Giant Saturn Rocket Scores Third Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The mammoth Saturn rocket, intended in its later development to ferry astronauts to the moon, scored its third straight test-flight success today.

With its gigantic eight-engine power plant carrying a full load of fuel for the first time, the world's largest known rocket thundered away from its launch pad at 12:45 p.m. on a brief flight of less than five minutes. Only the first stage was fired.

Falstaff Opens New Brewery At Galveston

GALVESTON — Falstaff Brewing Corporation this week staged dedication ceremonies on the opening of Texas' newest brewery, with 400 employes among those taking part.

Another one hundred persons present for the dedication included public officials, the firm's distributors from fifty Texas communities, and officers and directors of the company. Joseph Griesedieck, president of the brewing firm, and Board Chairman Harvey Beffa, both of St. Louis, joined Plant General Manager Glen T. Smith, Galveston, in officiating at the ceremonies.

The trio unveiled a bronze plaque dedicating the new facility to "the continued well-being of the Texas Falstaff Family and to the continued industrial growth of the Great Southwest." Griesedieck cited construction of the brewery, one of the most modern in the nation, as a symbol of his firm's faith in the future industrial expansion of the Texas Gulf Coast area.

Smith said the brewery and its sister plant in El Paso account for nearly one-fourth of the company's production. Smith further noted that Falstaff's Galveston employes share an annual payroll of $2,404,000. In addition, the plant purchases annually more than $6,000,000 in agricultural and other products.

Kennedy Names Herter Trade Expansion Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has selected Christian A. Herter, a secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, to command U.S. negotiations aimed at slashing foreign trade barriers.

In choosing him Thursday, Kennedy said the 67-year-old Republican "will be directly responsible for preparing the proposed objectives and strategies for negotiations and for directing those negotiations while they are in process."

Thus the Paris-born Herter will have the key role in directing the historic trade expansion measure enacted by the last Congress—an act Kennedy called "a vital new weapon" for the cause of freedom.

The trade act authorizes 50 per cent cuts in most tariffs and elimination of those that are chiefly involved in trade between the United States and the European Common Market (France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands).

Kennedy said Herter will be "one of the top policy officials of the United States government in shaping and achieving our international objectives in the commercial, trade and economic fields."

Herter, a former congressman and governor of Massachusetts who served as secretary of state from 1959 until former President Dwight D. Eisenhower left office, will report directly to the President.

The Senate will have to approve his appointment when Congress reconvenes in January.

The title of the position—which will pay up to $27,500 a year—is special representative for trade negotiations of the United States.

In a statement, the President said formulation of trade policy "goes to the very heart of many policies and programs, domestic and foreign, which will help to

Judge Schedules Probation Hearings

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District court, has ordered Paul D. Stewart and Horace Lee Atkinson to be in his court Nov. 19 at 2 p.m.

At that time, the court will investigate reports that both of these men, now at liberty on probation sentences granted them by the court, have violated the terms of their probation.

The district attorney, Gil Jones, acting on information given him by the probation officer, John D. Dibreil, has filed motions in the court asking that the court revoke the probation and order the men to prison.

Has Christianity Failed?

By T. H. Tarbet, Prescher Church of Christ, 2900 West Highway 80 P.O. Box 1285

On the same page of a local paper this week were two articles on the growing problem of juvenile delinquency. One article gave quotations from an official in the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crimes. He was quoted as saying that nobody in the world has the answers to this problem.

I believe the Bible furnished the full and complete answer to this problem. Christianity is the answer — true Christianity (not something that has been watered down). We must produce true Christians, and dedicated ones.

The trouble is men do not want this solution. Parents do not want it in the first place. Then, the children, not having the proper upbringing and example, do not want it either. As someone has said, "Christianity has not been tried and found wanting. It has been found hard, and left untried." Isn't it time we were becoming more interested in real Christianity? Plan to be with us Sunday. Morning sermon: "Death in the Pot" (10:30). Evening service, 7. —Adv.

No Partisanship Over The Starlings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration spokesmen reported happily today that President Kennedy's newest program has won universal public support. The whole country, it appears, backs his measure to rid the White House grounds of starlings.

Pierre Salinger, press secretary, said the mail reflects an unmistakable anti-startling mood across the land.

Some correspondents aren't quite sure the administration, with its electronic screeching device, has chosen the most effective weapon to drive starlings from the White House grounds. They recommend other methods, from rotating lights to prayer.

One company in Phoenix, Ariz., offered to ship the White House without charge its handy-dandy contrivance, tested in battle and guaranteed to put starlings to rout. Salinger wrote a thank-you note but said it wouldn't be necessary to send the machine all the way to Washington.

Rather smugly, Salinger tells all who ask that the crisis has been met and weathered in triumph.

While theories may differ, Salinger has yet to hear from a protesting citizen.

White House mail, dominated recently by opinions on Khrushchev and Cuba, has been marked by startling commentary since last Friday. On that day Salinger confirmed that the horrible wail from a loudspeaker perched in a tree on the front lawn was a sound effect designed to chase starlings.

The birds, who make a lot of noise on their own and cause people visiting the First Family to wear hats, were officially recognized as a nuisance. Letters indicate this recognition also is widespread unofficially.

"Suddenly we find ourselves in great sympathy with the President and his family," wrote a man from Connecticut. After "a most distressing several months with starlings," he said folks in

XB70 Delay Not Regarded As A Setback

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force officers refused today to regard a three-month delay in the first flight of the 2,000-mile-an-hour XB70 airplane as a serious setback for the controversial project.

They said the Air Force expects little difficulty in solving the fuel tank problem that caused the delay from December to March or April.

The plane is known as the XB70 in its experimental form. As a reconnaissance-strike plane it would bear the designation RS70.

In a terse announcement late Thursday, the Air Force said the pioneer flight of the revolutionary plane has been rescheduled "because of problems encountered in satisfactorily sealing fuel cells of the aircraft, which will be subjected to the high temperature-generated at three times the speed of sound."

The problem involved leakage of volatile jet fuel from the plane's tanks and concern that such leakage could cause fire or explosion in flight. At 2,000 miles an hour, the temperature on the plane's surface would reach 600 degrees Fahrenheit.

Officials said the delay was ordered to be extra careful that nothing goes wrong with the critical first flight of the plane, which the Air Force wants to build as a reconnaissance-strike bomber.

Viewers Preferred Own Judgment On Hiss Appearance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Taft Broadcasting Corp. Columbus outlet, WTVN-TV, reported that criticism dropped off immediately after it aired a delayed broadcast of the controversial program, "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon."

Program director Joseph Jenkins said a majority of about 60 callers heard from since the program was shown Wednesday night voiced satisfaction at being able to see the controversial program and make up their own minds.

"But," Jenkins said, "many still objected seriously to the use of convicted perjurer Alger Hiss because of his reputation. They seemed to feel Hiss was given authority to make comments they did not feel were justified." Jenkins estimated the station received more than 1,000 calls since it canceled the program's original broadcast Sunday night. The calls were evenly balanced, he said, in favor of the cancellation and those who wanted to see it. He noted that most of those who wanted to see it objected to the appearance of Hiss.

Rusk Eulogizes Mrs. Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking at special memorial services for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, said Thursday she was a woman "who had no capacity for hate, but much for indignation."

In a tribute at Washington National Cathedral, Rusk said there was nothing passive about Mrs. Roosevelt's compassion.

"It led her to passionate words and deeds against poverty, disease, exploitation, prejudice, fear and oppression—and against such violations of human rights as a smashed printing press, the sale of a child in the market, a desecrated shrine, or a people robbed of their human dignity," he said.

Liberal Allies Disagree On Union Discrimination

NEW YORK (AP)—Two long-time allies within the American liberal movement—organized labor and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—have parted company, for the present at least.

The association, the nation's largest Negro rights organization, has set its sights on eliminating what it contends is discrimination within the labor field.

Labor, in turn, contends that the association's attack—or at least the attack by some of its officials—is indiscriminate and its charges too broad, although some labor leaders acknowledge that a few unions still do not grant equal opportunity to all members.

The controversy seems to revolve as much around methods and personalities as it does around the issues.

IN THE MIDDLE

In the middle stands the association's outspoken national labor secretary, Herbert Hill, a 37-year-old New Yorker, a white man.

In announcing its formal break in relations with the NAACP Tuesday, the AFL-CIO said it was doing so in protest against Hill's activities.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Hill had been making "baseless charges" against some unions and had been trying to get unions stripped of bargaining rights through National Labor Relations board procedures on the ground the unions were practicing discrimination.

Meany again acknowledged that certain unions do practice discrimination, and he said it must stop. But he also said Hill's plan would do nothing to end discrimination practiced in plants.

The AFL-CIO president said he had been authorized by the federation's executive council to write the NAACP that the AFL-CIO wanted to continue to cooperate to curb racial discrimination but felt it could not so long as Hill operated as he had been.

DOESN'T EXIST

In answering the Meany statement, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins said: "They are suspending something that doesn't exist." "This account seems to be directed to telling us whom we should employ, and this of course amounts to them overreaching themselves."

"We subscribe to many of the goals of organized labor. We appreciate what some unions have done in the civil rights fight. But the membership of the NAACP and the Negro people generally believe that a forthright fight against discrimination in employment, whether by labor unions or employers, must be made, and we intend to continue to press this campaign. And we would hope the AFL-CIO would come along."

Hill, a graduate of the trade union movement who came to the association in 1947 as a mediator between it and labor, is the architect of the new policy of toughness toward labor.

Lurking in the background is an unemployment crisis Hill says the Negro wage earner is now experiencing. Since March 1958, he says, the rate of Negro unemployment has been more than twice that of white workers.

"The trade unions have had an immunity from criticism for many years," he said in an interview. "Now I have removed the immunity. And they don't like it."

BROAD ATTACK

According to some published reports, what bothers labor leaders on the national and local level is the broadness of Hill's attacks on what he alleges to be labor's slow fight against discrimination. President George Meany of the AFL-CIO is among the antagonized labor chiefs.

In a speech last week, Meany accused Hill of falsehoods, smears and a political attack on labor. To a convention of the Negro American Labor Council, which backs the NAACP's labor program, Meany declared: "When anyone tries to say that the trade unions are the chief barrier to the economic opportunities of the Negroes in this country, I resent it and I reject it, for it is simply hot air."

FALSE PORTRAIT

He singled out Hill as the "chief prosecution expert" against labor, and accused him of falsely portraying labor's racial practices.

At the same convention, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers, said that discrimination against Negroes remains the "greatest gap between the noble goals of democracy and its performance."

He said progress toward equal treatment for Negroes has been too slow, and "we do not have another hundred years to wait" to achieve full justice.

Previous published reports had indicated Reuther also was irked at the NAACP's charges of discrimination in the labor movement, and that he was considering quitting as a member of the NAACP's 48-member board.

COULDN'T RESIGN

He is labor's only representative on it. However, in his speech, he said: "I couldn't resign if I wanted to. I am in this fight (against discrimination) because I want to be." He made no direct reference to Meany's speech.

As part of the NAACP's new program, it has begun a series of legal actions aimed at stopping alleged job discrimination among seamen, steel workers and railroad trainmen. Other such actions are promised.

Hill also instituted charges of discrimination against the AFL-CIO International Ladies Garment Workers that resulted in a congressional inquiry.

Hill is critical also of "a kind of paternalism on the part of some white Northern liberals."

LIBERAL CRISIS

"I feel there is a crisis in the liberal movement because of the new racism of the American Negro—the new tempo of Negro demands," he said.

Hill was asked where his passion for social progress came from.

"I don't know where I got it," he said. "My father was a musician and I entered New York University as a music major. Before long I had switched to political science and sociology."

"I joined the NAACP then as a volunteer worker, and I've been close to it ever since."

Hill is a writer and lecturer. He has four books on the racial question either in the works or ready for publication.

UNION WORK

For several years after college, Hill worked for the CIO-United Steel Workers doing organizational work, much of it in the South. He has been national labor secretary of the NAACP since 1950.

"For more than 10 years I have submitted memoranda to trade union officials, met with them, urged changes in the Negro's status, but the results were negligible," he said. "It didn't work."

