Brando Planning To Answer Criticisms

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Marlon Brando is planning a magazine article to answer the writings that he goofed off on "Mutiny on the Bounty." It will mark the first time he has replied to criticism. He doesn't care what is written about his personal life, but he is concerned about reflections on his professionalism.

Brando's adherents point out that his behavior on "The Ugly American" has been spotless. Except for two or three days when he was absent with a virus, he has shown up for filming every day even after the weekend when he chopped his foot with an ax.

No more Marilyn Monroe imitations for Edie Adams—and not because of MM's current troubles. Edie has worried that she will become too identified with the devastating satire which Marilyn really enjoys watching.

"When I did my last television special, I did the Marilyn impression against my better judgment," she says. "I figured that would be the end of it. Then the Television Academy asked if it could use a short clip from the show on the Emmy telecast. I imagine my chagrin when they picked out the Marilyn bit! That will be the last time."

Preview time. "Birdman of Alcatraz" is a fascinating study of the double murderer turned bird expert. Robert Stroud, Director John Frankenheimer again impresses as a bright new talent by the way he balances prison violence with the gentleness in handling the birds.

Burt Lancaster is ideal casting as the prisoner, who spent over 40 years in solitary. He successfully conveys Stroud's compassion for the birds and his defiance of bridling by any human being. It is unfortunate that the producers saw fit to paste on a standard prison-break ending to what was otherwise a new and different view of the resilience of the human spirit.

"Lolita" is now playing in the theaters, as you may have read. It seemed to this viewer a modern horror play built of satire and sex imagery. It is sometimes amusing, often repellent. The best features are Peter Sellers and Sue Lyon, who is destined for a long career, during which she may live down having been Lolita.

DEAR ABBY

A Little Too Outgoing!

DEAR ABBY: A minister and his wife who live in our neighborhood have a brood of children who are happy, outgoing and generous—especially with communicable diseases. Their children are never too ill to stay at home, and instead of welcoming these happy children, many neighborhood and Sunday school parents are beginning to dread their arrival. This couple probably feels that the Lord will watch over their little ones, but don't you think they could serve Him by giving Him a little help?

"POXED IN AND POOPED OUT"
DEAR POKED: A measles, mump or pox doesn't assume a more lovable quality just because it came from a minister's child. Advise the offending Mamma and Papa that it is not always more blessed to give than to receive.

This wonderful "prayer" was sent to me by a friend. Does anyone know the author?

"Slow me down, Lord. Ease the pounding of my heart by quieting my mind. Steady my hurried pace. Give me calmness amidst the confusion of my day. Break the tension of my nerves with soothing music that lives in my memory. Help me to know the magical restoring powers of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations—of slowing down to chat with a friend, to read a good book, to look at a flower.
"Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, that I may know that there is more to life than Speed. Let me look upward toward the branches of the towering oak and remember that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly. Slow me down, Lord, slow me down."

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. This girl in my office eats onions for lunch every day and I have to work with her. Her breath could almost knock you down. I mean it. Don't tell me to eat onions, too. I can't stand them.

FLOORED
DEAR FLOORED: Your corner drugstore has a variety of "breath-killers." Either present her with a complimentary package and tell her to try them, or ask her in the name of mercy to eliminate the onions from her luncheon meal.

DEAR ABBY: What makes Americans think that there is no place in the world like their country? Their superiority complex is very irritating. IMMIGRANT

Negroes Welcome In New Hampshire

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—Gov. Wesley Powell said the "welcome mat is out for any Negroes who want to come to New Hampshire." He made the utterance after a busload of 35 Negroes left New Orleans for Concord.

At Least He Gave It A Try

NEW YORK (AP)—John Rigney, 25, explained to police that he ascended to the top of a 200-foot construction crane because he wanted to demonstrate that high places could be climbed without falling.

His explanation came after he plunged from the crane into the Harlem River and had to be rescued by two patrolmen. The Bronx steelworker was taken to the psychiatric ward of Bellevue Hospital.

Up And Out

Major Robert E. Miller, athletic officer, makes sure the cadets get full measure from morning training. The victims are (top bunk) John S. Rogers, Texas A&M, and Richard Ruddell, University of Illinois.

Standard Phrase

Scramble

Yelling at the tops of their voices, the 200 cadets scramble into the morning darkness for physical training. Foxtrot Flight here bounds out in "triple-time" in an effort to be number one in the camp.

All Together

Push-ups in the early morning dawn help remove the kinks and cramps brought on by bustling activity. In addition to the rigorous physical training program, the cadets take part in sports to build muscles and steady nerves.

'Dressed Down'

Another regular part of cadet activity is "correction" by the USAF Tactical Officers. Cadet Virgil W. Johnson of the University of New Mexico (left), a would-be pilot, is being "dressed down" by Capt. William Adams, a veteran jet fighter pilot from the University of Texas.

Proving Their Mettle

Uncle Sam looks to the campuses of the nation's colleges and universities for his young eagles. When he entrusts a million dollar airplane—or the nation's safety—to a fledgling pilot, he wants to make sure that this young man is made of the right stuff. Part of the refining process takes place in regular study and drill on the campus, but once a year, Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps members are assigned to an Air Force base for a grueling four weeks of training. When cadets come through this rigorous test, as depicted here at Webb AFB, they've showed that they have what it takes. Perhaps some day they will return here as student pilots to mount their wings for tomorrow.

STARTS AT 5 A.M.

Cadets' Day Is A Long, Long One

By J. P. ROBERTS
Cadet Group Information Officer

Many people begin the day at four in the morning, but few have the chore of polishing shoes in the light of tiny penlights while huddling beneath bedclothes.

