Official Calls Union Claim 'Pure Bunk'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A principal union claim in the present air-labor controversy — that a flight engineer must be a qualified mechanic in order to operate jet planes safely — has been termed pure bunk by the government's top civil aviation official. Najeeb A. Halaby, Federal Aviation administrator, says such a claim as advanced by the Flight Engineers International Association is "a base lie."

amations for flight engineers relate merely to engineering training and not mechanical skills. The engineers union has hoped to cement its claim to continued jobs in reduced jet plane crews by continuing a mechanics' license requirement few pilots can meet.

May Explode Nevada Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration sources said today the government is considering the explosion of nuclear devices in the atmosphere over Nevada, but that no final decision has been made. The comments were in response to questions about a story in the Washington Post saying there were plans to explode two small atomic devices in the atmosphere over Nevada in the near future.

The union has even hinted that a United-TWA collision over New York taking 134 lives might not have occurred if a mechanic-trained flight engineer had been aboard. But Halaby said that "the claim that only a mechanic can fit in that (flight engineer) seat is absolutely false, totally reprehensible and (is) being used for bargaining purposes. (It is) intended to create doubt in the public mind for the (union's) own narrow purpose."

Several decades ago some airlines required that flight engineers be mechanics. The reason was that they wanted a mechanic aboard to make repairs if a plane landed at some remote airport that lacked trained mechanics. Modern jets can land or take off only at major airports that universally have plenty of mechanics on hand.

Government officials made public here portions of a news conference Halaby held on the matter Monday at the Investment Banking Association convention at Santa Barbara, Calif.

It was believed to be the first time a top government official has said a jet plane can be operated just as safely whether the flight engineer is a skilled mechanic or not. In a refinement of the term featherbedding, as indicative of the function of useless employees, Halaby also said that the practice of some airlines in using four-man crews to operate jets is mere "featherbedding." He plainly saw the three-man crews operating for some airlines as sufficient.

The engineers' union has grounded Eastern Air Lines and is threatening a walkout later today on Pan American. The central issue in both cases was whether engineers should be required to continue to hold mechanics' licenses when crews are cut to a three-man basis.

EXAMS Halaby said the government expects

House Votes Export Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to ban exports to Iron Curtain nations which would boost the Communists' economic potential to make trouble for the United States. The crackdown was approved Monday, extending the export ban which already covered goods of military significance. Then the House passed a measure extending for three years the Export Control Act, the legislative authority for the license system under which the government screens exports to the Communist world and cuts off shipments of some goods.

A House committee charged that some U.S. foreign aid has been used on projects which promote communism in Southeast Asia. The Government Operations Committee said in some instances this was done with full knowledge on the part of aid officials, while in other cases they didn't know what was going on.

Both Sides Charge The Other

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Syria charged Israel with aggression Monday following an exchange of gunfire between Israelis and Syrian troops in a border area Sunday night. The charge was made in an official complaint lodged with the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem. Israel has blamed Syria for the incident.

Strike Resumption Hinges On Hearing

NEW YORK (AP)—Possible resumption of the flight engineers' strike against Pan American World Airways hinges on the outcome of a federal court hearing today. Daniel Kornblum, counsel to the engineers' union, predicted that the U.S. District Court in New York would lift the temporary restraining order which ended the strike four hours after it started last Saturday. Kornblum called the ban clearly untenable under the law.

Ron A. Brown, president of the union, said that if the temporary order is lifted, Pan Am's 500 flight engineers will strike again immediately.

Today's hearing before Judge George Rosling was on whether a full-fledged injunction against a strike should be issued. Union counsel have been called upon to show cause why such an injunction should not be granted. Rosling issued the temporary order Saturday on a plea by Pan Am. Rosling acted under terms of the National Railway Labor Act, which covers transportation. Eastern Air Lines — struck

Saturday at the same time as Pan Am—has been closed down since then by the walkout of its 573 flight engineers. A spokesman for Eastern said it did not seek an order similar to that obtained by Pan Am because Eastern's position was "somewhat different." He did not elaborate.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said in Washington that negotiations of the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association are deadlocked between Pan Am and Eastern. The issue is basically a fight by the engineers against losing jobs to pilots, who are members of the larger AFL-CIO Air Line Pilots Association. Jet airliner cockpit crews are soon to be reduced from four men to three, and the scrap is over who shall get the third seat in the cockpit along with two pilots.

Goldberg recessed the negotiations between Pan Am and the engineers' Monday pending today's court hearing. Goldberg recessed talks between the engineers' union and Eastern indefinitely, subject to call, after an hour-long session.

Five More Injunctions Issued In Drilling Probe

AUSTIN (AP)—Dist. Judge Herman Jones issued a temporary injunction today against five more operators prohibiting them from interfering with the state's slant-hole drilling probe in the East Texas oil field. The order brings the total number of leases under temporary restraining order to 50, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said. The order, requested by Wilson, restrains operators from interfering with inclination and directional surveys being conducted by the Railroad Commission. Named were John George of Longview, John Wrather of Tyler, M. E. Harding of Kilgore, N. E. Powell of Longview and L. W. Powell of Dallas. Asst. Atty. Gen. Haughton Brownlee said the state plans to file more suits this week against East Texas Field operators alleging they plugged wells to prevent the inclination and directional tests. Brownlee said Monday the state is gathering data to file more suits, most likely against operators of eight wells found plugged in the state's four weeks of testing. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson filed suits last week seeking nearly $3 million damages against operators of three wells in the Hawkins Field. He alleged the defendants plugged the wells, which he said were drilled at an illegal angle. Tests are being made today and Wednesday on five leases in Rusk and Gregg counties, the latest in a series of 48 whose operators were enjoined by Judge Herman Jones in Austin from interfering with the tests.

Qualifying Jury Moves Slow In Estes Case

Claims CSC In Deal With Estes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney Frank Cain said today he was convinced that Commercial Solvents Corp. was in the deal with Billie Sol Estes right up to the neck. Cain contradicted earlier testimony by the Commercial Solvents President, Maynard C. Wheeler, before the House Government Operations subcommittee. He repeated substantially the testimony he had given in April before a Texas court of inquiry. Wheeler has called that testimony "false and defamatory" and "slander of the most vicious kind."

Wheeler testified June 13 that Commercial Solvents was unaware of Estes' financial difficulties when he visited the West Texas financier's home in Pecos March 18. Cain also visited Estes briefly at that time.

CHARGED Within two weeks after the meeting, Estes was charged with fraud and his financial empire went into court. Cain represented a finance company in which Estes owed $4.5 million. He said he had suggested the breakfast session with Wheeler to determine whether Commercial Solvents would cooperate in trying to help Estes pay off his debts. Cain said he told Wheeler that Estes owed a number of finance companies many millions of dollars and they needed cooperation from Commercial Solvents, which Cain said held a mortgage on practically everything Estes owned.

Wheeler denied that Cain said anything about Estes' financial troubles and said he thought Cain was a personal friend of Estes. SIGNED Estes had signed over all grain payments from his warehouse activities to Commercial Solvents in return for money to finance expanding his liquid fertilizer and grain storage activities. At the time Estes was arrested, he owed Commercial Solvents about $5.7 million. Cain said he told Wheeler, "If you're going to step in and take right over then it's foolish to try to work out anything."

He said Wheeler refused to commit himself on what Commercial Solvents would do but said his company was firmly established through Estes in the liquid fertilizer business in West Texas and would take over if necessary to maintain its position.

CONVINCED After the meeting, Cain said, "I was absolutely convinced Commercial Solvents was in the deal with Billie Sol Estes right up to the neck." Cain said he could offer no solid proof to back up his conviction, but added: "They had extended him so much credit they couldn't back out."

Cain touched on all the essential points of his statement in Texas, without any major changes. This establishes a direct conflict of testimony under oath which subcommittee counsel James Naughton says is likely to reach the Justice Department for study of possible perjury charges. TRUTH Naughton, however, says the committee is interested only in finding the truth, not in having anybody prosecuted for perjury. Cain testified in Texas that during the meeting with Estes, Wheeler said, "If Billie gets too involved, we can always use him as a consultant in Switzerland."

Cain added, "Billie spoke up and said, 'Well, I think Brazil will be better.'"

He said Wheeler "dropped several names" of high Agriculture Department officials and said "If we have to, why we can step in here and take the place of Billie. We can keep those tanks full, too."

Wheeler denied saying any of the things. Estes had assigned payments for surplus grain storage to Commercial Solvents as collateral for loans and when arrested, he owed the company more than $5 million. REPRIMAND In another Estes case development, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman issued a formal reprimand Monday to Thomas H. Miller, acting area director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, who wrote a report favorable to Estes. Freeman said Miller was disciplined because he did not tell investigators he prepared a report under instructions from a superior recommending that cotton allotments in the Estes case be allowed to stand for 1961 and subsequent years.

PERMITTING SCHOOL PRAYERS Solons Plan To Propose Constitutional Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—A constitutional amendment to get around the Supreme Court ruling against official prayers in public schools was introduced in the House today and others were in the planning stage in both houses of Congress.

The bills, and the views stated by their sponsors amounted to a distillation from the cauldron of criticism stirred up among churchmen and legislators by the high court action.

First to act in Congress was Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., who lists evangelist Billy Graham among his constituents. He put in his bill shortly after Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., had announced plans to offer one along the same line in the Senate. Almost simultaneously Rep. Frank Chelf, D-Ky., said he was sounding out House Judiciary Committee members on such a bill. Chelf, criticizing other recent court rulings, said that if he cannot get legislation to that end he will favor a law limiting Supreme Court justices to a specific term of years instead of the present lifetime appointments.

Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., said he too is drafting a proposed constitutional amendment to permit "noncompulsory prayers in public schools and other places." All the sponsors of legislative proposals expressed fear of an extension of the legal theory back of the court's ruling.

No Invasion Attempt Seen In Red Buildup

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home reportedly believe Red China's military buildup in Fukien Province does not foreshadow an attempt on the Nationalist-held offshore islands. They think it may be meant to silence Chiang Kai-shek's threats to invade the mainland.

Spokesmen said Rusk and Home reached this conclusion Monday in wide-ranging talks that paid much attention to the Communist buildup opposite the Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu, just off the Communist mainland.

In Peiping, Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi charged that the Nationalists are preparing with U.S. help for a large-scale invasion of the Southeast China coast. The Communists continued to shell Quemoy and Matsu Monday night, lobbing 132 shells on Quemoy and 45 on Matsu.

TALKS The talks aligning British-American views on Communist threats and inter-allied problems followed Rusk's meetings with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn. Rusk's aides expressed belief his trip has helped clarify some misconceptions among chief allies of America over aspects of U.S. policy.

Rusk's round of talks heralded the start of a period of intensive maneuvering between the Communists and the Western powers.

The three Western Allies sent notes to Moscow Monday calling on the Soviet Union to join four-power talks in Berlin to end violence along the Berlin wall and try to bring peace to the divided city.

Rusk and Home agreed to attend the signing next month of a 14-power pact being written at Geneva to guarantee the neutrality of Laos. If Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko also attends, it would provide an opportunity to confer anew on Berlin, disarmament, nuclear tests and other East-West problems.

SUMMING UP Summing up the results of Rusk's trip so far, his aides said he had not come over to break up what has been called the Paris-Bonn axis because that would be against America's own interests. He had not brought along any plan to help France's nuclear weapons program, but he gave assurances that America stands ready to help build up a multilateral European nuclear force dovetailed with American nuclear might.

Rusk told Home that De Gaulle had assured him that Britain's bid for entry into the flourishing Common Market would not be vetoed for political reasons. American diplomats feel that Britain's entry into the European Economic Community could provide the basis for setting up an American-backed nuclear strike force within the framework of the Atlantic alliance.

Rice Acreage Allotments Being Checked

HOUSTON (AP) — Investigation on alleged juggling of rice acreage allotments has mushroomed to include all the state's 23 rice producing counties, the Houston Post said today.

