Mahon Gains Solid Victory

Rep. George Mahon received a solid vote of confidence from the 19th congressional district in the general election Tuesday, rolling up a better than two-to-one victory over Republican Dennis Taylor of Crosby County.

Incomplete and unofficial returns Wednesday morning showed Mahon with 41,177 votes to 19,992 for Taylor. Eight of the 20 counties still were incomplete, but the outstanding vote was thought to be fairly small.

The Democratic congressman carried every county in his district, and bested Taylor in his home county of Crosby by about two-and-a-half to one.

Mahon will be returning to Washington for his 15th term. He has represented the 19th district ever since it was created in a re-apportionment in 1934.

From his Lubbock headquarters, Mahon issued the following statement through The Herald:

"I am deeply grateful for the overwhelming vote of confidence the people of the district again have given me. It is heartwarming to know that such support continues.

"When the new Congress convenes January 9, I will be on the job and will be putting forth every effort to serve our district and the nation.

"There will be many problems ahead. There is farm legislation concerning cotton and grains that will be vital to our district, in addition to matters of international import. I will do my level best to help meet these matters in the best national interest."

Amendments, 9 Of 14, Get Voter Approval

Texas voters apparently gave their stamp of approval Tuesday to nine of the 14 proposed amendments to the state Constitution while turning thumbs down on the controversial "trial de novo" proposal.

The nine brought to 153 the total number of constitutional amendments approved by the people since the Constitution was adopted in 1876.

Called by foes "the most dangerous proposal submitted the people in years," the trial de novo amendment would have allowed a new trial on appeals from administrative bodies.

The amendment undoubtedly was the most controversial of the record slate.

WELFARE GAINS

The voters favored two welfare increases, Propositions 2 and 8. The first would increase the authorized limit on old-age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind from $47 million to $52 million annually. The second would increase the limit on total state expenditures for aid to totally and permanently disabled persons from $1.5 million to $2.5 million.

Also gaining favor was Proposition 4, which would provide for a state program of acquiring conservation storage facilities in reservoirs through bond sale proceeds by the Texas Water Development Fund.

ENEMY ATTACK

Texas said they approve of Proposition 7, which would enable the legislature to establish a system of continuity in state and local governmental operations in the event of enemy attack. The legislature itself would not be included.

Also getting the nod was a proposal, No. 11, which would allow resale of lands in the veterans land fund to non-veterans. Such resales would apply only to repossessed land previously offered for resale to veterans but not bought by them.

Two proposals of purely local significance, Nos. 3 and 13, were adopted. The first would permit the legislature to create hospital districts in four counties—Ochiltree, Castro, Hansford and Hopkins.

SCHOOL FUNDS

The second would provide that taxes and bonds previously approved in an independent school district located primarily in Dallas County cannot be voided by a boundary change. It provides that ad valorem taxes can be levied in those areas nearly taken into such school districts without further election.

Two proposals which gained approval by paper-thin margins were Nos. 5 and 12. The fifth proposal would give the legislature power to create hospital districts. The 12th would permit the legislature to authorize the governing body of counties bordering on the Gulf to regulate motor vehicles on public beaches as well as littering of such areas.

FAILURES

Failing to make the grade, besides the "trial de novo" proposal, were: Proposition 1—Which would provide workman's compensation insurance for all political subdivisions. Proposition 6—Which would authorize retirement plans for elected and appointive officers and employees of counties and political subdivisions. Proposition 9—Which would authorize the legislature to create two hospital districts in Brazoria County and permit Titus County to levy taxes for homes for the aged. Proposition 10—Which would permit state employees to serve as advisers and consultants to federal, state and local agencies and to be reimbursed for expenses incurred on their additional posts.

DEMOS GENERALLY HOLD FIRM, LOSE SOME STATE HOUSES

John Connally Beats Cox For Governorship

Demos Continue Congress Control

Spirited GOP Drive Repulsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats won continued top-heavy control of Congress in Tuesday's elections and whipped Richard M. Nixon in California, but Republicans snatched the governorships of New York, Michigan, Ohio, and the Pennsylvania—bastions of power for the 1964 presidential contest.

The congressional lineup on the basis of counting in mid-morning today shaped up in this fashion: Senate: 66 Democrats and 32 Republicans; two races undetermined, but Democrats leading in both. In the present Congress, Senate Democrats have a 64-36 margin. House: 244 Democrats and 169 Republicans; Democrats leading in 17 contests still unsettled and Republicans in 5. In the present Congress there are 261 Democrats and 174 Republicans with two vacancies.

For President Kennedy, the congressional outcome was a victory in that it bucked the tradition that the party in power normally loses a sizable block of congressional seats in off-year elections.

The President appeared also to have a strengthened hand in the Senate with the increased Democratic strength there and the addition of such warm supporters of his program as his brother, Edward (Ted) Kennedy, elected in Massachusetts, and former Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff, elected in Connecticut.

But the liberal vs. conservative division in the House, where Kennedy's legislative proposals have encountered their toughest going, apparently was little changed. The balancing seemingly reflected no clear trend—except voter readiness to split tickets and cross party lines with abandon.

KUCHEL WINS

While Nixon, the unsuccessful Republican presidential nominee against Kennedy in 1960, was being turned down for governor by California voters, they re-elected Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel.

There were similar mixed outcomes in other states. Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown claimed victory over Nixon in the California governor race. Nixon, whose race against President Kennedy in 1960 was a near miss, refused to concede the defeat.

On the other side of the continent, GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York led a re-election parade of Republicans who wrested governors' offices from the Democrats in the politically potent industrial states of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

These, with New York, offer a Republican launching pad for the 1964 presidential contest with 119 of the 288 electoral votes needed for victory.

HEAD OF CLASS

With his second-term victory, Rockefeller went to the head of the class of potential GOP nominees to oppose Kennedy in 1964. But a couple of newcomers also were possible enrollees—Governor George Romney of Michigan and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

In mixed up balloting that seemed to have turned on personalities rather than issues, Republicans were jolted in California, the Midwest, and in New England. They made some border state gains and picked up a few House seats in the South.

Democrats and Republicans traded governors' jobs at a furious pace. Republicans engineered overturns in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wyoming, Colorado and Oklahoma. Democrats retaliated by taking GOP governorships in New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Iowa and Hawaii. In five undecided races, Democrats led in two. Republicans in three.

GEARED TO LANDSLIDE

A Democratic sweep in New England seemed geared to the landslide by which Kennedy won the Senate seat elder brother John F. Kennedy gave up to become President. He left the Republicans in control of the governor's office only in Maine. And that contest was so close a recount might be ordered.

There was ample evidence that the voters made their decisions on personalities rather than on over-

PRESTON SMITH

Hayes Claims Smith Insult

AUSTIN (AP) — O. W. (Bill) Hayes said today that Lt. Gov.-elect Preston Smith refused last night to accept congratulations on Smith's winning the election.

Republican Hayes, in a telephone call from Temple, said he had a witness who will testify that Smith told Hayes:

"I don't accept your congratulations; you are a no good Texan."

Hayes said he is willing to take a lie detector test to back up his statement.

"I think this is unworthy of a man taking a high public office," Hayes said of Smith's alleged statement.

"He called me irresponsible and called me a liar," Hayes said. Earlier, Smith's headquarters issued a release saying that a report that Smith refused to accept a congratulatory telephone call was "ridiculous."

"This accusation is similar to those made in the closing days of the campaign as it, too, is completely ridiculous and false," Smith said.

Smith's headquarters said Hayes called Smith to congratulate the Democrat on his election victory and that Smith talked to the Republican.

It was earlier reported that Smith had refused to talk to Hayes.

Texas Democrats fought off the most spirited Republican drive in decades Tuesday to sweep all state-wide races but the GOP increased its number of U. S. House seats from one to two and possibly three.

Handsome John Connally, who resigned as secretary of the Navy to run for the governorship, scored a decisive victory over his Republican opponent, Jack Cox, to climax a heated campaign that gave Texas all the appearances of a two-party state.

In a victory statement from Austin, Connally said:

"I pledge to bring to the governor's office all the capacity, energy and dedication I can summon to measure up to the task.

"I have every confidence that our people will now unite with one purpose, one object: To build a greater Texas future in the proud tradition of our glorious past."

Hasn't Conceded
Cox, who made a rigorous bid to become the first Republican Texas governor since Reconstruction Days, declined to concede defeat until he saw a county-by-county report of the balloting.

Democratic Rep. J. T. Rutherford conceded his defeat late Tuesday night in the 16th District to Republican Ed Foreman, a newcomer to politics who had linked Rutherford with Billie Sol Estes, the bankrupt West Texas promoter.

Bruce Alger, now the only GOP Congressman from Texas, held a comfortable lead over his Democratic opponent, Bill Jones, in the 3rd District.

Republican William Steger was in a see-saw battle with Democratic Rep. Lindley Beckworth in the 3rd District.

Picked Up Seat
Democrats, however, picked up one House seat as Joe Pool of Dallas bested Desmond Barry of Houston in the statewide race for Congressman-at-large, a post created as a result of the state's population increase.

The Republicans, who are still without a seat in the state Senate, lost their two present state representatives but won at least seven other state House races.

Neither the seats of Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D., nor Sen. John Tower, R., were at stake in Tuesday's elections.

Texas voters gave their stamp of approval to nine of the 14 proposed state constitution amendments. Among the five rejected was the controversial "trial de novo" proposal.

Election Returns
Texas Election Bureau returns at 9:30 a.m. from 250 of 254 counties 111 complete. (Democrats listed first, Republicans second.)

Governor: John Connally 712, 143; Jack Cox 601,231. Jack Carswell (Constitution) 6,029. Lt. Gov.: Preston Smith 766,468; Bill Hayes 509,530. Atty. Gen.: Waggoner Carr 819,824; T. Everton Kennerly 423,901. Congress-at-large: Joe Pool 703,770; Desmond Barry 568,712.

Railroad Commissioner: Ben Ramsey 823,008; Bernold M. Hanson 386,909. Comptroller: Robert S. Calvert 798,116; Hargrove Smith 380,828; Joseph M. Rummeler (Constitution) 7,111. Land Commissioner: Jerry Sadler 802,914; Albert B. Fay 419,635.

Agriculture Commissioner: John C. White 794,768; Harry Hubbard 420,220.

CONFIDENCE

"I have every confidence that our people will now unite with one purpose, one objective; to build a greater Texas future in the proud tradition of our glorious past."

Connally at Austin said Tuesday night when his election became apparent.

Cox, who watched the returns on TV at his home in Breckenridge, declined late Tuesday night to concede defeat until he sees the county-by-county report.

"We have worked too hard and too long," he said. "There will be no concession from me this night. No concession until I know from which counties the votes came."

Cox received approximately 45 per cent of the vote in Tuesday's election. It was the highest percentage a Republican candidate for governor has received since 1869.

NOT YET

Texas has not had a Republican governor since Reconstruction Days. Although GOP candidates made spirited campaigns against the late Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson in 1924 and 1932, this year marked the Republicans' most extensive bid for state offices. They fielded candidates in 9 statewide races, in 17 congressional district races, in 13 state Senate races, and 84 state House races.

Cox, who campaigned as "free of Washington control" accused Connally of being a tool of President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon Johnson. Connally said that he was a friend of both the President and vice president, but that the decision to run for governor was his and that, if elected, he alone would occupy the governor's chair.

The 45-year-old Connally, who defeated a field of Democrats that included incumbent Gov. Price Daniel in the primaries, had the task of unifying conservative and liberal factions of his party in his campaign against Cox, a Breckenridge businessman who two years ago had unsuccessfully sought the post as a Democrat.

First Taste
The tall, youthful-looking Connally, who has a generous sprinkling of gray in his dark, wavy hair, received his first taste of politics in getting elected president of the student body while in the University of Texas.

He served as secretary and administrative assistant to Johnson, then a Congressman, before entering the practice of law. During World War II he was commissioned in the Navy and served in the South Pacific where he received several combat decorations. From 1952 until his appointment as secretary of the Navy in December of 1959, he was attorney and administrative executive for the late Sid W. Richardson and Perry R. Bass, independent oil operators.

The new Texas governor is married to the former Idanell Brill of Austin, the 1938 University of Texas sweetheart. They have three children.

Rutherford Loses Contest

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Texas Democrats elected 20 congressmen Tuesday, swayed on the brink of victory in another race but suffered a severe jolt when they lost one present U.S. House seat.

Rep. J. T. Rutherford, elected to Congress in 1954, conceded defeat to Republican Ed Foreman, 25-year-old Odessa businessman and political novice. Foreman succeeded in linking Rutherford to Billie Sol Estes, the West Texas promoter whose financial empire crumbled under a widespread scandal.

In a see-saw battle that streaked right down to the wire, Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater held a narrow margin over Republican William Steger, 42, a Tyler attorney.

Bruce Alger of Dallas, Texas' lone Republican in Congress, understood the challenge of Democrat Bill Jones to win his fifth congressional seat.

