like vaudeville once was—the best training ground for a performer. You have to learn your trade well, because you face the toughest of all audiences to please," Steve said.

Some people who have become overnight personalities on television fall flat on their faces in night clubs. They aren't prepared. They haven't even learned how to get on and off stage."

Steve, who likes to write songs, also helps his partner in turning out the material for what they choose to call their "Concert in Comedy." They avoid sick humor, concentrate on topical situations and world events. Their greatest source is the daily newspaper, which each studies as assiduously as if he were an honor student in a high school civics class.

The question naturally arises: If the big dream of Marty and Steve is to succeed Martin and Lewis, how do they get along together? The answer: Better than Martin and Lewis do.

"It's almost like being married," said Marty. "But we do use separate toothbrushes."

Teen-Ager Asks, 'Why Do Most Doctors Smoke?'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Molner: If smoking is so bad for a person, why do most doctors indulge in the habit? I have not met or seen a doctor who doesn't smoke.

I am a 15-year-old girl and have smoked for three years whenever I can get away from my parents, teachers, neighbors, etc.

I have felt no ill effects. I outrun, out-swim, out-dive and hold my breath longer than any girl in my gym class. Have I been disillusioned by people who say smoking short-winds a person? Or do they just try to halt our freedom?—D.S.

Well, there's one thing you can say about 15-year-olds. They speak their minds. (When they aren't hiding their cigarettes from neighbors, teachers, parents, etc.) This candid young lady is wrong. She may not know any doctors who don't smoke, but how many doctors does she know? Two? Three? Four?

I know scads who smoke, and scads who don't. Many of my fellow practitioners have read the convincing statistics and have quit smoking. Others have also read the statistics and have acid to themselves. "Yeah, I know I'm an idiot, but I've learned to like smoking so I'm going to do it and take the consequences."

I suppose that I know a couple of hundred doctors who have quit smoking. They are "playing the percentages," but the only way to see the difference between them and others is to compare their average life spans and their average freedom from illness.

(I could name one famous doctor who recently quit smoking after 30 years. He said: "I knew all the figures, but I liked to smoke, and I wasn't concerned about living a few years longer. I quit because I wanted to get a good night's sleep and not wake up coughing.")

It may take 10 or 20 or 30 years before the difference between smokers and non-smokers is big enough to detect. Earlier in life, the one per cent difference is impossible to measure.

For 50 years we've told our children not to smoke, but we didn't have any facts to back up our prejudice. In that, "D.S." is more or less right in her complaint. We said "no" and didn't know why.

Young athletes should avoid tobacco. The warm smoke dries out their respiratory passages slightly. Say it reduces physical efficiency by one per cent. (Maybe more or less.) A one-per-cent loss in a game can be a sloppy tackle, a missed basket, one-tenth of a second in a 100-yard dash.

A good athlete who smokes "perfect habits," but if both are of equal ability, the one who doesn't smoke will have the slightest possible edge over the other.

I suppose that I know a couple of hundred doctors who have quit smoking. They are "playing the percentages," but the only way to see the difference between them and others is to compare their average life spans and their average freedom from illness.

(I could name one famous doctor who recently quit smoking after 30 years. He said: "I knew all the figures, but I liked to smoke, and I wasn't concerned about living a few years longer. I quit because I wanted to get a good night's sleep and not wake up coughing.")

But it's not a matter of just trying to "halt the freedom" of young people any more. There's real evidence against smoking.

(P.S.: In another 15 years, "D.S." will be getting ready to tell her healthy children not to smoke. I wonder if she'll succeed.)

Dear Dr. Molner: In tests for tuberculosis, which is more delicate, a smear or a culture?—J.B.

A "smear" is taken from sputum. If it is positive—if it shows the presence of active TB germs—that is that. If it is negative, then a culture may be made from pooled sputum taken over a period of several days. If it is still negative, that's fine!

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Explain It? He Can't Understand It!