The newspaper also reported the resignation of David Stephens, the suspended administrative officer for the Brazoria County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Rodney Leonard, assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, told of the inquiry. The FBI is checking the situation in Brazoria and Matagorda counties, but may expand its efforts, the Post said.

The Post indicated the alleged acreage transfers might have been made in some instances without the knowledge of the farmers holding allotments, who had planted in good faith. Unlike other crops, rice is allotted to the individual farmer. Farmers have to accept acreage allotments to be able to get government price supports for their crop. The farmer can transfer the allotment to any rice county where he finds available land. Records must be filed in county ASCS offices when the allotment is finally planted in a piece of ground.

Cache Estimated At $40,000

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP) — A Marion County official said today the fortune left in coins alone by a retired college professor who died last week probably will amount to about $40,000.

That doesn't include a suitcase full of $1 bills which was discovered yesterday. The money was left by Clarence Braden, a generous man and a former mayor of this Northeast Texas town.

The county official asked that his name be withheld. The First National Bank completed the tedious task of counting the small change, that ranged from pennies to $20 gold pieces. President C. B. Bryant Jr. refused to disclose the total. County Judge Tom Morris appointed Haywood Moseley, a second cousin of the onetime Texas A&M and SMU engineering professor, temporary administrator of the estate.

Swift Legal Move Gets Trial Started

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—Qualifying veniremen for jury service in the Billie Sol Estes felony theft trial moved slowly today.

At an 11 a.m. court recess Judge Starley ordered the sheriff to bring in four more tallmen at the start of the afternoon session.

So far 33 veniremen have been qualified for jury service. Each side can make 12 challenges when individual questioning of those qualified get underway. During the first four defense lawyers questioned four veniremen. One was excused after saying that to sit on the jury would be "a source of embarrassment."

Asked by Dist. Judge J. H. Starley whether someone in the case owed him money, the venireman said, "yes."

In a swift legal move Monday, Estes' lawyers asked that the West Texas promoter be brought to trial at once on a charge that he defrauded a Reeves County farmer of $162,144.

The case grew out of the sale of liquid fertilizer tanks. Estes, 37, is under federal and state indictments in connection with the transactions. LISTENS INTENTLY Estes, who paid little attention to proceedings Monday, listened intently today as his lawyers questioned veniremen. Occasionally he jotted down notes in a notebook.

He sat at his counsel table, dressed in a black suit with a white shirt and a dark red and black check tie.

Only 18 veniremen remained to be questioned after the first hour. Selection of a jury was resumed after afternoon and night sessions of the first day of the quickly called trial that even surprised residents in this West Texas town. One of Estes' lawyers, Hume Cofer, said the defense would show the complainant was fully aware of the fertilizer tanks contract involved and there was no fraud on the part of the 37-year-old promoter.

29 OTHERS Twenty prospective jurors had been examined when Dist. Judge J. H. Starley recessed court shortly before 10 p.m. Fourteen others were to report today. The 34 veniremen represent a cross-section of this small West Texas city whose development in recent years had been closely linked with Estes' enterprises. Three of the 34 are women.

During most of the long afternoon and night sessions, Estes sat in court with his head turned away from the prospective jurors. Occasionally he turned to observe proceedings. A few times he smiled slightly.

Estes was indicted April 26 by the Reeves County grand jury on eight counts of felony theft in the sale of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer tanks to six farmers. The six claimed they were billed of $828,576 in the transactions.

ONLY ONE COUNT The current trial involves only one count, which accuses Estes of defrauding Thomas A. Bell of $162,144.

If convicted, Estes could be sentenced to state prison for three to 10 years. Without advance notice, Estes with his lawyers—John Cofer and Hume Cofer of Austin and John Dennison of Pecos—appeared in District Court Monday morning and asked that his case, 12th on the docket, be tried immediately.

Dist. Atty. R. B. McGovern informed Judge Starley: "The state is ready. We will not move for a delay."

In Austin, State Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, who instigated counts of inquiry into Estes' far flung operations and has brought state anti-trust suits against him, said the request was a complete surprise. SPECULATION About there was speculation about what bearing the request for an immediate trial on the state charge would have, since Estes is also under federal indictments. The government charges he and others swindled finance companies out of $22 million loaned on mostly non-existent fertilizer tanks.

ALCOHOLISM-2

Victim's Family Faces Mixture Of Love, Hate

EDITOR'S NOTE — The tragedy of the alcoholic is not restricted to the one person who cannot control his thirst for a drink. A life shattered, a fearful damage on those close by, in this account in a five-part series, an Associated Press writer reports the new avenues of help being opened for the states and children of alcoholics.

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

How terrible it is to hate someone you should love; how hard it is to love someone who is so hateful.

Love and hate for the same person make a strange combination. But to the child or wife of an alcoholic, intertwining love and hate are familiar, twisting threads in painful, constant emotional crisis.

"I hated him, despised him, wished he'd die," admits the gentle-looking, gray-haired grandmother.

Her companions in Al-Anon nod in understanding. They, too, have suffered from an alcoholic hate.

"Sometimes I loved my father and mother, sometimes I hated them," says the 16-year-old beauty. "I hated them more than I loved them. I couldn't understand why they were doing this to me."

Her companions in Alateen—nine boys and nine other girls who have an alcoholic parent or parents—recognize her torture. Their feelings are important. They must be expressed—not in horror stories recounting the alcoholics' misdeeds—but in terms of their own reaction, their feeling. By exploring these feelings, they hope to reach understanding.

Al-Anon and Alateen are adjuncts to Alcoholics Anonymous, the fellowship of alcoholics that is widely credited with doing inestimable work in helping persons with drinking problems. The only requirement for membership in AA is a desire to stop drinking. It is nonsectarian.

After more than 25 years of service, AA has a proven record: At least 300,000 persons who have stayed sober after long histories of problem drinking.

The chasm between the alcoholic and his—or her—family has been described many times. But few have told it so guilelessly and pathetically as the woman at an AA group meeting.

"My name is —. I am an alcoholic," she said, and related a background of church and P-TA and civic activity—and the shyness that seemed to vanish under drink; and then the drinking that got out of hand.

"I couldn't eat. I had to have a morning drink. And then one day I overheard my three children. They were having a family conference. And they decided, 'Mommy doesn't love us any more.'"

That was when she went to AA. But while AA seeks to dry out the drunk and keep him sober, what about the other wreckage? There's plenty, for the alcoholic leaves in his wake debt and disorder, and pains that need long soothing. And he, too, needs something from those he's hurt: an understanding of what they may have done to make him the way he was, or to keep him from recovering.

Al-Anon grew informally from the AA group, its name is merely an enlarged abbreviation of Alcoholics Anonymous. Mafes of alcoholics sometimes acted as unofficial hostesses at AA meetings, passing out soft drinks and coffee and cake. They began discussing mutual problems and eventually this turned into concrete soul-searching. Soon little groups were

Bup Bup Saves Child From Snake

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A boxer dog jumped between 3-year-old David Gamble and a rattlesnake and killed the snake in a ferocious battle.

The dog, a dedicated child watcher called Bup Bup, was struck three times by the snake and became gravely ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Gamble, the dog's grateful owners, were unable to find a veterinarian with snake serum, so they took Bup Bup to a city hospital. Sympathetic nurses supplied an injection which restored the dog's health.

First Negro Clerk Employed

GALVESTON (AP)—The City of Galveston has hired its first Negro woman clerk.

Mrs. Freddie Patrick reported for duty Monday as a junior clerk in the water department.

Her husband teaches in Galveston's Negro High School.

founded, usually wives but occasionally including the husband or a woman alcoholic, and an organization was formally incorporated in 1954. Now there are 2,000 Al-Anon groups in the U.S., Canada and 20 foreign countries. Members are not solely mates of those in AA. In a good many groups, the members are mates of drinking alcoholics.

Three years later, in 1957, Alateen arose. It specifically geared itself toward helping children of alcoholics and was started by a teen-ager in California. There are 200 such groups today.

The goal for both is the same: to lead them to sufficient understanding so that they can live with the alcoholic.

At an Alateen meeting in a New York suburb recently, a girl of 16 opened the meeting with the "serenity prayer":

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and wisdom to know the difference."

Then she asked, "Is your unhappiness at home affecting your school work?"

Around the table the teen-agers answered. Some hesitantly, some in gushes of words.

"I'd fight with my father," said a handsome crewcut lad of 17. "I'd be upset and then take it out on my teachers. I just didn't care. I got bad grades, flunking grades, and I thought I was hurting him by doing it. I've learned here that I've hurt myself."

The questions go on, striking at the heart, digging deep, and leading to conversation that would strongly impress any psychotherapist.

All told of experimenting with drink; some confessed drinking to get drunk.

"I drank to escape," said the young girl with waist-length hair. "I tried to commit suicide five or six times. I couldn't do anything I wanted, not even lay down to die."

"If you wanted to kill yourself, you would have," said a boy. "You just wanted sympathy, you wanted to say to them, 'Look what you made me do.' Now you'll be sorry. Isn't that it?"

They talked realistically of what they've suffered—and what they have learned.

At an Al-Anon group, meeting on a Monday afternoon in the heart of Manhattan, a dozen women explored the same dark avenues.

They considered just one main question, based on the AA's Sixth Step. This asks whether the alcoholic is "entirely ready to have God remove" all the defects of character uncovered in "a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves."

"I thought I was the best wife and mother that ever lived," said had completed a moral inventory of her own. "No one else could have cooked like me, made a better home, raised children like me, been a better mate. I was perfect. It was always him. It was his fault. If I wasn't strong, what would happen to us? He was my child, in addition to our children. But after joining Al-Anon I realized what I was doing: I was building myself up in order to tear him down."

Another woman said, "I never thought I was perfect, but I didn't realize how arrogant I was, and how scornful. I think I must have done him irreparable harm by being so aloof—that's a dreadful way to act to a sick person. I never realized how much love the alcoholic needs, how lonely he is."

In these meetings, these children of corporation heads, bartenders, shop owners, doctors, these wives of bank executives, stock brokers, blue collar and white collar workers, plunge forward—some bravely, some timidly—toward one goal:

Unraveling the web of their entrapment, trying to free themselves so they can see their alcoholic parent, their alcoholic mate, clearly and fearlessly.

Hopefully, they then can live together, first in harmony and perhaps, ultimately, in sobriety.

HEAR BETTER

—with no wires, tubes, battery packs!

Imagine a hearing aid so tiny yet so advanced it packs full hearing performance in a single unit that fits entirely within the ear.

Otarion has perfected a masterpiece in miniature—the hearing Normalizer. It weighs less than 1/4 of an ounce. No wires, tubes, battery packs. Everything... everything... fits completely within the ear to provide more normal, more relaxed hearing comfort and pleasure.

The Normalizer also contains an exclusive Otarion acoustic labyrinth chamber that produces thrillingly clear, life-like tones. And it has the gain and power to correct hearing impairments for hundreds of thousands.

There's nothing behind, in front of, or around the ear. Even your closest friends may not realize you're wearing the Normalizer unless you tell them.

For a demonstration at no obligation, stop in, write or call us soon.

As we observed in the sermon in the open-air last evening, the only thing that will keep a man out of heaven is sin. Before he went back to heaven, Jesus said to certain ones, "I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins; whither I go, ye cannot come." (Jno. 8:21). Sin bars the door to heaven.

Thus we must either die before we become guilty of sin, or else be saved from our sins, to go to heaven.

If death comes, before the child shall know to refuse the evil, and choose the good" (Isa. 7:16), there is no doubt about the

"Are All Men Converted Alike?" will be the sermon tonight, 8 o'clock, in the open-air gospel meeting, just north of the main entrance to Webb AFB, where Farm Road 700 and Air Base Road meet. T. H. Tarbet, the preacher, will conduct a question period following the sermon. The Church of Christ, 2900 West Highway 80 invites everyone tonight, and throughout the week.

More Cotton Due

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The National Cotton Producers Union said today their crop will total 2,033,940 bales. Last year 1,946,329 bales were harvested.

Senate Committee To Hear From Professional Idea Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Foreign Relations committee members should find Walt Whitman Rostow a man of many ideas even if they don't learn just what is in his master strategy document.