However, the GOP received a crushing blow in the at-large race where Joe Pool of Dallas turned back Houston trucking magnate

Stock Market Moves Irregularly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon, showing no apparent reaction to the election returns.

The list had behind it six straight sessions without a loss so some profit taking was to be expected, analysts said. Five of the past half dozen sessions saw sharp gains.

The list was irregularly lower in early trading but improved somewhat as the session wore on.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 224.4 with industrials, rails, and utilities all unchanged.

EVEN THOSE WHO HAVE HAD SALK SHOTS

Doctors Stress Importance Of Taking Sabin Vaccine

To help control spread of poliomyelitis, it is most important that the Sabin oral vaccine be taken, regardless of whether you have had Salk shots.

Doctors in charge of the mass immunization set up for Howard and Glascock counties Sunday are stressing this.

A distressing development occurred Monday, with the admission to a local hospital of a Sterling City child, Vickie House, 11, whose illness has been diagnosed as polio. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. House, Vickie was reported in good condition, although there is a weakness in one of her legs. This may be corrected, her doctor said.

Vickie has had a series of Salk shots, the last one in 1957, the physician reported.

Sunday's program: "We cannot emphasize too strongly that the Sabin vaccine should be taken along with Salk shots. The vaccine serves to deter the individual from becoming a carrier."

Type I Sabin vaccine (simply three tasteless drops on a lump of sugar) will be given to the public from 11 clinics operating Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. The doses are entirely free, although donations to help defray costs will be welcomed.

It was announced today that the Webb clinic will be in Building 503 Hospital Headquarters. The Webb station is principally for all military people, although other persons handy to that area may use the facility.

It also was announced that a clinic is being added at Forsan to operate in the Forsan school. Others are at Coahoma, Knott and Garden City-St. Lawrence, and in Big Spring they will be at Washington Place, Rummels Junior High, Marcy, Cedar Crest and Lakeview.

Every person past the age of five weeks is urged to go to the nearest clinic at the hours designated. Each one will be directed by a physician, with a registered nurse on hand, and a pharmacist will administer the vaccine.

An authorization form must be filled out, and the public is urged to complete these forms before coming to the clinics, to save registration time. Copies will appear in The Herald this week, and will be distributed through the schools.

Little Gets Contract For School Work

J. W. Little Construction Co., Big Spring, is successful bidder for the $250,000 improvement program at Forsan and Elbow schools. The bid of $195,977 was accepted by the Forsan County Line Independent School district Tuesday afternoon, according to Roy Stockdale, superintendent of the schools.

Gary and Hohertz, architects, were present at the meeting and went over the 14 bids submitted for the program.

The schools are to spend $250,000 in improvement of the plants at Forsan and Elbow.

Bids submitted for the job ranged from as high as $238,000 to Little's low bid of $195,977.

Work should start on the job within two weeks, Daryl Hohertz, architect, said. He said it is probable that construction will be started at both schools simultaneously.

At Elbow, a new building separate from other structures will be erected. At Forsan, the expansion will be in the form of an addition to the existing school.

The $250,000 will pay for all construction and for all furnishings and equipment.

Plane Crashes

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Navy amphibious rescue plane crashed into Subic Bay Tuesday while making a routine water landing, but its five crew members were not hurt, a Navy spokesman said.

United Fund Moves Slowly

Another section of the United Fund could report 100 per cent participation this morning, but the annual effort is still making slow progress.

The section over the top was the employees of Texas Electric Service Co. The needed money was reported late Tuesday to put this section in the select group of quota-busters.

To date, the campaign has in hand $89,154, a little more than $14,000 short of the United Fund budget.

Optimistically, campaign leaders point out that a few contacts and reports can still pull the campaign through. There are enough cards still out to see the campaign to success.

There are 13 local welfare and youth guidance agencies depending on these cards and the workers who have them.

Local Voters Still Demo, But GOP Shows Strength

Democratic office seekers got the official nod of most local voters in Tuesday's general election.

However, the strength of the Republican forces was sufficiently large to cause political leaders to speculate on developments in elections to come.

Howard County voters, in step with their fellow-Texans, gave John Connally, the Democratic standard bearer, the nod for governor. However, Jack Cox, the Republican contender, showed power and lagged only 700 votes behind. The vote: Connally 2,981; Cox 2,239.

5,400 for the day — regarded as fairly representative for an election in a year when there was no local contest to stir enthusiasm.

Although the Republican forces showed power, the Constitution Party made a pale picture. Jack Carswell, their gubernatorial candidate, managed to muster only 15 votes in the 16 boxes.

Preston Smith, the Democratic lieutenant governor, showed stronger than did his chief. He polled 3,378 votes while Bill Hayes, his Republican opponent, was able to muster only 1,788.

Waggoner Carr, Democrat for attorney general, had no problem with T. Everton Kennerly, Republican. The vote in this county: Carr 3,742; Kennerly 1,409.

Joe Pool, Democratic candidate for congressman-at-large, polled 3,289. Des Barry, Republican, received 1,877 votes.

The Railroad commission race was heavily Democratic in this county with Ben Ramsey polling 3,934 and Bernold M. Hanson, Republican, 1,363.

Robert S. Calvert, Democrat for comptroller of public accounts, led his two opponents by a safe margin. The vote: Calvert 3,919; Mrs. Hargrove Smith (R) 1,267; Joseph M. Rummeler (C) 22. Jerry Sadler, Democrat, polled 3,919 for land office commissioner; Albert F. Fay, Republican, received 1,410.

John White, Democrat, for commissioner of agriculture, received 3,977. Harry Hubbard, Republican, polled 1,428 votes.

George Mahon, veteran Democratic congressman from this district, was given a safe two-to-one lead over his Republican opponent, Dennis Taylor. Mahon's vote was 3,782 and Taylor's 1,573.

Unopposed Democratic candidates received average complimentary votes of between 4,500 and 4,700 votes.

ROME (AP)—A monsignor on a motor scooter dashes daily through Rome's tangled traffic and down the wide and lovely Via Della Conciliazione to the Vatican.

He is trying—against clock and traffic—to do two full-time jobs at once. Thanks to the scooter, plus unlimited energy and a sturdy constitution, he is succeeding.

The motorized monsignor is James Tucek, a Texas tailor's son who wears two hats. He is at once a Roman Catholic priest, held in highest esteem by his church, and a thoroughly professional journalist held in equal regard by his colleagues and the hundreds of papers he serves.

Msgr. Tucek—"Father Jim"—to a sizable part of the Roman community—is chief of the Rome Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference News Service (NCWC). He and his staff, normally three assistants, handle the file of Vatican news for NCWC's 600 dioceses in the United States and for its other church and lay subscribers in 73 countries.

Near the end of the letter of criticism, my friend writes, "Although I belong to a local church that contains the name 'Baptist,' I am a member of the church of Christ (Mat. 16:18)." So it seems we have found "common ground on the name 'church of Christ.'" In fact this name is generally acceptable to the people. Other names, such as the one my friend mentioned, do not find general acceptance. They are hindrances to unity; while "church of Christ" is not a divisive name, and therefore is not denomination or sectarian.

Why is "church of Christ" so acceptable? Because it is in the

Racial Unrest Building Up In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Policeman Kaitano Kamadza was cycling home. Suddenly a gang of Africans ambushed him, pounded him with stones, poured gasoline over his police uniform and set his battered body on fire.

Kamadza, though an African himself, represented authority over the white man's authority over Southern Rhodesia.

Whites and blacks are drawing apart in Rhodesia, this wide and booming frontier land that once hoped to become a happy proving ground for the theory of racial partnership.

The unrest has been building up. Ramshackle churches where early missionaries preached the Christian Gospel are burned to the ground in the name of African nationalism. Demonstration riots are led by aspiring politicians armed with stones and broken bottles.

The spirit of compromise has disappeared. African resistance to white domination has hardened, and the whites of Rhodesia are casting envious looks at the South African system of apartheid.

This was the seemingly hopeless impasse as the prime minister of Southern Rhodesia, Sir Edgar Whitehead, appeared before a trusteeship committee at the United Nations in New York.

He insisted there that the country's white minority, outnumbered 14-1, has no intention of clinging to power despite a new constitution that gives into effect next month. Africans object that this constitution gives them only 15 seats in parliament while the whites have 50.

Whitehead said the Africans probably would have a majority of seats within 15 years.

African leaders, spurred on by nationalists from other countries on the continent, seem in no mood to wait that long. Some want to suspend the constitution and elections scheduled for Dec. 14.

A vast majority of the U. N. General Assembly supported the African leaders' viewpoint. The assembly voted 81-2, (South Africa and Portugal dissenting) to demand annulment of the constitution and the framing of a new one under auspices of Britain and the U. N. secretary-general.

Though legally Southern Rhodesia is a British responsibility, the country has long been a self-governing colony, one of the three parts of the shaky Central African Federation.

able, however, and Myung Dong's farmers are forced to turn to money lenders to keep their families alive.

By Korean standards, the total village debt of $6,920 is a small fortune.

Backed by a U. S. economic aid program totaling $200 million a year, the military regime has begun a campaign to make it a paying business. Last spring, for the first time in years, government fertilizer arrived in Myung Dong on time for rice planting. Not even crop failure, blamed on the improper use of the fertilizer, destroyed the good will thus created.

Showing they care about farm problems has gained South Korea's military leaders a sort of vague political support among farmers, who make up 60 per cent of the 25 million people. But as the village chief put it, only 15 persons in Myung Dong read newspapers and "only they know who Chung Hee Park is—or care."

Yemen Revolt Shakes Saudi Arabian Regime

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP)—The Republican revolution in Yemen has shaken Saudi Arabia's throne and stirred its people.

King Saud has named his brother, Crown Prince Faisal, to head a government that may give the Saudi monarchy its last chance.

More than one observer believes that unless Faisal acts decisively to bring progress to this rich but backward oil kingdom the country's next government will be Republican.

Faisal—thin, hawk-faced and ascetic at 58—may be the man to save the throne. In March 1958 he took the premiership to fend off another type of crisis—Saudi Arabia was on the financial rocks because of royal spending.

Thirty months later the king dismissed Faisal, with whom he had never gotten along. But in the time given him the younger brother put the country on a solid fiscal footing. His economizing was drastic—for one six-month period not a single new Cadillac was bought for the royal family. He curtailed expenditures so firmly that they have never since gotten out of hand.

The problems facing Faisal today are different. Winds of change sweeping across the Arabian desert make the growing educated classes restless for change.

Their country has no constitution, no true parliament, no census and few roads. It has not a single movie house. Its fading puritan zeal still prohibits movies, alcohol and theoretically even music from records. Women are only beginning to emerge from their medieval Moslem seclusion.

With a few notable exceptions, the bureaucracy moves with agonizing slowness and muddle.

Saud is a respected and gentle monarch with genuine regard for his people but some members of the royal family spend money with gross glee.

Of the country's estimated $520-million income this year, the 1,000-strong royal family will get about $60 million.

Thanks in part to Saud's own previous work and to growing revenues from American oil companies, Saudi Arabia's finances are in excellent shape.

The armed forces, where Arab revolts usually start, are scattered and separately organized.

Egyptian influence is everywhere. Until the recent Cairo offensive, thousands of Egyptians were working here as teachers, doctors, clerks, technicians. Some have been sent home.

Spare and cautious Faisal, with so much at stake, must be well aware of the dangers. As the modern age closes in on Saudi Arabia he will be racing against time.

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Motion picture stars, especially established ones with proven boxoffice appeal, are likely to be lukewarm at best about television acting assignments.

But Greer Garson, red-haired and who has starred in some of the most successful movies ever made, is an exception: she thinks television is wonderful—for herself, at any rate.

"For one who leads a busy, demanding life in other areas, it is great," she confided enthusiastically. "It's a tremendous challenge to any actor because it combines the techniques of stage and screen. And it is all concentrated in two, three or four weeks of work."

Miss Garson recently spent three busy weeks in New York rehearsing and performing in the taped "Shadowed Affair," which NBC will broadcast Saturday night (10-11 EST).

"Motion pictures take months to make," she said. "A play, if it is a success, lies up a performer for months, even years. Television, on the other hand, is 'instant theater'—everything else seems to be 'instant these hectic days—so television is in the contemporary mood. I like being an instant actress."

Miss Garson, it is obvious, is a special case. Most professionals welcome a popular, long-running Broadway play or a fat part in a leisurely, hand-crafted motion picture.

The slender, chic woman who became a star with one movie—wartime "Goodbye, Mr. Chips"—today finds her acting career has fallen somewhat behind her pre-occupation with the jobs of matron, volunteer worker for causes, Sunday painter and archaeologist and—very important—Texas and New Mexico booster.

