The Flood Finished The Finishing

Soaked County Gets More Rain

Howard County residents today were digging out from under the soggy debris left in the wake of three days of phenomenally heavy rain. At the same time, they were keeping wary eyes turned on the heavily overcast skies and wondering if the current wet spell was at an end.

There was no immediate indication that it was over. At 11 a.m. the skies had darkened and rain was falling briskly. The forecast calls for cooler weather and more showers through Saturday. The low temperature dropped to a chill 58 degrees Thursday afternoon.

City Officials Out Surveying Damage

City officials Friday morning were surveying damage of the better than eight inches of rain which fell during the past three days. Streets, facilities, and buildings were damaged in some areas where flooding occurred, and washouts piled tons of dirt on streets.

"It is impossible right now to make an estimate of the dollar damage done," Larry Crow, city manager, said Friday. "We are checking all parts of the city this morning to make a survey of what must be done."

DAMAGE

A lot of flood damage was reported at May Belle's Antique shop, 1617 E. 3rd, where water ran through the building about 30 inches deep. Trucks were moving and a light drizzle from time to time dotted windshields.

AT LEAST 5
Across the county, every section seems to have received at least five inches of moisture in the three days the rain has fallen. The least rain was reported

Game site for the Stanton-Merkel football contest has been shifted, but it will be played tonight.

The game will be in Stanton and will start at 8 o'clock. Intense rains made it advisable to change the location from Merkel to Stanton.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad right-of-way was flooded from Jones Valley on the West, to Birdwell Lane on the east, when runoff water piled up faster than runoff water could carry it off.

Other damage during the flood was at radio station KBST. The high water soaked the transmitter at the tower north of the T&P tracks, and the station was unable to sign on at 5:45 a.m. Thursday. It was still off the air Friday morning.

"We are drying out the transmitter from the building Thursday afternoon."

Mrs. Mabel Kountz, owner, said her loss, none of which was covered by insurance, would run between 75 and 100 per cent.

"I was unable to get anyone to move the furniture and other items out Thursday morning," she said. "When I did get some one the water had begun to recede and we thought we would wait. I will still have to move it."

"The big trouble is that I had furniture, to refinish, belonging to others, and it was damaged. Insurance does not cover this kind of loss." The shop will be closed until further notice.

In the same area, the Cottonwood Trailer Park was inundated and many trailer homes had to be moved out.

Kennedy Seeks Callup To Meet Cuban Crisis

Dr. Soblen Sinks Lower

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Soblen's heart was reported flagging today and doctors expressed anxiety about the condition of the bail-jumping spy.

Soblen remained unconscious more than 30 hours after he knocked himself out with an overdose of barbiturates in a move to avoid life imprisonment in the United States.

A bulletin issued by Hillingdon Hospital at 4:15 p.m.—11:15 a.m. EST—said: "Dr. Soblen's condition is unchanged. He is still unconscious."

The psychiatrist, 61, was rushed to the hospital Thursday after taking a heavy concentration of barbiturates. This caused his collapse into a coma in the ambulance which had been transporting him to London Airport for deportation to the United States.

The hospital announced at 4:20 a.m. Eastern Standard Time: "Dr. Soblen remains unconscious. His heart is showing signs of exhaustion. His condition gives rise to anxiety."

CLOSE WATCH
Two security guards kept close watch over the fugitive as he lay in his drug-induced sleep.

The Home Office said Thursday Soblen, 61, would remain in the hospital at least 24 hours to recover from the overdose of barbiturates.

"We can't therefore make any new arrangements for his transport until we know when he is going to be released," a spokesman said.

Soblen became ill Thursday morning as an ambulance was taking him to board a Pan American airliner for New York and a life sentence as a wartime spy for the Soviet Union. Nearing the airport he fell into a coma and his baffled escorts rushed him to Hillingdon Hospital.

Authorities immediately began an investigation to learn how Soblen, closely watched during his 10-week detention in Britain, had obtained the barbiturates.

Both the Home Office and prison authorities refused to advance any theories.

HOARDING THEORY
One British newspaper speculated that Soblen had managed to hoard drugs doled out to him by Brixton Prison doctors treating him for leukemia. It said he might have pretended to swallow pills but concealed them under his tongue.

Unconfirmed press reports said prison officials found a cache of pills concealed in Soblen's bed only five days ago.

Other papers said pills might have been smuggled to Soblen, whose meals were brought in from a restaurant near the prison.

Neither theory explained why the pills were not found during periodic searches prison officers made, or how Soblen managed to take a massive dose when he presumably was under close surveillance.

Soblen was stripped and searched before leaving for the airport. There was speculation he might have swallowed the dose just before that.

The Daily Mail said Soblen had hidden the dose in a peach and took a bite of it in his quarters Thursday morning. The Mail said a basket of fruit was sent to him Thursday.

WAS WATCHED
On his ride to the airport, Soblen was watched constantly by a detective, an ambulance attendant and a prison doctor. All expressed certainty he had not drugged himself before the ride.

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail and fled from New York to Israel June 25 after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review his life sentence. Israeli officials put him aboard an Israeli El Al plane for New York July 1. As the plane approached London, he slashed himself with a steak knife to force his landing in Britain, and he was rushed to the same hospital where he now lies.

Lake Thomas picked up 31,500 acre feet of water from its inflow this week, better than 10 billion gallons. Lake Colorado City gained an estimated 10,000 acre feet, and although there were no figures available, Champion's gain may have approached the figure also.

Moss Creek's addition was pegged at 765 acre feet and Powell Creek's at around 500 acre feet.

Lake Thomas has gone over the spillway twice before, first on Oct. 20, 1960 and continuing to Nov. 11. Then it spilled again on July 15, 1961, continuing to Aug. 8.

Lake Colorado City spilled only one time on May 10, 1957 and continued to July 2, 1957.

2 Die In Crash
HOUSTON (AP)—A light plane carrying a minister and a business executive crashed northwest of Houston Thursday on a pleasure flight. Both men were killed.

The plane piloted by the Rev. James Rice, assistant pastor of Berean Baptist Church, crashed shortly after he had radioed a private airstrip he was preparing to land.

Douglas Westover, head of a sheet metal firm, was a passenger.

The bodies were found today in the plane's wreckage near the airport.

Russians Fire On U. S. Car

BERLIN (AP)—American authorities today soft-pedaled the Soviet firing on a U.S. Army sedan in East Germany.

Soviet soldiers fired about 40 shots at a U.S. car that got too close to a Red military train Tuesday. Only one shot hit the car, and no one was hurt.

U.S. officers concealed the affair but it leaked out Thursday night. The Army in Germany still had issued no official information today, although the State Department released a sketchy account in Washington.

Birth Control Report Spiked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surgeon General Luther L. Terry said today he decided against publication in its present form of a birth control research report because he believed it would be misunderstood and misinterpreted.

The surgeon general of the Public Health Service told a reporter he had sent the report back to the National Institutes of Health, where it had been under preparation for about a year. He said "it is not dead, though no one is actively working on it at this time."

The report was described as a summarization of government and private support of birth control research.

The fact that Terry had shelved the report was disclosed Thursday in a story in the Washington Evening Star. Terry was not available for comment then, but Deputy Surgeon General David E. Price confirmed the shelving action. Price said he had initiated preparation of the report last year while he was deputy director of the institutes.

Reservists May Go To Active Duty

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, acting in the face of a Communist buildup in Cuba and other international tension, sought authority today to order 150,000 reservists to active duty.

The White House said Kennedy would send proposed legislation to grant him this power to Congress this afternoon.

This legislation would place a ceiling of 150,000 men from the Reserves of all the armed forces and limit the period of service to no more than 12 months.

Kennedy could exercise the authority from the time Congress adjourns until next Feb. 28, about two months after the Senate and House reconvene.

During that time, the secretary of Defense could extend the terms of service of the Reservists for not more than 12 months.

No member of the Ready Reserve called to duty involuntarily at the height of the Berlin crisis in 1961 could be called back again unless he volunteers.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy was asking the new authority to order Reservists to duty "because of the critical nature of the international situation."

Salinger said he was referring to the "general international situation."

Asked if the move was inspired particularly by the Soviet-backed buildup of arm strength in Castro Cuba, he said newsmen would have to draw their own conclusions.

The press secretary did say the plan was discussed with leaders of both parties in Congress when they assembled at the White House late Tuesday to be filled in on the situation in Cuba and the statement Kennedy issued that evening.

At that time, Kennedy told of Soviet shipments of missiles, military torpedo boats, and other military equipment to Cuba, and told both Moscow and Havana the United States would resist any aggressive action in the Western Hemisphere.

Salinger emphasized that the possible new callup of Reservists was discussed with Republicans as well as Democrats on Tuesday when asked if the announcement was precipitated by GOP demands for sterner U.S. action.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana suggested today that Congress, before adjourning, adopt a resolution giving Kennedy backing and authority to take whatever steps he deems necessary, including the use of armed forces, to protect vital security interests.

Salinger said a draft of the proposed legislation was completed this morning at a meeting of Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The law of August 1961, adopted in the heat of the Berlin crisis, empowered the government to order 250,000 to duty.

Since then, Salinger observed, the country's regular armed forces have been increased. Two new Army divisions have been activated.

The law now proposed would give these powers:

Between adjournment of Congress and the Feb. 28 deadline, Kennedy could authorize McNamara to extend enlistments, appointments, periods of active duty and of active duty for training, periods of obligated service, or other military status, in any component of the armed services, or in the National Guard, for not more than one year. These extensions, if ordered, would apply to servicemen whose terms expire between adjournment and next February.

"The President is asking for this power," Salinger said, "during the period that the Congress will not be in session and the period of approximately two months after Congress returns because of the critical nature of the international situation."

