143 KILLED

July 4th Sets New Death Record

By The Associated Press

Traffic Boating Drowning Miscellaneous Total

Traffic accidents killed a record 143 persons during the nation's 30-hour observance of Independence Day.

The death count on the nation's streets and highways exceeded the one-day Fourth of July holiday record set in 1956, the last year when a one-day observance was held.

The National Safety Council estimated earlier that during the holiday period from 6 p.m. Tuesday to midnight Wednesday the traffic toll would fall somewhere between 110 and 150.

It also said that nearly all of the country's 76 million cars would be on the go.

The country's over-all accident death toll was 248. It included 15 deaths in boating accidents, 54 drownings, and 36 deaths in miscellaneous accidents.

The traffic death toll was higher than 107 deaths reported last Memorial Day, also on a Wednesday, a one-day observance.

In the only other one-day observance of Independence Day since World War II, in 1951, traffic accidents killed 106 persons. The record low toll for a one-day holiday since World War II was 81 set in 1951 on Memorial Day. The record high was 253, set on Christmas Day in 1956.

Highway deaths for a 30-hour non-holiday period, taken in a survey by The Associated Press for comparative purposes, totaled 96. Other violent deaths in the period between 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 19, and midnight Wednesday, June 20, included 3 in boating accidents, 30 drownings and 23 in accidental mishaps, a total of 152.

Gun Battle Disrupts Algerian Celebration

Third Try At High Test Set Tonight

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States is set for its third try at exploding a nuclear device high above Johnston Island tonight.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Honolulu said skies should be clear and visibility good over the tiny Pacific Island.

Two previous attempts at a high-altitude shot failed because of missile troubles. The nuclear warheads in both cases were destroyed without a nuclear detonation.

Repeated delays and failures have caused speculation that the planned high-altitude series of three or four shots may have to be curtailed to two and possibly even a single shot.

The latest try—originally scheduled for the Fourth of July—was postponed until tonight because of apparent technical difficulties. There was no explanation for the delay.

The high-altitude blast is designed to knock out communications across the Pacific by punching a hole in the ionosphere—a band of space particles which reflect radio signals—Van Allen radiation belts.

Brazil Is Paralyzed By Strike

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—A general strike virtually paralyzed Brazil today amid a new governmental crisis touched off by the resignation of conservative Prime Minister Auro de Moura Andrade.

Army units and police were on the alert in Rio de Janeiro and other large cities as labor leaders ignored presidential appeals and pressed their campaign for a prime minister to be chosen from the Labor party.

Andrade quit Wednesday night after only 36 hours in office. Labor leaders said the resignation came too late to cancel the strike call but promised to confer with government officials later today.

In Brasilia, Police Chief A. G. Cookson would neither confirm nor deny reports that police were closely guarding the legislative buildings for fear of violent demonstrations.

Until last Sunday the 500 inhabitants of Cupar and the Cupar Hospital were served by Dr. H. H. Haworth, who came to Canada from Britain after World War II. Like the big majority of Saskatchewan's 700 other practicing physicians, Haworth opposes the medical care program of Premier Woodrow Lloyd. And like them, he went on vacation Sunday, the day the plan went into effect.

What is happening in Cupar, 40 miles northeast of the capital city of Regina, is typical of the situation faced by 100 other communities as the result of Saskatchewan's battle over a compulsory medical care program.

In some larger cities, such as Regina and Saskatoon, skeleton staffs of doctors are providing emergency services. However, communities like Cupar must rush their emergency cases miles by car, ambulance or air ambulance to one of the designated centers.

The hospital, financed by the government, will remain open around the clock so that the staff may receive emergency cases that should be sent to Regina, the nearest place that has medical service.

Ben Khedda's regime strove desperately to bring order and assert its control before Ben Bella's return. But governmental administration was virtually unable to control jubilant Moslems from staging riotous celebrations and grabbing European property.

After a wild night, smartly uniformed, French-trained policemen—succeeded early today in closing off some of the main streets for the victory parade.

Against the background of jubilation, there was the growing threat of anarchy.

The governmental vacuum was created by the sudden withdrawal of French officials and the lack of Algerian Moslems to replace them.

Governing power supposedly rests until elections with the French-instigated Algerian Provisional Executive headed by Abdelhahmane Fares. But actual power lies with Ben Khedda.

Ben Khedda and Fares conferred Wednesday night and were reported planning to form a temporary regime to bring a measure of order out of the chaos. But Ben Khedda was having difficulty extending his authority outside Algiers.

The Times quoted the Agriculture Department as saying that preliminary inquiry disclosed that county managers in at least two counties received about $28,000 since 1959 from farmers who received the allotments.

DOCTORS MOVING OUT

Violence Threat Added To Strike

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The threat of violence was injected today into the strike by Saskatchewan doctors against the government's compulsory medical care program. Tempers grew short as more doctors reportedly were moving out of the province.

As the government program and doctors' strike moved into the fifth day, each side sought to marshal public support. Neither side showed any sign of backing down.

The doctors stuck to their demand that provincial Premier Woodrow Lloyd's Socialist government do away with the compulsory feature of the program.

The government refused to budge and claimed the medical care situation was apparently under control. Deputy Premier J. H. Bruns declared there "appears nothing in the nature of panic and alarm."

In the western Saskatchewan town of Swift Current, police guards were posted at the homes of two doctors after an organization calling itself the "Swift Current Citizens Safety Committee" threatened the doctors and their families.

The threats, in letters to the town's weekly newspaper and a radio station, ordered the doctors to get down from their "chosen pedestal" and return to normal practice by Friday morning. Otherwise, the letters warned, the doctors would "suffer such harm to themselves, their families or their property as the organization may deem fit."

The letters said the threats were "no more ruthless than the situation the doctors have subjected the people to in a callous disregard for health and safety."

Ironically, the letter had the effect of taking the doctors out of service. Both had been on emergency duty as Saskatoon's St. Paul's Hospital, one of 34 centers set up to provide free treatment until normal medical services are resumed. After the threats, the doctors returned to Swift Current to move their families.

In Regina, Police Chief A. G. Cookson would neither confirm nor deny reports that police were closely guarding the legislative buildings for fear of violent demonstrations.

WORK LOADS

In the meantime, the emergency centers reported varying degrees of work loads, from very few patients at Regina to four times the normal number at St. Paul's in Saskatoon.

Debate on the Saskatchewan program raged across Canada.

In Ottawa, the Canadian Labor Congress accused the Saskatchewan doctors of "open and brazen defiance of constituted authority" and said their behavior could be described as mutiny.

In Montreal, Dr. H. S. Morton, president of the Quebec Medical Association, called the medical care act "complete civil conscription of the medical profession. No other plan this side of the iron curtain is as extreme as this one."

At least 11 of the some 230 volunteers have come from other Canadian provinces, Britain and the United States. Dr. Gerhard Beck, 53, of Jacksonville, Fla., volunteered after reading the emergency call for doctors in the newspapers. He has taken an intern's post at the hospital in Leader, 250 miles west of Regina.

"I felt it was my duty as a physician to offer my services for patients in need of medical care," he said. He said he turned his own patients over to two colleagues and expected "no remuneration or reward."

Government sources said about 20 Saskatchewan doctors have defied the medical college and were working under the government program. Provincial health officials said British doctors soon will begin arriving in Saskatchewan at the rate of four a day to help fill the gaps temporarily.

Moslems, Europeans Fight Again

ALGIERS (AP)—A violent gun battle in the heart of Oran's European city today shattered Algeria's celebration of its first official independence holiday.

More than 100 dead and wounded were reported in the first hour of the fighting which swept the former stronghold of European Sacer Army Organization terrorists.

Two hours after the fighting started, gunfire still rattled over the city. French riot police cars set up positions near the battle area.

The gunfire panicked tens of thousands of Moslems in the midst of a delicious celebration. An official of the city's main hospital said all the casualties taken there were Moslems. But a number of Europeans also were killed or wounded.

A Moslem policeman said the firing came from holdout terrorists of the European secret army, whose leaders had bowed to Algerian independence after months of murder and arson. The policeman's report could not be immediately confirmed.

The Oran violence, first since Algeria became formally independent Tuesday, erupted against a backdrop of a power struggle for leadership of the new-born nation.

In Algiers, national Premier Youssef ben Khedda took the salute from 500 battle-hardened Algerian guerrillas. But the military show underscored the shaky position of Ben Khedda's moderate regime.

All the parading troops were from Wilya No. 3, the only one of the guerrilla army's six zones to have firmly declared its loyalty to Ben Khedda. Three military zones, including the one immediately south of Algiers, have declared their support for rebellion.

Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, a radical leftist who split with Ben Khedda on the eve of independence.

The 45,000-man nationalist army in exile, the key to any power struggle—was moving into Algeria from Tunisia and Morocco. Ben Bella commands strong loyalties among those troops whom he welded into the fighting force the much larger French army could not defeat.

The advance guard from Tunisia had reached Souk Ahras, 110 miles east of Constantine. From the Moroccan side, the nationalist units marched toward Marnia. Ben Bella's home town, where he was expected to arrive in several days from his present refuge in Cairo.

Eisenhower Defends GOP Policy Groups

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says two new-born Republican policy groups will help the party build an organization to do justice to its principles.

Eisenhower defended the All Republican Conference and the National Republicans Citizens Committee Wednesday against the attack of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who had labeled them as forces of confusion and distrust.

In forming the two groups, Eisenhower said, Republicans made "the most progressive steps our party has taken in many years."

The All Republican Conference was formed last Saturday by Republicans meeting at Eisenhower's farm in Gettysburg, Pa. Organization of the citizens committee was announced in New York later the same day.

Eisenhower's defense of the two organizations came in a letter to Republican National Chairman William F. Miller, who is an active sponsor of the conference. The GOP chairman, in advancing the idea for the group, said Republicans should form an organization of leading party members, in and out of office, to coordinate efforts to win control of the House and trim the Democratic majority in the Senate.

Eisenhower said "on matters of basic principle and ideals the Republican party is truly the nation's majority party."

But "unfortunately for America and the Republican party, while we Republicans have devoted our attention to principles and programs the opposition has focused its energies working relentlessly and shrewdly on the arithmetic of winning elections through political organizations."

He said the new organizations "will fill an urgent need by greatly broadening the base of organization participation—all of it aimed at winning elections."

The conference, Eisenhower said, "will bring together under one roof the truest possible group action of our national leaders."

In BIG CITIES He said the citizens committee "which will devote much attention to organizational activities in the big cities and metropolitan areas could well be the secret of Republican success in 1964 if indeed not in this year."

Eisenhower did not mention Goldwater by name, but his letter clearly was a reply to the senator's criticism—aimed directly at the conference, by implication at the citizens group and in part at the policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Both letters were dated Monday. Eisenhower's was released by Miller Wednesday.

Goldwater said Miller and other party leaders should reject the conference plan. He said leaders on the group "contributed to the divisive tactics of the 1960 campaign when long-time and experienced Republican party leaders were shunted aside, ignored and embarrassed."

FIREWORKS

Firemen Given July 4 Workout

It was a sizzling July 4th for city firemen who answered six calls including one to traffic snarled Scenic Mountain Drive.

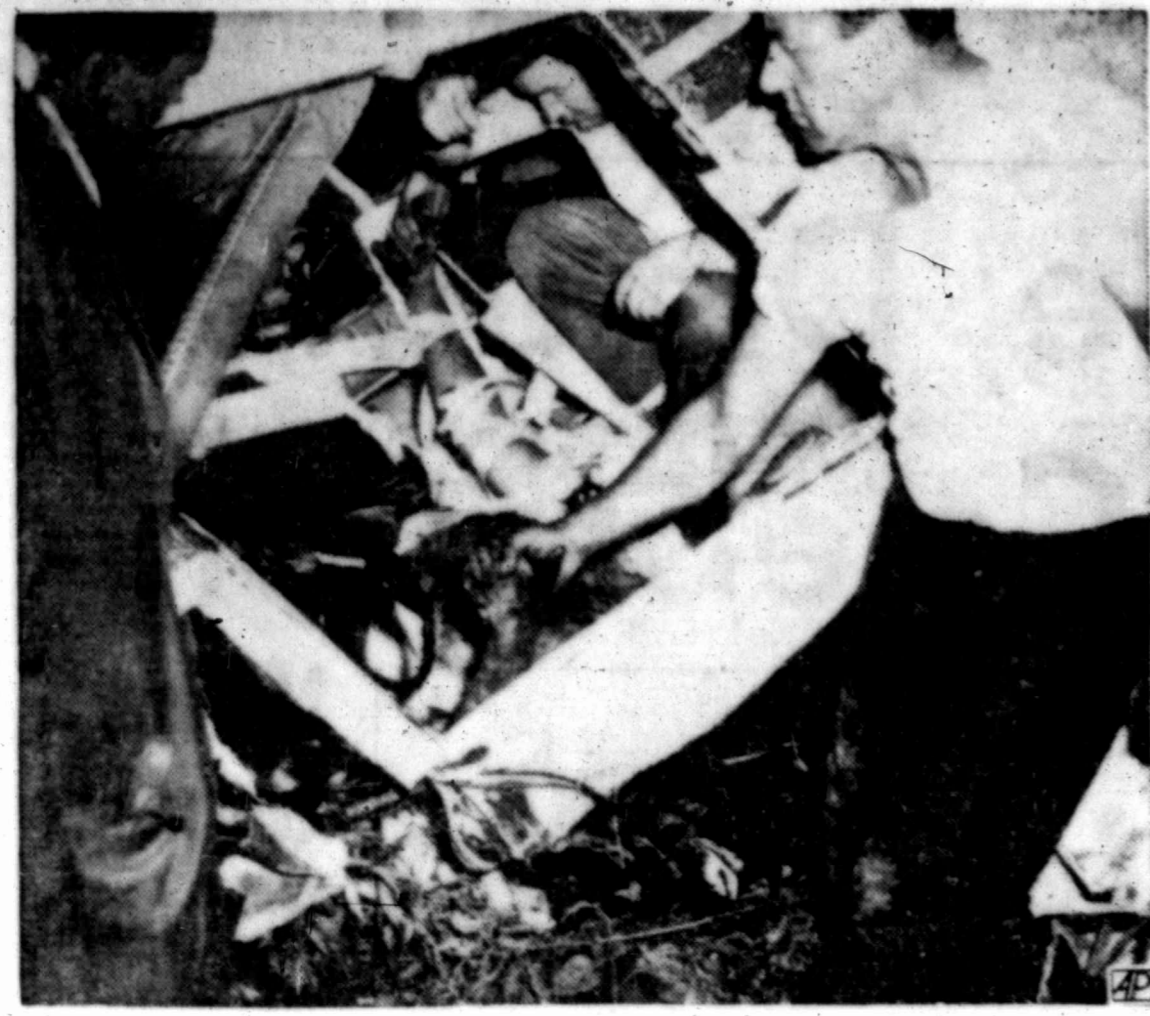

All of the fire calls resulted from fireworks.

