FED PROBERS WANT TO TALK TO BILLY SOL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Senate investigators flew to Texas Saturday with apparent assurances that Billy Sol Estes will talk to them about complicated grain and cotton deals.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate subcommittee, which is looking into possible Estes influence deals with Washington officials, told a reporter he believes the indicted financier is ready to talk.

The two veteran investigators are Donald F. O'Donnell, acting chief counsel to the subcommittee; and Paul E. Kaminer, assistant chief counsel.

HOLLEMAN QUIZZED
McClellan disclosed that staff members have interviewed Jerry R. Holleman, who resigned as $23,000-a-year assistant secretary of labor Friday night after saying he had accepted $1,000 as a personal gift from Estes to help meet living expenses.

Holleman is former president of the Texas AFL-CIO. McClellan did not disclose the nature of the questioning of Holleman, who said in a resignation letter to Kennedy that Estes had been a close personal friend of his for 10 years.

PLEDGE TO HELP
McClellan said in a statement that Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg had given him assurances of his personal cooperation and that of his department in connection with the inquiry into the Estes case.

Goldberg called the Holleman incident regrettable but said his assistant had taken the proper course of action in resigning.

Holleman was the first top-rank Kennedy administration official to bow out as a result of the investigation of the multimillion-dollar dealings of the 37-year-old Estes in grain storage and cotton acreage allotments.

Previously Emery Jacobs, deputy administrator of the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, quit with a denial that he had received any gifts from Estes. William E. Morris, an Agriculture Department official, was discharged after his name cropped up in a Texas investigation.

OTHER NAMES
Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, himself under republican fire for not acting more speedily in the inquiry, has under consideration the case of James T. Ralph, former assistant secretary, whose name has been linked to that of Estes.

It was disclosed also that Carl J. Miller, who was praised by Freeman earlier in the week for not giving any special favors to Estes, had been transferred from his job as federal grain warehousing director. Miller said his motives and integrity were not questioned.

RECORDS SUBPOENAED
McClellan said in his statement that his subcommittee had subpoenaed all of the bank records relating to Estes' financial dealings. He said subpoenas covered 42 different accounts in nine banks.

McClellan said that all of the records of various Estes' business enterprises now in the hands of a court-appointed receiver, Harry Moore, have been subpoenaed and are being reviewed.

From Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., came a prediction that Holleman's will not be the last resignation, dismissal or conviction to grow out of the Estes case. Mundt said Holleman will be called as a witness when the investigation reaches the hearing stage. He is senior Republican on the investigations subcommittee.

Long-distance toll records of Estes, other individuals and of the Department of Agriculture are also under subpoena. McClellan added. Commercial Solvents Corp. of New York City has been subpoenaed and their records are being reviewed, he said.

Estes carried on some of his financing through Commercial Solvents.

FIVE ON JOB
The committee, chairman said that five members of his staff have joined with General Accounting Office employees to work on the Estes case. He said he will call a subcommittee meeting in a few days to hear a staff briefing.

It is his opinion, McClellan said, that sufficient facts have already been discovered to warrant the subcommittee in authorizing a full-scale investigation and public hearings. He said he couldn't estimate how soon such hearings would be held.

WRECKAGE OF DEAD BANKER'S CAR
Officers theorize mechanical failure involved

Car Crash Fatal To Temp Currie

Temp S. Currie Jr., 43, member of a widely known Big Spring pioneer banking family and a vice-president of the State National Bank, was fatally injured Saturday morning when his car crashed head-on into a steel grain storage bin at the Kimbell Feed Mills, Lancaster at First Street.

Mr. Currie died in the Cowper Hospital and Clinic shortly before noon, about an hour and a half after the accident. He never regained consciousness.

His death was the sixth traffic fatality to be recorded in Howard County this year. It was the second such accident to occur within the city limits.

Cause of the mishap was not known.

PICKED UP SPEED
The young bank executive was alone in his car travelling north on Lancaster Street. The car began to pick up speed, according to witnesses, and was moving at more than 65 miles an hour when it rammed into the towering grain bin.

The bin is one of a battery of such facilities at the Kimbell Mills. It was filled with 40 box carloads of maize, it was said.

The impact was enough to drive the radiator and engine backward nearly to the driver's compartment. Mr. Currie was not thrown out of the wreckage.

It was speculated by some officers who investigated the accident that he could have suffered a sudden black out. It was also theorized the car might have developed a mechanical difficulty which robbed the driver of its control.

WITNESS
"It was so fast I can't be sure just what did happen even though I was standing about 30 feet away," Clyde Eager, manager of Kimbell Milling Co., said. He told police he was standing on the scales near the office at the time.

He said the car driven by Currie appeared to swerve slightly to the right as it traveled north on Lancaster to avoid hitting a pickup and his car which were parked in front of the office.

Another witness who saw the car speeding down Lancaster at West Third Street said the car appeared to travel straight for the tank it finally hit.

The car made almost a direct hit and rebounded about six feet after the crash, Lt. Stanley L. Bogard, traffic department, said.

"From what we can gather, it seems the accelerator stuck," Bogard said. "At this time we will have to say the accident was caused by a mechanical failure."

Pro-Western Forces Flee Into Thailand

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Fleeing royal Laotian troops poured into Thailand Saturday before the advance of pro-Communist rebel Lattalons. The rebels claimed their drive carried them into the Mekong River town of Tanoum only 24 miles west of the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

A U.S. military source said 2,000 of the pro-Western government's troops had fled into friendly Thailand without putting up a fight against a rebel offensive which has surged more than 100 miles past the year-old cease-fire line.

The rebel "Voice of Laos," in a broadcast heard in Tokyo quoted by the New China News Agency, said royal Laotian troops abandoned Tanoum and fled, presumably across the Mekong River to join their comrades in Thailand.

Tanoum lies about 60 miles south of Houei Sai, key government point fall of which to the Reds was reported Friday.

CLOSING IN
The reported capture of Tanoum added to royal government fears that the rebel: are closing in for an all-out attack on Luang Prabang and on the administrative capital of Vientiane to the south.

The Defense Ministry charged Soviet-made planes were rushing men and material to new-seen territory in an apparent buildup for a further push.

In Vientiane, the government decided to proclaim a state of siege throughout Laotian territory a formal move that can empower the Cabinet to declare total mobilization. A spokesman said the government also decided to inform the United Nations of the rebel sweep beyond the cease-fire line agreed on last year.

There was also talk of an attempt to resume negotiations among the three rival Laotian princes for a coalition regime.

Diplomats said the main factor in the Laotian situation, however, is the stand the United States will take in the face of the rebel war moves.

Thailand's premier, Marshal Sarit Thanarat, flew to the border to inspect his defenses in the light of the Communist gains on the Laotian side of the Mekong River frontier. He said he will decide on the basis of the tour whether he needs reinforcements.

Police reports from the border region said 1,000 Laotian civilians as well as up to 2,000 troops had fled into Thailand so far to escape the Red push.

Pote Sarasin o' Thailand, secretary-general of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization who accompanied the premier, told reporters his return to Bangkok soldiers and civilians were being cared for by the Thais.

DISARMED
An American military official who visited the area said the Laotian troops have been disarmed and are camped in a rice field. He said that seven American Military advisory group personnel, among the last elements to leave Houei Sai Friday, were safe in Thailand.

An American source who flew low over Houei Sai Saturday morning said there was no activity observable.

The rebel "Voice of Laos," which had been silent about Houei Sai, finally said that its troops had taken it Friday. In Vientiane a government spokesman said he believed the rebels were still three to four miles away from the town. He added, however, that government troops were continuing to retreat across the Mekong River into Thailand.

American military sources said the future of the Laotian troops who fled to Thailand depended on the Thai government. These sources said royal Laotian forces in the Nam Tha area numbered 5,000 before the fall of that provincial capital seven days ago. They said 3,000 of these troops were still unaccounted for but that Laotian military leaders hoped they were making their way south to Thailand across the jungle.

Rebel broadcasts, quoted by the New China news agency and heard in Tokyo, said one regiment of royal Laotian troops had tried to recapture Nam Tha but were eliminated.

In Vientiane, informed sources said the pro-Western Boun Oun government is trying to contact neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma to make him cut short a visit to France and return home quickly to resume negotiations for a coalition government.

Marines Moving Into Nearby Seas

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday alerted land, sea and air units for possible movement into Southeast Asia if further developments in crisis-ridden Laos makes this necessary.

Exactly what use may be made of the U.S. forces involved in the precautionary moves is still unclear and will depend on further decisions in the light of the developing situation, informants said.

Whether American troops actually will go into Laos was described as depending upon what the Communists and the pro-Western Laotian forces do in the immediate future.

Officials refused at this juncture however, to exclude the possibility that the United States would intervene directly in the little country.

The first step was taken Friday with the dispatch into Southeast Asian waters of an aircraft carrier task force of the U.S. 7th Fleet, believed to be carrying a 2,000-man reinforced Marine battalion.

Could Land In Thailand
These troops could be landed in Thailand, a U.S. ally under the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, by arrangement with that country.

Growing Communist advances in the tiny Laotian kingdom were the subject of two conferences Kennedy held Saturday with his top cold war strategists.

The second phase of presidential action, it is understood, will probably result in the movement of some units closer to Southeast Asia in the next few days unless in the meantime there is an improvement in the situation.

While officials declined to disclose any of the specific precautions called for by Kennedy it appeared likely that forces on Okinawa, U.S. island base in the Western Pacific, are involved.

High Brass At Conference
It was also understood also that elements of the 7th Fleet, which has a total of about 125 ships, are being pulled together for possible quick movement in the direction of Southeast Asia in addition to the task force already dispatched.

Both White House conferences included Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, as well as various intelligence experts.

Officials said the consensus of these at the conferences was that the Laotian crisis has become increasingly serious in the last 24 hours for two reasons:

—The United States is unable to judge the intention of Communist-supported Pathet Lao troops which breached a year-old Lao cease-fire last week and are still marching forward with pro-Western government forces falling back, some in almost complete disorder.

—The Soviet Union so far has failed completely to respond to U.S. and British appeals for co-operation in bringing the fighting to an end and reviving negotiations for establishment of a neutralist government in Laos.

The Laotian crisis holds grave implications for Thailand and for neighboring South Viet Nam, where the United States is already heavily engaged in assisting anti-Communist forces to battle rebel guerrillas.

Prince To Return Home
At the same time, it was learned that the United States has asked neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, now in Paris, to return to Laos at once. If political negotiations could be resumed, Souvanna Phouma would be a key figure and Kennedy and Rusk apparently hope to use his influence for restoration of the cease fire.

The pro-Western government spokesman, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan who previously was reported reluctant to support the coalition regime project, is now said to have advised U.S. officials he favors negotiations. But authorities here privately concede that his bargaining position has been considerably weakened by failure of his forces to stand up at any point against Pathet Lao attack.

The United States has told Phoumi, informants said, that it considers his past conduct, including his recent handling of government military forces, unwise and it considers his present and future responsibility to be less to him than to the people of Laos and to King Savang Vatthana.

Franco May Act To Settle Big Strike

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Spain's striking miners and industrial workers got a boost Saturday from an organ of the Roman Catholic Church and there were indications Gen. Francisco Franco may try to settle the walkouts by granting better wages.

Some 70,000 men—mostly coal miners in Asturias Province and workers in industrial areas around Bilbao in the Basque country of the north remained on strike in an unusual wave of labor trouble for Spain.

But there was no indication that the work stoppages were spreading, and some government sources expressed the hope the movement had reached its crest.

STRIKERS DEFENDED
The Roman Catholic weekly magazine Ecclesia, official publication of the Spanish Catholic Action, defended the workers' right to strike as a natural and Christian right.

Sources in Bilbao said Basque Catholic priests had been actively supporting the walkout of industrial workers from nearly a dozen important factories.

With some of the Asturias mine strikes entering their second month, there were indications that Franco's government has decided to speed a settlement, not by the old-fashioned method of force and pressure, but by ordering negotiation of broadly based labor agreements.

Officials would not say what plan Franco and his Cabinet adopted at a meeting Friday. But official sources indicated it was a scheme based on better pay for improved production.

Many Spanish workers keep families on wages of 40 to 60 pesetas a day. It takes 66 pesetas to equal a dollar.

Asturias' miners, who spearheaded the strike movement, are paid better than most. Citing higher living costs, they have been demanding the equivalent of about $2.10 a day, compared with their present $1.40 to $1.60 a day in order to get on the same wage level with some industrial workers who recently got increases.

NO ONE INJURED Littlefield Hit By Tornadic Wind

By The Associated Press
A damaging wind, first described as a small tornado, crashed with destructive force through the South Plains town of Littlefield late Saturday. There were no injuries.

A large section of the Panhandle-Plains country was under severe thunderstorm alert when the storm struck Littlefield.

The area alerted until 10 p.m. was described only as "in the area 100 miles east of a line from Lubbock, Tex., to 30 miles west of Hill City, Kan."

The Littlefield winds tore a hole in the side of an elevator, spilling some grain to the ground. Several small buildings belonging to the Cap Rock Fertilizer Co. were damaged. Cotton trailers were swept up and overturned, power and telephone service was interrupted temporarily, and an 18,000-pound transport truck was pushed backward 100 feet by the force of the wind.

The thunderstorm alert was for portions of western and central Kansas, the extreme west portion of Oklahoma and the eastern Oklahoma Panhandle in addition to the Texas area.

The Weather Bureau said scattered severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging surface winds could be expected until 10 p.m.

The Panhandle - Plains country turbulence came after a hot, muggy day in Texas.

There was no rain reported in the state during the 24 hours prior to 6 p.m.

Maximum temperatures ranged from a burning 110 degrees at Presidio in the Big Bend Country to 82 at Galveston, sitting in the Gulf of Mexico.

Generally, forecasts for the Mother's Day weekend called for a continuation of the hot, dry weather.

Soldiers And Police On Way To Battle Terrorists

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—The Algerian Provisional Executive ordered thousands of Moslem troops and police sent to Algiers and Oran Saturday night to crush Secret Army Organization terrorism.

The City Council of Oran—a stronghold of the European underground organization—also was dissolved in a series of drastic new measures aimed at halting Algeria's daily blood bath.

The Provisional Executive, headed by Abderrahmane Fares, declared the secret army forces "evil, collapse" of attempting to block Algerian independence by terrorism.

The basis of the new program is to bring in Moslem troops and police to restore order while the European police force and civil administration are purged of secret-army sympathizers.

The measures were approved following three days of meetings between the Provisional Executive and French High Commissioner Christian Fouchet.

Throughout the day, police said, terrorism in Algiers claimed eight lives—seven of them Moslems, Twelve Moslems and four Europeans were wounded.

A regional official in Bone was assassinated by a secret army mmundo.

The official, Raymond Vignal, about 35, was deputy to the regional governor, in charge of information.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

The stunning news of the death Saturday morning of Temp S. Currie Jr. climaxed a week with other tragedy and near-tragedy. Temp Currie died shortly after his car went out of control after crossing Third Street and crashed into a steel grain elevator two blocks to the north.

A week ago this morning, the area has another traffic fatality after Joe Gonzales Liejas, 21, was found beside IS 20 nearly 4 miles east of Stanton and half a mile west of the Howard County line. He died a few hours later in the Stanton hospital.

A skillful bit of piloting enabled a heavily laden DC4 to plunk down in a plowed field on the Joe Lemon place just east of Ackerly. A shower had softened the field and enabled the heavy plane to skid, helping avert disaster. More than 20 years ago, crew members of a lost Navy plane bailed out at Ackerly, one being killed.

JFK's Trade Bill Coming, But Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders now are saying President Kennedy will get substantially the trade expansion legislation he wants—but not until after the present reciprocal trade law has expired.

Dividend Bill Gains A Little

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's proposal for tax withholding on dividends and interest has improved its position in the Senate Finance Committee. Democratic members said Saturday, but still far from being out of the woods.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., told a reporter things are looking up for the plan in view of the Kennedy administration's vigorous push for it this past week.

The President answered what he said were misconceptions about the proposal at his news conference Wednesday.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon took up the cudgels for the proposal in his testimony Thursday and Friday, closing Senate committee hearings on the tax revision bill.

However, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said in a separate interview that the provision probably is in worse shape on the floor than it is in committee.

McCarthy noted that all senators have received a flood of mail opposing the plan from savers and investors, and said that even some administration supporters have replies committing themselves against it.

The law, periodically renewed since Congress first passed it in 1924, expires June 30 unless it is again revived. Kennedy, asserting that a whole new situation has been created by establishment of the European Common Market, has called for sweeping new authority for tariff reductions and other trade negotiations rather than a simple extension.

The chance that Congress will complete action on such a bill by June 30 has now narrowed almost to vanishing. The House Ways and Means Committee, which started work on the bill in March, has at least 10 days more of sessions ahead, with some of the most controversial points still to be resolved.

Then the bill will still have to go before the Rules Committee and the House itself. Leaders will do well to send it to the Senate by June 10.

The Senate Finance Committee is certain to conduct extended hearings on the measure which affects scores of U.S. interests—when it gets around to starting such hearings. It has a heavy calendar of other legislation.

If the reciprocal trade law should lapse before a replacement is enacted, the result is not regarded by its supporters as significant—except perhaps psychologically.

Expiration of the law would not invalidate the numerous trade agreements already in effect. It would deprive the President of authority to negotiate new ones.

Service Awards

Teachers who have served in the education field were recognized and given pins and flowers for their services at a general faculty meeting Friday. Recipients on hand for the 15-year pins (in the upper photo) are, left to right, Mrs. Ruby Blankenship, Mrs. Ella Cantrell, Mrs. Allen Hamilton, Mrs. Beatrice Holding, Mrs. Mary Alice Rush and Mrs. John Hale. At lower left are two of the 20-year award recipients, Mrs. Hazel Lawrence and Mrs. Thelma Kloven. Some qualifying for the awards were not able to be at the ceremonies.

Service Pins Are Presented To Teachers For Long Tenure

Teachers receive little recognition when they enter the school system and most of them leave it with as little fanfare, Sam M. Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District, said at a general faculty meeting Friday afternoon.

"But, it is good that at some time we can recognize those who have served us for quite a while," he added.

With this, he presented service pins and flowers to 23 teachers with 10, 15 and 20 years of service.

As a prelude to awarding of pins, the more than 300 teachers congregated at the Senior High School auditorium heard a recording of the presentation of the Golden Key Award for Outstanding Teaching Ability. The award was made by Dr. Ralph Bunch to one of his former teachers.

Sebron E. Williams, assistant superintendent, presided over the general faculty meeting which preceded an In-Service program.

