Schirra Next Astronaut, Six Orbits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced today that the next manned orbital flight will be planned for as many as six orbits, sometime later this summer, with astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., 39, as the pilot.

SCHIRRA

D. Brainard Holmes, manned space flight director of the civilian space agency, said the decision as to the specific mission—that is, how many orbits will actually be made—will depend upon many technical factors which will be evaluated constantly up to the time of flight and even during the first turns around the earth.

If the mission goes to six orbits it would involve a nine-hour flight, compared with the 4½ hours of three-orbit missions. The two U.S. orbital flights so far have been for three turns.

The flight plan will call for considerable drifting flight to conserve fuel for re-entry maneuvering.

PACIFIC OCEAN

If the flight goes to five or six orbits it would mean landing about 300 miles northeast of Midway Island in the Pacific Ocean, although the space craft would be launched from Cape Canaveral.

Fia. That is because of the rotation of the earth during the extra flight time.

A four-orbit mission would bring the craft down about 200 miles east of Midway.

Landing points for one, two or three orbits would remain the same as in earlier Mercury-Atlas missions, off the southeastern coast of the United States.

In making the announcement, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said:

"We believe that another three-orbit mission will increase considerably our growing knowledge of space flight. Anything more than three orbits should be considered a bonus."

COOPER NEXT

The NASA official said astronaut L. Gordon Cooper, 36, will serve as backup pilot to Schirra. Schirra, a Navy lieutenant commander, is a graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, is married and has two children. He is a native of New Jersey.

The selection of Schirra and the planning for six orbits had been reported earlier by the San Diego Union in a copyrighted story from Washington for Wednesday editions.

Selection of the primary and secondary astronauts and the decision to extend the mission followed nearly a month's study by NASA on the Malcolm Scott Carpenter flight, the Union said.

Secret Army Organization May Be Giving Up Struggle

ALGIERS (AP)—Leaders of the terrorist Secret Army Organization in Oran, which has virtually held that city in its grip for months, appeared today to be giving up the bloody struggle.

It was too early to be certain that the secret army was fading off the scene in the western Algerian city.

But there were these indications: —French authorities reported that former Col. Jean Defour, one of the secret army leaders in western Algeria, made a broadcast Tuesday night ordering a halt to sabotage in Oran.

FLED ORAN

—Unconfirmed reports circulated in Oran that ex-Gen. Paul Gardy, had fled Oran with several of his aides. Gardy had announced he was taking over leadership of the secret army after several top figures in the organization were captured.

—Pierre Laffont, the director of the Oran paper, Echo D'Oran, and a leader of the European community, said Algeria should become independent in peace. In an editorial, Laffont called on residents of the Oran area to avoid new suffering during the days leading to independence.

—There were no fresh reports of violence in Oran, which has frequently been tortured by explosions and fires for weeks. Telephone communications, cut by sabotage, were returning to normal.

A huge fire on oil tanks on the waterfront caused authorities to close the port Tuesday, blocking the exit of European refugees by ship for at least 48 hours.

—Rene Soyer, a French official who has been trying to mediate between Oran's secret army and the Moslem National Liberation Front (FLN), predicted a peace agreement by Friday. He left for Oran, apparently taking new instructions.

Other officials also expressed optimism that a deal could be worked out and terrorism halted in the west Algerian port before Algeria's Moslem majority endorses independence in a self-determination referendum Sunday.

Soyer began his mediation efforts after the deserter French officers directing European resistance in Oran rejected the peace pact worked out 10 days ago between the Algiers' secret army command and the Moslems.

Although vague in its promise of amnesty for European terrorists and the integration of Europeans in local security forces, the pact has brought peace to most of Algeria.

Supreme Court Rules Herring Sanity Trial Void

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court ruled today that a preliminary sanity trial for John Mack Herring "was never legally invoked and that the judgment rendered by it is therefore void."

Herring, an Odessa High School youth, was charged with murder in the fatal shooting of a classmate, Elizabeth Jean Williams, 17. He told officers the girl pleaded with him to shoot her.

The opinion today said that the court would not order a new trial on the assumption that the district judge will vacate the earlier finding that Herring was insane at the time of the March 22, 1960, slaying. The state has argued a jury should have ruled on Herring's sanity both at the time of the slaying and at the time of the hearing.

The unanimous opinion said that the Supreme Court assumes that a new trial will be called.

Wife Reports Soblen Missing

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Soblen, convicted spy who is due to surrender for a life sentence Thursday, was reported missing by his wife, the government said today.

Soblen, 62, was convicted of spying for the Soviet Union. The government said his wife has reported him missing since Monday.

Federal Judge William B. Herlands issued a bench warrant for Soblen's arrest on a motion by assistant U.S. Atty. David R. Hyde. FBI agents were reported hunting for Soblen.

SALVOS OF CRITICISM

Prayer Amendment Given Little Chance Of Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of Congress, still firing salvos of criticism at the Supreme Court's ruling against public school prayers, have introduced amendments to the Constitution to override the decision.

But congressional leaders—and the long, tedious mechanics involved—cast doubt on the move's success.

Charges of atheism and giving aid to communism were hurled across Capitol Hill at the white marble court building by members of the legislative branch, some of whom contended the justices had taken God out of the law of the land.

While amendments to legalize classroom praying were introduced in both House and Senate, there were also demands for stronger action, including amendments to require Supreme Court justices to stand for election and giving Congress the power to overrule the court's decisions.

REMOTE CHANCE

The possibility was seen as remote, however, that any of the suggested constitutional changes could win the needed two-thirds majority in both houses and ratification by three-fourths of the states.

In the Senate, Republic a Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he didn't think the proposals to put classroom prayers in the Constitution could be passed.

"The proposition of church and state is so ingrained into our people that I doubt that such an amendment would be adopted," Dirksen said.

in the House by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who declared the court had no other choice.

"The First Amendment is well grounded in history and has served to save the United States from civil religious strife," Celler said.

RULING

The court held 6 to 1 Monday that a prayer drafted by New York's Board of Regents and recommended for recital at the beginning of each school day was "an establishment of religion" forbidden by the First Amendment. It is a non-denominational prayer and pupils whose parents objected could be excused from reciting it.

Justice Hugo L. Black, who wrote the majority opinion, said that placing "the power, prestige and financial support of government" behind a particular form of religious observance tends to coerce religious minorities to conform.

Even those who remained non-committal about the court itself, however, expressed concern that the ruling, underscoring as it does the doctrine of separation of church and state, casts a cloud of uncertainty over a wide range of federal programs of assistance to church-supported institutions, such as hospitals, libraries and colleges.

INTERPRETATION

One making a broad interpretation of the ruling was Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., who said: "One effect of the decision, in my view, is to make it clear that the Congress cannot enact legislation granting or loaning tax funds to church schools for any services other than those which pupils would need—even in the absence of their attendance from school—such as health services and the lunch program."

Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, summed up the feeling of most members concerned about the effect of the decision on such legislation when he said, "It complicates an already confused situation."

The court decision was the principal topic of discussion in the capital, with dozens of senators and representatives taking the floor to denounce it, some in violent terms.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., stated "only a court composed of agnostics could find anything wrong with this prayer. The court has now officially stated its disbelief in God Almighty."

Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Wis. said many will see in the decision "a deliberate and carefully planned conspiracy to substitute materialism for spiritual values and so to communize America."

Rep. Dominick V. Daniels, D-N.J., said, "I respectfully disagree with the Supreme Court. It may be very pleasing to the Communists and Mr. Khrushchev but to me it is far reaching and causes me great concern."

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., said, "If the Supreme Court were openly in league with the cause of communism, they could scarcely advance it more than they are doing now."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "I always thought that this nation was essentially a religious one."

"I realize of course," he said, "that the Declaration of Independence antedates the Constitution, but the fact remains that the Declaration was our certificate of national birth. It specifically asserts that we as individuals possess certain rights as an endorsement from our common creator."

"VERY SAD"

Boston's Richard Cardinal Cushing called the decision "very sad" and said, "It is ridiculous to have a motto like 'In God we trust' on our coins and to begin legislative sessions with a chaplain's prayer and at the same time prevent children from opening classes with public school prayer."

The National Council of Churches said in a statement: "The principle of separation of church and state must be observed and the rights of minorities respected. But this principle and these rights need not and must not prevent forms of public school recognition of the role of religion as viewed by the vast majority of parents and other American citizens."

In New York, the American Civil Liberties Union said it was asking its affiliates across the country to watch for religious practices in local public schools.

MORE TO COME

The ACLU, which took an active part in bringing the prayer issue before the high court, said: "We are confident that as other more sectarian religious practices are brought to the court's attention, they likewise will be declared unconstitutional."

Part of the employees of two firms operating in Big Spring will ballot Thursday and Friday on whether they want the International Union of Operating Engineers as their representative.

For Pioneer Natural Gas Company the referendum is system-wide and will involve one station in Louisiana as well as those in West Texas and the Panhandle. The petitioner is local No. 340 at Amarillo.

Eligible to vote are the building operators, division warehousemen, extra laborers, field superintendents, leakage foremen, meter subforemen and similar operations employees. Hours of voting here will be Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and at Lamesa from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

A panel consisting of a National Labor Relations Board representative, one from management and one from the union is conducting the balloting.

Friday at 7 a.m. approximately an employee of Texas Coca Cola Company will ballot on whether they want representation by local No. 226 of the IWOE.

A project developed through cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce advertising committee and the maintenance and repair staff at Webb AFB has been the renovation of a large sign on US 80 west. Chinese Defenders Are Calm Over Red Buildup

QUEMOY (AP) — Nationalist Chinese defenders on this bit of gun-bristling rock are taking the massive Communist buildup on the China mainland only five miles away a lot more calmly than most of the rest of the world. In the last three weeks, a top Nationalist commander reports, the Reds have boosted their military might to about 400,000 infantry and more than 300 jet fighters in the mainland crescent that rings three sides of the Quemooy complex.

That is 50 per cent above the pre-June 1 estimates of Communist strength in the area.

The Nationalists have an estimated 70,000 soldiers on this 50 square miles of island. The only planes here are a few tiny single-engine artillery spotters. Jet defense for the Quemooy complex would have to come from Formosa air bases 150 to 200 miles away or—possibly—from U.S. Navy carriers operating in the shallow Formosa Strait.

American jets would defend Quemooy only if the Communists attacked and then only if President Kennedy decided that the Red attack was the prelude to an attack against Formosa itself.

Despite the disparity of Communist and Nationalist strength, there is little apparent worry on this island whose mountains and cliffs are honeycombed with tunnels and gun positions carved out of solid rock.

Quemooy knows it can withstand any artillery bombardment the Reds can hurl at it. Its defenders express confidence that they can throw back any invasion the Reds might attempt with what landing craft the Communists are known to have.

In October 1949, the Nationalists virtually wiped out two Red divisions that tried an invasion. The Reds tried again the following July, and again the Nationalists killed or captured almost all of the invaders. Quemooy stood up under an intensive artillery bombardment in September, 1954, another in June-July 1957, and a six-week artillery pounding in the fall of 1958.

During the 1958 attack, the Red guns pounded the Quemooy complex with half a million high explosive shells.

Quemooy today is in far better position to withstand an artillery attack and an invasion than four years ago.

Headquarters and command posts are buried in granite tunnels many feet below the surface. Hundreds of underground dumps are piled high with food, weapons and ammunition.

Scores of tanks can rumble out of huge underground caverns in minutes. Machine guns and high velocity antitank guns can sweep virtually every yard of beach. Large areas of the sandy beaches are mined.

Miles of tunnels carved out of solid rock provide living areas for many of the Nationalist soldiers. There are hundreds of underground shelters for the island's 43,000 civilians. Already whole villages live underground as a matter of course.

Despite Peiping charges that the Nationalists are preparing to invade the mainland, and statements by Nationalist officials that the time is ripe, Quemooy shows no sign of being a staging area for an invasion.

Negro Infant Returned To Hospital Crib

HOUSTON (AP)— Five-day-old Sidney William Palm, who disappeared last Friday night, is back unharmed in his crib at Lockwood Hospital.

Police found the Negro infant yesterday in the home of Mrs. Ruth Warford, 24, a Negro housewife. She said she apparently believes the baby is hers. She was charged with kidnapping.

Sidney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alquit Palm of Houston, was taken from the hospital nursery 31 hours after he was delivered by Caesarean section.

The baby was recovered by Lt. Arthur Peake and policewoman Eddy Hamilton. They acted on a phone tip from a suspicious doctor.

The physician said Mrs. Warford's husband, Charlie, called and asked if he had delivered a child his wife claimed as hers.

Warford told police he took his wife to the hospital about 8 p.m. Friday and watched her leave through an emergency exit about an hour later with the infant. He said she told him she had just given birth to the child.

Police said the baby appeared to have been well cared for.

A doctor at the hospital said Mrs. Warford may be suffering from pseudo cyosis. He described this as a deluded belief she is expecting a child, which causes some symptoms of pregnancy.

13 Perch In Protest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Thirteen inmates are perched on a water tower at Western State Penitentiary today in a protest over conditions at the institution.

I was anyone's guess how long they would stay there. Prison officials decided to wait them out. They are on a catwalk about 100 feet above the ground.

Six prisoners scrambled up the tower shortly after dinner Tuesday night to join a convict who had been on the tower since Monday. They had stuffed their pockets with food.

Then, with buckshot flying, six more prisoners dashed across the prison yard and up the tower a short time later.

The whole thing started Monday afternoon when inmate Robert Payne, 29, formerly of Washington, D.C., climbed the tower, protesting the treatment of prisoners in solitary confinement.

He said he wouldn't come down until he was assured a chance to speak with a state official.

On the tower the 13 prisoners displayed some bed sheets sewed together with this message written on it: "We are protesting brutality. Our presence (presence) is to support Payne's allegations and dispute the claim of the warden."

Warden James Maroney said that three guards fired two shotgun volleys into the air when the second group of six dashed for the tower. He said the shots were intended only as a warning.

For a time, prison officials spent anxious moments, fearful that a riot might develop among some 750 prisoners in a recreational area.

