For The Elderly:

A 200-Bed Nursing Home In Big Spring

First Resident For Home, Shine Philips

First resident of the Bennett House is due to be Big Spring's most distinguished citizen—Shine Philips.

Mr. Philips has been a resident of the West Texas Geriatrics Hospital at San Angelo for the past two and a half years because of his services.

he started dreaming and planning on a nursing home here for the elderly. "Build it and I'll be your first occupant," Philips told him in effect.

"Shine gave me my first job when I was a little kid and no one else would hire me," said Frazier. "When we open, we're going to present him the keys to the place."

Bennett House, a 200-bed nursing home oriented primarily to the elderly, will be constructed here soon.

Arrangements have been completed for the first unit, and ground may be broken within about 10 days, said James Bruce Frazier, official in the B Corporation which will operate the facility.

The nursing home site is a 5 1/2-acre tract which the corporation obtained from the Howard County Hospital Foundation for $44,000. It is located across Goliad Street immediately east of the Howard County Hospital Foundation and will look out upon Birdwell Park on the east.

Initial work will be on a 100-bed unit, followed by a second one. Frazier said that a target date for completion of the first is Aug. 1.

BENNETT HOUSE PERSPECTIVE Architect's rendering of first unit of new nursing home in city

The first phase of the project will cost approximately $250,000. The design is such that ultimately the capacity could be doubled, and auxiliary facilities provided.

The two units will be on one level, and there will be no steps. Construction will be of brick, with tile floors, textured walls with vinyl panels at headboards of beds, panel ceiling, and fire doors in the hallways. Rooms will have a variety of color and decor.

Each unit will have its recreational area with two wood-burning fireplaces, a small chapel, two patios, two sitting porches (one open and one enclosed) overlooking Birdwell Park. Assembly areas will be carpeted, and furnishing likely will be in early American. The area will be landscaped to blend with that of the adjoining First Christian Church and the park.

Bennett House is named for Dr. M. H. Bennett, who was a beloved physician and community leader here for almost two score years before his death here in August of 1958. He was one of the founders of the hospital across the street from the new nursing home.

Frazier said that the facility represented the first fruits of an intensive study conducted at a cost of several thousand dollars over the past two and a half years. It is, he added, the initial step in an extensive program to provide the best possible geriatric care and rehabilitation locally. Although they did not design the final plans, he said Gary & Hoberst of Big Spring had been extremely helpful in the surveys and initial planning.

Bennett House is based on four services — 1) room, board and maintenance; 2) security and peace of mind for the elderly; 3) maintenance of identity and dignity of the individual (each will have separate items such as mailboxes, etc.); and 4) adventure (entertainment, available transportation, proximity to the park, YMCA, junior high stadium, churches, etc.).

Rad Ware, 21-year resident of Big Spring, who has been working closely with Frazier in the planning, will serve as manager of the facility. In the final plans, some 50 persons will be required to operate and maintain the house, Frazier said. Rates will be based on those requiring minimum care ($155 per month) moderate, and maximum care ($285). The latter category could run higher if special care is required.

Occupants will be admitted only upon approval of their private physicians, and there will be an examination room and treatment room available for the use of their physician. The refrigerated air conditioning system will be broken down into small units to reduce the possibility of respiratory infections, and there will be a 20 per cent infusion of outside air constantly. Television will be provided in the recreation areas and for every bed if desired.

Negotiations are under way now for auxiliary services. Frazier said he hoped that physical therapy could be included in the center plans.

Officers of the B Corporation are Frazier, his mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, and his wife, Jimmie R. Frazier. Contract for the building has been negotiated. The first two units will be in the shape of a big E, with the hollow side toward the park.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week With Joe Pickle

Bank call figures showed deposits of $41,175,974, which was 3.5 per cent less than for the comparable time a year ago, likely due in part to last year's late and short harvest. However, the total was 10.2 per cent up from the figures at the end of the year. Loans and discounts amounted to $17,919,196, down slightly from the peak at the year-end.

Another bright piece of news is in today's Herald. James Bruce Frazier, together with his wife, Jimmie R. Frazier, and his mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, have announced that work will start soon on a 200-bed nursing home facing on Goliad immediately across from the Howard County Foundation Hospital. It will be a quarter-of-a-million dollar project, counting land, and is ideally located.

Tragedy rode the country roads south of Stanton Wednesday evening. James H. (Jim) Fryar, former Big Spring resident and popular businessman, was killed instantly when his car collided with the rear of a parked truck. Mr. Fryar was a former president of the Big Spring Rotary Club and the Howard County Farm Bureau.

Career Day at Howard County Junior College got its best response ever Monday. Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of HCJC, said that upwards of 600 were on hand for this one-day of conference and visits on the campus.

Our story about the mesquites was a bit off base in listing March 28 as the last frost date. This is about the average last frost date, but the record abounds with freezing temperatures past the middle of April. For instance in 1927 the temperature dipped to 30 degrees; it touched 32 degrees on April 23, 1928, April 26, 1929, and even on May 6, 1917.

Pierre Pleads Not Guilty To News Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger has pleaded "not guilty" to charges that the Kennedy administration has managed news.

Instead, he said Friday, it is the nation's newspaper, television and radio editors who "determine what their readers will read and what their listeners and viewers will hear."

And, he suggested, a serious study should be made to see if these editors are "managing" the news in the public interest.

The Kennedy administration, Salinger told a Woman's National Press Club luncheon, "has not and never will" have a policy of presenting a false image to the public.

In the Cuban crisis, he declared, the administration did not lie or deprive the public of information "except that which, for the highest national security, had to be withheld from our adversaries."

He said the government has no apologies for imposing complete secrecy during the period between discovery of Russian missiles in Cuba and President Kennedy's quarantine speech of Oct. 22.

Fired Worker Blamed In Blast

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Police said a discharged boiler tender admitted Saturday tampering with the basement boiler shortly before its shattering explosion at a downtown store killed three persons and injured 71 Friday.

The firing of Ricardo Mello, 27, after six months on the job, was effective at 4 p.m. Friday. Forty-nine minutes later, a powerful blast ripped the J. C. Penney building in the downtown heart of this city of 200,000 during the going-home rush.

BOY'S FATHER DROWNS Girl, 10, Rescues Child From Water

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The 10-year-old daughter of a fishing camp operator prevented a double tragedy at Lake Colorado City Saturday, when she rescued a six-year-old boy from a capsized boat after his father drowned.

Wayne Compton Young, 45, of Midland, was drowned when his boat capsized and he became entangled in a rope cord that pulled him under the boat in 20 feet of water. He was not wearing a life preserver.

Bradley, Young's 6-year-old son, was wearing a preserver, but he was in serious trouble after the boat went down, observers said.

Cynthia Gale Richardson, 10-year-old daughter of Earl Richardson, owner of Lakeview Camp, near where the accident occurred, swam to the boy and brought him safely back to the shore, about 50 feet.

Richardson led the rescue attempts and recovered the man's body.

"We had a strong south wind with about 12-inch waves," Richardson said when the Young family arrived about 2:30 p.m. after an afternoon of fishing and boating. He explained that Young bought a permit, then launched his boat.

The man and his son were in the boat, but Mrs. Richardson led the rescue attempts and recovered the man's body.

Girl Decides To Testify Despite Vicious Beatings

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A pretty, 11-year-old Baltimore girl, declared steadfastly Saturday that she will testify in a court case against two girls charged with assault and larceny despite two vicious beatings.

"I will testify as long as my Daddy is with me," Frances Dixon, a brunette said softly.

Less than 24 hours before, as she was on her way to pick up her 8-year-old brother from a school, a group of teen-age boys attacked her with broken soft drink bottles, knocked her to the ground and kicked her. She told police one boy held her shoulder, another her feet and a third her hair while others administered the kicking.

Another youth stood idly by laughing, Frances told police, and said: "I'm the brother of the girl who stole the radio. If this doesn't teach you a lesson, the next one will be my daughter."

The assault and larceny charges against a 14-year-old and a 15-year-old girl stemmed from the theft of a transistor radio a month ago. Two girls knocked Frances to the ground as she was playing and stole the radio from her. They are due for a juvenile hearing Thursday.

Frances said she told the boys, "You better turn me loose, because if no police come for you, my Daddy will."

The beating lasted 15 or 20 minutes, Frances said, and when she finally was freed, she ran to her brother's school and into the office of Miss Martha A. Bennett, the principal.

Miss Bennett advised Frances to return home and have her father notify police, but as the girl started home, the boys again intercepted her, knocked her down and beat her.

Young, two daughters and a nephew waited on the bank.

When Young got his motor started, witnesses said it apparently hung in reverse and started taking on water over the transom, which Young may not have seen. Strong winds whipped the boat sideways and it capsized, all in a matter of seconds, Richardson said.

A cord wrapped around Young's arm apparently was wound tight by the outboard motor and this may have dragged the man under.

"He never came up," Richardson said, who helped drag for the body. "We had to cut the cord when we found him in order to get his body out of the water."

The Colorado City Fire Department rescue men reached the lake just as the body was discovered and attempted to revive the man, to no avail. Dr. Oscar Rhode, Colorado City, pronounced him dead. Justice of the Peace L. R. Messmer said he would rule accidental death.

The body was taken to Kiker and Son Funeral Home and was to be taken to Midland late Saturday or today, where funeral is pending.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay recommended to President Kennedy Saturday that he cut his foreign aid program by half a billion dollars as soon as possible and reduce it even further in the future.

But the group endorsed the principle of containing substantial assistance programs under tight management and with closer controls over the way the recipient nations use the U. S. aid.

The committee, dividing 9 to 1, said the guidelines it laid down would result in a $500-million reduction in the present $3.9-billion level of spending. But it said an immediate cut of that size is not feasible because of commitments already made.

"HIGHER QUALITY" "We believe," the committee said, "that we are indeed attempting too much for too many and that a higher quality and reduced quantity of our diffuse aid effort in certain countries could accomplish more."

Clay, retired general and corporation executive, put it less formally in a New York interview.

"I feel that a lot of money has been wasted," he said. "It's got to be tightened up. To continue to give economic assistance to countries that have done little or nothing to help themselves is throwing money away."

Clay and eight other prominent citizens on the presidentially appointed committee agreed on the recommendations for a smaller and more tightly administered program. The dissenter, AFL-CIO president George Meany, asked an expanded program.

Key members of Congress hailed the report as constructive and thought-provoking. Those who commented were nearly unanimous in predicting that the committee's findings would make it doubly difficult for Kennedy to get anywhere near the $4.9 billion he has budgeted for foreign aid in the coming fiscal year. That is an increase of $1 billion over the estimated spending this year.

"NO COMMENT" Perhaps with the congressional situation in mind, Kennedy refrained from any immediate public endorsement of the broad recommendations made by the committee.

Without mentioning the proposed cuts, Kennedy thanked Clay in a public letter for the committee's "important service" and found "very heartening" the committee's expression of support for properly administered mutual defense and development programs.

The 25-page report of the advisory group climaxed a three-month study ordered by Kennedy on how well the giant overseas assistance program is contributing to U. S. security.

Some of the committee's major conclusions:

1. "Properly conceived and implemented" foreign aid is "essential to the security of our nation." But "we are indeed attempting too much for too many and 'higher quality and reduced quantity of our diffuse aid effort in certain countries could accomplish more.'"

2. Greater use of private enterprise abroad should be encouraged. While not insisting that others copy the American system, the United States should not aid foreign government projects competing with private endeavors.

3. Washington should stick to "sound benchmarks" in extending economic help rather than giving away money to impress foreign sovereigns, forestall Soviet aid or gamble on keeping an existing regime in power.

4. U. S. aid should focus on countries with a will to be free and a determination to help themselves economically.

5. Other advanced nations should carry a greater share of the aid burden. U. S. contributions to U. N. projects should not exceed the rate of the regular U. N. assessment. American aid loans (See GEN. CLAY, page 6-A, Col. 6)

Second Group Of Babies Due Pictures This Week

This is the week for another group of beautiful babies to parade before the camera.

Children in the age bracket of 19 months through three years may have their pictures made at Barr Photocenter, 706 Eleventh Place, from Monday through Saturday, to be entered in the $500 Personality Baby Contest sponsored by Barr and The Herald.

More than 100 of the younger group (from three months through 18 months) were before the photographer this past week.

Hundreds of other babies are expected to participate. Every one of them will have a photo in The Herald's Baby Annual in April, and 10 of them will share in awards totaling $500.

Grand prize is $125 cash; first, second and third place winners in each of three age groups will receive $65, $35 and $25, respectively. Judging will be done by an out of town board with no identification on the pictures. The board's decision is final.

There's an entry fee of $2.50, to cover cost of photo and engraving production for the Baby Annual. There's no other charge, no other obligation of any sort. Only stipulation is that white babies have their pictures made at Barr Photocenter during times specified.

Mothers are urged to take their children for sittings without delay. There are no reservations, and pictures will be made in order of appearance. Parents will have a selection of proofs (which must be returned within a week) from which to select the picture for Herald publication.

Gay Hill, Center Point Ask Appeals Rehearing

Gay Hill and Center Point Common School Districts, continuing their fight to evade being annexed to the Big Spring Independent School District, have asked for a rehearing on their case before the Texas Supreme Court.

Gil Jones, attorney for the Big Spring school district, said he had been advised the motion has been filed. The appellate court, in a ruling March 8, overruled the appeal by the two districts from the findings of the 118th District Court here on the annexation matter.

The motion for a rehearing will clear the way, if it is refused, for the common schools to try to get their case before the Texas Supreme Court.

The Eastland court, in its opinion, upheld the 118th District Court in all issues. The opinion, prepared by the entire court, dealt with all eight of the points raised by the common schools and held the findings of the court here was valid on each point.

The case, which has been before the courts almost continuously for nearly three years, stemmed from the annexation of the two common schools to the Big Spring district in an order handed down by the Howard County School Board May 4, 1960. Immediately the schools began a legal fight to set aside the order.

In the course of their efforts, the case was brought to the 118th District Court where a jury heard it in its entirety and ruled that the county board had acted within its proper authority and in accordance with the law in ordering the annexation.

This led to the appeal which was overruled March 10 and to the motion for a rehearing which is now before the appellate court.

In its conclusion, the appeals court ruled that "the decision of the County School Trustees of Howard County was within the discretion of the board and therefore should not be disturbed."

No Increase In Tornadoes

By ROBERT E. FORD
By The Associated Press

It isn't true that there are more tornadoes than there used to be. It just seems like it.

So says the Weather Bureau which has its storm warning system well oiled as the season for Tornado Alley's travail begins.

The reason that more tornadoes seem to be sweeping the country is that the Weather Bureau has better means of reporting—largely radar.

Texas, which has a good many more tornadoes than it cares for, is a case in point.

The Weather Bureau said the average number of reported tornadoes in the state was 25 a year between 1916 and 1960.

But with radar and other better communications, twisters that once died a lonesome death on a deserted plain, scaring nothing but rattlesnakes and prairie dogs, take center stage on the scopes.

Now the state is always seeking bigger statistics, can report an annual average of 80 tornadoes.

Tornado Alley starts in Texas and runs northeastward through Oklahoma and Kansas, sort of dying out somewhere in Iowa. It has branch lines in nearby states like Arkansas and Missouri.

The season for the twisters in the alley starts about February and ends in June, but a tornado can occur any season.

A sort of second-rate alley, not well patronized at all by tornadoes, is along the Gulf of Mexico coast, starting in Texas, of course, and stretching through Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

These coastal tornadoes generally spring up in the fall.

In East and West Coast states, tornadoes are a thing of wonder, they occur so rarely.

But even little Rhode Island, appearing so small on the map that it doesn't seem that any kind of respectable twister would find it a profitable place for operations, has had its tornadoes.

The Weather Bureau says the formation of a tornado is almost too complex to describe.

Basically the tornado is born when cool, dry air from the west or northwest overrides warm, moist air. The more moisture wider the tornado. A complicated energy transformation occurs which can start a whirl.

"It seems probable that a tornado occurs only when there is a precise combination of several rather common but highly variable weather conditions," the Weather Bureau says.

The Weather Bureau's Kansas City office has established a tornado warning system. In Texas this is aided by radars spotted throughout the state.

Thus you often read or hear that a portion of the state is under a storm alert with the possibility of tornadoes.

The bureau is unable to say precisely that a tornado will occur at a certain spot at a specific time, unless a Weather Bureau man is watching the tornado pass, which makes it too easy.

Even then he can't be sure. Most tornadoes move from the southwest to the northeast, but they change direction often.

The time to really worry is when you're watching a tornado and it appears to stand still but grow larger. It is headed straight for you.

What to do?

Dr. J. E. Peavy, Texas health commissioner, says, "Cut off the gas and water, open windows on the north and east side and if possible take shelter in a storm cellar or cave. Stay away from windows. If in open country, move away at right angles to the storm's path or take cover in a ditch or depression to avoid flying debris."

An average of 200 persons a year are killed in the nation by tornadoes.

The worst ones recorded in Texas occurred in Waco May 11, 1953, when 114 died, and in Goliad May 18, 1902, when the same number of deaths occurred.

Social Service Help Needed

Want a permanent job with the Texas State Department of Public Welfare?

Announcement has been made that expansion of the program of the department has created openings for field workers in many areas of the state. Pay starts at $335 a month.

Field workers have the responsibility of providing social services to the aged, the blind, the disabled and the dependent children who receive assistance from the welfare department.

Russell E. Shrader, director of the Merit System Council, Austin, said the vacancies are to be filled from registers which are established through open competitive examinations.

He said that applicants must have a minimum of 60 semester hours in college and meet the state's four-year resident requirement.

Qualified persons, both male and female, interested in this social work opportunity should call the nearest area or regional office of the State Department of Public Welfare and arrange for an interview.

An applicant can also write to the Merit System Council, P.O. Box No. 671, Austin, for additional information.

Shrader said that salary advances and promotional opportunities are excellent in the work.

Fear Still Lingers In Red Victims

YERAKARI VILLAGE, Greece (AP) — Gray-haired Maria Kalesis caught sight of a policeman in the distance and paused in her story, her eyes filling with fear.

The officer was Greek, but Mrs. Kalesis, just back in her native village after 16 years as a hostage in Communist Albania, could not master the reflex of terror.

Papa Michali, a village priest, put a kindly hand on her arm and said: "Don't be afraid. You are free now. No one will force you to do anything against your will."

"Thank goodness," she said. "We hope to overcome this fear some day and learn to live like human beings again."

Maria Kalesis, 52, is one of 129 Greeks repatriated by Albania in February. They had been forced across the border by retreating Communists during the Greek civil war that followed World War II. It is estimated that 50,000 persons and their livestock were seized by the fleeing Greek Reds and forced into neighboring Communist countries.

The Greek Communists have never been permitted to return home, but the Greek government has pressed for years for a return of the hostages. They are coming back in small groups.

Some repatriates tell of hardships "so deeply ingrained that we can never wash them off our bodies."

"Our diet consisted mainly of leeks and dark coarse bread," said George Tsatsas, 59. "We had our first potatoes and beans in 16 years when Greek authorities fed us after we crossed the border."

"We always feared to hear a heavy footstep and pounding on the shelter late at night," grandfather Tsatsas, 92, said. "We never learned what happened to some of our neighbors who were taken away one night."

The Tsatsas family is living with relatives until they can build a home on land owned by the grandfather.

The Achilles Kalesis family—father, mother and daughter—was luckier than most repatriates in this village 30 miles from Larissa. They found their two-room stone house still standing.

Mrs. Kalesis said her daughter, Helen, was born in Albania 14 years ago and "never learned what play and laughter are."

WE ARE ALL KINFOLK

One way the Lord has taught us to love one another is by making us all kin.

"And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth..." (Acts 17:26)

There is a natural tie that binds us. By this tie, the Lord is teaching us to love our fellow man.

There is a special tie that binds Christians together. They are brethren in the Lord. This spiritual kinship, is the closest kind of tie. Christ recognized it as a closer tie than that of physical kinship. (Mark 3:31-35)

Alpine Avalanche Precaution

These sturdy metal barriers, placed at strategic spots along a mountain slope in the Swiss Alps near Airolo, are part of the protective measures being taken by Swiss authorities against the deadly threat of avalanches, particularly snowslides. A good share of municipal and state budgets go to the construction of barriers to control potential slides.

AN ALL-OUT WAR AGAINST NATURE

Switzerland Shores Up Its Mountains

By DORIAN FALK
BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Swiss authorities are fighting the deadly threat of avalanches by air attacks on dangerous accumulations of snow.

A Swiss air force plane released a dozen big avalanches this month by bombing the snow in the starting zone. Soldiers and police kept all persons out of the area, and thousands of tons of snow and ice crashed down without harming anyone. Officials called the operation a success.

Nearly all the large snowslides come down in the same place every year. The increasing number of skiers who ignore avalanche warnings and stray into the path of dangerous slides has forced the authorities to step up their program of protective measures. A good share of state and municipal budgets goes to the construction of barriers to control the known snowslides.

