NOVEMBER ORDER IS 10th IN A ROW

Long Line Of 8-Day Oil Flow Patterns Extended

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission extended the long line of eight-day production months for Texas oil wells today with another record-low order for November.

The 8-day order for November was the 10th in a row.

The string of 8-day allowables for Texas wells began in May of 1960 and has been broken only six times since—in December of 1960 and 1961, January of 1961 and 1962 and in March and April of last year.

The commission order means a November allowable totaling 2,743,067 barrels daily, up 49,010 barrels from October because of one less calendar day next month.

A 9-day pattern would have meant a daily allowable of 2,922,813 barrels, an increase of 238,756. A 7-day pattern would have dropped the total allowable to 2,553,321 barrels a day, off 140,746 from this month.

Ten of the 12 major purchasers and producers at the allowable hearing asked for retention of the 8-day scale. Two asked that it be dropped to 7 days.

In pre-hearing nominations, major purchasers and producers asked production for November of 2,524,186 barrels daily, an increase of 33,853 barrels a day from October.

The Bureau of Mines forecast for November demand for Texas crude was 2,500,000, an increase of 85,000 barrels a day from October.

William Byrd, for independent producers in the Corpus Christi area, asked retention of the eight-day scale.

Stanley Woods, for the Texas

Land Owners and Independent Producers Association, asked an 8½-day pattern for November.

Commission Chairman W. J. Murray told Woods the commission has worked on the theory that with the vast above-ground storage of oil could take care of slight underproduction in any month.

Murray said that he understood several independent producers groups were studying the advisability of setting allowables on a mean that the commission would set monthly allowables including fractional days such as 8¼ and 8½.

Those asking for eight days and their nominations include:

Indiana Oil, 233,000 barrels a day; Sun, 104,489; Texaco 143,000; Atlantic Refining, 81,330; Mobil, 229,000; Humble, 389,460; Sinclair, 106,500; Cities Service, 85,500; Standard of Texas, 34,500, and Gulf, 211,450.

Requesting seven days were Shell, 151,400 and Phillips, 117,258.

Settlement Seen In Chamizal Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Settlement by Jan. 1 of an El Paso boundary dispute which has troubled U.S.-Mexican relations for more than 60 years is a distinct possibility, informed sources said today.

The controversy, arising from a change in the course of the Rio Grande, affects several hundred acres in El Paso. Speculation is that it was among the topics scheduled for discussion today at the White House between President Kennedy and Thomas Mann, U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

U.S. officials have been cautious in talking publicly about the Chamizal case because of its complex angles. It is a touchy political issue in Mexico as well as in Texas and El Paso.

The matter still is under negotiation. State Department experts have refused to speculate just when a settlement may be reached.

During Kennedy's visit to Mexico last June, he and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos issued a communique which said they were instructing their executive agencies to "recommend a complete solution to this problem."

Recently, U.S.-Mexican negotiations have been at a standstill.

In his speech to the Mexican Congress last month, Lopez Mateos said nothing would contribute so much to improving relations between Mexico and the United States as solution of this matter. He assured Mexican citizens that no agreement will go into effect until it is announced and discussed and approved by the two houses of the Mexican Congress.

Lopez Mateos said the solution would be in line with a 1911 international arbitration decision awarding Mexican land lying between the course of the Rio Grande as it was in 1864 and its current course. The United States rejected the decision, saying it was not in accord with the arbitration agreement, and actually did not decide anything because the Washington government contended, nobody knows where the river was in 1864.

Meet To Map Walker Tests

DALLAS (AP)—A team of three eminent psychiatrists met behind closed doors today to map out procedures for a reasonable psychiatric examination for former Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker.

Dr. Titus Harris of the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston, and Dr. Andrew Watson, University of Michigan psychiatry professor, conferred with Dr. R. L. Stubblefield, appointed by a Mississippi federal court to conduct Walker's examination.

Stubblefield, chief of psychiatry at Southwestern Medical School here, said he alone would examine Walker.

The three psychiatrists will notify the court of what they consider a proper examination.

Walker faces charges of inciting insurrection growing out of the integration rioting at the University of Mississippi at Oxford.

Demo Chief Sees Connally Victory During Visit Here

A victory for John Connally in the governor's race of November 6 was forecast here Wednesday by the State Democratic Executive Committee chairman.

He is Eugene Locke of Dallas, who is on an extensive tour of the state in final contacts with party leaders in various counties. He said he has visited already 20 of the state's 31 senatorial districts.

Locke stopped briefly in the afternoon for a coffee session with local Demo leaders at Coker's Cafe. Some 15 workers heard him appeal for renewed activity to "get out the vote."

The bigger the voter turnout, the wider the margin of victory for

Rocket Takes Up Capsule For Lunar Landing Attempt

To Send Back Data On Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A towering rocket thundered skyward today in an attempt to send the Ranger 5 spacecraft a quarter of a million miles to a landing on the moon.

The mission of the gold-and-silver-plated spacecraft is to send back closeup television pictures of the moon's surface before landing the first active instrument package. This would measure moonquakes and meteor hits.

If all goes well Ranger 5 will streak through space for 70 hours and reach the moon about midday Sunday.

The shot was postponed twice this week, first by technical trouble and then by the threat of Hurricane Ella. But the hurricane changed course and the launching was rescheduled.

The Atlas-Agena B rocket, 102 feet tall and weighing nearly 150 tons, blasted away from Cape Canaveral at 11:59 a.m. (EST).

The huge booster lifted straight off its pad. Within 10 seconds it vanished into a low-hanging cloud bank.

Forty minutes later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the rocket apparently had done its job and had hurled the 750-pound package into space above the South Atlantic.

Tracing Slant Oil Troubling U.S. Probers

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Times Herald said today the federal government is having trouble making out felony cases against East Texas slant oil well operators who piped their oil across state lines.

Two sources said the destinations of petroleum from slanted wells are so varied that federal investigators face greater problems than that of finding a needle in a haystack.

"It's like tracing all the roots of a tree," commented one of the two informants. "Some of the oil may be handled by 8 or 10 distributors before leaving the state and one distributor may handle the same oil more than once."

Another problem concerns the value of the oil.

For an operator to be prosecuted under federal court, the government must prove that the interstate shipments exceeded $5,000 in value during a reasonable period of time.

Reportedly, a working rule of thumb for the Justice Department regarding "a certain reasonable period of time" has been 12 months.

"This time limit presents a real problem because some of the marginal wells involved in the East Texas investigation produce only $200 or $300 worth of oil a month," one of the sources pointed out.

The Internal Revenue Service must come up with some answers of their own in connection with the slant hole wells.

Should the IRS disallow the 27½ per cent depletion allowances of innocent royalty owners whose wells were slanted without their knowledge? The question hasn't been answered, but most observers expect the IRS to okay the depletion allowances of innocent parties.

Congo Plan Falls

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Cyrille Adoula repudiated Wednesday agreements with Katanga President Moïse Tshombe in a speech which political observers here saw as a body blow to Acting Secretary-General U Thant's plan to reunite the Congo peacefully.

TO COUNTER RED BUILDUP

Navy Jets Are Moved Near Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon, moving to counter a buildup of jet MIGs in Cuba, has quietly shifted a squadron of 1,400-mile-an-hour Navy jet fighters to southernmost Florida.

A Defense Department spokesman said today the squadron of about 12 F4B Phantom 2 fighters was ordered to Key West on Oct. 6. There, they are poised about 90 miles from Cuba.

The action came three days after Undersecretary of State George W. Ball told Congress that eventually Cuba probably will have 25 to 30 of the most modern Soviet-built jet fighters which normally carry air-to-air missiles.

Ball said Cuba was believed to have one advanced MIG 21, with more probably being assembled, plus about 60 older jets.

The Pentagon spokesman related the buildup of missile-armed

U.S. jets in southern Florida to this report by Ball of increasing MIG strength in Cuba.

The movement of the Phantoms from Oceana Naval Air Station near Norfolk, Va., to Key West does not herald a pattern, the spokesman said. As far as he knows, he said, this was the only additional unit sent to the area to reinforce U.S. forces facing hostile Cuba. The United States has powerful air and fleet elements based throughout the Caribbean area.

The F4B Phantom is rated the Navy's fastest, highest flying and longest range fighter. It also has the greatest firepower of any Navy fighter plane.

It is manned by a pilot and a radar observer and mounts both Sparrow and Sidewinder missiles which can be used to knock down other high speed aircraft.

U.S. Base Not Encouraged As Port For Cuban Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 350 Cubans who sought asylum at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo from Fidel Castro's regime have been permitted to reside and work there but not to use it as a port to escape to this country, the Navy says.

The situation is described by the Navy in a letter to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in response to an inquiry from him. Keating's office made the letter public today.

In commenting on the letter, Keating protested that "in a misguided attempt to avoid antagonizing Castro, it appears that our Guantanamo naval base has been turned into a virtual detention camp for Cuban escapees."

The Navy's letter was written by Vice Adm. U. S. G. Sharp, deputy chief of naval operations for plans and policy. It said only about 20 of the escapees "have agitated to have the restrictions on departing Cuba relaxed and referred to themselves as 'political refugees.'"

It added that "some of these agitators have managed to elude base security measures and a few have attempted to stow away on outbound ships."

Sharp said the U.S.-Cuban lease agreement on the Guantanamo base is silent on the subject of Cuban nationals departing Cuba from the base.

"However," he added, "the United States has refrained from permitting such travel on grounds that nothing in any treaty has given us a legal basis for establishing Guantanamo as a port of exit for Cuban citizens and this would be an issue in any legal consideration of our rights to use the base."

Sharp wrote Keating that since Jan. 1 of this year, 58 Cuban citizens have made their way through Cuban guards to the naval base.

"Each of these men," he said, "has been given employment on the base and joined some 300 other Cubans who have taken up permanent residence on the base since the Castro government came to power."

Five Men Die In 2-Car Crash

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Five men died today as two cars collided head-on.

The crash occurred about 5:45 a.m. on a straight stretch of U. S. 75 about 10 miles north of Huntsville.

Patrolman Paul Bruno said the dead were two white men and three Negroes, all from Houston.

He was trying to determine identities.

The crash occurred about 5:45 a.m.

The white men were Sam Houston State College students, Arthur Taulk Jr., 19, and James Allen, 21.

Three Negroes were Cephus Bradley, Benroe Webber and Sherrill Davis. They were in their 40s.

James Hanna said the collision occurred in front of his home. Hanna and his wife heard a loud crash but did not know what had happened until they looked out of a window and saw the wreckage and bodies.

Manager Quits

PORT ARTHUR (AP)—Charles Brazil, city manager for 12 years, resigned Wednesday. The City Commission named assistant City Atty. George Dibrell acting city manager.

Soviet Union Claims Hits In Rocket Tests

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union says it fired multistage rockets 7,500 miles Tuesday and Wednesday and they landed near their targets in the Pacific.

The range is about that reported when the Soviets said they fired a new rocket into the Pacific in September 1961.

The target area for the latest Soviet tests was near the Marshall Islands. The announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass said the area was temporarily open again to ships and planes.

In announcing a new series of rocket firings Monday, the Soviet Union asked ships and planes to stay out of the area near the Marshalls and from a second area northwest of the Hawaiian Islands.

The original announcement said the tests would run from Oct. 16 to Nov. 30.

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government announced today it protested to the Soviet Union against the closing of Pacific areas for rocket testing.

A note delivered in Moscow said closing Pacific areas to ships and planes was detrimental to Japanese airline and fishing operations and infringed on the rights of other nations to use the open seas. Japan reserved the right to demand compensation for any damage suffered and insisted the Soviet government give 95 hours notice of each test.

Grand Jury Opens Slant Well Probe

LONGVIEW (AP)—The Gregg County grand jury opened a probe of slant-hole oil wells Wednesday.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and three assistants, David McAngus, Frank Maloney and Bob Flowers, were present.

Dist. Atty. Ralph Prince said 38 oil wells in Gregg County are affected by a three-month state investigation of deviated wells.

One of the first witnesses was Roy Payne of Kilgore, district supervisor for the Railroad Commission.

Bill Kavanaugh of the Department of Public Safety, Ranger Capt. Bob Crowder of Dallas, Ranger Jim Ray of Tyler, and DPS intelligence agent George Read of Austin also were in town.

Stock Market Continues Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to decline in moderate trading late this afternoon.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3.1 million shares compared with 3.24 million Wednesday.

Losses of key stocks ran from fractions to more than a point.

The list headed lower from the start and widened the decline as trading wore on.

News that sales of mutual fund shares in September were the lowest in four years was a dampening factor, but the general climate of opinion in Wall Street was extremely cautious.

Two Ft. Worth Residents Killed

DEL NORTE, Colo. (AP)—Two Fort Worth residents died Wednesday when their auto plunged 600 feet down a cliff. They were Weldon Bratcher, 55, and Mrs. Elizabeth Defee, 51.

UF Barely Past The Halfway Mark

The United Fund eased up another notch today, barely crossing the halfway mark in its quest of a $103,324 goal.

Reports at the office this morning showed $51,705.85 had been reported in so far.

Dr. Lee Rogers, general chairman, urged all workers to not only make their contacts as promptly as possible, but also to report their results to headquarters.

Another unit of the Metropolitan division was to swing into action today. Monday, the Big Spring schools will stage their United Fund appeal.

While no further official reports had been made at Webb AFB, progress of the annual fund appeal there was regarded as good. The base has at this point attained about 70 per cent of its goal, and another division—wing headquarters—was nearly able to touch its goal. Thursday it had achieved 99 per cent of the target.

Special emphasis was being placed on pressing for completion of the various employees divisions. A good start was made, and several firms have reported 100 per cent. Cosden's office workers came in with an average of above $25 on the first report, and contacts are being pushed there this week. Plant workers are making their contacts in another division.

Several sections of the Metropolitan Division have pushed their campaign into action this week, bringing all major divisions into operation. Officials hope the job can be completed this month.

Helps Scouts
James Beckham, left, Sea Scout from Ship 136, sponsored by Cosden; Reggie Crawford, Troop 5, Boy Scouts, and Cub Scout Randy Hoover, front, represent the three phases of Boy Scout work.

More Than 1,200 Boys Participate In Scouting

More than 1,200 boys in Howard County receive benefits from the United Fund through Boy Scout work. One paid adult leader, and around 350 volunteers help in directing Explorer Posts, Scout troops, and Cub packs.

Bill McRee, Scout executive, reports that there are 45 units in all three phases of Scouting in Howard County. The central office is maintained in Midland where records of around 12,000 boys in the 18-county Buffalo Trail Council area are processed each month.

Most of the training program is carried on under the direction of volunteer workers who are, in turn, under the supervision of the council.

Texas Hurricanes Have Changed History's Course

ROCKPORT (AP)—Approximately 61 hurricanes with winds greater than 75 miles an hour have hit the Texas coast in the last 145 years.

Several times they have changed the course of history.

Most hurricanes begin in the Atlantic or Caribbean, where for days a torrid sun has scorched a placid ocean. Heat waves dance across the oily water and huge masses of moist air rise slowly.

As this air rises cool air drifts in from the sides to replace it. These atmospheric currents, influenced by the earth's rotation, take on a spin and spiral aloft in an ever-expanding, funnel-shaped column. Then the saturated air at the top of the column strikes the cooler breezes of the upper atmosphere, it condenses, dropping its moisture in torrential rains and increasing spin.

Light airs flowing along the surface of the sea become breezes; breezes become winds; winds become gales; and a hurricane is born.

END PRODUCT

Texans are familiar with the end product of this oceanic weather factory, for hurricanes in this region have several times changed history.

Cabeza de Vaca's ships were dispersed by a hurricane on Oct. 4, 1527; he and his comrades faced almost seven years of incredible suffering as Indian slaves before they were able to make their escape to Spanish settlements in Lower California, becoming the first men to cross the North American continent.

In 1553, twenty vessels left the Mexican port of Vera Cruz, laden with passengers and treasure, only to run into a hurricane in the Bahamas Passage. Three caught in the storm were sucked under; four sailed to safety; the other 13 were forced back across the Gulf and flung ashore on the coast of Padre Island off Texas.

ONE STILL LOST

The cargoes of all but one were salvaged the following year. That one, with gold and silver from the Mexican mines, still lies beneath the sands of the island.

Jean Lafitte's fleet of four vessels was driven ashore on Galveston Island in a hurricane during September of October, 1818.

The "Racer" storm of 1837, while it put out of commission the Texan man-of-war "Brutus," the privateer "Thomas Toby" and the prizes "Correo de Tobasco" and "Fenix," still prevented the descent on our coast of the Mexican ships "Irburide" and "Libertador" in the critical months of the Texas Revolution.

A contemporary account says that the "new Texas custom house was swept from its foundation and but two houses in the whole island survive the wreck. Humans suffering in the meantime was immense. Men, women and children were seen floating upon boards, logs and small boats, for days and nights, in every part of the island." But, despite the severity of the storm and the desolation, only one life was lost.

