IN SCHOOLS

Court Rules No Prayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today the offering of a 22-word daily prayer in New York state's public schools violates the U.S. Constitution.

Five parents with children in schools in New Hyde Park, N.Y., had questioned the practice as a violation of the principle of separation of church and state.

New York State's Board of Regents, the governing body of the public school system, recommended that this prayer be spoken in school opening exercises.

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon thee, and we beg thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

Justice Black wrote the court majority opinion which declared: "We think that by using its public school system to encourage recitation of the regent's prayer, the State of New York has adopted a practice wholly inconsistent with the establishment clause" of the U.S. Constitution.

The first amendment to the constitution commands that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

Justice Stewart wrote a dissenting opinion which declared "the court has misapplied a great constitutional principle."

Stewart added, "I cannot see how an 'official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it. On the contrary, I think that to deny the wish of these school children to join in reciting this prayer is to deny them the opportunity of sharing in the spiritual heritage of our nation."

Justice Douglas wrote an opinion concurring with the majority. Justices Frankfurter and White took no part.

The court's vote thus was 6-1.

Laos Minister Denounces U.S.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A pro-Communist cabinet minister denounced the presence of U.S. troops in Thailand Sunday shortly after Premier Souvanna Phouma turned leadership of his day-old coalition over to his Red-leaning half-brother.

Information Minister Phoumi Vongvichit called a news conference as soon as Souvanna's plane had left for France. Claiming to speak for the regime, he denounced the U.S. troops as a threat to "the peace and neutrality of Laos."

"The government of national union protests against the American troops landings in Thailand," declared Vongvichit, a member of Prince Souphanouvong's pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction.

"I do not want to come back earlier."

After the premier departed, Souphanouvong took off for Khang Khay, saying he wanted to clear up some administrative matters.

Before Souvanna's departure, the cabinet:

CEASE FIRE

1. Proclaimed an immediate cease-fire throughout Laos, thus ending in effect at least the 22-month civil war during which the Pathet Lao has taken over about two-thirds of the kingdom.

2. Formed a delegation representing all three factions to go to Geneva and sign the 14-nation accord on Laos guaranteeing the country's neutrality. Souvanna is expected to attend the final session of the conference which the Western powers want to reconvene July 2.

Although he will be acting premier while Souvanna is away, Souphanouvong's authority will be limited under the coalition's truce setup. Deputy Premier Phoumi Nosavan, strong man of the former rightist regime in Vientiane, will have veto powers in any major matters.

Informants said, however, the United States has decided to play safe and hold up its $3 million monthly economic aid to Laos until Souvanna gets back.

NOT KNOWN

It was not known whether Souvanna knew Vongvichit was going to issue the statement. The neutralist premier had shrugged off the dispatch of U.S. troops to neighboring Thailand as a precautionary measure.

The official minutes of Sunday's initial cabinet session, over which Souvanna presided, carried no mention of U.S. troops.

U.S. officials had no immediate comment. The United States has said repeatedly the U.S. troops, landed after the Pathet Lao made big military gains in northern Laos, had come at Thai request to protect Thailand, not Laos.

Vongvichit said later the cabinet did discuss extending recognition to the Communist governments of Red China, East Germany and Poland. He said no decision was taken.

CAN BE VETOED

Any foreign policy decision can be vetoed by any of the three factions represented in the coalition — neutralist, pro-Communist and Red-leaning.

Laos now has diplomatic relations with Nationalist China, but a Red Chinese mission has been operating for some time at Souphanouvong's headquarters in Khang Khay.

Before leaving to attend a daughter's wedding in Paris, Souvanna cautioned his half-brother not to stir things up while he was gone.

"I am counting on you," said the neutralist premier, kissing Souphanouvong on both cheeks.

Chaos, Panic Sweep Oran

ALGIERS (AP) — Chaos and panic threatened the west Algerian capital of Oran today while peace was becoming more and more tangible in Algiers.

The European Secret Army Organization in Oran called on Europeans to flee the city to avoid the vengeance of Moslems after the self-determination vote July 1.

Thousands camped on the docks and at the airport, waiting transport to France.

Explosions and fires raged in the city, damaging schools and public buildings throughout the day. Firemen were giving up the fight against the desperate scorched earth campaign of the European extremists.

Authorities in Oran appealed to the population to remain calm, but no one appeared to be paying any attention.

Peace was taking firm roots in Algiers where a week ago the secret army abandoned its armed resistance to Algeria's inevitable independence.

No one, however, would predict the relationship between the European terrorist organization and the new Moslem state after the self-determination vote.

REGARDING ESTES REPORT

Freeman Formally Raps Ag. Department Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman announced today a formal reprimand of Thomas Miller, a department official, in connection with a report in the Billie Sol Estes case.

Freeman said he ordered the formal reprimand because of Miller's failure to reveal that he prepared a report under instructions from a superior recommending that cotton allotments in the Estes case be allowed to stand for 1961 and subsequent years.

Miller is acting Southwest area director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Freeman said Miller now states that the recommendation he, Miller, made was contrary to his own judgment, and that it was made at the direction of Emery Jacobs, former deputy administrator, A. S. C. S., who resigned April 13.

Freeman said Miller has advised the department in an affidavit that Jacobs instructed him to write a memorandum justifying a departmental decision "to permit Billie Sol Estes to retain all of the cotton allotments he had acquired at that time."

Jacobs, when questioned, stated that Miller had been sent to Texas by him but that Miller had not been instructed to make a slanted report, Freeman said.

Earlier, the Des Moines Register, in a copyrighted Washington dispatch, had stated that the Senate investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. John McClellan, D-Iowa, had uncovered evidence that an official of the Agriculture Department was directed to write a report favorable to Estes.

Freeman's reprimand was announced at the Agriculture Department shortly after a congressional probe of the Estes case was resumed. It brought testimony from a consultant to Commercial Solvents Corp. that his first impression of Estes was that he was "extremely ambitious and might, if not controlled, overexpand . . ."

NO CONTACTS

James A. McConnell, the consultant, told a House subcommittee that he never at any time did contact anyone in the Department of Agriculture seeking any action in connection with Estes' operations or his relations with Commercial Solvents.

The New York chemical company extended to Estes millions of dollars in credit and enabled him to get into the lucrative business of storing surplus grain owned by the government.

McConnell, former head of surplus grain operations in the Agriculture Department, said he resigned that job in 1956 to become a director and consultant for Commercial Solvents.

He told of inspecting Estes' West Texas farming operations in October 1959.

"Estes appeared to be an excellent customer (for liquid fertilizer) and Commercial Solvents was anxious to keep him," McConnell said. During the 1959 visit, he added, "nothing happened which caused us to have any question about the integrity of Estes."

NOT APPROVED

"Sometime later, I discussed with management the advisability of putting a plant in West Texas from which we could supply Estes' needs at very substantial freight savings, provided we could conclude that this relationship was a permanent one," McConnell said. "This suggestion was not approved."

McConnell said that late in 1961 when Estes was asking another extension of credit he and Walter Berger again went to Texas to inspect the Estes operations. Berger had taken McConnell's place in the Agriculture Department and also resigned to become a Commercial Solvents consultant.

"We came away with the same impression which I had had before," McConnell said, "which was that the physical properties were in excellent condition and were in the hands of persons who seemed entirely competent."

"Berger and I were both fully

Sheriff Asks FBI To Help Halt Slayings

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—An appeal for FBI help to halt juvenile gang slayings here went to Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy Sunday.

"We urgently need your assistance," Sheriff Owen Kilday said in asking that federal agents investigate the shooting of Henry Gomez, 14, while he and two companions were swimming in a creek.

Kilday said a carload of young toughs killed the youth Saturday. "Gangsters approached them and asked if they belonged to a gang," the sheriff told the attorney general in a telegram. "They replied no. Then they shot Gomez while he was in the water. Companions pulled him out. Then gangsters returned and shot Gomez again."

"For your information, about 100 of this type of shootings have occurred in the past two years in this city and county."

Only a day before the Gomez killing, Kilday ordered his deputies to search every car they found carrying as many as two young men.

Sheriff's investigator Alfred Carreon reported the officers searched about 150 cars and made 23 arrests Saturday night, charging those in custody with carrying prohibited weapons, gambling or drunkenness.

"We got a lot of knives and small weapons," Carreon said. "One boy carried a bayonet."

Political Action Course Slated

A political action course has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Settles ballroom with J. L. Taylor, head of the college and youth division of Teacher Publishing Company, Dallas, as the instructor.

Taylor is a frequent speaker before conservative groups throughout the southwest. The course will last for two hours and the meeting is open to all who wish to take part.

Estes' Trial On State Charges Begins Today

Request Comes As Surprise

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—Billie Sol Estes' lawyers asked today for a trial at once on state felony charges. Dist. Judge J. H. Starley said the case would start this afternoon.

The development surprised this West Texas town.

This term of court started today and Estes' lawyers asked that the promoter's case be moved to the top of the docket.

Starley granted the request and said selection of jurors would begin at 1:30 p.m.

Few reporters were here. The town had been filled with them Saturday for a court of inquiry into Estes' affairs by Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

Estes was indicted April 26 on eight counts of felony theft, involving fertilizer tank sales in Reeves County.

Estes' three lawyers were in town. They are John Cofer and Hume Cofer of Austin and John Dennison of Pecos.

Forty veniremen were summoned for the start of the jury selection.

laid to eavesdrop on a private meeting of Estes creditors with hidden microphones.

The newspaper said a big West Texas firm with a sizeable stake in the Estes enterprises was invited to share costs of recording conversations of the creditors' representatives here last week. A spokesman said the firm declined and passed the information on to the creditors.

Just before the meeting was to be held, it was moved from a downtown hotel to a lawyer's office.

John Cofer of Austin and John Dennison of Pecos, the Estes lawyers, were described as "greatly disturbed" but unwilling to comment on the matter.

In Houston, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., asserted there was no significance to the fact that Estes or his aides placed 37 telephone calls to Yarborough's offices within 18 months.

At a court of inquiry Atty. Gen. Will Wilson held Saturday in Pecos, evidence was introduced that the calls were made from Sept. 26, 1960, to last March 29, when FBI agents arrested Estes. Up to half a dozen calls each went to other Washington figures, according to the testimony.

Cliff Carter, an aide to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson who was another mentioned in the telephone call testimony, said Estes called the day before his arrest and asked about "rumors he was being investigated." Carter said he told Estes he knew nothing about it.

Carter said Estes called another time to arrange a brief office visit but they discussed no business.

New Facet Added To Estes Case

DALLAS (AP)—A report of wiretapping added another facet today to the complicated mass of information in the Billie Sol Estes case.

Telephones of two lawyers retained by the indicted West Texas promoter have been tapped, the Dallas News said, and plans were

Flight Engineers Strike

Flight engineers set up picket lines in front of the Eastern Airlines terminal at Boston, Mass.

Flight Engineers Union Passes Up Negotiation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking flight engineers of Eastern Air Lines passed up today a negotiating session set up in New York by federal mediators, but offered to talk in Washington instead.

Official pressure for settlement of that dispute and others like it built higher with talk in influential quarters about possible legislation for compulsory arbitration.

The latter move was initiated by Chairman A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., of the Senate Aviation subcommittee. He called Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg to his office for a discussion of what Monroney called jurisdictional strikes on the air carriers.

There was no immediate commitment from Goldberg, but Monroney said the secretary wanted to study the idea.

DISPUTE

The dispute that has grounded Eastern since Saturday threatens to stop Pan American World Airways and barely missed shutting down Trans World Airlines last week is jurisdictional. The big issue is who shall have the third seat in the cockpit when the airlines cut the crews on their big planes from four men to three by combining the jobs of the third pilot and the engineer.

The Flight Engineers International Association, AFL-CIO, bypassed the New York talks on the ground that it had no formal notice of the session, to which Undersecretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Francis A. O'Neill Jr., a member of the National Mediation Board, had been assigned.

Headquarters of the union released a message to the board from Jack Robertson, head of its EAL branch, saying the union had no notice of the New York session except press reports.

