Prayer Theme

President Kennedy listens as Evangelist Billy Graham addresses the guests at the annual presidential prayer breakfast in Washington. Graham, who flew from Dallas after a battle with pneumonia in the hospital, said "Mr. President, this day we dedicate ourselves to pray for you and your administration as you lead this nation in this crucial day of history." At center is Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kans.

Skybolt Death Means Britishers Go Home

By WALTER JOHNSON EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—"We made a home here, then Skybolt failed us. Now we have to leave, and leave our new friends."

That was the comment of Royal Air Force Sgt. Albert Lamb as he and 182 other Britons prepared to pack up and head for new duty stations in Great Britain and elsewhere.

Thirteen officers and 48 airmen began arriving here last May to undergo training in using the Skybolt missile system. They brought 122 dependents and set up a trailer park home named Powokti Village.

The Skybolt was the air-ground missile designed to deliver a nuclear warhead 1,000 miles ahead of a bomber. It was aimed at extending the life of the manned bomber into the missile age.

PROGRAM DROPPED The program was dropped after various failures in its test stages. New Polaris submarines will do the job.

Just a year ago the land that is now Powokti Village was a jungle. Trailers were brought in, electricity and telephones. More had been planned for 55 families who never did make the trip.

In little more than a month, the village will begin to break up. Members of the group will return to England and tell of their adventures in the "colonies."

Foremost it was their first day-in, day-out contact with Americans and there were about as many reactions to their Yankee neighbors as there were Britons.

With typical British candor they considered Americans confusing but tremendously friendly; they thought Americans went out of their way to be polite. Some felt their manners were terrible.

To one, America is "the most unforgettable place."

DISAPPOINTED To another, it is "the most un-

In The Kisser

Mrs. Patricia Kay Hashagen, 21, who claimed the extraction of a tooth caused her to lose feeling in her jaw and chin—and even impaired her kissing ability—lost her damage suit in Springfield, Mo. She had sued Dr. Paul Bunch for $30,000. Near the end of her trial Circuit Judge William R. Collinson directed the jury to bring in a verdict for Dr. Bunch.

get-at-able place. And what of Skybolt? "Disappointed" was the unanimous reaction to the fate of the program.

The word came with monotonous regularity—almost as if this group had been schooled in the art of middle-of-the-road comment. They weren't vexed, sorry, sad nor opinionless—particularly not opinionless about their American neighbors.

Sgt. Lamb, head of finances, said the people he met "were embarrassingly kind, really good people who went out of their way to be kind. They succeeded."

But the children, who probably don't fully understand why they were uprooted from their homes and brought to the United States, or why their fathers were hand-picked for the job that never was finished, had the last word.

UPSET CHILD Take 5-year-old Charles Ness, son of Wing Commander Charles Ness, who's in charge of the RAF contingent. Ness says his son can turn his British brogue on or off at will. "It caused someone to call him a Yankee," Ness said. "It upset him terribly."

Karen Moreland, a 9-year-old daughter of an RAF sergeant, thought deeply before deciding "I like America." She added quickly, "Oh, I like Florida, too."

Pat Pyke, 13, daughter of a sergeant, feels the English are more friendly and Britain's schools are better. "I want to go back there," she said. "American manners are not very good at all, either."

Pat's brother, Philip, 9, likes Americans but thinks the country is rotten. He wouldn't elaborate—but he wants to go home.

BEST FRIEND Lynda Waterworth, 8, probably was the United States' best friend among the contingent. Lynda, a green-eyed, brown-haired bundle of vivaciousness, thinks the land, the people and the weather are "gorgeous."

Lynda is typical of most of the children stationed with their families at Eglin. She likes Elvis, Pat Boone and alligators. The children liked the weather. The temperatures in this northwestern section of Florida dipped to eight degrees during an extreme cold wave. But for the most part it was warm enough for "catching fish with my piece of stick and a string."

Now, the officers and men spend their eight-hour duty tours packing equipment. Few will remain in the United States.

PERSONAL ITEMS They are disposing of personal obligations for the return. Most bought American cars, furniture, clothes and household items. The wives spend their time shopping, visiting and watching television or listening to radio.

Squadron Leader C. W. Cox, education officer, acts as liaison between the contingent and local schools. He and his wife, who is the only school teacher for the younger children, say that practically everyone in Britain wants to visit the United States.

"There's no place like home, of course," he said, "but we're quite happy here."

Mrs. Pat Waterworth, wife of a sergeant from Yorkshire, complained about the bread. "We can't eat it," she said. "My first mouthful had caraway seeds and I thought it was bad. And the plain white bread was too fluffy."

MANY MEMORIES Mrs. Waterworth says she will take back many memories. "I love the memories I have here," she said. "I hate to leave. I love it here."

YMCA Workers To Conclude Annual Member Drive Today

Ranch bosses, foremen and wranglers were riding out to re-group forces in a great effort to bring the Triangle Y (YMCA) membership roundup to a successful conclusion today.

Cowboys and cowgirls (the volunteer membership recruiters) were being urged to make their contacts today and to report their results to the Y.

There will be a final report session at 7 p.m. around the chuck wagon at the Y, and Joe (Col. Pecos) Pickle, the membership general chairman, said that victory was in sight if workers would but complete their contacts with enthusiasm.

"We haven't been able to contact everyone who is interested in the YMCA," he said. "I hope that those who haven't been asked would just give the Y a telephone call so we can ride out and visit with them. We can't know about everyone, and certainly we don't want to overlook or slight anyone."

At mid-morning, the enlistment had brought in pledges of $10,370 in participating membership fees. The goal is $16,000. Reports were continuing to be received regularly from volunteer workers.

James (Big Jim) Tidwell's Circle T Ranch continued to hold the lead with $5,775, but Buddy Tex Redden's Rocking R spread was closing the gap in reporting in $4,595. Redden and his range foreman, including Clyde (Stoney) Burk, McMahan Jr., were redoubling efforts and promised to make it a real horse race down to the wire at 7 p.m.

Pecos Pickle urged every worker who possibly can to be at the meeting at 7 o'clock this evening at the Y. It is vital to the roundup to know at that time about all the cards. If workers who have not yet reported can enlist two families, the campaign can succeed.

New names appeared on the list of quota-busters—Jack Y. Smith, Mrs. Jack Y. Smith, Jack Harolson, Mrs. Bob Johnson, Don Farley, George McAllister, Mrs. O. S. Womack, John Berry, Leonard Coker, Mrs. Joe Leach.

Pro-Nasser Iraqi Army Men Topple Regime

Fate Of Premier Not Established

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Army rebels leading a pro-Nasser revolt crushed Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's regime in Iraq today. Their forces captured his well-guarded Defense Ministry, and more than 600 soldiers surrendered, broadcasts from Baghdad said.

Earlier broadcasts said "We have destroyed the tyrant," but Kassem's fate was not definitely established.

Announcement that the Defense Ministry had been captured at 5:30 p.m. followed a report hours earlier that rebel planes and tanks had demolished the Defense Ministry and "destroyed his 'Kassem's dirty rule'."

"We announce to you, to the people and to the army, that our forces entered the Ministry of Defense at 5:30 p.m. and that all resistance ceased," said tonight's communique, signed by the "commander of the battalions attacking the strongholds of treason."

"Our forces are now mopping up the stronghold," it added. Baghdad radio called for doctors to rush to the city's hospitals to treat wounded. Planes strafed the Defense Ministry up until four hours before its fall was announced.

MUCH FIGHTING The brown brick Defense Ministry, where the 45-year-old premier worked and often slept, is in the heart of Baghdad. A telephone report from the Iraqi capital said there was so much fighting in the streets during the morning that it was impossible to move about.

The commander of the troops attacking the ministry was identified as paratroop Col. Abdel Kerim Mustafa Nasrat. Baghdad radio communique named the head of the revolutionary command as Col. Abdel Kerim Mustafa. It was not clear whether the leader of the attack was the same man Mustafa is believed to be a former paratroop commander.

In Tehran the Iranian government said it had received word Kassem voiced similar sentiments on July 14, 1958, when he seized power in an army revolt in which pro-Western King Faisal II, his uncle, Crown Prince Abdul Ilah and Premier Nuri Said were killed.

Voices on the radio chanted "union, union" in an apparent cry for union with Nasser and the U.A.R.

NOT COMPLETE The broadcasts gave indications that the rebels' control was not complete. Communique and statements urged the people to fight on the streets for the revolt.

One broadcast said six officers, ranging in rank from colonel to first lieutenant, formed a "National Council of the Revolutionary Command" and would direct the national guard.

The rebels ordered "all army units not to answer to any call or to make any move" except at their orders.

Kassem's regime has been beset in recent weeks by student strikes and reported underground movements.

In northern Iraq, nomadic Kurdish tribesmen—many of them pro-Communist—have been battling for self rule since September 1961. They beat off Kassem's forces, controlled most of northern Iraq, and at any time could interrupt the flow of oil from the western operated oil fields which supplied Kassem $250 million in royalties a year, his country's chief income.

OTHER FEUDS The Kassem regime also has been feuding with Britain, the United States and other Arab countries.

Pro-Nasser sentiment was known to be high in Iraq, and Kassem's recent mounting difficulties were bound to increase this.

In the past year and a half he suffered two blows to his prestige. The first occurred in June-July, 1961, when he announced that the oil-rich sheikhdom of Kuwait was an integral part of Iraq. British forces, which just had given full independence to the sheikhdom, rushed back to frustrate the Iraqi leader and Arab League forces moved into Kuwait as a further barrier.

The Kurdish revolt showed the ineptitude of the Iraqi armed forces under Kassem's wavering leadership.

Kassem gave Western diplomats the impression of having become highly emotional and unstable during the past two years. They attributed this to the extreme tension under which he was living.

NO UPSET His disappearance from the Iraqi scene would not upset the major Western powers if they were sure his successor would carry out a firm and more cooperative international policy.

Questions On Cuba

$100,000 In Cotton Penalties At Stake In El Paso Case

EL PASO (AP)—More than $100,000 in penalties was at stake today as arguments continued on an appeal from a finding on a cotton allotment transfer from Oklahoma to Culbertson County in West Texas.

U.S. Dist. Judge Henry Graven came here from Iowa to hear the case. Sixteen Oklahoma cotton farmers lost their land in 1958 to the government for construction of dams and lakes. Under federal regulations, their allotment was placed in a pool and they could reclaim it within three years if they bought other land.

Acting individually, but in a joint operation, they bought a total of 350 acres from Fred Chandler and his son, Fred Jr., early in 1961. They leased it back to the Chandlers. A cotton crop was harvested that year and another crop planted in 1962.

The local county committee of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service then cancelled the allotment and assessed a $58,000 penalty for 1961.

By a 2-1 vote, the committee held that the transfer was an illegal means of acquiring the allotment for the Chandlers, pointing out in its report that the committee had acted to cancel the allotment at the direction of the Agriculture Department. If this is upheld, another penalty will be assessed for 1962.

The Chandlers appealed to U.S. District court, where arguments were to be concluded today. Judge Graven then will take the case under advisement, with briefs to be filed by both sides.

Pilot Missing In Asia Found

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Air Force co-pilot missing since the crash of a B26 fighter-bomber Wednesday was found in good condition in the jungle today. He was 1st Lt. James E. Johnson, 28, of Winter Haven, Fla., who parachuted from the twin-engine plane before it crashed in dense jungle 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

The pilot of the plane, Maj. James R. O'Neill, 40, of Huntington Station, N.Y., was killed in the crash. His body was recovered from the wreckage Thursday. The third man aboard, a Vietnamese air force observer, parachuted and was found alive Thursday.

