Wilson Angles For Links With Estes

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — Texas' chief legal officer sought without apparent success Saturday to directly link other persons, possibly national figures, to the financial downfall of Billie Sol Estes.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson conducted his seventh court of inquiry into the affairs of the indicted West Texas agricultural financial giant by questioning 9 witnesses.

The attorney general dealt mainly with the capital structure of Estes Enterprises, Inc. The general manager, J. B. Foster Jr., answered repeatedly that Estes himself owned seven-eighths of the firm and a brother, Bobby Frank Estes, owned one-eighth. Foster said no others were involved in the operation which excluded Estes' grain storage and fertilizer operations.

PHONE CALLS The detailed inquiry into the possibility that others were involved financially with Estes followed hard on the heels of a maze of testimony relating to telephone calls made by Estes. It also followed testimony by Harold Elder, a bank cashier, that the brother, Bobby Frank Estes, cashed three checks and walked out of a Pecos bank with $85,000 cash seven days before Billie Sol was arrested by the FBI.

MANUEL APPEARS At the beginning of Saturday's sessions Wilson said he would not limit the scope of his questions to any witness. He said, "This case is unique in that the Estes operations were capitalized in part by political influence."

Senate Panel Calling 60 For Estes Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets probes said Saturday they will quiz 60 witnesses at hearings starting Wednesday on governmental activities in the Billie Sol Estes case.

The probing by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and his Senate Investigations subcommittee promises to lead from Texas to places high on the Washington scene. The Agriculture Department said officials of other agencies are being investigated, too.

Baby Missing From Hospital

HOUSTON (AP)—Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined Houston police Saturday in their effort to find a newborn baby boy missing from Lockwood Hospital.

Sidney William Palm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alquit Palm, was discovered missing shortly after 9 p.m. Friday. He was just a few hours old, having been delivered by caesarean section Thursday afternoon.

mittee looking into the Estes case for leaking a reportedly confidential Agriculture Department report to a Washington newspaper. He sat with the press group in Pecos Saturday, declining to say who he now represents, but occupied his time passing scribbled notes to Wilson or his aides.

HOUSING PROJECTS Estes' dealings in housing affairs across the nation received passing attention. Foster told the court that the housing deals were before his time and he would have to check records before answering accurately. But he mentioned projects in Blytheville, Ark., Orange, Tex.; Albuquerque, N.M.; Spokane, Wash.; Moses Lake, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; Blythe, Calif.; Farmington, N.M.; Pyote, Tex.; and Lake Charles, La., as among those in which Estes had an interest.

TO YARBOROUGH A Pecos subcommittee, headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., plans to question James A. McConnell, former head of the Agriculture Department's surplus grain program in the Eisenhower administration, at hearings Monday.

Senate Panel Calling 60 For Estes Investigation

ough investigation designed to produce the facts no matter whose political fortunes may be hurt or helped, and in which they will pitch no partisan curves.

Their selection of Estes' amazing success at getting extra and highly profitable cotton-acreage allotments for himself keeps the inquiry out of the field in which a House Government Operations subcommittee already has moved.

100-Degree Day, More To Come

It was a hot hundred on Saturday and the weatherman bluntly promised more of the same today and Monday.

Laos Greet Govt. Pledged To Neutrality

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A 19-man coalition government pledged to put Laos on the road of neutrality took office in four hours of ceremonies Saturday.

Immediately after neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma pledged to restore peace in the war-riddled jungle kingdom, it was indicated his pro-Communist half-brother would be left in temporary charge of the government Sunday.

TO CAMBODIA The 62-year-old Souvanna is taking off for Cambodia en route to Paris to attend a wedding — his daughter's — and his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong of the Pathet Lao is one of two deputy premiers.

Souphanouvong has 10 years' seniority over the other deputy premier, anti-Communist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, and Information Minister Phoumy Vongvichit of the Pathet Lao said the "elder" would take over.

Under the coalition agreement, however, Gen. Phoumi will have a veto over all major decisions in the defense, interior and foreign affairs ministries. Phoumi is the holdover military strongman of the retiring government.

CABINET TO MEET The triumvirate of factions — represented by four anti-Communists, 11 neutralists and four pro-Communists — embarked on the experiment of a united national government after 7½ years of off-and-on civil war, more than 13 months of oft-broken cease-fire and 11 days of haggling over details of the installation.

The cabinet will meet for the first time Sunday.

In an inaugural speech presenting his cabinet to King Savang Vatthana, Souvanna pledged to implement the cease-fire of May 3, 1961, and vowed to permit no foreign interference in Laos.

Laos will demand withdrawal of all foreign forces, he said — an action already promised in the agreement made at Geneva by the Soviet Union, United States, North Vietnam, Red China and other interested powers.

Clear Weather Over The State

By The Associated Press The weather over Texas Saturday generally was clear to partly cloudy and warm.

A few light showers spotted areas of East and North Central Texas and along the lower coast. The Weather Bureau said widely scattered thunderstorms were likely over higher elevations of West Texas Saturday night.

Airline Engineers Strike, Snub JFK One Walkout Is Halted By Court

NEW YORK (AP)—Flight Engineers struck two airlines Saturday, called off one walkout under a federal court order and rejected a new appeal by President Kennedy to return to work in the interest of the public.

Ronald A. Brown, president of the Flight Engineers International Association, said the union "will not abdicate its right to strike."

The two airlines are Pan American World Airways and Eastern Air Lines. Just two hours after the walkout at 1 p.m., EST, a federal court judge granted Pan Am's request for a temporary restraining order to halt the strike, remove pickets and submit issues to federal mediation. It took three hours to actually get the engineers back to work on Pan American flights throughout the nation.

Kennedy urged the union to call off the walkout in the name of "good judgment and even a minimum concern for the public interest."

He said to continue it would be "the height of irresponsibility on the part of the flight engineers."

The union said its walkout was "perfectly legal and justified." And it said the strike-averting agreement reached Wednesday by flight engineers for Trans World Airlines jeopardizes safety in the air.

Kennedy said the TWA agreement proves engineers can get a fair settlement without a strike. But Brown replied, "The Pan American and Eastern flight engineers do not share the President's enthusiasm for the proposed settlement arrived at by the Labor Department."

"Collective bargaining is a two-way street and its failure is to be equally shared by the Pan American and Eastern management," he said. "We do not accept the position that strike responsibility lies only with the union, nor do we think that the public interest is being served by following the course recommended by the Labor Department."

Lamesa Lad Has Heart Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — A 2½ year-old Lamesa boy, who underwent surgery Friday for a congenital heart disorder, was reported in excellent condition Saturday at Texas Children's Hospital.

He is John Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fraser.

He had a narrowing of the main artery which takes blood from the heart and distributes it to every part of the body except the lungs. Doctors found the opening was so small the blood could not get out of the heart and backed up, causing congestion that over-worked the heart.

Europeans Fleeing Algerian Terror

ALGIERES, Algeria (AP)—Thousands of Europeans clamored Saturday to get out of Algeria ahead of independence as the Secret Army Organization in the west pressed its scorched earth campaign, vowing to fight to the end.

NO FOOLIN'—FROSTBITE Unseasonal Malady The first summer weather victim of 1962 in Big Spring is recovering from a painful case of frostbite. He is Lt. Walter Ahlstedt, student pilot at Webb Air Force Base. He suffered a frostbitten knee Thursday afternoon — just about the time that summer made its advent and when the temperature was a searing 100 degrees. He has been dismissed from the Webb AFB hospital apparently none the worse for his mishap. He probably owes his quick recovery to the able services of the base hospital's new flight surgeon. The surgeon's name? Why Frost, naturally — Dr. R. W. Frost. Lt. Ahlstedt's novel accident occurred while he was miles high over Big Spring in a T-38 jet trainer. An aircraft malfunction was blamed for the temperature in the cockpit dropping low enough to freeze the young student's knee.

Hot Words Fly In Farm Bill Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spate of bitter, partisan debate in the Senate pointed up Saturday that both sides intend to make House rejection of the administration's farm bill an issue in the congressional campaign.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., started it off with the assertion that, instead of saving the taxpayers $1 billion as the Democrats claim, the bill would have cost $1 billion a year more.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., disputed this. He said he was surprised that an "economizer" like Williams would oppose the bill.

John Emmett Stokes, 77, died Friday at 4:35 p.m. in local hospital. He had been in failing health the past seven years and was hospitalized Thursday. He resided at 1701 Rannels.

Mr. Stokes retired in 1954 from the I. E. Stokes Drilling Co., in Ozona. He had worked in most of West Texas and also had farm interests in Andrews County.

Cities Cited For Safety Records

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel extended official congratulations Saturday to 12 Texas cities for achievements in traffic safety which brought them awards from the National Safety Council.

Morse teed off on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who told a Republican rally here Friday night that the administration's bill was "based on the ruthless concept of ruling or ruining American agriculture."

"I'm ready to take on the great farmer from Gettysburg," Morse said. "We'll make it a partisan issue if that is what the Republicans want."

Williams and Sen. Allen J. Eisenhower, D-La., clashed over the probable effectiveness of the administration's attempt to sustain the bill to link acreage reduction and marketing quotas to price supports for wheat, corn and feed grains.

As matters stood, both Republicans and Democrats appeared to feel that they can benefit politically from the House defeat of the administration measure, featuring tighter production controls. It could become a city-versus-rural fight.

Republicans are counting heavily on farmers' traditional aversion to government controls to sustain their almost solid opposition to the Kennedy measure.

Democrats are putting their chips on the belief that disgruntled taxpayers in the cities and suburbs will accept their contention that the bill would have saved $1 billion a year in the costs of storing crop surpluses.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Saturday to make the Export Control Act permanent after adopting amendments aimed at strengthening the government's hand in economic warfare with Soviet-bloc nations.

The 59-1 roll-call vote sent the measure to the House for action. The present Export Control Act, under which the government has banned or regulated the shipment of goods to Red Chinese and Soviet-bloc and other unfriendly nations, expires June 30.

There also are stringent controls over exports to the Soviet Union and other Eastern European nations in the Soviet bloc. The Senate adopted the amendments by a 61-37 vote.

The amendments will increase the maximum possible penalties to a maximum of five years' imprisonment and a $50,000 fine.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department announced Saturday a contract to construct a new post office at Freeport, Tex., has been awarded to the Delta Construction Co. of Taylor, Tex., which will lease the building to the department.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week With Joe Pickle

Summer arrived officially on Thursday, and none doubted it. That same day temperatures touched 100 degrees and blistering breezes scoured their way up from the south. Farmers in the rain-slicked south half of the county despaired, and those in the more fortunate north half anxiously watched to see how sprouting cotton could take the southerly blast. Except for the northeast corner of the county where ranges were luxuriantly green, pastures were generally pretty sick.

The heat, however, did what a thirst by the member cities of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Friday, reported O. H. Iyie, assistant general manager, production reached 45.3 million gallons, a record for the year. Odessa had its biggest draw of the year with 23,920,000, while the pace slightly Big Spring and Snyder required 11,100,000 and 2,247,000 gallons each. Oil companies required the remainder of the pig Friday gulp.

Officers were trying to get to the bottom of an incident in which a juvenile gang was said to have beaten and robbed a youth occupant of Halfway House. It may be no major case, but it is good starting point to stopping this sort of thing.

Nor was everything on the adult front peace and light. One shooting left a man in the hospital with a bullet in his head (and he may recover), and a cutting scrape sent another to be sewed up. Both of these occurred in the festering northwest quarter.

100-Degree Day, More To Come

It was a hot hundred on Saturday and the weatherman bluntly promised more of the same today and Monday.

"Hot days and warm nights," was his prediction. He foresaw century readings for both today and Monday and the coolest prospect tonight is up in the 70's.

Southerly winds at 15 to 30 miles an hour are also on tap for both days.

Shot For Safety

Today, registered poodle belonging to Mrs. Doug Orme, 1680 Park Hill, poses to show how a good dog takes an inoculation to prevent rabies. This annual protection is recommended for all pets and is required by a city ordinance. Joe Draper, at left, assists veterinarian H. F. Schwarzenbach.

Rabies Hazard May Develop

By JOE BEYER

A drought-like first six months of this year, with prospects of a long, hot summer ahead, carries other hazards in addition to worry about crop failure.

Skunks, fox and other wildlife invade urban areas during extended dry periods, some of them carrying rabies, according to Lige M. Fox, sanitarian with the Big Spring - Howard County Health Unit.

"The weather this year closely resembles that of 1960, when we had an influx of wild animals seeking food and water," Fox said.

SMALL INCIDENCE

The incidence of rabies this year has been small, Fox said, with only one verification of the disease in nine animals checked by the state laboratory in Austin. A skunk was found to be rabid. In another case, the head of a cat was too decomposed to make an analysis and the child bitten by the cat had to undergo the Pasteur treatment.

Persons bitten by an animal should immediately contact their physician for treatment of the wound. Even though the animal may not be rabid, there is always the chance of getting some other infection, Fox said. A physician can then determine if there is a need to begin treatment for rabies.

It is not usually necessary to begin treatment immediately if the animal can be found and observed. If no symptoms of rabies develop in the animal in 10-12 days, there is no danger. Should the animal become suspect, there is time for verification. The incubation period in humans is about 40 days, shorter in children or in cases where the bite is near the face or head.

A physician will usually recommend beginning treatment immediately if there is danger of rabies.

"We can find out in 24 hours and if the animal has rabies, the doctor is two inoculations ahead," Fox said.

14 INJECTIONS

The usual treatment is 14 injections of rabbit serum. Persons who cannot take the rabbit serum can sometimes use a serum made with duck embryo.

Pets should be inoculated against rabies once each year. Vaccines which are said to give protection for up to three years are available, but the one-year vaccine is used locally because a city ordinance calls for vaccination each year.

Although there is no rabies season, the incidence of the disease is noted less during the colder months when wildlife goes into hibernation and fewer domestic animals venture into unpopulated areas. With warm weather, more persons take their pets into the country. Likewise, predatory animals travel about more freely in their search for food.

Rabid animals have a tendency to roam at one stage in their illness and can spread the disease quickly among many animals.

"I know of one instance where a rabid dog bit 24 dogs and one cow in three days. Only one animal survived. It was a dog which had been vaccinated against rabies," Fox said.

Dawson Jury Gives Damage Verdict

LAMESA (SC) — After deliberating nearly five hours, a Dawson County jury Thursday returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff following more than two days of testimony in a personal injury-damage suit.

The panel awarded Howard Miller of Lamesa judgment of $28,000. The defendant was Weidon (Cotton) Lindsey, also of Lamesa. Miller was seeking $122,000. The jury, which began deliberations at 9 a.m. Thursday, returned its verdict at 2:33 p.m. The verdict included exemplary and punitive damages for assault by auto, $6,000; medical bills, $1,000; and injuries, $21,000.

Young Escapee Arrested Here

A 16-year-old Taboks boy, who was one of a quartet of inmates at the Gatesville State School to escape on last Thursday, is being held in the county jail here. Bob Darland, county juvenile officer, said he would take the youth back to Gatesville this week.

The boy, identified by Darland as Jackie Dwain Richman, is recuperating from deep lacerations across his abdomen suffered when he ran into a barbed wire fence in the darkness Friday night seeking to escape from officers. This happened near Big Lake, Darland said.

Richman and three companions stole a pickup truck after they had broken out of the school. They became lost and ran into a road block near Big Lake. Seeking to evade capture, they wrecked the pickup. The four scattered and Richman ran into the fence in his flight. He made his way here and was picked up by Kel Davis Highway patrolman as he stood on the curb at Main and Third streets.

Taken to jail, he was removed to Cowper hospital where surgeons said that some of the wounds in his abdomen needed stitches. However, the doctors said that a wound, more than 6 hours old, cannot be satisfactorily closed with stitches.

Darland said he understood that officers have arrested the other three youths in the vicinity of Big Lake.

Albion Renteria, 28, shot between the eyes with a .22 pistol, continues to make steady progress toward recovery at the Howard County Hospital here.

Gunshot Victim Is Recovering

No arrangements have been completed as yet for surgery to remove the slug from his brain. If this is attempted, it is said the man will be taken to another hospital where a neurosurgeon is available.

Meantime, Bob Darland, county juvenile officer, said he will take Frank Douchover, 16, who fired the shot at Renteria, to the State Training School for boys in Gatesville sometime this week.

Doctorover is Renteria's stepson. The shooting occurred at a drive-in restaurant on the north side of town June 16.

Khrushy Wants Satellites To Share Some Of Wealth

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev may be putting pressure on East Europeans to tighten their belts and help the Soviets get more to eat and be better clothed.

There was speculation to this effect Saturday among Western diplomats here, as a consequence of Khrushchev's series of visits to the East European satellites.

Khrushchev is at present in Romania. Last month he was in Bulgaria. He is scheduled to visit Czechoslovakia and Hungary later this year. Officially his visits have been described as friendship trips.

As things are now, Czechoslovaks, Hungarians, Romanians, Poles and Bulgarians enjoy a higher standard of living than the average Soviet citizen.

While Khrushchev has had to raise prices of meat and dairy products and there are food queues in Moscow, food supplies are comparatively better in Hungary and Romania. While Soviet clothing is shoddy, monotonous and expensive, Czechs and Poles are dressing in Western style and are as well shod as the average Frenchman or German.

There have been no official disclosures of the nature of Khrushchev's talks here.

Diplomats here said it may be that Khrushchev expects the East European satellites to spread around the wealth.

Romania, for example, may be asked to send more of its agricultural products and meat to the Soviet Union.

At the moment large quantities of Romanian food are being sold in Western Europe in exchange for modern machinery, with which Gheorghiu-Dej is trying to build up heavy industry and improve the living standards of his own people.

If Romania continues selling to the West and also has to ship more to Russia, this means the Romanian people may have less to eat this year than in 1960 and 1961.

Khrushchev may be making similar demands on Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and Bulgaria.

Western diplomats say they believe there was some discussion along these lines at a recent meeting of East Bloc economic chiefs in Moscow and that Khrushchev's personal visits to satellites were designed to soften the blow.

Khrushchev took life easy Saturday along Romania's Black Sea coast, a sunny new playground for East Europeans. He visited the tourist resort of Mamaia and Eforia and planned to rest until returning to Bucharest Sunday to make a major address.

Nationalist Invasion Seen, Commies Charge U. S. Help

TOKYO (AP) — Red China charged Saturday the Chinese Nationalists are preparing to invade the mainland "with the support and encouragement of U.S. imperialism."

Without mentioning Washington reports of a big Red Chinese military buildup on the coast opposite the Nationalist island of Formosa and possibly aimed at Quemoy and Matsu, radio Peiping declared:

"Military men and civilians in the provinces along the southeast coast and in their rear areas especially must heighten their vigilance and be fully prepared in every way to smash an invasion of the Chiang Kai-shek gang at any time."

