ON THE SHELF

SAM HOUSTON, American Giant By M. K. Wisheart. Lane, $10.

Washington newspaperman - historian. Wisheart apparently decided that nothing less than a mammoth book would do justice to a man who served as governor of two states, president of a republic, commander of the army that won Texas her freedom, a congressman, a U.S. senator, an Indian chief and a master politician.

The result of 20 years of research, the 700-page volume includes much material gleaned from interviews with descendants of Houston and his contemporaries.

Its length is at once its strength and its weakness: the book is long enough to include fact after fact and anecdote after anecdote about this fascinating figure, but from time to time the telling of such a grand story becomes a bit tedious.

Wisheart sees the life of Houston as encompassing eight major phases, and he examines each in detail. As might be expected, the high points concern his Tennessee and Texas political career - he served as governor of two states and was spoken of as a possible successor to his friend and mentor, Andrew Jackson, until a family scandal arose; his battles to heal the breach between North and South and then to keep Texas from seceding when the rift proved too great to mend; his struggles to keep the infant Republic of Texas alive and his leadership of the ragtag army which turned on Santa Anna's elite legions and routed them with gunfire, knife slashes and the chilling cry of "Remember the Alamo."

The writing lacks the crispness of Marquis' James' biography of Houston, "The Raven," written a generation ago, but the facts about Houston are there and they add up to an account of greatness.

MY SELF AND I. By Constance Newland. Coward McCann, $4.95.

A gifted and intelligent woman with considerable writing skill tells what it is like to undergo psychoanalysis with the new drug LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide). This is a highly readable book and discusses psychoanalysis not only with authority but in easily understood terms. It is neither a book for children, the prim nor the squeamish for it holds nothing back about the author's experiences under the drug, which is better known as "psychotic or mind loosening."

LSD in theory releases the subconscious mind, enabling the patient to recall the most intimate, remote and painful incidents that have occurred in his or her life even into babyhood. As the author explains in clinical and sometimes erotic detail, these hallucinations recall incidents that produce both intense terror and ecstasy.

In this case the author already had undergone regularly psychoanalysis with only partial success. She tells how LSD achieved what she feels is a complete cure and in a much shorter time than the usual types of psychoanalysis. She also warns of the dangers of the use of the drug without expert medical help at all times.

Because the book is so uninhibited the author has written it under a pseudonym but gives enough of her background to make the story completely authentic.

"My Self and I" is one of the new-fashioned books that "tell all" about a person's private life but it does so without the personal emotion that usually characterizes this type of writing. Considering the subject matter this is as clinical and objective as a book of this kind can be.

Los Angeles Due Start On Cultural Center

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Next December Los Angeles will be gifted with a brand-new music pavilion, first building of a $25-million complex that will finally give the city a cultural center befitting its size.

The nation's No. 3 city has long orphaned the arts. Opera, symphony, dance and legit have been pushed around in ancient theaters and drafty auditoriums.

Civic-minded citizens have tried to spawn a home for the performing arts since the 1920s. One group started a drive for an opera house in 1940, but the war intervened. After the war, three bond issues were spurned by the voters.

A civic group tried to start a private drive, but the 1958 recession wiped it out.

"That's when I decided I would raise the money myself," says Mrs. Norman Chandler.

Mrs. Chandler is no ordinary fund-raiser. The wife of the head of the Los Angeles Times publishing empire, she has long supported the causes of culture in Southern California. In 1959 she accepted presidency of the Los Angeles Philharmonic with the Civic Light Opera, it rents an auditorium from the Baptist church.

She started with $400,000, which previous drives had netted. "But I thought it sounded better to have a half-million as a start," she explained. "So I went to two foundations. Each gave $100,000."

The county contributed seven acres in Civic Center and a $12-million bond issue to be repaid from revenue. Mrs. Chandler and her volunteers set and met their goals of $4 million and then $6 million for a 3,300-seat Music Hall.

Then I was in London and thinking about how reluctant some people would feel about going to a dark downtown at night," said Mrs. Chandler. She evolved the idea of another 1,833-seat theater for more intimate productions and a 730-seat forum for lectures, etc.