Some Believe Nixon Isn't A Has-Been Yet

NEW YORK (AP)—Is Richard M. Nixon, the controversial man, really finished now in public life as a result of losing his race to be governor of California?

Some observers, including former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, say they doubt it.

"He's too able a man, extremely able," Eisenhower said in New York. "It's not possible to say his career is ended. Maybe he thinks so. But somebody is going to invite him back into politics."

In Washington, columnist David Lawrence wrote, "Maybe Richard Nixon has nine political lives after all."

And the New York Herald Tribune quoted an unidentified associate of Nixon as saying a Republican president would name Nixon secretary of state.

In any case, the immediate aftermath of Nixon's defeat in California has been to focus tremendous attention on him, more in fact than at any time since he left the vice presidency.

A BITTER MAN

First, there was Nixon's astonishing vaudeville.

Contrary to plan on the morning after the election, he appeared before about 100 reporters, and the television cameras, and said bitterly, "You won't have Nixon to kick around any longer, because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference."

Next came a television program broadcast by ABC, entitled "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon."

Alger Hiss appeared in it, expressing his views of Nixon as an investigator. Nixon played a leading role in the investigation of Hiss by the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1948.

Hiss later was convicted of perjury in denying he passed U.S. secrets to the Soviet Union. Thousands of telephone calls and several hundred telegrams deluged ABC after the program, officials of the company said.

In the succeeding days, New York newspapers published scores of letters relating to these two events. The majority appeared to be favorable to Nixon.

CONTOVERSY

So today, even in political ob-lition—temporary or not—Nixon is still a center of controversy. It has marked his political career ever since 1946, when he first ran for Congress.

One of Nixon's biographers, Earl Mayo, quotes him as saying on this subject:

"As to my whole outlook on being controversial—I am aware that when you take strong positions on issues, knowing that the public may not at that particular time support the positions, you run a great political risk. In the short run, it may result in your defeat. But in the long run it is the only way to build a sound party position."

Nixon became a controversial figure, to some degree, after the elections in which he defeated Jerry Voorhis for Congress and then Helen Gahagan Douglas for the Senate in 1950. But it was in the investigation of Hiss in 1948 that controversy swirled most fiercely around him.

HISS IMPRESSIONS

Hiss said on the television program: "My impression of him as an investigator was that he was less interested in developing the facts objectively than in seeking ways of making a preconceived plan appear plausible."

But Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., said on the same program: "In my opinion, the American people owe a great deal to Dick Nixon for his dedication to finding out all the possible facts that the committee could find out about the Alger Hiss case and its ramifications. It was Dick Nixon's sole purpose to find out what happened and why Mr. Hiss did this or did that."

There was controversy about Nixon in his own party in 1952 when it was discovered that a group of California businessmen had put up a personal fund of $18,000 for him. Some Republican leaders thought he should resign as Gen. Eisenhower's running mate in the presidential campaign.

NOT A CENT

Nixon went on television to explain the fund and said: "Not one cent of the $18,000 or any other money of that type ever went to me for my personal use."

Every penny of it was used to pay for political expenses that he did not think should be charged to the taxpayers of the U.S."

The speech kept his place on the ticket.

After he lost the 1960 presidential election to John F. Kennedy, Nixon went out to Los Angeles, entered a law office, built a home, and ostensibly settled comfortably into private life.

Controversy pursued him even into the aftermath of the presidential election, Californians who had supported him argued that he had conducted a poor campaign, disregarded advice, made himself inaccessible, and allegedly committed other errors that cost him the presidency. Some were disenchanted with Nixon.

GOOD INCOME

In his first year as a private citizen, he was reported to have earned $24,000 from various sources. Robert Finch, a Los Angeles lawyer and long-time associate of Nixon said, "I would say that figure is conservative."

Nixon said, "The income has been beyond anything I could have dreamed of. And I have found, of course, other things in private life that are very attractive."

Nevertheless, few California political observers expected him to stay on the sidelines very long. Soon, he was campaigning for the governorship.

Will he stay on the sidelines now? Was that overwrought appearance on the morning after the election really his "last press conference?"

COULD SERVE

Murray Chotiner, who managed Nixon's first campaign and has been a close adviser ever since, said on the television program:

"I would be inclined to believe that Mr. Nixon will not run for an elected public office. However, if the Republican party should gain control of the national administration, it would appear to me that Mr. Nixon, because of his vast experience, would be able to serve the people and the country in a very high administrative post."

A comment, possibly very germane to the question of Nixon's future now, is attributed to him by Mazo in that biography— "Nothing in politics succeeds like success, and nothing hurts more than failure." "But it does not last in either case."

Adenauer Faces A Political Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flies home today to face a political crisis with new strength from his talks with President Kennedy.

Adenauer apparently believes that the Western world ought to make no proposals to the Soviets on Berlin and Germany, because any deal might result in concessions to the Reds. Now he has the President's word that there will be no new offers, at least until the Cuban crisis clears up.

That may take a long time. Adenauer can say that there was no discussion of any proposals that might come down to the Soviets. It had been expected that there would have to be some talk about them.

So the result of his visit is to push the possibility of any Western initiative pretty far into the future.

The sometimes crusty old chancellor, now nearing 87, had kind words for the American stand on Cuba. It was a big success for the United States, he said, and a failure for the Communists. Before Adenauer left for the United States, he had made some skeptical remarks about the American position in the Cuban situation.

In Washington, his tone was different. His friendly talks with the President, the televised smiles and handshakes, the honors and praise he got can all be a big help with the voters and politicians back home in Germany.

Just now the voters and politicians are pretty angry. The anger is concentrated on Franz-Josef Strauss, Adenauer's able but highly controversial defense minister.

Strauss has been getting a lot of the blame for the arrests and midnight searches connected with an article in "Der Spiegel," a popular West German news magazine. Many Germans were reminded uncomfortably of the tactics of the Gestapo, the secret police of Adolf Hitler's day.

Strauss also is under fire for the facts disclosed in the story that caused the row: that the West German army is far from efficient and got a low rating in recent maneuvers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The voters in Bavaria, Strauss' home state, will have a chance to express their thoughts in a local election before the end of the month.

Last week the Christian Democrats—the party of Adenauer and Strauss—took some losses in the state of Hesse. If they take more losses in Bavaria, a lot of people will say the chancellor is losing his grip.

Adenauer's visit to Washington may do something to prevent that.

FPC Experts Devise New Natural Gas Price Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Staff experts of the Federal Power Commission came up Thursday with a new price ceiling formula for natural gas produced in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

They recommended that all residue—dehydrated and refined—gas sell for not more than 13.4 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. For casing-head gas as it comes from the ground with oil production the ceiling price would be 9 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Under an area rate structure drafted by the commission in 1960, natural gas prices are to be set for 23 areas throughout the nation. The area rates will be fixed after hearings.

Teacher Charged

AUSTIN (AP)—George Davis, 38, a Belton teacher, was indicted Thursday on charges of being an addicted and habitual user of narcotics.

The commission announced late in December its proposal for fixing natural gas rates on an area basis, rather than the long used company-by-company, cost-of-service basis. It then fixed interim rates for the Permian Basin until the present case is settled.

Under the interim rate structure, no company can raise its prices to an existing customer above a ceiling of 11 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Sale of gas under a new contract at more than 16 cents is prohibited.

Under the FPC staff proposals, any 16-cent contract would have to be revised downward to 13.4 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Florida Sees Busy Tourist Season

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Many Florida business leaders forecast one of the busiest tourist seasons in years in the wake of the Cuban crisis which took shape 90 miles from its shores.

There are exceptions to the bright predictions but generally the tone is one of optimism.

The businessmen say their earlier fears that the crisis would cripple the vital tourist trade have been dispelled. Tourists already are beginning annual vacations in the state.

A two-week survey by the Florida Council of 100, a business advisory group to Gov. Farris Bryant, resulted in a prediction that 1963 would be the biggest year yet in the history of Florida's economy.

The council predicted 14,700,000 tourists would visit Florida, compared with an estimated 12,200,000 this year.

Fred O. Dickinson of Palm Beach, council chairman, said, "The crisis has been a tremendous boost because of the thousands of servicemen who have been sent to Florida and are spending money in Florida hotels and restaurants."

"Also the hundreds of civilians in and out of government who have been sent to Florida in one connection and another with the crisis," Dickinson said, "it is obvious now because of the tremendous military buildup in the state that Florida is the best protected area in the United States."

Airlines reported travel from northern areas to Florida resorts was improving, as expected with the onslaught of cold weather.

Florida business officials said the greatest danger of harm to winter tourism was the spread of false rumors.

One Miami advertising executive said a New York friend called to ask if it were true that commercial air travel was to be suspended at Miami International Airport.

Another rumor had the area's hotels taken over to house troops. To offset these, tourist officials plan to step up northern advertising programs to demonstrate that Florida is a pleasant and safe place for a winter stay.

Are So-Called "Bargain" Eyeglasses Really A Bargain?

Have you ever heard this famous quotation: "Quality Is Remembered Long After The Price Is Forgotten"? This is true. Of course, this doesn't mean that real values shouldn't be looked for whenever they truly exist. But, there is a difference in real value and so-called "bargains"...and this is especially true when it comes to eye care and eyewear.

So-called "bargain" eyeglasses may, in fact, not be a bargain at all. Unknown to the purchaser of so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, some important elements could be left out of the lens prescription, or a special type of bifocal or trifocal lens may be omitted, just to cut the cost of making the glasses. These omissions could result in strained eyes, discomfort and improper vision. Also, inferior quality frames might be used which could reduce the wearing comfort as well as the useable life of the glasses.

There is no good reason for risking priceless eyesight and comfort on so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, when real value in professional eye care and eyewear is available at famous

Texas State Optical. For the past 27 years hundreds of thousands of people throughout Texas have learned to rely on TSO for outstanding professional eye care and finest quality eyewear at reasonable cost.

At TSO, your eyes are carefully examined by an experienced Doctor of Optometry...both for internal evidence of disease or defect and for visual abnormalities. If glasses are needed, an accurate prescription is formulated and they are prescribed and fitted to meet your exact visual requirements, and to give you the best vision and utmost comfort. If you need single vision glasses, your cost is as low as $14.85, including examination, finest quality lenses and frame; if you require bifocals, your cost is as low as $17.85, complete, with examination, lenses and frame. Convenient credit is available at no extra cost.

The next time you need professional eye care and finest quality eyewear, see the dependable TSO Doctor of Optometry in whom you can place complete confidence and trust for the care of your eyes and your vision.

Mrs. B. M. Keese gave the invocation.

Winners Told For Bunco

Hostess for the Bunco Club session Wednesday evening was Mrs. J. B. Holder. She was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. John Hornberg.

Winners were Mrs. Charles Campbell, first; Mrs. Wendell Campbell, second; Mrs. Harold Dietrich, third; Mrs. P. Alexander, consolation; and Mrs. Holder, low score. Floating prize went to Mrs. Campbell.

The club will meet at the home of Mrs. Ralph Henderson, 1305 E. 19th St., Dec. 8, for bunco games and a Christmas party. The time has been set for 7:30 p.m.

Recent Bride Is Honoree At Shower

Mrs. Gary Graham, the former Miss Lana Fulbright, was honored with a bridal shower Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. A. D. Harmon. Other hostesses were Mrs. Melvin Coleman, Mrs. Odis Wilson and Mrs. Noel Hull.

The honoree, attired in a brown and beige suit, received a corsage of pink carnations from the hostesses.

A maderia cloth covered the refreshment table where pastel streamers fell from a gold candlelabrum. The hostesses alternated at the silver tea and coffee service.

Misses Laura, Linda and Lonnie Fulbright were members of the house party. Registering the guests was Miss Jan Graham.

Holiday Tea Planned By Study Club

A Christmas tea was planned by the Forsan Study Club in session Thursday evening at the Forsan School. Dec. 6 was the date set for the tea to be held at the school, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

A Thanksgiving theme was used in decorations for the Thursday meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. L. T. Shouls and Mrs. Bob Cowley. The devotion was given by Mrs. Elmer Patton.

