President Thanks Soldiers For Service

HINESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Kennedy today told 3,000 soldiers of the Army's newest armored division that they and millions of their comrades form "the keystone of the arch of freedom around the world."
Standing hatless and without a topcoat in a stiff, cold wind, Kennedy thanked the men of the 1st Armored Division—"Old Ironsides"—for their services to the country during "the difficult period of the past weeks."
The President landed at Ft. Stewart at 10:18 a.m. under blue skies to start a one-day swing through Army, Air Force and Navy bases in Georgia and Florida.
The presidential plane left Hunter AFB for Homestead AFB in Florida at 12:31 p.m. Kennedy was making the 2,500-mile round trip to pay his personal respects to American fighting men who were massed in the southeastern part of the United States when the Cuban crisis began in late October.
He rode in a black limousine along a 1,000-yard line of M48 Patton tanks, armored personnel carriers, howitzers and Honest John missiles.
The green-clad troops snapped to attention as he passed.
The President halted several times and got out of his car for a closer look at the equipment and to chat briefly with some of the men.

Kennedy, speaking from a reviewing stand, flanked by heavy ranks, told the men drawn up before him that he wanted to express appreciation on behalf of the people of the United States.
He did not mention the Cuban crisis as such but it was obvious this was what he was referring to in speaking of the difficult period of recent weeks.
"The danger is certainly not past and we will continue to live in crisis and danger, certainly through this decade," Kennedy said.
"Therefore, we will continue to call upon your services in the future as we have in the past days."
Kennedy said the United States is "the guarantor of the independence of dozens of countries stretching around the world," adding:
"and the reason that we are able to guarantee the freedom of those countries and to maintain that guarantee and make it good is because of you and your comrades in arms."
"and there are a million of your comrades in uniform outside of the United States who are also part of the keystone of the arch of freedom throughout the globe."
Ending his brief speech, the President said:
"This country does not forget

Ole Miss Is Under Study By Educators

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A powerful organization of Southern educators begins closed-door hearings today that will decide the academic future of eight state colleges and universities in Mississippi.
At issue is the charge of political interference with the administration of the University of Mississippi when Negro James H. Meredith was enrolled in the then all-white institution in October.
The most likely decision, to be announced Wednesday morning, is a period of strict probation.
Possible, but not considered probable, withdrawal of accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.
Even before the association's 67th annual meeting got underway today, its Commission on Colleges began sifting the evidence.
Representatives of all Mississippi state colleges and universities, including three Negro institutions, appeared before the commission Sunday to tell their sides of the story.
Although the riots that attracted worldwide attention all took place on the Ole Miss campus at Oxford, all eight institutions, with an estimated enrollment of 21,000, will be involved in the association's final ruling.
Among those appearing before the commission were Chancellor John D. Williams of the University of Mississippi, E. R. Jobe, executive secretary of the State Board of Trustees for Institutions of Higher Learning, and four other board members.
No details of their talks leaked out.
Delegates to the annual meeting, representing about 400 institutions in 11 southern states, declined to predict for publication what action will be taken.
Many said privately, however, that "We definitely are going to do something. We can't ignore what has been happening in Mississippi."
They also emphasized that integration itself was not the issue.
The Commission on Colleges has made two specific charges of political interference:
1. That the Board of Trustees surrendered its constitutional authority when it appointed Gov. Ross Barnett, university registrar solely to handle the Meredith admission.
2. That the governor prevented the board from carrying out its promise to a federal district court in New Orleans that it would admit Meredith.

Castro Offers Cuba 'Inspection' But He Ties On A Few Strings

Up To Scratch
When you gotta scratch, you gotta scratch. Toronto Globe and Mail photographer Boris Spremo caught this example of Scottish sophistication at a St. Andrews' Ball in a Toronto, Canada, hotel. He's one Scot who doesn't give a hoot, man.

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro government offered today to allow inspection of Soviet withdrawal of offensive weapons from Cuba if the United Nations confirms dismantling of bases from which counter-revolutionaries are operating against the Castro regime.
The government also repeated that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's five-point package, including U.S. abandonment of the Guantanamo naval base, remains "indispensable to a true and definitive solution of the crisis."
The government issued the statement as Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan prepared to return to New York from Havana today. The Soviet Union has said it already has withdrawn 42 missiles and has promised to pull out about 30 jet bombers that can carry nuclear bombs. The United States has lifted the naval blockade it imposed in October when the Soviet offensive weapons were discovered in Cuba, but Castro has continued to refuse to admit international inspectors to verify the Soviet actions.
U.N. VERIFY
The Cuban statement said:
"Cuba demands that the United Nations verify in the territory of the United States, Puerto Rico and other sites where aggression against Cuba has been prepared the dismantling of training camps for mercenaries, spies, saboteurs and terrorists, or centers where subversion is prepared and the bases from which pirate ships sail against our shores."
The statement added that unless the "United States and its accomplices of aggression against Cuba accept this inspection by the United Nations on their territories, Cuba will not accept by any concept inspection" on its soil.
Castro originally had rejected any foreign inspection on Cuban soil. Then Khrushchev sent Mikoyan to talk with him, and Castro began to speak of opposition to "unilateral inspection." Sources at the United Nations said the Cubans and Soviets, in discussions of a Soviet-Cuban proposal for settling the Cuban crisis, were talking of inspection "on a basis of reciprocity to check on all aspects of any settlement."
2,000 WORDS
The Cuban statement, some 2,000 words long, said that if an agreement along Castro's lines is reached "Cuba would not have need of strategic weapons for its defense, foreign military personnel would be reduced to a minimum, and conditions would be created for a normal development of relations with the hemisphere's nations."
The statement added, however, that Cuba reserves the right to acquire arms of any type for its defense.
Signed by Castro and President Osvaldo Dorticos, the document labeled American policies warlike and insolent and declared that "U.S. aggressions" against Cuba forced the country to arm.
It added that while the U.S. naval blockade has been lifted, the economic boycott still in effect "contains the germs of an aggressive and provocative policy against our country."
FIRST-HAND
Soviet sources said Mikoyan wants to find out first-hand what has been said at the United Nations and in the United States while he was spending 24 days with Castro. He probably will leave for Moscow Tuesday after

Negro Leaders Are Taken To Task Following Brawl

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Negro writer has taken Washington Negro leaders to task for the brawl that broke out after the city high school football championship game.
Simon Booker, chief of the Washington Bureau of Ebony, Tan and Jet magazines, said in a letter to the Washington Post published today that Negroes were the most predominant offenders in the fighting that followed the Thanksgiving Day football game.
"The explosion of hate stemmed mostly from my own people," Booker wrote.
He added:
"Negro leadership in Washington has a responsibility to tackle this problem of roidism and juvenile delinquency—not by excuses or statements but planned community-wide programs.
"We must begin to develop citizenship programs among our youngsters. Segregation or discrimination may be an excuse, but it is not enough. Integration demands responsible citizens, and we must take the first step."

More than 50,000 fans—most of them Negroes—watched as predominantly white St. John's College High School, a Roman Catholic school, defeat Eastern, a mostly Negro public high school.
There was a brief skirmish between some players late in the game. Then, as the final gong sounded, fighting erupted inside and outside the stadium. Some officials said it was mostly racial violence, while others disagreed. No one was seriously injured.
Football and basketball playoffs between Roman Catholic and city schools were suspended indefinitely after the brawl.

U.S. Traffic Deaths Reach 505; Texas Leads Nation

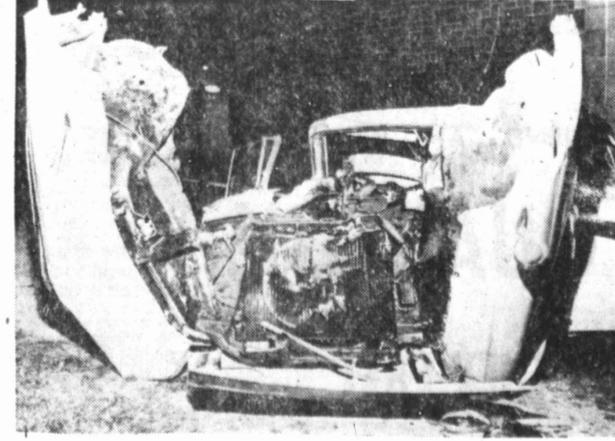

By The Associated Press
Traffic 505
Fires 48
Miscellaneous 150
Total 703
At least 505 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the nation's four-day Thanksgiving weekend. It was the highest toll for the holiday in recent years.
Forty-eight fire deaths and 150 fatalities in other types of accidents, including plane crashes, brought the total of those killed in all types of accidents during the 102-hour period to 703—also the highest number during five years of record-keeping.
The holiday period surveyed was that from 6 p.m. local time, Thanksgiving Eve to midnight Sunday.
Accident mortality for the Thanksgiving period has been recorded only since 1958. Before that, the fall holiday, coming near the middle of the week, had been generally considered a one-day

Anti-U.S. Wave Stirs Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan's government came under heavy pressure in the National Assembly today to drop its pro-Western alliances and line up with the neutral African-Asian bloc.
A wave of anti-Americanism swept the assembly as Parliament resumed debate on the supply of U.S. and British arms to India, Pakistan's old foe in a dispute over Kashmir.
Speaker after speaker urged that the government quit the Southeast Asia and Central Treaty organizations—SEATO and CENTO—as a protest and clasp extended hands of Red China and the Soviet Union.
The emotionally charged debate was coupled with demands for the resignation of Foreign Minister Mohammed Ali because of his alleged pro-Western policies.
The debate came in the wake of strong reports here that Communist China has offered a nonaggression pact to Pakistan.

Security Enters Officer's Trial

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—An Air Force general testified today at a court-martial that Col. John Herrington was taken into Air Force custody after the shooting of his wife because he knew vital defense secrets.
"At the time, I was most concerned for Col. Herrington . . . and I didn't want him to go on bond in his condition," said Brig. Gen. Carl Andrews.
Andrews is deputy commander of the San Antonio air materiel area.
The general said he felt Herrington had information which should be protected and not "given away free."
Herrington, 46, is charged with murder in the shooting of his wife. One son was seriously wounded and shots were fired at another son. Herrington has also been indicted by the Bexar County grand jury.
Andrews' testimony came on a defense motion to keep the military court from trying Herrington until after his civilian trial.
James Gardner, Herrington's civilian lawyer, asked Andrews if he knew that Herrington's previous assignment was in the intelligence office of the Pentagon in the thermodynamic weapons branch, and that he was a member of the joint atomic energy committee.
Andrews said he had seen Herrington's personnel record but could not recall his exact duties at the Pentagon.
The general did say that the combat veteran was director of special weapons at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio and his duties involved support of the Strategic Air Command.
Other witnesses related a meeting in the Bexar County district attorney's office Aug. 17 during which the Air Force asked Dist. Atty. Charles Lieck to relinquish jurisdiction in the case.
They testified that Lieck said

Market Rally In Fifth Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Demand for aerospace issues helped push the stock market rally into a fifth week early this afternoon.
Trading was active from the start and the ticker lagged behind floor transactions twice during the morning.
At noon the AP average of 60 stocks was higher by 1.1 at 239.3, or more than half of Friday's total gain. Industrials were up 1.5, rails ahead by 4 and utilities by .8.
Most gains of key stocks were fractional although some reached a full point. There was a scattering of small minus signs.

