Registering For Fall Meeting

Mrs. E. F. Nelson, right, a volunteer from Midland, went over the program with Dr. M. J. Otero, Austin, after he registered at the Settles Hotel Tuesday afternoon for the fall meeting of the State Volunteer Services Council. The Big Spring State Hospital is the host this year. Others, left to right, are Mrs. E. M. Braselton, Midland, and Dr. C. J. Rullmann, Austin, director of Mental Health and Hospitals.

'Howdy' Party Gets State Volunteer Meet Started

This year's fall meeting of the State Volunteer Services Council got off to a good start Tuesday evening. Some 150 volunteers and officials from all parts of Texas took part in a "Howdy Parder" party and buffet at Cosden Country Club.

Registration at the Settles Hotel Tuesday afternoon preceded the welcome party.

The three-day meeting and workshop continues today and Thursday at the Big Spring State Hospital. This is the first time for the local hospital to be host for the session.

"We have looked forward to this day ever since spring. Only now that the meeting is under way has our excitement let up a bit," Dr. Preston E. Harrison, superintendent of the hospital, told the group of about 175 congregated on Ward 10-A this morning.

He and other community leaders welcomed the visitors. Haskell Fine, Kerrville, chairman of the council, opened the meeting and D. M. McKinney introduced local officials.

Taking part in the welcome were Carroll Davidson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; R. W. Whipkey, publisher of the Herald and chairman of the legislative committee of the local Volunteer Council; and R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Petroleum Corp. Unable to attend were Mayor George Zachariah and County Judge Ed Carpenter.

After the quick welcome, speakers went directly into their discussions of volunteer work.

"Volunteers inject new ideas and new personalities into the relationship with patients," Dr. C. J. Rullmann, Austin, director of Mental Health and Hospitals, said. "They do things for people who need the things done and they are people to the patients."

FRESH IDEA

He pointed out the value of a fresh idea, a new personality injected into the life of a patient. Volunteer movements in Texas in the past have come up with new ideas and the ideas have generally been followed with action.

Tuberculosis hospitals, special schools and mental hospitals have all taken great strides forward in the treatment of illness and the volunteer has played an important role in that progress.

"Larger physical plants provide the background for more diverse earlier discharge of patients," he said. "Likewise, we can look for a rapidly accelerated growth of volunteer needs."

"What we really need from each other is recognition, love and response," Louis E. DeMott Jr., Austin, supervisor of Casework and Rehabilitation Services of the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, said. "This is what we need in working with patients."

And that need is fulfilled by the many volunteers in Texas, he stressed. For the volunteer the work he or she does may not seem important, but to the patient it is very important.

Dr. Harrison reported on the effect of the El Paso psychiatric unit has had on the local patient load. Using facilities in El Paso for treatment of patients in that area was approved in February, 1962.

"Then we had 960 patients, with a capacity of 900, at the hospital," he said. "Since then the admissions dropped from about eight or 10 a week to some three or four a week from El Paso. This has decreased our population here to less than 900 patients."

Another benefit of the unit is that the patients are being treated in their home city, where before they had to come 340 miles to receive treatment.

More reports were scheduled this afternoon along with a skit prepared by volunteers. Dinner is scheduled tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Cosden Country Club. The meeting will end Thursday shortly before noon after a business meeting at 10:45 a.m.

Ranch Hands At Coffee Table

Attendees on wards at the Big Spring State Hospital, decked out in western regalia, helped with refreshments at this morning's welcome meeting on Ward 10-A. Left to right are Mrs. J. W. Parmley, Mrs. A. L. Harkrider, Mrs. N. M. Newton and Mrs. H. B. Hatch.

Gay Hill, Center Point School Districts File For A New Trial

Gay Hill and Center Point Common School districts have filed a formal motion for a new trial in the case dealing with their annexation to the Big Spring Independent School District.

The motion was filed in 118th District Court late Tuesday afternoon, well inside the deadline of 10 days from the date that Judge Ralph Caton signed his judgment in favor of the defendants in the case. The defendants are the Howard County school board and the Big Spring Independent School District.

Judge Caton has made no announcement of when he may rule on the new trial motion.

MOTION
The motion, as filed by Bill Kerr, Midland, one of the common school district's battery of attorneys, is styled "Center Point and Gay Hill Common School Districts vs. Walker Bailey, Howard County school superintendent." This is a new designation since all previous papers in the case have been styled Ralph Neill et al vs. Jack Cook et al. Neill was a trustee for one of the common schools and Cook, at that time, chairman of the Howard County school board.

Kerr said there was no significance in the new styling. He said he had no intention of making any major issue by the style he followed. He said as long as the case number remains the same (which is the situation) the styling is of no importance.

The motion for a new trial says that Judge Caton erred in handing down a judgment for the plaintiffs and cites a number of matters in which it is stated the court was wrong.

The plaintiff school districts argue that the court's judgment, based on the verdict returned by the jury, was improper since in the plaintiff's view there was no real verdict. The motion argues that the jury was deadlocked and unable to answer two of the questions laid before it.

PARAMOUNT
These two questions, the motion insists, were of paramount importance in determining the issue of whether annexation of the two districts was a proper and justified action.

The questions which the jurors failed to answer, the motion relates, were whether the annexation was beneficial to the patrons of Gay Hill and of Center Point and to the pupils in the schools. The jury informed the court it could not agree on an answer to these issues.

These questions the plaintiff asserts, were "controlling issues" in the lawsuit.

Other objections to the judgment dealt with the answers the jury gave to a query as to whether, after annexation of Center Point district, such action created a district for Big Spring of 100 square miles in area or more. The same query was propounded relative to Gay Hill.

In both instances, the motion says, the jury said no such 100 square mile district was set up. This, the petition relates, is wrong. Big Spring district now encompasses nearly 100 square miles and the Center Point district has 40 square miles. Gay Hill has 96 square miles—therefore, annexation of either or both districts would have pushed Big Spring in excess of 100 square miles in area, the petition states.

'CAPRICIOUS'
The petition also contends that despite the finding of the jury, the action of the county board in summarily annexing the two districts in May 1959 was "arbitrary and capricious."

Court house observers point out that in the event Judge Caton overrules the new trial motion, a notice of appeal will follow. Filing the motion for a new trial is a required first step in clearing the way to take the case to the court of civil appeals.

Senate Approves JFK's Trade Bill

President Gains Smashing Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed today President Kennedy's trade expansion bill—the most revolutionary measure in this field since the 1934 reciprocal trade agreements law.

The roll call vote was 78 to 8.

The strong vote for the bill gave the President a smashing victory on the legislation which he had placed at the top of his list in the 87th Congress.

Administration forces, after a shaky start, beat down every significant amendment.

The measure now goes to conference with the House which passed it June 28. It has agreed to practically all the minor changes made in the Senate.

Kennedy offered the bill as a measure to open big new markets to U.S. industry and provide hundreds of thousands of additional jobs, to enable this country to work out effective economic arrangements with the European Common Market, and to increase its export surplus and end the serious balance of payments deficit.

The provisions aimed at broad new trade arrangements with the Common Market are regarded by the administration as the heart of the bill.

This West European area, with its rapidly rising standard of living, is envisioned as a vast new field for sales of American consumer goods.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana put off passage until afternoon because of the late hour and because several members said they wanted to speak before the final roll call.

Tuesday's votes—preserving all the sweeping tariff-cutting and trade adjustment powers Kennedy requested—apparently assured the President of one of the biggest triumphs of the 87th Congress.

In proposing his trade program as "a bold new instrument of American trade policy," Kennedy said: "Our decision could well affect the unity of the West, the course of the cold war and the growth of our nation for a generation or more to come."

After accomplishing nothing in the first day of debate Monday, the Senate got down to business so earnestly Tuesday that it was able to act on 19 amendments. But it took the longest session of the year to do it, running 14 hours and 20 minutes.

Reds Protest Flight Over East Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians protested today against a U.S. Army helicopter flight over East Berlin, a U.S. Army spokesman said.

The protest was made by the Soviet officer in the Berlin Air Safety Center.

"One of our helicopters made a routine flight in the Berlin control area which took it over parts of East and West Berlin," the spokesman said. "There is nothing unusual about such a flight," he added.

There was some trouble on the ground also between the U.S. Army and the Russians over passages of an Army convoy to Berlin.

The convoy reached Berlin over three hours late.

A mysterious explosion along the Communist wall in Berlin Tuesday night drew a unit of Soviet soldiers to investigate. The explosion shook the area near the Brandenburg Gate.

The soldiers soon withdrew and West police could not see whether they found anything.

East German guards usually investigate such blasts. This was the third recent explosion near the Brandenburg Gate.

A company of Soviet tanks faced American tanks at Checkpoint Charlie on one occasion last fall. Otherwise, Soviet troops have been seen along the wall only in twos or threes.

West Berlin police heard several other explosions during the night and saw fire briefly light up the area across the border from the northern suburb of Frohnau.

Soviet statements on Berlin and West Germany drew prompt replies from Washington and Bonn.

Washington challenged a Moscow declaration that the Soviet Union, which withdrew its military commandant from Berlin last month, will not renew relations with the three Allied military commanders in the divided city.

The U.S. State Department repeated that Berlin continues to be the joint responsibility of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union. It said the air safety center and the Spandau prison still are operated on a four-power basis.

Fogger After Mosquitoes

Mosquitoes in Big Spring are getting it right and left this week, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said Wednesday.

"We are running our fogging machine 16 hours each day, in two shifts," he said. "The first start was made on the west side and we will go from west to east, between Eleventh Place and the railroads then in the same direction south of Eleventh and on to the North Side."

"Those mosquitoes moved in following the floods and we're trying to move them out," he said.

Dunn said the city's street sweeper is operating about 18 hours a day in an effort to get the dirt and trash moved off the streets.

The city's new street patch roller arrived last Friday and is now being used in patching street cuts, Dunn said. The first job was at State and Eleventh Place where an overlay was made.

"We find that patching is faster and better now because of the roller," he said.

Texas Papers Gain Readers

HOUSTON—Texas daily newspapers have reached an all-time high in total daily circulation of 2,870,989—more than the total number of households in the entire state—the Texas Daily Newspaper Association has announced.

"Texans are subscribing to daily newspapers at a rate that will pass the three million mark early in 1963," John H. Murphy, executive director of TDNA, said.

"Daily newspaper circulation now surpasses the total number of TV homes in Texas by more than half a million."

Nationwide, Texas dailies rank sixth in total circulation and third in number of daily newspapers with 117, behind California with 130 and Pennsylvania with 120.

Hotel Room Bugging Leads To Indictment

WASHINGTON (AP)—A grand jury investigating the alleged bugging of a lawyer's hotel room in April indicted a retired detective Tuesday on a charge of perjury.

The indictment charges John Jones, 50, of Arlington, Va., was involved in an alleged attempt to get another witness to lie.

The indictment, by a District of Columbia grand jury, also mentions Joseph Shimon, a retired inspector of Washington police, and Wayne Barber, a private detective. No charges were brought against either.

The grand jury is expected to meet again within a week.

The investigation stems from an allegation made in April by Malcolm Dungan, lawyer for El Paso Natural Gas Co., that a tiny electronic listening device had been placed in his Mayflower Hotel room in order to transmit conversations to a group in another part of the hotel.

El Paso Gas is seeking authority to pipe gas to California.

The indictment alleges Jones perjured himself before the grand jury in July, denying any knowledge of an alleged scheme to get Barber to lie. The indictment said an attempt had been made to have Barber claim to the jury that the transmitter found in Dungan's room was not the one Barber allegedly provided.

Shimon, the indictment said, gave Jones the transmitter.

Market Prices Slightly Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices were slightly lower as trading dragged late this afternoon.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3.1 million shares compared with 3.69 million Tuesday. Losses of most key stocks were fractional. A number showed little or no change.

The list was once more at a watch-and-wait juncture. Profit taking continued routinely in some of the "growth" issues and other stocks which have rallied recently.

The trend was moderately lower for steels, motors, oils, electrical equipments and rubbers.

Red China Claims Severe Drought

TOKYO (AP)—Red China said today the Peiping area is suffering its longest dry spell in 40 years.

Radio Peiping said rain has been scanty since July in the region of the Chinese Communist capital. During August, it said, only 1.16 inches of rain fell, less than one-fifth of the average of recent years.

Building Gets Big Spring's First Historical Medallion

The first permanent building in Big Spring has been awarded a Texas Historical Building Medallion, according to John Ben Shepherd, member of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee. This is the first Building Medallion to be presented in Howard County.

Heneage Finch, Earl of Aylesford, built the structure of native limestone in 1882 to house a meat market for Van Pausen, his private butcher. This English nobleman had left his country in semi-disgrace, heavily in debt, and settled in Big Spring as a site for establishing an estate which he could pass on to his daughters.

Since he had no son, his earldom and other holdings were due to pass to his brother. He also bought a hotel and several sections of land around Big Spring in the 1880's.

The medallion is an award of merit for structures of cultural and historical significance to the area. It serves to remind the community and inform the tourist of the unique culture and history of Texas.

The Medallion was sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. Research was done by the newly formed Howard County Historical Survey Committee of which Joe Pickle is chairman; and Ed Fisher and Mrs. Hubert Stipp, members.

The building is occupied today by the City Barbershop, owned by Bart Wilkinson. The owner of the building is Mrs. W. P. (Lillian Tamsitt) Dugan of Fort Worth. Both of them have concurred in submission of the application.

Until two years ago, the building bore its original front. Now some of the native stone may be seen in the front portion of the building. The barber shop probably has a longer continuity of operation than any other downtown business. Ceremonies will be arranged when the medallion arrives.

Paths Of Former Webb COs Cross

The paths of two former Webb AFB commanders crossed here this morning as they spent the day renewing acquaintances with Big Spring residents. They are Brig. Gen. Kyle L. Riddle and Brig. Gen. Charles M. Young.

The former base commanders were to be guests of Lee Hanson this afternoon for a dove shoot on his farm near Knott. Many residents turned out to greet the men at Webb this morning.

The current weapons meet at Nellis AFB, Nevada, is responsible for the chance meeting here of the generals.

Gen. Riddle attended the meet

Tuesday and is on his way back to Ramstein, Germany, where he is deputy commander of the 17th Air Force.

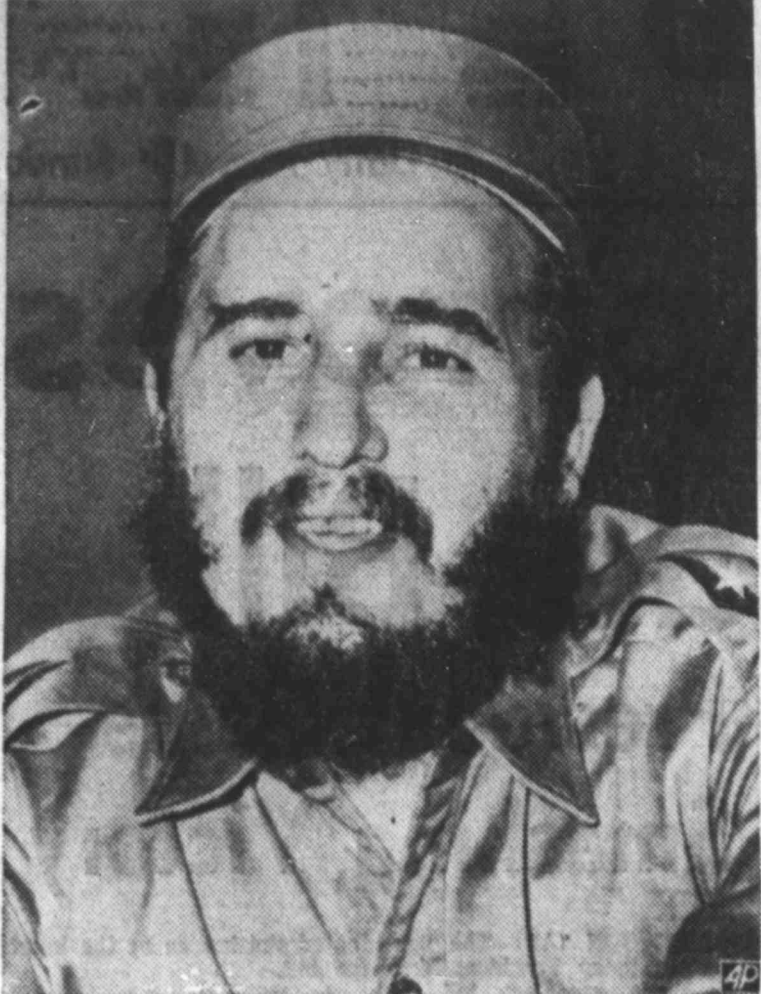

Gen. Young will attend the meet Thursday, then return to his post as commander of the 8th Air Reserve Region, Selfridge AFB, Mich.

