Heat Wave Fells Records

By The Associated Press
Texas' non-stop heat wave sizes toward still more records Thursday.
Threats of local water shortages developed in some places as summer blasted nearly every section of the state with 100-plus temperatures.
City officials asked Temple residents to cut down on non-essential lawn and garden watering for a couple of days so reservoirs could catch up with heavier than usual consumption. A municipal swimming pool was closed.
The situation was similar at San Antonio's Randolph Air Force Base, where yard watering was limited to alternate days. Authorities said there was no severe shortage but pumps couldn't keep up with water demands.

Also at San Antonio, Lackland Air Force base suspended all out-of-doors training activity in the afternoon. Temperatures have hit 100 degrees or better in San Antonio for 16 straight days and it has been 38 days since any rain fell.
Wednesday's top temperatures were official marks of 108 degrees at Presidio in the Big Bend country and Wichita Falls in Northwest Texas. Galveston on the Gulf Coast recorded a 94 for the lowest maximum.
The mercury hit 103 at Beaumont, eclipsing the city's previous all-time high of 102 in 1917. An unofficial mark of 104 in downtown Houston was a record for the date and the hottest since the city's business district recorded 105 on July 26, 1954.
Local heat records toppled at numerous other points.
Official highs elsewhere Wednesday included Laredo 106, Childress, Junction and Lufkin 105, College Station, San El Paso, San Antonio and Victoria 102, Mineral Wells and Wink 101 and Dalhart and Dallas 100.
Forecasts promised mostly clear skies and temperatures well above 100 for parts of every area in Texas at least through Friday. Except for a few thundershowers in the West Texas Big Bend, no rain was expected.

Must Be Creeping Cold Wave, Heat Dwindles To 103

Big Spring appeared to be blessed with a "creeping cold wave" Thursday as temperatures crawled from their early week high of 107 degrees.
By Wednesday afternoon, the maximum had shrunk to a mere 103 degrees. Since Monday's high, each day has brought two degrees lower reading. The thermometer has now peaked at 100 or above for five consecutive days.
Big Spring laws and air conditioners drank 489,000 gallons more water Wednesday than they did in the record 10,120,000 set Tuesday for 1961-62.
Water metered to consumers Wednesday ran to 10,609,000 gallons as the 100-plus degree temperatures held on.
City Manager Larry Crow invited residents to help themselves to more: there's plenty of water in sight.

Snyder Child Hurt Critically

SNYDER — Three-year-old Fred Allen Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hodges of Snyder, was critically injured Wednesday evening when the motor scooter on which he was riding driven by his 12-year-old sister, was in collision with a pickup truck. The accident happened about 6:30 p.m.
The boy was rushed to Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene to be treated for serious head injuries. His sister, Jeanette Ann, was in Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder suffering from a broken left leg and lacerations of the head. Driver of the pickup truck, Felipe Pesian, 16, was not injured.
Kelton Clark, 21, Ira, remained unconscious in Cogdell Memorial Hospital Wednesday night after suffering a broken left leg and chest injuries when his motorcycle went out of control and crashed through a fence on a country road five miles northeast of here.

Eleanor Cancels Dedication Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, weakened by a virus attack, will not attend the dedication of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Bridge between Lubec, Maine, and Campobello Island next Monday.

NEWS BRIEFS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today President Kennedy may reach a decision this weekend on whether to ask Congress for an immediate tax cut. But the probability is against any decision until sometime next week.

NEW YORK (AP)—Narcotics agents have rounded up 11 men reputed to be members of a ring which smuggled into this country heroin worth more than $100 million on the illicit market.

NEW YORK (AP)—Eastern Airlines, hit by a strike of flight engineers since June 23, resumed a number of flight schedules today. The limited resumption of operations occurred as rain-soaked pickets marched in front of Eastern facilities at Idlewild and La Guardia airports, as well as installations in other cities.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee approved today the nomination of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A speeded-up public works program, one of President Kennedy's top priority bills for this session of Congress, was cleared today for House action.

Charges Filed In Death Of C-City Lad

COLORADO CITY (SC)—District Attorney Weldon Kirk has filed charges of murder with an automobile by accident while intoxicated against Kenneth X. Carson, 21, Sweetwater.

The charges were lodged following the death of Robert Stephen Free, 13, who was struck down by an automobile Tuesday at 9:15 p.m.
Robert was dead on arrival at the Root Memorial Hospital. Injured and given emergency treatment was Kelley Jones. Both boys were riding bicycles along US 90 in the eastern edge of Colorado City when they were hit by an eastbound motorist.
Police, directing traffic at an intersection east of where the accident occurred, flagged Carson down for driving without headlights. When they learned of the accident, Carson and Leland W. May, Sweetwater, a passenger in Carson's car, were questioned concerning the accident.
Justice of Peace T. E. Arnold set Carson's bond at $1,500, and it had not been posted Thursday noon. A Mitchell County grand jury, convening Thursday, will study the case.

Free was born Sept. 6, 1949 in Colorado City and would have been in junior high school this fall. In addition to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Free, he is survived by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Hardin, seven sisters and three brothers.

Last rites for Robert will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the Oak Street Baptist Church with Rev. E. V. Brooks, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker & Son Funeral Home.

No-Plugging Orders To Be Extended

AUSTIN (AP)—No-plugging orders in two East Texas oil fields will be extended to allow further tests for illegally slanted wells. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson's office said Wednesday.

His staff, the Texas Railroad Commission and the Texas Department of Public Safety are coordinating a two-month-old search for wells angled to take oil from neighboring leases.
No-plugging orders in the Hawkins and East Texas Fields will be in force 30 days longer. Present plugging bans expire next week.

Wilson reported $16,000 more in contributions to help finance the tests in the East Texas Field. The donations brought to approximately $78,000 the balance in the fund.

Donations were $10,000 from Pan American Petroleum Co., Fort Worth; Cities Service Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., $4,000; and Sinclair Oil & Gas Co., Tulsa, Okla., $2,000.
Four crews continue testing in the East Texas Field, where 89 illegally deviated wells have been found. Three crews continue in the Hawkins Field, where five wells have been found deviated.

Market Plods Irregular Path

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market plodded along an irregular path this afternoon. Trading failed to break away from the moderate pace that has ruled almost all week.

Volume for the day was estimated at 2.8 billion shares compared with 3.08 billion Wednesday when prices advanced on the strength of a late upsurge.

Selective gains among oils, aircrafts and mail order issues gave some of the popular market averages a slight upside bulge.

Ready For Rodeo Opening Tonight

These young men paint a number on one of the calves to be used in roping events of the junior rodeo, which opens at the rodeo arena at 8 p.m. here today. A downtown parade is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. to whoop up the show which has drawn a record number of entries. For complete details, please turn to page 13-B. Keeping records on the fence are Skipper Driver and Johnny Hughes; others are Bobby Davidson, Handly Driver, Bob Atkins and Larry Atkins.

Fresh Attacks By Senators Renew Filibuster Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fresh attacks by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., raised the threat today of another Senate filibuster against the communications satellite bill.

They spoke out as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled sessions to consider amendments tightening the bill's foreign policy controls before reporting the measure back to the Senate on Friday for resumption of formal debate.

In a prepared Senate speech that appeared to be a day-early curtain raiser for another round of extended debate—interrupted last week by referral of the bill to the committee—Kefauver assailed non-government ownership of the proposed satellite system and said he and colleagues would discuss the measure to some length after the committee reports.

Morse told newsmen opponents will not settle for anything less than a government-owned satellite system operated by communications firms under contract or lease arrangements with the government.

He said amendments the Foreign Relations Committee might bring out would amount only to window dressing.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the committee Tuesday that Congress must act now to assure

U.S. leadership in the creation of a global satellite system since it will take two or three years to get it into operation.
Kefauver said an operational system using either the low orbit or the high-orbit satellites on which experiments are under way is still at least a few years away.

The President he said should have the authority to determine when system will be put into operation in the first instance and the authority to require adoption of a high system at some future date even if a low system is adopted first.

The administration is backing a private corporation to own and operate the U.S. part of a global communications system with half of its voting stock owned by the general public and half by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and other communications carriers.

Kefauver and his associates contend the language of the bill would permit AT&T to wind up dominating the corporation.

Federal Jury Digs Deeper Into Estes Case

DALLAS (AP)—A federal grand jury dug deeper today into doings of Billie Sol Estes.

Estes, who made a surprise trip to Dallas in effect asked U.S. Dist. Judge Whitfield Davidson not to impanel the grand jury as scheduled.

John Cofer, his lawyer, argued Estes case in vain. The special grand jury was impaneled and the early afternoon was calling witnesses interested in the Estes matter.

Estes, his three brothers and two lawyers showed up at the federal building before the jury was impaneled.

Cofer claimed that publicity on the Estes case made it impossible for Estes to get a fair hearing even before a federal grand jury.

Cofer wanted to question each of the 22 grand jurors in the matter, but Davidson refused to allow it.

During the hearing, Estes sat stoically before the jurors.

BULLETIN

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union rejected today the latest Western compromise proposal for a treaty outlawing nuclear weapons tests.

British Government Under Fire In Soblen Deportation

LONDON (AP)—The British government came under mounting fire from its home press today as the deadline continued over the fate of Dr. Robert A. Soblen, the runaway spy.

Several newspapers questioned Home Secretary Henry Brooke's insistence that the Israeli El Al Airline fly the psychiatrist back to the United States to serve a life sentence for spying for the Soviet Union.

The home office extended the deadline on its order to El Al to fly Soblen, 61, to New York from last midnight until midnight Friday. It also gave the airline the option of designating another line to act as its agent in transporting Soblen.

Public hearing on the proposed 1962-63 budget of Howard County Junior College highlights a meeting of the board of trustees set for 5 p.m. today at the college.

Besides action on the budget, the trustees are expected to revise the current budget to conform with anticipated expenditures at the end of the fiscal year.

A faculty replacement, paving on Adams Avenue, construction reports, the auditor's report and routine matters also are on the agenda.

"We are ready to take Soblen back to Israel, if asked by the British to do so, but we will not send him on one of our planes to the United States or anywhere else," the spokesman said.

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail in New York in late June and fled to Israel on a dead brother's passport. Israel expelled him as an illegal immigrant and put him on an El Al plane for New York with a U.S. marshal. The airline landed him in Britain after he slashed a wrist and plunged a knife into his abdomen during the flight. Two British courts ruled that he had no permission to remain in Britain and could only stay until he was able to travel to the United States.

The independent Times of London noted that in ordering El Al to take Soblen to the United States the home secretary was ignoring two other courses open to him under the British law dealing with aliens refused permission to land in Britain.

The law says the owners or agents of the plane on which the alien arrived may be required to take him either (1) to the country of which he is a national, (2) to the country where he embarked or (3) to a third country willing to receive him.

There is no priority among these three choices, so presumably the home secretary is entitled to go on saying that it must be number one or nothing," said the Times.

But, it asked, "Is he wise to do so?"

New Drug Rules Are Proposed Celebrezze Asks For New Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze has proposed new regulations which would give the government a watchdog role in investigation of new drugs from start to finish, and power to call off the dogs if safety doubts arise.

Acting against the background of public and official concern over the sedative thalidomide, Celebrezze proposed today:

1. That the Food and Drug Administration be put on notice and given the full details about the distribution of drugs to doctors for investigation use on humans.
2. That clinical investigations of use on humans be based on adequate preclinical studies to assure safety.
3. That the clinical investigations themselves be properly planned, executed by qualified investigators, and that the Food and Drug Administration be kept fully informed during the progress of the investigations.
4. That if a substantial doubt develops as to the safety of the drug, the Food and Drug Administration and all physician-investigators using the drug be notified immediately. If necessary, the use could be halted by FDA.

NO PROMISES
Current regulations have no such provisions.
The secretary said interested persons will have 60 days in which to comment on the proposed regulations and final regulations will not be issued until any comments have been considered.

The proposals followed a promise by Celebrezze last week that tighter regulations would come soon.

While the proposals are a direct outgrowth of the furor over thalidomide, Celebrezze did not mention that German-developed drug in his announcement.
The sedative never was cleared by FDA for general use in this country but the American licensee for its manufacture distributed the pills to 1231 American doctors for possible experimental use before it was associated with the birth of deformed babies in Europe.
There have been no reports of malformed babies in this country from that investigational use but there have been some cases of deformity in which the mothers had obtained the drug otherwise from abroad during pregnancy.

Present regulations however do not require either an initial notice to FDA of a clinical trial of a new drug or subsequent reports on such use.

NO ADVANCE OKAY
Regulations would not require advance government approval of the preclinical investigation, the qualifications of the investigators, or the plan of the clinical investigation. The commissioner of food and drugs, however, would be authorized, however, to terminate any investigation if use of the new requirements were not being met.

As to investigations of new drugs already under way the proposed regulations would require prompt reporting to FDA of information showing that the investigation may be safely continued. Failure to submit such a report would automatically terminate the authority under which clinical investigations are now conducted.

President Kennedy has said "we ought to be tougher in regulating distribution of drugs to doctors for experimental use. He and the Food and Drug Administration take the position this could be done without further legislation."

However, Kennedy also has said full protection of consumers will require action by the Congress.

CONTROL BILL
This week Kennedy made several recommendations to the Senate Judiciary Committee for strengthening the drug industry control bill now in its hands.

Wednesday the committee decided to require that official or generic name of a drug be printed prominently on the label and in type at least half as large as the brand name.

The administration bill in the House goes further, meeting the Kennedy recommendation that the official name be printed in type as large as that used for the brand name and that it be given precedence in position.

Existing law requires only that official names of drugs appear with prominence and conspicuousness on the label.

In other drug developments Wednesday
FDA Deputy Commissioner John L. Harvey said the cholesterol-lowering drug Mer-29 should never have been allowed to get on the market in this country. However, under present law, Harvey said in a San Francisco speech, it took 4 1/2 months after this conclusion was reached before clear enough evidence could be obtained to get it out of the hands of physicians. The William S. Merrell Co. of Cincinnati, which also manufactured thalidomide, withdrew Mer-29 on April 11 after side effects including eye cataracts were reported.

EXPRESSED CONCERN
The FDA said in a report it had expressed concern about thalidomide in May 1961, 10 months before the Merrell firm withdrew its request for a marketing license.

Dr. John D. Archer, assistant director of FDA's division of new drugs, said the concern, which "was only on theoretical grounds" was based on symptoms of numbness of the extremities in adults. This was several months before the drug was taken off the West German market because of reports linking it with deformed births.

Larrick said technical staff members and the G. D. Searle Co., of Chicago, manufacturer of the birth control pill "enovid," have reached agreement on a cautionary letter the firm will send to all physicians in the United States. Larrick said the FDA has decided it does not have enough evidence to warrant taking the pill off the market. He said an investigation will continue into possible cause-and-effect relations between the drug and blood clots in a few of the women who used it.

An FDA spokesman, explaining governing legislation on distribution of experimental drugs, said the federal food, drug and cosmetics act does not prohibit physicians from charging a patient for them. Generally, these drugs are given by pharmaceutical firms to physicians for testing free of charge.

Taylor Has No Radical Defense Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor told senators today he plans no drastic or radical revision of this nation's defense policies or top military organization.

The four-star former Army chief of staff appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee which is considering his nomination to be chairman of the military Joint Chiefs of Staff.

His later approval by the committee and the Senate appeared certain but first questions put to him by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., involved Taylor's published opinion—after he retired in 1960—that the JCS should be junked in favor of a single chief of staff.

Taylor's opinions were included in a book he wrote as a civilian shortly after he stepped out as the Army member of the JCS.

"I meant exactly what I said," Taylor said, but quickly added that he was returning to active duty not "as a crusader" but anxious to make the "present system as effective as possible."

Taylor recalled that three years ago he had urged a single chief of staff with an advisory group of experienced officers to serve the President and secretary of defense.

The JCS now includes the heads of the Army, Navy, Air Force and at times the Marine Corps, as well as the chairman, the post to which Taylor was nominated by President Kennedy.

Saltonstall asked if Taylor had "a feeling you have got to make radical changes."

"Certainly not," the general replied and agreed that this would require legislation approved by Congress.

Searchers Find Odessa Youngster

RUIDOSO, N. M. (AP)—A search party found Letta Kay Barfield, 10, of Odessa, Tex., in a r m e d Wednesday night. She was lost several hours in rugged canyons near here.

She went into the area northwest of Ruidoso with her brother and another boy both about 12. The boys blazed a trail with hatchets but lost it as they tried to return.

The three became separated and the boys found their way into town, where the Barfield family is vacationing.

Forecasts promised mostly clear skies and temperatures well above 100 for parts of every area in Texas at least through Friday. Except for a few thundershowers in the West Texas Big Bend, no rain was expected.

Must Be Creeping Cold Wave, Heat Dwindles To 103

Big Spring appeared to be blessed with a "creeping cold wave" Thursday as temperatures crawled from their early week high of 107 degrees.
By Wednesday afternoon, the maximum had shrunk to a mere 103 degrees. Since Monday's high, each day has brought two degrees lower reading. The thermometer has now peaked at 100 or above for five consecutive days.
Big Spring lawns and air conditioners drank 489,000 gallons more water Wednesday than they did in the record 10,120,000 set Tuesday for 1961-62.
Water metered to consumers Wednesday ran to 10,600,000 gallons as the 100-plus degree temperatures held on.
City Manager Larry Crow invited residents to help themselves to more, there's plenty of water in sight.

PRETTY HOT, YOU'LL ADMIT

This hot weather can get real complicated.
Warrant Officer Sperrill Farmer at the Big Spring police department says it's hindering his serving of warrants.
"It's getting so hot on the sidewalks that my shadow is reaching up around my legs like crisp bacon and tripping me up," he smiled—warmly.