Senate Committee Okays Nomination Of Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Thurgood Marshall's nomination to be a federal judge by a vote of 11 to 4 today.

The four votes against recommending Senate confirmation of the Negro attorney, former counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were cast by Southern Democrats.

Marshall's nomination to be a judge on the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals first was submitted by President Kennedy a year ago this month.

The committee acted at a closed session shortly after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana had pledged to do all he possibly could to get the nomination before the Senate before Congress adjourns.

After that promise from Mansfield, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., held back a threatened move to take Marshall's nomination away from the committee.

Javits had announced plans last week to make that move. Marshall is serving on the court under a recess appointment made last October. Kennedy submitted his nomination Sept. 23, four days before Congress adjourned, and resubmitted it Jan. 15.

At today's committee meeting, Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., moved to defer action on the nomination for another week. That was rejected 11-4.

Then Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., moved to report the nomination favorably to the Senate. This carried by the same 11-4 count.

A floor fight against confirmation of Marshall is in prospect.

Voting against the nomination in committee, in addition to Eastland, were Sens. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

DEAR ABBY Kisses Are Not So Bad!

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a certain young man for over a year and I could really care for him, but I can't find out how he feels about me. He takes me out about twice a week and, as far as I know, I'm the only one he dates. But he has never talked about "our future" or his feelings for me, but, oh boy, when he kisses me I just about fall apart! I can tell that he really likes me, but he never comes out and SAYS it. What is wrong with this guy?

(Crack, bam, and no flowers to the cheater!).

DEAR ROZ: Nothing. Maybe he just likes to kiss.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of women who have had a two-table mah jongg club for the past years. We are all the original group and are friends of long standing. About three months ago we noticed that one of the women cheats. There is no question about it because several of us have been watching her and we are sure. No one wants to be the spokesman for the club and tell her we don't want to play with her any more. How can we handle this very delicate situation?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were both married before, and have married children by those marriages. On recent occasions his daughter has invited us to her home for small dinner parties. She also invites his former wife who, of course, is her mother. I am not comfortable in such company, but up until now I have not wanted to make an issue of it. (His ex-wife never remarried.) MY children invite us to their homes, too but they have more sense than to invite their father at the same time. How should this be handled?

DEAR ANNOYED: Tell your husband to tell his daughter that you and he are happy to accept her hospitality, but it would be much more enjoyable if she did not include her mother in that party. She'll understand. And if she doesn't WANT to understand, she is being intentionally provocative, in which case you and your husband should avoid her.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of the Big Spring Herald.

MAH JONGG CLUB

DEAR CLUB: Since no one wants to tell her privately (which would be the least humiliating), your next best method would be for the club to write a letter signed by all the members.

Anderson Tells Kiwanis Club Of Problems

Big Spring city schools have a problem of growth and a technical obstacle to meeting that problem by normal means, Sam Anderson, superintendent of the schools, told Kiwanians Thursday. He cited figures on enrollment in the city schools and commented on the growth since last year and the years previous. He also listed the areas where acute congestion is developing. The logical solution to such problems for a district, he said, is to build additional buildings.

Big Spring cannot vote bonds for buildings at this time. The reason, he explained, is the lawsuit over the annexation to the Big Spring district of Gay Hill and Center Point Common school districts. A district cannot vote bonds applicable to a part of its territory. Until the final decision on whether the two common districts are to be an official part of the district, Big Spring cannot validly establish its boundaries.

Anderson was presented to the club by Soc Walker, program chairman. After going over the enrollment records and pointing out that even on a rainy day like Thursday additional students were enrolled, he discussed briefly the budget of the schools and how the money to operate the system is derived. He spent the last quarter hour of his time answering questions asked by the club members.

Anderson said after his appointment by President Kennedy that he intended no radical revision in military organizations, but wanted to make the "present system as effective as possible." Taylor retired from active duty after a losing campaign within the Joint Chiefs of Staff for greater stress on a force capable of "flex-

Taylor To Find Army Is Smaller Now But Tougher

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (P) — The Army today has fewer men but far more firepower—conventional as well as nuclear—than when Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor stalked out of the high command in 1959 in protest against defense policy. The former Army chief of staff, preparing to return to the Pentagon Oct. 1 in the top post of chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is making a personal survey of U.S. military forces deployed in the Far East.

What he observes on this and on any other inspection overseas in the next few months probably will have influence in preparation of the 1964 budget.

However, Taylor said after his appointment by President Kennedy that he intended no radical revision in military organizations, but wanted to make the "present system as effective as possible."

Taylor retired from active duty after a losing campaign within the Joint Chiefs of Staff for greater stress on a force capable of "flexible response" to various types of attack. He deplored the emphasis which he said then was being given to the policy of massive retaliation with nuclear weapons.

In his book "The Uncertain Trumpet," written after he doffed uniform, Taylor said, among other things: The Defense Department believed that atomic weapons reduced the need for manpower and that personnel cuts therefore could be made safely. This was fallacy when applied to the Army, he said. The complexity of those weapons, the requirement for dispersion of forces on the battlefield and the possibility of heavy manpower losses in action would point to a need for more, not fewer men, he contended.

Available statistics at the Pentagon show these comparisons between 1957—the midpoint in Taylor's tenure as Army chief of staff, when he was beginning his battle for a policy change—and now.

Army strength at the end of 1957 was about 997,000 men, with 18 divisions. Army manpower today is about 952,000, with 16 divisions. On the other hand, the Defense Department says the proportion of combat-ready divisions is higher now.

In answer to questions, the Army today made available figures showing a general comparison in firepower capability for an Army infantry division now in comparison with 1957. It is measured by the number of weapons for delivering firepower within the division.

In the small arms category (rifles, machine guns, sidearms) the increase amounts to about 30 per cent, for mortars about 14 per cent. Conventional artillery has increased about 30 per cent.

Antitank weapons numbers have changed with changed technology; The World War II bazooka is being displaced by the recoilless rifle and missiles. There were no antitank missiles in the infantry division five years ago, but an average division now is equipped with 72 guided missile weapons for antitank use.

The greatest increase, both in numbers of weapons for delivery and in the potential explosive yield, is in tactical nuclear weapons for the division. The over-all increase for delivery equipment is at least 70 per cent. The increase in actual firepower is measurable in factors of hundreds or thousands.

The infantry division has four 8-inch howitzers, able to fire atomic as well as conventional shells (the same as five years ago, but also has four instead of two Honest John atomic missile units. And divisions are beginning to receive a planned 30 Davy Crockett atomic missile units, per division, where none existed in 1957.

The step-up in the Army's firepower capability during the past five years is not all attributable either to Taylor's campaign or to the Kennedy administration's emphasis on limited war preparedness, as well as continued expansion of nuclear weapon systems.

A beginning of the build-up in both weapons and manpower came as the result of the Korean War. The Army, in early 1950, had reached a low point in unit strength, with 10 divisions. Lessons learned on Korean battlefields, in such things as antitank warfare and mortars, impelled technical improvements in weapons which carried on into the postwar period.

Spying On Space Tries Not Tricky

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. space officials who reported the Soviet Union made unsuccessful attempts to send spacecraft to Mars and Venus aren't saying how they got their information. But other scientists say this form of space spying isn't too tricky.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Wednesday said that the Soviet Union has failed in five out of six tries to send probes to the two planets. And the sixth try was only a qualified success because its radio transmission died far from Venus, said the agency.

Moscow has not made public any space mistakes so how does NASA know about them? Apparently the Soviet space technique is at least part of the tipoff.

NASA said the Soviet scientists used a parking orbit in each of their six planet probes. This means a three-stage booster is used to put the spacecraft in a low orbit around the earth. When the spacecraft is in alignment with its target planet—Mars or Venus—a fourth stage would fire, hurling the spacecraft toward its destination.

Scientists said the restarting of the engine in the parking-orbit method is fairly easy to detect when a satellite is being tracked in orbit.

And when a "re-lite" is attempted on a Soviet vehicle it clearly indicates an attempt to send the vehicle on a deep probe—especially if Mars or Venus is in a favorable alignment.

When the re-lite attempt fails the trackers can determine whether the rocket is tumbling over or is breaking up and re-entering the atmosphere.

Another question raised relative to space espionage is whether Soviet electronic equipment being delivered to Cuba could be used to jam equipment at the big launching base at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Informed sources said it is unlikely jamming could be successfully achieved from Cuba or that activities at the Cape would be seriously hampered.

Because of the danger that a stray signal might blow up a rocket or accidentally launch one the launching systems have been carefully coded.

To interfere with a launching, the hostile party would have to know the secret code.

After a space craft has been launched an enemy presumably could try to jam its radio telemetry transmissions. However, this data is received at more than one station at a time. If the receiving equipment at the Cape should be jammed the data would be picked up by another station.

Ex-GI Finally Gets Korean Girl To U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A quiet little Korean girl arrived Thursday night from her homeland to marry the ex-GI who battled government red tape for months to get her here.

Song In Cha, 20, stepped off the airplane at International Airport, and a beaming William H. Mahoney, 24, remembered his Korean manners enough to give her an Oriental bow.

Then he took a suitcase from the hand of the sloop-eyed brunette and told her he would carry it himself.

"That's the American custom," he said.

Mahoney said they would be married next week in his hometown of Riverside, Calif.

They met while he was in the Army in Korea. He tried to marry her before his discharge last year but was unsuccessful. He returned home and eventually was able to get nationwide attention when news media picked up the story.

The girl's passage was paid by a television show (CBS "Who in the World.")

Westinghouse Developing Fast Computer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corporation announced today it is developing a computer system that will operate 15 to 250 times faster than any conventional computer now on the market.