The broadcast said a correspondent of the official New China News Agency "has learned from authoritative sources that the Chiang Kai-shek Gang entrenched in Taiwan (Formosa) is preparing, with the support and encouragement of U.S. imperialism, for a large-scale military adventure, an invasion of the coastal areas of the mainland."

The correspondent quoted Mao Tze-tung, leader of Red China, as saying the Chinese Nationalists, for lack of soldiers, "wish to replenish their troops by rounding up able-bodied men in the mainland coastal areas," and added:

"In view of this, the people through the country must work hard in production, support the front, wipe out enemy agents and consolidate the rear."

President Chiang has said repeatedly he would launch an attack on the mainland if wide uprisings should occur.

Racial Study Ordered For Armed Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Racial discrimination still is a problem for the armed forces, President Kennedy said Saturday, as he appointed an advisory committee to study the matter.

The civilian group has been instructed to find means of improving equality of opportunity in the services themselves and in the housing, school and recreational facilities in the communities adjoining military bases.

In a letter to Gerhardt A. Gesell, who was named chairman of the committee, Kennedy praised the Defense Department for progress made in battling racial discrimination since the end of World War II.

But Kennedy added:

"There is considerable evidence that in some civilian communities in which military installations are located, discrimination on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin is a serious source of hardship and embarrassment for armed forces personnel and their dependents."

The President directed the committee to seek answers to two specific questions:

1. What can be done to improve the effectiveness of current policies and procedures in the armed forces with regard to equality of treatment and opportunity?
2. What measures should be employed to improve equality of opportunity for members of the armed forces and their dependents in the civilian community?

Three Webb Dependents Receive Scholarships

Steven Kite, son of M. Sgt. and Mrs. Verlon G. Kite, Webb AFB, has been awarded a USAF Merit Scholarship at the University of Denver. In competing with 6,000 other Air Force dependents, he was one of 60 students to qualify. The selection score was set at 139 out of a possible 180. Only one per cent surpassed the minimum score.

Following the National Merit Test, Kite took the standard college board examination. The high scores on the college scholastic aptitude tests, plus the personal information presented by the scholars, was the determining factor in making the selections.

Kite plans to major in abnormal psychology at the University of Denver. He was recently notified that the school is presenting him with an additional scholarship.

Other Webb dependents getting scholarships recently include:

Ray Minks, son of M. Sgt. and Mrs. G. M. Minks, also of Webb, was one of 75 applicants accepted for A and M College out of a field of 500. He plans to major in physics, and later, to study oceanography. Minks first became interested in oceanography while his parents were stationed in Hawaii and in the Philippines. He began his studies at Big Spring High School in 1959 and graduated this year. His average of above 90 brought him a membership in the National Honor Society. He plans to enter the Cadet Corps, and perhaps the US Navy upon graduation.

Linda Morton, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Ira K. Morton, another Webb youngster, was awarded a scholarship at the University of Corpus Christi, where she plans to major in speech and drama, with plans to qualify as a librarian. She plans to take advanced work as a librarian at North Texas State in Denton.

Market Hits Four-Year Low

NEW YORK (AP)—High hopes for a stock market rally were dashed this week and, instead, the stock averages sank to new lows since 1958.

Stock prices broke below what some brokers called the "panic lows" reached in the last week of May when the big Wall Street convulsion produced both the steepest decline and the largest recovery since 1929.

Wall Street analysts have been wrong time and again in predicting when the market will reach a buying lead from which a rally is likely. They now look to the market tops of 1956 and 1957 as the area from which some kind of advance could materialize. These are represented by about 320-to-325 in the Dow Jones industrial average.

Brokers have been predicting this kind of thing ever since the Dow Jones industrial average began to slide from its historic peak of 734.91 reached last Dec. 13. As each support broke, another—has been picked.

This week the Dow industrials fell 38.99 to 339.19, lowest since Oct. 28, 1958.

The week's decline had the backdrop of some highly mixed business news and published talk about possibilities of recession—including the disagreement between labor secretary Arthur J. Goldberg and his commissioner of labor statistics, Ewan Clague, after Clague said a 1963 recession was likely.

Students Stage Munich Riots

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Munich police have picked up 67 students and beatniks after two nights of rioting that started with an impromptu street guitar concert in the Bohemian Schwabing section.

A police headquarters official said Saturday all will be charged with inciting a riot and resisting arrest. He attributed the rioting to idleness and curiosity.

"Nobody in that crowd was drunk," he said. "In big cities like Munich you must always reckon with outbreaks like this."

The trouble started early Friday when 41 were arrested after a melee between 500 students and police. Acting on complaints by residents, police had been sent to break up an impromptu street concert by three young guitarists.

Early Saturday, students and Bavarian beatniks assembled in the same area and jeered passing police squad cars. When police moved in to disperse the crowd, they were met by catcalls and the smashing of bottles and glasses. Some also tried to turn over automobiles and stop street cars. Police arrested another 26.

County Crops Look Fair In North Half

SAM BLACKBURN
Howard County farmers tell of incidents where cotton planted as late as July 4 made a crop and turned out a good yield.

But they hasten to add that such instances are few and far between. And the farmer who has to plant so late in the season has a very thin chance of a fair harvest. Frost has to be extremely late; the season between July 4 and cold weather has to be just right.

Farmers say that the real deadline for planting is around June 28 and they point out that date comes this week.

Unfortunately, there are many farms in the county where the moisture so far this year has been insufficient to permit planting. Unless good rains fall within the next four to six days, there is little chance of a cotton crop on the areas which have been hardest hit by the drought.

The driest part of the county is the southwest quarter. This encompasses the rich farming section in the Lomax and Elbow communities. So little rain has fallen in this area that little or no planting has been done. Ranch lands in the district are suffering badly. The dry belt extends across the county to the east, and the pastures in the vicinity of Chalk and Forsan are hurting, it is reported.

If good rains could be had before the middle of the week, Lomax and Elbow farmers could plant and stand a fair chance of a crop.

STILL HOPE
Arthur Stallings, who lives in Lomax, estimated he has had less than 2½ inches of rain this year. What cotton that had been planted and had managed to come up, he said, was cut away by the duster which swept in on Monday evening.

"I've quit worrying about this year's crop," he commented. "What's bothering me now is how about next year."

Pasture lands are not only suffering from the lack of rain but are also taking a beating at the hands of the blistering heat.

BETTER PICTURE
Herb Helbig, Howard County Farm Agent, said that the north half of the county is in fair to good shape.

"It is almost as though the elements used IS 20 as a dividing line," he said. "South of the highway, little rain has fallen and the farmers and ranchers are in bad need of moisture. North of the road, more rain fell and conditions are much better."

He said crops appear fairly good in the Ackerly-Knott-Luther area and in the Vincent section which has had more rain than in any other part of the county.

In these more fortunate districts, most cotton has just been planted and the dust storm of last week did relatively little damage.

Pastures on the north side of IS 20, the county agent reported, have responded remarkably since the recent showers. He said there was little difficulty due to lack of stock water. Apparently most of the ranches and farms have water on hand in their farm tanks.

Ed Carpenter, who lives in the Vincent area, said that it has been a number of years since his pasture lands have been in as good shape as at present.

HEAT THREAT
Helbig said that most farmers can plant with tolerable assurance of success as late as July 1 but that rains must fall soon to

Bad Junction Gets Stops

LAMESA (SC) — Stop signs have replaced yield right-of-way signs at the intersection of US Highway 87 and 180 here where five persons have been killed in traffic accidents.

At the direction of the regional engineer, O. L. Crain, Lubbock, the yield signs were replaced Thursday by stop signs. Both of the stop signs face the driver heading east on 180.

"We're convinced that we are going to make some changes there," said R. W. Tucker, assistant district engineer, Lubbock. "We've been making studies of that intersection for some time and will probably install a flashing light there."

There has been two fatalities at the crossing in each of the past two years and one in 1959. In April of last year the Dawson County commissioners passed a resolution asking for a study and changes in order to reduce the number of fatalities. Three persons were injured in a crashup there on June 17.

Seed In, Dawson Crosses Fingers

LAMESA (SC) — Practically all of Dawson County's 1962 cotton crop has been planted and farmers are just finishing the planting of numerous varieties of grain sorghums. Sufficient moisture is present to get growth started.

County production, however, depends on the amount and timing of July and August rainfalls and whether the area receives an early, normal or late frost, according to Lee Roy Colgan, county agent. Producers are keeping their fingers crossed.

Over 50 per cent of the Dawson County cotton was planted after June 10, but 75,000 acres of cotton were in good condition prior to that time.

"Normal production of cotton is affected when planting is done after June 10," Colgan said, and "Dawson County farmers put in 140,000 acres after that time."

"We've planted so late that any disaster could put us out of business."

EARLY COTTON OK
April cotton and some planted between then and June 10 is doing well, Colgan pointed out, despite recent sandstorms and hail which destroyed crops at some points. Moisture was spotty during the first 20 days of June with some regions receiving plenty of rain, others still lacking some.

"It's still not as wet as we'd like to have it," Colgan remarked. "We do not have the underground moisture this year that we've had in the last several years, but grain sorghums will be planted by many farmers until June 30. We're at the end of the cotton planting season and we'll have to have rain when the cotton is big enough to stand it."

JUNE RAINFALL
Last year Dawson County produced a record 213,217 bales of cotton from 222,000 acres. The previous record was 183,000 bales from 318,000 acres in 1949.

Through the first five months of this year, Lamesa gauged only 1.68 inches of rain—well below the average 5.40 inches for the same period. June rainfall, however, measured from 2.40 inches to as much as four inches in some places, enabling the dryland farmers to get their cotton in the ground before they had to resort to some other crop.

offer any reasonable assurance of a crop.

The heat, plus the lack of reserve moisture, was posing a threat to tender young cotton around Knott, according to Rufus L. Stallings. He said Friday that he had been checking his fields and that the plants were showing signs of deterioration due to the heat. He estimated that the total rain in the Knott area since Jan. 1 was around 5 inches. None of these rains, however, were big and the total was mostly statistical.

Coahoma has had fairly good rains. The best and most recent was on June 13 when most of the area gauged up to 1.5 inches.

Ralph White, whose farm is southeast of town, said that he had planted on the heels of the June 13 rain which dumped 1.3 on his fields. The cotton is up and looking good.

"If we can get a little more rain," he said, "I believe we will make it all right."

He said that most of the fields in the Coahoma area are now planted. Heavier rains have fallen to the north of Coahoma, he said, than in the town or on his farm. Southeast of his place, little rain has fallen. Oilschalk and the ranching country in the extreme southeast part of the county is extremely dry.

When he got the facts...he got the car!

And what are the facts about Cadillac that proved so persuasive?

Well, listen for yourself—and judge for yourself.

Fact Number One. A Cadillac can be unexpectedly modest in original cost. The lowest priced model, for instance, actually costs less than eleven models of other less renowned makes.

Fact Number Two. The price of a new Cadillac includes many important features that are extra on most other cars—including power steering, power braking and Hydra-Matic drive.

Fact Number Three. Cadillac cars are extraordinarily dependable—and remarkably frugal in their use of gasoline and maintenance requirements.

Fact Number Four. Cadillac dealers are especially anxious to welcome new owners to the Cadillac family at this time of the year—and they are in a position to make the step up unusually attractive.

Of course, that's only the frosting on the cake. For the basic temptation remains, as always, the greatness of the Cadillac car itself—a greatness that has this year reflected itself in every phase of performance, craftsmanship... and in every detail of beauty and elegance.

It's a combination that has this year proved irresistible to more motorists than ever before.

Why not visit your nearest Cadillac dealer soon and let yourself be tempted?

ROTC Students 'Welcomed,' Now Face Training Grind

With the first week of training under their belt, the more than 200 USAF ROTC cadets at Webb AFB have completed their indoctrination phase, and have settled down to three more weeks of rigorous training.

The majority of the group arrived Monday; after being assigned quarters they went through a fast in-processing schedule, assisted by a group of student officers whose business it was to see that they received the traditional "discipline routine." The student pilots assigned this particular job were all graduates of one of the service academies, and were well qualified to do the "welcome" job.

Each of the students has been assigned a flight and will ride with instructor-pilots for at least one jet flight during their stay.

The "Cadet of the Week" will be given a ride in a T-38, the new supersonic trainer; others will ride the T-37.

Salan Writes To Save Self

PARIS (AP) — Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan's appeal to the Secret Army Organization to make peace with the Moslems in Algeria may have been an attempt to save his own life, informed sources said Saturday.

The former chief of the secret army in Algeria now is under a life sentence for treason and terrorism. The failure of a special court to give him the death sentence angered President Charles de Gaulle.

Now Salan's case may be reopened on new grounds. The prosecution has asked for a review on the basis that Salan had committed further acts of treason after his imprisonment.

Salan had written letters to confidantes from prison giving instructions on the use of secret army funds, and on other matters relating to the terrorist organization and his own defense.

Should a review result in a new trial, some sources felt, Salan's letter made public Friday night might be an item of mitigation against the earlier letters sent to the secret army.

Salan's motives are known only to himself. But it was recalled that if he has ever replied to an appeal from his top lieutenant, ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, it has never been made public.

New officers for both the Optimist and for the Opti-Mrs. Clubs were installed at a banquet meeting of the two groups Friday evening at the Cosden Country Club.

Ed Echols, Odessa, lieutenant governor for this district, was the installing officer for the Optimists, and he spoke briefly on the recent Optimist International convention which chose John M. Grimland Jr., Midland, as its president.

Mrs. Arlen Sturdivant, retiring president, was the installing officer for the auxiliary.

Louis Wolfson, incoming president, was given his pin by T. A. Thigpen, and in turn gave Thigpen a past president's pin.

The award for special service went to Mrs. Arlen Sturdivant, and service awards went to Charles Lusk and Cecil Thixton for seven years; James S. Calmes for two years, and A. J. Hall, Jack Parrott, Pat Sexton, T. A. Thigpen, and Louis Wolfson for one year.

Mrs. Bradley, in her opening group, will sing "Held Within My Inmost Heart," Verdi; "O That It Were So!" Frank Bridge; "Ecstasy," Walter Rummel.

The large and allegro movements of the Pusch-Ruyssen sonata will be the object of Mrs. Wiehe's oboe solo.

Mrs. Bradley will sing the clever aria from Menotti's "The Telephone." Also in a lighter vein, Murphy will sing Niles' "The Rowin' Gambler"; "Night and the Curtains Drawn," Farrata; and "I Bought Me a Cat," Copland. Mrs. Bradley will add melody with the Rogers-Hammerstein favorite, "If I Loved You" and "I Whistle a Happy Tune."

For the first half of the Scararouché suite, Hendrix and Mrs. Wiehe will play "Vif," and in the second portion, "Braziliera," Tom McDaniel will team with him.

Casals Given Great Ovation

NEW YORK (AP)—Eighty-five-year-old Pablo Casals appeared at Carnegie Hall Friday night in the triple role of conductor, composer and crusader for peace. He received standing ovations before and after his performance.

The famed cellist conducted the Festival Casals Orchestra and members of the Cleveland Orchestra chorus in the New York premiere of his oratorio "El Pesebre" (The Manger).

Soloists were Olga Iglesias, soprano; Maureen Forrester, contralto; Margaret Hauptman, soprano; Pauline Saharrea, tenor; Raymond Murcell, baritone, and William Warfield, bass.

Text for "El Pesebre" was written by Spanish poet Joan Alavedra. It deals with the nativity and ends with a plea for universal peace.

"El Pesebre" received its world premiere in December 1960 in Acapulco, Mexico, and its United States premiere last April in San Francisco.

Casals intends to take the oratorio on a world tour as a message for peace.

Casals has made his home for years in Puerto Rico, a voluntary exile from his native Spain since the advent of the Francisco Franco dictatorship.

Casals last appeared in New York in 1958, playing the cello at the United Nations.

He was greeted with a rising ovation when he entered. He conducted from a swivel chair, but rose many times during the oratorio to emphasize his direction.

At the end there was a nine-minute standing ovation, during which Casals took six curtain calls.

Money Taken From Business Houses

Entry of two business establishments Friday night netted burglars a total of about $5 in change.

Maxie Carey, owner of Maxie's Barber Shop at 1103 Owens, told police someone entered his shop some time between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 5:45 a.m. Saturday and took about $1 in change from the cash register. Investigation revealed the burglar had tried unsuccessfully to open a drink machine. Entry into the building was made through a west door.

Thrifty Food Service Store, 800 Eleventh Place, was reported entered some time between 10 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday. Paul Hood, owner, said a total of about $4 was missing from the cash register and from a bowl hidden behind a counter. The burglar entered by pulling off a screen door on the southeast side of the building.

Dies In Crash

MANZANOLA, Colo. (AP)—James Ramsey, 23, of Chickasha, Okla., died Friday night in a car collision on U.S. 50 one mile east of here. The state patrol said cars driven by Ramsey and John W. Sanders, 39, of Junction, Tex., collided. Sanders was not hurt. His 15-year-old son, John Richard, was treated for cuts and bruises.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

Webb Grads' Kin Make Long Flights Into Local Airport

Weather being what it is this week had a big effect on flying at Howard County Airport. There were several long-distance trips made, with some of the flying club pilots taking cross countries.

A new private license was issued Tuesday to one Webb Aero Club member who has spent many hours recently in the club's airplanes. Alan (Skip) Weismantle went to Midland Tuesday and came back with his license. His instructor was Major Tom McMillan.

Two families, with sons graduating Friday from Webb AFB, came in from long distances to be at the ceremonies. Three members of a family flew 'own from Fargo, North Dakota, and another family of four came in from Vermont. The North Dakotans were flying a Skylane and the Vermonters a Stinson.

Another long distance pilot in, with his wife, was Roy C. Merworth. He flew in from the International strip at the east end of Lake J. B. Thomas in his Piper "For Sale" Tri-Pacer to order a set of special wings for a friend from California.

The Big Spring Aircraft firm flew in a Piper Cherokee from Florida Tuesday evening. By the time it has 30 hours of flying time it will have been from Florida to Big Spring to Bismarck, N. D., to Big Spring, with Howard Loyd at the controls. He left Friday morning for the Dakota territory on a charter trip and will return early in the week.

Flying Club members using airplanes during the past week were: Webb Aero Club, Colt-Skipper Weismantle (5), Robbie (4); Cessna-Marks (2); Hurt, Janssen, Weismantle (3); Davis; Tri-Pacer—Marks (2); Jones (2).

Big Spring Flying Club, Colt—Dr. M. A. Porter (2), M. J. Spruill (2), John Stanley (3), Don Fuller (2), Joe Clark (2), Betty Ray (2), Buster Weaver (2), Jay Lebowitz (2), Bill Wilson.

