Important Names Are Injected Into Testimony On Estes Gifts

Billie Sol Apparently Tried To Blanket U. S. Officials

'Hey, Mom, Is That For Me?'

Danny Langston, age 6, is curious as to what his mother, Mrs. J. B. Langston, is going to do with the $100 presented to her by Jerry Mancill, chairman of the selection committee, for the winning slogan in the Chamber of Commerce contest. Mrs. Langston won over 2,500 other entries with her slogan, "Our Master Plan Includes You." She and her husband, who is supervisor of the Webb AFB post office, live at 1605 Cardinal. "It will come in handy for buying school clothes," replied Mrs. Langston when asked what she would do with the money. Danny, the Langstons' only child, will start to school in the fall.

WASHINGTON (AP)—James T. Ralph, former assistant secretary of agriculture, testified today he received two $100 money orders from Billie Sol Estes last January and his assistant, William E. Morris, got two more—a total of $400.

On the heels of this testimony, Robert E. Manuel, dismissed Republican counsel to the House subcommittee investigating the Estes'

Muzzle Probe Nears End; Tempers High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tempers ignited today as a special Senate subcommittee neared the end of its investigation of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that anti-Communist military men have been muzzled.

Thurmond told Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, "I believe you have been taken in by antimilitary propaganda."

"I see no ground for your comment," Sylvester retorted. His lone was level but his face flushed angrily. He called the statement a "gratuitous insult."

There was a sharp exchange, too, between Thurmond and Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the subcommittee now approaching the windup of a marathon investigation of Thurmond's charges.

Sylvester is the last scheduled witness in the off-and-on hearings which started last Jan. 23 to explore Thurmond's allegation that censorship and curbs on military participation in anti-Communist seminars for the public amount to muzzling, and reflect a no-win foreign policy.

Thurmond protested at one point that Stennis was trying to cross-question him. The South Carolina senator had sought to test Sylvester's knowledge of revolutionary antimilitarism as used by Communists against the U.S. military.

Stennis said he didn't understand the term and asked Thurmond to define it.

"I am not a witness," Thurmond retorted. He is a member of the subcommittee, and had been doing most of the questioning.

"If you are trying to cross-question me, this is not the time and place," Thurmond snapped.

Stennis said he was not trying to cross-examine a fellow senator but Thurmond heatedly replied: "Well, it looks very much like it."

Sylvester acknowledged he had not read some of the testimony about allegedly Red-inspired efforts to discredit military anti-Communist seminars and, as Thurmond put it, smear some of the participants.

case, charged that numerous others also received such money orders including some members of Congress and at least one very high-ranking administration official.

MANUEL HAS A LIST Manuel said that Morris has a list of those who received the money orders.

Manuel, fired by the subcommittee Thursday for giving a confidential Agriculture Department report to a newspaper reporter, came out fighting today.

He issued a statement that the subcommittee's investigation "is being distorted—and the truth suppressed" and then held what amounted to a news conference to comment on the day's hearings.

One of his assertions in his statement was that an Agriculture Department employe had told him Estes tried to pressure him by invoking the names of the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, but that Johnson's name never came out when this man testified publicly.

FOR TICKETS Ralph testified that when the money orders came in the mail he asked Morris what they were for, and Morris replied he thought they were for tickets to a $100-a-plate Kennedy inaugural anniversary dinner to be held soon in Washington.

As Ralph put it, "Estes made a contribution of $200 to the Democratic National Committee through me."

He said he endorsed one of them to the California Democratic Committee, and one to the national committee. He said Morris took the money orders to the committee headquarters and got the dinner tickets, which were given to Estes.

Ralph said there was no letter of transmittal with the money orders, just two square $100 money orders in an envelope with Estes' name on it.

"Because I didn't like this sort of thing," Ralph added, "I had my assistant write a memorandum to the secretary" about it. He meant Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

He said he did not talk with Estes at any time about the money orders, but saw him at another table at the big anniversary dinner later that month.

Chairman L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., asked why he did not send the money orders back to Estes, Ralph said the thought was in his mind that somewhere in the Post Office Department would be "unexplained money orders with my name on it and with Estes' name on it."

He said it was his and Morris' best judgment that they were meant for dinner tickets and that they handled it that way.

Asked by Fountain why Estes didn't make his contribution directly to the national committee, Ralph said "I can't explain Mr. Estes' actions."

Manuel said another incident involves a discussion by the subcommittee in closed session of how to deal with testimony "which would implicate certain members of Congress and at least one very high-ranking administration official."

SENT GIFTS Manuel said, "The testimony, taken in executive session, related to a list of individuals to whom Estes allegedly sent gifts in the form of money orders."

Manuel said it was against this background that he decided, "as a matter of conscience and duty to the public," to give a confidential Agriculture Department report on the Estes case to a newspaper reporter.

It was for this action that Manuel was discharged after a day-long subcommittee wrangle behind closed doors Thursday. Democratic members spoke of a breach of ethics.

Manuel also had harsh words for the subcommittee, headed by Fountain, which he called a one-party operation.

Manuel handed his statement to newsmen as the subcommittee opened the public hearing with Ralph.

JAMES ELECTED SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Delegates elected Dr. E. S. James of Dallas a vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention Thursday. He is editor of the Baptist Standard.

Wilson Says Marshall Aided Estes

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said today "That there is no doubt in my mind that Henry H. Marshall aided Billie Sol Estes in his operations."

Marshall, a federal Agriculture Department official who was found shot five times at Franklin June 3, 1961, had been looking into the Estes cotton allotment dealings of Estes.

Wilson said he based his conclusion on a "confidential" U.S. Department of Agriculture report which he got from a newsmen.

"The evidence is conflicting on the contracts," Wilson said, "but I think the report shows that Marshall worked with Estes on this."

BOUGHT ALLOTMENTS Estes had been buying cotton allotments in areas condemned by water and highway projects and transferring them to Reeves County (Pecos) under a lease-back agreement.

"The report contains information that Marshall had been furnished with contracts that were a subterfuge," Wilson said.

"This comes down to a definition of the side agreement," Wilson said. "Marshall was instructed by higher ups that there could be no side agreement. Estes and his attorneys then made the contract look like it was direct, but the side agreement was still present if you read the complete agreement. Estes and his attorneys then made the contract look like it was direct, but the side agreement was still present if you read the complete agreement."

FORM BONA FIDE Wilson said Marshall told the Reeves County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee that a federal form was bona fide if it contained no side agreement.

"However, Marshall told them they did not have to look at the complete agreement and on this basis the committee approved a number of Estes' deals," Wilson said.

For three weeks, a Robertson County grand jury has been investigating Marshall's death. It was ruled suicide last year.

Wilson said Marshall was informed as early as Dec. 20, 1960, that such lease-back agreements were illegal. The report makes several mentions of Marshall being contacted by Rains and Hunt County ASC officials on Estes making this type of agreement on land condemned by the Sabine River Authority.

Wilson said the report mentions a meeting with Marshall and ASC officials from Fort Stockton. Wilson said, where Marshall advised officials that they must take the purchasers word that the transaction is legal.

Wilson said this "further clouds the investigation" in the grand jury's investigation of how Marshall died.

Under federal law, cotton acreage allotments cannot be sold. They are designed to be taken with a landowner's dispatch by a project.

Estes had sold land in West

Texas to the displaced landowners, then obtained their cotton allotments and leased the land back to them.

Dist. Judge John Barron of Bryan, who convened a grand jury to look into the official ruling of suicide in the Marshall death, said he disagreed "completely" with Wilson.

CAN'T SEE IT Barron said of Wilson's statement: "I don't see how he (Wilson) can come to this conclusion. I have the same information he does and there is no inference whatsoever to show misconduct on Marshall's part. I would draw the opposite conclusion as Wilson."

Barron was given the same report to turn over to the Robertson County grand jury.

"I thoroughly disagree with any such opinion," Barron said. "In fact, Marshall convinced a number of people in Hunt County and other places that such a transfer of the allotment was illegal. I just don't see how he can come to this conclusion."

Estes' lawyer, John Dennison, was reported by his Pecos office as "in conference and cannot be reached at the present."

In Bryan, Marshall's widow, Mrs. Sybil Marshall, said she had "no comment whatsoever" on Wilson's allegations.

Waiting

James T. Ralph, a former assistant Secretary of Agriculture who was fired for using Billie Sol Estes' telephone credit card for his own calls, waits to testify before a House subcommittee in Washington which is investigating the Estes' case.

Korean Student March Dispersed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean police with fixed bayonets today broke up a new march on the U.S. Embassy by university students demanding that American soldiers be tried in South Korean courts for off-duty offenses.

Laughton Exits N.Y. Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Charles Laughton left Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases Thursday night after a five-day stay, a hospital spokesman said.

The actor's manager, Bob Hulter, said earlier that Laughton, 62, entered the hospital for examinations having to do with a sacroiliac condition and difficulty from a fractured collar bone sustained in a fall last January. The hospital spokesman had no comment.

It was believed the actor checked into a midtown hotel but neither Laughton nor his manager was available for comment.

Lake Thomas Catches Runoff To Boost Level By A Foot

Rain and hail fell over a portion of the Lake J. B. Thomas watershed Thursday night, boosting the level of the lake by a foot.

There was a possibility that the big reservoir of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will receive additional runoff. Part of the Fluvanna area in northwest Sevier County, where rains up to four inches were reported, is on the drainage area. Thus, it is possible some of this could come down Bull Creek and into the lake late today.

Around the lake, cabins and house trailers look a buffeting from the hail. There were reports of stones varying from golf ball to tennis ball size.

Damage, however, was tempered by the increase of some 6,000 acre feet of water in the lake. This amounts to about 2.2 billion gallons of water and at the current rate of withdrawal and evaporation would hold the district for four or five weeks. At noon, the elevation was 2,232.72, an increase of 1.01 feet.

Although the Colorado River and Bull Creek both were dropping, the rate of inflow was about .06 of a foot per hour. Should the Fluvanna runoff reach the mainstem of Bull Creek, it could start rising in the diversion channel into the lake again toward evening.

Snyder received 1.21 inches of rain overnight, making 2.35 inches in two days. Most of Sevier County now has received from two to five inches of moisture, along with a generous amount of hail, this week.

Rain continued westward as far as Gall where there were reports of one and a half to two inches of moisture, together with a bombardment of hail. The rain diminished to the south as it neared the Howard County line.

Lake J. B. Thomas reported 2.8 inches at both the Big Spring-Odessa intake, and at the Snyder intake at the dam.

The runoff into Lake Thomas was the first significant amount since Nov. 1, 1961.

Small Drops Reach County

Moisture, in small drops and spaced so as to little more than settle the dust, finally reached into Howard County Thursday night.

At the same time, neighboring counties to the north and northeast had heavy showers. Sweetwater measured 3.05 inches, Snyder 1.21 inches, Gall from 1.5 to 2 inches, and Colorado City .34 of an inch.

Vincent, in northeast Howard, had .25 of an inch and Otisbalk on the southeast corner .10 of an inch. In Big Spring, the only moisture came from sprinklers and hoses. Water metered Thursday to municipal customers totaled 9,124,000 gallons, highest so far in June and third highest for the year. Total water metered to city customers so far in 1962 stood at 974,404,000 gallons. The Thursday draw was 284,000 gallons more than Wednesday.

Big Springers anxiously watched a big, black cloud which hung in the north and northeast last night. Farmers, facing a critical planting situation for absolute lack of seasoning, gazed, too, as the clouds were illuminated and silhouetted by wild flashes of lightning. The storm seemed for a time to rock back and forth, to come up and recede. Then around midnight it began to break up.

Rainfall reported by the Texas Electric Service Station amounted to two inches at Eskota, near Sweetwater; 3.05 inches at Sweetwater; .70 of an inch at the Colorado City station. So far in 1962, Big Spring has measured only 1.63 inches of rain.

C-City On Fringe Of Thunderstorms

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The fringe of a thunderstorm brought a little more moisture here Thursday evening.

The official weather gauge showed .31 of an inch, which brought to five inches the amount of precipitation this year. Some parts of town, however, did not receive as much rain as the official gauge.

BULLETIN

Laos Princes Quit Talks On Coalition Till Monday

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP)—Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma said today the three prince summit conference has decided to adjourn its sessions until Monday to give its members time to reflect on the formation of a coalition government.

Emerging red-faced from a half-hour afternoon meeting with his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, and pro-Western Premier Prince Boun Oum, Souvanna told reporters: "One or two unsettled points obliged us to postpone the meeting until Monday and each party has demanded time for reflection."

He added that he hoped Monday's meeting will be the last one before he announces a formation of a coalition Cabinet.

Boun Oum and his delegation, which includes strong man Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, flew back to Vientiane and will return here Monday.

Souvanna, who is to head the coalition if it is formed, told newsmen Thursday "very great progress" had been made in the first session and he hoped for a final agreement today. He said the three factions had agreed on the key issue, which group would get the ministries of defense and interior and through them control of the army and police.

Souphanouvong, Souvanna's half brother who heads the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, told reporters he was satisfied and was "sure that a solution of a coalition is inevitable."

Gen. Phoumi also expressed optimism and said the talks were going smoothly. But he said no agreement had been made on the distribution of jobs.

Thai officials in Bangkok, who have close ties with Phoumi, said the general and Boun Oum were proposing a version of the troika—or three horse—system of control for the defense and interior ministries, as the Soviets proposed last year for the United Nations.

The Thai sources said the Vientiane troika plan calls for Souvanna to be minister of defense and interior as well as premier. But in each ministry he would have three assistant ministers—one from each faction—and all three would have to agree before any administrative action could be taken.

Evacuation

Members of a farm family near Warsaw, Poland, watch from the roof as a rescue worker helps evacuate two children in a wash tub on a makeshift wooden raft from flood waters surrounding the farm. Floods resulted from more than five straight weeks of rain, inundating as much as 200,000 acres of cropland.

Kennedy-McCormack Decision Due Tonight

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Eddies in Massachusetts Democratic try to stemmer down enough tonight to get a preliminary answer to this politically explosive question.

Who will it be, Teddy or Eddie? In more formal language, will the Democrats endorse Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, brother of the President, or the state attorney general, Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, for U.S. senator?

Party chieftains will put in a full day before reaching their big decision, probably late tonight.

Both men—Teddy is 39, Eddie is 36—flashed brilliant, confident smiles and claimed victory.

Kennedy—“We will have a clear majority” with possibly 1,000 votes.

McCormack—“I have 918.”

Since it takes 862 votes to win if all the delegates are present, somebody's arithmetic is remarkably shoddy.

Jane Froman Wins Suit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Court of Claims ruled Thursday that singer Jane Froman and two other wartime troop entertainers injured in a 1943 plane crash overseas should receive $30,000 each from the federal government.

The ruling was requested by Congress, which asked the court to determine how much should be paid. Congress will have to appropriate the money.

Miss Froman and the two other entertainers, Gypsy Markoff and Jean Rosen, were aboard a commercial plane which crashed near Lisbon, Portugal, with a loss of 23 lives. They were badly injured.

The court said that while none of the entertainers has any legal claim they are entitled under broad and equitable considerations to $30,000 each.

Suspect Sought

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Officers sought a San Antonio man today on charges of raping three girls early Tuesday. They identified him as Willie King, 28. They said four girls, one 14, two 16 and one 17, told of attacks after accepting a ride with two men.

