Blockade Is Off; Bombers To Exit Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, saying there is reason for gratitude in this Thanksgiving week, has called off the U.S. blockade of Cuba in return for promised removal of Soviet bombers from the island.

for instance. He called this "a rather climactic period" and said the coming months will reveal more precisely "what is going on in the world beyond this hemisphere."

Yet, with the manner of a man reporting the worst is over, Kennedy said real progress has been made—and a complete settlement could open the door to solution of other East-West issues.

Kennedy opened the session with the dramatic announcement that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had just promised in a personal message to pull out all 1,228 jet bombers within 30 days.

He would not say directly whether the United States would refuse to give a formal pledge against invading Cuba without U.N. inspection, but hinted this was the case.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau is predicting quite pleasant weather for the nation Thanksgiving Day.

Chinese Reds Drive Toward Assam Area

No Indication Yet Of Alleged 'Truce'

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Sweeping toward a cease-fire deadline set by their own high command, Red China's troops scored spectacular gains today in twin drives from the Himalayas toward the flat, open country of North Assam.

The deadline was midnight Peking time (11 a.m. EST). That was 10:30 p.m. by watches of the Indians, whose leadership viewed suspiciously and in effect rejected Peking's one-sided decision to break off the shooting for a general withdrawal.

There was no immediate word as to whether Chinese guns were truly silenced, or whether battered Indian combat units accepted the respite.

Radio Peking, broadcasting more than an hour after the deadline, said nothing about the cease-fire going into effect. Instead it featured military gains. It claimed Chinese troops had cleared all points along the western (Ladakh) sector, with Indians driven from all their "43 aggressive strongpoints."

The Indian army corps headquarters based in a hazardous spot there, on the north bank of the sacred Brahmaputra River, pulled back to an undisclosed new site and 600 Westerners—British and American men, women and children—joined thousands of Indians in flight.

At the eastern end of the front the Chinese pushed about 65 miles farther down the Luht River Valley toward the Brahmaputra. This was a drive which, linked with that from Bomdila, could form a pincers on the plains.

Nehru told Parliament earlier that the Chinese declaration for the cease-fire and a withdrawal had not been officially received here.

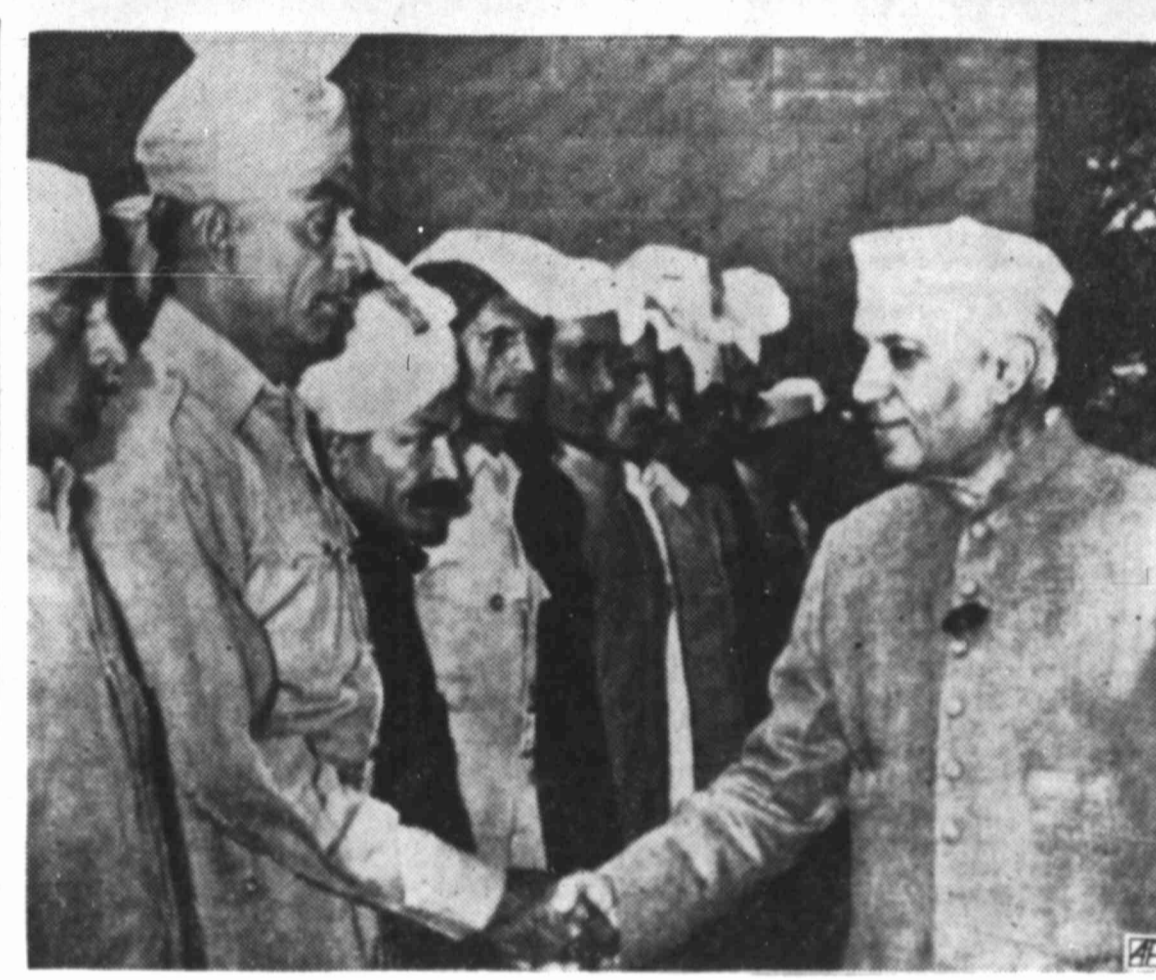

The prime minister said it would be examined when it comes.

Nehru told Parliament today India would stand by its insistence on the restoration of military positions held before last Sept. 8 as the condition for settlement.

