Military Training

An Army officer gives instructions to a group of young women undergoing military training in Tezpur in the northeast Indian state of Assam. They are being prepared to engage in home defense in the face of the current drive of Red Chinese forces in the Northeast Frontier Agency. Their colorful native dress will be replaced by uniforms.

India Gets New Defense Minister, Seeks Money

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India got a new defense minister today and sought more money to fight the border war against Red China.

Prime Minister Nehru, speaking on his 73rd birthday, told Parliament a way must be found to end the clash between the world's two most populous nations. He gave no indication that any settlement was in sight.

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan announced the appointment of Y. B. Chavan, the vigorous young head of the Bombay State government, to take over the Defense Ministry.

That is the post which V. K. Krishna Menon, a controversial leftist associate of Nehru, lost Oct. 31 in the face of charges that he had failed to prepare India's defenses against the attack.

K. Raghuramiah was named minister of state for defense production, a job in which Menon served through the first week of November.

Finance Minister Moraji Desai submitted to Parliament a request for an additional $199.5 million to meet increased defense costs caused by the Red Chinese invasion. The regular appropriation for the armed forces in the fiscal year ending next March 31 was $715 million.

Parliament completed passage of a resolution dedicating the Indian people "to drive out the aggressor from the sacred soil of India, however long and hard the struggle may be." The resolution accompanied authorization of a state of emergency.

House members passed it unanimously and cheered. The upper house had given its overwhelming approval Tuesday.

Closing the debate in the upper house, Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said Red China had "flooded the entire border of India with soldiers."

He announced plans for expansion of the armed forces, with military training to be given every able-bodied man. Home guard units will be set up and villagers armed in border districts.

Only patrol activity was reported in the 3-mile-high wastes of Ladakh on the western front and from the jungled mountain slopes of India's northeast frontier. Both sides are building up, however, with expectations of more battles to come.

Chinese diplomats are leaving India for Peiping. Some 24 Chinese officials and members of their families flew to Rangoon Tuesday en route to the Chinese capital. Other Chinese left earlier and their consulates in Calcutta and Bombay are reported to have burned secret documents.

Nehru has said India will continue to have diplomatic relations with China as long as it is considered advantageous.

U.S. Navy spokesman said the warning was delivered at a meeting by a U.S. naval intelligence officer.

Some of the refugees boycotted the meeting. They had found out in advance what it was about and refused to attend.

One Cuban source said some of the refugees were planning to test whether the United States actually would send them back to Cuba—a possible death.

Rear Adm. Edward J. O'Donnell, commander of the base, refused to comment on the warning. Policy respecting the refugees is determined by the U.S. State Department.

Refugees Told To Stay At Guantanamo

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP)—Anti-Castro refugees were warned at a mass meeting Tuesday night that any who are caught attempting to escape abroad from this U.S. naval base will be expelled from the base and returned to Cuba.

The warning followed by two days the arrest of 14 refugees who were trying to stow away on a merchant ship bound for the United States. All 14 are now in the Navy brig here. They have refused to eat or work.

There are about 440 Cuban refugees here. About 200 of them class themselves as violent opponents of Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Formerly there were about 500 refugees at the base, but about 100 managed to escape.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said the warning was delivered at a meeting by a U.S. naval intelligence officer.

Ike Denies Trying To Keep Hiss Off Television Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said he spoke to American Broadcasting Co. news chief James C. Hagerty Sunday morning after receiving numerous calls about the appearance of Alger Hiss on a projected television program.

But Eisenhower denied he sought to keep Hiss' part off the air.

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller had said in Buffalo earlier that Eisenhower tried to block Hiss' appearance on the show, dealing with Richard M. Nixon's political career.

Headon Crash Fatal To Five

HOUMA, La. (AP)—A head-on collision of a panel truck and a car killed five persons — three men and two women—near this South Louisiana town today.

Officers said they believed the three men were riding in the panel truck and the two women in the car. There were no survivors in the crash.

The Terrebonne Parish sheriff's office identified the dead men as Ashton Knight, 45, and Erwin Rogers, 37, both of Raceland, La., and John Rakes, 29, of Houma. The women were not identified immediately.

The accident occurred on a straight stretch of Louisiana 20 about 12 miles outside Houma.

Murder Charges Filed Against 5 In Mistake Slaying

NATCHITOCHE, La. (AP)—Murder charges have been filed against five Negroes in the mistaken-identity slaying of a senior of Northwestern State College here.

John F. Fisher III, 22, from Detroit, Mich., was shot early Sunday as he stood with friends in front of his apartment.

Murder charges signed by Sheriff Earl Morris were placed Monday against Edward Ward, 45, who admitted firing the bullet that killed Fisher. Charges were filed Tuesday against Charles Cage, 17; William Chevalier, 20; Earl Edward Davis, 18; and George Wright, 40.

The five are being held in an undisclosed jail.

Fisher was killed by a bullet fired from a passing car. Ward told police he and the three younger Negroes had gone looking for two white youths who had scuffled with the Negroes earlier in the evening.

He said Fisher was wearing clothes similar to those of one of the other white youths.

Ex-Con Arrested In Gem Robbery

CHICAGO (AP)—An ex-convict indicated in connection with a $1,750,000 robbery of a Pompano Beach, Fla., jewelry store has been arrested on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in Kalamazoo, Mich.

John Patrick Johnson, 25, of Arlington, Mass., was seized by FBI agents Tuesday night in Chicago. Agents said he is wanted in connection with a larceny case in Kalamazoo.

Adenauer Arrives For Conferences

SOME AT U.N. BELIEVE:

Soviet-Cuban Offer A Bargaining Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Some U.N. delegates assessed today new Soviet-Cuban demands, reported to include U.S. withdrawal from the base at Guantanamo, as a bargaining maneuver in negotiations to end the Cuban crisis.

"It is just another move in the chess game," said one diplomat. "Now the Russians will wait for the United States to make a move."

The United States was certain to reject the package presented to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson met for 3½ hours Tuesday night with Kuznetsov and said the talk was "constructive." He said it "served to identify and clarify the positions of both countries on the unresolved issues."

Stevenson called on Thant this morning. Stevenson said the meeting was at Thant's request.

Kuznetsov presumably presented the new Soviet-Cuban proposal to Stevenson. The American delegate was believed to have countered with the main U.S. demands—that the Soviet Union withdraw its 112 jet bombers from Cuba and permit adequate verification that Soviet missile sites have been dismantled and all rockets and other offensive weapons sent back to the Soviet Union.

The new Soviet-Cuban proposal was reported based on Prime Minister Fidel Castro's five-point demand made on Oct. 28 for an end to all U.S. activities against his regime and U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo. The five points apparently were worked over by Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, who has been in Havana since Nov. 2.

Informants said the Soviet-Cuban proposal dealt mainly with U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo and included an end to the U.S. naval blockade of arms shipments and measures by the United States to prevent hostile activity against Cuba by exiles.

It also was said to call for firmer guarantees that the United States will not invade Cuba.

President Kennedy made a no-invasion pledge contingent on the Soviet Union living up to Premier Khrushchev's promise to pull out all missiles and other offensive weapons under adequate verification.

The President has stressed that he considers the jet bombers offensive weapons.

The Soviet Union has balked at removing the jets, contending that they were turned over to Castro and are under his control.

Chances of lifting the blockade were remote following word from Geneva that the International Red Cross Committee had decided not to take part in inspection of Cuban-bound ships under present conditions.

The United States has indicated it will continue the quarantine until the bombers are out and will keep Cuba under air surveillance as long as it feels that necessary to safeguard against re-establishment of offensive weapons there.

Ceremonial Welcome For Visitor

WASHINGTON (AP)—German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to the White House today for a ceremonial welcome and conferences with President Kennedy.

Kennedy reportedly wanted to sound Adenauer out on the possibility of new Western overtures for settlement of the troublesome Berlin issue. The impact of the Cuban crisis is a factor.

Adenauer made the short trip from Blair House, the U.S. guest house just across the street, in a black limousine with American and German flags on the fenders.

A band was playing and several hundred spectators waved a salute.

Kennedy was waiting to receive his visitor on the White House south grounds.

CEREMONIES

Also waiting for the chancellor were formal welcoming ceremonies. There was the playing of the national anthems, an inspection of a military honor guard, the firing of a 19-gun salute and a brief exchange of friendly words of greeting before Kennedy escorted Adenauer to the presidential office for the beginning of their discussions.

The problem before the President and the chancellor is tangled by the fact that the outcome of the Cuban crisis is not yet clear and the real effect of the Soviet withdrawal of missiles from Cuba on Premier Khrushchev's Berlin policies is not yet known.

When the present date for the Kennedy and Adenauer conference was set officials had hoped that the Cuban situation would be substantially cleared up. They conceded today that with Soviet jet bombers still in Cuba the final results of the U.S.-Soviet confrontation are uncertain.

ARRIVED TUESDAY

Adenauer arrived Tuesday night by plane from Bonn.

U.S. and German diplomats said Kennedy and Adenauer would cover a wide range of issues of which continuing coordination of policy on Berlin is the most important.

Development of French-German relations, British membership in the European Common Market, the promotion of European political integration and the buildup of German armed forces within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are the chief topics — apart from Berlin — listed on the agenda worked out in advance of Adenauer's arrival.

Prior to leaving Bonn, Adenauer told newsmen that he was not opposed to "negotiations in principle" with the Soviet Union on Berlin provided that the Russians give some evidence of good faith in their dealings with the West.

NEW INITIATIVES

Kennedy administration leaders have been studying the possibility that the Soviet withdrawal of nuclear weapons from Cuba opened the way for new Western initiatives on Berlin.

The study, however, was started on the belief that Khrushchev would remove more than two dozen jet bombers known to be in Cuba as well as the 42 missiles which the U.S. Navy checked out aboard Soviet ships last week.

The Russians have stalled on withdrawal of the bombers and the activities of First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in discussions with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Havana remain a mystery here.

Annexation Case To Court Again

Official transcript in the Gay Hill-Center Point school annexation case, comprising 132 pages, is en route to the attorneys for the schools today.

Within a few days, the transcript will be in the hands of the state court of appeals and another step in the legal battle the schools are making to stay independent will be under way.

The schools are appealing the findings of the 118th District Court in the case. The court here ruled that the Howard County School Board acted properly and within its authority in ordering the annexation of the two common schools to the Big Spring Independent School District.

Wade Cheate, district court clerk, and his deputy, JoAnn Watkins, have been working on the transcript since the schools elected to appeal.

Suspect Sought In 13 States

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP)—A police alarm was sent out today for a suspect in the strangling of a 50-year-old woman and the abduction-rape of her teen-age daughter.

The alarm to 13 states identified the man sought as Haris Miller, about 30 to 34 years old, a tall Negro.

Isabel Sillan, active in this Fairfield County town's civic and social life, was strangled in her home Monday. The assailant then seized her daughter, Gail, 14, and held her captive in a car for about 12 hours.

The girl was raped, police said, but managed to escape in the neighboring town of Norwalk Monday night. She was taken to Norwalk Hospital.

When police questioned Gail, she described the assailant as a tall, slender Negro.

The alarm said a warrant was filed charging Miller with murder, kidnap and rape. It said a warrant charging kidnap also was issued for a Rosalie Miller, who was not further identified.

Miller, the alarm said, is from Norwalk.

AFL-CIO Snipes At NAACP Over Discrimination Suits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People are at loggerheads over how to handle racial discrimination suits.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO said Tuesday that his organization's Executive Council had decided it cannot work with the NAACP as long as the latter's labor secretary, Herbert Hill, continues filing discrimination suits against unions.

Meany said the AFL-CIO has suspended its financial contributions to the NAACP. "We want to work with them but we can't subscribe to the actions of the labor secretary," Meany said.

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins replied from New York that while individual unions contribute to the NAACP, the AFL-CIO does not.

"They are suspending something that doesn't exist," said Wilkins. "Frankly I am a little puzzled at the report of a break-off in relations."

Wilkins said Meany's statement "seems to be directed to telling us whom we should employ, and this of course amounts to them over-reaching themselves. We will not let anyone tell us whom to employ."

Court Overturns Contempt Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court overturned Tuesday a contempt conviction of a Texas agent for the National Maritime Union.

Held in contempt by a Texas state court was Sherman D. George in a case involving picketing of a Texas City refinery.