Most spectacular was the grass blaze on the northern slope of Scenic Mountain during the Webb AFB fireworks display. Someone threw firecrackers down the hillside, and that's all the dry grass needed. Park Manager A. B. Cramer, who kept the gates open a couple of hours later than usual to accommodate the public, had urged parents not to let youngsters shoot fireworks in the park.

Fire trucks were hampered—almost thwarted—in their efforts to reach the blaze because the drive around Scenic had almost a solid string of cars. After the Webb display was over, it required 45 minutes for the backing of cars to clear the hill.

The first fire call Wednesday was on a vacant lot at Marcy and Grafa at 8:15 p.m. In another 25 minutes the Scenic Mountain call came.

Dying Gesture

Bruce McFarland, 24, of Albertson, N.Y., clutches the hand of a rescue worker as he lies fatally injured in the wreckage of a single-engine plane that crashed into a hangar at an airport in Amityville, a Long Island community. The plane undereshot a landing, struck a tree and crashed into the hangar. McFarland and William Ogden Jr., 26, of Glen Cove, were pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. The men were partners in a Long Island foreign car business.

FOR CONGRESSMEN

Many Problems Not Limited To State Lines

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON — Ten Texas members of the House sometimes are called upon to straddle state lines to deal with local problems in neighboring states and Mexico.

One example of the kind of interstate complications that can arise is found in the state's 15th congressional district — that of the dean of the Lone Star delegation, Rep. Wright Patman of Texas.

The Texarkana federal building is set down squarely on the Texas-Arkansas boundary line, the division being right at the general delivery window of the post office. Patman says it is the only building he knows of that houses federal district courts of two states.

INTERNATIONAL

Three Texas congressmen occasionally deal with local problems that have international angles — Reps. J. T. Rutherford, whose district starts in at El Paso and goes along the Rio Grande down past the Big Bend country; O. C. Fisher, whose district fronts on the Mexican border for a short distance; and Joe Kilgore, with a Rio Grande boundary stretching from above Laredo down to Brownsville.

Moving counter-clockwise around the map from northeast Texas where Patman's district borders on Louisiana and Oklahoma as well as Arkansas, the other Texas congressmen with state line districts are Reps. Ray Roberts, Graham, Purcell and Walter Rogers along the Okla-lahoma line. Rogers, George Mahon and Rutherford along the New Mexico line, and Jack Brooks and Lindley Beckworth along the Louisiana line. Congressmen from adjacent states also must deal at times with Texas problems.

OKLAHOMA

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma is one. His district is just across the Red River from Roberts' district.

The folks in my district not only have common problems with Texas, Albert says, but an awful lot of them are related. That goes for me, too.

Albert is a native of McAlester, Okla., but his mother's side of the family lived in North Texas for four generations. A great-grandfather, Solomon Scott, was born in the East in the late 1700s and moved to the Sherman area when Texas was a republic. He died in 1870 and was buried in Sherman. Albert's mother, now deceased, was Leona Scott, born in Gamesville in 1889.

The old feud between Texas and New Mexico congressmen, sometimes stemming from water problems, — the Rio Grande and the Pecos both originate in New Mexico — has become a thing of the past.

Rep. Tom Morris, whose home is now in Tucuman, was born in the little Texas community of Carbon in Eastland County. He grew up in Texas and graduated from Brownwood High School in 1937, then moved to New Mexico. After World War II, service he returned to New Mexico, went to college and then as a civil engineering graduate became chairman of the New Mexico Interstate Stream Commission. He was a member of the state legislature before coming to Congress.

GONZALES

Spanish-speaking Rep. Henry Gonzales of San Antonio, the first Texan of Mexican background ever elected to Congress, has struck up a close friendship with New Mexico's Rep. Joe Montoya.

They sometimes banter with each other about Texas and New Mexico in Spanish — and while each speaks that tongue as fluently as he does English, Gonzales calls Montoya a Spanish accent "stuffy and stilted."

Phone Rate Hike Delayed

LAMESA (SC)—City council tabled a second reading on a franchise amendment here this week after Early Peltier, florist, appeared for the third time to protest a 25-cent a month increase in residential telephone extension rates.

The council had requested additional information from General Telephone Co., but a representative of the firm did not appear at the meeting. The franchise amendment also includes methods of billing local subscribers of six-button installations.

Also tabled at the regular meeting was a proposal from J. D. Brock to trade a roller for a parcel of city property. A recently-conducted audit of city records was okayed.

Investigators Work To Solve A Million Dollar Question

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—Investigators concentrated today on convicted gambler Joseph (Newsboy) Moriarty in attempts to solve a $2.4 million question—who left the cache of cash in an abandoned automobile?

The Jersey City police chief, Austin J. Conley, said it all points to Moriarty, 52, now serving a 2-to-3-year term in the state prison at Trenton.

Conley said government bonds found with the currency were registered in the name of Moriarty and Moriarty's brother, Alfred, who died five years ago.

Lawrence A. Whipple, Hudson County prosecutor, and three aides spent 15 minutes with Moriarty Wednesday at the prison and told him of the find.

"You've just lost $2 1/2 million," Whipple said he told the prisoner. "He listened deadpan," Whipple related, "then he said, 'You're telling me this, Mr. Prosecutor. He would neither admit nor deny ownership of anything that was found. He said he would get a lawyer. He said he would consider making a statement afterward.'"

The fortune at issue, ranging in denominations from $1,000 bills down to $5, was found Tuesday in the trunk of a 1947 Plymouth housed in a garage.

Al W. Bachman, special agent in charge of the Newark office of the FBI, said Moriarty was arrested in a 1947 Plymouth in 1951. Also found in the car were four guns—45 and 32-caliber revolvers, a 32-caliber Belgian automatic and 22-caliber rifle—and considerable ammunition. Equipment of the type used by bookmakers and numbers operators was discovered in a 1951 Ford stored in an opposite garage.

"We don't know yet who the money belongs to—ownership is a legal question for the U.S. attorney's office," Bachman said. "This is the largest amount of money I have ever come in contact with in all my experience with the FBI."

The exact amount, he said, was $2,421,580.

The FBI claimed the money, bonds and related papers on the basis of a $250,000 tax lien against Moriarty.

Authorities also pressed to determine the owner of the car, which had no license plates.

According to Conley, a Miss Anna Petrick was the last owner. He said the car had been seized by the county prosecutor in 1952 when Moriarty was arrested in it on a gambling charge. Moriarty was subsequently acquitted and Conley said the car was returned to Miss Petrick.

Conley said Miss Petrick left on a two-week vacation Saturday. A call to her home brought only this response: "She isn't here." The party then hung up.

The two carpenters, meanwhile, were reported to have filed claims against the fortune and Frank Munzy, 64, owner of the garage in which the cache was found, was considering a similar claim. Conley said that in agreement with the FBI, the names of the carpenters — there were seven working on the garages—would not be made public. He said they were apprehensive about their part in finding the money and reporting it.

Moriarty earned his nickname by selling newspapers as a youngster.

His operations reportedly totaled $10 million a year, authorities said.

HARD TO BELIEVE

By T. H. Taylor, Broadway Church of Christ, 1000 West Highway 11 P. O. Box 1362

As the letter from a reader (which we are answering) indicates, it is hard for modern man to believe that a church can function without being a denomination. Many people find it hard to believe that the church of Christ is not a denomination.

We readily admit that a church could call itself "Church of Christ" and actually be a denomination. We admit that we being human, can fall into denominationalism.

We contend, however, that it is possible to exist as local churches without being a denomination in any sense of the word; and such we are trying to do. We're encouraged to try to do so by Bible example. Hundreds of years before denominations came into existence the Lord's church functioned as independent congregations. Since human nature has not changed and the Word of God has not changed why cannot the church function today as it did then? Echo, Why not? We believe it is doing so, and invite you to come and see. We also invite you to come and help us do this noble thing. You are always welcome. —Adv.

Strauss Says Hydrogen Bomb Saved America

WASHINGTON (AP) — America would not exist as it does today, in the belief of Lewis L. Strauss, had it not been for the momentous decision 12 years ago to manufacture the thermonuclear, or hydrogen, bomb.

STRAUSS

Strauss, former head of the Atomic Energy Commission and long active in nuclear development, stresses the fatefulness of the decision in a new book, published this week by Doubleday.

"We were able to test our first hydrogen bomb in November 1952. The Russians tested their first weapon involving a thermonuclear reaction the following August."

NICK OF TIME

"The President's decision was not only sound but in the very nick of time. By so close a margin did we come to being second in armament, not only in the eyes of the world, but in fact. Had we begun our development after the successful Russian test there is no reason to believe that we would have been accorded time to equal their accomplishment."

"Thus the decision, made when it was provided us with the time and posture which have sustained us to this writing."

It was Jan. 31, 1950 that Truman made known his H-bomb decision. More than a year earlier, Strauss had recommended that work proceed, and there had been a storm of controversy.

DANGERS

Some, including Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., cited reports that the maximum force from a concussion of H-bombs could blow the earth off its axis. Others said just a few such bombs would so poison the earth's atmosphere that life would cease to exist.

Other major actions discussed

by Strauss included the original decisions to make and use atomic weapons, the decision to monitor the atmosphere for signs of Russian nuclear tests, and the decision by which the Senate refused to confirm the author as President Eisenhower's secretary of commerce.

"Ranking, certainly, among the most momentous military and moral decisions in history were the conclusions to make and use atomic weapons," Strauss wrote. "The decision to develop the atomic bomb was taken in order that we might not find ourselves at the mercy of Hitler. The Germans were believed to be engaged in a like enterprise."

DECISION

"The decision to use the bomb, however, was made after Germany had been defeated, and to employ it against an enemy (Japan) unable to develop the weapon and already suing for peace."

Strauss recalls that Truman said in his memoirs that, "The final decision of when and where to use the atomic bomb was up to me. Let there be no mistake about it. I regarded the bomb as a military weapon and never had any doubt that it should be used."

However, Strauss said the decision was not so one-sided, that "all of us, the President's fellow countrymen, shared in varying degrees in the responsibility."

NOT THE SAME

"The decision to use the atomic bomb to accelerate the end of a war already won was not the same as the one five years earlier when a decision had been taken to make the bomb."

"Yet both were decisions by compassionate men within the finite limits of human judgment."

Strauss included a variety of sidelights in his book. In his chapter on the "Decision to Detect," Strauss emphasized the urgency of learning what the Russians were doing in a nuclear war behind the Iron Curtain.

Detection was possibly by means of radioactivity in the atmosphere but, Strauss noted, there was much opposition. Some held it wasn't necessary, that the Russians would never catch up. Others said the money it cost could be spent more fruitfully in other fields.

EVIDENCE

But in September 1949, the monitoring system pushed by Strauss picked up evidence that an atomic explosion had occurred within the Soviet Union.

Strauss commented: "It is sobering to speculate on the course of events had there been no monitoring system in operation in 1949. Russian success in that summer would have been unknown to us."

"In consequence, we would have made no attempt to develop a thermonuclear weapon. It was our positive knowledge of Russian attainment of fission bomb capabilities which generated the recommendation to develop a qualitatively superior weapon—thus to maintain our military superiority. And that recommendation nearly failed because of determined opposition to it."

OUTDISTANCED

"The Russian success in developing thermonuclear weapon capability in 1953 would have found the United States hopelessly outdistanced."

"Hard decisions would have been before us—to compromise, appease, surrender or fight. The decision in 1947 to undertake the detection of nuclear weapons tests was a fortunate one and far more crucial than we knew."

Strauss' rejection by the Senate in 1950 for a place in the Cabinet was an unusual rebuff, seldom administered since the republic began.

The author offers a variety of possible reasons for the turnaround. He concludes that Democrats in the Senate, numerically superior, took this opportunity to strike an indirect blow at President Eisenhower.

Nine Texans Are Killed In Holiday Traffic Violence

Violence in Texas took nine lives in traffic, four in swimming and boating mishaps, another in a stabbing and a young boy died on a mercy flight as Texans celebrated Independence Day, 1962.

The Department of Public Safety had predicted eight persons would die in highway accidents. The Associated Press holiday violent death count began at 6 p.m. Tuesday and ended at midnight Wednesday.

Nine-year-old Otis Lynn Rybb died after a small caliber slug shattered the back of his skull on a ranch in the Big Bend area at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday. He died at 7:20 p.m.

The boy died in flight near San Angelo as a single engine plane was hurrying him to brain surgeons in Houston.

ACCIDENT

His mother, Mrs. Eva Rainey of Castroville, told Tom Green County justice of the Peace J. B. Holberg that young Otis was accidentally shot by his 12-year-old brother, Richard, while the boys were "shooting at birds."

A 47-year-old Dallas woman was killed Wednesday and two other persons injured in a head-on collision at a bridge 4 miles west of Kaufman. Killed was Mrs. Elsie Vance Hettich of 3630 Laverne, Dallas.

gators said the other child was saved.