But the message said the union would have representatives in

EAL SHUT

EAL, the second biggest domestic air carrier with nine million passengers a year, shut Saturday when the engineers walked out, furloughing 18,000 employees and leaving thousands of travelers to find other passage.

Pan American, the biggest U.S. overseas line with four million passengers a year, is flying after a brief walkout Saturday, but its engineers are working under a court order effective only until a hearing Tuesday afternoon.

The strike against Eastern has stranded thousands of persons in various parts of the United States and in Puerto Rico and Bermuda. Pan Am ran three extra flights to Bermuda Sunday to pick up stranded travelers.

Undersecretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Francis A. O'Neill Jr., a member of the National Mediation Board, were assigned to meet here today with negotiators for Eastern and for the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association.

SAME ISSUE

The dispute between the union and the three airlines is basically on the same issue—the makeup of jet cockpit crews.

Flight engineers of Eastern and Pan Am balked at the terms of the Trans World settlement, which provided for transition from four to three-man jet cockpit crews. The flight engineers are fighting against losing jobs to members of the AFL-CIO Air Line Pilots Association.

Thousands Expected For Centennial

BRYAN, Tex. (AP)—Thousands from Central Texas were expected here today for festivities in the eight-day Hood's Brigade-Bryan Centennial celebration.

The largest of five parades was scheduled today. Trail riders from the Cameron-Hearse area, the Jola area and the Neosota-Peach Creek area participated.

A wagon drawn by 30 teams of mules will come from Independence, Tex.

Market Prices Dip Sharply

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices suffered another sharp setback in heavy trading today. Almost all sections of the market were lower by early afternoon with most key issues down fractions to $1 a share.

Analysts were unable to cite any new economic factor that might be contributing to the continued decline. The rapid trading pace caused the ticker to run late at times.

Lower were steel, motors, rails, chemicals, tobacco, drugs, rubbers, electrical equipments and utilities. Airlines held mixed.

A few growth stocks showed gains.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 5.52 at 533.67.

The dip continued last week's trend when prices fell to the lowest level since 1953.

Rusk Begins Talks With Britain's Home

LONDON (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home today to align British-American policies on the most urgent problems of Europe, Asia and Africa.

As the two statesmen began their conference the three big Western powers sent new notes to the Soviet Union urging early East-West talks in Berlin to ease tensions along the wall through the divided city.

American, British and French notes were sent to Moscow for delivery, probably by Tuesday. They proposed that the Big Four commandants meet in an attempt to curb shooting incidents along the wall that divides the Communist and Western sectors of the city.

REPLIES

The Western notes replied to a warning earlier this month from Moscow. The Soviets blamed a series of shootings across a Communist-built wall on what they called German Fascist elements backed by the Allies.

The Soviets demanded Western action to halt these incidents, which were termed provocative, or else face the possibility that the U.S.S.R. would come to the aid of the East German Communist ally.

Rusk brought with him new and stiffened American proposals for a Berlin settlement.

Qualified informants reported the United States has raised its price for a settlement of the dispute because Washington is convinced that the Soviet Union is in the grip of a grave internal crisis.

FOOD SHORTAGE

"It seems to us that the entire Communist camp is in the midst of a very serious food shortage," one authority said.

"With agricultural output and organization fouled up, the Soviet leadership may be rethinking its foreign policies. This, therefore is no time for Western concessions."

Rusk reportedly told West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Friday that the Americans, for the time being at least, are dropping the idea of proposing an international authority to run the air, land and water lanes into Berlin.

This plan, which caused so much discussion between Washington and Bonn, could be revived if the Russians publicly abandon their demand for the withdrawal of American, British and French garrisons from the city.

NEW IDEAS

Informants said Rusk would outline the new American ideas about a Berlin settlement to Lord Home, the British foreign secretary, at their meeting.

Another top item for discussion was the buildup of Red Chinese military power in Fukien Province opposite the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, held by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa-based Nationalist regime.

The British favor turning the islands over to the Chinese Reds. They want to hear what the Kennedy administration proposes to do if the Chinese Reds launch an offensive against Chiang's men on the islands.

Canada's Austerity Plans Could Hurt U.S. Position

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Emergency moves to bolster the sinking Canadian dollar seem certain to have some harmful effects on the international financial position of the United States, at least on a short-term basis.

Although U.S. Treasury officials hailed Sunday's announcement of Canada's austerity program as a sign that Canada is determined to defend her national currency, officials conceded the U.S. position could be hurt as a result. They cited three factors.

1. An increase of 5 to 15 per cent in tariffs on most Canadian imports will work some hardship on American efforts to sell in the Canadian market, which accounts for $2.7 billion of U.S. exports annually.

"It probably will indeed mean that some of our exports to Canada will bear a higher burden, and some may actually be choked out," a Treasury spokesman commented.

Since Canada is the best customer of the United States, accounting for 17 per cent of all U.S. exports, the increased tariffs could have a significant economic impact.

2. To defend Canada's monetary reserves and discourage spending abroad, Canadians henceforth will be able to bring home only $75 of foreign goods duty-free each year, instead of $300. This is expected to dampen spending in the United States by Canadians, many of whom live near the border and cross over frequently on shopping trips.

3. Canada promises to make a new effort to provide an inviting climate for foreign investment, and has already acted to boost interest rates. If this program succeeds, every extra dollar of U.S. investment in Canada would add to the balance of payments difficulties faced by the United States.

The first two factors would have a direct impact on the U.S. economy, already showing less vigor than was predicted in January forecasts. All three would have an adverse effect, at least potentially, on the balance of payments situation.

All of these factors presumably will be felt most keenly over the short run, particularly since Canada regards the dollar-strengthening program as a temporary thing. U.S. officials obviously feel that the United States and the West have more to gain, in the long run, from a strong Canadian dollar than from looking first to their own immediate interests.

In one sense, however, the United States is looking after the immediate interests of many citizens by cooperating in the Canadian program. Since U.S. private investment in Canada already totals $16 billion, many Americans have a strong motive for defending the Canadian dollar.

The United States has committed $650 million to the Canadian program—$250 million from the Federal Reserve System and $400 million from the Export-Import Bank. In addition, the Bank of England is advancing $100 million and the International Monetary Fund $300 million.

U.S. officials described the total international kitty of more than $1 billion as "massive and overpowering." They expressed confidence that it would be sufficient to halt recent ominous speculation against the Canadian dollar.

Youth Admits Killing Girls

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Police are holding an 18-year-old youth who they say has confessed the mysterious slayings of two Mansfield girls.

The bodies of the girls—Jean Bertoch, 9, and Connie Lynn Hurrell, 7—were found in a shallow creek about a half-mile from their homes Saturday night by a group of boys.

Every available officer was placed on the case as the investigation went on all night. Early Sunday, the youth, whose name has not been released, was reported arrested and later admitted the killings, police said.

No other details have been disclosed, but police indicated they plan to seek first-degree murder charges against the boy.

The Richland County coroner, Dr. D. C. Lavender, said only that a preliminary examination of the bodies indicated "violence." He would not say whether the youngsters, who wore only the bottoms of swim suits, had been sexually assaulted.

Police said it appeared one of the girls had been beaten. Witnesses said the other had a piece of clothing around her neck.

Mrs. Bertoch said the girls, who lived across the street from one another, left about 4 p.m. Saturday to play in the rain. They were wearing swimming trunks and T-shirts.

Connie was the daughter of Beverly Schulties, a divorcee. Neighbors said the two moved to Mansfield a week ago from Arizona.

QUESTIONING

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher Church of Christ, 2008 West Highway 80 P.O. Box 1382

Should the ministers discourage questioning on the part of the people who sit in the pew? It is being done. But is not the right to question what we are taught essential to freedom and truth? No man's mind belongs to another; and he should not be expected to receive any teaching without question. Gospel preachers of the days of the Apostles did not resent being questioned when they preached. In fact the Lord called them noble who questioned the preaching of the apostle Paul.

"These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so." (Acts 17:11).

In an effort to help those who are truth seekers, we are having a question time following each sermon during our open air revival, just north of the main entrance to WAFB. We oblige ourselves to give a Bible answer, or frankly admit we do not know the answer. Anyone in the audience may ask a question.

Be with us tonight and each night this week, at 7:30. You are very welcome.

Car-Train Crash Kills Oil Field Man

By The Associated Press
A flaming car-train crash at Higgins in the Panhandle killed four men late Sunday night and helped swell the state's toll from weekend violence to 39 deaths.

There were 17 traffic fatalities and 11 drownings in the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.
At Higgins, State Patrolman Kenneth Harrison said four oil field workers in a pickup truck apparently failed to see an approaching freight train because of a second train halted on a parallel track.

HURLED

Killed as the locomotive hurled their vehicle against the Higgins depot and set it afire were Kenneth Ward, 25; Jerry Fields, 22; Herbert Jenkins, 51; and Willard Duggan, 26. All four were residents of Shattuck, Okla.

At Ft. Hood in Central Texas, Blake Bartosavage, 5, drowned in the officers' club pool Sunday night. He was the son of CWO and Mrs. Chester Bartosavage, who live at Copperas Cove.

Rubin Brown, 30, of Conroe drowned Sunday while swimming in the San Jacinto River.

Freddie Dairy, 30, Memphis Negro, was killed and two other Negroes were wounded in a gun battle Sunday during a party 18 miles south of Memphis.

Sam Moreno, 34, of Houston died early Sunday from a shotgun blast. Cooper Thompson, 46, of Houston was charged with murder. Officers said the shooting followed an argument over a car blocking Moreno's driveway.

DROWNED

Luther Walder Jr., 36, drowned Sunday when his car crashed through a bridge railing and plunged into the Trinity River at Dallas.

Donnie Morgan, 5, died Sunday in a car-truck crash 20 miles east of Amarillo near Conway. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Matthews of Gainesville, a brother and two sisters were injured.

Jimmy Thomas, 22, of Odessa died Sunday when his car crashed into an Odessa cemetery. He was thrown against a tombstone.

A. W. Phillips of Kilgore and his daughter, 8, drowned Sunday in Lake o'the Pines, near Jefferson after a boat from which they were fishing caught fire. Mrs. Phillips finally reached shore after clinging several hours to the charred boat.

Predict Defeat For Medicare

CHICAGO (AP)—Two members of Congress predict that President Kennedy's medicare program will not pass.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and Rep. Harold McSwain of Louisiana both addressed a dinner meeting Sunday of the American Medical Political Action Committee, in conjunction with the American Medical Society's convention.

Tower, "old several hundred physicians and their wives that "You probably won't get medical care legislation at this session. What happens at the next session depends upon your efforts at campaign time this fall."

He urged the doctors to become actively interested in political issues.

"I hope you will show as much concern regarding any socialistic proposals as you have over medicare."

"You must be responsible, temperate and rational in your approach to politics and not become a self-interest group, the way in which influence is used to elect rights and profit in office."

McSwain said the group it would not be successful if the King-Anderson bill fails to be passed at the session of Congress.

Fugitive Financier

Edward M. Gilbert, financier who fled to Brazil, talks with Associated Press newsmen Tom Masterson in Rio de Janeiro. Tax officials in New York said Gilbert owes the U. S. Government over three million dollars in back taxes. Gilbert fled to Brazil June 12 after admitting to directors of the E. L. Bruce Co., which he headed, that he had withdrawn nearly two million dollars of the firm's funds without authorization.

Utah State Student Wins Beauty Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Cecelia M. Harrison, 19, a junior at Utah State University, has won the eighth annual National College Queen contest.

The Centerville, Utah, girl is 5 feet 7 inches, weighs 123 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes.

She was announced the winner Sunday night in competition with 11 other regional finalists.

A spokesman for the contest said Miss Harrison won prizes valued at more than $5,000. These included a trip to Europe, a sports car, clothing and jewelry. She had won preliminary contests in fashion and photography.

Mary Lou Gillengarten, 18, a sophomore at Michigan State University, placed second in the contest. Pat Youngren, 21, who graduated from the Bradley University, Peoria, Ill., this month, was third.

The nine finalists who did not win prizes were not ranked. They included Judy McCaleb, 18, of Amarillo College, Tex.

Administration To Attempt Salvaging Battered Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration buckles down this week for an operation aimed at salvaging part of its battered legislative program and putting opponents of its proposals on record.