State Dept. Sees Fidel Offer As Inspection Dodge

WASHINGTON (AP)—A State Department spokesman described Cuba's proposal for inspections today as a move to avoid adequate international arrangements for making sure Cuba will not again become a base for offensive weapons.
But press officer Lincoln White declined to say that the United States is rejecting the proposal offered by the Fidel Castro regime.
Castro had offered to allow inspection of Soviet withdrawal of offensive weapons from Cuba if the United Nations confirms dismantling of bases from which anti-Castro exiles are operating against his regime.
The Cuban government statement constitutes an attempt to avoid adequate international arrangements for inspection and verification that Cuba will not once again become a base for offensive weapons. White said at a news conference.
"If the Cuban government is

Uruguay Sets Vote On Unique Ruling Method

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Voters in this smallest South American nation will decide whether to keep their unique chief executive system—the nine-man council of government.

The question is on the ballot in an election called to name a council, a 31-member senate, a 99-seat house of representatives and a host of municipal officers.

Most observers believe the electors will vote down the amendment that would revert to the one-man presidential power abandoned in 1952. Uruguay seems to like its collective executive power.

There are two dominant parties—the Blanco Party, returned to power in 1958 after nine years on the outside, and the Colorado Party.

Whichever party wins, Uruguay undoubtedly will keep its pro-Western, anti-Communist international stand. Candidates of both parties have followed this line. And the two parties command about 90 per cent of the vote in Uruguay.

Six seats in the council of government will go to the party winning a majority in parliament. The three others go to the second ranking party.

Some believe neither party will get control of congress. This would force the dominant party to deal with minor parties such as the Christian Democrats and the Socialists to gain control of congress. The Communists are a minor factor in Uruguay.

De Gaulle Wins Smashing Victory In French Election

PARIS (AP)—The long shadow of Charles de Gaulle stretched even farther across the French political landscape today in the glow of the president's resounding victory in national parliamentary elections.

In run-off contests Sunday De Gaulle's own party and others pledged to his support captured a clear majority in the National Assembly—the first time in modern French history that any cohesive force could claim such a margin.

Official results, combining first-round returns Nov. 18 and Sunday's runoffs, gave De Gaulle's Union for a New Republic (UNR) 233 of the 482 seats in the new National Assembly. Some 30 successful candidates from other parties were pledged to support De Gaulle.

De Gaulle had a combined support of more than 260 deputies, well above the 242 needed for control. In 1958 the UNR elected only 188 seats although De Gaulle's nationwide popularity and the pressure of the Algerian war kept a majority of the assembly obedient to him.

With returns from six overseas districts still unreported, the other 1958 result in parentheses: Independent-Republicans and Peasants 50 seats; 120; Popular Republican Movement (MRP) 38; 44; Radical-Socialists and allies 43; 36; Socialists 67; 40; Communists 41; 10; other 4.

The UNR collected 40.6 per cent of the vote, compared with 26.4 per cent in 1958. Of more than 21 million registered voters in districts voting Sunday, 15,420,148 went to the polls. The percentage of stay-at-homes, 30.7, was one of the highest for a legislative election in this century.

De Gaulle is expected to call on Premier Georges Pompidou to form a new government which may serve for much of the new assembly's five-year term. The elections were precipitated by the previous assembly's vote of no confidence in Pompidou, a vote that resulted from the politicians' anger because De Gaulle insisted on a popular referendum to provide for direct election of the president instead of referring the constitutional change first to the assembly.

The vote was a clear mandate for De Gaulle to carry on with policies which have given the country an unusual degree of political stability for the last four years.

In foreign affairs, the election result means a continuation of De Gaulle's independent or nationalist policy. France can be expected to resist European federalism, to continue to insist on building her own nuclear striking force and to oppose the American aim of an integrated European nuclear arm.

Despite its emergence as the largest single party in French parliamentary history, the UNR is still strictly a one-man show.

The party still lacks a solid, precinct-pounding grass roots organization to carry on after De Gaulle. The president himself has shown only scorn for party politics.

Huffstetler Funeral Set

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday for Luther Wiley Huffstetler, 51, who died Sunday about 10:15 a.m. in a local hospital following a heart attack earlier in the morning.

Mr. Huffstetler was assistant manager of Pinkies Liquor Stores and had worked with the firm the past eight years. He lived at 1219 E. 16th.

Born Oct. 22, 1911 at San Saba, he moved to Big Spring from San Antonio in 1948. He was married to the former Jamie Sims Nov. 23, 1944 in San Antonio. Mr. Huffstetler was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Services will be in the Nalley-Pickles Funeral Home chapel with his pastor, the Rev. E. A. Seddon Jr., officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickles.

Survivors include his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Sherry Tally, Big Spring; his mother, Mrs. Ruth Huffstetler, Big Spring; and two granddaughters.

First Thanksgiving Was In Virginia

BERKELEY PLANTATION, Va. (AP)—At about the time the Pilgrims were wondering if the Mayflower was safe to travel in, 39 colonists knelt on the sandy banks of the James River here to offer the first Thanksgiving.

It was Dec. 14, 1619, and the small band had just arrived in the struggling colony of Virginia after a 2½-month journey aboard the ship Margaret from Bristol, England.

With breastplates glinting in the low autumn sun and halberds at the ready, the colonists watched as Capt. John Woodleaf opened the company's charter and read its instructions.

"Impr we ordaine that the day of our ships arrival at the place assigned for the plantacon in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perpetually kept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

VIRGINIAN VIEW

This is the view held in Virginia, a state rarely known to be modest about its history.

In proclaiming Thanksgiving this year Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. ignored the long-accepted Plymouth Rock version and said the day would serve as a memorial to the Virginians "who gathered at Berkeley near Richmond in 1619 to observe America's first Thanksgiving ceremony."

Virginia's claim on the first Thanksgiving has been raised only in recent years, although the landing and the services at Berkeley are documented.

As an annual holiday, the state has celebrated Thanksgiving only for the past 77 years. In the years before and after the Civil War Virginia was only too happy to give all the credit to New England and ignore the whole affair.

TWICE MORE

Historians believe the settlers at Berkeley Hundred commemorated the landing again in 1620—the year the Pilgrims set foot on Plymouth Rock—and again in 1621.

Correspondence from the parent company in England reminded the colonists in August 1620 that the Thanksgiving was to be observed each year.

Plans for a fourth observance were ended by Chief Opechanchanough when he led an Indian uprising on Good Friday in 1623 and slew 350 settlers along the James.

The Virginia General Assembly set aside the date of the colony's deliverance from the "blondie massaker" for commemoration and it was observed for a number of years.

Four Persons Hurt In Wrecks

Four persons were taken to hospitals, treated for minor injuries and released, following two accidents in Big Spring Sunday afternoon.

Alan D. Doelp, 3225 Drexel, was taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital Foundation following a collision at Marcy and Virginia at 4:40 p.m. Driver of the second vehicle was Eugenia Ann Peacock, 529 Hillside.

The second collision, at Third and Main, at 7 p.m., sent three to Malone and Hogan Hospital. The driver of one car, Mrs. Henrietta D. Elliott, Midland, and her two daughters, Francine and Pamela, were treated for minor injuries. Driver of the second car was Danny Walling, 1749 Purdue.

Another collision was at the Tip-Top Drive-in. Drivers of the two vehicles were Vicky Green, Stanton, and Mary Frances King, Knott.

Big Spring police also investigated reports of two reckless drivers late Saturday night and early Sunday morning. One driver was located and given a ticket for running a stop sign and a complainant filed charges against the driver for running him off the road. The second driver was reported in the Ellis Homes area.

Noted Editor Ends His Life

LAMPASAS, Tex. (AP)—Stanley Walker, whose knack for chronicling a fabulous era won him fame as a New York editor, ended his life with a shotgun Sunday, two days before he was to undergo surgery for throat cancer.

Walker, 64, a busy author and magazine writer, returned in 1946 to the central Texas ranch near Lampasas where he was born.

It was on the front porch of the old ranch house, where most of his writing was done, that his wife found the body about an hour before noon. A shotgun lay close by. Justice of the Peace Casber Snell returned a coroner's verdict of suicide.

While Walker's health had been poor for some time, the man who became a legend as city editor of the New York Herald Tribune refused only Saturday night to confirm a report he was seriously ill. The New York Daily News said an operation for throat cancer had been planned Tuesday in Houston.

Friends disclosed after his death that Walker had written in somber vein the past few days. One letter to Will Fowler of Los Angeles, son of the late Gene Fowler—a close friend with whom Walker worked on New York newspapers in the 1920s—said:

"Along about day after tomorrow, down in Houston, in one of the world's finest institutions for such matters, I let the boys with the short shivs work on me (carcinoma of the throat, a spot about the size of a half-dollar). I suspect the worst, but I may pull out of it for a time. Don't bet, except against me."

In a letter to Associated Press newsman Ben Laime in St. Louis, Walker apologized for not supplying more information asked by Laime for a thesis. He added: "I'd answer in more detail if I could, but I'm in pretty bad shape and just on the verge of taking off for Houston to have my throat cut."

In another letter, to long-time newspaper friend Belle Rosenbaum, associate editor of the New York Herald Tribune, Walker wrote last Monday about his condition and his planned trip to Houston the next day. "Don't worry," he said, "and there isn't anything to do that isn't already being done."

Walker signed that missive "the sweet singer of hummingbird mesa."

Saturday night, Rosenbaum related, he was talking by telephone to Walker's wife, Helen, in Texas, when Walker took the phone and, in a voice which was strained and painful, said:

"Get my obit ready for Monday."

Arrangements were made to take the body to San Antonio for cremation today. A mortuary said Walker had asked that no funeral or memorial service be held. He requested that his ashes be scattered over the ranch.

A Texan who liked to wear Western garb, Walker started his career as a reporter for the Austin (Tex.) American. He was assistant editor of the Dallas News in 1918-19, before going to New York.

He was a rewrite man, night city editor and then city editor in 1928-35 for the New York Herald Tribune. In the next four years he was managing editor of the New York Mirror, news editor of the old New York American and worked for the New Yorker magazine and the since suspended New York Woman and went back for two years as editor and writer for the Herald Tribune.

Known for warm although often tart humor, Walker bossed the Herald Tribune city staff in a lively period including prohibition days, the depression and the start of the New Deal.

In addition to writing for magazines, Walker was author of such books as "City Editor," "Night Club Era," "Mrs. Astor's Horse," "Home to Texas," "Journey Toward the Sunlight," "Dewey: An American of This Century," and his last, published this fall, "Texas."

A New Top Dog Makes Room In The White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A black and tan German shepherd named Clipper has moved into the White House and from all signs he's going to be top dog.

For one thing, he's big enough—larger by a considerable margin than the two other canines who live in the executive mansion, a Welsh terrier named Charlie and Pushinka, a gift from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

For another, note the treatment Clipper got Sunday off the flight from Cape Cod—and the snub it meant for Charlie.

Clipper traveled by jet with President and Mrs. Kennedy and their daughter Caroline on their return from the long Thanksgiving weekend. Charlie made the trip in a propeller-driven White House plane.

Five-month-old Clipper was given to Mrs. Kennedy by her father-in-law, Joseph P. Kennedy, over the weekend. Once aboard, Caroline took over, leading the new pet through the presidential plane on his leash.

Caroline will have a joint birthday party with her baby brother John Jr. Tuesday. John spent the weekend at home because of a cold. Sunday was his second birthday. Tuesday is Caroline's fifth.

President and Mrs. Kennedy attended Mass at St. Francis Xavier Church in Hyannis, Mass. Sunday and drew a sizable crowd of spectators despite chilly weather.

Later, several members of the Kennedy family—among them Caroline, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his wife, the President's other brother, Edward M. Kennedy, and brothers-in-law Sargent Shriver and Stephen Smith—went ice-skating at a rink named for Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., the President's brother who was

Farmers Enjoy Increase In Marketings

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas farmers enjoyed an increase in marketings in the first nine months of this year.