Despite unusual masses of snow this winter, only eight out of millions of tourists skiing all over the Swiss Alps have lost their lives in avalanches. The bitter winter—the coldest in more than a century—froze the snow and prevented it from slipping down steep slopes. Considerably fewer avalanches than normal have been recorded.

Similar conditions prevailed in Germany, which reported 5 victims thus far, and Italy where 12 died. Austria had 22 victims.

The most common means of avalanche control are structures to prevent or divert the slides.

Forestation is the oldest and most effective means of checking the snow menace. It is the most expensive method and is restricted to altitudes below 6,500 feet where trees can grow.

Many of Switzerland's mountains are higher than 10,000 feet, and avalanches often start near the summit. No forest lower down can withstand the impact of a big avalanche. Its air pressure alone can snap off a tree or blow down a house.

In the higher regions the Swiss often build steel or concrete supporting structures or cut terraces into steep slopes to prevent the snow from starting to slide. Other means are steel or heavy log barriers resting on concrete foundations, or steel nets.

To protect roads and railway lines, isolated buildings or larger settlements on slopes where avalanches cannot be prevented, huge structures and earth walls are erected to divert the slide. These include concrete, wedge-shaped walls to split the slide above a building, a village or rail and road communications.

In a really bad year, even experienced mountain villagers have no escape. More than 100 died in their homes in 1951.

Revival Planned

Sen. John McClellan, 67-year-old Arkansas Democrat, is known as a tough man to try to manhandle, and the feeling in Washington is that the Pentagon civilian officials picked a tartar by assailing him for his conduct of the TFX warplane hearings. ## State Farming Increases Pace

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Spring has arrived and farming has increased its pace. A lack of rain was a major concern to many sections, said Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Range vegetation is greening up, grazing is still short, but some slackening in livestock feeding was noted, he said. Oats are being grazed heavily where moisture has been adequate.

High winds dried out moisture and a general rain is needed all of South Texas. Irrigation water is very short in the Valley. Most cotton and grain sorghum has been planted. The onion harvest in Pastures are furnishing little grazing and most cattle are still being fed.

NEED RAIN

Moisture is spotted in South Central Texas Ranges, crops and planted seed need rain. Western counties are dry. Corn, grain sorghum and broomcorn planting is on. Tomatoes are going to the field. A large acreage of melons has been planted. All fruit trees are in bloom. Pecans have not budded.

In one of the more favored areas, the upper Gulf Coast, farmers were planting corn, sorghum and vegetables. Some early watermelons have been planted. Pastures are below average but oats are being heavily grazed and clover is beginning to grow. Sprigging of coastal bermuda grass is on and feeding is decreasing. Moisture varies from short to adequate in East Texas where pastures are below average. Livestock are in fair to poor condition.

MOISTURE SHORT

Moisture is short in Central Texas. Oats are growing but a good rain would help. Some greenbug infestation is reported. Pastures are greening but grazing is short. Goat shearing is near completion. Sheep shearing is beginning. Fruit trees are in full bloom.

Recent showers and milder weather greened up grain fields and pastures but more rain is needed in West Central Texas. Livestock are in fair condition with feeding still on. Small weeds and grass furnished very limited grazing.

A general soaking rain is needed in far West Texas. Livestock are in poor to good condition with feeding still on. No unusual losses have been reported. Grains are making good growth.

NOT ENOUGH

Scattered showers over North Central Texas failed to leave needed moisture. Grains are making some growth but it will continue slow until rain falls. Some corn is being planted. Pastures and livestock were in fair condition with feeding still on.

All the Rolling Plains need moisture. Grain growth is slow. Moisture, especially in the top soil, is very short over the South Plains. Some wind erosion has occurred. Wheat is greening where rain fell but a lot of winter kill has been noted. Cattle are in average condition.

Wheat growth in the Panhandle is slow due to a lack of rain and high, dry winds. An estimated 10 per cent of the wheat and 80 to 90 per cent of the barley had been winter killed. Livestock are in good condition.

Inauguration Set For A&I President

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&I will inaugurate Dr. James Jernigan as president Monday.

He took office Aug. 31 after the retirement of Dr. Ernest Poterret. Gov. John Connally will speak. The president holds a bachelor and masters degrees from North Texas State University and a doctorate from the University of Chicago.

He was born at Van Alstyne and is a 1932 graduate of McKinney High School.

He came to A&I in 1946 as director of men's activities. He was named dean of student life the next year.

Jernigan noted that enrollment doubled between 1952 and 1962 and he predicted a continued increase.

A&I, now in its 38th year, has attempted for several years to raise its standards gradually. Jernigan said.

Klondike Church Schedules Revival

The Klondike Baptist Church launches its spring revival Sunday, planning daily meetings at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. through the following Sunday. The Rev. Brown, Odessa, will be the evangelist. Martin Landers, Howard County Junior College instructor, is interim pastor for the church.

Use Of Foreign Farm Workers Still Declines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employment of foreign farm workers declined sharply in 1962 for the third successive year. Domestic worker employment showed little change.

The employment of foreigners, mainly Mexicans, was the lowest in 12 years. The peak employment for one period was 127,000, or 43 per cent less than the 1961 peak and 59 per cent below the record high of 308,000 in 1959.

Employment of Mexican workers declined 56 per cent on the average between 1959 and 1962, largely because of mechanization in the cotton harvest stimulated by higher wage rates.

The Labor Department, administering the bracero program, attributed the sharp reduction in the use of Mexican farm workers last year to the minimum wages ranging from 60 cents to $1 an hour set by the secretary of labor for the protection of domestic labor in 24 states. The department said this action brought a sharp increase in the wages of Mexican workers in some states, and a heavy reduction in their average employment.

Throughout the entire year, about 244,000 Mexican contract workers worked on U.S. farms an average of 2.9 months. California accounted for 53 per cent of the Mexican workers, and Texas 26 per cent.

The use of Mexican labor in Texas dropped 62 per cent last year, led by a 76 per cent drop in cotton harvest employment. The peak employment of 73,000 in California was 6,000 higher than the 1961 peak, due to a larger tomato crop. The tomato harvest alone used 43,000 Mexicans last September.

Kennedy Urges Growth To Head Off Joblessness

CHICAGO (AP)—President Kennedy told the nation Saturday the unemployment rate will climb steadily and swiftly to 7 per cent—even without a recession—unless taxes are cut to speed economic growth.

Kennedy flew to Chicago for three hours of ceremonies marking the formal dedication of O'Hare International Airport, the aerial crossroads of America and the busiest airport in the world. Tens of thousands lined downtown streets as the President drove to a civic luncheon where some 1,400 Chicagoans gathered to celebrate the dedication and hear the President.

In a major address prepared for the luncheon, Kennedy made a blunt bid for greater public support of his plan to cut taxes by $10.3 billion during the next three years.

Kennedy said a tax cut is needed above all if the country is to cope with an onrushing tide of manpower.

Declaring that the creation of millions of jobs is "our No. 1 domestic concern," Kennedy said: "Unless we step up our rate of growth—unless we create a supply of jobs that is more equal to the demand—our rate of unemployment will steadily and swiftly climb to the recession level of 7 per cent, even without a recession."

A 7 per cent unemployment rate would compare with the February level of 6.1 per cent, which was the highest in more than a year.

The President dedicated the airport by laying a wreath at a memorial to Lt. Cmdr. Edward H. O'Hare, Medal of Honor winner killed in action during World War II.

In spotlighting the darkening employment outlook, Kennedy said unemployed Americans last year lost one billion work days—equivalent to shutting down the

Rubber-Hosing Father Held

HOUSTON (AP)—A father who told police he beat his 2-year-old child with a 3-foot length of rubber hose was jailed Saturday and ordered held without bond.

Police said Bobby Ward, 28, a truck driver, signed a statement saying he used the hose "to punish the kids with."

Ward was charged with aggravated assault.

He and his wife have six children, aged 8 months to 10 years.

Police said they found Vicki Lynn, 2, her body a mass of angry welts from "her ankles to her neck."

"I guess I probably hit her a little too hard," police quoted Ward as saying in his statement.

The mother reported the incident to police Friday. The child was treated at a hospital and discharged to her mother.

Police reported that Ward said in his statement the child was whipped because of some tile broken in the bathroom.

entire country with no production, no services and no pay for over three weeks.

The President said, "This nation can do better than that." But he said it also could do worse unless effective counteraction was taken.

"Above all," he said, "we need to release the brake of wartime tax rates which are now holding down growth at the very time we need more growth to create more jobs."

Kennedy predicted that his tax cut proposal would result in a multiplication of new markets, new equipment, new jobs.

Kennedy did not confine his solution to the employment situation to tax cuts, however.

"No single magic solution will solve all our manpower problems," he said, and urged support of administration programs designed to improve schools, give young people greater job opportunities and stimulate distressed areas.

The President attributed the disturbing employment outlook to a combination of three factors:

—The revolution in agriculture which has permitted farmers to increase their production and income the last two years even as farm employment dropped by 500,000.

—Youth: The number of Americans reaching age 16 this year is expected to total 3.8 million—up from 2.8 million in 1962. Kennedy said the postwar baby crop "is about to engulf the labor force" and noted that the unemployment rate among men under 25 is double that for older workers.

—Automation: Since World War II, he said, advancing technology has permitted output to increase by 67 per cent while manpower needs had risen by only 3 per cent.

Kennedy said this type of increasing productivity is "essential to our ability to compete and to progress—but we also have an obligation to create an additional two million jobs each year for those displaced by these gains."

At the present time, Kennedy said, the economy is operating in a continuing sagging spiral because there is not full employment. "Our task is to reverse this spiral," he said.

Surgeon Found Dead In His Home

FORT WORTH (AP)—Dr. C. B. Westfall, 37, a surgeon who had been in poor health since an auto accident two years ago in which his daughter died, was found dead Saturday in his home.

His widow said he had been shot and that a shotgun was in the room with the body.

Westfall had been unable to practice since he was injured July 2, 1961. He underwent numerous operations.

A drive on the wrong way on the divided Texas 199, was blamed for the wreck.

Mrs. Westfall found the body when she returned from the beauty shop. Two of the couple's three daughters were asleep in the home at the time.

ARTHUR J. GOLDBERG

Goldberg Ired By Rumors On Policy Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Arthur J. Goldberg is indignant over rumors, some published, that he still is playing a major role in shaping Kennedy administration labor policies from the Supreme Court bench.

The new justice says it simply isn't so. He says that even if he deemed it proper to make suggestions here and there—and he doesn't—the workload of the court is so heavy he couldn't spare the time.

It has been six months since Goldberg switched to the court from a whirlwind career as President Kennedy's first secretary of labor, during which he intervened in many labor disputes and played some role in many other fields of government. He says that is all ended.

"I'm not going to be a busy-body, a behind-the-scenes operator," Goldberg said in an interview.

"I don't consider it appropriate for me to do so. Every justice has to make his own decisions on these matters, and I am not criticizing anyone else, but mine is to stay out of the policy area."

There have been opportunities to kibitz, calls from high figures both in and out of the government for advice and guidance. But Goldberg says he has turned them all down, as well as a number of bids to make speeches and appear on radio and television.

He plans to make a few speeches in the next few months, but they will be confined to legal groups, commencement exercises and similar occasions where he is not likely to say anything controversial.

Goldberg says he realized when he went to the court he would have to accept restraints on outside activities. He has excused himself from participating in a number of the court's recent labor decisions involving matters he helped handle in one way or another in his precourt days.

Goldberg's first year on the court is one of its busiest. Although never before a judge, Goldberg has devoted his life to the law.

New Airline To The West

EL PASO (AP)—A new airline, operating with three planes, began flights last week between Midland and Odessa and six cities in New Mexico.

The firm, Bison Airlines, is classified as a third class carrier. It provides two round trips daily from the Permian Basin area to Hobbs, Artesia and Roswell, N.M. The flights continue to Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N.M.

Other flights provide an El Paso-Roswell connection, and link El Paso, Las Cruces, Albuquerque and Santa Fe.

Schedules include flights linking Midland-Odessa with El Paso via Jal, N.M., and a flight between the Permian Basin cities and Lubbock and Amarillo.

Two of the three planes are Aero Commander 680s, six-passenger twin-engine luxury craft, and the third is a Grand Commander, which carries ten passengers.

G'Water's Happier As A Live Senator

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., citing Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson as an example, says "I would rather be a live senator than a background man in the vice president's chair."

Goldwater, appearing on the Jack Paar television show Friday night, said Johnson, "once at least the second most powerful man in the United States as a senator finds, now that his talents are pretty much wasted."

After reasserting that he had no intention of running for president on the GOP ticket in 1964, Goldwater added that the same went for the vice presidency.

The disappearance of Christine Keeler, 29, has touched off a wave of gossip in England that highly-placed persons are responsible for hiding her. British War Minister John Profumo told the House of Commons he is acquainted with her but that he has not seen her in 14 months. She twice has failed to appear as a witness in a shooting case in London.

Drugs Raise Malformed Births Fear

LONDON (AP) — Expectant mothers have been warned against using a tranquilizer drug used to treat severe depression and an anti-travel sickness pill. Experts fear that the drugs might cause malformed births.

Two doctors writing in the medical magazine, The Lancet, said rabbits dosed with the tranquilizer Imipramine—known commercial as Tofranil—produced a high percentage of deformed young.

Until more information is available, the drug should be used with caution by expectant mothers, say Drs. J. M. Robson and E. M. Sullivan of Guy's Hospital, London.

Studies by the manufacturers, Geigy Pharmaceutical Co. of Manchester, found no abnormalities in 13,107 cases treated with the drug. Dr. R. H. Gosling, the firm's medical director, said.

The drug was on clinical trial for two years before being marketed in Britain in January 1959. It had been marketed abroad for a longer period.

The other drug under suspicion is Mazine, a well known remedy in Britain for travel sickness. The manufacturers, the Wellcome Foundation Ltd., recommended that the drug should not be taken by pregnant women except on medical advice.

In a statement published in the British Medical Journal the foundation said investigations carried out in its laboratories "indicate that at a very high-dose level there is in a small proportion of laboratory animals some abnormal foetal development."

Where Woman Died

Further investigation is planned. The old house was sparsely furnished, West said. A metal drum, with the top cut out, served as both a cook stove and heater. Everything was destroyed in the fire. The house was owned by Sherman Spillers, Stanton.

Wives who talk too much or are insolent to their husbands, the columnist Antar wrote Friday in the Lagos Daily Telegraph, "should be beaten up, but not maimed."

Instead of a national tax cut, there should be less spending, Tower said. He also urged cutting foreign aid which was not for military or technical purposes.

And in Dallas jail (1957)

MAY GET OUT ON PAROLE

Stripper Wins Connally
Support For Freedom

AUSTIN (AP) — Strip-teaser Candy Barr won the support of Gov. John Connally Friday in her long fight to get out of prison. Connally approved the recommendation of the Pardons Board to parole the baby-faced inmate of Goree State Prison for Women. She has been there since 1959, on a 15-year sentence for possession of marijuana. The Pardons Board recommended the release after a three-month review of her records. Connally's actions must be followed by a final check by the Pardons Board and approval of authorities in California, where she has asked to be sent. These procedures may take up to 10 days. The 5-foot 3-inch blonde won national attention with her post-war performances in a downtown Dallas night spot and a romance with Mickey Cohen. Dallas police raided Candy's apartment in 1957, and said they found a marijuana cigarette under a chair and a marijuana-filled bottle which she withdrew from her brassiere. While her 1958 conviction was being appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, she continued to pack nightclubs in Las Vegas, New Orleans and Los Angeles. Shortly before she entered prison, she married her third husband, Jack Sakhanian, a Hollywood beautician. A native of Edna, her age is estimated to be in "the late twenties."

Spending Experts Have A Problem

AUSTIN (AP) — The Legislature's spending experts are doing a lot of head scratching this weekend. Despite the fact that the House approved its version of the 1964-65 appropriations bill last week, it apparently will be some time before the size of the measure is settled. Senate sources said the Senate version likely will not be out of committee for at least another week. And it's no secret that a number of senators would like to see the House take some action on Gov. John Connally's two proposed tax extensions before the Senate acts on the spending bill. Connally told newsmen this week that he "very definitely" will push for action "pretty soon" on his recommendations to raise $23.8 million additional by revising the sales tax and $22 million by a two-year extension of the franchise tax rate. They have been in a House subcommittee for some time. The governor also told reporters that he is not satisfied with the House figures on spending, particularly for higher education in Texas. Connally asked $225.2 million from general revenue for 1964-65 spending in state colleges, including a pay raise for teachers. The House voted for $187.6 million, close to the present level of spending with the addition of the University of Houston to the system this year. "I devoted considerable time to the higher education aspects of my budget and I think my recommendations are well founded and realistic," Connally said. Some House members have said that the spending bill got a one-sided 129-9 vote only because many representatives held out hope that a conference committee would add to the measure. Connally said he had hopes a conference committee would put back in an appropriation for the Texas Maritime Academy. Former Governor Price Daniel recommended $400,000 for the academy and Connally and the Legislative Budget Board recommended $383,000. The House bill sets aside nothing for the academy. Still another consideration for drafters of the spending bill is the advancement given two measures that would cut present taxes. Pending business in the Senate next Wednesday is a House-approved measure that would slash the state sulphur tax from $1.40 to $1.03 per ton. Backers claimed increased production would take up any revenue loss. Also passed by the House is a measure to exempt state banks from the state franchise tax to give them an equal tax break with national banks, which are exempt from the state levy.

Grandma Kroeger Ruled
Sane, May Face Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Iva Kroeger was declared legally sane Friday by the same jury that earlier convicted the 44-year-old grandmother and her husband, Ralph, of the murders of an elderly couple. The jury of four men and eight women will now decide whether the Kroegers get life in prison or the gas chamber. The penalty phase of the trial starts Monday. The Kroegers were convicted of strangling Ray Arneson, 70, and his estranged wife, Mildred, 58, to get possession of a Santa Rosa, Calif., motel. Their bodies were discovered by police last August buried in the basement garage of the Kroeger home in San Francisco. Throughout the 10 weeks of trial, Iva frequently disrupted the courtroom with loud outbursts and wild antics. She was persistent to the end. "Thank you," she smilingly told the jury. "I know I'm the mother of God." Ralph, who was not involved in the sanity phase, was grimly bitter. "I didn't expect anything else," he said. "Not with that jury."

Deadline Looms For License Tag Buyers

Howard County motorists must buy 1963 automobile plates this week at a 2,000 a day clip if all of the cars, trucks and other vehicles which must have such plates are to be legally tagged by deadline date.

Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor, said Friday that her office has issued about 9,000 plates through last week. This means there are more than 12,000 cars untagged in the county and there are but six days left in which to purchase and attach the tags.

The tax assessor said her office will not be open Saturday, March 30. This means that Monday through Friday of this week and Monday, April 1, next week, are the only days left in which to purchase plates.

"I do not intend to operate the office on Saturday because motorists can be served Saturday after 5 p. m. each day except Sunday at the four Lewis 5 and 10-Cent Stores and at the two Newsom Food Stores," she explained.

"These establishments are providing this service and paying their own employees to do the work. The Lewis stores can issue plates for passenger cars, trucks up to one ton in size and boat trailers. The Newsom stores can issue plates for all passenger cars."

She said there is an erroneous impression that the tags "cost more" acquired at these sub-station stores.

"Of course, this is not true," said the assessor-collector. "The fee for tags bought at the Lewis and Newsom stores is exactly the same as the fee when the tags are purchased at the tax office."

"It is like the rumor I have heard that the county is paying the employees of the companies for their work as tag agents. The store owners pay their employers for this extra work and are offering this special service as convenience to their customers and to the public."

Meantime, it was shown that the number of tags issued through March 16 was about 100 behind the total for the same date in 1962. On March 16, 1962, the office had issued 8,932 plates. On March 16 this year, the total was 8,845. Dollar wise, the picture is even more depressing. Receipts from the sale of car tags through March 16 this year are lagging about $44,000 behind the total for the same date last year.

The tax office said that last week was anything but booming in the matter of auto plates.

Friday afternoon only a trickle of applicants for plates were on hand at the tag offices. A grand rush undoubtedly will build up as this week advances. Mrs. LeFevre suggested early calls by those motorists who still need plates and that it would be fore convenient in many cases, to get the tags at the sub-stations rather than fight the parking problem downtown.

Lamesa Jaycees Elect Officers

LAMESA (SC)—Willis Cresham has been named president of the Lamesa Junior Chamber of Commerce following an intensive campaign here.

Other new officers, who will be installed in about two weeks, include Jim Kinney, first vice president; Joe Cloud, second vice president; Gene Heald, secretary; Hermon Caskey, treasurer; Bob Cates, Paul Koistra and Larry Moffatt, directors; and outgoing president Ken Edmonson, ex-officio director.

Check Your Tax Return

The percentage of correctly filled out U.S. Income Tax reports received in Texas each year is increasing, according to officials of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service. However, a lot of simple mistakes continue to show up.

The commonest error taxpayers are prone to make is to forget to sign the report before they mail it.

Ellis Campbell Jr., with the USIR, has a suggestion that he feels will help to reduce still further the number of small errors which crop up in the income tax reports.

