Shrine Circus Brings Rodeo Bowl Biggest Crowd

Wearily but happily, Big Spring Shrine Club officials today began tabulating results from the Shrine Circus Thursday.

There were no definite figures, but everyone was agreed that the rodeo bowl had its biggest crowd in history Thursday night.

Every available seat in the stadium was taken, even after officials had asked the audience to squeeze in tight to make room for others. Hundreds of others stood around the top. All during the performance there were long lines around the concession stands.

Long after the evening show started, people were still filing past the ticket stand.

At the afternoon performance, the big bowl was approximately two-thirds filled with children and parents. Ted O. Groebel, potentate for the Suez Temple, said figures were not yet available but that a turnout of 12,000 to 13,000 was not improbable. Local firms had given away upwards of 12,000 kid-tickets.

Not since the time that a routine water stop here over a score of years ago broke records for Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus has there been such a circus crowd in Big Spring.

Jubilant Shrine Club officials expressed appreciation to businessmen and to the entire community for the record support.

APPELLATE COURT RULES IMPACT IS NOT A CITY

EASTLAND (AP)—An appellate court ruled today that tiny Impact, the would-be wet town on the north edge of dry Abilene, is no city.

The 11th Court of Appeals reversed a decision by Dist. Judge J. R. Black of Abilene, who had ruled the incorporation of the 47-acre city valid.

Chief Justice Clyde Grisson wrote the opinion, saying: "Impact is not an incorporated city because the incorporation was by illegal methods . . . by the whim and caprice of Mr. Perkins."

The case is styled the state versus Dallas Perkins and others and grew out of the efforts of Perkins, an Abilene man, to incorporate the town.

After Impact voted to incorporate, the town voted wet. Several liquor licenses for Impact have been involved in court hearings and have been held up by the Liquor Control Board pending settlement of the incorporation suit.

Taylor County has been dry since 1902. Impact has about 200 residents and about 30 voters.

The little town voted 27-0 about two years ago to incorporate and the issue has been in the courts almost continuously since.

Impact later voted 18-2 to allow off-premise consumption of liquor and on-premise consumption of beer.

In Austin, James Stanford, assistant state liquor board administrator, said his office probably will take no action on requests for package store permits in Impact until a final decision is handed down, probably by the state Supreme Court.

U.S. Asks Contempt Action Against Board At Ole Miss

Mitchell Fair Has Largest Turnout Yet

By M. A. WEBB
COLORADO CITY (SC)—Mitchell County Fair officials estimated this morning the annual event has the biggest turnout in its history. Although the various ribbons had been awarded in all of the exhibitions, the spotlight this morning was focused on the Old Timers Reunion.

Some 300 pioneers had registered through noon and five awards were made this morning. The old-timers spent most of the morning registering, getting reacquainted, and just plain visiting.

Uncle Billy Basham won the award for being the oldest present. He is 92 and came to Mitchell County 54 years ago. Miss Ludy Wilson claimed the award for being the oldest old-timer born in Mitchell County. She was born in 1880.

Daisy Burns was listed as the youngest member of an old-timer's family born in the county. She is 22 months old. Mrs. Eleanor Coleman Burchard, from Sacramento, Calif., won the award for traveling the farthest to attend the reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol McKinney were given the award for being the oldest married couple present. They have been married 56 years and live in the Iatan area.

Porter Richardson was master of ceremonies for the program this morning; Mrs. Etta Doss Motley is president of the old timers organization, Jimmie Greene, longtime resident of Mitchell County and this area, gave the welcoming address for the session.

Hundreds of fair-goers strolled through the carnival and fair exhibits Thursday night and this morning. Exhibits are primarily in the Civic House, with the agriculture and automobile exhibits in the National Guard armory. Rides and concessions are located on the T&P parking lot.

The fair continues through Saturday.

Exhibit results include:

Those Pink Pants Helped Employment
LONDON (AP)—Shapely Barbara Smith, whose tight pink pants almost shut down a British shirt factory's executives, "the phone's boosting employment."

Barbara, 23, whose vital statistics are 35-23-35, has worked at the factory for three years.

Two days ago 20 male workers at the factory complained to the management that the shocking pink pants distracted them.

James Wright, one of the men who grumbled, said: "It's no laughing matter. But I don't mind the idea of girls in pants as much as I do that shocking pink color—ugh!" Her job hung in the balance—but not any more.

"Ever since the story got out," said Larran Adams, one of the factory's executives, "the phone's been ringing. Men of all ages have been calling us asking for jobs."

In Britain, factory workers are sometimes hard to get.

Kid's Day Essay Winners

Claudia Sullivan, Runnels Junior High, and Peter Einstein, Goliad Junior High, wrote the essays on air-power that won top honors in the Kid's Day Contest. The day is Saturday and the event is jointly sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and Webb AFB.

Base, Kiwanis Club Set Webb Kids' Day

Young Peter Einstein, Goliad Junior High eighth grader, and Claudia Sullivan, ninth grader from Runnels Junior High, will share honors Saturday as honorary commanders at Webb AFB for the annual Big Spring Kiwanis Club-Webb AFB Kid's Day.

They were announced as the writers of the two best essays of some 200 submitted by junior high boys and girls at the Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Thursday.

Saturday, they will preside as base commander and WAF commander, respectively, at the ceremonies at Webb in honor of the town's younger citizens.

The six boys and girls from each of the junior high schools, whose essays were selected as the best were announced Thursday and 11 of the 12 winners were guests of the club.

OTHERS LISTED
They were Ralph Long, Dolores Holmes, Connie Thompson, Ricky Campbell, Bobby Batell and Miss Sullivan from Runnels; Ken Chadd, Jimmy Brown, Patty Haralson, Einstein and Pamela Gould from Goliad. Helen Heckler, the 12th winner, was absent from the luncheon.

Young Einstein is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Leonard Einstein. He lives at 2 Allbrook Drive, Webb Village.

Miss Sullivan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Sullivan, 100 NE 9th.

Excerpts from a number of the essays submitted—all on the general theme "Air Force Contribution to American Freedom"—were read to the club by Rev. Ward Jackson, member of the Kiwanis Club boys and girl's work committee.

Walter Eubanks, chairman of the committee, outlined, in brief, the plans for Kid's Day.

SHOW AT RITZ
The day will actually begin at 9 o'clock with a 1½ hour show at the Ritz Theatre. Parents of children will provide transportation to the theatre; buses, furnished by the Kiwanis Club and Webb AFB, will arrive at the theatre at 10:30 to transport the children to the base.

Buses will go directly to the ramp where a "Kids Day" program will be kicked off. First item will be the presentation of

Reds Claim Subs Will Help Cuba
MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet military newspaper Red Star denounced today the U.S. Senate resolution on Cuba and said Soviet nuclear submarines are ready to put to sea.

In an editorial, the newspaper said "The Soviet servicemen are vigilantly following the vile intrigues of the warmongers and if the frantic aggressor should force us to do it, the submarines of the Soviet fleet will immediately head for sea, ready to bring down upon the enemy the inevitable might of rocket blows and to strike with its accurate torpedoes."

awards to the writers of the best essays.

Awards will be made to the second place winners, as well, and the winning essays will be read to the assembly by a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Col. Banks will make the presentation of the award to Einstein and Capt. (WAF) Margaret J. Wyatt will present the award to Miss Sullivan.

Project officers of the various units will arrange for a four-ship formation of T-36s and T-37s; also a two-ship formation of the F-102's from the Webb-based 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

FINAL PLANS
Webb AFB today announced final plans for Saturday's Kids Day activities. The weather forecast is for clear skies and a maximum temperature of 85 degrees.

This made it possible to confirm plans for the "flyovers" by aircraft at the base. The flyovers are set for 11:00 to 12:30 p.m. A flight of F-102's will make two

Payments Balance Still Improves
WASHINGTON (AP)—Continued improvement has been reported in the U.S. balance of payments position.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that the deficit for the second quarter of the year was $220 million, compared with $480 million in the first quarter.

A GOOD DAY FOR PUBLIC RELATIONS
Children Show Their Faith In Our Air Force Defense

PERU, Ind. (AP)—Mischievous Tommy Osborne, 10, dreams of being an Air Force pilot.

He watches the schedule of supersonic flights by B58 bombers and waits outside his home every night, hoping to catch a glimpse of the big planes as they fly eight miles up, touching off sonic booms.

Last Friday evening, when they didn't come over and Tommy learned a B58 Hustler had crashed in Southern Indiana, he knew he'd lost "my friends." Three men died in the crash.

In a letter to Col. Vincent M. Crane, commander of nearby Bunker Hill AFB, Tommy explained: "I really look on these flyers as good friends because I know they were ready to protect me and if necessary to give up their lives to do this."

Tommy said he's saving money to go to college and become an Air Force flying officer and added, "I am sending a little of this money to be put in the collection

Negro Spurned By Dixie School

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—The Justice Department asked today for federal contempt of court citations against all 13 members of the State College Board for failure to enroll Negro James H. Meredith in the University of Mississippi.

A hearing was set for Monday at New Orleans.

The Justice Department, moving swiftly in the wake of Gov. Ross Barnett's personal refusal to admit the 29-year-old Negro to the school Thursday, put its request before a three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

The appeals court judges are here for a hearing in another case. Thursday night, barely hours after Barnett rejected the Negro Air Force veteran's application in a dramatic showdown on the campus at Oxford, the Justice Department asked U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize at Meridian to cite the school's top leaders for contempt.

HEARING SET
Mize set a hearing for 1:30 p.m. today and ordered these officials of the university to appear; Chancellor J. D. Williams, 61; Dean Arthur B. Lewis, and Registrar Robert B. Ellis. Lewis declined comment. Williams and Ellis could not be reached.

Three federal courts reaching all the way up to the U.S. Supreme Court—had ordered Meredith's enrollment and the end of segregation at the 114-year-old institution.

But Barnett, clothed in the powers of the board and acting as registrar, rejected Meredith.

Earlier, the governor had said he would go to jail, if necessary, to prevent the desegregation of the university where he took his own law degree.

But the federal government bypassed him in its legal counter-move. A spokesman for the Justice Department in Washington, Edwin O. Guthman, said the federal government still held the board and the university officials—and not Barnett—responsible.

PLANS NOT KNOWN
Meredith's own plans remained a mystery as the legal battle started again. He left the campus after Barnett turned him down.

The three appeals court judges—John Minor Wisdom, Griffin Bell and John R. Brown—issued their show-cause order against Thomas Jefferson Tubb, chairman of the State College Board, and these other members:

Charles Dixon Fair, Robert Bruce Smith II, Harry Gordon Carpenter, Tully D. Riddell, James Napier Lipscomb, Dr. Verner Smith Holmes, S. R. Evans, William Orlando Stone, Malcolm Mette Roberts, Ira Lamar Morgan, Edgar Ray Izard and Leon Lowrey.

The order stated simply that it appears that "each of the defendants above named have failed and refused to comply with the terms of this court's orders."

In another action, the Justice Department asked the appeals court judges also to cite the three university officials named in Mize's order of Thursday night.

REQUEST DENIED
But the appeals court judges took note of Mize's order and denied the request.

University officials claimed they had turned over their power to the 64-year-old governor who vowed to go to jail before seeing the university integrated.

