Winter's chill breath points autumnal scene

Warm Sun Beams Over Panhandle

A snow-melting sun, instead of a predicted snowstorm, beamed down Monday on the Texas Panhandle.

A predicted heavy snow for Northwest Texas failed to materialize as a snowstorm from Colorado moved to the north of Texas.

Clear skies greeted the Amarillo area early Monday, and remains of Saturday's eight-inch snow fall melted. Clear to partly cloudy weather was forecast for Tuesday.

The snow clouds vanished after light snow was reported Sunday night at a few points. White flakes fluttered down before dawn around Lubbock.

Elsewhere over the state skies generally were partly cloudy to cloudy.

There was drizzle or gentle rain at Abilene, Cotulla, Longview, Tyler, Lufkin and Beaumont. Much of the area from Waco to Longview received moisture during the night.

Four deaths were laid to the storm, all in auto accidents Saturday on highways slippery from snow or rain.

At the same time the snow and rain brought welcome moisture to wheat farmers and ranchers worried over dry range lands.

The Weather Bureau predicted snow and rain would play out in the Panhandle and move southward in West Central Texas during the day while light rain fell across all of North Texas and into South Texas.

Forecasts called for the moisture to end in West and Central Texas sometime Monday night, and elsewhere over the state Tuesday except in Southeast Texas.

Another cold night was in prospect for most areas. A moderate freeze was expected in the Texas Panhandle-Plains.

Temperatures early Tuesday were due to get as low as 22 degrees in extreme Southwest Texas, 32 in North Central and Southeast Texas and only a few degrees higher in other sections.

Sunday's high marks ranged from 31 at Amarillo and Dalhart and 33 at Lubbock up to 67 at Laredo.

No Killing Freeze Reported

Although early risers noted a thin white coating of hoarfrost on roofs and car tops Monday and despite the fact that there was biting cold, snow and sleet just a few score miles north of here over the weekend, Howard County is still to have its first killing freeze of this fall.

What frost that has developed thus far has not been enough to stop the growth of plants and shrubs. It has been able to tint the leaves on some trees and to bring about a partial defoliation of some plants. Cotton fields, heavily leafed as the fall was ushered in, have shed some of their leaves but the farmers say the cold, so far, has not as yet been strong enough to finish off the belated bolls.

Low temperature for the weekend was only 31 degrees and the mercury failed to fall that low Sunday night.

Sunday gave the residents of the area a preview how fall should be, however. The skies were gray and the wind chill. From time to time the faint hearted sun sought to puncture the overcast but its efforts were feeble. However, Sunday was not as unpleasant as Saturday. Occasional light mists on Saturday augmented the general discomfort.

Meantime, farmers are now ready for the hard freeze. The nipper frosts which have already occurred have terminated the blossoms on related plants. What growth the younger bolls will have has been pretty well halted. The harvest is lagging far behind schedule.

A hard frost will defoliate the plants, burst open nearly ripened bolls and permit strippers to begin their work.

Ancient Havana Tunnels Put In Order By Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Subterranean passages dug beneath Havana by the Spaniards in Colonial days have been put in order by the Fidel Castro regime for use in case of an invasion, the Cuban Revolutionary Council said today.

The council detailed a vast underground network and suggested it could be used by the Castro regime as an escape hatch as well as for defense against an enemy.

The report was released by Manuel Antonio de Varona, council public relations executive.

The report said one underground passage has been extended to Castro's presumed residence.

It connects with the sea, the report said.

The council, major anti-Castro organization which mounted the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, said also that a network of secret airports and hangars had been constructed throughout Cuba.

At some of the hidden or camouflaged airports, the council added, there are detection devices designed to spy electronically on missile launchings at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Also included in the network, the council asserted, are missile bases undetected by American U2 planes.

Cuba Readies Protest In Sabotage Plot

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cuban delegation readied a formal protest to the United Nations today seeking the release of an attaché, one of three men charged in an alleged Cuban sabotage plot.

An FBI spokesman said the arrested trio was believed planning to blow up oil refineries in New Jersey, set off incendiary bombs and smoke devices in New York's major department stores and throw hand grenades into crowds of Christmas shoppers here.

"It was a question of moving in before they had a chance to use their equipment," said John Malone, agent in charge of the New York FBI office. He referred to a cache of explosives and incendiary devices which the FBI confiscated.

The FBI also disclosed, in making the arrests Friday night and Saturday, that 10 others were being trained here in the art of sabotage. All 10 have been subpoenaed by a federal grand jury, the FBI said.

One of the three arrested, Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, 27, is an attaché at the Cuban U.N. mission. He arrived here Oct. 3 on a plane bringing Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos to New York for a U.N. session.

The FBI said Santiesteban had applied for diplomatic immunity but the State Department had not given the application final approval at the time of his arrest.

Ambassador Carlos M. Lechuga, head of the Cuban delegation, said in a statement that he was "asking the United Nations to see that the international agreements on diplomatic immunity are carried out."

A U.S. delegation note to the Cuban delegation Saturday said two other Cuban U.N. attaches took part in "a criminal conspiracy" with the sabotage ring, and demanded that the pair leave this country.

The two, Jose Gomez Abad, 21, and his wife, Elsa, 20, furnished the explosives to be used by the saboteurs, the FBI said. They were not arrested because of diplomatic immunity.

FBI agents said they confiscated an arsenal of weapons when they arrested the trio. Included were six delayed-action incendiary devices, 12 fuses, three fragmentation hand grenades, two pistols with ammunition and six concussion hand grenades.

The cache was found in a Manhattan jewelry manufacturing shop of one of the accused plotters, Jose Garcia Orellana, 42, the FBI said.

The third person arrested was Marino Antonio Esteban del Carmen Sueiro y Cabrera, 22, a college student who worked part time at the jewelry workshop.

Also held, as a material witness, was Ada Marie Dritsas, 26, who accompanied Sueiro when he was picked up. She was described as a teacher and recreation supervisor in Manhattan.

Arms Move Expected To Get U.N. Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations and a progress report by mid-April was expected to win overwhelming approval in the United Nations today.

Another resolution recommending that nuclear weapons be barred from Latin America faced an uncertain future because of Cuban demands that it apply to U.S. bases in the Caribbean.

The General Assembly's 110-nation main political committee scheduled morning and afternoon meetings in an effort to reach a vote today on the two proposals.

The first resolution, sponsored by 31 countries, calls on the 18-nation disarmament committee to resume its negotiations in Geneva "expeditiously and in a spirit of constructive compromise, until agreement has been reached" on general and complete disarmament with effective controls.

The proposal asks the disarmament committee to report to the assembly on its progress not later than the second week of April. The committee, which recessed Sept. 8 to allow for the U.N. debate, is scheduled to meet again Nov. 26.

The second resolution recommends that the countries of Latin America agree to dispose of any nuclear weapons or nuclear delivery vehicles which may be on their territory and not to manufacture, receive, store or test such devices. It calls for verification procedures.

Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador, sponsoring the proposal, were expected to confer on their future course in view of the Cuban-U.S. disagreement. There was speculation that they might withhold the resolution from a vote for the time being.

Cuban chief delegate Carlos M. Lechuga told the committee Friday the idea of making Latin America a demilitarized zone was "very acceptable to Cuba."

But he said Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone — both U.S. military strongholds — should be included and all big-power military bases in Latin America should be done away with.

Invaders Near Plains Of Assam

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall to the Chinese Communists of Bomdila, 25 miles from the plains of Assam.

His announcement followed by only a matter of hours news from the Defense Ministry that Indian defense positions on the Se Pass had been overrun and that fighting had moved 32 air miles to the southeast, into the outskirts of Bomdila, in fighting on the western end of the long border front.

The Indian army had planned to place its next defense line behind Se Pass at Bomdila, but the surprise Chinese sweep around the northeast end of the defenses brought the attackers Sunday night to Bomdila.

Indian troops from Se Pass, caught between two Chinese forces were trying to fight their way back to a link with the Indians around Bomdila.

VITAL PASS FALLS

Prime Minister Nehru had announced earlier the fall of the vital Himalayan Se Pass to a prong of a massive Red Chinese offensive probing toward the densely populated plains of Assam.

The Chinese outflanked Indian troops on 13,756-foot-high Se Pass, forcing them to withdraw, Nehru told Parliament.

The loss of the pass came as the Chinese Communists, attacking in waves, pressed their renewed offensive at both ends of the 1,500-mile frontier stretching from Burma to Kashmir.

At the eastern end of the battle line, the Chinese posed a separate threat to the Assam plains in an advance of 12 miles from the key defense post of Walong, which they captured Friday. Walong lies some 300 miles east of Se Pass.

In Ladakh, at the northwest end of the disputed border, the Chinese have taken an outpost guarding a vital Indian airfield at Chushul and fighting is continuing in the area, Nehru said.

NAKED AGGRESSION

His announcement of the new reverses came after a speech Sunday night in which he said the Chinese offensive is threatening Indian independence. He said other countries are now beginning to realize that this is not a border dispute but "naked, crude and shameless aggression."

A Peking broadcast quoted Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai as saying U.S. arms aid to India will enlarge the conflict "to the detriment of the Chinese and Indian people and of the Afro-Asian peoples." About $5 million worth of badly needed infantry weapons has been flown to India by the United States.

Peking radio claimed that after capturing Se Pass the Chinese pressed their advance to the southeast in the direction of the Indian army's advance headquarters on the Dhirang River.

The Indian army had been planning to put its next defense line in this area of the northeast frontier district at 8,726-foot Bomdila, on the next ridge of an Indian-built road running to Tezpur on the Assam plains.

BIGGEST BATTLE

The fall of Walong near the Burma border came after the biggest battle since the Chinese first struck.

Indian estimates put the Chinese attackers in this area at well above a division supported by artillery, heavy mortars and recoilless guns.

The Indians threw up hastily prepared defenses in the Lohit River valley a dozen miles south of Walong.

Indian air force planes and some civilian airliners are rushing troops to Tezu, 136 miles south of Walong. Trains and trucks are then taking them up the valley to the front to try to hold the Chinese.

Officials in New Delhi said they still could not tell whether the Chinese would try to fight their way into the plains of Assam, outside the area they claim in the Himalayan area of northeast India.

India's most important oil fields and some coal mines are close to the point at which the Lohit Valley enters the plains.

S. Carolina Race Bars Under Fire

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP) — The school segregation barriers of South Carolina, the only state which has not admitted a Negro to a tax-supported white institution of learning, were to be assailed in U.S. District Court today.

Lawyers for Harvey G. Gantt, 19, a Charleston Negro, will ask that he be admitted to Clemson College, an all-white school since it was founded 73 years ago.

Gantt has been studying architecture at Iowa State University in Ames.

His case was to be tried by U.S. Dist. Judge C. C. Wyche of Spartanburg, who recently denied a request for a temporary injunction requiring Gantt's immediate admission to Clemson.

Clemson President Robert C. Edwards testified at that hearing that Gantt had not completed his application properly. He also said Clemson has no policy in regard to admission of Negroes.

The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Judge Wyche's denial of the injunction, and sent the case back to him for trial.

Judge Wyche has lived all of his 77 years in South Carolina. He has been on the federal bench since his appointment by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1937. He is a former law partner of James F. Byrnes, once a former associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Byrnes and other trustees of Clemson College have been subpoenaed in the case.

There have been past attempts to integrate the University of South Carolina at Columbia and Winthrop College, the state school for women at Rock Hill. In each case, the applying Negroes failed to press their attempts to a conclusive decision in the courts.

More than 2,000 Negroes are now enrolled in formerly white colleges in Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Mississippi.

The University of Alabama admitted Atherine Lucy, a Negro girl, several years ago. She was expelled for making charges against school officials, and the university now has no Negro students.

At the University of Mississippi, a lone Negro, James H. Meredith, is attending classes.

Gantt is described by faculty members and classmates at Iowa State as quiet and studious. He has been a good student, but not a brilliant one. His Iowa grades were slightly below the "B" average level.

He wants to finish his study of architecture at Clemson, the only school in South Carolina where that type of instruction is available.