Gen. Young was Webb commander from 1955-57 and Gen. Riddle followed in the post, 1957-59. Both have been promoted since serving here in the rank of colonels.

The visitors are due to leave Webb early Thursday morning.

Congress Working Up Cuban Policy

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Congressional leaders of both parties today on a resolution declaring the United States will use troops if it must resist Communist aggression in this hemisphere.

Three committees meet to polish the language of the resolution and have it ready for passage Thursday by the Senate and House.

Aim of the declaration is to express a common Cuban policy that both Congress and President Kennedy can accept.

It will also, congressional leaders believe, carry a warning to Moscow and Havana that the nation is behind the President in any action he feels must be taken in reply to the Communist military buildup in Cuba.

In its present form, the resolution pretty much echoes Kennedy's press conference statement on Cuba last Thursday.

To get the resolution into final form, the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee scheduled a joint meeting. On the other side of the Capitol, the House Foreign Affairs Committee will get together.

The committees will consider a working draft of a joint resolution asserting the United States is determined to prevent "by whatever means may be necessary, including the use of arms, the Marxist-Leninist regime in Cuba from extending its aggression to any part of this hemisphere by force or the threat of force."

Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, John Sparkman, D-Ala., acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Leverett

Nixon Wants Quarantine For Communists In Cuba

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Castro Communist Soviet regime in Cuba must be quarantined," says former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

He likened it at a news conference Tuesday to a cancer threatening to spread through the Western Hemisphere.

"I, speaking as a leader of my party, pledge my unqualified support to whatever action President Kennedy decides is necessary," Nixon said.

Nixon said he would support a naval blockade of Cuba if Kennedy decided one is necessary.

Nixon, campaigning as the Republican gubernatorial nominee, said there is a risk of war in taking action to halt the flow of Soviet men and machines to Cuba.

But, he said, the "risks of inaction are far greater—we can't wait for the dust to settle in Cuba."

"I believe the time has come for stronger action in Cuba," Nixon said.

"There are 5,000 Soviet troops in Cuba. Whether they wear civilian clothes or sports shirts or

Church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1283

My brethren and I offer our services to those who need help; especially to those who need spiritual help, which is the most important of all. We publish these articles, offer to mail out free gospel tracts, and to study with people privately; all with one object in mind — to help people come to a knowledge of the truth.

Also, we offer to assist anyone in his obedience to the gospel (II Thess. 1:8). You need to hear the Word, for "... faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" (Rom. 10:17). Upon hearing the Word, you can believe and repent without further help from man; but you are told to confess Christ before men (Matt.

10:32), and we volunteer to be the audience while you confess Christ.

You are also commanded to be baptized for remission of sins (Acts 2:38), and we offer to baptize you the Bible way, for the Bible purpose, and without your joining any denomination. That is the only way we will baptize anyone; and we offer to baptize you that way, regardless of who you are, and without cost to you. You are invited to contact us.

We also invite you to all our services. Next preaching service is tonight at 7:30. —Adv.

British To Continue Common Market Bid

LONDON (AP)—Commonwealth leaders today gave Prime Minister Harold Macmillan a carefully-hedged go-ahead to continue his efforts to lead Britain into the European Common Market.

But the Commonwealth statesmen took the action on the firm understanding that Britain will take account of Commonwealth fears and seek a better deal for Britain's Commonwealth partners when negotiations with the six Common Market countries are resumed in two weeks.

A communique, issued after an unhappy 10-days of wrangling, catalogued various reservations expressed by the Commonwealth leaders.

The communique said the Commonwealth prime ministers trusted that a closer association between Britain and Europe "would not be allowed, as it developed, to weaken the cohesion of the Commonwealth or its influence for peace and progress in the world."

The lengthy document was issued at the end of summit talks between 16 countries of Britain's worldwide alliance.

It was preceded by a marathon dispute over Britain's proposal to link up with Europe. Almost every one of Britain's partners expressed fears and anxieties that the project would hurt their old-time trading arrangements and political unity.

The communique explained that various Commonwealth leaders had expressed "the economic points of special concern to their respective countries and the extent to which their interests had not so far been met" in the Common Market negotiations.

A key passage of the communique said:

"The prime ministers expressed the readiness of their governments to join in comprehensive international efforts by all available means to expand world trade both in primary products and manufactures.

"They recognized the important contribution which the European Economic Community and other regional groups could make in such efforts.

"They hoped that the general objectives set out above would be shared by the members of the community."

The declaration said British ministers will "support a fresh and vigorous approach to the negotiation of international commodity agreements."

This met demands voiced by Canada, New Zealand and Australia and other countries.

The three old "white" Commonwealth countries are all big producers of what officials describe as temperate foodstuffs—cereals and meat. All fear their economies would be gravely injured if they were suddenly denied the tariff-free arrangements to sell in Britain—arrangements that would have to end if Britain joins Europe on terms so far gained in negotiations with the Common Market six — France, West Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The 2,000-word communique seemed likely to be interpreted in different ways by different countries. For Macmillan it represented an interim endorsement of policies which he is determined to carry out.

He still faces likely opposition from uneasy Conservative party followers at a conference next month.

After that he must hold his followers in line in Parliament where resistance is building up against the terms he so far has negotiated.

The communique made clear the Commonwealth leaders themselves want the chance to express their judgment when the Brussels, Belgium, negotiations are complete.

Macmillan told reporters "I am very pleased. Everything is fine."

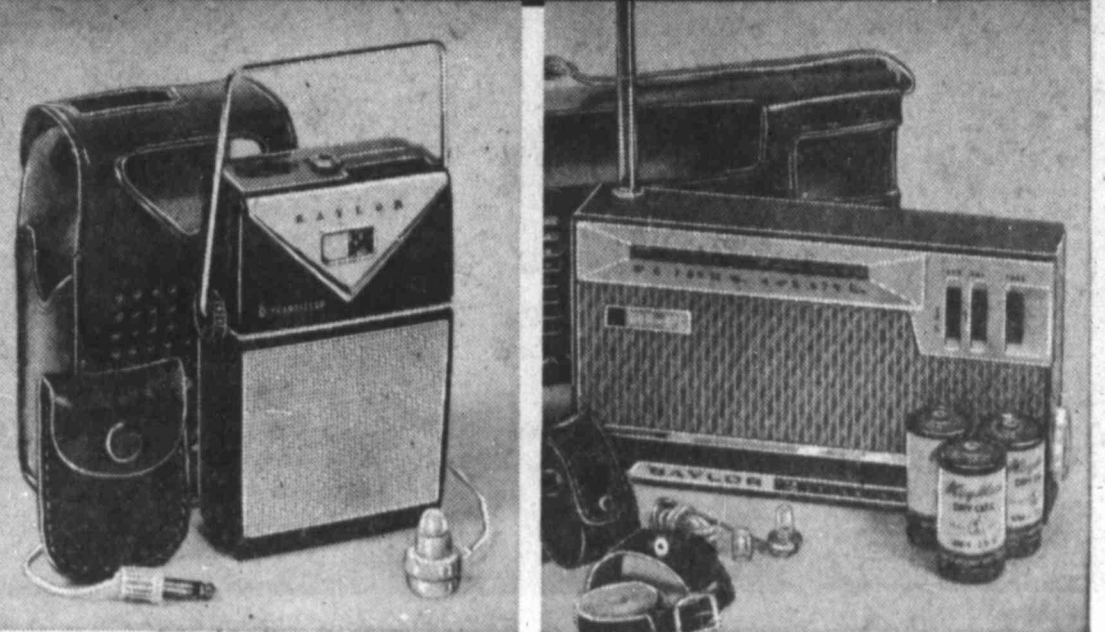

But Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore told newsmen: "As in rugby, some people get hurt. The conference was not a success for any single country."

Dies In Effort To Save Auto

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A 50-year-old grandmother was killed in a desperate effort to move her stalled car from the path of a train Tuesday.

Marjorie E. Smith of Roodhouse, Ill., her daughter and granddaughters were in the car when it stalled on a Wabash Railway Co. crossing. The others jumped out and fled.

Mrs. Smith slid in behind the steering wheel of the stalled car, trying to restart it. As the passenger train approached, Mrs. Smith jumped.

When the train hit the car, the hurtling car hit Mrs. Smith.

New Orleans: A Hot, Humid State Of Mind

By KEN DAVIS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Some leagues from the mouth of the Mississippi River, where the bayous almost meet Bourbon Street, there is a state of mind known as New Orleans.

Technically, it is a city. Actually, it is a passion shared by hundreds of thousands of persons who aren't certain exactly why they like this humid metropolis but are extremely certain they do.

Here the Mississippi River flows north. Here is the nation's third seaport 100 miles from the sea. Here what appears to be the same street suddenly has another name because the early Creoles and Americans didn't get along. Maybe it's because history—the sweep of the American saga—remains more than in most places a daily companion.

Here is old St. Louis Cathedral, perhaps the most ancient in the country; the oldest hotel; some of the oldest street cars, none of which now is named Desire.

FLIP SIDE
 Here is the birthplace of jazz, although fabled Storyville has disappeared in the face of a different morality and Basin Street looks like any commercial district you might walk through. On the flip side of a bit of musical history, the city first introduced permanent opera to America.

Of a somewhat different culture, the chancy game of craps was introduced to America here. It is said the name came because boatmen from up north called French of New Orleans "Johnny craps" or "Johnny frogs."

Some of the vestigial remains of history still exist: Place d'Armes or Jackson Square with its artists, beloved of the tourist; the Cabildo, seat of Spanish government; ancient buildings of a hundred past uses.

A city of contrasts, New Orleans: churches and Storyville; culture and winos; history and jet planes. The city's built-in schizophrenia prompted Roark Bradford, long a denizen of the French quarter, to quip: "New Orleans is like a prostitute who awakens on Sunday morning undecided whether to go to church or to take another drink."

NO TROUBLE
 She would have no trouble either way. New Orleans has about 600 churches and 2,500 bars. As one citizen observed defensively, "Well, it costs less to start a bar."

To millions of Americans, New Orleans is the old square known as the French Quarter. This is unfortunate, because in these days that conjures up visions of strippers, tourist jazz, B-drinkers, barkers and huge hurricane drinks.

It's not the wine, women and song that make the Vieux Carre, as the natives call the French Quarter. It's your state of mind. In a certain state of mind, perhaps, gay old New Orleans may offend. It has too many winos, too many panhandlers, too many eroded and empty buildings, still some scabrous housing, open storm drains and roller-coaster streets. It has or has had the civic cancers of graft, narcotics and syndicate gambling.

LITTLE FRENCH
 The French Quarter has one, and one only, French structure—the Ursuline convent, circa 1751, oldest building in the Mississippi Valley. The rest of the quarter is Spanish or American.

Rapport with New Orleans is not always achieved at once. The shotgun houses and above-ground burial vaults can be a shock to a newcomer.

How well I remember the time Harnett Kane, the author, and Pie Dufour, the author-columnist, conferred my wife, a newly arrived and unreconstructed Northerner. "How do you like New Orleans?" they asked, smiling in anticipation of praise for the city both love.

"I think it stinks," said my diplomatic spouse blithely. "Where do you live, Mrs. Davis?" She told them.

"Oh, that's the reason," said Harnett. "Now you ought to live in the French Quarter."

SPIRITUAL HOME
 Neither Harnett nor Pie frequent the bistros of Bourbon Street, being of a somewhat more intellectual persuasion, but the French Quarter is their spiritual home, the epitome of freedom of choice—to sin or not to sin.

That attitude is not uncommon among devotees of the Crescent City. Arterial hardening or native morality may dictate they never partake from the fleshpots but the citizens of New Orleans resent anyone trying to impose rigid controls on individual action.

Along the north side of the city is Lake Pontchartrain, the front yard of the city's most expensive residential real estate. This is another orbit, the lake, where Mr. and Mrs. New Orleans crab, fish, boat and swim. The lake helps keep the city temperatures up in the winter, down in summer—and humid all the time.

On the west side of New Orleans is the old garden district and much antebellum history. Here the Americans who stacked up enough greenbacks built their show homes.

BIG HOMES
 Unlike the French who built walled homes with courtyards in the middle, the Americans built enormous homes in the midst of broad gardens. From this broad area decades ago, the belles sped by carriage to their soirees and gay gamecocks rode horseback to the dueling oaks in what is now city park. This is the orbit of the city's old families.

There is another thing that has no geography—Mardi Gras. More properly it is Carnival, which is the period from 12th night, Jan. 6, to Shrove Tuesday—the entire season of make-believe madness. Mardi Gras or Fat Tuesday is the final day of merriment before the atonement of Lent.

New Orleanians spend $5 million and uncounted thousands of man-hours on Carnival each year. They do not spend on pageantry for tourist pleasure but for the unlikely illusion of the never-was, the chance for every man to be a courtier, a king for a day.

And, by the way, the food! bless the man who invented the elastic belt.

CITY OF EXTREMES
 William Makepeace Thackeray once scribed: "New Orleans is the city in the world where you can eat and drink the most and suffer the least."

Oysters Rockefeller, Potatoes soufflé, hot French bread, crawfish bisque, pompano Pontchartrain, holeless donuts and cafe au lait. These are among the tasty things that make New Orleans restaurants world famous.

But, perhaps the future of New Orleans rests not so much with the past or its individuality or its sensual pleasures, but in the Mississippi River.

More and more, industry is becoming water-starved, but no one starves in New Orleans, particularly for water. Among the many legends that have flowered in this historic hot-house is one which may be true. It is said that once you drink from the Mississippi River at New Orleans you are forever in thrall to the city.

Accclimate The Kids For Old Man Winter

Nothing but kids change faster than fall weather.

Thus, both parents who must keep their children appropriately dressed, and manufacturers whose business it is to provide their clothes have had their problems.

But today these seem to have been licked by the old-fashioned button hole and button and the newfangled zipper.

These now switch a garment from hot to cool quicker than a water faucet. In so doing, they eliminate the need for a raft of coats, suits and jackets in various weights in the kids' clothes closets.

A manish-style trench coat designed for little men by Charles Sheldon is an example. The waterproof poplin fabric does no more than shed inclemency during the warm fall days when no more than that is required of it.

Still, when the thermometer plunges, a lad can warm up his raincoat in a hurry, and by himself, by buttoning in its orlon pile lining. It's warm, not bulky, and doesn't weight his little shoulders down. Best of all, it beats trying to force an ordinary raincoat over a stubborn winter coat.

Boys' jackets are convertible too and most also have zippered, or button-on hoods that stay put in their closets until red ears demand them.

Even boys caps change with the seasons. To look at some Eton-style ones with their tiny bills you'd never guess that under the crown are wool-like flaps that drop down cozily around the ears as the mercury drops.

Bench Warmers

Designed for the pint-sized cheering section is the wide-wale corduroy goal coat at left, and the wool melton convey coat, right, with the button-on collar. These fashions, appealing to the younger set, have warmth and a "grown-up" appearance.

Fraternity Pledges Are Told

The Elbow Home Demonstration Club will hold a meeting with Mrs. Ray Shortes, Thursday, 2 p.m.

Mothers Meet At Cedar Crest

Room mothers at Cedar Crest Elementary School gathered at the school Tuesday evening to discuss a P-TA membership drive.