Snyder Child Hurt Critically

Operation Swift Strike Continues

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—A giant airlift of 8,000 men and 6,000 tons of equipment of the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division continued today, swelling the ranks for Operation Swift Strike II.
The armada carrying the division 1,800 miles from Ft. Carson, Colo., includes C130 jet transports, the Air Force equivalent of the Boeing 707. It is the first time for the plane to be used for such a mission within the United States.
The maneuvers, the largest in peacetime since World War II, are being held in South Carolina and North Carolina. Involving 70,000 men it is designed to test coordination of Army and Air Force units.

Albany Negroes Get U.S. Help

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Federal intervention in Albany's long and bitter integration fight renewed the hopes of Negro leaders today after city officials slammed the door on biracial talks.
Clergymen from other states continued a pilgrimage to Albany, joining local Negroes and about a dozen outside organizations in the sustained desegregation thrust.
The first demonstration in three days came Wednesday in the form of a lunch counter sit-in, resulting in the arrest of two Negroes. There have been more than 1,200 arrests since last December, with 400 during the past month.
Long-sought federal help materialized Wednesday in the closing hours of a seven-day hearing on the city's effort to outlaw marches, boycotting, picketing and other protest activities.
Justice Department attorneys argued against the injunction in a brief filed with U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliott.

Market Plods Irregular Path

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market plodded along an irregular path this afternoon. Trading failed to break away from the moderate pace that has ruled almost all week.
Volume for the day was estimated at 2.8 billion shares compared with 3.06 billion Wednesday when prices advanced on the strength of a late upsurge.
Selective gains among oils, aircrafts and mail order issues gave some of the popular market averages a slight upside bulge.

Federal Jury Digs Deeper Into Estes Case

DALLAS (AP)—A federal grand jury dug deeper today into things of Billie Sol Estes.
Estes, who made a surprise trip to Dallas in effect to assist U.S. Dist. Judge Whitford Davidson in what is to be a grand jury as scheduled.
John Coffey, his lawyer, argued Estes' case in vain. The special grand jury was impaled and by early afternoon was calling witnesses interested in the Estes matter.
Estes has three brothers and two lawyers showed up at the federal building before the jury was impaneled.
Coffey claimed that publicity on the Estes case made it impossible for Estes to get a fair hearing even before a federal grand jury.
Coffey wanted to question each of the 22 grand jurors in the matter, but Davidson refused to allow it.
During the hearing, Estes sat stoically before the jurors.

British Government Under Fire In Soblen Deportation

LONDON (AP)—The British government came under mounting fire from its home press today as the deadlock continued over the fate of Dr. Robert A. Soblen, the runaway spy.
Several newspapers questioned Home Secretary Henry Brooke's insistence that the Israeli El Al Airline fly the psychiatrist back to the United States to serve a life sentence for spying for the Soviet Union.
The home office extended the deadline on its order to El Al to fly Soblen, 61, to New York from last midnight until midnight Friday. It also gave the airline the option of designating another line to act as its agent in transporting Soblen.
Pan American has said it would be willing to fly Soblen to New York under such an agreement. But El Al, acting on orders from the Israeli government, insisted that if Britain hands over Soblen, it will fly him to Israel.
"We have no intention of approaching another airline to take Dr. Soblen to the United States," a London spokesman for El Al said.
A foreign ministry spokesman in Jerusalem said the 48-hour extension of the deadline had not changed the Israeli government's position on Soblen.
"We are ready to take Soblen back to Israel, if asked by the British to do so, but we will not send him on one of our planes to the United States or anywhere else," the spokesman said.
Soblen jumped $100,000 bail in New York in late June and fled to Israel on a dead leaver's passport. Israel expelled him as an illegal immigrant and put him on an El Al plane for New York with a U.S. marshal. The airline landed him in Britain after he slashed a wrist and plunged a knife into his abdomen during the flight. Two British courts ruled that he had no permission to remain in Britain and could only stay until he was able to travel to the United States.
The independent Times of London noted that in ordering El Al to take Soblen to the United States the home secretary was ignoring two other courses open to him under the British law dealing with aliens refused permission to land in Britain.
The law says the owners or agents of the plane on which the alien arrived may be required to take him either (1) to the country of which he is a national, (2) to the country where he embarked or (3) to a third country willing to receive him.
There is not priority among these three choices so presumably the home secretary is entitled to go on saying that it must be number one or nothing," said the Times.
But, it asked, "Is he wise to do so?"

New Drug Rules Are Proposed Celebrezze Asks For New Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze has proposed new regulations which would give the government a watchdog role in investigational use of new drugs from start to finish and power to call off the trials if safety doubts arise.
Acting against the background of public and official concern over the sedative thalidomide, Celebrezze proposed today:
1. That the Food and Drug Administration be put in notice and given the full details about the distribution of drugs to doctors for investigational use on humans.
2. That clinical investigations or use on humans be based on adequate preclinical studies to assure safety.
3. That the clinical investigations themselves be properly planned, executed by qualified investigators, and that the Food and Drug Administration be kept fully informed during the progress of the investigations.
4. That if a substantial doubt develops as to the safety of the drug, the Food and Drug Administration and all physician-investigators, using the drug be notified immediately. If necessary, the use could be halted by FDA.
NO PROMISES
Current regulations have no such provisions.
The secretary said interested persons will have 60 days in which to comment on the proposed regulations and final regulations will not be issued until any comments have been considered.
The proposals followed a promise by Celebrezze last week that tighter regulations would come soon.
While the proposals are a direct outgrowth of the furore over thalidomide, Celebrezze did not mention that German-developed drug in his announcement.
The sedative never was cleared by FDA for general use in this country, but the American license for its manufacture distributed the pills to 123 American doctors for possible experimental use before it was associated with the birth of deformed babies in Europe.
There have been six reports of malformed babies in this country from that investigational use, but there have been some cases of deformity in which the mothers had obtained the drug otherwise from abroad during pregnancy.
Present regulations however do not require either an initial notice to FDA of a clinical trial of a new drug or subsequent reports on such use.
NO ADVANCE OKAY
Regulations would not require advance government approval of the preclinical investigation, the qualifications of the investigators, or the plan of the clinical investigation. The commissioner of food and drugs, Dr. George P. Larrick, would be authorized however to terminate any investigational use if the new requirements were not met.
As to safety doubts of new drugs already under way, the proposals would require prompt reporting to FDA of any information showing that the investigation may be safely continued. FDA would be authorized to terminate automatically any investigation unless promptly reported to the commissioner.
President Kennedy has said he might be tougher on regulating distribution of drugs to doctors for experimental use. He and the Food and Drug Administration take the position this could be done without further legislation.
However, Kennedy also has said full protection of consumers will require action by the Congress.
CONTROL BILL
This week Kennedy made several recommendations to the Senate Judiciary Committee for strengthening the drug industry control bill now in its hands.
Wednesday the committee decided to require that all drugs of general use of a drug be printed prominently on the label and in type at least half as large as the brand name.
The administration bill in the House goes further, meeting the Kennedy recommendation that the official name be printed in type as large as that used on the brand name and that it be given precedence in position.
Existing law requires only that official names of drugs appear with prominence and conspicuousness on the label.
In other drug developments Wednesday, FDA Deputy Commissioner John I. Harvey said the cholesteryl lowering drug, Mer-29, should never have been allowed to get on the market in this country. However, under present law, Harvey said, it took 4 1/2 months after this conclusion was reached before clear enough evidence could be obtained to get it out of the hands of physicians. The William S. Merrell Co. of Cincinnati, which also manufactures thalidomide, withdrew Mer-29 on April 11 after side effects including eye cataracts were reported.
EXPRESSED CONCERN
The FDA said in a report it had expressed concern about thalidomide in May 1961, 10 months before the Merrell firm withdrew its request for a marketing license.
Dr. John D. Archer, assistant director of FDA's division of new drugs, said the concern, which was only on theoretical grounds, was based on symptoms of numbness of the extremities in adults. This was several months before the drug was taken off the West German market because of reports linking it with deformed births.
Larrick said technical staff members and the G. D. Searle Co., of Chicago, manufacturer of the birth control pill enovid, have reached agreement on a cautionary letter the firm will send to all physicians in the United States, using the FDA's name. Larrick said the FDA has decided it does not have enough evidence to warrant taking the pill off the market. He said an investigation will continue into possible cause-and-effect relations between the drug and blood clots in a few of the women who used it.
An FDA spokesman, explaining governing legislation on distribution of experimental drugs, said the federal food, drug and cosmetics act does not prohibit physicians from charging a patient for them. Generally, these drugs are given by pharmaceutical firms to physicians for testing free of charge.

Taylor Has No Radical Defense Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor told senators today he plans no drastic or radical revision of this nation's defense policies or top military organization.
The four-star former Army chief of staff appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee which is considering his nomination to be chairman of the military Joint Chiefs of Staff.
His later approval by the committee and the Senate appeared certain but first questions put to him by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., involved Taylor's published opinion—after he retired in 1960—that the JCS should be stacked in favor of a single chief of staff.
Taylor's opinions were included in a book he wrote as a civilian shortly after he stepped out as the Army member of the JCS.
"I meant exactly what I said," Taylor said, but quickly added that he was returning to active duty not as a crusader but anxious to make the "present system as effective as possible."
Taylor recalled that three years ago he had urged a single chief of staff with an advisory group of experienced officers to serve the President and secretary of defense.
The JCS now includes the heads of the Army, Navy, Air Force and at times the Marine Corps, as well as the chairman, the post to which Taylor was nominated by President Kennedy.
Saltonstall asked if Taylor had "a feeling you have got to make radical changes."
"Certainly not," the general replied and agreed that this would require legislation approved by Congress.

Searchers Find Odessa Youngster

RIDGOSO, N. M. (AP)—A search party found Leta Kay Barfield, 10, of Odessa, Tex., unharmed Wednesday night. She was lost several hours in rugged canyons near here.
She went into the area northwest of Ridgoso with her brother and another boy, both about 12. The boys blazed a trail with hatchets but lost it as they tried to return.
The three became separated and the boys found their way into town, where the Barfield family is vacationing.

Latest doings of the Kennedy clan.

ROBERT KENNEDY

MTA Manager Thomas J. McLernon came by and told Kennedy, brother of the President, there were rules against such things. McLernon asked Kennedy to leave and said later he would have done the same with any candidate. Kennedy walked off without protest.

Robert Kennedy jumped up and down at the Seattle World's Fair and shouted, "Hey, let's go on the Will Mouse."
This Robert Kennedy is 8. His daddy is attorney general of the United States, and his uncle John is President.

Robert F. Kennedy, like any father of seven, has a little trouble remembering their ages sometimes.
Appearing at a taping session of the Tennessee Ernie Ford television show, for broadcast Aug. 17, the U.S. attorney general was asked to call the roll of the four children who had come to the studio with him and Mrs. Kennedy.

There's David, 7; Bobby, 9; Joseph, 10, and Kathy, 11," he said.
Kennedy got a signal from Bobby. "I think I made a mistake," he said.
"How old are you, Bobby?" Ford asked.
"Eight," said Bobby, promptly and loudly.

Sig John Hunt, leader of the British expedition which climbed Mt. Everest, says mountain climbing is a young man's activity.
Sir John 52 returned to London after leading the British-Soviet attempt to climb Mt. Garmo in central Asia in which two British members of his team were killed.

That was probably the last major climb I shall lead," he commented. "I'm getting too old for this sort of thing."
Joan Plowright, actress wife of Sir Laurence Olivier, is expecting their second child early next year. The couple's first child, Richard, was christened 10 days ago.

President Charles de Gaulle of France presented quite a problem to protocol men in Munich, Germany, where he is expected on a visit next month. The French president is 6 feet 4 inches in height, and there didn't seem to be a bed big enough in Munich to accommodate him.

The German officials finally found a baroque bed almost 12 feet long, in the chambers of the Munich residence of the former Bavarian king.

Japanese Schools Infiltrated By Reds

TOKYO AP—The question before the class was the demand that Russia return islands it seized from Japan after World War II.
Teacher: the boy asked, "why won't the Soviet Union give the northern islands back to Japan?"
Because, the teacher replied, "the U.S. imperialists would build rocket bases on them."
An expert who has watched Japanese education closely cited this classroom dialogue as an example of Communist propaganda presented to Japanese children.
The pipeline he says runs through members of the Japan Teachers Union. This union often shows more concern with the "class war" and "American imperialism" than with teachers wages or hours.

Hurricane Hunter Plane On Mission

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, AP—A hurricane hunter plane was ordered to explore today an easterly wave which generated squalls as it slowed down on a westward Caribbean course through the Antilles Island group.
Dwellers in the islands—south-east of Puerto Rico—were warned to prepare for heavy rains and wind gusts.
As these storms lose forward speed, they often gather strength. If they reach sustained wind velocity of 39 miles an hour they move into the tropical storm class.

Goldwater Hits Power Of Unions

SAN FRANCISCO, AP—American labor unions wield monopolistic power conferred on them by the federal government, Sen. Barry Goldwater claims.
In a speech to the American Bar Association's annual convention Wednesday, the Arizona Republican declared union power and privileged status is a byproduct of continuing centralization of governmental power in Washington.
He asserted this hurts the nation's economic health and violates the public interest.
Goldwater urged corrective legislation to curb the unions and criticized Congress for recent labor-management legislation, which he said ignores the public interest.

Algeria Gifted With Red Wheat

ALGIERS, AP—Soviet Charles d'Alvarez Serge Gascarin formally handed over to Algerian authorities today 6,500 tons of wheat. It was brought to Algiers in the grain ship Ugleuraisk, first Soviet vessel to dock in Algeria since the nation became independent.
There was a small mystery about the cargo of the Ugleuraisk, a ship of 11,800-ton displacement. She was lying as low as possible in the water and clearly carrying full capacity cargo of 8,000 metric tons. But the captain said he carried no cargo other than the gift of 6,500 tons of wheat.

Labor Leader Urges Unions To Fight Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP)—An AFL-CIO leader, whose union is an organizing target of the rival Teamsters Union, said today it is time all AFL-CIO unions combined in an open membership war against the teamsters.
Joseph A. Beirne, president of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America, said he plans to propose at the quarterly meeting of the AFL-CIO executive council beginning Monday in Chicago the formation by the federation of a Teamsters organizing committee.

Beirne said Teamsters President James R. Hoffa has increasingly been directing membership raids against a number of AFL-CIO unions, including the machinists as well as the communications workers.
"We can't wait any more for him to chip away at us," Beirne told a reporter. "It's time we took on Hoffa and made no bones about it. Up to now we've just waited for Teamsters groups to come to us. Not many have come. So we should go after them."

The Teamsters recently established a communications division and mounted a well-financed drive to take from Beirne's union some 17,000 telephone installation workers employed by the Western Electric division of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Some 2,000 phone installers in nine Southern states have expressed preference for a switch to the Teamsters. Any formal shift of bargaining and union representation rights would be subject, however, to a nationwide vote of all the phone installers. This could not be held before November.

Beirne said he expects to fight back and expects the workers will ultimately vote to stay in the CWA. He conceded the outcome could be close, particularly since CWA installers in Phoenix, Ariz., have started an independent union move.

K May Attend U.N. Session

MADRID, Spain, AP—Adlai E. Stevenson reports that he has been informed Soviet Premier Khrushchev will attend the United Nations General Assembly in October, and if he comes we can look forward to another three-ring circus.
Stevenson interviewed as he boarded a jet plane for his return to New York from a European vacation, said his information came from official sources in Rome.
Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, said the report may "not necessarily be correct."
"It seems logical that Khrushchev will come to New York this fall in an effort to offset some of the bad publicity the Soviet Union is getting because of its resumption of nuclear testing," Stevenson explained.

Prisoner Feels Cut Off—No Phone In Cell

MEXICO CITY, AP—Lucrigo Humberto Hernandez Leon Jimenez felt a bit cut off from the world Wednesday in his cell at the Federal Prison.
The guards took his private telephone away from him Tuesday. Prison officials said Hernandez, serving a term for fraud, had managed to string a telephone line by using old installations that had been out of service for years.
He fashioned his own telephone set out of odds and ends. Only the dial was from a modern telephone.

Argentine Military In Power Struggle

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Rival army leaders engaged today in a new struggle for leadership of the nation's ground forces and the commanding voice in President Jose Maria Guido's military-dominated regime.
A rumored intra-army feud broke into the open Wednesday when dissident commanders rebelled at the leadership of Gen. Juan Bautista Loza, war minister and army commander in chief.
Loza quit both posts Wednesday night, and the dissidents said they were satisfied the crisis would not erupt into open conflict. The roots of the crisis—deeply divergent views within the army on the future course of the nation—remained.

Defense Minister Jose Luis Cantillo took over temporary command of the war ministry and summoned top army commanders to a conciliation meeting today.
Each of the several army factions was expected to press Cantillo to name a commander in chief from among its ranks. Several army generals already were resentful that Cantillo, a civilian, had taken over the war ministry, even temporarily.
The navy and air force remained on the sidelines, rejecting overtures from the rival army groups.

Army troops occupied power plants, radio stations and other key points in the Buenos Aires area to prevent disturbances.
The wobbly Argentine peso tumbled again under the day's uncertainty, and Economy Minister Alvaro Carlos Alsogaray expressed deep concern for the effect the war conflict might have on his drive to get Argentina's stagnant economy moving again.
The army crisis stems from the military's ouster of President Arturo Frondizi last April and the subsequent forcible recess of Congress and annulment of the March elections in which followers of ex-Dictator Juan D. Peron scored sweeping victories.
The move split the army into several factions. One opposed the move altogether as unconstitutional. Another endorsed the hard line against the Peronists but pressed for an early return to constitutional rule. Still another urged an outright military seizure of power.
Rival army factions came to the verge of shooting in late April. Gen. Enrique Rauch, tough cavalry commander, sent tanks to the

The second coming of Christ will strike terror into the hearts of those who know that siteth on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb for the great day of his wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand? (Rev. 6:14-17)

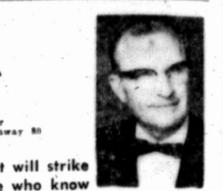

The gospel contains commands to be obeyed (Mark 16:15-16; Luke 24:46, 47; Acts 2:19; Acts 22:16; Rom. 26:3, 4, 17) and it is had, indeed for one to have the opportunity of knowing the truth of the gospel, and yet not obeying it, to him, the coming of Christ will be a day of terror. —Ad.