THE PLAN OF SALVATION

By T. H. Torbet, preacher, Church of Christ, 1000 West Highway 30, P.O. Box 1385

God has a plan of salvation for lost mankind. It was purchased at great price on Calvary's cross. In God's plan, salvation is not universal. The Bible teaches that many people will be eternally lost, and only a few will find the straight and narrow way which leadeth unto life (Mat. 7:13,14).

Why, then, will only a few be saved? Has God, by arbitrary election and predestination, only made salvation available to a certain few? No! For all are invited to be saved. "Whoever will let him take of the water of life freely" (Rev. 22:17). There are conditions that man

U. S. Weather Mostly Fair

By The Associated Press

Showers and rain fell across scattered sections of the central and southern parts of the nation today but generally fair weather prevailed in most other areas.

Stormy weather battered broad sections of the eastern Panhandle-Plains country of Texas Thursday night, with tornadoes, hail and thunderstorms causing damage to crops and property. No injuries were reported.

The wet belt this morning extended from northeastern Colorado into Northwestern Texas and Oklahoma and into eastern parts of the Dakotas and Nebraska and western Minnesota. Weather also dampened areas in the Middle Mississippi Valley and in the central Gulf Coast states.

In Texas, the stormy weather hit areas east of Lubbock and extended along a 90-mile path from Snyder to past Silverton. Several twisters were reported and hailstones the size of golf balls destroyed crops in southern Briscoe County. Rainfall ranged from 1 to 4 inches.

Warm weather continued in most of the South. Early morning temperatures ranged from 87 in Blythe, Calif., to 39 in Rock Springs, Wyo. Readings in the eastern two-thirds of the country ranged from the 50s to the 70s. In western areas they were mostly from the 40s into the 60s, with 70s and 80s in southern sections of the desert, Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions.

Replacements Of Hearts Seen

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Replacement of a bad heart with a good one is possible in humans within the next five or ten years, a Yale University professor of surgery said today.

Such transplants have been made with dogs but have been only partially successful, mainly because the body seems to reject tissues of a strange heart. Dr. William W. L. Glenn told the Kentucky Heart Association.

Development of remarkable plastic materials may speed the day of human transplants, he said.

13 Young East Germans Take River Boat On Freedom Ride

BEELIN (AP)—Bringing a baby with them, 13 young East Germans hijacked a 30-ton river excursion boat early today and escaped to freedom under a hail of machine-gun bullets.

East German police, firing from a watch tower, a pier, a bridge and a patrol boat, pumped over 200 bullets into the fleeing vessel. Nobody was hurt.

West Berlin police fired 30 shots back at the East Germans to check their fire. The boat, the Friedrich Wolf, was riddled and there were bullet marks on buildings on the West Berlin shore.

The escapees included eight men, all employees of East Berlin's "white fleet" of excursion boats, five women, and one couple's 5-month-old boy. The adults, all about 30 or under, told police they had been planning the escape for a week.

Thursday night the men in the group went aboard the Friedrich Wolf at her mooring beside the River Spree and began drinking with her captain and engineer. When the two were off guard, they jumped them and tied them up.

Under cover of darkness they spirited their women and the baby aboard. Then at dawn the men got the two-deck boat moving.

They swung into the Spree and headed toward the center of Berlin, making for the point where the left bank of the river becomes the border between East and West Berlin.

Posts of Vopos — as the East German police are called — opened fire.

Racing the engines at their top speed of 10 knots, the men aboard the Friedrich Wolf suddenly swung left and rammed the boat into the entrance of the Landwehr Canal — Western territory.

The escapes, moving quickly in twos and threes, sprang ashore. They flung themselves to the ground to escape the whipping bullets. When the West Berlin police fired, the Vopos checked their fire.

The whole thing was over in 20 minutes.

The boat's captain and engineer were allowed to get the boat under way and return to East Berlin.

Police disclosed the group made a similar unsuccessful attempt to escape a week ago. They sailed one of the excursion boats down the Spree, but at the moment they should have turned into the canal, their passage was blocked by a passing barge. So they had to turn around and go back to East Berlin.

For Customers' Comfort

The customer entering the offices of Lee Optical will find comfortable, modern surroundings. The company has provided plush carpeting and restful light green walls. The showcases in the foreground display only a portion of the large and varied stock of frames from which the purchaser will be able to select the frames just right for him.

Lee Optical Opens New Office Here

Open house and grand opening ceremonies will be held this weekend to mark the opening of Big Spring's new Lee Optical office.

The opening of Lee Optical's newest office for this area was announced by Dr. Ellis Carp, optometrist, owner-director of the concern.

Long established in the business family of this general area since the opening of Lee Optical in Odessa and Midland in March of 1955, the opening of this office in Big Spring is a natural result of the increasing demand for the complete optical services offered by the firm, Dr. Carp said.

Lee Optical in Odessa is located at 400 N. Grant, in Midland at the corner of Texas Street and Andrews Highway. The Midland office recently moved to this new location across from the Village Shopping Center.

"Of course, the new Lee Optical in Big Spring will offer glasses at one price," Dr. Carp said, "just as is the policy in Odessa and Midland."

"The entire interior of the new Lee Optical has been refurbished, making it the area's most beautiful optometric office," Dr. Carp continued.

"We are certain that the residents of the Big Spring trade area will find it most pleasant and comfortable."

Subdued colorings predominate in the redecorated office, which is ultra-modern in decor. Furnishings and atmosphere are designed to be functional, attractive, comfortable and to provide utmost convenience to the patient.

Completely equipped refracting rooms for professional eye examinations, plus special frame fitting areas are included in the office plan.

Patients have privacy in the fitting areas while they select their frames and work out other details of their glasses and contact lenses.

The outstanding frame collection will be one of the highlights of the new Big Spring Lee Optical office. The frame display at the front of the office will offer the largest selection of frame styles and colors to be found in this area.

Expert frame stylists will be on hand at all times to assist patients in selecting the frames best suited to their facial contour and coloring. This is but one of the many services offered at no additional cost at Lee Optical.

Lee Optical has served countless thousands of patients in the area with complete eye care and quality eye wear. According to Dr. Carp, the rapid growth of Lee Optical can be attributed to the combination of professional eye care, thorough eye examination, accurately ground lenses and smart frame-style selections offered to the patient at one price.

Glasses at Lee Optical are one price, including eye examination, single vision or kryptok bifocal lenses—clear or tinted, and choice of any frame in stock.

Contact lenses are priced at one low price, complete. Easy credit terms can be quickly and easily arranged, Dr. Carp said.

"The public is cordially invited to visit Big Spring's new Lee Optical this weekend," said the manager. "Everyone attending the grand opening will receive a miniature pair of glasses on a handy keychain as a reminder that good vision is the most treasured possession we have!"

JFK Prosperity Plan Includes Tax Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy pins his strategy for prosperity on a five-point tax package that includes across-the-board income tax cuts starting next January.

"There is no need for this country to stand helplessly by and watch a recovery run out of gas," Kennedy told his news conference Thursday.

"We have a program to boost it and I hope that all those who are concerned about their stocks or their profits or their jobs will help us get action on this program," he added.

Thus inviting public support, including support from critics who contend administration policies upset the stock market, Kennedy urged Congress to get down to business quickly on his proposals.

Tax talk highlighted the news conference in which Kennedy snapped back at Republican detractors and said he would take the stump for Democratic candidates in the November elections.

NOT IMMEDIATE

He made clear the administration does not intend to recommend an immediate cut in income taxes. But he said he will offer a tax reform bill providing reductions in both personal and corporate income taxes, effective Jan. 1, for congressional action next year.

Details are being worked out, he said, but will result in a net loss—the reductions "will not be wholly offset by other reforms."

Kennedy conceded his goal of a $70-billion gross national product, the value of the nation's output, probably will not be achieved this year. The stock market decline won't help, he said, but adoption of his tax package would improve chances "of being close."

He listed these other points in the program: The House-passed tax credit for money invested in new machinery and equipment.

Further changes in schedules by which companies save money through tax writeoffs for depreciation of plant and equipment.

Tax reduction Kennedy estimated these two steps would represent a tax reduction for business of more than $2.5 billion.

Approval of his request for standby authority to cut taxes in order to head off threats of recession. The House Ways and Means Committee hasn't acted on this proposal.

Repeal of the 10 per cent tax on rail and bus transportation and cutting the tax on air travel in half, to 5 per cent.

"Action on this tax package will provide our economy with all of the stimulus and safeguards now deemed necessary," Kennedy said. "I hope such action will be forthcoming."

The President distinguished measures in the package from his proposals to withhold taxes on dividends and interest and to prevent corporations from finding tax havens abroad. But these proposals also ought to pass, he said. Kennedy declared he will be active in the fall election campaigns. And he congratulated former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for winning the GOP gubernatorial primary in California. That's one state in which Kennedy is expected to appear, on behalf of Nixon's opponent, Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Other states which party sources believe he is most likely to invade are Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Michigan, Kentucky and possibly Oregon, Utah and South Dakota.

Kennedy took a swing at Republican National Chairman William E. Miller and other GOP leaders after repudiating a statement by Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey accusing Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York of prejudice against Negroes. He said he had been waiting "for about a year and a half" for leading Republicans to repudiate some of the charges Miller had flung against him.

To the laughter of newsmen, but to his own admitted regret, Kennedy prolonged the conference for one more question after the traditional "Thank you, Mr. President" had been called out and reporters with early deadlines scurried toward the doors. The additional question forced him smilingly to acknowledge a difference of opinion with Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York over Rep. Charles A. Buckley, D.N.Y.

Kennedy supports and Wagner opposes Buckley. "And that is the way it is going to be, I guess," Kennedy said.

OTHER TOPICS

On other matters: Foreign Aid—Kennedy said he was glad the Senate restored at least the government's authority to aid Poland and Yugoslavia with surplus food. The Senate Thursday exempted foodstuffs from the ban it voted Wednesday on any assistance to Communist dominated countries. Kennedy said the United States requires flexibility in its foreign aid program.

Medical Care—Passage of his plan to finance medical care of the aged through Social Security, Kennedy argued, would not nullify the Kerr-Mills law. Under this law Washington supplies funds to help pay medical bills of the needy in states which set up programs of their own. Kerr-Mills assistance would still go to persons not covered by Social Security, he said, and he would support additional measures to aid people in that category.

De Gaulle—Kennedy said he hadn't heard anything of a report he and President Charles de Gaulle of France are arranging to meet. He also said there is no relationship between the question of furnishing nuclear information to France and either the arrangement of better terms for Britain to enter the Common Market or improvement of relations with De Gaulle.

PRIORITY LIST Legislation—with time growing short and Congress members eager to get home in this election year, Kennedy said a priority list of legislation the administration particularly wants passed will have to be drawn up. He mentioned aid for higher education, but not general school aid, among the proposals to be considered for the list.

Spain—The President answered with a terse "No" when asked if he had met with Spanish Republicans while in Venezuela last December and told them he would work to overthrow the Franco regime in Spain.

Mexico—He still intends to visit Mexico the end of this month, Kennedy said, and he doesn't intend to get into a quarrel over disparaging remarks about the United States by Mexico's ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Cigarettes—Kennedy declined to comment on the controversy over the possible effect of cigarette smoking on lung cancer, other than to cite plans of the Public Health Service to appoint a panel of experts to study the question.

Meanwhile, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., announced that he now was certain the votes were available to knock the withholding plan for dividends and interest from the House-passed bill now before the Senate Finance Committee which he heads.

This is supposed to provide half of the revenue to finance the investment credit feature designed as a $1.55 billion incentive to business to modernize its plant and equipment.

Byrd is known to feel that if withholding is beaten, the investment credit also will fail—since otherwise the bill would be too costly.

OAS Mysteriously Halts Its Terrorism In Algiers

ALGIERS (AP)—The European Secret Army Organization today mysteriously halted its terrorism in Algiers at least temporarily after a day of arson and indiscriminate shooting.

Hopeful French officials believed the appeal for peace by Jean Georges Sarradet, head of some 2,000 secret army commandos, was beginning to work.

Most Europeans, however, said skeptically it was the driving rain over the city that stopped the destructive action.

Sarradet called Thursday on his fellow terrorists to abandon their struggle and seek peace with the top leaders of Moslem nationalism.

But at this stage the leaders of the Algerian nationalists apparently had no desire to deal with the European terrorists.

Throughout the morning, thousands of rain-soaked Europeans besieged banks and the remaining post office buildings to withdraw savings.

The secret army spread word through the city that starting Tuesday it will prevent the operation of banks and halt money transfers to France.

At the administrative center at Rocher Noir, the commission controlling the forthcoming self-determination referendum announced that seven political parties registered for the July 1 voting.

Among the parties are the Moslem rebel Front of National Liberation (FLN) and its rival national Algerian movement which registered under its old name of the "Party of the Algerian People."

Not a single party representing Algeria's Europeans made its appearance as the deadline for registrations expired at midnight. The hitherto banned Algerian Communist party asked for permission to campaign.

France's high commissioner in Algeria, Christian Fouchet, was summoned to Paris by President Charles de Gaulle for urgent consultation.

The mysterious halt in secret army terrorism throughout the morning was a surprise, for new fire attacks on government buildings and economic installations in the scorched earth campaign had been expected.

FUNERAL NOTICE

ROBERT LEROY HARRLEE, 66. Passed away Wednesday. Funeral service Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock at McComman Funeral Home in Corsicana, Texas, interment in Corsicana Cemetery.

RIVER Funeral Home
24 HOUR AMBULANCE SERVICE

Algeria's second largest city—Thursday night after a booby-trapped tank truck exploded and spread flaming gasoline over a new high school used as a police barracks.

Secret army commandos struck almost simultaneously at a big natural gas tank in the same part of town and set it afire.

The fiery attacks in Oran came a few hours after three phosphorus bombs started a fire that gutted the main building of Algiers University, in the capital.

With the resumption of the terrorism—including the indiscriminate shooting down of Moslems—came more evidence of the rift in the secret army between the diehards and those ready to give up the fight.

Coming out of hiding, terrorist leader Jean Georges Sarradet called a news conference to appeal to the diehards to quit. "We have lost the battle," he said.

"We have no right to drag the European community into a catastrophe."

Sarradet coupled his call with a plea to Moslem nationalists to grant the secret army a general amnesty to pave the way for a peaceful future in the new Algeria.

Moslem leaders demanded European settlers show their repudiation of the secret army or risk their future in the country when Algeria becomes independent.

Plans went ahead for the July 1 self-determination referendum. The Moslem high command warned the Europeans if they boycott the vote, it will be taken as a clear demonstration they are obeying the dictates of the secret army.

A spokesman for the National Liberation Front gave the terrorists until July 1 to flee.

Baptists Will Watch Books

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Troubled by a book, Southern Baptists don't want it banned outright. But they want their agencies to be more careful about what they publish—and teach.

This was the policy-setting word from the big church body's annual convention as it neared a close today.

More than 10,000 assembled "messengers" also turned down a proposal that they expand their organizational territory beyond the country's borders.

Opponents said such a step would cause dangerous, divisive and damaging rivalry with Baptist bodies in other nations.

However, it was the doctrinal teaching and publishing controversy, flaring through the 10-million-member denomination in recent months that roused the convention heat.

Conservative forces, charging liberal theological tendencies in seminaries and other agencies, centered their protests on a book, "The Message of Genesis," by an Old Testament scholar, Dr. Ralph Elliott of Midwestern Seminary in Kansas City.