DROWNED

Bill Henderson, 32, of Lindale drowned Wednesday in the Sabine River north of Tyler. A verdict of accidental drowning was returned.

Mrs. Ralph Davis, 45, was killed near Brenham when the family car overturned. The Richmond, Tex., woman's husband was critically injured.

Don McDaniel, 21, of Watauga a Fort Worth suburb, drowned Wednesday while swimming. The accident occurred in Eagle Mountain Lake in the Fort Worth vicinity.

Bobby Curry, 41-year-old Fort Worth Negro, was stabbed to death Wednesday during an argument with a Negro woman. The woman was held for questioning.

Clarence Englehardt, 33, of Houston drowned Wednesday while attempting to move a boat across the Brazos River near Richmond. Miss Florine Furr of Houston was pulled to safety by two youths as Englehardt disappeared beneath the water.

NEAR ANDREWS

Everett Wayne Kidd was killed and his wife critically injured in a two-car crash on U.S. 385 Wednesday night about 11 miles south of Andrews. The Kidds' hometown was Odessa.

Martha Jo Stanley, a 2-year-old Houston girl, was struck down by an automobile near her Houston home Wednesday. Neighbor told police the little girl ran from behind a parked car into the path of an automobile.

A one-car crash at Stanton early

Wednesday claimed two lives. Henry Flores, 20, of Big Spring, was killed when a car in which he was riding hit a curb, struck a tractor and overturned. Henry Hernandez, 17, died later of injuries received in the accident.

Enrique Rodriguez, 26, El Paso, was killed Wednesday in a head-on crash on the road leading to El Paso's International Airport and two other persons were injured.

HIT A TREE

Vernon Harvey Huckaby, 18, of Forestburg, was killed early Wednesday when a car left the road and slammed into a tree just north of Gamesville. Three others were injured.

Linda Crawford, a 7-month-old infant, was killed and three other persons injured Wednesday when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree near Atlanta, Tex. The dead and injured resided at Bivins, in the Texarkana area.

Club Members Spike His Drink

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Walther's anti-liquor crusade so peeved his fellow club members they laced his orange juice with a stiff shot of alcohol.

That was how, a court was told Wednesday, Walther came to be nabbed drunk at the wheel of his car.

Walther's lawyer said Charlie's zealous anti-drink campaign had annoyed other members of a political club in suburban Sydenham. One night when he temporarily left the clubroom someone poured booze into his soft drink. The judge fined Walther $50.00.

Literally Throws Book At Youth

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Policeman William Fritz handed a motorist 39 traffic tickets Wednesday after a 12-mile high-speed chase.

The driver, Edward Niehaus, 21, was held in $500 bail after he was charged with dousing his lights to conceal his car's identity.

Fritz told Magistrate John F. Daly that Niehaus' car ran a red light and extinguished his lights, preventing the policeman from getting the license number. A chase ensued, ending when Fritz forced Niehaus' car to the curb and began writing tickets for violations en route.

Thrown Clear

SHERMAN (AP) — Leroy Logston, 32, and his brother, Carroll Logston, 22, were injured Wednesday when their light plane crashed into Lake Texoma about 20 feet offshore. Both were thrown clear and into the water.

Rescued

Jeff Hill, 9, is lifted from a sewer cave-in at Wichita Falls, after being trapped for over an hour. Jeff and another youth were trapped in the excavation when the sides caved in. The boys had been put in the hole by other children while playing a game in which the two were "fished." Firemen, police and neighbors assisted in the rescue operation. Neither boy was injured.

Secret Lock Is Safeguard For Nuclear Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has informed its European allies of the successful development of a new, secret electronic lock which will be used to reinforce safeguards against the accidental or unauthorized firing of nuclear weapons.

President Kennedy is expected to ask Congress soon for an appropriation of funds to complete work on the device, start manufacture and begin installation in nuclear weapons.

The Allies were told through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization it was learned that the new electronic lock will broaden the margin of safety in nuclear weapons control systems and strengthen the exercise of direct control over weapons by top commanders.

U.S. officials said the development of increasingly secure control systems becomes more important as the number of weapons increases.

PERFECTED

The locking device is already perfected for the larger nuclear weapons such as those warheads deployed in the European NATO area for use on medium range ballistic missiles. According to present plans the first operational use of the device will be in the forward missile deployment area.

The device is authoritatively described as an electro-mechanical system controlled by a radio signal to be sent from a command headquarters remote from the actual missile site.

In effect, the device in its normal position, makes a break in the electrical circuit necessary to the firing of the nuclear warhead.

It couldn't be fired until an authorized commander dispatched the necessary coded radio signal that would operate the device. The device itself would not do the firing but it would control the arming of the warhead. This is comparable to cooking a rifle in advance of firing it by pulling the trigger.

HEAVY EMPHASIS

Associates said that like his predecessors in the White House, Kennedy has put heavy emphasis on the need to surround nuclear weapons with a variety of safeguards.

The degree of security with which weapons can be surrounded has been a source of concern to many governments—not only the United States and its Allies but also Soviet bloc and neutralist nations. In the long run U.S. officials believe that the employment of the electronic device as now contemplated will serve to reassure a number of nations about the extent of control which can be exercised over the weapons.

Another aspect of the device is particularly interesting to allied governments.

CODED SIGNAL

The possibility of arming a warhead only by a coded radio signal sent from supreme command headquarters could simplify the procedures involved in creating a NATO nuclear command system.

At present the United States stockpiles nuclear warheads at medium range ballistic missile sites in several allied countries, including Italy and Britain, and nuclear weapons of various kinds are available to American forces stationed in Western Europe.

'REAL TEXANS'

Astronauts Get Texas Welcome

HOUSTON (AP) — The nation's astronauts were crowned "real Texans" Wednesday with Texas-style hats, certificates of citizenship and gold deputy sheriff's badges.

And at the formal ceremonies welcoming the astronauts and the 1,600 employees of the Manned Spacecraft Center to Texas it was announced that the rocket's scheduled to place men on the moon will be controlled from Houston.

The director of the center, Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, said the Apollo launches will be made from Cape Canaveral, Fla. but the flight mission will be monitored and controlled from a mission control center here in Houston.

Strike Called Off; Not Legal

BOMBAY (AP) — A four-day-old strike of 4,000 port and dock workers in Mormugao Harbor, Goa, was called off Wednesday.

The strike immobilizing 11 foreign ore carriers ended after a warning by Indian Gov. T. Sivasankar that it was illegal.

The strikers led by the Communist union were assured there would be no reprisals and their demands for higher wages and re-employment of some 50 discharged workers would be considered.

Pacifists March In Silent Protest

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A small group of pacifists marched in silent protest against war Wednesday before this famed Civil War battlefield's Peace Light Memorial.

The demonstration led by a group from York, Pa., registered opposition to armament buildups and nuclear testing.

Negroes Urged To Stage Voter Registration Drive

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Negroes were urged at an Independence Day rally at a college campus to stage an all-out voter registration drive.

Segregationists met in a cow pasture and Klansmen gathered in an old ball park.

The three events occurred on the third day of the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the Georgia capital. No incidents were reported.

NAACP pickets took a holiday and did not appear in front of hotels and restaurants protesting refusal of accommodations to Negroes. There was a big Fourth of July parade in Atlanta and police advised against picketing.

Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., president of Howard University, Washington, D.C., told an estimated 2,000 persons attending a rally on the Morehouse College campus that flights of Project Mercury and the more advanced flights of Project Gemini.

Other officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had indicated earlier mission control facilities would be included in the space lab being built 25 miles east of downtown Houston. But, there had been no formal announcement until Wednesday.

At the welcoming ceremonies, the astronauts and their families and the top brass of the nation's space flight program balanced plates of Texas barbecue on their knees.

REAL TEXANS

You are now certified as real Texans," said George T. Morse Jr., president of the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

Earlier the astronauts had been cheered and applauded by a crowd estimated at from 150,000 to 250,000 during a downtown parade.

Morse presided at the ceremonies and said the gifts represented passports and proper credentials establishing true Texas citizenship.

"The hats make you look like Texans," he said.

This prompted a reply from John Glenn, the first U.S. astronaut to make an orbital flight.

"We now look the part and will follow your lead in acting the part," Howdy.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., the first American to make a space flight, was the only other astronaut to take the microphone.

GLAD TO BE HERE

We understand this coliseum is the site of a fat stock show and rodeo," Shepard said. "I'm sorry we're too lean and mean to qualify but we are glad to be here anyway."

Also receiving the Texas hats were Robert R. Gilruth, director of the center, Walter C. Williams, associate director, and Lt. Col. John Powers, director of public affairs.

Mayor Lewis Cutler of Houston presented the certificate of citizenship and said the space group had provided "the most meaningful 4th of July our city has had in modern times."

He said he got out of the car as quickly as he could. Engineer Rindy Keels, 58, and fireman Thomas H. Jones, 43, both of Florence, died in the wreckage of their cab. ### INTERDEPENDENCE

Kennedy Collects Governor Support

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— President Kennedy collected some bipartisan support among the nation's governors today for his Independence Day appeal for U.S. partnership with a united Europe. Forty-two of the nation's governors were in the audience Wednesday at Independence Hall. They had driven from Hershey, Pa., to hear the President as the climax of their 54th annual conference. In introducing the President, Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire, the conservative Republican chairman of the governors' conference, sounded a bipartisan note.

RAPPING JFK
By contrast, the governors had spent their last day at Hershey rapping steadily at Kennedy administration proposals that ranged from cuts in the National Guard to relief for the needy. On civil rights, the governors were unable to agree on a stand. The immediate reaction of the governors was favorable on Kennedy's European partnership proposal.

Representing a cross-section of opinion among them, Govs. John Anderson Jr. of Kansas and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, supported Kennedy's move for closer cooperation with Western Europe. Anderson, who is about as republican a Republican as they come, said he thinks Kennedy's proposals offer the kind of solution to world problems that must be followed.

"Action and not words will mark progress in this field," he said. "This is where we have bogged down in the past. We have had brave words but we have not followed them up by action."
Hollings, who took a leading role in scuttling a Democratic-sponsored civil rights resolution at the Hershey conference, said in a separate interview he is with the President all the way in believing that there must be interdependence between the United States and Western Europe.

"Perhaps we in America think too much of our own independence and not enough about the other fellows," he said. "I think the President has very appropriately stated the realities of the day."

ONLY ROAD
Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, in a battle for re-election this fall against Republican Richard M. Nixon, said he agreed with Kennedy's views and asserted "interdependence is the only road to peace."
Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, a Democrat like Brown, said his political views date back to Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations "and I think the President's suggestion for an Atlantic partnership is a great one."

NEW YORK (AP) — Grants totaling $8,527,000 have been announced by the Ford Foundation to aid educational television. The New York metropolitan area's first educational television station, WNDT, on Channel 13, received $2,994,000 to assist it in beginning operations Sept. 16. The National Educational Television and Radio Center was given $4.7 million for programming services and other activities to assist the nation's non-commercial television stations. A grant of $838,000 was awarded to start a nationally televised college course in economics.

time, also wound up in the deep gully.
Seven of the eight passenger coaches in the 12-unit train jumped the track but remained in a semi-upright position on the railroad bed.
An unidentified passenger on the train said he was sleeping and awoke when he felt the train shudder to a halt and his car keel over. He said he got out of the car as quickly as he could.
Engineer Rindy Keels, 58, and fireman Thomas H. Jones, 43, both of Florence, died in the wreckage of their cab.

Educational TV Gets Ford Grants

Gov. John Dempsey of Connecticut said Kennedy's speech was "very, very good and the thoughts advanced appropriate and necessary."

LAST SESSION
At their last business session in Hershey on the eve of the Fourth of July the governors called on Congress to pass an amendment to the Constitution to permit prayers in public schools.
Took no action on civil rights after Gov. Ernest F. Hollings staged a successful filibuster.
Voted unanimously to support a National Guard without pay cuts.
Endorsed a proposal that each state be allowed to keep five per cent of its share of the federal income tax to be used to finance expansion of education in the state.
Chose Florida as the site of their 1963 conference. The selection of the city will be up to Florida officials.

Dodgers Hold Meagre Lead In Nat'l League

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers have passed the July 4 milestone with a half game edge over San Francisco's Giants and added baseball tradition to their line-up in their struggle for National League supremacy. Tradition jumped on Los Angeles' handwagon after Wednesday's program as the Dodgers swept their seventh consecutive doubleheader by belting Philadelphia 16-1 and 7-3. The twin triumphs kept the Dodgers a half-length ahead of the Giants, who whipped the New York Mets 11-4 and 10-3.

Issue Undecided Here

Son Powell, third from left, proceeded to win the Fourth of July Golf Tournament at the Big Spring Country Club Wednesday, but when the above picture was made the issue was very much

Son Powell Wins Club Crown By 1 Up Tally

The new golf king at the Big Spring Country Club is E. L. Powell, a rancher who hones his game almost every day. Powell, who had captured medalist honors in the Fourth of July tournament with a one over par 72 last week defeated Daryle Hohertz Wednesday 1 up to earn his first club championship.

The issue was very much in doubt all the way around the course. The match was even at the turn but Powell won 11 with a birdie and 13 with a par to go two up. Daryle came back to capture 13 and 16 with pars and pull even when the two halved 17. It appeared the match would go into extra holes but Powell's par was good enough to terminate the match on 18.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Little wonder Jack Nicklaus turned golf pro. People close to the new National Open champion reason he'll collect more than $200,000 this year in prizes, foot endorsements, etc.

The National Golf Foundation is authorized for the claim that eight million clubs, 69 million balls and 700,000 bags will be purchased by Americans this year. It all adds up to a billion dollar a year business.

An ex-Big Spring High School athlete, Harry Burrus, was architect of Washington University's successful maneuver to gain affiliation with a new five-college athletic conference.

Burrus, who went on to become a great pass receiver at HSI after graduating from Big Spring High School, is director of athletics of the St. Louis school.

