DEPT. OF PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS ON PROBE

Marshall Death Called Murder

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Department of Public Safety said today its investigation indicates the death of Henry Marshall near Franklin on June 3, 1961, was murder, not suicide. Marshall at the time was investigating Billie Sol Estes' cotton allotments.

Marshall, a federal Agriculture Department official charged with policing acreage allotments was shot five times in the body with a bolt action 22-caliber rifle. His death originally was ruled a suicide. The case was revived when it was learned publicly nearly a year later that he was investigating Estes. Estes was called before a Franklin grand jury, but Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he did not believe Estes knew anything about the shooting.

Marshall, 52, was found near his pickup truck on his farm-ranch near Franklin in south Texas. An autopsy made a year later ruled he not only was shot five times but had a near-lethal intake of carbon monoxide gas and a blow on the head that was almost fatal. The Department of Public Safety opinion was revealed in the release of a letter that Director of Public Safety Homer Garrison wrote to Texas Dist. Court Judge John M. Barron, Bryan.

"Investigators of the Texas Department of Public Safety have completed an intensive preliminary investigation of the circumstances surrounding the mysterious death of Henry Marshall near Franklin, Tex., on June 3, 1961," said the letter.

"This investigation, conducted under the supervision of Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples of Waco, has resulted in our conclusion that Mr. Marshall's death could not have been the result of suicide; therefore, this department's continuing investigation will be based upon the theory that he was murdered," Garrison said.

Franklin, Tex., on June 3, 1961, shot himself five times with the type of weapon used. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., head of the Senate Investigating subcommittee, said recently he believes that Marshall could not have shot himself.

Antimissile Missile Test Is Successful

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States successfully tested an antimissile missile today in a historic development of the missile age.

The Army antimissile, called the Nike Zeus, was fired from Kwajalein Island in the Pacific and intercepted an Atlas missile which had been launched from California, 4,500 miles away.

A brief announcement of the successful test was made by the Defense Department. At the same time, it said an earlier test, at an undisclosed time, was "not a complete success."

The Pentagon statement said neither the intercepting missile nor the target carried a nuclear warhead.

The trajectory of an ICBM carries it several hundred miles aloft with a top speed during flight of about 16,000 miles an hour.

The department declined to say directly whether the intercept resulted in destruction of the target. But a spokesman said "there would have been destruction" if fully armed weapons had been used.

In a separate statement Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said, "this event evidences the extensive and continuing nature of the U.S. program to understand the capabilities and limitations of antimissile systems."

He added that it shows that we speak of such matters from knowledge. This appeared to be directed at recent claims by Soviet Premier Khrushchev of Soviet achievements in the missile field.

"concurrently and in a coordinated fashion, the U.S. has been carrying out a program to insure that our missiles will penetrate antimissile systems which might be encountered.

"These programs give us confidence that our missiles would be able to penetrate any such system which has been developed by anyone."

Defense officials were asked by newsmen if the wording of today's announcement meant that this was the first successful intercept of an ICBM by anyone.

"They said that today's was the first one they knew about, but declined to say flatly that Russia has not achieved similar success."

Friendly Encounter

John Connally, left, Democratic candidate for Governor of Texas, and his Republican rival, Jack Cox, looked like a couple of real buddies as they met before the Texas AFL-CIO convention in San Antonio to solicit the organization's support. Later, in speeches, they weren't so friendly toward each other.

Union Urges Cancellation Of Their Insurance Contracts

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The Texas AFL-CIO urged members today to cancel their contracts with Blue Shield-Blue Cross insurance.

The union cited what it said were anti-union activities toward employees in the firm's Dallas office.

Two resolutions were unanimously adopted by the state convention. The resolutions asked unions not to negotiate any new insurance or welfare plans with Blue Cross until the Office Employees International Union succeeds in organizing the workers.

Another reason for the convention's action, one of the resolutions said, was because the company paid the expenses of Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., when he made a speaking tour through Texas talking against medical care through federal social security.

"We feel that they have violated their trust with their policyholders if indeed they have not violated their state charter," the resolution said.

Labor leaders were expected to decide during the day if they will support any of the eight statewide candidates in the November general election.

The Texas AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) heard the four Republicans and four Democrats Tuesday as part of the state AFL-CIO convention. Today's decision was made in a closed meeting.

The convention has been outwardly harmonious. President Hank Brown won his battle for an increase in the per capita tax paid by each member union without difficulty.

Brown asked a 9 cent increase but said he would compromise if delegates thought that was too much. They settled for a 5 cents increase. It raised the per capita from 8 cents to 13 cents for the 250,000 AFL-CIO members in Texas.

The 1,000 or so delegates asked unanimously a congressional investigation of the Texas Employment Commission. Their resolution accused the commission of "sending out letters to employers, arousing them to work for the defeat of proposed improvements in the unemployment compensation laws.

A report from the general legislation committee due to come up today mentions promoter Billie Sol Estes. It states:

"The Billie Sol affair would not have been possible had Texas enacted a sound, statesman-like small loan and consumer finance act containing strong penalties for violators."

Murray said 40 acre spacing would not mean a change in basic commission policy.

"We still will adopt for each field the spacing which is best for recovery," he said.

Murray said the commission would propose a change in foot-acre location of wells from property lines from the current 330 to 660 feet and also to increase the distance between wells from 660 to 1,320 feet. He said this would mean generally that wells would be drilled in the center of square 40-acre units.

8-Day Flow For August

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission ordered today that Texas oil wells be held back in August to an eight-day schedule. It was the seventh straight month for the record low production pattern.

The commission's action came after 11 of the 12 major producers and purchasers appearing at the monthly statewide production hearing asked that the eight-day schedule be retained.

Under the order, the August allowable will total 2,722,935 barrels a day, the same as in July. One company asked that the pattern be reduced to a seven-day scale.

A nine-day pattern would have meant an allowable of 2,906,206 barrels daily. A seven-day scale would have set the allowable at 2,537,994 barrels a day.

Today's commission order was the 14th eight-day pattern in 16 months.

Commission Chairman W. J. Murray said that following the Aug. 16 production hearing, the commission will hold another hearing to consider changing the statewide spacing pattern from 20 to 40 acres.

The commission for many years has been increasing spacing as new recovery techniques were developed. Murray said, "Twenty acre spacing now is relatively rare. You find it usually only in shallow fields."

Murray said 40 acre spacing would not mean a change in basic commission policy.

"We still will adopt for each field the spacing which is best for recovery," he said.

Corpus Christi independents, asked an eight-day pattern.

Pre-hearing nominations by major producers and purchasers totaled 2,497,637 barrels, up 31,621 daily.

The Bureau of Mines forecast August demand at 2,575,000, up 10,000 barrels.

The August daily allowable by district is:

Dist. 1, 47,215 barrels.
Dist. 2, 114,772

Dist. 3, 352,713.
Dist. 4, 189,538.
Dist. 5, 29,843.
Dist. 6, outside East Texas Field, 134,977.
Dist. 6, East Texas Field, 125,399.

Dist. 7B, 142,777.
Dist. 7C, 119,742.
Dist. 8, 1,109,963.
Dist. 9, 235,918.
Dist. 10, 129,078.
All were the same as in July.

Col. Rex D. Fryer, who assumed duties as the Webb AFB Deputy Wing commander, replacing Col. Donald W. Pendergrass, recently assigned to Webb AFB.

Another arrival at Webb AFB is Lt. Col. Maxfield H. Bence, director of personnel for the 350th Pilot Training Wing.

Col. Fryer comes to Webb from an assignment with Air Defense Command as the senior Air Force Advisor to the 132nd Air Defense Wing, Air National Guard, with headquarters at Municipal Airport, Des Moines, Iowa. He had served there since September 1959.

NATIVE OF IDAHO
Col. Fryer was born in Lewiston, Idaho, but now calls San Bernardino, Calif., his home. He was first ordered to active duty from Santa Maria, Calif., in December, 1940. He was an enlisted man until January, 1941 when he entered the Aviation Cadet program. He graduated as a second lieutenant in August of that same year. His service schools include the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Military Management, Craig AFB, Ala.; and Air War College, Maxwell AFB, Ala.

The colonel has 240 combat hours logged in 20 missions in the B-24. His combat record during WW II won him battle stars for service in the Air Offensive in Europe, Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, Alsace, Rhineland and Central Europe.

PERSONNEL DIRECTOR
Lt. Col. Bence arrived from Germany where he was director of personnel for the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing. He replaces Lt. Col. Jack Holt who vacated the position last month for an assignment in Korea.

A veteran of more than 20 years military service, reserve and active, Col. Bence went into the military personnel field while stationed at Sheppard AFB, Tex., where he became group personnel adjutant with the 37th Basic Training Wing. From Sheppard the colonel went to duty in Japan with the 4th East Air Force Headquarters in 1951, where he served as OIC of the promotion branch and later wing deputy for personnel with the 8161st Air Base Wing in Japan.

EXPERIENCED IN FIELD
He served with the 65th Bomb Wing at Bagram AFB, Tex. (SAC) as wing director of personnel, prior to an assignment as commander of the 3629th Air Reserve Center in Portland, Ore., also an honorary member of the Portland Rotary Club.

In July 1959 he went to duty in Europe, stationed at the time at Laon AB, France. He moved with the group to Spangdahlem AB, Germany, where he continued as DP until his assignment to Webb.

A native of Pittsfield, Mass., the colonel now calls Garland, Texas, home. He is married to the former Evelyn Collins of Garland, and with their 12-year-old daughter, Edna, they reside in Webb Village.

Reds Would Trade Nuclear Bar On Allies

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union indicated today it would withhold nuclear weapons from Red China if the West dealt likewise with West Germany and other Atlantic Allies.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin told a committee of the 17-nation disarmament conference Moscow is ready to join the United States, Britain and France in a firm pledge to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

He said the four nuclear powers should undertake commitments not to supply atomic arms, or military nuclear data to any other country or bloc which does not possess them. These countries in turn should pledge not to seek nuclear weapons, and forbid their use in their territories, he said.

Western diplomatic sources interpreted the Soviet proposal as referring to China.

Zorin bitterly attacked West German "militaristic and revisionist circles" during his statement to the committee which is discussing side issues while the full conference is in recess until Tuesday.

U.S. Delegate Arthur H. Dean came to the defense of the West Germans. He said Zorin's attack against a nation which is doing its best to take its place in a peaceful European community of nations is a piece of blatant war propaganda.

Paper Bought

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The Milwaukee Sentinel, a 125-year-old morning newspaper that has not published since it was struck by the American Newspaper Guild May 27 in a contract dispute, was purchased from the Hearst Corp. today by its longtime rival, the Milwaukee Journal.

Celebrezze OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today unanimously approved President Kennedy's nomination of Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze of Cleveland to be secretary of welfare.

The appeals court said it would not order such an accounting in the main case because it would up in a compromise and, also, because the legal representation of the Teamsters Union and Hoffa had not been challenged until four years after the case was initiated.

The court ruled, however, that certain aspects of the case involving charges against Hoffa and others, should be aired in the lower court to determine whether use of union-paid attorneys to defend union officials was proper.

Reapportionment Order Causes Stir In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A political upheaval was brewing in Michigan today in the wake of a State Supreme Court decision ordering reapportionment of the State Senate.

The court's 4-3 decision Wednesday gave the Legislature a month to re-map Senate boundaries on a population basis.

The court said, will bring about election of 32 senators from the state at-large in November.

Wednesday's decision, following strict party lines, was a triumph for August Scholle, Michigan AFL-CIO president and a power in state Democratic party circles. It upheld his contention that the wide disparity in the population of Senate districts violated the equal protection of the laws guarantee in the U.S. Constitution.

Sen. Carlton H. Morris, Republican from Kalamazoo, said, "This makes a monumental mess of things in Michigan."

Flash Floods In West Texas

By The Associated Press
Summer showers, falling hard and quick, caused road- blocking flash floods in several West Texas areas late Wednesday.

As much as 130 inches of rain poured down at Muleshoe, northwest of Lubbock, on the South Plains. Muddy water surged over State Highway 214 and blocked it at several points for a time.