LOSS OF 70 LIVES

Seven years later, at the mouth of the Rio Grande, a storm caused the loss of 70 lives at least, when the sea was forced three leagues over the beach and not a single house remained at Brazos Santiago or the mouth of the river.

In 1854, a hurricane wrecked Matagorda and straightened the entrance to the bay, deepening it from nine to eleven feet over the bar. Thirteen years later there was a severe storm which flooded Galveston and destroyed Bagdad and Clarksville, towns at the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Between that time and the great Indianola hurricane of 1875, hurricanes were recorded in 1868, 1871 (twice), 1872 and two more in 1874.

In none of them is there any record of lives lost, but the following year, in a tremendous gale it is believed that between 200 and 300 people were drowned at Indianola and three-fourths of the town swept away.

BROWNSVILLE HIT

Six years and four hurricanes later, Brownsville was nearly destroyed, with many lives lost, and the entire terrain, especially on the lower end of Padre Island, completely changed. That winter, there was an almost continuous northerly all through November. Snow lay on the ground nearly a foot deep for over a month.

The blow that finally finished Indianola came in 1886. This last storm completely destroyed the town. Only ruins were left in the wake of the two huge tidal waves which swept over the village.

Everyone agreed that the storm was worse than that of 1875, though not as many lives were lost, for the population at that time had dwindled from 3,000 to 200.

There was another hurricane on the Texas coast that year, that struck Brownsville, and there were six more between then and the great Galveston-storm of 1900, which is undoubtedly the worst this coast has ever seen.

HIT WRONG WALL

The Galveston storm began at the Cape Verde Islands in the Atlantic, passed south of Santo Domingo, crossed the western tip of Cuba, and might have gone north along the Atlantic coast had it not bumped into a wall of high barometric pressure before reaching the Florida coast.

This deflected it westward, almost parallel with the coast. It swung inland at Galveston with tremendous fury. More than 6,000 people were killed and the city wrecked.

From 1902 until 1908 there were only four little ones, but in 1909 there were two, both big.

The first, in July, killed 41 people and destroyed most of the town of Velasco; the second, in August, passed inland near the mouth of the Rio Grande in northwestern Mexico, killing some 1,500 people with its attendant floods.

FEARFUL VIOLENCE

Six years passed. Three tropical storms struck the coast in 1910; there was one each in 1912 and 1913 and then, between Aug. 5, when its effects began to be felt, and Aug. 24, 1915 a hurricane of great extent and fearful violence struck the Texas coast, with a loss of 275 lives, and damages exceeding $50 million.

A year later, also during August, another storm hit, with 15 people in this area losing their lives and damages of around $2 million.

But it was early in September, 1919, that possibly the greatest hurricane of the present century passed near Key West, the most violent storm ever recorded there up till that time. This storm went inland at Corpus Christi, with possibly 600 lives lost, and over $20 million in property damage.

THEN THERE WAS CARLA

Following the 1919 storm there were hurricanes or tropical disturbances in 1920, 1921 (2), 1922, 1925, 1929, 1931, 1932, 1933 (4) which included the Brownsville storm that left 40 dead and caused $12 million in property damage.

In 1934 there were a couple; 1936 had two; then there were others in 1938, 1942, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1949, 1950 (3), 1951 (2), 1954 (2) and five in 1955, when the Tampico floods occurred.

Since then, the largest was last year's Carla, which spread destruction all along the Texas coast, but with relatively small loss of life because most of the residents at the critical points fled inland.

Extortion Attempt Is Charged

MIDLAND (AP)—Police have charged a 27-year-old San Antonio man with extortion and threatening the life of a Midland businessman and his family.

Justice of the Peace John Biggs ordered Thomas Jack Goyette Jr., who described himself as a blacksmith's helper, held in jail after he was unable to make bond of $10,000.

Texas Ranger John Wood and Midland Police Capt. Roger Robbins arrested Goyette on a shopping center parking lot as he kept a pre-arranged meeting with Frank Paup, 48, an insurance agency executive.

The two officers said Goyette had demanded $30,000 but that Paup handed over a package of bills which totaled only $650. In exchange Goyette handed Paup a roll of film which Paup unrolled and exposed to the sunlight, the officers said.

The officers said they also have a tape recording of the conversation between the two men on the parking lot which was made on a portable tape recorder Paup carried in a brief case.

Ranger Wood quoted Paup as saying that Goyette was made last week and placed him in an embarrassing position.

Wood also said that Paup told him that Goyette demanded $30,000 for the film and threatened Paup and his family if it were not paid.

U.S. Petroleum Production Falls

TULSA (AP)—U.S. oil production slumped last week, largely because of declines in Oklahoma and Texas, the Oil and Gas Journal reports.

Production last week averaged 7,327,975 barrels per day, down 28,800.

Oklahoma output was down 9,400 barrels daily to 550,600, Texas 8,850 to 2,512,640.

Figures for other states included Arkansas 75,000, Colorado 114,300, Louisiana 1,361,200 and New Mexico 296,600.

Three Men Killed When Rocket Fuel Explodes

BACCHUS, Utah (AP)—Three men were killed and 18 injured Wednesday in an explosion of 4,000 pounds of rocket fuel—the second in less than two months at the Hercules Powder Co. plant here.

An explosion of 3,000 pounds of experimental rocket fuel Aug. 23 also killed three men.

Killed Wednesday were Larry Larsen, 26, and Charles Eutsler, 30, both of Salt Lake City, and Grant C. Terry, 36, American Fork, Utah. They were inside or just outside a 20-by-30 foot frame and concrete block building used for preparation of solid fuel when the blast occurred.

The explosion left only a hole in the ground where the building had stood. Cause of the blast has not been determined.

The plant manager, R. C. Tucker, said the firm's production of solid propellant for Polaris and Minuteman missiles would not be affected. No rocket engines were damaged, he said.

Kennedy Gets Lively Reception On Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has an open date on his campaign schedule today, and after Wednesday's lively reception in Connecticut he's probably glad to have this day of comparative rest.

For Kennedy drew one highly enthusiastic audience — and got one loudly booning reception—during his 60-mile drive through an area that contains a lot of industry and a lot of Democrats.

Kennedy hits the campaign trail again Friday on a three-day trip that takes him all the way to Seattle in his efforts to get a Democratic Congress elected Nov. 6. If he runs into similar crowds, it should be an entertaining weekend.

The big crowd Wednesday was at Waterbury, a town that loves, and is loved by, Kennedy. It was so carried away with the President's visit — a police officer thought 45,000 were there—that it threatened to get out of hand. Police scurried over to calm down one segment, seemingly composed mainly of squealing young ladies.

The critical crowd was at New Haven, home of Yale University. Nobody knows for sure who gave the President the raspberry or held up disparaging signs. But it's the custom on such occasions in New Haven to give all the credit, or blame, to Yale students.

Kennedy didn't seem to be too rattled by the booning or by the signs which carried such sentiments as:

"Will we get to the moon before the Negro gets to vote?"

"Castro loves Democrats."

"Less profile more courage."

and I have enjoyed that warm reception I have gotten from my fellow Elits as I drove into this city.

"But they will learn, as this country has learned, that the Democratic party is best for them as it is for the country."

Unlike in Waterbury, where the police rushed over to protect Kennedy from his friends, everything went smoothly in New Haven.

Yale men may boo, but they boo like gentlemen.

All during his campaign Wednesday, as he rode in an open car from Bridgeport to Waterbury to New Haven, Kennedy followed what has now become a familiar pattern. He plugged hard for Democratic House candidates, for Abraham Ribicoff, his former welfare secretary who wants to be a senator, and for John N. Dempsey, who wants to stay on as governor.

In Waterbury, the President made his pitch for a Democratic Congress this way: "Too many times I have seen fights won and lost by one, two or three votes, on housing and medical care for the aged, and education, and farming, and all the rest.

"I don't want to see the next two years spent with a Congress in the control of the Republicans and an executive in control of the Democrats, and nothing being done which must be done if this country is going to move ahead."

This was Kennedy's first chance to reply to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's criticism of Monday night that this administration has what he called "a dreary foreign policy."

But Kennedy ignored the criticism.

He neither mentioned his Republican predecessor nor defended his own foreign policy, in spite of signs needling him about Cuba.

Incidentally, if anyone still doubts that Kennedy won't try for a second term, those doubts can be erased.

though he was delayed until 3 a.m.

"Our meeting here two years ago at three o'clock in the morning was the high point of the 1960 campaign," Kennedy said. "and we will meet at three o'clock in the morning of the last week of the 1964 campaign and see what is going to happen then."

Gondolier's Nightmare

Something different in Venetian vehicular traffic, this car literally drove along the Grand Canal in Venice with no visible means of support. The auto actually rode on a special raft which is partially submerged by the car's weight. Fortunately for the gondoliers, it was all a stunt by the manufacturer to publicize his new raft.

Child Actress Has Unusual Parents

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hayley Mills had her first date at the age of 3½. Laurence Olivier took her to a movie studio.

Hayley's dating slacked off after that. But now she is 16 and like all 16-year-old girls, she has more than a passing interest in boys.

"But I'm not utterly desperate about dates," she says. "I don't mind if I'm boyless on a Friday night. I'm perfectly happy to go out with my parents. They're fun, too."

In that regard she may differ from other girls of 16, who as a class are inclined to consider their parents square. True, Hayley has unusual parents, British film star John Mills and his authoress wife, Mary Hayley Bell. They have done a good job of keeping their daughter fresh and unspoiled despite her international fame.

Hayley's achievement is remarkable. She is unmistakably

English, yet she has been adopted by American teen-agers as their favorite young actress. The Disney films "Pollyanna" and especially "Parent Trap" established her in the top rank.

She is now finishing up "Summer Magic," a modernized "Mother Carey's Chickens."

She paused on a work day to talk about dating, as practiced in England and America.

"It's a bit more casual here," she remarked. "In England we don't have the facilities you have here—the beach, drive-in restaurants and so forth. A date generally means going to the theater and then returning to someone's house for a group party. Dating is done more in groups over there; it's not so much of a pairing off."

"Everything is much more casual here. I like it, although sometimes I think the dress can be a bit too casual. I see girls out in public with curlers in their hair, and I think that looks dreadful."

Mrs. Mills said that she had the usual motherly trepidations when her daughter arrived at the dating stage.

"Now I am not so nervous when she goes out with a boy," said Mrs. Mills. "Hayley is a very responsible girl. And she is very particular about who she goes out with."

"I could think of nothing worse than spending an evening with someone you don't like," said Hayley, crossing her eyes for added emphasis.

And what to do about boys who get fresh?

"It's very easy," she declared. "The girl decides how they are going to get along. If she sits there like an iceberg, naturally he isn't going to try to get musky. He's afraid of being rebuffed."

On the other hand, if she throws herself at him, he's going to get all kinds of ideas. The secret is to find a happy medium—friendly, but not too friendly."

Noble Prize Is Jointly Awarded

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1962 Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded jointly today to Dr. Francis Harry Compton Crick, Dr. James Dewey Watson and Dr. Maurice Hugh Frederick Wilkins for their discoveries concerning the molecular structure of nucleic acids and its significance.

The prize this year totals 257,219 Swedish crowns, or $49,656.

Dr. Crick, 46, is attached to the Institute of Molecular Biology at Cambridge, England.

Dr. Watson, 34, is a professor of biology at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. Wilkins, 46, is deputy director of the Biophysics Laboratory at King's College, London.

Candidates For Governorship To Meet; Duels Continue

By The Associated Press
Three men with more in common than they may like to admit were due to meet Thursday in Dallas.

They're the three candidates for governor of Texas and they share the same initials — Jack Carwell of the Constitution Party, John Connally, the Democrat, and Jack Cox, the Republican.

Past utterances left no doubt the trio, scheduled to appear before the League of Women Voters of Dallas, would avow there was no further resemblance.

Election day is Nov. 6, but some Texans already were casting votes. Absentee balloting opened Wednesday. It will close Nov. 2.

Commenting on Cox billboards describing the GOP nominee as "independent of Washington control," Connally declared that his supporters are busy campaigning "because they know that I am independent of any control, that I wear no man's collar."

The Democrats' standard bearer made the statement in a statewide telecast Wednesday night, his first of the general election campaign. Twenty stations carried it.

In similar vein, Connally asserted at a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Dallas that he owed his appointment as secretary of the Navy to the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn and not to Vice President Lyndon Johnson. Cox has said Connally resigned the Navy post to run for governor at Johnson's direction.

During a news conference, Connally declared that only the day before "my opponent was over in East Texas talking about states' rights, yet his people in South Texas were asking for federal supervision of elections in three counties." At another point Connally said:

"The last time a Republican governor was elected in Texas it was under federal supervision and at the point of federal bayonets."

Cox, speaking on the town square at Sulphur Springs, said he was pledged "to whip the most powerful, ruthless political machine in Texas — a machine that makes strong use of smear tactics."

The Republican candidate wound up a two-day swing across East Texas by bus, speaking at a rally and appearing on local television at Texarkana in the evening.

Cox chided Connally for what he said was "a lack of statements on Cuba," adding that "the great fiasco there" should be of concern to all although it was not a platform issue.

In a talk at Kilgore, the GOP nominee asserted his Democratic rival should apologize for remarks about his connection with the Freedom in Action (F.I.A.). Aides of Cox in Austin said Connally had described Cox as a "former agent for a dangerous secret society" and Rep. Henry Gonzales made like statements while appearing with Connally in San Antonio.

Cox said he took pride in having served as executive secretary of Freedom in Action. He called it "a non-partisan organization which accomplished much good in behalf of better government."

Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos and Midwestern University of Wichita Falls topped all others in percentage growth with 22 per cent. Southwest Texas climbed from 2,866 in 1961 to 3,463. Midwestern rose from 1,924 to 2,356.

Other schools with high percentages of enrollment increases were Texas Western College of El Paso, with 15 per cent from 4,771 to 5,449 and Stephen F. Austin State College at Nacogdoches, up 14 per cent from 2,373 to 2,737.

Other schools, with 1961 and 1962 enrollment figures:

University of Texas, 20,396 to 21,390; Texas Tech, 10,212 to 11,181; North Texas State, 8,835 to 9,921; Arlington State, 8,318 to 9,116; Texas A&M, 7,724 to 8,126; Lamar Tech, 6,440 to 7,090; Sam Houston State, 5,045 to 5,270; East Texas State, 3,511 to 3,844; Texas Southern, 3,580 to 3,831; West Texas State, 3,430 to 3,733; Texas

Anti-Castro Raiders

Six Cubans, described as raiders who sank a Cuban patrol boat, stand on the deck of a Coast Guard boat which brought them to Key West from the British island of Cay Sal where they sought refuge after the sea battle. Immigration officials took them into custody for questioning and refused to identify them. Two Castro militiamen, wounded in the raid, were taken to Miami for treatment.

Castro, Ben Bella Urge Base Closing

HAVANA (AP) — Announcing "essential identity of viewpoints" in world affairs, Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and Prime Minister Fidel Castro agreed Wednesday night that the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo must go.

A joint communique emphasized, however, that the big naval installation in eastern Cuba will be "claimed in its opportunity through international law"—not by force.

Despite the specific mention of Guantanamo, the communique was free of the usual Cuban diatribes against "Yankee imperialism" with which Castro greeted Ben Bella on his arrival Tuesday.

The communique was issued at the end of a 28-hour visit by the premier of the new North African nation, who came here direct from a White House lawn reception and talks with President Kennedy.

The communique said Castro and Ben Bella "considered the unpostponable necessity of evacuating (foreign) troops and dismantling foreign military bases in other countries, including Guantanamo naval base."

This also was a reference to French military forces and bases still in Algeria.

The communique said the two leaders, talking in "a completely fraternal atmosphere," also agreed that the only way to maintain peace was through application of the "peaceful coexistence principle."

Ben Bella and Castro discussed the strengthening of ties between their two nations and decided to establish diplomatic relations at the embassy level. Castro also accepted an invitation to visit Algeria, but no date was announced.

Amplifying his previously voiced support for Castro's revolution, Ben Bella said he "fully appreciated the great efforts made and optimum fruits harvested in the construction of a socialist society" in Cuba. He has announced he plans an Arab socialist state in Algeria.

The newspaper Revolution said Ben Bella in an interview declared "the Cuban problem is as grave as that of Berlin for international peace." He also observed that nonalignment in the cold war "is the only positive position."

Small College Gains Posted

AUSTIN (AP) — Two of the smallest of Texas' 19 state-supported colleges posted the highest percentage of enrollment increase this year, the Texas Commission on Higher Education says.

A commission enrollment census shows the total for all 19 schools is 109,998, up 9 per cent from the 100,982 enrolled in 1961.

The University of Texas, with a 4 per cent gain, and Texas Tech, which had a 9 per cent increase, showed lower percentages of growth than several of the smaller schools.

Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos and Midwestern University of Wichita Falls topped all others in percentage growth with 22 per cent. Southwest Texas climbed from 2,866 in 1961 to 3,463. Midwestern rose from 1,924 to 2,356.

Other schools with high percentages of enrollment increases were Texas Western College of El Paso, with 15 per cent from 4,771 to 5,449 and Stephen F. Austin State College at Nacogdoches, up 14 per cent from 2,373 to 2,737.

Off Course, Minuteman Destroys Itself

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Minuteman missile, off course and headed for the Florida mainland, destroyed itself on signal from the range safety officer seconds after launching from an underground silo Wednesday night.

The spectacular blast rained chunks of flaming debris over a wide area and a Jupiter missile was severely damaged. A photographer was injured slightly while racing to safety.

The missile was far off course—aimed toward the mainland a few miles away instead of out to sea as intended—when it blasted out of the 85-foot-deep hole. The range signal to destroy the rocket after eight seconds of flight.

Walter Lewis, a documentary photographer recording the launching from a mile away, fell from a platform as he scurried for safety. It was thought at first he had broken a leg, but examination showed he was only cut, bruised and shaken up. No pieces of the Minuteman landed near him.

A fiery chunk of the shattered rocket plummeted onto a launch complex containing a Jupiter missile. The Air Force reported fire caused extensive damage to the Jupiter and some damage to its launch facilities, which are 1 1/4 miles from the Minuteman silo.

It was the first time in more than three years that an exploding missile damaged another at Cape Canaveral.

The Jupiter was being groomed for firing within a few weeks by a team of Italian rocketmen training here. Jupiters are stationed in Italy.

An Air Force spokesman said the Jupiter would have to be replaced and probably would never fly.

Missile experts began a probe to determine what caused the Minuteman to veer off course as it cleared its pit. It was only the third failure in 16 silo launchings here for the Wing 1 Minuteman, which is scheduled to become operational within a few weeks.

Grand Jury To Meet Thursday

Grand jury for the October term of 118th District Court will convene Thursday, Oct. 25, it was announced today.

A grand jury panel of 20 has been drawn by a special jury commission. These citizens are to report to Judge Ralph Caton at 10 a.m. Oct. 25. He will select 12 to serve as grand jurors for the period Oct. 24 through Dec. 24.

The grand jury will begin its work immediately it is qualified. This will be an unusual starting date in that it has been the custom for many years for grand juries to report for duty on Monday.

Gil Jones, district attorney, is to be out of town until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. He said that the grand jury should be able to complete its work within one and one half days and that he would not have more than 20 or perhaps 25 matters to lay before the jury.

All of the cases, he intimated, are "mill-run" with no matters of spectacular nature scheduled for airing.

The grand jury panel comprises:

E. S. Crabtree, E. W. Lomax, Mrs. Robert H. Johnson, Richard M. Johnson, Jack McKinnon, Truman Jones, J. Y. Robb Jr., Mrs. Simon Terrazas, Harry Middleton, A. C. Hale, M. J. Francis, Manuel Puga, Bert Massingill, R. W. Thompson, Chester Cathey, J. D. Gilmore, Mrs. Garner McAdams, R. D. Cramer, John Currie and Clyde Angel.

Glenn Says U.S. Leads In Data

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. said Wednesday night that the United States leads the Soviet Union in space information.

Glenn told the Geographical Society of Philadelphia that in overall knowledge of space from manned flights and satellite information, "I would think they (the Soviets) have some catching up to do with us."

Glenn, who was America's first orbital explorer, was presented the society's Elisha Kent Kane gold medal, the organization's highest award.

Heavy Rains Lessen After Good Soaking

Downpours which soaked some Texas areas with more than three inches of rain tapered off Thursday.

There was a little light rain or drizzle in early morning between Lubbock and Midland in West Texas. Slightly more than half an inch fell at Del Rio during the night.

Forecasts called for nothing more than isolated showers, however, in the wake of Wednesday's rains up to 3.20 inches near Westaco in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and 2.60 within an hour at Levelland in West Texas.

Water blocked some streets in Westaco for a time. Rainfall measurements elsewhere in the valley included Mercedes 2.20 inches, Progress 2, Edcouch 1.90, Harlingen 1.60, Lyford 1 and Raymondville .80.

Lighter rain fell at scattered other points from Amarillo in the Panhandle to Laredo on the Mexican border.

A cool front setting off the rains as it encountered a mass of north-bound moist air remained stalled across South Texas from near Victoria to Del Rio.

The weatherman predicted a few showers through Friday for all sections except North Central and Northeast Texas. It was due to warm a bit over northern areas of the state.

Afternoon temperatures Wednesday ranged from 92 degrees at Brownsville down to 54 at Amarillo. Readings early Thursday varied from 44 at Dalhart to 76 at Corpus Christi.

DEAR ABBY

Woman's Work?

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your saying that a husband should help his wife change the baby and make the formula and all that sissy work. It is just like a husband asking his wife to change the generator on their car.

VICTOR DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a woman change the generator on a car, but I know plenty who do a good job of recharging batteries.

DEAR ABBY: Some very dear friends of mine have a summer place and I am frequently their weekend guest. I have just returned from a visit with them and I can't sleep nights for worrying about my last visit. I had a lot on my mind and I wasn't myself. I am very fond of these people and want to write them a thank-you letter, but don't know what to say. I can't say "I had a lovely time," because I didn't. I was very disagreeable and argumentative and had a miserable time and they know it. Should I ignore the facts or just skip the letter this time? Hypocrisy isn't easy for me.

NO HYPOCRITE DEAR NO: Don't skip the thank-you letter. Explain that you were not yourself and you regret it. Thank them for putting up with you as well as for putting you up. They'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: My dear, 79-year-old mother is an angel but she is driving me crazy. Abby, I have had the heat on in my house all summer and she complains that she is cold. I keep it at 80 in her bedroom, but she can't stay in her bedroom all day. When she comes into the living room, she turns the heat up! When she isn't looking, my husband turns it back down again. I've had people open doors and windows to keep from roasting while she's taking "the chill off the room." I have given her sweaters, but she says she doesn't like to be "bundled up" indoors. Please, Abby, tell me what to do.

ROASTED DEAR ROASTED: Give the little lady some long woolies to wear.

CONFIDENTIAL TO C. C.: If your mother "lied" to you, it was ashamed of herself and didn't want you to be ashamed of her. The kindest thing you can do now is to refrain from asking too many questions. Your mother is human, just like you, and she needs your love and reassurance. Parents for give their children. Children should be able to forgive parents, too.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Apparently, K Wants Delay In New Crisis

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Special Correspondent An AP News Analyst

Evidently Premier Khrushchev once again wants to postpone a serious crisis over Berlin, perhaps beyond the first of next year.

The Soviet press gives the strong impression that the Kremlin is not ready for a showdown and the risks it would involve. There seems a distinct relationship between Western toughness and Soviet tractability. The firmer the West, the more cautious the Kremlin. The Soviet press gives the strong impression that the Kremlin is not ready for a showdown and the risks it would involve.

ANNUAL LIST Another clue: The annual list of slogans for the 45th anniversary of the Communist revolution, to be celebrated in November, is much softer in tone than the slogans issued last spring for May Day.

The slogan on Berlin, for example, reads this way: "Peoples of all nations! demand the conclusion of a German peace treaty and the transformation of West Berlin into a free demilitarized city." That's all.

May Day slogans demanded conclusion of such a treaty in the swiftest possible time and violently denounced alleged Western plans to transform West Germany into a "hotbed of war."

The slogan concerning West Germany now reads: "Warm greetings to workers and all progressive forces of the Federal German Republic struggling against militarism and rebirth of fascism." That's much milder.

PARTY CONGRESS Another clue: The puppet Communist regime of East Germany has just announced plans for its sixth party congress early in 1963 to draw up new proposals concerning the German question.

That hardly indicates that East German boss Walter Ulbricht expects decisive action before that time. Why the Kremlin has shifted to a softer tone is not so easy to pin down. The reasons can be manifold. Khrushchev may be worried about internal economic and political problems. He may be worried that the U.S.S.R., now involved by way of Cuba in the Western Hemisphere, may be juggling too many dangerous things at the same time and over-extending itself.

BITTER QUARREL There are signs, too, of worry about the continuing bitter quarrel inside the Communist world, more pronounced than ever since Soviet President Brezhnev paid a visit to President Tito, leader of Yugoslavia's maverick Communists.

An extraordinarily violent attack on that visit has been launched by the press of the isolated midwest of communism, Albania. It accuses Khrushchev of selling world communism down the river for the sake of tranquility at home, and thus of being a flagrant revisionist. It bemoans his failure to take opportunities for grabbing real estate for communism at a time when conditions are ripe for "socialist revolutions and national liberation movements."

The Albanians angrily remind Khrushchev: "One day he declares the question of Germany must be settled without delay, fixing a time limit. Then he declares without blushing that the question of time limits has no importance."

CALLING K BAD There is an obvious parallel between what little Albania says and what big Red China constantly hints: That Khrushchev is bad for communism. The Albanians, like the Red Chinese, want to keep things moving.

But Khrushchev has his own set of pressures at home from a population growing more demanding all the time. Some time ago he said he would do nothing to push the West out of Berlin until after the U.S. elections. But he did not say how long after the elections. He left himself a way out.

Those Flowers Are Still 'Red' PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia longshoremen have refused to unload a cargo of artificial flowers shipped from East Germany for a New York City firm.

The United States Lines ship S.S. American Merchant docked Wednesday. It left New York Tuesday, where longshoremen also had refused to handle the cargo.

A United States State Lines spokesman said the matter was "beyond our control." He said, "The I.L.A. has decided not to handle it. If they won't handle it, it has to go back."

Jacquelyn Cited For Arts Concern NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has received a citation from the New York University Institute of Fine Arts for her "genuine concern for the fine arts and our American artistic inheritance."

The citation was presented to the First Lady Wednesday by Dr. James B. Hester, NYU president. An informal reception followed the presentation.

Anti-Cancer Factor In Blood Serum

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A blood serum contains a new-found substance which has anti-cancer activity, a surgeon has reported. Cancer patients have less of the substance than do healthy persons, he added.

Dr. Edward D. McLaughlin of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md., has named the material MF-10, meaning McLaughlin Factor. It can be extracted from the blood as a fluffy, white, odorless material.

When experimental tumors are transplanted into animals, MF-10 reduces the number and growth of the tumors, and increases survival time of the animals, he told the American College of Surgeons.

Measuring human blood serum, Dr. McLaughlin found lower levels of MF-10 in persons having cancer as compared with healthy persons and persons with a variety of other diseases. The amount remains low even after cancers have apparently been completely removed.

This is a puzzle, for if reduced level of MF-10 was due to the presence of a tumor, the level would be expected to rise after removal of the tumor.

The deficiency is seemingly due to some defect inherent in the cancer patient, he said.

The blood material, a protein, has not been tried in treatment of human cancer.

Mexicans Lay Claim To Telstar

MEXICO CITY (AP)—"The Telstar is a Mexican invention," a newspaper here headlined Tuesday.

An article in Ultimas Noticias said the U.S. communications satellite owes much of its success to the technicians of Mexico.

The newspaper said in May of 1961 experts of the Interamerican Telecommunications Network heard Mexican technicians present a plan for a satellite to permit intercontinental television transmission.

15 Bankers Are Indicted

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Fifteen Oklahoma bankers were among 63 persons indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury. U.S. Attorney B. Andrew Potter announced.

The jury indicted six bankers on embezzlement charges. The other nine were charged with violations of the National Banking Act.

Names of 14 of the bankers and exact nature of the charges were not disclosed pending their arrest.

The other man was Leslie Gail Corbett, 57, former vice president of the First National Bank of Britton, named on more than 20 counts of bank embezzlement. Corbett is free under $15,000 bond.

Noted Lawyer, Salesman Arrested In Narcotics Raid

HOUSTON (AP) — Narcotics agents seized a widely known lawyer and a salesman sharing his office Wednesday night in a raid netting drugs valued at $30,000.

State and city officers teamed in the arrests of Robert Looney, 38, a lawyer who recently moved here from Austin, and James Hazeltine, 30, an ex-convict who had served a prison term for theft.

They jailed both men on charges of possessing heroin and marijuana illegally.

Police Lt. Stu Baker said the raiders found paper sack containing 23 grams of heroin in the office closet and 27 pounds of marijuana divided between the office and Hazeltine's car.

Baker said the haul was worth $30,000 in the underworld market.

Looney was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general this year and is the son of a former president of the State Bar of Texas. He handled part of a series of court appeals which delayed the execution of condemned Houston slayer Howard Stuckney for months. Stuckney won 13 stays before dying in the electric chair last May 23.

Officers spotted Hazeltine driving away from home, stopped his car and took him into custody two blocks away. His attractive wife, 21, was held without immediate charge.

Baker said officers found nothing at the lawyer's home, where they arrested Looney.

"I know they found no narcotics at my home," Looney said. "If narcotics were found at my office, I know nothing of them. They are quite definitely not mine."

He said Hazeltine, a building materials salesman, moved into the office five or six weeks ago, explaining that this cut his rent payments in half.

Hazeltine declined comment.

"This is a very big operation," Baker said. "The case is still under investigation and we have a lot more work to do."

Hazeltine was the pilot of a light plane returning from the border which cracked up one night last June at the Houston airport. Hazeltine and a passenger left the burning plane before officers arrived, and later said they went home.

Reaction Is Varied To Pay TV Test

By DANIEL F. CUFF
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "I think it's wonderful," says Mrs. Robert L. Devaux, wife of a fireman in East Hartford. "We see good movies, and it's a lot cheaper and easier than going out."

"The programming is very disgusting," comments Luis Walker of Farmington, an investment firm manager. "A lot of my friends are disappointed. Why don't they get foreign films instead of those mediocre movies?"

They and some 1,000 other residents of the Hartford area are paying to participate in a television experiment. RKO General, Inc., and the Zenith Radio Corp. are spending $10 million to see whether pay television will pay off.

HEAVY OPPOSITION

The three-year test began June 29 under heavy shelling from its opponents, theater owners and commercial broadcasters.

Last week the U.S. Supreme Court rejected without comment an appeal by theater owners who sought to end the Hartford experiment.

The Federal Communications Commission had authorized the Hartford test, reasoning that the public should decide what use it wants made of the airwaves.

With a legal green light, the experiment now faces the harshest of critics, the paying public.

RKO General is using its Hartford affiliate, an ultra high frequency station on Channel 18, to conduct the test. There are about 30 hours of pay television weekly.

The viewers so far have been fed a heavy diet of movies, interspersed with some exclusive showings.

"USED" MOVIES

The movies are called "subsequent first run" films. In other words, they have played at large downtown theaters perhaps two weeks before Channel 18 gets them.

Some recent examples were "Hawaii," "The Notorious Landlady," "Sail a Crooked Ship," "The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone," "Twist Around the Clock" and "The Sad Sack."

The exclusives included the Paterson-Liston heavyweight championship fight broadcast live, the Kingston Trio taped live at a summer theater, a foreign-made film of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," done with puppets, and the debut of a film of the Bolshoi Ballet.

How do the viewers like the fare?

G. Harry Davis of Avon, a corporation executive: "I like it but I'm disappointed in the programming. They've got to have better programming if they want more customers. I'd like to see Broadway shows, top-grade movies."

New York Cracks Down On Texts

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Board of Education served notice on textbook publishers Wednesday that it will not accept history and social studies books that do not deal adequately with minorities.

School Superintendent Dr. John J. Theobald said most such texts still present "a largely white, Anglo-Saxon view of our society and its history and tend to leave such groups as Indians, Negroes, Jews and citizens of Latin and Asian origin out of their account of the historical development of the American people."

The board also complained that such books failed to present adequate accounts of Nazi and Communist atrocities.

Corn To Mexico

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP)—About 100 railway cars with yellow corn bought in the United States by the Popular Foods Co. of Mexico crossed the border Wednesday. They were reported as the first shipment of a purchase of 50,000 tons to help Mexico fill a deficit in corn crops.

ton, a barber: "I watch it quite a bit. They've had some good movies, and the great thing is that there are no commercials."

Mrs. Robert Huntington of West Hartford: "I'm glad I have it. There were things I loved, especially the Bolshoi."

The number of subscribers to pay television has grown from 200 to 1,000 in the first three months. The station has said it would like from 4,000 to 5,000 by the end of the year.

The backers of pay television don't want to touch off a battle with commercial television.

Thomas F. O'Neil, president of RKO General, said in a speech in Hartford that pay television would be complementary rather than competitive.

ANOTHER NAME

It's not called pay television around Channel 18; it's subscription television or supplemental television.

In the station is a large piece of machinery called an encoder. It scrambles the audio and video signals.

A little brown box called a decoder atop the viewer's television set unscrambles the signals. Anyone tuning Channel 18 without a decoder gets distortion.

Programs are given code numbers which the pay television owner dials. Inside the decoder, the price of the program is printed on a tape. At the end of the month the owner removes the tape, adds up his bill and mails it to the station with his check. None of the owners interviewed had complaints on the system.

