TRINITY SNATCHES UP NOTED DIRECTOR, PAUL BAKER

Major Walkout Shatters Baylor Drama Department

WACO (AP)—Chairman Paul Baker and 11 other members of the Baylor University Drama Department resigned today three months after the Baptist school closed an Eugene O'Neill production because of language offensive by the university.

Within an hour, Trinity University at San Antonio announced Baker had been appointed chairman of its speech and drama department.

Future plans of the 11 staff members were expected to be focused under Baker at the Dallas Theater Center, where he remains as director.

The departure of Baker and his staff from Baylor had been expected since Dec. 6 when Baylor President Abernethy forced the Drama Department to close in mid-run its production of the prize-winning play, "Long Day's Journey Into Night," by Eugene O'Neill.

Mrs. Paul Baker, herself a Baylor faculty member for 24 years, joined her husband and his staff in their resignations. She was a mathematics teacher.

The joint statement said in part:

"Our decision is not a hasty one. It has evolved from many hours of soul searching conferences and prayer on the part of each faculty member.

"It was a heart wrenching decision. The faculty, representing 140 combined years of dedicated effort, has worked to make a contribution to the promotion and growth of Baylor. It is not easy to leave such a large investment. We have many ties that will continue to bind us here.

"Our decision should not be taken as a loss of faith on our part in the Baptists, or in the destiny of Baylor. We deeply appreciate the support through the years of the Texas Baptists. Because of their interest and encouragement, a great theater has been built.

"It is our fervent hope and prayer that Baylor University will grow beyond the confines and pressures of the present moment and that it will fulfill its destiny as a complete and great university."

In Baker's 28 years at Baylor, he has pioneered in many phases of the theater and has attracted international acclaim.

Senior among the resigning staff members was Gene McKinney, 21 years in the Drama Department and winner of numerous national and international awards in movie production.

Others resigning were Asst.

Professor Robert Flynn, technician; Associate Professor Mary Sue Fridge, professor of acting and star of many Baker productions in Waco and Dallas; Professor Virgil Beavers, theater designer; Miss Jeannine Wagner, children's theater director; Robert Stecker, business manager; Dugald MacArthur, teacher of stage directing and director of the production, "Long Day's Journey into Night"; Asst. Professor Leonard Feldman; Mrs. Peri Wilson; Assistant Professor Gene Diskey and Mary Raines.

The department instructed about 55 drama majors and 200 other students in the courses given at Waco and about 50 graduate students at the Dallas Theater Center in Dallas.

Several years ago a group of Dallas citizens persuaded Baker to create the Dallas Theater Center, for which Frank Lloyd Wright designed the building.

The center is now in its fourth production season. It served as a graduate school under an agreement between Baylor and the Dallas Theater Center directors.

Baker, 51, twice has been president of the National Theater Conference. He is past president of the Southwest Theater Conference and its Texas counterpart.

He has a long record of firsts in stage production of works by famous American authors and in experimental productions of Shakespeare and other classics.

His productions have been featured on national radio and television network shows repeated during the last 12 years. A large portion of the work of the Baylor theater center has centered around the presentation of activities of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The drama department members said their resignation is effective Sept. 1 or earlier at the convenience of the university.

In closing the O'Neill play, McCull said "the language of the play was not in keeping with the ideals of the university."

In their statement issued today, the resigning faculty members said, "We do not condone profanity any more than we condone murder in presenting 'Hamlet.'"

Baker at the time the play was closed said that he had asked O'Neill's widow for permission to delete some of the language of the play but she refused.

Baylor sources said Baker refused to close the play when asked to do so by the president, and McCull himself closed the play, taking full responsibility.

One source said that many other plays with language similar to "Long Day's Journey Into Night" had undergone editing to remove words and passages which conflicted with Baylor policy.

McCull issued this statement today:

"A month ago I sent Mr. Baker the following letter: 'At the meeting of the Baylor board of trustees in Waco Jan. 8, I gave assurance to the trustees that I would send you a written statement that it is the policy of the university that plays containing vulgar, profane or blasphemous language should not be produced by the drama department without deletion of the offensive language. It is also the university policy that plays which ridicule the Christian religion shall not be presented.

"I recognize that the above are rather broad and can be given various interpretations, but I believe your long experience at Baylor will enable you to apply them without danger of a repetition of the recent controversy. If you have a serious question in any instance as to the reasonable application of this policy please consult with me."

"Mr. Baker expressed dissatisfaction with these policy statements.

"I regret that Mr. Baker and his staff feel that this represents such an intolerable restriction on their freedom that they cannot continue their work here.

"We wish him and his staff the best of success at Trinity."

House Panel Asks $3.1 Billion State Spending Measure

AUSTIN (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee recommended today a "light-fisted" $3.1 billion two-year spending bill with some new twist economy measures.

Rep. Bill Healy, chairman, said the budget bill calls for state agencies to stop hiring lawyers when identical services are now provided in the attorney general's department.

Healy said the bill would eliminate 76 lawyers on payrolls of state agencies. The attorney general's staff would hire up to 30 more lawyers.

Healy said that the measure also calls for all state agencies to quit buying big, luxury cars and start driving compact models. He said state police and the prison system would not be bound by the rule, since pursuit cars are needed by both agencies.

"We are also eliminating some secretaries and librarians in some agencies," Healy said.

He said approval of the bill today came earlier than in any session in history.

Speaker Byron Tunnell, attending the two-minute meeting at which the bill was approved, praised the committee for completing its work "according to the rules." Tunnell said House rules call for the appropriations bill to be ready by the 60th day of the legislative session, which is today.

Healy said the bill contains none of the measures sought by Gov. John Connally.

"We can't presume what will happen," he said. "We have to follow present law, but this document will be revised accordingly."

Connally's plans include merging the Game Commission with the Parks Board, abolishing the Texas Aeronautics Commission, setting up a tourist agency and also a commission to study efficiency in government.

Omitted was a $3 appropriation for screwworm eradication.

The judicial departments would get $9,557,755, an $112,280 increase.

Hospitals and special schools would get $119,595,948, an increase of $11,442,342.

State departments and agencies come in for $1,548,516,811, an increase of $10,295,910.

Education gets the biggest boost to $1,406,597,266, an increase of $155,042,087.

The total recommended by the committee was $3,084,267,680, an increase of $269,619 over spending during this two-year period.

Added to this was over $4 million in legislative expenses, which brought the bill up to the $3.1 billion.

"The committee is not attempting to spend more money than is coming in," Healy said.

He said the House recommendations were $120 million less than asked by the Legislative Budget Board.

Rebels Take Over Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Pro-Nasser army officers launched a revolution in Syria today and claimed control of the country. But Turkish officials in Ankara received reports of violent street fighting in Damascus.

Western diplomats in Cairo had reports from Damascus that no resistance to the coup had developed in the capital by mid-morning and street demonstrations in support of the army were taking place.

The rebels, broadcasting on Damascus Radio, pledged themselves to forge Arab unity "in the shortest possible time." They condemned Syria's withdrawal without saying they wanted to rejoin the U.A.R.

The U.S. Embassy in Cairo reported communications from Damascus indicated all Americans there were safe and were not affected by the coup.

CLAIM CONTROL

Baghdad Radio said the Syrian rebels messaged Iraq that "we are in control" and "there is no need for any action on your part." The rebels said their situation was excellent.

The Turkish foreign ministry said top leaders of the Syrian government, including Premier Khaled El Azem, had taken refuge in the Turkish Embassy in Damascus.

The pro-Nasser revolutionary regime in neighboring Iraq and Nasser's United Arab Republic quickly voiced all-out support for the Syrian revolutionists and warned against foreign intervention.

The warnings appeared directed at Israel and pro-Western Jordan. The Israeli army, facing the largest concentration of Syria's army on Israel's northeast frontier, was reported on the alert. But no special emergency measures were announced in Jerusalem.

Reports to Cairo said the rebels held the army headquarters in Damascus and were believed to have arrested the armed forces commander, Gen. Abdel Karim Zahraddin.

It was Syria's third military coup in 18 months.

Playing the same martial music that heralded the Iraqi revolt one month ago today, Damascus Radio trumpeted a call for "unity, freedom and socialism."

Papal-Red Relations Growing?

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The meeting between Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law and Pope John XXIII sparked speculation today that the Soviet Union and the Roman Catholic Church may be on the threshold of a major breakthrough to friendlier relations.

Signs of a change between the Kremlin and the Vatican have been evident for months.

The 18-minute private audience which Pope John granted Alexei Adzhubei Thursday was the first face to face meeting in history of a Roman Catholic ruler and a leading figure from the Soviet Union.

Besides his family connection with Premier Khrushchev, Adzhubei, 39, is chief editor of Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper.

The initiative for the meeting came from the Soviet side. Adzhubei and Khrushchev's daughter, Rada, are touring Italy. Vatican officials said the couple asked to see the Pope. Apparently Pope John welcomed the opportunity.

Rusk Reports Russ Move Out Of Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today some movement of Soviet troops out of Cuba is under way, and the Russians have shipping in position to withdraw several thousand men within the next week.

Rusk also told a news conference that the United States is "turning an important corner" in the long and costly fight against the Communist struggle to seize power in South Viet Nam.

He said the U.S.-supported South Viet Nam forces now "clearly have the initiative."

On a third major point of foreign policy, Rusk asserted bluntly that any nuclear test-ban agreement which may become possible with the Soviet Union will require the United States to take some risk.

But on the other hand, he said, continuation of the arms race unchecked would involve very great dangers for this country.

Rusk opened his first news conference since Feb. 1 by inviting questions. He offered no prepared statement. He said he would not discuss the Cuban situation in detail at the moment, although he said the government is watching now with great interest to see what the Soviets do about fulfilling their Feb. 18 promise to pull out several thousand troops by the middle of March.

Other informants say privately that, so far as the United States knows, only a few hundred men actually have gone out.

