Mariner II Gets Checkout

With wings folded ready for fitting of canopy (background), the Mariner II spacecraft sits in the test laboratory at Cape Canaveral as preparations are made for launch by an Atlas Agena B missile in a few days. It will go within 10,000 miles of the planet Venus, making infrared and microwave studies of the planet. Wing panels are studded with solar cells to provide electric power for instruments.

ROBBERS BEAT RECORD HAUL IN BRINK'S CASE
Holdup Nets $1.5 Million

RANDOLPH, Mass. (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston reported the loss in the hijacking of a U.S. mail truck in Randolph Tuesday night totaled approximately $1.5 million. This exceeds the loss in the nation's previous biggest cash haul, the Brink's robbery, in which $1,219,000 was stolen in 1960.

William F. White, chief postal inspector in Boston, concurred in the estimate. An eight-man gang armed with sub machine guns held up two guards after one bandit dressed as a police officer, signaled them to halt.

Hours later police at the scene were without clues to the robbers. The reserve bank made it clear the money stolen was the responsibility of the reserve bank and that Cape Cod member banks shipping the funds would stand no losses.

USED 4 CARS
At least four automobiles were used in the robbery. After lying up the truck's two guards, the bandits made three stops as they unloaded the money which was contained in 15 sealed bags. Two stolen cars were abandoned near the scene. They were checked by state police fingerprint experts.

The robbery was a professional job executed with cool efficiency. One holdup man wore a police uniform. All wore white-gloves. The truck was hijacked on the northbound lane of Route 3 in Plymouth and later abandoned here, 25 miles north. The robbers blocked off a lane several miles back with detour signs at the nearest exit. This forestalled some motorists from driving onto the holdup scene.

FBI agents said the method used was known to be favored by two men high on the FBI "most-wanted" list. They said the technique was similar to that used in previous holdups by Bobby Wilcoxon of Duke, Okla., and Albert Nussbaum of Buffalo, N.Y. They robbed two New York banks.

Last May, an Abington policeman was shot by a motorist who resembled Nussbaum. The man was never found. There were reports that a red and white car with a girl at the wheel was seen stopped beside the mail truck on Route 128.

Patrick Schena, one of the two guards on the truck, gave this account: "They first stopped us on Route 3 near the bypass. A car went by at 80 miles an hour. We were doing about 45. We saw the car stop in front of us and a man in a police uniform got out and waved his arms over his head to stop us. I stopped the truck."

"The next thing I knew there was a man coming on either side of the truck, pointing what looked like machine guns at us. "They ordered us to throw down our guns and we did. They told us to open the cage which led to the back. We opened it. They ordered us to get in the back of the truck. "The man dressed as a policeman and another man joined the two with the guns and they tied us up and made us lie down on the floor."

"They took our keys and opened the back door and threw some of the money bags to another person, who put them into a car. "The car drove off and a man dressed as a policeman started driving the mail truck off with us in it. I don't know how far we went, but when we stopped again one of the men got out and took some more money bags and put them in another car. "Then they drove some more and made a third stop and repeated the same procedure with another man leaving the truck."

"We then drove a long time before they stopped at the Route 128 and 28 intersection. Then they all got out of the truck and took the remaining money bags into a fourth car and drove off. "I don't know how much money they got but we knew we had over a million dollars. We waited until we heard the car drive away. Then we untied each other. "The other guard was William F. Barrett."

EASY ACCESS
Route 128 is a multilane highway that circles the Greater Boston area and provides easy access to the North and South Shore areas; Boston itself, and the Massachusetts Turnpike west to New York State. "The robbery occurred at 8 p.m. It was about 10 p.m. when Schena and Barrett reached a telephone to notify police. "Description of the gang was sparse. One man who wielded a submachine gun was described as a six-footer, well built, with horn-rimmed glasses. The man in the police officer's uniform was smaller. "Boston Postmaster Ephraim Martin said the truck was carrying registered mail from Hyannis, Buzzards Bay and Plymouth post offices to Boston. "Officials said the money sent by the banks formerly was shipped by a private armored car. About three weeks ago, central Cape Cod banks began a new system of shipping their unneeded cash to the Federal Reserve Bank through the post office, paying a premium based on the amount in the shipment."

Russian 'Space Twins' Finish Record Flight

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's space twins came down today with bullseye landings in Kazakhstan after zipping around the earth in weightless orbit for a total of almost three million miles. The leader was aloft for nearly four full days and his flanker for nearly three. "Jubilant Russians hailed their record-breaking feats as a great stride toward manned shots at the moon and other planets and toward rocket transport within the 20th century for travelers on the shrinking earth. "Cosmos 1, Cosmos 2, Cosmos 3, shouted young Russians in Moscow's Red Square. Waves of enthusiasm swept the nation. "6 MINUTES APART Maj. Andrian Nikolayev and Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich, who were shot aloft in separate satellites a day apart last weekend, landed six minutes apart in the virgin lands area south of Karaganda, Kazakhstan, 1,300 miles southeast of Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. "Both cosmonauts feel well," a government bulletin announced. "Radio Moscow" said a special team of experts, doctors, friends and journalists welcomed them. Baths and shaves appeared to be their first needs. "The scientific and technical tasks of the unprecedented flight were solved completely," a broadcast announcement said. It added that the space men demonstrated both extreme courage and the high moral qualities of Soviet man.

Both brilliantly fulfilled their task, said the Soviet news agency Novosti, and "for the next few days will remain under observation of doctors to study the influences of prolonged space flight on the human organism." NEAR TARGET Tass said Nikolayev landed his Vostok III at 9:55 a.m. Moscow time and Popovich landed in Vostok IV at 10:01 a.m. "in direct proximity with the planned points of landing." "The area is that from which past space shots have been launched," it said. "It is an area that was notorious in the 1930s as the land to which Communist officials banished hundreds of thousands of peasants who refused to surrender their farms to the collectives. "Secrecy still veiled the exact mode of landing. The astronauts could have come down within the capsules or by separate parachutes. "U.S. space craft, braked by rockets for descent, have all made water landings. "95 MINUTES The flights lasted just 95 minutes short of four days for Nikolayev, who blasted off at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, and just 61 minutes short of three days for Popovich, who went up at 11:02 a.m. Sunday. "Nikolayev apparently completed 64 orbits of the earth covering about 1.6 million miles, six times the distance from the earth to the moon, which varies between 221,463 and 252,710 miles. Popovich apparently made 48 orbits for a distance of about 1.23 million miles. "They far outdistanced the time and distance of any preceding space flight. "Soviet astronaut Maj. Gherman Titov set the previous record with his 25-hour, 17-orbit flight on Aug. 6, 1961. America's longest traveling spaceman, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. and Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter, each made three orbits this year. The world's first spaceman, Soviet astronaut Yuri Gagarin, made one orbit lasting 108 minutes on April 12, 1961. "HERO'S WELCOME A hero's welcome and world acclaim awaited Nikolayev, 32, and Popovich, 31, whom Soviet newspapers have dubbed "the heavenly twins. Red Square was being readied for a mammoth welcome for the two new heroes, possibly on Sunday, which is Soviet air force day. "After its first announcement, Moscow radio began a program of patriotic music and a big-voiced baritone sang "The Communist party of the country. "Both radio and television canceled regular programs for the latest space bulletins mixed with patriotic tunes. "Moscow television promptly showed pictures of the two astronauts in their flying helmets, shots which became a kind of trademark of the four-day operation. "Soviet officials have not disclosed much of what has been learned so far.