He said his government would consider the Chinese statement broadcast earlier today by Peking radio—when it is officially received. But the Chinese statement clearly blocked the idea of restoring Indian troops to posts they held in Ladakh before Sept. 8.

He said India still insists upon a return to the positions both sides held before the Chinese launched their latest attacks last Sept. 8. The Chinese statement would bar Indian troops from returning to some border areas the Chinese have captured, even though the Chinese withdrew from those areas.

Red China's statement—broadcast earlier today by radio Peking—said it was ordering the cease-fire and would start pulling back its troops Dec. 1 in an effort to bring about a settlement of the long frontier dispute.

Farewell To Frontier Volunteers Indian Prime Minister Nehru bids farewell to members of his personal and office staff in New Delhi after they volunteered to serve at the front against the advancing Chinese Reds. The Communists continue their advance toward the plains of Assam on India's northeast front.

A Devotional For The Day

As we are justified by faith, then, let us enjoy the peace we have with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. (Romans 5:1. MOFFATT.)

PRAYER: Dear Father, forgive us for spending our energy and time in foolish ways. Re-direct our strivings that our lives may honor Thee and be a blessing to others. Grant us the beauty of Thy peace, through Christ our Redeemer. Amen.

Maybe A Bid For Leadership

At the outset, observers have debated the motives of the Red Chinese in attacking India. Many held to the theory that this would resolve into a border war, that Peking would pull back after having grabbed off the strategic positions on the border. Others have said that sweeping down into the plains of Assam would reveal the campaign as an all-out conquest of India.

Daily it begins to look as if the latter view has some validity. Whether the Chinese actually penetrate into the plains is not now so important as might seem, for having captured all the defensible points of the upland, Assam would indeed be at the mercy of the Reds almost at any time they chose to strike.

In the beginning, this adventure may have been to seize advantageous ground. Now it is possible that Peking is enlarging upon the drive partly because of India's inert and so-far-impotent defense and partly as an assertion of the hard Communist line as against Russia's short-of-war approach. This, then, could mean a bid by Peking to become the fountainhead of international communism rather than Moscow. It therefore would not be at all surprising to see Russia step up its promised aid to India. Unfolding events may indicate who is going to run the Red show.

No License For Expansion

The Peace Corps gets a pretty high rating by most observers. Most of them agreed that its success in not only helping undeveloped countries but in spreading friendship for the United States results from members living with natives on their own level.

With more resources and manpower, the Corps is able to expand the good work established by missions. It has been kept in touch with those it is intended to help, and has been accepted in more than two score countries as a token of people-to-people friendship.

This is encouraging, but it is not necessarily license to expand the work of the domestic front. According to press reports the departments of Justice, Interior, Labor, Health and Education and Welfare are making a study to consider establishment of a counterpart in this country.

Whereas the Corps has helped to fill a void in foreign areas and has been able to more adequately interpret America, such a mission does not exist on the domestic front. There are already ample agencies and avenues for providing similar services where they may be needed on the home front. A domestic Corps likely would not carry the same deep-rooted challenge, and it certainly would add to growing federal employment at a time when everything should be done to reduce rather than increase it.

In One Window, Out The Other

WASHINGTON — It looks as if every dollar saved in federal taxes by a reduction in the tax rates of corporations will be offset by another dollar in increased expense due to new tax laws and regulations. American business may not choose to invest vast sums in plant and equipment when it cannot tell for another year or two just what extra levies are to be imposed by the so-called "tax reform" laws. The government's continuing policy of trying to make up through new tax laws and regulations what it permits corporations to save through a reduction of their tax rates from 52 to 47 per cent will interfere with planning in private business.

TAKE AS ONE example of increased costs a proposed Treasury regulation dealing with expense accounts. It has been widely proclaimed that the Treasury plans to require a receipt for every expenditure of $10 or more when a salesman, for instance, takes to breakfast, lunch or dinner a customer or prospective customer or anyone else related to his business transactions. Even tips would have to be listed and a record kept.

ALREADY THE credit-card clubs are advertising that they give receipts for meals and other services charged by their customers in participating restaurants and hotels. But what of the big percentage of persons who pay cash for their meals? Will they ask the restaurant and the waiter, too, to give them a signed receipt itemizing the payments made? One hotel manager in Chicago has just announced that he will provide tape recordings to help prove that the conversation was of a business nature, and he promises that one of his waiters will be a notary public to witness signatures on restaurant checks and other documents. Will a salesman have to make an affidavit that the man he lunched with is of help to him in business? Will a newspaperman, for example, have to swear that he got news story or hoped to get information for publication from the government official whom he took to lunch? Can a taxpayer prove that all such expenses had a business purpose without asking the customer or news source to sign an affidavit or to testify in his behalf?

ALL THIS EXTRA record-keeping costs money. Every company will have to keep on file for years the receipts turned in by employees for every item of expenditure which they make as individuals in behalf of the company and for which they are reimbursed. Perhaps railroads will have to provide receipts at the ticket window when a buyer of rail transportation is on a business trip. Will taxi drivers also have to give receipts?

BUT THE MOST uncertain factor is the coming demand by labor unions for

Rusk Hints At Dark Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk—Secretary Kennedy or Premier Khrushchev—has suddenly injected a startling and mystifying note in international relations.

When Kennedy announced at his news conference Tuesday night that Khrushchev had promised to remove his jet bombers from Cuba, this was good news but it had been expected for a couple of days. It cleared the air a bit but not completely.

KENNEDY HAS wanted inspection by the United Nations inside Cuba to be sure all Russian offensive weapons are removed. So far he has not obtained agreement on this from Fidel Castro.

He said that until there are international arrangements for inspection in Cuba "difficult problems remain" and this country will have to "pursue its own means of checking military activities in Cuba."

So the Cuban problem is not at all settled. But just a few hours before Kennedy addressed the newsmen, Rusk was talking to the Foreign Policy Association in New York.

"I suspect that we are on the edge of perhaps unprecedented events that could affect the peace of the whole world," Rusk said.