The system is called simultaneous operation linked ordinal modular network (Solomon).

Dr. D.L. Slotnick, project manager and originator of the Solomon, said the computer concept was developed to overcome the difficulty of obtaining increased speed which plagues conventional computers.

Westinghouse said Solomon has 1,024 processing elements which operate simultaneously to calculate, store, transmit and receive data from their four nearest neighbors. The computer has automatic component failure location, which will enable the operator to find and correct failures rapidly.

The computer could be used, the firm said, in solving problems involving differential equations in controlling traffic at airports and forecasting weather.

Red Try For Prosperity Has Been Miserable Failure

By RICHARD O'REGAN
VIENNA (AP)—In Communist East Europe, food shortages are everywhere. Yet in Western Europe you can buy Bulgarian eggs, Hungarian salami, Polish potatoes and Romanian fruit. Why are East Europeans kept short of food products while the goods are exported?

Diplomats blame the Soviet bloc's own common market organization, known as the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, or Comecon.

Set up in 1949 as a coordinating group, Comecon four years ago reorganized itself to try to build the East bloc into a powerful trading market.

It was to be directed by state planning rather than by the forces of private enterprise and was to try to surpass the West European Common Market.

But while West Europe is having a boom, Comecon, according to Western economists, has failed miserably. A meeting was held in Moscow recently to try to pull new life into it.

Comecon set out in 1958 to integrate the economies of Russia, Hungary, Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

Up to that time, each of the East European countries had tried to become a little Russia. Each had developed heavy industry, regardless of availability of raw materials. Each produced the same or similar goods. All attempted to become self-sufficient and suffered from the same shortages.

Comecon pushed the idea that each country specialize.

Poland was to expand its production of coal, sulphur and other raw materials. Romania was to concentrate on oil and petrochemical industries. Czechoslovakia was to build up medium industry, automobiles and transport. Hungary was to develop light industry.

Huge industrial projects—like a big steel complex on the Danube near Budapest—suddenly became idle or the plans were scrapped. Investment capital went down the drain.

Countries that had been making TV sets were told to make radios. "Rich" countries like Czechoslovakia were told to put up money for investments in "poor" countries like Bulgaria.

This process is still going on. The Moscow meeting in June emphasized that more effort would be made to pool scientific and technical research and create joint project and design centers.

But, say the Western economists, the system still isn't working.

Telstar Sends Data From Tiros

WASHINGTON (AP)—Weather information gathered from space by the Tiros satellite has been successfully sent to France through space via the telstar communications satellite, the Weather Bureau said Thursday.

The experimental first, accomplished Wednesday, had no immediate practical value, a spokesman said. But he emphasized the Weather Bureau's hopes for eventual use of communications satellites for speeding weather data.

Drizzle, Fog Blanket Wide Areas In State

By The Associated Press
Drizzling rain and fog blanketed a wide sector across the state Friday in the wake of torrential downpours that dumped up to 10 inches of rain and caused heavy flooding.

Except for far West Texas and some points along the lower coast, skies were partly cloudy to cloudy over the state. A band of thunder-showers 80 miles wide extended early Monday from the lower Pecos Valley northward to near Abilene and then eastward through Fort Worth and Dallas to the Sabine River.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 61 degrees at Texarkana to 81 at Galveston. Amarillo had a 63, Dalhart 64, Marfa 65, El Paso, Wink, Childress, Tyler and Longview 66, Wichita Falls 67, Abilene 68, Dallas 69, Mineral Wells and San Angelo 70, Waco 73, Austin and Junction 74, San Antonio 76, Houston and Beaumont 77, Corpus Christi 79, and Palacios and Brownsville 80.

The forecasts called for considerable cloudiness over the state Friday with widely scattered thundershowers in southern Texas and more numerous showers over North Central and Northeast Texas. The shower activity was to decrease over the northern portion of the state late Friday.

The rainy weather was a continuation of Wednesday and Thursday's heavy downpours that brought much needed moisture to farm and range lands but that flooded highways, railroads and residential sections in low areas of several towns and cities.

Nearly 10 inches of rain fell in Big Spring, closing streets and halting traffic on the Texas & Pacific Railway after two to three feet of water covered tracks in the railyards.

Callup Seen Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., says he thinks President Kennedy may call up Army reserves by the end of the year to deal with communism in Cuba.

"I don't have any inside information at all," Capehart told newsmen yesterday. "It's just a guess on my part. But I think he may do it."

For more than a year Capehart has been urging a Marine invasion of the Caribbean country. He reiterated the demand at a luncheon marking the beginning of his campaign for a fourth Senate term.

"I say we should put a blockade around Cuba and keep these Communist arms from coming in," Capehart said. "And if that doesn't work, we should invade it."

Business Panel, President Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The executive committee of the Business Council met with President Kennedy Thursday to exchange views on a variety of subjects. The council is headed by Roger

M. Blough, chairman of the board of the U.S. Steel Corp. Pierre Salinger, press secretary, said the ground covered included the balance of payments problems, economic growth, and overseas investment, particularly in Latin America.

Blough told newsmen it was a "good, constructive meeting," but declined to elaborate.

The Fall and Farewell affair was given in honor of departing members and the newcomers.

Herbert McPherson of Big Spring performed the double-ring ceremony before a background of palm leaves, centered with a basket of white chrysanthemums.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Nix, 405 Peach St., Big Spring.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street-length dress of white brocade, accented with a bow hat of white velveteen. Make Dried Bouquets In September Straw flowers, globe amaranths and other kinds of flowers that you may have grown for use in dried bouquets in winter should be watched closely now for they are reaching the best time for picking.

When they are just short of fully open, but already fully colored, it's time to cut their stems, strip off the leaves, and tie three or four stems together at their bottoms. Then the little bunches of stems are carried to a dark, airy place and hung heads downward from a line stretched from wall to wall.

Here they'll gradually lose their moisture while retaining their bright color. In about three weeks from time of hanging they should be dry enough so that they can be cut from the line and stored in closed cardboard boxes in a dark, dry place until it is time to use them next winter.

End Of An Empire

Bankruptcy Referee Sets Hearing On Estes Assets

EL PASO (AP)—A hearing to consider the offer by American Grain Corp. to purchase the assets of Billie Sol Estes has been set for Sept. 19 by Bankruptcy Referee J. C. Brooke.

Meanwhile, in Washington the Agriculture Department said whoever purchases Estes' grain storage facilities will have to meet all normal qualifications to get government grain and the fact the elevators had been owned by Estes probably would hurt his chances.

Estes, who parlayed fertilizer tanks, grain storage and cotton allotments into a multi-million dollar operation that ended in bankruptcy, is under federal indictments for fraud.

The petition to buy the Estes assets was filed Wednesday by the American Grain Corp., headed by Morris Jaffe of San Antonio, Tex., who is also president of Fed-Mart Stores.

The petition calls for a $5.8 million figure which with interest and other charges would return the receiver $8.7 million, the petition said.

The bankruptcy trustee, Harry T. Moore, said creditors of the Estes estate could receive about 25 cents on the dollar through such a deal.

Morris said that Commercial

Solvents Corp. of New York had agreed to assign its mortgage claims to the trustee and that the New York firm would get about $3.7 million.

Jaffe, reached in a New York hotel Thursday night, declined to comment on the offer. Earlier he had said that he would be the chairman of the American Grain board and principal stockholder and that Pat Kendrick of Burleson, Tex., would be president.

The Agriculture Department, in reply to questions, said orders had been issued by Aug. 31 to take 18,300,000 bushels of the 35-400,000 bushels of government grain from the Estes warehouses.

Witness Says Estes Got Favored Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP)—N. Battle Hales, a stormy figure in the Agriculture Department, testified today his superiors gave Billy Sol Estes "extremely favored treatment."

Hales, who has been employed by the department for 21 years, told the Senate investigations subcommittee in prepared testimony that department officials still are unwilling to take needed precautions against abuses.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy and Horace D. Godfrey, farm aid administrator, all have sworn that Estes never received favors from their agency. The Senate group is trying to determine whether influence in government circles helped Estes build his boom-to-bust empire on government cotton and grain programs.

Thursday Estes' lawyer, John Dennison, testified he had a long distance telephone chat with Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., the day after Estes was arrested.

He said he discussed the case with Rutherford—"it was the biggest news item in town"—but had not realized their conversation lasted 51 minutes.

"We had quite a lot to talk about," said Dennison.

Dennison told about the telephone conversation after Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., advised him that telephone record showed 16 long distance telephone calls between Dennison and Rutherford in a year.

The Peecos, Tex., promoter was arrested March 29 on federal fraud charges, accused of selling mortgages on non-existent fertilizer tanks. He is awaiting trial on this charge and a state charge of theft.

Hales repeated under oath today substantially the same allegations he voiced against superiors at a news conference May 4.

He said he was forced to appear at the news conference without being allowed time for adequate preparation in a "most blatant effort to discredit my testimony."

He said he was locked out of his office as an investigative official and barred from Estes case files last spring after he had advocated a crackdown.

The department ultimately did cancel cotton planting allotments Estes had gained through land deals, saying he got them illegally. The department levied more than $600,000 in civil penalties against him, $554,000 for the allotment transfers and $48,000 for over-planting in Alabama.

Hales — contradicting Freeman, Murphy, and other officials — charged this was done only because of the fear of a scandal following Estes' arrest.

"Until the Estes scandal broke in April, 1962, officials of the department had never intended to transmit this case to the attorney general for appropriate criminal action, nor had they intended to assess a penalty against Estes for illegal 1961 cotton production."

Nor, he said, would the cotton planting allotments have been canceled.

"The Estes case is merely a symptom of the defective department administration which permitted situations like the Estes case to flourish," Hales said.