But the Justice Department postponed a showdown with Barnett by omitting his name in its contempt proceeding.

Previous court orders that Meredith be enrolled were directed at university officials, Guthman said. "Our position is that they still have that responsibility," he said.

A Justice Department spokesman said the government's position is that Barnett actions "have no legal effect."

TELEGRAM
The Justice Department disclosed contents of a 400-word telegram Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy sent to the 13 members of the board trustees, the chancellor, the dean and registrar.

The telegram said neither Meredith nor the attorney general had been able to get any commitments from university officials that Meredith would be registered. It recited the legal steps in the case and the government's position, and advised the officials that the department's purpose was to see court orders obeyed "peaceably."

which I feel sure you are taking for the families."

He enclosed two crisp dollar bills.

"Nothing has shaken the base like this in a long time," a Bunker Hill officer said Thursday as he guided Tommy around the Strategic Air Command facility near here.

Crane invited the young airplane buff to the base for the day to inspect the supersonic Hustlers and meet the men who fly them.

The wide-eyed youngster said "gee" and "pretty neat" as he settled into a B58 cockpit for a briefing.

Crane presented Tommy with a plaque making him a member of the 309th Bomb Wing, "as long as he lives up to its motto, 'Can Do.'" calling "Roger." Tommy slipped into the pilot's seat and put a KC135 tanker simulator through a 15-minute flight.

"Boy! It's worth missing school," the youngster told officers.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Capt. Donald H. Osterhout of Lockbourne Air Force Base had a bad moment Thursday on a television show for children.

He was to talk about a "kid's day" open house at the base, when Julie Graber, 4, a guest on the show, rose and announced: "I know what a sonic boom is."

Osterhout flinched. He flies a 1,500-mile-an-hour F101 jet fighter and is well aware of Air Force problems in convincing the public of the need for the sonic booms.

Then little Julie gave her definition: "It's a noise an airplane makes when it's defending the United States of America."

Rebels Close Highway

Rebel Argentine troops under Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía man a machinegun alongside a highway outside Buenos Aires near their Campo de Mayo garrison headquarters. General Onganía was attempting to force the ouster of military leaders in the government of President Jose Maria Guido, claiming they were planning establishment of a dictatorship.

Argentine President Calls A Cease-Fire

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Jose Maria Guido proclaimed a cease-fire in Argentina today and ousted three military leaders accused by army rebels of plotting to set up a military dictatorship.

His cabinet resigned to give him a free hand.

For the moment, at least, it appeared that Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, the rebel leader who demanded a return to democratic rule, had won. Whether his army rivals would bow out peacefully was not immediately clear.

Reports said fighting persisted north and south of this capital as the president issued his communique announcing the cease-fire. The communique was a product of a session with his cabinet and rival generals that dragged into the early hours.

Ousted was the war secretary, Gen. Jose Cornejo Saravia, and the communique said resignations would be accepted from his two top army officers—Gen. Juan Lario, commander in chief, and Gen. Bernardino Labayru, chief of staff, later in the day.

Guido himself assumed the post of war secretary.

A presidential communique said

Storms May Be Cooled

By The Associated Press

Cold air chilling most of the nation is expected to take the steam out of the thumping storm that hit parts of Florida with damaging winds and more than a foot of rainfall.

More than 13 inches of rain poured down on Sarasota Thursday evening, flooding parts of the city three feet deep and causing some residents to be evacuated.

Five inches of rain fell on St. Petersburg and 40-mile-an-hour winds raked Miami. Water and power failures were reported in Sarasota and Miami.

Meanwhile, it was cool sleeping for most of the rest of the nation, and downright freezing in some parts.

Lebanon, N.H., saw the temperature go down to 31 degrees.

Fair or partly cloudy skies beamed over most of the United States. Scattered showers moved over the Central Plains and the Central Plateau region, and it was generally overcast in the West Coast and parts of the Mississippi Valley.

Real summer weather hung on only in parts of the desert Southwest, Southern Texas and the Gulf Coast region. It was 91 at midnight at Needles, Calif.

Youth Programs To Be Organized

Gra-Y and Tri-Gra-Y will hold organizational meetings Saturday morning, according to Francis Flint, general secretary.

Tri-Gra-Y, a club program for girl Y members in grades 4-6, meets at 9 a.m. each Saturday. The program includes crafts, swimming, gymnasium activities, service projects and club activities.

Gra-Y meets at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Y. Regular meetings will be held at the Y Saturday mornings. Gra-Y is for boys in grades 4-6.

Schools on the North Side will be handled through the Lakeview Branch Y while others will work through the main Y.

No Contempt Vote Against Steel Men Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman James O. Eastland predicts his Senate Judiciary Committee will vote against citing four major steel companies and nine of their top executives for contempt of Congress.

"We're going to vote next Tuesday," the Mississippi Democrat said Thursday as the committee wound up three days of hearings on a recommendation of the anti-trust subcommittee that contempt action be brought against the executives because they refused to supply pricing information.

Eastland told a newsman he is opposed to pressing contempt charges and that he expects his 15-member committee to see things the way he does by a 2-1 margin.

The scheduling of a vote Tuesday was protested by subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., who argued more time is needed for members to study the record. The subcommittee voted 5-2 Aug. 31 that contempt action be brought against the executives because they refused to comply with subpoenas for their production costs.

Detailed unit cost figures had been subpoenaed from 12 steel companies last April after announcement of a $6-a-ton steel price increase. The hike was rescinded under pressure from President Kennedy.

Eight companies agreed under protest to submit the information, but have been excused from doing so until the issue of noncompliance by the other four—Republic, Bethlehem, National, and Armco—is settled.

Thomas F. Patton, president of Republic and spokesman for the four at the hearings, contended that disclosure of the information would put steel producers at a competitive disadvantage, both at home and abroad.

Contempt of Congress is punishable by a $1,000 fine, a year in jail, or both.

Not Disqualified

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson held Wednesday that persons who receive retroactive payments of old age and survivors insurance at the same time they receive unemployment compensation are not disqualified under the state employment act.

DEAR ABBY It All Depends On Daughter

DEAR ABBY: We have a daughter who is 34 years old. She graduated from the State University so you know she is no dummy. She has been going with a divorced man for the past five years. According to her they have no plans for marriage. This man told our daughter that the best check he writes out every month is the one for his alimony, and he doesn't care to get married again. Our daughter is satisfied just to "go" with him. She has her own apartment and is self-supporting, but we think someone ought to tell her that "going" with a man with no marriage in sight is not respectable. Or do you think it is? CHARLESTON

DEAR ABBY: My wife's parents live downstairs and we live upstairs. Every evening her old man comes up here and asks if we are through with the newspaper. Sometimes we are and sometimes we aren't, but we always give it to him just to be nice. If a page is missing I get a telephone call and have to hunt it up and bring it down. I don't dare to work the crossword puzzle because her old lady likes to do it. And my wife can't tear anything out of the paper because we get a beef if something is missing. Who should tell them to buy their own paper? Since they're my wife's parents, I think it's her job. Right? BURNED UP

DEAR CHARLESTON: It is your daughter's privilege to "go with a man" if she chooses. Whether it is "respectable" or not depends on where she goes with him. . . and how far.

DEAR ABBY: When I was hired for this job I wasn't told that I would have to take vitamin pills every morning. Our boss is a real nut on the subject and she stands right over your desk to make sure you take the vitamin pills. Now I am 33 years old and I don't need anyone to tell me what's good for me. These pills come up on me (excuse me) and I have a very disagreeable taste in my mouth all morning. Must I quit a good paying job over something so foolish?

ANTI-VITAMIN PILLS DEAR ANTI: Tell your boss (confidentially) that the pills disagree with you and I'm sure they won't be "brought up" (excuse me?) again.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's parents live downstairs and we live upstairs. Every evening her old man comes up here and asks if we are through with the newspaper. Sometimes we are and sometimes we aren't, but we always give it to him just to be nice. If a page is missing I get a telephone call and have to hunt it up and bring it down. DEAR BURNED: Wrong! Buy your in-laws a yearly subscription to the newspaper for their Christmas, anniversary or birthday presents.

Private Club's Race Bars Studied

AUSTIN (AP)—About 400 University of Texas faculty and staff members took steps Thursday to seek removal of racial barriers from the private Forty Acres Club or divorce themselves from the club.

The group named a committee to study the alternatives after growing dissatisfaction over club segregation policies threatened resignation from the club by about 400 faculty and staff members.

The new club, near the university, has about 1,850 members. The faculty members contend the club's original agreement on guest and membership policies contained no racial barriers.

FALLING FROM GRACE

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher
Church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1343

Can a child of God fall from grace, and thus become lost again? The question is not, Will he fall? Or Must he fall? I believe that many will succeed in the Christian life; and that all can succeed. I also believe the Bible teaches the possibility of falling from grace.

It has happened. Notice: "Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace" (Gal. 5:4).

We are saved by God's grace (Eph. 2:5), and one can fall of the grace of God. "Looking diligently lest any man fall of the grace of God; lest any root of bitterness spring up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled" (Heb. 12:15).

"Are we more secure than angels? . . . God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment" (II Pet. 2:4).

"Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (I Cor. 10:12).

Plan to be with us Sunday. You are always welcome. Services: Bible study, 9:30 a.m.; worship, 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Russians To Stay In Private Homes

FORT WORTH (AP)—Four young Russians here for the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition will stay in private homes after all.

Their party arrived Thursday, and it turned out the Russian embassy in Washington erred in advising contest sponsors the Soviet visitors would insist on hotel accommodations.

Sergei Fedorotsev of the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Culture said the young musicians were looking forward to being guests in Fort Worth homes and had permission from their government.

"We are so happy that all of them can stay in private homes and see our way of life," said Mrs. Grace Lankford, contest chairman.

Sadler Hits Bill, Draws Return Fire

AUSTIN (AP) — The recently passed Padre Island seashore bill is "a worthless scrap of paper" without approval of the Texas Legislature, Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler said Thursday.

Sadler also told a legislative committee: "Happily, congressional approval of this seashore act is only one chapter of the story. The federal government does not own one acre of the land or water yet."

The legislature must also act before the land can pass to the federal government. The committee also contended there is a legal question involving Pleasure Island in Sabine Lake near Beaumont and Port Arthur and the Glasscock Fill area in Corpus Christi.

Committeemen and Sadler asked for a meeting with Atty. Gen. Will Wilson on fighting the federal government's acquisition of land on Matagorda Island off the Gulf Coast.

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Criticism by Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler of a Padre Island seashore park bill drew return fire from Nueces County Judge Noah Kennedy Thursday.

Legislation to create a national seashore area 81 miles long on the island off the lower Texas coast won final approval in Congress this week. Before the land is turned over to the federal government, the Texas Legislature must approve.

