N.S. SAVANNAH IS THE FIRST CUSTOMER

World's First Service Station For Nuclear Ships Opens In Galveston Today

GALVESTON (AP) — The world's first service station for atomic merchant ships opened for business today and its first customer was to be the N. S. Savannah.

The Savannah headed for Todd Shipyard on Pelican Island for dedication ceremonies of the first commercial facility for refueling, maintenance and servicing nuclear-powered surface vessels. The facility will service the Savannah for its world-wide cruises, the first of which is to begin May 7.

Speakers at the dedication ceremonies were Gov. John Connally and Thomas King of New Orleans, Gulf Coast director for the Maritime Administration.

The Savannah is a single propeller ship, 595.5 feet long. She has a molded beam of 78 feet and her design draft is 29.5 feet when fully loaded.

She cruises at 20 knots developed with an output of 20,000 shaft horsepower.

The ship carries 60 passengers, a crew of about 110 and 10,000 tons of dry cargo.

The Savannah was built to explore the possibility of nuclear commercial ships.

Since the ship uses deadly radioactive fuel (about 17,000 pounds) the Savannah was designed and constructed to withstand, without damage to reactor compartment any collision with any ships making up 99 per cent of the world's merchant fleet.

The Savannah, fresh from a

West Coast tour, will remain here three months. She will be open to the public Wednesday through Sunday.

She begins the international tour in May after ceremonies at Houston.

The service installation was designed specially for the Savannah.

The 700-foot pier includes a large facilities building and a 75-ton capacity crane for moving reactor elements between the ship and building. A special barge, the Atomic Servant, will operate from the facility.

The Atomic Servant is equipped with waste processing and decontamination facilities, laboratories, health physics equipment and laundry.

More than 50 engineers and technicians staff the facility.

Today's merchant ships are a far cry from the ships of yesterday. The modernity of the N.S.

(for nuclear ship) Savannah is typified by the photo at left of a section of the vessel's main passenger lounge. The spacious, comfortable lounge is used for formal receptions for visiting dignitaries, passenger recreation, and as a movie auditorium.

The Savannah's nuclear reactor has a tremendous capability. The vessel can travel 14 times around the globe without refueling. The Savannah carries a 3½ year nuclear fuel supply of 17,000 pounds of enriched uranium oxide. Approximately 90,000 tons of fuel oil would be needed to produce an equivalent amount of energy in a conventionally-powered vessel.

The Savannah is on a port-to-port schedule that will take the vessel to major seaports throughout the United States.

Developed jointly by the U. S.

Atomic Energy Commission and the Maritime Administration of the U. S. Department of Commerce, the Savannah is operated by States Marine Lines as general agent for the Maritime Administration.

The vessel will be open to the public at the various ports of call.

At right is a photo of the 22,000-ton ship. The Savannah is on a port-to-port schedule that will take the ship to major seaports throughout the United States.

The N.S. Savannah is named for the S.S. Savannah, the first vessel using steam to cross the Atlantic some 144 years ago. It took the original Savannah nearly a month to travel from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool, England, on this historic voyage back in 1819.

The nuclear Savannah is able to operate on longer runs at higher sustained speeds and is able to carry larger cargoes than conventional steamships today. Reason? Its reactors require much less space than conventional oil-burning equipment and fuel tanks.

States Marine has supplied the ship's crew, including deck officers and highly trained reactor engineers.

The N.S. Savannah is intended to demonstrate to the world (1) the intent of the United States to employ the power of the atom for peaceful productive purposes and (2) the feasibility of using nuclear energy to power merchant ships.

The Savannah has six full decks.

Fire Destroys R. A. Fletcher Garage, Car.

A fire, caused by cleaning fluid fumes in a garage with an open gas flame, damaged Monday evening the garage and home of the Robert A. Fletcher, five and a half miles out on the old San Angelo highway.

Big Spring firemen, with two booster trucks, saved a major portion of the house but the garage was a total loss, and there was heavy interior damage to the house and furniture resulting from smoke, water and some fire.

Fletcher told Fire Chief H. V. Crocker that he was washing a motor with flammable fluid and that the fumes were ignited by the open flame.

Damage to the house and contents was estimated at between $8,300 and $9,000.

Firemen managed to cut off the fierce blaze in the garage before it could get a start in the house. Two windows, between the garage and house, allowed heavy smoke and some fire to get into rooms adjoining and the smoke damaged furniture, walls, and fixtures in the rest of the house.

Firemen from the Central station and Eighteenth and Main station went to the scene.

The garage housed a car, a boat on a trailer, an air conditioner, air compressor and tank, and many other items of value, including tools.

The decision unless Dunn can get it reversed by court order or other methods, means he cannot send patients to the only hospital in this West Texas city of 15,000. He also cannot treat hospital patients.

Records show that about one-third of the persons sent to the hospital were Dunn's patients. The hospital has 10 doctors practicing there, including Dunn.

The board in the hearing — ordered by a court — paraded nurses and patients to the witness chair to substantiate its charges, while Dunn brought witnesses who said he performed his duties well and stepped on someone to get the sort of treatment he wanted for patients.

ESTES CASE
 Dunn claimed to have tipped the FBI to the activities of Billie Sol Estes. Pecos promoter whose financial operations blocked Washington and Wall Street.

Dunn, however, told reporters that his troubles with the hospital board did not result from his connection with the Estes case but from his personal investigation of crime in Pecos. Nothing was brought out in the hearings bearing on investigations by Dunn.

Even before Dunn read the board's decision, he asked a reporter: "What do you think it says?"

"I think you are not reinstated," the reporter replied.

"That's right," Dunn said. "The letter to Dr. Dunn said: 'After careful consideration of all the evidence and testimony produced before the board of managers of Reeves County Memorial Hospital at the public hearing before the board, commencing Jan. 28 and extending to Feb. 2, 1963, and recommendation of the medical staff of the hospital made at a joint meeting between the medical staff and the board, it was unanimously voted by the board of managers of Memorial Hospital at a meeting held on the evening of Feb. 4, 1963, that you should not be reappointed to the medical staff of the hospital for the year 1963.'"

 Under legal procedures, Dunn can go back into the state District Court and ask for a review, but the court would not be expected to hear testimony given at the recent hospital board hearing.

Hospital Board Turns Down Dunn Medic To File Suit Today In Seeking Reinstatement

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — The Reeves County Memorial Hospital Board refused today to reinstate controversial Dr. John Paul Dunn to its staff.

The board chairman delivered the board's verdict to Sheriff A. B. Nail, who relayed it to Dr. Dunn.

Dunn said he intends to file suit for an injunction some time during the day.

The board accused the bawling, 35-year-old physician of making derogatory remarks about other doctors on the staff, harassing hospital personnel and engaging in amorous scenes with women patients.

NO PATIENTS

 Under legal procedures, Dunn can go back into the state District Court and ask for a review, but the court would not be expected to hear testimony given at the recent hospital board hearing.

Dr. Dunn has until now been able to send patients to the hospital and treat them there because of a temporary injunction preventing the board from barring him or his patients.

The injunction stated that Dunn could not be dropped from the staff until Dunn was granted a formal hearing by the hospital board.

Dunn, 35, a center of controversy which has divided this West Texas town, presently is able to use the hospital because of a temporary injunction. It was granted by a state court which held the board could not drop him from the medical staff until Dunn was granted a formal hearing.

Dunn went to court after receiving notice Jan. 2 he was being dismissed.

TESTIMONY
 Most of last week was devoted to testimony before the board by nurses, former patients and Dunn himself.

Witnesses called by the board accused the round faced, nearly bald doctor of criticizing other physicians on the staff, causing trained hospital workers to quit and hugging and kissing women patients. Dunn and his witnesses denied the charges.

Negotiations are continuing between W. R. Grace & Co. and Petrofina S.A. for sale of the controlling interest in Cosden Petroleum Corporation, but no contract has been executed.

R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden, reiterated Tuesday that he was in no position to comment on the rumored trade. Grace owns 52 per cent of the Cosden stock and Tollett pointed out that any negotiations were the business of W. R. Grace & Co.

However, during the past week

Informed sources said that it is possible that some sort of definitive contract may be proposed or executed before the month is out. The general outline or terms of this proposal are not known.

House Acts On Mental Retardation

AUSTIN (AP) — The House took a step today toward helping research efforts in mental retardation.

Representatives approved on voice vote a measure that would allow the State Hospitals Board to use present facilities for needed research for the mentally retarded. The bill goes to the Senate.

Sponsors said the bill applies particularly to the Houston Psychiatric Institute. The institution already has authority to do research into mental illnesses but there have been technical questions about mental retardation research.

Apparent Low Bid In For CRMWD Pipeline

Fulton Construction Company of Lubbock today submitted what appeared to be the low bid for a 31.5-mile pipeline project for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The proposal, using 24-inch diameter pipe in the north 21.7 miles of the line, was for $2,037,035.

There was a possibility that Elm Fork Construction Company of Dallas might be in contention but it did not run its totals on the 24-inch section.

The pipeline will carry water from Lake J. B. Thomas to a terminal point of Sun Oil Company in northern Coke county, where Sun is operating a waterflood project. At the outset, the contract is for 3,000,000 gallons of water a day, of which as much as 1,000,000 gallons may come from the Colorado River, which is heavily mineralized. This will help clear the way for the district to proceed with plans for a second dam.

Ranking second on the list of bidders with the 24-inch section on the upper 21.7 miles (all bids were for 18-inch on the remaining 29.8 miles) was H. B. Zachary Company of San Antonio with a proposal of $2,093,252, followed by Brodie & Co. of Amarillo with a $2,120,444 proposal. Other bidders were Clyde Construction Company of Odessa $2,178,932, Sub-Surface Construction of Fort Worth $2,189,486, R. B. Hodgson of Midland $2,198,973 and Allison and Haynie of Albuquerque, N. M. $2,542,320.

Directors of the CRMWD were to reconvene at 3:30 p.m. today to consider the analysis of the bids and recommendations from general manager E. V. Spence and the consulting engineers, Freese, Nichols and Endress of Fort Worth.

There was little doubt that the contract will be let on the basis of using the 24-inch pipe in the upper section. S. C. Freese, Fort Worth, pointed out that the bid using 24-inch pipe for that section was less than had been estimated ($2,174,400) for 18-inch pipe all the way.

The importance of the 24-inch section is in having an over-sized line extend from Lake J. B. Thomas to a point almost directly east of Moss Creek Lake, thus affording the City of Big Spring an alternate route for additional water from Lake Thomas. This could be important in the summer time when both Big Spring and Odessa are experiencing peak demand.

Once the board acts Tuesday afternoon on the contract, the district is expected to turn the contractor loose. There is a $1,000 per day penalty for each day after July 1 that the contractor has not completed the line.

Meanwhile, the district is pressing its contacts to secure right of way for the project.

Stans Employed To Cut Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republicans have enlisted former Budget Director Maurice H. Stans for what they call a scientific attempt to cut President Kennedy's $98.8-billion budget.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Stans is expected to "take a good hard look" at the budget and come up with specific targets at which Republicans of both houses can aim.

Facilities for training and rehabilitation of the mentally ill and retarded.

More research centers to get at the causes and, hopefully, the cures.

Specifically, the President intends to introduce four new bills, one of them not to be fully implemented until the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1964.