Providing musical entertainment for the occasion were singers Mrs. Joyce Bradley and Mrs. Mildred Meacham. They were accompanied by Mrs. Donna Wiebe and Mrs. Mary Christensen.

Supt. Anderson passed out pins to the recipients and Williams pinned vari-colored carnations on the ladies and white carnations on the men.

Recipients of 20-year pins were Mrs. Thelma Kloven, Mrs. Hazel Lawrence and Mrs. Marguerite Murphy. Dan Conley and Mrs. Katie West were unable to be on hand for their awards. Mrs. Ruth Rutherford accepted the pin and flower for Mrs. West.

Fifteen year pins went to Mrs. Ruby Blankenship, Mrs. Beatrice Holding, Mrs. Ella Cantrell, Mrs. John Hale, Mrs. Allen Hamilton and Mrs. Mary Alice Rush.

Absentee Vote Opens Monday

Absentee balloting for the second Democratic primary of June 2 is slated to begin Monday.

Ballots had not arrived on Saturday and Frank Hardesty, County Democratic Committee chairman, said that he was not certain they would be on hand Monday.

He has been assured by the printer that the shipment will be delivered as quickly as possible. It is possible, Hardesty said that the 9,500 ballots will be received Monday morning.

As quickly as they are on hand, he said, the arrangements for receiving absentee votes will be made. Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, is ready to set up operations in her office as quickly as the ballots are on hand.

Absentee voting ends on May 29. There will be no "runoffs" in the Republican party.

Heart Attack Kills Worker

STANTON — Death from natural causes, possibly a heart attack induced by the heat, was blamed for the death Friday afternoon of Charles Cantu, 56-year-old Latin-American.

Cantu, a section hand working for the T&P railroad, collapsed as he worked on the tracks near Morita curve at 2:55 p.m. He was taken to the hospital in Stanton by Arrington ambulance but was dead on arrival.

Jim McCoy, county judge, ruled death due to natural causes.

Clarence Airhart, deputy sheriff, was called to the scene.

Dan Saunders, sheriff, who was out of town at the time, said he understood Cantu was leaning on his shovel and suddenly fell to the roadbed.

He was a resident of Brownville. He and other section hands had been in Stanton for sometime living in boarding cars on a T&P siding.

The body was taken in charge by Arrington Funeral Home and transferred to Birete Funeral Home in Brownsville on Saturday.

Reader Cites Need Of Park

To the Editor: I am reading your "Looking 'em Over."

One thing for sure, the city could certainly use more softball diamonds. There is a block just east of us, between 23rd and 24th, Runnels and Johnson Sts. Our boys and the rest of the neighborhood kids had a softball diamond on the northwest corner. There are a few trees on part of it. I've always wished it could be made into a park.

I'll bet the owner would go along with you or any interested people to work something out—why not try it?

SAME ANSWER

By A Christian Writer

When alien sinners ask what to do to be saved, the gospel teachers are obliged to give the same answer the apostles did.

The apostle Peter was asked this question. "Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized, every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." (Acts 2:38.)

Is this the answer you were given when you were inquiring? Is this the answer you bear sinners given today? Is this the message you support with your money and prayers?

Surely the apostles were right! Let us not deceive the sinners.

We of the churches of Christ give the same answer the apostles did, as recorded in this verse, and in all the Scripture. No apostle ever told an alien sinner to "just believe" or to "believe only" for salvation.

We also baptize without taking people into a denomination. We dare to follow the Bible!

Debate — Date: June 19, 20, 21, 22. Place: City Auditorium. Speakers: T. H. Tarbet, church of Christ, 2000 West Hwy. 30, and V. P. Lawrence, Primitive Baptist, Donaldson, Ark.

Hear David Tarbet, from ACC, guest speaker Sunday, 10:30 and 7 p.m.

You are always welcome at the church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 30, T. H. Tarbet, preacher in charge, preaching mission (10 May 13). Box 1381—adv.

Appeals Backlog Will Be Tackled By County Court

By SAM BLACKBURN
One hundred defendants, convicted in corporation court of assorted misdemeanors and who have appealed their cases, have been notified to be in the Howard County Court Room Monday afternoon to hear their appeal trials set.

Judge Ed Carpenter, county court, will sound the docket at 10 p.m.
Judge Carpenter set the 100 cases down for disposition and Wayne Burns, county attorney, spent all of the past week lining up the state's evidence.

Eight Big Spring attorneys are listed as representing the defendants.
Forty-eight of the cases on the docket name Wayne Basden as defense counsel; 24 are assigned to Harvey Hooser Jr., 13 to Hartman Hooser, six to George Thomas, four to John Richard Coffee, three each to H. C. Hooser Sr. and R. H. Weaver, and one to Jack Little.

PROSECUTION SETTLED
Debate over what action should be taken with these appeal cases has been under way for some months. The 100 slated for disposition this week are but a part of the mountain of such cases which are on file in the county court.

The city police department has repeatedly complained that its efforts are being frustrated by the delay in disposing of cases appealed from city court. County officials have replied that attempting to handle the flood of appeals received by the county court from the city and from the justices of the peace courts is an impossible assignment. The county officials also cited the heavy expense involved in the jury trial of some cases.

Burns argued that the responsibility of prosecuting the appeal cases should rest with John Burgess, city attorney. The matter was settled in recent weeks when a ruling by the attorney general stated it was the responsibility of the county attorney.

PROCEDURE
How many cases can be tried in the four days that the present docket will be in operation is unknown. No court will be held on Saturday and the panel of 60 jurors is not to report in the court until Tuesday. How much time state and defense will take in seating a jury and presenting the evidence will be big issues in how speedily the cases can be handled.

The statutes provide that a defendant in an appeal case can waive a jury and lay his case in the hands of the judge, if he wishes. He can also demand a jury trial.

The law also provides that in an appeal case where the holding of the inferior court is sustained, costs of the appeal can be charged to the appellant. If the appeal is upheld and the finding of the lower court reversed, the county must bear costs of the trial.

In cases where the lower court is upheld and a fine assessed or other punishment meted, the appellant pays the fine or serves the jail time under the jurisdiction of the court where he was first convicted.

"NEW CASES"
An appeal case brought from the city court or a justice court to the county court for disposal is not tried as an appeal would be in a case from a court of higher classification.

The procedure which must be followed in any cases which goes to trial in the county court this week will be de Nova, or as though the matter had never been before a court before.

The police will present their testimony, the defendant his witnesses, and then the jury will return a verdict on whether or not the appellant is guilty or not guilty.

(In higher courts, an issue before an appellate court deals with whether the law was properly tracked in the lower court or whether the rights of the defendant have in any way been infringed.)

Burns said the 100 cases on the docket before the court this week are the cases which have been appealed from corporation court since Jan. 1. There is a backlog of several hundred other appeals which were filed last year and are now reposing in the files of the county clerk.

INSURANCE PROD
In addition to the cases out of police court which are on file, there are scores of appeals which have come into the county court from the justices of peace courts.

This is the first concerted attempt by the county court to cope with the problem of appeals before it. No attempt has been made as yet to handle any of the peace justice matters.

The flood of appeals from the corporation court and the justice courts has been building up for over a year.

A new interpretation dealing with car insurance rates, by which drivers who are convicted of moving violations have to pay increased rates, is credited with stimulating the number of appeals. As long as a case is on appeal, the driver cannot be penalized and his insurance rates cannot be hiked. Hence, an appeal which never goes to trial serves as a buffer to drivers who otherwise might have to pay higher rates for their insurance.

NOT ALL TRAFFIC
However, the 100 cases which are on the current docket are not all traffic cases. The list runs the gamut of misdemeanors. Everything is listed from simple drunkenness to petty theft.

On the other hand, the stack of appeals which have poured out of the justice courts are nearly 100 per cent matters involving traffic violations. The state highway patrol files most of its complaints in the justice courts. The bulk of these complaints are "moving traffic" violations as defined in the insurance law.

Judge Carpenter has indicated he intends to call dockets of these pending appeals as often as he has the time and opportunity in his court. No announcement has been made of the next appeal docket setting after this week.

Connally 'Whistle-Stop' Tour To Include Big Spring Friday

The whistle-stop campaign is here again—but being used for the first time in many a year in a Texas state campaign.

John Connally, leading candidate for governor in the recent Democratic primary and now bidding for the nomination in the June 2 runoff, Saturday announced an old-fashioned border-to-border train tour, to run clear across Texas from Texarkana to El Paso. He will make a night stop in Big Spring.

The "John Connally Victory Special" will roll out of Texarkana at 8 a.m. Thursday, headed westward on the T&P. Three days, 38 depot stops and 863 miles later, the three-car special will pull into El Paso.

Connally will alight at every stop to shake hands and make an appeal for voter support. Mrs. Connally, a personable lady who has been working hard in the campaign, will accompany her husband.

The train swing will be an innovation in modern-day Texas politics. While it was a standard tech-

Local supporters of John Connally planned to confer the first of the week on plans for greeting the candidate on his "whistle stop" appearance in Big Spring on Friday. They had not yet received full details on the stop here—listed as a night affair—since the special train announcement came only Saturday.

nique in years past, candidates in recent campaigns have relied on the auto, airplane, bus and television to carry their message across the state. Connally, in his successful first primary campaign, travelled more than 25,000 miles by land and air, none of them by train.

On its first day out, the special will make these East Texas stops: Atlanta, Jefferson, Marshall, Longview, Gladewater, Big Sandy, Mineola, Grand Saline, Willis Point, Terrell, Forney, Mesquite, Grand Prairie, Arlington and Fort Worth.

The tour will spend the night in Fort Worth, leaving Friday morning for Weatherford, Millsap, Gordon, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Baird, Abilene, Sweetwater, Colorado City and Big Spring.

Friday night will be spent in Big Spring. The schedule of Saturday stops includes Stanton, Midland, Odessa, Monahan, Pecos, Toyah, Var. Horn, Sierra Blanca, Fabens and El Paso.

These People Got Well

Shoulder Pain

This man came to us because he was unable to continue his work, as a heavy equipment operator, because of a pain in the shoulder. Just a very few office visits were required to correct the condition which limited him. The few visits made his chronic headaches disappear (which condition he never told us about). He came in again this spring and took a few treatments as there had been a slight recurrence of the headaches. Again just a few visits eliminated the headaches again. Incidentally there had never been any further trouble with the shoulder in the year between his first visit and when he came back for his head. No. 1006.

Low Back

This man came because of a low back condition. He had suffered several attacks in prior years and knew how bad and confining a low back condition could be. During our examination, we found the subluxated (slipped) vertebrae and treatment was made. He was very happy that he could take the treatment after his working hours and happy that he did not need to lose any time from work. Just a few visits completely eliminated all signs of a low back condition and he commented that he felt better all over. No. 1584.

Alabama's Congressmen In Elimination Contest

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's Congressmen are being treated to one of the most unusual political races in state history, with all of the state's congressmen vying each other as political opponents.

Nine U.S. representatives are running statewide races for eight seats in Congress.

Never before have Alabamians elected all their congressmen on a statewide vote.

Never before have all the state's congressmen had to look on each other as political opponents.

A shift in population is causing the state to lose one seat in Congress.

The Alabama Legislature, unable to agree on a redistricting plan, settled on what has become known as the 9-8 plan—a leave-it-to-the-voters solution.

Candidates for Congress were nominated in the present nine districts in the May 1 Democratic primary. All district nominees are incumbents. They will meet each other statewide May 29 with the low vote getter being dropped. The eight survivors will be Democratic nominees on the November general ballot.

With the exception of one vital factor—to get renominated—the campaign is totally lacking in issues.

Campaigning statewide is something new for them. They limit it largely to personal contact work and nonpolitical speeches at every possible social and civic function.

When they do make political speeches outside their district, the theme generally is: "Vote for your congressman and consider me."

Frank Boykin, representative from the 1st District, looks on the race as a sad and unfortunate thing for the people of Alabama. George Grant of the 2nd District called it a bitter-and-unclear campaign.

The campaign is especially new to Robert Jones of the 8th District. He has been in Congress 15 years but has never had opposition.

Most of the candidates expressed a common problem—that the public doesn't understand the 9-8 plan.

Several of the representatives say voters in other districts thank them for their time and effort but explain they're voting for their local congressman.

"All voters must vote for eight candidates May 29, said Rains. "Otherwise their ballots won't be counted."

Japan Seeks Ways To Repay For Aid

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government today studied ways to start payment of $490 million owed the United States by December as scheduled despite Parliament's failure to allocate necessary funds before adjourning Monday.

U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer told Foreign Minister Zenaro Kosaka a delay could damage the confidence in Japan that had been building up in the United States in regard to the repayment issue.

Parliament approved an agreement to repay $490 million for aid received under relief and economic rehabilitation in occupied areas in the immediate post-war years. But a separate bill to provide the funds was pigeonholed.

Warm Praise For Mahon In Colorado City Ceremonies

COLORADO CITY — From far and near, from associations dating back to childhood and from recent professional acquaintances, the praises were heaped upon Rep. George Mahon here Friday.

Occasion was the Mahon Appreciation Luncheon, in connection with Colorado City's Tumbleweed Festival, and the Civic House was packed with nearly 400 people who joined an array of speakers in extending warm wishes to the Mitchell-County reared attorney who has represented the 19th congressional district in Washington for 28 years.

There were two hours of tribute for Mahon and his wife, Helen, with plenty of mention made of members of his family, most of whom were on hand.

The encomiums came from congressmen and from friends of long standing. All the surviving members of the Loraine High School Class of 1918, of which Mahon was a member, were on hand. One of them, banker Charles C. Thompson, was master of ceremonies for the program.

The "home folks" who spoke briefly of their regard for Mahon were B. L. Templeton, Stephenville lawyer who grew up in Loraine; Dr. Bruce Johnson, mayor of Loraine; H. I. Berman, mayor of Colorado City; D. A. Oglesby, mayor of Westbrook; Elmer Martin, Mitchell County judge; A. S. Mauzey, Sweetwater, former 32nd district judge with whom Mahon had served as district attorney before going to Congress; and R. W. Whipkey, Big Spring publisher and a former Colorado Citian.

There was a sentimental touch to the words from most of these, as they cited friendship of long standing.

On hand were government leaders who lauded Mahon for his contribution to the nation, particularly in the field of a strong defense, in his role of chairman of the House subcommittee on military appropriations. Two members of that committee, Rep. Harold Ostrtag of New York and Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, both Republicans, noted that Mahon's contributions transcend party matters. Two Texas colleagues, W. R. Page of Waco and Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls, joined in the tributes.

A brief talk on the need for a strong military—and honoring Mahon for his engrossing work and foresight in this field—was made by Secretary of the Air Force, Eugene Zuckert as a climax to the program.

Mahon responded to all the compliments with brief and modest remarks. He said he had always shied away from such testimonial affairs, but that "Once I've been through it, I like it! Perhaps it can be done again."

Mrs. Mahon was presented with a handsome brass punch bowl service. The Colorado Citians also recognized Secretary Zuckert as a distinguished visitor in giving him a 10-gallon hat.

Big Crowd Views C-City's Unique Tumbleweed Event

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City glorified that humble West Texas thistle, the tumbleweed, with a professional parade Friday afternoon, one of the major highlights of the town's unique Tumbleweed Festival.

Searing heat did not deter a large crowd from viewing the mile-long procession, in which every decorated float was fashioned from processed tumbleweeds dyed in many colors.

The parade was another gesture of honor to Mitchell County's Congressman George Mahon, who had a place of honor, along with members of his family, and Washington notables who accompanied him here.

Adorning the tumbleweed floats were 24 candidates vying for the 1962 Tumbleweed Queen title. The 1961 queen, Sandra Cushing of Loraine had a place of honor in the review.

There was an honor guard and band from Amarillo Air Force Base. Bands included those from Colorado City senior and junior high schools, Loraine, Post and Coahoma.

Nip-And-Tuck Contests Before State Committees

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Leaders of Texas' two major political parties meet Tuesday to consider two contests in which a handful of votes could change the congressional roster in Washington.

Technically, the Democratic and Republican Executive Committees are meeting to canvass county reports of the May 5 voting and officially declare the winners or runoff candidates.

Actually, both committees may spend most of their time discussing results of the two congressional races.

The Democrats meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Abilene. Benton Musslewhite, who trailed U.S. Rep. John Dowdy of East Texas by 41 votes in unofficial counting for the 7th District, will appear to plead that time he given for a county-by-county recount of his race.

The Republicans meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday in San Antonio. The chief topic is expected to be the congressman-at-large race where unofficial counts showed Desmond Barry winning by 140 votes over two opponents.

A subcommittee of the Republican group will be named Monday to do the actual checking of reports from county chairmen and make a recommendation to the full committee.

A Democratic subcommittee, headed by J. H. Shelton of Brownwood began work several days ago checking county reports from Democratic chairmen.

Should any question arise over the county returns, the 62-member executive committees will decide the matter by a division vote.

Any appeal to the committee's decision could come by court action.

Other action by the Democratic committee likely will include appointment of special committees to handle convention arrangements, housing and credentials for the Sept. 18 state convention in El Paso.

The Republicans' Sept. 18 convention will be in San Antonio.

Signing In At Strip

Ten airplanes, owned and piloted by flying physicians from Texas and New Mexico, were lined up at one time on a strip 30 miles north of Howard County Airport Sunday. Pilots landed, signed in, and then flew in to Howard County. In the background is a communications unit manned by Webb Air Force Base personnel, and an emergency unit of the Civil Defense office of Big Spring. Thirty-five physicians flew in with 23 aircraft.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

Flying Business Picks Up At Howard County Airport

By M. A. WEBB

The flying business has been extra good this week around Howard County Airport, Ted McClung said Thursday. A lot of gasoline has been pumped into tanks of those making long trips and stopping over.

A partial list of those using the airport for business, pleasure, or service, last week shows: Texas Electric Service Co. D-18; Technical representatives of equipment installed for Webb Air Force Base (Deloy J. White and C. B. Beckley) in a Comanche from North Hollywood, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. H. H.

Rhoads, Pebble Beach, Calif., refueling on way to National Intercollegiate Golf Tournament where their son is playing; Alamo Aviation, San Antonio, business; Leach Equipment Co., in Twin Beech; John Henry, spray pilot, spent night; Elmer Lee Barnett, refrigeration service; Autonetics, division of North American Aviation, Downey, Calif., in helicopter; Jack Henderson, Thomas Partnership; Atmar Atkinson, Lubbock architect, two days; Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Steinberg of Dallas on way to El Paso.

Aero Club aircraft have been busy this week with a couple of cross country flights registered.

Big Spring Flying Club, Inc. members using the Colt during the week were: Don Fuller (2), Joe Clark, O. C. Lewis (3), Garland Sanders, Dr. Clyde Thomas, Dr. M. A. Porter (3), John Stanley (3), Charles Neefe (3), Ralph Rogers, Bill Wilson.