Others flying out of and into Howard County this week were: W. L. Arendall from Wimberly on a two-day business trip; Roy Shields, Fort Worth, on his way to Portland, Oregon in a 1938 Taylorcraft; Henry Mays from Lubbock, with Harlan Engineering Co., in Cessna 182; Atmar Atkinson, architect, from Lubbock, in Cherokee; Dr. P. W. Malone took his daughter to camp at Estes Park, Colo., and returned Sunday; Clyde McMahon on several business trips; Cosden's Dove and Heron very active all week; Henry Westerlage, American Mercury Aircraft Insurance Co., here Thursday from Dallas in a Comanche; Paul Kasch out in his Comanche every day including trip to Gainesville for bid on a hospital job.

"The business in and out of the airport has been exceptionally good all week," Ted McClung, manager, said Friday. "If this weather keeps up the crop dusters and sprayers will begin to get extra busy."

GOP Wives Get Good Wishes From Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said today the country cannot keep its freedom if it surrenders "to any central government" the responsibilities which belong to the people alone.

He addressed the wives of Republican Congress members at an outdoor breakfast in his honor at the home of Rep. Perkins Bass, R-N.H., and Mrs. Bass.

Ruddy and smiling, Eisenhower remarked at the outset that he never eats breakfast because "I eat too much all day long." Nevertheless, he tucked away four pancakes drenched in New Hampshire maple syrup, two Pennsylvania sausages, and a couple of pecan rolls before advising the wives on how to get their husbands re-elected.

Eisenhower told the 75 women they will have to teach the principles of liberty and responsibility not wholly from political platforms but in their homes, clubs "and everywhere else."

"Then you must find and support the people who can preach those principles in the government, so that these ideas will survive," Eisenhower said.

The former president declined to amplify his call, made Friday night before 3,000 cheering Republicans at a fund-raising dinner, for cuts in the defense and space budgets proposed by what he called the floundering administration of President Kennedy.

The former chief executive said he did not feel that the breakfast party was the place for partisanship, and went on to say of the Democrats:

"There are many cases in which I feel sorry for them, and many more in which I get annoyed with them. He closed with the wish that each one brings two or three more Republicans back with him."

District Revenues Still Running Ahead Of 1961

Revenues for the Colorado River Municipal Water District continue to run slightly ahead of a year ago, the May revenue statement shows.

The margin is principally in sales to repressuring units. Sales to cities (Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder) grossed $362,594 for the first five months of the year, about $7,000 less than a year ago. The May total was $121,402 (Odessa $79,181, Big Spring $31,583, Snyder $7,238, rural users $3,382.)

Oil companies using water for repressuring paid $231,596 for the 5-month period, nearly $47,000 more than for the same period a year ago. Recreational revenues of $35,790 were almost identical with those of last year. May sales to oil companies amounted to $46,315 and recreational revenues amounted to $4,797.

Expenditures amounted to $58,979 for May, making a 5-month total of $285,296, leaving a balance of $564,948 to be transferred to debt service and other indebtedured funds. Operation expenses for May included $41,570 about three-fourths of it for power; $5,585 general and administrative; $3,961 recreational services.

Sales were predicted on production of 756,330,000 gallons. Of this amount 54,931,000 gallons came from the district well field in Martin County. 25,791,000 from city lakes. 3,492,000 from city wells and 672,134,000 from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Riders Fare Better On Second Night Of Rodeo

LAMESA (SC)—The stock was tough on the second night of the 13th annual Lamesa Rodeo Friday night, but cowboys fared better than on opening night. A crowd estimated at about 3,000 watched the show.

Two of nine riders stayed with their bareback broncs long enough to register a score. They were Eddie Stewart, Post, and Sid Johnson, Snyder. Both had scores of 167.

Three riders managed to remain atop their bulls. Eight others failed. All three scores were better than those of opening night. Completing their rides were John Koonsman, Matador, 169; Windy Stone, Spur, 167; and Eddie Stewart, Post, 159.

There was no winner in the wild mare race for the second straight night. The purse tonight will be $150.

Jeff Everett, Snyder, was first in open calf roping, as he chalked up a flat 13 seconds. The only other person to have time was Bob Johnson, Rankin, with 23.5 seconds.

In girls barrel racing, top scores were Gladys Pinkert, Ropesville, 20.1 seconds; Ethel Martin, Tokio, 20.2 seconds; and Marie Voss, Snyder, 20.3 seconds.

Overnight Camp Terminates Y Program

About 13 YMCA Day Campers and their Dads played pioneer in City Park Friday, bedding down for the night. The all-night camp-out followed an evening program which ended the first of four Y Day Camps.

A campfire program at 7:30 p.m. was attended by more than 125 persons. Francis Flint, general secretary, said. It included stunts by the campers, Indian dances and presentation of awards for outstanding camper, winners of swimming and in several other categories. Every boy attending camp received at least one award.

Those staying overnight broke camp about 7:30 a.m. Saturday. A day camp for girls begins Monday. About 15 girls have already been enrolled and some 10-15 more can be accepted. Flint said. For more information on other Day Camps, contact the YMCA.

Mail Drivers Instructed To Watch Out For Kids

Because a few small children have been injured or killed over the nation by vehicles driven by postal employees, the U. S. Post Office Department has issued a warning to workers and to patrons of the department.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that the bulletin pointed out most of the children involved were under 5 years of age. The accidents occurred for the most part on rural routes, mounted routes or in instances where parcel post deliveries were being made. Mostly the mishaps occurred as the postal vehicle was driving away from a stop.

Boatler said that all postal employees who operate vehicles for the Big Spring office have been warned to be extremely careful to lessen the possibility of such a tragedy locally.

Where children have been in the area where the vehicle has stopped and clearance is not certain, the driver should physically check before moving.

When patrons meet the carrier at the mail box accompanied by young children the driver is instructed to ask the adults to make certain the children are out of the danger zone before he starts forward. Patrons, too, are asked to help in this campaign for safety.

Phone Books Due Thursday

Big Spring's new telephone directory will be mailed to customers Thursday, Byron Alexander, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, has announced.

Webb Air Force Base is represented on this year's directory cover. The cover will feature a drawing of the control tower and two new supersonic trainers flying. The art work will appear in brown ink on a white background. Alexander said the telephone company chose Webb Air Force Base as a subject for the cover because of Webb's contribution to Big Spring's economy and its importance to civil defense.

According to Alexander, this year's directory includes 76 white or alphabetical pages. There are 172 classified or yellow pages in the new book—20 more pages than were in the 1961 directory. Approximately 21,300 directories were printed this year while 20,300 were printed for distribution last year. Alexander explained that extra books must be printed for replacements in public telephone booths and other places where a lot of use occurs.

Canadian Dedication On June 30

AMARILLO (AP)—Interior Secretary Stewart Udall will dedicate the Canadian River dam under construction 35 miles northeast of here in ceremonies at the dam site June 30.

Approximately 12,000 persons are expected to attend the Saturday ceremony on a spot overlooking the river.

The event will mark another milestone in the long search for a surface water supply by 11 cities of the Texas Panhandle and South Plains.

Both U.S. senators from Texas, Ralph Yarborough and John Tower, will attend. Congressmen from the two districts in which the 11 participating cities lie, Reps. Walter Rogers of Pampa and George Mahon of Lubbock, will be on hand.

Accompanying Udall will be Floyd Dominy, commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, the federal agency building the $93 million dam and aqueduct system under a 50-year repayment contract with the cities.

The 6,200-foot earthen dam—back a 20-mile reservoir—will provide 33.5 billion gallons of water annually for Borger, Pampa, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Slaton, O'Donnell, Tahoka, Levelland, Brownfield and Lamesa.

The dam and the 322-mile-long aqueduct constitute a unique project in the 60-year history of the reclamation bureau.

The project will provide no water for irrigation. It has no hydro-electric development.

The water is solely for municipal and industrial purposes—the first such project to be built by the bureau.

The bureau's agreement with the 11 cities, the member cities of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, is the largest repayment contract ever signed by the agency.

Construction of the dam began four months ago at a point where the Canadian River, which rises in northern New Mexico and joins the Arkansas River in eastern Oklahoma, pinches between two high bluffs. The dam site is two miles west of the community of Sanford and nine miles northwest of Borger.

The cost of the dam proper will total $17.8 million, the figure submitted by the successful low bidder, the H. B. Zachry Co. of San Antonio.

This cost will total $31 million by the time reservoir land is purchased and more than 30 natural gas and oil well pipelines are relocated.

But the largest part of the total project cost will be spent for the aqueduct system, an estimated $65 million.

The total $96 million cost of the project, except for $3,130,000 allocated for flood control, is to be repaid the federal government by the 11 participating cities. And the repayment money will come not from city taxes but from charges for water.

The liquor control board announced suspension of seven licenses last week. A few were on places which previously had their city dance hall licenses suspended or revoked. Police and LCB agents are applying a steady pressure on trouble spots.

Oil activity continued at an encouraging pace. Texas Natural 1 Houston, half a mile south of the discovery well and five miles southeast of Stanton, came in as another Wolfcamp producer in northern Glasscock County, rating 400 barrels per day. Southland Royalty No. 1 Ellwood in northern Sterling was recompleted for 11.6 barrels of 52-gravity oil and 70 per cent water per day in the Ellenburger, Texas No. 1 Gular was staked as a 7,600 Spraberry explorer four miles northeast of Big Spring, and in northwest Sterling Cosden-Roden staked a third tier after completing a second robust well in the new Crede (Wolfcamp) field.

The saga of the T-3rd came to an end at Webb AFB last Wednesday when Capt. Frances L. Bates, instructor and student officer, 2nd Lt. Ross E. Peeler of class 62-H, landed in the last T-33 to make a student flight from the base. In the 10 years this rugged twin engine trainer has had performed, students put in 872,652 hours flying time on them. This would mean an aggregate of more than a quarter of a billion miles in flight.

One class of Air Force ROTC cadets will be completing a period of active duty training this week, and on Monday Big Spring businessmen are throwing a barbecue for them. It's the community's way of saying that we are proud to have had them train here.

Minor Mishap

Only one minor accident was noted by police Friday afternoon and Saturday. The collision occurred about 9:45 p.m. Friday at Third and Runnels. Drivers were James David Yates and David Wayne Atkinson, both living on Route One.

Insurance Rates Upped On Coast

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Board of Insurance announced Saturday a 27 per cent increase in extended coverage rates for homes along the Texas coast.

Willis McVey, board managing rate actuary, said today the increase will be effective July 1 for one year for homes in counties along the coast from Orange to Brownsville and inland counties which border on these coastal counties.

"We paid out over $110 million in inland and coastal claims for damage resulting from Hurricane Carla," McVey said. "The hurricane is the cause of the increase."

Glittering Mexico Visit Is Ahead For President Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will see colorful Mexico folk-dancing and attend Mass at the famed shrine of Guadalupe during a glittering state visit to Mexico next weekend.

On the diplomatic side, he hopes to soothe feelings of Mexicans toward the United States and fan disenchantment with his No. 1 Latin American critic — Cuba's Communist prime minister, Fidel Castro.

The White House announced details Saturday of the forthcoming 48-hour Mexico City visit, a courtesy call that has been somewhat delayed by scheduling difficulties and what Washington feels has been Mexican softness toward Castro.

Trips to neighboring Canada and Mexico are a customary undertaking by U.S. presidents early in their administrations. Kennedy went to Canada in May 1961.

For Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, it will be their first journey to Mexico since their 1953 honeymoon at the Pacific coast resort of Acapulco.

A White House announcement said the couple would leave Washington by military jetliner Friday morning, arrive at Mexico City airport at 11 a.m. Mexican time, and leave Mexico at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, returning to Washington four hours later.

Kennedy will have a total of 3 1/2 hours of private talks with Mexico's president, Adolfo Lopez Mateos, on foreign affairs and topics of interest to the two countries. These diplomatic conversations will be sandwiched in between more spectacular formal events of the two-day state visit.

The United States Agricultural Stabilization Commission heard the reports of fraud and began investigating two weeks ago. The investigation was quickly placed in the hands of the FBI, the newspaper said.

Lewis David of Bryan, state administrator for the ASC, was quoted as saying, "We were only able to positively pin down 400 acres being illegally used for rice production before we turned the investigation over to the FBI, but this will probably involve thousands of acres and spread to incredible proportions before it's over."

David said the fraud involves multiple assignments of their total acreage allotments by farmers given allotments by the ASC.

"In other words, a farmer with a 100-acre allotment might assign his entire 100 acres to another farmer in his own county and to another in a second county," David said.

"Thus he would be getting the production from 200 acres when his total allotment was only 100."

He added, "If... our office managers... were doing their jobs, it would be impossible for the farmers to make these multiple assignments."

The FBI would not comment on the acreage fraud.

Bodies Of Crash Victims Brought Down Steep Hill

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP)—Rescue teams moved up and down the steep sides of Donkey Back Hill on Saturday bringing out the charred bodies of 113 persons killed in the obliterating crash of an Air France jetliner Friday.

The French government sent an inquiry commission and Air France flew in experts to try to learn what caused this second major disaster this month to the line's Boeing 707 jets, the two worst single plane crashes in the history of commercial aviation.

Local officials were silent, but another Air France pilot blamed a violent thunderstorm that lowered the flying ceiling when the ill-fated jetliner circled for a landing on a flight from Paris.

Off the usual approach pattern, buffeted by winds that sometimes reached hurricane force,

San Angelo Men Killed In Crash

GRANGER, Tex. (AP)—Two San Angelo men died and an Alice truck driver was critically burned early Saturday in a car-truck crash just north of this South Central Texas town.

Killed were Eddie Allen, 52, and Isaac Huff of San Angelo.

Isaac Villarreal Perez, 30, of 409 Albino St., Alice was sent to the Veterans Hospital at Temple with burns over 95 per cent of his body.

The head-on collision occurred at 1:30 a.m. on State Highway 95 a mile north of Granger. The empty flatbed truck burst into flames with Perez trapped under it.

Mike Hill and Shorty Hanks, both of Bartlett, suffered second degree burns in rescuing Perez.

Youth Charged As Slayer Of Girls

MORRIS TOWNSHIP, N. J. (AP)—A quiet, 18-year-old youth was charged with murder Saturday in the bludgeoning slaying of two pretty girls who had been his schoolmates.

James H. Vance Jr., an ex-Marine was named in the complaint as the killer of Margaret Ann Kennedy, 16, and Noreen Buckley, 17, both of Morris Plains. Police said the death weapon was a tire wrench.

Vance appeared frightened and unsure of himself as the charge was read in the Municipal Court of Magistrate Sergio Pizzi.

India's Nehru Cheered As He Blasts U. S.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru asserted Saturday the United States and Britain "have always adopted an anti-Indian attitude on almost all matters that have been of passionate interest to us."

Winding up debate on foreign affairs in Parliament, Nehru bitterly assailed U.S. stands on Goa, India's dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir, and the possible Indian purchase of MIG jet fighters from Moscow. He drew vigorous applause and a unanimous vote of confidence.

Good will for the United States, built up over the years, is in danger of being "washed away" by such actions as U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's speech on Goa last December, Nehru said. Stevenson criticized India for using force in seizing Goa from Portugal.

The speech "hurt us, annoyed us, irritated us and angered us," Nehru heatedly declared.

"It had nothing to do with the facts," he added.

"Now, some members of the U.N. Security Council, Nehru continued — obviously meaning the United States among others — "want to tell us what to do about Kashmir, not realizing that Kashmir is flesh of our flesh and bone of our bone."

The United States supported a Security Council resolution urging India and Pakistan to negotiate their differences over the princely state. A Soviet veto killed the proposal Friday and Stevenson assailed the Russians' frequent use of the veto.

He asserted the Western powers failed to recognize the fact of what he called, Pakistan's aggression and Kashmir's accession to India.

Then Nehru turned to what he said were pressure tactics — obviously from the United States and Britain — to keep India from buying Soviet MIG fighters.

He said there had been no decision and no negotiations with the Soviets on the MIGs but India will decide the question regardless of "threats that aid will be lessened or that it will not come."

Rice Acreage Juggling Is Under Probe

HOUSTON (AP)—A federal agriculture official has been suspended and the FBI has questioned 20 farmers about juggling rice acreage allotments in Brazoria and Matagorda counties, the Houston Chronicle said Saturday.

The United States Agricultural Stabilization Commission heard the reports of fraud and began investigating two weeks ago. The investigation was quickly placed in the hands of the FBI, the newspaper said.

Lewis David of Bryan, state administrator for the ASC, was quoted as saying, "We were only able to positively pin down 400 acres being illegally used for rice production before we turned the investigation over to the FBI, but this will probably involve thousands of acres and spread to incredible proportions before it's over."

David said the fraud involves multiple assignments of their total acreage allotments by farmers given allotments by the ASC.

"In other words, a farmer with a 100-acre allotment might assign his entire 100 acres to another farmer in his own county and to another in a second county," David said.

"Thus he would be getting the production from 200 acres when his total allotment was only 100."

He added, "If... our office managers... were doing their jobs, it would be impossible for the farmers to make these multiple assignments."

The FBI would not comment on the acreage fraud.

College 'Censured' Over Dismissal

AUSTIN (AP)—The executive committee of the Texas Association of College Teachers recommended Saturday that the association "censure" the Board of Regents of the Texas State Teachers Colleges and the president of Sam Houston State Teachers College.

The committee based its action on the contention that there was "no just and adequate cause" for the refusal by the regents on May 22 to renew a contract with Dr. Rupert Koeningler.

Koenigler, head of the department of sociology at Sam Houston State since 1947, said after the board decision that he is "a victim of John Birch poison."

The committee said violation of regulations concerning academic tenure "handicap Texas in attracting and retaining superior teachers."

"Already, teachers have been lost to Texas because of the climate of uncertainty," Mrs. Alice Calkins, association executive secretary, said the term "censure" does not mean the association will "blacklist" the college, but that the word implies strongest expression of displeasure.

OTHERS LEAVING
Two Sam Houston State faculty members said Friday they plan to leave the college this fall in protest of Koenigler's dismissal, and said they expect eight others to join them.

The Board of Regents decided last year not to renew Koenigler's contract. He appeared at the May 22 meeting to ask that he be reinstated. The regents declined to tell Koenigler why he was not rehired.

An association committee presented a report at the hearing which said the pressures operating to fire Koenigler "seem to stem from the John Birch Society in Huntsville and from Mrs. C.S. Ramsey's unhappiness over some of Dr. Koenigler's political activities."

Ramsey, brother of former Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, is chairman of the board of regents.

Mrs. Seddon's Rites Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Hetty Seddon, 87, mother of the Rev. E. S. Seddon, Big Spring, will be at 3 p.m. Monday in the Hardy and Orr Funeral Home chapel in El Paso. Burial will be in the Evergreen Cemetery in El Paso. The Rev. John H. Justus of El Paso will officiate. River Funeral Home is in charge of local arrangements.

Mrs. Seddon, ill since 1958, died on Friday at 9:30 a.m. in a local hospital. She lived at 1119 Tucson. Born in Roseville, Ky., on July 1, 1874, she had made her home here for three years. Prior to coming to Big Spring she had lived in El Paso for a half century.

Her husband, the late Ernest A. Seddon, a former employe of the Mountain States Telephone Co., died in 1945.