HE COULD hardly mean in this sensational statement that Kennedy was to disclose a few hours later — Khrushchev's promise to take his bombers home — since this had been expected and was just one more step in his Cuban backdown.

Kennedy didn't mention at all in his news conference this extraordinary comment by Rusk who is not given to making flamboyant or startling statements. On the contrary, Rusk usually operates quietly.

Rusk hinted in his New York talk that developments in various diplomatic areas were soon to be expected, saying: "Consultations are in progress as we meet here now which may very much affect" Kennedy's thinking.

BUT KENNEDY was to say at his news conference that his letter exchange with Khrushchev and negotiations between Americans and Russians at the United Nations were limited to Cuba and took in no other issues.

Rusk, whatever it was he had in mind, left it a mystery. In reviewing the Kennedy-Khrushchev exchange on Cuba, he said hope was expressed that "other agreed measures might follow to lessen the tensions of the world."

Relations between the Russians and Red Chinese seem to have been deteriorating for years. The Chinese, reversing the "soft-on-communism" slogan of American right-wingers, have in effect accused Russia of being soft on capitalism.

The relationship hit a new low when Khrushchev backed up on Cuba and the Chinese, without actually accusing the Russians by name, denounced Khrushchev's withdrawal in the face of Kennedy's firm stand on Cuba.

Father And Daughter

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the learned discussions of parenthood is: When are children at their best?

Children themselves are fascinated by this kind of talk, as people are always interested in discussions of mankind as it used to be. Children also like to be told about how they were before they remember.

In our house we have only one child under middle-age, a daughter, Tracy Ann, who is 9 years old.

"With all the trouble and the dearness that you are now our experience with you up till now is that you were never more responsive to our love than when we held you over our shoulder, patted you—and you burped. That was our family peak—no matter what you study in the fourth grade," we tell her.

Correction to the previous paragraph: That is what I tell my wife and daughter.

"What my wife says is: 'How can you talk that way to a child?'" "You mean her or you?" I ask.

"It is the way I feel as of now."

"Well, that is no attitude you should have toward your duty of raising a child that will express our mutual desire for her to—"

"You mean," I ask, "that if we work to send her to college she will be more fun then afterward than she was when we burped her?"

"Yes," says Frances, my wife, with her usual sense of certainty. "Children are often most rewarding when they are in their teens."

"Name just two," I demand.

"From Adam to Adenauer."

My wife thinks this challenge is rather ridiculous. So does my daughter, who is always on her mother's side. Perhaps we discuss our child more freely in her presence than we ought—but she is usually there.

Editor's Note: Our own opinion is that if Boyle had more than one child, he would listen to them more rather than tell them.

Boyle's Note: No matter how many they are—tell 'em now and listen to them later.

At this point my daughter, Tracy Ann, usually intervenes and asks, "Don't you think you'll like me just as much when I'm a teenager, daddy?"

"Well," I reply, "of course, I know you're in a hurry to be a teenager, and that's very important to you."

But can I show you what I mean? Let me hold you again as I did before, and put you over my shoulder, and oh, you wouldn't understand, and—"

"Oh, Daddy, put me down," cries Tracy. "You know I have to do my arithmetic."

And Frances sighs pleasantly, and says:

"Well, you may have a point. But you can't keep them in diapers forever, can you? And she is growing up, isn't she? Men are such fools about daughters!"

Aren't they?

Hemangioma Is A Blemish Of The Skin

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My grandchild has a large lump on the upper part of her chest which developed when she was about five months old. She is now a year old.

It is a hemangioma, and a pediatrician advised leaving it alone at the present. It does not seem to be getting any bigger.

Hemangiomas are defects in the capillaries of the skin—the extremely small blood vessels which fan out through the tissues.

They are not especially unusual and sometimes they disappear as a child grows older.

Since this one is not in too obvious a place and has not changed in size, you can, as your pediatrician suggested, wait and see for a time. Hemangiomas on the face, and hence disfiguring, might be removed more promptly.

If this one on the chest increases in size and is irritated so it bleeds, then consider removal.

Dear Dr. Molner: About three years ago I had surgery on the right breast. Since then I occasionally have infection of the right arm with severe pain, swelling and redness. My right arm is now larger than the left. What causes this infection and what can I do to prevent it? Will my arm continue getting larger?—Mrs. L.H.

Such cases aren't necessarily a matter of infection. The increased size of the arm is due to disturbance in circulation in the arm pit, blood vessels having been unavoidably affected by the surgery, or by subsequent scar tissue.

Exercise is important in preventing enlargement of the arm. Keep the arm active. Physiotherapy can reduce swelling. In some cases an elastic sleeve should be worn to facilitate circulation.

You might also check with your doctor to see whether a rehabilitation institute or clinic is available near you.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done to relieve intestinal adhesions? My doctor said further surgery would only cause more of them. Would some special diet help?—E.W.G.

Diet won't affect adhesions. It is true that some people form adhesions more readily than others, so additional surgery may—or may not—be followed by more adhesions. The important point is to determine positively whether adhesions are causing the trouble. They can cause kinking of the bowel and hence partial (or even complete) obstruction. Adhesions on the outer surface of the bowel may not cause any difficulty at all.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a substance used in new type electric trains that could cause a child of five to break out in a rash and hives?—Mrs. Y.R.

It's possible. A lacquer, or even some metal, could be involved, but are you sure it is the train? There are many causes of allergies: foods, dust, plants, animal danders, etc. A highly-allergic child can react to any number of things in a perfectly normal environment.

It could be well worth while, especially for the child's sake in the future, to have some testing by an allergist if the attacks of hives are severe.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Pacifism Fading In Britain

LONDON—Britain is still, as Napoleon scornfully called her, "a nation of shopkeepers," but while his designation was apt, his scorn proved all wrong.

The shopkeepers know where their living lies—it lies in trade. They know where their hearts lie, too—it lies deep in their country and its ways.