Or they probably haven't had the experience of writing home to the folks under the same blanket-covered conditions.

Events such as these, however, are becoming second nature to more than 200 Air Force ROTC cadets who are presently undergoing four weeks of rigorous summer training at Webb Air Force Base.

In fact, a good many of the cadets perform additional duties in the weak glare of the small flashlights in the pre-dawn hours before their official day starts at 5 a.m. And they like it.

The college juniors and seniors from 50 colleges and universities are taking part in the annual Summer Training Unit held each year at the base. All of the 202 cadets are scheduled to enter pilot training following graduation and commissioning exercises at the respective schools, and their 28-day training at Webb is geared to prepare them for flying training.

BEFORE REVEILLE

For instance, a typical cadet's day may get under way when he reaches for his trusty penlight long before reveille has sounded. And since room lights must not be turned on until the specified time, the cadets get to work polishing floors, shining doorknobs, dusting furniture, making beds, arranging lockers and a host of other musts.

The reason for this frantic behavior?

"Well," explained one cadet this week, "we're not supposed to be up before the bugle has sounded, and all of us run the risk of getting caught when we do it. But there's no other way to get the job done."

The hushed preliminaries to the cadets' day are soon ended. At 5 a.m. the complete cadet group is positioned before their barracks dressed in gym clothes for morning calisthenics. By this time a faint pink sky is visible on the horizon.

Another action-packed installment in the students' lives has begun.

HUPI HUNI TUHI

In rapid fire order, the cadets move from formation to formation for the next 13 or 14 hours. First there is breakfast where they stand and sit at attention. Next comes the countless additional duties which go to dress up their personal equipment in preparation for morning inspection. And by the "late" hour of 7:30 a.m. they are deep into class or demonstrations or just plain drill.

The key to good performance at the encampment is discipline. Under the direction of USAF Lt. Col. Jack H. Crawford, Summer Training Unit commander, and Maj. Carl W. Stucki, associate professor of air science at the State University of Iowa and commandant of cadets at Webb, the training program is designed to keep discipline foremost in the minds of the cadets in order to achieve effective operation, the ability to work with others, to live harmoniously in close quarters, and to maintain emotional stability and maturity.

TRAINING FORCE

Cadets are organized into a Cadet Group composed of group headquarters, and two squadrons of four flights each. A group staff is appointed each week during the period to supervise and direct the scheduled activities of the cadets. In addition, all of their command positions are "rotated" at three-day intervals to enable all cadets with leadership situations.

Riding herd on the future Air Force officers is a full-time job which is handled by Col. Crawford and his staff. The training unit staff, including Maj. Stucki, is composed of Maj. Carlton H. McConnell from the University of Oklahoma, training officer; Maj. Robert L. Hopkins of the State University of Iowa, administrative officer; and Maj. Robert E. Miller of North Texas State University, athletics-recreation-information officer.

Eight tactical officers are also assigned to direct and supervise the members of the cadet corps.

Phases of training for the 200 cadets during the four weeks will include an orientation flight in the jet training planes at the base, a survival trek into remote areas, and almost all forms of practical officer training.

WALK IT OFF

Each ROTC cadet at the summer training unit will be evaluated throughout the period by his assigned Tactical Officer, making for some intense competition among the various flights and individuals.

To provide grades in military conduct training, the cadets are issued demerits. A cadet's demerit standing is a measure of his effectiveness in meeting the disciplinary standards of the cadet corps, and the demerits must be worked off at the rate of one demerit per 25 minutes of marching or work.

The cadets will graduate from the summer training unit during annual ceremonies at the base on Friday, July 13. Eight of the cadets will receive Reserve Air Force commissions at the event. In addition, the cadets are competing for several weekly awards and three encampment awards.

Each week an outstanding Cadet of the Week is selected from nominations presented by the eight Tactical Officers. A Flight of the Week is also chosen weekly on the basis of precision drill, appearance of barracks, and over-all flight performance during the week.

SPECIAL AWARD

Three awards will be presented during the graduation exercises. There will be an Outstanding Cadet of Summer Training, and a recipient of the Commandant's Award and an Air Force Times Award for leadership.

Participants in the summer training exercises have already come in contact with Big Spring's citizens. All 200 were guests of the Chamber of Commerce for a barbecue dinner at Cosden Country Club last week. The event was a highlight of the camp and they voiced special thanks to their hosts — Big Spring business and professional men.

Several of the students have been chosen to appear on local radio and television programs also. The end of next week, however, will bring an end to the program at Webb AFB for this season, and wiser and tougher cadets scatter across the nation for another encounter with their books before the day when they will become a part of the nation's select reservoir of pilots.