Rostow, scheduled for a committee quizzing behind closed doors late today, is a sort of professional idea man. That is much of his job now as State Department counselor and chairman of the department's policy planning staff.

The mild-mannered 45-year-old former professor, economist, historian, author and intelligence officer seems not in the least gun-shy about talking to the senators about his personal views.

Whether Rostow and the secret document linked with his name

Poster Welcome Planned For JFK

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico City will be plastered this weekend with tens of thousands of posters welcoming President Kennedy.

Each of the many government ministries is printing its own posters, and officials said 50,000 have been turned out so far.

All schools will close Friday, to enable children to see Kennedy—and to help line the nine-mile parade route from the international airport to Los Pinos, the Mexican White House.

Officials predict almost a million persons will turn out, which would set a record for this capital of almost five million.

New Highway

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government Tourist Department plans to press for the completion of a highway between Tuxtla Gutierrez and Villahermosa to encourage tourists from Central America.

are soft on communism has popped up as something of an issue this congressional year. Critics hint this allegation while defenders deny it. Partly on trial, at least, is the foreign policy of the Kennedy administration.

Rostow, an adviser to President Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, came to Washington last year from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to become a deputy special assistant at the White House for national security affairs. Last December he switched to the State Department post which carries the rank of assistant secretary.

His State Department duties have included compiling a document which, department officials say, gathers together various Washington ideas on foreign and defense policy including some which have not been put into effect and many which have publicly been espoused by administration authorities.

REVIEW

The thick volume is now at the White House for review. Then it is supposed to go into the National Security Council archives. The administration has shown no intent ever to make it public.

The Senate hearing was sought by Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois against a background of charges by some Republicans that the administration has a "no-win" foreign policy. Some associates regard Rostow actually as a proponent of a rather tough line against the Communists. Rostow himself has this to say about the "no-win" allegations, "We stand ready to fight to the limit to defend the vital interests of the free world. But we are not looking for a military climax to this historic struggle. The victory we seek will take many years and perhaps decades of hard work and dedication—by many peoples—to bring about.

NO U.S. VICTORY

"It will not be a victory of the United States over the Soviet Union.

"It will be a victory for those who recognize that the powers of the state over the individual should be limited by law and practice. It will be a victory for those who recognize the profound interdependence of the nations on this planet over those who would press to the limit their national or ideological ambitions."

Rostow has a prodigious record of authorship. He has written books on topics ranging from the American diplomatic revolution to the British 19th century economy, dynamics of Soviet society and Communist China's prospects. Born Oct. 7, 1916, in New York City, Rostow was graduated from Yale in 1936 and received a Ph.D. there in 1940. He was a Rhodes scholar. During World War II he served as a major in the Office of Strategic Services, winning the Legion of Merit.

Convenient Service

Much of the business at Carver Drive-In Prescription Pharmacy is transacted at the west side window where the customer can purchase anything he needs without leaving the car. Prescriptions are filled while you wait, or can be ready when you arrive. Medicinal items, first-aid supplies, cosmetics and other sundries can be purchased at Carver's at a savings. Plenty of free parking he needs without leaving the car. Prescriptions are filled while you wait, or can be ready when you do business with Carver's at 310 E. 9th.

Carver Pharmacy Features Handy Drive-In Window

Milton Carver, owner of the Drive-In Prescription Pharmacy bearing his name at 310 E. 9th, knows that the "miracle" drugs discovered in recent years are well worth every cent spent for them. Nevertheless, he is anxious to keep the costs of these drugs as reasonable as possible and within the reach of any who may profit by their use. One of the ways he helps to do it is by eliminating so called "free" delivery service. Instead, Carver has built their business around the west side drive-in window where customers may pick up their drug items without leaving the car. There are no parking meters to fill (or time wasted driving around the block looking for an empty space). Carver and his fellow pharmacists in the firm are legally licensed in their profession. They are trained to work with intricate measures in filling exactly your doctor's prescription. Certain prescriptions are very personal things, compounded with one person in mind; and the staff at Carver's spend their lives protecting yours. There is no guess-work of hasty carelessness; each order is given undivided attention to be absolutely sure it is what the doctor ordered. The search by scientists to end

Sunday Buffet Featured By The Settles Coffee Shop

"Everyone on our Settles Coffee Shop staff is proud of our remodeled dining facilities," says Hostess Betty Cunningham. "We are glad that we can better serve more diners," she continued, "but more than anything else, we are proud of the quality and variety of food on the menu we now offer." Mrs. Cunningham was referring especially to the Sunday buffet luncheon which proved an immediate success when it was first instituted in March. "Many families traditionally eat out after church on Sunday and we begin serving at 11:30 to enable them to come directly here after the services," said Mrs. Cunningham. For those who prefer a later lunch, serving is continued until 2 p.m. The buffet is a family affair. Children are welcome and catered to. Special services are provided so that small children may eat in comfort the healthful, nourishing food of their choice. The youngsters will eat better, too, when they can pick out what they like best. The food preparation begins in the immaculate kitchen of Chef Jerry Miller who has worked in his profession a number of years at better restaurants. From his ovens come the delicious roast beef, baked ham, crispy chicken and fish to tempt jaded appetites. Prices for the dinner are $1.75 for adults and the child's plate is only $1. Of course, this includes refills if you wish, from the platters of cold cuts, seasonal vegetables and many varieties of salads. "Some people may not know it, but the dining room is open until nine each night," explained Mrs. Cunningham. "There is no better time to dine out than on these nice summer evenings. We guarantee that once you try one of our truly good steaks, you'll be back for more." With the steak (prime beef cooked to your liking) goes the full course meal including soup, salad, vegetables and dessert. Besides her hostess duties, Mrs. Cunningham supervises all luncheons for civic, social and business clubs. Her experience and planning can make a banquet meal a real occasion. She will be glad to offer advice concerning the amount and type of food best suited for your banquet. For reservations and information, dial the Settles Hotel Coffee Shop, AM 4-5551.

Your Hostess

Betty Cunningham is your hostess at the Settles Hotel Coffee Shop where lunch is served buffet style each Sunday from 11:30 until 2 p.m. Prime roast beef, baked ham, chicken and fish are offered as main courses with a variety of seasonal vegetables, salads and garnishes. For a memorable evening meal, Mrs. Cunningham suggests you try their steaks, cooked exactly to your order and served with baked potatoes, vegetables and dessert. The Settles Coffee Shop is open until 9 o'clock each evening for your dining pleasure.

Smith Builds A Reputation For Service

S. M. Smith Butane Co., Snyder Highway, has been serving this area since 1942 and has established a reputation for courteously helping customers with their problems of heating, cooking and hot water supply. "Our service begins where the main line ends," is the motto that

Living Costs Hold Steady

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs were unchanged in May at the record level set in April. Lower prices for food and gasoline balanced out higher housing and medical care costs to leave the government index at 105.2 percent of the 1957-58 base period. This means it costs about a nickel more now to buy the same goods that could be obtained for a dollar in the prior period.

Robert J. Myers, deputy Labor Department statistics commissioner, in announcing the figures today said the steadiness in May was "welcome little respite" after living-cost increases in February, March and April.

Myers predicted, however, a small living cost increase will be shown for June when those figures become available a month from now.

While living costs remained steady in May, the after-tax earnings of factory production workers hit a new record. Both the average weekly work hours and hourly earnings increased.

The average factory worker heading a family of four earned $86.05 weekly after deduction of federal income and Social Security taxes in May. This topped the prior high of $85.70 set in December.

High Court's 'Prayer Ruling' Raises Storm Of Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Supreme Court ruling striking down the saying of official prayers in public schools has stirred a cauldron of criticism from churchmen and members of Congress.

Many of them asked, "How far does it go?"

"The next thing you know, they'll be telling us we can't open our daily House sessions with prayer," said Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va. A Jewish leader, who hailed the decision, felt it made clear that federal funds could not be used to aid parochial schools.

Specifically the court ruled Monday that it is a violation of the Constitution for New York State to authorize the saying of the following prayer in public schools:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

6-1 DECISION

In a 6-1 decision the court said the First Amendment's ban against establishment of a religion means that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of American people to recite as part of a religious program carried on by government."

The decision—written by Justice Hugo L. Black—likely will have broad impact.

Some states require public schools to begin each day with the Lord's Prayer. The wording of Black's opinion indicated these state laws also violate the First Amendment.

Wrote Black: "It is neither sacrilegious nor antireligious to say that each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves and those the people choose to look to for religious guidance."

LOVE DISSENTER

The only dissenter in the decision was Justice Potter Stewart who noted that the Supreme Court's own sessions are opened with the words "God save the United States and this honorable court," and that the House and Senate begin the day with prayers.

He also observed that the "Star Spangled Banner" invokes God's help.

Justices Felix Frankfurter and Byron R. White did not take part in the ruling. Frankfurter has been ill for weeks and White had not taken his place on the bench when the case was heard.

In the majority decision, Black noted parenthetically that there is nothing in the ruling "inconsistent with the fact that school children and others are officially encouraged to express love for our country by reciting historical documents such as the Declaration of Independence which contains references to the deity or by singing officially espoused anthems which include the composer's professions of faith in a supreme being or with the fact that there are many manifestations in our public life of belief in God."

While there were many expressions of protest, there were also voices raised in approval of the ruling.

Leo Pfeffer, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, said he feels it was consistent with earlier Supreme Court decisions "that the Constitution requires an absolute separation of church and state and a secular public school system."

Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., a supporter of the Kennedy school aid bill—now bottled up in the House Rules Committee—said "I can see no analogy" between the prayer decision and the constitutionality of federal aid to church schools.

The same view was expressed by House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana. The issues were not the same, he said.

Southern members of Congress—angry over the court's civil rights decisions—were bitter in their denunciation of the ruling.

"They put the Negroes in the schools and now they've driven God out," declared Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, an elder in the Mormon Church, remarked: "I don't know how much further we can go to forbid the expression of even the simplest acknowledgment of a belief in God. How long will it be before the daily prayer in Congress is considered a violation of the Constitution?"

GRAHAM

Evangelist Billy Graham said of the decision: "This is another step toward the secularization of the United States. Followed to its logical conclusion, we will have to take the chaplains out of the armed forces, prayers cannot be said in Congress, and the President cannot put his hand on the Bible when he takes the oath of office. The framers of the Constitution meant we were to have freedom of religion, not freedom from religion."

'NO ANALOGY'

Roman Catholic Church leaders have contended that church schools should also receive aid.

President Kennedy has taken the position that it would be unconstitutional to grant aid to religious schools.

Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., a supporter of the Kennedy school aid bill—now bottled up in the House Rules Committee—said "I can see no analogy" between the prayer decision and the constitutionality of federal aid to church schools.

The superintendent of education in Alabama, W. A. LeCroy, said he feels schools should keep religious practices "regardless of what the Supreme Court says."

South Carolina Atty. Gen. Daniel McLeod said prayers in his state are up to the classroom teachers.

He said he was in vigorous disagreement with the decision.

In Michigan, the state attorney general ruled two years ago that Bible classes may not be given in public schools—even at the lunch hour.

BIBLE READING

In Boston, Massachusetts Commissioner of Education Owen B. Kiernan said he feels the court has not ruled that Bible reading in schools is unconstitutional.

"The law of the commonwealth regarding the reading of the Bible is on the books and stands as of this moment," he said.

PRAYER HALTED

After the Supreme Court decision was announced Monday, New York State Education Commissioner James E. Allen announced that prayer in the public schools would be halted.

However, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said he hoped that adjustments could be made in the prayer so that it could continue to be used in the schools.

Some states expressed disagreement with the Supreme Court decision.

The superintendent of education in Alabama, W. A. LeCroy, said he feels schools should keep religious practices "regardless of what the Supreme Court says."

MUSICAL SERIES TO OPEN TODAY

Inaugurating what it hopes will be a treat for music lovers, the Howard County Junior College music department this evening stages the first of a summer musicale series.

The time is 8:15 p.m. in the college auditorium, and there is no charge for the program.