The group voted to make posters for each room. The posters will list names of mother members whose children are in the respective rooms. A prize will be awarded to the room with the longest list of members. Plans also were discussed for the forthcoming Halloween carnival.

Don't Waste Water

Ever wash the family car? It's a good way to get your quota of sun and exercise. Take into consideration that the water used can be helpful to your lawn. Park the car where the water will run off onto the lawn.

Mrs. Roy Phillips Is Honored At Circle Meet

Mrs. Della K. Agnell was hostess to the Johnnie O'Brien Circle of First Baptist Church, Tuesday morning in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Honoring Mrs. Roy Phillips on her birthday, the group of nine members, a new member and two visitors were served from a table covered with pink linen centered with an arrangement of pink and white flowers. Places were individually marked with candles in mint cups.

Members answered roll call with quotations from famous writers, expressing best wishes and advice to the honoree. Mrs. B. H. Tingle presided during the business session, during which Mrs. J. T. Grantham read the prayer calendar. The group voted to donate $5 to the high school Bible class fund.

Mrs. Glenn Faison, a new member, was elected co-chairman of community missions. The group decided to assist in services at the VA Hospital during the coming year.

After Mrs. J. C. Pickle presented a study on communism, Mrs. Tingle offered the benediction.

Mary Zinn Circle Studies Missions

The Mary Zinn Circle of First Methodist WSCS studied the Biblical foundation of missions, Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jackie Bishop.

Presenting the mission program were Mrs. H. H. Stephens, who read scriptures from the Old Testament, and Mrs. S. R. Nobles, who read from the New Testament. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Bishop.

After Mrs. Bishop served refreshments to the 11 members present, she announced that Mrs. D. F. Bigony will be hostess to the circle, Oct. 1, 3 p.m.

Husbands Guests At Dinner Of Lions Auxiliary

Members of the Evening Lions Club Auxiliary were hostesses to their husbands at a Tuesday evening dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shive, 2809 Navajo.

After the dinner, served to 40 guests, plans were discussed for the auxiliary to assist in preparing food for the Lions chicken barbecue, Sept. 28. It was announced that the next meeting is scheduled for Oct. 16 with Mrs. J. O. Hagood, 608 West 17th, with Mrs. Irvin Fenley as cohostess.

Artists Are Received In Membership

Six new members were received by the Las Artistas Club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Don Bohannon. Mrs. C. M. Lewis was introduced as a guest.

The new members are Mrs. Don Hale, Mrs. Frank Hartley, Mrs. W. H. Crenshaw, Mrs. Tony Deatherage and Raymond and Marshall Cockrell. Mrs. Deatherage was elected to fill the office of secretary.

Weekly workshops were planned to be held on Thursday nights at the home of C. D. Reeder, Tejas Road. The group decided to change their business meeting date to the third Thursday night of each month. Study plans were made to include lectures or films on composition, art appreciation and art history, to be incorporated in the third Thursday sessions.

Also discussed were the quarterly shows to include one side-walk event, a membership show and participation in a regional show.

Routine Ironing

Ironing is the dreaded chore of many American housewives. Try a routine of ironing shirts, dresses, etc. If you like to iron the skirt of the dress first, iron it first, but a set way of ironing a garment makes work seem to go faster.

Mrs. Wilson Banks Is Honoree Of Club

Fourteen countries were represented Monday evening at the Officers Club, Webb AFB, when Mrs. Wilson Banks was the honored guest of the International Wives Club. Other guests were Mrs. Thomas Seabo, Mrs. Bedford Underwood, Mrs. Richard McClurg and Mrs. John F. Seaton.

New members introduced were Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, Cuba; Mrs. Carlos Burgos, Italy; Mrs. Thomas B. O'Neil, Germany; Mrs. Vincent Broadwater, England. Other countries represented in attendance were Ireland, France, Scotland, Belgium, French Morocco, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Japan, Panama and Columbia.

Tea, coffee and other refreshments were served from a table laid with white linen, centered with a crystal urn filled with red and white roses.

Winners of door prizes were Mrs. Leland Graves, Mrs. Everett Stout and Mrs. Edith Roll.

During the business session, tentative plans were made toward a Christmas party for members and their husbands. Another social event discussed was a tasting tea, scheduled for October, to raise club funds. The time, place and arrangements will be announced later.

It was announced that members of the club will present an International Review at the Caprock Electric Co. building in Stanton, Saturday, 10 a.m., for members of the Ladies Music Club of Stanton. Mrs. James Jones is in charge of arrangements. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. And Mrs. Shortes On Tour After Wedding

LAMESA (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wayne Shortes are touring New Mexico following their wedding, Sept. 15, in the Lamesa Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Paxton. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Shortes of Ackerly.

The double ring ceremony was read by Carlos Fritz of Rockdale, the bride's uncle. Traditional wedding music was furnished by the Broadway Church of Christ chorus.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of tissue silk and lace fashioned with a scalloped Sabrina neckline, long sleeves of lace and a fitted bodice. The bouffant skirt was enhanced at the hemline with tiers of deep lace.

Her waistlength veil of silk II. Inusion was attached to a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations.

The maid of honor was Ann Webb of Brownfield, cousin of the bride. Mary Boardman of Lamesa was bridesmaid. Jeff Paxton, the bride's brother, was ring bearer.

A reception was held in the Woman's Study Club after the ceremony. Guests attended from Lamesa, Brownfield, Spur, Lubbock, San Angelo, Rockdale, Seminole, Sweetwater, and Ackerly.

For traveling the bride chose a white knit suit and gold accessories. The couple will be at home after Sept. 30 in Ackerly.

The bride, a graduate of Lamesa High School, attended Lubbock Christian College where she was a member of Kappa Phi Kappa. The bridegroom, a graduate of Sands Consolidated School in Ackerly, attended Howard County Jr. College and received a degree from Texas Tech in May. He is engaged in farming.

Luncheon Held For Circles

A combined luncheon for the Martha Foster and Lalla Baird circles of Wesley Methodist WSCS was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Bill Patterson.

Mrs. Royce Womack offered prayer and a devotion on "Who Is Thy Neighbor?" Mrs. Doyle Milner, who recently moved into a new home, received a gift from the 30 members present.

The group decided to meet jointly next Tuesday, 9:30 a.m.

Program Presented To HD Club's Membership

Fairview and Airport Home Demonstration club members heard a talk on nutrition Tuesday afternoon during a joint session held at the Texas Electric Co.'s conference room.

Mrs. Delaine Crawford, HD agent, spoke to the combined groups. She illustrated her talk with a "Road to Nutrition" chart pointing out vegetables and fruits, milk products, meats, bread and cereals as the means of good nutrition. She explained how the lack of vitamins, minerals and proteins would effect the body.

Fairview Club elected Mrs. Shirley Fryar, president; Mrs. W. H. Ward, vice president; Mrs. O. D. Engle, secretary; Mrs. Jim Smith, treasurer; and Mrs. John Sutherland, Council delegate.

Mrs. Fryar appointed a committee to work on and make amendments to the club's constitution and by-laws. Those appointed were Mrs. Jim Skalkicky, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Sutherland and Mrs. J. F. Sellars.

Concluding the afternoon, refreshments were served to 10 Fairview members, four Airport members and one visitor, Mrs. Teddy Ray Covington.

Rebekahs Plan Events, Anniversary Observed

Rebekah lodges, in separate sessions Tuesday evening, planned forthcoming events and projects.

JOHN A. KEE LODGE

In observing the anniversary of the founding of Rebekahs by Schuyler Colfax, a vice president of the U. S. during the tenure of Lincoln, members of John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge heard a brief sketch of the Rebekahs' origin and history. Mrs. H. F. Jarrett and Mrs. Jones Lamar gave the historical sketch, and a poem, "Rebekah," was read by Mrs. Elmo Martin.

Plans were instituted to assist in a Christmas program at the state hospital. A display of cards

Local Woman In Lamesa Judging

Judging in the Dawson County Garden Club's flower show, Tuesday in Lamesa, included national judges, Mrs. Dale Smith, Mrs. V. A. Whittington and Mrs. Kyle B. Caudle of Big Spring. Also serving was Mrs. Zack Gray, a student judge, Big Spring. All are members of the Spaders Garden Club.

The fall flower show was held in conjunction with the Dawson County Fair.

Mary Martha Circle Meets At Rossons

The Mary Martha Circle of First Christian Church held a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Rosson.

After an opening prayer by Mrs. Willard Read, Mrs. Preach Martin presented the lesson of Revelations, Chapter 13.

Refreshments were served to the 11 members present.

It was announced that Mrs. J. T. Allen, 114 Lincoln, will be hostess to the group, Oct. 16, 2 p.m.

Soap The Drawers

Nothing is more vexing than a drawer that won't roll out easily. A sure cure for this problem is either powdered soap or slivered bar soap rubbed into the contrary spot. Try this and see what a difference it makes.

to be sold as a money making project were shown to the members. Other plans were presented by the ways and means committee.

Mrs. Lamar reported that the couches in the hall's foyer had been newly new covered as a part of Mrs. John Cate's project. Mrs. Joe Flock was introduced as a new member by transfer of card, and Mrs. Robert Mitchell was accepted to receive the degree by initiation on Oct. 2.

A special surprise is planned for members attending the next meeting on Tuesday. This will be in addition to the school of instruction, according to Mrs. L. L. Robertson, noble grand.

Reports were made on visits to members who are ill and distressed. Also plans for acquiring new members were discussed.

LODGE NO. 284

Mrs. T. A. Melton, chairman of the ways and means committee Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284, urged all members to participate in the forthcoming rummage sale Tuesday evening at a regular session. The group convened at the IOOF Hall.

After the recording secretary reported 33 visits to members who are ill, she read letters from Mrs. Leona Shepherd, state president. The group voted to give a gift to retiring state secretarial president, Mrs. Vivian Dale.

Mrs. Carl Mangnum received a certificate of perfection, presented by Mrs. C. N. Gilliland, after which Mrs. Gilliland conducted a brief school of instruction.

Ed Kennedy Looks Like A 'Natural'

BOSTON (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, a sensational winner in the Massachusetts Democratic primary, looks like a political natural today, and his backers are predicting that he will drive through in November to a seat in the U.S. Senate.

It is the seat vacated in 1960 by John F. Kennedy when he was elected President.

Ted crushed his opponent for the Democratic nomination, Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., in a blitz that dumfounded his own supporters no less than McCormack's.

Shortly after the first returns his headquarters notified President Kennedy at Newport, R. I. "He said he was very pleased," said one of Ted's chief lieutenants.

The younger Kennedy, who is 30 and making his maiden run for elective office, took it all with glacial calm.

VICTORY PARTY

By about 10 p.m., some three hours after the polls closed, he was on his way from his Boston apartment to McCormack's headquarters, and then to a frantic, roaring victory celebration at the Touraine Hotel.

As he was hoisted onto the stage in the converted ballroom, he looked like a man who had known all along that it would be like this.

His pretty blonde wife, Joan, stood beside him, fighting a losing battle against tears. She swallowed hard and her voice broke when she tried to speak into the microphones. "I'm so grateful," she choked. "I don't know what else to say."

His juggernaut victory appears to be the result of four main factors—the Kennedy name in Massachusetts, Ted's natural talent for politics, a precision-engineered organization, and a debate that backfired on his opponent.

Weeks before the election, a Boston politician told this correspondent: "He's got more political savvy already than his brother had in his first campaign. It seems to come more naturally to him than it did to Jack when he was starting."

WORKED HARD

The younger Kennedy worked hard, driving himself, day and night. He covered the state from end to end. He spoke at five and six rallies a day. His voice gave out toward the end.

Like the President's 1960 campaign, this one was supported by a smooth-working, professional organization, well supplied with money.

One of the key figures on the team is Kennedy's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith. He is married to the former Jean Kennedy.

Smith says the turning point in the campaign began to appear after Kennedy's first televised debate with McCormack. In that appearance, the attorney general told Kennedy that, without the famous name, "your candidacy would be a joke."

"We took some samplings of opinion after the debate," Smith said. "Ted was the underdog before that. But we found people switching. It definitely must have backfired on McCormack."

New Chamber Directors Elected

LAMESA (SC)—Names of newly-elected directors of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and appointees to the Board of City Development have been announced.

Elected by the general membership of the Chamber to 2-year director posts were David Fry, Henry Norris, Bill David and Donnell Echols.

Appointed by the Lamesa City Council to 2-year terms on the BCD were Skeet Noret, Buddy White, Dave Knapp and Hal Boyd.

Holdover Chamber directors include W. B. Beeson, Abe Holder, R. B. Snell and Wendell Strahan; holdover BCD members are Charles F. Bratcher, Tracy Campbell, Bill Nix, and Bowers Purcell.

Battle Of Highly Advertised Names

BOSTON (AP) — November's congressional and state elections appear destined to go down in political history as the battle of highly advertised names.

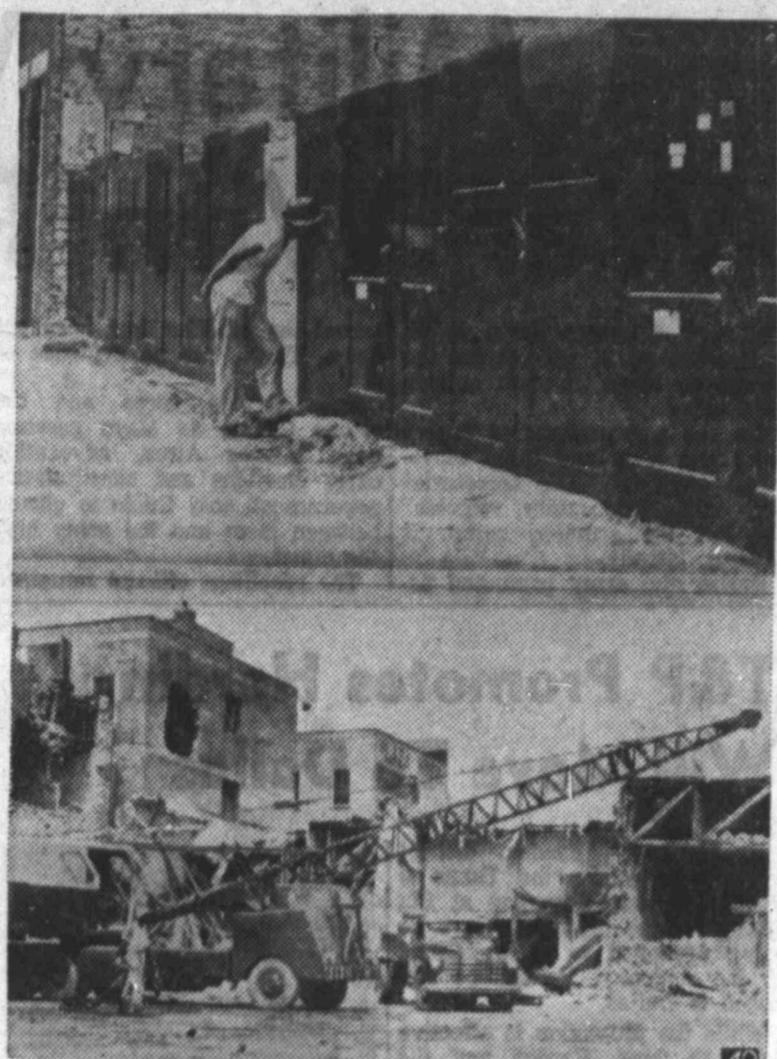

Massachusetts and New York added some well-known names to the nomination lists already studied by starred billings such as those of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Robert Taft Jr. and auto maker George Romney.

Massachusetts voters decided to pit Edward M. Kennedy, 30, brother of the President, against George Cabot Lodge, 35, son of a former ambassador and senator, for a two-year Senate term.

That's the remainder of the tenure President Kennedy surrendered in 1960 when he moved to the White House from the Senate.

Kennedy and Lodge are bereft of elective office experience. But what memories their names conjure up in a state rich with the political tradition of battles between the Kennedy and Lodge clans.