Walker Shows Up In Oxford

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Former Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker appeared here today with three lawyers, apparently on hand for a U.S. District Court hearing Tuesday involving federal charges against him.

The government charged Walker with seditious conspiracy and inciting insurrection for his actions the night of Sept. 30, when bloody rioting raged in the University of Mississippi campus in protest to the arrival of Negro James Meredith.

Walker and three lawyers, arrived here by car.

'Beat San Angelo Week' Is Proclaimed For Gridiron Tilt

Big Spring has an unscheduled but happy special week.

Mayor George Zachariah announced Monday that he had proclaimed this "Beat San Angelo Week" to focus attention on Friday's football game between Big Spring and San Angelo.

The district title will be on the line when these two old rivals meet in San Angelo. Big Spring must win to take the crown; San Angelo can tie and retain it.

"Our boys and our coaches have demonstrated that they are willing to pay the price in effort and spirit to win," said the mayor. "It would be unworthy of fans to show less spirit in their support of the team."

"I therefore call on the townspeople to join with the team, the coaches and the school to make victory in the finest traditions of sportsmanship our goal this week.

"It is my hope that everyone who can will be on hand Friday evening to give personal backing to one of the pluckiest squads ever to represent us."

More Than Half Of 2-County Population Takes Polio Vaccine

The percentage of Howard and Glasscock people who have joined in an immunization against polio has climbed to 63.2.

This figure was achieved Sunday when a "make-up" clinic for the administering of the Sabin Type I vaccine passed out doses to 3,362 people.

This was considered a good figure. The Sunday before, 22,729 took the vaccine, to bring the total to 26,091, as against a total (1960 official) population of the two counties of 41,257.

The Sunday clinic operated for five hours at the Runnels Junior High School, and volunteers were kept fairly busy throughout the period. The service was offered for those who failed to take the vaccine a week earlier.

Contributions amounted to $822.91, Finance Chairman John Currie reported, an average of 22.5 cents per person, as against a 24 cent average a week ago. The vaccine is free, but donations were accepted to help defray cost of the program.

The Sabin vaccine functions primarily as a deterrent to the spread of polio. There are three types—all regarded as essential to curb the "carrying" of all types of polio viruses.

Definite dates have not been set, but in a matter of some weeks—possibly after the holidays—the Type II (and later Type III) vaccine will be offered.

The clinics are being operated free under auspices of the Permian Basin Medical Society, with doctors, pharmacists and nurses cooperating in handling all medical aspects. Clerical and other detail work has been under supervision of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, with help of Parent-Teacher Associations and other organizations.

Dr. B. Broadrick was general chairman, with Dr. J. M. Woodall serving as medical director. Wayne Gound handled pharmacy details, and Mrs. Fred Hyer directed the nurses. JayCee activities were headed up by Charles E. Bell.

Dr. Broadrick Monday expressed appreciation to all who had a part in making the first immunization program a success.

"We still would like to have had more people join in this public health program, but we are grateful to those who did participate. We will give full information on the administering of other types of Sabin vaccine at later dates,"

Bowles Is Glad G'water Doesn't Approve Of Him

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrat Chester Bowles says he's glad Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., doesn't approve of him.

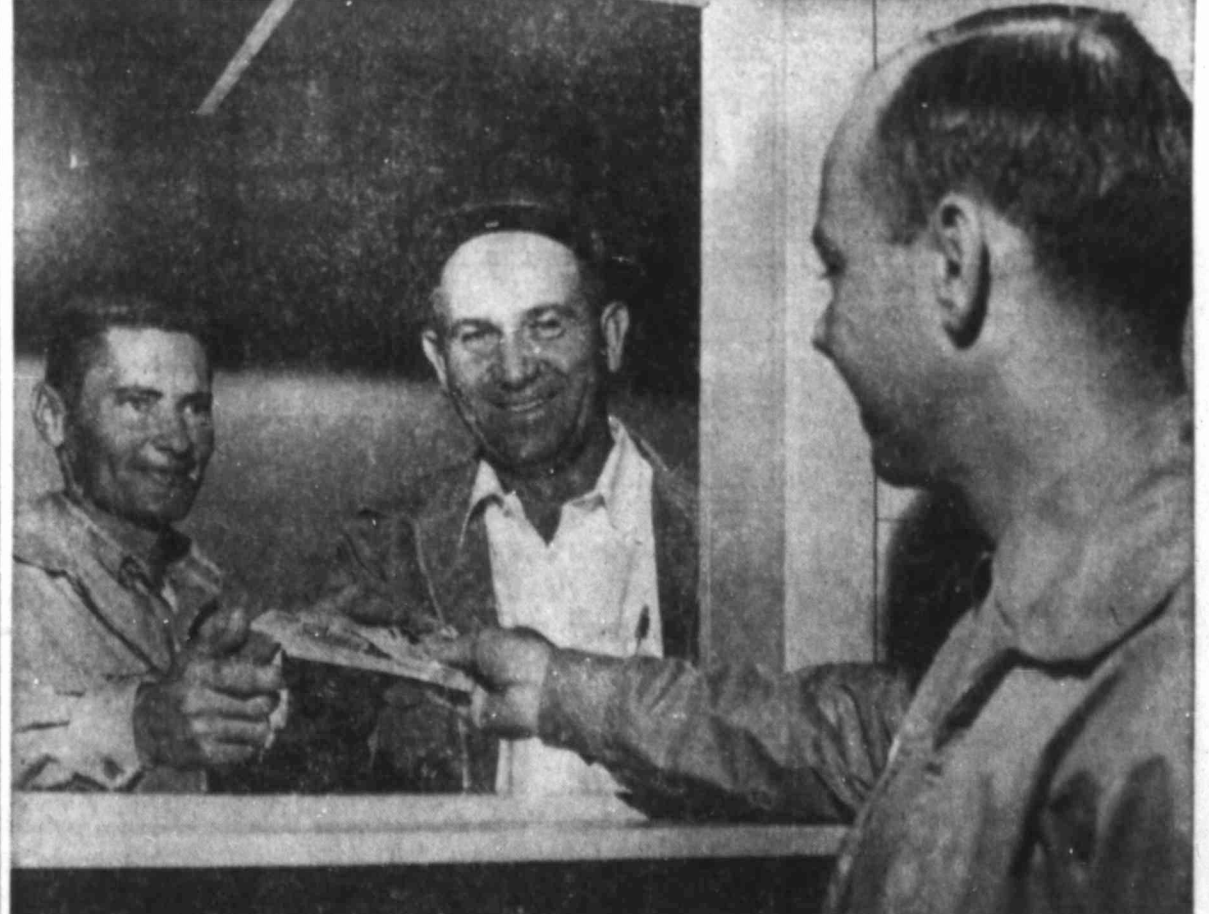

Bowles says he understands Goldwater is "now wrapping his arms around (Republican Gov.) Nelson Rockefeller" and "I'm sorry for Nelson Rockefeller."

Bowles, President Kennedy's special adviser on Latin American, Asian and African affairs, made the remarks on the taped "Ladies of the Press" television program. (WOR-TV) Sunday night.

Beehive Of Activity

The football ticket booth in the School Business Office was a busy place this morning, as reserve seat duets for the Friday night District 2-AAAA championship game between Big Spring and San Angelo went on sale. An estimated 800 of the original 1,029 adult tickets had been sold by 11 a.m. Don Crockett said he was ordering another 870 adult duets today and they will be made available to the general public at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. If those are sold, only 175 more can be sent here for sale. San Angelo officials announced they were reserving for Big Spring fans half of the east side of the San Angelo stadium, which seats 12,001. Radars Seen In Cuban Aerial Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — A primary reason behind the Cuban government's grounding of domestic aviation may be radar difficulty in detecting and tracking U.S. reconnaissance planes.

The planes were grounded Sunday, following Premier Fidel Castro's warning late last week that surveillance craft flying over Cuba will be destroyed.

Low and high flying American reconnaissance planes, keeping tabs on former missile sites and other military developments, aroused Castro's ire.

Military radar for locating and tracing aircraft has been installed recently by the Russians for Cuba but there appears to be some question about its efficiency in its present form.

TRAINING NEEDED

Military radar must be able to separate friendly or false targets from a true target. This requires considerable "sophistication" in the equipment and in the ability of crews to interpret radar signals.

The U.S. tactic of flying low level as well as high altitude reconnaissance missions has complicated Cuba's problem. Some planes fly in below the searching radar beams.

There were these other developments touching on the Cuban situation:

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, said the U.S. must encourage Cuban refugees to invade Cuba at some future date and drive communism out of the hemisphere.

In an article in the Communist party organ, Pravda, in Moscow, the Soviet Union defended its withdrawal of missiles from Cuba and accused Red China of siding with the imperialists.

RED NONSENSE

A claim that withdrawal of Soviet missiles from Cuba has saved peace was described as "pure nonsense" by Peking People's Daily. The official Chinese organ charged that the "grave threat of U.S. aggression against Cuba persists" and that the Cuban crisis "is far from being over."

John M. McCloy, chairman of President Kennedy's coordinating committee on the Cuban crisis, was the luncheon guest of Vasily V. Kuznetsov, Soviet first deputy foreign minister at the Soviet U.N. delegation's Long Island country house in Glen Cove. McCloy said it was just a social visit.

At Guantanamo Bay, the commander of the Marine ground forces guarding the big U.S. naval base in Cuba said it is highly defensible because Castro can not isolate it. Brig. Gen. William R. Collins said "if we control the seas around the base and the air, we control the base."

At Miami, Earl E. T. Smith, former U.S. ambassador to Cuba, said he doubted that the current Cuban crisis "can be resolved as long as we have Castro." But he no longer advocated invading the island as he did in 1960.

Dawson Gold Star Winners

LAMESA (SC) — Donald Vogler of Klondike and Mary Boardman of Lamesa were selected the Gold Star winners for Dawson County.

Coal Region Standing Still

By BOB COOPER
PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — The people who live in the gloriously beautiful hills of eastern Kentucky are disheartened and discouraged.

Coal is their only crutch and the area's economy is sagging badly. Large rail mines are doing fairly well, but they employ relatively few persons. The small coal industry, generally, contains three strata of humanity.

A few men of means who own coal-bearing land. A larger number of men who rent the land or the coal rights on it and operate small mines. These men live lower middle class lives that sometimes are highly dangerous when troubles break out in the coal fields.

By far the largest majority of men are the mine workers. Many of them poor beyond belief.

PRICE DROPS

When the price of coal drops, operators are forced either to decrease wages, cut off some fringe benefits or close their mines.

Mine workers do not understand this. They remember the old days when they worked for good pay. Their pride will accept nothing less now.

The miners quit work in protest if their demands are not met. Out of jobs, they have no income. They go hungry.

The small operators, with only meager bankrolls on which to operate, feel the pinch. The landowner, with no one renting from him, suffers also. But his loss is buried in the hunger and suffering of the others.

Into such a land came the government with a test program that gives food stamps to needy families. These may be cashed at grocery stores.

RELIEF ROLLS

About 400 persons in Floyd County are on relief rolls now. More are expected to join the program soon.

The miners don't want to take a government handout, but they feel they must. They won't work because the operators won't pay wages that suit them.

The operators say the food stamp program has made mine workers dependent, lazy and shiftless.

Business in the area — drug stores, hardware stores, clothing stores — has suffered. The current walkout of workers from truck mines began weeks ago when the United Mine Workers Union withdrew welfare cards. The union said it made the move because operators failed to pay royalties that support the welfare fund. The operators say they can't make the payments.

THE GOOD TIMES

"Back when we were getting $4.50 or more a ton for coal, we could make the payments easily and everybody lived good," one operator said. "We made some money and the miners got good wages."

"But now we're getting $3.75 or less. By the time we pay any kind of living wage to our men, there just isn't enough left for a 40-cent-a-ton royalty payment."

With all truck mines closed, a stalemate developed between the operators and the mine workers. To try to break this stalemate, the operators came up with a plan.

They opened a small mining operation at Garth Hollow, about 16 miles from here. They also opened a tippie at Martin to grade the coal and load it into railroad cars.

VIOLATED CODE

The operators announced they would pay 15 cents a ton into a fund to buy hospitalization insurance for the workers. They said there would be enough left over to form a retirement fund, too.