George was fined $100 and sentenced to three days in jail after he picketed the refinery, operated by a subsidiary of American Oil Co., in June of 1961. A Galveston County court had issued a temporary injunction against such activity.

The highest tribunal disagreed with the Texas Supreme Court, which had upheld the contempt judgment, saying the National Labor Relations Act neither prohibited nor protected George's conduct.

Stock Market Moves Upward

NEW YORK (AP)—After weathering a bit more profit taking on its two-week rally, the stock market moved upward early this afternoon in active trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 6 at 220.5 with industrials up 3, rails up 2, and utilities up 6.

Travelers Are Warned Of Spy Techniques

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military is warning its personnel going abroad about Communist spy techniques ranging from bugging the heel of a shoe to using infrared detectors to listen to conversations inside a room.

The advice is contained in briefings given service personnel, their dependents and contractors who plan to travel in or through Soviet bloc countries or attend symposiums, abroad or at home, where Communist scientists—and spies—may be present.

Regulations to carry out an over-all order issued by the Defense Department are being distributed by the Air Force, Navy and Army.

The scope of Communist espionage activity is pointed to in the Air Force directive. It says that the Sino-Soviet bloc nations have 27 intelligence and security services employing an estimated 300,000 trained agents.

The Air Force says one may be certain that telephones in hotel rooms are tapped and that listening devices are planted in bars and restaurants or even automobiles used by tourists.

The point, of course, is to avoid talking about anything of a classified nature or of subjects which could have even remote interest to espionage agents. Also, don't write home about such matters; all mail to and from bloc countries is scrutinized.

In a section called "human frailties" the Air Force says espionage agents "exploit the utmost any suspicion of irregularities in matters of sex, liquor, smuggling, blackmarket activities, illegal currency, etc."

Adlai Charges G'Water Misuse Of Statements

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has asked Sen. Barry Goldwater not to "distort my utterances" again.

The Republican senator from Arizona in a speech Monday night called for President Kennedy to fire Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, and three other officials—Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., special presidential adviser; Chester A. Bowles, presidential adviser on African, Asian and Latin-American affairs, and Richard N. Goodwin, deputy assistant secretary of state for Latin-American affairs.

Goldwater accused the four of being "soft on communism and soft on Cuba." He cited a statement by Stevenson in a speech on disarmament in which he said the United States was prepared to take risks to reduce the arms race.

"You have carefully neglected to quote the rest of the paragraph," Stevenson told Goldwater in a letter Tuesday. "I would be obliged if you would not again distort my utterances by quoting them out of context."

Employees Division Vows Renewed Effort For UF

Captains and workers in the United Fund Division of the United Fund promised a renewed effort Tuesday, as the annual effort starts toward the final wire.

In a special meeting, this 'division's volunteer workers were told that the campaign would definitely end Friday afternoon and all cards must be worked and reported if the effort is to wind up successfully.

Many contact cards have not been worked and still others have been worked and not reported. The Employees Division is one of the biggest of the several United Fund divisions.

Meanwhile, the overall campaign made a rally since Tuesday. More than $2,000 was added to the total collected thus far, $95,648. This is only a little more than $7,500 away from the goal.

The United Fund campaign is shooting at a $103,324 budget, which is considerably less than

These include the Boy Scouts, YMCA, Girl Scouts, Milk and Ice Fund, Howard County Rehabilitation Center (Crippled Children), Texas Rehabilitation Center, Texas United Fund, Lakeview YMCA, Air Force Aid Society, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Summer Recreation Program and Westside Youth Center.

Split Develops At Rome Council

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A deep split developed in the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today over divine revelation — the first major theological subject put before the worldwide gathering.

The divine revelation project deals with scriptures and tradition which the Roman Catholic Church holds are the twin sources of the revealed word of God. It teaches that tradition includes writings not found in the Gospels. Protestants do not accept that the tradition contains the revealed word of God.

What the project proposes to do was not announced.

The project had barely been introduced in the council in St. Peter's Basilica this morning, a spokesman said, when speakers began to attack it.

The split developed as some bishops were talking of things of lesser importance.

They propose that the church get rid of a ceremonial garment that was originally a raincoat for the rear of a bishop's horse.

"The idea is to peel off some of the purple," a council father said of a plea that prelates avoid displaying luxury and satisfying personal vanity in their churches and vestments.

The appeal came as discussion of proposed changes in the liturgy—the forms of public worship—ended with Tuesday's session.

Vestments, altar fittings and church decoration came up at the end of three weeks of discussions of liturgical matters.

"One bishop got up and said the cappa magna should be done away with," a specialist serving the council related.

The garment is a great cape with flowing train that prelates wear on solemn occasions.

"The cappa magna used to be worn for a very practical reason —to keep the back of the horse dry," the council adviser said.

This will be your last opportunity for the free administering of Sabin Type I.

Red Market Fight Best Left To Washington, Oilmen Told

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Political oil is just one of many problems besetting the American oil industry this year. But this one at least had better be left to the federal government, says an industry leader today. By political oil he means that which the Soviet Union has dumped on scattered markets to disrupt them.

American Petroleum Institute, reminds fellow oilmen meeting in Chicago: "This threat goes far beyond the oil industry. This is not just an attack on petroleum or any other single industry. It is part of a planned campaign to wreck the free enterprise system worldwide."

"More often than not, Soviet oil deals are made for political reasons rather than commercial, with world political influence the objective instead of financial profits."

The federal official—John M. Kelly, assistant secretary of the Interior Department for mineral resources—speaking today at the same meeting, stresses moves under way to bolster government-industry relationships. A prime object is preparing the oil and gas industry "for meeting supply and demand requirements in an emergency."

Kelly says, "Once again the events of history have demonstrated the compelling need for strengthening the bonds between the petroleum industry and the federal government."

The Soviet moves which have upset markets in which American oil companies with international operations had a stake have concentrated on offering oil at prices well below the American. U.S. oilmen stress that this can be done because the Kremlin can set any price that suits its political purpose without regard to cost of production—and certainly without any need to show a profit as the privately owned American firms must strive to do.

Painful as this has been in particular instances, the American oil industry's major problems have been nearer home: overproduction, excess capacity, weak product prices, and the controversy over importation of foreign oil.

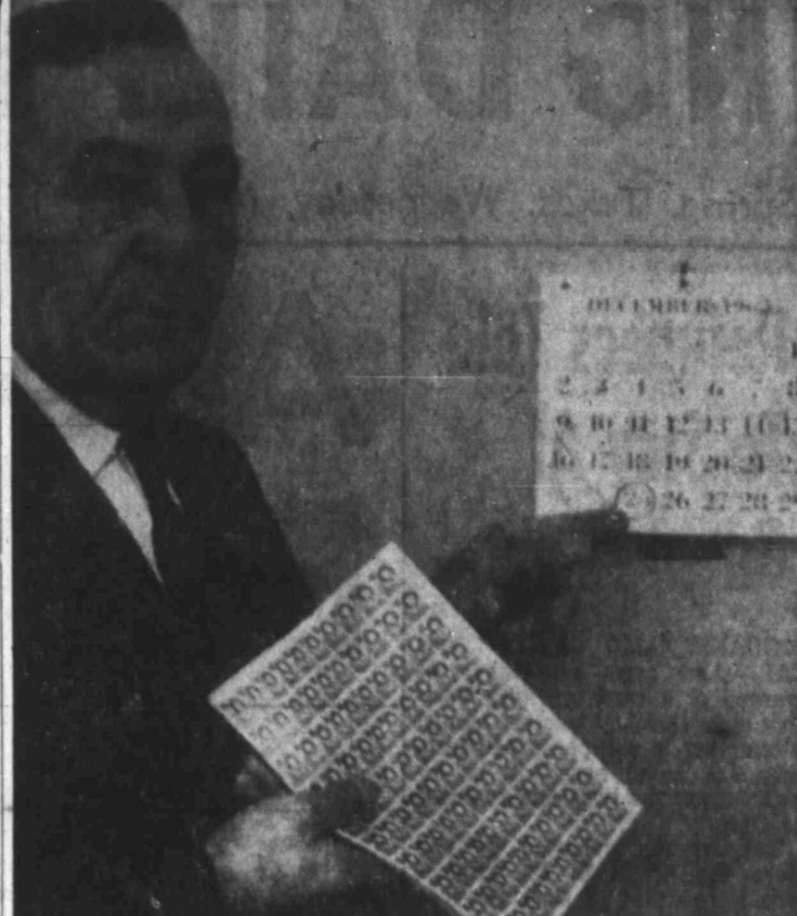

McCullum says most can be solved by "applying sound economics and good common sense to management decisions." He predicts domestic petroleum demand this year will average 10.2 million barrels daily, or 4.2 per cent over last year, for the largest annual increase since 1955. And increased auto sales this fall foreshadow good demand in the months ahead.

Federal Budget Deficit Of $7.8 Billion Is Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials are forecasting a federal budget deficit this year of $7.8 billion. This could be big enough, perhaps, to imperil President Kennedy's plans for a 1963 tax cut.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., was one of the first Congress members to comment today on the official deficit estimate announced Tuesday by the Budget Bureau.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "it would be a serious mistake to give the President the tax cut which he indicated last summer he will ask when Congress resumes."

It may have been no accident that, just prior to the deficit announcement, it was reported that the administration was giving thought to a gradual tax reduction that would take effect in several steps over a period of one to two years. Such a plan would soften the immediate impact of lower taxes.

and predicted a $500 million surplus. The administration's 1962 tax bill and the Treasury's July liberalization of tax depreciation, both aimed at spurting business modernization, will account for $2 billion of the revenue loss.

Spending will jump to a peacetime high of $83.7 billion—up $1.2 billion from the January forecast because of $400 million more for interest charges on a bigger national debt and congressional changes in bills to boost postal rates and overhaul the farm program.

The Budget Bureau said that, despite the Cuban crisis, military outlays are expected to total $48.3 billion—one of the few figures unchanged since January.

The red ink total in the last fiscal year was $6.3 billion. A deficit of $7.8 billion would be the second highest in peacetime.

Pickup Hits School Bus

OLTON (AP) — A school bus filled with students minutes before was hit broadside by a pickup truck Tuesday. A passenger in the truck was killed and three others were injured.

State police said the truck struck the bus at an intersection of two dirt roads. The bus flipped over and landed on its wheels 110 feet away.

Barry Allen Ball, 74, of Fieldton was killed. He was a passenger in the truck driven by Vernon Ball of Littlefield.

Mary Helen Mack, 13, the only student on the bus, was treated at a hospital and dismissed.

Injuries also were suffered by the bus driver, James Steptoe, an Olton Negro, and the trucker.

Venezuelans Join Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Venezuelan destroyers are joining the arms blockade of Cuba, the Defense Department announced Tuesday.

The Venezuelan destroyers Zulvia and Nueva Esparta will operate along with destroyers and frigates from Argentina, the Dominican Republic and naval craft from the United States.

The multi-nation squadron is organized under a special inter-American combined quarantine force, which was set up last week under U.S. Rear Adm. John A. Trye.

Cuba, E. Germany Sign Tourist Pact

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany announced Tuesday a tourist agreement for 1963 with Cuba.

East Germans will be able to spend up to 14 days vacationing in Cuba, the official news agency ADN reported, while Cubans will tour East Germany to see for themselves "the success of the economy and culture of the first German workers' and peasants' state."

Castro Said Ready To Flee His Island

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuban exiles say Fidel Castro has everything in readiness to flee the island.

The Students Revolutionary Directorate said Tuesday it learned from contacts in Cuba that a Britannia plane, one of four owned by Cubana Airlines, is kept ready at an airport near Havana with technicians and pilots on 24-hour duty.

New Christmas Stamps Issued

By SAM BLACKBURN
Uncle Sam is in the Christmas stamp racket.

He has issued a special stamp, now on sale at the post offices of the land — including the Big Spring post office—which looks a whole lot like the yuletide stickers you attach to Christmas cards and packages just for the heck of it.

The difference is—the stamps that Uncle Sam issues cost four cents apiece and are required to send your greeting cards on their merry way.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that he was sent 50,000 copies of the new 4-cent Christmas stamps and told to start selling them at the stamp windows Nov. 1.

This was a change in the original plan—the Christmas stamps were first slated to go on sale Nov. 15.