The wife of E. E. "Buddy" Fogelson, an independent oil man, Miss Garson's home base is now Dallas. And in her beautiful, moderate British accents, she manages to out-brag the natives about the beauties and glories of her town. She calls herself "an earnest citizen" and works for just about all the most worthy welfare and cultural causes of the community.

She becomes even community. Then, when a motion picture job beckons, she has her old home in Bel Air, Los Angeles.

Demo Takes Over As Hawaii Chief

HONOLULU (AP)—John A. Burns, Democrat who tried for the second time to become Hawaii governor, won an upset victory Tuesday over Republican Gov. William F. Quinn.

Burns, who was Hawaii's congressional delegate when Hawaii was admitted to statehood in 1959, won heavily in traditional Republican strongholds.

Family Links In Elections

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward M. Kennedy's victory in the Massachusetts Senate election wasn't the only one in the country with family links.

The youngest brother of President Kennedy swamped Republican George Cabot Lodge in his bid for the remaining two years of the Senate term of retiring Sen. Benjamin A. Smith II, also a Democrat.

The Republican Morton Rogers, Thruston and Rogers, were both victorious. Thruston won a second term as senator from Kentucky over Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt and Rogers C. B. Morton defeated incumbent Democratic Rep. Thomas F. Johnson in Maryland's 1st District. Johnson recently was indicted on charges of conspiracy and conflict of interest arising from a savings and loan mail fraud case.

In Ohio, the Bolton mother and son team of Republicans was united again in the House. Frances P. Bolton was re-elected in the 22nd District and her son, Oliver P. Bolton, a former congressman, returned to the House with a victory over Democratic Rep. Robert E. Cook in the 11th District.

In Colorado Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, a Republican, won another term, but his son William B. Chenoweth, also a Republican, failed in his bid to unseat Rep. Byron G. Rogers, a Democrat.

Romney Wins Governorship Of Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Automaker George Romney—a new face on the political horizon—captured Michigan's governorship today, ending 14 years of Democratic rule in the executive office.

Romney, 55, defeated Gov. John B. Swainson, 37, a legless veteran of World War II, by cutting sharply into the traditionally Democratic stronghold of Wayne (Detroit) County.

By defeating Swainson, who had the all-out backing of the powerful AFL-CIO organization, Romney automatically became a dark-horse contender for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Although Romney has steadfastly denied that he will be an active candidate for the nomination, he also has dodged questions about whether he would accept a draft.

The former president of American Motors chalked up about 40 per cent of the vote in Wayne County, where labor leaders had hoped to hold the Republican total below 34 per cent.

With 5,049 of the state's 5,199 precincts reporting, unofficial totals gave Romney 1,377,262 and Swainson 1,313,216.

The governor conceded defeat in a telegram to Romney shortly before 4 a.m.

Romney's victory appeared to be a one-man show.

In the race for congressman-at-large, former Democratic National Committee member Neil Staebler defeated ex-Rep. Alvin Bentley, who served in Congress for four consecutive terms from 1952 to 1960.

Latest returns indicated voters re-elected all Democratic incumbents on the state administrative board—sometimes called the "governor's cabinet."

These included the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, auditor general and state treasurer.

Oklahoma Top Spot To GOP

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Thousands of Democrats joined Republicans to sweep wheat farmer Henry Bellmon in as Oklahoma's very first GOP governor.

But they gave him a completely Democratic slate of state officers—holders and a legislature with only a sprinkling of his own party.

The 41-year-old ex-Marine rolled up a stunning 72,000 margin over millionaire W. P. Bill Atkinson, polling 328,431 votes to 305,595 in returns from 3,072 of 3,135 precincts.

The switch to Republicans in the governor's race was the only fence-jumping.

Traditionally Republican First District of Congress sent Page Belcher back for another term and the other five Democratic incumbents in the U.S. House won, too.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney won a third term by thumping Republican B. Hayden Crawford.

Pressure Mounts Against Menon In Indian Defense

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Pressure mounted on Prime Minister Nehru today to drop his controversial close associate, V. K. Krishna Menon, from any role in India's defense against the Chinese Communist invaders.

Non-Communist parties plan a mass demonstration against Menon when Parliament meets in emergency session Thursday to consider the military situation. They also will urge that the Communist party be outlawed.

Nehru demoted Menon from defense minister to minister of defense production on Oct. 31 in the political uproar that followed India's reverses in the Himalayan border war. Critics said Menon had failed to prepare adequately to meet the Chinese offensive.

Although Nehru himself took

10 Million Tourists Take In Bullfighting In Spain

By HAROLD K. MILKS MADRID (AP) — Nearly 10 million foreign visitors came to Spain this year, and they saw a lot of bullfighting.

For years the bullfights have been losing out to soccer as Spain's favorite sport. Though soccer is still ahead, this year the trend was back to the bullfighting, a popular sport in Spain for more than 300 years.

Nearly half the foreign tourists saw the bulls this season. They poured an estimated 400 million pesetas, or more than $6.5 million, into the till.

Bullfight performers and impresarios admit that without the tourist patronage bullfighting would be farther behind soccer as a popular drawing card.

The big reason is that bullfights in Spain are expensive.

A Spaniard may pay 30 pesetas—50 cents—for a soccer ticket. For a similar seat at the bullfights he must produce 50-75 pesetas. That is the better part of a day's pay for many Spanish workers.

The season just closed was one of the best, from standpoint of the number of programs and patronage, in the history of bullfights. Possibly it was the worst for the number of major bullfighters who lost decisions to the bulls and ended up in hospitals.

Bullfighting has attracted such tourist support in Spain that in some rings—especially those of Mallorca and San Feliz de Guixols in Gerona—the entire area seems reserved for outsiders.

In recent years soccer outstripped bullfighting by a wide margin as a national sports attraction. Sports experts estimate the total attendance at Spanish soccer matches once reached the figure of 12 million per season.

They figure that in the last three around 9 million admissions. The draw at bullfights, estimated at 4 million per year in 1959, went up to around 6.5 million this year.

As a money-maker, both for producers and participants, bullfights are still tops.

Experts estimate the top rank of Spanish bullfighters had taken-home pay of around $125,000 each this year, with many youngsters doing almost as well. Spain's top football stars make only a fraction of that amount.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Petroleo Mexicanos (Pemex), the government oil company, is in a position to export gasoline for the first time in its history.

The company can now sell between 300,000 and 600,000 barrels of gasoline to foreign countries, Pascual Gutierrez Roldan, Pemex director, said Tuesday.

Mexico has been able to meet its internal gas needs for the past two years.

The Pemex director also said that plans are progressing for the pipeline distribution of natural gas to put an end to the importation of bottled gas.

He said a conversion plant at Poza Rica is near completion and that the first areas to be served by the piped gas would be Chihuahua, Torreón and Puebla.

Dirksen Wins His Third Term

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader, won his third term early today by a stirring post-midnight spurt.

Dirksen defeated Rep. Sidney R. Yates, a seven-term Democratic congressman who had asked for support as a vote of confidence in President Kennedy.

Dirksen, who trailed Yates for seven hours, had stated when he was behind that victory was "in the bag" by about 250,000 votes—a figure that would be below his 10,225 precincts gave Dirksen 1,168,458 and Yates 1,154,321.

GOP Share In Legislature Best Since Reconstruction

By GARTH JONES Associated Press Staff Writer

Texas Republicans will have more state representatives in the 1963 Legislature than they have had since Reconstruction days.

Rough and tumble struggles for Senate and House seats in Tuesday's voting resulted in success for at least seven GOP candidates.

One or two other new Republican lawmakers could be added to the list when final counts of close races are completed.

One current member of the state house, Rep. George Kirkmas of Texas City, lost his reelection bid to a Democrat. Rep.

Five Expected To Plead Guilty

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, will probably hear five guilty pleas in his court Friday.

Gil Jones, district attorney, said that he had brought seven persons charged with felonies before the court Tuesday and that five of the seven had indicated their intention to plead guilty to the charge against them.

Two others were not certain as to their plans.

The court appointed attorneys to represent all but two of the defendants.

Lloyd Pierce, under a triple indictment on charges of fondling, and Alton Vaughn, charged with writing felony worthless checks, informed the court they did not intend to plead guilty.

Pierce told the court he had an attorney. Vaughn had no attorney, so the court appointed a lawyer to represent him.

Other defendants who intend to plead guilty are Mary Ann Johnson, forgery; Victor Jacob Alacosi, forgery; Manuel Piqueno, theft; Manuel Pineda Jr., burglary; John I. Lewis, burglary.

Kenneth Kohler of Amarillo was in a close race to hold his post.

There were no successful challengers to the Democrat nominees in the 12 contested Senate races. All members of the 1963 Senate, including the presiding officer, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, are Democrats.

Republican legislative nominees had the most success in Dallas County. O. H. (Ike) Harris defeated Democrat Fred (Red) Harris. Dick Morgan defeated incumbent Rep. Ben Lewis, a Democrat.

Henry Stollenwerk defeated Democrat Rufus Higginbotham. George Macatee defeated Democrat John Burnett. Maurice Ball defeated Democrat John Field.

Korkmas lost to Democrat Don Brown, Hitchcock. "The Democrats just got out the most voters," he explained in conceding.

Kohler saw the lead taken in his race by Democrat Walter Knapp but the contest was still undecided.

Midland Republican William S. Davis won his House seat by defeating Democrat Harry Lawson in a close race.

In Odessa, Democrat George Cook held a 465 vote margin over Republican Elwood Weylandt with 731 absentee votes remaining to be counted, probably Wednesday.

A race between San Antonio Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry and Republican Earl Wentworth started out nip and tuck but Berry ended with a safe margin.

In the expected closest Senate race, former State Representative

Jim Bates of Edinburg defeated McAllen Mayor Robert Barnes, a Republican.

DEAR ABBY

Call Family Conference

DEAR ABBY: My mother recently passed away and I am left to care for the family house and my 80-year-old father. I am the youngest of three daughters (I am 30; and the two older ones are married). I cannot go out and enjoy an evening because neither of my sisters will relieve me and my father refuses to have a "stranger" stay home with him. I asked our doctor and he said it was my duty to care for my father as long as he lives and, when he dies, the house will belong to me. Abby, I don't want this house. What good will it be with all the unhappy memories? Our family lawyer said the same thing. I hold an office job and was happy then, but I am miserable now. What should I do? PRISONER: Tell your sisters (and the family doctor and lawyer) that you do not intend to wait until your father dies to start living. If neither of your sisters will sit with your father one or two nights a week, ask the family doctor and lawyer if they would like to. Expect a negative answer and line up a "sitter." If you remain a prisoner, you have no one to blame but yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I have never heard of a Western Wedding where the bride and groom were hitched on horseback. But I did know of a wedding where the groom had a gun in his back. BEST MAN

DEAR ABBY: The woman signed "NEAT AND CLEAN"—who hesitated to marry a man who did manual labor because he might come home in greasy overalls—can have my husband. He is always neat and clean. He is handsome, seldom sober, has no character and he treats me like a slob. He works in an office. I have never seen him with a speck of dirt on him. After work (I work out, too) I do the housework and the gardening. My husband is so neat and clean that if I ask him to carry out the garbage he goes pale. I'm not kidding. I'd welcome the sight of dirty, greasy overalls on my husband. At least it would mean he has been doing something to justify his existence. I would be proud to say that my husband was a "common laborer." It would make him sound like a real man. NOT AFRAID OF DIRT

CONFIDENTIAL TO RAMONA: When a woman says, "I don't want to mention any names"—it isn't necessary.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Bit Of Land Border Pain

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A little bit of land along the Rio Grande is giving an oversized headache to the United States and Mexico. Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos discussed the piece of land a few months ago with President Kennedy. The several hundred acres of territory is American—by virtue of a capricious turn the Rio Grande took nearly 60 years ago. Mexico wants the area back. It was reported in Washington recently that a settlement in the long standing boundary dispute is a distinct possibility before the end of the year.

The dispute had its origins back when the United States was occupying itself with wrapping up the Civil War. At the time, the luckless Maximilian was seeking the slippery crown of Mexico on his head.

WANDERING RIVER

In 1864, the Rio Grande escaped its banks and roamed freely in Mexico. Then the river returned to its bed. But it didn't return to the exact spot it left. It re-entered a little below its exit and left a small bit of land on the United States side which shortly before had been in Mexico.

This was in a part of the country where land was almost worthless.

"It was just weeds and brush and a few trees. There wasn't a house there," says Cleofas Caleros, noted El Paso historian and an expert on this land segment. The area eventually gained a name: El Chamizal—from the Spanish word for brush.

El Paso expanded and eventually people built houses there.

Now a very vocal but unorganized group in Mexico clamors for its return to Mexico. Members of the group consider El Chamizal a point of national honor.

KEEP OUR WORD?

They put it this way: Will the United States keep its word and return El Chamizal?

To U.S. authorities, the land is still another delicate point in relations with Latin neighbors.