Interest Conflict Questions Raised Over Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate stockpile investigators raised questions today about a possible conflict of interest in the gains George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury, made from a contract to supply nickel under a government contract. Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., raised the issue after hearing a government auditor testify that stocks held by Humphrey in the M. A. Hanna Co. and a mining subsidiary had increased in value by $5,756,000 and Humphrey collected dividends of $2,347,000 between early 1953 and 1961. "Humphrey served as secretary of the Treasury under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower from 1953 until 1957.

'No Smoking' Sign Out For High School

In one of the shortest sessions of the past few years, trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District Tuesday night approved a budget and barred smoking from the High School campus. The meeting took 2 1/2 hours. "Carroll Davidson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Ray C. Ebling, a representative of Cosden Petroleum Corp., were on hand to discuss the proposed budget for 1962-63. Their questions were answered in short order and the budget was adopted unanimously. "The largest budget in the history of the school system, it calls for total expenditures of $2,949,353, compared to $2,887,935.25 for last year. "NONE ON CAMPUS The use of tobacco in any form is now prohibited on the Senior High School campus. Trustees voted unanimously to abolish the existing school policy which allowed smoking in designated places. "Some of the students have abused the privilege, making quite a mess of the place at times," Anderson said, supporting the change. "Until about six years ago there was a "no smoking" policy. It was then changed to allow smoking in designated places outside the buildings. Two years ago this policy was modified again to designating a patio area as a place where smoking was permitted when classes were not in session. Anderson pointed out that the high school principal and the student council favored the action. Trustees, likewise, backed the change wholeheartedly. Anderson pointed out that the policy would be enforced stringently and strict disciplinary measures would be taken for violations. "GRID INSURANCE A new insurance policy for students and athletes was approved with Standard Life Insurance Co., Oklahoma City, Okla. New features of the policy include a 10-day "free ride" during the period of try out for football players. At the beginning of training, a list of tryout candidates is submitted. Ten days later, the list is corrected to include only those who are continuing practice. For these there is a charge of $6.50 to cov-

FUND PASSES $1,000 MARK

Support of the high school Bible Class Fund surged past the $1,000 mark Wednesday. Donors included Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, who is on vacation in Morrisstown, Tenn., but sent in his investment, and the American Business Club, with its check for $100 to become the second service club to back the fund. Dr. Lloyd, First Presbyterian pastor, was one of the founders of the Bible Class a decade and a half ago. "Tax funds may not be used to finance the class, although the course carries regular credit. Hence friends make it possible by their unsolicited gifts. Latest donors include: W. H. Wharton, $10.00; Presbyterian Friendship, $5.00; Mrs. Jack P. Johnson, $5.00; Circle, $5.00; W. Wood, $5.00; Baptist Temple Dorcas Class, $5.00; Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, $100.00; Previously acknowledged, $900.00; TOTAL, $1,000.00.

SATURDAY TRIALS Downtown Merchants Get Nod To 'Sack Meters'

Downtown parking meters will be killed on Saturdays for a 90-day trial period if an agreement between the Downtown Merchants Association and the city manager is reached. The Big Spring city commission authorized the trial pending agreement between the merchants' committee and the city manager on how the plan could be worked out. Randall Polk, representing Hemphill-Wells, told the commission that downtown parking meters were keeping business away, and that free parking, properly regulated, would help business on Saturday. "The suggestion was made that the merchants would pay the Saturday "meter-take" money to the city in lieu of "feeding the meters" by customers. Polk also suggested that merchants refrain from parking their own cars on the "dead" meters and that they ask their clerks to do the same. "The plan is being used in Midland, Odessa, Amarillo, and other cities," Polk said, "and in some of those cities the meters are being sacked on Saturday. "The members of the city commission felt that if the plan is carried out in Big Spring the simplest method would be to let the public know that it would not be necessary to put money in meters on Saturday. "A meeting of the merchants association will be held to determine the best method of handling the trial run and a committee will then work out the plan with the city manager.

Farmer Killed By Lightning In Houston Area

Lightning killed a farmer in the Houston area and destructive winds and thundersqualls elsewhere along the upper Texas coast punctuated the state's heat wave Tuesday. "Top temperatures were a bit lower—but not enough to assure a definite break in the sizzling summer siege. "The lightning victim was J. K. Wooten, 36, who was knocked off a tractor while tending a mow in his pasture close to Alvin. "A tornado funnel dipped into Port Neches near nightfall to wreck an old frame building and a garage. It knocked down a few trees and snapped several power lines but there were no injuries. "At Nederland between Port Arthur and Beaumont vicious winds unroofed a lumber yard, damaged a new brick building and felled utility lines. Although the storm brought rain along much of the upper Texas coast, dangerously dry pine forests 30 miles north of Beaumont received no moisture. "Forecasts called for more isolated thundershowers in South Texas and parts of the Panhandle through Thursday with no big changes in temperature.

Forsan Awards Lines Contract

FORSAN—R. B. Hodgson, Dallas, last night was awarded contract to lay nearly 11,000 feet of new water line for Forsan's water department. His alternate bid of $33,681 was accepted by the Forsan city council, and Hodgson said he will start work within 30 days. "His was the lowest of proposals submitted by three contractors. The contract calls for the laying of about 4,500 feet of 4-inch line, 235 feet of 6-inch line. The remainder of the 11,000 foot total is 2-inch line. Concrete-asphalt pipe will be used in lieu of cast iron. The cost of the cast iron pipe was higher than for the concrete pipe. "C. J. Lamb, mayor, said that Hodgson's bid calls for completion in 90 working days. Plans and specifications for the job were prepared by Freese-Nichols and Endress, Fort Worth engineers. Harold Johnson, the local representative of the company, was at the meeting of the council Tuesday night. Also present was Ernest Clemens, an engineer from the Fort Worth office. "The new line is to be laid in the streets of Forsan. This will permit continued use of the present lines which are in the alleys. "Other bids considered by the council included one by Anderson Construction Co., Abilene; first bid $46,890.50 and alternate bid $50,103; and Brown-McKee of Lubbock, first bid $39,402.87 and alternate $39,162.37. "It was announced that the town will seek bids on removing a 20,000 gallon storage tank from Handley to Forsan. The tank is mounted on a 78-foot tower. The tank is to be taken down from its present location in Handley, just out of Fort Worth, transported to Forsan and erected here. "It is estimated that the move could cost as much as $8,000. "Forsan residents voted $50,000 to modernize its city water system. First step was the purchase of wells lines and pumps owned at the time the town was incorporated by private operators. The city now owns the system—having paid nearly $6,000 for the property.