This violated the code by which miners have lived for years. There was no negotiation on the plan. The miners vetoed it.

Operators drilled coal from the mine, trucked it to the tippie and loaded it into freight cars.

Council Urged To Work For Christian Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council was urged today to treat a controversial theological thesis with "charity, clarity, simplicity and gentleness" in the interest of Christian unity.

A spokesman, reporting on the closed session in St. Peter's, added that many of today's speakers argued that the council's work "must mark progress and not regression, help and not impediment" in the Christian unity field. Before the council was a thesis on the sources of divine revelation. It has divided the 2,200 council fathers since last Wednesday, and today's debate dramatically pointed up the importance many of the prelates attach to it for current efforts to bring Christian churches together.

The spokesman said several prelates again asked that the thesis—prepared by a commission headed by conservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, secretary of the powerful Congregation of the Holy Office—be rewritten.

Other speakers, the spokesman said, made a new suggestion: that further debate be postponed until the second phase of the council, starting in May.

Building Booms

LAMESA (SC) — Construction boomed here in October as permits for 21 new homes helped push permit totals beyond the $2 million mark for 1962. New construction authorized in October year. Total building for this year was $431,350, the best month this is $2,040,398.

DEAR ABBY They Need Two Couches

DEAR ABBY: After 19 years of marriage, I finally hit my husband with the first thing I could get my hands on. It was a tea kettle and it caught him on the elbow. He's been using me as a human punching bag (and in front of the children) for years and I finally couldn't take it any more. If I had it coming, I wouldn't complain, but he hits me for things like rolling the car window up when he wants it down. If I do something he doesn't like, instead of telling me he just gives me a crack across the jaw. Was I wrong in throwing the kettle at him? He says a wife is not supposed to hit her husband back. BEATEN AND BRUISED

DEAR B AND B: A man who would repeatedly give his wife a crack across the jaw is sick. And a woman who would stick around for a repeat performance is sicker than the guy who hits her. Find a psychiatrist with two couches.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bank teller and I have a special depositor who comes to my window regularly with his deposit. My last name is TUCKER, and he has asked me several times if I knew where the expression, "all tickered out" originated. I have tried to find out and have exhausted my sources. Can you help me?

A TUCKERED-OUT TUCKER
DEAR TUCKERED OUT: Now, I am also "tucked out" trying to run down the origin. Does anyone out there know?

Richmond's Wall Falls

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — The "Berlin wall" was gone from downtown Richmond today, its material destined to become part of a new Boys Club building.

The wall had stood for nearly three days across part of Main Street and its sidewalks, a reminder to Americans that the freedom they enjoy is not universal. A National Guard tank knocked down part of the wall late Thursday, and eager Boys Club members finished the job. A new $75,000 Boys Club building is being built.

The Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce had built the wall of 500 concrete blocks, topped by barbed wire. No mortar was used. About 3,000 persons lined the street as an old tank crept toward the wall, firing blanks, with about 20 National Guardsmen in battle dress following.

During the time the wall stood, motorists and pedestrians were forced into single file as they passed from "East Berlin" to "West Berlin." Guardsmen stood watch, and Jaycees handed out copies of the Bill of Rights.

Light Rainfall, Wait On Freeze

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa area had six different rainfalls during October but all of them measured only 1.28 inches. Total rainfall for the first 10 months of the year is 14.48 inches with the annual average at 17.19 inches.

Moisture conditions continued good here, but farmers still awaited a long hard freeze to harvest the 1962 cotton crop. Only 54,897 bales had been ginned by Nov. 17, compared to 164,738 bales at the same time last year. The 1961 crop set a new yield record at 213,217 bales.

The Dawson County estimate is 151,000 bales for the year.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

BY CHANCE, OR DESIGN?

By T. H. Tarbet, Preacher
Church of Christ, 2900 West Highway 50
P.O. Box 1282

Dr. A. Cressy Morrison, former president of the New York Academy of Science

(in his book, "Man Does Not Stand Alone") has demonstrated mathematically that the universe could not have happened by chance.

He points out that... our earth is at the exact distance from the sun to get just enough heat, but not too much. Furthermore, the earth is tilted at an angle of 23 degrees and this enables us to have four seasons. If it were not tilted at this angle, vapors from the ocean would move north and south, piling up continents of ice. If the moon were not at the exact distance it is from the earth, the ocean tides would inundate the land mass completely twice each day. If the ocean were just a few feet deeper than it is, the carbon dioxide and oxygen in the earth's atmosphere would be completely absorbed, so that no vegetation could exist on the earth. If the earth's atmosphere were just a little thinner, many of the meteors which are now burned out in space would bombard us.

"Could this delicate balance have happened by chance?" (From Truth in Love, Melbourne, Australia.) —Adv.

YOU GET PLUS VALUES—hard-to-measure "extras"—from newspaper advertising. For example—ACCEPTABILITY. For instance, a very recent survey, made by Audits and Surveys for the newspaper industry, revealed that 75% of the men and 84% of the women who read a daily newspaper say, "I like to look at ads even when I do not plan to buy anything." A plus value like this is hard to measure, but it adds up to a big difference. That's why advertisers last year spent more money in newspapers than in radio, television, magazines, and outdoor combined!*

History Comes Alive To The Tourist In Vienna

(This is another in a series of accounts of her European tour by Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, who has been a Herald correspondent—Ed.)

Vienna! Even the name of this old city on the Danube has a magical sound. A traveler here needs at least six weeks to sample the variety of things Vienna offers. So many things to do and see—so much to learn—and so little time.

History seems to come alive here. Names and places that had been only pages in a book before, took on a new meaning. We saw with amazement, part of the 1400 room summer palace of the Empress Maria Theresa. The great mirrored ballroom with its glittering chandeliers of gold and crystal, glistening floors with intricate inlaid designs of oak, walnut and teakwood. Here Napoleon was entertained; Marie Antoinette, daughter of the Empress, danced to the music of Mozart and Haydn.

In this palace the beloved Austrian Emperor Franz Joseph grew up, lived and died. Here too, the son of Napoleon died at an early age of tuberculosis. On and on goes the list of historically famous people who were residents or guests in this magnificent palace, surrounded by luxury which we found almost unbelievable.

One room is said to have cost the equivalent of one million dollars. Outside the landscaped gardens extend for blocks in every direction. Dozens of gardeners were busily replacing the summer flowers with winter blooming plants and bulbs. Acres of greenhouses furnish an unending supply of fresh flowers and plants.

In the evening we heard an organ concert in the cathedral of St. Stephen. An ordinary instrument would have been lost in the vastness of that huge cathedral, but the sound of the great pipe organ rose and fell like waves of the sea, filling the lofty church to overflowing with the matchless music of Beethoven.

And there were many other things to do in Vienna; small cafes with wandering musicians playing for hours while we sat and talked with groups of people we had met, sightseeing trips, ballet and other things too numerous to mention. And as always the time passed much too rapidly.

Back toward Germany again with stops in Salzburg, famous for its music, its castles and cathedrals; and Innsbruck which is called "The Pearl of Tirol." We would like to stay longer in these fascinating places, but it is time for us to meet our friend Gebhard in Kaiserslautern, and stop for a while in Germany.

Unusual Gifts Are Created

Steak bones, flash bulbs and jar lids became Christmas tree ornaments when Mrs. J. F. Skalicky showed the Elbow Home Demonstration Club how imagination and glitter can transform these common objects.

Nine members saw the demonstration in the home of Mrs. Troy Wylie Thursday afternoon as the group met for a salad luncheon. Using gift ribbons, Mrs. Skalicky fashioned roses, lilies and bows for gift box decorations. Small match boxes were wrapped as gifts for use as tree ornaments.

A Christmas party was scheduled for Dec. 15 in the home of Mrs. Denver Yates. One dollar has been set as the limit on gifts to be exchanged.

The Big Spring State Hospital will be given $10 in gifts or funds for the patient's Christmas party.

The devotion was worded by Mrs. Wylie.

TEL SS Class Has Holiday Dinner

The TEL Class of the First Baptist Church met for a Thanksgiving dinner Saturday at the church.

The invocation was worded by the class teacher, Mrs. J. E. Hardesty.

During the program, Mrs. Hardesty played a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Edwards at the piano. The class took part in a Bible quiz after which Mrs. Hardesty read a Thanksgiving poem, "The World Is Mine."

A devotion from II Timothy was given by a guest, Mrs. L. S. Patterson. She stressed the meaning of TEL, saying that it should be interpreted as teaching each other with love.

The gathering was closed with song. Other guests attending were Mrs. Stella Merrill, Mrs. Della K. Agnell, Mrs. J. P. Dodge and Mrs. Dorothy Edwards.

Appreciation Tea By Wives Group

An appreciation tea was held by the International Wives' Club Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John Wood. Honored guests were local ladies who had assisted the club with their Global Tasting Tea given recently.

Silver appointments were used on the serving table which was covered with a white linen cloth embroidered with pink. The pink and white cake was lettered appropriately.

The house party was made up of club members who alternated at the coffee and tea service.

Recipe books made from dishes used in the tasting tea may be obtained by calling Mrs. Wood at AM 3-2718 or Mrs. Roy Drinnen at AM 4-7497.

The regular monthly meeting of the Wives' Club will meet tonight in the Officers' Club, WAFB, at 7:30.

LAMESA (SC) — Susan Joyce Lindsey and Norman Gene Westmoreland were united in marriage Friday at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Harp, with Rev. J. P. Aslin officiating the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Coulter and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Westmoreland Sr.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Lee Lindsey, wore a white Chantilly lace waltz-length gown designed with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. A stand-up petite point collar and long tapered sleeves enhanced the bodice.

Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white pearlized Bible.

Mrs. Dan Seely of O'Donnell was matron of honor.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's grandparents and guests attended from Lamesa, O'Donnell, Welch, Seminole, and Artesia, N.M.

For traveling, the bride chose a gray wool knit suit with white and black accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School and attended Childer's Beauty School in Big Spring. The bridegroom, also a graduate of Lamesa High School, is attending Texas A&M College.

Country Club Dance For Cotillion Club

Cotillion Club members and their guests filled the ballroom of the Big Spring County Club Saturday evening as they danced to the music of the "Gentlemen of Note." The fall social, lasting from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., was attended by approximately 200 persons.

Arriving guests were treated to a glittering autumn scene in the lobby where a gilded turkey stood by a golden shock of grain surrounded by pyracantha. In the ballroom, brown, green and yellow cloths covered individual tables that held candies and pyracantha arrangements.

A green cloth covered the refreshment table which was centered with a large brass scale.

One side of the balance held yellow Fuji mums and the other bitersweet. Gilded birds stood on each side by tall brass candelabra. Serving pieces were of copper and brass.

Thirteen host couples greeted guests. In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Cranberry Pudding Gives New Twist To Old Recipe

Good cooks everywhere enjoy the game of giving new twists to old recipes.

Latest addition to these recipes ranks: Cranberry Cottage Pudding.

This dessert is an unassuming ending to a family meal. Lemon sauce, tangy with the rind and juice of the fresh fruit, is its traditional partner.

When I was a little girl, cottage pudding was sometimes served for Sunday dinner. It went into the oven when the roast came out so it could be rushed to the table while it was piping hot, bursting with freshness. The lemon sauce was passed in a gravy boat with a matching china ladle, and we children helped ourselves to copious amounts. Your small fry will probably do the same!

CRANBERRY COTTAGE PUDDING

2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped fresh cranberries
1 1/2 cups sugar
1-3 cup butter or margarine
2 eggs
2-3 cup milk

Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Mix cranberries with 1/4 cup of the sugar. Cream butter and remaining 1 cup sugar; beat eggs thoroughly, one at a time. Stir in milk, fold in cranberries.

Turn into well-greased lightly floured baking pan (9 by 9 by 2 inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 1 hour or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Cut in squares in pan and serve hot with Lemon Sauce.

LEMON SAUCE

1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. cornstarch
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup boiling water
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
3 tbsps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. butter

In a saucepan stir together thoroughly the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in water, keeping smooth. Cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until slightly thickened and clear.