In a tempestuous, see-saw battle, moves were twice launched to force Broadman Press, run by the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, to suppress the book and call in all copies from outlets.

One Midwestern minister, at the urging of Baptist leaders, voluntarily withdrew his motion for such action. But another pastor, the Rev. Ben D. Windham of Portland, Ore., Thursday night again pressed the same proposal.

It was narrowly defeated, by a standing vote.

In his book, Dr. Elliott takes the view that some sections of Genesis present religious truth in figurative rather than literal terms.

Victim Of Blast Dies

LAMESA—Richard Allen Trammell Bybee, 24, burned critically in a gas explosion that smashed a duplex apartment here early Thursday, died at 6 p.m. in Medical Arts Hospital.

Funeral rites will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Methodist Church with Rev. Wendell Stewart officiating, assisted by the Rev. Ross Dunn. Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park with Higginbotham Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Bybee was alone at the house at 1305 N. Fifth Street when a blast rocked an area of several blocks. Neighbors defied flames and pulled Bybee out of a flaming bed. Authorities said that either the flip of an electric switch or striking of a match apparently touched off a gas accumulation.

Mr. Bybee was employed by a seismograph company and had resided here since his birth in Lamesa on Oct. 15, 1937.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Joann Bybee; two sons, Mark Allen, 4, Jeffrey Lee, 1 month, and a daughter, Holly Jane, 2. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trammell, Lamesa; a brother, Dannie Trammell, Lamesa.

LETTER

Texans' Vote On Foreign Aid Is Noted

To the Editor: I notice with great interest, and with considerable pleasure, on the front page of today's paper that both senators from the state of Texas voted to ban aid to any Communist dominated country. I believe it would be only fair, however, to mention that Sen. Ralph Yarborough had originally voted in favor of the administration's desire to provide aid to Communist dominated countries.

To quote another highly respected paper, the "San Angelo Standard-Times": "Eight Democrats who voted with the administration during the roll call switched to the other side before the result was announced, when it became apparent the amendment would be adopted." Sen. Ralph Yarborough was one of the eight who switched his vote.

Compensation Suits Filed

Three compensation suits each seeking $14,035, have been filed in 118th District Court.

Jackie Darrell Hopper is asking $14,035 from the Texas Employers' Insurance Association as compensation for work lost. He filed two of the cases, one for injuries alleged to have occurred while working for Texas Electric Service Co. April 17, 1961 and the other while employed for the same firm July 27, 1961.

The other suit, Walter M. Wingo vs. Liberty Insurance Co. of Texas, (now Liberty Universal Insurance Co.), asks $14,035 compensation for work lost from injuries alleged to have occurred while Wingo was employed by B. B. Adams.

Two divorce suits were also filed. Evonda June Perryman is suing Joe L. Perryman for divorce and Loreta Daggett is seeking a divorce from Bruce Daggett.

Well Probe Is Overdone, Oil Man Says

KILGORE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and the Department of Public Safety "have overly dramatized" a deviated drilling probe in the East Texas Field, an independent producers spokesman asserted Thursday.

In a protest also directed at the Railroad Commission, C. U. Yoachum said:

"It came as a shock to independent producers that the attorney general and Texas Rangers should suddenly appear on the scene to employ police state methods of investigation."

State police have been standing guard with orders to prevent the plugging of any well awaiting a directional drilling test.

Yoachum is temporary chairman of a group formed by about 80 independent producers.

"The only violence we know of is a killing in East Texas involving an investigator of a major oil company and the collapsing of a derrick when the Railroad Commission was pulling rods and tubing to make a survey," Yoachum said.

An Humble oil investigator was acquitted by a Rusk County jury last winter after pleading self-defense to a charge of murder.

A derrick collapsed this week on a 3-well lease about 5 miles south of Kilgore belonging to Owen Thomas of Kilgore.

The Railroad Commission is making tests in the field to determine if wells have been drilled on a slant, thereby producing oil from beneath other leases. One well has been found to slant more than 3,200 feet from vertical.

Ceiling Is Voted Onto Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has voted a $4.7-billion ceiling on foreign aid spending next year—just about what President Kennedy requested.

But there's evidence Congress intends to slash away at the aid program before it finally provides the money that may be spent. The measure passed Thursday by the Senate 61 to 23 simply sets limits on aid spending in the fiscal year that begins July 1. The appropriations will be handled later in separate legislation.

Actually, the administration had to settle for partial victory on its embattled provision for aid to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia in an attempt to wean them away from Soviet domination.

Wednesday the Senate voted 57 to 24 to bar foreign aid to such countries. But, with heavy pressure from the White House and combined appeals from Democratic and Republican leaders, the Senate retreated Thursday and voted 56 to 34 to exempt gifts and sales of surplus food.

It still left the ban on any assistance under the foreign aid bill itself, including $10 million in economic development loans the administration had programmed for Yugoslavia next fiscal year.

At his news conference Kennedy welcomed the action on food saying it would give him the necessary flexibility to help peoples who want to remain independent.

Only a short time later administration forces succeeded by the narrow vote of 45 to 40 in rejecting an amendment by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., which would have denied foreign aid to countries which export arms or strategic materials to Sino-Soviet bloc countries, including Cuba.

No attempts were made to cut the bill so far as money is concerned.

It carries authority for $600 million for fiscal 1963 for the Alliance for Progress program in Latin America and $800 million for each of the succeeding three years.

In addition it authorizes $1.5 billion for military assistance and $1.25 billion for economic development loans outside Latin America, authorized last year.

Neither of these items were subject to reduction in the authorization bill but likely will be the targets for sharp cuts when the appropriations bill comes up.

As passed the aid bill authorizes $300 million for economic development grants, $35 million less than Kennedy asked, and $400 million in economic supports for defense pact allies and technical assistance programs. The Senate went along with its Foreign Relations Committee which sliced $100 million from the $400 million Kennedy asked for his contingency fund to meet unforeseeable emergencies.

In addition the measure puts a ceiling of $772 million on the amount that can be provided India next year, and the Senate accepted an amendment by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., that asks the administration to reduce funds to nations which receive economic assistance and then buy arms from the Soviet bloc. This was aimed, Keating said, at countries like India, Indonesia and Egypt.

The big fight centered around helping Yugoslavia and Poland. The President got discretionary authority to provide the two countries with surplus agricultural commodities under the strict conditions that he advise Congress in advance that he has found the recipient country (1) is not participating directly or indirectly in any program for Communist conquest of the world (2) is not controlled by a country promoting such conquest and (3) the assistance is in the interest of U.S. security.

Harris Clerk Disappears In Records Probe

HOUSTON (AP)—Disappearance of a deputy county clerk was the latest development today in an investigation of Harris County probate court records, which spread to the county grand jury Thursday.

The missing man is Thomas Tweedy, 54. He formerly was in charge of the probate records division in the county clerk's office.

Tweedy is reported to have furnished a substantial amount of the information obtained by the district attorney and his investigators during the past month.

His disappearance was reported by County Clerk R. E. Turrentine Jr., who said: "Tweedy is scared to death and has been hiding for the last five days."

Turrentine said Tweedy was found by two deputy county clerks but they lost him again Thursday.

The county clerk said he told the clerks to notify police but then canceled the order because there is no reason to believe Tweedy is in danger.

Witnesses heard by the grand jury Thursday included Mrs. Dorothy Sanders, an assistant bookkeeping manager at the Bank of the Southwest.

Mrs. Wolff stayed in the grand jury room about 30 minutes. Mrs. Sanders carried a file of bank records inside and did not have them when she left 20 minutes later.

Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe launched an investigation of probate court records two weeks ago at Turrentine's request. Turrentine said certain facts and information came to his attention while probate court records were being microfilmed in his office.

Auditors Seeking $5 Million Missing From Estes Funds

DALLAS (AP)—Auditors are trying to trace $5 million which disappeared from bank accounts of Billie Sol Estes in 14 months, the Dallas news reported today.

"Some creditors think the money went to Switzerland," said the newspaper's copyrighted story.

Estes is the West Texas promoter who has been indicted on fraud and theft charges and is being investigated by two congressional committees. His multi-million-dollar grain storage, cotton growing and liquid fertilizer sales interests are in the hands of a receiver.

FBI agents arrested Estes at his Pecos home March 29. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy said he ordered the move because there were reports Estes might flee to Brazil.

The Dallas News said the auditing firm of Ernst & Ernst is hunting the missing money. It did not say who hired the audit. A spokesman for the firm would not comment.

These details were given by the newspaper.

Estes deposited about $12 million in 40 bank accounts between Jan. 1, 1961, and March 1, 1962. He received an additional $400,000 about last March 1 or 2 on a 90-day personal note given Maynard Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp.

Court-appointed receiver Harry Moore Jr. subsequently found on taking over that the 40 bank accounts contained a mere $12,359.

"At the peak of this 14-month period," the News said, "Estes was paying numerous finance companies at the rate of $527,000 per month. Thus the total paid out could have been only $7,378,000. It doubtless was much less."

"So between about $7 million spent and the $12 million plus $400,000 on deposit to Estes accounts, more than $5 million cannot be accounted for."

Auditors presently are working at Plainview, which was headquarters for Estes' grain storage operations.

M. R. Irion and Frank Cain, Dallas law partners, disclosed that Estes, then in jail, telephoned Irion on March 31.

"I've got a good deal for you," Irion quoted Estes. "I have a party who will buy all the sales contracts for anhydrous ammonia tanks."

"They will pay finance companies 10 per cent on all sales contracts made by farmers who have no financial worth and will pay 90 per cent on all contracts made by parties who have a financial responsibility."

Irion said he doubted that Estes had any such benefactor, adding: "Then Estes told me to wait a minute, that he had a man he wanted me to talk with. He was William Leonhardt, vice president and treasurer of Commercial Solvents."

DEAR ABBY

Use Your Ingenuity

DEAR ABBY: Has a woman ever proposed to a man? I've been going with this fellow for three years. He's told everyone he knows that he wants to marry me, but he hasn't told me yet. We aren't kids, either. He is 33 and I am 31. He talks about marriage but he never comes right out and asks me to marry him. How can I get him to propose or do you think I should ask him?

WANTS TO MARRY: DEAR ABBY: Your man is a bashful one. Make it easy for him and get him on the subject again. If he talks about it long enough, he'll either ask you, or think he did.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a friend who has the nerve to ask you to make a dessert for her dinner party and then, at the dinner party, when everyone is telling her how delicious it is, she just says, "Thank you," and never opens up her mouth about who really made it. She has done this to me more than once.

READY TO EXPLODE: DEAR ABBY: I think she is a small, insecure, begrudging, ungrateful fiend. Now, ask me what I think of a "friend" who would supply dessert for this kind of person twice.

DEAR ABBY: What makes women like you tick?

CURIOUS MAN: DEAR ABBY: Men like you who get us all wound up!

DEAR ABBY: There is much controversy over the fact that where there are children a couple should stay together even though there is constant bickering and quarreling. I believe that children are better off raised in the quiet atmosphere of a peaceful home with only one parent. How do widows manage? I depend on your answer.

TROUBLED MIND: DEAR TROUBLED: Widows "manage" because of circumstances beyond their control. Divorced couples make their own misery. If married people would exercise one-half the effort toward making a peaceful and pleasant home for their children as they do in less important activities, they could eliminate the bickering and quarreling they find so impossible to live with. Amen!

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of the Big Spring Herald.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Tornadoes, Rain, Hail Hit W. Texas

By The Associated Press

An occasional, tornado, drenching rains and destructive hail hit broad stretches of West and North Texas as massive thunderstorms moved across the state during the night.

The storms, forming lines up to 200 miles long, pushed eastward in waves, continuing well into Friday morning. Forecasts promised the nightly round of thunderstorms would continue across northern areas of Texas and thundershowers in the south through Saturday.

Heavy crop losses were reported in several parts of the Panhandle and Plains. There was no word of any injuries.

Twisters struck 11 miles southeast of Silverton southeast of Lubbock in Kent County and in the Lake Thomas vicinity near Snyder.

An estimated 4 inches of rain cascaded onto the Fluvanna area, in the path of one set of storms stretching from Snyder northward past Silverton. Snyder measured 1.10 inches.

MM To Return To Movie Set

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe says she'll quit her sickbed Monday and return to the movie set, a development that could put an end to much recent bickering between studio and star.

The actress let it be known Thursday that she was ready and eager to get back to work on the movie her studio says has been twice shut down because of her absenteeism.

The Monroe statement came after 20th Century-Fox talked of replacing the blonde charmer in "Something's Got to Give." Noting that Kim Novak was available, a studio source said that Miss Novak might very well get the part.

WONDERING what makes the daily newspaper the top advertising buy? It's the number and quality of the people the daily newspaper reaches, and their friendly reaction to newspaper advertising. When an advertiser invests in any medium, he's buying an audience for his sales message. The newspaper audience is large. Almost 100,000,000 people read a daily newspaper every day in the U.S.* And that audience remains very constant. There's no "summer slump" in newspapers, no peak listening or viewing hours, no special moment when you must nail down an audience or miss out completely. The daily newspaper sells around the clock. Readers can study it at their leisure...enjoy it...relax with it...clip it...buy from it. And they do.

Andre Rodgers Rips Into Giant Hurling

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Andre Rodgers, who exchanged his cricket paddle for a baseball bat, was traded for a manager and repudiated before he got to play a game with his new mates, may have saved his latest job with a sudden display of power for the Chicago Cubs.

The young shortstop stroked a bases-loaded single in a three-run fourth inning uprising against National League leading San Francisco, then tagged a homer in the sixth for the deciding run as the Cubs whipped his former teammates 4-3 Thursday.

Rodgers, 27, Bahamas-born cricket player, originally came up with the Giants, failed to make it as their shortstop and wound up in the trade that brought Al Dark from Milwaukee to become San Francisco manager. He didn't play a game for the Braves before he was shipped to Chicago.
Hitting only .263, Rodgers might have been on the bench if Alex Grammas, acquired in a trade two days ago, had reported to the Cubs. At game time Grammas still was missing. Rodgers played, and won it.
Second-place Los Angeles lost an opportunity to take over first place when Dick Stuart hit a three-run homer in the last of the ninth and gave Pittsburgh a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers. That kept the Dodgers a half-game back of the Giants.
Elsewhere St. Louis won its third straight after snapping an eight-game losing streak by beating Cincinnati 8-2 and Houston came from behind to edge Milwaukee and Warren Spahn 3-2. The New York Mets and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

45 Linksters Beat Arnie In Classic

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—"Arnie is just giving the field a head start this week."
That was the laughing analysis offered by two-time National Amateur champion Jack Nicklaus when 45 players scored better than Arnold Palmer in the first round of the $100,000 Classic tournament at the Upper Montclair Country Club.

It was given, however, with a slightly rueful chuckle that indicated nobody, least of all his pro rivals, figures Arnie will be far away when the $25,000 first prize is handed out Sunday night.
Gay Brewer, heavy-hitting Kentucky-bred pro who plays from Crystal River, Fla., solved the tricky greens on the 7,055-yard course to take the first round lead with 33-33-66.
He was one stroke ahead of Gene Littler, who is turning up here to defend his U.S. Open championship at Oakmont, Penn., next week, and Earl Stewart, 40, a club pro from Dallas, Tex.
Palmer, winner of six tournaments this year, favorite to add to his immense earnings here and probable favorite for next week's National Open, had a 73, one over par. He was still feeling the effects of a cold that has bothered Manager Hank Bauer likes his Kansas City infield but he is especially fond of his captain, shortstop Dick Howser, who made the grade in a hurry a year ago.