This promises to be a cliff-hanger for the seat once held by Daniel Webster and later by the first Henry Cabot Lodge. It is the

Sidewalk Superintendent

An unidentified "sidewalk superintendent" couldn't resist peering through the keyhole of a door in a barricade formed of old doors in downtown Dallas. The barricade was erected as demolition of a two-block area began to make way for the proposed Dallas County office center. Pictured below is what the "sidewalk superintendent" saw through the keyhole.

Essay Contest Winners To Be Named Thursday

Three boys and three girls from each of the two junior high schools, whose essays on air power have been judged best of all submitted in an Air Force-Kiwanis Club contest, will be guests of the club at its luncheon Thursday in the Settles Hotel.

The 12 youngsters will be introduced, as a climax to the day's program, an announcement will be made at the close of the meeting naming the boy and the girl whose essays were rated best.

Those two youngsters will have stellar roles Saturday at the Kid's Day celebration at Webb AFB. The boy will be honorary base commander and the girl honorary WAF commander.

Saturday, these two youngsters will ride from the Ritz Theater to the base in a command car sent for them by the base. They will be seated with Col. Wilson Banks, commander of the base, at the ceremonies and he will present them with awards for their achievement.

The other 10 youngsters of the final dozen selected will each receive prizes.

The winners essays will be read at the base by a member of the Kiwanis Club.

The essays were written by students in the two junior high schools on the subject "The Contribution Air Force Has Made to American Freedom." The school officials reduced the total number of essays to two from each class and Walter Eubanks, chairman of the Kiwanis Club boys and girls work committee, and Rev. V. Ward Jackson, a member of the committee, selected the 12 best from the lot.

Odessan Killed In Jet Accident

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Air Force identified today a pilot killed when his F100 Super Sabre jet fighter failed to recover from a rocket firing exercise Tuesday.

He was Bill Spencer, 31, of Odessa, Tex., who came from his duty station in Japan to compete in the Air Force's tactical fighter weapons meet, called William Tell.

His widow, Helen, is in Japan. They were married in Las Vegas in February.

job John F. Kennedy wrested from Henry Cabot Lodge, the present candidate's father, in the year former President Dwight D. Eisenhower first showed Republicans how to sweep a presidential contest.

The Eisenhower name will play a part in the Massachusetts general election campaign, along with President Kennedy's.

New York Democrats came up in their convention with a gold-embossed name from the glittering political days of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt as their nominee for governor. The name is Morgenthau—Robert M. Morgenthau.

Morgenthau, 43, son of former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, could hardly expect that his name would be as well-known as that of his Republican opponent, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Possibly to make up for this, the Democrats nominated James B. Donovan, the prisoner-exchange negotiating man, as their candidate for the U.S. Senate.

But Donovan is bucking an expert in keeping his name before the public—Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

Republicans Disperse After A Harmonious Convention

FORT WORTH (AP) — Unified Texas Republicans dispersed over the state today after a harmonious convention.

Some 3,200 delegates, largest in Texas Republican history, concluded their state convention Tuesday with the unanimous election of Peter O'Donnell of Dallas as state chairman.

Jack Cox, candidate for governor rallied the troops to frenzied support of state Republican goals. Sen. John Tower assailed the Democrats on a national level. The state platform committee punched through a strict conservative platform to back the candidates in the Nov. 6 election.

With the convention drawing to a close, the Hotel Texas ballroom burst into bedlam with singing and cheering and massive jabbing at the Democratic party.

Various candidates stirred the delegates with pointed but generally humorous jibes at Democratic standard-bearer John Connally, Vice President Lyndon Johnson and the Kennedy administration.

ALL THE KENNEDYS

Tower told the group that "Democrats want a Kennedy Congress so desperately they're running like the Kennedys." He said he "used to be afraid of the administration, now I'm terrified."

The senator injected a serious note into his speech, declaring that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is "outfacing us all over the world." He said Cuba "continues to be armed by the Soviets as a staging area for the infiltration, subversion, and eventual invasion of other Latin-American countries, yet we have not invoked the Monroe Doctrine."

In Texas, he predicted a Republican victory in November and the "return of political power to the people."

Cox, in a keynote address, stressed his support of many of the platform planks and outlined the challenge facing the GOP in Texas.

"Our opposition is deeply entrenched, well organized and highly financed," he explained. "We admit that we cannot match their money . . . But they cannot match our motives."

"Political power . . . they have it now, but they will lose it soon. We are going to take it from the few who hold it and give it back to the people."

SAME OPINION

Outgoing state Chairman Tad Smith voiced the same opinion but with more emphasis: "The eyes of the nation are on the Republican party in Texas, and what happens in Texas in the governor's race possibly will determine the destiny of this great country."

"A victory for Jack Cox could well mean the defeat of President Kennedy in 1964."

The threat to party unity arising from the selection of Smith's successor never materialized. Challenging O'Donnell for the post was Richmond steel executive Don Napier, 41.

Napier withdrew shortly before the matter came before the convention floor and the Houston delegation moved that O'Donnell be elected by acclamation.

O'Donnell, 38, Cox's state campaign manager, accepted the post amid cheers and told the group: "What we do here in Texas this year can lead to political emancipation of Texas and the South from one party rule and to the return of our national government to conservative principles . . ."

FOR GOLDWATER

The convention went on recording conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona to seek the presidency in 1964. It left no doubt Texas Republicans are not interested in the liberal philosophy of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, a likely GOP presidential candidate.

The platform committee, with an eye focused on the AFL-CIO, declined use of the term "right-to-work law" while proclaiming that "no person should be forced to join any organization as a requirement for employment." The two terms are synonymous, but as one platform drafter noted, the wording is "less offensive to labor."

The party wooed labor support with a plank calling for "strict adherence to the statutory provision stating that labor should be entitled to one representative on the Texas Employment Commission." It also endorsed the right for labor to organize and bargain collectively.

The Republicans urged retention of the 27½ per cent oil depletion tax allowance and a "realistic approach to the oil import problem so that the domestic oil and gas industry can meet our defense needs in the case of war."

New Classroom At Marcy

The first of four new classrooms for Marcy Elementary School was moved to the new site Tuesday afternoon. It is one of four portable buildings situated at other schools last year, but scheduled for moving to the south of Marcy because of an overload of students there this year. The portables being moved are one each from Airport, Cedar Crest, Bauer and Washington schools.

Soviets Expected To Oppose Speedup For U. N. Schedule

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet opposition is expected today to a plan by Tunisia to speed the United Nations through a heavy agenda by shortening speeches and improving debate procedure. The Tunisian delegation wants the subject of improving U.N. working methods included on the proposed agenda for the 17th annual session which opened Tuesday. The 21-nation steering committee goes to work today on the agenda.

et Union, whose candidate for assembly president was overwhelmingly defeated at the opening session, will vote against assembly debate on the plan. They said the Russians fear that opening the rules of procedure to debate could lead to wholesale changes in the ground rules.

Tunisian Foreign Minister Mongi Slim, president of the 16th session, originally suggested the plan to start general sessions two weeks earlier, curb speechmaking and streamline debate. The plan is supported by Muhammad Za-frulla Khan, the Western-backed Pakistani who won the presidency. U.N. sessions have been growing increasingly lengthy as its membership increases and each year brings a host of problems involving the cold war, colonialism, finances and Soviet demands for a revamped secretariat. So far 92 items for debate have been submitted to the steering committee.

Funeral Set For Youngster

Malinda Featherston, 3-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Featherston, Big Spring, died in a local hospital at 1:18 a.m. Wednesday. The infant was born Sunday.

Graveside services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, with burial in City Cemetery. The Rev. Carl Rea, pastor of the Silver Hills Baptist Mission, will officiate and arrangements are in charge of River Funeral Home.

Survivors include the parents, eight brothers, Delbert Glenn Featherston Jr., California, Jimmy D. Featherston, Argus V. Featherston, Harold and Darold Featherston (twins), Robert Lee Featherston, William Keith Featherston, and Joey Reed Featherston, all of Big Spring; four sisters, Mrs. Tom Bozerman, Lufkin, Frances Veerell Featherston, Montie Lavelle Featherston, and Theresa Gail Featherston, of Big Spring; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Drake, Paris, Texas; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Featherston, Dallas.

Algeria's First Election Drive Ends In Confusion

ALGIERS (AP) — Independent Algeria's first election campaign ends today amid chaos, tension and general apathy.

There is no doubt over the result in Thursday's elections: all the 196 candidates for the National Assembly—including 16 Europeans—are unopposed.

They were handpicked by Ahmed Ben Bella's ruling Political Bureau with the support of the regular army of Col Houari Boumediene and will give Ben Bella an overwhelming majority in the assembly.

In eastern and western Algeria and in the Sahara, all under Boumediene's firm control, a good turnout is expected from voters accustomed to being marched to the polls under French rule.

In the central Algerian areas controlled by the mutinous guerrillas of Wilaya (region) 4, voting is likely to be patchy.

The Political Bureau accused the Wilaya 4 commanders of sabotaging the elections in their districts by forcing voters to abstain and dispersing election meetings at gunpoint.

Wilaya 4 is angry over the removal of most of its officers from the list of candidates and openly accused Ben Bella of instituting a dictatorship.

In the countryside south and west of the capital, frequent clashes occurred between guerrilla troops and crowds supporting Ben Bella. Several civilians were injured.

In downtown Algiers, firmly controlled by Boumediene's troops and civilian police, Wilaya 4 supporters under cover of darkness tore down election posters and painted anti-Ben Bella slogans on walls.

One Ben Bella supporter said Algerians "clearly want and need law and order more urgently than parliamentary democracy."

A sharp increase in murder, kidnaping, rape and looting in the area is blamed on rampaging bands of guerrillas who have long been out of control of their own officers.

Throughout the country, the public apathy over the election campaign reflected the lack of interest in the prearranged outcome.

The atmosphere was in sharp contrast to the surge of enthusiasm that carried the Algerian people to the polls July 3 to vote for independence by a 99.6 per cent majority.

Gallimore Leads NFL In Rushing

Willie Gallimore, fleet halfback of the Chicago Bears, leads the National Football League in rushing after the first week of play with 176 yards on 23 carries against the San Francisco 49ers.

Gallimore picked up most of his yardage on two long touchdowns of 37 and 77 yards in the second half. With Rick Casares grinding out 68 yards up the middle, the Bears' 1-2 punch ranked with the best in the league. Casares was eighth in rushing.

Jimmy Brown, the old dependable of the Cleveland Browns who has won the rushing title five straight years, showed he would be in there again with 134 yards in 17 attempts against the New York Giants. His average of 7.9 was a shade better than Gallimore's 7.7. Tom Wilson, Brown's new playmate in the Cleveland backfield, added 76 yards, fourth best in the league. Don Perkins of Dallas was third with 93 yards.

Argentine Military Wages Tug-Of-War With Rebels

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentine army commanders waged a fierce new tug-of-war today with a rebel faction demanding President Jose Maria Guido's government be freed from military dictation.

Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania, commander of the big Camp de Mayo garrison just outside Buenos Aires, declared in sparking the revolt that Guido must face up to the issue of "democracy or dictatorship."

Ongania charged Guido was "surrounded by army cliques" bent on establishing a military dictatorship.

War Secretary Gen. Jose Cornejo Saravia, whose appointment was to replace another group of rebels, was the chief target of the career army officers because of his recent shakeup of commands.

Troops under Gen. Ongania also are demanding the resignation of Gen. Juan Lorio as commander in chief, and his chief of staff, Gen. Bernardino Labayru.

Argentine newsmen said they saw tanks move out of the base of the 1st Armored Regiment and head for La Plata, only 35 miles southeast of Buenos Aires, in an apparent show of support for the Camp de Mayo garrison outside the capital.

But the war secretariat denied there had been any troop movements anywhere. The secretariat said only "exploratory vehicles" had left the armored camp. It gave no details.

Earlier the army command asserted the rebellion had been put down. There was no evidence of this.

The cavalry corps and the strong Camp de Mayo garrison near Buenos Aires, advocating early elections and constitutional government, told Guido to choose between them and the army high command.

The rebellious officers remained strongly entrenched at the powerful Camp de Mayo base, backed by tanks.

They charge that the army command, which thrust Guido into the presidency early this year, wanted to impose a military dictatorship.

They made this clear after a meeting of more than 400 officers at Camp de Mayo, issuing a post-midnight communique saying "the dilemma is clear—dictatorship or democracy."

The rebels claimed growing support among cavalry garrisons throughout the country.

The air force and the navy watched nervously from the sidelines.

The army command put troop units on the alert throughout Argentina and declared many provincial garrisons remained loyal. Most barracks inside the capital were believed standing behind the command.

Guido stayed at Government House during the night and conferred with the armed forces secretaries.

Gen. Carlos Caro, undersecretary of the army, was appointed temporary head of Camp de Mayo, but he declared he would resign and join the rebels.

Emerging at 3:15 a.m. from a meeting with Guido, Gen. Saravia told newsmen the rebellion of the 400 officers had been repressed "absolutely."

The strength of the Camp de Mayo garrison is estimated at 30,000 men. The cavalry corps, almost completely mechanized with U.S. weapons, has about 12,000 men, including some at Camp de Mayo.

Leaders of the rebellion included Gen. Julio Alsogaray, commander of the Camp de Mayo garrison and the 1st Armored Division. He is a brother of Economic Minister Alvarez Alsogaray, who as strongman of Guido's Cabinet frequently has criticized the president and the bickering of the military.

T&P Promotes Hardin, Will Move To Dallas

R. E. (Bob) Hardin, district sales manager for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company at Big Spring for the past two years, is being promoted to sales analyst by the company. He will be stationed in Dallas.

R. E. (BOB) HARDIN

While the promotion is effective Sept. 20, Mrs. Hardin and the children may remain here for a time.

His new assignment will deal with research in potential products along the T&P to see if the T&P can contribute to their development.

Joe Roberts, who came here to work with Hardin in the sales office, also is being transferred to the Dallas offices as a freight salesman under Charles Johnston.

Hardin was assigned to Big Spring Oct. 1, 1960 to succeed George L. Brooks, who was made district freight sales manager at El Paso. He has been active in civic affairs, working in the Band Boosters Club, the Quarterback Club and as a Chamber of Commerce director.

Education in Dallas, Hardin started as a clerk with the accounting department of T&P in 1936, advancing through various posts in the accounting and traffic departments in the next six years before being named general clerk in the Dallas freight traffic office.

During World War II he was first in Gen. Patton's Third Army as first lieutenant. Returning to the T&P, he served in freight sales and became soliciting freight agent at Dallas in 1952. In March, 1956, he was made traveling freight agent, and then sales representative early in 1960. Mr. and Mrs. Hardin have a daughter, Nancy Gay, a senior in Big Spring High School.

CENTER NEEDS GAS STOVES FOR WINTER

Renovation of the temporary home for the Crippled Children's Center is making good progress this morning, according to Jim Thompson, therapist.

"We hope to move in this afternoon," he said, "and resume treatments Friday."

Thompson said painters, plumbers and electricians are working today. The carpenters have finished their work, he said. Meanwhile, another problem has cropped up.

"We need gas space heaters for the various rooms of the house," the therapist said. "We would like to borrow about six, plus a bathroom heater."

He pointed out that the stoves should have some kind of guard on them, as protection for the youngsters who receive treatment at the center.

Circus Performs Here Thursday

It's circus time in Big Spring Thursday.

Sponsored by the Big Spring Shrine Club, the Rudy Bros. Circus will present two performances in the rodeo arena. Proceeds will go into the Shriners' Temple benevolence fund.

Schools will let out early Thursday at 2:45 p.m. to give the children time to get to the rodeo grounds for the matinee scheduled at 3:15 p.m. Shriners have sold many of their tickets in blocks to businessmen, organizations and individuals.

The Rudy Bros. Circus consists of 43 acts, and the show runs for approximately two hours.