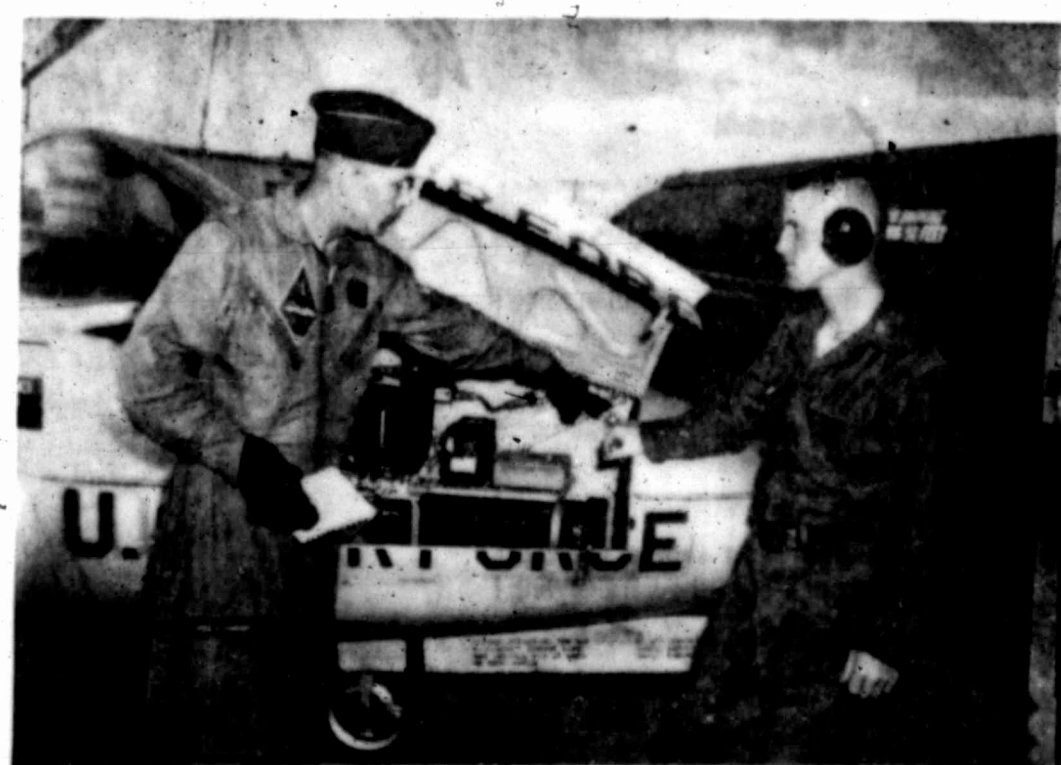

Flight Indoctrination

Buckled in for a ride in the high altitude pressure chamber at the base, a flight of ROTC cadets take part in one of the training phases—flight indoctrination. They get a taste of actual flying and of other regiment which will come later as student pilots.

Warm Welcome

Orientation Rides

NAACP Pickets During Convention

ATLANTA (AP)—Picketing of segregated hotels and restaurants by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People marked Independence Day in Atlanta.

While delegates to the national convention of the NAACP picketed, robed members of the Ku Klux Klan stood by and handed out leaflets.

Calvin Craig, grand dragon of the United Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., who welcomed the NAACP to Atlanta, "would have to take responsibility for any violence."

Capt. R. E. Little, head of the police department's special security division, said he didn't expect any trouble.

Only minor incidents of shoving were reported as picketing started Tuesday.

A sprinkling of white persons were among the NAACP pickets. They carried signs with such slogans as "Khrushchev could stay here. Negro Americans, eyes," and "Twelve Southern cities have open hotels. Why not Atlanta?"

Ten hotels and six restaurants were being picketed in protest of the exclusion of some delegates to the NAACP convention. The NAACP said picketing would continue for the duration of the convention which ends Sunday.

The Klan leaflets said in part: "Thousands of NAACP members are here to take over your city and do your thinking unless you dare to stand your ground and join the thousands of white people who have decided that the white man shall retreat no further."

About 35 carloads of Klansmen assembled on a vacant lot beside a highway outside Atlanta to watch a cross-burning ceremony and hear charges against integrationists.

Free Funeral

WELDON, N.C. (AP)—At least 10 people registered with radio WCNF Tuesday after the station, campaigning for safe driving, offered a free funeral to anyone killed driving while drunk during the Independence Day holiday.

Play-Like Disaster Produces Faster Reaction Than Expected

"Operation Medic," a simulated disaster set up to test the efficiency of classifying, transporting, treatment, and hospitalization of victims, went off at 1 p.m. Tuesday at a faster clip than Civil Defense workers and doctors anticipated.

There were 97 casualties in the "explosion" at the rear of the high school gymnasium and shop. Seventy-two of these were transported to the VA Hospital where they were processed and either treated or assigned to that hospital or sent to the four private hospitals in Big Spring.

CHANNELS JAMMED

"Within less than 10 minutes from time the alert was sounded, help was at the scene and the injured were on the way to the hospital," W. D. Berry, Civil Defense director said. "We had some confusion in communications, due to 'jamming' of the channel but all casualties were moved faster than anticipated."

Dr. C. E. Marcum, in charge of the medical phase of the operation, said there was a lot of enthusiasm shown in moving victims to hospitals and helping at the scene. Two doctors, two nurses, and two corpsmen were at the scene and tagged victims to facilitate classification at the receiving hospital (VA), where they were processed and assigned to other hospitals after the VA was filled. Forty victims were routed to Cowper Clinic and Hospital, Medical Arts Clinic and Hospital, Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, and Howard County Hospital. Some were sent directly to these hospitals without being unloaded at the receiving and processing station.

RAPID TRANSIT

Phillip Hannigan, registrar at the Veterans Hospital, said he was gratified at the efficiency of transportation facilities in getting victims to the station.

Big Spring police, Howard County Auxiliary police (Civil Defense), sheriff's department men, Liquor Control Board, and Air Police from Webb AFB, helped in the operation with traffic, communications, transportation, and every way in which they could serve.

All available ambulances from Big Spring funeral homes and four from WAFB, station wagons, taxicabs, pickup trucks, and one moving van which carried 20 victims, were in on transporting of victims. Neal's Transfer and Storage furnished the big van. A MARS communications van was furnished by WAFB.

More than 150 persons helped in the operation.

MUSIC NOT SO SWEET

The radio communications frequency being used in the "Operation Medic" was jammed by some one playing music during the disaster test Tuesday afternoon.