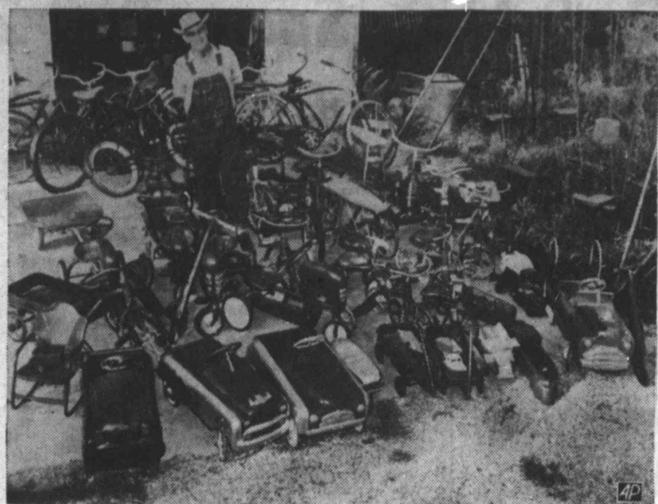

Kennedy took issue with a speech before a Texas House land study committee by Sadler. The commissioner asserted the seashore park proposal was a giveaway and a mockery to "the interests of Texas school children and Texas taxpayers."

"If the land commissioner will stop talking long enough to read the Padre Island seashore bill," Kennedy said, "he will find that it doesn't take anything away from the state of Texas."

"Both public and private mineral interests have been protected, and contrary to what Sadler says, ownership of the land of Padre Island was decided many years ago by our courts to be in private hands."

"The land commissioner says that the seashore will 'suit only poets and bird watchers.' Personally, I can see nothing wrong with poets and bird watchers."

"But I would like to testify that I have in my possession resolutions of support of the seashore from local governmental authorities, service clubs, Catholic family groups, labor unions, and business groups—not all of whom are poets and bird watchers."

President Is Back In Campaign Form

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Kennedy is back in political fighting form and ready to follow up his first 1962 campaign sortie into Pennsylvania with another into West Virginia.

Kennedy slashed at the Republican record and called for strengthened Democratic support in Congress before 10,000 partisans Thursday night.

The American people, he said, will determine in the Nov. 6 election "whether we are to step up the progress already made or return to deadlock and drift."

It's been more than a year and a half since Kennedy has done any real, out-in-the-open campaigning. Obviously he hasn't lost his touch.

He started in as soon as a helicopter from Washington lowered him onto the Harrisburg airport. It was chilly and cloudy in the late afternoon, but the President had a sunny smile for a welcoming crowd that the state police estimated generously at 3,000.

He did some handshaking and made a little talk. "Appropriate site," he mused, "I used to do this six times a day, but I haven't done it for a long time, and we start today, and most appropriately in Pennsylvania, on the fall campaign of 1962."

The President figured that Pennsylvania support made possible his nomination and election to the presidency—he carried the state by 116,000 votes and the country by 113,000.

Andrew T. Hatcher, acting White House press secretary, said Kennedy's next political port of call will be Wheeling, W.Va., next Thursday. It was West Virginia which gave Kennedy a key victory in the primary along with its electoral votes in the general election.

Much of the time between now and Thursday, Kennedy will be relaxing with his family at Newport, R.I. He flew there immediately after his appearance at the Democratic fund-raising rally here.

MILLION DOLLARS The Democratic State Finance Committee said it sold more than 10,000 tickets at $100 a plate and will make more than a million dollars from a dinner held in an exhibition hall next to the arena where Kennedy spoke.

Kennedy sat at the head table briefly, but dined privately and talked campaign strategy with outgoing Gov. David L. Lawrence; Richardson Dilworth, the former Philadelphia mayor who is in a tough race to succeed Lawrence, and Joseph S. Clark, trying for another term in the U.S. Senate.

They met Kennedy at the airport and rode with him in an open-car motorcade along miles of Harrisburg streets, well supplied with spectators. Kennedy smiled and waved, nodded and smiled in reply to shouts and applause.

Following the Democratic dinner, the cash customers filed into the dirt-floored arena where the state dairy exposition had ended just a few hours before, leaving behind some of the aroma.

Picking up in his speech a theme of his campaign for the White House in 1960, the Chief Executive said of the Democrats "We must be committed, as we have in the past, to getting this country moving."

While he isn't on the ballot this time, Kennedy said he holds as President a great responsibility for the conduct of the nation's campaign for progress.

"And one fact," he said, "is clear beyond dispute: That this country requires, if it is to move ahead, a progressive Congress—in short, a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate."

The House and Senate are Democratic now, and Republicans contend they have a pretty sorry record. Kennedy conceded that the 87th Congress hasn't measured up to his hopes, but he said it has a record of progress and compassion unmatched in recent times. And he wants more Democrats in Congress, he said, because in spite of advances he said have been marked up during his administration, much more needs to be done.

COMPARISON Kennedy compared the present with the past, to the advantage of the Democrats and the cheers of his audience.

The nation's engine was idling along in the third recession in seven years, he said, when his administration took office 20 months ago.

Too many people and machines were idle, he said. Food surpluses piled up, he said, unsuspected housewives were sold "harmful or worthless drugs," and the Congress and the President "had for six years been deadlocked in divided, divisive, do-nothing government."

The picture around the world was even drearier, Kennedy said: Nikita Khrushchev had vowed he would eradicate the Berlin splinter from the heart of Europe; Laos, Viet-Nam and the Congo were peril points; the President of the United States had had to cancel a visit to Japan—and "the Communists had already taken over Cuba."

CROWD ROARS Placing the Red takeover in Cuba in the Eisenhower administration brought a roar of approval from the crowd.

It would be claiming too much, Kennedy said, to be saying now that all is well.

Missiles A Threat To Base In Cuba

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Affairs Writer An AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new missile site on Cuba's northeast coast could threaten the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, on the other side of the island. It also could menace important U.S. Navy shipping lanes.

U.S. officials said Thursday Russian technicians have set up a missile site near the town of Banes. They likened it to Soviet coastal defense installations and said it is believed designed for anti-shiping missiles.

Such missiles, in the surface-to-surface class, could be aimed against such targets as Guantanamo and the warships that anchor in its harbor.

Officials spoke of a probable range of 20 to 35 miles for the missiles. Guantanamo is about 20 miles southeast of the Banes area.

Much U.S. Navy traffic passes along Cuba's north coast on routes leading to Puerto Rico where the Navy and Marines maintain important bases.

This traffic stays well outside the three-mile limit and could go further out in the Caribbean, if necessary.

Official pinpointing of the new missile site near Banes tended to support Cuban underground reports of a possible move by the Castro government to build a naval base near Banes, which is on a big bay much like Guantanamo's.

Sources in contact with the Cuban underground told a newsman several days ago the Castro government has been removing families from a region near Banes.

It would be logical to emplace missiles to defend a naval base from possible attack.

The Cubans have been getting modern torpedo boats — armed with missiles estimated to have a range of up to 17 miles — from the Soviets.

Operating from Bahia de Nipe, the bay on which Banes is located, these craft could roam the sea lanes which U.S. destroyers and other Navy craft patrol.

Cuba hasn't much of a navy otherwise, but U.S. Navy authorities acknowledged the Soviet-supplied boats "could give us a nasty time."

American officials apparently still regard the Cuban buildup as defensive — including the newly spotted site near Banes.

That assessment might well change if the Cubans received not only defensive weapons—such as MIG interceptors and anti-aircraft missiles — but ground-to-ground missiles able to reach the United States.

Texas Cool Front Didn't Last Long

By The Associated Press That cool front which brought a hint of fall over parts of Texas didn't last long.

Before it could edge halfway across the state toward the south the mass of cooler air lost its push and broke up. Weather Bureau observers said it no longer was identifiable Friday.

Skies cleared throughout the state except for a few scattered patches of clouds. Light fog cloaked the Lubbock area in early morning.

Forecasts called for a little cooler weather in Central and East Texas and slightly higher temperatures in Northwest Texas through Saturday. Occasional thundershowers Saturday afternoon in the Texas Panhandle were the only moisture in prospect.

Temperatures early Friday varied from 54 degrees at Texarkana to 78 at Brownsville.

Lots Of Horsepower

Three-unit Diesel-electric locomotives such as rapid and dependable freight services for West Texas industries.

Diesel Efficiency Replaces The Old Steam Locomotive

In this present-day era of "electric railroading," the Texas and Pacific Railway Company during its colorful 90-year history has had no improvement or betterment greater than the addition of its fleet of sleek, powerful Diesel-electric locomotives.

A little less than fifteen years ago—during late 1946—the first, modern Diesel-electric locomotive made its debut on the Texas and Pacific. This drastic transition in motive power was both hailed . . . and lamented.

To many admirers of the railroad's impressive, old steam engines—the passing of these cumbersome giants and the coming of the Diesels meant the end of a romantic era of railroading. It meant the passing of that most nostalgic of sounds—the long, tuneful sound of the steam locomotive whistle.

But the fast-and-flashy new Diesels with their powerful engines gliding smoothly over the rails more than filled the motive power gap. In five meteoric years, they proceeded to "put to pasture" every steam-powered Iron Horse the T&P owned, thereby completing "Dieselizing" the railroad.

During the last decade-and-a-half, Texas and Pacific has acquired and put into service a total of 221 Diesel units — altogether more than 326,800 electrical-locomotive horsepower. Of this "stable" being used in main-line train service, 141 are "A" units (with cabs) and 35 are "B" (without cabs) units. The remainder are units used for switching operations in yards and terminals and for certain other "push-and-pull" purposes.

While based on principles which a youthful student encounters in high school physics, a Diesel locomotive engine is nevertheless a complex entity. For instance, a unit contains more than two miles of electrical wiring.

Not only in numerous economies and efficiencies do the Diesels surpass their steam predecessors, but boasting other operational virtues these modern giants of the high steel have proved themselves vastly superior. Further, they can start heavier trains and climb steeper grades. Coming in units, they either may be put on or taken off to fit the lengths of the trains to be hauled and the speeds of their schedules. And they have entirely eliminated the physical hardships which went along with running the now-retired steam models. T&P engine crews nowadays benefit from comforts and conveniences unknown to enginemen not too long ago — upholstered swivel chairs, automatic windshield wipers and defrosters which give clear vision ahead, wide, roll-down windows, sun visors and other helpful innovations.

While Texas and Pacific Railway's durable Diesels have set the pattern for a new era in the railroad's train power, they are only one of the numerous "projects in progress" implemented within the past 15 years to better serve its customers and the public along its 1,800-mile system from New Orleans to El Paso.

Bettle-Womack Work Mostly 'Underground'

Of all the services that provide necessities and luxuries for daily living, pipeline construction is the one that may be most often overlooked. Being "out of sight," it is perhaps seldom thought of as the great aid it is to home and industry.

Relatively few people ever see the work done by the Bettle-Womack Construction Company as they provides pipelines that bring water, gas and sewage service for their homes.

These are the unseen, underground channels that are the most important items considered in a city's planning, development and future expansion. Before new areas are populated, groundwork—in this case, pipeline, is completed for providing needed utilities.

In this area, usually the Bettle-Womack Construction Co. is called in for this construction because of the reputation the company has built during the twelve years that "Red" Womack and Clayton Bettle have been partners in the firm.

The new, modern structure on the Snyder highway housing the machine shop, equipment storage space and offices was completed this past year. New machinery and boring equipment has also been purchased to save much time and money for customers. Operators know their job well and what the machines are capable of, and are able to perform expert boring under roads, railroads or other obstacles.

Utility pipeline construction constitutes the great percentage of the business. All of the new construction for Pioneer Natural Gas Company in Big Spring and the Lone Star Gas Company servicing Snyder, Sweetwater and Colorado City is being contracted to Bettle-Womack Company.