Nov. Boatler says, he has been told he will get an extra 50,000 supply of the stamps Nov. 15 and he is supposed to have the whole kit and kaboodle sold by Dec. 31.

The stamps will go out of circulation on that date. (This does not mean, of course, that you can't use any extra 4-centers you may have on hand. It means the Christmas issue will no longer be sold at the stamp windows.)

Ordinarily, Boatler gets 20,000 copies of any commemorative or special stamp. The U.S. department upped his standard order five times and he has stacks and stacks of the gaily colored stamps on hand.

The stamp is in green and red. The Christmas wreath is green with a red ribbon. The candles to the side are green but have bright red flames and the legend "Christmas 1962" at the base is red. Nowhere on the stamps does it say "postage" but, never the less, that's what they're for.

They'll decorate your Christmas cards in the spirit of the season," says Boatler. "Further, you'll be sending your cards first class if you use these stamps. That means the cards will have a better chance of being delivered on time and safely."

Incidentally, the Christmas stamps are probably the last general issue of 4-cent stamps which will be printed.

Effective on Jan. 7, the rate on first class mail goes to five cents and the common stamp of the future is one of that denomination and not the familiar purple 4-cent Lincoln so long in use.

The stamp you'll be using on your mail after Jan. 7 will be a blue number 1, featuring a portrait of George Washington and a price of five cents.

Estes Aides Withdraw Pauper's Plea

EL PASO (AP)—Counsel withdrew a pauper's petition with Billie Sol Estes and three co-defendants of the West Texas promoter asked reduction of federal prison sentences Tuesday.

These moves preceded a hearing before a bankruptcy referee today on financial dealings of another former associate with Estes. Estes, 37, convicted last week of swindling and awaiting trial on other state and federal charges, had filed a pauper's oath to avoid paying court costs in appealing a bankruptcy judgment.

U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason directed that Estes appear for questioning about his assets today. Defense lawyer John Dennison of Pecos then said the pauper petition was being withdrawn.

BANKRUPTCY ORDER

Estes, once rated a wizard of farm finance by some, had challenged an involuntary bankruptcy order growing out of multi-million-dollar indebtedness from dealings in fertilizer tank mortgages. He claimed his primary occupation is farming and exempts him from such a finding.

Properties of Estes have been sold by court order. Lawyers for a creditors' committee and the trustee of the bankrupt estate told Judge Thomason, however, they believe Estes possesses undisclosed assets and said he has given no proof of being without funds.

These lawyers contended that a $200,000 homestead and a Cadillac automobile left Estes could be used to finance his appeal.

Another petition asked Judge Thomason to halve the prison sentences of three men indicted here with Estes and to let them wait until after Jan. 1, 1964, to start serving the terms.

PLEADED GUILTY

The three are Harold Orr and Ruel Alexander of Amarillo and Coleman McSpadden of Lubbock. They pleaded guilty to federal fraud and conspiracy charges in tank mortgage dealings. Orr and McSpadden drew 10 years in prison, Alexander six years.

Estes has pleaded innocent to a 29-count indictment based on the same charges of fraud and conspiracy.

Orr, Alexander and McSpadden are officials of Superior Manufacturing Co., an Amarillo tank building firm. They have been given lengthy depositions in numerous civil suits growing out of the Estes case and told the court additional time is needed to answer questions of investigators.

DELAY IN TERMS

Judge Thomason had told the trio their prison terms would not start until next Jan. 7 if they made themselves available when needed in the various civil and criminal cases.

J. C. Brooke, referee in bankruptcy, directed Dr. Harold Lindley of Pecos to appear this afternoon for questioning about transactions with Estes. Creditors claim a transfer from Estes to Lindley of corporate stocks a fortnight before the start of bankruptcy proceedings was illegal and should be voided.

LBJ Sees No License For Cuba

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today the United States will never give any pledge fortifying communism against "the united action of free men, in this hemisphere or any other."

With the Cuban situation still unsettled and the possibility looming of new Soviet threats to Berlin, Johnson declared:

"In the future, as in the past, we must be, and we shall be, ready to meet force with force and to seek honorable peace with all others who seek honorable peace also."

The vice president said in a speech prepared for the American Petroleum Institute that while the crisis in Cuba is fading for the moment, "the elements of continuing danger remain, in the same precarious balance as before" in the cold war.

Then he said: "The purpose of the United States remains unchanged toward this hemisphere: we intend that the Americas shall be free of communism, free of those who serve Communist masters and—through the joint efforts of the Alliance for Progress—free of the seeds from which communism grows."

"The United States has not—and we will never—enter any commitment by which Communist imperialism shall be fortified against the united action of free men, in this hemisphere or any other."

In an exchange of letters late last month when the Cuban crisis was at the boiling point, President Kennedy gave Soviet Premier Khrushchev "assurances against an invasion of Cuba" if the Russians would remove their offensive weapons from the island.

Whether such a no-invasion pledge under these circumstances would apply only to the present Cuban crisis has never been explained publicly by the Kennedy administration. With Soviet jet bombers still in Cuba and with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro balking at any onsite U.N. verification on the removal of offensive weapons, the Kennedy-Khrushchev agreement is still up in the air.

Return Of Estes Figure Is Sought

AMARILLO (AP)—Dist. Atty. Frank Baughman said today he will appear at a Nov. 30 hearing in New York City to seek return of Maynard Wheeler on state anti-trust charges.

County grand jurors indicted Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp., here Aug. 3 along with ex-financier Billie Sol Estes.

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller signed extradition papers Tuesday, his office in Albany reported, and thus cleared the way for Texas authorities to press a claim for custody of Wheeler.

The Amarillo indictments accuse Wheeler and Estes of cutting prices of anhydrous ammonia, a liquid fertilizer, to wipe out competition and of conspiring to bring about illegal restraint of trade. Commercial Solvents has been named as Estes' principal supplier for fertilizer sales running into millions.

Baughman described the Nov.

30 hearing as a formality to verify the charges are on file and Wheeler is the man sought for trial. He said Frank Maloney, special assistant to Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, will accompany him to New York.

Counsel for Wheeler said the New York executive will contest extradition, contending the anti-trust indictment fails to charge a crime and New York laws do not authorize extradition.

"We forwarded the extradition request Aug. 4 and it's been obvious from the delay that we will fight extradition," Baughman said.

In event Wheeler is returned, it will be February at the earliest before the case could be called for trial here. The next setting of the district court docket is due Jan. 28.

"It might be a year or two before we get Wheeler back down here," Baughman said.

Guam 'Junkyard' Following Storm

AGANA, Guam (AP)—Recovery teams began sifting through what appeared to be a massive junkyard on Guam today and said they expect to find more victims in the rubble left by Typhoon Karen.

Karen, officially described as the worst disaster in the history of this strategic American outpost in the western Pacific, damaged or destroyed nearly every civilian building on the island. Winds up to 174 miles an hour blasted the island for four hours Sunday night.

So far, six Guamanians have been reported dead, at least 100 other natives and military men or dependents injured and damages estimated at more than $100 million.

Red Cross and civil defense offices have been set up to coordinate recovery. U.S. Dist. Judge Paul D. Shriver has been named as head of this effort.

Most of the wreckage is still unchecked.

"When we finally get to cleaning up the mess, we'll probably find more bodies," police officials said.

Acting Gov. Manuel Guerrero termed it a miracle that more did not die.

Most schools and businesses were closed. Male teachers were assigned to a security force to protect schools and property. Women teachers were ordered to work with the Red Cross and other recovery groups.

Temporary home repairs have begun, but most residents were still living in hospitals, churches and schools.

Water was in short supply and being distributed at emergency pumping stations across the 32-mile-long island.

Guerrero told his people that help was coming but urged them to "do what you can yourselves. We must help ourselves first."

In Tokyo, meanwhile, weather forecasters said Karen was expected to pass some 150 miles to the south and east of U.S.-controlled Okinawa Thursday night, Japan time.

Trust Territory Commissioner M. W. Goding has provided housing on nearby Saipan for families, and women and children were being sent there, he said.

Guerrero has asked the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service temporarily to relax entrance requirements to permit construction workers to come to Guam to begin rebuilding.

The Navy radar picket escort Haverfield was supplying emergency power. Half a million pounds of equipment, including ventilators, field kitchens and tents, were being airlifted by military planes from Hawaii.

At Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, Adm. John H. Sides, commander of the Pacific Fleet, ordered three more Navy ships to Guam. The cargo ship Winston, loaded with emergency supplies, was to leave Pearl Harbor today.

No Profit On Stamp Misprints

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department is going to flood the market with misprinted Hammarskjold stamps, puncturing the paper profits of the few collectors who hold the limited number of imperfect stamps which first slipped into circulation.

As expected, the department got some unhappy reactions to its announcement Tuesday.

"Isn't that lousy?" sighed Mrs. Leonard Sherman of Irvington, N.J.

Her husband has a full 50-stamp pane of the 4-cent stamps honoring the late U.N. secretary-general, Dag Hammarskjold. At least 400 of the 120-million issued were printed on an inverted plate.

Sherman figured his inverts might be worth $500,000 to philatelists eager to add the imperfect issue to their collections. But the Post Office plans knocked the bottom out of the market and even direct action didn't help.

Sherman called James F. Kelleher, special assistant to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, and talked for 30 minutes Tuesday. But Kelleher didn't budge from his announcement that the department will print more of the inverted plate stamps and anyone can buy them through the department's philatelic division.

Stamp enthusiasts estimated that would send the value of each stamp plummeting from hundreds or even thousands of dollars to about a dime apiece.

The Post Office Department said the decision follows Day's "policy of avoiding production of rare or over-valued philatelic items."

Reds Let Up A Little On Preaching

The Rev. Donald V. Roberts, first Protestant chaplain of Moscow's diplomatic colony since the Bolshevik revolution, held his first service in a large room of the British Embassy just across the river from the Kremlin. Sixty Western diplomats and their wives attended. The 35-year-old pastor is a Presbyterian, but his sermon—which made no mention of the Soviet Union—indicated he would do his best to serve all Protestant faiths. The Rev. Mr. Roberts, whose last post was as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Tonawanda, N.Y., was sent to Moscow by the U.S. National Council of Churches after the Soviet government agreed to his presence.

Pope John XXIII advised 240 juvenile delinquents at a Rome reform school to forget the past and present, and have confidence in the Lord. The pontiff's eyes welled with tears at times during his visit to the 200-year-old Gabelli Institute.

He advised the inmates of the reform school and others brought in from another institution to look to the future. He also advised them that "if you want to succeed, you must also know how to obey."

Thirteen courtiers, who in relays had covered a total of 7,800 miles, puffed into the palace bringing birthday greetings to the sports-minded monarch from athletic organizations in all parts of the kingdom.

The Swedish people gave the king a bank book with a deposit of 5 million crowns—about $1 million. The money, collected by popular subscription, will go into the king's Royal Foundation which distributes grants and scholarships to Swedish artists and scientists.

He said, however, that the opportunity exists for creating conditions that will lead to peace.

Rotary Program Points Out Problems Faced By Farmers

"Farmers of today are the most efficient operators in the world," Jimmy Taylor, ex-Howard County agent, told Rotarians Tuesday. "They have to produce food and clothing for themselves and 25 other people. We want to re-emphasize the problems being faced by the farmers today."

Bill Coleman, program chairman for November, introduced Taylor, who introduced Atkins for the Farm-City Week program. Atkins farms in the Lomax Community.

Howard County has produced an average of 30,000 to 35,000 bales of cotton a year, the speaker said.

This year, however, because of dry planting weather, insects, and other things, the yield will be off from eight to 10 thousand bales. We planted some cotton late and what it is going to do will be determined when it is harvested," he continued.

"We probably mis-guessed the insect hordes. When you can see the little 'boogers' without your glasses it's too late to do much about it."

Atkins said he had one 130-acre tract which would be off about 100 bales this year, partly because of hail damage and partly because of other things. He said another 40-acre tract would be off about 40 bales and that it had no hail damage.

"To show you some of the things farmers face today," Atkins said, "a four-row tractor, in 1952, cost about $3,500. In 1962, it costs between $6,500 and $7,000. Labor could be had for $5 a day in 1952 and now it costs $10 a day. We had from three to five thousand braceros in the area last year. This year there were between 300 and 400. It has been decreed by the Department of Labor that we shall pay a cotton-picking bracer 70 cents per hour, and some of them can't pick over 200 pounds a day. The slow picker will draw just as much money in a day as one who can pick 700 to 800 pounds and that isn't fair."