Included are selections by Hubert Murphy, baritone, and Mrs. Joyce Bradley, soprano, as well as oboe numbers by Mrs. Donna Wiehe. Jack Hendrix, head of the department, will be the accompanist, and he will team with Mrs. Wiehe and with Tom McDaniel in the finale, two passages from the Scaramouche Suite for Two Pianos.

Range of the offerings is designed to please almost any taste. There are songs from the classical composers, and there are lighthearted ballads from musical comedy hits.

Hendrix said he hoped that there would be a good turnout for this experiment in summer entertainment.

Bright Denies Accusations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA) contends police witnesses have tried to make the union a "patsy" at Senate hearings for their own failure to clean up honky tonk night spots.

Jackie Bright, administrative secretary and operating head of the AFL-CIO union for entertainers, fired back at witnesses who had denounced him and had pictured the union as conniving with hoodlums in prostitution and other night life rackets.

He said the Senate Investigations subcommittee's hearings have shown that the union needs a major housecleaning. He said that AGVA will "use downright force" to clean up some situations.

But he also branded some of the testimony as a series of lies, half-truths and misstatements "blown up beyond all normal proportions."

Bright accepted the subcommittee's invitation to take a lie-detector test.

The subcommittee is working against the clock to complete the compare CHEVROLET FAIRLANE GETS THE BEST OF THE BIG ONES!

Our new-size Ford Fairlane is a whole foot shorter on the outside than Chevrolet—for easier parking and maneuvering. Yet Fairlane inside gives you as much front leg room, exactly the same effective front and rear head room, and practically the same trunk space! All with money-saving twice-a-year maintenance, featuring 6,000-mile oil changes*, self-adjusting brakes, 30,000-mile major lubrications, 2-year or 30,000-mile coolant-antifreeze. All this plus greater fuel economy, and solid, quiet-riding, single-unit construction! And Fairlane prices start at $170 less compare CHEVY II FAIRLANE GETS THE BEST OF THE COMPACTS!

The only similarity between our Fairlane and the Chevy II is in easy parking and the kind of economy each delivers. Fairlane is nearly 15 inches longer, and styled accordingly. It has 5½ inches longer wheelbase, for a smoother ride. It gives you about 1½ inches more front and rear leg room, 3½ cubic feet more trunk space, almost 400 pounds more steel and muscle. It gives you big car performance—even V-8 power for just a bit extra. All this plus solid single-unit construction, and twice-a-year maintenance, too.

Hail Follows Twister Through Carrizo Springs

By The Associated Press
Carrizo Springs suffered property damage but there were no injuries from a tornado which struck in and near the Southwest Texas town Monday night.

Hard thundershowers and occasional hail pelted other areas of the state, and still more scattered showers were in prospect for all sections Tuesday.

Hitting near dusk, the Carrizo Springs twister ripped the front off a produce shed owned by Nathan Stein and hurled it 60 feet. The tornado likewise damaged a gasoline station in the business district, snapped power lines, shattered dozens of third floor windows in a grade school and smashed a barn on the George Morris farm 1 1/2 miles north of town.

Light hail and .34 inch of rain followed the tornado at Carrizo Springs.

At Richardson on the north edge of Dallas, a sudden downpour turned loose 3.10 inches of moisture within an hour. On the opposite side of Dallas only .14 inch fell. Water rose briefly into three homes and streets filled in Richardson.

Police blamed the blinding rain for 70 traffic accidents in Dallas. The wind slammed lumber onto three workmen at a building project but all escaped serious injury.

The evening rains stretched through a belt from the Red River through Dallas and Fort Worth southward to Cleburne, Waxahachie and into Hamilton County. In the area southwest of Lubbock on the South Plains, Seminole measured 1.46 inches of rain. Visibility dropped to zero during a heavy downpour at Denver City, which also was pelted by hail.

An estimated 3 inches of rain fell near Groves, in the Port Arthur area. There were showers also at Beaumont, Houston, Brownsville, Beeville and San Angelo.

Near daylight Tuesday, a few showers were falling along the lower Texas coast, in the Abilene vicinity and across the Panhandle.

The Weather Bureau predicted occasionally clear to partly cloudy skies throughout the state with scattered showers in northern sections again overnight and in the south Wednesday.

Monday's temperatures hit highs of 104 degrees at Presidio and 100 at El Paso. Readings early Tuesday ranged from 83 at Dalhart up to 81 at Galveston.

Kennedy Policies Blamed For Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although there is some dissent within the party about the use of gloom-and-doom tactics, Republicans are pointing the blame that President Kennedy's policies caused the stock market drop.

The Senate Republican Policy Committee has added its critical voice to that of the Republican national committee, which has been suggesting that Wall Street has witnessed a "Kennedy crash."

In its weekly memo to members, the policy group said that returns from Kennedy's Yale speech June 11 "in which he made ambiguous statements to say the least, about the 'myths' of federal fiscal responsibility began to come home to roost" in market declines.

"And so it apparently began to look as if one couldn't strew a time-tested, sound economic altar with fiscal policy garbage, such as an expression at Yale that deficits are just 'sometimes' dangerous," the memo said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., decried gloom-and-doom statements. But he suggested in the Senate Monday that Kennedy ought to send to Congress now "a tax program for the restoration of business confidence and the acceleration of economic activity." Javits' suggestions included "substantial relief to low income taxpayers" and a reduction in the top bracket to about 60 per cent. He wanted corporation rates cut back to 25 per cent, with 5 per cent additional tax for business income above $500,000 yearly.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., cheered Javits' proposal for early tax reductions. He said that is the way to "cure most of the mistakes," he said the Kennedy administration had made in the economic field in the last two or three months.

"People want assurance they can continue in business under a free enterprise economy," Allott said. He added that, among other things, business ought to have "new realistic depreciation schedules."

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., said the stock market decline had dealt "a devastating financial blow" to the economy. He said there ought to be quick enactment of tax incentives to encourage business.

Government Pushes Probe Of Steel Price Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department has demanded expense account and other information from steel company executives in continuing a probe into April's on-and-off steel price raise.

Informed sources said Monday subpoenas for information from some executives went out about three weeks ago in connection with department efforts to determine whether the price boost involved collusion.

The U.S. Steel Corp. said in New York that the government had subpoenaed telephone numbers and expense account information of some executives.

The Dow Jones business news service reported from Pittsburgh that similar records were subpoenaed from Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Wheeling Steel Corp. and that Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. was understood to have been served.

A grand jury investigation into steel prices was ordered April 12 by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

after seven companies announced $6-a-ton price increases. The inquiry continued after the hike was rescinded in the face of administration protests.

A Justice Department source said the subpoenas were part of the continuing inquiry and do not represent any new investigation. Kennedy declined comment.

'Blast' To Test Emergency Skill

Big Spring police, sheriff's officers, Texas Highway patrolmen, Civil Defense officials, and others have begun hunting for an explosion set to go off July 3. Beyond that they don't know where and when it will be but plans are being made to give Big Spring medical men and hospitals an opportunity to find out how fast they can care for injured.

"Operation Medic" will go off at an unannounced time and place.

An effort will be made to determine the efficiency of all units operating to handle a disaster—such as an explosion—but the primary purpose is to determine the speed needed in diagnosing injured patients, classifying the seriousness of conditions, and moving them to hospitals.

When the explosion happens the Civil Defense director will be notified. In turn all other departments needed in handling the emergency will be notified.

Teletype messages will go to news media and the public will be warned to keep off certain streets needed as ambulance routes to hospitals. They will not be warned to stay away from the disaster area because Civil Defense is interested in seeing how much confusion results.

People will not be warned to stay away from hospitals for the same reason.

Efficiency of "Operation Medic", under what might be termed normal conditions, will be the main purpose.

A Devotional For The Day

There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism. (Ephesians 4:4-5.)
PRAYER: Dear God, we come to Thee for the blessing of greater unity among all Christians in the world. May we be one in purpose to live, serve, and proclaim Christ the Lord, in His name. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

Blocked But Not Answered

Defeat of the farm bill, principally due to the fact that the measure was more than a party line test; it was a reflection of the too stringent provisions of the grain sections.

At the last — and much too late — some concessions were granted and amendments accepted in an effort to win the margin of support necessary for passage. No real softening of the compulsory feature was effected in all this, however, and there remained just cause for grave doubts about concentrating so much power in the secretary of agriculture.

While presumably this will result in the program reverting to the 1958 act for another year, it would be a serious mistake to assume that this is a solution to the problem.

Producers and all others concerned may as well take a realistic view of the situation — the margin by which the measure lost was so thin that another year of mountainous and costly grain surpluses will tip the scales the other way. It is folly to contend for price supports, loans and unlimited production. If supports are demanded, then something will have to be yielded for them.

The wisdom of a Solomon would be insufficient to resolve the farm problem, but it might be helpful if the subsidies were so applied that the producer would be left with the task of selling all his yield on the market. The back-breaking storage problem would then be left to the buyer or producer and taken off the back of the government.

Stirring Conscience

Sheriff Owen Kilday last week ordered his deputies to stop and search every car in Bexar County containing two or more young men.

The sheriff admitted his action was "illegal as hell," but he justified it on the grounds of doing something about a wave of killings in San Antonio.

"I'm sick of senseless, wanton killings in San Antonio and Bexar County," he said. "If the courts won't do something about them, I'll try in my own small way."

The immediate provocation for the action came when a young car hop was shot in the back at a San Antonio drive-in. Kilday is not alone in his sense of outrage at this sad development, and he has something on the record to support him about other wanton killings.

Indiscriminate search and seizure of all cars containing two or more young men, however, not only is illegal but also an impossible for a small staff of deputies.

Perhaps what he was trying to do was to stir the public conscience. If he succeeds in doing this, then what he had to say about the courts may be changed, for by and large the record of the courts in such cases is the record of jury soft-heartedness.

Meanwhile, the fundamental idea of watchful pressure is sound, and San Antonio is not the only city where vigilance is in order. Officers sworn to uphold the law cannot help the situation by advocating flouting expedient circumvention of the law no matter how noble their motives.

Marquis Childs The Potent Senator From Virginia

WASHINGTON — The casual observer watching Senator Harry Flood Byrd preside over a session of the Senate Finance Committee in the committee's impressive walnut-paneled, marble-trimmed chamber might well miss the full meaning of his role. It is a modest performance, with none of the bravura that certain of his colleagues put into their work.

YET on any list of the 10 or so most influential men in this capital city's name would stand high. And one reason is because as a result of his nearly 30 years in the Senate, he is chairman of this all-important committee. He is opposed to the Administration tax bill, which has been pending before Congress for more than a year, and that is one reason it may not get through. He will oppose the President on an across-the-board tax cut if, he quickly adds, it will cause a budgetary deficit.

IN HIS immaculate white suit with his ruddy face the Senator has an ageless look. With a powdered wig and only a slight change in costume he could sit for a portrait of one of the founding fathers of his native Virginia when he so greatly admires. His critics and opponents, often angry and almost always frustrated, like to say that he has one of the finest minds of the 18th Century.

On his 75th birthday earlier this month Senator Byrd followed a custom of 50 years—he hiked up 4,000-foot Old Rag Mountain in the Shenandoah National Park. Accompanying him was Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, who said that he had to step lively to keep up with the Senator and other Interior officials. They dedicated a campers' shelter on nearby Hawksbill Mountain that Byrd had given to the park service. It matches a similar shelter dedicated a year before on Old Rag.

THE SHENANDOAH park was initiated by Byrd in 1928 when he was Governor of Virginia, and later he was instrumental in making it part of the national park system. Everything about Virginia—the Virginia in which he rose to fame and fortune—is for the Senator sacred ground. This is the extraordinary thread of consistency running through a career marked by stout resistance to the changes of a swiftly changing era.

While President Kennedy did not refer by name to Senator Byrd in his Yale speech, he might have had him in mind in his discussion of the dialogue between myth and reality. For the Senator any suggestion that deficit spending is a way to stimulate the economy is heresy. As the unyielding apostle of a balanced budget he has stood his ground against four Presidents on one fiscal issue after another.