By doing business with "Red" and Clayton, local and area contractors, as well as utility companies, are dealing with home-town men that they know well. Bettle-Womack strives to provide these customers with work that will pass inspection the first time around. Charges are reasonable and competitive for this type of service.

Goes A Long Way

The famed carpet cleanser, Blue Lustre, goes a long way. Because it is a concentrate, just a half-gallon ordinarily will clean the equivalent of three 9 x 12 rugs. And Blue Lustre does the job well, making a rug sparkling clean.

Easier Home Cleaning Of Carpets With Blue Lustre

Now that more wall to wall carpeting is being used in homes everywhere the need for easier cleaning of floor coverings has been a major problem for many housewives.

Vacuuming carpets, of course, removes loose dirt but for deep down cleaning of imbedded soil and brightening colors to their original beauty requires special treatment.

Blue Lustre Carpet and Upholstery Cleaner was developed especially for this purpose and provides fine cleaning for all good carpets, rugs and upholstery. The penetrating action of this premium quality foam cleanser lifts out soil for easy removal and in-beauty of colors dulled by trapped - in soil particles.

used also to spot clean soiled pathways as they appear without going over the entire carpet again so most smart housewives keep some on hand for this purpose.

Blue Lustre can be used with any type shampooer, even a long handled brush and makes it possible to clean your own carpets for very little cost. This excellent carpet and upholstery cleaner is available from Big Spring Hardware.

Kennedy Can Point To Trade Bill Win But To Little Else

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and his party can point to the trade expansion bill as landmark legislation, but otherwise the record of the 1962 Congress is disappointing to many Democrats.

This was the private view expressed to a newsmen today by a number of Democrats working on the appeals they plan to make this fall to voters.

Several said frankly that they will be talking more about what Congress did last year than in the session now inching to a close.

While there was unanimity that the far-ranging trade bill will give this Congress a place in the history books, there even was dissatisfaction with the handling of this legislation.

Some members said the administration underestimated the basic support for the bill, particularly among leading business elements, and thus wasted too much ammunition on it.

"If they had just saved a little of that effort for the health care for the aged bill," said one senator.

The trade bill cleared the Senate 78-4 Wednesday and awaits virtually certain final approval in conference. The House passed the measure by a big vote in June.

The health care proposal was beaten in the Senate 52-48. Its sponsors figured a switch of one vote could have saved it because at least one Democratic senator who voted no had pledged to go the other way if his position were decisive.

The White House also devoted much of its effort in the 1962 session to Kennedy's big tax revision and succeeded in saving its most important feature.

This is the investment credit provision designed as a $1 billion incentive to American companies to modernize their plants.

As in the case of trade, many Democrats insist this bill has no broad political appeal and even is a liability in some respects.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and other Democratic leaders insist the present session will wind up with a respectable record.

They point to measures signed

Ben Bella Regime Receives Mandate From The People

ALGIERS (AP)—Ahmed Ben Bella's Political Bureau had a mandate from the Algerian people today to bring order and stability to the crisis-ridden young nation.

More than 70 per cent of Algeria's 6.4 million registered voters endorsed Ben Bella's unopposed nominees for the 196-member national assembly Thursday.

The heavy turnout was a blow to opponents who hoped heavy abstentions would undermine the authority of Ben Bella's Political Bureau, the actual ruling force in Algeria.

Official results in the election—a formality—are not expected before Saturday.

The hand-picked assembly, including 36 Europeans, will hold its first meeting in Algiers Tuesday, and is expected to nominate Ben Bella to head the nation's first regular government.

Ben Bella's cabinet probably will include at least one European, and will have the support of an overwhelming majority of the assembly during its initial 12-month term.

Ben Bella is committed to a program of sweeping land reform and industrial development measures, a vast expansion of social services, and formal neutrality in the East-West conflict. In an election eve address, he also promised the assembly will draft a democratic constitution.

The new government's immediate task will be to bring law and order to the 5,000 square miles of central Algeria still held at gunpoint by the undisciplined guerrilla troops of Wilaya (Region) 4, into law—manpower retraining, expansion of the Peace Corps, the $900-million public works bill, and the legislation aimed at rehabilitation of persons on the public assistance rolls.

The leaders say several other important bills will be sent to Kennedy before adjournment.

Besides the trade and tax bills, they predict these will include drug regulation, a farm measure even though it is in a watered-down form and a mass immunization bill.

Administration end-of-the-session hopes were dampened considerably Thursday with a House vote to send back to conference the $2.35 billion federal aid for colleges bill.

Most supporters figure the bill now is dead, although some attempt may be made to hold another conference.

Democratic leaders also have had to virtually write off two other measures which only recently they listed as "musts"—a youth employment bill and a $500 million mass transit subsidy proposal.

On civil rights, the administration lost its major proposal—a bill that would have abolished literacy tests which keep Negroes in some areas from voting.

Kennedy measures beaten or shunted aside would have continued the program of extra unemployment compensation benefits, set up a Cabinet-level urban affairs department and given him standby authority to cut taxes in an economic slump.

Democrats said they will point to the passage last year of such broad legislation as the depressed areas bill, the minimum wage bill and the bill to increase social security benefits.

Club Officers Nominated

S. A. "Soc" Walker, principal of Goliad Junior High School, is slated to be the next president of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club.

He has been nominated for the post by a committee headed by Bob Stripling. Walker is currently vice president and program chairman.

Big Spring Kiwanians vote next Thursday on their new officers for 1963. The new officers take over in January. J. C. Pickle is the president of the club at this time.

The slate of candidates offered by the committee:

Walker, president; Bruce Dunn, first vice president; V. Ward Jackson, second vice president; Bill Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

Five members of the board of directors are to be elected. Nominees are Earl Stovall, Clyde Hollingsworth, Delaine Crawford, Bob Bradbury and J. C. Pickle.

Nomination by the committee is generally tantamount to election. The holdover directors are: Walter Eubanks, Harvey Clay and Bob Travis.

Cox Says Texas Needs A Salesman

DALLAS (AP)—Jack Cox, Republican candidate for governor, said Thursday night that what Texas needs is a salesman. If elected, he said he would "pack his bags" and sell the state to the nation's industry.

Speaking before 300 SMU students, he charged that the Democratic party is the party of money, not motives, and told the students that voting irregularities are "casting a shadow along the length and breadth of this state."

The oilman said if he were elected governor, he would initiate a joint venture between private enterprise and state government to bring tourists to Texas.

One of the main planks in his platform, he said, is the need for election law reform. "We ask for nothing but that we have honest elections."

Cox said "You don't take on a powerful political machine like we are taking on without knowing its to be hard," adding "but the governor's office of Texas is not for sale at any price."

A spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association said the men would be back on the job today.

A walkout by the 90,000 union dockers would paralyze shipping on both the Atlantic and Gulf coasts from Maine to Texas.

Gulf ports were not affected by the order to quit work and attend meetings. An ILA official said there had been a misunderstanding and that some meetings had been scheduled by Gulf port locals.

Federal mediators withdrew from contract talks early in the week, terming further negotiations "impossible."

The dispute centers about a money package and a New York Shipping Association (employers) proposal to cut the current gang size of 20 to between 8 and 16.

A management spokesman has said that union demands would add $154 million annually in wages and fringe benefits. The ILA rejected an offer of a $22 million increase.

House Turns Deaf Ear To Foreign Aid Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has turned a deaf ear to President Kennedy and approved a foreign aid bill that would slash spending overseas a massive $1.4 billion.

Not a voice was raised to support the President's contention that the cut in this year's appropriations "poses a threat to free world security."

With anti-Cuban feelings running high, three amendments aimed at choking off shipments to the Castro government got shouting votes of approval.

The appropriations measure now goes to the Senate, which has made it a practice to restore sizable portions of House cuts in foreign aid. As for the Cuban amendments, both the Senate and the President would have to approve before they could become law.

The House leadership, sensing sentiment for even deeper cuts in the $5,956,852,000 bill, decided to forego a floor fight to salvage the funds axed from the measure by the House Appropriations Committee.

The bill was waved to the Senate on a roll call vote of 249-144. The measure drew the support of 174 Democrats and 75 Republicans.

Development loan funds took the worst shelling. While the President requested $1.25 billion, the House approved $775 million. Thick slices were lopped off the requests for development grants, military assistance, the alliance for progress and the President's contingency fund.

The administration counterattack begins today when Secretary of State Dean Rusk testifies behind closed doors to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

House leaders steered clear while the three Cuban amendments were rammed through Thursday night. They evidently hope the Senate will strike them or at least tone them down.

The most restrictive amendment was offered by Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex. It would deny foreign aid to any country whose ships carry goods of any kind to Cuba.

Several members expressed concern at Rogers' move and Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., tried in vain to have the Texan reconsider. "It might cause World War III," Rooney said.

No dissent greeted the amendments by Reps. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., and Herbert C. Bonner, D-N.C. The first was aimed at nations whose vessels transport arms or strategic materials to the Castro regime. The second would prohibit any ship that carries war material or other "economic goods" to Cuba from entering a U.S. port to pick up foreign aid shipments.

Ships of several U.S. allies too supplies to the Caribbean country. If the amendments became law, assistance to these allies could be suspended.

Longshoremen Still Support Contract Policy

NEW YORK (AP)—Longshoremen in Atlantic coast ports quit work at 5 p.m. Thursday to attend local meetings and reaffirm their leaders' slogan of "no contract, no work" when the pact expires Sept. 30.

A spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association said the men would be back on the job today.

White Buckets On Utility Poles May Be Bomb Detectors

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—While you're driving, keep your eye peeled for a white bucket perched atop a utility pole.

If you spot one, chances are it's a nuclear bomb explosion detector, the existence of which was disclosed in a news conference Thursday at the Air Force Association convention.

A network of these detectors has been installed in 99 critical target areas of the United States. There are three detectors, located 11 miles from predicted prime targets, in every major military and civilian center.

Not all detectors are on utility poles, but an Air Force spokesman said that's a good place to put them because they are made and serviced by Western Union. The Air Force said the network of blast sensors will give almost instant notice of attack in several military command posts, including the Pentagon.

This information, the Air Force said, will help authorities make "decisions that can spell the difference between survival and annihilation."

Each detector is housed in a white aluminum cylinder about 12 inches high and 9 inches in diameter. On top of the cylinder are photo cells sensitive only to a type of light peculiar to nuclear detonation.

The Air Force said the device cannot be triggered falsely by lightning, fire or other sources of light.

The system does not provide advance warning of nuclear attack but is designed to verify impact areas predicted by the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System.

Venezuela Students Show Signs Of Turning Anti-Red

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Special Correspondent
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—For Juanito, few things are as soul-satisfying as burning a street car.

Juanito is a student in high school he already was a veteran of street rioting. In the university, studies are secondary. He majors in politics, often violent, as the road to quick success.

In Latin America, students are a highly important political element, and as such are prime targets for Communist subversion.

What makes the student what he is?

Venezuela is a capsule study of the whole question of student unrest and violence in the continent.

NOT ALL EXTREMISTS

Not all Venezuelan students are extremists, but enough exist to make life miserable for any government.

Venezuela is a young country. Half its population is under 20. The average age of the student in Central University is 24. Some graduate younger, but many are older.

Some are professional students, remaining such far into their 30s, subsidized in this career by political parties to work within student organizations. Teodoro Petkoff, a student leader and reputed agent of the Communist party is 33.