Schoolchildren In Mexico Get Help From Yank

By RICHARD DAW
 ESCONDIDA, Mexico (AP) — For the first time, the 45 children in the adobe school house of this tiny Mexican village are sitting at desks instead of on the floor. They're writing with long, firm sticks of chalk on a shiny black-board that wasn't there before, and at recess they play with the first basketballs many of them ever saw.

Desks For The Children

Richard Streb, an American, brought them a taste of the 20th Century after he stumbled on to Escondida last year while searching for archaeological ruins. The village was similar to many which still exist throughout Mexico despite government efforts and gradual progress. Escondida had no electricity. Its streets were rutty and unpaved. Basic sanitary facilities were unknown. Its two-story adobe schoolhouse was virtually bare. It was only 250 miles west of bustling Mexico City, but its life was of another century. Even its name, which in English means "hidden," echoed its isolation. As the village teacher talked with Streb she raked her fingers through her hair in a futile effort to arrange it. She had no comb. Streb talked with other villagers, learned that 19 of the 45 schoolchildren were orphans, and that the highest ambition of many of Escondida's 200 residents was to leave their village forever. Streb promised the villagers he would return with help. Back in Levittown, N.Y., he told the students and teachers at Jonas E. Salk Junior High School about Escondida, organized a Mexican fiesta to raise money, and got help from businessmen. With $1,644 in his pockets and a Mexican flag made by his wife for the villagers, Streb came back to Escondida to keep his promise. Taking the village leaders with him, Streb set out for Guadalupe, the nearest large city, and spent the money he had raised. Back to Escondida he brought a thousand pencils, dozens of books, boxes of thumbtacks and chalk, maps and desks to outfit the school. He brought a complete outfit of clothes for every man and boy in the village, and bolts of cloth to make dresses for the women and girls. He brought a sewing machine, tools, basketballs, baseballs, and factory-made candy to give the children a rare treat. With an eye toward improving the villagers standard diet of fri-

Kennedy Aide Sees No Crisis In U.S. Economic Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter W. Heller, President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, says present economic trends are "perplexing and inconclusive cross-currents" but they do not "sum up to a crisis." But there is a possibility, he added, that the recent slowdown "represents advance warning of an economic decline." And decline, he told a Senate-House Economic Committee on Wednesday, was another way of saying recession. While pointing out the possi-ty of a recession, Heller said the economic indicators are mixed. But there's no doubt, he said, "The U.S. economy is still operating considerably short of its potential." President Kennedy has said he and his advisers would be weighing these indicators before he decides whether to ask for a quick tax cut to spur the economy or follow through with his plans to ask reductions later which would be effective next Jan. 1. The White House announced Wednesday that the President is still waiting for all the data to be collected and studied before making his decision. Earlier in the day it was reported Kennedy told a luncheon meeting of labor union officials that he had given up any idea of asking Congress for an immediate tax reduction.

The White House, however, issued a statement that as yet "no decision has been made." Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, went through an afternoon of committee questioning without dropping a hint as to what Kennedy's eventual recommendation may be. But he defended Kennedy against a charge of agonizing indecisiveness made earlier by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Javits urged that Congress vote a $5.5-billion tax cut before it goes home and criticized the President for what he called a failure of leadership. Heller declared that Kennedy's original recommendation for a tax slash effective Jan. 1 "shows a decisiveness not seen in many years." He said the permanent reduction advocated by the President for next year could be carried out in any of several ways. "What he is saying is he wants to see reductions from top to bottom," Heller said.

Lot Can Happen In Hundred Years

JINJA, Uganda (AP)—Just 100 years ago Sunday the English explorer John Hanning Speke discovered here the main source of the Nile, the world's longest river. The centenary was marked by a trade fair and pageant, attended by Nicholas Speke, great-grandnephew of the explorer. Jinja (pop. 30,000) sits astride the river as it pours from Lake Victoria past Ripon Falls. Over 4,000 miles to the north, the Nile reaches the Mediterranean. Said school teacher Refugio Rodriguez she watched the desks for her school being unloaded. "No words can tell the people of Levittown how grateful the people of Escondida are for this generous gift." Streb hopes to talk other U.S. schools into raising money to help other needy Mexican villages.

But he defended Kennedy against a charge of agonizing indecisiveness made earlier by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Javits urged that Congress vote a $5.5-billion tax cut before it goes home and criticized the President for what he called a failure of leadership. Heller declared that Kennedy's original recommendation for a tax slash effective Jan. 1 "shows a decisiveness not seen in many years." He said the permanent reduction advocated by the President for next year could be carried out in any of several ways. "What he is saying is he wants to see reductions from top to bottom," Heller said. The President Wednesday discussed a wide range of economic problems with the 29-man AFL-CIO executive council including George Meany, AFL-CIO president. From the meeting came the reports Kennedy was dropping thoughts of an immediate tax cut. But the assistant White House press secretary, Andrew T. Hatcher, scotched the report, reminding newsmen that Kennedy had said he would withhold a decision until all the July economic indicators were in. Hatcher said these will not be ready before Friday and "therefore no decision has been made." Even if all the information is in the White House Friday, Hatcher said, it still may take some time to evaluate it.

Shackled And Shorn

Police work to free Martin Cohen from a tree in the Flushing section of New York after he had been robbed of $11,000 worth of gold jewelry. Two men took a valise containing rings, tie clasps, cuff links and other items and handcuffed Cohen to the tree. His cries brought help after 15 minutes.

Executions End Story Of Twisted 'Mother Love'

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—A triple execution in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber Wednesday wrote the final chapter in a grotesque story of obsessive mother love. Elizabeth Ma Duncan, 58, was executed for plotting and paying for the murder of her pregnant daughter-in-law four years ago so she could keep her youngest son to herself. It was a futile killing for Frank Duncan, now 33, married again. Yet her love was reciprocated. Frank with his present wife and law partner, Elinor Chandler Duncan, fought through the courts, trying to save her life until two minutes before the execution. But no tears were shed in San Quentin's little green-walled room when Ma Duncan died shortly after 10 a. m. right handed and staring straight ahead into nothingness. The tears came three hours later for one of the two small-time criminals who said Ma Duncan promised $6,000 and paid $300 for the November 1958 killing of Olga Duncan, 30, near Santa Barbara. A half-brother wept when a knife gas choked off the audible laughter of Augustine Baldonado, 28, strapped beside Baldonado and talking with him was his fellow killer, Luis Moya, 23. "It's all right," Baldonado had assured Daniel Ledesma, 35, of Port Hueneme, Calif., only moments before. But it didn't stop the tears. Last words before entering the execution chamber were: "Baldonado, Warden, lock the door tight." Moya: "I'm getting what I deserve." Ma Duncan: "I am innocent. Where is Frank?" She had asked to see her beloved youngest son again, and had been refused. Frank had visited her late the night before, between last-minute appeals reaching from Washington state to Los Angeles. She had also asked for and been denied sedation just before entering the gas chamber. Sedatives and her addiction to them, had played a prominent part in the tragedy. Frank Duncan had met Olga Kupczyk, a Canadian-born nurse, when he took his mother to a Santa Barbara hospital suffering from an overdose of sedatives. They married June 24, 1958, against his mother's wishes. And Frank's final appeals to save his mother's life were based on the contention she was "doped up" from sedation she did not know what was going on in her 1959 trial. In a final plea gesture, Frank Duncan reclaimed his mother's body. It was being held at a San Francisco funeral home pending funeral arrangements. Moya had killed his body and eyes to Stanford University Medical School. Baldonado's body was taken to a funeral home in Ventura. Mrs. Duncan was the fourth woman to be legally executed by California. The state has officially taken 496 lives since 1900 by gas and the rest by the now discarded gallows. Twenty-nine condemned men remaining on San Quentin's death row ended a hunger strike and resumed eating an hour and a half after Baldonado and Moya died. They had been protesting new death row restrictions imposed after Mrs. Duncan's hired killers had tried to escape June 2 with four other murderers.

Claims Estes Action Delayed By Data Need

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department auditor says he delayed reporting suspicions of Billie Sol Estes' cotton acreage deals to his superiors because he wanted to make a "major" air-tight case. However, A. F. Rounsaville, chief auditor for the department's southwestern states, also told the Senate Investigations subcommittee Wednesday that he never got around to conducting the more detailed audit he promised. As a result, Rounsaville said, he never presented the full details of the investigations to those or to the Washington press. The subcommittee, headed by Sen. J. Lee Rankin, D-Miss., is trying to find out if political influence helped Estes build an empire on federal farm-aid programs. McClellan said he wants to know why three Agriculture Department groups investigating Estes at the same time in a two-year period apparently did not know of the others' probes. Estes, a Permian Basin promoter, has been adjudged bankrupt and awaits trial for fraud and other charges unrelated to his dealings with the government. His cotton acreage allotment deals have been canceled and the government has fined him $554,000. Rounsaville, who is from Temple, Texas, said that an aide, Mike Pappas, had alerted him as early as June 1960 that cotton acreage deals of the type engineered by Estes probably were illegal. Asked why he did not report this to higher officials, Rounsaville said that for one thing, under the regulations he had no authority to assign investigating units to enter the probe. He said that rule should be changed. He said that in 1947 he set in motion the audit wheels which exposed a scandal that finally sent to prison an Agriculture Department official named Jack Cowart for some irregularities. Rounsaville said he acted fast in that case and. Here was my reward—I was fired for one week not by my superior but by those who didn't want me in Texas and I was brought to Washington and spent two years in the doghouse. He said the experience cost him $5,000 in various expenses and caused "untold cares of my family."

Officials Think Russian People Know Of Red Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities said today they believe that despite Kremlin secrecy, millions of Soviets know their government has resumed nuclear testing. The authorities based their views in part on Western efforts to get word of the tests through the Iron Curtain. But many Soviets would know about the tests anyway, regardless of Moscow's refusal to announce officially the nuclear explosions so far. The Voice of America, the U.S. government short-wave radio, figures that more than 10 million of the 220 million Soviets tune in on its broadcasts. The Voice featured the Soviet resumption of testing as a lead news item for nearly three days after the huge Novaya Zemlya high-altitude blast last Sunday. The Soviets have been jamming those portions of the Voice's Russian language newscasts reporting the Soviet tests, but Voice officials say the U.S. signal can still get through to much of the Soviet Union despite the deliberate radio interference. And the Soviets do not jam the Voice's English-language programs, which give the news, too. In addition, the word is beamed at the Soviet Union by Radio Liberty, the British Broadcasting Corp., and others. Visitors also bring in news. Authorities here noted that the Soviet citizen has been exposed to much beyond the normal police-state rumors which might induce him to believe the government has started atomic explosions again. They cited Premier Khrushchev's announcement beforehand that the Soviet Union would test again. Announcement of large scale maneuvers during which it was widely assumed nuclear tests would be conducted. The knowledge of such tests by those in the upper echelons of the government. The large number of troops assigned to the maneuvers who must have seen the Aug 5 explosion would spread the word back home. A large number of Soviet civilians also must have witnessed the atomic testing since it has been seen in neighboring Norway. Still unexplained is why the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission delayed for days its announcement of the new Soviet test resumption. One explanation speculated on by observers is that the AEC was uncertain for a while as to whether the tests had occurred. On Monday the AEC finally announced that "There are indications that the Soviet Union had resumed atmospheric nuclear testing a few days prior" to the big blast, with the explosions probably in Siberia in the low kiloton range. Another speculation is political: That the United States did not want to disclose its detection of the Soviet blasts until something happened to make the Soviet resumption general knowledge. That happened with the widely spotted Sunday explosion. According to this information, the AEC must have known about the earlier explosions for certain because they were conducted in the air. Though underground tests can be conducted with more secrecy, experts say even small above-ground tests can be spotted far away.

Republicans Plan Assault On Kennedy Test Ban Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans have closed ranks for a politically significant attack on President Kennedy's modified proposals for a nuclear test ban. In language so similar as to indicate a prior meeting of the minds, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York contended Wednesday that Kennedy is retreating toward the Soviet position. Dirksen and Halleck charged in a news conference that Kennedy had sent U.S. negotiators to Geneva "hat in hand" with concessions to the Soviets that were promptly rejected. They added that the nation now was witnessing "another example by the Kennedy administration of how not to deal with the Russians." A few hours later Rockefeller said in a statement the Kennedy administration had "moved steadily toward the Soviet position" in efforts to get a treaty on nuclear weapons testing and controls. He said that what he called weakening of the U.S. proposals "made in March 1961 by the Kennedy administration even further seems to me to run a high risk of endangering our national security. Rockefeller, who might become Kennedy's Republican opponent in 1964 if he wins re-election as governor this year, went on to say the Democratic President appeared to be making decisions without the public's knowing what proposals were being made. There was no White House comment on the Republicans' remarks. Kennedy told his new conference last week he and his aides had been attempting to bring the U.S. position in line with new

A Devotional For The Day

An highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The way of holiness . . . the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein. (Isaiah 35:8.)
PRAYER: O Lord, we thank Thee that through faith in Thy Son we become free — free from sin, free to travel that long way with Thee and with our fellow Christians to all points beyond. In Christ's name we offer our joyful thanks. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

The Shame Of Texas Parks

Margaret Mayer started a recent special feature in the Dallas Times-Herald magazine in this manner:
The State of Texas is park poor. It has more parks than it can afford, roughly one-third of which it doesn't want, lacks sites it wishes it had and isn't spending enough to do a proper job in the best of what it's got.
She went on to describe some of the inadequacies which many of the six million visitors saw last year. In short she concluded that even the State Parks Board knows that the system is falling apart. Facilities developed three decades ago by the CCC, NVA and WPA once had a value of $30,000,000. Today the figure is just about one-third of that, land included.
Officials estimated that five million dollars are needed to make urgent repairs and replacements. Another five million would be required to put the major units of the system into good condition and to upgrade the others to get by.

The board once suggested that 15 of the parks be turned back to the local communities which gave them. Legislators not-so-subtly informed the board that they had better lay off the parks in their districts, so that was that.
Yet, this makes sense, as does some plan of adequately financing our state parks. As it is, they are, as the title of Miss Mayer's story indicated, "a shame." The Texas Research League, financed by Texas businessmen, concludes that as it now stands, the parks are a liability and reflect adversely upon the state. They give visitors a pretty bad impression of us. Something must be done or the impression will grow justly worse.

A Vague And Dangerous Out

In the latest controversy stirred by former Gen. Edwin Walker, the Pentagon has taken refuge in a vague and easy out-classified reports.
In an interview, the former general had contended that the siege of Stalingrad was in reality a farce, to generate sympathy for Russia, that possibly no more than 3,000 Germans had been committed to the attack on the city. The interviewee had in substance, obtained collaboration from the retired officer whom Walker quoted as the basis of his statement. These were at variance with previous reports and releases, and with estimates by German officers who said upwards of 70,000 Nazi soldiers were assigned to the campaign.
Be that as it may, when reporters went to the Pentagon to get official records and do some sifting of facts, they were first turned away with "no comment," then it was stated no report could be found; then that the report could be found but that it would take some doing; finally that it had been found but that it was classified.

This borders on the point of silliness. After 20 years, or certainly 17 years after the war's end, what virtue can there be in holding such a report under classification?
What's in the report we have no idea, but we see in the refuge of the "classified" stamp a real danger to the public's right to know. Certainly some things are entitled for reasonable time to be classified for security reasons, but this is no license to perpetuity nor should it be regarded as a shield from embarrassment or inconvenience.

David Lawrence Mighty Far To Fish For Fish

WASHINGTON — The Russian people presumably are hungry, and they seem to want some fish to eat. Is it plausible to believe that the waters adjacent to Europe haven't any fish in them, and that this is why the Russians have been sending fleets in unprecedented numbers to cruise up and down the Pacific and Atlantic coasts of this country?
The real function of these ships and the equipment they carry are clothed in mystery. These vessels are of such size that they can conceal mechanical devices which can be used to interfere with undersea cables or to lay mines or to operate detecting devices to chart the course of American submarines.
THERE is undoubtedly a military objective in the sending of such large fishing fleets to American waters. It is true that outside the three-mile limit the seas are legally free to any country, but so is the sky above the Soviet Union. Yet not so long ago the Communists raised a big fuss when an unarmed U-2 plane made observation trips in space high above Soviet territory.
The Russians are quick to condemn Americans for making what are called "provocative" speeches on military policy. But the Communists have not confined themselves to talk. They have taken an action with their fishing fleets which constitutes a real provocation.
Another questionable phase of the whole affair is what the Russians are up to in Cuba as they encourage the use of certain fishing vessels for reconnaissance in American waters. A United Press International dispatch the other day from Moscow said:
"THE SOVIET UNION has agreed to provide free technical assistance to Cuba for the development of commercial fishing. The official Soviet news agency Tass said today the agency in a dispatch from Havana, said a protocol was signed between the two nations covering details of the assistance.
The agreement will cover the exploration of fishing possibilities in waters off Cuba and the instruction of Cuban fishermen in the techniques of commercial fishing," it said.
Just why should the Moscow government be spending its own money to instruct Cubans in the use of fishing vessels? It is assumed that these acts will go unnoticed by American naval authorities.
MUCH OF WHAT the Soviets are doing with their huge fleets of vessels has come to light in speeches in Congress concerning ing fishing operations of the Soviets "right in our front yard." On May 25, Sen. Benjamin A. Smith, (D-Mass.) described the massive intrusion of Soviet vessels at Georges Bank off Cape Cod and along the New England coast.