An Agriculture Department report covering the January-September period shows this situation in the state:

Total farm marketings of $1,582,278,000 compared with $1,444,812,000 in the same 1961 period.

Nationally, farm marketings totaled $24.1 billion in the 1962 January-September period compared with $23.5 billion in similar 1961. The comparative figures for Texas' neighboring states, with those for 1962 and for last year in that order:

Oklahoma $463,998,000 and $488,755,000 (a decrease), New Mexico $110,448,000 and $100,053,000, Arkansas $363,298,000 and $329,602,000, Louisiana $259,707,000 and $207,588,000.

AROUND THE CAPITAL

Persons who get the urge to write their congressman were given some pointers recently by Rep. Bob Poage, Waco (D). In a letter to constituents he said:

1. Write your own letter (or card).
2. If you can, type it.
3. Be sure we can read your name and address on the letter, not simply on the envelope.

4. Give us enough background information so we can understand your problem. (Don't assume we know your situation.)
5. If possible, suggest how you think we can help.

6. If you refer to legislation, tell us why you are for or against it. Gaylor Armstrong, here from Temple, has a busy schedule. During the day he delivers mail on the House side of the Capitol and, at night, attends classes at George Washington University.

Armstrong, originally from Abilene, is a 1961 Baylor U. graduate and is seeking a masters in political science at GWU.

Rep. Poage sponsored him for the post. He gives him a good insight into the offices of the Speaker and many House committees.

Rep. Joe Kilgore, McAllen (D) is still smarting from an incident that occurred prior to the recent election.

He said a reporting service (Congressional Quarterly), to which some newspapers in his district subscribe had him incorrectly recorded on 10 of 12 House roll call votes. He discovered the error after editorial, critical of some of his votes, had been published.

Kilgore, after informing the newspapers of the error, investigated and learned this had happened.

The reporting service had neglected to change its perforated computer tapes when former Rep. Frank Icard, (D) Wichita Falls, resigned and was succeeded by Rep. Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls. Consequently, the service's list of Texas members was wrong for not only Kilgore, but also for Reps. George Mahon, Lubbock; Wright Patman, Texarkana; and Poage. Corrections were sent out after Kilgore complained. Kilgore, re-elected for another term, said:

"I don't know what a man would do if such a mistake cost him his seat in Congress. I think I'd sue."

King Arrives

THE HAGUE (AP)—King Mwambutsa IV of Burundi arrived Sunday night for an official visit to the Netherlands. He will be Queen Juliana's guest for lunch today at her country palace, Soestdijk, and will call on Premier Jan de Quay.

Treasure Hunt

Residents of Tezpur look for unburned currency in the ashes of a fire in front of the office of the State Bank in India, whose officials burned their money before evacuating the city in northern India. Many of the city's residents fled south ahead of advancing Communist Chinese troops.

Kennedy Hopes For Arms Pact

GENEVA (AP)—President Kennedy expressed the hope today that the new round of East-West disarmament negotiations will end "the upward spiral of weapons competition."

The President in a statement to be read to the reopening of the 17-nation conference said the talks should give priority to ending nuclear weapon tests once and for all.

"A moment may be at hand to initiate the beginning of the end of the upward spiral of weapons competition," the President said.

Kennedy noted that the United States has completed a recent series of atmospheric nuclear tests. There is hope, he said, that the Soviet Union will conclude its test series soon, and this suggests that the time may be ripe for a real start toward halting the arms spiral.

Apparently with the Cuban crisis primarily in mind, the President said that crucial developments within recent weeks confirmed the need and urgency of the task before the Geneva conference.

"It is clear," he said, "that a renewed and immediate effort must be made to halt the constantly increasing tempo of the arms race if there is to be assurance of a lessening of the danger of war."

"It is, therefore, my continued hope that serious negotiations will proceed at once on those initial measures of disarmament which could, if put into effect without delay, materially improve international security and enhance the prospects for further disarmament progress."

Guatemalan Army Crushes Pro-Red Rebels

GUATEMALA (AP)—The Guatemalan army quickly crushed a Sunday morning revolt in which the government said pro-Communist air force rebels strafed the presidential palace and an army barracks with machinegun and rocket fire from two commandeered warplanes.

President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes charged that the abortive coup was "one of the many" directed at his republic by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Two civilians were reported killed.

Mrs. Philip Snare, of Buffalo, N.Y., wife of the political attaché to the American Embassy, was among some 30 persons injured. A bullet struck her in the arm as she stood by a window.

Most of the other injured, including a number of children, were struck by bullets from the rebel planes attacking the barracks.

Anti-aircraft batteries downed one plane. The pilot was presumed killed.

Ydigoras, 67-year-old army general, said his office and the bedrooms of his grandsons received several direct hits. The president and his grandsons were in other rooms when the shooting started at 9:30 a.m.

About 2 1/2 hours later all shooting ceased and the government reported the situation was well under control.

Several rebel air force officers were arrested by army troops. Other rebels, including four colonels the government said led the surprise uprising, fled or took asylum in foreign embassies.

Ydigoras told the nation in a broadcast "this revolt is one of the many directed at us by Senor Castro."

He said that Arnulfo Parada Tovar, former director of the Guatemalan University Students Association, had received $300,000 from Cuba to finance the uprising. Ydigoras has blamed Castro sympathizers or Communists for other riots, revolts and plots that have plagued this Central American since he became president in 1958.

Anti-government activity increased after Ydigoras announced last January that some of the Cuban exiles in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of 1961 had trained in Guatemala.

Police patrolled the streets Sunday night but Ydigoras said in a telephone interview "it is not necessary to suspend constitutional liberties." Civilians resumed normal activities.

Mountain Climber Is Killed In Fall

STORM MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP)—Three mountain climbers, roped together, fell from a crevice on Storm Mountain Sunday onto rocks 100 feet below.

Galen Jorgenson, 22, Salt Lake City was killed. Paul Burton, 22, and Carletta Ybarguen, 21, both of Salt Lake City, were injured. Burton was in critical condition.

MEN PAST 40

Troubled with GETTING UP NIGHTS
Pains in BACK, HIPS, LEGS
Tiredness, LOSS OF VIGOR

If you are a victim of these symptoms then your troubles may be traced to Glandular Inflammation. Glandular inflammation is a constitutional disease and medicines that merely give temporary relief cannot be expected to remove the causes of your troubles.

Neglect of Glandular Inflammation often leads to premature senility and to incurable conditions.

The past year men from 1,000 communities have been successfully treated here at Excelsior Springs. They have found soothing relief and improved health.

The Excelsior Medical Clinic, devoted to the treatment of diseases peculiar to older men, has a New FREE BOOK that tells how these troubles may be corrected by proven NON-SURGICAL TREATMENTS. This book may prove of utmost importance in your life. No obligation.

REDUCIBLE HERNIA
It is also amenable to a mild Non-Surgical treatment available here.
RECTAL-COLON DISORDERS
Are often associated with Glandular Inflammation. Either of these disorders may be treated at the same time you are receiving treatment for Glandular Inflammation.

A Devotional For The Day

God is greatly to be feared in the assembly of the saints, and to be had in reverence of all them that are about him. (Psalms 89:7.)
PRAYER: Gracious Father, when we enter into a place of worship, help us to be reverently aware of Thy presence. Guide and inspire us with an increasing sense of Thy great love. In the name of our Redeemer, who taught us to pray the perfect prayer, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Long-Time Drivers Not Always Best

It is commonly assumed that automobile drivers of long experience are pretty sure to be good drivers. This assumption does not give due weight to the fact that many drivers simply become more set in their bad driving habits the longer they drive. There also is evidence that a lot of experienced drivers have only a vague understanding of basic rules of the road.

This was underscored the other day by William S. Hults, New York state commissioner of motor vehicles. He told of examinations given drivers who have lost their licenses because of traffic violations. Many who have held licenses for as long as 20 years, he said, have failed to answer correctly even five out of 20 basic questions on rules of the road.

These and similar findings in other states strongly argue the need for a systematic re-examination process for drivers. Refresher courses on regulations and on techniques of driving would do much to expose poor drivers and to improve their driving.

Such courses would be expensive; there is no doubt of it. But would the cost be even a substantial fraction of the present accident toll—a toll measured not only in property damage, work-time lost and medical expenses, but also in terms of physical suffering and lives lost? That is the question to consider.

Formidable Task

Enthusiasm is restrained, with wait-and-see reservations, on President Kennedy's appointment of former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter as chief U. S. trade negotiator with the European Common Market. There is concern that what the appointment gains in bipartisan congressional support for administration of the new Trade Expansion Act may be offset by a loss of aggressiveness in the tough, tedious bargaining that lies ahead.

The former congressman and Republican governor of Massachusetts who succeeded the late John Foster Dulles as secretary of state, is a highly respected statesman who actively and intelligently supported Kennedy's campaign for more flexible foreign trade policy to deal with the European Common Market's impact on free-world trade patterns. Undoubtedly his appointment will be reassuring to those who fear that our domestic industries may not be adequately safeguarded and assisted through the foreseen adjustment period.

Nevertheless, as secretary of state, mild and moderate Herter is hardly outstanding as a tough and shrewd negotiator. At 67 and not in the best of health, Herter is undertaking a task that may severely strain his stamina.

But the concern for Herter's appropriateness for his new role will be allayed if he can concentrate on policy guidance and administration, while recruiting a first-rate team of negotiators to handle the hard and lengthy bargaining.

Secretary of Agriculture, Freeman's warning to the European Common Market last week—that the U. S. will not accept undue restrictions on its farm exports as the price for freer access to European industrial markets—pointed up just one of the knotty problems facing U. S. trade policy. Certainly the national interest compels hope for Herter's success in the difficult mission that has been entrusted to him, but he is going to need all the help he can get, both in executive assistance and popular and congressional support to carry it out. His is a formidable responsibility, for both the growth of this nation's economy and improved free-world cooperation and strength depend heavily on the trade program he will manage.

Khushchev Has Bested Us In Cuba

WASHINGTON — The Cuban problem will drag along for months, if not years. On balance, today the Soviets are ahead of us. They have won a beachhead in Cuba, which now has become a full-fledged member of the Communist bloc. It's the first conquest by the Communists in this hemisphere.

Moscow played a crafty game and got the prize it wanted—a potential military base within 90 miles of the United States.

MOSCOW PUT offensive weapons into Cuba. Withdrawal now doesn't mean they cannot be secretly replaced later.

Moscow got away without a public denunciation of her course in terms of world policy. Even the allies of the United States, while sympathizing with this country's position, took no steps to condemn the Soviets before the whole world for having aimed an aggressive military action against the American people.

Moscow has elected in behalf of Castro a public pledge from the President of the United States that America's military forces will not invade Cuba. This promise has been given notwithstanding the historic policy of the United States—as enunciated in the Monroe Doctrine—that no European power will be permitted to establish its "system" in any country in this hemisphere.

MOSCOW IS free to render to Cuba any aid of a military nature—and the United States acquiesces—provided only that the weapons are for "defensive" purposes. A lieutenant general of the U. S. Army, who served in World War II in Europe and now is retired, wrote this correspondent the other day about the buildup of "defensive" arms in Cuba. He says:

"How naive can the American people get? A universal and basic principle of war is that the best defense is an effective offense. Name any offensive flame-thrower or 'hardened' defensive weapon and I'll furnish the most retaliatory power of the United States today is considered by our government and the people as 'defensive,' not offensive."

THIS UNDOUBTEDLY reflects the viewpoint of many a military officer in the Pentagon who has been forbidden to talk to the press.

