Murder Charges Follow Shooting

Mrs. Loma Doyle O'Neal 38, was killed at her home about 2 p.m. Sunday by two bullets fired from a 22 caliber rifle. Police said George Ives 39, has admitted the shooting and charges of murder were filed in the court of Justice of the Peace Walter Grice.

Officers said apparently Mrs. O'Neal and Ives quarreled over money matters, which resulted in the shooting at 205 Utah.

Detective Aubrey Hurley, who took a statement from Ives Sunday afternoon, said the man told him he had been living at the O'Neal home, and that he was unemployed. He said he was ordered out of the house during an argument and he took a stockless 22 caliber rifle from a footlocker and shot Mrs. O'Neal.

He said he asked Mrs. O'Neal's son, Doyle, to call police. Patrolmen arrested Ives and he is being held in city jail. No bond has been set.

Mrs. O'Neal was dead on arrival at a local hospital. She was employed at the W-K Cleaners, 1213 W. 3rd.

R. L. Grayson Jr., who lives at the Big Spring Courts, told Hurley he was in the house at the time of the shooting, but not in the room. In a statement he said he heard what sounded like two shots. He went to the bedroom and saw Mrs. O'Neal on the floor.

He said Ives placed the gun barrel to his temple and pulled the trigger, but the gun did not fire. The body of Mrs. O'Neal was to be taken to the Nalley-Pickel Funeral Home until tonight, when it will be removed to the Kiker & Son Funeral Home in Colorado City. Services will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Kiker Chapel with burial in the Colorado City Cemetery.

Mrs. O'Neal had lived in Big Spring for the past two years but had also made her home here on another occasion. She lived in Odessa for a time before returning to Big Spring as an employee of W-K Cleaners.

She was born April 23, 1924 in Littlefield. She died at 2:03 p.m. Sunday en route to the Cowper hospital.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. E. L. Womack, Colorado City; two sons, Paul Lawson and Doyle Ray Lawson, both of Big Spring; her mother, Mrs. Linnie D. Flippin, Colorado City; four brothers, T. N. Flippin, Big Spring, Billy Flippin, Wayne, Mich., Don Flippin, Hale Center, and Marion Flippin, Antioch, Calif.

City Election To Name Two To Commission

Voters of Big Spring will go to the polls Tuesday to elect two city commissioners to serve two year terms. Three candidates are in the field for the two places, and voters will have a choice of four polling places to cast their ballots.

"We hope the voters of Big Spring will not be complacent in choosing the men to direct the city's business for the next two years," Mayor George Zachariah said Monday. "The city is making marked progress in development," the mayor said. "A lack of interest in voting for candidates often leads to lackadaisical development."

Paul Kasch, who has served two terms as commissioner, and who is now mayor pro-tem, has filed for re-election. He is a member of A. P. Kasch & Sons, contractors. John Stanley, associated with his father in Stanley Hardware, has served one term and is seeking re-election. Roscoe Cone, insurance man and former mayor of Bloomington, Ill., is a new candidate in the field.

Polls will open at 8 a.m. Tuesday and will close at 7 p.m. Voters may choose any one of the city's four fire stations to cast their ballots: Main fire station at Fourth and Johnson, with S. P. Jones as election judge; Eighteenth and Main fire station, George Melcar, judge; Eleventh and Birdwell, Loy Acuff, judge; and the Northside station, 100 NE 8th, Rufus Davidson, judge.

Weighty Wife Sheds 18 Pounds After 2 Weeks

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Inside every fat person there's a thin person screaming to get out.

No one knows this more than Mary Ferguson, the 226-pound former recluse of Long Beach, Calif. The pleas of the 128-pound person Mrs. Ferguson hopes to be, have been heard by the True Method Salon in nearby Menlo Park.

Mrs. Ferguson, 36, and her husband arrived at San Francisco International Airport Sunday night after her lonely two-week fast in a locked Long Beach hotel room.

During the two weeks, the 5-foot, 2-inch woman dropped 18 pounds with a diet of coffee, tea, bouillon and vitamin pills.

Now Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, Arthur, 45, are enjoying a second honeymoon at a fancy Palo Alto motel as guests of salon owner Connie Bristow.