"A man sitting in this room has a tractor out there I sure would like to have. It costs about $10,000, but I am going to try and buy it and cut out a full-time man. I am also going to buy another cotton-picking machine and cut out

Cooper Selected For Next U. S. Manned Space Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., a dedicated flier who handled the controls of a plane at the age of 6, will be the pilot for the next U.S. manned space flight—a 24-hour orbital mission scheduled for next April.

The 35-year-old Air Force major was named Tuesday to carry the banner on America's next big step toward its target of landing men on the moon in this decade. The full day flight will swing him 18 times around the globe, triple the six-orbit ride made last month by astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

Informed of his selection while working at Cape Canaveral, Cooper said he was "very delighted that I have been chosen. I've been working toward this goal for a long time."

WIFE'S HAPPY

At their Houston, Tex., home, Cooper's wife, Trudy—whom he taught to fly soon after they were married—said she was happy and pleased with the choice.

She said Cooper called her from the Cape and broke the news shortly after their two daughters, Camala, 13, and Janita, 12, returned from school.

The astronaut's mother, Mrs. Leroy G. Cooper Sr., who lives near the tiny mountain town of Carbondale, Colo., reported she was very happy with the selection. Her husband, the spark behind Gordon's early flying interest, died two years ago.

Cooper, a native of Shawnee, Okla., is the only eligible member of the seven-man Mercury astronaut team who has not rocketed into space. He was backup pilot for Schirra's flight.

Alan B. Shepard Jr.—named Cooper's backup—blazed the trail with a 15-minute suborbital space journey in May 1961. Virgil I. Grissom followed the same course. John H. Glenn Jr., and Malcolm Scott Carpenter made three-orbit flights earlier this year before Schirra went aloft.

GROUND

The seventh Mercury pilot, Donald K. Slayton, has been grounded because of a heart flutter.

If all goes well, Cooper's 18-orbit mission may wind up the Mercury program. However, officials said there was a good possibility a second full-day flight may be scheduled before the Gemini program starts in 1964.

The two-man Gemini capsule, boosted aloft by the Titan 2 rocket now being developed, will remain in orbit for periods up to two weeks and active rendezvous missions with other orbiting satellites.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration recently named a group of nine new astronauts to join with the Mercury pilots in the Gemini program. Many of them will move on to the Apollo manned moon landing program.

The plan is to launch a three-man Apollo ship around the moon with a Saturn booster before 1970. Cooper's flight will provide further data on how man is affected by prolonged weightlessness and other space phenomena.

The flight will not match the twin flights last August of Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich. Both circled the globe simultaneously. Nikolayev remained up for more than 94 hours and Popovich for 70 hours.

Cooper's father, an Air Corps colonel who was a close friend of such aviation pioneers as Wiley Post and Amelia Earhart, took his son flying almost before he could walk.

When he was 6, young Cooper took the controls of a plane under his father's watchful eye. He flew his first solo at 16.

Cooper, called "Gorodo" by his fellow astronauts, entered the Marine Corps after high school graduation in 1945.

After discharge he attended the University of Hawaii for three years. Here he met and married Trudy. She soon had a pilot's license and the couple explored the Hawaiian Islands by plane. They took Camala flying soon after she was born.

Cooper entered the Air Force in 1949 and had assignments in Germany, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, and Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., where he helped design and test several jets.

Honey Of A House

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—They ripped open the ceiling of the Richard Webster's house and gallons of honey oozed out.

In sticky succession, layers of honeycombs peeled apart and plopped down.

Honey began dripping from the ceiling of a bedroom last week. "I called the bee people, the real estate people, the insurance people," said Mrs. Webster. "They all came out and looked."

"They decided to open the ceiling Monday and look some more. "At least four gallons of honey came out, I imagine," said the carpenter who performed the operation, "and about two 10-gallon buckets full of honeycombs."

Bees had flown in through ventilating holes and built their combs between the ceiling and the roof.

Warming Trend Next Few Days

By The Associated Press

Colder weather delayed the Texas Panhandle promised its approach Wednesday.

While early morning temperatures again were on the nippy side across much of the state, forecasts called for a warming trend the next two or three days.

The Weather Bureau added, however, that a fresh mass of cold air southbound from the Rockies should arrive by the weekend.

A few showers were in prospect Thursday for the south edge of South Central Texas. Additional light showers were expected to dot most areas of the state during the weekend or early next week.

Temperatures before sunrise Wednesday ranged from 30 degrees at Junction up to 57 at Galveston.

WMU Anniversary Is Observed At Coffee

An enrollment coffee, observing the 75th year of the Woman's Missionary Union, was held as a costume affair at the First Baptist Church Tuesday morning.

Approximately 75 women were registered. Picture bulletins were displayed featuring likenesses of presidents of the local Ladies Aid Society, dating from 1887, and the local Woman's Missionary Union, since 1902. The first president of the local organization was listed as Mrs. C. C. Russell. Today's president is Mrs. Zack Gray.

Those listed as having served the longest number of years were Mrs. B. Reagan and Mrs. W. B. Younger.

One bulletin honored those for whom circles have been named. Two who went out as foreign missionaries were Miss Lucile Reagan who gave her life in Nigeria, and Christine Coffe Chambers. Currently serving as missionaries, Maybelle Taylor and Helen Jean Parks, were listed as having circles named for them. Mrs. Joe W. Barnett who became a member in 1892 was honored for length of active service.

Former pastors and the present pastor were featured, beginning in the year 1886. A background banner bore the WMU Watchword, "Laborers Together with God," in silvered letters along with the WMU 75th anniversary seal.

WMU colors, blue and white, were used for the refreshment table which was centered with blue carnations. Mrs. Gray, assisted by Mrs. T. K. Price, presided at the coffee service.

Those in charge of arrangements were Mrs. Bill Johnson, enrollment chairman, and her committee. Mrs. Della K. Agnell, jubilee chairman, prepared decorations and bulletins.

The poster displays will again be exhibited by the church women on the Wednesday night dinner and prayer meeting.

Mrs. Ashley Writes Of Her Tour Of Europe

Editors Note: Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, a former correspondent of the Herald, writes of her impressions while on a tour of Europe with her husband, Mrs. Ashley's story began when a doctor friend remarked that the people of Big Spring have a wonderful opportunity to offer hospitality and good will to the foreign students and commented on the far reaching results this could have. The Ashley's opened their home to the foreign students who were in Europe. This account is second in the series.

This week has been a kaleidoscope whirl of people and places, new experiences, strange foods and unusual customs.

Today we walked the cobbled streets of Landsburg, looked in the shop windows and mentally calculated the difference between dollars and marks. Landsburg, one of the oldest cities in Southern Germany, is situated on the beautiful Lech River. It is rich in history and tradition dating back to the time of Christ.

We made our way down the tiny streets and narrow alleys, away from the heart of the city, to a winding path and steep stairs which led to a hill where the great wall stands. The wall and what remains of a moat surround the older part of the city.

We walked beneath towering trees bright with autumn foliage. The scene seemed somehow reminiscent of a day and age when man could build a wall and feel secure, but now and then the roar of a high-flying jet reminded us that time is gone forever.

RURAL SCENERY

Beyond the town, into the country, we saw farmers making preparations for winter. Ready for and desirable in developing character. Mrs. Tom Marr, ways and means chairman, reported on the rummage sale held last week, and read the work list for the sale scheduled for Nov. 17.

A Thanksgiving party has been planned for the children and teachers of the Special Education School for Nov. 20, according to Mrs. Jerry Spence, service committee chairman.

Members will give a food basket to a needy family for Thanksgiving. The Nov. 26 meeting in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company will be the occasion for a pledge ritual, followed by a card party. As a fund raising project, the sorority will give away a set of luggage on Nov. 17.

The refreshment table was centered with a dried flower arrangement. Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Joe Bell were cohostesses.

Mrs. Lansing Gives Spoudazio Program

"Women, Sharing Their Heritage," was the program topic discussed by Mrs. W. W. Lansing Tuesday night for the Spoudazio Forum Study Club. Mrs. Helen Harris was the hostess at her home, 2608 Cindy Lane.

Mrs. Lansing stated that clubwomen should respect past accomplishments, while striving to add honors of their own to the heritage of the next generation.

Mrs. Don Farley, vice president, conducted the business session. Mrs. J. M. Hill will be hostess for the next gathering of the club on November 27.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Farley from a table centered with an arrangement of frenched mums.

Mrs. Fox Leads Circle Study

The Parent-Teacher Prayer was used by Mrs. Lige Fox as the basis for the chapter study on Today's Children at the Reba Thomas WSCS Circle, First Methodist Church, gathering Tuesday evening. Mrs. W. S. Goodlet was hostess.

The general meeting report was given by Mrs. Charles Staggs. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Ed Shive and Mrs. Roy Rosene.

The next meeting of the circle will be on November 27 with the hostess to be announced.

Small Fry Cooks

When your small fry wants to "cook," they'll enjoy stirring together a simple confectioners sugar frosting and using it for sandwiching plain cookies together.

Bride-Elect's Shower Held At McClain Home

Miss Brenda Woods, bride-elect of Eugene Coleman, was honored Tuesday evening when a shower was given by H. C. McClain at her home in Knott.

Eighty-two guests, registered by Mrs. Robert Beall, were served from a table featuring an arrangement of autumn flowers and a decorated sheet cake.

Cohostesses for the pre-nuptial event were Mrs. Donald Allred, Mrs. J. W. Fryar, Mrs. Veri Shaw, Mrs. R. H. Sample, Mrs. L. R. Smith and Mrs. J. B. Shockley.

market were wagons loaded with the harvest fruits, and in the meadows were great herds of dairy cattle. Everywhere we were impressed with the display of cleanliness. Evidence of winter's approach was everywhere with fog hanging over the river, a trace of mist, the smell of wood smoke, bread baking and a chill in the air.

Later in the day we saw the gray gloomy wall of Landsburg prison protected with barbed wire and manned with armed guards. It was here that Adolph Hitler wrote his book, "Mein Kampf."

That evening we went to church in one of the centuries-old churches for which Landsburg is famous. The building is enormous with heavy columns, great vaulted ceilings and a gloomy atmosphere not to be dispelled by electric lighting. It was awe inspiring with a glow of soft light on ornate carvings and elaborate gold fixtures, a picture not soon to be forgotten.

After seeing our first spine-tingling, fast moving game of ice hockey, we had a midnight supper in a dimly lit cellar far below the streets. The food here is wonderful. I believe my favorite of the many taste-tempting foods is the bread with butter.

AT KARLSRUHE

In Karlsruhe, we visited in the home of Erwin's fiancée, Rose Kotchi. We were hours late in arriving there but there was a warm meal waiting and a place to sleep prepared for us. We were treated to such delicacies as Poppy Seed Cake and Frankfurter Braten, which is a special cut of veal stuffed with sausage and boiled eggs.

From Karlsruhe we went to Worth, and visited there with Erwin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fredrich Heilmann, his three brothers and his sister. We felt at home immediately. Although they spoke no English we knew at once that we were welcome. Here, too, we were served food fit for a king, a delicious potato soup and light fluffy steamed noodles and wine sauce.

Before our trip is finished we will return to spend more time with the Heilmans, explore the little village on the Rhine, and collect a few more recipes.

Because of Erwin we have traveled, not as tourists but as his countrymen. We have explored off the beaten path, seldom frequented by Americans.

Tomorrow we will begin a leisurely drive which will take us into the Alps, Tirol, northern Italy and finally Vienna.

Flamettes Plan Company Party

The Christmas party for Pioneer Natural Gas Company employees and their families is set for Dec. 14, 7 p.m. in the Flame Room.

The next regular meeting of the group will be in the Flame Room at 7:30 p.m., January 8.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ronnie Hamby and Mrs. Daryl Pitman.

Put Paper Cups, Thermoses To Use

Cups are easy to handle in and out of the lunch box. There's no mess when hot soup is poured into the vacuum container cup, and it's simple and pleasant to sip and spoon. Paper cups with lids are perfect for salads, and what better lunch than a cup of soup, a cup of salad and cake as in this menu: cottage cheese and fruit salad cup, and a chocolate cup cake.

