

Summertime's When A Girl Needs Neat Feet

Barefoot sandal time is here—and any girl can get a toehold on glamor if she'll take the trouble to get her feet in shape.

Here's an instant foot treatment that will help.

Soak your feet in hot, sudsy water for from 15 to 30 minutes as many days as necessary using a brush or pumice to remove heel and sole calluses or dry spots. Foot specialists should be consulted about serious foot trouble, of course, but corn medication can be found in drug stores, if it is necessary.

After soaking the feet each day, rub oil around toes and heels and on soles of feet all the while massaging the toes with thumb and forefinger. Use any vegetable oil such as olive, corn or cottonseed. Remove dry skin accumulated around toes with a stiff brush. Nails should be trimmed straight across and filed gently at corners. Do not round the corners of toenails as this may result in ingrown toenails. Place oil on a bit of cotton at the end of an orange stick to remove dead cuticle around the nails. Do not cut the cuticle.

LIMBER TOES

Exercising the toes will help loosen up that shoe-cramped look. Try to make circles with the big toe, not moving the entire foot. Or pick up marbles with toes to help limber them. Refresh the feet with a witch hazel for a pleasant sensation after exercise.

Nail polish in lovely shades is available to ornament any summer costume, although you don't need nail polish to show off your feet.

Prepare the toes before using

Spotlight On Feet

Give hot, tired tootsies a lift with a witch hazel massage.

Polish by removing dead skin around the nail with a cotton-wrapped orangewood stick. Put cotton between the toes before using polish to avoid messiness. And remember to defuzz the legs' safety or electric razor is quick and easy, if you'd enhance your feet.

Hot colors in calf-length slacks or skirts—turquoise, shocking pink, orange, yellow—are flattering to tanned legs and feet. You don't need color at your toes to put over this look, but it helps.

Coffee Is Held For Newcomers

Mrs. Don Harris and Mrs. Earl Brokaw were hostesses when a coffee was held Thursday morning for Wing Headquarters Wives. Held at the home of Mrs. Brokaw on Chantute Drive, the party welcomed Mrs. Rex Fryer, wife of Col. Fryer, the new deputy commander of Webb AFB, and Mrs. Bedford Underwood, whose husband is Col. Underwood, Wing Operations officer at Webb.

Refreshments were served to 16 members, while plans were discussed concerning Wing Participation in a base-wide carnival to be held in August. Mrs. Charles Smith was named as Wing's carnival chairman. Proceeds from the event will be used to finance Webb's youth activities.

Mrs. Harry Hon, Wing chairman, noted that reservations for the dinner-dance, July 29, may be made with Wing telephone committee members.

Know How To Plan Child's Nursery?

Planning a child's room? It's a good idea to adopt a long range plan, says interior designer and color consultant, Ruth Strauss, member of the American Institute of Decorators. It'll save you time, energy and money, she points out.

"Instead of redecorating your child's room in every stage of development, it's a good idea to plan the nursery for a 5 or 10-year stretch so that redecorating may be kept to a minimum, perhaps a new color scheme from time to time."

Start with a well-constructed crib, one that may grow with baby if possible. A good roomy chest of drawers is a good investment. A child will need every inch of the space as his wardrobe grows.

Mothers who must operate in a small space may consider a small table with a quilted pad over it that may be used as a dressing table and as a place to put a porcelain tub for baby's bath. The tub may be put out of sight after the bath, instead of using a space-hogging fabric bath tub. The table may become a desk for the youngster later on.

Temple Baptist Scene Of Evening Ceremony

White chrysanthemums and fern formed a background for marriage rites uniting Miss Ann Drinkard and William Belew Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The service was read at Temple Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. A. R. Posey.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Jean Cox at the organ.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Drinkard, 2204 Alabama, are parents of the bride. Belew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Belew, Ackerly.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length sheath of white dacron voile and matching veiled headpiece. Her flowers were white feathered carnations.

Miss Jane Drinkard served as maid of honor to her sister, wearing a dress of light blue voile.

Styled like that of the bride. She carried a nosegay of light blue carnations.

Eugene Clanton, Ackerly, was best man. Ushers were Arden Drinkard, brother of the bride, and Dickie Belew, the bridegroom's brother.

RECEPTION

Wedding guests were received informally at the home of the bride's parents, where the refreshment table, spread with white linen, featured a three-tiered wedding cake. Blue tapers, in keeping with the blue and white motif, were in candelabra flanking blue carnations, the nosegay carried by the bridesmaid.

Miss Jackye Rabon and Mrs. Eugene Clanton were those who presided at the table. Guests were registered by Mrs. Dortha Patterson of Lamesa.

Following a wedding trip to Lubbock, the couple is now at home in Ackerly where he is manager of the Bowlin Lumber and Hardware Company. For travel the bride wore a pink linen suit and white accessories.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Big Spring High School. Belew finished his high school education at Ackerly.

PUT UP THE NEEDLES

Hemlines Neither Up Nor Down For Season

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Put away that needle and thread, Mabel. Your hemline is safe where it is for another season.

Actually, the skirt length's status quo has never been in jeopardy at the fall showings of the New York Couture Group, now halfway through a week-long parade for the nation's fashion press. Designers all along pretty much agreed on ending matters just below the knee.

Nothing very startling is emerging—it's just more of the same easy, good-natured style of clothes you're wearing now. Most designers seem content to hone their favorite, familiar shapes and give shoppers a wide range to choose from.

Thanks to the First Lady's trip to India and Pakistan, the Far Eastern atmosphere so far this week has been so thick you could cut it with a bolo knife.

Wednesday afternoon there was a brief respite, with only Jacques Tiffeau's dome-shaped turban named Taj Mahal and Donald Brooks' harme-pants-skirted panning evening dresses evoking exotic images. That is, if you overlook Cecil Chapman's Byzantine barge, which, technically, concerns; the middle—not Far—East anyway.