Rusk said he would not, at this time, become involved in a discussion of numbers. He said the State Department and other agencies here will make an assessment later on the way the withdrawal goes.

Asked whether Russian troops have been moving from their military positions in the island into concentration areas around Cuban ports, Rusk replied simply that there have been movements on ships outbound.

City Commission Meets

Students Get On-Spot Look At Governmental Agencies

Big Spring and Howard County officials were busy Friday morning showing their student counterparts the duties of running city and county governments. High school students, elected by the student body, were getting a firsthand glimpse of all offices in the annual student-government day activities.

City Manager Larry Crow escorted the student city commission, and his counterpart, Terry Stretch, through the city hall and other buildings to give them first hand information on the city's operations before a regular commission meeting which was attended by department heads.

A meeting of the Big Spring city commission was held in the commission room at 10:30 a. m. with Student Mayor Junior Holland and Commissioners Larry Jones, Ricky Peters, Robert Wade and Bruce Wells being coached by Mayor George Zachariah and Commissioners Paul Kasch, Arnold Marshall, John Stanley and Squeaky Thompson.

Earlier City Attorney John Bennett appeared in corporation court to try cases before the corporation judge, Grover Cunningham.

All other student officers were with their counterparts in the city hall, police station, fire station and public works department.

County and district officers received actual training in court procedures while courts were in session.

County Judge Lee Porter and Student Judge Jan Anderson called a brief meeting of the Howard County Commissioners Court for the morning with all officers present. Student commissioners present were Hilary Sherrod, Kina Little, Kathy Seddon and Roselia Mato. They were briefed by Commissioners Joe Hayden, L. J. Davidson, Rufus Stallings and Ray Nichols.

Judge Ralph Caton's 118th District Court was in session and Student Judge Buster Barnes was on hand to observe proceedings.

All regular and student officers were briefed at a breakfast held at 7:30 a. m. at the Settles Hotel and then went to their various assignments for the day.

Nixon Lashes JFK For Cuban Debacle

NEW YORK (AP)—Richard M. Nixon has fired a salvo at the Kennedy administration for lack of air cover in the abortive 1961 Cuban invasion.

The former vice president, in a taped television show, said he "could not imagine" former President Dwight D. Eisenhower not providing such air cover. Nixon advocated an oil blockade of Cuba.

Saying President Kennedy has been subjected to some unfair criticism on the invasion, Nixon added: "I think he was wrong in another respect. I think he was wrong, once we committed our power, in not seeing it through and finishing the job."

"And when the suggestion is made that President Eisenhower may or may not have planned air cover, I would only suggest this: I cannot imagine the general, who planned the greatest invasion in history, the invasion of Normandy, allowing those 1,500 brave Cubans to go in the Bay of Pigs there without having first destroyed the enemy air power or providing air cover."

Nixon's appearance on the Jack Paar show was taped last Sunday in New York for showing tonight on NBC-TV. But the program was shown first Thursday night on CTV in Toronto, a Canadian commercial network.

Nixon called for "a political, diplomatic, economic and military quarantine of Cuba, of communism in Cuba."

Newspaper, a Long Island daily newspaper, reported Thursday that last Tuesday during an off-the-record speech at Garden City, N.Y., Nixon advocated an oil blockade of Cuba in recommending a four-point U.S. policy toward Cuba. His four points: removal of all Russian troops, on-site inspection of missile installations, an end to foreign aid to nations which trade with Cuba and a partial blockade to stop all oil shipments to the island.

Nixon repeated those assertions on the television program.

Republicans who have criticized the President about Cuba "will join in a bipartisan support of any strong action that President Kennedy will take to remove the Communist cancer," Nixon said.

He referred to the possibility of strong U.S. action in Cuba angering some neutral nations.

Nixon, in Chicago on Thursday, held his first news conference since immediately after his November defeat in California's gubernatorial election.

Mahon Hits Loose Talk On Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. George Mahon's plea that public officials keep quiet about American intelligence activities was welcome news to President Kennedy, and many members of Congress agreed "silence is golden."

The President, it was learned today, was immensely pleased when aides showed him news wire accounts of the Texas Democrat's speech Thursday on the House floor. There was good reason to believe Kennedy began making plans to grab the ball Mahon tossed into the air.

White House sources said, however, that the congressman acted on his own initiative, that Kennedy had no foreknowledge of the blistering attack on loose talk.

Mahon, chairman of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said "officials in Moscow, Peking and Havana must applaud our stupidity in announcing publicly facts which they would gladly spend huge sums of money endeavoring to obtain."

NO EXAMPLES

He gave no specific examples and said the executive branch and the legislative, Republican and Democrats alike, "must share the blame" for "making us the laughing stock of the world."

There was an immediate chorus of amens on Capitol Hill.

At the same time, Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., said he had called on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to tell the American people whether Soviet ships recently reported en route to Cuba to remove Soviet troops actually were carrying missiles to the island.

In a news release from his office, Wilson said he had sent a letter to the secretary posing these questions:

"How many ships have actually arrived in Cuban ports ostensibly to return Soviet soldiers? Have our intelligence-gathering services checked the unloading of these vessels to determine whether they carried missiles into Cuba? How many Russians have left Cuba?"

Wilson's letter continued: "Since the Communists obviously are aware of the answers to these questions, I can see no reason to withhold the same information from the American public."

TOO MUCH

In expressing agreement with Mahon, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said: "I feel that there's too much intelligence given out." And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., told a reporter: "All should heed the admonition that silence is the golden rule of intelligence."

On the House side, Mahon's assertion that "the present situation is outrageous and intolerable" brought a bipartisan plea to try to stop the tongue-wagging as far as Congress is concerned.

"I hope that during these confused times members of Congress will be particularly careful about what they say," said Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio, top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"We must exercise discretion in these matters," said Rep. Ben F. Jensen of Iowa, senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee.

"None of us should be responsible for giving aid and comfort to the Communists by loose talk."

NEW COMMITTEE

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota suggested in a Senate speech that a new joint committee on national security affairs be established with legislative jurisdiction over all government intelligence agencies.

In his speech, Mahon called on Kennedy Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., to "coordinate a course of action for the purpose of halting the rapid erosion of our national intelligence effort."

"Today's headlines may cost the lives of the human sources of information," Mahon said. "The enemy can find our intelligence sources much more easily when he knows what we have found out. This knowledge helps to pinpoint the location of intelligence activities, and once knowing the location, the discovery of the means is much easier and intelligence sources dry up."

Various administration officials have repeatedly expressed the view that, because this is a democracy where government secrets are suspect, there is a tendency to make public too much information that could be helpful to a potential enemy.

QUIET THE FUSS

Any curbing of public discussion of intelligence activities might serve to quiet the continuing controversy about the effectiveness of intelligence operations involving Soviet moves in Cuba.

In addition, the administration might use Mahon's speech as a new lever to employ in discouraging government employees from giving certain kinds of information to newsmen.

At the time of the Cuban crisis, both the Defense and State departments issued directives aimed at this objective. Although both departments acted in the name of national security, it is questionable whether their orders ever were as effective as intended.

Mahon said the Kennedy administration "has mistakenly allowed itself to be goaded into revealing information detrimental to our best interests."

The remark recalled the uneasiness Kennedy expressed at a news conference Feb. 7, the day after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and an aide conducted an unprecedented, televised display of reconnaissance photographs of the Cuban arms buildup.

In a separate interview, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who in the past repeatedly charged the Kennedy administration with understating the extent of the Cuban arms buildup, said: "Any steps necessary to protect our national security will have my support. Any attempt to suppress information simply to avoid embarrassment to government officials deserves no such consideration."

News Strike Nearing End

NEW YORK (AP)—The 91-day newspaper shutdown in this city appeared near an end today.

Negotiators for publishers and striking printers agreed to accept terms proposed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner in the dispute that has cost the industry at least $100 million.

Loose ends remain to be tied up. Some details are still to be worked out. Rank and file printers have yet to ratify the agreement.

Two other unions still are striking, but the logjam is broken. The agreement announced by Wagner today seemed to open the way for eight newspapers with a circulation of more than 5 million daily to resume publication shortly. But it was not possible for them to set the date when they will start rolling their presses.

Eugene Buttrill, New York Herald Tribune vice president, said the pact negotiators agreed upon calls for a pay package increase of about $6.50 a man the first year and about $6 the second, a total of about $12.50.

The first year's increase would include $4 in pay and $2.50 for fringe benefits, he added, and the second year's hike would include $4 in wages and $2 for fringe benefits.

Included in the second year package would be 36 cents per man per week for reducing the work week from 36 1/2 to 35 hours, Buttrill said.

Grand Ole Opry Loses 5th Star

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The entertainers of the Grand Ole Opry are a saddened group today. Accidents have killed five members of the noted country music troupe that is as close-knit as a farm family.

Jack Anglin, 46, an 11-year veteran of the Opry, was killed Thursday when his car left a road on a curve near here and hit a tree. He apparently was en route to prayer services for Patsy Cline.

Miss Cline died in a plane crash Tuesday night, as did two other singers—Hawkshaw Hawkins and Cowboy Copas—and Miss Cline's manager-pilot, Randy Hughes.

JFK May Return With Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration sources predicted today that if Congress trims President Kennedy's tax cut proposal and rejects most of his reforms, Kennedy will come back with a 1964 tax bill stressing reforms.

The shift in strategy would not be too painful for Kennedy, it was hinted, because an initial, simple, one-shot tax reduction is basically what Kennedy had in mind last year when he first called for "an across the board, top to bottom cut."

The economic impact would be greater than that of the three-year stretch of rate reduction Kennedy finally chose to ask, informants said, and from that standpoint has been preferred by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The administration now is reported to be hoping that an acceptable bill—even if it differs considerably from Kennedy's program—can be enacted in time to take effect October 1.

"If we hadn't had the deficit problem, we would have recommended a one-shot reduction of around $6 billion or $7 billion, leaving reform until a later stage," one official disclosed.