TO THE VISITING journalist, it came as a primary jolt to find the Ministry of Defense turning back here for the war industries which have death-dealing weapons for sale. Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft is easing up on military secrecy because he feels that it doesn't mystify the enemy so much as it bewilders potential customers. I telephoned the Ministry and had no difficulty at all finding out what could be bought in the line of weapons, hitherto rather on the hush-hush side.

HIGHLY RECOMMENDED is the Chieftain Tank. And to kill a tank there's the Swingfire. A guided missile. To keep enemy aircraft off your shipping, you can purchase the C.F. 299, another guided missile surface-to-air. Should the enemy planes threaten your cities, step to the counter and place an order for the Bloodhound II, now under development.

THE BRITISH weapons makers have had to cancel out or slow down on a family of missiles known as the Blue Knight, the Blue Streak and the Blue Water. The shopkeepers intended sharp trading on the continent and America with these. But the Yanks beat them out in this more sophisticated line of goods, so the effort was shelved as "uneconomical." I was told. Still, in general, the Macmillan Government is definitely for the "export of arms."

... is looking into the practicalities." Mrs. Thorneycroft is going to make it easier for overseas buyers to know just what merchandise-of-death is for sale.

WHILE FULLY within the realistic British character, this frank avowal of a seller's psychology took a little getting used to. Last year, when I was in Britain, the pacifists were squatting in the streets and being patted by policemen to the paddy wagons. The beautiful Vanessa Redgrave, the angry John Osborne, the superannuated Lord Russell were wallowing in Ban The Bomb exhibitionism, and luxuriating in notoriety and short-run jail terms. Their performances, in fact, were competing with the Battle of Britain ceremonies, and both these shows were going on to the thunder of Soviet nuclear testing in the Arctic, the crash of Dag Hammarskjold's plane in the Congo, the belching of Khrushchev and the anxious echo from the 1960 election question of whether young President Kennedy dared "stand up to" Terrible Nikita as boldly as the glowering Richard Nixon might have done.

TODAY PACIFISM in Britain may not be as strong as it is in the gloaming. Miss Redgrave still is starring in Shakespeare's tender comedy, "As You Like It." Osborn is in temporary eclipse. Peter Bertrand Russell has become a secondary correspondent with the crestfallen Khrushchev, not in the class with Mr. Kennedy.

My visit this year fell in with another British celebration on November 11th—the American Veterans' Day—when Britons also hold memorials for their dead of World Wars I and II. At eleven in the morning, Queen Elizabeth, wearing a poppy at the shoulder of her black dress, laid a wreath at the base of the Cenotaph in Whitehall. At four in the afternoon, I attended a packed and solemn service at Westminster Abbey where rough-clad, everyday Britons emerged from the historic church and placed their poppies on the wintry grass under small markers for the numerous military services. I laid a poppy for my brother under the marker "other allied nations."

WHAT OF THE British shopkeeper's heart? A stranger among these valiant, undermatured people could not fail to feel its throbs, its strong and invincible swelling. Nobody with a soul of his own could write that Britain is out to commercialize the world's war fever, much less to cry a panic to boost the sales, still less to carry on business with the wrong chaps. It's just that the wares flow where the trade is during this period still called peace.

If the visitor may hazard an opinion it is this—Britain is a nation looking for a new hero. It is not a search of desperation. The adjective now applied here to Prime Minister Macmillan is "unflappable."

The old Cold Stream Guardsman will never panic—but he does not fire the embers of latent hero-worship.

THERE IS NO one in British public life who does, and this is a situation in which a strange thing may happen. For these people have seen the Russians turn tail in the Western Hemisphere. They have just read an objective British study which shows the U.S.A., despite dark rumors to the contrary, far ahead of Russia in missile power. And they have seen the young President "stand up to" Khrushchev" as has no free world leader in our time. The hunger for a hero may find its satisfaction, not in Britain, but back home with us.

How To Spend Money At Christmas

The commercialization of Christmas is in exactly the same position as the weather—everyone talks about it endlessly, but no one really does anything about it.

The squalid transformation of Christ's birthday anniversary into not just another but the BIGGEST merchandise promotion of them all has boosted my blood pressure into orbit for years. But all my anti-misadventures have only resulted in an annual great leap forward in Christmas-as-a-sales gimmick.

THE COMMERCIALIZATION of Christmas has fastened itself upon us like some gigantic incubus. The fact is that our will to protest has been destroyed. Well, almost, but not quite. Recently I have heard some feeble protest against the flood of snob Christmas catalogues that swamp the mails at this time of year.

Oddly enough, it isn't the $1.850 white mink chaps whipped up by a Texas "where else?" emporium or the sable bathrobe suggested by a New York shoppe that has raised the dander so much as a $25 gift—from a third store—that is simply called "The Nothing Box."

IT IS CALLED "The Nothing Box" because that is exactly what it is. It is the ultimate, and no mistake, in gifts for the man who has everything, including nitwit friends, and the giver who has everything but good sense.

In exchange for $25, the giver buys a box whose only distinguishing feature is two rows of four buttons each that constantly blink on and off. But let me quote the catalogue description of this $25 worth of nothing:

"LET US WARN you that unless you use an ax you can't turn it off. It will keep winking its eight eyes in no recognizable pattern and for no apparent reason for a whole year. Then it's dead as a mackerel and you can't get it fixed.

"It works as well in darkness as in light. While it blinks you will discover, if you are sleepy, that it will keep you awake. If you're an insomniac, it will probably put you to sleep.

"TRY IT ON YOUR desk. You'll find people thinking you've got a compact computer, a spy system, signals from one of your conflict-of-interest firms; maybe you're a scientist. Our advice is to keep mum—got down mechanical formula while you glance at it significantly.

"Try it on the table at the board meeting and see what happens. We think it would be valuable at a high-stakes stud game. Maybe it will quiet yippy dogs and scare burglars. One thing is sure—it's great for hermits. Watch it for an hour and you'll realize that you're not alone.