Mrs. James Blake, program leader, introduced the speaker, Mrs. J. C. Ferguson, whose subject was "Religion, Basis of the Home," telling of the Pilgrims and Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Shouls was elected to serve as treasurer of the club.

Teenagers In Trouble Topic For Club Panel

The problems faced by parents and law enforcement officers in dealing with teenagers in trouble were explained to 1948 Hyperion Club members Thursday afternoon.

Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Roy Reeder. Mrs. Robert Polk was cohostess.

Participating in the panel discussion were Bob Darland, juvenile officer; Jay Banks, chief of police, and Bill Flynn, liquor control officer.

Each man explained his duties and gave statistics in regard to youthful law offenders in Big Spring and Howard County. A general discussion followed during which members asked what the club could do to help promote a child welfare department here.

Mrs. Marion Edwards conducted the business session. A donation will be given to the Big Spring State Hospital for the patients' Christmas party. The group will also help with refreshments on one ward.

A covered dish luncheon in the home of Mrs. Harold Talbot, 409 Washington Blvd. was scheduled for Dec. 20.

Grand Opera Discussed For Music Study Club

"What makes opera grand?" was the question answered by program leader, Mrs. Fred Beckham, for the Big Spring Music Study Club Wednesday afternoon. The program was presented in the home of Mrs. Harroll Jones, 1504 Dayton.

Opera numbers performed were "The Habenera" from Carmen, sung by Mrs. L. L. Beauvais; "The Toreador Song" from Carmen, played on the piano by Mrs. J. L. Christensen; and "Mussetta's Waltz" from La Boheme, sung by Mrs. Carl Bradley.

During the business session,

Mrs. J. E. Hardesty was elected treasurer to fill an unexpired term. Mrs. Christensen reported on the Texas Federation of Music Study Clubs District Convention in Andrews.

Members made plans to present a Christmas music program at the Big Spring State Hospital in December. A guest tea will be the occasion for meeting Dec. 12 in the home of Mrs. Robert Heinze. A Christmas program will be presented.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Charles Beil and Mrs. Jimmy Cribbs.

Mrs. Flint Hostess To Peggy Potter Group

The Peggy Potter Circle of the St. Paul Presbyterian Church met Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Francis Flint, Kentwood Addition. Mrs. Al Seddon led the opening prayer. Mrs. Marshall Fields, chairman, presided.

Las Artistas To Begin Work On '63 Show

Members of Las Artistas Club gathered Thursday night in C. D. Reeder's studio for their regular business session. The eight members made plans for a Christmas party to be held Dec. 18 at the home of Mrs. Don Bahannon. A committee was formed to begin work on the January membership show.

Chairmen in charge of preparations for this competitive, juried show will be Mrs. Tony Deatherage and Mrs. W. L. Patton.

Participants in the weekly workshop, sponsored by the club, were reminded that next week's session will be held on Tuesday instead of the usual Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving Day. The club encourages any interested painter to visit the workshop. One or two members are present as instructors each week to assist those students who desire help with their work.

ward the Christmas fund for the Big Spring State Hospital. Plans were made for remembering the shut-ins of the church during the Christmas season. As a special project during November, the members of the circle will observe a "Work Day" at the church Thursday morning, Nov. 29.

The annual Christmas party for St. Paul's Women of the Church was planned for Monday, Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Cape-Fariss home, Edgemere Addition. The members of the Peggy Potter Circle will be co-hostesses with Mrs. John Fariss and her daughter, Mrs. James Cape.

During the study period, Mrs. Fields presented a chapter, "Mirror, Mirror on the Wall," from a book entitled, "The Stewardess." The Bible study, moderated by Mrs. Wes Shouse, was from the Gospel according to Matthew. The subject was "The King Is Put to the Test." Mrs. Shouse summarized her study with two thoughts: Jesus faced and conquered evil, and in so doing formed a living bond between God and man; and each of us faces innumerable temptations everyday, and it is only through His loving grace that we are able to resist.

The hostess served refreshments to 11 members, two of whom, Mrs. Basil Sanderson and Mrs. J. D. Thomas, are new. Mrs. Carroll Davidson dismissed the group with prayer.

Winners At Duplicate Reported

Ten tables were in play for the Thursday evening duplicate session at John Lees Service Club, Webb Air Force Base.

Placing in north-south positions were Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. Rogers Heffley, first; Mrs. Lloyd Nalls and Mrs. Bert Wall, second; Mrs. James Collins and Mrs. George Thomas, third; and Mrs. Ward Hall and Mrs. Fern Durham, fourth.

East-west winners were Mrs. B. F. Yeargin and Grover Cunningham Jr., first; Mrs. B. B. Badger and Mrs. D. M. Penn, second; Mrs. J. H. Cauble and Mrs. Dan Greenwood, third; and Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, fourth.

Hannah SS Class Completes Quilt

A quilt for a family was completed by the Hannah Sunday school class during their workday at the church Thursday. The group will also prepare a Thanksgiving basket.

Luncheon was served to eight members with Mrs. B. H. Tingle giving the invocation.

Thinks Pleasant Thoughts

Jeanne Cooper says you can start the day off right by thinking of love. It can be for a person, animal or thing, as long as it makes you happy. If you are in a happy frame of mind in the morning it is easier to avoid worry and tenseness during the day.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Tranquilizer Habit Should Be Broken

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Jeanne Cooper had just come back from a strenuous personal appearance tour on that controversial film, "The Intruder," looking surprisingly fresh and rested. "I never could have done it," she explained, "if I had not been training for one year to relax naturally.

"When I used to be keyed up, I would calm my mind with a tranquilizer. Soon it took two to do the work of one and before I knew it, I was popping six or eight of these in my mouth during the day. Finally I got in such a state that I had to seek professional help. My analyst scolded me. 'You can do what that pill does,' he told me. 'Calm your mind yourself. That's where relaxation starts.'

"Breaking any habit of long standing is not easy," Jeanne observed. "And it took me one year to be able to relax on my own. I admit I had discouraging days when I would plug along trying to let down. Tranquilizers seem so harmless, but they are habit forming and I really struggled not to use them. They should be used only in emergency, and it is a big mistake to use them unless there is a crisis.

"Now I make an effort to start every day thinking harmony — tuning into the love thought. It can be for a person, an animal or a thing. It is feeling the emotion that is the big help. It makes you content and you can't be worried and tense when you are happy. It is just that simple. But the simplest things in life are always the most difficult to achieve."

Jeanne sipped her afternoon egg nog. "At first when I was so keyed up and yearning for my 'crutch,' I was told to do everything in half time. Make every step, every movement, every sentence in a deliberately slowed-down rhythm. Relaxation," Jeanne said in parting, "has a great deal to do with organization. If you organize your tasks and plan your time to avoid rushing, it is easier to relax."

Education Explosion Evident In New Toys

Several segments of Toyland seem to have rooted themselves at ground zero in the nation's education explosion. For among these things, are many whose primary target is to provide fun, but whose fallout values are loaded with knowledge for the youngsters who use them.

This is most obvious among science toys. With one new kit of plastic parts, youngsters can assemble a model of the human heart which visually demonstrates arterial and venal flow of blood through the body.

A new series of kits offers adventures in elementary phases of scientific subjects which range from phosphorescence to code broadcasting. New additions to another series of kits based on famous inventions provide materials with which children can create operating replicas of Edison's original phonograph, Hooke's 17th Century compound microscope, and one of the major factors in England's great industrial revolution, Cartwright's power loom.

For budding naturalists, there is a trio of kits which combine color-illustrated identification cards and real specimens of sea shells, rocks and minerals and butterflies. Also, natural science flash cards give individual attention to such categories as insects, birds, fishes, and prehistoric animals. Another entry in the natural science category is the "Little Garden," a working model electric greenhouse with planter trays, growing medium, potting soil, tools and instructions.

Chemistry is made easier and more fun than ever with an amazing new dial guide. You just dial the experiment you want to do, then follow the simple directions in the dial windows.

Youngsters with their eyes and thoughts on space will have available an unusual photo-telescope. It features a camera and camera mounting on the telescope's eyepiece for taking black and white or color pictures through the viewing lens.

A new item which attempts to create an early familiarity with numbers is an arithmetic school comprised of captive blocks that turn on rods. Each side of one row of blocks poses simple problems, while the sides of each block in the next row provide color-keyed answers.

An electric quiz game features almost 300 questions and answers on a variety of subjects gleaned from the Book of Knowledge. You pose a question and dial an answer. The machine lights up automatically when the correct answer is dialed.

An informative booklet accompanies parts and plans for assembling finely-detailed scale models of the aircraft carrier, U. S. S. Enterprise, and the Japanese battleship, Yamato, which met in combat at Okinawa in 1945.

Two innovations in art for youngsters will be on the scene this year. First, is a random form in which abstract works are created by pouring quick-drying paints directly onto a swirling turntable. The high speed spin produces fascinating color blends and patterns, suitable for framing. Second, is a set with which children can reproduce works by such masters as Van Gogh, Cezanne, Monet and Remington, without oil, water, brushes or numbers. This is accomplished by use of unique color blenders over pre-shaded pictures, all of which are provided in the set.

An education in land development is a by-product of an entertaining new game called "Square Mile." Starting with "raw acreage," players compete to develop their own tracts into thriving commercial, industrial or residential areas.

Duplicate Group To Be Formed At Club Next Week

A new group of club members will begin duplicate games at the Big Spring Country Club on Nov. 20, according to Mrs. Ty Allen of the club management. Under the direction of Mrs. Allen, the games will be open to non-members at a charge of one dollar.

To be eligible for play on Master Point Day, those participating must have played one other time during the month. The first Master Point Day is set for Dec. 18. Thereafter, it will be on the last Tuesday of the month.

DEAR ABBY

It's Not Just The Cooking

DEAR ABBY: If you want to know why so many teen-aged marriages go on the rocks, just stand around a supermarket and see what the young wives put into their shopping carts. All you can see are TV dinners, frozen chicken pies and boxes of mixes. Anything that is easy and fast. Don't they teach girls in Home Economics how to cook a roast beef, leg of lamb, or how to make a fresh salad or bake a pie? No wonder young husbands don't come home for supper. Or else they run out "for a beer" and leave the young wives home with the babies.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how the rumor got started, but the girls at school told me that they heard my home life is terrible. Everyone is saying that my mother drinks and our home is messy and all sorts of other terrible lies. My parents are very nice people and they don't drink. No one wants to go around with me because of these rumors. How printed all the letters sent to you. Where's my letter about the young grandmothers and old grandfathers? I signed it "LIKES TO LIVE." I am a regular reader of your column so I couldn't have missed it.

DEAR ABBY: I thought you

(signed) "LIKES TO LIVE"

DEAR LIKES: I cannot possibly print all the letters I receive. I select three each day. If you want a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(signed) "LIKES TO PLEASE"

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how the rumor got started, but the girls at school told me that they heard my home life is terrible. Everyone is saying that my mother drinks and our home is messy and all sorts of other terrible lies. My parents are very nice people and they don't drink. No one wants to go around with me because of these rumors. How can I prove to these girls they are wrong?

DEAR UNHAPPY: Invite some of the cats to your home for a bowl of milk and a close-up of your family.

DEAR ABBY: After seeing all that stuff in your column about getting married on horseback, a cousin of mine did it in Iowa. I asked my boy friend if he would like to have the same kind of wedding and he said, "I'd rather be shot at sunrise." Isn't that great?

Sheriff Gets New Station Wagon

Howard County Commissioners Court Thursday morning bought a new automobile for the sheriff's office. Sheriff Miller Harris had asked that the court replace one of his fleet of official cars.

Three bids were before the court. That of Shasta Ford was accepted by the court on motion of Joe Hayden, seconded by L. J. Davidson. Rufus Stallings, the only other commissioner in attendance, voted with Hayden and Davidson to accept the bid for the new Ford.

The Shasta bid was $1,283.80 with trade-in of a 1961 car the office now has in service. Jones Motor Company's bid on a Dodge was $1,396.15 with trade-in allowance. Bid of Pollard Chevrolet was $1,399.99 plus the 1961 trade-in. De'ery will be in about two weeks.