O'Neill and Johnson had been dropping incendiary bombs on a suspected concentration of Viet Cong guerrillas. There was the second B26 to crash in South Viet Nam within a week. Two Americans were killed in the other crash last Sunday.

Stock Market Edges Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged lower early this afternoon with no particular selling pressure apparent. Trading was moderate.

Losses of most key stocks were fractional. A few went to around a point.

Profit-taking on recent big gains was in progress.

The excitement about Chrysler's stock split and dividend boost had died down and motors edged off. Rails, which accompanied motors in bucking Thursday's downturn, were ragged.

Losses among some of the international oils were attributed to the military revolt in oil-rich Iraq.

Steels, electrical equipments, airlines, and nonferrous metals were generally lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 7 at 256.4 with industrials off 1.1, rails unchanged, and utilities off 5.

Mississippi Offers To Stand By Barnett

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The state of Mississippi offered today to stand with Gov. Ross Barnett in his battle against criminal contempt charges and offered to share, if necessary, the penalty.

Garner W. Green, a Mississippi special assistant attorney general, argued before the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals that Barnett's acts in the Mississippi desegregation crisis last fall, "were the acts of the state."

He said the state "stands before this court as the one responsible for what was done. Judge Griffin B. Bell of Atlanta leaned forward and asked, "Are you claiming that Barnett is Mississippi?"

Green answered: "Exactly." Judge Richard T. Rives, of Montgomery, Ala., then asked: "You are willing to risk a sentence against Mississippi . . . a fine?"

Green: "Yes. It's the duty of the state to be here." The exchange came in the opening minutes of the hearing on criminal contempt charges against Barnett and Lt. Gov.

Paul B. Johnson Jr. The charges grew out of Barnett's and Johnson's efforts to block Negro James H. Meredith's enrollment at the University of Mississippi.

Barnett and Johnson, both convicted of civil contempt last year, were not present.

The appeals court, which has never imposed penalties for the civil convictions, has ordered the state officials to show why they should not be held in criminal contempt for seeking to block admission of James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi.

In briefs filed before the hearing, Mississippi asked that the charges be tossed out. This state argued that Barnett and Johnson acted as Mississippi officials in compliance with state laws—and not as individuals. The state also said the appeals court lacked jurisdiction and the charges were not properly prepared.

Attorneys for Barnett and Johnson called for a trial by jury if the court refuses to throw out the case. The Justice Department said statutes providing for jury trial apply only at the district court level. The only issue, it said, "is the willful disobedience of federal court orders."

After the appeals judges issued an order prohibiting interference with Meredith's admission, Barnett and Johnson each turned the 29-year-old Negro away from the university campus.

In the civil court contempt case, the appeals court set jail penalties and daily fines of $10,000 for Barnett and $5,000 for Johnson until they purged themselves.

But the matter was left pending in the court never declared whether—or when—the two had purged themselves.

Instead of ruling, the court asked the Justice Department to bring criminal contempt charges. In criminal contempt, a defendant cannot escape a penalty by agreeing to obey the order and purge himself. The fine or sentence is almost unlimited in both types of contempt.

For Want Of An Office

State Representative Jack McLaughlin of Fort Worth found a solution to the problem of having no private office in the Texas State Capitol at Austin in which to carry out the growing demand of answering his mail. He and his secretary, Reggy Ann Lawyer, also of Fort Worth, used the House of Representatives floor as their work shop. Sixty House members are without private offices.

Legislators End Hearings For A Three-Day Weekend

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators chafed up a round of lengthy committee hearings and voted Thursday to take a three-day weekend. More of the same is on tap next week.

The Senate heard Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo criticize the State AFL-CIO for filing a suit against Texas Employment Commission members and four employees.

A House committee took up the question of letting beer taverns stay open two extra hours each day after listening to a plea for a return to statewide prohibition.

Rep. V. E. Berry of San Antonio told the House Liquor Regulation Committee that longer tavern hours would help bring tourists and produce extra revenue for the state. The bill went to a subcommittee.

Sam Morris, San Antonio radio evangelist and Baptist minister, urged statewide prohibition.

"When the mother and father hang out in liquor dives until 3 a.m., you're not very likely to find them in church on Sunday morning," Morris said.

"I have been to Las Vegas, as some of you may have suspected, and they have 84 beautiful churches. In fact there are 15 Baptist churches — more than anybody else," Berry said.

Morris said Berry's proposal would promote juvenile delinquency, increase teenage crime and discourage church attendance.

Krueger's speech dealt with a suit for a temporary injunction against what the AFL-CIO calls "pro-employer lobbying."

"Through several mailings which each of you has received in your office from the State AFL-CIO, plus personal contacts by the members of the State AFL-CIO," he said, "this Senate is presently aware that the State AFL-CIO is pulling all stops in an attempt to block the confirmation of J. E. Lyles to the Texas Employment Commission."

Lyles appears before a Senate confirmation committee Monday. The full Senate will consider his appointment later.

AFL-CIO spokesmen said later that Krueger's speech "came to us as no surprise," adding in a statement: "We know of the close friendship the senator and Mr. (Jake) Pickle have had over the years."

Pickle is a member of the commission. Sen. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur proposed in a bill that no oil production in Texas election year be created in the future. His bill sets a limit of 320 acres, plus 10 per cent tolerance, on gas proration units.

Currently there is no statewide proration rule. The House Hospitals and Schools Committee sent to a subcommittee a proposal to let the State Hospitals Board contract with local groups for treatment of mentally ill in home town hospitals where facilities are available.

A 134-page measure making various changes in Texas election laws was sent to a Senate Election Subcommittee.

The House State Affairs Committee heard and sent to a subcommittee a bill which would allow Gov. John Connally to use $50,000 appropriated at his request to name 25 persons to study higher education. A Senate version is ready for debate.

House Panel Takes Choice Provision From Cotton Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee has shorn from a cotton bill a provision to give growers a choice to plant large or small acreages this year.

After the deletion, the committee sent the measure, now facing a bleak future, back to a subcommittee headed by Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark.

Gathings said he will wait until after next week before seeing what might be done to resolve the situation — described by one committee member as a "mess."

As the bill stands, it contains only a domestic subsidy plan. This also is under fire in some quarters.

Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., of the full committee, termed his group's action the death knell of any program to give growers the choice to decide their 1963 acreage. He said he hopes to get some bill through Congress this year.

Gathings, unhappy about the committee action, said some legislation is necessary to enable cotton to compete with synthetics and to allow domestic textile mills to compete with foreign textiles.

He said he planned no meetings of his subcommittee next week since most Republican members will be filling Lincoln Day engagements.

After the members return, he said, "We'll see what can be done."

Committee members said the 19-16 vote to kill the choice program did not follow strict party lines. Most Republicans voted against it. Several Democrats who voted against the choice program still were reported anxious to have Congress enact a bill containing a subsidy provision.

The now dead choice program would have enabled cotton growers to exceed their 1963 acreage allotments by 10 per cent and by 30 per cent in 1964. On the cotton grown on the extra acreages they would have been required, in effect, to accept the lower export price. The latter is 8 1/2 cents a pound under the domestic price.

The subsidy provision remaining in the bill directs the commodity credit corporation to make payments — in cotton — that would permit domestic mills to obtain the fiber at the export price.

Supporters of a subsidy contend that because of present cotton support prices and the export subsidy of 8 1/2 cents a pound, domestic mills are at a serious disadvantage with foreign mills.

New Dump Area Noted

Have any of you noticed our new "Dump Grounds?"

"I'm not sure if it is legal or not, but it is certainly an eye sore for our town. The location is north Birdwell Lane; all along the road are strewn all trash, bottles and what have you.

Also, the nearby ravines are stacked high with refuse. When I see that, I can't imagine words to describe such people who do it. I feel ashamed, disgusted and humiliated at the sight of such litter.

The people who did this must have been too lazy to take it to the city dump grounds. There are many others who feel as I do and we wish it could be stopped.

Thank you,

Chief Plans Stern Measures

Stern measures are being worked out for handling juvenile trouble. Police Chief Jay Banks said Thursday afternoon.

"I was not aware until today that a group had been ordered to disperse from one drive-in, and that officers were called back twice more," the chief said. "After a group is once ordered to disperse and they reassemble, it is to be classed as an unlawful assembly. Officers then are to take stern measures."

The chief, working with owners of several places in the city, will have plain-clothes men in private or unmarked vehicles stationed where they can watch. If trouble starts, cameras will be used to identify leaders for the benefit of doubting parents.

"We hope we can have enough cooperation to be able to keep somebody from getting seriously hurt. The trouble has gone far enough. It is usually some innocent bystander, or one who goes to see what a disturbance is about that gets hurt."

Kasch Has Lowest Bid

A. P. Kasch and Sons, Big Spring, submitted the apparent low bid of $75,900 for construction of classroom facilities and improvement of existing buildings at Texas A&M College's Junction branch.

Maurice Rupel, estimator for the firm, and Fred Kasch, said the A&M board would meet at College Station Feb. 23 to award the contract.

The Junction facility will get two classroom buildings and will have an existing building improved. The additions and improvements will involve around 7,000 square feet of floor space.

It is used primarily for summer geology classes, for pre-enrollment seminars, and for two-week programs during the year and summer.

Special Youth Program Slated

There will be special emphasis on current youth problems at the regular Sunday evening worship service at the Baptist Temple Church, 11th Place and Goliad.

The pastor, Rev. James A. Puckett, will preach on "Whose Afraid of the Gang," based on the experiences of the old Testament character, Daniel, a young politician who preferred spending a night in the den of hungry lions than missing an hour of prayer with God. The sermon will seek to answer the question, How can a teenager today lead a courageous church life?

Special music by a Ladies Ensemble will be presented, accompanied by Mrs. Larry Snodgrass, organist, and Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, pianist. Multiple nurseries will be open for the services and the public is invited.

Tobacco Cargo

TAMPICO, Mex. (AP) — A $2 million shipment of Mexican tobacco to France is scheduled to leave late this week aboard the French freighter Cavalliere de la Salle. It is the first of a series for French, German and Dutch cigarette makers now that Cuban tobacco is unavailable.

Icy Canadian Air Flows Over Eastern Part Of U.S.

By The Associated Press

A blast of icy air from Canada, fanned by strong northerly winds, swept across broad areas in the eastern half of the nation today, ending a brief spell of fairly mild winter weather in many sections.

Temperatures tumbled to below zero from Upper Michigan eastward into northern Maine and southward into upstate New York. The mercury dropped to 19 below in Pellston, Mich., one of the coldest spots.

New York State's lows included -16 in Massena and Utica; -14 in Binghamton, Rome and Plattsburgh; -13 in Watertown; -12 in Syracuse and Glens Falls; -9 in Albany and -3 in Rochester, Buffalo and Elmira.

The cold wave covered the New England region with temperatures headed for below zero in extreme northern Maine to near zero in other areas. Northerly winds were clocked up to 40 m.p.h. and gale warnings were posted along coastal areas.

Freezing weather covered areas from southeastern Pennsylvania westward through extreme Southern Illinois and into southeastern Kansas and northward through central Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Snow flurries fell in the cold air in much of the Great Lakes region southward into the northern and central sections of the Ohio Valley and northeastward into northern New England. Snow mixed with freezing drizzle dampened North Dakota into northern Minnesota. There was considerable fog and drizzle through eastern Nebraska southward into central and eastern Kansas.