OXNARD, Calif. (AP)—The Railway Express delivered to Jack Evans a big crate labelled "out-board motor."

Inside, sure enough, was an out-board motor—stolen from Evans' garage in 1947—and this note: "I did not think I would be so long in getting this back to you." It was signed "Bill J."

The motor, shipped prepaid from Alhambra, Calif., was in good condition. Evans said he has no idea who Bill J. is.

Voters Pick Cross-Labeled Candidates

By The Associated Press
Democrats in South Carolina's 2nd Congressional District have picked a state legislator who backed the Republican ticket in 1960 to run next fall against a Republican who used to be a Democrat.

State Rep. Albert Watson, a 40-year-old Columbia lawyer, won the Democratic nomination for Congress Tuesday in a close runoff primary with Dr. Frank Owens III, Columbia physician and former mayor.

In North Dakota, Republican Sen. Milton R. Young was running away from his opponent in a bid for a third-term nomination. Voting was light in the statewide primary that featured no other contests among top candidates.

In an Idaho runoff, attorney Orval Hansen took the Republican nomination for the 2nd Congressional District from former Congressman John Sanborn.

In Rhode Island, State Rep. John H. Chafee, of Warwick, was endorsed for governor by the Republican State Central Committee. His main opponent, Louis V. Jackvory Jr., announced after the primary, Democrats have not yet endorsed candidates.

BOOK OF CONVERSIONS
By T. H. Tubel, preacher
Church of Christ, 200 West Highway 30
P.O. Box 1282
To find examples of conversion to Christ, we must come to this side of the cross. The thief on the cross, the sinful woman of Luke 7, blind Bartimaeus and Zaccheus are not examples of conversions for us. What happened to these people, happened before the death of Christ, and hence was not under the New Testament. The New Testament was not in force at that time, but today it is, and if we are converted, it must be under the New Covenant.
"For where a testament is, there must also of necessity be the death of the Testator. For a testament is of force after men are dead; otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth." (Heb. 9:16,17)

The book of Acts of Apostles is the book of New Testament conversions. It tells of cases of conversion which took place after the New Testament came into force. Not all the details are told in any one case of conversions in this book; but by taking all the cases together, it is easy to get the whole truth.
Why not attend our open-air revival tonight? See below.

OPEN-AIR REVIVAL

"The Problem of Which Church to Choose" will be Mr. Tom Tubel's sermon tonight, 8 o'clock in the open air, just north of the north gate to Webb AFB. Question period follows the sermon. The West Highway 30 Church of Christ invites everyone tonight and throughout the week.

More Women Reported Attending AA Meetings

EDITOR'S NOTE—The medical view that alcoholism is a disease is widespread among the general public. But there is a subtle qualification. Through habit, tradition or the eternal double standard, the disease in the eyes of the public seems more understandable in a man than in a woman. This and other special problems of the woman drinker are examined in this third article in a five-part series.

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press Women's Editor

She is rich, respected, a patron of the arts.

Don't try to reach Clarissa in the afternoon though because she stays in her bedroom with formidable "headaches." Her grown children and devoted husband urge her to see a doctor. She gently but firmly refuses.

Mary lives in a conventional split-level house in the suburbs with three small children and a husband who doesn't like to come home anymore. Unkempt house, children running wild, humiliating scenes—he's thinking about divorce.

Karri is a smart career girl who knows her way around. She downs a stinging shot of whisky every morning to face getting up, and snatches periodic pickups during the day. "I can always cut it out if I think it's getting the upper hand," she insists.

These three women—women who might be your friends, your next door neighbors, even your wife—are alcoholics.

HOW MANY?
Three out of how many? Some experts estimate there are one million women alcoholics. Others say perhaps 2½ million, about the same as for men.

Dr. Marvin Block, chairman of the American Medical Association Committee on Alcoholism, thinks the ratio between men and women could be about 50-50. He says the currently accepted ratio of one woman to five men is very misleading. The low figure refers primarily to clinic patients, and women are much less likely to seek help in public for a problem they, or their families, try to hide from the world.

A spokesman for Alcoholics Anonymous, which does not break down its attendance figures according to sex, says, however, that more and more women are now attending its meetings.

"It's hard enough to see a man drunk—but a woman!" This is an American proverb H. L. Mencken traced back to 1907. But it sums up the double standard attitude prevailing today.

MEDICAL VIEWS
The medical view that alcoholism is a disease—and should be treated as a disease—hasn't overcome the mass opinion that problem drinking in women can be equated with vice and moral turpitude.

Yet it's not the blowsy slatterns who make up the bulk of women alcoholics. A recent study shows only 3 per cent of all alcoholics are derelicts. Alcoholism in women cuts across social, age and economic strata, with the average woman alcoholic of better than average intelligence and income.

Why is the number of women who drink compulsively apparently increasing?

For one thing, drinking has been moved to the home from the saloon—where, you'll recall, it was, "Daddy, dear daddy, come home with me now," never mommy.

Now, pre-dinner cocktails are an evening ritual in which the wife joins. At parties the good hostess is one who keeps each glass filled with doubles, her own included. And to keep terribly gay, she can slip herself extras in the kitchen while her husband tends bar.

SUBURBIA
Anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead points to the mass movement to cities and suburbs as a contributing factor.

A woman brought up in a community having social and religious sanctions against liquor, where "good women and ladies don't drink," moves to a larger, less protected, more sophisticated environment. She gets lonely.

When her husband, usually a commuter, makes it home, he wants a few cocktails to unwind. Tentatively she joins him.

As times goes by, alcohol becomes her comfort, a way to pass the time, an escape from lonely reality and, finally, a necessity.

She knows by now it's poison for her, but she can't give it up. Her life has one aim, drinking. Her time is devoted to outwitting the enemy—usually her family—which is trying to keep her from the one thing she wants most.

Housewives sometimes can hide their secret sickness from their husbands a long time. Through an alcoholic haze they can tend children, get chores done and buy liquor undetected through clever economies in the household budget.

DISGUSTED
But eventually the day comes when the husband finds her drunk. He is disgusted. If she fails in her promises to give it up—and unless she seeks outside help failure is almost inevitable—he is likely to pack up and leave.

Men are usually less patient than women about alcoholic mates. Dr. Ruth Fox, medical director of the National Council on Alcoholism, has found. And there are always the children to consider.

Says Dr. Fox: "Because of the closeness of children to the mother, they are apt to suffer irreparable damage. The seemingly sudden withdrawal of love may lead to deep and lasting feelings of rejection, isolation and abandonment."

But alcoholism in women doesn't flourish solely on quiet residential streets, behind blinds drawn against the afternoon sun. It can start on the business scene.

Dr. Giorgio Lolli, former director of the Yale Plan Clinic for Alcoholics, says women often drink to escape the tensions resulting from their entrance into the man's world of business—tensions unknown when their place was only in the home, or when they were in college.

NOT STAG
Certainly the multiple martini lunch is no longer a stag affair. Women who work with men and share the same professional drives and pressures go right along for the lengthy liquid lunch and the late afternoon booze break.

Usually they hold their liquor well in public. It's when they get home, away from condemning eyes, they polish off the bottle and pass out.