Without giving details, Hales spoke of "crooked dealings of Billie Sol Estes under the farm program" dating back to 1953, but said the cotton allotment case marked the first time the agency had been able to "obtain sufficient evidence against him."

Hales alleged there was "inexcusable delay" in ordering a departmental investigation of Estes, and "appropriate action was stopped after the investigation was completed."

President Plans Visit To Houston Space Center

HOUSTON (AP) — Seven government officials were to meet with officials at the Manned Spacecraft Center and Rice University today to make tentative plans for President Kennedy's visit to Houston Tuesday.

The advance party arrived Thursday in the presidential plane.

Malcolm Kilduff, assistant press secretary, said the President's itinerary and the place where he will stay while in Houston will probably be decided this weekend.

Tentative plans are to have the president land at Houston International Airport between 7 and 8 p.m. Tuesday. He will spend the night in seclusion and visit the spacecraft center Wednesday morning, with the added possibility of a visit to Rice.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson will accompany the President in his plane along with Pierre Salinger, the President's press secretary; Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., who are chairmen respectively of the Senate and House space committees, and officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Department of Defense, Kilduff said.

Previous reports were that Congressman Albert Thomas, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, NASA Administrator James E. Webb, and Director of the Budget Bureau David E. Bell will also accompany the President.

The presidential party is stopping in Houston on an inspection of civilian and military bases at Cape Canaveral, Fla.; Huntsville, Ala.; and Saint Louis, Mo.

Houston Mayor Lewis Cutrer is urging a big turnout to welcome the President and his party to Houston.

"It is a great honor to have the President, vice president, Congressmen and other officials visit this area," Cutrer said.

"We want to show them our appreciation for paying us a visit and also for having chosen our city and community as the place for development of the manned spacecraft center."

The port commission, school, city, county, state and federal officials will be asked to urge their employees to turn out to welcome the president, the mayor said.

Mrs. Wheeler Dies

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP)—Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, 78, wife of Montana's former Democratic U.S. senator, died Wednesday after suffering a stroke. Her 80-year-old husband was with her when she became ill.

Closer Scrutiny For Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax-exempt foundations and similar organizations will be required to make public greater financial information about themselves.

And their tax returns will be given closer examination.

The stricter requirements, announced Thursday night by the Internal Revenue Service, are believed an outgrowth of persistent congressional inquiry into possible tax abuses in this field.

Revised tax forms for the organization may be available for use in reporting on 1962 activities. A manual instructing tax agents on techniques to be used in closer examination of exempt organizations' returns will be issued soon.

Preliminary Winners

Miss Mississippi, Charlotte Ann Carroll, left, was judged best in talent with a comedy song and dance, while Miss Illinois, Pamela Gilbert, took top honors in swim suit in the first preliminary contests for the Miss America 1963 crown. Fifty-four beauties are in competition at Atlantic City's convention hall.

Miss America Finals Near, Beauties Cautious

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The nation's beauty princesses were looking ahead today to the finals of the 1963 Miss America pageant with caution befitting a queen.

"I'm a little nervous," confessed Barbara Orr, Maine's representative, "because everything is going too smoothly."

"I think we all feel better after the opening rounds," said Miss Idaho, Irene Ammons. "The first night is the worst."

But, for the most part, questions concerning chances of wearing the coveted glamor crown were being skirted with smiles and discreet silence.

For one thing, the 54 contestants faced a more immediate objective—reaching the semifinals. A third round of preliminary judging is scheduled tonight.

Semifinal and final rounds will be held Saturday night to be followed by the crowning of the country's newest dream girl at 11:50 p.m.

Carole Jean Van Valin, 21, a blonde from Michigan with measurements of 35-23-35, captured the swim suit honors in Thursday night's second round. Patrice Lei Anderson, a lyric soprano from Hawaii, placed first in the talent division with a sparkling rendition of "Un Bel Di" from Puccini's "Madam Butterfly."

They joined Charlotte Ann Carroll of Mississippi and Pamela Gilbert of Illinois as winners of preliminary rounds.

Evening gown competition is also part of the preliminary judging but results in that category are not announced so as to heighten the suspense.

Ten contestants will reach the semifinal round. All preliminary points are then discarded and all semifinalists will start on an equal basis.

Webb Training Is Ranked High

The continued emphasis at Webb AFB on on-the-job-training has paid off. Reports from Air Training Command Headquarters this week indicate that the base has moved to the top bracket in the Command's OJT Chart.

In July's standings Webb's overall results placed the base within two points of the excellent rating of 85. ATC's average was 87; the high 92, and the low 62.

On the job training results since January of this year have shown consistent gains. In January, 27 per cent of the Webb airmen on OJT were listed as on a non-progression status. Currently only 6.7 per cent fall in this division.

The Hospital Group has led the base for the past five months turning in a score of excellent or better each of the five months of the year.

MOSCOW (AP)—Eighteen Soviet citizens have been arrested in Lithuania for wartime collaboration with the Nazi army. The newspaper Soviet Lithuania said 10 of the men are accused of being members of punitive squads which allegedly killed 50,000 persons in Lithuania and White Russia.

The remaining eight were said to have been members of squads which killed more than 20,000 in Lithuania.

Girls Survive 3 Days After Plane Crash

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—On a pineclad mountain slope two little girls, one with an agonizing leg fracture, kept a days-long vigil near the bodies of their parents killed in an air crash.

Leaning against a tree trunk was the wreckage of their light plane, its tail in the air, its nose crumpled against the ground.

Inside the plane's cabin, strapped in the seat, was the crushed body of the girls' mother.

Outside, a few feet away, lay another body—their father.

Through three bone-chilling nights and three sun-scoured days, without food, without water, the girls stayed by the wreckage waiting for one of the many search planes they saw overhead to spot them.

At mid-morning Thursday help came.

TOLD STORY

Thursday night, in a bed at St. Bernadine Hospital, 6-year-old Julie Clark told her story.

"The plane went down real fast," she began. "Mommy and Daddy didn't have a chance to say anything."

At Julie's side was her grandmother, Mrs. Scott King. Softly, with tears welling in her eyes, Mrs. King stroked Julie's blonde head, carefully avoiding the big black bruise near her eye.

Her tears were not so much for Julie as for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, who died on the mountain-side, and for Julie's 8-year-old sister Laurie. Julie was suffering only from bumps, bruises and exposure.

William Clark was vice-president of Travelodge Motels Inc. Both he and his wife, Jacqueline, daughter of the corporation's president, were 32 years of age.

Laurie, in another section of the hospital, was undergoing three hours of surgery to set a protruding bone in her left thigh.

"When the plane hit," Julie continued in the simple, direct way children have, "Daddy and Laurie and me was thrown out. Mommy stayed in the plane."

DIDN'T MOVE

Julie previously had said she knew her parents were dead because "they didn't move."

She said she helped Laurie sit up against a log.

"She was crying, because her leg hurt. But after a while she quit crying."

"Laurie said I should go over to the plane and try and find some water. I looked all over, because we always carried water, but I couldn't find any. I couldn't find any food either.

"Then Laurie told me to look for something for us to keep warm with. I went back to the plane and found a suitcase. Mommy and Daddy's clothes were in it. We put them on and huddled together to keep warm. We didn't get cold."

"Later Laurie said I should go up over the hill to get help. I got halfway up and got scared so I ran back. I didn't get scared again though."

Julie didn't know it but the youngsters were only 300 yards from a backwoods road above the wreckage. They could not see the road through the dense pines. Motorists on the road could not see them.

SAW PLANES

Julie told of watching search planes fly over the hill in which they crashed.

"But no one seemed to know we were there. When the helicopters came, Laurie said they would find us, because they could land anywhere."

It was a helicopter, carrying pilot Don Landels and the girls' grandfather, Scott King, president of Travelodge Motels Inc., that first spotted the wreckage among towering pines at the 7,900-foot level. Landels radioed ground parties, then, fearing for the emotional state of his passenger, flew King to nearby Big Bear Airport.

He arrived back at the crash scene as the ground party reached there.

Landels said Julie got up from her sister's side and asked for water.

Recalling this Thursday night, Julie said "they didn't have any water, but they gave me some coffee. They asked me if I was all right, and I said I was. Then they gave Laurie some coffee. They gave me some fruit, too. I think they were grapes. They tasted good. They put some salve on my lips and made them feel better."

NOT AFRAID

Praised for looking after her injured sister, Julie smiled and said: "We took care of each other. She took care of me, too, and told me what to do."

Were they afraid?

"Not so much. But we got awful hungry and thirsty."

Then Julie seemed to grow tired. Her grandmother patted her on the head and said, "You had better rest for a while, dear."

Demo Leader Fights Off Reform Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Charles A. Buckley, the Bronx Democratic leader, fought off a reform drive and won renomination today with the backing of President Kennedy.

Then the political veteran announced that his next term would be his last—that he would not campaign again. He indicated that he deferred retirement this time only to vindicate himself against reform charges of "bossism."

Final returns in the wee hours gave Buckley, 73, a margin of almost 3,000 votes over David H. Levy, 35, a lawyer, who was backed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the reform leaders, former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The unofficial count in the 23rd Congressional District was Buckley 20,156, Levy 17,218.

The hard-fought campaign ended with police impounding voting machines in the district on complaint of Levy and his backers that irregularities marked the balloting.

Reformers won in one congressional primary but lost in others in the city.

In a contest between two incumbents in Manhattan's realigned 20th Congressional District, Rep. William Fitts Ryan, a reformer, downed Rep. Herbert A. Zelenko, a regular, 26,298 to 18,459.

The 106 primary contests for legislative and congressional seats was one of the largest totals in the state's history.

Ogden R. Reid defeated incumbent Edwin B. Dooley for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 26th Congressional (Westchester) District.