Young Brooks, who has some of his works hanging in White House closets, pushed the shift into high gear for his Townley collection. The shift, which some lowbrows call the sack, is his pet profile, loose and unfitted.

Tiffeau's look for fall put bulk at the top, softness in the shoulder, slowness in the skirt. The favorite combination was probably the sleeveless overblouse dress—often with the blouse narrowed and buttoned down the front—and matching coat.

Cecil Chapman stuck to her familiar last—superbly draped, figure-hugging glittery concoctions.

Mingling with the 4th-12th century fashions was her up-to-the-minute muslin shag, a slim, columnar shaft ending with tailfin flare at the knee.

Adamses Return Home To Dallas

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Adams and children Pam, Andy and Leslie, returned to their home in Dallas Wednesday evening. They visited her mother, Mrs. Imogene Lloyd for the past three weeks.

Patio Party Given At Home Of Mrs. Apple

A patio party and buffet supper was given Thursday evening by Mrs. Houston Cowder and Mrs. J. R. Apple for members of A. Trasa Club. Held at the home of Mrs. Apple, 419 Westover Road, the party preceded a regular business meeting with the president, Mrs. Cowden, presiding.

White embroidered linen covered the buffet table centered with a gilded basket filled with white and pink flowers. Individual tables featured small bouquets of yellow and white mums. Twenty-six members and one guest, Mrs. Ina Baldrige, were served.

During the order of business reports were heard and plans made for summer meetings July 26 at 12 o'clock noon was announced as the time for the next meeting at Coker's Restaurant.

The August meeting was announced for the evening of the ninth at the home of Mrs. A. C. Bass, 114 Washington. This will be a social supper to be followed by games.

Mrs. Ray Crooks Hostess To Class

Mrs. Ray Crooks was hostess to members of the Phoebe Sunday School Class of Baptist Temple at a salad supper Thursday evening at her home, 1506 East 6th St.

Following a sentence prayer, Mrs. Melvin Lackey, a member who is moving to Mississippi, soon was presented a gift from the 13 members present. The entertainment theme was decorated with floral arrangements.

Lodge Is Host To Odessans

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant No. 23 were hostesses to members of the Odessa Lodge No. 4 and district president Mrs. T. R. Reese of Dallas Lodge No. 6 Thursday evening at the IOOF Hall.

For the buffet dinner Mrs. Reese's administrative theme, "The Royal Crown," and her colors, purple and white, were used in decorations. The main serving table held a large gold crown which was filled with white roses and purple morning glories.

Mrs. Reese spoke to the group of 35 about increasing lodge memberships and improving the lodge in general.

Jersey Housewife Has Historical Yen

PENNINGTON, N. J.—The days of old when knights were bold are being kept alive in this central Jersey community by Alice Blackwell Lewis, a modern housewife with a yen for things historic.

Mrs. Lewis is engaged in the ancient art of heraldry. More and more people are becoming restorers and interested in their family trees, says Mrs. Lewis. She draws, paints, stencils and molds family coats of arms on a number of plaques, sheepskin needlepoint, ceramics or art papers. In the last 30 years she has made more than 1,000 coats of arms for persons all over the country.

PURPOSE OF MIRACLES

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, 3800 West Highway No. 1, P.O. Box 1342

The purpose of miracles in the early church was not to relieve Christians of all physical suffering. Paul could not get relief from his "thorn in the flesh." II Cor. 12:7-9. Timothy had to use natural treatment for his stomach infirmities. I Tim. 5:23. In fact, it is the normal thing for Christians to groan and have pain in the body. Rom. 8:22, 23.

Miracles were even performed to make people sick, sometimes. (Acts 13:11).

The stated purpose for miracles was to "confirm the word" at the time when it was first revealed.

Mark 16:20, Heb. 2:3, 4.

The New Testament was first spoken by men inspired by the Holy Spirit. Acts 2:14, Eph. 3:5, and the miracles proved that God was speaking through them.

If new chapters were being written for the Bible today, they would need miraculous confirmation, but nothing can be added to the Bible. (Rev. 22:18, 19, Jude 3); hence the miracles are not needed today.

The Sack Is Back In '62

NEW YORK — Fashion in its shifty way is bringing back the sack.

Call it the chemise, muumuu, skimmer or shift, it has a common lack—the belt.

But men have no reason to panic, assure designers Norman Norrell, Bill Bliss, and Adele Simpson among others.

Although a preview of fall fashions indicate that sacks could disguise a third of the female population next fall, belts will certainly cinch curves on the rest.

"Some women look wonderful in shifts, but some do not," says Norrell. You have to have both kinds of clothes.

He himself made such a success of putting a 3-inch wide belt in the middle that the style swept across the country copied in costumes from $5.98 to $598. A trade publication credited him with creating "the year of the belt."

Norrell's style ideas for fall are still a showman's secret, but he claims he is not designing any loose clothes. "I'm using belts again."

Maurice Rentner's designer Bliss includes plenty of lissome, unconstructed costumes in his own collection. "One has to realize that the shift has become a classic," he points out. "It's cool, natural, comfortable and marvelous for daytime."

Still, you also have to have the costume with the belt, he says, in order to please at least part of the people part of the time.

For fall and winter Adele Simpson emphasized the "suave look" a dress molded from shoulder to hips without any break in the middle.

"We hope women will wear these without belts," she says. But she's not taking any chances. To be sure her dresses don't wind up on mark-down racks, Mrs. Simpson is sending along self belts.

"You can't do it any other way," she explains. "People still have such horrible memories of the sack."

A young mother with her first baby often worries that her baby is sick. She doesn't know what a sick baby looks like so she fears that each little sneeze or cough means her baby is sick. After she has had several children, she learns the signs of sickness. But in those early months she may be needlessly worried.