Remotivation Class Students Get Certificates

A class of remotivation students at the Big Spring State Hospital graduated Thursday and received certificates of completion of training.

Certificates were given out by Mrs. Lorna Baum, instructor. Dr. Preston E. Harrison, superintendent of the hospital, spoke at the exercise.

The students learned the skill of stimulating patients toward recovery by getting them to take an interest in other persons and happenings about them. Many patients have withdrawn to themselves and more assured if they can be induced to gain outside interests.

At the final session of the class the students used groups of patients to demonstrate skills and techniques they have learned. They can now qualify for a pin by conducting 12 remotivation sessions with patients.

Thirty-three persons have completed the course so far this year. It was originated here after four local staff members attended a remotivation course at Rusk State Hospital. Completing their training Thursday were Tom Marion, an occupational therapy worker, and Johnny Rangel, Bill McLaughlin, Mrs. Margaret Langston, Mrs. Ruth Hatch, Mrs. Opal Newton, Mrs. Jewel Forrest, Mrs. Marcelle Cook and Mrs. Helen Cross, all ward attendants at the hospital.

Fatally Injured

SAN ANGELO (AP)—A car fatally injured Carlisle Locke, 18 months, in front of his home Thursday. Witnesses told police the child darted into the path of the vehicle from behind a parked auto. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Locke.

Russ Patriotism, Communism Not Same, Says Expert

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—"The Russian people would fight to the last man to defend what they call holy mother Russia, but they don't want to die merely for the sake of something called world communism or world revolution," says a counselor for the Free Europe Committee Inc.

Lewis Galantieri, speaking at the opening session of the National Editorial Association Thursday, said Radio Free Europe broadcasts have helped diminish Communist influence. His organization sponsors the broadcasts to Eastern Europe.

Yugoslavs Faster On Foreign Aid

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algerian minister of agriculture says there's a big difference between the service offered by France and by Communist Yugoslavia.

"When I ask France for something I have to write a letter, and 10 days later the ambassador tells me he will study the request," Minister Amar Ouzegane told a group of newsmen Wednesday. "But when I telephone the Yugoslavian attache for help, 10 days later I get 200 tractors with technicians to make them go."

Next District Governor Visits Kiwanis Club

Joe Moravcik, Odessa, who is to succeed Jack Alexander as Kiwanis Club district governor for 1963, was a special guest of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club Thursday noon. It was his first visit to the club since his election as lieutenant governor. He was introduced by Alexander and announced plans for a conference of club officers and directors for Dec. 2 in Odessa.

Announcement was made that the Kiwanis Club would join the Rotary Club at its meeting Tuesday of next week. No Thursday meeting of the club will be held due to that date being Thanksgiving.

Announcement was also made that the Kiwanis Club will sponsor a circus here March 16 and 17, 1963. The club will sell tickets for the event and provide it with a place to stage its performance. Program for the day was under the direction of Bob Bradbury. He introduced the Rev. Jack Strickland, a member of the club, who in turn presented Homer Martinez, Mexican evangelist, and Olin Massey, singer. These two are appearing at East Fourth Street Baptist Church this week in a revival campaign. Massey sang two selections.

Martinez spoke briefly on the dangers this nation faces in its love of materialistic things and its tendency to forget God. He warned Russia's boast that it would bury the United States would be realized unless Americans change their ways.

Transmission Is Taken From Truck

A transmission was reported stolen from a pickup truck parked at the J. E. Kennedy home, 1610 Nolan, some time Tuesday night. Kennedy called Big Spring police and reported that some one had "messed" with his pickup.

Patrolman John Wolf investigated and found the drive shaft loose, with four big bolts and an inspection plate on the ground under the truck. A mechanic was called and reported the transmission missing. The loss was valued at $141.

Kennedy said he was at home during the time the pickup was parked and that he heard no unusual noises. He is a route carrier for the post office.

Jaye Otero, 908 Lancaster, reported the loss of a license plate from her car during the past two days while it was parked in front of her home.

'Peiping' Gets New Spelling

The spelling of "Peiping" is being adopted for use in Associated Press dispatches, as a successor to "Peking."

"Pe" or "Pei" means north in Chinese. "King" means capital. "Ping" means peace. "Peiping" was used by early Ming emperors, but "Peking" later came into use to differentiate the city from Nanking, the southern capital. A change back to Peiping was made in 1928 when the capital moved to Nanking. The Chinese Communists, when they overran the mainland, changed the name back to Peking.

This form has been resisted in the West by those who had come to know the capital as Peiping, but the Peking usage is now general in most of the world and was therefore adopted by The AP.

Crash Is Fatal

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—David Britt, 35, of Alamo, N.M., was killed Thursday night when his car overturned and hit a bridge on the Fort Worth-Dallas Turnpike.

Mrs. Roosevelt Leaves Many Warm Mementoes In Her Will

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—A little gold ring, a piece of silver, what's left of a pink china set—these are among the warm mementoes left to many by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in her will. The former first lady died last week at the age of 78 in her Manhattan apartment, and was buried Saturday on the family estate at Hyde Park.

Her will was filed for probate Thursday, with no immediate estimate of the full value of her estate.

Shining through the legal language of the six-page will were the small, personal bequests befitting warm associations with her children, her friends, and those who were, or had been, in her employ. Even nine godchildren were not forgotten.

Here are a few items: "To my son James Roosevelt all my flat silver marked 'ER' and the old silver 'Lady Bell.' "To my son Elliott Roosevelt what remains of Grandmother Roosevelt's pink china and two silver serving trays. "To my son Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. the Japanese screen on the wall of my living room in my

New York apartment, and the silver tankard." To her physician, Dr. A. David Gurewitsch, $10,000 "in gratitude for his devoted care for which he would not accept compensation during my lifetime." It was the largest single cash bequest. Dr. Gurewitsch also was left an etching of President Roosevelt by Oskar Stosel.

To her son John, Mrs. Roosevelt left the furnishings and other property in her Hyde Park cottage, except for specified items designated for others.

She directed that personal property in her New York apartment be distributed equally among her other sons and her daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Halstad — again with specific exceptions.

Joseph P. Lash, a longtime friend and New York editorial writer, was given an etching of President Roosevelt by Marcia Silvette and "any two sets of books which he may choose from the apartment or the cottage at Hyde Park."

Lash's wife, Trude, will receive a sable scarf. In addition, Lash and his son, Jonathan, are to receive 36 shares of stock in Liberman Enterprises, Inc.

To everyone in her employ at the time of her death, Mrs. Roosevelt bequeathed $100 for each year of service with a maximum of $1,000 "unless such person shall have been a secretary to me, in which event the limitation is $2,000."

Cash bequests of $1,000 were left to her niece, Eleanor Elliott, and to Miss Lorena Hickok, whom she knew as an Associated Press correspondent at the White House.

To Mayris Chaney Martin goes "my little gold ring with a ruby and a set of books in my library at Hyde Park."

Mrs. Martin, who as a dancer was known under her maiden name, had been a close friend of Mrs. Roosevelt from the time her husband was governor of New York. A political storm was aroused early in World War II when Miss Chaney was appointed to the Office of Civilian Defense when Mrs. Roosevelt was assistant director of that agency.

"An item of silver or a small piece of jewelry or a picture" are to go to Eleanor and Michele Martin, Mrs. Martin's children; Miss Moreen Corr, Mrs. Roosevelt's most recent secretary; Henry Morganthau 3rd, son of President Roosevelt's secretary of the Treasury; and Miss Esther Everett Lape, a writer.

Flat silver marked "MTS" and "MT" and a diamond pin were left to Miss Eleanor Lund, niece of Miss Malvina Thompson, former secretary to Mrs. Roosevelt. Miss Lund was one of Mrs. Roosevelt's godchildren, each of whom will receive a $100 United States savings bond.

After distribution of all specified bequests Mrs. Roosevelt instructed her trustees — her sons and her attorney, Henry S. Hooker — to invest the remainder of her estate and to pay the income quarterly to her daughter, Mrs. Halstad. After Mrs. Halstad's death the principal will be divided among the surviving brothers.

Cool Air Expanding

Cooler weather spread across Texas toward the southeast Friday.

The forward edge of the latest front stretched along a line linking Sherman, Dallas, San Angelo and Wink in early morning.

Occasional showers fell late Wednesday as gusty winds pushed the cold air into the state from the Rocky Mountains, where snow extended into southern Colorado. The same storm also brought some snow into the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Far downstate, meanwhile, wind hitting 32 miles per hour in gusts raised a South Texas dust storm at Alice, lowering visibility to 5 miles.

Light showers fell around Dalhart, Amarillo, El Paso and Childress during the evening. They pushed eastward along and north of the Red River through the Lake Texoma vicinity after midnight.

The Weather Bureau predicted lower temperatures for all sections of the state, with overnight lows down to 26 degrees in Northwest Texas. Occasional thunder-showers or light rain were promised again Saturday over the Panhandle - Plains of West Texas.

The temperatures early Friday ranged from 35 degrees at Dalhart up to a warm 72 at Brownsville.

Missiles Said Still In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Miami News reported the White House has received "hard" intelligence information that there still is a substantial number of offensive medium-range missiles hidden in Cuba.

"President Kennedy has been satisfied that the missiles, said to be Soviet army ballistic rockets, are concealed in subterranean bases excavated in the hills of Sorosa, in the Los Organos Mountains of Pinar Del Rio Province," the News said.

Hal Hendrix, the News' Latin America editor, wrote the story, which also said "the secret bases, tunneled under supervision of Czechoslovakian technicians, also are known to contain a large amount of additional modern Soviet-supplied military armaments."

Panel To Meet

AUSTIN (AP)—A House subcommittee looking into operations of the Railroad Commission will meet here Monday, Rep. J. W. Buchanan said today.

Estes Lawyers Seek New Trial, Bankruptcy Appeal

TYLER (AP)—Billie Sol Estes' lawyers moved Thursday to overturn a swindling conviction of the West Texas promoter and to appeal an involuntary bankruptcy judgment.

John Cofer of Austin, chief of the defense staff, filed a motion in Tyler for a new trial. A district court jury convicted Estes, 37, here Nov. 7 and fixed a penalty of eight years in prison.

Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan said he will order a hearing after Dec. 3, the deadline for expected amendment of the motion. Estes must appear and be sentenced at the hearing in event the bid for another trial is denied.

Cofer claimed in his petition that the court erred in instructions to the jury and on other legal points in the Tyler trial. He also contended the guilty verdict went against the law and evidence in the case, which involved a $49,500 mortgage deal.

Other Estes lawyers shifted from federal district court in El Paso to the U. S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans on the bankruptcy appeal.

The portly ex-financier claims pending litigation has dissipated all his assets and he can't afford to pay a $3,600 charge for a stenographer transcript of bankruptcy proceedings. He wants the government to foot the bill.

U. S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason in El Paso has refused to consider a petition for declaring Estes a pauper unless Estes appears to answer questions about his assets.

His lawyers declined to take Estes into court. Instead they asked the New Orleans court to let Estes use the government's transcript, thus avoiding the cost of having one prepared, for making the appeal.

At Lubbock, meanwhile, final settlement drew a step closer in the affairs of Coleman McSpadden, a bankrupt former business associate of Estes. McSpadden is under 10-year sentence on federal charges of fraud. Estes awaits trial on the same charges.

Acting as bankruptcy referee, U. S. Commissioner Frank Murray approved cash bids of slightly less than $1 million on McSpadden holdings offered at public auctions.

At the same time Moore rejected bids totaling $670,000 on McSpadden grain elevators because these offers were smaller than liens against the property. Lien holders presumably will win possession of the elevators.

Creditors have filed claims, both secured and unsecured, aggregating more than $6 million against the McSpadden estate.

Children Take Pills, Go On Giggling Spree

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Three children shared pills found in a trash barrel, then stayed awake 24 hours, babbling, giggling and suffering hallucinations—even after their stomachs were pumped out.

Doctors are trying to determine the makeup of the pills, which were discarded by relatives of a woman who died. Two bottles of pills contained depressant drugs and a third was apparently a prescription for arthritis.