In the Westchester fight, Reid had the backing of the county GOP organization against Dooley, whose winning margins have been declining. Reid is former U.S. ambassador to Israel and former president of the New York Herald Tribune.

State Sen. Janet Hill Gordon defeated Assemblyman Robert M. Quigley for the GOP nomination for Congress in the 35th District, which comprises eight upstate counties.

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller won renomination to the House of Representatives by a margin of nearly 3-1 over Donald C. Chapin of Lockport in the 40th Congressional District in western New York.

Buckley's announcement of his retirement plans was hailed as a victory by his defeated opponent. Levy said that "if we have not accomplished anything else, Charlie Buckley said he would not run again."

Buckley is expected to win a 15th term in Congress in the heavily Democratic district. His Republican opponent is John J. Parker.

Kennedy's support from Buckley stemmed from the Bronx leader's early endorsement of Kennedy for the presidential nomination in 1960 and the congressman's record of favorable votes for the President's program.

Buckley, seeking his 15th consecutive term in Congress, is chairman of the influential House Public Works Committee.

Buckley said he believed his contest was relatively close because he had been made the "target" of the whole primary campaign.

"I was considered a political boss instead of a political leader," he told newsmen.

He had commented during the campaign: "I am not against reform. I'm just against reformers."

Buckley declined to name his preference for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Faith to Rebuild

HOW THE ERECTION OF A TEMPLE REVEALS WHO IS ON GOD'S SIDE AND WHO IS AGAINST HIS WORK

Scripture—Haggai; Zechariah 4:6-10; 8:18-22; Ezra 3; 4:24; 5:8-11; 6:14-16.

By N. SPEER JONES

TODAY'S lesson is devoted entirely to the rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem. We have very little description of this edifice, compared to the first magnificent temple, built by Solomon.

We do know, however, that despite the years of work and frustration involved in its achievement, it could not compare in splendor to the first temple, a masterpiece of Phoenician artistry. Yet it had a spiritual splendor, one resulting from the chastisement of the exile and eventual devotion with which the temple was rebuilt.

Although we have no Old Testament book recording the history of the Jews in exile (Daniel and Ezekiel being prophetic books rather than histories), we have both history and prophecy during the return and rebuilding period. The histories are those of Ezra and Nehemiah; the prophecies are their time and energy and devotion away from the goal to which they had dedicated themselves.

At the same time, their enemies sought first to help them, then, being refused, sought to discourage them, hiring counselors against them "to frustrate their purpose," (Ezra 4:4-5). These two factors combined effectively to bring work on the temple to a standstill.

There it remained for almost 18 years, from soon after 538 B.C. until the second year in the reign of Darius of Persia (520 B.C.), when Haggai first made his appearance. In good times, his voice would probably have spoken in vain. Records show, however, that the Jews were at that time suffering from a drought; they were sufficiently demoralized to listen to what Haggai had to say. The great message in this part is the importance of our focus on the permanent, important things in life, rather than the every-those of Haggai and Zechariah. Our lesson includes excerpts from all except Nehemiah.

Of Haggai we know nothing. We know only that God commissioned him, the first of the post-exilic prophets, to rouse the people to complete their labors on the temple.

Zechariah then concentrated on completing the spiritual change in the people which accompanied their building. He was a member of one of the 12 priestly families which returned from Babylon.

The history of the rebuilding, briefly, was this: Cyrus of Persia, who became world ruler in 538 B.C., issued that same year a proclamation encouraging the Jews to return and rebuild the temple. They began with great zeal, commencing services at the restored altar and laying the foundation stones for the new building almost as soon as they arrived.

Then, as happens to all of us all too frequently, the press of daily living began to steal all day transient business.

The chief man to whom Haggai made his appeal were Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah, the man who had led the exiles back originally, and Joshua, the high priest.

Zechariah prophecies that the temple shall be finished under their jurisdiction (4:8-10), and that Jerusalem shall one day become the world's religious center (8:18-22).

Ezra records (5:8-11) a letter from the opponents of the Jews, asking Darius if it were true that they had been given permission by Cyrus to rebuild, as they said. Darius had the record searched out, and corroborated it, adding his own orders that no one should oppose them.

The passage from the sixth chapter of Ezra contains what is apparently a scribal, or copying, error. Artaxerxes did not rule until the following century, after the temple was completed. It was finally finished in the year 515 B.C.

POSITIVE DIVINE LAW

God has given positive divine and arbitrary laws to men on various occasions. These have tested man's loyalty to and faith in God, hence they have been good for man. We can see reason for moral laws such as honesty and purity; but when a man obeys God in a command which will not necessarily make man better morally speaking and which is designed to test his faith this calls for deeper respect and a higher order of obedience. Hence the positive law rises above the moral law in offering its respect and homage to Jehovah God!

Adam was told not to touch nor eat of the tree of Knowledge in the Garden of Eden. The first and best reason for Adam's obedience was what God said to do about it and not because Adam saw through it. He didn't see through it; it wasn't something of a moral nature this command rested on divine authority completely, so Adam disobeyed, hence came all the sorrow that death has brought from then on!! You say you don't believe in positive divine laws; Friend, it makes little difference what you or I think about it, look at death the terrible consequence of that one act on the part of Adam and Eve; one act of disobedience against only one command. There is no more human reason for Baptism or the Lord's Supper than for the command Adam disobeyed.

TAKING BIGGER PART Youth Organization Votes Itself Out Of Existence

By JULES LOH Associated Press Staff Writer

By whatever name—Luther League, Royal Ambassadors, Westminster Fellowship—the young people's group is a fixture as firmly established in most Protestant denominations as the board of trustees.

Such organizations provide teenagers with opportunity for wholesome entertainment, as their parents so often say, a chance to meet good Christian boys and girls. The groups also can be useful. The kids wash cars and mow lawns to help out with the church debt, or perhaps serve as baby sitters to help boost attendance at evening services.

Recently the youth organization of the United Church of Christ met and, while adult moderators nodded approvingly, voted itself out of existence.

According to the Rev. Henry Tani of Philadelphia, the denomination's youth work secretary, the young people felt they were being shunted into a neat little compartment with little relationship to the rest of the church.

Daring Experiment Called A Success

By The Associated Press

In a small chapel near Albany, N.Y., a few weeks ago a Catholic priest stood at a special altar which had been set up so he could celebrate Mass facing the congregation, just the reverse of the customary arrangement.

In the pews out front, following the Mass attentively, were two dozen clergymen—none of them Catholics.

Some sat in respectful silence; some knelt and, according to one of the ministers, seemed to be following the priest's suggestion that the ceremony be regarded as common worship. To help make it so, a Protestant minister read aloud the English translations of the Latin Mass prayers.

This was the opening exercise each morning in a three-day experiment which some would consider a daring venture in interfaith dialogue. A period of prayer and conversation conducted at the Glenmont Jesuit Retreat House for Protestant and Eastern Orthodox ministers.

All who took part agreed the experiment was a success. In fact, some similar endeavors are planned for the future, perhaps as often as four times a year.

"There was no one involved in the retreat," said the Rev. Dr. Carlyle Adams, Stated Clerk of the Presbytery of Albany, "who did not believe that God's grace was at work and that whatever hopes any of us had placed in it had been realized far beyond our most sanguine expectations."

Leader of the retreat was the Rev. Gustave Weigel, S. J., professor of ecclesiology at Woodstock College, Md., and a consultant to the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity.

The ministers who attended represented the American Baptist Convention, the United Church of Christ, the Protestant Episcopal Church, United Lutheran Church in America, Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, Methodist Church in the U.S.A., Reformed Church in America and the Greek and Syrian Orthodox Churches.

The idea originated last August when Dr. Adams discussed the possibility with The Rev. Philip B. Carroll, S. J., director of the retreat house.

Dr. Adams describes himself as "a very positive Protestant," but one whose friendship with Catholics dates back to his boyhood when an Xaverian Brother was his Boy Scout leader.

Orlie Responds Following Fine

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Three weeks ago San Francisco Manager Al Dark tagged slugger Orlando Cepeda with a $50 fine for failing to run out a grounder. Thursday night Cepeda walked to first base. And Dark smiled.

For Cepeda, on a hitting rampage since he was both fined and benched on Aug. 19, was walking with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, driving in the tie-breaking run that propelled second-place San Francisco to a 9-6 triumph over National League leading Los Angeles.

Cepeda's walk on a 3 and 2 count forced in Chuck Hiller with the run that snapped a 5-5 tie. Harvey Kuenn then followed with a three-run double off Ron Perranoski, clinching the victory that moved the Giants to within 1 1/2 games of the Dodgers.

The Dodger defeat also enabled idle third-place Cincinnati to climb to within 4 1/2 games of the top. In the only other games scheduled, St. Louis belted Milwaukee 7-1 and Houston edged Pittsburgh 4-3.

The Giants got to 23-game winner Don Drysdale for two runs in the first on Felipe Alou's run-scoring double and a run-producing single by Willie McCovey. They made it 4-0 in the third on Cepeda's bases-loaded single. The Dodgers struck back in the fourth, tying it on an error by Alou that enabled Jim Gilliam to score. Kuenn put the Giants back in front in the eighth, driving in Alou, but Tommy Davis' homer in the last half of the inning again tied it.

In the ninth, Chuck Hiller singled, pitcher Ron Perranoski committed an error on a sacrifice and Alou was intentionally walked. Perranoski bore down, getting Carl Boles to foul out and inducing Willie Mays to hit into a force play at the plate. Cepeda then came to the plate and worked the ace Dodger reliever for a walk. Kuenn followed with the clincher.

Perranoski (5-4) took the loss with Bob Bolin (7-2) the winner. Don Larsen and Stu Miller finished up for the Giants when the Dodgers rallied for a run in their half of the ninth.