Kent County sheriff's officers estimated a near cloudburst turned loose 3 inches of rain within two hours in the Jayton area, southeast of Lubbock. The quick rising runoff halted traffic on U. S. 390 until it ebbed.

Travel also was interrupted briefly at the Knapp community in Scurry County, where a 1 1/2-inch downpour descended in 15 minutes.

EDITOR UNDERESTIMATED THE POWER OF A WOMAN

KINGSVILLE (AP)—As a stunt, Jake Trussell, managing editor of the Kingsville Record, went into the street and tried to swap a $5 bill for a $1.

People, even his acquaintances, shied away warily and then Trussell would tell them they had just lost $4.

That evening Jake went home and told his wife "Honey, how about trading me a $1 bill for a $5 bill?"

"Sure," she said, producing a $1 bill and grabbing the $5. As she stuffed the bill into her purse, Mrs. Trussell said, "A few minutes ago I bumped into someone who told me that my husband was trying to trade $3 for $1. I've been looking for you ever since."

Court Rules Out Union Aid To Officials In Fraud Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled today that labor unions may not use union paid attorneys or union funds to defend union officers charged with fraud.

The court unanimously ordered a U.S. District Court review of the question whether President James R. Hoffa and other Teamsters Union officials must reimburse the union for legal services in certain fraud charges cases.

The appeals court said it would not order such an accounting in the main case because it would up in a compromise and, also, because the legal representation of the Teamsters Union and Hoffa had not been challenged until four years after the case was initiated.

The court ruled, however, that certain aspects of the case involving charges against Hoffa and others, should be aired in the lower court to determine whether use of union-paid attorneys to defend union officials was proper.

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission extended for another 30 days today the no-plugging order for Hawkins Oil Field in East Texas.

The commission said it extended the plugging ban at the request of the attorney general's office.

Kennedy Aides Polling Demos On Attitudes Over Cut In Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's aides are polling congressional Democrats on their attitude toward a possible immediate tax cut to cushion the economy.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., stands athwart the portal of the tax-handling Senate Finance Committee, determined to fight against any reduction which would further unbalance the budget.

Manfield said he is certain Kennedy has made no decision on whether to request a reduction in levies. But he added the President obviously is interested in knowing in advance what reception he could expect if such a request were made.

"This late in the session, it would be a difficult thing to manage," Manfield said.

Kennedy is said to be reluctant to acknowledge any such adverse trend in the economy as a tax reduction request would signal. Beyond that he is said to feel that if a request were made and rejected, the reaction could invite a recession that might otherwise be avoided.

As politically incredible as it may seem in an election year, Congress appears far from eager to vote a tax cut. There prevails at nearly all levels some apprehension about how the voters will react to continued high spending and a ballooning deficit.

While he may be somewhat more tractable, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee remains to be convinced that a tax reduction is desirable at this time.

Moreover, Mills would be likely to lay down some conditions which would start the tax measure through Congress on an uncertain course.

For instance, Mills and his committee colleagues might insist that a withholding tax on interest and dividends be included in the bill to help make up for revenue losses. The House voted for this but Byrd's Senate committee knocked it out of a tax revision measure now before it.

In any event, a tax reduction would have to be made a temporary one if the administration later is to get the general overhaul of the revenue code it wants. Such an overhaul would need the sweetener of a permanent reduction to get anywhere.

To complicate matters, Republican leaders have made it clear they would be on their feet demanding government economies to balance the revenue loss.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told a news conference Wednesday he and House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana are agreed on the necessity of some incentive tax reductions to spur business investment. But he said he will want to caucus with other Republicans before taking a position on an across-the-board cut.

The President's decision seemed likely to await measurements of the economy. One of these will be a report Friday on the gross national product for the April-June quarter.

That this report may be disappointing was indicated when the Commerce Department said Wednesday durable goods orders fell 3 1/2 per cent in June from the May level, after allowing for seasonal trends.

On the other hand, the department said cash dividend payments by corporations which publicize them reached $2.1 billion in June. This brought the total for the year to $7.1 billion, a gain of 7 per cent over the first half of 1961.

Some American Women Took Drug Now Called Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commissioner George F. Larrick of the Food and Drug Administration said today some American women took a drug now believed to have caused thousands of birth malformations in Europe.

"We now know that the drug was used by quite a number of women, but we do not know in what amounts," Larrick told a reporter.

"In what I have been told the chances seem to be small that many American women received the drug at what appears to be the critical time—early pregnancy."

The drug, thalidomide, was kept off the U.S. prescription market when Dr. Frances Oldham Kelsey, an FDA physician and pharmacologist, insisted that proof of its safety was inadequate.

In seeking such approval, the manufacturer, William S. Merrell Co., of Cincinnati, distributed the drug to physicians for trials. Such tests are required by the FDA before new drugs can qualify for the general prescription market.

The firm withdrew its application when reports from Europe linked the drug to a sudden preponderance of phocomelia, babies born legless or armless or with deformed limbs.

"One reassuring fact," Larrick said, "is that the experimental work on which we have seen reports was done in late pregnancy. There have also been some reports that it was used for morning sickness in this country but from what we have learned it was not tried for that in the United States."

Researchers have estimated that thalidomide, which was used as a sedative, caused 3,500 deformed births in Germany and that the number in that country may reach 6,000.

New Elevator Is Dedicated

ST. LAWRENCE — Forty residents of this community dined on barbecue at a celebration last night to dedicate the completion of a new $60,000 grain elevator.

The elevator, described as a major asset to Glasscock County, is the beginning of the St. Lawrence Grain and Chemical Co., an enterprise to deal in insecticides, fertilizer and chemicals. The new elevator has storage space for two million pounds of grain and includes a warehouse 40 feet by 70 feet in size.

Owner of the elevator is R. L. Straub, Stanton. The manager of the new establishment is D. A. Dumas, who lives here.

Attending the dedication barbecue were representatives of Wood Chemical Co., Ortho Chemical Co., and Smith-Douglas Fertilizer Co., all of Lubbock.

A John Deere Implement Co. film was shown as a feature of the dedication program.

Yank Wounded By Reds In Viet Nam 'Copter Flight

Saigon, South Viet Nam (AP) — An American crewman of a U.S. Army helicopter was wounded today by Communist ground fire 28 miles north of Saigon, military sources reported.

The helicopter flying from Saigon to Ben Cat was hit seven times by bullets but continued to the town on the fringe of the Communist-controlled D Zone.

The American, believed a sergeant, was struck in the arm but his wound reportedly was not serious. His name was not made known.

The helicopter was to participate in the second stage of "Operation Sunrise" in which government forces are trying to secure an area north of Ben Cat for resettling peasants into a fortified hamlet.

Earlier, government forces launched another large scale operation in the heart of D Zone amid secrecy that led to speculation they were on a special mission. The South Vietnamese general staff was directing the drive, which began Wednesday.

The jungle headquarters of Nguyen Huu Tho, a former lawyer who is the civilian leader of the Viet Cong guerrilla movement, is believed in the area.

Four American airmen found alive after their twin-engine C123 plane crashed into a jungle mountain Sunday were rescued by helicopter.

Capt. James E. Henderson, Seymour, Iowa, the pilot, suffered a leg fracture, but the others escaped with only minor bruises and cuts. They are Lt. Winslow R. Harris, Harlem, Ga.; Staff Sgt. Charles F. Richards, Cameron, Tex.; and Staff Sgt. Henry C. Stefanski, Montville, Conn.

Rusk Will Seek Peace Over Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to make a major effort at Geneva to get Russia to shelve its demands for withdrawal of U.S., British and French forces from West Berlin.

Rusk and President Kennedy are known to feel that if U.S.-Soviet negotiations on the Berlin dispute can be moved beyond this issue, there may be some hope of at least getting an agreement to discontinue and reduce the dangers of periodic East-West crises over Berlin.

Rusk is scheduled to leave for Geneva at midnight. He is due there Friday afternoon.

His immediate reason for making the trip is to join with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and top representatives of a dozen other nations including Red China in signing accords on the neutralization of Laos.

But this ceremonial function will be overshadowed by the talks he and other Western foreign ministers have with Gromyko on Berlin and the equally deadlocked issue of nuclear testing.

The whole complex of disarmament problems including a test ban is to be discussed at Geneva. But Rusk is expected to urge Gromyko that the Soviet government should reconsider its opposition to any kind of international inspection as a means of safeguarding disarmament agreements.

In the case of nuclear testing the United States is reported to have decided against accepting a Mexican suggestion that the big powers set an automatic cutoff date of Jan. 1 for nuclear weapons planning. Since the Russians are planning another series of tests probably later this year with unpredictable results, U.S. leaders feel that to agree now to a cutoff date would in effect be giving the Soviets a "blank check" in the nuclear arms race.

The U.S. Soviet Berlin talks have been stalemated for many weeks. From the western point of view the reason is Soviet unwillingness to discuss any issue other than withdrawal of troops from West Berlin.

In the circumstances, Rusk sees no prospect of working out with the Soviet government any kind of Berlin settlement formula.

What he does consider possible is some kind of an understanding between Moscow and the West on a live-and-let-live policy with respect to Berlin. That could at least be talked about, he believes, if the Soviet government would put aside or ease off its troop withdrawal demand in the interest of discussing other issues related to Berlin. Such issues could include arrangements for minimizing friction which arises between East and West Berlin at border points and for handling the problems of West Berlin supply lines which cross 110 miles of Communist East German territory.

U. S. To Send Venus Probe On Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — With a successful balloon shot in the record books, the nation's space agency now takes dead aim at Venus with an interplanetary spacecraft scheduled for launching Saturday.

An Atlas-Agena B rocket is set to blast off before dawn Saturday to start the Mariner I spacecraft on a 228-million-mile journey to probe mysteries of the cloud-shrouded neighboring planet.

Scientists and technicians gathered Wednesday to ready the rocket and payload as another group launched a 135-foot diameter balloon to a point 902 miles in space to test ejection and inflation techniques for an improved Echo communications satellite.

The balloon, folded in the nose of the Thor booster on launching, separated and inflated successfully at an altitude of 230 miles and soared upward to its planned trajectory peak before falling back to burn up in the Earth's atmosphere, planned 23 minutes after launching.

Project officials watched the inflation, flight and burnup of the giant sphere on closed-circuit television relayed from a camera mounted in the Thor nose.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported complete success of the mission and said it plans to launch one of the 13-story spheres into orbit in the fall as an experimental passive communications satellite to be named Echo II.

The balloon, larger but not heavier than man-made vehicle ever launched into space, is 35 feet taller and much more rigid than the Echo I balloon placed in orbit two years ago.

Echo II will help determine whether this passive type satellite or an active repeater type like Telstar is the most feasible for an operational space communications network.

In contrast with Wednesday's brief flight, Mariner I is intended to make a 4½-month journey across the vastness of space before flying close to Venus in early December.

NASA hopes to send the spacecraft within 20,000 miles of Venus

Graham Points Up World's Answer

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — How few people recognize that the answer to all the world's problems lies at the foot of the cross, evangelist Billy Graham said Wednesday night.

He goes into the fifth meeting of an eight-day central California crusade tonight, having preached to 75,000 persons. About 500 came forth Wednesday night to make what Graham calls inquiries for Christ.

Graham said the centuries have not improved man's wickedness, as some persons claim.

"I am convinced that if Christ came back today, he would be crucified even quicker than he was 2,000 years ago," he said.

The Bible teaches that man is naturally wicked and that the only salvation is the cross, Graham said.

Defeat Of Medicare Means JFK Will Take To Stumping

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any questions about President Kennedy's zest for stumping in Senate and House campaigns this year was blown apart by defeat of his medical care program.

Kennedy previously had made clear he would take to the road, and possibly to the television screen, in an effort to enlarge the Democrats' sometimes illusory margin in Congress. By implication, he made equally clear that he hoped to enlarge it with Democrats who could be relied on to support administration measures.

If his mind already was made up the medical care plan's 32-48 vote loss in the Senate on Tuesday made him more determined than ever.

Aides say the President will not carry a political shotgun with him on the campaign expeditions. But he has scrutinized the roll calls carefully, not only on medical care but all the key bills—farm, tax, urban affairs department, debt limit, trade, standby public works authority, trade, aid to higher education, U.N. bonds, foreign aid.

