IN ECONOMIC MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Kennedy Calls Tax Cut Best Way To Increase Revenues

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told Congress today that cutting taxes, despite a huge deficit, is "the best way open to us to increase revenues."

Kennedy devoted the annual economic report, last of his three major messages to the new Congress, to allaying the fears of those legislators who called his fiscal program — the heaviest spending and biggest tax cut in history — "incredible," "a mistake," and "too big." In the process he revealed a few more details of the tax program he will send to Congress next Thursday.

If the country should slide into recession this year through failure to reduce taxes, the President said, the prospective $11.9-billion deficit would worsen and perhaps "break all peacetime deficit records."

By contrast, Kennedy predicted, the planned 13.5-billion tax reduction will add $8.5 billion a year to families' income, boost output of consumer items by $16 billion, and encourage profits, and encourage business investment.

BALANCED BUDGET

He promised: "As the economy returns to full employment, the budget will return to constructive balance."

While urging tax reduction as insurance against recession, Kennedy did not predict a slump. On the contrary, he forecast "moderate expansion" in 1963 to a record $73 billion of national output, up 4 1/2 per cent from last year.

Already, he reported, the recovery from the depth of recession 22 months ago has halted the postwar trend of ever more frequent recessions. But the gains are "frustratingly" short of the strides that are needed, he said.

The message went on: "I do not expect a fifth postwar recession to interrupt our progress in 1963."

It is not the fear of recession but the fact of five years of excessive unemployment, unused capacity and slack profits—and the consequent hobbling of our growth rate—that constitutes the urgent case for tax reduction and reform. "It is frustrating indeed to see the unemployment rate stand still even though the output of goods and services rises.

"Yet past experience tells us that only sustained major increases in production can re-employ the jobless members of today's labor force, create job opportunities for the 2 million young men and women entering the labor market each year, and produce new jobs as fast as technological change destroys old ones.

"And the prospective pace of expansion for 1963 promises little if any narrowing of the production gap until tax reduction takes hold. The main block to full employment is an unrealistically heavy burden of taxation. The time has come to remove it."

PARTIAL EFFECT

The $13.5 billion in proposed tax cuts, partly offset by $3.5 billion of revenue-raising revisions, would go into partial effect on July 1, Kennedy said.

Individual income tax liabilities would be reduced by $6 billion a year, most of which "would translate immediately into greater take-home pay" through lower tax withholding on paychecks. More cuts would come in 1964 and 1965, to a total of well over $8 billion.

More than $7 billion of this would be poured into purchases of new goods and services, Kennedy said, and the spending stream would be swollen as corporations — also beneficiaries of tax relief — increase dividend payments. The rising demand would call for greater output and more factory hiring—and hence, he said, more income and still more spending.

INATE VALUE

The President continued: "Even if the tax program had no influence on investment spending—either directly or indirectly—the $8 to $9 billion added directly to the flow of consumer income would call forth a flow of at least $16 billion of added consumer goods and services."

"But the program will also generate direct and indirect increases in investment spending. The production of new machines, and the building of new factories, stores, offices and apartments add to income in the same way as does the production of consumer goods.

"This too sets off a derived chain reaction of consumer spending, adding at least another $1 billion of output of consumer goods for every $1 billion of added investment."

RATE TO DROP

Corporations now pay 30 per cent on their first $25,000 of income plus an additional 22 per cent on the rest for a total of 52 per cent, Kennedy said that, as of the start of this year, the rate on the first $25,000 would be dropped to 22 per cent, but the 52 per cent over-all rate would be retained for 1963.

Such companies with small earnings would benefit quickly. As if in direct response to congressional critics who challenged his plan for a $10-billion net tax reduction in the face of a deficit-laden $98.3-billion budget, Kennedy stressed the need to put idle men, mines and factories back to work.

"Let me make clear why, in today's economy, fiscal prudence and responsibility call for tax reduction even if it temporarily enlarges the federal deficit—why reducing taxes is the best way open to us to increase revenue," he said.

The anticipated deficit would be roughly three-fourths as big as is now anticipated even if taxes were not reduced, Kennedy said, because a slack economy is not producing enough taxable income and profits.

SELF-DEFEATING

An effort to cut the deficit by drastic curtailment of spending would be "self-defeating," he said; it would not only endanger the national security but would depress demand, production and employment so that revenues would fall "and leave the government budget still in deficit."

"If we enlarge the deficit temporarily as the by-product of our positive tax policy to expand our economy, this will serve as a source of strength, not of weakness."

Noting that the country was "in the grip of its third recession in seven years" when he took office, Kennedy recited measures taken by his administration to help bring about what he described as notable gains since then.

Personal income has risen by $46 billion to a record rate of $450 billion a year, he reported, and the after-tax income of American families was increased by 8 per cent. This represented a $400-a-year increase in living standards for a family of four, he said.

MORE JOBS

Nonfarm employment rose by 2 million while the factory workweek lengthened from 39.3 hours to 40.3 hours. Consumer prices rose by only 1.1 per cent a year, less than in any major industrialized country except Canada.

The balance of payments deficit, Kennedy went on, has narrowed from $3.9 billion in 1960 to about $2 billion in 1962, and the relative stability in U.S. prices has improved the competitiveness of American goods in world markets.

The President did not renew his request for standby antirecession powers, made in his economic message last year and rejected by Congress. But he gave notice that, when this session's major tax overhaul is finished, he will push again for the standby powers to cut taxes temporarily, and speed up public works spending, at the onset of a recession.

He noted that Congress also has failed to enact silver legislation as requested last year. Prompt action should be taken he said, to repeal the laws which require the Treasury to support the price of silver and oblige the Federal Reserve System to keep a silver reserve as backing for silver certificates.

MORE COVERAGE

Later in the session, he said, he will ask Congress to enlarge unemployment compensation benefits and extend their coverage, and will seek a broadening of occupations covered by the $1.25 minimum wage.

Negotiators For Dockers Approve Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for striking longshoremen have accepted a presidential board's proposals to end the month-long, Maine-to-Texas dock tie-up. Ship owners deferred action until Tuesday.

The board's proposal for a 30-cent-an-hour package increase over two years—including 24 cents in wage boosts—was accepted Sunday night by negotiators for union longshoremen who work in ports from Norfolk, Va., northward.

A union spokesman said that even if ship owners and stevedoring companies accept the proposal the strike could not be considered over until dockworkers along the Southeast and Gulf Coasts get the same offer.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.,

chairman of a mediation board appointed by President Kennedy, observed that the New York pact traditionally sets the pattern for other ports which sign separate contracts.

Federal mediators meet here again today with union and management representatives from South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports. The representatives will return to their home ports for full dress negotiations.

The strike by 60,000 longshoremen has paralyzed most East and Gulf Coast shipping for 30 days. It has idled some 20,000 other workers, including about 10,000 truck drivers in the New York area.

Because more than 550 ships are stalled with no one to load or unload cargo, an estimated 20,000 railroad boxcars are backed up along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Losses due to the strike are nearing the $600-million mark. Kennedy had instructed the special three-man board to report the outcome of its efforts by the end of today's work day.

Bobby Denies Plan Existed For Air Cover

DETROIT (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says "there never was any plan to have United States air cover" for the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in April 1961.

In a copyrighted interview by Knight Newspapers Inc., appearing today in the Detroit Free Press and other Knight newspapers, the attorney general said the fact that "there was not sufficient air cover at the beach" was one of "several major mistakes" responsible for the failure of the attempt to liberate Cuba.

David Kraslow of the Knight newspapers' Washington bureau staff reported that Kennedy insisted repeatedly that responsibility for the failure of the Cuban invasion rests with the President.

The President has taken responsibility for the failure and that's as it should be," the attorney general was quoted as saying. "He approved the plan."

Kraslow said the attorney general insisted there was never any promise of air cover, and denied reports that the President reneged at the last moment on air cover for the Cuban invaders.

Market Loses Some Ground

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market encountered more profit-taking early this afternoon and lost some ground in moderate trading.

Most key stocks were down from fractions to about a point. Wider declines were registered by some of the higher-priced or more volatile issues.

Brokers said the decline was a logical outgrowth of the market's fast rise of recent months. A note of uncertainty was created by President Kennedy's annual economic report, made public at noon.

No Firing As U. N. Moves Into Kolwesi

KOLWEI, Katanga (AP) — United Nations forces moved peacefully into Kolwesi today and the military action to reintegrate Katanga with the rest of the Congo seemed virtually at an end.

Operation "Grand Slam Two" began at dawn. It was completed about eight hours later, with Brig. Reginald Noronha, the U.N. military commander, being welcomed into town by President Moïse Tshombe.

Not a shot was fired and little knots of civilians and unarmed

Katanga gendarmes waved cheerily as the U.N. column rumbled past.

Kolwesi was the last stronghold of Katanga's secessionist forces.

"We are not coming as conquerors but as friends of the Congolese people," Noronha told the Katanga leader.

The U.N. task force of 100 trucks, armored cars, troop carriers and amphibious vehicles rendezvoused with a Katanga peace delegation at the little village of Pamp, 43 miles from the center of this big mining and refinery town.

Around four folding tin tables set up on the roadside, Noronha discussed his plan for entering Kolwesi with the Katangans.

"Expect cooperation and hope there will be no problems of law and order," he said.

Replied the Katangans: "We come to meet you as friends and not as enemies."

