Those In-Vernal Mesquites Say Spring Ain't Here

DEAR BOSS: Your terse memo: "When is it Spring?" at hand, contents noted and matter checked. For your information, the almanacs say the first day of spring is Thursday and that the official debut of that fickle season is 2:20 a.m. It is at that hour, according to the experts, the vernal equinox begins. Since vernal obviously refers to green and green means spring, it's pretty obvious, isn't it?—Thursday is the first day of spring. However, I find some contradictory testimony. Here in West Texas, Boss, the old timers and the mesquite trees do not read the almanacs. Or, if they do read 'em, they are not impressed always with what the books say. The mesquite is the final arbiter in these parts. Hence, the old timers who have perhaps been misled in other years, now depend on Mr. Mesquite to tip 'em off when it's really spring. You'll see a lot of grizzled West Texas type characters examining mesquite trees these days. And when they have completed their examination, they shake their heads and walk slowly away. If you ask them the verdict they'll say: "Tain't Spring." It isn't spring, they say, until the mesquites bud out. And if you've looked any mesquites over lately, you'll find nary a bud. It doesn't make any difference to a weathered old mesquite if the flowering peach next to him is all broke out in red blossoms or if the Elm to one side is half-concealed in a veil of misty green baby leaves. Way down inside, he knows, Boss, he knows! And the 70 and 75 degree days which have been bringing out girls in shorts and men in shirt sleeves do not fool him at all. "Mebbe so," he barks (surely you have seen mesquite bark), "but I'll just wait a little while." The book shows there have been frosts in Howard County as late as March 28. And you'll find a small army of folk who will assure you there's bound to be at least one more cold spell—"the Easter cold spell"—before winter can be officially booked as out of business. Easter this year is April 14. So we have two dates to ponder—the latest frost date in this county, March 28, and the Easter date, April 14. Apparently, both can have a powerful impact on whether we are through with the winter on Thursday or not. There may be some young mesquite trees, brash and bold, who have put on a few buds. I didn't find any such examples. The twisted, gnarled and experienced mesquites with whom I talked, like the old timers, who were just as twisted, gnarled and experienced, won't agree that just because it's the vernal equinox at 8 a.m. Thursday it's spring. "Let's not be in such a dad-blamed hurry," they told me. "Wait a little while and see what happens." So astronomically, it's spring; mesquite-ically, it's not. Your Uncertain Reporter, SAM BLACKBURN

Government Rests In Estes Case

Court Denies Defense Plea For Acquittal

EL PASO (AP)—The government rested today and U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomson denied a defense motion for a verdict of acquittal in the Billie Sol Estes mail fraud case. Chief Prosecutor Rufus D. McLean told the court at mid-morning he was ending his evidence after placing 28 witnesses on the stand. John D. Cofer, chief of the Estes legal staff, then spent more than 30 minutes dictating his motion for an instructed verdict of innocent to the court clerk. Reviewing 16 counts against Estes in the indictment, Cofer declared that in every instance the government failed to prove charges of mail fraud, transporting securities obtained by fraud between states and conspiracy. Assistant U.S. Atty. Fred Morton told the court that the prosecution felt there was clearcut evidence before the jury of guilt on all counts. Morton spoke only about 13 minutes. Estes sat listening solemnly as lawyers argued occasionally fidgeting at his chair at the counsel table, and folding his hands before him.

His wife and a brother, Ward Estes, again were in the front row of the spectators' section, and also listened intently. White-haired Judge Thomson ruled without hesitation as soon as the lawyers had argued the motion for acquittal. He then asked if the defense had anything further to say. Cofer said Estes' lawyers had not anticipated that the government would finish its case so early and would like time to prepare its order of witnesses and evidence. The government said that yesterday that its next witness would be a very long witness. Cofer said, "And we had understood this to mean a witness that would be on the stand perhaps all day. The government also had told us that it probably would take three weeks to try this case. Judge Thomson then commented that it rarely took three weeks to try a case in his court. The jury had been excused immediately after the government rested. After 45 minutes, the jury of 10 men and 2 women was called back and Judge Thomson told it the court would recess until 9:30 a.m. (MST) Thursday because of the defense request for time. The government rested at mid-morning in its case against Estes, the 38-year-old West Texas promoter accused of bilking finance companies out of $22 million to