The two presidents discussed the matter when Kennedy visited Mexico last spring. On Sept. 1, Lopez Mateos said in his state of the nation speech that "nothing would contribute more to relations between the United States and Mexico than a settlement of the El Chamizal problem."

The presidents turned the touchy problem over to administrative aides.

Considering that the countries are on good terms and individuals on the border get along well, several solutions are offered frequently by citizens on both sides of the Rio Grande.

One would be to turn the area over to Mexico. Another would give Mexico land somewhere else of about the same size. A third is purchase of the land from Mexico.

NO TRADES

Lopez Mateos, speaking through Foreign Minister Manuel Tello, said last summer that purchase or exchange of land would be unsatisfactory.

"The solution is that the territory which belongs to Ciudad Juarez (across the river from El Paso, Tex.) be returned to it," said Tello.

Mexico was awarded the land by arbitration in 1911. However, the U.S. member of the arbitration board dissented, saying no one could determine the location of the original bed of the river. There the matter rested.

Even now, no one can determine the original size of El Chamizal. The old river bed is built up with homes, businesses and streets. Estimates of the size range from 400 to 650 acres.

Once outright purchase or exchange are rejected, authorities face an extremely touchy problem involving 22,000 people by Caleros' estimate.

NOT WORRIED

That is the population of El Chamizal. And although some day the issue may affect them very personally, the residents appear unworried.

Man on the street talks indicate they have confidence that the diplomats of both countries will not permit them to suffer personal loss.

The diplomats have been active. The U.S. ambassador to Mexico, Thomas C. Mann, has conferred with El Paso leaders, congressmen and state authorities.

The International Boundary Commission revealed at least a part of a possible solution but stresses that it is not yet a commitment.

This possible solution calls for Mexico to cede 200 to 250 acres of Cordova Island to the United States. Cordova, which is not an island, belongs to Mexico and is on the U.S. side of the Rio Grande. It adjoins El Chamizal.

NET GAIN

Mexico, in turn, would acquire part of El Chamizal. Mexico's net gain would be 437 acres.

The plan would leave two El Paso school buildings inside the United States but a newly built school would go to Mexico.

Peyton Packing Co. and the large union stockyards would be on the Mexican side.

Talk is that the deal would cost the United States from $30 million to $35 million.

Most of El Chamizal's residents are of Mexican descent but proud of their U.S. citizenship.

Should their homes fall on the Mexican side of whatever line eventually may be drawn they cannot retain their property and commute to jobs in the United States as do Mexican citizens.

This is because Mexican law prevents foreigners from owning land, even homesites, within 25 miles of the border.

SOME PURCHASES

Thornton Hardie, an attorney who was in a July conference with Ambassador Mann, says the plan calls for purchase of some properties by the United States from the owners. The United States would then cede the property to Mexico.

Calleros says it is certain that U.S. citizens will not lose their citizenship.

Mexican authorities have said El Chamizal could become a part of Mexico within three years.

Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., who represents the district speculates that any change will be in the form of a treaty, which Congress must approve.

Teen-Age Jury Helps Reduce Youth Violations

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The number of teen-age violators appearing in Municipal Court has been reduced by more than 50 per cent since last summer, Judge John E. Santora Jr. reported.

"I attribute that solely to the teen-age jury," Santora told a civic club Monday.

He has a panel of six youths who serve as an advisory jury to him in cases involving teen-agers. They are members of the Youth Council on Civic Affairs.

Santora said youths appearing before his court dislike the idea of being tried by teen-agers. He said one youthful offender objected, saying he could fool the judge but not the teen-agers.

Right Kind Of Weather

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas farmers got just the kind of weather they needed last week. Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said the clear, open weather, even though chilly, was needed to dry fields and permit harvesting.

Rains were general but ranged from light to heavy. Once again they failed to reach into the drier sections of South Texas. Elsewhere moisture is adequate. The Panhandle reported adequate moisture, with wheat planting complete and some fields now furnishing grazing. Contract calves moved and cattle and range conditions were good. Grain sorghum and cotton harvests are continuing.

HIT AND MISS — South Plains farmers carried on a hit and miss type of harvesting. Rains over the weekend again delayed outdoor work. The cotton harvest dropped far behind last year's schedule. Spotted sorghum harvesting went on, and at least 75 per cent of the crop is in. Livestock conditions are good.

Moisture was adequate in the Rolling Plains where grain planting is near completion and some early planted fields are being grazed. The cotton harvest is progressing. Ranges and livestock are in good condition. Showers to heavy rains in North Central Texas delayed the completion of cotton harvest and grain planting. Scattered cotton is yet to be harvested. Grains are making good progress but some army worm damage is reported. Livestock and ranges were good.

NEAR COMPLETION — Moisture is adequate in Northeast Texas. The cotton and grain harvests are near completion. Oats are making good growth. The sweet potato harvest is strong. Insects are damaging green leafy vegetables; pastures are average; livestock are in good condition; screwworms are increasing.

The cotton harvest was slowed in far West Texas by damp weather but 15 to 40 per cent has been harvested. Livestock conditions range from fair to good. Moisture should improve ranges. Screwworms are increasing. Scattered light rains in Central West Texas delayed the cotton harvest. Ranges and small grain are improving. Livestock are in good condition. Soil moisture in Central Texas is generally adequate. The cotton harvest in the east is complete and in the scrapping stage in the west. Harvesting of a fair peanut crop is past the halfway mark. Early oats are furnishing light grazing. Some planting is still being done. Army worms are causing some damage. Pastures are improving and livestock are normal.

SOIL MOISTURE — Weekend rains returned the soil moisture in East Texas to adequate but pastures and ranges still are average or below. Vegetables are being planted. Cattle are in good condition but 175 cases of screwworms were reported for the week. Rains were general over South Central Texas but varied in size. Moisture is now generally favorable for flax planting and will help revive grasses damaged by army worms. Livestock are in good condition and screwworm cases are holding about steady.

Moisture is needed in the upper Gulf Coast area where some hay and rice are still being harvested. Flax, oats and Gulf ryegrass are being planted. Soil testing is being done and fall plowing moved ahead. Fall gardens are good. The pecan crop is short. Pastures are good but moisture would help. Livestock are in good condition. The entire South Texas District needs a good general rain. Army worms are a problem in oats. Some vegetables are being harvested.

Thunderstorms Roam Texas — Widely scattered thunderstorms raged across East Texas early Wednesday as a mild Pacific cool front pushed eastward across the state. One shower area was along the upper Gulf coast while several lines of thunderstorms were reported along the Red River Valley. Ground fog was reported at several Central Texas points. Skies were generally clear west of a line running from Childress through Abilene to Del Rio. Elsewhere skies were generally partly cloudy to cloudy. Early morning readings ranged from 34 degrees at Dalhart to 66 at Galveston where a light rain was falling. Scattered showers fell at a number of points across the state Tuesday but all were light and kept few Texans from voting in the general election.

The forecasts called for considerable cloudiness and a few showers Wednesday in the eastern section of the state. Skies are expected to be clear to partly cloudy in the western part of Texas with cooler temperatures in the northwest sector. Highway Bids Will Be Taken

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Highway Department said today bids will be taken Nov. 13 and 14 on $19.5 million of Texas highway projects. The 259 miles of work, by county include: Andrews, Ector and Midland; Farm 1708 and U.S. from Farm 17 to U.S. 80, 30.6 miles, grading, structures and surfacing. Nolan; Interstate 36, from one mile southwest of Roscoe 11 miles to 3 miles east of Sweetwater, grading, structures and safety lighting.

Texas Voters Approve Connally For Governor

Mexico. Foreman received his degree in civil engineering from New Mexico A&M. Now an officer in four oil industry related firms, he has been active in Odessa civic affairs. He is married and has two small children.

Connally watched returns from his Austin headquarters. He and Mrs. Connally flew to Austin after casting their ballots in their Fort Worth home precinct. They were first in line when the polls opened. Connally, who whipped five other Democrats in the May primary and then won a runoff race, took a commanding lead in the returns early in the evening.

LONG CHEER

A long and loud cheer went up in Connally's headquarters when word came that Robert Johnson of the Texas Election Bureau had announced Connally was apparent winner.

Connally, smiling and talking to many of his supporters that jammed into his headquarters, made his way to the front as the crowd broke into "The Eyes of Texas."

After making his victory statement, Connally told newsmen he planned to try to clean up details of the long campaign and "get a good night's sleep for a change and then a good rest."

Cox and his wife voted in their Breckenridge precinct. They watched returns from their Breckenridge home.

"We have worked too hard and too long," Cox told newsmen in the garage of his home which had been converted into a temporary press headquarters. "There will be no concession until I know from which counties the votes came."

One of Cox' major charges throughout the campaign was that Connally, because of his close personal ties with President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon Johnson, would not be "independent of Washington control."

Connally replied to the charges with: "I am no man's lackey."

In a victory statement, Connally said:

"The long and rewarding campaign is now over. The people have made their choice and I am humble and proud of the confidence they have placed in me. I am keenly aware of the magnitude of this sacred trust. To be chief executive of this great state of 10 million citizens is a heavy and sobering responsibility.

"I pledge to bring to the governor's office all of the capacity, energy and dedication I can summon to measure up to the task. Both Nellie (Mrs. Connally) and I are deeply grateful to our many friends throughout the state who have worked so long and hard in my behalf and made this victory possible.

"We will never forget it.

"I have every confidence that our people will now unite with our purpose, one objective: to build a greater Texas future in the proud tradition of our glorious past."

LOOK AT FUTURE

During the campaign and looking into the future, Connally said: "Do you realize that we will have a completely new team for the state—a new governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and speaker of the house? Think of what a golden opportunity it will be to come to grips with the many problems we are facing.

"I don't think we can solve all the problems but we can make many strides toward the future."

All through the campaign he stressed the importance of a close link between government and the people.

"People want to feel that government is not run for their particular benefit, but at the same time they want to feel that it is not run for anyone else's particular benefit.

"I won't be a loady to anyone at any time. It is part of my responsibility to tell the people what is happening in state government."

Connally aides said congratulatory messages poured into the headquarters.

Former Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally, Democratic candidate for Governor of Texas, and his wife Idanell, cast their votes shortly after the polls opened in Fort Worth.

Negroes Score Political Gains

By The Associated Press

Negroes scored major political gains in Tuesday's elections across the nation. Two were elected to statewide offices for the first time in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

In New York State, however, where a Negro was nominated by a major party for a statewide office for the first time, he went down to defeat along with most of his running mates.

Elsewhere, Georgia elected its first Negro state senator in 92 years.

In Pennsylvania, 10 Negroes—nine from Philadelphia and one from Pittsburgh, and all Democrats—were re-elected to the state House of Representatives. One Philadelphia Negro, Democrat Robert N. C. Nix, was re-elected congressman.

Negroes didn't fare well in Ohio, Colorado and Oklahoma. A Negro ran for a state office in each of those states and each lost.

Edward W. Brooke, who says, "Hardly anyone ever mentions I'm a Negro anymore. I think it's progress," was elected attorney general of Massachusetts. His opponent, white, was Democrat Frances E. Kelly, former lieutenant governor and onetime attorney general. He was the only Republican elected this time in an otherwise Democratic sweep of statewide offices.

Both major parties in Connecticut nominated Negroes for state treasurer, and so one was sure to win. He was Democrat Gerald A. Lamb, 37, a dental technician and a three-term Waterbury city alderman, who beat Republican William D. Graham, a successful Hartford lawyer.

Edward R. Dudley, a Negro running for attorney general on the Democratic ticket, defeated Barry L. Zerk, a white Republican incumbent. Dudley is borough president of Manhattan, one of five boroughs of New York City. Within Manhattan, Negro Congressman Adam Clayton Powell Jr., a Democrat, won re-election in his Harlem district.

In Fulton County, Ga., Leroy R. Johnson, Negro Democrat, defeated T. M. Alexander, Negro Republican, to become the first Negro state senator in Georgia since the days of Reconstruction.

Another Negro candidate for state senator from Fulton County, Atlanta, Republican Rod Harris, lost to Democrat Oby T. Brewer Sr., white.

Negro Republican Leotis Hardaway, lost in his try to oust four-term Democratic U.S. Rep. Charles A. Vanik in Ohio's 21st District, the Cleveland area.

Also beaten was Negro Robert Rhone, who ran 19th in a race for state representatives in Denver, Colo. The top 17 were elected.

Martin County For Connally

STANTON (SC)—Martin County went to John Connally, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, in Tuesday's balloting. In his race with Jack Cox, GOP aspirant, Connally got 60 per cent of the ballots cast for governor.

Rep. George Mahon, Democratic incumbent, carried 76 per cent of the vote for congress over Dennis Taylor, Republican nominee.