The goal for public subscription was raised to $12 million, which was met last week. Mrs. Chandler is now aiming for an additional million to complete the furnishings.

Found Dead

Latest Variation On Guessing Game

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A cookbook writer once explained that the way most "new" dishes are developed is by adding an extra ingredient to an old recipe or by substituting one thing for another - nutmeg for cinnamon, for instance.

Skillful chefs of television cooked up a panel show called "What's My Line?" more than a decade ago. Now there are programs using the same basic recipe scattered through television schedules like raisins in a fruit-cake.

Ingredients of the most successful include liberal quantities of celebrities, mixed into a rather simple guessing game. It is spiced by small talk, wisecracks and commercial plugs by the celebrities. The recipe always permits some participation by the audience - a vital element in the recipe.

This is the basis of the success of the lively grandparent show "What's My Line?" It continues to work for successors like "To Tell the Truth" and "Password."

Now still another variation of the good old recipe has been launched. "The Match Game" will be available hereafter daily from 4 to 4:25 p.m. (EST) on NBC.

The first game was played on Monday and if you like "Password" you'll probably like this one too.

Ariane Francis, a good games-woman who can be counted upon for amusing side remarks, was captain of a team of three. The other two players were, as in all good television games, chosen from the studio audience. Sketch

He Prepared For Cold Winds

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Sharp little winds blew across the platform prepared at the state Capitol in Michigan for the inauguration of George Romney as governor.

"Put on your long Johns," Mrs. Romney reminded him a few minutes before the ceremony.

"I'm going to put some woolies on," said Romney and ducked into a cloakroom.

In a few minutes he emerged and walked, warmly underclothed, onto the chilly platform, for the inauguration. It was 18 degrees above zero.

Storms Taper Off In East

By The Associated Press

Temperatures moderated and stormy weather appeared ended in the snow-covered sections of the Northeast today.

There were some wet spots across northern sections of the nation but no heavy amounts of snow or rain were reported.

In the Northeast, which was hammered by the season's worst storm earlier this week, light rain fell in Maine. In Maine, the storm had dumped 37 inches of snow in Old Town and 30 inches in Billinocket. Stiff winds drifted snow 20 feet high in some areas. Light rain also was reported in the middle Mississippi Valley and in the Pacific Northwest. Freezing drizzle slicked areas in the upper Mississippi Valley while drizzle sprayed the central plains. Snow fell in the lower Great Lakes region and in parts of the north and Middle Atlantic Coast states.

In the eastern third of the nation temperatures ranged from near zero in parts of Michigan to freezing and lower in most other areas, with marks in the upper 50s in southern Florida. It was chilly in much of the Southeast, with temperatures mostly in the 20s as far south as south Georgia. A cold pocket of air kept temperatures near zero in southern Utah.

Graduation Is No End To Studying

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

This bit of information to the college student who expects to lay down his schoolbooks when he gets his degree—

If he's going to be first-class, he may do as much formal studying after he gets a job as before.

This became evident in a survey made by the Associated Press of a number of large Texas industries. Most industries surveyed are in the skyrocketing science fields—electronics, missiles, atomic power, chemicals.

But some companies questioned are in fields where knowledge is not exploding but progressing.

Humble Oil, for instance, has one of the more extensive programs of encouraging employees at the upper levels—the ones with the better paychecks—to gain more education.

Few companies are in the enviable position of Texas Nuclear Corp. of Austin where the majority of workers and all executives already hold doctor of philosophy degrees.

The survey showed there is almost universal encouragement by large Texas industries for their top-echelon employees to get more education.

In some instances, an industry will specifically assign an employee to college, although this is rare.

The form of post-graduate education takes many turns.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE
In many companies an employee can receive a leave of absence to study—some firms will help with the tuition.

Other employees receive special inducements if they will go to classes on their own time. And there is a ferment of special short courses, educational conferences and seminars.

Humble Oil, the domestic operator of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, has had from 400 to 500 executives enrolled in management development courses at 16 schools since 1946, including about 50 this year.