First on the agenda laid out in a series of conferences between congressional Democratic leaders and White House aides is an effort to get the House to accept a $277-million stopgap money measure the Senate passed Saturday.

If the House approves this bill, which would supply funds to agencies which have run out of money, the action would be regarded as the first step toward ending the won't-play impasse created by an argument between the Senate and House Appropriations Committees over prestige.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Saturday the time had come to end the bickering over whether senators or House members shall preside over conference sessions to iron out differences of the two houses in money bills.

This would open the way for final action on measures which bear a June 30 deadline—the end of the fiscal year. The Senate takes up one of these today, a tax extension bill preserving $4 billion of federal revenue by continuing for another year present corporation income and major excise tax rates.

Humphrey also said administration leaders are hopeful of salvaging some of the provisions of the Kennedy farm bill rejected by the House last week.

He said he anticipates the house will vote to continue the present emergency wheat and feed grain programs for a year.

The administration bill turned back last week by the House would have required farmers to vote on acreage controls with the results binding on all growers in the big grain states, whether they had voted for them or not.

When the bill was defeated—President Kennedy's worst domestic set-back this year—Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, introduced a bill to continue the voluntary control program.

The third major administration move of the week will involve the offering in the Senate of a modified version of the Kennedy plan for financing hospital and nursing care for the elderly through Social Security taxes.

Mansfield said the compromise will be offered as a rider to a House-passed welfare bill aimed at revising public assistance systems to rehabilitate those on relief.

The administration plan is to offer this rider Saturday, the final day of the current fiscal year.

But while Mansfield and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., author of the health care amendment, expressed belief that it will get Republican support, GOP leaders are planning an all-out fight against it.

Anderson said he will make provision in the modified proposal for aid to needy elderly persons who are not on Social Security rolls. This might quiet the criticism of some who have said the original administration proposal would leave three million persons uncovered.

However, the major opposition to the program has been based on its system of financing—an increase in the Social Security tax paid by employees and employers—and on this point the administration has said it will not budge.

Spokesmen for finance and industry generally supported the program as necessary.

Deputy Social Credit Leader Real Gauette called the policies contradictory and said Diefenbaker "ought to resign rather than make proposals like this." He added his party would not tolerate a tight money policy.

The new program was the first major action by Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative government since it was returned a week ago as a minority administration unable to weather any combined common vote against it by the three opposition parties.

Two more seats

A count of armed forces voters Sunday gave the opposition Liberals two additional Commons seats at the expense of the Conservatives. The count now is 116 for Diefenbaker's party and 99 for the Liberals, the second largest party. Diefenbaker is seeking a coalition with the Social Credit party, which has 30 seats.

Except for the cut in government spending the new measures do not require parliamentary approval. Diefenbaker said the cut would be at an annual rate of $250 million which, with the increased tariffs, would chop $450 million in a full year from the government's anticipated deficit of $740 million.

Liberal leader Lester Pearson commented that the government now recognizes that the country faces serious economic problems. T. C. Douglas, New Democratic party leader, termed the program

AVOID UPHEAVALS

Canada Tightens Economic Belt

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada today began a belt-tightening emergency austerity regime of widespread tariff increases and government economy ordered by Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker to bolster the Canadian dollar.

Diefenbaker, whose Progressive Conservative party was badly weakened in the general election last week, called on Canadians to support the new measures "in a spirit of national purpose." He said Canada's economy is fundamentally strong and sound.

He announced the program on Sunday to avoid market upheavals and emphasized that the measures would be temporary.

The prime minister said Canada has obtained more than $1 billion in short-term financial aid to strengthen the nation's dwindling foreign exchange reserves until the other government measures have their effect. Two-thirds of these loans and credits were made available by the United States.

DEFEND VALUE

He said the government is determined to defend the dollar's exchange rate at the recently devalued level of 92 1/2 U.S. cents.

In a related step, the Bank of Canada hiked its interest rate to six per cent, a move apparently designed to retain capital that recently has been going abroad for investment. The fluctuating rate was 3.17 per cent last week and 4.18 the week before.

In Washington, U.S. Treasury officials expressed satisfaction with Canada's dollar-strengthening moves even though one effect could be to hurt the United States.

Canada's new tax increase on most imports will make it more difficult for American goods to compete in the Canadian market, thus hampering U.S. efforts to ease its own balance of payments problem through an increase in exports. The special Canadian tax boost ranges from 5 per cent to 15 per cent.

the duty-free exemption on purchases by Canadians abroad will be cut sharply; in the case of purchases from the United States, from $300 to $75 a year.

Diefenbaker said the measures would mean a $300-million annual improvement in Canada's international balance of payments deficit recently running at about $1.25 billion annually.

The program calls for immediate tariff increases of from 5 to 15 per cent on imports which total some $3.1 billion annually. Another $2.9 billion in imports, including basic foods, raw materials and manufacturing materials, are not affected.

The five per cent boost applies to such imports as machinery, electrical goods, textiles, pulp and paper products, pipes and tubes. The 15 per cent rate applies to such luxury items as wines, jewelry and perfumes. A 10 per cent boost was put on such imports as automobiles, furniture and television sets.

The new program was the first major action by Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative government since it was returned a week ago as a minority administration unable to weather any combined common vote against it by the three opposition parties.

Blew His Top, Girls Slain

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—James H. Vance Jr. has admitted bludgeoning two teen-age girls to death with a tire wrench.

An authority quoted Vance as saying he "blew his top" the night of the crime.

Vance, 18, a schoolmate of the two victims, called a detective to his cell Sunday morning and admitted the double slaying, according to Morris County Prosecutor Frank Scerbo.

"He just wanted to get it off his chest," Scerbo said.

After admitting the crime, the youth was taken by police to his home about a mile from where the girls were murdered.

He led two detectives to the attic of the frame house and, shoving aside loose floorboards, uncovered a blood-stained jacket he said he had been wearing the night of the slayings.

At his home, Scerbo said, Vance admitted the murders to his father.

The battered bodies of the victims—Margaret Ann Kennedy, 16, and Noreen Buckley, 17, both of Morris Plains, were found off a lonely road in a wooded area in adjoining Morris Township.

Ford Workers End Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. started back on the production track today following approval by union members of an agreement to end an 18-day local strike.

The dispute by 3,200 members of United Auto Workers Local 429 (AFL-CIO) at the Walton Hills stamping plant had shut-down all Ford passenger car output and idled 77,000 employees throughout the nation.

About one-third of the union members attended Sunday's meeting and only four men voted against the settlement in a show of hands. The agreement was reached Friday night with the aid of federal mediators.

Ford spokesmen said 39,000 workers would be back on their jobs by midnight tonight, the others returning by next Monday.

Four hundred returned on the midnight shift at the Walton Hills plant, a key supplier of parts on Ford passenger cars. The other 2,800 started operations today. Assembly plants are not expected to resume operations until Wednesday.

The strike began June 7 in a dispute over 41 production standards, health and safety issues.

The agreement provided that the company accept as normal and satisfactory production which operators on the job in dispute had accomplished "prior to and at the time the current strike began."

The union said the company agreed to spend $70,000 for engineering changes.

WILKINSON SAYS

Americans Abroad Give 'Sad Sack' Appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the U.S. diplomat: Don't be a "flabby American." Climb some stairs. Run a little. Exercise every day.

So advises President Kennedy's special consultant on physical fitness, Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson, Oklahoma University athletic director, who thinks too many Americans present a sad sack physical image abroad.

Writing in the latest issue of the State Department Newsletter, a monthly publication circulated among State Department employees here and overseas, Wilkinson reported that the Communists are making propaganda out of physically unfit appearance of Americans.

"No group, at home or overseas, is in a better position than the employees of the State Department to improve the American image," Wilkinson wrote.

"It's easy to understand why the trim, erect, physically fit individual immediately creates a pleasing first impression—for himself and for his country," he said.

"State Department employees owe it to themselves and to their country to be physically fit." Wilkinson said the mere fact that U.S. diplomats must pass physical exams along with other tests doesn't mean they are in shape.

"Is your posture erect?" he asked. "Are you overweight for your build and height? Do you find yourself short of breath after walking up a flight or so of stairs? Do you lack pep and energy?"

"If your answers are 'Yes,' then the chances are you're not physically fit." Wilkinson suggested the remedy is proper eating habits, enough rest and "regular vigorous physical activity—with your doctor's permission, of course."

He said even 15 minutes a day exercise can help amazingly.

"If you've no other opportunity for exercise," he told the diplomat readers, "work out several minutes every morning to 'Chicken Fat' (a zippy exercise tune)."

"Climb some stairs. Run a little when you have the chance."

Stars Out As Yanks Prep For Soviets

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Track and field records books were in for a rewrite today as a 40-man team headed for Chicago to prepare for upcoming meets with Poland and the Soviet Union and the 74th national AAU championships passed into history.

Missing from the American team which will face Poland in Chicago this weekend and the Soviet Union at Palo Alto, Calif., July 21-22 will be one of the nation's top sprinters and two of its 16-foot pole vaulters.

Villanova's Frank Budd is out with a bad leg injury, and the pole vaulting stars, L. Dave Tork and John Uelses, failed to qualify in the nationals.

Tork went out at 15 feet 8 1/2 inches, placing third, and Uelses' limit was 15 feet.

Mitchell Wins With Birdie

LUBBOCK (AP)—A birdie on the 16th hole and a pressure putt of 35 feet on 17 gained Ross Mitchell of Lubbock the West Texas golf championship Sunday.

He was tied for the lead at 63 holes by Garry Littlejohn of Midland but on 16 he two-putted from 12 feet for a birdie instead of going for an eagle, not knowing he was so closely pressed. Then he pulled a great recovery on 17, where he was in a sand trap, for the par that kept him one stroke ahead.

Mitchell wound up with a par 72 for 285 in 72 holes.

Dave Lawson of Lubbock and John Paul Cain of Lubbock tied for second with 286. In a playoff, Lawson won the first extra hole with a par to Cain's bogey.

Littlejohn had a closing 72 for 287 and fourth place.

Cain had made a gallant bid for the title with a finishing 69. It was the low round of the final 18 holes.

Homers Propel Matlock To Big Spring Tourney Title

Back-to-back homers broke the back of Charley's Package Store here Saturday night, and another saluted away the championship for Matlock Furniture on Midland in the Big Spring Softball tournament final.

Springer opened the sixth for Matlock with a four-pipe knock, followed by Hedgcock's homer. In the very next frame Springer repeated behind Ezzell's double. Matlock won the game by a 5-2 count. Earlier, Charley's had capitalized on a pair of doubles to upset E. C. Smith, 2-0, to go into

Braves Nip Dodgers

The Braves and Dodgers battled evenly for two innings in a Saturday evening National League game at Cozden Park before an explosive third inning saluted the game away for the Braves. Final score: Braves 12, Dodgers 1.

Mike Gartner got credit for the victory while Ronnie Broadrick was tagged with the loss. Big guns for the Braves were Charles Lewis and Bobby Ray, who got three hits each. Rocky Woolley got two hits.

Southern Cal Is Tennis Champion

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Southern California's newly won National Collegiate Tennis championship could be in for a long sojourn at the Trojan school in Los Angeles.

Rafael Osuna of Mexico City, who spearheaded the sweep of the NCAA meet here, is a junior with a year of eligibility remaining. So is his doubles partner Ramsey Earnhart while two other top stars, Dennis Ralston and Bill Bond, are sophomores.

Osuna captured the singles title as expected here Sunday by defeating Northwestern's Marty Riesen 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. Then Osuna and Earnhart swept through the University of Miami team of Rod Mandelstam and John Karabasz 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

COOL UNDER PRESSURE

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Goalby had something else to remember today from his close traveling golf companion, Doug Ford: Don't get rattled when with Goalby's on.

Goalby had a first-hand exhibition of Ford's dogged temperament gained in 13 active years on the money circuit.

They played together in the last trip of the Eastern Open golf tournament Sunday.

Ford, who had enjoyed a six-stroke lead at the end of 36 holes, saw it melt away during the

Aussies Favored At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The 76th Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships opened today, with the Australians favored to take the singles titles and the Americans as their principal challengers.

