Testimony Recaps School Meetings

What happened at two important meetings involving the Gay Hill and Center Point Common School districts was related to a jury in 11th District Court Wednesday and testimony was continuing today.

The stories were being told by witnesses for the plaintiff in the suit brought by the two common school districts to set aside an order of the Howard County school board annexing them to the Big Spring Independent School District.

TWO MEETINGS

The meetings were held in 1959 and 1960. One was a mass meeting in Gay Hill School gym in early February, 1959 called to discuss a proposal that the school district be annexed to the Borden County Independent School District.

The second was on May 4, 1960. In the office of the county superintendent it was at this meeting the Howard County board, by a vote of three to two, ordered that the two districts annexed to the Big Spring district.

At the first meeting, the main issue the plaintiffs want to stress to the jury is a statement attributed by witnesses to Jack Cook, chairman of the county board. He had been quoted as pledging to the assembled patrons of the Gay Hill school that the county board had no plans to annex the district to Big Spring.

Another issue is to demonstrate that all of the five county board members were present at that meeting and heard the statement by the board chairman. So far, the general reply of the witnesses to queries as to what Cook said are fairly alike. He is alleged to have told the meeting in response to a direct question, "We (the county board) have not considered annexing Gay Hill to Big Spring and do not intend to do so." Some variations in his statement developed but it was agreed by the witnesses that he said about this in substance.

ATTENDANCE

There is a conflict as to whether all of the county board members were in attendance. Some of the witnesses say they were all on hand. Others have not been certain.

Cross examination indicated the defense will endeavor to show that at least one of the board members was not in attendance at the meeting. Witnesses who have testified for the plaintiffs relative to the Gay Hill meeting include George Archer, principal of the Gay Hill school; Walker Bailey, county superintendent, whose deposition was read into the record Wednesday; Fred Roman, and J. D. Gilmore, the two county board members who voted against annexing the two districts to the Big Spring district at the May 4 meeting.

BOARD MEMBERS

The two county board members also told of the session at which the annexation orders were voted. Their stories were alike in general detail.

The meeting was in the office of the county superintendent May 4, 1960. There were four or five items on the agenda.

The last item was a discussion of a plan to annex Center Point school district and the Gay Hill district to the Big Spring district. Both Roman and Gilmore said they had no previous knowledge of the proposal. However, they said, to delay the action. No effort, they testified, was made to prevent their expressing their full views of the subject. On a vote, the ballot was three for the proposal and two against, they said.

Gilmore was on the stand at 11 a. m. today for cross examination.

Algerian Crisis Nearing A Climax

Midland News Executive To Take New Post

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Jim Lindsey, managing editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, will become director of information at Texas A&M Aug. 1, President Earl Rudder said today.

Rudder said Lindsey has resigned from the Reporter-Telegram after 10 years of service there.

Lindsey also resigned as a Texas Tech director. He has been on the board six years, two as vice chairman.

NATURE ACTS IN ODD MANNER

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Ione Lindsey found more than a dozen large oysters in the front yard of her southeast Dallas home after a heavy rain Wednesday.

"I wonder where they came from," she said. "I'm sure it didn't rain oysters on us. The whole thing's a mystery."

Record Sales

DETROIT (AP)—American Motors Corp. today reported record sales of $667.7 million for the first nine months of its fiscal year with net earnings of $30.2-million, equal to $1.64 a share. This compared with sales of $701.9 million and a profit of $20.1 million in the similar period of last year.

TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. Space capsule that carried astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr. three times around the earth arrived Wednesday for a four-day exhibit.

Factions Shatter Tries For Unity

ALGIERS (AP)—A power struggle that threatened civil war moved toward a climax today in this newly independent nation. A factional split shattered attempts by provisional Algerian leaders to establish a stable regime.

Administrative work appeared to be at a virtual standstill. Thousands of Europeans who stayed on through months of terror before independence, converged on docks and airports to get out. Two passenger liners came to carry refugees to France.

Although the situation was marked by confusion and in some cases fragmentary reports, these were the highlights.

Dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella appeared to have the upper hand in western and eastern Algeria. Ben Bella returned to Oran, western Algerian metropolis, after a triumphant trip Wednesday to Taret, 150 miles southwest of Algeria. Forces loyal to him were seemingly in control of Constantine and Bone in eastern Algeria. Bloody clashes were reported Wednesday in Constantine.

Deputy Premier Belkacem Krim, a Berber leader and signer of the peace accords with France, held forth in the Kabylie Mountains after a triumphal trip Wednesday to Taret. He denounced Ben Bella and called for a massive rallying of support across the nation.

In Algiers, there was no sign of the disintegrated provisional government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, which had moved in after independence July 3 to take control of the country.

In Oran, a spokesman for Ben Bella said Mohamed Khidder, one of Ben Bella's chief supporters, would head for Algiers soon to study the situation. Khidder is a member of a seven-man political bureau which Ben Bella set up last week, in defiance of the Ben Khedda regime, to assume overall leadership.

After 7 1/2 years of rebellion against France and three weeks of independence, the new nation of Algeria found itself on the threshold of civil war.

Soldiers of the Algiers "autonomous zone" took up positions late Wednesday night on the approaches to the white-walled city. From the Moorish-style summer palace Ben Khedda warned that the danger of civil war was real and pleaded for unity.

A group of ministers of Ben Khedda's government quit the capital and set up headquarters in the Kabylie Mountains, 65 miles east of Algiers, amid loyal Berber guerrillas of Wilaya zone No. 3. They called on the population and on the guerrillas who fought for independence to organize resistance to Ben Bella in every town, village and hamlet.

Regular army troops and guerrillas loyal to Ben Bella appeared to control three-fourths of the country with Kabylie and Algiers the only centers of organized resistance to the dissident deputy premier. Ben Bella claimed his forces had won power over the country.

Shots rang out and blood flowed Wednesday in the east Algerian capital of Constantine when troops loyal to Ben Khedda tried to resist the takeover of the city by the opposing faction.

By nightfall Wednesday Constantine and the Mediterranean seaport of Bone were in the hands of Ben Bella troops who moved in from the Tunisian frontier.

There was no resistance in Bone, but authorities in Algiers reported there were many dead and wounded in Constantine.

RED WEAPONS From the west, troop convoys pulling Czech and Soviet cannons slowly rolled eastward, roaring Ben Bella's name.

Ben Bella, a tough, uncompromising revolutionary who uses the Marxist vocabulary appeared on the verge of taking the power of which he dreamed during five years of French captivity.

But from the Kabylie Mountain town of Tizi Ouzou, two other vice premiers flung a challenge at Ben Bella.

Krim and Mohammed Boudiaf vowed to resist his efforts "until the last drop of blood."

Behind them were tough guerrillas of Col. Mohamed Ould Hadj, the old man of the mountains. They set up roadblocks and began to fortify towns and villages dotting the green mountains rising sharply over the Mediterranean.

The Kabylie force numbered some 3,000 men when the March cease-fire ended the French-Algerian fighting. But it is believed to have been considerably bolstered by new recruits and Muslims from French units. According to unofficial estimates, Ould Hadj has perhaps 10,000 men under his orders.

PICTURES ON WALLS In offices abandoned by French administrators in Kabylie pictures of Krim were pasted on the walls. Troops in camouflage uniforms deployed on the highway leading to Algiers. Newsmen traveling from Tizi Ouzou to the capital saw machine guns set up in Bougainvillea bushes.

Boudiaf, a dark-haired, meticulously dressed politician, has been one of Ben Bella's principal opponents. They shared the five years of French imprisonment—and argued constantly and bitterly about the future of Algeria. For Boudiaf no compromise with Ben Bella appeared possible.

Krim is the untested boss of Kabylie, where he started the nationalist revolt for independence. He boasts that no one ever defeated his Kabylie people—a proud Berber tribe of Roman stock.

An area inhabited by about one million people, Kabylie was one of the toughest bastions of resistance during the rebellion. Massacre of French military operations never succeeded in breaking the back of Wilaya No. 3.

ONE GOOD MAN Ould Hadj, a former shopkeeper, survived battles, searches and air attacks. At the war's end he led his men into the rebellion towns to the roar of grateful crowds.

Now he is standing by Krim to resist Ben Bella. The backbone of Ben Bella's strength is the 45,000-man army of National Liberation, equipped by the Communist bloc but untested in battle. It sat out the war training in Tunisia and Morocco.

The number of guerrillas rallying to Ben Bella in the interior was not known.

The rising threat of civil war brought new fear to Europeans who had remained in Algiers. A rush for transport to France started again on airlines and shipping offices. About 4,000 Moslem police tried to keep order in the capital, but kidnapping of Europeans and robberies were the order of the day.

France's minister of Algerian affairs, Louis Joxe, said Tuesday the French government would take energetic action to insure the security of French citizens and their property in Algeria.

Market Remains Generally Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained generally higher late this afternoon but some gains were cut. Trading was slow.

Volume for the day was estimated at 31 million shares compared with 2.91 million Wednesday.

Gains of fractions to a point or better among key stocks outnumbered losers.

Net Income Down GALVESTON (AP)—Santa Fe Railroad's net income for the second quarter of 1962 was $9,736,812, the line's president Ernest S. Marsh has announced. Marsh's announcement Wednesday said the figure for 1962 compared to an income of $12,375,346 for the same period last year.

Storms Containing Damaging Lightning Rake Much Of State

Thunderstorms with damaging lightning struck Texas Thursday from the Upper Pecos Valley, eastward across the South Plains and into North Central Texas.

More than 7 inches of rain fell at one point. Lightning set off fires at many places in the Dallas and Fort Worth areas.

Weatherford, west of Fort Worth, recorded 7.20 inches of rain. Dallas had 3.20.

State police reported a tornado funnel southeast of Lamesa during the morning, but no reports of damage were received.

The downpour at Weatherford caused officers to close some streets as a safety measure. Driftwood threatened a small bridge on a creek. Water was at the doorsteps of some houses in low areas but the homes were not threatened.

2.65 INCHES Heavy rain struck Wichita Falls about dawn, and in slightly more than an hour 2.65 inches fell. This flooded some low underpasses.

A concrete roof crashed in at the Chuck Hutton Car Co. in Dallas when water accumulated on the roof. A car and a truck were damaged.

The Weather Bureau said the band of thunderstorms was narrow, breaking out from south eastern New Mexico across northern Texas to the Southern Arkansas area.

Some of the other rainfall totals for 24 hours included Aledo 2.14 inches, Roanoke 1.15, Springtown 1.10, Rockwall 2.66, Kaufman 5.1, Van Horn 10, Sweetwater 2.40, Nolan community near Sweetwater 3.7, Thursday and 6 Wednesday, Mineral Wells 1.20, Wink 9.6, Texarkana 2.5, Amon Carter Field between Fort Worth and Dallas 2.35, Abilene 2.10, and Midland 2.4.

NO INTERRUPTION Lightning early Thursday knocked out a transformer at St. Joseph's Hospital in Fort Worth but the hospital operated without power interruption by means of a spare transformer.

Heavy rain fell in the Abilene area. One residence recorded an unofficial 6 inches, but the Weather Bureau gauge showed 2.40 inches by 9:30 a. m. and the rain still was falling.

Merkel, 15 miles west of Abilene, has 5.82 inches of rain which caused minor flooding. Water crept into two apartment houses.

The Highway Department said water was 8 inches over U.S. 180 at the Hubbard Creek reservoir site between Albany and Breckenridge. The road was closed and likely will remain closed 4 hours OVER SPILLWAY Water went over the spillway of Lake Phantom Lake northeast of Abilene for the second time this month. More than five inches of rain fell in the area during the night.

Just after midnight a bolt of lightning crashed down on the B. H. Carroll Baptist Church in Fort Worth, causing an estimated $50,000 damage to the church auditorium.

In Dallas the Pleasant Grove area took the hardest electrical pounding.

The roof of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Riddles at 8236 Marvel burst into flames after a streak of lightning forked into it at 4 p. m. Impact of the bolt shoved a large cottonwood tree into the side of the house, witnesses said. Most of the roof was destroyed.

HEAVY DAMAGE Dist. Fire Chief I. F. Reed estimated damage at $5,500.

Heavy damage, believed caused by lightning, was reported at the Oak Cliff Lutheran Church in Dallas. A blaze there burned a section in the church's steep roof.

At least eight other structures in Dallas were reportedly hit by lightning.

The night-long thunderstorms dumped 3.20 inches of rain at the Weather Bureau at Love Field. Elsewhere in the northern half of Texas the rains were reported heavy and still falling after daybreak in a broad area extending from Shreveport, Tex., westward to Wink.

FORECASTS Forecasters called for partly cloudy skies with widely scattered thunder showers for most sections of the state through Friday.

Northern portions of the state were expected to be somewhat cooler until Friday.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 63 at Dalhart to 33 at Galveston.

Some of the other larger rainfall totals reported during the day by the Weather Bureau included Breckenridge 4.60 inches, Strawn 2.45, Brazos 3.32, Carbon 2.00, Palo Pinto 4.20, Gorman 3.75, Eastland 2.35 and Fort Worth 2.35.

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Racial strife headed toward a climax in this quiet city today as Negroes organized for a series of anti-segregation demonstrations, apparently of major proportions.

An all-out protest move by Negro organizations appeared imminent after a self-imposed "day of penance" to atone for rock tossing by some Negroes Tuesday night in the wake of a protest march.

"We must go to jail and we must go in large numbers," said integration leader Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy at a church rally of about 500 Negro followers Wednesday night.

"We can't stop now—and we won't stop now," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the symbolic head of the American Negro de-segregation struggle.

White citizens waited to see what would happen after two unsteady weeks of racial unrest.

And the Negroes of the Albany movement calmly waited out the hours until they would willingly submit to jail, if necessary, in their struggle for racial equality.

At Wednesday night's meeting, many of the Negroes signed cards pledging to go to jail with King, Abernathy and Dr. W. G. Anderson, president of the movement.

Prober Cites Evidence Of Cover-Ups By Estes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., claimed evidence today that Billie Sol Estes and some of the farmers he dealt with juggled checks and receipts in an elaborate cover-up operation.

McClellan tossed that into the midst of hearings before his Senate investigations subcommittee.

The subcommittee is investigating allegations that political influence and favoritism for the gift-giving Estes helped the Pecos, Tex., financier build a business empire based on deals under farm aid programs. Estes has since been declared bankrupt.

McClellan gave no details of the check and receipt juggling, which he said was just a manipulation to provide phony evidence that purported land sale and lease-back arrangements between Estes and the farmers were bona fide.

She Wondered

Ruth Minear, manager of the Pecos County, Tex., Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office, which handled more than 100 of such deals, testified she wondered about the deals at the time they were made in 1961.

Mrs. Minear's testimony before the Senate group again featured the name of Henry Marshall, the mystery man in the Estes case.

Marshall, a federal Agriculture Department official probing Estes' affairs, was found dead June 3, 1961, on his Franklin, Tex., farm. He had been shot five times. The death was ruled a suicide, but the Texas state police say he was murdered.

INSTRUCTIONS Mrs. Minear said Marshall had instructed her to require farmers who ostensibly were buying land from Estes to sign statements attesting that no illegal and secret side deals in cotton allotments were involved.

She said her county office excused between 20 and 40 per cent of the farmers from personal appearances to sign such statements, although standing orders from Washington vested in state ASC committees sole authority to excuse anyone.

She said she was doing and never complained.

Earlier Rufus Atkinson, suspended manager of the Reeves County, Tex., ASC office, acknowledged before the Senate group that he had accepted gifts from Estes. He said they included 100 pounds of beef, two hams and $50 worth of clothing.

NO FAVORITISM Atkinson asserted there was no favoritism in his approval of Estes' land deals in Reeves County. He said he had followed instructions of superior officers and approved the deals despite some misgivings about them.

Atkinson said he didn't feel right about accepting the gifts but didn't want to offend Estes by refusing them.

Cuban Refugees Escape In Chase

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Twenty-seven Cuban refugees who arrived Tuesday told of being chased by the Cuban coast guard after they stole a government boat and slipped away from the island's northern coast. They managed to escape in the midnight darkness.

The refugees included 10 men, 5 women and 12 children.

Mr. X In Custody

Alan Pomeranz, 33, left, the Mr. X in the $1.3 million theft of blue chip stocks from the Wall Street vaults of Bache & Co., arrives at a police station in New York where he was booked on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property.

With him is detective Bernard Herzfeld. Pomeranz, described as the man who contracted to dispose of the Bache loot, surrendered earlier to the district attorney.

GOP Leader Exposed As Man Leading Double Life

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—William E. Cobb, North Carolina's dashing, 40-year-old Republican state chairman, was exposed Wednesday night as a man who has been leading a double life.

The Charlotte Observer and the Roanoke, Va., Times revealed in copyrighted stories that Cobb, a Morganton lumber dealer, maintains a home in Roanoke for a common-law wife and two children, while living in Morganton with his legal wife and an adopted son.

Cobb dictated a statement to Observer Editor C. A. Pete McKnight in which he admitted the double life and said he would resign his party post immediately and withdraw as a GOP candidate for the state senate.

GOOD LEADER Cobb, a dapper, dark-haired Yale graduate and Marine veteran of World War II, was elected chairman of the state GOP four years ago and promptly put the party into a position of real challenge in an otherwise predominantly Democratic state.

Under his hard-driving leadership, the Republicans polled the highest vote for state candidates in its history in the 1960 elections.

Investigation by the two newspapers showed Cobb maintained home in Roanoke under the name of W. Edward Cobb. There, he kept a girl identified only as Linda and two sons by her.

Early today Cobb telephoned The Associated Press from Morganton and confirmed the story. "It is all over," Cobb said. "It is not possible to maintain a dual existence.

"All men make mistakes. I guess it would be unnatural if it didn't happen. I made my mistake and I'm responsible."

TO STICK BY HIM Mrs. Rebecca Summers, Cobb's secretary, said that Cobb's wife of 20 years, Mildred of Morganton, has decided to stick by him. But Cobb said, "I am not prepared to make a statement on that. That is up to her discretion."

The two newspapers began their investigation after Cobb's picture appeared in a national weekly magazine (Time), along with three other young Southern Republican leaders.

Neighbors of W. Edward Cobb in Roanoke, who traced the resemblance of William E. Cobb to their friend, who moved frequently. They reported the coincidence to the Roanoke Times.

Subsequent investigation disclosed that William E. Cobb made frequent trips by private plane from Morganton to Roanoke, and while there drove an auto registered to his Morganton firm, Morganton Hardwoods, Inc.