PRICE RANGE

Prices range from 25 cents for a children's educational film to $3.50 in the case of the short-lived heavyweight championship fight. Movies cost about $1. There is a $10 installation fee.

At the end of the three-year Hartford test, RKO and Zenith will have to decide whether it will be profitable to bring pay television to a larger audience, or to write it off as unworkable.

Non-Communist Oath Abolished

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has signed legislation abolishing the non-Communist oath as a condition for government loans to students. He said he was glad to do it.

"It is highly unlikely that the affidavit requirement kept any Communist out of the programs. It did, however, keep out those who considered the disclaimer affidavit a bridge upon freedom of thought," Kennedy said.

Previously, any scientist, teacher or student applying for a loan or grant had to sign an oath declaring he neither believed in, belonged to, nor supported any organization that taught or believed in overthrow of the government by force or illegal means.

Saud Calls New Regime

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Beset by a new challenge from President Nasser in revolt from Yemen, King Saud of Saudi Arabia summoned his brother, Prince Faisal, from New York today to form a new government and bolster his regime.

Nasser's United Arab Republic has increased the violence of its propaganda attacks on Saud since the desert king threw his support behind the Yemen monarchy toppled in an army revolt Sept. 26.

A broadcast from Mecca said only that the old cabinet was dissolved in the general interest. But there have been signs of disaffection inside Saudi Arabia since the Yemen revolt.

Saudi air force officers have defected to the U.A.R. in a transport plane and three trainers since the Yemen uprising broke out. As in Yemen, pro-Nasser sentiment has been reported among Saudi officers.

PUBLIC SUPPORT

With a hostile revolutionary regime in Yemen backed by Nasser, Saud apparently decided it was time to call back to the premiership a brother who might rally public support to the monarchy.

Faisal has been heading Saudi Arabia's delegation to the United Nations in New York.

More Western-oriented than the monarch, Faisal as a premier in 1959 embarked on a program of austerity and domestic reforms. He reportedly began diverting more of the desert kingdom's vast oil revenue from the royal coffers to improving the lot of the impoverished, illiterate masses. Saud dismissed him as premier in December 1961 amid reports Faisal had stepped down too hard on royal spending and some of the numerous other princes had applied pressure to get him out of office.

NOT ESTRANGED

But Saud and Faisal—who is the king's heir—were not estranged. Last March Saud made Faisal deputy premier and foreign minister with authority to preside over cabinet meetings. Saud retained the premiership.

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabia's radio at Mecca matched propaganda guns with Nasser's Cairo radio, announcing that the de-throned Imam Mohammed Al-Badr of Yemen was massing forces to overthrow the rebel regime.

Badr, first reported assassinated by the rebels, has set up headquarters inside Yemen and formed a new royal government, Mecca Radio said. His headquarters was given as somewhere near Majma, about 70 miles northeast of Sana, the capital of Yemen.

Badr's uncle, Prince Saif Al-Islam Al-Hassan, who quit his post as head of Yemen's U.N. delegation in New York and hurried to Saudi Arabia when the revolt erupted, was named royal premier. Mecca Radio said Hassan relinquished the claims to the throne that he put forward when he thought his nephew had been killed.

DEMAND SENT

Mecca Radio said Badr sent Nasser a message demanding the U.A.R. president "quickly withdraw all troops, planes and arms from Yemen and leave the Yemeni people without external interference to settle their affairs."

Cairo Radio asserted Saudi troops had been repulsed in a new attempt to invade Yemen from the north. The Yemeni revolutionary regime acknowledged new fighting had broken out in the north.

The Soviet Union, which had furnished military aid to the royal regime in Yemen, announced it had concluded a pact to supply technicians and grain to the revolutionary regime.

Council Goes Into 2nd Week

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council went into its second week today. The record so far was one of satisfaction, struggle and a note of sorrow.

The satisfaction came from Pope John XXIII. The 80-year-old pontiff, who has made the worldwide meeting the keystone of his reign, told a general audience Wednesday he was pleased with the way it was going.

The struggle is among the 2,700 council fathers—cardinals, archbishops, bishops and patriarchs—gathered here from all over the world.

It is an undercurrent contest for ascendancy at this greatest religious gathering in modern times. On one side are leaders of the cautious traditionalist view who want to preserve the status quo. On the other are "progressives" who favor many changes in the nature of the church.

BISHOP DIES

The note of sorrow came when Bishop Joseph B. Burke, 76, of Buffalo, N.Y., died of a heart attack Tuesday.

Here is what happened during the first week:

Thursday, Oct. 11—Pope John inaugurated the council in a ceremony of splendor and prayer in St. Peter's Basilica. Outside 150,000 spectators massed for the spectacle.

Friday—In the first papal audience ever held in the Sistine Chapel, Pope John told foreign envoys the world must have peace or perish. Standing before Michelangelo's fresco "The Last Judgment," he warned the world's leaders that they must make peace or face an awful reckoning before God.

Two observers from the Russian Orthodox Church arrived, marking that church's first official dealings with Roman Catholicism in nine centuries.

Saturday: The Pope received journalists and met with representatives of other churches. He told the newsmen the church has nothing to hide. He promised the churchmen to do his utmost for Christian unity.

WORKING SESSION

The first general working session of the council was held and lasted less than an hour. The Vatican had presented lists of nominees for the council's 10 working commissions. Leaders of the progressive movement asked for a delay to consider other candidates. It was the first major sign of the struggle for ascendancy.

Sunday: Prelates met throughout Rome privately to line up support for commission candidates.

Monday: The president of the World Methodist Council, Bishop Fred Pierce Corson of Philadelphia, Pa., met with the Pope for 50 minutes and reported the pontiff was deeply committed to advancing Christian unity.

Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the Vatican's secretariat for Christian unity, told a group of non-Catholic churchmen that bonds among all Christians were stronger than differences.

BALLOTS IN

Tuesday: The council held its second working session, and each prelate submitted his ballot of 16 names for each of the 10 commissions. Electronic computers began processing the ballots, with the results expected Saturday. A second ballot may be necessary, depending on whether the Pope rules a majority or just a plurality is necessary for election.

Bishop Burke died of a heart attack at a Rome hospital.

Wednesday: Pope John told a general audience, "We are on our way."

"Don't be concerned that things are going slowly," the Pope said. "He who moves slowly proceeds safely and goes far."

Negro Baptist Leader Sees Good In Council

ROME (AP)—The leader of five million American Negro Baptists believes the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council to be "a great force for good" in the world.

"I am greatly impressed by this coming together of dedicated leaders from all over the earth representing 500 million souls," said Dr. Joseph H. Jackson.

"It is less than a year since the World Council of Churches met in New Delhi. These two historic events give me a great deal

Lyndon Supports Demo Candidate

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson says it doesn't make sense to send to the U.S. Senate a "man who is dedicated to the frustration and obstruction of our great young President."

Johnson urged Missouri voters to give the Kennedy administration an even greater majority in Congress. He spoke Wednesday night at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner for Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., who faces Republican Crosby Kemper in November. About 50 Democrats attended the dinner.

of hope and confidence for the future of mankind."

Dr. Jackson, of Chicago, heads the U.S. National Baptist Convention, the world's largest Negro religious group, representative of a quarter of America's Negro population. He is the only Baptist observer attending the Ecumenical Council following the decision of the Baptist World Alliance not to encourage a Vatican invitation.

"These two great bodies—the World Council and the Ecumenical Council—representing millions of men and women, did not meet to plan the destruction of any nation," he said, "nor to debate how to control the sea lanes of the world."

"They met for one specific purpose, namely, in their own way, to see how the message of the Christian gospel could be so implemented that men would find a new relationship and society be preserved from the disasters of war and oppression."

Dr. Jackson spoke in an interview at his downtown hotel.

Foreign Policy Still An Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Campaign sniping over foreign policy still flashes between Republican and Democratic lines.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., concentrating his fire on GOP attacks against the administration's Cuban policy, said Wednesday Prime Minister Fidel Castro "could not have got into power without the direct or indirect aid of our government during the Eisenhower administration."

And the Republican National Committee zeroed in on a new target. It charged the New Frontier had wooed a "neutral" and won an enemy in President Sukarno of Indonesia.

"Does anyone now believe the New Frontier has either the wisdom or experience to cope with the international problems of today?" asked a statement in the Republican committee publication "Battle Line."

The cannonading over foreign policy has been growing hotter as the Nov. 6 election draws nearer, with President Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower joining in the firing.

Eisenhower has called Kennedy's foreign policy too sad to talk about. Kennedy, aiming in the general direction of Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., railed at rash talk and "those self-appointed generals and admirals who want to send someone else's son to war."

McCormack, replying to a Republican National Committee statement which charged the administration with "tragic irresolution" in dealing with Castro, said Kennedy is "doing everything he possibly can, short of war, to meet the Cuban situation that he inherited from President Eisenhower."

Mrs. Elbert Harris' hot-from-the-oven cookies don't last long with the three "Hs"—Jim, Dickie and Patti—waiting to consume them.

Theory Adopted By The Cook Of The Week Is A Proven One

"A child's world is a small one—full of simple pleasures. Food is one of those pleasures so I try to make it as attractive as possible. This is the theory that makes mealtime delightful to the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert E. Harris, Jr.

Dickie, an energetic six-year-old, takes after his dad, and is what his mother calls a "steak and potatoes" man. Daughter Patti, soon to be three, prefers a more varied menu when she has a choice. The baby is Jim, almost ready to celebrate his first birthday. Mrs. Harris says he eats all the standard baby foods and anything else that is allowed.

Although she provides three nourishing meals a day for five people, Dorothy Harris feels she was never really "laughed" to cook. She explained that when she was a teen-ager her mother took a regular job leaving little time to cook. "Since I arrived home first, meal preparation was my job," said Mrs. Harris, "so you might say I learned from my mistakes."

Like most women, she keeps a recipe file, but she doesn't "clutter" it up with untried ones. Rather than save great numbers of recipes from magazines when she isn't sure her family would like them, she prefers to accept recipes that her friends like. When given a new one she makes it a practice to tape it to the inside of a cabinet door. This reminds her to try it for the family's approval before adding it to the permanent file.

What does she do when the family doesn't like a new recipe? She simply throws it away, admitting there is too much Scotch in her make-up to waste ingredients again. As the family grew she tried to be more economical where food was concerned. "Last summer I really got on a casserole kick," she laughed. "I mentioned this in letters to friends and they mailed me recipes for their favorites, most of which we've tried."

Bert Harris, a petroleum engineer, has been associated with Texaco Inc. in the West Texas area since 1956. The family has made its home at 203 Jefferson St., since being transferred to Big Spring in June of last year.

The Harrises are active members of the Christian Science faith. In fact, it was at a church function in Houston that they first met when he came home from the University of Oklahoma for a holiday.

Mrs. Harris knows that she is lucky to have a husband who is easy to cook for. Perhaps this is so, because she took the time when they were first married to go through her mother-in-law's recipe file and copy his favorites. This is advice she would give to all new brides who aren't certain of their husbands' tastes in food.

Since she does not use alcoholic beverages in recipes which call for them, Mrs. Harris passes along these substitutes which she copied from an article in the Christian Science Monitor.

For sherry and light wines: Equal quantities of lemon juice and chicken bouillon, or equal quantities of lemon juice and celery water (made by boiling up leaves and coarse stalks).

For red wines: Cranberry juice which may, if desired, be slightly diluted with hot water and lemon juice. Good in barbecue sauces, too.

For beer: For baking meats especially, ginger ale is satisfactory and gives a special zesty flavor.

FREQUENT REQUESTS
Here are recipes for dishes the Harris family requests often: This is a quick and easy one and the muffins can be frozen and then filled as desired.

FILLED MUFFINS
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. soda
1 cup buttermilk
1/2 sq. chocolate
1 heaping tbsp. butter
Melt butter and chocolate. Mix dry ingredients and blend with buttermilk and soda. Add chocolate mixture. Bake in greased muffin tins 20-25 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes one dozen.

Cut off tops when cool and remove centers and fill with whipped cream. Replace tops. Ice and sprinkle with nuts on top.

ICING
1/2 sq. chocolate
1/2 box confectioners sugar
2 tbsp. butter and cream as necessary.

ROUND STEAK ROLLS
1 beef round steak, cut 1/4" thick and tenderized.
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
6 slices cooked bacon, chopped when cool
1 small onion
1 small green pepper
Flatten round steak by pounding. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Spread slice of beef with mixture of finely chopped bacon, onion, and green pepper. Roll the slice of beef and fasten with tooth picks. Roll in flour. Brown on all sides in drippings. Cover and cook slowly for 1 1/2 hours or until tender. Adding small amount of water as needed for gravy. Will serve 4 to 6. (This is a good one to put in the electric fry pan shortly before leaving for church.) Cook at 220 degrees.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI
Pressure cook one hen in 2 1/2 cups water and salt to taste. Cook at cook position (or 15 lbs. pressure) for 20 minutes. Let cool. (Do not cool cooker with water. "Let cool" is a pressure cooker term as used here.) Or boil the hen until it will fall off bone.

Cut cooled chicken in dices, brown in shortening. Add 1 onion, 2 stalks of celery, 1 green pepper, 2 tbsp. ketchup, dash of pepper, Worcestershire sauce and garlic salt. When browned add one can mushroom soup, 1 can water 2 cups chicken broth. Heat through and add to 12-oz. package of cooked spaghetti.

Will serve 6 to 8. Can be frozen to warm and serve later.

LASAGNE
Cook 1/2-lb. broad noodles in water and 1 tsp. cooking oil.
Cheese Mixture:
1 cup cottage cheese
2/3 oz. pkg. of cream cheese
4 tsp. sour cream
1 onion
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. parsley

Use uncovered casserole (4 qt.) Put the noodles in the bottom of the casserole, then cheese mix (or mix with noodles.) Pour 4 tbsp. melted butter over this and add 1 pound hamburger slightly cooked. Top with 2 to 3 cans of tomato sauce. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-30 minutes. Serves 8. Let set on shelf about 15 minutes before serving to firm up a bit. (If your family is a meat lover, cut the recipe in half and use the full pound of meat.)

Fruit Cocktail Recipe Pops Up Over Country

The same delicious dish pops up all over the country. We first found this fruit cocktail pudding, with its unusual texture, in a regional cook book put together by a group of church women in Iowa. Next a friend of ours, from upstate New York, told us this dessert has been a favorite in her family and community for years and years.

Then we discovered that an interesting cook book, "Festival Menus 'Round the World" by Dr. Sula Bennett, features this dessert as "Fruktpudding" of Swedish origin. Dr. Bennett ought to know: she is an anthropologist who carefully checked for authenticity her recipes as well as her menus and information about foreign feast days.

On a Swedish menu, this dessert would be topped with whipped cream. But we find that sour cream or whipped cream cheese are also delectable accompaniments.

This recipe is wonderfully convenient. Its ingredients are the standard ones used in baking. With a can of fruit cocktail stored on your kitchen shelf you can whip it up speedily right in the casserole in which it is baked. Does your teen-age daughter like to try her hand in the kitchen? Hand her this failproof recipe and let her go to work.

A word of advice, however, when your youngster cooks. Don't look over her shoulder. Suggest that she read a recipe thoughtfully before she starts to make it, then ask you any specific questions that occur to her. After that leave her on her own. A young person needs the experience, responsibility and joy of independent accomplishment.

FRUIT COCKTAIL PUDDING
1 cup sifted flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1 egg
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 can (1 lb.) fruit cocktail
1/3 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans or walnuts

Sift together the flour, baking soda and salt. In a 2-quart casserole, thoroughly beat together the egg and granulated sugar; stir in vanilla and fruit cocktail, including the syrup in the can. Stir in the sifted dry ingredients. Mix together the brown sugar, cinnamon and nuts; sprinkle over top of pudding. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm (or reheat) with whipped cream, sour cream or whipped cream cheese. Makes 6 servings.

Grapefruit, Oranges In Big Supply

By The Associated Press
First big shipments of oranges and grapefruit reached Texas food markets this week, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Shipments increased from both Florida and Mexico, but prices changed little. Wholesale prices are higher than last year at this time.

Apples flowed in heavy volume with Rome Beauties and Jonathans the best bargains.

Cranberries became plentiful. Tokay grapes were good buys but Thompson seedless grapes were higher.

Best buys among vegetables were cabbage, carrots, celery, onions and potatoes. Lettuce was first up and then down, with supplies and quality erratic.

Tomato prices advanced. New arrivals included persimmons and pomegranates.

Fresh pork prices reflected some of the decline in hog prices. Turkeys were bargains at most meat counters.

Many varieties of cheese, especially domestic cheddar, are at lower prices. Egg and broiler prices are attractive.