He suggests that the taxpayer resist the natural impulse, once he has filled out all of his report, to mail it as quickly as possible.

"After you have filled out the report," he suggests, "set it aside for a few days. Then go over it line by line, figure by figure. Check your arithmetic again; make sure your name is listed right; that you have answered all questions correctly and that you have the W-2 forms to send with the report. When you have gone over the report and found that everything is in order — that's the time to put it in the mail."

Dawson County Contest Selects Spelling Champ

LAMESA (SC)—Howard (Rusty) Miller, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Miller of Lamesa, out-dueled two challengers from Dawson School in Welch to cop the 1963 Dawson County spelling championship here Friday.

The sixth grade student at South Elementary School spelled 95 words for the title. A total of 498 words were spelled by the 15 contestants.

Michael Rogers, 12, and Bruce Scholer, 14, both of Dawson School (Welch) finished in second and third spots, respectively, after several rounds with the eventual champion.

The runner-up was stumped on "colonel" when he spelled it "colenel." Miller corrected the mistake and then spelled "colossal" for the championship.

Students from South Elementary and V. E. Rogers Schools in Lamesa, Knott, Dawson, Union competed. Pronouncers were Wayne Smith and Ray Renner.

Mexican Trade Mission Lauded

Bradley Murray, a U. S. Commerce Department official who had headed the group of five American businessmen, said Mexican businessmen were interested in over half of the 524 specific projects his group presented.

LAMESA (SC)—Bank deposits and loans maintained a healthy level here during the first quarter of 1963.

Total deposits of the First National and Lamesa National Banks on March 18 were pegged at $29,802,374, up $617,756 over the December, 1962 figure and slightly lower than the $30,532,612 recorded a year ago.

Loans were figured at $17,838,916, well ahead of the April, 1962 pace of $10,849,440.

Civilians Probed In 'Plot'

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's military government has announced it is investigating whether civilian politicians were connected with an alleged coup plot uncovered two weeks ago.

An official spokesman said "a large number of soldiers and civilians" are being questioned about what the government charges was a plot to assassinate strong man Gen. Chung Hee Park and overthrow his regime.

The announcement came at a time when civilian politicians are steadily increasing demands for an immediate end to military rule. Park originally promised to restore civil rule in August.

The alleged plot was one reason he gave for reversing his former stand and proposing to extend military rule for another four years.

About 600 persons demonstrated in Seoul Friday demanding a return to civil rule. The government arrested 105 demonstrators and referred them to military courts. They face prison sentences of up to six years.

More demonstrations broke out in the south. Forty marchers scuffled with 100 policemen in Taegu, the third largest city. Antigoovernment movements sprang up in Incheon and Chunchon.

Dragged Off Street

South Korean policemen drag demonstrators who participated in a large-scale anti-government demonstration in downtown Seoul. Police said warrants will be sought charging them with violating a special decree issued by South Korea's military government banning all political activity. The demonstrators will face prison sentences of up to six years. Those being held were mainly younger members of several political parties that participated in the leaflet-throwing, slogan-chanting march through the streets.

U. S. Hopes Falling For Korea's Future

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The United States has given heavily in blood and dollars to try to bring stability, anti-communism and democracy to South Korea. Now, 18 years after the massive aid program began, American hopes are dwindling.

South Korea has neither stability nor democracy. Bitter political battling between its military government and civilians diverts the watch on communism.

Like the Mongols, Chinese and Japanese here before, Americans get involved in Korea through fortunes of war.

The others came as conquerors. By winning World War II, the Americans came as liberators of this Japanese-occupied, barren land of 25 million people.

Two choices seemed available: go home and let Korea drift into communism, already gripping the northern half of the peninsula, or stay and build.

DECIDED TO STAY
Washington decided to try to build and the cost has been mounting ever since.

The bill for helping beat back a Communist invasion in 1950-53 was 20,617 dead and 103,294 wounded. Financial aid now totals $2.5 billion or $5.4 billion, depending on whether military assistance is called aid.

When Dr. Syngman Rhee was elected president in 1948, things were going fairly well. The U. S. military government had kept the nation on its feet and there was talk that perhaps South Korea could be a "Showcase of Democracy" contrasting with Communist North Korea.

War came in 1950 and almost everything the United States had invested vanished in a rubble heap extending across the devastated country.

Rhee turned tough, holding power with police strength. Apparently seeing no alternative, Washington policy makers stuck with him, pumping more money into the economy.

FINISHED RHEE
However, when students took to the streets in April 1960 charging Rhee was rigging elections, Washington announced they had "justifiable grievances."

That finished Rhee. He went into exile again and John M. Chang became premier.

A soft-spoken man dedicated to democracy, Chang wasn't tough enough for the job. South Koreans began battling in the streets but Chang wouldn't crack down.

Watching from military garrisons throughout the country, however, were young colonels and generals who were more than willing to crack down.

They struck May 16, 1961, seizing Seoul in a coup so secretly executed that even American field advisers didn't know it was coming.

Gen. Chang Do-young, army chief of staff, was the front man. But it soon became clear that Gen. Chung Hee Park and Col. Kim Chong-pil were the new regime's master strategists. Chang was imprisoned in July 1961, charged with being a counter-revolutionary. He later fled to America in a U. S. Air Force plane.

TOOK OVER
Chung Hee Park, with Kim Chong-pil at his elbow, took over the government.

Park personally assured President Kennedy he would return power to civilians in the summer of 1963.

First, he said, the military must deal with what he called corrupt and inefficient politicians. American aid continued. More than 50,000 American troops were left in Korea, helping guard the front.

In late 1962, the junta split. Kim, then director of the powerful Central Intelligence Agency, was accused of attempting to grab power.

Park acknowledged his regime was surrounded by rumors of financial scandals.

Nevertheless, Park remained popular in the countryside and on Jan. 1 he lifted a ban on political activity. He predicted that he would be drafted as presidential candidate of the Democratic Republican Party, which Kim formed, and looked like a sure winner.

USED "LIBERTY"
Civilian politicians, however, used their new political liberty, talking about alleged scandals and power struggles within the junta.

Kim went into temporary exile in February and Park announced he was withdrawing from politics. On March 16, Park reversed course and declared that only four more years of military rule could save the nation from chaos.

He proposed a nationwide vote on the idea but his political opponents objected strongly, saying that since they and the press are muzzled any referendum would be sure to result in an overwhelming victory for the junta.

The politicians took their fight to the streets, kicking and shouting in scuffles with Park's police. At week's end, it appeared that in the streets the issue would be settled.

Austrian Regime's Crisis At An End

VIENNA (AP)—Austria's longest postwar government crisis ended early Saturday.

Negotiators of the two biggest parties, the Conservative People's party and the Socialists, agreed on details of the 1963 budget, last hurdle in the lengthy talks.

Leaders of the two parties—which have governed this country in coalition since 1945—had been deadlocked for more than five months after elections last Nov. 18.

The new cabinet is expected to be formed Wednesday after the parties' executive committees have a chance to approve the agreements. Conservative Alfons Gorbach will head the new cabinet as chancellor.

Injuries Fatal

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. Robert Kendall, 64, of Clarksville, Ark., died Saturday of injuries received in an auto accident near Grapevine a week ago.

Feminist Dies At 70

NEW YORK (AP)—Doris Stevens, famous feminist whose zeal in her campaign for equality of the sexes landed her in jail, died Friday night at Harkness Pavilion in Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. She was 70.

She suffered a stroke two weeks ago.

Feminist that she was, she used her maiden name throughout her hectic career, although she was the wife of writer Jonathan Mitchell.

She was sentenced to 60 days imprisonment in 1917 for attempting to petition President Woodrow Wilson on behalf of national suffrage. She served part of the term.

She was also jailed for a time in France in 1928 for her attempt to present an equal rights treaty to plenipotentiaries for the Pact of Paris.

She lived at Croton-on-Hudson.

Larry Eubanks Has Surgery

Larry Eubanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eubanks, underwent surgery late Thursday for injuries received in a one-car accident near Lubbock last Saturday.

His leg, broken between the hip and the knee was "pinned" with stainless steel to insure a straight healing, his father said Friday afternoon. He will remain in the Cowper Hospital for approximately one month and for a few days, visitors will be limited. He is in Room 35 and is also recovering from a separated pelvis, and a small fracture of the shoulder blade. His condition is reported good, but he still remains in shock.

CLINICS WILL BE OPEN NEXT SUNDAY

Final Polio Vaccine Program For Howard-Glasscock Counties

The final phase of the Sabin oral vaccine inoculation program will be conducted here next Sunday when Type III vaccine will be administered at 11 Howard and Glasscock county clinics.

Members of the Permian Basin Medical Society urge all residents to participate in the program. The Type III vaccine is free. However, participants may make a donation to help defray costs of the program.

The various clinics will be open from noon until 5 p.m. and residents may go to any one of them. Persons who took Type I and Type II vaccine, or both, should bring their inoculation cards to the clinics. Whether or not a resident has had the other vaccine types, he should take Type III and get the other types from his family physician later.

However, residents without an inoculation card must sign an authorization form and bring it to the clinic. A copy of this form will be printed in the Herald later this week.

Directors of the program emphasized that it takes inoculation from all three types of polio to give complete immunity. Each type of vaccine gives protection from one type of polio.

As before, the vaccine will be administered on a cube of sugar. Everyone above the age of six weeks should take it, including diabetics and pregnant women. Only ill persons should omit it.

Residents who need transportation may call AM 4-4331 (the Herald) and a car will be sent for them.

Grain Plan Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The argument is being raised that the Kennedy administration's feed grain program is hindering the development and expansion of livestock production in areas which do not and never have produced a surplus of corn.

This contention is being made by some farm leaders and farm educators in the Southeast. This area has been moving away from cotton—a crop it cannot produce as efficiently as Western areas—toward greater diversification with emphasis on cattle, hogs and poultry.

TO FOREFRONT

In a relatively few short years, this area has gone to the forefront as a producer of poultry. The feed grain program, started in 1961, offers farmers payments—very attractive to some farmers—and price supports if they idle a percentage of their feed grain land. The program is supposed to hold production below yearly needs until grain surpluses can be eliminated.

The program has been made applicable to all corn, barley and sorghum grain producing areas. This includes the great Midwest Corn Belt, where the surplus exists, as well as deficit feed producing areas in the East and Southeast. As a consequence, corn acreages in the areas where no surpluses exist have been cut rather sharply.

The result has been greater dependence of these areas on grains imported from the Midwest surpluses. For example, corn acreages last year were down by the following percentages from the 1951-60 averages in the Southeast states: Virginia 25 per cent; North Carolina 30; South Carolina nearly 50; Georgia 23; Mississippi nearly 50; Tennessee nearly 40; and Florida nearly 15.

WRONG TIME

This reduction in corn acreages has taken place at a time when these states have been building larger beef cattle herds and producing more hogs. Demands for meats in these states has been increasing, reflecting not only an increase in population but also rising consumer incomes.

But to feed these larger livestock numbers, large quantities of grain had to be shipped in from surplus areas. In fact, supplies of feed in some of these areas have become so short in recent weeks that the government has had to take emergency action

Estes Trial Near Its Conclusion

EL PASO (AP)—A second week-end court recess stalled the Billie Sol Estes fraud trial Saturday barely short of its conclusion.

U. S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomson excused the jurors after the defense rested Friday, directing them to return for closing arguments Monday.

Prosecutors and Estes' lawyers will be allowed 2½ hours each to debate whether Estes defrauded about 100 individuals and a dozen finance companies on farm tank mortgages aggregating $24 million.

Evidence indicated that fertilizer tanks securing the notes never existed.

The Bible-quoting promoter did not testify. Neither did his three co-defendants. The three are under prison sentence of 6 to 10 years on pleas to the same charges for which Estes is on trial.

The three stood by outside the courtroom for possible testimony since the trial started March 11. They are Harold Orr, Ruel Alexander and Coleman McSapdden.

Neither government nor the defense called Robert Graham of Fort Wayne, Ind., as a witness. He was mentioned repeatedly as a key figure in selling fertilizer tank contracts to one of the finance houses, Walter E. Heller and Co. of Chicago.

Witnesses for both sides said Graham also was present for possible testimony.

Asst. U. S. Atty Gen. Rufus McLean, the chief prosecutor, presented 28 witnesses and 131 exhibits to support the government's charge of mail fraud and conspiracy.

The exhibits included numerous mortgages, promissory notes and letters.

Note signers said Estes got them to buy anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) tanks on a time payment basis, paid them a bonus to sign and to lease the tanks to him for use in Estes' big fertilizer sales business, and paid them rent equaling monthly installments on the tank notes.

Firms supposedly building the tanks sold the mortgages at discount to the finance companies.

Defense lawyer John Cofer and his aides maintained there was no fraud or conspiracy because tank contract signers and finance company personnel knew the tanks were fictitious.

The defense used 11 witnesses, charges but they are generally low—2 per cent or slightly higher.

The experts also point out that much of the resulting Soviet aid is technical guidance, rather than actual deliveries of machinery and equipment.

As for the Communist bloc countries, it is estimated the Soviet Union gave them credits and grants totaling about $6.2 billion from 1946 to the middle of last year. It is believed East Germany got about $1.3 billion, Poland $913 million, and China $700 million, with the other countries getting lesser amounts.

Increasing secrecy leads some Western experts to conclude that the aid program is being reduced.

A United Nations report issued last year estimated Soviet economic aid was going to 25 non-bloc nations, with India, Egypt, Afghanistan, Indonesia and Cuba getting about two thirds of it.

Biggest recipients of military aid outside the Soviet bloc were Syria, Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq and Cuba.

Russian Foreign Aid May Be In Cutting Stage

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet foreign aid program is being pushed deeper into the realm of secret projects, and indications are that the program is being cut.

Firm figures are hard to come by. The best estimates available are that the Soviet Union has put up a little less than $12 billion in foreign aid since World War II.

On the basis of these estimates, total Soviet credits and grants to non-Communist countries during the period 1954 to June 1962 were about $3.6 billion. The period starts in 1954 because before Stalin's death in 1953, Soviet aid to non-Communist countries was negligible.

Military aid to non-Communist countries was estimated at about $2 billion for the 1954-June 1962 period.

Western experts hasten to point out that most of the Soviet aid takes the form of loans or credits, and not outright grants or gifts, such as the United States frequently gives.

The Soviet loans carry interest.

Longhorns Win Third Place In Tournament

UVALDE — Young Freddie Mears pitched the Big Spring Steers to a 5-1 victory over Uvalde in the battle for third place in the 16-team Uvalde Invitational Baseball tournament here Saturday night.

Earlier, the Steers had dropped a semi-final game to San Antonio Robert Lee, 7-2, despite the fact that Roy New allowed the winners only two hits. Big Spring committed eight errors in the semi-final game and not a Lee run was earned. Lee then proceeded to win the tournament, defeating San Antonio Edgewood, 3-2.

Mears, who is a sophomore, rationed out only four hits to the Uvalde team. He fanned six and walked two and shut out the losers until the sixth.

Big Spring collected 11 hits in the game and Buster Barnes collected four of them, including a fifth inning home run with the bases empty and a double.

Pat Reilly clubbed a pinch hit home run for the Steers in the sixth. The Steers won three of four starts in the tournament and now has an 8-8 record.

Eric Nichols of Big Spring was named to the all-tournament team as a first baseman. Barnes won the same distinction as an outfielder, although he caught the final game. New earned a spot on the all-star squad as an utility infielder.

The Steers got a team trophy and the three all-star players got small awards.

Rick Wisener, who injured his leg earlier in the tournament, collected a triple and a single in the game against Uvalde. His triple occurred in the sixth inning but his mates failed to get him home.

Big Spring was making his first start for Big Spring since he was felled with the flu a couple of weeks ago.

Big Spring went ahead of Lee briefly in the semi-final game by scoring twice in the second, but the San Antonio team went ahead to stay with a tally in the third and salted away the decision with three in the fifth.

New struck out seven and walked six in the game.

Allen Clanton, the Steers' sophomore catcher, drove in both of Big Spring's runs in the second with a double.

Nichols and Jack Roden collected other Big Spring hits in the contest. Big Spring left four runners stranded in the contest.

The Longhorns open their conference season Tuesday in Midland, at which time they oppose Lee High School.

UVALDE — Young Freddie Mears pitched the Big Spring Steers to a 5-1 victory over Uvalde in the battle for third place in the 16-team Uvalde Invitational Baseball tournament here Saturday night.

Smith Construction Wins Cage Tournney

Butch Vicellio, former Air Force Academy star, led the E. C. Smith Construction company quint to a 112-100 victory over defending champion Waddell-Blanks Insurance of Odessa in the finals of the Smith-YMCA Independent Basketball tournament in the HCJC Gym Saturday night.

Vicellio tossed in 37 points. Delnor Poss proved a big help to the local team with a 30-point output.

Waddell-Blanks finished the game with three players on the court. Smith's led practically the entire game.

The game was roughly played and several technical fouls were called against the Odessa bench in the late stages of the contest.

The starting time of the final game was delayed until 9:30 p.m. and the outcome wasn't decided until nearly 11:30 p.m.

In the battle for third place, the Abilene Athletic Supply club turned back Big Spring Concrete, 97-82.

The local team pulled to within three points of a tie with eight minutes to go but the Abilene club began to fast break with success and pulled away again.

Terry Williams banged in 22 points for Big Spring Concrete while Arden and Vick each had 24 for Abilene.

Members of the all-tournament team included Poss, Smith's; Engle, Odessa; Vicellio, Smith's; Mobley, Odessa; Kloven, Smith's; Burkhardt, Abilene; Reynolds, Odessa; Howard, Abilene; Williams, Big Spring Concrete; and Cumber, Big Spring Concrete.

Syracuse Leads In NBA Playoff

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse swept from behind with a closing burst Saturday night, edged Cincinnati 121-117 and took a 2-1 lead over the Royals in their best-of-5 semifinal playoff series in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

The Nats trailed by seven, 110-103, with 5 1/2 minutes to go when Hal Greer took charge and personally conducted them to the victory. He scored 12 points in the closing drive while continuing his excellent defensive job on Cincinnati ace Oscar Robertson.

Greer, who finished with 30 points, held the high-scoring Robertson to only 16 points. The Big O was so harassed he managed to hit only four of 13 tries from the field.

Crane Decisions Volleyballers

In volleyball games held in the Big Spring high school gymnasium Friday, Crane's high school volleyball ball teams swept two games from the Big Spring volleyball teams. Crane's B team defeated Big Spring's B team, 30-13, and Crane's A team also won handily, defeating the Big Spring A 36-18.

Wildcats Favored At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Abilene Christian College will be favored to make it three San Angelo Relays titles in a row next Friday and Saturday.

ACC has won team titles in three major outdoor meets this spring.

In addition to the defending champs, the University Division has Texas, SMU, Texas Tech, TCU, Texas A&M, and North Texas.

Two high school divisions complete the relays field, 20 high schools in Division I of AAAA and AAA schools and 23 in Division II for AA schools and below.

The big school field has Abilene High, Abilene Cooper, Andrews, Big Spring, Del Rio, Levelland, Lubbock High, Lubbock Monterey, Midland, Odessa, San Angelo Central, San Angelo Lake View, Vernon and others.

Injured Fighter Clings To Life

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Davey Moore's chances for survival are still very much less than 50-50, a team of doctors told newsmen Saturday.

While Moore, 29, an ex-leafweight champion, clung to life in a nearby room, three specialists met with newsmen at White Memorial Hospital and gave these opinions:

1. It appeared that the damage to the boxer's brain stem resulted from a fall rather than a punch or even a series of punches.

2. A bruise to the brain does not swell immediately, and this could explain why Moore didn't lose consciousness for nearly an hour Thursday night after his 10th-round knockout by Sugar Ramos, the new featherweight champion.

3. Surgery was not performed because there was no hemorrhage that necessitated an operation. Even if surgery had been indicated, Moore's condition was so precarious that none of the con-

"They will be invited by letter to take polygraph tests, to be administered by the same man who will be an expert," Cook said.

Bonus Pitcher Shines But KC Trips Detroit

By The Associated Press

Bill Faul, a rookie right-hander who defies superstition but pitches with the aid of hypnosis, worked eight sparkling innings for Detroit Saturday before Kansas City brought him back to Detroit.

The A's ran in all their runs in the ninth in a 3-2 victory over the Tigers at Lakeland, Fla. after Faul had shut out Kansas City on three hits over the first eight innings.

Faul, a bonus rookie from the University of Cincinnati who wears No. 13 on his uniform, attributed his strong performance to a Friday night session with Dr. Julius Tapert, who teaches the theory of hypnosis at Wayne State University in Detroit.

Tapert hypnotized him, Faul said.

"He suggested to me to relax out on the mound," Faul explained. "He told me that I could get my breaking pitches over the plate when I was behind the batter even by a 3-0 count. I tried it and it worked."

Meanwhile, Houston snapped the Los Angeles Angels' eight-game exhibition victory streak with an 11-2 victory at Las Vegas, Nev.