FOUND CAR Reporters found the car parked in the W. Edward Cobb driveway. Armed with these "coincidences," Observer reporters visited Cobb at Morganton Wednesday night. Leaving a GOP precinct meeting, Cobb invited the reporters into his station wagon.

"Let's stop kidding around. You fellows know the truth," he was quoted as saying. "I'm not innocent, but that girl up there (in Roanoke) is almost innocent, and there are children and others who are innocent."

Cobb told McKnight, "I hold

More Talks Aim At Airline Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of Eastern Air Lines, its flight engineers and its pilots meet here today with Labor Department officials in an attempt to bring labor peace to a third major airline.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said Wednesday that Eastern's president, Malcolm MacIntyre, would attend the afternoon meeting.

Goldberg was expected to propose again the same settlement terms which MacIntyre rejected and the engineers accepted earlier this week. These terms led to settlement Wednesday of the dispute between Pan American World Airways and the Flight Engineers International Association — pending approval of Pan Am's pilots.

Earlier engineers working for Trans World Airlines had accepted similar terms for solving the main problem in all three disputes — whether pilots or engineers will get first crack at the third seat in the cockpit when the airlines reduce crew from four to three men. The move is expected soon.

In general, the Pan American and two settlements give current employees priority. But as attrition wears away their ranks pilots also will become eligible. The engineers agreed to take pilot training.

The second part of Goldberg's proposal called for binding arbitration of all economic issues. MacIntyre contended the Eastern strike now in its 34th day, made it impossible for the company to accept arbitration of such items as pay scales and retroactivity of increases.

Eastern resumed limited operations on Monday, sending out two flights each day between Miami and New York.

While Goldberg was battling to bring peace between the airlines, the pilots and the engineers, a new labor dispute cropped up. The Transport Workers Union announced Wednesday that ground personnel of Pan American and Northeast Airlines had authorized a strike.

However, Labor Department officials noted that it probably will be 90 days before the AFL-CIO affiliate could bring about a work stoppage.

Water Usage Still Ahead

Water usage since last Sunday has been curtailed by the rains falling on the city. Water metered at the filter plant ran from a low of 3,928,000 gallons Wednesday to a high of 5,692,000 Tuesday for the four days.

Sunday's usage totaled 5,637,000 and Monday's 4,815,000. Total usage for the month of July through Wednesday was 172,345,000. The July 1961 usage ran to 197,648,000 gallons. An average usage of 5,000,000 gallons per day for the final six days of July would run the month's total to 202,345,000.

Usage for the year is running approximately 35,000,000 gallons over 1961, which would mean approximately $19,000 increased income.

C. R. McClenny, city secretary, and Larry Crow, city manager, said Thursday morning that figures through the month of June had not been completed in the financial report, and that a firm figure on increased revenues could not be made until all bills were paid. This, McClenny said, is brought about by varied rates paid by consumers based on the amount of water used.

It's Not Dangerous

Even though the teeth on the 18-inch-long alligator are quite small, Janell Lewis takes no chances as she holds the little reptile. Her father found it in their back yard Wednesday afternoon. An import from Florida, it belongs to Dean Woodard, old San Angelo High school, who lives about three-fourths of a mile north of where the alligator was found.

Visiting Alligator Found Wednesday

Who says Big Spring has been dry lately?

Milton Lewis, who lives on the Sterling City Route about one mile south of the city, says it is practically swamp country.

He found an alligator in his back yard Wednesday afternoon. "At first I thought it was a water dog, but it looked too much like an alligator," he said.

He and Mrs. Lewis were being weeded and grassed at the side of their house when Lewis found the 18-inch-long reptile hidden in the grass near the air conditioner.

"My husband called and said he had something to show me," Mrs. Lewis said. "I scared the daylight out of me."

"It is a good thing I did not find the alligator. I would have chopped its head off with the hoe," she added.

The owner of the alligator was found that afternoon. It belongs to Dean Woodard, who lives about three-fourths of a mile north of the Lewis residence. He had it about a week before the alligator escaped Saturday night.

The eight-month-old alligator had been living in a pond in Woodard's back yard. A friend's mother had brought it from Florida.

"I don't know what I will do with it when it gets large, probably give it to a zoo," Woodard said.

It was returned to the owner this morning.

Dawson County Plans Mass Polio Inoculations

LAMESA (SC) — The organizational framework for Dawson County's mass polio immunization project was established here Tuesday following a meeting of local physicians and representatives of all civic clubs and the National Guard.

Four civic clubs were assigned the task of manning clinics from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 12, designated as Sabin Oral Sunday — or SOS.

J. P. White, G. Richard Crawley of the local National Polio Foundation chapter, and Dr. Norman W. Staker are co-chairmen.

Lamesa physicians, who are underwriting the program, have already ordered 16,000 doses of the vaccine which is considered enough to inoculate most of the residents of Dawson County and neighboring Borden County, which has been invited to participate.

Sites for clinics will be at Lamesa High School, the junior high school gymnasium, Blackshear and V. Z. Rogers schools. The Noon Lions Rotarians, Evening Lions and Kiwanians will be in charge of the clinics.

A physician, one or more nurses and a pharmacist will be furnished for each clinic by the medical society.

Other activities assigned: Junior Chamber of Commerce, all supplies; Optimists, off-premises (shut-ins, jails, nursing homes); Business and Professional Women's Club, clerical pool; American GI Forum, transportation and interpreters; DeMolays, runners; and National Guard, traffic control and distribution.

Dr. Staker pointed out that the goal is immunizing 80 per cent of the population. Cost of each dose is 25 cents per person or a larger donation.

Subsequent clinics will be conducted at 6-week intervals.

The vaccine is given on a cube of sugar or by medicine dropper in the case of infants. All residents from three months of age upwards are urged to participate.

The Sabin vaccine is absolutely harmless, doctors report, and no reactions or effects have been noted in research.

Stern Action Keeps Burma Ruler In Saddle

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—With a stern warning to Communists, Gen. Ne Win is riding out the first open challenge to his four-month-old rule over Burma.

The challenge came recently from students at Rangoon University, many of them stirred up by Red elements. At the end of the day 16 students were dead under the gunfire of Ne Win's troops, and 42 lay wounded.

The tough military leader has served notice against attempting any movements like the student revolts which toppled Syngman Rhee in Korea and Adnan Menderes in Turkey.

Last Saturday's fire against 2,000 rioting students was the first case in Burma's modern history that such action had been taken.

Army demolition experts then blew to bits the two-story concrete building housing the university students union—a sort of shrine because it once was a center of activity by Ne Win himself in the struggle for independence from Britain.

Further, Ne Win closed all universities and colleges indefinitely to give Burma's students time to think things over.

He also ordered "special crimes courts" set up wherever and

Paris Headlines

Vice President Lyndon Johnson gets a preview of page one of a Paris newspaper as he watches television in his home in Washington. It was during the live broadcast from Europe to the United States via Teletel satellite. The headlines tell of the Paris-Marseille express train wreck in which 26 died.

Whenever necessary to deal promptly with insurrection or acts threatening public safety, the economy or Burma's national culture the courts have power to pass death sentences.

Newspapers have not commented on these stiff measures, and the public reaction is difficult to measure. But the feeling seems to be there will be no new challenges to Ne Win's rule for some time, at least not from students.

Industries Flourish Even As They Fret

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The weatherman says take it easy. The many coaches' industry and trade say get in there and hit the line harder.

The midsummer letdown in business activity—plant closings for vacations, the upcoming slack in auto production for model changes, consumer procrastination with recreation rather than hard goods purchasing—comes this year just as business is being told from all sides perhaps even to its surprise that it is faltering. Whatever is happening—be it pause, a leveling off, a teetering on the brink of another recession—here is the statistical state of industry at the start of the dog days:

DISAPPOINTING
Industrial production in June climbed to 117.8 per cent of its 1957 average. The slight gain over May's 117.5 per cent was disappointing. Comparison with the 110 per cent in June 1961 was more reassuring. Recovery from the recession low of 102.1 per cent in March 1961 was about in line with what many industrial leaders expected—but well below the goal set by the administration.

Profits at midyear were running about 20 per cent ahead of last year, which included the low point of the recession. Business leaders, speaking as with one voice, called for government and labor policies that would let profits rise faster, so their firms could grow faster.

Newly relaxed rules for depreciation allowances could increase the cash flow in corporate tills up to $1.5 billion in a year—but would make stated earnings look smaller. Corporate income tax cuts, however, would sweeten net earnings. So would cost trimming, or price rises—both chancey right now.

Buildup of inventories in the recovery period has come almost to a halt. Manufacturing, wholesale and retail stocks were up at $97.4 billion in May, up a scant $170 million from April.

New business incorporations are slumping—in tune with slumping stock prices and rising uncertainty about business trends and profit prospects. A total of 15,234 set up shop in June, compared with 16,418 the year before. It was the fifth straight month of decline, as well as the lowest number since March 1961, the recession low point.

Outlays on construction as a whole were running at an annual rate of $63 billion in June, compared with $60.7 billion in May, and the year's low of $56.8 billion in February.

Much of this year's gain is in office buildings, commercial buildings rather than in factories, and in apartment houses rather than in one-family homes.

Business spending for new plants and equipment is one of the year's biggest disappointments. Part of the slack is due to all the production capacity built up in the big expansion sprees of recent years. Some companies also have been waiting for the new depreciation rules and for clarification of other government policies.

STILL CLIMBING
The widest statistic of all—the gross national product, or dollar value of output of all goods and services—was still climbing at midyear.

The annual rate for the April-June quarter is put at $352 billion. This is a lot of money and a re-

Odd Cancer Adds To Virus Theory

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

MOSCOW (AP)—The odd distribution of a kind of tumor among children in a mosquito belt of tropical Africa supports the theory that at least some human cancers are caused by viruses, it was reported today.

This cancer in Africa occurs almost exclusively in a broad belt cutting across the tropics from the east to the west coast of the continent—the very belt that is the haunt of certain mosquitoes and of other insects called "tabanids," a Uganda doctor reported to the Eighth International Cancer Congress now in session here.

Dr. D. H. Wright of Kampala said he believes the disease is caused by some still unidentified virus which may be carried by insects in the area.

He described the tumor as a lymphoma, a cancerous process involving the lymph system.

It is a disease found most often in children 3 to 6 years old.

In most victims, the cancer primarily affects the jaw, but also may affect the kidneys, adrenal glands, liver, ovaries, testicles, thyroid and part of the abdomen.

"The tumor is not confined to African children," the doctor said, explaining that Asians and Europeans are affected.

These tumors comprise half the total childhood cancers seen in Kampala.

In another report on oddities in cancer, a group of Indian scientists from Bombay told about studies of "kangri" cancer.

That is a malignancy of abdominal skin in Kashmiris who the doctors said, "carry a basket of burning coal (kangri) under their clothes to keep warm."

The "coal" is actually wood from a tree called the Chinara whose leaves the scientists said, are suspected of having cancer-producing powers.

Prof. Alexander Haddow of London's Royal Cancer Hospital, the new president of the International Union Against Cancer, reviewed the progress in cancer research since the last international congress four years ago.

"The last four years have added to the list of cancer causes in man or animals and increased our understanding of the many previously known," he said.

He reported, for example, that cancer has been experimentally produced in rats with polyvinyl plastic sponges employed in some types of amputative surgery. He said this "suggests the need for caution" in using such sponges.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's military-controlled government outlawed Communist and Peronist parties and candidates Tuesday night in elections clearing the way for new elections promised next year.

DEAR ABBY

Try Friendly Approach

DEAR ABBY: We live in a middle class neighborhood. We all own homes and work for a living. We awaken about 6:30 or 7:00 a.m., except for one neighbor who lives next door to me. He is up watering his flowers or washing his car at 5:30. He mows into my property, right under my bedroom window, and sings or talks to his wife, who is in the house. My husband works nights and doesn't get home until about 2:00 a.m., which they know. What is the polite way to approach this problem? Or should we call in the law?

DEAR DISTURBED: The "polite" approach is to call on them and tell them they are disturbing you. If they are considerate, peace-loving neighbors like yourselves, they'll accommodate you and start their act an hour later. If you want to "call in the law," you'll have to prove that 5:30 a.m. is an unreasonable hour to be up and at 'em. And that won't be easy.

DEAR ABBY: I'm surprised you didn't advise the girl who wanted so desperately to lose weight to join TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). They have done wonders for me. Their pledge is:

"I am an intelligent person. I will control my emotions, not let my emotions control me. Every time I am tempted to use food to satisfy my frustrated desires, build up my injured ego or dull my senses, I will remember, even though I overeat in private, my excess poundage is there for all the world to see what a fool I've been."

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a 56-year-old widow. Dad left her comfortable but not wealthy. This past year she took a job to keep occupied. The past three months a married man ("family friend") has been coming by every morning to drive her to work in place of work in the opposite direction. He also brings her home every evening. His name has come into her conversation frequently of late. Mother is a good woman but quite glib. I want her to keep her name clean. How can I tell her that even though there is probably nothing wrong, it looks bad?

MARRIED DAUGHTER: DEAR DAUGHTER: A mother-daughter talk is in order. This time the daughter should recite the facts of life. Tell your mother that although the "family friend" may only furnish transportation, he could be taking her reputation for a ride.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of the Big Spring Herald.

The Corporate Role In U. S. Political Life

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When a corporation seeks to insert itself into politics, it does so for only one reason—because it has an axe to grind. The ax is the wish to advance the business ideology of the corporation.

A labor union leader speaking? No, part of a speech by Chicago industrialist Arnold H. Merzmont to the Association of Industrial Editors.

It illustrates the different opinions to be found in the business community on the subject of the businessman in politics movement.

Ever since the price battle between steel and President Kennedy business leaders, some privately and others in public have suggested that business could make its views effective only through political efforts.

IKE'S CALL

Recently former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called on businessmen to become active in politics.

Despite Merzmont's views on corporations in politics, he strongly favors participation by businessmen in politics.

Usually, the businessman does not have a business concern in government and it would be naive to pretend that he doesn't, Merzmont says.

But there is a vast difference between going into politics to promote vested interests and becoming involved politically for human interests — as a human being, a citizen, an American.

Even before the steel price clash, a businessman-in-politics movement had been under way. Additionally many corporations had and have been conducting public affairs programs of a political nature. Its spokesmen claim they are non-partisan.

A leader in the businessman-in-politics movement was asked recently if it aimed to balance gains in political influence made by business, especially through labor's Committee for Political Education (COPE).

NOT ANTI-UNION

"There is nothing anti-union about this," replied Charles R. Barr, assistant to the president of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and board chairman of the Effective Citizens Organization.

The citizens organization, a non-profit corporation, with about 130 corporate members, is a leading agency dedicated to spreading the gospel of a more active role by business in public affairs.

"I think it was stimulated by the fact that the unions got in first and were so successful. I'd give the unions considerable credit for leading the way," Barr said.

Barr said business and union political activists have the same objectives—a sound political system, a just and equitable society and a strong economy.

The routes to these goals may diverge, he added, but I don't think one guy is any more intelligent or dedicated to these ideologies than the other."

INDEPENDENCE GROWS

Barr himself a precinct committeeman in Matteson, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, said independence among voters is growing steadily.

He doubted many are following the "dictates of any boss, corporate or union, except as they're persuaded by the arguments on the issues and personalities of the candidates."

Standard Oil conducts a low-key public affairs effort, occasionally reminding employees of their citizenship obligations—and that about all it goes easy on political education.

Generally, Barr said, companies are too reticent in talking to employees about issues out of fear workers will interpret it as corporate ax-grinding.

Inland Steel Co. is proud of its public affairs record, particularly in Chicago and neighboring communities. Joseph L. Block, chairman last year won the Loyola University Dames Award in this field.

HELPED PASS LAW

As a company, Inland formally backed a Fair Employment Practices Commission in Illinois, and its executives helped obtain enactment of a fair employment law in 1961. The proposal had failed repeatedly in earlier legislative sessions after being fought by much of Illinois industry.

In the interests of the best work force possible, Inland said, no worker should be turned down or held back because of race, color, creed, age or other artificial barrier.

Richard J. Nelson, as civic affairs manager, sparked Inland's fair employment role.

He takes a skeptical view of what he described as the frenetic effort of the business community in general to stimulate management personnel to become more active politically.

Nelson, who was national president of the Young Democrats in 1961-62, said, "I doubt whether very much will come of this effort, for in many cases it is shallow in approach and partisan in nature even though lip service is given to the concept of bipartisanship.

MAIN HOPE

The main hope is for removal of inhibitions of company employees at all levels.

Nelson adds: "Big business and big unions should both stand indicted for curbing individual freedom of action and expression. There is a place for a Republican in the union and for a Democrat in business, and everybody ought to have the courage to speak up accordingly."

Inland welcomes Republican and Democratic candidates for major offices to its headquarters every campaign year. The office seekers separately eat lunch with top executives, and then are given about 30 minutes each to speak to a bigger audience in the employees' cafeteria.

Webb Graduate Joins 331st FIS

Capt. Joseph A. Murphy, a Webb AFB graduate, has recently joined the ranks of interceptor pilots in the 331st FIS at Webb.

Capt. Murphy, a native of Philadelphia, Pa., entered the Air Force in 1954 as a navigator trainee at Hurlingham AFB, Texas, training in the T-29. From Hurlingham he went to James Connally AFB, Texas, where he trained as a radar operator, then to Moody AFB, Ga., for advanced training. His first tactical assignment was to New Castle AFB, Del. In 1958 he entered pilot training at Moore AFB, Texas, and was assigned to Webb for basic pilot training where he received his pilot's wings in 1959. He was transferred to Thule AB, Greenland, where he remained until being transferred to the 331st FIS.

Capt. Murphy has 500 hours in the F-102 and holds an ADC rating of skilled.

Old-Line Reds Growing Old And Worried

By RICHARD O'REGAN
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The heroes of communism are growing old and they are growing worried.

The partisans who came out of the Yugoslav forests with Marshal Tito, the railwaymen who were jailed with Romania's Gheorghe Gheorghiu-dej, the Czech and Polish intellectuals who called communism the only answer, the Germans who fled to Russia and returned with Walter Ulbricht.

What is to become of the society they created? Where is the eager, dedicated new generation that will carry on? Is the party machinery running down?

These questions are discussed in Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and East Germany.

They were a tough bunch, full of revolutionary fervor. They seized power between 1945 and 1948 and they held it.

They were wartime guerrillas, printers of underground newspapers, organizers of strikes, saboteurs who harassed the Nazi armies. Today many of them sit in offices, drive official cars, make plans, run the party organizations and dictate how things shall be run. Few are younger than 40, most are in their 60s or 70s.