That bill would encourage state or local governments or non-profit groups to establish networks of community mental health centers. It would provide part of the construction costs and up to 75 per cent of the staff costs for the first 15 months, decreasing thereafter for the rest of the four-year program. There is no price tag for this program.

It now costs the American taxpayer more than $2.4 billion a year for services to the mentally ill and retarded, the President said.

"This situation has been tolerated far too long. It has troubled our national conscience—but only as a problem unpleasant to mention, easy to postpone, and de-rected that a study be made to explore ways for encouraging expansion of private health insurance to include mental health care.

 Snow slides killed 17 Japanese Tuesday raising the death toll to at least 110 in Japan's worst winter in years.

Several programs were recommended by the President to help prevent some of the 126,000 annual new cases of mental retardation, and to rehabilitate and care for some 200,000 mentally retarded now in institutions.

Mental retardation strikes children of all classes and economic levels, the President said.

He did not mention his own family's experience. A sister, Rosemary, 43, is mentally retarded and has been under custodial care in a Roman Catholic institution since 1941.

Mental retardation "hits more often—and harder—at the underprivileged and the poor," the President said. "In some slum areas 10 to 30 per cent of the school-age children are mentally retarded, while in the very same cities more prosperous neighborhoods have only one or two per cent retarded."

Kennedy Urges Bold New Mental Health Programs

By JOHN BARBOUR
 Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged today bold new programs he said would eventually free hundreds of thousands of mental patients from hospital beds and lighten the tragic toll of mental retardation.

The cost for the first year would be $31.35 million, but it might cost many millions more when the program accelerates.

His proposals were in a special message to Congress on mental health — the first such message sent to Capitol Hill by an American president.

Kennedy asked for an across-the-board legislative program for: New community mental health centers, the centerpiece for bringing the mentally ill back to a useful life, and preventing new cases earlier.

More pre-natal care for mothers-to-be to help insure their infants will not be doomed to mental retardation.

More child health care to detect and treat threatened cases earlier.

More trained personnel and faspiring of solution," the President said.

Within a decade or two, the President said, a broad, new mental health program can reduce by at least half the 600,000 hospitalized mental patients.

"Many more mentally ill can be helped to remain in their own homes without hardship to themselves or their families," he said. "Those who are hospitalized can be helped to return to their own communities. All but a small proportion can be restored to useful life."

The community mental health center can be the focus of care, diagnosis, rehabilitation and emergency service, he said. It would operate day and night, for inpatients and outpatients. It would aim at prevention as well as treatment.

Such centers, using new methods of treatment and tranquilizers, will reduce the treatment periods to weeks or months, rather than years, the President said. This means that mental illness could be paid for as other medical and hospital costs.

The President said he has di-

WHO KNOWS OUR STATE ANTHEM?

Eyes Of Texas Are On Bill To Change Official Song

AUSTIN (AP) — The problem of whether the Texas A&M band would play "The Eyes of Texas" as the state song came to the legislature Monday night.

Rep. Bill Walker of Cleveland, who wants to shelve "Texas Our Texas" in favor of the University of Texas song, caught the brunt of questions from committee members.

"People just don't know and don't recognize the state song when it's played," he said. "They do recognize 'The Eyes of Texas.'"

Mrs. Myra Brewster of Austin, president of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs, said her organization's 500 clubs "would just rise up in arms" if the state song is changed.

"If any three (of 21 members) of you on this committee can get up and sing at least one chorus of our state song, I'll withdraw my proposal," Walker said.

No one took the challenge.

Rep. Sam Collins of Newton asked Walker: "Do you think the Aggie band can learn to play 'The Eyes of Texas?'"

Rep. Ben Jarvis of Tyler wanted to amend the bill to make the "Yellow Rose of Texas" the state song.

The song proposal went to a subcommittee.

U. S. Tourists Scramble Over Middle East Ruins

By DAVID LANCASHIRE BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—With chattering hooves and jingling bridles, horses pick their way through the twisting gorge, past soaring redstone cliffs where Lawrence of Arabia once rode.

With cameras at the ready, similar tourist groups scramble up the pyramids of Egypt, paddle across the Syrian sands to Palmyra, where the Roman ruins outshine those of Rome.

Tourists come from the United States, Europe and the Far East. Bunches of Soviet technicians' families mingle with the sightseers in Aswan or Damascus.

Arab governments are aware of the profits tourists can bring. But most still have much to learn about attracting visitors and looking after them once they arrive.

Tourists watching the glass blowers of Hebron, swimming in the Dead Sea or strolling through Jerusalem's medieval streets can stay in new hotels and guest houses or refurbished old ones.

Taxes Make Appearance In Legislature Today

AUSTIN (AP)—That unwelcome word "taxes" made its appearance in the legislature today.

This afternoon and tonight committees in both chambers were taking up the subject of taxes. In a pre-session survey by The Associated Press, legislators picked new taxes and changes in present levies as the No. 1 issue before them.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee, one of the busiest last session, scheduled its first hearing in the afternoon. Up for discussion was Rep. Bill Walker's proposal to equalize Texas and Louisiana sulphur taxes. If approved, it will mean a lower rate in Texas.

Proponents have argued a lower rate would result in more revenue by encouraging sulphur production.

Tonight the House Constitutional Amendments Committee will hear a plan by Rep. John Allen of Longview to freeze sales taxes at the current 2 per cent maximum. At the same time the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee will be hearing arguments for and against banning the poll tax as a requirement for voting.

Earlier this session, the House Elections Committee sent to substitute a free registration law for the current poll tax statute.

The Senate committee also will hear three plans for changes in the state ad valorem tax system.

Monday's Senate meeting attracted wide attention as the usually prompt senators carried a secret session far beyond the normal lunch hour.

Finally, after 2 p.m., the senators announced they would not approve Joe Ed Winfree, 71, former dean of the House from Houston, as a member of the State Board of Control. Winfree has been serving in the job since his June appointment by former Gov. Price Daniel.

Rejection of Winfree, which he attributed to his age, leaves the board vacancy to be filled by Gov. John Connally, still subject to Senate confirmation.

The senators approved Daniel's appointment of Joe Trosper of Dallas to the State Board of Inurance, plus nearly 100 other recess appointments.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston said later he will introduce a resolution later to change Senate rules on secret sessions.

"I have come to the conclusion that executive sessions are of absolutely no value," Schwartz said. "I used to think they protected the people being considered, but now I've decided I was wrong."

Another Senate committee heard lengthy arguments Monday afternoon on Sen. Bruce Reagan's bill to permit leasing of state-owned submerged lands and islands for recreational purposes. It finally went to a subcommittee.

"This bill would shut out Texas' open beaches," protested Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado. "Submerged land means beach land."

Reagan argued his bill merely would provide for development of the coast. He said present law allows these submerged lands to be leased for industrial purposes.

Sen. Charles Herring's bill proposing several changes in the State Securities Act also went to a subcommittee.

At night committee hearings: A controversial proposal to change the state song from "Texas, Our Texas" to the University of Texas song "The Eyes of Texas" was referred to a subcommittee. The president of the Texas Federation of Women's Music Clubs, Mrs. Myra Brewster of Austin, said the organization's 500 clubs "would rise up in arms" if the song were changed.

Other proposals going to subcommittees provide for use of punch cards for voting ballots, making Memorial Day (May 30) a state and banking holiday; and rescinding State Board of Education action that a guidance counselor be needed for a school to be accredited by the board.

Winter Storm Lashes Atlantic

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A slow-moving winter storm lashed the Atlantic today. Twenty-foot waves and 50-mile winds endangered more than a half-dozen ships and hobbled attempts at rescue.

The storm also pushed heavy breakers onto valuable ocean-front property, battering resorts and swallowing yards of beach.

Coast Guard craft were trying to rescue ships from the tip of Florida to the Carolinas. Gale warnings flew most of the way but heavy seas gave the rescuers almost as much trouble as the rescued.

Tides ran two to four feet above normal along the Carolinas, Georgia and northeast Florida Monday with flooding and considerable erosion, the Weather Bureau said.

The Coast Guard said towering waves made rescues ticklish. "We've got just about everything that will run out there," one officer said.

Before sweeping across Florida from the Gulf of Mexico, the storm sank a trawler, drowning three men. Six others were rescued.

Among the craft in trouble in the Atlantic were: the shrimp boat Mingo, the tanker Texico Illinois, the fishing vessel Sultana

II, and the fishing vessel Tiger Shark.

A work crew of more than 60 shored up seawalls in Jacksonville with sandbags. A request for convict labor was turned down because the prisoners had their hands full trying to repair washed out drainage ditches and other storm damage.

The weather pattern in other parts of the nation showed only minor changes. No severe storms were reported and a warming trend continued in most sections from the Pacific Coast to the Appalachians. Unseasonably mild temperatures were reported in central and western parts of the country.

Subzero cold was reported only in northern Maine, with temperatures mostly in the teens in other parts of New England, in parts of New York State and from North Dakota eastward to the Lake Superior region. Snow flurries fell in parts of the cold belt.

Flying Bedstead Trainer For Moon Landing Trials

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—American astronauts will train for a landing on the moon in a kind of "flying bedstead."

Astronaut M. Scott Carpenter and Dr. Robert B. Voas of the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston gave new details of a weird flyable device designed to give spacemen the feel of a lunar landing while flying over an American desert.

They told about it at a symposium on space medicine at Brooks Air Force Base Monday.

The aircraft, officially known as a "flying simulator," will feature a metal frame about 14 feet high and about that length at the base, giving roughly the appearance of a flying bedstead, Carpenter said.

It will sport two engines—a special jet engine at the center of the frame and a rocket engine.

The jet will operate in such a way as to cancel out five-sixths of the earth's gravitational pull, thus simulating conditions above the low-gravity moon. The rocket engine will be used to lower the craft gently to the desert surface, and then enable it to rise again.

The astronaut would ride in a car fastened to the metal frame, and would work the controls of both engines.

"The men can practice lunar landings while flying over the desert," Dr. Voas told the symposium of 400 space scientists.

Receives Honor

K. H. McGibbon, of McGibbon Oil Co., receives a congratulatory kiss from Mrs. McGibbon when named "Boss of the Year" by the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association. A trophy was presented to McGibbon by Mrs. Jack Thorpe, right, who entered his name for the award.

Scenic Chapter Names Its Boss Of The Year

K. H. McGibbon was named "Boss of the Year" and James Bruce Frazier was the guest speaker at the third annual bosses banquet of the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Monday evening at the Settles Hotel, McGibbon, of McGibbon Oil Co., received a trophy presented by Mrs. Jack Thorpe, an employee in his office.

Referring to the Chihuahua and Pacific Railroad as the "enchanted railway," Frazier told of his fascination with the history of the little-known railway. The project had its beginning as a branch of Arthur E. Stillwell during a banquet in Kansas City, Mo., in 1900.

The almost impossible task of building the roadbed over the Sierra Madres was only recently completed and passenger service began traveling through what Frazier described as a "last frontier," the railway crosses 24 bridges and goes through 72 tunnels as it makes its way through virgin country inhabited mostly by Indians.

After the invocation by Mrs. Ara Cunningham Mrs. Doris Carr, president, extended the welcome and introduced guests. Frazier was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Arthur Eitzen. Following his talk, a skit entitled "To Tell the Truth" was presented as a prelude to introducing the boss of the year. Participating on the panel were Mrs. Leonard Burks, Mrs. Ross Darrow, Mrs. Janie Huffstetter, Mrs. Bill Seals, Mrs. A. G. Eitzen and Mrs. B. R. Stewart.