W. D. Berry, Civil Defense director, said a recording was made of the entire period to track the interference.

"We are sending the recording to the Federal Communications Commission for study," Berry said. "The same thing has been happening in other operations over the state and the FCC has stepped in to take a hand in eliminating illegal operation of communications sets being used."

"All licensed operators were alerted to stay off the air and we believe they did," Berry said. "It is the use of unlicensed sets we are after and we know there are some in Big Spring."

Heavy Downpour Kills, Destroys

TOKYO (AP)—The rainy season's heaviest downpour caused death and destruction today from the southernmost island of Kyushu to central Japan.

Nationalist police reported 19 persons were killed, 8 were missing and 16 injured as 8 to 10 inches of rain fell during the night.

Police said 56,000 persons were flooded out of their homes and thousands of acres of farmland inundated. Washouts and floods paralyzed communications.

It has been exactly one year ago today that our wife and mother, Mrs. Frankie Tucker, passed to her reward. Devoted to her family and her friends, she delighted in helping others. Few things were dearer to her heart than the annual Old Settlers Reunion which she once served as president. Somehow, we feel that when the reunion is held this month, her spirit will be in evidence as it is in our hearts, and we hope, in our lives.

Prayer As Usual

Students in a summer class at San Antonio's Brackenridge high school opened the day with a prayer as usual despite a Supreme Court ruling that such prayers violate the Constitution.

A&M COLLEGE

Short Courses Still Growing

COLLEGE STATION — It got to be something like a one-armed policeman trying to direct traffic in Times Square So Texas A&M College set up a Short Course Office.

That was two decades ago and its functions still are growing.

So extensive has become the service that when you say "short course" any Texan will think only of A&M College.

The short courses are for refresher sessions — or advanced teaching — largely for persons already established in their jobs or professions.

Attendance at the sessions last year varied from 1,657 for the firemen's training course to 7 for a short course on turkeys.

Several conferences can trace their history back to the 1920s. Records, says F. W. Hensel, assistant director of placement and special services, indicate the first such session was the farmers short course which started in the early 1900s.

Still, the short course office does not handle all the courses, said Hensel.

The Engineering Extension Service conducts its own conferences and the Agricultural Extension Service handles many of its own.

A majority of the courses are organized by the schools within A&M and are staffed by faculty members.

The functions of the short course office are multiple.

It conducts registration, makes name tags, collects fees, writes receipts, sells tickets to dinners, provides schedules and helps with housing.

The office takes care of all book-keeping and after the course is completed sends out a balance sheet to the sponsoring group.

Courses offered for this school year ranged from a clinic for commercial egg growers to an atomic energy conference. There are such courses offered in horse management, plant protection, insect control and city police operations.

The number of short courses has grown to the point that a major problem of the short course office is to keep traffic flowing in and out of meeting rooms and housing accommodations by dovetailing dates of the sessions.

Whenever a course is discontinued, Hensel says, there always is another waiting to take its place on the calendar.

Small Chance, But It Did

BRAZORIA — The reluctance of a 4-year-old to discard his Christmas tree resulted in a freak of nature, ones in which there is about one chance in 10,000 of occurring, according to horticulturists.

Five years ago John Miller Moore III, son of Dr. and Mrs. John M. Moore Jr., decided he didn't want to part with the tree.

He and his twin, Coleen, decided it would look nice on the front lawn.

The Moores had been remodeling the garage into a den and the masonry contractor left a large pile of sand near the house.

Into this sand dump went the tree. The children cared for it tenderly. The six-foot Clark Hills spruce, which had been sitting in a container of sweetened water during the holidays, took root.

The Moores moved to Houston three years ago but the house was rented and the tree is still there.

Refuses Regular Gasoline Offer

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — A courtesy driver for radio station WKMH's traffic patrol spotted a car stranded on a rush-hour crush on an expressway.

The driver edged through traffic to aid the stranded motorist. Informed the motorist was out of gas, the courtesy car inched off the expressway to a service station and returned with gas.

"What kind is it?" asked the stranded motorist, "regular or premium."

Informed it was regular, the motorist said, "I don't want it. It'll ruin my car."

Warned he would receive a ticket if he didn't remove his stranded car, the motorist replied, "I'll take the ticket."

Police issued the ticket as the courtesy car driver pulled back onto his traffic patrol route.

No Birthday Parties For Tax Collector

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Abraham Lincoln put quill pen to paper 100 years ago and created the Internal Revenue Service.

The action was considered so inconsequential that one Washington newspaper waited two days to print the news.

IRS no longer can be ignored — even for 48 hours. It does an annual business far surpassing that of any private corporation, collecting nearly $100 billion a year. And it probably is the world's most efficient collection agency, with expenses amounting to about half a cent for every dollar of revenue.

NO PRAISE

Of course, no collection agency is apt to win public applause — even on its 100th birthday. IRS, recognizing the inevitable, said in a centennial announcement:

"The service is not likely to become the most popular of federal agencies." But it modestly added that its function is one of the most essential.

In Lincoln's Day, IRS was needed to help finance the Civil War for the Union. For decades federal budgets had shown a consistent surplus — financed largely through tariffs and sale of public land. But in the Civil War, the Union's national debt started climbing at the then phenomenal rate of $2 million a day.

The bill that Lincoln signed called for the first graduated income tax — 3 to 5 per cent — with a higher rate prescribed for the largest incomes. And it provided for limited tax-withholding — even on payments of dividends and interest, a hot issue in Congress in 1962.

DISMANTLED

The system was dismantled in 1877 when the country no longer was under pressure to whittle down a debt that totaled $3 billion at the end of the Civil War.