Rain sprinkled the Middle Atlantic Coast and drizzle sprayed areas in Tennessee northward into the southern Ohio Valley. It was cloudy and cooler in most of the Southeast. Temperatures ranged from the 30s in Tennessee to the 50s in Florida.

Fairly mild weather continued in many sections of the West. The mercury climbed to 90 Thursday in Thermal and Imperial, Calif. The 69 reading in Albuquerque, N.M. was a record for Feb. 7.

Cash, Smokes Are Stolen

Thirty-five assorted packages of cigarettes and about $15 in cash, were reported stolen from Chuck's Automotive, 900 W. 5th, Thursday morning. Big Spring police investigated and found no signs of forced entry to the building, but found marks on the machines.

An attempted breaking and entering was foiled early Friday morning at the Hodges Courts, US 80 west, when the manager, Willis Brazzel, saw a man attempting to get into a cabin through a window. Brazzel called to the man who ran off. A few minutes later a man fitting the same description was seen standing in a yard on Lorilla street when a woman was carrying out garbage. She screamed and he ran again.

Three hub caps were reported stolen from a car parked at the Lakeview school Wednesday night. The report was from a Lamasa man, Mathis Bogus, who said he was at the basketball game. This was the second report of missing hubcaps at the school and at the same game.

Miracle Product Eliminates Exterior Painting!

Textured Coatings of America has developed a remarkable product for exterior walls that virtually eliminates outside painting for many years to come. This product, called TEX-COTE, combines the long-lasting properties of fibreglass, asbestos, mica, and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Throughout the country, School Boards have found textured coatings so economical and lasting over the past several years that they are now specifying this type of material for a large amount of new construction and renovation work.

Many thousands of textured coating applications have been made on home, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, and these buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The United States government and most of the large companies have used textured coatings for many years. This remarkable exterior surfacing provides water-proofing, insulation and beauty, far outlasting any ordinary paint.

Comes in Colors

TEX-COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors—and does not change the structural lines of the building. Actually it adds beauty to any home or structure and increases its value.

Waterproofs, Insulates, Fire Retardant

In addition to beauty TEX-COTE has the additional advantages of water-proofing and insulation. Through the use of silicates a modern-day scientific advance, a water-repellent "blanket" envelops the entire building so that no moisture can penetrate and damage the interior of the home. Through the use of fibreglass and perlite, highly efficient insulating material, the building becomes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. TEX-COTE incorporates long-fiber asbestos in its formula, thus reducing the possibility of a fire hazard.

Applied with a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy-duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

Factory Guaranteed

Every TEX-COTE job is registered and factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

No Obligation

Applications of TEX-COTE are being made in this area by TEX-COTE of Big Spring, licensed and approved applicators. Free information on how easily you may have TEX-COTE applied at low bank terms may be obtained by filling out coupon below, or phone AM 3-3581.

Patman Names Jack Brooks As Assistant Whip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., dean of his state's delegation in Congress, has announced the choice of Rep. Jack Brooks as assistant whip for Texas Democrats in the House.

Brooks' job is to keep in touch with the others, be certain they are kept abreast of issues and know when important votes are coming up.

Patman said Thursday that Brooks also is expected to let administrative leaders know about how the Texans are going to vote and "it would not be improper for him to put in a plug for administration measures."

Rep. Joe Kilgore, the Texas whip last session, resigned because of his additional duties after being elected chairman of Texas Democrats in the House.

Rep. George Mahon remains the Texas member on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

Kiwanis Club Has Two Topic Program Thursday

Kiwanians had a double-barreled program Thursday.

Half of the time was devoted to the happy chemical position this area holds from the viewpoint of a practicing dentist and the second portion was allocated to the club's observation of National Boy Scout week.

Guests present included 30 of the 32 members of the Kiwanis sponsored Boy Scout Organization. Troop No. 3, all in full uniform.

The dental portion of the program was offered by Dr. W. B. Hardy, pioneer dentist, and long-time member of the club. He commented on the important relationship between tooth decay and the presence or absence of fluoride in drinking water. He asserted the Chamber of Commerce would do well to lay much emphasis on the position which prevails in this county in this field.

"It has been scientifically demonstrated," said Dr. Hardy, "that where a community's water supply has 1.5 flouride in its water supply (per million units by weight) that the ideal condition for a maximum retardation of tooth decay prevails. Communities where the flouride content is

Jet Age Foils Sleep Cycle

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Ocean-hopping diplomats should delay any big league decision making until their "physiological clocks" get adjusted to the new time zone, a space scientist suggests.

Rushing into an international conference after passing through five or more time zones could make for goofs because the body's normal day-night cycle is temporarily out of line, said Dr. Hubert Strughold, chief scientist of the Aerospace Medical Division at Brooks Air Force Base here.

Strughold told a symposium on space medicine at Brooks Thursday.

Day-night cycle (disCORDANCE) may have some significance in international conferences during the first few days of the meetings. The morning hours during the first few days after long distance eastbound flights and the late afternoon hours after westbound flights are not the proper times for important negotiations or vital decisions.

"It has been observed that actors, chess players, athletes and last but not least, race horses were not at their intellectual or physical best the first few days after arriving from a region four or more time zones away."

Even in outer space, where day and night on earth pop in and out repeatedly to an astronaut, the body still temporarily clings to a 24-hour day and night cycle, Strughold said.

For example, Soviet astronauts did their sleeping alert when it was night time over the Soviet Union.

But things will be different, Strughold said, when men go on very long space voyages.

For one thing, there is evidence that you need much less sleep in the weightless state of zero gravity than you do on earth.

Coahoma Man Moves To Dallas

Frank B. Griffith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griffith, Coahoma, who recently graduated from Texas Western College at El Paso, has accepted a position with Ling Temco in Dallas. He holds a bachelor of science degree in physics.

He has moved his wife and three children to Dallas.

Griffith graduated from Big Spring High school in 1954. He attended Howard County Junior College and Texas A&M College briefly and then entered the Air Force. After two years service, he enrolled in Texas Western, majoring in science.

He and his family visited the Griffiths in Coahoma recently.

DEAR ABBY Too Formal Too Early

DEAR ABBY: Today my daughter has a long face because I refused to buy her a formal. She is 11 years old and in the sixth grade. A girl used to get her first formal for the Senior Prom when she was 17. Today they have proms for children in the sixth grade. I hate to see my daughter miss out on the fun with her friends, but we are a medium income family and can't afford formals and all the accessories for 11-year-olds. What is your opinion, Abby?

AVERAGE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'm told that the added expenses of extra-curricular events in the modern high school are becoming psychologically tough on have-not kids. So now it's "formals" in the sixth grade? I'm against 'em!

DEAR ABBY: I have a sick-in-the-head husband and his jealousy is driving me out of my mind. I am not allowed to speak to any man in our neighborhood or to any other man. Even relatives! If I even look at them he accuses me of all kinds of dirty things. I have never given him any reason to doubt me. I can't just pitch him because we have children. He tells me he is not sick in the head, but what else would you call it? What am I going to do? Now I am getting jealous. Jealous of women who have sane husbands.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: If your husband had a toothache, you would get him to a dentist by hook or crook, wouldn't you? Well, there are doctors who take care of "sick-in-the-head" people, too. What are you waiting for?

DEAR ABBY: I am a single woman of 28 who has never been married. I live alone and support myself. I recently met a very handsome man who fell for me fast. He talked of "our future together" and I thought I had finally found my man. I was completely bowled over last night when he asked me for a loan of $500. He's a salesman and told me how well he was doing. I asked him if he'd sign a note for it and he said if he had wanted to sign a note he could have gone to a bank. Now I have my doubts about him. Half of me wants to continue seeing him and half of me tells me to quit him. I am—

SHATTERED

DEAR SHATTERED: Better to be temporarily "shattered" than permanently broke. Listen to the half with the brains in it. Romeoos who mix moonlight and marriage are a poor risk.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TED: People are governed by the head. A kind heart is of little value in chess.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., for Abby's new booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Old Chain Letter Racket Comes Out In A New Coat

Remember the old chain letter racket which flourished a number of years ago—where you got a letter telling you to make so many copies of the document and send them (with a dime included) to as many of your friends and acquaintances? Under the plan, as it was happily described by its advocates, ultimately you would get oodles and oodles of dimes.

The thing did bring in windfalls to a few and cost a lot of others their effort and their change.

Uncle Sam, who does not like for his post office to be used for such frivolous and probably immoral operations, frowned on the practice and a law was enacted which made it illegal to dispatch chain letters.

Regardless of the law, the things keep bobbing up in various forms. The oldest, apparently, is a copy of a letter, which you are told, was first written by a British officer in India. This letter has to circle the globe umpteen times. If you are one who receives a copy and fail to make copies of it to send to three or four of your acquaintances, you're in for a spell of bad luck, the writer warns. Then he cites a few harrowing examples—how Mr. RLB of Privet Hedge, Minn. failed to send the letters and as a result lost his wallet, his wife and his waincoat. Good luck, says the chain letter, will be yours if you send the copies.

The most recent reincarnation of this dusty old racket has to do with United States Savings Bonds.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said he has had several inquiries about the racket here which indicates that samples of the new type chain letter must have reached Big Spring.

He also has a letter from L. H. Stephens, chief postal inspector in Fort Worth, warning that sending such letters is against the law.

Apparently, this new racket calls for you to dispatch a U.S. Savings Bond to your friends and in turn you are told you will get a bundle of bonds when the cycle is completed.

Uncle Sam thinks these schemes are in violation of the postal lottery and fraud laws. Stephens said that persons who participate in such activities can be prosecuted.

Most of the letters, he said, contain the utterly false statement that this newest of chain letter schemes is legal so long as only Savings Bonds rather than actual letters are transmitted through the mail.

Not so, says Stephens. "The truth is," he writes Boatler, "that any use of the mails in furtherance of this scheme whether to transmit bonds, receipts or letters constitutes a violation of the law."

Boatler says that if you get one of these newest chain letters you should immediately report the matter to the Fraud and Mailability Division, Office of the General Counsel, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D.C. The office is especially eager to get the names of folk who are sending such letters, the postmaster said.

Last Of Jail Breakers Caught

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—A two-state hunt for the last two of four escapees from the Lamar County jail ended Thursday, less than two days after they slugged a jailer and fled.

Oklahoma officers captured Eugene Franks, 24, and Jimmy Northcutt, 22, trying to get back to their Clarville homes on foot.

The other two fugitives, Charles Shaw, 18, and Tommy Dyer, 23, both of Paris, surrendered here Wednesday night.

Franks and Northcutt were being held on forgery charges. Shaw and Dyer were awaiting extradition to Oklahoma on burglary charges.

Officers nabbed the Clarksville pair on a tip from two woodcutters. Making the arrest were Police Chief Gerald Milburn and Deputy Sheriff Deaton Daniels of Hugo, Okla.

WHO IS A CHRISTIAN?

A recent radio speaker suggested that every person who believes that Jesus is the Son of God is a Christian. Certainly the Scriptures place a high premium upon believing in the Divinity of Christ. "Whoever believeth on Him should not perish." John 3:16. But is faith in Jesus enough to justify one being called a "child of God?" The voice of the Bible answers with plainness: Faith alone is not enough. James declares that the demons "believe and shudder." James 2:19. No one can deny that they believed because the Bible says they did. Yet who would say they were saved? They were lost because their faith was a mere passive allegiance, not an active obedience. Neither Christ nor His Apostles ever instructed a lost sinner to "only believe" for salvation. Saving faith is not a fruitless plant but a living, growing and obedient work. Faith alone never saved a single soul. "Faith without works is dead." James 2:26. Unless one is willing to obey all of the commands of Christ, no amount of believing in His Lordship will ever save him! A Christian is one who, believing in Christ as Lord, is continuing to obey every command of the Savior, whatever may be the consequence.