"IF YOU GET SORE at it, turn it to the wall in an unused closet and lock the door—or give it to some fellow who has no sense of humor."

Anyone with $25 for a nothing box had better remember what Christmas symbolizes and quickly send that sum to the Salvation Army, CARE, the Foster Parents' Plan, the United Negro College Fund, or any of a thousand other excellent and worthy causes devoted to man's spiritual and physical betterment—causes that are eternally short of money to do the good works most pleasing to Him whose birth we celebrate on December 25.

Citadel Is The Scene Of Marriage Ceremony

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Beverly Ann McNew and Eugene W. Thompson, Webb AFB, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Salvation Army Citadel. The double ring ceremony was performed by Capt. James Jay of Tyler.

Thompson is the son of Mrs. Rosaleen Thompson, Lubbock, and Mrs. J. R. Kirby, 504 Aylford, is mother of the bride.

Family pews were designated with white satin bows. Altar arrangements of white gladioli and mums, with lapers flanking a wrought iron arch of double wedding rings, formed a background for the wedding.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Robert Hall, pianist, who accompanied Mrs. James Jay as she sang "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest" and Arthur Johnson, singing "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, W. J. McNew Jr., the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, detailed with lace appliques. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline of lace, long sleeves and a bow at the back of the waist. The full, deep folds of the skirt extended into a chapel train. Her veil of nylon tulle was accented with a lace crown.

The Dec. 18 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. A. Glenn, 108 Jefferson, at 2 p.m.

frenched carnations, backed with tulle and pearl leaves, were showered with picot satin ribbon and carried on a white Bible.

Miss Troy Sue McNew, sister of the bride, wore a peau de soie of ashes of roses hue, styled with bouffant skirt and long sleeves. She had accessories of matching shade. Mrs. W. J. McNew, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Mike Enlow were bridesmaids. They were attired in fuchsia satin dresses and matching accessories.

Both carried bouquets of rose pink mums.

J. R. Dillahunty was best man. Ushers were Freddie Thompson of Lubbock and Norman McNew.

HULL & PHILLIPS FOOD STORES

Review Of Holiday Food Given

The turkey, Thanksgiving Day favorite of the millions, rules the roost this week at food stores from coast to coast.

Prices generally are higher. Small turkeys, those under 10 pounds, were expected to be most in demand.

A wider than ever array of turkey products were being featured, including boil-in-the-bag pouches of sliced turkey with gravy, frozen turkey dinners, boned, canned turkey meat and the like.

Most fruit counters bulged with fowl accompaniments such as cranberries (there's a bumper crop this year), apples, grapes, oranges, grapefruit and pears.

Housewives not bound by tradition were being offered in many places ham and pork loin roasts at good prices, and broiler-fryers.

Some supermarkets prominently advertised various cuts of beef at reasonable prices, notably steak cuts and pot roasts.

Such fall holiday dessert items as fruit cakes and prepared mince and pumpkin pie also were being featured.

In the vegetable line, good buys included celery, cabbage, brussel sprouts, sweet potatoes, carrots, squash, onions, lettuce and cauliflower.

Eggs and dairy products also are reported plentiful in most areas.

Kennedy Sends Mission To Check India's Needs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is sending a high-powered special mission to New Delhi today to survey India's military needs in the conflict with Red China and recommend a U.S. assistance program.

In spite of a sudden Chinese cease-fire move, U.S. officials expect Prime Minister Nehru to renege his armed forces and raise permanently the level of his military strength.

The surprise maneuver by the Chinese Red, however, threw an element of uncertainty into the situation. As Kennedy told a news conference Tuesday night, Washington is waiting for Nehru's own assessment of the move as a guide to further U.S. action.

He said there is no present indication that U.S. troops will be sent to India.

Kennedy said he was sending a team headed by the Assistant Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman to New Delhi "in order to better assess Indian needs."

Other members of the survey team include: Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul H. Nitze, who heads international security affairs in the Defense Department;

Gen. Paul D. Adams, chief of the U.S. Strike Command, which specializes in moving fully equipped troop units by air over long distances; Carl Kayser, deputy assistant to Kennedy; Roger Hillsman, State Department intelligence chief, and James P. Grant, deputy assistant secretary of state for South Asia and the Middle East.

Harriman heads the State Department's Far Eastern section. A former ambassador and one-time governor of New York, he is a veteran of many foreign assignments and has been intimately involved in developing resistance to Communist pressures in Southeast Asia.

Harriman declined to discuss the present state of the Chinese-Indian crisis, saying that the situation is "changing every hour."

Harriman recalled that just 21 years ago, near the outset of World War II, President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent him on a somewhat similar mission to Moscow to study problems of U.S. assistance to the Soviet Union against Nazi Germany.

In the Chinese-Indian border war which began a month ago the United States has already supplied more than $5 million worth of small arms, communications equipment and other materiel to the Indian forces in an effort to help Nehru stem the tide of Communist advance in the Himalayan Mountains.

Informants said that urgent new Indian requests for additional equipment have come in almost daily.

A far more serious problem than that involved in technical and financial arrangements concerns India's relations with Pakistan, which is a U.S. ally.

"In providing military assistance to India," President Kennedy said, "we are mindful of our alliance with Pakistan. All of our aid to India is for the purpose of defeating Chinese Communist subversion. Chinese incursions into the subcontinent are a threat to Pakistan as well as India, and both have a common interest in opposing it."

Rescued Sailors

Three of the five Greek sailors, rescued when they abandoned their burning freighter, the Captain George, in the storm-lashed Atlantic near Bermuda, leave the Gulf oil tanker, Trinity Navigator, in Philadelphia, Pa. The tanker brought the five sailors to port while another rescue vessel took two others to a Canadian port. At least 18 other sailors died in the sinking, including a brother of Georges Anthis, 24, at left. The others are Arapis Antonios, 47, rear center, and Thamisoklis Patsatzis, 36.

Fake Sex
Survey
Is Bared

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Accused of conducting an unauthorized sex survey, Robert David Adler pleaded innocent.