It is true that President Kennedy is asking for and still hopes some day to get on-the-spot inspection in Cuba to determine whether the missiles and strategic bombers have been withdrawn. But already the President has made a concession by affirming that he merely wants "offensive" weapons removed. The haggling as to what constitutes "defensive" or "offensive" weapons will go on for a long, long time.

MEANWHILE, Castro is assured against any military act by the United States to liberate the people of Cuba. Even the Cuban exiles are in an anomalous position now, for they don't know whether, if they try to recover control of their native land, the United States may find itself committed by President Kennedy's pledge of "no invasion" to prevent any expedition directed toward Cuba not only from the territory of this country but from any Latin-American country.

Before the missile incident, Castro had no such protection. It was feared by him that the "Bay of Pigs" invasion might be repeated. The Russians now have secured for him a pledge against this from the United States. Their clever strategy in setting up missiles and then withdrawing them in exchange for American assurances of no invasion has paid off.

THE PRESIDENT, in his press conference last Tuesday, obliterated the prospect of any military aid to the Cuban people to regain their independence. He merely said the United States "will not abandon our purpose and hope that the Cuban people some day be truly free."

He then added quickly: "But these policies are very different from any intent to launch a military invasion of the island."

One of the newsmen at the same press conference said to the President that there "appeared to be an implication that possibly you would be willing to guarantee Castro against any and all enemies anywhere." But the President dodged a direct answer and merely said that the statement he had made, and which is quoted above, "describes very clearly what the policy of the government is in regard to 'no invasion.'"

SO THE CUBAN exiles who have been hoping for some kind of help in the United States to enable them to take military measures to rescue their fellow countrymen in Cuba now find themselves checked.

No satisfactory way moreover has been agreed upon to make sure that all the so-called "offensive" weapons will have been removed. Castro is being given ample time to hide them. The Washington "Post," often a supporter of administration policies, has just said:

"VERIFICATION of the kind contemplated in the exchange of letters between the President and Premier Khrushchev has not been accomplished and safeguards against the future introduction of offensive weapons have not been devised. These are matters of the utmost importance to this country and the execution of the American part of the bargain cannot be expected as long as these defects persist."

So, for the time being anyway, Castro and Khrushchev are ahead of the game while the American people—frightened by the missile threat which was part of a phony strategy of deception in the first place—now are being told only that they have been saved from a terrible war and that compromises and concessions were necessary.

Nehru And Psychosis Of Fear

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "psychosis of fear" has overtaken Prime Minister Nehru who did what he said couldn't be done and is asking for that which he always condemned.

He said no one could be an isolationist anymore but he became a neutral which meant isolation. He wanted no part of military aid but called for it when the Red Chinese overran his frontiers.

This in part explained the complicated dilemma of the complicated man who persisted in befriending, trusting and excusing the Chinese. They thanked him by invading India.

HE TOLD the American Congress 13 years ago:

"Whether we want to or not we realize that we simply cannot exist in isolation. No country can certainly we cannot. Our geography, our history, the present picture."

Then he went home and did the opposite. He may return now to the 1949 view. In the intervening years he wanted no military entanglements with the West or communism, insisted on paying for the aid he got.

HIS FRIEND and biographer, Frank Moraes, an Indian editor, wrote:

"In his (Nehru's) view to accept foreign military aid from abroad, quite apart from negating India's independence policy, would envelop her in the large psychosis of fear which he has consistently condemned."

In 1949 he made an unsuccessful bid for American aid—without strings. Now he's in a rush to get American military aid. If he tries to pay, the terms will be very lenient.

Yet, it was Nehru who denounced the United States for giving military aid to his neighbor, Pakistan, which ignored isolation and joined the Western alliance.

BUT HE asks military help when he has for more military force than he used against the Chinese who burst across his northeast and northwest borders. Perhaps 80 per cent of his army has been immobilized watching Pakistan.

HE got himself into this box as a result of a problem he might have solved long ago but wouldn't. The roots of this one run deep.

In India the Hindus have far outnumbered the Moslems who feared, when the British granted independence in 1947, that they would be an overwhelmed minority. They demanded and got their own separate state of Pakistan.

Kashmir — up in the northwest corner of India with its frontiers on India, Pakistan and China — has a population 77 per cent Moslem and has been a bleeding sore for both India and Pakistan since they got their independence.

WHEN BRITAIN pulled out of India it gave up the so-called princely states there, leaving it to the princes or maharajas to join Pakistan or India.

In two of them—Junagadh and Hyderabad, where the population was mostly Hindu but the rulers were Moslem—Indian troops just went in and took over. In most Moslem Kashmir the ruling clique was Hindu.

When this group was getting ready to turn Kashmir over to India, a rioting began between Moslems and Hindus. Moslem tribesmen came in from Pakistan to help the Moslems. India sent in troops.

The United Nations finally got a cease-fire and proposed that the people be allowed to vote on whether they wanted to join Pakistan or India. Nehru refused to agree to the plebiscite. His troops are still there, facing Pakistani troops.

THERE MOST of them stayed this autumn when the Red Chinese, who also claim part of Kashmir, came down over the northern frontier.

Only In Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a communist might never know if he didn't open his mouth:

Half the American people have some sort of eye trouble.

One big reason why only 20 per cent of medical students plan to become general practitioners is that they make only about $16,000 annually but specialists earn about $35,000.

Weather forecasting by kites was introduced in 1700 by Dr. Alexander Wilson of Glasgow. The U. S. Weather Bureau also sent its thermometers aloft in kites until 1939 when it switched to high-altitude balloons.

There was such a thing as a $3 bill. It was issued by the Republic of Texas in the 1840s.

If America ever adopts the metric system, think what it will do to some of our familiar expressions. "A miss is as good as a 1,609 kilometers." "I wouldn't touch him with a 3,049 meter pole."

Only 9 per cent of the U. S. employed population works on farms, and our problem is food surpluses. In the Soviet Union 48 per cent of its workers labor on farms, and their problem is food shortages.

"Man is an animal that makes hardens, no other animal does this—no dog exchanges bones with another." —Adam Smith.

Among new paper products being developed are fire-and-water-resistant uniforms, shirts that can be worn once and discarded, non-skid, long-wearing, frost-proof coatings for highways.

Some 40 viruses are believed involved in the common cold. That's why science is having such a hard time coming up with an all-purpose cure.

Researchers have found that, because of poor listening habits, most people forget in two days up to 75 per cent of what they hear. But is that such a bad idea—considering what they hear?

Frogs can catch athlete's foot. The king of hearts is the only king in a 52-card deck who doesn't wear a mustache as well as a beard. The cleanest air is over deserts. President Zachary Taylor never voted until he was 62.

It was Don Herold who observed: "Pressure is more trouble than trouble."

Electrolysis Only Effective Way To Remove Hair

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I have superfluous hair on my lip and chin. It is so embarrassing I can't be myself around friends. They all have pretty complexions. What can I do? If I use tweezers, the hair grows in stiff. Can the hair be removed permanently except with an electric needle? Why do some women have this problem? —P.P.

Hair is part of the skin, a protective measure, but it varies somewhat according to sex, race, family, etc.

Only rarely is excess hair the result of any health factor. True, disorders of the adrenal, ovarian or pituitary glands can cause it but such cases are uncommon. Extensive treatment with cortisone or ACTH preparations may sometimes increase hair growth but such cases are uncommon, too.

Occasionally at menopause the shift in hormone balance causes a heavier growth of hair but this condition can't be helped.

The only answer is bleaching or removal of unwanted hair either temporarily or permanently. Either plucking, as you have done, or shaving will remove hair but it will grow again. It does not become either stiffer or heavier because of this, but it sometimes seems to, because when the new growth is short it feels stubbly.

too, has plenty of hair but it is hardly visible because of the light color. For that reason a good many women merely bleach the hairs, and nobody notices them. Of course you have to keep doing this as new dark growth appears.

Depilatory creams can be used to remove the hair, but it will grow in again, of course. The only limitation to the use of these creams is that a few people find them irritating to the skin.

Electrolysis—or use of an "electric needle"—will destroy the roots of the hairs, which is the only sure method of getting rid of it permanently. It is tedious and consequently expensive, but it works.

As to all your friends having pretty complexions, I'd make a bet that they have their problems, too, using creams or other applications to cover blemishes. We all have our problems.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband ate a salmon sandwich 10 years ago and was put in the hospital with food poisoning. The rest of the family ate the same with no ill effects.

He claims if he eats a bite of fish, fresh or canned, he will end up in the hospital again. I say this is silly, as we love to go fishing but he won't eat what he catches. Will your please advise? —MRS. C. W.

The fact that nobody else got sick 10 years ago should convince him that something else made him sick but if he has been obsessed this long with the notion, I don't know how to change his mind. He could have an allergy, of course.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is goiter hereditary? If not, what causes it? My grandmother had one, my aunt did, and now my doctor tells me I have one. I am 28. Is there any treatment or medication? —MRS. E. S.

Goiters do occur in families, but it depends on the type of goiter. Likewise goiter is more common in some areas (around the Great Lakes, for instance) because of a death of natural iodine, so iodized salt is widely used. Treatment also depends on the type of goiter.

Fat! My leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing," tells how to get rid of it the easy way. For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Around The Rim

'Typing' In The N.Y. Theatre

It has often been said of residents of our No. One city (population-wise) that to them "everything (outside New York is Bridgeport)" or words to that effect.

In other words, if you're not lucky enough to be living within the confines of that great metropolis you're "bush." You're back in the hills. You're down on the farm. Strictly off the wall.

THEY THEORIZE that anyone with undeniable talent soon beats a path to Gotham. Even those rare individuals have to earn their welcome.

Judging from the theatre they offer, it's little wonder the New York City citizenry comes to feel that way. The legitimate stage in New York is highly successful, if it achieves financial security at all, and renowned the world over.

The argument that it reflects true Americana is something else again. The oblique, the suggestive, the weird approach is welcomed by the titans who create and produce along theatre row in New York and the contributors dare not stray far from the prescribed theme.

TO THE AVERAGE writer of a Broadway play, the typical Mississippi white is a moral leper whose wife, a descendant of a Confederate Army colonel, imbibes in the second floor quarters she rarely leaves and who is on the way to becoming a mental case.

The average Texan is depicted by the writers' colony as a loud-mouthed oil man with a penchant for blurring out inainties in otherwise-polished social gatherings and then trying to repair the havoc he has wrecked by throwing his money around. Either that type is crystallized or the scribes' make use of the "tall in the saddle" ranch type who suffers because his gorgeous wife is a nymphomaniac who has been carrying on with some of the hired help.

THE ENGLISHMAN is invariably typical, too. He usually is an austere individual whose eyes reflect world weariness and from whose lips flow romantic and beautiful bon mots.

The writing colony works under the theory that if it sells, it is right, no matter how far from reality it might be. It all goes along with the attitude of people in other lands have Americans, that the one great passion in the United States is that for making money and you dare not fail at it, no matter how noble your causes might be.

THE IMPRESSION the legitimate stage—not to mention the allied professions cause, however, is often frustrating—if not downright embarrassing. Especially if you are a Texan who doesn't own a Stetson hat, wear a big belt buckle and can point to a bank account built by a couple of producing oil wells. Or happen to be a rational resident of Mississippi, far removed from the anti-Bellamy days and times.

Let 'Em Have Titles—For A Price

All my life I have longed to do something great and heroic: for my own, my native land. (I belong to a generation that was brought up to worship American heroes and, with mother's milk, absorbed the idea that this was God's country and anyone who thought otherwise would be struck by lightning if his pa didn't take him to the woodsshed first.)