A majority of Humble's present top 40 executives attended such courses. In addition to the specialized information, said Humble spokesmen, the executives receive two additional benefits:

1. They learn about other industries by studying with executives from other industries, and 2. They develop a better understanding of the business world in general. Bell Helicopter at Fort Worth is one of the firms which has on occasion picked some especially bright worker and sent him to Harvard Business School or somewhere similar.

Ling-Temco-Vought—missiles, electronics planes and the like—has what appears to be a system fairly general in Texas industries—employees can get extensive leaves of absence to study toward a Ph.D. or similar degree, with assurance of a job when they return and with the Dallas company paying half the expenses and lending the employee the other half on a no-interest basis.

A spokesman for Collins Radio's plant in Dallas said it seems persons on the very highest executive level simply do not have the time to return to school.

PAY TUITION
But at other levels for those wanting masters degrees or greater, the company will pay the tuition if the employee can work in his school hours with his regular job.

General Dynamics of Fort Worth, which on Nov. 24 won the huge TFX fighter plane award, has a complex program of education. You can even get a degree without stepping outside the plant.

In Austin Jefferson Chemical Co. reports that many executive personnel as well as laboratory workers attend the University of Texas for refresher courses. The company provides time off and tuition.

Tracor Inc. at Austin has a program whereby employees can take one course a semester at the University of Texas while they are working and almost all of them take advantage of it. The company allows the employee the time off at no loss of pay.

Texas Electric Co. has a vigorous management development program at the beginning of employment in its plants, and with selected management people sent to various conferences and seminars.

Even the astronauts are undergoing a special kind of advanced Texas education. Professors from Texas A&M drive the 100 miles to Houston to instruct the astronauts in some fields.

Cuban Crisis Brought Spurt In Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP)—Until President Kennedy blockaded Cuba, trade in grain futures this year was largely on slow moving trends guided mostly by factors well known in advance.

Soybeans, as in recent years, were by far the most actively traded commodity on the Chicago Board of Trade. Their range of more than 20 cents a bushel from mid-July to mid-August was the broadest of the year.

Activity in all pits hit its peak in late October after the Cuban crisis developed. It brought the heaviest general speculative buying of the year and prices shot upward. Gains of four cents or more were posted in a single day. In soybeans they ranged to the limit of 10 cents allowed for any one trading day.

Belief in the pits was that foreign buyers would place large orders toward stockpiling all commodities. It brought a ban from the department of agriculture against certain sales of government-owned corn for a time, which made the threat of war seem more imminent to speculators.

The tension in the market was short-lived, however, and with word that the Cuban missile bases would be dismantled prices quickly fell back.

It was the only time that such considerations as government price supports, crop reports and other usual market guides were smothered.

As usual during the growing season, prices reacted mainly to crop development and government selling from surplus stocks. The latter was most bearish in corn.

Wheat prices were only slightly broader because at the peaks farmers found it profitable to redeem grain from the price support loan program.

Dallas Police Confronted With New Jewel Burglary

DALLAS (AP)—Police were confronted today with a new jewel burglary—possibly the work of the city's master gem thief—in the disappearance of jewelry from the home of oil executive Frank Schultz.

Police estimated the loss from $12,000 to $16,000 and reportedly included six pieces.

There was no immediate explanation how the burglar entered the 2-story Schultz residence, only a few blocks from where burglars took jewels valued at $215,800 from the Bruno Graf estate in 1959.

Police said the theft apparently occurred while the family was at home.

Schultz is president of the Delhi-Taylor Oil Corp.

WITH HIGH HOPES AND HINDSIGHT

Business Has Fingers Crossed

NEW YORK (AP)—This year business starts off with fingers crossed. A year ago it was expected big things. A new boom was being forecast by many economists, particularly those in government posts.

This year turned out to be a good one, as a matter of fact, with 1962 setting high in many lines of industry and trade, in personal incomes and total employment. It just wasn't the smasher that the prophets had led people to expect.

In this new year there are also some high hopes. They largely revolve around the chance of a federal tax cut and the prospect of greater government spending. Many industrial economists think the two together could spell a better year in 1963 than we had in 1962.