In other day games, the Chicago White Sox broke St. Louis' four-game winning streak 4-2 at St. Petersburg, Washington edged Pittsburgh 2-1 at Fort Myers, Cincinnati blanked Milwaukee 1-0 at Tampa, Minnesota beat Philadelphia 7-3 at Clearwater, Cleveland topped San Francisco 4-2 at Tucson and the Chicago Cubs fought off Boston 7-6 at Mesa.

The Los Angeles Dodgers played the New York Yankees at Fort Lauderdale and the New York Mets were matched against Baltimore at Miami in night games.

Faul had a 2-0 lead going into the ninth, then weakened and allowed lead-off singles to Dick Howser and Hector Martinez. He was lifted for Terry Fox, who gave up the winning runs.

Asked why hypnosis apparently failed him after eight innings, Faul said:

Horton Sets Two Records

SWEETWATER—Abilene schools' sweet team championships in the Sweetwater Junior High School track and field meet here Saturday afternoon.

Abilene Franklin supplied both the seventh and ninth grade champions while Abilene Mann fielded the top team in the eighth grade division.

Big Spring Goliad scored 12 points in the eighth grade division and five points in the ninth grade class.

Kirby Horton, Goliad eighth grader, set records in both the discus throw and shot put. He heaved the discus 142 feet 7 inches and the shot put 46 feet.

Goliad had the misfortune of dropping the baton in both the 440 and 880-yard relay races in the eighth grade division.

In the ninth grade class, Terry Smith of Goliad won second place in the high jump. He went out at 5-feet-3. His teammate, Harold Newton, was third in the same event. He missed at 5-2.

David Sparkman of the Goliad team was third in the eighth grade 50-yard dash.

Queens Grab H-SU Crown

ABILENE — HCJC's Jayhawk Queens won their fourth straight H-SU Girls' Volleyball Tournament championship by defeating the host team in the finals, 14-10, 8-13, 11-9, here Saturday.

The last game was determined in overtime.

Earlier, the Queens had defeated McMurtry, 15-0, 15-2, and Wayland Baptist, 15-3, 15-7, in that order.

ACC won consolation honors, defeating San Angelo College in the finals.

Janice Hudson, Marilyn McReavy and Anita Thompson of the HCJC team were named to the all-tournament squad.

Others who performed for HCJC included Carol Bohannon, Pat Saunders, Elaine Patterson, Tanya Boatright, Mary Wilson and Ann Klepper.

Bobcats Defeat Killeen, 3-0

Draw In Garden

SIKES FIRES 67

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dan Sikes fired the hottest round of the $50,000 Doral Open—a 5-under-par 67—Saturday and jumped from sixth place into a third-round deadlock for the lead with Paul Harney and Sam Snead at 213.

The former national public links champion from Jacksonville, Fla., seeking his first victory on the golf tour, showed deadly accuracy with his approach shots. Sikes missed only two greens and he turned one of those mistakes into a birdie by chipping in from 90 feet out.

The 50-year-old Snead and Harney, who shared the lead at the end of Friday's second round, barely stood off the late challenge of Sikes on the tough, 7,028-yard course with its light fairways and yawning sand and water traps. They each had to settle for 73.

High winds have made the course even more difficult and such golfers as Gary Player and

Loyola Unseats Cincy In NCAA Cage Finals

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Incredible Loyola of Chicago won the National Collegiate Basketball Championship Saturday night, defeating two-time champion Cincinnati 60-58 on a tip-in by Vic Rouse with one second to go in an overtime.

In becoming the first at-large team to win an NCAA title in 13 years, George Ireland's remarkable Ramblers overcame a 15-point second half deficit, caught the top-rated Bearcats at the wire on a jump shot by All-America Jerry Harkness, then sealed the heights of college basketball when the 6-foot-6 Rouse came up with a perfect follow to a 10-foot jump shot by Les Hunter.

Another sellout crowd of 19,153 that sat on its hands during a ragged third place game won by Duke over Oregon State 85-63 roared throughout the grueling, never-give-an-inch title battle between two tremendous teams.

Loyola, third-ranked nationally and playing in the NCAA for the first time, got the impetus it needed when Cincinnati decided to sit on a 15-point lead with 11 minutes, 45 seconds remaining.

The Bearcats of Ed Jucker, seeking an unprecedented third straight championship, slowed things down so much that they scored only two field goals in the last 14 minutes of regulation play. With Harkness steadily peppering away after a gradual first half, Loyola miserably cut into what looked like a safe lead.

With 4:29 remaining, Harkness hit his first field goal and his fourth and fifth points of the game. He wound up with 14 points over-all.

Cincinnati, losing only its seventh game in 89 games played under Jucker in three years, still had a three-point lead at 53-50 with 45 seconds left in regulation time, and was two points ahead when little Larry Shingleton sank the first free throw on a one-and-one bonus situation with 12 seconds to go.

But Shingleton missed the second. The leaping Ramblers grabbed the rebound and Harkness flew down the court, left fly from the side about 10 feet from the basket and got Loyola even for the first time since the first 3 minutes of the game.

In the overtime, Harkness grabbed the ball on the tip-off and streaked in for an easy shot for a 56-54 Loyola lead. Cincinnati's George Wilson tied it at 56-56 with a twisting, close-in shot. With 3 minutes left, Ron Miller's 25-foot jump shot put Loyola two points ahead again.

Tom Thacker fed Shingleton a court-length pass against a Loyola pressing defense for a layup with 2:15 showing on the clock and it was 58-51.

Loyola, winding up with a 29-2 record, tried to control the ball for one final shot but Shingleton forced a jump ball against John Egan at 1:21 and it came down to which of the two 5-10 guys—the smallest men on a court of bounding, leaping kids — could control the tip.

It turned out to be Loyola, Miller grabbing the ball in a race with Tony Yates and the Ramblers stalled out until Hunter's final shot and Rouse's tremendous leap and tip-in.

Loyola, the nation's top scoring team with a 92.9 average, wasn't able to get its famed fast break going against Cincinnati until the late stages.

Player of The Year Art Heyman closed out his Blue Devil career with 22 points as Duke captured third place in the championships.

The 22 points in the opener enabled Heyman, a 6-foot-5, 205-pounder from Rockville-Centre, N.Y., to finish with a record Duke career total of 1,984 points.

Dick Groat, now shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals, scored 1,886 points for Duke in a career that ended in 1952.

Heyman, who didn't have one of his better shooting nights, showed his versatility with some remarkable passing that set up Hank Tison, Jeff Mullins and Jay Buckley for easy baskets.

The Duke great also came up with the play of the ragged game, scoring an easy layup in the second half after bouncing the ball through an Oregon State defender's legs and grabbing it on the other side without once breaking stride.

Carr Shatters Record Again

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Henry Carr of Arizona State University shattered the world's record for the 220-yard dash Saturday night with an amazing time of 20.3, the second time in as many meets he has bettered the official mark.

Carr's fantastic showing came in a triangular meet with the University of Southern California,

Shales May Be Next Petroleum Source

By JOE BEYER
The drillbit has made oil plentiful. First shallow fields were exploited. As the rotary drill made deeper pools of the precious hydrocarbon available, potential sources of oil became even more extensive.

Today, with an estimated 31 billion barrels of proved reserves in the United States, there is little worry about running out of oil in the immediate future. Rather, increased drilling in hitherto unexplored areas has poured oil on the markets in quantities undreamed of before the turn of the century.

COMPETITION
Oilmen are more afraid of competition from other sources than that the supply will run out. Wise men in the industry, however, are already preparing to close the gap when the day arrives that new supply from conventional sources begins to falter behind demand.

They are again reverting to the more primitive sources of oil. Plans are under way to tap the vast reserves of the Athabasca tar sands in Canada. Only this weekend the Bureau of Mines reported that it is turning more research to methods to turn oil shale deposits in the United States into a source of petroleum.

With known reserves dwindling in Canada, the Alberta government has granted permission for four major groups to launch multi-million dollar projects for exploiting the Athabasca deposits.

Shell Oil Company has plans to start producing about 47 million barrels of the tar oil annually by 1966, with production to reach 100,000 barrels a day in 1971. The Shell investment will be about $260 million.

EXTRACTION
Great Canadian Oil Sands, Ltd. was given permission to begin a $124 million project to extract 31,500 barrels of the crude oil daily by 1966. A $360 million venture by Cities Service, Imperial, Richfield and Royalty was approved in January. These companies expect to be producing 100,000 barrels daily by 1970. Can-Amera is the fourth company.

Methods proposed for extraction include surface mining, hot water injection, dilution and use of centrifugal force.

The Alberta Conservation Board has estimated that the tar sands contain 550 million barrels of potential reserves, of which about 80 per cent can be recovered, or some 440 million barrels.

Many parts of the world, including the United States, have shale deposits containing organic matter which can be heated to yield crude petroleum. Such shales of the coaly varieties, were used to obtain the original kerosene, or coal oil, as it was called.

Major deposits in the United States are in the Uinta Basin in northern Utah and northwestern Colorado and in Wyoming, although many states contain lesser deposits. Many of the Utah and Colorado deposits, in the Green River formation of early Tertiary age, lie exposed or so near the surface that they can be mined.

MANY BARRELS
It has been estimated that the Utah portion of the basin contains enough shale to produce 42.8 billion barrels of crude oil and the Colorado portion holds another 20 billion barrels.

Interest in the potential of the shales has risen from time to time, but no continued effort has been made to recover the oils. This source was put out of business by the discovery of a better source obtainable from drilling. Once again interest in the potential of the shale is rising.

The Bureau of Mines is currently considering several proposals from private organizations for reopening the government's experimental oil shale plant at Rifle, Colo., Marling Ankeny, director of the bureau, recently told a House Appropriations subcommittee. He testified that research at Laramie, Wyo., has increased to develop better retorting techniques and to evaluate more precisely the potential of oil shale as a source of chemical raw materials.

OTHER PRODUCTS
In addition to yielding primitive oils, the shale beds have a high content of ammonium sulphate. The Uinta Basin deposits are believed to contain more than 800 million tons of the product. The residues after oil is taken out might well yield other valuable products which could help offset the high cost of acquiring the oil.

An even more radical source of petroleum was explored intensively before World War II, although not much has been published on the matter in recent years. Grass, leaves, seaweed, wood, molasses and corn stalks were changed to oil and oil in experimental projects at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1940.

In two hours scientists accomplished what nature has taken millions of years doing. The grass oils were said to make good grade gasoline. Cost of the process, however, was not low enough to compete with coal and oil in America. The largest cost was in transporting the raw materials. Any vegetable matter was found to be satisfactory.

The raw materials were heated under pressure with limestone and other similar components. Heat and pressure abolished time and the scientists could make coal or oil, as they chose.

Hiltner resorted to this source when his oil supply dwindled as the war progressed.

These sources have to date not been able to compete with the oil industry. However, when supply becomes critical and the American businessman turns his ingenuity to this field, few would bet that he will not make them competitive.

Active Rigs Take Another Step Higher

MIDLAND — The Friday count of active rotary drilling rigs in the Permian Basin Empire listed 234 working units. This was an increase of eight from the total of 226 credited to the West Texas-Southeast New Mexico region last week.

Through an error in field reports, last Friday's total was carried as 235 active rigs. This came about when the figure for Schleicher County was shown as 11. It should have been two.

The total on the latest week survey was 15 under the 249 active units listed on the same date last year.

Lea County, N. M., with 51 working rigs, again leads the list. This was up three from 48 a week earlier.

Ector and Pecos Counties tied in second place with 18 each on the Friday tabulation.

The count for rotary rigs actually making hole in the United States Monday, as reported to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company, showed a total of 1,375 rigs in action. The figure is down 10 from the week ended March 11, and down 246 from the 1,621 of last year at this time.

Texas, including offshore rigs, had 498 units in operation, down by seven from the previous week and 87 below a year ago.

The county-by-county survey in Texas, with previous total in parenthesis, includes: BORDEN 3, (1); Chaves 1, (0); Cochran 1, (1); Coke 1, (2); Concho 0, (1); Crane 9, (8); Crockett 2, (3); Custer 2, (2); DAWSON 6, (5); Dickens 1, (0); Ector 18, (16); Eddy 7, (7); Fisher 1, (2); Gaines 12, (12); Hockley 4, (4); HOWARD 3, (2); Huddspeth 1, (1); Kent 0, (1); Lea 51, 48; Loving 2, (2); Lubbock 0, (1); MARTIN 1, (1); Menard 1, (0); Midland 5, (7); MITCHELL 0, (2); Nolan 4, (4); Pecos 18, (21); Reagan 2, (0); Reeves 3, (4); Roosevelt 6, (4); Runnels 5, (6); Schleicher 3, (2); Scurry 3, (2); STERLING 1, (2); Stonewall 6, (5); Terrell 4, (4); Terry 2, (1); Tom Green 3, (2); Upton 9, (9); Ward 3, (4); Winkler 7, (7); Yoakum 8, (7);

Italy To Buy On Both Sides

ROME (AP)—Italy's state-controlled oil company, Ente Nazionale Idrocarburi (ENI), appears to be planning to continue its oil deals with Russia despite a new accord with Standard Oil of New Jersey.

A spokesman said Saturday an official of one of the firm's affiliates had returned from Moscow a few days ago after "normal contacts."

Published reports said he was in Russia to discuss buying oil after a current ENI-Soviet contract expires in 1965.

Italian newspapers also printed an Italian News Agency story saying the ENI-Eso deal was "strictly commercial," and did "not compromise ENI's liberty in commercial policy." The implication was that ENI still considered itself free to buy in Russia.

Standard Oil said it and ENI had signed new contracts for the sale of crude petroleum to the Italian firm. Administration officials in Washington hailed the accord, noting that ENI had been buying substantial quantities of crude from Russia.

ENI and its founder, Enrico Mattei, who died in a plane crash last year, frequently had been criticized in the West for buying oil in Russia. Western oil circles claimed Italy was accepting the Russian crude at dumping prices that harmed the West's economy. Mattei asserted he was simply providing Italy with oil at the cheapest prices.

'Peep At The Deep' Meeting Scheduled

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—Earth scientists meet next week for a "peep at the deep."

They will devote four days to an exchange of information on prospects for discovery of new oil and gas reserves at depths beyond 15,000 and 20,000 feet.

The deeper basins of the world will dominate the discussions as 4,000 petroleum geologists, economic paleontologists and mineralogists, and exploration geophysicists begin their annual meeting Monday.

The convention's "peep deep" theme includes technical papers ranging from offshore explorations to a progress report on Project Mohole's long range objective of drilling through the earth's crust with a string of pipe 30,000 to 35,000 feet in length.

The earth probes have placed emphasis on the deeper basins in that there is indication the bulk of the new oil and gas reserves required for meeting anticipated demand growth the next 25 to 35 years will come from deep reservoirs.

Domestic drilling operations have declined sharply since 1956 but the average depth of all wells drilled has increased steadily the past four decades.

The deepest oil production in the 1920s was at 8,500 feet. This record was pushed to 13,200 feet in the 1930s, to 15,530 in the 1940s, and to 21,400 in the 1950s.

Although concentrating on the current emphasis on the ever deeper probing of the earth's crust, the scientists also will receive reports on economic trends, federal regulation, and the space age.

A lawyer will speak on natural gas regulation in the future. "Gas regulation by the Federal Newcomer Greeting Service" will be the topic.

Stockholders of Zapata Petroleum Corp. and Stetco Petroleum Corp. into South Penn Oil Co. has been reached.

Terms are subject to revision and final action by directors and stockholders of each company. Zapata stockholders would get one share of South Penn common stock for each four shares of Zapata stock.

Stockholders of Stetco Petroleum would receive one share of South Penn stock for each seven shares.

Zapata Petroleum of Midland operates primarily in Texas, New Mexico, South Dakota and Oklahoma. Through Zapata Canadian Petroleum Corp., owned jointly with South Penn, it operates in west Canada.

Stetco Petroleum of Midland has producing and non-producing oil and gas interests in Texas, New Mexico and Canada.

Consulting engineers estimated combined net proven reserves Dec. 31 Zapata and Stetco were 11,709,590 barrels of oil and 106 billion cubic feet of gas.

South Penn of Oil City, Pa., will be the continuing company. It markets "Pennsol" products and is an important oil producer and refiner in the Appalachian area.

Merger Plan In Agreement

MIDLAND — Agreement in principle on the merger of Zapata Petroleum Corp. and Stetco Petroleum Corp. into South Penn Oil Co. has been reached.

Terms are subject to revision and final action by directors and stockholders of each company.

Zapata stockholders would get one share of South Penn common stock for each four shares of Zapata stock.

Stockholders of Stetco Petroleum would receive one share of South Penn stock for each seven shares.

Zapata Petroleum of Midland operates primarily in Texas, New Mexico, South Dakota and Oklahoma. Through Zapata Canadian Petroleum Corp., owned jointly with South Penn, it operates in west Canada.

Stetco Petroleum of Midland has producing and non-producing oil and gas interests in Texas, New Mexico and Canada.

Consulting engineers estimated combined net proven reserves Dec. 31 Zapata and Stetco were 11,709,590 barrels of oil and 106 billion cubic feet of gas.

South Penn of Oil City, Pa., will be the continuing company. It markets "Pennsol" products and is an important oil producer and refiner in the Appalachian area.

NPRA Plans Meet In San Antonio

Rexford S. Blazer, Ashland Oil and Refining Co., will be principal speaker at the second annual meeting of the National Petroleum Refiners Association which convenes in San Antonio April 1-3.

The meeting will include several technical sessions, an asphalt symposium, a session on transportation and other meetings. Ben Ramsey, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, will address the transportation session.

Power Commission pretty well determines the gas development program in this section of the United States," explained Henry McQueen, technical program chairman for the convention's section on geology.

Basin Roundup Devonian Yields Gas Discovery

A Devonian gas discovery has been reported in Northeast Pecos County at United States Smelting, Refining & Mining Company and David Craven of Midland No. 1-A Cole.

It finalized for a calculated, absolute open flow of 950,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day from perforations at 4,996-5,024 feet. Top of the Devonian was called at 4,990 on ground elevation 2,379 feet.

The venture was drilled to 5,858 feet, cemented 5 1/2-inch casing to bottom and tested the Fusselman through perforations at 5,454 feet with no results reported.

It is a northeast offset to the dual upper and lower Fusselman oil discovery of the Southeast Abell field, 1,980 feet from north-west and southwest lines of section 19, block 2, H&TC survey and four miles southeast of Imperial.

Locations have been spotted for two new projects in Midland County.

Texas Gulf Producing Company will drill No. 37-7 Headlee (Devonian) Unit in the Headlee (Devonian) pool of West Midland to 12,500 feet. It is six miles southwest of Midland Air Terminal.

The location is 2,150 feet from south and 2,180 feet from east lines of section 33, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Twelve miles east of Midland and in the northeast sector of the county, Coastal States Gas Producing Company plans to drill No. 2-A, Fasken Estate to 8,400 feet.

It is in the Spraberry Trend Area and 990 feet from south and 2,016 feet from west lines of section 14, block 37, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Conoco Builds Gasoline Plant

FORT WORTH — Continental Oil Company has completed a $1 million natural gasoline plant about four miles south of Maljamar, N.M.

The plant has a processing capacity of 26 million cubic feet of gas daily. It will manufacture propane, butane and natural gasoline, according to Roy M. Mays, Fort Worth, southern region general manager. It replaces an old gas treating and processing unit which had a daily capacity of 20 million cubic feet.

The new plant will extract liquid hydrocarbons from gas originating primarily in the Maljamar field. It was constructed by R. L. Frailey, Inc., Perry, Okla.

Commission Lists New Completions

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Saturday 225 oil and 82 gas wells were completed during the week.

The oil well total for the year is 2,076, compared to 2,296 in 1962. The 557 gas wells this year compared to 751.

Six wildcat oil wells were reported and 139 wells were plugged, 99 of them dry holes. The total average calendar day allowable was 2,836,507, an increase of 4,364.

First Lady Pitches In

The wife of Wisconsin's governor, John W. Reynolds, shows she knows how to push a vacuum cleaner if the need arises. The need came when three domestic employes of the 19-room executive mansion in Madison resigned. New help has been assured and the state's first lady said, wearily, that she's grateful. The governor and Mrs. Reynolds have three small children.

Texas, New York To Get TFX Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas and New York will reap the major benefits of Defense Department spending in the initial phase of the $6.5-billion TFX warplane program.

Of the $942-million cost over the next five years for production of 23 prototypes, a responsible government official said Saturday 40 per cent would be spent in Texas and 25 per cent in New York.

Of the total amount, 7 per cent would be spent in California and 6 per cent each in Connecticut and Missouri. The remaining 16 per cent would be scattered to contractors in other states.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's decision to let the contract for the multipurpose, all-weather fighter-bomber to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., has been brought under fire before the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

PROBE POINT

McClellan has said the group is investigating whether there was favoritism or poor judgment in rejecting a competing bid by the Boeing Co., Seattle, Wash. Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester was verbally spanked by the subcommittee for saying that "You will hardly get a judicial rendering by a committee in which there are various senators with state self-interest in where the contract goes."

While President Kennedy observed that "this contract involves a large amount of money and naturally some people would prefer it to go to another place than the place which the secretary chose," most subcommittee members have skirted the political implications involved.