IN OPPOSING many of the measures of the Roosevelt New Deal and the Truman Fair Deal, Byrd's influence has been largely negative, but it has been nonetheless potent. Both his critics and admiring fellow Southerners agree that as much as any single individual he has helped to check the course of racial integration in the South. At one point after the unanimous Supreme Court decision in 1954 ordering the public schools integrated he seemed to be about to go along with it. But he came out finally for "massive resistance" and the example of Virginia, mother of Presidents and the last stronghold of the Confederacy carried great weight.

OPPOSITION to Byrd and his organization has arisen in Virginia from time to time. He was opposed on integration and a concession was obtained giving some freedom of choice to parents who want to send their children to integrated schools. But today his strength in the legislature and in the county courthouses is as great as it ever was.

Two sections of the tax bill in particular he opposes. One is on the withholding of taxes due on dividends and interest. The Senator says this is so unwieldy as to be all but unworkable and with respect to dividends the Bureau of Internal Revenue now has the power to catch up with those who evade payment of taxes.

HE IS JUST as strongly against the proposed eight per cent investment credit to business, which he says would be for the most part a subsidy to business and not a stimulant. As an example he cites his own apple business. Having earlier this year put $200,000 into new construction at his processing plant at Berryville, he says that under the proposed credit he would get $16,000 from the government to which he believes he is not entitled. With his shy smile he notes that on this issue he finds himself in agreement with economist Leon Keyserling, the Farmers Union and others usually on the opposite side of the fence.

The Senator gave tacit support to General Eisenhower in the 1952 and '56 campaigns. He did not support the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in '60. Retaining his committee chairmanships and his hold on Federal patronage in his state, the Senator from Virginia is for President Kennedy an ever-present reminder of his dilemma in trying to put through a program with a party so deeply divided.

POLITICAL IMAGE

Raymond J. Crowley Great Day For Cotton Picker

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a great day for Hugo Lafayette Black, 76, onetime cotton picker.

There he sat on the Supreme Court bench and listened to the solicitor general of the United States, tall and handsome in his cutaway coat, eulogize him.

The solicitor general, Archibald Cox, called attention to the fact that Black was completing Monday his 23rd term on the high tribunal. Cox spoke of Black's contributions "to the country, to the law, and to the court."

Not a flicker of a facial muscle showed that Black enjoyed it, as he must have. Anyway, from his point of view, the best was yet to come.

For later at Monday's session he got to read—in tones of emotional solemnity—a majority decision striking a blow for his interpretation of his favorite constitutional amendment, the First.

It seems that the regents in charge of New York State public schools, being well-intentioned men, decided that a bit of religion ought to be introduced into the classroom. It took the form of a short prayer, as devoid of sectarianism as the regents could make it.

Black, with the aid of five other justices, knocked the prayer right out of the classroom window. The practice was, they said, wholly inconsistent with the First Amendment clause saying "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

This decision will have reverberations loud and long. Advocates of absolute separation of church and state began to hail it as soon as the headlines hit the street. Some such as Leo Pfeffer, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, interpreted it as making clear "that federal funds may not be used to finance parochial school education."

The high court, with its present makeup, would no doubt agree with this interpretation.

Others saw in the decision a blow to the nation's spiritual heritage. They agreed with Justice Stewart, dissenter, that it is hard to see how an "official religion is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it."

Some accused Black of fostering godlessness, as the Kremlin does. Whatever his critics may say, Black will have no quarrel with their right to say it. He believes the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech is absolute. He even believes there should be no "bel law" on this he is probably in a minority of one.

Black has come a long way since his Alabama cotton-picking days. He worked his way through law school, became a fire-eating New Deal senator, was elevated to the Supreme Court by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1937.

He stresses that the Constitution protects people in their rights. He also acknowledges that the Constitution "is language, and language is a slippery thing"—which is one reason there will be so much argument about the majority opinion Black delivered Monday.

clear and tuneful as it did in his youth.

"Inspiration with me isn't a matter of mood, but a matter of work and application," he said.

"If I have published a thousand melodies, I must have thrown away at least a third that many more. But that doesn't bother me. It's no trouble. There's always more."

"I never felt I was running dry. I can't wait to try the next new project. I think of life as a continuing thing—and there's always something to look forward to."

Rodgers has been so creative that some people feel he must think in musical notes instead of words. He smiles at the idea.

"With me it's a matter of expressing in music what others express in prose, color or poetry," he said. "I don't really go around thinking in music—ever."

Of his own shows, he prefers "Carousel," which many critics also rate as his best. He has no favorite among his melodies because "there are too many of them, and they mean too many different things to me."

"At 60 I don't feel at all that I've got it made. But I have no big unrealized ambitions. I don't want to write a symphony, because I don't know how."

"What I've tried to do is touch people—and when I have, that has been my biggest satisfaction."

This is Rodgers' philosophy in his own words:

"Have pleasure, give pleasure; avoid pain, and never knowingly give pain to others."

To Your Good Health Playpens Are Fine—Up To A Certain Age

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I enjoy your column regularly, but recently I had to disagree with your views. You wrote against the use of playpens for the toddler.

I wish you would qualify your statements, because I really think you are wrong. I consider the playpen one of the biggest boons to mothers, next to the folding gate.

I have four pre-schoolers, and have kept them in playpens until they climbed out by themselves, usually around 15-20 months.—MRS. S. T.

Every 30 often I feel that I have to defend myself — just as, in fact, every doctor has to defend himself occasionally against people who decide to overinterpret what he says.

Today's letter (I omitted the last three pages) is most intelligent, except for one thing: Wishing that I "qualify" statements even though I did so.

I'm not against playpens. The letter in the first playpen article asked whether I approved of "keeping a 20-month-old, perfectly normal baby in a playpen all day. He is wild when he gets out."

And I said no. I still mean no. If a baby is "wild" when let out after being in jail — I mean the pen — it means he's kept in too much. My answer included this, as the third sentence:

"Mind you, I have nothing against a playpen. It is a useful invention, properly used. For the very little fellows, it's a means of giving them a safe place to begin creeping, learning to haul themselves up on their feet, and so on.

Mrs. S. T., by her own letter, concedes that her vigorous youngsters climbed out at 15 to 20 months. Some can, some can't. Some can — but aren't allowed to. Some, developing more slowly (yet perfectly normally) may not be ready for more freedom until later.

Mrs. S. T., I'm afraid, has gone a bit astray, something like the patient who, told to "go easy on fats," has a tizzy if there's a trace of butter on a sandwich "because my DOCTOR told me ABSOLUTELY NO FAT." He didn't; he said go easy.

Or the man or woman, told to avoid excess exertion, plops into bed and makes the rest of the household do everything, including carrying a toothbrush and glass of water to the bedside.

I'm in favor of playpens — until a child is ready to have wider range. At that point I'm in favor (depending on household circumstances) of folding gates at stairs and doorways; or strict rules; or putting up out of reach.

I'm decidedly NOT in favor of forcing a child to stay in a playpen after he has made it clear that he's old enough to get out.

He's opposed to keeping a child in diapers after he's old enough—

Around The Rim One Of The Sure Signs Of Summer

When I returned from my vacation, I failed to find a water bill in the accumulated mail the two weeks provided. Since I once had a sad experience with the department over when the bill was due, I decided to query the city hall about it.

I walked up to the desk and in a very meek voice I told the clerk I had not been able to find my current water bill and had it, please, been mailed to me?

She looked through some records and told me that the bill had been mailed. I said that I might just as well pay it now that I was in the building and how much was it?

She didn't tell me. She just stuck the statement out where my bifocals would cover it.

She probably didn't have the heart to tell me how much it was. She looked like a real kindhearted lady.

I LOOKED at the statement and decided my glasses were dirty. I took them off to wipe them and this insured that I could not possibly see the figures. When I had the lenses clean I put the glasses back on and took another look.

It was still the same—$23.85.

I thought to myself that the reason I hadn't gotten a bill was that the department itself was ashamed to send it to me.

Even the clerk was depressed.

"It looks rather large," she remarked timidly. "Would you like for us to recheck the meter?"

"No, ma'am," I replied.

I FIGURED that if they reached that total the first round I just couldn't afford to have them take a second look.

I paid the bill, and staggered out to the car in bewilderment and returned to the office. I laid the receipt on my desk and my tenderhearted colleagues paraded by.

They were just brokenhearted over the tragedy.

"My gosh—$23.85," ejaculated one of the gang. "Ha! Ha! Ain't that awful?"

And he walked away choking with laughter.

YOU MEAN YOU paid it and didn't explode? another demanded. I knew that had he been socked with a bill like that he would have done the same thing. He's certainly no St. George and although he talks a big fight he'd will like any ordinary citizen if put to the acid (trather, water) test.

After arguing fruitlessly last summer, its strictly solo contender for me.

I only wish, if they are going to charge me at that rate that they would at least insure me a little pressure in the line.

The water doesn't even run out of the hose; it trickles. My yard slants from the street; and by stretching the hose downhill I can cause a lightweight water sprinkler to revolve in a slow dignified fashion.

It's very soothing to watch but does little toward irrigating the grass. But it creates a remarkable suction on my pocketbook.

Anybody Knows Rabbits Need Mates

For years the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has been worried about what becomes of all those darling little white bunnies, in cunning baskets, that are given each and every Easter to New York children. Or to children in any big city, for that matter.

TO BE TRUTHFUL, I have brooded right along with the ASPCA, fearful that the little rabbits probably died of malnutrition, or neglect, or claustrophobia — from being penned up in those fancy baskets. After all, how many city people are going to let a rabbit run loose in caboose?

But the ASPCA has been wringing its hands for naught. Little Easter bunnies in New York City, under a regime of tender, loving care, grow up to be only slightly less massive than Harvey, the most famous white rabbit since Alice's.

HOWEVER, let me start at the beginning. Two nights ago the Head of Clan Robb and I dined with friends who live in a big, cooperative apartment house, built around a concrete-paved areaway.

It was a hot night. The impressive ornamental windows that usually conceal the areaway from the building's foyer were wide open, in hope of a cross-current of air.

"Look at that big rabbit there!" exclaimed my husband, sober as a judge, pointing toward the areaway.

"Honey, are you feeling all right?" I asked, in real alarm. "It's been a hot day—"

LOOK OUT that window!" he commanded, with the indignation of righteousness challenged.

Well, there was a white rabbit, all right, twice as big as life, his pink ears swaying methodically as he destroyed a head of lettuce.

"Did you know there's a big, white rabbit in your areaway?" we asked our host and hostess, a question equivalent to asking a smalltown citizen if he realizes there's a rhinoceros in his back yard.

"WHY, YES," they said. "That's Butch. He was given to the children of the building superintendent a year ago last Easter and has been living happily ever since, eating prodigious amounts of lettuce and carrots donated by all the tenants and growing like a weed, to coin a cliché."

"But," said our hostess, a trained social service worker, "we—meaning all of the tenants—are worried about Butch."

"We think that Butch ought to have a mate," explained her husband, a distinguished physician who heads one of New York's major hospitals.

"WHY?" asked another guest.

"Because he's a rabbit," our hostess replied, with incontestable logic.

"Does Butch show any neurotic tendencies?" asked still another guest, a psychiatrist.

"Well, he's a compulsive eater, as you can see," said the hostess.

"Nonsense!" cried the doctor. "We feed him too much. All he needs is a diet."

"NOW, DON'T be too hasty," warned the psychiatrist. "He probably eats to sublimate."

"Why?" asked the why-guest. "Why, if he doesn't know what he's missing?"

"If everyone is so worried about Butch's bachelor state, why don't you tenants buy him a mate?" asked my sensible husband.

"DON'T THINK we haven't thought about that!" said our hostess. "But we are always stopped by the thought of what to do with all the little rabbits. That could be a real problem."

"Why?" asked the why-guest. "Don't any of you like hasepenpeffer?"

Holmes Alexander What's In It For Us?

WASHINGTON — Federal scientists rather expect that Khrushchev will accept the helping hand offered by President Kennedy for cooperation in Space — but Congress will want to know what's in it for us.