In 1909, President William Howard Taft initiated work on a constitutional amendment that would authorize a new federal income tax. The amendment, the 16th, was ratified in 1913.

Back in 1902 each taxpayer got a $500 personal exemption — just as today — but he could not claim additional exemptions for his wife and children.

Taxes were withheld on all wages and salaries paid by the government — even for members of Congress and the President. And there was tax-withholding on all dividends and interest paid by railroads, banks, trust companies and insurance firms.

FIRST YEAR

In its first year of operation, the infant IRS collected taxes totaling $36.5 million considered a tremendous accomplishment. A year later the annual take jumped to $17 million.

Initially, Boutwell had the help of one clerk and he personally read all letters from taxpayers. Within six months, the IRS payroll had jumped to 3,882 and the wartime peak was 6,321. These figures compare with a present payroll of 57,000.

From the start, the federal income tax was based on the principle of self-assessment, with each taxpayer figuring out his income and his tax and paying the amount due without prodding.

STERN TEST

Although this represents a stern test of individual honesty, the system has worked. More than 97 per cent of all taxes are paid voluntarily at the present time and even persons accused of backsliding have recourse to an elaborate appeals procedure.

Such was not the case in 1862. If the tax assessor thought someone was evading taxes, he could impose his own valuation on the person's income. And, said the IRS, "From the valuation so made there can be no appeal."

Lists of the income and taxes of residents were posted for public inspection, and the people had 10 days in which to pay the amounts owed.

STRONG MOTIVE

If they did not pay, collectors went to work with the power to Collectors had a strong motive for raking in every dollar of delinquent tax. They were held personally responsible for all taxes due in their districts and if amounts remained unpaid their own property could be seized and sold to satisfy the government's claims.

Unique Onion

Raymond T. Moore holds an onion he thinks may be the only one of its kind. Instead of growing a seed head at the top of its leaves, the plant grew another onion. Onions grow underground and veteran growers in the Laredo area say they have never seen one like this one before. Moore, a grocer, grew the oddity in his backyard in Laredo, Tex.

Phone Microwave Links Take Shape

Long distance calls will take giant electronic strides across West Texas this summer when a new radio relay route goes into operation between Sweetwater and El Paso. Byron Alexander, manager, Southeastern Bell Telephone Company said today.

A relay station on the new communications skyway is located two miles southeast of Ackerly near U.S. 87. The 300-foot Ackerly tower topped by giant antennas with a 1,600-square-foot equipment building beside it is one of 14 such installations between Sweetwater and El Paso. Another is located just west of the Vincent Lake Thomas road.

Engineered by the Telephone Company's Long Lines Department, the 600-mile route will be ready for service this month. Later this year it will be extended east to Dallas and west to Phoenix. At Dallas, El Paso and Phoenix the route will tie in with other communications systems as a major link in the Bell System's nationwide network.

2,000 VOICES
According to Alexander the new system, when fully equipped, can carry up to 2,000 long distance calls at one time.

"The new route will provide for present needs and future growth in long distance calling in and through this area to other parts of the nation," the official said. "When the route is extended to Dallas and

Odessan Gets Phillips Award

A West Texas high school graduate has been selected among the 50 winners of scholarships worth $2,000 from the Educational Fund for Children of Phillips Petroleum Company Employees. The awardees for 1962 were selected from 143 candidates who had qualified to take the scholastic aptitude test of the College Entrance Examination Board on May 19.

Wilson Dolman III, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dolman Jr., 4261 Bonham, Odessa, has been awarded a scholarship to any accredited college or university of his choosing. He is a graduate of Permian Basin High School.

Selected as alternates were Wynona Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perry, Midland; and Beverly Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith, Mc Glennon, Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Monroe, and Thomas N. Tyree, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Tyree, all of Odessa.

The winners of scholarships also included Roy White, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. White, Hobbs, N. Mex.

Each of the 50 scholarship awards provided $500 annually during four years of college attendance, subject to the maintenance of a satisfactory record by the awardee.

The scholarship fund was established in 1939 for the purpose of aiding children of employees of Phillips Petroleum Company and its subsidiaries in obtaining a college or university education. More than 600 young people have obtained education with Phillips awards, totaling a million and a quarter million dollars.

High school students from 70 towns in 19 states took the 1962 aptitude test. Qualifying students who did not receive scholarships may apply for loans for higher education from a separate educational loan fund.

Workmen Discover Millions In Old Car

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two workmen renovating parallel rows of recently sold garages on a quiet city street peered into the trunk of an old car and found almost $2.5 million in money that an FBI agent said appeared to be legal U.S. currency.

Cached with the money discovered Tuesday in the rear of a dusty auto were three pistols, ammunition and files stolen from the offices of the Hudson County prosecutor on May 9, 1961. Also found was a quantity of electronics equipment of the type used by bookmakers.

FBI agent R. W. Bachman said one of the stolen files contained material on a police investigation July 3, 1951, in which Joseph "Newsboy" Moriarty was arrested for bookmaking and possession of lottery tickets in Jersey City. The second file concerned a Moriarty associate.

Moriarty, 47, was picked up that time while riding in a 1947 Plymouth—the same make auto in which the money was discovered. The gambler, known to police as "king of the numbers runners" in Hudson County, was sentenced to a 2-to-3 year prison term last March 2.

Both the FBI and Jersey City police jumped into the case, but the FBI got possession of the money by obtaining a warrant for its seizure because of a $50,000 lien the federal government has against Moriarty for unpaid income taxes.