She was a member of the St. Paul Presbyterian Church here and the family suggests that any memorials to Mrs. Seddon take the form of gifts to the church building fund.

Survivors include two sons, Rev. Seddon of Big Spring and S. W. Seddon of El Cajon, Calif.; and one daughter, Mrs. Ben Crow, El Paso. There are four grandchildren.

Amarillo Girl Wins Outstanding College Honor

Judy Ann McAleh, 18-year-old freshman student at Amarillo College, has been selected as one of the 12 most outstanding college girls in the nation. She is a niece of Lloyd Curley of Big Spring.

She flew to New York City earlier this month on a nine-day, all-expense paid trip, where she was to take part in the National College Queen contest. She is representing Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico in the contest.

Candidates were selected on the basis of "most attractive" and "most intelligent." Fifty per cent of the contestant's rating was based on her ability in school work, her campus and community activity.

The three-state representative is the daughter of Mrs. A. T. McAleh of 4212 Emil Street in Amarillo and a sister of Dr. Morgan McAleh, an Amarillo physician. A pre-med student in school, she hopes to become a surgeon.

Judy is helping pay her way through Amarillo College by working as a switchboard operator on the campus.

Marines Take Dig At Army Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marines unmasked Saturday their irritation at all the attention given to the Army's Special Forces, the new glamor troops of anti-guerrilla warfare.

"Counter-guerrilla operations are neither new nor sensational to Marines—and I think the public should be made aware of this," said Lt. Gen. J. C. Munn, assistant commandant of the corps.

Munn declared that "probably no force in the world today is better equipped, experienced and organized for counter-guerrilla operations than the United States Marine Corps."

The forum Munn chose for these pointed remarks was a banquet of the Marine Corps Combat Correspondents Association in Allentown, Pa.

He did not mention the Special Forces by name, but Marine officers indicated they were Munn's target. These officers acknowledged "there are some needles in the speech."

Munn's text was read closely by some Army officers, who made it clear they felt it was pointed at the anti-guerrilla specialists of the Army. The Army declined any official comment.

In his prepared remarks, Munn appeared to take a dig at the Army on another score—its sizable rear echelon organization which supports fighting units.

"We don't cart around a large supporting structure," said the Marine Corps' second in command.

"More of our over-all strength can be devoted to offensive anti-guerrilla tasks instead of being used to protect a complex network of supply lines and base installations."

Army advocates contend that in projecting their "every man a fighter" image, the Marines fail to mention that the Navy supplies them with much of the rear echelon support that the Army must handle for itself.

The Army Special Forces have received strong Kennedy Administration support, are assigned the mission of training native forces in Communist-threatened countries to fight Red guerrillas on their own terms.

Wage War On Screw Worms

Warfare on screw worms in this county is being pushed with vigor, according to Herb Helbig, county agent.

"Some 25 or 30 cases of screw-worm infection have been reported by ranchmen," he said. "The bulk of these cases are in the east half of the county and most of them in the northeast corner."

"Fewer cases have developed this year and, where the identity of the pest has been established, the control center has acted promptly to release sterile males in the area. We believe we are diminishing the threat to cattle and sheep materially by the campaign."

He repeated the importance of any livestock owner who encounters what appears to be a case of screw worms to report the matter to his office at once. Containers in which the worms can be sent to the identification center are on hand and as quickly as it is established the samples are screw worms, an airplane from Mission or some other production center where the sterile males are being hatched will fly over the area and release the flies.

Ranchmen report they have had to buy only a small amount of screw worm medicine since the campaign has been under way.

To Recommend Training School For Accused Boy

Bob Darland, county juvenile deputy sheriff out of Lamesa. He was turned over to Darland and placed in the Howard County jail.

Darland said that reports there were a number of boys in the attack on the young mental patient were in error. Only Pannell and the victim were involved, the juvenile officer reported.

He said that Pannell is a big boy, six feet in height and that his victim, in this particular case, is slight of build although he is five years Pannell's senior.

Pannell, Darland said, was once in the state hospital on an order from the juvenile court and it was at that time he became acquainted with Johnnie W. Joplin, 19, whom Pannell allegedly beat up and robbed last Wednesday night.

Joplin is a resident of the state hospital's "Halfway House" at present. He was robbed of all the money he had—75 cents.

Grand Jury, To Be Named On Monday, Has 22-Case Docket

Twenty-two felonies, including one charge of murder and another of statutory rape, will be laid before the new Howard County Grand Jury which is to be organized at 10 a.m. Monday in 118th District Court.

Judge Ralph Caton has ordered a panel of 20 members to report at that hour. Twelve will serve as grand jurors for the June term.

Gil Jones, district attorney, estimated the grand jury can complete its work on 22 cases in two days.

MURDER CASE

The murder case on the list is against Joe Torres, who is accused of having shot and killed Andrew Perez on April 18. The two men quarreled, it is reported, over a debt Perez allegedly owed to Torres. The shooting followed. There are three assault with intent to murder cases to be heard by the jurors. Raymond Chapman is accused of firing a shot April 18 at a car containing his wife and two other women. One of the women was wounded. Mary Gomez is charged with stabbing Carmen Sandoval on April 9. Richard Marquez is charged with stabbing Margarito Ortega in the abdomen on April 14.

The statutory rape charge is against Hiram King for an alleged criminal assault on a 15-year-old girl on March 1.

The state will also ask that George Curry, indicted by the last grand jury of theft over $50 be re-indicted—this time as a habitual offender. Curry was before the court last week, but he decided not to plead and the case was stricken from the docket. Jones immediately announced that a re-indictment would be sought against the defendant. As an habitual criminal, a defendant, on conviction, may be given a life sentence.

ASKS RE-INDICTMENT

There are three complaints alleging forgery and passing to be laid before the grand jury. Defendants are Ronald G. Murphy, Robert Arnold, and Garland W. Thompson.

Jessie Lee Williamson will be arranged before the grand jury for passing a forged instrument. Gerald Horn and Finley Horn are cited for issuing false affidavits. They are alleged to have made a sworn statement to Mary Morrison that all bills on a house they were building had been paid. The state alleges the bills had not been paid.

OTHER MATTERS

Five defendants are slated to go before the grand jury on burglary charges. They are River C. Williams, Joe Pat Andersen, David Mendoza Campos, James Fannin, and Sam Johnson Jr.

Charges of DWI second offense against Arlon Victor Daniel, Charles G. Blackstock, and Bishop B. Johnson are on the docket for consideration by the jurors.

The remaining matter to be aired by the investigators is a charge of car theft against Jackie Leon Welch.

Ford's Lead Reduced In Eastern Tourney

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doug Ford fought a losing battle with par in his third round Saturday and had his lead halved to three strokes in the $35,000 Eastern Open Golf tournament.

While Ford was struggling one stroke over par 72, a Maryland favorite, Charles Bassler, made a big move to runner-up with a 68.

Other golfers had been half a dozen back of Ford. Ford, a New Yorker since youth, could sink only one birdie and that was on the first hole with a 20-foot putt.

rest of the way Ford had to fight to even salvage pars in what he called a gruelling day. Four times he sank putts of 10 feet to avoid more bogeys.

Toots Mansfield, seven times world champion calf roper, retired from active rodeo competition eight years ago. Rather than let his talent lie dormant, Toots opened a calf roping school with the intent to pass along his knowledge and experience to tomorrow's rodeo cowboys.

His school lies on six acres of land off the Snyder Highway, a little more than a mile outside Big Spring. The Rodeo School was the first, and to Toots' knowledge, the only successful one of its kind in the country.

Today, the roping school has an alumni of more than 150 graduates, numbering among them several promising ropers. When it first began, the school attracted between 15 and 20 students per class. His present class, scheduled to graduate at the end of this month, has 30 pupils — biggest ever.

Courses at the school are held one month each year — more frequently in June — and last an entire month. Classes are held six days a week, Sunday excepted, and usually last from eight to ten hours. As a rule, the students spend the morning working on their roping, both on horseback and standing; and afternoons are devoted to tying and fundamentals.

More than anything else, Toots stresses doing things the correct way. During the first part of the course, the stopwatch is ignored and each student's individual faults are ironed out until his techniques and methods are practically flawless. Then they begin to concentrate on speed. Toots lectures the students occasionally, has them concentrate mostly on actual practice and demonstration. The teacher strives to have his pupils get in as much roping as possible during the four-week course.

By graduation time, the students are tying their calves in an average of 20 seconds. Some do better than that, depending on their individual talent and experience. More important, however, is the fact that all know and are comparatively proficient in the correct method for roping and tying calves.

Mansfield supplies fresh roping stock for each class. Yearly, he purchases 250 head of calves ranging between 175 to 255 pounds each. Most of his stock comes from a ranch in Livingston, Texas, which breeds Hereford heifers and puts them with Jersey bulls so the offspring will be smaller. Generally, the school has several Brahma calves on hand to offer the student a new and different challenge.

Toots believes one of the most valuable assets a roper can have is a good background of experience with every kind, size and temperament calf possible, just to make sure he knows what to do if he draws a "peculiar" one in competition.

Students are obliged to bring their own horse. The tuition fee is $400. "Not all of them turn pro," Mansfield explains, "but about 50 per cent of them have that in mind when they come here. I've taught all kinds, including a surgeon, a hairdresser and a magician."

Strangely enough, the majority of his students come not from Texas, but from California, Colorado and Ohio. Some have even come from as far as Canada and Hawaii, but most develop well.

Toots also has a book on the market now, entitled simply, "Calf Roping." Its purpose he clearly defines in the foreword: "It just wasn't available about 30 years ago. . . I hope that it contains a few little things that might help to make your calf roping a little easier, a little better and a little faster."

"Calf Roping," the sales of which have surpassed Toots' expectations, was published last year by Western Horseman, Inc., and was written as Toots told it to Dick Spencer, editor of the Western Horseman magazine. It contains sequence pictures of the many phases of calf roping, and receives test-book usage by most of the students at the roping school.

Toots was born and raised on a small ranch at Banderita, Texas, just outside San Antonio. He roped throughout his early years and the knack he developed, along with the hard times created by the depression, hastened him toward his career.

After graduating from high school in 1933, Mansfield began to compete in "jackpots" in which several cowboys would chip in and form a common fund, then compete for the sum. After about three years, he turned pro and struggled with the rodeo through its changing years.

He has since performed in every state of the Union with the exception of Florida and a few New England States. The largest gathering ever to see Toots in action was at Cheyenne, Wyo., where he performed before over 25,000. His favorite rodeo is at Salinas, Calif., because of the fine competition, the professional manner in which the meet is handled and the enthusiasm of spectators and participants alike.

Toots has won the World Championship Calf Roping title seven times, more than any other man in the history of the event. He achieved these wins in 1939, 1940, '41, '43, '45 and 1950. In 1945 the event was placed under the auspices of the Rodeo Cowboys' Association. Toots was the first champion under its direction.

Toots recalls his best time as being somewhere under nine seconds. To his knowledge, no world calf roping record has ever been established because of the variations in rules and procedures in different locales. He has heard of times in the neighborhood of five seconds.

Toots places unmeasurable worth on the calf roper's horse. His last two championships were aboard two of his favorite mounts: "Old Quaker" in 1948 and "Smoky" in 1950. "Old Roan" was another of his outstanding favorites. Named for his color, this animal was bought by Mansfield just after he turned pro in 1936.

One of the things he tries to impress on the students of the roping school is the value of a good horse to a successful roper. Toots says the best age for a calf-roping horse is about five years, but he has seen exceptions in older horses. The horse must be big and fast, to catch and hold the calf; quiet, alert and poised in the waiting box; well broken and willing to learn. He stresses proper care and treatment of a good horse to keep it in the desired form.

In his tutelage, Toots implements many of the tricks and methods he has found helpful in his own career. He is never without two loops when he goes to the chute. Rules permit the second rope, but it may not be used unless the first loop is unsuccessful. Toots' set-up incorporates the second loop on the left side of the horse, where it can be reached quickly and easily if the need arises. Considering the times turned in by ropers today, Toots says it's just about impossible to finish in the money if the roper has to use his second loop, but it could possibly keep the roper close on his average and is certainly worth the try.

Mansfield also suggests a spare "piggin' string" (used to bind the calf's legs) in case the first is lost or out of reach. He recommends tucking the spare under the belt on the left side; the one ready for use is held with loop in teeth and loose end tucked under the belt over the right hip pocket.

Usually, Toots used a piggin' string six feet long — six inches longer or shorter occasionally, depending on the size of the stock. His rope is a comparatively heavy 33 to 36-strand Plymouth silk manila and 25 feet in length. This is five feet shorter than most ropes, and Toots figures it will put him five feet closer to the calf when the time comes to dismount and go after him.

A small, light spur has always adorned the left foot of Mansfield in the calf roping event. After the calf is snaggd, he dismounts from the left side of the horse and doesn't want a right spur getting caught in the saddle or spare loop. A spur on the commercial market bears the Toots Mansfield name, as does a roping saddle. Both were designed to the specifications Toots felt should be incorporated in proper roping equipment.

During the 11 months that roping school is not in session, Toots spends his time working as a salesman for the Franklin Insurance Company. The remainder of his spare time is absorbed on the local golf course. Toots has lowered his score to the middle 90s, but doesn't plan to pursue the game as seriously as he did calf roping.

Mourning Dove Population Dropping Again This Year

TEXAS SPORTSMAN
By The Associated Press

Preliminary State Game and Fish Commission reports show Texas' mourning dove population has dropped again this year.

E. A. Walker, director of program planning for the commission, will report the decrease Tuesday to the National Dove Conference in Washington. "Our reports indicate an appreciable decrease in calling birds from the 1961 population," Walker said.

The 1961 crop was below the 1960, he said. However, because Texas is only part of a large fish and wildlife service management area, the 1961 decrease did not affect the state's bag limit of 15 or the season lengths. The commission will set seasons and bag limits at a July 20 meeting based on results of the Washington meeting.

Biologists will tag 500 crabs in the Galveston Bay area this summer in a study of crab populations. Tags and information on shell width and location and time of the take should be sent to the commission at Seabrook.

Game wardens nabbed 200 unlicensed fishermen during May. The $2.15 licenses are required of all persons aged 17-65 who fish with rods and reels unless they are fishing on their own property; and of all persons who pole fish outside their home counties.

The annual tackle time fishing tournament opened Saturday at Texas City with anglers trying to land something similar to last year's winner, a 550-pound shark, to win a complete boat rig as top prize. Prizes will be given in 10 other classes ranging from tarpon to crabs. The event, which ends July 4, is sponsored by the Texas City Jaycees.

State Game Commission public hearings will continue the coming week in the Possum Kingdom, Edwards Plateau, Southeast, Trans-Pecos and northeast areas. The commission will consider results of the hearing when it sets up regulations and seasons at next month's meeting.

Kingfishing topped Gulf Coast fishing activity with a Freeport party boat returning with 160 and a catch of 55 in clear waters on the banks at Galveston. The sailfish were showing up better at Port Aransas, and the best weekend of the year was forecast.

Other fishing reports:
Big catches of yellow cats up to 15 pounds and channels and white and black bass up to three pounds were taken at Lake Nasworthy.
Eight and 10-pound yellow cats and an 8-pound black bass were hooked at Granite Shoals.
White bass were schooling early and late and furnishing half of the catches at Lake Whitney. A sandie haul of 70 was taken on spoons, and 50 channel cats were taken.
Fifteen black bass to five pounds were taken at the Garza-Little Elm Lake. The lake was muddied but good catches were reported in the lower lake.
Bass limits to four pounds were taken in the shallows and coves of Possum Kingdom.
Big white bass and catfish catches were taken at Lake Texoma. Largest haul was 140 sandies taken on silver flash tangles. A take of 100 cats to 17 pounds was made on shad.

By LARRY LAWRENCE
Toots Mansfield, seven times world champion calf roper, retired from active rodeo competition eight years ago. Rather than let his talent lie dormant, Toots opened a calf roping school with the intent to pass along his knowledge and experience to tomorrow's rodeo cowboys.

His school lies on six acres of land off the Snyder Highway, a little more than a mile outside Big Spring. The Rodeo School was the first, and to Toots' knowledge, the only successful one of its kind in the country.

Today, the roping school has an alumni of more than 150 graduates, numbering among them several promising ropers. When it first began, the school attracted between 15 and 20 students per class. His present class, scheduled to graduate at the end of this month, has 30 pupils — biggest ever.

Courses at the school are held one month each year — more frequently in June — and last an entire month. Classes are held six days a week, Sunday excepted, and usually last from eight to ten hours. As a rule, the students spend the morning working on their roping, both on horseback and standing; and afternoons are devoted to tying and fundamentals.

More than anything else, Toots stresses doing things the correct way. During the first part of the course, the stopwatch is ignored and each student's individual faults are ironed out until his techniques and methods are practically flawless. Then they begin to concentrate on speed. Toots lectures the students occasionally, has them concentrate mostly on actual practice and demonstration. The teacher strives to have his pupils get in as much roping as possible during the four-week course.

By graduation time, the students are tying their calves in an average of 20 seconds. Some do better than that, depending on their individual talent and experience. More important, however, is the fact that all know and are comparatively proficient in the correct method for roping and tying calves.

Mansfield supplies fresh roping stock for each class. Yearly, he purchases 250 head of calves ranging between 175 to 255 pounds each. Most of his stock comes from a ranch in Livingston, Texas, which breeds Hereford heifers and puts them with Jersey bulls so the offspring will be smaller. Generally, the school has several Brahma calves on hand to offer the student a new and different challenge.

Toots believes one of the most valuable assets a roper can have is a good background of experience with every kind, size and temperament calf possible, just to make sure he knows what to do if he draws a "peculiar" one in competition.

Students are obliged to bring their own horse. The tuition fee is $400. "Not all of them turn pro," Mansfield explains, "but about 50 per cent of them have that in mind when they come here. I've taught all kinds, including a surgeon, a hairdresser and a magician."

Strangely enough, the majority of his students come not from Texas, but from California, Colorado and Ohio. Some have even come from as far as Canada and Hawaii, but most develop well.

Toots also has a book on the market now, entitled simply, "Calf Roping." Its purpose he clearly defines in the foreword: "It just wasn't available about 30 years ago. . . I hope that it contains a few little things that might help to make your calf roping a little easier, a little better and a little faster."

"Calf Roping," the sales of which have surpassed Toots' expectations, was published last year by Western Horseman, Inc., and was written as Toots told it to Dick Spencer, editor of the Western Horseman magazine. It contains sequence pictures of the many phases of calf roping, and receives test-book usage by most of the students at the roping school.

Toots was born and raised on a small ranch at Banderita, Texas, just outside San Antonio. He roped throughout his early years and the knack he developed, along with the hard times created by the depression, hastened him toward his career.

After graduating from high school in 1933, Mansfield began to compete in "jackpots" in which several cowboys would chip in and form a common fund, then compete for the sum. After about three years, he turned pro and struggled with the rodeo through its changing years.