I have at hand a document quoting Oliver Wendell Holmes as saying that he liked to pay taxes. It adds that Holmes did not say how he felt about filling out tax returns. We all know that Mr. Holmes was a learned man, and I have often quoted his other sayings with the fervor of a disciple. This latest communique puts me on the other side of the fence.

THE DOCUMENT, of course, is from the Internal Revenue Service and these past few days I have been trying to find some figures that would half-way satisfy those minions of Uncle Sam who say I must file a return prior to April 15.

Frankly, the instructions are much too brief concerning deductions I may claim and all too clear on what income I must report. All through the instruction book, I am reminded "remember the deadline," "report all of your income," "everyone with income must file a return," "you must include all income of both husband and wife," etc.

IN OUR CASE, it isn't difficult to report our income. I have always been up to handling small figures and the boss supplies me with a little slip of paper that lists the whole shebang. So what's all the fuss about?

My interest begins to grow when I get to the deduction part, but the booklet begins to get vague, hazy and even obscure, or so it seems. I understand that I can't deduct $600 for Aunt Sarah when she visited last summer, but can I deduct the food she ate while she was here? And what about the couch she broke? Or the picture she knocked off the wall? Are those bona fide losses? Alas, the book is silent.

ONE TYPICAL explanation reads: "The amount of loss to be deducted is measured by the fair market value of the property just before the casualty less its fair market value immediately after the casualty (but not more than the cost or other adjusted basis of the property), reduced by any insurance or compensation received. Attach an explanation."

I can't explain it; I don't even understand it. I sometimes think it would be better if the government would just eliminate all that stuff about deductions and hit us with a straight percentage. It wouldn't create the best of all possible worlds, but it would be a heck of a lot simpler.

AS FOR MR. HOLMES, I wish he were around to fill out my return for me. Then we would see how enthusiastic he would be over paying taxes. Actually, I guess I don't really mind paying taxes, considering their necessity. But I do mind filling out those complicated forms with simplified instructions." —V. GLENN COOTES

The Old-Time News Triumph

On Dec. 18, 1931, Jack "Legs" Diamond, a tough, flamboyant mobster of the prohibition era, once more made front page news when he was acquitted, on a bootlegging charge, by an Albany, N. Y., court.

On that same day in New York City, a notice went up on the bulletin boards of the New York Daily News that the paper would begin paying its annual Christmas bonus to all employees as of 9 a.m. on the following day, Dec. 19.

NOT EVEN A clairvoyant could have stretched his crystal ball to connect the two events. But through the genius of one of the great newspapermen of his day, they combined to make newspaper history and to create a legend that will endure as long as there are men with printers' ink in their veins.

Eugene J. McHugh, 68, who died last week in New York, was night city editor of the News during the holiday season of '31 when he did the impossible and carved out his own niche in the newspaper hall of fame.

GENE WAS THE confidant of mobsters, gamblers and bootleggers. So when Gene came to work early on the morning of Dec. 19 he was not surprised to find one of Diamond's henchmen waiting for him. Legs' man, Jimmy Jones, had come to warn Gene that Diamond was celebrating his Albany acquittal by getting drunk—with his inamorata, red-headed Kiki Roberts.

Jones reported that "Legs" was so drunk he had dropped his guard and that "he's hotter than a blow torch," an implication that rival killers were breathing down his neck. Jones, more in sorrow than in anger, alerted Gene to the possibility that "Legs" would be bumped off before the night was over.

GENE, IN TURN, casually told his news and picture staff to have the "Legs"

Diamond file on tap for quick action. Then after the last edition went to press and as the pressure slackened in the news room, Gene and his companions on the lobster trick set about their usual pinocchio game.

The composing room had shut up shop for another day. The mechanical crews had scattered when an Associated Press bulletin flashed word that "Legs" Diamond had been ambushed and killed by hood. In a matter of seconds, as he ran toward the elevators, Gene gave the necessary orders to the news and picture desks.