AT CONFERENCE

Kennedy To Hear Requests For Aid

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Kennedy scheduled talks with Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica, Julio Rivera of El Salvador, Miguel Ydigoras of Guatemala, Ramon Villeda Morales of Honduras, Luis Somoza of Nicaragua and Roberto Chiari of Panama. This afternoon the U.S. president was to address students at the University of Costa Rica before boarding his jet plane for Washington. To protect their countries against Communist infiltration, the presidents agreed: 1. To ask the Organization of American States for early action to counteract Castro-Communist subversion. 2. To hold a meeting of security officials at the Cabinet level within four weeks—probably at Managua, Nicaragua—to plan measures to halt the flow of their nationals to Cuba and the flow of Communist money, propaganda and arms from Cuba. U.S. officials indicated that Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy may attend. 3. To arrange for more rapid and complete exchange of intelligence on such movements. The presidents agreed to speed up their fledgling common market which would tie in later with a Latin-American free trade area.

NEWS BRIEFS

AUSTIN (AP)—A nine-man subcommittee agreed today on a congressional redistricting bill which would put U.S. Reps. Wright Patman and Ray Roberts in the same district. NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy said in a recorded statement today that results of a referendum to be held soon on a new wheat control program will show whether farmers want a national policy of farm supply and farm income stabilization. The statement was sent here for the convention of the National Farmers Union. The referendum—probably to be conducted late in May—will give the nation's wheat growers a chance to approve or reject a plan which would impose tighter limitations on production than exist now and would set up a dual price system. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required to make it effective. AUSTIN (AP)—Top oil executives told the Texas Railroad Commission today they expect a 2.3 per cent increase in demand for crude oil in 1963 from the previous year. The predictions were given to the commission at its monthly oil production hearing. The commission then set the April oil allowable for production of Texas crude at 28 per cent of capacity for a total daily allowable of 2,511,174 barrels. The pattern will mean no increase or decrease from the March schedule. JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The death toll in the eruption of Agung volcano on Bali Island has reached 150 persons, Indonesia's Red Cross chairman said today. STOCK MARKET Edges Higher NEW YORK (AP)—Motors, copper and chemicals showed plus signs as the stock market edged higher early this afternoon in slow trading. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon had a gain of 5 at 255.6 with industrials up 1.0, rails up .2, utilities up .1. Gains of key stocks ran from fractions to around a point but most changes were small. Quite a few stocks showed small losses. Trading slackened even below Tuesday's slow pace. Wall Street credited the market's firmness chiefly to short covering. LEGISLATURE In Brief AUSTIN (AP)—The legislature Tuesday: Tentatively approved measures to abolish the poll tax; give state-supported status to Pan American College at Edinburg; allow cities and counties to acquire historical sites; allow issuance of bonds to attract industry; and passed to the House bills to give San Angelo Junior College senior college status; give East Texas State College its own board of regents; permit Dallas and Harris counties to create metropolitan transit ceilings on welfare payments; and validate school bonds of merged districts in several counties. Debated annexation bill. CRASH KILLS 16 CUENO, Italy (AP)—A jetliner carrying members of King Saud's entourage crashed into a mountain today killing all 16 persons aboard, search officials reported. The Saudi Arabian monarch was not aboard.

Korean Party Chiefs Fail In Protest

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—As an estimated 7,000 persons looked on silently, two leading civilian opponents of South Korea's military regime tried to lead marches through the streets of Seoul to protest extension of military rule. Former President Yun Po-sun and ex-Premier Huh Chung appeared in the city hall plaza with a handful of supporters but ran into overwhelming resistance from hundreds of police. The political leaders were shoved into unmarked jeeps and driven off. The former president reportedly was taken to his home and put under police guard. Huh was taken to a police station. Yun's Civil Rule party and Huh's Shingjung party announced earlier today that they would launch a nationwide campaign to "fight to the death" against the proposal by the junta chief, Gen. Chung Hee Park, for a plebiscite to give his regime four more years in power. In a joint statement, the parties demanded that Park withdraw his plebiscite proposal immediately. (More details on Page 8-B).

House Argues Question Of City Annexations

AUSTIN (AP)—House members heard the news today that the Senate favors new four-year state-supported colleges at San Angelo and Edinburg. The measure creating Angelo State College was sent to the House after passage Tuesday by the Senate. The Senate endorsed the bill making Pan American College fully state-supported. Pan American is now a four-year school, but receives state money for the first two years only. San Angelo now has only a junior college. The House argued for the second straight day, the touchy question of how much area cities should be allowed to annex each year. The measure, a committee substitute to a bill by Rep. Henry Gover, of Houston, has been much amended during six hours of debate Monday and Tuesday.