Pre-Registration Gets Under Way

Parents, mostly mothers, sat quietly at desks in elementary schools this morning. Some filled forms rapidly for their children had been in school before. Others, who will be sending their youngsters off to school for the first time on Aug. 30, were more deliberate. "This was the first of two days of pre-registration. No grand rush developed, but schools were busy. "So far registration has been better than usual. About 125 students have been registered. W. C. Blankenship, principal at College Heights, said shortly before noon. He added that about 600 students are expected. "At Kate Morrison, however, where enrollment is expected to be about 250 or better, less than 75 students had been registered, according to Harlan H. Huibregtse, principal. Similar slow results were reported at Bauer. "Pre-registration at Marcy was reported at about 130 students by noon, although only 30 or so had come in this morning. The others had taken advantage of an orientation day to complete the chore. "Pre-registration, continues this afternoon until 4 p.m. at all the public elementary schools. It resumes again Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1:30-4 p.m. "All elementary students are required to pre-register on these two days so students loads can be estimated for class and teacher scheduling. Sam M. Anderson, superintendent, said Registration should be at the school which the student will attend. "He pointed out again a change in routing of bus students. Elementary pupils from the area around Cosden Refinery, the Snyder Highway area and the Balch Addition will be taken to Boydston this year. Last year they attended Airport. "Anderson also urged secondary students new to the system to register as soon as possible. This can be accomplished at the secondary schools. The pupils will attend, between the hours of 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30-4 p.m. on any weekday.

Family Life On The Water

A typical family is pictured on a sampan which serves as home on the water on the coastline of Hong Kong. Many refugees from Red China are smuggled into the British Colonies of Hong Kong aboard Chinese junks and other vessels like sampans. Recent census showed more than 130,000 persons, most of them refugees from Red China, live afloat in Hong Kong.

Refugees Use Sea Route As Easiest Way Into Hong Kong

By GEOFFREY HO
HONG KONG (AP)—The easiest way for a refugee from Red China to reach this British colony is to turn into a "crouching snake."

That's the Chinese name for the human cargo packed like sardines aboard junks and other vessels and smuggled into Hong Kong.

It's just like riding a slave ship in the 18th century, said one refugee. They don't treat you like humans. But water is the route most frequently chosen by the increasing flow of refugees, most of whom are smuggled in from the neighboring Portuguese colony of Macao.

POPULATION UP
Refugees have swollen Hong Kong's population from pre-war 2 million to 2.5 million today. The British have housed 500,000 refugees and figure they can house another 500,000 in the next few years if the flow continues.

The United Nations Secretary-General said the flow has increased in the last few months to about 10,000 a day or about 300,000 a year.

At least 10,000 refugees stormed the border barricades in a mass break for freedom last May. Two-thirds of those were captured and sent back to China.

Most refugees prefer the uncomfortable sea routes because they are less hazardous, a kind of "snake" than the overland routes.

It is considered physically impossible to check every fishing junk in Hong Kong waters especially at night.

CAN TRY AGAIN
Even when a boatload of refugees is intercepted and sent back toward the China coast, there is nothing to prevent it from turning around and making another try.

The Chinese Communist authorities take back refugees arrested in their efforts to stop them. But for some reason they do not accept all refugees who do get away.

When a boatload of refugees is arrested by the British, the junk is taken to a detention camp. Some 2,000 refugees are held in the camp, and some are sent to the mainland.

The Hong Kong government has started a program to capture and return to the mainland captured junks.

REPERCUSSIONS
The Hong Kong government has taken steps to prevent the influx of refugees from the mainland.

as the demonstrations caused by British efforts to return captured refugees to Red China in May.

Two women refugees were killed and a young refugee boy was injured Aug. 3 when a British patrol boat fired on a junk filled with "crouching snakes." The junk had refused to stop after repeated warnings.

The smugglers are ruthless, one of the "snakes" said. They abuse and manhandle passengers.

Dozens of "travel agencies" are engaged in human smuggling. Some leftist agencies boast of connections in Communist China. There is no fixed fare for the Macao-Hong Kong passage. The fares range from $30 to $100.

Women considered more of a burden than men pay higher rates. Adult fares are lower than children's. Smugglers demand more money from wealthy-looking refugees. And people speaking Cantonese dialect, which is spoken in Hong Kong, have a better edge over those who don't.

FIRST LOAD
"Snake" junks laden with a few dozen refugees leave Macao before midnight. The first leg of the voyage is usually uneventful.

They may run into Chinese Communist gunboats but usually the communists only take down the junks if they are carrying passengers on board.

Some say the gunboats receive protection fees from junks run by "crouching snakes."

All "snake" junks end the first leg of their trip just outside British territorial waters. They drift about until nightfall, then hoist a light.

Response from shore may come promptly or the following night or even two nights later due to poor arrangements or the presence of a Hong Kong police patrol launch. If it doesn't come, the junks return to Macao and start all over again.

TO LANDINGS
But usually two or three sampans will meet the junk and take the "snakes" to separate landing points in Hong Kong.

This leg of the trip is packed with fear, anguish and superstition.

To escape detection from police patrol launches, passengers are taken to the sampans and packed tight for hours in crouching positions.

Workers Show More Independence Of Unions

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A rising tendency of labor union members to reject labor contract terms worked out by their own negotiators is alarming federal officials charged with maintaining the nation's industrial peace.

They feel it is bound to increase labor-management distrust and lead to more and longer strikes. Increasingly, union and management negotiators will reach an agreement after hard bargaining only to have the affected workers repudiate the pact and send the union negotiators back with orders to get more.

The trend has been most conspicuous in the construction industry but officials report the same thing is happening in other industries with mounting frequency.

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service conducted a nationwide survey earlier this year to sample the number of settlements vetoed by workers. It produced a proportion so high the agency is withholding the figure pending a recheck of its accuracy.

Among reasons being assigned for the worker revolts are these: Union members have become accustomed during inflationary periods to sizable regular gains in wages and benefits and are balky now that inflation is virtually halted at more moderate terms. Workers are less disciplined than they used to be and some of their local union leaders are sometimes operating counter to instructions from their national union chiefs.

Glowing promises by rival unions of what they could accomplish make the workers more demanding on their own union negotiators.

There have been a number of recent painful public examples of the problem.

One such revolt concerned carpenters in San Francisco, another metal trades workers at a key Atomic Energy Commission plant near Denver, and a third construction workers at the Polar's submarine yards of the General Dynamics Corp. at Groton, Conn.

The Groton dispute was finally settled after a long strike costly to the Navy's nuclear-powered submarine program. Workers represented by 11 metal trades unions finally accepted a third agreement after rejecting two others.

Workers, represented by 16 metal trades unions at the Rocky Flats, Colo., government nuclear plant operated by the Dow Chemical Co., walked out last weekend. The union earlier had threatened to strike because the company refused to accept a government panel's recommendations for special weekend pay allowances. When the company later gave its okay, the workers wanted more.

The San Francisco carpenters are threatening a strike after twice rejecting new three-year agreements reached by their negotiators and contractors—the first calling for increase aggregating 65 cents an hour and the second more than 80 cents an hour.

Jury Wheel Gets Recharge Of 12,000 Eligible Names

Howard County Jury Wheel has been replenished with 12,000 names of men and women of the county.

Wade Choate, district court clerk, said that the names were taken from the county poll tax rolls and from the tax rolls with special care to avoid duplications. Efforts were also made to insure that all names in the wheel are of persons resident of the county. The wheel was recharged with names Tuesday while Sheriff Miller Harris, Tax Assessor Mrs. Zarah LeFevre, Choate and Margaret Ray, deputy county clerk, supervised.

This is the second time the wheel has been loaded since its adoption for use in the county. The wheel came into existence when the census figures of 1960 showed the county population exceeded the maximum where jury commissions might serve.

The names of 625 citizens will be drawn from the wheel Aug. 16 to make up the personnel of five jury panels to serve in the new District court term which opens Sept. 27.