Ike Calls Tax Rate Drag On Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says present income tax rates are a drag on the economy and require an overhaul "to provide a wider purchasing power for all the people."

Eisenhower told the Economic Club of New York Tuesday night that, as a matter of fiscal prudence, any substantial lowering of taxes should be accompanied by commitments to hold constant or reduce federal spending in the next two years.

The former president shared the rostrum with Lucius D. Clay, former U.S. military governor of Germany, who said this country's arms quarantine of Cuba was effective while sparing the Cuban people from any further privations.

In his talk, Eisenhower called the economy "fundamentally strong, needing only a reasonable encouragement by government and a renewed confidence in the future to resume its dynamic progress."

The present tax structure, he proaches must be sought. There is no longer enough work to absorb the idle time of youngsters, so other solutions must be sought. He cited some of the temptations confronting youth and displayed two pornographic magazines he said had been purchased at a drive-in grocery.

Franc Flint, general secretary at the YMCA, felt that work could be done with youth groups to face up to some of the problems. One of them, he said, was drinking by some teenagers. Agencies which seek to help may create problems, too, for instance in night meetings which make it easier for some youngsters to stay out too late.

All speakers said the case load was overburdening the juvenile officer, and Flint suggested the possibility of a child welfare worker to assist. He thought that salary for such a work might be underwritten by the state. All speakers also emphasized that delinquency is not sectional—it is in all parts of the city without regard to income or social status.

The 1962 audit of books of the Big Spring Independent School District shows everything is in order.

George Thorburn, certified public accountant, at a regular meeting Tuesday night told trustees only one minor discrepancy was noted. During the year 25 canceled bonds and some canceled coupons were misplaced or lost. Investigation, however, revealed that they had been redeemed and canceled, and deposited in the proper funds.

Thorburn suggested that trustees decide how long they wanted to retain the perforated bonds and coupons and pass a resolution to burn those which were not needed. This will prevent such discrepancies cropping up in the future. At present bonds dating as far back as 1928 are being held. Thorburn said it is not necessary to keep them once they have been audited.

Trustees promptly decided to take his advice and authorized Sam M. Anderson, superintendent, to check into the matter.

A check of resources of the schools shows the value has increased by almost $200,000 during the year. At the end of the fiscal year Aug. 31, 1962, the figure was $6,247,052.04, compared to $6,051,150.91 at the same date in 1961.

Later this service may be extended to include an independent station, Lancaster said. The planned expansion of service will be at no additional cost to customers.

Mrs. J. A. Coffey Discusses Goals Of Education

Sometimes the true goals and status of education get confused with amor, Mrs. John A. Coffey told the Evening Lions Club Monday at Wesley Methodist Fellowship Hall.

One of the current clamors, she reminded, was for the United States to stay ahead of Russia in education. The fact is that Russia is investing more annually in education than the U. S., yet it is educating only the gifted and not the masses. The U. S. also is placing new emphasis on challenging the gifted, but it must not shirk its responsibility to democratic processes through failure to educate all others to realize the maximum of their capabilities, she said. To outstrip Russia, an investment of 20 billion dollars a year in education is indicated.

Gene Turner was program chairman and introduced Mrs. Coffey on the occasion of American Education Week.

Witness Says Judge Divided Estate Fee

BELTON, Tex. (AP)—Clem McClelland, former Harris County probate judge, heard a co-defendant testify Tuesday that they divided a $10,000 fee from the estates of a dead woman.

The testimony came from Richard H. Putney, accused with McClelland of converting estate funds to their own use.

McClelland pleaded innocent before testimony began. Putney will be tried separately.

The $10,000 came from the estate of Clara L. Currie for which he was administrator. Putney said. Defense lawyers objected repeatedly to his testimony arguing there was no documentary evidence to support his statement about the $10,000 fee and other matters.

Putney testified that more than $25,800 had been withdrawn from the estate's account with permission of the court. He also admitted that McClelland had asked for an annual account of the estate before a court of inquiry was held.

The defense entered more than 35 separate checks that Putney admitted had been withdrawn from the estate without written orders from the probate court.

Albert Currie Jr., testified that Putney was selected on the recommendation of an unidentified woman in McClelland's office when Currie asked for the name of a lawyer. Currie is the late Mrs. Currie's nephew by marriage.

Putney said he applied Sept. 10, 1960, to be administrator of the estate, and McClelland approved. He drew a $1,000 fee from the $160,000 estate in November, 1960, Putney testified. He asked an additional fee a month later, submitting the proper documents to McClelland but leaving the account of the fee blank, he related.

Putney said McClelland wrote in $10,000 for a fee and the probate judge told him: "This is an unusual estate, and you're going to need some assistance with it."

The state asked Putney what was to be done with the $10,000. He was told it was to be split evenly with McClelland, he replied.

The witness said he deposited most of the money in his personal account, wrote a check on that account for $5,000 and deposited it to the account of Tierra Grande, Inc. Tierra Grande, Inc., was not further identified.

The trial was moved to the Central Texas town on claims McClelland might not get an impartial jury in Houston.

Youth Crime Under Scientific Analysis

By BOB POOS
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—"We know how to put a man into orbit. But we don't know what the kid next door steals a car."

Thus Myrl Alexander of Southern Illinois University sums up one of the problems he must solve. Alexander is leader of a group at the university's East St. Louis branch that is spearheading a nationwide survey into why the boy next door steals, robs or generally goes bad. They want to find out how to help the boy.

Alexander, a professor of sociology at SIU, is developing the first anti-jvenile delinquency center under the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crimes.

He won his professorship the hard way—30 years with the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, the last 14 as its assistant director.

The government gave SIU $182,000 to set up the center and find answers to the problems of juvenile delinquency.

"Nobody in the world has the answers to this problem," Alexander said. "We don't pretend to. But we are involved in a nationwide attempt to develop new approaches to it."

Missouri, Texas Are Picked This Weekend

By HAROLD CLAASSEN Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—There must have been frost on the pumpkin used as last week's crystal ball in making the college football selections. Forty-one winners out of 58 decisions meant an average of only .707.

with no assurance that there are not as many traps as last week: Southern California over Navy; The Trojans are edging towards the Rose Bowl with Pete Beathard and Bill Nelson at the controls of their attack. Alabama over Georgia Tech; Probably the most rugged battle in the South since Grant took Richmond. A duel within a duel pits Joe Namath of Alabama against Tech's Billy Lottbridge. Minnesota over Purdue: Two of the country's best defensive out-fits tangle with the host Gophers having slightly the better of it because their line is anchored by Bobby Bell. Texas over Texas Christian: A year ago TCU's Sonny Gibbs shot down the Longhorns with a single pass, 6-0. This year Texas offers the passing of Tommy Wade in rebuttal. Missouri over Oklahoma: The Tigers could clinch the Big Eight title and an Orange Bowl bid in this one. Johnny Roland gives them a slight edge. Penn State over Holy Cross: The Nittany Lions are the East's only consistent football team.

Steers Work To Perfect Defense For R. Harris

Ahlene's mighty Eagles, who play the Big Spring Steers in a headline District 2-AAAA football game here Friday night, will take the field without the services of star wingback Dickie Newman. Newman will play no more games for the War Birds, who now are tied for first place in conference standings. Newman underwent surgery on a hand he injured in the San Angelo game. His place will be taken by Randy Thompson. Third-string quarterback Tommy Osborn of the Eagles is also out of the contest. He has torn ligaments and a damaged cartilage in his knee. Tight end Hugh Lankford, one of the leading receivers in the conference (eight pass receptions, good for 163 yards in gains) is favoring a shoulder injury but will probably play for the Eagles. The Big Spring Steers, who are in good physical condition for the invasion of the Eagles, will undergo drills today without head coach Don Robbins. Robbins is in Fort Worth to attend the death of an aunt and won't return to town until late tonight. The Steers will be seeking to come back after having dropped a 14-7 decision to Midland High and with it the conference lead. The Steers now occupy third place in the standings with a 3-1-1 record. They could conceivably win the championship by beating Ahlene and San Angelo in that order but could finish as low as fifth place if they fail to win either of their remaining games. Odessa Permian and Midland High, as well as San Angelo and Ahlene, still have chances to finish ahead of the Steers. This will be the final game for Big Spring. The Steers visit San Angelo next week to close out regular play. The coaching staff has been trying to perfect a defense all week that will slow down Rusty Harris, the Eagles' speed merchant who has gained 866 yards in 124 carries and who is almost certain to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the year. The Steers did a fairly effective job of slowing Mike Love of Permian but stopping Harris could be something else again. He's by far the fastest boy in the league and the Longhorns probably can't concentrate on him as they did on Love, since Ahlene will mount other threats.

Tommy Wade Earned Post Hard Way After Injury

AUSTIN (AP)—The fellow who's expected to lead Texas to the Southwest Conference championship and a return trip to the Cotton Bowl got his chance because he helped prepare the team for the last Cotton Bowl game. Sounds complicated. But Tommy Wade was running Mississippi plays last December against the Longhorn varsity and he caught the eyes of the coaches. His passing was impressive enough that they wanted a closer look in the spring. But Wade got a fractured ankle the third day of spring workouts and that was that. No one noticed him much this fall as Johnny Genung and Duke Carlisle quarterbacked the Texas team—that is, until the Southern Methodist game. Wade got in long enough to take Texas on a 65-yard drive during which he connected on four straight passes and had another dropped at the SMU one. That settled it: Wade would be the starting quarterback against Baylor the next week. He responded by connecting on 11 passes for 195 yards and two touchdowns, scoring another TD himself and directing the team to a fourth. He called 76 running and passing plays that netted Texas 356 yards. Wade was doing two things: He was showing that Texas, which had been winning its games on defense, did have an offense after all, and he was showing that he was the fellow to make it click. Tommy was directing Texas like a pro as it moved over Baylor. He didn't get panicky when Texas was behind 6-0. He threw a 54-yard "home run" pass to Tommy Lucas and a 14-yarder to Sandy Sands and Texas had the game in the sack, finally winning 27-12. Everybody was amazed that Texas would break out with a mighty offense under an unknown quarterback with more than half the season gone. But Coach Darrell Royal said it was done because he thought that was the way to win against a team that threw a lot of passes like Baylor. Besides Royal kept thinking about those ominous days last December as Texas prepared to meet Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl. Mississippi was a passing team. Texas had a good passer, Mike Cotten, and he led the Longhorns to a 12-7 victory over Mississippi. When Royal needed another one to fight fire with fire he called up Wade.

Coalition Ends Athletic Fight For Time Being

NEW YORK (AP)—The AAU and NCAA, at each other's throats for 2 1/2 years in a bitter war of words and actions over control of amateur sports in the United States, were wedded in an uneasy coalition today.

The truce, reached Tuesday night after two days of intensive negotiations and a personal appeal from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, will hold until after the 1964 Olympics.

"But," said one high official, "We hope it will naturally evolve into something permanent."

No details were announced but The Associated Press learned that the agreement provides:

1. The NCAA-backed United States Track and Field Federation would be limited to educational institutions.

2. The AAU will remain the sanctioning agent in all international competition.

3. The coalition will rule internal open competition in the United States.

On the surface, it would appear that the AAU has fought off the NCAA challenge successfully. The AAU never has been particularly interested in college competition, and as a matter of fact, does not require collegians to get its sanction.

The federation, on the other hand, had demanded sanctioning authority along with the AAU. This, the AAU maintained, was against the rules of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the governing body of world track and field.

Neither Walt Byers, chief NCAA negotiator, nor Col. Don Hull, who headed the AAU team, would make any comment. Only a formal statement, read by United States Olympic Committee President Tug Wilson was released.

Both the NCAA and AAU must vote on the agreement. Things had gotten to such a serious point that the NCAA was threatening to forbid college athletes to compete in AAU meets.

The AAU, for its part, had warned that collegians who participated in non-sanctioned meets could be barred from the Olympics.

The most immediate threat, if the conflict continued, would be to make the indoor track season a shambles. The federation has scheduled a national championship to conflict with the AAU national event.

The agreement did not include basketball and gymnastics, two other sports that the two factions have been feuding over.

"For our part," said Wilson, who called the meeting in a last ditch attempt to avert complete chaos, "we are greatly relieved. Now we can go full speed ahead on our plans for the Pan American Games and the Olympics."