Most women could be helped if they'd admit their addiction and accept treatment for it, says Dr. Sedgewick Mead of the California Rehabilitation Center at Vallejo.

"Of course you don't begin by just asking the lady if she is an alcoholic," he points out. "This will only get you injured innocence."

Most women can summon up at least one good reason why they're not alcoholics.

"I never drink in the morning. I only drink sherry. I never have more than two drinks in the evening. I don't drink at all at parties. I only drink when I'm tense."

SELF DELUSION
Such self-delusion, which stands in the way of treatment, is often encouraged by the husband, assuming he's sticking around. His pride simply won't let him admit his wife is a lush. Certainly the little woman he married isn't emotionally disturbed enough to need medical help or psychotherapy just because she takes a drink too many once in a while.

To protect themselves as well as her from shame and embarrassment, father and children form a protective shield, a cocoon, around the drinking woman. But in its center the disintegration of a person and of a family goes steadily on.

Give Parents Your Love

DEAR ABBY: We went to the cemetery on DECORATION DAY and in the chapel they had an item from your column framed, and on display. I copied it and beg of you to print it again. It gave me something to think about.

"JUST IN TIME"
DEAR JUST: The item you wish me to run again was the one for which I have had the most requests for reprints. And here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: I am the most heartbroken person on earth. I always found time to go everywhere else but to see my old grey-haired parents. They sat at home alone loving me just the same. It is too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give, and now when I go to visit their graves and look at the green grass above them I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them. I pray that you will print this, Abby, to tell those who still have their parents to visit them and show their love and respect while there is still time. For it is later than you think."

"TOO LATE"
DEAR ABBY: My daughter received a shower gift a copy of your DEAR ABBY ON MARRIAGE. I read it and want you to know that it's the only book I've ever started that I could not put down until I finished it. It should be required reading for every married couple as well as those anticipating marriage. Thank you for writing it.

Safety, Fire Experts Warn Of Fireworks

Bootleg firecrackers and homemade skyrockets will again claim a tragic toll of children's eyes unless American parents are doubly vigilant over the Fourth of July holiday, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has warned.

Fireworks, used promiscuously, can also cause other serious injuries to human beings, and more serious damage in fire losses than most people realize. Big Spring Fire Marshal A. D. Meador added this week.

U. S. Moves To Forestall Outbreaks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today current U.S. diplomatic and military moves in the Far East are designed to forestall any possible outbreak of fighting between Red China and Nationalist China.

Ambassador Wang Ping Nan gains any Communist strike at the Chinese Nationalists. The ambassadors discussed the Formosa Strait situation at a Warsaw meeting last Saturday. The Peiping regime began moving heavy troop reinforcements into the coastal region of Fukien Province opposite Formosa about two weeks ago. Its propagandists began a campaign accusing the United States of planning to assist a Nationalist assault on the mainland.

President Kennedy is expected to discuss the Formosa situation and the buildup of Chinese Communist forces opposite the Nationalist held area at a news conference late today.

One question he may clarify is U.S. policy with respect to the defense of the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu which lie close to the Communist mainland. The policy laid down under the Eisenhower administration was that the United States would actively support the Nationalist defense of those islands only if Red attack on them was considered to be the first step in an attack on Formosa.

The United States has sent units of the 7th Fleet into Formosan waters, possibly with the dual purpose of defending Nationalist strongholds against any assault and at the same time discouraging the Nationalist forces from moving against the Red Chinese.

George W. Anderson Jr., chief of naval operations, said Tuesday night he foresees "no real trouble" in the Formosa Strait, told newsmen in Las Vegas, Nev., that he doubts Red China will launch any serious attack on the offshore islands.

The United States is reported to have told Red China through its ambassador at Warsaw that this country would not support any invasion attempt by Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek.

At the same time American Ambassador John Moors Cabot is said to have warned Red Chinese

Rusk, Chaplin To Receive Oxford Degrees

OXFORD, England (AP)—Old grad Dean Rusk and controversial comedian Charlie Chaplin share the spotlight in this ancient college town today to receive honorary degrees from Oxford University.

Secretary of State Rusk interrupted his fence-mending diplomatic tour of European capitals to return to the school he attended as a Rhodes scholar 30 years ago. Rusk was nominated for a doctorate of civil law, the highest degree Oxford can bestow on a nonroyal person. He already holds an Oxford master's degree in philosophy, politics and economics which he earned as a Rhodes scholar at St. John's College.

Detachment 16, 24th Weather Squadron at Webb AFB, will celebrate its 10th anniversary Sunday, as the USAF Weather Service marks its 25th year of operation.

The weather detachment has been stationed at Webb since 1952. The Air Weather Service originated in 1937 when 40 weather stations were transferred from the Army Signal Corps.

Chinese Orphans Leave Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Forty-eight Chinese orphans left Hong Kong by jet airliner today for adoption by American families.

Most were between 8 and 14 years of age, and they were evenly divided between boys and girls. It was the biggest group of orphans sent to the United States since the program was inaugurated here in 1958. All came to Hong Kong prior to the mass refugee exodus from Red China last month.

The program is sponsored by the International Social Services, which has moved 650 orphans from Hong Kong to the United States in the last four years.

Awarded Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — R. F. Ball Construction Co. of San Antonio, Tex., has been awarded a $3,146,516 contract to build an Army hospital at Ft. Sill, Okla.

Chaplin's classic portrayal of a wistful tramp in American silent films brought him fame and fortune. But an unsavory paternity suit and his espousal of left-wing causes brought criticism down on him in the United States.

In September 1952, while Chaplin was vacationing in Europe, U.S. authorities announced he could not return to the United States until he satisfied the immigration service that he was a fit person. He never returned. Now 73, and still a citizen of his native Britain, he lives in Switzerland with his fourth wife, Oona O'Neill, and their seven children. He recently settled a $700,000 tax claim by the United States for $425,000.

Canadian Example May Add Spice To Debates In U.S.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Canada's fiscal belt tightening comes just as the United States starts its big debate as to whether it should loosen its own.

Canada is raising interest rates, curbing imports, seeking outside financial support for its weakened dollar, which it already had devalued. Its austerity program is due to outside pressure on its currency and slackening of its domestic economy.

The United States at midyear also is worrying about a domestic economy that isn't growing as fast as earlier hoped, about a deficit in its international payments that puts some pressure on the Yankee dollar, about a sharp drop in stock prices that weakens confidence in the U.S. economy both here and abroad.

But in the United States today's debate is over whether to increase the Treasury deficit by raising government spending, or cutting taxes, or both. The aim is to get the economy rolling faster, to cut the rate of unemployment—or to head off a possible recession.

Canada's fiscal problem differs from the American one largely in this: Canada's imports have been running well ahead of its exports for some time. This didn't matter much until Americans stopped pouring investment dollars across the border. The United States has been running a surplus of exports over imports for years.

The American problem is that other spending abroad—foreign aid, military costs, travel, investment—has more than wiped out this trade surplus and left the United States with a payment deficit—more dollars going out than coming in. This has been behind the loss of gold in recent years and the recurring flurries of speculative bidding up of the price of gold in the world's free markets.

Canada has turned to austerity because its fiscal affairs were in a shape that practically forced this.