A mother needs to know what signs are serious and call for the doctor's immediate attention and what signs are not so serious and can safely be treated at home and then the doctor called if necessary.

Girl Photographer Walks In The Sky

CHICAGO — Donna Johnson is one woman who thrives on glamor behind the camera. A self-taught photographer, she is beginning to taste professional success in a field where usually only men operate. It's the rough and tumble field of construction progress photography.

The Association of Professional Photographers of America says she may be the only female in the entire field making picture records of building projects from excavation to finished product.

Agile and imaginative, 35-year-old Donna takes riding high on cranes and cat-walking on steel girders in stride. She has endured frost-bitten hands, wading in mud and being whipped by cold winds to accomplish her task. What's more, she enjoys every minute of it.

Englander Conquers Men Bosses

NEW YORK — One of the several things that makes a male executive smug is the well-founded suspicion that no matter how impossible he gets, his secretary would still probably rather work for him than for a woman.

But if there were a few more Margery Hursts in the world he might feel less sure.

Margery Hurst is a blonde British beauty who has more than 7,000 women in her organization, the world's largest secretarial agency.

Her success with keeping her own sex working happily for her is based on several well-established principles.

She likes and respects women. She doesn't ask anything of an employee she can't do herself. She can still type 30 words a minute, take 120 words shorthand, she believes in paying well, she takes an interest in the girls' personal lives.

"You must remember," she says, "that women are just coming out of the kitchen into the wide, wide world. They'll learn fast, but right now they mostly have a narrower view than men. They're emotional—very highly emotional—but so sharp and loyal. They want you to take a personal interest in them if their child has measles, you should ask every day how he is. If they've had a fight with a boy friend, inquire daily if they've made up."

Baby Can't Keep His Layette Now

A baby can't call his layette his own any more.

It was bad enough with mother using his baby oil, lotion and shampoo and nice ridden father eating his food. Now light-fingered adults, both men and women, are walking off with his cotton swabs.

A party-giving resident of Beverly Hills, Calif., uses them to clean the hollow stems in champagne glasses.

Trout fishermen lubricate reels. Snappy dressers use cotton swabs to make neat demarcations between the brown and white of their two-tone shoes.

At the University of California, Los Angeles, senior girls mop floors with them during pledge week.

Hot, roddies lubricate small gears. And cotton swabs may spell technological unemployment for bees. Amateur gardeners are using them to cross-pollinate flowers.

Foreign Shops Are Hospitable

CAIRO — "Come in, sir. You are welcome, madam," the dark-skinned merchant in Egypt's centuries-old famous bazaar will tell you with a broad and inviting smile when you visit Khan el Khabuli.

He can say that phrase in English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek and probably a few other languages.

If you are an American you will hear that phrase being said to you with a Yankee accent, otherwise it will be with an air very much like that of British lords.

The merchant will also extend his hand to the lady in a courteous manner, not help her enter into his dimly-lighted, ornate, decorated and sweetly-scented shop.

Before you have had time to glance at the displayed articles, your merchant will hasten to say in the great tradition of Arab hospitality: "Would you like a good cup of Arab coffee or green mint tea?"

You are in no position not to choose either coffee or tea. A refusal is totally disregarded.

GENEVA—The Communist delegation from Peking which is attending a 14-member conference here on the Laos problem is worried, mainly about the possibility of an invasion of Red China. This is indicated to by a recent speech by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

THE MOST INTERESTING phase of it is the way the Red China government has tried to paralyze the 6,000,000-man army. First, the soldiers were told there was no famine. They themselves were well fed. But when letters came from their families telling of the widespread hunger, the army began to desert.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of all this is that the Communist teachings have been proved false. So long as the Communist regime promised prosperity and a better way of life for the Chinese people, many persons, particularly the younger generation, believed in the new ideology. Now,

Around The Rim

Choose, But Conform

We talk a lot about all our various freedoms, but the one that is least discussed and least thought of is, as one would guess, the very liberty that is closest to our daily lives.

It was also government prerogative to protect the freedoms of all citizens against encroachments by individuals and pressure groups. A murder, robbery or assault, for example, very clearly was encroachment upon the rights to life and property, and enforcement of one group's way of life upon the general public was denial of the right to liberty and pursuit of happiness.

Steel Industry Is Turning To Computers

By SAM DAWSON
Associated Press News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The steel industry-somewhat battered of late in its dealing with union and government men—is turning increasingly today to an inanimate object.

Both here and abroad steelmakers are calling on the electronic computer to aid in their race with each other and to beat rising costs. They hope it will help in meeting growing competition from other materials as well as easing the squeeze from still higher labor costs when the government frowns on price hikes.

ON THEIR SIDE
And this time the government is on their side. The new depreciation rules are expected to spur steel mechanization. The government says the new tax rules amount to a 25 per cent increase in annual depreciation deductions by the steel industry—funds presumably available for the modernization of plants.

A digital computer is about to be harnessed to the primary steel-making process itself in Farrell, Pa.

Electronic devices already are linked to a wide range of finishing processes in rolling, reversing, hot and cold rolled strip mills, tin plate mills, sintering plants. Computers also act as operating guides by logging up to the minute data in steel processing.

Masterminding two 150-ton Stora-Kolida furnaces installed by Dravo Corp. at the Sharon Steel's Roemer Works in Farrell will be a Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co. computer system.

IN ONE HOUR
The Swedish developed furnaces are inclined and rotated and steel can be poured from an oxygen converter in one hour, compared with the seven to eight hours in older open hearth methods. A computer will be used to handle the rapid calculations in the speeded up chemical reactions in oxygen steelmaking.