In the amendments, Martin County voters approved five of 14. This is the way the vote stacked up:

Governor, Connally 476, Cox 318; lieutenant governor, Preston Smith, 628, Bill Hayes 219; attorney general, Waggoner Carr, 644, T. E. Kennerly 197; congressman at large, Joe Pool 513, Des Barry 332; railroad commissioner, Ben Ramsey 639, Bernard Hanson 193; comptroller, Robert Calvert 613, Mrs. Hargrove Smith 164; land commissioner, Jerry Sadler 652, Albert Fay 187; agriculture commissioner, John C. White 627, Harry Hubbard 208; congressman 19th district, George Mahon 638, Dennis Taylor 194; state senate, Doc Blanchard 642, J. Christy 197.

The amendment voting went like this: No. 1, 249-395; No. 2, 437-218; No. 3, 261-351; No. 4, 337-279; No. 5, 216-427; No. 6, 236-402; No. 7, 385-233; No. 8, 342-282; No. 9, 235-373; No. 10, 225-388; No. 11, 318-295; No. 12, 278-338; No. 13, 236-350; No. 14, 168-40.

Both Parties Gain In U. S. Elections

riding issues. For example, they elected a Republican governor and a Democratic senator in Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania. In Iowa, they chose a Democratic governor and a GOP senator. They picked a Republican governor in Michigan but elected a Democratic lieutenant governor and a Democrat to Congress in an at-large race.

GREATER SUPPORT

The cross currents of voting seemed likely to give President Kennedy greater Senate support of his programs. But the possible dead heat between the two parties—or a small Republican gain—did not promise to ease his problems with a House that balked at many of his major proposals.

In Michigan, Romney, the former compact car maker, cut into the traditional Democratic stronghold on industrial Wayne County to knock Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson out of office.

In Ohio, State Auditor James A. Rhodes ploughed under Democratic Gov. Michael V. Di-Salle. Robert Taft Jr. brought a famous name back to politics by winning a Congressman-at-large race. Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche, often a critic of Kennedy's legislative proposals won re-election easily.

ANOTHER GIANT

Multimillionaire Scranton made himself a man to be reckoned with in the Republican party by winning the governorship in a battle with Democrat Richardson Dilworth. But Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark weathered the GOP storm to win re-election.

In Massachusetts, Kennedy's big vote helped Democrat Endicott Peabody defeat GOP Gov. John A. Volpe.

In Connecticut, Abraham A. Ribicoff, President Kennedy's former secretary of welfare, rolled by to a narrow victory in a contest with GOP Rep. Horace Seelye.

Close Race In Dawson

LAMESA (SC)—John Connally, Democrat, carried Dawson County in Tuesday's election, but barely. He received 1,503 votes to 1,408 of his rival, Jack Cox, Republican. Jack Carswell, Constitution candidate, got 11.

Another close race developed in the 6th legislative district contest where Randy Pendleton, Andrews Democrat, carried the county 1,780 to 1,386 for Gene Dean, his GOP opponent from Lamesa.

Rep. George Mahon polled 2,118 votes to 1,971 for Denis Taylor, Republican aspirant for Congress. Other contested races showed: lieutenant governor, Preston Smith 2,204, Bill Hayes 958; attorney general, Waggoner Carr 2,368, T. E. Kennerly 893; congressman-at-large, Joe Pool 1,783, Des Barry 1,277; railroad commissioner, Ben Ramsey 2,232, B. M. Hanson 906; comptroller, Robert Calvert 2,104, Mrs. H. Smith 794, Joseph Summers 11; land commissioner, Jerry Sadler 2,262, Albert Fay 891; agriculture commissioner, John White 2,200, Harry Hubbard 942; senator 26th district, Doc Blanchard, Lubbock, 2,206, J. Christi, Brownfield, 960.

Amendment voting stacked up like this: No. 1, 628-1,061; No. 2, 970-759; No. 3, 913-1,241; No. 4, 1,111-1,070; No. 5, 746-1,384; No. 6, 712-1,528; No. 7, 1,458-853; No. 8, 1,179-1,303; No. 9, 744-1,391; No. 10, 821-1,366; No. 11, 1,172-999; No. 12, 680-1,191; No. 13, 933-1,210; No. 14, 682-1,517.

In all, Dawson County polled 3,207 votes, or 63 per cent of the potential. This was an off-year record.

CUBAN CRISIS

Nowhere in the topsy-turvy voting results was there any clear indication that the Cuban crisis had affected the outcome.

There was conflicting evidence as to whether President Kennedy's personal popularity rubbed off on Democratic candidates. But there was no doubt that he had failed in his over-all objective of replacing enough congressional Republicans with Democrats of his own stripe so that his programs could be accelerated.

The Republican march to the statehouses in the big industrial states ran smack into a Democratic resurgence in the Midwest, once regarded as a Republican heartland.

In Nebraska, Democratic Gov. Frank B. Morrison defeated Republican Fred A. Seaton, who served as secretary of the interior in the Cabinet of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In Minnesota, Democrat Earl F. Rolvaag held a lead over Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen.

Democrats knocked off veteran GOP Sen. Alexander Wiley in Wisconsin. They elected a governor in Iowa.

CAPEHART OUT

They upset GOP Sen. Homer E. Capehart in Indiana. Their candidate led in the battle for a Republican Senate seat in South Dakota. A Democrat unseated Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, keynoter of the 1960 Republican National Convention.

R Rockefeller propelled himself into the front rank of contenders for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination by winning a second term. But his margin over his Democratic opponent, Robert M. Morgenthau, seemed likely to be less than the 573,000 he won by which Rockefeller won in 1958.

GOP Sen. Jacob K. Javits ran ahead of Rockefeller on the basis of a strong showing in New York City.

In Texas, former Secretary of the Navy John Connally won the governorship, rebutting the bid of Republican Jack Cox.

LOTS OF SURPRISES

The election was replete with surprises. Oklahoma elected Henry Ballmon as its first Republican governor. Democratic Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney was pressed hard by his GOP opponent, B. Hayden Crawford, but won re-election.

New Hampshire, which hasn't had a Democratic governor in 40 years, elected Democrat John W. King as its new chief executive.

GOP Gov. Wesley Powell, defeated in the primary by John Pillsbury, supported King in the general election. King's billboards and literature lacked any identification of him as a Democrat. Republicans also lost one of New Hampshire's two Senate seats.

This was part of a Democratic swing in traditionally Republican New England which carried Philip H. Hoff to the governorship of Vermont. It was the first time in 100 years that a Democrat was elected to that office.

KENNEDY EFFECT

There were conflicting signs on the effectiveness of Kennedy's campaigning.

One of the first incumbent senators to win re-election was Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman. Kennedy campaigned twice in Kentucky, plugging for Democratic candidates.

Conservative Republican M.G. Snyder, a lawyer who embraced support from the John Birch Society, knocked off one of the President's liberal Democratic supporters, Rep. Frank W. Burke in Louisiana.

In Colorado, Kennedy's backing didn't prevent the defeat of Gov. Stephen L.R. McNichols and

YATES LOSES

Kennedy did his bit for Rep. Sidney R. Yates who lost to Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen in Illinois. The President also plugged for State Sen. Richard Richards, defeated by deputy GOP Senate Leader Thomas H. Kuchel in California.

On the other hand, the President campaigned for Birch E. Bayh Jr. in Indiana and boosted Democratic Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson who beat Wiley in the Wisconsin Senate race.

In South Dakota, George McGovern, Kennedy's former food for peace administrator, held a lead over appointive GOP Sen. Joe H. Bottum.

Eisenhower had an in-and-out record of results of his campaigning for Republican candidates.

In Maryland, where Eisenhower campaigned, Democrat Daniel Brewster won a Republican Senate seat and Democratic Gov. J. Millard Tawes was re-elected. The former president didn't help the Republicans much in Massachusetts.

GOOD RESULTS

But he could point to New York and Pennsylvania as states in which he had campaigned that gave the Republicans some satisfactory results.

With California's big total yet to be heard from, results in the House races were spotty. Republicans made a slight dent in the South by gaining seats in Texas and two each in Ohio and Utah.

Democrats won Republican seats in Connecticut, Minnesota and Ohio.

In Alabama, Democratic Sen. Lister Hill held a slim lead in a fierce battle with Republican James D. Martin. The closeness of this race indicated a considerable protest vote against the Kennedy administration's action in forcing the admission of a Negro to the University of Mississippi.

In Iowa, Harold E. Hughes, a Democrat, defeated Republican incumbent Gov. Norman A. Erbe. In New Mexico, Democrat Jack M. Campbell won over Republican Gov. Edwin L. Mechem. In Hawaii, Democrat John A. Burns defeated Republican Gov. William F. Quinn.

Howard Follows State Trend On Amendments

Howard County voters endorsed all but three of the 14 constitutional amendments listed on the general election ballot Tuesday.

Local voters went along with the state trend in defeating the controversial trial de novo amendment, 1,613-2,852. At the state level, incomplete returns had this amendment going down almost two-to-one.

Amendment No. 10, concerning state employees as consultants, also lost here 2,227-2,241. The retirement benefits amendment lost by a 2,167-2,385 margin.

In many cases, the other amendment proposals held a narrow edge in getting through. They stacked up this way:

No. 1-Workmen's compensation, 2,345-2,218; No. 2-welfare increase, 3,213-1,450; No. 3-hospital districts, 2,628-1,854; No. 4-water storage, 2,914-1,579; No. 5-hospital districts authority, 2,323-2,147; No. 7-emergency succession, 3,228-1,283; No. 8-disability payments, 2,696-1,786; No. 9-home for the aged, 2,374-2,085; No. 11-veteran land resale, 2,746-1,708; No. 12-colonial zoning, 2,320-1,917; No. 13-Dallas school districts, 2,178-2,165.

GOP Stronger Than Expected In Glasscock

GARDEN CITY (SC)— Voters gave Republicans a larger than expected margin in voting here in the election Tuesday which saw Democratic Congressman J. T. Rutherford swept out as representative of the 16th District by Ed Foreman, Republican candidate.

Foreman picked up 31 votes over Rutherford here as he tallied 166 votes compared to 135 for Rutherford.

In the gubernatorial election, Jack Cox, Republican, had an even larger margin as he garnered 163 votes to 123 for Democrat John Connally. Jack Carswell, Constitution party, got three votes.

Des Barry, Republican candidate for congressman at large, had 160 votes to 139 for Joe Pool.

In other contested races, breakdown on the 309 votes cast were: lieutenant governor, Preston Smith 168, Bill Hayes 129; attorney general, Waggoner Carr 184, T. E. Kennerly 117; railroad commissioner, Ben Ramsey 196, Bernard Hanson 101; comptroller, Robert S. Calvert 190, Mrs. Hargrove Smith 94, and Joseph M. Rummer one; commissioner of land office, Jerry Sadler 203, Albert Fay 93; and commissioner of agriculture, John C. White 174, Harry Hubbard 120.

This was the voting on amendments: No. 1, 86-145; No. 2, 143-97; No. 3, 105-121; No. 4, 96-133; No. 5, 75-148; No. 6, 84-151; No. 7, 125-106; No. 8, 117-115; No. 9, 70-149; No. 10, 67-161; No. 11, 115-116; No. 12, 87-129; No. 13, 78-141; and No. 14, 56-165.

Nixon Loses California Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Late returns swept Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown to re-election today over the make-or-break effort by Richard M. Nixon to revive his political career.

Nixon refused to concede. But, with Brown's margin pointing toward 200,000 to 300,000 votes, only an abrupt shift in the trend could upset the outcome.

Results from 22,539 of 31,820 precincts: Brown, 1,750,266; Nixon 1,521,028.

The 57-year-old governor emerged as something of a giant-killer by removing the 1960 national Republican standard bearer from the roll-call of presidential probabilities.

Bubbling with pride, Brown claimed victory at 11 a.m. and said it a tribute to President Kennedy, who warmly supported his candidacy.

Nixon, winner of California's 1960 presidential cliffhanger, retired to his Los Angeles hotel suite about 2:30 a.m. still hoping for a last-minute surge to put him over.

Northern California, anchored by a 70,450 majority in San Francisco, his home town, and stayed steadily in front in Los Angeles, where Nixon was first elected to Congress in 1946.

California's bellwether county, little Modoc in the extreme northeastern pocket of the state, backed Brown 1,431 to 1,021 in its 22 precincts. Modoc has voted for the winner in every election since 1928.

The governor, who matched his record in office against Nixon's claim that he could do better, jumped ahead at the start of the state's plodding count. He never fell behind.

Nixon's managers, however, still hoped for a replay of the state's 1960 presidential race. John F. Kennedy moved ahead by as much as 100,000 votes. But he lost California to Nixon by 35,000 on belated absentee ballots. This time most counties counted the 168,000 absentees along with regular ballots.

Latest returns from 16,181 of 31,820 precincts: Brown 1,069,646, Nixon 888,856.

An estimated 5 1/2 million of the 7 1/2 million registered voters spilled out in near-record numbers to decide the most bitter—and what both sides called the dirtiest—campaign in the turbulent history of California politics.

After receiving his early education at San Antonio and his small hometown of Floresville, population about 2,200, he went to the University of Texas where he quickly became a major political figure on the campus.