Rod Laver, last year's winner of the men's crown, was top seed and a heavy choice to do it again.

Margaret Smith was the favorite to win the women's section, with Maria Bueno of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., rated her most dangerous rivals.

The Australians dominated the first day's program, which was devoted entirely to the first round of the men's singles. There were 25 Australians in the first round, compared with 16 Americans and 13 Britons.

An official of the All-England Club, which runs the Wimbledon tournament, said the Australian entry is the biggest of all time.

Laver, as defending champion, was traditionally scheduled to lead off the championships on the

Grand Slammer Breaks Up Tilt

The Tigers, led by Charley West and Freddie Mearns, defeated the Optimists in an abbreviated five-inning contest Saturday night, keeping their record clean.

After giving up a single to the first batter to face him, Mearns struck out 10 on his way to holding the opposition hitless for the remainder of the Teen Age League contest.

Charley West broke up the tight pitching duel between Freddie Mearns and his cousin, Gary Mearns, with a grand slam home run in the third inning. West batted in seven runs during the evening.

Tigers Defeat Odessans, 12-7

With four rookies in the lineup, the Tigers edged the Odessa All-Stars by a 12-7 count here Sunday.

Grabbing a one-run lead in the bottom of the first, the Tigers never let go. Theyiced it away in the fifth with six big runs that enabled them to coast in despite a five-run rally by the Odessans in the eighth.

Among the youngsters playing their first games for the Tigers were Sukey Flores, Tom Arista, Albert Mendoza, Joe Martinez. Between they accounted for seven of the 13 hits garnered by the Tigers.

Jimmy Cadenhead started for the Tigers and gave way to the second to Tony Douchover, who went the remainder of the distance. Douchover struck out 11 and walked four. For Odessa, Molinar, tagged for the loss, struck out 8 and walked 2.

Errors hurt the visitors for they committed five bobbles afield. The Tigers had only two errors.

J. Martinez got a pair of doubles, Flores one, and Gusman slammed a triple. For Odessa the extra base hits included a double by Benavides and a triple by Mendoza.

LOOKING EM OVER

By TOMMY HART

If ex-Big Springer Leon Fuller casts his lot with the Denver Broncos rather than the Houston Oilers — and he may — he faces fierce competition for a job.

The Broncos, who haven't set the woods afire in their two years in the American Football League, have already signed 92 players, more than any other team in the league.

Fuller could have a better chance with Houston, however. When the Oilers were having their early season troubles under Lou Rymkus last year, their defensive backfield was being blamed for a lot of their woes. Fuller, who, incidentally, is only about 23 years of age, knows defense. He learned it under a master — Bear Bryant.

Fuller reportedly is depending on Bryant to make a connection in pro ball for him.

Bill Wright is the only Negro ever to win a major U. S. golf title. He capped the 1959 Public Links championship.

When HCJC's four new tennis courts are completed, there is a possibility net enthusiasts may seek to hold a Highway 80 League tournament here.

The Webb AFB courts, as well as the ones at HCJC, would probably be available for such a meet.

The Western Open Golf tournament, scheduled this week in Chicago, has a unique arrangement in that if it finished in the black, a deserving caddy will get a year's scholarship for every additional 140 paying spectators over the needed figure.

The sponsors have totaled up $130,000 in expenses. Prize money for the meet is $50,000. The other $80,000 is "operating expenses" (about half the amount spent in operating the recent $100,000 Montclair, N. J., Open).

The Chicago tournament will derive income from three sources. Ticket sales will account for about 90 per cent of the income. Parking fees ($1 per car) also go into the kitty.

In addition, the tournament fund gets a share of the concessions money.

Labor costs for staging the meet are due to run about $33,500.

Incidentally, when the finals of the French Golf Amateur Championship meet were played recently, the gallery included about 30 people. Quite obviously, the French are interested in other things besides following linksters around.

Promoters of the San Antonio Civilian Golf tournament (for women) have yet to break even, even though they offer the relatively modest purse of $7,500, but the lady linksters have petitioned the committee for

Matrimonial Vows Are Exchanged At Chapel

MRS. THOMAS JAMES MCKNIGHT III

Miss Linda Lois Thixton became the bride of Thomas James McKnight III on Sunday afternoon at the Webb AFB Chapel. The double-ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Noel Morgan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Thixton, Big Spring. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James McKnight II, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

Covered with palm leaves, the arch at the altar was centered with a basket of white gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums flanked with baskets of palm leaves.

Nuptial music was provided by soloist, Mrs. Gorman Rainey Jr. Accompanied at the organ by Miss Patricia Caldwell, she sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer." Miss Caldwell also played the traditional wedding march.

WEDDING GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza over taffeta. The bodice of Chantilly lace was fashioned with a scalloped sweetheart neckline. The long, tapered sleeves came to points over her wrists. The voluminous skirt of silk organza over taffeta extended into a sweeping chapel train. The veil of white tulle was held in place by a headdress of flowers. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses in a shower of white streamers. As the bride approached the altar, she presented her mother a single, long-stemmed red rose.

FOR TRADITION

In keeping with tradition, the bride chose something old, her gown; something new, a diamond necklace, a gift of the bridegroom; something borrowed, a handkerchief from Mrs. Garner Thixton; something blue, a traditional wedding garter. She wore a 1961 penny in her shoe.

Miss Betty Morgan, maid of honor, wore a blue polished cotton dress. Bridesmaids, Miss Carljo Thixton, sister of the bride, and Miss Beatrice Kinsley, Sand Springs, were identically attired in dresses of blue nylon over taffeta with white accessories. Another sister, Rose Marie Thixton, served as flower girl. She wore a blue nylon dress accented with white accessories.

Serving as best man was Mike Riechle. Groomsmen were Bob Kinslo and Larry Bair. Nephew of the bride, Anthony Garner Thixton, was ring bearer.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Reid, Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Montgomery, Midland.

RECEPTION
A reception was held at Coker's Restaurant following the ceremony. The receiving line consisted of the honored couple, their parents and attendants.

The refreshment table, centered with the bridesmaids' bouquets, held a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Willie McDaniel, aunt of the bride, presided at the guest register. Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Garner Thixton, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Aaron Goolsby, aunt of the bride.

WEDDING TRIP
For a wedding trip to New York State and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a green and blue jersey suit and white accessories.

She attached the rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

A graduate of Conahoma High School, the bride was a member of the Future Homemakers of America, Archery Club and the French Club. She was active on the basketball and volleyball teams.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Sewanhaka High School, belonged to the la crosse team, weight lifting team and the Varsity Club. He is stationed at Webb AFB. The couple will make residence at 908 West 3rd, Big Spring.

RECENTLY MARRIED

Bride Honored With A Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. J. D. Adams, the former Miss Betty Hughes of Dallas, was honored Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. Monroe Gafford, 1607 Indian Hills, where she received a miscellaneous shower of gifts.

Mrs. Gafford, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Leoland Edwards were in the receiving line. Each received and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Forty five guests were registered by Mrs. H. M. Jarratt. Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Delbert Simpson, Mrs. Garland Sanders and Mrs. Lida Stroup.

Mrs. Adams' chosen colors of blue and white were used for the table motif. The floor length cloth of white organza was centered with a white, silver and blue arrangement of flowers and crystal candelabra holding white tapers. The silver and white napkins were embroidered with the names "Betty and J. D."

Alternating at the service were Mrs. Milton Barnett, Mrs. Ray Doty, Mrs. E. T. White and Mrs. Tom Buckner. Others in the house party were Mrs. Sam Brown, Mrs. Willard Smith, Mrs. M. J. Stratton and Mrs. Modene Wyatt.

MP Session At Cosden

Nine and one-half tables were in play Sunday afternoon for the Master Point duplicate session at Cosden Country Club.

North-south winners were Mrs. John Stone and Mrs. Ben McCullough, first; Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. Rogers Hefley and Mrs. Adolph Swartz and Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow, tied for second and third; and Mrs. B. B. Badger and Mrs. Anne Hardy, fourth.

Winners for east-west were Mrs. Jack Irons and Mrs. Lala Ashley, first; Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Fred Kasch, second; Mrs. Bill Emerson and Mrs. Dan Greenwood, third; Mrs. Jack Price and Mrs. J. D. Robertson, fourth.

Coleman Family Reunited Sunday

Children of Mrs. J. L. W. Coleman and their families gathered Sunday at the Coleman home in Akerley for a reunion.

Those attending, numbering 52, included Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Witt of Rising Star, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Coleman, all of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Coleman, Akerley, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Coleman, Tucumcari, N. M., Mr. and Mrs. Vern Coleman, Denver City, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Neff of Grants, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Skeet Norman of San Angelo.

It was planned to make the reunion an annual affair.

Nuptial Service Unites Miss Gale, B. D. Bennett

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock nuptial vows were repeated by Miss Pamela Gale and Bennie Dale Bennett, both of Los Angeles. Bennett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bennett, 3601 Navajo Drive.

The double ring service was read by the Rev. John W. Tabor, at the Redeemer Baptist Church, Los Angeles. A prie-dieu cushioned with white satin centered the altar where a single arrangement of white flowers was featured above the baptistry.

A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. James Mattheis who also accompanied the vocalists, Miss Judith Grover of Chicago, and Dewayne Perry. Their solos were followed by a duet, "At This Altar."

For her wedding the bride chose a white Chantilly lace gown with underlay of white taffeta. The period style of the dress featured a high neckline, long tapered sleeves and hooped skirt which extended into a chapel train. A princess crown secured her veil of illusion bordered in lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of philanopsis orchids and white roses.

Attendants to the bride, all attired in pink lace dresses, were Miss Arlene DeYoung, Los Angeles, maid of honor, and Miss Betty Ishkanian, Los Angeles, Miss Grover and Miss Anne Green, Los Angeles, bridesmaids. They carried nosegays of pink flowers.

Donald McCarty, Los Angeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McCarty, 435 Dallas, was best man. Dean Judd, Dean Tipps and Dewayne Perry, all of Los Angeles, were ushers.

RECEPTION
The church garden was where the honored couple, the bride's attendants and the bridegroom's parents received the wedding guests.

The bride's four-tiered cake, rectangular shaped, was frosted white and topped with pink wedding bells. It was placed on the refreshment table where some 300 guests were served. Silver bells were featured on the table over which large pink and white bells were suspended.

Mrs. Ray Mitchell and Miss May Heishi were those who served. Guests were registered by Miss Melba Booth.

WEDDING TRIP
The couple left afterward on a trip to San Bernardino Mountains. Returning to Los Angeles, they will make their home at 3422 Keystone Avenue.

The bride received her college education at Los Angeles State College and is now a teacher in the Los Angeles City Schools. Bennett, who finished at Baylor University, is a statistician at Douglas Aircraft Industry in space and missiles.

Coffee Notes Retirement

LAMESA (SC) - A coffee honoring Mrs. Lex Brock on her last day as librarian for the Dawson County Public Library was held Friday. More than 200 guests attended.

Clyde Branan, mayor pro tem, expressed Lamesa's appreciation to Mrs. Brock. A. J. McDaniel, president of the Library board, presented her with a silver pitcher engraved with "To Ruth for her years of service and devotion."

Mrs. Brock served as librarian here for 13 years, resigning recently to move with her family to Arkansas.

Branan proclaimed Friday as "Mrs. Lex Brock Day in Lamesa."

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Mrs. Tom McAdams, assisted by Miss Dreda Wilson, Mrs. Edie Roll and Miss Nancy Wicks, honored Miss Marilyn Joy Phillips with a coffee Saturday morning. Given at the home of Mrs. McAdams, the party featured a motif of yellow and white, colors to be used in Miss Phillips' wedding to Otis Woodall.

Spread with a yellow linen cloth, the table was appointed with silver and milk glass. Shasta daisies formed the centerpiece. Approximately 30 guests were served by Miss Wilson and Miss Roll.

The hostesses' gift to the honoree was an electric skillet.