University autonomy is a tradition and a government headache. There is no written law, but only the bravest politician would violate the tradition which says police cannot enter the campus unless invited by university authorities.

WITH IMPUNITY
Students raise Cain on the campus with impunity. Communists who are sworn enemies of the government take refuge there. Communist Hector Mujica, head of the journalism department, has been holed up within university grounds for months since he left the Congress. He thus surrendered parliamentary immunity to prosecution on charges of acting seditiously against the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

Since students take part in all sorts of violent politics, they often are instrumental in the fall of governments, such as the Perez Jimenez dictatorship that used to rule Venezuela. Thus they surround themselves with a sort of democratic aura. But there is always a threat of bloody violence from the direction of the university. It also is recruiting ground for young romantics who dream of being guerrilla fighters in the hills.

THE QUICK WAY
There is, of course, much serious study in the university. But for many, law and politics offer the quick way to success. Many are impatient for overnight miracles which will make their nation catch up to the standards of Western Europe and the United States.

"Put yourself in their position," a former university student said. "We have been thrust suddenly into things we do not understand, things we're not ready for."

"Twenty years ago there was hardly any such thing as an apartment building in this city. There were two elevators in the whole town. One was in a hospital, the other in a four-story hotel. What was a sleepy town is transformed in a generation into a great, complex city. What was far away—the outside world—suddenly is very close."

COMPARISONS
The students thrust into all this are young men from conservative, middle class families for the most part. It can be argued that Venezuela is far better off than it was 20 years ago, but students use other yardsticks. They measure their nation by the rest of the world, and dislike the comparison.

"The Latin American student," some students are beginning to take a close look at things as they are. There is change in the air in Venezuela's Central University. Violence-minded extremists of the far left have been defeated in university elections, though by narrow margins.

TROUBLE AHEAD?

Communists may create trouble this autumn. They seem to be in need of a show of strength to offset their defeats. The idea will be to create a violent provocation, to force the Betancourt government to intervene, to turn the students against the government. That could lead to bloody consequences.

But the anti-Communist element is becoming less and less inclined to bow to intimidation. There seems a growing conviction in Caracas that anti-Communist students will carry the day.

A Devotional For The Day

Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. (Hebrews 11:1.)
PRAYER: O God, we rejoice because Thou art our hope and our help. Through Jesus Christ, help us to rest in Thee in such a manner that we can say with the Apostle Paul: "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

Dangerous Shortcuts

Since this is Constitution Week, this is a fitting time to contemplate a widespread undercurrent of American opinion rarely so bluntly expressed as by Robert E. McLaughlin, president of the Citizen's Crime Commission of Metropolitan Washington.

Understandably disturbed by rampant crime, he told a Federal Bar Association convention that there is too much concern for the rights of individuals accused of crime. "We should not digress so far sentimentally in protection of criminals that we endanger the safety of the law-abiding citizen." It's all too easy to jump at conclusions and agree entirely with his premise.

What McLaughlin and others like him actually are calling into question are the great constitutional guarantees against deprivation of life, liberty or property without due process of law. These are security against unreasonable searches and arbitrary arrests, self-incrimination, double jeopardy, excessive bail and cruel and unusual punishment. These are the right to a speedy and public trial by jury, to knowledge of specific charges, to confrontation and cross-examination of witnesses, to counsel and the power of subpoena for the defense.

To abridge those constitutional guarantees would be a far graver danger to what he calls the "safety of the law-abiding citizen" than the occasional release of a criminal offender on technicalities. To circumvent "the rights of individuals accused of crime" would be to weaken the rights that protect us all. That is not sentimentality; it is recognition of the essential difference between a free society and a police state.

Any law enforcement that would subordinate justice to official expediency or popular passions would rip the rule of law out by the roots and doom democracy. This we must always remember when some apparent crook or suspected subversive "takes the Fifth Amendment" or when a court overturns a conviction for want of proper evidence or because of improper procedures.

The only ultimate alternative to strict respect for constitutional processes, as U. S. Solicitor General Archibald Cox told the same bar meeting, is ultimately "brute force." However well-intentioned, that is where presumed short cuts to justice really lead.

Slap 'Em And Be Grateful

For every thorn there's a rose, and vice versa. It's the vice versa that has us on the run at the moment.

Recent and tremendously beneficial rains have brought with them one of the worst plagues of mosquitoes we have experienced in quite a long time. About the worst thing about this infestation is its nuisance. So far as we know, they are not the disease bearing type.

But why take a chance, or why prolong the period of endurance for this nuisance? The city has, although somewhat belatedly, begun circulating its fogging machine, and this doubtless will bring a lot of relief.

As diligently as these crews may work, however, this will not be the total solution, for too many puddles exist as breeding places. It would be fine if these could be located and oiled, but this is well nigh impossible. Still, it is about the best neighborhood approach, and if you know of places that may be harboring or breeding places in your vicinity, then pour on a little kerosene.

Meanwhile, if you're going to be out in the open, anoint yourself with mosquito repellent. A few colder nights or some stiff winds will diminish the infestation. Meanwhile, when you get to slapping the creatures and scratching the bumps, just remember how much good the rain has done and is doing.

Marquis Childs European Union Coming?

BRUSSELS—The age-old dream of a united Europe which a succession of dictators over the centuries tried to impose by force of arms is on the way to becoming a reality here in this capital of the European Economic Community.

The hopeful view is that the economies of the six powers—France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg—are already so intertwined that they could not be untangled short of a major explosion.

AMERICAN POLICY since 1948 has been aimed at helping this union to come to birth. It is part of the "Grand Design" of the Kennedy administration.

After President Kennedy was given the frigid treatment by Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Vienna in June of 1961, he went to London for a meeting with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. It was a far more significant meeting than the vague generalizations of the official communique indicated.

WHAT THE TWO heads of government did was to outline a timetable for an Atlantic community in which Britain would become a member of the Common Market and the United States associated in partnership through a broad liberalization of the American trade policy. This would be a solid part of the answer to Khrushchev's defiance of the West as expressed at the Vienna encounter.

Looking at the difficulties in the way of British entry, Macmillan told the President he would have to bring it about at least six months before his government had to face an election, the latest date being the spring of 1964.

THIS OBSTACLE, if it is not overcome, could scuttle the dream of European union down to a 19th Century alliance with the smaller states, including perhaps even Italy, as satellites. Dedicated Europeans, such as Belgium's foreign minister and long-time Socialist leader Paul Henri Spaak, are determined to prevent that happening.

But they have been shaken by President Charles de Gaulle's grand tour in Germany. Granted the highly desirable aim of Franco-German reconciliation, they were appalled at what seemed to be his deliberate effort to invoke the military might of the Germany of the past. He never once mentioned the other European partners except to say in derogation that there were those who seemed determined to get in the way of the true Europe.

A WRY JOKE is being told here about the De Gaulle tour. Germans who still remember Hitler are reported to be saying, "Oh, the poor French! We had a dictator who raised one hand, and now France has a leader who raises both hands." This is a reference to De Gaulle's custom throughout his tour of standing with both arms upraised to greet the wildly cheering crowds that thronged his route.

This second obstacle is in the election that Kennedy and Macmillan considered in their timetable. While Macmillan has cast a generous aura of hope around Britain's entry into the Common Market, he has failed to spell out what this would mean.

THE TWO FULLY understood that Britain's entry, with association for other smaller European countries and perhaps parts of the Commonwealth, would inevitably dilute the "Europeanism" of the community and would, therefore, stir doubt and even hostility from many Europeans, especially from that most conspicuous European, Charles de Gaulle alias Charlemagne.

So as a corollary of their plan for an Atlantic community, they proposed to work out agreement on a British-European nuclear deterrent that would satisfy the demands of France and Germany for shared authority over the ultimate weapon. This was to be the generous frosting on the Atlantic cake designed to make the cake more palatable to Europeans with a sense of exclusiveness.

BUT NOW, with the deadline for Macmillan a little more than a year off, two forbidding obstacles loom so large as to cast serious doubt on that hopeful timetable. Indeed, the first of these obstacles raises a crucial question about the European union itself: Is it to be a broadly based economic collaboration evolving into a federal union, or is it to be merely an old-fashioned alliance disguised in the outward trappings of federation?

The suspicion in the Benelux countries is that De Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer mean to make a "Europe of the two" and that De Gaulle in particular wants to bar Anglo-Saxons, namely Britain and the United States, whom he regards with suspicion, not to say scorn.

THE CRITICISM of the British from the European perspective is that they have failed to take with sufficient seriousness Europe's determination to integrate. On this side of the channel, the suspicion dies hard that Britain's main intention is still to work against a united Europe, just as the British resisted the Coal and Steel Community, which was the inception of the Common Market.

British support for entry has weakened as the Commonwealth countries raised the old sentimental ties and the former colonial dependents rejected any association with the new Europe on the score of neutrality.

BUT THE BELIEF within the community is that Macmillan can still carry the day and, when the negotiations are resumed in October, get agreement on joining up. Then, however, comes the obstacle of Parliamentary ratification and the possibility that the Labor party will go into opposition and carry an anti-market campaign to the country in a general election.

By DOUGLAD E. FERGUSON
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Life goes on at its normal pace in this resort area where sleeping sickness has taken more than a dozen lives since July 21.

But city officials and business people wonder how publicity about the epidemic will affect their winter tourist business.

There is no panic in the streets. Businessmen are not closing their shops or retrenching. Motel owners are not turning their mortgages back to banks. There has been no mass exodus of people.

Officials point out that at least five-tenths of one per cent of the 400,000 people in Pinellas County have come down with the illness.

Charles Wentz was one of these. It was Friday afternoon when the 54-year-old sales engineer began feeling sick at his stomach.

His temperature rose to 103½. His head ached. He saw double. At times, he was delirious.

A doctor treated him for an intestinal virus. Then Wentz' mind went blank. A spinal tap and blood tests were taken.

Encephalitis, said the doctors. They explained to Mrs. Wentz her husband's brain and nervous system were inflamed by the virus.

Wentz remained unconscious for five days.

Today, 25 pounds lighter, he is recuperating. Doctors say he will be able to return to work in about two months.

Wentz had a severe case. Some shake it off without even going to a doctor.

A lot of mystery surrounds sleeping sickness, the layman's term for encephalitis.

There are three types predominant in the United States: Eastern equine, western equine and the St. Louis variety. The St. Louis type, the strain prevalent here, is considered benign and seldom fatal.

Yet, 10 per cent of the patients here have died.

Doctors blame the high death rate on the large number of elderly persons living here. Older persons, often in poor health, are unable to produce the antibodies that counteract the virus.

Health officials believe the virus is spread in Pinellas County. They theorize the virus is carried by birds. The county has the largest bird population in the state.

"The county is a natural bird-cape, surrounded on three sides by water," said Dr. W. C. Ballard, director of the county health department.

The birds like it here, because the older folks give them.

But birds can't give encephalitis to humans.

Doctors blame the mosquito, the same insect that carries yellow fever and malaria, for transmitting it from infected birds to humans.

Hal Boyle Never Be Sick At Home

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes a heap o' health for a man to recover from an illness at home any more.

Only if he is blessed with both luck and a rugged constitution is he likely even to survive.