They have trains and planes for their personal use. Gheorghiu-dej's daughter was picked up from the Riviera in her father's train. Tito and Gheorghiu-dej have summer villas and hunting lodges.

Judge Orders Schools Reopened

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Oren R. Lewis today ordered Prince Edward County schools reopened. The public system has been shut down since 1959 to avoid court-ordered racial integration.

Prince Edward's schools, Lewis ruled, "may not be closed to avoid the effect of the law of the land as interpreted by the Supreme Court, while the Commonwealth of Virginia permits other public schools to remain open at the expense of the taxpayers."

Lewis ordered Prince Edward's school board to complete plans for the admission of pupils in the elementary and high schools of the county "without regard to race or color and to receive and consider applications to this end at the earliest practical date."

Possibly they will come from the new middle class of lip-service Communists promoted to be factory directors, engineers and administrators. But a western diplomat observed: "This class is not really interested in the ideology of communism. They are proud of the gains they have made as individuals. Many of them came up from the bottom."

They said all the right things and play the party game in order to get promoted. They are not fanatics, lack the old esprit de corps and are not future leaders. In fact, they are willing to see changes in idealistic communism if that will improve their own lives."

PBD Means Longer Tire Mileage

Polybutadiene has proven superior to rubber in abrasion and heat resistance. The addition of PBD to tire treads reduces heat and increases tire mileage.

What Low Profile Means to You...

Low Profile tires are wider, easier rolling. Greater stability and surer tracking, plus swerve-free steering.

Classy Field Awaits Odessa Tee-Off Time

ODESSA — The 108 teams entered in the 14th annual Odessa Pro-Am, which includes some of the best known golf names in American, awaited only a go-ahead signal from the weather-man today to start the four-day show.

The linksters, who hail from 35 Texas cities, a dozen states and even one foreign country (Mexico), will be shooting for $15,000 in prize money.

Heavy rains hit the course Wednesday. The showers proved a real gusher to J. T. Hammett and his threesome, declared winner of the special pro-am held Tuesday. Play was to have continued on Wednesday but had to be cancelled due to the moisture that fell.

Name pros like Billy Maxwell, Dallas; Doug Sanders, Miami, Fla.; J. C. Gossie, Largo, Fla.; Byron Nelson, Roanoke, Texas; Doug Higgins, Fort Worth; Don January, Dallas; Rex Baxter, Houston; Ernie Vossler, Oklahoma City; and Bobby Nichols, Midland, are included in the field.

So are outstanding amateurs like Don Cherry, the crooner from Wichita Falls; Ronald Adams, Lubbock; Dick Jennings, Lubbock; Marcelino Moreno, Monterey, Mexico; and John Farquhar, Amarillo.

Winning team in this year's meet earns $2,500.

Several Big Spring and ex-Big Spring players are in the field. Bobby Wright, Big Spring amateur, teams with Bobby Maxwell, ex-Big Spring and now of San Angelo. They were to leave the first tee at 8:30 this morning, along with Jerry Johnson, Las Vegas, Nevada; and Rusty Uhl, Pasadena, Calif.

Luke Thompson, now an El Paso pro who won the Big Spring Invitational a couple of times, was scheduled for a 7:16 a.m. tee-off time, along with his partner, Frank Luke of Arlington.

Jim Terry and Bob Hankins, both of Seminole, were to make the rounds with Thompson and Luke.

Booked to start play at 1 p.m. was the team of Wendy Green, Big Spring pro; and Gary Littlejohn, Midland, who blazed around the course with a qualifying round of 63 earlier this week.

They were playing with Joe

Conrad, San Antonio; and Spee Goldman, Dallas.

Frank Wharton and Farquhar won low honors in the meet last year but Wharton, who has a pro job in New York, didn't return and Farquhar teamed with Baxter, the former University of Houston star.

The tournament continues through Sunday.

Sands Seeking Football Coach

AKERLY—Sands High School lost its football coach when Joe Youngblood resigned this week to accept a job as principal at Eula High School near Abilene.

Youngblood guided the Eagles, new to 11-man ball, to a 4-5-1 won-lost-tied record in 1961.

Joe is a former football star at Abilene High School and the University of Texas.

He has been attending summer school at Abilene Christian College this fall.

Sneak Preview Offered Fans

LUBBOCK — Both All-Star games at the Texas High School Coaching School games here Aug. 10 and 11, could serve as "sneak previews" for this area's sports fans.

Lubbock High School's new head coach, Carl Spoonemore, for instance, is coaching the North All-Stars. And there are a number of Texas Tech's incoming athletes among the basketballers and footballers.

Playing for the North All-Star basketball team in the Coliseum Aug. 10 will be a trio of future Red Raiders—John (Dub) Malaise of Odessa, Russ Wilkinson of Lubbock, Monterey, and Bob Measels of Seminole.

Among the North All-Star footballers declaring their intent to enroll at Texas Tech this fall are backs Jan Crews of Anton, Tommy Ledbetter of Dalhart, Jerry Lovelace of Farwell, Johnny Agan of Albany, Mike Sutherland of Ysleta, tackle David Graves of Plano, and end Pat Campbell of Levelland.

Boxer Succumbs After Surgery

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A 22-year-old Glendale, Ariz., boxer died while undergoing surgery Wednesday night after being knocked out in his first professional fight.

Sonny Nunez was taken to Memorial Hospital unconscious and died after 40 minutes of surgery. The surgeon said he suffered severe brain damage.

Nunez was knocked out in the last round of a four-round preliminary bout by a single punch from Rodrigo Contreras of Tucson. Ariz. Contreras was also fighting his first professional bout.

Nunez got up after being counted out, spoke a few words and collapsed in the arms of his trainer and manager, Billy Sparks.

He never regained consciousness.

Earl Wilson Gets Back In Groove

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

No runs. No hits. Four magic words—and then problems.

Earl Wilson, middle man of baseball's problem-plagued no-hit trio, shook his slump Wednesday night as Boston whipped the American League leading New York Yankees 4-2 in the first game of a doubleheader before the Red Sox bowled 6-4 in the nightcap.

It was the first victory for the strapping Red Sox right-hander since he hurled his no-hitter June 26th.

Wilson stubbed his toe against the Yankees, but survived home runs by Mickey Mantle and Tom Tresh got a solid relief stint from Dick Radatz.

The split left the Yankees 2½ games in front of the second-place Angels, who blanked Baltimore 5-0. Third-place Minnesota edged Detroit 7-6, Kansas City knocked off fourth-place Cleveland 5-4 and Washington nipped the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

The Red Sox won the opener for Wilson (7-3) with three runs in the fourth after an error by Clete Boyer opened the door. Ed Bressoud and Billy Gardner drove in a run each with singles and Gary Geiger's sacrifice fly accounted for the other off Ralph Terry (13-9). The Yankees took the nightcap when Hector Lopez stroked a two-run pinch-hit single off Mike Fornieles (2-6) with the score tied 4-4 in the last of the eighth. That gave the victory to reliever Marshall Bridges (4-0).

Joe Koppe doubled in two runs for the Angels in the second inning and Earl Averill hit a three-run homer in the seventh to wrap it up against the Orioles. Averill pinch-hit for starter Don Lee (4-3) who held Baltimore to four hits before Dean Chance took over and finished up the shutout, allowing two hits. Jack Fisher (2-5) took the loss.

A walk and singles by Len Green, Vic Power and Rich Rollins scored the tying and winning runs for the Twins in the last of the ninth. Steve Boros and Chico Fernandez homered for the Tigers while Bob Allison and Power connected for the Twins. Ray Moore

Granny Hamner Returning As Hurler For Athletics

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Granny Hamner, one-time Whizz Kid shortstop of the Philadelphia Phillies is getting a trial as a pitcher with the Kansas City Athletics because a use h is knuckleball has been effective in the minors.

Hamner, who has been the manager and most consistent pitcher of the Binghamton Triplets of the Class A Eastern League, will report to the Athletics in Baltimore Friday.

Asked if he felt he could make the grade, the 35-year-old right-hander whose major league career was cut short in 1959 by injuries, replied:

"I don't see why I couldn't if

OU Recruiting Report Is Due

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas Morning News said today that the Southwest Conference is investigating a report of "questionable" practices by Oklahoma University in the recruitment of two Texas high school graduates who already had signed letters of intent to enter Texas Tech.

The News said that neither Southwest Conference nor Texas Tech officials were willing to discuss the matter freely.

However, the story noted, both conference and college officials had admitted knowledge of an investigation.

The News named the two Texas high school players involved as Johnny Agan, a two-time all-state halfback from Albany, and Edwin Hall, outstanding Texas schoolboy from Eden.

The pair is among a dozen players—five from Texas—working during the summer at a real estate development near Lake Tahoe on the Nevada-California border.

The story said that the News learned the project is being developed by Arthur L. Wood, former Oklahoma City accountant who kept books on a booster fund for Sooner teams, which was instrumental in Oklahoma being played on probation for a year by the NCAA in 1960.

Young Patient Given Trophy

HOUSTON (AP)—The sort of thrill that doesn't come in the lives of most little boys awaited nine-year-old Bill Bradley Jr. when he awoke today.

Wednesday night, one of Bill's heroes, Houston Colt third baseman Bob Aspromonte, hit a home run for Bill. Although Aspromonte's eighth inning homer wasn't a game-winner—Houston lost to the San Francisco Giants 3-2—it meant a lot to Bill.

Before the game, the Colt third sacker had promised it to the boy.

But young Bill wasn't in the stands to see it. His doctor had allowed him to attend the game only if he would leave in time to be in bed and asleep by 10 p.m.

The courageous youngster from El Dorado, Ark., arrived in Houston Wednesday for surgery he hopes will restore the eyesight he lost when he was struck by a bolt of lightning at a junior Pee Wee League game.

Two operations have been scheduled to remove cataracts that formed on his eyes after the accident. The first was tentatively set for today, the second for Aug. 2.

Bill also got to visit with many of his heroes before the game started.

If it hit a home run, it's for you, Aspromonte promised then. Bill, wearing a Colt baseball cap, showed his appreciation with a polite, "Thank you, sir."

Concentration In The Dugout

This study in concentration in the Baltimore dugout involves Manager Billy Hitchcock, left, and coach George Stallor—chewing and blowing a bubble of gum—during a game with the Angels in Los Angeles. The Angels had the bases loaded at this point—but the Orioles put out the fire and retired the side. Baltimore won, 3 to 2. (AP Wirephoto)

Drysdale Could Win 30 Games This Year

By JIM BECKER Associated Press Sports Writer
The Los Angeles Dodgers said this was the year for Don Drysdale to win 20 games. But Drysdale said anything about 30.
They're saying it now.
Don won his 18th, and eighth in a row, Wednesday night, as he beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-2, to keep the Dodgers a game on top of the National League standings. The runner-up San Francisco Giants kept pace with a 3-2 win over Houston.
The victory which brought Drysdale's mark to 18-4 on the year improved his chances of becoming the first big leaguer since Dizzy Dean in 1934 to win 30. Dizzy won 30-7 that year.
Bob Purkey of Cincinnati kept pace with Drysdale's eight game streak with his 16th victory, 13-6, over the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Reds' right-hander must also be given a chance—although a faint one—at 30 wins.
On the other end of the scale, Roger Craig, the hard-working right-hander of the hapless New York Mets, dropped his 16th of the year—he has won five—to the Milwaukee Braves, 11-5.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Philadelphia Phils 5-2 in the other league game.
In the American League, the Los Angeles Angels closed to within 2½ games of the league leading New York Yankees by blanking Baltimore 5-0. The Yanks split with the Boston Red Sox, losing the first of a two-night doubleheader 4-2, and taking the second 6-4. Minnesota edged Detroit 7-6. Kansas City nipped Cleveland 5-4 and Washington slipped past the Chicago White Sox 4-3.
Drysdale needed relief in the eighth inning from Ron Perranoski and Ed Roebuck, after he gave up a leadoff single.
Stan Musial tied the game 2-2 in the sixth inning, and broke Mel Ott's league runs batted in record in the process. Musial smashed a homer off the right field light tower some 85 feet above the playing field to give him 1,862 career RBIs.
Billy O'Dell gained his 13th victory for the Giants, with help from Don Larsen and Stu Miller. Jim Davenport homered, and Chuck Hiller and Tom Haller drove in the other runs for the Giants.
Purkey went all the way, although Pittsburgh catcher Smoky Burgess touched him for two homers, and the Reds backed him with a 21-hit barrage. Frank Robinson had four straight hits.
Joe Adcock smashed a grand slam homer and a solo four bagger and Eddie Mathews had a pair of two-run homers as the Braves sent the Mets down to their 10th straight defeat.
Ernie Banks smashed homers 25 and 26 to lead the Cubs to a 2-1 series victory over the Phils.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

High school athletes at Plainview are having their problems adjusting to the coaching system of Harold Smith, according to reports emanating from that city.
The story should be of interest here, since Big Spring opens its 1962 football season in Plainview.
There have been some reports that Plainview will cease to field a team in the sport. Some of the patrons of the school have been so bold as to recommend such a thing. The Bulldogs absorbed ten straight defeats last fall, including a 36-0 shellacking at the hands of the Steers in their first performance of the year.
Eight lettermen are said to have told Smith they will not play for him this year. Plainview was thin in returning veterans, as it was Smith may start the practice sessions with fewer than 30 boys in uniform. The aggregate may be closer to 20.
The story got out that Smith planned to seek a release from his coaching contract before the 1962 season ever gets under way but Harold was rather vehement in his denial, saying that he would throw in the towel only if he had to start his work without an assistant. He is perilously close to that position now. Floyd Murray is the only aide still on his staff.
The situation is so bleak that John Blaine, the school's athletic director, may have to pitch in and help coach the team.
Smith's contract still has two years to run but he has told intimates he may not be around for the 1963 season.
Although the situation is far from encouraging in Plainview, the Big Spring team can't afford to take the challenge lightly. Nothing revives a team and a town interested in a team like a victory. If the Bulldogs catch the Longhorns looking beyond the game, they're apt to hand the locals a surprise package.
Quite likely, the Steers will play to their smallest paid crowd in half a dozen years in Plainview, unless conditions take a turn for the better up there.
The crowds for most of the Bulldogs' home games were very poor last year and they aren't apt to get better until the fortunes of the team improve.
Most of the turnout could conceivably come from Big Spring. The distance between Big Spring and Plainview is just over 150 miles.
The weather is apt to be good that time of year (Sept. 14) and the local buffs are likely to be in a football mood.
When, and if, Ronnie Shields, a Wichita Falls lineman, is able to move up to the first all-state team this fall, it will make five consecutive years a member of his family has been on the squad.
His illustrious brother, Larry Shields, finished his eligibility last fall. Ronnie is a lineman, Larry a back who will matriculate at the University of Oklahoma in September.
Ronnie was named second team all-state last fall. He is talented but his last name doesn't handicap him a bit when it comes time for the selectors to make their picks.
Bennie was the first of the Shields tribe to rate all-state laurels. He also attended OU.
Boris (Babe) Damancheff, backfield coach for the Dallas Cowboys last fall, has joined the Wake Forest coaching staff. He replaces Dick Hunter, who resigned to enter private business.

Colts Nudged By Giant Crew

HOUSTON (AP)—Left-hander Billy O'Dell, with help from Don Larsen and Stu Miller, beat the Houston Colts 3-2 Wednesday night as the San Francisco Giants stayed one game behind Los Angeles in the National League race.
The Giants will carry a four-game winning streak into Friday night's opener of a three-game showdown series with the league-leading Dodgers at Los Angeles.
Jim Davenport, with his 12th homer, Chuck Hiller and Tom Haller drove in the runs for O'Dell, who gauged his 13th victory against eight defeats.
Larsen took over from O'Dell in the seventh when the Colts loaded the bases on two walks and a single by Bobby Lillien. He got Jim Pendleton on an outfield fly to end the threat.
In the eighth, with the Giants leading 3-1, Larsen's arm stiffened and Miller took over. He was nicked for Bob Aspromonte's 11th homer before keeping the Colts under control the rest of the way.
Davenport homered in the first inning for the Giants and Hiller's single drove in another run in the second. The eventual winner scored in the sixth when Felipe Alou tripled and score on Haller's single.

When, and if, Ronnie Shields, a Wichita Falls lineman, is able to move up to the first all-state team this fall, it will make five consecutive years a member of his family has been on the squad.
His illustrious brother, Larry Shields, finished his eligibility last fall. Ronnie is a lineman, Larry a back who will matriculate at the University of Oklahoma in September.

Rigney's Maneuvers Pay Off In Big Way For LA

By BOB MYERS Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Manager Bill Rigney is either a genius, as many suspect, or maybe he's just plain lucky. But the Los Angeles Angels skipper led his flock east today after pulling some of his legged men on the Baltimore Orioles.
The Rigney touch went like this Wednesday night.
The club was leading 2-0, and starter Don Lee had permitted only one Oriole to get past first base.
So with two Angels on base in the seventh, one out, Rigney sent in Earl Averill to pinch hit for the big right-hander.
Averill responded with a 3-run blast into the left field pavilion and the Angels collected a 5-0 victory.
Suppose Averill, whose batting average at the moment was .212, failed to hit? Suppose Lee's pitcher in relief faltered?
Rigney disclaimed any great significance in his strategy. He contended the Angels needed a bigger run margin. He had faith in the slugging outfielder-catcher and faith in his relief staff.
The Angels took the Baltimore series, three out of four games, and Wednesday night's whitewash was the fourth shutout in their last 10 games.

FUNDS NEEDED BY BALL CLUB

The Whalley Printers of the American Teen-Age baseball league here have become eligible to play in the District 7 tournament at Brownwood Aug. 2-4 but a little matter of finances could keep the club at home.
The Printers, who won the league title recently, need an estimated $200 to make the trip. Donations toward such a fund are being accepted both by league officials and Tom Farquhar, manager, of the team.
The Stanton Yankees of the Big Spring National league also won the right to play in the district meet and are making plans to go.
Winners in the district tournament become eligible to play in the state meet.

Monster Of Nature Is Strangling L. Caddo

JEFFERSON, Tex. (AP)—One of the most beautiful and largest lakes in the south, Caddo Lake, is being strangled by a monster of nature, says the Texas Game and Fish Magazine.
Where the lake, lying half in Texas and half in Louisiana, used to be 20 to 50 feet deep when the many small lakes were combined by an earthquake in 1811, it is now 4 to 5 feet deep.
And a mass of vegetation chokes the lake from shore to shore.
This viewpoint is disputed, however, by the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission. It says vegetation is not ruining its side of the lake and is causing no economic dislocations.
Caddo Lake stretches roughly 35 miles eastward from Jefferson, in Texas Marion County, to Mooringsport, La.
"New dams across rivers and streams flowing into the lake eliminating the raising and lowering of water, the influx of silt that has been settling in Caddo and the translucent, acid condition of the water have all aided the growth of aquatic vegetation, commonly called contail," says a staff-written article in the Texas Game and Fish Magazine.