ALCOHOLISM-1

Tragic Illness Touches Majority Of Families

EDITOR'S NOTE — Millions of Americans use alcohol safely, finding relaxing conviviality in moderate drink. But for some alcohol cannot remain a pleasure—it becomes a painful, self-destructive passion. The problem is old, but many elements in the campaign against the nation's fourth greatest health hazard are new. The challenge and the modern response are outlined in this first of a series of five articles.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

The blight of a tragic sickness touches perhaps a majority of families across this broad land. The sickness — alcoholism, the uncontrolled and seemingly uncontrollable drinking by nearly five million Americans. It robs human brains, destroys homes, marriages, careers. It is the nation's fourth greatest health problem. There is no miracle pill to ease its miseries. It is estimated one in every 15 teen-agers is likely to become an alcoholic. Were this disease caused by a bug or virus — as polio is — tremendous public interest and effort might be mobilized to halt its devastating human, social and economic losses.

ROOT
But its root is alcohol, the same alcohol that millions use safely. Doctors long have recognized alcoholism as a real sickness. The alcoholic simply cannot drink normally. He, or she, falls into the grip of alcoholic drink for complex emotional and physical reasons. Once there, he's enslaved by alcohol, unless he abandons it completely.

Unsuspected alcohol in a cough medicine triggered one middle-aged man — dry for many years — into an unwanted alcoholic binge. Another was seized by his old uncontrollable urge to drink when he breathed fumes on a warm day from alcoholic antifreeze in an automobile radiator.

Mankind has found comfort, conviviality, relief of tensions — and sometimes oblivion — in alcohol since he first learned some foodstuffs could be fermented or distilled into intoxicating beverages.

Down through history, a percentage of men, women and even youngsters have fallen victims to alcoholism.

REACTIONS
Society's historic reactions toward control have been jail, ostracism, scorn, nagging, the accusation it's all due to moral weakness. Prohibition has been tried, and missed the mark. Now there are encouraging signs of real progress.

1. Alcoholics Anonymous has helped thousands stop their drinking, completely.
2. Allied groups, Al-Anon and Alateen, are helping wives, husbands, children, and friends understand the complexities of alcoholism and to render effective help. It inevitably becomes a family problem, says Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the National Council of Alcoholism. She believes it involves a majority of families, if one includes cousins, in-laws, the "entire constellation" of a family.
3. Alcoholics now are seeking treatment at an earlier age, many in their late 20s or 30s, compared with an average age in the 40s and 50s a few years back. Earlier treatment improves chances of success.

CLINICS
4. Physicians have a few more helpful techniques of treatment, and more understanding, too. States have established 158 clinics to treat alcoholism.
5. Hidden alcoholics, especially women, are coming forward, recognizing their sickness, seeking help.

6. Industry and unions are increasingly and successfully dealing with alcoholism as a sickness, not moral degeneracy. But old attitudes still prevail in many places as represented by one paper mill president who declares, "If anyone comes to work with alcohol on his breath, he doesn't last long. If he doesn't have judgment enough not to abuse the liquor, then that is his hard luck and the quicker he's off the payroll, the better for the company."
7. National population is increasing, but the number of alcoholics per 100,000 population possibly is not increasing, says Mark Keller, editor of the authoritative Quarterly Journal for Studies of Alcohol. The total actual number of alcoholics seems to be less than would have been predicted 10 years ago according to estimates then.

NOT HOPELESS
8. And, says Dr. Ruth Fox, medical director of the National Council, "Alcoholism is not a hopeless disease, even though the alcoholic may well not succeed the first time he tries to give up drinking."

The proof is that hundreds of thousands of former alcoholics now live useful, normal, and often highly successful lives — without alcohol. Out of the 70 to 75 million Americans who drink occasionally, or even daily, 4% to 5 million have become compulsive drinkers — although an accurate count is hard to come by. The alcoholic is defined by Mrs. Mann as "anyone whose drinking causes a continuing problem in any department of life."
The public image of alcoholics concentrated on skid row is erroneous. Actually, says the council, only 3 per cent are found there among the homeless and the chronically unemployed.

Today's alcoholic may be a businessman, lawyer, government official, doctor, bus driver, factory worker, baker, housewife — anyone, including some teen-agers.

TAKES YEARS
Usually it takes years before the drinking becomes uncontrolled. A small percentage of persons leap into full-blown alcoholism after the first few drinks.

Experts say alcoholism has complex psychological, physiological and social causes. The alcoholic becomes dependent on alcohol as a way of life, even though he frequently succeeds in going on the wagon for periods of time.

Fundamentally, says Mrs. Mann, only the alcoholic can truly help himself. His first step is to recognize he's ill, that drink is a severe problem. Usually he won't do this until the damage to health, home, or job becomes obvious.

His enormously difficult decision is that he must throw away the crutch he is leaning on, the crutch which is destroying him. Life without a bottle?

BEGINNING
One helpful beginning, for himself or family, lies in the alcoholism information centers operated by many of the council's 75 local chapters. Mrs. Mann adds, "He can walk in and find neutral ground, knowing he'll just find information, not treatment. He can walk in knowing that a trap door is not about to be sprung, with a noose around his neck."

This is one of the means now by which the alcoholic and distraught family members are finding there are more and more hands stretched out to help combat the sickness.

Many Hearts Were Too Good To Quit

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
CHICAGO (AP) — Many heart attack victims actually had hearts which were "too good to die," a physician said today. Prompt, expert help might have brought 25 per cent of them back from death, said Dr. Morris Wilburne of Los Angeles.

He urged that hospitals set up special units or wings where all heart patients could be kept under constant watch with electronic devices or television instantly warning of any new attack. Then doctors and nurses could rush to the patient to give drugs, heart massage, artificial respiration, or other treatment.

Most sudden fatal heart attacks occur outside hospitals, on the street, during exertion, or during sleep. Medical evidence indicates up to 100,000 Americans might be saved each year — if quick, skilled aid happened to be at hand.

In the hospital, during convalescence from an initial heart attack, a second fatal one is an ever present threat, Dr. Wilburne and Dr. Josh Fields of Los Angeles said in a report to the American Medical Association's 111th annual meeting. If heart patients are scattered through the hospital, the first warning signs of a new attack can be missed, or aid could arrive too late, Dr. Wilburne said.

The hospital wing or coronary care unit, should include private, semi-private and ward patients recovering from heart attacks, so nurses could keep closer watch, he said.

The sickest patients could be wired up, without discomfort, to electronic devices keeping tabs on electrical activity of the heart, pulse, blood pressure and other measurements of their condition. All this information could be relayed to a central station where nurses watching electronic equipment would receive instant warning of any ominous change, or of a sudden new attack. Then doctors and nurses and a cart equipped with all modern aids to revive a stalled or failing heart could swing into fast action. The modern aids include closed-chest massage — rhythmic pressure on the chest to make the heart pump blood — electronic devices to shock a heart into action or maintain steady beating or control wild electrical activity.

Singer Takes Overdose Of Pills

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police hope to question today a night club singer and dancer who they said took an overdose of sleeping pills allegedly as the result of threats received after she testified before the Senate Investigations subcommittee about B-girls.

Detective Walter Ryan reported today that the singer, Pat Kobalski, 34, known professionally as Pat Lynne, was unconscious and in critical condition at Graduate Hospital. An operation was performed Sunday night to open her throat so she could breathe easier.

Ryan said Miss Lynne was rushed to the hospital about 7 a.m. Sunday from the residence of a friend, Paul W. Hackett, 33.

When Miss Lynne testified before the subcommittee on June 12 her name was listed as Mrs. Pat Lynne Hackett.

Detective Stanley Greenfield quoted Hackett as saying that Miss Lynne told him that last Saturday two strange men approached her car in a downtown parking lot and ordered her out of the car. She locked the doors and drove off.

Later in the day, according to Hackett, Miss Lynne asked him to check her car because there was a tape recorder in it and the doors had been left unlocked. Hackett said it was reported to police that the tape recorder and a quantity of clothing were stolen from the car.

Greenfield quoted Hackett as

Mexican Girl, 11, Becomes A Mother

SAN LUIS, Sonora, Mex. (AP) — An 11-year-old Mexican girl gave birth last week to a 7-pound boy.

Dr. Ernesto Rendon-Alduenda, the attending physician, said delivery was routine and both mother and son are healthy.

Dr. Rendon-Alduenda said the baby was born June 19 in San Luis Community Hospital. The physician said the mother is unmarried.

San Luis is a border town, about 20 miles southwest of Yuma, Ariz.

A Devotional For The Day

I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. (Matthew 16:18.)
PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for the church and for all it has meant down through the years. Help us to recognize Christ as Thy Son and to be true to our faith in Him as our Savior. Thus use us to strengthen His church and help Thee to fulfill the promise that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. In our Redeemer's name we ask this. Amen.

Warfare No Longer 'Civilized'

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, with President Kennedy's approval, has raised the prospect of a U.S. - Soviet agreement to limit the use of nuclear weapons to military targets in the event of war. Addressing a University of Michigan commencement audience, McNamara invited the Soviet Union to consider the possibility of negotiating a new code of war for the atomic age, directed to "destruction of the enemy's forces, not of his civilian population."

This proposal will certainly appeal to those who seek relief from the tensions of the cold war. It offers the prospect that nuclear war can be bearable rather than catastrophic. But the concept can hardly rest on anything more substantial than hope, with perhaps a trace of faith, judging by the record of the past.

The simple fact is that warfare cannot be compartmented conveniently into engagements between armed forces, while the civilian populations are unscathed. For war is total. Armed forces are utterly dependent for the sinews of war on the civil population, save in the briefest of wars.

Can anyone believe for a moment that a president would be able to resist the pressure of Congress and the people to wipe out the civilian as well as the military enemy if this country were about to be defeated in a war? Is there any reason to believe that those in power in the Kremlin would not react in the same fashion?

If there is an acceptable alternative to peace in the nuclear age it is a conventional war in which neither side resorts to nuclear weapons. For there is no real hope that a limited nuclear war can be limited. Larger and more destructive bombs would be brought to bear as the level of hostilities rose. Limited bombing of civilian lines of communication to armies would be followed almost inevitably by all-out attacks on populations. The two contending societies would almost certainly be destroyed in the process.

Since Hiroshima and Nagasaki warfare can no longer be civilized. There is now no alternative to peace, as President Eisenhower said when the Russians exploded their first hydrogen device in 1954.

How It Got There

One of the least inspiring of recent congressional exercises has been the debate in the House over raising the national debt limit to $308 billion. Republicans fought doggedly to raise the ceiling to only $306 billion, but were narrowly defeated.

Perhaps only a Lewis Carroll would appreciate the delicious and delicate irony of this situation. It is as if Congress wound up for a haymaker and hit squarely in the eye.

The question deserves an answer: Just where do all the goodies of the federal government come from? Congress, naturally. It is the keeper of the fiscal faucet. It can give and it can take away. It is the bell, the clapper and the cord.

The whole exercise resembled a head-long flight from reality. Not one of the disputants abandoned his ridiculous toga for a moment to ask whose fault it was that the national debt is as high as it is and needs to go higher. This, alas, would have brought everyone out of the clouds and down to earth. Then some representative might have been uncut enough to suggest that the sum total of federal indebtedness is the sum total of federal expenditures authorized by Congress.

Khrushchev Doesn't Want War

WASHINGTON — Nikita Khrushchev, politician, is constantly running for office. Even in an autocracy this happens, because a dictator lives in constant fear of a revolution that could overthrow him. Stalin once said to Harry Hopkins, a special American envoy to Moscow: "Remember that we, too, have to keep in mind our public opinion."

MR. KRUSHCHEV'S words in every public speech he makes are today more significant than any of the diplomatic notes or artificially contrived issues or propaganda blasts that come daily over the radio from behind the Iron Curtain. His informal talks give an insight into his reasoning, his reactions, his fears and his motives. They are unencensored.

In a trip to Rumania last week, the Soviet Premier announced that the Soviet Union sees no reason to go to war with the West over Berlin. This has been becoming obvious lately, but Mr. Khrushchev now makes it official. He declares flatly, too, that Russia has no intention of muddying the waters by means of a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany. His words were these:

"WE ARE NOT setting any deadlines for signing the treaty with the German democratic republic. If the time is right, however, we shall solve the problem. We want an understanding with the Americans over the German question and to settle the West Berlin problem in order to end the occupation regime in this city and turn it into a free town."