Then, with Noronha in the lead, the U.N. column started to roll. At the 400 yard-long Delcommune Bridge over the Lualaba River, four tons of explosive were removed by Indian engineers. The explosive was placed in position two weeks ago, when Tshombe threatened a scorched earth campaign to hold up the advancing U.N. troops.

U.N. troops and detonators were removed by the president's white soldiers some 12 hours before the U.N. arrival.

On the Kolwesi side of the bridge, Noronha stopped his jeep to personally disconnect a wire leading to an electric detonator.

Thirty minutes later, the Indian commander and his troops, soldiers of the Rajputana Rifles, took over the rocket-shattered Kolwesi air field, once the headquarters of Katanga's little air force. It was blasted by Swedish jets soon after Christmas and charred wrecks of several Katanga planes still littered the tarmac.

Meredith May Leave Ole Miss, Atty. Gen. Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today "the chances at the present time" are that Negro student James H. Meredith will not remain at the University of Mississippi.

Kennedy, in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News and World Report, did not say when he thinks Meredith, the first Negro knowingly enrolled at "Ole Miss," will leave.

But the implication was that it might be at the end of the current semester. Meredith stated on Jan. 7 he would not register for the new term unless there were improvements in his situation. He has undergone serious student harassment and been guarded by U.S. troops.

Meredith's enrollment at the university last year touched off a riot in which two persons were killed and federal troops were called to restore order.

Smudge Pots And Old Tires Burn Over Valley As Farmers Fight For Crops

McALLEN (AP)—Smudge pots and old tires burned all over the Lower Rio Grande Valley early today as farmers tried to save their crops from freezing temperatures and a medium to heavy frost.

Temperatures dropped to 27 degrees in the Rio Grande City area in the Upper Valley and 29 in the mid-Valley. Brownsville on the coast recorded a low of 35.

Farmers were hesitant to speculate on damage early today. All agreed, however, that some damage was suffered. The forecast for tonight gave them some hope.

In Harlingen, in the mid-Valley, Brad Crockett, the general manager of Crockett Nurseries, kept an all night watch on a crew burning smudge pots and worn tires. At 7 a.m., Crockett said:

"We had a heavy frost, but it looks like we were able to ward it off in a citrus nursery where we fired from midnight on.

"There is going to be some minor damage in spots, but it is not serious. We worked the hardest on a 20-acre nursery block, and there is a little damage in spots. It just doesn't look very damaging now."

ALL-NIGHT CREW

The Crockett Nurseries are the largest in the Valley. Crockett supervised a 15-man crew throughout the night. He said frost began to form at 10 p.m., and he started the crew lighting tires and burners at midnight.

Vegetable farmers varied in their early judgment of damage. N. G. Dyer of San Juan said lettuce would suffer some damage in his area in the middle Valley where the temperature dropped to about 20 degrees.

Dyer said at 7 a.m.: "Lettuce is just like little pieces of plastic. You touch it and it falls apart. There is just a good sheet of frost on everything. At that rate, lettuce could be hurt."

Dyer said he had not cut into lettuce heads, and had only checked it with a flashlight. He said it would be later in the day before he could establish the amount of damage accurately.

Dyer said beams would probably escape serious damage, but onions might be hurt, as well as some cabbage which had been cultivated in the past few days.

HE'S OPTIMISTIC

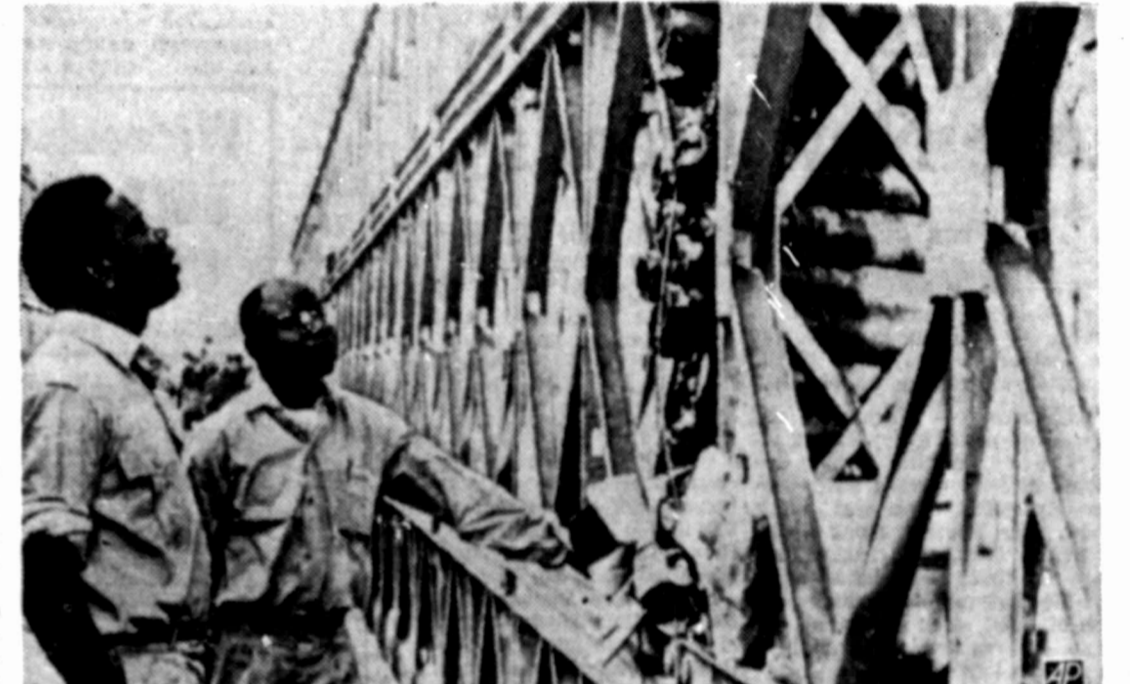

Carl Schuster, who farms about 1,600 acres of land near Dyer, said the temperature dropped to 28 degrees at 6 a.m. on his place, but he was optimistic.

"I don't think we have too much damage," Schuster said. "I don't think the stuff that is left out there is hurt too much. It depends, too, on how fast it warms up. That rapid thawout hurts on a frost worse than anything," Schuster said.

"Unless I am 100 per cent mistaken, we're not hurt too bad. I've got a lot at stake here, and I'm not too worried about it," Schuster said.

The Weather Bureau at Brownsville said at 6 a.m. that high temperatures today could go as high as 64 degrees, and the lows tonight would be a bit higher than they were early today.

The Rio Grande City area in the upper Valley has a forecast of 34 degrees for tonight, the middle Valley can expect 38 degrees,

Giants Closer On Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union appeared today to be closer to agreement on a nuclear weapons test ban than they have been at any time in almost two years.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has removed a major barrier to serious negotiation by telling President Kennedy that he would accept two or three on-site inspections a year in the Soviet Union as part of a system to prevent cheating.

Reaction in the Senate, where a test ban pact would have to be approved, was heavily cautious. But the general feeling was that in accepting the principle of on-site inspection, Khrushchev's move was encouraging.

In an exchange of letters released here and in Moscow Sunday night, Kennedy told Khrushchev he was "encouraged that you are prepared to accept the principle of on-site inspections."

MORE TALKS

The State Department said the United States now hopes that discussions on the long deadlocked test ban issue "can be continued to a successful conclusion."

U.S. officials said Khrushchev's policy reversal could lead to a real breakthrough in the test ban negotiations. Whether it does will depend on whether Khrushchev is willing to increase the number of on-site inspections to double or triple the total he told Kennedy he would agree to at once—that is, two or three a year. The United States is asking for eight or 10.

Representatives of the three nuclear powers will reopen negotiations in a meeting here Tuesday afternoon.

The Kennedy-Khrushchev exchange covers three letters—one from Khrushchev Dec. 19, Kennedy's reply of Dec. 28, and a second Khrushchev message on Jan. 7.

Khrushchev reminded the President that they had agreed during the Cuban crisis to deal with the nuclear test problem at some later time. He said they had passed through the period of "utmost acuteness and tension" over Cuba and their hands were now untied "to engage closely in our urgent international matters."

CHINA SPLIT

While the Soviet leader thus linked his conciliatory move on nuclear testing to the U.S.-Soviet agreement on Cuba, officials here believe there is a strong possibility that Khrushchev is reconsidering his relations with the West in the light of his split with Communist China. If this is so, it could mean that he is entirely serious about putting an end to nuclear tests and would be prepared to make additional concessions.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said there is too small a number of inspections, but "if Mr. Khrushchev is willing to talk about more, we should do so."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the Soviet leader may be working toward a relaxation of tensions, although "you have to be very cautious in trying to assess these matters."

Growers Urged To Approve Wheat Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department started today one of the most vigorous campaigns in its history to urge growers to approve the Kennedy administration's new wheat program in a referendum this May or June.

The campaign is expected to rival any put on during World War II to spur farmers to increase production for the allied war effort.

The wheat program—which sets up a two-price plan and tightens controls on production—requires approval by at least two-thirds of the growers voting.

The agency will mobilize its press, radio and television services, and its nationwide system of state and farmer committees which help administer farm aid programs.

In addition it is setting up special wheat information centers in the department and in the states, organizing a wheat program speakers bureau and publishing a number of pamphlets and booklets relating to the new program.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has said the administration faces a stiff fight to win approval of the new plan. The influential American Farm Bureau Federation is opposing it, but a number of other farm groups are supporting it.

All media and methods of communication will be used—press, radio, television, publications, posters, motion pictures and video-tape, direct mail and personal contacts, a department report said.