Apple Dumplings Have Crisp Crust

Although these apple dumplings are baked in a syrup, the pastry stays deliciously crisp.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

Bran Pastry (recipe below)
6 medium apples (pared and cored)
6 tbsps. plus 1/2 cup light brown sugar
1 tsp. plus 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup boiling water

Roll out bran pastry into a rectangle 18 by 12 inches; cut into six 6-inch squares; place an apple in center of each. Fill core cavities with a mixture of 4 tablespoons brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg; dot with 1 teaspoon butter. Moisten edges of pastry with water; bring together opposite corners of each square and seal; prick pastry well with a fork. Place in a baking dish (11 1/4 by 7 1/2 by 1 1/2 inches). Bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven 15 minutes. Dissolve 1/2 cup brown sugar and 2 tablespoons butter in boiling water; pour a little of it over dumplings. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 45 minutes, pouring portions of the remaining syrup over dumplings at 15-minute intervals. Serve warm.

BRAN PASTRY

Crush 1/2 cup ready-to-eat bran cereal into fine crumbs and mix with 1 1/2 cups flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cut in 1/2 cup shortening; stir in about 4 tablespoons water.

Quick Bread Recipe

A standard quick bread recipe that is baked in a large loaf pan (about 9 by 5 by 3 inches) may be baked in two small loaf pans (about 7 by 3 by 2 inches). A moderate oven is used for both types of pan; the large loaf will need about 1 hour baking time, the small loaves about half an hour.

Touch-Sight Machine Tests Fresh Produce

Machines are becoming more human every day. Mechanical brains, for instance, do a lot of our thinking for us. And now researchers are developing instruments with other human traits—the senses of touch and sight.

Such instruments promise to help homemakers higher quality fruits and vegetables because the instruments can measure the firmness of fruit or look inside it during inspection and grading operations.

One of the instruments, a hortispect, can see inside apples, potatoes and other fresh products and detect hidden internal defects without affecting the marketability of tested samples.

Another instrument is the mechanical thumb, which "feels" the firmness of apples and other fruits to determine their ripeness.

Although neither the hortispect or the mechanical thumb is ready for commercial use right now, both have given highly promising results when tested under actual commercial conditions.

The mechanical thumb has a more sensitive "feel" for an apple than the thumb of the most talented produce expert. It can be more objective in determining the ripeness of apples in storage houses since unlike humans, no emotional feeling or other subjective influence affects its judgment.

The thumb gives a rapid and consistent performance day in and day out. And all copies of the instrument, unlike human inspectors, can be made to perform exactly alike.

Inspectors across the country are therefore more likely to make their judgments on the same basis when they use the instrument.

It takes very little training or practice to learn to use the mechanical thumb. Essentially, the test consists of placing an apple against the end of the rod-like instrument with one hand, while holding the "thumb" in the other hand, for a quick reading of the fruit's ripeness.

The mechanical thumb has such a gentle touch that only a slight bruise is left on the fruit. Such a small blemish on samples does not impair sales. This is another point in its favor since some other testing methods injure fruit used as test samples.

The mechanical thumb was designed primarily for testing the ripeness of apples before they're removed from storage. However, the instrument is being tested on other fruits and in other marketing channels, to see how widely it can be applied in bringing fruits and vegetables to market in their best stage of ripeness.

Fruity Variety

Ever serve drained canned peaches (whole or sliced) with a custard sauce? If candied ginger is available rinse the pieces in hot water (to remove the sugar coating and soften) and garnish the peaches and custard sauce with slivers of the ginger.

For variety serve banana whipped cream on a pudding. Just mash ripe banana and add to sweetened whipped cream, but do this just before serving. A little lemon juice may be added to the banana if you like because this sometimes points up flavor.

Velvet Smooth

A food mill conveniently eliminates paring and coring apples for a delightful orange-flavored applesauce. This is just a sample of the various types of treats made from apples. Better get them now, while the pickin's good.

Salad Bowl Splendor Reigns For October

Vegetable salads help provide delightful flavor-packed fare, a joy to behold and to eat, and a boon to health.

Consider using the many early-fall fresh vegetables now being hustled from local and distant truck gardens to your grocer's shelves.

Right now, there's an abundance of onions, white or yellow; plenty of green or red peppers, cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, celery, and other salad vegetables of note.

With these items, salad bowl splendor is so easy to achieve. For the crowning touch, top these salad creations with a taste-tinging dressing made with plentiful salad oils.

A basic French dressing is a long-time favorite. Combine 1/4 cups salad oil, 1/2 cup vinegar (a malt, cider, tarragon or wine vinegar will do equally well), 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard.

Shake ingredients together vigorously in a covered container, or beat with an electric mixer.

Then pick and choose from these sparkling innovations to suit your family's tastes: For snappy Onion French Dressing, add 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce to 1 cup basic French dressing. Jivey Chive French Dressing calls for adding 1/4 cup finely chopped green chives to 1 cup of the basic dressing.

To make Light 'n' Fluffy French Dressing, whip equal parts basic French dressing and mayonnaise until light and fluffy.

For Far East Curried French Dressing, add 1/4 teaspoon curry powder to 1 cup basic French dressing.

Try Tasty Chutney French Dressing by adding 2 tablespoons finely chopped chutney to 1 cup of the basic dressing.

A Bit O' Green French Dressing evolves when you add 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley to 1 cup basic French dressing.

And you arrive at Subtle Olive French Dressing when you add 2 tablespoons catsup and 2 tablespoons finely chopped green and ripe olives to 1 cup basic French dressing.

Here are a few additional vegetable ideas that can help spark September menus: Yellow and white onions—whole or sliced—engulfed with a creamy sauce and sprinkled with garlic-nipped buttered crumbs. Tenderly cooked, subtly hued lima beans tossed lightly with eye-catching slivered pimiento, onion salt and melted butter. Radiant red and green bell pepper sticks, french fried and served atop rings of french fried eggplant. Steaming 7-minute cabbage boasting a zippy cheese topping. Hot, whole snap beans, highlighted by a lemon-whipped halo of sour cream. Snappy celery stalks stuffed with an olive and deviled ham spread.

Interesting Flavor

Interesting flavor for a pretty little vegetable.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS
1 pint basket (3/4 pound) Brussels sprouts
Salt and pepper
2 tbsps. butter
1/2 tsp. crushed dill seed

Wash sprouts in cold water and trim. Soak in 1 quart cold water with 1 teaspoon salt for about 20 minutes; rinse and drain.

Cook in a saucepan with one-inch boiling water and 1/2 teaspoon salt; bring to boiling point rapidly; boil, uncovered, about 5 minutes.

Cover and boil gently until tender-crisp—12 to 15 minutes. Drain. Add salt and pepper to taste, butter and dill, turning sprouts over gently with a spoon to distribute seasonings. Makes 4 small servings.

Time-Saving Discovery Made By Housewife

Late last fall, a Florida housewife wrote to the No-Roach Co.—"For years now, I have been adding a cupful of No-Roach to the rinse water, when mopping my floors. This has kept roaches, ants, and spiders out of my home. What puzzles me—is why don't you ever mention this?"

Well, dear readers, it just goes to show. . . . The manufacturers of No-Roach had never thought of it before. They experimented, it works, and now this advice is featured on their new No-Roach label. Thanks to a very bright housewife.

If you've got bugs at home, get a bottle of Johnston's No-Roach and try it!

Favorite Relishes Are Chow-Chow, Piccalilli

Relishes are sometimes referred to as the cream on the cake. It's amazing what a dash of chow-chow or piccalilli can do for a plain ordinary steak. It changes the taste into a really extraordinary flavor. Here are recipes for a few.

CHOW-CHOW

1 qt. chopped cabbage
2 cups chopped green tomatoes
3 chopped onions
1 1/2 cups chopped green peppers
1 1/2 cups sweet red peppers
Mix well and put in enameled pan or stone jar. Put in layer of vegetables and sprinkle well with salt, continuing until all the vegetables are used. Cover the last layer with salt. Let stand overnight and drain well the following morning. In a separate vessel put:

1 qt. vinegar
2 cups sugar
2 tbsps. ground mustard
3/4 tsp. celery seed
1 1/2 tbsps. white mustard seed
1 tsp. cloves (tied in a bag)
Heat to boiling, add the well-drained vegetables and cook slowly until tender (about 1/2 hour). Pack into sterilized jars and seal. Process in water bath 10 minutes at simmering temperature.

PEPPER-ONION RELISH

1 qt. finely chopped onion
2 cups finely chopped sweet red pepper
2 cups finely chopped green pepper
1 cup sugar
1 qt. vinegar
4 tps. salt

Combine all ingredients and bring slowly to boil. Cook until slightly thickened. Pour into clean, hot, sterilized jars. Fill jars to top; seal tightly.

PICCALILLI

1 qt. chopped green tomatoes
2 medium-sized sweet red peppers, chopped
2 medium-sized green peppers, chopped
1 small head cabbage, chopped
2 large milk onions, chopped
1/2 cup salt
3 cups vinegar
2 cups brown sugar (firmly packed)
1 tsp. mustard, or
2 tbsps. mixed pickle spices.

Combine the vegetables; cover with salt; let stand overnight. Drain and press in a clean, thin, white cloth to remove all the liquid possible. Add the vinegar, sugar and spices and simmer until clear. Pack into clean, hot, sterilized jars. Fill jars to top; seal tightly. Makes about 3 pints.

Celery Filling

Mix equal parts of cream cheese and Roquefort in an electric blender; or force through a fine strainer to make smooth. Use as a filling for 2-inch lengths of celery; sprinkle the cheese filling with paprika for a pretty touch.

Refreshing

Refreshing lemonade: mix lemon juice and sugar in the quantities needed and add grated lemon rind. Add a little of the mix to ice-filled glasses and fill with chilled sparkling water.

GIA Noon Luncheon Reported

Retired engineers and their wives were honored at a noon luncheon Wednesday by members of the Grand International Auxiliary following their regular meeting at Carpenter's Hall.

Honored members included Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rippa, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gill, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Ulrey and W. H. Johnson.

The luncheon tables were decorated with members' having attended the earlier meeting.

Invocation was worded by R. V. Jones. Greetings and a recipe for Joker Cake was given by the GIA president, Mrs. C. L. Kirkland. J. T. Anderson responded. Mrs. Ulrey read an article by Mrs. Jessie March, grand president, written for the Engineer's Journal on "Do What You Can, With What You Have, Where You Are."

Forty-three were present for the meeting.

Plans were made for another joint meeting in March, when the engineers and the auxiliary will celebrate their organizational anniversary, the engineers having organized in March 1886 and the auxiliary in March, 1891.

The next regular GIA meeting will be held on Nov. 21.

Fall Styles Appeared With Weather Change

A quick weather change brought out truly tantalizing dress fashions and modish hats for the cocktail hour and barbecue luncheon Wednesday at the Cosden Country Club.

The occasion was part of open house entertainment and dedication of the W. R. Grace & Co. Anhydrous Ammonia Plant.

Corsages were received by each of the women guests and were given along with other souvenirs marking the event.

Mrs. Hayes Stripling was noted among the fashionably dressed, wearing that vibrant shade of green with black accessories; just as vibrant was the red worn by Mrs. Doug Orme, also in black accessories. From New Jersey, Mrs. Richard Moore, in a lovely blue tweed; and speaking of blue, Mrs. Champ Rainwater was radiant in royal blue, and her hat of the same shade trimmed with that just right tint of green.

As always Mrs. V. J. Belda was smartly attired in a double knit dress with kerchieved neckline; Mrs. C. J. Chapman, in white brocade suit with white felt off-the-face hat; Mrs. Bill Crocker in beige and brown all mixed with butter cream and hat with touch-of-mink trim.

Considering the misty weather, the feminine guests were wonderfully coifed, particularly so Miss Texas (Miss Penny Lee Rudd) a special guest for the occasion. Miss Rudd, in a magnificent chapeau and two-piece ensemble of all gray, wore a twinkling smile.

Served Texas Style

Mrs. Richard Moore of Montclair, N.M., left, and William J. Haude, W. R. Grace official, with Miss Texas (Penny Lee Rudd) during the chuck wagon luncheon at the Cosden Country Club Wednesday afternoon.

Hundreds were entertained with luncheon music provided by Bernice Howell, organist, and his combo from Lubbock.

Breakfast Plans Are Completed

Plans for a "Kidnap" breakfast were completed by members of the Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Wednesday evening when a meeting was held in the home of Mrs. J. R. Redden, 2407 Lynn.

The breakfast will honor the rushees, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Ed Clark.

Mrs. Melvin Clark and Mrs. Vernon Turner were welcomed into the chapter as new transferees.

Program for the evening was a review of the book, Sironia, Texas, by Madison Cooper given by Mrs. Richard Linsky.

Work Report Is Presented

A report on legislative work and the appointment of committee members were heard by members of the Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen at Carpenter's Hall Wednesday.

Mrs. L. N. Griffith reported on the work of the legislative committee, and urged members to vote in the November elections. Mrs. W. N. Wood, president, appointed Mrs. Clara Bell Shattell, Mrs. C. L. Kirkland and Mrs. C. B. Sullivan to the visiting committee, and Mrs. S. M. Barbee, Mrs. E. A. Williams, and Mrs. D. C. Pyle as members of the membership committee. Seventeen members attended.

Fall Formal

Lt. R. E. Durrugh Jr., Miss Barbara Miller, and Lt. and Mrs. Ronald N. Johnson are shown above with Col. Wilson Banks, Webb AFB commander, at their table during the Wednesday evening dance at Webb AFB Officers Club. Durrugh and Johnson are in flight training at Webb. Shown, below, on the dance floor in the ballroom of the Officers Club are, Maj. and Mrs. Harris B. Wilhoite, left, and Capt. and Mrs. Thomas C. Seebo. Mrs. Wilhoite and Mrs. Seebo were among those whose after-five attire was outstanding. The black ostrich plume trim on Mrs. Seebo's skirt and hat is reminiscent of the '20s.

October Is Theme For Webb's Formal Event

Autumn, football, Halloween and all those things denoting October set the theme for Webb Air Force Base formality Wednesday evening. The fall formal at the Officers Club included a cocktail hour and dancing in the ballroom to the music of Shep Fields and his orchestra. Vocalist, Patti Lynn provided special numbers and received rounds of applause for her intermission performance.

A gridiron cake depicting Oregon and Air Force teams was a feature of the refreshment table, about which were black and gold pumpkins, goblets and other symbolic items along with autumn flowers and dried arrangements. Tuxedos and dress uniforms were noted among the men, while women lent color with their after-five and formal dresses. The street and walk length styles were predominant; however there were seen some of the straight sweeping styles.

Both glamorous and lovely, Mrs. Wilson Banks and Mrs. George E. Franks, in wispy full-skirted gowns flecked with gold, and Mrs. Banks, well-coifed as always, boasted one of those elegant, so natural wigs. Mrs. Harris D. Wilhoite, was classically gowned in Grecian-styled chiffon of brilliant green, matching slippers and just-right touches of jewelry. Wearing a winner, Mrs. Thomas C. Seebo was in black chiffon having skirted trim of ostrich plumes with one plume left over to trim the bit-of-a-hat on her blonde head. Mrs. Clifton Bray wore a pink and white, bell-skirted gown.

Circle Offers Its Services

Members of Ruth Circle, First Christian Church, have volunteered their services at the hospital each Tuesday at 9 a.m. This was agreed in a group meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. C. Thames.

Nine members heard the lesson on chapters from Revelations taught by Mrs. "Preach" Martin. Closing the meeting, Mrs. Thames served refreshments.

Bunn Speaks For Tarzan HD Club

STANTON (SC) — Glenn D. Bunn, administrator of the Physician Hospital and Clinic in Stanton, was the guest speaker when the Tarzan Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Sam Cox. Glenn's talk concerned Martin County's mass immunization polio program and the free Sabin oral polio vaccine to be given Oct. 28 at the Stanton High School. The Tarzan club members plan to help with the giving of the vaccine.

Assisting Glenn in the discussion of the Sabin serum was Mrs. Doris Pearson, R. N., assistant director of nurses.

Mrs. R. B. Lucose, president of the club, had charge of the business meeting. It was decided that members of the Tarzan club will help as volunteer workers during a Christmas program at the state hospital in Big Spring. Approximately 20 attended.

Herald's Recipe Judging To Be Done By Texas Tech Food Dept.

Selection of the prize winners among hundreds of recipes submitted to The Herald for its forthcoming collection will be done by the Department of Food and Nutrition at Texas Technological College.

Heads of this department—an outstanding one in the general area of home economics among state colleges—have agreed to examine the recipes submitted to make a selection.

Advanced students will do the elimination work among the entries, then faculty and advanced students will do necessary testing to determine the final winners.

There are to be winners named in seven categories of food preparation. In addition there is a grand prize winner (to be awarded $100 cash) among all the recipes.

Classifications, for which first place in each will receive a $10 award, are: One-Dish Meals, Breads and Rolls, Cakes and Pies, Salads, Main Dishes, General Desserts, Vegetables.