Stir in, off the heat, the lemon rind, lemon juice and butter. Serve hot.

Muffin Topping

Ever mix instant onion with melted butter and spread the mixture over the tops of muffins before baking? This topping is fine for muffin batter that contains only a small amount of sugar.

Uneasiness Among Reds After Cuba

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
An AP News Analysis

A wave of uneasiness seems to be plaguing the entire world Communist movement in the wake of the Cuban showdown.

The arguing, bickering, explaining and excuse-making now going on hint that confusion is building up toward a crisis for world communism.

One cause appears to be the anxiety of the Khrushchev leadership to keep Communist cold war maneuvers from getting beyond the point of no return and touching off a hot war.

Another source of burgeoning crisis seems to stem from a dilemma which will be brought strongly into focus when the Soviet party Central Committee meets Monday. Its agenda stresses the need for radical industrial and agricultural reforms. This suggests that to make the Soviet system function, Khrushchev must undermine some basic revolutionary theories.

All this has impelled Red stalwarts in the West to search for excuses for a Soviet policy which, to many of the rank and file, must appear to be outrageous surrender of opportunities to advance the cause.

Thus, a veteran of Moscow's policy flipflops, Italian leader Palmiro Togliatti, told his own party that "uncertainties and ambiguities have become apparent" in the movement. These ambiguities must include:

The ideological wrangle with the Chinese and Albanian Communists. It is growing in violence. The Soviet party denounces Albania, and the Chinese by implication, as modern-day Trotskyites, which in itself is confusing. Trotsky was the enemy of Stalin, and the Chinese today, in defiance of Khrushchev, cling doggedly to Stalin as a hero and to his dogma.

The Chinese armed attack on India. This has alienated many in Asia and Africa who might have been easy prey to Red blandishments. It has set back what Red jargon calls "the national liberation movement," meaning revolutionary movements subject to infiltration and capture by the Communists.

Inside the U.S.S.R., Khrushchev's attitude toward doctrine must be painfully obvious to the Communist world.

Sen. Chavez Heart Victim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dennis Chavez is dead of a heart attack at 74.

The veteran New Mexico Democrat died unexpectedly early Sunday in Georgetown University Hospital.

His successor will be named by Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, New Mexico's outgoing Republican chief executive. Mechem, who leaves office Jan. 1, is considered a prime prospect for the Senate term which runs until the general election in 1964.

If the post goes to Mechem or a fellow Republican, he will be the first GOP senator from New Mexico since 1935. The lineup of the new Senate had been 68 Democrats and 32 Republicans.

Mechem said at Albuquerque that the death of Chavez was a tragedy and that he would not discuss the possibility of a successor for some time.

Chavez entered the hospital on

Nov. 7, the day after the general election. He had a virus infection and a high fever he is believed to have contracted while campaigning in New Mexico for Jack Campbell, who defeated Mechem in the governorship race.

Doctors said the illness, coming after 18 months of treatment for cancer of the neck, led to the heart attack. Chavez had planned to leave the hospital Sunday to recuperate at home.

Chavez was chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee and a member of the Appropriations Committee.

The body of Chavez will be flown today to Santa Fe, where it will lie in state in the New Mexico Senate chamber. It will be taken to Albuquerque Tuesday evening for services Wednesday morning at the Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church.

Boxcars Now Come Insulated

One of the Texas and Pacific Railway's specially-designed boxcars, the 70-ton capacity car above, is equipped with two sets of compartmentizer gates. This car is suitable for loading canned goods, tobacco, tinplate, and other commodities susceptible to temperature changes.

Variety Of Freight Cars Provide Fast Transportation

A round-the-clock operation of the Texas and Pacific Railway is providing fast, efficient, and dependable transportation for raw materials and finished products of the nation's markets.

Texas and Pacific, since its beginning in 1871, has witnessed the growth and development of the Southwest. Along the pioneer transportation agency's main line, from New Orleans to El Paso, numerous industrial plants and warehouses point up the fact that adequate railroad transportation is the keynote to industrialization.

MEETS NEEDS

To meet the needs of freight shippers along its line, T&P requires a variety of rolling stock, some specially designed and built. Gondola cars are needed for loading pipe, poles, ties, sand and gravel; hopper cars for cement, salt, animal feeds and chemical solids; stock cars for loading cattle; tank cars for petroleum, liquefied gas and liquid chemicals; refrigerator cars for meats, fruits and other perishable products, and many other specially designed cars.

The old standby, however, is the common boxcar. It still is "America's No. 1 Freight Carrier." But the boxcar has changed with time. Box cars now built by the T&P are all-steel, from 50- to 70-ton capacity; from single to double door, and from 40 feet, six inches to 50 feet, six inches long. Today's boxcars can be constructed air-tight with such insulated cars built to eliminate "sweating" or "freezing" of merchandise in transit.

DAMAGE FREE

T&P's DF boxcars (DF—damage free) are equipped with cross members, bulkheads, belt rails, deck boards and doorway bars, contributing to the protection and stabilization of merchandise while rolling.

Taking a page from its roster of sleeping car equipment, the company's boxcars are now "compartmentized"—equipped with inside bulkhead doors, holding merchandise tightly in individual compartments. For shipment of automobile engines, auto parts and sundry commodities, special bulkheads and stowage equipment is provided.

Even the old flatcar, simple in design, has felt the touch of progress. Many are now equipped with special bulkheads for faster and easier loading of wallboard, fibre pipe and similar commodities. The more recent innovation is piggyback service. With siderails and end braces, the cars are readily adapted to hauling piggyback and trailer-on-flatcar loads.

The multi-level flatcar is an example of the technological advances being made in handling piggyback freight shipments. This specially designed piece of equipment provides economical, speedy and reliable transportation by rail for new automobiles from assembly lines to dealers' showrooms. The multi-level car combines the features of the 85-foot flatcar in Trailer Train Service, of which T&P is a member, with the installation of adjustable steel racks, converting the flatcar into a bi-or tri-level car.

PROTECTION

Gondola and hopper cars, now equipped with covers, afford better protection for shipment of coiled steel and tinplate as well as polystyrene plastic, salt and feeds.

The modern designs and technological changes, applied to practically all types of freight cars, were made to provide shippers with the best car suited for transporting products. In recent years T&P has added over 2,000 freight cars, including eight types, to its big fleet of rolling stock.

Chemist Puts Lab Curiosity To Work In Automobile Tire

Motorists can thank an alert Detroit research chemist for a safer tire for sustained high speed driving. If it were not for the keen eye of Arthur (Clem) Danielson of U. S. Rubber Company's Detroit tire development laboratories, CVC might still be among the large group of chemicals classified by scientists as laboratory curiosities.

And Phillips Tire Co., 311 Johnson, might not be able to provide high speed driving safety in its United States Rubber tire for passenger car service if Danielson had not found CVC.

CVC, a member of the triazine family, was discovered in 1894 and lay around on laboratory shelves without practical value for more than 65 years.

Danielson had a problem: find a bonding agent that would strengthen the adhesion between the fabric and rubber in a tire enabling it to withstand the sustained high speed of turnpike driving.

A systematic search of chemical literature revealed hundreds of chemicals which might possibly have the adhesive qualities for the job, but more than a year of testing about 250 chemicals ended without success.

Danielson went back to chemical literature for almost a fresh start. This time he chanced upon CVC—a chemical with a name which contains more than 26 letters and digits. It cost $9 for a hundred grams—far too expensive at that point for commercial use—but Clem made a handful of it in his laboratory for testing. He combined it with a plastic resin which was compatible with rubber and found that the two fused into a rough, strong adhesive compound. "When I saw what happened in the test tube, I knew that I'd stumbled onto something important," he said. "We put samples into rubber for testing. It not only gave us what we wanted, it actually improved the properties of rubber itself."

Further testing in actual tires showed that the CVC was more than just an adhesive. It formed a chemical interlock between the component parts of a tire, with a resulting bond that was as strong as rubber itself.

It took four years, after its discovery, to prove its value in the laboratory, in production, in testing, and to work out problems of supply to meet the needs of mass tire production. But Danielson can sit back with the satisfaction of knowing that his painstaking chemical research paid off with results.

He is looking ahead to other projects in which he is interested.

"The industry has to reduce rubber cracking due to ozone," he said. "That's something I'm working on. I'm also interested in improving the dynamic properties of rubber. By dynamic, I mean the way rubber behaves while it is being used. And I am continuing with studies of adhesives. There are so many new rubbers and fibers coming out these days that it is hard to keep track of them."

In his spare time, he teaches chemistry in the Lawrence Institute of Technology, Detroit.

Housewife Likes No-Roach

Housewives all over America write unsolicited letters of thanks to the manufacturers of Johnson's No-Roach. Often letters like this one come in.

Dear Sirs, I am writing out of relief and gratitude. When the other families moved away from our multiple-dwelling building, I was besieged by hordes of ugly roaches and other bugs. It was impossible for us to run, so we just had to stay and fight the pests.

I tried every spray I could find. None was effective. I do a lot of entertaining and was preparing myself for the humiliation of having a friend find roaches in my kitchen, with all the resulting poor reflections on my reputation as a housekeeper.

I saw in a No-Roach advertisement that it was a brush-on liquid that stayed effective. So I tried a bottle. Here at last is a product that lives up to its name. There are no dead roaches left lying around, no odor, no danger to pets or children. I can use food and dishes around the kitchen without worry!

It is my pleasure to recommend your product to all women in the same predicament I was in. Johnson's No-Roach really works! It is available at your favorite supermarket or drug store.

Safety Campaign Under Way Again

This year, as in previous years, the American Automobile Association's annual "School's Open—Drive Carefully" campaign (to alert motorists that they must once again be on the lookout for children crossing streets on the way to school) has begun.

The two principal things that motorists are being asked to do in connection with the campaign are to "scrupulously obey special speed limits around schools" and to be especially alert for the younger children—who are not yet safety-wise.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By TOMMY HART

In the final analysis of last Friday night's football game between Big Spring and Abilene High, you'd have to give the Big Spring kickers much of the credit for the 20-0 win the Steers racked up.

Dickie Spier was told to keep his kickoffs low so they would bounce several times and thereby give the local players time to get downfield. Anytime Rusty Harris of the Eagles takes a kickoff in an open field, he's a dangerous threat due to his speed. Spier followed instructions to the letter and the War Birds were never able to get off a long run on a kickoff.

Spier also cut loose with a brilliant 63-yard quick kick in the fourth period that completely fooled the Eagles. It wound up on the Abilene 26 and got Big Spring out of a deep hole.

Not to be outdone, Eric Nichols twice rocked the Eagles on their heels with booming punts. On one occasion, he sliced the ball out of bounds on Abilene's nine.

And then there were two field goals kicked by Eddy Nelson near the end of the game, which added an important six points to the Big Spring scoring aggregate.

Field goals kicked by a Big Spring club are about as rare as a cold wave in July but Nelson turned the trick twice in one game, the second time by courtesy of the Abilene club—which called time to preserve the last five seconds on the clock. Big Spring could not have gotten off another play, otherwise.

It would have been nice to win but throw the Big Spring-Midland game out the window, as far as determining which club goes into the playoffs is concerned.

Big Spring would have faced the monumental task of beating San Angelo this week to qualify, no matter how they fared in Midland.

The Bulldogs didn't come close to winning the 2-AAAA championship but they did have the satisfaction of beating both teams left in the race.

Bob Milburn, the San Angelo scribe, still regards the Steers lightly.

In his column last Friday, Milburn wrote: "Edison (junior high) was favored over Lee Junior High Thursday by just about as much as the (San Angelo) Bobcats are over Abilene Cooper tonight and Big Spring next Friday." (Lee won over Edison.)

The Steers proved themselves to Abilene and Odessa doubters the hard way. It's obvious they'll have to convince Milburn and the San Angelo crowd all over again.

Speaking of Doubting Thomases, Midland's Tom Rice—who says the Steers in action twice this season—picked Abilene to humiliate Big Spring. 49-0.

Most probably, the biggest crowd ever to watch a Big Spring team play football will be in the stands when the Steers take the field against San Angelo Friday.