Others, more cautious, say that these two factors, if they develop on schedule, could at least keep any business slowdown from becoming a major one, and later could spell another moderate advance.

But the majority this time prefers to keep fingers crossed. There are three factors in the domestic economy that will decide what kind of a year it will be, and there are uncertainties at the moment as to the course of all three.

First is consumer spending. This has been going along at a good clip. People haven't been splurging. But neither have they been scrimping. If nothing shakes their confidence in the future they may go on spending at about the same rate as now.

The uncertain factors here are how to bring more persons off the jobless rolls and into the income earning class and whether upcoming wage negotiations will mean an increase in take home pay or whether spreading mechanization will cause more unemployment and thus cut total consumer spending power.

The second factor in the economy is how much business itself will spend. At present it appears it will spend about the same, or at least only a little more, on plants and equipment than it did in 1962.

And a third factor in the economy is government spending. This seems sure to rise moderately, no matter what Congress does. But if Congress should decide on pump priming and more spending, or if a new international crisis should arise, government spending could add a sizable amount in total outlays.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

If ever we feel good at being deep in the heart of Texas, it's now. Reading the snow stories of the eastern part of the country and devastating icing conditions on one side of the nation and the smog on the other side makes our Texas climate seem ideal.

MRS. BILL MASON who has recently returned from Pasadena, Calif., says we don't appreciate the fullest what we have here... clean, clear, fresh air. So sniff up all you can.

LT. and MRS. DONALD BRYANT plan to leave here Jan. 7, after spending the holidays with his parents, MR. and MRS. ORVILLE BRYANT. They are now making their home in Petaluma, Calif.

During their visit here they were entertained with a Mexican dinner in the home of MR. and MRS. J. A. WHISENHUNT who were assisted by MR. and MRS. FRED WHITE. Thirteen members of the family were present.

MR. and MRS. SAM FLOWERS of Houston and their family have been holiday guests of MRS. GEORGE WHITE.

MRS. GLEN TEPLYE and her daughter, STACEY, of Lubbock, have visited in the home of her mother, MRS. PAT FLOWERS.

MRS. ELEANOR MATHENY spent New Year's Eve in Midland as the guest of MRS. BILL SISK and her family.

ED BLACK who has recently undergone surgery at Methodist Hospital in Houston is in Room 506.

MRS. HILA WEATHERS has returned from Van Nuys, Calif., where she spent Christmas with her daughter and family, MR. and MRS. BILL PERSONS.

The part of the maid in Casa Manana's version of "Beauty and the Beast" is being played by BETTY LYNN BUCKLEY, daughter of MR. and MRS. ERNEST BUCKLEY. Mrs. Buckley will be remembered here as BETTY BOB DILTZ who was a delightful entertainer.

Arriving yesterday afternoon just in time to see the Rose Bowl game and join a TV party at the W. E. RAMSEYS, were the CHARLES MARCUMS of Southern Pines, N.C. Afterward they attended the Big Spring Country Club's tea dance with his brother and sister-in-law, DR. and MRS. CARL MARCUM with whom they are visiting. Also from out of town and here for the Ramsey's party were the BERNIE COUGHLINS and the BILL STEWARTS of Odessa.

Attend Bowl Game

Among Big Springers in Dallas yesterday for the Texas-LSU Cotton Bowl game were Dr. and Mrs. R. Gage Lloyd and son, Gage, II, and Tommy Hart, Herald sports editor.

Mayor George Zachariah flew to Dallas for the game, with plans to meet Lee Harris, a former Big Spring and Couden employe, and Louis Patton of Fort Worth. Flying to Dallas, too, was Mrs. Tommy Jordan, who did not attend the game.

Changes, News And Special Influences In Styles For '63

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever happened to the muffled look, ruffles and bows, feathers, chiffon and short evening clothes?

Some are gone. Some are modified and some are growing strong among the spring styles being previewed by fashion writers attending the New York Couture Group's semi-annual Press Week beginning Jan. 6.

And other rages (such as the middy, and grandfather's night shirt) and a few outrages (such as the bared midriff evening gown) are making new news.