This has been stated in broad terms before, but it is significant that it is repeated now as Mr. Khrushchev makes a tour of the Communist bloc countries and tries to reassure nervous peoples in those areas that war is not in prospect.

Everything the Soviet Premier says on a speaking trip is reproduced in full in all the newspapers inside the Soviet Union. Here is a passage that shows the Premier is on the defensive and that he is doing everything he can to place on the West the blame for the economic plight of his own people. He says:

"WE NOW HAVE the problem of meat prices in the Soviet Union. We bought meat from the collective farms for less than it actually cost them to produce. We had to give the farmers more for their meat, but from where should we have got the money? From the armaments? Would it have been responsible to take the money from our army? We talked to the workers and they agreed that we should increase the price of meat.

"We could not take the money from the army because we want to prevent U. S. bombs falling on our heads. American and German generals tell us that they are so strong now that they can destroy our country."

THIS IS REALLY an alibi for the economic distress inside the Soviet Union. It is a convenient excuse that the Soviet Premier uses in order to justify the policies of his regime and his failure to use public funds to alleviate the lot of the Soviet citizen. So it's important for Mr. Khrushchev to give the impression that the United States is an aggressor. Here's another abstract from the latest Khrushchev speech which illustrates that point:

"President Kennedy once remarked it could be possible that the United States has to take the initiative and start a war. . . . The imperialists prepare a war against us. If the imperialists would attack us, it would result in a suicide. I can assure you that in such a case not one stone would remain on the other. The time has passed where the United States participated in a war only with their capital. In the last war, they lost 400,000 people. We lost 20,000,000. War now would be restricted to Europe and we would not have to send our troops to the United States. We could send our rockets. . . . However, we do not want war with the United States and to drop our bombs over America."

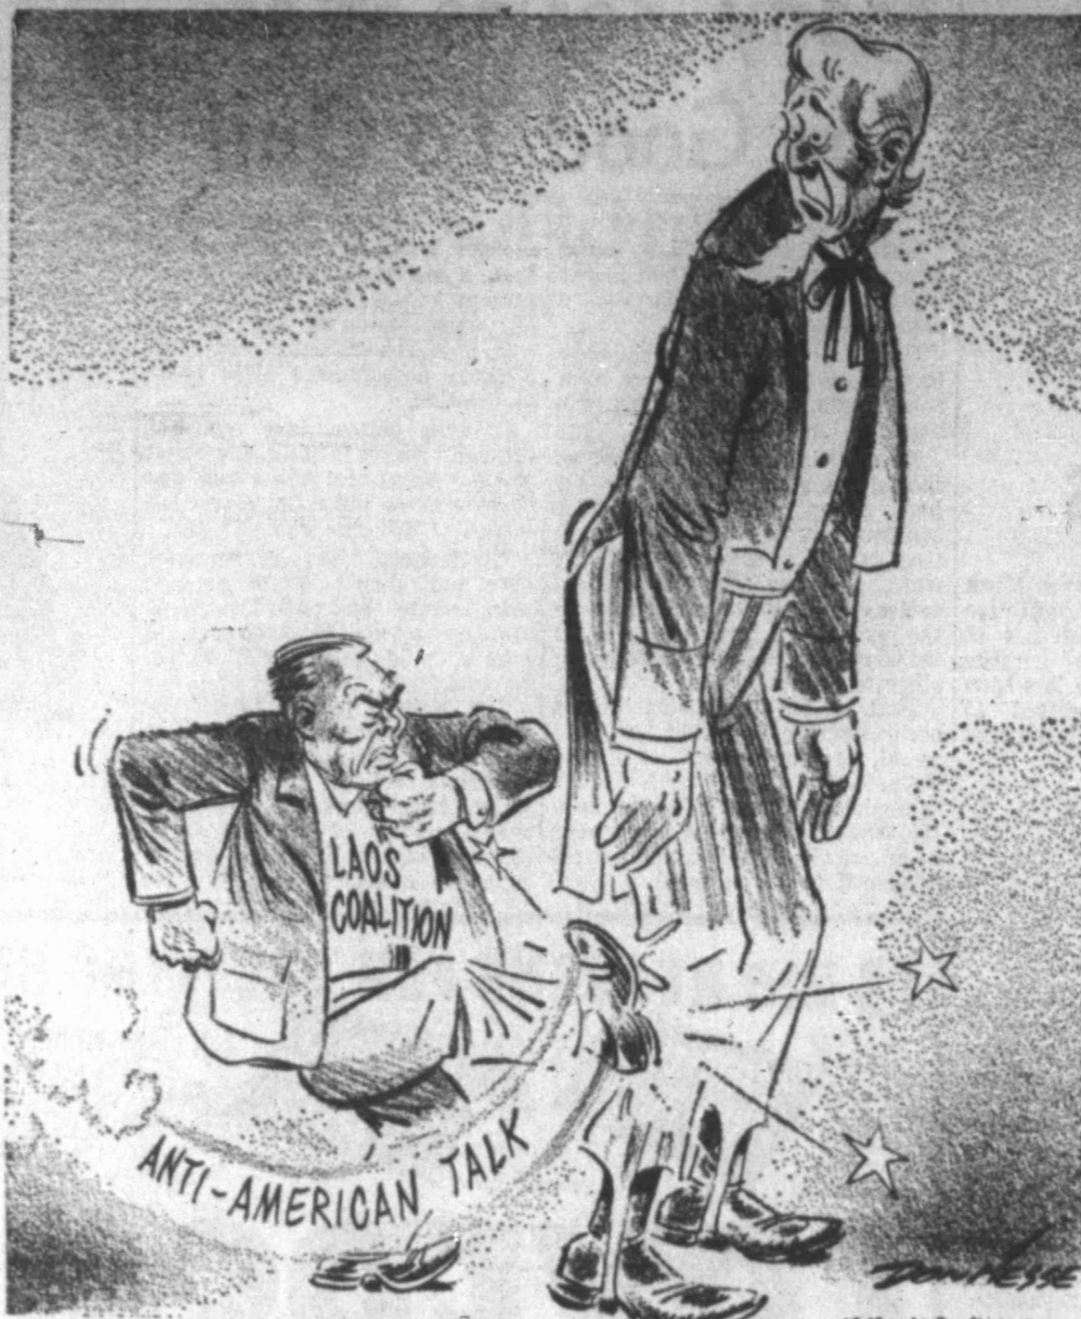

THE FOREGOING is one of the most revealing passages of the international debate. It shows that the Soviet Premier knows a nuclear war means mutual suicide and that he is not hesitating to say so. It shows also that he wants his own people to believe that the United States has aggressive instead of defensive intentions. The Communist regime is thus trying desperately to justify the low standard of living inside the Soviet Union.

NOW, PRESIDENT Kennedy has never made any such statement as Mr. Khrushchev attributes to him. He never said that America would start a war but only that nuclear weapons might have to be used to defend Europe if attacked by conventional forces. The misquotation itself points up how the Soviet Premier makes use of every bit of verbal ammunition he can gather by twisting out of context any and all statements from America. Even this isn't half as important as the purpose behind such tactics. It is clear that the Soviet Premier is on the defensive with his own people. He fears them. He seeks to reassure them. He doesn't know at what moment they may rise up to challenge him and demand a better way of life.

Certainly all this confirms the growing impression that a "balance of power" has arrived in the world, and that, unless Red China goes berserk, war is farther away than it was just a few months ago when the American people were talking about "bomb shelters" and American reservists were being called to active duty.

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The luncheon speaker was telling the Manatee County Health Council about some of the newest health products.

For example, he said, there is a new toothpaste that contains food particles. It's for people too busy to eat between brushings.

Careful Of Exercise

WASHINGTON (AP) — What price liberty?

"Eternal vigilance" is the classic answer.

But there are other answers, and one of the most important may be this: If you expect to preserve your freedom of action, be careful how you exercise it. Be statesmanlike about it; don't rock the boat.

The flight engineers strike against Eastern Air Lines may be a case in point. Nobody thus far has denied that the engineers had a right to strike Eastern, though a federal judge did restrain them at least temporarily from striking Pan American.

The procedures provided by law had all been run through during two years of negotiations. The flight engineers felt perfectly free to strike.

DUBIOUS TIME

But what a dubious time to take what President Kennedy denounced as irresponsible action!

Kennedy's crackdown on U.S. Steel and other steel companies, after which they rescinded a price increase, was still reverberating. Angry businessmen, and many others, were watching to see what Kennedy would do if and when a labor union stuck its neck out. Would he hold the scales of justice evenly? Would he be as rough with labor as with management?

Then the engineers, by exercising their right to strike, tended to put Kennedy on a hot spot; and this is a risky thing to do to a man as powerful as a president of the United States.

Regardless of the merits of labor-management disputes, if rights are insisted upon to the hilt, those rights may suffer erosion.

Take freedom of speech, for illustration. The First Amendment says Congress shall make no law "abridging the freedom of speech." This is a seemingly flat prohibition, with no ifs, ands, or buts. And Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black happens to be one man who thinks it means what it says, period.

EVERYBODY TELLS

He has said it means the government "shall let everybody talk in this country."

But Black is in a minority. Down the years the Supreme Court has sanctioned limitations on the right to talk. For example, speech considered irresponsible or dangerous has led to laws against advocating the overthrow of the government by violence.

The doctrine is that freedom of speech may be limited if the general good demands. Nobody, according to a famous aphorism, has the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theater. Even Black would approve the arrest of such a person, though he thinks the charge should be disorderly conduct—the police should cart the man away "not because of what he hollered but because he hollered."

No one would argue, of course, that a comparatively minor strike such as the flight engineers' carries anything like the menace of hollering fire in a theater. But in a complex industrial society the right to strike and the right to raise prices may hurt a lot of innocent bystanders.

NEW LAWS

It could be that one day—if labor and management are injudicious enough—Congress might see fit to pass new laws designed to protect the bystanders.

As for Kennedy, it is difficult to see how he can win if the flight engineers' strike is prolonged. If he went to Congress for new legislation to end it, he would be accused of curtailing American freedoms; if he let the engineers get away with it, he would be charged with favoritism to labor.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 4-year-old daughter had a cold and cough. Then her nose stopped running but the cough persisted. What could this mean? — MRS. N. H.

Chronic sinus infection is quite common in children. The drainage can go into the throat; it isn't noticeable, yet it irritates. Allergic bronchitis is another possibility. X-ray of chest and sinuses would be justified.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of the leaflet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Emphysema Sufferers Must Not Smoke

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Doctor: A man in my congregation is suffering from emphysema, which apparently is akin to asthma. He has been told by doctors that there is nothing they can do for him.

Is there any treatment or medication that might help him? — REV. A. R.

Emphysema is one of those diseases which is becoming more common as, on the average, we all grow older. The increase in average life expectancy is making distinct changes in the practice of medicine, and by the same token it means that all of us, patients as well as doctors, must keep up with newer problems even as we learn to forget about some of the older scourges that have been solved.

Emphysema is not exactly akin to asthma. However, a sufferer of either one has difficulty getting enough breath. The cause is totally different. With asthma, the breathing passages are constricted, so not enough air can get through.

With emphysema, the air passages are clear, but the lungs themselves have lost their elasticity. They should contract so that all (well, much) of the old air is expelled with each exhalation, so fresh air comes in to replace it.

But when the lungs do NOT contract enough to expel enough old air, there isn't room for enough fresh air to come in. That's emphysema.

In a sense it is unfortunately true that we cannot restore the lost contracting power of lung tissues that have become stretched. We cannot "cure" this. But we can do a certain few things to help the patient be more comfortable and happy.

First, if he smokes, he should quit, completely. If, on any given breath, he inhales smoke instead of air, he is depriving himself of the oxygen he needs.

Second, in nearly all cases, the patient can, if he understands the simple facts of his trouble, learn to breathe a little differently. He should learn to use the upper as well as lower part of his lungs—expand his chest a bit differently, to use, instead of just part, of his lung capacity.

Third, he must learn not to use his breathing capacity wastefully. Needless exertion wastes the oxygen he can breathe.