Earlier this month the U.S.-U.S.S.R. representatives at Geneva, Dr. Hugh Dryden and Academician Blagonravov, reported that they were discussing in some detail the possibility of cooperation in meteorology, a world magnetic survey and satellite telecommunications. The general idea seems to be that the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. will launch alternate satellites, and that these will be traced by ground stations of both countries and their allies.

IT SOUNDS FINE, but both the House and Senate have committees which are luckily apt to be skeptical of the Russians bearing gifts. The Senate Space committee heard the other day from James Webb, Administrator of NASA, that our country gave more than it got in recent exchanges on orbital flight. Astronauts Glenn and Titov both made speeches at the recent international Committee on Space Research (COSPAR), the first speech being a good scientific presentation, the second a wad of propaganda.

LAST NOVEMBER we hosted an international weather seminar to which a hundred countries were invited and over thirty sent representatives. Some of the Soviet bloc accepted, but didn't show. The explanation among NASA scientists is that the Russians didn't want to put themselves in the position of having to reciprocate. Maybe they have little to show — or much to conceal from the West. But if the word "cooperation" is in the Russian dictionary, it must have a different meaning than it does to us. The Russians don't give anything away.

Going deeper into the subject of Space exploration, I find the Soviets to have such a typically-Communist motivation that it would be folly for us to help them, and just about politically impossible for them to help us.

WRITING 50 years ago, the Russian scientist Tsolkovsky said, "Our planet is the cradle of reason, but one cannot live forever in the cradle." This man, billed by the Russians as "the father of astronautics," wrote a good deal about the means and the value of Space travel, but it remained for his Communist successors to give his Collected Works (1954) the party line. Two Russian writers, Varvarov and Fadeyev, have a 1961 commentary on the older writer's works, as follows:

"From a Marxist point of view it becomes clear that humanity will enter the cosmos not as a sum total of biological individuals but as social beings, as a collective, and more precisely as an industrial collective. It would be absurd to assume that the astronauts who have made their appearance in interplanetary space and on celestial bodies will be able to remain for any length of time separate from labor, production and technological processes. The spread of the human race through cosmic space will necessarily and inevitably be the spread of human industry."

THE MARXIAN purpose in Space, then, is to establish Marxian industry there. But is that also the American purpose? At NASA's Office of International Programs, which runs Space projects in which about 50 nations now share, I am told that the requirements for participation are: scientific validity, pay-as-you-enter, and peaceful intentions.

Under these rules we lately launched the British experimental satellite Ariel and later will launch a Canadian sounding device. Other countries are in line for this hoisting service. In return, they have set up tracking stations at home at their own expense, and are doing some research and a little development. The American purpose is to spread scientific knowledge, to share its benefits and press forward everywhere because we believe in science-for-science's-sake.

BUT WHAT A contrast! Here and elsewhere, the Communist policy is specific and self-seeking, while ours is generalized and generous. There is to spread their Marxist society, even unto the moon; ours is to allow every society, not excluding hostile ones, to survive and prosper.

It is hardly necessary to argue, I hope, that we are Better Guys than they are. But it's hard to see why we should help them, in Space or anywhere else, to advance their Marxist society, our sworn enemy and the scourge of mankind.

'Key' To The Problem

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — When the accelerator on Dean Blaser's car suddenly stuck and the car lurched forward, the 19-year-old driver decided to try to ride the vehicle down.

He pumped on the brake but the racing engine pulled the car on.

After swerving through Barberton, the brakes finally burned out. At that point a passenger leaped from the car and the vehicle smashed into a tree.

Police pointed out that in his solution Blaser overlooked a very simple element to the dilemma: He could have simply turned off the ignition.

No Progress In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe left for Elizabethville today, ending six weeks of negotiations with Premier Cyrille Adoula without any further sign of progress toward the union of Katanga and the central Congolese government.

After a sleepless night of 11-hour bargaining, Robert Gardiner, the U.N. chief in the Congo, admitted no document had been signed, and no agreement or communique could be produced to indicate any progress.

"There is nothing," Gardiner said, adding that a communique to be issued later today would be purely routine.

Tshombe told newsmen much remains to be done and that the negotiations would continue. He said he had every intention of meeting again with Adoula in Leopoldville or "some other place." He gave no indication of when.

U.N. officials broke into smiles of relief as Tshombe's U.N. plane took off without incident. Last time he left Leopoldville, in March, the Congolese authorities made a clumsy attempt to stop him by blocking the runway.

Today the U.N. had three truckloads of Nigerian troops discreetly standing by to prevent any interference with the departure. There were no Congolese troops in sight and all went smoothly.

There were no representatives of Adoula's central government at the airport.

Tshombe promised Gardiner to write a letter Wednesday after he had conferred with the Katanga government about the negotiations thus far. He also agreed to name his members of four joint commissions authorized to study the problems of reintegrating Katanga with the rest of the Congo.

"It will be interesting if he in fact does this," Gardiner told newsmen, "and it will also be interesting if he doesn't."

Gardiner's attitude was resigned. "We move in tiny steps," he said. "If we didn't accomplish anything this time, maybe we will the next."

Sen. Yarborough Declines Support For Connally

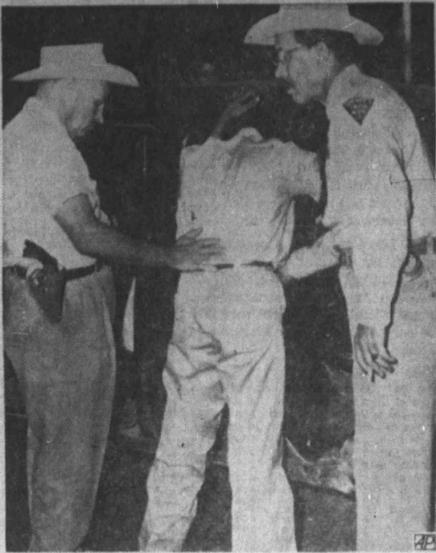

DALLAS (AP)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough has refused to sign a statement by Texas congressmen endorsing John Connally for governor, the Dallas News said today.

The News said Yarborough, in turn, failed to win similar endorsement for re-election in 1964. In a dispatch from Washington, the newspaper said:

Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont, chairman of the Texas congressional delegation, drafted the letter backing Connally and all 21 Texas Democrats in the House signed it last week.

Yarborough objected to signing because of the wording at the start. "We, the undersigned Democratic nominees," etc. He pointed out that his term lasts two years. Brooks rephrased the letter to identify the signers as "members of the Texas congressional delegation" but Yarborough still refused to sign.

At a closed luncheon for the delegation last Wednesday, attended also by Vice President Lyndon Johnson, Yarborough produced his own document. He gave it to Brooks and it was proposed that House members sign. "No one got out his pen," one of those present said. Since it appeared nothing would be done about the Yarborough endorsement, Brooks suggested that Rep. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio, the delegation's secretary, file the statement. Yarborough then asked that it be returned and it was.

Crackdown On Juvenile Gangs

Deputy Sheriffs Curtis Smith, left, and Henry Lopez, of Bexar County, search one of the youth stopped in San Antonio during a crackdown of juvenile gangs riding around the streets in cars. Sheriff Owen W. Kilday ordered the move to cope with a "wave of senseless killings," many of them committed by juvenile gangs firing from automobiles.

Nixon To Attend Danish Celebration

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will represent the United States in Denmark's celebration of American Independence Day on July 4.

Nixon will speak on the principles of the Declaration of Independence as applied to the world's current ideological conflicts. More than 50,000 persons are expected to hear him at Rebild National Park in Juland.

Last year the United States was represented by Walt Disney. Rebild National Park is a 20-acre tract bought in 1909 by Americans of Danish birth and deeded to the Danish government in 1912 with the stipulation that the signing of the American Declaration of Independence be celebrated there each year.

Parolee Kills Temple Officer

TEMPLE (AP)—Two quick shots killed city police Lt. Walter Staley as he stopped a car at a gas station being robbed early today.

Less than an hour later a man forced a hostage to drive past a road block but surrendered to pursuing officers within a few minutes.

Temple Police Chief A. C. Berry said the man in custody identified himself as Berry Padgett, a state prison parolee from Waco. He was held without immediate charge.

The Staley shooting and holdup in Temple followed a service station robbery at Waco, where the holdup man forced attendant Jerry Fickel to accompany him at gunpoint.

Berry and Deputy Sheriff Lester Gunn of Belton related these details: A handit robbed Fickel about 12:45 a.m. and compelled the station attendant to drive them 28 miles to Temple in the gunman's car. He told Fickel while they were en route that he intended to hold up another station here.

In Temple the holdup man took the wheel, drove into a gasoline station on the south side of town and took an undetermined amount of money from the man on duty, who was not immediately identified.

Next the robber herded both holdup victims to another car parked in the drive. It wouldn't start, and Fickel escaped while the other two were getting a battery. He sprinted 200 yards down Interstate 35 to a neighboring gas station, from which an attendant called police.

Fickel, expecting the robber to hunt him, faded into the darkness.

The gunman herded his other captive to the same station.

Staley meanwhile checked at a fourth service station, apparently because of a mixup over the address, and turned back into Temple. He wheeled into the station where the robber held his captive and the shooting followed.

Witnesses said the holdup man fired twice at pointblank range, opened the patrol car door, hauled Staley out and seized the policeman's pistol.

The robber then fled in another car, forcing his prisoner to go along. They headed toward Belton, but the gunman apparently grew confused over directions and doubled back into Temple.

He forced his hostages to wheel wide around a roadblock, where officers held their fire because of the captive, but stopped and surrendered less than a mile down the road.

Texas Rangers joined city police and sheriff's officers in questioning the prisoner.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican government is issuing a new series of airmail stamps to commemorate President Kennedy's visit this weekend. Four million copies of the issue will go on sale.

If your water heater is on "borrowed time"...

Replace it now with a modern flameless ELECTRIC WATER HEATER and save $50 with this...

Good for $50 on the retail purchase and installation of a new electric 40-gallon (or larger) glass-lined quick recovery water heater in any home served by Texas Electric Service Company. Certificate available now and for a limited time only from your electric appliance dealer, plumber or electrical contractor.

Only an ELECTRIC water heater gives you all these advantages:

SAFE—NO FLAME. No flame to blow out accidentally, no fuel to leak, no pilot light or flue to worry about.

FAST—EFFICIENT. Immersed electric heating elements put all their heat into the water. No heat is wasted up a flue. You get hotter water faster and it stays hot longer.

SUNSHINE CLEAN. No by-products of combustion to soil walls or ceilings. No unpleasant fumes. No flue to accumulate soot.

LONG LIFE. With an electric water heater, the tank bottom is not subjected to the corrosive action of flames. There are no valves to stick, no burner to adjust.

INSTALLS ANYWHERE. Needs no flue. Can be installed anywhere in the house, close to the point of greatest use. Saves long, heat-wasting pipe runs.

NEW LOW RATE. Only 1 1/4 cents per kilowatt-hour for all electricity normally used for water heating by the average family. Call our office for details.

DEAR ABBY

Just Tell Him Nay

DEAR ABBY: Since the track opened up I am without a boyfriend. To tell you the truth I have been stood up by a horse. He spends all his time doping the races and then he stays around the track every day the horses are running. You know you can't get hold of a man when he's at the track all the time. When the track is closed he is wonderful. Should I date the nice non-betting man who lives in my apartment? My boyfriend tells me he can't help if he has horses' blood in his veins.

STOOD UP BY A HORSE
DEAR STOOD: Date the nice non-betting man in your building. He might not win, but I'll bet he can place and show. And when your horse lover calls you after the racing season, tell him YOU'VE got horse blood in your veins, too—and say NAY.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you, or one of your readers, would explain to me what a "double greenback" shower is. I received an invitation to one last week and haven't recovered the GROOM's parents. Someone told me it means that the guests are expected to give money to both the bride and groom. I can't believe it! Begging, that's what it is. Heaven help us!