The vegetation also is known as elodea, water milfoil and bladderwort.
"This growth has spread so rapidly that Caddo's water is inaccessible in most areas at this time of year as far as boat transportation is concerned. Only by raking and dragging out a few boat roads is much of the lake open even to small craft," said the magazine, official publication of the State Game and Fish Commission.
"Such localities as Hog Wallow, Alligator Bayou, Turtle Shell and Tar Island look more like they would be best for cattle grazing instead of fishing because of the thick growth."
For many years the lake had the reputation of being one of the South's best fishing spots. Cottages spotted the shore and there were long waiting lists for boat falls. Hundreds of boats were available for rent to eager fishermen. Little cafes and grocery stores did a flourishing business.

Some hardy fishermen still enjoy the lake's wild and primitive attractiveness.
"As for a quick and painless solution, there is none," said the magazine article. "The vastness of the lake prohibits most known methods of treatment. However, this isn't stopping the Texas Game and Fish Commission and other interested persons from seeking relief for the people in the area and for restoring the lake to its former prominence."
Charles Gray of Tyler, the Commission's inland fisheries supervisor for the region, says three means can be used to combat the lake growth—water level fluctuation, chemical or mechanical treatment.
Killing the plants with chemicals is prohibitive, estimated at about $10 an acre for the 3,500 acres. Such treatment would last only two or three years. Marshall and other towns getting their water supply from the lake might object.
"A mechanical means, or dredging, also is costly but is feasible as it would allow growth as well as silt to be removed, making the lake deeper," the article says. "This depth would prevent sunlight from reaching the moss and prevent its growth except in the shallows along the shore."
Gray thinks raising and lowering the lake may be the best way.
"By letting the water level down, the plants would dry out and die," he said. "This would take at least three months and would require possible cooperation from Louisiana authorities."
"There is no quick solution," Gray added.
The magazine predicted "some terrific fishing" when cold weather moves in and the aquatic weed settles beneath the surface.
"Who is to say this is a permanent condition? Caddo has had contail for many, many years," the magazine said. "But, so have other lakes in East Texas. This year seems to be a good year for moss all over the state."
"It is true that Caddo is suffering more this year than any before. But who can say what this time next year it will be the same?" said the official state publication. "Caddo may be very sick but it is still alive and kicking."

Mathews, Mahaffey Added To NL Team

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Outfielders Frank Robinson of Cincinnati and Billy Williams of Chicago, third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee and pitcher Art Mahaffey of Philadelphia were added today to the National League All-Star squad that will play a second game with American Leaguers at Chicago next Monday.
Manager Fred Hutchinson of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds, who will manage the National League team, made the selections.
Robinson, Williams and Mathews were the three outright additions to the squad, permitted under the rules. Mahaffey, a right-hander, was named to replace Bob Shaw of Milwaukee on the pitching staff.
Hutchinson also dropped Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax who has been sidelined because of numbness in the index finger of his pitching hand.

Infant Cage Loop Scruppy

CHICAGO (AP)—Instead of nearing burial with brief rites, as generally expected, the infant American Basketball League today came out clawing at the long-established National Basketball Association.
ABL Commissioner Abe Saperstein, a quiet, but tough little basketball impresario for many years, not only rallied his sagging loop for a six-member try next season, but also hurled a law suit threat at the NBA with the Jerry Lucas-enriched Cleveland Pipers as big bone of contention.
After a two-day league session, Saperstein announced the ABL will try again next season with Denver as a new member, Hawaii and New York switching to Long Beach, Calif., and Philadelphia, and Kansas City, Pittsburgh and his own Chicago Majors holding over.
Lost from last season's ABL seven-club array are the Pipers, who have joined the rival NBA gets formal consideration Monday, and the San Francisco Saints, who quit in the wake of an NBA jump of its Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco.
Saperstein, whose independent Harlem Globetrotters have invested him money all over the world, Wednesday sent bristling telegrams to NBA Commissioner Maurice Podoloff and Cleveland Piper owner George Steinbrenner.
Saperstein, obviously eyeing the fabulous Lucas, who has yet to play his first pro game, stressed that Cleveland's personnel must go to the ABL for distribution if in club fails to rejoin the ABL.
It cranking up for a second season ABL try, the Hawaii Chiefs, owned by Art Kim, will move into its newly-completed auditorium at Long Beach, Calif.

Ford Will Explain 'How We Did It'

"How We Did It" will be the topic of a speech by Bob G. Ford, president of the San Angelo Industries, Inc. at the Industrial Development Seminar Aug. 1. As president of the organization, Ford has been instrumental in locating several new industries in San Angelo and he will give Big Spring residents some tips on how to do the same. Ford has lived in San Angelo since 1937, moving there from Brownwood. He served 2 1/2 years in the Air Force in Europe, then returned to Europe as a civilian employee of the Air Force for an additional year. He was employed in the Civil Service for 15 years. For the past seven years, Ford has been a partner in the real estate and insurance business of Logan Ford Company. During this time, he has served as president of the San Angelo Industries Exchange and as president of the local Real Estate Board. He has also served two years on the San Angelo Tax Equalization Board and as chairman of the board of the City Development Military Affairs Committee. He is currently chairman of the City Zoning Board of Appeals. He is married and has five children.

Businessman Foils Check Forgery Gang

Plans of four Snyder youths to cash a number of forged checks in Big Spring fell apart at the sharp eyes of a Big Spring businessman. His suspicions were aroused by the conduct of the quartet as they sat in their car planning their campaign. What he saw caused him to adopt the role of detective. He jotted down the car license number and a description of the vehicle. He carefully noted the appearance of the four young men. Then, when they left the car, he trailed two of them into a store and watched as they attempted to cash a check. Catching the eye of the clerk considering the check, he signaled "lay off" and the check was refused.

When the checks which were cashed—four in all—bounced, the businessman turned in his accumulated data to Deputy Aurbrey Standard of the Howard County sheriff's office. Standard traced the car license and found it was owned by a resident of Snyder. From that point on, no trouble tracing down the four occupants arose and when confronted with the case against them, they readily admitted their guilt.

They came to the office of Sheriff Miller Harris voluntarily and after making written statements posted $1,500 bonds. They were then released. Standard said that the four youths have no previous records. He said they attempted to cash six checks July 17, and succeeded in cashing four, ranging from $1 to $15.50.

The defendants are Jimmy W. and James Monroe Crosson, 17-year-old twin brothers, Gale W. Potter, 17, and Doyle Sharp, 20.

Some Chance For Test Ban

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian Foreign Minister Howard Green returned from Geneva early today and said he feels there is some chance of agreement on a nuclear test ban at the 17-nation disarmament conference. Green said that while the decision of the Soviet Union to resume nuclear tests was regrettable, "taking all things together I think there is some chance of agreement on ending nuclear testing."

Firm Loses Battle To Block Inquiry

AMARILLO (AP)—A New York corporation which sold Billie Sol Estes vast quantities of fertilizer lost a legal battle today in which it sought to block a court of inquiry into its relations with the indicted promoter. Judge Robinson denied the chemical firm's petition after Texas Asst. Atty. Gen. Jack Price told her, "We expect the information to be obtained at this court of inquiry to be taken before a grand jury for the purpose of obtaining indictments. It will be used to obtain indictments of some employees and personnel of Commercial Solvents."

The court of inquiry was scheduled for 1 p.m., a delay from 9:30 a.m. because of the injunction hearing. Price said any witnesses testifying at the court of inquiry would receive immunity from prosecution.

Arguing that the testimony should be taken today, Price said, "We can't control when a witness is willing to make a trade." Today's hearing before Judge Robinson was on a petition for a temporary injunction, which was the object of today's court session. Commercial Solvents' petition charged improper use of a court of inquiry. The firm also said the publicity would deal "immediate and irreparable injury, loss or damage to Commercial Solvents." An anti-trust suit was filed May 15 against Estes and the firm. The inquiry before Potter County Judge W. M. Adams was to deal with anti-trust phases of the case. Four witnesses were subpoenaed. They are Harold Orr, president and Ruel Alexander, secretary-treasurer of Superior Manu-

Wasn't Much Rain, But It Was Welcome

Scattered early morning showers were noted throughout the county and in parts of Big Spring, but official rainfall measured only .05 of an inch at the U. S. Experiment Station. The Webb Air Force Base weather station recorded .03 of an inch. A light sprinkle beginning about 2 a.m. today did little more than dampen the pavement. A gauge in the Douglass Addition unofficially recorded .05 of an inch, but most gauges did not catch enough to measure. The Ackery area received a light shower Wednesday afternoon but received no moisture during the night. About mid-morning today the sky was overcast. Vincent received no rainfall. Lomax had a trace of rain early this morning, with prospects of more moisture, according to reports from McKinnon Grocery. Forsan also received a light sprinkle early today and shortly before noon the weather remained in six. East of the city, toward Osa, Chalk rain was hard enough to leave water standing on the pavement. Mitchell County received amounts ranging from .05 of an inch in Colorado City to 3 a.m. today to more than two inches at the Payne Community, in the southern part of the county. About an inch of moisture was registered at Champion Creek and Eskota, east of Sweetwater, received 2.11 inches.

Outing Turns Into Terror

—MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP)—A promised picnic outing that turned into a cross-country nightmare for a woman and her five children, finally ended in the Ozark Mountains of Arkansas. The end came Wednesday night when officers arrested Lonnie Hancock, accused of forcing his estranged wife and children to travel with him from California. His wife was scared to death. "His wife was scared to death," said Sheriff Jack Gregory. She kept saying she hoped we had a cell that would hold him because if he got loose he would come and kill her. Gregory and three deputies made the arrest after the eldest Hancock child, Dorothy, 18, told him her father had forced the family to leave California at gunpoint on July 10. The sheriff said he found a pistol, rifle and shotgun in the house. The girl said her father first told them he was taking them on a picnic and later threatened them. She said he kept a pistol handy all the time during the trip. "To make sure we didn't get away and he's a real light sleeper, so we didn't try anything."

Envoy To Peru On Way Home; Rulers Glad

LIMA, Peru (AP)—U.S. Ambassador James Lohb took off for Washington today to report on the military seizure of power, and the junta made it clear it was glad to see him leave Peru. A statement labeled semi-official but emanating from the foreign ministry said Lohb's departure would tend to ease existing tension between the two countries. It accused him of helping to create "a climate of misunderstanding in Washington," which cut off aid to Peru after the military coup last week. Asked about the charges, Lohb told newsmen at the airport, "I have heard about the statement and the foreign ministry will deny it." He said he hoped to return to Lima after he reports personally to President Kennedy. Police Wednesday night broke up a demonstration of 300 students protesting the overthrow of President Manuel Prado and "cutting" down with detouring. The rally was addressed by speakers identified as members of the leftist, but anti-Communist, American Popular Revolutionary Alliance. In Caracas, the Venezuelan foreign ministry said eight nations out of a required 11 have now asked for a hemisphere meeting of foreign ministers to protest the coup in Peru. The ministry said Ecuador and Salvador have joined Venezuela, Colombia, Costa Rica, Honduras, Panama and the Dominican Republic in demands for the meeting. It added that Guatemala was seriously studying the proposal. In Rio de Janeiro, however, a spokesman for the Brazilian foreign ministry said Brazil opposes the hemisphere meeting because it would smack of intervention in Peruvian affairs. The semi-official statement of Lohb said in part: "It is believed that the U.S. diplomat has without regard to his specific mission made incursions in the field of internal politics, showing clear predilection for one of the presidential candidates."

Agent Fires First

NEW YORK (AP)—Now you're going to get yours!" screamed the suspect dope peddler, pointing a revolver at a federal narcotics agent and two city detectives in the backyard of a Spanish Harlem tenement. But the agent fired first Wednesday night, and Luis Rodriguez, 23, fell dead, a bullet in his heart. Police said Rodriguez had a long record of narcotics arrests, and several packets of heroin were found on his body. He was shot by federal agent John Gallagher, who had posed as a narcotics addict.

REUNION FRIDAY

Old Settlers Keeping One Eye On Weather

Jess Slaughter, president of the Glascock Howard County Old Settlers Association, and his committee were worriedly scanning the cloudy skies and soggy countryside Thursday and wondering what kind of weather is in store for Friday. Friday is the day when pioneers of the two counties and their friends are to gather at the Big Spring City Park for the 38th annual reunion and barbecue picnic of the association. Preparations for the big event have been underway for the past month. It rains build up tonight the task of barbecuing 2,500 pounds of beef and the carcasses of 30 goats.

Joe Hayden, long-time worker with the annual picnic, said he could recall only two times in the 37 years that the reunions have been held when it rained. One of these, he said, was when the reunion was being staged in the county fair barns and no problem arose from the shower. If it rains tomorrow, the diners will be moved to some building—possibly the armory. Hayden said. Meantime, the committees are pushing ahead with plans just as though it had been guaranteed that Friday will be bright and shiny. The crew assigned to roasting the meat and preparing the other items will be at the park tonight. Fires for the barbecue pits will be lighted late today and the all-night job of watching the meat will be started around dark. Preparations for at least 2,000 registrations at the park were completed. Registration starts at 9 a.m. All persons who plan to be served at the dinner are asked to register. From 9 to 11 a.m. is "visiting" time. Pioneers from the two counties usually devote the morning hours to recalling the old days and other picnics. At 11 a.m. Walker Bailey county school superintendent will deliver the address of welcome. He will be followed by Rupert P. Ricker who will speak honoring the area's pioneers, both living and dead. Basically, Ricker's talk will be to honor the pioneers who have died since the last reunion. At noon, the dinner will be served. Five serving lines are planned and along these, the throng of hungry picknickers will move. The menu is typical West Texan—barbecued beef and goat, pinto beans, onions, pickles, stew, bread, iced tea, coffee or water. The old pioneers will be personally served but the bulk of the diners will get their food cafeteria style. At 2 p.m. the old fiddlers contests will begin under the pavilion. Hayden is in charge of this event. There are two contests this year—one restricted to old time fiddlers who live in Glascock and Howard Counties and a second open to all competitors. Prizes will be awarded in each contest. At 4 p.m. the old timers will elect officers for the ensuing year. Closing event of the day is the square dance at the pavilion which begins at 8 p.m. Additional contributors to the barbecue whose contributions have not been previously acknowledged include Security State Bank $15, Valma Gilmore, Sunland, Calif. $10, $5 each from Marvin Sewell, G. H. Hayward, L. D. Burchell, Hank McDaniel, Bimie White, T. A. Thigpen and J. D. Jones.

First Turkish Strike In 30 Years

IZMIR, Turkey (AP)—Three hundred street cleaners and garbage men stopped work today in Izmir in Turkey's first formal strike in more than 30 years. Despite a ban on strikes and lockouts the sanitation men said they'll stay out until they get a raise and an eight-hour day. They claim they now work 16 hours for 90 cents a day.

Food Poisoning Fells 100 People

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Food poisoning felled more than 100 persons in Budapest last Sunday, the Communist party organ Nepszabadsag reports. The poisoning was blamed on egg cream tart, sold by a small pastry shop. Some of those stricken were reported in serious condition.

Personnel Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—The Methodist Board of Missions is seeking 105 young men and women who will give the next two or three years to mission work combining humanitarian service with evangelism.

Meg Takes Up Water Skiing

LONDON (AP)—Following in Jacqueline Kennedy's ski steps, Princess Margaret has taken up water skiing. But Britain's pretty princess does it differently than America's pretty First Lady. Photographs last week showed Mrs. Kennedy in a bathing suit. A picture of Queen Elizabeth's sister today splashed down the front page of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express showing Margaret skiing in a skin-tight rubber suit on a small secluded lake near London. The difference between Britain's 70's summer weather and U.S. temperatures probably accounted for the difference in garb. Margaret also wore a flowered bathing cap. The President's wife apparently prefers a plain cap. Mrs. Kennedy seemed at ease and smiling as she zipped over the waters. The princess looked apprehensive, clutching the towing bar and rope as if holding on for dear life. As her instructor, Princess Margaret has her husband, Lord Snowdon. Water skiing is the second vigorous outdoor pastime embraced by the princess in recent weeks. Earlier this year, she hiked up her skirts and jumped on a motor cycle behind her husband.

Fire Truck Smashes Into Store

One woman was killed and 11 other persons injured when two fire trucks collided while answering an alarm during a severe thunderstorm in Baltimore, Md. This truck was hurled into a store, killing its owner, Mrs. Alexandria Makris, 62. Mrs. Makris' husband, a customer, and nine firemen were injured.

British Court Rejects Plea By U.S. Spy

LONDON (AP)—The British Court of Appeal today rejected convicted spy Robert A. Soblen's plea he be set free in Britain.

Lawyers for the 61-year-old psychiatrist contended his detention in prison is unlawful and that he should be freed in Britain under a writ of habeas corpus.

The British government contested the appeal on the ground that Soblen—under sentence of life imprisonment in the United States as a Soviet spy—had entered the country illegally and should be expelled.

The hearing opened before three British judges shortly after the Israeli Interior Ministry in Jerusalem rejected Soblen's application to be admitted to Israel as an immigrant. Soblen's Israeli lawyer, Ari Ankorian, was expected to appeal the ministry's ruling to the Israeli Supreme Court.

Soblen, who has leukemia and reportedly has only a few months to live, jumped $100,000 bail in New York and fled to Israel late last month. He entered Israel on a dead brother's Canadian passport and the Israeli government expelled him July 1 as an illegal immigrant.

He was put aboard an El Al Israeli airliner for New York. He slashed a wrist and plunged a knife into his abdomen.

He was removed from the plane in London and hospitalized. He is now almost recovered from his wounds.

Soblen cabled Ankorian to try again to get permission for him to enter Israel under the 1952 Law of Return which allows most Jews to claim a home in Israel.

Soblen also applied for political asylum in Britain.

Soblen sat in the well of the British court today in front of his counsel, F. Elwyn Jones. His left wrist—which he had slashed—was bandaged.

Moon Craft Bids Are Out

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Manned Spacecraft Center has asked 11 firms to submit designs for moon shot landing craft by Sept. 4.

The landing craft for the moon shot will carry a two-man crew operating from a mother ship carrying a third astronaut.