Later he left the politics of the campus and entered the real thing as secretary to then U.S. Rep. Lyndon Johnson, where he stayed until December, 1941, when he entered the Navy.

After the war he organized an Austin radio station and later returned to Johnson's employ and still later went to Austin to practice law.

He received some of his understanding of finance on the multi-million-dollar level through association with the late Sid Richardson of Fort Worth, one of the world's wealthiest men and co-administrator of Richardson's estate.

Robot Goes To Sea

Workers stand by as Shell Oil Company's underwater robot is lowered into the ocean at Port Hueneque, Calif. It was the first public showing for the mechanical roustabout, a remote-controlled quarter-million-dollar gadget that swims, sees, hears and has an arm to turn valves and weld tools. The robot is designed to help in drilling and maintenance of oil fields hundreds of feet below the surface of the ocean. The robot is equipped with a television camera so its shipboard operator can see what it is doing.

GOP Nails 4 Governorships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have nailed down the governorships of four big industrial states—New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio—a powerful vote arsenal for the 1964 presidential elections.

But the top prize in California may have eluded them as Richard M. Nixon lagged behind Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in the most dramatic of the state races.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller continued his charge toward the GOP presidential nomination two years from now by sweeping to re-election in New York.

In Pennsylvania, William W. Scranton also pushed into the ranks of possible presidential contenders by drubbing Democrat Richardson Dilworth.

Republican George Romney, political rookie and former compact car maker, sideswiped Democrat

DiSalle Loses Ohio Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor James A. Rhodes mounted a Republican tide that swamped Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and other Democratic state candidates in Ohio's election.

The GOP also elected Robert Taft Jr. as congressman-at-large to help strengthen its top-heavy Ohio congressional delegation but U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, independent-minded Democrat, bucked the trend to win re-election.

An attempt to liberalize Ohio's constitutional ban on most Sunday business failed.

That was the story of Tuesday's heavy voting in the wake of one of the toughest gubernatorial campaigns in recent years.

Rhodes, 53, promised in a victory statement to push his programs for revenue bond-financed industrial development, educational expansion and help for the needy aged and delinquent young.

DiSalle, 54, said he felt as though a weight had been lifted from his shoulders. He pitched his campaign on welfare, educational and mental health programs requiring tax increases atop a big boost pushed through early in his four-year term.

The victory of Taft, majority floor leader in the Ohio House, and upsets in congressional districts gave Republicans an 18-6 margin over Democrats in the Ohio delegation. The present margin is 16-7.

Ohio gained a 24th congressman through the last federal census but his election was on a statewide basis for lack of a district to run in.

President's Brother Wins Smashing Election Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, the President's kid brother, has scored a smashing triumph over Republican George C. Lodge to win his brother's old seat in the U.S. Senate.

With 1,226 of 2,011 precincts tallied, the count was: Kennedy 609,297; Lodge 359,779.

The President was quoted as being "extremely pleased."

The Kennedy landslide Tuesday promised to surpass the 511,000-vote margin rolled up by his brother two years ago when he won the presidency.

The 30-year-old baby of the politically potent Kennedy clan rolled up such a margin in his first race for public office that he carried fellow Democrat Endicott Peabody to an upset victory for governor over the incumbent Gov. John A. Volpe.

With 1,226 of 2,011 precincts tallied, the count was: Peabody 534,928; Volpe 451,083.

The only Republican candidate for a statewide office to survive the Kennedy Democratic sweep was Attorney General-elect Edward W. Brooke, who will be the first Negro to hold a major office in Massachusetts.

For the Kennedy family, it was a victory in round 4 of a 46-year-old feud at the polls with the Lodge family.

President Kennedy defeated George's father, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., for the same Senate seat in 1952. He beat him again in 1960 when the elder Lodge ran for vice president against a Democratic ticket led by Kennedy.

Back in 1916, the original Henry Cabot Lodge, George's great-grandfather, turned back a Senate bid by John F. Fitzgerald, grandfather of the Kennedys.

Either a Lodge or a Kennedy has held the same seat in the Senate for 45 of the last 69 years.

The Kennedy landslide was apparent less than an hour after the last polls closed at 8 p.m. but Lodge refused to concede until 2 a.m. Kennedy withheld a victory statement until after the Lodge concession.

Kennedy told a roaring victory reception in the main ballroom of the Hotel Bradford that his President-brother was "extremely pleased" by the results of the election.

He said he talked by telephone to the President and his other brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in Hyannis Port.

The senator-elect was accompanied to the reception by his blonde and beaming wife, Joan. They had spent the evening in their Boston home watching the returns on television.

N. Mexico Puts Demo Into Office

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Democrat Jack M. Campbell wrested the governorship away from four-time Republican Gov. Edwin L. Mechem Tuesday and immediately repeated his promise of a program for progress in New Mexico.

Campbell's decisive victory for the most part followed the prediction of Democratic party leaders and other observers of the New Mexico political scene.

Early today, with 935 of New Mexico's 1,055 voting divisions reporting, Campbell was leading Mechem by 123,995 to 110,426.

U.S. Rep. Joseph M. Montoya encountered stiff opposition from Dr. Jack Redman, Albuquerque Republican. Montoya won the race without question, but trailed his Democratic colleague, U.S. Rep. Thomas G. Morris, by more than 17,000 votes.

The other Democratic state candidates won fairly effortless victories.

Preview Day At Wayland Baptist

PLAINVIEW — A glimmer of that collegiate feeling is in store for the hundreds of high school juniors and seniors from Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico who plan to attend the annual College Preview Day at Wayland Baptist College on Nov. 17.

A Devotional For The Day

Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. (I John 4:11.)
PRAYER: O Lord, we are so grateful for Thy love poured into our hearts by the Holy Spirit. Help us as we try to give warmth to others in need of it. In Christ's name. Amen.

Tribute To A Splendid Record

With the death of Raymond River, Big Spring has lost an indefatigable civic worker. In his less than a decade of residence here, he aggressively supported a number of efforts which have made this a better community.
One of the things which claimed his deep concern was the United Fund. He served as a worker in the ranks, as a division leader, as campaign chairman and then as president. Having achieved this sort of record and having retired from business, he might well have rested on his oars.
Actually, the current campaign found him actively at work. He not only did his share, but he was helping to press others to complete their assignments.

Another thankless chore he performed was to take lists of delinquents each spring and summer and go collecting for the United Fund. With him it was a year-round business. By reason of this fidelity, the participating agencies have had more financial support and have been able to do better jobs.
It would be a great tribute if those engaged in the campaign would try to pick up some of the load laid down by Raymond River, and in gratitude for his service make sure that the campaign quickly succeeds.

Vox Populi

As this is written we have no way of knowing the outcome of the election; we know only that reports indicate a heavier early turnout than anticipated.
This is encouraging, and it is important. Of course what happens in elections is paramount, but the degree of participation is also a gauge of Democratic exercise.
There are two lessons that we can hold up to the world in our plectrics. One is that candidates and issues may and do have opposition, sometimes vigorous, sometimes overwhelming. We are not afraid to hazard an expression of authority from the people.

The other is that free people regard the right of franchise as a sacred one; that they not only can vote as they please, but that they do vote.
Perhaps we need to make more capital out of the first lesson, which is indisputable and to which totalitarian systems really have no answer. Although we are making progress, there is no doubt that we need to do a lot better job in getting citizen participation in order to hold up this record lest other nations ask: "If the right to vote is so important, why don't people use the right?"

U.N. Violates 'Rule Of Law'

WASHINGTON — Much is often said about upholding the "rule of law" in the world, but 60 governments have just violated it by their vote in a special committee of the United Nations General Assembly. These governments have deliberately interfered in the internal affairs of a member country. This is an action specifically prohibited by the provisions of the United Nations charter.

Fortunately, the United States and Great Britain — and many other governments which have respect for the rule of law — did not go along with the resolution sponsored by 33 African and Asian countries that called for the expulsion of the Union of South Africa from the United Nations because of its policy of "apartheid." Yet this policy happens to be the law of the land in South Africa.

MANY PEOPLE in Asia, Europe and this hemisphere do not know that the "colored" people in South Africa live in the same cities and towns with the whites, are not segregated by residence and enjoy virtually all the privileges that Negroes do in the United States. It's the Bantu tribes, however, that are required by law to be kept apart. They live and work in a separate domain, and this is what is really meant by "apartheid."

THE WHITES in South Africa have no fear of the "colored" in Capetown or elsewhere, but they do fear that the Bantu — who are half-civilized — may some day take over South Africa by force. Accordingly, plans are under way by the South African government to establish the Bantu in a certain province by themselves and give them self-rule and eventually independence.

But the Afro-Asian bloc and some other members in the United Nations have undertaken to interfere with the operations of the government of South Africa and have in their resolution — by a vote 60 to 16, with 21 abstentions — not only recommended South Africa's expulsion from the U.N. but a boycott of all its exports and a refusal of landing privileges in their countries to South African planes.

THE UNITED NATIONS charter, however, says under Article 2:

"Nothing contained in the present charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state or shall require the members to submit such matters to settlement under the present charter."
Also, Article 6 says:

"A MEMBER OF the United Nations which has persistently violated the principles contained in the present charter may be expelled from the organization by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council."
South Africa hasn't violated the charter, but the 60 member governments certainly have disregarded Article 2 in meddling in the internal affairs of another member country.

Colin Crowe, the delegate to the U.N.

A Catch-As-Catch-Can Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—This was a catch-as-catch-can election. It showed no sign of any real change in the national mood. But it did reveal a lot of discontent among voters toward their state parties or individuals.

Nor could President Kennedy or former President Eisenhower claim any infallible political magic. Both campaigned for their party candidates in a number of states. In some their side won, in some it lost.

THE NATIONAL mood was expressed in 1960 when the Democrats were given control of the federal government. Voters could have swept them out Tuesday, if they were dissatisfied, and given the Republicans control of Congress.

This didn't happen. The Democrats went into this election with huge majorities in House and Senate. And, just as predicted, when the election was over they still retained them.

The reason was pretty clear. In this campaign there was no real issue dividing the country or com-

Totem Pole Tally

NEW YORK (AP)—How high is your place on the office totem pole?

Are you still climbing up, or slowly sliding down?

Sometimes it is hard for a fellow himself to be sure. The measurements between success and failure are often subtle in the modern business world.

But here is a handy guide of hints that point the way. You are probably getting to be a poobah in your firm if—

You get your haircuts on company time without a feeling of guilt—or that you are putting something over on someone.

You spend an hour or two hours at lunch, and no longer bring it to work in a paper bag.

If your swivel chair develops a creak, somebody promptly oils it for you without being asked.

They take you off the once-a-week payroll and put you on the once-a-month payroll.

The guy who used to be on the rung above you no longer steals your ideas and palms them off as his own. You steal his.

If the company has a parking lot, there is a space reserved for your car.

You get more and more sealed interoffice memos marked "important," "private" and "strictly confidential." In the old days you only got missives like that from your friendly neighborhood loan shark.

The elevator operator asks your opinion on business conditions and what baseball team in the National League looks good for 1963.

You give up bowling and take up golf.

There is only one buzzer on your desk that you have to respond to, but there are three buzzers you can push and make others jump.

When you want to see the boss, his secretary no longer keeps you cooling your heels while she tells him who you are. She smiles and says, "Go right in—he's waiting."

You spend more time reading the stock market reports than you do the sports pages.

The office boy says, "Yes, sir," instead of whining, "For Pete's sake, what do you want now?"

Fellow office workers who used to think you were the inside dope now ask you what the inside dope really is. Your wallet contains more new credit cards than old unpaid bills.

At home, the wife starts ordering more clothes for herself, and tells the kids to carry out the garbage to enable you to conserve your strength. Your dog wags his tail instead of barking at you as you enter. He senses your new importance—and hopes for better chow.

Yes, by these signs you can tell whether you have become a figure that must be reckoned with in the office—or whether you are still the same old, dreaming, white-collar zero.

To Your Good Health

Don't Move Person If Fracture Is Suspected

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Recently my aunt fell down some stairs. She was in great pain and unable to stand up. People came to her assistance, helped her walk up and into a car and took her to the hospital.

X-rays showed she had a broken hip. Although she fell on a Thursday, she was not operated on until Saturday. The surgeon said it was a very bad break. Pins were used to hold the bones in place, plus traction.

Although the people assisting her meant well, did they really offer proper first aid? Also I thought a broken bone had to be set as soon as possible. Can you give me a reason for the delay?—Mrs. J. W.

If there is a possibility of fracture or internal injury—and in this case either or both could be suspected—the patient should be made as comfortable as possible but SHOULD NOT BE MOVED.

A rolled up coat or pillow can be tucked under the head; a blanket can be laid over the body. A tight collar may be gently loosened. If a doctor can be summoned at once, fine.