The children—Laurette, 4, Robin, 2, and James Knott Jr., 1—went home Wednesday from Children's Hospital, still giggling.

Found Hanged

FORT WORTH (AP)—The wife of Marvin Duffie, 54, found him hanging from a pull-down hall staircase Thursday. Peace Justice Whit Boyd ruled suicide.

All Accidents Considered Minor

A one-truck accident and two minor collisions were investigated by Big Spring police Thursday afternoon and night. No one was injured.

Julius Joseph Janca was the driver of a truck involved in a collision with a street sign at Northwest Fourth and North Scurry.

Bernie L. McClure, Big Spring, and Ronald Earl Shern, Knott, were drivers of cars involved in a collision at Second and Johnson. The third accident, at Fifth and Austin, involved vehicles driven by William H. Norwood, 110 E. 18th, and Jodith Nadine Grigg, Gail Route.

Head Of Big Construction Firm, Herman Brown, Dies

HOUSTON (AP)—Herman Brown, 70, who started with several teams of mule-drawn mules and built one of the biggest construction firms in the world, died Thursday night.

Death was attributed to a heart attack, suffered while he was dining at a private club.

He headed Brown & Root, Inc., which also operates paper mills, hotels, office buildings, a dude ranch, mines and oil and gas properties. These were interests acquired after the dark days of the 1929 business depression, when Brown vowed to diversify as insurance against another slump in construction.

Brown started the business at his native Belton, in Central Texas, and Dan Root, a brother-in-law who died in 1929, later became a partner. George Brown, a brother who now is executive vice president, joined the firm in 1923.

He also leaves his widow; a son, Mike Stude, a University of Texas student; a daughter, Mrs. Faye Serafin of Houston; a second brother, King Brown of Temple; and three sisters, Mrs. Fannie Booth of Houston, Mrs. Jim Head of Temple and Mrs. Harry Austin of Belton.

Brown made his home at Austin before moving here during World War II.

Brown & Root extended operations around the globe after the war to build pipelines, petrochemical and repressuring plants, dams, hydroelectric projects and air fields.

The Brown brothers were among buyers of the Big and Little Inch pipelines built during the war. Linked with this deal was their establishment of Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., which delivers natural gas and related products to consumers in the Midwest and in Pennsylvania and New York.

Under a $1,500,000 planning contract awarded in 1961, Brown & Root designed most of the buildings and engineering details for the $200 million manned spacecraft center being constructed here.

Another of the firm's projects was the 10-year job of rebuilding Naval facilities on the island of Guam, undertaken jointly with Brown-Pacific-Maxon.

Mission To Be Dedicated Sunday

This recently-completed mission of the Hillcrest Baptist Church, housing all Sunday School departments and a sanctuary, will be dedicated at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. The new mission is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention, and is located at 4206 Wasson Road.

Hillcrest Mission Dedication Sunday

Dedication services for the new sanctuary and educational building of the mission of the Hillcrest Baptist Church, 4206 Wasson Road, are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. H. L. Bingham, pastor, said the church has recently completed the construction of the new $24,000 brick structure, and some services have already been held in the building.

The building was designed by the building department of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Contractors were E. O. Hartwell, builder, R. P. Beard, contractor, and Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The new sanctuary will seat approximately 230 persons. The entire building has over 4,000 square feet and provides room for all Sunday school departments.

The dedicatory program includes: opening prayer by Morris Mankins; songs led by Vaughn Martin; message, the Rev. H. L. Bingham, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist Church; dedicatory prayer by Roland King, Sunday school superintendent. The moderator will be J. W. Arnett. The Rev. J. F. Fields is the mission pastor.

Regular services at the mission will be: Sunday school, 9:45 a.m.; morning services 11 a.m.; Training Union 6:30 p.m., and evening services 7:30 p.m.

The Southern Baptist Convention mission building program was financed through the sale of six per cent, secured ABC Plan real estate bonds. The bonds were sold to the members and friends of the church.

Members of the building committee were Duke Baker, Bill Banks, and Roland King, all from the mission; Floyd Henderson, Terry Carter and Dick Beard, from the Hillcrest Church.

Europe's Catholics Entering New Era

VATICAN CITY (AP) — European Catholicism is entering a new era of close community, common-market style, a leading Roman Catholic churchman believes.

"For the first time in the history of the church in Europe, bishops have come together for collaboration on common problems," said Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, archbishop of Vienna.

He said in an interview that the new sense of mutual identity among European prelates has emerged at the Vatican Ecumenical Council, and he predicted it will continue.

It has involved, he said, church leaders of Germany, Belgium, France, the Netherlands, Austria, Switzerland, Poland and Yugoslavia, areas of differing languages, an often, historical divisions.

"In the past," Cardinal Koenig said, "we have been separated by these frontiers. There has been some contact among bishops on an individual basis, but never before have we come together on this wide European basis."

As the cardinal sees it, the new European ecclesiastical association, paralleling in some respects the emerging economic ties in Europe, is among the most significant developments of the council.

"It is very important," he said. "We've found we have very much in common, more than we knew. We have established contacts here that will not disappear again."

The cardinal, 57, a scholar in comparative religion who once was a theology professor at the universities of Vienna and Salzburg, said the new pattern is part of a new church emphasis on regional leadership.

"We have come to a time when the bishops need more latitude of action," he said.

Proposals for spreading more authority among the bishops, with less power centered on the Vatican Curia, are to be considered by the current council.

As a result of the council, and of the new solidarity among European prelates, the cardinal foresees continuing close relationships among them, in some regularized form.

Although church conferences in the past have been maintained on a national basis, he said that some system of multinational conferences, across the old frontiers, is likely in the future.

A leader in the movement for Christian unity, Cardinal Koenig said that the Nazi persecutions of the past and the present Communist difficulties in some European areas have helped to bring all Christians closer together in west-central Europe.

Redemption: God's Call

THE REDEMPTIVE WORK OF CHRIST AS PREDICTED IN THE OLD TESTAMENT, AS TRANSFORMING THE LIFE OF A GREAT APOSTLE, AND AS DEVELOPED IN THE TEACHING OF THE EARLY CHURCH

Scripture—Isaiah 53; Acts 8:1-3; 9:1-9; 22:3-11; II Corinthians 5:18-21; Ephesians 1:3-10; 2:1-10; Colossians 1:15-22; I Timothy 2:5, 6.

By N. SPEER JONES

THE IMPORTANT belief we study today is the one known as redemption. This is very similar to salvation, except that the word also denotes the means by which salvation is achieved—through the payment of a ransom. Our salvation as men—that which can lift us above and beyond the life of natural or unredeemed man, delivering us from sin, fear, selfishness and eternal death—this salvation is provided by the grace of God, through the ransom paid by His own Son in His death.

This great sacrifice of the Redeemer is prophesied in what has been called the greatest Messianic prophecy in the Old Testament, the magnificent 53rd chapter of Isaiah. It is similar to Psalm 22 and to Psalm 110, except that it goes much farther, almost explaining the profound results of this great sacrifice, for us, are outlined in II Corinthians 5:18-21 and Ephesians 1:3-10. The first entails our reconciliation with God or the restoring of peace between ourselves and Him. Sin has alienated us from Him, and it is Christ who makes reconciliation possible, with His own death.

God has provided the means for this reconciliation; all we have to do is accept it. This is the burden of Paul's message, in this passage and elsewhere. It was the ministry conferred on Paul by God—the message he bears to the world.

The eight verses from first Ephesians continue in this same vein. Not even our act of faith can be credited to us; even that is a gift from God. Also He has blessed us chosen us in Christ before the world's creation.

named us His children, made us His heirs, redeemed us and forgiven us.

All this is contrasted beautifully by Paul, as he goes on in the second chapter of Ephesians to list the characteristics of the natural or unredeemed man. He is spiritually dead because of his sins, he walks only in this world, under Satan's power ("The prince of the powers of the air"), disobeying his duty, catering only to the desires of flesh and mind, a child of wrath.

Thus desperately in need of redemption, we are linked with Christ, the "Mediator" (I Timothy 2:5, 6) who is both God and man. His death frees us from our guilt, and His resurrection secures for us a new life like His.

Many honest and sincere people have never thought that Christ might have a choice in religion, so often do they hear the statement: "ATTEND the church of YOUR choice." Yet Paul said: "Wherefore also we make it our aim, whether at home or absent, to be well-pleasing to HIM" (I Corinthians 5:9, ASV). Aren't we more interested in complying with Christ's choice than our own?

The Lord does have a choice and the church of Christ's choice is found in the New Testament. Jesus said: "Upon this rock I will build my church" (Matthew 16:18). It was established in Jerusalem in the year AD 33 through the preaching of Christ's Gospel (Acts 2). No man ever had authority to build another church.

Christ chose to call the church by His own name. For this reason Paul said: "The churches of Christ salute you" (Romans 16:16).

Christ chose to commend men to:
BELIEVE — "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved" (Mark 16:16).
REPENT — "God ... commandeth all men everywhere to repent" (Acts 17:30).
CONFESS CHRIST — Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God (I John 4:15).
BE BAPTIZED — He commandeth them to be baptized in the name of the Lord (Acts 10:48).
The church of Christ's choice still urges men to obey those commands ... Christ chose to instruct men to worship in this way:
LORD'S SUPPER—Acts 20:7. "Upon the first day of the week when the disciples came together to break bread."
PREACH—II Tim. 4:2. "Preach the word, be instant in season, out of season."
PRAY—Acts 2:42. "They continued steadfastly ... in prayers."
SING—Eph. 5:19, 20. "Singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord."
GIVE—I Cor. 16:2. "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by in store as the Lord has prospered him."

THANKSGIVING FEAST

The spirit of Thanksgiving takes root in the heart of a child in the same gradual fashion most of us have experienced.

First there is excitement and anticipation which abundance awakens in our minds.

Then comes the pensive moment when we realize that all this abundance is Someone's gift to us.

Next we know the prayer of gratitude that flows from willing lips and a thankful heart.

Finally — and supremely — there is the sense of confidence, of trust, in a God whose Love is everywhere so manifest.

The hope of your neighborhood churches is that your family's observance of this traditional feast may encourage the spiritual growth of your children... and renew your own precious faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Devotional For The Day

Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me. (Matthew 25:40.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we bow before Thee, overwhelmed by Thy many gifts to us. Help us now as we try to say "Thank you" with acts of kindness toward our fellowman. In Christ's spirit. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Let's Really Make It Up

Sunday is "Make-up Day" for the Sabin polio vaccine project.

We've got a lot to make up if we achieve maximum coverage in our battle to whip this crippling and killer.

Last Sunday Howard and Glasscock counties got less than 60 per cent participation, and while satisfying, this isn't near what it ought to be. If you and your family are among those missed, please make-up this Sunday.

Perhaps we could pick up a thousand or so if ministers will give a few seconds of their time Sunday morning to remind members of the importance of this step.

Talk it up. Spare a moment for this in order that you may spare a life.

Splendid Record

Reports for September reflect some enviable records for volunteers at the Big Spring State Hospital.

They ranked first in the number of regular volunteers (250 of all the state mental hospitals, also first in the number of hours (3,018) hours put in by these volunteers. In fact, the hour total was almost double second place group.

The volunteers were second in the number of occasional workers (179) and fourth in the number of hours by the occasional volunteers.

The hospital ranked first in the number of cooperating organizations (87), about 30 per cent ahead of the nearest one. It also ranked second in the amount of movable or value of goods given ($5,259.01), or $363 short of the leader which had a big sum for a special project.

This tells the story of why the volunteer program has become such an important adjunct of the hospital's ministry here. It helps explain an impressive record of therapy, help and recovery.

It is a tremendously worthwhile effort, one that comes from the heart. Were this not so, it could not be sustained. So long as hearts are warm to the needs of our mentally ill, there will be restored useful human beings who otherwise might have been doomed to be a hospital statistic.

Marquis Childs Broadening Problem Of A Free Press

WASHINGTON—Whether the press is whipping boy, submissive servant of the government or in the Jeffersonian concept a fourth and independent foundation stone of freedom is a question being debated in several capitals in this time of troubles when all institutions are on trial.