Invited Wednesday to submit proposals on the vehicle were Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the Boeing Co., Northrop Corp., Ling-Temco-Vought, Gruman Aircraft

India Will Seek Russ Jet Planes

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India has decided to open formal negotiations with the Soviet Union to buy and manufacture MIG21 jet fighter planes, authoritative sources said today.

Reports of the negotiating team will be reviewed by Prime Minister Nehru's cabinet before a final decision is made to close the deal, the sources added.

Jet Fires Rocket 1,000 Miles High

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—The Navy says a jet plane fired a two-stage Caleb rocket 1,000 miles into space to measure the ion composition of the earth's upper atmosphere.

The rocket, fired Wednesday from a McDonnell F4H-2 Phantom jet, carried a 120-pound payload designed by the Navy Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C.

The Navy declined to say whether the instrument package or rocket went into orbit or how information will be sent back to earth.

Zanuck Takes Over As Head Of Floundering Film Studio

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran producer Darryl F. Zanuck began his first full day as president of financially ailing 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. today with a call for sweeping reforms to put the firm back in the black.

Zanuck, 59, a Hollywood executive and largest stockholder in 20th Century-Fox, was elected on Wednesday night to succeed Spyros Skouras, effective immediately.

Skouras, 69, announced his pending resignation last June 27 in the wake of bitter criticism by stockholders who saw their investments consistently lose money over the last several years. Skouras was named chairman of the board Wednesday night. He succeeded Samuel I. Rosenman, who was named chairman last April 15 and resigned because he said the post took up too much of his time.

Zanuck started his Hollywood career as a screen writer and later turned to production and executive duties with Warner Brothers before becoming vice president in charge of production at Fox.

Although Zanuck's salary was not disclosed, it was known that Skouras received $139,000 last year from Fox.

Through a studio press agent, Skouras had said he was leaving the post for health reasons.

Zanuck conceded disastrous losses by the company but appeared convinced Fox was on solid ground in spending a reported $30 million in production of "Cleopatra" with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

"It has been claimed for many motion pictures, but Cleopatra will be the greatest single entertainment achievement in any medium in theatrical history," he predicted.

The company also had poured about $2 million into production of "Something's Got to Give" before it was scrapped in a dispute with its star, Marilyn Monroe.

"I have no illusions about the present plight of the company," Zanuck said in explaining losses in production and distribution over the last several years.

The loss from those activities, he estimated, will be about $10 million for the first half of this year.

"But the company also has great assets and even greater potentiaities and I am determined to apply all my strength, resourcefulness and knowledge to restore 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. to preeminence.

He said he will soon announce a complete streamlining of Fox methods to bring them in line with radical changes that came about in the industry within the last decade.

The board of directors at Wednesday night's meeting of almost four hours also named four directors to increase the board from 11 to 15. They are Zanuck, William Wyler, director and producer, Arnold Grant, an attorney, and Francis Lovian, a business executive.

Zanuck is completing production of "The Longest Day," reported to cost about $10 million. The picture is a dramatization of Cornelius Ryan's account of the Allied invasion of Normandy in World War II.

Zanuck, who owns more than 100,000 shares of Fox stock helped found the company in 1933.

'Indestructible' Is Heart Victim

DALLAS (AP)—A man whose underworld brushes with death earned him the nickname "Indestructible," died at his home in nearby Grand Prairie after a heart attack Wednesday.

He was G. W. Jettie Bass, 43, an underworld character who ran with such hoodlums as the late Herbert Noble, Lois Green and Cecil Green, had not figured in Dallas crime news since 1956.

He was once so well-known that in 1949 two Dallas cops arrested him under a city ordinance that undesirable characters could not use the city streets.

Storms Move In 3 Regions

By The Associated Press
A line of showers and thunder-showers poured down on a section of the central Atlantic seaboard early today and the Southwest and Rocky Mountain areas.
Shortly after midnight, a heavy rain struck parts of Texas. About one inch of rain fell in an hour at Ft. Worth, sometimes accompanied by winds up to 60 miles per hour.

The storm moved on to Dallas where more than 1 inch of rain fell in 15 minutes and nearly 3 inches fell in 45 minutes.
A funnel cloud was reported in the Dallas vicinity around midnight, but no confirmation or reports of injuries or damages were made.

Rain also fell over parts of Arizona, Colorado, eastern Washington, Montana, central New York state and over West Virginia.

Temperatures were mostly seasonal, ranging upward from the 50s over the Pacific Coast states, through the 60s and 70s over most of the country and into the 80s in the South.

The early morning's highest reading was 102 degrees at Needles, Calif.

Milwaukee had a morning record low of 50, one degree under the previous low for the date set in 1946.

Heavy rains fell Wednesday over parts of the South and Northeast.

Knoxville and Chattanooga, Tenn., got about 2 inches of rain, and Tupelo, Miss., more than 4 inches. More than 1 inch fell at Watertown, N.Y., and nearly an inch was reported at Syracuse, N.Y.

Marshall Death Dispute Continues

AUSTIN (AP)—Homer Garrison, state police director, said today his forces will continue to investigate the mystery shooting of U.S. farm official Henry Marshall "as a murder."

Garrison said this after a letter had been made public from a member of the Robertson County grand jury which probed Marshall's death for six weeks.

Pryse Metcalfe Jr., a Franklin businessman, told Garrison he disagreed with Garrison, who termed Marshall's death as murder.
Marshall was looking into the cotton allotment dealings of fallen West Texas promoter Billie Sol Estes. Marshall was found dead on his ranch near Franklin June 3, 1961. He was shot five times. A bolt-action 22-caliber rifle lay near his side.

Metcalfe, the son-in-law of Robertson County Sheriff Howard Stegall who made the first investigation, said the letter was prompted after he was told by Dist. Judge John M. Barron that the state police had not looked at the transcript of the grand jury proceedings before making the murder statement.

"Our investigator worked with the grand jury at Franklin and therefore had access to the same information," Garrison said. "The fact that different conclusions have been drawn is unfortunate but it does not alter our duty to pursue our investigation of this case as a murder at this time."

Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ, who with Barron, called the grand jury into session in May to investigate the death, said he does not think a new grand jury, empaneled July 1, will reopen the case.

Garrison stuck by his "very positive opinion" that Marshall was murdered.

Estes, under both federal and state indictments, is now in involuntary bankruptcy and his assets are being held by a receiver.

Businessmen of Big Spring will be hosts to the Senior Master Sergeants, Chief Master Sergeants and Master Sergeants at the Base. The affair is to be a western-type barbecue feed at the Big Spring Country Club, at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 23.

Preliminary arrangements for the hospitality event were discussed Tuesday by a C-C committee. Invitations will go later to all the group of sergeants (about 50 of them) and tickets to provide for one civilian host and one military guest will be distributed to the businessmen of the community.

State Needed In Suit, Court Tells Meyer

AUSTIN (AP)—The Supreme Court today suspended Jefferson County Sheriff Charles Meyer Wednesday he must bring the state into his suit before the court can consider it.

Meyer asked the court to prevent plaintiffs in his ouster suit from forcing him to give them a sworn deposition.

The court: Dismissed his motion on the grounds that the state was not made a party to the suit.

Authorized him to amend his petition so as to make the state a party.

And prevented the plaintiffs from further attempts to take his deposition until the question is settled.

"We have no power to decide either way until the state is made a party. The only thing we can do is dismiss it," said Chief Justice Robert Calvert.

Calvert said the case can be heard during the court's recess which begins this week, only if Atty. Gen. Will Wilson waives the right to give oral arguments.
If Wilson does not agree instead to file a written brief, the case cannot be heard until the court reconvenes in October, Calvert said.

Meyer's lawyer, Gilbert Adams of Beaumont, argued that the ouster suit was essentially criminal, not civil, and therefore prevented the taking of the deposition because:

1. Texas rules of criminal procedure forbid a deposition being taken in a criminal action.
2. Meyer could claim his rights against testifying against himself guaranteed in the Texas constitution.

W. G. Waley Jr. of Beaumont, representing those initiating the ouster suit, contended that under Texas laws such an action is civil and therefore neither self-incrimination protection nor the rules of criminal procedure applies.

Meyer was indicted Nov. 1, on charges of false swearing under the election code. Later an ouster suit was filed alleging both misconduct and incompetencies. The ouster suit only was involved in the argument Wednesday.

Former San Antonio Police Chief Slain

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Bruce Weatherly, a former police chief in two cities and reported under consideration to help reorganize police departments in Brazil, was shot to death Wednesday.

His widow, Inez, 41, was charged with murder and freed on $7,500 bond a few hours later.

"God forgive me, I just couldn't stand it any longer," Mrs. Weatherly said.

Weatherly, 47, died shortly after noon. The former police chief in San Antonio and Madison, Wis., was shot once in the abdomen.

Mrs. Weatherly, mother of two daughters, told police she took the gun from a nightstand and pulled the hammer back. The gun went off.

She said it was the first time she had ever handled a gun.

Police Lt. David Keene said: "We still don't have a motive, she's in shock and can't talk."

Mrs. Weatherly, her daughter, Jeanne, 19, and the girl's husband, James Maxwell, 22, were in the kitchen chatting over a cup of coffee when they heard a thump upstairs.

Mrs. Weatherly went upstairs, Maxwell said. About 10 minutes later a shot rang out. Mrs. Weatherly came down the stairs with a gun in her hand, Maxwell said, and told them:

"I just shot your daddy."
She called Bill McGee, a detective and family friend.

"I just shot Bruce, I think he is dead," she told McGee.

The widow told police her husband had been drinking.

Weatherly was appointed police chief in San Antonio at the age of 33 in 1946. He was chief for a year and was demoted to inspector.

In 1949 he went to Madison, where he modernized the records system, tightened security and originated a cruising paddy wagon patrol.

He was Madison chief for 10 years. He was fired in 1959 after a wreck involving his police car and a truck.

Mrs. Weatherly filed a petition to have him committed to San Antonio State Hospital last year. The petition was withdrawn when he voluntarily entered a Galveston hospital.

Police Lt. David Keene said: "We still don't have a motive, she's in shock and can't talk."

Mrs. Weatherly, her daughter, Jeanne, 19, and the girl's husband, James Maxwell, 22, were in the kitchen chatting over a cup of coffee when they heard a thump upstairs.

Mrs. Weatherly went upstairs, Maxwell said. About 10 minutes later a shot rang out. Mrs. Weatherly came down the stairs with a gun in her hand, Maxwell said, and told them:

"I just shot your daddy."
She called Bill McGee, a detective and family friend.

"I just shot Bruce, I think he is dead," she told McGee.

The widow told police her husband had been drinking.

Weatherly was appointed police chief in San Antonio at the age of 33 in 1946. He was chief for a year and was demoted to inspector.

Webb Sergeants Will Be Honored

A get-acquainted party honoring the senior non-commissioned officers at Webb Air Force Base will be held next month under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce Business Community Council.

Businessmen of Big Spring will be hosts to the Senior Master Sergeants, Chief Master Sergeants and Master Sergeants at the Base. The affair is to be a western-type barbecue feed at the Big Spring Country Club, at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 23.

Preliminary arrangements for the hospitality event were discussed Tuesday by a C-C committee. Invitations will go later to all the group of sergeants (about 50 of them) and tickets to provide for one civilian host and one military guest will be distributed to the businessmen of the community.

Kovacs' Widow Gains Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Edie Adams, widow of comedian Ernie Kovacs, has purchased the main asset of his estate by paying $25,000 cash and assuming $1,949,395 in mortgages.

The deal approved in court Wednesday, gave Miss Adams sole title to the California Racquet Club, a 4 1/2 acre property in suburban Palms.

Kovacs' estate was once given a paper value of $2.1 million but claims against it now exceed its present assets, court records showed.

Recordings

Dr. W. A. Raney, left, chief soil physicist of U.S.D.A., and Dr. Jim Box, study recordings of research carried on at the Big Spring field station.

Other participating in the review were Dr. Earl Burnett, Research Investigations Leader of Soil Management in the Southern Plains Branch; Dr. Box, Soil Physicist, Big Spring; Norman Welch, Soil Fertility, Big Spring; Dr. Howard Taylor, Soil Physicist, Big Spring; and Dr. Aubra Mathers, Soil Fertility, Southwestern Great Plains Field Station, Bushland.

Dr. Raney and Dr. Johnston were reviewing past, present, and projected soil physics research at the Big Spring field station.

"Studies relating to soil compaction, moisture conservation, wind erosion, soil fertility, and plant-soil-water relationships were being considered," Dr. Box said.

Research at the U.S. Big Spring Field Station was being reviewed Wednesday by Dr. W. A. Raney and Dr. J. R. Johnston, both of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to Dr. James F. Box, station superintendent.

Dr. Raney is chief soil physicist for the USDA's Soil and Water Conservation Research Division of the Agricultural Research Service, from Washington, D.C., and that Dr. Johnston is chief, Soil and Water Conservation Research Division, USDA, of the Southern Plains Branch, with headquarters at Amarillo.

Into-Autumn Apparel Shown At OWC Coffee

Into autumn wear was presented for Wednesday's hail and farewell coffee given at the Officers Club, Webb AFB. Hostesses were wives of Class 63-G, with Mrs. Oliver Field, class coordinator, and Mrs. L. L. Patton newcomers coffee chairman, in charge.

Mrs. James M. Gehrig Jr., chairman of the Wives Club, after announcing coming events called on Mrs. Wilson Banks to make the introductions, including the newcomers, wives of Col. Rex Fryer, Col. Harold C. Collins, Lt. Col. Herbert H. Dahke, Lt. Col. William A. Clair and Lt. Col. Bedford R. Underwood.

The coffee table featured a pyramid arrangement of bronze and gold mugs, while other tables were centered with hoop-skirted, pipe cleaner dolls in threesomes on lace doilies.

Appearing before autumn scenery, models paraded before the audience wearing styles from Margie's which introduced the latest change-of-season attire. Models were Mrs. Charles Wehnhoner, Mrs. Lonnie T. Sanford III, Mrs. P. S. Watson Jr., Mrs. Tom Goldman, Mrs. Ron Martin, Mrs. Jim Johnston, Mrs. Ernest Andry, Mrs. Bob Miller, Mrs. Ernie Solomon, Mrs. Robert Wransky, Mrs. Jim Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Powell, Mrs. Roland Smith and Mrs. Robert McKee.

First on the program was Mrs. Watson, wearing a dark cotton plaid having white collar and cuff trim, followed by a display of coordinates by Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Ernest Andry. That cowboy look was had by Mrs. Johnston.

For Removing Shells

Hard cooked eggs get rubbery and tough in boiling water. It is best to keep water just below or at simmering temperature. Place eggs in a pan of cold water and shake pan to crack shells against sides. Drain water. Put in cold water again, let eggs set in it for a few minutes and remove shells.

Black or brown accessories would be appropriate for an all-occasion, brown-toned suit worn by Mrs. McKee, or if it's a tea or coffee affair, the brown checked dress that Mrs. Sanford wore would be appropriate. Beautifully attired, Mrs. Wehnhoner appeared in a black suit, trimly fitted and detailed with black lace trim.

For the late afternoon hour, Mrs. Solomon was appropriate in a black sheath having draped bodice. And an evening would be elegant with a toast chiffon cocktail

Domesticity Is Lacking Prestige

WASHINGTON — If women did not have a low grade opinion of their own value around the house, at least one Very Important Working Mother would have a lot less work to do.

She is Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor and director of the Women's Bureau. As such she has recently been busy urging Congress to eliminate inequities in wages, job and advancement opportunities among some 25 million women in the nation's working force.

But she also wrinkles her brow about two other problems: the working mother's need for dependable help at home, and the need for more employment opportunities for the mature woman without previous business training or experience.

These two dilemmas could solve each other, and industry could benefit at the same time, points out Mrs. Peterson who has four young boys at home. "But everybody has to have a little more respect for domesticity. We need to make it a bit more of a profession."

dress and rhinestones as that worn by Mrs. Field. Just for fun Mrs. Wilson displayed the popular Capri ensemble, followed by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Powell in just-for-two cottons.

Mrs. Jan O'Hara provided piano accompaniment, and narration was by Mrs. Steve Baker. Prizes were won by Mrs. Standley McGhan, Mrs. Gene Frampton and Mrs. Richard Davis.

Good Enough To Eat

Mmmm, good! Most yellow cakes with chocolate icing are good enough to eat, although few are pretty and tasty enough to win first place in the Howard County 4-H Club Favorite Food contest...

Little-Girl Recipes Do Add Up To Perfection

A familiar phrase, "You're never too old to learn," is true, however, there is such a thing as "you're never too young to learn"—especially when it comes to cooking. Twelve-year-old Margaret Zike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Zike of Vincent, proved that young as she is, she is a good cook.

Margaret holds the first place award in the 1962 Howard County 4-H Club Favorite Food Contest, held July 12. She also won a red ribbon, highest award given in her division in the bread and cereal division of the junior district contest held in Lubbock, Tuesday. Twenty counties were represented in competition and there were 15 entries in her division.

Her prize-winning recipe for a two-layer yellow cake with chocolate icing was handed down to her by her grandmother, Mrs. H. G. Zike, Roswell, N.M. It is a variation of a Japanese fruit cake, butting fruit ingredients. In regard to winning, Margaret says, "I didn't think I had a chance. The cake was graded on taste, texture and appearance. The table setting, flower arrangement and colors chosen for her display were also taken into consideration."

Before Mrs. Zike began teaching her daughter the culinary arts she taught her points on table setting and etiquette. Between her mother's teachings and what she has learned in two years as a member of the Gay Hill 4-H Food Group, she has gained an exceptional knowledge of cooking for her age.

Cooking complete meals generally is not practiced by Margaret, however, she can prepare a meal by herself. Presently, she helps her mother by making only one part of the meal at a time. She is looking forward to baking old-fashioned cinnamon rolls and barbecuing chickens. The most difficult part of cooking for Margaret is applying cake icing. The majority of Margaret's recipes are taken from the 4-H Favorite Foods cookbook. The ingredients and procedures are written

Cinnamon Rolls Were Designed For Snacks

By Cecily Brownstone, Associated Press Food Editor. If the snacking addicts around your house enjoy home-baked cinnamon rolls with their coffee, tea or milk, the chances are they'll go for this new version of the venerable yeast rised bun. The good butter, sugar, cinnamon and raisins in the filling of these new cinnamon rolls have fresh pears added, and the recipe fills two 6-inch layer-cake pans. When we tried the recipe in my kitchen, one batch got eaten speedily. The other batch went into our freezer. It's comforting to know it's there all ready to take out some Sunday when guests are coming to brunch. We like the rolls warm; if you agree, reheat them.