An interlude of organ music was provided by C. R. Long as guests were registered by Mrs. Burks.

The speaker's table was covered with a white cloth featuring a Valentine motif. A centerpiece of red and white carnations was flanked by red tapers in silver holders. A lighted revolving tree had leaves made of red and white hearts. Streamers with red hearts fell from the ceiling over tables placed in a crescent design.

COUNCIL REPORTS

Presidents Announce Clubs' New Memberships

Presidents' reports were given when the Howard County Home Demonstration Club Council met Monday at the courthouse. Sixteen women had become new members of the organization during January.

Following the devotion by Mrs. Ernest Lillard, visitors were introduced as Mrs. Aldon Ryan, Mrs. Kenneth Dufier and Mrs. W. L. Eggleston.

A luncheon and book review was scheduled for March 21 at Cosden Country Club for all city HD clubwomen and their guests. Tolford Durham will review, "The Recovery of Family Life."

The 4-H Club show and sale is set for March 12 through 14 at the fairground barn with the HD clubs having charge of the concession stand.

Mrs. Frank Wilson announced that the Texas HD Association district meeting will be in Lubbock on April 18. The state convention will be held Sept. 18 and 19 in San Antonio, and the national meeting at Little Rock from Oct. 21 through 24. The THDA constitution was distributed to club presidents. Qualifications for a THDA chairman were reviewed by Mrs. Delaine Crawford.

The weather cooperated for the golden wedding celebration and hardly a breeze ruffled the ladies' hats. It was truly a gathering of old and new friends and everyone had a delightful time.

We were happy to see again MRS. J. R. BEAHN, the former KATHALEEN PEGUES who made her home here until 1924. She hasn't lived in Big Spring since although she lived in Sterling City for several years after leaving here. She is now living in Fort Worth. Mrs. Beahn spent one night of her visit in Sterling City, and saw many friends before coming here for the Sunday afternoon party.

Conversation naturally turned to the anniversaries of the old timers and among them were the L. H. RUTLEDGES who celebrated their 58th in November. Also H. F. TAYLOR passed on the news that, come March 2, he and Mrs. Taylor will have been a happy couple for 60 years.

MRS. E. H. BOULLIQUIN told of a son E. H. JR. and his associate RENE BROWN, who are in Tokyo, Japan, on company business. According to a letter received by Mrs. Boulliquin Jr., the amount of money they get in exchange for American money is exciting. He says he has so much he could paper their big bedroom. The two men have been in Japan 10 days and will likely be there several weeks.

Program On Witnessing Presented

Witnessing to Oriental Americans was the topic for a program at the First Baptist Church Monday evening.

The missionary song, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," and names of missionaries having birthdays, read by Mrs. W. R. Douglas, opened the meeting. Prayer for the missionaries was offered by Mrs. W. F. Bettie.

Taking part in the program discussion were Mrs. H. B. Reagan, leader, assisted by Mrs. I. S. Story, Mrs. W. F. Taylor, Mrs. Lee Jenkins, Mrs. E. E. Bryant and Mrs. Leonard Coker. All were attired in Oriental dress in keeping with the stage setting.

In the discussion it was pointed out that the Southern Baptists have some 900 missionaries appointed to the various language groups in the United States.

The meeting closed with prayer offered by Mrs. Reagan.

Mu Zetas Plan For Benefit

Mu Zeta of Beta Sigma Phi, Monday night at the home of Mrs. Richard Cook, made plans for a benefit card party and named committees to be in charge of arrangements.

The party, a chapter project, will be held March 15 at the Cosden Country Club. Mrs. George Bugg, ways and means chairman, announced committee appointments.

A nominating committee was appointed to report at the next meeting when officers will be voted upon.

Mrs. Kurt Roeloffs, reading from "Auntie Mame," presented the program on drama. The next meeting will be held Feb. 18 at the home of Mrs. Bob Badger.

Warm, Vibrant Colors In Decorating News

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When experts pool their talents as they do at home-furnishings markets, one is likely to get a clearer-than-usual picture of what to use with what.

A person who likes a vibrant orange chair will find it looks terrible when placed next to a white wall. But give it an olive or brown-green background, and the piece mellows.

Winter markets in Chicago and New York clearly pointed to the use of bright upholstery, fabrics and painted furniture, all flattering to new Spanish, Mediterranean and other traditional and contemporary influences.

Bright warm reds, aquamarine, Persian pink, lavender, purples, blues from iridescent medium to indigo were found in more upholstered pieces and drapery fabrics than heretofore.

So, how to use these colors successfully if you are your own decorator?

For one thing, you'll probably need a new paint job.

Olive-green walls were used to set off a dining room set upholstered in palest melon. Walls in a brown-green range set off furniture upholstered in orange with another piece covered in a print of an orange-green and tawny brown.

Sometimes one can manage by painting one existing white wall a color so that the room can "take it." This was accomplished in a bedroom setting. A bright red upholstered occasional chair and a bedspread and pillows were of the same bright hue as the wall behind the headboard. The other three walls were left white, and the consensus was that an exciting red-on-red picture was created.

MATCHED FABRIC

Wall colors were often the same shade as colors in upholstered pieces. This was true of bright blue used in dining, living, den and foyer settings. In some instances a deeper indigo blue or a "hot brown" paint was used.

In one room setting, a hot, true orange was used for both upholstery and one wall. But a little orange can go a long way, and if one is working without a decorator it is wise to temper one's instincts toward vivid walls. It isn't wise, either, to have more than one large upholstered piece or two small ones in that hue.

Pale lavender walls were used as a background in a room setting where a couch was upholstered in lavender and occasional chairs featured prints in the lavender-blue-green range.

WHITE IS OUT

Paint experts say that white walls are definitely out. The trend to darker walls was dramatically emphasized in rooms with black and slate gray walls as a background for furniture featuring melon, orange, red or russet. This makes an effective wall, too, for hanging colorful prints or paintings.

In painted furniture, finishes include antique red, barn and russet red, light blue, pale blue-green, medium blue, yellow, gold, white, white with maroon. Gold and silver stenciling was also featured on antique finishes.

Painted chairs are further dramatized by the use of contrasting hues in cushions, and in some instances these can be dramatic, depending upon where the chair is to be used. Black and white checkboard patterns are popular for red, white and blue painted chairs.

Advertising Is Subject Discussed For Club

Advertising was described by Jack Womack as the bridge span to a good way of life, for Desk and Derrick Club members Monday evening in the Community Room at First Federal Savings & Loan. The speaker is president and general manager of Womack-Snelson Advertising Agency, Odessa.

If advertising were eliminated, he said, it would kick the foundation from the world's industry. Even though machines produce new merchandise, it takes advertising to bring it to the public's attention. Womack pointed out. Twelve billion dollars was spent last year for advertising, but this is only 2 per cent of the total volume of all sales of the products.

Using a petroleum ad, Womack outlined the steps necessary to complete an ad. A rough sketch is submitted to the client for his approval, after which commercial photographs are obtained and type set to fit the space allotted. Plates are then made for each color to be used in the ad, which also means another run through the press for each color. The plates are then mailed to the newspapers and magazines approximately 30 days prior to publication.

It was announced by Mrs. Stanley Ballou, club president, that the regional seminar will be held in Midland on April 26-28.

Mrs. Leon Kinney was elected as board contact to replace Mrs. Doyle Jones who has moved to Sinton. Guests included Mrs. Mike Phelan and Mrs. Womack. Mrs. Ed Black was winner of the drawing.

Mrs. Schafer presented a program concerning taxes placed on income property and inheritance.

A community party was announced for Feb. 9 at 7 p.m. in the clubhouse where members will serve refreshments. Mrs. White will be hostess for the March 4 meeting.

Commuters Can Be Lured Back To Rails

BOSTON (AP)—Can automobile commuters be lured from their daily morning and evening chariot races on crowded superhighways back to relatively relaxing railroad commuting?

It begins to appear so. The state of Massachusetts and the Boston & Maine Railroad—one of three serving Boston—began a commuter experiment undervritten by federal funds Jan. 7. The state's Mass Transportation Commission signed a $2.2-million contract with the railroad under which it undertook to increase trains, including single car diesels, from 207 to 384 daily and to slash commuter fares an average of 30 per cent.

The result? The Mass Transportation Commission reports that in the third week of the test, the railroad carried 31,529 more passengers than in the same week of 1962—a gain of 24.9 per cent.

NO GUESSING
What do these figures mean? Dr. Joseph F. Maloney, director of the MTC, says cautiously that they "are indisputable evidence that the public is vitally interested in the program. But what the results will prove to one dares guess at this time."

The railroad's conductors are less restrained. "I've never seen such enthusiasm," says one. "It looks like the good old days." "I haven't seen anything like this since the war," says another.

With guarded optimism, a railroad spokesman explains, "our problem is to change commuters' habits. Some rise might normally be expected during the bad-driving months. The real test will come with spring."

The assistant vice president for operations, W. H. Holland, says the experiment may show whether the public will support increased service and cut rates and then whether passenger trains—as a public necessity—merit subsidy support.

But the restoration of railroad commuting is only part of the total picture. One purpose is to ease the frantic crush periods on the highways, morning and evening. Another is to ease city parking problems.

What do the commuters think about it? Surprisingly, they are patronizing nonrush-hour trains in addition to the morning-evening commuter service. Nonrush-hour travel has zoomed up by 36.3 per cent. A check showed these riders are women shoppers, students, and people who want to go to Boston for evening entertainment and now have night trains on which to get home.

One regular commuter explained: "Economics dictates that I become a train rider."

Another said, "I'm tired of fighting traffic. This is more relaxing and convenient. I save half an hour a day and $3.50 a week."

Other commuters variously praise convenience, shorter travel time, and later trains at night making it possible for them to stay in Boston for dinner, night shopping, basketball games or other amusements.

The trustees of another railroad, the New Haven, have completed negotiations for an experimental increase in service in areas south and west of Boston.

John Overton Is Promoted

John Overton, 34, native of this area, has been named manager of the Globe, Ariz. office of Phoenix Title and Trust Company.

Overton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Overton Sr. of Big Spring and is a 1945 graduate of Garden City High School. He worked for a time with Jones & Laughlin Supply Company in Big Spring and then with Humble Oil in Midland after having served in the U. S. Army from 1946-48. He got his degree in economics from the University of Texas in 1958 and has lived in Arizona since 1959.

He is a charter member of the North Phoenix Optimist Club and in 1962 was named Optimist of the Year. He also has served as vice president of his club. Overton is treasurer of the First Southern Baptist Church in Scottsdale; is on the council for the Maricopa County chapter of the American Institute of Banking; treasurer of the Ho-Ko-Kam Little League as well as one of the umpires; and a former member of the Scottsdale Parks and Recreation Commission. He is married and has four children.

Mac Admits Cuba Missiles, But Says They're No Danger

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says "there are undoubtedly missiles in Cuba" but not of the type that would menace the United States.

"Based on the information available to me," he said, "I believe that there are no surface missiles in Cuba threatening this country today."

McNamara put his views on the record in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press as a congressional hue and cry rose over Soviet military strength on the island 90 miles from the American coast.