This indicates the chief executive will be especially eager to knock off Republicans who have consistently opposed him. It also suggests he will be much more disposed to plump for faithful rather than contrary Democrats.

It does not suggest he will fail to endorse Democrats at large.

For example, he posed for campaign pictures at the White House Wednesday with 17 Democratic Senate candidates. Among the nine incumbent senators in the group were Sens. Carl Hayden of Arizona and Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina who only 24 hours earlier had voted to kill the medical care program.

Missing from the group of candidates was the President's long-time friend, Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, who had re-elected Kennedy's endorsement in advance of Florida's primary election last spring.

Hayden and Ervin, like Smathers, were among the "handful" of 21 Democrats whom the President observed Tuesday had voted against him on medical care. Smathers frequently opposes administration measures.

Kennedy said at a recent news conference that he didn't anticipate much of a problem choosing among candidates in charting his personal campaign itinerary.

Asked if he intended to campaign only for Democrats who have backed his major proposals or all Democrats who wanted him, he said the question answered itself.

"Those who want me to campaign for them are people who have generally supported the major part of the program," he commented.

Kennedy's campaign schedule is

NEW YORK (AP) — Hello, ma. Guess where I am? I'm 40,000 feet over Cleveland.

Telephone calls from commercial airliners will become a reality starting next Wednesday when Trans World Airlines inaugurates its Skyphone service on an experimental basis.

Passengers flying eight miles high at 10 miles a minute will be able to phone ground stations when the new service is given a trial run on a jetliner between Chicago, St. Louis and the East Coast.

slowly being worked out. Only one date—in Chicago in October—has been announced. Before making clearly political sorties, Kennedy plans one or more "nonpolitical" journeys. This means he may appear in an area where a battle looms but will not directly advocate a candidate.

Subsequent "political" tours are likely to take him into Pennsylvania, Connecticut, California, Michigan, Kentucky and possibly Oregon, Utah and South Dakota, among others.

Candidate Sues Union

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Republican candidate for congressman-at-large—who battled the Teamsters Union for 2½ years—has brought a slander suit against the union and one of its officials.

Desmond Barry of Houston, President of Galveston Truck Lines, filed the suit in district court Wednesday.

He named M. W. (Dusty) Miller, regional director of the Teamsters' 14-state Southern Conference, as a defendant.

Miller spoke at the state AFL-CIO convention here earlier in the day and accused Barry of not telling the truth in Barry's account of the fight that started seven years ago.

The suit states Miller called Barry "an unmitigated liar" in the speech. It asks $1 actual and $300 exemplary damages.

In the speech, Miller challenged Barry to file the suit and said he would prove the untruthfulness of the candidate's statements from the witness chair.

Barry spoke at a meeting of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, Tuesday, and did all other statewide candidates.

No Ruling Yet On Border Land Fuss

EL PASO (AP)—Spokesmen for the State Department and the Boundary Commission say there has been no decision on settling a dispute over a part of El Paso which Mexico claims.

Their statements were made Wednesday after KHOU-TV in Houston telecast a program titled "Adios Chamizal." It quoted "a good qualified source in El Paso" as saying federal officials had promised to hand over 60 blocks of the city's El Chamizal area to Mexico.

A change of course by the Rio Grande caused the controversy. An arbitrator ruled for Mexico in 1911 but the United States never has complied with his finding.

Presidents Kennedy and Lopez Mateos said after their recent talks in Mexico City they would instruct their governments to recommend "a complete solution to this problem."

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said in Washington there has been no final decision. He said El Paso officials would be consulted before one is reached.

Thomas Mann, ambassador to Mexico, is here to study the problem.

"I am not here to sell a plan," Mann said. "I came to consult with the people here. Whatever is done must be in the interest of the city and the people of El Paso."

The El Paso Times said that as a result of Mann's talks with civic leaders, city and county officials, a proposal may be discussed with Mexico to swap land in the Chamizal-Cordova Island area in such a manner that both nations would benefit.

Cordova Island is part of Mexico but because of a change in the river bed is on the El Paso side of the Rio Grande.

The proposal would involve improving the river channel through a narrow section of south El Paso near Cordova Island.

U.S. officials said the plan under discussion would not affect national citizenship. They estimated land values and property improvements in the 400-acre area would be worth $30 million.

SGT. J. L. GARY
Sgt. J. L. Gary Leaving Webb

M. Sgt. Junell L. Gary, NCOIC of the Base Chapel since August, 1959, will leave Webb AFB soon for an assignment at Ramstein, Germany. This will be his second tour there.

Born in Dallas, the sergeant's permanent home is Vallejo, Calif. He attended Booker T. Washington High School in Dallas, and did three years work at Sam Houston College.

Sgt. Gary joined the Air Force in July, 1950, and was sent to the Chaplain's Assistant's School at Fort Slocum, N. Y., in 1952. Prior to coming to Webb, the sergeant was assigned to Mather AFB, Calif.

He belongs to the Alpha Phi Fraternity, and Protestant men of the Chapel. He is a charter member and past president of the Taion Toastmaster's Club. He and his wife, Elaine, have four children, Bobby, 13, Michael, 12, Kent, 5, and Norman, 1 1/2.

Rural Blocs Fight With Backs To Wall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rural blocs, long dominant in many state legislatures, are fighting with backs to the wall to retain their power. The way things are going, it looks as though they cannot win, although it may take years to decide the outcome.

City dwellers and suburbanites, fortified by two historic Supreme Court decisions, are battering at the ramparts of what they call unfair apportionment of seats in the legislatures.

Already they have scored one big breakthrough, in Maryland, where they gained control of one branch of the legislature for the first time. They appeared headed for another in Michigan, where the State Supreme Court handed down a politically explosive decision Wednesday.

ELECTION CALLED OFF

The court, acting on complaints that the State Senate is unfairly unbalanced in favor of rural areas, voted 4 to 3 to call off the Aug. 7 primary election for that chamber. It directed legislators to pass "a fair" reapportionment legislation by Aug. 20 or else provide for the nomination of senatorial candidates on an at-large basis at a special primary Sept. 11.

In eight other states, federal or state courts are putting pressure on legislatures to reshape themselves more in line with the population. These states are Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Vermont and Wisconsin.

More is yet to come. In more than 30 states, there is agitation in the form of suits, movements for state constitutional amendments, initiative petitions or study commissions.

What sparked the widespread activity was a Supreme Court decision March 26. A group of Tennesseans complained to the tribunal that although their state constitution called for reapportionment every 10 years, nothing had been done since 1901. The result, they said, was that one-third of the voters elected two-thirds of the legislature.

DOCTRINE REVERSED

The Supreme Court, reversing long-held doctrine, decided that federal courts can handle such cases. It followed up with another decision putting state courts into the picture also.

The most concrete result to date has been in Maryland. The legislature passed a reapportionment bill giving metropolitan areas control of the House of Delegates for the first time in history.

Small counties were left in control of the Maryland Senate, thus giving them veto power. Advocates of thorough-going reapportionment are now pressing a court fight to revamp the Senate also.

They lost a round when a state circuit judge refused to interfere with the Senate makeup. He pointed to the federal plan—whereby the U.S. Senate is apportioned geographically and the House according to population.

The Supreme Court in its March 26 decision did not say whether the federal plan can be legally applied to the states. Indeed, it set up few guidelines for lower courts to follow.

EXAMPLE IN ALABAMA

An example of how hard the rural legislators are fighting is in Alabama. Three months ago a 3-judge federal court gave the legislature an ultimatum: Reapportion or have the judges do it.

The legislature came up with reapportionment plans that would leave rural areas in possession of the balance of power they have enjoyed for over 50 years. The court is now considering whether this is legal.

In Georgia, a federal court warned July 13 that unless at least one house is revamped by Jan. 1 to represent the people on a population basis, there will be no legally constituted legislature after that date. A special election is expected in late September to tackle the job.

Another federal court has ruled Oklahoma's apportionment laws "individually discriminatory" in violation of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees all citizens equal protection of the laws. It judged Gov. J. Howard Edmondson to call a special session this month, but he said that would be futile. The court has called a hearing July 31 to determine what it should do.

FIRST IN 61 YEARS

In Tennessee, where it all began, the legislature passed June 7 its first reapportionment act in 61 years. Proposed by the rural bloc, it gave greater representation to cities and suburbs, but not all to which they felt entitled. Generally, all citizens of equal population on the basis of voting population and the Senate on a vague area basis.

A federal court ruled this was unacceptable but allowed it to stand until the 1963 General Assembly can enact a new one. The court laid down guidelines: At least one house must be apportioned on a strict population basis and the other according to some recognized system or pattern.

The Michigan court decision Wednesday was a victory for August Scholle, a Democratic leader and state AFL-CIO president. He brought the suit alleging that the present Senate districts—of which the largest has about 12 times as many residents as the smallest—violate the U.S. Constitution.

Backers of the present lineup said it provides a system of checks and balances with the House based mainly on population and the Senate partly on area. They said this guards against "excesses of the majority."

PARTY LINES

The Michigan Supreme Court is officially nonpartisan but the vote was along party lines, four Democrats in the majority and three Republicans in the minority. At present Republicans control both houses of the legislature.

Nebraska is unique in the nation in that its legislature has only one house. It has not been redistricted since its creation in 1905. The League of Nebraska Municipalities is going to court in a challenge of present apportionment.

The league also is trying to block a November vote on a constitutional amendment that would direct that in any future redistricting, a weight of 20 to 30 per cent shall be given to geographical area. The constitution now says population shall be the sole guide.

Among other states in which lawsuits are in progress or pending are Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Washington.

In Wisconsin, Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson is at bitter odds with the Republican-controlled legislature on how the state's political districts shall be revamped.

MEASURE VETOED

Nelson vetoed on Tuesday a congressional reapportionment measure. He said it did not comply with "acceptable standards of population equality" and failed to meet objections he made to a previous measure vetoed July 2.

The governor and legislators also do not see eye to eye on re-alignment of the state legislature. Hanging over the dispute is the possibility that a federal court may take over the reapportionment job. A special master named by the court to determine whether and how there should be reapportionment this year set a final hearing on facts for today.

Girl Scout Camp Closes Season

This week marks the end of the residence camping for the 1962 season at Girl Scout Camp Boothe Oaks. Three hundred and nine girls from the 16-county area of the West Texas Council have attended the four sessions of camp

Prestige Fight Over For Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—The three-month prestige battle between the Senate and House Appropriations Committee has ended—for this year.

Settlement terms announced Wednesday add up to a victory for the House. Until the end of this session its senior Appropriations Committee members will share the chairmanship of conference sessions on money bills.

All government departments have been operating under temporary spending authority while the feud raged. The truce clears the way for passage of regular appropriations bills needed to keep the government in business.

The Senate's demand to originate half of the money bills went down the drain. Retained was the Senate's earlier concession to hold the conferences in the old Supreme Court chamber near the center of the Capitol, instead of on the far side of the Senate wing. Traditionally, senators have presided at all conferences.

The House committee, headed by Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., had challenged this procedure, demanding half the sessions be presided over by House members and half be held in the House wing.

The Senate group, headed by Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., in turn demanded the right to originate half the money bills, which now begin in the House.

Peru's Military Reported Holding Politicians Prisoner

Capital Quiet After Demonstrations Broken

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The military junta is reported holding several political bigwigs in custody today after Wednesday's lightning seizure of power.

Although the Cabinet publicly announced no political prisoners were taken in the overthrow of the Prado government, the newspaper La Prensa reported differently. It said that heads of 72-year-old President Manuel Prado, Minister of Government Ricardo Elias Aparicio and others are in custody.

Rumors said that Prado was being held aboard a warship docked at the nearby naval base of Callao but his whereabouts could not be pinned down officially.

Also reported under house arrest were Dr. Jose Enrique Bustamante Corzo, president of the National Electoral Board, and commentator Juan Ramirez Lazo. La Prensa said the broadcaster was seized after he went on the air to speak against the military takeover.

Lima was quiet today after demonstrations that continued into the night. Those demonstrations were broken up quickly by the army whose coup brought sharp rebuffs from hemispheric allies.