- CINNAMON PEAR ROLLS
1/2 cup very warm (105 to 115 degrees) water
1 pkg active dry yeast
1/2 cup milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
3/4 cups flour
2 large firm Bartlett pears
2 tpsps cinnamon
1/2 cup raisins, rinsed in hot water and drained
In a mixing bowl, stir together water and yeast until yeast is dissolved. Stir in milk, 1/2 cup of the sugar, salt, egg, 1/2 cup of the butter and about half the flour. Beat vigorously until dough is smooth. Add remaining flour and work with hands to make a firm but not stiff dough. If necessary, add a little more flour. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth. Place in a bowl, cover with a damp cloth, let rise in a warm place 90 to 95 degrees until double in bulk—about 1 1/2 hours. Roll into an 18 by 12 inch rectangle, spread with the remaining 1/2 cup butter. Core pears; grate coarsely; mix with remaining 1/2 cup sugar, cinnamon and raisins; spoon over butter-spread dough, roll up as for a jelly roll. Cut into 18 1-inch slices and arrange in two greased round cake pans, each 9 by 1 1/2 inches. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 25 to 30 minutes or until golden-brown. Turn out and serve warm with butter.

Hoagies Are Special In New Jersey

By Cecily Brownstone, Associated Press Food Editor

When you order a Hoagie in most parts of the country, you probably get a sandwich made from a mammoth crusty roll and an Italian-style assortment of cold meats, cheese, fish, olives and salad vegetables.

But not in New Jersey. On a recent drive through that state's countryside, we were attracted by an enormous sign, HOAGIES, at a roadside restaurant. We were also lured by the group of people relaxing around outdoor tables and relishing giant sandwiches.

So Hoagies were ordered. Up came the usual large rolls, but not the expected filling. Instead there were tender slices of beef smothered in barbecue sauce.

The restaurant owner's wife waited on us. When we commented that the sandwiches were misnamed, she rose to their defense. "You're talking about Heroes and Submarines," she said. "Around here Hoagies are made with steak and sauce. The teenagers started the combination, and they were our first customers. Now their parents come, too."

Whatever its name, this sandwich is great party fare. So simple to prepare at home! Broiled flank steak may be used for the meat and this sweet and slightly spicy sauce may be put together in about five minutes. For a teen-ager party menu, you might like to add a finger-food salad, fresh fruit and cookies, and a bowl of the new dry-toasted peanuts for nibbling.

- NEW JERSEY HOAGIES
1 can (15 1/2 ozs.) spaghetti sauce with mushrooms, tomato base
2 tpsps dark brown sugar
3 tpsps lemon juice
1/2 cup minced onion
1 tsp salt
2 tpsps prepared mustard
1/4 tsp Worcestershire sauce
Broiled flank steak
Large crusty rolls
Lots of paper napkins
In a small saucepan mix together the spaghetti sauce, sugar, lemon juice, onion, salt, mustard and Worcestershire. Bring to a boil over moderate heat; reduce heat and cook gently about 5 minutes. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce. Slice the steak thin across the grain and sandwich meat and some of the hot sauce into the rolls as served. Serve with paper napkins.

measuring spoons, chop plate or platter, waxed paper, fork, spoon, chopping board and soft towel or paper towels. Now, wash salad greens and fruits and arrange on cabinet or working space.

Cut core out of lettuce and pull leaves apart. Pat dry and place four leaves on a chop plate or platter. Chop apples and place in large mixing bowl. Grate rind from part of one orange. Pare oranges by cutting round and round the orange with a slight sawing motion, cutting the peel away in a continuing spiral. Cut orange in half lengthwise. Place half orange cut side down and cut lengthwise again. Slice crosswise. Peel bananas and cut crosswise into circles. Add to apples and oranges. Pare grapefruit the same as oranges. Make wedges by cutting down beside each white segment wall and slipping out fruit sections. Add to other fruits. In small mixing bowl combine salad dressing, fruit juice and orange peel. Pour over fruit. With a fork, gently lift the fruit over so each piece becomes coated with dressing. Arrange one fourth of salad on each lettuce leaf. Serves four.

Carrots were a fashion item at one time. Stylish English ladies used the feathery leaves in their hair when the plant was first brought to England from Holland. The earliest colonists in America are known to have grown carrots. Indians learned to like them so well they would raid pioneer gardens and often steal only carrots.

Those days have passed, but the carrot holds important prestige as a versatile food, compatible with most other vegetables. The tasty root may be boiled as a fresh vegetable and served with butter or white sauce. It may be diced and creamed with peas. Carrots are often fried, roasted with meat, or used in soups and other meat dishes. Try glazing them in honey or brown sugar for serving with pork or poultry. Raw carrot sticks are popular in any company.

Few vegetables are as rich in vitamin A as carrots. Most of the deep-orange or orange-red color of carrots is due to carotene, a chemical substance which the body converts into vitamin A. And this vitamin is needed for body growth, normal vision, and healthy skin and other body surfaces.

Polish-American Pot Roast. The American version of the Polish Stufada uses modern bacon for flavor in place of salt pork formerly tucked into slits in the beef pot roast. A blade bone or rump roast of beef may be used in this recipe, though a round bone beef pot roast is shown here.

- POLISH-AMERICAN POT ROAST
4 to 5 pound round bone beef pot roast
8 slices bacon
2 tpsps lemon juice
1 tsp salt
1/2 tsp pepper
4 medium carrots, pared and quartered
6 medium onions, peeled
4 peppercorns
1/2 cup water
Cut the bacon into small pieces. Cook the bacon in a heavy kettle. Remove the bits of bacon from the kettle. Pour off all but 2 tablespoonsful of the drippings. Brown the pot roast in the bacon drippings. Slip a rack under the roast in the kettle. Add the bits of cooked bacon and remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and simmer 2 to 3 hours or until fork-tender. Make gravy by thickening drippings in the pan with flour.

Pretty Salad Is Easy To Prepare. This salad looks pretty, tastes refreshing, and is easy to prepare.

- SYBIL'S SALAD
1 pkg (3 ozs.) raspberry-flavored gelatin
1 container (8 ozs.) cream-style cottage cheese
Watermelon balls
Water cress
Mayonnaise or French dressing
Make up the gelatin according to package directions substituting, if you like, 1/2 cup dry red wine for 1/2 cup of the cold water. Turn into six individual molds; chill until set.
At serving time unmold the gelatin and arrange on one large or individual salad plates with mounds of the cottage cheese and watermelon balls; garnish with water cress; pass the salad dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Serve Corncakes For Breakfast. For your next Saturday breakfast serve fresh corncakes with sliced strawberries with cream, bacon and maple syrup and a beverage.

- FRESH CORNCAKES
8 large ears fresh corn (husks and silks removed)
2 large eggs
1/2 tsp salt
2 tpsps sugar
3 tpsps flour
1 tsp baking powder
Butter for frying
Sift corn kernels by cutting lengthwise down middle of each ear with a sharp knife; cut off kernels, with back of knife scrape downward to extract soft pulp and milk. There should be 2 cups corn pulp. Beat eggs until thick and foamy; colored add salt, sugar, flour, baking powder and corn; beat lightly to combine. Using a heaping tablespoon of the mixture for each corncake, bake on well-buttered griddle or in skillet until browned on both sides. Keep cakes warm in low oven until all are fried. Makes about 32.

Turkey Good Holidays? Tasty In Summer, Too

Turkey meat is ideal for summertime meals. A whole roast cooked turkey, chilled until firm, and leftovers are perfect for sandwiches and salads.

When buying turkeys remember the larger ones are usually the best buy, for you'll probably pay a lower price per pound and get more actual meat per pound. But turkey is a bargain whatever size you buy. What other meat can you serve so economically that provides such a wide variety of uses?

Perk up summer appetites with a cool refreshing Turkey Mold. Stir apple-flavored gelatin into boiling water until dissolved and add lemon juice and salt. Chill until the mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Pour about half the gelatin into a ring mold and top with sliced white cooked turkey. Chill until firm. Fold chopped turkey, celery and halved seeded green grapes into the remainder of the gelatin. Pour into ring mold over firm gelatin. Chill until firm, unmold and garnish.

Nutritionists recommend this basic turkey salad that can be served in many tempting ways. Start with diced cooked turkey and chopped celery. Add mayonnaise and season with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Chill in the refrigerator.

Serve this basic salad on lettuce or other salad greens, adding slices of colorful fresh tomatoes. Vary the basic salad by adding ful this summer, reflecting the record pack of more than 100 million gallons of concentrate. Fresh pears, especially appealing when served almost frosty, will be moving to markets in good supply.

Are such foods in the luxury class, somewhat difficult to find at the average supermarket? Not at all. In fact, such items dominate the plentiful foods list for this area.

Fresh peaches and cantaloupes top this plentiful list. How good they are chilled for breakfast, snacks, lunch and dinner. Not only are they good when served chilled, but they look good. Serve chilled peaches or cantaloupes with cold or hot meats and see how both are devoured.

Both fresh and processed lemons and limes—often labeled as the most refreshing items that can be served in hot weather—are in much better supply than last year. Lemons and limes are so refreshing in fragrance and color that just a basket of them on the table seems to drop the temperature 20 degrees.

Frozen orange juice is plentiful this summer, reflecting the record pack of more than 100 million gallons of concentrate. Fresh pears, especially appealing when served almost frosty, will be moving to markets in good supply.

Melons On Market At Low Prices

Watermelon prices dropped to the lowest point this season in most Texas markets, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Many retailers featured medium-size melons for $1. Farmers sold their melons for as little as a dime each.

First new crop apples and pears arrived at many Texas markets. Also, there were increased offerings of nectarines and plums.

Some better buys include cabbage, okra, field peas, cucumbers, lettuce, onions and peppers.

Generally, higher prices were posted this week for snap beans, top quality cantaloupes, tomatoes and summer squash.

Turkey and hamburger meat were in the bargain spotlight at Texas meat counters. Eggs and broiler-fryers edged slightly higher, reflecting stronger farm prices.

Frozen concentrated orange juice as well as both fresh and processed lemons and limes promise real bargains in better prices. Heavy supplies have prompted sharp discounts.

Many retailers offered attractive discounts on sandwich supplies.

Cool Atmosphere With Crisp Fruits, Juices

Cool and refreshing. How can you give this kind of atmosphere to your meals during the torrid summer days?

Serve foods which—because of their color, their texture and their natural goodness when chilled—automatically create this cool and refreshing feeling.

Are such foods in the luxury class, somewhat difficult to find at the average supermarket? Not at all. In fact, such items dominate the plentiful foods list for this area.

Serve Family This Delicious Cookie

A simple crisp cookie with a hint of orange and cloves is Emmie's Cookies. Try them.

- EMMIE'S COOKIES
3 cups sifted flour
2 tpsps baking powder
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp ground cloves
2-3 cup butter or margarine
1 1/3 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 tpsps frozen orange juice, undiluted

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and cloves. Cream butter and sugar; beat in eggs thoroughly, one at a time. Beat in orange juice. Gradually stir in flour until combined. Chill thoroughly.

Roll about 1/4-inch thick working with one-quarter dough at a time) on a prepared pastry cloth with well-floured stockinet-covered rolling pin. Cut into 2-inch rounds. Bake a few inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets in hot (400 degrees) oven until lightly browned—8 to 9 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Store in tightly covered container. Makes about 6 dozen.

Show The Labels. When arranging cans, jars and packages of food on kitchen shelves, make sure the labels show.

One-Armed Gardener

Vincent La Carter, is 97 or 98 years old—he isn't sure about his age—and he has only one arm, but neither keeps him from being an active gardener at his home in Waco. A native of Sicily, La Carter lost his right arm in an accident 30 years ago.

Propane Blast Brings Havoc To Village

BERLIN, N.Y. (AP) — At 5:30 p.m. in the picturesque hamlet of Berlin in eastern New York, dinner was on the stove, the men were returning from work, and Gene Merrills was standing beside a barn—

"God, it was like a clap of thunder. A bomb. Everything lit up red," Merrills said.

A load of propane gas on a tractor-trailer exploded Wednesday, spurring the flaming liquid as far as a half-mile within this community of 400. The truck driver was injured fatally and 15 men, women and children were hospitalized. Ten of them remained in critical condition today.

In addition, a woman who had to flee from her home, which was scorched by the fire, died of a heart attack early today in the home of a son here. She was Mrs. Mabel H. Wager, 77.

A dozen homes and the 179-year-old Baptist Church were in ruins.

Eight of the injured were in Putnam Memorial Hospital, Bennington, Vt., six were in Samaritan Hospital, Troy, N.Y., and two others were discharged after treatment in Troy.

BRAKES BLAMED

Thunderheads were gathering in the sky as Robert J. McLucas, 39, of Pomeroy, Pa., took his big truck loaded with the twisting two-mile hill leading into this community folded into a valley between the Grafton Mountains and the Berkshires near the intersection of the New York-Massachusetts-Vermont state lines. At some point, the brakes apparently failed, State Police said, and McLucas leaned on his horn in warning as the vehicle picked up speed. Some witnesses said the brakes appeared to be on fire.

About 50 yards from the village square with its Civil War statue, the truck reached a turn near the bottom of the hill. It jackknifed, the trailer broke off.

There was a pause, then a pop, then a blam. The flames must have gone 150 to 200 feet in the air, bright orange. That was the account of Holden Gutermuth, 24, who witnessed it from a field.

McLucas was blown 350 feet. He died about two hours later.

MASS OF FIRE

Postmaster Robert Moses was closing up for the day. He looked at the house he had built himself. "It was terrible. It was a mass of fire." His wife was inside.

Held back by the searing heat, Moses watched as his wife crawled into the breezeway, then through the garage, over the car and through a window.

She was critically burned.

Three homes were enveloped immediately in flames and hunks of fire soared off to strike in a crazy-quilt pattern among the few dozen white clapboard homes in Berlin and the church. A barn a half-mile away housing two school buses was ignited.

A man painting his house a quarter-mile away was blown from his ladder.

The immediate blast occurred in front of the home of Kenneth McCumber, 53, and his wife, Florence, 55. The house disintegrated.

"You could see the clapboards come right off the place," said Clifford Shuhart, who found the McCumbers crawling in a field about 400 feet away. They, too, were burned critically.

ALL AFIRE

Next on the hill was the Brazie home. Inside were John Brazie, 23, his wife, Mary, 197 and their son, John Jr., 18 months.

"I saw a woman and baby run out of a house. They were all afire. It was horrible," said Miss Leona Gayle Jones, 21, who was driving home from her state job in nearby Albany.

The Brazies were in critical condition.

Sixteen fire departments from communities in the county and from Massachusetts fought the flames. At least 11 ambulances, 21 state troopers, and a sheriff's deputies responded.

Vaccination Foe Speaks Out

RELEASE: Northern Ireland (AP)—The British Medical Association has called for a searching government probe into the mass vaccination of infants against smallpox. The powerful organization of Britain's 67,000 doctors acted less than 24 hours after a top microbiologist, Dr. George Dick, declared that mass vaccinations against smallpox killed more people than rare outbreaks of the disease itself. Addressing the association's annual convention Tuesday night, Dick said that 20 babies a year would be sacrificed if the British Ministry of Health went ahead with a campaign to mass vaccinate children. He referred to fatal complications arising from vaccination. In London, the Health Ministry said earlier it is holding to its goal of smallpox vaccinations for every British baby despite the report of Dick, who is head of the Department of Microbiology at Queen's University, Belfast. The association began its own private reappraisal of the value of vaccination earlier this year after a smallpox outbreak that hit parts of England and Wales, killing 30 people. The outbreak scared millions of Britons into a rush for vaccinations. Dick's report startled Britain, where vaccination for children is regarded as a routine procedure in the government child care program. Dick said only persons likely to be exposed to smallpox should be vaccinated, and that others should be immunized only when an outbreak of the disease threatened. He reported that in 10 years 2.6 million babies under a year old had been vaccinated, and of these 27 had died of complications. At present about one in every four infants is vaccinated.

A Devotional For The Day

Demas has deserted me for love of the present world.
(II Timothy 4:10. Goodspeed.)
PRAYER: Help me, O Father, to listen to Thee this day, and to be strong in faith and in courage to resist drifting into sin. Be the strength of our lives this day; through Christ our Lord. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

Locomotives Without Firemen

Having been unable to make the point by negotiation, the railroad of the United States intend on August 16 to put into effect the work rules recommended in February by the Presidential Railroad Commission.

The most serious question involved here, though other parts of the report are important, is eventual elimination of firemen or locomotive helpers from freight and yard engines.

Inauguration of the new rules doubtless will be suspended for at least 60 days by appointment of a further emergency board under the Railway Labor Act. If they should thereafter go into effect they would cause dismissal of 13,000 firemen during the following year, though with lump-sum or extended separation pay.

The remaining 27,000 firemen (with over 10 years' seniority) in this type of service would continue to hold their jobs but would not be replaced when they retired or left railroading. This means a diminution of opportunity for new employees, but that opportunity will continue to fade even more rapidly if the railroads cannot meet their competition.

Railroad unions, particularly the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, cited to the presidential commission many cases in which presence of locomotive helpers had averted accidents on railroads or at street crossings. Notably a Long Island Railroad fireman scooped a 17-month-old child from the path of a commuter train.

But these extra watchers will be retained on passenger service, and presumably other safety factors can be introduced in yard and freight operations. At any rate the commission concluded that without coal fires to stoke there is no further compelling need for firemen or helpers on diesel freight and yard locomotives.

If an emergency board should confirm the judgment of the commission there will be drastic changes in railway operation. It is to be hoped that wisdom and judgment will prevail to meet the situation without strife.

Have We Failed Again?

In formality, there has been an agreement to bring about neutrality in Laos. In actuality, there must be misgivings.

One of those who is pessimistic is Richard Starnes, a newspaper commentator who for some weeks has been right in the heart of the Laotian affair, and who presumably is in position to report authoritatively.

Readers may see Starnes' column on this page today as he says that in all likelihood, the agreement will come to naught.

Starnes thinks that the withdrawal of North Viet Nam troops from South Viet Nam will never be accomplished, and that the United States for its part in the power play, will be able to do nothing about it.

Starnes' view is that the United States again has lost at the conference table, and that the loss is being covered up with a great deal of Washington pap that covers up for what is or is not our foreign policy in the Far East.

It must reasonably be expected that if the Laos agreement collapses, Thailand can be next in the spreading Communist net. And Thailand, as of today, is considered one of the staunchest of American friends, a country that has been the recipient of millions and millions of our dollars and much aid in military and-in counseling. Lose this country, and elsewhere does the U.S. take a position?