On Aug. 3, Sen. Warren Magnuson, (D-Wash.) spoke of a "similar intrusion" along the Alaskan coast. He said nine out of the 61 Russian fishing ships in the Gulf of Alaska could not be identified as to function. He added:
"DISPATCHES FROM Russia proclaim that the Bering and Bristol Bay fleets are to be strengthened. These dispatches announced completion of five more large ships for use in these North Pacific waters, one a mother ship displacing 17,140 tons that will carry a crew of 270 persons.
Now let us see what is happening along our Atlantic coast. The most recent report from Georges Bank listed 169 Soviet ships operating there. Four of these were huge mother ships over 500 feet in length. These include the one I told senators I had seen in the moving picture. It looks like the liner United States or the Queen Mary.
"Each year the Russian fishing fleets move further south. This is the first year the Russians have fished in the Gulf of Alaska. Last year they sent only exploratory vessels there. It is the second year they have fished on Georges Bank. It is the second year they have fished in Bristol Bay and the third in Bering Sea areas just above Bristol Bay.
"IN EACH CASE exploratory ships preceded the fishing fleets. It is a standard Soviet procedure.
"My colleagues in Congress from the states of North and South Carolina may find it of interest that last month Russian exploratory ships were cruising the coastal waters of those two states, observing and evaluating off-shore stocks of menhaden. If the Russians follow their usual pattern, they will be fishing there a year or two from now."
Sen. Smith of Massachusetts supplemented the above with the statement that, only 15 miles from the shores of Cape Cod, American fishermen this spring encountered a huge Soviet fleet of over 100 vessels.
Several senators joined in pointing out that American fishermen face serious competition. Requests are being made for federal help in countering the Soviet invasion.
OSTENSIBLY, THE purpose of the Soviets is commercial, though it is difficult to understand why they have to go so far away from their own coastal waters, or at least so far beyond the shores of Britain or France or Spain or Africa, and travel all the way across the Atlantic to get fish that are plentiful elsewhere, too.
The mystery is so closely related to military operations that one of these days some further disclosures may be expected. Copyright 1962 New York Herald Tribune, Inc.

Never Say Nao

TUCSON, Ariz. — A graduate student at the University of Arizona was assigned to write a term paper on a remote Brazilian jungle area.
He discovered the university library had no research material on the subject. After a frantic search the student borrowed several books from Stanford and the University of Illinois.
The books arrived but were written in Portuguese.
"Would it be possible to pass the course?" The student found a Portuguese-speaking classmate and managed to complete his paper in time.

James Marlow Kennedy's Silent Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's Cabinet — compared with some of the more outspoken members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet—looks like a bunch of silent Sams.
Each President is free to handle his Cabinet as he wishes. Eisenhower gave his more status as an institution than Kennedy by meeting with it often. He even took it on television with him to talk to the nation.
KENNEDY may meet with his Cabinet members individually. But he puts a great reliance on his White House brain trust. And no one in his Cabinet or brain trust has shared the spotlight with him, or tried to.

Almost from the moment he became Eisenhower's secretary of state in 1953, John Foster Dulles was a great force unto himself without hesitancy in making high policy pronouncements.
Not so with the present secretary, Dean Rusk, a rather self-effacing man who runs his job like an expert technician, leaving the big statements to Kennedy.

DULLES was in continual conflict with his critics. Rusk so far has had practically no critics and his only conflict seems limited to the Russians, and then only in a quietly professional way.
Nobody challenges the competency of Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon. But he has stayed out of the headlines so much most people probably could not say offhand who heads the Treasury Department.
Very early in the Eisenhower administration Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey became a dominant figure with little reluctance in stating policy, a very conservative one, which became the hallmark of Eisenhower's years.

Hal Boyle Keep That Diary

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you yearn to win lasting fame and the gratitude of future generations?
Well, you can hardly do it by piling up wealth.
You could do it by writing a perfect poem or song; but that is far harder than making $100 million. The luminous gift of imagination creation is denied to all but those of genius.
But there is a simple available way for you to earn a place in history. That is—to keep an honest, detailed diary throughout your life, and leave it in your will to some university library.
A hundred years from now some historian seeking to find out what life was really like in the mid-20th century will stumble on that diary in some dusty stack. Opening and reading it, he will call your name blessed.
This has been called the "Age of Anxiety" and the "Age of Crisis." But it may finally go down in history as the "Age of the By-stander," a period when people were so busy watching the exciting spectacle of life—or were so numbed by what they saw—that few bothered to put down how they felt about it all.
Later historians will find no lack of material to study about this generation. There will be tons and tons of official papers to peer through.
The chronology of wars and diplomatic conferences makes up only the dry bones of human history. It is like learning about extinct animals by studying their fossils.
The only way to make human history really human is to find out how the individual person reacted to existence. What stirred him to dream, what caused him to despair? What did he really think about himself and others while he lived?

In the past men were more eloquent about themselves. Our ancestors were more frank about their reaction to life. They kept diaries, they wrote long letters and did not hesitate to speak freely what they thought and felt.
Such outspoken documents as the diary of Samuel Pepys, or the letters between John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, illuminate their times in a way no treaties or proclamations can.
Today we seem to be losing the ability to write as well as to talk. We celebrate our anniversaries by sending each other cheap comic greeting cards bearing a rented wisecrack.
Few of us bother to record in any permanent way problems of our hearts and minds—as if we were ashamed to show our private feelings. We run the risk of having future generations decide we actually had no feelings, and stalked dumbly through our time on earth like stumbling zombies.
So, why not keep a diary? It'll help you find out yourself what kind of person you are while alive—and it could make you famous after you're gone. It might make you more important later than you feel you are now, and isn't that worth a gamble?

To Your Good Health Cleft Palate May Be Corrected In Surgery

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 10-month-old baby with a cleft palate. I have been told that this deficiency may be completely corrected by plastic surgery.
Where may I locate the best plastic surgeons for this type of correction?—J. R. D.
Correction of this type of defect is being accomplished every day.
It is unthinkable not to have such a defect corrected since the techniques have now been so perfectly worked out. Depending on the extent of the original defect, it may be repaired so completely that it cannot be detected in later life. Or there may be only modest signs of the work afterward.
The correction has even been done on adults, although by that time it is no longer possible to achieve such complete repair as when it is done early in life. And besides that there is no reason to force the youngster to go through childhood with impaired speech and often considerable difficulty in eating when the means to fix the situation are at hand.
Now as to saying where you can locate the best plastic surgeons? I am pleased at being asked, but the truth is that I am not the one who can give the best answer.
This column appears in a good many other cities as well as here, and while I could, no doubt, discover the name of a fully qualified surgeon in almost any locality, the choice would be best made by your pediatrician, who certainly has had experience with such cases.

There are hundreds of highly trained plastic surgeons, certified by examining boards, scattered through all of our large and medium-size cities. People living in small communities will, of course, go to one of the cities for such surgery.
If you don't have a pediatrician, then ask your family doctor, or the doctor who delivered the baby. Or if you have recently moved, the health department of your community, the county medical society, or the director of the nearest general hospital will be glad to advise you.
You want, if possible, a hospital within easy driving range of your home, or failing that, one where you can find temporary living quarters near at hand. The choice may be in a city where you have friends or relatives. You may prefer a hospital of some particular religious affiliation. All of these are considerations worth keeping in mind.
Dear Dr. Molner: Is multiple sclerosis in the same category with Parkinson's disease?—Mrs. G. C. M.

While both are disorders of the nervous system, the fundamental defect is quite different in each case. Hence they would not be in the same category.
"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a widow and have been invited to live with my daughter and son-in-law. I am very comfortable except they each drink from 10 to 12 cans of beer a day and I am concerned that they might become alcoholics. They are 49—M. M."
They're old enough to know the facts of life and alcohol, and you're a guest so I'd maintain silence. It's quite a lot of beer, but beer drinkers rarely become alcoholics.
Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pincerism is the commonest. To learn the newest method of treatment for this pest, write for the booklet "The Commonest Pest Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.
Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim A New World For Parents, Too

School is upon us once again and no doubt there are several hundred others in much the same boat as I. They too, for the first time, have a child about to enter the great world of formal education.
Being interested parents, naturally they wonder what they can do to help the youngsters get off to the right start so that education will be a time of highly interesting learning. And they begin to wonder if they have spent enough time preparing the child to enter school.

IT SEEMS THAT six years is not quite enough—for the parent. The reading sessions, story-telling time and answering of numerous questions (many of which even dad has had to look up) may not have been enough. The child may be ready, but is the parent ready for the questions which will come in greater abundance now that the child learns there are many more question marks than he or she dreamed of before?
And I hastened to prepare myself, so when the flurry of questions increases I will not seem like a dull parent to the inquisitive child. I delved into the areas of education considered important to successful completion of school.

PERHAPS THE MOST important of these is the need to learn to communicate. Communication means more than the ability to carry on a conversation. It goes to the heart of education. It means that one must be able to express himself, wrapping ideas and thoughts in words so that both the speaker and the listener know what is being said.
It requires, above all, clear, logical thinking. What a person does not know, he cannot tell others. The child must be taught to think logically and to express himself in the same way. Expression comes easy when a person has grasped facts and arranged them into the logical order in his mental exercises.

WE HEAR MUCH of the need to allow our children free rein in curiosity and creativity. Although our education system tends to stifle curiosity and free expression, it must do so because it deals with many children at once. Thirty or more eight-year-olds moving in 30 or more directions get no one very far. At that stage they must be channeled along the same lines so all will get basic information from required subjects. From there the child moves on by himself.
It is in this single-handed advance which each child makes that the parent can turn into another area of learning. As Dr. Leslie J. Nason said, "Academic learning leads to knowing what you're supposed to know. Curiosity leads to knowing more than the teacher says you must know. That's one of the reasons why, no matter how good schools are, children need homes and parents to keep curiosity alive."

IT ALWAYS HARKS back to the home. And that is where the parents are the most important figures. The child takes their example, adopts their attitudes. The parents must approve of learning and try to be as helpful as they can be.
This school term will take the older members of this family, back to school, also. It might prove to be the most interesting education yet. —JOE BEYER

Fire Eating's A Hot Business

MOENGO, Surinam—If anyone, since the demise of vaudeville, has ever wondered whatever became of fire-eaters, he has only to come to Surinam to discover that the old art is not only alive but flourishing.
As the bush Negro practices fire-eating in Surinam, it would singe the tonsils of any of the old practitioners! Here the experts not only eat burning brands, but follow them with a chain of broken glass (American soda pop bottles preferred) which is chewed to splinters.
IN ADDITION, while eating fire and chewing glass, the performers dance in and out of blazing bonfires, doing a sort of Scorch-Time Stomp with asbestos nonchalance. The whole performance is already one of the Tourist Musts of Surinam.
Our little group went out to the bush Negro village of Negerkreek to see the performance at night under a full moon. The Southern Cross and a million stars. To the throbs of drums and the occasional chant of the sarong girls, the two star male performers ate fire, danced in and on it, massaged themselves on arms and legs with flaming brands, picked up hunks of red-hot steel, pranced on jagged glass and generally confounded me.
THERE WERE OTHERS in the audience who thought there must be some trick to it. But trick or no, it's a great show, although I think Billy Rose could tighten it up and re-stage it to advantage. The two male stars got all the kudos. But I was equally impressed by their girlfriends who constantly walked in and out of the bonfires and pushed the men out of the blaze when they seemed on the verge of catching fire.
Forty dollars is the set price for such a show, but wait till Actors' Equity moves south.
The juxtaposition of the primitive and the ultra modern, which is so common in Surinam, proclaims itself in this district.
NEGERKREEK IS A small village of one-room thatched huts where life has not changed much in two to three hundred years, while Moengo is a modern bauxite mining town run by Suralco, a subsidiary of Alcoa. Carved out of the jungle, Moengo sets on vast bauxite deposits which supply Surinam with its primary export product, a rich one.

We flew the 90 miles from Paramaribo to Moengo in one of a fleet of small planes owned and operated by the government. In this new nation, the air age has literally leap-frogged the auto age, impeded by the difficulty of building roads in the jungle, which covers more than 90 per cent of Surinam.
AIRFIELDS HAVE preceded roads and now compact communities heretofore linked only by Surinam's network of rivers. Only now, for the first time in her history which spans more than 400 years, a 260-mile highway is being pushed through the jungle—at great expense and effort—from the border of French Guiana on the east to that of British Guiana on the west.
From Moengo the tourist can explore the bush Negro and Amerindian villages, probe the jungle and drive 40 miles down the new highway to Albina, across the Marowijne River is St. Laurent, formerly the site of one of France's penal colonies in "the Green Hell" of French Guiana.
FROM ALBINA, A mile and a half across the water to St. Laurent, the French colonial town looked beckoning and romantic under a tropic sky. We crossed the river on a little ferry boat, to find a village and a handful of people who could have gladdened only the heart of Tennessee Williams.
In the last stages of decay, St. Laurent seemed haunted by a handful of living ghosts some of whom have set up shop, keeping in the tiny rooms of the block old French prison. Yet in one of the dusty, dispirited old shops, where no merchandise seemed less than 20 years old, I ran across the only new item I saw in the whole town—a Kennedy rocker.

Holmes Alexander Foursquare With Both Sides

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's programs and profanity have to be called anti-business; but the facts show a commendable even-handedness by the President and his administration in the running disputes between management and labor. I have been allowed limited access to Labor Secretary Goldberg's correspondence files on these disputes and this is what the record shows.
IN THE 18 MONTHS ending July, there have been 150,000 labor-management contracts negotiated. About 2,400 have been referred to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the National Mediation Board, while 30 have been handled by the secretary upon instruction and often with the close personal surveillance of the President himself, who has three times invoked the Taft-Hartley Act as a strike-stopper. Several times during the first 18 months in office, JFK has requested union members to postpone strikes and to accept further study by a commission, and he has twice done so successfully during August.
Both the President and the secretary receive a cascade of letters from businessmen, labor leaders, mayors and private citizens asking for favorable intervention in disputes. Sometimes the Secretary sternly lectures a labor boss, like Arthur Bentley of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Bingham Canyon, Utah, to whom Goldberg wrote in September, 1961, saying that a work stoppage has resulted in a loss of 20,000 tons of copper a month or 20 per cent of the copper production of the nation. I request that you exert every effort to achieve a settlement.
SOMETIMES THE secretary receives such thanks as these from a businessman, Herman L. Friedman, president of the Building Structural Steel Corp., last November.
"All the contractors of Cleveland, and especially our company and I, are much indebted to you for your part in bringing our recent strike negotiations to a conclusion satisfactory to both parties."
Sometimes he hears rapturously from a labor boss like Charles Cogen, president of the United Federation of Teachers, who wrote him last December concerning the New York teachers' strike.

"THIS IS A SMASHING victory for the labor movement. Without your constant assistance, it would not have been possible."
Sometimes the secretary rejects the request of a businessman to intervene, as he did in writing Philip Geller, of the Associated Builders of Greater New York.
"I have the rank and file membership of the union has rejected settlements which were apparently acceptable to its negotiating committee. Under these circumstances, it has seemed to me that the best hope of settlement lies in the patient adherence to the mediation process. Needless to say, I shall continue to give this matter my close personal attention."
ALWAYS, IN GIVING a refusal such as the one to Howard Wood, executive director, Long Island Home Builders Institute, last November, the secretary also gives his reasons.
"The Department of Labor does not intervene in such matters except where the conflict clearly threatens to harm the national interest. I do not mean to minimize the seriousness of the cement drivers' strike by saying that in my judgment there was no such threat."
Both the President and the secretary have resisted labor demands for a shorter work week. In May, 1962, Goldberg told a convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, AFL-CIO.
"LET ME SAY categorically for the national Administration that the President and the administration do not feel that reducing the hours will be a cure to our economic problems."
Although the President chewed out Roger Blough, and cussed out steel makers, and hasn't publicly done likewise to labor, there is no sign of favoritism when it comes to settling disputes. If anything, Mr. Kennedy is tougher than President Eisenhower ever dared to be toward labor.

Victims Organize

German attorney Karl Schulte-Hillen, father of a child whose deformity is blamed on the drug thalidomide, checks an indexed card file in Hamburg, Germany. The file is supposed to contain names of 400 families with children similarly deformed. He has started an association for the families and hopes to extend its organization to other countries.

X15 Takes Photos Of Mystery Object

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Space agency officials released photographs of a mysterious hand-sized object seen tumbling above the X15 rocket plane as it streaked to a record 314,750-foot altitude last July 17.

The photographs, taken by a movie camera in the tail of the X15, show a gray-white object in a position floating between the main panels of the rocket plane's windshield.

The pictures were released after Air Force Maj. Robert Rushworth reported that he had ordered 60 officers to report Tuesday and that he hopes to dispose of two of the cases the next week.

Award Appeals Due Hearing Next Week

Four condemnation appeal suits on file in the county court since last fall are slated for trial during the next two weeks.

County Judge Ed Carpenter said he has ordered 60 officers to report Tuesday and that he hopes to dispose of two of the cases the next week.

The cases concern right-of-way acquired for the improvement of US 87 north of Big Spring. The appeals by the state are from the findings of the special commission selected to assess value and damages.

The owners of the land involved in the suit had declined to accept the original offers made for their land by the county. Special appraisers were then appointed.

The appeals have been on file since Sept. 15.

Lynched For Slaying Of Missionary

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — An angry mob lynched a drunken bartender for slaying a young American missionary priest who had tried to stop him from serving drinks to minors.

The Rev. William Krueger, 32, was shot to death Monday night in the parlor of his parish house in the Andean village of Montero.

Over the protests of other priests, a mob seized the gunman, Manglio Saravia, dragged him through the streets to the village square and hanged him.