The speakers bureau will operate at the national, state and county levels. A series of regional meetings on the referendum will be held with the department's own employees. Radio tapes giving the administration's viewpoint will be made available to stations.

Film clips, video tapes and still pictures will be produced for television stations.

The department asserts the information will be factual in nature.

DEAR ABBY Appeal Of Uniforms. Photo of a woman.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column once from a girl who went daffy over a police officer. I can understand it because they all look like a million dollars in their uniforms. But take them out of their uniforms and they are a big nothing. I ought to know. I fell for one of those guys and made a date to meet him off duty.

He showed up in an ordinary suit and I was never so disappointed in my life.

UNIFORM HAPPY: I'll admit that uniforms are disarming. But it works the other way, too. I've heard from men who have fallen for nurses on duty. And when they dated them in their off-duty attire — all the glamour and appeal had gone with the starch.

DEAR ABBY: My mother was left a widow with seven children when I was only 3. She raised us alone (no insurance) and a more unselfish mother never lived. She is now 72. We are all married and are scattered around the country.

Mother calls me her "favorite" and easiest to get along with. She has lived with me since my marriage 14 years ago. Abby, I am not complaining, but my husband and children and I would like to be alone for a while. Just a few weeks. Mother is not a burden, we just need some privacy.

For vacations (they've offered to pay her fare), but Mother doesn't like to travel. She is in good health. I wouldn't hurt her for the world, but how can I solve this delicate problem?

DEAR FAVORITE: Write to your sisters and brothers and suggest they coax her in earnest. With their pulling on one end and your encouraging her to go on the other, your chances for a much deserved breather are excellent.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is always after me to invite his bosses and their wives to dinner. He thinks the more we see of them socially, the better it will be for him. The few times I have had them to our apartment, I got the impression they didn't want to get

'Frustrated' Chickens Are Being Probed

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M poultry scientists are probing "the case of the frustrated chickens."

Researchers for some time have suspected that chickens become frustrated when they have even minor trouble in reaching water and food.

Will a bird drink as much water as it should or will it eat enough if it has to hurdle several feeders or water facilities to reach the one the chicken wants?

In other words, will shifting or arranging feeding and watering equipment in certain ways confuse and frustrate the broilers sufficiently to reduce their speed of growth?

The researchers are W. F. Krueger, J. H. Quisenberry, Cecil Ryan and Bill Cawley.

They have set up broiler frustration experiments at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Nacogdoches.

Krueger says that in traveling to East Texas broiler factories—where chickens are produced and grown almost on an assembly line basis — the producers arrange water and feed facilities for the producer's convenience, not the birds.

The researchers found that many producers get poor production from their broiler plants and speculated this might be caused by chicken frustration.

The researchers have set up three arrangements. Experiment No. 1 will require that the chickens do considerable hurdling and maneuvering to reach water. No. 2 is the control group which will be in a sort of chicken heaven with no problems about food or water. No. 3 will require the birds to do considerable leg work for the water will be at one end of the chicken house and the food at the other.

Results are expected to be known this summer, with the weight of the birds the main consideration.

Language lore: H. L. Mencken used to point out the difference between the English and American languages by comparing a sign in the British museum with one in a U.S. railroad washroom. One said, "These basins are for casual ablutions only." The other said, "Don't spit—remember the Johnstown flood!"

Admits Crime, Negro Executed. HUNTSVILLE (AP)—A 20-year-old Negro died in the electric chair early Sunday for the 1961 rape of a Lynn County white woman. It was the first Sunday execution in Texas in seven years.

The condemned man, Bennie McIntyre, ordered no last meal. He ate only a bowl of gelatin Saturday.

As he was being led into the state prison death chamber, McIntyre, a farm laborer, was asked if he was guilty. He replied: "Now is not the time to tell a lie. I am guilty and I am prepared to die."

McIntyre added that he was sorry he had committed the crime.

Freighter In Trouble

VERACRUZ, Mex. (AP) — A 5,000-ton Italian freighter was reported in dire straits Sunday after hitting the rocky shallows at the mouth of this port amid a raging storm.

The Origia, owned by the D'Amico Line and registered in Venice, was hurled against the rocks by the gale winds which have lashed this part of the Gulf of Mexico for two days.

Naval authorities said the impact opened two gaping holes in the Origia's hull and the unidentified captain reported the engine room flooded.

The captain sent word the propeller and rudder were above water and his ship was listing dangerously to starboard.

Navy sources said the captain was taking permission from Mexican authorities to transfer the ship's 25 crewmen onto adjacent cliffs by using ropes.

The freighter was bound here to load a cargo for Italian troops.

More Witnesses In Polk Probe

LIVINGSTON (AP)—More witnesses were called today as a grand jury investigation of alleged irregularities in Polk County government entered its third week.

So far, one perjury indictment has been returned against an automobile dealer, Garnet Galloway. He is accused of giving false testimony to the grand jury about sale of a dump truck to the county in 1954. Galloway has posted $500 bond.

Dist. Atty. Sam Freas said he expects to call 10 or 40 more witnesses before the investigation ends.

The grand jury began hearing testimony last Wednesday after Freas asked Texas Rangers to help protect witnesses and records.

Why do we have such big wheels on our little car? There are some gripping reasons. It would be worth having big wheels on the VW just so it could have big tires. Why? Because big tires hold the road better and last longer than little tires. But that's only half of it. The Volkswagen people put those big wheels on the VW so that it could have bigger brakes, too. Obviously, the bigger the brakes the surer the stops. The big wheels also let nice fresh air in to cool the brakes more quickly. Which means that the VW's brakes always come back for more, no matter how hard you step on them. The VW's wheels are bigger than they have to be because Volkswagen likes to overdo things in a big way. (Like the fourth coat of paint that you really don't need, either.) So when you drive away in your new VW, you can expect about 40,000 miles on the original rubber. (Which is roughly twice what you can hope for on most other cars.) But you'll have to go a long way to beat the record held by Mr. Robert Walton of Homestead, Florida. He chucked up 103,345 miles on his original set of 5 tires. Which is quite a stretch to go without getting tired. WESTERN CAR COMPANY 2114 West 3rd • AMherst 4-4627 ONLY Authorized Volkswagen Dealer in Big Spring

OUR EXAMPLES

By T. H. Tarbet, Preacher Church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 80. In the book of Acts of Apostles, we have examples of conversion which apply to us. The book tells of the salvation of people by the new testament of Christ had been sealed with his blood and the church had been founded. In every case where details are given, the sinner hears the gospel, believes in Christ, repents of his sins and is immersed. He rejoices in salvation following his immersion; never before. In fact, he is told that baptism as well as faith and repentance are necessary to his salvation. Note the following: "Then Peter said unto them, 'Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost' (Acts 2:38). 'And now why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord' (Acts 22:16). See examples of conversion in chapters 2, 8, 9, 10, 11, 16, 18 and 22. Can you put your finger on these examples of conversion, and truthfully say that your conversion was like them,—like all of them? —Adv.

Clergyman Takes Up Another Religion Following Squabble

NEW YORK (AP)—A clergyman who renounced his vows as an Episcopal priest, after a disagreement with the Protestant Episcopal bishop of California, has taken up another religion—and so have some 100 members of his former congregation. The switch in faith was made official Sunday by the Rev. Edwin Ellison West, 56, when he was ordained a priest of the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox Church. The ordination was conducted in St. Nicholas Cathedral in Brooklyn by the Most Rev. Metropolitan Anthony Bashir, patriarchal vicar for those of the Syrian Orthodox faith in North America. Father West now returns to California, where he was rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Palo Alto for 10 years. He will head a Syrian Orthodox congregation whose members will include some of his former parishioners from St. Mark's. A Syrian church official said Father West and the group from his Episcopal congregation defected last year after a doctrinal disagreement with Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike. Father West and some 52 families of the St. Mark's congregation petitioned to enter the Syrian church and were accepted, the spokesman said. In San Francisco, an Episcopal diocese spokesman said Father West walked out of a diocesan convention there in 1961 after protesting Bishop Pike's stand on a number of subjects, including the virgin birth and birth control. Later, at St. Mark's Father West issued statements attacking Bishop Pike's views, the diocesan spokesman continued. The bishop made several unsuccessful attempts to compose the matter, the spokesman said. The spokesman said that one Sunday, Father West criticized from his pulpit women congregation members and he said, they spent too much time on a scheduled rummage sale and not enough on the essence of Christianity. When some of the women said they intended to go ahead with the sale, he offered his resignation—publicly, from the pulpit—and it was accepted by the vestry. Later, while serving as an assistant rector in Texas, Father West received permission from the bishop of Texas to renounce his vows as an Episcopal priest. Six months ago, he returned to Palo Alto and set up the Church of the Redeemer which he said he would take into the Western rite Orthodox Church, a branch of the Syrian Orthodox faith. The diocesan spokesman said Bishop Pike was on a tour of the San Francisco diocese Sunday night and not available for comment on Father West's ordination. But he said that when Bishop Pike heard earlier that the ordination would take place, he expressed the hope that Father West and his congregation would prosper.

Chinese Attack Helps Indian 'Wet' Faction

By ALAN M. KENNEDY
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Chinese attack on India's northern border has helped those who are trying to get rid of prohibition in India. In the name of the national emergency, India's most populous state has scrapped partial prohibition in favor of licenses and taxed liquor. Other states are talking about doing the same. Morarji R. Desai, Indian finance minister, a staunch dry, has felt it necessary to warn against hasty action. He banned imports of liquor and told state officials to remember that prohibition was a pillar of the society envisioned by Mohandas K. Gandhi, father of independent India.