He has since performed in every state of the Union with the exception of Florida and a few New England States. The largest gathering ever to see Toots in action was at Cheyenne, Wyo., where he performed before over 25,000. His favorite rodeo is at Salinas, Calif., because of the fine competition, the professional manner in which the meet is handled and the enthusiasm of spectators and participants alike.

Toots has won the World Championship Calf Roping title seven times, more than any other man in the history of the event. He achieved these wins in 1939, 1940, '41, '43, '45 and 1950. In 1945 the event was placed under the auspices of the Rodeo Cowboys' Association. Toots was the first champion under its direction.

Toots recalls his best time as being somewhere under nine seconds. To his knowledge, no world calf roping record has ever been established because of the variations in rules and procedures in different locales. He has heard of times in the neighborhood of five seconds.

Toots places unmeasurable worth on the calf roper's horse. His last two championships were aboard two of his favorite mounts: "Old Quaker" in 1948 and "Smoky" in 1950. "Old Roan" was another of his outstanding favorites. Named for his color, this animal was bought by Mansfield just after he turned pro in 1936.

One of the things he tries to impress on the students of the roping school is the value of a good horse to a successful roper. Toots says the best age for a calf-roping horse is about five years, but he has seen exceptions in older horses. The horse must be big and fast, to catch and hold the calf; quiet, alert and poised in the waiting box; well broken and willing to learn. He stresses proper care and treatment of a good horse to keep it in the desired form.

In his tutelage, Toots implements many of the tricks and methods he has found helpful in his own career. He is never without two loops when he goes to the chute. Rules permit the second rope, but it may not be used unless the first loop is unsuccessful. Toots' set-up incorporates the second loop on the left side of the horse, where it can be reached quickly and easily if the need arises. Considering the times turned in by ropers today, Toots says it's just about impossible to finish in the money if the roper has to use his second loop, but it could possibly keep the roper close on his average and is certainly worth the try.

Mansfield also suggests a spare "piggin' string" (used to bind the calf's legs) in case the first is lost or out of reach. He recommends tucking the spare under the belt on the left side; the one ready for use is held with loop in teeth and loose end tucked under the belt over the right hip pocket.

Usually, Toots used a piggin' string six feet long — six inches longer or shorter occasionally, depending on the size of the stock. His rope is a comparatively heavy 33 to 36-strand Plymouth silk manila and 25 feet in length. This is five feet shorter than most ropes, and Toots figures it will put him five feet closer to the calf when the time comes to dismount and go after him.

A small, light spur has always adorned the left foot of Mansfield in the calf roping event. After the calf is snaggd, he dismounts from the left side of the horse and doesn't want a right spur getting caught in the saddle or spare loop. A spur on the commercial market bears the Toots Mansfield name, as does a roping saddle. Both were designed to the specifications Toots felt should be incorporated in proper roping equipment.

During the 11 months that roping school is not in session, Toots spends his time working as a salesman for the Franklin Insurance Company. The remainder of his spare time is absorbed on the local golf course. Toots has lowered his score to the middle 90s, but doesn't plan to pursue the game as seriously as he did calf roping.

Alabama Signal Caller May Not Have Drawl

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — The quarterback signals for Alabama may ring with a northern accent instead of a southern drawl next season.

He moved into the varsity with spring drills and set a spectacular pace, leading his three competitors for the quarterback job—junior Jack Huribut, senior Mal Moore and sophomore Buddy French.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

By sinking that double eagle in the Public Links Sectional golf play here the other day, pro footballer Charley Johnson became eligible for a properly-enriched tie clasp awarded by Golf Digest magazine. . . John M. Pipes, director of the Sectional, plans to pick up Johnson's card and send it along to Golf Digest for verification. . . The 558-yard double eagle Johnson scored was perhaps the longest on record. . . The longest one reported last year was for 547 yards, achieved by an assistant pro in New Jersey. . . A double eagle is one of the rarest feats in golf. . . Only 51 were reported to Golf Digest through October of last year, compared to 10,000 aces. . . Incidentally, Johnson reports for early football training with the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL at Lake Forest College, Ill., July 22. . . Last year, Charley checked in up there July 9. . . Wally Lemm, the new Card mentor, doesn't believe in starting as early as did his predecessor, Frank Ivy. . . Johnson went to college in St. Louis all of the last school year, working toward his Master's Degree, despite his football duties. . . He's now working on his research project and will enroll again in September. . . He'll have to go into Army Ordnance eventually for two years. . . He holds a lieutenant's commission. . . Frank Lary, the Detroit pitching ace, says he'd rather face the New York Yankees' Bill Skowron than anyone else in a pinch because "he'll swing at anything." . . Al Weill, controversial manager of boxer Rocky Marciano, promoted the Joey Giardello-Yama Bahama fight in Jacksonville, Fla., last week. . . Weill has been ill a long time. . . When small-fry baseball's Bill Burchett hit his dramatic bases-loaded home runs for the Colts in the final inning of that American Little League game here with the Lions the other night, there were two outs and two strikes on the batter. . . The Colts, who will never be closer to defeat, won by one run to protect an unassisted record.

Patterson Says Local Course Tougher

Jimmy Patterson, who'll represent this area in the National Public Links Golf tournament at Tonawanda, N. He once shot a 70 over the Odessa course. . . Nederland High School, where ex-Stanton coach Bowden Cook is now mentor, probably will be in Class AAAA within two years. . . School officials there expect scholastics to exceed 5,000 in 1964 and the city to double in size by 1970. . . Here's an example of why Charley Finley, owner of the baseball 'A's, is disenchanted with Kansas City as a home base and would like to move to the Dallas-Fort Worth area as soon as possible: On a Hank Bauer night held recently, the KC Chamber of Commerce "gave" Bauer a Cadillac, accepting donations. . . But Finley had to pick up the

One of the District 2-AAAA schools stands a good chance of getting a new head coach before the 1962 football season gets under way. . . Incidentally, coaches Jack Rinard and Chubby Moser are helping manager Larry Clements make the local Legion club an outstanding success. . . The local American Legion post still includes a new Teen-Age baseball park in its long-range planning, which its teams, of course, would share with the Teen-Agers. . . District 3-AAA will seem much bigger next football season, now that Brownfield is in it. . . Other members are Snyder, Colorado City, Lamesa, San Angelo Lake View and Sweetwater. . . Playing with the 1961 freshman team, Namath liked to exhort his teammates in the huddle with his crisp Yankee accent: "Come on, you rebels, let's show 'em."

He moved into the varsity with spring drills and set a spectacular pace, leading his three competitors for the quarterback job—junior Jack Huribut, senior Mal Moore and sophomore Buddy French.

In the Red-White game near the end of spring practice, Namath led his Whites to a 15-14 triumph by completing 12 of 17 passes, directing two touchdown drives in masterful fashion, and kicking the two-point conversion that won the game.

"He's a terrific athlete," says Coach Paul Bryant, who's not giving to overuse of superlatives in describing his players.

"But he's still got a lot of work to do," Bryant adds. "He has things to learn which come only with experience—game experience."

As a passer, Namath (pronounced: Nay-muth) is being compared favorably with some of the great Alabama throwers—Harry Gilmer and Bart Starr. He can leave the ball accurately for great distance. He can toss it softly, or he can bullet it.

Where did Alabama, located in the state that calls itself "The heart of Dixie," get onto the trail of Namath, from Pennsylvania?

"Through Howard Schnellenberger," Bryant says.

Schnellenberger, an assistant coach on Bryant's staff, once coached at a school where Joe's brother played.

Rule Changes Said Needed

CHICAGO — Major safety rules changes—clear down to on-the-spot replacement of a careless referee—are needed if boxing is to survive, a sports-minded doctor said today.

Dr. Joseph C. Elia of Reno, Nev., former chairman of the Nevada Athletic Commission, said the sport is in a "critical position" and needs changes in the rules to prevent the kind of injuries he has seen in the past.

He said the sport is in a "critical position" and needs changes in the rules to prevent the kind of injuries he has seen in the past.

Addressing members of the American Association for the Study of Headache, Dr. Elia said boxing is no more dangerous than other sports if safety rules are enforced and persons with physical defects are prevented from participating.

He suggested these new safety rules:

A complete physical examination, including an electroencephalogram (EEG) determination of the condition of the brain before a boxer enters the ring.

Physical examinations at frequent intervals, regardless of whether a fighter has been knocked out.

Elimination of the seven-by-the-bell ruling, on the ground a contestant in that condition should not return to battle in 60 seconds.

Announcement of the winner of each round at the end of each round so opponents will know where they stand.

Strict enforcement of a referee's duties to the degree he could be replaced by allowing a rabbit punch or other foul.

Authority for a ringside physician to end a fight whenever he feels it necessary.

Matlock Gains Two Victories Friday

Matlock Furniture of Midland achieved two victories in the Big Spring Invitational Softball tournament here Friday night to move into a commanding position in the three-night meet.

Matlock first disposed of Charley's Package Store, 3-0, behind the two-hit bombing of J. Davenport, then came back to upset E. C. Smith's, 3-1, in the final game of the evening.

That contest, incidentally, was not finished until after midnight. The tournament has been playing to tremendous crowds.

Charley's staged off elimination by decking Anderson Music Company in the middle game of the evening, 3-1. Cotton Mize hurled the win for Charley's in that one, scattering four Anderson hits.

He lost his shutout in the first inning when Ed Kenny crossed the plate with an unearned run. All the runs were scored in the first two innings of the Matlock-Smith's game. Kirby and Ed Springer counted what proved to be the winning tallies in the second inning. Springer received credit for the mound victory in a battle with Billy Paul Thomas. Each side counted four hits.

Marion Tredaway scored Smith's lone run in the 'hello' round after singling.

Smith had numerous other chances to score later in the game but couldn't hit when hits meant runs.

Spec Franklin pitched for Charley's against Matlock and was tagged for only five hits. Charley's, however, couldn't solve the slants of Davenport.

Miller was called out for interference. Later first base arbiter Al Foran said Stu had run outside the three-foot restraining lane near the base.

Said Miller: "Foran admitted I was on the line but according to him you can't be on the line. He's making up his own rules."

Section 7.09 i says the runner is out if " . . . He runs outside the three-foot line or inside the four-foot line, in the umpire's judgment, interferes with the fielder taking the throw at first base. . . . But it doesn't specifically mention running on the line."

After trailing 3-0 in the second, the Giants moved ahead 6-5, were tied at 6-6, rallied for an 8-6 lead and were tied again, went ahead 9-8 with a run in the seventh and finally lost 11-9 when Milwaukee scored three times in the ninth.

Braves, Giants In Record Run

SAN FRANCISCO — Milwaukee and San Francisco played the longest nine-inning game in major league history Friday night and early Saturday but the Braves' 11-9 victory still isn't a certainty.

The 4-hour, 2-minute parade of pitchers and cheap hits could pick up in the fifth inning at some future date if National League President Warren Giles upholds an official Giants' protest of an interference play near first base.

Stu Miller, the center of the protest drama, and the four umpires offered different versions of the play in post-game comments. This much was certain:

With Giants on first and third, Miller pushed a squeeze bunt between the mound and first base. Braves' pitcher Ron Piche fielded the ball and threw toward first but hit Miller in the left shoulder.

Mick's Return Cheers Yanks

DETROIT — Mickey Mantle's first test of baseball's most celebrated burn knee didn't halt the New York Yankees' tailspin—but it did cause rejoicing.

"I was very much satisfied," said the slugging switcher. "There was no pain. I was afraid I couldn't run, but I did okay."

"It felt much better than I thought it would."

Mantle was in the Yankees' starting lineup Friday night for the first time since May 18 when he hurt his right thigh and fell on his left knee. The thigh injury was healed but the knee ailment has been a source of trouble since.

The Yankees started a slide with the loss of Mantle and it didn't stop with his return. He reached base his first two times at bat and scored the Yankees' first two runs in their 7-5 loss to the Detroit Tigers. It was the Yankees' ninth defeat in 11 games and they fell four games behind first-place Cleveland.

But a loss this time didn't matter too much. Manager Ralph Houk was excited about having his star back.

"That's a relief of my mind," said Houk. "Mickey passed his first test with flying colors. He makes a big difference in our club when he's playing. Everything is better when he's in there."

Pain In Back Worries Ace

LOS ANGELES — Bob Purkey, the biggest mystery of the year to National League hitters, was mystified himself today and a little concerned about a stabbing pain in his back.

The Cincinnati right-hander scored his 13th victory Friday night as the Reds muddled through a three-run Los Angeles rally in the ninth inning and beat the first-place Dodgers 4-3 before 48,260.

But the back pain became so severe it began to take Purkey's breath away and he had to leave the game after shutting out the Dodgers for seven innings and hitting a rally-starting double in the eighth.

"I felt this little catch in my back before the game," Purkey said, "but the trainer relieved it. Then, about the second or third inning, it started again. My back seemed to tighten up a little more every inning."

"When I got to second base in the eighth, I couldn't breathe. It felt like someone was sticking a knife in my back—between the spine and the base of the right shoulder blade."

In the dressing room after the game, Purkey said the back was still sore. "I can't take a deep breath," he said, "or move my shoulders either way without it grabbing hold of me."

"I'll see how it feels tomorrow, and if it's still sore I'll see a doctor. The trainer says it doesn't look like a muscle tear and I'm happy to hear that."

Harrison Moved To TT Backfield

LUBBOCK — Charlie Harrison, who played center for Texas Tech last year, will return to his former fullback position this fall, Coach J. T. King said today.

"Charlie did a very fine job for us even though he had never even snapped a ball before the season started," King commented. "This fall it looks like he can see more action at fullback, where he lettered as a sophomore."

Harrison's shift to the backfield leaves the Raiders' leading center candidates a pair of senior lettermen, Jerry Elbert of Wellington and Dennis Grimes of Seagraves, and one of Tech's top sophomores, C. C. Willis of Bay City.

Other top fullbacks are senior Coolidge Hunt of Lubbock, junior H. L. Daniels of Marshall, and sophomore Gary McMillan of Levelland. McMillan had a knee operation this spring.

Harrison is also a stand-out basebatter, having made the all-NCAA District 6 second team as a third baseman.

Prospector Spotted Near Sharon Ridge

Another Wichita-Albany test has been staked in the area as British American filed the No. 1-B Berry for 5,000 feet about the fourth mile southwest of the Sharon Ridge field in Mitchell County.

The project is C SW SW, section 30-37, H&C survey, about nine miles north of Westbrook. Another Wichita-Albany wildcat in the county, Humble's No. 1 Victoria Enderly about three miles northeast of Westbrook, is making hole below 1,100 feet.

Coston Petroleum Corp. will drill a 12,000-foot wildcat in Andrews County. It is the No. 1 Farmer County Land Fee, about 16 miles northeast of Andrews.

The venture is 4 1/2 miles west of the Glasco (Devonian) field and spots C SW SW, section 24-316, Farmer CSL survey.

Stanton Ready For Action On Urban Renewal Program

STANTON — Mayor Stanley Wheeler of Stanton said that the city expects quick action in its three-quarter million dollar urban renewal program, now that the U. S. Urban Renewal Administration has made its $478,543 grant for the job.

"I look for the Urban Renewal officials to be here this week," said the mayor. "They can't get here too quickly to suit us. We have all our engineering completed; our plans made. We are already half way through with our own $250,000 program."

He said that the approval of the grant climaxed a campaign started three years ago. The program calls for the renovation of 140 acres in the Stanton townsite. The land is on the north side of town. He estimated that from 35 to 40 residences will be either purchased and replaced or will be subjected to complete renovation. Twenty per cent at least of all residences in an area set up for such a program as this have to be substandard for the area to qualify. Most of the houses in the Stanton area are in the older part of town. Several new additions, however, have been set up and developed in the same general district.

The city has spent its quarter million on paving 125 blocks in the area, building sidewalks and installing sewer, water and drainage improvements.

The Texas & Pacific Railway Co. has cooperated with the program by installing three trestles to open drainage to the south. In August, the Texas Highway Department will accept bids for a project to build three culverts on US 80 to match the trestles on the railroad.

Shot To Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Simon Salinas, 51, manager of a parking lot, was found shot to death Friday. Patrolman Arthur Vadnais said a 56-year-old man who operates a rival parking lot nearby admitted the shooting and surrendered a .25 caliber pistol.

Engineering firm in charge of the Stanton project is Pierce, Pace and Norris of Midland. Local engineer for the company is Roy Crim.

The mayor said that he estimated 99 per cent of all of the people in the area involved are Caucasian.

He said that the majority of the residents have cooperated wholeheartedly. "It's a project where the property owner cooperates on his own volition," he said. "No one is forced to take a part. We're not pushing anyone into this — and I am happy that most of the residents in the district have been most cooperative."

Former Webb Commander Takes Deputy Post At Waco

Major General Fred M. Dean will assume duty as deputy commander at Waco of the twelfth Air Force on Aug. 20 according to an official announcement from Hq. USAF and Tactical Air Command Hq.

Gen. Dean is presently serving as operations officer for the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) at Pentagon. Gen. Dean is a former Webb AFB commander.

No stranger to Wacoans, he served from 1954 until 1957 as vice commander of Flying Training Air Force (FlyTAF) in the headquarters building presently occupied by Hq. Twelfth Air Force.

The general was born in East St. Louis, Ill., and was graduated from Western Military Academy, Alton, Ill., in June, 1934. The following September he entered the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., and upon graduation (1938) was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the United States Army.

Transferring to the Air Corps in August of 1939, he completed flying training at Kelly and Randolph fields and was assigned to Selfridge Field, Mich., where he served as officer pilot, supply officer, adjutant and squadron commander.

During World War II he saw active combat duty in the European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign flying 104 combat missions in British Spitfire fighters.

Reassigned to Hq. AAF in Washington in July 1943, he became a member of the advisory council for Gen. H. H. Arnold, the commanding general of the AAF. On Jan. 1st of the following year he assumed the position of chief of the council and also executive assistant to Gen. Arnold. He remained in these positions until March, 1946. During his Washington assignments, Gen. Dean served on the official military parties accompanying President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the meetings at Cairo, Malta and Yalta. He also accompanied President Harry S. Truman to the Potsdam Conference.

Lamesa Plans Special Bus For CRMWA Ceremonies

LAMESA (SC) — Efforts are being made here to obtain a minimum of 29 reservations to charter a bus for the groundbreaking ceremonies at the Canadian River Dam Site west of Sanford in Hutchinson County on June 30.

The water resources committee of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development is attempting to arrange the chartered bus and announce that 10 reservations have been received.

Stewart L. Udall, U. S. Secretary of the Interior, will be the principal speaker at the ceremonies, sponsored by the board of directors of the 11 cities comprising the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

In addition, local, state and federal personalities will be on hand for the program at the dam site at 10 a.m.

A contract for $17,968,160 was awarded to H. B. Zachry of San Antonio several months ago for construction of the giant earth dam. Work was originally slated to begin in March, but various delays postponed the groundbreaking.