Spontaneous demonstrations which were sparked by students and teenagers broke out in the capital in protest against the military takeover of the government to nullify the June 19 national elections.

Troops firing submachine gun bursts into the air and tear gas and police using water cannon and welding torches dispersed the demonstrations.

Three students were reported wounded during the day. A bigger threat to the junta came from the giant Confederation of Labor whose leaders were reported considering a general strike in protest against the military seizure of power. The confederation controls 75 per cent of the nation's labor force.

The United States quickly denounced the coup, suspended diplomatic relations and called for further Alliance for Progress aid which has been pouring into the country at the rate of $75 million a year. The U.S. action stopped short of a full break in diplomatic relations, and U.S. Ambassador James Leah was ordered to remain in Lima to report developments. Such consular relations between the two countries as issuance of visas and commercial arrangements will continue.

U.S. aid projects already under way—school lunches, road, water and sewage work and low-income housing—also will continue but no new U.S. help can be negotiated until Peru gets a government the United States recognizes.

Four Latin American nations—Venezuela, Colombia, Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic—also refused to recognize the military regime and suspended diplomatic relations. Brazil, Mexico and Panama said they were studying the situation.

Some small areas reported heavy precipitation. Others had only light sprinkles. A heavy cloud bank spread across the northeastern skies offered brief promise of a continuation of the welcome rains which had spattered the county Monday and Tuesday. In town, no rain developed.

Moss Creek Lake finally wound up with 120 inches moisture over the two days of rain. Two of the showers were heavy and 4 of an inch fell during one of these in the span of five minutes. A second sudden downpour added another tenth of an inch to account for half an inch of the total moisture received in a remarkably short time.

Check of the county as a whole indicated that while most areas were given good rains there were other sections where the amount of moisture received was not sufficient to meet the needs of farmers and ranchers.

Half an inch of rain fell at the Big Spring-Odesa intake and at the Snyder Station during the day. Lake J. B. Thomas officials reported the lake level was boosted 94 of a foot by the rains.

Funeral services are pending at River Funeral Home for Mrs. Hetie Trusty who died this morning at 6:45 a. m. She had been ill for the past three months.

Mrs. Trusty, 76, was born in Drew County, Ark. June 21, 1886, and had lived in Howard County for the past three years. She resided at 701 Bell in Big Spring and was a member of the Methodist church.

Survivors include three sons, Clyde Trusty, Corpus Christi, Tom Trusty, El Cajon, Calif., and Dall Trusty, Homer, La., two sisters, Mrs. D. C. Pyle, Big Spring, and Mrs. Vera Audin, Pine Bluff, Ark. Also brothers, J. V. Olive, Duncan, Okla. and J. B. Olive, Tahoka, thirteen grand children.

No injuries were reported in a minor accident which occurred at 205 N. Gregg about 7:55 p. m. Wednesday. Drivers involved were Loyce Todd, 600 N.E. 10th, and Luciano S. Lomas, 806 N. Goland.

There wouldn't have been much left except a hole in the ground if it had blown. Leo Hull, assistant police chief, said.

He was referring to 25 sticks of dynamite found in a tin storage shed at Birdwell Lane and FM 700 Wednesday evening.

The cache was found by Eugene Jones, who had bought the structure and was tearing it down for moving. As soon as he uncovered the box and noted the warning printed on it, he notified police, who in turn contacted demolition specialists.

The box was closed and it looked as though it had not been tampered with since it was stored. Patrolman Travis Steele, who went to investigate the matter, said. As soon as I saw what it was, we notified Webb.

The dynamite potentially capable of blowing the building to bits and wrecking things for yards around it, was said to have been in a stable state when it was

Cosden's Income Decline Linked To Softer Prices

Refining capacity in the continental United States is more than a million barrels a day greater than demand for products.

In a nutshell, this is the background for an 18 per cent decline in net income reported today by Cosden Petroleum Corporation for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1962.

"So long as domestic refining capacity exceeds demand, we may reasonably expect soft prices for products," observed R. L. Tollett.

Soft selling prices in gasoline are largely the reason for reversing an encouraging trend during the first quarter of the past fiscal year when the net was up by 13 per cent. Price wars got worse instead of better as expected. In addition, some petrochemical prices were depressed.

Costs, however, did not pay any attention to this. Although gross revenue rose by about 3.2 per cent and although greater productive efficiency was demonstrated, it came more difficult for management to squeeze out a net profit.

Cosden reported net earnings of $3,977,195, the equivalent of $1.20 a share for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1962. The figures compared with $4,770,224, or $1.50 a share for the previous year. Gross operating income climbed to $84,782,644 from $82,131,975.

At $1.47 a share, which is a 10 per cent increase over the $1.34 a share for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1961, the price of Cosden stock rose 10 per cent from $11.50 to $12.65 during the year.

A highlight of the report pointed to the $15,121,351 sales figure attained by petrochemicals to account for an estimated 30 per cent of the company's reportable net income. This was a jump from the previous year when petrochemicals accounted for $10,164,678 of sales and about 25 per cent of net income. Recovery rates in petrochemicals from processed crude oil reached 5.6 per cent, a 4.6 per cent in the previous year.

Cosden has been doing its part to mitigate the product excess. Last year Tollett said Cosden reduced its crude runs by 4.5 per cent. The previous year Cosden had cut crude runs by 6.6 per cent. On the other hand, 15 major refiners last year raised runs by 9.6 per cent. Only half a dozen reduced, and these by 4.3 at the most.

The company is aiming at reductions in costs by adjusting operations for increased efficiency during the current fiscal year, said Tollett.

No offer has yet been prepared for submission to the stockholders for W. R. Grace & Co. which owns 32 per cent of Cosden shares for taking over the assets and liabilities of Cosden. This step has been announced subject to a reserved production payment.

CAT CRACKER REVAMPED
During the past year Cosden applied $2,300,000 in capital expenditures to the refining and chemical division, about 60 per cent of it to the Big Spring refinery. Included was a revamping of the catalytic cracking unit which expanded capacity from 14,000 to 16,000 per stream day. Chemical process units were improved and expanded, and utilities and service facilities were renewed.

An investment of $2,675,000 in Petrochemical sales were about five million dollars more, but approximately half of this was expended in products purchased from others. Cosden's one per cent increase in petrochemical recovery per barrel of crude oil was a significant upgrading of productive efficiency.

Sales to the United States government were down from 10 per cent to about six per cent of total sales during the year. Cosden stopped making aviation gas and jet deliveries declined by 41 per cent. Backbone of fuel sales was in custom refining with 44 per cent of the aggregate gasoline movement in this direction. However, Cosden boosted its own branded sales by 17 per cent.

BIG PAYROLL
At the end of the fiscal year Cosden had 1,050 employees, its Col Tex division 121 for a total of 1,171. Of this number 750 were hourly paid workers, 144 were women. Salaries and wages paid amounted to $8,064,814, up about $560,000 from the previous year.

The number of shares outstanding was 3,024,947 as compared with 3,006,869. During the year Cosden officers exercised options on 46,350 shares at a cost of $860,344.

The year-end equity net book worth in the facilities of Cosden stood at $47,067,234, a gain of one and three-quarters million dollars.

Cosden sold 16,052,000 barrels of products—fuels, asphalt and petrochemicals, 207,000 more than the previous year. Yet it was able to hold refinery runs to 15,880,000 barrels, a decline of 548,000 barrels. Interestingly these raw materials cost $10,650,000, up $710,000 from the previous year's costs.

Production was relatively steady at 1,984,459 barrels of oil and 3,627,388 MCF of gas. Value of production was $5,969,784 or $29,000 more than the previous year. While the net revenue was down it was equal to the arithmetic average of the decline in net income by 10 other oil companies comparable to Cosden semi-integrated status.

sume almost a lethal amount of carbon monoxide, then to have disposed of the facilities used.

Garrison said additional items contributing to the homicide theory was the fact that Marshall suffered a serious brain injury, a cut over his left eye and several severe bruises on the back of his hands. There was blood on both sides and rear of the pickup truck that Marshall had been driving, yet no blood inside. There was a "mysterious dent on the right side of the truck that was caused "by some other instrument other than a human hand or head, indicating the possibility of a struggle on the opposite side of the vehicle from where the body was found."

Another development, Garrison said, was that "investigation revealed that it was difficult for Mr. Marshall to straighten out his right arm, due to a prior injury; therefore it would have been necessary for him to pull the trigger with his left hand."

Garrison said in order for Marshall to shoot himself he would have had "to have had sufficient control of his equilibrium to have fired five bullets into the front of his left abdomen with a .22 caliber bolt action rifle taking it down each time and ejecting the shell."

Garrison added: "Under the circumstances above mentioned, it would have been impossible for him to have shot himself first for the following reasons: There was no blood on the ground other than where the body was found. Autopsy reveals that three of the bullet wounds were incapacitating. Autopsy report also shows that he died quickly from internal hemorrhaging."

Garrison said that in addition to the physical facts of the investigation, "An extensive investigation was conducted to determine whether Mr. Marshall could have had a motive for committing suicide. None could be found. All reports indicate Mr. Marshall was an honest government employee and that his demeanor immediately preceding and on the day of his death gave no indication that he was a man contemplating taking his own life."

Wilson received a copy of Garrison's letter. He had no immediate comment.

Mrs. Bell Dies While Vacationing
Mrs. Lillie Bell, 69, a longtime resident of this area, died of a heart attack today while vacationing in the Llano area. Funeral is pending from the Baker and Sons Funeral Home in Colorado City.

Mrs. Bell was the widow of the late Carl C. Bell. From 1937-1957, they made their home in the Foran and Lees communities. More recently, she had lived with a son at Colorado City.

Survivors include two sons, C. W. Bell, Colorado City, and Carl Bell, Midland.

Conflicting Data In Estes Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators heard conflicting testimony today on the role played by the late Henry Marshall in the Billie Sol Estes case.

The testimony unfolded at a sometimes stormy Senate Investigations subcommittee hearing as the Texas Department of Public Safety announced a new investigation had indicated that Marshall's death was murder, not suicide.

J. Taylor Allen, a Provo, Utah dairy farmer who was Southwest area director of the farm aid program under the Eisenhower administration, testified that Marshall fought Estes' cotton acreage allotments as an illegal scheme.

But Henry S. Carder of Pecos, Tex., a subordinate to Marshall, testified he believed Marshall had changed prior orders to search carefully for evidence of any illegal side agreements in Estes' cotton deals.

Marshall was program specialist in Texas for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service until he died of five gunshot wounds in June 1961.

SUPERVISOR
Carder, a farm aid supervisor of a 20-county area that included Pecos and Reeves counties, to which Estes shifted more than 3,000 acres of cotton allotments.

Carder acknowledged under sharp questioning that there was a direct conflict between his testimony and that of other witnesses. Wednesday who said Marshall had warned his staff to be alert for the Estes' type of deals.

Carder said that as he understood it, Marshall first directed that field agents and county managers have the responsibility for searching out documents indicating any illegality.

But after a Jan. 25, 1961, meeting of field agents at Fort Stockton, Tex., he said "my impression was that we were supposed to get the people (the farmers involved) to see the land, to explain in detail the 'contract' document and have them swear that there were no side agreements."

LEASED BACK
Under Estes' operating plan, he purportedly sold land to holders of unused cotton acreage allotments, many of them in other states, and leased back the land and allotments. The Agriculture Department has ruled the plan was illegal and has imposed $554,000 in penalties on Estes.

Carder said he had twice asked Marshall whether the changed instructions meant that "we were relieved of the responsibility of passing on the legality of the documents."

He said Marshall replied "Yes, you are not lawyers. Yes, you are not lawyers." Allen said he regarded Marshall as a man of very high integrity and said there is no question in his mind that Marshall handled the Estes' case properly.

He testified he sat in on an informal conference Jan. 17, 1961, attended also by Marshall and two of Estes' lawyers among others.

DIDN'T KNOW
Allen said he assumed John Demmon, counsel for Estes, had with him in a brief case copies of contracts which Marshall pronounced illegal. But Allen said nobody in the room asked to see these as far as he now recalls.