Among computer equipped processing plants owned by the U. S. Steel industry are the following: Jones & Laughlin uses a General Electric 312 computer to control a continuous annealing line and an RCA 110 on a tin plate line.

GE computers are installed on a tin plate line at Kaiser Steel, in Fontana, Calif., at a hot strip mill at McLouth Steel, Detroit, and at a sintering plant of Youngstown Sheet and Tube at Hammond, Ind. Westinghouse computers are linked to reversing mills of Crucible Steel at Midland, Pa. Republic Steel, Gadsden, Ala. and a rolling mill of U. S. Steel at Chicago.

NEW MODELS
Inland Steel is working with International Business Machines on a mathematical model that would control a blast or open hearth furnace. And U. S. Steel is building a model blast furnace with complete instrumentation. Union Carbide has devised a mathematical model of a blast furnace to study the effects of oxygen and fuel injection.

The race to update the steel industry is getting under way in earnest. Washington hopes the new depreciation tax rules will induce the companies to put more funds into it.

Judge Orders Deviation Test

AUSTIN (AP) — District Judge Herman Jones issued a temporary restraining order Thursday against Billy Bristlewell and R. H. Hedge of Tyler prohibiting them from interfering with oil well deviation tests in the Webster field of Harris County.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he requested the order after the pair refused permission to allow the state to conduct an investigation on a lease belonging to them. The investigation in alleged slanted hole drilling of oil wells spread to Harris County Thursday.

The Railroad Commission had ordered the pipeline connection of 56 leases served in the East Texas oil field where a well was found to be slanted to bottom under another lease.

The commission also issued a 30-day extension of the no-plugging order in the East Texas field, effective July 15.

The commission, Department of Public Safety, attorney general's office, House General Investigating Committee and federal officials are probing the drilling of wells on a slant or curve so as to siphon oil from neighboring leases.

JFK Delays Brazilian Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has postponed until mid-November his planned visit to Brazil.

The official reasons: The approaching windup of the congressional session, plus the fact that election campaigns are coming up in both the United States and Brazil.

But experts on Latin America read into Thursday's announcement concern that a presidential visit during the current Brazilian political crisis could be labeled Yankee intervention.

The White House announcement did not mention Brazil's internal troubles. President Joao Goulart, who recently visited the United States, has been disputing with conservative factions over the type of administration Brazil should have.

Two prime ministers have resigned during the past two weeks, Brazil's congress has rejected a third, and Goulart's latest choice for the post has not been able to form a cabinet.

Observers of the Latin American scene said Kennedy could not go to Brazil during the political crisis without creating the impression that he was backing one side or the other.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy had planned to leave for Brazil July 30. They were to have returned Aug. 1. Postponement of the visit had been considered a possibility since the Brazilian cabinet crisis erupted June 26.

But the White House had maintained plans for the trip were going ahead—and the President's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, was in Brazil, preparing for Kennedy's visit, when the postponement was announced.

Salinger landed Thursday in Brasilia, capital of South America's biggest nation. He spoke with Kennedy by telephone before the postponement was announced.

The White House said Kennedy and Goulart talked by telephone and agreed the visit "should be temporarily deferred."

Keesee Sticks By His Story

AUSTIN (AP)—Sgt. Bobby Joe Keesee stuck by his story of intrigue Thursday after he received a five-year federal prison sentence.

He does not plan to appeal the sentence and $2,500 fine. He was convicted of driving a stolen auto across state lines.

"This does not mean that Sgt. Keesee's account of his activities and motivations given at the trial were not based upon fact," his lawyer, Bob Smith, said.

"Nor does it mean that we will not continue our efforts to uncover new evidence which will vindicate Sgt. Keesee and which we can later present to the court in a motion for a new trial."

Federal law allows two years to find new evidence on which to request a new trial.

Keesee, 28, admitted he drove the auto through 27 states. He asserted he did so at the instruction of a Central Intelligence Agency man and as a prelude to a flight over Cuba.

Berlin Settlement Talks Appear Near A Stalemate

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Berlin settlement talks between the United States and Russia seem to be grinding to a standstill. East-West negotiations on disarmament similarly appear on the verge of stalemate.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk discussed both issues Thursday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. The hour and 45-minute talk failed to yield any progress on either problem.

Just before the meeting Rusk said that if the Soviet government continues to insist on discussing only the problem of how to reduce or to eliminate western positions in Berlin "then there is no basis for serious negotiations in that direction."

On disarmament he is reported to have asked the Soviet government to have Dobrynin that it review its opposition to international inspections as a means of safeguarding an arms cut agreement and thus try to find "some way to take some steps to get on with disarmament."

Earlier this week Soviet Premier Khrushchev insisted in a speech in Moscow that U.S., British and French troops must be removed from West Berlin. The real reason the Western powers want international inspection is to obtain espionage information in the Soviet Union, he said.

U.S. officials privately see no prospect of breaking the deadlock between the U.S. position reflected by Rusk and the Soviet policies stated by Khrushchev. Nevertheless, as Rusk said Thursday, they expect talks to continue on the ground that both Moscow and Washington prefer to maintain contacts on major world issues even if their efforts at agreement get nowhere.

Rusk is due to go over much the same ground with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at a meeting in Geneva toward the end of next week. The two are scheduled to go to Geneva to sign final accords on the neutralization of Laos.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said Rusk and Dobrynin covered Berlin and disarmament and mentioned Laos.

White said the meeting was preliminary to the Rusk-Gromyko conference.

Disarmament talks which began at Geneva last March in a 17-nation conference are scheduled to resume next Monday after a month-long recess. Rusk declared at his news conference that U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean was returning to Geneva for serious negotiations and he added: "We hope somehow that we can find a way to get started on this process of turning down the arms race."

But he said that Khrushchev had "seemed to confuse international inspection... with espionage."