Remember the old painting of the patient lying in bed at home surrounded by his loved ones, with a worried doctor sitting by his side and feeling his pulse?

"Nonsense! Sentimental trash! If you painted an honest picture of a patient at home today it would show his loved ones departed. Instead of a worried doctor at his bedside, there'd be a gabby vacuum cleaner salesman reaching for the patient's pocketbook.

These dismal thoughts are inspired by a recent personal experience.

Stricken by my semiannual attack of gouty arthritis—it usually hits at the onset of spring and autumn—I crept home with the usual symptom—a feeling that a wild porcupine was imprisoned in my left foot and was trying to dig its way out with 10,000 pointed quills.

Gratefully I dosed myself with medicine and sank into slumber. The next morning the foot was even more swollen and painful.

"I am afraid I'll be a nuisance to you for the next couple of days until I get this porcupine out of my foot," I told my wife gallantly.

But Frances said no, I wouldn't be much of a bother as she would not be there. She and Tracy, our daughter, had to spend the next two days shopping for school clothes—absolutely had to.

They laid out a supply of fruit juices, pills, newspapers and books by my bedside and left me alone with my gouty foot and Lady Dottie, our cat.

I tentatively moved my wounded foot under the sheet, and Lady Dottie, thinking it was a mouse, immediately pounced on it. Wow!

The phone rang in the next room. I hobbled out to answer it. Wrong number. On the way back, thinking I was playing a game, the cat leaped again on my bad foot. Wow!

As soon as I was back in bed, the doorbell rang. I hobbled out.

"Can Tracy come out and play?" asked the little boy down the hall. Muttering remarks little boys shouldn't hear, I slammed the door and started back.

Lady Dottie had my foot in both her paws. Wow!

So it went for two days.

Exhausted, I arose on the third morning, dressed and put a soft shoe on my throbbing foot.

"But you're not really well yet," objected my wife. "Don't you think you should stay home and get a few days more rest?"

"Better in a railroad terminal I should be," I told her. "Better a man should lie down on his office floor, where he can at least die in peace, surrounded by his enemies."

Sure enough, as soon as I got to the office, sat down in a swivel chair, and put my foot safely in a pulled-out desk drawer, the pain began to go away.

Never go home when there's anything wrong with you. It's no place for a sick man. Too much going on there.

To Your Good Health Last Few Pounds Hardest To Get Off

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: You recently commented on a diet you prescribe to eliminate excess weight and I am interested.

I am 21 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 146 pounds. Three years ago I weighed 186. With my own will power and my own diet I eliminated 52 pounds.

Since that time whenever I have tackled a new diet I have failed. Many people have told me that because I lost so much at one time, it would be harder to lose more now, than for a person just beginning.

Can this be true, or have I just lost my will power? The weight I desire is 125 pounds.—John V.

You've done a splendid job of reducing. You've started doing something about your weight at a sensible time of life. If other people would do what you have done, they'd live longer and also be happier.

However, to answer your questions, here are the unvarnished facts.

Yes, it's easier to lose a lot of weight when you are much too heavy. It isn't because you lost so much weight at one time that you now find reducing more difficult. It's just that you are now closer to your normal weight.

It's easy for any athlete to run

100 yards in 15 seconds. To run 100 in 12 seconds requires some doing. To do it in 11 seconds is a feat, and from there on, each tenth of a second means a great deal of work.

Losing weight is something like that. The speed with which you reduced has nothing to do with it—although frankly I find several very valid reasons for reducing at a moderate rate instead of trying to lose too much in a hurry.

However, the closer you come to your best weight, the slower the process will be.

I'll make two suggestions:

First: Are you certain that 125 is the poundage you should seek? It may be, but then again you may be rather heavily boned, meaning that you should weigh a little more for best health and, incidentally, for best looks. I wouldn't make a special trip, but next time you visit your doctor, ask him to give his opinion as to whether you have a large, medium or light frame. It will take him a matter of seconds to give you his opinion, and it will be a more valid one than yours because he (not being you) has better perspective.

Second: I don't think my leaflet on "Lost Secret of Reducing" would do you any good because you've done pretty well already. But I do think the "ounce a day" aspect, as included in another leaflet, "Calorie Counter," would be of real help to you. If you want it, just send 5-cents in coin, for handling and printing costs, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Big Spring Herald. ("Lost Secret of Reducing" is also 5 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope is required.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I was told by a physician that I could not be vaccinated against smallpox because I am epileptic. I was 16 then, and now am 30. Since so many things have changed in medicine in 14 years, I wonder if I could be vaccinated now.—J. N.

You could and should be vaccinated. Epilepsy is not a contraindication to vaccination.

"Don't Quit Because of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover the cost of handling.

Dr. Molner is always happy to hear from his readers, but he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters due to the great number received daily. Whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Around The Rim High Price To Pay

Most people have heard of Matt Cvetic. He was the man whose experiences were told, first, as a congressional investigation, next, in a brief but hair-raising autobiography, and finally and rather melodramatically as a motion picture.

Matt Cvetic was the central figure of "I Was a Communist for the FBI."

HE SPENT NINE years at his job, living in constant fear that he would be found out and liquidated. Because of his known Communist connections and the need for absolute secrecy about his FBI connections, he eventually lost all his friends and even his family turned against him.

It was a lonely nine years, indescribably worse than an equal amount of time in solitary confinement because of the constant suspense, of never knowing if or when the axe would fall. It came as no surprise that after nine years his nerves gave out, and the FBI had to call him off until use could be made of his knowledge. Nor was it unexpected that, in spite of the vindication that came with his public revelations, Matt Cvetic found himself still cut off from the rest of the human race, from within.

IT WAS A HIGH price to pay for the contribution he made to his country—that contribution being one of the first and among the most important of public exposures of the Communist menace, plus the wealth of critical material that went into secret FBI files and remains there today.

I met Matt in Odessa back in the early 1950's when I was assigned as a reporter to cover a speech he made there. His talk was interesting and informative, but it was after the meeting that I got to know the man himself.

WITH THE formalities over, several Jaycees and I invited Matt to see the town. We weren't even out the door of the auditorium before Matt was hopping and chatting gaily at the prospect of a break in the dreary routine of empty hotel rooms, bad restaurant and banquet meals, and all the other boredoms and loneliness of speaking tours.

He was nervous, covering with chatter, trying to live in a few hours some part of the long years he spent under the Red cloud. But he had a gay evening. We saw to that.

Yet, Matt would lapse into brief silences, and his eyes would see only into the past. Then he would snap back and nervously again begin his talking. He was not always successful in keeping his hands from shaking, or in avoiding glances at dark corners and the dimly seen strangers there.

THOSE OF OUR party who knew little about Matt Cvetic merely thought him a bit odd. But we who had read his book watched his reactions and his withdrawals and we felt a chill. If a man is to give his all to his country, it is better to be killed in action.

It is over for Matt now. I read a few weeks ago that he had died of natural causes. But I am certain that there must be some reward for Matt Cvetic, who gave more than his life.

J. A. Livingston Failure Of The Tax Bill

"Stillborn out of deadlock." That would be an appropriate grave marker for the Tax Bill of 1962, which finally was compromised through the Senate.

The nation will gain if it never emerges from a Senate-House Conference Committee for President Kennedy's signature.

THE ONLY EXCUSE for the bill is the President's ardor for the investment tax credit, based on the dubious speculation that it will speed the nation's industrial growth. This will cost the Treasury a billion dollars a year in revenue.

The faint praise heaped on the bill ought to be its obituary. Majority Senate Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) described it as "imperfect" but "in the nation's interest." Secretary of the Treasury Dillon called it a "significant first step toward reform of our outmoded tax laws."

THE FINEST PROPOSAL of the original bill—the withholding of 20 per cent of dividends and interest at the source of payment by corporations, banks, and savings and loan associations—was killed in the Senate. It might have brought the Treasury about $650,000,000 in taxes.

As a compromise, the Senate bill requires more complete reports by corporations on dividends to stockholders and reports by banks and savings and loan associations of interest paid. Theory: Computers will match these reports against interest and dividends reported on tax returns. But computers can't collect taxes!

The mass of reporting and analysis—both for the Treasury and for the corporations and banks—is likely to be as great or greater than the single withholding in the House bill. And the big leak continues. Interest paid on coupon bonds goes unreported.

AS SEN. GORE (D-Tenn.) declared on the Senate floor, the President—in his interest to win on the investment tax credit—didn't "lift a finger" for withholding. Not only would withholding have brought in the revenues to pay in part for the investment tax credit, but also it would have made depositors in banks and stockholders in corporations fully conscious of their tax responsibilities and liabilities. It ought to be reintroduced next year. And fought for—morality's sake.

A proposal to place a dollar limit on business entertainment and travel expenses was watered down to the point of ineffectuality. If personal and corporate rates are cut in '63, this proposal might have a chance.

SAVINGS AND LOAN and mutual savings banks, now largely tax exempt, were subjected to tax, and mutual casualty and fire insurance company taxes were raised. These last were adjustments in equity, which undoubtedly would have come anyway.

Consequence: The deficit will be increased and a new loophole or exemption has been introduced into the tax structure. The investment tax credit is a purposeless giveaway.

IF BUSINESS MEN are encouraged by tax rebate to modernize their plants, why not homeowners their residences? How about a tax credit for a new refrigerator, washing machine, or mixer. Isn't a labor-saving device for housewives as useful to the national economy as a labor-saving device for a manufacturing company? And why not give a tax rebate to parents who keep new educational toys for youngsters to keep up with modern chemistry, physics, and electronics?

The investment tax credit would make sense if this country were short of capital or labor. But nearly 6 per cent of our workers are unemployed and U. S. corporations are exporting capital. Let the committee say the benediction, "Requiescat in pace."

David Lawrence Freedom Of The Individual

WASHINGTON—Freedom of the individual in his beliefs is the boast of America. The schoolbooks teach it. Our representatives in the U. N. proclaim it. Our politicians preach it. Yet when the test comes as between human rights and the desire to favor a special group, hypocrisy occasionally takes over in Washington.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY is an earnest and conscientious public servant, but, as a champion of human rights, he sometimes emphasizes only those "civil rights" which will get him votes and does not risk a fight for basic principles that might lose him the votes of a pressure group.

A case in point is his outright advocacy of a system which compels a man to join a union to keep his job. Mr. Kennedy sees nothing wrong with this form of enslavement. True liberals disagree with him. For in free America a man's fundamental beliefs today are subject to coercion—and even penalty—then the outcry for "civil rights" and individual freedom of belief has a hollow sound.

THE PRINCIPLE of compulsory unionization, for instance, came up at Mr. Kennedy's news conference on Sept. 13. What the President said attracted little attention because, history tells us, as human rights are eroded, there is, unfortunately, a tendency to accept the doctrine that "the end justifies the means." The question arose in connection with the current dispute between labor unions and companies engaged in the manufacture of machinery for air-space projects. Four leading aerospace companies, especially Lockheed, have rejected the basic demand of the labor unions for a so-called "union shop." Mr. Kennedy was asked for his reaction. His reply, as recorded by tape, was as follows:

"WELL, IN THE FIRST place, most major industrial companies or industries in the United States have accepted the union shop many years ago—the steel industry, the auto industry, the aluminum companies, other basic industries. The union shop is part of collective bargaining. Particularly under the terms suggested by Dr. Taylor, a two-thirds vote—people do not have to join the union unless—to get the job.