Faced with an unexpectedly large budget deficit when the time came to send his fiscal program to Congress, Kennedy chose to ask rate reductions about twice as deep—more than $13 billion—with their budget impact offset in part by reforms and a spread-out in effective dates.

The $3-billion worth of revenue-raising reforms was expected to assure the support of the No. 1 tax man in Congress, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and to placate the secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon.

In the end, Kennedy's tax message became a mixture to suit the tastes of the economists, the tax purists and the tax cutters.

Surprisingly to the White House, the reaction has been negative in almost every quarter. Congressional sentiment seems to favor a smaller, one-piece reduction, offset to the extent possible by federal cost-cutting, and leaving major reform proposals to be hammered out later.

Kennedy indicated last week he would accept such a bill if necessary to get a tax cut enacted this year.

In his news conference Wednesday, Kennedy said he still wants the completed bill he sent up in January. "I think that is the best combination," he said.

He predicted Congress will enact a tax program with "important elements of the reforms we went up," but he did not say he would veto a bill which lacked those elements.

If Congress chooses to knock out most of the reforms—a decision no likelier than ever, in view of Kennedy's indicated acquiescence—Kennedy will give tax reform a priority place in his 1964 legislative program, officials predicted.

This new tax revision bill, they suggested, would be a revamped and amplified version of the reform provisions in the current bill, combined with proposed further reductions in tax rates to arrive at substantially the same net tax reduction as in the present bill.

HE WAS WRONG

The letter continues: "Let us notice two men who were Christians but were wrong in some of their doctrine. Let us first take the case of Apollas as found in Acts 18:24-28. Here we are told that Apollas was 'fervent in the spirit' and 'spoke and taught diligently the things of the Lord.' Truly this man was a Christian but he was wrong in the doctrine he preached because Aquila and Priscilla had to straighten him out."

Today, gospel preachers have to straighten out the people in denominational error. Would to God that all were as glad to have their errors pointed out as was Apollas!

Compulsory Arbitration Looms Over Labor Issues

EDITOR'S NOTE — A time of growing labor-management trouble looms ahead and raises the issue of possible future compulsory arbitration. Last of four special articles. By STERLING F. GREEN, AP Economic Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although the odds are against any early government crackdown on labor strife, another serious outbreak of "national emergency" strikes might induce Congress to act.

Maybe not in 1963, perhaps in 1964.

President Kennedy wants new powers to deal with economy-crippling shutdowns. But he feels this is not the year to open the Pandora's box called the Taft-Hartley Act.

His secretary of labor is not sure the lid will stay on. Patient, tolerant W. Willard Wirtz has told unions and bosses that they are underestimating the public's growing distaste for industrial "brinkmanship."

DECISION MADE
"A decision has been made," Wirtz said. "That decision is that if collective bargaining can't produce peaceable settlements of these controversies, the public will."

When Congress convened a good many members reacted in alarm to the paralysis of East and Gulf Coast shipping, the New York newspaper blackout, the current threat to aerospace production, and 1962's railroad, airline and construction shutdowns.

They saw the industrial unions led by Walter Reuther gearing up a militant, multimillion-dollar organizing drive, and heard Teamsters President James R. Hoffa beating the drums for a giant alliance of transportation unions.

Influential Congress members rushed to introduce a half-dozen drastic measures—compulsory arbitration, antitrust sanctions, the break-up of national unions, even partial seizure of essential industries by the government.

NO MENTION

Van Johnson Under Knife

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Van Johnson is in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for surgery today, necessitated by what his studio said is "a mild case of skin cancer on his left thigh."

Johnson, 46, entered the hospital Thursday. Friends said biopsy tests indicated a need for immediate hospital treatment.

Paramount Studios, where he is filming "Wives and Lovers," said his doctor has assured Johnson that he will be able to return to work by March 18.

Johnson has been out of Hollywood films for four years. He played the lead in "Music Man" in London and did a Broadway play last year.

legislation in any of his messages to Congress. The President hopes, say his aides, to avoid any eruption of labor controversy in Congress that would distract attention from his No. 1 goal, tax reduction.

Congress apparently will be happy to leave the labor bills in cold storage.

One congressional staff aide explained: "Labor bills are just unpopular. Whichever way a congressman votes, he makes a lot of people mad at him."

Moreover, Congress has learned from experience that when the Taft-Hartley Act is opened up for amendment, labor and industry lobbies crowd into the act—until timely, responsible legislation becomes a near impossibility.

The lineup of potential disputes is not as bad in 1963 as it might be next year.

In 1964 wage contracts expire in many of the biggest, hardest-bargaining industries—steel, autos, oil, meatpacking, aircraft, ordinance, maritime, telephones, and most of the Teamsters' biggest trucking agreements.

IMPERIL PUBLIC
A prolonged strike in any one could imperil the national defense, economic stability, or public health. Shutdowns in batches would almost surely force Kennedy to call on Congress for restrictive legislation.

Some of the ugliest disputes since World War II have been settled by the simple threat of congressional action.

What might be the shape of the new legislation if Kennedy finally is forced to use this ultimate weapon, or if an impatient Congress takes matters into its own hands?

Kennedy's ideas are well known. The Taft-Hartley law gives him only the power to set up a fact-finding board to consider whether a national emergency exists; then he may seek a court order to enforce an 80-day cooling-off period. At its expiration, the strike can be resumed.

The President has suggested the need for a bigger selection of weapons.

PUBLIC OPINION
Most frequently mentioned is the one fact-finding board with power to recommend actual terms of settlement, thus bringing public opinion to bear on the contending parties. The President's labor-management advisory committee backs this idea.

Others are demanding stronger medicine. Financier Bernard Baruch has proposed a "court of labor-management relations" to take over disputes which the parties cannot settle and "hand down decisions binding upon both."

Wirtz says such legislation is "a very real likelihood" if another major crisis develops which cannot be handled by existing voluntary machinery.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., moved to action by his 1962 hearings on missile site construction strikes, has embodied the compulsory arbitration idea in a "defense facilities bill."

ARBITRATION BOARD
This would hand disputes over to an arbitration board named by the secretary of defense.

In recognition that the water-fronts have spawned more "national emergency" strikes requiring Taft-Hartley injunctions than any other segment of industry, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, D-Ill., has written a bill calling for compulsory arbitration of maritime disputes.

The dock workers and Hoffa's huge Teamsters Union are the major targets of still another Senate bill in which McClellan is joined as sponsor by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and five other senators.

This would bring all unions in the transportation field under the antitrust laws. The organizations would be barred from striking, picketing, or "acting in concert" with an employer or any other union—even a sister local of the same union.

BACK TO JUMBLE
Much of big business shudders at the thought of breaking up company-wide or industry-wide bargaining. This segment believes with the AFL-CIO that to break up large and stable unions, or to return to plant-by-plant bargaining, would reduce industrial relations to a chaotic jumble. Smaller employers tend to disagree. Many are weary of carrying the same wage burdens as their big competitors.

Faced with such divisions, what will Congress do? For the present, nothing at all. Perhaps only the distant future will provide a sure answer to the problems surrounding the controversial issue of compulsory arbitration.

Nuclear Sub Launches Polaris

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The atomic submarine Thomas Jefferson successfully launched a Polaris rocket Thursday after an earlier launching failed.

The two Polaris A2 missiles were fired one hour apart while the Jefferson cruised beneath the surface of the Atlantic about 30 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral.

The second Polaris flew several hundred miles down range. The first rocket landed in the water not far from the launching point. Cause of the trouble was not immediately known.

The failure broke a string of 11 straight submarine-launching successes for Polaris missiles and was only the second fizzle in the last 25 underwater shots.

Demos Urge Fast Action On Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)— Democrats called for faster action on President Kennedy's tax cut bill and his various economic proposals today in the wake of a jump in the national jobless rate to 6.1 per cent.

The new figure, reflecting February employment figures, was announced Thursday by the Labor Department. It was the highest seasonally adjusted rate in 14 months and compared with 5.8 per cent in January.

Republicans interpreted the announcement as vindication of their argument that Kennedy has not met the test he set in the 1960 campaign — to get the country moving again.

KEY FIGURES

A key figure in the fight over the tax bill which asked not to be identified told a reporter that if the unemployment rate stayed above 6 per cent when the March figures are announced in April, he was certain that House Ways and Means Committee would approve tax reduction. That group now is in the midst of lengthy public hearings on the bill.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said the increased unemployment rate "clearly demonstrates the necessity in the Congress to act promptly on the President's recommendations for legislation to strengthen our economy and provide more jobs."

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., a member of the tax-writing Finance Committee, said "we need to increase demand and consequently production and employment by a tax cut and we need some additional public works in areas of high unemployment."

SHARP RISE

Democrats said the sharp rise in unemployment among teenagers, from 13.9 per cent in January to 15.6 per cent last month, should help pass the youth employment bill.

Labor subcommittees have finished public hearings on this legislation in both House and Senate. Democratic leaders are pushing for action before Easter.

Democrats said the jobs decline also should build support in Congress for quick passage of the $500 million in emergency public works funds still not voted out of $900 million authorized last year.

However, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said "if this is an example of progress on the New Frontier, we'd better try another road."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said the higher jobless rate "is evidence the economy has been moving sideways" for a long period.

DISAGREEMENT

Asked if he believed the unemployment rise would help a tax cut, Dirksen said there was considerable disagreement over the thesis that such a move would bring more jobs.

If it fails, he said, "we'd be in a terrible position because all we would have would be a bigger debt and a bigger deficit."

However, Dirksen said he felt a tax cut probably will be voted, particularly if broad reductions can be made in Kennedy's appropriations requests.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz discounted the increase in the jobless rate as of relatively little significance.

He said it did not mean a recession but that it did show the economy was not operating at a high enough level. The Kennedy administration consistently was held to a goal of reducing the jobless rate to 4 per cent.

QUICK ACTION

The secretary said the rate showed the need for quick action on a tax cut and other administration economic proposals.