An attempt to cut off amendments failed 89-44 on the measure. The bill generally provides establishment of buffer zones from 1/2 to 5 miles wide according to population. A city could annex only 10 per cent of its land area in one year. However, it could have certain controls over developments in the buffer zones before formal annexation. The Senate, after giving approval to the San Angelo and Edinburg college bills, refused by votes of 17-14 and 16-15 to take up bills giving senior colleges to Odessa and Laredo. The Senate passed to the House a proposed constitutional amendment that would remove the ceiling on Texas' contributions to old age assistance funds. If approved

U.S., Russia To Join On Weather Moons

ROME (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed today to a joint weather satellite program. Representatives of both nations said they hoped the accord eventually will lead to American-Soviet cooperation in interplanetary exploration. Teams of U.S. and Soviet scientists have been meeting in Rome during the past 10 days to work out details of an accord for coordinated satellite launches. The chief negotiators are Hugh L. Dryden of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Anatoly A. Blagonravov of the Soviet Academy of Science.

Mrs. E. J. Mann, right, clerk with J. C. Penney Co., has been selected as most courteous sales person in Big Spring. With her is shown Mrs. J. B. Langston, winner of the $250 prize for the best letter entered in the contest. Mrs. Langston is also the winner of the slogan contest held by the Chamber of Commerce last year.

Mrs. J. B. Langston, 1665 Cardinal, has a way with words which gives her a virtual monopoly on the big money prizes offered by the Chamber of Commerce. Today she received the $250 grand prize for the best entry in the courtesy campaign which closed Sunday. Last year she picked up $100 for her slogan, which was adopted by the Chamber. Her winning entry in the courtesy contest named Mrs. E. J. Mann, a saleswoman in the infant department at J. C. Penney Co. Mrs. Mann received a plaque for being selected as the most courteous sales or service person in Big Spring. "She's neat, sweet, petite, five feet and hard to beat. She's efficient, helpful, happy, knows her stock and quality, never gossips and she consolidates packages—and holds babies. Extras are appreciated," Mrs. Langston's letter said. Mrs. Mann has clerked for Penney's 11 years although she has been in sales work for about 29 years. She and her husband, who works at River Federal Home, have lived in Big Spring the past nine years. Mrs. Mann was with Penney's in Clovis prior to coming to Big Spring. "I had no idea I was being nominated," Mrs. Mann said after receiving the award. "Mrs. Langston was only a casual acquaintance in the store. We were not close friends and I did not serve her often in the store." Mrs. Langston's winning entry was picked during the first week of the contest. It was the only letter she wrote for the contest. "The entry was made on the spur of the moment. I just picked up a pencil and wrote it, without even checking it for corrections," Mrs. Langston said. Plans for spending the money include improvement of a hunting rifle which Mr. Langston owns,

Might As Well Have Been Spring

By The Associated Press Fair skies and fairer temperatures covered all of Texas Wednesday. It might as well been spring. But the Weather Bureau said the new season wouldn't arrive officially until 2:20 a.m. Thursday. Obligingly, the weatherman forecast even warmer temperatures and clear skies for the first few days of spring. Extended forecasts called for readings 3 to 6 degrees above normal through the weekend, except for normal temperatures in parts of South and Southwest Texas. The only rain forecast is in the form of widely scattered showers in South Texas late in the week. Early in the day, temperatures fell to late winter-like levels, with readings in the 30s in the Panhandle.

Cotton Acreage Hearing Continues In Ft. Stockton

FORT STOCKTON, Tex. (AP)—A review committee of three farmers continues a hearing here today into the controversial cotton acreage allotment transfers negotiated by Billie Sol Estes.

At issue is Estes' appeal of penalties of $538,928.50, which the Department of Agriculture levied against the bankrupt promoter after it ruled the transfers illegal.

Estes sold West Texas land to farmers in Texas, Oklahoma and Georgia which had been displaced by federal government public works projects. Under the law, those farmers were allowed to transfer their cotton allotments to new farms.

After the allotments were transferred to West Texas, Estes leased back the land he had sold the displaced farmers and planted cotton.

Involved in the hearing, which began Tuesday, is the cotton acreage of a 624-acre farm near Fort Stockton, known as Agriculture, Inc. The farm was purchased from Estes' bankrupt estate by American Grain Corp., of which Morris Jaffe of San Antonio is the principal stockholder.