Fourth, many patients keep in their homes or their offices (and I know at least one traveling man who takes an outfit along with him to whatever city he visits) a small, portable oxygen tank. When things are especially difficult, a few whiffs of pure oxygen make up for the paucity of fresh oxygen reaching the lungs. This can be achieved also by a "positive pressure" breathing apparatus which forces air and oxygen into the lung spaces.

Around The Rim

Traveling Is Too Expensive

The Washington crowd which has been trying to promote travel through this country by people in other lands might as well give up.

Any extensive trip taken by the average American family costs entirely too much, even though some agencies entice trade by offering trip through easy payment plans.

IF THE TAB is too steep for the average American wage-earner, and not everyone feels inclined to wear out their welcome with kind-hearted relatives every year, then think how the cost would impress the average Briton or Frenchman.

There's never been much evidence that the average Frenchman likes to leave his native land, anyway. If he does, he is much more apt to take a holiday in England or zip up the Swiss Alps in August and then only to escape the hordes of Americans who descend upon his beloved Paris and environs.

THE BRITON, with no language barrier to hurdle, would probably like to tour the United States. Unless he has vast amounts of money stashed away over here, would find himself on short rations in a hurry were he to come to these shores, however.

The U. S. government is issuing full-page advertisements in British newspapers, trying to get the citizens there interested in our country. It is throwing away good money, not that it hasn't done it before or won't do it again.

THE ADVERTISEMENTS stress the cheapness of the price of American gasoline, when compared to that used by the British. That is true, in a sense, but what the ads don't say is that the American gallon is approximately four-fifths as big as the British gallon.

And the Englishman who has been used to the small gasoline consumption of his cars might be shocked senseless by the manner in which some American autos drink the stuff.

Some English columnists figure that the average cost to a Britisher and his wife for a week in New York alone, including the cost of getting there and back, would run $1,830 or more.

THE AVERAGE American would have to save quite a few years to accumulate that kind of money. The average Englishman might find it utterly out of the question.

The truth is that the ordinary Englishman will never be able to look to this land for a vacation until the dollar-sterling rate is altered or a special tourist exchange is introduced—and that time isn't likely to come in the foreseeable future.

You're Nothing Till You've Been Dunked

What a fool's paradise I have been living in, and so happily, too, since the first week in June.

That's the week I spent in Washington, D. C., flitting from gala party to gala party, certain that at last I was in Society—and note that capital, or capitol, "S," if you please.

HOW PROUD the home folks out in Idaho would be, I felt, to know that at one dinner party I sat between the Chief of Protocol, Angier Biddle Duke, and Gen. Omar Bradley! And at the next dinner that Postmaster General J. Edward Day was on my right and Lieut. Gen. Bernard A. Spriever, head of the Air Force Systems command, was on the other side.

And that at still a third dinner I sat so close to Vice President Lyndon Johnson I could have touched him. Well, almost. And that at still another dinner party, Sen. Stuart Symington stly introduced me as the "only thing that stands between the Democrat party and the Birch Society."

SO YOU CAN'T blame me for thinking that socially, I was BIG on the New Frontier. Although, as I look back, I realize that the only time my name got in the Washington papers it was not in the society columns but in the news section when I spoke at the annual convocation of the American Booksellers Association.

Still, in retrospect, that Washington visit seemed terribly glamorous and socially successful until I picked up the papers a few days ago and realized what a complete social flop I am. In that week in Washington I was neither pushed nor did I fall into a swimming pool!

Right next to Mrs. Kennedy's picture is one of Arthur Schlesinger Jr., special assistant to the President, who was pushed into the pool at the same party, as was another guest, Mrs. Spencer Davis. Fortunately, Schlesinger could wear the Attorney General's clothes and Mrs. Davis those of her hostess, so both just retreated and re-entered into the spirit of the occasion.

THIS PARTICULAR front-page story also tells of other Vips who have fallen or been pushed into the Robert Kennedy pool and it reads like the Blue Book. Why, Pierre Salinger, the White House press secretary, was not only pushed into the pool but came up with his cigar still aglow! I can see that I am going to have to learn to swim, and under water, too, if I expect to get any place in capital society.

You might think water wings and drip-dry clothing would be le dernier cri with the upper echelon on the New Frontier, mightn't you? Well, you couldn't be wrong. By phone from Washington a member of the set assured me that either would get one barred from any smart pool in the capital.

"NO BELLE can expect to fall or be pushed into a pool unless she is wearing at least a Givenchy," my informant said. "And she must never scream, especially for help, even if she is going down for the third time."

"A girl is expected to surface with savoir faire, laughing fit to kill, as if a ruined dress, slippers and permanent were nothing, absolutely nothing. And if you are going to do the swimming-pool bit, pick a hostess your own size and, if possible, one with a better wardrobe (it's possible!) so you will look divine after you change into her second-best dress."

"BUT I DON'T think I'd get my picture on the front pages even if I fell into a swimming pool," I mourned.

"You're absolutely right, dear," said my friend, "but, remember, only recently it was President Kennedy himself who said, 'Life is unfair.'"

Our Best Allies

WASHINGTON—Joseph Conrad's "Lord Jim," a responsible ship's officer, jumped what he thought was a sinking ship that was overloaded with religious pilgrims in the South Seas—and spent the rest of his life trying to square himself with life.

While Jim's desertion isn't exactly what American policy, 1944-42, has done to populations trapped behind the Iron Curtain of Communist imperialism, it's similar enough to be uncomfortable. Besides, the practical side of it is that the imprisoned peoples in Poland, Hungary, some of the Balkan States, Cuba, East Berlin, North Korea, North Vietnam and China are about the best allies we've got.

OUR FORMER ALLIES in NATO are rich now and don't care much for us any longer. South Korea is wearied of the long if friendly occupation, and shows it with once-a-year upheavals. The Philippine Republic is restive and dislikes the Troika plan to which we've consented in Laos. Our SEATO allies, as Sen. Mansfield, of the Foreign Relations Committee, recently pointed out, will hardly lift a finger for us in Southeast Asia. About the only people we can be sure of in a war with the Sino-Soviet bloc are those on the inside, looking out.

THIS COLUMN is no place to lay down an American policy, but it's as good a place as any to wonder what our policy is—and ought to be—toward captive peoples. President Chiari of Panama was in town the other day and gave us something to think about in this area of responsibility. Chiari came to Washington to see if he could raise some revenue and also to see if the Kennedy administration would let him raise more Panamanian flags along the Canal. But he didn't talk like a suppliant. In a speech before the Organization of American States, he spoke like a philosopher, saying with regard to Communist Cuba that:

"... THIS NEW formula (of hands-off) would seem to be leading, and we have already seen examples of this, toward an almost complete indifference to the fate of brother peoples who, within their own boundaries, are deprived by force of all chance of self-determination, and for whom the principle of non-intervention, carried to its most extreme interpretation, becomes a universal condemnation to live forever subject to the oppression that incurably afflicts it."

It is an ageless subject, and has no easy resolution. But history and religion have dealt harshly with men who have shrugged off their responsibilities. In the trial of Christ, Governor Pontius Pilate "washed his hands" of the case. In the Good Samaritan parable, two others "passed by on the other side." More recently, the U-2 Pilot Francis Gary Powers said he could not find the "destruct" button to demolish his stricken plane in flight, and did not use the suicide needle on himself.

PERHAPS WE HAVE no right to pass armchair judgment on others like Lord Jim and Powers, who were under stressful conditions. But we ought to have a national policy that is commensurate with our size, our strength and our pretensions. I am one who believes that the American stake in world affairs must always come first in the mind and actions of American officials, but sometimes—perhaps very often—this stake encompasses doing something better for the imprisoned peoples.

American interests as well as humanitarian interests would have been served if President Kennedy had done more of what General Clay wanted him to do in East Berlin. America is on the side of the angels when we help the Nationalist Chinese to hold on to Quemoy-Matsu. We will be doing the right thing whenever, as President Chiari was suggesting, we strike a blow for the "self-determination" of those "brother peoples" in captivity.

How Do Mosquitoes Age?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Calvin A. Lang of the University of Louisville hopes to use mosquitoes to find out why men grow old.

Lang is doing basic research into the biochemistry of growth and aging, with one goal being to determine why one person is burned out at 35 and another is spry and active at 80.

Why mosquitoes? Although they live only about 30 days, they have precise and sharply divided periods of development. They grow rapidly, age rapidly and have nutritional requirements similar to humans.

DEAR ABBY

Delay The Bad News

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter-in-law is living with us while our son is overseas. She has been running around with every Tom, Dick and Harry. We have tried everything to get her to act like a respectable married woman, but we can't reach her. Her own parents live in another state and know nothing of this. Our son will be home in three months. Do you think we ought to write and tell him she has been running around?

He'll find out when he gets home and we might as well prepare him for the shock.
BROKENHEARTED PARENTS
DEAR ABBY: Don't write your son news of this kind when he is thousands of miles away and can do nothing about it but worry. There is no "preparation" possible for a shock like this. It will keep.

Funeral Today For Prominent Oilman

DALLAS (AP) — The funeral service for E. I. (Tommy) Thompson, 71, prominent Texas oilman who died Friday, was held today. A graduate of Princeton University, Thompson came to Texas in 1921 and entered the oil business at Mexia.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has all day to read the paper, but she waits until I get in bed before doing it. The light bothers me, and the rustling of the paper drives me out of my mind. We've been married for almost 20 years and I think that's long enough to be a good sport. Any advice?

DEAR HAROLD: Have you ever told HER? Give her a little heat and perhaps you'll get less light.

DEAR ABBY: I have a skin ailment. Unfortunately it is on my face and neck where everyone can see it. Sometimes it is very conspicuous and other times it is not. My problem is that every time I run into friends they say, "You MUST try my doctor!" I am satisfied with my own doctor and don't want to try anyone else's. I take the names of their doctors just to be polite, but have no intentions of seeing them. Many of my friends have phoned to ask me if I've gone to their doctors yet. Some have had the nerve to make an appointment for me! How can I shut them up?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: Why appear interested in "trying" another doctor when you are satisfied with your own? If you feel that progress is being made in caring or controlling your rash, say so. Otherwise, perhaps it IS time for a change.

DEAR ABBY: Tell the woman who complained because her husband snored not to gripe. At least she knows where he is at night.

NOT SO LUCKY
How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Big Spring Herald.

Hospital Quits Segregation Policy

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke Hospital has eliminated its policy of racial segregation for private rooms. The hospital announced Saturday that "private patients of all races, creeds and origins may now be admitted to private rooms at the hospital."
Duke University opened its graduate schools to all races 15 months ago, and earlier this month opened the undergraduate school to Negroes.

More Money Turns Up As Cache Is Counted

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP) — A suitcase of new one dollar bills belonging to Clarence C. Braden turned up today as counting continued of the truck load of coins found in the late college professor's clothes closet.

The coins, in cigar and shoe boxes, were found after the 57-year-old bachelor died last Thursday. The boxes were stacked in the closet of Braden's rented room.

A truck had to be used to haul the coins to the First National Bank of Jefferson where the tedious job of assorting the coins, from pennies to silver dollars, was completed yesterday.

A coin counter was borrowed today from the First National Bank of Marshall to tabulate the amount, estimated from $40,000 to $150,000.

Officers said the latest cache of dollar bills was found in the "Old Moseley" home, owned by relatives of Braden. They had no comment on the latest find and there is still no explanation as to why Braden hoarded the money. Associates were sure he was anything but a miser.

He traveled widely, owned property and helped persons in need. As a private project, he paid for the schooling of deserving boys and girls.

There was no indication Braden left a will. Aside from Moseley, the only survivors are half a dozen other cousins.

Braden was a professor of civil engineering for a number of years at Texas A&M College and Southern Methodist University. Since he retired and made his home here in East Texas, he had served as mayor of Jefferson and was active in politics.

There are six days to go, and the weather man does not predict extremely hot weather for the remainder of this June.

County Agent Herb Hilbig said the weather has not been too severe on young cotton in the north part of the county but that more rain was imperative in the south part to get any sort of crop.