Moore, Clay Tangle Thursday On Coast

By BOB MYERS Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Archie Moore-Cassius Clay boxing contest is billed as "the fight of the ages," a rather logical label when the ages of the participants are considered.

The affair is also a "battle of the lips," and it might even turn out to be the heavyweight fight of the year.

Clay, the loquacious one from Louisville, is a young man of but 20.

The age of Moore, the old mongoose from San Diego, is debatable, but somewhere in the upper 40s.

One-time triple champion Henry Armstrong once swore that he and Archie were boxing around St. Louis in smokers and the like in 1930.

Archie in the record book first fought formally in 1936.

Whatever the date of Moore's age, it is certain this remarkable man was fighting for a living before Cassius Marcellus Clay was born.

They go into the sports arena ring Thursday night for 12 rounds or less. Booked for closed theater circuit in a number of cities—no radio—the attraction is slated to start at 8 p.m., Pacific Standard Time.

Give or take a few matches, Moore, the former world light heavyweight champion, will be in his 220th ring engagement. He has won 187 and scored a record 136 knockouts.

Cassius, the 1960 Olympic Games light heavyweight champion, will make his 16th start as a professional. He has not been whipped and has scored 12 knockouts.

Moore, famed for ballooning to 200 pounds and up between matches, appears to be a svelte for Archie—198. He stands 5-foot-11 and has the build of a small bull in his shoulders and upper arms.

Clay is almost 6-3, weighs about 200 and, as even Archie admits, is a picture of bodily perfection.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

Ahlene's David Jefferies is supposed to be the best high school quarterback in West Texas this fall.

If he's any more talented than Midland's Bill Wood, he'll have to go some. Wood was probably the difference between the Bulldogs and Big Spring last week, even though Ross Montgomery was given most of the credit for the win the Bulldogs achieved.

Bill ably ran the ball. He was a wizard at mixing up his plays and he threw excellent passes, some of which were dropped by his receivers when they were in the clear.

Bill, along with Montgomery, will be back again next season to give the Bulldogs a good one-two punch.

Big Spring, of course, must look at Jefferies and Rusty Harris this week. Some observers say Ahlene has the best team in District 2-AAAA, even though San Angelo bids fair now to represent the conference in the playoffs.

A Steer team hasn't beaten an Ahlene High team since long before any member of the present Big Spring club was born. (Coach Don Robbins was only a seven-year-old striping at the time).

If the Steers get as high as they did against Odessa Permian, anything is possible.

Audrey Gill, athletic director of the Midland schools, reportedly was more than a little rankled because Big Spring cancelled its B game with Midland Lee last week.

Coach Robbins actually offered to play the contest Nov. 24 but the offer was rejected.

Big Spring's problem was this: Its first string quarterback, Ricky Earle, played in both halves of the varsity game against Permian that weekend and wouldn't have been eligible to play against Lee.

It's second string quarterback, Gary Holeman, was called to Oklahoma following the death of a relative and wasn't available, either. Four members of the Shorthorn squad had been promoted to the A team for the Permian game.

Contrary to reports, Big Spring didn't have 34 players suited out for the Permian game. It had 28 boys available for duty.

The B football game here between Big Spring and Ahlene Cooper, originally scheduled for 2 p.m. last Saturday, was set back 30 minutes because the Steers' photographer, Robbie Robinson, had to come all the way from Lubbock after a Saturday morning class there.

The athletic office wanted the game filmed.

There are some stellar prospects down on the Steer B squad. One of the best is quarterback Ricky Earle, who will team with Albert Fierro to give the Steers a lot of strength at that position.

Dub McMeans and Willie Johnson, both backs, are among others who can give the 1963 Steers a big boost.

Prior to the Big Spring-Midland football game, scout Sam Cox of Midland told the Midland Bulldog Booster Club that Dickie Spier and "might be just as good."

Spier certainly didn't do anything to disappoint observers, although Big Spring got beat. He picked up 115 yards rushing in 12 carries and made Big Spring's lone touchdown.

Dickie has developed especially well in the last three weeks, although he has been handicapped by injuries.

Forsan Girls Tip Stanton

STANTON — The Forsan girls won their second straight basketball game here Tuesday night, turning back Stanton, 52-22. Stanton won the B game, 47-34, with Martha Britton's 20 points leading the way. Paula Gordon counted 15 and Karen Lawson ten for Forsan.

Betty Conger paced the Forsan A team with 22 points while Bonnie Simpson counted 16. For Stanton Sale led the way with 13.

Susan Elrod pulled down 15 rebounds in the back courts for Forsan. Other Forsan guards who distinguished themselves included Lanell Overton, Pam McKinnon, Patsy Gooch and Jan Rutherford.

The Forsan girls open play in the fourth annual HCJC High School Girls' tournament in Big Spring at 11 a.m. Thursday against Grandfalls.

Against Stanton, the Queens hit 60 per cent of their shots from the field the first half and 55 per cent after the intermission.

FORSSAN (52) Betty Conger 9-22; Bonnie Simpson 6-14; Judy Hughes 3-8; Judy Dodd 3-6; Totals 51-20-21. STANTON (22) Christie 2-4; Nowlin 1-2; Sale 6-13; Graves 1-3-4. Totals 28-12-12. Score by quarters: 12 10 14-22 Forsan 6 9 8 6-23 Stanton

Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. (John 14:27.)

Sustain The Pressures

The removal of missiles, or apparently those which were operational, from Cuba has lessened the immediate tensions of this crisis, but the need for constant pressures on the situation continues.

The President is reported insisting that the Soviet-made bombers in Cuba must also go. There also should be adequate means of verification concerning this point and the missiles.

Having agreed to the International Red Cross as an inspecting agency, the Russians now show signs of backing off this agreement on the grounds that they say they have removed the missiles and returned them to Russia. Too, they have been taking refuge in verbal clamor for the United States to abandon its naval base at Guantanamo.

In the face of this feet-dragging, our position needs to be one of firmness and of sustained pressure. To delay unreasonably on the fulfillment of demands would be to invite misinterpretation of our intentions. To equivocate would put some face on Castro, whereas to tighten the grip may hasten the moment of collapse.

We have achieved a strong moral position in the Cuban crisis, but now we need to follow it up with positive pressure.

Ironical Thrust

It is ironical that Richard Nixon has been dealt the cruelest thrust by the media he defended in his epilogue of political retirement.

In his swan song, Mr. Nixon bitterly attacked segments of the press for what he called unobjective reporting of his campaign and of his views. He cited only one chapter and verse, and that an omission by a metropolitan paper which was one of his staunchest backers. In the course of his blast off into retirement, Mr. Nixon cited television coverage as being exemplary.

Then came the American Broadcasting Company's review Sunday of Mr. Nixon's career. One of those included in the roundup was Alger Hiss, the former government and state department official who had been convicted of perjury, thanks largely to Mr. Nixon's relentless investigation. Hiss served time for lying under oath in denying he had passed information to a Communist apparatus.

Hiss' comment may have been undertaken in the interest of objectivity, but the mere invitation of an appearance by Hiss was not in best taste. Sen. Dodd (D-Conn.) attacked the idea of providing Hiss a national forum and the opportunity for a convicted perjurer to "sit in judgment" on Richard Nixon. It was a mistake to have provided this platform, and it was an unwarranted and unnecessary slur to have included it on the program.

David Lawrence Conservatism In The House

WASHINGTON—Quite a lot of publicity was given last week to the fact that the Democrats lost fewer seats in the House of Representatives than either party in power has sustained in an off-year election since 1934. But nobody seems to have pointed out that the Democrats in Congress are weaker in strength today than they were after the off-year election only four years ago. For in 1958 they achieved a membership of 283 as against their 259 this past week.

Nobody seems to have pointed out also that no Democratic President since the 1930's—when the Democrats elected 322 members in the House in 1934 and 333 members in 1936—had anywhere near these totals in either a presidential or an off-year election.

The fact stands out that, were it not for the help of its conservative wing in the South, the Democratic party today would be a minority party.

Thus, there are, for instance, 95 Democrats in the House of Representatives from the 11 states of the South and without these votes in the new Congress which assemblies in January the Democrats would have only 164 seats as contrasted with the 176 held by the Republicans.

Since most of the Republicans are conservatives, this means that the conservative coalition of Republicans and Democrats in the House of Representatives retains a substantial majority—just as effective as the coalition majorities which have prevailed since 1938.

But, inasmuch as the 1934 election has received so much attention as a basis for comparison, it is interesting to note that after the bank holiday and deep depression of 1933, the election of 1934 furnished the first opportunity for the voters to express themselves on that issue. They were not only showing their resentment against the Republican party for allegedly having brought on the economic debacle, but they were impressed by the efforts made by the Roosevelt administration to bring recovery. That's why in the 1936 election the Democratic party actually increased its seats in the House of Representatives from 322 in 1934 to 333 in 1936.

But two years later the turn came. The people became impatient over the failure of the New Deal to wipe out unemployment. Large numbers of voters also disapproved of President Roosevelt's attempt to tamper with the Supreme Court. Accordingly, in the 1938 off-year election, the Democratic membership in the House of Representatives dropped from 333 to 262. This loss of 71 seats was a crushing blow for "new dealism" or "liberalism." It was then that the present-day coalition really began to rule Congress.

Significantly, in the presidential-election year of 1940—due to the continued rise of the conservative trend—the Democratic strength in the House increased by only

James Marlow JFK Paints Himself Into A Corner

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has painted himself into a corner with election campaigning for a big Democratic Congress. Getting out of it these next two years will require all his political skill.

Since he has plenty of that, the burden on him won't be unbearable and, win or lose with Congress, the result shouldn't interfere with his trying for the White House again in 1964.

But it will be interesting to see how he handles Congress with the presidential race coming up and the need for accomplishments intensifying.

In the past two years his has been a policy of be-nice-to-everybody, including even those Democrats and Republicans in Congress who did the most to frustrate him and his programs, like medical care for the aged.

It's possible, feeling the need for a better showing, he'll switch and get tough. But it isn't likely, if only because of the presidential race when he may feel he needs every vote from every section.

In the recent campaign he pleaded for the election of more Democrats to Congress to help him make good in the next two years on programs he couldn't make good on in the past two because his Democratic-run Congress blocked him.

It was an amazing political sight to see a President saying he needed more people from his own party in a Congress where in sheer numbers people from his own party already drowned the Republicans.

What he really was asking for was more Democrats to offset those Democrats who teamed up with Republicans to kill his programs. In this case it was mainly the Southern Democrats.

THE VOTERS gave him four more Democrats in the Senate, making the party's majority there 68-32, or better than two to one over the Republicans, although in the House the Republicans picked up two seats.

Those two seats have practically no significance in changing the already heavily conservative mood of the House since the Democrats there will outnumber the Republicans 259-176.

These small changes in the makeup of the two houses actually can be considered a Kennedy victory since the minority party in an off-year election like this traditionally makes solid gains but this year didn't.

Hal Boyle Through Irish Eyes, Darkly

NEW YORK (AP)—"Everything here is a symbol. If you ask a successful American who he is, he immediately wants to show you his motor car."

The speaker of the lines is Shirley Anne Field, who is known as one of Britain's angry young ladies and also as "the pin-up girl English intelligentsia."

Miss Field, a film star, is 24, beautiful, red-haired and green-eyed. She appears more cheerfully outspoken than angry however, and she feels one reason she is flip with the lip is that she's half-Irish.

"There is so much contrast in this country," she observed. "You meet here either people who are unbelievably talented—or people who seem to have no place at all."

"I'm a cold weather girl and like fresh air. But in New York you can't open a window. They're all painted together," she said.

"When I tried to open the window in my hotel, the maid told me, the air-conditioning in this room cost $10,000—and you have to use it."

Attacking a $6 steak with gleeful relish, Shirley said that despite the fact so many things in America were a symbolic price tag she was having a high old time visiting here.

"Actually, I live in a world of symbols myself rather than one of reality," she confessed. "I always feel like I'm on the threshold of maturity, but never quite through. You get very confused when you are young and in this business."

Shirley feels a close kinship to the late Marilyn Monroe. A war widow reared in an orphanage, she went to work as a secretary at 15, saved her shillings to take drama lessons. She was a model and a television performer before winning movie recognition.

As did Marilyn Monroe, she aspires to glamor, but she resents the thought that to a studio an actress is "just a mobile, animated piece of property."