American Grain said Tuesday it, too, is contesting the government's action in declaring the farm's cotton acreage allotments illegal.

The court appointed trustee for Estes' bankrupt estate, Harry Moore Jr., of El Paso, testified that claims against Estes amount to about $40 million.

He noted that the government had held up payment of $12 million owed Estes for grain storage fees, and said that if this were

Pioneer Reports Record Load

AMARILLO — A record peak day load of 370,287,000 cubic feet of gas was put through Pioneer Natural Gas Company's pipeline system on Jan. 11, according to figures released today by Billy G. Grant, superintendent of the company's gas measurement department.

During a severe arctic snap throughout Pioneer Natural's service area in middle January, temperatures dipped to 16 below zero at Lubbock. In Amarillo and surrounding areas, the mercury dropped to nine below. Other areas throughout the system, which serves 41 Panhandle-South Plains counties, had similar numbing weather.

The peak deliveries of gas were handled from 8 a. m. on January 11 to 8 a. m. on Jan. 12, and topped the previous wintertime peak load of 312,118,000 cubic feet which had occurred on Jan. 9, 1962.

paid, it would go to Estes' creditors and not to the former promoter.

One of the 16 displaced farmers involved in the cotton acreage allotment deals is Francis K. House of Whitman County, Ga. He testified his purchase of land from Estes was a bona fide transaction.

Asked if he had seen the land before signing the purchase papers, House replied he could not recall.

Estes did not attend the hearing, as he currently is on trial in El Paso for fraud.

NAME OR TITLE?

A reader has objected to the word "Christ" being called the Lord's name. He says this is the Lord's title, while his name is "Jesus." I do not deny that his name is "Jesus"; but I affirm that it is also "Christ." My dictionary defines "Name" as the title by which any person or thing is known, and our Lord is known as Christ.

The Lord referred to Gentile Christians as men "upon whom my name is called" (Acts 15:17); and we find that they as individuals were called "Christians" (Acts 11:26). "Christian" is the word "Christ" with the suffix "ian" added; and means "those

Baylor Drama Policy Remains

WACO (AP)—Baylor University trustees reaffirmed Tuesday what they called the university's "long established policy" on dramatic productions.

The trustees also commended Baylor President Abner McCall's handling of problems growing out of last December's closing of the Eugene O'Neill play, "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

McCall, in his report to the trustees, said that plans are under way for reorganization of the Baylor drama department following the resignation of Paul Baker.

Baker and 11 of his drama faculty resigned in protest after McCall ordered the O'Neill play closed. Mrs. Baker, a mathematics department instructor, also quit.

Baker, also director of the Dallas Theater Center, since has been hired to head the drama department at Trinity University in San Antonio. Some of his staff also has been hired.

He continues at the Dallas center, which features a theater with a tilted stage designed by Frank Lloyd Wright.

McCall said that a program is being worked out under which Baylor's graduate drama students now working with the Dallas center will be able to complete advanced degree work.

He said he had received "approximately a score of applications" for the vacant drama positions.

The board said the policy it was reaffirming was set up in 1935.

The policy bars production of plays containing "vulgar, profane or blasphemous language or ridicule of the Christian religion."

four engines flew back to California from Hawaii today.

The 76 passengers took off from Hickam Air Force Base near Honolulu at 9 p. m. aboard a Military Air Transport Super Constellation. It was the same type of plane that had to turn around in mid-Pacific early Tuesday and head back to Hawaii.

The 9-man crew of the ill-starred flight split up on two planes to make the run to Travis Air Force Base, Calif. All crewmen rode as passengers this time.

The plane captain, Lt. Cmdr. Robert L. Ekelund, and the other Navy men in his crew flew off to California about an hour before the passengers left. Air Force crew members took off two hours before Ekelund.

"I plan to catch up on some sleep en route," Ekelund said. "I'm pretty tired from that last flying job."

Earlier, the pilot told newsmen, "Somebody asked me when I stuck my head out the pilot's window after landing how old I was. I'm 41. But at the time, I felt about 60."

None of the passengers showed reluctance to try again to reach California, although most admitted they were scared during the first flight when the two engines conked out just before the point

Rain Sends TVA Flood Control Unit Into Action

By BOB HORTON
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Rain beats monotonously against a house in northern Alabama, on a tobacco field in southern Kentucky and down a gully in Tennessee. From the farmer to the salaried man to the independent operator in the sand-hauling business along the Tennessee River, the questions are about the same—

How much is it going to rain? When is it going to quit? What is the Tennessee Valley Authority doing about it?