If not, call an ambulance. Trained people with a stretcher can transport a patient to the hospital with the least pain, and what is more important, the least movement of broken bones.

I can't say whether you aunt was harmed, but she surely must have suffered.

As for waiting two days for prudent delay in setting a fracture is a matter of the surgeon's judgment and the nature of the break.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the consequences of drinking low-calorie soft drinks for dieting? I have heard that the artificial sweeteners will harm the kidneys.—Mrs. A. W.

I don't know of anything harmful, and suspect that you have merely heard a modern version of another old wives' tale.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could give a person a constant fever? It goes up to 99.6, then down to 98—M. D.

Every effort should be made to rule out infection—TB, sinus trouble, tonsils, undulant fever, or a host of others. Any persistent infection can cause this sort of fever.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald for the booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures" enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Somehow It Doesn't Have The Right Ring

I can understand people getting my name mixed, and even that a few just can't bring themselves to believe that it is spelled like it is pronounced. What irks me are these cozy, confidential notes which the come-on and mail-order boys use as bait.

FOR INSTANCE: "Dear Mr. Piddle: After long and painstaking research, we have settled on you to receive one of our special awards. We wish to impress upon you Mr. Piddle, that this is not a blanket operation, but one which is conferred only on a single individual in your area. So you can see, Mr. Piddle, that this is no ordinary offer."

THEN AGAIN, it may come in this form: "Mr. Joe Pickrell, Herald-Enterprise, Sandy Springs, Texas, Dr. Mr. Pickrell: Congratulations! We have asked our agents in the field to contact a number of the leaders in your community for a suggestion as to whom they consider the best person for receiving our special introductory proposal. We wouldn't quote you this ridiculously low offer, Mr. Pickrell, were it not for the prestige you would bring to our product by simply having it in your hands."

PERHAPS IT'S not selling but recruiting, but the result is the same: "Mr. Joe Bickel, News Messenger home furnishings editor, Big Spring, Mo., Dear Mr. Bickel: Your name was given to us by a very close friend of yours. By reason of his close association with you through the years, he has suggested your name for membership in the Supreme Order of Amalgamated Dirt-Doberbers. Friend Joel, this is an honor which, in all confidence, we confer only on those who are vouchsafed by their most intimate friends."

THE NAMES, the addresses, the titles they confer on the Herald are all a caution. What they do to my name is sometimes more than a caution. Most of it can be written off to harassed typists who are simply wading through the drudgery of transmitting a sucker list.

Yet, once in a while you get one from someone who is supposed to know you personally, or at least wants to create that impression. A few years back I sent out some letters to follow members of a newspaper committee. Soon, the replies began to trickle in, one via Abilene. On the envelope was typed Mr. Joe Pickle, Herald-Reporter, Abilene. The greeting on the letterhead was equally cordial. "Dear Jim," it said. Made me feel sort of close to the old boy.

—JOE PICHEL, PICKLE that is.

Money Isn't Everything — In Movies

The morning's mail includes an invitation to attend "the invitation preview" of "Mutiny on the Bounty" in which Marlon Brando co-stars with $27,000,000, give or take a few millions in either direction.

THE INVITATION is a very rich affair, with a picture of the Bounty under partial sail, engraved on gold paper. Very handsome, indeed, and worthy of a financially multi-megaton picture.
Still, I must refuse the kind invitation. Surely I am not the only cantankerous citizen who is outraged at the very thought of a motion picture costing $27,000,000, enough to endow a college, to build a medical center or support significant research in many important fields.

IT IS POSSIBLE that I am in the minority and that multitudes will flock to see "Mutiny on the Bounty" precisely because it cost so much, and not because of any intrinsic merit it can boast.

But there will be others who will resent this casual outpouring of money as if the stuff were made by round-the-clock shifts in a basement. There is nothing sacred about money, granted. But most men work too hard to pay for food, clothing and shelter to applaud its transmutation into base movie metal.

Europe cried out against American tourists who, after World War I, lighted cigarettes with her paper currencies. "Mutiny" and its monetary rival, "Cleopatra," have been lighted by incredible piles of greenbacks-coin-bonfires.

THE BEHAVIOR of the stars engaged in these two pictures has been trumpeted forth, ad nauseam. But what I find even more disturbing is the judgment of men charged with running the respective studios involved in this brace of cinemas. Who was minding the store while the money was shovelled out as if Old Faithful were minting it every hour on the hour?

Only recently I saw a great motion picture, "Long Day's Journey into Night." It cost $400,000, or approximately one-seventieth as much as "Bounty." And approximately one-eighth of "Cleopatra," which is well over the $30,000,000 mark at the moment.

"JOURNEY" includes a distinguished cast, one notable for its acting rather than its high jinks. The picture was completed in a matter of weeks, not years, with no public displays of tantrums, temperance or amours. And no actor held up the shooting of the O'Neill work while he plugged for his own fuzzy brand of social significance to be written into the script, as was the case with "Meeting."

Maybe there is a vast, ready-made audience for a film merely because it is the most costly ever made or because stars can never remember to close doors or pull down the shades. That remains to be seen.

FOR MY PART, I can imagine that the films might interest a certified public accountant or an auditor, both of whom could claim a professional curiosity about where all that money went. Otherwise, "Mutiny" and "Cleopatra" may turn out to be the greatest movies ever filmed. However, if they do, it's a cinch that critics and audiences alike will sit back and say, "With all that money, why not?" or, "When you think of the boodle, it should have been better." Money is going to be the albatross of both.

I PLAN to sit both pictures out at home with a good book, perhaps with two or three good books—the originals of "Cleopatra" ("Shaw, anyone" Shakespeare, someone?) and "Mutiny on the Bounty" (Copyright 1962, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Score One For The American People

WASHINGTON — Somebody ought to say a good word for the unsung hero of the Cuban crisis—the American people.

They were far ahead of the President in taking a Do Something stand in the Caribbean. They sweated out the waiting period, listening for the first crunch of bombs on their homeland, with hardly a sign of panic.

THERE WAS some hoarding of canned foods. Some enterprising hawkers sold cans of water. The stock market threw a fit. But by and large, the people showed a will to fight. Their only fear seemed to be that Mr. Kennedy would back down. They remembered the Bay of Pigs, the Berlin Wall, the Laos troika. In spite of all, they came through with an expression of faith in their President. He lived up to it nobly.

All of this occurred in a people that had been under much influence to be had otherwise. Their publicists had fed them on fear. Their leaders preached their intellectualist taught anti-peace. Their intellectuals taught anti-peace. Their intellectuals taught anti-peace. Their intellectuals taught anti-peace.

SINCE 1945 a sure box-office attraction has been the Horrors of Hiroshima. Our guilt would find us out. We would end up On The Beach. There was No High Ground, as was the title of one book. There Was No Place To Hide, declared another. The Senate had a subcommittee on Disarmament. The State Department opened a bureau on Arms Control. Our men at Geneva talked. Ban the Bomb. The Deputy Secretary of Defense declared that we must be Second in Space with the H-weapons.

THE FULBRIGHT MEMO set out to muzzle the Military Under Secretary of State became a spokesman for the thesis that generals and admirals should stop using the word "Victory." The Senate Preparedness subcommittee met from January to June to try to unsmile the No Win policy. The subcommittee report, recently issued, rendered a verdict against the policymakers that could be read as "Not very guilty—but don't do it again." Senator Strom Thurmond, in a minority statement of length and detail, delivered the following arraignment against Under Secretary Ball, the Administration's star witness:

"THERE CAN BE no more vivid demonstration of the need for widespread public education on Communist techniques than this—that the Number Two officer in our State Department can demonstrate such ignorance and incompetence in the field of Communist tactics. This instance is most revealing as to why State Department personnel repeatedly try to play down the Soviet threat. They just don't understand it."

DEEP INTO the second decade of the Cold War and—"They just don't understand it!" As late as October 19, 1962, the man under fire by Thurmond, Secretary Ball, had a piece in the Washington World which argued that Soviet weapons in Cuba were no threat to the U. S. A. He and many others showed many times that "they just don't understand." Yet the astonishing American people rose above such leadership. They rallied against this gouging of their morale. They informed Mr. Kennedy on his campaign rounds that, in the words of John Paul Jones, they were ready "to go in harm's way."

ALL THIS despite a strange acceptance on the people's part of books which told them that for seven days in May the Joint Chiefs of Staff were plotting a coup d'etat to overthrow the Constitution... that a mechanical failure in our Fall-Safe plan could cause an accidental war in which American fighters would try to shoot down American bombers... that a President might have to bomb New York to appease the slip-up of bombing Moscow... that our nuclear arsenal was over loaded to kill—and over-kill.

WHY DO THE American people make best sellers of the current flesh creep school of books? Apparently for the same reason they "escape" into macabre murder yarns and science fiction. Apparently not because they believe in traitorous military men, bungling strategists and bloodthirsty scientists. Perhaps only to titivate their imaginations.

Anyhow, with a thousand indices pointing to poltroonery and panic, the American people came to the big scare—and hardly turned a hair. The U. S. A.—Yes!

Garden Club Hears Talk On Decor

Mrs. Kyle Cauble, guest speaker, was introduced to the Green Thumb Garden Club Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Jack Woodall, West 14th. Eighteen members attended the meeting conducted by Mrs. Ike Robb, president.

Mrs. Cauble made table arrangements considered versatile, because each, with only slight change, was adaptable to more than one holiday season. She displayed table mats made of old Christmas cards; dried arrangements; and presented fresh cedar arranged for decoration.

Coffee was served during the morning by the hostess.

Westside Baptist WMS Circle Meets

The night circle of the Women's Missionary Society, Westside Baptist Church, met Monday night at the church to hear a program by Mrs. Vera Winn.

Mrs. Winn used the second chapter of the mission study book, "New Frontiers in an Old World," as the basis for her talk.

The prayer calendar was read by Mrs. Frances Averitt.

The six members attending were lead in prayers by Mrs. Winn and Mrs. Jack Cunningham.

Polio Vaccine Plan Is Presented To P-TA

Miss Bo Bowen, county health nurse, was introduced as the speaker for a meeting of the City Council Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday morning. Held at Goliad School, the meeting was opened with a devotion by Mrs. J. H. Homan. Mrs. Dwight McCann presided.

Miss Bowen presented a program on the Sabin Polio Vaccine which is to be given city-wide, Nov. 11, from 12 to 5 p.m. It was reported that there are 2,309 members registered in P-TA with two schools unreported to date. Also seven hours were reported completed in the Education for Family Living course, with Airport, Boydston and College Heights schools represented.

Reports from the presidents and chairmen of each local unit were given for the month of October. A total of $761.30 was said to be the amount of savings stamps sold during the month.

After the meeting, refreshments were served to 30 members.

EAST FOURTH BAPTIST

Royal Service Program Presented At Church

"A Vigorous Minority in Mexico" was the topic for a Royal Service program held by the WMS of the East Fourth St. Baptist Church, Tuesday morning. Presented at the church, the program opened with the song, "Jesus Shall Reign."

The calendar of prayer, read by Mrs. Charles Wester, was followed with prayer offered by Mrs. B. D. Rice. Mrs. Jack Strickland gave the scripture reading and introduction.

Those taking part on the program were Mrs. V. C. Rigdon, Mrs. Rayford Dunningan, Mrs. Roy Hester, Mrs. Howard Shanks, Mrs. R. E. Wilson, Mrs. Bill Hanson, Mrs. Norman Welch, Mrs. Gilbert Webb, Mrs. W. L. Clayton, Mrs.

Don Cannon and Mrs. Bud Summers.

A medley of songs was sung by Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Summers, Mrs. Hester and Mrs. Dunningan. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Denver Yates.

A large map of Mexico was featured on the floor of the room, and costuming was in keeping with the theme. Also, refreshments were served from Mexican dishes.

Twenty-one members attended, and five guests, Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Morris Sewell, Mrs. Alan Alexander, Mrs. George Settoon and Mrs. Hester.

Circles Join In Continued Study Series

Fannie Stripling and Maudie Morris WSCS circles, First Methodist Church, were guests in the home of Mrs. A. C. Bass Tuesday morning. They continued the study of "Responsible Adults in Tomorrow's World."

A devotion was given by Mrs. Bill Ward and Mrs. L. A. Zant. Mrs. Floyd Puckett reviewed "New Ways in Discipline" by Dorothy Barouch.

"The Family and Its Problems" was a discussion by Mrs. Paul Konka, and "Church and the Family" was the topic presented by Mrs. Hayes Stripling Jr.

Refreshments were served the 19 members and one guest, Mrs. Lowell Baird.

Mrs. Hulme Has Circle Lesson

The Fanny Hodges and Sylvia Lamson Circles of the First Methodist Church heard Mrs. D. A. Hulme present the third chapter of a mission study book when they met in the home of Mrs. Hugh Duncan Tuesday morning. The lesson was entitled "Faith That Motivates."

Mrs. J. W. Dickens compared the social conditions during the time of Jesus with the situations of modern times.