Incidentally John Stanley did his soloing Wednesday morning. "I made three of the best landings I've ever been able to make," he said Wednesday night. "I think I've finally got that thing whipped."

Webb Aero Club members working out in their three aircraft were: Colt — Bradshaw, Weismantel, E. Jones, Leach, McMillon (3); Cessna — McMillon (3), Archuleta, Marks (2), McIntire (cross country), Steir (2); Tri-Pacer — Hanson, McMillon, Williamson, and Bradshaw (cross country).

The Big Spring Flying Club is stepping up its expansion drive to build membership up to two units and to purchase a second airplane (four place).

The physicians fly-in and mobilization held nationally was a success, with one of the 15 designated fields being Howard County Airport. A strip on the Anderson ranch about 30 miles north of Big Spring was used as a touch-down strip for signing in. Only the co-pilots of the strip were furnished pilots and a few were not quite up to that kind of flying. Most of the doctors landed at the strip.

The old surplus helicopter which was taken to the airport from WAFB last spring, is finally being dismantled. The "chopper" was bought for parts by a Dallas firm.

COL. STAPP TALKS

Pilots Called To Preparedness

People live by what they stand for. Col. John Paul Stapp told 44 student pilots at graduation ceremonies for class 62-G Friday evening at Webb AFB.

Col. Stapp, once termed the "fastest man on earth" for his sid rocket experiments, declared that the distinguishing difference in people, apart from mere existence, was in terms of what they stand for, and that "you live and are prepared to die for your country and what it stands for."

The graduation, he added, was not to celebrate learning to fly, but in "recognition in attaining enough proficiency to wear wings. You will be learning how to fly for the remainder of your career."

"I exhort you to carry on the duties of your career to the best of your abilities. Be prepared to meet emergencies when they come. We live in troubled times without knowing what will follow from day to day, moment to moment. Be prepared to live and, if necessary, to die resolutely for your country."

To 2nd Lt. George F. Goodall, native of Harvard, Ill. went the title of Distinguished Graduate. In addition to this award, he also received the Commander's Trophy. A letter signed by Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, ATC commander, praised Goodall for displaying a high degree of ability, initiative and other leadership qualities so essential to the performance of duty as an Air Force officer.

Of the 44 graduates, 5 were German students.

The graduates were Captains Robert W. Buck Jr., William J. Ludwig, Bruce A. Nagle, 1st Lt. David F. Sweeney, 2nd Lt. Larry Burke, Andrew N. Childers, Richard C. Clauson, James W. Damschroder, Edsel J. DeVille, and James J. Downs.

Also 2nd Lt. Bobby J. Easterwood, Jack I. Ester, George F. Goodall, Billy J. Gough, Thomas F. Green, Larry D. Hampton, Gaylord V. Hayden, Phillip L. Hayden, Gary L. Heartsill and James C. Hull.

Also 2nd Lt. William E. Jacobs, Cecil D. Johnson, Gene D. Kelly, Thomas B. Kempster, Wayne G. Kenney, Ralph E. Kincaid Jr., Richard D. Knox, Herbert F. Kracker, James M. Lacy and Donald E. Linenberger.

Delegates are Charley Thompson, chairman, A. O. McCleod, G. D. Foster, Leo Ellis, R. H. Ratliff, J. R. Fuller, Frank Kelley, R. E. Gregory Jr., Mrs. James E. Payne and Eldon Mahon. Ten alternates were selected.

list, who played a concerto with the local band as accompaniment when he appeared here last March on the concert series. At that time he had high words of praise for the band.

The Chamber of Commerce is still looking for entries in the contest to pick a slogan for Big Spring. Why don't you try your hand at it. Some three score have so far.

Speaking of the Chamber, Manager Carroll Davidson has a letter from Robert G. McCreery, Manhattan, N. Y., a vice president of the Fruit of the Loom Company. He wants to get his hands on a carved or stuffed road runner, preferably 4 1/2 inches in height. "It would," he said, "make a real conversation piece." Anybody got any old chaparrals around the place?

Capt. Paul R. Baker, who lists Big Spring as his permanent residence, was honored by the Air Force last week in Washington, D. C. When he was presented with the Koren Kolligan Jr. award. This was in recognition of an extraordinary bit of flying which prevented an aircraft accident when a big bird slammed through his windshield with explosive force.

The week brought wind and a lot of blustery weather. A few thunderstorms in the area were widely scattered and for the most part ineffectual in providing urgently needed moisture. The cloud banks were never really massive enough to provide widespread activity. Meanwhile the wind got hung on a blowing cycle out of the south and southwest. It can't rain until the wind stops blowing from that direction, and the wind won't stop blowing until it rains. So there you are.

Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil Co. No. 1 Spears continued trying for production as a discovery in the Canyon reef three miles northwest of Coahoma. This is near a Wichita - Albany or Abo reef discovery recently. Another test, T&P No. 1 Loveless, tested an unidentified zone at 4,050 feet without results.

Col. John Paul Stapp, who addressed the Webb AFB graduating class Friday evening, told this story. About the time he was much in the news for his experiments in accelerating and decelerating at many times the force of gravity on his rocket sled at Holloman AFB, N. M., one of his commanders blocked experiment after experiment. "I'm sticking my neck out on you," his superior said. "If anything happens to you I'll never get my star."

Back from a historical marker survey meeting in McCamey, local representatives are enthused about the possibility of our "big spring" site qualifying for one of these markers. As a watering place for Indians and buffaloes and the point at which the Comanche trail forked, it ought to be a natural.

Never has our city had quite such an array of congressional and military personalities as Friday when a party disembarked from an Air Force plane here to go to Colorado City where Rep. George Mahon was honored. With our congressman were Secretary of Air Force Eugene Zuckert, Rep. W. R. Poage, Rep. Melvin Laird, Rep. Harold Ostertag, Rep. Graham Purcell, former Big Spring resident, Maj. Gen. Glenn Martin, Maj. Gen. Jack Merrell, and Lt. Gen. James Briggs.

As a fledgling congressman, Rep. Purcell said he was impressed by the calibre and the intense seriousness of the vast majority of the representatives. Most of them are doing their dead level best to do a good job for their nation and their constituents, he said.

blissings to resolutions lauding leadership within the party but collectively cast a suspicious eye at a proposal made from the floor to oppose any move to have the U.S. armed forces placed under one "world" or regional authority.

President John F. Kennedy, Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson, U.S. Senator Ralph Yarborough and County Democratic Chairman Frank Hardesty all came in for unstinted praise in the adopted resolutions.

The delegates also voted to petition the State Legislature to dissolve the State Textbook Committee and campaign for the proposed Texas Constitutional amendment which would vote equal rights to women.

The meeting, which lasted slightly over an hour, took place in the district court room at the courthouse.

Hardesty was named permanent chairman of the convention shortly after it opened while Mrs. Lonnie Griffith was elected to the post of convention secretary.

Ed Carpenter was then appointed chairman of the credentials committee; Walter Schattel, chairman of the delegates committee, and Frank Parker, chairman of the resolutions committee.

The John Birch Society was denounced in a resolution adopted without a dissenting vote.

When the resolution proposing that the delegates oppose any plan to place the armed forces under a "world" or regional government, such as the NATO, the proposal was voted on within each precinct delegation and then tabled — amid mutterings that said proposal smacked too much of "birth tactics."

Hardesty ultimately was named chairman of the 23-person delegation to the State Democratic Convention, which takes place in El Paso, Sept. 18.

Others named were Frank Parker, vice chairman; A. G. Goodson, John Wallace, Ed Carpenter, Frank Goodman, Wayne Basden, Mrs. Ray Bedford, Walter Schattel, C. L. Gooch, A. E. Suggs, Mrs. Martin Blinder, Floyd Young, Halverd Hansen, S. P. Corcoran, D. A. Brazel, S. E. Johnson, L. R. Mundt, Mae Darrow, L. A. Griffith, W. D. Berry, John Roemer and Roscoe Cone.

Alternate delegates named included: W. C. Blankenship, Dr. W. A. Hunt, Cecil Rorden, R. H. Weaver, Elmer Tarbox, Letha Blair, Frank Sabbath, Mrs. T. G. Harvell, Mrs. L. A. Griffith and Doug Warren.

King-Sized Ship

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The Esso Spain Tanager, the biggest cargo vessel ever built in Europe, was launched Saturday at the Howaldt shipyards.

The Esso Spain displaces about 83,000 tons and is 882 feet long. The ship was ordered by the Standard Tankers Co., Ltd., of the Bahamas.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The United States is ready to give a second astronaut into orbit. Here is a picture of Malcolm Scott Carpenter's daring mission.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Lean, handsome Malcolm Scott Carpenter is about to embark on a journey of daunters and fascinations of which are known to only three men — a pulsating orbit ride more than 100 miles above the earth.

If the present schedule holds, Carpenter, outfitted in a silver space suit, will ride an elevator to the 11th level of a red and white rocket service tower on Pad 14 early next Saturday morning.

He will wiggle into a cramped space capsule—which he personally has named "Aurora 7"—and sometime between 7 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. he will be shot into space by an Atlas missile.

Truck Driver Dies Of Attack

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Deane L. Carlson, 43, of Colorado City, died following a heart attack Friday afternoon while driving just south of Marlow, Okla. He was a truck driver for the Petroleum Distributing Co. of Houston.

Mr. Carlson was taken to a hospital in Marlow and was pronounced dead on arrival.

He was born June 7, 1918 at Bay City, Mich. and lived in Sweetwater prior to moving here in 1947. He was a veteran of World War II and belonged to the Southside Baptist Church.

Funeral will be Monday at 10:30 a.m. at the Southside Baptist Church, with the pastor, Rev. George Shoff, officiating. Burial will be in the Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

Survivors include his widow, three daughters, LaVerne, Glenda Lee and Brenda Sue, all of the home; four brothers and three sisters, all living in Michigan.

Colorado Man Dies In Crash

LAMESA (SC) — Guyon Dale Wheeler, 26, Climax, Colorado, died following an automobile accident Saturday while he was on his way to Midland to spend the Mother's Day weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wheeler.

His wife, Sandra, 26, is in Medical Arts Hospital here with a broken wrist, cuts and abrasions. She is not considered seriously injured. Their three-year-old son, Corky, was not injured.

Wheeler apparently died instantly when his car collided with an oil field truck driven by Richard W. Hagan Jr. The accident occurred about 11:05 a.m. on State Highway 349, about 13 miles south of Lamesa, in the city limits of Patricia.

The Wheeler vehicle was traveling south at the time of the crash. The car traveled 130 feet from the point of impact, but it did not overturn. It was demolished.

This is Dawson County's third traffic fatality of the year. Funeral arrangements are pending at Higginbotham Funeral Home in Lamesa.

Mitchell GOP

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County Republicans adopted six resolutions in line with party policies Saturday morning at the Republican Convention attended by 22 persons.

Bob Robinson was elected chairman of the group. Don Butler was voted secretary and Martin Weaver treasurer. Two delegates were not selected.

GOP In Harmony On Resolutions

Howard County Republicans in their county convention Saturday morning passed a resolution demanding that the charter of the United Nations be rewritten to obligate all member nations to pay their full share financially for its support.

This resolution was one of a number the convention adopted in a short but harmonious meeting. Twenty-five Republicans were on hand for the meeting.

Ralph Gossett, elected in last Saturday's primary as county chairman, took over after Ralph Hughes, retiring chairman, had opened the meeting, Mrs. M. A. Porter was elected as permanent secretary.

The convention elected Gossett, James Cape, Ralph McLaughlin, John Currie and O. C. Craig as official delegates to the state Republican convention to be held Sept. 18 in Fort Worth. Alternates are Grant Boardman, Glen Plez, Al Milch, Truman Jones and Dr. M. A. Porter.

By request, the convention recognized Rich Anderson of Borden County as that county's official delegate and Mrs. Anderson as its alternate.

Larry Wall was chairman of the committee on delegates. Other resolutions approved by the group for submission at the state convention included one which presses for victory over Communism and an end to its program of world domination.

Another resolution called for the United States Department of Agriculture to gradually increase acreage allotments and marketing quotas while gradually reducing the level of price supports. Ultimate goal, it was said, was restoration of agriculture to the market regulated economy that "created the greatest nation on earth."

The resolution suggests that the controls must be removed within 6 years. Another resolution opposes the encroachment of federal government into fields occupied by free enterprise.

The convention went on record as favoring the Byrd-Bridges Amendment to the Constitution to make a balanced federal budget mandatory except in war or other times of emergency.

The body endorsed a plan to block further preemption of state laws by federal laws. It also endorsed HR 2030 which proposes across the board reductions in tax scales, both individual and business.

The final resolution called for a return to the principles enunciated by two Democrats — Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson. "Jefferson's admonition 'that government is best which governs least' was applauded as was Wilson's statement 'The history of Liberty is the history of limitation of governmental power — not the increase of it.'"

Minor Fire Runs

Firemen were called out to two minor fires Saturday afternoon, one the second trip to the site that day.

At the rodeo grounds a grass fire was started about 2 p.m. by an electrical line. Firemen had extinguished a blaze there about 10 a.m. Saturday.

Another grass fire, on a vacant lot at 424 Edwards, caused no damage. Its cause was said to be burning trash.

Bank Stolen

A thief walked away with $11.50 and a bank to carry it in from the home of Robert J. Degarmo, 608 Settles. Degarmo told police the "piggy" bank was in the form of a book. Time of the occurrence was not given.

Forrest Richard Murphy, 700 E. 12th, and Harold Lloyd Bell, 2402 Allendale Drive, were drivers of cars which collided at Eighteenth and Goliah Saturday about 9:15 a.m.

Three accidents in which there were no injuries occurred Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. Two collisions occurred within 10 minutes shortly after noon Friday. At the corner of Eighth and Aylford, Eddie Dean Thomas, 504 E. 16th, was involved in a one-car accident. A 1934 Sycamore, the vehicle of Norma Gene Golding, 1217 Sycamore, was in collision with a parked car belonging to J. T. Anderson.

Forrest Richard Murphy, 700 E. 12th, and Harold Lloyd Bell, 2402 Allendale Drive, were drivers of cars which collided at Eighteenth and Goliah Saturday about 9:15 a.m.

Hearings May Fix Future Of The U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Court starts hearings Monday in a case which could have a major impact on the future of the United Nations.

The case, on sharing costs of its Congo and Middle East operations bears directly on the U.N. struggle to keep aloft financially and pay for future peacekeeping forces.

Indirectly, it could lead toward loss by Communist countries of their vote in the U.N. General Assembly and affect the congressional prospects of President Kennedy's disputed $100-million U.N. bond request.

U.S. statisticians figure that with a favorable court ruling and the bond plan in effect, the Soviets will lose their General Assembly vote by 1964 unless they switch tactics and pay their full U.N. assessments plus another $9 million of arrears.

The State Department has assigned its top lawyer, legal adviser Abram Chayes, and his assistant, Stephen M. Schwebel, to present the U.S. argument at the World Court's seat at The Hague.

Lined up with similar views are Australia, Canada, Iran, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and Britain.

OPONENTS

The opponents include a mixture of Reds like the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia on the one hand, and non-Reds like France, Upper Volta, Spain, Portugal and South Africa on the other. France contends the issue is political and thus not for the court to decide.

The 15-man tribunal—known officially as the International Court of Justice—is expected to listen to renowned barristers on the case for a week or two, then deliberate and hand down a ruling before going into summer recess a couple months hence.

The question at issue has been put to the court by the General Assembly itself for an advisory opinion on whether the U.N. Congo and Middle East costs are expenses of the organization within the meaning of the U.N. charter Article 17, and thus binding on all U.N. members.

Article 17 says the expenses of the organization shall be borne by the members as apportioned by the General Assembly.

FINANCES AT STAKE The question is important because it strikes to the heart of Secretary-General U. Thant's plan to revive U.N. finances. The world organization is broke because the Soviet Union, France and some others refused to pay their share of special funds for the peacekeeping operations. The crisis—especially the $10 million a month for the Congo—come to more than the U.N. regular operating budget, to which all members do contribute. The United States has been helping to fill the breach.

Motors Taken Off Crashed Airplane The motors are being removed from the DC-4 which made a crash landing Wednesday afternoon in a plowed field about one mile east of Ackerly, according to Joe Lemon, on whose property the plane landed.

Classified cargo aboard the plane when it crashed was removed earlier and taken to its destination by another Slick Airways plane. The body of the plane is still intact, Lemon said, and has not been notified when it will be moved from the field.

The pilot and co-pilot aboard the craft were not injured. They were going from Dyess Air Force Base, Abilene to Alameda, Calif. and were trying to make an emergency landing at Webb AFB after developing engine trouble.

Blaze Damages Seat Of Auto

A blaze of unknown origin early Saturday morning caused extensive damage to the front seat of a car belonging to Darrell Gaskins, Route 2. The fire occurred at 114 Harding and before firemen were able to put it out, the front seat was a total loss.

Two other minor fires were extinguished. At 2601 Larry, rest-lax Herman Mump, an air conditioner water pump caught fire Friday afternoon but the house was not damaged. A grass fire thought to have been started by burning trash burned harmlessly Saturday, mornning until firemen put out the blaze.

Louisiana Legislature Faces $62 Million Debt

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature prepared for a big fight over how to erase a $62 million deficit in the 60-day session which opens Monday.

Jim Davis, the ballad-singing governor, has been silent on what he proposes to do about the deficit.

A budget study committee of his leaders recommended he forget about any tax raises, judging from the mood of lawmakers and their constituents.

For years, with oil pumping riches into the state, governors and legislatures have turned to tax increases to solve problems, except with the federal government on school segregation and the tidelands.

The unprecedented deficit embarrassed Davis and his administration. For one thing, the size was almost unheard of, and as fiscal officers all along have been predicting everything would be rosy.

Now, a big bond issue has been whispered tied to existing sales taxes. The governor's budget group wants a "crash program" to force oil companies to step up production on state-owned lands.

More than a year ago, Davis summoned five straight special sessions in a vain effort to block school desegregation in New Orleans and raise sales taxes with segregation as the keystone. The governor seems far more interested now in persuading President Kennedy to grant Louisiana a tidelands boundary settlement.

Once the government and the state agree where Louisiana should make its coastline, the state might snatch a share of some $450 million in oil revenues from the disputed offshore zone. The government holds that money in an escrow fund.