WITHIN A MINUTE he was out the 41st Street exit of the News Building, across the street, and in the old speakeasy that was the favorite of the editorial and mechanical staffs alike. Gene had gambled that pressmen and compositors, the indispensable men he must have to get an Extra on the street, would be willing away the hours before 9 a.m. — when they could collect their Christmas bonuses — in the gin mill.

Gene was right. Six minutes after the AP bulletin cluttered into the newsroom, Gene had a skeleton crew — enough for an Extra — in the composing room. With the odds of ever raising "a cold, stone-dead paper," as Paul Gallico wrote later, a million-to-one against him, Gene pulled off the miracle.

AS THE MECHANICAL staff set about bringing the paper back to life, Gene was at the city desk writing the story as only he knew it. When the Extra hit in the streets, Gene had accomplished the incredible.

Gene was night managing editor of the Daily News on his retirement a year ago. His "real life" triumph far outdid anything in "Front Page" or "Five-Star Final." In fond tribute to Gene, Ama Barker, the Daily News Sunday editor, says, "It was larger than life." And so it was.

Nasser's Program For Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt — We had an air alert upon my arrival in this ancient city of strife — not entirely a warlike exercise just for practice, either. The best word among such objective observers as exist here is that a serious game of call-you-bluff is taking place between this country and Israel.

It is believed that the Egyptians have received from Russia some air-to-air rockets and some anti-aircraft weapons. In order to draw fire and find out for certain what President Nasser has wanted from Khrushchev, the Israeli have flown several provocative flights across the Suez Canal and at least one unreported flight over this capital city.

THE EGYPTIANS have not yet opened fire, but from their viewpoint they have reason to be worried. Persons inside the United Arab Republic tell me that the Israeli fighter planes (French-made) can outgun the Egyptian planes (Russian-made). Although both sides claim to be non-aggressive and defensive, neither of the blood enemies would dare fall into an obviously inferior position.

This is pistol poker on a lesser scale than the game which the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. are playing, with their nuclear tests and weapons. But it is the same game just the same, where neither side can afford to be caught with the smaller bang.

MEANWHILE, there exists an exchange of perhaps six or so letters apiece between Presidents Kennedy and Nasser, another matter that has earned little coverage back home. But the all-knowing press fraternity of Cairo believes that Mr. Kennedy is offering everything — but — weapons to Nasser in return for some unknown quid pro quo.

PRESIDENT NASSER'S political position in the Middle East is delicate and peculiar. He has tried, and largely succeeded, in bringing off the revolution, which will be 10 years old this summer, with a minimum of bloodshed. This is unusual in Middle East revolutions. Nasser's biographer, Robert St. John, has some credible explanations. He says that Nasser was deeply affected by the loss of his mother when he was nine, and that he has always feared death both for others and for himself.

St. John adds that Nasser, who carries a forehead scar from British police brutality, is not so much against terror for humanitarian reasons as for pragmatic reasons. He knows that an assassination can mean ten in reprisals, or that ten can mean a hundred.

NASSER ALSO hopes to prevent bloodshed because he feels that in national socialism he has found the touchstone of political organization in the Middle East. Nasser has not materially improved the lot of his countrymen's fast-breeding, fast-dying, life-of-misery existence—but he has carried out routine business, such as running the Suez Canal, better than anybody believed possible.

Since he equates the West with thousands of years of British, French and Roman imperialism under corrupt and submissive Egyptian monarchs and aristocrats, Nasser will never fully outlive his distrust of our side. But he tries for a fine distinction between the theory and practice of the Reds. He writes:

"UNDER NO circumstances are we against Marxism. We are, however, opposed to taking instructions from foreign countries... The Egyptian Communist party received instructions from Sofia and it takes its instructions from Bulgaria. How can I trust such persons...?"

Fear of death and fear of tyranny are in their natural setting here. The pyramids, however impressive and romantic, are repulsive heaps, built with the blood and toil of thousands, as superstitious heeds against the death of kings, queens and royal progeny.