"This is a major obstacle which has to be overcome," Rusk said, "because it is difficult to see how we can take the road toward disarmament without effective insurance that the agreements are in fact being kept."

Talking about his exchange of views with Gromyko and Dobrynin on the Berlin issues, Rusk said the Russians have excluded a great many things which are of interest to us.

He cited as examples "the permanent peace settlement for Germany as a whole... or arrangements with respect to Berlin as a whole."

"If the only thing that is to be discussed is Western interest, vital interests," he continued, "and the only purpose of such discussion is to seriously reduce or to eliminate Western positions, then there is no basis for serious negotiations in that direction."

DALLAS (AP)—The National Indignation Convention reconvened Thursday night, but only a handful turned out. These were mostly persons who had spearheaded earlier efforts for the organization.

Chairman Frank McGehee talked to the group for about an hour and said afterward he was not disappointed by the light turnout.

"This is only the beginning," he said "Tomorrow night we'll meet again. And Saturday night again. And if the people want to work with us, we'll go on and on and on."

PROBE IS ORDERED

Coercion Claimed In Medic Strike

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—Premier Woodrow Lloyd says the Saskatchewan College of Surgeons and Physicians is using its policing powers to harass doctors who refused to join the strike against the provincial government's socialist medical scheme.

A one-man commission is being set up to investigate complaints, especially those against doctors recruited to fill gaps in medical service since a doctors' strike began July 1.

Premier Lloyd said Thursday evidence has accumulated that the college, responsible for licensing doctors in the province, seeks to use its powers as "an offensive weapon against doctors who are not supporting the college's walkout."

The college said the charges are "completely without foundation."

Under the provincial medical professions act, the college said, it is empowered to investigate any charges against doctors and it is the duty of the college registrar to do so.

The college said it had no part

Put Lock On Garbage Can

DEAR ABBY: There is a lady in our neighborhood whom we have nicknamed "The Inspector" because she makes a habit of inspecting everybody's trash. She actually goes around to the back yards and pokes into trash cans to see what she can learn about the neighbors. She is not hard up and never takes anything—she is just nosy. She once told me she knew who the beer drinkers, gin drinkers and wine drinkers were. And also what kind of medicine people use and all sorts of other information that is none of her business. What should we do about her?

DEAR IN: You could tell her to keep her nose out of our trash. Or else put a lock on your garbage can and give the key to your friendly garbage collector.

House OKs Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to allow President Kennedy to aid Communist countries if he sees a chance to pry them from Kremlin domination.

After giving the President this major victory Thursday, the House went on to pass a bill authorizing him to spend $4,668,500,000 for military aid and economic assistance this year. The roll call vote was 250 to 164.

Kennedy did not get everything he wanted from the House and got in fact some things he'd rather not have.

The authorization is $210 million below his original request and it carries two amendments he considers noxious. A ban on loans or grants to the United Nations until other members pay their back assessments, a requirement that he stop aid to nations that seize American property unless appropriate steps are taken within six months to make fair payment.

The shape the foreign aid measure finally will take depends on how a Senate-House conference committee resolves the House version and one passed earlier by the Senate.

And the tough fight on money will come later in the session when appropriations bills actually to provide foreign aid money are debated and voted on by both chambers.

In its bill the Senate voted to authorize foreign aid spending of $4,662,000,000 — $6.5 million less than the House. The Senate also acted contrary to Kennedy's wishes by barring all assistance to Communist countries with the exception of surplus food.

Since then the administration has fought to have these handcuffs unlocked by the House. The bipartisan effort to give the President a freer hand was by a standing vote of 277 to 4. This came after a similar vote of 201 to 44 had defeated an amendment by Rep. Thomas Feighan, D-Ohio, that would have permitted aid only if a country overthrew its Communist government.

If the House approach prevails in conference, the President could provide aid to Yugoslavia and Poland under broad guidelines. These include a presidential finding that the aid would advance U.S. security, that the aided country is not dominated by international communism, and that the help would promote the independence of the assisted state.

Voting for the foreign aid bill were 178 Democrats and 72 Republicans. Voting against were 68 Democrats and 96 Republicans.

Poles, Eyeing Aid Debate, Cool Criticism Of U.S.

By GENE KRAMER
An AP News Analyst

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Communist Poland now sweating out the U.S. foreign aid debate in Congress has reacted more militantly than the Soviet Union and some neutral countries to the U.S. high altitude, thermonuclear blast in the Pacific.

The "crime against humanity" theme resounding through the Communist peace conference in Moscow was echoed in no official Polish statement.

A long message from Polish Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz to the Moscow gathering condemned U.S. atom tests in general while ignoring Soviet testing.

Some factors mentioned in our living Polish cities have censured the United States.

But the most common reaction consists of shrugs from the men in the street and newspaper stories about an nuclear demonstration in countries other than Poland.

They hate and fear the nuclear arms race, but in talking to westerners most of them are fair enough to lay some blame on Poland's eastern neighbor, the Soviet Union.

Some Polish officials also probably want to avoid offending Washington at a time when aid agreements are being made to Poland's economy.

Ever official sympathies to America however are quick to criticize the idea that American aid should influence Polish policy-making. They consider it a mistake to lump Poland with Yugoslavia on the aid question, pointing out that Poland is a member of the Warsaw pact and has far less room for maneuver.

Some Poles argue that the U.S. aid program—totaling half a billion dollars worth of mostly surplus farm products since 1955—has paid for itself in goods and contacts for the United States, not to mention less dependence on the Soviet Union.

Walling the Poles off from these contacts they claim would make them far more ready to accept the straight Communist line on for example U.S. nuclear testing.

U.S. visitors to Poland often find fault with a definite lack of official publicity toward U.S. aid programs. Despite this, the facts do exist: Poles seem to know when wheat in their bread is from America and to appreciate the U.S. flour and cooking oils shipped by CARE to Polish schools.