However, without providing an answer, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., a member, posed the question: "Was the contract awarded to General Dynamics - Grumman rather than to Boeing on the merits of the issue involved — or was the motivation political?"

HASTY PRAISE

He hastened to praise McNamara's "formidable reputation for honesty and integrity, hard-headed objectivity and decisiveness."

Disclosure of how the spending will be allocated under the pilot contract for the TFX—the Pentagon's designation meaning tactical fighter, experimental—indicated New York would get the first flush of the defense money—with its attendant boost in employment—this year and in 1964.

New York has two Republican senators and in Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller a potential GOP opponent for Kennedy next year. The understanding is that if General Dynamics gets the remainder of the first-phase contracts—it has only the $24-million initial award so far—Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. in New York will do a major share of the initial research and development work.

This would mean that heavy expenditures in Texas would have to await completion of the preliminary work. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is a Texan and the state has one Democratic and one Republican senator.

Government statisticians have come up with figures they say indicate that Washington State, the headquarters of Boeing, has not fared badly in defense contracts. They figure that in 1962 outlays there totaled $322 per person, on a population basis.

ASKED INQUIRY

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a subcommittee member requested the TFX inquiry. He is expected to seek re-election next year.

Comparable figures for other states, based on population, showed these defense expenditures: California $381 per person, Massachusetts $254, New Jersey $175, New York $158, Ohio $109, Texas $104 and Pennsylvania $84.

Soothing action by Kennedy and a stinging lecture to McNamara and Deputy Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric by McClellan appeared to have muffled some of the sniping in the fight between the subcommittee and the Pentagon.

Gilpatric, testifying before the subcommittee, denied he told newsmen Jackson and McClellan had led him to believe the investigation was to be merely a face saving affair for Jackson — just enough to make it seem Jackson had "done his duty" for constituents.

'Copters Called For Bali Rescue

DENPASAR, Bali (AP)—Island authorities called urgently Saturday for helicopters to rescue people pocketed by lava from Mt. Agung, and for rice to feed refugees who have already escaped the molten streams.

Gov. Anak Agung Sutedja said the death toll may reach 1,500. Known deaths from the eruption of tongues of lava and clouds of 230-degree ash from the 10,300-foot peak that started late Sunday stood at 1,264.

"Many are still missing," the governor said, "I am afraid we will never see a lot of them."

The appeals for rice and helicopters were directed to Indonesian government authorities in neighboring Java by a special committee coordinating rescue and relief work.

There was no indication here whether or when the requests could be met.

Radio Denpasar appealed to the Balinese to take victims of the eruption into their homes and feed them. Many refugees have already won havens in this manner, for hospitality and village-to-village family ties are traditional among the Balinese.

The governor said the American community in Surabaya, East Java, has contributed about $3,500 for medical aid.

Judge Smacks Horner's Nest Of Dog Lovers

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — "You can send a fellow to the gas chamber and nobody hollers," Municipal Judge Leonard A. Thomas mused today, "but just touch a dog and..."

He held up a fistful of letters from across the country berating him because a dog was "de-barked."

The judge pleaded innocent. The de-barking operation was done before the case ever got into court.

But he's receiving letters asking "Were you ever human?" and advising him to "ask forgiveness for what you have done and what you are planning to do."

The dog whose barkless future stirred the wrath of dog lovers from as far away as South Portland, Maine, is a beagle named Falstaff, who loves to chase rabbits and deer in the Marin County hills. His owner had a vocal cord operation performed on Falstaff last November to silence complaints about Falstaff's "howling horrendous tone."

The "de-barking" operation was performed long before the case came into court. Judge Thomas had nothing to do with it and the first he heard of the operation was when the owner told about it in court March 15.

"I thought I rendered a kind of Solomon-like decision," Judge Thomas recalled. "We'll find the fellow guilty and let him take care of the situation himself."

The judge ordered Allen B. Murray, 30, Kentfield insurance man, to keep Falstaff from roaming and disturbing others.

"I've never done anything to harm a dog," the judge said. "I love dogs. I have had dogs all my life."

Right now it's a "most lovable McNab sheppard," a favored pet of the judge's three children.

Highway Toll

AUSTIN (AP)—State police said Saturday 420 persons have died on Texas highways this year, compared to 375 last year.

Brazil Decides Castro Meet May Be Held

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brazil has decided the Communists may hold a pro-Castro congress there if they want to. And the United States has decided to hold off on an announcement of heavy financial help to Brazil.

Word from the White House of about $500 million in U.S. credit to Brazil was expected Friday at the conclusion of negotiations with Francisco San Tiago Dantas, Brazilian finance minister.

But the announcement—and a scheduled meeting between San Tiago Dantas and President Kennedy—never came off. The meeting was postponed to Monday. A news conference at the Brazilian Embassy was canceled. So was a planned State Department report on the progress of the U.S.-Brazil money talks.

In Rio de Janeiro, at the same time, the press secretary to President Joao Goulart was explaining that Brazil will neither help nor hinder a Cuban Solidarity Congress opening in Sao Paulo next Thursday. Brazil's constitution, said Press Secretary Paul Ruff, guarantees the right of peaceful assembly.

There were indications in Washington that the Communist meeting might bring about congressional demands that the Kennedy administration shut off aid to Brazil.

AN OPEN LETTER OF VITAL INTEREST TO ALL HOMEOWNERS...

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Homeowner:

You have undoubtedly read local newspaper accounts of the Treasury Department's recent recommendation to the Congress for sweeping changes in our Federal Income Tax Law.

As a Homeowner, you will be adversely affected by one change which, if approved by the Congress, will take away your present right to deduct all of certain expenses in computing your net income for tax purposes.

- These expenses which are now FULLY deductible are:
- interest payments on your home mortgage
  - real property taxes
  - interest charges on consumer installment purchases and personal loans
  - contributions to your church and to charities
  - miscellaneous state and local taxes

Please note again that these expenses are now fully deductible. The Treasury is asking Congress to change this to permit deductions only to the extent that they exceed 5% of your income. Thus if your taxable income is $8,000 and you have $1,400 in deductions, you will be permitted to deduct only $1,000. Under present law you could deduct the entire $1,400.

This proposal would affect all taxpayers but in particular would favor the man who does not own his home at the expense of the man who is trying to pay for a home and has incurred heavy mortgage expenses. It would also favor the man who contributes little if anything to his church or to the charities, at the expense of the man who is liberal with such worthwhile contributions.

The Congressmen from this area will have a limited amount of time to express opposition if they are so inclined, by personal appearance before the House Ways and Means Committee. If you value your tax right, we urge you to write or wire any or all of the Congressmen from this area. Ask them to express their opposition before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Send your letter, postcard or wire to:
Rep. George Mahon, House office building, Washington 25, D.C.

This Letter is Presented As A Public Service By The Following Realtors

- Robert J. Cook                      E. P. Driver                      George W. Elliott
Mrs. W. D. McDonald              Marie Rowland                  Roy Reeder
W. J. Sheppard                      Harold G. Talbot                  Helen Shelly

Warning Plans For Tornado Alerts Listed

Howard County has been divided into districts for distribution of mobil radio units in the event of a severe tornado or disaster alert. W. D. Berry, Civil Defense director, told a group of newsmen, police, sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen, and amateur radio operators, of the new plan Saturday morning.

The meeting was called to explain the methods of warning citizens of tornadoes.

"We have enough radio units now, including all Civil Defense, police, sheriff, and department of public safety units, to cover the whole county efficiently," Berry said. "We plan to follow the old method of warning. The Big Spring Police Department should be called by any person reporting a tornado in the area. All news media will be notified that an unconfirmed report has been made. When the report is confirmed, a warning signal will be given over sirens and by whistles at the VA and State hospitals. These will come in three one-minute blasts at one minute intervals. All radio stations will be asked to give out information about reports."

News media will be given information regarding the location of the funnel, its direction of travel, and any damage reported.

"All persons should take precautionary measures when a confirmed report is given," Berry said. "We hope telephone lines to the police and to the radio stations will remain open for emergency use. During last year's reports, lines were so clogged that information could not get through."

Would Give Eyes To Bank

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Richard J. Hughes has reported he would like his eyes given to an eyebank after death.

He told a news conference that some members of his family also hope to will their eyes.

The governor praised an assembly bill which would clear away some of the legal obstacles in the way of a person wishing to leave his eyes for transplantation.

"It is a very good, wise and merciful bill," Hughes said. "I personally want to leave my eyes," he said, "although one of them is not so good."

Two Candidates Seek Write-Ins

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Two new entries have been made in the Glasscock County School trustee election set April 6, according to B. L. Murphy, superintendent.

Edwin Bednar and D. A. Penney are seeking election as write-in candidates. The incumbents, who filed before deadline March 6, are D. D. Dobbs, Sidney Hirt and James Richard Currie.

Science-Politics Unity Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has called on scientists and politicians to quit eyeing each other with distrust for the sake of the nation's future in space.

That future, and with it America's place as a world leader, depends on "both mutual understanding and mutual trust, as well as mutual comprehension, between the community of technology and the community of public affairs," Johnson said Friday night.

He strongly defended the U.S. space program—and the cost involved—but said scientists have no one but themselves to blame if they fail to explain to the nation and Congress why they need the money.

Johnson spoke at the annual Goddard Memorial Dinner of the Washington chapter of the National Rocket Club. He presented the Goddard Trophy for missile, space flight and rocket achievements in the past year to astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

The trophy is named for the late Robert H. Goddard, called "the father of American rocketry."

The vice president said many scientists, concerned with time tables and a seemingly chronic shortage of funds, think "that nobody is more parochial, narrow and short-sighted than politicians."

"Many politicians, worried about steadily mounting expenditures for programs they don't understand, hold the same view of scientists," he said.

Airman Held In Tucson Slaying Admits Another

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — An airman held Saturday in the slaying of a prominent Tucson woman admitted another murder.

Sheriff Waldon Burr said Marvin Leslie Davis, 27, stationed at Davis - Monthan AFB here, admitted the icepick slaying of Mrs. Pauline Saxon, 62, Oct. 2.

A part-time salesman and father of three, Davis already is charged with murder in the strangulation Wednesday of Mrs. Lucille Betten, 50.

Davis, a native of Gainesville, Tex., admitted strangling Mrs. Betten in her home after trying to rape her. Mrs. Betten had admitted Davis to her home when he offered to show sample wares of merchandise he was selling.

Mrs. Saxon, who died two days after being choked and stabbed with the icepick, gave a description of her killer which closely tallied with Davis. Davis denied any knowledge of that crime on Friday.

This Saturday morning he started telling us in detail about the inside of Mrs. Saxon's home, including her sewing machine," Burr said.

"Then he told us he killed her with an ice pick and threw it away."

A woman's intuition led to Davis' capture about 12 hours after Mrs. Betten's body was found Wednesday. The sheriff said a woman saw the airman driving his car a few blocks from the scene and for an unexplainable reason, was suspicious of his actions.

The woman phoned the sheriff and reported the license number.

This map locates the five countries which are to be brought together under British protection by Aug. 31 to form Malaysia, and far-ranging Indonesia, into which West New Guinea will be brought May 1. Under the Malaysia plan, Malaysia, Singapore and the Borneo territories of Sarawak, Brunei and North Borneo will join in federation, under the British Commonwealth but each retaining its independence.

Cold War Off Southeast Asia

AND THE REDS COME ELBOWING IN Ambitious Indonesia Looks Angrily On Malaysian Plan

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — "Malaysia!" Indonesian President Sukarno, shaking his gold-tipped swager stick, virtually spat out the word at a function in his Jakarta palace.

The word touches off contempt, distrust and fear within the ranks of Indonesia's ruling elite.

On the surface Indonesia's bitter opposition to the proposed Malaysia Federation under Malayan leadership seems little more than a nasty regional quarrel.

But elbowing in from the sidelines are the Communists, who could be the winners if the cold war between Jakarta and Kuala Lumpur turns hot.

A sure loser would be the Indonesian people with their poverty. Some signs in recent days are that Jakarta, which has taken most of the initiative in the war of words, may be ready to turn the heat off or at least down.

But seasoned observers argue that Indonesians are subtle masters at switching from bitter denunciations to sweet reasonableness and back again. Indonesians have been sufficiently vague so it is practically impossible to say with precision what they object to and what their terms are for a peaceful solution.

Under the Malaysia plan, Malaya, Singapore and the Borneo territories of Sarawak, Brunei and North Borneo are to be brought together by Aug. 31 for a strong anti-Communist buffer stretching across the South China Sea. All the proposed partners are, or were, British colonies. Britain is backing the federation scheme and will guarantee its defense.

Indonesia has denounced the plan as a threat to Indonesian security.

Indonesia has 100 million persons. Malaysia would have 10 million.

Jakarta views the Malaysia plan as a British plot to maintain economic and political interests in Southeast Asia. Indonesia's leaders, who came to power after a bitter revolt against Dutch colonial rule, are contemptuous of independence handed down rather than seized by the people.

There is also fear in Jakarta that Malaysia's prosperity may act as a magnet for nearby Sumatra, whose reserves of oil and other resources make it the wealthiest island in the Indonesian archipelago. Sumatra has made one abortive attempt to throw off Jakarta's rule. It has strong historical, cultural and religious ties with Malaya.

The strongly anti-Communist Philippines, which claims British North Borneo, has moved closer to Indonesia because of the Malaysia issue. However, sectors of the Filipino political scene distrust Jakarta's possible ultimate aims in Southeast Asia.

Production Of Camels Up In China

TOKYO (AP) — Production of "ships of the desert" in Communist China has gone up 150 per cent since 1959, says the New China News Agency.

This ship is one of man's oldest means of transport — the camel.

There are 200,000 Bactrian camels in western Inner Mongolia, the agency said. It adds:

Their number was rapidly declining before the Communist takeover, due to shortage of water.

Reservoirs, motor-driven pumping stations, many canals and wells have been built in recent years to tap underground water.

The herds have grown by popularizing artificial insemination and setting up veterinary stations to control diseases.

The camels play a part in short distance transportation and yield soft long hair which is sent to textile factories. Camel milk is made into dairy products, the agency said.

Brotherhood Honors James M. Crawford

The Walter C. Beglau agency of Lutheran Brotherhood, of which James M. Crawford, Big Spring, is a member, has been selected by the fraternal life insurance society as one of its seven leading agencies for 1962. The society has 75 agencies throughout the United States and Canada.

Carl F. Granrud, president of Lutheran Brotherhood, said the Beglau agency, headquartered in Austin, is being honored because of its high ranking in each of six factors, including the volume of new business in 1962 and the percentage of increase over the previous year. The Beglau agency totaled more than $4,150,000 in new business last year, a 52 per cent gain over 1961, Mr. Granrud said.

EASTER SEAL CHILD for Howard County is Donnie Wallace, 6, a cerebral palsy patient at the Howard County Rehabilitation Center. Gradual improvement, particularly in speech, has been noticed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wallace, during the four years of treatment. Braces are secured by Jim Thompson, therapist and director of the center, so that Donnie can work out on the skis, below. Without such treatment, Donnie's condition could become progressively worse. Thompson shows Donnie how to fall, top right.

A spinal cord deformity that would have caused paralysis was corrected with surgery, and now Fields is receiving exercise and gait training to regain the use of his legs. His treatment began in a walker on March 6 at the center. Some 30 adult patients are now receiving care at the Howard County Rehabilitation Center.

Their Need Is . . . You! The Cry Of A Bereaved Father

By KATHLEEN DOZIER

Memorial Day 1957 was a tragic day in the town of Elyria, Ohio. A streetcar accident involved a number of the town's youth, returning home from a holiday excursion. Boys and girls died as a result of injuries which could not be properly treated on an emergency level in the community's single hospital. Others were maimed for life, some as a result of inadequate care.

The story could have ended there, but this was when the story of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc. began.

Edgar Allen, prominent Elyria business man, lost his 18-year-old son, David, in the tragedy. Realizing the inadequacy of the local hospital, the bereaved father set about building, re-equipping and staffing a new general hospital. His observation of a crippled boy, a patient in the hospital, made him realize that there was a different need—a need for special care of the crippled.

He began a long life of service by conducting a survey of crippled children in his home county. Then he began to organize Gates Memorial Hospital. This led to a survey of the entire state seeking out the crippled children and making treatment available to them.

By 1921, "Daddy" Allen, as he became known, saw need for a national society and through a group of dedicated volunteers, the National Society for Crippled Children was founded, headed by the founder.

He stimulated the interest of Rotarians in the movement, and they began to organize state societies.

In 1934 the Easter Seals were used for the first time as a means for fund raising.

STATE LEVEL
This year in Texas more than

Plan Open House

Board members of the Howard County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Mrs. Imogene Lloyd, Mayor George Zachariah and Mrs. Rube McNew, visit the Rehabilitation Center, 402 Edwards Blvd., where open house is scheduled this week. Mayor Zachariah is chairman of the board; Mrs. McNew is chairman of the '63 Easter Seal Sale, and Mrs. Lloyd is director of public relations. Jim Thompson, therapist and director of the center, and the board invite the public to visit the center during the coming week.

one million homes have received the blue and green Easter Seals. These sheets of the twin seals will help raise funds to provide direct services for more than 10,000 crippled children and handicapped adults of Texas at the 32 Easter Seal Treatment Centers over the state.

Seals are not sold; no specific donation is asked or expected from those who receive them. The Society feels that each person knows what he is able to give, and being told of the need will respond as generously as possible.

Services provided by these contributions are administered by professional and technical workers, counseled by recognized medical and rehabilitation authorities; and fortified by the dedicated efforts of volunteers.

Enhancement of knowledge and skill is the aim of the Easter Seal professional education program. Through scholarships and fellowships alone, more than 500 persons including doctors, physical, occupational and speech therapists, counselors, and others have received advanced training. Still more persons have received such awards from state and local societies.

Research projects are currently in progress at universities, medical schools and hospitals, searching for a means of alleviation and ways for prevention of crippling.

LOCAL LEVEL
Howard County Rehabilitation Center is the focal point for contributions made by county residents. Here, under the direction of Jim Thompson, services are extended to assist parents, employers, and other persons in understanding and accepting the crippled and in solving problems connected with rehabilitation.

The society began functioning in Big Spring Feb. 23, 1950, under the direction of Shine Philips who served as president. The late Mrs. J. C. Lane, was vice chairman; Thelma Milan, secretary; and the late Mrs. J. T. Brooks, treasurer.

Adults and children, crippled and in need of care, are accepted and given professional help through the generosity of the community. The program reaches out to the crippled who would not otherwise receive attention. It includes all of those crippled from polio, cerebral palsy, injury, etc.; it is not limited to any one form of affliction or illness. Although cerebral palsy is incurable, the ailment can become progressively worse if treatment is neglected. Many mild cases, through treatment, have been rehabilitated to the degree that they can perform well in an occupation. Too, there have been severe cases trained to care for themselves so that another person can be employed.

Others are helped so that they can return to the job much quicker and with better results.

FIGURES REPORTED

Federal surveys show that the total over-all cost of rehabilitation is only 90 per cent of the cost of maintaining a disabled person for just one year at public expense. There are 8,900,000 crippled persons in the country today; there are more than 2,000,000 disabled persons who need and could benefit from rehabilitation services.

With greater voluntary support, rehabilitation services can be extended to a vastly greater number.

Two hundred canisters for contributions in support of this program have been distributed locally among the places of business. Distribution was made by Girl Scouts under the direction of Mrs. Joe Knight, troop leader.

Ministers' Wives Are Tea Guests

Wives of Baptist Association ministers, Big Spring, were guests Friday afternoon when a tea was given by Mrs. Jack Strickland and Mrs. Curtis Smith at the Strickland home, 710 Tulane. Some 40 guests were received, including the wives of chaplains at Webb Air Force Base.

This was the first such event sponsored by the minister's wife of the Airport Baptist Church.

The tea table, appointed with silver and crystal, was centered with an arrangement of white stock, iris and snapdragons.

Seder Holiday Event Slated

Plans for observing a religious holiday were made at the home of Mrs. Sam Mellinger Wednesday evening by members of the Temple of Israel Sisterhood. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Reha Fisher.

The members agreed to sponsor services for Seder, and to arrange a dinner for members and their families afterward. This will be observed April 8, with dinner to be at 6 p.m. at Coker's Restaurant. Those who are to attend the dinner were asked to call Mrs. A. J. Prager, who will make the reservations before April 5.

Mrs. Robert Frost's program was on Pesach, meaning passover as a remembrance of the final miracle in Egypt, when every first born was destroyed among the Egyptians, but spared were the sons of the Israelites.

Two letters from the book, "Resistance, Rebellion and Death" by Albert Camus, were read by Mrs. Milton Engel. Afterward pictures were shown on how to prepare a table for Seder.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Morris Kressel and Mrs. Vincent Broadwater. Refreshments were served from a table spread with lace over pink linen and centered with a centerpiece of Easter lilies. The door prize was won by Mrs. Phillip Prager, and the next meeting announced for April 24 at the home of Mrs. Fisher.

meetings. The regular time for opening convention activities is 1:30 p.m.