PROUD
DEAR PROUD: Yes, a "double greenback" shower is indeed an invitation to give money to both bride and groom. And you don't have to accept every invitation you get.

DEAR ABBY: I've noticed that when you get adverse comments on your opinions, you are fair enough to print them. Well, recently, you ran a letter from a man whose wife spent hours reading the Bible and copying verses from it. He complained, "She tries to convert all our friends who are already non-drinking, church-going people." And you advised him to take her to a doctor!

I infer that you are also one of those "non-drinking, church-going people" who feels that religion is just that. You do not realize that there can be a life lived in vital contact with God. It makes one a different person. No doubt this woman has had that experience, and is eager to share it with others. I've had it, too. And it wouldn't bother me one bit if you printed my name.

MRS. DAYTON YOUNG

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here with tears running down my face. I raised two sons and a daughter. I worked my fingers to the bone for them. I wore torn shoes so they could dress nicely. I scrimped and saved to make payments on cars for them. And do you know that on Mother's Day not ONE of them even sent me a card or called me up?

Cards Still In Running Thanks To Lindy McDaniel

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Lindy McDaniel, a workhorse right-hander rapidly reasserting his position as one of the acknowledged leaders of baseball's relief pitchers union, may be just about ready to hoist his placard and campaign for a shorter work week.

Continuing his comeback, the St. Louis Cardinals' relief ace trudged out of the bullpen Monday for his third appearance in four days, blanked Chicago on two singles for the final 3 2-3 innings and preserved a 6-4 victory over the Cubs.

The "Fireman of the Year" in 1960 with a 12-4 record and a 2.09 earned run average in 65 games, the 26-year-old McDaniel slipped to 10-6 last year as his ERA ballooned to 4.88. He got off to a slow start this season, but in his last 10 outings has been virtually untouchable.

TOP CONTROL
During that stretch, McDaniel has allowed only nine hits and has not yielded a walk, keeping the opposition from scoring for 23 1-3 innings and lowering his ERA to an outstanding 2.37.

The triumph was the fifth in seven games for the fourth-place Cards and moved them within 6 1/2 games of National League leading Los Angeles, beaten by Milwaukee 6-4. San Francisco crept to within a half-game of the Dodgers, by whipping Cincinnati 3-1 behind Billy O'Dell's five-hitter, and third-place Pittsburgh clobbered the New York Mets 13-3 to pull within 5 1/2 of the top. Philadelphia edged Houston 4-3.

Hank Aaron got the job done for the Braves, hitting a two-run homer in the sixth before his seventh inning single capped a three-run uprising and drove in the run that sent the Dodgers down to their fourth loss in the last five games. Tommy Davis went 5-for-5 for Los Angeles with a double and four singles, tying for the league batting lead with Stan Musial of the Cards at .342.

O'Dell (8-6) allowed the Reds only singles, and an unearned run in the third inning when Marty Keough singled after Harvey Kuenn dropped Wally Post's fly for a two-base error.

Smoky Burgess pounded Met hurlers for a triple, double and single, driving in four runs as the Pirates labored 15 hits in support of Vern Law (5-3). Roberto Clemente, with three singles, and Don Hoak each knocked in three runs as Law scattered eight hits and came within one strikeout of tying the club record. He fanned 11, most in his 10-year major league career. The loser was Craig Anderson (3-7).

Tony Taylor hit his third single with one out in the last of the ninth, sending Bob Wren home from second with the winning run for the Phillies. Reliever Dallas Green (2-2) won it with one-hit relief over the four innings and Hal Woodeshick (2-5) lost it. Ron Marjias hit home run No. 19 for Houston.

Tigers Blank ABClub, 6-0

With Bobby Brewer and Freddie Mearns holding the opposition in check with two hits, the Tigers blasted the ABC team 6-0 in the Teen Age League here Monday evening.

The Tigers got off to a one-run lead in the first, added two in the second and kept going for the win. Don Jones in the first and James Wiedel in the sixth were the only ABC batters to advance to third.

Locals Coast To Victory On Strength Of One Big Inning

An explosive first inning, coupled with the airtight pitching of Roy New, gave the Big Spring Legion team a 6-3 victory over Post at Post on Monday evening.

The victor clinched a place for Big Spring in the district playoffs and preserved a record of unbroken victories in league play.

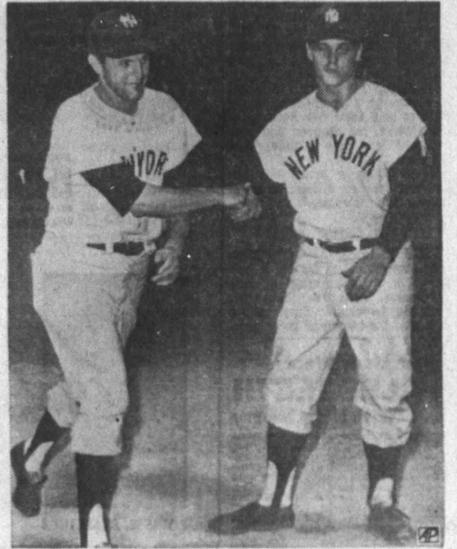

New sat the Post boys down with two hits, but one of them was a home run by J. Valdez. His big lick came in the third with E. Valdez, who had singled, and Cornell aboard.

While the big inning was enough, the Big Spring lads didn't look too impressive in the later frames. Despite a double and single, in the fifth—the only other hits they got—the locals could not muster another score.

Three games remain for the Big Springers, one in Denver City and another in Brownfield. Lamesa comes here Saturday evening for the last home game.

End Of 22-Inning Game

New York Yankees outfielder Jack Reed, left, is congratulated by Roger Maris, who scored ahead of him, as he scores on a two-run home-run in the top of the 22nd inning to win against the Detroit Tigers in the longest game in history. Maris singled to get on and Reed, the next batter, blasted one into the left field stands. The time for the game was 7 hours and the Yankees won 9-7. No runs were scored after the 6th inning until the game-winning homer.

Ford Hurts Arm In Beating Tigers

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even with super-star Mickey Mantle still hobbled by a gimpy knee, ace left-hander Whitey Ford suffered from another arm misery and slugger Roger Maris still battling a horrendous slump, the New York Yankees probably consider themselves in good shape.

For the first time in over two weeks they've got a winning streak going—two in a row.

The Yankees bunted their way to a 2-0 victory at Detroit Monday in the American League's only game, following up that historic 9-7 triumph over the Tigers in Sunday's seven-hour, 22-inning marathon.

But even in winning, all was not rosy for the wo-rieden defending league champions. Ford, just coming back from a bout with shoulder trouble, failed to finish a magnificent performance. Complaining of pain in the upper part of his pitching arm, the stocky southpaw left the field with one out in the ninth after limiting the Tigers to two hits. Marshall Bridges finished, giving up one more hit before nailing down the shutout.

Yankee manager Ralph Houk presented an all right-handed batting order against Detroit lefty Don Mossi and in the process benched Maris for the first time in his six-year big league career. Houk insisted the move was made to rest Maris, not because of his .243 batting average and low slugging production, and later inserted him as a defensive replacement for Mantle in right field in the ninth inning.

The righty swingers did the job against Mossi—utilizing the bunt as their main weapon. Phil Linz sneaked home brought in the game's first run in the fifth. Bill Skowron delivered the other with a bunt single in the sixth. All told, the Yanks got 10 hits off Mossi and Ron Kline, four of them on bunts.

Ford, the 25-game winner last year, went above the 500 mark for the season at 5-4 and played the lead role in his second straight shutout since being sidelined for two weeks with his ailing shoulder.

By taking three of five from the Tigers, the Yankees closed out an unprofitable road trip on a winning note.

After a 4-7 mark for the journey, the Yankees limped in third place, 2 1/2 games behind Cleveland, one back of Minnesota and three percentage points ahead of Los Angeles. They have three games with the Twins, starting tonight, then four with the Angels.

And who would have thought in the spring that a week's work against Minnesota and Los Angeles in late June would loom critical for the Yankees?

Among the latest to turn in scores were Gil Jones, Jack Cook, Jack Wallace and Lester Morton, all with 7s. So far Son Powell is leading the pack for medalist honors with a 72. It looks like an 80 may be the cutoff point for the championship flight.

Pirates Edge Lions, 9-7

The Pirates outlasted the Lions 9-7 in an American Little League game Monday evening.

Home runs figured in the victory, for Olin Chapman and Jimmy Farris poled out round trippers for the winners. Charles Smith and Cooper Procter kept the Lions in the game with a homer each.

Jimmy Farris got credit for the victory, striking out nine men and walking five. Cooper Procter whiffed eight Pirates but walked seven. Bryan Pesy started for the Pirates.

Two-Piece House On The Move

Spectators gather to watch the downhill progress of a two-piece San Francisco mansion on its way for a barge trip to Belvedere, Marin County, across the bay from San Francisco. The mansion, which stood at 1818 Broadway, was cut into two pieces for the move. The 15-room house will be restored to its turn-of-the-century grandeur in a new subdivision in Belvedere. Norman Gilroy, architect and designer, dreamed up the moving project as part of a plan to save a number of historic residences.

Medicare Push Being Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders reported today they are going through with plans to start action in the Senate chamber on the Kennedy administration medical care program now stalled in a House committee. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the ranking Senate Democrat, told newsmen after he and other party leaders in Congress had breakfast with President Kennedy that the move will be made the end of this week. Mansfield said there probably would be additions to the administration measure, along the line of bringing in the Blue Cross as an administering body and providing coverage for elderly persons not on the Social Security rolls. The administration bill would finance medical care for men and women over 65 through the Social Security taxes. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, Senate sponsor of the legislation, said last week he would try to attach it as an amendment to some other bill pending in the Senate. He also suggested the possibility of letting the Blue Cross system handle the care of several million persons who never got into the Social Security system.

Lions 'Acquit' Tailwister

Evening Lions were treated to top-drawer "drammer" Monday evening when the "Trial of the Tailwister" was staged by the Big Spring Evening Lions Club. Tailwisters at a Lions Club meeting are about as popular as mosquitoes at a beach party. They are the men (according to other members) who sneak around during dinners, banquets, business sessions and general meetings, looking for chances to fire members.

All Tailwisters are accused, jestfully, of course, of putting the money they collect from fines into a company known as the "Tailwisters' Foundation," the stock of which is owned by the Tailwisters themselves. The verdict of "not guilty" is the surprise of the evening. The part of the defendant Tailwister was played by the Tailwister himself, Bert Shive. Counsel for the defendant was Bill Birrell; counsel for the plaintiff club was its president, Bob Tawater. Bob Walker was the judge and others with roles in the trial were Earl Penner, Ed Shive, David Yater, J. O. Hagood, Irving Fenley, Virgil Perkins, Cotton Mize and C. W. Tanner. Walker cooked up the script for the program.

The leadership report bore out speculation that the administration would make changes in its program in an effort to attract support from wavering Congress members and would concentrate on the Senate as a springboard for putting the bill in motion. House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said the strategy does not mean the leadership has given up on the possibility of getting action in the House Ways and Means Committee, where the bill is snagged in controversy. He said the House can take concurrent action.

Glasscock And Howard Areas Get Showers

The weather man let up on his huffing and puffing Monday evening before rain could reach here. More fortunate were areas in southwestern Howard and northwestern Glasscock Counties, which got some good rains. The amount measured ranged from over two inches to as little as a trace.

Some strong winds hit Big Spring bringing dust around 9 p.m., and clouds looked promising. Promise was all however. Heaviest Howard County rainfall reported was by Arthur Stallings, two miles west of the Lomax store, where two inches fell. Other reports from that area showed: Lomax Gin 1.5 inches, Lawrence Adkins 1.5, E. W. Lomax residence 1.6.

Garden City had only a trace, the area south of Garden City and Midland Highway 3. Son Powell ranch in Glasscock County 2.3 inches, Jack McKinnon reported not even a trace at his grocery 10 miles east of Lomax.

Texas Electric Service Co. Odessa stations reported spotty rains, ranging from a trace at Permian and Andrews to .54 of an inch at Crane, .31 at McCamey, .31 at Odessa.