"I don't know what that crazy weight loss program did to her," Mrs. Bristow said. "So I can't promise how much weight she'll lose. But I'm expecting dramatic results."

Mrs. Ferguson wore a new hair-do and a new dress, size 22½. Her first goal is to become a size 20½ by Easter.

"I'll take about a year," she said about the ultimate goal. "But I'll never stop until I make it."

Senate Approves Poll Tax Abolition

Measure Now Goes To House

AUSTIN (AP)—Senators approved 22-7 today a measure to abolish the poll tax as a requirement for voting.

The proposed constitutional amendment goes to the House. If approved there, it will go to Texas voters in the 1964 general election.

"This amendment is being brought about by pressure from outside Texas — our Yankee friends to the North," protested Sen. Galloway Calhoun Jr. of Tyler, "once again the State of Texas must roll over and play dead to federal pressure to abolish a time-tested tradition."

Texas is one of the only five states that now require a poll tax to vote. A proposed amendment to the national Constitution that would ban the poll tax nationwide has been ratified by 24 of the 50 states. There has been no move toward ratification in the Texas Legislature.

The House took two important steps early today.

Representatives voted 80-63 against a three week delay in debate of a bill to shake up Texas' congressional districts. The measure is on today's calendar, but ninth on the list.

PADRE BILL
House members approved and sent to Gov. John Connally a measure allowing the creation of a national seashore area on Padre Island.

Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine asked the House to send the re-districting proposal back to another committee for further consideration.

His motion would have delayed consideration of the measure for at least three weeks and made passage during this session difficult.

The measure, by Rep. Rayford Price of Frankston, gives Dallas County its second seat in Congress.

It also combines the districts of Rep. Ray Roberts of McKinney and Rep. Wright Patman of Texas. Texas now has 21 congressmen.

Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas was elected at-large.

Hendryx, in Rep. O. C. Fisher's West Texas District, said the bill needed more study. It makes Fisher's district larger than 23 separate states.

The measure also shaves down various districts along the Gulf Coast and the Rio Grande Valley. Houston retains its two seats in Congress.

COMPROMISE
The House accepted the request by Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen to accept a compromise Padre Island proposal.

Government wants to make an 80.5-mile area along the slim, sandy beach the third national seashore. It lies between Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

Backers said the government will spend $5 million developing the island.

The measure provides that a majority of the School Land Board will convey title to the state submerged lands to the federal government.

The state and federal governments will have concurrent jurisdiction of law violators.

Legislation passed Congress last year on the seashore area.

When debate on the registration bill ended, senators had added a 25-cent charge to help counties pay for costs of registration and were debating another amendment to provide for a permanent registration.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee will consider late today four more changes in the workmen's compensation law.

Other top Senate committee action includes consideration of bills to: Require anyone giving legislators contributions other than campaign expenses to file an annual statement with the secretary of state; and to protect political rights of teachers in public schools and in college.

Tonight, House committees will hold public hearings on bills to: Permit Bexar County voters to indicate whether they want parimutuel betting; tighten the Texas election laws; and provide a state minimum wage.

Coahoma Voters To Pick A Mayor

COAHOMA—Coahoma voters go to the polls Tuesday to decide by write-in vote who is to be the town's new mayor.

W. A. Hutchins, presently occupying that office, did not file for re-election. No other candidate listed himself as a contender. Coahoma voters will also select two aldermen from three candidates. One of these, R. W. Miller, is an incumbent. The other candidates are Frank Smith and C. C. Harrison.

At least three citizens have been quoted as saying they are available as mayor, if their friends want to write their names on the ballot.

Polls are to be established in the city hall. Voting begins at 8 a.m. and closes at 7 p.m.

Syria Placed Under Curfew

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The ruling Revolutionary Council today ordered Syria under curfew for 18 hours daily, signaling new tensions in this turbulent country.

Shortly before the curfew order, Damascus radio broadcast a decree naming Brig. Amin el Hafez deputy military governor of the country. Hafez also holds the post of interior minister. He was given martial law powers.

Hafez' first order imposed the curfew from 6 p.m. to 12 noon daily until further notice. The order went into effect immediately.

The curfew followed demonstrations in Damascus and Aleppo Sunday welcoming the arrival of an official Algerian delegation.