Other members of the new league are Centre College, Danville, Ky.; University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.; Southwestern of Memphis, Tenn.; and Washington and Lee, Lexington, Va.

The conference will have competition in six sports—football, basketball, baseball, track, golf and tennis.

Jim Barnes, Texas Western's new basketball phenom from Cameron Junior College, wears a size 14 shoe.

The veteran Byron Nelson is currently playing a series of golf exhibitions across Europe.

Ruidoso Downs starts its Big Q operation July 13, which consists of a parlay of winning quinnella tickets on two consecutive races.

The two-race betting will embrace the eighth and ninth races each day for the balance of the season. The Big Q plan was only recently approved by the New Mexico State Racing Commission.

Look Magazine, in its most recent edition, suggests the following steps to improve professional baseball and save its popularity with the average fan:

1. Order manufacturers to reduce the liveliness of the ball by 15 per cent.
2. Stop throwing a ball out of the game when it has picked up as many as seven specks of dust.
3. Increase the size of the strike zone.
4. Cut down the number of warm-up pitches and quit throwing the ball around the infield after each out.
5. Cut the season from 162 to 144 games.

Crane High School, which will face Stanton High as a district football opponent next fall, will field a much heavier team this year than in 1961.

Last year the Cranes didn't have a player over 170 pounds. This season, they'll have five boys going 185 or more. Biggest will be Evert McDougal, who tips in at 225.

Pittsburgh remained in third place in the NL, taking Houston 7-0 and 4-3. Fourth-place St. Louis stopped Milwaukee 2-0 after losing the completion of Tuesday night's suspended game. 7-3 Cincinnati's defending champs, in fifth place, defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-6.

Frank Howard's single and bases-loaded double drove in five runs in support of Sandy Koufax' five-hit pitching as the Dodgers pounded Chris Short 4-3 and his successors for 18 hits in the first game. Koufax' 12-4 didn't allow a hit until Ted Savage homered in the seventh inning.

Howard drove in two runs in the two-run homer and run-scoring single. Joe Moeller '6-5 got credit for the Dodgers sixth consecutive victory. Dennis Bennett (2-4) was the loser.

Home runs got the job done for the Giants in both halves of their doubleheader with the Mets. Willie McCovey smashed a pair in the opener. Ed Bailey and Jim Davenport also connected as Bob Bolin 3-0 won it with a seventh-inning homer. Bob Miller (0-7) was the loser.

Willie Mays hit two homers in the second game to give Billy O'Dell (10-6) enough working room to last the distance although tagged for 10 hits. Billy Hunter 1-4 took the loss.

Vern Law (7-3) continued his comeback for the Pirates in the opener to post his fourth consecutive triumph. Bob Bruce 6-2 was the loser.

An 11-hit offensive also worked for the Pirates in the nightcap. El Roy Frazier, seeking a relief of Earl Francis' 5-5, ran into trouble in the ninth when the Colts pushed across two runs, but got Merritt Raney on a grounder to end it. Jim Golden 5-7 was the loser.

Ed Mathews clinched the verdict for the Braves in the suspended game by breaking the 5-5 tie with a two-run ninth-inning homer. The Cards took the regulation contest as Ernie Broglio (4-3) checked the Braves on three singles to beat Warren Spahn 7-10.

Leo Cardenas' brilliant play on Ernie Banks' grounder after the Cubs had scored four runs in the eighth preserved the Reds' triumph for Jim Maloney 3-3. Dick Ellsworth 4-13 lost it.

In morning play, Powell fanned out Weldon Bryant, 4 and 3, while Hohertz was outslung. Eli McComb 1 up. Hohertz won that match on the 18th hole.

In his match with Bryant, Powell was out in 35 and had Weldon four down at the turn. He was five up at one time but Bryant birdied nine to cut into Powell's lead somewhat.

Son eagled No. Two both times he toured the course Wednesday. Complete results:

PROVE IT FIRST AT HOLLYPARK
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Rex C. Swaps won the $100,000-aided Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap for owner Rex C. Ellsworth, setting a track record which still stands at Hollywood Park.

Horseman Ellsworth has no Swaps today but he can boast of a potent one-two combination. Prove It and Olden Times, which may be hard to beat in the Gold Cup July 14.

Olden Times were down the opposition and Prove It came on to polish it off and win the $55,350 American Handicap Wednesday.

Only seven horses have scored back-to-back victories in the American and Gold Cup Handicaps. One of them was Swaps. Olden Times finished fourth behind Windy Sands and Harpie, the two who won the Olden Times race. T. V. Lark, second betting choice to the Ellsworth entry, ran a poor fifth.

First Swimming Classes To End
The final class of the current learn-to-swim course at the YMCA will be conducted Saturday, according to Joe Leach, physical director.

It was necessary to extend the class one day because of the Fourth of July holiday. There are 67 boys and 70 girls taking part in the classes.

A tiny lot learn-to-swim class begins July 16. Leach said boys will meet at 9 a.m. each day and girls at 10 a.m. Classes will be limited to 20 persons.

Colorado City—Only the 112 players who pay entry fees for the July 13-14-15 Colorado City Invitational Golf tournament will be accepted for play, it has been announced.

The levy has been set at $17.50 for the golf, a cocktail party, barbeque and dance.

All scores except those for the championship flight will be accepted by card or phone. The barbeque takes place on Friday, July 13.

First and second round matches will be uncrowded Saturday, July 14, each over 18 holes. The semi-finals and finals take place Sunday, July 15, also over 18 holes.

The tournament committee is composed of Ray Mize, H. E. Goodwin, Bill Craig, Gerald Gordon and Ben Sparks.

Two games are on tap tonight.

Mulligan's Trip Helped His Game

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Martin Mulligan, tennis star who left Australia for a year to improve his game, is the strangest turn-up in this Aussie-dominated Wimbledon Tournament.

Mulligan, 21, is in today's men's singles final against Rod Laver, the defending champion. And he reckons it's all because he got away from Australia and came to England to practice his shots.

The results were made clear to an enthusiastic 14,000 crowd on Wimbledon's center court Wednesday. They watched Mulligan, unseeded, overpower John Fraser of Australia 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 in the semifinals.

Laver defeated the elder Fraser brother, former Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser 10-8, 6-1, 7-5 in the other semifinal.

Maria Bueno of Brazil faced Mrs. Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia in another stage of her bid to recapture her crown.

In the other semifinal Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula Vista, Calif., was matched against Ann Haydon of Britain—the girl who beat her in the Wimbledon Cup last month. The women's final is Saturday.

Notches Seventh Win

Vern Law, left, registered his seventh mound victory against three defeats when he hurled Pittsburgh to a 7-0 victory over Houston in Houston Wednesday evening. Pittsburgh also won the second game, 4-3. Pictured with Law is pitching coach Bill Burwell, 67, who helped make Law a 20-game winner in 1960.

Angels Atop League But Can They Stay?

By JIM HACKLEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer

If past performance charts mean anything, the Los Angeles Angels are 2-1 to finish first in the American League pennant derby—which would rank as one of the most cockeyed upsets in baseball history.

The Angels swept into the lead in Wednesday's big holiday program by scoring two victories that pushed them a half game ahead of the New York Yankees, who split with the Kansas City Athletics, losing the opener 11-1 and winning the nightcap 7-3.

One of baseball's barometers is the July 4 standings—with the team topping the league the traditional favorite to wind up as champion. It's happened that way 41 times in the AL's 61 years, for a 67 per cent average or two out of three times. But last season the Yankees split an Independence Day doubleheader with Detroit, leaving them a game back of the Tigers—but the Yankees emerged as runaway pennant winners.

And, tradition and percentages to the contrary, hardheaded baseball men—and oddsmakers—expect the heavily-favored Yankees to repeat the job this time out.

In Wednesday's other American League doubleheader—Cleveland edged to within two percentage points of New York with a pair of overtime victories over Detroit, 1-0 and 6-2, Minnesota and Boston played even, the Twins taking the first 8-4 and the Red Sox the second 9-5; and Baltimore split with Chicago, the Orioles winning 7-3 and the White Sox 5-2.

The Angels jumped in front against Washington in both games and nailed down the sweep, with strong relief pitching. Right-hander Ken McBride (8-3) won his seventh in a row in the opener. Dean Chance supplied the needed help from the bullpen.

Leon Wagner, the league's leading home run hitter, smacked No. 21 with one on in the third and Felix Torres also banged a two-run homer for Los Angeles in the second game. Art Fowler preserved the pitching victory for southpaw Ted Bowsfield.

After a no-hit, no-pitch, no-field performance in their first game against Washington in both games and nailed down the sweep, with strong relief pitching. Right-hander Ken McBride (8-3) won his seventh in a row in the opener. Dean Chance supplied the needed help from the bullpen.

Jimenez finished behind Roger Maris and runner-up Lee Thomas of the Angels in the players' vote. Yankee Manager Ralph Houk, who will pilot the American League squad in the All-Star game at Washington, D.C. next Tuesday, will select his alternates Friday.

He indicated he intends to follow the players' selection to the letter. That, in all probability, would leave no room for Jimenez.

"I expect to be criticized," said Houk. "And maybe they'll be right. But I feel I should follow the dictate of the players. They have selected who they felt were toughest against them."

"Jimenez looks like a pretty good hitter," Houk added. "but we found out he'll bite at anything from the letters up. He'll bite at all high pitches."

Jimenez, the league's leading hitter at .350, was held fairly well in check by Yankee pitchers who held him to a single in each game although he drew two bases on balls. He has 42 RBIs and 10 home runs.

Jimenez, 23, may have been hiding his true feelings but he didn't seem at all disturbed by the snub.

"I am disappointed, of course," said the left-handed slugger from San Pedro de Macoris in the Dominican Republic. "but I am not angry at anybody."

"I think I have right to be on All-Stars," Jimenez continued in the opener, rookie right-hander Diego Segui held the Yankees to six hits while Kansas City rapped out 16.

Jim Perry fired a five-hitter and scored Cleveland's run as the Indians nipped Hank Aguirre and Detroit in their opener.

Cleveland came from behind twice in the second game before Dillard slammed his bases-loaded homer off loser Jerry Casale in the 13th. Gary Bell was the winner with three innings of two-hit relief.

The Twins ran off with the opener against Boston behind Bill Pleis' 7-1-3 innings of tight relief pitching.

Johnny Temple rapped out four hits and Jerry Adair tagged a decisive two-run homer in the sixth inning as the Orioles scored over Chicago. Then a flurry of four earned runs against Chuck Estrada in the third inning and lefty Juan Pizarro's six-hit pitching gave the White Sox the victory in the second game.

Manny Jimenez Takes Vote Slight In Stride

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The failure of his fellow American League players to vote him on the All-Star team has failed to dampen the bubbling spirits of Manny Jimenez, who is more concerned with maintaining his position at the top of the circuit's hit parade.

Not so Kansas City Manager Hank Bauer who feels the players have done an injustice to his roly poly right fielder who leads the Athletics in batting, hits, home runs and total bases and is second to Norm Siebern in runs-batted-in.

"It's a darn shame," said Bauer who didn't feel too well anyway after the New York Yankees had come from behind to beat the A's 7-3 after the Athletics had won the opener 11-1 Wednesday.

Track Stars HPC-Bound

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

BROWNWOOD — Two of Texas' top high school cindermen have announced their intentions of attending Howard Payne College on track scholarships this fall, according to Yellow Jacket Track Coach J. H. (Cap) Shelton, who is preparing for his 45th consecutive track season next spring.

The two new names are Alton Carlson, State AAA champion high hurdler from Robstown, and Ronnie Davis, crack half-miler from Brownwood.

Carlson has run the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.2 this spring, and the 6-0, 135-pounder also won third in the 100-yard low hurdles at the State Meet. His best time in the lows was 19.6.

Davis, a 6-0, 180-pound athlete, ran the half-mile at his all-time best 9:30 this spring, turning in a 1:56.8, which would have annexed a third place had he not been disqualified. He was a two-year football starter, playing on the state championship team in 1960 and the co-championship District 4-AAA team in 1961. He was an all-district end last fall.

Carlson, also a gridman in high school, was also an all-district performer. He was the top point-maker on the track team which was second only to Brownwood for top track and field honors in AAA.

The signing of Carlson marks HPC's first bid to rebuild the hurdles corps which was heavily responsible for the Jackets' repeating as Lone Star Conference track and field champions this spring. Gary Petross, winner in both the highs and lows; Carlyle Strickland, second in the lows, and James Keel, third in both races, all were claimed by graduation.

Beau Purple Gets Added Backing

NEW YORK (AP) — A new name, Beau Purple, was tossed into the Eastern Handicap ranks today, taking some of the glamour and gold from champion Kelso and the pretender for the throne, Carry Back.

Beau Purple, a front-running horse many observers thought would fold at the longer routes, led all the way Wednesday to score a resounding victory in the $105,200 Suburban Handicap at Aqueduct. He not only rewarded his backers in the crowd with a $12.60-for-$2 payoff, but smashed the track record.

It was the biggest explosion in this famous race since 1951 when Ogden Phipps' Busanda, in with a feathery 102 pounds, upset favored County Deight, and Lone Eagle. Beau Purple, owned by Jack Dreyfus Jr. of New York had won only two stakes in his career. Kelso and Carry Back both were champions.

Only Beau Purple and Harbor

View Farm's Garwol came out to oppose what was regarded as virtually a match race between Kelso and Carry Back.

Texan Bill Boland shot Beau Purple from the gate in front, and they remained there throughout. Carry Back.

Nicklaus Sees Scores Soaring

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, United States Open Champion, today predicted that the holes of the back nine of the Troon links could send scores soaring in the British Open Golf Championship starting Monday.

Nicklaus, of Columbus, Ohio, has had two days of practice over the 7,045-yard links on the edge of the Firth of Clyde. He admits that the incoming nine, still has him baffled.

"I've yet to break 40 on the home nine," he said. "If the wind starts blowing as it has a habit of doing in these parts, then there could be some high scores on the last nine."

Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, U.S. Masters Champion, Sam Snead, winner of the British Open in 1960 and one of the game's greatest players, Gene Littler, 1961 U.S. Open Champion, and Phil Rodgers head the 29-strong American challenge—the strongest U.S. entry for years.

Clinton Leads Sox Comeback

BOSTON (AP)—Lu Clinton, the pride of Ponca City, Okla., today is the hottest thing in the American League, including the pennant fight, thanks to a barrage of seven straight hits.

Thrown into the lineup when Carroll Hardy was ill last week, Clinton, the fourth Boston outfielder, climaxed a great surge Wednesday when he helped the Red Sox beat Minnesota 9-5 after the Twins won the doubleheader opener 8-4.

For the afternoon, Clinton had two homers, two doubles and three singles, drove in four runs and scored five, boosting his batting average 64 points to .259.

What's more, Clinton is "alive" for a shot at the major league record of 12 consecutive hits set by his manager, Mike Higgins, when the latter wore a Boston uniform in 1938.

"I can't explain the streak," shrugged the smiling 24-year-old afterward. "I do know playing regularly helps. That's brought my confidence back. I just hope I can hit half as well the rest of the way."

The right-handed hitter connected safely in 23 straight games three years ago at Minneapolis, then in the American Association, but can't ever recall a streak like this one.

Colts Succumb To Bucs Twice

HOUSTON (AP)—Elroy Face, making his third relief appearance in three days, survived a two-run ninth inning Houston rally Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Colts by taking the second game, 4-3.

Vernon Law effectively scattered eight hits and drove in a run with a triple as the Pirates won the opener, 7-0. The twin triumphs extended Pittsburgh's winning streak to six games.

Two of the nation's astronauts were in the crowd of 20,005 that saw the Colts take their 10th and 11th defeats in the last 13 starts. Astronauts Gus Grissom and Duke Slayton were accompanied by Robert R. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft center.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Elroy Face, making his third relief appearance in three days, survived a two-run ninth inning Houston rally Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Colts by taking the second game, 4-3.

Vernon Law effectively scattered eight hits and drove in a run with a triple as the Pirates won the opener, 7-0. The twin triumphs extended Pittsburgh's winning streak to six games.

Two of the nation's astronauts were in the crowd of 20,005 that saw the Colts take their 10th and 11th defeats in the last 13 starts. Astronauts Gus Grissom and Duke Slayton were accompanied by Robert R. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft center.

Karen Susman In Finals Of Wimbledon Net Meet

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula Vista, Calif., defeated Britain's Ann Haydon today 8-6, 6-1 and gained the women's singles final in the All-England Tennis Championships.

The 19-year-old married coed from Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., will meet the winner of the match between Maria Bueno of Brazil and Mrs. Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia on Saturday.

Mrs. Susman is the lone American survivor in the singles divisions. The men's final Friday is an all-Australian affair sending defending champion Rod Laver against 21-year-old, unranked Martin Mulligan.

Karen, ranked No. 2 among U.S. women players, gave one of her finest performances against the poker-faced, scrappy British left-hander.

It was a battle of strong service and aggressive net games, with Mrs. Susman's superior volleying holding the day.

Fishing Great In Falcon Lake

McALLEN — West Texans won't have to tie to their wives about the big one that got away when they go fishing in any of the seven main fishing "holes" of the lower Rio Grande Valley, local anglers say.

Good catches of black and white bass, catfish and buffalo are practically guaranteed in Falcon Lake, and a fisherman who doesn't get trout in the Arroyo Colorado, ought to have to eat bacon and sardines, old hands say. Only an occasional blue prevents big hauls of a wide variety of salt water fish from Valley Gulf waters. Other good places for bass, crappie, gaspergo, and catfish are Delta, Lions and Marte R. Gomez lakes, and the Rio Grande.

In the opener, rookie right-hander Diego Segui held the Yankees to six hits while Kansas City rapped out 16.

Jim Perry fired a five-hitter and scored Cleveland's run as the Indians nipped Hank Aguirre and Detroit in their opener.

Cleveland came from behind twice in the second game before Dillard slammed his bases-loaded homer off loser Jerry Casale in the 13th. Gary Bell was the winner with three innings of two-hit relief.

The Twins ran off with the opener against Boston behind Bill Pleis' 7-1-3 innings of tight relief pitching.

Johnny Temple rapped out four hits and Jerry Adair tagged a decisive two-run homer in the sixth inning as the Orioles scored over Chicago. Then a flurry of four earned runs against Chuck Estrada in the third inning and lefty Juan Pizarro's six-hit pitching gave the White Sox the victory in the second game.

Tyler's Roses Also Come Out Green

By ED SYERS

If I were straw boss in Tyler one day, I'd make mighty few changes, but one would be to do something about those signs. They are too little. They are also too matter-of-fact, they intimate they are directing you to a turnpike. So, since you're already humming south of downtown, and since the homes and the wooded hills give the clean and fair look you like in passing cities, you keep right on and never see the signs make a discreet turn and leave you.

comfortable around a growing rose. We may not go overboard for violets or orchids or dahlias. But a rose is like bluebonnets in a pasture Joe Doe and I can understand it.

CONTEST

Putting over in Tyler recently, I decided to hold a contest. Explore the garden and, with no experts around to con me, pick my 19 favorites of the whole field. I recommend this for your first off-hour in East Texas. Right away Tylerites warm up to you. They all have secret score cards of their own and want to tout them. At my motel, for example, the Abe Hoyts must have two hundred bushes—climbers, floribundas, grandifloras, hybrid teas—the works in 28 varieties. Mrs. Hoyt made me promise to come back and compare lists.

GREEN ROSE

You see the freak green rose, a bud that opened green and kept on. There are some miniatures with blooms no bigger than a nickel. Others you can't cup with both hands. No matter where you determine to stop, the crimson on the hill, the yellows just down the slope look a little prettier than those before you.

27 ACRES

And you miss probably the most beautiful 27 acres in the United States. This is Tyler's municipally-owned rose parkland, where 30,000 bushes—in 400 different kinds and colors—in blaze and bank terraced, piney hillside, frame its fountains, dapple its reflecting pools.

Maybe Tyler's restrained sign-makers figure that, with the rest of us, roses are just for beautiful women, including offended wives. That men may go for them, cut and boxed, but not on the bush. This is not true, and Tyler men are not alone in regarding this blossom as the New York Yankees of the flower league. There are plenty of hairy-armed and ham-handed guys the country over who—like me—may know only that roses come in red, pink, yellow, white and mixed, and that they smell better than campfire coffee at sinup, but who can be real

Teenage Impact On Labor Force To Be Given

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reports today on the impact of several million eager teen-agers on the nation's already clogged job markets.

What happens every June is expected to be repeated, only more so. With the end of school classes for the summer, youngsters rush out to hunt temporary or permanent employment to make some money and test their skills.

This summer's surge of students into the labor force looks greater than ever. It is expected to raise the number of employed by some 2 million and the ranks of the unemployed by around 800,000.

The government report in mid-afternoon will likely show the student job-seekers have pushed the nation's over-all labor force, including members of the armed forces, to a new high of around 77 million.

As a rule of thumb approximately two out of three teen-agers looking for summer jobs manage to find them, the third being out of luck.

The government estimates there were a record 2.4 million high school and college graduates this June. A great many seek only temporary summer work before continuing studies in the fall. Authorities urge them to stay in school to broaden their eventual earning opportunity.

But many graduates want permanent employment.

Gondoliers Block Canals In Protest Of Motorboats

VENICE, Italy (AP)—The "war of the canals" is simmering again with the ancient gondoliers challenging the increasing invasion of modern motorboats.

This picturesque port city was all but paralyzed for two hours Wednesday as the gondoliers blocked the main canals that are the streets of Venice.

More than 400 gondoliers lined up their black boats across the city's Grand Canal. Other gondoliers blocked smaller canals.

The steam ferry boats that provide Venetians with municipal transport could not move. Motor-powered taxi boats—the direct competitors of the gondoliers—were trapped.

Once the gondoliers were the only public transport in Venice.

Now the gondoliers complain that the civic fathers are issuing too many licenses to motorboats. They say the new taxis offer unfair competition and their graceful boats are endangered by the big waves raised by powered craft.

Protests by the gondoliers have been frequent in the past. Once they created a small sensation by putting a monstrosity on the canals—a gondola powered by a motorboat.

They won this round. The city fathers, with an eye to the tourist trade, promptly ordered a speed limit for the power boats.

Now the gondoliers want to stop the licensing of power boats.

Kennedy Studying Economic Books

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, after calling for a partnership with a united Europe, today goes over the nation's economic books with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

The President files back to the capital from an overnight stay in Camp David—the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains—for his late morning meeting with Dillon as pressures for a tax cut this year mounted in and out of Congress.

Both Kennedy and Dillon have expressed the view that taxes should not be reduced until next year. However, Kennedy has indicated that the question of a tax reduction this year was still open and depended on the state of the economy.

PROPOSE CUTS

Representatives of both business and labor have proposed tax cuts.

The situation likely will be aired later today at Kennedy's news conference.

Kennedy flew Wednesday morning from Washington to Philadelphia, where, at historic Independence Hall, he called for an international declaration of interdependence—a partnership with a united Europe.

The President's 36-minute speech was broadcast across the nation by radio and television. Before him as he spoke was a police-estimated crowd of 100,000, including 42 of the nation's governors who had motored to Philadelphia from Hershey, Pa., at the conclusion of their 54th annual conference.

Overseas, both British and French newspapers gave the speech prominent display. The Times of London said it was "an imaginative idea, typical of his sense of style and history."

In Philadelphia, five governors reached for comment supported Kennedy's appeal for a partnership with a united Europe. Expressions of support came from Democrats Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania, John Dempsey of Connecticut and Edmund G. Brown of California and Republican John Anderson Jr. of Kansas.

Anderson tempered his support with the comment "action and not brave words will mark progress in this field. This is where we have bogged down in the past."

LOOK TO FUTURE

The President said "today Americans must learn to think intercontinentally." And, looking to the future, he said that if the Atlantic partnership can be worked out, "we can assist the developing nations to throw off the yoke of poverty."

"We can balance our worldwide trade and payments at the highest level of growth," he said. "We can mount a deterrent powerful enough to prevent all aggression. And ultimately we can help to achieve a world of law and free choice, banishing the world of war and coercion."

APPLAUSE

The holiday crowd, celebrating the 18th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, interrupted Kennedy's address six times with applause.

Afterward, Kennedy left by helicopter for the quiet of Camp David. His wife and their two children went there by automobile earlier in the day.

Picketing In Style

An unidentified picket uses a lawn chair, umbrella—and boots at his side—to make himself comfortable outside a Los Angeles Ink and Roller Makers Union, on strike against California ink manufacturers. Photographer Gene Hackley of the Los Angeles Times made the picture, using a long lens.

Blames Society For Shooting Of Negro

FORT WORTH (AP)—Mrs. M. McKnight, a member of the City Council, said today she thinks it is really society's fault that a berserk Negro was shot to death by police last Friday.

John Scott, 30, was slain in front of his home after he refused to surrender.

A 64-page report has been turned over to the council. Council members meet late today to see films taken by television cameramen, which provoked widespread criticism of the police.

"Society failed in its duty when it didn't provide facilities for that man when he needed them," Mrs. McKnight said.

She said the whole affair could have been avoided had Scott been given proper medical treatment. Scott had a record as a mental patient.

Councilman Oliver Shannon said that if police have done anything wrong it is the duty of the grand jury to act, not the council.

City Manager L. P. Cookingham has said the case will be turned over to the grand jury.

Councilman Don McLeland said earlier it was easy to criticize police for their actions.

"My hindsight is 20-20 too," McLeland said. "On the other hand that guy wasn't swinging that pipe at me."

He referred to the iron pipe which Scott was brandishing when he was shot. McLeland said "it's easy for those Yankoes to sit up there and criticize."

Rites Set For Crash Victims

Funeral arrangements for two Big Spring men killed in a car accident near Stanton early on Wednesday morning have been announced.

Flores was killed instantly Wednesday midnight in the wreck of the car in which he and Henry Hernandez, 17, of 632 NW 3rd, were riding. Hernandez died in a Stanton hospital several hours later. The car veered from its traffic lane and struck a parked tractor.

As a member of the Rattler Patrol, Suzanne Jones will be wearing her patrol jacket with rattler insignia when she attends the Girl Scouts National Roundup in Vermont.

Snake Rattles From Texas Items To Swap

When Suzanne Jones leaves soon for the Girl Scouts National Roundup at Button Bay Vt. she will be fortified with an abundance of swaps.

Swaps are the little items girls exchange with those from other sections of the country as gestures of friendship. Some of Suzanne's swaps will include rattles from rattlesnakes, colored tumbledown from Colorado City, bottles of polystyrene from Cadden sulphur sand carbon black and gypsum from West Texas points, fossilized dinosaur bones, porcupine eggs, cockleburrs and rattlesnake neckerchief slides. The rattlesnake slides are a leather cutout of Texas with polished agate settings furnished by a Midland firm. The latter device will feature the rattlesnake's vertebrae as the slide. The skin of this sacrificial center measuring 4 1/2 by 8 1/2 inches has been tacked on a board for display. Currently her barbas is basking in the sun, and Suzanne is confident that the bones will be clean and bleached in time for converting the backbone joints into slides.

Naturally, the name of the West Texas area patrol is the Rattlers, and Suzanne has a special patrol jacket with the big rattler insignia. This patrol will be put with ones from Maryland, Indiana and Pennsylvania to form a troop during the 2 1/2 weeks the girls will camp at Button Bay.

BS Teenager Started Cooking At Early Age

Judy Johnson, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Johnson, is an old hand in the kitchen having cooked since she was in grade school. She doesn't know why she is so fascinated by the kitchen and all the chores that go with it, but she enjoys every minute of it.

Because her mother and father both work, Judy started at a very early age preparing meals for them and her younger sister, Beth. As she grew older she learned to prepare unusual and delicious meals, even some recipes of her own.