The federally-financed project was first discussed seriously 13 years ago. It will be at least 1963 before member cities in the Panhandle-South Plains area can expect the first water to be delivered through the pipeline.

942 Road Deaths

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Department of Public Safety said Saturday 942 persons have died this year in 778 fatal accidents on Texas highways.

YOUR DOLLARS BURN!

That's right, your dollars burn when forests burn! Last year people started more than 83,000 forest fires—one every 6 minutes, night and day, every day, in this country!

It cost more than $100,000,000 to control these fires, and you have to pay. Add to this the resource loss and the cost of rehabilitation, reseeding, and erosion control and the bill is closer to half a billion dollars.

"What can you do for your country?" SMOKEY SAYS:

Remember—Only you can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

WEBB WINDSOCK

By MOLLI HARTZOG
Visitors, trips, and transfers concern most of the Webb wives these days. Since OWC business meetings have been suspended until cooler weather, those of us remaining here cool off at the Officer's pool which is opened again after repairs. Some of us have our parents visiting, while others are doing a little visiting of their own. One of the nicer trips was taken by Col. and Mrs. Charles Head who went to Grand Canyon, saw the sights at Las Vegas, and managed to take in the delights of Disneyland too. One not so delightful sight in the Los Angeles area was the burned ruins of many once-lush residences "rows of houses, and only the chimneys left," according to Mrs. Head. Marineland restored their spirits however, and now the Heads are back home in Big Spring.

end. The Willands returned to Big Spring and will visit here for several weeks.
Beginning their packing are Capt. David Aiken and Rocky who will leave shortly for a leisurely trip to New York, and on to the Air Force Institute which will be their home for the next two years. During their four and a half years at Webb, Mrs. Aiken has served as an OWC board member, Family Services coordinator, head of numerous committees for her group, and has also been in the Big Spring Easter Pageant. Capt. Aiken's mother is here visiting having flown from Lafayette, La. Lt. and Mrs. R. McManigell also have houseguests for a few weeks. Jerry Lover and his family, Mr. and Mrs. George Lover, are here. They are the brother and parents of Mrs. McManigell. Jerry Lover is with the Marine Corps stationed in North Carolina, while the parents' home is in Denison.

Wing Wives Are Honored

A farewell luncheon honored Mrs. Donald Pendergrast, Mrs. F. W. Huffman, Mrs. R. R. Austin and Mrs. R. M. Rouleau, wives of members of wing headquarters, who will be leaving Webb Air Force Base soon, on Friday at the Cosden Country Club Blue Room. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. E. W. Brokaw and Mrs. Harry Hon.

Nurse Education Fund Established In Area

Midland Memorial Hospital has planned an assault on present and future shortages of professional nurses at the West Texas Institution with the timely assist of an anonymous citizen. The plan arises from the creation of a $50,000 scholarship fund. The donor of the $50,000 declines to be identified. Midland Memorial Hospital administrator, John Hess, referred to the benefactor as "a good friend of this hospital in general, but a friend of the nursing profession in particular."

loans will be repaid, not with money, but with service to the institution. This service repayment will be made as the recipients work as full paid employees of the Midland Hospital, following their schooling.
Registered nurses who benefit from the Scholarship Fund, upon graduation will be employed as staff members at the Midland Hospital and will receive full pay and allowances as employees. At the same time the amount owed the Education Fund will be reduced at a monthly rate determined by the amount of the loan. In the event the student beneficiary does not complete the training or doesn't become a member of Midland Memorial's staff, the debt becomes due and must be repaid to the fund.

requirements of the Professional Nursing School chosen by the applicant. Service repayment by the beneficiary will be made at the rate of six months service for each year of schooling financed by the fund.

Bride No Longer Needs Hope Chest

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Hope chests have lost their usefulness, in the opinion of Carole Stupell, well-known New York table coordinator, "unless you stock them with Treasury bonds."
Time was when a girl married and stayed in her own circle for the rest of her life.
"But our lives move faster now, and we don't know where we will be tomorrow, and what our standard of living will be. The items put in a hope chest may not fulfill our requirements," Miss Stupell says.
And it often is Mom and Grandma who stock the chest, not only with gifts that run to money, but with their own taste, she points out.

Time Out For Coffee

When grading a stack of college exam papers, James Dickson welcomes a cup of hot coffee. Mrs. Dickson is shown above telling him that it's time to relax. Dickson is teaching government and American History at Howard County Junior College during summer sessions.

James Dicksons Assets To Big Spring, HCJC

New assets to Big Spring and Howard County Junior College are Mr. and Mrs. James Dickson, who reside at 1200 Mulberry. Dickson is a new member of the HCJC faculty.

The Dicksons moved here three weeks ago from Odessa where he taught in the Junior College. Mrs. Dickson was a Spanish teacher in the Permian High School. At present, she is employed by Big Spring school superintendent, S. M. Anderson, doing clerical work.

Their Early American-furnished home has been lived in by three college families, so the Dicksons feel "right at home."

Although Dickson was born in Oklahoma, he claims Texas as his state. They both enjoy visiting his parents in Honey Grove in Fannin County and her parents in Arlington on school holidays. These visits are about the only vacations they have taken in their six years of married life, but they plan to visit Carlsbad Caverns during the latter part of the summer. Dickson related that at one time he and his wife decided to go on a camping trip near Broken Bow, Okla. The modern, air-conditioned cabins looked so inviting that they forgot about roughing it. Mrs. Dickson told that the one time on that trip that she tried cooking outside, she dropped the meat through the outdoor grill, so she decided that she was not "cut out to be a camper."

Mr. and Mrs. Dickson are both graduates of North Texas State University in Denton. She graduated in 1956, but a jaunt in the Navy delayed his receiving a degree. After two years of studying in regular school sessions and summer sessions, he received his master's degree in 1960.

While in the Navy, Dickson says he was a "land-locked sailor." He spent three years at the Naval Air Station in Dallas. During that time he and Mrs. Dickson were married. She held a secretarial position while he was stationed there.

Both the Dicksons enjoy reading and listening to favorite records in their collection. Mrs. Dickson makes some of her clothing. She says that her cooking is not what she would like it to be, but her husband boasts that she is an excellent cook. A sports enthusiast, he is looking forward to backing the HCJC Jayhawks this coming season. He claims football as his primary sports interest.

Today's newcomers have joined the First Methodist Church and hope to meet some compatible couples in their Sunday school class. Both say that they have been received exceptionally well by the townspeople of Big Spring.

4-H Report Is Made To City Club

A program given by 4-H Club girls was featured Friday when it was presented to members of the City Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. Alton Underwood.

Speaking to the nine HD members, Mary Thornton told of a district workshop held at Levelland. She pointed out the functions of junior leaders and explained the workshop on junior leader records and recreation. Sherye Kirkpatrick gave an original address on "Education for the Aero Space Age." The talk was prepared and given to carry out her 4-H public speaking project.

A devotion, given by Mrs. M. E. Anderson, was followed by roll call answered with traffic hazards found in the area. The club decided to have mosaic tile work and furniture refinishing for its October craft program.

Games were played and the special prize was won by Mrs. Ross Callahan. Guests attending were Mrs. Tom Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Delanie Crawford and Linda Hodnett.

The next meeting will be a breakfast on July 13 at the home of Mrs. Armour Long.

American Pilot Is Living In Windmill

CADZAND, The Netherlands (AP) — An American pilot and his air hostess wife like the restful sweep of a Dutch windmill for off-duty hours. It's the thing among artistic folks these days to get a real Dutch windmill for a home.

Capt. Edward Shaffer, 43, of Waterboro, S. C., was one of the lucky ones.

Shaffer, an airlines flight captain who regularly flies the Berlin corridor, and his 20-year-old German wife Vera have rented a mill just outside this Dutch border town on the North Sea coast, for an indefinite period.

After much rebuilding a n d painting they have turned it into a real home. And whenever they have leave they come here.

Singer Tells Of Beatniks' Faults

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Beatniks are missing a big opportunity to become real singers, says blond William Clauson, world-traveling balladeer, who recently performed at Carnegie Hall.

Any young person could have more fun with folk music if he'd learn how to sing it, he says. And it can be a lucrative career. Clauson is booked through 1964.

"American youths give a distorted opinion of a true folk song," says Ohioan Clauson. "Instead of sticking closely to the way the music is developed, they sing an Irish song or an old English song like an American."

Miss McDonald Bride Of Lt. W. L. Perry

LAMESA (SC)—The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle read the double ring nuptial ceremony for Marian McDonald and Lt. William Leroy Perry Jr. on Saturday in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McDonald of Lamesa and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Perry Sr. of Houston.

A prayer bench was placed at the altar before a single sunburst arrangement of white stock flanked by huckleberry and English ivy. Two wrought iron candle trees and eight candelabra illuminated the altar setting. Pew tapers twined with satin bows marked the aisles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white silk organza over taffeta fashioned with a sheer yoke, a rounded neckline and a bouffant skirt ending in a chapel train. Swiss lace sprinkled with crystals was applied to the gown beginning high on the right shoulder and cascading down the skirt. The sheer three-quarter length sleeves were appliqued with single lace flowers.

Her veil of imported Swiss illusion was attached to a headpiece of pearlized orange blossoms designed by her mother. She carried a single white orchid atop a pearlized heirloom Bible.

Mrs. John Robertson of Houston was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. James Craig of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Ruth Carter of Tallahassee, Fla., Mrs. Rhoten Sellers of Austin, Mrs. Bill Roam of Abilene and Mrs. W. L. Cook of Fort Worth.

Larry M. Perry of Arkadelphia, Ark., the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Jimmy Taylor of Lubbock and Carl Cox, Lamesa, were ushers. Groomsmen included Lt. Charles Brame of Laughlin AFB, Tex., James McKay II of Bryan, Lt. Don Mayhue of Calif., Lt. F. A. Reimers of Reese AFB in Lubbock and Monte Hasie of Lubbock.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church following the ceremony. Guests attended from Lamesa, Midland, Andrews, Fort Worth, Abilene, Colorado City, Houston, College Station, Waco, Snyder, Lubbock and Hobbs, N. M.

For a wedding trip to Mexico City, the bride chose a toast tinted by a pure silk blouse of black polka-dot on white and a black silk cummerbund. Eight button black kid gloves, matching patent leather bag and shoes and a black Panama straw hat completed the ensemble. The couple will be at home in Phoenix, Ariz., after July 16.

The bride received her BA degree from North Texas State University and is doing graduate work at Florida State University. The bridegroom received a degree in English from Texas A&M and is now assigned to Reese AFB where he recently completed pilot training. He is being transferred July 16 to Luke AFB in Arizona.

Green Reported Top Color In Home

The best-selling color in home furnishings fabrics today is green, according to a recent report by Rene Carillo of F. Schumacher & Co. The color represents 75 per cent of sales. Mr. Carillo told members of the National Home Fashions League. The next color in popularity is beige, which is followed by blue, he said.

In another report, Walter Guinan of Karastan Rug Mills said that beige was the top color in carpeting. Mossy green and gold hold second and third place, respectively, he said.

Mr. Carillo envisions true red as a possible new fabric color. In carpets, darker hues were reported on the upswing.

Interest Rises In Men's Footwear

As straw hats appear in the store windows of the country, as leisure shirts flare forth like a rainbow at patio barbecues and beach picnics and other risings of spring, as flannel slacks and Madras blazers gain become the hot times of well-dressed men, a scintillating interest in footwear wears a new turn.

Meet Madame President

She was employed in a New York advertising firm as a private secretary for three years.

Save Enough For Education

Most women agree that saving isn't easy, but those who can put aside something regularly are doing it chiefly for retirement, or for education for children or grandchildren.

Education is a constant concern. What do they want from schools?

"I would like to see children administer those sciences crammed into them, to help them learn to live in this world we have created for them," says Mrs. Anita Wallerstein, mother of three, of New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Louis I. Holmes, 43, of Redondo Beach, Calif., whose husband is a program planner at an aircraft factory, says:

"I wish my boys (ages 18 and 15) could spell and write. I wish they'd been trained to study. They have no idea how to do homework or how to budget their study time. They can't do anything we considered basic when I went to school. I say nuts to sandboxes in the first grade. Teach the kids to learn."

Sunday Brunch

Great for Sunday brunch: Pare and slice ripe but firm pears. Fry lightly, just as you would apples, in hot butter in a skillet. Sprinkle with sugar and serve with ham and eggs plus hot biscuits.

Ladies Fight Town Fires

KANARRAVILLE, Utah (AP)—When the whistle blows in this country town of 245 people, it's the women who answer the call.

The full complement of the volunteer fire department is ordinarily 20 women.

"However, four of our volunteers are taking time out to have babies," says Mrs. Chester Williams, the energetic leader.

The all-women fire brigade was organized a year ago, she explains, because too many men were occupied with chores on farms and ranches, and were out of town when the fires occurred.

The town already had a fire engine at its disposal, but it had sat idle through too many fires for lack of an organized department.

When a weed fire threatened two homes the ladies banded together and asked a mechanic to train them in the use of fire-fighting equipment.

"Before then we fought fires with buckets, using water from irrigation ditches," says Mrs. Williams.

Now they swarm over the engine like so many bees, unraveling hoses and turning valves with almost military precision.

All are mothers and eight are grandmothers. One heroic mother who weighs only 85 pounds, is probably the smallest fire fighter, pound for pound, to be found anywhere.

"It's not so much that I like chasing fires, she explains. 'It's the feeling of being useful and not just having to stand and watch something burn.'"

Bostonian Police Learning Spanish

BOSTON (AP)—A young woman is teaching Boston police how to speak Spanish.

The influx of some 3,500 Puerto Ricans to Boston's south end has made it essential police understand their language.

Miss Margaret Kittredge, a soft spoken woman in her 20s, is the instructor. She is with Language Research Inc. at Harvard Graduate School.

Her emphasis is on the spoken word and she confines her instructions to words and phrases police may have to use, such as: pare (stop), pistola (gun), que hace usted? (what are you doing?) and manos arriba (stick 'em up!)

Miss Osborn Is Bride Of Jerry M. Wilson

Miss Judy Osborn and Jerry Michael Wilson exchanged marriage vows on Friday evening in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Osborn, 204 Mesquite.

The Rev. Woodrow McHugh, pastor of the Vincent Baptist Church, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. (Hap) Wilson, Vincent.

Vows were repeated beneath an arched doorway decorated with emerald fern and white chrysanthemums. White wedding bells tied with white satin bows were suspended from the center of the arch, which was flanked with cathedral candelabra.

Providing nuptial organ music, Mrs. Larry Osborn, sister-in-law of the bride, played "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over bridal satin. The molded bodice featured a princess waistline and Cinderella collar.

The fitted sleeves came to petal points over the wrists and the full skirt extended into a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion was secured by a tiara of pearls and sequins. With a white Bible she carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a blue-tinted carnation corsage.

ATTENDANTS Miss Malinda Marie Ray attended the bride as maid of honor.

She wore a blue polished cotton sheath with an overskirt of net. Best man was Glen Wallace and David Yater served as usher.

Ring bearer was the bride's nephew, Mike Osborn, and train bearer was Lindy Kay Osborn, niece of the bride. Kay Yater lighted the tapers.

RECEPTION A reception after the wedding was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Osborn. The honored couple, their parents and the attendants formed the receiving line.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with white lace over blue linen. The centerpiece consisted of garden flowers accented with candelabra. The three-tiered wedding cake was embossed with blue and white frosting and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Milk glass appointments were used in the service.

Mary Runyan presided at the guest register. Other members of the house party were Linda Wallace and Bonnie Osborn, sister-in-law of the bride.

WEDDING TRIP For a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., the bride wore a beige sheath and white accessories.

The bride is attending Big Spring High School where she is a member of the Future Homemakers of America.

A graduate of Borden County High School, the bridegroom attended Howard County Junior College and is planning to attend Fort Worth College where he will study IBM.

The couple plan to live in Fort Worth.

Shoe Revolution

There's been a revolution in the sporting world. No, the Dodgers aren't moving back to Brooklyn, a woman hasn't been named to play left end for Yale. But fashion has come to the sport shoe.

Women have become increasingly active on the golf links, in boating and bowling, the National Shoe Institute reports. And once women get their foot in the door, a more fashionable sport shoe is sure to follow.

Furry Reasons Shown For Lucre Circulation

NEW YORK (AP) — Because people are making more money and enjoying it less, couturiere Schiaparelli presented a fashion show introducing some furry reasons for circulating lucre.

A guitar player strummed background music as sultry singer Kit model, and former Miss America Bess Myerson, just back from her honeymoon, commented for the crush of sweltering reporters and store buyers.

For the man who's bored with mere wool, there was a sports coat, with side vents, big patch pockets and a belt, for about $900.

For Caroline Kennedy, or any mite-sized lass, there was a leopard cat coat just like one for mama.

For the thrifty girl who wants two coats for the price of one, there was a sleek black broadtail which, when turned inside out becomes a luxurious blue-gray chin-chilla, broadtail-lined.

Another versatile reversible was a white mink stole, lined with Russian broadtail.

For the poor little rich girl who hasn't a thing to wear that is different, there was a little nothing costume consisting of a neat, sleeveless broadtail fur blouse, a flowing circular skirt of black mink and a little Russian broadtail jacket also banded with black mink.

Nothing in the nature of fur was done as nature does it. Persian lamb was dyed iridescent colors, or motley browns or golds.

Leopard coats were shown with king-sized pockets and huge collars. Minks dyed black, looking like the thickest velvet imaginable, were decorated with huge gold buttons. Still other kinds of mink, more often seen as elegant wraps, were styled into casual sports coats.

The guitar player gave way to a piano tinkler and the scene changed to the Midwest as designer Luis Esteves introduced his collection for fall and winter called "State Visit," inspired by the First Lady's globe trotting.

Balancing frothy turbans of tulle or little Nehru caps, or one-jewel crowns, models one by one emerged from ogee-shaped doorways in Near Eastern rajah suits, decorated with huge teardrop jewels. The rajahs, spare beltless jackets that slightly flare at the

Uses Oatmeal Facial

Irish actress, Fintan Meyler tells that she uses an old country oatmeal facial mask for her skin. Dry oatmeal, honey and egg whites are used in the treatment. She says the result of using it is finer pores and a clearer complexion. She also gives tips on dieting in today's Hollywood Beauty.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Irish Fintan Meyler Sounds Like American

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — "American women know how to make themselves beautiful. I do admire them," Fintan Meyler remarked with not a trace of her Irish accent left. "I was told I could have this part in 'Have Gun—Will Travel,' if I could sound like an American."
"Hollywood is a challenge. The standards of glamour are so high," she continued. She offered me a cigarette but didn't take one herself. "I never had a weight problem until I gave up smoking. Dieting was new to me, but I put myself on 1000 calories, but I had balanced meals."
"For breakfast I had one egg, dry toast, half a grapefruit and coffee. For lunch I limited myself to lean meat, salad or cottage cheese and tea. At dinner I had chicken, meat or fish, two steamed vegetables, and soon I was back to normal."