One issue of the controversy is just how many Soviet troops are in Cuba. President Kennedy has estimated 17,000. Some legislators have expressed belief there are many more.

McNamara would not be drawn into that question. He said he would rather not comment on the presence of Soviet troops or reports they seem to be digging in to stay.

But he declared that one reason for the maze of persistent reports on ballistic missiles in Cuba may be confusion over the various kinds of missiles that are there.

"The reports perhaps confuse ground-to-ground, intermediate-range ballistic missiles (a type the United States considers offensive) on the one hand with the other types of missiles which undoubtedly are stocked in Cuba," he said.

Of this latter category, McNamara ticked off five kinds:
"1. Air defense missiles.
"2. Air-to-air missiles used by fighters to attack other fighters.
"3. Surface-to-sea missiles used for coastal defense purposes.

"4. Missiles for coastal defense purposes fired from patrol-type boats.

"5. Ground-to-ground missiles for short range use against troops in the field."

Said McNamara: "It is entirely probable that missiles of these classes exist in Cuba, and it seems probable that the reports are based on that probability."

The missile issue was brought up again Monday by Rep. Donald C. Bruce, R-Ind.

He told the House he has information from friendly diplomats indicating that 40 or more Soviet intermediate-range missiles—capable of striking American cities—are still in Cuba. These, he said, are in addition to the 42 the Soviet said it put in Cuba and removed after the threatening days of the crisis.

The Defense Department swiftly disputed Bruce's contention, declaring: "No friendly government has so informed the United States. There remains no credible evidence to support his statement."

In reply, Bruce suggested "they talk to the State Department. They better get their heads together."

A week ago, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., added more tinder to the Cuban controversy when he told the Senate a Soviet ship had unloaded arms in Cuba and implied it had slipped in undetected.

Authorities said today they don't believe any vessels have slipped into Cuban ports without being spotted. They said every sea lane into the island is watched by patrol planes.

Prize Cattle Lost In Fire

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (AP)—Six head of prize dairy cattle worth $50,000, en route to the San Antonio Livestock Show, were destroyed Monday after a fire broke out in a livestock trailer.

Ten other animals were taken to nearby Taylor for treatment. Four more may have to be destroyed.

One bull died in the fire and five other animals had to be destroyed.

The blaze on Interstate 35 was believed to have been caused when somebody flipped a cigarette into the trailer.

The 16 Guernseys in the trailer belonged to Cooper Farms of Ardmore, Okla., and were en route to San Antonio from the Fort Worth show.

Negro Bid Delayed At Ole Miss

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—A federal judge has delayed a ruling on Dewey Greene Jr.'s application to the University of Mississippi until the 22-year-old Negro exhausts all administrative remedies.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize told Greene Monday to appeal his rejection to the university's committee on admissions.

The committee could overrule Registrar Robert Ellis, who testified he turned Greene down because Greene's scholastic record wasn't good enough.

Ellis is chairman of the admission committee, which includes the deans of the various schools, divisions and colleges, the dean of student affairs and the dean of women.

Mize, who twice ruled against James H. Meredith's admission until an appeals court reversed him, deferred action after a one-day hearing of Greene's suit seeking a court order directing the university to enroll him.

Ellis testified Greene's average for two quarters at Mississippi Vocational School for Negroes was about D-plus. His high school grades were even poorer, Ellis said.

In addition, the registrar said, Mississippi Vocational lacks accreditation.

The university turns down as many as 100 applications, Ellis testified, for the same reason as it did Greene's—an inadequate scholastic record.

At Mississippi Vocational, Dean O. P. Love said, Greene wasn't the school's best student but was eligible to return there. At Greenwood, L. H. Threadgill, Greene's high school principal, said Greene was in the lowest part of his class.

At the start of the hearing, the judge told attorneys the only question to be decided was whether Greene was rejected solely because of his race.

Greene contends the suit resulting in Meredith's enrollment was a class action and that the court decree ordering Meredith admitted applies to cases of all Negro applicants.

His suit also asks the court to hold Ellis in contempt of court for turning him down.

Top Cowboys Divide Prizes

FORT WORTH (AP)—Winning cowboys divided $72,900 prize money as the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show Rodeo crowned champions Sunday night.

Tom Nesmith of Bethel, Okla., and Dan Battistoni of Dickinson, Tex., tied for first in steer wrestling with 16.4 second times. Each won $2,973.

Dale Smith of Chandler, Ariz., totaled 30.6 seconds on two animals to win the calf roping. He earned $1,827.

Jim Bausch of Rapid City, S.D., won bareback bronc honors with 517 points for three rides and pocketed $2,101.

Bill Martinelli of Oakdale, Calif., had 686 points for four saddle bronc rides and took home $1,634. Dickie Cox of Frisco, Tex., scored 344 points for two rides in bull riding and won $2,110.

Wanda Bush of Mason, Tex., posted 93.2 seconds for five go-rounds to win the girls' barrel race.

A Devotional For The Day

Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee. (Psalms 119:11.)
PRAYER: We thank Thee, dear Father, for the power of Thy Word. Help us to cultivate daily a deep affection for it. May we ever have courage and strength to uphold the principles for personal conduct which Thou hast revealed through Thy servants of old. This we pray in the name of our Savior. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

Probes To Dodge Showdowns

The furor raised over trivial and personal use of state officials of state-owned airplanes has underlined the contrasting rigidity of the legislature toward its own interim investigating committees.
A typical example was last year's House Interim Committee on Migrant Labor. It was charged with studying one of this state's most complex, urgent and disgraceful problems, but given no travel expense or staff funds. The committee made a commendable effort, at its own expense, and found to no one's surprise that the problem is a formidable one and that the state government is doing very little about it.
Surely if an issue or problem is of sufficient importance to call for a between-sessions committee investigation and analysis, it is important enough to justify enough money for expenses and staff assistance to assure trustworthy findings and meaningful recommendations. But rarely is an interim legislative committee granted the means to achieve its assignment.

The sorry truth is, that the legislature all too often uses the device of appointing a study committee to duck taking action on a controversial issue, or at least to pass the buck to some succeeding session. Hobbling such a committee thus may be part of a calculated strategy of seeming to do something about something that needs to be done without really doing anything.
If interim committees are not going to be adequately financed, they should not be created. A token investigation is a waste of legislators' time and, much worse, deception of the public.

Double Standards

There has been no rush in Congress to emulate the example of Sen. Stephen M. Young of Ohio who recently had entered in the Congressional Record a detailed accounting of his holdings in real estate and stocks as well as his debts.
Members of Congress are extremely sensitive to possible conflicts of interest in other branches of government. But they have never betrayed any great interest in their personal conflicts of interest.

It is rare indeed for a member to announce that he has a personal interest in a piece of legislation and therefore withholds his vote on the measure.
Since representatives and senators have the power under the Constitution to make their own rules, no one else can make the rules for them. But the double standard they apply on the subject of conflict of interest is not calculated to elevate the stature of Congress in the eyes of the public.

Marquis Childs How Many Nuclear Inspections?

WASHINGTON—What happened in New York when the Soviets abruptly broke off the test-ban talks is not interpreted here as meaning the end of the road. On the contrary, those closest to the negotiation see this as another evidence of the zig and zag of Soviet tactics in the face of a determined stand by the West.
The basic assessment of Soviet intentions still holds. It can be summarized in an oversimplified fashion as follows:
THE RUSSIANS still want a test ban. They want on-site inspections limited to three or four—if they can possibly induce the United States and Britain to accept that minimum.
They will apply new pressures, using the neutral nations as a lever, when the test-ban talks resume in Geneva before the 18-nation disarmament commission 10 days from now.

rumors. Yet in the current atmosphere they persist along with the suspicion that the United States will settle for less than eight to 10 on-site inspections as a minimum. A printed report that consideration was being given to a sliding scale with three or four inspections the first year building up to eight to 10 in the third or fourth years started a new outcry.
SUPPOSEDLY this proposal had come from the United States delegation. William C. Foster, head of the disarmament agency conducting the talks in New York, knew nothing of it. His inquiry to the President drew the response that such a sliding scale had not come under consideration in the President's private exchanges with Khrushchev. Apparently Ambassador Foy Kohler who returned to Washington from Moscow for five days of consultation, brought no new proposals related to testing.

IN SHORT, the hope of an agreement has not been abandoned and the Soviet action is considered by Americans directing the negotiations to have little or no relation to the split in the Atlantic alliance. When Semyon Tsarapkin, chief Soviet delegate, said with characteristic bluntness that he saw no need to continue the talks, since the United States was not prepared to match the great concession the Soviet Union had made, it seemed to those on the other side of the table that his motivation was fairly obvious.
PREMIER KHRUSHCHEV in his letter to President Kennedy had accepted the principle of on-site inspection. He had put the number of inspections at two or three. Naturally if they can get it at that price the Soviets will consider they have a bargain.
But the American minimum is eight to 10. When the 18-nation commission meets at Geneva on February 12 the Soviet goal will be to convince the eight neutral powers that they have made a sweeping concession and that the neutrals should therefore bring pressure on the West for a lower limit of inspection. This is the laborious course, it is pointed out, that the eight years of negotiation over the Austrian treaty required before it succeeded. A haggle is inevitable and this is another stage of the haggle.

WHY THEN, in view of past favors, should there have been new hope? One important reason is that scientific-technical study and experimentation in recent years has established that on-site inspection is of only limited importance in a test-ban agreement. Some Presidential advisers go so far as to say it is really not essential at all to a ban that could be policed by remote control with little or no risk. They are vital only to prevent secret underground explosions, and what can be learned from such explosions at this stage is slight.
BUT TWO REASONS lie back of the imperative of on-site inspection. One obviously is political. The Senate would never ratify an agreement that provided for a number that was very much below the eight or 10 of the present American position. In the present atmosphere of distrust, augmented by the disclosure of the secret missiles that Khrushchev introduced into Cuba, it is questionable whether any agreement could get the required two-thirds majority.

WHILE HOPE has been high that an agreement was nearer than at any time in the past four years, the atmosphere here has nevertheless been colored with deep suspicion and distrust.
Members of Congress, both Republicans and Democrats, suggest that the Administration is in process of reaching an agreement that would not require ratification by the Senate; that is, an executive agreement. Foreign diplomats whisper nervously about a "deal" which they believe the President is in process of making with Premier Khrushchev.

WITHOUT ANY inspection—or the minimum of three set by the Soviet Union—our negotiators believe that after three or four years the same insecurity would prevail as during the moratorium when both sides agreed without inspection to stop tests. Constant rumors of secret violations would inflame opinion. The end would be breakdown and denunciation of the treaty by one side or the other.
The second reason for insisting on inspection is that it may stand as a precedent in further stages of disarmament. Once the ice is broken the Soviets may allow other international teams on their soil to insure against violation. That this is a slender hope the Americans sitting around a conference table in New York across from their Soviet opposites know only too well.

WHITE HOUSE and State Department denials have repeatedly thrown down these gauges.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Tone-deaf Americans should be able to rejoice over the current argument between piano tuners and Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic. They should conclude that the argument is in good hands. But is it? Technicians Guild meeting in Louisville, Ky., recently passed a resolution opposing the Philharmonic's pitch—442 vibrations a second for A above middle C. They voted to complain to the U.S. Bureau of Standards, which in 1929 set a standard pitch of 440 vibrations per second for A above middle C. The two extra vibrations have the clavi-chord mechanics talking to themselves and each other, it appears.
By way of rebuttal, Bernstein said that the Philharmonic has been using the A of 442 for at least 20 years. He implied that the tuners may not have been listening for the last 20 years.
As we said, the argument should be in good hands.