The Northside church of Christ invites you to hear the gospel proclaimed this Sunday at 10 and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. 601 N. Rannels.

PRESENT DAY

Speaking of Eye Care and Eyewear... What Do You Expect in Professional Service and Cost?

These days, with the cost of everything still on the rise, you would like to find ways of reducing money output without loss of quality in the products and services you require. Especially, most people are aware of the high cost of necessary professional health services, such as eye care and eyewear. Most everyone would like the opportunity of having competent eye examinations and, when required, eyewear of excellent quality, without excessive cost.

■ If you are such a person, and have not yet given TSO the opportunity of serving you, now is the time to think about what TSO provides. It's also time to think about how it compares from a quality and cost standpoint with what you are now receiving.

When a TSO Doctor of Optometry examines your eyes, first a case history of your eyes and vision is recorded. Next, your eyes are examined internally for any evidence of disease or defect, such as glaucoma or cataract. Then, for visual abnormalities, such as near or farsightedness, astigmatism or muscle imbalance. ■ If the need is indicated, glasses or—if preferred—contact lenses are prescribed and expertly fitted for the clearest, most comfortable vision possible. TSO's well-known standard of quality in eyewear is your best assurance of this. ■ TSO provides these outstanding services at most reasonable cost. Finest quality single vision glasses, including professional eye examination, lenses and frame are as low as $14.85. Bifocals, as low as $17.85. Single vision Micro-Sight contact lenses are $65, complete with professional eye examination and fitting. Bifocal contact lenses are also available at a reasonable cost. ■ Convenient credit terms are available if desired. ■ Guard against eye disease and poor vision with an annual, professional eye examination at TSO.

REMEMBER

HOW TELEPHONES USED TO LOOK?

Every old telephone here was once the last word in service. But times and telephones change.

Remember when phones needed fixing so often that each one had a door on the front for the repairman's convenience? Today's telephones give many years of trouble-free service.

Remember when you had to talk loud to be heard? Today you can talk on the phone as if the person were sitting next to you.

Remember when technology limited telephones to one color and one model? Today you can have colors and models to suit your own good taste.

Continued development of better styling and engineering of telephones is another improvement made with you in mind. Our never-ending goal is to improve your telephone service and make it more valuable to you.

A Devotional For The Day

Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. (Philippians 4:8)

PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, help us to follow our Lord and Master Jesus Christ. Teach us to demonstrate our faith by doing, saying and thinking what is good. Dominate our whole life by the unlimited love of Christ, in whose name we pray. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

There Are Better Ways

The President's message to Congress in asking for $1.6 billion for health service, a quarter of a billion more than sought this year, is held mainly to aid in increased professional training, hospital construction, and a tightening of certain over-the-counter drugs and cosmetics.

However, the message did indicate that the medicare issue will be raised squarely again, probably in a special message next week. Among other things he said, "Social Security health insurance must be enacted this year."

Must and will are two different things. The bitter fight last year makes it doubtful that the Medicare program will get through in a form acceptable to the administration. The death of Sen. Kerr of Oklahoma, a staunch foe of the administration program and author of the Kerr-Mills approach to the problem, may weaken resistance to some extent. Whether the elections had any appreciable effect on the balance of power remains to be seen.

Doctors and most every one else recognizes that medical care of the aged is not only a current problem, but it will become a continuous and increasing one. However, the Medicare proposal does not seem to us to be the best method, and it has many features which cause physicians to fear federal meddling or control over their freedom to practice, a serious departure from traditional doctor-patient relationship. The Kerr-Mills program, already in use by several states with encouraging results, appears to be a more sensible approach and one which keeps administration and management at a state level near the doctors. It is far less costly.

Moreover, and this is a thing that every employed person ought to take into account, Social Security taxes already have gone higher and have built-in escalators to meet expanded commitments. Social Security is not now actuarially sound, and will have to have assistance down the line. It would not be wise to burden it with a load which could be potentially as heavy as all that has gone before.

A Splendid Service

The Howard County Council of the Texas Heart Association, the Texas Graduate Nurses Association, and the Texas Heart Institute are sponsoring the current institute on cardiovascular diseases.

More than four score individuals registered for the event at its opening session Thursday, and this reflects an increased interest in this type of program to keep professional nurses and technical people in touch with latest techniques and research.

With the hurried pace of our civilization and some other factors not yet clearly understood, the incidence of cardiovascular (the heart and the blood vessels) difficulties has grown alarmingly. Heart failure of one sort or another long since has attained first place as the cause of death. Its toll in disabilities and in loss of mental and other facilities, through hardening of vessels is probably equally alarming if not tragical.

Consequently, the Heart Association, together with the nurses, performs a splendid service for the public through making it convenient for professional minds to learn of new developments.

This incidentally is one of the things you dollars buy when you give to the heart association during February, Heart Month.

We Need The Sunshine Again

WASHINGTON — Will the sunshine ever come back? This isn't just a plaintive reference to the weather. It is the metaphorical query of millions of people today as they survey the growing gloom in world affairs.

There's trouble everywhere. Here are some but not all of the perplexities.

1. Fifty-seven American boys have given their lives in South Vietnam to a cause vaguely described as checking communism's military advance in Southeast Asia.

2. THE SOVIETS have established a military base in Cuba with somewhere between 20,000 and 30,000 troops and "technicians." But what do the "technicians" do, and how many missile and planes are there in Cuba for them to operate? Why does the United States government sacrifice American lives in South Vietnam, 5,000 miles away, and yet hesitate to take risks to assure the safety of its citizens residing in the Southeastern part of this country who could be attacked by "defensive" weapons now accumulated on an island 90 miles away from our shores? Why are the Soviets permitted to continue their flagrant violations of the Monroe Doctrine? Why does the administration continue to quibble about "defensive" weapons? People throughout America are worried about Cuba.

3. THE WESTERN ALLIANCE is wobbling. Quarrels over economic security and particularly trade have disrupted plans for a "common market" of low tariffs. Bitter denunciations of the French fill the press in Britain and in other parts of the world. Nationalism is blamed, but internationalism affords little prospect of a solution either. All the world's ills will not be cured by consolidating small states into big empires. The trend during the last few decades has been the other way, as the crusade against "colonialism" has led to the creation of dozens of small "republics" in Africa and across the Indian Ocean to the Southwest Pacific.

4. LATIN AMERICA is in trouble, too. The "Alliance for Progress" hasn't really made progress. Grants by our government will not buy friendship. The way must be opened for private enterprise, but this cannot happen till governments take full responsibility for the protection of the lives and property of foreigners. The United States government has abandoned this policy in relation to Cuba, and there is no assurance that it will not be forsaken everywhere else in Latin America, too.

5. Troubles in Africa multiply. Whites kill black, and blacks kill whites. The United Nations enters the killing, too, as it sends its armies to "preserve order" and force factions to unite. But this assumes a basic ability and a readiness of the backward peoples to govern themselves. To have applied the trusteeship idea and to have depended on gradual evolution would have been a better formula.

6. MOSCOW IS FISHING in troubled waters everywhere. Its agents are stirring up violence in the "demonstrations" in various countries. Students and trained leaders are paid to foment friction. This is something that needs exposure.

7. Berlin's "wall" remains as a symbol of Soviet trouble-making in the supposedly post-war world.

Even in our own internal affairs there is little sunshine, as costly strikes shut down newspapers and inflict hardships on millions of innocent bystanders.

IS THERE an answer? Only in enlightening public opinion steadily and persistently. For in our own country, policies waver from flabbiness to firmness and then back again. Political expediency rules the day. A humiliating subservience to pressure groups prevails and powerful blocs still buy elections for the political demagogues.

Last but not least, America sends its Peace Corps to other lands but needs a Peace Corps approach in its national capital, where discipline in the integrated public schools has broken down, according to the superintendent of schools—and where crime is rampant, as even congressmen are held up and robbed within a few blocks of the Capitol building itself.

WILL THE SUNSHINE ever come back? Not while even governments in democracies are reluctant to stand by historic principles of justice in the conflicts of mankind.

The sunshine will come some day—but only when facts are faced squarely and the rules of fair dealing and simple honesty are really recognized in the affairs of men.

NATO Nuclear Force Is A Nebulous Idea

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is vague on one of his most important foreign policy programs: Creating a so-called multinational nuclear force along this country's NATO allies.

He has never spelled out his idea. Nor did he do it Thursday at his news conference. The reason is that at this moment he probably doesn't know how it can be done.

HE CAN'T hand over nuclear weapons to the allies. A law passed by Congress forbids it. Under that law the most he could do would be to put the weapons into some kind of NATO pool—so long as they remained under American control.

But some of the allies—France and Canada in particular—resent American control of nuclear weapons in their territory.

French President de Gaulle rejected Kennedy's idea of a multinational nuclear force. He wants his own Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker delayed accepting the weapons under such conditions. In a dispute about it he was overthrown.

JUST TO SHOW how nebulous this whole business is, Kennedy, in his news conference discussion of a multinational nuclear force, said the allies who don't have nuclear weapons now should have a larger voice and "control" over them. This can't be done without congressional approval.

But, he said, this requires a "good deal of negotiation and imagination" and "we come to a conclusion, or during a conclusion, we will continue to consult with Congress which has special responsibilities."

What he did there, when he said "we come to a conclusion" and then add "or during a conclusion," was to have second thoughts.

THE LAW requires the government to keep the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy informed as it goes along—not afterward—on all matters relating to the development or use of atomic energy, and that includes weapons.

The President added: "We are conscious of our obligations under the McMahon 'atomic energy' Act and, therefore, it will be very sensitive and difficult, but I think a possible operation for us to carry out in the coming months."

"The purpose is to prevent the (NATO) alliance from dissolving on this difficult and sensitive control of nuclear weapons, which is tied up with sovereignty. The Nassau agreement was an effort to meet this."

BUT UNDER the Nassau agreements with other NATO partners Minister Macmillan this country would simply turn over Polaris submarine missiles to Britain which would then have to make her own nuclear warheads.

The United States has agreements with other NATO partners—Turkey, Greece, the Netherlands, West Germany, Italy—for exchange of information in connection with nuclear defense. But it can't give any of them nuclear weapons.

Besides, none of them can make its own nuclear warheads because none has developed its own nuclear power. That leaves only two NATO partners who might be able to Britain and France.

So this whole so-called plan of a multinational nuclear force looks at best, under present law, hardly more than a semblance of control over American nuclear weapons while actual control remains in American hands.

The law says the President can do this provided the nation on the receiving end of such help has "made substantial progress in the development of atomic weapons."

The Hunger For Print

NEW YORK (AP)—At breakfast you read the cereal box. On the way to work you memorize the car cards. One elderly gentleman—stockbroker type—was recently observed on the subway thumbing through a copy of Shakespeare's "MacBeth" with a look of quiet disapproval.

That's the way it is in a city that has been without a major newspaper for two months.

The hunger for print is so strong that people will read practically anything. But nothing fills the gap.

"I feel like I'm living in a void," complained my wife.

That's the way several millions of New Yorkers have felt ever since a strike shut down the people's university—the daily press—here last December.