Unemployment rose in February by 246,000 to 4,918,000, about 375,000 higher than a year earlier.

However, employment also increased by 423,000 to 66,358,000, about 800,000 more than a year earlier and the highest February job total in history.

Killed In Crash

LANGTRY, Tex. (AP)—Delbert Clements, 52, of Yuba City, Calif., died Thursday in a three-car accident near here. His wife was seriously injured. Clements' station wagon collided with a car towing a house trailer. The trailer broke loose and hit a passing trailer truck.

Billie Sol Says Business No Longer His God

PECOS (AP)—"Business is no longer my god," said Billie Sol Estes.

"I feel closer to God than I have ever felt, and feel like the years left in my life are small compared to all eternity."

It was one of the few interviews granted by Estes since his arrest nearly a year ago on charges of fraud. His multi-million-dollar empire folded despite desperate efforts of the Pecos promoter to save it.

Estes, 38, now is bankrupt and appealing an eight-year prison sentence on conviction of swindling in state court. His trial on federal charges is due to start Monday in El Paso.

"I don't want to be on anybody's side any more except God's," said Estes, who is a lay preacher in the Church of Christ. "If everybody in town felt that way, we'd be better off."

He skipped from one topic to another during a quiet visit with a reporter in the Estes home.

"I've read a lot these last nine months—the Bible and other books about many subjects—Lincoln, history, things like that," Estes said.

He mentioned a January trip to speak at several churches in the Midwest. One is the Toledo, Ohio, church of David Rose, a young minister helped through school by Estes. He expressed warm regard for Rose.

"I don't care how many investigators check on where I'm getting my money now," said Estes as he reached into a pocket and produced a rumpled mass of checks and currency. "My help comes from the little people."

He closed the interview by saying: "God works in strange ways. Some good may come out of all this."

Human Nature Pays The Bills

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 50 residents of Miami Springs scurried to City Hall to pay delinquent water bills Thursday.

"I never saw anything like it," one clerk said. "They came dashing in as fast as they could, with the money in their hands."

Then the truth was learned: A main grader accidentally cut the main water line into Miami Springs. Many residents thought their water had been cut off because of non-paid bills.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A retired Air Force officer says five Alabama Air National Guard pilots were killed while training Cuban exiles for the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion.

Maj. Gen. David Hutchinson added that he believes a single U.S. Air Force jet fighter probably could have made the 1961 invasion a success.

Hutchinson told an interviewer that Brig. Gen. Reed Doster, commander of the Alabama Air National Guard, told him of the Registration for the spring lecture portion of the coming summer driver training program at Big Spring public schools will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at Goliad Junior High School.

Other registration periods are lunch hours and after classes each day from March 11-19 at Goliad and Runnels Junior High schools.

Two lecture sessions will be offered, one beginning March 20 and the other starting May 21. Two sections will be offered from 3:45-5:45 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday. Another section will be open on those days from 5:30-7:30 p.m.

"Students must be passing all their regular classroom work before they may enroll," C. W. Tanner, driver education instructor at Goliad, said.

Students expected to be involved in athletics, band, private music or other extra-curricular work which will interfere with scheduling of driving sessions should wait until the summer for their driver training. The classes are open to area students also, Tanner said.

Students must be 14 years old before they may begin the driving portion of the instruction. The first driving session will be from May 30 to June 19. The second will be June 20 to July 10, with July 4 slated to be a regular class day.

Fee for students taking training during the summer session, there will be $25 per student. Ten dollars may be paid at the time of registration and $15 when driving sessions begin. Students who drop the course after beginning forfeit the fee.

Instructors are William H. Hallmark, Goliad; Dan Bustamunte, Runnels, and Tanner.

A Devotional For The Day

Happy is that people, whose God is the Lord. (Psalms 144:15.)

PRAYER: Our Gracious Father, grant us wisdom to see that only through consecration to the Master will we live life to its fullest. Bestow upon us the realization that sin punishes us, but that Thou canst not only redeem us from sin but destroy in us the desire to sin. Help us to find this redemption today, through Christ our Savior. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Preventing A Bottleneck

The prospect of an enlargement program for the Big Spring post office will be received by most people here as welcome news.

When the present building was erected in 1936, the city had about 13,000 people. The volume of business handled by the office was reflected by receipts of $60,000.

Now the town is two and a half times as large, and like a lot of other things, the ratio of postal use accelerates at a much faster rate than the population. Within a year or so, receipts from the office will be about 10 times what they were when our present building was erected.

Of course there have been some rate increases sprinkled in, the upping of the first class rate for local mail to three cents in 1944, the revising of first class mail to four cents after World War II and just recently upping it to 5 cents. Other revisions have been at a much lesser rate and percentage.

To handle the increase of business piled upon increase, more staff members have been added, but presently it becomes not so much a matter of manpower as of space. For some time now, Postmaster Elmer Boatler has been pointing out that we have been at that point.

Provision of additional space and equipment will go a long way toward breaking a future postal bottleneck and hastening conditions under which the post office will tend to keep its experienced personnel.

Shrinking Green Areas

In this vast land, it has long seemed that Americans enjoyed living space unlimited. That is an easy assumption, considering that there are nearly 2 billion acres in the continental United States.

Much of that acreage, however, is water, mountains and semi-desert. The areas suitable for living, working and playing are going faster than most Americans realize.

There were 600 acres per person in the United States at its birth in 1776. There were only 12 1/2 acres in 1958 and will be only 8 by 1967. Land is being covered by concrete or buildings at the rate of 300,000 acres daily. It now takes 1 1/2 million acres of highways to move cars, and another million acres to park them.

A Ford Foundation survey recently reported that use of recreation areas over the country is increasing 2 to 14 times as fast as population. And 42 million people will be added to the United States by 1975—or the equivalent of the present populations of California, New York and Texas.

Here then is the concern behind federal, state and local park acquisitions, the wilderness bill to preserve the primeval nature of some of the public domain, and city and regional plans for "green areas" to be conserved in sprawling metropolitan areas. The almost incredible current expansion and intensification of land use—and misuse—give an urgency to that concern that would have been incomprehensible only a generation ago.

Telling The Story On Cuba

WASHINGTON — Only a white paper giving a complete account of every aspect of the long Cuban misadventure, with the Administration putting it squarely on the line, not glossing over the failures or exaggerating the successes, could at this late date be expected to damp down the political quarrel over American policy.

THIS IS the view of observers more and more concerned lest Cuba become a major issue in the Presidential campaign of 1964 with unforeseen and perhaps disastrous consequences. It could spell the end of any bipartisanship in foreign policy at a time when there are likely to be greater strains on the management of that policy than at any point since the war's end.

With a rising emotionalism generated by political charges the Administration could be loaded into unwise and dangerous adventures. The temptation would be to prove the critics wrong and throw restraint to the winds.

YET THE objection within the Administration to a white paper—a sober, thorough, careful yet the chips are all laid, the war summing up—is that there would be too many red faces. These would not necessarily — nor even probably — be political faces. They would be the experts, the specialists, the weapons counters, on whose secret knowledge in the last analysis the decisions, beginning in mid-1959, were taken. Such a paper might prove to be the best analysis the public has been privileged to have of what is right—and wrong—with the far-reaching American intelligence apparatus.

SHORT OF this the game of pinning the blame on the nearest political target will go on with the technique of leak and counter-leak. That technique is calculated to cause the greatest confusion in the public mind.

Short of a frank disclosure the strain put on certain individuals is too great. As one of his stoutest journalistic admirers noted recently, John McCone, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, is on the hottest of hot seats. He is a Republican who worked for the election of Richard Nixon in 1960. When President Kennedy asked him to succeed Allen Dulles as head of the CIA he felt that in accepting he was taking on a disinterested public service.

BUT NOW he finds his party in Congress making a major issue of the wrongness of the Kennedy decisions on Cuba and that wrongness goes back in part to the expert opinions on which they were based. McCone is a man of strong convictions. As Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission under President Eisenhower he did not hesitate to oppose the Eisenhower policy of trying to get a nuclear test treaty with the Soviet Union, and he clashed with then Secretary of State Christian Herter on this issue.

MCCONE BELIEVES he was right on the danger of an offensive weapons capability being installed in Cuba before anyone else. By implication others were slow to appreciate this threat. Inevitably members of his party, who want to get all the mileage possible out of Cuba, would like to see him become the hero of the occasion. This explains the hotness of the hot seat and the significance for '64.

In this atmosphere minor differences are exaggerated. On October 3 Under Secretary of State George Ball read a statement to a Congressional committee in open hearing, saying there was no evidence of any offensive buildup in Cuba. He based his statement on the latest intelligence reports.

HAD MCCONE approved it? At first he said no. Roger Hilsman Jr., head of intelligence for the State Department, said he had read it to McCone and the CIA director then recalled that it had been informally cleared with him. Ball omitted one sentence referring to unidentified material near Cuban defensive installations which might have been for radar purposes. Was that significant or not?

MEMBERS OF Congressional committees have been concerned at McCone's statement in executive session that the President's definitions of "offensive" and "defensive" weapons were not of his making. Yet he has himself said on several occasions that until the actual photographic evidence was obtained from the U-2 flights of October 14 it was impossible to confront Moscow with the challenge the missiles offered to America's security. Going further he has said that not until the far more complete photographic evidence of October 16 and 17 could the proof be put before Latin-American and European states in such a way as to gain their undivided unity in support of the United States.

THIS LAST is the important aspect of the matter in the view of those arguing for frankness. Since the final evidence was complete and convincing the outcome was never in doubt. That is the answer to accusations that have seemed in some instances reckless and even hysterical. And it is conceivable that a full and frank account might buttress this matter.

The Bowlers And The Beaver

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A beaver picked a night when 40 women bowlers were on hand to invade the Northgate Lanes of Phoenix.