Allen said he did not at the time realize the significance of the collapse of Estes' financial empire this year. In fact, he said, "it seemed to me like a routine problem" on which he was content to accept the guidance of Marshall.

Allen said he does recall, however, that Marshall told Demmon that Estes' cotton deals with farmers were illegal and that he would recommend that the Texas State ASC Committee reject them.

Court Reverses Local Verdict
The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday reversed not only the holding of a jury in the Big Spring court but a ruling by the Texas Court of Civil Appeals which sustained Judge Ralph Caton's court. The action was in the appeal taken by Travler's Insurance Co. in a compensation suit brought by Joe Seabolt.

Seabolt filed his petition in the local court May 25, 1960. In his petition he alleged that he was an employee of Boyd J. McDaniel, O.M. 6, 1950 and that an accident which left him with a seriously injured arm and hand.

The case tried here Oct. 3, 1960 terminated in a jury verdict sustaining the plaintiff's position. The insurance company appealed and the Civil Court of Appeals also upheld the local verdict.

The insurance company then appealed to the State Supreme Court. The reversal of both courts was handed down in the rulings of the high court announced Wednesday.

Judge Caton said that he had not received the mandate from the Supreme Court but that he had been watching the case's travels through the appeals courts with interest.

Some Areas Get Moisture

Showers of varied intensities dotted the eastern upper half of the county on Wednesday afternoon.

Some small areas reported heavy precipitation. Others had only light sprinkles. A heavy cloud bank spread across the northeastern skies offered brief promise of a continuation of the welcome rains which had spattered the county Monday and Tuesday. In town, no rain developed.

Moss Creek Lake finally wound up with 120 inches moisture over the two days of rain. Two of the showers were heavy and 4 of an inch fell during one of these in the span of five minutes. A second sudden downpour added another tenth of an inch to account for half an inch of the total moisture received in a remarkably short time.

Check of the county as a whole indicated that while most areas were given good rains there were other sections where the amount of moisture received was not sufficient to meet the needs of farmers and ranchers.

Half an inch of rain fell at the Big Spring-Odesa intake and at the Snyder Station during the day. Lake J. B. Thomas officials reported the lake level was boosted 94 of a foot by the rains.

Funeral services are pending at River Funeral Home for Mrs. Hetie Trusty who died this morning at 6:45 a. m. She had been ill for the past three months.

Mrs. Trusty, 76, was born in Drew County, Ark. June 21, 1886, and had lived in Howard County for the past three years. She resided at 701 Bell in Big Spring and was a member of the Methodist church.

Survivors include three sons, Clyde Trusty, Corpus Christi, Tom Trusty, El Cajon, Calif., and Dall Trusty, Homer, La., two sisters, Mrs. D. C. Pyle, Big Spring, and Mrs. Vera Audin, Pine Bluff, Ark. Also brothers, J. V. Olive, Duncan, Okla. and J. B. Olive, Tahoka, thirteen grand children.

No injuries were reported in a minor accident which occurred at 205 N. Gregg about 7:55 p. m. Wednesday. Drivers involved were Loyce Todd, 600 N.E. 10th, and Luciano S. Lomas, 806 N. Goland.

There wouldn't have been much left except a hole in the ground if it had blown. Leo Hull, assistant police chief, said.

He was referring to 25 sticks of dynamite found in a tin storage shed at Birdwell Lane and FM 700 Wednesday evening.

The cache was found by Eugene Jones, who had bought the structure and was tearing it down for moving. As soon as he uncovered the box and noted the warning printed on it, he notified police, who in turn contacted demolition specialists.

The box was closed and it looked as though it had not been tampered with since it was stored. Patrolman Travis Steele, who went to investigate the matter, said. As soon as I saw what it was, we notified Webb.

The dynamite potentially capable of blowing the building to bits and wrecking things for yards around it, was said to have been in a stable state when it was

Indian Day Camp Ends In Campout

A special campout program Friday evening will mark the end of the second YMCA Indian Day Camp which began July 4.

The campout program for boys and their parents will begin in the city park at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Indian dances songs and acts will be presented and awards will be given.

Following the campout a father-son overnight encampment will be held ending Saturday morning with a breakfast cookout.

Ha! Who Says College Grid Game Withering On Vine?

By HAROLD V. KATLIFF, Associated Press Sports Writer

For a decade now the pros have been forecasting the end of college football at least of big-time variety. They say the pro game will draw the fans because it is so much more thrilling and so much better to watch.

There is no question but that college football lacks the movement of pro football which has been designed primarily to attract fans. Teams score as many as five touchdowns and still get beat. Millions watch pro football on the field or on television.

Bulldog Turner, the Hardin Simons great who seep into pro football and became the all-time top center, now is coaching New York of the American Football League. Turner was quoted as saying "pretty soon, it won't be long the colleges will just be a proving ground for the pros."

It is quite strange that for eight straight years college football in the nation has shown an attendance increase. For instance 1961 saw 616 senior colleges draw 20,677,604 fans—the all-time high.

Southwest Conference attendance last fall was 1,404,010 for 42 games. That was an increase over 1960 of almost 160,000. In fact it was the highest for the conference in four years and lacked only about 23,000 of the all-time high in 1957.

Truth of the matter is college football will always draw enough fans to keep going in big-time style. College football has something pro football doesn't have or ever will have—the alumni.

NEWTON SQUARE, Pa. (AP)—You can't pick any one player to beat Arnold Palmer in the 44th Professional Golfers' Association championship starting today over the hilly Aronimink course just outside Philadelphia.

Harold Sargent, honorary president of the PGA, probably should be listed as a member of Arnie's Army, the excited, shouting, obviously partisan crowd that turns out every time the Latrobe, Pa., muscle man hits a defenseless little white ball.

At that, Sargent is giving himself the edge on the listed odds, which name Palmer as a 2-1 favorite with U.S. Open champion Nicklaus as a 3-1 second choice.

Look over the records for the past few years and you'll see that it has been a 2-man race between Palmer and Casper for the most winning title. And this year latter is up there in second place and Nicklaus is fourth.

to keep going in big-time style. College football has something pro football doesn't have or ever will have—the alumni. The ex-student doesn't care what kind of football his favored team plays so long as it wins. He isn't concerned with the dullness of the game, the three yards and a cloud of dust of the hum-drum split T formation.

It can draw a big crowd anywhere it might play. The Texas-Oklahoma game has been a sellout months in advance for 15 years. Pro football hasn't given it any trouble and never will because there are enough ex-students of the two schools that there will be a sellout crowd if the game is played in a pasture at Chilton Switch Junction.

He replaces Dick Littlefield, who was fired Monday by general manager Ray Johnston. Murray had been promoted to coach from the public relations and promotion department of the Rangers about a month ago. He is a former major leaguer and coached in the Texas League for four years.

At 7 p.m. today the Lakers will take on the Celtics, and the Hawks will meet the Knicks at 8:15 p.m. Al Ferro was perhaps the outstanding man Tuesday evening with his passing and rebounding Box scores:

JFK's Yacht Not Much, But She's A Honey

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — She's a rather ancient vessel, not especially handsome, isn't much use for an overnight cruise and really isn't fit for an ocean voyage.

But to President Kennedy, she's a precious geyser of fun from harassment.

She's the Honey Fitz, the presidential yacht.

Whether in Washington, Newport or Palm Beach, the Honey Fitz stands by to transport the chief executive from the pressures of landlocked office to relaxing respites at sea.

LOVES WATER
Kennedy loves the water. He swims for recreation as well as exercise. As a youth he sailed sloops in competition with his brothers and other sailors at Hyannis Port. As president he finds a few hours afloat—lounging in his leather chair on the Honey Fitz fantail—an unsurpassed tonic.

He also finds the Honey Fitz a comfortable refuge on which to entertain and talk business with visiting dignitaries and administration officials.

Thus Kennedy played host to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Japanese Premier Hayato Ikeda on rides down the Potomac River last spring.

STATE DINNER
With Mrs. Kennedy, he used the Honey Fitz to take President Ayub Khan of Pakistan to Mt. Vernon for an outdoor state dinner. At Newport, he and Prime Minister Nehru of India opened their conference last November while cruising on Narragansett Bay.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, cabinet members Dean Rusk and Robert S. McNamara, U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and others have discussed high policy with Kennedy on the Honey Fitz.

Only in the last year has the Honey Fitz been a vehicle for history in the making. Previously, she had drifted on the fringe as an escort vessel for Secret Service agents trailing the Williamsburg, the presidential yacht in Harry S. Truman's day.

SIR WINNIE
The Honey Fitz then the Lenox floated nearby as Truman and Winston Churchill sat aboard the Williamsburg on Jan. 3, 1952, and resolved to strengthen Western Europe's defenses and check Communist aggression in Korea and Southeast Asia.

The Williamsburg and Honey Fitz were built the same year, 1941, but display no kinship. The Williamsburg, measuring 244 feet from stern to stern, the Honey Fitz 82 feet in length.

As Honey Fitz, she bears the nickname of Kennedy's maternal grandfather, the late John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor and Democratic mayor of Boston in the early part of the century.

PATROL DUTY
The government acquired the vessel in 1942 from the Coast Guard from its first owner, Sewall Avery, a Montrosses Ward and Co. executive. She transferred to the Navy in 1945 after serving a hitch of patrol duty in lower Chesapeake Bay.

The vessel was conditioned, raised, stored and fitted with four engines at an estimated cost of $400,000 after Dwight D. Eisenhower became president.

U.S. Optimistic On Our Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a boost by Russian Premier Khrushchev of an ultimatum that the United States must withdraw its missiles from Cuba, the Defense Department still thinks U.S. missiles can penetrate to their targets.

We think our knowledge of the missile systems is as good or better than theirs, Pentagon spokesman remarked when asked about Khrushchev's statement.

We are satisfied our missiles can penetrate to their targets.

No Women For Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American part of space races is to remain an all-male affair, some NASA officials told the National Aeronautics and Space Administration today in explaining why women have failed to qualify for membership in the exclusive astronaut club.

George M. Low, director of spacecraft operations for NASA, said none of the six women among 250 applicants for astronaut training have been able to meet all of the stringent qualifications established earlier this year.

Low also told the House Science and Astronautics Committee that the pool of qualified men was more than ample to meet the need for the 40 to 50 astronauts required to carry out present planned space explorations.

Currie, Milch To Head Cox's County Campaign

AL MILCH and JOHN CURRIE, both of Big Spring, have accepted the co-chairmanship of the Clark Cox campaign in Howard County.

The announcement was made by Hal Scales of Athens, campaign chairman for the 24th Senatorial District.

Other county campaign leaders in the senatorial district are: Rich Anderson (Paul Borden County), B. L. Fouts (Haskell County), Ed Patton (Rotan, F. West and Grover Carothers Stamford, Jones County; Ladd McAtter, Jayton, Kerr County; Don Butler, Comstock, Mitchell County.

Also, Moe Reich, Sweetwater, Nolan County; Gordon Dyart Snyder, Seely County; John Rex Jones, Albany, Shackelford County; Fred Martin, Ackerly, Stonewall County; Ray Gosham and Savley, Ackerly, Taylor County.

Cox served three terms in the Texas Legislature, being elected in 1946, 1948 and 1950.

In his first statewide bid for political office, Cox polled more than 600,000 votes for governor in 1960. In 1961, Cox started publicly that he felt his conservative principles were no longer welcome in the Democratic Party and offered his services to the new, of Texas through the Republican Party.

GILMER, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge Morris Ralston in a non-contested election, suit ruling has declared Bill Jones winner by one vote of the Democratic nomination for county tax assessor-elect.

Individualist Loses Fight, So Does Foe

NEW YORK (AP) — David Winston, 76, a rugged individualist, defied himself against the New Haven Railroad. He lost, but so did the railroad.

Winston, a retired stock broker who lives in Manhattan, boarded a New Haven train for Boston. When the conductor asked for his ticket, Winston informed him that he had none and had no intention of buying one.

Winston said that for years he has been traveling without tickets on railroads and airlines. He explained that he liked to be billed afterward, as in restaurants.

The conductor said the New Haven Railroad is not a restaurant.

Winston said he saw no reason why he couldn't charge his ticket. The conductor asked Winston to leave the train. Winston refused. The conductor insisted.