Colts Rise Up To Jolt Spahn

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Colts rallied for two runs in the ninth inning to beat Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2 Thursday night. Billy Goodman drove in the winner with a two-out pinch single.
Jim Pendleton and Norm Larker singled with one out but Spahn got Carl Warwick on a fly ball. Rookie catcher Merritt Ranew JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Schreiner Institute of Texas had finalists in both singles and doubles in the National Junior College Tennis Tournament today.

Ingram and Bee Wood reached the doubles finals, where they faced Dave Osborne and Charley Crane of Lubbock, Tex., Christian College.

Cooper Procter Blanks Pirates

Cooper Procter pitched the Lions to a 3-0 American Little League victory over the Pirates here Thursday night, setting the Bucs down with two hits.
The Lions scored their lone run in the second when Glenn Matlack doubled, stole third base and came home on a passed ball.
The Lions, who are now 6-4 on the season, collected three safeties off Jimmy Farris, the loser. Matlack had two of them while Procter had the other one.
Tommy Manis and Gian Chapman each drove out a hit for the losers. The Pirates now have a

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Sam Houston State was out of the NAIA Baseball Tournament today as the result of two straight losses.
It took a 5-3 licking from Portland State and a 1-0 defeat from Lewis College of Illinois Thursday.
Against Lewis, Sam Houston's Alton Arnold pitched a five-hitter in a 13-inning game. But Bob Bachman hurled a three-hitter for Lewis and drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

Seven 3-Year-Olds Run Saturday In Belmont

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The richest, and one of the most unpredictable, of all Belmont stakes since the great classic was inaugurated in 1967, will be raced Saturday at Belmont Park.

Seven 3-year-olds are scheduled to go postward in the 1 1/4-mile test barring any late developments at the secretary's office where official entries were to be made this morning. Seven starters would make the purse $152,050, with the winner grabbing $108,300. Sherluck took a record $104,900 last June.

The big four consists of George A. Pope Jr.'s Decidedly, Donald Widener's Jaipur, and Peter W. Salmen Sr.'s Crimson Satan.

Giles Is Pleased With Colt Park

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Warren C. Giles became the grandfather of a Texas three weeks ago, all pink and blond and named Joseph Williams.

A few months before, he—as president of the National League—became the foster father of a new stadium, not only pink and blond, but lavender and chaireuse, and named Colt Stadium.

Giles was glad for the first time Thursday, proudly escorted by his son, Bill, the press agent for the Houston Colts.

Needless to say, he was impressed. "Once retired to the press box to watch Warren Spahn and Dick Farrell duel it out in the last of a three-game series between Houston and Milwaukee, Giles was asked:

"Since the interim stadium has made such a favorable impression on you, does that mean the league might not be too impatient about delays involving the new one?"

The $15 million domed stadium originally was proposed for completion in time for baseball this year. The completion date has now been pushed up for some time in 1964.

Giles took a deep breath and said, "This park surpasses any vision I had of it, but the National League will never be happy with Houston until it has a domed stadium."

Overall, he said he considers Houston one of the bright spots of the 1962 season.

All four Pan American players reached the third round. The Texans' top-seeded Jerry Wortelboer advanced on a bye and a defeat. Second-seeded teammate Don Russell had a bye and an easy victory over Gene McCabe of St. Ambrose (Iowa).

The New Zealander, holder of the world two-mile and three-mile records is entered in the three-mile run but he said he will attempt to break the world record in the 5,000-meter run.

Braves Nudge Cards, 4-3

Bobby Lyons scored a run in the fourth inning that enabled the Braves to edge the Cardinals, 4-3, in National Little League play here Thursday night.

Mike Gartman received credit for the mound victory while Ford Farris was charged with the defeat. Lyons reached base on a walk. The Braves collected only four hits off Cardinal hurling while the Reds got nine off the Braves.

The big four consists of George A. Pope Jr.'s Decidedly, Donald Widener's Jaipur, and Peter W. Salmen Sr.'s Crimson Satan.

Crimson Satan, who was voted the best 3-year-old in 1961 but failed badly in the earlier classics this year, finished first by a nose in the wild-eyed Jersey derby by finish May 30 at Garden State Park. Jaipur nosed out Admiral's Victory for second.

The weatherman promises partly cloudy weather, warm, but with no rain in sight until Saturday night. If the weather cooperates fully, a crowd of 50,000 is expected. The race will be broadcast nationally (CBS radio and TV) from 3:30-4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

All of the jockeys have ridden in the Belmont before, Willie Shoemaker winning with Gallant Man (1957) and Sword Dancer (1959), Bill Hartack with Celtic Ash (1960) and Braulio Beza with Sherluck. She will handle Jaipur, with Hartack on Decidedly, Naza aboard Admiral's Victory, John L. Rotz on Greek Money, and Manuel Yeaza on Crimson Satan.

Twins In Surprising Bid For Lead In AL

By The Associated Press
It's June and the Minnesota Twins are still within striking distance of the American League lead — which must rate as one of the more startling developments in what is turning into a season of startling developments.
The Twins climbed a notch Thursday, beating Kansas City 5-2 behind the pitching of right-hander Joe Bonikowski and the key hitting of Rich Rollins.
That victory, coupled with the New York Yankees 4-0 shutout of Cleveland reshuffled the top of the standings. The Yanks kept their hold on first place, but Minnesota jumped up to second — one game out — and the Indians fell to third, two games behind.
In other games—Boston tripped

STAFFORD

Detroit 5-4, Chicago beat Los Angeles 8-4, and Baltimore crushed Washington 12-5.
In the National League—Chicago nipped San Francisco 4-3, Pittsburgh rallied for a 3-2 decision over Los Angeles, St. Louis rapped Cincinnati 8-2 and Houston overcame Milwaukee 3-2. New York and Philadelphia had the day off.
Bonikowski, 21, a slender Pennsylvanian held the Athletics to six hits. He struck out five and did not allow a walk, winning his fifth against four losses.
Kansas City starter Dave Wickersham took the defeat.
Bill Stafford's shutout was the Yanks' second straight over Cleveland in their abbreviated two-game series with the Indians.
Stafford faced only 29 men, retiring the first 10 in order.
Roger Maris led off the fourth with his 10th homer for New York's first hit off loser Jim Perry, and it stayed 1-0 until the Yankees got three insurance runs in the eighth.

The Red Sox nipped the Tigers with an eighth inning run. Before that it had been a home run duel, with pitcher Earl Wilson and Gary Geiger connecting for Boston and Rocky Colavito and Jake Wood for Detroit. Arnold Earley was the winning pitcher and Ron Kline the loser.
Al Smith sparked the White Sox over the Angels, getting five hits in five tries. In all, Chicago batters collected 14 hits off five Los Angeles pitchers, starting with loser Eli Grba.
Eddie Fisher got the victory in relief of Juan Pizarro.
The Orioles scored in all but two innings against the Senators, hammered out 14 hits, collected seven walks and rolled up their biggest score of the season. Jack Fisher was Baltimore's starting pitcher but failed to last past the third. He was taken out after Chuck Hinton's two-run homer and Billy Hoef went the rest of the way. Washington left-hander Pete Burnside, chased in the Orioles' four-run second, was the loser.

Yates Opposes Sinton Golfer

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Richard Yates of Corpus Christi and Jack Satterwhite of Sinton clashed in a 36-hole match today for the Texas amateur golf championship.
Yates struggled 23 holes before beating Don Raybourn of San Antonio and then knocked out Dr. Al Range of Randolph Air Force Base 2 and 1 Thursday to reach the finals.
Satterwhite took out Pat Thompson of Mission 4 and 3, and then bested Bill Garrett of Fort Worth 2 and 1.
Each player will be making his first bid for the big prize. Satterwhite, 45, is noted as a tough tournament player but in his own balliwick. Yates' top victory has been the championship of the Corpus Christi Country Club.
Defending champion John Paul Cain of Lubbock was eliminated in the early rounds.
In the quarterfinals, Garrett upset Babe Hiskey of Houston 1-up and Dr. Range defeated Frank Luke of North Texas State 3 and 2 in another upset.

Next Week L. Loop Week In Big Spring, Nation

The week of June 11-16 has been designated as Little League Baseball Week in Big Spring and throughout the country.
A proclamation to that effect has been issued by John F. Kennedy, President of the United States.
Baseball's role in the stepped-up drive to improve the physical fitness of American youth will be emphasized during that time.
Little Leaguers, more than one million strong in 5,000 communities in all 50 states will take part in local programs marking Little League Week.
In his proclamation, President Kennedy observed:
"Active participation by youth contributes to their fitness and to the maintenance of our national vigor and vitality. Little League Baseball not only promotes the physical well-being but instills the qualities of fairness, cooperation and discipline — qualities which contribute to the development of good citizenship."
Legion To Visit Denver City Park
The Big Spring American Legion baseball team goes to Denver City today, seeking its second victory in District 19 competition.
In their debut last week, the local contingent kayoed Coahoma, 12-0, behind the effective pitching of Roy New. New may go to the mound for Big Spring again today.
The Legionnaires play their first home game next Friday, at which time they host Brownfield at Steer Park.

Smith's Defeats Phillips, 7 To 6

E. C. Smith Construction had to go all out to edge Phillips 66 in a Big Spring Softball league game here Thursday night, 7-6. Phillips had only seven players available.
The victory, achieved behind the pitching of Billy Paul Thomas, was the tenth without a loss in first half play for the Contractors. Phillips 66 wound up with a 3-7 record in first half competition.
Phillips 66 outbit Smith's by a margin of 7-5 and a four-run outburst in the final inning fell just short of tying the score for Phillips.
Smith's led, 2-1, going into the fifth but banked two runs then and added three more in the sixth.

Marion Tredaway crashed out two singles for the winners while Billy Paul Thomas and Buck Drake each drove in two runs for Smith's.
Tredaway finished one-third of an inning for Smith's and gave up one hit, two earned runs, walked two and hit two batters.
Buddy Travis crossed the plate three times for the Phillips team.

Texas Gate Up Over Last Year

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Attendance in the Texas League is up more than 30 per cent over last year at this time, the league office reported today.
Through May the six clubs had drawn 193,725 fans, an average of 1,417 and an increase of 65,671 over 1961. It is estimated that less than 1,200 a game will pay expenses.
Tulsa led with 46,180 fans for the first 22 home games, a gain of 16,246 over last year. The average was 2,059 a game. El Paso and Albuquerque, new members of the circuit, drew 45,023 and 43,298, respectively.
San Antonio pulled in 29,660, an increase of 5,117 over last year. Amarillo and Austin were the only clubs showing decreases. Amarillo averaged only 676 fans a game and Austin 360.

Fecht And Haynie Try The Giants

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Veteran Gloria Fecht and tour sophomore Sandra Haynie, a couple of golfers who never have won a tournament, matched strokes with big guns Mickey Wright and Jackie Pung to create a four-way lead in the $7,500 Austin Civitan Open first round.
They led the parade into the second 18 holes today with five-under-par 69's.
They were two strokes ahead of Marilyn Smith, who shot a 71. Bunched at 72 were Judy Kimball of Sioux City, Iowa; Mary Mills of Ocean Park, Miss.; and Sherry Wheeler, the tour freshman from Glasgow, Ky.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

At the conclusion of spring football drills, O. A. (Bum) Phillips, the Texas Western coach, said of Jimmy Evans:
"He has a good pair of hands and he's a fair runner."
Jimmy was known more for his defensive ability than for his prowess on offense when he performed for the Spring Steers. As a junior here, however, he teamed with Jan Loudermilk to give the Steers the top passing tandem in District 2-AAAA.
Quite probably, Evans will play a lot on offense for the Miners this fall. He's one of the few experienced halfbacks in the Miner camp.
Ruidoso Downs' pari-mutuel handle for the first ten days this season amounted to a robust $1,607,498. That averages out to $160,748.80 a day.
If the average holds, the Ruidoso handle will run close to $9,000,000 this season and it quite probably will pick up, now that vacation time is here.
Unless something happens in a hurry, the Chicago Cubs are going to play to less than 500,000 paying customers at home this season. The Cubs, whose management refuses to play home games at night, have averaged only slightly more than 6,000 a game in their own ball park.
Rodger Ward, winner of the recent 500-mile race at Indianapolis, is a rarity among the auto speedsters in that he'll race in anything — big cars, little cars, stock cars, sports cars.
Some people obviously won't drive three blocks to see a sports contest but there's a mailman in Baltimore, Md., named Joseph Benedict who prefers the Cleveland Browns over the Colts — so much so that he plans to commute the 800 miles to see the Browns' home games.
He already has season tickets for all of Cleveland's home contests.
One of the most faithful fans the Big Spring High School football team had last season was Mrs. Leon Fuller, the attractive wife of the coaching aide who quit recently to return to pro football.
Mrs. Fuller was not only there for every game but was present for all the practice sessions, too. She knew the history of Leon's athletic background better than he did, once wrote this window to fill me in on a few things I had missed about him.
Leon will be difficult to replace. He deserves much of the credit, no doubt, for the Steers' 7-3 won-lost record last season.
Ex-big leaguer Rip Radcliff, who passed on to his reward recently, hit a fast ball as consistently as anyone in the majors.
The best of the speed ball hurlers tried to throw the ball by him without success. The curve ball gave Rip trouble but, like Joe McCarthy said one time, no one is a really good curve ball hitter.
One of the best I ever saw never made it to the big leagues. He was Billy Capps, who performed at third base for Big Spring in the old WT-NM league before World War II.

Surgeon General Is Naming A Panel To Study Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Luther L. Terry has announced he is naming a committee to study the evidence as to whether smoking has any impact on health. The committee is to make any appropriate recommendations.

Terry's action was understood to have the approval of the White House. Informed sources said earlier in the week that a Public Health Service recommendation for such a panel had been forwarded to the White House.

President Kennedy brushed aside at his last news conference a question as to his views on whether smoking causes lung cancer. He said he did not want to say anything about that controversy until he could obtain complete information.

Terry issued the following statement: "It is timely to undertake a comprehensive review of all available data.

"I have, therefore, decided to appoint an expert advisory committee to study the evidence, evaluate it, and make whatever recommendations may be appropriate.

"This advisory group will be made up of a panel of experts selected after consultation with federal agencies concerned, non-governmental professional groups, health organizations, and the tobacco industry.

"Membership of the advisory committee will be announced when the panel is completed."

The Health Service's official position on smoking and lung cancer has not been changed since November 1959.

At that time, Dr. Leroy E. Burney, then the surgeon-general, concluded that the weight of evidence implicated smoking as the principal causative factor in the increase of lung cancer.

The tobacco industry contends there has been no proof which links smoking to lung cancer. The industry is financing research which it says is aimed at determining the facts.

X15 Passes Rugged Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Rocketing a mile a second, X15 pilot Joe Walker swooped back to earth Thursday on a mileswide curve to pioneer a risky new landing maneuver for space craft.

It was the first time the stubby winged space dart has ever deviated far from a straight-as-an-arrow path during the main portion of a flight.

The maneuver served to brake the X15's swift descent and subjected it to extreme aerodynamic stresses and air-friction heating.