Mrs. Marie Crocker, wife of the manager, said, "You've never seen anything like it. Women were screaming and yelling all over the place. The beaver was slipping and sliding across the alleys."

Finally a maintenance man caught the animal, placed it in a box and turned it over to the Phoenix zoo.

In A Lather

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Firemen got all in a lather over a drugstore fire. As the fire fighters rushed into the store they were greeted by a series of small explosions. Then they found themselves bob deep in a sea of shaving foam and hair spray.

The store's stock of aerosol bombs had exploded in the heat.

Mahon: A Voice In The Wilderness

WASHINGTON (AP)—That ebb-and-flow rhythm President Kennedy sees in national and international life alternates between hot jazz, a slow waltz and pandemonium, particularly in Congress.

When things slow down one place, by Kennedy's theory, they perk up in another. For example, the Russians ease pressure on Europe and the French President de Gaulle, with the heat off, causes his own allies trouble.

And while Congress has done practically nothing on Kennedy's domestic program, as he noted this week, individual members find time to pant for facts about foreign dealings, especially Cuba.

AT THIS POINT up pops Rep. George Mahon to complain that both Democrats and Republicans in Congress, and members of the administration, too, have been talking too much about things he thinks should be kept secret.

The Texas Democrat, a voice in the wilderness at the moment, said:

"There is an intelligence gap in the intelligence of those who are daily revealing the secrets of the intelligence operations of the United States government."

His call for silence will be welcomed by the Kennedy administration which, already having been accused of "managing" the news about Cuba, has been pushed into giving out information about it in dribs and drabs.

This is a dilemma it might have avoided by giving out more information before—most pointedly about the Cuban invasion failure in 1961—and for these reasons:

KENNEDY himself admitted it

Remember When?

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the best ways to measure a man's wealth in this world is by the treasure trove of his memories.

You're pretty well-to-do, nostalgically speaking, if you can remember when—

You sat on a curbstone at dusk, waiting for the lamplighter to come by, hoping he'd say "hello" to you.

Speeding Sunday bicyclists were a leading traffic hazard, and were gravely denounced by newspaper editorial writers as "scorchers" and "road burners."

Nobody took a bath except on Saturday night unless he was going to the doctor for a thorough medical examination.

The height of a city kid's ambition was to live in an apartment building that had an elevator in it.

It was a big thrill to go with your mother to a department store and ride on an escalator.

The other children called you "teacher's pet" if she gave you the coveted honor of taking the blackboard erasers outside during class and banging the chalk dust down from them.

There was small need for teen-age baby sitters as most families had an elder member—grandma, grandpa, or both—who could stay home and take care of the small fry.

A sack of popcorn and a movie ticket were the same price—ten cents.

Only the town miser kept his front door locked at night.

When you went to the grocery store, the clerk always ground the coffee for you by hand in a big red machine—and the fresh aroma was unforgettable.

If you tried to give the postman a tip at Christmas, he felt insulted.

The peak of male devilishness was to stand with a group of young fellows outside the corner drugstore and call out "Oh, you kid!" whenever a pretty girl passed by.

One of the landmarks of your life came the day you first learned how to whistle through your teeth loud and clear.

A girl who could bake and had learned to play "Love's Old Sweet Song" on the piano was regarded as ready for marriage.

The nation's most popular wonder drugs were Epsom salts, mustard plasters and castor oil.

It was widely held that the advent of the five-day week would result in the moral ruin of the working class.

'Heartburn' Doesn't Concern The Heart

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is heartburn? Has it anything to do with the heart? With stomach trouble? Could it be caused by muscle strain?—H. G. B.

Heartburn is a symptom, but it has nothing to do with the heart. It decidedly does have to do with the stomach and contiguous digestive areas.

The "burn" part of the name is accurate enough—a burning sensation in the pit of the stomach. And I've gathered that the expression needs some definition, because people incorrectly use it to indicate almost any area from the belt line to the lower abdomen.

Specifically the "pit of the stomach" lies directly behind the lower part of the breastbone.

Heartburn should not be used for miscellaneous pains elsewhere, such as various parts of the chest, the abdomen, and so on. It refers to a very specific place.

Cause of this symptom are still under a good deal of study, and recent investigations indicate that it most frequently is the result of (a) bathing of the lower part of the esophagus or gullet with acid, such as contents of the stomach, or (b) some disturbance in the muscle activity of the lower gullet.

Ulcers, gall bladder disease and esophagitis (inflammation of the gullet) are all common underlying causes. Heartburn attacks are frequent in pregnancy. Hiatal hernia is sometimes related.

People who are subject to belching often have heartburn attacks, either because the belching causes a reverse splatter of acid stomach contents into the gullet, or because a bubble of gas causes sudden distension of the gullet.

With the exception of the heartburn of pregnancy, which is temporary, it deserves medical attention, since some sort of digestive upset is at work.

As a rule, heartburn isn't an emergency sort of complaint, but if gall bladder or ulcer trouble lies behind it, there is certainly no use in letting the ailment go too long unattended.

And most of all, there's no point in suffering repeatedly, and fooling around with temporary efforts at alleviation when a permanent correction is needed.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am concerned about a member of the family who is very thin and has a bad cough. He refuses to see a doctor or have a chest X-ray. He insists it is a cigarette cough. How contagious is tuberculosis? Can you keep yourself from getting it by eating and resting properly?—Mrs. F. H.

The healthiest person in the world can pick up tuberculosis if exposed often enough to the germs. Whether your relative has TB or not, and I decline to guess, he is being selfish and unfair even to himself by not finding out. Especially when, these days, TB societies offer free chest X-rays.

That's the way to distinguish between a "cigarette cough," TB, and several other things. I can't tell without tests; neither can your puffing, over-positive relative. I hope he sees the light.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes ridged fingernails? The nails are strong and do not break.—O. C. M.

Ridges running lengthwise are usually the result of some defect in the nail bed. Older people are inclined to have them to some degree.

If the ridges run crosswise it more likely indicated injury at the base of the nail when it was forming, or illness at that same time. Seven days of illness with fever and impaired nutrition are enough to make such a mark on the nails.

For instance, The number of Americans killed in the try to demolish Castro.

For weeks members of both parties in Congress have been beating a steady tattoo on the President.

A FEW HAVE been so carried away by their ardor for extinguishing Castro that they have called for a Cuban blockade. Kennedy had to remind them at his news conference Wednesday a blockade means war.

It was probably Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who got under the administration's skin more than anyone else with his doubts that all the Russian missiles were out of Cuba.

Kennedy felt compelled to defend himself by putting Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and an aide on television for two hours last month to show, with aerial photographs, how the United States spied on Cuba.

THIS MAY have saved time and trouble for Soviet agents who had been sniffing and snooping to find out what the United States had found out, but it only invigorated some members of Congress to fresh pursuits.

While Mahon didn't put the finger on the people he wants to pipe down, there has been a great deal of talking.

Republican Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen reportedly told Kennedy the Republicans will continue to pound away at the administration's handling of Cuba. He's been conducting a one-man investigation of it.

HE WAS backed by another Democrat, Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan, who said "the people are concerned."

And this week intelligence chief John A. McCone made front pages with information he gave Congress behind closed doors, or he must have thought.

He told a House subcommittee as many as 1,500 men from other Latin-American countries were being trained as guerrillas in Cuba. Then the subcommittee made it public.

Around The Rim

Learn From Nature

Gov. John Connally has just recommended an outlay of $2.8 million for screw-worm eradication in Texas—a small chunk, indeed, against an annual livestock loss that runs between $20 million and $40 million a year.

THE WORD "eradication" has practically lost its meaning, thanks to the hopes that were dashed from the glittering promises of modern insecticides. Yet, there is a way—and to understand it fully, we must go back to the beginning of the century.

In 1916, entomologist G. A. Runner discovered that X-rays sterilized cigarette beetles. In the early 1920's, Hermann Muller pioneered X-ray mutation work in genetics, opening up vast new fields of thought. By the middle of the century, various workers had found sterilization methods for at least a dozen insect species by X-rays or gamma rays. (There is a fine balance between the lower power of mutagenic radiation and the higher power of death-dealing rays—with sterility in between, and at different levels for each species.)

ABOUT 25 YEARS ago, Dr. Edward Knippling, chief of the entomology research branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, theorized that release of hordes of sterile male flies to compete with normal wild males might produce enough infertile eggs to wipe out the race. Bureaucrats sloughed off the idea as too fantastic, and other scientists were skeptical. But Knippling persisted and he and other biologists assembled a vast amount of data on the screwworm fly—habits, physiology, methods and frequency of mating, and thousands of other seemingly useless data. Tests on the island of Curacao in 1954 resulted in the fly being wiped out, and in later years Florida, Georgia and Alabama were cleared of the pest.

A QUARANTINE BARRIER is now situated in Mississippi. The fly is still pestiferous in Texas and the Southwest and control poses vast difficulties—too large an area, danger of new infestation from Mexico and even if the flies are driven from that country, Central and South America are their original home. Eradication down past the Canal Zone, however, would squeeze down the quarantine barrier to manageable proportions, with sterile males manning the fortifications.

Here's how it would work:

LET'S SAY WE USE a mass assault by chemical sprays in an area containing a fly population of one million, with 90 per cent of each generation being thus killed, and with a multiplication factor of five from the survivors. After the third generation there would be 125,000 flies still around, and they would be resistant to insecticides—in fact, thriving on it. But take this same population and suppose that we are able to sterilize 90 per cent of the adult flies, male and female, in each generation. That would mean that at each breeding time, there would be only one pair of fertile-to-sterile or fertile-to-sterile, both resulting in infertile eggs. The third generation would have only 125 flies left. Now, if we release millions of steriles, the insect is wiped out.

BLIND OVERUSE of insecticides produces only temporary control, breeds resistant strains, kills insect predators along with wildlife and stock, gunks up water supplies, and is in every way self-defeating. It looks easy, cheap, and is in the old slum-bang American tradition.