But papers in Beirut, Lebanon, pointed out they were more like shows of force between two political groups—one going all out for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, the other in favor of the Ba'ath political party.

Unity talks between Syria, Iraq and the United Arab Republic were jolted Sunday by criticism of the Syrian Ba'ath party by Nasser's friend, Mohammed Heikal of the newspaper Al-Ahram in Cairo.

Nearly Half Howard-G'cock Population Takes Type III

Recipients of Type III Sabin Oral Polio vaccine Sunday were the fewest counted in any of the three clinics, but by now nearly half the residents of Howard and Glasscock counties have received the best protection against polio available.

The vaccine was administered to 19,490 persons, or 47.2 per cent of the population of the two counties (1960 official census). There were 22,729 persons who took the Type I vaccine with another 3,362 at the make-up for a total of 26,151.

At the second clinic, 23,964 persons took the Type II vaccine and 2,531 took it at the make-up clinic. By percentages, 63.2 per cent took Type I vaccine and 64.2 per cent took Type II.

Business must be brisk at the make-up session if the percentages for the first two clinics is to be met by the third. The make-up will follow the same pattern as for the first two clinics. It will be from noon to 5 p.m. at the Rannels Junior High School gymnasium.

"We urge everyone who missed the clinic to be sure to make it

Sunday," Dr. J. M. Woodall, medical director, said. "There will be plenty of vaccine on hand and the persons can be served quickly."

Dr. Bruce Sanders will be in charge of the make-up.

Donations at the third clinic have not yet been tabulated, according to John Currie. The figures will be available Tuesday.

The first two phases of the drive brought in a total of $10,899.33. Any amount in excess of expenses will go to the Howard County Rehabilitation (Crippled Children) Center.

Market Posts A Fair Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—A steadily strengthening stock market posted a fairly good gain early this afternoon in brisk trading.

Industrial paced an over-all market advance, with gains of most key stocks fractional, but some going to a point or better.

Some investment-grade issues posted new highs for the year as the market improved its opening prices.

Steels, motors, oils, mail orders, building materials and airlines moved ahead with consistency.

The ending of the 114-day New York City newspaper strike was a bullish psychological factor. A report on the securities industry by the Securities & Exchange Commission due Wednesday, exercised some precautionary influence but not enough to spoil the definite uptrend.

Panel Bows To LBJ On Secret Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson doesn't want Secret Service men shadowing him 24 hours a day he shouldn't have to have them, the House Appropriations Committee decided today.

(See related story on page 2-A) The vice president should have as much protection as he wants whenever he wants it, the committee said in a report on an appropriation bill financing the Secret Service, but it shouldn't be forced on him.

A stickler for sticking to the letter of the law, the Secret Service asked the committee for about $328,000 to finance the employment of 35 more agents and a clerk to handle the vice-presidential watchdog detail. A law enacted last year authorized the service to provide full-time protection for Johnson. It construed that as a mandate.

Until last October, the vice president was given protection whenever he asked for it, which wasn't very often. Usually, two agents were assigned when he requested them. He didn't want around-the-clock surveillance.

The Appropriations Committee said the vice president's wishes should be respected in the matter.

"Adequate protection," it asserted, should be provided and Johnson's "wishes in connection with such protection should be respected."

The committee noted that at the time the 1962 law was being debated, it was estimated that the annual cost of full-time protection would be about $100,000.

STRONG TIES WITH BIG SPRING

Scott's Selection As U. S. Astronaut Dream Come True

Being selected for astronaut training is a dream come true for Capt. Russell James Scott, 30, Bowie, who got his pilot's wings at Webb AFB.

Capt. Scott, whose wife is the former Janice Nalley of Big Spring, had a boyhood ambition to be a test pilot. He is going to be that—and more. In June, he will enter a rigorous period of training that is due to lead to his assignment in the aeromanned space program as pilot, manager or consultant.

Only 14 men have qualified so far for the rating, and 10 others are due to graduate from the aerospace training school at Edwards AFB in May. Capt. Scott is one of 16 chosen for the fourth class in the aerospace program.

At Bowie, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Scott, were surprised but elated over the news of his selection. Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nalley, parents-in-law, were thrilled over the news because this is what "Russell has his heart set on."