Yet, whatever is said, and how, the 24 participating design houses are spelling out is the same. For the idolized framework for chic is still long and lean to the marrow.

THE CHANGES

The muffled look has become the scarfed look in wispy materials. Ruffles are way out. So are feathers, bows and beads in overpowering doses. Chiffon is tailored not floppy.

THE NEWS

Some jackets lack sleeves, and button down the back, or slip over head without buttons anywhere. Stretch fabrics are used in certain areas of dresses for custom fits on difficult figures. Some mid-riffs are bare for evening.

SPECIAL INFLUENCES

A few years ago the Army gave

THE MIDDY

TUNIC EFFECT

fashion-conscious women the Eisenhower jacket with its zip down front. This year it has grown into a zip-down, step-in dress.

The Navy gave us the sailor suit. The middie blouse has been fashioned from rough textured tweed for suits as well as smooth clingy crepes for ball gowns.

The Cuban crisis gave us a sudden renewal of patriotism, and a bright riot of silk print designs featuring stars, stripes and the bald eagle.

Henry Higgins inspired designers to copy his sweater as a suit jacket and in long version as a dress. And that Arabian movie, as well as Jackie Kennedy's earlier visit to India, has resulted in long sari silks with veils or stoles partially covering ladies' heads.

GOLF ASSOCIATION LUNCHEON

The Ladies Golf Association of the Big Spring Country Club will meet for a luncheon at 12 o'clock Friday. Duplicate bridge games will begin immediately afterward.

Stadium Baptist WMU Has Study

The Woman's Missionary Union of the Stadium Baptist Church met Tuesday afternoon for a mission study program at the church, with the opening prayer being given by Mrs. D. C. Boren.

The first two chapters of the mission book entitled, "New Frontiers in an Old World," were studied with Mr. L. H. Sims, mission study chairman, leading the discussion. The program dealt with the opening up of new frontiers for mission work on Okinawa and Taiwan.

During the business session, plans were formulated for a Royal Service program to be given next Tuesday.

Following the study refreshments were served by Mrs. H. I. Cox.

State Dept. Can't Overlook Congress

By STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department, while worrying about the world, must not forget Congress.

Sometimes the public pictures the secretary of state and his men rushing about the world shoring up alliances, signing agreements, outmaneuvering Communists.

The role of Congress in all this seems obscure. To the State Department, the presence of Congress is clear and near. The department can not do the job without the cooperation of congressmen. It maintains an extensive operation to keep that cooperation.

In 1949, the department formally opened an Office of Congressional Relations, now headed by Frederick G. Dutton, assistant secretary of state.

INFLUENCE

The aim of the office is evident to influence congressmen to support foreign policy decisions of the President and the State Department. Another aim is to keep on good terms with congressmen so they don't oppose State Department requests out of pique and frustration.

The recent trip of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., to Africa, and the resulting controversy, exposed for public view some of the delicate and intense relations between the State Department and Congress.

Ellender, by his remarks about Africans, embarrassed the State Department. The department tried to save some face without embarrassing Ellender.

Shortly before Congress adjourned in October, Ellender set out to tour every country in Africa, checking on U.S. embassy operations there. He does this somewhere in the world every year as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

PART OF WORK

Handling congressional tours overseas is part of the work of Dutton's office.

In 1961, the office arranged 205 trips for 790 congressmen and members of their staffs. The 1962 total of congressmen and staff members on tour probably reach a thousand.

On Dec. 1 in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, Ellender made the remarks that embarrassed the State Department.

"I have yet to meet any Africans who have the capability to run their own affairs," he said, "and I have never yet seen any area where the Africans built up anything for themselves. It is always the whites who are responsible for progress in Africa."

Cries of protest erupted throughout the independent nations of Africa. First Uganda and then Tanganyika, Ethiopia and the Congo barred Ellender as an undesirable visitor. Tom Mboya of Kenya, long considered a friend of the United States, sent a telegram to President Kennedy expressing "disgust and disappointment at the deliberate provocation of the African people."

NO SLAPPING

Perhaps the first reaction at the State Department was to slap Ellender down. But slapping down a member of Congress is a luxury no State Department may indulge in.