Stanton received only a trace. Mrs. McKinnon said the area around the store was extremely dry and that many farmers would not be able to plant cotton this year because of the lateness.

Hoover Opposes Court's Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover said today the Supreme Court ruling against public school prayers represents a "disintegration of one of the most sacred of American heritages."

In a rare comment on action by the court, Hoover said in a statement issued from his Waldorf-Astoria apartment: "This interpretation of the Constitution by the Supreme Court on prayers in our schools is a disintegration of one of the most sacred of American heritages."

"The Congress should at once submit an amendment to the Constitution which establishes the right to religious devotion in all governmental agencies — national, state or local."

Stock Market Making Slight Recovery, Active Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained higher early this afternoon, striving to hang on to its first advance in seven sessions. Trading was active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.70 to 202.40 with industrials up 2.00, rails up 1.30, and utilities up 1.00. Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers in the same range. The list was up vigorously at the start as it continued a recovery drive launched late in Monday's declining session.

After today's initial rise, however, profit-taking cut back some gains. Steels were no better than mixed. Chemicals were at best irregularly higher. A number of other major groups remained well on the upside.

U.S. Steel erased an early gain and was fractionally lower. Bethlehem was easy from the start. Jones & Laughlin was up nearly a point.

Ford was more than a point lower as an early advance by motors faded. General Motors kept a gain of nearly a point. Chrysler, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard held a narrow plus edge. Litton Industries held a gain of about 2.

Gains of a point or better were shown by Woolworth, Air Reduction, United Aircraft, Texaco, Xerox and Merck.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.31 at 541.08. Prices advanced in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds continued to decline.

Ford was more than a point lower as an early advance by motors faded. General Motors kept a gain of nearly a point. Chrysler, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard held a narrow plus edge. Litton Industries held a gain of about 2.

Gains of a point or better were shown by Woolworth, Air Reduction, United Aircraft, Texaco, Xerox and Merck.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.31 at 541.08. Prices advanced in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds continued to decline.

Certificate Of Completion

Mrs. Lorna Baum, R. N., right, presents Frances Bartlett with a certificate to show that she has completed a course in re-motivation taught last week and Monday at the Big Spring State Hospital. Miss Bartlett is one of three Veterans Administration employees who took the course. It was completed Monday afternoon.

Remotivation Is Catalyst To Patients, Says Doctor

Remotivation therapy has had impressive results thus far and its value becomes more obvious as it is used.

Addressing graduates of a re-motivation class, Dr. James L. Childs, Big Spring State Hospital Staff member, Monday pointed out specific cases where persons had withdrawn from reality. Through drug therapy followed by re-motivation therapy, they were drawn from their depressions to take a greater interest in life.

"In some cases the results are impressive; at other times they can hardly be seen," he said. "Remotivation acts as a catalyst to stir latent interest. Through discussion groups patients can be induced to take an interest in their surroundings and return to the world of reality."

Mrs. Lorna Baum, R. N., instructor for the course, passed out certificates of completion to the graduates. Refreshments were served in the dining room on Ward 8.

Included among the graduates were Mrs. Walter Ammon, Midland; Mrs. J. W. McCart, Midland; Mrs. Ila Coates, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Fortune; Ruth Eubanks, Mrs. Hila Weathers, Jackie Johnson, Jimmy Roger, Mrs. Otilie Jolley, John Rodriguez and Bobby Sellers. From the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital were Mrs. Charlene Goins, Frances Bartlett and Mrs. Naomi Hedrick.

Cindy Is Leaving For Cooler Clime

LLODI, N.J. (AP) — It's getting up hot for Cindy the seal. She leaves today for cooler quarters. Cindy has been splashing in the backyard pool of dog warden George Groshman since last Tuesday when he captured her flopping around the Hackensack meadows.

But animal authorities informed Groshman Monday that the water and weather may prove too warm for the 175-pound seal and he reluctantly agreed to a change in climate.

Henceforth, the seal will do her swimming at the Coney Island, N.Y. Aquarium.

Teachers May Be Forced To Go On Strike

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—Public school teachers are becoming increasingly impatient with intolerable working conditions and, in some circumstances, may feel forced to go on strike, an official of the National Education Association said today.

"Teacher strikes are deplorable, but so are the conditions that cause them," said T. M. Stinnett, assistant executive secretary of the NEA.

Stinnett said in an interview he does not approve of teacher strikes, but "in all probability we will continue to see such strikes in the years ahead because they are the last recourse to dramatize bad situations and move the public to action."

The strike in New York City last spring, he said, was the result of the total disillusionment of the city's teachers.

"It was an accumulation of intolerable conditions," Stinnett said "including politics, bureaucracy, obsolete and outmoded buildings and rotten equipment."

Stinnett is attending the annual conference of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, opening here tonight. He headed the commission for 10 years, until last August.

"If I read the signs correctly," he said, "teachers are going to be much more aggressive, much more militant in demanding better conditions of work so they can provide the services to children that the American public has a right to expect, and so they can do the professional job they have been trained to do."

"This doesn't mean that power tactics are inevitable. We need not have strikes, nor threats of strikes. Our problems can be solved by mutual recognition of the facts. We can work these things out through negotiations."

Man With A Mission, And A Nervous Stomach

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—"A man with a mission and with a nervous stomach."

That's the way U.S. Circuit Judge John Minor Wisdom describes James H. Meredith, who has come closer than any Negro in cracking Mississippi's school segregation barrier.

Wisdom wrote the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision issued in New Orleans Monday which ordered U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize to issue an injunction forcing the white University of Mississippi to admit Meredith.

It took more than a year for Meredith to get the order. Mize, 74, an Ole Miss graduate, rejected his suit several times.

The soft-spoken Meredith, an Air Force veteran, is a small man with a thin mustache.

NO ARGUMENT
"I have no argument, fight or struggle with segregation," he said. "I seek only to find a common ground for settlement of our mutual problems. My relationship with whites goes no further."

Meredith described the appellate court decision as a good birthday present. He turned 29 Monday.

Meredith said his ambition is best described by Ole Miss registrar Robert B. Ellis, who once said: "This man has a mission in life to correct all the ills of the world."

Attorneys for the state of Mississippi used Ellis' description as one reason why Meredith should not be admitted to the 126-year-old university.

Wisdom commented on Ellis' description and noted that the defense made strong issue of an Air Force psychiatrist's report that Meredith suffered occasional nervous stomach and was extremely concerned with racial problems.

The judge wrote: "It is certainly understandable that a sensitive

Negro, especially one overseas, might have a nervous stomach over the racial problem.

"There must be a good many Negroes stateside with similar abdominal reactions."

LOSE CREDITS

Meredith is only six credit hours away from graduation at Jackson State (Negro) College. Ole Miss officials say he will lose half his credits by transferring to the university, must take a full year's course to graduate, and will lose his GI educational benefits.

Meredith says he is financially stable and doesn't mind the delays. Married and the father of a 3-year-old son, he owns three farms near his native home of Kosciusko in central Mississippi.

Ole Miss authorities and state officials had no comment on the appeals court decision. They almost certainly will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, which recessed Monday until Oct. 1.

NEW CHEMICALS

Soldier's Skin To Become Armor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army medical scientists are on the track of chemicals which may convert a soldier's skin into armor against disease-bearing insects and sunburn.

The research is especially important to military operations in Southeast Asia and other tropical areas where Western troops are vulnerable to certain types of fevers and strong sunlight.

The work is being done under a broad program aimed at giving each soldier entering a combat zone his own built-in shield against diseases, climate, and various kinds of stresses.

Dr. Marion B. Sulzberger of the Army's Medical Research and Development Command said a big effort is being made to discover special substances which would enter the skin after being swallowed or applied on the outside.

These substances, he said in a paper, would make the skin's surface and its secretions repellent to insects, flies, mosquitoes and ticks, which carry most of the important diseases affecting military operations.

"We know the exact chemical nature of a few of the most strongly attracting substances," Sulzberger said, "and we have hopes, therefore, of finding some which will act as repellents and which the soldier can then produce in himself and on the skin's surface when given the adequate stimulus."

A major avenue of approach, the Army dermatologist said, is intensive study of the differences between skin of people who naturally attract insects and others whose body chemistry repels them.

For greater protection against sunburn, Sulzberger said, the goal is a chemical which will become incorporated in the skin's surface and enhance its capacity to filter out the burning rays.
A more remote prospect involves developing chemicals that would enable the skin to withstand the white-hot flash from a nuclear explosion.

Famed Cellist Presents Concert

NEW YORK (AP)—A miniature concert was presented by cellist Pablo Casals before an audience that included Queen Mother Elisabeth of Belgium as the feature of a formal dinner Monday night.

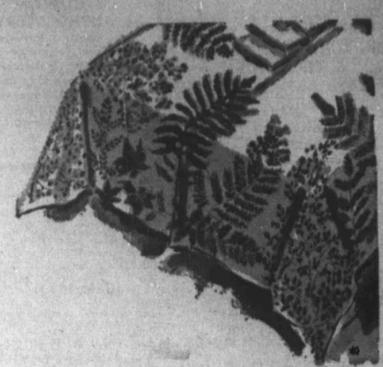

The occasion was a tribute to the 85-year-old Casals by the friends of the Conservatory of Music of Puerto Rico which was opened at San Juan three years ago under Casals' sponsorship.

About 400 persons attended the dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and gave the maestro repeated applause.

'Just Like Old Times,' Mae West Says Of Ban

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It gives Mae West kind of a warm feeling being banned again.

"Just like old times," said Mae, her still-remarkable chassis rotating in the familiar Westian manner.
She had received word that her new record, "Am I Too Young," had been banned by a San Francisco radio station. It was another demerit badge to add to her long string. The list extends from being pinched for her New York play "Sex" to having her "Person to Person" segment dropped by CBS because her mirrored bedroom and nude portraits were deemed too racy for the home screen.

I dropped out to Mae's seaside home at Santa Monica to learn about these and other matters. As usual, she was in the pink negligee and surrounded by portraits of herself with and without costuming.
"Very interestin'," she commented on the record ban. "I guess they thought it was a little too suggestive. Can't understand that."

She indicated that she would get her career going again, what with the record and forthcoming album, "Peel Me a Grape." She might deliver the new songs in the flesh, so to speak, on a night club tour. Also cooking: a possible picture in Rome, an animated

(what else) television series called "Little Mae, the Wickedest Woman in the World."

Mae had some observations about the current Hollywood situation, in which stars are accused of sabotaging the film industry by their high demands and low work habits.

"I think the answer might be to give these stars a percentage of the profits rather than big salaries," she observed. "Then the studios can make the pictures more reasonably and the stars might behave better. Knowing added cost would cut into their profits."

"Personally, I never had any problems. I was always on time and tried to save money; I learned that early, because my mother put up the money for my first shows."

"I never got a percentage of the profits on my pictures because Paramount was in bankruptcy litigation and couldn't give it to me. I got the studio out of trouble. I made 'She Done Him Wrong' in three weeks when most pictures were taking 12 and 15. It made a fortune."

"Even though I didn't get a piece of the action, they paid me very handsomely. I got $300,000 for acting in the picture and another $100,000 for writing it."

Mae admitted that the studios faced a tough job in wooing the public away from the television set.

"There has been only one real sex image to come along in recent years," she commented, "and that is Elvis Presley. Oh, there are some girls who are good actresses and all that."

"But Elvis is the only star to come along with real sex. That boy has got it. I recognized it the first time I heard his records."

State Textbook Committee Votes To Quit

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas House Textbook Committee voted to disband after going into a secret session Monday.

Rep. W. T. Dungan of McKinney, chairman of the committee which has held hearings in Austin, Amarillo, San Antonio and Dallas, said the vote was 4-0.

He did not vote but stopping the committee hearings "was not my idea," Dungan said.

The committee went into closed session after a morning of haggling over what will be included in its final report to the legislature.

Rep. R. W. Bass of DeKalb said afterward that he will introduce legislation to change the method of selecting textbooks and to keep certain books from getting into the schools.