The same date, a jury commission will be qualified to select 20 citizens to serve as the county grand jury for the new term of court.

Judge Ralph Caton said he had nominated Zollie Boykin, Mrs. Charles Read and Otto Peters Jr., to serve as grand jury commissioners.

Heart Disease Study Planned

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—American males aged 45-54 are dying of heart disease at an alarming rate. Scientists will study the diets of 1,500 men over a period of months to learn whether blood cholesterol level is one of the causes and to see whether people will pass up some of their favorite foods.

The Public Health Service announced Tuesday initial grants totaling $152,142 for a research program. The study will be conducted in Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Minneapolis and Oakland, Calif. on 1,500 married males, aged 45-54.

U.S. Highway Funds Unfrozen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government uncorked $1.9 billion in frozen highway funds today that will seep into the economy over the next few months.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges announced the allocation to enable a speedup in federal-state road building programs.

The money had been frozen in the Highway Trust Fund since 1959 to ensure the fund's solvency. The fund is financed from gasoline tax receipts and other levies against highway users.

Hodges said the Commerce Department, in consultation with the Treasury and Bureau of the Budget, reviewed the trust fund and decided the $1.9 billion could be released.

"Enough money will be held in the trust fund to preserve its integrity and to meet all obligations," said the announcement.

"This added $1.9 billion will allow states that have taken the initiative and have their plans ready to move ahead more rapidly with the modernization of their road systems," said Hodges. "It does not give these states extra money for their total program but helps them speed up construction."

The federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of interstate express roads, with the states paying the balance. Federal funds meet half the cost of most other state road programs.

Masonic Lodge No. 1340 To Burn Mortgage Thurs.

When H. M. Rainbolt strikes a match and puts it to a piece of paper held by J. B. Apple on Thursday evening, scores and scores of Masons will beam with pride and sigh with relief.

That paper will be the mortgage to the hall of Masonic lodge No. 1340 at 2101 Lancaster.

P. D. Ausmus, worshipful master, is hoping that more than 200 Masons will be on hand to celebrate the liquidation of the building debt at 8 p.m.

Set up originally for a 10-year amortization, the debt has been retired in seven years. At the same time, the lodge has grown from an original charter membership of about 50 to a current total of 203. With the exception of the few who are deceased, all of the charter members are still on the lodge roll.

"We are anxious for all members to be present for the occasion," said Ausmus. "We urge all Master Masons to share this, with us."

Dr. W. A. Hunt, one of the charter members, will be the featured speaker at the note-burning ceremonies. Rainbolt, as chairman of the finance committee, and Apple, as secretary, will perform the rites symbolizing the lifting of the debt.

Afterwards there will be refreshments of homemade cake and ice cream. Ausmus advised this is a regular closed meeting.

Cleburne Bonds Pass By 2 Votes

CLEBURNE (AP)—Two votes meant passage Tuesday in a $3.2 million revenue bond election to build a dam and reservoir on the Nolands River near here.

The vote was 568 to 566. The dam will impound a 25,900-acre lake to supplement the city's water supply from artesian wells.

SHEEP AND GOATS

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher
Church of Christ, 2900 West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1385

"When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory, and before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats." (Matt. 25:31, 32) fers to the individuals who make up the nations.

By comparing Matt. 25:31, 32, with Matt. 16:27 we see that both refer to the same occasion and the judgment is that of individuals. There is no Biblical grounds for expecting many different judgments. There is one judgment; and even the Christian who is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of it (Matt. 5:22).

Welcome to our mid-week preaching service, tonight, 7:30. —Adv.

Focus On Health

Smoking and I.Q. emotional problems in girls and boys, and cancer in children are medical topics this week.

Smoking and I.Q.

Non-smoking high school students had higher I.Q.'s and attained higher academic achievement than students who smoked, a survey covering 6,810 students in Newton, Mass., high schools indicates.

Dr. Eva J. Salber and Brian MacMahon and Miss Barbara Welsh of the Harvard University School of Public Health, who made the survey, said they also found that I.Q.'s were lower for heavy smokers than for light smokers.

In a report in Pediatrics, the journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics, the researchers said the relationship between smoking and academic achievement is complex.

They did not conclude whether smoking results from low academic achievement or that low achievement results from smoking or that both are caused by a third circumstance. It may be that children who can't make good grades find in taking up smoking a way of demonstrating maturity and achieving acceptance in a different group.

Emotions

Riots between the ages of 9 and 12 have twice as many emotional problems as girls of that age but in later years adolescent girls show more emotional disturbances than adolescent boys, a New York child psychiatrist says.

Dr. Stella Chess, of Fayerly-Fish Avenue Hospital, theorized the boys tend to show their resistance to strong parental pressures at an early age while girls generally repress their defiance until their teens. Then their hostility may take the form of chaotic after-boss. This alarms the parents who apply greater pressure leading to even more defiance and emotional ambivalence.

Cancer Increase

Although the incidence of cancer increases with age, it is increasing faster in children than in adults.

Dr. C. C. Duane, medical director of the National Center for Health Statistics of the U.S. Public Health Service, said the mortality rate for cancer among children 1 to 4 years of age has more than doubled since 1950 and has tripled in children 5 to 14 years old.

Writing in Patterns of Disease, a monthly Park Davis & Co. publication for physicians, he said: "This is a much greater percentage increase than has been observed in adults."

He added, however, that it has not been determined how much of the increase is real and how much only apparent, stemming from greater diagnostic precision.

Pay Checks Up

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Pay checks will be a bit more today for most of San Antonio's 3,500 city employees as a five to six percent pay raise goes into effect. Firemen and policemen receive the largest increase from the increases which go back to Aug. 1. The city's yearly payroll will increase about $693,000.

10 Per Cent Drop In Braceros Seen

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A 10 per cent drop is predicted in the number of Mexican farm workers going to the United States this year.

Qualified sources say this will cause three times as many illegal wetbacks to cross the Rio Grande, but the ratio will level off in years to come.

Three factors are credited for the decline in the number of braceros working on U.S. Farms:

1. A U.S. government order raising their pay to match the prevailing rate for American farm hands.
2. Mechanization of American farms, attributed in part to the higher wages.
3. Better farm prospects in Mexico.

Forecasting the number of wetbacks again will decline and braceros will hold their own in years to come, a Mexican official said.

American farmers need braceros, despite growing mechanization, and Mexico needs the dollars they bring home along with the benefits such as improved farm knowledge.

"The economic benefits are mutual," said a U.S. source. "In addition there's an angle many overlook—most braceros are pro-American after a visit to the United States. Goodwill cultural missions cost money. The bracero program brings profits."

The bracero decline encourages Mexican farmhands to revert to the old wetback system to find jobs offered by American farmers badly in need of help, but unable or unwilling to pay wages of 70 cents to $1 an hour.

The bracero system, using doubly-checked farmhands with legal contracts, is preferred by both the United States and Mexico. It is a program Communists find hard to sabotage. They've about given up.

There is practically no agitation in workers' camps, which offer good and well supervised living conditions, one official reported.

Despite official statements, mainly for home consumption and prestige that Mexico needs its workers at home, that braceros are discriminated against abroad and exploited, Mexico needs the dollars they bring home. And workers are happy with high U.S. salaries, good living and the broadening outlook they get," a local source said.