Included among the many attractions are: The Kayarts, a balancing team (see picture on page 8-B); "Chuckies," the clown (and a team of equally raucous fun-makers); The Roulettes, roller skating team seen on the Ed Sullivan Show; The Flying Wards, trapeze artists; Chai and Somya, Burmese dancers and entertainers; the Kellers wild animal act, featuring Capt. William Horne in the lions' den; the Weide Performing Bears; and, of course, Alice of the E. P. Althoff elephant team.

Mrs. Johnson Dies Wednesday

Mrs. May Johnson, 88, 907 Runnels, died Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. at her residence. She had been in failing health for several years.

Funeral services are pending at Nalley-Pickie Funeral Home.

Mrs. Johnson was born Nov. 8, 1873 at Moulton. She was married to C. A. Johnson in Midlothian Aug. 8, 1897. They moved to Big Spring in 1910. She has been a member of the First Methodist Church since 1910. Her husband died Dec. 21, 1939.

Survivors are three sons, Hubert Johnson and Herbert Johnson, Big Spring, and C. A. Johnson Jr., El Paso; a sister, Mrs. J. C. Gaddy, Comanche; five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Lanpher And Kelly Draw Pink Slips

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's American Football League champion Oilers have released two linemen with hopes of replacing them with two who can rush more.

Coach Frank Ivy said Tuesday he had released defensive end Dan Lanpher and defensive tackle Bob Kelly. "I started a search for two guys who can play in the enemy's backfield."

Westbrook Pastor Takes Local Post

WESTBROOK (SC)—The Rev. Kenneth Andress, pastor of the First Baptist Church for about 2 1/2 years, resigned after Sunday evening services. He will accept the pastorate of the Westside Baptist Church, Big Spring.

He and his wife, Betty, and two children, Mike and Paula, came to Westbrook from Buford. He is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and attended seminary in Fort Worth. His wife is now enrolled at McMurry College in Abilene.

Canadian Ballet Will Open Concert Association Series

When the current season for the Big Spring Concert season opens Oct. 16, there could be no more colorful company to do the honors than the National Ballet Guild of Canada.

Season memberships (there are no single admissions sold) are now on sale by board members, or they may be had at the Herald or at Zack's. The adult memberships for four performances (Canadian National Ballet Guild, First Piano Quartet, Basil Rathbone and the Dallas Symphony) are $9; students $4.

Now entering its second decade as a touring company, the ballet has won wide acclaim in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

The company includes 80, among them the dancers, orchestra, stage crews and production staff. Costuming is unusually colorful, and scenery is extensive. The orchestra lends a concert touch to the program.

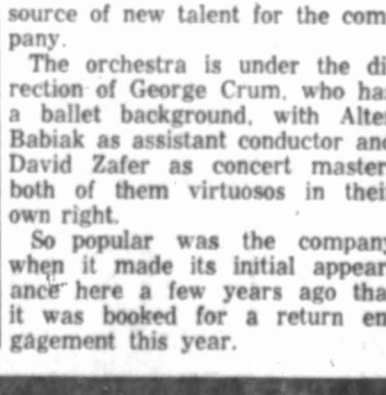

Lois Smith, a Vancouver-born ballet genius, is the prima ballerina of the National Ballet. She has won critical praise for performances in such productions as Swan Lake, Giselle, Coppelia, and many others. Of her interpretations as Jacob's pillow, critics said that "Lois Smith... proved to be the finest ballet dancer of a season which has included some of the biggest names in ballet." She is remembered also for her outstanding work in the ballet sequences of "Oklahoma."

Earl Kraul is the premier danseur, and this year he is cast in a coveted role of Albrecht in the tragic classic, "Giselle." Of Scandinavian heritage, Mr. Kraul is a versatile artist who has had leading roles in most of the top ballet works. Other name members of the party include Galina Sanistova, Russian-born artist; Angela Leigh, who got her background in Britain; Kenneth Melville, Lillian Jarvis.

The sparkling company is under the direction of Celia Franca, who gained her skill in Britain and on the continent. When the Canadian ballet was established, its founders took the advice of Dame Ninette de Valois, director of the Royal Ballet in London and former Miss Franca. One of her first steps was to establish a national ballet school, which now has more than three score young dancers and which has been a source of new talent for the company.

The orchestra is under the direction of George Crum, who has a ballet background, with Alter Babjak as assistant conductor and David Zafer as concert master, both of them virtuosos in their own right.

So popular was the company when it made its initial appearance here a few years ago that it was booked for a return engagement this year.

Wirtz Sees An End Soon To Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz predicts an end soon to the three-week strike of telegraphers against the Chicago & North Western Railway.

Both sides, he said Tuesday, seem to be near an understanding on the issues to be submitted to arbitration. When that is done the strike will be over.

President George Leighty of the striking AFL-CIO Order of Railroad Telegraphers hinted it might take weeks to agree on issues to be arbitrated. He suggested it might be quicker to continue negotiations.

The C&NW board chairman, Ben W. Heineman, indicated that the range of arbitration could be agreed on quickly.

Wirtz said nothing developed at his meeting with the railroad and union to indicate any difficulty in determining which issues could be settled outright and which should go to arbitration.

President Takes Victory In Stride

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Kennedy took another family political victory in stride today—his younger brother's capture of the Democratic senatorial nomination in Massachusetts.

There was no immediate public comment by the President as he headed out for a few more hours of relaxation on the sea before interrupting his Newport vacation for two speaking engagements.

The President watched the returns on television until the results were conclusive in the race between his brother, Edward M., and Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack for the nomination.

GOP: Rockefeller; Demos: Morgenthau

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Republicans renominated Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller today to lead a GOP fight against a Democratic ticket that his opponent promised would give the governor "the fight of his life."

Rockefeller will be acclaimed tonight a candidate for re-election in November during the final session of a harmonious two-day state convention here.

The Democratic convention, at times a tumultuous and chaotic meeting, ended quietly in Syracuse Tuesday night after the selection of prisoner-swap lawyer James B. Donovan to run for the U.S. Senate on a ticket headed by Robert M. Morgenthau, the gubernatorial nominee.

Donovan, 46, has been negotiating with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro for the release of invasion prisoners. He also played a key role in the exchange of Soviet spy Rudolph Abel for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Donovan will challenge Sen. Jacob K. Javits, New York's senior senator, who won renomination by acclamation from Republicans Tuesday night.

Javits, seeking a second term, was the only candidate named at the first day's sessions. Rockefeller's other running mates were lined up for nomination today.

Another Democrat selected Tuesday night is a Negro—the first of his race to be chosen by either major party to run for a statewide office in New York.

He is Edward Dudley, 51, borough president of Manhattan and former U.S. ambassador to Liberia, named to run for attorney general against the Republican incumbent, Louis J. Lefkowitz, a Jew.

Filling out the Democratic ticket are Mayor John J. Burns, 32, of Binghamton, candidate for lieutenant governor; Comptroller Arthur Levitt, 61, of Brooklyn, the only member of his party elected to a statewide administrative office in the Rockefeller landslide four years ago, nominated for re-election, and John Scileppi, 54, of Queens, a State Supreme Court justice, to run for associate judge of the Court of Appeals.

Besides Rockefeller, Javits, and Lefkowitz, Republicans will run Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson for re-election. They also are expected to nomi-tenant governor; Comptroller Arthur Levitt, 61, of Brooklyn, the only member of his party elected to a statewide administrative office in the Rockefeller landslide four years ago, nominated for re-election, and John Scileppi, 54, of Queens, a State Supreme Court justice, to run for associate judge of the Court of Appeals.

Besides Rockefeller, Javits, and Lefkowitz, Republicans will run Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson for re-election. They also are expected to nominate John P. Lomenzo, 47, of Rochester, former Monroe County judge, for comptroller, and Marcus Christ, 62, of New Hyde Park, for the court post. Christ is a justice in the State Supreme Court's appellate division.

Both tickets were prepared with the attention to ethnic and religious balance that New York political leaders always consider.

Morgenthau, 43-year-old former U.S. attorney in New York City and son of former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., was nominated early Tuesday after a long and wild session that sent tempers soaring and threatened to open old intra-party wounds.

He and Donovan, both political novices, were faced with the formidable task of opposing the experienced Rockefeller-Javits team, that had a long head start in the campaign that ends with the election less than seven weeks away.

The outcome of the election could have a decisive effect on Rockefeller's political future.

An overwhelming victory could give him a strong push toward the GOP presidential nomination in 1964. A defeat would end any prospect that he would run against President Kennedy in the national election two years from now.

Morgenthau, in his acceptance speech, embraced the widely held view that Rockefeller has presidential ambitions.

"The Republican governor," Morgenthau said, "has put his drive for the White House above the needs of our people."

He challenged the governor "to open debate on any aspect of his sorry record" and added: "I want to tell him that he is in for the fight of his life."

New Weather Satellite In Tuneup Stage

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The sixth U.S. Tiros satellite zipped around the globe today, snapping pictures of weather systems in a tuneup for its main assignment: hurricane hunting.

The latest in the successful series of Tiros meteorological satellites was fired into orbit from Cape Canaveral early Tuesday and within hours it was transmitting clear pictures of cloud cover above many areas of the world.

Several hours later the Air Force successfully launched a Minuteman missile from an underground silo on a 3,000-mile flight and moved the solid-fuel intercontinental range rocket near its operational goal of next month.

Project officials termed the Tiros 6 pictures — many of which showed clearly defined land masses, rivers and seas—among the best received during the Tiros program.

Man Apparently Dies Of Fright

NEW YORK (AP) — Window washer John Hirowski, 63, apparently was frightened to death Tuesday when his safety belt broke, leaving him dangling by one strap and screaming for help below a sixth-floor window in Manhattan.

He hung suspended at least 10 minutes outside the West 54th Street apartment building before a tenant heard his screams and called police.

When officers got to the window 10 minutes later, Hirowski appeared to have stopped breathing.

Patrolman John E. Baer was lowered, head-down, and applied mouth to mouth resuscitation. Hirowski didn't respond. He was pulled in by rope and after further treatment was pronounced dead of heart failure.

MEN IN SERVICE

Robert L. Johnson, airman USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson, 707 Wyoming, is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Saratoga, operating out of Mayport, Fla. The Saratoga recently was nominated for the annual Arleigh Burke Fleet Trophy for outstanding improvement in battle efficiency, morale and performance.

S. Sgt. Charles K. Simmons of Eugene, Ore., is participating in Exercise "William Tell," the Air Force-wide fighter weapons meet being held in the Nellis AFB, Nev. area through Sept. 22.

Sgt. Simmons, son of Mrs. Jeff Roberts, Coahoma, is permanently assigned to a unit of the Tactical Air Command at Shaw AFB, S.C., and will return there upon completion of the exercise. He is an Air Force photographic repairman.

Airman 3.C. John R. Cole, whose wife, Linda, lives at 1303 E. 19th, recently completed the 14-week motion picture photography course at the Army Signal School, Fort Monmouth, N.J.

Airman Cole received instruction in motion picture principles and their application to 16-millimeter and 35-millimeter photography of news events and combat situations.

The 19-year-old airman entered the Air Force in February, 1962 and completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base. Son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Cole, 1106 Marjio, he was graduated from Big Spring High School in 1960 and attended Howard County Junior College.

Airman E.C. Raymond E. Coldey, Loraine, is being reassigned to Altus AFB, Okla., following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course at Sheppard for communications center equipment specialists here. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. V. Coldey of Rt. 3, Loraine. His wife is the former Ola F. Roberts of Midland.

The Volkswagen Theory of Evolution.

As you can see from these pictures, we don't make revolutionary changes in our car every year. Just evolutionary ones.

A bigger rear window. A de-icer for the carburetor. A sychromesh first gear. (Over 3,000 such changes in the past 16 years.)

That's evolution.

Add fins to a VW one year? Take them off the next?

Not us. That would be revolutionary. The only thing revolutionary about the VW is our whole approach to automobile design: Never change the VW for the sake of change, only to make it better.

Which explains why most parts are interchangeable from one year to the next. And why the bugs have been worked out. And why a used VW is worth almost as much as a new one.

It's no wonder our car is still ahead of its time. And never out of style.

Even if you don't happen to be driving the most evolved VW of all. Our '63.

Weather Is Cooler For Most Of State

Most of Texas had slightly cooler weather Wednesday. A few showers fell along the coast from Palacios to Corpus Christi in early morning. Skies were generally clear elsewhere across the state.

The only rainfall measurements reported Tuesday were Laredo 1.34 inches and Brownsville .17.

The Weather Bureau predicted clear to partly cloudy skies and no significant temperature changes through Thursday. A few thundershowers were expected in northern areas of the state by evening.

Tuesday's top temperatures ranged from 84 degrees at Lubbock up to 99 at Presidio.

Readings early Wednesday varied from 62 at Dalhart and Junction to 78 at Galveston.

SOMETHING'S WRONG HERE Goto, the terrier, and her adopted child, Fractious Retrop

Luncheon Can Be An Empty Gesture

By SAM BLACKBURN

Goto is a year old female terrier with a highly overdeveloped mother instinct.

Fractious Retrop, despite his somewhat unusual name, is a four-month-old Siamese kitten who doesn't care where lunch comes from just so he gets his share.

They both make their homes with Taylor and Gaylene Etchison, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wayman Etchison, eight miles southwest of Lomax.

Goto's maternal instinct is good but her milk supply isn't, so all the best efforts of Fractious Retrop are but an empty gesture.

Landowners Win, Army Cancels Plan

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP)—Balky landowners won out and the Army called off a big Central Texas training maneuver Tuesday.

Instead of a joint exercise known as Core Shield, two armored divisions at Ft. Hood will engage in a reduced program confined to this military reservation. It is scheduled Oct. 15-30.

Gen. Paul Adams, who commands all active Army tactical forces, said the Army-Air Force maneuvers "cannot be conducted because of the inability to obtain adequate lands to make the exercise feasible and worthwhile as a training vehicle."

Landowners and the Army had been arguing for several months. The Army wanted to lease more acreage for the 20-day maneuvers and offered to pay for any damage done by troops.

Property owners said they were afraid damage claims would not be paid promptly. Only about 32 per cent signed lease agreements at $1 per farm.

Adams said Army and Air Force units will conduct joint training with subordinate elements of the armed divisions through a series of three successive combat command size opposing force operations.

More Storms For Plains States

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers are expected to return to the wind-and-rain-rocked plains states where a violent thunderstorm caused $1 million damage to Abilene, Kan., Tuesday.

Winds of 70 and 80 miles an hour shrieked through the town of 7,130 late in the day, tumbling trees and power lines and damaging scores of buildings.

Elsewhere in Kansas, Emporia was soaked with 1.9 inches of rain, Concordia with 1.5 inches and Hill City with 1.75 inches.

Twenty-five miles northeast of Kansas City, hail 3/4 inches in diameter rattled down on Holt, Mo., leaving an icy blanket up to one inch thick.

Across the nation in New York State, the fading summer died a little as snowflakes fell with a frigid rain shower near Binghamton. The Weather Bureau said the rain and snow mixture was at least a month early.

Low Bidders On Road Jobs

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Highway Department announced low bidders Tuesday on a number of projects. The bids totaling $10,906,970.

The projects, by counties include:

- El Paso—Interstate 10, grades, base and surface treatment, 1.2 miles from FM 2821 east to Standard Avenue, El Paso, $28,727.
- Ward—Interstate 20, 1/4 mile water line relocation at Poyte, Clyde Construction Co., Odessa, $24,329.

Ed Kennedy By Landslide, Now Faces Young Lodge

BOSTON (AP)—It's another Kennedy-Lodge election battle for Massachusetts—the fourth round in a long line of bouts for high political office.

The Democrats nominated Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of President John F. Kennedy, for the U.S. Senate by a landslide in Tuesday's primary.

The Republicans picked George Cabot Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.N. ambassador who once held the Senate seat at stake in November.

The nominees are both young men. Kennedy turned 30, minimum age for a senator, last Feb. 22. Lodge is 35.

Though both have been campaigning on a day and night schedule since their victories in the party conventions last June, they planned an early start today in the election contest.