The deadline on mailing in recipes is Saturday, October 20, so house-holders who wish to participate are urged to submit their entries immediately. All recipes will be published in a special supplement of The Herald, regardless of whether they win prizes. The collection, to be called "Tastes of Texas," will have a special printing, and be available for general sale.

Women (men, too, if they wish) who still plan to enter are advised to follow the rules carefully. Entries must be printed or typed, complete name and address is required, and full information on all ingredients and methods of the recipe must be given.

Supper Is Annual Event At Stanton

STANTON (SC) — The annual Mexican supper sponsored by the Stanton Rebekah Lodge will be held Saturday night beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the IOOF Hall. Adult rates will be $1 and children will be served for 50 cents.

Plans for the supper were completed at the Monday meeting when 16 attended. Report of 19 sick calls was made.

Clemmers Have Weekend Guests

WESTBROOK (SC)—Mrs. Elbert Clemmer of Cisco is the guest of her son, Alvis Clemmer, and family. Others visiting in the Clemmer home over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ferguson and son, Kenneth, of Lubbock who were Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Clemmer of Colorado City, and Mrs. Ruby Wilkinson of Sweetwater.

Yankees May Swap Bench Strength

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are prepared today to sacrifice some of their strong bench in order to shore up an undermanned pitching staff for 1963.

Neither General Manager Roy Hamey nor field leader Ralph Houk was in a mood to discuss the matter following the Yankees' hard-fought World Series triumph over the stubborn San Francisco Giants. However, he has learned that such skilled operators as Johnny Blanchard, Hector Lopez and Phil Linz will be used as bait this winter to lure a top experienced relief pitcher to the Yankee pinstripes.

Harney and Houk weren't fooled by the World Series in which brilliant pitching carried them to the club's 20th championship. Houk used only six pitchers in the seven games with three-Whitely Ford, Ralph Terry and Bill Stafford getting the starting assignments. The wily manager, whose manipulation of his pitching staff was one of the highlights of the series, is fully aware that he needs more than three starters and more than six pitchers for the long 162-game schedule next year.

"Sure we could use more pitching but who couldn't," said Houk. "We may trade for a pitcher at the winter meetings but we certainly do not intend to break up our team to get one. We're not desperate by any means. And remember we have some highly promising youngsters coming up from our own farm system."

Houk laughed off reports that Baltimore has offered right-hander Milt Pappas for Blanchard and Lopez but the rumor persists. Orioles President Lee MacPhail is said to be willing to part with his youthful 15-game winner for Blanchard, who would become Baltimore's first string catcher, and Lopez, who would play left field.

The St. Louis Cardinals reportedly have offered Ernie Broglio, star right-hander, to the Yankees for Linz. The bespectacled utility infielder, who was barely beaten by Tommy Tresh in the battle for a regular shortstop berth while Tony Kubek was in the Army, would be installed as the regular shortstop by the Cardinals.

Davis Says He Feels Allright

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ernie Davis, the Cleveland Browns' prize rookie who was sidelined by leukemia, has been working out for a week and says he feels pretty good.

Davis said Wednesday his wind is good and his legs are in shape, and he is eager to play some football. Doctors have said the disease is in a state of remission, and they approved having him start working out. However, club president Art Modell said Davis would need a couple of weeks more of exercises and running to get in shape.

Runnels Tests Lakeview Club

Four junior high school football teams face rugged going in games at the old stadium here this evening.

Light rains have dumped about a half inch of rain on the field during the past two days and there's been little sunshine to dry it out. At 6 p.m., the undefeated Runnels eighth graders square off with the Big Spring Lake View club. Made up of eighth and ninth graders, Lake View has won over the Goliad eighth, 52-7, and lost twice to San Angelo Blackshear, 20-8, and 16-14.

Runnels has turned back Sweetwater twice, 12-0 and 22-0, Snyder Lamar, 12-0, and last week knocked over a good San Angelo Edison team, 20-8.

Goliad's eighth grade contingent, winless in four starts this year, plays a return game with Snyder Lamar at 7:30 o'clock here tonight. In the last meeting between the two clubs, a 14-14 tie resulted. In other games, Goliad has lost to Snyder Lamar twice, 24-6 and 14-0 and yielded to Big Spring Lake View, 52-8.

Goliad's ninth graders visit Snyder for a 7:30 p.m. game with Travis. Goliad beat Travis earlier this year, 12-6. In other games, the Mavericks have beaten Snyder Lamar, 24-0 and 20-6 and lost to San Angelo Lee, 28-6.

The Runnels ninth graders still undefeated this year, are not scheduled to play this weekend.

Maxwell To Play In Ontario Meet

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — The $25,000 Ontario Open Golf Tournament opens today with a small but select field of better known professionals. Among those entered were Gene Littler, Tony Lema, who was the runner-up last week to Billy Casper Jr., in the Bakersfield Open; Bob Goalby, George Bayer, Billy Maxwell, Jim Ferree and Jacky Cupit.

The 72-hole event is due to wind up Sunday. The site is the Whispering Lakes Golf Club, at 6,541 yards one of the shorter courses the pros have played in their Far Western swing this fall. Par is 35-35-71.

George Altman Is Traded To Cards By Chibrains

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals completed a trade with the Chicago Cubs for George Altman Wednesday after turning down a similar deal that would have brought them the power-hitting outfielder last summer.

The 28-year-old left-handed Altman, key man in the swap, comes to the Cardinals with pitcher Don Cardwell and catcher Moe Thacker.

Going to the Cubs are pitchers Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel and catcher Jim Schaffer. General Manager Bing Devine of the Cardinals and John Holland of the Cubs hand the deal. A similar deal substituting

Most Conferences May Defy AAU Warnings

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—At least three major conferences, and quite possibly all of them in the United States, are going to enter athletes in NCAA-supported federation meets despite AAU warnings they will be disqualified for international competition.

The Big Six of the West Coast—Stanford, UCLA, Southern California, California, Washington and Washington State—has taken the most vigorous stand so far. It has adopted legislation that it not only will boycott AAU meets but also will not permit the AAU to use its athletic facilities.

The Big Ten is on record as backing the federation movement and Commissioner Bill Reed told The Associated Press that legislation is expected to be adopted at its December meetings similar to that of the Big Six. "We have taken no official stand against AAU participation at the present time," Reed said. "But a poll of coaches by me showed that none plans to enter AAU meets. I don't think the American public would allow the AAU to rule our boys ineligible for international competition. It is my opinion that all major conferences in the U.S. feel as we do."

Reaves Peters, Big Eight executive director, said Wednesday that conference officials are preparing rules revisions which would require coaches and administrators to resign their AAU memberships and any offices they might hold.

The AAU issued a formal warning Wednesday in Chicago to athletes competing in federation open meets that they will be ineligible for certification for international competition.

This means that athletes—primarily in track, basketball and gymnastics where federations are operative at this time—who participate in a federation meet will be disqualified by the AAU for the 1963 Pan American games and the 1964 Olympics.

The AAU has the control—under sanction of the international body, which has reaffirmed it as the certifying group for the United States—but the federations apparently have most of the athletes.

The stalemate, which has existed for two years, is nowhere near being compromised. The forces under the Track and Field Federation, the primary sport of the Olympics, include 507 colleges, 180 junior colleges and 14,539 high schools with a total of 106,388 meets and 538,263 participants.

"I guess the two balls in a row came in the ninth to Willie Mays," Terry said. "They were inside. Then I put a fast ball outside and Mays doubled to right. Roger Maris made the play of the series on his quick recovery."

"I was in a daze on the mound when the finish came on that line drive to Bobby Richardson. I was never so happy and relieved in my life."

"Today? No golf. I'll pick up that sports car and try to catch up on my sleep."

Cannon May Play Against Denver

HOUSTON (AP)—Although Billy Cannon was unable to work out Wednesday, trainer Bobby Brown believes the Houston Oilers halfback will be able to play against Denver Sunday in their American Football League game.

Cannon injured his back a month ago at San Diego, and has not played since.

Alston Wants Leo Durocher As Aide Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers—apparently convinced it takes all kinds—will string along another year with Manager Walt Alston, who seldom raises his voice, and Coach Leo Durocher, who seldom rests his.

Alston, re-hired Wednesday for a 10th season, said he wanted to retain Durocher despite reports Leo had second-guessed him after the Dodgers lost the National League playoffs.

Durocher, asked whether he would return, said he had no comment. "I'll let Mr. Bavasi (Dodgers General Manager Buzzie Bavasi) make all the statements," Durocher said.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Bavasi said later, "that Leo will be back."

Bavasi, who called a news conference to announce Alston's contract renewal, seemed to think the collapse of the Dodgers this year was more attributable to the team than to the manager.

"It took a team effort to lose it," Bavasi said.

During the news conference Bavasi put in a phone call to Alston's home in Darrrtown, Ohio. "Hi, Smokey," Bavasi said. "You got anything better to do than meet me next February in Vero Beach (the Dodger spring training camp in Florida). We just made an announcement that you're going to be back with us next year."

"I'm going to enjoy my vacation a lot more now," Alston said later.

Pilot Replaced In NMS Lineup

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Once proud New Mexico State tries to regain its winning ways Saturday night against West Texas State by putting the nation's leading rusher and scorer on defense and replacing him with a sophomore.

Minneapolis Gets Publinks In 1964

The 1964 USGA Amateur Public Links Championship will be played at the Francis A. Gross Golf Course Minneapolis, Minn. It has been announced by the United States Golf Association. Dates for the event will be July 13 through 18.

As previously announced, the 1963 Championship will be held at Haggin Oaks Municipal Golf Course, Sacramento, Calif.

Richard H. Sikes, Springdale, Ark., a member of this year's U. S. World Cup Team, has won the Amateur Public Links Championship the last two years. He won in 1961 at Detroit, Michigan, and successfully defended his title this year at Tonawanda, N. Y.

had the nation's best football record—11-0, have had trouble on defense all season. They've won just two of five games, losing to New Mexico, Wisconsin and Wichita.

Coach Warren Woodson said Woody Houston, a shifty sophomore from Kingsville, Tex., would replace James (Preacher) Pilot at tailback in New Mexico State's wing-T offense.

Last season Pilot led the nation in scoring (138 points) and rushing (1,278 yards). It was the third straight year that a New Mexico Stater back had led the country in both departments.

"We feel that Pilot can help us more with his defensive push," Woodson said. "His great defensive play has been overlooked because of the many stories of his great running."

Woodson was having problems. First string quarterback Jim Head quit the squad Wednesday. Woodson had nothing to say. Head wasn't available for comment.

Co-captain Dave Thompson, starting wingback, was still at his home in Tarantum, Pa., where his father is seriously ill. He has played in only two games.

Another trouble is finding line-backers like 155-pound Bobby Langford of Pampa, Tex., who rebounded from a near fatal oil field accident last year only to break a bone in his forearm in the second game this fall.

Commercials Make Living Too Tough

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It's those decisions that are so tough.

For instance, I just can't make up my mind whether I want to get rid of dirt backwash, have my clothes not just clean but clean clear through or put some muscle in my washing machine.

Is my hair normal, easy to manage or hard to manage? Is it really what's up front that counts or does fine tobacco gentle the smoke as it travels mouthwards? And, if so, why am I fretting about that extra margin?

Do I want double-pleasure or an assortment of gay colors in my chewing gum? Why can't I get my family to brush after every meal? After all I find time to give myself a soap beauty treatment three times a day. Would I rather have the girls in my bridge club see the ugly stains in my sink or know that my little family is protected by the germicidal action of my scouring powder?

Do I want fast, fast, fast relief from pain of headache, or would it be better if I took another pill to stop snapping at my poor old mother who only wanted to put some salt in the stew? Shall I hire Sophie the cleaning woman or merely buy that little bottle equipped with a handy little tornado?

Do the neighbors look at my streaky windows and whisper that I'm a secret ammonia user—or, worse, vinegar? Do I want my stomach neatly coated or full of little acid-blotters?

I tell you, these are the things that keep you tossing through the morning hours. Maybe I'll just put myself on a commercials diet until this trouble clears up.

Recommended tonight: "The Hitchcock Hour," CBS, 10-11 (Eastern Daylight Time) James Mason and Angie Dickenson in "Captive Audience"; Andy Williams Show, NBC, 10-11—Martha Raye is the guest star.

Giant Youth Rally Set For Sunday

DALLAS (AP)—A giant youth rally is expected to draw thousands of young persons to the Cotton Bowl on Sunday night, the last night of the 1962 State Fair of Texas.

The rally, billed as "America's Most Promising Hour," also will be the climax of the fall Crusade for God and Freedom, conducted by Dr. Walter Kerr, Methodist evangelist and youth leader from Tyler, Tex.

Dr. Kerr stressed the youth rally is a non-denominational endeavor guided by youth leaders and educators in cities and counties throughout the state.

"Our one purpose is to give youth a greater appreciation, understanding and participation in our great way of life," he said.

Organizations participating in the rally program will be the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy band, a 1,500-voice teen-age choir representing 17 Northeast Texas schools, the Baylor University chorus, the Tyler Junior College band and Apache Belles drill team, Miss Penny Rudd, the current Miss Texas, the contestants in the Miss Teen-Age America contest and the Tyler Rose Festival queen.

In addition, Dr. W. R. White, chancellor of Baylor University, and Dr. M. E. Sadler, chancellor of Texas Christian University, have accepted invitations to sit on the rostrum during the rally.

We adults forget that a child's world is a great deal different from our own. Even when we are parents, following the daily changing magic of our offsprings' development, we still forget that expectations, fears, joys and sorrows of small human beings have a meaning of their own.

Fortunately, there is a rare writer now and then who reaches delicately into that forgotten world and brings back its iridescence. Vera Panova is such a writer.

The experiences of childhood are universal. The little boy in this book happens to be a Russian named Serioja, but you could change the terminology and set the same scene in any country.

There isn't a great deal of plot in the book, which is all the more reason for its effectiveness. Serioja never has known his father, who was killed as a soldier. But when he acquires a stepfather his life changes, and gradually there grows up a rewarding relationship between the child and the man.

The author has made real individuals out of Serioja and the other children in the neighborhood, and has caught the feeling of the boy's world in an appropriately subdued and straightforward style.

The book was the basis for a movie that won several international awards, which is not surprising in view of the book's obvious literary merit. Reading it is a rewarding experience for adults who can appreciate a skillful work of art on a theme that requires the best talents of the writer.

By The Associated Press

He Got It, But Elvis Didn't

Ralph Votapek, 23, who recently won the Van Cliburn international piano competition at Forth Worth, has been granted a year's deferment by a Milwaukee draft board. On his return to Milwaukee, his home town, Votapek received a civil welcome which included presentation of keys to the city.

Dr. Salk Sees A Healthy Future

Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of the Salk polio vaccine, says the future of medicine is likely to bring control of most infectious diseases and prevention of some cancerous ailments.

DR. JONAS SALK

Salk also told the Advertising Club of Baltimore, Md., that "in the future it is likely that it will become possible to transplant skin and organs from one person to another . . . A great deal more will have been discovered about aging, especially the premature aging of heart and blood vessels."

Nunziata Ventura, 16, and Emanuele Starquadame, 19, of Ragusa, Sicily, are newlyweds today—but you wouldn't have expected it three months ago. Then, Nunziata fired eight shots at Emanuele, hitting him once. The wedding was held in the Ragusa Prison, where she is serving a sentence for attempted homicide. The bride's father was present to give her away. He is Gaetano Ventura, serving a sentence in the same jail for encouraging his daughter to shoot Emanuele because he kept putting off the wedding.

One By One, The Strongholds Fall

Dennis Bararatt, disc jockey at Radio Station KJPW in Waynesville, Mo., started a contest in which eligible girls were to write and see who could get a date with the station's only bachelor—Jess Smith, Miss Joy Jean Norried of Devil's Bow, Mo., telephoned as a joke, she says, and asked Smith if a phone call would do as well as a letter. Smith hadn't heard of the contest. She got her date—and the wedding soon followed.

Might This Be True Love?

Kathy Carlson, 12, of Swanville, Minn., who loves to play baseball with the boys, has a broken leg again. Kathy broke her leg as she slid into second base and collided with a boy. She did the same thing a year ago and broke a leg — after colliding with the same boy.

Someone Needs To Cool Off

Jayne Mansfield says she's going to take her husband's advice and undergo a cooling-off period before divorcing him to marry Italian film producer Enrico Bomba. Mickey Hargitay, her husband "will not stand in my way," Jayne told a Hollywood newsman. "He just wants me to be sure. Of course, he is still very much in love with me and wants us to get back together."

JAYNE MANSFIELD

How about Bomba? "If someone loves you," Jayne says, "they will wait forever." Musical comedy star Carol Channing has joined the American Legion Auxiliary in Las Vegas, Nev. She was sworn in by the outgoing president, Mrs. J. Howard McKay, at the auxiliary's convention, held in connection with the Legion's 44th annual national convention.