HOWEVER, my heroism consists of getting up the scratch annually to pay Uncle Sam my share of the taxes. Just about that and nothing more. Except—except, that for some years I have been promoting a sure-fire way to pay off the national debt.

Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans have been able to make a dent in that great ball of wax. And you would think they either or both would like a little practical help with the problem, especially when like Topsy, it jes' keeps growing year by year.

BUT, IF YOU think that, you don't know jealous politicians. Secretaries of the Treasury under Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy have so far ignored my sure-fire solution. If they'd pay a little attention in Washington, I could even help them plug up the hole after they lop that projected $10 billions off the tax roles in '63.

Now my plan for paying off the national debt and ease the tax burden—and painlessly, too—is to sell titles. Americans—rich, poor and middlin'—clearly love a resounding title. We annually elect more queens and kings of this-and-that than are recorded in all of written history, or in legend before some genius invented writin'.

NOR IS THAT sufficient to slack our thirst for a resounding handle. Sweet charity, at least in New York City, has taken to importing royalty as a gimmick to raise money for this or that good cause—some princeling without a country and these aren't hard to come by—princes minus countries, that is, or some princess with a yen to see America first on the cuff.

SO THE COMMITTEE contacts His or Her Royal Highness, arranges a deluxe free trip to America on the proviso that he or she attend the charity ball and cast his royal glamour over these proceedings in a democratic society. In turn, the committee and those attending the ball have the rare privilege of cursing or bending from he waist when presented to the Highness, and no one can deny that this is a very thrilling privilege indeed!

Sometimes the Highness hasn't been courted or bowed to in years and is a bit taken aback by American preoccupation with court etiquette, as was the nice young man who was imported a few years ago. It developed that since he fled to England, after his Balkan country was overrun first by the Nazis and then the Communists, he has helped support himself as an apple farmer.

ANYWAY, my solution is an American-do-it-yourself title program. Let us create a system of non-hereditary titles in this country, to be auctioned off for all their worth in each generation. That is, when the Duke of Dallas and the Marquis of Milwaukee or the Prince of Palsen, maybe, are gathered to their fathers, the titles are up for grabs again, to the highest bidder.

Mark my words, if we adopt this system and apply the money to the national debt, we'll pay it off in 10 years or less. Every man a king, every woman a queen—who can afford it. And the tax-collector take the windfall!

When The Middle Way Is The Wrong Way

LONDON — It is a utopian dream, no doubt intensified by an age where Fascism and Communism have been alternately vicious, to seek the misty never-never land called Moderation. The excesses of the Right in free nations like the United States and United Kingdom, are expressed in super-patriotism and an over-emphasis upon national security. The Left goes berserk on internationalism, so much so that spies are over-protected. Moderation a panacea for both extremes? You'd have a hard time to prove it these days in America or in England.

MODERATION in President Kennedy and in the other two postwar Presidents caused them to put no credence in reports of bad faith by "security risks" at home and Russians in the Kremlin. Mr. Kennedy had to see hard proof in the form of aerial photographs before he would believe that Cuba was being fortified with offensive weapons.

He did not go to the one extreme of believing that the only good Communists are dead ones, else he would have rubbed Red Cuba out of existence long ago. He did not go to the other extreme of believing, with Democratic Senators like Clark and Fulbright, that Castro was no menace whatever, else he would never have ordered aerial surveillance. But the President's moderate position became one of delay. He finally called the Russians liars and acted strongly, but the Moderation put the American nation in peril of its life.

MODERATION is also afflicting the other partner of Anglo-American leadership, Prime Minister Macmillan. He does not like to believe in spies. He abhors the indecent proposition of homosexualists-to-government. He prefers being trustful to being suspicious. Like Mr. Kennedy, he will do what he has to at the last, but he is an orthodox Moderate—a wait-and-see man. He demands visible proof, like those aerial photos, before he believes the worst about "subversives" at home and blackguards in the Kremlin.

Whether an Anglo-American chief of state has a right to be quite so restrained is a matter of honest duty in our age. A good many Englishmen, by birth and adoption, named MacLean, Burgess, Fuchs, Portland and others, have spied for the Russians, some of them because of homosexual blackmail. Yet in the House of Commons, Mr. Macmillan indignantly cried "McCarthyism" over a case that seemingly fits a nauseous but familiar formula.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

AN ADMIRALTY CLERK named Vassal was charged and convicted, after much delay of selling code secrets to Russia. A high Admiralty official named Galbraith whose position was the equivalent of our Under Secretary of Navy, is said to be indecently implicated. Mr. Macmillan had to be driven, much as Mr. Kennedy was driven, to believe the worst—and yet "the worst" had happened many times before, and "the worst" was aimed at the literal destruction of the nation whose safety Mr. Macmillan has in charge.

IT IS PERTINENT that on the very day the Prime Minister finally agreed, under public pressure, to a full inquiry, a sub-member of his Cabinet, Charles Ian Orr-Ewing, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, made an astonishing luncheon speech in London, declaring that "thousands" of Soviet spies are at large in Britain. He said:

"They are in the embassies, the consulates and the trade missions. There are not a dozen, or a hundred, but thousands of them. They are all trained to detect weakness in character, weakness of drink, blondes, drugs and homosexuality. These are carefully card-indexed for future use."

PERTINENTLY, again, the Russians aimed in Cuba and in London at hitting the one Anglo-Saxon power that is overwhelmingly superior—the Naval power. Missiles in the Caribbean could hit American cities over the mastheads of our fleet. Vassall and Galbraith are both Admiralty figures. Russia has over 400 submarines, and is striving by every means to counter Anglo-American anti-submarine warfare knowledge and tactics. Russia is building a Navy which is already superior to Britain's and second only to that of the United States.

IT DOES NOT follow from the past that everybody in Washington and London accused of subversion and homosexuality is a spy and traitor. It may be that excessive concern with national security and excessive concern with innocent-till-proved-guilty are equally reprehensible. But Moderation, which falls between these two extremes, is not much good either.

Presidents and Prime Ministers ought to know what century they're living in. It is not so much a century of "enlightenment" as it is a century of dirty tricks and constant danger. We don't need moderates to lead us. We need realists.

DEAR ABBY

Treat Him Like A Child

DEAR ABBY: Our son had only one more year before graduating from law school when his wife made him quit. She said there was no future in law. She talked him into selling on commission. One week they eat chicken and the next week they eat feathers. Now she says they need $1,000 to get his teeth fixed—"business reasons." How can teeth be important in business unless you are a horse? If she would let him finish law school, he would have something in his head and nobody would look at his teeth. She has made a horse of him! He's our only son and we love him. Should we give him the money?

THE OLD FOLKS DEAR ABBY: If your son is required to meet the public, his teeth ARE important. You don't help children (some child!) stand alone by GIVING them things. LEND him the money.

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor who is a nice person, but she has a 4-year-old boy who has long curls hanging down his back. He can almost sit on his hair and it is a pity to see how the other children tease that boy. Even adults look at him twice and wonder whether he is a boy or a girl. The woman is either divorced, deserted or separated because there is never a husband around. Some of the neighbors say it's none of our business, but I think it is. Am I wrong to worry about the child?

JUST A NEIGHBOR DEAR NEIGHBOR: No, you are not wrong. The mother is doing her son a great disservice. Perhaps you should become friendlier with the mother and tell her in a nice way to separate the boy from the curls.

DEAR ABBY: Although I am only 15, I am the "Dear Abby" of our block. I've helped many girls (and some boys) with their problems, but there is one that has me stumped. A girl (my age) is madly in love with my brother. He is 17 and he can't stand her. This girl tells me she can't eat or sleep for thinking about him. She says he's not good-looking, is conceited and treats her like dirt, but she is an emotional wreck over him. I told her she might as well forget him, but she says she can't. If she knew how my brother really felt about her she would die. How can I help this girl?

DEAR ABBY OF WASHINGTON STREET DEAR "DEAR ABBY": Your advice was exactly what mine would have been. To give her false hope would be cruel. Tell her to focus her attention elsewhere because your brother likes her "as a friend" and nothing more.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to fall in love with a picture? C.C. DEAR C.C.: Yes, but it invariably ends in frustration because a picture can't love back.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B.C.C.: As Lord Chesterfield said to his son, "Make other people like themselves a little better, my son, and I promise you they will like you very well."

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Kilroy, War Legend, Dies

BOSTON (AP)—James Kilroy, 60, who became a World War II legend with the slogan "Kilroy was here," died Saturday night. The words "Kilroy was here," coupled with a sketch of a man peering over a wall, appeared all over the world, wherever American soldiers went. The Kilroy legend had an unpretentious beginning. Kilroy went to work as an inspector at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s shipyard in Quincy two days before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941. In the course of his duties, Kilroy started marking "Kilroy was here" on equipment to show test gangs he had checked a job. But soon the words caught on at the shipyard and Kilroy began finding his slogan written all over the installation. It wasn't long before the phrase spread far beyond the bounds of the shipyard and the name Kilroy became one of the most famous to come out of the war.

Convicts Turn Services Into Terror Scene

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP)—Three convicts turned chapel services at Folsom State Prison into a scene of death and terror Sunday.

Brandishing prison-made weapons, they took over the service being conducted by the Rev. Frank Mapes and a 15-man choir from Sacramento's Bethel Temple a Protestant church.

They fatally stabbed a worshiping prisoner who tried to cut short their futile escape plot. For four hours the trio held the Rev. Mr. Mapes, the Rev. Heath Lowry, a part-time Protestant chaplain, and five of the choir singers in a tiny office in one corner of the old stone chapel.

Their plan apparently was to persuade guards to let them walk free while using the hostages as shields. They would have had to pass through at least four gates to reach freedom.

After a series of conferences through a broken window with officials — including the state's top prison officer, Richard A. McGee — the trio released the hostages and turned over their weapons.

The hostages appeared unharmed as they emerged from the prison, where the toughest criminals in California are kept. "Oh, yes, we will be back," the Rev. Mr. Mapes told a reporter.

Inside the chapel, guards stripped the surrendered convicts to be sure there were no concealed weapons. They were then taken to separate cells while Dist. Atty. John M. Price determines what charges to file.

Warden Robert A. Heinze identified the three convicts, all serving life sentences, as Edward William Maher, 27, and Edward Vaughn, 29, each convicted of first-degree robbery, and Farrell H. Fenton, 29, convicted of second-degree murder and robbery.

Officials said they had not determined which of the three stabbed Conrad N. Becker, 41, serving a term for burglary.

Donald Davis, one of the 10 visiting singers who escaped the chapel along with about 50 prisoners of the congregation, said Becker was sitting on an aisle seat. He grabbed the first of the trio as they walked to the front waving their weapons—half a scissor, a sharpened letter opener and a wooden club.

Becker was stabbed in the upper abdomen and fell to the floor but he rose again and tackled his assailant a second time. Then he fell back mortally wounded. He died in the prison hospital without naming his attacker.

Horse Supermarkets Growing In Southwest

By BOB GRAY
Editor Horseman Magazine
Written For The Associated Press

"Supermarkets" for horses are growing in Texas and the Southwest. And they're providing for the horse industry what the weekly cattle auctions in most Texas counties provide for the cow business.

These supermarkets are simply open consignment sales. The buyer has a seemingly endless variety of merchandise from which to pick.

Since they attract big crowds, usually, the seller has a vast number of potential customers. The seller has the pass-out privilege—if he doesn't like the highest bid on his horse he doesn't have to sell.

HELD MONTHLY
The best-known of the open sales are usually held monthly. Perhaps the largest in the nation, is that staged every month in Fort Smith, Ark.

At his first open sale there in the fall of 1961, Harris sold 350 head in 12 hours.