Kennedy ran better than 2-1 in the voting across the state over his rival, State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

Lodge was in a closer battle for the GOP nomination with Rep. Laurence Curtis. The lead saw-sawed back and forth.

Shortly before 2:30 a.m. Lodge made his victory speech at his election headquarters at Curtis' concession came later.

with a congratulatory message and a promise of support in the election campaign.

Returns from 1621 precincts of the state's 1968 gave Kennedy 433,023 and McCormack 190,614.

On the Republican side, the tally of 1616 precincts gave Lodge 186,957 and Curtis 148,793.

The Democrats nominated a Yankee blue blood, Endicott (Chub) Peabody to head their state ticket as the candidate for governor. Peabody defeated Clement A. Riley, state auto registrar.

Peabody will run against incumbent Republican Gov. John A. Volpe, a son of Italian immigrant parents, who was renominated for a second term without opposition.

The Republicans placed a Negro on their ticket, nominating Edward W. Brooke for attorney general. Brooke was the first Negro on a statewide ticket in Massachusetts two years ago when he ran unsuccessfully for secretary of state.

With one exception all the nomination winners were endorsed by the party conventions last June.

The one endorsed loser was Rep. James R. Lawton of Brockton, who was defeated by Francis E. Kelly for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Kelly held the office for two terms until his defeat in 1962.

The Kennedy-Lodge feud goes away back—to Kennedy's grandfather John F. Fitzgerald, and to Lodge's great-grandfather, Henry Cabot Lodge Sr., who jousting for the same Senate seat in 1916. Lodge won that one.

George Lodge's father, the former U.N. ambassador, was in the Senate from 1937 to 1943 when he resigned to go into the Army.

He regained a Senate seat in 1946, but lost it to John F. Kennedy in 1952.

The third round in the feud

Letter Carriers Hold Meeting

The National Association of Letter Carriers Branch No. 1891 met jointly with Auxiliary No. 1975 Tuesday evening at the home of Emory Parrish, president. Parrish reported on a recent trip to a national NALC convention held in Denver, Colo.

The discussion among the 24 members attending was the upcoming legislation in Congress.

came in 1960 when Henry Cabot Lodge was the Republican nominee for vice president on the ticket defeated by the Kennedy-Lyndon B. Johnson team.

Both losers in the senatorial fights pledged their support to the victors in the election campaign.

McCormack, who is 39, said he had no further political ambitions. His term as attorney general runs to January.

Both of Kennedy's brothers, the President, and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, flew to Massachusetts to vote for their kid brother. The President came from Newport, R.I., to Boston where he and Mrs. Kennedy voted. The attorney general came to Hyannis Port, where he is a legal resident.

The nomination of Kennedy and Lodge insured one of the hottest election campaigns on record for Massachusetts.

President Kennedy is certain to campaign for Ted—he has said he will support him publicly in the election, along with other Democratic nominees. The Republicans have former President Dwight D. Eisenhower lined up for an Oct. 15 fund raising dinner and campaign speech in Boston.

A Devotional For The Day

You will be a witness for him to all men of what you have seen and heard. (Acts 22:15. RSV.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we pray that we may resist the temptation to bear false witness. Grant that we may have the strength and courage to witness to what we ourselves believe to be true in our Christian experience. In our Master's name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Benefit For Old Folk

The Senate has voted a tax benefit for elderly persons who sell their homes to get cash for retirement. At the same time, Treasury Secretary Dillon has decided against asking Congress to prohibit or limit tax deductions for interest payments.

The Senate's action and Douglas' announcement are sure of favorable public response. Elderly persons who sell their homes for money to finance retirement should not have 25 per cent of the profit subject to a capital gains tax. In many cases a home represents a person's major asset, the fruit of years of saving.

The proposal to deny or reduce deductions for interest turned out to be too hot a political potato to be handled in Congress prior to an election. Most of this interest is paid on home mortgages, and its exclusion as a tax deduction would hit a broad segment of the electorate. If, at the same time, deductions for lobbying expenses by business concerns were allowed — as favored by the Senate — discontent would be widespread and vocal.

Rumblings From The Pad

As though there weren't enough controversy on the outside concerning our manned space program, it now appears there may be dissent within.

In a television interview, Walter M. Schirra Jr., who is scheduled to be the next astronaut to orbit, claimed that outside "commitments" are occupying so much of the attention of John H. Glenn Jr., that the program is being deprived of the benefits of his experience as one of the two American astronauts to orbit.

This is an amazingly blunt statement to come from a naval officer conditioned to discipline and a respect for higher authority. Whether it was proper depends on circumstances not yet made known.

If this is a view held not only by Schirra but by his astronaut teammates, and they have been unable to get the ear of authorities competent to remedy the situation, Commander Schirra may be using the only available means of bringing the situation into the open. In this case he is doing the space program a service. Certainly, the astronaut who is due to be next up in space has every reason to be deeply concerned about any obstacle to the success of a very dangerous mission.

On the other hand, the attitude could be symptomatic of the extreme tension built up by the long training and conditioning process of preparing a man to engage in such a hazardous undertaking.

In either case, the odds are that Col. Glenn's separation from his teammates in the Manned Space Center is not of his choice. His public appearances throughout the country have been made on orders of his superiors who apparently feel that he is the man best qualified to sell the manned space program to the public.

The question is whether any such selling job is necessary. The public has been way ahead of the authorities.

History Repeating Itself

WASHINGTON — Is it the 1930's all over again? Fear of war led then to inaction by the West—and this brought on the big war itself. Will history repeat?

The parallel with events from 1935 to 1938 is startling. Then, as now, a dictator—Mussolini—grabbed Ethiopia in faraway Africa, just as Khrushchev today has grabbed Cuba. The West protested feebly in 1935, and the League of Nations voted 50 to 1 for an economic blockade in November of that year. But the United States was indifferent, and the commercial interests of the world succeeded in causing an abandonment of the blockade after eight months of spasmodic effort.

THEN, AS NOW in respect to Cuba, a blockade was characterized as useless unless all nations participated wholeheartedly.

Then, as now, the pacifists and appeasers expressed in speeches and newspaper advertisements the fear that a blockade would bring on war and implied it was better to recognize the steps taken by Mussolini as "accomplished facts." The Chamberlains and the Baldwins led Britain into a mess, out of which war became inevitable.

THE UNITED STATES wobbled then, too. Let Winston Churchill tell the story. He writes it frankly and bluntly in his book, "The Gathering Storm," published in 1948. He refers pointedly to the economic blockade of Italy as a means of persuading Mussolini to lay off Ethiopia, previously called Abyssinia — a country which also was a member of the League — and declares: "A large number of commodities, some of which were war materials, were prohibited from entering Italy, and an imposing schedule was drawn up. But oil, without which the campaign in Abyssinia could not have been maintained, continued to enter freely, because it was understood that to stop it meant war. Here the attitude of the United States, not a member of the League of Nations, and the world's main oil supplier, though benevolent, was uncertain. Moreover, to stop it to Italy involved also stopping it to Germany."

MR. CHURCHILL then criticizes the failure of Britain to back up her economic blockade with naval power, and adds:

"The Italian armies in Abyssinia would have been starved for supplies and ammunition. Germany could as yet give no effective help. If ever there was an opportunity of striking a decisive blow in a generous cause with the minimum of risk, it was here and now."

"The fact that the nerve of the British government was not equal to the occasion can be excused only by their sincere love of peace. Actually it played a part in leading to an infinitely more terrible war, Mussolini's bluff succeeded, and an important spectator drew far-reaching conclusions from the fact. Hitler had long resolved on war for German aggrandizement. He now formed a view of Great Britain's degeneracy which was only to be changed too late for peace and too late for him."

WHAT MR. CHURCHILL describes as the "irresoluteness" of those days finds its counterpart in what is happening today.

The United Press International reported last Saturday from Washington as follows:

"The United States has been making quiet diplomatic efforts for more than six months to persuade allies in European countries and elsewhere to help isolate Communist Cuba . . .

"The Kennedy administration was receiving little encouragement today from Latin America and European allies in its attempt to tighten the diplomatic and economic squeeze on Cuba."

A LONDON DISPATCH by the United Press International on the same day said: "Britain has politely but firmly discouraged any American ideas that it join the United States in an economic blockade of Cuba. It was reliably learned today. Other European member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were reported also to have backed away from tentative soundings as to whether they would go along with the United States in any possible embargo against Cuba."

Thus, as in the 1930's, the free world is in disunion, and the enemy dictators are taking advantage of this disension.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, meanwhile, has also backed away. He has disregarded the all-important principle in the Monroe Doctrine which declares against European colonization or imposition of their system in the Western Hemisphere. He says the Doctrine means only resistance to an armed attack against the United States or against other countries in this hemisphere with the aid of a European power. This gives Khrushchev a free hand to infiltrate any country in America, take over the government there with a puppet ruler, and send in military supplies and forces without running the risk of any countering action by the United States.

For all practical purposes, has the Monroe Doctrine now been buried, as Khrushchev in 1960 said it would be? Resolutions in Congress, introduced last week by administration leaders, still mention the Doctrine in their "whereases" but not in the text of the conclusions reached. Their theory evidently is that only if America is attacked should any action be taken.

COMMUNIST IMPERIALISM is thereby given the unchallenged opportunity to extend its system anywhere in the Western Hemisphere. If the United States will not fight when historic American policy is being violated 90 miles away from its shores, the dictatorship in Moscow may conclude that pacifism has won a big victory in the Americas and the West, and that there will be no resistance to Communist aggressions anywhere else in the world, including Berlin. It could be the 1930's all over again.

Trouble In The Tunnel

CAMP VERDE, Ariz. (AP)—Two mining engineers from California rushed into the north-central Arizona community and reported a mountain lion crouched in a nearby mine tunnel.

Ralph Monroe and Buddy Stephens, part-time lion hunters, went to investigate. They approached the mine entrance cautiously, rifles at ready.

Monroe turned his flashlight toward the dark tunnel while Stephens prepared to fire. Inside was a sleeping porcupine.

'RELAX - IT'S ONLY A DEFENSIVE WEAPON'

Report From India

Nehru Hasn't Yet Disappeared

By HENRY S. BRADSHER
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — "Nehru has not yet disappeared. It is a silly question to ask what will happen after him."

The speaker: Jawaharlal Nehru.

The 72-year-old prime minister gets annoyed when people wonder aloud about the end of the Nehru era.

This has encompassed all 15 years of independence for this vast nation with 454 million inhabitants—about as many as Africa and Latin America combined. Nehru has moulded the nation and strongly influenced its people.

Despite his displeasure there is increasing talk of the era's end because of the illness that has plagued Nehru more than four months.

Nehru looks like a tired, sick shell of the man who once bounded up stairs and charged into crowds of affectionate followers. His illness has not been defined but it seems to involve an infection of the urinary tract.

If he heeds his doctors, he must loosen his grip on every aspect of Indian life. But Nehru sees many things still to do and feels he alone can do them.

He wants to insure economic development to raise his people from an average annual income of $70 a person. The problem is so vast that even if all internal straining and foreign borrowing ceased until 1967, the then 625 million persons in India will have an income of only $112 apiece.

Nehru also is disheartened by the two most populous nations—India and Communist China—to establish friendship as the basis of Asian peace. He does not want to leave a bitter border dispute.

One leading contender to succeed Nehru is Morarji R. Desai, 66, the craggy and asthmatic finance minister. He is formally No. 2 in the government.

Nehru acknowledged this recently by naming Desai to preside at cabinet meetings in his absence. He has given Desai significant posts on the back.

This prime minister has possibly done this to offset the efforts of V. K. Krishna Menon to build up a separate, dynamic image of himself. The defense minister, 65, has moved more out of the shadow of his boss and sponsor.

Krishna Menon stands to the left, Desai to the right of the dominant Congress party. The two factions could cancel each other out and let in a compromise replacement for Nehru.

This could be Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, 58, meek-looking but a skillful politician. Or it could be Nehru's only child, Indira Gandhi, 44. She is sometimes strong-willed. She reportedly talked her father into throwing out a Communist-run government in Kerala state in 1959.

All went fairly well until the day he reported in near-hysteria that he had lost the whole front to his shirt. It was impossible to match the material and anyhow he was too far behind to start on a new front.

A few days later I came across the missing piece, wadded up in his pants pocket.

He never did get the shirt finished, but somehow managed to pass the course. Now that his diploma is pasted into the family scrapbook with unremovable glue, it's safe to admit that it was through the intervention of a kindly neighbor with a sewing machine.

Harrowing as that sewing course was, for both Brenn and me, I guess it was time well spent. At least he knows which end of the thread goes into the needle.

Lesson In Bachelorhood

NEW YORK (AP)—I gave my son a short course in bachelorhood.

He didn't really need too much practice because he's been a bachelor all of his 17 years.

But up until now he's been a passive bachelor. As of now, he's going to be an active one.

Brenn has gone to college, far away from home, and his education will include a lot of things not in textbooks.

The first thing he will learn is that clean shirts do not grow on hangers in closets. He will also find out that fresh socks and snowy underwear don't turn up in bureau drawers, untouched by human hands.

Besides teaching him the rudiments of the washerwoman's trade, I have attempted to instill in him some notion of the proper way to make a bed, how to iron a shirt in an emergency and how to write checks. He learned that fast.

I didn't have to instruct him in how to sew on buttons. The school system took care of that long ago when they put him, as well as a number of other reluctant seventh-grade boys, in a sewing class. I never found out what the girls were doing that year—probably studying electronics and sheet metal work.

Project for the male seamsters was a shirt and Brenn duly purchased the material and made a stabbing attempt at cutting it out.

Work went slowly. He was absent from school a lot that year. Finally I noticed all his illnesses seemed to come on Tuesdays. Later I found out that sewing class was held on Tuesdays. Somehow he got better after I made that connection.

All went fairly well until the day he reported in near-hysteria that he had lost the whole front to his shirt. It was impossible to match the material and anyhow he was too far behind to start on a new front.

A few days later I came across the missing piece, wadded up in his pants pocket.

He never did get the shirt finished, but somehow managed to pass the course. Now that his diploma is pasted into the family scrapbook with unremovable glue, it's safe to admit that it was through the intervention of a kindly neighbor with a sewing machine.

Harrowing as that sewing course was, for both Brenn and me, I guess it was time well spent. At least he knows which end of the thread goes into the needle.

To Your Good Health

Sciatica Enough To Ruin Anybody's Disposition

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about the sciatic nerve, the causes of its inflammation, and its treatment? Is this ailment ever cured completely, without danger of recurrence? —L. M.

The sciatic nerve lies at the back of the thigh. The nerve emanates from the lower part of the spinal cord.

Pain in the trunk of this nerve is sciatica. Too often the term is loosely used for any pain in the leg. True sciatica is identified by tenderness over the nerve and other such signs.

The pain is variable, but it can be excruciating, and at such times it is enough to ruin anybody's disposition. Sufferers have my sympathy.

I remember quite a few years ago that a prominent actor, while appearing in a stage comedy, was in sheer misery from sciatica. He asked those who knew about it not to inform the audience because knowledge of his problem might take some of the fun out of the show for them. Doubtless he was right.

There are three major categories of causes:

One is infection of the nerve, a true neuritis.

The second, metabolic disorders, such as diabetes or gout.

The third, and perhaps most common, is some mechanical irritation of the nerve at its point of origin. A detective or "ruptured" spinal disc, severe curvature of the spine or bad posture are all possibilities, but these usually cause pain on only one side.

If the pain is on both sides, the physician makes a careful investigation of the possibilities of a metabolic cause or of a tumor affecting the spinal cord.

Men suffer more often from sciatica, but women sometimes are found to have large pelvic tumors pressing on the nerve.

Heat, large doses of Vitamin B and pain-relieving medications are the principle temporary treatments. In some cases it is even necessary to resort to narcotics.

The permanent treatment, naturally, is dictated by whatever is proved to be the basic cause. For one person antibiotics may be the answer to conquering infection; while for another it might, for example, be a specially fitted brace for the back which will take the pressure off the nerve.