"I picked show business because it forces a kind of discipline upon one. But to be yourself takes a lot of courage. In the final analysis, you're alone in what you try to do in life," she said.

"And you get lost if you're not yourself. If you don't know who you are, who does?"

"But all I can do is act—and cook. Sometimes I feel happy only when I'm working. You need a complete dedication to self. But I have fears, and when I'm acting someone else—well, those fears go."

To Your Good Health Slow Student Needs Tutor In Reading

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 15, is a fine boy, but he is slow with his book work at school.

He is bright about other things, works part time during vacations and is well and strong.

His teacher tells me his reading is weak. He reads real fast, but has difficulty in understanding what he is reading about. This makes school much harder. Have you any suggestions?—MRS. R. S.

This isn't a "medical problem" in the usual sense of physical health but perhaps it should be so regarded.

Your son is not performing at his best. If he were lame, we would try to correct it. If he couldn't hear, we would try to correct that—or if we failed, it would be part of our job to refer him to a lip-reading teacher.

Why not the same for such an important process as reading? The probability, on the face of things, is that this boy isn't really "reading" at all. He probably is just scanning the words. Perhaps he has never honestly learned to enjoy reading and skims over the words just to be finished as soon as he can.

Or, alternatively, aware that he isn't a good reader, he may be trying too hard to go too fast. I've seen Olympic sprint champions practice by running very slowly, so they looked like a slow-motion picture, perfecting their correct running form. Perhaps this boy should do the same thing. Read slowly to absorb the meaning of every word. Speed can develop later.

At 15, he probably will have trouble straightening this out unless he has help. Some school systems have special departments or special teachers to deal with such problems. Others don't.

Talk to school authorities to see what help is available. Sometimes an expert may be found in a university or college in the vicinity. If not, there may well be a teacher with special ability along these lines.

In any event, I would certainly see that the boy gets some tutoring. The longer he continues with this difficulty in reading, the more trouble he is bound to have with virtually all of his school work.

I assume that in this case, his vision already has been carefully checked. In far too many cases (but usually at younger ages) children who are "slow" in school have been found to have faulty vision. If you can't see the teacher, the books or the blackboard, you can't learn very much. Yet I've seen Olympic sprint cham-

Red-Hot Planting

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Last spring a roaring fire destroyed a quarter of a block of business establishments in downtown Des Moines.

Now a sharp-eyed passerby has discovered that deep in the hole from which debris was removed are several growing tomato plants and a couple of brocoli plants.

Russell Howell, manager of one of the stores, says he had a full line of garden seeds on hand at the time of the fire.

$35 Pain

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP)—One of Yellowstone National Park's famed bears partly turned up with a terrific tummy ache.

Bill Hankins, Billings, Mont., gun ball machine service man, reported to park officials that he had a 44 pounds of gum balls when Hankins left the back end of his car open after taking out some fishing tackle.

The gum was valued at $35.

Around The Rim A Feeling Of Importance

"Can you pick out where we used to have that boxed-in spring?" Walton Morrison asked as we drove along US 87 south of town.

I couldn't just looking at the terrain, but probably I could if we were to hike out that way again. This was one of the spots which we had staked out as camping places when we were lads.

THIS PARTICULAR spot was in the end of a box canyon which lies at the foot of South Mountain. Probably it fingers off the section of Trinity sand as it dips sharply to the west to form the incline under the City Park area. It was from this slump that the water used to issue as the "big spring."

Anyhow, some of our more enterprising brethren had learned that by digging a hole in the floor of this canyon, water soon would seep in. It was a good place to get a drink when you were hiking and didn't have a canteen, but it was hardly adequate to supply a Boy Scout troop.

SO WE ENLARGED on the hole, and to keep the sand from sloughing from the sides, we put up a lattice work of sticks to box in the sides. This let in the water and held back the sand. You could dip up the water and still have good, clear water left. We felt a sort of kinredship with the pioneers.

There were some other spots on which we depended for water in our wanderings. One was down the valley directly east of Hughes Lake (now known as Cosden Lake). While the dam was always sturdy enough to hold back the biggest floods, it overlaid a gravel formation in the bed of Big Spring Creek. Water impounded in the reservoir percolated down through the gravel and out under the dam (it still does) and reappear half a mile downstream. When the lake was fairly full, this provided a substantial spring.

A LOT OF THE boys hiked to Moss Spring, and this made it pretty long between watering holes. By swinging to the south, we would come by a spring near one of the ranch houses as I recall.

There doubtless were a number of other springs scattered around the county and area which were known to ranchers and to adventuresome boys. The wetter the year, the more there were of these little seep springs, but wherever they were, it gave you a feeling of importance to be able to lead your patrol or your party to a well-hidden oasis. It's just as well that we didn't know about germs then.

Inez Robb Concert In An Ice-Box

What follows is a report, and not necessarily of a minority of one. And, in the classic tradition of the old-fashioned father whom it hurt more than his offspring when the former took the latter to the woods (that's greasy kid stuff now!), this purely personal judgment causes me considerable pain.

SO, NOT TO BEAT around the bush any further, deponent would just as soon attend a concert in an ice house as in the new Philharmonic Hall, the first building to be completed in New York's grandly ambitious Lincoln Center of the Performing Arts.

The center itself is a vast and wonderful dream to house the cultural achievements and aspirations of a great metropolis and a glorious nation. It is a dream that has taken years to mature, to finance and now to realize. Americans have nurtured the dream and supported it with pride.

BUT I AM NOT alone in viewing the first of the center's completed buildings, Philharmonic Hall, with dismay. Inside and out, this huge glass block is barren and sterile. All the lights of Christendom, blazing through its glass walls at night, cannot give it a semblance of warmth or humanity. Both have fled.

I have seen more than one modern factory in the Scandinavian countries that could have served as a model of Philharmonic Hall. And any number of these new, all-glass buildings on Park Avenue are superior or at least equal to it.

THERE IS NOT one touch of warmth or color or luxury in the glass box itself or in the great promenades on each tier of the hall. I grant that the promenades are very wide. But there is cold stone underfoot, an overwhelming and chilling expanse of glass on one side and bare walls on the other.

These promenades contain all the in-macy, beauty and allure of a monstrous gold fish bowl. If the glass walls framed a beautiful prospect, if they looked upon an entrancing garden, their effect might not be so repellent. But the "picture windows"—and the building is one vast picture window—open only on a panorama of New York traffic.

WHAT LITTLE BEAUTY, what soupçon of luxury, is allowed the Philharmonic Hall is spread thin over the auditorium itself. The dark blue walls are highlighted by the flight of acoustical gold kites suspended from the ceiling and the golden velvet that covers the seats.

But in truth, luxury and beauty have been avoided as if both were the modern plague or scourge of decoration. "Stark" is the word for the new Philharmonic Hall, both inside and out. Nothing about it is more disarming than the dreadful, dingy and unappetizing restaurant, considerably less attractive than many a New York City cafeteria, that hits one in the face as the concert-goer enters what should be the grand lobby of the building.

THE WHOLE CONCEPT of Lincoln Center is a splendid venture in courage for all who believe in the nation's tremendous cultural explosion. It is a modern expression of modern man's surge toward the arts. It is inconceivable that any but modern architecture should be chosen for the center, but not a modern expression best suited for a factory.

It will be a tragedy if, for example, the new home for the Metropolitan Opera turns out to be as frigid and antiseptic as Philharmonic Hall. If it should, God forbid, there will most assuredly be a serious movement started for the preservation of the old Met, just as there was a successful crusade to save Carnegie Hall.

Holmes Alexander Unusual Togetherness

WASHINGTON—Two American races, often in conflict, the Negro and the white Southerner, got together in last week's election and struck a good blow for the two-party system.

Negro candidates had their best day at the polls. Ed Brooke (R) won statewide as Attorney General in Massachusetts. Gerald Lamb (D) won statewide as State Treasurer in Connecticut. Negro Congressmen held their seats in New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan, while Negro Augustus Hawkins (D) won a Congressional seat in Los Angeles.

AN ATLANTA NEGRO, Leroy Johnson, went to the Georgia Senate, and a Baltimore Negro, Mrs. Verda Welcome, went to the Maryland Senate. Three Negroes made the Maryland House of Delegates.

All but Brooke of Massachusetts are Democrats, but in many cases they defeated Negro Republicans. Clarence Mitchell, who heads the NAACP in this city, tells me that the two-party pitch is a deliberate policy on the part of Negro leaders. The Charlotte (N. C.) House seat was contested by two white segregationists, Charles Jonas (R) and Paul Kitchin (D). Negroes were urged, says Mitchell, to support Jonas in the name of two-partyism.

CONTRARY to popular assumption, Negroes did not support Democrats because of President Kennedy's action in Oxford, Mississippi, according to Mitchell. Most colored persons apparently agreed with most white persons that Mr. Kennedy could have avoided violence and loss of life by a different action than he took. Negro bipartisanship in Pennsylvania may have had much to do with the split party decision, Joe Clark (D) winning for the Senate, Bill Scranton (R) winning the governorship. Negroes, says Mitchell, don't want to be in the pocket of the Democrats.

SOUTHERN WHITES seem to feel the same way, and had the same sort of election day success. GOP House candidates kept the seats they already owned in Congress. Republicans won additional seats in Florida, North Carolina, Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky and the "southern" Eastern Shore of Maryland. These victories tell but part of the story of two-partyism marching through Dixie, for some of the Republicans came very close in the House races.

Robert James of Memphis was approximately 500 votes behind the Democratic winner; Louis Williams of Richmond lost by approximately 350 votes; Kenneth Robertson of Winchester (Va.) was only about 700 votes behind. Moreover, Republicans did amazingly well at the Southern grassroots. They gained 7 seats in the North Carolina legislature, 2 Senate seats in Georgia, 7 seats in the Texas legislature. In Guilford County (N. C.) the GOP made a clean sweep of local offices.

IN SEEKING new political expressions, the Negroes and the Southern whites may be setting the long-awaited trend to a realignment of the parties. Negroes have long been exploited by Democratic liberals who, since FDR, have promised much more than they have ever delivered. Under the Republican Administration of Dwight Eisenhower, Negroes began to get the right-to-vote guarantees which accounted for much of their success last week. Southern whites also have a grievance against the national Democratic party, which has been far too radical for most Dixie voters.

WHILE NEGROES and Southerners were revolting against Democrats, New Englanders in Vermont and New Hampshire left their traditional Republicanism and chose Democratic Governors. The Conservative party in New York State took over 100,000 votes away from Governor Rockefeller, possibly warning him that he cannot ignore the right bower of his party.

One of these days in America we are going to get a party of the Right and a party of the Left. It appears that the 1962 Congressional elections were a move in that direction.

At Bay Of Pigs

Cuba's Fidel Castro, right, and Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, second from right, view wreckage of a plane at the Bay of Pigs Nov. 10, according to a caption on the Cuban government picture received in New York from a Havana broadcast. The caption says the wreckage is that of "an American military plane shot down by Cuban armed forces during the April, 1961, intervention at the Bay of Pigs."

Building Code Gets First Approval Vote

A building code for Big Spring, to become effective Jan. 1, 1963, was adopted on first reading of an ordinance at Tuesday night's city commission meeting. Two more readings are necessary. The ordinance states that all building, construction, rebuilding, remodeling, and demolishing of structures, in the city shall be done in accordance with the standards and specifications as re-

Alcoholic Beverage Sales Out Of Zoning Ordinance

The sale of alcoholic beverages will be taken out of the zoning ordinance in Big Spring. The city commission authorized an amendment to the zoning ordinance, placing regulations for such sales in the hands of the city commission, during Tuesday night's meeting. The planning and zoning commission recommended the change following several requests for zone changes from neighborhood service to retail districts to permit sale of beer for off-premises consumption. These had often been

Church Meet Ends Today

The district convention of the Church of God, being held in Big Spring, ended at noon today. Forty ministers and laymen, and their families, attended the meeting which opened Monday night at the First Church of God here. The Rev. W. Ward Jackson is pastor. Executive committee chairman, elected Tuesday afternoon, was Rev. James Curtis, Odessa; and chairman, Rev. Billy Sanders, Lubbock; secretary, Rev. Robert E. Bowden, Ballinger; and treasurer, Rev. W. Ward Jackson, Big Spring.