Key Provision In Red China Truce Rejected

NEW DELHI (AP)—An Indian spokesman rejected today the key provision in Communist China's proclamation of a cease-fire in The Himalayas and withdrawal of Chinese troops.

Peking's withdrawal plan would leave its troops deep in Indian territory, the spokesman said, and India cannot allow China "in reward of aggression to extend their unlawful control of Indian territory."

Since the cease-fire was put into effect by China last Wednesday, Indian troops have observed it. This was the first direct comment on the Chinese proclamation, although there have been government indications that its terms were unacceptable.

The spokesman said after reading a prepared statement that the Chinese proclamation is still under consideration. But his statement appeared to leave no room for India to accept it.

India is believed to be stalling for time to rebuild its badly smashed army before rejecting or openly violating the terms of the proclamation and thus ending the cease-fire.

Prime Minister Nehru has been reported as saying there is no reason for Indian troops to fire when the Chinese have promised withdrawal toward the border on their own. Peking has said the withdrawal will begin Saturday.

The trouble is, the spokesman said, that the Chinese want to set the border at a point inside Indian territory.

Even as he talked, huge U.S. transport planes were airlifting Indian supplies toward the border to beef up Indian forces during the lull.

Five pleas of guilty were heard by Judge Caton Monday morning and a number of other defendants had informed the court they desired to follow the same route.

John I. Lewis, charged with burglary, admitted on the stand that he had a prior record of offenses and was sentenced to serve two years in prison.

Charles Ray Blackstock, charged with DWI second offense, was sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail and pay a fine of $250.

Francise Jose Gatloff, charged with DWI second, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $250. Gil Jones, district attorney, had recommended a year's suspended sentence in this case.

Ray Robinson, charged with theft, was in court at noon and said he wished to plead guilty. Evidence in his case was being heard.

Christmas Kettles To Go Out Friday

Christmas kettles of the Salvation Army will make their appearance on Big Spring streets Friday if the weather permits, according to Major Robert Short, commander of the local post. In the event of inclement weather, they will go out Saturday, in any case.

Funds received through the kettles are used to purchase food for needy families. About $2,500-$3,000 will be needed to meet this year's needs, Major Short said.

Volunteers are being recruited to man the kettles, he said. On occasion, members of local civic clubs take over the work at the booths. One such group has already asked for a day's assignment.

Two main kettles will be located in the downtown area, with a third working part-time in front of the Post Office. Supplemental kettles may be placed in the shopping areas away from downtown.

Last year 320 families were given assistance. The food baskets distributed contain all the basic items—meat, potatoes, sugar, flour, cornmeal and a fruit cake. Cost of each is about $10. Last year the bill totaled $2,449.07 and only $2,094.08 was taken in.

Applications for the Christmas baskets will be taken from 10 a. m. Tuesday until Dec. 12.

No Work Expected For Jury Panel

A jury panel of 102 citizens is slated to report to Judge Ralph Caton in 11th District Court Tuesday morning but it appeared at noon today there would be no work for the jury to perform. A criminal docket set for trial this week seemed scheduled to terminate today—pleas of guilty and failure of defendants to report having eliminated the necessity for jury trials.

Robert Ray Doyle, charged with DWI second, Bishop Johnson, DWI second, Della Howell, worthless check, and George Prescott, DWI second, were not present when their cases were announced.

Other cases in which Jones said he understood guilty pleas are to be entered include:

Arion Daniel, DWI second offense; Norman LaPlante, robbery by assault; Paul Ramos Longoria, theft; Lloyd Pierce, fondling; Hilario Ramirez, burglary; Aulten Vaughn Jr., worthless check.

Mrs. Penn Hurt In Fall At Home
Mrs. Don Penn, 706 Edwards, is in the Howard County Hospital Foundation, with a severe head injury suffered early today when she slipped and fell in the bathroom at her home. She was reported still unconscious at noon and it was reported a brain specialist was to be flown here to examine her.

Don Penn, her husband, was at home at the time of the accident. He summoned an ambulance to take his wife to the hospital.

Has Good Turnout

A good turnout was registered Sunday at the open house affair of Quigley Florists. Jerry Myrick, 1107 E. 17th, won the first prize of a decorated door. Second prize of a door swing for Christmas was in prizes were 70 pounds and 110 pounds. Location of the arrangement of cut flowers for Christmas went to Paula Green, 801 W. 18th.

Dawson Wildcat Returns Shows

Roden Oil and Russell Macuire No. 1 D. L. Adcock returned oil and gas shows from the Mississippi on drillstem test taken on a section between 11,084-123 feet. The Fusselman wildcat is about six miles east of the Dupree 'Fusselman' field in Dawson County.

Operator noted a weak flow when 'too' was opened. It increased to strong and continued throughout the test. Tool was open three hours. Recovery was 270 feet of heavy oil and gas-cut drilling mud.

Thirty-minute initial shut-in pressure was 4,320 pounds and 45-minute final shut-in pressure was 2,670 pounds. Flow pressures were 70 pounds and 110 pounds. Location is 2,173 feet from the south and 1,650 feet from the west lines of section 31-35-6E, T&P survey. No shows were reported on an earlier test of the Spraberry.

Duals As Gasser

Humble has completed the No. 1 Paul Hinyard, Pecos County Grayburg discovery, as a Canyon gas strike with a calculated absolute open flow of 5.80 million cubic feet of gas per day. Flow was from perforations between 7,293-97 feet.

Earlier the project flowed 68 barrels of water, through a 20-64 inch choke from perforations in the Grayburg between 2,422-310 feet. It is a dual discovery.

Deep Test Is Dry

A Fusselman wildcat in the northwest section of Howard County, about 17 miles north of Big Spring, has been declared a failure by the operator at a total depth of 8,659 feet.

Tidewater Oil Co. drilled the No. 1 S. J. Lockhart, which spots 660 feet from the north and 2,193 feet

We May Yet See An Atom

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A University of Arizona physics professor says he is working on changes in the electron microscope that should make it possible to see the tiniest piece of matter that exists—an atom.

Atoms, which combine to form molecules, are so small that virtually millions of them can fit on a pinhead.

Dr. Alvar P. Wilksa, 51, said Sunday night that in order to actually see the atom, it is necessary to correct spherical aberrations present in all electron microscopes. That's what he's working on.

His improvements, he added, are not expected to be complete for another year or two.

T&P Switchman Crushed To Death At Sweetwater

SWEETWATER — Tom Bowen, 41, Texas and Pacific Railway switchman of Hermleigh, was killed when he was crushed between two boxcars in the Sweetwater yards about 7:30 p. m. Sunday. He died shortly after arrival at Simmons Memorial Hospital where he was taken by ambulance.

Officers said Bowen was working in the railroad yards in a network of six tracks near First and Pine streets when he was knocked down.

Bowen lived on a farm near Hermleigh and had been employed in Sweetwater by the T&P for several years. Funeral arrangements are pending at Patterson Funeral Home.

Survivors are his widow; a nine-year-old son, Gary; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Bowen, who operates a drug store in Hermleigh; two sisters, and a brother.

Dr. Zinn To Lead Casualty Meeting

A discussion on management of mass casualties is planned for 1 p. m. Thursday in the conference room at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital.

Lecture will be Dr. H. J. Zinn, chief of surgery at the hospital. He recently attended a meeting at that subject at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington.

All doctors from local hospitals, Webb Air Force Base Hospital and the Big Spring State Hospital have been invited.

Toy Collection Off To Slow Start

"Toys are being brought in slowly," H. V. Crocker, fire chief, said Monday morning. "It is probably too soon after Thanksgiving for people to be thinking much about it yet."

A call went out before Thanksgiving for discarded but usable toys to be taken to Big Spring fire stations where they will be repaired, cleaned up, and painted, for distribution to needy children for Christmas.

Any one having such toys at home is requested to take them to a fire station or to call firemen for pickup.

"We can use any kind of repairable toy," Crocker said, "and hope the response will pick up this week."

Car Stolen Here Found Abandoned At Eldorado

A 1962 model car, owned by Jim C. Oldham, Lubbock, student at H.C.J.C., reported stolen about 5:30 p. m. Saturday, was found abandoned in Eldorado. The Department of Public Safety office, Midland, reported the car found at 5 p. m. Sunday.

George Oldham, owner of the El Paso Service Station, 2068 Gregg, told Big Spring police the car was taken from his station. The keys were reported left in the vehicle at the station.

Other theft investigated by Big Spring police over the weekend included a tachometer, license plate, tire and wheel, and hub caps.

Bill Fox, 1603 Stadium, reported a tachometer and sending unit, valued at $59 stolen from his car while it was parked at his home some time Saturday night. Ernest to Limon, 704 NW 8th, told police that a tire and wheel were taken from his car while parked at his home.

Four hub caps were reported stolen from a car owned by A. E. Clanton, 610 E. 18th, when he left the car on the high school parking lot while he went to the football game in San Angelo.

Herman Wilkerson, 1704 Gregg, told police that the front license plate had been stolen from his car while parked at Herman's Cafe, E. N. Hurst, 206 NE 3rd, called police shortly after midnight Sunday to report his station wagon stolen while he was away from home. Patrolmen Ruben Gonzales and John Wolf reported the vehicle parked at Northwest Twelfth and Lamesa Drive.

Gasoline Bids On Tuesday's Agenda

Bids for gasoline for the next six months will be considered by the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday night. Two ordinances and two amendments to ordinances will also be read.

Bids on regular and ethyl gasoline will be considered and a contract let for supplying the city with gasoline for six months, beginning Dec. 1. Nine companies have submitted bids.

An ordinance closing Union Street, between East Third and East Fourth streets, will be considered on first reading. All property owners adjoining the street have petitioned the city to close the seldom-used street in order to permit new construction in the area.

Two ordinances to be considered on first reading Tuesday night will, if adopted, remove beer and liquor sales from the city's zoning ordinance. One ordinance will repeal an ordinance regulating the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption in the city.

The second ordinance permits the sale of beer for off-premises

Key Provision In Red China Truce Rejected

NEW DELHI (AP)—An Indian spokesman rejected today the key provision in Communist China's proclamation of a cease-fire in The Himalayas and withdrawal of Chinese troops.

Peking's withdrawal plan would leave its troops deep in Indian territory, the spokesman said, and India cannot allow China "in reward of aggression to extend their unlawful control of Indian territory."

Since the cease-fire was put into effect by China last Wednesday, Indian troops have observed it. This was the first direct comment on the Chinese proclamation, although there have been government indications that its terms were unacceptable.

The spokesman said after reading a prepared statement that the Chinese proclamation is still under consideration. But his statement appeared to leave no room for India to accept it.

India is believed to be stalling for time to rebuild its badly smashed army before rejecting or openly violating the terms of the proclamation and thus ending the cease-fire.

Prime Minister Nehru has been reported as saying there is no reason for Indian troops to fire when the Chinese have promised withdrawal toward the border on their own. Peking has said the withdrawal will begin Saturday.

Controversial RS70 Bomber Gets A $50 Million Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The RS70 reconnaissance strike bomber, a focus of controversy in Washington for almost a decade, is getting a $50-million shot in the arm.

The new allotment was released to the Air Force Sunday by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Tech Sweeps Chicago Honors

CHICAGO (AP)—Texas Tech at Lubbock swept all three divisions of the collegiate crops contest Sunday at the International Livestock Exposition.

Tech scored 5,322.8 of a possible 5,400 points.

High individual in the contest was the school's Laval Verhalen, 21, of Knox City, Tex. He scored 1,788 of a possible 1,800 points. Teammate Frank Burkhardt, 22, of Lockett, Tex., was runnerup with 1,783 points.