The United States is in no such fix. European doubts about the continuing strength of the American dollar worry Washington, but it is trying various means to counter this and to cut, if not eliminate, its deficit of payments.

The U.S. economy, if not growing as fast as hoped, is strong—in spite of the doubts finding expression in the stock market.

Conservatives believe the U.S. economy would be stronger if the government started living within its means, stopped inflation-breeding deficits, encouraged private business by interfering with it less.

Fess Parker Looking For New Image

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Fess Parker is on the prowl for a new image, and he's going back to Washington to get it.

No more the buckskin of Davy Crockett, king of the wild frontier. Now it's Ivy League duds of Mr. Smith, senator of the new frontier.

Not that Fess is taking sides in the political arena. He is leaping into 1962 Washington with a new television series, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Watchers of the late, late show will recall the movie of the same name that starred young James Stewart in 1939. It has been updated for a series to star Fess, who now graduates to the upper house. He was a member of the House of Representatives in the Crockett trilogy that made him a star—and problems—eight years ago.

The problems were strictly career: Fess has no quarrel with what else Davy did for him. "No, indeed," he affirmed. "If it hadn't been for Davy, I might still be hauling my guitar around town and hunting for jobs."

Because of Davy—and what came after—Fess and friends are now putting up a $1.5-million trailer park in Santa Barbara.

His problem, then? "The image," he explained. "I've been working for several years now to get out of costumes. Maybe this series will do it. Maybe I'll be able to join the 20th century."

"There is no doubt that the image has held me back," he admitted. "That's why I want to play Mr. Smith in a different style—crisper, sharper and more contemporary than I have before."

Mr. Smith will go to Washington from some undesignated state, roughly somewhere between the Rockies and the Mississippi. His party affiliation will also be clouded, but that doesn't mean he'll avoid issues.

"The format of the show is situation comedy," Fess explained. "But underneath the comedy will be a point or two about our government and how it works." CBS, which plans to revive good gray "Pantomime Quiz"—a perennial summer replacement—as a prime-time fall show, is busily giving the parlor game a new look.

Mike Stokey (who owns the package) will be replaced as leader by Pat Harrington, Jr. and they are changing the name to "Stump the Stars." But under all the paint, the game's the same.

Early Action Expected On Important Measures

EDITOR'S NOTE—As Congress rounds out the sixth month of its current session, what are the prospects for action on some of President Kennedy's major legislative proposals? Jack Bell, chief of the AP's Senate staff, surveys the outlook for several administration bills.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress' archaic machinery is beginning to move creakingly toward some decisions on President Kennedy's major legislative proposals.

Despite an unresolved Senate-House spat over prestige that has blocked passage of money bills, administration prospects for early action on important measures seem improved.

A sugar quota bill, drastically revised from the measure the House previously passed, got the blessing and support in the Senate of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Final agreement between the two houses is needed on this measure before the fiscal year expires at midnight Saturday.

In this same deadline category is the administration's House-passed measure to raise the debt limit to $306 billion. Leaders hope to bang it through the Senate Thursday or Friday.

The House faces up to decisions on Kennedy's international trade expansion bill, cleared Tuesday by an 8-7 vote on the Rules Committee for procedures which would bar amendments from the floor. Although there were no show-down votes, the House Agriculture Committee seemed to be making some headway in salvaging part of the Kennedy farm program in a new measure to replace the strict controls-bill passed by the Senate and rejected by the House.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicted final compromises between the two houses will produce a wheat control provision and an extension of the present feed grains program.

There were some signs of movement, too, on the long-deadlocked bill for federal aid to higher education. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., discussed the matter with Kennedy at a White House meeting Tuesday.

In this case, the House wants loans and grants and the Senate wants only loans to colleges. Kennedy has favored the latter approach.

Democratic leaders reiterated their announcement that a modified version of Kennedy's program for financing medical care for the elderly through Social Security taxes will be offered in the Senate late in the week.

Dirksen served notice, however, that there will be rounded discussion before any votes are reached. Democratic sponsors are shooting for a showdown vote before July 15. Their plan is to attach the proposal to a House-passed welfare bill and try in that way to gain a vote on the modified proposal in both houses.

Not all of the developments were encouraging to the administration.

Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said in a statement that the House-passed Kennedy tax revision bill may have to be taken off the congressional firing line temporarily to get other important legislation passed.

Uvalde Area Has Twister

By The Associated Press
Sultry weather kept its grip on Texas Wednesday, carrying a familiar promise of gusty thunder-showers and possible turbulence in most sections.

Dust clouded the sky at Uvalde in Southwest Texas late Tuesday, and a tornado funnel whirled overhead northwest of Raymondville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, staying off the ground.

Wind hitting 55 miles per hour churned sand into the air and lowered visibility to less than a block at Uvalde as black clouds hung low toward the southwest.

Widely scattered showers brought a little moisture to most sections of the state, continuing in South Texas until early Wednesday.

While ranchers applauded the rain on generally dry ranges, it interrupted the dusting or spraying of field crops and generally was too light to benefit dryland farming.

Forecasts called for the same kind of weather throughout Texas for at least another day.

Clouds and showers held top temperatures down a bit Tuesday. Afternoon highs ranged from 96 degrees at Presidio down to 79 at San Angelo. Readings Wednesday morning varied from 60 degrees at Dalhart to 81 at Galveston.

They Can't Stand Those Loud Bells

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Petitioners who call themselves a captive audience would like a little more peace and quiet.

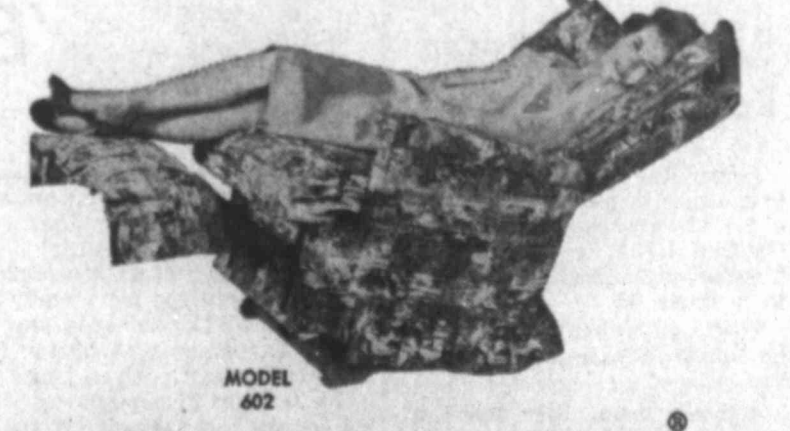

About 20 residents asked the county commissioners Tuesday to reduce ringing of the Overpeck Memorial Carillon atop the county's new courthouse.

The carillon rings every quarter hour, 12 hours a day, every day, the petitioners said, and "it becomes highly distracting and even nerve-wracking."