No one can answer the first two with certainty. That complicates the answer to the third, which involves hours of tedious paperwork, split-second figuring by man and computer, perhaps hurried messages by microwave radio during the night, and juggling of waters behind more than two dozen dams.

The TVA that swirled with political controversy in the '30s today in the face of floods can shut off completely the Tennessee River where it enters the Ohio River at Paducah, Ky.

One of its decision-makers is Alfred Cooper, chief of TVA's river control branch, who sums up his job: "We fight time."

If conditions call for it, white-haired, bespectacled Cooper twists the technical facets that turn off the Tennessee.

The Tennessee was stopped dead in 1958, 1960 and 1961 to control flooding on the lower Ohio and down the Mississippi. TVA figures it has averted about $31.5 million damages along those areas by regulating the Tennessee's flow.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., TVA estimates it has prevented $148 million losses from 31 potentially damaging floods.

If Cooper has any simple formula for controlling a runaway river, it is this: Clear the mainstream of as much water as possible ahead of an expected flood crest, and hold back waters from the tributaries until the crest passes.

The hitch is deciding which of TVA's nine mainstream dams to open and which of its five major tributary dams to close, how much and for how long.

The answers are determined at TVA's 25-man flood control office beginning about 7:30 a.m., when a reproduction machine begins reeling out sheets filled with data on rainfall, reservoir elevations and discharges at each dam.

Minutes later, a teletype begins spelling out forecasts from the Weather Bureau, where TVA pays the salaries of three meteorologists.

About 8:05 a.m., information begins pouring in from 10 area offices where field engineers have received reports from 200 rainfall stations and 43 stream gauges throughout the valley.

With other data, the rainfall measurements are fed into a computer—rented for $1,500 a month —which spits forth averages and such technical information as "runoff indexes."

Armed with computations, Cooper and other experts huddle in the seventh floor of a TVA building in Knoxville to discuss where the critical flood points are.

After brief discussions, they decide to begin preliminary discharges to empty the mainstream for storage capacity. Orders go out to various dams to step up discharges by carefully calculated amounts.

With a new flood crest coming down the Ohio, TVA Tuesday curtailed the Tennessee flow from 350,000 cubic feet per second—160 million gallons a minute—to 250,000 CFS. It may be cut to 200,000 CFS.

The idea is to slice the Tennessee flow to a minimum when the Ohio flood crest passes Paducah—about Wednesday—and then allow the Tennessee's pent-up waters to flow in behind.

Many Businessmen Admitting Things Are Better, After All

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—With spring at the threshold, many businessmen are cautiously deciding they may be better off than they were admitting.

They won't go so far as to say that business shouldn't be a lot better than it is. And they have problems and worries by the bushel. They often do.

But neither today's conditions or tomorrow's prospects are as dire as many were saying a little while ago.

Federal slide-rule artists, after a new look at the employment figures, find some improvements scattered amidst the bad news they released earlier this month.

The steel industry is enjoying a mild sort of boom. Auto makers can reel off both figures and hopes—all on the rosy side. And spring could work its minor miracle among the winter weary and send auto sales still higher.

Unemployment is the most chronic pain. But even it may be eased somewhat by spring's opening up of more outdoor jobs.

Labor strife—present and potential—is a particularly large cloud this year. But whether it blows away or becomes a major thunderstorm is yet to be seen.

Corporate earnings reports mostly are on the cheerful side. Employment figures take on a cheerier hue as the Labor Department looks the latest figures over and finds they weren't as bad as could be expected in the final weeks of winter. This is known as adjusting them seasonally.

On this basis, factory jobs increased in February for the first time in seven months. While the

No Partisanship For Alliance

GUANAJUATO, Mexico (AP)—U.S. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Tuesday there are no partisan political motives behind the Alliance for Progress program.

The Senate Majority Leader told an impromptu news conference there are no differences between Democrats and Republicans over the application of the Latin American development plan.

Groundwork for the Alliance was worked out during the Republican administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the senator said, and it is being carried out by President Kennedy's Democratic administration.

Mansfield is here for the annual Interparliamentary Conference of U.S. and Mexican Congresses.

factory work week actually dropped a bit, it wasn't as much as usual for the time of year. So, seasonally adjusted, it is recorded as lengthening after two months of shrinkage.