Cardell Hull, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's secretary of state, stressed that rule long ago.

"Don't forget," Hull told his assistants, "you may need some of those fellows some day."

The Kennedy administration may need Ellender some day. In fact, he already has been of considerable service to the administration as chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, helping guide farm bills through the Senate.

HIS OWN VIEWS

So the State Department issued some statements noting that Ellender's views were his own and not those of the Kennedy administration.

Dutton's office then set to work, contacting congressmen known as friendly to Africa. One was Rep. Barratt O'Hara, D-Ill., the 86-year-old chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa and a personal friend of several African leaders.

O'Hara firmly believes in close relations between Congress and the State Department. When one of Dutton's officers mentioned the Ellender incident, O'Hara readily agreed to say something that might help the State Department.

He called a news conference on Dec. 6 and said that Ellender "has hurt us very much."

TOO MUCH TALK

The senator has the concept Africa came into being when the Europeans went there," O'Hara continued.

"It is unfortunate that members of Congress talk when they go to foreign countries."

Asked about O'Hara's comments, the State Department had a "no comment" for the record. It still did not want to offend Ellender.

Ellender's trip to Africa and Rep. O'Hara's reaction at home have exposed one of the realities of American government.

The State Department has the primary responsibility for American foreign policy, but it can not move too far without the cooperation of Congress.

Chilled England Braces For Another Onslaught

LONDON (AP)—Shivering southern England, buried beneath its worst snows in 82 years, braced today for another blizzard onslaught.

Air Ministry forecasters said snowstorms, harsher than those which already have wrought widespread death and chaos, might strike again today across wide areas of the south.

The threat of heavy new snowfalls increased anxiety in scores of villages short of food and isolated for days by mountainous snowdrifts blocking road and rail lines.

As Britain sank deeper into winter, industry began to feel the crippling effects of the ice and snow.

More than 12,000 auto workers at Oxford and in the Midlands were idle because supply trucks couldn't negotiate the ice-glazed roads to deliver parts.

The fierce cold is costing the nation millions of pounds a day in lost working time and increased transport, rescue and road-clearing costs.

The Ministry of Transport said about 10,000 snowplows and other road-clearing machines were at work on the highways. Southern England was a sea of snow. Not since Jan. 18, 1881—when snow drifted 15 feet high in London's Oxford Circus—has the south seen such snowfalls.

Rarely did the temperature rise above freezing anywhere in Britain—Tuesday. The low in London was 29. The low for the nation was 18 at Kinloss, Scotland.

The death toll from the cold mounted. A firm figure was not available, but estimates put it at around 15.