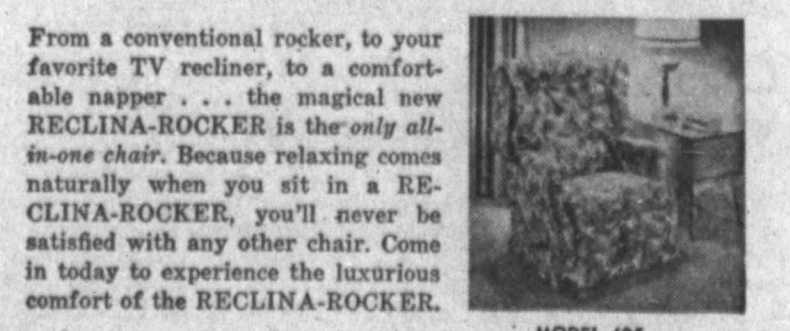

They asked that it ring only on half hours, be stopped at 5 p.m. instead of 9 p.m. and ring only in the morning on Sundays.

The commissioners, who can't hear the bells inside the courthouse, took the petition under advisement.

Reserve Policemen OK'd By Council

A police reserve force up to 40 men will be recruited, trained, and used in Big Spring if the city ordinance authorizing it is approved by the Texas attorney general.

A dog will also be added to the force for use in burglary patrol and other cases where police feel it will be advantageous. Both items were approved by the city commission Tuesday night.

The second reading of the police reserve ordinance was read and approved, with the stipulation that it be sent to the attorney general for an opinion before the third and final reading. The commission discussed the matter of uniforming the reserve but took no action pending further discussion.

CANINE COP

City Manager Larry Crow and Police Chief Jay Banks told the commission that a trained dog had been offered to the police force, at no cost, provided a man for handling was trained, suitable maintenance quarters found, and questions pertaining to public relations answered.

Banks told the group that Patrolman Walter Johnson had formerly been partially trained in handling such dogs and had agreed to train for handling one for Big Spring. Space at his living quarters was agreed upon for maintaining the animal's pen and house.

Crow and Banks, in discussing the police reserve, said that the

Council Capsule

City Commissioners approved establishment of a 40-man police reserve, provided the attorney general approves. A dog will be added to the force.

Kentwood No. 2 Addition was annexed and zoning changes for it were passed to a third reading; 3 acres for Hillcrest Baptist Mission in Wasson No. 2 will be annexed.

Borrowing up to $100,000 for temporary operations was authorized.

Get on the agenda ahead of time, city manager urges.

number of men needed at present might not run as high as the maximum number set by ordinance, but that the city stood to gain valuable protection from the use of the reserve. Applications would be taken from responsible persons interested in a better city, they said, and the men would be trained regularly and each man, for a time, would be accompanying and working with a regular police officer.

AID PATROLS

"It would give us the benefit of two-man patrols, including foot patrols downtown," Banks said. "It would also help us to cover the 'spread-out' city better because all available cars would be used when needed.

"There are always special occasions when traffic conditions warrant more men on the job than we have. Emergencies arise at times where available men would speed up work," he continued.

The use of the police dog would serve to cut down on the number of burglaries and petty thefts in the city, Banks said.

"There are times when the extra patrolling in areas downtown and in congested sections would help greatly," the chief said. "One man, with a dog, can often do more than two men because a dog can catch a running man and stop him where another man couldn't. He can also hold one or two men while the officer made further investigation or called for a car to pick up apprehended subjects."

There are always special occasions when traffic conditions warrant more men on the job than we have. Emergencies arise at times where available men would speed up work," he continued.

"There will be times when emergencies arise and we will have to consider requests or problems," Crow said, "but a lot of time can be saved, and proper consideration given, when we don't have to catch something 'cold turkey' at meetings.

"We may need to make an on-the-ground inspection of something before we can discuss it intelligently," he continued, "and we believe most citizens will appreciate giving us enough notice to make intelligent decisions. There may be times when problems can be solved by the administrative officials without having to take them before the commission. If this is so a person making a request can get much quicker service by bringing it to us to start with. That's what we are for and welcome the opportunity to discuss problems or requests with citizens at any time."

Persons wishing to appear before the commission, which meets regularly on the second and fourth Tuesday nights of each month, should contact the city manager before Friday preceding the meetings.

Church Site Due To Be Annexed

Three more acres of land will be annexed to the city by ordinance following approval of the city commission Tuesday night. The property is west of Wasson Road near the intersection of Grace Street and south of Wasson Place No. 2.

The Rev. H. L. Bingham appeared for the proposed Hillcrest Baptist Church mission, to be built in the area, asking for water and sewer service.

He was informed that the property would have to be annexed to the city in order to furnish the services and he agreed that there was no reason for not annexing since they would need the services.

City Attorney John Burgess was instructed to draw up the annexation ordinance for the July 3 meeting of the commission.

Director of Public Works Bruce Dunn, in a memorandum to City Manager Larry Crow, said both water and sewer lines were within reach of the church property and that no problem of service existed if the area was annexed.

Health Unit Rent Raised

Earl Read, owner of the Health Unit building, has requested a rental rate increase of $20 per month with the city and county splitting the amount. He has recently repainted the interior of the space.

The Big Spring city commission granted the request provided the funds were included in the budget. Funds had been set up for repainting the office and these will be used, as far as they go, toward the rent increase.

In other action the commission considered the third and final reading of an ordinance annexing the Kentwood Addition No. 2; adopted, on second reading, an ordinance changing the zoning of Kentwood No. 2 from IF-1 to a IF-2 residential zone, and passed a resolution authorizing Mayor George Zachariah and City Secretary C. R. McCleeny to execute notes in favor of the First National Bank for a temporary loan of up to $100,000 for operation of the city government. The notes are to bear interest, from the date drawn, at two per cent and will be payable on or before 120 days from date.

The commission received copies of the report of examination from George Thorburn, auditor, for study. His recommendations and statements will be given later.

No Decision On Nevada Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may set off a few small nuclear explosions slightly above ground over the Nevada desert, but officials emphasized that a definite decision has not been made.

"No firm decision has been made to go forward with these tests," said the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission in announcing Tuesday that the blasts are under consideration.

The announcement said the blasts would be of very low yields, equivalent to 2,000 to 3,000 tons of TNT at the most. They would be set off slightly above ground or at depths shallow enough to form craters.

Mass Inoculations Seem Certain

HOUSTON (AP)—A mass polio immunization program with the Sabin oral vaccine appeared a certainty today after the report of two more cases.

Dr. Thomas L. Royce, president of the Harris County Medical Society, said that if the program is held, its aim will be to reach at least one million people—including those who have already taken the three-shot Salk vaccine.

Dr. Royce said "it looks like we've reached the point where we need to move fast."

So far this year in Harris County there have been eight polio cases—six known paralytic.

Beer Sale Zone Is Extended

An ordinance permitting the sale of beer for on - premises consumption was authorized by the city commission Tuesday night covering the area in the 800 Block of West Fourth where the Lewis Drive-In is located.

Mrs. Vuriya Mattingly had requested permission to sell beer for on - premises consumption and a public hearing was called for Tuesday night. No one appeared for or against.

Sale of beer for on - premises consumption is granted by ordinance only in Big Spring.

Miami Strip Joints Closed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police closed all five of Miami Beach's strip joints Tuesday night. The police chief said they were fire traps.

Testimony before a Senate investigating committee in Washington last week indicated that some of the night clubs at Miami Beach were controlled by the underworld and allowed open solicitation for prostitution.