Walker hit a top speed of 3,716 m.p.h. on the way up to a peak altitude of 102,000 feet. He was not trying to exceed the X15's records of 4,093 m.p.h. and 246,700 feet. Instead he was deliberately pushing the craft close to its structural limits.

CAPT. CHARLES CHANDLER

Capt. Chandler Has Same Name As Early Pioneer

Capt. Charles Chandler returned to Webb AFB this week from a 3-month tour of temporary duty with the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Pakistan.

Fifty years ago Tuesday, another Captain Charles Chandler made Air Force history when he fired the first machine gun from an airplane. The airplane was a Wright B, and the gun was a Lewis machine gun perfected by Col. Isaac Lewis. The airplane was piloted by Lt. Thomas D. Milling, at College Park, Md.

One week before, the inventor of the aircraft—Wilbur Wright, had died of typhoid fever in a hospital in Dayton, Ohio.

Capt. Chandler, Lt. Milling, and Lt. H. H. (Hap) Arnold were the first to qualify as military aviators—there were three in the class.

What a bus for a vacation trip!

Lots of folks think a Volkswagen Station Wagon looks like a bus.

Well, it does have some of the features of a modern bus. The driver sits right up front for perfect visibility and ease in maneuvering. And your "passengers" ride in complete comfort.

Take a look inside a VW Station Wagon. Big 5-foot wide seats covered with upholstery that cleans with a damp cloth. Windows all around so everybody has a panoramic view of the countryside. Plenty of leg room, head room, elbow room.

Seats 8 big adults comfortably (the number of kids that fit has never really been settled) and carries 16 pieces of average-size luggage in a separate compartment over the engine in the rear. Nobody's things get in anybody's way.

You can even order it with a center aisle for ease in checking on the youngest sleeping comfortably in back.

The VW Station Wagon is only nine inches longer than the Sedan yet it holds as much or more than the largest conventional wagons made.

Has all the advantages of the VW Sedan. Drives through traffic and out on the highway with remarkable maneuverability, climbing mountains with sure traction because of its rear-mounted engine.

Four wheel, individual torsion bar suspension lets you take curves with ease.

And you'll never have any radiator problems; there's no radiator—just cool driving all the way.

You get all the famous Volkswagen economy, too, on gas, oil and tires. And of course it costs so much less to begin with.

Most of all the Volkswagen Station Wagon is sensational fun to be in... on vacation... or back home when it's an all-around, comfortable, versatile and economical family wagon.

This summer take a vacation trip to this Western Wonderland

Visit these five states—America's most exciting vacation area. In Weight This Hobby Is Expensive

By DAVID ZINMAN
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—For its weight, Raymond H. Weil deals in the world's most expensive hobby.

Not coins. Not autographs. It's postage stamps.

Weill (pronounced "Weel"), 48, one of America's leading rare stamp dealers, has been offered over $27,000 for a single stamp weighing less than a feather.

Ironically, he seldom sees it. He keeps it in a bank vault.

"I don't have a collection any more," said Weill, who started in business with his father and brother in 1931 with stamps from their own albums.

"It's had psychology to be a dealer and a collector at the same time. Some clients might feel you put up for sale only what you yourself don't want."

Weill's spectacular stamp is the only known 1846 Boscawen, New Hampshire postmaster provisional, which originally sold for 5 cents. A "postmaster provisional" was a stamp issued by a local post office to serve its own town's people prior to 1847 when the U.S. Government got into the stamp business.

"Stamps wisely bought and sold over the years are usually good investments."

"During the depression, stocks declined. Stamps generally held their value. Over the past 15 years, rare stamps have doubled in value," said Weill.

The key words are—"wisely bought" and "rare stamps."

Investing, said Weill, is not for amateurs. But if you have made up your mind to speculate, remember stamp values go up according to two factors.

The first is rarity, the second demand.

A possible danger on the philatelic horizon is metered mail. More and more companies are turning to this. It could cut the output of stamps and hurt stamp collecting if the trend snowballs, Weill said.

Like a fine art collector, the challenge for Weill as a dealer is not in selling rare stamps—but in finding and buying them.

He has paid in six figures for several collections. He and his brother travel around the world nearly every year seeking fine collections.

Six years ago, he went to Switzerland to bid on the fantastic collection of the late multimillionaire Maurice Burrus. Weill and three others in a syndicate were prepared to go as high as $3 million.

The asking price? Weill said Burrus had put it this way:

"I do not think that any dealer can buy my stamps. . . . I must try to compare the collection to an American airliner. A large one costs five million dollars. I think my stamps are worth two airliners."

Would You Sell Your Son's Brain?

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Would you sell a gifted son to be a space-age automaton—if the price were $16,734, plus a convertible sports car, mink bed, jacket, matching set of airplane luggage and twin hair brushes with built-in razor and music box?

That is the premise of a new play, "The Child Buyer," which has started its world premiere under the auspices of a unique stage enterprise, the Theater Group of UCLA.

"The Child Buyer" has been adapted and directed by Broadway's Paul Shyre from John Hershey's modern horror tale. Reminiscent of Swift and Kafka, it depicts a state Senate investigation into the attempt by a huge firm to purchase a brilliant 10-year-old.

Along with others, the boy is to be brainwashed, deprived of his five senses and fed with data that would help him solve problems of the "50-year project." The purpose of the project: "Satisfying man's greatest need—to leave the earth."

The savage satire is not to be taken seriously (or is it?). The hearing is performed in rather broad style by an accomplished cast — Mercedes McCambridge, Kent Smith, Edward Andrews, Ellen Corby, Henry Jones, etc. It is vital, thought-provoking theater and might well find success on Broadway.

The driving force behind the Theater Group is John Houseman, whose days are spent producing films for MGM—"Bad and the Beautiful," "Julius Caesar," "All Fall Down."

Between cutting and recording sessions for "Two Weeks in Another Town," he explained his faith in the UCLA project.

"The economics of New York production are such that it is no longer possible to minister to the health of the theater there. No one has the theater habit any more. People shop for hits; if there isn't a hit to go to, they don't go."

"Until recently not one new legitimate theater has been built in this country in the last 25 years. But at least 1,000 beautifully equipped houses have been built during that time in the nation's universities."

"This could be a ripe field for the theater, and we are trying to set a pattern for that at UCLA."

"Except for having this talent close at hand, many other universities are in the same situation and can do what we have done."

Theater Group draws from students for extras and backstage help, pays all its Actors Equity scale—$112.50 per week. Houseman, who often works a 16-20 hour day, gets nothing.

Chuckwagon Breakfast Set For C-City Fly-In Sunday

An old-fashioned West Texas Chuckwagon breakfast will be served all pilots flying into the Colorado City Airport Sunday, according to Chamber of Commerce aviation chairman Dr. Dave Bridgford.

The breakfast, served free to flyers, 75 cents to "drive ins," will kick off a day of flying activity at the newly opened city-county airport. Serving hours will be 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Cars and chauffeurs will be on hand to drive fliers to the church of their choice, the lakes or the country club for golf. Static displays of new model airplanes will be on hand. Plane rides at nominal cost will be available for visitors.

Urges Catholics Open Conclaves

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing has proposed that Catholic professional groups open their conventions to non-Catholics.

The Boston prelate Thursday night told the National Council of Catholic Nurses they should have invited Protestant nurses to the conclave as observers.

"The whole lot of Catholic councils for professional peoples, youngsters, laymen and laywomen need to be modernized," he said. "We have no need for these organizations if it's going to mean only Catholics getting together. We don't want to live in a ghetto."

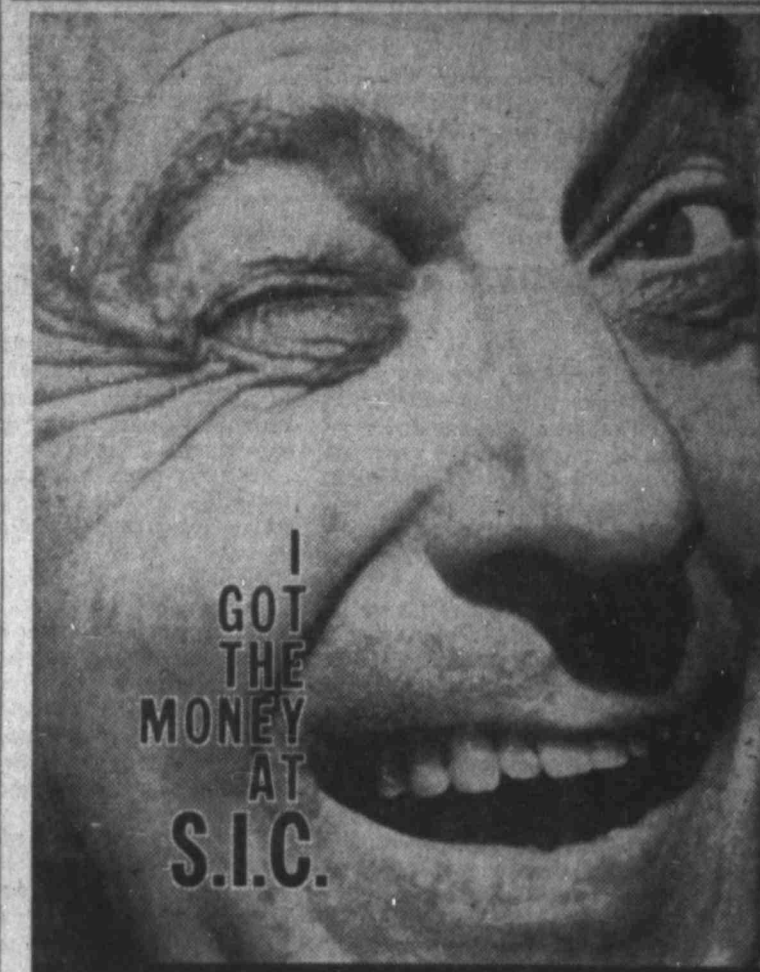

Cardinal Cushing predicted there will be Protestant observers at the Ecumenical Council in Rome next fall.

Plan To Build Major Plant

WILMINGTON, N. C. — Plans for the construction of a major nitrogen fertilizer production plant at Wilmington, N. C. have been announced jointly by officials of W. R. Grace & Co. and the Wilmington Committee of 100. This new facility to be known as the Carolina Nitrogen Corporation will be jointly owned by Grace and a group of Carolina fertilizer producers.

Approximately 200 people will be employed by Carolina Nitrogen Corporation, which will be one of the largest plants of its kind on the Eastern Seaboard. Engineering and construction will begin soon with the plant scheduled to be in production during the Fall of 1963. W. Mercer Rowe Jr., formerly executive vice president of Ashcraft-Wilkinson Company, is president of the new company.