All of this is designed to take some of the bitter edge off the increase of the rate of unemployment to 6.1 per cent of the total labor force, the highest percentage in 15 months.

Steel production's seven straight weeks of expansion puts it 19 per cent higher than early February. Some of the gains come from stock building as a hedge against the possibility of a strike late in the summer. Some is credited to rebuilding of stocks allowed to dwindle during the steel industry's private little recession.

But a good part of the new orders are reported to be from customers who need the metal for use now and in the spring as their own business expands. Two of steel's big customers—autos and construction—have been doing fine and see no letup soon.

Those with things to sell to consumers—from clothes to household appliances, from autos to new homes—are counting upon good spring business. There are regional differences, whether caused by the weather or unemployment. But on the whole, it looks like a good spring after a nervous winter.

Anti-Racism Order Hasn't Hurt The Housing Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some gloomy predictions when President Kennedy signed his order four months ago today banning discrimination in federally-financed housing, the homebuilding industry appears headed for another prosperous year.

It's still too early for a detailed analysis of the effects of the order, but early indications are that it did little to slow the pace of home building.

In February, construction began on 86,500 private housing units. On a seasonally adjusted basis, this was 4 per cent above January and 11 per cent ahead of February 1962.

There is no indication yet of any extensive flight from use of financing by the Federal Housing and Veterans Administrations to conventional methods.

Loan applications for the FHA and applications for VA appraisals were down slightly in February compared with the same month last year, but officials said other factors than the housing order are involved in the decrease. Total FHA loan applications are up 7 per cent over February 1962. In planning its budget for fiscal 1964—starting next July 1—the FHA estimated a 3 per cent rise in applications for loans on new and existing homes.

"A lot of things we worry about don't happen," explained David L. Lawrence, chairman of the President's Committee for Equal Opportunity in Housing.

The former Pennsylvania governor, White House housing aide for slightly over a month, praised the housing industry for its efforts to live with the order instead of trying to find ways to dodge it.

He also thought Negroes would be helped in their efforts to move into better neighborhoods by a recent action of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in making clear that is no violation of their code of ethics for a realtor to sell a house to a Negro in an all-white neighborhood.

Housing officials said that so far no regional pattern has emerged indicating that the anti-bias order has affected home building.

The Public Housing Administration said that of 269 preliminary loan contracts involving 27,949 dwelling units that come under the order, 11 have been canceled due to the anti-bias order, involving 396 dwelling units.

The Urban Renewal Administration also indicated that the order had so far had only a minor effect on its operations.

Defense Aide Due At News Handling Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester goes before investigating congressmen Monday to tell his side of the story on administration handling of information.

Sylvester's handling of Pentagon announcements during the Cuban bombers and missiles crisis, and his statement that the government has a right to lie in times of grave crisis, drew sharp criticism Tuesday as a panel of news industry leaders testified before a House subcommittee investigating government information policies.

The Pentagon information officer and his opposite number at the State Department, Assistant Secretary of State Robert Manning, are due before the Foreign Operations and Government Information subcommittee Monday for the second installment of the inquiry.

Subcommittee Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., wound up the first session by describing the newsmen's consensus this way:

"The government itself should now propose guidelines on policies for any future crisis."

CALLED SYMBOL

Clark Mollenhoff of the Des Moines Register and Tribune told the subcommittee that Sylvester "stands as something of a symbol of the problem."

"I feel he has damaged his usefulness and is somewhat of a burden to the secretary of defense and the administration," Mollenhoff said. "It is difficult to see how anyone can have very much confidence in what he has to say."

Mollenhoff, representing Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, joined other witnesses in complaining about a speech Sylvester gave in New York Dec. 6.

In it, Sylvester said it is the government's right, if necessary, to lie to save itself when it's going up into a nuclear war.

Charles S. Rowe, publisher of the Fredericksburg (Va.) Free Lance-Star and chairman of the freedom of information committee of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, labeled that a "repugnant philosophy."

FREE SOCIETY

Other news industry spokesmen said the whole idea runs counter to the principles of a free society. They said deception is a tactic of communism, and doesn't fit in a democratic government.

A Pentagon directive, signed by Sylvester, requiring that Defense Department officials report their contacts with newsmen, also drew fire from the industry witnesses.

A similar order went out at the State Department, but was lifted in November when President Kennedy ended the naval quarantine of offensive weapons shipments to Cuba.

Rowe said the Pentagon order stifles dissent—and if a dissenting official can be scared into silence, then the party line and only the party line will be given to the American people.