Mrs. Rex Baggett told of the people mentioned in the gospel of Luke that had met Jesus and thereby had their lives changed.

The group will meet next in the home of Mrs. Baggett, 1507 Aylford. The devotion was worded by Mrs. Harrol Jones. Twenty-one attended.

Luncheon Held For Mary Zinns

A salad luncheon was served Tuesday at noon to members of the Mary Zinn Circle, First Methodist Church. Mrs. Herbert Johnson was hostess.

"Around the Rim of East Asia" was the program which began with prayer by Mrs. S. B. Nobles, president. Mrs. W. A. Laswell was in charge of the program, and was assisted by members of the group.

A devotion from the Book of Luke was given by Mrs. Jackie Bishop. Mrs. Felton Smith was elected as treasurer of the group, after which the 15 members were dismissed with the hymn, "In Christ There is No East or West," and the benediction.

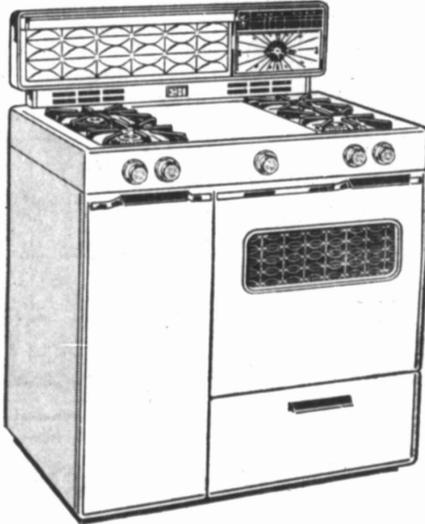

The next meeting will be with Mrs. S. P. Jones Nov. 20.

Family Goes To College

The five college students of the Reece M. Emmons family of Tulsa, Okla., take time out from their college studies for a coffee break. From left are Eleanor Emmons; her husband, Ronald; Mrs. Reece Emmons; Reece Emmons, and Peggy Emmons. College is a family affair for the Reece W. Emmons clan. Emmons, an audit group supervisor for the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, is a sophomore in the school of law. He holds a bachelor's degree from Southwestern State College at Weatherford. His wife, also a Southwestern graduate, is a sixth grade teacher at nearby Owasso and is on the final lap toward a master's degree in elementary education. She expects to get that degree next spring. A son, Ronald Reece, is a senior majoring in accounting and his wife, Eleanor, is a senior majoring in English education. Both work in addition to their college, but manage to carry full schedules and earn top grades. The fifth collegiate Emmons is Peggy, a National Merit Scholar who is a freshman majoring in biology.

The St. Paul Lutheran Parish Workers Meet

The Parish Workers of St. Paul Lutheran, with Mrs. John Foster leading, opened their Monday meeting with a devotion. A panel discussion, with Mrs. Leroy Budke, Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. Walter Pachall, and Mrs. Clair Wiederhoff, participating, presented the topic "Know Your Synod's Work."

The purpose of the discussion

P-TA Plan Voted As A Project

Mrs. Bill Hambrick conducted the Sands P-TA meeting Monday night. The P-TA project for the year was voted on. Air conditioning will be the objective, starting with the first grade. A bake sale will be held in the grocery stores at Ackery, Nov. 10, to help on the project funds.

Homecoming, Dec. 1st, was discussed. The meeting was followed by a "womanless" Miss America Pageant.

A crowd of 200 persons attended the pageant in which Dolph Raspberry, representing Miss America of 1961, crowned Jewel Franklin, representing Miss America of 1962. Runners-up were Vaudry Coleman, representing Miss Texas; R. B. Bowlin, Miss Hawaii; Travis Russell, Miss Wisconsin; Jack Bowlin, Miss South Carolina; and Wilson Sikes, Miss Georgia.

Wester Williams, played by Hollis Kennemer, appeared in a swim suit. Mane Jansfield, played by M. Y. Bowlin, and Farline Ancis, a platinum blonde in a yellow gown, played by Jack Archer. The musicians included men from Knott and Ackery.

Skit Given For Church Group

Mrs. J. D. Jenkins, educational director, spoke before the Women's Missionary Society of the First Church of God, Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. A. L. Holley, 801 W. 17th St.

Her program was titled, "In As Much." She was assisted by Mrs. Helen Jones and Mrs. Georgia Cauble, who presented a skit.

Mrs. Ward Jackson reported on the Midwest Missionary and Minister's Conference held in Kansas City last week.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. George Harrington and Mrs. Keith Burns.

Mu Zeta Hears Poetry Program

Proceeds from the Mu Zeta booth at the Funarama were reported by Mrs. Louis Wolfson, treasurer, when the chapter met in the home of Mrs. John Ferguson, 2107 Morrison.

Members will volunteer their services to assist with the mass immunization project to be held on Nov. 11.

Mrs. Louis Jones presented a program on English and American poetry, giving brief biographies of major poets and reading some of their works.

A pledge ritual was announced for the next meeting. Twelve attended.

Miss Jean Cox Is Hostess To Group

Newly organized, the Stadium Baptist Young Women's Association met Monday in the home of Miss Jean Cox. After prayer by Mrs. J. D. Buchanan, plans were discussed for an all-church social to be sponsored by the YWA group.

Officers to head the group were chosen, and Miss Arlene Nixon was named president; Miss Jackie Buchanan, vice president; Miss Jean Cox, secretary; and Miss Jo Nell Knightstep, treasurer.

Sponsors of the group are Mrs. Sam J. Arrington, Mrs. Hubert I. Cox and Mrs. Buchanan.

Twelve members and guests were present, including a new member, Miss Virginia Grisham.

Visitor To Be Honored

Friends of Miss Anne Martin who is visiting here from Santa Barbara, Calif., are invited to a reception in her honor on Friday from 5 through 9 p.m. in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Gas Co.

Hostesses for the affair will be Mrs. Shirley Fryar and Mrs. R. C. Thomas, Miss Martin's sister and niece. Miss Martin, a former resident of Big Spring and Howard County, served as county school superintendent several years, her last term ending in 1944.

Sanderson Goes To Germany

B. G. (Red) Sanderson left this week for Frankfurt, Germany where he will serve as sales representative for Capital Life Insurance Co. His wife and four children, Jerri, Rodney, Stephen and Leslie, will leave Dec. 15 by plane to join him in Frankfurt.

ALTRUSANS TO DINE

Mrs. Norman Read will be hostess for a Thanksgiving dinner to be given for Altrusans Thursday evening. The dinner will take the place of the regular luncheon meeting, and will be served at 7 o'clock at Mrs. Read's home, 503 Washington Blvd.

National Sorority Plans New Group

Alumnae of Delta Zeta met for a Founder's Day observance Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. Charles Marchbanks, 708 Tulane.

Members of the national college sorority met to formulate plans for a Pan-Hellenic group in Big Spring.

Mrs. Marchbanks served coffee from a table laid with a green linen cloth. The centerpiece was of pink sweetheart roses, the sorority flower. Silver appointments were used.

Local alumnae interested in joining the group should contact Mrs. Marchbanks.

Zoning Commission Looks At Several Plans Tuesday

Three public hearings were called for 5:15 p.m. Tuesday by the Planning and Zoning Commission. There were no representatives for two proposals and the questions were tabled pending more information.

A request for a zone change from general residence to neighborhood service was denied to G. M. Lopez on the northeast corner of North Runnels and North-east Seventh.

Two plats and plot plans were submitted, and three others, not on the agenda, were considered.

A specific use permit for establishment of a convalescent home on property at the southeast corner of Goliad and East Eighth, requested by Bruce Frazier, was tabled because of no representation and the need for more information. A zone change request on property located at the southeast corner of Wasson Road and Calvin Street was tabled for the same reason.

A development plan was presented on Lot 1, Tract 3, of the Kennebeck Heights subdivision, (known as Wasson Corner), and approved in the neighborhood service, planned district.

A replat of Block 24, between Goliad and Nolan, East Nineteenth and East Twentieth Streets was approved. The owner platted lots, and an alley, to put the property on sale.

Herb Atkins presented a plan of development for the Thomas property, at Wasson and Randolph, for the first phase. This included a service station and drive-in grocery and was approved.

Lee Porter presented a subdivision plat of property located west of Navajo Road and north of Wasson Drive. This plat showed a U-shaped street in the property, with 28 lots and a two-acre commercial site. Approval was granted provided two aerial easements for street lights were granted, and a utility plan approved by the city.

Harvey H. Langston of Midland presented a subdivision plat on 40 acres on Colonial Hills, east of Parkway Road and North of Hearn Street. The commission rejected the plat because alleys were not included.

Rites Today For Raymond River

Last rites were to be said at River Chapel at 2:30 p.m. today for Raymond W. River, 59, retired federal home operator and civic leader.

The Rev. Dewitt Seago, pastor of the First Methodist Church, where Mr. River was a member, was to officiate. Burial was to be in the Trinity Memorial Park. Fallbearers were to be E. P. Driver, Houston Cowden, J. B. Apple, John Davis, Dr. W. A. Hunt, Howard Stephens, Bill Edwards, Dr. Clyde Thomas, Bill Wilson Jr., and A. J. Butler.

Mr. River came here in 1953 when he acquired the funeral home which bears his name. He died suddenly Monday evening following a heart attack. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Martha River; two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Tucker, Raytown, Mo., and Mrs. Walter Howell Jr., Clovis, N. M.

Longhouse Meet

A meeting of the Indian Guide Longhouse of the Big Spring YMCA has been set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, according to Ralph Hughes, president. It will be a planning session for activities Nov. 15 during Indian Guide Gym Night.

Little Change In Makeup Of U.S. House

WASHINGTON (AP) — American voters have elected a new House of Representatives closely resembling the lineup of the one which packed up and went home less than a month ago.

With a number of districts still counting Tuesday's votes, the outlook was that Republicans would pick up only about six seats after upsets both ways were balanced off.

The balloting deflated Republican hopes for a big increase in strength—possibly even control of the House. The GOP hopes had been based on an almost unbroken history of minority gains in off-year elections.

Republicans would have needed a net gain of 44 seats to take over and organize the House that convenes Jan. 9. The division in the old House was 263 Democrats, counting vacancies, and 174 Republicans. The House drops back next year from 437 to 435 members because the seats temporarily added when Alaska and Hawaii were admitted as states are eliminated.

The GOP expanded its gains of recent years in the South—notably in Texas, Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee—and upset Democrats in border and Western states as well. The partially offsetting Democratic upsets were scattered.

The effect of widespread redistricting as a result of population shifts shown by the 1960 census seemed to fall about equally on both parties. Nine states gained seats in the House, 16 lost. Where redistricting forced races between incumbent Republicans and incumbent Democrats, the Republicans usually won. But Democrats did better than Republicans in newly created districts.

The net result was that in the 86th Congress, as in the 87th, Democrats will have a substantial numerical majority and will dispose of the posts of speaker and committee chairmen. But a large conservative bloc within the party, mostly Southern, can be expected to vote again often with Republicans who oppose many administration programs.

So another two years of hard work faces President Kennedy's legislative lieutenants who found the House the principal obstacle course for many of his domestic legislative proposals.

A DIARY OF BATTLE. The Personal Journals of Col. Charles S. Wainwright, 1861-65. Edited by Allen Nevins. Harcourt, Brace & World. $8.75.

By The Associated Press
The diary is truly a historical find. Historian Nevins, who edited it brilliantly, says this is the "most comprehensive and historically useful field diary by a Civil War officer that I have seen." It is not at all an extravagant evaluation.

Col. Wainwright was an artillery officer in the Army of the Potomac. He entered the service in 1861 and served through the Grand Review after Appomattox. He left his story in five notebooks—525,000 words in all—and then vanished into the obscurity from which he came. It is too bad that more is not known about him; he must have been a remarkable personality.

The value of his diary lies in the broad range of his observations. He reports on battles, tactics and strategy, with appropriate criticism; he describes the towns and homes which he visits and the people with whom he talks; he speaks of generals and privates, horses and rations, picking blackberries and burying the dead.

Wainwright was not entirely an admirable character. He was a snob, for one thing; at one point he notes that he has not found one officer in his division "I care to be intimate with." Some of his opinions are violently prejudiced by his Democratic affiliation: President Lincoln was gawky, uncouth and lacking in dignity. But he rather admired George Brinton McClellan. Yet he is scrupulously honest—he could not bring himself to appropriate some stamps found in an abandoned home for his own collection—and he is forthright and sincere.

Nevins' footnotes and interpolative summations tremendously help in keeping Wainwright's opinions in perspective, especially on incidents like an extremely biased account of Lincoln's visit to the battlefield of Antietam. He has not tampered with Wainwright's text, beyond deleting repetitious and arid sections. Thus we have a rich and revealing narrative of one man's experiences in the war. As Nevins remarks in his introduction, "not many men leave so imposing and valuable a monument for posterity to study."