You never know how much you miss a thing until it is no longer there. And people who have taken their daily newspaper for granted are surprised in how many ways they miss it now that they can no longer buy it.

No other instrument of civilization fills so many various roles as does a daily newspaper. Nothing else serves so many wants, satisfies so many curiosities, circulates so many kinds of information.

Other mass media—particularly radio and television stations—have moved massively here in an attempt to satisfy the people's right to know.

But the job is simply too vast for them. It is one thing to watch more than two years. I went to a specialist, and he sprayed some sort of medication in my ear on three occasions and that did the trick. I wonder, could you tell me in the sense that they might irritate my eyes after a few years.

Do you think contacts are safe?

—R. M.

Contact lenses, properly fitted, will not harm your eyes. They may, or may not, irritate them, but in that case, the irritation will make you stop wearing them.

They do bother some people, but not others. There are in-between cases, in which people can wear contacts for X number of hours a day, but not all the time.

If you (or rather, your parents) can afford the added cost of contacts, and will not be unduly affected in case you find that you can't continue to use them, I suggest that you try them.

Around The Rim

Exit The Dashing, Deadly Prince

It was more than 40 years ago that Abdel Krim began giving birth to a legend.

It was he who gave rise to several operettas, the major musical art form of that day, the most famous work being "The Desert Song." This operetta depicted a young, dashing, romantic sheik galloping across the North African wastes, making war and wooing women.

BUT THE WAR fought by the living Abdel Krim was bitter, long and bloody, and there was little of the romantic in it. Krim beat off the finest armies Spain could raise and send against him, and then he held off the French until he could hold no more.

He became a legendary warrior as leader of the Riff revolt of the early 1920's, beat off the Spaniards, then turned on and scattered a French army which attacked him suddenly from his rear. He led Riff and Berber tribesmen, on horse and camelback and with ancient rifles, against numerically superior modern armies—and won. It is no wonder that his feats astonished the world and gave rise to musical operas.

BY 1924, KRIM had proclaimed a Riff republic, but the following year the French used diplomacy, bribery and infiltration to woo away many of the tribes that had followed him.

The idea of a civil war among his own people demoralized the emir, and he surrendered. The French exiled him to an island in the Indian Ocean, but Krim in 1947, being taken to France, jumped ship in Cairo, where he stayed.

KRIM CONTINUED to be violently anti-French, although he remained friendly to the United States. Six years ago, he warned the U. S. that the French could not be trusted in the defense of Europe, that they broke faith with Britain in World War II, and that the Germans had scattered the French in 20 days. He said: "I don't know why the world doesn't get onto those French, they're stupid, weak, stubborn and selfish."

Krim last made the news when he turned a somewhat mellowed wrath against King Hassan of Morocco, threatening to stir up another civil war. It turned out, however, that Krim was protesting only against French influence in Morocco. The "imperialism" of which he spoke, a word which the Communists seized upon to good advantage, referred to Hassan's dependence on France in military, economic and other fields.

APPARENTLY, he didn't really mean anything against Hassan, since he said no more and did nothing—he was just anti-French.

But France can breathe easier now. The prototype hero of "The Desert Song" has pulled down the final curtain on an amazing life. He died Wednesday at the age of 78.

Yanks, Stay Out Of France!

"Would you care to join me in a patriotic work?" asked an old friend who is known in our mob as the Femme Fatale with the Whim of Iron.

"I'll tell you what I've done," she continued, not waiting for any answer to her rhetorical question. "I've just gone out and bought five gallons of black paint and a big brush. And, under dark of night, I plan to go all over New York and paint huge signs saying 'Yanks, Stay Home!'"

"I'VE BEEN READING all about the anti-American campaign being carried in all the French press and egged on by French officials, and I plan to beat the French public to the punch. It's only a matter of time until Paris is plastered once more with those old signs, 'Yanks, Go Home!'"

"So I've decided to start at the source," she went on, "and slap up my 'Yanks, Stay Home' slogans before the French start inviting us to move out."

"I'LL BUY AN extra brush for anyone who will help in this patriotic effort. And I'll supply the paint, too. In fact," my friend said, "it is just possible that I shall start a national organization called 'Painters for Patriotism' in every community in the nation with members dedicated to printing 'Yanks, Stay Home' all over the country, but particularly in the vicinity of travel agencies."

"MAYBE, I SHOULD amend my slogan to say 'Yanks, Stay Out Of France.' I ain't mad at nobody but de Gaulle, but I'm so mad at him I could pop him on the nose."

"You'd have to get a step ladder," I managed to break in.

"I've also got another project in mind," my friend went on, ignoring interruptions. "I'm going to write a guide book called, 'Paris in New York, or Save Money and See It Here.' We've got just about everything here but the Eiffel Tower. Have you seen 'Les Poupees de Paris'?"

"Yes," I said. "I thought I was right back at 'The Folies Bergere.'"

"THERE!" my friend cried triumphantly. "It may be a puppet show, but it is the Folies to the lifeline, semi-naked girls and all. Why, if Folies belles in 'Les Poupees' were real, live chorines, the New York police would have closed the show weeks ago. My husband said he even thought it was better than the Folies because the girls were more au naturel."

"And right at the moment we have in New York two of France's greatest national assets, Maurice Chevalier and Mona Lisa, both drawing record crowds," my friend continued. "And Marcel Marceau has just been here."

"YOU JUST stick around," she raved on, "and every French artist will be over here if we don't go over there. Including Brigitte Bardot! As for the gourmets who go to France to eat, I am making up a list of the French restaurants in New York where the food is superb and no more expensive than it now is in Paris. New York is full of French restaurants where the customer is always wrong, just as he is in Guy Paree."

"AS FOR THE FRENCH couture," you can buy superb copies of French fashions here for a fractured French fraction of what it would cost in Paree. If a certain Mrs. Kennedy can do it, so can the rest of us."

"Just think," my friend cried, "all this in New York, and plumbing and phone systems that work, in addition! Here, take this brush while I run around the corner for another!"

The Importance Of Venezuela

WASHINGTON — Of all the heads of government who will parade to Washington to sit down with President Kennedy it is safe to say that none will come on a more important mission than the President of Venezuela.

Ostensibly, Romulo Betancourt will be returning the Kennedy visit of December, 1961. But when he arrives on February 19 it will be far more than the traditional occasion of pomp and circumstance. For Venezuela is the principal target of communism and Castroism in the hemisphere.

IF BETANCOURT, who has stood up to attempted assassination, sabotage and every other tactic of violence and subversion, should be overthrown, it would be a spectacular triumph. Last month on the fifth anniversary of the overthrow of the dictator, Marcos Perez Jimenez, whom Betancourt succeeded by nationwide election, one of Cuba's old-line Communists spoke with remarkable frankness. Blas Roca, welcoming a Venezuelan delegation and predicting the overthrow of Betancourt, said:

"WE WILL then cease to be the solitary nation in the Caribbean to stand facing the Yankee imperialist and we will have a nation united with us on the continent of South America."

He expressed the gratitude of the Castro regime for the "demonstration of solidarity" shown by the acts of sabotage carried out in Venezuela at the time of the Cuban crisis last October. Several of the principal power installations of the Creole Petroleum Company, a Standard Oil subsidiary, on Lake Maracaibo were blown up at that time.

VENEZUELA is almost entirely dependent on petroleum for foreign earnings. That is why any change in the import controls regulating the flow of oil into this country is a matter of vital importance. Betancourt was dismayed by a new regulation issued in December which seemed to cut down importation of crude oil. He was later persuaded that Venezuela would be able to maintain its share of the market in this country and expand with the market.

Even though a number of saboteurs and armed Communists belonging to the paramilitary wing of the party known as the National Army of Liberation have been arrested, little evidence has been found of direct help from Cuba. Early in 1962 the baggage of a Venezuelan leftist returning from Havana a quantity of plastic explosive was found. But this is one of the few instances when evidence of such direct help has come to light.

THE THESIS preached by the Communists and the National Liberation Army is that good guerrillas do not rely on outside sources. The example of Mao Tse-tung and his revolutionary army living off the land is cited. Stalin and the early Bolsheviks followed the same tactics. So the Venezuelan conspirators are raiding police stations, sporting goods stores, banks and any other center which they believe they can shoot up and get away with arms and money.

For months it was touch-and-go whether Betancourt would survive. The situation has improved since the Kennedy Administration's strong stand over the Soviet missiles.

WHILE HE WAS in Palm Beach at the beginning of the Christmas holiday President Kennedy had a somber meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Reviewing the danger spots of the world where serious trouble might be expected in 1963, he suggested that it might be necessary to intervene to help sustain the Betancourt government. And not only in Venezuela, he went on, but in two or three other Latin-American nations where sabotage and para-military action are a threat to orderly government. This underscored the emphasis put by the President and the chairman of the JCS, General Maxwell Taylor, on the training of guerrilla forces.

IT UNDERSCORED, too the imminent peril in a key neighbor to the South. Betancourt has tried to take all the steps essential to raise the level of living of the landless peasants and the slum dwellers who exist in misery on the edge of the gleaming capital of Caracas. In his youth he joined the Communist party but left it disillusioned by Communist tactics when he was still a young man.

His party, the non-Communist left, Accion Democratica, has had some success in winning over the students. It was a student Communist group that recently staged the spectacular raid on a Caracas museum and carried off a number of valuable impressionist paintings on loan from Paris. They were later recovered and at least two of the band were taken.

CARACAS WAS the scene of the most violent attack on Richard Nixon in the course of his Latin-American tour as Vice President in 1959. His limousine was stoned and his life was for a time believed to have been endangered.

That was nearly four years ago. Some progress has been made since then. But recent events have shown how painfully slow it is.

Flowers Set Scene Of Webb Wives' Event

Flowers set the scene for the February luncheon of the Officers Wives Club Thursday at the Officers Club. On the white linen cloths red roses and leaves were placed the length of each table, and centering the head table was an arrangement of red roses. A rose tree stood near the speaker's stand.
Sponsored by the wives of the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron, the luncheon was followed by a business session conducted by the president, Mrs. James M. Gehrig. Sgt. Roberts was called upon to explain the operations of the Webb Youth Center, and announcement was made of the forthcoming Webb Follies, April 20. A contribution was voted by the OWV to help promote the welfare project. Attention was called to the next luncheon, when a spring fashion show is scheduled.
Mrs. Willard Mason introduced the speaker, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, who talked on "Temporary Gardening." Illustrating her talk, films of local gardens were shown depicting various shrubs, trees and flowers which thrive in this area. She pointed out types

Guadalupe Meeting Held

The Guadalupe of Sacred Heart Church approved a proposed project when the 15 members met Thursday night at the church hall. Mrs. Ray Molina presided.
The money-making project is to be a game night Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. in the hall.
The Rev. Patrick Casey was the speaker, using as his topic, "Our Devotion Toward Jesus Christ." A question and answer period was conducted on the Bible study, "The Mass."