Other members of the Tech team were Royce Turner, 23, of Muleshoe, Tex., and alternate Joe Dwyer, 23, of McLean, Tex.

McNamara said the money will be used for development work on the highly complex radar and other units intended for the plane's reconnaissance missions.

The bomber has been the subject of a running fight between the White House and Capitol Hill—and within the confines of the Pentagon—since its conception in 1953.

The Air Force, with backing from several influential Congress members, has urged mass production. McNamara has called the plane a costly weapon which would be obsolete before it could be operational. President Kennedy has supported this view.

Even as release of the new money was being announced, the controversy was continuing. In a letter to Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said he was deeply concerned because the United States has ceased production of all bombers and is not developing the supersonic bomber.

Engle urged Russell, a Georgia Democrat, to have the committee take up early next year the question of developing the RS70 as a weapons system.

The Air Force proposes to convert the original B70 design for a 2,000-mph bomber into the RS70 reconnaissance strike weapon. It would be equipped with sideview radar and mechanisms for target selection which is usually done on the ground.

The new allotment, taken from funds voted by Congress in excess of administration request, raises the total estimated cost of the development program to $1.35 billion. Some estimates place the eventual cost of a complete RS70 system as high as $10 billion.

The last Congress ordered the Pentagon to study the project again. The Pentagon announcement said this review had been completed and the findings sent to the President. It did not say what the recommendations were.

Man Who Tried To Save Reich Lives In Obscurity

NORWICH, Vt. (AP)—He is an old man now, alone with his memories in a simple cottage on a knoll overlooking this picturesque Connecticut River town.

Thirty years ago Dr. Heinrich Bruening, soldier, politician and scholar, held in his hand the destiny of a mighty country. Bruening, 77 years old today, was chancellor of Germany during two tumultuous years when he led an unsuccessful struggle to maintain a democratic government in that strife-torn country.

His resignation was forced on May 30, 1932, during the last desperate months of the German republic. Seven months later the chancellorship was entrusted to the man who would bring an end to a 13-year attempt to make democracy work in Germany—Adolf Hitler. Bruening was leader of the Catholic Center party when he assumed the chancellorship. He had won the Iron Cross as a machinegun captain during World War I. Less than two years after leaving office he was marked for murder by Hitler and was forced to flee in disguise to this country as a political refugee.

Bruening first came to Norwich a year after leaving Germany to deliver a series of lectures at nearby Dartmouth College. He moved here several years later after retiring as Littauer professor of public administration at Harvard.

His last public appearance, friends say, was made four years ago at Dartmouth. He called then on former President Theodore Roosevelt of West Germany, who came there to receive an honorary degree.

He lives in almost complete obscurity, spending most of his time in a small, book-cramped library which also serves as a living room in his little house. He is writing his memoirs.

Bruening refrains from making public political observations and declines newspaper and television interviews.

Researcher

Dr. Guy A. Franceschini, Texas A&M College oceanographer-meteorologist, is the first American scientist to be invited to sail with Russian oceanographers aboard the U.S.S.R. research vessel "Ob." He will take a scientific cruise from February through April 1963 in the Antarctic Ocean doing thermal radiation temperature research.

Aggie Scientist To Do Work On Russian Ship

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—A Texas A&M oceanographer-meteorologist will board a Russian oceanographic ship in February to conduct thermal radiation temperature research in the antarctic.

Dr. Guy Franceschini is the first American scientist selected to sail with Russian oceanographers aboard the U.S.S.R. research vessel "Ob," the college reported.

Franceschini will study the exchange of energy between the sea and air where the cold waters of the antarctic meet the warm waters from other oceans.

The researcher is going on the antarctic cruise as part of a U.S.-U.S.S.R. scientist exchange program.

Make-Up Magic

Fashion Model Carol Christensen believes it takes practice in perfecting make-up to make it look natural. Imperfect features should not be made more noticeable by the use of bad make-up.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Be A Make-Up Artist Is Advice Of Model

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—Carol Christensen was a fashion model in New York when a talent scout saw her picture, tested her and brought her to Hollywood on a term contract.
"Modeling is great training because you have to learn to be exceptionally neat. Not a single detail can be neglected. And you learn by looking at yourself in a mirror and deciding what you need to improve. I found that the more expert I became in applying make-up, the more natural I looked," Carol said.
"Sometimes you may want to be frankly bold, but that has a different effect than unintended artificiality. For example, eye make-up. It's daring today and very attractive when it's flattering, but you have to know what you're doing. Practice. Learn how to brush on a neat eye line. Experiment with different colors to find out what does most for your eyes, and learn where to put color. Some people should not use eye make-up. If your eyes aren't your best feature, don't try to accent them."

"We were driving to a veterans' hospital to visit some paralyzed soldiers and Carol pointed out the window and said, 'There is an example of what I mean.' She was referring to a girl in a sweater and skirt walking along the street. She was so heavily made up she looked as though she should be going to a costume ball."
"And look at her pointed shoes," Carol exclaimed. "You can see by the way she walks that her feet hurt. I believe in following fashion but not to the extent of ruining my health. When my shoes are uncomfortable, I feel sick all over. I have learned to buy shoes late in the day when my feet are tired. What is comfortable then is a good test. I think important beauty advice is never to wear uncomfortable shoes."

Cosden Luncheon Honors Miss Knox

The Blue Room of Cosden Country Club was the scene Friday afternoon of a luncheon honoring Miss Janet Sue Knox. Miss Knox entertained 15 friends in observance of her 16th birthday.
Guests were seated at a table centered with an arrangement of orchid mums. An afternoon movie was the entertainment following the luncheon.

Freis Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frei are flying to Riverdale, Md. today after a two week visit in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Carr. This was the first visit home for Mrs. Frei in over three years.

Statham - Touchstone Marriage Announced

MRS. DON STATHAM

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Touchstone and Don Statham took place in the parsonage of the Apostolic Faith Church on Thanksgiving Day.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Touchstone. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Statham are parents of the bridegroom.
The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. F. Scruggs, pastor of the church. The couple was attended by her sister, Miss Tommie Touchstone, and John West.

The couple is now making residence at 205 E. 22nd. The bride will continue her courses at Big Spring High School. The bridegroom is employed at the state hospital.

Bride-Elect Is Honored At Mrs. Knox's Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Knox, 1313 Lexington, was the scene Sunday afternoon of a trousseau shower honoring Miss Barbara Statter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Statter, 1704 Eleventh Place.
Miss Statter is the bride-elect of Buddy Nowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Nowell, 501 Circle Drive. The couple will be married in the immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church on Dec. 28.
Hostesses with Mrs. Knox were Mrs. Walter Ross and Mrs. Walter Slate, Miss Slate and Miss Betty Ross assisted with the serving.

Presiding at the guest register was Miss Kay Statter, Miss Tricia Statter and Miss Sue Knox alternated at the tea service.
A white cutwork cloth covered the refreshment table where silver appointments were used with white tapers. An arrangement of red roses and frosted wedding bells formed the centerpiece.
Members of the house party were presented corsages by the hostesses. Party was included on the guest list.

Rhine Country Toured On Last Leg Of Trip

(This is another in a series of accounts of her European tour by Mrs. Lyndell Ashley who has been a Herald correspondent.—Ed.)

Back in Germany again. Winter is coming closer and autumn colors are beginning to fade and fall. Several times light snow has fallen, and we see boys pulling their sleds or carrying ice skates slung over their shoulder. We are beginning to wish for our own warmer climate (and central heating). There is not such a great difference in the temperature, but somehow these ancient walls and stone buildings seem to hold a chill and dampness from ages past which can never be completely warmed.

We met Gebhard in his home town of Kaiserslautern; visited with his parents and met his sister and brother-in-law. From the Schwabs we received the same hearty and cordial welcome that we have found everywhere.

From Kaiserslautern we drove to the village of Bad-Dürkheim for a celebration of our reunion. We sat together in the great barrel restaurant and talked while the boys reminisced about their days in Texas. An accordion player wandered among the tables playing German and American songs—old and new. We listened for hours, and the boys joined in and sang along with him. This is one of the things we will always remember about Germany: the music and the singing. It is not uncommon to go into a restaurant for dinner at 7 o'clock and stay for five or six hours—just listening and talking.

FAREWELLS SAID
We drove next to Worth with Erwin. There our ways parted for his leave was over, and he must return to Landsburg. So we said goodbye to Erwin and his family. Goodbyes are always difficult; especially this time for it is not likely that we will see these people again. Erwin will be married soon, and his plans for the future will leave no time for travel, at least not for years to come.

We drove next to the valley of the Rhine. We were fascinated by this great river teeming with freighters and tankers from many nations. It is like a busy highway with hundreds of ships flying the colors of their owners and the flags of their countries. Here and there we saw clotheslines strung along the decks with housewives hanging out their wash as if they were in their own backyard. And scurrying in and out among the traffic were the busy little tugs and the trim speedy craft of the river police.

MARKED WITH CASTLES
The highway follows close beside the river on both sides. It is a beautiful drive with the mountains rising sharply, covered with vineyards all along the terraced

Retirement No Plan Of Lady At 82

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"We've had a between season layoff at the shoe company," explained Mrs. Mabelle P. Eastman, when she went to collect her unemployment insurance the other day.
The clerk at the Florida State Employment Office did a double-take when she looked at Mabelle's age.
The lively little lady with tightly curled gray hair looked 60, maybe, but she proudly admitted, "I'm 82."

Mrs. Eastman said she started work in her native New Hampshire "when I was 12, and I've been working 70 years since then."
When she is working Mrs. Eastman is a skiver. That is a person who skives off edges of shoe leather after it leaves the die cutting machine, she explained.

Mrs. Eastman and her husband, Eli John, now dead, moved to Miami 10 years ago.
She now lives with a daughter, who is a skiver at the same factory. Together they work in their garden and watch television.
"I don't smoke or drink and I go to bed early. But I feel like getting out and running," Mrs. Eastman said. "Down here in Florida nothing aches."

Mrs. Eastman has no plans to retire. After all, she is only 82.
VFW Auxiliary Cancels Meeting
Because of a death, tonight's meeting of the VFW Auxiliary has been cancelled. A meeting will be called by the president in the near future.

Davises Visit Here

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis and daughter, Dixie, of Monahans visited Sunday in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Davis.

Back In The Sling

If you have well-rounded heels, you will be in style for a shoe fashion resurgence of the sling pump.

If you are well-heeled, you will be all set for the revival of the over-the-shoulder pocket book. It's the handbag industry's answer to the person burdened with lugging lots of money around.

slopes. This part of the country is famous for its wine.

All along one sees the famous old castles mounted like sentinels high above the river. Occasionally we stopped to climb the winding pathways, cross ancient draw bridges and wander through these crumbling old ruins. We gazed in wonder at the relics of a day when knighthood was in flower, and many a quarrel was settled on the tournament field with lance and sword. War was much more simple then. Obviously these people did not feel too secure behind their thick walls (or else they just weren't the neighborly type) for we saw many of the ancient weapons; the catapult with the heavy round stones; the crude guns that were too heavy for one man to carry alone; and the cumbersome armor of mail and chain links. We saw the torture chambers with their grisly instruments, shuddering as we listened to the bloody history of these dreaded places where men were crushed and broken or even baked alive.

Near the village of Larch we saw the Niederwaldenkmal. This giant monument was erected almost 100 years ago in memory of soldiers who died in the war with France. It is a figure of a woman, similar to our Statue of Liberty, holding a crown in one hand and a sword in the other. On either side stand figures representing the angel of peace and the angel of war. On the base of the monument are printed the words of the poem, "Watch on the Rhine."