RICHARD NIXON blamed the working press for distorting his image and by implication for bringing about his defeat in California. In New Delhi the government of Prime Minister Nehru is said to be persuading the press to help, by soft-pedaling the news of American arms for India's war with China, to continue at least the outward look of nonalignment between the power blocs of East and West.

Here at home the Kennedy Administration is accused of managing the news in the Cuban crisis to suit its own ends. This charge, growing out of remarks about the official generation of news—more accurately generating events that create news—coincides with an order suggesting suppression or even censorship. Officials of the Departments of Defense and State are required to read the content of all talks with newspapermen or to have present at such talks members of the public relations staff.

BUT IT IS IN the capital of West Germany that the debate has reached a state of siege. The publisher of Germany's leading news magazine, Der Spiegel (The Mirror), Rudolf Augstein, and several of his editors and writers have been in jail for more than two weeks. They are charged with treason for publishing a report to the effect that the German armed forces participating in a joint Allied exercise were way below standard in their performance.

SO FAR NOT a line of proof has been brought forward to substantiate the treason charge or to refute the allegations that the armed forces were ill-prepared. Augstein and his staff are considered enemies of the state for having published the report, and since Germany has no habeas corpus they must languish in jail while officials of the Ministry of Justice ransack the magazine's offices in search of proof.

Most disturbing of all, as Flora Lewis pointed out in an illuminating dispatch to the Washington Post, is that the public in Germany seems little concerned. Sampling of opinion has shown that they do not want to be involved by expressing any view and they wish the whole thing could be hushed up.

THE EPISODE becomes even more pertinent with the arrival in Washington of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for talks with President Kennedy. Incidentally, on the eve of his departure he sought to make the President's task more difficult by suggesting that Soviet missiles were still being hidden in Cuba and that the Cuban crisis proved that no negotiation with the Soviet Union on Berlin or anything else was possible. Thus before meeting the President he sought to draw a line through American foreign policy.

The jailing of Der Spiegel's publisher was done without the knowledge of the Minister of Justice, who is a member not of Adenauer's own Christian Democrats but of the Free Democratic party, which is essential to the support of Bonn's coalition government. In the uproar that followed the Free Democrats threatened to pull out and the unstable coalition was further weakened.

WHAT TROUBLES American policymakers is whether Adenauer is actually in control of his own government. The Chancellor, who will be 87 years old in January, is the center of furious intrigues that have an Oriental palace quality. Adenauer said on the floor of the Bundestag that he was afraid to telephone from his home to his office because his wires were tapped.

As the outcry over the nighttime raid on Der Spiegel went on it was not long before the hand of a master intriguer, Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss, was revealed. A long-time enemy of Der Spiegel, Strauss admitted that his ministry had phoned the German military attaché in Spain to bring about the arrest and extradition of the author of the article who was on vacation there.

DESPITE HIS occasional denials for the record, the suspicion is strong that Strauss is determined to get nuclear weapons for the German forces. He, therefore, considers conventional forces to have a secondary place, and Der Spiegel's article was certain to arouse his anger at an old enemy.

Freedom of the press is guaranteed in the German constitution. But this aspect of the case does not seem to concern German officialdom. Adenauer is reported to have said that law officers should be allowed to proceed with their work without interference from the public.

ONE LESSON OUT of Germany is that guarantees mean little without popular support. A press which is no more than the reflection of a ruling clique—a prop for the establishment—cannot claim public backing when the crunch comes. Similarly, a press which is no more than an instrument of the cold war will not long survive as a free institution.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

A peculiar report has come out of the Labor Department, purporting to show that wage negotiations completed in the first half of 1962 resulted in an average pay increase of 3.2 per cent.

Now that percentage increase would conform with the Council of Economic Advisers' "guide-line," which is based on the dubious economic theory that wage increases can be kept within productivity gains if they are between 2.6 per cent and 3.5 per cent. Labor Secretary Goldberg hails the wage gains as "clearly non-inflationary." But the advisers included in their wage formula what the Labor Department strangely has left out of its survey: The cost of fringe benefits.

More and more it isn't simply straight hourly wage rates which employers and employees debate over bargaining tables. It's the wage "package," including fringe benefits. And to ignore the effects of fringes on actual wage costs is about as logical as to pretend that taxes aren't really a business expense.

A recent count, for instance, found in existence 113 different types of fringes, including such benefits as pensions, health insurance, sick leave, vacations and company-subsidized lunches. It's been estimated that the value of fringes can amount to between 50 and 70 cents an hour per employee—25 per cent or more of a worker's straight-time hourly rate.

So it's pretty plain that if the cost of fringe benefits is skipped over in calculating average pay boosts granted in this year's first half the percentage that emerges will not give a true picture of what those increases amounted to.

That's what makes the case of the missing fringes a little puzzling. Surely by this time the Labor Department has heard about fringe benefits. And surely it wouldn't want to try to fool the Council of Economic Advisers, or anyone else.

James Marlow Herter Choice Is A Good One

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy didn't break any new ground in naming a Republican, Christian A. Herter, to a key job. He's done it before. In this case his choice should do him double good.

He picked the 67-year-old Herter of Massachusetts late Thursday to be this country's top man in negotiating the new foreign trade program.

Herter, a mild and earnest man, climaxed a life-long interest in foreign affairs by serving as secretary of state for most of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's last two years in office. He succeeded the late John Foster Dulles.

THE NEW TRADE program, giving the President broad new tariff bargaining power and replacing the outdated Reciprocal Trade Act, is intended to move this country into closer economic partnership with Western Europe.

From the very start Kennedy showed he would not select aides according to their politics. One of his first acts was to put two Republicans in his Cabinet: Robert S. McNamara, defense secretary, and Douglas Dillon, Treasury secretary. (McNamara describes himself as a registered Republican who votes like an independent.)

Nevertheless, the fact that Herter has been one of the leading Republicans should help keep the congressional Republican opponents of the trade program off

Kenney's back, since Herter will be a shaper of the program.

HE GAVE STRONG backing to the program when he testified earlier this year on Capitol Hill. Congress finally approved it—one of Kennedy's major achievements of 1962—but only after some House Republicans tried to scuttle it.

Republicans owe him thanks for helping to keep their party glued together in 1956 when Harold Stassen, trying to keep Vice President Richard M. Nixon from being renominated, proposed Herter as Eisenhower's running mate.

Herter refused to go along and was the one who nominated the unopposed Nixon at the convention. Then Stassen caved in so completely he seconded the nomination.

Herter, as secretary of state, didn't set any record. But no one expected him to. He inherited a foreign policy already laid down by Dulles and Eisenhower. This made his job a holding operation. He did it well, and quietly.

HE COULD BE more blunt than Dulles who always talked like a lawyer, at least in public. The best example of it came at Herter's first news conference after he became secretary in 1959.

Just a short time before he had spent six empty weeks negotiating with the Soviets at Geneva. Within a few days he was to go back to Geneva for more of the same. He was pessimistic, although he did not use that word.

A newsman pressed him, asking: If Herter had just one word to describe his feelings as he headed back to Geneva, what would it be? Herter grinned, and said: "It might be unprintable."

He has plugged continuously for closer cooperation with this country's Atlantic partners. His support of the trade program was part of this concern.

SINCE LEAVING the State Department he has been chairman of the Atlantic Council, a non-governmental group of Americans interested in closer cooperation among the Allies, and chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs personnel under the sponsorship of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Hal Boyle Souped-Up Seasons

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you have an uneasy, overwhelming feeling that Christmas is near?

I do. I hear the song of Santa Claus ringing clear.

They have already chopped down a giant spruce from a West-balls of the World Series land, the football is in the air.

The basketball player dribbles. The hockey player teases the puck. The people who like to ski don't wait for the snow to fall; they create artificial snow.

The seasons have lost their reasons. Everything now is ahead of what used to be.

I realized this some weeks ago when I received a card wishing me a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year in 1963."

Having just discarded our wretched, home-carved pumpkin—our daughter likes to sustain the ghostly splendor of a candlelit jack-o'-lantern—we hate to have our appreciation of Thanksgiving pressed upon us unduly by threat of the imminent arrival of Santa Claus.

Before you can fully assume the prayerful attitude of being grateful for what you have, the push is put upon you to confer what perhaps you can't afford.

Such is the rush of seasons that before you can enjoy the harvest—if any, and some years it is small—you are summoned to the great give-away.

Well, for one, I don't like turning the calendar upside down quite that far. Who likes to get a flag on the Fourth of July bought in December, or a speckled Christmas necktie purchased last February?

Planning ahead has its advantages but also its defects.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not anti-Santa Claus. I'm speaking of the situation here at home.

If you have a Christmas present you want to send to any dear one overseas, I echo the urgent advice of the U.S. postal service: "Mail it already—or as soon as possible."

To Your Good Health Don't Change Left-Handers Into Right-Handers

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My question is about a professional ball player. He is one of those mixed-up people who are partially right and partially left-handed. When he was small he could throw a ball with either hand. Neither was dominant and nothing was done to influence him.

At about 8 the left arm became natural in throwing but he never could bat that way, so he is handicapped by being a "left" thrower and "right" batter.

What can be done at the age of 19 to correct this? Is it possible for mixed "brain dominance" to affect the ability to learn? That is, to be a slow reader yet have outstanding athletic ability?

—T.J.T.

I quarrel with the term "mixed-up people" in this case. Left-handers are no different from right-handers and they aren't mixed up.

Attempts to alter "handedness" must be done very early if at all, and I think the less done about trying to change a left-handed child, the better. He should be allowed to do things in the way that is natural for him. Then he will do them best. Left-handers who, for example, are forced to learn to write with the other hand are usually poor writers. It always seems awkward to them.

Except at a very early age (and I even have doubts about that) attempts to change the "handed-ness" confuse youngsters, and I feel sure it is well that this young man was left alone.

As to brain dominance having anything to do with the ability to learn—no. That is purely a matter of training, plus aptitude and liking to read. Whether the writing goes from left to right or right to left (or even up and down, as in some languages) is of no consequence.

There are some truly ambidextrous people who can do such precise things as firing a pistol accurately with either hand. I know an ambidextrous surgeon who sutures (sews) skillfully with either hand. It doesn't bother their learning ability, any more than being right-handed or left-handed. Or mixed.

No, I'd let the young ball player concentrate on throwing left-handed as well as he possibly can. Changing at his age is out of the question.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is a few drops of formaldehyde used in water daily to wash the feet harmful?—A.C.

No. In fact daily soaking in such a solution is recommended for those whose feet perspire excessively and for those bothered with foot odor.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are plain canned tomatoes fattening? That is, do they contain many calories? Or mixed?—M.M.

A cup of canned tomatoes averages about 45 calories. This is rather low.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our first child was born mongoloid and died soon afterwards. Needless to say we are very concerned about any future children. We are both young and in very good health. It has been very hard for us to understand why this happened to us.

—(NAME DELETED.)

Of course it is hard for you to accept, but the exact cause is unknown. Mongoloids are born somewhat more often toward the latter years of child-bearing, but they can occur earlier. There is no way of guaranteeing that such a birth cannot happen more than once, but there is little reason to assume that it will. Therefore I would try to put the grief behind me, and be hopeful of having a perfect baby next time.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald for your 'Take Care of Your Heart,' enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Translation By Computer

One of my fellow Rim-writers already has reported the latest about scientific study of ant language. A scientist discovered the insects communicate by a series of sounds, including clicking of mandibles and oscillating of special membranes. Earlier studies indicate the language is complemented by mutual tapping of the antennae, and even various odors.

This may seem like a waste of someone's research money—yet, the day will come when our grandchildren will come across an intelligent species somewhere in this Universe. There is no guarantee that these creatures will be either human or humanoid. And their language may well be some complex system of clicks, beeps, burps and gurgles.

It is this very possibility that makes studies of non-human systems of communication necessary. Such researches include ants, bees, dolphins, and electronic computers.