Polish scientists and engineers are conscious of U.S. progress in their fields. They compete feverishly for the slightly more than 100 annual grants to study in America.

A $12 million U.S. program pays a few American periodicals and books onto Polish shelves and many U.S. movies onto Polish television and movie screens. About 30 per cent of the films playing in Warsaw are American.

U.S. Aide Quits Advisory Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John P. Duncan Jr. disclosed today that he has terminated an arrangement under which he had been a paid adviser to the Georgia Farm Bureau Insurance Company while in his present government post.

Duncan said he was making this fact known because, he said, reports were being circulated that this relationship constituted a conflict of interest between his government job and the insurance company which he founded. He denied such was the case.

The firm says it does no business with the federal government. Duncan said that under the advisory arrangement he was paid $2,000 a year by the Georgia firm. He draws $20,000 as assistant secretary.

He said in a statement that his relationship with the insurance company had been made known to appropriate officials of the department shortly after his appointment as assistant secretary in February 1961.

Commenting on other reports, Duncan acknowledged that he had accepted free lodging from organizations which had invited him to speak before them. He said this action did not conflict with the President's order.

NOW, A BRIGHT FUTURE Kindness Helps An Errant Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — Three years ago, Robert Nazzaro, a teen-aged gunman had a shady past and a bleak future.

Today, Nazzaro, now 18, has a good job and is preparing himself for an engineering career. His criminal record has been wiped out.

The change came about through the help of an understanding judge and an assistant district attorney who prefer rehabilitation to prosecution. Most of all, though, it came about through Nazzaro himself.

In 1959 Nazzaro appeared before General Sessions Judge Irwin D. Davidson and pleaded guilty to trying to shoot another youth he believed wrongly to be a member of a rival gang. Fortunately for all concerned, Nazzaro had missed.

But the judge incensed at the audacity of the act, acceded to the prosecutor's request and refused to treat Nazzaro as a youthful offender—thereby giving him a criminal record. The boy was then placed on 2½ years probation.

But despite his bad start, Robert seemed intent on changing his ways. While still on probation, the good-looking youth finished high school and worked afternoons and Saturdays.

He got a construction job at $4.10 an hour, but he wanted to become an engineer, so he enrolled in night courses at St. John's University. Then he learned that the criminal record he had earned as a 15-year-old boy would prevent him from pursuing his chosen career.

Nazzaro contacted Judge Davidson and asked if there was some way the law could forgive a youthful mistake. The judge said there was and, after checking over Nazzaro's probation reports, he set a series of legal moves into action.

The culmination of the legal moves came Thursday, when Asst. Dist. Atty. Maurice Nadjar recommended that Nazzaro be permitted to withdraw his original guilty plea to attempted felonious assault with a gun.

Davidson permitted the move.

and Nazzaro then immediately reentered the guilty plea—but this time as a youthful offender. Thus classified, the youth does not technically have a criminal record.

When the process was ended, Davidson told the clean-cut young man before him:

"You can now say under oath you've never been convicted of any crime. You can go anywhere, achieve anything. If we don't ever see you here again, we'll know we have won."

President Kennedy is mobbed by an enthusiastic group of foreign high school students from 30 countries who broke through restraining rope on the south lawn of the White House. The students mobbed the chief executive after he addressed them. Secret Service agents were forced to use their shoulders to clear a path for Kennedy to return to the executive mansion.

Kennedy Cites Need For Man With Rifle In Nuclear Age

WASHINGTON (AP)—The age of nuclear warfare has made "the man with the rifle" more than ever indispensable to the nation's defense, in the view of President Kennedy.

At the close of a smart ceremonial parade by Marine Corps troopers in the quadrangle of the 161-year-old Marine Corps barracks here Thursday night, Kennedy delivered an unscheduled speech in tribute to the men who stormed the beaches and stalked the jungles.

Kennedy sat in rapt attention through the hour-long review, then told the troops and dignitaries of the government and Congress who watched with him.

"All of us, I am sure, 10 years ago thought that the need for the man with the rifle would be passing away from the scene in the 1960s, and it is true that there are a good many Americans tonight who are stationed underground in a hardened site whose only duty is to watch some tables and some dials and a button.

"But the very size and magnitude of the new great weapons have placed a new emphasis upon what we call rather strangely conventional war.

"They have made it even more mandatory than ever that we keep the man with the rifle, and that is what the Marine Corps has emphasized.

"No matter how complicated war has now become, we need a navy which can send ships closer to shore, we need an air force that can protect those ships; we need small boats that can take men on a beach and we need men who will go ashore.

"The Marine Corps, the Navy, the Army, and the Air Force do that, and I hope that the people of this country and all those who look to this country for their independence know how indebted they must be to those of you who serve.

The qualities which made the traditional evening parade an extraordinary spectacle of skill and precision were the same qualities, Kennedy said, which permitted Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine commandant, to state a few weeks ago the several thousand Marines could be landed in Bangkok in 48 hours.

This was during the government's consideration of action to counter the renewal of Communist aggression in Laos.

He reported in a smiling aside that he had just learned to his dismay that his title of commander-in-chief was less impressive than he had believed. Gen. Shoup had just informed him, Kennedy said, that the Marines quartered at the venerable barracks three miles from the White House could not be transferred, even by the President, except at Shoup's command.

The only forces there which could not be moved without the President's permission were the members of the Marine Corps band, Kennedy said. He went on: "They are the only forces I have. I want it announced that we propose to hold the White House against all odds at least for some time to come."

About 800 Marine officers and men are stationed at the barracks. Their primary duties are ceremonial and to operate the Marine Institute, a correspondence training school. In addition, the approximately 100-man Marine band has administrative headquarters there.