The Lady's Logic Is So Sound

PRESTON, Ont. (AP)—When Preston's new 1 1/2 million-gallon water storage tank developed cracks, the call for help went out to a woman.

Gisele Zylka of Montreal, who came to Canada from Germany four years ago, is a former $35-a-week laborer who now bosses a firm specializing in preserving and restoring things that men build.

A no-nonsense sort of woman who doesn't think it's a bit odd that she should be in charge of an all-male crew, Miss Zylka chipped away at patches of surface cement to show engineers that the wire-wrapped structure was basically sound.

Then she proceeded to supervise every inch of a three-day, high-speed operation in which her employees patched the cracks.

Over Twelve Tables In Cosden Duplicate

Twelve and one-half tables were in play for the Sunday duplicate session held at the Cosden Country Club.

Placing for north-south were Mrs. Douglas Orme and Mrs. Roy Worley, first; Mrs. J. D. Holloway and Mrs. J. D. Robertson, second; Mrs. Charles Tompkins and Mrs. Truman Jones, third; Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. Rogers Hefley, fourth; and Mrs. Hudson Landers and Mrs. R. R. McEwen Jr., fifth. East-west places were won by Mrs. James Duncan and Mrs. R. H. Weaver, first; Mrs. Myrtle Lee and Mrs. Aya McGann, second; Mrs. John Stone and Mrs. Ben McCullough, third; Mrs. Ray Hendricks of Roscoe and Mrs. H. E. Goodwin of Colorado City, fourth; and Ralph Wilson and George Pike, fifth.

Guests At Cowper's

Visitors in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Roscoe Cowper, 902 Mountain Park, are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Sheppard. Also home is Jane Cowper who is attending the University of Texas. All three will return to Austin today where Sheppard is attending law school.

Arrested

Benjamin Menendez, 78-year-old retired army general named as the leader of an alleged anti-election plot in Argentina, leaves his house in Buenos Aires after his arrest. Eight persons were arrested as the government announced it had smashed a plot by an army faction of anti-Peronists to upset President Jose Maria Guido and prevent elections next June.

Marines Still Like Seabees

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP)—Seabees call it "Operation Might," and its signature is etched into every hillside on the defense lines of this U.S. naval base.

It began in September and moved into high gear late in October, when the crisis over offensive Soviet weapons in Fidel Castro's Cuban regime erupted into the U.S. blockade.

Navy men—the "can do" Seabee force created early in World War II—do the job of fortifying the rugged, palm-and-cactus-covered hills. But the Marines who man the positions have a saying about members of mobile construction battalions: "The Seabees are better Marines than they are sailors."

"We prefer not to get into that argument," said Cmdr James M. Hill Jr., Laurel, Miss. "But Seabees and Marines have always been close since World War II. The feeling is mutual."

Hill commands one of the two Seabee battalions working on the defense line here. His unit came to Guantanamo in June. Another battalion moved in from Davisville, R.I., late in October after the missiles and bombers crisis developed.

Before the crisis, Hill said, "we did base defense work but it was not on a grand scale."

But since then, Operation Might has been the Seabees' only business. It's a rough business, hauling concrete blocks up the steep hillsides to build bunkers, corrugated steel for prefabricated foxholes, scraping through the hills a network of dirt roads that were not here a month ago.

"There are a fantastic number of new roads," said Lt. Cmdr J. T. Taylor, Independence, Kan., the battalion executive officer. "We just don't know how many roads or how many miles."

The twisting, steep and banked roadways lead to new defensive positions erected by the Seabees and one network provides access to a battery of antiaircraft missiles.

"Along with this," said Hill, "we can help make life a little more liveable. We help put up mess areas, field showers and such."

Seabees so far have built well over 200 of the hardened defensive positions along and within the ridges that ring Guantanamo.

To do the job, Seabees making the prefabricated foxholes—in shops at their base—called "Cactus Hill"—work two shifts covering 21 hours a day. In a Seabee quarry the units make the cement blocks for their defense emplacement jobs. On the Marine lines, bulldozer men and shirtless construction crews work during the daylight hours.

Capt. Barry Colassard, Great Neck, N.Y., whose troops defend a hill facing the fence at the edge of Cuban territory, says "you ask the Seabees to do something and these guys will do the impossible. They will do anything—overnight."

The Seabee force which numbered 256,000 officers and men at the end of World War II has dwindled to about 10,000. No information is available on how many are working here now.

"Unfortunately, we have to be pretty tight-lipped because of policy," Taylor said. "But we're pretty excited about our work and pretty proud of our men."

Relative Dies

Mrs. Roxie Knipp, mother of Mrs. J. T. Clements, Big Spring, died Sunday morning in the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Miller, Kerrville. The Clements' family left Sunday for Kerrville, where rites were pending.

Dangerous Plant Safe For Workers

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP)—A plant that produces plutonium, basic ingredient of atomic bombs and "probably the most toxic material known to mankind," has proved to be one of the safest places in the world to work.

In the 16 years that General Electric has been running the Hanford atomic products operation for the government, components have won 18 awards from the National Safety Council and eight from the Atomic Energy Commission.

The employees are seven times safer than the average industrial worker, says Hanford officials. Several runs of more than 5 million man-hours without a disabling injury have been achieved. A record no-injury run extended 11,200,000 man-hours. GE employs some 8,000 persons at Hanford, which it operates for the AEC as prime contractor.

Dr. W. Kelly Woods, programming operation manager, told visiting newsmen recently that plutonium, a radioactive metallic element created by neutron bombardment of uranium, is probably the world's most toxic substance. He estimated that one millionth gram of it, a speck far too small to be seen, would subject a person to a lifetime dose of radiation—as much, that is, as he would receive from all sources during a normal life.

active products are handled with such care at Hanford that the average exposure of employees through 1961 amounted to only about 2 per cent of the estimated lifetime limit.

Handling the fissionable material calls for elaborate shielding as well as remote and critical controls.

A plutonium sphere the size of a golfball might be harmless atop a desk, explained Dr. E. D. Clayton, Hanford's supervisor of critical mass who probably knows as much as anyone in the world about nuclear safety and the handling of plutonium. But if someone should reach for the sphere, the mere approach of his hand could start a chain nuclear reaction, said Clayton, and he would die of radiation before his hand touched the object.

Plutonium, once used only for atomic bombs, is becoming an increasingly important source of peacetime energy. Clayton gives equal importance to handling safeguards.

No nuclear plant accident ever will have an energy release like a nuclear bomb or its physical damage consequence, the scientist said. Accidents have occurred but all shut themselves off automatically after a period of releasing heat and radiation. The equipment is designed that way.

Misty Skies In Northern Half Of State

Misty weather enveloped broad stretches across the northern half of Texas Monday.
Occasionally heavy rain in some areas earlier in the weekend tapered into persistent drizzle Sunday and continued through the night over much of North, Central and East Texas. Patches of dense fog cloaked some areas, making highway travel hazardous.
Temperatures early Monday were in the middle 40s to 50s. Top marks Sunday ranged from 83 at Brownsville down to 55 at Childress.
A mixture of fog and light rain or drizzle lingered Monday morning around Wichita Falls, Childress, Mineral Wells, Fort Worth and Dallas.
Light rain fell at Dalhart, Marfa and Texarkana. A bit earlier a broken area of showers extended from Abilene to points near Wichita Falls and Denton, and light showers dotted the section from Glen Rose to near Waco.
Forecasts called for showers continuing Monday night across the northern part of the state and spreading into South Texas by Tuesday. Little temperature change is in prospect.
Readings early Monday ranged from 45 degrees at Dalhart up to 66 at Corpus Christi and Laredo.

ON THE SHELF

PURPLE-6. By Henry Brinton. Walker & Co. $3.95.
 By The Associated Press

The title of this novel is a code word meaning that the Soviet Union has launched missiles, and the English expect them to strike in six minutes.

The central figure is Will Barley, a high level expert in a secret British installation called Farneden. The suspense builds up during an alert, but diminishes when the Russians urgently message England that a space probe has gone astray—excuse the error, please.

But when the space probe is wrecked on the English moors, it is discovered that it contained a guidance system which was an exact copy of one developed at Farneden. The British had intended the invention for use in an antimissile system which would give the West a decided advantage in the arms race.

How did the leak occur at Farneden? Was it the chief of the laboratory? Was it Barley's wife and his best friend? Was it the scientific genius Sydney Stokes, who had a "pure" scientist's contempt for nuclear jockeying?

Brinton has built a tense story around that puzzle. But at the same time he has managed to fill his book with a hearty debate over the ethics of having scientists devote themselves to weapons of destruction, the arguments of pacifism, the moral issue of the individual life versus mass survival.

His novel is right in line with the works of other English writers—such as author-scientist C. P. Snow—who have been having a great flap over the amorality of science and the widening gap between the scientists and the men devoted to the ethical view.

Inevitably, this book will be compared with "Fail-Safe," the novel by Americans Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler about a mechanical failure in the push-button balance of terror, which sets off a nuclear holocaust.

Brinton's novel has a lot more meat for the reflective mind than anyone will find in "Fail-Safe." It may not be a great novel, but it poses more cogent questions than Burdick and Wheeler have been able to suggest.

Sid Caesar's Points Lost By Length

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP Radio-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Appreciation of a comedian is a very personal reaction. It simply boils down to whether you think he's funny.

Sid Caesar usually amuses me at the beginning of his sketches, and I invariably wind up wishing he would quit before he beats an idea to death. For my taste, his sketches are too long, usually losing their point in the process.

His ABC show Sunday night, for instance, consisted of three sketches, each based on imaginative or fresh ideas. The Cape Canaveral scientist transplanted to a cosmetics factory, working on a cure for chapped lips was great in concept but silly, alas, in execution. The same was true of the man brooding about splitting a restaurant check with a couple who ordered the $1.25 shrimp cocktail while he and his wife were stuck with the 25-cent tomato juice.

Speaking of comedy, what on earth made Edward M. Kennedy and his wife decide to go on a variety program like Friday night's "Jack Paar Show." The serious young senator-elect fried Jack's awestruck questions as if he were on "Meet the Press."

NBC's contemporary western, "Empire," will be around all year, the network having ordered a full season of shows. The series got off to a shaky start.

The program mostly a showcase for star Richard Egan. The other regular characters have had a pretty thin time of it, in spite of a promise earlier to fatten up the roles of Terry Moore and Anne Seymour.

David Susskind, who has not been getting many producing jobs for television during the past couple of seasons, will make the pilot for a prospective new series in which CBS is interested.

Working title is "East Side, West Side," and the principals will be social workers—just about the only profession, except dentists remaining for television exploration.

New Nielsen ratings, released Tuesday, will seal the fate of CBS' "Fair Exchange," the hour-long situation comedy that received good reviews but has been building an audience slowly. If the network decides to drop the show, replacement will be an hour-long version of Rod Serling's "Twilight Zone."

Recommended tonight: "Saints and Sinners," NBC, 8:30-9:30 (EST)—Paul Muni in a rare acting appearance, playing an aged man.

U.S. Infantrymen Being Withdrawn From Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The withdrawal of 2,300 U.S. combat infantrymen has begun with the departure of an advance party of 75 officers and men from the northeast military center of Korat.

The Army men came here in May as part of the military build-up after Communist military gains in neighboring Laos approached Thailand. But since the end of fighting in Laos, U.S. forces have been leaving in phases. A Marine contingent of 1,800 men left in July.

The main body of the Army men will start leaving Tuesday in a massive airlift from Korat.

No Fatalities In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Delaware went through the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday weekend without a traffic fatality despite extremely heavy traffic Sunday, particularly on the Memorial Bridge over the Delaware River.