The masses on hand might awe the Steers but I doubt it. They can play secure in the knowledge that at least 5,000, and probably a whole lot more, will be in their corner from the opening whistle.

Walter Minter, one of Big Spring's star of stars last week, crashed in on Abilene's David Jefferies so hard one time he bounced the football Jefferies had fumbled back into David's flailing arms.

Two boys who played tremendously against Abilene who were overlooked when early kudos were handed out were Robert Wilson and Ricca Flores, who team with Buster Barnes to give Big Spring great strength in the middle of the primary.

Two El Paso scouts in the press box Friday night took notes furiously on Abilene for the better part of three quarters. Only then did it dawn on them that it was not going to be Abilene's night. The scouts will get another chance to watch Big Spring, however.

Just in case Big Spring should go ahead and rate the playoffs, the Steers will have four scouts watching the El Paso High-Yale game Wednesday night.

Tony Lema Wins Mobile Tourney

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—In racing, you could have said he lapped the field; in boxing it probably would have been a TKO; in football, or just about any sport, it was a runaway.

Tail Tony Lema won the fourth annual $15,000 Mobile Golf Tournament by a seven-stroke margin—the most since Arnold Palmer captured a PGA sanctioned tournament title by a seven-stroke edge earlier this year.

The $2,000 top prize boosted his official winnings this year to $20,438 and moved him from 17th to 14th place among the leading pro money-winners of the year.

Local Entries Claim Awards

Local entries in the drag races staged by the Texan Car Club at Fort Stockton Sunday brought back five trophies.

Bill and Alvin Moore were tops in Class D, division and also earned the Top Eliminator award. He was timed in 12.54 seconds for the quarter-mile strip, which figured out to an even 100 miles per hour.

His chief competition came from the Quarterhorse Auto Club of Odessa, which fielded a big 400 cubic inch, Olds-powered Class B motor.

Travis Anderson of Big Spring won in both L stock and A Factory Experimental.

Big Spring's other award was captured by Kenneth Dodd, which prevailed in J stock.

Packers Can Thank Herb

By The Associated Press

It's not Jim Taylor, Bart Starr or Paul Hornung who wears the hero tag today in Green Bay. A young defensive back named Herb Adderley has played Mr. Clutch for the second time this year to keep the Packers' championship press highballing at record-making speed into their crucial Thanksgiving Day clash with the Detroit Lions.

Adderley broke the backs of the ambitious Baltimore Colts three times Sunday and shrugged off a close call with the tag of "goat" as Green Bay rolled to its 10th straight 1962 victory, and 18th in all competition since last year, with a 17-13 win.

The Michigan State grad, who was the Packers' No. 1 draft choice two years ago joined four lesser lights, three of them field goal specialists, in other National Football League victory-making performances.

A Time For Rejoicing

The Foran Buffaloes did all of Howard County proud Friday night by defeating Sterling City, 22-14, and thereby winning the District 6-B eight-man football championship. In the photo, Kenneth Soles (20, in black) of the Buifs finds the going rough. Ernesto Longoria, hanging on at left, helped secure the tackle. No. 52 coming up from the back is H. K. Elrod. Trojans, Ole Miss Only Unbeaten 11's

By ED CORRIGAN

Southern California and Mississippi settled down today for the race for the national college football championship while bewildered Alabama, the defending champion, picked up the pieces of its shattered 26-game undefeated streak and the bowl picture began to come into focus.

Southern Cal and Ole Miss are the only undefeated-untied national powers, followed Alabama's 7-6 defeat by Georgia Tech last Saturday. Besides having gone undefeated (once tied) in 26 games, the Crimson Tide had run up a 19-game winning streak over three years.

The Trojans, with one foot in the Rose Bowl door, whipped Navy, which appears to be heading for the Sugar Bowl, turned back Tennessee, 19-6.

Southern Cal still has two toughies ahead—UCLA in the Coliseum Saturday and Notre Dame on Dec. 1. A victory by the Trojans and they are in. If they hope to win the national title, though, they'll have to get by both UCLA and Notre Dame.

Ole-Miss has an open date this week, then meets Mississippi State in its finale. This should prove no problem as State has dropped five of its eight games.

Alabama was No. 1 in the current Associated Press weekly poll, but is certain to tumble. Southern Cal is No. 2 and Mississippi No. 3. Wisconsin, No. 4, can make reservations for its trip to the Rose Bowl. The Badgers whipped Illinois Saturday, 35-6, to nail down the bid if not the Big Ten championship.

To win the title, the Badgers must get past Minnesota—a team that has kept the enemy from scoring a touchdown in six of its eight games—Saturday. Even if Minnesota wins, the Gophers can't make the trip because they played in Pasadena last Jan. 1. Minnesota edged Purdue 7-6 Saturday.

Aggies, Herd Vie Thursday

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The longest intercollegiate football rivalry in the Southwest and one of the oldest in the nation will be renewed for the 69th time here Thursday when Texas plays Texas A&M.

A number of important things are riding on the outcome—the Southwest Conference championship, host spot in the Cotton Bowl and Texas' first unbeaten season in 39 years.

There's nothing for the oft-beaten Aggies except an opportunity to upset an ancient foe.

Time was when the outcome of this game meant a successful season. Coaches have been fired for failing to win the Thanksgiving Day game. On one occasion both coaches were fired when the teams played a tie.

There has, however, been a change in the attitude in recent years. Loss of this game won't give the heave-ho to a coach.

Coach Darrell Royal of Texas is in the process of compiling a fabulous record. He has won 22 games. In the last three years, to date, he has a 25-4-2 record. In his five years at Texas, Royal has had four bowl teams and he can make it five in six years if he beats or ties the Aggies.

That would give him either a tie for the Southwest Conference championship or the title outright, and the Cotton Bowl host spot since the Longhorns beat Arkansas. The Porkers can tie for the title by defeating Texas Tech.

Royal is expected to say after the game that this is his finest defensive team of all.

Steers Outgain Foe Nearly 1,000 Yards

The Big Spring Steers, now concentrating on drills for their District 2-AAAA championship game with San Angelo Friday night, have outgained nine foes nearly 1,000 yards this year.

The Longhorns, 5-3-1 on the season now, have picked up a total of 2,459 paces, compared to 1,574 for the opposition.

That averages out to slightly more than 273 yards a game, compared to 175 yards for the foe.

The figures are a tribute to the mighty defenses thrown up by the Longhorns.

Big Spring has outgained the enemy on the ground, 1,444 yards to 1,123, and through the air, 1,015 to 451.

Dickie Spier remains the leading ground gainer for the Longhorns, although he was used sparingly as a runner against Abilene. (The strategy was to take some of the heat off him by running others.) The hard-running senior has gained 486 yards in 82 lunge for a respectable 5.9 yards per thrust.

Baxter Moore is second, with 323 paces, picked up in 82 carries for a four-yard average.

Albert Fierro made his bid for the passing leadership in 2-AAAA with a big effort against Abilene last week. He has gained 774 yards on 42 completions. His receivers have gone for an average gain of 18.4 yards after taking his passes. Albert has thrown for nine touchdowns and had five aerials picked off by the opposition.

Fierro's passes went for gains totaling 134 yards against Abilene last week. The erstwhile conference leader, David Jefferies, accounted for only 19 yards in aerial pickups.

The leading receiver on the team is Humberto Hernandez, who has gathered in 15 passes for 389 yards and five touchdowns. He's gone for an average gain of 26 yards on his pass receptions.

Spier has punted the ball only four times, mostly on quick kicks but they have averaged 45 yards. Deeroby Gartman's punts, 17 of them, have averaged 38.7 yards.

Playoffs In AA And A Set To Get Under Way Thurs.

By The Associated Press

Sixty-four teams headed by defending champions Donna of Class AA and Albany of Class A move out this week in the opening round of the Texas schoolboy football playoffs.

Classes AAAA and AAA have another week to run before deciding district representatives for the playoffs.

Donna makes its start toward another title against Free, and chances are the Indians will be kicked out in the bi-district battle. Freer is unbeaten but once tied. Donna has a 6-3-1 record and had to struggle like mad to take its district crown.

Albany, 7-3 but making a great finish, takes on Burnet, which stands 8-2 but doesn't appear quite up to harding the defending champions.

Nine of the teams in the AA and A playoffs are undefeated and untied. They are Denver City, the big favorite; Winters, Jacksonville and Rockwall in Class AA; and Sunray, Academy, Pearlard, Emory and New London, the state title choice, in Class A.

There are seven teams with unbeaten records but with ties to mar them. They are Daingerfield, Pleasanton, Freer and Sinton in AA and Petersburg, Frisco and Dilley in A.

A Devotional For The Day

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits. (Psalms 103:2.)
PRAYER: Our Father, we are humble before Thee as we think of Thy creative power. We are grateful to Thee for Thy sustaining love. We give Thee thanks for all the blessings that are ours. In the name of Christ. Amen.

Balance Is Urgent

Forecasts of a near-record federal deficit are putting a damper on talk of tax cuts. Instead of a half billion dollar surplus predicted, a $7.8 billion deficit looms.

Principal causes are a decline in revenue estimated while expenditures are holding steady. Now the outlook is for revenues to be $7.1 billion less than the figures on which the budget was predicated. Except for 4 of a billion dollars more in interest on the increasing debt, expenditures are right on the level anticipated. The trend is toward a total expenditure of $93.7 billion for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1963.

Part of the loss in revenue is attributed to tax concessions to encourage capital expenditures by business—a figure of about $2 billion. If this produces the results anticipated, it could be washed out by generating more revenue in succeeding years, but this won't ease the current fiscal pain. The remainder of the decline is due to a too-rosy projection of economic activity for the year.

In a time of crisis, quibbling over defense spending is not wise. Yet, the spending by Armed Forces, while the major end of the budget, is not exceeding its estimated mark of $48.3 billion.

The efficacy of a tax cut at this time is debatable; increasing expenditures except for security should be out of the question unless and until the budget has been balanced.

All The Load Is Too Much

The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association may not have provided the proper answer, but it has posed a pertinent question in connection with Texas oil allowances in relation to the national market.

What TIPRO essentially proposed was that a percentage basis be used rather than a calendar day basis. The argument is that the calendar day plan lacks flexibility to permit additional production except by units so large as to constitute an overproduction. The percentage factor, spokesmen felt, would permit the Railroad Commission to slice it just a bit thinner in order to share in national growth of demand.

Be that as it may, the Texas share of the United States oil market has declined from 35.3 per cent in 1956 to about 27.5 per cent during the first eight months of the year, according to TIPRO. Texas, as the nation's leading oil producer, has a responsibility of leadership in maintaining stability in the industry. This, however, should not mean that the state has any obligation to carry all the load.

Another Look At Mississippi Case

WASHINGTON—The use of troops at the University of Mississippi has cost the federal government more than $2 million. This figure has just been revealed by the General Accounting Office in a communication to Senator A. Willis Robertson, Democrat of Virginia, who is chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The figure covers only the extra cost of transportation and other expenses that would not otherwise have been incurred for the federal troops, and includes all costs resulting from the calling of the National Guard into federal service. It does not take into account as yet any of the expenses of the U. S. marshals, the FBI and other divisions of the Department of Justice. The expenses have been tabulated up to November 1.

THE TOTAL EXPENSE, including the mobilization of 34,000 troops in Mississippi and adjacent states, may eventually reach at least $4 million, according to unofficial estimates. There are federal troops as well as U. S. marshals still on duty in the vicinity of the University of Mississippi.

Just what legal function these troops are performing today is not clear. The court order has been complied with, inasmuch as James Meredith has been enrolled as a student in the University. It now is the obligation of the state of Mississippi and of the local authorities to maintain order. There is no federal law or court decision which gives the President the right to use the armed services merely to await a contingency in which a state may fail or be unable to protect the residents of a state against violence.

IF EVERY RIOT or disturbance growing out of a debate or dispute over a federal court decision were to be policed by the federal government, the states would be deprived of their right to do their own policing. Indeed, there is a spirited controversy as to whether the Mississippi state police who were on duty at the time of the riot on the University campus were actually prevented from maintaining order by the action of the armed U. S. marshals, who were later joined by federal troops. This probably will be argued out someday when the state of Mississippi files in court its claim for $340,000 property damage sustained by the University.