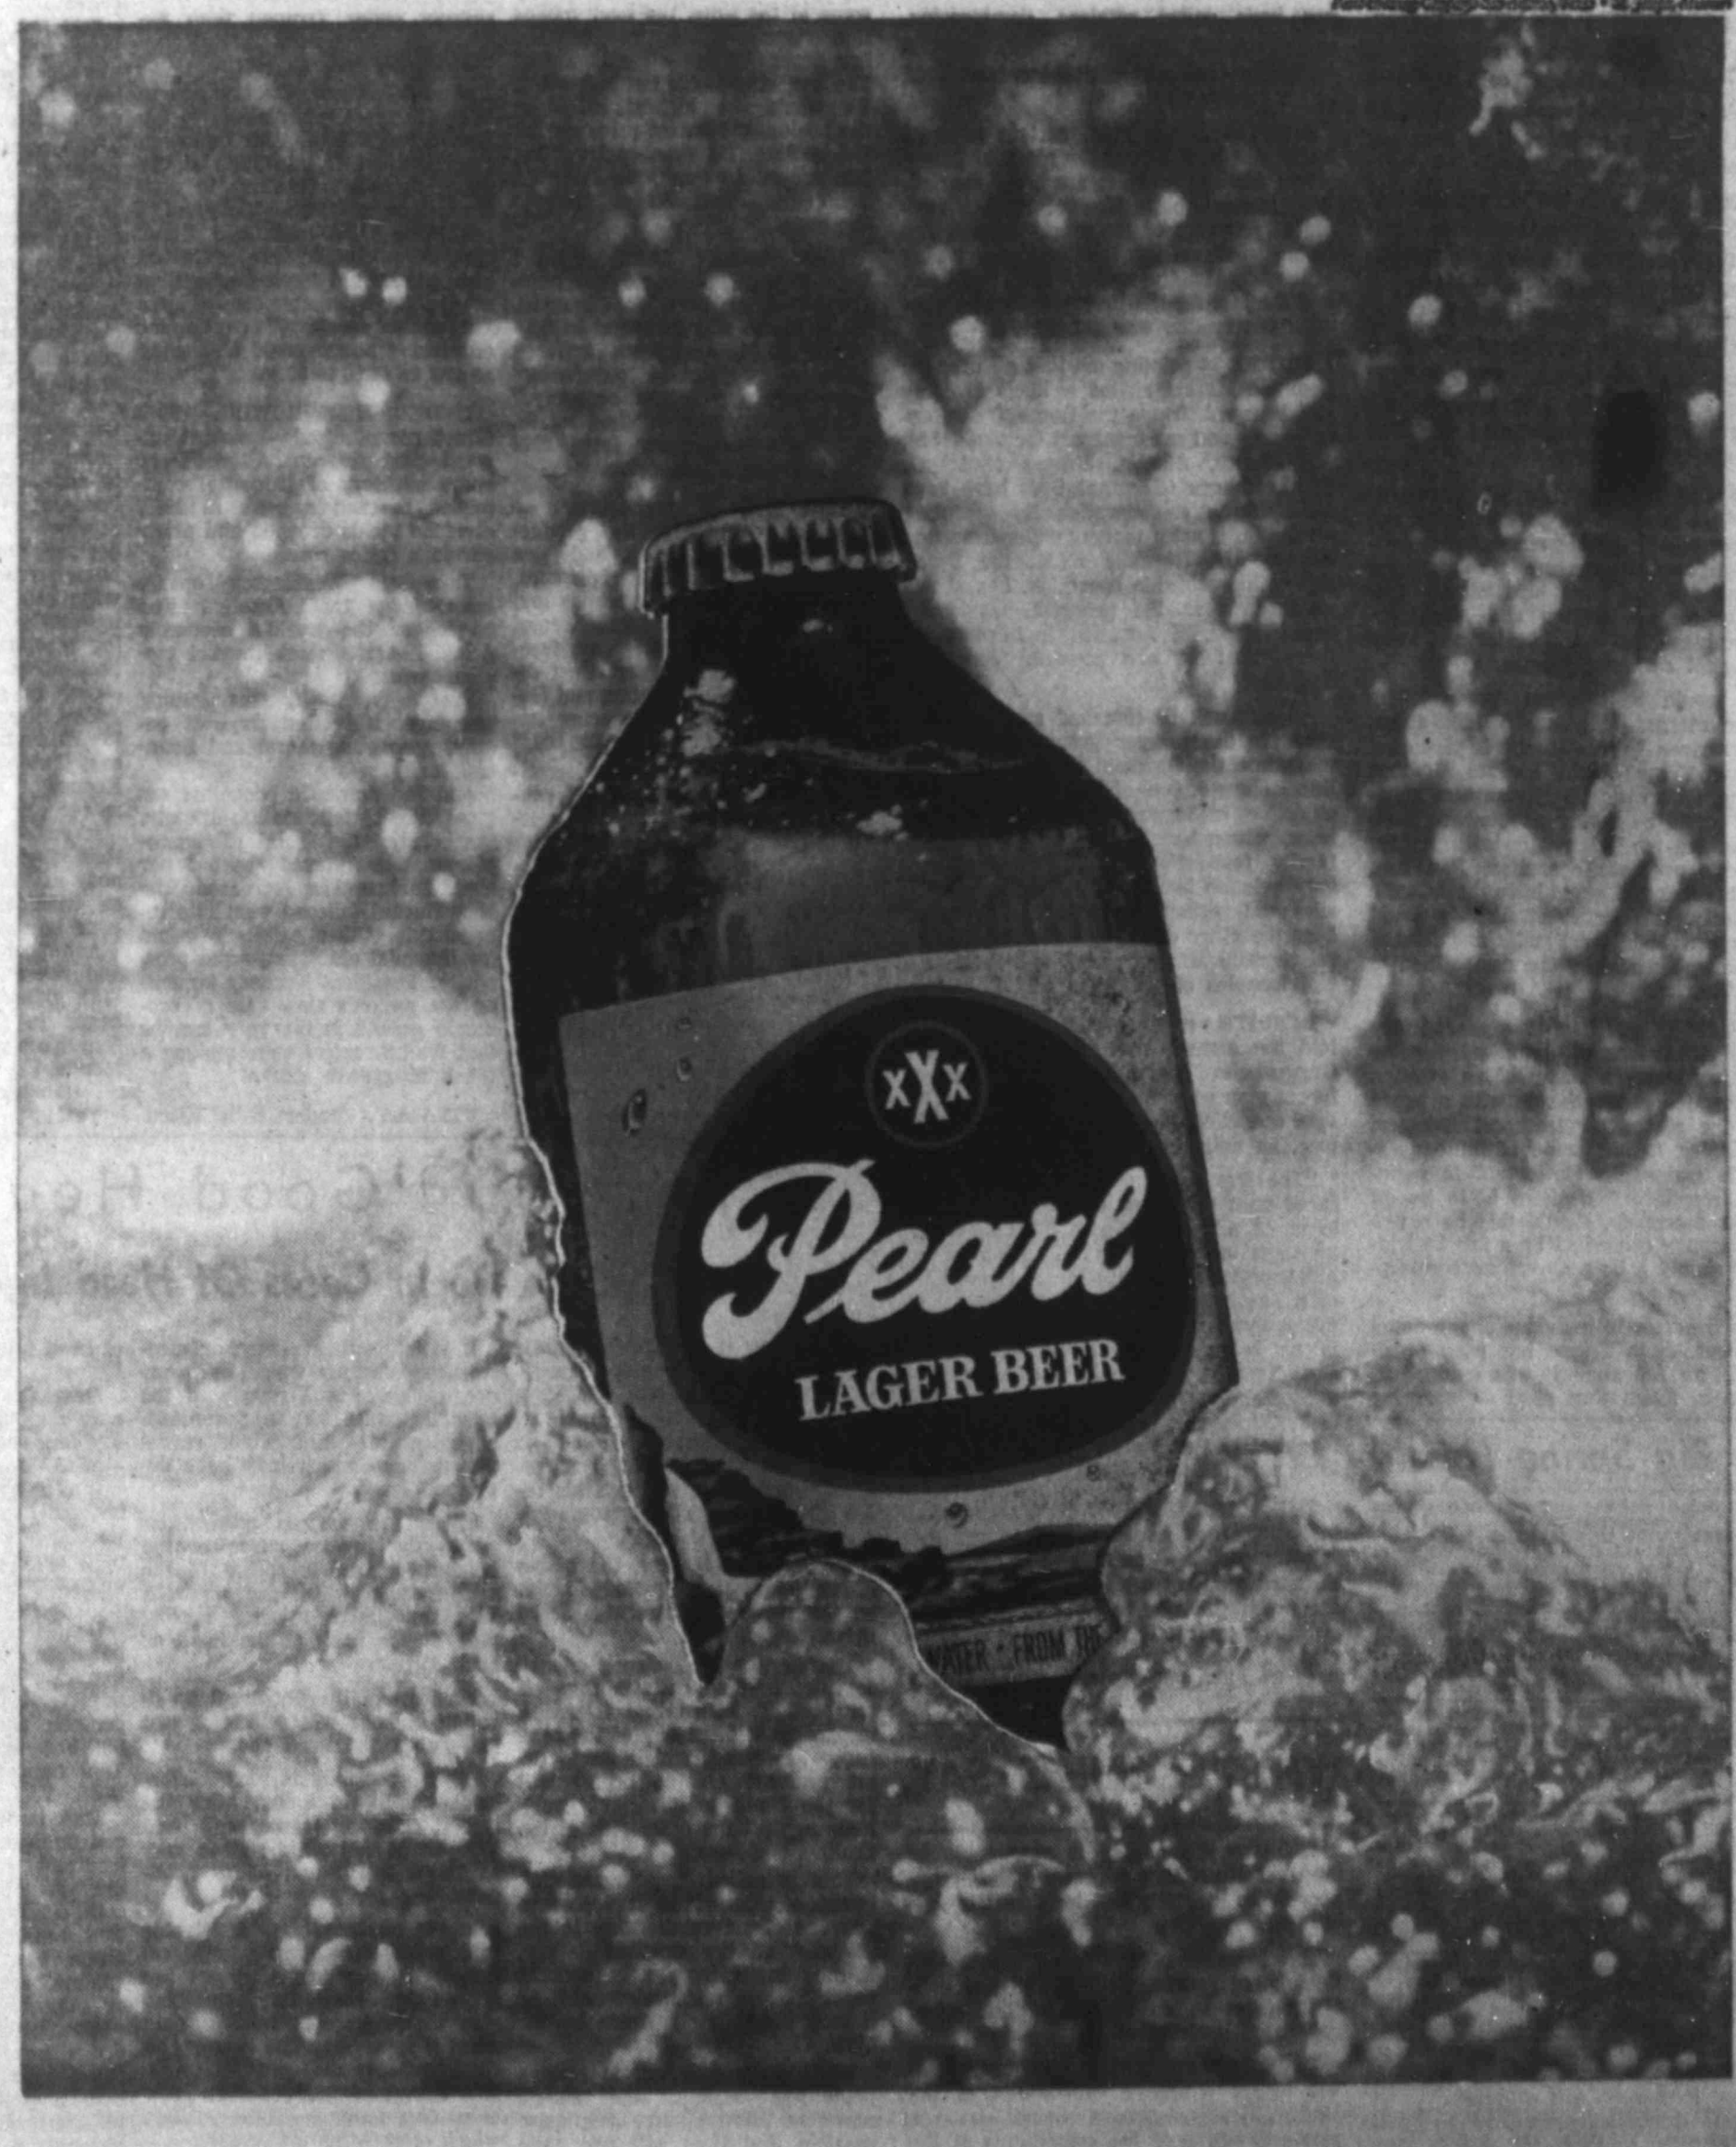

This new plant at Wilmington, N. C., is part of an expansion program recently announced by W. R. Grace & Co., which includes production of anhydrous ammonia in Trinidad, West Indies, shipped from Trinidad to Wilmington, N. C., in specially-designed ships to keep the liquefied gas under refrigeration. This concept of transporting anhydrous ammonia is an innovation in sea-borne movement of liquid gases.

A Devotional For The Day

One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, said to him, "There is a lad here — who has five barley loaves and two fish; but what are they among so many?" (John 6:8-9, RSV.)
 PRAYER: For Thy many gifts, O Father, we give Thee thanks. May we, as good stewards, offer to Thee whatever gifts we can bring to Thee today. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Earned Records vs. Ceilings

Bond expert W. E. Tinsley, executive director of the Municipal Advisory Council of Texas, thinks that this state could improve its cities' credit ratings and save them millions of dollars in bond interest charges by changing constitutional debt controls. His proposal might have the predicted effect on the municipal bond market, but we cannot understand why it should.

Tinsley indicates bond buyers favor the system in neighboring states which put a ceiling on local debt but not on local tax rates. Texas does just the opposite, but it is difficult to see how a reversal would improve bond security.

The Texas Constitution limits municipal property tax rates to $1.50 on the $100 assessed valuation in general law cities under 5,000 population and to $2.50 on the $100 in home-rule cities over 5,000. And property is supposed to be assessed at 100 per cent of fair cash market value.

The Constitution also requires that a city issuing bonds simultaneously levy sufficient taxation to meet the interest payments and provide a 2 per cent sinking fund. Consequently, the tax-rate limitation is, in effect, also a debt ceiling. We know of no Texas city now anywhere near its state tax limitation, either as to rate on assessments or as to assessments as a percentage of market value. How then could removing the rate limitation and applying an arbitrary debt limitation improve bond security?

Actually, Texas cities generally are heavily indebted and straining the ad valorem tax source on which they are overly dependent; though not near the legal rate, many are near what the political traffic will bear. What surely would improve Texas' cities' credit would be to broaden their revenue base, with tax diversification, and to stimulate community economic development.

The municipal bond market should be guided by each city's individual record and capacity for repayment. A uniform statewide local debt ceiling, necessarily unrelated to each city's peculiar economic characteristics and reputation for civic responsibility, would be a doubtful contribution to sound debt management.

O Happy Thought

Many a good citizen's heart leaped in wild surmise no doubt, when Commerce Secretary Hodges testified that some 3,000 employees in his department ought to be fired because their jobs were no longer necessary. His remarks before the House Post Office and Civil Service committee tended to confirm what a lot of Americans have long suspected — that government agencies have more people on their payrolls than are needed to do the work.

Hodges testified that 10 per cent of the 30,000 workers in Commerce are "doing jobs started 40 years ago which just aren't needed." The implication was that if he had his way about it, they would be promptly cashiered. But there's many a slip 'twixt implication and action. Though the Washington dead wood badly needs trimming, there is only a remote chance that the job will be tackled. Nobody seems to want his ox to be gored.

Mr. Hodges would earn a place of immortality in government if he were to take the pruning shears in hand. Why, he might even start a trend.

Marquis Childs Problem Of The Airlines

WASHINGTON — Whether man is master of the advanced technology he has brought into being or whether it has come to rule his life is a deeply disturbing question for which at the moment there is no answer.

TO PROVIDE the amazingly complex devices of modern war this country is spending more than $50 billion a year. But in the jet-nuclear age it is not only in war and the prelude of cold war that technology threatens to reduce the individual to a unit, a number, if it does not exterminate him altogether.

Recent disasters to the jet aircraft that demolish space and time throw into sharp relief the relationship between the individual and big organization — the kind of organization in government and in industry that increasingly dominates our world. Introduction of the jets has disrupted the air transport industry and brought into sudden sharp focus challenging decisions government must make.

THE COST of the big jet passenger planes has brought large entries in red ink for many of the big airlines. One consequence is the pressure for mergers. Hearings are now being held into the proposal to merge Eastern and American. The combined line would be far and away the largest domestic carrier.

This would be dwarfed, however, by another merger still in the talk stage. Pan American World Airways is proposing to absorb Trans-World Airlines. If that happens, with eventual government sanction, it would be a long step toward making Pan Am the "chosen instrument" for America's overseas operation. Pan Am, under the merger, would have the Atlantic exclusively, but Northwest Airlines would still be a rival in the Pacific and Braniff and Panagra would be the competition in Latin America.

BEFORE IT can happen a great many searching questions will be asked. Senator Mike Monroney, chairman of an aviation subcommittee of the Senate with a broad knowledge of the air transport industry, is beginning to ask some of those questions. Is competition important in maintaining standards? If there is to be an overseas monopoly, should this be a private company controlled by a few individuals or should it be a government monopoly?

When it comes to individuals, one name stands out. Juan Trippe has been president of Pan Am since it was founded 35 years ago. From that start — carrying the mail from Key West to Havana — he has done extraordinary pioneering in almost every corner of the globe.

A GREAT MANY adjectives, both flattering and unflattering, have been applied to Trippe as he has pushed Pan Am to a point at which its operating revenue last year was nearly a half-billion dollars. He has been called ruthless, domineering, overweeningly ambitious, while at the same time due recognition has been paid to his achievements.

Ambition to one side, certain external forces are working for the merger. Trans-World Airlines finances are badly snarled. With the enigmatic Howard Hughes owning 78 per cent of the stock trustees are trying to direct the line amidst a welter of lawsuits. Last year TWA lost $14,745,000, and the loss for the first quarter this year after tax credits was $13,402,900.

TRIPPE is pointing out that a European Common Market airline is likely to come into being. Although the Rome Treaty exempts air and sea transport for two years, Air France, Alitalia, Sabena (Belgian), and Lufthansa (German) lines have been discussing a confederation for operating economies if not a merger under the name Europe Air. Recently KLM, the Dutch line, has shown interest in the proposal. Obviously, says Trippe, if America is to compete there must be one powerful American flag line.

All this will be threshed over as pressure for the merger grows. But in the meantime the financial plight of the airlines is acute. One of the most noted and objective authorities, Harry F. Guggenheim, whose benefactions through various family foundations have advanced not only aviation but the development of missiles and rockets, suggested in a speech here the other day that there might be a relationship between safety and the financial troubles of the industry.

DESPITE meticulous regulations, he told the annual meeting of the Cornell Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center, forces may be working to the detriment of safe operation in a profitless and, therefore, an unhealthy industry. He said:

"The President and the Congress are faced with either permitting the carriers to make a profit or with the unpleasant necessity of taking over and operating the air transport system after a large part of it has become bankrupt. We have had every manner of investigation of our needs in air transport but the basic financial one. That is how much money is now needed and will be needed in the near and distant future to keep the United States foremost in aviation and to make the airlines safe for its citizens."

THE PRESSURES of swiftly changing technology are relentless and, above all, in one direction — centralization of power. Perhaps mergers are inevitable. But they are not the answer to the larger question of where control lies and how it is exercised.

GOOD TIME TO LOOK IN ON THEM

The Kennedy Crash

You Could See It Gathering

By J. A. LIVINGSTON

Would the 20th Century America had a William Hogarth to moralize on the transition in Wall Street from the Eisenhower Boom to the Kennedy Crash? It would be called "Pigs' Progress."

In the early 18th Century, Hogarth satirized the shortcomings of English high society in several series of engravings with a single-minded purpose: To teach. In "The Rake's Progress," he depicted the tragedy of a young man, suddenly come to riches, who loses all sense of balance, deserts his young wife and child for wine, women, and sport, and ends up in lunacy.

BULL MARKETS run a similar course — from moderation to immoderation to disintegration. Wall Street ought to know. It has a maxim: "The bull makes money some of the time, the bear makes money some of the time, but the hog loses money all the time." The hog strains for the last point. He wants the highest price on the upside, the lowest price during the decline. He reaches for what has ceased to be. Once in every generation, Wall Street goes to the dogs.

The Kennedy Crash started humbly enough — almost too humbly — under President Truman. When World War II ended in September 1945, Americans suffered from a "depression psychosis." Ours was a "mature economy." "Economic stagnation" had set in. This was our legacy from 1929 and the Great Depression.

THE JOB of reconversion — changing over from the production of airplanes, tanks, and guns to automobiles, refrigerators, home furnishings, new homes and new factories — filled government officials and economists with foreboding. John W. Snyder, then director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, said: "By spring unemployment may reach 8,000,000." Truman's advisers underestimated the pent-up wants of consumers and the ingenuity of American manufacturers to get going. At no time during 1946 did unemployment reach 3,000,000. We have more workers out of jobs today.