Capt. Scott was born at Iowa Park but was reared in Bowie, one of a family of three children. "When he was just a little boy," said his father, a retired Sinclair Oil Company employee, "he always told us that he was going to be a test pilot some day."

At the age of 16, Capt. Scott took flying lessons from Sam Coffman, a World War I pilot, at Bowie. Then he baited his father into letting him buy a Piper Cub by first posing the question:

CAPT. RUSSELL J. SCOTT

"Dad, if you could get a good car for $600, would you buy it?"

His father said he certainly would.

"Well, it's a little bit different," Russell hedged. "I know where I can get a good airplane for that price."

Mr. Scott knew Russell didn't have quite that much saved from a truck driving job in spare time, but he told his son to write the check.

A star athlete and an all-district choice for center in football, Russell could have gone to Arlington State on a basketball scholarship after graduation in 1949. Instead, he chose to concentrate on his studies there. In high school he had a high B average and in Arlington, and later at Texas A&M, where he earned his degree in civil engineering, he ranked high scholastically.

Never, however, had his enthusiasm for aviation lessened. His room, said his parents, was covered with books and pictures on aviation, and with model airplanes he had built.

With his graduation from A&M in 1954, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force and went to Columbus, Miss. for basic pilot training. Arriving here early in 1955, he took his jet pilot training at Webb AFB in July.

A devout Christian, he taught a Sunday school class of young men at the First Baptist Church, and it was in the young people's department that he met Janice Nalley.

They fell in love, and her parents, sensing that it was serious, persuaded her to take an European tour. In the meantime, they went ahead with plans to register her at Baylor University, but when Janice returned she and Russell had made up their minds. They were married here Aug. 27.

They have two daughters, Renee, 6, now in the first grade, and Sandy, 4. From the start, Janice Scott knew that Russell also was married to the Air Force, and she encouraged him in his ambitions to be a test pilot. After leaving Webb, he went to Laughlin AFB at Del Rio for three months, and then to Luke AFB. He was assigned with the 77th Tactical Fighter Squadron in England for three years, which gave him a chance, because of his record, to be a test pilot. He won the Air Force Commendation Medal for skill and bravery in piloting an F-100 D to an open area before parachuting from it after the plane's motor failed. He landed unscathed in France. An extremely modest man, he never mentioned this, even when the medal took place in Kansas after his return.

When Capt. Scott and his family got back from England in 1958, he was slated to go to Edwards AFB for test pilot training. Instead, he was needed as a B-47 squadron commander in the Strategic Air Command. Chosen again for the test pilot school, he finally was assigned to Edwards, however, as a faculty member in the aerospace school commanded by Col. Chuck Yeager, first man to fly faster than the speed of sound. This was a break for him, for it gave him a chance to turn around and come back through the school as a student.

His parents naturally share a common parental concern, but Capt. Scott long ago put them at ease about his flying by saying that God was always his co-pilot. He still feels that way.

Rail Rules Effective Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Railroads have the right, effective today, to announce the work force reduction they have been urging for four years.

Such an announcement could touch off a nationwide rail strike threat, but President Kennedy is expected to step in this week and order a 60-day delay.

In fact, the President reportedly may not wait for a strike date to be set before he takes action under the Railway Labor Act. Under its terms a strike can be delayed while a presidential board takes 30 days to recommend a solution and the parties negotiate for another 30 days.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen said Sunday that if the railroads announce their new manpower rules, five operating unions representing 200,000 employees may resort to "the exercise of our economic strength, or in real plain old language, a strike."

STANTON—Stanton voters go to the polls Tuesday to elect two city aldermen. Only two candidates are in the field. John P. Roueche an alderman seeking re-election. The other candidate is Rufus Tom, seeking the seat formerly occupied by Leo Turner, who resigned recently when he removed his residence from Stanton.

Polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Voting will be in the city hall.

Funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church, Stanton, with Rev. Paris A. Barton, pastor of the Methodist Church, Lamesa, officiating, assisted by Tommy Williams, minister of the Stanton Church of Christ. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Arrington Funeral Home.