Ernie Broglio (11-7) scattered nine hits while batterymate Gene Oliver supplied the punch for the Cardinals with a two-run homer and a run-scoring single in a five-run eighth inning uprising. Oliver's homer in the seventh came off Braves' rookie Denny Lemaster (1-4).

The Colts scored three runs in the ninth to beat the Pirates as rookie Dave Roberts drove in the tying and winning runs with a pinch-hit double—his first major league hit. Bob Aspromonte batted in the other Houston runs. Russ Kemmerer (3-2) won it with ElRoy Face (8-7) the loser.

Osuna Finds It Difficult To Concentrate On Play

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Rafael Osuna, a soft-spoken Southern California senior, is trying for all he's worth to concentrate on winning the National Tennis championship but his mind keeps wandering to Mexico City a month from now.

Then Osuna and his teammate, Antonio Palafox, will form the Mexican team that meets Sweden in the interzone Davis Cup semifinal. The winner will only have to beat India for the right to play Australia in the challenge round.

"It's pretty hard to compare conditions down here with those here," said Rafael. "Everyone talks about the high altitude there and they're right. I come from there, and I need at least three weeks practice to get in the swing. The foreign players can find it very hard. The ball really keeps flying when you hit it. If we ever had grass courts there, the ball would keep going forever."

Dragons Host Klondike Club

FLOWER GROVE—Coach J. W. Massengale will be able to start five regulars from last year's club when his Flower Grove Dragons host Klondike in an eight-man football game at 8 o'clock here Saturday night.

The two teams were to have played here tonight, but wet grounds caused officials to move the game back 24 hours.

Regulars for Flower Grove back from last year include James Howard, left end; Dennis Walker, right end; Lee Roman, center; Beaver Ramsey, quarterback; and Glenn Caughman, halfback.

Others who will start include Anthony Hanson, left guard; David Cave, right guard; and Frank Leman, fullback.

The Dragons have ruled as Regional six-man football champions the past two seasons.

More Than 1,000 Pounds Of Beef

The five boys pictured above, who will play for Stanton against Merkel in tonight's football opener in Merkel, weigh well over 1,000 pounds. The Bisons are becoming known as the Monsters of Martin County. Roger Boyce, 245, and Mike Sorley, 230, are at the bottom of the heap. Donnie Polson, 230, and Mike Hall, 210, are next. Then comes Dewey Anderson, who weighs a mere 190 pounds.

Stanton Buffs Visit Merkel This Evening

STANTON — Coach Harlin Dauphin testpops his Stanton Buffs tonight against the Merkel Badgers in Merkel. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

E. J. Self, heavily counted on as a linebacker in the Big Spring football camp, missed the first week of workouts due to an attack of appendicitis. Apparently he won't have to undergo an operation.

The 170-pound junior plays center on offense. The mammoth Bisons are being built up as co-favorites in District 7-AA, along with the Crane Golden Cranes.

Merkel is always a Class A power, and the Bisons may have lots of trouble in trying to stop Charles Russell, the Badgers' 180-pound senior quarterback who throws a nifty pass.

Stanton, of course, figures to slow the Badgers on the ground, and Dauphin is counting on quarterback Buddy Gasplie to mount a successful attack of his own.

Joe Williams is shaping up as the Buffs' best running back. Stanton will probably start a lineup composed of Billy Graham, 145, and Bob Stephenson, 175, at ends; Ben Mott, 185, and Mike Sorley, 230, at tackles; Ronnie Hays, 185, and Donnie Polson, 230, at guards; Mack Mathis, 185, center; Gasplie, 185, quarterback; Teddy Stewart, 165, and Joe Williams, 145, halfbacks; and Dewey Anderson, 190, fullback.

Merkel also boasts a big line, although not as massive as that of Stanton's. Keith Wilson, a 210-pound letterman guard, is one of the most respected boys in the Merkel line. Tackle David Scott, 185, is another respected party in the Merkel forward wall.

The two teams will be playing on a field made soggy by rain and that could favor Stanton. However, Dauphin would prefer to see his team in action on a dry turf.

Other Merkel threats include Roger Moore, 150-pound tailback, an all-district selection who scored 11 touchdowns for the Badgers last year; and Don Parmelee, 150-pound fullback.

Merkel is being picked to finish second in its own district (6-A) back of Rotan, and ahead of such teams as Jim Ned, Coahoma, Roscoe and Wylie. Rotan is the state favorite in Class A.

Merkel is coached by Carroll Benson. The badgers won three, lost six and tied one last year.

Benson built his club around eight returning lettermen. Other Merkel vets include Mack Mansfield, 170, end; David Loflin, 210, tackle; and Van Coche, 170, tackle.

Most promising newcomers on the Merkel club include Don Rich, 135, guard; Mike Doan, 165, guard; Frosty Winters, 165, center; C. B. Brown, 175, back; Jack Mansfield, 142, back; and Johnny Whisenand, 145, back.

Dan Winters Low In Amateur Play

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Dan Winters of Abilene led qualifiers for the National Amateur Golf Tournament here Thursday with 75-69-144.

His even par 36 holes over the Odessa Country Club Course whipped Ross Mitchell of Lubbock by a stroke. Mitchell had 72-73-145.

These two qualified for the National Amateur at Pinehurst, N.C., Sept. 17-22.

Only 17 of an original field of 26 showed up for the delayed qualifying. Rain had caused postponement Wednesday and the course was still very wet Thursday. The no. 7 fairway was under water and the players didn't even play it. They all were given par on the hole.

Two games are scheduled Sunday afternoon. Houston, the defending champion, is at Buffalo. The Bills were the last team to hand the Oilers a league loss, Oct. 8, 1961. They beat the Oilers 21-14 for their only defeat in the exhibition grind this year.

New York and Oakland, who won only one exhibition game between them (New York won none) tangled at Oakland.

The National League winds up its exhibition schedule this week-end. Cleveland and Chicago clash tonight in Chicago while Detroit is at St. Louis in another night game. Saturday afternoon, Philadelphia and New York meet in Princeton, N.J.

Sands Poised For Opener

ACKERLY — Shy of experience but full of hope, the Sands Mustangs open their 1962 football season at 8 o'clock this evening in Loraine.

M. B. Maxwell is the new Pony member, having replaced Joe Youngblood, who is no longer in coaching. Maxwell's assistant is Arien White.

Maxwell will field a line averaging only 145 pounds per man and a backfield averaging only 142.

On offense, the Mustangs, who finished with a 4-5-1 record last year, can start five lettermen in the line and three in the backfield.

Maxwell will probably start a team composed of Jimmy Schuelke, 145; and Tommy Fryar, 135, at ends; Alton Richter, 135, and Jackie Flinn, 170, at tackles; Ray Long, 135, and Bill Smith, 145, guards; John Merrick, 130, center; Gary Green, 140, at quarterback; Eddie Herm, 145, and Bobby Gaskins, 125, halfbacks; and Ronnie Gaskins, 158, at fullback.

On defense, Paul Davis, 185, will play at one tackle spot and Rob Ebell, 140, and Gary Gaskins, 140, will be at the guard spots. Davis is a letterman.

Ronnie Gaskins, Schuelke and Smith each have won two varsity letters while Richter, Long, Flinn, Herm and Bob Gaskins each have earned one numeral.

Forsan To Launch Season Tonight

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes head for Dawson where they open their eight-man football season in an 8 o'clock game this evening. Oscar Booker plans to take his entire squad of 18 players.

Elrod, Wash, Bardwell, Soles and King were regulars on last year's team.

Booker will be making his coaching debut in the game. He is being assisted by James Blake, who was head coach here last year.

Chargers Oppose Denver Tonight

San Diego's Chargers, who waded through the exhibition campaign unbeaten to find themselves American Football League favorites, get a chance to show why in their very first league game.

The Chargers and ambitious Denver open the race at Denver tonight. Denver, which has shown vast improvement over last season, won its last two exhibition games impressively. San Diego managed to beat the Broncos only 31-24 with passing man Frank Triuka sitting on the Denver bench in its last loss.

The San Diego-Denver fustle is the first of four league games to be played over a three-day period. Boston, perhaps the best club in the league at the finish last year, and Dallas, which has looked tough, though having its worst exhibition showing, get together in the Cotton Bowl Saturday night.

Two games are scheduled Sunday afternoon. Houston, the defending champion, is at Buffalo. The Bills were the last team to hand the Oilers a league loss, Oct. 8, 1961. They beat the Oilers 21-14 for their only defeat in the exhibition grind this year.

Gym Roof Falls At Klondike

KLONDIKE — The roof of the new gymnasium at Klondike school collapsed here early Thursday morning, probably as the result of heavy rains.

The gym, which cost $165,000, was 99 per cent completed and was due to be turned over to the school shortly.

The crash occurred around 2 a.m. No one was injured. Klondike is near the Patricia Gin, not far from the Stanton-Lamesa highway.

Be Misers, King Says

LUBBOCK (AP)—Coach J. T. King is trying to teach Texas Tech's Red Raiders to be stingy enough to move up a notch or so over the sixth place tie of their last two Southwest Conference campaigns.

Generosity characterized last year's team — no other team gave up yardage so freely. Relative importance of defense is shown by the fact that Tech actually had the third best offense in the conference.

King says the Raiders may be improved defensively. In the secondary where Tech was forced to rely on sophomores — who yielded huge chunks of yardage while learning defensive tactics—there'll be juniors and seniors.

Up front there'll be more muscle.

Unfortunately, the bigger line-men are sophomores who lack the experience for a schedule that opens with such yardage gobblers as West Texas State, starring Pistol Pete Pedro, and Texas. That's why the loss this summer of veteran linebacker Charlie Harrison to pro baseball could be especially damaging.