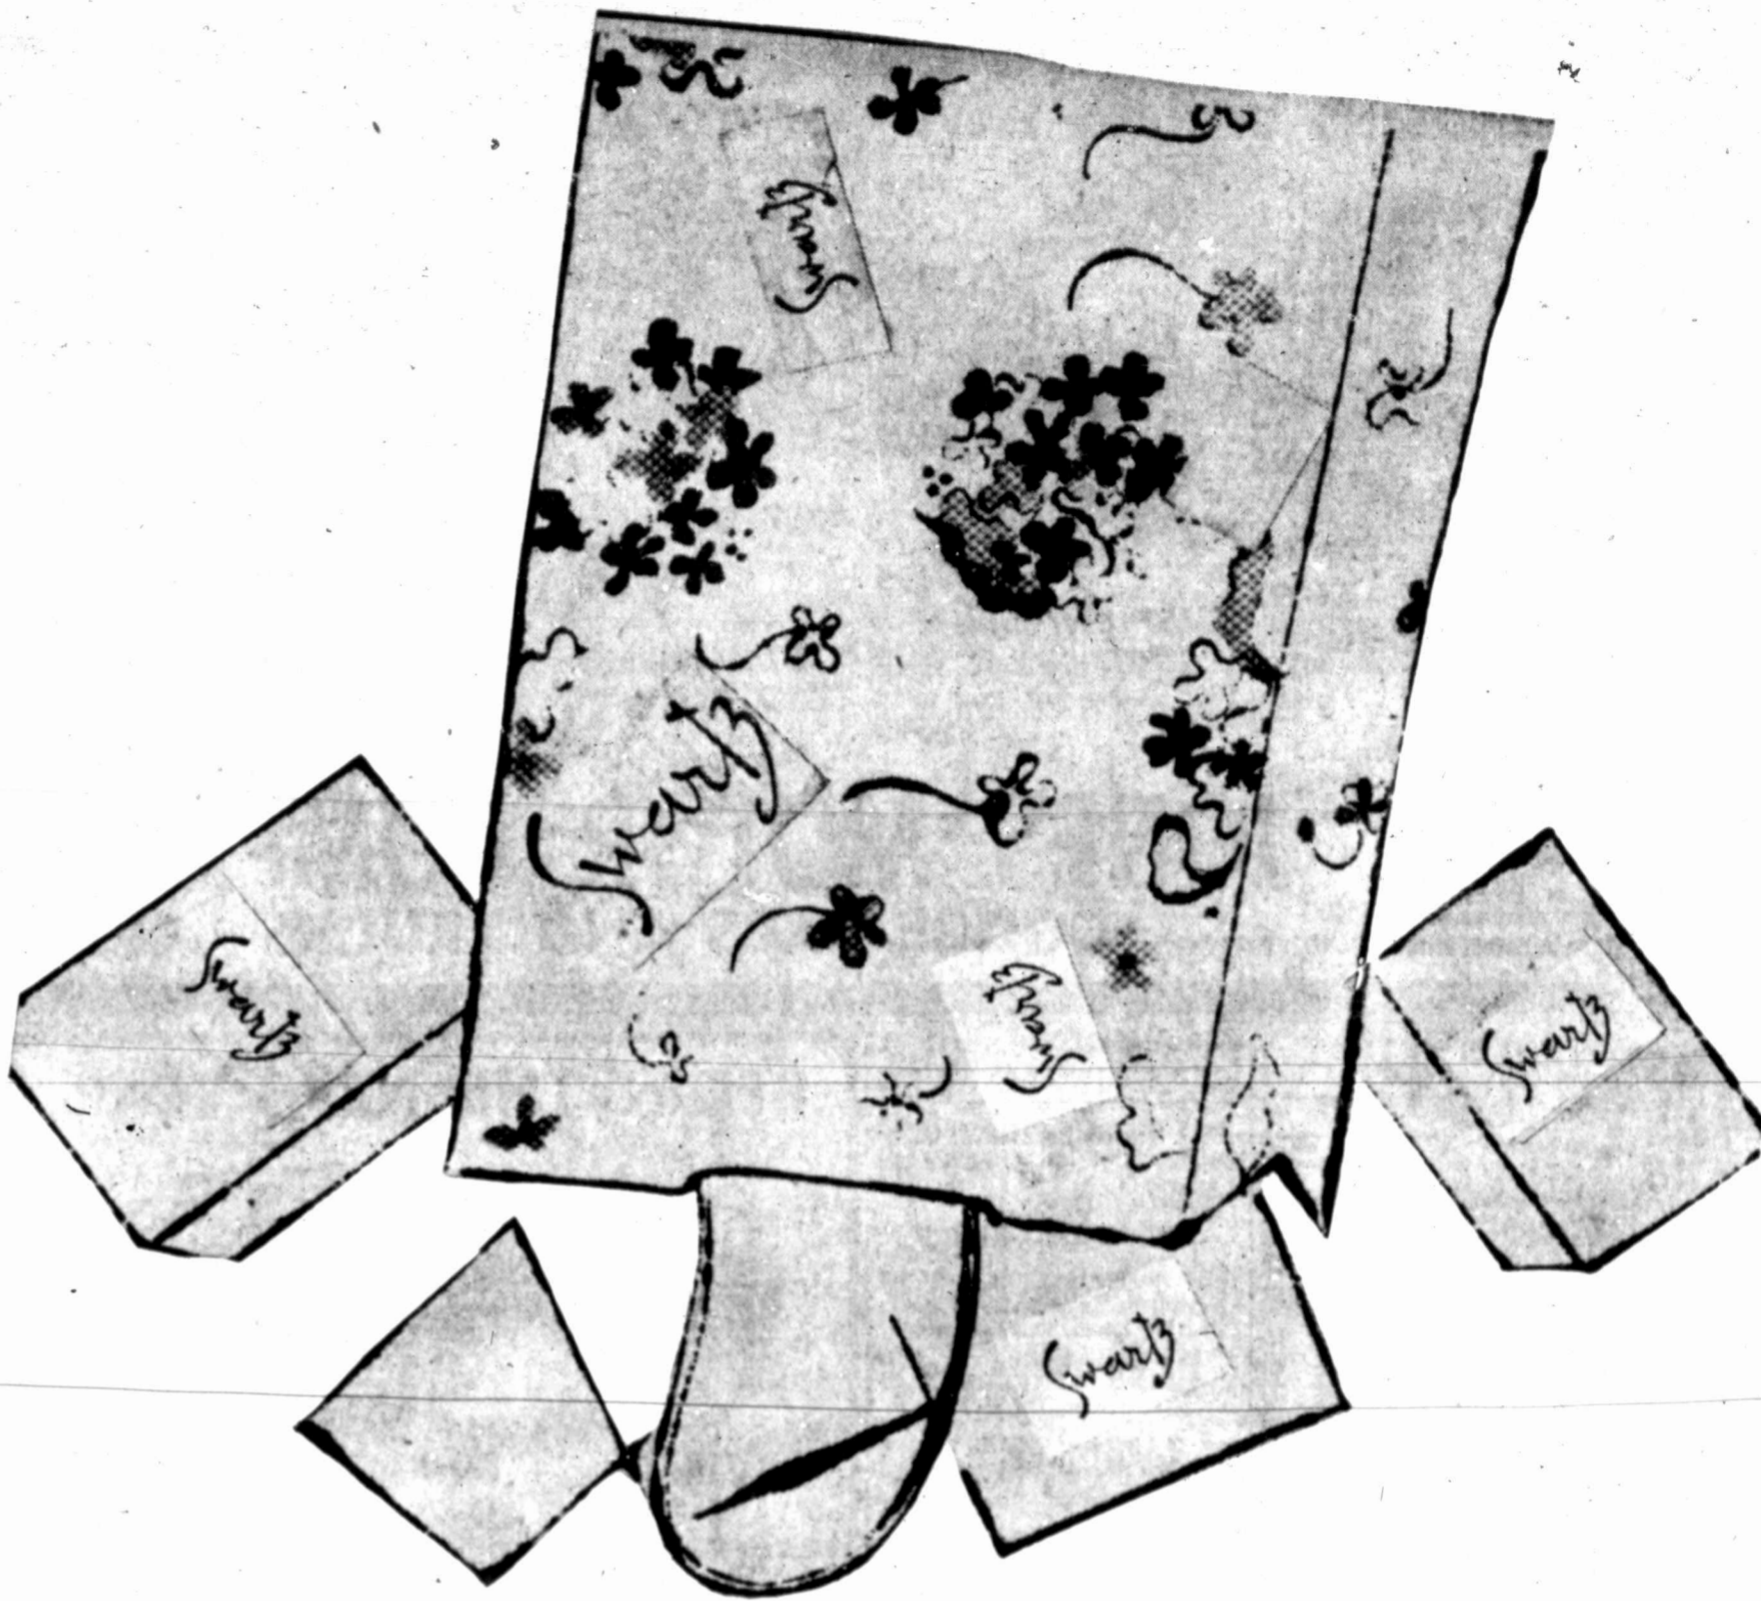

Helicopters, the only sure way of getting across the frozen wastes, flew supplies to beleaguered families and carried seriously ill people to hospitals.

Thousands of troops and police toiled all day trying to hack their way through to marooned communities.

Traffic Victim

By The Associated Press

Mrs. C. E. Lewis, 57, of Sweetwater, died in an Abilene hospital late Tuesday of injuries she received earlier in the day in an auto accident in Abilene. Her husband, 57, was treated and released.