Official Texas Federated Women's Clubs rules, given by Mrs. Ross J. Keller, Galveston, state art division chairman, will be used. A panel of three judges, qualified artists who are not Federated Club women, will judge the exhibit. Signatures will be covered, and the work judged only on merit.

Best of show, a special award, will be decided by Federated clubwomen who visit the exhibit and vote for their favorite. This will give a poll of what club women like best, and will give each clubwoman a chance to express her opinion of art.

Categories will include religious, portrait, still life (pictures which will include animals, birds and fish) and miscellaneous painting on anything unusual.

Number of entries are limited to three pictures to each person, with only one entry in any one category, thus giving a wider range of subjects and more artists a chance to win.

Assisting Mrs. Phillips will be an art show committee from the hostess clubs, Mrs. Sam Zwager, Monahans, of Wednesday Study Club, Mrs. H. M. Williams and Mrs. D. R. Cooper of Nu Gamma, Monahans; Mrs. Lloyd Hawkins of Tau Lambda Club, Monahans; The Flower Pot will furnish wire easels. Mrs. Jack Ammer, manager, is a member of Federated Clubwomen.

Mrs. Robert Orr, Monahans, general convention chairman and Mrs. V. C. Phillips, art show chairman, ask that all artist clubwomen enter their work and visit the show.

Looks Like A Fit

Mr. and Mrs. William Pilcher watch as their children, "Dockie" and Sherrie, make pictures from puzzle pieces. It's the latest fad for the family, which recently moved to Big Spring.

Weekend Dating Got To Be Steady Habit

By JO BRIGHT

In 1952 when William "Doc" Pilcher was stationed with the Army at Ft. Hood he met a pretty girl named Eleanor from Hewitt, Texas. Forty-three consecutive weekends of dating followed before they were married May 17, 1953 in her home town.

Pilcher had been born in Missouri and was reared in Hamilton, Ill., so the plan was to return there with his bride to make a home. He hadn't counted on a prolonged attack of home sickness that overcame his wife. Six months later they moved back to Texas.

In Sherman, Pilcher worked for a marine and sporting goods company until he joined the Gibson organization a year ago. The Pilchers were members of the Friendship Methodist Church where both taught Sunday school for several years. He was a lay leader and a member of the board of stewards. A graduate of North Texas Business College, he was treasurer of the junior chamber of commerce, receiving the Spoke award in Sherman last year. Also, he was an Optimist Club member and chairman for the March of Dimes telethon there.

Mrs. Pilcher was vice president of the Jaycee-ettes and active in the Parent-Teacher Association. She is now vice president of the Big Spring Newcomer's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Pilcher moved here two months ago when he was made assistant manager of Gibson's Discount Center. They live at 3610 Dixon with their children, Sherrie, 8, and William Jr., 6, who is called "Dockie." Sherrie is in the second grade at Marcy School. Her mother said she is creative, and is developing artistic talent.

William Jr. inherited his father's respect for tools. Since he was a year old he has carried his own screwdriver, much to the dismay of his mother.

Not a dime has been spent by the Pilchers for household repairs. "By marrying Doc I also gained an excellent handyman," said Mrs. Pilcher. "We have built three new homes in the past five years, and have spent many hours watching the construction. Because of the difference in vegetation and style for this area, it will be a challenge when we start building a home here soon."

The Pilchers enjoy hobbies that include interior decorating, canasta, sports and reading. They attend the Kentwood Methodist Church.

Fashion Show Is Given For Clubs

STANTON (SC)—Members of the Martin County Home Demonstration Clubs were entertained with a fashion show Friday narrated by Mary Brendem, Maytag Home Economist, in the Willie Wirehand Room of the Cap Rock Electric Co.

Delegates were elected to represent the Martin County HD Clubs when the Home Demonstration Council met Tuesday with Mrs. Lewis Carlie presiding. Gil Jones, district attorney, was the guest speaker when members of the 1948 Hyperion Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. M. Adams.

Jones spoke on district law enforcement procedures. He

Cohostess for the gathering was Mrs. Merle Stewart.

Announcement was made that the annual May Day luncheon will be held on May 9 instead of the date previously set. Also the next meeting will be on April 5 as the regular date would have put the meeting on Good Friday.

Mrs. Jack Burnett gave the devotion and Mrs. Robert Dyer brought a program on Vocation and It's Problems.

Mrs. Burnett will be in charge of the Easter Egg Hunt for children at the Westside Center during the week prior to Easter Sunday.

Nine members attended.

Heart Disease Is Topic Of Dr. Talbot At Club

Dr. Milton W. Talbot was the guest speaker for the 1963 Hypertension Club meeting held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Shine Phillips.

Discussing heart disease, Talbot said that only since 1946 has there been heart research as we know it today which is sponsored by public money, only since then have we had open heart surgery. He said that this type of surgery offered the surgeon a method of attack on the effects of heart disease and enabled him to repair heart difficulty.

According to Dr. Talbot the three greatest heart research centers in the world are located in Texas. They are in Houston, Dallas and Galveston. He said the aim of research is to find out why people have heart disease and their hope is to relieve the worry and fear of heart patients.

Fifteen members were served at a tea table spread with a white linen and lace cloth and centered with a tiered arrangement of Easter eggs and spring flowers.

Mrs. Ben Johnson Jr. presided at the silver service.

Registration will be set up for officers and committee chairmen during the afternoon session.

Preceding the conference on Friday evening, March 29, a dinner will be given by the board of trustees of Lamesa Independent Schools for the board of managers of the 16 district. The dinner will be served at the school.

'Enchanting Evening' Scheduled For April

Another Big Spring Country Club event is on the calendar. "One Enchanting Evening" is scheduled for April 27.

Those giving to the pool project at the club will be eligible for an "enchanting evening" out. The winner will be named April 19 at the club.

The evening will consist of a dinner party for 10 people, with the winner choosing his guests. The party of 10 will be called for and taken to the Truman Jones home for appetizers. The butler for this social period may be a favorite banker, doctor or lawyer, because members of the country club will be helping to stage the evening of entertainment.

From the Jones' residence, the party will be chauffeured to the James Duncan home where the main course will be served with club members in the roles of butlers, maids and chef catering to the whims of the winner and his party.

Afterward the party will be delivered by limousine to the Lester Morton home for dessert and after-dinner coffee. When the party is finished there, the chauffeur will return everyone to the home of the winner—within the city limits—for the end of an "enchanted evening."

By MOLLIE HARTZOG

To all the talk about spring, budding and signs of the season, we would like to add our own method of foretelling the arrival of this most productive time of the year. We have discovered that the truest sign of all comes when watching our own good Dr. Shaffer of the obstetrics department of our Webb hospital. Along with the natural spring-time increase in the workload of that particular part of the hospital, comes the siren call of the golf course at spare moments. This is reflected by the early red stages of sunburn which is now so much in evidence around our medical facility. Although the spare moments are few and far between, it seems to take but one round of golf in the Texas sun to exhibit the red results. We spotted the telltale sign of spring last week and thought how trusty a signal this was.

However it never pays, it seems, to count your chickens, eggs or golf balls too soon and we unhappily made the discovery that our sunburn harbinger had been wrong at Moss Creek Lake. So where do we stand now? Like everyone else, we'll await the sign of the mesquite for springtime. Being indeed!

Thursday morning, March 28, will be the next Hi and Bye coffee sponsored by the OWC and hosted by the student wives for newcomers and departees from both permanent party and student class.

The ward parties given by various groups at the base hospital seem to be quite popular. The first one was hostessed by the student squadron, and acting as charwomen were Mrs. Jim Gehrig, Mrs. Oliver Field, Mrs. Van Robinson and Mrs. H. H. Dahneke. It is to be hoped that enough groups will volunteer that a ward party may be planned for each Wednesday night. The hospital can be rather routine for a convalescing patient, and ward parties seem to be the answer.

Mrs. H. D. Mol, well-remembered for her role in the Big Spring Civic Theater's production of "Marriage - Go - Around" as the Swedish blonde bombshell, will soon be leaving Big Spring. There has been recently a small male addition to the Mol family, and by the time he is able to say "Eskimo" this summer, the Mols will be driving up to Anchorage, Alaska, their new assignment.

Mrs. G. E. Franks displayed some luscious homemade desserts at a get-together for MS and CE wives this past week. Her guests are still talking about the chocolate whipped cream confection, the filled warm pineapple cookies and the loaf cake. They agreed it was nearly as exciting as a tasting tea.

A note of hello has come from Major and Mrs. Herschok and from Captain Terpening and Gini all of whom are former Webb residents and now live in Tampa, Fla. They all exclaim over the difficulty of becoming accustomed to the Southern humidity to be found there and find themselves willing to swap a bunk of humidity for a dab of West Texas dust just for the change.

Some fairly new arrivals at Webb, Maj. and Mrs. Charles Penn have come from Wiesbaden, Germany, where they report they saw something of the Beverly barons. We always will remember Col. Pearson in the TGIF folies sporting sartorial splendor in a vintage 1917 flying suit. He stole the show. Maj. Penn will be the replacement for Maj. Lawrence Casey who retires the end of April.

Society Is Forum Subject

The Modern Woman's Forum met Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. G. W. Parmenter for a program and election of officers. Theme for the study was "The Awareness of World Communism - Our Responsibility." Mrs. W. A. Laswell led the program with a discussion of the John Birch Society. Mrs. M. A. Cook told of the shadow of atomic war. Elected club officers were Mrs. Parmenter, president; Mrs. T. G. Adams, vice president; Mrs. Laswell; second vice president; and Mrs. M. A. Cook, treasurer. Also, Mrs. Ita Driver, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. P. Dodge, federation counselor; Mrs. V. E. Jones, historian; and Mrs. Fred Whitaker, parliamentarian. Mrs. A. C. Bass will represent the club at the Western District Convention in Monahan March 27 and 28 of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Refreshments were served to 13 members and two guests, Mrs. Jack Rector, Wheaton, Ill., and Mrs. Robert Wade, Denver, Colo. Both women are sisters of Mrs. John Fariss. The next meeting of the forum group will be with Mrs. M. A. Cook, April 12.

Fora Group To Attend Convention

Five members of Spoudazio Fora Study Club will attend the Western District convention this week in Monahan for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Richard Patterson will attend the first day session on Wednesday. Participating in the Thursday activities will be Mrs. Bill Coleman, Mrs. James C. Jones, Mrs. Oliver Cofer, and Mrs. Don Farley.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

Counting the days until next Sunday are MRS. ALMA McLAURIN and her sister, MRS. AMOS R. WOOD who will leave the Midland airfield at 9:19 a.m. for Houston. From Houston they will leave on the big trip that will take them to the Canary Islands where they will be the guests of Mrs. McLaurin's son and his family, MR. and MRS. CHARLES McLAURIN and their children, ALMA LEIGH, 14, and SCOTT, 10.

The two Big Spring women will take the flight that goes to Montreal and from there to Amsterdam and, according to our time, they will be there when it's 2 o'clock here on Monday. They plan to stay four days and nights in this Netherlands city and hope to be there for the tulip festival. They will then go to Zurich for a similar length of time and then on to Madrid.

From Spain they will go to Las Palmas on the Canary Islands, 60 miles off the west coast of Africa. The two will spend six weeks in Las Palmas and from there they will make a trip into the Sahara and also to the Madeira Islands. Mr. McLaurin has plans for other side trips during his mother's stay. The itinerary for the return trip has been left open but the tourists will visit in England, France, Germany and Italy during the two-and-a-half or three months visit abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaurin had made their home in North Africa at Tripoli and in Bengasi several years ago. They returned to Big Spring and after living here six months he got an opportunity to return with his company to Africa and was happy to go back last summer.

MR. and MRS. R. H. WEAVER and their family are spending the weekend in Dallas.

A pretty picture of Mrs. R. V. MIDDLETON appeared in the San Angelo Times when she attended the Bankers' Wives luncheon last Wednesday.

Some people have the cleverest charms on their bracelets: charms from foreign countries, old coins, grandchildren's names and now Mrs. JOHN HODGES shows a new one. Her bracelet has charms decorated with old jewelry. She has the stones from her mother's ring, a past president's pin from a club and many other interesting pieces. And it's a real bit of memorabilia.

At the Thursday tea: Kept my distance from Mrs. CLYDE THOMAS JR. whose dress was not only exactly like mine, but also her white beads and ear clips. All winter I enjoyed Mrs. BILL EDWARDS' blue knit which is a replica of one I have. We always wore them at the same place at the same time. Mrs. RANDALL POLK was so attractive in her very smart chiffon hat with tiny tucked crown of orange, shocking pink and blending colors. It has a medium size brim that gives just the right balance. She wore it with an aqua silk suit. Mrs. DOTTIE ORME in a blue straw with matching flowers came with Mrs. J. M. WOODALL whose natural straw was trimmed with numerous shades of posies. Mrs. TED O. GROEBL SIT wore a tangerine straw which also had floral trim. An attractive threesome was composed of Mrs. CECIL McDONALD in a silk suit and a small brimmed sailor with a cluster of bright colored blossoms. Mrs. JACK V. SMITH wore a vari-colored ecru with an attractive suit and Mrs. E. B. COMPTON chose a crisp blue frock with white accessories. Mrs. MODESTA SIMPSON wore all yellow from a wide stitched brim, high crown hat through a most attractive knit suit.

The wind gave the ladies a bad time, especially those with the big hats. It was amazing to see them arrive at the building with so much composure after battling the wind to get to the building. But these are West Texas women and it takes a lot more than a strong wind, a few clouds and a rash of illness to keep them from their social affairs.

Make Ready For The Lawn Mowing

Heed the signs of the season, and prepare for lawn mowing time. If your yard is smoothly spread with turf, fertilize now. You will have best results using long-lasting mixed lawn fertilizer containing ureaform nitrogen. This type of fertilizer becomes available to the plants slowly throughout the summer, and keeps the grass growing evenly. A mechanical spreader gives best results.

To Sing

Miss Nancy Carolyn Thompson, a member of the McMurry College Chanters, will be with the group on its annual spring tour in West Texas March 31-April 5. The choir will sing in churches and schools while on the 900-mile trip. Miss Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Thompson, 808 W. 17th St., is a sophomore music education major. She is a member of Theta Chi Lambda and the McMurry Indian Band.

Agathe Is Berlin's Senior Shoemaker

BERLIN (AP)—Agathe Haemmerling, 75 years old, is Berlin's oldest feminine shoemaker. She is still at the job.

Partly because of the Berlin wall, she says she plans to keep on repairing shoes for some time to come.

Before the East German Communists built it, Frau Haemmerling had two helpers from East Berlin.

She learned from her late husband. In 1935, the Haemmerlings opened a small shoemaker shop at Regensburger Strasse in Schoeneberg district, now in the American Sector of West Berlin. Some of her customers have been coming for over 25 years.

Occasionally, somebody comes around to sit with her for a little chat. Otherwise, her black cat, Pussy, is her only company.

Frau Haemmerling has no children and no relatives in Berlin. "I'm not complaining about loneliness," she professes. "My work is my company. I think I'll be working when I'm 100. "Work keeps you young."

Wheat Germ Quick Energy

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Although we are aware that wheat germ is a rich source of protein and chock full of B vitamins and minerals—and even the idea of all those nutrients is like a quick dose of energy—still the reason we have wheat germ around in our kitchen is because we like it.

And we commend it to you. Use it in the following recipe for a quick bread. See if you don't agree with us that it makes a worthwhile contribution to flavor and texture.

We sliced half this loaf as soon as it came from the oven so it could be enjoyed fragrant and warm. The rest of the loaf was cooled, wrapped tightly, and refrigerated. Such cold storage helps from drying powder breads from keeping and makes them easy to slice. We like this loaf, after overnight storage, toasted and slathered with butter.

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup wheat germ
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1-3 cup butter or margarine, melted

Onto a piece of waxed paper, sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and sugar; stir in the wheat germ, raisins and nuts. In a medium mixing bowl, beat eggs slightly; add milk and beat to combine; add the melted butter and the flour mixture; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn into a greased loaf pan (9 by 5 by 3 inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 55 minutes.

Loosen loaf from sides of pan; turn out on wire rack; turn right side up. Cool. Store in tightly covered container. Loaf may be sliced shortly after baking, but for thin slices, leave overnight.

Wheat Loaf

A raisin-nut wheat loaf is delicious and nutritious with added wheat germ; fine for after-school snacks and for packing lunch boxes.

Bridal Gown Costs Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The father of the bride will have more to weep about next fall.

The cost of bridal and bridesmaid dresses are expected to rise from $10 to $20 as a result of increases in the wholesale prices of silks and imported laces.

Many gowns require up to 10 yards of silk and are heavily embellished with laces.

Although some members of the bridal industry say they will try to combat the price rise by cutting corners in workmanship and yardage, most feel that they must maintain the quality and style of their designs and pass on the increased costs to the bride—or rather her father.

Multiple Rooting In A Single Pot

Several cuttings can be rooted at one time by filling a pot with evenly moistened vermiculite or perlite and cover with a plastic bag.

Plant stakes keep the plastic tent upright; a rubber band holds the plastic tightly around the pot.

Puff Powder Perfect For Real Beauty

Whether you use loose powder or powder in pressed compact form, the way you apply it can make the difference in whether or not you achieve a look of real beauty. Use only a clean velour powder puff.

Begin by picking up a generous amount of powder on your puff. Hold the puff firmly and start puffing gently at the lower part of the cheek, moving clockwise around your entire face.

The application should be gentle and steady, never raising the puff from your face more than a quarter of an inch. Powder around your eyes next, and over your nose last. During the application, use more powder on your puff as you need it, for a generous amount is one of the keys to a flawless complexion.

For those little lines around the eyes, on your forehead, and those around your mouth, spread them apart with the fingers and gently press in the powder.

Now to create a flawless, velvety look, gently whisk away all surplus powder with a face powder brush or the back of your puff. Not only will this step leave just the right amount of powder, but it will also distribute it evenly.

MRS. KENNETH CLARK COX

Mildred J. Shipley Weds Kenneth Cox

LAMESA (SC)—In a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday Mildred Jane Shipley became the bride of Kenneth Clark Cox. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truett Shipley and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cox. Officiating the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Calvin T. Parham, cousin of the bride. Wedding music was presented by Tawana Boatright.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father to an archway covered with blue and white carnations and baskets of white stock. The chapel was lighted by branch candelabras.

She wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace designed with a fitted bodice with a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves ending in petal points over the hands. The full skirt featured an overlay gown of pearlized flowers. Her veil of silk illusion flowed to the bride's shoulders and was crowned with a flowered tiara.

Lorna Ferguson was maid of honor and Patsy Cox, sister of the bridegroom, and Leslie Morris were bridesmaids. Doyle Norris of Weatherford, Okla., was best man.

Guests attended the wedding and reception from Anton, Brownfield, Borger, Lubbock, Maple, Midland, Muleshoe, O'Donnell, Odessa, Seminole, Snyder, Tahoka, Welch and Weatherford. For traveling the bride chose a blue linen dress suit.

The couple will be at home at 806 N. 21st Street after a wedding trip to South and East Texas.

The bride is a student at Lamesa High School and the bridegroom a graduate of Lamesa High School, is presently engaged in farming here.

East-West: first, Mrs. Ben McCullough, Mrs. Ayra McGann; second, Mrs. Harvey Williamson, Mrs. J. Y. Robb; third, Mrs. Glenn Riley, Mrs. Joe Herbert; fourth, Mrs. Hudson Landers, Mrs. Morris Patterson.

Onions' New Look

No need to run out of onions since instant minced onion and onion powder have appeared in supermarkets. In recipes that call for fresh onion, use 1 tablespoon of minced onion for 1/4 cup fresh onion. Onion powder is much more concentrated, however, and 1/2 teaspoon substitutes for 1/4 of fresh onion. When using these new products in recipes that do not contain liquid, such as butter sauces, blend with a little water first. Then add to the other ingredients.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION D BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MARCH 24, 1963 SECTION D

New Budget Matches City Growth At Record High

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of three explanatory articles on the new City of Big Spring budget for 1963-64.

By M. A. WEBB

Matching the continuing growth of the city, the proposed City of Big Spring budget for the forthcoming fiscal year reaches a new record, $2,350,683. This is $157,583 more than the budget for the fiscal year which ends April 1.

The Big Spring City Commission will sit for a public hearing on the budget Tuesday at 7 p.m. in City Hall.

NO TAX HIKE

The new budget calls for no increase in the tax rate nor any increase for utilities—water, sewage or garbage collection.

The budget calls for income totaling $2,613,014, an increase of $369,171. This includes a $289,981 balance carried over from the current year and an anticipated balance at the end of the new year of $262,331.

There will be changes in expenditures for some departments. City Manager Larry Crow has recommended placing all salaries for each department under the department's account instead of spreading them among several accounts or funds. At the same time, minor funds—golf course, swimming pools—have been combined in the general fund. This eliminates separate funds, while it increases the general fund revenue and expenditures.

EMPLOYEES 234

The city employs approximately 234 men and women. Of this number about 90 are hourly employees.