Rural Minister Of Year Chosen

THORNDALE (AP)—The Rev. William R. Farmer, pastor of the 218-member San Gabriel Baptist Church, was chosen as "rural minister of the year" in Texas by a national farm publication.

The father of three was selected by a panel of judges of various rural occupations for working "beyond the call of duty" in service to his church and community. The story of his ministry is carried in the August issue of Progressive Farmer, which bestowed the title on him.

Ribicoff Resigns, Seeks Senate Race Nomination

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Abraham A. Ribicoff, the first member of President Kennedy's Cabinet to resign, headed for the Connecticut Democratic state convention tonight to fight for the nomination for U.S. Senator.

With the backing of Democratic National Chairman John Bailey and other party leaders, Ribicoff is expected to get the nomination without trouble.

"I like the challenge of elective office," Ribicoff said Thursday night in a television speech announcing his resignation as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Challenge is what he promptly got from his opponent for the nomination, Congressman-at-large Frank Kowalski.

Kowalski issued a statement claiming he had been offered U.S. Sen. Thomas Dodd's job if he would consent to run again for Congress this year and leave the field clear for Ribicoff.

Dodd's current term ends in 1964.

Ribicoff and Bailey, both targets of Kowalski's frequent charges of bossism, pooh-poohed his accusation.

"Desperation tactics," said Ribicoff. "Tom Dodd is a great senator and close friend of mine. I am for Dodd," said Bailey, "and I will say so when I introduce him at the convention."

The convention opens tonight with Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Senate majority leader, scheduled to deliver the keynote address. The business of choosing candidates will begin Saturday.

In his televised announcement that he was leaving the Cabinet,

Ribicoff commented on the recurrent reports that he hopes one day to be a Supreme Court justice. "Earlier this year I told the President of the United States that I did not want an appointment to the Supreme Court," he said.

"I told him then what I tell you now: I have made a final and irrevocable decision to serve in the United States Senate, if the people of Connecticut elect me."

"I would complete my public career there—for as long as the people of this state accord me their support. I would neither accept nor seek any other position," Ribicoff said one of his principal motives in seeking a seat in the Senate was to be able to vote in support of the programs he championed while a Cabinet member. President Kennedy was expected today to release Ribicoff's letter of resignation and his own reply.

The choice of a successor may be announced today, too, Kennedy has known, for months Ribicoff planned to run for the Senate and may have made his choice some time ago.

Mentioned for the post are former Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore.; Veterans Administrator John S. Gleason Jr., and Robert Weaver, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Although Ribicoff is expected to win the nomination for senator, the question is whether he can prevent Kowalski from garnering 20 per cent of the convention delegates' votes—enough to force a statewide primary later.

Kowalski has been critical of

Bailey, whom he has repeatedly called a political boss, and Ribicoff, whom he has labeled a "phantom candidate."

Kowalski announced for the Senate nomination last November. Ribicoff indicated his interest in it about the first of the year, but until Thursday night had not made a clearcut public declaration of candidacy.

This apparently was to satisfy President Kennedy's policy requiring administration officials seeking elective office to resign. Kowalski said the offers of the 1964 Democratic Senate nomination came from three persons who represented themselves as intermediaries for the state party organization leadership. He declined to name the intermediaries.

The Republican candidate for senator is Rep. Horace Seely-Brown Jr., who scored a victory of surprising proportions over former Gov. John Lodge at the GOP convention a month ago.

Habakkuk Questions Gods' Way

HOW PROBLEMS LEAD TO PRAYER, PRAYER LEADS TO GOD, AND GOD'S WORD LEADS US ULTIMATELY TO HIS PRAISE

Scripture—Habakkuk; II Kings 23:29-37.

By N. SPEER JONES

AT THE same time that the prophet Jeremiah was preaching futilely to the people of Jerusalem, a prophet named Habakkuk was also foreseeing their doom.

Unlike Jeremiah, this man apparently did not preach to the people.

Like Isaiah, he may well have written his oracle on a stone tablet and left it in a public place, as Habakkuk 2:2 would indicate. Such tablets were well-known; John Calvin believed them to be hung up in the temple; Martin Luther felt they were put in the marketplace. The phrase "that he may run that readeth it" has given some difficulty; it probably means writing so clear that it could be skimmed and understood.

We know practically nothing of the life of this prophet, except that he seems to have been a Levite. We are not even sure when he lived, for although the first chapter indicates a date of about 600 B.C., the authorship of the whole book is so cloudy that most modern scholars feel that more than one writer, at more than one time, was involved.

"He whose soul is not upright in him shall fail, But the righteous shall live by his faith."—Habakkuk 2:4.

The name "Habakkuk the prophet" is signed at the beginning of the first chapter and again at the beginning of the third. Yet the third chapter is totally different in tone from the first two. It is a psalm, bearing a title like those in the book of Psalms, and it appeared with the other psalms in the so-called Director's Psalter, compiled in the early Greek period. Because it bore Habakkuk's name, it was apparently attached to the rest of the book by a later editor.

Some scholars also feel that even the first two chapters were by two different authors. In 1:2-11, the author calls for salvation from the "wicked" of Jerusalem itself, particularly the court and the king, apparently the cruel Jehoiakim. God replies that he is raising up an instrument for their punishment, namely the Chaldeans.

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

Give Us This Day

Harvest time makes a man think.

The bread God gives us has to be cut, threshed, shipped, baked, wrapped and delivered before it ever reaches our mouths. And long before, it had to be sowed in a ploughed field, cultivated, irrigated, and fretted over a thousand times.

Lots of work in it for man. No gift wrapping with a ribbon around it.

But don't think we could get along without God! Leave out His part and there would be no harvest — no point in all our work.