Bachman, special agent in charge of the Newark FBI office, said the money was in two large leather bags and a box. Much of it reportedly was bound in wrappers of a Rutherford, N.J. bank—from which $37,000 was stolen on August 27, 1963 by an armed bandit.

Bachman said the money to-dated approximately $2,400,000, including a "few thousand-dollar bills" with the rest in $100s, $50s, $20s and $10s. The guns, wrapped in 1949 newspapers, were an automatic pistol, a 45-caliber revolver and a 32-caliber revolver.

Investigators found fingerprinting equipment near the car. In another garage, they found a 1952 auto which contained adding machines, phone equipment and typewriters—instruments of the bookmaking trade.

Moriarty, whose prison term stemmed from conviction of possession of lottery slips, had been arrested many times and his activities have been the subject of political disputes.

In one of his earliest arrests, in 1947, police seized $27,000 in cash and a quantity of numbers slips in his home in Jersey City. When they arrested him in 1950, police seized more than $50,000 in cash at the home.

The garage's owner, Frank Munzy, 64, Weehawken, N.J., was quoted by the New York Daily News as saying his records showed the garage once had been rented by Moriarty. Munzy purchased the garages on Monday for $5,500.

An FBI spokesman said the money would be turned over to the U. S. marshal's office in Newark and that anyone who laid claim to it, either through right of discovery or ownership, would have to prove it in the courts.

The FBI spent seven hours counting the money.

Razor Blades Dropped On Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Razor blades — hard to come by in bearded Fidel Castro's Cuba — were among creature comforts which an anti-Castro organization says it dropped on the island as a prelude to putting guerrillas ashore.

The International Anti-Communist Brigade said Tuesday it also scattered containers of powdered milk, a small quantity of bread, and reams of leaflets.

The commodities were to remind Cubans that the patriots in exile are thinking of them, the leaflets were to urge Castro foes in Cuba to put the torch to transport facilities, bridges, warehouses and factories as a blow for liberty.

The drops were made by two planes June 30, two days before a special force of 20 guerrillas was landed on Matanzas' shore by boat, the brigade said.

Teachers Hear Part Of Union Argument

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Labor leader James B. Carey still believes the National Education Association is cutting its own throat by opposing teacher unions—even though he didn't get to say it in his speech to the NEA convention Tuesday night.

Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, and vice president of the AFL-CIO, was nearing the end of his speech—the spot he had reserved for his roundhouse punches—when a voice from the balcony of the Denver City Auditorium interrupted him.

A slight murmur of dissent ran through the crowd when Carey said, "The predicament of teachers today—without unionism—is not only economic; it is a predicament also of integrity. There is more and more evidence that teachers cannot afford integrity and honesty."

The two shouts from the balcony—possibly from the same man—came when Carey was discussing the situation in New York City. In New York last year the United Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, won bargaining rights for the 40,000 city teachers with an overwhelming victory over the NEA.

The first shout was, "Five hundred thousand dollars," and the second a few minutes later was "That's a lot of money." They were in obvious reference to a statement made by NEA Executive Secretary William G. Carr that the labor movement had spent about a half million dollars in the New York fight.

As special police cleared the platform and the lights went down in the auditorium, Carey told newsmen, "I stand by everything you read in my prepared text. I'll finish it right here and now if they'll let me."

The points the delegates never got to hear:

"Unionism in teaching will spread because only unions, not professional societies, can push legislation through state legislatures and Congress.

"Only unions, with the help of liberal groups, can assure legislation to construct schools, assist in raising teachers' salaries, and promote academic freedom.

"At the very least the NEA shouldn't oppose unionism. It is cutting its own throat if it does.

EDUCATORS CONCERNED

Disadvantaged Children Are A Growing Army

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The youngster from the big city slums, who doesn't have a chance. The child of migrant workers forever on the go. The high school dropout who enters a labor market that has no job for him.

These young Americans in the growing army of disadvantaged children will form a substantial part of tomorrow's adult generation. What to do with them and about them is a major source of concern at the annual convention of the National Education Association.

Judge Mary Conway Kohler of the National Committee on Employment of Youth told convention delegates Tuesday:

"The devastating effects of long-term unemployment of youth will continue to grow unless we, as a nation, take drastic steps to overhaul our educational training, guidance and employment machinery.

Most of the million unemployed youth in the United States dropped out of high school before graduation, she said, and most of them are from the slums of the great cities or the lowest economic levels of the middle-sized cities.

Charles H. Percy, chairman of the board of Bell and Howell, told the convention, "For the unprepared, the future holds only dismay and disappointment."

"Automation screams out the message of education for the future," Percy said. "In the electrical industry, for example, employment of production workers fell from 925,000 in 1953 to 836,000 in February 1961. This is a 10 per cent decrease, despite an increase in production of 21 per cent."

Percy summed up the problem this way: "There is very little back-breaking labor left in America today, but all of it is being done by men and women who lack skills and training and who have not had educational and training opportunities."

There is a special problem with the children of migrant workers, Alfred M. Potts of the Colorado State Department of Education said in a paper to be presented to the convention today.

Some educators might disagree, he said, but Colorado has found that inspiring these youngsters to stay in school is much more important than academic excellence in depth during their early school years.

Tax Revision Bill Might Be Shelved

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's tax revision bill will end up on a shelf—at least temporarily—unless the Senate Finance committee reaches agreement on it by July 17.

Since agreement isn't likely in that period, the measure may be nudged into a final resting place on the shelf when Congress pushes into its adjournment crush.

A timetable for the bill was set up by the Finance Committee chairman, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., as the committee ended its public hearings Tuesday.