A tougher line can help the Raider offense as well. Although Tech last fall moved the ball easily, it bogged down near the goal line. Lack of beef kept the Raiders from showing the necessary punch down where gains have to be ground out the hard way.

To give the Raiders more striking force from the middle area, King has spread out his offensive patterns. Fans will see more split ends and widely flanked backs.

End David Parks should have more maneuvering room. The fleet Abilene junior blocks and tackles well enough to play if he never caught a pass, but his receiving ranks among the best in the conference.

Bill Workley, 160-pound junior from Midland, who has a knack of slipping through defenders, is finding more running room, too. A defense conscious of Worley and Parks should be loose enough to help the plunging of fullback Coolidge Hunt, Tech's rushing leader for two seasons.

Further aiding the Raider attack is the presence for the first time since 1955 of three letterman quarterbackbacks—senior Johnny Lovelace, total offense leader last fall, and Juniors Doug Cannon and Richard Mahan.

Bulldogs Play In Hermleigh

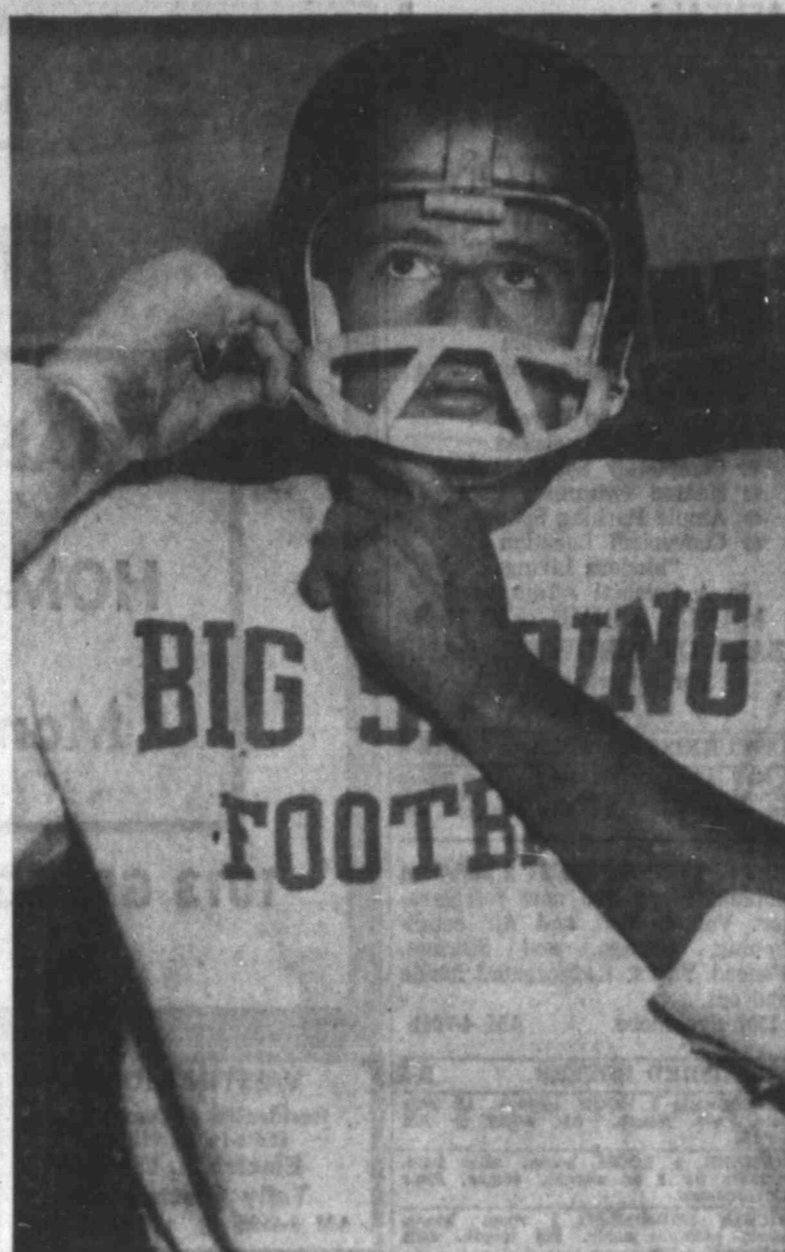

COAHOMA—The Coahoma Bulldogs hit the road tonight, visiting Hermleigh to play a football team that has always been tough to handle for the Bulldogs. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Bulldogs, rated no better than fourth in District 6-A, will be trying to improve upon a 1-9 won-lost record.

Coach Jimmy Spann will lean heavily upon 13 returning lettermen, plus some promising newcomers and transfers.

Tommy Grant will be at the controls for the Buffaloes and will hand the ball off to such veterans as Bill Turner and Travis Reid. Wayne Krause, up from junior high, figures big in Spann's plans, too.

Jimmy Mays and Butch Frasier will probably start at ends for Coahoma while Bobby Williams and Billy Stegald will be at tackles. Buddy Anderson and Yogi Cunningham at guards and Weldon Self at center.

Awaiting Workout

Eric Nichols, wingback of the Big Spring Steers, adjusts the chin strap of his helmet as he awaits a workout. Nichols was a standout on the B team last year. He weighs 176. The Steers go to Levelland Saturday for a 4:30 p.m. scrimmage with the Amarillo Sandies.

Roberts Rips Buc Hurling

HOUSTON (AP)—With two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, rookie Dave Roberts lowered the skull and crossbones at Colt Stadium Thursday night with his first major league hit.

He slashed a two-run pinch double that yanked the Houston Colts past the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, for an uphill sweep of the team's two final games against each other in 1962.

Last spring Roberts was struck in the face by a pitch thrown by a Houston farmhand. He lost all his teeth and for 24 hours his condition was listed critical.

He recovered to hit .322 at Oklahoma City and earn a promotion to the varsity. The Colts pulled him off a plane for Indianapolis Wednesday morning, and rerouted him to Houston.

The wiry first baseman-outfielder is 28, and until now he was considered at best a journeyman. But the Colts are ready to give him a hard look, at least after last night's clutch performance.

The Colts were behind 3-1 as they went to bat in the bottom of the ninth.

Johnny Temple dumped his third hit of the night into short center and it went for a double as Bill Virdon tried for a knee-high catch and could not hold it.

Norm Larker walked and Joey Amalfitano ran for him.

At that point Elroy Face replaced Tom Sturdivant and Jim Pendleton greeted him with a bunt single.

That gave the Colts a full house with none out and Bob Aspromonte—who singled in the Colts' first run in the fourth—scored Temple with a sacrifice fly to right.

The runners held tight when Hal Smith flled to short center.

Then Roberts stepped up batting for J. C. Hartman and laced Face's first pitch into left center.

Several seconds Roberts just stood there, awed by the commotion he caused driving in two runs to win. His hit extended the new Houston winning streak to three, and handed the victory to the Rev. Russ Kemmerer, who had pitched the ninth and retired the Pirates in order. Face was the loser.

Schedule Favors New York Yankees

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The schedule appears to favor us," says New York Yankee manager Ralph Houk.

A long look down the American League road home shows that Houk is not indulging in wild optimism. In fact, the Yankees could be excused for placing their annual order at the print shop for World Series tickets any day now, if they haven't already.

The Yankees have 20 games left, and 11 are with the Boston Red Sox (7) and the Washington Senators (4). The Yankees are 20-5 with those clubs this year.

The New Yorkers wound up their season play with the two top contenders Thursday, as they rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh to trim the Los Angeles Angels 6-5 in the only game scheduled in the league.

The victory opened a three game lead over the idle Minnesota Twins, and 4 1/2 over the Angels.

Leftfielder Tom Tresh singled home two runs with two out in the seventh to cap the Yankee rally, after Angel shortstop Joe Koppe committed a costly error to open the gates.

The victory gave the Yankees a 2-2 split in the hotly-fought series with the Angels.

The Angels battled back from behind to win two of the games and appeared to be riding the same formula to victory Thursday, when they broke a 2-2 tie with three runs in the top of the seventh.

Player Says He Needs Jackpot

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Gary Player, the dapper PGA champion from South Africa, figures he has to win the $50,000 top prize in this weekend's world series of golf just to break even.

Player meets British Open and Masters champion Arnold Palmer and National Open king Jack Nicklaus in the NBC-TV color telecast show Saturday and Sunday. It's a 36-hole test over Firestone Country Club's 7,165-yard, par 70 course, one of the most respected par plants in the land.

The amiable and articulate South African, who stands 5-7 and weighs 150, says he needs more than the $15,000 second prize or the $10,000 which goes to the third placer in this battle of champions.

"Two weeks ago at St. Paul I won $1,850 with a 273 score and my expenses were $1,900," Player said. "I travel with a party of seven — myself, my wife, three children, a nurse and my mother-in-law."

"When I check into a hotel I just tell them I'll take the entire lower floor. It gets expensive moving around the way we do."

Player shouldn't be hurting too much, however, for as a golf tourist he won $64,000 to lead the professionals in 1961 and has gotten $44,000 this year.

ON THE SHELF

THE THIRTY-FIRST OF JUNE. By J. B. Priestley. Doubleday, $3.50.

Anyone with the slightest taste for wry, dry, wacky British humor (and there are many of us) will find this small book a delightful source of the galloping giggles.

It isn't typical Priestley, who in his last two novels went in for mysticism and cloak-and-dagger. This is a change of pace, more like sock-and-buskin. Here is the run-down, old chap—

In the little bush league kingdom of Peradore (subsidiary to Camelot) Princess Melicent—a luscious blonde—has acquired a magic mirror from a local magician, Malgrim. It has the power of showing the image of anyone who is thinking about the viewer.