Services were held today for Father Krueger in Montero and he will be buried at the Maryknoll Roman Catholic mission where he had served for two years.

Father Krueger, one of 11 children, was a son of Katherine Krueger and the late Francis A. Krueger of Troy, N.Y. Two of his sisters are in religious orders.

The young missionary, ordained in 1957, had served most of his five years as a priest in central Bolivia.

Father Krueger's mission at Montero was only about 100 yards from a saloon. On Monday night he went to the saloon to complain of the noise and appeal to Saravia to stop selling drinks to minors.

The priest also went to the police.

The bartender, in a drunken rage, got a gun and sought out the priest and shot him five times.

Pre-Registration Is Set For Next Week

Pre-registration of all elementary students is scheduled for Aug. 15-16, according to Sam M. Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District.

Students in grades 7-12 who did not attend Big Spring schools last year may register any day Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1:30-4 p. m. at the school they will attend.

Persons for whom a certificate of compliance was obtained last year need not obtain another. Secondary students who pre-registered in the spring are required to pick up their schedule of classes before school begins.

ASA Tourney Set To Open

BROWNWOOD—More than 20 of Texas' top men's softball teams will take the field here Thursday through Sunday for the annual State ASA Softball Tournament.

Games will get under way tonight when these games will be played at Daniel Baker Park. Friday, however, games will be played both at Daniel Baker and at Sportsman Park.

Austin Merchants who were able to finish in the runner-up spot last year behind mighty Lake Jackson have been installed as pre-tournament favorites for the 1962 get-together.

Caroline Beats Mother To Water In First Outing

RAVELLO, Italy (AP)—Caroline Kennedy raced into the water ahead of her mother today on the first beach outing together of their Italian vacation.

America's First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy, changed from white slacks and blue blouse into a green one-piece bathing suit as 4-year-old Caroline splashed merrily in knee-deep water in the blue Mediterranean.

Baby Found Dead In Bed

Gregory Allen Wood, 3-year-old son of Arman F. and Mrs. Thomas J. Wood was found dead in his bed Thursday morning.

Burglars Hit Two Places

Fern Cox, chief deputy sheriff and D. R. Buzbee, deputy, are investigating the burglary of the Big Spring Country Club and of the new veterinary hospital owned by Dr. Akin Simpson.

Cox said that the burglars forced a cigarette vending machine at the Country Club and took an undetermined amount of money. They also stole some whisky and other beverages.

At the veterinary hospital, at the south edge of town, thieves took $88 in cash.

The Country Club was raided in an earlier way a few weeks ago and entrance was gained in that occasion through the same doorway.

Police records showed that a complaint had been filed shortly before 10 p. m. that a group of boys were engaged in a fight near the club.

Whether this incident had any connection with the two break-ins was being investigated, Cox said.

Big Springers Check TESCO Industry File

Big Springers who went to Fort Worth Wednesday to help local industrial expansion efforts did not waste any time in putting Texas Electric Service Company's store of information to use.

Making the trip were Marvin Miller, Roy Reeder, Doug Orme, Carroll Davidson and Jimmy Beale. They left Big Spring by private plane Wednesday morning and returned that evening.

The main reason we made the trip was to learn what TESCO has available for our use," Davidson said. "There is much information about the area, such as marketing and raw materials available, which they can supply readily."

They discussed development of Howard County and how local industrial development fits into the general plan of improvement.

Members and friends of the St. Paul Presbyterian Church will gather with the children and their parents with the Vacation Church School on the Church lawn for an ice cream social Friday at 7 p. m.

A brief sharing program will be given by the various departments of the school. The social hour will honor all the teachers and workers of the school which this year had a total enrollment of nearly 100.

Funeral will be at 3 p. m. Friday at the River Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Jack Power, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, officiating.

GETS WEEKLY CHECK

Gustin Playing For The Kicks

By FRANK ECK
NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP)—Seldom does anyone write about Jon Gustin. You only hear about the winners. Jon has been on tour three years without ever winning.

JON GUSTIN
Plays for satisfaction

Three he was second, but no cigar.

In the first six months this year, the handsome 30-year-old golfer earned $7,500 on the 1962 golf tour. He hasn't a nickel to show for it. That's the way Jon Gustin wants it.

When Jon picks up a PGA check—about a dozen this year—he mails it to Lorna Frakes, head pro at the Philadelphia Country Club. Frakes and several well-to-do club members at the Gladwyne course are backing the native of Irvine, Ky., who makes his home in Birmingham, Ala. The Frakes group sends Gustin about $250 a week.

They are just about breaking even, which isn't bad, backing a nonwinner. Last Christmas they gave Jon a $500 bonus. One of the club members asked Frakes, "Is that enough?"

"I toured three winters in California and didn't win a quarter," says Gustin. "But I'll play better this winter."

"People see me hit a ball on the practice tee and they think I'm the greatest player in the world. Sometimes I can't take the club back from the ball. It's strictly psychological."

Gustin talked with a few golfing psychiatrists, but they never got him on a coach because they were Philadelphia, Pa. members.

and thought Jon was spoiling. "I don't have a worry in the world," says Gustin. "I'm single and my only worry is how well I play. I'm not playing for the dollar but for satisfaction. I haven't won a tournament but I'm improving. Ball hitting is 25 per cent and I'm hitting it well. Bob Jones put it at 15 per cent."

Gustin is only one of the many nonwinners on tour.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Sports dialogue:

BUCK WILKINSON, football coach of the Oklahoma Sooners: "In many respects we had an excellent spring practice. We have more depth and more speed than last year but we will be an inexperienced team. Our somewhat green personnel must develop rapidly into a solid, well-organized team if we are able to play well against Syracuse, Notre Dame and Texas, our first three opponents."

RALPH KINER, former baseball great, describing the literary effort of Frankie Frisch, who broke out in print recently: "He spends the first chapter telling how much smarter the old ball players were, then spends the next 20 chapters telling of all the dumb things the old players did."

DICK FORBES, Cincinnati writer: "Somewhere in the minds of every coach in the Midwest these days, except those leading the Big Ten, Big Eight, etc., is a post-season bowl game in El Paso, Texas. The Sun Bowl is going to take a big jump in prominence this year. There'll be a brand new stadium in the border city, seating 40,000 fans compared to 22,000 in the old stadium. This means the stipend to visiting teams in El Paso is really going to be worth something, and so are the TV rights. The Sun Bowl game was televised nationally last year, even though the game wasn't picked up here, and Villanova and Wichita put on a great show."

JIMMY PIERALLI, Washington outfielder: "Wonder who they're blaming in Cleveland now for not winning? They traded away me, Vic Power and Johnny Temple, all of their trouble makers."

TED BATTLES, Midland writer: "A desire to play for Bud Wilkinson was the only thing that kept Carl Schreiner, the all-district catcher and all-district guard (at Midland Lee), from picking Texas A&M over Oklahoma. Schreiner was impressed with the College Station campus, baseball coach Tom Chandler and football coach Hank Fulberg. In fact, it would have been a real toss-up choice between A&M and OU, if it hadn't been for Wilkinson."

LEON WAGNER, American League hero in the last All-Star game: "I could always hit, but you don't think they picked me on the All-Star team for my hitting alone, do you?" Shucks, I'm one of the best defensive rightfielders, too. Only Kline is better, but he is a magician. Kline is good, too, but he's nothing extra special. I'm at least as good as he is. I got tired of the criticism from those sports writers. They always called me a butcher in the field and they don't want to admit that I'm good. I guess I'm established now as an American League."

WILLIE REDDISH, who is helping train Sonny Liston for his title fight with Floyd Patterson: "You couldn't call Sonny a fast heavyweight, although his legs, like everything about him, are strong. He's a fighter. His job is a jolting punch and he can hook off the jab. His right is dynamite, but he can take a man out with either hand. Liston thinks Cleveland Williams is the best fighter he's faced up to now. He fought him twice, knocked him out in the third round at Miami Beach and in the second round at Houston. But he still respects Williams and says, 'That man is dangerous and I had to get him before he got me.'"

HC-Ex Named Borger Aide

Dr. Alfred T. Little, superintendent of schools in Borger, has recently announced that Max McCulloch has been named assistant basketball coach to Tex Hanna, head mentor in the Borger system.

McCulloch graduated from Coleman High School in 1955, where he lettered in three sports. After two years at Howard County Junior College, where he lettered in basketball and track, he transferred to West Texas State College and graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in 1959.

After one year in Borger as an elementary physical education teacher, he was moved to Sam Houston Junior High as eighth grade coach. He served in this capacity two years before his present assignment.

McCulloch, married to the former Laverne Cooper of Big Spring, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. McCulloch, Coleman.

Tech Will Get 3 All-Stars

LUBBOCK (AP)—Texas Tech will get more of the all-star basketball players here for the Texas Coaching School game Friday night than any other college, but the Red Raiders have grabbed only three.

A checkup as the squads went through final drills today showed Tech will enroll John Malaise of Odessa, Bob Measels of Seminole and Russ Wilkinson of Lubbock Monterey.

Rice bags two, Eddie Pruitt of Fort Stockton and Bill Doty of Clear Creek. Others will be distributed as follows: Texas A&M: John Morris; Linden-Kildare: Lon Morris; Eddie Dominguez; Dallas Jefferson; Southern Methodist: Carroll Hooser; Richardson: Oklahoma State: Howard Iba, Fort Worth Paschal; Clarendon Junior College: Sammy Johnston, Quitman; East Texas Baptist: Milton Minter; Bowie of Simms; Texas: Wayne Ballard, Houston Austin; East Texas State: Richard Fenton, Spring Hill; Texas Lutheran: Newton Grimes, South San Antonio; Sul Ross: Harold Jones, Huntington; Del Mar Junior College: Glendon Horner, Woodshore; Houston University: John Moore, Houston; Milby: Abilene Christian: Charles Reynolds, Brady; Kilgore Junior College: James Simmons, Buna; Tulane: J. C. Smith, Levert's Chapel.

Three are undecided. They are Weldon Hatley of Boswell, David Cline of Victoria and Ellis Smith, Baytown.

The North team, a heavy favorite to win the all-star game, eased off in training because of sore feet and blisters and skipped a morning drill.

The South held sessions as usual, working largely on defense and rebounding. The North will have an advantage in height and speed.

Indy Onslaught Is Continuing

Indianapolis hung up its 14th victory in 16 American Association starts Wednesday night by beating Dallas-Fort Worth 3-2.

Omaha dropped Oklahoma City 7-2 and 4-2 in a twin bill. Denver routed Louisville 8-1 on a 14-hit attack and the five-hit pitching of Gordon Seyfried.

It was Seyfried's 12th triumph in 17 decisions. He struck out five and walked none.

Indianapolis broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth frame as Jim Koranda doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a dribbler by third baseman Charlie Smith.

Joe Altobelli swatted four singles and batted in four runs for Omaha in the opener. In the nightcap Burbon Wheeler pitched a two-hitter. Ernie Fazio homered for Oklahoma City in the eighth.

Links Ass'n. Set For Meet Tonight

Members of the Big Spring Golf Association meet at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Permian building at 7 o'clock this evening to discuss plans for the organization's August tournament.

A delegation from the Big Spring Country Club reportedly will be on hand to extend the membership an invitation to compete in the annual Big Spring Invitational tournament, which starts Aug. 31.

More than 50 players took part in the BSGA's tournament during July and officials are holding out hopes that the field for the August meet will be bigger, since more players have had time to establish handicap cards.

Redleg Vet Shows To Good Advantage

By MIKE RATHIE
Associated Press Sports Writer

At age 15 Joe Nuxhall exchanged his knickerbocker for a major league uniform. Now, 19 years and some gray hairs later, the knuckleballing left-hander has turned into somewhat of a phenom again for the Cincinnati Reds.

The 34-year-old veteran, reclaimed from the minors recently, hurled 7 1-3 innings of shutout ball before giving way to relief ace Jim Brosnan as the third-place Reds made it three consecutive whitewash jobs against Houston with a 4-0 triumph.

The National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers moved 3 1/2 games in front by making the most of four hits for a 3-1 triumph over Philadelphia while the New York Mets used the home-run weapon to subdue second-place San Francisco 5-2.

Elsewhere in the NL, Bob Gibson's fourth shutout, a three-hit-ter, gave St. Louis a 2-0 triumph over Pittsburgh, and the Chicago Cubs belted Milwaukee 12-4.

Nuxhall, who became the youngest player to perform in the majors when he joined the Reds in 1944, was taken out in the eighth after Joey Amalfitano singled and Roman Mejias was hit by a pitch.

Brogan stopped the threat. The Reds put it away against Bob Bruce (6-7) with two in the second on a walk, Jerry Lynch's homer made it 3-0 in the third and the Reds wrapped it up in the ninth.

The Dodgers went ahead to stay in the second when Johnny Roseboro homered after a single by Frank Howard and closed out the scoring when Maury Willis singled, stole second and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Willie Davis.

Stan Williams (11-7) won it Jack Hamilton (6-10) was the loser.

Frank Thomas and Felix Mantilla each hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning, and that was enough for the Mets as Roger Craig (7-17) went the distance and checked the Giants on seven hits.

It was Thomas' 27th homer. Orlando Cepeda hit his 22nd for San Francisco and Harvey Kuenn hit his sixth but it wasn't enough for Bob Bolin (6-2).

Gibson (14-8) walked only two while striking out 10 in beating the Pirates and Al McBean (11-8). McBean lost it when the Cardinals pushed across the game's runs on an error in the sixth.

A 14-hit attack, including home runs by Ernie Banks, No. 28, and Ron Santo did the damage for the Cubs while Glen Hobbie (4-11) limited the Braves to seven hits. The loser was Bob Hendley (8-8).

Bean-Ball Charge Aimed At Birdie

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Charlie Metro, head coach of the Chicago Cubs, accused Milwaukee Manager Birdie Tebbetts of ordering Braves' pitcher Jack Curtis to throw a "bean ball" in the aftermath of a free-for-all Wednesday night Tebbetts promptly denied it.

It was very deliberate, Metro said in the clubhouse after the Cubs had trounced the Braves 12-4. "It was the most flagrant and obvious case of throwing at a batter I've ever seen."

Metro was referring to a pitch thrown by Curtis in the ninth inning that sent Chicago hurler Glen Hobbie sprawling in the dirt. It was the fourth ball and got by catcher Bob Uecker. Ron Santo, who was on third, started for home and Uecker threw to Curtis who tagged out the Cub player before he got to the plate.

Curtis and Santo then started to tangle and within seconds both benches were emptied as the free-for-all started. Milwaukee third baseman Eddie Mathews grabbed Curtis and Santo and wrestled both to the ground. No one was hurt and Curtis was ejected from the game. Santo's out, however, was the third and the Braves didn't have to replace Curtis.

Metro said that Tebbetts should have been kicked out.

Why did Tebbetts go to the mound with a 2 and 1 count on Hobbie to talk with Curtis if it wasn't to tell his pitcher to throw at Glen? he asked.

Tebbetts said he gave Curtis no instruction except to get Hobbie out.

I don't think Curtis deliberately threw at Hobbie, Tebbetts said. He should not have been thrown out of the game.

Tebbetts pointed out that Hobbie had "dusted off" Henry Aaron in the eighth inning.

The plate umpire Jacko Conlan said that there was "no doubt that he (Curtis) threw at Hobbie." He said he had no chance to give Curtis a warning before he threw him out of the game and that he would include the incident in his report of the game.

The winner of the Webb-Lackland fracas will play the loser of the Connally-Keesler game in the nightcap, Thursday.

Pekar who pitched a double header for Webb Wednesday, gave up three hits in the first game, and five in the second.

Hester's Is 4-1 Winner

Hester's Office Supply nudged Reeder Insurance, 4-1, and Montgomery Ward turned back The Herald, 6-5, in YMCA Slow-Pitch Softball league games at the City Park Wednesday night.

J & L Supply accepted a forfeit from Coca-Cola in what was to have been the other game. Jerry Don Paige fashioned the mound win for Hester's, limiting Reeder's to two hits. All the runs in the game were scored in the final inning.

Danny Valdes drove out three of the winners' six hits, the only player on either team to collect more than one safety.

Ward's made the most of five hits to topple The Herald in the other game.

Little was the winning pitcher in that game while C. Williams was charged with the defeat. No player on either team had more than one hit.

Second place Veracruz trails Monterey by 7 1/2 games.

Pro Football Shrine To Be Built In Ohio

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Back in 1920 in a dimly lit garage the National Football League was born here. Franchises currently worth millions were a paltry $100.

Now at a peak of popularity after more than two score years of ups and downs professional football pauses Saturday to start construction of a sanctuary for some of its most highly prized players and possessions.

Pete Rozelle, youthful commissioner of the NFL, will turn the first spadeful of earth at 10 a.m. on the spot where an ultra modern hall of fame will rise within a year.

This community, football hotbed for half a century, raised $399,000 from 1,160 donors for the new structure. Each league team gave $1,000. The building will cost $366,000, not counting the ornate furnishing, and an annual budget of some $70,000 will perpetuate the shrine.

From all over the country exhibits of the olden golden days of the game have been pouring in to Dick McCann, $20,000-per-year director of the hall of fame who served 16 years as general manager of the Washington Redskins. All will have their place in the hall to be constructed on a 16-acre park plot just north of the city's Fawcett Stadium.

Saturday's festivities wind up under the Fawcett Stadium lights as the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals stage their first exhibition game of the season. Each club gets a $15,000 guarantee, but McCann said the hall of fame should wind up with at least a $35,000 profit from the $5-per-ticket gate.

Jim Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete who died in 1953, was the first president of the old professional league. Some of his backfield mates from the Carlisle Indian days will be on hand for Saturday's ceremony along with such veteran gridiron luminaries as Harry Stuhldrefer of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen; Jim Counsellman, the erudite phrase-maker from St. Louis, and Al Nesser, the former New York Giant lineman and one of professional football's famed Nesser brothers from Columbus, Ohio.