Then a statuesque blonde testified Adler came to her apartment, said he was assigned by the government to measure her body from head to toe, and induced her to take two swallows of a bitter, greenish liquid. She said she lapsed into unconsciousness and when she awoke in bed she was completely nude.

Without waiting to hear testimony from eight other women waiting their turn, Adler, 31, changed his plea to guilty.

The judge ordered a psychiatric examination for the chubby, balding Adler, who police said interviewed almost 300 women before he was arrested.

Weather Clears
In West Texas

By The Associated Press

Drizzly weather hung on Wednesday in East Texas while clearing weather spread from western into southern sections of the state.

Fog hovered at a number of points in early morning. They included Wichita Falls, Dallas, Fort Worth, Texarkana and Lufkin.

Temperatures at all reporting stations were in the 30s to 40s before dawn — a few degrees warmer than the day before in the frost-nipped Panhandle-Plains but a bit cooler in South Texas and along the coast.

Forecasts called for skies to clear throughout the state during the day. It was due to turn a little cooler across the northern portions.

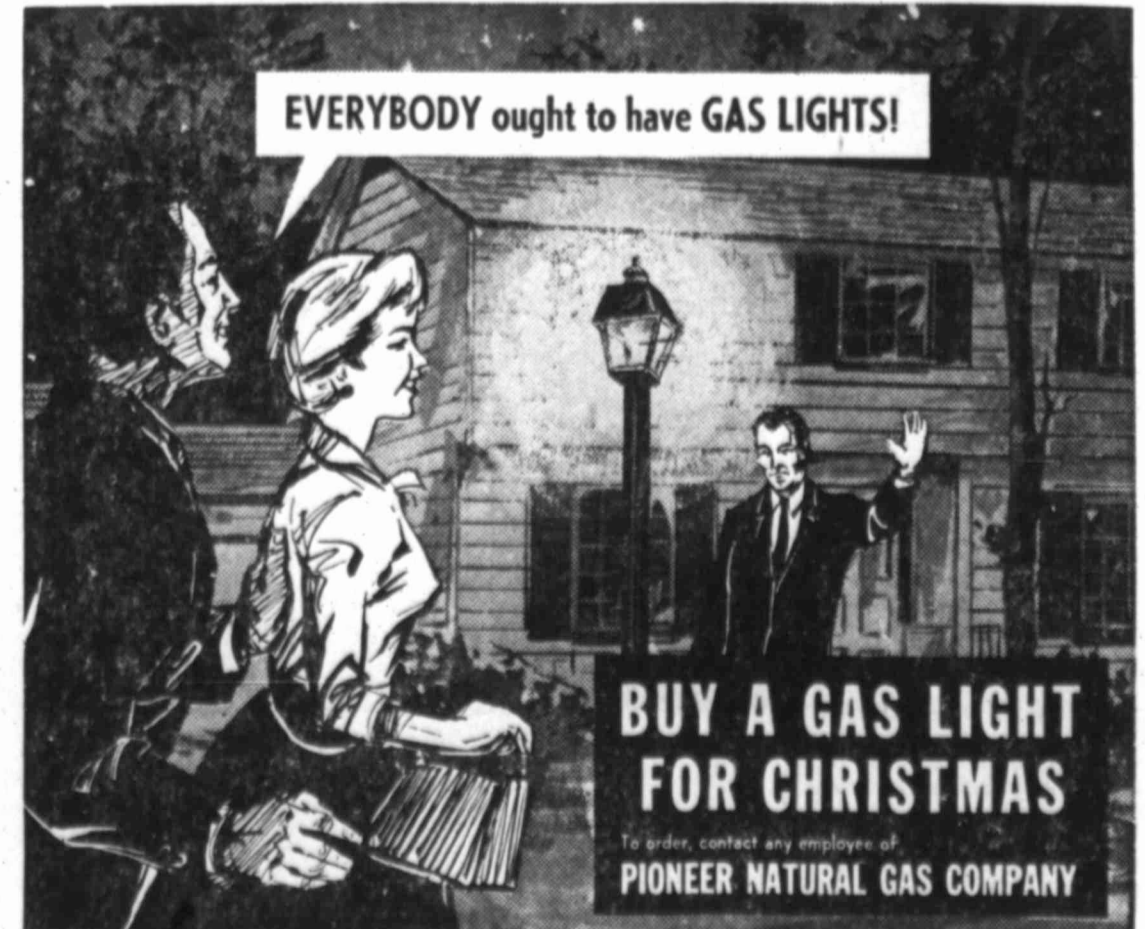

Early morning temperatures ranged from 32 degrees at Lubbock up to 49 at Galveston.

C-City Native Promoted By AP

HOUSTON (AP)—B. F. Kellum, veteran Texas newspaperman and Associated Press correspondent for the Rio Grande Valley, today was promoted to be assistant to Correspondent Max Skelton, who is in charge of AP operations at Houston.

Bob M. Gassaway has been named acting correspondent in the Valley, with headquarters at McAllen.

A native of Colorado City, the 38-year-old Kellum was with Station KCBD in Lubbock and the Paris Daily News prior to joining The Associated Press in Dallas in 1965. He was appointed correspondent in charge of the AP's Valley operations in 1958. He is a graduate of Texas Tech at Lubbock.

When a severe freeze last January wiped out three-fourths of the Valley's lush citrus crop, Kellum's careful and detailed reporting pointed out the economic impact on the area and the problems growers faced in making a comeback.

Other major stories he has covered in recent years include the great Rio Grande Valley downpour in October of 1958 that left hundreds homeless, a two-car crash between Alamo and Donna in February of 1959 that left 10 persons dead, the sensational rape-murder of a South Texas beauty queen, the trial in Brownsville in May of 1958 of 50 Cubans accused of attempting to transport arms to the Castro government, and charges against a Catholic priest accused in 1960 of attempted rape.

Gassaway worked with KWTX-TV and radio in Waco and the Waco Times-Herald and News-Tribune prior to joining the Associated Press staff in Dallas in January 1962. He was transferred to the Houston AP office in April of this year.