Sherri Back On TV—But Not On Screen

Mrs. Robert L. Finkbine, who had a legal abortion in Sweden last summer after losing a court fight in Arizona to have the operation legally in that state, will return to work at station KTAR-TV in Phoenix next week.

She will not resume her career as hostess of the "Romper Room" program for children, but instead will devote much of her time to writing and later to production and programming.

Mrs. Finkbine had the abortion because she had taken thalidomide, a sleep-inducing drug blamed for deforming many babies before birth.

He'd Have Been A Stout Teacher

President Eamon de Valera of Ireland, just turned 80, told reporters who visited him in Dublin that he drinks a bottle of stout every day with his lunch and said if he had his life to live over again he'd be a teacher. "It is splendid to get to know things yourself and then teach them to other people," he said.

EMAMON DE VALERA

Jean Wallace, an American actress, is abed in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, with an injured back. She was practicing for a riding part in the film "Lancelot and Guinevere" when her horse refused a jump. She fell and suffered a fractured sacrum which a spokesman said will keep her bedridden for the next few weeks.

Frank Deckert of San Jose, Calif., turned 101 Sunday and he credited "my good wife and a can of beer" as the reasons he's lived so long. To prove it, he toasted the milestone—with a can of beer.

Could Be, Someone Was Holding Out?

The Rev. Lively Brown, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Georgetown, Tex., had a suggestion during the recent drought.

One Sunday he said that perhaps the reason the rains had not come was because the members had not been "paying the preacher."

He urged them to drop a little more in the collection plate. The rains came the next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Lightning hit the steeple Friday.

Maybe It Just Seems Like 102 Years

Mrs. Anna Groves, known by friends and relatives in her hometown of Des Moines, Iowa, as Grandma Groves, told on the occasion of her 102nd birthday how she has lived so long.

"I've lived this long," she said with a twinkle in her eye, "because I don't run around nights and dance and raise Cain."

The D.A.R. Would Be Up In Arms

The Most Rev. Arthur M. Ramsey, the archbishop of Canterbury, received an honorary degree from Columbia University in New York and recalled that Columbia's predecessor, Kings College, was chartered in 1754 by King George II of England. Were the archbishop to stand on legal technicalities, he quipped, "I might claim some jurisdiction."

Negro Promotion Dispute Results In Order For Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A review of the entire promotion program in the Los Angeles Post Office has been ordered as an aftermath of a dispute over promotion of a Negro, the Post Office Department reports.

Perry Parks, 54-year-old Negro postal employee, was promoted two grades in the Los Angeles office after Postmaster Otto K. Olesen's promotion powers were suspended for insubordination.

A department spokesman said the suspension resulted from Olesen's refusal "three times to pass on this qualified man."

The spokesman, James Farley, deputy special assistant to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, said Olesen had refused to promote Parks because of the latter's union activities. Parks is head of the Los Angeles Branch of the National Alliance of Postal Employees.

Cancer-Fighting Star Steps Out As Television Head

cancer, stepped out of the presidency of Four-Star Television telling stockholders:

"I am not a damned bit scared. I am not resigning the presidency for health purposes."

Stockholders Tuesday elevated Powell to chairman of the board and elected Thomas J. McDermott, chief vice president, as president. The changes were made at Powell's request.

Powell told a hushed stockholders' meeting that he is gaining on his battle against cancer. He brought up the subject of his health.

Teen-Age Beauty Finalists Picked

DALLAS (AP)—Officials have chosen three girls to be finalists-at-large in the Miss Teen-Age American pageant starting Oct.

20. About 75 other beauties will represent their hometowns over the United States in the competition. The finalists-at-large are Miss Sherry Rooney, 16, of Prairie Village, Kan.; Miss Jane Nelson, 17, of Alamogordo, N.M.; and Miss Debbie Bryant, 16, of Overland Park, Kan.

A Devotional For The Day

I give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. (John 10:28.)

PRAYER: O Lord, Thou art our defense and shield. Teach us today that in Thy hands of love, peace will be ours. In the name of Christ Jesus, our Lord and Master, we pray. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Jobless Statistics

Estimates of the labor force, its employment and unemployment, powerfully influence national economic policy. They generate pressure affecting the size of the federal budget and taxing and spending decisions resulting in surplus or deficit. As a gauge of economic strength, they also may create an impression the United States' stance as a world power.

It is obviously vital that those estimates should be as nearly accurate as possible. In recent years, the related reports of the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Bureau of the Census have been under sharp and conflicting attack. They have been charged with exaggerating unemployment to excuse excessive public spending. And they have been charged with understating unemployment to excuse inadequate public spending.

President Kennedy appointed a Committee To Appraise Employment and Unemployment Statistics which has now published a comprehensive report, "Measuring Employment and Unemployment," that should help put this critical issue in much better perspective. The report credibly exonerates federal agencies of any intentional bias. It also explodes the theory that differences in definition and measurement account substantially for the high rate of unemployment in the United States in contrast to lower rates in Western Europe.

But the presidential study group is significantly agreed that existing labor statistics are too crude for their present use in the delicate and vital decision-making on national policies. Better definitions and more extensive samplings are needed to fix the true size of the labor force, to pinpoint the fluctuating causes, types and degree of unemployment, and to keep closer check on the trends of employment.

The President and Labor Secretary have welcomed the study group's recommendations and promised action. Carrying out the recommendations, however, will be expensive, so their implementation will largely depend on Congress which must weigh this against the potential cost of miscalculation in economic policy.

Doing Its Part

There are many ways to boost Texas points of interest, but a private concern has come up with a novel but effective means of doing this.

When customers in cafes pick up the little packets of (Domino) sugar, they will find on the reverse side color pictures of Texas attractions such as the capitol, the San Jacinto monument, the Big Bend park, and half a dozen others. Youngsters likely will want them for their collections, and adults may be stimulated into visiting some of these places. Besides telling tourists, these packets might encourage Texans to stir around and visit their own state.

Political Irresponsibility

WASHINGTON — Never in American history has there been revealed such a clear case of irresponsibility in government as has just been exhibited by the Congress and the President.

The fiasco cannot be blamed entirely on either political party, nor altogether on the President. It's the fault primarily of a system which provides no way by which the people can hold both the executive and the legislature responsible in the midst of a presidential term. Yet there is a congressional election a few weeks away, and President Kennedy is urging the people to vote Democratic instead of Republican. The reasons for this are not clear, for his own party is split. In fact, Congress itself is divided into four blocs. In addition, the delays and confusion of the last weeks of the session of Congress that has just adjourned went to a large extent the result of quarrels and disputes among the leaders of the President's own party.

IN ENGLAND and Canada, under a parliamentary system, the people have a chance to fix party responsibility and to assure themselves that, in the same election, they will get a united leadership of the legislative and the executive. Today, President Kennedy is campaigning around the country charging the Republican party is at fault for failure to enact all his proposals, when in reality this fundamental schism in his own party has brought discussion and division.

Mr. Kennedy is saying on the stump that the Republican party has been and is "against progress." But his opponents will reply that the Republican party is really opposed to "progress toward national bankruptcy."

THE INDICATED deficit, for example, for the fiscal year that ends next June 30 is between $6 and $8 billion, although last January the President in his budget message to Congress predicted a surplus. All this is happening even without any substantial tax cut. In fact, public spending has reached such a high rate that making no allowance for a tax cut at the January session, the budget deficit for the fiscal year starting July 1 next is likely to be $11.1 billion according to estimates made by statistical experts who study the trends of government receipts and spending.

If, moreover, there should be a tax cut next year of around $7 billion—which is a modest amount compared to the promises being made—the deficit might reach $18 billion for the fiscal year ending a little more than 20 months from now.

THE HOUSE OF Representatives has wound up with the usual hypocritical speeches, wherein members of both parties praise each other. The past session, of course, deserves a modicum of applause only in the sense that public capitol, the San Jacinto monument, the Big Bend park, and half a dozen others. Youngsters likely will want them for their collections, and adults may be stimulated into visiting some of these places. Besides telling tourists, these packets might encourage Texans to stir around and visit their own state.

spending was not allowed to go any higher than it did. For the truth is that Congress has sought to appropriate funds for all kinds of social-welfare and public-works projects. All of these doubtless can be defended as worthwhile at some time or other, but can the nation today afford unlimited spending irrespective of consequences? Can any political party be called responsible if it insists on cutting taxes substantially when deficits are growing bigger and bigger? A private citizen or business must forego luxuries or even worthwhile projects and see that the budget is balanced lest bankruptcy be induced. Apparently it is reasoned that it's all right for the government to disregard budgets, run a big deficit year after year, and risk a loss of confidence in the monetary unit.

THE NATION HAS been experiencing a business recession that isn't over yet. Mr. Kennedy expected the government's receipts to be $93 billion in the current fiscal year so that there would be a half-billion-dollar surplus. But it turns out now that the receipts are to be $85.5 billion.

But spending is being increased just the same. As for authorizations — not actual expenditures — Congress has just pushed the annual appropriations past the $100-billion mark for the first time in peacetime history.

SO IT'S A CASE of fiscal irresponsibility—a belief that the nation can have its cake and eat it, too. It's a case also of political irresponsibility. For neither party presents a solid front on the matter of national economy, although the conservative Democrats do have more allies in the Republican party than in their own.

Conservatism may, therefore, be readily defined nowadays. It means a policy of conserving the nation's fiscal soundness. It is opposed to liberal spending and liberal authorizations of public money for things the nation doubtless should eventually have but cannot afford today in the midst of a "cold war," when $50 billion is necessarily being spent each year for armament.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Within the space of a single news conference, President Kennedy has revealed a double standard in his concept of what is in the public interest with regard to labor disputes.

The President was asked two questions last week on labor disputes now in their crisis stages. First, he was asked how long he felt the Chicago Northwestern Railway strike should be allowed to run before the public interest required Presidential or Congressional action.

The President said that the procedures of the Railway Labor Act had been exhausted; that Taft-Hartley (under a finding that the national interest and security was affected) was "the only provision which is available to us." He said he was hopeful that "both sides will make sufficient concessions, because the public interest suggests an agreement is due."

The second question involved four leading aerospace industries, especially Lockheed, where a Presidential commission has suggested employers agree to the union shop. The unions (United Auto Workers and International Association of Machinists) accepted the commission findings; the employers didn't.

The President said that the union shop has been a part of collective bargaining in "other basic industries" for many years. "I would hope that the companies would accept it, because if there is a strike the responsibility would be very clear."

Well, now, would it? The union in Chicago declines to abide by a Presidential board's finding and the President hopes "both sides will make sufficient concessions"; the employer in California declines to abide by a similar board's finding and the President says that if a strike comes "the responsibility would be very clear." Now, where can one find consistent policy and fairness in statements like that? —SAN ANTONIO NEWS

Trucking On Down The Avenue — Controversially

NEW YORK (AP)—The competitive fight between the various forms of for-hire transportation—trucks, planes, barges, pipelines—waxes steadily. But just as heated at times is the battle over the inroads into the field by private carriage.

The growth of private hauling of goods and supplies over the nation's highways may have added to traffic jams to your annoyance. It also has raised the tempers of the regulated carriers.

Who is getting hurt and how much? And why do some business firms turn to their own trucks while others stick to for-hire transportation?

A research team of the Transportation Center at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., fed into a computer the replies of 1,100 manufacturers to their queries on the subject. The answers may shed some light on a controversy noted for generating heat.

The unregulated motor carriers have grown faster since the war than the regulated carriers as a whole. But the team says that, in terms of tonnage, the common motor carriers have grown about as fast as have corporations' own fleets of trucks, even though trucking firms think otherwise.

And the replies indicate the real battle has been between these two, the for-hire and the do-it-yourself motor haulers. Firms using their own trucks tend to concentrate on short-haul movements of freight, and thus compete less than some may think with the rails, which get their big volume on the longer than 200-mile freight movement.

But the volume of private carriage is growing. The survey shows one-third of the firms replying increased their use of private carriage in proportion to their total tonnage in recent years, while 23 per cent did not, and the remainder kept about the same proportion.

Altogether about 32 per cent of motor freight tonnages moved by private carriage in 1961, according to the replies. The private fleets were mostly modest—59 per cent of the firms used four or fewer vehicles.

The biggest use of private fleets was in the food industries. Such usage was reported by less than a third of those in the instrument, electrical machinery, leather, textile and apparel industries.

Firms using their own trucks to haul their supplies gave three situations in which they find this most profitable: 1. When prices charged by suppliers are greater than private costs of production; 2. When the firm wants a certain quality of goods or service not offered by suppliers; and 3. When the firm desires managerial control over the supply of some productive input.

The Transportation Center plans a private conference the end of this month to discuss the findings and the problems.

Successful Shakedown

MEMPHIS (AP)—The ice cream vendor who covers the Vincent Skillmans neighborhood here belongs to the practical realist school.

The Skillmans' big boxer, Rebel, took offense at the ice cream cart in the spring and did battle with it every time it appeared—until the driver took action.

Now when the bell tinkles, Rebel joins the kids in the rush. The driver hands Rebel a popsi-ple, compliments of the house. And all is serene.

These Exaggerated Claims

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—"My mother says it is hot enough to fry a egg on the paving," began the poster to Tulsa Tribune columnist Roger Devlin. Then it added: "I and my friend tried it twice and it wasn't. It just left a mess. Randy."

Around The Rim

Weather's Intuitive Touch

This is probably an universal lament, but it seems as though all you have to do to change the weather is plan some special event.

The most recent case in point is the dedication of W. R. Grace & Co. All during October we have been having unseasonably mild weather—almost like summer. Short-sleeve sport shirts have been comfortable, and there were few if any clouds.

COMES THE DAY of the plant dedication, and bingo, a front, which already had moved through, decided to back up and pepper us with just enough drizzle to be disagreeable. The north and east winds had a bite in them, too.

A couple of seasons back the football team seemed to have a snake bite when it came to the weather. They opened their first game in cold rain, high in the Panhandle. The next week they played in temperatures near 100 degrees. After a couple of fairly good weeks, a plague of cold weather set in. It could be balmy all week, but on Friday the northerners zoomed down with enough frigidly to freeze the horns off a billy goat. One game was played in 26-degrees with sleet peppering down.

IF YOU CAN recall when the new Howard County Court House had its open house, the weather turned off in a miserably cold rain. For that matter, the night we had the first showing of the new Herald plant, a terrible rain and dust storm struck with maddening fury just about the time our visitors began to show.

When it came time to break ground for the Big Spring State Hospital back in 1939, a heavy cloud cover moved in on the wings of biting cold. Out on the northern slope this cut like a knife. Similarly, when the first spade of earth was turned for the VA Hospital, skies cleared behind a front but raw cold remained. Last year when the Methodist conference came to town, and we were set for our first outdoor high school commencement, a violent sandstorm struck.

THE AMERICAN BUSINESS Club took its lumps for several years on weather during its relays. Each spring brought serene, lazy days with scarcely a breath of air to cradle the mockingbirds. But come the day of the finals (if not indeed the preliminaries), sandstorms would rake the area.

This was the setting for the acme of atrocious weather. Bobby Mirrow, a three-medal winner in the Olympics, and Dave Sime were booked in the "race of the century," a play on words for their historic 100-yard dash.

SOMETHING LIKE 10,000 seats had been sold, and people were begging for tickets. All week it had been fair, but on that Friday the preliminaries were unreeled in a disagreeable sandstorm. In a way it was a relief, for old timers smiled knowingly. These blows almost never came on two consecutive days.

This year was the exception, however, for by mid-morning Saturday it was apparent that we were in for it. When time came for the feature event, it was difficult to see the track at times. Great folds of dirt whipped through the air like draperies. To this was added a blizzard of peanut hulls, tobacco ash, and paper sacks. The race was an anti-climax, and most of the national writers on the scene addressed choice adjectives to the weather rather than the contest.

OF COURSE, on the whole our weather is cooperative and plans are made with little thought of alternatives in events of inclement weather. So if you have a special event planned for out of doors, go on with confidence. Odds are that nothing will happen (but I wouldn't bet on it). —JOE PICKLE

Two Plays On Broadway

In the past decade the groves of Academe have taken a shellacking in both book and play. Somewhere along the line a group of writers simultaneously discovered the automatic, built-in shock value of the college or university campus as a background for scabrous characters.

There is a special titillation, particularly if it involves the faculty, to sin against the quasi-sacred academi background. The scholastic world may never recover from a concatenation of recent events—the insensate rioting at the University of Mississippi and Broadway's latest hit play, Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

AS FOR THE play, which opened last week and which people are fighting to see, the groves of Academe may have to bear at least partial responsibility for this study in demology. It is possible that if his professors had provided Albee with sufficient chalk in his student days, the playwright might have rid himself on blackboard or barndoor of the execrable obscenities that cascade over his work like dirty rhinestones on a sleazy dress.

But Albee's is not a sleazy talent—anything but. This young man brings to the theatre exceptional gifts for dialogue and dramatic structure. However, he cheapens his great gifts, which are so rare in his field and which the modern theatre needs so badly, by rolling himself, his characters and his audiences in filth for which there is no excuse.