THE MOSQUES and citadels of Cairo have risen only because a terrible power to extract unwilling labor was misused by the irresponsible mightly upon the defenseless many. Nasser is now trying, with what effectiveness remains in question, to put all this land and water to the services of a long-suffering people.

After centuries of torment and privation, they deserve a break — but this visitor has seen nothing yet to predict that Nasser can provide it.

For A Lowly Pup

MIAMI, Fla. — A dachshund puppy owned by D. L. Wallace loved to ride in the family car, but being a dachshund he wasn't tall enough to see out the windows.

Wallace solved the problem by buying one of the child's car seats with a mock steering wheel. Now the pup rides in the seat with his front paws on the steering wheel and enjoys the scenery.

Science At Work

By The Associated Press

A want ad for inventors, a new help for bank tellers, a warning about termites, and a look at maneuvering in space are subjects for science at work.

Wireless Power

The U.S. armed forces have a new entry for the "help wanted" columns. They're asking the nation's inventors to develop a way to transmit power without wires or cables.

So reports the National Inventors Council of the U.S. Commerce Department. Prime requirements: a technique to transmit 1,000 watts of power for up to 50 miles in usable form. A transmitter would broadcast the electrical power and it would be picked up by a receiver many miles away.

Experimental devices, hampered by low efficiency, have already been tested.

No Account?

Ever wait for a bank teller to look up your account so he'd know whether you had enough money to cover your check?

To solve this, computers have been put to work in a new system, that would be located right in front of the teller and would provide him the desired information in two-fifths of a second.

Dan M. Bowers of the Computer Control Co., Framingham, Mass., described the system last week at the Institute of Radio Engineers.

It can, he said, check the last transaction, even though it occurred only five seconds before. The first model, to handle eventually 250,000 accounts, has been designed for the Provident Institution for Savings, Boston.

Termite Time

After spring rains, when temperature and moisture are right, termites signal their presence by rising in swarms. They search out wood, paper, or anything containing cellulose. Other signs: mud tunnels built along basement walls as the termites migrate to wooden structures.

They look a little like flying ants, says the National Pest Control Association. But they are different. Termites have thick bodies, no waistline, and four wings of equal length, while flying ants have rear wings shorter than those in front.

Finding Port

A new radar system that can help find a space station and guide a chaser rocket to a rendezvous with it was described last week.

The radar system, by picking up signals broadcast from the target satellite, can spot it at a distance of 60 miles, and guide the chaser rocket in to dock at speeds up to 1,000 feet a second.

By increasing the power, the guidance system can cover still larger distances, Howard A. Reuter of Westinghouse Air Arm Division reported to the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Club Offers To Assist Project

The Spaders Garden Club has agreed to sponsor a program to beautify the Howard County Airport, according to Dr. F. W. Lurting, co-chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, air transportation committee.

The committee discussed a possible air show to raise funds for the beautification project. Ted McClung will inquire into the costs of staging the show and report.

John Burgess, city attorney, reported on the trip he and Dr. M. W. Talbot Jr. made to Washington, D. C. in relation to the Southwest Area Local Carrier's Case. Burgess said the local side in the request for increased air service appeared to be favorably received by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Insurance Men Attend School

Eighteen fieldmen of Southland Life Insurance Co. are attending a basic school at the company's home office, Dallas, this week.

Student-agents attending the school included Howard E. Burleson, Big Spring.

The schedule of study in the basic school includes a review of the history of life insurance; analysis of the company's insurance plans and terms; instruction in sales methods, motivation, prospecting and work habits; and talks by various members of the home office staff, outlining procedures of particular interest to agents.

Labor Announces Political Rally

The Howard County Trades Labor Council will sponsor a political rally for candidates for April 17, and there will be a twist to this one.

Candidates won't be asked to buy anything. On the contrary, they will be invited to speak briefly, and will be served refreshments.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the JUOE Hall on IS 20 south from Cosden refinery.

All candidates will be urged to attend, and they will have an opportunity to speak for five minutes. A social period will follow the meeting.