Washington estimates braceros bring home $400 to $120 million a year. Mexican figures are somewhat lower. The money nevertheless is a substantial boost to Mexico's dollar income.

The $100 to 120 million figure is based on the 1961 total of 296,464 braceros sent to the United States. The 1959 high was 444,415 and the 1960 figures was 319,412.

DEAR ABBY

Don't Pick On Fijis

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in to your column saying that her daughter "frizzed her hair out until she looked like a Fiji Islander." Pardon me, but I am a Fiji Islander and my hair is NOT "frizzed out."

It grieves me that most other-wise fairly intelligent people are so ignorant of our culture. The majority of Fiji Islanders are Christians and can read and write. We are not primitive savages as many believe, but we are more civilized in many respects than some Americans, Europeans, Canadians and South Americans. Respectfully yours, VITU LEVU

DEAR ABBY: A man who works where I work has been after me for some time. I refused to go out with him because I have heard he is married and I don't want to get involved with a married man. He said he has a "legal separation" which automatically becomes a divorce after a certain length of time. Is this true? Is there any future in my dating this man? DECENT

DEAR DECENT: A legal separation never "automatically" becomes a divorce. If you are eligible for marriage, don't waste your time with a man who isn't.

DEAR ABBY: Every girl I date cries on my shoulder and tells me

U.S. Will Act In Albany Dispute

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—An authoritative source said today the U.S. Justice Department is prepared to throw its full weight into the desegregation fight in this racial trouble spot.

Integrationists, led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., repeatedly have urged such action by the federal government. Thus far, the Justice Department has limited its role to sending representatives here as observers and joining with Negroes in fighting the city's request for a federal injunction outlawing mass demonstrations and similar protest activities.

He Made It

Kenichi Horie, 23-year-old Japanese auto mechanic, waves a Japanese flag from the stern of his 19-foot sailboat which he brought into San Francisco Harbor, 94 days out of Osaka, Japan. Japanese authorities were amazed when told Horie had made his solo voyage. They had refused him a passport because they thought he was making an impossible trip. The trip was made entirely by sail, as the small boat named Mermaid had no auxiliary power.

Mexico Leaves Its Past Behind

EDITOR'S NOTE Ramon Garces of the Laredo Times and an expert observer on border affairs, recently spent some time in Mexico City. Here are his impressions, the second of a two-part series.

By RAMON GARCES
 Of The Laredo Times
 Written for The Associated Press
LAREDO (AP)—Mexico today is a young country.

Of the 34.9 million inhabitants, 75.8 per cent are 35 or younger. This means most Mexicans now live in the era which a prominent Acapulco resident calls "the constructive period of the Mexican Revolution."

It is a generation which has left behind the turbulent days of Pancho Villa and bitter border relations.

The growth in population, at the rate of almost a million a year, is the biggest problem the people of Mexico face.

"Mexico cannot afford to stand still," said Arturo Gonzalez, a tourist promotion man in San Luis Potosi.

"Every year we'll need more jobs, more food, more homes, more schools and more of everything," he added.

ON THE GO

The country has not been standing still.

Mexico is a nation on the go. It has undergone a tremendous change in 20 years and has left behind the image of a country torn by internal strife and revolution.

There is orderly progress today. Cities are being constantly reshaped.

Guided by its political and economic philosophy known simply as "La Revolution," Mexico's agricultural output increased 223 per cent in 20 years. Its gross national product went up from 41.3 billion pesos in 1940 to 134 billion pesos in 1960.

New school buildings are going up at the rate of 1,200 a year.

Education is one of the country's primary problems and the government annually spends more of its budget on education than on anything else.

TACKLING PROBLEM

The census shows 7,393,293 school-age children between 6 and 14. There are 2.6 million who are not receiving an education.

Mexicans are tackling the problem.

Six years ago there were 2,873,804 children who got no schooling, mostly in the rural areas. Today the figure has been reduced to 2,682,078.

There were 14,170 professional college diplomas issued in 1955. In 1960, there were 17,051.

Most degrees were in science, philosophy and literature. Teachers, lawyers and doctors, in that order, were the next most popular college majors.

To meet demands of a growing population there are four phases of development on which Mexican leaders have been working under "La Revolution."

These are agrarian reform, industrialization, monetary stability and education.

THREE EPOCHS

Mexicans have gone through three great epochs in 150 years. This country launched its fight for freedom in 1810.

The reform constitution era began in 1857 and it was then the liberal ideas of reform were molded.

The newest historical era is the revolution of 1910. It came after 35 years of dictatorship under Porfirio Diaz.

Actually the main cause of the Revolution was land, which is mostly arid and mountainous in Mexico.

Under Diaz, Mexico became a land of big haciendas owned by a handful of absentee owners. Production went down. Mexican farm workers were becoming almost serfs in this obsolete feudal system of land ownership. Land seizure from the peasants had been going on since the Spanish conquest.

It set the stage for the Mexican Revolution of 1910.

FIRST IN HISTORY

The farmers backed the Revolution to a man with the contention that they get their land back so they could work it and return it to productivity.

The result was agrarian reform, the first in modern history. It was the restoration of land to the peasants.

The hacienda system was broken up and a complete new distribution of land was effected.

Today Mexico for the first time has small private farms.

Farmers can also form groups and petition for land under the "ejido" system. Each farmer gets ten hectares and the group worked as much as 1,000 hectares together. A hectare is 2.47 acres.

Under the private ownership system, a landholder cannot own more than 100 hectares if the land is irrigated with water from a dam, or 50 more than 150 hectares if the land uses water pumped from a facility if the land depends on the skies for its water, a farmer can own as much as 500 hectares.

FULL PRODUCTION

Under this system, Mexico's farms are now in full production. Mexico is also industrializing. It welcomes foreign capital, but the new philosophy insists that Mexicans take a bigger part in capitalization.

As with American or other foreign names with the phrase "de Mexico" added are common, such as Sears de Mexico, Union Carbide de Mexico and others.

There has not been a devaluation of the peso since 1954, and with a record $700 million in dollar reserves and funds available abroad the government today guarantees the stability of its monetary unit.

The Mexicans' new philosophy on agriculture, education, industrialization and politics has molded a new era for the country south of the border.

X15's Electronic Brain Acts Up

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Test pilot Joseph A. Walker landed the X15 safely Tuesday on manual controls after the rocket plane's electronic brain went berserk at 100,000 feet.

He said the failure left him "wobbling around up there like a wide-bottom ship bouncing in a rough sea."

The trouble came as he was descending from a 3,794-m.p.h. flight up to 197,000 feet.

A Devotional For The Day
My heart goes out to this crowd; they have been with me three days now and they have no food left. (Mark 8:2 Phillips)
PRAYER: Father in heaven, whose mercies fail not; hear us, we beseech Thee, and grant unto us the spirit of love and compassion like unto that of Thy Son, in whose name we pray. Amen.