"Do you have any Irish beauty secrets?" I asked.
"Everyone in my family is devoted to an oatmeal mask. You put dry oatmeal in a bowl, melt some honey until it is liquid and stir it into the oatmeal. Then blend in a well beaten white of an egg and smooth or pat this concoction on your face with your fingers. Rest while this is on and let it dry thoroughly. Then rinse your face with lukewarm water. Try not to use make-up right afterward so that your face can have

Bouffant Coiffure Going Out?

A movie and its star may be responsible for the first major hair style change since the teased, bouffant coiffure.
For the last two months, women have been asking hair stylists in New York for the "Marienbad look." The coil, worn by Delphine Seyrig in "Last Year at Marienbad," and styled by Alexandre, is smooth and has a flat, one-sided bang and looks like an updated version of a Nineteen Twenties shingle hairdo.
Enrico Caruso, Mr. Kenneth at Lilly Dache and Michel Kazan all report requests for the new style. Michel believes that the hairdo was coming into fashion anyway, even without the impetus of the film.
"Women are so bored with teasing their hair," said Kenneth. "The small, neat line was the logical next step in fashion."
Caruso is convinced that it would have happened even sooner, "but along came Mrs. Kennedy with her bouffant style."
A tip to women contemplating the style—and to manufacturers of wigs: Mile. Seyrig had to use a partial wig at first to achieve the flat, side-swept bang.

Keep Furniture—You May Need It

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer
Furnishing a vacation retreat or moving to a retirement home? Consider taking your furniture with you.
"Many people sell all their furnishings on the theory that they should start from scratch in the new climate, but that move may prove to be regrettable," says Elaine Fiske Francis, a Florida transplant from Connecticut.
"It's especially disconcerting when you find yourself trying to find the same type of furniture you've given up," she says, "once you discover that your own furniture could have been integrated handsomely in the new area. And another good thing about having your own furniture is that your new abode will feel like home sooner than you'd expect."

Use Cheese Instead

Instead of butter on bread or baked potatoes, try adding spoonfuls of a well-flavored cheddar cheese spread.
The full benefit of this mask. I feel that if you use this regularly, you can't help but refine your pores.
"It is better if you use warm water and a pad of cotton to remove it. Don't rub, but stroke upward and outward following the muscles of your face as you take the mask off," she added.

ABCs Of Cooking Aid Many Young Brides

By KATHLEEN DOZIER
That kitchen shower cook book could prove itself a dilemma to the new bride should her knowledge of cooking terms be limited to boiling and toasting. Fortified with definitions she might possibly draw praise from her new husband—an encouraging factor in beginning the married life. For the benefit of the June bride, frequently used cooking terms are defined as follows:
Baking—Cooking in an oven. For best results the temperature of the oven should be regulated just as specified in the recipes for baked food.
Barbecuing — The roasting of meats or other foods on a revolving spit before an open flame or glowing coals.
Basting—To pour fat, pan drippings, or other liquid over roasting, baking, or broiling foods either to prevent burning or to flavor.

Beating—Beating can be done manually or with any of several hand-operated or electrical devices on the market. Its purpose is to trap air within the food and the motion should be from underneath to the top. This should be done vigorously in order that the entire contents are kept constantly in motion.
Blanching—This is plunging into boiling water to either remove a skin or to whiten.
Boiling—Water or other liquid heated until it bubbles rapidly. Bubbles rise to the surface of the liquid and leave it in the form of steam. Altitudes determine the length of time for reaching a boiling temperature.
Braising—Braising is to brown meat in a hot receptacle in a small amount of fat and then cooking slowly in the meat juices or in added liquid (water, milk, cream, diluted lemon juice, juices from vegetables) in a covered utensil.
Broiling — Broiling consists of cooking food by exposure to an open fire, coals, or a glowing heat unit.
C STANDS FOR
Creaming—Creaming is the softening of fat by means of pressure and beating at room temperature. Sugar or other ingredients are often added to the fat during the process of creaming.
Cutting In—A method for combining flour and shortening. They are combined in small, crumbly particles by blending them with the finger tips, two knives, or a pastry mixer.
Deep-fat Frying—Cooking food by immersing in deep, hot fat. Food cooked by this method should always be placed on unglazed paper as soon as it is taken from the fat in order that as much fat as possible may be absorbed. If possible, the exact temperature of the fat should be determined by a thermometer. However, the temperature can be determined by dropping a small piece of bread in the fat and observing the length of time it takes to become golden brown. If brown in two minutes, the temperature is 300 degrees; 1½ minutes, 325 degrees; 1 minute 350 degrees; 50 seconds, 365 degrees; 40 seconds, 380 degrees; or 35 seconds, 390 degrees.

Dredging—The sprinkling of flour or some other dry, pulverized ingredient.
Drippings—The fat and juices which drop into the pan from roasting meats.
FRICASSEE THE CHICKEN
Fricassee is a fricasseed food is food that has been browned and then simmered in thick sauce or gravy.
Grilling—Grilled food is cooked the same as broiled food.
Kneading—This is the stretching and contraction of dough with the hands as more flour is worked into the mixture. Sometimes kneading is done only to smooth the texture of the dough.
Larding—The process of spacing small strips of fat salt pork or bacon (by means of a larding needle) throughout a less tender cut of beef to add juiciness and flavor.
Oven Poaching—Baking with the dish or pan containing the food set in another dish containing hot or boiling water. It is used chiefly for custard or fluffy egg dishes.
Parboiling—A method of cooking foods partially by boiling. If the food is completely cooked in this manner, it is boiled.
Poaching — Foods are dropped into simmering water or other liquid and cooked for a short time. Poaching is usually restricted to eggs.
Roasting — Today there is not technical distinction between baking and roasting but the latter term is usually applied to meats and some vegetable dishes.

Homemaking Said To Be A Challenge
By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer
Seasoned homemakers are going back to school to learn about homemaking.
Students in one evening class at the City College of New York are so pleased with the results that they thank their teacher, George Dalzell, after every session.
"Most women see homemaking as a challenge. It's no longer a chore as it was in grandmother's day. They consider it a hobby that puts them in a competition with other women. And their greatest satisfaction comes when they get enough confidence to do a job, such as decorating, with finesse, so they can say 'I did it,'" says Dalzell, home decorating instructor.

HOLLYHOCK DOLLS

Doll Making Pleasant Pasttime With Flowers

If there is even one hollyhock plant in your garden, you can make a lot of hollyhock dolls. But it's much more fun to be able to pick and choose any color dress you wish for your doll and you can do this only when pink, red and rose, yellow and white-flowered hollyhocks are all blooming away in your yard.

Moss kinds of hollyhocks do not have flowers the first summer after you sow seeds of them, but there's a kind named Indian Summer that will bloom this summer if you sow the seeds as soon as you can dig up the ground.

After the hollyhocks bloom, making the dolls is easy. Pick off a flower from the long spike filled with them as the hand is doing in the picture on the left. Turn it upside down on a table. It looks like a little bell now, doesn't it, just as in picture two?

Pick a long, slender piece of grass and tie it around the flower, just above the middle as in picture three. This will begin to make the flower look like a doll. The grass is the doll's bright green sash. Let its ends stick out stiffly as if they were made of stiff ribbon.

Now take a pen, dip it in ink if it's that kind of pen, and mark a face on the doll, as in picture four. She will look sad if you curve the ends of her mouth downward. You can make her smile by turning up her mouth at the ends. And, of course, you can make her eyes blue or brown or black; her nose big or little, just as it pleases you.

Floral Designs

Dainty floral designs are colorful embroidery on pillow cases, towels or scarf ends. Hot-iron transfer pattern contains six motifs from 3 by 6 to 4 by 12 inches, each with complete instructions. Send for No. 749.

Machine Determines Sex Before Birth

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Pregnant women may soon be able to tell within weeks after conception whether their baby is to be a girl or a boy.

At least that's what British scientists hope may come from electronic machine on which research is being carried out at the Cambridge headquarters of an electrical company (the Pye Electrical Group.)

A company spokesman was cautious in his reference to the machine. He said: "experiments in the field of sex determination are at the moment very tentative and have yielded no positive results."

He added: "We are exploring lines of research which have already had some success in detecting pregnancy."

The lines of research are believed to be the company's so far secret argon chromatograph, an electronic device. The aim is to construct a machine which can determine — within 20 minutes of computing — the sex of an unborn child.

City To Have More Water Storage Soon

A supply of stored, filtered water—enough to last for a full 24 hours or around nine million gallons—will soon be available for Big Spring.

The new clear well storage at the filter plant has added two and a half million gallons, and the new elevated storage tank on the North Side will add another one and a half million—a total of four million gallons above last year's storage capacity.

The new clear well has been in use for several weeks and Roy Hester, plant superintendent, said the present system is working well. The old clear well had a capacity of only a half-million gallons. Other storage facilities in the city account for five million gallons.

NEW FILTERS

New filter units added to the plant give city residents an additional four million gallons of filtering capacity per day. Formerly, the plant would filter only 9½ million gallons per day and there was little time when the filters could be cleaned and no allowance for breakdowns. With the new capacity, filters can be cleaned through back-washing, at any time and the plant can continue operating even though a breakdown occurs.

The normal daily load now is 13½ million gallons.

Present storage facilities, in addition to the clear wells and the new elevated storage tank, include Scenic Mountain ground storage for Webb AFB, one million gallons; City Park ground storage, one million; Lancaster Street ground storage, one million; Edwards Heights ground storage, one million; Old Edwards Heights ground tank, 200,000 gallons; old elevated tank on North Runnels, 200,000.

The new storage gives more adequate fire protection in addition to more water for customers. It has been pointed out by state fire inspectors that the storage facilities in Big Spring, and lack of adequate mains in the business area, presented a bad situation in case of a major fire. New mains have been installed to provide a better flow downtown and will soon be connected to the elevated tank.

NOT SEEN

The new storage well was built on the block northeast of the filter plant and is now completely covered with soil and will be soiled. Four ventilation pipes are the only visible signs of a storage well under the earth.

Eight Deaths Are Forecast For 4th

AUSTIN — The Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety reported today that past experience indicates eight persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the coming Fourth of July holiday in Texas.

Colonel Homer Garrison Jr., announced that "Operation Motorcade" will be in effect from 12:01 a.m. through 11:59 p.m. July 4, and that during this period the regular Highway Patrol force will be joined by units of the License and Weight and Motor Vehicle Inspection services in the general traffic supervision effort.

Garrison called for the "cooperation of all Texas drivers to help prove that the estimate of eight traffic deaths compiled by our Statistical Services Section is too high."

low use of water from either one of the clear wells or both at the same time.

A new carbon mixing fixture has been added on the main water line into the filter plant. It is so arranged that carbon may be placed in the line near the plant from a tank truck on the surface or may be added from sacks in a basement.

Hester played a big part in designing this mixer to save many man-hours of work. Carbon was formerly placed in the line by hand.

Two blocks of Sixteenth Street, running through the grounds occupied by the filter plant and clear wells, and which will be in the midst of the future plant and an additional clear well, has been closed to traffic because of the water lines and foot traffic over the former street. The city now owns two full blocks between Fifteenth and Sixteenth and two-half blocks south of Sixteenth.

MORE PLANNED

A new four million-gallon clear well and a new storage tank are in the bond program for 1964 and 1965, which will eventually give the city storage running to 14 million gallons. New filters added to the plant with a 12 million gallon per day capacity is also planned in the bond program. A city park booster pump station will be installed in 1964 to give greater pressure and a better supply to the State Park reservoir.

With the new filters added to the present plant, a filtering capacity of nearly 22 million gallons per day, and storage of approximately 14,000,000 gallons will be available. This will provide adequate water for a population of around 50,000 and give plenty of water for fire protection.

CAPT. MARGARET WYATT

Capt. Wyatt Assigned To Webb Post

WAF Capt. Margaret J. Wyatt has assumed duties as Personal Affairs Officer and Family Services Officer at Webb AFB replacing 1st Lt. Michael E. Ryder, recently assigned to Japan.

Capt. Wyatt signed in at Webb earlier this month following her return from Ramstein, Germany, where she commanded a WAF squadron. She spent over four years in USAF installations in Europe, and some time in England where she served as Liaison Officer at Third Air Force Headquarters.

Capt. Wyatt was born in Springfield, Ill., but moved to California with her parents when she was five. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of California.

The captain in serving, in addition to other duties, as interim Personnel Officer. She replaces Lt. Col. John Holt who departed this base last week for his new station. Capt. Wyatt entered the service as a Reserve Air Force captain in 1959.

Few Veterans Left For GI Benefits

Recipients of GI Bill benefits for education become fewer each year. Soon the student attending school with the aid of the bill will be a rarity.

Howard County Junior College was rushed to completion in 1946 to handle the needs of men returning from service. Now it gets only a handful of students who use the bill.

"We had a dozen during the fall semester last year and even less in the spring," Bernard M. Keese, registrar and veterans affairs officer at the college, said. He added that only two persons attending summer school are drawing the assistance.

The first enrollment was almost entirely of persons returning from the service. Immediately after both World War II and the Korean Conflict the number rose, going as high as 175 pupils at one time, Keese said.

The first GI Bill was signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt June 22, 1944. It went out with the last persons eligible to use it some four years ago.

Persons currently receiving aid do so under PL 550, otherwise known as the Korean GI Bill. To be eligible a person must have been on active duty with the Armed Forces for at least 90 days between June 27, 1950 and Jan. 31, 1953. Entitlement to benefits is limited to 1½ times the length of service between those dates with a maximum of 36 months.

To draw the benefits, a veteran must begin his education within three years following the first discharge after January, 1955. For most enlisted men this date has already passed, but officers leaving the service sometimes qualify since they do not normally receive a discharge on leaving.

The training program must be completed within eight years of the discharge. In no case will benefits be granted after Jan. 31, 1965.

Under the Korean GI Bill a person may draw benefits ranging from $5 a month to $160 a month, depending on the scholastic load carried and the number of dependents. Maximum benefit for a single student carrying 14 or more hours is $110 a month. A person with two or more dependents carrying the same number of hours may draw $160.

Civic Theatre Opens Third Production Here Thursday

Drama

A climactic scene from "Picnic" h's, from left, Sandra Ciocci, Lynn Seebo and Barbara Largent. Rehearsals move from the Prairie Playhouse to the City Auditorium this week.

Accomplished

Lynn Seebo (left) and Martha Conway have many credits with the Big Spring Civic Theatre. Mrs. Conway is also the standby for make-up chores, a regular job she has held practically since the little theatre group was organized.

Back On Stage

Richard Robertson returns to the BSCT stage in "Picnic" following his work in the lead part for "Marriage-Go-Round." It is the first BSCT play for Lois Davis.

The Big Spring Civic Theatre opens its third major production of the year Thursday, when "Picnic" is produced on the city auditorium stage. Curtain time each evening, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday is 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from BSCT members. Adult tickets are $1.50 and student tickets are 75 cents.

James Marlin, who has given local audiences the organization's best productions, is directing the play. Back stage talk has it that this may be one of the smoothest productions yet.

John Holdun, who has worked the set and starred in productions, is the producer. He has given the organization a new spark of enthusiasm.

Marlin and Holdun have drawn from a wellspring of talent, most of which has been developed on the local stage. The cast is liberally sprinkled with new faces, however there are several of the more experienced hands on deck to give the play every promise of success.

Seen in BSCT productions previously are Lynn Seebo, Richard Robertson, Martha Conway, Jean Clontis, David Guy and Lida Fiveash. New to the group's productions are Sandra Ciocci, Barbara Largent, Lois Davis, Peter Stone, Ray Hoover, who plays the part of a rich young suitor, also is a newcomer.

Roy Rogan, city electrician, will be handling the lights. Mollie Hartzog is working the costume chores as well as helping prompt. Niles Carter is handling sound, Mrs. Conway is on makeup, and David Brinkley is in charge of the set construction.

Mrs. Kelly Jones, who did a good job in her "You Can't Take It With You" part, is back with the choreography.

The current production will be something of a milestone for the group for it equals the largest number of plays ever produced by the organization in a single year. The current board is planning another, and possibly two, plays for the balance of the year.

A regular schedule of productions has been the goal of the organization since its inception, but it has never been achieved. With the current schedule, the organization may well be on the road to a complete theatre program.

This will be largely due to Art Clontis, current president who fills in on every production wherever the need arises. He is also the organization's best recruiter, rounding up a cast for plays, selling the program, painting a prop or even taking a part.

Dr. Harris To Retire From Medical Center

GALVESTON. — Dr. Titus H. Harris will retire as chairman of the Department of Neurology and Psychiatry of the University of Texas Medical Center, a post he has held since the department was founded here 36 years ago. His resignation as department chief will be effective Sept. 1, but his service to the center as professor and clinician will continue, Dr. John B. Truslow, executive dean and director, announced.

Dr. Harris, who will be 70 in November, has been a strong influence in the development of his medical specialty in the Southwest. He was in the vanguard in the organization of university departments of psychiatry in this section of the country when he helped create the department in 1926. It was certified as a graduate training center in 1930 by the accrediting agencies of the AMA.

Since then he has piloted the training of 184 boardqualified psychiatrists in the resident program of the Medical Center hospitals in addition to directing the education of thousands of medical undergraduates in the fundamentals of psychiatry.

Since its beginning as a resident training program for three men he has helped build his department to its present status as the Medical Center's largest with 30 physicians in training at all times under a three-year curriculum.

MEN IN SERVICE

Pvt. Jesus C. Deleon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolfo S. Deleon, 410 NW 6th, has been assigned to Company M, 399th Regiment, at Fort Chaffee, Ark., where he will receive his basic combat training. During the eight week course, he will be given instruction in fundamental military subjects such as first aid, dismounted drill, map reading and military tactics. He will qualify with the M-1 Rifle. After completion of basic training, he will receive advanced individual training in one of the thousands of specialties required in a modern Army.

PVT. J. C. DELEON

First Sgt. James L. Fite, 22, son of Mrs. Anna Millsap, Colorado City, recently achieved recognition as a top Army marksman by qualifying for the expert marksmanship badge during range firing with the Army's new M-14 rifle in Germany.

The M-14 will replace the M-1 rifle, carbine, Browning automatic rifle and M-3 submachine gun. It packs the fire power of a light machinegun, can be fired both automatically and semiautomatically and fires the standard 7.62-millimeter NATO cartridge.

Artillery in Furth, Fite entered the Army in 1947 and was stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., before arriving overseas on this tour of duty in January, 1958. The sergeant, whose wife, Marie, is with him in Germany, is a 1947 graduate of Rush Springs (Okla.) High School.

DEAR ABBY

Ancient Kind Of Dancing!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy. My father is teaching me how to dance. He is supposed to be a real good dancer (at least that's what my mother says.) Well, maybe he was considered good in his day, but he dances like they used to way back in the early 40's and I can't get it.