ORGANIZATIONS COULD HELP Equipment Needed To Help Crippled

Want to help provide some equipment that will facilitate the treatment of crippled children and adults?
A list of items that can be put to good use is presented herewith, as compiled by Jim Thompson, therapist at the Howard County Rehabilitation (Crippled Children's) Center.
The Center itself, while it has done very well due to the generosity of many organizations and individuals, does not have money immediately budgeted to buy the items. Directors thought that perhaps some organizations or groups would want to "sponsor" some of the needed equipment. If some help can be given, persons are asked to call either Sam Anderson, superintendent of schools, who is president of the Center, or Dr. F. W. Lutting, chairman of the operations committee.
Here are the items that would go a long way toward helping in the treatment, and the approximate cost of each:

Intermittent traction unit, $95; forearm crutches, pair, for child, $19.50; forearm crutches, pair, for adult, $27.50; tricep crutches, pair, for child, $21.00; revolving stool on casters (used in gait training for children), $24.00; splints to help determine need for bracing, $51.00; additional accessories for electrical stimulator, $25.00; additional weights for exercise table, $15.00. The whole lot comes to $505.50.
The Center's patient load has grown tremendously in the 11 months that it has been operating under the present setup. Total number of patients who have received physical therapy is 109; in addition, there have been 18 speech therapy patients, for a grand total of 127. There currently are 45 active physical therapy patients and 13 speech therapy patients. There were 14 patients a year ago

HCJC Finances Going Well

Receipts for Howard County Junior College have exceeded budget estimates for the year, and expenditures are running evenly with budget estimates.
The April financial statement received by trustees, and which represents eight months of the fiscal year, shows a total of $458,126 in revenues, or approximately $10,000 more than estimated for the year. Most of this is due to higher state subsidy than anticipated, plus increased tuition from higher enrollment.
Expenditures for the eight months period by budget divisions include: Administrative $35,192 (budget for the year $31,809); general $26,640 ($28,218); instructional $134,498 ($153,482); library $14,981 ($20,866); athletic $16,626 ($19,009); plant expense $82,221 ($69,175); student activities $9,114 ($11,600); capital outlay $35,784 ($30,718); fixed charges $7,139 ($7,535); total $332,369. So far, receipts have exceeded disbursements by $118,243 from the general fund. During the year $17,500 in principal and $12,253 in interest have been applied to debt service. The interest and sinking fund is carrying a balance of $70,023 at this stage.

Y Makes Plans For Day Camp Program

City Park and the old Klowa and Comanche Indian Camp grounds will once again team with youthful braves while two YMCA Indian Day Camps are conducted there this summer.
A day camp for girls at Birdwell Park will alternate with that offered for boys. The camps will be for children in grades 1-6.
The Indian Day Camp is divided into two sessions. The first session June 11-22 is for grades 1-3. The second session July 9-20 is for grades 4-6.
Living in the great outdoors for two weeks the youngsters will swim, play games, hike, camp and learn of Indian lore. Daily devotions, a family picnic and an overnight campout with Dad is included.
Each session costs $15 for Y members; an additional fee of $5 will be charged for a summer membership for non-members. The fee includes the cost of the noonday dessert and milk, soft drinks, camp shirt, insurance, craft supplies, swimming and transportation.
Campers will meet at the Y each morning at 8 a.m. and go by bus to the site. The bus will return the campers to the Y at 4 p.m. A special trip will be made by the boys to the Y's Men's camp site at Moss Creek Lake.
The Girls Day Camp is similar to the one for the boys in that there will be cook-outs, crafts, games, swimming, stories, a family picnic and an over-night slumber party at the Y.
This will be conducted in Birdwell Park, adjacent to the Y building and all special activities and swimming will be at the Y. Dates are June 18-29 for grades 1-3 and July 9-20 for grades 4-6.
Each session costs $13.50, or $1.35 a day. Non-members will be eligible by taking out a summer membership for $5.
Parents are assured that their children will receive qualified care while in the hands of trained counselors leading the camps. There will be at least one counselor for each 10 persons.
Play clothes should be worn by the children and each day the child should bring to camp a sack lunch, bathing suit and towel which is clearly marked with the owner's name. Toys or other game equipment should not be brought because all recreational activities are planned and the necessary equipment will be supplied.

WHY PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS ARE MORE HELPFUL?

Patent medicines and home remedies can often relieve a temporary, non-recurring symptom. But they can never be really potent because they are made for the average person.

A physician's prescription has the exact dosage your body requires for the physician regulates the amount in proportion to your weight and condition. And, only a physician can diagnose the exact sickness.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

HOT CHECKS

Sheriff Plans Tougher Policy

The honeymoon is over for out of the misdemeanor class. The hot check department will send out notices of the sterner policy to all known offenders.

The felony complaints were filed by the district attorney in the court of Peace Justice Jess Slaughter.

They are against Darrell L. Ferguson, alleging he passed a forged $83 check to Bud Green; B. D. Bennett, charging he gave Jessie Click a forged check for $85; and against William Marx accused of swindle by worthless check. He allegedly gave a bad check to the West Wind Motel.

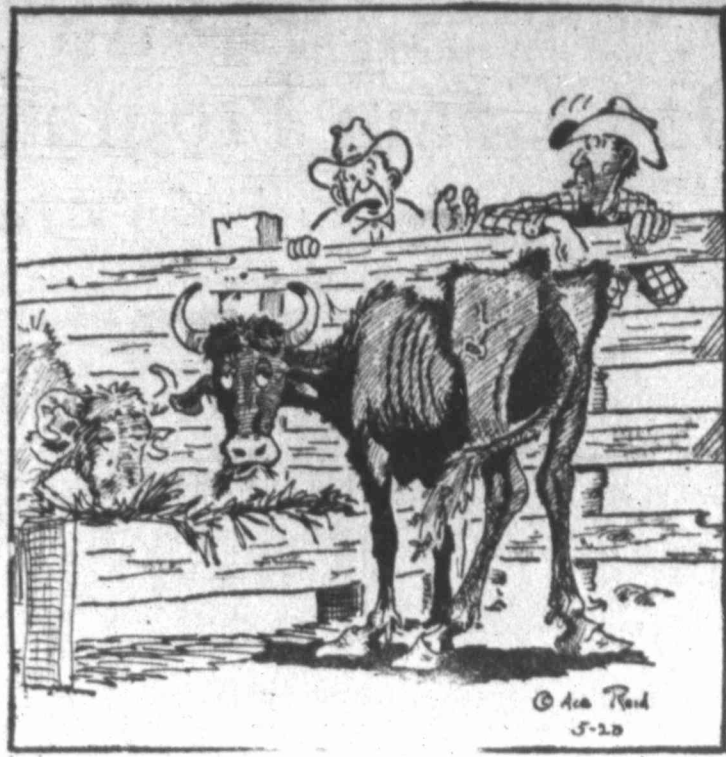

The 14 misdemeanor complaints were placed with the county attorney. Three of the offenders cited are women. Warrants were being prepared against the 14 on Friday afternoon.

He said that 14 check cases against "repeaters" were filed by his check department Friday and that three of these were felonies which will be aired before the grand jury. The others are in Howard County Court.

The check department so far has been lenient, he said, in dealing with the habitual writers of bad checks. From now on, any offender who clears up a bad check and then gets into new trouble by writing another will face charges in the county court, if the offense is a misdemeanor, or in the district court if the check is a forgery or otherwise

Cold Vaccine Progress Made

CHICAGO (AP) — Medical research into the common cold has progressed to the point where efforts can be made to develop an effective vaccine, medical scientists have reported.

In an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association, a group of Philadelphia researchers said a virus called coronavirus causes cold symptoms in a fairly large percentage of sufferers.

This new discovery coupled with knowledge of other cold inducing viruses "permits intelligent selection of virus strains for vaccines which, if successful, may control a reasonable portion of the respiratory diseases spectrum," the journal article said.

Landrith, Hodges Clout Home Runs In Met Sweep

NEW YORK (AP)—Ninth inning home runs by Hobie Landrith and Gil Hodges gave the New York Mets a dramatic 3-2 and 8-7 doubleheader sweep over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday. Craig Anderson, pitching in relief, received credit for both triumphs to mark the first time the Mets had ever won two games in one day.

Johnson Retains L'Heavy Crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson speared Doug Jones with an accurate jab and shook up the challenger with quick counterflurries Saturday night to hold his 15 points and be high man of a light heavyweight title on a unanimous decision in 15 rounds. The bout was marred by fighting after the bell in at least three rounds.

Sterling County Gets Wichita-Albany Test

Exploratory drilling in Sterling County is keeping up a full head of steam with another new wildcat about to test the Wichita-Albany about three miles south of Sterling City.

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., and Jones and Lyon have contracted the No. 1 E. R. Foster to 5,000 feet in an attempt to pick up the narrow formation where it threads through the county around the edges of the Midland Basin. The venture is C SE NE, section 30-12, SPRR survey. It is about three-fourths mile south of the shallow Durham field.

Amerada has scheduled one Howard-Glasscock field project to be worked over and another for deeper drilling. Both are in the Howard County portion of the field.

The No. 22 Dora Roberts, spotting C NF SE SE, section 12B-29, W&N survey, is to be worked over to a total depth of 1,400 feet by cable tool. The site is on a 240-acre lease about two miles east of Forsan.

The No. 6 Dora Roberts will be drilled deeper to 1,400 feet by rotary tool. It spots C SW SE, section 12B-29, W&N survey, on a 240-acre lease about two miles east of Forsan.

Abel and Bancroft No. 1 T. J. Cole, a Howard County wildcat, is making hole below 7,200 feet. It is projected to 8,000 feet for tests of the Strawn. Location is C NW SE, section 12-26, H&TC survey, about three-fourths mile southeast of Vincent.

Sand Control Agent May Help Producers

HOUSTON (AP)—Scientists for Continental Oil Co. say they have developed a new oil well sand control agent and system that may save the oil industry millions.

It is called "permatol" and uses a blend of chemicals that sets and serves as a permeable barrier against one of the oil man's biggest and costliest headaches—sand moving into a producing well.

The chemicals are mixed at the surface in a slurry form and pumped into the well to a desired downhole depth. Dr. M. L. Sharrah, manager of Conoco's Research and Development Department in Ponca City, Okla., said. After a 24 to 72 hour waiting period, the slurry sets, holding the sand and allowing the oil to filter through, he said.

He said the agent may be used in building tennis courts that have no drainage problems, for filter beds, firebrick and foundry moldings.

"The sand problem increases production costs because it places higher economic limits on wells, requires more expensive downhole equipment to reduce sand influx and causes equipment to erode," Sharrah said.

He said permatol can be tailored to meet any well conditions when the bottom-hole temperature is above 80 degrees.

Basin Drilling Takes Drop Of 10 Per Cent

Rotary drilling in the Permian Basin fell almost 10 per cent during the week, dropping to 209 active rigs compared with 232 a week ago. The figure was also down from the 224 marked up at this time last year.

Lea County, N. M., with 36 rotary rigs making hole, continued to lead the Permian Basin Empire, according to Friday's Reed Roller Bit Company survey. Other more active counties included Ector 14, Pecos 13 and Andrews 11.

The area's eight counties also dipped slightly, going from 23 units a week ago to 26 on Friday's report. Dawson County, with six rigs, dropped one during the week, and Sterling County went from two units to one.

Howard County paced the area with nine rigs. Remaining unchanged were Borden 2, Garza 1, Glasscock 1, Martin 3 and Mitchell 3.

The county-by-county survey, with the previous week's totals in parenthesis, follows:

Andrews 11 (9), BORDEN 2 (9), Brewster 1 (1), Chaves 1 (1), Cochran 2 (3), Coke 5 (4), Concho 2 (2), Crane 11 (12), CROCKETT 7 (5), Crosby 2 (0), Culberson 1 (2), DAWSON 6 (7), Ector 14 (15), Eddy 4 (8), Gaines 5 (6), GARZA 1 (1), GLASSCOCK 1 (1), HOCKLEY 2 (4), HOWARD 9 (9), Irion 1 (0), Kent 2 (2), Lea 36 (48), Loving 1 (2), Lynn 1 (1), Lubbock 1 (1), MARTIN 3 (3), Midland 6 (7), MITCHELL 3 (3), Nolan 5 (2), Pecos 13 (16), Presidio 1 (1), Reeves 3 (3), Roosevelt 6 (5), Rounsell 3 (2), Scurry 4 (8), Scheiwer 0 (2), STERLING 1 (2), Stenwall 1 (2), Sutton 1 (0), Terry 2 (2), Terrell 4 (4), Upton 7 (7), Val Verde 2 (2), Ward 8 (9), Winkler 7 (7) and Yoakum 2 (4).

TIPRO To Make Decisions On Imports And Spacing

HOUSTON (AP)—Policy decisions on imports and a controversial well spacing dispute will be made by Texas Independent Operators this week.

The three-day meeting of the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO) begins Thursday.

The well spacing dispute probably will produce heated debate. Officials of TIPRO have endorsed an amendment that would have President Kennedy's new trade expansion act spell out a formula that would reduce current oil imports about 250,000 barrels a day.

Texas oil operators, large and small, are in a rather hot argument over proper spacing regulations for oil and gas wells.

The dispute involves the practice of permitting any landowner to drill for oil or gas even if his land holdings amount to nothing more than a town lot of about one-fifth of an acre.

Two court decisions in 15 months have discouraged small tract drilling in favor of conventional spacing patterns ranging from one oil well to 40 acres and one gas well to 120 acres or more.

Until a year ago TIPRO championed small tract drilling. The 1961 convention modified the traditional policy a bit to pledge aid "in any manner possible in any effort the Railroad Commission may make to correct inequities by drilling on tracts smaller, than proration units."

The state's oil and gas regulatory body currently is considering several cases resulting from the two court decisions which, in effect, have said small tract drilling is contrary to sound conservation practices.

The dispute continues, however, with TIPRO members quite active on both sides.

TIPRO members were very active in the February organization of the state-wide committee for equitable development of oil and gas resources. The committee avoids reference to small tract drilling but has been very active, behind the scenes, in supporting 1962 state legislative candidates who favor conventional spacing patterns.

Other TIPRO members have been active in the organization of a small tract group—the Texas Landowners Independent Oil and Gas Producers Association.

ADDs MANAGER Cosden Expands Market Program Of Polystyrene

With the launching of an expanded chemicals and plastics marketing program, Cosden Petroleum Corp. has announced the promotion of William R. Claypool to polystyrene sales manager and the addition of Vincent I. Purcell to the sales staff.

Paul D. Meek, manager of the chemical department at Cosden, made the announcement. Cosden is a subsidiary of W. R. Grace and Co.

Claypool will direct the efforts of the polystyrene field sales force. For the past year he has been sales manager for the central region. A native Pennsylvanian, he holds a bachelor's degree in biological sciences from the University of Pittsburgh and is affiliated with the Society of Plastics Engineers.

Purcell will be based at Cuyahoga Falls as district manager of the Ohio area. He is a chemistry graduate of Pennsylvania State College and has been associated with the Celanese Corp. of America and, more recently, Duracore Corp. He is a member of Cleveland Chemical Salesmen's Club.

The eastern territory is covered by Paul V. Ames, district manager, and Richard Cordasco, working out of New York. Cordasco joined Cosden last fall after a nine-year tenure as special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Product manager Tom Brydon maintains liaison between the field organization and operating groups at Big Spring.

Last year Cosden Petroleum Corp. formed its wholly-owned subsidiary, Cosden Petrochemical Corp. in New York, N. Y. Headed by Franklin E. Eck, it acts as an advisor for plastics and chemical marketing.

ACS Schedules Polymer Talk Affiliate Formed

Dr. J. R. Van Wazer, with the Research and Engineering Division of Monsanto Chemical Co., St. Louis, Mo., is scheduled as guest speaker for a meeting Wednesday of the Permian Basin Section of the American Chemical Society.

He will take up "Inorganic Polymers" for his talk. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. following a 7 p.m. dinner at the Town Plaza Motor Inn at Midland.

Various classifications of inorganic polymers will be reviewed. Dr. Van Wazer will emphasize the difference between inorganic polymers held together by labile bonds and those whose bonds are stable. Much money is being spent on the synthesis of inorganic polymers in hopes that materials resistant to extremely high temperatures can be developed.

Dr. Van Wazer received his bachelor's degree from Northwestern University and a master's and doctorate from Harvard. He has worked with Eastman Kodak Co., Rumford Chemical Works, Great Lakes Carbon Corp. and Monsanto.

46 Gas Wells Completed Meeting Speaker

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission reported 204 oil and 89 gas well completions during the past week.

The oil completions brought the 1962 total to 3,642 compared to 3,329 completions for 1961. Gas wells completed this year total 1,264, compared to 1,044.

Seven wildcat oil wells were reported, 46 gas wildcats and 52 dry holes.

The total calendar day allowable as of May 12 was 2,736,268 barrels, an increase of 4,066.

The appointment of Walter L. Thayer as special assistant in the sales and customer service division of Dick Evans, Inc., Pampa, has been announced by Dick Evans, president.

Thayer was with Dun and Bradstreet, Inc. for 11 years as reporting service and office manager. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

Thayer and his wife, Billie Marie, and their two daughters will make their home in Pampa.

Liquid Hydrocarbons Competitor Of Oil

HOUSTON (AP)—Domestic oil operators who are worrying about imports have a rather ambitious competitor right in their own oil and gas fields.

Liquid hydrocarbons processed from natural gas claim a larger volume of the domestic energy market.

Domestic natural gas liquids and oil imports have enjoyed healthy growth rates since 1956 but domestic crude output has shown only a minor gain.

Excluding heavy fuel oil, imports jumped 254,000 barrels a day or 25 per cent between 1956 and the end of 1961. Natural gas liquids output in the United States 308,000 barrels a day or 42 per cent.

Domestic crude production meanwhile moved from 7,151,000 barrels a day in 1956 to only 7,183,000 in 1961.

Imports and gas liquids had a combined growth of 562,000 barrels daily compared to only 32,000 for domestic crude production. Had all the markets captured by this growth gone to crude oil, crude producers still would have had to adjust their operations to a slower rate of demand growth.

A gain of 562,000 barrels daily in crude production between 1956 and 1961 instead of 32,000 would have been a seven per cent gain. This would have been less than half the growth recorded the preceding six-year period. Domestic crude output increased 16 per cent between 1951 and the end of 1957. The year 1956 has special significance in that independent operators contend the ratio of im-

He is Fred H. Moore, now a director and vice president of Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc. and president of Mobil Oil Co.

FELONY IN THE FOREST

SMOKEY talks a lot about forest fires started by carelessness. What you don't hear so much about are the forest fires that are set, on purpose, by your neighbors.

Surely, you say, nobody I know would do a thing like that! But you're wrong. One out of every four forest fires, nationwide, is classed as INCENDIARY!