Pope Orders New Study Of Controversy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII intervened today in the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council and ordered a new study of a controversial theological thesis considered important for Christian unity.

The Pope said the thesis—on divine revelation and its sources—should be examined jointly by the council's Theological Commission, the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity, and a number of cardinals.

His action, announced by a spokesman, amounted to a success for progressive elements inside the council. They had argued that the thesis either be shelved or rewritten in the interest of inter-church relations.

In the past, the Roman Catholic Church has emphasized tradition as well as the Bible as sources of God's revelation to man. Protestant have held that the Bible is the main source.

The thesis was prepared in a preliminary commission headed by conservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, secretary of the Vatican's powerful Congregation of the Holy Office. He also presides over the council's Theological Commission.

The Secretariat for Christian Unity is headed by Augustin Cardinal Bea, a German Jesuit considered progressive.

By calling for a new joint study, including Cardinal Bea's secretariat, the Pope clearly underlined the importance of the thesis in current efforts to improve contacts between churches.

The cardinals who will participate in the new study were not identified. Presumably they will include both proponents and opponents of the thesis.

The government pressed today its fight against an attempt to blot out a court-ordered mental examination for former Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker.

Walker's lawyers contended Tuesday the circumstances under which the order was issued violated his constitutional rights. They said Walker had not been indicted nor had a U.S. attorney presented a bill of information when the test was ordered.

The government denied any infringement of rights. It said mental tests were legal when ordered after an arrest and before sentence is passed.

A federal judge ordered the examination Oct. 2, the day after Walker was arrested on charges of seditious conspiracy and inciting insurrection in connection with a bloody desegregation riot on the University of Mississippi campus. Two men died and scores were injured.

The riot occurred when U.S. marshals ringed the Ole Miss administration building shortly after bringing Negro James Meredith to the campus for enrollment. Meredith's name wasn't mentioned and the riot itself was not brought up until the first of seven witnesses subpoenaed by the government testified.

University Police Chief Burns Tatum testified he was about 10 to 15 feet from Walker when he addressed a group of students in front of the Lyceum building, the university's administration building and scene of the heaviest fighting.

Tatum said he was standing with a group of students, one of whom pointed out Walker to him.

He said he heard Walker, who held a paper cup in his hand, tell the students:

"Col. (T. B.) Birdsong has let you down. Gov. (Ross) Barnett is your guard. Charge!"

Birdsong is head of the Mississippi Highway Patrol which had many units stationed in the campus area.

Former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker and three attorneys stroll along the campus of the University of Mississippi at Oxford where rioters fought U.S. marshals over court-ordered desegregation of the school. From left are C. J. Watts, Oklahoma City; Murray L. Williams, Water Valley, Miss.; Joe W. Matthews, Dallas; and Walker. Walker is in Oxford for a federal court hearing in the government's attempt to try Walker for his alleged part in the rioting.

Other witnesses were Cal Marlin of Miami, NBC television newsreel cameraman, and two psychiatrists—Dr. Charles Smith of Washington, medical director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, and Dr. Manfred Guttmacher of Baltimore.

Marlin's testimony consisted of the filmed report of a statement read by Walker in Jackson Sept. 29, the day before rioting.

"I am in Mississippi beside Gov. Ross Barnett," the statement said. "I call for a national protest rally to the cause of freedom."

Misprints Sell Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sale of deliberately misprinted Dag Hammarskjold postage stamps has been resumed following an out-of-court settlement suit which halted the sale for several days.

The Post Office Department said Tuesday that Leonard Sherman, an Irvington, N.J., collector who had 50 of the original accidentally misprinted stamps, had dropped his federal court suit.

Sale of the deliberate misprints began immediately with about 600,000 in stock.

Postal officials said that in exchange for withdrawal of the suit, Sherman had received a postal inspector's sworn statement that Sherman has 50 of the original Hammarskjold misprints. The idea is to maintain some part of the value of those particular stamps for collectors.

At least 400 of the 120 million four-cent stamps honoring the late secretary-general of the United Nations had been printed with an inverted yellow plate, leaving a white stripe down one side.

Sherman had valued his unbroken 50-stamp pane at about $500,000 on the stamp collecting market. But that was before the department announced it would print thousands of the inverts and sell them in an effort to deflate the value of the original misprints.

About 375,000 of the deliberate misprints had been sold in less than four hours last Friday when Sherman obtained a restraining order in Newark from the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Brownies Elect Officers Tuesday

Brownie Troop 369 met at the home of Cheryl Roane, with Barbara Boardman as co-hostess, Tuesday afternoon for the election of officers.

Officers elected were: president, Judy Conley; vice president, Lynn Schaedel; secretary, Dallas Crawford; treasurer, Cindy Mills; social chairman, Jan Blomsheld; song leader, Patsy Rogers; reporter, Cheryl Roane; clean-up chairman, Barbara Boardman; game chairman, LeAnn Herndon; alternate, Lynda Meads.

Kiwanians To Build A Bonfire

The Kiwanis Club is doing its part to prime the pump for a victory over San Angelo Friday with a bonfire to be held at 7 p.m. Thursday.

It will be held on the Senior High School campus, east of the gymnasium, between the school building and State Street, according to John Smith, principal. The bonfire has received the official sanction of the school and the city.

Pythians Slate Meeting Tuesday

Frontier Lodge No. 43 of the Knights of Pythias has set its annual roll call for Tuesday evening in the Castle Hall.

This event is the occasion for traditional gifts which go to the order's orphan home at Weatherford. The Big Spring lodge has been one of the staunchest supporters of the home.

Jack Needham, Brownwood, will be the speaker for the roll call meeting, set for 7:30 o'clock. He is a past grand chancellor and currently is chairman of the committee on endowment. He also is on the board for the Pythian Home for Aged and is a grand trustee for the home at Weatherford. Charles H. Houston, chancellor commander, will be in charge of the meeting here.

Only six states in Mexico retain the death sentence.