"I remember the troubles I had when I first started," Judy said. "One time when I was making fudge, I mistook a bottle of vanilla for vanilla, and we ate it." Judy says she prefers to follow recipes, and likes to try, when she has enough time to spend, preparing a new dish. Her favorite foods are steak with all the trimmings and strawberries.

Judy taught Beth to cook, and together they spend a lot of time in the kitchen. However, Beth prepares the meals now that Judy is engaged at the Credit Bureau of Greater Big Spring.

A 1951 graduate of Big Spring High School, Judy feels that high school homemaking helped immensely in her cooking. She was a member of the FHA for two years. Her favorite pastimes are swimming and reading.

JAM CAKE SPECIAL

Judy likes to prepare Jam Cake which she saves for special occasions and she lists it with her favorite recipes.

- 2 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups jam, your favorite flavor
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 3 cups flour
- 1 tsp soda
- 1 tsp cinnamon
- 1 tsp allspice
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 cup pecans
- Cream shortening and sugar

Broccoli-Celery Excellent In Flavor

For an unusual combination of a fresh and frozen vegetable that has excellent flavor, try this:

BROCCOLI AND CELERY FRANCES

- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli
- 1 1/2 cups thin celery crescents
- 2 tbs butter or margarine
- 2 tsp flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese

Cook the broccoli according to package directions using the amount of water and salt called for. Drain to broccoli cooking liquid add enough boiling water to make 1 cup, add celery to liquid and cook rapidly covered just until tender-crisp, drain. Melt the butter over low heat, stir in the flour, add milk and stir constantly until thickened; stir in cheese. Mix cooked drained broccoli and celery with cheese sauce adding salt and pepper to taste. Reheat but do not boil. Makes 4 servings.

Any Ideas?

Judy Anderson and her young sister, Beth, left, study recipes in their favorite cookbook and try to decide which one they will fix for the family dinner. The girls spend a lot of time in the kitchen doing what they enjoy best—cooking.

then add the eggs, jam and mix together. Mix all dry ingredients, add alternately with buttermilk. Bake in 3 eight-inch cake pans. For the icing, boil 3 cups sugar, 2 tbsps. flour and 1/2 cup milk until it forms a soft ball in water. Add 2 tbsps. butter or margarine.

Bulletin-Salad Time Is Here

Salad time is here again! Most people — especially the men in your family — will agree that the most important part of the salad is the dressing. One of the most popular dressings, and one that has special appeal to hearty male appetites, is made with tangy American blue cheese.

Blue cheese dressings are easy to make, and they transform an ordinary salad into a real taste treat. American blue cheese, which is made from pure cow's milk right in the heart of our rich dairyland, is available in supermarkets and other stores that sell cheese.

SUMMERTIME DRESSING

- 1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese
  - 6 tbsps. mayonnaise
  - 8 ounces sour cream
  - 1 tbsps. worcestershire sauce
- Blend blue cheese and mayonnaise until it is almost smooth. Add sour cream and worcestershire sauce. Stir well. Additional crumbled blue cheese can be used as a garniture, if desired.

Cottage Cheese Glamourizes Foods

Large, small, creamy and dry curd cottage cheese is captivating in both taste and use. Pile it onto salad plates in lofty mounds as a glamorously good setting for fresh fruits and vegetables. Or whip it into smoothness, add chopped ham, pecans and green olives. Serve as a dip with pretzels and use as a sandwich filling. Transform it into a salad topping by thinning with half and half.

New Spread Ideas

Add small portions of cooked vegetables to a leftover portion of cooked meat (diced) or fish (flaked); mix with mayonnaise and season to taste. Use the mixture as a sandwich filling or a salad, for lunch.

Versatile Pears Prove Delicious In Puddings

Few fruits can match the pear when it comes to performance on the dessert course.

The luscious, juicy fruit, accompanied with pungent cheese, makes the simplest of desserts to prepare yet one of the most sophisticated to serve because, as all initiates know, the custom of fresh pears and cheese is pure continental of origin.

But the adaptable pear also lends itself to the gourmet fancy kind of dishes that show off the creative cook's skill. Fresh pears, flavor-spiked with cloves and glazed with currant jelly are colorful mouth melting poems of culinary art. So are creme de menthe pears, that have been poached in syrup lilted with peppermint extract and green vegetable in casserole with bread crumbs and nuts, and seasoned with cinnamon, allspice and lemon juice, make a pudding sublime.

The Anjou variety is large and oval or globular, greenish yellow frequently tinged with crimson, and fragrant white fleshed. The Belgian-born Bosc is large, long necked and tapering of shape with skin predominantly russet. Its rich, slightly acid flavor make it especially good for baking. The France, is large, roundish, with green-yellow skin dappled with red. Its flavor is distinctive, both sweet and aromatic. The Nelis, also Belgian, is round with green skin skiffed with russet. It is finely grained and sweet.

An imaginative way in which to make pears a happy finale for summer meals is listed below.

PEAR CRUMB PUDDING

- 6 fresh pears, peeled, cored and thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. ground allspice
- 2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 cup light brown sugar
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs

Place pears in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Combine heat four ingredients. Combine heat four ingredients. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until pears are tender and top is brown. Yield: six to eight servings.

Orange Perfect For Pick-Me-Up

Orange juice is a perfect pick-me-up for lagging appetites and low level energy. It's an ideal refreshment, high in important vitamin C, for these hot summer days.

Sticks of frozen concentrated orange juice are unusually high this summer, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service. It's one of the official plentiful foods for July Processors, in cooperation with wholesalers and your local store, are pricing this item to give you the advantage of the abundance.

So it's time to weave the fresh orange juice through everyday menu favorites. And this can be done so easily:

ORANGE COOLER

Add a scoop of vanilla ice cream or orange sherbet for every cup of orange juice, and beat together. Pour frothy mixture into tall glasses and garnish each serving with a sprig of mint.

ORANGE FLUFF

Orange Fluff is a pretty and flavorful toptop for puddings, cakes and other desserts. Add 2 tablespoons slightly thawed undiluted orange juice to whipping cream, evaporated milk or nonfat dry milk topping as soon as it reaches the whipped stage, and then continue to whip into fluffy lightness. Or use thawed orange concentrate as the liquid when whipping nonfat milk.

ORANGE SYRUP

Have you ever tried Orange Syrup atop waffles, griddle cakes and French toast? Here's a recipe for 1/2 cups syrup. Combine 1/4 cup undiluted orange juice, 1/4 cup butter or margarine and 1 cup maple syrup. Heat until butter melts. Serve hot or cold.

ORANGE GLOW

Orange Glow is the perfect fruit salad dressing. Combine equal parts orange juice and salad oil. Season to taste with sugar or honey.

Cherry-Mince Pie Is Flavorome

Delicious pie can be prepared easily at home, if you select one with a filling that requires little preparation. A good example is a cherry cream mince pie. Ingredients like ready-to-use mince meat, sweetened condensed milk and canned cherries combine to make a flavorome filling. Lemon juice added to the sweetened condensed milk is the trick in having the filling thicken without cooking. Here's a pie that is deliciously different.

CHERRY CREAM MINCE PIE

- (Makes one 9-inch pie)
  - 1 (9-inch) baked pie shell
  - 1 (28-oz.) jar Ready-to-Use mince meat
  - 1-3 cups (one 15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
  - 1/2 cup lemon juice
  - 1/2 cups pitted sour cherries, drained
- Spoon mince meat into a medium-size saucepan. Bring to the boiling point. Remove from heat and cool. Combine sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir until mixture thickens. Fold in sour cherries. Pour cooled mince meat into baked pie shell. Top with the cherry mixture. Chill in refrigerator until top layer is firm, about 2 or 3 hours. If desired, garnish top of pie with maraschino cherries.

Try Changing The Bridge Menu

A few friends joining you for lunch and a table of bridge? Consider this recipe.

CHICKEN LIVERS EN BROCHETTE

- 1 pound (12) chicken livers
  - 1/2 tsp. salt
  - 1/2 tsp. white pepper
  - 1 tbsps. olive oil
  - 1/2 to 3/4 cup fine fresh bread crumbs
  - 4 slices bacon
  - 4 thin slices hot toast (buttered and cut into 8 triangles)
- Wash and dry livers; cut each in half. Mix salt, pepper and olive oil. Roll livers in seasoned oil, then in bread crumbs. Cut each slice of bacon into 4 crosswise pieces. Alternate livers and bacon (leaving a tiny space for bacon to crisp) on 4 long skewers. Broil rapidly, turning to brown both sides. Remove liver and bacon to toast. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Apricot Bread Easy As Cake

Planning to have a club meeting? Or would you just like to try something different for morning coffee? Apricot Nut Bread is the perfect answer.

APRICOT NUT BREAD

- 1 cup dried apricots
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 2 tbsps. shortening
  - 1 egg, well beaten
  - 1/4 cup sugar
  - 1/2 cup orange juice
  - 2 cups sifted flour
  - 2 tbsps. baking powder
  - 1/2 tsp. soda
  - 1 tsp. salt
  - 1 cup chopped nuts
- Soak chopped apricots for 20 minutes. Cream together shortening, 1 cup sugar and egg. Stir in 1/2 cup sugar and orange juice. Add dry ingredients and stir well. Drain apricots and stir into batter with nuts. Bake in greased and floured pan at 350 degrees 45 minutes or until done.

Summertime, Freezin' Time, Motor Or Hand

I'll take the dasher—you lick the spoon! Time again for that summer Sunday special—homemade ice cream. Try these:

  - 1/4 cup vanilla
  - 1/4 tsp. lemon extract

  - 4 cups whole milk
- Beat eggs in a 3-quart bowl with electric mixer at high speed until lemon colored. Add sugar gradually and continue to beat at medium speed until thick. Add evaporated milk, vanilla, lemon extract, salt and milk and stir thoroughly. Pour into a 1 gallon freezer can. Freeze in hand-turned or motor-driven freezer.

VARIATIONS

Chocolate Ice Cream—Omit vanilla, lemon extract and 1 cup whole milk. Add 2 cups chocolate syrup. Peanut Brittle Ice Cream—Add 4 cups crushed peanut brittle before pouring into freezing can.

MINT CHIP ICE CREAM

THE FREEZER KIND

quart bowl. Add sugar and salt and beat until well blended. Stir in evaporated milk gradually. Stir in mint extract and food coloring until well blended. Add milk chocolate. Pour into a one gallon freezer can. Freeze in hand or motor-driven freezer.

DIRECTIONS FOR FREEZING

Use a mixture of 8 parts crushed ice and 1 part ice cream salt. When ice cream is frozen, tip freezer to drain off all water. Before opening can, wipe lid carefully. Scrape ice cream off dasher and pack firmly in can. Replace lid and repacek with a mixture of 4 parts crushed ice to 1 part ice cream salt. Cover with paper or heavy cloth and let stand 1 1/2 to 2 hours until firm. Makes about 1 gallon.

Sour Cream Boasts Cultured Versatility

Split open a steaming-hot baked potato, add a generous dollop of cultured sour cream and a perky scattering of chopped chives and you have a vegetable du jour that really wins compliments. Use cultured sour cream in a multitude of roles to top salads, soups, as a dip, or an accent for gravies.

A Devotional For The Day

The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death. (Romans 8:2).
PRAYER: O God, whom to know is to love, and whom to serve is to find freedom, may we know the liberty of perfectly doing Thy will. Help us to realize that Thou dost consider our limitations and dost require only that we find our true life in Thine and do our best for Thee. In Jesus name we pray. Amen.
(From The Upper Room)

Education Increasingly Important

For most high school graduates of 1952 who have not made plans to go to college it may appear to be too late. For preparation for college entrance should have been made not later than the senior year.

Nevertheless there is still time to find an opening. There exist in many good colleges even at this relatively late date.

It seems hardly necessary to emphasize the need for a college education, either to those who have a college degree or those who do not. A generation ago a high school diploma opened the business and industrial world to many bright men and women. Today personnel managers use a college diploma — the name of the college is less important than a degree itself — as the basis of selecting men and women who will be offered jobs with opportunity for advancement and leadership.

To many a young man a $50 a week starting salary may appear adequate. But if he does not have a college degree he may never make more than $80 or $85 a week. He will be relegated to the labor force or to minor supervisory jobs for the rest of his working life.

Young people of today should honestly face the fact that without a college education most of them can never hope to advance very far in this increasingly complex and technical world.

More important than the mere economics of the thing, the chances for more significant and satisfactory living are far greater to the person schooled in our culture and heritage.

Pity This Poor Clerk

The horse lost, the man is faced with a $6,000 debt.

At last word, the track officials still were holding the poor fellow responsible for the money. There was a dubious claim from an Internal Revenue Service official who said the man may be able to list the lost money as an income tax deduction.

Ah, well, perhaps some higher authority will take pity and let the clerk off the hook.

At any rate, he has learned the evils of gambling. It probably will be a long time before he will so much as match coins for coffee. In fact, we'll bet he never even... oops!

David Lawrence Working For The Government

The word "incentive" is frequently used to describe the impulse that makes the private-enterprise system work more effectively than does any form of state socialism or communism.

Again, and again, however, critics of current governmental policies are saying that governmental intervention is excessive and that often the government's share of the earnings of a private company amounts almost to confiscation.

BUT MORE IMPORTANT than all this is whether the existing practices will or will not stimulate an expansion of the national economy. Inasmuch as Congress is considering various kinds of "tax reform"—mostly to increase governmental revenues—the important point that emerges is whether "tax reform" is going to throttle or stimulate the American economic system.

Most people who talk glibly about "big business" or even "little business" as somehow greedy selfish and inconsiderate of their employees do not realize how much of a risk the creators of a business enterprise run, and how they are discouraged sometimes from even starting a business because the risk isn't worth the small return that is likely to be obtained these days.