THROUGHOUT the play I was impressed with Albee's exceptional gift for dialogue and his power to build continuously toward dramatic revelation. But my prime impulse on leaving the theatre was to rush home and wash out my ears. My husband suggested steel wool. Martha, the central character in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" is not even subhuman. She is a monster. And the husband she has spent 22 years in destroying is not much better. As the play progressed, I felt I had been thrown into a bear pit to watch beasts flay each other alive.

INDEED, THE Albee play continues the modern theatrical tradition of inviting the audience on an 18th Century excursion to Bedlam, with the spectators asked to enjoy and applaud the antics of the insane rattling the bars that confine them.

Albee has wasted his talents on a play whose thesis is completely phony and on nonhuman characters about whose fate the audience couldn't care less. His play is not a study in tragedy but an unworthy delving into sensationalism.

BUT "WHO'S Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" is fashionable. One really can't hold up his head at any kind of social gathering unless he is able to discuss it. It is already a runaway success while further up Broadway, a really first-rate play about academic life, "The Affair," struggles along without the advantage of even one four-letter word.

"The Affair" by C. P. Snow deals brilliantly with a problem as old as man—that of justice; justice for an odious man who espouses the unpopular view. Here is a picture of the academic world in all its pettiness and its glory. The members of the faculty are portrayed, warts and all.

BUT THESE MEN and women are human; they are recognizable. The inevitable situation in which they find themselves is all too common today.

The Albee play, on the other hand, is based on false premise as well as a character no one has ever met on land or sea. The two plays have only one thing in common: both are brilliantly acted. "The Affair" is the best play I've seen this season, but the smart money is on "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" (Copyright, 1962, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Action On Cuba Is A Must

WASHINGTON — Cuban workers and farmers are "slaves," the young refugee mechanic said. He had left Havana only last month, and hopes to find a job because he learned English at a Catholic school and worked in an American-owned plant. About 90 per cent of the militia of government agents, of Negroes, who have been given rifles and knives to humiliate the whites—and of Spanish-speaking Russians, who dress and live like Cubans in order to melt into the population. Communism has a race-mixing policy also. My interviewee resumed:

"I WAS IN A priest's room while he wept because he was ordered to marry a 16-year-old white girl to a Negro soldier. What could the priest do but obey? Even the poorest people before Castro came would go to dances. It was an entertainment we could afford. But now we don't go because of the armed Negroes."

Another form of entertainment, the motion picture, has been spoiled because all films are Russian and most of these are about war. When Russian cargoes arrive, the waterfront is sealed off, so that few people know what's being imported. There are many top-secret storage areas which are only entered by Fidel and those closest to him. The Youth Movement is indoctrinated to hate Yankees, and to "want to die" in battle. If ever the political prisoners of Castro are released, they will be so well brainwashed that revolt will be beyond their comprehension.

AFTER FOUR DAYS of polite questioning by American security officials, the young refugee wonders if they know what life is like in Cuba. He taped a recording for the Voice of America, but in his mind was the same thought that many Americans now express about the difference between the Administration's "words" and "deeds."

Nothing except an American invasion is going to save the Cuban people—and save the United States. All the information I got from this refugee—and, of course, much more—is available to the President and his advisers, and theirs is a hard choice. But almost any proposition in our personal lives can be smudged by pietistic balderdash.

WE ARE TOLD that it would be "immoral" and "illegal" to invade Cuba at loss of human lives and at risk of nuclear war. But is it not still more "immoral" to evade the responsibility which our great military power, and our historical position in the Western Hemisphere, have placed upon us? Are we minding our morals when we avert our attention from a systematic enslavement of people whom we set up as a nation and over whom we have always asserted a form of benevolent authority—a people probably incapable of self-government, much less of self-emancipation?

IT WOULD TAKE an ethical philosopher of great competence to make a case of "immorality" against preventive action in Cuba while the Russians, having come 9,000 miles, are building mysterious engines for the destruction of this country. There was testimony two years ago before the Internal Security subcommittee about Soviet "missile sites" in Cuba—testimony that certain editorial pages and editorial cartoonists coached the American people to laugh at. There were Senate speeches, tied in with close-to-the-State-Department columns, which chided and ridiculed anybody cowardly enough to fear a military threat in Cuba.

THE REPUBLICAN party high command in Washington still talks about how "politics stops at the waterfront." Hogwash is the name for that! This election season is the time for GOP candidates to take this Cuban issue to the American people. Mr. Kennedy would get the message, all right, if Democrats who support or apologize for his Cuban policy were separated from their Congressional seats.

Needle Advice For Insulin Users

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Here are a few words on "needling."

"Dear Sir: Is there any way to sterilize needle and syringe other than by boiling? I take insulin, and wonder what to do when I am on a trip away from home.—A. V."

Kits are available with compartments for syringe, alcohol, cotton and insulin. Once sterilized, the syringe can be kept in the compartment and merely wiped with alcohol before use.

Or you can get (at medical supply houses or many drug stores) a case just for syringe and needle. Kept in the case, they would remain clean.

Another method is wrapping the needle in cotton soaked with alcohol. If needle and syringe are rinsed in alcohol, be sure the fluid is pumped out of the barrel and needle with the plunger. A small electric sterilizer for syringes and needles is also available. It would not tax your luggage.

Dear Doctor: My husband gives me insulin shots and they cause a welt or lump on my arm. Please tell me what he is doing wrong.—MRS. K.

Maybe he's not doing anything wrong. This sort of thing occurs with some diabetics, especially those who have just started using insulin, but the trouble tends to subside as time passes.

It may also be a reaction to the particular type of insulin you are using, so mention this to your doctor, to see if another kind equals the trouble.

Can't you give the shots to yourself? It takes considerable experience to know how to give them to another person; it's not nearly as difficult to learn to give them to oneself.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it unusual for a person in the 40's to begin having epilepsy? My sister has blacked out twice although it has not been determined to be epilepsy. She has been under heavy emotional strain; her husband is an alcoholic.—M. J.

Convulsive seizures resembling epilepsy can occur after 40, and may be related to some old brain injury (or infection) or to some emotional reactions can be a factor. Likewise epilepsy can become more acute with age. The best course in a case like this is to begin with a good physical examination, including skull X-rays and an electro-encephalogram.

Dear Dr. Molner: How much would plastic surgery on my nose cost? I have given a great deal of thought to the idea, and am sure that if I can possibly afford it, the surgery will be worth my money. I have not conferred with a surgeon because, I would like for you to give me a little information as to what to expect first. Only a line or two stating the approximate cost.—MISS M. J.

I'm a little tired of this question, and tired of saying that the way to find the answer is to talk to the surgeon who can gauge the cost after seeing how much has to be done. Some cases are more difficult than others. None is simple, because it requires careful measurement and sketching beforehand, to decide exactly what should be done.

It is a very exacting operation. It's not like removing an appendix or the tonsils. The closest I can possibly come to an "approximate cost" is several hundred dollars. Whether the "several" is small or large depends on the case.

Purcell Helps Keep Texas Seats On Agriculture Panel

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Since the beginning of government farm programs in the early 1930s, except for brief periods, Texas has had two seats on the House Agriculture Committee.

During the depth of the economic depression of the early '30s when cotton dropped to 3 cents a pound and starving cattle were hauled to markets for the price their hides would bring, Marvin Jones headed the committee. The laws created the farm programs substantially as we now know them were enacted in that period.

PUSHED FARM LAWS
Now chief judge of the U. S. Court of Claims, Jones, then representing the Panhandle district in the House, had much to do with passage of these farm laws. They put a floor under commodity prices, encouraged conservation through promotion of such practices as contour plowing, and provided financial aid through loans in the construction of rural electric lines and ponds and reservoirs.

Also serving on the committee in those days was Richard M. Kleberg, one of the owners of the world-famous King Ranch. Prior to the 1930s the activities of the Agriculture Department were largely devoted to research in better production and processing methods. In this work the King Ranch cooperated with the government as probably did no other private business or organization.

Since World War II the top Texan on the committee has been Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco. For years he has been vice chairman of the group, second only to Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N. C.

NEW MEMBER
A new member of Congress now is the second Texan on the committee.

He is Graham Purcell, former state district judge at Wichita Falls who won his House seat in a special election Jan. 27.

Purcell also was a resident of Big Spring.

The farm problem, in Purcell's view, is the most serious domestic issue facing the country. It is one of the problems facing the first session of the 86th Congress which convenes in January. After debate last summer of proposed changes, a decision was postponed by continuing the present farm program for one year.

"I think we must come up with a program next year which will be workable and reasonable as to cost," Purcell said.

"If we don't, the city congressmen, Democrats and Republicans alike, may vote to stop it. That would bring chaos to the farmer. Markets would be glutted and prices would drop. The consumer might enjoy lower prices temporarily, but in the long run he too would be hurt."

NEW IDEAS
Looking for new ideas and ways to meet the problem next year, Purcell said he intends to talk with agricultural leaders at Texas A&M College during the fall.

He plans also to meet with farm leaders at Lubbock and to talk with as many county ASCS (Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service) committeemen in Texas as possible before the end of December.

His year of work on the House Agriculture Committee has convinced him that county ASCS committeemen are the unsung heroes of the farm program.

"They're dedicated men with a job not unlike that of the person who serves on a school board," he said.

"They're the men who must administer and explain the farm program to the farmer. They don't create it, and sometimes they're in a position of having to help get across programs which they may personally dislike."

Purcell stated his views in a recent issue of the Congressional Record.

"The most important link between the farmer and the farm programs administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture is the ASCS county committee," he wrote.

Redistricting Suit On Agenda

AUSTIN (AP)—The Third Court of Civil Appeals said Wednesday oral arguments on an appeal testing the 1961 redistricting of legislative districts will be heard March 6.

The date will be about two months after the opening of the 1963 Legislature, where realignment of legislative and congressional districts is expected to be a major issue.

The appeal to be considered by the court concerns the refusal of Georgetown Dist. Judge D. B.

Wood to withhold the salaries of five state officials who are charged with congressional and legislative redistricting. The suit was filed by Dallas businessman Giles E. Miller, who ran unsuccessfully in the Republican primary for nomination as candidate for congressman-at-large.

The last legislature redistricted Texas House and Senate districts but did not reapportion U. S. congressional districts on the basis of the 1960 census. As a result, the 23rd congressional seat allotted the state on its growth during the past decade is presently filled by statewide election. The other 22 congressmen are elected by specific districts.

Joe Pool, Dallas, is the Democratic nominee for congressman-at-large, and Des Barry, Houston, the GOP nominee. Miller filed suit seeking to stop payment of salaries to the lieutenant governor, speaker of the House, attorney general, comptroller and land commissioner. The officials make up an ex-officio board required to meet and redistrict the state if the job is not done by the legislature after each 10-year census. He claimed they were not due their salaries because they failed to perform the duty of redistricting congressional districts. The suit also attacks the validity of the 1961 Legislative Redistricting Act since it did not include congressional districts.

Elephant Race

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Six members of the University of Washington "Elephant Racing Club" will compete in an elephant derby here Oct. 26, the University of Michigan homecoming committee says.

Massey Elected APO President

SAN MARCOS—Vernon Massey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Massey, Big Spring, was recently elected president of the Nu Gamma chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity at Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos.

APO is a service organization formed of men who were previously boy scouts. Its main services include handling all campus-wide elections and assisting the faculty with registration twice a year. Massey is a junior student majoring in business administration.

Guards Thwart Jail Breakout

FORT WORTH (AP) — Guards thwarted an attempt to break out of the Tarrant County jail in downtown Fort Worth Wednesday. Sheriff's deputies and city police, armed with tear gas and wearing gas masks, moved up to corral 26 prisoners believed loose on the sixth floor. They found all the inmates back in their single big cell and feigning sleep. Sgt. Terry Hopkins, in charge of the jail overnight, said guards

Duke Tramel and Harvey Thrall kill discovered several prisoners waiting to attack them about 2:30 a.m. The guards were still on the opposite side of a heavy locked door. A quick alarm brought reinforcements. About a dozen officers then mounted to the sixth floor, which is on the top story of the old Criminal Courts Building in Fort Worth. Officers found a radiator ripped off the wall, several pieces of pipe torn out for crude weapons, the wire mesh off a window rolled up and bedsheets knotted into a makeshift rope. There were 101 inmates on the sixth floor, but Hopkins said mechanical locks kept all confined except the 26 in one large tank.

FIDEL CASTRO

Castro Dreads Ex-Comrades Who Fought His Revolution

By WILLIAM L. RYAN, AP Special Correspondent
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Elements in the Cuban militia and what is left of the old revolutionary 26th of July Movement are ready to take to the hills and fight Fidel Castro's Communist regime, Cuban exile sources here declare. But these sources add that they call the only hope for Cuba's liberation from communism, is being hampered by U.S. actions. Fidel Castro, who recently made a hush-hush tour of Cuba's interior, is reported in dread of his own former comrades-in-arms in the old 26th of July army. Mass meetings of "defense committees" are being held all over Cuba. The committees are part of a Communist-style, block-by-block spy system. Cuba's economic troubles under communism have tended also to arouse disaffection even in the militia. This has so worried the regime, according to available information, that militia members get little ammunition, and their arms and bullets are taken from them at the end of each tour of duty.

MAKE IT CLEAR
One exile leader, Manuel Ray, urges that the United States make it as clear as possible to people inside Cuba that the fight is only against communism and that the United States is on the side of any underground resistance that fights the Red regime. Ray, who claims reliable contacts with the elements of resistance inside Cuba, fought for Castro in the revolution, which overthrew the Fulgencio Batista dictatorship and became Castro's first public works minister. He fled when the regime veered sharply to communism. The ex-minister says he believes strategic blunders in the United States have hampered internal Cuban resistance.

HATRED FOR BATISTA
One such blunder, he asserts, has been creation of the impression that the United States supports any and all Cuban exiles. Hatred of the old Batista regime persists in Cuba, despite present woes. Ray says he and other Cubans now organized in "the Cuban revolutionary junta" in Puerto Rico believe it is urgent for the United States to make clear that it is on the side "of any underground resistance to the Cuban Castro regime, and that it believes the only battle is against the Communists and not against Cubans who took part in the revolution against Batista."

He says he feels that 26th of July army men who might take off for the hills hesitate for fear that former Batista people might be among those who would move in from the United States and take over after the fall of the Castro regime. They fear, he says, they would lose their own heads in that event.

ANTI-CASTRO FORCES
Ray says he is sure that if resources were made available to the internal resistance—men are still fighting in the Escambray hills—it could be funneled to anti-Castro forces and would pose a serious threat to the regime. But he says much of the available resources go to politicians in exile to use for their own purposes.

"The basic reason for the presence of Soviet colonial troops in Cuba, as well as for the establishment of a colonial administration, is Castro's need for an instrument of terror to put down rebellious elements inside the militia and the 26th of July army," Ray told this correspondent. Cuban national pride, he says, has been bruised and inflamed by the sight of so many Communist-bloc foreigners, some in Cuban uniforms, who came with the arms and now give the impression that they boss the nation.

DRAFT ERROR
But he says he believes the United States itself made a mistake in its decision to induct Cuban exiles into the U.S. Army, and thus handed Castro ammunition to offset the bad effect of the Soviet presence. "Cubans," said Ray, "should not be asked to fight except under their own flag. We are not extremists and not nationalists, but we are proud of our nationality and we see no reason why Cubans should pledge allegiance to any except their own flag."

Vending Machines Getting Complex
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A vending machine with a capacity of 224 items in 204 varieties was featured at the National Convention of the Automatic Vending Industry. The big vendor is manufactured in the West German plant of Automatic Canteen Co. of America. Also on exhibit was an automatic bank depositing machine that accepts coins, currency and checks, returning a validated deposit slip to the customer.

GREAT READING FOR YOUR FAMILY. A MAGNIFICENT 3-VOLUME FAMILY EDITION. EXCLUSIVE AT SAFEWAY!

Through special arrangement with the Editors of LIFE, Safeway offers you and your family an unprecedented bargain in great reading. LIFE has adapted its huge, best-selling book THE WORLD WE LIVE IN into a Special Family Edition consisting of three library volumes! These books are the outgrowth of the most acclaimed and widely-read series of articles ever to appear in LIFE.

Here is the exciting story of Earth's natural history. Here you will see and have clearly explained how mountains, valleys, oceans and continents came to be... you will take in all the incredible diversity of plants and animals from two billion years ago to today and come to understand how and why they evolved as they did... you will marvel at the look of forests, seas, deserts, skies, frozen wastelands, and the starry universe and gain a perception of the part they play in Nature's plan.

THE WORLD WE LIVE IN series represents over a million dollars of investment in time, talent and production. Each new volume is large (8 1/2" x 11") and is printed on fine quality book paper. Each volume is 100 or more pages long, with beautiful, informative illustrations on nearly every page (most in full color) and over 30,000 words.