Byrd said his group would begin executive sessions on the tax proposals a week from today. If it doesn't finish with the bill within a week, he said, the measure will be put aside and public hearings will begin July 18 on the President's trade expansion bill. These hearings are expected to last about a month.

Some foes of the tax bill said they thought the timetable signaled its eventual doom.

But Byrd emphasized that he would shelve the measure only temporarily and that this action would carry the approval of the administration.

The House passed the trade bill last Thursday. Like the tax revision measure, it's a major item on Kennedy's 1962 program.

The tax legislation, which cleared the House in March, has come under heavy attack before Byrd's committee.

Byrd strongly opposes its two main provisions—a $1.35-billion investment credit designed as an incentive to business to modernize its plant and equipment and a withholding system of dividends and interest.

Administration supporters believe they have the votes to retain the investment credit in the Finance Committee. But the withholding plans seem likely to be knocked out of the bill 10-7 on the basis of the present lineup.

One committee member, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said a temporary shelving of the tax bill would give the President at least another month in which to consider whether a big income tax cut is needed this year.

McCarthy has been one of those arguing for consideration of a quick tax cut as a stimulus to consumer buying power.

Kennedy said last week the administration was keeping a close watch on economic indicators in weighing its tax policies. But he has not changed his recommendation that an income tax cut be enacted next year, effective next Jan. 1.

Beauty In Life Of Pablo Casals

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Wherever Pablo Casals is, a beautiful young woman is always nearby. Even at rehearsals, there she sits, a rapturous little smile on her face; ready with a gesture of approval if he should turn toward her.

"I think I have a complete life, and will have it as long as I have my husband."

"I never think of the difference in our ages," she says. "Our life is so full, so happy, so wonderful. Once people see us, they understand—I hope they do, I wish many others were as happy as we are."

Small, graceful, classic-featured, Martita has a serenity and dignity that make her seem more mature than her 27 decades. She dresses simply—My husband and I like everything conservative—and attracts all the attention as possible to herself.

Her conversation, which centers around her husband as often as she is able to savor it that way, indicates their closeness.

Martita met short, stocky, balding Casals in 1954, when she won a $1,000 prize to study cello under his direction at Prades, France, where he conducts an annual music festival. For four years before that she had studied cello in New York City, and learned excellent English. She also speaks Spanish, French and Catalan.

She seldom plays the cello now. "I have more important things to do. I have no personal aspirations, in the sense of doing anything myself. I am content to be just his wife. More than content."

"Being with him is the most wonderful education, in every respect—a privilege. I consider myself very lucky, but lucky is not the word. It's not deep enough."

When Casals is not giving concerts or conducting classes at music festivals somewhere around the world, the couple live in a house by the sea in San Juan Puerto Rico. Every morning they go for a walk along the beach.

"He always finds such inspiration from nature," she says. "The way he speaks of it raises you up with him. It makes the day like all great people he has greater sensitivity to things of nature."

After the walk he plays Bach preludes for awhile. "He says they're like a benediction to the house in the morning"—then they breakfast and begin work. He composes and plays, she takes care of correspondence.

"Correspondence is very big and complicated," she sighs. "It is wonderful how the whole world wants to consult him. He would like to answer every letter."

"With him all the emotions are

Bathrooms Decorated Frequently

AKRON, Ohio—What is the most frequently decorated room in the house? The bathroom, say the home decorating experts.

This room takes daily punishment from water and steam that eventually will dull any decorating scheme. But a bit of freshening up now and again will do wonders to keep it looking its best.

One quick change of face can be wrought simply by providing a new shower curtain or an ensemble that includes matching window draperies.

It's a change that can be economical, too, since most curtains for windows or shower are modestly priced.

Sisters Plan For Week Of Camping

Accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Frank Snyder, Nancy and Jo Lynn Snyder will leave Thursday for a week of camping at Booth Oaks Mrs. Snyder will return for them next week.

Old Glory Is Significant Of Heritage

"Every home flying the flag today shows gratitude and respect for the protections symbolized by the flag," according to the Lawrence Phelps Tower, president of the United States Flag Foundation.

Founded in 1895 to advise industry, government and individuals on flag etiquette, the foundation has been headed by Tower for the last 20 years.

In the rules set forth for proper flag etiquette and contained in the nation's official flag code, it states that flying the flag all night is allowed for patriotic reasons if it is illuminated so it can be seen. If not illuminated, it is improperly displayed at night.

Tower points out that there is the mistaken idea that the flag can't be displayed unless it is a 50-star edition.

"You can fly a 48 or 49-star flag—or even a 13-star one," he explains. "And you can wash or dry clean the flag when it becomes soiled."

WAC Returns To Land Of Birth

By BEVERLY DEEPE
SAIGON (AP) — Maj. Anne M. Doering is the only WAC stationed in Viet Nam with 5,000 U.S. servicemen.

With two U. S. Army nurses, she comprises the only American military women in this small country of conflict.

Maj. Doering, who works in the intelligence division, arrived here on March 20. It was a return to her homeland for the first time in 38 years. She was born in Hui-phong, an important seaport now in the Communist-controlled half of Viet Nam.

Her French father died when she was young. He is buried in Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam. Her German-born mother married an American accountant for an oil company in Saigon.

At 15 she left Saigon in 1924 for Europe and Texas, where she completed high school and graduated from college. Her Stateside home is Georgetown, 26 miles north of Austin.

She says U. S. servicemen ask her how she learned to speak French so well. "I just tell them we have good French-speaking schools in Texas. It gets too involved to tell them where I was born."

Star-Point

You'll enjoy wearing this attractive style. It's crocheted in two identical pieces then joined at center back. No 885 will be comfortable, too, for it's shaped to fit shoulders and back.