Yes, computers have a language all their own, too. And it is in these machines that we find the key to eventual success in the translation and understanding of the other non-human languages. Men built computers, stage by stage from the earliest simple morose to the mental giants of today, and progress in the field is going rapidly forward. A computer language had to be invented at the same time.

Scientists now understand the fundamental unity of human language. They have discovered that even the disparate communications of the higher mammals are based on the same principles. Computer development, on the other hand, has shown that non-human (or, non-mammalian) languages have only one factor in common with each other or with our own. That factor is mathematical, and computers use purely mathematical language.

Thus, we will not find "words" as such being used by bees, ants, dolphins or Martians—nor will we discover even a concept of "words" in any but humanoid or mammalian creatures.

When computers are given the task of translating Earthly non-human languages, it will become possible to communicate with certain other creatures (amoebas and earthworms excepted). But always, computers will have to act as interpreters.

Eventual perfection of electronic translators will find uses here on Earth as well as during that chance meeting in outer space. Just a partial list of the possibilities:

Beekeepers directing their swarms to nectar, ordering them out of the hives at honey-gathering time (or, perhaps, directing storage of the colony's supply in the hive, and placement of surplus in a special container), and warning the bees not to use their stingers on the beekeeper, barnyard animals, or anyone else but bandits and varmints.

Ocean-going cowboys in one-man nuclear submarines handling shepherd-dolphins in herding of fish and whales.

Warning away ants from the household or fields—even the keeping of caged colonies of soldier ants to drive out those wild varieties which do not heed the warnings.

And, maybe, even some communication with any species which has a nervous system highly-enough organized for response. Ranchers could call in their cattle instead of having to round them up, and nearly everyone could keep their pets housebroken.

Give Thanks Before The Hard Sell

Would any other citizen care to join with me in a Society for the Preservation of Thanksgiving?

For the safeguarding of Thanksgiving, that is, as it used to be—a very special, uniquely American celebration in its own right and not merely as a commercial adjunct to the Christmas season.

Because that is what Thanksgiving has become—a commercial auxiliary to the increasingly repugnant commercialization of Christmas. Only a generation ago Thanksgiving and Christmas were the two most important and joyous holidays on the American calendar; separate but equal, so to speak, in the hearts and homes of this nation.

UNLESS THANKSGIVING is rescued, and soon, from the hidden persuaders of the merchandising world, it will become fixed in the public mind as only another marker in the hard-sell race toward Christmas.

For the past 10 days the big department stores in New York City have been bright with holiday decorations. But the decorations leap-frog Thanksgiving as if it did not even exist. It—the decor—is wholly devoted to Christmas. Nowhere is there any hint of a Pilgrim Father or a friendly Indian or of the bounteous harvest that inspired the first Thanksgiving in 1623.

IN THE merchandising world Thanksgiving has been absorbed into the Christmas calendar—so thoroughly absorbed that when I shopped for Thanksgiving Day place cards, I finally found a few—in the five-and-dime.

So far has the absorption of Thanksgiving-into-Christmas gone that it has even been demoted as the day or time that triggers the beginning of the Christmas push or rush. Only a decade or so ago, the Christmas selling season began the week after Thanksgiving. That was the time-honored signal for stores to don their Christmas decor and get out the holiday merchandise.

NOW, THE HARD sell begins in October (oh, yes, there were small shops all over town with Christmas decorations in their windows and salesrooms before Nov. 1). The big department stores manage—so far—to restrain themselves until the first or even the second week of November. But then they break out the Christmas trees, holly and sparkle, ignoring Thanksgiving as if it had never been.

It is easy for those of us who lived during the depression to trace the beginning of this trend. In those days, when the Christmas-sell season did not begin until after Thanksgiving, it was decided to move the latter holiday forward a week in order to spur Christmas shopping and give the economy a lift it badly needed.

Thanksgiving was changed from its original and time-honored observance on the last Thursday of November to the next to the last Thursday, and then, in a compromise, to the fourth Thursday. A change begun as a temporary expedient has become, as is the habit with most governmentally inspired "temporary" expedients, an immutable fixture.

I WOULD LIKE TO have back the old Thanksgiving, on the last Thursday of November, as the Pilgrims celebrated it. And I would like to have it back whole and unadorned by the Christmas merchandising push. Since it no longer signals the beginning of the Christmas buying madness, as merchants now start the ordeal early in November, the decision to observe the earlier, non-Pilgrim date no longer serves any useful purpose.

Let us rescue Thanksgiving as a wonderfully unique holiday, capable of standing on its own feet, as in the past. It is not part of Christmas, and it never has been until recently. Its uniqueness and splendor, its national flavor, are in danger of being lost if it is tied to Christmas and the home-coming game. Let the Christmas hard sell wait upon the Day of Thanks.

David Lawrence Perhaps A Resurrection For Nixon

WASHINGTON—Maybe Richard Nixon has nine political lives after all. Things looked pretty bleak for him the other day after his defeat for the governorship of California. But now Pravda, the leading Soviet newspaper in Moscow, and Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, have rejoined at Mr. Nixon's defeat. So things are looking up for the former vice president.

In Soviet terminology, they are always "burying" Americans today and tomorrow, and here is what a United Press International dispatch on Monday said: "MOSCOW—THE voters of California 'buried forever' Richard M. Nixon's 'ambitious dreams of becoming President.' Pravda reported to Soviet readers yesterday. The newspaper said all the forces of the most rabid reaction rallied around the former vice president, but even ex-President Eisenhower's endorsement of him did not give him the 'support of the working people of California.'"

There are Communists in California—not in large numbers, but they are active and influential in some labor unions in defense plants and in some places. Most powerful, however, among the forces aligned against Mr. Nixon are many of the so-called left-wingers throughout the country who are not Communists at all but who somehow cherish the deepest resentment against him because he has helped to expose the influence of communism in America. As a member of the House Committee of Un-American Activities more than a decade ago, Mr. Nixon played an important part in bringing about the conviction of Alger Hiss, a former State Department official. The charge against Hiss was that he lied to a grand jury when he denied that he had turned over any State Department documents to Whittaker Chambers, a Communist agent who later defected and confessed.

EVER SINCE that episode, the insidious attack on Nixon has continued in various forms. The name "Tricky Dick" was invented, and many an innuendo was printed in the press to convey the impression that the former vice president was an unscrupulous man in politics. Many a person who read such comments believed them because there was no effective way to rebut the implications. Denials on specific points were disregarded.

A BREAK FOR Mr. Nixon, however, came last week when The American Broadcasting Company put on Alger Hiss as one of the speakers in a TV program entitled "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon." This brought protests by wire and letter. It stirred up the friends of the former vice president and helped to make clear to many disinterested observers that Richard Nixon is still paying the penalty for having been a vigorous anti-Communist.

AS FOR ALGER Hiss, he made a mistake in going on the air. He merely revived memories of his own case. Though he protests again his innocence, the fact remains that he had a jury trial and made an unsuccessful appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. He served a term in prison for his perjury. The American Broadcasting Company had a right, of course, to put him on television and, while some observers may consider it to have been poor judgment to do this, the broadcast may boomerang in Mr. Nixon's favor.

RICHARD NIXON is a fighter. He may never win high office again, but he owes it to his country to continue the battle against Communist intrigue and against Communist infiltration of the press, the church, the colleges, the labor unions and other American institutions. For the subversive activities control board and the FBI—bogged down by all kinds of technicalities in the law and in court decisions—cannot possibly alert public opinion fully to the dangers presented by the few but powerful groups of Soviet-inspired tacticians inside America.

Tide Needs Victory To Retain Top Spot

By ROBERT MOORE Associated Press Sports Writer Saturday may well prove the day of judgment for several of the nation's college football elite.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

Big Spring's Jerry Tucker took charge in a hurry in this, his freshman year at Texas Western College in El Paso. Last Saturday night against heated rival New Mexico State University, Tucker fired 18 passes and completed eight of them for gains totaling 94 yards and two touchdowns.

Powerful Runnels Junior High completed an undefeated and untied football season by slaying its cross-town rival, Goliad, in a ninth grade game played before an estimated 2,000 here Thursday night, 38-8.

The Yearlings, content to let their reserves handle the situation in the final two periods, did all their scoring in the first half. Runnels drove 77 yards in 11 plays in the first period for their initial score. Quarterback Joe Juarez set up the tally on a 50-yard run down to the Goliad three, then sailed across on the next play. Juarez then passed to Tony Saracho for the two extra points.

later on its own 24 and Troy Hooser was there to make the recovery for Runnels. Juarez proceeded to run 24 yards for Runnels' second tally. Saracho made the two extra points on a run. In the second, Juarez returned a Goliad punt to the Maverick one-foot line and Bobby Griffin rumbled across for the score. Rey Navarete added the two extra points on a run. Later in the round, Griffin returned a punt 20 yards, then broke loose on a 49-yard touchdown run.

Still later in the second, Griffin intercepted a Goliad pass in his end zone and dashed 92 yards down the field.

Moore Is Bidding For Recognition

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—All-America nominee Billy Moore will try to nail down a bowl bid for Arkansas' Razorbacks and bolster his rushing and scoring leads in the Southwest Conference against Southern Methodist here Saturday.

Moore, who has rushed for 485 yards and scored 66 points, will be making his final hometown appearance before a sellout crowd of 41,000. His scoring total is 30 points higher than his nearest rival and Moore has rushed for 88 yards more than any other player in the league.

Cokes Triumphs In First Round

DALLAS (AP)—Hubert Jackson of Wichita, Kan., was knocked out in the first round of his scheduled 10-round bout with Curtis Cokes of Dallas Thursday night.

Cokes, the No. 2 welterweight, weighed 147, Jackson 146. Johnny Brooks of Wichita won by a technical in the fourth round of his bout with Freddie Barris of Dallas. Both weighed 136.

The fights were witnessed by 1,500 fans who also saw via closed circuit television the heavyweight battle between Archie Moore and Cassius Clay in Los Angeles.

Eighth grade football teams of Runnels and Goliad hooked up in a real donnybrook before Runnels finally pulled out an 8-6 victory Thursday night.

The first half was pretty much dominated by Runnels but Goliad took charge in the last half and almost pulled the decision out of the fire.

Runnels scored in the second period when Gary Rogers passed to Elias Ramirez for 48 yards and a tally, after the Yearlings had recovered a Goliad fumble at that point.

Rogers then ran across for the extra point to give Runnels the margin it needed to win.

Goliad scored in the fourth following a Runnels fumble on the Yearling 46. Johnny Arrick traveled the last eight yards for the tally. The Mavericks then tried to run across the vital two extra points but failed.

Goliad drove deep in Runnels territory on two occasions later in the game but couldn't quite mount the punch necessary to score again.

Don Jones and Kirby Horton, along with Paul Waggoner and Arrick, gave the Mavericks a fine offensive punch.

For Runnels, Rogers, Avil Ramirez, Jesus Zapata, David Gomez, Elias Ramirez, Frank Salazar and Manuel Olague excelled on defense while Rogers, Elias Ramirez, Ronnie Anderson, Avil Ramirez, James Carver and Gary Turner were outstanding on offense.

Green Bay 11 To Get Rough Tests Shortly

NEW YORK (AP)—The Green Bay Packers' bid to become the first National Football League team since 1942 to go through a regular season unbeaten gets a two-fold test within the next week, beginning Sunday in Green Bay against the Baltimore Colts.

On Thursday, Thanksgiving Day the Packers will try to carve up the Detroit Lions for a second time this season in their annual game in Detroit. But it is doubtful if either game will reach the proportions of Green Bay's 49-0 victory over Philadelphia last week, one which prompted a wit to remark:

"If the Green Bay Packers faced Red China tomorrow, they would be three touchdown favorites."

This week's picks (last week, 9 correct, 2 wrong; season, 56-34), NFL

Green Bay over Baltimore—The Packers' Paul Hornung is available again and fullback Jim Taylor is hot on the trail of the rushing and scoring titles in the NFL. Colts defense has been tough, but Packers have been tougher.

New York over Philadelphia—Eagles will be on rebound from Packers lacing, but Giants won't let up with chance for second straight Eastern title and another crack at Packers.