Output Is The Crux

The executive council of AFL-CIO has endorsed a double-barreled attack—in Congress and at the bargaining table—to win full employment through the device of a 35-hour week.
In giving this campaign its blessing the council of course stipulated that the 35-hour week should be accomplished without a reduction in take-home pay. Another goal was the idea of doing pay instead of overtime. The latter proposal is based on the theory that it will be uneconomical for employers to keep workers on beyond 35 hours and thus engage another employee to accomplish his work.
The fact that hours would be reduced 12 1/2 per cent, but pay would be reduced only 10 per cent in other words labor is saying that business should bear all the burden or sacrifice for spreading employment.
Rapid advances in technology may someday make a shorter work week feasible if not customary. However, this must be the result of increased productivity. It cannot be justified, nor could it long endure through the mere expedient of cutting the cake in more slices wholly at the expense of business.
Economically, this cannot yet be justified as a general thing. Sociologically, there is an even greater need of adjustment before such an event takes place. When workers can produce the same amount at no real increase in cost in 35 hours as now in 40, then the shorter week may come but not until then—not to stay anyway.

Illness Does Not Lessen A Crime

A spy is a spy, no matter what his health may be.
These words spoken by Judge William P. Horland as he sentenced Dr. Robert A. Soblen to life in prison, may well be remembered in the light of the not universal sympathy which has arisen in Britain and perhaps in this country over Soblen's plight. Soblen is a victim of leukemia, incurable cancer of the blood. At the time he was sentenced Aug. 7, 1961, he was given less than a year to live.
The events of the defendant's sentence, Judge Horland asserted, must be consistent with the obvious character of the defendant's crime. And what was Soblen's crime?
Soblen, also known as Sobel—originally from a Jewish Silesian town—came to the United States in 1941 from his native Poland. As developed by the prosecution at his trial last year, Laurent Beria, then head of the Soviet Union's secret police, in 1940 conceived the idea of sending Soviet agents to the United States to help the United States fight the war. Soblen and Jack—who had been active in the Communist movement since 1919—were the first in the indictment alleged that Soblen had gathered information during the war years on government officials in the Office of Strategic Services in the United States and Germany and had passed this on to Soviet embassy officials. The second count charged that

U.S. Learning To Face Facts

WASHINGTON, AP—There's some benefit from running second if you run long enough. You get used to being disappointed. Americans are getting used to being beaten by the Russians in space.
This explains why the American reaction to the latest Soviet achievement—two men in orbit—was far more restrained than it was in 1957 when the Russians first moved out in front.
But a Wisconsin Republican, Sen. Alexander Wiley, seemed to sum up the national feeling best. He said: "Facts are facts. Some one has goofed."
A second shock came a month later when the Russians put a dog in orbit. Animal lovers protested. Future historians, though, may be puzzled why no one protested later when men were put in orbit.
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles acknowledged the Russians were ahead. President Eisenhower sought to soothe the unhappy national mood. While acknowledging the Soviet achievement, he said: "Earth satellites, in themselves, have no direct present effect upon the nation's security."
THIS WAS cold comfort for a nation which liked to think it led the world in scientific accomplishments. After all, it was the United States which had invented the atomic bomb.
A Senate investigation was held. Several steps were taken to speed up space development. To some optimists it might have seemed only a matter of a short time before this country would sail out in front.
It didn't work out that way. The Russians still figured to be out in front for the long time for this reason: They had developed larger and more powerful rockets, able to carry bigger loads, than the United States.
AMERICAN spirits got a big lift when on Jan. 16, 1959, the Russians put their first satellite, Explorer, into orbit. But a Washington Democrat, Sen. Henry Jackson, warned it was too late to be smug or complacent.
It was a wise thought. A year later, Jan. 2, 1960, the Russians sent another satellite, Luna 1, past the moon and into orbit around the sun. Three months later the American one was destroyed, but when the United States put a satellite, Pioneer IV, into orbit.
It was short-lived satisfaction. On Sept. 12, 1960, the Russians beat the moon race as Premier Khrushchev, arrived in this country to crow about it. And on April 12, 1961, he hit the jackpot.
THEY SENT MAI YURI Gagarin—the first man in space—into one orbit around the earth. President Kennedy conceded at a news conference it would take this country some time to put heavy payloads into space.
IT WAS ALMOST as if the Russians were singing a song: "Any young you can do, we can do better."
Where such methods are not sufficient, the problem deserves to be in professional hands, either your regular doctor or a podiatrist. In some cases part of the edge of the nail must be removed, sometimes the entire nail should be removed.
You can't train a tree to grow in a special direction quickly, neither can you force a nail to change shape speedily. But with patience, anyone can be rid of this trouble.

The Middle Age Image

NEW YORK, AP—Are you middle-aged?
Middle age is like heaven in one respect—many people respect it, but few are in any hurry to get there.
It is a condition that is respected more by your actions and how you feel than the mere number of your years. A man of 35 may be middle-aged while one of 50 is still a mere overripe adolescent.
There is no doubt, however, when a woman reaches middle age it is the day when she publically admits for the first time that she is getting old. This is usually done by the purchase of a birthday suit which appears to be made for a young man.
Men, too, the budding greys, but their male is probably middle-aged. He who is middle-aged is usually the one who is looking for a wife to slip the night between fingers.
His wife knows about his job and his life. He knows about his job and his life. He knows about his job and his life. He knows about his job and his life.

Ambiguous Opinions Are Confusing

WASHINGTON — Justice Tom C. Clark of the Supreme Court of the United States broke precedent the other day in discussing publicly the recent decision in the famous school prayer case. He said in a speech before the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco that errors in the public interpretation of court decisions comes sometimes merely because of the haste with which news agencies are obliged to cover our announcements.
Justice Clark may not realize it, but some of the confusion and misinterpretation in this instance arose from statements by members of the court itself. The opinions written by Justice William Douglas, who concurred with the majority, and Justice Potter Stewart, who dissented, they did not prepare their opinions in haste. They had had an opportunity to examine carefully the majority opinion written by Justice Black, before it was handed down by the court. They had seen the text of what Justice Clark said in his speech at San Francisco, and they had seen the text of what Justice Black said in his opinion. They had seen the text of what Justice Stewart said in his opinion. They had seen the text of what Justice Douglas said in his opinion.

What To Do About Ingrown Toenails

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My son has an ingrown toenail. What can be done about it? MRS. B.G.
Ingrown nails are man-made almost always.
They are painful and infection starts you have real trouble.
Causes vary. Commonest of all is improper trimming. You can give your toenails an artistic flourish because they are not subjected to constant pressure. The toenails are...
Dear Dr. Molner: I once had duodenal ulcers. Two years ago my stomach became obstructed and I was operated on by gastroenterology and cutting of the vagus nerve. Recently I have begun to have the old familiar symptoms of ulcers again. Is this possible after such surgery?
MRS. A.M.
Yes, it's possible for new ulcers to form at the site of the surgery. X-rays should prove whether this has happened, and if so, you'll probably have to resume the old ulcer routine. I hope further surgery won't be necessary.
Never take a chance on diabetes. For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes—The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.
Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Around The Rim
Mr. Grace's Guinea Pig