Off to a slow start after independence, total prohibition has been adopted by only three states. Eight have partial prohibition while four are still wet.

TOTALLY DRY
In recent years Gandhi's and Jawaharlal Nehru's Congress party has tried to speed up the spread of prohibition. One aim was to make India totally dry by the end of the third five-year plan in 1966.

Today there are signs of an opposite trend. Wets in the state of Uttar Pradesh, where one out of six Indians live, had their way this fall following the Chinese Communist attack.

Uttar Pradesh had had prohibition in 11 of its 54 districts since 1949. Critics derided the policy as a costly failure. Bootlegging was rampant. It was estimated that the state was losing millions in excise taxes.

Pressure against prohibition mounted as the state's expenditure on the five-year plans rose and deficits appeared.

THREE BULWARKS
But prohibition advocates had three bulwarks—Gandhi's teaching, the "party line" and the Indian constitution. The constitution does not provide for prohibition on the national level, but it prescribes it as social welfare policy for the states.

Congress party leaders stood pat in Uttar Pradesh until the Chinese armies broke through the Himalayas and jolted India into a state of alert.

State leaders then counseled among themselves and made liquor legal. Liquor advertising and drinking in public were banned, however.

The annual take from licenses and taxes was put at 25 million rupees ($5.2 million), or enough to cover a quarter of the state deficit.

According to the Indian Express, some drinkers complain that the legal stuff isn't as good as the bootleg coming across the Ganges River all these years.

PRAISED MOVE
India's four biggest newspapers praised the Uttar Pradesh move. Other states reacted. Andhra Pradesh and Mysore, which are about 50 per cent and 80 per cent dry respectively, are weighing a reversal of policy. Bihar, a wet state which had been paying lip service to prohibition, announced it would not take it up for four years at least.

The chief minister of Kerala, which is 56 per cent dry, said if other states were going to scrap prohibition, Kerala would have to consider it too.

Ex-Slave Notes 106th Birthday

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—William Casby, a former slave in Virginia, said he celebrated his 106th birthday anniversary Sunday.

Asked the reason for his long life, Casby replied: "I think God blessed me with it." He said he never smokes nor drinks. Casby and his wife, who is 90, had 18 children and outlived 10 of them.

He said a brother, Edmund, is 114 and friends have seen him recently near Danville, Va. He said he hadn't seen Edmund since 1948. Casby said he hopes to outlive a grandfather who lived 135 years.

A Devotional For The Day

Five times received I forty stripes save one. Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep. (II Corinthians 11:24-25)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, help us to be good disciples in our daily life, witnessing for Thee at all times. Help us to remember the words of Jesus, "Not my will, but thine, be done." Forgive us our sins and become King of our lives: through Christ. Amen.

Impressive Record Of Service

On the program for the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce annual meeting on Thursday last were these words: "54th Annual Banquet." When you stop to think about it, this is really remarkable. On the record, Colorado City was a pioneer in this area on organized community action. This would date the origin of the chamber of Colorado City about 1908—and that's a mighty long time ago.

Some fine ideas and movements have come out of there, as well as some of the leading citizens of the state. Fortune and circumstance do not always fall to cities and counties in equal proportions, but the distinguishing characteristic of Colorado City and Mitchell County is to rise above seasonal disparities of luck. It is an inspiration to others in this area to see a neighboring chamber tackling the problems of its people with such vigor after more than half a century.

lesser but in some ways no less interesting men and women in almost any neighborhood. They are the ones who decline to spend all their time chewing the past as if it were some tasty cud and as mere ruminants. They insist on making themselves useful or on doing some interesting thing that they have long wanted to do but did not have time for in past years.

This reward is a brighter eye, a quicker step, a livelier sense of being alive, than many of their contemporaries enjoy, they refuse to acknowledge that life is all over just because they cannot do everything they used to do. They are interested, still, in the wonderful though sometimes painful world. They say yes to life. And life responds.

Keep Up Your Interests

Anyone looking for generalizations that stand up under fire should consider this one: The best way to keep from decay and senescence in old age is to maintain keen interests. Evidence to support this general statement is all around us. The truth is illustrated most notably by such outstanding men as Chancellor Adenauer of Germany and President De Gaulle of France, who conduct governments with notable vigor at an age when many men are content merely to vegetate. The literary world also provides good examples. Robert Frost, Carl Sandburg, Pablo Casais, in his 80s, still plays the cello like a benign, plump angel. His contemporary, Picasso, still turns out masterpieces.

The generalization is supported too, by

Land Speculators Are Busy

Not too many months ago, I made my way with my family in the runabout across some webe-gone country in a desolate part of our great West and could not help but think about how awful it would be to experience car trouble and get marooned there, even alongside the artery that joined one community with another. No plant life flourished in the area, as far as I could see. The nearest water was probably a river far removed that was fed by the mountain snows in the spring. Few people but hardy old miners would have cared to venture very far off the road.

ANY TIME ALONG the way, I wouldn't have been surprised to see some bedraggled creature with a week's beard, making his way on all fours and approaching the road from the distant hills, the hopelessly lost kind invariably starred in the magazine cartoons. The monotony of the landscape was unexpectedly broken by a large and well-decorated sign, advertising—pointing with pride, as it were—to "choice acreage in the romantic west." There might have been an oasis or two over you hill but I doubt it. I suspected that the only thing over the first hill was an even drearier-looking hill, and beyond that another. The location of the prize plot which seemed to be going for something like $295 an acre, five or six a few sawbucks, was a good 20 miles removed from the highway, the sign trip.

AFTER RETURNING home, I was occasioned to be thumbing through a nationally circulated magazine and gazed upon a three-color announcement on the identical real estate offer, and the claims made about the area were downright shocking.

I'm told these so-called sub-divisions have been staked out all over the country and the promoters are having no trouble moving the plots.

FACT IS, a responsible news organ claims the idea of selling property in such remote corners of the earth as the jungles of Brazil is already being promoted and meeting with success.

Government officials look at most such schemes with a jaundiced eye. They point out that some of the promotions are completely legitimate, though often speculative. They also assert the methods of a number of promoters are at best questionable and occasionally downright crooked.

CASES OF possible mail fraud in such cases are now being investigated by U.S. Postal authorities but those high in the department who know about such things say such violations are difficult to prove.

If you've been inclined to subscribe to such a plan and thereby become a land baron, it's been suggested you investigate carefully before you plunge. Until you check it out, keep your money in your pocket.

—And All In Spite Of Whistler

"Listen! There never was an artistic period. There never was an art-loving nation." So wrote James Abbott McNeill Whistler in 1888 in "Ten O'Clock," which served as a prelude to "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," printed two years later.

SIC TRANSIT the glory that was the Golden Age of Greece and the grandeur that was Renaissance Florence! The current "cultural explosion" would probably have gotten as short shrift from the chimeric, hair-trigger-happy artist. Yet willfully, Whistler, 60 years after his death, is in the middle of that explosion in his native land, which he left just 100 years ago to take up residence in London.

His most famous single canvas, Whistler's portrait of his mother, is following the Mona Lisa out of the Louvre on a journey to the United States. If this is the first trip to the New World for Lisa, the return of Whistler's Mother is more or less a homecoming.

THE WHISTLER canvas, formally titled "Arrangement in Gray and Black, No. 1," is being sent by France to Atlanta as a fitting tribute to the memory of the 121 members of the Atlanta Art Association who died in a Paris plane crash in June, 1962.

The visit of both Mona Lisa and Whistler's Mother is part and parcel of the cultural explosion on both sides of the Iron Curtain and is one of the happier aftermaths of World War II. We in New York count that day lost whose low descending sun sees the arrival of no new ballet, symphony orchestra, opera company, theatre group or art show from across the water or the departure of similar American groups for tours of nations that were not even on the map 20 years ago.

THE BOLSHOI BALLET has become such a fixture of the entertainment world in New York that the critics actually took it apart and laid it out in lavender last autumn when its splashy offering, "Spartacus," laid the biggest egg on Broadway. I don't say we Americans are becoming biased, but we have certainly lost our awe of some of the foreign imports in recent years.

What the rapier-tongued Whistler would have had to say about the present cultural Gemeutlichkeit can only be imagined. In a way, Whistler was a 19th century Salvador Dali, only much more so. Like Dali, Whistler saw no point in being born to blush unseen. Like Dali, his exhibitionism put him on the map long before the art world was ready for him.

NEVER ONE to hide his light under a bushel, Whistler once said to a woman who had just told him that a lovely view had reminded her of his work, "Yes, madam, nature is creeping up."

To another unfortunate woman admirer who told Whistler, "I only know of two painters in the world, yourself and Velasquez," the artist replied in purring tones, "Why drag in Velasquez?" Certainly Whistler once gave the best advice in the world to the person who doesn't know anything about art, but he knows what he likes.

"YOU SHOULDN'T say it is not good," counseled Whistler. "You should say you do not like it, and then, you know, you're perfectly safe."

Once when the late Heywood Brown was writing a Mother's Day tribute to his own maternal parent, a formidable dowager of New York's 400, the columnist said that if he ever saw his mother in the same pose as Whistler's, the columnist would know that the senior Mrs. Brown was about to bid six no trump.