PERHAPS the most striking example of what is meant by "incentive" or lack of it—is given in an illustration recently developed by some economists to show how a businessman can build a successful enterprise only to find that the bulk of his earnings is going to the government. The basic assumptions are that a man starts a small company which develops annual sales of two million dollars, and that the corporation pays him a salary of $25,000 a year and pays 100 other employees a total of $500,000 a year in wages.

But what does government take from this corporation?

First of all, $30,000 in state and local levies, excises and other taxes have to be paid.

SECOND, the government takes $15,000 in social security taxes, and this is assumed to leave the company with approximately $100,000 profit before federal income taxes.

Third, the government takes $45,000 out of the profits for federal corporate income taxes. This brings the net profit down to $50,000 and it is assumed that the sole owner of the corporation puts 20 per cent of this—or $10,000—into new equipment and takes the remaining 80 per cent—or $40,000—as dividends for himself.

Fourth, the government then takes $28,500 from the owner in the form of personal taxes on his total income of $67,500 in salary and dividends.

FIFTH, the government takes from the

Wainwright's Whip

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Hair from the tail of a favorite mount of the late Gen. Jonathan Wainwright made into a fancy riding whip by an Army sergeant, is now on display in the Kansas State Museum.

Back in the 1930s Wainwright, then a colonel, was master of the hunt at the famed Cavalry School at Fort Riley near Junction City. Kan. In charge of the bounds was a technical sergeant, Alonzo Teasley.

Teasley, an expert leather worker, made a whip handle and then fashioned on it nearly 22 inches of horse's hair, all taken from Wainwright's mount.

Recently, Teasley died and his administrator presented the whip to the museum. With it went a picture of Teasley and his colonel who later became Gen. Wainwright, hero of Corregidor in World War II.

Eggs On The No-Shell

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Many food manufacturers prefer to buy their eggs dried or frozen rather than in the shell, say rural economists on the staff of Ohio State University.

They said dried and frozen eggs are compact, easy to handle and can be held for some time with very little deterioration.

James Marlow What's He Talking About?

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's Fourth of July proposal—partnership with Western Europe—was not new with him although it will get more attention in the years ahead.

Kennedy dipped away back as far as the 1960 campaign, for some of the words and phrases he used Wednesday at Philadelphia.

Nevertheless, he left the idea of American partnership with a united Western Europe deliberately vague, as he has in the past. There were three understandable reasons for this:

1. At this moment no one can predict what kind of unity the West Europeans will work out among themselves. They're just talking of it now.

2. What kind of partnership this country will consider, if any, will depend on what European unity turns out to be.

3. Before there is any partnership at all the whole idea will become a national discussion and get a long going over in Congress.

At least twice in the 1960 campaign Kennedy, dwelling on the magic attractiveness of independence and freedom, quoted Thomas Jefferson's phrase about the infectiousness of the "disease of liberty."

The President, who clings to phrases which catch his fancy, used the Jefferson phrase again Wednesday. And again he emphasized the appeal of freedom and independence.

If the President ever used the word "partnership"—in reference to Europe—in the 1960 campaign, this writer is not aware of it and could find no record of it.

But since 1960—after becoming President—Kennedy has talked a number of times about the idea of partnership, not only with Europe but with the new nations.

Never—Wednesday or before—has he spelled out what he means by partnership.

At this moment in Europe French President Charles de Gaulle seems to have in mind a union based on a confederation of European nations, with each retaining its own, full sovereignty.

This would mean they'd have some arrangement for working together but each would remain its own boss.

This is a long way from the kind of greater unity which might be achieved if the West Europeans, for the sake of greater combined strength and common purpose, were willing to yield some sovereignty in a closer merger.

Since the Europeans still haven't worked out the final details of their own common trading market, any realization of greater political unity, even though the idea is cooking, still seems distant.

When Kennedy in the past has talked of partnership with other countries, he has submerged it more or less in whatever else he was saying at the time.

For example, which is necessary to get consideration of it started in this country.

Congress has been perpetually wary of anything which would require this country to yield any of its right or ability to do as it pleased. This is one of the sticking points before the United States joined the United Nations.

Kennedy may feel now that by stressing the possibility of American partnership he may induce the Europeans to think in terms of closer unity than they have in mind.

But this can hardly be more than a limited inducement until Kennedy spells out in some detail what he's talking about.

Hal Boyle A Sterner Test

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the sterner tests of the principle of family togetherness is a child's demand for a weekly allowance.

Looking back now, it seems the first thing my daughter Tracy Ann did after we pinned her first dime on a way to stretch out a putty small hand and demand, "Where's my allowance?"

Ever since then I've been a miser at bay.

For a while I thought it was kind of cute to hold out a nickel and watch her pick the nickel because it was bigger.

But her favorite playmates are Susie and Markie the children of Mark Stump, attorney who lives down the hall, and the time came when I suspect Tracy got the benefit of counsel.

First she learned to choose the dime from the nickel, then the time came when she peeled off both coins.

Then I made the error of telling her that when I once demanded a weekly allowance of a quarter from my father, he told me "Sue, son here's the broom. Sweep out the store."

My daughter thought that over for about two swift seconds.

"I know where the broom is, Papa," she replied. "But what did you do with your daddy's store?"

Reluctantly I had to fork over the two-bits. Over the years the demands have steadily grown. Now and then I raise a feeble flag of resistance, but get nowhere.

When Tracy was 7, the allowance level soared to 50 cents a week, 10 per cent of which she agreed to plunk into the piggy bank.

Tracy is now 9 years old. Recently she decided to raise her weekly allowance to a dollar, of which she agreed to bank 35 cents I made a small scream and a long speech, then caved in, borrowed the money from my wife, and paid the allowance.

As my wealthy daughter trudged down the hall I heard one of her playmates ask her, "Gee, who did you get it from?"

"Gee, who did you get it from?" "Yes," answered Tracy. "From Mommy."

"My friends who have older children have small sympathy for my holers."

"When kids get to be teen-agers, they think nothing of asking for $5 at a clip," they say. "Just you wait."

"Well, I'm in no hurry, I can wait."

My idea now is to hold out until I get Social Security from Uncle Sam—and then split my allowance 50-50 with my daughter.

To Your Good Health Blood Tests Used In General Checkup

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: What is blood tested for in a general checkup?"—E.J.

Blood CAN be tested for hundreds of things. However, a relatively small number of "screening" tests are used in a general checkup.

The "blood count" gives three basic bits of information: the iron content or hemoglobin, the number of red cells, which together with the iron content suggest anemia if the count is low, and finally the number of white cells. If this is high, it may indicate infection, or very high leukemias, or if low, other symptoms will be studied for less common conditions.

A "differential smear" may be studied to identify particular types of white cells which may be more numerous in allergy cases, or particular types of infections, or blood ailments.

Then, of course, the serum (liquid part of the blood) is routinely tested for the presence of syphilis—this particular test, of course, is the "blood test" required in so many states before granting a marriage license.

Still other tests are for sugar levels—excessively high levels hinting strongly at diabetes) and for the nitrogen content, which is elevated in kidney disease. The popular cholesterol test is more and more being included as a routine procedure for the indications it gives of the arteries—an approximate matter, as yet, but helpful.

If history and observation raise a suspicion of other conditions, special tests may be in order to confirm it: uric acid for gout; calcium for parathyroid disease; iodine for thyroid disorders; Lupus erythematosus, a disease not as rare as we once thought, is subject to blood tests. And many of the rarer diseases now are being identified quickly and accurately by highly precise tests being used in laboratories with special equipment.

In the case of severe and stubborn infections, blood is cultured to determine the presence of germs in the blood stream, as well as to discover the exact strain involved, and to know what drugs will be most effective. Indeed, special materials may then be prepared to combat the precise type of infection.

This "blood test" is not a rigid, fixed procedure. You begin with a variety of basic (and rapid) tests, then go on to the more difficult ones if circumstances indicate the need.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Several years I was having a rapid heart beat, off and on. It started in high school. I had a complete physical and the doctor said I had paroxysmal tachycardia. I don't get the attacks often now but it is still on my mind. Does one ever outgrow this? I quit smoking five years ago and that is when it eased off.—Mrs. C."

"Paroxysmal tachycardia" means occasional rapid heartbeat. Sometimes the cause is never found. Sometimes it is nerves. Quite often it is a sensitivity to tobacco—as in your case.

If tests show the heart to be basically healthy, the bursts of rapid beating are not dangerous, and the more you realize this, the less chance there is for further episodes. Too much caffeine, as from coffee, tea or other sources, is another common cause.

Fat! My leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing," tells how to get rid of it the easy way. For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Around The Rim The Sound Of Challenge

"Sonny, I'm one of the few Spanish American War veterans left," the elderly man said to me, "and I think it might be worth a story." It sounded like a challenge, the way he said it, but I agreed with him and pulled up a stool. Feature stories were hard to come by for the weekly newspaperman, and I rarely had time to go searching. This looked like a good one.

"Were you drafted?" I asked. His face flushed and he became indignant.

"Course, you're too young to know, but that was the last war fought by the United States by volunteer forces," he explained. "Wasn't a single man forced to go help Teddy run off them Spaniards."

I MADE THE PROPER noises to soothe his patriotic ardor. He continued: "In those days, folks didn't have to be paid to protect their country. There was a job to be done and we did it. Every able-bodied man in this town went down and volunteered when Teddy said he needed some help. Fact of the matter, we went as a unit."

"We didn't ask and didn't know if there was any pay involved. And they sure didn't have no veterans benefits in those days. When we got out, it was catch-as-catch-can for a job."

"But I don't regret it. I'd do 'er again if I was young enough. I tried to go in World War I, I guess you don't remember that one either. But they wouldn't take me because of my health. Ended up drafting a bunch of fellers that had rather stayed at home."

"FOLKS JUST DON'T care today like they used to. I remember when my Daddy would get tears in his eyes when he heard the Star Spangled Banner, and his voice would break as he sang it."

"I don't believe folks feel like that any more. Some of 'em down at the church don't even know the words. Why, my granddaddy fought Indians on that land I farm out east of town. He owned the land before it came into the United States and I have the original deed from the French government."

WITH THAT, HE produced a piece of paper that showed almost loving care. It was made out in long-hand in a fancy script. Sure enough, the date was literally ancient.

"I guess I'm a little too cocky about that," he indicated the deed and all it represented, "but my family has fought for the Union in every war since the Revolution and I'm proud of it." It sounded like a challenge.

IN FACT everything he said sounded that way. We talked all afternoon, I made thousands of notes and finally wrote a story about the fine old gentleman. It pleased him and he later came by to say thanks.

Incidentally, he was only 44 when he went off to war with Teddy. He was the bugle boy for the Ohio company and he still had the bugle he carried in that bygone era, when men went off to fight without a thought of the pay. He played it twice a year, Independence Day and Memorial Day.

It always rang out like a challenge.

Reforestation In Manhattan

Something new has been added so gradually to New York City in the past 20 years that only now it is apparent that Shakespeare's great Birnam Wood, or a reasonable facsimile, has been advancing on the metropolis.

East Side, West Side, there is a veiling of green all round the town, from the Battery to the Bronx. That tree in Brooklyn no longer has a monopoly! It is suddenly obvious that there are trees all over the city, which is rapidly losing its barren, car-crowded, -of-the-moon look.

VISITING FIREMEN who see the city for the first time cannot really appreciate the thousands of trees that have been planted in New York's concrete in the past two decades. It is one of the most interesting reforestation programs in the nation. Its extent was borne in the other day when, for the first time in ages, I drove up the dirty, disreputable old Bowery, and discovered that the Bowery's burns can now sprout under the shade of a row of trees planted on each side of that street.

Every day is Arbor Day in New York, with the city encouraging property owners to plant trees to add a note of grace to the city. It is a tribute to property owners that so many thousands have bought trees, a major investment in the city.

IT COSTS not $5 or $10 or even $20 but $100 to plant a tree in this metropolis. First, the property owner must inform the Park Department of his good intention, whereupon the department surveys the site and gives the nod.

For his C-note the property owner gets a tree two to three inches in diameter. Next, a private contractor working through the Park Department is dispatched to cut a sizable block of concrete out of the sidewalk, feed and enrich the soil below, and plant the tree.

IN THE MEANTIME, the property owner is instructed to give the tree tender loving care. He is responsible for watering his tree or trees, as well as giving them suitable fertilizers at stated intervals.

As for the city, it, in turn, guarantees the life of the tree for one year. It is also responsible, forever after, for spraying and pruning said tree or trees.

For the property owner who is loaded, the city will supply three - to - four - inch trees at $150 each. Heretofore, these have been the plane tree, which likes city life. But come autumn, the city will allow the buyer to specify whether he would like a ginkgo, willow oak, silver linden, honey locust or plane tree. Although the plane tree is a real city slicker, the other four also have proved they can thrive on carbon monoxide as readily as human beings.

THE STONE canyons have been considerably softened by the tree planters. Nowhere is it more noticeable, with the possible exception of the Bowery, than on Third Avenue, a mole-dusk warren until the old elevated structure was removed some years ago. To its surprise, New York discovered that Third Avenue, then old and shabby, was one of the broadest and brightest thoroughfares in town.

Not only is the avenue being rebuilt, but trees have been planted the length of it. In another decade, it is going to be one of the handsomest, leafiest streets in New York.

THE LATE Fiorello LaGuardia, when mayor, seized every inch of ground he could lay his hands on, the better to plant trees to shade benches on which New Yorkers could take their ease and the air. Only a fortnight ago the Board of Estimate pointed up a fat appropriation for the planting of 5,000 trees to further beautify the city before the World's Fair in 1964.

It is unlikely that New York will ever offer any competition to the forest primeval or become a leafy haven, such as large sections of Paris. Nonetheless, it is possible today to look down into many a concrete canyon and say: "How green is my alley!"

Holmes Alexander What's Wrong With The System?

WASHINGTON — Two of the Senate's best Democrats — Symington and McClellan — are striving manfully to prevent the investigations of the Stockpile and Billie Sol Estes from turning into political Donnybrooks instead of being the serious research jobs which the nation needs in both instances.