The league organized here as the American Professional Football Association changed its name to the National Football League in 1922. Charter members were the Canton Bulldogs with Thorpe as the feature attraction, the Cleveland Indians, Dayton Triangles, Akron Professionals, Massillon Tigers, Rock Island (Ill.) Independents, Staley's of Decatur, Ill., Chicago Cardinals, and Rochester, N.Y. Muncie, Ind., and Hammond, Ind.

Of those cities only Cleveland and Chicago are still in the loop. A selection committee to name the hall of fame is being set up among newspaper, radio and television personnel in each of the NFL cities. The first entrants, probably 11, will be enshrined next year as the Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers meet here in an early season exhibition.

ROME (AP) — A Rome high court has ruled that a priest is not breaking Italian law if he refuses absolution because he disapproves of a penitent's politics.

The court ended a six-year controversy over church-state relations this week when it reversed a lower court finding that the priest in the town of Amoruso near Naples was guilty of influencing votes by withholding absolution of sins.

Marilyn Is Laid To Rest

By JAMES BACON AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Marilyn Monroe 1926-1962." The plate on the crypt reads simply, but it tells little of a Hollywood legend — of her funeral, unique for such a personality.

For instance, there was former baseball great Joe DiMaggio, who married the sex goddess — the second of her three husbands.

Before Marilyn, who was found dead in bed Sunday from an overdose of sleeping pills, went to her final resting place Wednesday, the famed New York Yankee slugger bent over her coffin.

Tearfully, he kissed her and poured out from his heart: "I love you. I love you. I love you."

It was out of character for the reticent DiMaggio, but perhaps that made it all the more sincere.

Later he drove through Westwood Memorial Park, stopped once more at her crypt and then drove on.

FANS ORDERLY

Then there were the fans. During the simple, non-demonstrational rites they were orderly, dignified, even sentimental.

But as soon as the funeral was over a couple hundred of them climbed over a concrete wall, trampled the grass and flowers around the crypt that entombed the movie queen.

When the fans departed, most of the flowers went with them.

"Marilyn Monroe meant a lot to me," said one unidentified short-order cook, a recent immigrant from Rome, who clutched one of DiMaggio's roses in his hand. "I'll always keep this flower. It will remind me of a girl who had even a worse start in life than I had—but who became famous all over the world."

Then there were the Hollywood stars who weren't invited to the funeral.

Arthur Jacobs, Marilyn's long-time publicity representative said of the 11 invited guests: "About half of the people in there would not even be there if Marilyn had had anything to do with the invitations—and a lot more of her friends would have been there."

JFK'S SISTER BARRED

Among these would have been actor Peter Lawford and his wife Pat, brother-in-law and sister of President Kennedy. When Mrs. Lawford heard of Marilyn's death, she flew from the summer White House at Hyannis Port, Mass., to attend the funeral.

But when she got here she found that neither she nor Peter was invited.

"I'm shocked," said Lawford. "We were not invited. I don't know who's responsible but the whole thing was badly handled."

The Lawfords were very close friends of Miss Monroe's as were Frank Sinatra, Clifton Webb and Dean Martin.

None of them was invited.

Marilyn's half sister, Bernice Mercade, and DiMaggio handled the guest list. No movie stars were invited — and none showed up.

Those in charge of the arrangements explained that if they invited one star, they would have to invite many, and to have a big crowd would mean a circus-like funeral.

HARDLY THE TYPE

The absence of the big movie names may have given a dignified almost quiet tone to the funeral, but it hardly seemed the type of final sendoff for a star of Miss Monroe's magnitude.

Lee Strasberg, head of the Actor's Studio in New York and Marilyn's long-time drama mentor, eulogized her as "a warm human being impulsive and shy, sensitive and in fear of rejection, yet ever avid for life and reaching out for fulfillment."

Meanwhile, a coroner's suicide team worked to find out whether a fatal dosage of sleeping pills was taken accidentally or intentionally.

Marilyn, a mystery in life, created an even greater mystery by her death.

The question was why this beautiful sex symbol, 36 years old and still at the top of her career, had died.

SAME FATE AS THE KING OF FRANCE

BUDD LAKE, N.J. — Firemen dashed into a burning farmhouse Tuesday night and dashed back out again.

A swarm of bees, angered by smoke and flames, routed the firemen.

"They were going down our necks through our coats and into our trousers," said Fire Chief George D. Smith. About 20 firemen were stung.

The chief said the bees apparently had built a hive in the unoccupied building. The fire burned out the interior of the house.

Eddie Cantor's Wife Dies Of Heart Attack

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV - Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ida Cantor, wife of comedian Eddie Cantor and the one for whom he sang his song "Ida," for many years, died of a heart attack in her sleep Wednesday. She was 70.

Cantor, also 70, suffering from a heart ailment himself for several years, collapsed in a state of shock when his wife was pronounced dead. He was placed under sedation in their Beverly Hills home. A nurse remained at his bedside.

The couple, childhood sweethearts on the streets of New York, married 48 years ago while Cantor was a struggling vaudeville comedian.

They had five daughters who with Mrs. Cantor figured prominently in much of the banjo-eyed comedian's humor. The eldest daughter, Marjorie, died of cancer in 1959.

Mrs. Cantor died in the family home where she had been suffering for some time with a heart ailment.

Her maiden name was Ida Tobias. Her father tried to get Cantor to quit show business and to go into the clothing business with him.

But the orphaned Cantor's widowed grandmother, Esther Cantor, put her foot down. Being a comedian, she said, was just as important as selling suits.

Cantor has been largely retired in recent years, spending his time writing books and articles reminiscing on his long career.

Survivors in addition to Cantor include the four daughters: Natalia, Edna, Marilyn, Janet and five grandchildren.

The woman who became known to millions as "Ida, sweet as apple cider," traveled thousands of miles with Cantor on his personal appearance tours.

She suffered a heart attack eight years ago while in Miami, Fla., for a Cantor benefit performance. She had a second heart attack four years ago and spent three months in a hospital in Los Angeles.

Turk Takes Star's Death Rather Hard

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — Clutching a picture of Marilyn Monroe, a Turk jumped into the Aegean Sea Wednesday. Passersby rescued him.

The man was identified as Bayram Kandemir, 36, married and with three children. Friends said he had been in an acute state of depression and had been drinking since reading off Miss Monroe's death.

Psychiatry Is Next Candidate For Television Glamorizing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV - Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Psychiatry is the next candidate for television's glamor treatment of medicine.

One of NBC's important fall entries is "The 11th Hour," about the cases of a widowed forensic psychiatrist and a handsome clinical psychologist.

"The 11th Hour" started as one program in the "Kildare" series, but the program was never aired. Now it has been re-shot to kick off the new series this fall. Like its parent show, meticulous attention is given to authenticity and small, important detail.

There is a consulting psychiatrist on the set for advice on scenes and to guide stars Wendell Corey and Jack Ging in portraying professional men.

NBC, of course, just hopes it has a popular new show on its schedule.

"But one of our goals," says Dr. Harold W. Arlen, the Los Angeles psychiatrist who is the show's chief consultant, "is to present psychiatry as a medical science rather than something mysterious and bizarre, and to show psychiatrists and psychologists as human beings rather than gods or magicians."

Dr. Arlen and the committee drew up a list of books on psychiatry for the script writers to read for background. Dr. Arlen coached the stars on proper behavior.

Never touch the patient other than shaking hands, learn areas of restraint—when to be gentle or harsh, when to lead in questioning and when to follow, and, most important, how to look objective and compassionate at the same time.

"A delicate balance," says the doctor.

Occasionally, the medical purists meet head-on with drama experts. In one recent scene, Corey was to say of a patient: "I think he's faking."

Dr. Arlen disagreed: "You would say, 'I think he's confabulating,' because there's a difference. Faking is lying because you want to; confabulating is not telling the truth for various emotional reasons."

It was resolved—by using the fancy word and then having the doctor explain its meaning to a handy layman.

"The writers take care of the plots," said Arlen. "We make sure the characters' actions are consistent with the pathology of their diseases—and we make sure the doctors don't play detective, prosecutor or D.A. and are dignified and professional."

A forensic psychiatrist, incidentally, is a handy character in a dramatic series—he's the kind who specializes in cases involved with the law. A clinical psychologist treats individuals, he does not do research or gather statistics.

Corey, a veteran actor, listened quietly to Dr. Arlen's explanations of the psychiatrist's complicated role, and shook his head.

"I'm just playing my character as a healer," he said.

Crash Kills 2

DALLAS (AP)—Robert Waters, 39, and his wife were killed as their car hit a stalled trailer-truck from behind Wednesday night in northwest Dallas. Sgt. B. F. Rogers said trucker Robert Pitts, 21, of Kilgore stopped beside the road because his vehicle ran out of gas and was switching to an auxiliary fuel tank.

Witnesses told police the car, driven by Mrs. Waters, was traveling along the road's shoulder. Officers said the impact knocked the 35-foot trailer about 30 feet and the car wedged underneath.

THE USES OF INEPTITUDE. By Nicholas Samstag. Obolensky, $3.50.

Samstag has a point in this book, about what he calls "omni-strain." That's a 54 word for what some people call "the rat race."

His point is that too many people are trying to be ambitious in too many directions at once. He argues that the logical solution is to let up on the throttle and just be ambitious in a few things, or even just one. He declares that the results will be gratifying, and besides the victim probably will live longer.

In the field of business he suggests that the reader experiment for one month by doing adequate work in his job and no more. No currying favor with the boss, no making like an executive, no efforts to impress business associates or underlings. At the end of the period, claims the author, the reader will have a much better perspective on whether he wants to go back into high gear towards a promotion.

Discussing sports, he advocates a novel approach that a game is supposed to be fun. In this book, trying to break a certain figure on the golf course, and talking business deals in the locker room, wouldn't come under the heading of fun.

Samstag also makes some proposals about slowing down in the fields of sex, social affairs and the church. In short, he is on the side of nonconformity. He concedes that a person willing to be inept in a number of activities, while concentrating on his true ambition will win no popularity contests.

Samstag's exposition is a little on the intellectual side, but he had included enough down-to-earth examples to make this a stimulating and provocative book.

Cuba Shows Mixing Of East, West

By GEORGE ARFELD
HAVANA, AP—Olive green Russian trucks move down the streets of Havana, along with 1960 American cars. The Coca-Cola sold at the Yuri Gagarin cafeteria is an imitation product.

Russian movies share double bills with aging Hollywood productions. The Russian influence is evident in Havana, but the casual visitor might believe he was in some Western city where the clock stopped months ago.

Baseball is still Cuba's favorite sport, but chess is winning converts. Sandal-shod visitors from behind the Iron Curtain are commonplace. Bootblacks have learned that Czechs are more generous than Muscovites.

SHARES BREEZE
The Red flag with gold hammer and sickle, shares the breeze with the Cuban ensign. From a pier in the bay, the legend "peace and friendship" in Russian letters greets Soviet sailors. Above it, in Spanish, appears "Fidel-Khrushchev."

It is 2½ years since Russia and Cuba made a 12-year credit agreement, promising the Castro regime $100 million in machinery and equipment. A 5-year trade and payments pact was signed at the same time in Havana by Fidel Castro and Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier.

Mikoyan promised Russia would take a million tons of Cuba sugar a year for five years—at world market prices. Until then the United States was buying around five million tons a year and paying a premium.

TRADE DATA
Russian-Cuban trade this year is set at 750 million pesos (the peso officially is equivalent to $1, but its actual worth in free exchanges is much less).

The government says the Russians will take 2.8 million tons of sugar this year at an undisclosed price.

In 1958 when Castro was bringing to a close his campaign against dictator Fulgencio Batista, only 2.6 per cent of Cuba's exports went behind the Iron Curtain. This figure has risen to more than 80 per cent. About the same proportion of the island's total imports also hail from Communist nations.

Outside these cold figures lies the technical training and cultural exchange program. More than 900 peasant youths returned from Russia this spring.

S. Africa Is Grumbling Over Lack Of Television

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The Telstar satellite achievement has provoked new grumblings from press and public here that South Africa still has no television of any kind while far less developed African countries do.

The latest word from Communications Minister Dr. Albert Hertzog is that television is "too expensive" to be inaugurated here. Dr. Hertzog told Parliament not long ago that he had a low opinion of the "blood and thunder entertainment that comes through that piece of glass" and that he feared the effects of such entertainment on South Africa's white youth—not to speak of the majority nonwhite population.

Typical of the new protests was an editorial in the English-language Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail, which said: "There is no doubt that the television beamed across the Atlantic by Telstar marks a new era in communications. It may be said that 'international television' has arrived... how does South Africa stand in relation to such an achievement? Dr. Hertzog has stubbornly turned his back on the introduction of any form of television in this country. Perhaps that did not matter so much while it remained a domestic affair. But can South Africa afford to keep aloof when television becomes international? Can it afford further to emphasize its isolation by cutting itself off from what must become a world form of communication and culture? Or will the Dr. Hertzogs of South Africa stick their heads in the sand and pretend there ain't no such thing?"

JFK Foreign Record Varies

EDITOR'S NOTE—President John F. Kennedy is approaching the White House with a record in foreign affairs. In this fourth article in a five-part series, Associated Press reporters, William Morris, Peter Phillips and others—and the abundant "M" factors.

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—During the conference between President Kennedy and Nikita S. Khrushchev in Vienna last year, the Soviet premier suddenly grated out: "If you want war over Berlin, you'll get war."

History does not record a more blunt, bull-dozing threat, thrown at one head of state by another. Khrushchev's design may have been to shock Kennedy off-balance. The President replied: "It looks like a cold winter."

The two men, having measured each other, went their separate ways.

Kennedy held firm on Berlin. Khrushchev set no new deadlines for signing a treaty with East Germany. He told a delegation of American newspaper editors last July 18 he still intends to sign such a treaty, but he said: "When shall we do it? I will not set any time."

PLUS FACTOR
Some observers consider this a plus on the administration's credit-and-debit ledger for foreign affairs. For the moment, it may be.

But Kennedy, who says "Berlin is our big interest," does not expect Khrushchev to remain quiet indefinitely about this problem. No new formula for solving it is in sight. So Berlin is an X-factor, an uncertain quantity, in the foreign equation.

What are the plusses and minuses? Few developments in foreign affairs fit completely into this clear-cut definition.

Cuba, to be sure, was a disaster for the administration.

The Berlin Wall was a shocker. At home and abroad, people asked why the Western Allies were not prepared for such a contingency. Some Americans criticized Kennedy for not having ordered American tanks to knock down the wall at the moment the Communists began erecting it. Whether the other Allied governments would have supported such a move, is, of course, still another question.

CONGO SNARL
The Congo is still snarled. The United States, with money and other support, backs the United Nations effort to force Katanga Province into the Leopoldville government. Some Americans bitterly criticize this policy. Only last week, the U.N. secretary-general termed the situation "particularly critical."

The problem with France, a hold-over from 1960, remains unsolved. The French are determined to develop their own nuclear weapons. The Kennedy administration refuses to provide technical assistance. Time alone will tell whether the policy was the right one.

No formulas have been found for an agreement to disarm or to stop nuclear tests. When Kennedy decided the United States must resume nuclear testing, picket lines formed in front of the White House in protest.

SOME OPTIMISM
On the other hand, developments in Southeast Asia appear to warrant at least some cautious optimism.

An agreement was hammered out for a tripartite coalition government in Laos. The question is whether it will hold.

Before this agreement, Kennedy ordered American forces, including nearly 3,000 Marines, to Thailand to forestall a Communist guerrilla move out of Laos. The Marines were withdrawn as the tension lessened.

Government forces in South Vietnam, using weapons and new tactics stamped "Made in America," seized the initiative from the Communist Viet Cong. The picture appears much better than it did a year ago when this correspondent toured the country. The issue, however, is likely to remain touch-and-go for a long time. It took 12 years to extinguish a smaller and more manageable Communist fire in Malaya.

IN NEW GUINEA
American diplomats worked out the formula for settling the dispute between the Netherlands and Indonesia over West New Guinea. It contains guarantees to insure the right of self-determination for 700,000 Papuans living there.

Finally, in Latin America the Alliance for Progress has been launched. Its objectives:

1. To foster economic growth at a minimum annual rate of 2 1/2 per cent.
2. Tax reform.
3. Land reform to increase productivity.
4. Improved public health housing and education. American aid entails $10 billion over a 10-year period and assistance in obtaining an additional $10 billion from other sources in Europe and Japan.

Last week, on the first anniversary of the Alliance, Kennedy was asked whether he was satisfied with the progress. He replied: "Measured by what has to be done, I think we have to do better."

MILITARY STRONGER
Meanwhile, the administration says American military power—the vital factor behind foreign policy—is being beefed up steadily. In May, Secretary of Defense McNamara reported some of the details of the build-up to the White House conference on national economic issues. Among other things, he listed:

1. A 50 per cent increase (from 19 to 29 submarines) in the Polaris force scheduled for deployment in late 1964 or soon after.
2. A similar increase in the portion of the strategic bomber force to be maintained on 15-minute ground alert.
3. A "significant increase" in the number of land-based Minuteman missiles, and doubling of the production capacity.
4. "An accelerated program to develop an effective protected command and control system so that at all times, before, during and after an enemy attack, the constituted authorities from the President on down will have full command of our military forces."

OTHERS GROW
McNamara said non-nuclear forces also were increased. While building up the military strength of the United States, McNamara also launched a program to cut the costs of it. He expects to economize by $1.5 billion by fiscal year 1963, and to reduce expenditures $2 billion more by 1967.

LBJ To Visit 5 Countries

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson will visit Italy, Greece, Turkey, Cyprus and Iran during late August and early September.

A White House announcement reported the five governments had invited the Johnsons to visit their countries.