Survivors include the widow; five sons, James B. Haggard, T. A. Haggard, both of Houston, Rob Haggard and Buster Haggard, both of Lenora, Alex Haggard, Stanton; five daughters, Mrs. Earl Howell, Houston, Mrs. W. B. Langley and Mrs. Vernon Langley, both of Big Spring, Mrs. C. Meek and Mrs. Albert Johnson, both of Stanton; three sisters, Ruth Haggard, Mrs. O. L. Ashlock, Denton, Mrs. R. C. Clark, Cisco. 28 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

His overturned vehicle was discovered at 9:30 a.m. Sunday by an Abilene truck driver. He was admitted to the Rotan hospital and died at 1:45 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. Haggard was born Feb. 28, 1896 in Collin County and married Lillian Celsay at Denton, Jan. 2, 1911. They moved to Martin County from Denton in 1924 and lived at Lenora, Flower Grove, and Tarzan before moving to Stanton, where they made their home at 1110 N. St. Joseph.

Mr. Haggard was a farmer until 1935, when he became a ginmer. He was employed at the Gular gin at the time of his death, where he had worked since 1956. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Lenora.

than was provided in Kennedy's three-year program.

SECOND TERM: Chester Bowles, President Kennedy's special representative to underdeveloped countries, is reported under consideration for appointment as U.S. ambassador to India.

The 62-year-old former governor of Connecticut held the New Delhi post a decade ago, in the closing years of the Truman administration. A return trip is "very much under discussion," said a source close to Bowles.

The present ambassador, John Kenneth Galbraith, has indicated he would like to leave government service soon. He left Harvard, where he was a professor of economics, to take the post.

BUDGET: Republican Sens. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky and Jacob K. Javits of New York say Congress is not likely to cut President Kennedy's $98.8-billion spending budget more than $3.9 billion.

"I don't anticipate anything more," Morton said in a taped radio-television program with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

In a separate taped radio-television program, Javits said he thought at least $95 billion would be spent during the fiscal year that begins July 1.

His views contrast with those of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and other Republican leaders who contend Kennedy's monetary requests can be slashed from $10 billion to $13 billion.

DUMPING: Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said today foreign producers are dumping steel into the American market and "aggravating the excessively high rate of unemployment" in the United States.

He told the Senate in a prepared speech that he is considering introducing legislation to tighten the antidumping act.

Boulder Hits Community

Vice President's Stature Increases

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Treasury Department request for $322,000 to hire 35 more secret service agents to guard Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and his family is ample evidence of the increase in the responsibilities of that office.

Only two agents are now assigned to Johnson. The others would be available in the year starting July 1.

It was 20 years ago when another Texan, John Nance Garner, held the vice presidency that the office began to assume a role beyond that of being merely the Senate's presiding officer.

Garner, now 94, and living in retirement at his home in Uvalde, was the first vice president to leave the continental United States while in office by going to the Philippines in connection with the move to give the islands their independence.

INFLUENCE

Garner, possibly because of his former eminence as House Speaker, wielded considerable influence among members of the Senate, as vice president during Franklin D. Roosevelt's first two terms.

It was this increasing influence, coupled with a widening breach in philosophy with Roosevelt, that probably prompted Garner to make his unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination in 1940.

Harry S. Truman, last vice president of the Roosevelt regime, assumed the responsibilities of the presidency with a minimum of executive experience. Truman did not even know of the atomic bomb when he was sworn in at the White House April 12, 1945, a few hours after Roosevelt's death.

When Alben Barkley became vice president, Truman saw to it that he would be more in the know by naming him to the National Security Council.

NEW DUTIES

Soon after President Kennedy took office he made it plain that Johnson should share some of the Administration's responsibilities to an unprecedented degree.

One of the first things Kennedy did was to appoint Johnson as chairman of this Space and Aeronautics Council. Then he was named chairman of the President's Equal Employment Opportunity committee, and chairman of the Peace Corps advisory council. He also is a member of the National Security Council.

Johnson attends all meetings of the Security Council's executive committee; all Cabinet meetings, the weekly White House conference of congressional leaders, and meetings that the President holds with advisors prior to his news conferences.

Johnson has visited 20 nations on what have been described as "negotiating missions for the President," not just good will trips. The added responsibilities of the vice president is underscored by the fact that Garner, during his tenure, had two aides, his wife and a young Texan by the name of Louis Friday.

Johnson has almost a score of employees, some at his office on Capitol Hill and some in his offices in the Executive Building adjoining the White House.