Pittsburgh over Washington—Steelers' big, rugged defense will make the difference, despite return to health by skins Bobby Mitchell.

Detroit over Minnesota—Lions have offense back in gear now, and face woeful Viking defense. Fran Tarkenton won't find any patsies in Detroit's defense.

Chicago over Dallas—Bears' Billy Wade is on his late season spurt and Cowboys' Eddie Lebaron is hurt.

St. Louis over Cleveland—Cards clicking under Charley Johnson at quarterback while Browns in trouble with fullback Jimmy Brown having an off year.

Los Angeles over San Francisco—Rams' defense getting better and the stars offense getting worse. Arnold, Zeke Bratkowski and Dick Bass may finally give Swede Sorensen the offense he's looking for.

Coahoma Upset By Sands Club

Sands High School of Ackery Springs a mild upset in defeating Coahoma, 33-27, in second round play in the HCCJ High School Girls' Basketball tournament here Thursday night.

The Mustangs earlier had turned back Forsan B, 37-21. In other games Thursday, Forsan A downed Grandfalls, 70-38, only to lose to Westbrook in the second round, 49-38.

Sands and Westbrook clashed in the winner's bracket at 10:15 a. m. today.

In a losers' bracket contest last night, Grandfalls eliminated Forsan B, 43-27. Grandfalls now plays the winner in the Forsan A-Coahoma contest at 3 p. m. today.

The meet continues through Saturday night. Consolation round game is set for 7 p. m. Saturday while first place will be determined in a contest starting at 8:30 p. m.

Cokes Triumphs In First Round

DALLAS (AP)—Hubert Jackson of Wichita, Kan., was knocked out in the first round of his scheduled 10-round bout with Curtis Cokes of Dallas Thursday night.

Cokes, the No. 2 welterweight, weighed 147, Jackson 146. Johnny Brooks of Wichita won by a technical in the fourth round of his bout with Freddie Barris of Dallas. Both weighed 136.

The fights were witnessed by 1,500 fans who also saw via closed circuit television the heavyweight battle between Archie Moore and Cassius Clay in Los Angeles.

Flock A Peck Of Trouble For Big Spring Steers

Big Spring has had more trouble beating Abilene High than any other foe on its football schedule. Since 1930, the Eagles have defeated Big Spring no fewer than 20 times in 23 games. One game resulted in a tie while Big Spring's only victories in the series were in succession. They came in 1939 and 1940.

Since the series was resumed in 1956, following a lapse of six years, Abilene has won by three or more touchdowns in each outing.

On eight occasions, the Eagles have blanked the Steers. In 1949, the War Birds humiliated the local club, 72-7.

The two teams met twice in 1938, when all clubs in the district played a double round-robin. They played to a 7-7 deadlock in the first game but Abilene won the second game that year, 28-7.

In 1939, the Steers finally beat the Eagles in Abilene, 37-20. Lefty Harold Bethel had a big hand in that victory. The following fall, Big Spring registered a convincing 25-6 victory in Big Spring. Pat Murphy was the coach those two years. It was in 1940 that Murphy developed a district champion here.

After that season, Abilene started a 15-game winning streak against Big Spring that has endured to this day. The streak was, of course, stretched over 21 years.

They End Play At Home

Love, Jefferies Lead 2-4A In Departments

Permian's Mike Love and Abilene's David Jefferies are the rushing and passing leaders in District 2-AAA football, as the race enters the home stretch.

Love has gained 1,032 yards in 135 carries for a 7.6-yard average. Rusty Harris of Abilene is a distant second, with 866 yards picked up in 124 attempts for an even seven-yard average.

Jefferies has completed 53 of 112 passes for gains totaling 721 yards. He's thrown for eight touchdowns and had 14 aeriels intercepted.

Jefferies' favorite receiver is Bob Bearden, who leads in that department with 23 receptions and 364 yards in gains. Bearden three times has gone for touchdowns after receiving passes.

Cassius Clay Says He'd Let Champion Go Eight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Is Cassius Clay ready for the heavyweight boxing champion, Sonny Liston?

"I think you better ask his manager about it," said Liston after watching Cassius knock out Archie Moore in four rounds Thursday night.

Liston, his wife and his business advisor, Jack Nilan, occupied ringside seats back of Clay's corner. It was Liston's first visit to Los Angeles.

On his way to the dressing room after the fight, Cassius stopped at Liston's seat.

As he had told others, talkative Cassius informed Liston he would "let him last eight rounds" if and when they meet.

In dead-panned fashion, Liston replied: "You go eight rounds with me and I'll give you the fight."

Clay and Liston shared the head table and a microphone at a press party after the fight.

Co-promoter George Parnassus introduced Cassius as a young man who thinks he will be the "next heavyweight champion of the world."

Liston took this with a slightly clowning smile.

What about Clay's chances against him?

"Only way he could last with me would be to run like (Eddie) Machen. It takes two to tango and Machen likes to tango," said Sonny. He referred to a match with Machen prior to his title win over Floyd Patterson.

Clay said he merited no great credit for winning over Moore "because he is an old man." (It's hard to tell when Cassius is clowning or serious.)

He added: "But Moore is good just to be in the same ring with me." Clay promised he'd last with Liston "because I can run for eight rounds."

Liston, grabbing the microphone replied: "You'll be running, but I'll be chasing you."

Odessa Winner In Fifth Round

HOUSTON (AP)—Manuel Gonzalez of Odessa scored a fifth round technical knockout over Dalton Caro of Dallas in their scheduled 10-round fight Thursday night.

Gonzalez weighed 145 1/2, Caro 150.

Steve Freeman of Lake Jackson took a six-round decision over Bobby Farza of Corpus Christi. Freeman weighed 132, Farza 130 1/2.

Nats Find Home In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Syracuse Nationals may have found a home away from home in Baltimore's new Civic Center.

But don't count on the National Basketball Association team moving here. At least, not while Danny Biasone is president of the club.

The Nats crushed the Los Angeles Lakers 120-98 Thursday night for their second consecutive victory in Baltimore this season. The game attracted 7,511—about 500 more than the capacity of the Syracuse War Memorial Auditorium.

In the only other NBA game Thursday, the Chicago Zephyrs nipped the New York Knicks 95-92 in Chicago.

ON THE SHELF

WE SEVEN. By the Astronauts, Simon & Schuster $6.50.
By The Associated Press
You'd think that after the millions of words that have poured forth from all the media of communications about the astronauts, little would be left to say. Yet this volume has a worthwhile place in the chronicles of Project Mercury, as a collection of first person stories about how the seven men reacted to their training and their missions. John H. Glenn leads off with the background information about his experience, selection and early training, followed by each of the other six. Then comes a section on the team aspects of the training and flight programs, by Deke Slayton, Gordon Cooper and Walter Schir-ra, Glenn, Schirra and Scott Carpenter discuss the equipment of the space capsules and ground stations, after which Slayton, Glenn, Carpenter, Gus Grissom and Alan Shepard pile up detailed descriptions of the many training techniques that prepared the astronauts for space, and Glenn talks about some of the glitches (flaws) that had to be cleared up. Shepard describes the first American suborbital flight and Grissom the second, after which Glenn, Carpenter and Shepard build up the details—technical and psychological—which surrounded the first orbital flights. The book ends with graphic, running accounts of the orbits of Glenn and Carpenter (Schirra's came too late for press time).

The reader will be impressed not only with the technical competence of these men, but also with their balance, their devotion to the over-all objectives of the project, and the little touches that show how they let off steam with jocular pranks and small jokes. Glenn emerges as the dedicated, avuncular type with a thorough grasp of every problem; Carpenter is perhaps the most articulate in describing the emotional and psychological reactions to space flight, and Schirra probably has the saltiest personality. The book is a model of clarity in a field where technical jargon might easily have swamped the narrative. Naturally, its appeal will be primarily to male readers, but everyone can find in it an inspiring narrative of ultra-modern pioneers.

Oilmen Brace For Attack On Depletion Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Segments of the oil industry are bracing for an expected new and stronger attack on the oil depletion allowance when tax reduction is considered by Congress. The Kennedy administration was reported earlier this week to be considering income tax cuts to take effect over a two-year period, if Congress assents. The first reduction would become effective Jan. 1. The administration also was reported studying the idea of cutting taxes before making effective any proposal to close tax loopholes. The Truman administration in 1950 described the 27½ per cent tax depletion allowance permitted oil and gas operators as one of the loopholes and recommended Congress lower it to 15 per cent. Congress rejected the recommendation. And it since has turned down various proposals to change the 27½ per cent figure which has been in effect since 1926. William Powell, lawyer for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said many oil leaders believe the tax cut recommendations to be sent to Congress by President Kennedy will not include any proposals for reducing mineral depletion allowances. They hold this view, he said, because of the importance of the mineral industries to the nation.

Religious Play Opens HCJC's Drama Season

The final curtain will ring down tonight on the first play of the season by the speech department of Howard County Junior College. The drama is "A Man Called Peter," by John McGreevey, from the book by Catherine Marshall. First presentation of the play was Thursday evening in HCJC Auditorium. The play was directed by speech instructor Martin Landers and staged by the college drama organization, The Hawk Players. Tonight's show will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. The play presents a portion out of the amazing life of Peter Marshall, long-time chaplain of the U.S. Senate. It summarizes the philosophies, strengths, weaknesses, tragedy and humor inherent in a fascinating personality such as Marshall's.

The book, written by the chaplain's widow after his death, became a best seller. A successful motion picture also was made from the book. Peter Marshall was a man of keen insight and the courage of his convictions. Some of the prayers with which he helped open Senate sessions have already become classics, sparing not the senators' thin skins but never wielding the lash cruelly—and always calling out the best in human nature in the midst of the political jungle. In the stage version, Jimmy Owens takes the title role, with Anita Murphy as Mrs. Marshall. Other members of the cast include Bobby Kincaid, Jerry Hatfield, Janice Hudson, Marilyn McReavy, Winn Richbourg, Pat Saunders, Jerry Franklin, Ben C. Hathaway Jr., Danny Fisher, Milton Marrow, Ann Klepper, Janice Winans, and Barbara Fitts.

Schick To Honor Video Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Schick Safety Razor Co. says it will honor its present contract with ABC television but will sponsor no more shows on ABC until the network "makes amends" for a program presented last Sunday. Patrick Frawley, Schick's board chairman, objected to the appearance of Alger Hiss on a program titled "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon." Frawley tried to cancel a million-dollar contract under which Schick would sponsor part of two shows on ABC next year. But ABC refused to dissolve the agreement.

Snow Spreads From Rockies

The heaviest snow of the season spread from the Rockies into the central Plains today but the storm which hammered coastal sections of New England diminished. Wet weather, mostly rain, covered broad areas of the country from the Rockies to the Ohio Valley, the extreme Northeast coast and in the far Northwest.

Video Statistic A Misleading One

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most widely-used statistics concerning television is the estimate that the "average" set is in use a little more than five hours a day. It is a misleading one. Studies of its audience samples by the Nielsen Research organization however, lead to a conclusion that the nation's "heaviest viewers"—who account for about 38 per cent of the total viewing hours—have their sets on for about 10 hours during an average day. But on the other end of the spectrum are the so-called "light" viewers—those families who use their sets on a daily average of an hour or less a day. The "heavy" viewing families, Nielsen finds, consist importantly of large, young, middle-income families—five and more—in large cities. (The 10 hours, therefore, is presumed to be split up among the various members of the family, ranging from the young to the older adults.) The "light" viewers are smaller families and about evenly split between heavily populated centers and more sparsely settled areas. Almost half are in the low income groups, and one important quarter, upper income. Researchers have found that although viewing bubbles along at pretty much the same rate year in and year out, there have been some shifts. For instance, although morning viewing continues at about the same rate, there has been an increase in afternoon viewing. And while there has been a slight increase in "fringe"—mostly late evening—viewing, there has been a drop-off, but not an important one, in prime evening-time audiences. The "Perry Mason Show" has signed Walter Pidgeon for an episode as guest-lawyer during Raymond Burr's four-show absence for surgery. Actor Basil Rathbone, the most