Mrs. Rita Villarreal announced that she was leaving for Chicago, Ill., to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Juanita Lara.
Winners Told In Duplicate
Eight tables were in play Thursday evening during the duplicate session at John H. Lees Service Center. In north-south position, winners were Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, first; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Lloyd Nails and Mrs. Ward Hall and Mrs. Fern Durham, tied for second and third.
East-west winners were Mrs. Robert Dyer and Mrs. Wally Slate, first; Mrs. Ben McCullough and Mrs. John Stone, second; and Mrs. J. H. Holloway and Mrs. Ayra McGann, third.

and one cannot walk normally because of a short leg.
Some of the girls go to school, others embroider or knit sweaters, gloves and dresses. The girls with only one arm knit almost as rapidly as the others, with one needle tucked in an armpit.
Being under no pressure to produce each works at her own pace but the fastest earns as much as $35 a month, considerably more than the average income of Hong Kong factory workers.
GIRLS HELP OTHERS
The girls do not have to pay for their living accommodation or the material they use in their work and most of them send money, food and medical supplies to their relatives still in Communist China. Some help their brothers and sisters through school in Hong Kong.
The girls lead a normal social life. They are free to go out in the evenings and on weekends. Boy friends may be invited in on Sundays. Nine girls have married and left since the hostel opened in 1957. They occasionally bring in their children to show them off to their old friends.
Mrs. Kerr came to Hong Kong with her husband and two daughters when the Chinese Communists swept across northeastern China in 1949. She taught English to young Chinese girls. Most of them were refugees from China and they studied English for the purpose of finding employment. In the meantime, they learned to knit in order to earn a few dollars.
FACTORY BACKS OUT
One day, the local agent for a yarn mill in England asked Mrs. Kerr if she would start a small knitting factory unit to produce clothes with the mill's yarn for sale in England. Then and there, Mrs. Kerr saw a way of providing young homeless and handicapped girls with a home and a source of regular income. The hostel was born.
Then the yarn factory lost interest and withdrew support. In 1959 when the hostel ran into financial difficulties, the Church World Service promised to assume responsibility.
U.S. TO RESCUE
The hostel was threatened again recently when the Hong Kong government served notice that the area in which the hostel is located had to be cleared for a resettlement housing project.
The American consulate general in Hong Kong made a grant of $49,000 toward building a new hostel to house not only 32 girls but others on the waiting list. The hostel for Hong Kong's forgotten girls was saved once more.

Girls' Auxiliary Hears Mrs. Boren

Mrs. D. C. Boren conducted the lesson when the Girls' Auxiliary of the Stadium Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. C. L. McKinney Tuesday afternoon.
Her topic was the "Son of Israel," the story of a Jewish boy's conversion.
Diane Morris read the prayer calendar, and Sue McKinney worded the prayer for missionaries.
The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. McKinney who served refreshments to eight members.

Steers Host Bulldogs In 8 P. M. Battle

Delnor Poss and his Big Spring
Steers seek to get a taint of a 20-point defeat out of their mouths in an 8 o'clock basketball game with the Midland Bulldogs here this evening.

The Longhorns have their work cut out for them, since the Buldogs are fielding a stronger team than was expected of them this year and in Eddie Shirley have the biggest gunner in District 2-AAAA.

Shirley, who has come on first in the last half-dozen games, fires from both hips. He's only 5-10 but he has shown an amazing ability to hit from outside.

Barring a complete reversal of form, Shirley is going to emerge
as the scoring leader in 2-AAAA.
Only Eddy Nekson of Big Spring
is close to him in top points and Nelson has only an outside chance
of turning the trick.

The Steers could conceivably tie for seventh place in conference standings by spilling Midland. In order to do it, Odessa would have to lose to Abilene High at home.
Midland will have an edge in rebouncing strength, thanks to the presence in its lineup of 6-foot-7 Randy Kerth. Kerth doesn't score much but he's worth his weight in basketball with the rebounds he comes down with.

If the Steers have developed ericks in their necks from looking at the scoring leader in 2-AAAA.
Only Eddy Nekson of Big Spring
is close to him in top points and Nelson has only an outside chance
of turning the trick.

In conjunction with YMCA Week, a group from the Y will give a demonstration on the art of keeping physically fit during the half time intermission, too.

Probable starters for Big Spring, in addition to Nelson, include Charles West, DeeRoby Gartman, Albert Fierro and Ronnie Banks.

Midland is apt to go with a lineup consisting of Kerth, Shirley,
Scott Gilmour, Bennie Smith and Tommy Brandon or Pete Creasey.

Kerth is a junior, as is Creasey.
The others are seniors.

Nelson is the only senior in Big Spring's starting lineup. B teams of the two schools square away at 6:15 p.m.

Midland has won only eight of its 23 starts this season but has come on exceptionally fast since conference play began. The Bulldogs are 5-6 within the league. Big Spring has an overall record of 11-13.

Midland has averaged 61.8
points this season, compared to 63.2 for the opposition.

Big Spring has averaged 59.5
points a game this year, compared to 54.8 for the foe.

Hap Hairston Leads Violet Victory Surge

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Happy is the name, the disposition and the reaction following the victory of the Violet basketball team today over the New York University team.

The name and disposition belong to Harold (Happy) Hairston, a rangy junior centerman for New York University. He got the name and disposition because,
like the Topsy, he just grew that way.

The reaction comes from NYU basketball coach Lou Rusini and the Violet fans. They couldn't be happier that the 6-foot-7 scoring whiz is back.

Hairston, just returned to the team after sitting out the first half of the season because of academic difficulties, combined with Barry Kramer for 66 points
as New York U. beat Furman 108-82 in Madison Square Garden
Thursday night.

The victory pushed the Violet's record to 11-2 and marked NYU
as one of the prime Eastern teams to watch for a berth in post-season tournament, either the NCAA or the National Invitational.

Hairston was one of four prospective starters lost to the Violet because of academic difficulties.
Tom Boose, Clem Gaillard, also starters last season, and Don Blaha, the sixth man in 1961-62, were the others.

Blaha and Hairston regained their eligibility after the first semester and were playing their second game with the Violet Thursday. Hairston scored 34 against Furman.

Blaha added 10, but it's the combination of Hairston and the 6-foot-4 Kramer that has NYU fans excited. Kramer scored 32 points and currently ranks behind only Nick Wickman of Seton Hall
among the nation's major college scoring leaders.

The Violet broke a 7-7 tie with a string of 10 straight points, hustled out to a 57-35 halftime lead and coasted in.

Temple beat Manhattan 57-47 in the first half of the doubleheader, winning its 13th in 17 starts.

In other major games,
Providence beat DePaul 77-59 at Providence; Niagara, which on its first 10 games, lost its second straight, 66-67 at Syracuse; Notre Dame defeated Boston College 74-66 at Newton, Mass., homeslanding; North Carolina, frustrated
Maryland 82-68 and Oklahoma
City won at Hardin-Simmons
96-84.

BROWNWOOD — A 10-game schedule for the 1963 season has been announced for the Howard Payne College Yellow Jackets by Dr. C. E. (Nigh) McCarver, athletic director, and H. N. (Rusty)
Russell, head football coach.

The state includes games with several Lone Star Conference foes, with three against outside opposition.

New on the schedule this year is Hardin-Simmons University of Abilene. Not since the 1946 season, when HPC absorbed a 33-0 shellacking at the hands of H-SU, has the two clubs met in a five game, lost three and tied one with H-SU when the two clubs collided in Texas Conference action, but in eight non-conference affairs, HPC never recorded a win. The Cowboys won seven games, and one ended in a tie.

Larry Seals (above), a 5-foot-10 junior, is a regular on the Big Spring High School B basketball team, which plays the Midland High reserves at 6:15 o'clock here this evening.

Jayhawks Visit Odessa's Gym

With their backs to the wall in the Western Conference basketball race, the Howard County
Junior College Jayhawks visit
Odessa tonight for an 8 o'clock
joust with the OC Wranglers.

Buddy Travis' club beat the Odessans by ten points in their previous meeting here but had to go to full throttle all the way.

The Odessans are as hard to handle as a sack of snakes in their own gym. Too, they're smarting from a recent defeat handed them by Lubbock Christian College in Lubbock.

As has been the case in recent games, the Hawks come up for this game in sub-par physical condition. Conroy Lacy, one of their steadfast hands, suffered an ankle injury in last week's game with San Angelo and will probably see limited action, if any at all.

Charles Cumbers, a 6-foot-7 freshman, will probably start in his place.

Other starters for HCJC include
Walter Carter, Ernest Turner,
Bill Cotton, Thompson and Jim Wilburn. Jim Oldham, Dick Elling and Robert Hammack will also make the trip.

Larry McCulloch, the Odessa coach, can call upon such tried and true hands as Joe Varro, Bill
Moore, Robert Duncan, Sterling
Jeter, Stanley Heaps, Vince Panozzo, Joe Acevedo, Ed Gardner and Ray Hawkins.

Odessa is now 4.5 in conference standings while HCJC is 7.2.
However, the Hawks may have two wins taken away from them
due to a ruling on eligibility.

HCJC plays its next home game
Tuesday night against castle-tough Frank Phillips of Barger.

Steer Golfers Visit Abilene

Coach Dan Lewis takes his Big Spring golf team to Abilene Saturday to compete in the first of five District 2-AAAA meets this season.

The matches will be held at the Maxwell Muny course in Abilene, starting in the morning.

In all eight boys will make the trip with Lewis. Playing on the first unit will be Butch Bradford, Norman Patterson, David McCullough and Neil Robinson.

Baseball Buffs Honor Mickey

DALLAS (AP)—More than 900
persons turned out Thursday night to honor Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees slugger, as Texas' outstanding major league player.

Mike (Pinky) Higgins, former manager of the Boston Red Sox and now vice president in charge of personnel, made the presentation. He told Mantle, against whom his club often played, that
"it is a pleasure."

Wayne Graham, hard hitting third baseman of Dallas-Fort Worth in the American Association last year, received a plaque as Texas' outstanding minor league player.

The presentation dinner was sponsored by the Oldtimers Professional Baseball Association of North Texas.

Mel Allen, sportscaster of radio and television, was the principal speaker. He said Mantle was a great player and is regarded by his teammates as the most valuable man in the American League every year.

Mantle was named most valuable last season for a third time.
J. Alvin Gardner, who was president of the Texas League for a quarter century, was given a special achievement award.

Among those at the dinner were Ralph Terry, New York Yankee pitcher who won the deciding game of last fall's World Series;

Army Planning Anti-Castro Special Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is planning to form a new group of anti-guerrilla experts and base it in the Panama Canal Zone—in position to help Latin-American nations cope with any Cuban-fomented uprisings.

Informed sources disclosed this today amid concern in the United States over Soviet military strength in Cuba and the threat of Communist penetration of South and Central America.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has said the Soviets and Cubans do not have the ships to move any of the tanks or other significant military gear across the Caribbean to Latin America.

But U.S. authorities long have been concerned that Fidel Castro might succeed in transplanting his revolution by undercover means and stir up insurgency aimed at overthrowing governments friendly to the United States.

The U.S. Army now maintains four Special Forces groups, each made up of more than 1,200 men trained to a fine edge in the techniques of combating guerrillas.

For sometime, a nucleus of Special Forces troopers has been detailed to the Canal Zone. The new group will be a full scale and permanent outfit.

Although it never has been publicized, teams of U.S. anti-guerrilla experts are known to have worked in several Latin-American countries—always at the request of those countries.

Among them were understood to be Guatemala and Colombia.

Such operations are likely to expand with formation of the fifth unit in the Canal Zone.

The cold war mission of the Special Forces is to train native armed elements, but not to fight themselves. However, in South Viet Nam U.S. Special Forces have found themselves in the midst of battle between government soldiers and Communist guerrillas, and some have been killed.

In a hot war, the Special Forces would be sent behind enemy lines in small teams to organize civilian resistance.

Their officers and men are experts in weapons, demolition, parachuting, communications, medical treatment and other military arts.

The number of Special Forces experts has tripled over the past two years to a total of 5,600.