THE CONTENTION will be made by the state that the use of federal troops to put down a local riot was a violation of the Constitution and was not sanctioned by any law of Congress or by any court decision. In fact, the troops and armed marshals were ordered into action before the full Supreme Court of the United States had passed upon an appeal from a U. S. circuit court of appeals decision that Meredith must be admitted to the University. A citizen has the right to refuse to comply with a court order or decision and to take the risk of a conviction for contempt and then imprisonment. But he also has the right to petition for an appeal all the way up to the Supreme Court of the United States.

IT IS OFTEN contended that Supreme Court decisions are "the law of the land," but the decisions of the highest federal court actually are only "the law of the case." Many cases differ from one another in facts and circumstances. John C. Satterfield, who served as president of the American Bar Association until last summer, dwelt on this very point in a speech before the National Convention of the American Legion shortly after the Mississippi incident. He is one of the lawyers recently called in by the state of Mississippi. He said:

"THERE IS ONE legal fallacy against which we should be on guard when we consider others with whom we may disagree. That is the fallacy widely disseminated during the past few years that a decision of a court is 'the law of the land.' I have the greatest respect for our courts—the Supreme Court of the United States and our federal and state courts—and yet court decisions are not, never have been and never will be 'the law of the land.'"

"Court decisions are 'the law of the case.' Nevertheless, on every hand you hear the saying that a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States is 'the law of the land' and must be obeyed by everyone, whether he or she was a party to a particular case or not."

"COURTS ARE NOT governed by predictions and desires. They are governed by facts which appear in the records. Order cases decided upon other records between other parties and under different circumstances are only persuasive precedents until they are overruled. Until overruled, they may be differentiated by differing facts and differing elements."

From the other side of the fence—a spokesman for the U. S. Department of Justice—comes a comment that indicates that even a law cannot accomplish very much in the face of the adverse sentiment of a community. Deputy Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach made a speech last Sunday before the first Human Rights College Conference for the students of New York City, held at Cooper Union. He had dealt with the Mississippi controversy at firsthand for the Department of Justice. He said in his speech:

"I THINK we have to reckon with the fact that the gulf exists because the Supreme Court decision cannot remake educational systems or the habits of a community all at once. The court doesn't run the schools. It can't. The court can't even formulate specific plans for gradually bringing about integration in a community."

"Now, the difficulty here is that the law loses its power when there's too wide a gulf between the result which the law may reach and widespread social attitudes."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Sen. Stuart Symington seems to be milking our government's relations with the Canadian nickel firm for as much publicity as the firm is alleged to have milked our government for its own profit. But something is fishy.

According to the senator, the Canadian firm's net earnings soared "more than 1,000 per cent" from $1,400,000 in 1949 when it first started getting U. S. government business to a peak of $17,000,000 in 1961, one of the big years for delivery of the nickel under the contract in question.

For 12 years, in other words, Falconbridge Nickel Mines of Toronto is alleged to have milked the American government.

This newspaper does not approve of typing. But were our own government purchasers so dumb that, for 12 years, they didn't know whether we were being gypped or not?

If an individual in this country gets gypped on an automobile because of what he might consider excessive profit by the dealer, he has himself to blame. If he buys 11 more cars and gets gypped 11 more times.

A Time Of Disenchantment

WASHINGTON (AP)—This crisp and lovely autumn has been a time of death, fear, revolution, uncertainty and disillusionment for men and nations, stretching across seas and continents.

Death and disillusionment hit Asia. Swift and sudden revolution burst in the Middle East. There was uncertainty in Europe. Fear of war circled over Cuba and the world.

IN INDIA Prime Minister Nehru, who ducked reality in trying to play shrewd by playing neutral, talked in terms of brotherhood with the Red Chinese.

This autumn he had to watch almost helplessly as Chinese forces smashed across the Indian frontier, killing Nehru's ill-equipped troops as they went, for reasons they haven't yet chosen to reveal.

As this is being written the bewildered prime minister doesn't know whether the Red armies will sweep down out of the mountains and across the plains of India.

He needed time to build a decent society out of the colossal poverty of India. If he didn't have to spend money on arms, he could use it for desperate peaceful needs of his country.

HE THOUGHT the answer to time and money was in staying aloof from the contest between the West and communism. He even thought in the end Russia would save him from the Chinese. It didn't.

Now he finds the Communists used and abused him. Meanwhile, his people are dying under the Chinese guns. But even now, in his moment of Indian agony, he still clings to neutralism.

In Yemen revolutionists overthrew the king in a savage stroke which may be only the beginning on bloodshed in the Middle East if the kings of Jordan and Saudi Arabia, fearing for their own future, move in.

IN EUROPE Chancellor Adenauer's regime was shaky from the discontent of West Germans with his defense minister, Franz Josef Strauss, for the way he cracked down on his critics on the staff of a magazine, Der Spiegel.

In France, elections Sunday seemed to strengthen the hand of president Charles de Gaulle who has been trying to strengthen the office he holds at the expense of Parliament and the French political party system which in the past has been erratic to the point of irresponsibility.

For one week after President Kennedy demanded the Russians get their missiles out of Cuba—or else—international jitters shook the world. If Russia refused, war could have come quickly.

PREMIER Khrushchev agreed to remove the weapons. Supposedly he has carted them off on ships. But this can't be positively known unless Cuba can be inspected. Fidel Castro refuses that.

Khrushchev left his bombers in Cuba. Kennedy said: Get them out, too. They wrote letters back and forth. Castro made demands of his own.

So Cuba isn't settled. It could get nastier. The West doesn't seem to know at this minute whether Khrushchev will turn Berlin into a time bomb by setting a new and quick deadline for settlement on that city.

This day a year ago hardly anything was happening except massacre in the Congo. That quieted down. It may blow wide open again.

Knows Teen-Agers

HIJALAH, Fla. — City bus driver Harry Darling knows how to handle rowdy teen-agers.

After a teen-age dance recently, 30 kids clambered aboard Darling's bus and started yelling and kicking each other. Straight to the Police Station went Darling. The kids calmed down quickly.

To Your Good Health

We Must Live With Some Problems

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is 49 and last year began losing weight. It was found that he had diabetes. Almost at the same time he developed a cough and after X-rays and bronchoscopy we were told that he had bronchiectasis and "some" emphysema.

The diabetes was brought under control with pills but the bronchiectasis was "spattered in both lungs" and surgery was not possible.

He lost 55 pounds of which he has gained back 10 to 15. Our doctor says it would be good if he gained back 30, as he was 25 pounds overweight.

I am concerned at his lack of energy and pep. It has been seven months since the lung diagnosis. The specialist told him he could "live to be 90" if he takes care of himself, that he must "learn to live with the coughing," and at times the chest condition will seem to be better and sometimes worse.

Are we being impatient about his weight? He breathes shorter than he used to, and any heavy lifting or pushing makes him cough, but he is able to work as usual.

Will his energy improve? Are we overly concerned about the bronchiectasis? How serious is it? Is it very common? We never makes him huff, puff and cough (and I assume he has been smart enough to quit smoking!) he will find that his "pep" will increase.

If he thinks he can push himself to the point at which he coughs, wheezes, or has to gasp for breath, he won't improve by it. On the contrary, he will make his condition worse.

His shortness of breath and his cough are nature's built-in signals telling him to remain within his physical limitations. Many of us have to "learn to live with" various problems. Don't forget the wisdom of the old saw about the way to a long life: have some chronic condition that forces you to take care of yourself!

Dear Dr. Molner: My six-year-old daughter has a slightly bloody vaginal discharge. Our family physician is in semi-retirement. Should I consult a pediatrician?

—F.L.

Pediatrician, general practitioner or gynecologist, any would be a reasonable choice. The condition should be checked.

Mrs. A.P.: I've had my own trouble with bursitis and can sympathize. Treatments include X-ray, cortisone or procaine injections, ultra-sound therapy, or use of high frequency, sound beyond the range of hearing.

Around The Rim

Other Drivers Are Nuisances

Pitter-patter, idle chatter: What bugs you most about other motorists?

One group questioned offered a variety of complaints. One man said drivers who honk their horns irritated him and he compared them to natives jumping around trying to cause rain.

Another uttered a complaint about drivers who cut in front of him without allowing for proper clearance.

THE DRIVERS' failure to give proper signals drew a beef, too, and the fellow motorist who clings so close to you he could reach out and play "chopsticks" on your rear fender took a rap, too.

How about the guy who straddles two lanes in order to keep you from drawing abreast at a pedestrian's lane fronting a traffic light, thereby depriving you of a chance to beat him to the next light.

RENT COLLECTORS in Brierley, England, have been calling a new nearby housing development "Dodge City"—because so many tenants were disappearing on the day the rent was due.

JOSEPH RAGEN, Illinois Public Safety Director, appearing before an audience in Louisville, Ky., not long ago, says the incidence of prison parolees who return to crime in civilian life is alarming.

"We are always telling about these who make good, and you and I are proud of this group," he remarked. "But all of us know there are too many failures."

"We should tell the public that some people need a long time before they can safely be released to society which will only suffer because of their premature release."

THE ITALIAN government has discovered widespread adulteration of food and wine in its country, according to the Manchester (England) Guardian.

"Synthetic" wine is being sold in West Germany, according to the report issued by the government, much of it tainted by ox blood and fish glue.

Eight bakeries at Genoa were accused of making bread with up to 50 per cent pig fodder. Some cheese in the country has been made out of banana peel; butter processed in part from donkey fat and ice cream with alleged harmful additives.

HEAR THE STORY about the old salt who was telling some souped-up versions of his adventures on the high seas to his grandson? Said he:

"When I was a lad, I fought for my life with 15 cannibals and only one got away."

"But, gramps," his audience of one protested, "last year you told me eight cannibals."

"I know, I know," countered the old man, "but you were too young then to know the whole, horrible truth."

India's Problem—Nehru

The West can probably save India from Red China. Indeed, it has no other choice. The free world cannot allow a Communist triumph in the vast subcontinent.

But can her friends save India from Jawaharlal Nehru? The savast has been another striking out of Nehru ever since the assassination of Gandhi thrust him into power. The hemorrhage has only been accelerated by the Sino-Indian conflict.

POLITICALLY and emotionally myopic, Nehru has never been able to tell friend from foe in his years as Prime Minister. Now, with the Communists waging war on Indian soil, he is behaving like a jilted woman who, on her way to the altar with another suitor, still makes abject sheep's eyes at the man who threw her over.

His soft words are all for the U. S. S. R., which since the first Communist Chinese attacks in force, has refused all material aid and comfort to the Indians. Nehru has just had the effrontery—or could it be the complete lack of common sense or even a sense of self-preservation—to tell the Indian Parliament that the "good wishes" of Russia "are a great consolation to us and we hope we will have them in the future!"

"WE MUST REALIZE," he added, "that we cannot suggest they (the Russians) go against allies (i.e., the Red Chinese)."

So, despite the fact that Communists are at his and his nation's throat, Nehru cannot kick the habit of being neutral in favor of the Reds. He persists in licking the hand that beats him, even as the arms and ammunition, denied him by Russia, pour into India from the United States, Great Britain and Canada—to whom, in extremis—he was forced to turn.

THE TOSPY-TURVY, Alice-in-Wonderland atmosphere that surrounds Nehru and in which he thrives even extends to his majority in Parliament. After the Indian legislators had listened to his soft words for Russia, it "gratefully" acknowledged "the sympathy, moral and material support received from a large number of friendly countries in this grim hour of our struggle against aggression and invasion."

But Nehru's parliamentary majority, careful not to offend dear old Russia thumbing its nose at Indian troubles with China, refrained from mentioning the names of the three great Western nations that have responded to the Indian cries for help. Such a forthright act might impede Nehru's impromptu and unabashed wooing of the U. S. S. R.

IF IT HAD not been for the sheer incompetence of Nehru's great and good friend, V. K. Krishna Menon, as Secretary of Defense, India might not now be in so dangerous a predicament that the West is faced with a rescue operation.