Raleigh Aillsbrook Bridge Under Way To Staten Island

NEW YORK (AP)—A new engineering wonder is being rushed to completion between two proud, old forts that once stood guard over New York harbor.
The structure is the $325-million Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, destined to become the world's largest single span suspension bridge. It is to be completed in 1965 and will arch majestically from Fort Hamilton in Brooklyn to Fort Wadsworth in Staten Island. On a clear day it will be visible 40 miles away.
FOR TRAVELERS approaching New York by sea, it will be an imposing landmark of the huge metropolis.

Its 4,260-foot center span will be 60 feet longer than San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge, now the longest between piers, and its two supporting towers will be almost 70 stories high.
If you want to compare it with other big things, the center span will be almost three times the height of the Empire State building (1,472 feet), the world's tallest building; more than four times the length of the liner France (1,035), world's longest passenger ship; longer than the Grand Coulee Dam (4,173), nation's largest concrete dam; and one-seventh the height of Mt. Everest (29,028), highest mountain the world.

Hal Boyle A Few Memories

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the things the old feel sorry for the young about is that they have so few memories.
This century has seen more change than any in history, perhaps too much for the welfare of all.
But the roller-coaster ride we've had in the last two generations certainly has left a treasure trove of recollections, both sweet and bitter. And you can hold your own in the nostalgia derby if you can remember when.

A nightcap was something a man wore to bed—not a last belt from a bottle to wind up a party.
You could get in a fist fight in an argument over such heated questions as the protective tariff and the free coinage of silver.
The newspaper feature sections on Sunday carried visionary predictions that eventually man would be able to fly nonstop in an airplane from coast to coast.
The height of elegance was to be able to afford an iron stag in your front lawn.

People threw away their box tops because there was no place you could mail them with a quarter and get something back.
Only Norwegians and kids on barrel staves ever went skiing.
We all felt grateful to Warren G. Harding for returning us to normalcy—whatever that was.
Rupert Hughes scandalized the literary world by writing a book pointing out that George Washington had sometimes acted like an ordinary human being.
If a man had gold in his teeth, it was a pretty safe bet he either was a banker or had a steady job with a railroad.
The ambition of many a housewife was to have her husband take her out to dinner at one of those new-fangled cafeterias.
A small boy whose mother made him carry a handkerchief to school in winter was the class ass.
Almost every town had a family in which one of the children chewed tobacco at an early age.
Author Sinclair Lewis startled lecture groups by pulling out his watch and giving God one minute to strike him dead.
During prohibition the serious drinkers imbibed everything from bay rum to Jamaica ginger, and everybody for safety's sake was banned from the basement while father bottled his home brew.
The family doctor created a neighborhood furor when he raised his price to $5 for a home call.
Nobody felt unsafe because every boy in town carried a jackknife, usually attached to his pants belt loop by an old shoelace.
Most city dwellers dreamed of saving enough money to retire to the country in their old age and run a chicken farm.
Everybody knew the police officer on the beat by his first name and on cold days invited him in for a cup of hot coffee.
The biggest topic of discussion in the local barbershop was whether Jack Dempsey could have stood up to John L. Sullivan in his prime.
One of the most hated chores of childhood was keeping the clammy pan of water under the family icebox.
A high school girl's prestige at the annual class picnic was partly measured by how many petticoats she wore.
Harvard beats that of Harvard University.
Remember?

Work on the four cables, each a yard in diameter, will begin in the spring and last for six months. Then the year-long job of erecting the suspended span will commence.
THERE has been considerable discussion about whether a bridge of any kind should be built.
Residents of Staten Island, where some cows still graze in pastures, fear their easy-going suburban life will disappear once traffic starts streaming across. Staten Island can be reached now from the city's other four boroughs only by ferry.
The island is 2 1/2 times the size of New York's largest borough, Manhattan, but its 220,000 population is only about an eighth as large.
With the bridge in operation, its population is expected to increase 138 per cent by 1975. New apartment houses already have been started and real estate values are up 75 per cent.
In addition to providing a quicker way of reaching Staten Island, the bridge's purpose is to furnish an easier route through New York, keeping motorists out of the central business district.

To Your Good Health Alcoholics Can Be Saved

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
I have a letter—in fact I have several startlingly like it—from a wife whose husband insists that he isn't an alcoholic because he never drinks in the daytime. Only in the evening.
He insists that he can stop any time he wants to. But he never wants to. Every night it's the same story: A series of double shots of liquor, after which he becomes sensitive to any remark he thinks is critical. He argues, becomes positive that he is right about everything, and everybody else is wrong.
Now I can't say that such a man necessarily is an alcoholic, but the personality changes and the touchiness, and the assertions that he "can stop" but doesn't, are good signs.

Alcoholism doesn't necessarily mean falling down drunk in the gutter, although that often is the end of the story.
It simply means dependence on alcohol. For some, it is dependence at night. For others, it is a periodic dependence. Sobriety may continue for days, weeks or even months, but time after time the person is at last impelled to return to his liquid crutch. Many of these alcoholics keep insisting that they can "take it or leave it alone," and cite the periods of sobriety as "proof."
But the real proof isn't the occasional or even the frequent "dry periods." The proof is in the repeated "falling off the wagon."
It is, candidly, of scant use to tell this to alcoholics. They refuse to believe it. They continue to kid themselves. They think the advice applies only to "the other fellow."
They can't be convinced that there are potential dangers in overindulgence: Brain deterioration, liver disorders, loss of work accuracy.
They have to encounter some real catastrophe: An accident to themselves or someone else; a lost week or lost weekend; loss of job; gradual economic decline; loss of friends; alienation of family.
They often (but not always) are unaware of the misery of their families. They are particularly self-centered while drinking, and don't remember this after they sober up.
Alcoholism is a disease, a mixture of physical and emotional factors, but alcoholics ARE save-able. However, you can't preach them into reforming until they have acknowledged their problem. Usually this means reaching some form of disaster or crisis before, at last, genuinely making up their minds that they have to stop.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate information on "a large aorta, with possibility of an aneurysm."—M. V. C.
The aorta is the main artery carrying blood from the heart. More enlargement might or might not indicate a serious condition—it would depend on other findings.
The aneurysm—if there is one—is another matter. I might best compare it to the inner tube of a tire, with a weak place in it, which bulges.
Should this weak place—the aneurysm—rupture, obviously the result would be highly dangerous. Therefore your doctor will make every effort to determine whether it really exists, and how severe it is. If it is present, he doubtless will take steps to reduce your blood pressure if it is too high, and precautions to keep it normal if it is that way.

Around The Rim Memories Of Adventurous Days

The phone rang.
"Do you remember Mack Taylor?" a voice asked.
"Sure," I said. "He was a kid who lived across the road from me when I was in the third grade. We used to play together."
"Well," said the voice, "he is in town and would like to see you."

THE LAST TIME I saw Mack was sometime around 1915 or 1916. He was a skinny, underweight youngster, about my age. He was a member of a huge family—his father, a one-time lumberman from the piney woods of some southern state believed in large families.
I went to the cafe where he was eating lunch.
I recognized him instantly.
Not because he looked like the skinny youngster whose appearance was vague in my memory. I recognized him because he looked so much like his father.

JIM TAYLOR was an enthusiastic fan of a host of authors of the time whose forte was western stories. He liked to hear the stories these writers produced read aloud. I liked the stories, too, but my financial position did not permit me the luxury of buying many of the books.
Jim would order western novels from Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck from the armful. When the books were on hand he would bring them to me. When the day's work was done, he would lean back against the porch, in the summer time, or stretch out full length on the floor in front of the stove if it was cold, and I would read the books aloud.

WHEN WE HAD finished a book, it became my property. I had one of the fattest collections of westerns of any kid in the town.
So when I walked in the cafe and glanced over the diners, I had no trouble spotting Mack Taylor.
And in my mind's eye I saw his father, long since dead, sprawled on the floor, listening with avid attention, as I waded through the wild adventures of heroes and heroines of Zane Gray, B. M. Bower, Owen Wester and the other popular writers of that day.

I DIDN'T ASK MACK if he had the same liking for books his father had. I didn't want to ask him—I was afraid that he might not and if it turned out that way, it could have ruined the illusion his appearance gave me of that other man so long ago.
He still lives in the same town where we had both lived then. I have lived in many towns since then and I have not been back to that old town in a long, long time. Nearly all of the people I once knew there are either dead or living elsewhere. So in reality, there was not too much for us to talk about.

THERE ARE NO ghosts, of course, but I could well have believed that I was seeing one. Of course, it would have been a very sturdy and husky spirit.
Lumbering in the old days was no job for panty-waists, and Jim Taylor was built for the work he performed. His son is built along the same pattern.

Social Protest Made Into Comedy

"Once you accept the premise that Fagin is just a jolly old rascal, a sort of 19th Century Robin Hood who operated in London rather than Sherwood Forest, you'll simply love the musical version of 'Oliver Twist,'" said one of my friends before I went to see "Oliver."

AND SHE WAS absolutely right. As soon as one accepts Fagin as a mischievous old pirate, who was also an amusing miser, "Oliver" is the prime stuff of which musical comedy is made. (Oliver's last name has been dropped from the hit musical, which has come to Broadway via London, where—on Oliver's native heath—it was also a sensation.)
Fifteen minutes after the curtain goes up, it is even jolly fun that Fagin runs a school in theft and pickpocketing for small boys. After all, kids need schooling, don't they?

BUT DON'T GET me wrong—I loved "Oliver." It is a smash hit; sold out for months and needs a boost from me like another line at the box office. A ticket to "Oliver" is the same kind of status symbol in New York today as a ticket to "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" was a year ago. "Oliver" is a marvelous, the acting is marvelous, the music is great, the pace superb and the sets tremendous. But I am glad that the name "Twist" has been dropped from the musical comedy. For "Oliver" has just about as much to do with "Oliver Twist" as "Elsie Dinmore" with "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

IN THIS prettified version of the Dickens novel, poor Nancy is still pistol-whipped to death by the murderous villain, Bill Sikes. But the latter does it discreetly and in dim and foggy shadows where it will not bother the audience.
Even the damning scene in the workhouse, where Oliver and a horde of other small boys are starved for food and where in Oliver has the temerity at mealtime to ask for "more," is only an excuse for a rousing song, "Food, Glorious Food," and a dance by Oliver and his hungry companions. And an excuse for a lot of stuffy stuff between Bumble and the Widow Corney who are systematically starving the children.

I CANNOT HELP but wonder how many adults and children, too, who see "Oliver" and have never read "Oliver Twist," will go away from the theatre convinced that the Dickens opus must be a very, very funny book. Indeed, and never dream that it was a powerful work of social protest, a damning documentary in novel form that helped spark reform of the abuses against children that Dickens limned in the book. Or that Fagin was a loathsome character, the epitome of evil. Or that his victims, including Nancy, were the pitiful dregs of humanity.

WELL, IF "Oliver Twist" can be transformed into a hilarious musical comedy and Fagin translated into a humorous rascal, it opens up the whole realm of literature to the musical-comedy stage. I am thinking of having a go at it myself. But at the moment I am torn between transposing Dostoevski's "Crime and Punishment" into a musical farce for Bert Lahr and reworking Hugo's "Les Miserables" into a shockstick, with music, for Zero Mostel.