Natural techniques sometimes sound egg-headed and impractical, often conjuring up the old vision of the absent-minded professor crawling on his hands and knees following a bug to see where it goes and what it does when it gets there. Nevertheless, it is just such tediously-gathered knowledge which strengthens the natural techniques.

Mother Nature doesn't give a hang for all our arrogant assurance of human supremacy, and she can still take us to the woodshed. We're beginning to learn that, the hard way. —BOB SMITH

Not Much Success In The News

If this administration and President Kennedy have been trying to "manage" the news, then they surely take the frustrated cake as the most inept practitioners of this black art who have ever come down the political pike.

THE TEST of the successful news manager would surely be the ability of said manager to get into the newspapers and periodicals at least an occasional kind or favorable remark about himself and his program. By this simple rule of thumb, the President and his administration are so far behind the eight ball—or the Linotype—that they might as well be on Venus, which can't be much hotter than the front and editorial pages these days.

IF THIS administration is the Machiavellian manipulator of the news pictured by Arthur Kroek in a recent issue of Fortune Magazine, then how come it is losing its scalp in every edition over the situation in Cuba, on tax legislation, on civil rights, medical proposals for the aged and on the international scene? In fact, on any proposal or policy it sponsors.

So articulate and fulsome is the spoken and printed opposition to any administration suggestion at the moment that the betting is six, two and even that a Kennedy denunciation of the man-eating shark would find Sen. Barry Goldwater, Charlie and Ev knocking each other out to be the first to sponsor said shark at all public bathing beaches during the coming summer.

AS AN OLD practitioner in this business, it seems to me that President Kennedy and his crew have proved themselves so incompetent in the management of news that the administration program in '63 is in danger of congressional collapse, as in '62.

For a man who is supposed to be managing news for his own political ends, Mr. Kennedy surely came a cropper when he scuttled his own tax reduction-tax revision program when speaking before the American Bankers Association last week.

WHEN THE PRESIDENT said he would accept a tax cut without tax reform, if the latter stood in the way of the former, he effectively cut the heart out of his reduction-reform project, just as he took the heart out of many adherents who were prepared to fight for the whole program.

The creeping conviction that the President will not fight for his own legislative programs is a superb example, surely, of mismanagement news. Or it could be an example of news per se. Any chief executive is asking for mounting opposition, even within his own party, when it seems evident that he is not prepared to put up a tough, non-punches-pulled fight for the program, right or wrong, he presents Congress and the public.

THE TAX CUT-tax reform measure is worth a fight. But if the chief executive is going to abandon that plan before the first shot is fired on Capitol Hill, then he can't expect others to bleed and die in the front line. A lot of curmudgeons like myself believe that tax reform is at least as essential as a tax cut, if not more so. One of the essential qualities of a great President is that he also be a great educator. If President Kennedy believes in his program, including civil rights and medical care for the aged, then let him fulfill his responsibilities as an educator. Let him take his case to the public, which he did with great vigah and seeming relish in 1960 when he was campaigning for the presidency.

IF THE ABOVE be management of the news, then it is an honorable and open form of management which the people have the privilege of accepting or rejecting. (Copyright, 1963, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

International Crisis In Ducks

WASHINGTON — Someone in Congress is always taking the joy out of life. Now it's the duck hunting of former President Eisenhower that is being frowned upon by Senator J. William Fulbright, Democrat, of Arkansas. He told the Senate on Monday that Mr. Eisenhower set a bad example by shooting 40 ducks and 35 other birds in about a three-hour period of hunting in Northern Mexico.

But the Central Intelligence Agency hasn't yet verified the figures, and it is reliably reported that there were no U-2's in the vicinity to determine how many ducks were actually shot down and how many still remain.

BUT, ACCORDING to a handy IBM computer, 75 birds of any kind downed in three hours means one every two minutes. It would take a pretty good shot to average that number, even if birds were plentiful and there were few misses. It is quite possible that there were four or five other members in the Eisenhower party, but this is only rumor and probably it would be a violation of the "bipartisan" spirit of the times even to mention it.

SENATOR FULBRIGHT said in his speech that Arkansas has placed a limit of one mallard a day on the duck hunters because the decline in the nation's duck population has become serious. What Mr. Fulbright doesn't know perhaps is that the ducks which fly back and forth from Mexico to the United States and Canada aren't diminished in any appreciable quantity by visiting hunters from the United States.

FEARING THAT the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Mr. Fulbright is chairman, might possibly start to make an investigation of the subject and thus use up valuable time which could be better employed in finding out what is happening in Cuba, this correspondent decided to make his own investigation of the grave problem that has arisen in the duck world. From a former official of the Eisenhower administration—who, when interviewed, refused to take the Fifth Amendment, although he has been an enthusiastic duck hunter for many years—comes the testimony that in Mexico the so-called "market hunters" operate in groups and, with dozens of guns firing simultaneously, shoot down several hundred ducks every hour, day after day. By comparison, he said, all the visiting hunters from the United States account for a negligible number.

BUT CONGRESS and the Treasury Department, by putting a crimp in expense-account spending, have managed to reduce the demand from restaurants in this country anyhow, so there isn't any real need to kill so many ducks, after all. It's an ill wind that blows no good.

It would be a sad day, of course, if Mr. Fulbright's criticism in the Senate led to a downturn in the shotgun and ammunition industries, especially in these days when it is deemed so necessary to "stimulate the economy." Many a state has already reduced the length of the hunting season to about 20 days and has drastically limited the number of ducks that can be killed. The limit has gradually gone from 25 a day to 15 to 8 and finally to two or three a day. There is a total ban on killing certain species of ducks.

SENATOR FULBRIGHT, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, may not have realized it, but it is important not to create any new problems in international relations that might be "offensive" or "embarrassing" to heads of governments abroad. For, after all, Prime Minister Macmillan is a dedicated hunter of grouse and is said to be very expert with a shotgun. Then there's Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who likes to hunt wild boar and occasionally crosses the Polish border to do so. This is only hearsay but maybe, in an era of "am- shake reports" will be duly verified, including the exact number of ducks a former President of the United States really disposed of in three hours while hunting in a foreign country. Windmills And Wooden Shoes Set Scene For Style Show

By KATHLEEN DOZIER

The land of the windmills and wooden shoes was depicted for the Thursday luncheon and style show at Webb Officers Club. "Springtime in Holland" was the theme carried out by Mrs. B. F. Yeargin and the wives of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron. Members of the Officers Wives Club and their guests, numbering 182, turned out for the monthly OWC event.

Selected For Spring

Spring arrived Thursday at Webb AFB in fashion and seasonal blossoms, stressing color in the gaily bedecked ballroom of the Officers' Club.

Luncheon tables were decorated with small windmills, around which were tulips and daffodils. Programs and menus, marking each place, were backed with hand-decorated covers designed as wooden shoes. Above the officers' table was suspended a basket filled with roses and sweet peas. Music was provided by Dale White at the organ.

Seated at their tables, the spectators provided color, wearing lovely spring ensembles and accessories. Particularly noted were the hats, such as that worn by Lt. Lucia Funelli. It was turquoise net, swirled into a beautiful creation, accenting the turquoise in her black and turquoise suit. Mrs. W. F. Nolan, in black, wore a stunning, ripple-brimmed black straw, adorned with clustered red roses. Mrs. James M. Gehrig, OWC president, lovely in a dome of black and white roses—her own creation—worn with black sheath and pearl jewelry.

From Paris came the smart silk print hat, banded in shocking pink, which was worn by Mrs. R. J. O'Leary. Mrs. S. D. Howarter, in a spring suit featuring muted tones of green, tan and beige, completed her costume with an elegant hat of beige-toned net. And, among the very chic, was

Mrs. W. H. Baxter in a high crowned, navy sombrero—the newest in sailor hats—which complemented her navy plaid, sleeveless sheath. Mrs. Ronald Storz was attired in a red sheath, with a multi-colored pillbox crowning her short, blonde hair-do. Mrs. Charles Head brightened her navy blue dress by wearing one of the new silk print, bonnet-brimmed hats, and nearby sat Mrs. Wilson Banks

HYPERION PROGRAM

Love Key To Care For The Aged, Says Doctor

"Love is the key for caring for the aged," said Dr. Frank Appel Wednesday afternoon in a program for the 1946 Hyperion Club.

Dr. Appel of the Big Spring State Hospital staff said that the problem of caring for the aged is increasing due to the conquest of killing diseases. People are living to a greater age, and money saved for retirement often does not last long enough. He stressed that when money runs out, love must take over in these cases. Mrs. Ralph Hughes was the presiding officer as a nominating committee was named Mrs. J. H. Fish is chairman and committee members are Mrs. Harry Blomfield, Mrs. Bennett Brooke and Mrs. Norma Porter.

Hostess for the meeting in her home was Mrs. Les Beauvais. Refreshments were served by the cohostess, Mrs. Wes Shouse.

Russia Today Shown In Film And Sound

Slides and sound track provided a panorama of Russia for members of the 1953 Hyperion Club Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. John Taylor was hostess with Mrs. Fred Stitzell, cohostess.

The program, presented by Harry Middleton and Mrs. James Duncan, pictured different phases of life as it is in Russia today.

Mrs. Jerry Spence, vice president, directed the business session, during which a nominating committee was named. Those to serve are Mrs. R. H. Weaver, Mrs. Harold Davis and Mrs. W. K. Edwards Jr.

A donation will be made to a missionary, now stationed in Africa, whose name was furnished by the Rev. Richard Deats.

Further plans were made to assist with the tuition or living expenses of a student at Howard County Junior College.

Following the program, Mrs. Spence presided at the silver coffee service during the social hour. The refreshment table, covered with a beige linen cloth, was centered with an arrangement of green carnations and clover leaves. The St. Patrick's Day theme was repeated in the den, where a small white tree was covered with artificial clover.

CONFLICTS IN THE PLAN?