ALTHOUGH Whistler's mother, in her enveloping gown and her forever-fresh lace cap, looks too guileless for parcels, much less contract, nonetheless she will have achieved some kind of a grand slam both for her son and herself when she appears next month in Atlanta. Differences At Stake In Europe

WASHINGTON — You could view Europe, and not be very wrong, as the cockpit of two fine - feathered, razor-spurred old roosters: Paul Henri Spaak and Charles Andre Joseph Marie de Gaulle.

Fighting cocks as a rule don't live long, but Spaak, in his sixties, and De Gaulle, in his seventies, have come through with toughened hides and hardened minds. As they now square off against one another, ideologically speaking, only one can be economic cock of the European walk—only one.

TO THIS non-neutralist onlooker, De Gaulle's Europe promises to be as glorious as a cathedral stained-glass window, depicting knightly and saintly figures of fame, while Spaak's vision is as lackluster, secular, and soulless as a committee meeting of economists.

De Gaulle often speaks of himself as being synonymous with his country, as medieval kings do in Shakespearean plays. "How can France thank France?" he asked when urged to express gratitude to the nation for an election victory. This is not the American way, nor the modern way, but so much the better in a great Frenchman and a "Continental."

HIS GO-IT-ALONE comments at his January 14th press conference, his well-known design for a "European construction," embracing Western Russia and reaching to the Urals as the natural boundary between East and West, his nationalism-for-all, the antithesis of globalism, individualism above pluralism. For America, De Gaulle's stated determination to defend Europe by European arms could relieve the U.S.A. of the meddlesome and bloody "responsibility" of turning continental wars into world wars.

SPAAK, the Socialist and "Eurocrat," houses the soul of a front office bookkeeper in his jolly, rotund personality. He fled Belgium during World War II, and returned to stone thrones at King Leopold's palace windows, the action of regicidal irreverence which carries over into his dislike of all things traditional. Spaak's concept of humanity seems that of the economic animal, allowing little or no room in us for the spirit and singularity which make up men and nations.

HIS GENIUS is organizational and functional. He was first president of the U.N. General Assembly, a consolidator of the trinational Benelux, a booster of moonlit-ism in the European Coal and Steel Community, Euratom and the Common Market. He hustled with amiable, self-selling "chairmanship" as Secretary-General of NATO. He returned to Belgian politics to continue his work as the exterminator of national boundaries and loyalties.

TO SAY THAT Europe under Spaak would be run from Brussels, the drab Common Market capital, and that Europe under De Gaulle would have its intellectual and cultural center in Paris, almost describes the contrast. If there is an uglier or duller word than Eurocracy, I don't know it — or a finer word than the one that so often is attached to De Gaulle: mystique.

And these are the differences at stake in the ancient cockpit of Europe.

"Figs," replied Mrs. Davis.

Your Income Tax Deductions, And Forms To Use

EDITOR'S NOTE — The income tax filing deadline is here again. Here is the first of a series of five articles designed to make the taxpayer's chore easier. This one tells you what forms to use and how to file deductions.

BY JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—Midnight Monday, April 15 is the deadline for your 1962 income tax return. Report only taxable income, the non-taxable kind like Social Security payments. Examples of both kinds are given below.

Changes in the law on 1962 individual income are very few and won't affect most people.

YOU MUST file a return—to get a refund—if your income was too low to be taxable but tax was withheld from it.

YOU CAN use it only if: 1. Your income was under $10,000 and was entirely in wages from which tax was withheld, plus not more than $200 in dividends, interest or wages from which tax was not withheld. 2. You accept the standard deduction of 10 per cent—up to a limit of $1,000—allowed people using Form 1040A.

EXAMPLES OF non-taxable income which does not have to be reported: Federal or state Social Security benefits; benefits from the Veterans Administration to veterans and their families; interest on state and municipal bonds; subsistence and rental allowances to members of the armed forces; public assistance payments to the blind; gifts in money or anything of value for which you performed no service; but contest prizes are taxable; unemployment compensation paid by the state; supplemental employment benefits from a company - financed supplemental employment fund are taxable; life insurance proceeds paid because of the death of the insured, unless the policy was transferred to you for a valuable consideration.

IN THIS case the 10 per cent deduction is already allowed for in the tax table. You don't have to claim it.

IF you use Form 1040A, but your income was $5,000 or more but under $10,000, you figure your own tax and take, without itemizing, a 10 per cent deduction for personal expenses up to a limit of $1,000.

EACH exemption you can legitimately claim means $600 knocked off your income before what's left is taxable. Everyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself, plus $600 for each dependent.

IF your wife had no income, you

To Your Good Health Flu Shots Afford Good Protection

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Dear Dr. Molner: At this time of year people catch colds and Asian and regular flu. All the medical articles I have read seem to say that once you have these illnesses no medication will cure you. Doctors don't have time to explain the difference between them.

Also the U.S. Public Health Service says people should have flu shots if they are a certain age, or work with a lot of others, or else are pregnant women.

If shots are good for them why aren't they good for everybody? —O.H. Flu, Asian flu and colds are all virus diseases. Unhappily we do not have any "wonder drugs" that will stop viruses the way we can stop bacterial diseases. So it's true that no medication will cure either colds or flu.

Aspirin and plenty of rest will make you feel better, and staying home and not getting over tired will help prevent picking up some other germ on top of the virus.

Flu—and there are a number of varieties—tends to make you ache, feel exhausted, feverish. "Asian flu" is merely a particular type. Technically, it is called "A-prime influenza." Each of the varieties of flu tends to cause its own epidemic. That is, we don't often place on giving shots to people who needed them most. The elderly, who may have lung, heart or other trouble, or simply be feeble, are the most likely to become very sick. The young and rugged get over the flu; among invalids, many die.

Pregnant women need the protection, and people in vital jobs—nurses, policemen, key personnel in civic or business affairs—owe it to the community to guard against being incapacitated in case an epidemic starts.

But yes, flu shots are a good precaution for nearly everybody. They may not be tolerated by persons allergic to egg.

Attention all women! Write for the "Pre-Menstrual Blues" for the Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. This pamphlet may help you!

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

David Lawrence Our Military Might Recognized

WASHINGTON — The biggest piece of news in a long time—and by far the most reassuring to the American people—has just come in the form of a speech by Premier Khrushchev to the convention of the Communist party in East Germany.

For if there were any doubt that the Cuban maneuver was a hoax and that a major war, with nuclear bombs or missiles, has been and is farthest from the intentions of the Soviet Union, this now can be removed by examining the words of the Soviet premier. In that speech, Mr. Khrushchev acknowledged for the first time that the United States has at least 40,000 nuclear bombs and warheads, and that the Soviet Union would not risk the unleashing of such power.

THE AMERICAN government has never revealed the figures officially, but the fact that Mr. Khrushchev knows them is in itself significant of the way the world is veering toward an era of peace. This doesn't mean that the Soviets, if they ever build up their strength to equal ours, wouldn't start bullying and threatening again. It does mean that America must maintain her military lead no matter what it costs. It also means that serious consideration should be given to a revival of the so-called "Skybolt" program as a matter of the greatest precaution involving the nation's safety.

FOR PRESIDENT KENNEDY is putting his reliance on missiles fired from this country and on bombers that will be based in Western Europe. In addition, he is counting on the Polaris missiles, which would be directed toward the Soviet Union from submarines under the seas. The question arises whether it is safe for the United States to discard her intercontinental bombers which can fire such missiles as the "Skybolt" from the air at points 1,000 miles away from Soviet territory. Indeed, the overseas bases might be destroyed by Soviet missiles or bombers, or they might someday be withdrawn from our use in Europe, where communism could conceivably frustrate national policy. This possibility is illustrated by the difficulties now arising in trying to get agreement on a NATO formula for handling nuclear weapons.

IT IS WORTH WHILE, therefore, to examine carefully the exact wording of the Khrushchev speech, an excerpt from which follows.

"I will tell you a secret: Our scientists have worked out a 100-megaton bomb. But according to our scientists' calculations, a 100-megaton bomb must not be used in Europe.

"Should our probable enemy unleash war, then where should we drop it—over West Germany or France? But the explosion of such a bomb over this territory would affect you and several other countries. Therefore, we can use such a weapon only outside the confines of Europe.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Several years ago, educators were alarmed to discover that American children were poor readers. This was most vividly described in the book, "Why Johnny Can't Read." Now, educators are concerned over the other side of the coin. They're finding that Johnny can't write either.

In a time when many respected voices, notably Admiral Rickover, are urging schools to put additional emphasis on the tougher subjects, it is paradoxical to discover that the two most basic subjects—reading and writing—are not being satisfactorily absorbed.

Due to early and lengthy exposure to television, today's children start school much more informed than their parents were. The problem is merely one of interesting them in the materials of learning.

Children cannot learn to read well on books that bore them, and reading, of course, is the key to writing. Poor grammar, incorrect sentence structure, wrong choice of words, and atrocious spelling plague many adult Americans today. Their children are generally following the same curriculum that produced these inadequacies.

The encouraging factor is a spreading recognition of the new forces at play in children's minds, and the need for new ways to train these minds. In truth, Johnny can probably read and write as well as his mom and dad did at his age. But we expect more of children today. And they—raised on a meadier diet of information than their parents—expect more of school.

Crops, Livestock Survive Weather

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Texas crops and livestock came through last week's severe cold in fairly good shape, John Hutchinson, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said Saturday.

Low temperatures slowed small grains, weeds and grasses, and caused a heavy increase in feeding. Stock tanks and water facilities were hard hit and breaking ice and repairing water lines were a major chore.