"CRIME AND PUNISHMENT" probably offers the best bet. There ought to be a hilarious scene when Raskolnikov murders the old woman moneylender (everybody hates moneylenders!) and a particularly stirring march number when Raskolnikov and his festive fellow prisoners start the long trek to Siberia. There is a great possibility in "Macbeth," too. I can envision already the heady feature number of the second half, "The Handkerchief Dance."

The possibilities are endless. But—don't get me wrong, I really LOVED "Oliver."

Holmes Alexander How Ready Is Teddy?

WASHINGTON—You've always got hope for the statesman who is capable of getting off the chalk mark of previous alignment—so I hold a reserved rah-rah for Senator Ted Kennedy. He may not be entirely the keeper of his presidential brother's rubber hand stamp. He may be that, but more besides.
Senator Kennedy's anterooms, when I've been there, are the crowded vestibules of favoritism. Everybody and his in-laws are trying to get a nod from the man elected to do "more for Massachusetts." From what I've read about the outer chambers of royal and temporal benefactors, from princes to precinct leaders, this is the normal condition.

ONCE IN AN interim job between military service and civilian employment, I undertook to peddle insurance policies and was shy about approaching wealthy friends: "You won't sell much," a realist told me, "to poverty-stricken enemies." So it is with all forms of solicitation. There's no percentage in waiting around the door of a man unable to give. So why hold it against Kennedy that petitioners haunt the quarters of the Bay State's junior Senator? If he puts his hand in his pocket, it needn't come out empty.

IN CONSCIENCE, somebody ought to report that Ted Kennedy is apparently trying to become something beyond a mere dispenser of political pork and an automatic yeasayer on Administrative measures. He seems to be preparing for a legitimate role as Senator from Massachusetts. Criticism of his candidacy dealt with his unproved capacity, his inexperience at the age of thirty and his contal affinity with the royal family. It appears that Senator Kennedy is striving to surmount these allegations by bending over an old New England work appliance—the grindstone. To wit:
SENATOR SALTONSTALL (R., Mass.) tells me that, having escorted two Kennedys up the aisle, he broached the subject of joint action on matters pertaining strictly to Massachusetts. The result was that Senator Kennedy sent a pair of staffers to Saltontall's office where a system of two-name press releases on non-partisan local matters has been worked out.

Senator Kennedy, I have learned, spends much study over another partnership project—the matter of deciding when to add his name to bills introduced by his colleagues. He has so far agreed to co-sponsor a mass transportation bill with Williams (D., N.J.) and a fish bill with Bartlett (D., Alaska). He is expected to go along on numerous measures that affect New England textiles and the like.
THE NEW SENATOR has thus far avoided national publicity, easy for a Kennedy to get. He sees, in the main, only regional reporters. Having been publicized in pictures as a ski-jumper, bronco-buster, glad-hander and world-traveler, he has chosen the relatively quiet life of a Senate freshman.

All this may change, not for the better. Ted Kennedy may prove to be merely his brother's brother, much as, at last session, Senator Ben Smith was the President's campus roommate, and little else.
BUT ON THE OLD American principle of holding a trial prior to pronouncing a verdict, I say we give Ted a spring try-out before tagging him as a second-string seat-warmer on the Senate team.

Training Tape Readers

NORWALK, Calif. (AP)—Numerically controlled machine tools operated by punched tapes are among the radical changes in the machine tool industry which has caused a "second industrial revolution," according to Paul Henry, chairman of the metals division at Cerritos College.
"Now many machine operations are programmed on a punched tape somewhat similar to a piano player roll," Henry explained. "A tape reader supplies commands to the machine."
The college is offering an evening course in "Fundamentals of Numerical Control."

Navy Certain No Ships Slip By Undetected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Authorities said today every ship route into Cuba is watched by patrol planes and the Navy feels sure no vessels have slipped into Cuban ports undetected since the blockade.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., implied last week that two Soviet vessels which arrived in Cuba recently may have eluded surveillance. One of them unloaded arms, he said.

Keating said these ships followed a "maximum security route" which he said passed through areas where the United States is least able to maintain adequate surveillance.

Usually reliable Navy sources, preferring to remain anonymous, said Keating probably is referring to a ship route entering the Caribbean between Venezuela and Puerto Rico.

These sources did not dispute that ships steaming this route might sometimes pass beyond the area covered by U.S. patrol planes.

But they said such vessels would be sighted—no matter how roundabout their route into the Caribbean—when approaching the Cuban deep water ports.

Navy patrols fly day and night surveillance missions from Jacksonville, Fla., Key West, Fla., the Guantanamo naval base on the eastern end of Cuba, and from Puerto Rico. This, the Navy says, gives complete coverage of the waters around Cuba. The planes carry night vision infrared cameras.

Also on watch is a sizable force of Navy ships, plus units of the Coast Guard.

The Defense Department has refused on security grounds to say how many vessels have anchored in Cuban ports since the blockade was lifted last Nov. 20, or to identify nationalities of such ships.

Last Thursday the Pentagon broke this rule to say that two large Soviet ships arrived in Cuba some days earlier and that "there is no evidence that either carried offensive weapons." This statement came after Keating made a Senate speech claiming a continued and growing Soviet arms buildup in Cuba.

The Navy does not claim it can tell whether incoming vessels carry arms — but officers say they would know a missile-carrier when they saw one.

Oil Production Shows Decline

TULSA (AP)—U.S. oil production declined last week, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Average daily production was 7,219,125 barrels, down 38,425 daily from the previous week, the magazine said.

Oklahoma output dropped 24,900 barrels to an average of 499,700. Colorado was down 1,200 to 100.

Arkansas produced 75,000, Louisiana 1,357,000, New Mexico 301,000 and Texas 2,510,300.

Four Youths Give Up Claim To Salvage

GALVESTON (AP) — Four venturesome teen-agers have abandoned an attempt to lay salvage claim to a derelict freighter washed ashore last weekend.

"We were kind of tired of the whole business," said Dick Truslow, 18, after leaving the ship late Monday.

Truslow, Jim Franklin, 16, Alfred Lera Jr., 18, and Billy Briscoe, 17, boarded the vessel at mid-afternoon Sunday. All are Galveston high school students.

They were joined later that day by two Galveston men, John Kantowski, 25, and James Watts, 21, who remained aboard after the boys left.

"They (Watts and Kantowski) were hired to keep everyone off the ship, including us," young Truslow said.

He is the son of Dr. John Truslow, executive dean and director of the University of Texas medical branch here.

"We went out to the ship (about 150 yards offshore) and went aboard intending to stay there," the youth said. "Several hours later we learned we couldn't get any salvage rights, but we were told we could get paid for standing guard on it or maintaining it until the owners got here."

"Then Watts and Kantowski came aboard and they brought some weapons with them, a shotgun, a pistol and a rifle."

The youths spent the night in one of the cabins, using a charcoal fire to keep warm.

College Admits Four Negroes At San Marcos

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Southwest Texas State College, where Vice President Lyndon Johnson once studied, complied with a federal court order and admitted four Negro students Monday.

The quartet, first of their race to enroll at the South Central Texas school, started classwork today.

U.S. Dist. Judge B. H. Rice signed an order directing school officials to let the four register shortly before they asked admittance.

Miss Dana Jean Smith, a spring graduate of Anderson High School in Austin, and three other Negroes obtained the court order.

The school refused to accept Miss Smith during the summer. Officials said this was done because state law limits enrollment to whites.

Negroes already attend a number of other state colleges and universities.

Cuba Drugs Carry Special Marking

By ALTON BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Footnote to history:

Some of the drugs sent to Fidel Castro as ransom for Cuban prisoners carry a special marking.

They were labeled this way as a means of learning whether Castro sells or barter them abroad rather than using them in Cuba, a pharmaceutical manufacturer says.

Drugs accounted for about half of the $53 million in goods which Castro made the price for releasing 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners at Christmas time.

Makers of the drugs, surgical instruments and baby foods distributed their products to make up the ransom figure. They were convinced Cuba was in desperate need of such items, with drugs in short supply there, and health problems becoming very serious.

But some items requested by Castro made them wonder whether the Cuban government really intended to use them all in Cuba, or exchange or sell them for other products his economy—or his military establishment—needs, this informant said.

So, as a tracer, one pharmaceutical manufacturer put a special mark on the packages of drugs he supplied. The drugs were not altered in any way.

"We'll be able to tell if they show up in Russia or South America, or even eventually in the United States," said this source, who asked not to be identified.

Drugs are a big seller in black markets, he explained.

The choice of pharmaceuticals as a main item in the prisoner barter is interesting, he added. U.S. medical experts visiting the Soviet Union have gained an impression that the Soviet Union is not producing all the drugs it would like to produce for its own citizens, he said.

Cuba's request for drugs could mean the U.S.S.R. is unable or unwilling to supply these items, although the Soviet Union has sold or bartered other essentials to the Castro government.

City Likely To Get Better Air Service

Although no final order has been issued, it is likely that Big Spring will be served with two airline flights daily, east and west, under a new Civil Aeronautics Board ruling handed down last week.

This would be in accord with recommendations under the complex ruling affecting the whole Southwest air services. Trans-Texas Airways will become the only carrier serving Big Spring, since the order drops Continental Airlines out of service here. This was in accordance with Continental's request to convert into a trunk carrier rather than a local one.

R. E. McKaughan, president of Trans-Texas, issued a statement from Houston headquarters today, indicating the two-a-day each way service.

He said his firm is "gratified" that CAB has seen fit to grant it service to 13 new cities in the Southwest.

"Of particular importance," McKaughan said, "is the fact that the CAB removed restrictions that would have prevented TTA from rendering the kind of air service wanted and needed by the new cities and many of the cities on our current system affected by the case. Trans-Texas, as a regional air carrier, is concerned with each individual community it serves and its need for convenient, economic and frequent air service to all points in the Southwest as well as providing convenient, connecting service with other carriers to points across the nation and around the world.

"The Southwestern Area Local Case decision opens new routes to 13 additional communities with similar areas of economic and social interest. The removal of certain restrictions and the realignment of routes will enable TTA to offer a greater variety of service tailored to meet their needs for travel across the entire six state area in areas where Trans-Texas is replacing other carriers," he explained. "Many will find their air lanes branching out in new directions, tying them for the first time directly to other cities across the southwest. Again their individual needs for frequent, convenient and economic air service will be TTA's concern and their service will be tailored to meet these needs for all of the 13 cities added to the Trans-Texas system."

Pedestrian Not Seriously Hurt

Edward B. Taylor, 1231 W. 3rd, and a car driven by Hershel D. Hammon, 2507 Lynn Drive, were in collision in front of Taylor's home Monday afternoon. Taylor was not seriously injured and was treated for abrasions at the Medical Arts Clinic and released. Big Spring Police said Taylor had started across the street and did not see the car.

A tractor trailer, driven by Donald G. Beach, National City, Calif., was involved in two accidents within an hour. The tractor was in collision with a car driven by Richard O. Williams, 828 W. 7th, at Third and Goliad about 6 p.m. About 7 p.m. the tractor, unattended, rolled into a collision with a parked car, owned by J. B. Pickle, 1201 Settles, at 207 Goliad.