Miss Arah Phillips, Big Spring, was elected as a trustee to the Gulf Coast Bible College, Houston. The 10-year-old college with approximately 125 students, recently dedicated a new dormitory financed by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Walters of Big Spring. The convention members proposed, for licensing to preach, Joe Downs of Eastland and Jesse Elkins of Coleman. A new church at Midland was approved and will be started as soon as possible. The Rev. Edwin C. Ogle, first vice president of the college at Houston, will remain in Big Spring and will speak to the First Church of God congregation to-night. An invitation was extended to the public to attend.

Stanton Roundball Teams Take Wins STANTON—The Stanton elementary school boys turned back Courtney, 45-8, in a basketball game here Tuesday night. The game counted in district standings. Stanton now has won three of four starts. In girls' competition, Stanton also won, 23-18. Linda Lawmen counted 11 points for Stanton.

School Trustees Make Plans For Kentwood Area Plant

Architects for the Big Spring Independent School District were authorized to draw preliminary plans for construction of a school at the Kentwood site during the meeting Tuesday. Trustees will decide later whether the school can build the entire facility or a part of it. Trustees have discussed the matter previously with Atcheson, Atkinson and Fox, architects. Plans will be such that the school can be built in segments or wings to meet needs as they arise if funds are not available to complete the structure at one time. Sam M. Anderson, superintendent, reported that work began Monday on the new addition to Marcy Elementary School with initial preparation of the ground by Suggs Construction Co., Inc. Trustees voted to accept proposals by Shasta Ford Sales, Inc. on a superintendent's car and an athletic department station wagon. The firm proposed the same arrangement on both vehicles as it did last year. The superintendent's car will

Fire Truck Bids To Be Asked

Bids on two new booster trucks for the fire department are to be requested by the city, following authorization by the city commission Tuesday night. Alternative bids on 500-gallon and 750-gallon boosters will be asked. The trucks will be bought under the Master Plan bond program, and the larger boosters will be purchased if the Howard County commissioners court approves the difference in cost. The larger boosters, if bought, will be used for out-of-city fire fighting. A recent joint meeting of the city commission and the county commissioners was held for the purpose of discussing the larger boosters. The commission, in other business, authorized Mayor George Zachariah to execute a deed without warranty to transfer right-of-way, not needed for Goliad Street, to the Choate Estate; approved an ordinance increasing the participation of city employees in the Texas Municipal Retirement System from $4,800 to $7,200; and authorized the release of an old warehouse on Webb AFB to the federal government for demolition.

City To Close Union Street

Union Street, between East Third and Fourth Streets, will be permanently closed by ordinance authorized by the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday night. A request for closing the street was made by E. C. Smith to permit new construction where old buildings now exist. "We own the property on both sides of Union Street and are contemplating building a motel on this property. We have studied carefully the traffic problem in this area and do not feel that it would be any detriment to the city in closing the street. It would certainly enhance the property and would permit us to clear a blighted area from Big Spring," Smith said in a letter to City Manager Larry Crow. The commission discussed the condition of the old buildings on the property and all members felt that a fire hazard existed. The city attorney was instructed to draw up the ordinance closing the street.

LEGAL NOTICE

Water Board Puzzles Over Rio Grande Applications

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Commission will consider next week the puzzling applications by seven South Texas water districts for water rights from Rio Grande reservoirs.

The districts filed applications Saturday in an apparent effort to stake early claims to dwindling Rio Grande water in case Texas courts rule that the districts cannot continue taking water under present permits.

What the commission does about the applications will be watched closely by South Texans, now in a complicated legal battle for downstream users' water rights which has stretched on for several years.

The filings are an outgrowth of the suit, between the state and Hidalgo Water Control and Improvement Dist. 18. The 93rd District Court at Edinburg is scheduled to hear the case after Jan. 1.

"The (district) officers and directors make this application to protect the district's right to divert and use all water required for present and future purposes and needs," the applications state.

Commission personnel were baffled. The applications "are unusual, to say the least," said commission lawyer Roger Tyler.

He said the agency probably will consider the applications next week. The commissioners can either send the proposals to the staff for study, reject them or set a date for hearing. Action probably will wait until the courts decide the suit at Edinburg.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has asked the Edinburg court to determine which persons hold valid claims to Falcon Reservoir water, thus forcing court interpretation of 1895 and 1913 laws regarding Rio Grande water use claims.

District spokesmen said in the applications that they do not waive any rights granted under the 1895 and 1913 statutes to divert Rio Grande water.

A potential issue in the suit is whether the early permits to divert water from a flowing river apply to water stored in a reservoir after the stream is dammed.

The applications apparently are efforts to establish priority in time for water permits so water operations can continue if the courts rule against the early permits.

They were filed by Cameron County Water Control and Improvement Dist. 19 and 1; Hidalgo County Water Improvement Dist. 5, Hidalgo and Cameron County Water Control and Improvement Dist. 9, La Feria Water Control and Improvement Dist. 3 of Cameron County, Santa Maria Water Control and Improvement Dist. 4 of Cameron County and Cameron County Water Improvement Dist. 2.

Delay Hearing On Field Rules

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has recessed until Dec. 18 a hearing on field rules for the new Fairway Field in Henderson and Anderson Counties.

Examiner Pay Kelly said the December hearing will concern productive acreage.

Spokesmen at the hearing Tuesday split over proposed changes in the field's proration formula.

Bob Lattimer of Dallas recommended retention of present temporary field rules with a change in the allocation formula to 50 per cent acreage and 50 per cent net acre-foot.

He was supported by Humble, Atlantic Refining, Cities Service, Sun Oil and Continental Oil Companies.

Retention of the temporary formula based on 100 per cent acreage was supported by Phillips Petroleum Co. and B. F. Phillips, A. O. Phillips and Frank Diman, all of Dallas.

State Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler said the 100 per cent acreage formula "would cost the permanent school fund and taxpayers of this state millions. I urge consideration of a well factor along with acre feet of sand in arriving at an allocation formula."

He said 163 acres of state school fund land is included in the 20,000-acre field.

Negro Actress Says Film Makers Duck Race Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — Negro actress-singer Diahann Carroll says the movie company that hired Eurasian Nancy Kwan to play Miss Carroll's Broadway part in the film version of the musical "No Strings" is "running away from the color issue."

The Richard Rodgers musical as shown on Broadway deals with a love affair between a Negro girl and a white man.

"There's nothing personal about this," said Miss Carroll Tuesday. "It's not that they didn't give me the movie role." She said she wouldn't have minded if the role had gone to another Negro actress.

Producer Ray Stark of Seven Arts Productions said the color

Kennedys Applaud Bolshoi Ballet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin sat on opposite sides of the theater Tuesday night but joined in a warm burst of approval for the visiting Bolshoi Ballet.

The Soviet diplomat acted as Kennedy's interpreter later in an intermission backstage visit in which the President praised the troupe.

Kennedy, who said he had seen the Bolshoi in Moscow in 1939, declared their performance was "better than ever."

While Dobrynin stayed to applaud to the end, Kennedy left after two of the four acts of the Tchaikovsky ballet "Swan Lake." Mrs. Kennedy, a ballet enthusiast, stayed in the mezzanine box through the 3½-hour performance. She wore a long white satin gown with a beaded black jacket.

Kennedy also thanked the Bolshoi dancers backstage for providing his daughter, Caroline, with an unforgettable experience. She and her mother had gone to watch the dancers at an afternoon rehearsal.

The Russian dancers not only captivated Caroline "but all of us here this evening," Kennedy told the group in his backstage visit, with Dobrynin interpreting. The Russians applauded the President and First Lady. They gave the Kennedys Bolshoi mementoes and introduced their world-renowned former prima ballerina, Galina Ulanova.

During the performance, the Kennedys sat at a box on the right, with the Russians in a box at the left of a huge horseshoe mezzanine of the Capitol Theater. The ornate movie palace was filled with 3,300 for the black tie benefit premier.

The Kennedys had come from a White House dinner party with several of their guests, including Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, who made a recent trip to the Soviet Union; Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who recently entertained a Russian group here; and former ambassador to the Soviet Union Llewellyn Thompson.

American reporters were barred by Secret Service men and White House press aides from watching the backstage meeting. A reporter from Tass, the Soviet news agency, was on hand.

Washington reporters got a theater briefing later from White House press aides who took notes backstage and then rode back to the White House with Kennedy to check them with the chief executive.

ON THE SHELF

JUSEP TORRES CAMPALANS. By Max Aub. Translated from the Spanish by Herbert Weinstock. Doubleday, $5.95.

By The Associated Press Classification: artistic novelty. The real question about this book is: How elaborate can a hoax be? And you might answer: pretty elaborate.

On the surface, this is a critical biography of a printer who was born in the Spanish province of Catalan in 1886, who took part in the cubist developments early in this century, and finally became an exile in Mexico.

All the trappings of art criticism are here. There is a long section of "annals" which really is fascinating. There are a biographical section, reproductions of criticisms in esoteric publications, a catalog of an exhibition that never was held, illustrations of the painter's works and copious footnotes.

Some of the great names of modern art are bandied about; particularly, there are passages describing Torres Campalans' relations with Picasso. And there are long quotations from the subject of this volume, very double-talk pronouncements about art. The catch to the whole affair is that Torres Campalans is a mythical figure.

So what does that make this book? It is a highly intricate burlesque of modern art, an ingenious and detailed flubdub of painterly gibberish that will amaze the reader. It is said that Max Aub is a real person, but the reader may wonder. Put this down as a remarkable tour de force.

Paint A Sign On The Next One

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — An automobile agency decided to use a large, helium-filled balloon in its advertising program.

Manager J. D. Wright was sending up the 7-by-10-foot balloon Monday when the wind suddenly freshened. He called for help and a salesman ran out.

The balloon dragged the two men across the car lot. Finally a sharp wind gust snapped the heavy cord and the $280 balloon sailed out of sight.

DEAR ABBY
Too Much Too Soon

DEAR ABBY: A very popular boy at school (he is a basketball star) asked me out. And where did he take me? Parking! Then he bought me a malt at some dark, out-of-the-way drive-in where no one could see us. He did this four times. When a school dance came along he asked somebody else. When he sees me in the halls at school he acts like he doesn't even know me. I was hoping if I parked with him a few times he would get to like me well enough to ask me to some school dances, but it isn't working out that way. How can I get him to date me where we can be seen?

PARKED
DEAR PARKED: Apparently the boy is not proud to be seen with you. (And can you blame him?) You gave too much too soon. You'll never make his first string. Turn in your suit and get his team. And let this be a lesson to you.

ANOTHER CATHOLIC
DEAR ABBY: A member of my husband's family died recently. At the funeral parlor I saw my husband's brother and his wife. Neither the brother nor his wife gave me a hello. When I complained to my husband about it, he said the funeral parlor was not the place for socializing and that people rarely ever say hello to people they meet there. I've been to funeral parlors before, Abby, and nobody ever passed me up with that kind of excuse. Am I wrong or is my husband?

DEAR AZELIA: You did not marry a washing machine—you married a man. Warranties do not apply to people. But think it

Menon May Keep Part Of His Influence

By RANGASWAMY SATAKOPAN
An AP News Analysis

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Top Indian political and official circles believe that V. K. Krishna Menon will continue to be Prime Minister Nehru's chief adviser on foreign policy despite his fall from the cabinet and the debacle of his defense policy.

And there is no indication, these same sources say, that Menon won't continue to be Nehru's favorite spokesman at the United Nations when the prime minister feels Menon's special talents are needed there.

Nehru's reluctance in dropping Menon from his cabinet was plain. "I have decided with great regret to accept Menon's resignation," he told leaders of the Congress party. Nehru said he was accepting the resignation because the unending and mounting controversy around his closest associate would inevitably impede the defense effort.

But Menon continues to live across the street from Nehru's official residence, within easy reach of the prime minister whenever Nehru wants to consult him. And after years of paying close heed to Menon's counsel, it is highly unlikely that Nehru is now going to ignore it.

Menon no longer will exercise direct and constant influence on day-to-day policies, as he has for the past six years as a senior cabinet member, one of Nehru's aides said.

"But there is nothing to prevent him from continuing as Nehru's top foreign affairs confidant, which he always has been even without being in the cabinet," the aide added.

One top official commented wryly: "If tomorrow we need a man to talk with Chou En-lai, who else is there except Menon?"