"I've been planning this for months," said Police Chief Michael Fox. "Other investigations held it up."

Fox headed a squad that ordered customers out and stopped the shows at the five clubs. No arrests were made.

Fox said he intended to keep the clubs closed until they complied with fire department regulations.

Lost Her Childhood?

Thirteen-year-old Portland Mason, who appears to be a woman in her early 20's, is constantly being told that she is missing out on her childhood. On the contrary, her mother, Pamela Mason, finds that experience is the best teacher. She hopes that her daughter will complete her education before she decides to marry.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Mother And Daughter Agreed Upon Maturity

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Although Portland Mason is only 13, she was chosen to play a girl in her 20s in a recent "Hennessey" segment. This was convincing casting, because Portland has much more poise and maturity than her birthday age. Will she regret growing up so fast?

"People are always telling me that I have lost my childhood," she said, "that I will have nothing to look back on, but I don't agree with them."

"I've always given Portland credit for having a mind of her own," her mother, Pamela Mason, said. "I think that experience is the finest teacher. She is not straining at the leash to wear a lot of make-up or go steady. She is interested in her education, and I hope she won't marry too young."

"I don't date," Portland agreed, "because the boys my age don't appeal to me."

She was too polite to say that they seem immature. I recalled the last time I had seen Portland that she had been short and overweight.

"I grew six and a half inches in three years. (She is five-five now.) I was fat," Portland admitted, "because I used to eat like crazy. Mother does not approve of pastries or anything made with white sugar and white flour, so I used to go in the kitchen and get some from the maids."

"I didn't want to nag Portland about being fat," said Mrs. Mason, "because I have a very strong feeling about the harm of building resentment in children. So I tried to appeal to her intelligence and show her the reasons why she would regret neglecting her appearance. Just about the time I was ready to consult a doctor she asked to go on a diet."

"I started to grow and that helped, too," added Portland, "but you always know what things make you fat. When I stopped eating sweets and starchy things, I lost weight."

"I have always been conscious of planning balanced meals," Mrs. Mason said. "I think all these overcooked TV dinners and snack meals are dreadful."

Portland was dressed in a simple little linen suit with her accessories chosen with a feeling for understatement and color.

"I have always tried to let Portland develop on her own—to make her own mistakes. My family was very strict with me. I was in uniforms all the time, and now I have to discipline myself not to buy anything that glitters."

"I wore gold shoes to school once," Portland said, "and Mother tried to persuade me not to, but she didn't tell me I couldn't. I never wanted to wear them again. This was my first lesson in how important it is to dress for the occasion."

"But you must have discipline," Pamela insisted. "One thing that is not tolerated in our house is bad manners. I explained to my children that they would be disliked by the rest of the world if they did not have consideration for others. The public is not going to be as understanding as people who love each other, and I think it is inexcusable for parents not to make a child aware of this. It is the duty of every parent to inspect table manners and all the social graces. If you analyze the people that you try to avoid in life you'll find it is generally those who have bad manners."

I asked Portland if she had any beauty problems. She showed me her hands.

"I am struggling with the bad habit of biting my nails. But now that I have been chosen to be in the new Loretta Young TV series, I have promised myself to let them grow."

Reason, not force, is what Mrs. Mason tries to practice with her children.

"But you must assert yourself," she said. "Portland wanted to wear high heels. I didn't tell her she was too young, but I made her see they would weaken her ankles and throw her body off balance."

"I think Portland is divine," Mrs. Mason said as we left the Beverly Hills Hotel where we were having tea, "and I believe she will be capable of making a full and happy life for herself."

John A. Kee Rebekahs Hear Mrs. John Cate

Mrs. John Cate, retiring noble grand of the John A. Kee Rebekahs, gave a farewell address Tuesday night for members of the lodge. She expressed her thanks for the cooperation given by members and officers during her term in office.

Material evidence of one of her projects noted by the Rebekahs, was the new stainless steel sink and formica topped cabinet in the lodge kitchen; the increase in membership and the increase in the treasury through a "foodless food sale."

An expression of gratitude were gifts of milk glass presented to other officers of the lodge from Mrs. Cate. Mrs. Leon Cole read a poem, "To Our Noble Grand," as she presented Mrs. Cate a money corsage in behalf of the officers and members.

During a business session, Mrs. Amy Lee Gourley was accepted for membership, to receive the initiatory degree at a later date. A resolution of respect was read for the late Mr. Garland Lough, father of Mrs. Thomas A. Gill. The attendance contest ended with the Pinks winning a chicken dinner to be served in July by the Greens.

Invocation was offered by Mrs. Sylvia Doty for the after lodge fellowship hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Cate.

A table, laid with white lace over blue, was centered with an arrangement of delicate pink roses backed by fan shaped net and flanked by tall blue tapers in silver candelabra. From the table refreshments were served to the 30 members attending. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Jim Ferguson and Mrs. Irene Dempsey.

Terri's Tips

Dear Terri: I own a restaurant and we have been fighting cockroaches for years. I am embarrassed when one crawls across a counter in front of a customer. Can you solve that?

Dear Charlie: Buy a bottle of Johnston's No-Roach and pour some into a plastic water sprinker. Then just squirt No-Roach around the cabinets, sinks, and other dark places in your restaurant. Be SURE to lift up any boxes in storage and squirt under them. Squirt some under your stove, fridge, and dishwasher. Bet you a nickel you'll sweep up dead bugs the next morning!

No-Roach is on sale at:

Frog (Koger That Is) Has More Than His Fill Of Frogs

Things are really hopping today in the office of M. R. "Frog" Koger, Big Spring insurance man. He's wondering just how long the hopping will continue. It started on Tuesday afternoon when a couple of Koger's friends dropped in while he was out of the office. These friends left a big cardboard box on his desk. It was inscribed "To Frog Koger." Koger came in with a client. The box was in his way so he picked it up and started to place it on the floor. The friends had thoughtfully cut a hole in the bottom of the box and when Koger lifted it up, the contents — about four dozen very lively little frogs were left on his desk. He grabbed at the green invaders and they hopped. They hopped in all directions. "There are even a few downstairs today," Koger said. Meantime, there are frogs in the corners of the office, back of filing cases, under desks and everywhere. The green guests, he admitted, are hard to catch.

To Meet Thursday

The newly-organized Big Spring Golf Association will hold a business meeting in the Chamber of Commerce office at 7 p.m. Thursday, at which time by-laws and constitution of the organization will be discussed and adopted.

Big Blaze

CANYON (AP)—Two buildings and a large amount of stock in an auto store burned Tuesday. Six other buildings in this Texas Panhandle town suffered smoke and water damage.

Elks Consider Building Site

Members of EPO Elks Lodge last night considered the purchase of property on which a new lodge and club will be constructed in the future. Final purchase approval is expected at the next regular meeting of the Elks in early July.

Several building sites have been under consideration by the building committee, headed by Don Penn. All of the sites will be discussed during the July meeting. Penn, however, last night received tentative approval on a tract of land south of the city.

Joe Clark served as exalted ruler in the absence of W. D. Berry during the initiation ceremony for three new Elks. Coming into the organization last night were Chub Jones, Don Winebarger and Stanley Hudson. Three additional new memberships were submitted to the investigating committee last evening.