Locations of other collisions, and drivers of vehicles involved, were: Fourth and Gregg, Zeal Cox, Midland; and Lewis Bankston Jr., 1203 Douglas, Fourth and State, James Walter Lumpkin, Coahoma, and Hazel Stubbs Wilson, 1209 Johnson; Marcy and Scurry, Doris Hunter Knocke, 2310 Romer, and William A. ## Concert Board Meets Monday

More than a dozen members of the board of directors of the Big Spring Concert Association met briefly Monday noon to begin consideration of program material for the 1953-54 season.

A representative of the William Morris Agency was on hand to make recommendations for various touring artists and groups. Other agency representatives are due to be heard before plans for a program series.

Meanwhile, preparations are being made for the next — the third in the current series. On Feb. 15, the First Piano Quartet, the oldest and best known in its field, is to be presented at the City Auditorium. These artists, virtuosos in their own right, have been playing together for approximately a score of years, and thus have achieved near perfection in interpretation as well as in mechanics of their repertoire.

The current season comes to a colorful and melodious climax in March when the Dallas Symphony, a sentimental as well as a solid favorite, comes back for another engagement.

Burglar Enters Store Saturday

GARDEN CITY (SC) — About $25 in cigarettes and other tobacco products were taken by a burglar Saturday night from Lee's store. Entry was made through the back door of the building, according to Mrs. T. T. Dittsch, owner.

Another attempt, this one unsuccessful, was made Sunday night. A screen had been taken from a window, but apparently the burglar did not enter the store.

Halbrook Rites Set Wednesday

Services will be held at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home Chapel for Robert Hood Halbrook, 76. Mr. Halbrook died at his residence at 1800 Scurry Monday morning.

Curtis Camp, pastor of the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ, assisted by Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the service. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle.

Palbearers will be Fred Coleman, Jack C. Wilson, Steve Baker, John Miller, Henry Moore and Pete Reed.

Mr. Halbrook had been a resident of Big Spring the past 35 years. He formerly operated Bob's Domino Parlor in the Read Hotel until ill health forced his retirement two years ago.

CARD OF THANKS
Since we can't personally thank all those that rendered aid to Dwight Perkins following his accident Saturday, we would like to take this means to say "Thanks" from the bottom of our hearts to each and every one of you. The fine action of the boys that were with him, the police, the ambulance service, the Big Spring Hospital staff and the quick service of the helicopter from Webb Air Force Base. Also, to the many, many wonderful people that have either called or come by to give him a word of encouragement. Big Spring is a very fine place to be and the Lord bless you all.

YMCA Membership Drive Swings Into Action Today

Buoyed by a large turnout of volunteer workers, the participating division of the YMCA membership enrollment swung into action today.

The kickoff dinner is set for 7 p.m. in the YMCA gym, and leaders are anticipating a crowd of 150 workers for the occasion. Walter B. Hailey Jr., Dallas insurance executive and civic worker, is to be the speaker. He has served as president of the White Rock YMCA and is one of its most active workers. He has numerous other civic connections, including the Jaycees, chamber of commerce presidency at Mesquite, the Toastmasters club, etc. As an insurance man, he has topped the million-dollar mark for seven consecutive years for the Lone Star Life Insurance Company.

Monday afternoon, volunteers turned out for an informational meeting at the Y, and approximately 120 of them took prospect cards. There were brief explanations of the materials by James 'Big Jim' Tidwell and Buddy 'Tex' Redden, ranch bosses of the Western-theme campaign.

This evening's kickoff dinner will be strictly along western lines, with participants being encouraged to wear some western attire. There will be a chuck wagon feed, a western band, cedar-post corral, head-table made of hay bales, a host of saddles, etc. The initial report session is set for 7 a.m. Wednesday at the YMCA all-purpose room. While workers report in their contacts, ranch style bacon and eggs will be served.

CONSERVATIVES WAVERING

Pressure Increases On Canadian Regime

OTTAWA (AP)—A tide of votes built up today against Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's government in Canada's nuclear war-head crisis. At least one no-confidence motion appeared to have a good chance to topple the badly split Conservative party from power.

There was a possibility that Diefenbaker, to head off defeat in the House of Commons, would dissolve Parliament on his own initiative and call new elections.

Defeat of the government on a vote of no-confidence would mean dissolution of Parliament shortly after, with a new election about 60 days later.

There was wide agreement among Commons members that the government could not survive a vote.

The crisis, brought to a head last week by a public U.S. Department demand that Canada develop nuclear warheads, moved toward a climax Monday with the resignation of Defense Minister Douglas Harkness.

Harkness told a packed House of Commons that Canada should have obtained the U.S. warheads long ago.

In the tense debate that followed Harkness' statement, two of Canada's three opposition parties — the Liberals and the Social Credit party — presented motions of no-confidence.

An informal poll indicated that the motion of the Social Credit party could gather enough support to bring down the government.

draw political advantage from what Diefenbaker labeled "unwarranted intrusion" into Canadian affairs.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk later expressed regret if the wording of the statement offended Canadians. He repeated to the Senate Canadian Affairs subcommittee Monday that no offense was meant.

Subcommittee Chairman George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said he believed Rusk but was "not entirely satisfied with the manner in which the release was issued."

"But," he told reporters, "that is now water over the dam and we hope that it will have no lasting effects on our relations with Canada."

There was no indication whether Harkness would follow up his resignation as defense minister by leading a rebellion in Parliament and splitting the Conservative ranks. He was known to have the support and sympathy of a number of Conservative members.

Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, launched the formal challenge to Diefenbaker's government. He said the government "seems to have a genius for getting into trouble with our friends — our best friends."

The leader of the Social Credit party, Robert Thompson, told the House he didn't like the Liberal motion and that his party's votes might be thrown to the government. But after the dinner recess, he came back with his own motion of no-confidence.

In Canada, Conservatives as well as the opposition sought to

OIL REPORT

Pool Gets Extender

The Kirkpatrick (Pennsylvania) pool in Garza County gained a three-quarter-mile southwest extension with completion of Shell No. 3-B W. M. Kirkpatrick. The project flowed 208.55 barrels of 39.8-gravity oil on initial potential.

It also produced 1 per cent water and had a gas-oil ratio of 460-1. Choke size was not reported. The pay zone, perforated between 7,946-53 feet, was acidized with 500 gallons.

The well spots C SW SW, section 2-2, GH&H survey.

Strikes In Chaves

A pumping San Andres oil discovery has been finalized in central Chaves County, New Mexico, at Avalanche Journal Publishing Company of Lubbock No. 1-7 LE Ranch. On potential it made 16 barrels of oil per day from four sets of perforations between 2,003-48 feet.

The gravity was not given. The strike was drilled to 2,084 feet and 54 inch casing is cemented at 2,082 feet. The pay formation was acidized with 5,000 gallons.

Lamesa Club Sets Record

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Boys' Club of America set a national record in 1952 when it enrolled 1,163 members.

The national record for a club located in a city the size of Lamesa was 600 — a figure the club has almost reached after little more than a month this year.

The club receives most of its support from the Dawson County Community Chest and is guided by Harold D. May, executive director.

The growing organization is in need of a new clubhouse and plans are under way to let a contract on a new building in the near future. Land for the building was donated by Gene McAllister and is valued at $12,500. The proposed building will cost approximately $40,000.

The new structure will house a 70 by 90 gymnasium, a library, arts and crafts room, woodworkshop, radio room, workshop and a shop for auto mechanics, body work. A game room and kitchen will complete the structure.

All of the facilities are presently in use but in different locations.

The club is open to youngsters from six through 20 with membership dues ranging from 25 cents to $1 a day. Average attendance is 108 a day.

Fewer Aliens Are Reported Here

Apparently there are fewer aliens in Big Spring and Howard County this year than last.

The Big Spring Post Office said that only 650 current address cards for aliens had been dispatched in January — a smaller number than in other years.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that the post office distributes the cards to aliens who ask for them and that the law requires all such residents to file their addresses with the immigration authorities not later than Jan. 31.

The aliens turn the card into the post office and they are then sent to the immigration office.

Redding Dies Of Wounds

Morris Eldon Redding, 48, died about 10:30 p.m. Monday at Midland Memorial Hospital, where he had been taken for brain surgery following a shooting here Thursday. Monday Redding's condition was believed improved, although it was still critical.

Mr. Redding was wounded following the fatal shooting of Mrs. Joyce Snedecore, 25, during an argument last Thursday afternoon in an apartment at 108 Scurry. Mrs. Snedecore died a few minutes after being struck by two bullets from a .25 calibre pistol.

Justice of the Peace Slaughter ruled the woman's death as murder and Redding's wound as self-inflicted. Witnesses said the two had quarreled over Mrs. Snedecore's plans to return home to Hutchinson, Kan.

Mrs. Snedecore's body was taken to Shawnee, Okla. for burial.

Mr. Redding was born Jan. 17, 1915 at Baird, coming to Big Spring in 1932 from there. He served overseas with the Air Force during World War II from September, 1941 to October, 1945.

He was known locally for his hobby of a coin collecting. Mr. Redding was a member of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church. Graveside rites will be conducted Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. by the Rev. L. J. Power, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mr. Redding is survived by one daughter; his mother, Mrs. Lydia Redding, Odessa; one sister, Catherine Redding, Odessa; two brothers, C. R. Redding, Odessa, and Grady W. Redding, Big Spring. He was preceded in death by his father, P. T. Redding, who died Jan. 4, 1957, and one sister, Mrs. Mabel Harrison, who died in October, 1947.

Local Angle Injected Into Controversy

A Big Spring angle was injected unwittingly into a protest from Midland when that county was announced as being in a "distress" area for Farm Home Administration loans.

Meeting with the Midland Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee Monday, George Costlow, head of the FHA 5-county office at Stanton, said that Midland County was rather in an "emergency area."

But he also listed names of a dozen individuals with whom he said he had contact, and the San Angelo newspaper carried Jimmy Taylor, vice president of the First National Bank in Big Spring as one of them. Taylor declared Tuesday that this was not the case, that his first contact with Costlow was this morning to protest the story.

Costlow said that he had been misunderstood or misquoted on this point. Taylor said his bank had made no referrals of its customers to the FHA.

"We realize that you have good years and bad years in this area," he said, "and it has been our intention all along to take care of our customers."

Little Attention Paid To $6,221 Fire At Post Office

There was a $6,221 fire at the Big Spring Post Office, but no one paid the slightest attention.

The fire department was not called and only a handful of spectators was on hand. They stood by, concerned only that the blaze did its job thoroughly. When ashes remained, the watchers turned on their heels and returned to their jobs.

The fire was in an incinerator on the grounds of the post office. The fuel comprised of 99,662 postage stamps with a face value of $6,221.78.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said the bonfire was ordered by the

Grand Jury Has No Work To Do

Glasscock County grand jury was organized Monday morning and found itself with nothing to do.

After Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, qualified the jurors, Gil Jones, district attorney, advised the body there were no felony complaints to be laid before it at this time.

Judge Caton then excused the grand jury subject to recall. The jury is to continue in session until the end of the present court term.

No petit jury cases were ready for the court so Judge Caton and Jones terminated their official visit to Garden City in record time.