Chrysler Sets Higher Goals

NEW YORK (AP)—A resurgent Chrysler Corp. darling of the moment in Wall Street, aimed determinedly today at bigger share of the car buyer's dollar.

Lynn A. Townsend, company president, set the goal as stockholders rejoiced over news of booming profits, a planned stock split and an increased dividend.

In a letter accompanying the company's glowing 1962 financial report, Townsend told shareholders much work remains, particularly in further improving our company's share of new car sales.

The earnings and two-for-one stock split news touched off a surge of demand for Chrysler shares. It clogged trading channels for a time on the New York Stock Exchange.

After the log jam cleared, Chrysler closed ahead $3.37 at $65.25 a share on volume of 170,800 shares, making it the second most active issue on the big board.

Last spring, Chrysler stock sold for less than one-half this price.

A record fourth quarter in which the automaker cleared $50.3 million, or $5.37 a share, lifted earnings for all of 1962 to $65.4 million, or $7.24 a share.

In contrast, Chrysler cleared $11.1 million in 1961. In the company's palmiest days, profits soared to $132 million in 1949.

Surprisingly, last year's comeback found Chrysler with only 10.3 per cent of industry sales, a poor third to General Motors and Ford, although sales hit 12 per cent in the final three months.

Townsend, a tall, curly haired accountant has been president since July 1961.

With George H. Love, board chairman, backing him, Townsend instilled new leanness and vigor in the corporation, slashing jobs, reshuffling executives, chopping expenses and spurring the dealer organization.

The management surgery started paying off in a big way in the fourth quarter of 1961, when a profit of $31.6 million erased a deficit of more than $20 million for the first nine months, and switched the company into the black.

The company's October-December period earnings last year were an all-time high for a Chrysler fourth quarter.

Directors declared the regular fourth quarter dividend of 25 cents a share paid since June 1958, but in effect raised the payout by voting to continue the rate on prospective split shares.

Stockholders will vote at a special meeting April 16 on the split. Approval usually is a formality.

President Warns Russians Against More Cuba Moves

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has bluntly warned the Soviet Union that if it ever again sets up offensive weapons in Cuba the United States will know it and will be prepared for history's greatest crisis.

The risks in such a situation would be so alarming, Kennedy told his news conference Thursday, that he believes "the Soviet Union will proceed with caution and care."

And the President said the same goes for the United States, which he said must not be stampeded into rash action on the basis of rumor and hearsay concerning Soviet strength in Cuba.

Kennedy's remarks, delivered with obvious feeling, represented a blast aimed at two targets:

1. At the Kremlin leaders who continue to keep a formidable supply of short-range arms in Cuba.
 2. At administration critics, in and out of Congress, who suggest that U.S. intelligence may be overlooking ominous hidden stocks of Soviet missiles in Cuba.
- Kennedy voiced full confidence that such secret stockpiles do not exist. But he readily conceded he could be wrong.
- If he is, Kennedy implied, it wouldn't make much difference because hidden weapons would have to be uncovered and placed in position before use—and this would be discovered by aerial reconnaissance.

He said: "We cannot prove that there is not a missile in a cave or that the Soviet Union isn't going to ship (sic) next week. We prepared for that. But we will find them when they do, and when they do, the United States and Cuba and the Soviet Union must all be aware that this will produce the greatest crisis which the world has faced in its history."

Cuba completely dominated the news conference with Kennedy making these other major points:

Discussions are being conducted with the Soviet Union concerning a promised withdrawal "in due course" of remaining Soviet troops in Cuba. Kennedy said he wants a better definition of "in due course" and wonders if a withdrawal could be accomplished this winter.

In his spirited defense of the administration's Cuban intelligence program, Kennedy appeared angry—even bitter—about the conduct of certain critics in Congress. While saying the government welcomes reports of Soviet moves in the Caribbean, the President declared: "Even some of the members of Congress who have come forward either refuse to say where they heard the information or provide us with reports which do not have substance to them."

One of Kennedy's principal critics, Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., told The Associated Press

Wednesday he is offering the administration reports of Soviet strength in Cuba but is unwilling to disclose his sources.

Said Kennedy: "We have to move with hard intelligence. We have to know what we are talking about. We cannot base the issue of war and peace on a rumor or report which is not substantiated, or which some member of Congress refused to tell where he heard it."

The President was asked what further steps the administration might take to make converts of its critics.

Kennedy replied that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara "went to great length" toward this end in his unprecedented public intelligence briefing broadcast

Wednesday by television and radio networks.

"I don't know what more we can do," the President concluded.

On other subjects, these were the principal items:

William McClesney Martin Jr. is getting another term as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, though Martin has not always seen eye to eye with the administration's fiscal and economic experts.

President Charles de Gaulle of France has created serious problems by indicating, in Kennedy's words, "that he is not an admirer of NATO," the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The United States seeks a more powerful Europe—one with a bigger voice in Western nuclear policy—and "it would be a disaster if we should divide" because of De Gaulle's independent tactics.

Kennedy has "the highest confidence" in Secretary of State Dean Rusk and is in "very close communion" with Rusk on the latter's proper role.

The President doesn't think collective bargaining in the New York newspaper strike "has been particularly responsible."

Kennedy Scuttles Rumors That Rusk On His Way Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has dealt a blow to speculations just getting under way here that Dean Rusk is on his way out as secretary of state.

"I have the highest confidence in him," Kennedy told a news conference Thursday. Rusk was concerned about his position, this could have come as something of a birthday present. The former Georgia boy will be 54 on Saturday.

There is some reason to believe that Kennedy would like Rusk to take a more active public lead in the development of foreign policy in the country. Some of Rusk's associates think that he should occasionally be more active behind the scenes. But Kennedy said that actually he and Rusk are agreed on the basic roles which the secretary of state should play.

Chiefly, these are that Rusk should be Kennedy's main adviser on all matters of foreign policy, should run the State Department, should direct the day-to-day diplomacy of the United States, and should advise the President on "larger policies affecting our security."

One of the great issues in every administration since World War II has been the relationship between the secretary of state and the secretary of defense. Almost without exception during the past 17 years, the dominant Cabinet officer has been the secretary of state. In the Kennedy administration the bold and clear cut figure is that of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Actually Rusk has by his own preference worked behind the scenes. To an unprecedented degree for a man in his position he has sought anonymity.

Where he could not avoid the spotlight he has chosen where possible to play the least controversial role he could in public.

Thus in more than two years Rusk has had only 18 regular, on the record news conferences in Washington. These conferences have been characterized by bland statements of the principles of U.S. foreign policy.

Rusk has preferred one or two man interviews on television where he could discuss the history of U.S. foreign relations and the principles underlying foreign policy without being pressed on current issues.

Some In Congress Dispute JFK Belief On Cuban Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's contention that 6,000 rocket-equipped Soviet combat troops in Cuba do not represent a military threat to the hemisphere met with some dissent in Congress today.

But there was general agreement with his statement at Thursday's news conference that any Soviet attempt to reactivate offensive missiles on the island would "produce the greatest crisis which the world has faced in history."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who has contended the Kennedy administration has failed to keep the people abreast of developments, stuck to his position that the Soviet buildup poses a threat directed primarily toward Latin America.

"I am glad that the President recognized the threat to Latin-American nations, which is the principal point I have been making," Keating said.

Kennedy said the big dangers to Latin America, as he sees them, are the difficult and in some cases desperate conditions in the countries themselves. He specified illiteracy, bad housing, maldistribution of wealth and political or social instability.

He added that the Soviet forces he said the United States is negotiating to get out of Cuba "cannot be used to invade another country."

"They may be used to maintain some sort of control within Cuba, but obviously they are not a force that can be used externally," he said. "And in addition, Cuba cannot possibly launch any amphibious equipment and, quite obviously, our power in that area is overwhelming."

Keating said he agrees with Kennedy that the Soviet military strength in Cuba does not represent any threat of invasion of the United States. But he added he doesn't agree with the distinction made by the administration between defensive and offensive weapons.

Neither did Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., an Air Force reserve major general. Goldwater said

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1963 SEC. B

On The Listening End

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, right, and Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard listen as the Socialist opposition leader, Erich Ollenhauer, addresses the West German Parliament in Bonn. They heard Ollenhauer call for a joint statement with France that the new treaty between the two countries must strengthen—not weaken—the North Atlantic Alliance and the Common Market.

Former Texas Newsmen Are Serving On Solons' Staffs

By TEX EASLEY
 AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Texas newspapermen arrived on the Washington scene recently to raise to a dozen or so the number of former newsmen now on the staffs of Texas members of Congress.

Their jobs include the handling of press relations, preparation of congressional "news letters," radio and television scripts and writing of speeches.

Their salaries range from $12,000 to $15,000 yearly. They may vary greatly by office.

NEWEST AIDE

Newest is R. Kenneth Towery, just off the Austin American-Statesman, a 1955 Pulitzer Prize winner for his exposure of Texas land scandals while serving as managing editor of the Cuero Daily Record. Towery succeeded C. Herschel Schooley, one time Abilene newsman on the staff of Sen. John Tower, Republican.

Towery flew into Washington at the end of January his first time in the nation's capital, and was on the job in hours. His family remained behind in Austin to permit the children to finish the school year.

Schooley resigned from Towery's staff to open a Washington office for the Independent Bankers' Association.

The other recent newcomer is John Masterman, who left the city editorship of the Amarillo News Globe, to become an aide of Rep. Walter Rogers of the Panhandle district.

RENTED HOUSE

With his wife and two sons, David 4 and Tom, 1, Masterman drove from Texas in January. They have rented a house in nearby Falls Church, Va.

The Greenville Herald-Rammer's area news editor, Bob Hutchinson, spent January on the staff of Rep. Ray Roberts. On leave of absence from the newspaper, Hutchinson came to Washington to get a look at operations of the federal government. He did news releases and research for Roberts.

Just before he returned to Greenville, Hutchinson was asked his impressions of Washington and about the value of a newsmen on a congressman's staff.

"Well first," he replied, "I must say it's been a most enlightening experience. And I'm impressed no end by the Texas congressional delegation, the ability of the members and the unity among the delegation's Democrats."

Whether it's worthwhile for a member to have an experienced newsmen on his staff depends somewhat on the kind of fellow the congressman is, some can just make more news than others. But there's really no end to the local news that can be dug up in any congressman's office that would be of interest at least to this or that weekly or daily.

Then, there remains the question as to whether the papers in a congressman's district will print copy you send them. If they won't, there's little point in his hiring a man just because of his qualifications as a reporter.

Anti-Filibuster Senators Are Down But Not Out Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again senators who favor a tighter antifilibuster rule have gone down to defeat. But on the key vote they made a better showing than they have in the past and can be expected to renew the fight in the next Congress.

The battle ended abruptly Thursday, after nearly four weeks, without the Senate's getting a chance to vote on any proposed changes in the rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting to choke off a filibuster by limiting debate.

One proposal would have cut the required majority to three-fifths of those voting. Another would have permitted debate limitation by a majority of the 100 senators and still another by a majority of a quorum of 51 senators.

The three-fifths proposal was the only one that had any chance. But even the preliminary motion to take it up for consideration never got to a vote. Southern senators blocked action by carrying on a non-stop debate.

A showdown came on a move to put the Senate's antifilibuster rule into effect. If successful, it would have restricted further debate on the motion to take up the three-fifths proposal to one hour for each senator.