If the cause can be corrected, the pain is ended permanently. As to recurrence: If something bothers the nerve, it hurts. When conditions are normal, it behaves.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 14 and have asthma. What are some exercises to relieve this? Is there a special date for outgrowing it? —B. F.

Some children outgrow asthma. The armed forces use the age of 12 as the dividing line: If it continues after that, it isn't likely to be outgrown.

Exercises aren't going to help. Some form of allergy usually is the cause. My advice is to have your doctor or an allergist make tests.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes uric acid salts to form in the vertebrae? Is this considered an arthritic condition? —B. W.

Gout causes deposits of uric acid in any of a large number of joints, including the spine. It does not have to be just in the toe, although that is the most frequent place.

This is known as "gouty arthritis," but unlike some other forms, it responds well to treatment with colchicine and other newer medications.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald for a copy of the leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Never A Dull Moment

Back in the days when I rated well enough as fodder to feed to the first team, a raw-boned fugitive from Oklahoma would manage to show up about the time the workouts were over. He preached a gospel of ball-hawking, of being quick and tough. The scrubby scrubs, of which I was the scrubbiest, had no more sense than to pair off against each other and charge away until we were ready to drop, or to jump as high as we could and practice landing flat on the ground without getting hurt.

IT WAS ONLY natural that eventually Obie Bristow would become a coach. He had been one of Oklahoma University's grid immortals, had a fling at pro football and a briefer one at law before coming here to look after his father's new oil investments. But football was in his blood (as it still is).

From the start it was apparent that he was no fuddy-duddy coach. By the merest coincidence, several Oklahoma families came to booming West Texas, and by the merest coincidence they had such famous sons as Tack Dennis, Elmer Dyer, Mike Roberts, et al.

Bristow rented a big two-story house, and having room to spare, a few young men who lacked a roof and shelter, accepted hospitality there. It was a good thing he had income independent of teaching, for he needed it.

HE CAME UP with some crazy plays, so much so that at a coaching school one bumpkin begged him to diagram a sure-fire scoring gambit. Bristow scratched out the weirdest thing he could imagine and forgot the incident, that is, until a year later the recipient of this play made a belated for him. Obie tried to duck, but the coach was tenacious, finally grabbing Obie by the hand to thank him for the play. "Boy, we scored 10 touchdowns on it last year," he exulted. "Gad, man," cried Obie, "show it to me." In a crucial game against Sweetwater, which was blessed by Red Sheridan and Sammy Baugh, Obie concocted an equalizer. When the boys broke swiftly from the huddle, a back got over the ball and centered it. However, he never turned loose of the ball, merely hiding it between his legs. One of the backs faked a catch and tore out around end behind superb blocking. When the coast was clear, the back (center) straightened up and took off like a high-lifted dog. If he got tackled, the referee could only note that he was indeed a back. After this against Sweetwater, the referee blew his whistle and stalked over to the bench and addressed Coach Bristow: "Obie, I don't know what you're doing, but cut it out."

THEN THERE WAS THE time his boys played the fearful Amarillo Sandies in the quarterfinals (and would have won except for a case of stage fright). Dead-down, the Steers deliberately took a long count. Just before time for the penalty whistle, one of the guards rolled back in obviously faked pain. Sensing a Bristow trick, the opposing center pounced on the ball. Offside! Five yards for the Steers!

The school desperately needed big game receipts, so for the Big Spring-San Angelo game Obie started a feud with Blondy Cross, then the San Angelo Standard-Times sports editor. He promised to bodily throw Blondy down the stairs and his typewriter on top of him.

HE ALSO STOPPED at a bakery on the way to San Angelo, bought rolls and pies, proceeded to a San Angelo cafe where he ordered plates and forks, and promptly fed his boys. He also took a Colored trainer along so the boys could rub his head as a good-luck charm prior to the game. Of course, there was standing room only.

Eventually Obie had to give up coaching to devote time to business, and a degree of equilibrium returned to the game. Alas, things eventually got pretty dull; we had to depend on the ball game for entertainment.

For Quality Education

Millions of Americans, since Sputnik, have been genuinely concerned that improvement in the American public school system has been too little and too lagged.

That event, proving Russia's giant leap forward in science and technology, has sparked a continuing debate on the QUALITY of both the content and instruction in our public schools.

WORRIED CITIZENS will find no solace in recent pronouncements by two of the most devoted and informed critics of our public schools, Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover and ex-Sen. William Benton of Connecticut, former assistant Secretary of State.

There is consolation only in the news that Admiral Rickover is being urged upon President Kennedy as the nation's next Commissioner of Education. The admiral's backers probably have hope that a man tough enough to lick the Navy brass in order to bring nuclear power to the fleet is also tough enough to lick the entrenched educational interests that fight tooth and nail to maintain the status quo.

BOTH MEN are convinced—and trying desperately to rouse their fellow citizens to the dangers—that the crucial battlefield of the cold war may well be in the realm of public education.

The former Senator has studied Russian education during four visits to the U.S.S.R. within the past seven years. During his most recent visit last summer, he found "Russian education at all levels bursting with new energy, new initiative, new ingenuity" with schools open six days a week and ten months a year. Not only is school year longer, but Benton re-discovered once more that the Soviet curriculum is much demanding.

THAT IS WHAT alarmed critics of our public schools have been stressing, and none with more fervor, conviction and gaffly tenacity than Admiral Rickover, "father of the atomic submarine." Two publications, in which the admiral concisely and brilliantly expounds this point of view, are just now available.

The first is "Education for All Children: What We Can Learn from England" by Vice Admiral H. G. Rickover, USN. It consists of a 333-page book containing Rickover's testimony before the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives. The testimony, given last May, is at last available to all citizens through the U. S. Government Printing Office.

THE SECOND publication bearing the imprimatur of the admiral is a new book "Swiss Schools and Ours: Why Thine Are Better," of the Council for Basic Education.

Rickover has made a thorough studying of the schools in our sister republic, only to find that they, too, like the British and Russian schools, provide far more solid, substantial education for children in the space age. He is convinced that 12 years of public education under the Swiss system is largely the equivalent of 16 in the U.S.A.

THIS BOOK, plus the government pamphlet, and the Benton newspaper articles distributed by United Feature Syndicate, are must reading for all Americans who care deeply for the return of excellence to the public schools and who believe that quality education is basic to national survival.

Difference Between 'Shall' And 'Will'

WASHINGTON—"We shall be first," said President Kennedy in Cape Canaveral on September 11th, speaking of the Space race. If the President were any less than a man of letters who presumably knows his grammar, the choice of the word would have no significance.

But there was a time when every school child knew the difference between shall and will. To say "shall be" in the first person expresses nothing but futurity and conditional expectation. To say "will be" expresses determination. Fowler's Modern English Usage cites the time-honored example, which was once used in our schools, of the woman floundering in the water and crying: "I will be perished; no one shall save me." She perished because of expressing a will to drown, so that nobody bothered to save her.

THE WHOLE QUESTION of the President's determination to be first in Space and elsewhere has been questioned very often of late. His Canaveral speech contrasts unfavorably with Khrushchev's notorious boast which is generally translated as: "We will bury you." If the President had expressed determination about our being first in Space, and had Chairman Khrushchev expressed conditional hope about burying us, we would all sleep more soundly. But the President's determination to whip the Russians is almost daily made dubious by his lack of forceful action, whereas the Chairman never leaves the slightest doubt as to his determination to do exactly what he says.

MOREOVER, THE American passivity too often has invited Russian counter-punches. For example:

Passivity: On Tuesday, September 4, the White House sent an unusual late afternoon call to the Washington press corps, saying that there would be an important announcement on Cuba which had recently received a flood of military equipment from Russia. The President's message to the press was that the equipment was "defensive" in nature. He said, "There is no evidence of . . . significant offensive capacity." He added, "Were it otherwise, the gravest issues would arise."

COUNTERPUNCH: On Tuesday, September 11, a week later, the Kremlin agreed with the White House that the military equipment sent to Cuba was "defensive." This put the President in the position of having implied that Castro was entitled to "defensive" aid because he might be attacked — inferentially, might be attacked by the United States. To the President's rather mild request to Congress for call-up of 150,000 reservists, the Kremlin returned the much tougher response that a Western attack on Cuba would be answered by Russia "from her own territory," at the risk of "a universal world war with the use of thermonuclear weapons."

Passivity: At his last press conference in August, the President said: "I am not for invading Cuba at this time. The words do not have any secondary meaning. I think it would be a mistake to invade Cuba."

COUNTERATTACK: On Labor Day, the Cuba News Agency, Prensa Latina, taunted the U.S. for "Yankee hysteria" and warned this country not to invade.

Passivity: On September 5, speaking for the Administration, Senator Eagle of California, took the strange position that the Monroe Doctrine did not apply to the Russian arming of Castro or to the acknowledged Soviet satellite that Cuba has become. Eagle said: "The Monroe Doctrine applies to a situation in which a foreign power by force overthrows an established regime in this Hemisphere."

COUNTERPUNCH: The Russian Foreign Ministry's blast of September 11 was a commentary, accidental or intended, upon the timidity of the White House and its Senate spokesmen. The Soviet statement said: "Gentleman, you are evidently so frightened that you are afraid of your own shadow, and you do not believe in the strength of your own ideas and your capitalist order."

The President's irresolution and the Russian determination to overcome us make a dismaying contrast. It is a contrast wrapped up all too neatly in the President's shall and the Kremlin's will. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY

Just A Little Too Fastidious

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old divorcee (no children, thank heavens!), an considered attractive and have a well-paying job in elegant surroundings. A 38-year-old, never-married man wants to marry me. He is handsome, sober, has excellent character, money in the bank and treats me like a queen. I suppose you wonder what my problem is. Well, he works in a factory and the thought of having my husband come home in dirty, greasy overalls bothers me. I have seen him only scrubbed up and in his good clothes, and don't know how seeing him dirty would affect me. Am I being childish? Do you think this is important enough to spoil our marriage? I am not crazy about the idea of having to say my husband is a common laborer.

you think of sending a gift this way? DEAR AMAZED: Your friend undoubtedly meant well, but she could have accomplished the same thing with a gift certificate. DEAR ABBY: My husband's secretary told me that a married woman telephones my husband constantly. I know who she is. She has three children and a no-good husband. My husband has taken her to lunch several times in this city, and he has seen her out of town. (He claims he "ran into her.") I asked him what they had in common, and he said she was just a "friend" who was unhappy and needed someone to talk to. He says it is a perfectly innocent relationship. Does it sound innocent to you? We have teen-aged children and I don't want my marriage broken up. IN DANGER DEAR IN: If it is innocent now, it has all the ingredients of an incendiary bomb. The way to a man's heart is not only through his stomach. Another route is via the shoulder. Don't let this woman borrow your husband's cry on. Let him know you were not born yesterday and will not tolerate any monkeyshines. UNLOAD YOUR PROBLEM ON ABBY. Duncan Presents Rotary Program

Dave Duncan, member of the Big Spring Rotary Club for 25 years, brought the program for the club Tuesday. He was introduced by Bill McRee, September program chairman. He reviewed the activity of several long-time members and asked some of the newer Rotarians to give a little of their background. Duncan had originally scheduled a movie and talk, to be given by John I. Moore, big game hunter, from San Angelo. The film was made on Moore's travels in Africa. A conflicting program prevented the guest speaker from being here Tuesday. Ann Houser, Rotary pianist, announced ticket sales for Community Concerts were falling behind and urged Rotarians to get behind the program to insure good numbers for the season. Daniel was accused of pocketing fees that should have gone to the county. He had been commissioner 14 years before his March 31 resignation.

Connally Made Labor Men Like The Word 'Unity'

EL PASO (AP)—Delegates to the state Democratic convention got tired of hearing the word "unity" but John Connally made them like it. When labor leaders served notice late Tuesday that they might withdraw the state AFL-CIO's tentative endorsement in what may become a hot general election race for governor, Connally said simply: "I'd like to have their support." Connally added that he thought the platform adopted "will best serve the most people." A high union spokesman later predicted privately that if representatives of various labor union organizations decide Oct. 13 to withdraw their endorsement of Connally, they won't switch support to Republican Jack Cox. Some say a reaffirmation of support for Connally might give the AFL-CIO a stronger voice in party affairs than labor would have had by not protesting at the convention. State AFL-CIO president Hank Brown had at least two talks with President Kennedy during the recent space survey visit to Houston. Connally has taken leadership over a much stronger state Democratic party than Gov. Price Daniel inherited six years ago. In 1956, Lyndon Johnson, aided by the late Speaker San Rayburn and Daniel, formed a liberal-labor Loyalist coalition to defeat outgoing Gov. Allan Shivers' conservatives. Factional disputes disrupted 1958 and 1960 state conventions, with support of party nominees a prime issue. There was never a roll call vote Tuesday. Delegates shouted approval of a provision that members of the State Democratic Committees can be ousted by fellow members if they do not support state party nominees. Heading the new state committee is Dallas lawyer and oilman Eugene Locke, who also is Connally's campaign manager. Eighteen members of the 62-member committee are holdovers from Daniel's regime. Labor, liberal, conservative, and ultra-conservative Democrats are on the list—all apparently agreeing beforehand to work for Connally in November. "Your job is assured for the next two years, mine is not," Connally said, "as far as I know, this was the shortest convention in the recent history of the state Democratic party. There was less friction and less division than any convention I know anything about." "He's been going to conventions since he was 17—he should know," said one of Connally's aides.

13 Die When Car Jumps Track

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—A passenger train car jumped the tracks on a curve near Belo Horizonte Tuesday, killing 13 persons and injuring 40 others. Belo Horizonte, the capital of Minas Gerais State, is about 200 miles northwest of Rio. Railroad officials told the Brazilian news agency Meridional that the Central of Brazil train car apparently developed mechanical trouble before the train rounded the curve at high speed.

Immigrant's Story Reads Like The American Dream

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur B. Belfer arrived here from Poland on Sept. 5, 1939—four days after the outbreak of World War II—without a penny in his pockets or an asset to his name. Belfer, 55, and the head of a far-flung business empire, donated $2 million to Yeshiva University Tuesday for its Graduate School of Science. The events of the 23 years in between read like the fulfillment of the American dream. Belfer was a successful dealer in down and feathers in Cracow, Poland, when he set sail for the United States on a business trip, leaving his wife and three children behind. When he arrived here he discovered that Poland had ceased to be an independent country. The money he had with him and the funds he had left behind were worthless. His situation was precarious in another way, since he had entered the United States on a visitor's visa and had no country to return to. Belfer was detained at Ellis Island for three days, then was allowed to enter the United States for 90 days on condition he would emigrate to Canada. He left Ellis Island—after borrowing $5 for spending money—and made his way to Canada. Later he obtained an immigrant's visa and returned to the United States. Subsequently, he managed to bring his family here. Using his knowledge of the international feather market, Belfer interested a New York broker in purchasing feathers in Europe, where they were selling far below U.S. market prices. The result of these transactions permitted him to get back into business on borrowed money. By 1942 he was manufacturing sleeping bags for the armed forces. In 1946, Belfer became a U.S. citizen. Four years later he branched out into the foam rubber business. In 1952, he went into oil in Texas and acquired property in Wyoming. Belfer is head of the Belco Petroleum Corp. which deals in oil and natural gas and is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. His son, Robert, is a lawyer with the corporation. Belfer's two daughters are married. His gift to Yeshiva University will be used to expand the graduate school, which offers programs in mathematics and physics. Belfer said "I can think of no finer way to express my gratitude to this country than through higher education." President Kennedy and the highest governmental officials have stressed many times over the great need for training more and better scientists if the free world is to remain free."

Rites Pend For Mrs. Sullivan

Mrs. Alma Bell Sullivan, 88, former resident of Big Spring, died Tuesday at noon at her home in Worland, Wyo. Funeral services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Her husband, the Rev. Ben S. Sullivan, died April 3, 1931. She was a member of the First Baptist Church, Big Spring.