WALL STREET and business men were never really happy with Truman policies. His partiality to higher wages, as a method of raising living standards, tagged him "pro-labor" and "anti-business." However, the world was starved for goods. Employment, sales and profits advanced. Stock prices rose. Grudgingly, not in pace with economic expansion. And then came Eisenhower! And a Cabinet composed of business men and Wall Street lawyers.

EMPATHY! Wall Street understood the White House understood Wall Street. The President might make mistakes, but he could do no wrong. Though industrial activity had lost the pent-up zing of the early Truman years, though inflation was a diminishing economic force, a genial optimism pervaded Wall Street and business men's clubs.

In the statistics, Total output of goods and services (Gross National Product), industrial production, and (most relevant) corporate profits increased far more sharply under Truman than Eisenhower, but stock prices advanced only half as much.

When Eisenhower took office in 1953, the year was already in the Wall Street dough. And that's no pun. From 1947 into 1953, stocks were "cheap" relative to dividends and earnings. Yields of 5 per cent, 6 per cent and 7 per cent were obtainable — even on blue chips. And instead of selling at the traditionally conservative "ten-times earnings," one dollar of earning power could be bought as low as $6.50 to $9.50.

UNDER EISENHOWER, Wall Street recapitalized — valued upward — past progress. Although per share earnings of industrial companies reached a peak in 1955, dividend yields dropped and price-earnings ratios rose.

Thus did Washington openly acknowledge that America was no longer the world's economic Atlas. But the stock market ripped upward.

Prosperity, itself, was issuing warnings. It's often its own enemy, generating moral and financial laxity. And the domestic economic engine didn't function faultlessly. Stubbornly, the rate of unemployment has stayed above 5 per cent. Bankruptcies increased. The New Haven Railroad went into receivership. Other railroads asked for financial aid. That, amid prosperity! President Kennedy lamented the nation's slow rate of economic growth in the very months that Wall Streeters were making a fetish of growth stocks!

FINALLY, under both Eisenhower and Kennedy a New Economic Environment was developing. The wage-price spiral was slowing down, but Americans lived with past trends. As of February this year, six out of ten heads of families in the United States (according to University of Michigan researchers) still believed that inflation lay ahead. This, despite the fact that wholesale prices had been on a plateau for four years. The world, once short of goods, was now coping with problems of over-capacity.

GOLD STARTED leaving these shores. Once, European nationals had sent funds to America for safety. But now the industries of West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium, and other countries were competing with U. S. industries. And interest rates abroad were higher than here, because industrial progress — growth — was more rapid. Capital sought these greener pastures. Furthermore, the Common Market loomed as a larger and larger competitive threat.

The persistent U. S. balance-of-payments deficit, like an unstaunched wound, aggravated the gold exodus. One of the last efforts of the Eisenhower administration was to ask Western Germany (bursting with economic strength and gold) to share the "white man's" burden of helping new and underdeveloped countries and to pick up a larger part of the cost of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

One, the cost of living continued to edge up. But this was largely because of the rising price of services — trolley and bus fares, doctors' and dentists' fees, utility bills, rents, and the high hourly wage rate for repairmen. A service call to fix a TV set, a washing machine, or a drier sets you back about five bucks. And C.O.C. — cash on completion.

Two, the Democratic party's tie to William Jennings Bryan and easy money. Hadn't candidate Kennedy promised low-interest rates?

It suited Wall Street to reason thus, though the actions of Kennedy as President belied his words as candidate. But who observes what he doesn't want to see? And then came Roger Blough and the rollback of steel prices. With gathering momentum, stocks began to sell ex-inflation in the New Economic Environment. Blue Monday!

Around The Rim A Matter Of Fire Power

Times change, and ways of thinking change with the times — not always to the good. In last week's column, I spoke of certain American fantasies which we often substitute for history, sometimes out of wishful thinking instead of knowledge.

In telling of the parade ground tactics of 18th Century European armies, I stated that these methods were worked out by the ablest generals of the time and were fitted to the conditions of the times.

SO FAR, SO GOOD. But then I pointed out that, until Baron Von Steuben taught the ragged colonials how to fight European style, Washington's untrained militia was whipped all over the continent. Also, I pointed out that American guerrilla style fighting could hold the backwoods only, and that except for flukes like the Battle of New Orleans the colonial methods just didn't work.

Promptly, I was taken to task by various friends, and I had to tie me to the history books to prove my point. My friendly critics, like so many of us, know the legends but not the facts, and consequently challenged me on New Orleans, among other battles.

MILITARY SCIENCE, like all other sciences, is an evolving thing. It changes as knowledge and new tools and weapons are added to man's storehouse. In 1776, the British had discovered that (1) a small but highly disciplined force could beat off hordes of militia (2) the massed formations created an impenetrable forest of bayonets (3) the low accuracy of the musket made it generally unreliable except under special circumstances, and (4) a well trained army could wheel about or regroup almost instantaneously, and its regiments could be moved about the field with a precision rivaling that of the game of chess.

AT THE TIME, two new developments in the science of warfare were growing through an embryonic stage, and were largely unrecognized for many years. Yet there were occasions in which one of these principles had been used by individual commanders in the field — almost by instinct, it would seem — and then was promptly forgotten.

The first was development of the rifle (an American innovation) which improved accuracy astoundingly. The second principle was that of massed firepower.

AS INACCURATE as the musket was, it could be devastating against massed manpower when used at close range, in the form of massed firepower. A British flanking maneuver that would have clobered us at Bunker Hill was turned back by a small band of farmers arrayed in three lines — one lying down, one kneeling, the third standing — and firing volleys in orderly succession.

At New Orleans, Andrew Jackson had the long-range accuracy of the Kentucky long rifle. In addition, he worked out a massed firepower strategem in which two ranks were re-loading while a third was firing.

MANY YEARS LATER, development of repeating and automatic rifles and machine guns forced a change from the parade ground, massed formation tactics. But these tactics worked well in their prime, except for a few flukes where it was possible to bring massed firepower to bear.

Who? General Braddock, you say? Well, I said those parade ground tactics were fitted to the conditions of the times (Europe and settled areas of the colonies, namely). Heavy forest country did not lend itself to these tactics, a fact which British and American commanders recognized (else how did we win the French and Indian War?).

General Braddock just wasn't real bright, that's all. — BOB SMITH

Inez Robb Questions For Columnists

If there is anything in the world guaranteed to keep a newspaper columnist humble (and I'm not certain there is), it is the letters addressed to him — her that were obviously meant for some other columnist.

Over the years I've gotten the idea that a certain number of readers of the daily press don't retain every well. To them, the readers, that is, all by-lines look alike. This is, indeed, a crushing blow to the ego. At first it hurt to be confused with the loveletter in the garden, the cooking, the interior decorating, the child-care, the astrology, the pet, the photographic and — or the medical columnist.

NOW, HOWEVER, I just readdress the letters with aplomb and send them off to the rightful department. I no longer attempt to deal with the harried woman, who over a six-year period wrote me the same letter every three months, to wit: "I am having six people to dinner next Thursday. What shall I do?"

Her dilemma touched my heart, but only for the first year or two. She was obviously having too much company. And after, in desperation, I sent one of her cries for help to Eliza Maxwell. I never heard from the woman again. Or, for that matter, from Eliza.

NOT LONG AGO a young lady wrote saying, "I am planning to be married June 19. What do my stars say?" I resisted the base temptation to reply, "Never mind what the stars say if you can get him to say 'I do.'"

The letter went off, instead, to the house astrologer for his diagnosis of June 19 as a wedding date for a girl born 28 years ago under the sign of Scorpio. Probably the astrologer did a competent job, but he would have done that young lady a service if he had replied, "At 28, never mind the stars. Just get him to the church on time."

THE NUMBER of constant readers who have two-year-old children who won't eat cooked cereal is only equalled by the number who have a cat that has just had kittens and want to know what to do. It is apparent that city people don't take as kindly to a distribution of kittens as country folk who need a mouser for the barns. It is undoubtedly a trying problem, but one I feel the pet editor is better equipped to solve than I.

However, complicated as these misdirected queries have been, none has shaken me so much as a spate I have received in the past 10 to 12 days since the stock market fell on its face.

EITHER THE questions on finance are misdirected or else investors, in their frenzy, are just seeking any kind of advice, even mine. That is cold comfort for both the seeker and the sought, since it is a legend in the family that I have been unable to count past 10 since I became reconciled to shoes.

The general tenor of the correspondence from angry or morbid investors can be summed up in one agonizing question, if you will pardon the expression, to wit: "What the hell is going on in Wall Street?"

I HAVE BEEN asking my husband and brokers of my acquaintance for a reasonable answer. They have one, all right, but it isn't going to make anyone happy. It is, again if you will pardon the expression, "Damned if I know!"

As for myself, all I can say is that I, too, had the old lady's friend — AT&T. I guess that ought to put a stop to the questions.

But it won't. (Copyright, 1962, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

David Lawrence Task Of Newspaper Production

WASHINGTON — Inside the White House they live in a kind of intellectual seclusion. President Kennedy himself and his aides make comments to the press, sometimes which reflect a regrettable lack of experience with the world of reality.

Thus, the other day the President made quite a fuss and canceled the White House subscriptions to the New York "Herald Tribune" because the edition he got in Washington didn't carry a story about the investigation of the stockpiling of war materials which, in the administration's political mind, should be equated with the Billie Sol Estes case.

BUT THE REASON why the "Herald Tribune" didn't get its news article about the Senate hearings on the stockpile affair into a certain edition on a given day is far less important than what is revealed about the unfamiliarity of the folks in the White House offices with the way a newspaper operates.

For it is truly a miracle that any newspaper gets out its first edition — or its second or its third — on a regular schedule. Nobody gets out the equivalent of a 310-page book in a single night except a newspaper. Indeed, in a newspaper with 16 pages of news matter there are 100,000 words. Sometimes in the stream of copy a story gets mislaid or lost.

THE TYPESETTERS have to do a fast job. They operate a machine called a Linotype. It has a keyboard, and it's possible to make mistakes in setting up type just as it is in working a typewriter. But the mistakes on a typewritten sheet of paper can be marked out with a pencil, or a few words typed in to correct the error. In a newspaper column of lead type, a mistake of one character means resetting a whole line. If one word is omitted, a number of lines may have to be re-set.

THEN SOMEBODY has to find the exact place to insert the corrected line or lines on the page. Sometimes, in haste, a wrong line is accidentally pulled out by the makeup man, and the result is that lines are duplicated or omitted. Incidentally, in making corrections, words have to be read backward — that's the main reason for so many errors. It's difficult for the human eye to master the technique of reading letters in reverse.

What To Do In Cases Of Head Injury

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old son fractured his skull 15 months ago. X-rays and an electroencephalogram showed no brain injury but he still has frequent headaches, although his reflexes, balance, and alertness are normal. —MRS. E. J. T.

By the age of three, the plates of the skull have joined firmly, so the brain is entirely enclosed in the rigid skull.

Therefore a blow strong enough to fracture the skull (in this letter Mrs. T. added that it was a crack, but without any of the bone being depressed, which would exert pressure on the brain) will jar the brain so it strikes bruisingly against the other side of the skull.

This is called "post-traumatic headache." Curiously, it seems to bear no direct relationship to the severity of the original injury. It may occur from a bump that doesn't cause unconsciousness, or it may not follow a much harder blow.

While a head injury is always potentially serious and should never be taken lightly, it is quite possible that time will now take care of this little fellow's headaches.

If not, then another electroencephalogram would be in order, or perhaps X-rays with the introduction of air (a pneumocephalogram) which would reveal any damage which may have developed later.

There are various possibilities as to the precise cause of the headaches. One is spasm of the neck muscles which can persist a long time after injury, causing pain at the back of the head or neck region.

Massage of the neck and application of heat will relieve spasm and hence the headache.

Other possibilities are adhesions — the brain lining, after the injury, adhering to the skull; and the chance that blood vessels may at times dilate and cause headache.

In the absence of demonstrable injury — and the youngster's reflexes, balance and alertness are a good sign — there may be nothing else to do except relieve pain when it is severe. The doctor can (and probably did) prescribe suitable dosage of pain relievers probably containing a little caffeine which often helps immensely.

The foregoing applies as much to adults as to children in cases of head injury.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any cure for "geographical tongue"? My four-year-old daughter has it. —MRS. B. D.

It's a harmless condition that requires no treatment. In older people, it may indicate faulty diet, or it may mean nothing of any consequence.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can anything be done for excessive perspiration? My husband can scarcely do any physical work as he starts to perspire and looks as though water had been poured over him. This happens even in winter. —MRS. V. L. A.

This is usually seen in "nervous individuals," in which case treatment for the nervousness may afford relief.

In others, there is an over-active sweating mechanism and in either case it may be regional (palms, feet, forehead, armpits) or may be general.

Attempts to suppress this with drugs have not been very successful because doses heavy enough to do so usually have unpleasant side effects, and it then becomes a matter of putting up with the sweating, nuisance that it is.

Shoe Makeup New For The Fair Feminine Feet

As if by magic shoe makeup turns one pair of shoes into a limitless wardrobe of custom-colored shoes and makes you a creative artist.

Color your shoes to match your costume, selecting from 24 fashion shades. The magic color-coating for shoes, handbags, belts and gloves is ideal for use on kid, suede, patent leather, nylon mesh, straw, shantung, linen, calf or snakeskin.

Brighten winter pumps with spring colors—Chinese red, apple green, royal blue, or beige. Tired-looking shoes become glamorous evening sandals with color and glitter or with lustre powders in gold, silver and copper you can create "after-five" slippers.

Became an artist by matching the plain, plaid, stripe or polka dot pattern of your dresses onto your shoes. Just trace the fabric design with a pencil; a watercolor brush and Sho-Mak-Up will do the rest. Plain pumps will look like expensive custom-made shoes.

Sho-Mak-Up turns old shoes into new. It is water-resistant, does not peel, crack nor rub off. The finish is permanent. If desired, or can be taken off to change shoes to another color the next day. One color can be removed with cleaner-conditioner just as nail polish is taken off, so that a new color can be put on.

One good pair of perfect fitting pumps can be changed for each luncheon, tea or dinner party to match the suit or dress worn. Because one bottle of the makeup will color four pairs of shoes, it is inexpensive to use.

Bridal consultants suggest that bridesmaids color their pumps to match perfectly the pastel tints or dramatic tones of bridesmaids' dresses. Then the pumps may be changed to a different color for another wedding party.

Brides themselves are painting lilies-of-the-valley on their satin pumps, or decorating toes or heels with silver glitter, or painting with glitter wedding rings on the toes of their bridal shoes.

On high school and college campuses co-eds can color their shoes the school colors for baseball games or track meets.

After the game the school colors can be removed with the conditioner-cleanser, and the shoes then painted the color of a party dress for the Saturday evening dance.

Corduroy flats and tennis shoes are being decorated with fraternity, club or school letters, with initials of "steadies" or with facsimiles of sportscars, dogs, horses or sailboats. Or flats are colored to match a plaid skirt or flowered capris.

'The Costume Look'

With magical color this model has put coin-size green dots on her shoes to match her green dotted white chiffon dress and matching hat.