Even though the wilful forest fire problem is greatest in the South and the East, no part of the Country is free of it. You should know that the malicious woods burner robs you, wherever you live!

- Do you want to help solve this serious problem? Here's what you can do:
1. Check with your local forest officers on the problem in your area.
 2. Support your law enforcement officers.
 3. Let your judicial and legislative servants know how you feel.

The family will attend First Christian Church this morning.

A TRIPLE TREAT to Mrs. Harvey Hooser when she goes to church accompanied by her three children, Danny, 11; Patricia, 10, and Leanna, seven.

For Special Mothers

HONORS ARE bestowed lovingly this day upon all mothers. Mom is the parent who tends the house, makes the meals, dries the tears, tapes the wounds, mends the rips, and generally makes things all right at home. She scolds, cuddles, spansks and kisses; she repairs toys, plays a fair game of ball and occasionally comes up with the right answers in homework. A versatile and fiercely devoted personality, Mom is the answer to every child's prayers. Lucky are the once-motherless ones who have been taken to the bosom of a mother who has longed for children in the home. This Mom is special, giving of herself to make a rich, and full life for her chosen children, and by the same token earning unto herself the love and devotion which can come only from the heart of a child. Through one another, their needs are fulfilled. Here are a few of these mutually fortunate children and mothers as they prepare to attend their churches today.

LUNCH WITH MOM during the noon hour is fun for Leah Lea, left, and Clarinda Sarah, right. Mom is Mrs. T. A. Harris, and home is at 505 Nolan. Both girls, pupils at Boydston School, are nine years old and in the fourth grade.

Since their birth, which was only six weeks apart, Leah and Clarinda have belonged to the Harris. Mrs. Harris will be accompanied by her daughters when attending the Northside Church of Christ this morning.

Wispy White Wears Well,

White leather will be just the right frosting for feminine shoe wardrobes this summer.

In leather shoes, white is the ideal footnote for any summer outfit. It underlines the cool, summery white ensemble or sets off dresses and suits in bright garden colors. The budget-wise shopper gets wide wardrobe coverage from several pairs of carefully selected white shoes in differing leathers.

Of all white leather shoes, the most versatile this season is the spectator - available in a variety of shapes, heel heights, toe treatments and leather textures. In addition to smooth, grained and brushed leathers, spectators are seen in shiny easy-to-clean patent leather. Washable white polished or grained leather is cleaned with a moistened sponge and some soap.

Those who wish to enter the nine-hole flight must register no later than today. Others may register on May 15.

An awards party for Ringer and Club tournaments is scheduled for May 19. A feature of the party, from 10 until 11:30 a.m. will be a showing of sportswear by Margie's Dress Shop.

A Couples Handicap invitation, including buffet, is planned for Sunday, May 20. Golfers are asked to arrange now for their partners. A number of out of town guests are expected to participate.

Friday, June 1, is the day set for beginning the Junior Ringer tournament. On Tuesday, June 5, a Ladies One-Day invitation will take place along with a punch party.

Mrs. Jones has also reported that the LGA of the club has been accepted for membership in the Permian Basin Women's Golf Association. The PBWG meetings are held each third week of each month on Ladies Day at the host club.

Other member clubs are Sunset Country Club at Odessa, Odessa CC, Midland CC, Ranchland Hills and Andrews CC. The May meeting will be held at Odessa CC on Friday, May 18. The June meeting for golfers is slated for June 12, according to Mrs. Jones.

Eyes On Mother

Mrs. Kenneth Pace is very lucky to be the mother of two daughters as pretty and helpful to her as Cynthia, shown on the left, and Carole. Today, Mother's Day, Mrs. Pace reigns as a queen, honored by both her daughters and her husband, who was unable to be home when the picture was made.

Paces Are Keeping In Pace With Big Spring

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pace and their two daughters, eight-year-old Cynthia Ann and five-year-old Carole, are newcomers, but they have fallen quickly into the pattern of typical Big Springers. Anyone would think that they have lived here for a long time.

The Paces, anxious to make friends in their new home, believe that the best place to meet people is at church. The family united with the First Baptist Church shortly after moving here.

Pace was in business for himself in Paris, Texas before coming to Big Spring as the assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce. A business major, he graduated from Baylor University in 1955. He and Mrs. Pace were married for five years before he decided to go to college. During most of his college years, he worked in the daytime and went to school at night. Mrs. Pace, a registered nurse and graduate of Providence Hospital School of Nursing in Waco, worked to hurry the process.

Pace is spending much of his time tacking his new job. He is a member of the Toastmasters Club and Jaycees, and he is a Mason. Both he and Mrs. Pace enjoy bowling, fishing and outdoor barbecues. Mrs. Pace says that although she is afraid of water, her husband is very good at it.

Mrs. Pace says that she is happy in Big Spring and finds the townspeople considerate in all respects. Presently, she is not working as an RN, but she has indefinite plans to return to her profession after Carole starts to school. However, days are not idle ones. Managing a spacious and pretty home requires part of her day and she is "forever transporting the girls from one place to another" in what she calls "the family taxi." Mrs. Pace has not joined any clubs or organizations other than her church. She has been too busy getting her family settled in their new surroundings. When she lived in Paris, she was a member of the P-TA and pre-school P-TA.

Cynthia and Carole find life in Big Spring very pleasant. Before leaving Paris, however, they were not certain that they would like their new home. Their parents had told them that they could bring their six-month old bird dog, Charlie, with them provided that their new yard was fenced. Carole was especially happy to learn that Charlie would be able to come along to Big Spring, because he is her constant companion while Cynthia is in school.

Mrs. Pace says that Carole is "quite the tomboy," and that her imagination is so vast that she seems to "wake up in a new world every morning." Cynthia, who is in the second grade, is making new friends at school and is busy learning the different methods of arithmetic and reading.

She is also active in the Brownies.

Mrs. Bolton Does Yoga At Age 76

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Congresswoman from Ohio, Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, is 76 years old and she still does an occasional yoga headstand to keep in shape.

It helps her serenity, a quality that would be sorely needed if the Republicans win control of the House in this year's elections. For in that event she would become chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee.

At an age when most people aren't up to a difficult new job—much less the 108 postures of yoga—Frances Bolton views the prospect with the same calm with which she faced enemy shrapnel in World War II and a charging elephant in Africa in 1955.

A Story Book Romance With A Happy Ending

By The Associated Press

A chance meeting between a stalwart prince and a pretty princess seven years ago will end as a happy story should — in a royal wedding May 14.

Her Royal Highness Princess Sophie of Greece will marry Prince Juan Carlos of Spain in a double wedding ceremony in Athens attended by representatives of every royal house in Europe.

Popular, chestnut-haired Sophie, called "the sad-eyed princess" by European columnists, first met six-foot Juan Carlos de Bourbon while on an Aegean Island cruise organized by her mother, Queen Frederika. She was only 16 then, and he not much older.

The two, who share a love of sailing, met several times later, including in June 1961 when the princess went to England to attend the Duke of Kent's wedding. It was then, according to unconfirmed rumors, that the idea was born to invite Juan Carlos to spend his summer vacation at the Greek royal family's summer palace, Mon Repos, at Corfu.

There last August the prince spent a gay holiday with Sophie, her younger brother and sister, Crown Prince Constantine and Princess Irene. On Sept. 13 in Lausanne the official engagement was announced. Two days later the Greek royal family returned to Greece accompanied by Juan Carlos and his parents, the Count and Countess of Barcelona, pretender to the Spanish throne.

In Madrid close associates of the prince say the match—which began as an arranged affair between two royal houses — blossomed into a real romance which brings a happy blush to Juan Carlos' cheeks when he speaks of his intended bride.

Sophie is a warm attractive girl, tall, slim, gray-blue-eyed and fair-complexioned, with a keen concern for the welfare of the poor. She is particularly interested in babies and small children, and spent two years in full-time training at an Athens nursery school.

She was born in 1938 and three years later the royal family was forced to leave the country when the Nazis invaded and occupied Greece. They lived in South Africa and Egypt during the occupation years.

Upon their return to Greece in 1948, Princess Sophie attended a small school in an Athens suburb founded by her parents.

From 1951 to 1955, in order to broaden her background, Sophie was sent to a school in Salem, Germany. Queen Frederika's brother, Prince George of Hanover, was the headmaster and kept a watchful eye on her. Then Sophie returned to Greece, starting private lessons at home.

From the age of 14, she has accompanied her parents on their journeys into the Greek provinces. She has always taken a keen interest in the many problems facing inhabitants of the rural areas. This can be accredited to her mother, Queen Frederika, who since marrying King Paul in January 1938, has taken a deep interest in helping the peasants.

What's the bridegroom like? Curly-haired Juan Carlos, shy and chain-smoking, has little physical connection with Spanish royalty of the past. He lacks the famous—and formidable—Bourbon nose and he doesn't suffer from hemophilia, the blood disorder that has been the curse of the Bourbons.

Suzy Perette

Fluid princess lines play a most important part in expressing the new feminine fashion image and when they're split to show off a dashing underskirt, as in this graceful Suzy Perette design, they attract all the attention, coming and going. Since the underskirt is attached to its own camisole, it can be topped off by a little overblouse or sweater when it's not co-starting with the tunic. Fitted and curved through the torso, the dress glides into a gentle flare at the hem, its free-swinging panels constantly on the move. Change the look as easily as you change the subject by making the dress in sheer wool, silk or rayon crepe, faille, linen or cotton and the underskirt in either a contrasting fabric, or color, or both. Wool crepe combined with an exciting silk print or plain linen contrasted with a lighter shade or a complementary print are especially effective for this wonderful two-way proposition that skips lightly from a summer day to a party-going evening any season. From these corresponding body measurements, select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that for better ready-to-wear.

Woman's Role Should Contrast With Man's

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—A good-looking psychiatrist named Marie N. Robinson thinks it's high time women were told the truth: They're different from men. They should be educated differently. Their place is in the home.
When she says this, sometimes educators shudder, men rush up to insist their wives are as good as they are and women inquire coldly if she also favors keeping them barefoot and pregnant.
"To acknowledge the difference in sex roles doesn't mean to put women back in the kitchen," Dr. Robinson argues.
"But a woman's historical and biological role is in the home. Her job is keeping the tone of that home happy and loving, interpreting members of the family to each other. This is what we women are uniquely designed for."
"A woman who feels deprived if she can't go out to work every day, who says 'I can't do anything, I have four children to take care of' isn't enjoying the rightful role of women. Our contribution is to set the spiritual tone of the household. Let the men go out and make the money."

Slim, brunette Dr. Robinson, wife of a writer and mother of a 15-year-old son, is the author of "The Power of Sexual Surrender," a study of the frigid woman. Besides maintaining a private practice she is active in community health projects and consequently is not one to point a finger at working wives.
"It pleases me to work during the day," she explains. "We women doctors would rather work than play mah jongg. I'm not minimizing the quality of work. But the kind of anxiety we women bring to it."
"Because a woman's major anxiety is loss of love, Dr. Robinson says, she is more concerned about her home than her job.

"I bring more anxiety to family problems or the kind of dinner I'm going to cook than to my outside work."
She thinks hopefully that the trend is slowly spiraling back toward recognizing the difference between the sexes, but on a higher level of understanding.
"There's a crying need for women's colleges to stop turning into men's schools, says Dr. Robinson.
"Instead, some brave school should stand up and say 'women are different, have God-given gifts, and let's see where a woman's pleasure does come from—from chemistry 203 or from keeping the love level high in a family!'"

Cannonball Retires

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Victoria Zacchini is not the first woman to give up her career for her family.
But how many working wives who plan to devote all their time to a school-age daughter can say that the career they're giving up is that of a human cannonball? Victoria, who is shot from a cannon in the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, is retiring at the end of the 1962 tour. Lora, her 6-year-old daughter, starts to school next fall and Victoria doesn't want to be separated from her.

Until then Victoria and her husband, Walter Patterson, a member of a flying trapeze act, will travel with the circus in their house trailer. Occasionally he joins her for a double shoot from the cannon.

Shortened Hair

"It was horrible seeing myself on the screen for the first time," actress Joan Sandys confesses. She had always been proud of her long hair, which hung to her waist, but after seeing herself on TV, she realized that it threw her whole body out of proportion and had it cut.

Miss Beard Is Honoree For A Morning Affair

mother. Miss Beard chose a yellow silk sheath with which she wore navy accessories and a white carnation corsage. Her mother wore a navy silk suit with a corsage of coral carnations.

Coffee was served from a table centered with a white fountain topped with a pair of turtles and sprays of flowers. Coral carnations were floated in a milk glass bowl surrounded by coral tulle at the base of the fountain. The table was laid with a nylon

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Joan Sandys Advises Using Self-Criticism

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — When Joan Sandys came from London to the U. N. as a court reporter, she had no idea she would become a TV actress. But that's what happened when CBS wanted an authentic court reporter in "The Verdict Is Yours."

"It was horrible seeing myself on the screen for the first time," Joan confessed. "I had long hair down to my waist, and I had always been curiously proud of it. But sitting in front of my TV at home and seeing myself with a new perspective made me realize my hairstyle did nothing for me. In fact, it threw my whole body out of proportion."

"And I had no idea that I was so round shouldered. I started working on my posture immediately," she added.

"Not everyone can see herself as others see her, but a good way to know what needs improvement is to see yourself in a full-length mirror or have someone take a photograph of you. Self-criticism is the most effective method of improving yourself."

As soon as Joan's first baby was born, she started working on her abdominal muscles to regain her figure. Now with another one on the way, she is equally determined to tone her muscles as quickly as possible.

"It is easy to get back to normal if you work with nature. You should help your body return to normal while the elasticity is still in the muscles."

In parting I asked Joan her secret for keeping such a lovely complexion.

"I like to brew tea as a skin tonic," she replied. "It is a natural astringent and agrees with most any type of complexion."

"After I cleanse my face," she continued, "I dip a piece of cotton into lukewarm, unsweetened tea and pat it over my face and neck. It's wonderfully refreshing as compresses for tired eyes. It draws out the sting of fatigue or smog."

Webb Welcomes Visitors Here on Armed Forces Day

Webb AFB will be ready Saturday to welcome area visitors to its observance of Armed Forces Day.

At the same time, there will be a series of flyovers of military aircraft, some originating from Webb and some from other bases.

Required flying schedules are being arranged so that as many as possible will occur on Saturday to focus attention on this special day.

Gates at Webb will be opened at 12:30 p.m. and open house will be observed at 4 p.m., according to an announcement from Col. Wilson H. Banks, wing commander. He added that the base is anxious to have as many visitors as possible.

On the line — the area where planes are parked and serviced — there will be a variety of static displays. In addition, a dozen or more types of aircraft may be on hand for inspection. Spectators also will get to see some of the aircraft at low level on their missions.

Nor will the observance be restricted to Webb, for the routes mapped for missions from Webb during the day will carry different types of planes over identical trails. In turn, flights originating at other bases are destined to pass over Big Spring.

Along the line and in hangars, there will be static displays from the physiological section, including the ejection seat; the chaplain's office; the aero club; recruiting; Red Cross (plus a couple of first aid stations); personal equipment (such as the gear required for pilots); civil service; Civil Defense; etc.

Col. Jack Price is arranging for some of the planes from the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron to be on display. Four of the super-sonic F-102s from the squadron will participate in a flight from Webb.

Among the craft which may be seen in the day are F-11, F9F, H-3 (helicopter), KC-135 (in-flight tanker), F-100, F-102, T-33, T-37, T-38 (the new super-sonic trainer), and probably others.

A salute to the day will begin at 8 a.m. when a flight of four T-37 trainers comes over Big Spring at 1,000 feet altitude en route for a swing over Coahoma, Colorado City, Snyder, Lamesa, Andrews, Odessa, Midland and Stanton. Within 30 minutes four T-33s will fly the same route, followed within 15 minutes by four T-38s. Then at 9 a.m. the 331st FIS, which is part of the Air Defense Command, will send a flight of four delta-wing F-102s over this town.

At 12:30 eight T-37s will swing over Dyess AFB at Abilene and return, and simultaneously four will swing over Laughlin AFB at Del Rio. At 12:45 p.m. a flight of eight T-33s will officially start the Armed Forces Day observance at the base by flying over in formation. Fifteen minutes later four T-38s will be in the air, and at 1 p.m. there will be sub-sonic passes over the field, followed by a maximum climb demonstration by the sleek T-38s. At 1:30 p.m. there will be a flight of F-100s from Cannon AFB at Clovis, N.M., followed by a pair of T-38s from the same base.

Col. Don Pendergrast is project officer for the occasion, and Capt. Donald E. Jonker and Maj. J. J. Riley are coordinating various displays and activities. Under them are a dozen unit project officers all set to make this one of the busiest observances of Armed Forces Day.

Westbrook Visitors

Eighth grade students of Westbrook School visited Webb Air Force Base Thursday morning for a tour of the installation. A portion of the group of 20 students and four adults are pictured above in the parachute shop watching the packing of a parachute. They also visited the engine shop, saw a display of Webb aircraft and had lunch in the base cafeteria.

Grand Jury Resumes Investigation Tuesday

The Howard County grand jury, in recess since April 18, resumes work Tuesday. It will renew its investigation into the theft of crude oil from a Vesimoor lease — a matter which has already resulted in the indictment of three men. The jurors are expected to submit their final report to the 118th District Court late Tuesday.

An array of witnesses will be on hand Tuesday at 10 a.m. to appear before the grand jury for interrogation.

Included will be A. K. Turner

Jr., an oil operator who is under an indictment voted on April 9. He is charged with receiving and concealing stolen property and is currently free under $5,000 bond.

Two other men, indicted with him in the case, are also likely to be recalled by the jury. They are Haskell L. Autry and Arville Brice. Both have been billed for theft over $50. Autry is a truck driver and Brice is an oil field pumper.

A fourth man has been charged in the oil theft but the grand jury has not as yet acted on his case.

He is Leo Eugene Nix and he will be another witness before the grand jury.

There were reports at the court house the grand jury is also investigating the jam of criminal cases now on the county court docket. Most of these are appeal cases from the city court and from the justice courts.

Toots Mansfield is grand jury foreman. Grand jurors are W. D. Caldwell, Mrs. Harold Talbot, Mrs. Tommy Gage, O. S. Womack, James E. Cape, J. T. Baird, W. H. Ward Jr., Malcolm Patterson, Jack Wallace, Hack Wright and Russell Tidwell.

Builders May Hit Snag In New Zoning Ordinance

Builders and developers who have not adjusted building plans to conform to the provisions of Big Spring's zoning regulations which became effective April 27, 1961, may hit a snag when they apply for permits.