Most of the farmers have cotton in the ground and that planted immediately after rains has a good

IT HIT 103 DEGREES

Faint Norther Aids Area After Sunday's Scorch

A small norther with some dust blew into Big Spring about 1 a.m. Monday, cooling off the lemonade-drinking weather. Sunday's 103 degrees was the hottest temperature registered for 1962.

Three days of 100 degrees or more have been registered for June — June 17, 101, June 21, 100, and 103 Sunday.

The highest temperature recorded since 1900, through June 24, was 114 on June 11, 1917. But the highest ever recorded in Big Spring, for any month, was 117 on June 30, 1907.

Start. Some grain is in the ground and up, but the season is not late on sorghums, Hilbig said.

"To make an ideal situation we must have some more moisture soon in all parts. Cotton is not getting off as well as it should but so far has not been 'cooked,'" he said.

Big Spring front and back yard farmers have turned on their irrigation systems during the past week to hold what start was given by rains earlier in the month.

For the seven days ending Sunday 63,402,000 gallons of water had been metered, as compared to 42,853,000 for the preceding seven days.

Daily usage for the seven days showed: Monday 9,083,000, Tuesday 8,942,000, Wednesday 9,802,000, Thursday 9,276,000, Friday 9,262,000, Saturday 9,390,000, Sunday, 8,547,000.

Marrying Squire Dies Sunday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dawson Martin Yerkes, "the marrying squire of Milbourne," who claimed to have married more couples than any single public official, died Sunday.

Yerkes, 80, a justice of the peace in suburban Milbourne since 1913, claimed he married 36,000 couples during his tenure. He also claimed the record for marriages in a day, 44; marriages in a week, 69, and marriages in a year, 1,948.

Grand Jury Is Selected

Howard County grand jury, made up of 11 men and one woman, began consideration of 22 felony matters at 9:30 a.m. today. Gil Jones, district attorney, said if nothing unexpected arises, the grand jurors should be through with their work by noon Tuesday.

Judge Ralph Caton qualified the grand jurors and named Elmer L. Powell as foreman.

The members of the jury are: Ralph Gossett, J. D. Gilmore, Lloyd Robinson, Bobby S. Wash, Mrs. John Hodges, Noel Hull, E. P. Driver, O. A. Walker, Hezlie N. Reed, Jasper Atkins and J. T. Swinney.

One murder case, several assault with intent to commit murder complaints and one statutory rape charge on the agenda the grand jury is to consider.

Judge Denies Trial Motion Regarding Impact

ABILENE (AP) — Dist. Judge J. R. Black denied a state motion for a new trial today in connection with the quo warranto trial of the adjoining town of Impact. The state filed notice of appeal at once.

The legal battle is a test of the right of the 47-acre town to incorporate. The population of Impact is about 100.

The community, on the northwest edge of Abilene, has been the scene of several battles over applications for beer retailers' off-premises and package store licenses. Taylor County is dry, but Impact voted wet.

The quo warranto is the state's legal step to halt efforts to develop the liquor business at Impact. Liquor Control Board Director Coke Stevenson Jr. in Austin has said he would withhold any approval of a liquor store application pending the outcome of the quo warranto action.

Gene Kerby's Baby Daughter Dies

Funeral arrangements are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home for Johanna Kerby, 19-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene E. Kerby, Sand Springs. The baby died this morning in a local hospital. She was born Nov. 13, 1960 in Big Spring.

Survivors include her parents; two sisters, Debbie and Sue Kerby; and Sally Kay Kerby, both of the home; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kerby, Sand Springs; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Harrison, Breckenridge.

Tax Board Meet

The board of equalization for the City of Big Spring and the Big Spring Independent School District will sit at the Howard County Courthouse Wednesday and Thursday, June 27-28, beginning at 9 a.m. each day.

Members of the board are R. E. Collier, Lawrence Robinson and J. D. Elliott.

Claims World Skating Record

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Pat Tomasi, 28, roller skated 20.7 miles in one hour at an indoor rink Sunday night and claimed a world record.

The previous claimant of the record for the distance was another Briton, Les Woodley, 26.

Sunday TV Screens Were A Busy Place

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Television was a busy place Sunday night. In rapid succession, Ed Sullivan celebrated the 14th anniversary of his show; "TV Guide," a magazine, awarded silver bowls to winners of its popularity poll and mixed in some entertainment for good measure, and "Show of the Week" tried to update an old, old George M. Cohan farce.

As anniversaries go, 14 is an unusual one for plaque giving and hat throwing. Five, 10 or 15 are normal milestones. But 14 served as Sullivan's excuse for an all-star blowout on CBS.

Steve Allen opened the proceedings and before the hour was over Bing Crosby and Kate Smith raised their voices—separately—in song. Jack Benny and Phil Silvers did a comedy sketch together. Lucille Ball rode an elephant. Johnny Carson tried some topical gags. And, of course, almost everybody did imitations of Sullivan—a specialty of the program with which I, for one, am now thoroughly bored.

READERS TO VOTE
"TV Guide" annually invites its readers to vote for their favorites and presents a special program to award the winners. The fans—"hundreds of thousands," the magazine publishers said—voted "Bonanza" their favorite series; "Ben Casey" their favorite new series, and Bob Hope's Christmas Show, best musical variety program.

Vince Edwards, Carol Burnett and Huntley-Brinkley also were picked as favorites in other categories. NBC, which aired the special, received five out of eight awards.

There also were a number of skits, all kidding television—its commercials, its theme songs, its viewers—by Art Carney and Judy Holliday. Both are talented performers, but they certainly could have used some better material. Carney, particularly, was unhelpfully involved in a very long and very unfunny imitation of Jack Paar. Dave Garroway popped in and out of the program with lines sounding as if they had been written for Jack Carter of Hugh Downs. Anyway, for somebody else. They were not his style at all.

And then, alas, came poor old "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which has been around for a long time and should have been left to rest in peace. It was a minor disaster.

It's the one about the writer who goes to the snowbound and deserted summer resort to write a play and win a bet. It was a melodramatic farce when written many years ago, but it was just sort of pathetic Sunday night.

Soldier Denies Red Claims He Denounced U.S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. soldier has denied Communist claims he denounced the United States while a prisoner of Viet Cong guerrillas. He charged the Reds tried to brainwash him at gunpoint.

Spec. 4 George F. Fryett Jr. of California, released Sunday after six months captivity, told U.S. officials he did not cooperate with the Communists despite their attempts to indoctrinate him politically.

The Viet Cong in a recent broadcast claimed Fryett, 26, had told them he learned he was "an accomplice of the criminal maneuvers of U.S. imperialism and the Diem administration of South Viet Nam."

The broadcast quoted Fryett as saying: "The only thing I can say is that I am very sorry for having played a role in the forces that are being exploited in South Viet Nam. The truth has been concealed from the American public. This situation should not be allowed to continue."

Fryett told officials here that, other than gun threats during some of the brainwashing sessions, his captors did not mistreat him.

He said he had been under heavy guard all during his captivity and was bound most of the time. He said he had made one unsuccessful escape try.

Entertainers' Union Boss Opposed To Investigations

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Bright took out another cigarette. As usual he didn't light it. He leaned forward at the desk in his new gold-carpeted office, and made a short stabbing gesture in the air.

"They've got to have a scapegoat. And AGVA is it." That was his appraisal today of a Senate subcommittee's B-girl and night club investigation, which has produced complaints against the American Guild of Variety Artists, AFL-CIO, and its administrative secretary, Bright.

"Just look who's calling the kettle black," he declared hotly, "prostitutes, B-girls and discharged, disgruntled employes." He slapped a hand on the desk, and stroked about the room, fingering the unlit cigarette.

DOESN'T SMOKE
Bright uses three packs a day, always the same brand, discarding each cigarette after it becomes soggy from lips of fingers, but without ever lighting them. He quit smoking two years ago, but still needs them in his hands.

"It's a crutch," he said. It may also be a bit of the showmanship in Bright. He has been at the trade since childhood, on or offstage. Even now when he takes in another's act, the applause thrills him, or a cold reception hurts.

He is equally pained, or more so, by the brickbats hurled at the Senate probe hearing, including claims he once took $2,000 for transferring a former branch manager, Clayton Hart, to Florida and also $200 in union campaign contributions.

"Lies," he exclaimed. "I've never accepted any man for five cents." He pointed a thumb at himself. "I'm not a vindictive man. I think I've always been a true personification of turning the other cheek. But I'm not turning the other cheek now."

Bright is expected to have his day before Senate probers this week. "My main regret is AGVA and my family are being dragged through this muck and mire." He is married and has three sons.

ENTERTAINER
A trim, 43-year-old man, with intense dark eyes and sharply handsome features, Bright was for 25 years on the entertainment circuit, as singer, dancer, comedian and mimic, before becoming operating head of AGVA in 1955.

"I say with pardonable pride that I was probably the best mimic in show business," he said. He pulled out a sheaf of clippings and program billings.

After a World War II stint in the Navy, Bright appeared in night clubs, resort hotels, on radio and television, often with star billing. For a time, in the late 1940s, he had his own television show on the National Broadcasting Company, called "Try and Do It."

"It was the first audience participation show," he said. As executive head of AGVA he runs a continent-wide organization representing 13,500 dancers, comedians, magicians, chorus girls and other night club, movie house and hotel entertainers.

"He's the best administrator we ever had," says his assistant, Dolores Rosaler, an AGVA official for 18 years. "He pushes. He drives everybody. He doesn't know how to stop when a member needs something."

Harold F. Burg, an AGVA attorney, said the union's finances included $27,000 cash and $105,000 in debts when Bright took over, and now stand at about $500,000 in cash assets, and no debts.

COMPETENT
"He's a competent man," Burg said.

Bright gets $31,200 a year in salary and expenses.

In his trouble with the Senate investigators, he says he has received hundreds of messages of offering support, prayers and religious medals.

"But I carry only the star of David in my pocket," he said. "I was born a Jew and I'll die a Jew. I'm not the most devout person in the world, but it's the only thing in this world I fear—God, His righteousness and His wrath."

Bright is active in the East Side Hebrew Institute, where his youngest son, Kevin, 7, is in school.

Bright was born David Weinberg, son of a now-retired Bronx dress manufacturer and real estate man, Morris Weinberg. As a boy, he began entertaining neighbor children in the backyard at one cent each and giving them free lemonade.

"I didn't make any profit," he said. "I've never made a profit." He first appeared professionally at seven carrying a spear in a children's chorus at the Metropolitan Opera.

He changed his name at the suggestion of a producer who saw his part-time act while he was working, at 13, as a summer hotel bellhop.

CONTRARY

As for his ordeal with the Senate probers, he maintains the while affair has been contrary to American justice.

"I don't believe in hearings," he said. "I believe in trials. If, as we say, a man is innocent until proved guilty, then I don't think he should be vilified on page one, and by the time he has a chance to answer, it's on page 96."

He said that the Senate committee was unjustifiably placing responsibility for policing night club on AGVA, when the responsibility actually was that of local law enforcement agencies and alcoholic control boards.

"My main thought at AGVA in every working hour has been to see how to create more employment for performers, and to better their working conditions," he said.

Bright and his wife, Shirley, whom he met while performing at a resort hotel where she was working as a governess, live in Stuyvesant Town, a medium-income housing project on Manhattan's Lower East Side. They've been married 21 years.

Their eldest son, Michael, 20, is in Long Island University. Arthur, 16, is in high school.

Don't Quit School. Quitter Advises

ALEXANDER, N.Y. (AP)—Harold Merle, 23, who quit high school six years ago but returned later to finish, found himself the commencement speaker when his class graduated. His advice: Don't quit school.

"Stay in school at the proper age and take all that is offered," he told his classmates at Alexander Central School at Saturday's commencement.

Merle, married and the father of two children, plans to continue his education at a technical school for electronics.

Studying for his high school diploma, Merle got a part-time job as a mechanic to support his family.

Teacher Dies

TAHOCA (AP)—Mrs. Aubry White, 52, died of a heart attack Sunday night while teaching a young people's class at the First Methodist Church, where her husband is pastor. She and her husband moved here June 1 from Midland, where he served the Asbury Methodist Church.