Anyway, even if I could I wouldn't care to dance that way because no one dances like that any more. How can I cut off his lessons without hurting his feelings?

LEARNING TO DANCE
DEAR LEARNING: Don't be foolish. Let him teach you. It might come in handy when you have to dance with your girl friend's mother. In the meantime, get someone in your generation to teach you how to dance 1962 style.

DEAR ABBY: My two-year-old son sucks his thumb. I have discussed it with his pediatrician who advised me to ignore it. My problem is this: Whenever I take the child marketing, strangers will say to him, "Does that thumb taste good?" Or, "BIG boys don't suck their thumbs!" All this teasing and shaming have aggravated the habit. I have even had clerks pull his thumb out of his mouth while I paid for my purchases. What should I do?

MRS. J.
DEAR MRS. J.: You can't control the remarks of strangers. Ignore them, too.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received an invitation to a shower by the mother of the bride. On the invitation was written: "PLEASE BRING SANDWICHES."

I am not a relative. I wasn't sure if she meant I should bring sandwiches for the crowd, or just for myself, so I called her up and she said to bring sandwich just for myself as she'd serve coffee. I have never heard of a shower like this, have you? And I never knew the bride's mother could give the shower. Will you please straighten me out?

NEWS TO ME
DEAR NEWS: It is news to me, too. YOU are all straightened out, my dear. It is the bride's mother who is confused. SHOWERS for brides should be given by friends—not relatives. And a guest should not be asked to bring her own lunch.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FORBIDDEN FRUIT": Don't waste any more time on someone who does not respect his present vows. If you finally "win"—you lose.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Big Spring Herald.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Revlon Accused Of Price Fixing

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government has accused Revlon Inc., one of the nation's largest cosmetic manufacturers, of rigging prices on wholesale and retail levels.

The company denies the charge. In a civil anti-trust complaint filed Friday in federal court, the government contended also that the New York City firm illegally allocated sales territories and customers in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The government asked for a court order to prohibit the firm from anti-trust practices, which it said dates back to 1952.

The New And The Old

This photograph, taken from the 15th floor of the Settles Hotel, shows the new 1.5 million-gallon water storage tank at the north end of Rannels across Northwest Twelfth street. The old quarter-million-gallon tank on the left is dwarfed by the new tank. The contractor, Chicago Bridge and Iron, will begin painting the new storage in a few days.

Room For Lots Of Water

The first stage of drainage construction, before East Third and Fourth Streets are widened and paved, is shown crossing East Second and headed toward Third near the Gibbons Oil Co. station. Three 42-inch concrete pipes will serve this area. R. B. Hodgson, Inc., Lubbock, is the contractor.

STEERS GET BOOST

Painted Face For Big Storage Tank

The first visible, above-ground, structure built under the Master Plan bond program is due to get a new dress in the form of paint as soon as painters can work with the wind direction right. The 1.5 million-gallon elevated storage tank built on the North Side will take on a greenish-blue aluminum shade and sport the wording "Big Spring Steers" plus a steer head under the big letters.

Mayor George Zachariah said, Friday a representative of the firm contracting the paint job, after the builders finish, was in Big Spring Thursday discussing the job with city officials.

SPRAY-JOB

"The tint is put in the aluminum to take out sun glare so they told me," Zachariah said. "It means that the tank will have to be spray-painted instead of brushing. This is the color originally agreed upon by the commission before the contract was let."

The aluminum paint is supposed to last longer than any other kind, according to the consulting engineers, Freese, Nichols and Enderess, and the commission declined to change the color later because of additional cost and because bond funds are being used for the job.

Contract for connecting the tank to the water mains has been let and will be completed at about the same time that the tank is ready for use. The area is to have a chain-link fence constructed around it by Western Fence Co. "We believe the tank will be in use in a little over 60 days," Bruce Dunn, director of Public Works, said this week. "It could take a little longer, depending upon weather, but not too much longer."

An altitude valve will be installed in the connecting pipe and appurtenances and is on hand when needed.

OTHER WORK

Other contract work going on now includes the drainage structures for East Third and East Fourth. This work is being done, as far as the city's part goes, by R. B. Hodgson, Lubbock. The first work started is on both sides of, and across, East Second street. A ditch for drainage from the north side of second goes on to the creek at the railroad. Three 42-inch concrete lines begin on the north side of Second and will be run to the north side of East Third, just north of Pollard Chevrolet warehouse. The Texas Highway Department will complete the structures through Third and Fourth when the two streets are widened, curbed and guttered, and paved early in 1963.

PIPE ON GROUND

Pipe is on the ground for the drainage from the intersection of Birdwell Lane and East Third and East Fourth. Four lines will be laid in a part of this area and two in the rest. The city will have the lines laid up to the right-of-way for both streets and the highway department will make the connections when the paving is done on the streets.

Drainage from the shopping center area at Birdwell will enter the big pipes through a covered inlet, run north along Birdwell, and then east along the north right-of-way of Third, to the creek.

Fencing of the area on East Fifteenth and Sixteenth to enclose the filter plant and new clear well has been contracted. Edwards Heights storage reservoir will also be fenced under the same contract.

Car Search Ordered In Effort To Cut Santone Killings

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Bexar County Sheriff Owen Kilday has ordered his deputies to stop and search every car they see containing two or more young men in an effort to cut down killings.

The crusty old lawman said from a hospital bed Friday night he knows the action is "illegal as hell" but ordered his lawmen to disregard the law of searches and seizures.

"I'm sick of senseless, wanton killings in San Antonio and Bexar County," Kilday said. "If the courts won't do something about them, I'll try in my own small way."

The Kilday mandate was issued from the hospital bed where the sheriff is undergoing tests for a possible kidney ailment.

"I know parents won't like their boys being stopped and searched, but that's just tough," he said. "Drastic times need drastic action."

C-City Council Approves Pact For Library

COLORADO CITY (SC)—In a 10-minute called session, the Colorado City council Friday evening approved a contract with Mitchell County for operation of a county library. The county is expected to contract with a third party—the Mitchell County Federation of Women's Clubs—for actual operation. The city's approval sends the contract to the Mitchell County Commissioners Court for action.

On Monday, City Attorney John Worrell offered the legal opinion that two methods of library support were open to the city, (1) to assume and operate it directly, and (2) to change the city charter to allow the city to enter into a contract directly with the Federation. He did not think the arrangement to contract with the county would improve the legality of the situation.

Under the present arrangement, the city pays the money directly to the library, as a donation.

The council apparently differed with Worrell's interpretation of the law, and instructed him to prepare the proposed contract with the county.

Following the meeting, Worrell declined to comment further on the legality of contract, stating that he had drawn it and an accompanying ordinance at the request of the council.

Land Valuation Case Will Be Determined This Week

A jury in Howard County court will be asked to decide this week if Mattie Jackson is entitled to $40,000 for .279 acre of land taken by the state for right-of-way on the IS 20 cutoff. Mrs. Jackson was paid $19,530 in a finding by a special commission on June 22, 1961. She did not believe this was sufficient and appealed from the commission's findings to the county court.

The case has been on file in the county court since June 30, 1961. Judge Ed Carpenter has called a jury for duty Tuesday and the Jackson appeal is the only case slated for disposition. It will be the third appeal case in IS 20 right-of-way matters tried this month. In one of the cases, the owner of the land was awarded about $500 more than the special commission felt was a fair price. In the second case, the jury decreased the commission award by $2,500. Each of these cases was appealed by the state.

The Jackson case is brought by the original owner of the land. The land involved is described as being Lot 6 and parts of Lots 4 and 5, in Block 49, Government Heights development in the Bauer addition.

Mrs. Jackson is listed as the chief owner in the case. Others are Naomi Criswell and Vita Skinner, both of Lubbock, and Altha Nance, who lives in Colorado.

Gives Report On Boys State

Danny Cone, who represented Big Spring's American Legion post at Boys' State in Austin earlier this year, gave a report on his experiences there before members of the American Business Club at their regular luncheon Friday at the Settles Hotel.

Cone said he looked upon the week he spent in Austin as one of the most rewarding episodes in his life.

Cone was elected to the office of Commissioner of General Land Office after his arrival there and, in that capacity, spent a half day in the state capitol itself.

He mentioned that he met many well-known people in and out of state politics at the time.

He said Boys' State served to teach young Americans about government and governmental agencies, offering lessons that he reasoned would serve him in good stead throughout his life.

He is the second member of his family to have served as Commissioner of General Land Office at Boys' State. His older brother, John, had previously won that position in an election held among Boys' State delegates.

Young Cone was introduced to the ABC gathering by George Zachariah.

Guests of the club included Roscoe Cone, father of Danny, David Jones and Bill Patton.

An Old Classic In A New Package

Hollywood's at it again. The devout, unfathomable mind of the publicist has dredged up a perfectly good award-winning classic for re-release, and has gone about changing the title, falling to mention anything in printed publicity about the original title, and otherwise trying to cover up the fact that this is not a new movie.

Thus, the public may be led to believe that "The 9th Bullet" is a new film. This is unfortunate, because the public has never heard of "The 9th Bullet," present advertising and publicity materials make it look like a B grade movie, and there are thousands of filmgoers who will want to catch "The Bandit of Brazil" the second time around.

Whatever you call it—"Bullet" or "Bandit"—it is one of the best adventure films ever imported. Of Brazilian vintage, the movie won a first prize several years back at the Cannes Film Festival as the best adventure story, and the author of the musical score also came in for laurels.

U.S. hit parade for several weeks. It had the same title as the original movie.

The story of "The 9th Bullet" is that of the Cangaceiros, a band of marauders with a strange sense of honor who terrorized northeastern Brazil for many years until they finally were exterminated in 1938. The film story catches the Cangaceiros when at the height of their power.

Albert Ruschel portrays a handsome young bandit who falls in love with a pretty schoolteacher (Marisa Prada) captured in the slaughter of a frontier village. Ruschel breaks the bandit code to free the woman, and is chased by the leader, Milton Ribeiro.

Without revealing the ending for those who missed the film the first time it came around, we can say it is typically Brazilian.

Many fans remember the haunting strains of "El Bandido do Brasil" and the nostalgic quality of the story. They will want to see it again. Others are advised not to miss a fine movie.

Hope-Crosby Team Gets New Partner For 7th Road Film

Well, they've done it again. Bob Hope and Bing Crosby finally laid aside their golf clubs long enough to hit the road again.

After nine years, the Norman Panama - Melvin Frank team wrote, produced and directed "The Road to Hong Kong," keeping their two stars corralled long enough to accomplish their feat.

As all the old fans will already know, this makes road show number seven.

Also, the old fans will want to know what happened to Dorothy Lamour. She's in the latest road picture, but just barely. She almost didn't make it in that far.

As usual, Hope and Crosby play a pair of crafty con men sipping their way around the world on the way to some particular spot on the map. This time, they're in India trying to sell a fako space-travel gadget—a game that eventually sends them somewhere else besides Hong Kong.

Their pursuit of loot takes them to India, Hong Kong, the bottom of the ocean, the top of the stratosphere — and eventually to a far-away planet.

The girl in the ointment is Joan Collins. Another co-star is Robert Morley, cast as leader of a private cult aiming at space exploration, although it is not apparent why private enterprise should be considered piratical.

Miss Collins scrambles onto the road by mistake — wrongly believing Hope to be an agent carrying secret formulas smuggled from Russia, she follows him to Hong Kong. Thus, she becomes the distaff third partner.

The old fans won't like this. In fact, a survey of some Big Spring road fans came up with this: Why shouldn't Dotty continue as the third partner? Why stick her off into a bit role, and replace her with a young chick? So, let all three of the roadsters—wrinkled, greying, leaning on canes—dodder down their seventh road together. That's the way it should be. Of course, there's nothing wrong with Miss Collins.

Actually, Dotty is brought into the script as the original old partner. The two comedians come across her in a Hong Kong night club, there is a re-union, and Hope wants to know, "Remember all those road pictures we made together?" "Yeah," snaps Dotty. "And so do the critics. Why do you think I'm working over here?"

BELLA DARVI & KIRK DOUGLAS
Time out for some racy cuddling

'The Racers' Depicts Fast Life Of Speeding Pros

Sports car racing fans should get their fill with "The Racers," screening Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre and starring Kirk Douglas.

"The Racers" provides plenty of film footage on some of the more famous European events, such as Les Mans or the Mille Miglia. Hollywood cameras used a ton or two of celluloid, from which film editors extracted some of the most exciting scenes.

Storywise, "The Racers" depicts Douglas as a man torn between two loves—for racing, and for a beautiful ballet dancer, portrayed by Bella Darvi. Others in the cast include Charles Golden as Douglas' mechanic, Gilbert Roland and Cesar Romero as other racers, Lee J. Cobb as an auto manufacturer, and Katy Jurado as the wife of one of the drivers.

"The Racers" is based on a novel by a former European speed ace, Han Ruesch, and is reported to reveal the "inside story" of the racing breed and the women in their lives.

Dotty Wins Fight For Part

Dorothy Lamour won her fight for a bigger role in "Road to Hong Kong" with the help of fans and some cold logic.

She had threatened not to appear at all unless her bit part was made a little bigger. This, backed with a trainload of fan mail, set off a train of thought by director Norman Panama.

"The farther along we got in filming the more important we realized Dorothy was to the story. From the standpoint of plot and tradition a road picture without a lot of Dotty just didn't seem right."

It's The 7th Road Show

"Road to Hong Kong" marks the seventh road show to star Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour.

The original, "Road to Singapore," proved so successful, the trio made five more before finally quitting the series nine years ago. The five included "Road to Zanzibar," "Road to Morocco," "Road to Rio," "Road to Bali" and "Road to Utopia."

Bob Hope isn't the only one who upsets directors and other actors with his ad-libs.

Several guest stars, unbilled, make their way in and out of scenes in "Road to Hong Kong." A couple of friends who weren't even in the script heard a rumor and decided to drop in — and their ad-lib was kept in the footage.

They explain in the film: "We heard you were having trouble finding an end to this picture, so we flew over to help out."

Visitors swarmed onto the set of "Road to Hong Kong" in such godly numbers that director Norman Panama was moved to remark:

"If as many people pay to see the film as have watched the shooting we should have an all-time box office record."

"The Pirates of Tortuga" plays the part played by Rafer Johnson as an exiled African king who ends up as a helmsman on a ship of King Charles II. Johnson went into films after retiring from sports. He won the gold medal for the decathlon — a ten-event, one-man track meet — in the 1960 Olympics at Rome, setting a world's record at that time.

"Pirates of Tortuga" contains all the ingredients of the Hollywood swashbuckler — great heroes, beautiful women, infamous villains, pirate ships courageously sailing the wintry pond located on the back lot of a Hollywood studio.

Famous Tunes Haunt Actors

Although they won't be heard in their latest film together, a couple of famous tunes may be going around in the minds of Bob Hope-Bing Crosby fans after seeing "Road to Hong Kong."

Crosby discovered his theme song many years ago in making movie shorts for Mack Sennet. "The Blue of the Night" is still the Crosby trademark. "The Big Broadcast of 1938," that Hope sang "Thanks for the Memories" to Shirley Ross. This tune still escapes Hope's lips periodically.

That's A Pun?

Joan Collins thinks she has been continually mis-cast ever since coming to Hollywood from her native England. Hereafter, she has had mostly sexy siren roles.

Bob Hope, her co-star in "Road to Hong Kong," cracked at this point: "Sounds like the most basic kind of typecasting to me."

But now, with her role in the road picture, Miss Collins feels she is "on the right road now. No pun intended."

The Last Mile?

While filming "Road to Hong Kong" in England, Bob Hope and Bing Crosby were asked by a reporter if they planned to retire any time soon.

"Why retire," Crosby quipped, "when as a singer I should have three or four years left?"

At which Hope cracked, "Yeah, why — when rocking chairs are coming in style? Bing'll have no trouble in this road — it's all downhill."

Oriental Dancer

Yvonne Shima, well-known Oriental featured player, heads a dozen dancers for Dorothy Lamour's specialty number in "Road to Hong Kong." Miss Shima recently played in "World of Suzie Wong" and "The Savage Innocents."

Local Dealers Report On Air Conditioners

By JOE BEYER
The fashionable new car these days almost always comes equipped with air conditioning. Popularity of this item accessory, considered by many West Texans as a necessity, has gained considerably in the past five years. The big-car field has gone almost entirely to "air." Cadillac sales since about 1954 have been almost 100 per cent with air conditioning.

"The last one we sold here without it was in 1960," Hollis Webb, McEwen Motor Co., said. Buick sales increased from about 50 per cent with air in 1957 to almost 90 per cent two years later, he said. Since then almost all Buick sales have included it.

Lincoln is almost always sold with air conditioning and the Mercury sales average is about 80 per cent or higher, Darrell Shortes, Truman Jones Motor Co., said.

The Oldsmobile, especially in the bigger models, sells almost 100 per cent with air conditioning, Justin Holmes, Shroyer Motor Co., said. These cars are not even ordered without air any longer. Although the compact model is ordered without it, refrigerated units are frequently installed at the firm, he said.

"The trend really began snowballing about 1955-56. It picked up to about 50 per cent and by 1957 was more than 75 per cent," Holmes said.

The Dodge sales average is about 70 per cent. No change up or down has been noticed in the past two years.

"Many of the 1957 and later models of Pontiac taken in on trade are equipped with air," Tom Van Hoose, Van Hoose-King Pontiac, said. He said sales are about 90 per cent with air in the standard models with an average of about 50 per cent in the compacts.

The percentages begin dropping in the lower-priced field, with about 65 per cent of Studebaker and Rambler sales equipped with air, according to Johnnie Stewart, McDonald Motors. He said cars with air are stocked more during summer months, but for the year the average is about 65 per cent.

"About 25 per cent of our new cars are sold with air conditioning," Bob Brock, sales manager at Shasta Ford Sales, Inc., said. Most of these are factory installed, but there are frequent requests for the less expensive version. An increase in the percentage has been noted for about the past five years, especially in the past three, he said.

"People prefer factory air because it looks nicer in the car and beauty of the interior is a big factor in selling," Johnny Stevens, Chevrolet Co., said.

He said about 15 per cent of customers buy cars with factory air. Another five per cent ask to have it installed locally.

Transfer Company Is Given Award

Neel's Transfer and Storage, 101 Runnels, has been named a "top quality" van line agency for North American. It is one of 98 firms recognized from among 900 North American agents in the nation.

This is the second time the firm has received the honor, the first time being in 1960. It was the first transfer and storage company to locate in Big Spring.

The award is made on the basis of accuracy and performance efficiency. During the year, Neel's had a rating of 95.9 per cent on packing, storage, hauling and making destination calls on incoming customers.

Merchandise awards, a trophy and lapel pins for employees of the firm are some of the prizes.

Neel's has been associated with North American Van Lines for 14 years. It is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. T. Willard Neel.