As for all the proposed additional secret service agents, persons close to Johnson say they idea was not his and that he doesn't want all that protection. The Treasury said the extra 35 are needed to give him adequate protection, considering that the agents work 8-hour shifts and have vacation and sick leave like any other government employee.

A high Treasury official said a law passed by Congress last year over Johnson's objection makes it mandatory on the Secret Service to provide the vice president with such protection.

Romney Lays Prestige On Line In Vote Today

DETROIT (AP) — Republican Gov. George Romney laid his newly won political prestige on the line as he urged Michiganders to vote today for a new state constitution, strongly opposed by Democrats and labor leaders.

Former Gov. John B. Swainson, the man Romney unseated last November, has called for rejection of the new document. So has August F. Scholle, state AFL-CIO president and one of Romney's chief political foes.

Democrats entered much of their fire on the apportionment clauses of the proposed document, which would replace Michigan's much-amended 55-year-old constitution.

Scholle, who has a suit before the U.S. Supreme Court challenging the constitutionality of apportionment clauses in the present constitution, contends the new document is no improvement. He has been a leading advocate of the principle of one man, one vote. Scholle contends that the new constitution errs in providing that while the House is elected on a strictly population basis, the Senate shall be elected on a formula based on 80 per cent population and 20 per cent area.

Romney, who helped write the proposed document as vice president of the 1961-62 constitutional convention, has charged that "a despicable campaign of lies and distortion" was being made in a last-minute attempt to discredit the new constitution.

He said he was forwarding what he called the worst examples to the Michigan Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

Tom Downs, AFL-CIO attorney who also was a convention vice president, asserted Romney's charge "was strictly a publicity gimmick aimed at discrediting those opposed to the proposed constitution."

The new constitution would provide for four-year terms for the governor and top state officers. Romney and Swainson agree the present two-year term is too short to permit a governor to accomplish his goals.

It would forbid a graduated state income tax. This is important in Michigan, which now has no state income tax, but where some support has developed in both parties for such a tax.

The document would provide some judicial reforms, including abolishment of the state's present system of justice of the peace courts, with the justices getting a percentage of the fines, fees and court costs they collect.

The proposed document would provide that a four-man commission should pick the state highway commissioner, a position which is now elective. The number of state agencies would be reduced from 120 to 20.

Besides acting on a flock of local issues, voters also will elect two State Supreme Court justices, a state superintendent of public instruction and fill seven posts on state university governing boards.

State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery predicted that 1.4 million voters will turn out for the biennial spring election which usually draws a comparatively small vote so far as in 1961, when 1,233,000 cast ballots.

Texan Is Named Top U.S. Ginner

DALLAS (AP)—Orville Bailey, a West Texas resident who was born in a gin yard at Waxahachie, has been named the nation's outstanding Cotton Ginner in 1962.

Bailey has operated the Round-up Gin near Anton in Hockley County since 1944 and has been in the gin business since working in his father's gin as a young boy.

The award was made Sunday at a meeting of the National Cotton Ginners Association.

Farmers Begin Spring Plowing

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — With spring here, farmers are planting and plowing, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service this week. A good soaking general rain would help the whole state, he added.

Livestock feeding decreased in several districts but is still heavy in drier districts.

Moisture is extremely short in the Panhandle where wheat growth is limited by the dry soil. Some counties report up to 25 per cent winterkill of wheat. Blowing soil is becoming a problem.

The South Plains are dry and farmers are irrigating wheat, and cotton and grain sorghum land. Potatoes and onions are being planted.

Wheat growth in most of the Rolling Plains counties is slow due to dry weather. Fruit trees are blooming. Stock water is low in places.

Grass in trying to green up but all ranges and crops in far West Texas need a general rain. Irriggated small grains are growing well but livestock are still being fed. The lamb crop has been good but some bitterweed trouble with sheep has been reported. Goat shearing is about over, sheep shearing has started. Most land is ready for cotton planting.

The country is greening up but a general rain is needed for grains and pastures in West Central Texas. Goat shearing is nearly complete.

Most north central counties are critically dry and crops are making little growth. Corn and sorghum planting is being delayed by the lack of rain.

Moisture is spotted in Northeast Texas. Grains are making good growth and corn planting has started. Pastures are average for this season.