A detailed itinerary will be issued later.

The White House statement said President Kennedy and Johnson have "discussed the important contributions such a trip could make to United States foreign policy." It added that Johnson is looking forward to having discussions with the heads of state and leading officials in each of the countries.

In addition to spending several days in each of the countries, Johnson will open the American exhibits at the International Trade Fairs at Ismir, Turkey and Thessaloniki, Greece.

He also will visit Central Treaty Organization headquarters in Ankara, discuss impending Peace Corps projects with officials in Cyprus, Iran and Turkey, and space projects in Italy.

Coahoma Coaches Attending School

COAHOMA (SC)—The Coahoma school football coaching staff, including Jim Spann, head coach, and his assistant, Rob Ethridge, and Grady Tindal and the junior high coach, Bill Easterling, are in Lubbock this week attending a school for coaches. They will return Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Marvin and children left this week for a two week visit with their mother, Mrs. B. M. Miller in Minden, La. Mr. Marvin plans to join the rest of the family there next week.

Club Has Party At Terrys

GARDEN CITY (SC)—The Thursday Night Couples Bridge Club, composed of couples from Garden City and Sterling City, was entertained by the I. W. Terrys Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Weidon Parker of Garden City won high score; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson of Garden City, second high.

Miss Nedra Myers of Lubbock is a guest in the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Palmer, this week.

Weekend guests of Sheriff and Mrs. Royce Pruitt and family were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pruitt and family of Odessa.

Reids Have Observance At Barbecue

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Reid, 1220 East 16th, held a barbecue and party Wednesday evening in honor of his mother, Mrs. P. C. Reid, of Midland, observing the anniversary of her 74th birthday.

Present for the occasion were her husband and her daughter, Christine, who live with her in Midland at 1510 Missouri; her son, Harold Reid, his wife and children of Denver, Colo., and another son, Eugene Reid, of El Paso.

Other relatives and friends attending were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trammel and son of Sweetwater, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Fowler and children and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Reid and children of Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Van Ostrum and children of Midland.

Project Planned For BPO Does

BPO Does made plans for a gold stamp project Wednesday evening when they met at the Elks Lodge. Chairman for the proposed project is Mrs. Joe Maenner. Also announced was a membership drive to be conducted with Mrs. Alma George, the chairman.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. W. R. Rogers, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Glen Gale. Protom officers were named as Mrs. Maenner, Mrs. George, Mrs. Leland Graves and Mrs. Kathleen Williams of Wichita, Kan., a member of the Big Spring lodge.

Announcement was made of the next meeting, Sept. 12, with two meetings to be held each month thereafter Mrs. A. E. Walker received the attendance prize.

Evans Holmes Circle Presents Program

The Evans Holmes Circle of the Baptist Temple W.M.U. presented a song and scripture reading program at the Jenkins Rest Home Tuesday under the direction of Mrs. D. C. Boren.

Prior to the program, the circle met at the church for a program by Mrs. W. L. Sandridge, after which Mrs. A. R. Posey gave the benediction Mrs. Boren read the calendar of prayer.

Mrs. Boren was hostess afterwards in her home for refreshments where members welcomed a guest, Mrs. H. I. Cox, chairman of the Fisher Circle.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

Few women, men and children didn't attend the opening of the new College Park Shopping Center. Everyone who has been in the spacious new operation is as proud as Punch of the addition to Big Spring's shopping facilities. As usual, just as in a new home, something has to go wrong and Wednesday the pretty fountain had overflowed, probably from a stoppage in the drain. But the problem was worked out and the water was flowing again in the right direction by noon.

Planters Plan For Fall Show

Mrs. E. O. Sanderson, 819 W. 7th, served a salad luncheon to members of the Planters Garden Club Wednesday Mrs. L. J. Hale attended as a guest.

During a business session, Mrs. R. O. Carothers was chosen chairman in charge of the club's planned participation in the Big Spring Garden Club Council flower show to be held Nov. 3. Using aviation for the theme, the show will be entitled "Flowers in Flight."

Guests were served lunch from a table covered with green and a lace overlay. A bouquet of pink roses centered the table.

The next meeting is scheduled for Sept. 12 in the home of Mrs. R. L. Collins, 1401 Stadium.

who is visiting her aunt, MRS. BILL CURRIE, was honored for a small luncheon at the Settles Tuesday. Some of the prettiest high school juniors in the school were guests and included SUE COOK, TOMMIE LOU HUTTO, DIANE McEWEN, JAN ANDERSON AND JUDY ENGLE. June has had a real workout with the local lassies as they took part in Junior Week. She has helped mow lawns to help earn money for the high school group.

MR. and MRS. GARNER McADAMS have returned from their yearly fishing trip to Central City, Colo.

MR. and MRS. LLOYD ZACK GRAY and their daughters, Linda and Robbie, spent the weekend in Fort Worth as the guests of DR. and MRS. J. E. WHITNEY. They all attended the Miss Texas contest and were delighted with the production.

MR. and MRS. B. M. MAYO and their daughters, Linda and Rita, of Arlington are expected this weekend by her sister, MRS. C. B. SULLIVAN, and her family. Mrs. Sullivan has recently been a guest in the Mayo home when she accompanied her daughter, MRS. LYNN THOMAS, Lynn Jr. and Kenny, there for a short visit.

Mrs. Thomas, the former Lynette Sullivan, boarded a plane in Dallas for a trip to Denver, where she will visit friends and then continue on to Sacramento, Calif., for a stay with Mr. Thomas' parents. She will then drive back to her home in Corvallis, Ore., where she is teaching physical education classes in a new junior high school.

FRANK HARDESTY JR., who has just returned from a three weeks vacation trip with PAT FISHER, barely got home in time to leave for induction in the Army in Abilene Wednesday. After boot training we hope to hear of the rest of the trip, but he did relate the part where he and Pat went to Cut Bank, Mont., and visited with their friend and former Big Spring resident, LOGAN BOLES, who is employed as an engineer by an oil company.

Shopping at the new College Park Center we visited with many friends including MRS. LUCIAN JONES, who told of her stay in the East with son, DENNIS, who is employed by Bell Telephone Laboratories in New Jersey.

MRS. DELLA K. AGNELL, who had just returned here with her son, Col. P. W. Buddy Agnell, had a pleasant surprise. Her niece, MRS. ARTHUR JACKSON, and two children, ANNE and ROBERT, came for a visit. Mrs. Agnell had not seen Mrs. Jackson in many years. Mrs. Jackson's husband is in the U. S. postal service and is stationed in France.

The family of MRS. VELMA JOSEY had a reunion in Fort Worth during the weekend. Attending were MR. and MRS. J. R. PIPER, with son, DENNIS, who is employed by Bell Telephone Laboratories in New Jersey.

Beasons Leave For New Base

FORSAN (SC)—Warrant officer and Mr. Donald R. Beeson and sons left last week for his new paratrooper base after a leave with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Padgett. The family has recently returned from a three-year tour of duty in Germany.

Kickapoo Camper

Miss Carol Ann Currie of Big Spring is expected to return home this weekend after spending five weeks at Kickapoo Camp for girls, in the Texas hill country near Kerrville. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Currie, 903 Dallas Street, in Big Spring.

Likes Scrubbed Look

Heidi Bruhl, one of the most popular actresses from Germany, finds that her skin feels best without makeup. Instead, she likes the feel she gets from scrubbing with salt and oil mixed together. She dries up blemishes with the white film of an egg.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Star Practices Ballet For Toning Muscles

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Heidi Bruhl, one of Germany's most popular young actresses, was in Hollywood briefly before returning to make MGM's "Captain Simbad."

Though this was her first visit here, her English was remarkably free of accent.

"I worked hard," Heidi admitted, "but then every ambitious person must know that nothing worth having comes easily."

Heidi spends three hours a day on ballet. "I love it, and I love the way it makes my body feel. I think that even if you are not interested in becoming a dancer, ballet classes are worthwhile just for the exercise. And you can keep your body in shape if you take lessons only once or twice a week."

Heidi's complexion is clear and she was not wearing makeup when we lunched at MGM.

"You can't be careless about keeping your face clean. I like to scrub my face with oil and salt mixed together. I feel it keeps my pores from being clogged. And I like to have a magnifying mirror so I can check my skin for little imperfections. If I see a blemish forming, I dry it up immediately by using the little white film of an egg—the part that sticks to the inner shell. I put this on at night, and when I wake up in the morning, the inflammation is gone."

Another of Heidi's favorite beauty secrets is to use white iodine to make her nails grow. "I saw a very interesting experiment. They put a quill pen in white iodine and it became tough. Your nails will react the same way," I was told, and so I tried it and for the first time my nails are long and strong.

EVENT AT KNOTT

Mrs. Roland Fryar Is Complimented At Party

KNOTT (SC)—Mrs. Roland Fryar was honored at a musical evening shower Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. B. Shockey. Assisting Mrs. Shockey were cohostesses Mrs. Henry Sample, Mrs. Bud Hughes, Mrs. Lonnie Smith, Mrs. W. T. Shockey, Mrs. John McGeorgan, Mrs. Cecil Hall, and Mrs. Bobby Bayes. Mrs. Har-riison Woods and Mrs. P. E. Little. Special guests were Mrs. Fryar's mother, Mrs. B. R. Wood of Big Spring, and Mrs. K. R. Davis of Dallas. Refreshments were served to 37 guests.

The Rev. Cecil Rhodes of Big Spring will be the evangelist for revival services at the First Baptist Church of Knott. The revival will begin Friday evening and continue for 10 days.

The annual Gaskins family reunion was held recently at the Big Spring City Park. A large crowd of relatives attended.

Mrs. J. W. Gaskins is a patient in a Big Spring hospital.

Circle Visits In Dixon Rest Home

Fryer Circle members of Baptist Temple gathered in the home of Mrs. J. B. Blank Tuesday before going to the Dixon Rest Home for a program of singing and devotion.

Mrs. Alvis Harry read the prayer calendar and gave the devotion. Prayers were offered by Mrs. H. T. Henry and Mrs. Richard Stricker. The group sang selections for patients.

Andersons To Visit Son In Port Arthur

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson and Jan are due to leave Friday for Port Arthur where they will visit with their son, Ben Anderson, who is employed there with Gulf Oil Co. They will include a trip to Corpus Christi for a visit with Mr. Anderson's mother, Mrs. Gladys Anderson.

Stanton Couples Vacation

STANTON (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Arrington and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Enley are vacationing in California. The Arringtons will visit his mother at Lancaster, Calif.

Sheriff Dan Saunders is expected back in the office Thursday from Arkadelphia, Ark. where he went to get a prisoner.

Mrs. Clyde Harris of Clyde, who was a teacher in Stanton for many years, visited Tuesday and Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Edell Morris. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bridges and Mrs. Walter Graves.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gross of Lubbock were called to Midland because of a relative's illness. En route home they visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bland Cross.

Mrs. Jack Cowan and Mrs. U. A. North were Midland visitors Monday.

Mrs. Fryar Not To Be Overlooked In A Press Pickle Presentation

Perishables Affected By High Temps

By The Associated Press

Heat has affected the movement of highly perishable fresh produce in Texas food channels. Stores still feature a heavy volume of many fruits and vegetables at attractive prices, the Agricultural Marketing Service says.

Rating best-buy mention, on basis of availability and price, are cabbage, carrots, eggplant, green onions, greens, lettuce, okra, onions, blackeye peas, round red potatoes and tomatoes.

Bananas are abundant. Peaches, seedless grapes and other "soft" fruit are in good supply. Lemons, limes and frozen orange juice are plentiful.

Watermelons are slowly nearing the end after a season of extremely low prices. They're some higher.

Also higher are avocados, snap beans, sweet corn, squash and strawberries. Cabbage is slightly higher in some markets.

Apples are in increased supply at lower prices. Iceberg lettuce, sweet potatoes and grapes also are selling lower.

Turkey broiler-fryers and eggs continue budget priced among high-protein items. Many stores are featuring cold meats and other sandwich items. Supplies of edible fats and oils are plentiful.

Did You Ever Eat A Pickled Egg?

Adapted from a Pennsylvania Dutch recipe

PICKLED EGGS AND BEETS

- 1 can 1 pound sliced beets
- 1 cup cider vinegar
- 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 6 whole cloves
- 1 stick cinnamon
- 6 eggs (hard-cooked and shelled)

Drain beets, cover and refrigerate. Pour beet juice (there should be 1 cup) into a small saucepan and add vinegar, sugar, cloves and cinnamon. Boil gently for 10 minutes, remove spice. Place eggs in a wide-top 1 1/2 pint jar, add hot beet juice mixture. Place several beet slices over eggs to keep them submerged. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Remove eggs and serve, add drained beets to marinade, cover and chill overnight. When the beets are added at the same time as the eggs, the latter do not get pickled enough.

Proud Of Pickles

Mrs. Shirley Fryar is already way ahead with her pickles this season and she has reason to be proud of them. Above she displays four jars of the different varieties of pickles which she specializes in making.

It's time to make pickles and Mrs. Shirley Fryar is just the person to tell how the job is done. She has pickled for years and uses as many pickle recipes as most cooks do for cakes and pies. Cucumber, peach, beet and okra pickles are some of the varieties Mrs. Fryar preserves yearly.

Mrs. Fryar, who lives on a farm in the Fairview community, can't remember when she didn't know how to cook. She says that she has always made use of whatever happened to be on hand, whether it be in the garden or in the pantry. While she was growing up, feeding a family from one's own source of supply was taken for granted. Nowadays practically any kind of food is available on the market in pre-cooked form; however, Mrs. Fryar still prefers "old-fashioned" home grown supplies. She does like to make pickles. The main reason she makes them is because her family likes the homemade kind.

Today's cook raises her own cucumbers for making pickles. She and her husband have two gardens. One is strictly for growing black-eyed peas and squash, the other, for corn, beans, cucumbers, okra, watermelons, etc. Mrs. Fryar says that she strives to store enough produce in her freezer for the family to enjoy throughout the winter. Last week, she froze 21 packages of black-eyed peas.

Birthday holiday or just family get-together dinners are frequent at the Fryar home. Mrs. Fryar has three children, Mrs. R. C. Thomas of Big Spring, Martin Fryar of the Salem community and Billy Fryar of Martin County. Also there are 11 grandchildren to take into consideration when preparing a family meal. A family favorite meal includes fried chicken and gravy, creamed potatoes, vegetable salad and sometimes a fruit or congealed salad, too. Black-eyed peas with okra cooked in, corn-on-the-cob or squash, iced tea, hot rolls, homemade and chocolate cake. She says that the children are always ready for a freezer of homemade ice cream.

Mrs. Fryar lists some of her favorite recipes for today's readers.

NINE-DAY PICKLES

Put as many cucumbers as desired in a crock churn container in a brine mixture strong enough to hold up a fresh egg. Soak in crock under a weighted down top.

Use Watermelon Rind For Pickles

Most people consider watermelon rinds an item to be disposed of. Sometimes, there are uses for them—such as preserves and watermelon rind sweet pickles.

WATERMELON RIND SWEET PICKLES

7 lbs. or 1 gal. watermelon rind
10 cups sugar
1 qt. white vinegar
1 stick cinnamon
Few whole cloves

Select a thick rind, firm melon. Cut green skin and pink flesh from rind of melon. Cut into cubes or desired shapes and sizes.

Soak several hours or overnight in cold water—better in the refrigerator. Boil in water 10 minutes, pour off water and drain.

Boil vinegar, sugar and spices tied loosely in cheese cloth, to form a thick syrup. Drop rind into the thick syrup and cook until clear. Let cool and pack into hot, sterilized containers. If syrup is not thick when rind is clear, drain off syrup and boil until thick. Add rind and cool as above.

Let them remain for three days. Take out of brine and soak in clear water for three days. Take out of water on seventh day and rinse and put in a weak vinegar solution in the crock. The solution is made of 1 cup vinegar and 1 tablespoon alum to each two gallons of pickles. Fill crock with water until pickles are covered.

The next day, simmer liquid (don't boil) for two hours in two quarts sugar and one quart vinegar. If desired, use spices in a bag and let simmer with mixture. During the last three days, drain liquid off every morning and bring to boil and pour back over cucumbers. You may have to add water occasionally in order to keep cucumbers covered. The last day, bring pickles and all the liquid to boil and put in jars. You may add one more cup of vinegar if more liquid is needed.

CUCUMBER SLICES

- 1 peck (10 lbs.) medium cucumbers
- 1 cup salt
- 2 tbsps. white mustard seed
- 2 tbsps. celery seed
- 2 1/2 quarts vinegar
- 3 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup mixed pickle spices

Wash and cut cucumbers into slices about one-fourth inch thick. Mix slices and salt. Let stand overnight.

In the morning drain a n d press out all the juice possible. Rinse once in cold water. Combine vinegar, sugar and spices. Boil one minute. Add cucumbers and simmer 5 minutes.

Pack cucumbers into clean, hot sterilized jars to within one inch of top. Fill jars with hot liquid to top; seal tightly. Makes about 12 pints.

CORN SALAD

- 2 dozen ears corn

Boil 1 1/2 ounces chocolate in 1/2 cup butter. Mix in 1 pound and 1 cup powdered sugar. 1 teaspoon

CHOCOLATE CAKE

- 3 squares of chocolate (melted and cooled)
- 1 cup butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 2 1/2 cups flour (sifted)
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 tsp. soda
- 5 eggs

Cream butter and sugar and cooled chocolate. Alternately add buttermilk and flour to which sugar has been added. Add vanilla. Add 1 egg at a time. Beat in well. Bake in 2 well-greased and floured 9 x 9 inch pans for 25 to 30 minutes, or 3 round 9-inch pans for about 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

FROSTING

Melt 1 1/2 ounces chocolate in 1/2 cup butter. Mix in 1 pound and 1 cup powdered sugar. 1 teaspoon

Good Brine Essential In Pickles

To make brine for pickling, one should know the correct method and ingredients. Also, equipment is important in the preparation.