Laos, to the average one of us, is an unknown, unrealistic sort of place, and it is difficult for us to realize that it has any significance. Truth is, it is part of the power play for control of the eastern part of the world.

The U.S. has had its baptism in Korea, still walks the tight rope in Formosa, must keep its guard up in Japan. We have not been conspicuously successful in our negotiating of affairs in that part of the world. If Starnes' appraisal can be accepted, we may have missed the boat again.

Telstar Yet To Be Proved

WASHINGTON — Most people have been led to believe that the only way to provide transatlantic television is by means of Telstar — the communications satellite now orbiting the earth. Actually, someday it may prove more economical to transmit television signals by cables laid under the ocean.

Most people also don't know that the Telstar is risky in that another government undoubtedly could "jam" it out of operation any time it wanted to make the effort.

the scientific side. Actually, there is little in the Telstar operation that is basically different from the thousands of microwave relay towers scattered through this and other countries except the power and amplification system and the environment. The Telstar operation uses a well-known transmission theory. It doesn't bounce the signals off the ionosphere, as is done in radio, but is, in fact, a relay station in space that extends the otherwise limited line-of-sight range of TV signals.

IT'S HARD to understand why there is so much excitement about the Telstar stunt when voice transmission by radio-telephone, both from ship to shore and from shore to shore, has been going on for almost 40 years.

Today, telephone conversations between European cities and the United States go on constantly. They are carried on by both radio — through the atmosphere — and by undersea cables. What is novel, of course, is the transmission of television signals across oceans. Up to now, this has not been done through the air or by undersea cables. But this doesn't mean the latter isn't possible. In fact, this correspondent is told by authoritative sources that it isn't as yet clear whether sending television by Telstar is eventually going to be as economical as it would be to transmit the signals through undersea cables.

THE CONSENSUS among experts in the communications field is that technology will ultimately permit both satellites and undersea cables to be used on a consistent basis and that the choice will eventually depend to a large extent on which method proves more economical and provides better service for certain areas and purposes, including such considerations as secrecy and immunity from artificial interferences.

The Telstar operation is a good stunt from the television side and a forward step in communications, but its scientific and practical significance has been somewhat overstated.

INDEED, more undersea cables are being laid between America and Europe right now. The reason is that atmospheric conditions, especially in the summertime, occasionally interfere with radio transmission, whereas undersea cables are immune from that handicap.

Oddly enough, nobody says that government should become involved in telephone and television communication by radio waves or undersea cables, but somehow because Telstar operates through space, there has been a tendency to bring government into the problem, even to the point of its trying to fix the extent of private investment.

These are parts of the world, such as between Africa and South America, where it probably wouldn't be considered worthwhile to lay undersea cables, and hence the Telstar method would doubtless be used. But if it happens that the laying of an undersea cable between the United States and Japan is already planned because the growth of daily business transactions demands it.

THIS IS A dangerous tendency. What people want is efficiency, and certainly the telephone systems in other countries — nearly all of which are owned and operated by the governments concerned — give very poor service compared to that furnished by private telephone systems in the United States. The incentive to good service is missing abroad, and the people's interests suffer.

Another Aspect of the Telstar Innovation

Already there are signs that governments want to regulate television program content internationally. This is something that the United States ought not to support. If only governmental propaganda and censored programs are to be transmitted to American audiences and conversely if American productions are to be submitted to foreign governments for approval, a backward step will be taken in the historic battle for freedom of communication and freedom of information. The American government certainly should not be in the position of sanctioning governmental supervision of program content. This is the Soviet concept. It is contrary to true liberalism in the American tradition.

Reluctant Recruit

TRENTON, Mo., AP — Nine-year-old Mark Downing decided to join the Army but changed his mind when a U.S. Army recruiter called and offered to escort him to his barracks.

Mark secured an application form and filled it in, changing his birth date to make him old enough for Army duty. A few days later when he arrived home, his clothes were packed and the recruiter was waiting.

With tears streaming down his face, the boy said, "I don't want to join the Army."

A Lot Of Talking, And Still Hash

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 15 years of talking, halking and squawking about disarmament, the result for the United States and Russia is still hash.

The nations seem to think this prolonged, fruitless and often tortured discussion is better than no discussion on the theory that so long as they're talking they're not fighting.

The trouble is that other events now unforeseen could put a critical end to this international gab-fest because the argument which began in a barroom and ended in a hospital, one thing led to another.

President Kennedy meets Friday with top advisers to see whether this country could soften its terms for a nuclear test ban treaty with Russia because it's a little easier now to detect a nuclear blast than it used to be.

UNLESS THERE'S some agreement the end of testing is not in sight.

Last fall the Russians broke a voluntary test ban and resumed testing. Not to be outdone, the United States some weeks ago resumed testing and is still at it. Now the Russians say they must have some more tests.

This week at Geneva Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko talked again about a Berlin settlement and again wound up with nothing to show except a repetition of their unbinding positions.

Yet there seems to be a feeling in the West that the Russians may soon create a new crisis over the German city which they literally split in half last August with a wall between East and West Berlin.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a hermit gets tired of hearing "He came all the way out here to get away from it, and now he doesn't have the carfare to go back."

"Hey, Mr. Whiskers, mind if I take your picture?"

"As I understand it, he has to earn one more merit badge—and then he'll be an Eagle Scout."

"They say he's trying to interest Hollywood in an autobiographical movie entitled, 'Son of Thoreau.'"

"Murgatroyd, I realize you've always voted the straight Democratic ticket, and I've known your family from way back, but I simply got to give you this summons. Your ex-wife claims you're nine years behind in your alimony payments."

"He isn't really lonely except in winter after the tourists leave. Then there's nobody around except the field mice to hear him explain about how civilization is nothing but a rat race."

"Murgatroyd, your mother sent me over to tell you that if you don't snare a rabbit today, she won't be able to cook you nothing hot for dinner tonight."

"Boy, the lengths some husbands won't go to in order to avoid helping their wives with the dishes."

"It all started with Murgatroyd liking to hold charcoal cookouts in the back yard. He kept building the fire farther and farther from the house—until he finally disappeared in the trees."

"His only real victory is the day he fills out his income tax return, puts it in a bottle—and throws it into the river."

"Murgatroyd isn't afraid of work. He just likes to watch it from a safe distance."

"Hey, nature boy, let's see you swing from limb to limb."

"No, junior, that's not Tarzan. That's probably just his nephew."

"This looks like a nice place to hold our picnic—if that funny fellow with the beard would just go away."

"Excuse me, sir, I'm from the Amalgamated Research Opinion Poll, Inc. Would you mind telling me what is your favorite television program?"

"Excuse me, sir, I'm the local representative of the Audubon Society. Have you seen any bluebellied, mottled-crow grosbeaks lately?"

"Excuse me, sir, I'm from the U.S. Census Bureau. Could you tell me how many hermits live in this area? Naturally your replies will be held in the strictest confidence."

"Excuse me, sir, I'm the delivery boy from the town drugstore. The druggist said to tell you he couldn't send out any more mosquito lotion until you pay your bill for the last 10 bottles."

Mumps Can Cause Sterility In Both Sexes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: Tell me about mumps. Is it true that people who have had it can never have children?" — E. V. R."

It can be true — in some cases. Not by any means.

Mumps like colds, flu, measles, chickenpox, polio and some other diseases, is caused by a virus — a different virus for each disease.

The mumps virus attacks various glands, usually the salivary glands at the angle of the jaw. That's why that part of the neck swells. But in severe cases other glands may be affected.

Generally speaking, children recover from mumps rather easily — but they should remain in bed and be kept quiet to prevent the disease from attacking other glands.

In adults it's likely to be more serious, so the need for bedrest is more important.

For a mild case it is possible for the patient not even to realize that he has the disease. In a severe case neck and face swell and there is fever.

And in still worse cases the genital glands are affected — in tests in men ovaries in women. If only one gland is damaged, the ability to have children is not destroyed. But if both glands are affected, then yes, it may be impossible to have children.

A further complication occurs if the virus attacks the pancreas,

Around The Rim
Labor Strife Wounds A City

It isn't a pretty picture. It has these elements:

Soup kitchens have been set up . . . workers carry shotguns with them as they go to their jobs . . . arson has become a regular occurrence . . . some families have been threatened while the husband was away at work . . . the National Guard may be called in to patrol the streets . . . many families are losing all of their worldly goods because they can't meet payments . . . thugs have moved into town to antagonize the unrest.

THIS IS NOT a recap of a bygone era; it is happening today. When the nation is as prosperous as at any time in its history, all of these things are occurring right at our back door. Carlshad, N. M. It is as if the depression was upon us again.

The situation has been brought about by labor strife in the potash mines, the major industry of the county. For almost two months, the men have been on strike, almost 3,000 of them. This means they have had no checks to take home, and they are losing time-payment household furnishings, cars, even homes.

I KNOW NOTHING of the background of the dispute. But from what I saw, I doubt that anyone has gained anything thus far. Settlement is still a long way off. Meanwhile, the community is in the midst of a growing turmoil, as non-union workers are taking the jobs of union men, who are losing not only their jobs, but their many years of seniority.

THE COMPANIES have lost production and profits, the union appears on the verge of losing its representation, the workers have lost pay and jobs, the merchants have lost sales. In general, the entire community is wholly depressed.

Little wonder that our relations with foreign countries are in a constant state of confusion; we are unable to handle similar problems right here at home.

The question of who is right and who is wrong at Carlshad has become a moot question, or so it would appear to an outsider. The answer now is to get men back to work, get the economy on a sound basis, run off the thugs, then let the disputing sides sit down at a table and hash the thing out in a calmer atmosphere.

I WONDER HOW many labor problems could be averted if sane men would take the trouble to sit down and iron out the difficulties before major problems mature? The time is past when such protest is the sole concern of labor groups and management; they concern us all and the Carlshad situation is a good example. — V. GLENN COOTES

Holmes Alexander
A Senator's Farewell

WASHINGTON—Tall and fit at 67, urbane, experienced and industrious, Sen. Prescott Bush is retiring from the Senate this year at a time when his usefulness is at its peak, and the reason is— he doesn't want to slack off during a third term which would mostly be served while in his seventies.

"The spiritual reward of being a senator is the most satisfying that a man can have," says Bush. "I have always liked the public service of politics rather than its partisanship and I long believed that the Senate would be the most attractive place to serve. It was even better than I thought it would be."

NOT MANY MEN have had as pleasant, successful and stimulating a life as Bush has lived, or have better deserved the rewards. In April of 1917, his senior year, he left Yale, where he had played three years of varsity baseball and majored in history, because he wanted combat service. As an artillery captain, he got it in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, and he got his diploma honoris causa. At the 1919 Commencement, he was recruited for a job in a St. Louis hardware firm at $100 a month where he stayed three years and married. He moved to Columbus, Ohio, and experienced a business failure, went to a rubber flooring firm in Milton, Mass., to the U. S. Rubber Corp. as manager of the flooring department, then joined W. A. Harriman and Company, the banking house, which became Brown Brothers Harriman, and in 1931 he became a partner, and still is.

WASHINGTON—Tall and fit at 67, urbane, experienced and industrious, Sen. Prescott Bush is retiring from the Senate this year at a time when his usefulness is at its peak, and the reason is— he doesn't want to slack off during a third term which would mostly be served while in his seventies.

"The spiritual reward of being a senator is the most satisfying that a man can have," says Bush. "I have always liked the public service of politics rather than its partisanship and I long believed that the Senate would be the most attractive place to serve. It was even better than I thought it would be."

NOT MANY MEN have had as pleasant, successful and stimulating a life as Bush has lived, or have better deserved the rewards. In April of 1917, his senior year, he left Yale, where he had played three years of varsity baseball and majored in history, because he wanted combat service. As an artillery captain, he got it in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, and he got his diploma honoris causa. At the 1919 Commencement, he was recruited for a job in a St. Louis hardware firm at $100 a month where he stayed three years and married. He moved to Columbus, Ohio, and experienced a business failure, went to a rubber flooring firm in Milton, Mass., to the U. S. Rubber Corp. as manager of the flooring department, then joined W. A. Harriman and Company, the banking house, which became Brown Brothers Harriman, and in 1931 he became a partner, and still is.

THE EARLY YEARS as hardware salesman, the failure and the comeback, affected him profoundly by making him a hard worker and fond of people. He moved to Greenwich where in 1933 he was elected to the Representative Town Meeting, the most democratic form of American government, with one member for every 100 voters. He became moderator in 1935 and served as such for 17 years until moving to the U. S. Senate in the 1952 election.

But the latter move did not come easily. He experienced the same formula of failure and comeback. First he lost to a Democrat, William Benton, by 1,100 votes. Then he lost to a Republican, William Purtell, in the state nominating convention. Democratic Brien McMahon died, and the state leaders came to Bush with the virtual promise of the nomination. He beat Abraham Ribicoff by 30,000 votes, and in 1956 beat Tom Dodd by a record majority of 130,000.

HE FOUND THE Senate to be as able a body of men and women as he ever encountered. Toughness, he says, is the key quality of senators for it takes that trait to win and to survive.

"Businessmen who criticize us don't know the amount of work we put in and many of our critics couldn't do as well. They're too tender."

THE WASHINGTON workload alone is a full occupation. Bush is on three back-breaking committees — Armed Services, Banking and Currency and Joint Economic. His subcommittee on Stockpiling has met almost daily for three months, and he has another special committee on problems of the aging. Two hundred letters a day, many requiring researched answers, come into his office. Demands in the state are heaped on top of all this. During one weekend this spring he made nine speeches back home. He has had one two-week vacation in 10 years.

"But I asked for all this, and I'm glad I did," he says. "Don't get the idea I'm complaining. The rewards far offset the difficulties."

BUSH HAS LITTLE patience with critics who call the Constitution an 18th Century system for an agrarian society and still less with those who say the political economy has become so complex that it should be run by experts and technicians. He does feel that the Founding Fathers intended the Senate to be a body of "legislative review" and that the Upper Chamber should originate less rather than more legislation. But the Congressional method is sound. It serves, as this session has proved, to restrain an administration which tends to overreach its authorities. Experts are apt to be theoreticians, and are out of touch with the people.

"Here in Congress we know what the people want. And this is their country." A statesman out of the top drawer is Prescott Bush.

Richard Starnes
A Dismal Picture In Laos

EDITOR'S NOTE: The new 16-nation agreement signed Monday in Geneva formally sets up the coalition government in Laos which is supposed to produce a truly neutral nation. Below from Richard Starnes in Laos, is an assessment of the obstacles to be overcome to reach any such objective.

VIENTIANE, Laos — The newly-born kid has three heads, 14 goitparents, and a hopelessly tangled pedigree. Any sane observer is moved to wonder if the baby's first yell might not be its last, as well.

With the signing of the Geneva accord, the coalition government in Laos became a formal instrument for government, pacifying and neutralizing this remote, backward little country. None of these tasks is going to be easy, and it is perhaps unrealistic to believe they are at all possible.

EVEN ASSUMING good faith on the part of all the Geneva signatories — an assumption that can be made only by resolutely ignoring the history of the past six years — the future of Laos is an ominous, dark cloud.

Within 75 days of the signing, all foreign armed forces must be withdrawn from the country. For the United States, this means the removal of only 400 to 500 military advisers, a move that is nevertheless a retreat and a defeat which all the sugar-coated platitudes in the world cannot disguise.

Do we are proceeding with plans to do it, even though plenty of Americans here are not convinced the Communists mean to do the same thing.

THERE ARE probably 10,000 Viet Minh (North Viet Nam) Communist troops still in Laos. These hard-core cadres are what made the difference between American-trained Royal Laotian Army troops and the homegrown Pathet Lao Communist forces. But the problem in getting North Viet Nam troops to leave in accordance with the Geneva pact is that the Communists have never admitted they were here in the first place.

This "ain't nobody here but us chickens" fiction will make it extremely difficult to evict these tough, disciplined and dedicated Red guerrillas. What if 75 days expire and no Communist troops have gone back home to North Viet Nam through the International Control Commission checkpoints?

THE UNITED STATES probably would how to the ICC, and the ICC might even chide the coalition. But if the latter chose to insist the Viet Minh had never been here in the first place, no one could say them nay. Ten times 10,000 soldiers could be hidden in this jungle wilderness and it would take as many again to get them out.

But, in charity, suppose all foreign troops do leave Laos. The next step will be integration of the Laotian armed forces. There are perhaps 100,000 men under arms here now. The coalition has insisted that integration of the warring factions is wholly an internal matter. American sources here believe 20,000 troops would be sufficient to insure internal security, but the coalition probably will insist on 30,000 or more.

THE BIGGEST question around then is the makeup of the integrated army. How many will come from the Pathet Lao forces? How many from the brushed but still numerically superior Royal Laotian Army? And how many will be North Viet Nam guerrillas dressed in new uniforms but still taking orders from Hanoi?

Only when the answers to these questions are known will the Western world begin to have a glimmer of insight into the true nature of the shaky Laotian troika which has just been underwritten at Geneva.

Western and neutral advisers put much faith in the proposition that Russia really wants a neutral Laos as a buffer against further Chinese Communist expansion into Southeast Asia, and perhaps also as insurance that a big war will not be touched off here.

FOR ALL ANYBODY knows, there may be something in this forlorn hope, but one need not be a persuaded cynic to wonder if this line isn't something being laid out in Washington to put a cheerful light on what in reality seems to be a pretty dismal picture.

It would take a brave man to try to forecast the future of Laos. But it would take a foolish one to see such genuine hope that the agreement in Geneva will ever become a reality in Laos.

U. S. Atom Test Fails

HONOLULU (AP)—A Thor missile blew up and burned on its launch pad Wednesday night as the United States tries to explode a high altitude nuclear device over tiny Johnston Island.

Cause of the missile failure was not known and there was no immediate word whether the Thor was deliberately destroyed.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington made the following announcement:

"The Thor booster designed to carry aloft a nuclear device for a high altitude test in the current U.S. nuclear test series in the Pacific was destroyed and burned on the launch pad tonight at about 11:15 p.m. (Hawaiian Standard Time)."

"There was no nuclear detonation. There was no immediate report of injury to personnel. Further details will be furnished as soon as possible."

The failure was another setback to U.S. missile prestige.

It left open the probability that there would be another try to detonate a warhead over the Pacific Wednesday night's shot was to have been fired from an altitude of 30 to 40 miles high with a force equal to 20,000 to one million tons of TNT.

Unofficial sources said the blast was not to have been a thermonuclear explosion.

The shot was to have been one of the last of the current Pacific test series which began three months ago Wednesday.