No raises were set up in the new budget for firemen and policemen. The city commission ordered these held back pending action of the Texas legislature on a proposed bill which would dictate salary spreads and longevity pay. However, action may be taken later, whether the bill passes or not, since a contingency fund was set up within the anticipated cash balance. Raises were last given both departments in the 1961-62 budget.

The city's estimated assessed value of real and personal property for the coming year, based on 50 per cent of true value, is listed at $51,350,000, up $2,405,000 from the current year. The total estimated tax collection, figured at 90 per cent of the total tax levy of $770,250, is $693,225, or $32,468 above the current year.

The tax rate of $1.50 per $100 valuation is broken down as follows, with the expected income: Interest and sinking fund $0.41050, to yield $189,723.75; general fund, $1.04149, $481,311.23; Master Plan, $0.00865, $4,000; Civil Defense, $0.00376, $1,738; City-County Juvenile Department, $0.01039, $4,800; health unit $0.02521, $11,652.

ABOUT 60

Judge Plans To Dismiss Pending Divorce Suits

District Judge Ralph Caton said Saturday that he plans to dispose of more than 60 divorce petitions at a session in his court Monday.

"These are divorce suits which have been on file in the court for a minimum of two years," said the judge. "I started out with a list of 72 cases. I have already dismissed about 10."

"This means there are about 60 left. I have notified attorneys in all these cases and instructed them to be in court Monday and advise me as to the status of these cases. When I call one of these cases and there is no answer, I intend to summarily dismiss it on the court's own motion."

The judge said he is convinced most of the cases will be dismissed. He said they were filed by couples who were having domestic difficulties and that either the difficulties were settled or the one filing the case decided to abandon his or her plans before the time the cases would normally come before the court.

"I intend to follow this same course of action with other old and inactive suits on my docket," said the judge. "There is no reason for these cases to remain on the docket year after year if they are never to be brought to trial. I intend to see that all of this deadwood is removed from the court records."

He said lawyers representing any of the petitions in these old suits or the petitioner, himself, if he still wishes to keep the case alive, had better be on hand Monday when the docket is sounded.

BOND PAYMENTS

During 1963-64 the city will be required to pay on general obligation bonds a total of $189,723.75, including $86,723.75 in interest. Water and sewer revenue bond payments will be $132,916.25. Total payments on bonds will be $322,640.

An estimated $220,000 will be transferred from the water and sewer fund to the general fund during the year.

More Telephone Complaints Are Reported

Gil Jones, district attorney, said Friday he is convinced a great many more people in Big Spring than he had realized are being annoyed by anonymous phone calls.

Last week, the district attorney warned that he was investigating a complaint by a resident of Big Spring concerning such telephone calls. He announced he intended to prosecute the offenders to the limit.

After the announcement was published, he said he had a dozen or more phone calls from other residents and, at a meeting where he was a speaker, a dozen more personally told him they, too, had been victimized by a malicious unknown caller.

Jones said that while it is difficult to trace anonymous phone calls and apprehend the offenders, that there are ways in which it can be done.

"We intend to see that anyone who engages in this practice is punished," he said.

"Making such calls, he explained, is a misdemeanor and the offender can be fined or placed in the county jail.

TB Association Meets Thursday

The Howard County Tuberculosis Association will hold its annual meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Cosden Country Club, according to Dr. Frankie Williams, president. Tickets are $1.75 and all interested residents are urged to attend.

Dr. Charles T. Meadows, thoracic surgeon from Abilene, will be the speaker. Dr. Fred Larting will be installed as the new president of the organization.

All board members and their wives or husbands are urged to be on hand. Various committee reports will be made.

A Devotional For The Day

"We do not know what to do, but our eyes are upon thee." (II Chronicles 20:12, RSV.)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, the battle seems to be against us. We do not know what to do, but our eyes are upon Thee. Cleanse us from evil within ourselves and make us fit for the Master's use. In His dear name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Rounding Our Services

The announcement in today's Herald of plans to start work almost immediately on a quarter of a million dollar facility for elderly people is important news.

Aside from the fact that it gives substance to recognition of the increasing weight of the population which attains those ripe ages, it connotes a step toward solidifying our position as a health center in West Texas.

The provision of treatment and examination rooms where patients can be treated by their private physicians, plus the proximity to a hospital, establish a direction of service. If this proves out, as most everyone feels it will, then it can be the stepping stone to other specialization in the health problems of the geriatrics.

At any rate, the presence of Bennett House, as it will be known, will fill a need in this area. Many elderly people desire just such a service, especially when they become the surviving mate and may be alone. Growing old does not lessen one's sense of independence nor one's desire for companionship, particularly of comparable age levels. Being able to know that one is secure in his habitation and will be looked after in health is comforting. In this knowledge, our elder citizens go on in full dignity and pride in the enjoyment of life to the last moment.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce Frazier and his mother, Mrs. Nelle Frazier, are to be commended for their courage and vision in establishment of this center.

Time To Hear And Speak

Tuesday evening the City Commission will conduct the annual public hearing on the proposed city budget as required by law.

The Herald will carry some basic information on proposals, and those who wish to obtain more detailed breakdowns can see copies of the document at the City Hall. Those who want to ask specific questions should make it a point to be at the hearing and raise those questions.

It is not that the budget is any license for loose spending during the year—for it is in reality a pretty tightly knit and detailed chart—but rather that this is where the expenditures are fairly accurately planned for the year. Hence, those who are concerned about the justification of proposed disbursements should make their voices heard at the budget hearings. Commissioners give full weight to opinions expressed when these are supported by sound reason and evidence. But when the hearing is over and the final draft is approved, the fiscal boundaries for the year are fairly well pegged. It, then, is the height of silliness to come up at equalization or tax statement time and cry that taxes are too high.

U.S. Citizenship For Churchill

WASHINGTON—To make Sir Winston Churchill a citizen of the United States is in its symbolic meaning far more than a casual gesture of goodwill.

There are moments in history when a door seems about to open on a larger and more generous future. And those moments come on those rare occasions when men confront the consequences of the desperate folly of the past. In June of 1940 with France all but overrun by the German blitzkrieg, Churchill struck the channel to meet with the stricken survivors of the French government at Bordeaux.

HE OFFERED them common citizenship, common nationhood, with Britain in the ordeal of survival which he foresaw as long and cruel and uncertain. That offer was dismissed as an expedient of panic by those who already believed that with the continent of Europe enslaved by the Nazis the British had no choice but to surrender. Hitler was preparing his invasion and the odds were on his succeeding as Britain stood ready to fight and die with the weapons of the past.

JF CHURCHILL'S offer had a different look today. Such a union as he proposed between the two principal allies against the Nazis would have been the forerunner of a larger union. Conceivably the resurgent nationalism that has blocked European unity, for the time being at any rate, would have had no opportunity to revive.

NO FOREIGNER has ever before had honorary citizenship conferred on him by an act of Congress. Lafayette, beloved by the American people for his great service in the Revolution, was made a citizen of Maryland and Virginia before the Union was formed. Then when the states were joined in a federation and all their inhabitants became citizens of the United States the great Frenchman also became citizen Lafayette. This same privilege was granted to his male heirs, a feature that is not contained in the resolution conferring citizenship on Churchill.

THOSE WHO HAVE worked long and hard to bring about this honor to Churchill saw it as in part, at least, a token of gratitude for his incalculable service to the West. Seldom in history has so much been owed by so many to one individual. Without him in 1940 and after who can say what course events might have taken? The words he spoke, the example he set, made him a rallying point for freedom everywhere. Night after night the Goebbels propaganda machine poured out vilification on the enemy who more than any one person stood in the way of capitulation before the Nazi conquest.

It was not only in the war years that Churchill made his great contribution—a contribution coming at the close of a career that had begun, fantastic as it seems, in the Boer War. When he made his historic speech at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., with President Truman at his side, in 1946 he took it upon himself to alert this country to the threat of Stalin's implacable drive for Communist takeover at every weak point.

HE CUT THROUGH the confusion and uncertainty growing out of the wartime alliance. At the time many resented what they considered an intrusion on America's prerogative to form opinion and make policy. The brutal seizure of power in Czechoslovakia confirmed Churchill's direst forebodings. In the Fulton speech he introduced the phrase "iron curtain," a piece of brilliant shorthand for which all of us who write on these matters are in his debt.

But in subsequent years he was far from being a professional anti-Communist. As one who has again and again looked unflinchingly at reality, no matter how grim his aspect, he understood that after the Russians achieved the atomic bomb the two giants would somehow have to learn to live together on the same planet. His last efforts as a statesman were in the direction of an accommodation on a live-and-let-live basis.

THE MISTS of time have begun to close around this heroic figure. It is hard to realize that as he lives in quiet retirement at the age of 78 that a generation is coming up that knows him only by historic reputation. Yet as recently as 1955 this reporter has a vivid recollection of his making a rousing political speech in the constituency of a member of his family. He looked a very old man, but once on his feet on the platform the mastery of other years possessed him.

CITIZENSHIP is a precious possession and it is hard to foresee a set of circumstances in which the present Congressional action could recur. In the last volume of his war memoirs Churchill wrote that he saw small hope for the world without a fraternal association between the United States and the British Commonwealth, which might extend to common citizenship. We have fallen far short of the hope. But in his citizenship at least one link has been forged.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Plans and programs are discussed all across the state for the building of libraries and the enhancement and extension of our various library services. As laudable as these programs are and as vital as they are to our welfare, it is often obvious that the underlying purposes are misunderstood.

For instance, some people everywhere say regularly: "Yes, we must have a decent library so our children will learn to love good books." But the love of books is instilled at home. The home library is responsible for the public library, and not the other way around. To put the burden on a public library is as fallacious as saying it is nice to have a decent school lunchroom so the child will learn table manners.

This, of course, doesn't mean we should not support public libraries to the hilt. A good public library is a moral and intellectual necessity to the good of the community. But a child should be reared in that delightful atmosphere in which books are counted as close and vibrant companions. The home shelves should overflow and there ought to be a lot of reading aloud, especially of poetry and the classic adventure stories for the young. The home library should be a sort of undergraduate school that leads to the infinite variety of graduate training at the public library.

While it is true that some young minds are so hungry for beauty and knowledge they will go through brick walls to satisfy the noble longing, the average child is going to find the local library building somewhat remote and aloof unless he is given books at home along with his oatmeal and his Boy Scout knots.

World's Problem Isn't Too Little Gold

Gold revaluation — jumping the price upward from $35 an ounce to $50 or $70 or even to $100—just won't die as a cure for economic ills that beset Great Britain and the United States.

It's a subject that comes up sotto voce. The London Economist recently noted that nobody mentions devaluation of the pound "for fear of being accused of helping to cause it."

THE SAME GOES—though less so—for the dollar. Orthodox conservative, and sound persons would just as ailing gossip about marital difficulties of close friends as about the divorce of the dollar from $35-an-ounce gold.

The argument for devaluation goes like this: Gold is hard money—something people want. There is not enough of it around in the western world. Central banks, governments and the International Monetary Fund have only $41 billion in gold. Of this amount, the U.S. has just under $16 billion, or 39 per cent, and Great Britain $2.8 billion, or 7 per cent.

BOTH THE POUND and the dollar have been under pressure. The U.S. and Great Britain have had to make arrangements with foreign central banks or the Monetary Fund to bolster their gold-reserve position—stop gold from flowing away. Therefore...

BY DOUBLING the price of gold, the entire Western world will have twice as much hard money to "play with." The U.S. loss of one billion dollars a year in gold is only 3 per cent of $32 billion, it's 6 per cent of $16 billion. All you do is change the value of the chips in the international poker game without raising the stakes, the bets. But there's a strong counter-argument. As we learned in mathematics, things equal to the same thing are equal to each other. As long as the dollar is "good as gold," it is used instead of gold. It's a supplementary medium of exchange.

IN THE U.S., it's good for paying taxes or buying an automobile, a suit of clothes, a typewriter, or a giant computer. You can travel in any country of the world—even the Communist ones—and the dollar is eagerly taken in exchange for board and lodging.

In world markets, the dollar is used to buy coffee, cotton and works of art—whatever is for sale. Central banks use it to pay debts to one another—as if it were gold.

DOLLARS CONSTITUTE about half the free world's monetary reserves outside the U.S. Amounts vary from country to country. Norway has nearly 80 per cent of its reserves in dollars. France 32 per cent. Belgium only 11 per cent. Here are the figures in millions of dollars:

Country	Total Reserves	Dollars	Gold	As Pct. Total
Austria	$ 744	$ 323	$ 419	44
Belgium	1,311	170	1,341	11
Canada	4,169	3,480	689	83
Denmark	78	47	31	60
France	3,643	1,162	2,481	32
Germany	6,467	2,799	3,668	43
Italy	3,533	1,292	2,241	37
Netherlands	1,837	276	1,561	15
Norway	142	112	30	79
Portugal	610	141	469	23
Sweden	639	458	181	72
Switzerland	3,290	837	2,453	25
United Kingdom	4,402	1,610	2,792	37
All Others	18,694	11,805	6,889	63
TOTAL	54,779	$24,514	$25,265	49

And here's a paradox. To double the price of gold would leave the monetary resources of the Western World exactly in the same place. What would be gained in gold would be lost in dollars. The central banks would no longer have the dollar as a reserve currency.

AND IF the pound went off the gold standard too, world monetary reserves would shrink even more. As the Economist suggests, the gold price would have to be tripled to make up for the devaluation of the dollar and pound.

Suppose atomic science discovered a way to alchemize water into gold. Suppose gold flowed out of rolling mills as cheaply as aluminum or steel. What then?

Gold would cease to be a medium of exchange. And if we didn't have the dollar and the pound as a substitute, foreign exchanges would be chaotic.

Head Man Shook It Right Out Of 'Em

DEAR RUFÉ:

You would be interested to know that the culture season went out the other night in what some folks call a blaze of glory. I suppose now we can get down to the business of running the Little League.

But this was pretty big league stuff we had—another of them big fiddle bands, with enough horns and drums and other things thrown in to be called a symphony orchestra.

THERE WAS about 75 or 80 of these people, all told, and they did what they were supposed to do, so reporting on some peculiarities ain't necessarily easy.

Few things would cross you up, though. First off, they had the big drums on one side, and they boomed and rattled, and then out in right field was another little drum that answered back. You don't hear this kind of stuff often.

ANOTHER THING was that while the other bull fiddle players sat on their kitchen stools to do their sawin', one great big feller stood up and whipped that fiddle all night like he was mad at it. You would have to admire his enthusiasm.

And next thing is that some people in orchestras have to do too much of the work. I don't know what the wages are, but if I was a fiddler, I would damn sure be asking more than a drummer, or a harpist. By golly, the harpist didn't even show up for the second half.

AND I COULD have sworn that the drummer went to sleep once, while waitin' for the head man to point at him. He didn't get pointed at much.

Some people asked why the kettle drummer kept sniffin' at his drums. He wasn't sniffin', he was just touchin' down with his nose or his ear to see if the kettles was still boilin'. As I understand it, a kettle drum is not real right unless it is hot. That sort of goes for all musicians.

Yore friend, ZEKE

(Bob Whipkey)

WELL, THESE FOLKS was hot, and that was because the head man didn't stand for no foolishness. He was the feller that came out and stood on the box in front, and without a stick nor nary a sheet of music, he shook it out of 'em. He twisted and squirmed, and gyrated and pointed, and waved his arms and shook his hands, and every time he would make a move, the players was right with him. It was really this feller's show.

HE LOOKED like he might have some push buttons in him, and when a button was pushed, he would jerk. Sometimes it looked like he was twisting a lemon peel, and sometimes washing a window, and sometimes motioning for the kids to come home, and sometimes like turning a prop on an old-time airplane, and sometimes like shaking some red ants off his hands. Then he would point straight down like he seen a snake at his feet, and then he would stick his finger right at some of those players, like he was hittin' 'em, come on, come on. "Thing about it, they all did come on. Even if you couldn't hear the music, which was plumb purty, you would have had a good time lookin' at the head man. It was all business with him.

ONE OTHER THING. Rufe. You and I can't do much about it, but wimmen is about to take over symphony orchestras like they are everything else. I got no objection, but it seems to me that if they are going to put that many wimmen on a stage, they ought to let 'em dress in something better than a black housecoat. The men look good enough in their forked tail coats, and their stand-up collars. I betcha you would join me in saying it's time to put the wimmen players in what you might call a black sheath. I can't see that it would hurt culture none.

Russian View Of The Common Market

WASHINGTON—If the Common Market falls on its face, nobody can say that the Russians didn't predict it. Granted that the U.S.S.R. desires the failure of this and all other capitalistic enterprises, the Soviet arguments put forward to predict the flop are not entirely dismissible as wishfulness of propaganda. The Russian scholar Eugene Varga, founder of the Institute of World Economy, recently summarized the Communist prognostications. They are worth noting.

VARGA FINDS that the basic theory of integrating six sophisticated industrial economies (seven if Britain comes in) will not produce the looked-for prosperity. The interbreeding of highly developed economies offends the logic of supply-and-demand. It will certainly produce more goods at lower prices, but in countries which already have a high living standard and a controlled birth rate, it won't produce a large number of new consumers.

THE FORMULA for success in uniting the economies of two or more countries is to mate a highly industrialized area with a well-fixed agrarian area. This is why our own combination of the agricultural South and West with that of an industrial North did so well for so long. This leads to the second alleged fallacy of the Common Market plan. The Inner Six have a population of 170 million and are in "association" with about 30 million Africans. The Africans not only have a poorhouse agricultural economy, but they are helibent to learn industrialization from Europe. The end result would not be the mating of industry and agriculture, but industry and industry—a losing proposition, says Varga.

SUCCESS in industrialization, coupled with an expanded export trade, is largely a matter of intense national effort, rather than international commingling. Japan in World War II lost almost its whole plant capacity along with a trading market of 100 million people. But Japan's unilateral recovery far exceeds anything in Europe which has been striving toward unification for a decade.

Varga writes: "The union of two highly developed countries in itself does not solve any problem hitherto confronting each of them individually.

NOR DOES HE put much credence in the claim that the Treaty of Rome will become "eternal" after 1970, as the Common Market promoters say it will. Nations do not submit to treaties that go against their self-interest. General De Gaulle has snapped his fingers at the other Common Market members over the question of Britain's entrance. The only way to prevent France or any member, from doing as it pleases, including an arbitrary secession from the Common Market, is war. The U.S.A. has its own experience with secession.

WHILE IT'S unusual to marshal Communist arguments to the extent I have done here, these seem worth weighing for America's own good. If the Common Market should go on in peace and prosperity, the U.S.A. will lose heavily in its export trade—as we are already finding out with our agricultural products exported to Europe. If the Common Market blows up in secession after 1970, there will be a European war in which, as history shows, we are apt to take sides.

It is hard to see why American policy should favor unification of Europe. Our self-interest would argue to let well enough alone.

Communist Activity In Latin America

WASHINGTON—The United States government spends billions of dollars to get intelligence information from foreign countries, and it has concentrated particularly in trying to find out how much subversion and infiltration by the Communists has been going on in Central and South America. At last the facts are coming out authoritatively.

JOHN A. McCONE, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, now has told Congress what Castro is doing to "export" communism from Cuba. President Kennedy has said that it is the firm intention of the United States to prevent such "export" from becoming effective. Mr. McCONE said in his statement to a House committee:

"The public pronouncements of Cuban leaders, the daily reports of events in Latin America, and reports from our intelligence sources within Communist and other left-extremist elements throughout this hemisphere all agree on one salient conclusion: That Fidel Castro is spurring and supporting the efforts of Communists and other revolutionary elements to overthrow and seize control of the governments in Latin America.

"EVEN BEFORE the October missile crisis—and with increasing rancor since then—Cuban leaders have been exhorting revolutionary movements to violence and terrorism, and supporting their activities.

"Cuban support takes many different forms, but its main thrust is the supply of the inspiration, the guidance, the training, and the communications and technical assistance that revolutionary groups in Latin America require...

MR. McCONE said that, while the amount of identifiable quantities of weapons being sent to Latin-American insurgents is not at present significant, he has no reason to believe that it will not increase. He added:

"Cuban financing of subversive operations in Latin America is generally effected by couriers carrying cash."

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS are wondering whether, in view of these authentic reports, the United States is fulfilling its promise to prevent the "export" of communism and the sending of Soviet-trained personnel from Cuba to infiltrate the governments and subvert the economy of the various countries in Latin America.

Testifying recently before a House subcommittee on foreign affairs, Edwin M. Martin, Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, made the following statement when asked about the future policy of the United States:

"I WOULD SUPPOSE lastly we are determined in the spirit of the Punta Del Este resolution which declared that a Communist regime is incompatible with the inter-American system, to see to it, in association if possible, but alone if it becomes necessary, that no further Communist regimes get established in Latin America."

Rep. Gross, Republican of Iowa then engaged in this colloquy with Mr. Martin:

"Mr. Gross: Then you have no time-tables for the surgery necessary to remove this cancer?"

"Mr. Martin: No, sir.

"MR. GROSS: Aren't you disturbed by the fact that the cancer can overtake the Central and South American area before the government falls in Cuba?"