Considerable damage was done in South Texas to vegetables such as peppers and early tomatoes. The more hardy ones came through in good shape. Vegetables are moving in good volume. Oats and flax made little progress due to the cold and lack of rain. Cattle were in fair condition.

The hard freeze damaged vegetables near San Antonio, caused an increase in feeding; and is expected to cause some damage to flax in South Central Texas. Moisture is adequate in all but the western counties of the district, which is critically dry.

Moisture is adequate in the upper Gulf Coastal and Southeast Texas area. Farmers are plowing. Stock tanks were frozen over; tender vegetation was killed; and pastures were slowed by the hard freeze. Stockmen are feeding and the condition of livestock was fair.

Moisture is adequate in East Texas. Oats were making good growth up until the deep freeze hit. Livestock were generally in fair condition but feeding was stepped up. Pastures were to be average or below. No screwworm cases were reported for the week.

Moisture was adequate in East Texas. Oats were making good growth up until the deep freeze hit. Livestock were generally in fair condition but feeding was stepped up. Pastures were to be average or below. No screwworm cases were reported for the week.

Moisture was adequate in North-east Texas. Oats and other plants made good growth before the low temperatures hit. Pastures were about average and providing only limited grazing. Livestock are in fair to good condition with some weight losses noted.

The coldest weather of winter hit North Central Texas. The extent of damage to small grains is not yet known. Feeding increased. Livestock are in fair to good condition.

The hard freeze slowed out and range plant growth in Central Texas and caused more feeding. Livestock were normal.

Moisture is short in West Central Texas. Grain fields are no longer furnishing grazing and dry grass is getting scarce.

Temperatures down to zero, coupled with lack of moisture, increased the need for feed for all livestock in far West Texas. Livestock conditions range from poor to good depending on moisture. All crops have been harvested.

Twenty of the 22 counties in the Rolling Plains have adequate moisture. The cold slowed wheat and increased need for feeding. Rust damage to wheat in varying amounts was reported from most counties. Small grain is being topped with nitrogen.

More than 95 per cent of the South Plains cotton is harvested and production exceeds estimates. Feeding was stepped up. Ranges and livestock were in good condition. Small grains are providing good grazing but most areas need moisture.

Moisture is short over the Panhandle and wheat is making no growth due to the lack of moisture and the extreme cold. Livestock are in fair condition but feeding is heavy. Low temperatures have caused cattle to shrink.

Killed In Crash

By The Associated Press

Robert Schested, 29, the copilot, was critically injured. They were returning from San Angelo to El Paso.

Estes, Dunn Shake Hands, Sit Together At Church

PECOS (AP)—Two men who have been anything but friends, Billie Sol Estes and Dr. John Dunn, shook hands and sat together in church Sunday.

Dunn, 35, currently battling efforts to bar him from the lone hospital here, claims he put FBI agents on the trail of Estes, causing the West Texas promoter's downfall. Both live in Pecos.

Estes, 38, now bankrupt, is contesting an eight-year state prison trial on federal charges of fraud and false swearing. His motion for a new trial on the state conviction is due to be argued Thursday at Tyler.

The two are members of the Church of Christ, in which Estes has been a lay preacher. They sat side by side during the service.

Mrs. Estes accompanied her husband and five children to church. With Dunn were his wife and four children.

"We love the same God and we were there to worship Him together," Estes remarked afterward.

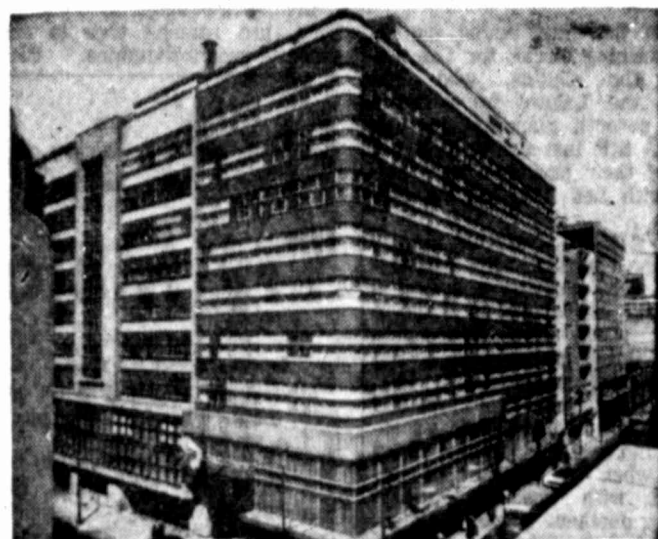

Dunn had no comment. He told reporters recently, however, that "of all my enemies, Mr. Estes is the least offensive."

The board of managers, accusing Dunn of harassing personnel, has moved to drop him from the medical staff of Reeves County Memorial Hospital. A temporary court order permits him to continue using the hospital until the board gives him a formal hearing.

Dunn claims his spare time investigations of Pecos crime conditions, and not his activities as a physician, prompted the hospital ouster attempt.

Superb Shot Wins For Bill Casper

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A superb wedge shot, almost as spectacular as the 140-yard eagle which won him the 1958 Crosby championship, brought victory again to quick-hitting Bill Casper and sent him away from Pebble Beach today $5,000 richer in Bing's famed $50,000 golf show.

The tremendous wedge recovery shot from 75 yards out on the treacherous 17th hole along Pebble Beach's rockbound coast, laid Billy's ball a foot from the pin for a vital par 5. As it turned out the shot put decisive pressure on husky U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus and the determined little South African, Gary Player.

Nicklaus found himself with a 30-foot putt to win at the 18th, missed it and slid six feet past the cup. Usually deadly accurate from that distance, Nicklaus missed the six-footer, took a bogey 6 and finished in a second-place tie with Player, who missed a 12-foot putt he needed to tie Casper.

In grabbing first honors with a final 2-over-74 for a four-round total of 285, Casper earned the distinction of being the first pro ever to win the Crosby twice over the 72-hole route.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff put victories back to back in 1955 and 1956 but the tournament went only 54 holes in those days. Also at the Rancho Santa Fe days, in the old holes. Sam Snead won three times. The test was stepped up to 72 holes in 1958.

When the firing ended at the 18th, where Arnold Palmer capped a disastrous round by taking a horrible 9 after shooting into Monterey Bay, there were five players tied at 286 for second place—Nicklaus, Player, Bob Rosburg, Dave Hill and Art Wall. It was worth $2,145 to each of them. All-time money winner Palmer, who was announced as the world's greatest golfer at the start of the final round Sunday and promptly reminded the announcer that "you should have seen me Saturday," learned after the finish Sunday just how disastrous Saturday had been.

A technical misinterpretation of a ruling on the par 3 17th at Pebble Beach caused Palmer's disqualification from the tournament and four days of hard work for the exercise.

A stroke back of the second place fivevomes was Portland's Bob Duden, who after Saturday's third round was leading the field by a stroke at 210. He soared to a finishing 77-287 to earn $1,400.

At 288, Big George Bayer, first day leader Julius Boros and Doug Sanders were tied to earn $1,200 apiece.

Webb Drops Game To Goodfellow

SAN ANGELO—The Goodfellow Skyhawks won their third game of the season by smacking Webb's Force Base 96-65 Saturday night.

The Skyhawks had a comfortable 47-24 margin in the first half and led all the way. Bill Kozol was high for the winners with 22 followed by Bill Mannen with 15.

Stanley Keene hit 18 and Robert Anderson had 12 for Webb. The Skyhawks will face Headquarters Air Force Security Service from Kelly Air Force Base next Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Goodfellow gym.

PORT ST LUCIE, Fla. (AP)—Long-hitting John Barnum, who at 51 is a golfer in a class by himself, has added another tournament to his string.

S'west To Take Break

The Baylor Bears, coming alive after a dismal pre-season record, reopen Southwest Conference warfare with non-league foes Thursday night against Oklahoma City University.

Texas Tech and the University of California at Los Angeles meet in Lubbock Friday night for the opener in a two-game series.

While the Red Raiders and UCLA play again Saturday night, Rice will battle Trinity at Houston and Southern Methodist will vie with Oklahoma City at Dallas.

Conference play, delayed by mid-term examinations, gets started again Feb. 2 with all hands entering the fray.

Texas' surging Longhorns took over the undisputed league lead with a 4-0 record just before the semester exam period began.

Texas A&M's Cadets, possessors of the best all-season record, hold down second place with a 3-1 record. Arkansas, Baylor, Rice and SMU are tied at 2-2. Texas Tech with a 1-3 record is seventh and wireless Texas Christian, holding an 0-4 mark, brings up the rear.

Arnold Palmer Disqualified For Playing Second Ball

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—To Arnold Palmer, $525 seemed little consolation for the misery he underwent in the $50,000 Bing Crosby Tournament—but now golf's post-war money-making campaign doesn't have even that bit of solace.

For Arnold, who suffered the hacking frustration of two consecutive back nine 42's on the Pebble Beach golf links, was disqualified Sunday more than 24 hours after incorrectly playing a provisional ball.

The disqualification broke his two-year string of 47 consecutive money-earning tournaments but at least it saved him from having his intermittent string of unbelievably bad at least for the world's best golfer's holes recalled for golf posterity.

The disqualification was called for Palmer's play of the 17th hole Saturday at Pebble Beach. He rapped a No. 2 iron tee shot on the 218-yard par-3 hole into a tide-pool on a large rock jutting up from the beach behind the green, then hit a provisional tee shot.