Designers Preparing For Long Cold Winter

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON Associated Press Fashion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — No matter what kind of weather, Indiana, birds, and Poor Richard's Almanac forecast, the fashion industry is preparing for a cold winter.

Almost as if American designers are gull-stricken about last year's pneumonia-inviting styles—coats with wide necks and short, kimono-type sleeves and dresses with necks down to here and no sleeves at all—they are busily making up for it with clothes that soon will encompass females from nose to toes.

Unburned fashion writers in sleeveless pastel dresses watched a parade of heavy worsteds, tweeds and printed wools during Vera Maxwell's press show Friday, and noted that she also is a part of the current war against sore throats.

Pretty ladies in saddle leather knee boots plodded to the center of the showroom in costumes with pleated skirts and wide, double-breasted skimmer jackets. Either there were no collars on the jackets or they stood away from the throat to reveal Miss Maxwell's No. 1 weapon against the common cold, the turtle-neck sweater.

But under the jackets of certain dresier suits were black velvet, sleeveless doublets. With these, Miss Maxwell explained, extra fabric is being shipped to retail stores so that cold-blooded customers can guard against goose bumps.

Shifty little wool dresses skimming over the models' bodies ever so lightly were without sleeves too—this being a hot day in June. Nevertheless, when the mercury drops, the shifts can be worn as jumpers, over cover-all blouses.

Most of Miss Maxwell's weapons against winter were spelled out in black and white. Bulky tweeds and checks and plaids in those contrasts were fashioned into coats, suits, and some coats that can be buttoned and belted to look like dresses. Bulky, fleecy fabrics, imprinted with black and white spots resembling dalmatians and psychological ink-spot tests, also were made into slightly flared Chesterfield coats and long-sleeved dresses.

A spicy surprise was a strip tease demonstrating how a woman on the go can carry most of her travel wardrobe on her back. A bronze tweed norwester coat whipped off one model to reveal a gold blouse and bronze wool skirt. After a quick zip, the skirt fell away to show that the blouse was actually the bodice of a gold silk dress.

Last Luncheon Is Held Ending OWC Season

Those attending the Officers' Wives Club luncheon Thursday afternoon at the Officers' Club were seated in a June brides' array of symbolic decorations. A June bride theme was carried out in pink and white. The stage held a display of wedding gowns, owned and provided by Mrs. Max Odie, Mrs. Charles W. Semler and Mrs. K. H. Hill. Tables were centered with wedding bell cake top replicas. Before each place setting were miniature nosegays of pink rosebuds and net. The main centerpiece, pink and white carnations, was presented to Mrs. L. Casey, a June bride of 1946, being the member present married the longest.

Hosted by the newly elected board, Mrs. James Gehrig conducted her first monthly luncheon. Preceding the business meeting, Mrs. Gehrig read a poem on the duties of a president, followed by "This is what I'm not." Members of the board were presented. Mrs. Gehrig welcomed Mrs. H. L. Kimsey and Mrs. R. Barberie to their first luncheon, and extended a fond farewell to Mrs. E. D. Aiken, Mrs. George Moench, and Mrs. Frederick Romaniello. Membership cards must be presented at each meeting. A vote on continuing monthly luncheons throughout summer months was opposed. Informal gatherings such as welcome coffees, pool parties and sporting events will continue, however.

Christ Speaks to the Churches

CHRIST'S LAST MESSAGE BEFORE HIS ASCENSION AND HIS LATER MESSAGES THROUGH THE HOLY SPIRIT TO SEVEN ASIAN CHURCHES

Scripture—Acts 1:8; 11:25-29; Revelation 1-3.

By N. SPEER JONES

TODAY'S lesson concerns evangelism.

This is evident in our opening selection, in which the risen Christ gives what was probably His last message to His disciples before His ascension. It is both a command and a prophecy; His disciples shall be His witnesses—that is, they shall evangelize the world.

The Greek word which is translated "witness" is "martus," from which has come our word "martyr." Originally it meant one who testified at a trial. As so many Christians who thus testified about what they knew and had observed of Christ, were rewarded with death, the word changed to its present meaning—one who dies for a conviction.

Our next selection (Acts 11:25-29) occurs about 15 years time was in deed as well as in word; its members donated funds for the relief of their fellow-Christians stricken by famine in Judea.)

The third and last selection in today's lesson is from the book of Revelation, written some 45 years later, about 90 A.D. In it, John commits to writing certain revelations made to him by the ascended Christ, through the Holy Spirit.

In the portion assigned, John transmits to "the seven churches that are in Asia" messages given them by Christ in His revelation. Asia at that time referred to a Roman province of that name, located on the western side of what is now known as Asia Minor. It was a thriving area.

The letters involve a certain symbolism, based on the vision John was given—of Christ in the midst of seven lampstands

(referring to the seven churches), carrying seven stars in His right hand. These seven stars represent the corporate personality or character of each church, expressed through a "representative angel" in Christ's presence.

All the letters are constructed around the same theme—a description of Christ, a commendation for what the church is doing (if possible), a rebuke (if deserved), an exhortation and a promise.

The cities of Smyrna and Philadelphia are too good to warrant a rebuke. On the other hand, the last city, Laodicea, is too bad to warrant commendation.

Yet even to it, He gives a most beautiful hope; He stands knocking, even there, promising to come to those who invite Him in.

NEW CONTROVERSY

Catholics Debate School 'Share Time' Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Should Roman Catholic schools, under the pressure of heavy enrollments and the controversy about state and federal aid, work toward a "share time" partnership with public schools?

Two Catholic superintendents of schools debate the question in articles in the June issue of The Catholic Educator.

The Very Rev. Arthur T. Geoghegan, superintendent of schools of the diocese of Providence, R.I., who favors the recently suggested plan, begins his discussion with a definition:

"Briefly stated, shared time means that a pupil in a church-sponsored school would receive part of his instruction in a neighboring public school and part in the church-sponsored school. He might, for instance, attend classes in spelling, penmanship, mathematics and science in the public school and study religion, history and literature in the church-related school."

Msgr. Geoghegan and The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Justin A. Driscoll, superintendent of schools of the archdiocese of Dubuque, Iowa, agree on the point that the optimum educational plan, in the Catholic viewpoint, is a full-time program in a church-affiliated school.

However, Msgr. Geoghegan asks, "To how many children are Catholic schools available? With more than 25 per cent of the children born annually in the United States baptized Catholics, fewer than half of them can hope to attend Catholic elementary schools. Catholic secondary schools can accommodate still fewer. By 1970 only one out of every three Catholic children will be able to attend a Catholic school."

He sees shared time as a means of freeing Catholic teachers and classrooms during part of the day for the instruction of pupils who would otherwise receive no church sponsored education.

Msgr. Geoghegan also believes the Catholic pupil's education could improve qualitatively with shared time.

Msgr. Driscoll, who opposes shared time plan, he says, "is the shared time plan simply because I do not think it is sharing anything."

"About the only thing it shares, or establishes, is the fact that the child has a right to participate in part time instruction of the public school; that the school can legally collect money for doing a half-time job, perhaps in the physical sciences and in the practical or manual arts."

Secondly, Msgr. Driscoll objects because, he says, the shared time plan rests on "a false concept of the state's rights in education."

"In my way of thinking, the shared time plan," he says, "is based on the erroneous idea that the child must be enrolled in a state school to become a participant in the distribution of the educational goods of the state."

And thirdly, Msgr. Driscoll says "I also find it difficult to fit this program into the Catholic viewpoint on education."

"The fundamental principles upon which Christian education is based must be observed in every aspect of the curriculum."

"FOR THE LOVE OF CHRIST CONSTRAINS US"

We have been drafted into the service and love of Christ without force, sword or martial law. II Corinthians 5:14, "The love of Christ constraineth us; because we judge thus, that if one died for all, then were all dead." The force which compels us, the constraint which requires us to obey the gospel of Christ is NOT against but rather is of our own will. We do not obey Christ under protest. The service we are bringing, His will without question! Walpole wrote: "In my youth I thought of writing a Satire on mankind but now in my age I think I should write an apology." Christ came to redeem us. There is ONE mediator, I Tim. 2:5 (he stands between man and God — it is God's own will). We have an ADVOCATE with the Father, I John 2:1-3 (He stands by our side, representing our case). He is our PROPITIATION, I John 2 (He went AHEAD and died for us). A knowledge of Christ as our RANSOM (The price paid for redemption of LOST MANKIND!). Know these truths by the Bible and accept them by FAITH and OBEY THE GOSPEL, II Thess. 1:7-9, I Pet. 4:17, and your knowledge exceeds all of the worldly wisdom which has gotten mankind into such a depth of predicament that he fears to live! One writer said, "Man is to be trained chiefly — by studying and knowing man." BUT this is WRONG BECAUSE — man has sinned and as a transgressor of God's laws he is a poor subject to study for the purpose of becoming elevated, ransomed, saved. The study of man within itself is a poor study. "Looking to Jesus the author and finisher of our faith" — Heb. 12:1-2. "Set your affections on things above and not on the earth." Col. 3:1. Another writer said, "The despise our own race is the price we must pay for a knowledge of it." To some people this is true. To the Christian, like Christ himself there is no hatred of the race but abundant sympathy begetting an effort through the gospel to save the lost! You cannot accept the Bible without accepting these truths for these ARE BIBLE TRUTHS.

Elbert R. Garretson, minister

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

June Bride

In a moment, the organist will strike a chord. There will be a sudden hush in the church, then the strains of the wedding march will peal forth and she will take her father's arm and start up the aisle, her measured steps symbolic of the very real hesitation she will be feeling.

She would not be human if she did not hesitate. These steps she is about to take are the most important steps of her life. She is poised on the threshold of another existence in which the pronoun she uses will be "We" and not "I." Soon she will learn to think of another before she thinks of herself. Presently, she will come to know fully the meaning of the word "share."

As she moves forward, she falters for just a second. Then her step becomes sure, her lips curve in a smile. The church through which she walks is dear and beloved to her—and so is the man who stands waiting for her beside the altar. Her marriage, blessed by faith, is beginning where all marriages should begin—in the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

After 'Inventing' Jazz, Reds Develop Own Style

EDITOR'S NOTE — First the Soviets banned it. Then they claimed to have invented it. Now that they've got around to playing and composing it, the Soviets may next try to outproduce us. If this sounds like the same old jazz, it's not. These cool cats behind the Iron Curtain have developed a jazz style all their own. American jazz expert Leonard Feather, who accompanied Benny Goodman's band in Moscow and met most of the leading Soviet sidemen and composers, examines the future of Soviet jazz in an article written exclusively for The Associated Press.

By LEONARD FEATHER
Written For The Associated Press
MOSCOW (AP)—After hot jazz, New Orleans jazz and cool jazz, West Coast jazz and East Coast jazz, will the next step be Soviet jazz?

The possibility is not as remote as it might seem. Today there are indications that after many years of being completely stifled and a couple of years of being tolerated, jazz in the Soviet Union may be entering a third phase in which its advocates, dealing with it as though it were steel or fertilizer, will try to outproduce the Americans and develop techniques of their own.

Already there are jazz clubs in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev. Their main objectives are no longer merely to listen to American music or to try to imitate it, but rather to evolve a new style of music along similar lines.

At jazz festivals held annually since 1957 in Tartu, Estonia, and recently at Leningrad University, new works by some of these composers have been introduced. Unlike the stiff, heavy over-orchestrated music of the older Soviet composers who have tried to grapple with jazz, these works are authentic and leave considerable freedom for improvisation.

Typical of these young writers is Vadim Sakun, a hard swinging pianist who has written one work, "With Inspiration" that would provide a thoroughly suitable vehicle for Dizzy Gillespie, Miles Davis or almost any other top American combo.

As Benny Goodman observed during his meeting at the Composers Union in Moscow, jazz is no longer merely an American music. It is a music of the world. One of the factors that held it back for many years outside America was the inability of musicians in other countries to develop the right rhythmic feeling.

Today, because of the vastly accelerated communications, a Soviet musician who tries hard enough can gain access to the new developments in jazz and can learn, from assiduous listening, how to swing.

But it is not enough for them

Producers Tell Their Side Of Deviation Issue

KILGORE — A group of East Texas oil producers have joined to tell their story about the deviation drilling controversy.

G. U. Yoachim of Kilgore is temporary chairman of the group of about 80.

He said "evidence that some individuals of our group has gathered indicates that certain sensational disclosures may be in the offing."

"We are highly incensed at the 'police methods' being used by some state officials in attempts to obtain evidence," Yoachim said. He said the group had reference to the attorney general's office and the Department of Public Safety.

"As far as we know, every producer present at our meeting who has received letters from the Railroad Commission regarding well surveys has expressed willingness to cooperate with the commission in its investigation," he said.

merely to sound like their American counterparts.

Says Leonid Pereversev, a young electronic technician who doubles as ethno-musicologist:

"For many years in the thirties, our cultural traditions were confused, Third-rate popular restaurant music and operettas, fourth-hand carbon copies of American jazz, all were thriving — complete with loud drums and comedy effects.

"This kind of thing was criticized and wrongly equated with true jazz. As a result, all jazz was condemned. Only in recent years has there been a realization that jazz is not mere entertainment or music for dancing."

Pereversev says that now jazz is out in the open again, dozens of musicians in the 18-25 age bracket are working on the evolution of a style that may ultimately earn international acceptance, not as an imitation of the American original but as music with an identity of its own.

The next steps will be the hardest. At present there is not a single record by any of the remarkable young Soviet jazzmen. Nor is there yet any official endorsement by the Union of Soviet Composers of the works they are creating. Other areas, however, are slowly opening up. For a full hour on the night of June 2 Radio Moscow broadcast with commentary in four languages a tape recording of a recent jazz club concert.

"But please don't say we're using jazz as an ideological weapon," Pereversev hastened to add. "When the Bolshoi Ballet is sent overseas, it is sent over simply as art. And that's the way we want our jazz to be treated."

In the youth cafes and jazz clubs is any indication, he will have his wish. A lot of hot and cool choruses have flowed under the bridge of the Moskva River since the synthetic pseudo-Paul Whiteman efforts of the Stalin era. Perhaps Soviet style jazz may really be ready to emerge.

No Executions In N.Y. State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time since the end of World War II, New York state has completed a full year without an execution for a capital offense.

A state commission is studying capital punishment as part of a survey of the state's criminal law, but a spokesman for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller rejected Thursday the idea that the governor unofficially might have suspended the death penalty, pending recommendations of the commission.

The spokesman said the hiatus was the result of delays that had been caused by many legal steps in appeals to state and federal courts by persons under death sentence.

Cotton Men To Mexico

HARLINGEN (AP)—American Cotton Congress delegates moved across the Rio Grande to Matamoros today to hear an address by Julian Rodriguez Adame, Mexico's secretary of agriculture.

His talk and tours of Mexican cotton areas featured the second day of the congress. The final day's activities will be in Edinburg Saturday.

Divorce Plans

Eddie Fisher, with Julie Prowse by his side, said Elizabeth Taylor will win a Nevada divorce from him via an unusual legal maneuver. He said he would file for divorce in Las Vegas so that Elizabeth can counterfile and win, (in Rome, Miss Taylor knew nothing about it). He escorted Miss Prowse, ex-fiancee of Frank Sinatra, to the Crescendo night club in the wee hours after finishing his own show at the Coconut Grove in Hollywood. He said it was his third date with the South African dancer in recent days. (AP Wirephoto).