Winston, according to the conductor, became "loud and boisterous." The conductor called railroad police who took Winston to Manhattan arrest court where he was paroled pending trial next Tuesday on a charge of disorderly conduct.

His tiff with the conductor delayed the train to Boston 14 minutes.

Crash Victim Is Identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Air Force instructor killed in a take-off crash 200 miles northeast of Saigon Monday. He was the only American aboard.

He was identified as Capt. W. R. Bunker III of Bartlett.

Bunker was one of 23 persons killed when a Vietnamese Air Force transport crashed on take-off 200 miles northeast of Saigon Monday. He was the only American aboard.

Growth Of Equine Popularity Has Added New Wrinkle To 4-H Work

By BOB GRAY
Ed., Texas Horseman Magazine
Written For The Associated Press

There's a new wrinkle to 4-H activity in Texas—and it has brought another dimension to the work of the state's county agents. In the past four years 4-H Horse Clubs have been organized in roughly two-thirds of the 254 counties. The number of such clubs has tripled since 1959—and the number of 4-H Horse Club members doubled in the 1960-1961 year alone.

Growth of 4-H Horse Club activities has paralleled the rapid growth of the light horse industry itself—not only in Texas but throughout the nation. Statistics from the office of Floyd Lynch, State 4-H Club leader at College Station, tell the Texas story.

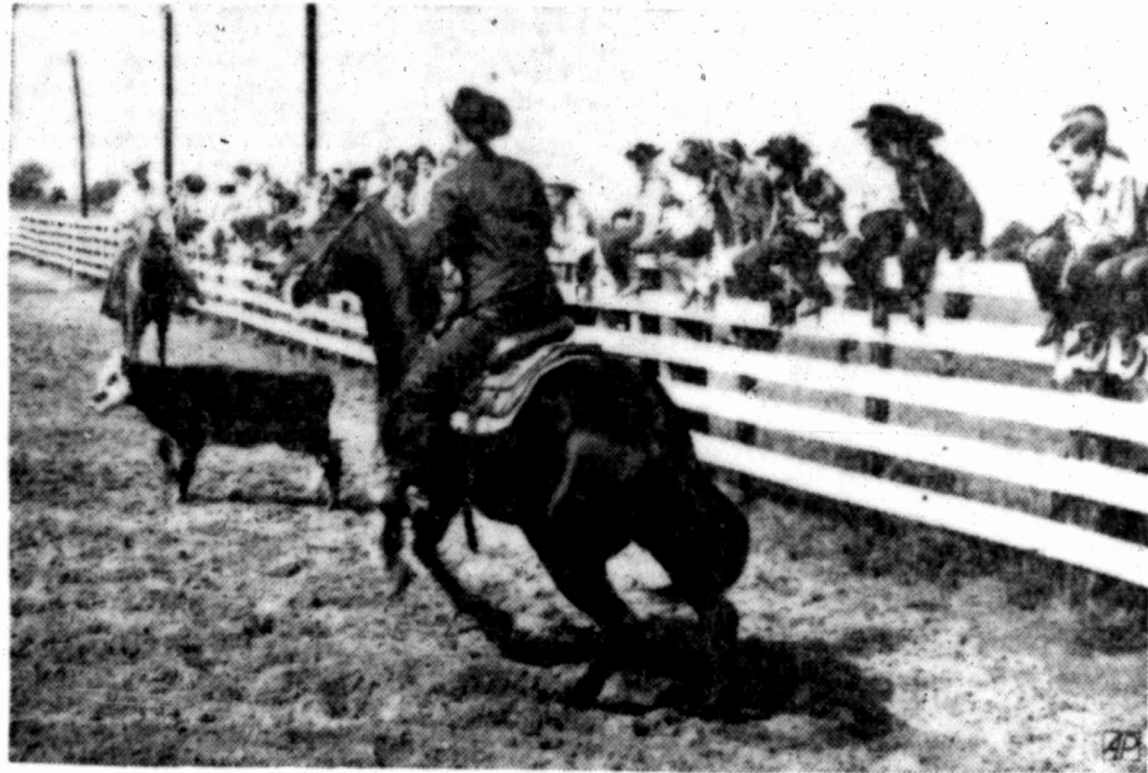

In 1959, some 71 Texas counties had 4-H Horse Clubs, with total membership of 677. In 1960, the number of county clubs jumped to 97 with 908 members. And in 1961, there were 161 counties with 4-H horse groups with membership totaling 1,853.

LITTLE DOUBT

There is little doubt in the minds of the state's 4-H officials that this trend will continue until nearly every Texas county has at least one horse club within the 4-H framework.

This has meant a challenging new work load in the laps of Texas county agents. Writing in the current July issue of The Texas Horseman Magazine, assistant Harris County agent Billy Steele outlines the steps that his county took to set up what may well be Texas' largest and most active 4-H horse activity.

First, says Steele, a meeting was called of horse breeders in the county as well as other civic-minded citizens who might help support a horse program. An organizing or steering committee was formed from this group. Then a public meeting was held so that all interested youngsters and their parents could be briefed on the group's plans. About 100 boys and girls—from 9 to 20 years old—signed up, free of charge, for 4-H horse club membership. This was in August 1960.

4-H Club Demonstration

Trainer Don Munn shows members of the Harris County 4-H Horse Club some of the essentials of the cutting contest, while the club was in its observing-demonstration phase.

FIELD TRIPS

The group next began a monthly meeting series of trips to major horse breeding and training farms and ranches in the Harris County area. Demonstrations were held, there were question and answer sessions and the members got a clear idea about modern day horse farm operations.

In early 1961 the club began a series of monthly field days, which actually turned into youth horse shows. Six halter classes, covering all kinds of registered or grade mares and geldings, were judged, along with three performance classes. Professional trainers or judges donated their services to judge the shows. Business firms in the area picked up the tab for six ribbons in each class. It was discovered that no money was needed to run the club at all, in fact, and no budget was ever set up.

ENTHUSIASM

Enthusiasm by young members and their parents was immediately apparent. Where approximately 35 horses turned out for the first show, twice that many were competing six months later. At the first of the Harris County 4-H

Horse Club shows in 1962, there were 111 horses entered.

Since there was no ready blueprint for organizing and running such a club, assistant county agent Steele and his organizing committee had to make up ground rules as they went along. Steele himself worked a lot of extra hours—and since the administrative work of sending out notices and bulletins was handled through the county agent's office, it did add some to the secretarial work load.

PUBLIC SUPPORT

The program—besides the obvious benefits it immediately brought to the young people involved—got excellent public support. Breeders in the area donated five colts—four of them registered—to the high point 4-H club members of 1961. It is expected that even more colts will be awarded this year. Others donated trophy buckles and merchandise prizes and free mare breedings to registered stallions.

"In just a few months last year," writes Steele, "we saw boys and girls who were totally unfamiliar with horses learn to expertly show a horse in a halter class. We saw their horse get sick and firm, in fine condition. We saw them ride those horses with a skill we knew came only from their own practice at home—practice inspired by the club's competition."

MAY STILL GROW

In recent months Steele and his colleagues have made trips to adjoining counties to advise other county agents on organizing similar groups—and it would not surprise program officials if nearly 200 Texas counties had such clubs by the end of 1962. It is doubtful whether any such youth activity in Texas has seen such growth in such a short time; there was practically no such animal as a 4-H Horse Club in Texas just five years ago.

Cowboy: "Don't rightly know. But I sure must be late. Everybody's coming back."

House Panel Okays Padre Isle Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Interior Committee has approved a bill to authorize establishment of a national seashore recreational area on Padre Island off Texas.

The measure calls for an 81-mile-long park on the 117-mile narrow island which skirts the coast between Corpus Christi and Port Isabel.

The House committee bill represents a compromise in relation to a measure already passed by the Senate authorizing an 88-mile long park.

As introduced by Reps. Joe Kilgore and John Young the proposal called for a 68-mile-long seashore area to be administered by the National Park Service.

The north end of the seashore area would include Bird Island a few miles south of Corpus Christi. The south end would extend to the Wilacy-Cameron County line.

From the Port Mansfield cut south to the Wilacy-Cameron County line, a distance of about 12 miles, only half of the island would be in the park. The park section would be on the gulf side, the western or Laguna side would remain in private ownership.

Kilgore worked out the version approved by the House committee after conferences with spokesmen for landowners and the interior department, which includes the National Park Service.

The area which had been the subject of controversy was on the southern end of the island. The House bill would authorize $5 million for land acquisition for the seashore area, as compared to $4 million under the Senate bill.

Loves To Buy Clothes

Patrice Munsel says she loves clothes and tries to buy them all at one time. She finds that she can have a larger wardrobe if she buys most of her things to mix and match and is teaching her daughter to do the same. She has recently made a new jazz album called "Unpredictable."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Patrice Munsel Goes On A Shopping Spree

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — When I arrived at Patrice Munsel's Malibu house she was wearing a bikini, but a moment later changed into red checked gingham capris with a matching jacket. "I have a reason for wearing a bikini," Miss Munsel said when I mentioned her slim figure. "It gives me an incentive to keep my stomach flat. I do special exercises take ballet lessons and swim to keep in shape."
Miss Munsel's husband joined us briefly, and it was obvious they have a deep affection for each other. She is married to Robert Schuler.

"We have been married 10 years. We work together, vacation together and we are rarely separated, which is supposed to be the kiss of death in marriage but we enjoy each other more all the time. I am so fortunate. I try as much as possible to appreciate everything in life because one never knows when it will end. Marriage is like handling a fast moving car, you should never take your hands off the steering wheel. Many marriages break up because of carelessness and boredom," Miss Munsel observed.
Miss Munsel was singing in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York when she was 18. Since then she has toured the country and appeared many times on television and in motion pictures.
"I am very fortunate," she admitted, "but I have also worked very hard. Now I have a new excitement — my first jazz album, 'Unpredictable.' I have been singing jazz for relaxation, but this is the first time I've cut such a record."

Miss Munsel chatted about her plans after she finishes her tour of "The Song of Norway."
"I am going on a shopping spree. I love clothes. And I try to buy them all at one time. I have grown by my mistakes. Maturity takes time and fashion is

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

It's a good thing Europe has a lot of old, beautiful and cultural things to take the American tourist's mind off of water. The drinking type, that is. Without exception everyone we have talked to about their European tours beams the fact that the people of Europe just don't seem to give a fig about a good cold drink of agua pura. In fact they don't even drink warm agua pura. There's lots of water there. Think of all the water in Venice, the beautiful rivers that flow gently and rambunctiously. Someone ought to do something about purifying it and have enough for the thirsty Americans to have when they visit the old country. MRS. W. A. HUNT, while there, says she thought longingly of America and a glass of water with ice in it. She, like many others, also wished for a good old cup of American-made coffee. But the beauty of the cathedrals, the art of centuries and the color of the flowers overcame the desire for the little things Americans take for granted.

ANNE HOMAN, daughter of MR. and MRS. HAROLD HOMAN, is en route to Mexico City where she will spend six weeks in study. She is in a group of 36 students from Texas Tech who will be under the supervision of Dr. T. Earl Hamilton. The students are studying the art, culture and history of the Spanish in Mexico. Their work will include visits to volcanoes, cathedrals and other places of historical interest. Miss Homan is a Spanish major and is a second year student at the college.

MR. and MRS. BILL McREE have returned from their vacation spent in Denver, Colo., where they had the equivalent of a family reunion. They had gone to Lawrence, Kan., where they visited and were joined by her mother, MRS. WILLIAM FROWE, who accompanied them to Denver. Here they met BILL DROKE, daughter Kathy's fiance, and were guests of the CHARLES DOWALIBYS (she's the eldest McRee daughter). Cathy is staying in Denver this summer and plans to teach there next school term.

When the McRees left Denver they spent some time in the Rocky Mountain National Park and then visited their other daughter and her family, the W. R. CREAGARS, in Roswell, N. M., before returning here.