Back On Campus

University Police Chief Burns Tatum testified he was about 10 to 15 feet from Walker when he addressed a group of students in front of the Lyceum building, the university's administration building and scene of the heaviest fighting.

Tatum said he was standing with a group of students, one of whom pointed out Walker to him.

He said he heard Walker, who held a paper cup in his hand, tell the students:

"Col. (T. B.) Birdsong has let you down. Gov. (Ross) Barnett is your guard. Charge!"

Birdsong is head of the Mississippi Highway Patrol which had many units stationed in the campus area.

Other witnesses were Cal Marlin of Miami, NBC television newsreel cameraman, and two psychiatrists—Dr. Charles Smith of Washington, medical director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, and Dr. Manfred Guttmacher of Baltimore.

Felony Cases Are Docketed

Fifteen felony criminal cases have been set for trial next week in 11th District Court. Judge Ralph Caton said he had ordered a panel of 102 jurors to report to the court at 10 a.m. Nov. 26.

Gil Jones, district attorney, is releasing a list of the cases set for trial, said that the order in which they appear was not necessarily the same in which they would be called for trial. The list is in the same sequence the cases are on file in the district court clerk's office.

Highway Gets A New Label

U. S. 80, probably the longest single highway in Texas, will be known as the "Historical Medalion Route."

The Texas State Historical Survey Committee has awarded 56 Texas Historical Building Medallions to structures located along this 819 mile road because of their historical, cultural or architectural significance. In addition, there are 24 historical museums along the route stretching from Waskom on the east to Anthony on the western border.

Taylor Discusses Role Of Farmer

John Taylor, farm implement dealer, discussed the role of the farmer in modern terms, for members of the Optimist Club this morning. He was introduced by Jimmy Taylor, former Howard County agent.

John Taylor called farming in this county a big business, particularly cotton farming. He pointed out that farm costs have increased and the investment cost per acre has increased probably more than any other business represented in the assembly.

The program was part of the Farm-City Week observance by Optimists. There were 16 present.

Rites Pend For Former Resident

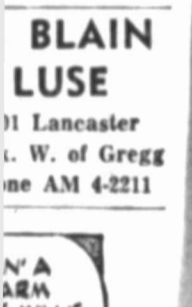

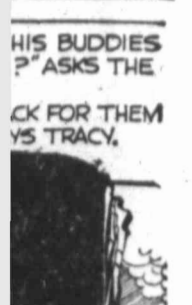

O. F. Johnston, 47, former Big Spring resident, died Wednesday morning in Lubbock from pneumonia. He resided at 4113 N. Elm. From approximately 1939-1956, he lived here and was associated with Gosden. He leaves his wife, Trilby, a son, Robert Frank, Memphis, Tenn.; a daughter, Pamela Johnston. He also leaves his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Westerman, Christoval, H. F. Merrill Jr., Big Spring, is a cousin. Arrangements are pending.

Greenhorns Are Initiated Tuesday

News Organizations Freed Of Voluntary Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's news organizations were free today of voluntary restrictions they accepted on reporting military movements and similar news during the Cuban crisis.

But Defense Department officials and military personnel still were under strict orders to refrain from talking with reporters about a wide range of subjects considered "vital to national security."

President Kennedy announced at his news conference Tuesday night that his administration was lifting 12 restrictive Guidelines which the White House suggested to the nation's news media at a time when the crisis over missiles in Cuba was rushing toward a peak.

These restrictions covered such matters as details on numbers or movements of U.S. forces, any discussion of plans for use of those forces, location of aircraft, intelligence estimates of enemy plans or capabilities and the like.

Kennedy said "I have no apologies" for keeping secret the developments leading up to the imposition of the arms blockade—developments which included increased aerial surveillance to confirm the presence of nuclear missiles in Cuba threatening the United States.

He said it might have been "a disaster if this news had dribbled out when we were unsure of the extent of the Soviet buildup in Cuba, and when we were unsure of our response, and when we had not consulted with any of our allies."

During the week of mounting tension, before Soviet Premier Khrushchev agreed to pull out the missiles, "we attempted to have the government speak with one voice," the President said.

This remark recalled a statement by Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester on Oct. 30 that the Kennedy administration used news of government actions in the crisis as "part of the weaponry" in the drive to force out the missiles.

Kennedy acknowledged "there were obvious restraints on newspapermen," such as denial of permission for them to go to the Guantanamo naval base in Cuba. The base since has been opened to newsmen.

Since Khrushchev agreed to withdraw his missiles, Kennedy said, "we have tried, or at least intend to attempt to lift any restraints in the news."

Kennedy said that if any of the procedures designed to safeguard intelligence information "are being used in a way inimical to the free flow of news, then we would change those procedures."

After the President spoke, newsmen were told by a Pentagon spokesman that "there has been no change yet in our own guidelines, internally."

He referred to a 12-point "security guidance" issued to defense personnel at the time the voluntary guidelines were given to news media. The 12 points were identical in subject matter.

Another bone of contention was a memorandum issued by Sylvester on Oct. 27 requiring officials to report the substance of their talks with newsmen and to have third parties sit in as monitors.

The State Department followed up with a similar edict and the White House has applied the policy on an informal basis.

Kennedy said "I have not been convinced" yet that the Sylvester memo has restricted the flow of essential news from the Pentagon. "If it does, we will change it," the President said.

Blockade Fleet Steams Away After Tour Of Duty

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ships of the big U.S. blockade fleet steamed toward home ports or headed out for routine patrols today, their month-long vigil over arms shipments into Cuba ended.

The Defense Department sent instructions to the Atlantic Fleet commander to disperse the force within minutes after President Kennedy's announcement Tuesday night the naval quarantine was lifted.

The first ships were expected to come into the nearer home ports tonight or Thursday morning, some of them back to base for the first time since Oct. 22.

They had composed one of the largest naval concentrations since the Korean War—an armada of carriers, cruisers, destroyers, attack submarines—and supporting tankers and supply vessels.