Essential equipment includes a stone jar or keg with a capacity from 4 to 10 gallons; cheese cloth or similar material; a large plate or board for holding vegetables under brine; a heavy weight to hold the cover under the brine; additional equipment includes kitchen scales and a salinometer.

Clean and scald all equipment to be used. Wooden equipment should be scalded and coated with paraffin.

MATERIAL

High-quality salt such as cheese or dairy salt is preferable. Use soft water. Hard water may be used if it has been boiled, and the scum removed.

Strength of solution to each quart of water is for 5 per cent brine 1/2 cup of salt or 2 ounces to 1 quart water; for 8 per cent brine 6 tablespoons salt or 3 ounces to 1 quart of water; for 10 per cent brine 1/2 cup salt or 4 ounces to 1 quart water; for 15 per cent brine 3/4 cup salt or 6 ounces to 1 quart water; for 20 per cent brine 1 cup salt or 8 ounces to 1 quart water.

TO PREPARE

Dissolve the salt in the water. If heating is necessary to dissolve salt completely, cool brine to 80 degrees F. before using.

The quantity of brine necessary to cover the vegetables should equal half the measure of the quantity of vegetables. For example, if a 10-gallon jar is to be packed, 5 gallons of brine is required.

Stuffed Pickles

Ever stuff dill pickles? Cut off the ends of the pickles and remove the centers, fill with any stiff canape mixture you like; chill, slice and serve.

Pickles And Relishes Add Sparkle To Meals

People like pickles and relishes because of their bright colors and crisp texture. They give sparkle and zest to a meal which might otherwise be uninteresting. Pickles in any form create and stimulate the appetite. Since pickles and relishes are made from fruits and vegetables, they are a source of some minerals and vitamins, especially vitamins A and C. Pickles retain the vitamin content due to their high acid content and to the comparatively little heating required in preparation.

Generally speaking, pickles and relishes are classed according to flavor.

Sour pickles are characterized by the flavor of vinegar.

Sweet pickles may have varying degrees of sweetness.

Mustard pickles have the flavor of the herb used during fermentation. Koshier dill pickles have garlic added as a seasoning.

Dill pickles have the flavor of the herb used during fermentation. Koshier dill pickles have garlic added as a seasoning.

Spiced pickles are fruits such as peaches, pears and crab apples flavored with a blend of spices in a sweet-sour syrup.

Relishes are made from various combinations of chopped vegetables plus spices and vinegar.

Catsup and sauces are made of finely chopped or strained vegetables plus vinegar and spices.

BRINING INFORMATION
For success in pickling use fresh, sound, clean vegetables and fruits. Sort and grade for size and age. Immature cucumbers make the best pickles. Fruits should be firm and slightly under-ripe. Gherkins may be substituted for cucumbers in any recipe.

Quick-Process Pickles Are Brined Over Night

Quick pickles are made from fruits or vegetables which have not been through a brining process. Some of the recipes call for an over-night soaking in salt water, often called an overnight brine. The ingredients are sometimes soaked a few hours in ice water and are given the name of ice water pickles. Sour and sweet cucumber and mixed pickles made the quick way will not produce the high quality product the cured process gives. Fruit pickles and certain relishes are rarely made from brined products, hence they belong to the quick pickle process.

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES

- 25 large cucumbers
- 12 onions, white-medium
- 1/2 cup salt
- 1 pint vinegar
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 tbsps. mustard seed (white)
- 2 tbsps. ginger
- 2 tbsps. turmeric powder

Soak unpeeled cucumbers in water overnight. Slice cucumbers and onions and place in pan with the salt, no water. Let stand 1 hour, then rinse off salt, add vinegar, sugar, mustard seed, ginger and turmeric powder. Boil all ingredients until seed turns yellow and that takes about 40 minutes. Pack pickles solid in sterilized jars. Seal and allow to stand 10 days before using.

BEEF PICKLES

- 1 gallon beefs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 long stick cinnamon
- 3/4 cups vinegar
- 1 tsp. allspice (optional)
- 1 1/2 cups water

Cook and skin beefs. Add sugar and spices to vinegar and water

Summer 13 minutes. Add beets. Boil 5 minutes. Pack hot beets into hot, sterilized jars. Cover with boiling syrup and seal.

DILLED GREEN BEANS

- 3 pounds green beans (3 qts.)
- 6 cups vinegar
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup salt
- 6 bunches dill
- 6 small cloves garlic
- 4 small, red hot peppers

Wash beans after removing stem end. Heat vinegar, water and salt to boiling. In each sterilized jar place a piece of dill, pod of pepper and cloves of garlic. Pack beans in jars to within 1 inch of the top. Heat the vinegar, water and salt to boiling and pour over the beans. Seal and store at least 3 weeks before using.

BRINED GREEN TOMATOES

- 40 to 50 green tomatoes
- 4 tbsps. mixed pickle spices
- Fresh or dried dill
- 1 pint vinegar
- 2 cups salt
- 4 tbsps. sugar
- 2 gallons water

The fresh picked green tomatoes of uniform size and free from blemish. Wash well and drain. Into a 5-gallon crock place a layer of dill and spice. Fill the jar with the cucumbers or tomatoes to within 4 to 5 inches of the top. Mix the vinegar, salt, sugar and water and pour over the vegetable. Place a cover of dill over the top. Cover with a heavy plate and weight it down to hold the vegetable under the brine. Each day remove the scum that forms over the top and keep the pickles at even room temperature about 70 degrees or as warm at 86 degrees if possible. In about 2 weeks the pickles are ready to use—crisp, well-flavored with dill and clear throughout with no white spots when cut.

ICE-WATER PICKLES

- 1 qt. cucumbers
- 1/4 tsp. curry powder
- 3 sliced onions
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. celery seed or 1/4 cup dried celery
- 1 cup sugar

Soak cucumbers, sliced lengthwise, in ice water for 2 hours. Remove from the ice water. Pack in jars with sliced onions, mustard seed and celery seed or dried celery. Heat vinegar to which salt and sugar have been added, and when boiling pour over cucumbers and onions. Seal.

HOW A CHAMPION LOOPS A CONTRARY CALF
Donna Kinkead, 1961 champ, to perform here

Chute Gates To Swing Open For Junior Rodeo Tonight

By SAM BLACKBURN
A record number of entries—32 more than in 1961—has been posted for the 17th annual Howard County Junior Rodeo which opens at the rodeo arena at 8 p.m. There also will be Friday and Saturday evening shows.

Herb Helbig county agent, who is acting as superintendent of the show, said that 164 official entries had been received by 5 p.m. Wednesday and that the morning mail Thursday was yet to be handled. All entries post-marked earlier than 5 p.m. Wednesday will be accepted.

Some of the best known junior rodeo hands in the business are to be here and compete in the show. These youngsters are trying for top honors nationally, and all points gathered here will be accepted by the American Junior Rodeo Association in determining the champions. Only AJRA members are eligible.

Among the better known performers who have entered are Richard Mallens, Caddo, Okla., ace roper; Donna Kinkead, Tucuman, N. M., 1961 World Champion Cowgirl in 13-15 year group; Paulette Allen, Haskell, versatile cowgirl; Tommy Varden, Ballinger, top roping hand; Irene Eppens, ace barrel racer.

The program will include all events in the junior rodeo category as recognized by the American Junior Rodeo Association. Entry fees will go into the pot in each event and will be paid out as prizes to the boys and girls in the first six places.

The program calls for barrel racing and pole bending for the girls, and roping and cutting for the boys. The classes are 12 and under and age-13 years through 15 years and 16 years through 19 years.

Special added events for boys and girls 14 years old and younger include wild calf race, three man team, boot scramble and goat sack.

Donna Anderson, Orveta Fryar, Skipper Driver, H. K. Elrod, Mary Thornton and Freddy White.

Stock is from the Koonsman ranch near Snyder and is recognized as some of the best available in this part of the country.

Advance tickets have been on sale for some weeks, but tickets can be bought at the show grounds on each night.

Opening event is a parade which will march through the downtown area at 4:30 p.m. today. In the line of march will be the junior riding clubs of Snyder, Midland and Colorado City, the Howard County Sheriff's posse and many of the competitors who are here for the contests.

Firemen Report On Training In Month Of July

One hundred and 36 Big Spring firemen underwent 243 man-hours of drill and training during the month of July.

H. W. Clawson, training officer in charge, reported the number of men type of training and number of hours trained to Fire Chief H. V. Crocker at the end of July.

The training schedule included two written tests on streets and fire hydrant locations given to 18 men in each test of one hour each and handling of fire hoses 16 men for one hour each. Civil Defense alert practice, eight men for two hours each, drill tower practice on hose laying at fires, 12 men for 2 hours each, hose carrying and hose loads 18 men for one hour each, drill tower practice on hose loads 12 men for one hour each, class room drill on fighting fires, 11 men for one hour each, classroom drill on strapping and attack at fires, seven men for one hour each, classroom drill on hose evolution, 10 men for one hour each.

Three men attended a firemen's school at Texas A&M College for 36 hours July 23-27.

Halaby Defends LBJ Equipment

WASHINGTON, AP—Jaapbe Halaby, federal aviation administrator, defended strongly Wednesday the placing of a $600,000 worth of air investigation equipment near the Texas ranch of Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Halaby asserted the equipment is the minimum necessary to serve national and world figures who visit the Johnson ranch.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., questioned the use of federal facilities for the Johnson City, Texas, airport. The town has a population of 600.

Halaby said the FAA decided to install the facilities after the personal plane of the vice president, financed by his family, crashed while approaching there.

PERSONAL OPINION

Police Reserve Ordinance Given Pale Green Light

Big Spring's ordinance creating a police reserve force will probably stand up when adopted on the third and final reading.

A letter from the chairman of the Texas attorney general's opinion committee to Howard County Attorney Wayne Burns stated that it was his personal opinion that the attorney general's Opinion WW-997, on a similar ordinance in the city of Taft, would be applicable to the Big Spring ordinance.

The ordinance has been passed by the city commission on two readings. The third reading was held up pending an opinion from the state attorney general.

Burns submitted the ordinance to the attorney general's department, on behalf of the city.

The chairman, W. V. Geppert, said the request could be of finally answered because only opinions to county attorneys could be given to matters pertaining to their official duties.

Under Article 4399, Vernon's Civil Statutes, they are prohibited from giving advice as to the legality of the proposed city ordinance. In fact, we cannot advise city officials, the writer stated.

However, it is the writer's personal opinion that inasmuch as the proposed city ordinance of the City of Big Spring is almost identical with the city of Taft ordinance that our Opinion WW-997 would be applicable to the proposed Big Spring ordinance if same is enacted.

If the ordinance is approved,

LEGAL NOTICE

ADVERTISING FOR BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received by the City of Big Spring, Texas, at the office of the City Secretary, 414 Taylor, until 10:00 a.m. on August 14, 1962, for the purchase of 100,000 lbs. of #10 white rice.

Proposals must be accompanied by a check for $100.00, which will be applied to the amount of the bid. The check must be made payable to the City of Big Spring, Texas.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive irregularities. No bids may be withdrawn within thirty days after date on which bids are opened.

Chute Gates To Swing Open For Junior Rodeo Tonight

By SAM BLACKBURN
A record number of entries—32 more than in 1961—has been posted for the 17th annual Howard County Junior Rodeo which opens at the rodeo arena at 8 p.m. There also will be Friday and Saturday evening shows.

Herb Helbig county agent, who is acting as superintendent of the show, said that 164 official entries had been received by 5 p.m. Wednesday and that the morning mail Thursday was yet to be handled. All entries post-marked earlier than 5 p.m. Wednesday will be accepted.

Some of the best known junior rodeo hands in the business are to be here and compete in the show. These youngsters are trying for top honors nationally, and all points gathered here will be accepted by the American Junior Rodeo Association in determining the champions. Only AJRA members are eligible.

Among the better known performers who have entered are Richard Mallens, Caddo, Okla., ace roper; Donna Kinkead, Tucuman, N. M., 1961 World Champion Cowgirl in 13-15 year group; Paulette Allen, Haskell, versatile cowgirl; Tommy Varden, Ballinger, top roping hand; Irene Eppens, ace barrel racer.

The program will include all events in the junior rodeo category as recognized by the American Junior Rodeo Association. Entry fees will go into the pot in each event and will be paid out as prizes to the boys and girls in the first six places.

The program calls for barrel racing and pole bending for the girls, and roping and cutting for the boys. The classes are 12 and under and age-13 years through 15 years and 16 years through 19 years.

Special added events for boys and girls 14 years old and younger include wild calf race, three man team, boot scramble and goat sack.

The events for boys are calf roping, ribbon roping and pole bending for the classes age 12 and under and age-13 years through 15 years, and calf roping, ribbon roping and bareback bronc riding and bull riding for the boys 16 years through 19 years.

The 4-H Club organization derives its revenues from the ticket sales and from concessions.

The prizes include silver buckles for the winners of each event and a special saddle to be awarded to the best all around cowboy or cow girl of the rodeo.

Directors of the Howard County 4-H Club Rodeo Association are

Donna Anderson, Orveta Fryar, Skipper Driver, H. K. Elrod, Mary Thornton and Freddy White.

Stock is from the Koonsman ranch near Snyder and is recognized as some of the best available in this part of the country.

Advance tickets have been on sale for some weeks, but tickets can be bought at the show grounds on each night.

Opening event is a parade which will march through the downtown area at 4:30 p.m. today. In the line of march will be the junior riding clubs of Snyder, Midland and Colorado City, the Howard County Sheriff's posse and many of the competitors who are here for the contests.

New Operations Officer At FIS

Lt. Col. William A. Clair is the new operations officer of the 31st Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Webb.

The colonel came to Webb with his family from Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, where he was Air Defense operations officer in the joint staff of the Alaskan Command.

Col. Clair was originally commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, in 1940. After taking the flight training he was transferred to the Army Air Corps in December 1941. From January 1941 to March 1944 he served as a fighter pilot in the European theater and flew 70 combat missions during WW II. During the remainder of the war, Col. Clair ferried fighter and attack aircraft to Europe, North Africa, and the Far East.

In February 1946 Col. Clair left the service, but he returned one year later and went to Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He received his regular commission and from 1947 to 1955 served as weather officer in the United States, Japan and Korea. After a refresher course in fighter aircraft at Tyndall AFB Fla., the colonel was assigned as executive officer and later became commander of the 31st FIS at McChord AFB, Wash. In 1959 he went to Alaska and remained there until ordered to Webb.

First Telephone Call By Telstar

NEW YORK (AP)—A transatlantic flight reservation was confirmed Wednesday in what American Telephone & Telegraph Co. described as the first business telephone call made via Telstar, the communications satellite.

The call from the Paris office of Air France to the New York office of the airline booked a flight from Paris to Mexico City via New York for a French businessman.

State Manufacture Of Wheelchairs Urged By Panel

AUSTIN (AP)—A legislative committee has suggested that the state prison system start manufacturing wheelchairs for use in state hospitals.

The House Committee on Saving Taxes discussed the possibility with Raymond Vowell, executive director of the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools. Rep. Vernon Stewart of Wichita Falls said that the committee has heard testimony that wheelchairs purchased by the state are inadequate for the needs.

Vowell agreed that the state has to purchase wheelchairs often because they do not last.

"I think it would give the state prison system a new industry and supply us with a better wheelchair," Vowell said.

Rep. George Preston of Paris told Vowell to check and see if any Texas firm manufactures wheelchairs. "We don't want to go in competition with a Texas industry," Preston said.

Vowell estimated that the hospital board alone spends about $6,500 annually on buying wheelchairs.

"They don't last because they are not durable enough for our needs," Vowell said.

White Designs New Center

Latham White and Associates, Dallas architectural firm, designers of College Park Shopping Center, Big Spring, have a long history of school, store and plant designs of ultra-modern structure. More than 50 Safeway stores, during the past 10 years, have been built on plans and specifications drawn by the firm.

White, whose father was an architect in Ardmore, Okla., began making a name for himself with school plant design. The firm now has a large school plant under construction at Iowa Park. His most recent program in industrial plant design is the new 100,000-square-foot H. D. Lee Manufacturing Co. plant under construction in Sulphur Springs.

White was a visitor to the College Park Center at least once each month after construction began by the R. G. Farrell Co. of Odessa.

He enlisted the services of a local engineer, Jack Bellamy, as resident inspector for the construction, concrete work, and paving. Herman Blum and Associates, Dallas, were in charge of the mechanical and electrical work.

White designed the new curved beam structure for the Safeway roof and the Big Spring store was his first such venture. The beams, built for the local store, were shunted to a store in Sherman which was being rebuilt following a fire, in order to speed work there. The company chose the Big Spring store design immediately for several new stores.

"Construction done with designs by Latham White and Associates is such that the buildings will be attractive, modern and substantial many years from now," John M. Little Jr., College Park vice president, said.

They Got Those Troops Out Of The Hot Sun

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—All afternoon outside training has been suspended at Lackland Air Force Base because of San Antonio's heat wave, base officials reported.

Lackland is the Air Force's major training center for recruits. A spokesman said special emphasis is being made to be sure recruits with less than two weeks training stay out of the heat "since they are considered not yet accustomed to local weather conditions."

Temperatures in San Antonio have officially been in the 100 to 103 range for the past 16 days.

The Lackland spokesman said training was suspended because of a "heat stress index"—a combination of temperature and humidity data—that has soared to new highs in the scorching weather.

Some Regions Get Cool Air

By The Associated Press
Cool air spread across wide areas from the Northeast into the north central region today in the wake of severe thunderstorms in some sections.

The chilly air from the Hudson Bay region of Canada spread slowly southward over the Northeast and Great Lakes region, setting off thunderstorms from Lower Michigan through the central Appalachians into Maryland and Virginia.