Evening Party Is Given For The Snyders

A scroll was received by Maj. Frank Snyder and a momento of Webb Air Force base, an engraved silver tray, received by Mrs. Snyder at a Wednesday evening party given by Col. and Mrs. Wilson Banks. The informal party at the Banks home, 1 Albrook, was given as a farewell gesture to the Snyders who leave this weekend for his new assignment in Canada.
Junior members of the Snyder family were guests of Col. and Mrs. Banks' daughter, Jacqueline, hostess for an all night pajama party, also Wednesday night.

GARDEN CITY, SC. — V. A. Palmer, Sweetwater, spent the weekend here visiting his son, Curtis Palmer, and family. Another guest of the Palmers has been Gene Cunningham, Lubbock. Sharon Cypert is visiting in Odessa with her sister, Mrs. George Cole.

Mrs. B. E. Burton Is Installed Noble Grand

STANTON, SC. — Mrs. B. E. Burton was installed as noble grand at Stanton Rebekah Lodge No. 28 Monday evening at the IOOF Hall. Mrs. Burnam and staff were in charge of the formal installation.
Mrs. John Wilkes was installed as vice grand for the ensuing term. Other officers installed were Mrs. Johnny Myrick, warden; Mrs. Arthur Posey, conductor; Mrs. Burnam, right supporter to the noble grand; Mrs. Roy Lynney, left supporter to the noble grand; Mrs. Virgie Johnson, left supporter to chaplain Miss Sammiee Laws, right supporter to chaplain; Mrs. C. S. Bevers, outside guardian; Mrs. Leroy Fincher, color bearer; Mrs. C. E. Christopher, right supporter to vice grand; Mrs. Jim McCoy, left supporter to vice grand; and Mrs. Walter Graves, musician.

Westbrook Principal Accompanies Group

WESTBROOK, SC. — Charles R. Hutchins, principal of the Westbrook High school, is in Old Mexico this week. He accompanied a group of science students and professors from Texas Tech where he is attending school this summer. The group left Lubbock last Saturday and plan to be gone eight days.
Guests of the Altis Cimmers Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ferguson, Lubbock and Billy Ferguson, San Diego, California. Billy is stationed with the Navy in San Diego and is on a 15-day leave with his parents in Lubbock. They are former residents of Westbrook.

Big Roundup Opening Is Minus Robin Hill

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Girl Scout Robin Hill wasn't present for the opening of the big Roundup, Wednesday at Button Bay State Park in Vermont, but she is celebrating the 50th anniversary of Girl Scouting while learning to cook. She is serving as kitchen aid in a Girl Scout camp this summer.
A senior at Hunter High School in New York, Robin is an avid camper.
"You can't get a fire started by rubbing two sticks together," says Robin. "It's better to use two matches."
That myth was built up around the Boy Scouts, she says. When you go camping it's better to observe the Girl Scouts motto and "Be Prepared," with the essentials — knife, matches, compass.
"Then if you were stranded in the woods you could be warm and cozy, even though it was windy, cold and snowing," Robin says. Suppose you want to build a shelter — while your teeth are chattering?
"Simple," says 16-year-old Robin with the aplomb of a seasoned Scout. "Look for two trees, fairly close together, near the beaten trail, if possible. Pine are good, hemlocks preferably. Collect wood and attach two pieces between the two trees (with some cord you hope you have with you)."
"Fill in the area within the trees with some boughs, and you have a lean-to (which should be built against the wind.) Three big hemlock branches make a fine bed. Put them on the ground after drying. If damp, dry them over a fire you can make with thin tinder taken from underneath a tree where it is dry."
SHE PREFERS CAMPING
Girl Scouts usually have a couple of chocolate bars on tap in their knapsacks, she advises. These are brought along for the trip home, but they come in handy if you need to sustain yourself for awhile.
Robin's favorite Girl Scout activity is camping. She has been hiking since 2 when her father, a Yugoslavian who loves to hike, and "knows all the trails," took her on a two-hour hike to the top of a Massachusetts mountain.

"I earned a knapsack on that trip, and I've been walking ever since," says blonde Robin.
She joined the Girl Scouts at 9, and hiked with the Brownies mainly to local parks in New York. As an Intermediate, she hiked upstate. As a Senior Scout she specializes in camping.
GOOD FOR COMPLEXION
"I've hiked about 350 miles, I guess. There are many wonderful trails such as the Appalachian which runs from Maine to Georgia, more than 2,000 miles. Some like to specialize in that kind of hike, marking off sections between shelters. But one can hike anywhere even in a teeming city for great satisfaction," she says.
Hiking and camping are good for the complexion and for physical fitness, she points out.
"It's a wonderful life and the fact that President Kennedy is aware of the need for better physical fitness in America will make more young people aware of it," she says.
WANTS TO BE COUNSELOR
Robin would like to become a Girl Scout camp counselor and wants to be a school teacher. Her Scout pins include the curved bar, the highest rank in Intermediate scouting; the five-point pin, Senior Scout pin; program-A bar and the trailblazer badge which signifies U. S. membership in the world organization.
She will miss attending the Roundup July 18-21, in celebration of the Girl Scouts 50th Anniversary. There will be 8,500 Senior Girl Scouts from over the country, 200 girls from foreign countries and 1,500 adults will pitch 6,000 tents at Button Bay State Park in Vermont making the area the 6th largest city in Vermont for two weeks.
As a kitchen aid Robin says "It's a wonderful way to learn to cook." She explains that it will help prepare her for the camp counseling she wants to do later.

Plans Are Completed For Study

Spoudazio Fora members met in the home of Mrs. Bob Bright, 201 Jefferson, Wednesday evening to complete plans for the '62-63 course of study.
Mrs. J. W. Dickens presented the program outline entitled "Women — Sharing the Great, Common, Human Heart." The theme is from the club collect of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.
The study course, along with proposed meeting dates and assigned hostesses were approved by the membership for yearbook publication.
Department chairmen were named by Mrs. Bright as follows: general federation, Mrs. Richard Patterson; conservation, Mrs. Hulan Harris; education, Mrs. Ben Erwin; fine arts, Mrs. Ennis Cochran; home life, Mrs. J. W. Dickens; international affairs, Mrs. Bill Coleman; public affairs, Mrs. J. M. Hill; and Council of International Clubs, Mrs. James C. Jones.
Next season's club project will be in the field of children's welfare, and plans were made to assist in several phases of this work.
Opening the fall season, a salad supper will be held at the home of Mrs. Don Farley, 1503 Kentucky, with the executive committee serving as hostesses.

New Way To Do Summer Cottons

Special for this summer only, you can dryclean your summer cotton dresses and they will be sized for you at no charge. This means no sprinkling or starching is needed. Just dry iron them for the best looking cottons you have ever been able to do yourself. Colors are brighter and your clothes are also deodorized. This process is exclusive with us for our coin operated drycleaners. You can do about six cotton dresses for the same low price of $1.50.

European Tour Topic For Auxiliary Talk

Americans in Europe are constantly reminded of the newness of their nation and its richness, according to Mrs. W. A. Hunt who was speaker for the Downtown Lions Auxiliary Wednesday.
The affair was a coffee given in the home of Mrs. J. H. Greene, with Mrs. Joe Pond as cohostess. Three guests, Mrs. Melvin J. Wise of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Curtis Camp and Mrs. Bill Greene, joined 19 members for the morning affair.
Mrs. Hunt entitled her talk "A Glimpse at Europe," using a map to show the itinerary of the tour group headed specifically for Vice-Fragny and the Lions International Convention.
The tour touched on 10 countries and principalities. The speaker described the beauty of the Austrian Tyrol, the Swiss and Austrian Alps, the Italian and French Riviera and particularly the tulip beds in Holland.
The scars of war gradually are being erased in Austria, Germany and France, according to Mrs. Hunt, but some are still apparent in Holland, England and Belgium.
One hundred and seven teen countries were represented at the convention with a large delegation included from Texas. One outstanding address heard by the group was that given by the woman who took Dag Hammarskjold's place in the United Nations. She urged the Lions and their ladies to acquaint themselves with the actions and aims of the United Nations and to give it their enthusiastic support. The International president called on the Lions to keep in touch with situations of need throughout the world and help when called upon.
Mrs. John L. Dibrell, president, served coffee from the table laid with a cloth of pastel green linen cutwork. The centerpiece was of shasta daisies.

Conference Draws Crowd

WESTBROOK, SC. — One hundred twenty-five persons attended the Mitchell-Scurry Workers Conference at the Westbrook Baptist Church recently.
Mrs. Robert Wood and baby returned to their home in Abilene Sunday after a visit with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Taylor.
Mrs. Lonnie Wilkerson and son are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rees. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson have been in Louisiana where Wilkerson is serving Army duty at Fort Polk in the 49th Division of the National Guard. He will be discharged Aug. 6.
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rees and Mrs. Robert Rees and son were in East Texas over the weekend to attend the funeral of an aunt of Mr. Rees.

Buckner Makes Dean's Honor List

It was announced that Tommy Buckner was accepted on the dean's honor list at Texas Technological College for the past two semesters. Buckner, an animal husbandry major, will enroll at Texas Tech this fall as a senior. Students must attain a grade point ratio of 2.0 or better to qualify for the honor list.

CLAY ON BERLIN:

Reds Need Big Stick

By SAUL PETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

The man who broke the Stalin era blockade of Berlin warns that the Kremlin must understand and believe the West will resist with force if the Russians go too far in their drive to evict the Allies.

"Unless we make them understand where they are going to be met with resistance, one of these days they're going to go too far and we're going to have no choice but war," says Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special representative to Berlin.

But Clay is optimistic that war can be prevented and that some day he puts no date on it—there will be a reunified, free Germany.

Clay's views are set forth in an exhaustive question-and-answer explanation of the personal Berlin crisis, once again pushed into the headlines by Premier Khrushchev's demands.

This is the second of two sections of the exclusive interview with the Associated Press.

Q: General, before you went over last September you said you thought there might be some room for give and take toward a Berlin solution. You made clear you felt this might be an area not involving our basic rights. Do you still feel that way?

A: I think there is room if the regime running East Germany is so involved in policing the highways that they would insist on the Soviet troops now doing it, then there is a possibility this could be made an international highway. If it could be set up under international police with complete freedom of movement on the highway, except as controlled by international police for both Allies and Germans, I would think this would be a trade we could well accept.

Q: Has this area been explored?

A: This is one of the areas which we have been exploring. I am sure with our allies it has not yet been explored with the Soviet government because the talks have not progressed to that degree.

GREATLY IMPROVED

Q: The West prepared to react immediately to any new Soviet aggressive move?

A: The machinery to get prompt Allied reaction has been greatly improved. And for a great many contingencies there could be and would be instant reaction. There are still fields in which the contingency planning does not cover immediate action in Berlin. These are in the cases which are so close to the instance which would cause war as to require perhaps a period of pause and consideration before instant action. But I would say that by and large the ability of the Allies to react in Berlin is better now than it has been for many years. I would think that if there were any real tampering with the movement of goods to and from Berlin and of Germans to and from Berlin, that before we use a physical means we would resort to economic blockades rather than aggressive action. The intensity of what we would do would of course depend somewhat on the intensity of what they did. But I think you can appreciate the fact that the Allies would respond to a blockade of Berlin with a massive blockade of the Communist countries. It could be a very effective and tremendous tool.

DEFINITION OF WAR

Q: What sort of move on their part would bring a more serious reaction on our part—in other words war?

A: You've got to differentiate between the moves to blockade

Berlin and, by attrition, to cause it to fold up. The latter would require months of action and could be met, at least in its initial stages, with counter measures in the economic and blockade field. On the other hand if you have got a physical move into Berlin by either East German or Soviet troops, or by infiltration, if you've got the use of physical forces to stop Allied movements on the highways, then you would have a situation in which it would seem to be our response would almost have to be physical.

Q: As the President's personal representative in Berlin, did you have any difficulty reaching him, getting his ear?

A: None whatsoever. Things which I considered important enough to go to the President I not only reached him quickly; I also had his support.

Q: There were moments of such urgency that you did pick up the phone and call the President directly?

A: A few. There were not very many.

POLICY RISKS

Q: Generally, you feel that you and the administration are in agreement on Berlin policy?