So wheat inspires worship! And every Sunday in Church reminds us that we never labor alone . . . that our labors gain fruitfulness from God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Guild Suspends Official After B-Girl Investigation

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Guild of Variety Artists has suspended Jackie Bright without pay from his $31,200-a-year job as executive secretary until he clears himself of "all allegations and accusations" stemming from the Senate B-girl investigation. The suspension was announced in a statement issued Thursday after a meeting of the national board of the AFL-CIO union. At Senate investigation subcommittee hearings in Washington last month, Bright was accused of accepting bribes and illegal payoffs from various sources in the entertainment field. Testifying before the committee Bright denied the charges and accepted the subcommittee's invitation to submit to a lie detector test along with some witnesses who made the accusations. Bright told the subcommittee his union had been "vilified by a conglomeration of erroneous statements and deliberate lies blown up beyond all normal proportions."

Bright is in a hospital following a heart attack, and the union's national board took this into consideration in its suspension order. At the opening of the Senate hearings, actress Penny Singleton charged that under Bright's administration the union opened its doors to strip teasers and exotic dancers who spent most of their time working as bar girls.

'You're Coming Through Nicely'

The image of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson appears on an NBC monitor screen in the RCA Building in New York in the relay of a live television broadcast from the new satellite, Telstar, in outer space. The Telstar, a communications satellite developed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., was launched from Cape Canaveral, Johnson was talking on the telephone to Frederick R. Kappel, board chairman of AT&T, who was at Andover, Me. The Vice President, in Washington, responded "You're coming through nicely," when asked by Kappel, "How do you hear me?"

British Jump Gun On Telstar Parley

NEW YORK (AP)—The British jumped the gun and put through the first trans-Atlantic telephone call via Telstar Thursday night. The space communications satellite thus generated an out-of-this-world rivalry between the English and the French. France made an unscheduled start on transatlantic telecasting Wednesday night. The British called it a "clear breach of faith" and, in apparent retaliation, beat the French to the draw on international phone calls via space.

The call between scientists in Britain and the United States lasted about 10 minutes and concerned mainly technical matters. A spokesman for the British Post Office, which controls broadcasting in England such as the Federal Communications Commission does here, termed the experiment a success.

FRENCH DENIAL
The French denied they broke an agreement which called for the first European television program to be received in the U.S. July 23. Citing a technicality, the French said the agreement provided that the joint European telecast would be "live" while theirs was pre-recorded.

The French program included songs by actor Yves Montand and other entertainers. It was seen in American homes, as was a "live" British telecast bounced off the satellite a few hours later.

The European Broadcasting Union in a communique issued in Geneva, said the French telecast violated the international agreement "that no TV material of entertainment or informative character be transmitted in advance of the joint Eurovision project."

The British Broadcasting Corp also complained the French jumped the gun.

GREAT PITY
Peter Dinnick BBC representative on a European committee to coordinate the new transatlantic television link, said "it was a very great pity that a major triumph of this kind should be clouded by such a clear breach of faith."

The first formal transatlantic telephone call via Telstar had been scheduled for tonight between the United States and France.

Instead, the British completed the first such call Thursday night. It was placed by scientists at the Goonhilly Downs tracking station in Cornwall to fellow engineers at American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s ground station at Andover, Maine.

AT&T designed and built the 170-pound Telstar at a cost of $50 million, and paid the government nearly $4 million to launch it from Cape Canaveral Tuesday morning. It was the first privately financed space venture.

WHIRLING SWITCHBOARD
The switchboard in outer space is whirling about the globe at an altitude of 600 to 3,500 miles.

Tonight, between 5 and 6 p.m. EST, another transatlantic phone call is scheduled through Telstar. This was to have been the "first," before England beat France to the punch. Eugene J. McNeely, AT&T president will talk from New York with Jacques Marete, French minister of posts and telecommunications.

Later about 8:45 p.m., McNeely is scheduled to place a space-relayed call to Great Britain and to speak with an official of the British Post Office. Thursday night, the transmission of television test patterns from Britain and France was to have been made available to the three American television networks. But this plan was junked, an AT&T spokesman said, because the test patterns would have been "of no public viewing interest."

PLANS DROPPED
Later plans for the picture tests were abandoned altogether and only voice communication was transmitted.

A spokesman for AT&T's Bell Telephone Laboratories said radioed commands from some remotely located ground stations over the world were being ignored by the satellite at its extreme ranges.

The Andover spokesman said the satellite failed to turn its components on or off in response to these earth-sent radio signals. He said the difficulties were minor and were being resolved.

No command difficulties have been encountered at most stations, including Andover and Cape Canaveral, the spokesman added, "and the satellite is continuing to function well."

There's only one drawback to Telstar's use now as a relay for television and telephone signals. It's not always in the right position for such a chore.

MORE SATELLITES

But eventually, according to present plans, there will be 30 to 50 such satellites above the earth, and one or more always will be in position for uninterrupted communications between continents.

The first formal exchange of live television programming between Europe and the United States, on July 23, will feature a 15-minute show originating on each continent and relayed through Telstar.

The New York Times said it learned Thursday that President Kennedy is expected to appear on the American segment beamed to Europe.

2 Youths Killed In 1-Car Mishap

GEORGE WEST (AP). — Two youths from Edcouch died and another was injured Thursday in a one-car accident nine miles south of here on Highway 281.

Miss Carol France, 18, daughter of Mrs. Sloan McKee of Fort Worth, was killed instantly when the car she was driving turned over to a ditch.

David Richardson, 17, died later in the day in a Three Rivers hospital as a result of injuries he sustained in the wreck. He was a son of Hidalgo County Judge and Mrs. M. D. Richardson of Edcouch.

Another occupant of the car, Billy Jack La Duke, 18, suffered minor injuries.

The two boys had been to Denton to register for the fall semester at North Texas State University.