"After they've come to work, if it is the opinion of a large majority of the members, then they would join the union. This, as I say, has been acceptable for many years to many companies which are even larger than the ones that are involved."

THE PRESIDENT went on to say that he hoped the companies would accept the proposal "because, if there is a strike, the responsibility would be very clear, I think, to the American people for such an action."

Thus a President of the United States says, in effect, that a labor union may extort an advantage for itself—even though it violates human rights—and that, rather than bear the cost of a strike or its inconvenience, the American people must surrender to expediency and forego the principle of human freedom.

Now, the "union shop" is, to be sure, a part of the process of collective bargaining. So are blackmail and coercion and the threat to destroy an employer's business if he doesn't accept the union's demands.

BUT RECENTLY the country has been hearing a lot about the third party—the public—and much has been said about the "public interest." Does a form of compulsory unionization become right just because company after company has been forced in the past by coercive threats of strikes and financial loss to give in to union demands? Hasn't the President argued often that freedom of belief and freedom of conscience are guaranteed under "the law of the land"?

The right of an individual to get a job and keep it without sacrificing his beliefs—by being forced to join any organization in whose purposes he does not believe—is inherent in the articles of the Constitution.

THE ARGUMENT of the labor unions is that the majority of the employees in a plant is the boss and can tell each worker to join or be fired. The worker isn't required to be a member when he applies, but if he gets the job, he must decide within 30 or 60 days whether to join the union or lose his job. The employer, under a contract with the union, becomes an unwilling partner in the conspiracy to deprive the worker of his right not to join a private organization. Nineteen states by law forbid compulsory unionization of any kind. These are called "right to work" laws.

Scientist Digs In Parking Lot For Indians' History

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The parking lot in front of a historic mission may hold the clue to the life, customs and religious practices of a pagan people who lived in the Southwest long before the first Spanish Christians arrived.

Father Kino's mission. It turned out to be where the parking lot of the present mission is located, so that's where he began to dig.

Dr. Bernard L. Fontana, a University of Arizona anthropologist, is nearly convinced he has found the site of the once-flourishing village of Bac, whose people probably abandoned their homes because of a curious belief concerning the dead.

While facilities are being arranged for as many as 800 accredited press correspondents to cover the council, many reporters expect a good deal of restriction.

His archeological diggings are located in front of the Mission of San Xavier, recognized as one of the finest examples of mission architecture in the nation. It is the oldest Spanish mission still in use—an Arizona landmark.

There is still a village of Bac, built around the fringes of the parking lot. With 200 people, it is still the most important of six units on the San Xavier Reservation.

Dr. Fontana began his search for the old village of Bac four years ago. He figured it must be near the known site of the original San Xavier Mission built by Father Eusebio Francisco Kino, S. J., in 1692. The present mission, located in 1783, is in a different location.

Another regulation states "It is also forbidden to approach and consult persons who are residents, employees or visitors in Vatican City"—a rule which baffles American reporters.

By studying the terrain, Dr. Fontana figured out the logical spot for the village in relation to headquarters center here was $419,781.96 from Mr. and Mrs. Eli Lilly, of Indianapolis. He is the founder of the pharmaceutical manufacturing firm that bears his name. So far, 3 of the 4 million dollars needed for the new headquarters has been raised.

A Call to Spiritual Renewal

GOD'S REPUDIATION OF RELIGIOUS HYPOCRISY AND HIS PROMISE OF DIVINE BLESSING FOR THE TRULY DEVOTED

By N. SPEER JONES IN THIS lesson we study the work of a man who has been called "the last of the prophets." We don't know exactly when he lived, but from the subject matter we know it was sometime after the return from captivity and after the early enthusiasm of the returned Jews had dwindled—probably between 450 and 400 B.C. After him, and after Ezra and Nehemiah, his contemporaries, we hear no other true prophetic voice until that of John the Baptist, four centuries later.

The soundness of a man's heart toward God is seen in his obedience in all things; but, on the other hand, to obey God in only some things shows the unsoundness of the heart. It was expressed this way by one writer: "Obedience to God is the most infallible evidence of sincere and supreme love to him." John 9:7 is an example; when Jesus placed the clay on the man's eyes he told him in order that he might see to go wash in the pool of Siloam. The blind man did not stand there arguing back that he didn't believe in "Water Salvation." He was convinced that sight depended on his obedience to POSITIVE DIVINE LAW. If Kings 5 gives another example: Naaman the captain of the Syrian army was afflicted with leprosy. In order that he might be cleansed therefrom, Elisha the prophet told him to go wash or dip seven times in the River Jordan. This made Naaman angry and he went away in a rage; but he was still a leper so he reconsidered and obeyed. God cleansed this man but only when he disobeyed positive divine law. Now in these "enlightened" days when men think they have outgrown obedience to Positive Law and argue against Acts 2:38 which definitely with the utmost veracity and exactitude teaches that all men must be baptized for the remission of sins. Let us obey with prudence, sobriety and good judgment. Eibert R. Garretson, minister present itself in this book—the question-and-answer method is used to present the Lord's message. The Lord makes a statement, then repeats the questions of His people, then presents evidence to back up His original statement. (See the examples in 1:2, 3; 1:6, 7; 2:10-16; 2:17; 3:7; 3:8 and 3:13, 14.) This method of teaching was brought to perfection by Malachi's contemporary, Socrates; it is known, in fact, as the Socratic method. Malachi has been called the Hebrew Socrates.

Whoever he was, the man we shall call Malachi wrote at yet another time of discouragement for Israel. We have seen how Haggai exhorted the people to rebuild the temple, telling them they could not expect God's blessing while it lay in ruins. Now the temple has been rebuilt, but still there is no prosperity. Disillusionment has followed—and with it, moral laxity and indifference to worship.

most blasphemous (3:13-15), and how they have failed to pay their tithes (3:7-12). It is not that God needs their produce but that He wants evidence of their love, as He does of ours. The man who tithes is bound to be thinking about God—if he gives the "whole tithe"—its outward form and its inward devotion.

In 3:16-18 we have a reference to the small group who were faithful to God, and who met together, perhaps in the earliest synagogue.

The two major prophecies in Malachi are that concerning the coming of John the Baptist (3:1-6) and that concerning the coming day of the Lord (4:1-6), including the return of Christ as the "Sun of righteousness," and preceded by Elijah, greatest of the prophets.

In the passage about John the Baptist, "my messenger" refers to him, and "the messenger of the covenant" to Christ.

Middle Of Coahoma Line

Here's the combination the Stanton Buffaloes will have to deal with if they try to penetrate the middle of the Coahoma line in tonight's football game at Coahoma. They are, from left, guard Buddy Anderson, center Weldon Self and Yogi Cunningham. The three have played big roles in Coahoma's two victories to date.

Bisons Visit Coahoma In A Big One At 8:00

COAHOMA — Coahoma hosts Stanton in an 8 o'clock football game here tonight and it could be a real donkeybrot.

Nothing will be at stake but prestige. The two schools are old rivals, however, as their teams are due to go all out against each other.

Stanton's boys, often referred to as the Monsters of Martin County, are now competing in District 7-AAA. Coahoma is a member of 6-A.

Neither team has been beaten to date. Stanton won its only start, turning back Merkel, which is in Coahoma's conference, incidentally. The score of that game was 34-18 and it could have been worse.

Coahoma has posted victories over Hermleigh, 22-0; and Rankin, 22-6.

Buddy Glaspie will be at the controls for Stanton and can call upon such hard running backs as Dewey Anderson, Teddy Stewart and Joe Williams.

The Coahoma quarterback is Tommy Grant, who lettered as a sophomore at Garden City and then moved to Coahoma. He's a talented athlete and a splendid leader. Wayne Krause, Travis Reid and Bill Turner lend Grant a lot of help in the Bulldog backfield.

Stanton will boast a big weight advantage in the line. For that reason, Coahoma may try to pierce the Buffs' defenses through the air.

Coahoma is rated no better than fourth in some quarters in District 6-A but the Bulldogs have already exceeded last year's record. The 1961 Coahoma team won only one of ten starts.

Stanton and Crane are ranked as co-favorites in 7-A and Buff followers insist that their team is too big and too deep for Crane.

Jimmy Mays and Butch Fraser will probably be at ends for Coahoma tonight while Dan Sheilborn and Bobby Williams will be at tackles. Ronnie (Yogi) Cunningham and Buddy Anderson at guards and Weldon Self at center.

Harlin Dauphin, the Stanton coach, is due to start a line consisting of Mack Madala at center, Billy Graves and Ronnie Hays at guards, Ben Mott and Mike Sorley at tackles and Ronnie McReynolds and Bob Stephenson at ends.

Stanton would up with a 5-4-1 overall record last year and was 3-1 in its former conference, 3-AAA.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Upon his return to work this week, coach Don Robbins of the local high school was prone to remark:

"We won't play any more Plainviews this season."

It was Robbins' way of tempering the community's elation over the 86-6 victory the Steers ran up over Plainview and to let his boys know they're in for much rougher going in future contests.

Biggest job the coaches had in practice this week was getting their boys back down to earth in the wake of the one-sided victory.

They were riding Cloud Nine. If they had reacted any other way after their foray into the Panhandle, it would have been hard to understand.

Neither Snyder nor any other foe down the line will be beaten by a press clipping, though. It will have to be done on the football greensward.

There's no doubt but that the eyes of the football buff will be riveted on Coahoma tonight — in this immediate area, anyway.

Two fine teams will be squaring off along about 8 p.m., and the largest football crowd in the history of Coahoma could be present.

Stanton's Buffs, the Monsters of Martin County, visit Bulldog Field to play a Jimmy Spann-coached team that has already exceeded its entire victory output of the 1961 season.

There is no doubt but that Stanton will be favored, although Coahoma has beaten Hermleigh and Rankin by decisive margins.

The game means little outside of the fact that it pits two old rivals against each other — Stanton is a Class AA team while Coahoma is in Class A. II, however, has become a traditional game.

Since Big Spring isn't scheduled tonight, chances are many local fans will drive over and watch the proceedings.

Stanton had a fairly easy time in its opening game, at which time it knocked off a conference foe of Coahoma's — Merkel. Though the Buffs won by two touchdowns, coach Harlin Dauphin wasn't overly pleased with his team's performance. He thinks the potential for a championship contender is there, however. He also reasons that the Buffs will have to show more tonight than they did against Merkel in order to win.

Spann has this to say about tonight's imbroglio:

"If we get the breaks, we could win. They can be had."

When Lamesa knocked off Midland High last weekend, it marked the first time in the 24-year history of the series the Tornados have been able to win two straight games over the Bulldogs.

The Tornados and the Bulldogs have been meeting since 1934.

Although Wichita Falls opened a third high school this season, it's obvious the football material wasn't equally divided up there.

Wichita Falls High School, which plays host to Big Spring Oct. 5, still has 2,250 students. Big Spring has slightly more than 1,100.

This gleaned from the typewriter of Burl Pettit, Lubbock scribe:

"There is a lot of difference in Ahlene Cooper 1962 and Ahlene Cooper 1961. And, once you think about it, the reasons are obvious.