After examining the unplayable lie in the water, Palmer played his provisional ball and wound up with a 5 on the hole. Officials ruled Sunday after hearing of the case from another player that Palmer should not have played a provisional ball since his ball was not out of bounds.

Rather, he should have dropped the ball behind the unplayable lie as far as he chose, dropped it to club lengths to either side or returned to the tee and hit again. Shown the rule which he said he completely forgot in the heat of play, Palmer readily admitted he should be disqualified. It simply wasn't Arnie's tournament.

He finished Sunday with an 18th hole that typified his weekend. His drive on the 540-yard hole trickled onto ocean-fronting rocks. His short chip out merely set the stage for a hook shot into the ocean and a one-stroke penalty.

Palmer's next blow landed in a trap. He exploded out short and missed his putt, rolling a whopping 7 feet past the cup. He missed that one, too, and took a nine to finish at 76 for the day. And then he was disqualified.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By TOMMY HART

Although West Texas State College in Canyon has experienced success with its football team since Joe Kerbel arrived on the scene, the Buffaloes probably are heading into heavy weather.

Some of the recruiting methods used at the school are questionable and that could bring the NCAA gunshots onto the scene. It is invariably done.

Too, the Buffaloes aren't members of any conference (and haven't been since the Border circuit broke up) and Kerbel could find it increasingly harder to book games that draw well.

The Bisons have been and will remain a drawing power as long as Pistol Pete Pedro remains on the scene but, usually, they experience great difficulty in peddling their tickets.

A prominent game official told me not long ago that he has worked games there when the whistle-tooters outnumbered the spectators.

Coteyville, Kansas, JC, early season conqueror of HCJC in basketball, rated a better than seventh place in the recent juno coaches' poll conducted by the National Junior College Athletic Association but the Kansans probably deserve more respect.

Coteyville had a 9-2 worst record at the time. One of those defeats was at the hands of a fierce rival, Moberly, Mo., and that by one point. In the game, Coteyville sank five free throws, Moberly 37.

If the HCJC Jayhawks are to repeat as Western Conference champs, the locals are going to have to show some help.

A crippled HCJC team yielded to South Plains recently and the current pace setter, San Angelo, beat the same team in Levelland. The Rams have also beaten NMMI in Roswell—quite an accomplishment in itself.

Of the Rams' remaining foes, Odessa College and Frank Phillips figure to pose the biggest problems in road games, outside of HCJC.

The Hawks should be at full strength for both their games with San Angelo, barring unforeseen trouble. It will just about require a sweep of the series with the Rams for the Hawks to insure themselves a first place finish, however, and SAC is always tough for the locals to beat at home.

Should San Angelo go ahead and win the crown, the WC will have had three different titlists in its three years of operation.

Y. A. Tittle, who went from Marshall High to professional football fame, has been designated by the Pepsi-Cola people as one of four nationally known athletes who will choose his favorite college for annual $500 scholarships to deserving student-athletes.

Tittle, quite probably, will choose LSU since he gained his first national renown there.

Of the basketball teams now in District 2-A, only Big Spring, Abilene High, San Angelo, Midland and Odessa has ever made it to the state tournament.

Abilene qualified four times, Big Spring and San Angelo twice each and Midland and Odessa once each.

The Steers last sent a team to the Austin show over 30 years ago.

Richard Inman, the Belton strongman, will be among the ten Oklahoma University athletes competing in the Lubbock Indoor track and field meet Feb. 2. Inman won the Big Eight shot put title last year with a toss of 58 feet 10 inches.

Tourney Opens

The traditional March of Dimes bowling tournament got underway at 9 a.m. today and will continue for two weeks. Those who want to participate are asked to check with the Bowl-A-Rama for details.

Jr. High Tilts Booked For Today

Four junior high games are booked for today.

At 6 p.m. Rannels will entertain the Lakeview eighth graders, followed by a game between the ninth graders of the two schools at 7:30 p.m.

The Big Spring High School sophomores journey to the Goliad gym for games set for 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. against the Goliad eighth and ninth graders.

Lakers Are Topped By Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — The Celtics' dressing room was a picture of exhaustion. Bill Russell, sitting like a corkscrew, passed a long, bony finger over his aching jaw and gave a capsule analysis of the 133-121 National Basketball Association victory over Los Angeles.

"We did it. Now I can go home and sleep."

Boston had just ended an 11-game winning streak for Los Angeles. The Celtics, who had whipped the Lakers in overtime of the seventh playoff game for the NBA title last spring, had lost three of their previous four decisions with Los Angeles this season.

RUSSELL STARS On the surface, the Russell figures were impressive enough—29 points, 43 rebounds, a dozen blocked shots, five intercepted passes, three assists and a full 48 minutes of competition.

To make it more dramatic, add the fact he'd been knocked unconscious momentarily in the third period when his mouth and jaw collided with cracking impact against another player's head.

Russ got a split tongue and lip, a sore jaw and a foul called against him on that maneuver.

After hasty repairs he came right back for more.

Like his teammates, Russell got almost no rest because no game was available out of Syracuse, N.Y., after the 149-148 overtime loss to the Nets Saturday night. The team arrived by bus in Boston after 6 a.m.

The turning point in the Boston Garden thriller with a capacity 13,909 looking on came at the start of the fourth quarter. Los Angeles was ahead 38-36 at the end of the third, but the Celtics scored 12 straight points and Los Angeles could manage only one field goal in the first 10 minutes of the finale.

Sam Jones also had 29 points for Boston and Tom Heinsohn scored 26.

Elin Baylor scored 40 points for the losers and Dick Barnett added 27, but Boston had commanding edges in field goals (54-44) and rebounds (101-68).

Also in the NBA Sunday—the St. Louis Hawks barely edged San Francisco 116-115, even though the Warriors went all but the first 4 minutes without their super-star Wilt Chamberlain, and the Chicago Zephyrs ran off from the Cincinnati Royals 113-93.

Light Week For Cagers

This week will be a light one on the basketball front for local teams.

Howard County Junior College will entertain the Odessa College team here Tuesday at 8 p.m. in what shapes as a tough contest for the Hawks. Although he has managed to put on patch after patch as key men fell by the wayside for one reason or another, Coach Buddy Travis has managed to keep alive HCJC title chances. He did it Saturday evening when he smacked Mexico Military Institute 85-71, thanks to the return of Walter Carter. Playing with virtually one hand, Carter's sharp eye was way off but his defensive play helped check the Cadets. Earnest Turner, whose inspired play has been a salvation to the Hawks, came through again, as did the peppery spark plug, Cotton Thompson.

Big Spring High School, winless in district play, will go to San Angelo on Thursday to face the 2-AAAA leaders. They will have to suddenly find the combination if they are to be in contention here.

Ladies' Golf Unit Tackles Bowling

The Big Spring Country Club Women's Golf Association is going in for bowling also, at least it will seek to organize a bowling league.

MacARTHUR CITED

Peace Settlement Made In AAU-NCAA Squabble

NEW YORK (AP)—The popular indoor winter track season geared to resume full activities today in the wake of an AAU-NCAA peace settlement negotiated by old soldier Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"The real winners are the athletes," President John F. Kennedy said in Washington Sunday in congratulating the 82-year-old, five-star general for quick settlement of the 2½-year dispute which had threatened the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

It was that threat which prompted the President to call on MacArthur to step into the squabble between the two groups, locked in a power struggle for control of amateur athletics.

The truce was hammered out in two days of closed door conferences in the general's suite in the Waldorf Towers. The windup was a nine-hour, no-break session Saturday.

Representatives of each rival group were quick to point out arbitrator MacArthur as the force behind the settlement.

Bearcats Unchallenged For Top Basketball Club Honors

Take Cincinnati's mighty Bearcats and go on from there when evaluating the current college basketball season.

Cincinnati stands unchallenged as the nation's top club, has the upper hand in the tough Missouri Valley Conference, and appears capable of rolling to an unprecedented third straight national championship.

The Bearcats, with their 14-0 record and 32-game winning string, are running true to pre-season prognostications. Elsewhere there have been surprises with some favorites tripping over their sneakers and some long shots shipping their muscle.

Here is how the major conference pictures look:

Missouri Valley-Cincinnati took a big one Thursday, winning at Bradley after five straight losses there in as many seasons. Still a race, but probably among St. Louis, Wichita and Bradley for second.

Big Ten—Illinois, 4-0 in the league and 12-1 over-all, seems the class this season but the challengers are many. Defending champion Ohio State, after a fast start, began to stagger and was whipped by Iowa Saturday 81-74.

Big Eight—Colorado is 4-0 and running ahead for its second title in a row. Hank Iba's defense-happy Oklahoma State team shapes up as the Buffaloes' chief threat.

Southeastern—Mississippi State Auburn and Georgia Tech are 1-2-3 and have impressive over-all marks. It was Mississippi State 78-64 over Missouri, Auburn 81-76 over Alabama in overtime and Georgia Tech 70-55 over non-conference Florida State Saturday.

Tennessee trimmed Kentucky 78-69 in overtime, dropping Adolph Rupp's Wildcats into a tie for fourth.

Atlantic Coast—Duke and Wake Forest share the lead at 6-0, with North Carolina right behind at 5-1 after Saturday's 86-81 decision over Virginia.

Southern—Perennial power West Virginia shaded Virginia Tech 86-83 Saturday for an 8-0 conference record, putting the Mountaineers almost out of sight of the rest of the league.

Big Six—Stanford took firm control over the weekend by beating contender Washington twice, 57-43 and 58-49. The Indians' top competition probably will be UCLA and Southern California.