Col. Banks Tells Lions Of Available Weaponry

Strength and vigilance are the price of peace, Col. Wilson H. Banks, commander of Webb AFB, told the Downtown Lions Club at its meeting Wednesday in the Settles.

The motto of SAC (Strategic Air Command) "Peace is Our Profession," may well be applied to all branches of the defense establishment, declared Col. Banks.

He pointed to some of the weapons available to the Air Force in event it ever is called upon to strike defensive or retaliatory blows. These are both in the area of mobile and flexible instruments, such as bomber and fighter aircraft, or in the "hardened" field such as missiles.

"We have airplanes today which can fly straight up much faster than the best plane of World War II could fly straight down," he told the club. "One plane today can carry more destructive power in its bomb bay than all the planes combined in World War II."

The country has adopted a policy of deterrence, he reminded, by girding to meet any attack and also by gearing another force to destroy the enemy should we be attacked.

"The business of peace and security are one and the same, and there is no way to separate the two," he said. "We can't relax until a permanent solution is worked out to the world's tensions."

Col. Banks was introduced by Col. Charles W. Read, program chairman.

The nominating committee proposed this slate of officers to the club: James Tidwell, president; Dr. W. A. Hunt, Wesley Deats, Dr. Doug Ward, vice presidents; Maj. Robert Short, Liontamer; Fred Stitzel, secretary-treasurer; R. H. Snyder, P. D. (Red) Williams and Phil Hines, tailtwisters; R. B. (Bob) Dean and Col. Don Pendergrast, directors.

ON POLLUTION

Late Statements Are Questioned

Attorneys for the Colorado River Municipal Water District have questioned the propriety of two statements filed after a hearing in which it sought to obtain a railroad commission order halting disposal of oilfield brines in earthen pits.

A permit to impound a second lake on the upper Colorado River is conditioned upon the CRMWD's ability to demonstrate to the State Board of Water Engineers that it can control salt water pollution of the river.

The district contended at the hearing on Feb. 6-9 that a principal source of pollution of the river basin was the earthen disposal pits for brine produced by oil wells in the Sharon Ridge and Northern Coleman Ranch fields of Scurry and Mitchell counties. CRMWD testimony was to the effect that water in the pits seeped eventually into the river.

A brief filed by Joe Carroll, Snyder, representing protestants at the hearing, argued that the district had failed to prove its case and that only such wells as were specifically shown to be polluting the river should be shut down. He argued also that natural pollution was responsible for a high chloride content in the stream.

Several weeks after the hearing, trustees of the Ira Independent School District in southwest Scurry County and the West Central Oil and Gas Association, an organization of operators serving the area, filed statements urging that the commission not order a fieldwide shutdown and elimination of surface pits.

While the district contends that the statements are, at several points, not supported by the record, E. V. Spence, general manager, said the district's position regarding the board and association statements was that they were made after the hearing.

"It is of concern to the applicant (CRMWD) that each of the statements mentioned was presented, not at the hearing where such statements could have been considered in the light of discussion and cross examination," said the district in its statement to the commission, "and attempt to inject unsworn testimony for consideration of the examiner and the commission."

No decision in the case is expected for several weeks.

Hungary Holds Giant Parade

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Communist Hungary commemorated its World War II liberation by the Soviet Army with a giant military parade in Budapest Wednesday displaying latest Russian-made jets and rockets.

The parade, watched by Premier Janos Kadar, the entire cabinet and 100,000 spectators, included modern, medium and heavy tanks, 12 ground-to-air rockets and supersonic fighters.

Defense Minister Lajos Czinege said in a speech the Communist countries had co-ordinated their defense plans and were keeping military efficiency at the highest level.

Wide Areas Get Rain

By The Associated Press

Showers and thunderstorms dampened sections from the southern and south central Plains into the central part of the nation today and headed eastward.