"Mr. Martin: No; I think we feel we are making progress in this regard. It is a matter of concern, but we think the operation might well worsen the condition of the patient and it would also raise global questions which would worsen the position of the United States from a world security standpoint.

"MR. GROSS: We are right back where we started from—"

"Mr. Martin: On this particular question, that is correct. I think the President has made that quite clear a good many times.

"Mr. Gross: As far as I am concerned—and I don't want to argue with you—I don't think we have a policy. I think the President is playing this thing by ear and from hour to hour and day to day. I don't think this government has a policy with respect to Cuba. I think the only policy that we have is one of hope for the best and fear for the worst."

Hysterectomy Considered Major Surgery

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor advises me that due to a large fibroid tumor of the uterus I will soon have to undergo a hysterectomy.

Is it considered major surgery? Does it bring about menopause as well as end the possibility of pregnancy? What effect physically and mentally will it have on me?

—MRS. A. K.

Hysterectomy is removal of the uterus, and fibroids are the most frequent cause. A tumor may be so large that there is pressure on the bladder, bowel or other organs. Or, depending on its location, it may be causing excessive bleeding.

Yes, a hysterectomy is major surgery. So is removal of an appendix. However, neither should cause alarm.

Removal of the uterus prevents child-bearing. But in cases requiring such surgery, the presence of the tumor already is, in most cases, sufficient to prevent pregnancy, so for practical purposes this is of no importance.

As to whether it brings on menopause, that depends. If a woman is in her 40's and hence near menopause anyway, adjacent structures, such as tubes and ovaries, may well be removed.

Removal of the ovaries does, indeed, bring on "surgical menopause," although it is, after all, little more than a matter of speeding it up a year or two.

In younger women, the ovaries may be left in, assuming that they are healthy, show no signs of being cystic, etc. In that case, menopause will not come with the operation, but will occur at the regular time (usually about 45) when the ovaries stop secreting hormones in accustomed quantity.

If, however, the ovaries are seen to be faulty, this is the best time to remove them.

Physical and mental effect of the operation on you?

Physically, once the operation is past, the first effect usually is that the patient begins to feel better. Pressures have been relieved. Sometimes anemia has developed because of excess bleeding, and now this condition can correct itself, the patient feeling stronger and happier than before.

As to mental effects, none, unless your psychological outlook is such as to cause it. There is no reason to expect any mental impact. Femininity is not lost or impaired in any sense. True, childbearing ceases, but as I said, it probably was over anyway, so why worry about that aspect?

Knowing these things you will find, I am sure, that the only mental effect afterward will be relief at having it over with.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a light case of shingles last year and have the same symptoms now except I don't have a rash. Could this be caused by a nervous condition?—MRS. A. D.

Shingles rarely attacks twice; whether your trouble is nerves or some physical ailment, I won't guess. It needs examination, but I doubt strongly that it's shingles.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Singapore Releases 8 New Definitives

By HAROLD C. PERDUE
Singapore has released a set of eight new definitives early this month. Four values depict native orchids and four show native birds. These eight stamps supplement the seven native fish stamps of last year, varying in denomination from once cent to five dollars, all of them are starting in their color reproduction.

The Spanish Colonies of Fernando Po, Ibi, Rio Muni, and the Spanish Sahara have all issued two stamps each showing native art and churches with receipts designated for the "Aid to Seville" Fund.

Japan recently commemorated the Children's Spring Festival with a multi-colored stamp. Cyprus is joining the Freedom from Hunger campaign with a 25m and a 75m stamp. One shows a village girl with a sheaf of corn, the other Demetra, the Greek Goddess of corn.

Portugal honored the European Soccerball Championship with two bicolored issues. Persia has released a semi-postal to benefit recent earthquake victims. Argentina issued two airmail stamps to commemorate the Ninth World Gliding Championship there recently.

Four bicolored stamps are the latest issues from Afghanistan. Three of them depict women in native costumes. The fourth shows a native Girl Scout. An airmail souvenir sheet of all four stamps completes the issue.

The stamps from Israel were issued for the 25th anniversary of the Stockade and Tower Settlements this month. Between 1936 and 1939, 55 of these stockades were built and manned in a 24

Bachelor Visits With ABClub

Bob Bachelor, area field representative for the American Business Clubs, spoke briefly before members of the local affiliate at the Friday luncheon at the Settles Hotel.

Bachelor said the ABC membership is constantly growing. He revealed new clubs at Wichita Falls, Texas, and North Grand Rapids, Mich., officially became a part of the National ABC fabric in formal ceremonies March 9.

Bob Darland, Howard County Juvenile Officer, talked to the gathering on local and area juvenile programs and urged that the club co-operate in any manner it could in helping combat the problem of juvenile delinquents.

J. D. Jones gave a progress report on the ABC's participating in the upcoming District 6-A and National Junior College Track and Field meets.

The 6-A meet takes place here Saturday, April 6, while the National Juco event will be held May 18-19. The local ABC will furnish the personnel to run off both meets.

DEAR ABBY Matter Of Special Diet

DEAR ABBY: What does a diabetic do when she is invited to a luncheon or dinner? This has always puzzled me. I am a diabetic and wonder if I should accept invitations and take my chances. Most party foods are not on my diet and I dislike putting my hostess to any extra trouble. Sometimes a hostess who knows I am diabetic will serve foods I dare not eat. Will you print this, together with your reply, as a subtle reminder to thoughtless hostesses. Thank you.

PHILADELPHIAN: It is perfectly proper to tell one's hostess (on accepting the invitation) that certain foods are off limits for you. Offer a few simple suggestions. And don't be embarrassed.

DEAR ABBY: I have a complaint to air. My husband and I eat out a lot. Twice this week, when we were comfortable, they turned the air-conditioning on and I had to put my coat back on. I told the waitress that I was chilly, and she said the temperature was just fine FOR HER! I think it is very inconsiderate of the management to turn on the air-conditioning just to keep the help cool. Their customers cannot enjoy eating in a deep freeze. Whaat would you have done?

CHILLED: Your "Problem" will puzzle millions who live in the snow belt. Air-conditioning? Brrr! But whether it's the latter, or tuning down the heat, you have a right to squawk. The customer, hot or cold, is always right.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the eighth grade. It all started when I took my record player to school and a bunch of us kids started to dance at recess on the school grounds. I don't see anything wrong with that, do you? My

Quarter Horse Show Scheduled

The Western Riding Club of Colorado City will sponsor an approved American Quarter Horse Association horse show April 13, beginning at 9 a.m. The show will be a one day affair with halter and performance classes, cutting and roping as the events. Saturday night, there will be a jackpot calf roping and a barrel race for all those who wish to enter.

Judge Sets Docket For Appeal Cases

County Judge Lee Porter has set down 36 appeal cases from the corporation and justice of the peace courts for disposition the week of April 2. A jury panel has been notified to report on that date for trial of any of the cases which may be ready.

Wayne Burns, county attorney, has listed all of the pending appeals, he said. The docket includes 20 cases which were filed out of the city court early this week. Burns said that Judge Porter will sound the docket at 1:30 p.m. April 1. The jury is to report at 9 a.m. April 2.

Thirty-one of the cases originated in the corporation court. Three are appeals from decisions in the court of Justice of the Peace Walter Grice and two from the court of Jess Slaughter.

Burns explained that this is another step by the county court in its announced plan to keep the court docket cases to a minimum. In other sessions, at which appeal matters were docketed, many were dismissed and others remanded to the original courts. The corporation court has been able, in a large number of these matters, to collect the original fines assessed against the offenders.

Appeals from the corporation court are brought by: Clyde Brown Jr., William B. Hughes (2), James M. Barber, Clifford A. Hare, Edna Bond Hopper, Billy Marion Shaw, Richard C. Thomas, Cleve Dwayne Myrick, Jose Rodriguez, Rayburn R. Merrill, William A. Hill, Pablo Ramirez (2), William L. Lauderdale, Celia Franco (2), L. Z. Bell, Howard Francis Dupre, Lena Mae Dupre, George T. Thomas, Jimmy Frank Whitaker, Theodore Pachall, Jimmy Larry Willis, Eugene K. Newman, Jack Wesley Martin, Claude Cooper, Joe Torres, Grady Dorsey Jr., Joseph Mattingly and Jack W. Martin.

The cases out of Grice's court were filed by Dois Orvil Ray, George A. McGann and Jack Louis Edwards. The two cases out of Slaughter's court are brought by Bobby W. Bailey and Ted Oscar Groebli.

Fred J. Van Orden Among Cadets' Special Drill Team

ROSWELL, N. M. — A young man from Big Spring was one of the 28 cadets comprising a special drill team that represented the New Mexico Military Institute last weekend in Arlington, Texas, at the annual military championship competition among high schools of the Fourth Army area. He is Fred Joe Van Orden, son of Mrs. Dorothy Williams who resides in Big Spring at 1313 11th Place. Young Van Orden is a fourth classman or high school junior this year at the institute.

Winning sixth place in the competition, the NMMI drill team competed with 16 other teams. Each team staged an 8-minute performance — three minutes of uniform basic drill, movement and five minutes of original "fancy drill" maneuvers.

The NMMI cadets were the only team that drilled with bayonet rifles, which found much favor with the judges and with the spectators. This was NMMI's first venture into this type of competition. The cadets were trained by Capt. Edward J. Kelly of the institute military department.

The Fourth Army area comprises the states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico. The competition was conducted and judged by the Sam Houston Rifles of Arlington State College, on whose campus the event was held.

What Do I Wish?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pam can't keep a secret. She'll probably tell us what she wished before the cake is half eaten.

Whatever her wish, it will be for a little girl type of thing.

But—what of me? What do I wish for my daughter? Success in a career . . . happy marriage . . . children . . . a beautiful home . . . a fair share of worldly goods . . . health . . . happiness?

I suppose I wish all of these things for Pam, in some measure. But if I had to limit myself to a single wish—I would ask for her a deep and abiding faith. How wonderful it is to have an unshaken belief in God's ways and His works, plus the conviction of His love for us.

Some of us may be limited in our ability to give our children material things, but we need never stint on teaching them spiritual values. Start taking your children to church and church school this Sunday.

Yul Brynner seems to be making like Eli Whitney, who is supposed to have said, "Keep your cotton-pickin' hands off my gin," in this scene from "Taras Bulba." The Cossack epic which has practically no story but plenty of action. And blood. That's Tony Curtis looking on, thirstily.

'Taras Bulba' Production Needed Mountain Of Work

Academy Award winning producer Harold Hecht and director J. Lee Thompson flew more miles than it takes to get around the world before settling on Salta, Argentina, as the base for locations for the multi-million dollar production of "Taras Bulba," the Panavision Eastmancolor film co-starring Tony Curtis and Yul Brynner, which returns Wednesday at the Jet Theatre, through United Artists release.

Among essential requirements for the drama of the Cossacks' long and wild battles against the Poles for their freedom 400 years ago were a terrain that duplicated the Ukrainian Steppes, some 10,000 skilled horsemen and mounts, and suitable accommodations for some 100 people within reasonable distance from various locations.

Hecht and Thompson flew to Greece, the Island of Rhodes, Yugoslavia, Italy, Austria, Bavaria, Spain, Mexico, Peru and Chile, before they finally found what they wanted in Salta, an old Spanish colonial city of 120,000 population in the foothills of the rugged, snow-capped Andes, some 800 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, which could only be reached by road and plane.

Salta, aside from duplicating the rugged terrain of the Ukraine, afforded the producer the opportunity to accept the offer of full cooperation from the Argentine Army which supplied the sites on the great Salta Military Reservations for all the locations within six or seven miles of the city. The cavalry supplied 1,000 horses and riders to portray Poles in the story. The Cossacks and Turks were portrayed by 10,000 gauchos, who had been recruited through the powerful Gaucho Association of the Pampas, from the surrounding estancias, or ranches.

After they were recruited, they had to be trained to fall off horses, play dead, handle sabers, ride madly down mountainsides, and in various other tricks of movie-making.

Norma Koch, costume designer, had one of the most monumental tasks of all.

New Actress Makes Debut In U.S. Films

One of the more interesting actresses in recent years is the blue-eyed, copper-blond 17-year-old beauty, Christine Kaufmann. Christine is starred in her first American-made motion picture, "Taras Bulba."

American audiences "discovered" the young actress, who has appeared in more than 26 European films, when she starred opposite Kirk Douglas in "Town Without Pity," filmed abroad.

Harold Hecht signed Christine for the leading feminine role in "Taras Bulba" after a single screen test.

Christine, born in Austria, of a French mother and German father, speaks fluent English, French, Italian, German and Spanish.

She made films in France, Italy, Austria and Germany before joining the "Taras Bulba" cast, in which she does her own horseback riding in action scenes.

Tony Curtis and Kirk Douglas introduced Christine to Hollywood. Douglas was one of the first to predict stardom for her during filming of "Town Without Pity."

Critics throughout the country acclaimed Christine's performance. Born on January 11, 1945, Christine was four when she appeared in her first school play. At seven she made her screen debut as a circus dancer and bareback rider. Later came the title role in "Rosenroth," a lead in "Schweigende Engel," and then Christine really awoke producers and directors with her portrayal of a school girl in the remake of "Maedchen in Uniform" with Lilli Palmer. Vittorio De Sica promptly chose her to star with Michele Morgan and himself in "Winter Vacation," produced in Italy. Then followed "The Last Days of Pompeii" and "Red Lips," which led to "Town Without Pity."

The new picture is based on Mark Toby's novel, telling of the efforts of a sensitive six-and-a-half-year-old boy to find a new wife for his widowed father, one who will come up to the exacting specifications of both father and son.

As the story unfolds, three candidates appear to be in the running for the role of a new mate for Tom Corbett (Ford), program manager for a New York radio station. Right across the hall from the apartment occupied by Tom and his precocious son, Eddie (Howard) lives the blonde, attractive and sympathetic young divorcee Elizabeth Marten (Miss Jones) who boasts a number of virtues. As a volunteer nurse, she proves of great value when Eddie comes down with the flu. Moreover, she is able to whip up a marvelous pan of fudge.

Then there is Dolley Daly (Miss Stevens), whom Eddie has "picked up" in a Times Square penny-arcade. Dolley has come to New York all the way from Montana in order to acquire poise and self-confidence. With her flaming red

Fickle Finger

Shirley Jones is amused by Glenn Ford's finger in this scene from "The Courtship of Eddie's Father." We haven't any idea why it's amusing to Miss Jones. Perhaps it's because Mr. Ford can't decide between her and another woman, a dilemma which Ford's son finally solves.

Glenn Ford Goes Courtin'

Glenn Ford and Shirley Jones head the cast, co-starring Stella Stevens, Dina Merrill, Roberta Sherwood, young Ronny Howard and Jerry Van Dyke, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's comedy-drama, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father."

hair and 38-24-36 measurements, she hardly needs it.

A third contender in the "Courtship" sweepstakes is Rita Behrens (Miss Merrill), sophisticated and beautiful career woman with her eye on a new career—marriage. Dolley eventually drops out of the race when Tom introduces her to Norman Jones, a lothario of the air waves, who gives Dolley all the confidence she longs for by finding a spot for her on his show as well as in his heart.

But that still leaves Elizabeth and Rita. Tom teeters precariously between these rival glamorous girls but in the end it is young Eddie, as Cupid, who plays the deciding factor in the choice of his new "mother."

Tony Curtis Has Versatile Range In Roles

To portray the romantic-warrior role of Andrei Bulba in "Taras Bulba," Harold Hecht chose Tony Curtis.

Today Curtis is acclaimed by critics and fans for the range, depth and versatility of his characterizations, but it was not always thus.

Tony made his first film appearance in "Crisis Cross," dancing with Yvonne de Carlo. Although his big moment lasted about a minute on the screen, fan mail started to pour in for him. This persuaded studio executives to star Tony in a million dollar Technicolor spectacle, "The Prince Who Was a Thief." Overnight Tony had a private dressing room, special privileges accorded only the biggest names, and a swashbuckling role. Curtis, the kid from Manhattan, was a motion picture star.

In the years since then Tony has achieved maturity on the screen and stature among his fellow-actors. One of Hollywood's busiest stars, he has handled a wide variety of roles ranging from swashbucklers to comedy to drama. He has appeared in some of movie-town's biggest hits, including "Spartacus," "Some Like It Hot," "The Defiant Ones," and "Kings Go Forth," and has won a roomful of honors and awards for his performances.

Auld Lang Syne For Minnelli

When Vincente Minnelli directed the wedding and reception scenes in "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," it marked a return to the exact scene of one of his earlier films.

The wedding scene was played on Stage 27 at the MGM Studio, the same stage in which Minnelli directed Elizabeth Taylor's marriage to Don Taylor with Spencer Tracy as the proud but harassed papa-in-law, in "Father of the Bride."

Sweet Bird

Site Named After Movie

The governor of the province of Salta in Argentina officially named the 122,000 acre site where Harold Hecht's multi-million dollar production "Taras Bulba" was shot: Taras Bulba, Argentina. Formal dedication of the site and installation of a plaque with the new name took place on the final day of filming. Star Yul Brynner made the official speech of acceptance in behalf of the film company and crew.

Construction of a huge billboard proclaiming the new name of the area was completed by local artists. It displays large portraits of Brynner, co-star Tony Curtis, producer Harold Hecht and director J. Lee Thompson.

Geronimo

Chuck Connors, who really is a pretty good actor, portrays an unlikely Geronimo in the picture of the same name. It is a film that probably will offend departed Apache shades, and cost Chuck his scalp. Color him red. He needs it.

Fun In The Tub

A Mack Sennett beauty is caught in the tub when the plumber blunders up the wrong pipe, in this scene from "30 Years of Fun." The film is another Robert Youngson assemblage of clips from old silent comedies, but with something new added: a few documentary vintage shots to tie the comedies into the historical periods from which they came.

The Old Comedies Come To Life

What may well be the fastest, funniest film ever produced is now at the State Theatre. It's called "30 Years of Fun." Released by 20th Century-Fox, this remarkable feature crowds the greatest comedy moments of the three decades — from the Gay Nineties through the Roaring Twenties — into 90 minutes of hilarity.

The stars of "30 Years of Fun" are five immortal comedians, universally acclaimed as the funniest in the movies have known — Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Harry Langdon, and Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. Together they recapture a world of warm, wonderful entertainment in a film for the whole family—because everybody loves to laugh.

The producer of "30 Years of Fun" is Robert Youngson, winner of two Academy Awards and six Academy Award nominations.

Youngson was recently honored with the coveted annual Pace One award of the New York Newspaper Guild for his three previous comedy caucades. "The Golden Age of Comedy," "When Comedy Was King," and "Days of Thrills and Laughter."

You might also stay for the double-bill, "Geronimo," starring Chuck Connors. It's full of laughs, too.

Are So-Called "Bargain" Eyeglasses Really A Bargain?

Have you ever heard this famous quotation: "Quality Is Remembered Long After The Price Is Forgotten"? This is true. Of course, this doesn't mean that real values shouldn't be looked for whenever they truly exist. But, there is a difference in real value and so-called "bargains"...and this is especially true when it comes to eye care and eyewear.

So-called "bargain" eyeglasses may, in fact, not be a bargain at all. Unknown to the purchaser of so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, some important elements could be left out of the lens prescription, or a special type of bifocal or trifocal lens may be omitted, just to cut the cost of making the glasses. These omissions could result in strained eyes, discomfort and improper vision. Also, inferior quality frames might be used which could reduce the wearing comfort as well as the useable life of the glasses.

There is no good reason for risking priceless eyesight and comfort on so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, when real value in professional eye care and eyewear is available at famous

Texas State Optical. For the past 27 years hundreds of thousands of people throughout Texas have learned to rely on TSO for outstanding professional eye care and finest quality eyewear at reasonable cost.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Former Resident Kind Of Homesick

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to tell you how much I enjoy reading your paper. Every day around 11:30 I start looking for the postman. If I don't get a letter from some of the folks, I can always depend on the Herald.

I have a sister living at Forsan and my mother and dad and grandmother and another sister sister live in the Lockhart Addition in Big Spring.

The Sunday paper is my favorite. I enjoy all of it and especially the Cosden Chatter since I worked at the refinery for three years prior to my husband's transfer to Tennessee.

Although my husband was in the city a short time, about one year, he came to know a lot of people there. Since he was the RCA Service Co. representative, he came in contact with a lot of business people.

Although we get the paper about two days after it has been published, we sincerely appreciate it. It helps to lessen the homesickness we seem to have so far away from home.

To the Editor:

To all who are alarmed at the thought of the United States being disarmed, and arms and servicemen being turned over to the United Nations, I would call your attention to S. Con. Resolution 21, which was introduced by Sen. Carl Curtis, as appearing in Congressional Record of Feb. 20, 1963, page 2464, which will soon be in our County Library in Big Spring.

This resolution will give us some protection, but not enough. We should at least try to get the arms control back under our Congress. May I suggest that you, when writing Sens. John G. Tower and Ralph Yarborough, Senate Office Building, and Hon. George Mahon, U.S. House of Representa-