Western Athletic—Wyoming topped nationally ranked Arizona State 88-81 Saturday, meaning the Sun Devils are in for a battle in the new conference after all. A-State is 3-1 and 15-2. New Mexico 2-1 and 13-4.

Southwest—Texas in front at 4-0 and Texas A&M next at 3-1, but this scramble almost inevitably goes down to the wire.

Middle Atlantic—LaSalle, St. Joseph's and Temple probably will fight it out, as expected. LaSalle beat Seton Hall 89-80 and Temple nipped Villanova 50-49 Saturday in non-conference games.

Ivy League—Penn was upset by Cornell 78-76 Friday but roared back Saturday, rapping Columbia 86-66 and holding onto the lead. The Quakers are 4-1, with Yale and Harvard each 3-1. Princeton, expected to be the big threat with sophomore star Bill Bradley, down the course at 2-3.

Trinity Books S'West Teams

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Trinity University has announced a tennis schedule which includes matches with seven Southwest Conference schools and Tulane.

Coach Clarence Mabry said Trinity will open Jan. 28 against the University of Arizona at Tucson.

His Tigers went through last season undefeated.

A Trinity senior this year is Chuck McKinley, the nation's No. 1 ranked amateur. Frank Froehling, ranked No. 2, has indicated he plans to return to Trinity for the coming season. He is a student at Yale.

Herb Score Will Try Majors Again

"I want no alibis. I don't deserve them. I'm just not pitching the way I used to."

Herb Score has been saying the same thing for six years. Not many believe him.

Score, who at 23 was worth a million dollars, now is 29 and a question-mark commodity as he prepares for another comeback after signing his 1963 baseball contract with the Chicago White Sox over the weekend.

On May 7, 1957, Score lay crumpled at the pitchers' mound after a line drive from Gil McDougald's bat struck him in the right eye, endangering his eyesight and a blossoming career.

The left-handed hurler has never regained the form that made him a 20-game winner in 1956.

Score, however, attributes his pitching failure to an arm injury suffered in 1958.

"I hurt my elbow pitching against Washington in 1958. Everybody makes excuses for me because of the accident, but if there is any reason, it's my arm. I tore a tendon, and I got into bad habits favoring it," he said before spring training last year.

"It's rhythm he needs," said White Sox manager Al Lopez.

So Score again was sent to the minors for the 1962 campaign. He won 10 games and lost seven at Indianapolis in the now defunct American Association. It was far off his 16-10 and 20-9 records for 1955 and 1956 when he struck out over 200 batters in the majors.

But he was a winner.

Now he's back for still another try at the majors.

Also signing was Pittsburgh right-hander Vern Law, who has been bothered by a sore arm for years. Law, 32, posted a 20-9 record in 1960 as the Pirates won.

Also signing was Pittsburgh right-hander Vern Law, who has been bothered by a sore arm for years. Law, 32, posted a 20-9 record in 1960 as the Pirates won.

HERB SCORE No alibis for him

World Series. Then his arm went bad. He was 3-4 while working in only 11 games during 1961. Last year Law made a start on the road back. He appeared in 23 games with a 10-7 record and a creditable 3.95 earned run average.

The Pirates also signed outfielder Ron Woods and catcher Carl Taylor.

Others signing were pitchers Bob Gordon and Dennis McLain and first baseman Grover (Deacon) Jones of the White Sox, outfielder Lee Thomas of the Los Angeles, catcher Dick Brown of Baltimore and second baseman Dick McAuliffe and outfielder Mickey Stanley of Detroit.

Knife Point

Linda Light, 19-year-old university student who was Miss Kansas in the 1962 Miss Universe beauty contest, told police in Topeka, Kans., she was held captive for 1 1/2 hours by a knife-carrying laborer who entered her parents' home. Police said she received minor cuts and was struck unconscious at one time by the intruder, apparently bent on robbery. A knife was held at her throat during much of the time, she told police who are continuing an investigation. Nothing was apparently taken. The picture was taken last summer when she won the Miss Kansas competition.

First Family Has Weekend In White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Comedians George Burns and Carol Channing did some of their routines. Actor Kirk Douglas sang. Members of President Kennedy's family joined in a rousing chorus of "The Weiridin' of the Green." That's how President and Mrs. Kennedy and their guests spent Saturday night in the White House after heavy fog forced them to cancel their planned trip to Middleburg, Va., for the weekend, the Washington Post said today.

The evening began with a quiet, informal dinner that included President and Mrs. Kennedy, her sister Princess Lee Radziwill, British Ambassador and Lady David Ormsby Gore, Burns, Miss Channing, her husband Charles Lowe and accompanist Bob Hudson.

Later, according to Post drama critic Richard L. Coe, they were joined by Douglas and his wife, the President's brothers Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and their wives, and a brother-in-law and sister of the President, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith.

High point of the evening, Coe reported, was the President's invitation to the group to see Abraham Lincoln's bed.

"The President led the way," Coe wrote, "opened the door a crack, suddenly closed it with his finger on his lips:

"Sorry," he said, "the tour's off. Mother's in Lincoln's bed."

Ethiopia Shines Capital City For Meeting

By WERN MCKINLEY
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Workmen are sprucing up Addis Ababa for a big meeting of African chiefs of state this spring.

They are chipping away at streets and pounding away at buildings, and government officials are hoping that the face of Addis will be well lifted by the time the African notables arrive.

No matter how much they do, they can't essentially change one of the world's most colorful cities.

Addis Ababa means "new flower," and the descriptions is partly true. In terms of Ethiopia's 3,000 years of independence, it is an infant. Emperor Menelik II made this his capital 76 years ago. He liked the scenery.

PERFECT CLIMATE
The city sprawls on a strange and beautiful plateau 8,000 feet above sea level, only 600 miles north of the equator. It has "little rains" in February or March and "big rains" in summer; but the climate is practically perfect. In the coldest month (December) the temperature averages 58 degrees and in the hottest month (May) 85 degrees. It is always springlike.

The capital has many new and imposing buildings, including glass and marble Africa Hall, the $2.5-million home of the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa.

Most of the 450,000 people live in rickety, whitewashed cabins made of mud and wood. The cabins sprawl up and down the hills amid lovely groves of eucalyptus trees, and straggle in clusters on the main streets.

VICE RAMPANT
Bars seem to sprout up every four doors. No one knows how many prostitutes there are. Their cabins are so numerous as the bars. One row stretches impudently for a block, across the street from the British and Soviet embassies.

New and old Africa come together with a bang in Addis. A tall tribesman walks proudly along Churchill Street, past the French Academy, wearing "little cloth hat, white shawl on his left shoulder and absolutely nothing else. A barefoot vendor rests for a moment on a newly installed parking meter, offering leopard skins to passersby.

Ethiopian women, fine-featured and thin-legged, are famous for their good looks. City sophisticates wear tight European clothes. Most of the Addis women cling to the traditional costume—a white shawl over a long white robe fringed at the base with brilliant colors. Many carry parasols to protect their complexions, ranging from golden to darker shades. A fly whisk of long haired fur is optional equipment.

Oldtimers among the men wear straggling bush jackets, jodhpurs and the pitch helmets made famous by Emperor Haile Selassie when he fought the Italians. Most now also wear shoes.

There is a great deal of hand-shaking and low bowing on the streets. When the emperor rolls through town in his Rolls-Royce, diplomats are supposed to pull their cars to the side, hop out and bow as he passes.

Addis has American, British, French, Swedish, Greek, Armenian and Italian colonies. The Italians came as conquerors in 1936 and departed in defeat five years later, but their stamp remains on the town.

More Misery Is On Weather Menu

By The Associated Press
Winter's brand of rough weather—numbing cold, snow and freezing rain—extended across vast sections of the nation today, a repeat of last week's miserable climatic conditions.

Frigid weather held tight across the nation's midsection. Temperatures dropped to more than 30 degrees below zero in northern areas. It was near zero southward into sections of Kentucky and eastward to the Ohio Valley.

Freezing weather extended into Texas, with warnings of a hard freeze in southern sections and through the lower Mississippi Valley into parts of Alabama and Georgia. The cold weather threatened citrus groves in the semitropical lower Rio Grande Valley.

Southern California again braced for more freezing weather—the ninth straight day of a cold wave that has caused more than $3 million damage to citrus vegetable and flower crops. The mercury dropped to 41 in Los Angeles Sunday but freezing readings—as low as 12—chilled outlying areas.

A wind-lashed snowstorm off Lake Erie battered broad areas of western New York State Sunday night. Wind gusts up to 50 m.p.h. whipped the snow into blinding clouds, causing heavy drifting and cutting visibility to zero.

Nearly all traffic on more than 100 miles of the New York Thruway was halted for several hours but later some traffic was permitted between Rochester and Buffalo. The storm closed many roads throughout the area.

Freezing drizzle slicked highways in Houston and San Antonio, Tex. A glaze of ice covered sections of northern Alabama. Rain changed to sleet or snow over much of Louisiana and Mississippi, creating hazardous driving conditions.

More snow fell in the snow-covered sections of the Midwest and into the Ohio Valley and sections of Pennsylvania.

At least 15 weather-related deaths were reported—from exposure, fires, and traffic accidents on icy and snow-covered highways.

Tornadoic winds lashed across more than a dozen counties in south Georgia, causing thousands of dollars damage to property.

Severe windstorms, also described as possible tornadoes, touched down at Loxley and Enterprise in southern Alabama, causing damage to homes and a nursery estimated at $150,000 to $200,000.