Tom Newton, inspector who issues building permits, has warned builders and contractors to be sure their plans conform to provisions of the city's new ordinance.

"We have already had two applications for permits in which builders want to use the old side-lot clearances," he said. "They can't do it unless granted a variance by the zoning board of adjustment, or unless lots were recorded prior to May 1, 1961."

The city commission allowed one year for developers and builders to adjust their house plans to conform to lot sizes specified in the ordinance. The deadline was April 30.

Most of the difficulty will be on 1F-2 — one family dwellings, found in Section 8 of the zoning ordinance. It states, in part,

Required Side Yard — There shall be a side yard on each side of a lot equal to 10 per cent of the width of the lot provided that in no case shall the side yard be less than five feet in width, but in no case need a side yard exceed eight feet in width; except that a side yard . . . need not exceed five feet in width on any lot 75 feet or less in width on which building permits are issued prior to May 1, 1962; and further provided that the side yard of a corner lot adjacent to a street shall not be less than 15 feet, except that on such corner

Says Canada Ought Not Be 'Crybaby'

TORONTO (AP) — Mitchell Sharp, former deputy minister of trade and commerce in the Liberal government, says Canada should stop being an international crybaby. He told a political rally Friday night that Canada should put more trust in President Kennedy's proposal for an Atlantic trading community.

Trading in an Atlantic community is better for Canadian independence and prosperity than trading only with the United States, he said.

A Devotional For Today

The angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favored, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women. (Luke 1:28)

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for the godly mothers of the Bible and for mothers since Biblical times who have lived exemplary lives. Help us all to try to measure up to Christ's standards and set good examples. We ask this in the name of the Master, Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Support Is A Good Test

At least four community events will unfold here within the next fortnight, and all are deserving of support of our people.

On Saturday Webb AFB will be leading in the observation of Armed Forces Day. There will be many activities, plus a lot of equipment, to help inform our people of part of our military service program, particularly that of the Air Force.

At the same time, Howard County Junior College again will be hosting the National Junior College Track Meet. This is a superb athletic show and deserves the full support of businesses and fans in this area.

Then on May 28, delegates to the annual Northwest Texas Methodist Conference will arrive in Big Spring for one of the area's most important religious meetings of the year.

And before these visitors have departed, the traditional Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, which had its beginning 30 years ago, will be starting. No one needs to remind us that this is a top flight rodeo with some of the nation's leading talent.

Perhaps this is another sign of an active, vigorous community. If so, one test of the validity of this sign is the degree of participation and backing our own people give to them.

Realizing On An Investment

Within about three weeks, the end of a school year will loom upon the business world a new flood of young hopefuls.

Included will be a number who are in college and who will be seeking to recoup finances in order to continue their education. This is important and wherever possible we hope that businesses and individuals will stretch a point to help them.

Another group will be those who have completed their college or their vocational training and who will be looking for a beginning in a career.

Of course, it would be folly for a business or an institution to employ one of these young people unless they are needed or can in reasonable time serve a need. However, we would like to suggest that employers take a careful look at their situation to see if they cannot stretch a point as an investment in the future.

For years we have invested heavily in these young people by providing schooling for them. Many will have vocations which cannot be accommodated here, but for as many who can be utilized here, we will be realizing on our investment. Moreover, we have a feeling that businesses who hedge just a wee bit on the future by making an extra spot temporarily will be richly repaid in trained, capable, and productive service by these young people.

The Senate's Resistance To Change

WASHINGTON — As the Senate cast that 53-40 vote scuttling the literacy test provision for voters, the effect was one of weary frustration. Here was an institution that could still obstruct but the power to act has become increasingly constricted in the tools of the past.

THE 10 DAYS of so-called debate had changed nothing. By voting against the motion to end further talk the measure was effectively killed.

There was an undercurrent of cynical amusement as many of those who opposed the debate turned around and in a roll call that followed immediately voted for the literacy provision. Veteran observers in the gallery noted that they could afford to cast a vote for civil rights so long as they knew it would not count.

WITH EXCEPTIONAL consistency, given his known views in favor of civil rights legislation, Sen. John Sherman Cooper voted both against closing debate and, in effect, against the measure itself. He had announced earlier that his conclusion was that it is unconstitutional because it invades the right of the states to determine the qualification of voters. And his forthrightness, coming from a conspicuous moderate or liberal Republican, very probably influenced others in this category to be counted against closure.

SPEAKING with his customary caution and moderation, Sen. Mike Mansfield, the majority leader, nevertheless at the very start of the debate put a larger issue before the Senate. He said that recent constitutional history makes it clear that progress toward equalizing in practice the ideals of freedom embodied in the American credo cannot be halted indefinitely. The proposal before the Senate, setting a uniform standard for all states requiring literacy tests — a sixth-grade education — was one more move in this direction. Then he added:

"It is clear that when one road to this end fails, others will unfold as indeed they have unfolded. If the process is ignored in legislative channels, it will not necessarily be blocked in other channels — in the executive branch and in the courts."

THE CANNY, never-say-die leader of the Southerners, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, was quick to catch the significance of this gentle challenge. Responding to Mansfield he said he knew that "the Warren followers on the Supreme Court" would not hesitate to "legislate that if a person had six years of schooling and had been declared by his teachers to be literate he could vote."

What both men were saying, in effect, was that the court has responded to the profound changes occurring in the country.

The Senate, in contrast, through the instrumentality of the Southern bloc is determined to frustrate those changes. Understandably, therefore, much of the Southern attack concentrated on the Supreme Court.

THE CHAIRMAN of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, topped it with a blast that shocked even some of those in his own camp. In the Eastland interpretation of the court is a kind of vending machine — you put in your case and it comes out either red or white. That is to say either pro-Communist or anti-Communist. This was the purport of his score card giving for each of the justices his pro- or anti-Communist score.

If there was any recognition of the seriousness of the warning that Mansfield uttered, it was in the sense of frustration with which the whole process was gone through. Everyone in the chamber knew that on a straight vote on the literacy provision it would get a decisive majority. But everyone also knew that under the inhibitions so long prevailing the majority would never have a chance to vote on the measure itself.

ONE RECOURSE is by way of a constitutional amendment. But that is a long and tortuous path. An amendment adopted by the Congress and referred to the state legislatures for ratification can be kept indefinitely in limbo.

The President this week put before Congress important proposals covering tax adjustments to meet a possible recession. The word from the Senate is that the committee machinery is already so clogged that these proposals cannot be considered at this session and possibly not even at the session of the new Congress beginning in January. Yet there are significant signs that if the economy is not lagging it is surely not moving forward as had been anticipated a few months ago.

THIS DO-NOTHINGISM perfectly suits a comfortable minority. But as Senator Mansfield suggested, events, and not only in the civil rights field but in others equally moved by the tide of change, may catch up with the Senate. It can become a kind of historical tableau, a pleasant spectacle suitably removed from the arena of action.

The tourists who throng the galleries these spring days usually include the risk takers in their itinerary. There is a risk that the Senate of the United States may become an entry in that somewhat static cavalcade of history.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Sen. Stuart Symington has come up with a good idea on how to get rid of surplus commodities in the nation's strategic stockpile with minimum effect on free market prices and at the same time benefit the U. S. taxpayer.

He would have the government release surplus materials to defense contractors. Those manufacturing military airplanes, for example, would use aluminum and copper from the stockpile, thus reducing the government's cash outlay for the planes as well as the stockpile.

This would have some effect, of course, on the market prices for the commodities involved. But no better way has been suggested for the government to get rid of its billions of surplus materials, and by channeling them out over a period of time a minimum of price disturbance should result. At least, this method would be of great benefit to the taxpayers.

Sen. Symington says he will push legislation to permit release of stockpile materials for such purposes. It obviously should be passed. —CLEVELAND PRESS

BIG NAME IN THE NEWS

J. A. Livingston Are Wages Out Of Phase With U.S. Growth?

By J. A. LIVINGSTON

Stubborn. That's the word for unemployment. Even when it goes down, it stays up.

Take last month. The crocuses, daffodils, and Easter bonnets brought a seasonal upturn in jobs to an all-time April high of 67,000,000. This was 700,000 better than in March, and 1,300,000 above April a year ago.

Furthermore, unemployment dropped to 3,950,000, the lowest in six months. Yet, it did not bring Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg or the President's Council of Economic Advisers to a rising vote of thanks.

Why? Because, out of every thousand persons able, active, and willing to work, there were 55 without jobs the same percentage as in March, and only a shade under February's 56 per thousand, and January's 58 per thousand.

This is good but not strong—much better than the 70 per thousand in May 1961 and the post-war high of 75 per thousand in midsummer, 1956. Yet, the reduction is meagerly inadequate for a period of prosperity.

THE THREE WHYS

The inadequate perplexes America's finest economic minds.

Some, such as Leon H. Keyserling, advisor to President Truman, says the government has not been spending enough. If it did, employment and incomes would rise and so, therefore, would tax revenues. Some of President Kennedy's advisers argue this way.

Some business economists insist that inflation has slowed job creation. High wages and increased costs have squeezed profits and, thus, killed the economic incentive to buy new plant and equipment. Roger M. Blough, chairman of the United States Steel, announced that his company this year would curb capital outlays because of insufficient profits.

Still others—and on this there'd be wide agreement—contend that the country lacks a dynamic new industry—something for the 1960's skin to the automobile in the 1920's and television in the 1950's. So, get busy and dream up something! Yet, I'm for a self-navigating, collision-proof, automatic-direction-finding, inexpensive helicopter. What wouldn't that do for persons living in suburban areas —40 to 60 miles from cities!

ACCOUNTING CONCEPT

So much for dreams and fantasy. I have my theory: Wage rates are out of phase with machinery costs. This is simple accounting.

If a business man or manufacturer can use human labor less expensively than the combined cost of a machine and human labor, then he won't buy the machine.

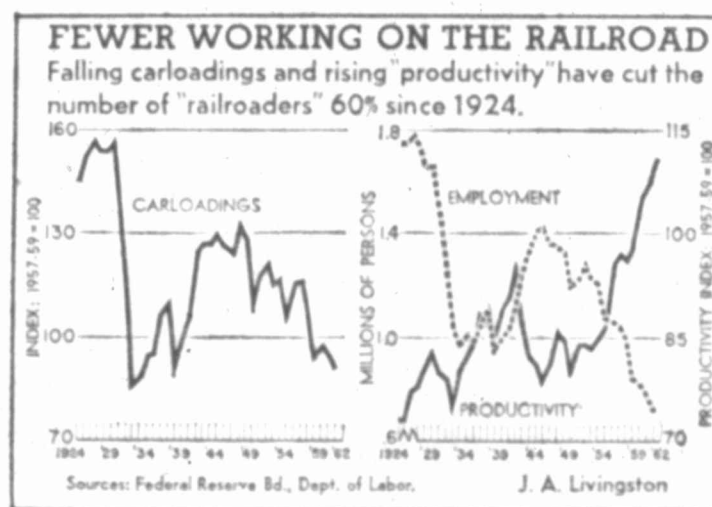

But if he can purchase a machine to reduce his labor costs below the combined cost of a new machine and labor, then he'll buy the machine.

This is hindsight economics. The persistence of unemployment suggests that it has been more profitable to pay for labor in machinery than to pay current wages for workers on the job.

Of this there are examples aplenty. Take the railroads. Employment has diminished from 1,662,000 in 1929 to about 718,000, or 57 per cent. But carloadings (av. declined only 46 per cent (see chart). Thus, carloadings per employee have risen from 32 per year to 40. Could not this be because wages have gone up from 65 cents an hour on the average to $2.67, or 300 per cent? Inference: Even the impoverished carriers have managed to replace men with machinery.

OUT OF PHASE

Bituminous coal is another case. Employment has diminished from 470,000 to 128,000. Almost three quarters! Yet, output dropped only 25 per cent—from 535,000,000 to 400,000,000; output per man is up from 1,141 tons per man year to more than 3,100, or 175 per cent—as wages rose from 66 cents an hour to $3.15, or 360 per cent. In automobiles and total manufacturing, the facts are similar but not so dramatic. Employment is down from the peak while production per man is up. When production engineers find that it costs less to buy equipment than manpower, they're forced—by cost accounting—to choose equipment.

This isn't hurtful. In the long run, mechanization means fewer men to do more work with less effort. It means greater leisure. However, in the short run—especially during a period of innovation—low-grade economic inflation—unemployment.

If I'm right that increases in wage rates are out of phase with improvements in manufacturing techniques, then persons who seek remedial causes of this fever such as insufficient government spending may be out of phase with reality.

Crabgrass Problems

Do you remember when laboriously weeding out crabgrass plants so that the desirable grasses could have a chance to grow was a regular summer pastime? This chore made time pass all right, but was hardly enjoyable.

Nowadays, killing crabgrass is as easy as walking across a lawn, pushing a fertilizer spreader, because that's the tool that applies crabgrass-killing chemicals.

There are two different types of these: post-emergence, those that kill the mature or maturing crabgrass plants, and pre-emergence, those that kill emerging crabgrass seedlings.

Heart Murmurs Can Mean Many Things

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between a functional heart murmur and a leaking valve or rheumatic heart? What is myocarditis? Could there be any relation between a spastic colon and rheumatic fever or a rheumatic heart? —R. H.

A functional murmur is a faint swishing sound that can be heard while examining a heart, but it tends to disappear when the patient quietsens the heart rate by exercise.

A murmur of this kind is not uncommon among children and young adults, and it doesn't signify heart disease. In short, it represents a sound caused by some odd little quirk in the way the blood happens to swirl through the heart.

A faulty heart valve resulting from rheumatic fever is entirely different.

It, too, produces a murmur, which is simply a variation in the sounds made by the blood as it stops and starts and gurgles through the heart.

An important difference is that the murmur from a faulty valve will increase with exercise. There are other technical aspects: the location of the murmur and the direction in which the sound is transmitted.

In such cases it usually is possible to trace prior attacks of rheumatic fever.

Murmurs can occur in people who have active thyroid problems, anemia, and congenital heart defects. The mere presence of a murmur is only a starting point from which the doctor must learn whether it means nothing, or means a heart condition, or at times means the presence of some ailment quite apart from heart disease.

Myocarditis is inflammation of the heart muscle (as distinct from a "heart attack" brought on by interference with circulation of blood to the heart muscle). It is, of course, a serious matter even though not as acutely dangerous as a severe heart attack, and can be temporarily disabling. It can follow virus infections.

There's no relation between a spastic colon and either rheumatic fever or heart except that nervous persons with a spastic colon may tend to have a rapid heart rate. This is because of nerves, not the colon.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son who is a diabetic is going to marry a girl who has asthma and thyroid trouble.

If there are any children would they be affected? —MRS. W.P.

The children would have some tendency toward diabetes, asthma or some other type of allergy.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any treatment other than going to a specialist to retard development of cataracts? —D. M.

No, there's no way to retard them, including going to a specialist. Cataracts grow at varying rates regardless of anything we know how to do. Some are extremely slow, some rapid. It is wise to have an eye specialist inspect cataracts periodically, but this is so he can gauge the rate of growth and choose the best time to remove them, if at all. (A few grow so slowly that they never seriously interfere with vision.)

"Don't Quit Because Of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Around The Rim Mothers For The Second Time

There's no telling where we would be without mothers, and today is the day to give those individuals their worthy honor.

But what the world needs to consider is how to handle grandmothers, who after all, are mothers, too, but have forgotten it.

I USED to think that grandmothers were invariably bent and trembling old souls, wearing knitted shawls and leaning on canes. They were among the gems of this world, but they were rather fragile, and were to be treated with respect from afar. A child was expected to go in and curtsy to Granny, then get on out of the way.

Of course this picture has been embroidered with the passing of time. All of them couldn't possibly have been done up in lavender and lace, but it seemed to.

BUT LOOK what changes have been wrought! When you see a lithe figure in shorts, swinging a club out on the golf course, you had better be careful in thinking she is just out of college. She could easily be a grandmother. And I announce with a degree of boldness that there are more grandmothers at bridge tables than in rocking chairs.

And after having paid a compliment to grandmothers, relative to their youth, let's see about their attitude toward their grandchildren.

DO THEY TAKE the curtsy and tell the youngun's to go run and play? They do not. They call the kids over, envelop them in loving embrace and say, "Let me take a good look at you, darling. I do believe you're not looking well. You just come home with Gramma for a few days and we'll take care of everything."

Of course, the kid is a picture of health, and Gramma is doing nothing but kidnapping the brat determined to spoil it worse than it was, if possible.

ANY YOUNGSTER who is old enough to lift a finger and cock an eye learns among the very first things that the one person who can be twisted around his finger is Gramma. The parents are too inexperienced, too busy, too harassed and too determined to raise a disciplined child. Grandmother, on the other hand, has found a new youth for herself, has seen a re-incarnation of another baby of some years back, has found that utter joy that a very new life personifies.

WHY SHOULDN'T grandmothers announce that the newest arrival has gained a pound and a half, and is now looking just like her mother, only having the father's eyes? Why shouldn't her purse be loaded to the claps with pictures, and why shouldn't the family exchequer be drained to purchase a new movie camera and projector so every gasp, every gurgle, every smile and every toddling step be registered for perpetuity? Only the very real grouchies will say them nay.

POLITICS, social crises, the world aflame, the unbearable load of taxes, the problem down at the church and the education emergency — these are important in a conversation? Phooey! You just sit back and wait for a grandmother to tell you how her precious one looks, and particularly, the very, very cutest thing it said the other day.

This is the real savor of life. After all, the grandbaby is the "only one" that ever was. Granted!

Mothers are wonderful. Grandmothers must be doubly so. —BOB WHIPKEY

The People Vs. Tax Deductions

WASHINGTON — Not often do ordinary citizens enjoy personal debates with their Secretary of Treasury, but perhaps it can be arranged. By courtesy of the Senate Finance Committee, I have been able to dig among boxes containing thousands of letters protesting the grassroots section of the administration's tax bill.

Section 19 of H. R. 10650 proposes that 20 per cent of all dividend and interest payments be withheld from their owners, and later refunded after complicated juggling of application forms when the government has taken its share. Let us juxtapose Treasury Secretary Dillon's testimony with the voices of the people.

IT'S SO EASY. Dillon: "The mechanics of withholding upon dividends and interest will be simple. The institution paying the dividends and interest will merely total up the amount of dividends or interest due to persons who have not filed exemption certificates, deduct 20 per cent of this amount, and pay the 20 per cent over to the government at the end of the month following the quarter in which the dividends or interest are paid. Etc., etc."

F. L. B. of Glenview, Illinois: "When the money gets to Uncle Sam, there is added man-work for receiving, recording and filing this large volume of extra paper work. I fail to see where one red cent will be available over what is now available."