When President Kennedy originally announced the series he set a time limit of two to three months.

The only successful shot in the high altitude series was the biggest and highest on July 8. That explosion of a thermonuclear device was detonated 210 miles over Johnston Island and lit up the Pacific from New Zealand to Hawaii. Some sources said it packed power estimated at between one and 10 megatons.

The two previous failures were also blamed on missile troubles.

On June 4, the Thor's tracking system malfunctioned and the missile and nuclear package were destroyed in flight.

Fifteen days later the Thor collapsed in flight, raining debris over the island that resulted in minor injuries to two men.

As with Wednesday night's fizzle, the previous failures occurred without a nuclear detonation.

Warrant Officer Promoted, Gets Ride In 331st Dagger

Chief Warrant Officer Lyndon R. Lewis, 331st FIS, has been promoted to the rank of W-4 and received a ride in an F-102 Delta Dagger. Although this was his first jet ride, he is no stranger to fighter aircraft. During World War II, he flew P-39s, P-40s, P-43s, P-47s and P-51s.

CWO Lewis enlisted in the Air Force June 18, 1940, at Chanute Field, Ill., after which he entered the Aviation Cadet Program, graduating in September, 1942.

In December, 1942, he was assigned to the China Burma India theater and flew 166 combat missions, 131 hours under the late Gen. Claire Chennault. Lewis was one of the original members of the 14th AF that relieved the American Volunteer Group under Chennault.

Mr. Lewis was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal and Asiatic Pacific Theater Ribbon with Two Bronze Stars. He was responsible for shooting down two Japanese bombers, probable destruction of others and damage to two more aircraft. Upon his release from active duty in 1950, he had 1,800 flying hours, 1,500 of which was fighter time. CWO Lewis re-enlisted in the Air Force as a Master Sergeant.

S. Viet Nam In For More Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials anticipate a mounting Communist guerrilla offensive in South Viet Nam in the next 60 to 90 days.

Informed sources said today Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was told at his Honolulu conferences that it is highly possible the Red Viet Cong will step up their attacks to counter increasing pressure from U.S.-supported government forces.

American authorities, it was learned, also believe the Communists may become more aggressive as part of a drive to establish a rump regime in South Viet Nam.

WORRIED

High U.S. officials are worried that the Communist North Vietnamese may try to follow a pattern like that which worked so successfully in neighboring Laos. There, the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels seized control of a portion of the country and organized a regime which challenged the pro-Western government in Vientiane. Ultimately, the pro-Western government of Laos was unseated and replaced by a neutralist regime believed to lean leftward.

Informants familiar with the discussions in Honolulu early this week said the South Vietnamese forces will do their best to prevent the Communist Viet Cong from consolidating in any sector. Admittedly, officials said, this will be difficult even with South Vietnamese forces being flown by U.S. helicopters into jungle and mountain areas where the Communists long have had free rein. So far, informants said, there has been no big scale flow of Communist reinforcements into South Viet Nam across the Laotian border since the fighting in Laos ended.

GUERRILLAS SEEN

Between May 1 and mid-June, they said, patrols spotted some 1,000 guerrillas moving into South Viet Nam by that route. Since then, few have been seen.

Officials suggested that Communists send in reinforcements by waves—that is one batch is absorbed into the population of South Viet Nam before another group starts out.

The South Vietnamese army, it was reported, has increased its patrols along the jungle-covered Laotian border in recent months. Gen. Paul D. Harkins, American chief in South Viet Nam, was said to have given McNamara a report that was generally on the optimistic side.

"The actions we have taken in the last six months have begun to pay off," one authority said.

"Within the next six months we should see more results."

FOR YEARS

Once again, it was stressed that the war in South Viet Nam probably will last for years.

McNamara was told the strategic hamlet program is moving ahead. Up to date, 2,400 of these new settlements have been built, many of them heavily fortified to stand off Communist attacks. The goal is to have 7,000 of these villages started by Jan. 1.

Under this program, peasants are removed from areas where they are vulnerable to Communist coercion and resettled in protected towns within reach of South Vietnamese forces.

Authorities said there has been a definite gain toward greater political freedom for the peasants and that this has undercut a major Communist propaganda pitch.

Other promising signs reported to McNamara at Honolulu:

The flow of intelligence information from the peasants to the South Vietnamese forces has become very heavy.

PROVINCES LINKED

Fourteen provinces now have been linked up where only primitive communications existed before.

South Vietnamese forces are out looking for the Communists, where before they stayed close to fixed positions.

New South Vietnamese army units should be ready by Sept. 1.

Troop Rotation Plan Expanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has announced it is sending three battle groups to Europe for six-month tours beginning Oct. 1 in an expanded trial of its new troop rotation plan.

The program is designed to train units for rapid deployment anywhere in the world in emergencies. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara also has said it could cut by $1,000 to $3,000 per soldier the annual outflow of U.S. gold.

In announcing the expanded test Wednesday, the Army said groups sent overseas under the rotation program will not be permitted to take their dependents.

Kennedy, Rusk Plan Moves In Berlin Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk faced today the task of mapping a new move in the diplomatic dispute with the Soviet Union over Berlin.

The U.S. Soviet exploratory talks have gone full circle without agreement.

Rusk returned Wednesday night from Geneva and a new round of meetings with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. He was expected to tell Kennedy that the Soviet attitude on Berlin seems to be toughening but that there is no indication of imminent crisis.

During the next few days Kennedy, Rusk and other administration policymakers will be occupied with another issue of great urgency—deciding what new proposals the United States may make for reducing inspection requirements for a nuclear test ban treaty with the Soviet Union.

NEW DATA
Rusk and other Cabinet members met today for a discussion of this problem based on new scientific information recently announced by the Defense Department.

Friday Kennedy will meet at the White House with 10 or 12 key advisers in the hope that a final decision can be reached quickly.

In London, British officials said Wednesday that the new proposals will be presented to the Geneva Disarmament Conference within two weeks. U.S. officials thought the action might be taken even more quickly.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home told the British Parliament terms for a nuclear test-ban accord may be eased, but he said on-site inspections still will be needed.

Meanwhile, the U.S. disarmament chief, William C. Foster, discussed atomic test-ban safeguards at a closed session of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee. The chairman, Sen Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., reported that Foster had said the United States has not yet decided whether to modify the safeguard proposals and still believes on-site inspections are needed to prevent cheating.

FRENCH BLAST

And, in another nuclear development, the U.S. government kept a secrecy curtain around a U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey report on a French atomic explosion in the Sahara Desert May 1. The report contains technical data on detection of the distant blast, which bears on the current test-ban discussion. It was understood that some details may be disclosed later.

Rusk flew to Geneva last week to sign accords on the neutralization of Laos. This provided the opportunity for the latest series of discussions with Gromyko on the Berlin dispute. Rusk is understood to have stressed heavily the U.S. position that withdrawal of American, British, and French forces from West Berlin as demanded by the Soviet Union is completely nonnegotiable.

NO URGENCY

Gromyko is understood to have argued that West Berlin constitutes a base for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and that Soviet security interests therefore are involved. Gromyko, it is understood, did not convey any new sense of urgency about the Berlin situation and did not set any deadline for the Soviet Union's avowed intention to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

Neither did Gromyko decide just what effect, in the Soviet view, the signing of the pact would have on West Berlin and its supply lines from West Germany. This is a crucial point—since Premier Khrushchev has stated publicly that the Soviet Union would hand over control of the supply lines to the East Germans, an act which could precipitate a crisis.

Rusk and Gromyko began the exploratory talks in Berlin in New York last September. There was then some hope that a formula might be found for East-West negotiations aimed at settling the Berlin problem.

Even before the latest talks at Geneva, hopes of finding either a negotiation formula or some understanding on lesser issues had been dashed. The Rusk-Gromyko discussions in Geneva now seem to have confirmed this failure, and to have pointed up the question: What comes next?

UP TO NIKE

While Kennedy and Rusk desire to maintain contact with the Soviet Union on Berlin and other problems, the crucial decisions probably will have to be made in Moscow where it is up to Khrushchev to determine whether at some point in the coming months he wants to force the issue on the signing of the separate peace treaty with East Germany.

The prospect for progress in negotiations on a treaty to ban nuclear tests is equally unpromising. The United States is currently winding up a series of weapons tests over the Central Pacific.

CAPT. R. L. DAVIS

Capt. R. L. Davis Is Honor Pilot Again

Capt. Richard L. Davis is 31st FIS Pilot of the Month for the second consecutive month. This is the first time that any pilot in the squadron has won the honor twice in a row.

Capt. Davis, assistant flight commander, again scored 100 per cent in the incentive program, although he was challenged by four other pilots who also had perfect scores. He received his BS degree from Ohio State in 1951 and graduated from Webb AFB in June, 1952, as a member of the first pilot class that received training in jet aircraft here. He came to Webb AFB in July, 1961.

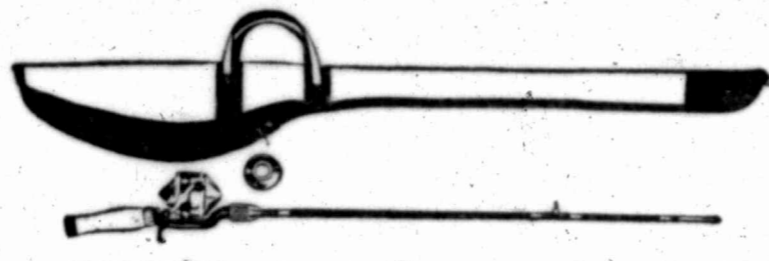

Capt. Davis has been flying 18 years, having received his private pilot's license when he was 16. He has held the ADC "Expert" rating five years and is a senior pilot with 900 hours of flying time in the F-102. He has 2,200 hours of jet time.

Y Finishes' Up Aquatic Program

Tonight at 7:30, the YMCA will wind up its regular summer swimming program with a water show. Children who have participated in the Y's program will engage in competitive swimming, water ballet and diving exhibitions. In addition, those in the progressive swimming classes will take tests and be presented with awards by Ernie Hobbs, director of the aquatic program.

The summer recreation program will be terminated Friday and Saturday with the holding of a parents' night at 7:30 Friday evening and the Little Olympics Saturday afternoon from 4 to 2 p.m. on the high school practice field. A banquet will be held for all summer leaders Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Y.

Building Code Is Discussed

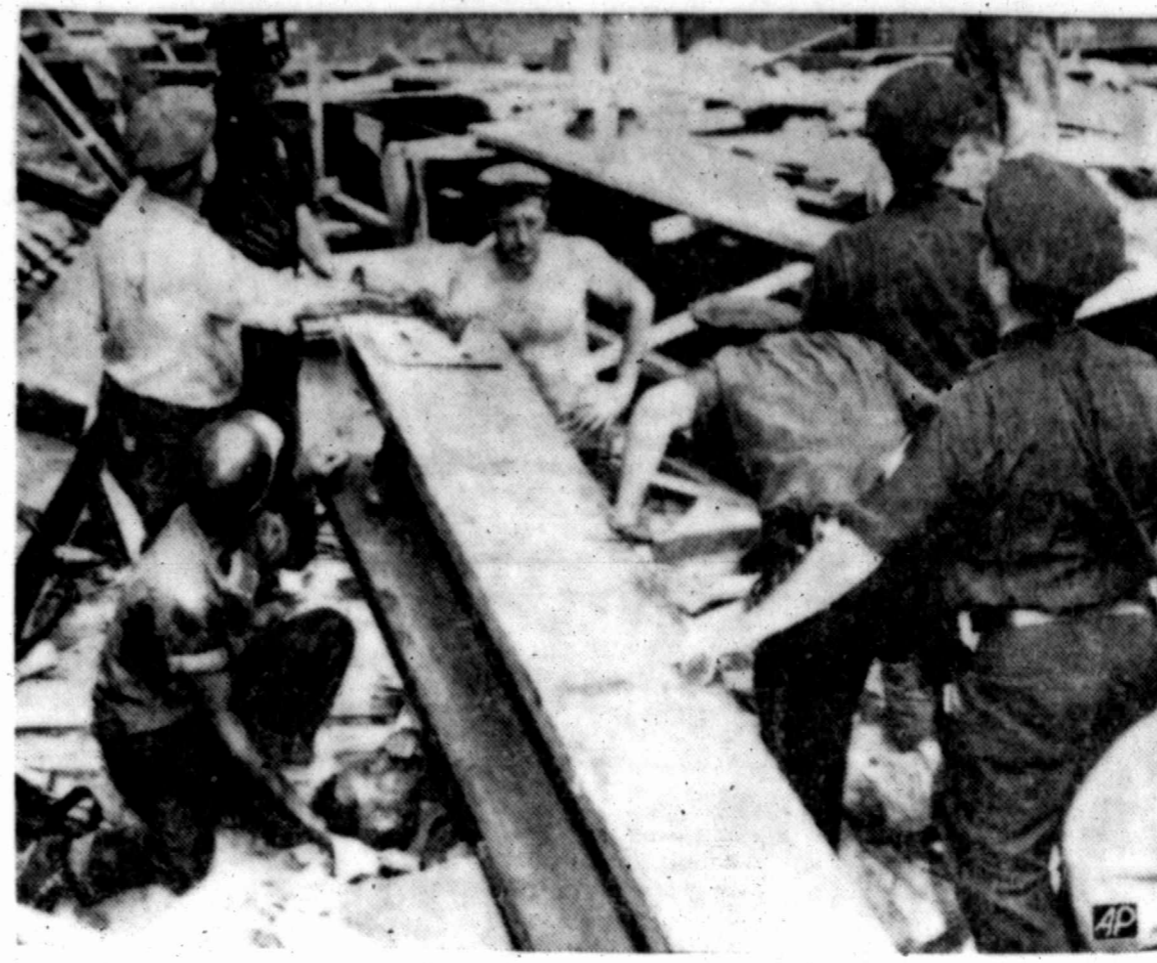

A building code for Big Spring was discussed at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday when the sub-committee of the Civic Development Committee met. Robert Heinze, builder, reported that builders and engineers, with whom he had discussed the Southern Standard Building Code, had agreed that it is a good code if administered properly.

"It provides a more liberal use of materials than the National Code," he said, "in that it establishes minimum requirements. We all believe that the means of administering the code is most important and that existing city ordinances may need some changes."

Byron Alexander, co-chairman of the committee, asked that a general meeting of the Big Spring Builders Association, general contractors, and architects be held before the next regular meeting of the city commission to agree on recommendations. Letters will be sent by the chamber after a date has been set. F. H. Talbot, president of the builders' association, will be contacted regarding a meeting date.

Committee members agreed that the Southern Standard Code permitted use of new materials as they were available and at the same time prevented promiscuous "throwing up" of undesirable types of buildings.

TV Star Files Suit For Legal Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The pretty star of a children's television program filed suit Wednesday in the hope of gaining court permission to abort her three-month pregnancy.

Mrs. Robert L. Finkbine, 29, a Scottsdale, Ariz. resident, was listed as a complainant along with her husband and Good Samaritan Hospital.

Mrs. Finkbine is better known here as Sherri Chessen of station KTAR-TV's show, "Romper Room."

She discovered last week that a drug she had taken in the early stages of her pregnancy had been linked with the births of thousands of malformed babies around the world.

The suit, filed in Maricopa County Superior Court, stated "the total health of the plaintiff is such that the termination of her pregnancy is necessary for the preservation and saving of her life."

If the plaintiffs can prove this, an abortion would be legal. Arizona law allows abortion only when required to save the life of the prospective mother.

The suit also declares Mrs. Finkbine has taken a drug which will "adversely affect the development of the fetus and which will cause a child born of such pregnancy to be misshapen."

County Atty. Charles N. Ronan, Arizona Atty. Gen. Robert Pickrell and Judge R. C. Stanford said they would try to hold a hearing on the matter by Friday. Ronan and Pickrell are defendants.

Hospital authorities said that if the case is delayed too long and an abortion is approved, it might have to be by Caesarean section.

Mrs. Finkbine, who appeared daily on her show until Wednesday, had been scheduled to enter the hospital Tuesday. But the hospital canceled the surgery until the question of its legality is settled. The suit also seeks to make it clear that the hospital's part in the operation would be legal.

Mrs. Finkbine said Wednesday she doesn't know how much more of the strain she can take.

"I'm right on the verge of breaking down," she said. "I don't think I could stand up another six months of wondering about the baby."

Mrs. Finkbine, married to a high school teacher, has four healthy children. Her name had been kept secret until filing of the suit made it a matter of public record.

It was only five days ago that she read a newspaper article telling of the effects of thalidomide on thousands of infants in Germany, England, Canada and Australia. Then she remembered she had taken some sleeping pills containing the drug. Her husband obtained the pills in Europe last year.

Thalidomide has been held responsible for causing malformations of babies born without arms or legs, or both. Never licensed for sale in the United States, it has been withdrawn from the market in Europe.

Abandoned Baby Named 'Telstar'

CROWN POINT, Ind. (AP)—The day-old baby girl abandoned on an East Chicago, Ind. doorstep June 22 was given the name Mary Telstar Wednesday as she was sent to a foster home from St. Catherine Hospital.

Lake County welfare officials said the name will be her legal name until the blonde, blue-eyed baby is adopted.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Benny Goodman, the King of Swing, is back home after jazzing it up for the Russians.

The bandleader arrived in New York from England where he spent a week resting after his tour sponsored by the U.S. State Department's cultural exchange program.

Goodman said Russian audiences were "very good, very receptive and discerning."

The only Russians who failed to respond kindly to his music, he said, were "the bureaucrats in the first-night audience."

Caroline Kennedy has her own passport now—and it's quite a special one. It identifies the Kennedy's 4½-year-old as "a dependent of the President of the United States."

Since Caroline is a minor, President Kennedy took the oath of allegiance for her in the White House. And Caroline got the black-covered document that assures she'll receive the courtesies extended a President's family.

In Hollywood, architectural draftsman Maurice de Leon, 23, said that his one-year-old marriage to Beverly Aadland, onetime Fegol Flynn protege, is on the rocks.

Fifth Consecutive Awards Are Made

Three Civil Service employes at Webb AFB were recently awarded their fifth consecutive sustained superior performance awards. They were Harold W. Danford, Frank C. Perry, and Mrs. Howard Brown.

Others receiving awards for five consecutive years through last year are Inola Blackwell, George W. Daniel, and Richard A. Templeton. Templeton is presently awaiting word on approval of another incentive award, which will make his sixth.

Mrs. James Tidwell has received five awards during the past six years. Her 1962 award is pending and if accepted, will make her sixth award in seven years.