Mollenhoff told the subcommittee "the only way we get information is from dissenters."

In an agency that spends $50 to $60 billion a year, I don't want dissent stopped," he said.

ULTIMATE NEED

On the question of a government's right to lie to save itself, James Reston, Washington bureau chief for the New York Times, said:

"It is the basic responsibility of the President to defend the people of this country. In the ultimate extremity it may be justified to deceive the people for the purpose of deceiving the enemy. It may even be his duty to do it. But outside of that ultimate extremity, he shouldn't do it."

Reston said the information picture is not "as black as some people make it out to be."

"The best way to manage the news is to put out an announcement and then make yourself scarce. So that the informed official is not available to the reporter."

"With the present administration, in my experience, the official who is informed is more available today than he has been at any time in the last 20 years," Reston said.

Parties Fight Korean Junta Power Grab

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Defying South Korea's military junta, two major political parties announced today they will launch a nationwide campaign to "fight to the death" against extension of military rule.

In a joint statement, the Civil Rule party led by ex-President Yun Po-sun and the Shinjung party of former Premier Huh Chung demanded that the junta leader, Gen. Chung Hee Park, withdraw immediately his proposal for a plebiscite to give his regime four more years of life. Huh Chung said earlier he had learned of moves by students to take to the streets as they did three years ago to oust President Syngman Rhee.

The joint party statement, which ignored Park's ban on political activity or criticism of his move, also demanded release of persons arrested for distributing leaflets attacking the general.

Yun, Huh and three other political leaders called on Park Tuesday to demand that he abandon his plebiscite proposal. They asked him to live up to his promise of elections this spring and restoration of civilian government in August.

Park replied that he would withdraw his proposal for a 12-day period during which he would consider whether to withdraw it permanently. He indicated he would abandon the plan if "tainted, corrupt" politicians would step out of political life.

The five political leaders rejected Park's condition. "Any conditional proposal is not acceptable," Yun declared.

The Civil Rule and Shinjung parties said they would convene a meeting of political leaders who pledged in a public ceremony Feb. 27 to uphold the ideals of the military revolution, including its goal of purging Korean politics of corruption. Park at the same ceremony had reaffirmed his pledge to give way to a civilian government this summer.

Huh in his separate statement pointed out that the junta itself had cut its political blacklist to a few hundred names and cleared most of the former politicians on the ground they had repented during the two-year suspension of political activity after the May 1961 military coup.

ON THE SHELF

THE SOUTH AND THE SOUTHERNER. By Ralph McGill. Atlantic-Little, Brown.

By The Associated Press
In one way, it is unfortunate that McGill's book has a rather prosaic title, for the book browser may pass it by with a fleeting impression that it is just another argumentative book on a current topic, perhaps like too many others that have been valid, but turgid. The fact is that this is a real, live, illuminating human document which opens the way to more understanding of its subject than a whole shelf of works by theorists, analysts, orators and pleaders. Leave it to a first-class newsman like McGill to get to the real heart of a vital matter, in terms that you and I can grasp.

Yet in another way, the title is pertinent to the real content and scope of the book. He not only has been born and bred to his subject, he also communicates admirably. His method is both simple and effective. For about two-thirds of the chapters he uses an autobiographical framework. Fate has endowed him with a life keyed closely to the modern Southern epic.

He came from East Tennessee where there was a balance of Democrats and Republicans, and a historic balance of Union and Confederate sympathies.

In his early years at Nashville, attending Vanderbilt and working on the Banner, he learned about literature and traditional bossism (Crump style). His mature years have been devoted to the Atlanta Constitution and a wholehearted participation in the works of the enlightened Southerner.

By means of the autobiographical approach he leads you into an understanding of the fact that race problems in the South are bound up in a maze of economics, agriculture, education and the new industrialization.

His final chapters deal with the effects of the depression of the 1930's, the changes brought about by World War II, the dilemmas of the educational system and the churches — and a masterful exposition called "The Conscience of the South."

McGill's book casts a searching light on a complex subject, in warmly human terms. —MILES A. SMITH

Dallas Symphony Concert Here Was A Real Pleasure

In this day of living stereo, piped-in music, and hi-fi, it is a pleasure to see and hear a good symphony orchestra. It is comparable to the difference between taking correspondence courses at home, and taking those same courses in residence on a college campus.