Don't Compromise!

Star of the CBS-TV daytime series, "Brighter Day," June Drayton, says that she always tries to never compromise when she feels that she is right in the way she feels about anything. By following this rule, she finds that there is very little conflict between her husband and her career.

'Brighter Day' Star Praises Self Respect

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — When CBS decided to move "Brighter Day" to the West Coast I met June Drayton star of this popular daytime series, for the first time. Though she works very hard she has been happily married for more than 10 years.

"There should be no conflict between husband and a career when the marriage has a solid foundation," June declared. "I have one rule I try to follow and that is never to compromise with what I feel is right. When you lose your good opinion of yourself, you've lost everything."

We talked of the importance of never letting your husband down by neglecting your appearance. "I wear so much make-up when I'm working that I try to keep my skin clean and unpowdered when I am at home. But a few months ago I was shocked to find that what I considered one of my best assets—a good complexion—was all gone. My skin was completely broken out. My first reaction was that I had an allergic reaction to something, and I examined everything I was putting on my face, even my lipstick, but I could find nothing that I had not been using for a long time."

"When I went to the doctor, he said I had acne. This is exactly the condition found in adolescence. Only mine was delayed. He had me use a medicated soap and told me to be very careful about always using a clean wash cloth. And he gave me a vitamin A tablet and vitamin A injections, and my skin began to clear.

"It is interesting," June said in parting, "that what I was so delighted to have escaped when I was in school caught up with me later on."

Complexion Cures — Your skin must be nourished from inside and out. Leaflet M-33, "Complexion Magic," will give you a five-point program to bulk and keep a clear, beautiful skin. Feminine Cottons For Young Sports

Young set playtime tees are feminine this summer, reports the National Cotton Council. Dainty ruffles add charm to many sports styles in the 3 to 6x and 7 to 14 sets.

All sportswear is sparked with a profusion of ruffles. They run around collars and hems and ripple down fronts and backs of many youthful fashions. There are many young sets' number one feminine fabric for small world cottons. Whether in pastel or bright colors, it looks newest in big checks, trimmed with embroidery or used as detailing on solid colored play outfits of smooth broadcloth.

Like big sister the young girl hares her tiny waist in hip-bugging pants, many with bell bottoms or in Jamaica length. These look best when teamed with color-matched shirts and fringed or frilly crop tops in sporting weight cottons of easy care seersucker, terry and duck.

Mrs. Frank Wilson Speaks For HD Club

Mrs. Frank Wilson presented a Civil Defense program to members of the fairview Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Shirley Fryar. The program also included a demonstration on baking pies, given by Mrs. Jim Smith.

The 10 members present voted to disband until September. However, a picnic will be held August 21.

SAVE THE SELF SERVICE WAY

New Way To Do Summer Cottons

Special for this summer only, you can dryclean your summer cotton dresses and they will be sized for you at no charge. This means no sprinkling or starching is needed. Just dry iron them for the best looking cottons you have ever been able to do yourself. Colors are brighter and your clothes are also deodorized. This process is exclusive with us for our coin operated drycleaners. You can do about six cotton dresses for the same low price of $1.50.

Ford Grant Spurs Sewanee Campaign

SEWANEE, Tenn. — A $2½ million grant from the Ford Foundation provided the University of the South with its first big break in a $10 million campaign recently inaugurated. Ford will match at the rate of $1 for $3 whatever Sewanee raises in the next three years up to $7½ million.

On the list of 21 liberal arts colleges receiving similar matching grants totaling $41.6 million, Sewanee was one of five to receive the maximum. Others included Austin College of Sherman, Tex.

Dr. Edward McCrady said that Sewanee has mapped specific plans for use of the Ford money. The first allotment will be spent as follows:

For faculty and staff salaries and fringe benefits, $125,000; for library plans and specifications, $50,000; for faculty and married student housing, $100,000; for student scholarships, $100,000; for an undergraduate dormitory, $280,000.

The University of the South (Sewanee), located on a 10,000-acre domain on the Cumberland Plateau, between Nashville and Chattanooga and dating back to 1857, draws a part of its support from the Northwest Texas Diocese of the Episcopal Church, of which St. Mary's, Big Spring, is a unit. Bishop George H. Quarterman of Amarillo and Rev. Wm. West of Pampa are clerical trustees of Sewanee and J. R. (Rich) Anderson of Gail and Joe Farnest of Colorado City are lay trustees.

The university now consists of a college of liberal arts with a 1961-62 enrollment of 687 men and a school of theology of 75. It operates the Sewanee Military Academy, a preparatory school of 265, for twenty years designated an honor school by the Department of the Army. Sixty per cent of its graduates now go to graduate schools. Eighty per cent of its students come from outside Tennessee.

The University of the South has the highest production in proportion to enrollment of any school in the South in students awarded Rhodes scholarships to Oxford University, Fulbright scholarships for study abroad, and Woodrow Wilson fellowships looking to a career in college teaching. In a survey financed by the Ford Foundation several years ago, the university was first in the South and eighteenth in the nation in the proportionate production of younger American scholars.

Minor Damage In Historic Building

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A guard at Independence Hall discovered smoke pouring from the basement of the east wing Monday night and turned in the alarm on the historic building's special box—1776.

Firemen said the smoke came from a defective fluorescent bulb and damage was negligible.

Small Town, But A Lot Of Folks

CALLAWAY, Neb. (AP) — Oral anti-polio vaccine was offered all corners Sunday in the community hall at Callaway, a central Nebraska village with a population of 600.

A total of 2,990 persons responded.

The excess came from nearby communities and rural areas.