PUT HONEST MEN and Crooks in The Same Cell. Dillon: "An obvious defect in our tax system lies in the failure of some individuals to report dividend and interest income on their tax returns. Billions of dollars in government revenues have been lost over the years."

H. B. of Washington, D. C.: "I do not object to paying taxes, however, I feel that this would be too costly. Let's pass a few laws to make life easier instead of so confused."

IT WON'T HURT MUCH. Dillon: "The President's recommendation for tax withholding does not involve a new tax on dividend and interest income; it is simply an administrative device to assure collection."

E. H. G. of Safe, Maine, (a Certified Public Accountant): "The withholding of taxable dividends and interest, besides being morally iniquitous in a voluntary self-taxing system, will not even be self-supporting."

JUST HOLD STILL While We Pull Your Teeth. Dillon: "Dividend and interest withholding is equally simple for the recipient. Since withholding will always be at a flat 20 per cent rate, the recipient can easily determine how much has been withheld." E. R. P. of Narberth, Penna.: "It would deprive us of 20 per cent of our money, plus the interest which would accrue until refunded, which probably would be months."

G. M. M. of Birmingham, Ala., (a clergyman): "I am all in favor of a plan to make sure that the taxes are actually collected in dividends and interest. However, in addition to the tremendous bureaucracy required by the bill, it seems to me that H. R. 10650 would work a hardship on the small taxpayers."

AND SO GOES the still small voice of the American taxpayers — who seldom get a chance to answer back when the statisticians speak.

Criticism Is Important

WASHINGTON — Who are the real friends of President Kennedy? Are they the people who resent criticism of his policies and want it suppressed, or are they the critics who point out errors while there is still time for the President to correct them before he faces an election in which the voters render their verdict?

Letters from a small minority of readers sometimes indicate a closed mind—an unwillingness to examine criticism they dislike and a tendency to consider it as somehow personally unfriendly to the official who is criticized.

IT SO HAPPENS that this correspondent, for example, has always regarded John F. Kennedy as a man of engaging personality. But the liking that a newspaper writer has for a President should have nothing to do with the serious business of pointing out errors in public policy. The other day, an editorial writer of "The Wall Street Journal" wrote:

"The idea seems to be if you 'like' the man who is President you should support his policies, and that if you disagree with his policies then it must be that you 'dislike' him. This is not an uncommon attitude. It is shared, in fact, by a good many politicians themselves, who can't avoid the human reaction that any criticism of their ideas is somehow a personal attack."

"IF OUR PERSONAL views on Mr. Kennedy are of the slightest interest to anybody, we find him personally very likable and have considerable respect for him. But that is no reason for us to applaud his actions in the steel-price affair, in which we think he was badly mistaken—any more than a different view of Mr. Kennedy personally would have caused for not applauding his decision to resume nuclear tests, in which we think he did the only wise thing for the country. Policy and not personality is the measure."

Democracy can function best when the electorate is adequately informed. These are days when highly effective use is made of television, radio and the press to present the administration's side on public questions. But what of the "other side"?

FOR INSTANCE, at Wednesday's press conference on television and radio, the reporters didn't take up the following statement by the President concerning the withholding tax now being proposed on interest and dividends. He said the charges being made against the bill were "not true." He then added:

"The only ones affected will be those individuals who are not now paying the taxes they owe on this income, either through neglect or for some other reason."

BUT MR. KENNEDY evidently hasn't himself read the statement appearing in the newspapers the other day quoting the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as saying it is estimated that more than $200 million will be "over-withheld," and that these taxpayers would have to apply for quarterly refunds. The President said not a word about the loss of interest to the taxpayer on the amounts the government takes away from him this way for at least a quarter of a year. Nor did Mr. Kennedy mention the plight of the taxpayer who wouldn't be permitted to file a claim for exemption in advance, as he would owe a certain part of the amount withheld but not all of it. He would be compelled to wait for the return of his money.

HOW, THEREFORE, can the voters get the whole story on controversial issues? Criticism was never more important to the administration itself and to the country than it is today. Voters are, in the last analysis, fair-minded. They want to know the real impact of national and international policies on their own lives and on the future of their children. It may be popular for a President to cry out against a rise in prices, but governmental interference can bring on a recession if it causes the economic system to become stagnant and the profit system to disintegrate.

CRITICISM, especially on economic issues, was never more important than it is today, as week after week the stock market reflects a growing fear of and lack of confidence in the administration's attitude toward business. More criticism rather than less is needed to restore that confidence.

DEAR ABBY

Wedding Etiquette

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that even the best educated people do not know enough to send the priest (or officiating clergyman) an invitation to the wedding breakfast, reception, dinner or any social function related to the wedding? I have seen this happen so many times it isn't even funny. The very last minute they send word that the clergyman is "expected" to attend these affairs and are insulted if he isn't available. Parishioners do the same thing at Christmas, New Year's and Easter.

WONDERING WISCONSINITE

DEAR WONDERING: I don't know why this "oversight" is so commonplace, but perhaps after this item appears there will be fewer "sins of omission."

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that some women complain because their husbands—
1. Stay out all night
2. Beat them
3. Gamble away the paycheck
4. Drink to excess
5. Use abusive language
6. Never take them anywhere
7. Never show them any affection

How lucky these women are whose husbands have only one, two or three of these faults. My husband has all of them.

Sincerely

DEAR WIFE: Now, I'd like to hear from Burt.

DEAR ABBY: Print this for the mother-in-law who criticized her daughter-in-law for saying, "My children, my home, etc." Many mothers are blind where their sons are concerned. A husband who spends no time with his children and does nothing to help around the house should not blame his wife for referring to her children and home as "mine" instead of "ours."

but to keep hearing this neighbor saying this is driving me out of my mind. Print whatever you wish of this letter, but please give me some comfort and advice.

DEAR MRS. L. S.: The first thing you must do is to quit seeing this neighbor, if you have to close your door in her face. God gives us our children and He takes them away. Believe this, Mrs. L. S., and you will have the peace of mind you seek.

Morris Elected To Student Congress

FORT WORTH — Charles Edward (Lefty) Morris, a Junior from Big Spring, was elected Add-Ran College of Arts and Sciences representative to Student Congress at Texas Christian University. Morris, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Morris of 1912 Stadium, was chosen in the spring primary. Twenty-two students were chosen to serve as student body officers in that election and 10 more were chosen in the run-off the following Friday.

Goliad Holds Spring Formal

By ROXANNE BOLTE

One of Big Spring's most elaborate school dances was held Friday night at the Cosden Country Club. The Classics from Odessa played for Goliad's annual spring formal which began at 8 p.m. The theme was Bali Hai, with a mural of the famous mountain as the main decoration. Fish nets hung on the walls were adorned with tiny twinkle lights, and the mural was half hidden from view by enchanting mist produced by dry ice. Tropical-like ferns were placed around the mural and in the nets. Other decorations were a six foot life-like palm tree and a gold treasure chest filled with simulated jewels and pearls. Everything seemed to have a wonderful time, and the formal was a great success.

The volleyball team enjoyed a picnic at Lake J. B. Thomas Saturday. Approximately 40 girls and mothers attended and feasted on hot dogs, potato chips, and Cokes. After the girls tired of swimming, they played horseshoes and various other games. An exhausted, sunburned, but very happy group returned home at 4 p.m. The girls would like to express their appreciation for the great job Miss Diane Daniels, their coach, did during the season.

Groans and moans will be heard issuing forth from ninth grade classrooms Tuesday through Thursday. Students will be taking nine weeks tests and either making or breaking this reporting period's grades. These tests count one-fourth of the nine weeks grade, so study hard, students!

In the library show case is a very interesting coin display loaned to Goliad by Miss Agnes Currie, freshman literature teacher. Miss Currie also let us borrow several beautiful pictures of spring flowers which are now on display in the showcase right outside the library. It would be worth the time, students, to stop by and see these interesting things.

The most exciting thing on this coming week's agenda is, of course, the distribution of the 1962 annuals. At an assembly Monday morning, the staff will reveal the name of the one to whom the yearbook is dedicated, as well as the identity of Miss and Mr. Yearbook. Following the assembly, the yearbook will be distributed to the student body. Protective plastic covers will be available for 25 cents each at the annual-signing party after school and in the home rooms.

Bond Is Honor Graduate

JAL, N. M. — Miss Darlyne Miller is the valedictorian of Jal, N. M., senior class. Her average for four years is 95. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller. Miss Miller has accepted a valedictorian scholarship from McMurry College, Abilene, Texas, and will enroll for the fall term.

Miss Miller has been active in student council work, was a representative to Girls' State, was awarded the Outstanding Home Economics Student of 1960-61, and has served her class as an officer.

Mr. Martin Bond, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Bond, is the salutatorian. His average is 93. He is the brother of Mrs. L. M. Wolfson of Big Spring.

Mr. Bond has also been active in student council work, was a representative to Boys' State, won a trip to the United Nations through the United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth, and has been presented the Bausch and Lomb Award which is given to the graduating senior with the highest four-year average in the sciences. He has accepted an academic scholarship from the University of New Mexico.

At the request of the graduating class, Dr. J. L. Burke, Superintendent of Jal Schools, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the high school auditorium on Sunday.

Commencement will be on Wednesday, May 23, at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

'62 Yearbooks Arrive At Coahoma High School; New Staff Is Announced

By CAROLYN WILSON
COAHOMA — Many exciting things have been happening around CHS as the school year draws to a climax.

Monday night following the regular monthly FHA meeting, a desert party was held honoring Margie Appleton and Sandra Kay Nichols. Margie, who is president of the group, and Sandra, secretary-treasurer, will graduate this year. They have done much for the FHA during their four years in high school. At the meeting a slumber party was planned for May 18. All eighth grade girls and FHA members are invited to attend. On May 28, the girls will leave on their summer trip. They will travel to Ruidoso, New Mexico, where they will spend three days at the Lazy River Lodge.

The long awaited annuals arrived and Sandra Nichols, editor, presented them to the student body at an assembly Tuesday afternoon. This year they are red with white trim. Mrs. Doris Tiller, English teacher at CHS, was honored by having the annual dedicated to her in appreciation of her service to young people and the community. At this assembly the officers for next year's Bulldog were announced. Jon Ellen Ford will be editor. Assistant editors will be Elaine Carpenter and Darlene Mason. Linda Thomas will be business manager. The new members added to the staff are Nadine Honeycutt, Letha Mason and Phillip Bruchmiller.

Mr. O. A. Madison presented awards to the following people for achievements: Jon Ellen Ford and Donnie Reid, Best All Around; Sandra Nichols and Donnie Reid, Most Representative; Margie Appleton and Weldon Self, Best Citizens; Sandra Nichols and Frankie Firenze, Best Athletes.

Jonnie Wayland, Billie Ford, Vernon Long, Dwayne Fraser, Darlene Mason and Buddy Anderson received awards for Who's Who. At sixth period Tuesday a National Honor Society meeting was held in which officers for next year were elected. They are Paul Camp, president; Dwayne Fraser, vice president; and Darlene Mason, secretary-treasurer. Tuesday night the annual staff

'62 Yearbooks Arrive At RJH

By CANDY BACUS

Our long-awaited annuals arrived last week. They have red and white covers with modern designs throughout the book. We would like to give a special thanks to the annual staff for producing such a beautiful year book. Sara King, editor, Linda Ann Taylor, assistant editor, Susan Powell, business manager, Pat Caldwell, assistant business manager, Dennis Collins, photographer, and Mrs. Mona Johnson, sponsor, are all the proud members of the staff. An annual signing party was held Wednesday, during sixth period. It was held out on the grass and Cokes were served. The annual was dedicated to Mrs. Jo Carlie, secretary of the school.

The Rannels Junior High Choir will present a concert this coming Thursday night, May 17. It will begin at 8 p.m. and will consist of favorites, patriotic numbers, and featured in the program will be an opera, "The Grasshopper." It will be held in the high school auditorium and admission will be 35 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

The Rannels band attended a concert contest in Odessa recently and it brought home two second division ratings, one on concert and one on sightreading. The band played for the various sixth grade schools in town on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. They played marches and marched for the students. Several of the band students played solos and several quartets played selections for the various organizations last week during National Music Week.

The students from Rannels and the surrounding schools had a half-day holiday Friday due to a meeting for the teachers at Cosden Country Club.

Mr. Forrest Gambill, S.R. teacher at Rannels, is reported doing very well. He is still in Northwest General Hospital, 1615 Hillendahl Blvd., Houston 24, Texas. After the dance lots of the Juniors and Seniors either went to the show, went bowling, or went to a party given by Nina and Ann Yater for the Juniors and Seniors. All in all, it was a night to remember!

The band gave a benefit concert Friday night for the piano fund for the auditorium. Everyone is really working toward buying a new piano for the auditorium. The band played such numbers as "Scepter of Liberty," "Excerpts from My Fair Lady," and "Two Moods." We hope that everyone enjoyed the concert.

Stanton HS Graduation Scheduled For Friday Night

By MARSHA BRISTOW

STANTON—The time is nigh for the last school bell of this year to ring. Only one more week at SHS, and only two more days for us Seniors. This has certainly been a full and successful year!

We are all dragging a very tired right hand this weekend because our annuals came in and the popular cry is "Have you signed my annual?" We are really proud of the yearbook for it is our only complete pictorial account of this year. We would like to thank Mrs. Schwalbe, the yearbook sponsor, Mona Epley, the editor, and the rest of the staff for all the hard work that they put in to make it what it is. This year the annual was dedicated to the advertisers in Stanton, Big Spring and Midland for without their help the yearbook would not have been possible.

Another big happening this past week was the annual Junior-Senior banquet which was held at the Cosden Country Club. The theme was "Stairway to the Stars," and the Junior class really did decorate in an extensive manner. It was just breath-taking.

Our speaker was Mr. Joe Pickle, editor of the Herald. Mr. Pickle is a favorite speaker with the SHS students, and once again we enjoyed hearing him speak. Thank you, Mr. Pickle, for the inspiring talk!

HC Track Team Wins At Meet

By LYN CLAWSON

Activities are quickly coming to a halt as final examinations approach. The tests begin Thursday and last for a week.

Congratulations to the HCJC track team for the good job they did at the Western Conference meet held at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell last weekend. They brought eleven blue ribbons and several second place awards.

Herman Robinson set a record for the meet in the 220; Dean Cheatham won the 100 yard dash; Tommy Wise, both hurdles; Lou Balenton, high jump; Tommy Yarbro, 440; Larry Mauldin, pole vault; Kenneth Windham, broad jump. HCJC won the 440 yard relay, the mile relay, and the sprint medley relay.

Lucy De Leon and Hermalinda Lopez won first place in the Western Conference tennis meet by defeating another HCJC team, Betty Ellison and Mary Griffin. Mary took second place in the singles play.

Friday the College Y began a retreat at Lake Thomas. About 25 members and guests attended the affair which lasted through noon Saturday. Plans were discussed for the club in the coming year.

The Phi Theta Kappa had a picnic at Colorado City Lake yesterday.

Friday was Western Day at HCJC. The Rodeo Club sponsored the activity in which all students were to wear at least three articles of western clothing.

The sophomores are to meet at the auditorium Wednesday during the activity period to practice for graduation. The girls who are to usher are asked to meet there also.

The program presented by the choir Tuesday evening was excellent. The members have certainly done a fine job in representing HCJC this year.

Kay Watson's team has won the championship in the intramural volleyball meet from Dee O'Brien 15-13, 10-15, 0-11. Janice Glaze's group won consolation over Glynnda Haney's team 18-13. Mary Griffin's squad has already received three places.

The tennis team closed out its season this weekend at a tournament at North Texas State University. Lucy De Leon and Hermalinda Lopez entered at No. 1 doubles with Mary Griffin and Betty Ellison entering at No. 2 doubles.

The BSU revival began Friday evening. There is another service at 8 a.m. this morning. Howard Jones and Lanny Edwards have been conducting the services.

Jr.-Sr. Prom Is Staged

By MARILYN GUM

As the end of school draws near, activities are steadily increasing.

The highlight of the year was presented last night—the Junior-Senior Prom. The supreme goal of the juniors was superbly achieved. The theme featured the elaborate setting. Visitors entered a land of "A Thousand and One Arabian Nights" in the center of a flowing ceiling, hung a huge mirror ball; a maiden on a flying carpet greeted the guests at the entrance of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building. Lustrous lights lined the path to the bedecked ballroom. A beautiful mural city painted by Mrs. Charlene Kee loomed in the distance as guests entered the ballroom. Small miniature treasure bags were given the girls as they entered the enchanting land; boys were presented with small fezzes. "The Classics," furnishing the music for the dance, followed along with the theme by wearing fezzes. An elaborate menu, prepared by Mrs. R. E. McMillan, was served in an oasis and was properly attended by slave girls from the sophomore class.

As a senior, I feel that I can speak for the entire class of 1962 by saying the prom was wonderful in every way. The juniors deserve a very sincere thanks for all the hard work and hours put into making a fabulous success. Thanks, juniors!

The 1962 El Rodeos have finally arrived. They will be issued Monday in the cafeteria. Everyone is asked not to come in to get your book until after the first bell rings; no books will be issued before that time. I'd like to thank in advance, the Women's Golf Association for their thoughtful remembrance to the senior girls. They are honoring the senior girls with a tea and style show to be held May 19 at 10:30 a.m. at the country club.

A last minute thought — Seniors, you just have nine more days of school! Sophomores and juniors have twelve days left. The 1961-'62 school year is slowly drawing to a close and the pages will be closed for the Senior Class of 1962.

Secure in LOVE

Kathy is secure in her mother's love. Trust and peace gleam in her eyes. Happiness and hope shine in her face.

But Kathy has her heartaches. She falls and skins her knee. Or she loses her favorite dolly. And then her eyes are flooded with tears.

Mommy is always there to help. The knee is bandaged and kissed. The dolly is found. As Mommy's arm slips around Kathy, the tears are dried.

Kathy is secure in her mother's love.