But after even important segments of the Indian Army, much less the Western World, had lost all faith in Krishna Menon and his abilities, Nehru forced that oleaginous neurotic down the throats of men both at home and abroad.

IT WOULD BE interesting to know why India has instituted no parliamentary investigation into Krishna Menon's derelictions—why he is not made to answer for India's alarming state of unpreparedness after five years of undeclared war.

Or would the revelation of one man's incompetence only confirm that of the other?

The President's Statesmanship

LONDON—In the semi-silent period between the election and the convening of the 88th Congress, a quiet issue rises—call it metonymy.

The word may be unfamiliar to non-readers of the New Yorker Magazine (which is always part of my transatlantic flying equipment), but it denotes a common rhetorical disorder. The New Yorker was complaining that the Rockefeller Foundation is spending money to import foreign poets instead of poetry, alien novelists instead of their books.

WELL, THE KENNEDY administration has occasionally done likewise by displaying Robert Frost and Louis Untermeyer instead of letting them alone to get their verses written. Luckily for American letters, James Michener was rejected for Congress by a far-sighted Pennsylvania electorate. Writers and artists are the mere containers of talents, not comparable in value to the talents themselves, and the productions thereof. Metonymy is the reversal of cause and effect, putting the man before his works.

CLEARLY METONYMY is a national menace. It looms as an issue because we must guard against relying upon President Kennedy, in his time of triumph over Khrushchev, rather than upon the President's long-latent, astonishingly-demonstrated craft of statesmanship.

It is a fault in our democracy, a lack of discrimination. In the 1960 election we saw a great deal of the handsome, broad-shouldered, glad-handing Senator Kennedy, but he showed us little or no statesmanship. Now, happily, there is a turnaround. In the 1962 election season, Mr. Kennedy suddenly withdrew himself as a personality (deserting the hustings in mid-October and cancelling several press conferences), but he gave his people, for the very first time, a genuine flourish of creativity. He revealed, to be truthful about it, more courage than profile. We were able to know Mr. Kennedy by his works.

WHAT AN IMPROVEMENT! The danger is, as an itinerant reporter begins to perceive, that we may backslide. We may succumb to the error of dispatching Mr. Kennedy, instead of his disembodied statesmanship, to a Summit meeting with Khrushchev. We ought to know better, of the President's personal exposure to habit-forming. A while back, when he went to Ottawa to plant a ceremonial tree, he unhinged his back. The accident caused grave discussions of JFK's pampered upbringing, of his inability to lift so much as a spadeful of earth, of his and the country's misfortune to be faced with another White House invalidity. Then, the President went to Vienna. He lost face to Khrushchev and is supposed to have suffered strained nerves to match his aching back. Thereafter, for more than a year, everything went wrong.

DOES ANYBODY doubt what the trouble was? We were counting on the least important of Mr. Kennedy's attributes. He certainly is handsomer than Khrushchev, but good looks are not his forte. JFK does better, as we now know, when he locks himself up with his advisers and thinks. Like the composer or the shoemaker, he should stick to his pencil and his last.

Some other time will do to argue—1964, let's say—whether Mr. Kennedy was born with statesmanship, whether he has acquired it, or had it forced upon him. Suffice it for the moment to agree that since the October 22nd broadcast, he has been on a rising curve of creative activity.

FOR A WHILE, it appeared that he would parade the U. S. Navy, but not use it. Then, it seemed that he would give Castro a back-handed victory by pledging non-invasion of Cuba. Later, however, the Navy did actually stop Russian ships. The non-invasion pledge appears to be as conditional as an election-year promise. By creating the sight of a slinking enemy, submitting to our scrutiny and scowls, the President has showed statesmanship and scarcely publicized himself at all.

All this has happened since we began to resist the dread disorder of metonymy. Can we continue the resistance? Can Mr. Kennedy? He has proved himself able to fire a shot heard round the world. The shot, and not the shooter, is what counts.

DES MOINES, Iowa — Brad Schnee of Des Moines spent a weekend with his grandmother, Mrs. Clema I. Junkin of Des Moines, and she put him in a taxi for the seven-mile trip home.

About halfway home, the 8-year-old told the driver he had forgotten something very important — he wouldn't say what — and had to return to his grandmother's.

So, back went the cab, the meter ticking. Brad ran into his grandmother's house on his return there — to retrieve a 5-cent candy bar he had left in the refrigerator.

Gulf Oil Plum Grows Juicier

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plum the United States and Louisiana will divide if they ever can decide who owns what in the Gulf of Mexico has grown to more than $540 million.

This has been collected and placed in escrow from oil activities on submerged lands in an area claimed by both Louisiana and the federal government.

Oil companies paid the money in lease bonuses and in oil royalties on production taken from wells extending far below the Gulf floor.

This money actually is in the Top Scientist, Dr. Bohr, Dies

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Dr. Niels Bohr, one of the century's leading nuclear physicists, is dead at 77.

He was stricken by a heart attack Sunday and died in his Copenhagen home.

Bohr, an absent-minded professor admired by scholars for his inspiring influence, generally was ranked second only to the late Albert Einstein among physicists of the 20th century.

"Our greatest living physicist has died," said Dr. Hans Bethe, who worked with Bohr on the development of the atomic bomb in the United States. Bethe of Ithaca, N.Y., said Bohr's death "leaves a void which nobody can fill."

Similar tributes came from Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission; Sir John Cockcroft, the leading British atomic scientist; Japanese Nobel Prize-winner Hideki Yukawa, and other leading scientists.

Bohr at the age of 28 pioneered exploration of the atom on problems that had puzzled many scientists.

Heavy Industry In Russia First

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev told the Soviet people today his planners will continue to put primary emphasis on heavy industry and presumably armaments rather than consumer goods.

But he also said fresh efforts will be made to put more food and other consumer goods in the shops.

Addressing a special meeting of the Communist party officials, he asserted that both segments of the economy—heavy industry (which supplies the armaments production) and consumer goods production—must be stepped up through more effective work by local Communist party officials.

The premier called for "radical measures" to shake up the party's organization and work patterns. He said modern times demand this.

"Old organizational forms," he declared, "are, to a degree, becoming a drag on the party's guidance of production."

The meeting of the powerful, 175-member Central Committee

U.S. treasury and, as an Interior Department expert said, undoubtedly is being used one way or another by the federal government.

If it is ever decided that Louisiana is entitled to any portion of the amount, it will be up to the government to hand it over. Prospects are that the bulk of the escrow fund eventually will go to the federal government but the whole matter is extremely complicated and there are many possibilities.

The dispute area generally is between 3 miles and 10.5 miles offshore but in places extends much farther seaward because of Louisiana's boundary claims. The principal dispute centers around the question of the location on the Louisiana coast.

Congress several years ago gave all states, including Louisiana, a boundary three miles seaward of the coastline. The problem in Louisiana is: Where is the coast line?

Some questions involved are whether the coastline follows the shoreline around a bay or follows a line across the points of the bay and whether the coastline starts at the many, many offshore islands or at the mainland. There are many others.

Experts on both sides drafted a report early this year outlining areas of agreement and disagreement. Now their representatives will seek to negotiate the areas of disagreement and decide on the coastline.

Apart from this dispute Louisiana seeks to have Congress enact another law giving the state a seaward boundary of 10.5 miles, rather than 3. Should this be done Louisiana would get a much bigger chunk of the half-billion dollar escrow fund.

Louisiana has collected hand-somely from the area conceded to be within the three mile limit.

One Louisianian in touch with the situation said the state has collected about $500 million in lease payments and oil royalties from the immediate offshore area not in dispute.

was called for the specific task of putting more life into the economy, much of which has been hindered and stifled by excessive bureaucracy but even more by lack of investment capital.

Revealing next year's production plans, Khrushchev said there should be an 8.5 per cent increase in capital goods. For consumer goods the proposed increase is 6.3 per cent.

Khrushchev said capital investment would total more than 33 billion rubles, (one ruble is officially valued at $1.11).

As for agriculture, he called for an increase of 32 million acres under field crops.

The meeting was behind closed doors. Khrushchev's speech was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass. The session is expected to last the rest of the week.

On the eve of the meeting, the Communist party organ Pravda had defended the government's Cuban rocket withdrawal and accused Red China of siding with the imperialists. The article also made an implied attack on Red China's border war against India.

Terrorists' Letters Cause Little Fear

By WATSON S. SIMS
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — During the arms blockade of Cuba, a form letter appeared in mail boxes of many of the 17,000 U.S. residents of Caracas.

"For each Cuba-bound ship sabotaged by you we will answer with drastic action that will make you reconsider your decision," said the letter. "In the case of a direct invasion of Cuba we will invoke a decree of war to the death until not one single American remains alive in our territory."

The letter, signed "National Guerrilla Command of Armed Forces of National Liberation," caused little stir in a country that has attracted United States investments and residents for decades.

The strongly pro-U.S. government of President Romulo Betancourt dismissed it as a sign of frustration in pro-Castro elements among Venezuela's 40,000 Communists, many of whom advocate the overthrow of the government.

"Letters never hurt anyone," said a U.S. citizen who has lived in Caracas eight years. "You get used to things like this."

Precautions have been taken by U.S. firms operating here. A typical front office boasts a shotgun guard as well as a pretty receptionist. The guards began appearing after incidents involving United States establishments: A bomb went off in a bathroom of the U.S. Embassy; another bomb injured five persons at a hotel operated by a U.S. company; and five gunmen shot up offices of the English language newspaper. The most damaging blow came Oct. 27 when four sub-stations of a U.S. petroleum company were dynamited.

Betancourt angrily declared the sub-stations were blown up on direct orders from Havana. He has asked the Organization of American States to act.

There is little sign of flight by U.S. business interests which have some $4 billion invested in Venezuela, more than in any other country except Canada.

U.S. oil companies alone have $2 billion invested here.

They provide the Betancourt government more than $1 billion yearly, about 60 per cent of its total income.

Betancourt's government wants more, rather than less, foreign investment, and some U.S. capital is still coming in. A Ford assembly plant is among a half dozen enterprises under construction.

San Francisco Sees Nuclear Ship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The nuclear-powered passenger and cargo ship Savannah cruised into San Francisco Bay Sunday, escorted by a flotilla of small craft and observed by thousands from vantage points here and in Marin County.

The 22,000-ton ship arrived from Seattle on its first visit to San Francisco. It will remain here until Nov. 26, when it leaves for Los Angeles.

De Gaulle Wins Resounding Triumph In French Election

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today emerged from the first round of the National Assembly elections with a new and resounding victory over France's old line political parties. The Gaullist Union ran a New Republic (UNR), with a one-plank platform of unswerving loyalty to De Gaulle, displaced the Communists as France's strongest political party.

The UNR won 50 of the 104 seats decided Sunday and led in 134 of the 369 districts of metropolitan France where runoffs will be held next Sunday. The party's share of the popular vote nearly doubled, from 17.5 per cent in 1958 to 31.9 per cent.

Although Interior Minister Roger Frey predicted the UNR would wind up with a majority in the 481-member assembly this appeared unlikely. Even if it won all the runoffs in the races in which its candidates led, it would still be about 60 short of a majority. But the Gaullists were expected to draw enough support from segments of the Popular Republicans (MRP), the Independents and the Radical Socialists to form the next government.

Alone among the old parties, the Communists registered a gain—a slight one—in voting percentages, advancing from 18.9 in 1958 to 21.78.

All other parties lost ground—a development dramatically spotlighted in the crushing defeat of ex-Premier Paul Reynaud by a colorless Gaullist in the north, and a sharp rebuff to a comeback attempt by ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Of the nation's prominent anti-Gaullist, anti-Communist leaders, only ex-Premier Pierre Pflimlin in Alsace, ex-Premier Rene Pleven in Brittany, and Maurice Faure in the south managed to land assembly berths in the first round of voting.

Socialist leader Guy Mollet trailed a Gaullist candidate and was forced into a hazardous runoff.

The candidates needed a majority to win on the first round. Only a plurality is required in the runoff. The interval is traditionally a time for deals and political alliances. Mollet was urging the other old parties to combine with the Communists to check the UNR.

Complete official returns from Metropolitan France, including Corsica, gave 18,931,733 votes cast.