Does God have more than one law of forgiveness for those outside of Christ? Was Peter's message of repentance and baptism "for the remission of sins" (Acts 2:38) only applicable to the Jews, while Paul's message of salvation by faith (Acts 16:31) applicable to the Gentiles? Some have erroneously concluded that baptism was only given to the Jewish nation, while you and I are saved by faith. But what saith the Scripture? Jesus said baptism would be required of "all nations" — not just of the Jewish nation. Matt. 28: 19 (2). Paul said he preached the gospel of Christ. Romans 15: 19. (3). The gospel he preached was one of salvation in Christ by faith through baptism.

Gal. 3: 26-27. (4). He declared that to preach a different gospel was to receive Divine condemnation. Gal. 1: 8-9. Both Peter and Paul proclaimed the essential place of baptism in salvation. To say that one is saved by faith alone, without baptism, is to deny the teachings of Peter and Paul, reject the inspiration of the Scriptures, and mock at the command of Christ who said that baptism is for "every creature" because: "He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved." Mark 16: 15-16. Friend, have you obeyed the command to be baptised into Christ?

The Northside church of Christ invites you to hear the gospel of Christ proclaimed in the simplicity of the First Century. Sunday: 10 and 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. 601 N. Runnels.

Forsan Schools Taking Big Steps

They're taking big steps in the Forsan Independent School District, both in the physical plant and in the curriculum.

Construction is over half complete on a $250,000 building program; teachers are making education a sweeter pill to swallow with the use of modern aids and techniques. In at least one case, the district is taking a new tack toward the teaching of basic communication.

"We are bending our efforts toward a solid education program, Roy Stockstill, superintendent said this week. He was obviously pleased with the progress that has been made with the use of visual aids and in the expanded plant.

The Forsan district, a consolidation of the former Forsan and Elbow districts, has a total enrollment of 404. Of these, 97 are in high school at Forsan, 152 are enrolled in the Forsan Elementary, and 155 in the Elbow Elementary. Of 28 teachers in the system, 12 are in high school, and eight each in the two elementary schools. In addition, there are principals of each plant: D. M. Romans, high school principal, Tom Spell, Forsan elementary, and Darrell Flynt, Elbow elementary.

The district is financed with a $1.78 tax rate on a total valuation of $13,500,000. The current budget lists expenditures of $268,000.

BUILDING PROGRAM
The building program should be completed by August, Stockstill said. This includes—at Forsan—a new music room, audio-visual aid room, one classroom, boys' and girls' athletic departments, and cafeteria. Conversions include changing the present cafeteria to a library, the library to a commercial department, the kitchen to a superintendent's office, and the tax office will be expanded.

At Elbow, there will be a music room, audio-visual aid room, one classroom, science laboratory, teacher's workroom and principal's office is being changed to a nurse's room and book storage.

YOUNG TYPISTS
Probably one of the more unusual programs in the district—in Texas educational circles, for that matter—is a special typing course for elementary grades. Typing is normally a commercial course taught at the high school level. But at Forsan, typing is being used on an experimental basis to see if it can help youngsters learn in reading and spelling.

The program is related to the visual aids program of the school—students accustomed to seeing words made by the typewriter may find reading easier and faster and it may help students in spelling practice. At any rate, Forsan is running a pilot program to find out.

The current class was launched at mid-term and has 15 enrolled, with students from the third, fifth and sixth grades, under the instruction of Mrs. Emma Lou Boecker. With the permission of their parents, these students are taking the course instead of having a study period. Mrs. Boecker teaches the class during her regular off-period.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS
If the class is successful—and a control group of students is being used to determine this—Stockstill said he hopes to make the class a regular part of the curriculum. He knows of no other classes of this type and said results of the experiment will be written up for use by other interested schools.

Last summer, the school trustees provided for Flynt to attend a special course in Austin regarding audio-visual aids, primarily

Armory Of Machines

Darrell Flynt stands amidst his battery of visual aids, being used at Elbow to increase the students' interest in the subject matter. The Forsan district has launched an extensive program of modern techniques using this equipment.

Learning To Type

Mrs. Emma Lou Boecker uses her "off period" to instruct this experimental class in typing, as an aid to proficiency in reading and spelling. Students in grades 3 to 6 are voluntarily enrolled in the class.

with the new media available and the use of color. Research indicates that students retain more, grasp more of the material and expend more effort in the classroom, even without a teacher, when color aids are used, Flynt said.

Flynt has introduced this material to the system and all the necessary materials for a well-rounded program have been provided, including overhead projectors, slide projectors, recorders, a dry-mount press and others. An in-service training program has been established in the use of these materials, which is held on the first Monday of each month. Each class consists of four hours, using the various materials.

FOR ALL GRADES
The Forsan administration aims at the use of audio-visual materials in all grade levels and in all courses. "We are making it a part of our curriculum, not just a crutch," Stockstill said.

In a nutshell, the teachers are instructed in the use of these materials and she is free to adapt their use to her particular classroom situation.

Flynt pointed out that 80 per cent of the total learning process comes through the eye. With its modern equipment, Forsan is prepared to make the most of that percentage.

Basically, the various projectors are used to project material onto a screen; some use slides, others project reading matter at a changing rate to help improve reading skills, and still others can project pictures from books or other materials. Probably one of the most graphic uses of these machines came up at Elbow recently. Flynt obtained some "wiggly-tails" placed them in the machine and projected them on a screen. The students were able to watch the little animals swim about as he explained the subject matter.

NEW MEDIA
"There is no limit to these materials," he said, "in helping a teacher make her subject more interesting. The only limit is her own imagination in making use of them."

The teachers are constantly working on ideas and plans for these which they call "Forsan New Media for Instruction." They are currently negotiating with various oil companies for a grant to further their work.

Figures prepared for presentation reveal that in 1962 there were 34,300 persons employed in the petroleum industry in the Permian Basin and another 22,200 employed at retailing, wholesaling, servicing and other oil-related industries. Should the proposed revisions be enacted, the figures indicate that 3,900 petroleum industry jobs would be lost along with 2,500 other jobs. This would mean a reduction in personal income of $38,400 and a reduction of $21,200 in retail sales.

Sponsors of the conference are the Permian Basin Petroleum Association and the Midland, Odessa and Permian Basin Chambers of Commerce.

Principal address was by John R. Scott, executive vice president of the Republic National Bank of Dallas, whose subject was "Impact on General Economy of the Area." John Ben Sheppard of Odessa, former attorney general for Texas; was master of ceremonies.

Nominations Show Increase

Entries in the Courtesy Month campaign for this week appear to be gaining a head of steam for a big ending, just as they did last week when well over two-thirds of the total came in during the final two days.

The count this morning was 25, an increase of nine over the 16 noted Thursday. Kenneth Pace, assistant Chamber manager, said this morning's deadline for this week's contest is midnight Sunday.

Three more letters nominating sales or service employees for the "Most Courteous" title will be selected Tuesday. At the end of the four-week-long contests, a grand prize winner will be chosen from the 12 letters.

Any sales or service employee, except a proprietor, is eligible for nomination. The reasons for the recommendation must be explicit and given in 35 words or less. Entries should be addressed to the Chamber of Commerce.

Anguino Gets Five Years

A lone marijuana cigarette found in a man's pocket after he had been arrested for his part in a brawl, led to his being sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary today.

The man was George Anguino, 21. He was arrested last December by city police who were called to break up a fight in front of a tavern at the police station, a search of his shirt pocket produced a single handmade cigarette which officers believed was marijuana. They sent it to the Department of Public Safety lab in Midland. Analysis showed it to be marijuana.

Today, Anguino pleaded guilty to an indictment charging unlawful possession of narcotics. Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, ordered him to serve five years in state prison.

One other plea of guilty was heard by the court. Nathan Wheat, 42, accused of assault with intent to murder, was allowed to plead guilty to a charge of assault with intent to murder without malice. He was accused of having struck Dan Tanner over the head with a two-by-four club Jan. 18. Tanner was gravely injured. Wheat was given a three-year sentence and his sentence then probated by Judge Caton.

A third plea of guilty, that of Jose Valdez, 28, charged with theft over $50, was also slated for today.

Crocker Warns Of Trash Fires

"Be careful with matches and trash burning this time of year," Fire Chief H. V. Crocker said Friday morning. "We have had a rash of grass fires in the past few days and are getting 'jumpy' for fear of some real damage. We have been lucky in getting them put out so far but that may not last."

Following four grass fires Wednesday, firemen extinguished two more Thursday. They were at a vacant lot in the South Star Addition, and near the Lone Star Trading Post on US 80 West. Trash burning was listed as the cause of both fires.

The action of the House of Delegates to associate members who met at the Odessa High field house for the first general session at 10 a.m. In the general session the teachers heard Maurice Mitchell, president of Encyclopaedia Britannica, along with numerous reports.

In both the House of Delegates meeting and the general session, teachers were urged to study school legislation now before the state legislature in Austin and to act according to the dictates of their consciences. Principal legislation proposes liberalizing teacher retirement, minimum state aid for sick leave for teachers and state aid for audio-visual materials.

Area teachers chosen to represent the West Texas Teachers Association at the next convention of the Texas State Teachers Association are: Big Spring, Don Green; Mrs. Mildred Anderson and Harold Bentley, Borden County; Bess Hardberger, Glasscock County; Bill Ballard; Dawson County, Sonny Hollis and A. A. Smith; Howard County, George Ivey; Martin County, Mrs. Helen Thomas; Mitchell County, Charles R. Hutchings; and Reagan County, Don Huit.

Tax Meeting Held Today

The effect of proposed federal tax reforms on the economy of the Permian Basin of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico was examined today at a 2 p.m. meeting in Midland High School auditorium.

"These proposed changes would have a drastic effect on every person in the Permian Basin," George Abell, chairman of the committee which arranged the afternoon session, said.

President Kennedy's recommendation for altering the oil depletion tax allowable was a focal point for discussions.