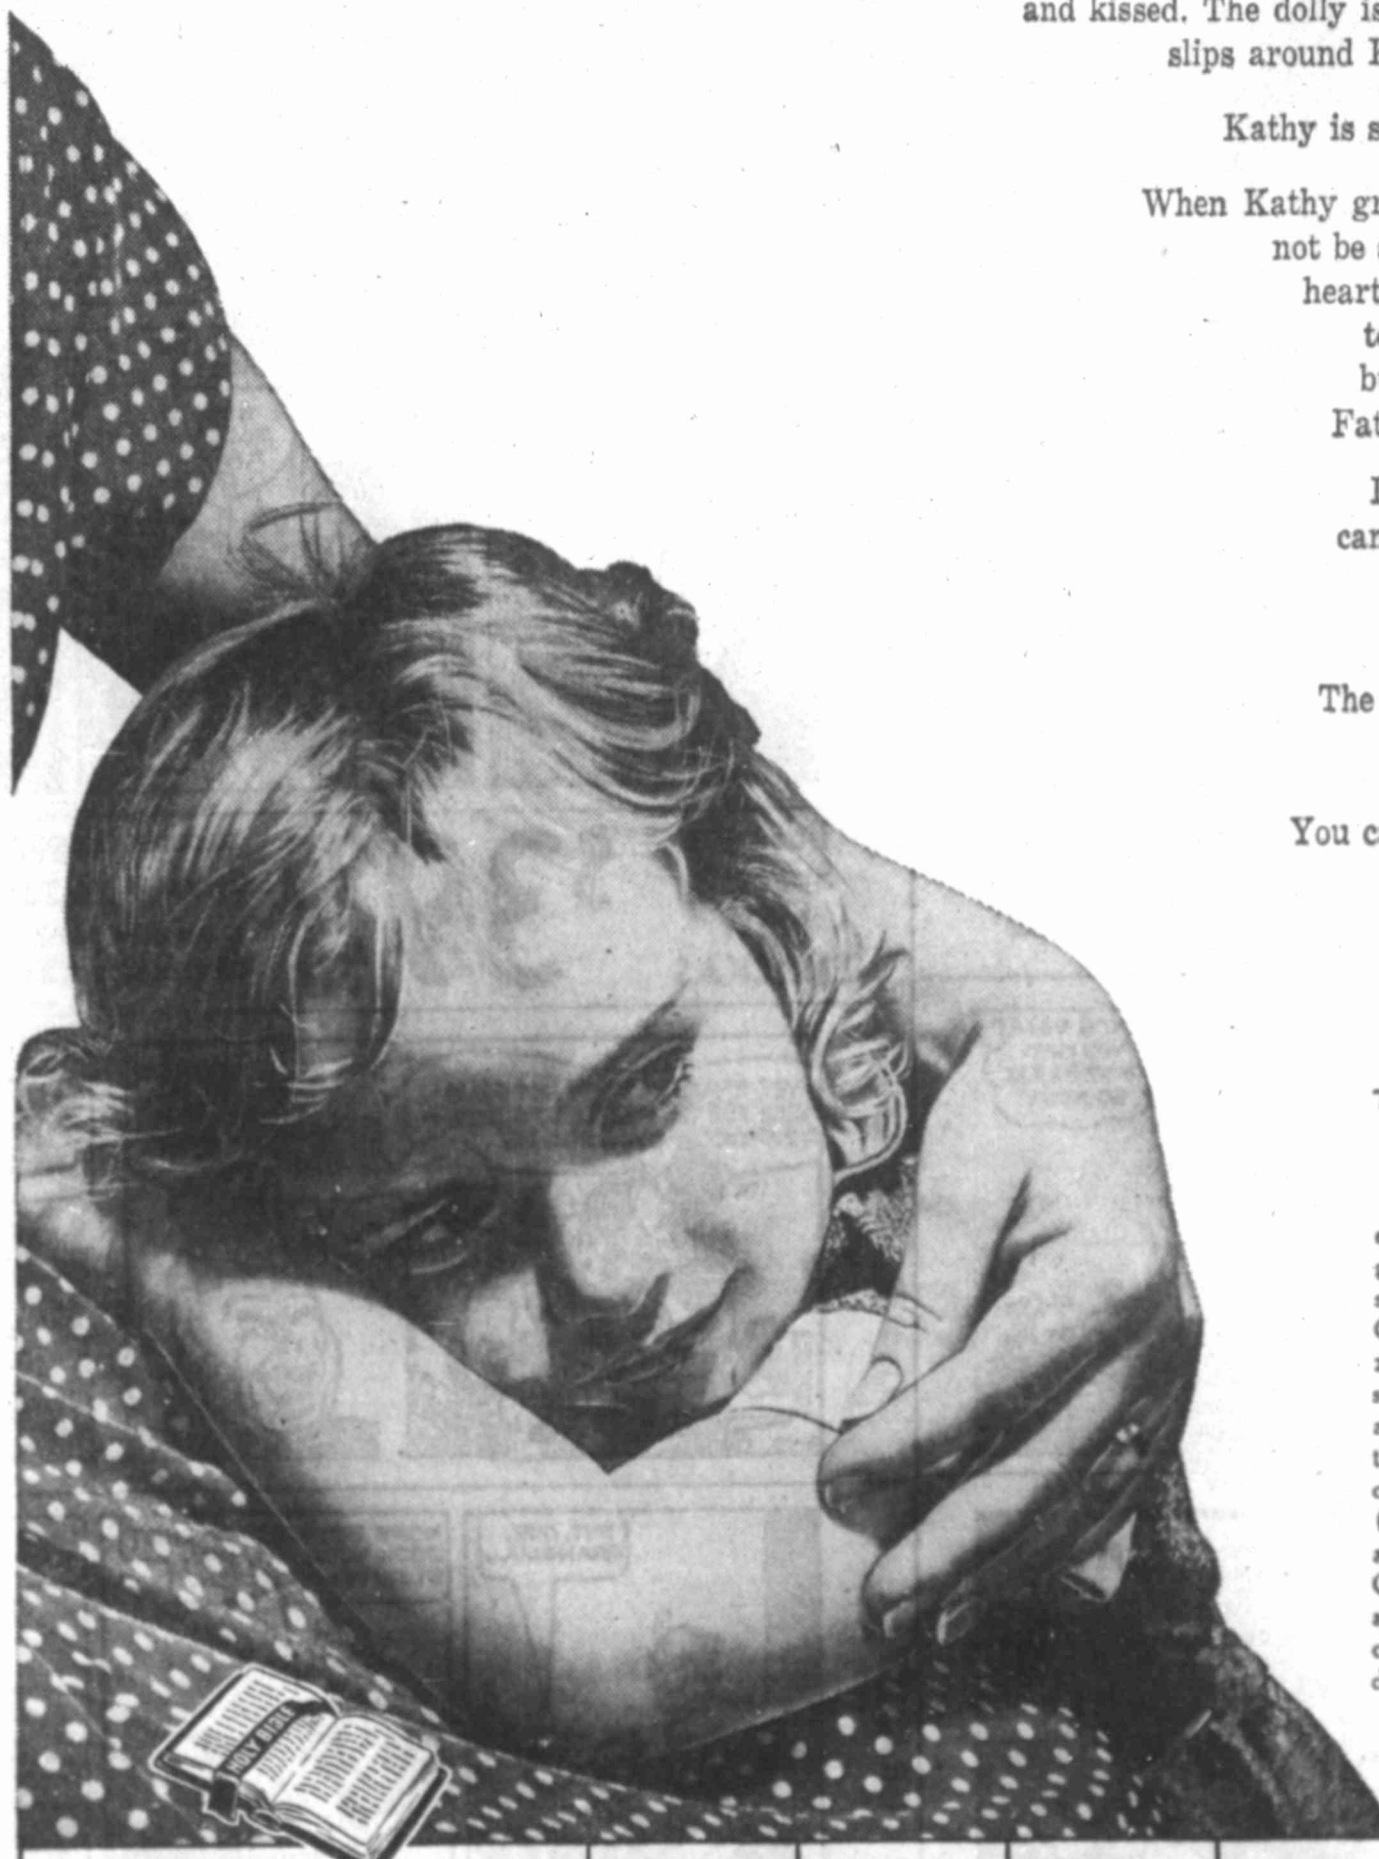

When Kathy grows older her mother will not be able to love away the adult heartaches. But Kathy can turn to God. Her mother's love is but an echo of the Heavenly Father's love for His children.

In faith and prayer, Kathy can find His all-sufficient help and feel beneath her His Everlasting Arms.

The Church guides you to God. You can discover your destiny as His child. You can be secure in divine love.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bad Day At Black Rock

Spencer Tracy finds Anne Francis among the least of his mysterious enemies in "Bad Day at Black Rock," returning today to the State Theatre. One of the most suspenseful dramas of recent years, the film tells the story of a stranger on an unknown mission in an isolated Arizona desert village who discovers himself marked for death without knowing why. This film is highly recommended.

Still Horizontal

"The Horizontal Lieutenant" continues today at the Ritz Theatre. This scene from the service satire depicts Jim Hutton, Paula Prentiss, and Jack Carter. The comedy also stars Jim Backus, Charles McGraw and Miyoshi Umeki.

Film Drama Pits Priest, Embittered Revolutionist

Drama of an embittered bandit and a dedicated priest who battle each other for the possession of a remote Mexican village and the fate of a beautiful young girl, the Warner Bros. Technicolor presentation of "The Singer Not The Song" opens Thursday at the State Theatre, starring Dirk Bogarde, John Mills and Mylene Demongeot in Roy Baker's production.

The two distinguished British film stars and the rising young French actress portray the three conflicting characters whose meeting in the village triggers the film's explosive atmosphere. Bogarde, returning to unsympathetic portrayals after his characterizations in "Doctor At Sea," "Doctor At Large" and "Song Without End," makes his bandit a man of brooding evil — alone, supreme, ruthless. Venetual product of the Mexican Revolution, he permits himself no human failings — no frailties, no loyalties. He smother his intelligent, inquiring mind until the priest stirs his interest and wins his grudging and secret admiration. Mills, a veteran of over 60 films including the recent "Times of Glory," etches the portrait of a humble, honest priest. A man of dignity and determination — and a man of flesh and blood. As the seductive teen-aged daughter of the town's richest landowner, Miss Demongeot portrays a girl whose awakening love for the priest provides the climactic turning point of the story.

Roy Baker produced and directed "The Singer Not The Song" in Cinemascope on rugged, mountainous locations near Malaga in southern Spain. The Nigel Balchin screenplay was adapted from the novel by Audrey Erskine Lindop.

Baker, most recently directed "A Night To Remember," account of the sinking of the Titanic. Laurence Naismith, John Bentley and Leslie French head the supporting cast of "The Singer Not The Song," which also includes Eric Pohlmann, Nyall Florence, Roger Delgado, Philip Gilbert, Selma Vaz Dias, Laurence Payne, Jacqueline Evans, Lee Montague and Serafina Di Leo. The attractive 37-year-old authoress of "The Singer Not The Song," Audrey Lindop, has never been to Mexico — and although convent-educated, is not a Catholic. When she completed her novel she submitted it to the Mexican Embassy in London and asked them to examine it for flaws. They uncovered very few. Her "I Thank A Fool" and "Nichola" were slated for filming almost simultaneously with "The Singer Not The Song."

Disney Puts Own Pilot On The Moon

A lot of hot air is generated by Messrs. Tom Tryon, Brian Keith and Edmond O'Brien in the dialogue, but it is the laughing gas built in by Walt Disney's imagination that rockets "Moon Pilot" into orbit.

While two powerful nations, the United States and Russia, vie for supremacy in the grim race for space, Disney takes off on the whole thing with the tale of a girl from outer space who intercepts the Number one U. S. astronaut and launches a romance with no holds barred. (The script writer forgot that the real astronauts must be stable married men.)

Adding to the general monkey shines is the performance of Charlie the Chimp, first earthling to the moon and back. It is Charlie's quick work with a fork at the astronaut selection dinner that produces the first human volunteer. Disney doesn't miss a trick in this story, including a cutie in the name of Dany Saval, whom he found and hired in Paris after a world-wide search for the beauty most likely to be found en route to beyond the blue horizon.

In color by Technicolor, "Moon Pilot" stars Tryon, Keith and O'Brien, and introduces Miss Saval. Bill Anderson co-produced with Disney. Buena Vista releases.

Not so long ago men imagined that strange creatures lay in wait amid the unknown reaches of the stratosphere and space beyond. Today, what with radio probes and unmanned investigative satellites slamming around at great distances, much more has been learned about the dangers of manned space flight.

But no strange creatures. Not even a single flying saucer seems to remain of all those once reported in our planetary vicinity. (Or, so says this studio release. Guess they hadn't heard of the "fireflies" found in orbit by Col. Glenn and German Titov — nor the saucer-shaped objects photographed from the X-15.)

Yet, in Disney's "Moon Pilot," based on some of the most topical thinking of the day, we have a different story.

For in "Moon Pilot" our recalcitrant astronaut does encounter a creature in his moon-bound capsule. It has almond-shaped, honey-colored eyes, honey-colored hair, a pert nose, red lips, two arms, two legs and speaks English with a foreign accent.

A strange creature — but only in her origin — she is beautiful Lyrae from a distant galaxy who has come aboard to see the pilot through to his destination and to romance far, far away.

B'way Play Now Movie

Capturing the warm-hearted humor and worldly wisdom of the Broadway play, the Mervyn LeRoy Production of "A Majority of One," starring Rosalind Russell and Alec Guinness, opens Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre. The Warner Bros. Technicolor presentation co-stars Ray Danton and Madyln Rhue in the comedy which recounts the romantic entanglement of a resourceful Brooklyn widow and a Japanese industrial tycoon.

"A Majority of One" is the first film Miss Russell has made in three years—since scoring in the screen version of "Auntie Mame."

"I figure that in the past I've made enough movies for financial and contract reasons. Now the script has to be different — and something special — before I'll agree to do it," says the actress. For Guinness, who won an Academy Award for his performance in "The Bridge on the River Kwai," the film was the occasion of his second visit to Hollywood—his first having been made six years ago. Sir Alec, knighted by the Queen of England for his distinguished contributions to the stage and screen, is ranked as one of the screen's finest and most versatile performers.

The LeRoy production is based on one of the stage's most popular comedy hits of modern times. The Leonard Spigelgass play has been running for three years in the United States and has also enjoyed phenomenal success in England, Sweden, Greece, Holland and South Africa. To insure that the basic elements of the show's popularity would be preserved in the film, the producer-director retained the play's author to write the screenplay.

In addition to Spigelgass, two of the players featured in the original Broadway production are re-creating their roles on the screen — Mae Quastel and Marc Marno.

Seventeen of LeRoy's films have previously played the world-famous Radio City Music Hall in New York—a record unchallenged by any other producer or director. "A Majority of One" is his 18th presentation at the nation's No. 1 showplace—joining a distinguished roster that has included "The Wizard of Oz," "Madame Curie," "Random Harvest," "Mister Roberts" and "The FBI Story."

"A Majority of One" is a glowing account of a widowed Brooklyn matron who suddenly finds herself en route to Japan accompanying her daughter and her diplomat son-in-law, who has been assigned to negotiate an important trade agreement. Despite her prejudices against the Japanese, due to the loss of her only son in the Pacific theatre during World War II, she falls into a pleasant friendship with a Tokyo industrialist aboard ship. When her daughter forces her to break off her relationship, the industrialist avenges himself by breaking up the trade negotiations.

Two Audiences Might See Her

NEW YORK (AP) — Madeleine Sherwood doesn't worry about the possibility that she might have to appear in two Broadway shows the same evening.

Miss Sherwood is in the musical "Camelet," and is also a standby for Shelley Winters in the drama, "The Night of the Iguana."

The productions happen to be playing in adjacent theaters. The "Camelet" assignment keeps Miss Sherwood on stage for only 10 minutes, and she would be able to slip next door without complications if double work became necessary.

'Mein Kampf' True Horror

A story that is as meaningful today as it was 20 years ago is "Mein Kampf," a documentary film story of the rise of Adolf Hitler to power.

The movie was put together from old newsreels, film clips captured after World War II, aged still photographs, and other historical pictorial sources. The photography of "Mein Kampf" therefore is not exactly as pretty as Technicolor, but the vintage nature of the scenes adds to their sense of authenticity.

The story centers on the Nazis, detailing the intrigues of several ambitious totalitarian political parties, and showing evidence of the hypnotic power Hitler employed to sway a neoteric nation into its final madness.

For those who remember, it is both history a true-life horror story. For the young, it is a sobering reminder that dictators still rule most of the world. And for all of us, "Mein Kampf" serves as a warning that a free nation can fall into tyranny and a free people can be led into slavish fanaticism. —BOB SMITH

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

This is the time of the year when the birds are on the wing — and this is noticeable on postage stamps too.

Last week's column featured a new set of bird stamps from British Honduras. This week Ethiopia's birds are flying high—philatelically speaking.

The new set of six stamps just issued by Ethiopia is the first in that country's history and postal authorities hope to repeat the popularity of their recently issued first Sport and Olympic Winner stamps. The bird stamps are also Ethiopia's first printed by multicolor photogravure (by Courvoisier of Switzerland).

The 5 cents depicts a Hornbill, 15 cent Barbet, 30 cent Bateleur Eagle, 50 cent Barbet, and $1 Emerald Cuckoo. Each stamp also bears an oval portrait of King Haile Selassie.

Still on the "wing motif" comes a report via the World Wide Philatelic Agency that Western Germany has issued a new set of four butterflies. The new set inaugurates an annual series called "Youth Stamps." Each stamp will have a surtax for raising youth charity funds.

The 7 pfennig plus 3 p shows an "Apollo Butterfly." The 10 plus 3 p illustrates the "Mourning Cloak." The 20 p plus 10 p depicts a "Small Fox." The 40 p plus 20 p highlights a male "Tiger Swallowtail."

Also issued by West Germany is a new 20 Pfennig Red Commemorative stamp honoring the 2,000th anniversary of the city of Mainz. An early view of the town is the main design. Mainz today is the capital of the state of Rheinland-Pfalz. It is well known as a university city.

Kiwanians Make Plans For Rodeo Barbecue

Bill Johnson, general chairman for the Kiwanis Club rodeo barbecue slated for May 30 has announced the appointment of committeemen to handle details for the big event.

Webb, George Thorburn, Paul Chappell, Edward Corson, Bruce Sanders, Bill Jay, T. Higginbotham, Stanley Trappashka, Charles Smith and S. T. Bogan.

J. E. Smith will be in charge of the serving operations at the rodeo grounds assisted by Len Einstein, Ladd Smith, Wendall Parks, Merle Stewart, Earl Stovall, Soe Walker, and Jack Davis.

This is the second year the Kiwanians have served the big rodeo barbecue. Primary aim of the feed is to provide food for the scores of riders who come to the city as guests of the Rodeo Association. These are the riders who will appear in the big parade which is a feature of the opening day.

The club contracted with the association last year to feed these guests and then expanded the function to include the general public. The rodeo association guests are to be served at the fair grounds; the general public at the Big Spring City Park.

This year, the same plan will be followed that worked so admirably in 1961. Profits from the event go to the club's fund for the assistance of youth of the town.

A generous meal of barbecue, with all the traditional trimmings, is to be served. The meal last year was highly praised by those who ate it and the club is resolved,