I account myself as one of Mr. Peter Grace's guinea pigs, and so far the role has been pleasant enough.
About a year ago when W. R. Grace & Co. came out with a new product to dry and preserve blossoms in their natural shape and color, I contacted the brethen out of curiosity.
Then one day I thought someone had remembered me with a bucket of country sorghum or honey, but to it was a gallon of the product marketed under the name of Flower-Dri by the Plantab people.
I COULD HARDLY wait to have a look. It occurred to me that the Grace chemists had blown a flask and sent a can of sugar or salt. Except that the crystals are a bit coarser, the material would pass for either sugar or salt. So long as it bears that resemblance, all is well, but when blue specks start turning up, it's time to pour the mixture in a pan and put it into the oven. This dries out moisture it has absorbed.
Out of my quite limited flower garden I plucked a few blooms. In my enthusiasm, I overlooked the advice to be tender in sprinkling on the material, so some of my first efforts were a bit on the flat side.
HAVING LEARNED better, I did get an assortment of dahlias and marigolds to turn out with their natural radiance and delicate shape. Even the opening buds of our lonesome rose bush came out smelling—well, looking—like a rose. Gifted flower arrangers, I'm sure, can attach artificial stems and brighten their rooms for months with flowers from their own gardens. I can sprinkle on the material, place the lid on, pour it off gently after a week, but I'd be all thumbs on the embellishment. Anyhow, this remarkable material, goes right on sucking out natural plant moisture. Keeping it dry isn't much of a chore in this country.
THE OTHER EXPERIENCE with Mr. Grace's products came this spring when Jack Harralson entrusted me with a sack of Grace urea. It wasn't what I thought, but rather an 80-pound bag of tiny white beads. Two bits of advice came with the material—be stingy with it and water it fairly well after application.
Urea, I learned from the sack, is 43 per cent nitrogen, more than twice as strong in this vital element as most commercial fertilizers. Hence, it takes only a half or third as much to make that grass and those other plants take on the pale green-yellow characteristic of early spring, and then mellow into that deep green.
WELL, SIR, it worked like a charm. Like ammonia, from which it is synthesized, the urea proved easily soluble and didn't burn.
There was only one drawback. Having resurrected my poor, bedraggled lawn, I felt obliged to keep it alive. The only thing the urea didn't do was furnish the water.
Maybe some day the Grace facility here will also turn out urea in addition to anhydrous ammonia but the task of conjuring a camel-like grass is likely a challenge for the botanists rather than the chemists. What we will need is a Bermuda married to spineless cactus.

Old Wartime Airports Don't Die

Old war correspondents like old soldiers, never die. We don't fade away, either; we just keep talking. As I write this, I can't help but wonder how many American servicemen during World War II went through Atkinson Airfield or Air Force Base and prayed, as I did, that they might be spared a repeat trip.
AND I WONDER how many servicemen, again like myself, have logically supposed that in the years since the war the greedy jungle of British Guiana had swallowed up Atkinson.
In the late spring of 1943, when I inadvertently spent 48 hours in Atkinson on my way home from a stint in North Africa, the base was comparable to being in star. Although Georgetown, the capital of British Guiana, was only 20 miles away, and presumably boasted fleshpots, there was no road through the jungle to its delights.
A GI AT ATKINSON with leave or time on his hands could only get to Georgetown by a three-and-a-half-hour trip each way by river, or by thumbing a ride on the base amphibian, which wasn't likely.
Uncle Sam had cut the airfield out of the jungle to refuel, service and repair bombers and fighters routed across the South Atlantic. It was an isolated and lonely post.
When I have thought of Atkinson in the intervening years, total recall has re-produced in full the look of outrage and distaste on the face of Atkinson's commanding officer when a woman was off-loaded on his base. I may have looked down to others but not to him nor to the cozier.
THAT THE vicissitudes of war should dump a woman on his field, a contingency for which Uncle Sam had made no allowance in building Atkinson, was almost more than he could bear.
Or, me, either. By this time, I had spent

The General And The Professor

WASHINGTON — General Maxwell Taylor and Professor Denna Fleming have little in common except their heretofore books which have come back to haunt them — but the General has laid the ghost and the Professor has not.
At the Senate Armed Services committee the other day Taylor gave a broad grin and said that he'd tried in preparation for this hearing to reread "The Uncertain Trumpet," which was written some three years ago.
"But I found it very heavy going," he admitted.
TAYLOR WROTE his book in anger after resigning his post as Army Chief of Staff under the Eisenhower regime. In it he came out for a one-man head of the military staff to replace the something-for-everybody Joint Chiefs of Staff where, in practice, one service often gets automatically outvoted by the others.
In the early Eisenhower days, with Admiral Radford (1953-57) and Air Force General Taming (1957-60) as Chairmen, the Army was always in the minority when it came to getting missions and weapons. Back in President Truman's time, with General Bradley as Chairman, the Navy was underdog, and suffered the cancellation of a supercarrier on a 3 to 1 vote which was a very expensive mistake.
TAYLOR'S THESIS in favor of one all-service Chief of Staff, with an eye to the whole military field, has a lot of merit, but it runs into charges of "dictatorship" on Capitol Hill. So when Taylor came up last week for confirmation as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, Senator Margaret Smith asked him if he now intended to try for the centralized power suggested in his book — and Taylor had to make a good-humored retreat.
Professor Fleming's book, "The Cold War and Its Origins," was published in 1961 and jumped into the news during the Senate probe of the Administration's alleged No Win policy. This is a two-volume opus of 1158 pages, and it labors mightily to prove that the U.S.A. and her allies are mainly at fault in the postwar conflict with Russia, that we are losing because we are wrong, and that Russia is winning because she is right.
SUCH MATERIAL, of course, is fodder

HMM... YOU THINK AN ACCOMPLICE DELIBERATELY STARTED THE LANDSLIDE?

YES, AND HELGA'S PLUMB DISAPPEARED. MUST HAVE SWITCHED LICENSE PLATES SINCE THE POLICE HAVEN'T PICKED UP HER CAR.

AND ELFINA'S EARACHE WAS PROBABLY PHONY. NO DOCTOR WITHIN 100 MILES REPORTS HAVING TREATED ANYONE OF HER DESCRIPTION.

THAT HELGA DID A REAL SLICK JOB OF GIVING US THE SLIP.

AND IT BEGINS TO LOOK MORE AND MORE AS IF HELGA, NOT PUSBY, IS OUR NUMBER ONE SUSPECT.

Colorado City's Lions To Observe 40th Anniversary

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Lions will celebrate their 40th anniversary Thursday night with a meeting at 8 o'clock in Civic House.

Other highlights of the program include recognition of past presidents of the Colorado City group, and an introduction of Colorado City National Guard members, who are to be Lion guests. U.S. Preparing New Venus Probe

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States is preparing for its second attempt within a month to launch an interplanetary spaceship to probe mysteries of cloud-shrouded Venus.

If the launching scheduled next Monday at the earliest, is successful, the Mariner II spacecraft will pass within 10,000 miles of Venus early in December and relay vital data about the planet to earth stations 36 million miles away.

An identical Mariner I launching failed May 22 when a faulty guidance equation caused the Atlas-Agena B booster rocket to veer off course. The rocket was destroyed by the range safety officer after 290 seconds of flight.

If Mariner II also fails, American scientists must wait 19 months before Venus again is in favorable position for a launching.

The Russians launched the only previous Venus rocket. Its radios failed soon after launch and provided no data as it passed within 62,000 miles of the planet.

Another Atlas-Agena B will start Mariner II on its space voyage. The Agena B second stage is to settle into a so-called parking orbit 115 miles above the earth at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour. When the Agena B is in a proper position for a Venus trajectory, its engine will accelerate to a speed of 25,700 miles an hour and boost the spacecraft free.

An intricate system of earth and sun sensors, gyroscopes, gas jets and a microcourse motor are to keep Mariner II on course as it races across space towards its intended rendezvous with Venus 135 days after launching. The craft is not intended to hit the planet but to zip close to it before going into orbit about the sun.