And who is thinking about a medieval princess? Sam Penly, an artist with a London advertising agency (Madison Avenue type), A. D. 1961. He has to illustrate a campaign for Damocel hosiery, and draws a real damocel. Naturally it is Melicent. Peering into the mirror, she falls in love with Sam. Forsooth, it happens that Malgrim and his uncle Marlagram, another enchanter, are trying to outdo each other in sorcery. So the first thing you know, people of the Arthurian age and of the advertising world of "Miss Nutty Cake Mix of 1961" are flitting back and forth from the realm of crumple-winchies to the world of knights and fiery, curly tailed dragons. Enchanterwise, that is.

It's funnier than Twain's "Connecticut Yankee."

Someone will have to make a hilarious movie of this book, and only our British cousins can give it the right touch. Meanwhile, peek into these pages for a jolly preview.

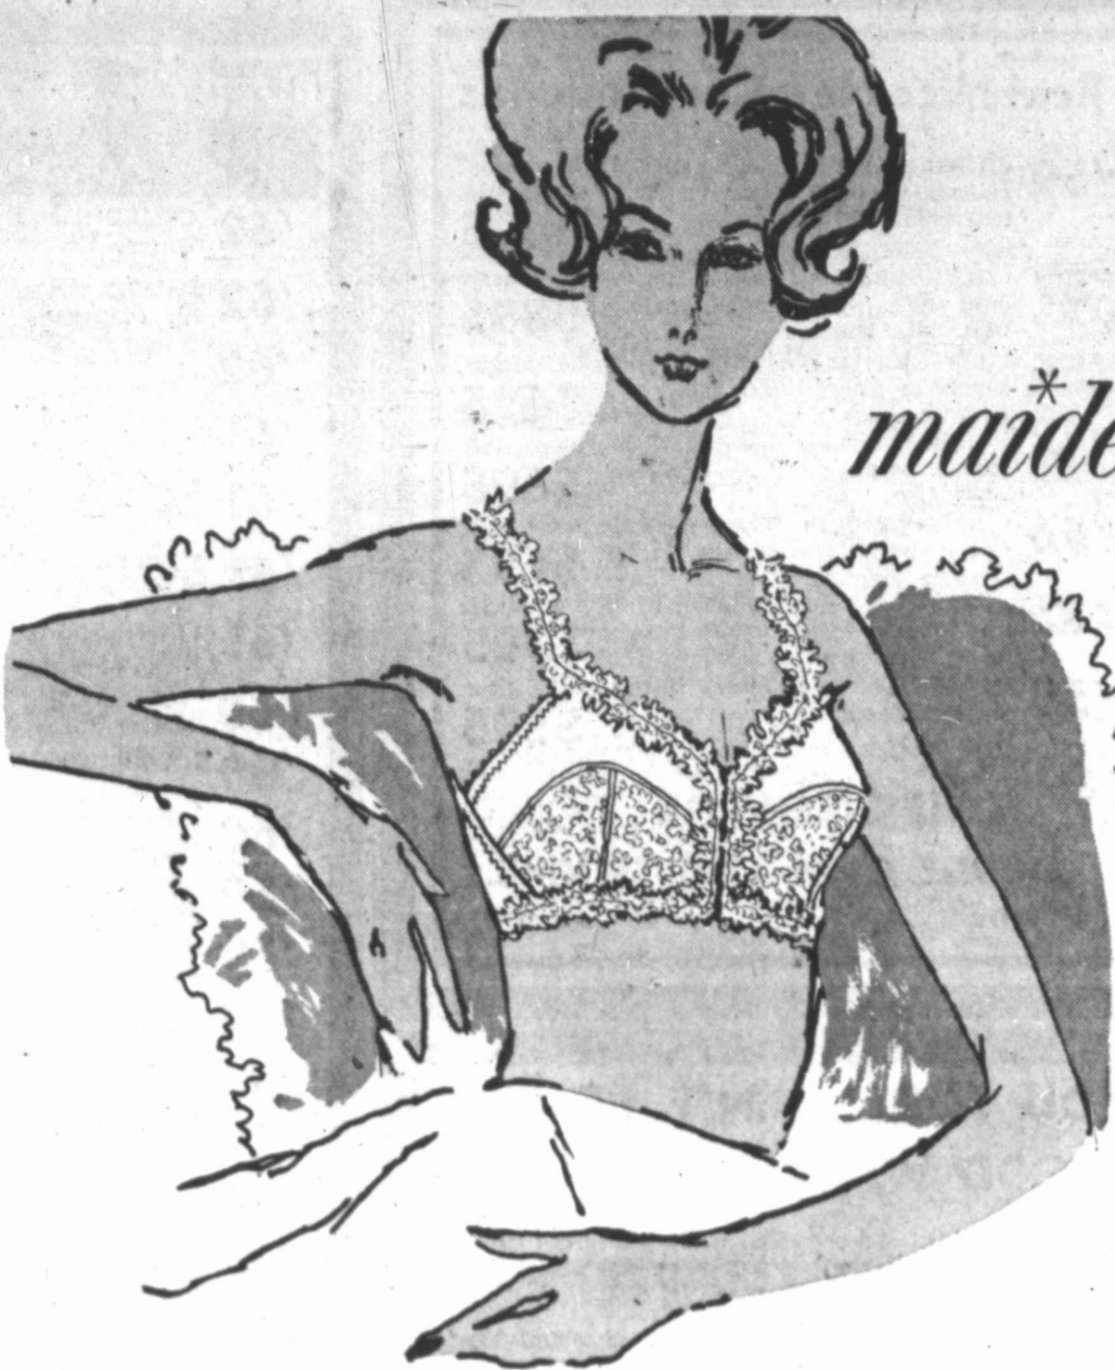

—Miles A. Smith

Getting Ahead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Some women are so eager to enroll their children in the University of Miami's experimental grammar school they rush to the registrar's office as soon as they learn they are pregnant.

A secretary at the school said 20 per cent of the approximately 400 children on the waiting list for kindergarten haven't even been born.

Student teachers use the school to practice education theories they learn in class.

PARIS (AP)—French police have arrested five persons and are seeking six more in connection with the attempt to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle Aug. 22, informed sources said today.

Cadillac Smith Wins Nomination

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—William T. (Cadillac) Smith, an avowed conservative, has won the Republican nomination for State Senate in the 49th District, defeating the incumbent, Harold A. Jerry, in Thursday's primary.

Smith, a Big Flats farmer, won headlines last year by boasting that he bought a Cadillac with government subsidies he received for not growing crops.

Sir Winnie Walks Again

LONDON (AP)—Amazing Sir Winston Churchill said goodbye today to walking aids, put on an American hat and sat in the sun. Said a spokesman at his London home: "He's getting better and better every day. He's walking about the house and is having quite a number of visitors."

Sir Winston—who will be 88 in November—fractured his hip on June 28. On Aug. 21 he left a London hospital after making a spectacular recovery.

Doctors sent him a pair of parallel bars and urged him to use them in getting back full use of his legs. Now the bars have been returned.

And, taking advantage of a spell of sunshine, he toddled out into the garden of his home near London's Hyde Park, and plopped down in a chair, a cigar clamped between his teeth. On his head was a huge American hat, a western-style Stetson, given him during one of his many visits to the United States.

Play Opens Run At HCJC Tonight At 8:15

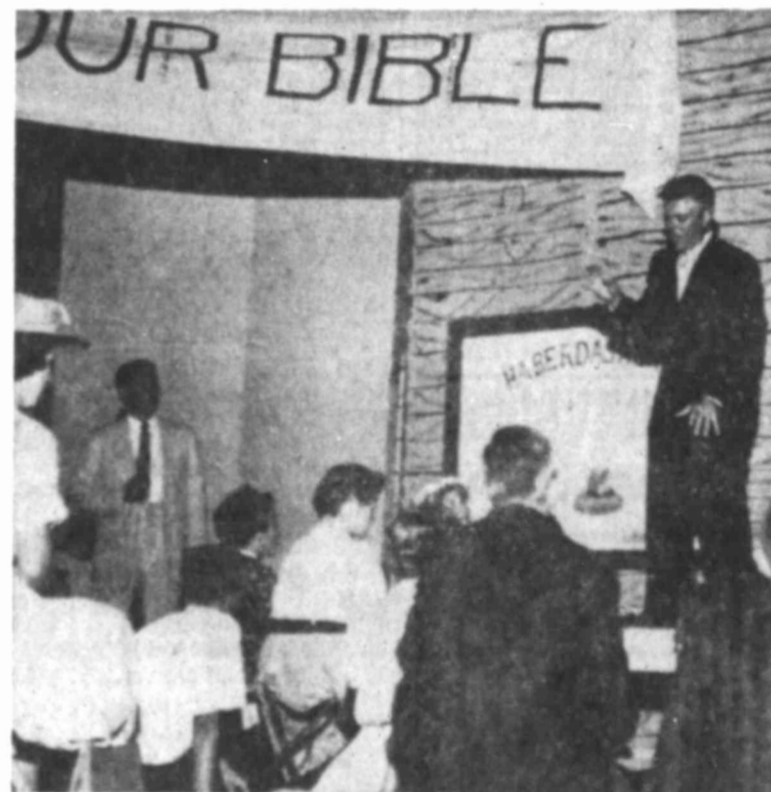

"Inherit the Wind" will go stage for its first performance at 8:15 p.m. today in the Howard County Junior College auditorium. Tickets, at $1 for adults and 50 cents for youngsters, are available at the door. A second performance is set Saturday.

Others in the case are Art Clonts, Ray Hoover, John Holdun, Lida Fiveash, Beth Rattie, Thom-