The showery belt extended across the middle Mississippi Valley and the southwestern Great Lakes region. Thunderstorms rumbled across areas in central Texas and showers spread into the lower Mississippi Valley. Heaviest rains were in Texas, with one-inch falls in a six-hour period reported in Amarillo, Palacios and Austin.

The rain was expected to extend over the southern and central Midwest and the Ohio Valley, with showers and occasional thunderstorms from the eastern half of the southern Plains to the southern Appalachians.

Mostly fair weather prevailed in areas east of the Appalachians, the northern Plains, the southern Plateau and the central and southern Pacific Coast. Skies were cloudy in the Rockies and the Central Plateau while light rain sprinkled sections of the North Pacific Coast and the Northern Plateau.

Cooler weather, a little below freezing, was reported in the North Atlantic states. Temperatures in the 30s and 40s prevailed in most sections, with 50s and 60s in Southern areas and 70s in southern Florida and the southern plateau region.

Kennedy Proposes $500 Million Aid To Traffic-Congested Cities

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed a $500 million aid to traffic-strangled cities today and dangled hopes of eventual bargain rates before the nation's air, rail and bus travelers. Kennedy bundled up his ideas in a 10,000-word transportation message and sent it off to Congress. He ignored former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recommendation for creation of a government department of transportation.

The $500 million would be only a first installment, spread over three years, to be given to public agencies. They would put up some partially matching funds and use the combined federal-local money for "the revitalization and needed expansion of public mass transportation."

For the traveling public and for bulk freight—grain, coal ore—and farm and fishery products, Kennedy recommended that Congress end minimum rates prescribed under federal regulation. Just what passengers on what lines might get lower rates in time was not spelled out. But federal officials said they hoped for some "bargain rates to attract people away from cars" as well as for congressional action to prevent price wars.

The rate and mass transit recommendations, and a string of others, were parts of a vast, long-range attack on complicated, controversial problems Kennedy said "are burdening our national transportation system, jeopardizing the progress and security on which we depend."

In general, Kennedy spoke for continued reliance on private transport and for what he termed fundamental, far-reaching reforms in federal policies—reforms designed to downgrade regulating and subsidizing and make carriers "fit, lean and progressive by vigorous competition and innovation."

Canceled last year, delayed this year, the transportation message was the last of a series Kennedy planned to offer to the present Congress in amplification of his program for the country. Facets of it may stir up storms

Bracero Hopefuls Gathering Again

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Less than a week after riot police forced hundreds of men hoping to go to the United States as braceros away from a government building, the men returned. Several hundred gathered in front of the building today and braceros were being contracted now.

A total of 300,000 Mexicans went to the United States last year to work on farms. An estimated 290,000 are expected to go this year.

of discord in Congress and outside. But Kennedy nevertheless urged Congress to get started as soon as possible.

The recommendation for exemption from minimum rate regulation for carriers of passengers, bulk commodities and farm and fishery products, Kennedy said, would get at the most critical and controversial problems of all in the area of unneeded regulatory curbs. For airline passenger traffic, Kennedy said it might be a good idea to start on a gradual, trial basis.

As things stand now, only water carriers have the exemption with respect to bulk freight and only motor carriers and freight forwarders with respect to agricultural and fishery products.

O'Donnell Mayor Is Re-Elected

O'DONNELL (SC)—Mayor L. J. Hash was re-elected and a pair of new councilmen named in a municipal election here Tuesday.

Only 46 voters turned out and Hash received 41 of the ballots cast. Hollis Swinney and Ralph Knight received 43 and 39 votes, respectively, for the council posts.

Homer Hardeberger and Harvey Line are the retiring O'Donnell councilmen who did not seek re-election.

Italian Workers Reject Commies

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Workers in the giant Fiat auto works once again rejected a determined bid by the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor to gain power.

The Fiat union election is regarded by many as a barometer of political thinking among Italian workers. The CGIL was in control until 1955, but it has been waging a losing battle ever since. In the election Wednesday it polled only 22.5 per cent of the vote among the firm's 93,000 workers.