Mourners Visit Marilyn's Crypt

Hundreds of mourners, and the curious, too, have visited Marilyn Monroe's crypt in Westwood Memorial Park since her entombment. Guy R. Hockett, managing director, said the biggest crowd was Sunday. Joe DiMaggio, Miss Monroe's second husband, visited the crypt several days after the funeral to say his final farewell.

Former Spy Pilot Sues For Divorce

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Six months after a dramatic release from a Soviet prison, former U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers sued his wife Barbara for divorce on grounds of cruelty and intoxication.

The petition was filed Tuesday in Superior Court at this middle Georgia city, hometown to the 28-year-old brunette Powers married in 1955. The couple has no children.

Powers said in the petition he had been separated from his dark-eyed wife since May 27. He charged she was "guilty of habitual intoxication" and that she cursed and abused him without cause.

The petition also alleged her "acts of cruelty were willfully inflicted, and caused Powers to become highly nervous and endangered his health."

Mrs. Powers had no comment when she was served with a writ. Sheriff Buford T. Lingold said.

Her mother, Monteen Allen, said she was surprised to learn a divorce petition had been filed.

"I love Barbara and I love to her husband during his long ordeal. She witnessed his trial in Moscow and was permitted an 11-hour visit behind the closed door of a prison cell before she returned to this country.

There were indications she did not get along too well with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers of Pound, Va. They went to the Soviet Union the same day, but on separate planes, had separate attorneys and separate doctors.

Mrs. Powers was not in Washington when her husband appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee and was not present for his Virginia homecoming.

Powers retained his job with the Central Intelligence Agency, collected more than $50,000 in back pay and he and his wife took an apartment at Alexandria, Va.

In April Mrs. Powers was rushed to a Washington hospital after an overdose of sleeping pills. Three days later she was discharged.

Gary," she said "I'm so sorry about this Barbara hasn't been herself since Gary was shot down."

Powers was downed May 1, 1960 while flying a reconnaissance mission over the Soviet Union, an episode that touched off an international controversy.

A little more than two weeks later at a summit meeting in Paris, Soviet Premier Khrushchev demanded the United States apologize, condemn spy plane missions and punish those responsible for Powers' flight.

Khrushchev canceled an invitation for Dwight D. Eisenhower to visit the Soviet Union. The summit talks collapsed despite Eisenhower's assurance U-2 flights would not be resumed.

The U-2 pilot was tried in a Moscow court in August 1960, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 years deprivation of liberty for spying.

On Feb. 19, 1962, the 32-year-old pilot was released in exchange for Col. Rudolf I. Abel, a Soviet spy.

Passport Business Brisk During July For Clerk

Forty-five applications for passports were filed with Wade Choate, district court clerk, during the month of July.

Not one of the applications, he reported, was for a passport to Brazil. (Brazil has no extradition treaty with the United States—this is a haven for fugitives.)

As usual most of the applicants were service men and their dependents. However a number of Big Springers are on vacations abroad or plan to make such trips soon.

Other than for the grand rush in passports, business was only fairly brisk in the clerk's office during the month.

There were 27 divorce suits filed and 29 divorce decrees granted. Twenty-six divorce suits were dismissed. One annulment petition was filed.

Five adoption petitions were filed, five adoptions approved and two adoption cases dismissed.

The court also dismissed 30 civil suits during the month. Fourteen new suits were filed and nine civil suits were tried. One was heard before a jury.

One man was jailed for contempt of court in connection with failure to pay child support, and seven other similar contempt complaints were filed. Six new child support accounts were added to the books kept by Choate.

Four non-jury criminal cases were tried in July.

Here's Music To Chase By

Rob Hope's "Alias Jesse James," color spoof of the old west, contains a comedy chase that runs 4½ minutes on the screen. It left composer-conductor Joe Lilley more than moderately limp writing the music for it.

Rapid-fire melody—if that's the word for it—the chase score covers over a hundred music sheets. The film also features several songs sung by Hope and Rhonda Fleming.

Senate Action Proves Rule On Filibusters Is Adequate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate may have slammed its doors against a change in its filibuster rule with a historic 63-27 vote Tuesday to limit debate on the administration's communications satellite bill.

By proving for the first time in 35 years that cloture can be obtained, members have gone a long way toward destroying the argument that present rules are inadequate to cope with a determined band of talkers.

Rule 22 which was invoked on the satellite measure requires the affirmative vote of two-thirds of those participating to curb debate. Once it is enforced, no senator can talk more than an hour about the bill at hand, amendments to it or about anything else, for that matter.

While the ex-filibusters don't like it, leaders found the long unused rule a handy implement for getting business done at a dizzying pace that hadn't been matched in the Senate for years.

In a little more than three hours, they snatched down on roll-call votes six amendments that could have provided critics of the bill with endless hours of talk.

With machine-like precision, the bill's backers moved to table and thus kill each amendment a motion that is not deniable.

Angry and irritated the measure's opponents struck back by forcing five quorum calls. Even these didn't take long. Most of the senators were on hand except for seven Democrats who would have voted against cloture if they had been present.

For years Rule 22 has been attacked by civil rights advocates as the chief obstacle to passage of legislation in that field. The fact that two civil rights bills have been passed in recent years without invoking the rule has not lessened opposition to its terms.

Efforts have been made to reduce the requirement for putting the rule into operation to approval by a simple majority, a majority of all senators—51 in this case—or to three-fifths of those voting.

These proposals probably will be aired again at the beginning of the new Congress in January.

But the argument for a change will be weakened by Tuesday's vote invoking cloture for the fifth time in the 45-year span of the rule.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told reporters the outcome demonstrates that if you have got a case you can get cloture under Rule 22. All but two of the Senate Republicans voted for debate limitation.

KING RAT By James Clavell Little, Brown, $5.75

By The Associated Press
There is a stark gripping blood-and-guts quality about this novel that shakes the reader.

The scene is a Japanese prison camp called Chang near Singapore. More than 8,000 miserable, degraded, starved and tormented men live within its jungle-surrounded fences.

Most of them are British and Australian but there is a small group of Americans. And the central figure is one of these.

In civilian life he had been a homeless scrounger and in the prison camp he had used his cunning and brasserie nerve to become the boss of the camp's black market. The rest of the prisoners called him the King and most of them hated and despised him, while at the same time fearing him almost as much as the Japanese.

Mostly his racket was in food, but it also included a lucrative traffic in watches, pens and other valuables that the prisoners had hidden away and finally there came a desperate struggle over selling a diamond ring to a Chinese smuggler.

Drawn into a strange alliance with this rat is an opposite type—Peter Marlowe a flight lieutenant who had behind him many generations of gentlemanly service in the King's military forces, a man with an innate and aristocratic habit of doing only the things that were honorable.

As Marlowe's foil there is a proconsul marshal a lower class Englishman named Grey, who is out to get the King because he is a croak, and who hates Marlowe because he is a gentleman.

Basically the theme of this story of death and survival is the question of right and wrong. Was it wrong for the King to supply black market food that saved a man's life? Was it wrong for Marlowe to accept the black market drugs that saved his arm?

Clavell, now in the film industry, is a former British officer who spent three years in various Japanese prison camps, so he knows whereof he writes. And he writes well.

His novel has a tense dramatic power. It is not a pretty story, but it is a deeply moving one.