A: Long pause. Well, I would like to express it a little differently. The general policy of the administration and the commitments as expressed by the President to my mind represent a stand on which we can be very proud and which if we maintain, will, I'm sure, save Berlin and Europe. Now I must explain right now that some of these commitments which we have made have not been made—at least not publicly—by all the members of the Alliance. I would hope that the views of the United States can be made to prevail in the Alliance.

This is one of the things that is very difficult for our own people to understand. We have a position of our own. But we cannot break up the Alliance to maintain our position.

A PATTERN

Q: In the areas where you did disagree with some of your colleagues on the Berlin situation, did it follow a pattern where generally you found yourself favoring stronger action or reaction than they did?

A: Well, I think it would be very difficult for me to say that it didn't follow that kind of pattern because it's too well known that my own views have been that we must always take a strong stand in dealing with the Soviet government. A stand which they can understand and believe. Now this is to me essential to prevent war because unless we make them understand where they are going to be met with resistance, one of these days they're going to go too far and we're going to have no choice but war. Therefore I think we have to make them understand that any step they take over a special line—of course this is getting down to a much clearer definition than actually exists—that it means they're going to be met with force that they can only cross that line by using force. If we can establish that understanding, then I think war is most unlikely. I think that we have in our minds pretty well drawn that line. But I'm not too sure that the entire Allied organization accepts the same line.

WALL'S STILL THERE

Q: Is there any possibility of the wall coming down now short of meeting Moscow's demands?

A: No. I don't think so. If it did come down there would be a mass migration from East Germany into West Germany. This is something that would destroy completely the Ulbricht regime and the East German economy.

Q: Since it's too late to bring it down by force, we're not likely to negotiate it down?

A: I think that what we have got is the possibility of working out an arrangement on a humanitarian basis where at least families from West Berlin can go over and visit their relatives in East Berlin and return in safety. This is all I can foresee as likely to happen in the immediate future.

Q: Looking far into the future, what do you think ultimately will be the status of Berlin?

A: Well, West Berlin has now lived for 17 years behind the Iron Curtain. Since 1947 it has lived in an atmosphere of a Communist regime. In that period, it has grown and prospered and become again a great city. It has been able to do this for 15 years. I see no reason why it shouldn't continue to live and prosper as a free city until there is a final solution even though it takes a great many years. Ultimately, it seems to me that with peace in the world there is certain to come a day when we have a reunified Germany, reunified in the sense of a free and democratic Germany as has developed in the Federal Republic. Now when and how this will come about is certainly something that I would not want to prophesy.

Decrees Revoked

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—A series of emergency measures decreed during Greece's 1946-49 war against Communist rebels, including a provision for search without warrant, was revoked Wednesday by a legislative committee acting for the recessed parliament. A ban on the Communist party, however, was retained.

Whale Cavorts In Eastern River

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A 20-foot blackfish, a species of whale, cavorted in the Providence River Wednesday night.

The blackfish, which first appeared here Monday, drew its biggest crowds Wednesday night, and gave police a king-size traffic problem as sightseers converged on Point Street Bridge to have a look at the visitor.

City and state officials threw a protective shield around the whale and ordered an end to attempts to harpoon it.

Teen Dance Set

The Classics of Odessa, a well-known combo among the younger set, will play for a dance in the YMCA gymnasium Friday evening. The dance, which is open to non-members of the Y, as well as members, will begin at 8 p.m. and terminate at midnight.

The snack bar at the Y will be open during the dance. Charge is $1 per person, proceeds of which will go to the Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y Council.

The regular Friday night family swim will be held from 7 to 9 p.m., but there will be no gymnasium period this week.

U.A.R. Refuses Entry To Actress

CAIRO (AP)—The United Arab Republic has refused to grant actress Elizabeth Taylor an entry visa because she has adopted the Jewish faith and supported Israeli causes, the newspaper Al-Ahram reported today.

Richard Burton, Miss Taylor's costar in the movie "Cleopatra" and her constant companion in Rome, arrived here Monday and said she also is trying to come for final outdoor scenes for the movie. Otherwise, he said, they will have to be filmed elsewhere.

Miss Taylor is in Switzerland.

Opposing Sides In Suit Agree To Trade Tests

LONGVIEW (AP)—Continental Oil Co. and a group of operators the firm is suing have agreed to trade tests of wells involved in the East Texas slanted drilling probe.

Five Continental wells on the Reddie lease south of Kilgore will be the first of a major oil company to figure in the investigation, starting by the state several months ago.

The Texas Railroad Commission has reported discovery so far of 55 wells in the East Texas Field drilled at illegal angles or curves to drain oil from adjoining leases.

Defense lawyer Fred Erisman advised Conoco lawyer William Choate in district court Wednesday that his clients were withdrawing objections to letting Continental survey 11 wells on the Amex-Bob Wood lease near Longview.

Erisman said operators of these wells at the same time were accepting a July 3 offer by Continental to let them check the five wells on the Reddie lease.

Under the agreement, each side will post $200,000 bond to cover any damage and promised to identify its survey crews to the other in advance. Continental reserved the right to consider any evidence against itself inadmissible in trial of the damage suit.

A state finding that one of the 11 Amex wells slants more than the legal maximum of 3 degrees has caused pipeline connections of those wells to be severed.

In its suit, Continental claims the 11 wells angle underground to take oil from its Harris lease close by. The firm asks $320,000 damages.

As defendants the Conoco suit names G. U. Yachum, J. Rex Stegall, A. E. and J. S. McCubbin, Amex Oil Co., J. K. and W. T. Maxwell, H. C. Jones and Carter Jones Drilling Co., all of Kilgore, and J. L. Gully Jr., Raymond Hedge and J. L. Patton, all of Tyler.

In reply, Yachum, the McCubbins, Stegall and Amex filed a denial along with special pleadings and their own $10 million damage suit.

Railroad Commission Chairman W. J. Murray said in Austin, meanwhile, that a ban on plugging any oil wells in the Hawkins Field due to expire today, was being extended 30 days.

Although the commission added the Hawkins Field to its probe of crooked oil wells a month ago, state investigators have not yet moved survey crews into the field. Tests are still continuing in the East Texas Field.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has obtained court orders preventing interference with tests on 65 leases. Wilson has filed penalty suits against 15 operators for more than $24 million.

Girl Falls 2,000 Feet, Vows Never More To Jump

MARSTON MILLS, Mass. (AP)—Lois Ann Frotten's parachute failed to open Wednesday and she plummeted 2,000 feet, plunging into Mystic Lake.

It was the 20-year-old girl's first jump, and she gasped, "I'll never jump again."

She was rushed to Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis, where attendants were amazed to discover she apparently escaped serious injury. Preliminary examination showed only facial cuts.

Scott Connell, 14, was on the lake shore when Miss Frotten landed in some 20 feet of water. He said she hit the water feet first with a "terrific splash."

Young Connell got his family speedboat and with aid of Fred Whitley, who was fishing on the lake, sped to the girl's rescue.

Whitley said Miss Frotten turned head down through the sky and almost at the same moment.

Jack L. LaRoche, 22, of Watertown, Miss Frotten's instructor, landed in the lake after parachuting from the private plane. He had seen she was in trouble on the way down and leaped after her.

On the way to the hospital in an ambulance, Miss Frotten, dazed and almost incoherent, gasped repeatedly, "I'll never jump again."

Later, she asked, "What did I do wrong?" Fellow members of the sky diving unit of which Miss Frotten was a member said she apparently forgot to pull the ripcord of her emergency chute when the automatic chute failed to function properly.

Miss Frotten, whose home is in Brewster, Mass., is a telephone operator in Hyannis.

U.S. Tramways Firm Is Seized

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The state of Pernambuco took over the American-owned Pernambuco Tramways Co. Wednesday after winning a state court's approval to do so.

The company, a subsidiary of the American & Foreign Power Co., operates the northeast city's electric power utility.

The state moved to take control of the firm after its contract expired Tuesday.

The court action Wednesday did not set any indemnity to be paid for the property. The firm's reported seeking 50 million cruzeiros, about $125,000.

Bankers To Attend Abilene Meeting

A relatively large Big Spring delegation will be attending the regional conference of District 6, American Institute of Banking, in Abilene Friday and Saturday. Several panel discussions are on tap during the Saturday session.

Going from here are Charles Dunnam, president of the local chapter; Carlton Chapman, vice president; Mrs. James Eubanks, second vice president; Selma Roberts, secretary; Larson Lloyd; Mrs. Clara Robinson; Jack Orr; and Frankie Bedell.

DEAR ABBY Time To Help The Little One

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter isn't even two yet but she is as smart as a whip. I can't even put my arms around my husband without her screaming and crying. And she doesn't stop until he shows HER some affection. She doesn't even want us in a room together without her. If she hears that he is in the house, she kicks up a fuss until he goes to her. How can we discourage jealousy in a child her age? Or is it natural and harmless? YOUR MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: It may be natural, but it's not harmless. Be sure the child gets plenty of affection (from both of you), but don't refrain from showing affection to one another in her presence for fear she'll have a tantrum. Let her know that Daddy loves Mamma, too, or you'll be shopping around for a psychiatrist with a junior-sized couch.

DEAR ABBY: While visiting some friends of my husband's in his home town, one of the women said something about Albert's "second wife." I thought I was his second wife, but I didn't act surprised. When we got home I mentioned it to Albert and he said he never told me about his last two wives because they didn't play a very important part in his life. Wife Number Two I later learned, was married to him for three years and Wife Number Three for nine! They both divorced him. I am Wife Number Four, but was told I was Wife Number Two. What would you do? I am beginning to wonder what kind of man I married. Can an annulment be effected 14 months after a marriage? DECEIVED.

DEAR DECEIVED: The length of time one has been married has no bearing on whether an annulment is possible in certain circumstances. See a lawyer for legal advice and talk to your clergyman for honest and intelligent counsel.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I want you to settle something. We were invited to the home of one of her bridge friends for dinner. Unfortunately the woman was a TER-RIBLE cook. Her main course was a miserable, highly seasoned mess of something. I have a very sensitive stomach and one taste was enough for me. Meanwhile, my wife looked daggers at me. When we got home she let me have it. She said I should have choked it down to spare the hostess' feelings. Was she right?

SENSITIVE STOMACH DEAR SENSITIVE: You could have inconspicuously "rearranged" the mess a little and made a pretense of eating it. But I can't blame you for not choking it down. You might have choked, period.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Big Spring Herald.

Cuba Blames U.S. Military For Coup

HAVANA (AP)—Radio Havana blamed U.S. military authorities Wednesday for the coup that felled President Manuel Prado's Peruvian government.

Cubans were told that the seizure of power by Peru's armed forces means "Pentagon factions won over the State Department." The announcer said the State Department backed presidential candidate Victor Raul Haya de la Torre.

Bigger Staff Might Have Prevented Deviated Wells

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission might have kept deviated oil well drilling out of the East Texas Field with more employees, commission chairman W. J. Murray Jr. said Wednesday.

Murray made the statement to representatives of the Legislative Budget Board and the governor's budget board. They are considering 1964-65 budget requests.

Murray said the commission may have to ask the legislature in January for additional funds or seek aid from the governor's emergency fund to hire up to 30 additional field men to aid in the slant-hole drilling probe and do anti-water pollution work.

The commission's proposed budget also asks the 30 new inspectors for the 11 districts of its oil and gas division.

"If we had had the additional employees, I think that we could have prevented the deviated drilling in the East Texas Field," Murray told budget officials.

"The slant-hole drilling situation has really brought home to us the desperate need for additional men to do policing."

The commission asked $2,781,451 for fiscal 1964 and $2,785,121 for 1965, a biennium total $5,566,572 above the 1962-63 budget. Both budget agencies will make recommendations to the legislature on appropriations for state agencies and departments.

Polio Incidence Thrice Last Year's

AUSTIN (AP)—Polio cases in Texas this year more than triple the number of the same period in 1961, the State Health Department said Wednesday.

The total reported to the department through Tuesday is 113, compared to 30 at this time last year. The figure includes 90 paralytic and 23 non-paralytic cases compared to 16 paralytic and 14 non-paralytic cases a year ago.

For the week ending Saturday there were 4 non-paralytic and 5 paralytic cases—3 from Dallas County and one each from Bexar and Atascosa counties.