The Elks also approved the sponsorship of The Magic Circus which is scheduled to appear at City Auditorium on Sept. 27.

Glenn Gale secretary, announced that the Elks Lodge $800 contribution to the Elks Crippled Children's Hospital has been mailed and receipt gratefully acknowledged by the hospital director.

James Tidwell Takes Over As Downtown Lions Prexy

Ed Boullion bowed out as president of the Downtown Lions Club in ceremonies at a ladies night affair in the Cosden Country Club Tuesday evening, and James Tidwell succeeded him.

Tidwell became the 36th man to head the club, which was organized here May 31, 1929. Others installed with him were Dr. W. A. Hunt, Wesley Deats and Douglas Ward, vice presidents; Fred Stitzell, secretary; Maj. Bob Hall, Liontamer; R. H. Snyder, Phil Hines, Red Williams, Tail-twisters; Frosty Robison and Jeff Brown, directors. Bob Dean and Don Pendergrast are hold-over directors, and Boullion also joins them on the board.

Roy Minear, Midland, who during his term was named the outstanding district governor in the country, conducted the candle-light installation ceremony. He reminded the new officers that records are set only to be broken, and that both the start and finish of an administration weigh heavily in accomplishments. He was introduced by Louis Carothers.

During the past year, said Boullion, the club has participated in a dozen types of activities and has invested approximately $1,200 in them. Among them are the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children Camp at Kerrville and the Howard County Rehabilitation (crippled children and adults) Center ($200 each), high school band trip fund ($101), air conditioner for a state hospital ward ($120), Howard County Junior College scholarship fund ($300), Boy Scouts ($145).

In addition, the club furnished 41 pair of glasses to needy children and adults, and took part in half a dozen other local welfare projects. Boullion, who presided at the meeting, expressed his appreciation to the board and to the membership.

Lamesa Plans Industry Study

LAMESA (SC) — B. R. Shelton and P. J. Shepard have arrived here to begin an industrial development survey. The research experts represent the Industrial Economics Division of Texas A&M Engineering Experiment Station.

They are compiling a facts book about Lamesa and Dawson County, which includes the area's assets and answers questions of potential industries. The book is to be completed by Sept. 15, 1962.

An industrial development plan, which will include a compilation of industrial locations and lists of potential industries is to be completed by Oct. 15.

The facts book will be updated annually for a period of five years by the division experts. The survey was authorized by the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce.

R. L. Baber's Brother Dies

R. L. Baber has been called to Marshall where last rites will be said for his brother, W. L. Baber, 54, possibly Thursday at 4 p.m. in the First Christian Church.

Mr. Baber died Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in a hospital at Shreveport, La. For approximately the past 20 years he had been the pharmacist in the T&P hospital in Marshall.

Surviving him are his widow; one son, W. L. Baber III; his brother of Big Spring; two nieces, Sally Baber, Big Spring, and Mrs. Pauline Yelton, Dallas.

Next workout and organizational meeting of the YMCA Summer Basketball program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Y. Boys 13 to 18 years, inclusive, are eligible to attend. The program is in charge of Delnor Poss.

Padre Island Issue Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Interior Committee resumed consideration today of the Padre Island, Tex., National Seashore Bill but again postponed action on it.

Forced to adjourn the committee session when the House convened, the committee chairman, Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., said the bill now could not be brought up again until July 18.

They Brought Prayer Suit

Some of the parents who brought suit against public schoolroom prayer in the Herricks School District pose with some of their children at Roslyn Heights, a Long Island suburb of New York after the Supreme Court said the prayer was unconstitutional. The group was sparked by Lawrence Roth, right foreground. Parents are, center, left to right: Mrs. Thelma Engel, Mrs. Ruth Liechtenstein, and the Roths. Children are, left to right, rear: Michael Engel, 11; Dan Roth, 17; Judy Liechtenstein, 19, and Joe Roth, 14; front: Jonathan Engel, 4, and Madeleine Engel, 7.

Census Of Shark Attacks Made

By The Associated Press
A world census of shark attacks, a cruise to another ocean for a veteran sailing ship, and a hint that birds can tell time are subjects for science at work.

Dangerous Waters

In the last years, sharks made at least 30 attacks on humans—without provocation. Six persons, among the 31 hurt, were injured fatally. Four attacks on boats by sharks failed to injure anyone.

So reports the Shark Research Panel of the American Institute of Biological Sciences. It makes an annual census of shark attacks that can be authenticated.

Last year's attacks ranged from U.S. mainland coasts to Hawaii and other Pacific islands, to Bermuda, Australia, Africa, the Mediterranean and even 150 miles up the Limpopo River of East Africa.

Some 17 species of shark were involved, from a two-foot banjo shark to a 2,500-pound white pointer. Most of the unprovoked attacks occurred off Africa and Australia.

As for people who tried to hunt, trap or chase sharks, they provoked at least nine shark attacks. Ten persons were injured, but none fatally.

Another Ocean

The Columbia University research vessel Vema is sailing into another ocean. It is one of some 40 research craft peering into the unknown depths of the Indian Ocean.

The Vema's new purview covers some 28 million square miles—about 14 per cent of the earth's surface. Little is known of the earth's bottom surface and its history.

On an earlier voyage, the Vema discovered that the Indian Ocean connected south of Africa with a 4,500-mile crack in the earth's crust, a crack that follows an earthquake zone extending the entire length of the Atlantic Ocean.

Bird Watching

English scientists are using radar to watch the flight patterns of birds under various conditions. The hope is that the films of the radar screens can answer some of the questions about animal behavior.

But immediately the study finds new questions. The radar watchers, for instance, observed one flock of 500,000 starlings take off from its roost in 18 waves—each wave three minutes apart. Question: How does the starling tell when the three minutes is up?

Germ Autopsy

Why do some bacteria become resistant to the same antibiotic so they can still sicken or kill humans?

A young medical scientist is performing autopsies on germs to get at the answers. He slices the dead germs into pieces about 1,000th of an inch thick and studies them under an electron microscope which can magnify objects 25,000 to 30,000 times their natural size.

Dr. George B. Chapman of Cornell University Medical College, New York City, finds that in two types of bacteria he has examined, the antibiotic gets inside the organism and destroys the nucleus. His pictures show holes inside the germs. Germs not treated with the drug are still intact.

A next step is to study strains of germs which resist the very antibiotics that kill their cousins. Do the resistant germs keep the antibiotic from penetrating their skins? Or does the drug get inside and still somehow fail to destroy the nucleus? The germ autopsies in highly magnified pictures promise to give such answers.

By learning how the drug works or fails to work, it could become possible chemically to design antibiotics that kill resistant germs. Such resistance to antibiotics is showing up in several kinds of dangerous bacteria.

Reassigned
Capt. O. Johnson, former Webb Accounting and Finance Officer, left Webb AFB this week for his new station at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, where he will take over as instructor in the Officer Training School. Major Earl Brokaw, Wing Comptroller, will take over the duties of Finance and Accounting Officer, until a replacement arrives. Capt. Johnson is a native Texan, a graduate of Baylor University, and is a rated navigator.