Thus it was with the program Tuesday evening of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, staged in the city auditorium under the aegis of the Concert Association. This critic will not claim that the Dallas Symphony is the world's greatest, such as one hears by tape or record at home, nor would Conductor Donald Johanos be so bold; yet, there was a vast feeling of attainment and contentment, almost of rapport, with the music as it came straight to oneself without electronic marvels standing between.

Johanos selected a well-balanced program from the classics—nothing too heavy or cerebral, none of the sea and symphony pieces which are too often thrown in for comic relief. The musicians were well-disciplined, which in music is the only path to real spirit.

The music itself was spirited, particularly the Rossini overture,

"La Gazza Ladra." But then, all Rossini's music is spirited.

Johanos expertly led his musicians through Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" overture and several movements of the "New World" by Dvorak. As encores, the orchestra presented Mozart's overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" and the "Marche Militaire" by Saint-Saens.

The Dallas Symphony proved once again that, greatest or no, it is certainly among the finest orchestras in the United States, and Johanos one of the more promising conductors.

The audience seemed more enthused and receptive than with most previous symphony concerts. The listeners also evinced a mature awareness of the concert ethic. This critic well remembers a program several years ago when a well-meaning but rather naive audience broke into applause every time the orchestra paused between movements, not knowing that this just isn't done, or mistaking the necessary pause for the end of the symphony. Tuesday night's audience knew the music and the proper behavior. And the applause, when it did come, was sincere and heavy enough to bring two encores. There was instant response to signals by Johanos, the applause halting abruptly upon the third call's raising of the arms.

Indeed, there was but one breach of the ethic, and that reportedly by a young child. Someone clapped his hands between the Scherzo and Allegro con fuoco of the Dvorak piece. A ripple of response started, Johanos waited it out patiently—and the untoward noise ended quickly, as though the massed minds of listener and musician alike willed it out.

It is evident that the town which once knew only the twangs of the hillbilly guitar and the eerie melodies of the lonely cowboy is becoming truly cultured as rapidly as the rest of the state. —BOB SMITH

Found Dead
ALBANY, Tex. (AP)—Herschel Davis, 78, retired Shackelford County rancher, was found dead Tuesday at his home near Albany. Justice of the Peace G. L. Wood said Davis apparently died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

DEAR ABBY
Tell Him To Come Clean

DEAR ABBY: Last year my husband started carrying on with another woman. He confessed and promised he'd make it up to me. I have five children. Well, last August he came home with lipstick on his lips and behind his ear. I blew my top, but he begged for one more chance so I forgave him. He was fine until a few weeks ago. I started to see lipstick on his pillow case. I stopped wearing lipstick to be sure it wasn't mine. I've been putting these lipstick marked pillow cases aside. Should I show them to him and let him lie his way out of it? Or should I just see a lawyer? Answer soon as I am running out of pillow cases.

HURT: Show your husband the pillow cases. Then launder them, and ask your HUSBAND to come clean—and to stay clean this time.

DEAR ABBY: I took some money from the place my mother had hidden. I had to pay a boy for doing some biology drawings for me. I intended to work and put it back before my mother missed it, but she missed it first. She took my driver's license away from me and says she is going to tell my father. She thinks I am a liar and a thief. What do I do?

WORRIED: You will have to rebuild your mother's trust in you. This may take a long time. You can succeed by being 100 per cent honest in all things. And what's this about "paying" a boy to do your biology drawings for you? If it was done without the knowledge of your teacher, you might have to rebuild "trust" at school, too.

DEAR ABBY: Whatever happened to soft, silky hair? I spent several years in the service and fought my way through several barbed wire entanglements, but I never thought I'd be sleeping by one. Any advice for a puzzled husband?

BIG JOHN: Soft, silky hair went out when ratted, sprayed-stiff half-dos came in. But I have some good news for you. The soft, silky, natural look is coming back.

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mule Didn't Know Any Better, So Now She's A Mama

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Mules don't have babies. But rancher Ted Reeves, owner of Maud, never explained to her that she is a mule and mules are hybrid crosses between horses and donkeys and are therefore sterile. So Maud had a colt. The youngster, which looks somewhat like a Mexican burro, is the grandson of a Shetland pony and a jenny (female jackass). Reeves didn't say what the colt's father is. R. M. Carter, veterinarian, told Reeves two months ago that Maud looked like she was pregnant. "It looks to me," Carter said, "like we have one of the rare things in animals—pregnancy in a hybrid. It's very, very unusual. Hybrids are almost always sterile."