15-WORD WANT AD FOR 6 DAYS
JUST $3.60

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE RULES!!

GET RESULTS:

Our Classified Ads are the busiest, result-getting little power houses any time you use them. This offer of Guaranteed Results Want Ads is made to induce all of our readers (over 30,000 of them) to give them a try.

15-WORD MINIMUM SIZE

Ad size is 15 words or more... but you may place as many ads as you like.

From March 10 To March 16

Between March 10 and March 16, place a 15-word Want Ad in The Herald for six consecutive days... if your Want Ad has not produced satisfactory results at the end of six days, The Herald will publish it for an additional six consecutive days without any additional charge! You don't have to call us at the end of the first six days unless you call to cancel. If we do not hear from you, we will automatically continue it for another six days.

YOU'RE THE JUDGE

You alone are to be the judge of results and we will accept your decision. If the advertisement is cancelled because of results, before the first six-day order has expired, you will be billed for only the number of days the advertisement appeared at the Regular Want Ad Rate.

Mrs. Sterling, Ex-Governor's Widow, Dies

HOUSTON (AP)— Mrs. Maud Gage Sterling, widow of former Texas Gov. Ross Sterling, died Thursday night. She was 88.

She had been a hospital patient since last July.

Her husband was governor of Texas during the depression years of 1931-32. He died in 1949 at the age of 74.

Mrs. Sterling, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gage, was born at Hamilton, Ill.

The Gage family moved in 1896 to Chambers County, Tex., where she met and married Sterling, then an oil operator. Sterling bought two oil wells in 1910 and developed them into the Humble Oil & Refining Co., of which he was president.

The Sterlings moved to Houston in 1905. In 1924 he sold his Humble stock and retired as company president. During this time he started the Houston Dispatch and bought the Houston Post, combining them into the Houston Post-Dispatch.

He lost control of the newspaper during the depression and it was purchased by J. E. Josey. W. P. Hobby was made publisher-president.

Sterling served one term as governor. He was defeated in a bid for re-election. He was president of the Sterling Oil & Refining Co. from 1933 to 1946.

Mrs. Sterling leaves a son, Walter Sterling of Houston; two daughters, Mrs. Mildred Hedrick of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Ruth Wheeler of Wichita, Kan.; eight grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

The funeral service is set for 4 p.m. Saturday.

Missionary Parley Opens Here Sunday

The Assemblies of God missionary program includes this convention, one of five to be held this week in the five sections of the West Texas District. It will include 22 churches of this section. The church ministers in 71 countries with 74 overseas Bible schools. There are 812 appointed missionaries and 98 ministers overseas under the endorsement of the mission's department. They have over 1,200 mission stations and out stations.

Rev. Davis will return soon to Chile and plans to build a large tabernacle in the capital city, Santiago. The local church supports missionaries in five foreign fields. Monday night at 7:30 p.m., Rev. A. N. Trotter, pastor and a former missionary in Africa, will show a film, "Passion for Souls," by Dr. Oswald Smith, Toronto, Canada. All are invited to attend these sessions.

For 16 years a missionary to Chile, Rev. Davis has conducted evangelistic meetings, pioneered churches, opened a bookstore, and directed a Bible school. As superintendent of the Assemblies of

DEAR ABBY

Annie Get Your Gun

DEAR ABBY: What, in your opinion, is a good line of work for a girl to get into if she is interested in getting a man? ANXIOUS

DEAR ANXIOUS: Nursing — a man loves a girl who knows how to rub his back. Air line stewardess—where else can you find a man already strapped down?

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a good woman except for one thing. She is a lousy cook. Everything she makes tastes the same. She smokes while she cooks and ashes fall into the food. I am always finding something in my dinner that doesn't belong there. One night the supper is under-cooked and the next night it's burned. She hasn't cooked a good meal since I married her and it's been six years. Any suggestions?

INDIGESTION

DEAR INDIGESTION: Your problem didn't originate in the kitchen, and chances are it can't be solved by me in your mailbox. A woman who doesn't care enough about her husband to TRY to put a good meal in front of him needs more help than I can give her in a letter. If there is a marriage counselor in your area, invite him to dinner.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me how you can keep an old witch of a mother-in-law out of your house? This one has had four husbands. Buried one, divorced two, and drove the fourth one crazy. (No joking—he is in a mental institution.) She comes over every day, uninvited, and orders everybody around. She talks incessantly and criticizes everything and everybody. She has two other children who are lucky enough to live out of town, and they treat her like they don't even know she is alive. My husband tells me not to pay any attention to her. How can I accomplish this miracle? I think she needs psychiatric care.

VERY VERY NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: Think of your mother-in-law as someone just two steps ahead of the man in the white coat and your resentment will turn to compassion and your anger to resignation. Do this for your own sanity, or you will beat her to the psychiatrist.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PAUL: Don't worry. If criticism had any real power to harm, the skunk would be extinct by now.

Explosion Is Building Up Under Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—An explosion is building up under Haitian President Francois Duvalier, voodooistic dictator of this land of grinding poverty. If anti-Communist Haitians don't bring him down, diplomats believe the Communists eventually will take over.

Outwardly, the bespectacled Duvalier, 58, a medical doctor, appears to rule firmly in defiance of his enemies and the United States' official disapproval of his government.

But under the tense calm of graveyard peace, visitors feel the pulse of growing discontent that threatens to make Haiti, only 50 miles across the Windward Passage from Fidel Castro's Cuba, the next storm center of the Caribbean.

A FEW MONTHS

Some residents say Duvalier may fall within a few months. They talk of May 15-22 as a crucial week. His first presidential term expires May 15 under the constitution. His opponents don't recognize a rigged election in 1961 that extended his time in office until 1967.

Leaflets of the underground National Democratic Union declare its aim is to overthrow Duvalier in 1963. Foreign observers have not succeeded in tracing UDN's ramifications, but they suspect it is organized and financed by Haitian exiles.

Dread of Duvalier's "boycemen," his private militia, makes Haitians fearful of talking. These armed partisans are called "Tonton Macoutes," after the boogymen of Haitian folklore who is supposed to go about the countryside at night putting bad children in a sack on his back.

MORE THAN ARMY

Duvalier's presidential guard, his denim-overalls militia and the Tonton Macoutes are estimated at 7,500, outnumbering the regular army of 5,000 men.

Washington has shown its disfavor toward Duvalier by cutting off $8 million in aid of Haiti's $28-million budget yearly. The United States is helping to build a jet airport and maintains an anti-malaria program, but the end of other aid is expected to be a harsh blow to Haiti's threadbare economy, based on coffee exports to Europe. Tourist business from the United States is about 30 percent under last year's.

Haiti is perhaps the poorest country in the Western Hemisphere. Most of its 4.8 million inhabitants live in hunger on peasant farms.

All Haitian opposition leaders have been driven into exile. Chief among them are veteran politicians Louis Dedeo and Daniel Fignole. Duvalier defeated Dedeo in the 1957 election.

BRING DOWNFALL

"I believe the stiffening of the U.S. attitude toward Duvalier will bring about his downfall," Dedeo said recently in Santo Domingo. "If something is not done quickly I fear an invasion from Cuba."

Discontent in the army could lead to an eventual clash that could topple Duvalier.

Diplomats here share the fear of an eventual Communist takeover, perhaps within a year or two unless Duvalier is overthrown earlier. These diplomats believe that Communists in the underground are satisfied to keep the Duvalier regime as a target for subversion until a force emerges that the Reds can use for their own ends.

Duvalier once showed a leftist tinge. But people willing to talk to a foreigner in fear-gripped Haiti say he now is bereft of ideology or thought of raising the standards of his hungry people. They say he practices a sort of personal mysticism, with voodoo leanings, trappings of a cynical strong man bent on keeping power.

Both Houses Of Texas Legislature Take Recess

AUSTIN (AP)—Both houses of the legislature have adjourned until 11 a.m. Monday.

Many representatives remained in Austin preparing legislative proposals to beat the deadline tonight at the House clerk's office.

Any new bill offered after midnight must be approved by four-fifths vote of either chamber, thus eliminating most controversial issues.

House leaders also were considering two revenue raising measures that Connally says must be passed to finance his budget.

A House bill designed to increase income from the sales tax by $23.8 million has been in a subcommittee since Feb. 19.

Most of the increase would result in removal of present exemptions for outer clothing costing $10 or less and on farm machinery.

Shortly after Connally spoke, Rep. Eligio de la Garza introduced a bill for a one-year extension of the present corporate franchise tax rate. This would produce $11 million.

At least two other items in Connally's appropriation plans already have received legislative attention.

Pending in the House and ready for possible final action Monday is the governor's plan for a 25-member commission to study education beyond the high school level.

The measure passed the Senate easily but has been delayed in the House. Some representatives feel at least part of the commission should be named by the lieutenant governor and speaker, instead of all 25 by the governor.

Connally plans to merge the State Game and Fish Commission with the State Parks Board passed the House and the bill is in a Senate committee.

The governor's budget calls for spending $479 million from the general revenue fund in 1964-65, compared to appropriations of $386 million in 1962-63.

The Connally budget would provide $9.5 million from general revenue for the state judiciary system, $118.7 million for hospitals and special schools, $98.9 million for state departments and agencies, $247.9 million for public and higher education, and $4 million for legislative expenses.

REV. CYLE DAVIS

God in Chile, he has traveled throughout the republic visiting churches of that denomination. In addition, he edited a news magazine and served as director of the Assemblies of God Bible school in Santiago. Under his administration, night school courses were added to the curriculum and he conducted evangelistic campaigns.

The Davises opened an evangelistic center in Valparaiso and a bookstore. Other smaller churches were begun in this area and a weekly broadcast was conducted by the Davises.

Having completed their third term of missionary service, the Davises are now on furlough. Before entering missionary service, the Davises pastored Assemblies of God churches in Iowa, Minnesota and Colorado. They both attended Des Moines Bible Institute, Des Moines, Iowa.