Final Count

LAMESA (SC) — Latecomers swelled the final tabulation on Dawson County's poll tax box score to 4,205, down slightly from last year's 5,287. A final tally showed 3,650 paid poll taxes and 1,155 exemption certificates were issued. The Dawson County record is 5,426, logged in 1960.

postal department. The stamps were stock remnants left when the new postage rates went into effect. For example, there were 53,234 copies of the old seven-cent airmail stamps. The new rate is eight cents. Also burned were 2,644 booklets of old air mail stamps (each book containing 12 stamps). Additional fuel was provided by dumping in 2,700 of the special 4-cent Christmas stamps which became inactive Dec. 31, and 2,000 additional air mail stamps in coils of 500 each.

It is possible, Boatler said, that additional orders to burn still other outdated stamps will be received. When the postage rates were hiked Jan. 1, surplus stocks of the old stamps became largely inactive and some disposition had to be made of them.

Orders to burn surplus stamps were dispatched to the office here

Funeral Held For M. W. Wheeler

Pallbearers for the services of Marion Wilson Wheeler, 71, who died Sunday, were Claud Treadway, Maurice Chapman, Charlie Ralshack, C. B. Brunett Jr., Jack Ray, Orin Lancaster, Riley Yates and Jim McCurtain.

The services for Mr. Wheeler were at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the River Chapel. Burial was in Trinity Memorial Park.

and the destruction had to be officially witnessed by postal officials and certified in reports. Boatler said he still has plenty of fuel for another king-sized bonfire when it is ordered.

However, he said that no plans to destroy the mountain of old 4-cent stamps on hand is contemplated. The 4-centers will be in good demand next Christmas for Christmas cards.

Postal Receipts Soar To Record

Postal receipts at the Big Spring post office soared to an all-time high in January—riding fast on the heels of postage increases which became operative Jan. 1.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that receipts for January hit $52,848.49, which is $19,000 greater than in January, 1962. Last January, receipts were $33,593.71.

January, Boatler said, was a phenomenal month in the matter of postage stamp sales.

"We sold more than 120,000 one-cent stamps last month," he pointed out, "which is most unusual." The demand for one-cent stamps stemmed from the change in postage rates from four cents to five cents on first class letters and from seven cents to eight cents on air mail. Other rates were also increased one cent which made old issue stamps on hand in offices and homes shy that amount in paying for the transmission of mail.

Mail volume was also brisk in January, the postmaster said, but the real boost came not so much in the increased number of letters and parcels as in the boosted rates.

Pallbearers Listed For Mrs. Wheeler

Pallbearers for the services of Mrs. Mary Olena Wheeler, 67, are to be Orin Lancaster, Henry Lennon, Rube Nixon, Irwin Daniel, A. A. Marchant, Roy Phillips, Hack Hudgens and Troy Newton.

The services are to be at 10 a.m. in Trinity Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Trinity Memorial Park River Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wheeler died on the evening of Feb. 2. All of her friends are asked to consider themselves honorary pallbearers.

Heart Sunday Workers Needed

Telephones of Mrs. Tommy Hubbard and her assistants have been busy the past two weeks as residents in all parts of Big Spring have been invited to participate in Heart Sunday Drive on Feb. 24.

The work will be stepped up even more as a self-imposed deadline for recruiting approaches. However, recruiting will continue right up to the time of the drive.

"We need about 600 workers to go from door to door on Heart Sunday and right now we aren't even close to that number," Mrs. Hubbard, chairman for the drive, said. "We are trying to get workers lined up in every area by this weekend."

Big Spring has been divided into districts whose boundaries conform to school district lines. Workers are especially needed in the districts for College Heights, Park Hill, Marcy, Cedar Crest and Bauer.

On Heart Sunday the workers will canvass the city soliciting donations to help carry on research and other work to combat heart ailments. Each worker will be wearing an official Heart Fund badge with his or her name on it.

Heart Sunday is the high point in the current campaign by local chapters of the American Heart Association. Workers will ask for contributions and leave mailers at residences where no one answers the door. They will also leave informational pamphlets telling how to get the latest information about heart attack, stroke, rheumatic fever, high blood pressure and other ailments of the heart and circulatory system.

Doing most of the seeking for workers have been Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Charles Rainwater and Mrs. Bernard Gier.

"Volunteers for the drive need not wait to be called because we might not get around to everyone before the drive begins," Mrs. Hubbard said.

Interested persons should call AM 4-2896, or AM 4-3633 for information about the drive or to submit their names.

Harris Decides To Stay Open Noon Hour

One deputy sheriff, and occasionally more, will be on duty from noon to 1 p.m. in the sheriff's office each day. The others will be gone from 12 to 1 for lunch.

Miller Harris, sheriff, said he had decided against closing the office down completely during the noon hour, as he had planned to do.

"If I closed down as I said I would," he explained, "it would work an unfair hardship on the public. I have decided to leave one man on duty. This will permit at least a part of the functions of the office to go on during the noon period."

"The commissioners court, with an advantage over me, has forced this action. I would like to continue to operate as I have in the past with all of my deputies available to help the public at the lunch hour but I cannot do so any longer."

Harris said that none of his deputies will be fed in the county jail. All will go home or to restaurants for their lunch.

Monday, Harris said he planned to close down the office from 12 to 1 p.m. This was the aftermath of a clash in the commissioners court over the matter of deputies eating their lunch in the county jail at county expense. Harris had argued he had set up the system as a means of keeping his men on duty and available to serve the public during the noon hour.

Mona Lisa Joins Aristotle Painting

By MILES A. SMITH
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—The Lady with the smile is joining the philosopher with the contemplative air.

The lady is Lisa, known as the "Mora (Madonna) Lisa," sometimes called "La Gioconda" because she was the wife of a man named Gioconda.

Her portrait was painted 4½ centuries ago by a great man and great artist, Leonardo da Vinci.

The philosopher is Aristotle, the ancient Greek, who in the 17th century was painted by Rembrandt, as "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer."

The "Aristotle" became famous when the Metropolitan Museum of Art paid $2.3 million for the masterpiece at a Parke-Bernet auction in November 1961, outbidding the Cleveland Museum of Art.

Ever since, it has been the Metropolitan's biggest drawing card, running up new attendance records.

The "Mona Lisa," whose regular place is a special section of the Grand Galerie of the Louvre in Paris, has been on loan to this country from the French government. She attracted huge crowds at the National Gallery in Washington from Jan. 8 to last Sunday.

The Metropolitan will have a preview for her Wednesday night and from Thursday through March 4 the public will create a great jam to see the double feature.

The crowds will be guided through a special lane, rope-girded, beginning at the main entrance on Fifth Avenue at 82nd Street.

As the line crosses the center of the Great Hall the shuffling thousands will see, about 20 paces off to their right, the Rembrandt—spotlighted between two huge tapestries.

The lines will flow straight to the rear of the main floor, to the high-ceilinged medieval sculpture hall, a place of many religious figures, tapestries and fading banners.

There, at the foot of a great choir screen, will be the "Mona Lisa" shielded behind bullet-proof glass and separated from the mass of humanity by another line of ropes.

The great screen, consisting almost entirely of vertical lines, gives the hall the air of a cathedral. It is composed of wrought iron, 52 feet high, and was created in 1688 for a Spanish church.

As in Washington, there will be a Marine guard, and many security measures which are not being disclosed.

The preparations have been painstaking. For four weeks a little black box has been resting at the scene, recording temperatures and humidity, to insure a proper atmosphere for the delicate work. The temperature is supposed to be 62 degrees and the humidity 45 per cent.

Artist Wife Of Sportsman Peter Widener Is Killed

OCALA, Fla. (AP)—The artist wife of millionaire sportsman Peter A. B. Widener died in a crash after their private plane made a low pass over the airport where Widener was waiting for her.

In addition to Patricia Widener, 35, the crash killed the Widener family pilot, Robert G. Staab, 40, Ocala.

The plane flew over the airport Sunday night, then disappeared during an apparent attempt to return to this central Florida town in the murky darkness.

The wreckage was found late Monday, nine miles south of the airport in scrub oak woods.

Widener, scion of a Philadelphia family and widely known in Kentucky and Florida, went to the crash area, but not to the wreckage.

He asked John Henderson, a helicopter pilot, "If it had been found last (Sunday) night, would it have made any difference?"

"No sir," Henderson answered. "Absolutely not, and let me say this, sir: your wife did not suffer."

"All right, sir," Widener said. "Thank you, sir."

Lt. Col. Dick Lockman, head of the Civil Air Patrol at Orlando, said Staab flew directly over the field at 400 feet on one occasion.

"Mr. Widener saw the plane," Lockman said. "He (Staab) could have been setting up a landing pattern—going downwind and then coming back southeast."

The plane cut a swath about 200 feet long through the tree tops.

Widener and the former Patricia Massey, married in 1959, had one son, Joseph. 2. Mrs. Widener's daughter by a previous marriage, Genevieve (Viv) Trevelyan, 11, lives in Palm Beach. Widener has two sons by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Widener was known for her art work and held several exhibitions. The Wideners maintained homes in Palm Beach and at Ocala, where Widener has a 1,000-acre thoroughbred farm.

Widener, 35, is a great grandson of Peter A. B. Widener, Philadelphia traction magnate. His grandfather, the late Joseph E. Widener, built Hialeah Park race track at Miami in the 1930s. Widener is a director.

Claim Castro Renews Weapons
MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Cuban regime of Fidel Castro has taken advantage of the confidence of the United States to replenish itself with Russian nuclear weapons, a spokesman from the Cuban Exiles said Monday.

All such weapons and scores of Russian long-range bombers are stored at huge natural caves and carefully-camouflaged bases at areas of Pinar del Rio, La Palma, San Antonio de Los Baños, Pepe Barrientos, Matanzas, Camaguey and Santa Clara, the source said.

Taking The Music To The Audience

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time when audiences sought out entertainment, the figures beyond the footlights were judged—accepted and rejected—almost completely in terms of their talents.

But talent—as a singer, as a pianist—just isn't enough nowadays when the entertainment, via television, seeks the audiences.

"If a performer makes a successful record album or two, people become interested in seeing him," explained pianist Peter Nero. "But after they've seen him once, they can go back to playing his records."

Thus it has become necessary for singers and instrumentalists to add other strings to their bows. Nero, like many others, is developing a sideline of ice-breaking talk.

"Every musician wants to communicate through his music," the Brooklyn-born pianist said. "But if I can make people understand my music better by talking, I must certainly do it. I will not sacrifice artistic integrity—I'll talk, smile, kid around, but the music will be there."

The 28-year-old keyboard artist is kept busy with guest appearances on most of the top television variety shows. One of his worst problems is persuading writers to give him some lines.

"The writers think musicians can't talk. Last season, I was on a Bob Newhart show, and was hoping to have a chance to exchange some remarks with Bob. So they had Bob come out with his drums and ask if I'd play with him. 'Love to, Bob,' I was to say.

"Exactly a year later, I was doing a George Gobel show, and he came out with his guitar and asked if I'd play with him. 'Love to, George,' was my line. That's about how it goes."

Nero spends much of his professional life on concert tours. Married and the father of two young children, he still lives in Brooklyn. When he is not working, he practices for about an hour a day. If he quits for a week, he says, "my fingers feel crippled."

"The audience—or 99 per cent of it—doesn't think you're doing well unless you sweat and pant. Meanwhile, you've been practicing at home for hours just to make those wild, fast passages look completely effortless. They are also impressed if you throw your hands around. I don't, because you often have to sacrifice the sound for the dramatic effect."