The vote totals for the major parties and their percentages (1958 percentages in parentheses) were:

UNR—46 seats, 5,847,403 votes, 31.9 per cent (17.5); Communists—9 seats, 3,992,431, 21.78 (18.9); Independent - Republicans and Peasants (conservatives) — 18 seats, 2,458,988, 13.42 (19.9); Socialists — 1 seat, 2,319,662, 12.65 (15.5); Popular Republicans (MRP)—14 seats, 1,635,452, 8.92 (11.8); Radical Socialists, 8 seats, 1,384,998, 7.56 (11.5).

First returns on the 16 seats at stake in overseas departments gave the UNR 4 seats, the MRP 3 and the Radical Socialists 1.

Gaullist strength in the last assembly was 176.

Caroline Learns To Sit Quietly

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP) — Caroline Kennedy was on her best behavior Sunday when she went to church with her parents.

She stood at the right time, sat at the right time and knelt at the right time. She fidgeted hardly at all during the 50-minute Mass.

It is the first time she is known to have gone to church with both President and Mrs. Kennedy.

She is almost 5 now, and her conduct was in sharp contrast to that of a Sunday two years ago when her father took her with him to church in Washington. Then she busied herself with such pastimes as climbing over a pew.

Miller Wants To Stay On As GOP National Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller of New York said today he wants to stay on the job as Republican national chairman in an effort to elect a GOP president in 1964.

Miller said he has surveyed and found good the Nov. 6 election results in which the Republicans made some significant gains in important governorships, picked up a net of two seats in the House and lost four in the Senate. This outcome has prompted some suggestions that the party needs a full-time, paid chairman who would direct a professional organization drive for the presidential campaign.

When Miller took office he said that if he found that he didn't have time for both the chairmanship and his duties as a member of the House, he would quit one of the jobs. He serves in the chairmanship without pay.

Miller said in an interview he believes he has demonstrated in the nearly two years he has held the party post that he has not stunted his work there or in Congress. He added that, as of now, he hopes to continue in the dual role. Few doubted that he would be challenged in that decision.

In a move to cash in on what he said were significant GOP gains in the big cities, Miller called four regional party chairmen into a conference today to map plans for supporting Republican candidates in 1963 municipal and local elections.

The four are L. Judson Morhouse of New York, Ray C. Bliss of Ohio, Wirt A. Yeger Jr. of Mississippi and John S. Wold of Wyoming.

Miller, who once said the Republicans might have to look under a rock for their 1964 presidential nominee if they didn't make some substantial gains in Congress, shrugged off the virtual stalemate there.

Instead, he said in a statement Sunday that "our inroads in the traditionally Democratic-dominated big cities in the North and in the formerly one-party Southern states have supplied the encouragement which will make 1964 a Republican year at every level of government."

Miller called a GOP National Committee meeting here Dec. 6-7, to canvass the election results, and to make organization plans for the 1964 campaign.

Oil Expansion

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The director of the government-operated oil monopoly Pemex said plans were made during his two-week visit in the United States for a major expansion of Mexico's oil and petrochemical industries.

Landing

Soldiers from the 1st Armored Division splash ashore from LCUs in a landing maneuver as the first war games since the Cuban crisis got into high gear. About 1,500 men took part in the exercise along the Florida coast near Fort Pierce.

U.S. Warns Europe Over Trade Policies

PARIS (AP)—The United States told Western European trade officials today that their restrictive farm import trade policies threaten the unity and strength of the West. It warned that Washington has the power to take retaliatory measures.

The American view was outlined in a talk prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman for delivery to the agricultural committee of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. Its membership is made up of Western European countries, Canada and the United States.

Freeman's talk had been approved by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"Not only maintenance of trade but the continued unity and strength of the Western world is at stake," Freeman told the meeting.

COMMON MARKET

He said the United States was concerned particularly about farm policies being developed by the European Common Market composed of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg. Great Britain may become a member soon.

West European producers of wheat, feed grains, rice and poultry—major U.S. exports to that area—are being given preference over American and other outside suppliers through imposition of import levies.

Steps being taken by the Common Market, Freeman said, "are going to be the largest single factor determining whether the agricultural systems of the world are mindful of the need for international harmony or whether agriculture retreats into a shell of nationalism."

The United States, he said, has a policy of promoting liberal world trade. Furthermore, he said it believes the balance of the non-Communist world should follow a similar policy.

LIBERAL POLICY

"The Congress and the American public find it difficult," he said, "to understand why the United States should maintain liberal access for a wide range of competitive imports if our own agricultural exports are restricted in foreign markets."

"It is essential," he added, "that U.S. negotiators obtain at future trade conferences adequate assurances that access to export markets for our agricultural products is maintained."

Freeman told the Europeans a trade expansion act passed by the last Congress directs the President to take "all appropriate and feasible steps" to eliminate unjustifiable import restrictions on U.S. farm products.

"Such steps may include," he said, "retaliatory action, if necessary, against imports from the country in question."

There has been speculation that if Common Market policies are not eased, the first U.S. action might be against imports of Rhineland wines.

NO DUMPING

Freeman said the United States, contrary to the understandings of some abroad, maintains liberal policies on imports and competitive farm products. He said farm imports into this country are just about as large as farm exports.

He added the United States had not engaged in dumping surpluses and had insisted only on what he believed was its fair share of foreign farm markets.

"It would be difficult to convince our farmers in the United States that they should accept limits on their productive efforts if at the same time farmers in other major producing countries were expanding their production of identical or similar products with government encouragement," he said.

He also emphasized that in future negotiations the United States would refuse to bargain under conditions which separated trade policies on industrial products from farm products.

He warned that existing trade arrangements could not be maintained if the U.S. farm export market in Western Europe is impaired.

Presidential Portrayal A Hard Chore

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cliff Robertson has just finished the awesome task of portraying John F. Kennedy in a movie.

He is 20 pounds lighter and is undergoing tests to determine if he has a stomach ulcer.

"PT109" started in controversy. A magazine writer penned an article in the early days of the Florida location that reported general discontent among the actors and director Lewis Milestone over the script.

Studio boss J. L. Warner fired Milestone, replaced him with Les Martinson and clamped a closed-set edict for the duration of the three-month location and the one month of shooting at the studio.

Having finished the film, Robertson was allowed to talk.

"I think the picture is going to be fine," he said. "We had to fight for certain things, and I may have an ulcer to show for it. But in the end I think everybody was happy. At least Mr. Warner appears to be. I'm told he saw the picture and said, 'For the first time, all the money in a picture shows on the screen.'"

That would be $5.5 million worth. It might have cost less, except that the Defense Department leaned over backward not to give the film any special favors. It offered only technical advice; the studio had to scrape up its own boats.

How did Cliff feel about impersonating Mr. Kennedy?

"It was quite a responsibility," he said. "After all, nobody had ever portrayed a living President in a full-length role. I felt a responsibility to Mr. Kennedy, whom I have never met and probably never will."

"I also had to think about people all over the world who will be seeing the picture," he added. "Even though the story is presented as a war incident that happened 20 years ago, everyone who sees it will be conscious of the fact that it is about the President of the United States."

The actor said he had had no direct contact with the President concerning how the role should be played. But the word was passed along that Mr. Kennedy didn't want an imitation.

"That was fine with me," said Cliff. "I think it would have been a mistake for me to say 'Havvahd' or try to reproduce gestures. Then the audience would have been constantly aware that an actor was impersonating the President."

Real Doctor Show Depicts Grim Life

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Radio - TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A young doctor's life is not really a succession of glamorous patients, glamorous diseases and glamorous nurses with good Dr. Gillespie always on hand to help out. NBC gave us a grim hour Sunday night showing the real thing.

It was called "Emergency Ward," and with the network cameras we followed Dr. Martin Mulder's 36-hour tour of duty at Bellevue Hospital, New York City.

Young, earnest Dr. Mulder, then in his eighth week as an intern, looked a little like Dr. Kildare. But the neat plots, all neatly tied up at the end of each episode, were missing.

There was one nameless derelict who died of a brain injury in spite of all the team of doctors and nurses could do. An alcoholic was saved to get drunk again. There was a man who needed immediate heart surgery if his life was to be saved — and he stubbornly refused it. And there was the heart attack case who, after a long night of painful, labored breathing, seemed to be pulling through.

Behind all the organized chaos there were the wails of the ambulance siren, the cries of the injured and the frightened.

There's a whole of a difference between the real men in white and television's Kildares and Casseys.

"Bonanza" on NBC is an inoffensive Western with evening to while away a Sunday evening hour. The Cartwrights, father and sons, take turns carrying a leading role, and Sunday night it was Dan Blocker's time up.

For 60 long minutes, a thin plot about a mail-order bride was strung out, but eply because good old Hoss (that's Dan's character) wouldn't tell the aggressive little lady he wasn't in love with her. If he's spoken up right after the first commercial, there wouldn't have been any story at all.

Somehow or other, they also fitted in a little gunfight, and two bounty hunters got shot. Everybody was so busy straightening out the bartered bride, they never bothered to find out whether the bad ones got killed or were just winged.

That, as a matter of fact, is something that keeps bothering me in gun duels. Nobody ever pays any attention to the deceased victims. The heroes just climb on their horses and ride away to the next shoot-out.

Saturday was a big day for lost and mislaid religious statues in television. First, Lloyd Bridges in "Sea Hunt" almost got killed hunting for one that fell overboard. Then, a couple of hours later, Richard Boone almost got killed trying to retrieve one which had been stolen from an old mission.

Both statues, of course, were finally restored. Both heroes emerged unscratched.

Recommended tonight: "Ben Casey," ABC, 10-11 (EST)—Vincent Edwards as a doctor with a patient suffering from brain tumor.

Cool Culture At The Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cool culture comes to the White House today.

A jazz concert—the first ever held in the stately old executive mansion—will be presented by a young sextet that wants President Kennedy to keep on sending U.S. jazzmen abroad in the cultural exchange program.

The jazz session is the fifth of a series of Concerts for Youth sponsored by Mrs. Kennedy.

Sons and daughters of ambassadors and chiefs of diplomatic missions here will join the children of Cabinet officials for the late afternoon concert in the East Ballroom.

Leader of the sextet is Paul Winter, 23, a saxophone player from Altoona, Pa. A 20-year-old Korean pianist, Ton Il Han, will be featured.

Winter and his buddies, college students from Chicago area universities won an international jazz festival award in 1961. As a result they were sent on a tour of Latin America last winter.

They were the first student jazz group sent abroad under a student exchange program and the enthusiasm with which they were received startled them.

In fact, says Winter, the six were so impressed with the effect their music had in South America that they decided to put aside other careers for the moment to devote themselves to cultural exchange music projects.

Killed In Crash

By The Associated Press

Airman Johnny Sims, 19, of Ocala, Fla., stationed at Dyess AFB at Abilene, was killed Saturday when a car overturned 8 miles northwest of Abilene.

THE PRICELESS GIFT.
Edited by Eleanor Wilson McAdoo. McGraw-Hill, $6.95.
By The Associated Press

There have been few occasions when a major public figure has left such a personal, intimate—even passionate—revelation of his inner feelings as in this book.

These are the love letters of Woodrow Wilson and Ellen Axson Wilson. From 1883 to 1885 there was the period of courtship when the president-to-be was taking his graduate work. And after their marriage, until Mrs. Wilson's death in 1914, there were many letters that passed between them whenever they were separated for more than a few days.

The revealing thing is that these letters are as ardent and fervid in marriage as they were in courtship. You would have to go back to the poetic Brownings to find such exuberant expressions of rapture as you will read in these pages.

To most people, the image of Wilson is that of a reserved, impassionate intellectual without warmth. And as a President, he has been portrayed as an egg-head who was catapulted from Princeton University into the

Fire Blamed On Water Heater

A gas water heater, with defective thermostat, caused a fire at the home of Eddie Lee Warren, 904 NW 2nd, at 8 a.m. today. The bathroom, adjoining the water heater closet, was heavily damaged. Some damage to the living room resulted, and clothing and bed linens were smoke damaged before firemen extinguished the blaze. A new thermostat had been purchased for the water heater but had not been installed.