Fifty-four senators voted for limiting debate and 42 against—18 votes short of the necessary two-thirds margin.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana immediately moved that the Senate adjourn until Monday. The motion carried, 64 to 33, and wiped the slate clean of the rules fight in which the Senate had been embroiled since Congress convened Jan. 9.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., later protested that Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate's presiding officer, had not recognized him to make a point of order before the vote on Mansfield's adjournment motion.

Johnson said that under the rules a motion to adjourn is not debatable and ordered the clerk to call the roll. Javits denounced the failure to let him make a point of order as arbitrary and a dangerous precedent.

Javits told newsmen that, if recognized, he would have contended that since a majority had voted to close debate, the debate had been brought to a close under the Constitution.

His position was based on the argument that at the start of a new Congress the Senate's two-thirds rule is not binding, that a majority has a constitutional right to shut off debate on proposed rules changes.

This view was put to a vote in the Senate on Jan. 31 and rejected 53 to 42.

Although advocates of a rules change went down to defeat, they were cheered by the 54 votes cast for limiting debate. This represented a sizable gain since the last fight over the antifilibuster rule two years ago.

On Sept. 19, 1962, the vote was 37 for and 43 against limiting debate on a motion to take up a three-fifths rule. The vote was taken after only two days of debate as the Senate was nearing the windup of the session.

At the start of the 1961 session, the Senate had shunted the rules issue aside by referring it to committee by a 50-46 vote after seven days of debate.

Proponents of a tougher antifilibuster rule claimed Thursday's vote on limiting debate showed that a majority of the Senate would vote for a three-fifths rule if only the proposal could be brought to a vote.

However, a Southern senator said his side lost at least four votes because the issue of limiting debate was on the motion to take up the three-fifths proposal rather than on the proposed rules change itself.

This and other factors involved in the parliamentary tangle left it far from certain just what the outcome would be on a straight-out vote.

The Southern senators, led by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., maintained they were battling to preserve free debate in the Senate as a safeguard against hasty and intemperate action and as protection for the rights of minorities and small states.

Advocates of making it easier to shut off filibusters said this is essential if the passage of meaningful civil rights measures and other highly controversial legislation is not to be blocked by a minority of the Senate.

Cooler Air Enters State

By The Associated Press

A batch of cooler air billowed into Texas Friday.

It promised to take the edge off unseasonable warmth of the past few days in northern areas of the state, but no severe chilling was in prospect.

A few clouds formed along the north rim of Northeast and North Central Texas. There was no hint, however, of any rain to answer steadily growing needs. Skies were clear elsewhere.

Fog appeared before sunrise around Dallas and Fort Worth, and in the Brownsville area, where it limited visibility to about a mile.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies in all sections of the state through Saturday. Cool air was due to spread over part of Northwest Texas during the night and most of North Texas by Saturday.

Temperatures early Friday ranged from 31 degrees at Dalt-ham to 52 at Galveston.

Rocky Envisions A GOP Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says a Republican standard-bearer can unhorse President Kennedy in 1964 but that it would be a mistake for the GOP to settle on its champion now.

"The important thing is to strengthen and unite the party," said Rockefeller.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fantastic? ... Listen!

Last year in the United States one million pounds of sleeping tablets were manufactured.

Each night American people swallowed 12 million doses.

Each night the nervous tensions of millions of people were relaxed artificially and temporarily. No worry was banished; no fear disappeared. No problem came nearer to solution because of a pill ... and sleep. Troubles were merely postponed.

Peace of mind and rest come, not through pills, but through power found in trusting God.

Then develop that power by going to church regularly. Find there a faith that grows and gives courage. And pray, for "Whatsoever you shall ask in My name, believing, you shall receive."

Sunday Psalms 4:1-8	Monday Ezekiel 34:25-31	Tuesday John 14:23-31	Wednesday Ephesians 2:13-22	Thursday Philippians 4:8-13	Friday Psalms 37:5-11	Saturday Proverbs 16:1-7

Youth Crusade Planned Here

An eight-day Christian Citizenship Crusade is being planned by the Big Spring Pastors' Association, under the leadership of Houston Youth Evangelist, Rev. Freddie Gage.

The decision came during the Wednesday meeting of the churchmen and following a discussion on the current juvenile delinquency problem. Gage has led over 350 crusades in 11 years and has received over 34,000 additions to the churches he has served.

Chaplain Benjamin Meacham, president, appointed a committee to work on the crusade, including Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor of Baptist Temple; Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of First Presbyterian Church; Rev. John Black, pastor of First Christ Church; Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church; Francis Flint, YMCA secretary.

Other committees in the planning stages include a Layman's Steering Committee, a Youth Steering Committee and a Laywoman's Steering Committee.

Urban Renewal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Administration says it will advance $55,275 for San Marcos, Tex., to begin a preliminary survey and planning for its urban renewal program. The project, Chataqua Hill, involves an area adjacent to Southwest Texas State College.

ON THE SHELF

TRIUMPH, By Philip Wylie. Doubleday, $4.50.

By The Associated Press

There have been several novels recently about nuclear brinkmanship, the best known being "Fail-Safe."

Leave it to satirist Wylie to go them all one better in the holocaust—World War III, in which practically the whole northern hemisphere is turned into a scorched desolation of deadly radioactivity. His story has the U.S. and Russia blasting each other off the map.

His vehicle is a narrative centered around one deeply complex shelter under a Connecticut mountain, created by a multi-millionaire named Vance Farr. There are 14 assorted persons (including two children) who manage to stay unharmed in this costly refuge for two years, outlasting any other American survivors—even the military.

Naturally, as a novelist, Wylie has created a motley cast. They include Farr's alcoholic wife; their beautiful daughter Faith and her nominal fiancé, a playboy named Kit Barlow; the Farr butler, a Negro, and his sultry daughter; Farr's technical engineer, of Japanese descent; Lotus Li, a beautiful Chinese girl who had arrived as a weekend guest; another weekend guest, a homely mathematical physicist named Ben Bernman, who once had saved Faith's life, and even a meter reader who happened to be on the premises when the sirens wailed. Wylie's message is that even in the 1950s anyone who wasn't blind could see the disastrous possibilities ahead. The crux of his plot is that the Russians deliberately have swapped the destruction of populations with the U.S. because there were a hundred thousand elite Russians concealed in underground and under-sea shelters, ready to take over the remains of the scorched earth.

Of course the author is enough of a novelist to keep his narrative above the level of science fiction, and enough of a satirist to rub in his message in a scathing way. It is the sort of imaginative fiction that shakes even the somnolent reader.

Adult Coloring Books Have Invaded The Reading Market

By FRANCIS STILLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the hottest items in the publishing business these days is the coloring book—for adults. They aren't expected to color, however, just buy, look and laugh.

Presumably they have been looking and laughing, because they certainly have been buying the books.

At prices ranging from $1 to $2.98, sales have passed the million mark.

The spore of coloring books—done in the style long popular with children—got off to a fast start late in December 1961, and its origin was about as much of a gag as anything else.

Its authors were three Chicago advertising men, Martin A. Cohen, Dennis M. Altman and Marcie Hans.

They put up $300 each to bring out what was called "The Executive Coloring Book," to sell for $2.98 a copy. It was designed as a spoof of advertising executives.

For instance, a drawing representing an executive carries this line below: "This is my suit. Color it gray or I will lose my job."

By Christmas, all 1,600 copies of the original printing were gone and there was a clamor for more. The authors turned over distribution to Pocket Books Inc. of New York.

A rash of similar books wasn't long in hitting the stands. There were coloring books for secretaries, corporations, VIPs, investors, housewives and just about anybody you could name.

The second to make a resounding splash was called "The JFK Coloring Book." Its subject is President Kennedy and his administration, and sells for $2. The book is published by Kannon Inc. of New York. This is a corporation composed of Jackie Kannon, a professional comedian, and Alexander Roman, who runs a printing firm.

One drawing shows a baby sitting in a playpen. The caption—presumably supposed to have been written by Caroline Kennedy—says: "This is my brother. He is only a baby. He will have to wait until 1966 to get Daddy's job."

A similar book was published in April at $1.25 by Joe B. Nation, an aircraft research engineer in Texas. It is called "The New Frontier Coloring Book."

A drawing of a rocking chair is captioned: "This is the symbol of the New Frontier. It gives a feeling of motion without getting us anywhere."

"Pocket Books has brought out 'The John Birch Coloring Book,' another $2.98 item which lampoons the controversial ultra-conservative organization.

Two of the authors, Cohen and Altman, were in the trio which hit pay dirt with the first of the coloring books. The third in this case is Robert E. Natkin.

The book's opening page has a drawing of an American eagle, with one wing clipped. Says the caption: "This is our Eagle. We cut off his left wing. Now he is an All-American eagle. But he only flies in circles."

One page is blank. At the bottom is printed: "How many Communists can you find in this picture? I can find 11. It takes practice."

A Pocket Books spokesman said: "Some persons who have seen the book and who are terribly conservative, have taken it in good humor."

Cruel To People, Union Charges Animal Protectors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Potentially cruel to humans—that's what a union says about the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The AFL-CIO Building Service Union, Local 399, threatened Thursday to call a strike against the SPCA for refusal to bargain. The union claims 21 of 27 kennel men and ambulance drivers have signed cards stating that they wish to be represented by the union but the SPCA has refused recognition.

An SPCA spokesman replied: "We have nothing to bargain with SPCA is a nonprofit charitable organization with nearly 70 per cent of our revenue coming from voluntary donations."

Luther Daniels, Local 399 secretary, said SPCA employees "object to their low wages and poor working conditions, and justice demands that the organization recognize and bargain with the union selected by its employees."

The SPCA serves 15 cities in the Los Angeles area.

Inger Stevens Drops Big Accent, Takes It Up Again

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Inger Stevens, a very pretty, blonde, blue-eyed actress who might well be cast perennially in ingenue roles, couldn't be blamed if she were a hypochondriac.

In recent episodes on some of the most popular shows in television she has portrayed a housewife suffering from post-partum psychosis; an ex-heroin addict, a pregnant Romanian refugee, a paramour and a call girl with a bad heart.

"I feel great," protests Miss Stevens merrily. "At least I can say that I haven't exactly been type-cast on television, although I'd like a chance to do more comedy—and maybe I'll be getting it."

Inger, daughter of a Stockholm school teacher, came to this country when she was 13 and her father received a Fulbright scholarship. Her parents were interested in amateur theatricals, and Inger inherited their love for acting.

With considerable effort and study, the young performer finally got rid of every trace of a Swedish accent and played in summer stock. She moved on to television in the days of Playhouse 90, Philco Playhouse, Studio One. Her first television part was that of a Czech refugee, with an accent.

"That was all right," said the actress, "because it indicated I didn't have a Swedish accent. But last season when I played a Romanian in 'A Case of Tomatoes' a producer who was interested in me for a movie turned me down because I had—he thought—a foreign accent."

The cycle of irony is turning again, however. Inger recently finished the pilot show for a series based on the comedy, "The Farmer's Daughter"—and, in the title role, has a broad Swedish accent.

"If it sells," she sighed, "I'll probably have to prove all over again that it isn't real."

Her job involves a lot of traveling. She flies, although she hates it.

Eight Children Burned To Death

TORONTO (AP)—All eight children of one family burned to death today in a fire that roared through their tenement home in Toronto's West End.

The father, Roy French, 36, told a neighbor he fell asleep and left an electric kettle going. The kettle overheated and exploded, he said.

Another neighbor, Bill Bartlett, ran into the blazing building and dragged French out. The father tried to rush into the house but was forced back by the flames.