UNDER MORE than one of the post-war Administrations, we have managed, or mismanaged, our natural bounty of minerals in the first instance, and loafs in the other, until the accumulation assumes the shape of multi-billion-dollar piles of refuse on which scavengers of several sorts have shamefully profited.

We certainly ought to punish the malefactors, but in all truth this should be a secondary purpose of any Congressional probe. Our primary purpose in both investigations should be to find out what's wrong with the system — and then to do something drastic to improve it.

DUCKING IN and out of the Symington hearings over the past weeks, your reporter has left the detailed stories on nickel, fluorapatite and the other Government hoarded materials to the able attention of the daily correspondents. But it is not difficult to see what forces are at work here. The Democrats have a political interest in showing that Big Business under Eisenhower used the Stockpile to bolster prices and to get rich at the taxpayers' expense. The Republicans have an interest in showing that Big Government is the villain of the piece. The danger is that this ideological artillery duel will kill off any chance of finding a method to control America's mineral wealth and to get the optimum use of our famous industrial economy.

SENATOR SYMINGTON, and President Kennedy, who assigned him this staggering task, both deserve commendation for keeping a single eye on the desired result. Symington is the best-informed man in the hearing room on the intricate, mixed-up subject matter, and this is not always true of a committee chairman.

He had the same command of his subject several years ago when he chaired the probe of American air power. In both instances, the Senator greatly strengthened his position by the canny choice of a chief counsel. His man this year is Richmond C. Coburn, a big Republican figure in Missouri, former president of both the St. Louis and Missouri Bar Associations, and present member of the American Bar Association's House of Delegates. Together, Symington and Coburn are able to keep garrulous witnesses reasonably well on the sound track, and despite an occasional burst of political gunfire, to keep the slow-moving wagon train of statistics fairly on course.

SENATOR McCLELLAN, as usual, presides like Patience on a Monument until pushed to the limits of his slow-burning Southern wrath. His probe of the Billie Sol Estes case has all the making of a scandal-fest, but McClellan is more interested in probing an institution (in this case the Agriculture Department) than in personalities. Thus far, his witness - on - the - hot - seat has been the earnest and personable Secretary, Orville Freeman, whose difficulties in knowing what goes on in his mammoth bureaucracy has earned equal shares of sympathy and stern admonitions from the Senator. McClellan plainly thinks the Secretary ought to keep much closer tabs on Agriculture's underlings who permitted Estes too much favoritism, yet he also treats Freeman with an air of commiseration, as if to say, "I wouldn't have your job for a million dollars."

McClellan's objectivity hasn't been helped by some Administration hanky-panky, which started a dragnet search of the records to embarrass two upright Republican Senators, Mundt and Curtis. The effect was to anger Republicans and intensify their determination to make an election-year example of Freeman.

But McClellan, like Symington, is heading to the time, and maybe we'll get some useful information leading to an improvement of Big Bureaucracy — repeat, maybe.

New Judge

Judge Otis T. Dunagan, Tyler, said he agreed to accept the Billie Sol Estes case if they want to move it to Tyler. Judge J. H. Starley of Pecos, said he will not sign the transfer order until July 23.

Thunderstorms Prevail In Most Sections

More rain and thunderstorms hit areas from the Pacific Northwest into the Southeast today but fairly pleasant weather prevailed in most other sections of the nation.

Thunderstorms which rumbled across Midwest areas Wednesday persisted into the early morning in the central Plains, the Middle Mississippi Valley and the Texas Panhandle.

Showers dampened coastal areas in the Pacific Northwest, the northern and southern Rockies, along the Virginia Coast and in interior sections of North Carolina. Fog shrouded areas in the Upper Mississippi Valley, east and central Tennessee and coastal sections of North Carolina.

Readings in the 50s and 60s covered most of the northern half of the country except for 70 degrees in the warm air which spread into the middle and upper Mississippi Valley and the 40-degree marks in northern Maine and northern Idaho.

Holiday Has Good Weather

Weatherwise, it was a perfect Fourth of July in Texas.

Skies were clear and temperatures generally were in the 90s. But, during the night a very weak cool front moved into the Texas Panhandle.

Weather Bureau radar showed that early Thursday's front was across the extreme southern portion of the Panhandle. Radar reports indicated widely scattered thundershowers over the northern and western portions of North-west Texas.

Ground fog was reported at Jackin, but elsewhere over the state skies continued clear.

Forecasts for through Friday call for clear, partly cloudy skies over the state with widely scattered thundershowers over the northwestern sections. It was expected to be a little cooler over the Panhandle through Thursday night.

Yarborough To Help Candidates In November

HOUSTON (AP) — Don Yarborough has reaffirmed his pledge to support the Democratic ticket in the November general election.

"I will work for and support every Democratic nominee on the November ballot," the Houston attorney told a rally attended Wednesday night by about 1,500 Harris County liberal Democrats.

Yarborough did not mention John Connally, the Democratic nominee for governor, by name.

Yarborough lost the nomination to Connally in the June 2 runoff primary by about 26,000 votes.

Yarborough said three weeks ago he would support Democratic nominees but said his law practice might limit his campaign time in behalf of the November ticket.

He said Wednesday all Democratic nominees must support President Kennedy and work for legislation to meet "the needs of the people."

He warned that a two-party system is on the way to Texas. "And Democrats are going to have to talk and act like Democrats if they hope to be elected in the future," he said.

It Was Bound To Happen

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — During his 31 years, Glenn Botkin has stunted in an air show by wing-walking, served the Forest Service as a smoke jumper and a circus as high man on a trapeze act, and tested parachutes for the government.

Now a fire inspector for the city, he relaxes by jumping with the Humboldt County Skindivers Club.

This week he was showing his son Joe, 8, how to skip rope and broke his left arm.

DEAR ABBY
Method Of Discipline

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I totally disagree on one subject and want you to settle it. When I punish our three-year-old child (usually by a spanking) I leave him for 10 to 30 minutes to ponder what he has done wrong. Then when he comes to me and tells me he is sorry, I forgive him and assure him that I love him. My husband will spank the child and, while he is still crying from the punishment, he'll pick him up and kiss him and comfort him. He believes that the spanking is the punishment, and it is afterwards that he is loved regardless of what he has done. I think this undoes any good done by the punishment. We'd like your opinion.

Mosquitoes Invade Coast

CAMERON, La. (AP)—Millions of mosquitoes have invaded parts of Louisiana and Texas on the Gulf of Mexico coast, menacing cattle herds and causing heavy losses to growers.

Agricultural experts estimated about 160,000 animals have lost an average of 10 pounds each because of constant movement trying to elude the pests. They said this meant a monetary loss of about $115 million.

Big Jet Returns After Trouble

NEW YORK (AP)—A Scandinavian Airlines DC-8 jet with 147 persons aboard returned to Idlewild Airport Wednesday night 45 minutes after taking off for Hamburg and Copenhagen. A spokesman said excessive oil consumption in one of the craft's four engines was to blame.

ONE AGAINST ONE

DEAR ONE: To kiss and comfort a child who is crying as a result of punishment gives the child the impression that perhaps you were wrong in punishing him, and are seeking HIS forgiveness.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you had a letter in your column from a mother who was "disgusted" because her daughter received a corsage made of dog biscuits! Abby, didn't you know that when a girl reaches her 12th birthday she gets a lollipop corsage? On her 13th she gets a bubble gum corsage. On her 14th it's dog biscuits. For her 15th it's life savers, and on her 16th it's sugar cubes.

DEAR KATHIE: I must be the original "cub" because this is all news to me. Thanks for putting me wise. What's 17th, 18th and 19th?

DEAR ABBY: The young man who wondered about having his bread buttered by his lady friend might try this: For 25 years I have been buttering bread for my husband. When I pass the buttered bread to him he kisses my finger-tips. He claims this is the most exciting part of the meal. I agree. Wouldn't you?

DEAR STILL: You bet. It's better than dessert, and not as fattening.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL WAITING": Give up. He won't call. Why should a man chase a bus if he's already caught it?

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of the Big Spring Herald.

Jeep, Tractor And Barn

Forest Arnold and Don Jones are shown with a jeep and tractor—and a barn in the background—that were purchased with Cypress-Fairbanks Rodeo proceeds. Started in 1943, the regular Friday night rodeo at Cypress produces summertime revenue that has financed a quarter of a million dollar FFA program. Arnold and Jones are the V-Ag teachers at Cypress-Fairbanks and conduct the rodeo.

A Lot Of Rodeo For Just 50 Cents

By BOB GRAY
Editor, The Texas Horseman Magazine
Writes For The Associated Press

"You can see more rodeo here for 50 cents than any place in the world."
Forrest Arnold miter-of-factly as he looked at the big rodeo arena that stretched out behind the Cypress-Fairbanks High School at Cypress, Tex.
Momentarily the place was empty. But every Friday night this summer it is jammed—filled with probably the biggest regular crowd to turn out for rodeo in Texas.

It is a remarkable success story as well—a story of how well-run youth rodeo can pull crowds, contestants, and build an FFA plant.

PURPOSE. Arnold—one of the state's top vocational agriculture instructors—has rounded this rodeo for a purpose. At the Cypress school that purpose is all around you. There are new metal barns behind the school, trucks, tractors, cattle, horses, workshop space, plows, harrows, a grain drill, fertilizer spreader, maintainer, drag line, feed mill—all this paid for from a youth rodeo that adults can see for 50 cents. It costs kids a quarter.

Any Friday evening now you can find up to 4,000 people jamming into an arena built for 2,000. They come from Houston and all other cities in the Gulf Coast area. There are contests for everyone—not just the professional rodeo hands but kids and businessmen seeking exercise and recreation. To enter the barrel race on any old pony for $1. You can rope for $3 and ride bulls for a $5 entry fee. Contestants range in age from 4 years old to more than 50.

LOW FEES. "That's why we keep the entry fee low," Arnold says. "They can all play. The majority know they are virtually donating their entry fee, but they don't care. They are in it for fun."
Consequently in the roping, you may see a doctor, a banker, electrician, barber, steelworker or football coach. They don't win much but they have a whale of a time, and keep coming back.

So it is that the Cypress rodeo is about as close to a "town meeting" as you can find in Texas. The same spectators also come back week after week to see friends and neighbors as well as to watch the contests in the arena. You can eat hot dogs, talk politics with anybody, drink soda water—and stay up practically all night. So long are the entry lists that you often find the calf ropers still at it as dawn approaches the next morning.

When Arnold came to 'Cy-Fair,' as it's called, in 1936, the school then was a poor district in which to teach vocational agriculture. There was no equipment and little prospect of much. Now 26 years later the Cy-Fair FFA program has more than $200,000 worth of livestock, buildings, vehicles and farming equipment. Its herd includes some 70 rodeo horses, 30 bulls, 16 steers and 25 calves and cows.

BIG TRACT. What's more, the FFA chapter has just made an $8,000 down payment on a 63 acre tract of land across the road from the high school. It will cost $95,000 eventually—from those quarters and half dollars at the rodeo ticket gate. And on the land will be built a 6,000 seat stadium.

So Arnold only smiles when he hears anyone suggest that rodeo is not a constructive force in a community. Assisted by V-Ag instructor Don Jones, Arnold is watching a second generation of rodeo enthusiasts come to Cypress on Friday nights—and putting the profits into more FFA activities.

To those who would do likewise in their own community, Arnold has some time-tested advice.

ADVICE. "Don't overcharge on admissions. We don't try to get rich from one rodeo."
"All FFA chapters should have an audit. Every student gets a copy of our audit and is asked to show it to his parents."

Finally
"If a fellow doesn't love kids and livestock, he shouldn't fool with this. He should leave it to someone else."

Seek Answer To Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Dominican Republic are working together to try to solve a bizarre six-year-old mystery that erupted into charges of international kidnapping and assassination.
The center of the cloak and dagger intrigue is Dr. Jesus de Galindez who stepped through a New York subway into oblivion on a dark night in 1956 after writing a book to expose the brutalities of Gen. Rafael Trujillo's iron-fisted dictatorship in the Dominican Republic.

Foes of Trujillo contended the general had reached into the heart of Manhattan to eliminate an enemy.

There were stories that the professor who was teaching international law at Columbia University was drugged and flown to the Caribbean country by an American pilot who also disappeared.

Trujillo heatedly denied the charges and there were hearings and investigations. But no light was shed on Dr. Galindez' disappearance, nor was he ever reported seen alive again.

When Trujillo was alive U.S. investigators probing the case got no cooperation from Dominican Republic authorities.

Trujillo was assassinated in May 1961 and the new government is anxious to solve the Dr. Galindez case, a State Department source said last night.

For several months he said, U.S. and Dominican Republic investigators have been checking through long-locked files and questioning members of Trujillo's intelligence police now held in prison.

Linked to the professor's disappearance was an American freelance pilot, Gerald Murphy. He vanished in the Dominican Republic Dec. 3, 1956 after getting a job as a co-pilot on the Dominican airlines.

The Dominican government said Murphy was knocked into a shark-infested bay during a fight with another airline pilot, Octavio de La Maza who later hanged himself in his prison cell.

But Trujillo foes alleged that Murphy piloted a plane carrying Galindez to face the general's wrath and was later killed to silence him.

CLAREMONT, N. C. (AP) — The town board has hired George Tucker to replace Buren Grant, who resigned as the town's only policeman last month because of "added duties."

- Police the community for law violations
- Mow the grass on town property
- Haul garbage
- Maintain the streets
- Read the water meters
- Check the town's water pumps
- Keep the town hall clean

Prisoners Leave; Jailer Is Fired

LAMPASAS (AP) — Sheriff Luther Person fired jailer John Sutter Wednesday after two Negroes escaped from jail.

Sutter said Person ordered him to vacate the jailer's quarters in the jail building by 9 a.m. today. Richards-Hayes, 37, and Sandy Williams, 25, fled while the jailer and his family were out of town, Person said.