"Ten of the starters for the Cougars (against Monterey last week) were also on the field at the kickoff of the 1961 contest, when Monterey and Cooper opened the series. The Plainsmen was that game handily (35-0) and were a slight favorite to win Saturday.

"But, where the Cougars had ten starters back, Monterey's Byron Stovall was the only Plainsman who was there for the kickoff last season.

"And, not only did the experience show up in Saturday's game, so did the size.

"The Ahlene boys are bigger and stronger than they were a year ago. In 1961, the Cougar line averaged only 160 pounds. With the exact same personnel, this year's line averages 173."

In other words, watch out for Cooper — which isn't rolling over and playing dead for any foe. Big Spring must visit Ahlene to play Cooper the night of Oct. 26.

Golf Association Slates Tourney For Sept. 28-30

The Big Spring Golf association will stage 18 holes of matched play against par for its members at the Myny golf course Sept. 28-30, it has been announced.

There'll be two flights of golfers, one with handicaps of zero to 11 and the other with handicaps from 12 upward.

Entry fee will be $2 and merchandise awards will go to the winners.

Details for the tournament were worked out at a meeting of members held last night in the Permian building.

Runnels Yearlings Win By 36-0 Tab

SNYDER—Runnels Junior High of Big Spring ran roughshod over Snyder Lamar here Thursday night, 36-0.

The Yearlings had a wide edge in statistics and their vice-like defense kept the Lamar attack bottled up.

End Mel Daves intercepted a Snyder pass in the first period and scored Big Spring's initial TD on a 45-yard run. The ball had been deflected by Ruben Martinez and Tony Saracho.

In the second, center Freddie Stiehl recovered a Snyder fumble on the Lamar 15 and Rey Navarette counted on a 39-yard run but the play was called back.

Wesley Ballou had set the stage for the play by recovering a Snyder fumble at that point.

Quarterback Joe Jaure broke loose on a 48-yard touchdown run for Big Spring a short time later, the play culminating a 65-yard drive.

Before the half ran out, Stiehl recovered another Snyder fumble on the Lamar 40 and Saracho got the touchdown for Big Spring on the first running play thereafter. That made it 24-0 at half time.

Rockets Decision Mavericks, 52-8

Lakeview Junior High, a team consisting largely of ninth graders, beat back Goliad's combination team, 52-8, in an exhibition played here Thursday evening.

Actually, the contest was two different games. Goliad's eighth graders played the entire first half and left the field trailing, 46-0.

In the final two quarters, eight members of the Goliad ninth grade team were allowed to suit out and played three minutes of the third quarter and all of the fourth.

They outscored the Rockets by a margin of 8-6. Lloyd Nichols counted for Goliad in the third round on a pass from Van Tom Whitley, good for 45 yards. Fullback Terry Smith made the two extra points on a run.

Johnny Johnson was outstanding for Lakeview, both on offense and defense.

Larry Pickens counted for Lakeview in the first period and Johnson added the two PAT's on a run. Pickens again counted on a 40-yard run and Johnson made the points after on a dash. Johnson accounted for the third TD of the period on a 20-yard rambles, then added the two extra points on a run. It was 24-0 at the end of the period.

In the second, Johnson ran four yards for a score after Pickens had set up the tally on a 30-yard sprint. Johnson added the two points.

In the fourth, Johnson counted again on a 55-yard run but missed the try for PAT.

Offensive standouts for Lakeview included Johnson, Pickens, Robert Green, Fred Williams, Harold Jones and Roosevelt Brown. The latter turned in some creditable blocking.

On defense, Oscar Tucker, Kenneth Haynes, Robert Jackson and Johnson stood out for Lakeview.

The Rockets play San Angelo Blackshear a return game here Oct. 6. The Angeloans won in a previous encounter with Lakeview, 22-6.

Memo to the Minnesota Twins: When you're in a pennant fight with the New York Yankees, don't give anything away. They don't.

For the second time in three games the Twins blew one to the Detroit Tigers Thursday, giving up three unearned runs in the first inning and taking a 5-1 setback.

Minnesota, a surprise challenger to the Yankees in the American League race this season, is 4½ games back in second place, with the magic number dwindled to four. Any New York had been deflected by Ruben Martinez and Tony Saracho.

In the second, center Freddie Stiehl recovered a Snyder fumble on the Lamar 15 and Rey Navarette counted on a 39-yard run but the play was called back.

Wesley Ballou had set the stage for the play by recovering a Snyder fumble at that point.

Quarterback Joe Jaure broke loose on a 48-yard touchdown run for Big Spring a short time later, the play culminating a 65-yard drive.

Before the half ran out, Stiehl recovered another Snyder fumble on the Lamar 40 and Saracho got the touchdown for Big Spring on the first running play thereafter. That made it 24-0 at half time.

Memo to the Minnesota Twins: When you're in a pennant fight with the New York Yankees, don't give anything away. They don't.

For the second time in three games the Twins blew one to the Detroit Tigers Thursday, giving up three unearned runs in the first inning and taking a 5-1 setback.

Minnesota, a surprise challenger to the Yankees in the American League race this season, is 4½ games back in second place, with the magic number dwindled to four. Any New York

Stanton Wins By 20-0 Tab

STANTON — Floyd Sorley's Stanton Junior High School footballers humbled Coahoma JH, 20-0, in a game unreeled here Thursday evening.

Ruddy Shanks scored the first two touchdowns for Stanton. He went over from the three on a quarterback sneak in the second quarter and tallied again in the third on a right end sweep of eight yards.

In the fourth, Charley Lewis intercepted a Coahoma pass and raced 45 yards to pay dirt. Tony Hernandez counted the two extra points on a run for Stanton after Shanks' second score.

Stanton boomed down inside Coahoma's 20 in the first quarter but couldn't go across.

Sorley played a total of 44 boys in the game.

Nicklaus Leads Portland Play

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema, 1-2 finishers in last week's Seattle Open, set the pace as the second round of the $25,000 Portland Open began today.

Nicklaus, winner of the $50,000 World Series of Golf the week before the Seattle Open, fired an 8-under par 64 Thursday to lead Lema by one stroke. At 66 were three-time Portland Open champion Billy Casper Jr. and Bob Rosburg.

Some 80 players found par an easy touch on the par 36-36-72 Columbia-Edgewater course. The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round.

Caldwell Gets Paving Job

Contract for paving the Leath-erwood road, which begins two miles north of Big Spring on US 87 and goes west five miles, was awarded to W. D. Caldwell, Big Spring, by the Howard County Commissioners court Thursday.

However, Caldwell was advised that the county road and bridge department has only about two or three miles of the road ready for surfacing at this time and that there is a possibility the remainder cannot be put in shape for topping before cold weather sets in.

Caldwell said that his bid of $8,175 for the five mile strip would hold and that he would finish the job when it was ready and when weather permitted. His was the only bid for the paving.

R. E. Jones Sand and Gravel Co., Big Spring, submitted the low bid for gravel on the job. Their bid was $1,447.50. The only other bid was by West Texas Sand and Gravel Co., Big Spring, which bid $1,575.

Jones told the court he would go along with Caldwell on the project and would supply the material when needed.

The road is in Commissioner Rufus Stallings' district.

Knights Set Fall Meeting

Knights of Columbus, Big Spring Council No. 1482, will hold its open fall meeting Wednesday Sept. 26.

Grand Knight Phillip Hanigan will greet 115 local knights, prospective knights, and their wives in the Immaculate Heart of Mary School Hall at 6:30 p.m.

A fried chicken dinner is to be served at that hour.

After the meal, past grand knights will be recognized and receive citations. A film, "Living Traditions," depicting highlights in the life of the Knights of Columbus for the past half century will be screened. Social activities follow.

Special guests will be the clergy of Big Spring—the Rev. Fr. Francis Beazley, Immaculate Heart of Mary Church; the Rev. Fr. Patrick Casey, Sacred Heart Church; the Rev. Fr. Robert McDermott, St. Thomas Church, and the Rev. Fr. James Plummer, chaplain at Webb AFB.

Tickets to the event are $1 each and can be obtained from Richard Egan, program chairman; Capt. A. A. Lindsay, master of ceremonies; Jack Turner, trustee; and Phillip Hanigan, grand knight. Reservations can be accepted through Monday night.

Receives Award

Florence Baker has been awarded a certificate for sustained superior performance at Webb AFB and a cash award of $100. The presentation was made by Lt. Col. Clifton L. Bray, commander of the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron. Miss Baker is the colonel's secretary.

Suit Outgrowth Of Well Probe

DALLAS (AP) — Nortex Oil & Gas Corp. sued Ebro Oil Co., Inc. for $5,761,533 Thursday in another outgrowth of the state's East Texas slanted well probe.

The civil action is a sequel to criminal charges against W. O. Davis Jr. of Ebro earlier this year on complaint of Nortex. Justice of the Peace Glenn Byrd has dismissed these charges.

Nortex states in the damage suit that it purchased 49 wells producing oil or gas from Ebro for $2,920,205 in negotiations completed Feb. 10, 1961.

It adds that market value of the wells, on eight leases in Rusk and Gregg counties, was $6,251,553, according to recovery and valuation reports made in 1959 and updated in 1960. Nortex said it since has found the market value of what Ebro sold was only $490,000.

ON THE SHELF

THE PUBLIC HAPPINESS. By August Hecksher. Athenaeum. $5.75.

By The Associated Press. Distilled to its sharpest essence, the thesis of Hecksher's book is that government has a responsibility to help the citizenry in ways beyond the material, to open the path toward the pursuit of happiness.

"The state cannot make the people happy," he says. "Public happiness, like private happiness, must be a part of the individual." But he argues that the government has a role that goes beyond welfare, social security and house-keeping, into the province of helping the individual private citizen by inspiring him.

The means? "It is through the enjoyment of art, I would urge in conclusion, that the public happiness is ultimately attained," he says.

So it is interesting to note that the manuscript for this book was completed months ago, before his appointment as a part-time consultant in the arts at the White House. (His principal job is the directorship of the Twentieth Century Fund.)

En route to his conclusions, Hecksher makes a sharp distinction between two worlds—the public and the private—and a third, usurping realm which he feels has put a horrible curse on our present American civilization. It is the "social" world, with a pattern of "togetherness" and facile, empty sociability of status seeking suburban split-level traps, nonsensical pseudo-hobbies.

Other writers have made saltier and more mind-catching comments on this social malaise; Hecksher gives it the academic treatment, which nonetheless is effective.

He also has some interesting things to say about education and its present tendency to be watered down into gossip seminars; about city planning, architecture and the hazards of leisure time.

He is a learned man, and his book gains by that. Unfortunately many learned men express themselves in words of high specific gravity, thereby dulling and fuzzing the effect of the wise things they have to say. Sometimes you wish they would get right down to the earthy point with some good four-letter words.

Hecksher is worth listening to, don't doubt it. This is a book to think about.

—Miles A. Smith

SMU Gets Rare Book Collection

DALLAS (AP)—SMU has been given 206 books printed before 1500.

The rare collection was given to the Perkins School of Theology by J. S. Bridwell, Wichita Falls rancher and Frank De Bellis, retired San Francisco businessman who assembled the collection.

The books will be on public display Sept. 27-28. University officials said the collection is priceless.

One book, St. Augustine's "City of God," was printed in 1467, just 14 years after printing with movable type was introduced by Gutenberg.