Mrs. Sullivan was born Oct. 9, 1873, in Hopkins County. They moved to Big Spring from Blackwell in 1931, and she lived here until 1952 when she moved to Worland.

She is survived by four sons, Karl Sullivan, Worland, Wyo., Ben R. Sullivan, Capitan, N. M., Walter C. Sullivan, Higgins, and C. J. Sullivan, Big Spring; two daughters, Mrs. Lucy Watson and Mrs. Claudia B. Jones, Worland, Wyo.; a sister, Mrs. Donie Hefflin, Plainview; 10 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

She will be buried beside her husband in City Cemetery.

Busy Man

Texas AFL-CIO president Hank Brown is all smiles as he uses the telephone hours before the State Democratic convention opened in El Paso. At the same time, he and other state labor leaders were reported to be unhappy with the party's proposed platform. (See story on Page 5-B.)

County Receives Road Fund Share

Howard County has received a check from the state for $27,162.44 as its annual share of funds for lateral road construction needs.

The county gets the amount annually—the money being the share allotted to the county as its part of the levy collected by the state to pay off road bond obligations in counties where such bonds exist.

Howard County, and others, had no outstanding bonds at the time the program was established. Therefore each year, instead of paying off bonds, the county gets its share of the funds in cash.

VFW Commander Here For Meeting

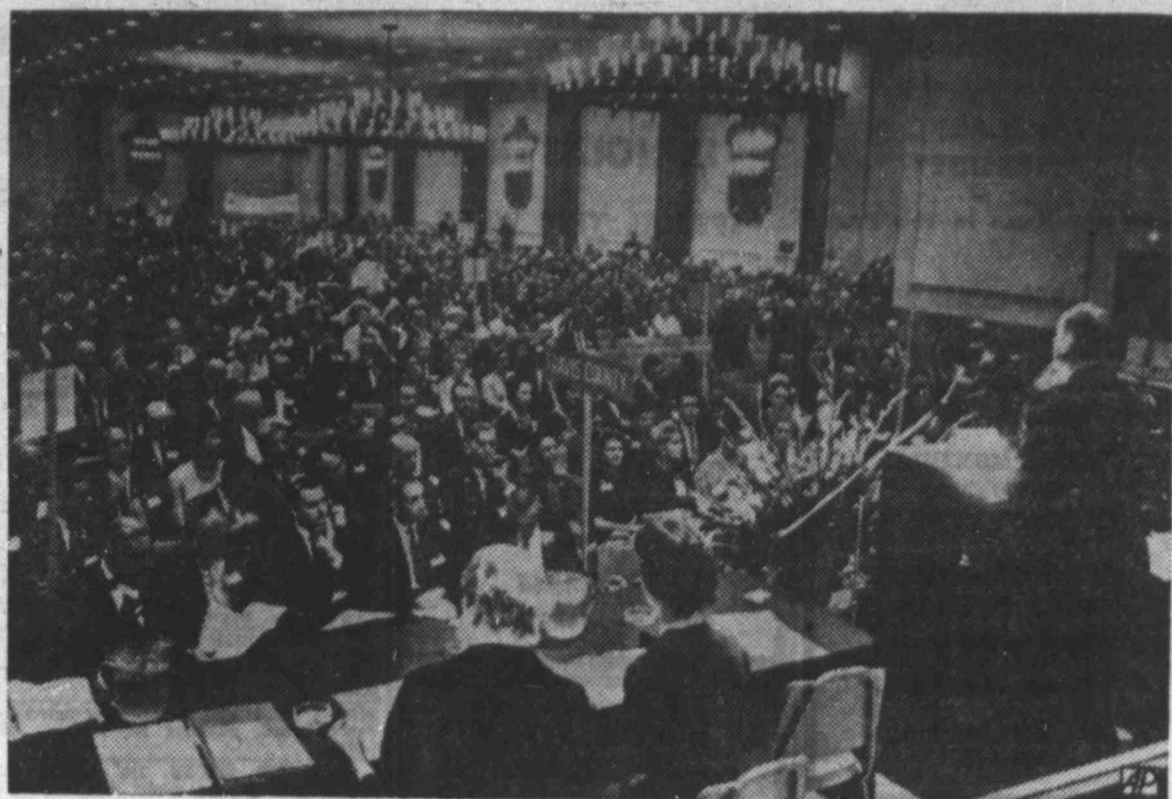

Travis Simpson, 25th District Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Mrs. Simpson, District Assistant Membership Chairman, R. King and Mrs. King, met with the Christensen Tucker Post 2013 in Big Spring Tuesday night. Post Commander Granville Miller and 21 post and auxiliary members were present.

Plans were made for the fall convention of VFW and Auxiliary posts in Big Spring Oct. 27-28.

Kennedys Vote

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy and his wife leave voting booths after casting their ballots in the Massachusetts primary at the Charles Street Meeting House in Boston. The President's younger brother won by a landslide over Edward J. McCormack Jr., state attorney general and cousin of House Speaker John McCormack, for Democratic nomination as U.S. Senator. Lakes Receding Slowly Today

Area lakes began receding slowly today. Lake J. B. Thomas, the reservoir of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, was at elevation 2258.82 feet, a decline of only .08 of a foot for the day. Service spillway level is 2258.00 feet. Lake Colorado City was at elevation 2071.05 feet, a decline of .05 of a foot for the day. Spillway level is 2070.30 feet. Champion Creek, which is still far below spillway level, is at 2056.75 feet and holding steady.

Girls' Y Club Sets Next Meeting

The Junior Tri-Hi-Y will hold its next meeting Sept. 24, and will go further into plans to organize a Negro Girls Senior Hi-Y. At the last meeting, Monday night, President Jane McElrath introduced Ronnie Crowmover, Dick Irons, and Jimmie Welch, who presented a program on parliamentary procedure for the 18 members present.

Ole Miss Caught In Racial Crisis

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Contempt of court threats and mounting political pressure caught the State College Board on opposite sides today in the University of Mississippi desegregation crisis.

Board members planned to handle routine affairs of the state colleges in committee meetings on the eve of a regular board session Thursday. A source close to the college board said, however, a called meeting to handle the desegregation problem was possible.

James Meredith, a 29-year-old Kosciusko Negro, remained just across the Tennessee line at Memphis, waiting on his attorneys to advise him when to make the 50-mile trip to Oxford to register as the university's first Negro student.

As the showdown neared, the Justice Department was federal court permission at Hattiesburg to launch contempt of court actions if Ole Miss defied a court order directing the acceptance of Meredith as a student.

On the other side, the Mississippi Legislature adopted a resolution praising Gov. Ross Barnett's "fearless and courageous stand." The Senate passed the resolution unanimously and the House by a 130-2 vote.

Barnett urged state officials last week to defy federal court desegregation orders even if it meant jail.

The governor expressed a willingness to go to jail himself, but board Vice President Dr. Verner Holmes of McComb said the court order did not name Barnett and only board members and university officials would be jailed in the event of contempt.

In other developments: The Rev. J. W. Jones of New Albany, a Negro Baptist minister, urged Meredith not to enroll because "it will cause a setback in harmony between white and colored races."

The governor's office reported thousands of telephone calls, telegrams and letters from throughout the nation in support of his stand against integration.

Barnett said U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy called him and "indicated he would send

College Enrollment Stands At 751

Enrollment at Howard County Junior College now stands at 751 and may climb substantially before final returns are in.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, said this figure represented the number clearing the business office. Another 24 have registered but have not yet paid their fees. In addition, some students were registering Wednesday, and Dr. Hunt said this might continue to the deadline on Sept. 25.

Final enrollment last year was 729. This year there are 201 students from Webb AFB registered for college credit work, a gain of about one-third in this category.

Road Contract To Be Awarded

Contract for paving the Leathewood road, which leads off to the west from US 87 north of Big Spring, will be awarded by the Howard County commissioners court Thursday morning.

The road, built by the county road and bridge department, is in commissioner Rufus Stallings' commissioner district and extends for five miles.

Chamber Group Approves Code

The Southern Standard Building Code, established by the Southern Building Code Congress, has been approved for use here by the civic development committee of the Chamber of Commerce. A meeting was held Tuesday to decide on recommendations to the city commission.

Harold Talbot, chairman, and Robert A. Heinze, will represent the committee before the commission Tuesday with recommendations.

The Big Spring Home Builders Association, after several weeks of study, has approved the code for Big Spring with minor changes in the administration.

The code is revised regularly to cover new developments in building material and usages. The congress is non-profit and operates only from membership dues.

The Big Spring city commission began, two years ago, an effort to secure a workable building code for the city, and the code may likely be adopted soon in the interest of safety and lower fire insurance rates.

Paving Program Gaining Interest

The continuing assessment paving program for Big Spring is gaining in interest, Larry Crow, city manager, said Wednesday. Twenty-six blocks will be considered at Tuesday night's city commission meeting. More blocks may be presented at the same time.

"A great deal of interest is being shown in the program if telephone calls are any indication," Crow said. "Most of those inquiring are not even asking what it will cost."

W. D. Caldwell was awarded the contract on the first phase, which includes Birdwell Lane from Fifteenth to Marcy; Austin from 100 feet south of Third to Fourth; Brown, and San Jacinto, both between Third and Fourth. Engineering has been done by city officials.

Next to being there, nothing's so warm and personal as a LONG DISTANCE CALL

And nothing's faster or easier than DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING

Direct Distance Dialing lets you keep in touch the easy, personal way. And you save about one-third because your call goes through at low station-to-station rates. Why not dial someone tonight?

FAST, EASY WAY TO CALL: Check your telephone directory for the area code number of the city you're calling. Then simply dial "1," then the area code number and the telephone number you want to reach. If you don't know the number, the operator can connect you with information in the city you're calling.

Demos May Face Loss Of Support

EL PASO (AP)—Texas Democrats began their drive for victory in the November general election today facing a possibly serious loss of support.

While the Democratic state convention ended on an outward note of harmony Tuesday, organized labor served notice it will take a second look at its decision to support Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Connally.

A dispute between labor officials and delegates to the convention arose over a platform statement that the Democratic party favors retention of Texas' right to work law.

Immediately after adoption of the platform, Texas AFL-CIO President Hank Brown announced an Oct. 13 meeting in Austin of the Committee on Political Education to reconsider its Connally endorsement of last July 19.

Platform committees refused to change the platform drawn by Connally despite attempts by several groups, including labor and the Harris County delegation.

Otherwise the convention followed closely Connally's plan for a brief and harmonious session.

Dallas oil man-lawyer Eugene Locke, also Connally's campaign manager, was named state Democratic chairman, succeeding J. E. Connally of Abilene. Mrs. Alfre negley of San Antonio, a Connally booster, was named vice chairman. Frank Erwin, Austin lawyer who guided the platform through the committee, was made secretary.

Amid loud applause, the convention adopted a special recommendation that any member of the State Democratic Committee not supporting party nominees Nov. 6 could be ousted by other committee members.

Connally told newsmen after the convention:

"I think the platform will best serve the most people. That's what we tried to write.

"There was less friction and less division than any conventional I know anything about. This is the hallmark of what a responsible convention should be."

THE PLATFORM

Major planks of the Democratic platform, by topic:

On education: Attract to Texas colleges more professional national reputation and provide them adequate research facilities.

A citizens commission to study the role and scope of public junior colleges, our educational system.

On industrial growth and development:

Creation of a privately owned statewide business development corporation to make long term loans to businesses desiring to locate in Texas and unable to secure financing from conventional sources.

Creation of a bureau of commerce, one division of which would be responsible for industrial development now handled by the industrial commission.

On labor and employment:

Development of an industrial safety program.

Development of a cooperative labor-business industrial safety education program.

WAGE PROGRAM A study of statutes on prevailing wages to find a fair approach to correct such inequities as may now exist.

Reorganization of the Bureau of Labor Statistics into Bureau of Labor.

Retention of right to work law.

On taxation: Retain the state sales tax, but simplification of record keeping and reporting requirements for businessmen, clarification of ambiguities and elimination of inequities.

On economy, efficiency and governmental reorganization:

Limit any governor to two consecutive two-year terms of office.

Strengthen governor's role in coordinating the state budget.

Abolish the industrial commission and transfer its industrial development function to a proposed bureau of commerce and transfer its industrial conciliation function to the office of governor.

Intensive study of the operations of the Texas Railroad Commission to determine the degree and scope of reorganization necessary to provide for efficient utilization of regulatory powers to protect against such abuses as slant hole oil well drilling.

MORE SPENDING

On health and welfare: Increased state expenditures for the needy aged, needy children, the blind and totally disabled.

On women's rights: Adoption of a constitutional amendment giving women equal legal rights.

On law enforcement: Revision of the penal code after a thorough study of all recommendations made by the state law enforcement commission.

Enactment of stronger laws to combat the increase in juvenile crime.

On minerals: Utilize the influence of state officials to preserve freedom of Texas resources from federal control and maintain strict mandatory oil import restrictions.

WATER LAWS On water resources and conservation:

Proceed rapidly on program of dam and reservoir construction.

Passage of constitutional amendment giving state authority to acquire storage rights in reservoirs constructed by either local or federal agencies.

Tighten program regulating and controlling pollution of streams and air.

On elections: Eliminate the poll tax. Substitute a strong voter registration statute.

On small loan regulation: License and regulate the small loan industry.

Polio Problem

HOUSTON (AP)—The medical societies of nine Southeast Texas counties have decided to send four doctors to Austin to talk with the state health commissioner before deciding whether to continue mass polio immunization clinics.

TV Non-Fiction Gets Most Attention

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It is something of an open secret that, inside television, it is expected that most of this season's real excitement will be generated by the public affairs, information and documentary programs.

During the past few years, while television entertainment has been slipping gradually into the hands of Hollywood's facile manufacturers of B features, network news departments and private packagers have been learning to build meaty, professional and illuminating programs based on reality.

There is considerable irony in the vast difference between the often shoddy pieces of fiction and enthusiastic, painstaking efforts in reporting the realities. The irony is that the vast television audience, in every survey ever made, has shown a clear preference for entertainment, however feeble.

It is a rare news show — the launching of an astronaut, the critical balloting at a political convention—that can even begin to compete with the popularity of the shabbiest, most cliché-ridden Western or situation comedy.

The proof of every television pudding is still its popularity rating — the old and controversial numbers game that remains, in spite of all the disclaimers, the cold, hard basis on which most advertisers decide whether or not to sponsor a show.

CBS Radio recently announced results of a 12-month study which, among other things, indicated more than half the viewers want to hear something besides music on the air waves. Most complaints involved too much rock 'n' roll music, too many commercials, hard-sell commercials and loud sound effects. Also, most radio listening still is done at home—only about a quarter of it in automobiles.

David Brinkley plans to kick off his fall "Journal" series on NBC with a hot one Oct. 1—"The Great Highway Robbery." He promises to name names and route numbers in charging that untold billions are finding their way illegally into the pockets of some dishonest contractors, officials and inspectors connected with highway construction.

Recommended tonight: "The Virginian," premiere, NBC, 7:30-9 (EST)—big, economy-size Western with Lee J. Cobb and James Drury; "Wagon Train," return, ABC, 7:30-8:30 — the established show on a new network; "CBS Reports," return, 7:30-8:30—"The Teen-Age Smoker," starts the show's new season at an earlier hour.

Careful Now!

The Kayarts, who will appear Thursday with the Rudy Bros. Circus, are described as equilibrist, which means that they have a fine sense of balance. Theirs is one of the many acts to be seen at the Circus sponsored here by the Shrine Club in the rodeo arena. Schools will let out early for the matinee at 2:15 p.m., and there will be another performance at 8:15 p.m.

Fall Is Fatal

GALVESTON (AP)—Jimmie Brooks, 31, of Houston was killed Tuesday when he fell from a scaffold in a city water storage tank.

Thank you . . .

I would like to thank my many friends and customers for their wonderful friendship and past patronage . . . and to congratulate Ralph Metcalf on buying the No-D-Lay Cleaners.

I know you will enjoy doing business with him.