Moisture is short in most of Central Texas. Corn and sorghum planting is being completed. Oats made some progress but need moisture. Germination of corn and sorghum has been slow. Pastures are poor to fair.

BIGGEST REACH

99 Million Consumers Read a Daily Newspaper Each Weekday

These readers make up the largest audience available to any advertiser in any medium. A recent study* of this national newspaper audience shows that it includes 80 per cent of all men and women over 21... and 72 per cent of all teen-agers, age 15 and over. This huge and consistent readership can be depended upon by advertisers because the daily newspaper is a habit with most people... an established part of their everyday lives. For the national advertiser, this amounts to almost the total market for any product. For the local advertiser, this massive readership symbolizes the local reach of his own local newspaper—into almost 9 out of 10 homes every day. No matter what the product or service an advertiser wants to sell, more people can read about it in the pages of the daily newspaper.

April May Bring Showers

By The Associated Press
Warm weather greeted the arrival of a new month in Texas, and there were prospects for increasing April showers.

Thunderstorms blustered across the Panhandle-Plains sector during the night. There was one report of a tornado whirling aloft about 3 miles west of Brownfield, but state patrolmen later told the Weather Bureau it probably was merely a low hanging rain cloud.

Occasional showers continued early Monday around Wink and Childress. Across the state in Southeast Texas there was fog at Lufkin and Beaumont.

Cooler air was due to surge southward into the state by Tuesday from Colorado, where ranchers were warned to protect livestock against expected snow.

Forecasters called for thunderstorms dotting West Texas to turn into scattered thunderstorms Tuesday and for a few thunderstorms to spread into eastern areas of the state.

New five-day forecasts issued Monday promised no big changes in temperatures, which were expected to hold near normal in Northwest Texas and up to half a dozen degrees above normal in other sections. Occasional light showers were predicted in most areas.

Presidio in the West Texas Big Bend recorded a 98-degree high, the top mark in the nation, Sunday afternoon. Dalhart was the coolest point with a maximum of 77.

Readings early Monday ranged from 52 at Dalhart up to 68 at Corpus Christi and Laredo.

BACKACHE & NERVE TENSION
SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION
After 21, common kidney or bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning, or itching urination both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headache, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritations, Cystex usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in urine, acid urine and by soothing pain relief. Get Cystex at drugstore. Feel better fast.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.
In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.
Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

(© 1963; By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWER TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ 10 7 2 ♣ 10 3 ♠ K J 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. This is not much of a hand and partner's bid is not forcing. Nevertheless, you should decline to give up the ghost at this point. Whereas your one no trump bid promised six points in high cards, you have seven plus two rather impressive 10s. Furthermore, you have all suits stopped and while in some cases the contract rates to be defeated, the occasional game you will score will more than compensate for the slight losses.

Q. 2—Your partner has opened with one spade and you hold:

♠ 10 3 ♠ A K 4 ♠ A Q 10 7 5 4

What is your response?

A.—A jump shift to three clubs is our choice, despite the fact that we have no special support for spades. This hand is worth 19 points and, unless the jump shift is made, it will be almost impossible to show the full strength of the hand on subsequent rounds.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ K J 8 6 5 ♣ K Q J 7 ♠ A 4 3 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ Pass

2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Your hand contains considerably more than you might have had full a minimum opening, and you should do something other than make the mere routine bid of four spades, which would be a forced bid. The suggested call is a bid of four diamonds. This will not indicate a desire to play in the minor suit, since your major suit has been vigorously supported. It will merely serve as a mild suggestion for a slam, without incurring any additional expense. If partner is not interested, he will make the mere routine return to four spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ K J 8 6 5 ♣ J 8 ♣ K J 7 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. A bid of two spades is not recommended. The likelihood of going places in spades is not great, and if partner finds it expendent to remind three clues you may be in difficulties. If partner had a balanced hand he would have doubled rather than make a simple overcall of a minor suit.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ Q 6 ♣ Q 5 ♣ K Q J 8 4 3 2 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♣ Pass

1 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two diamonds. The length of your diamond suit is not sufficient justification for a jump rebid, which in our methods is forcing. While two diamonds is admittedly an understatement, a jump to three would be a distinct overbid.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ Q 10 9 6 4 ♣ Q J 10 3 ♠ K Q 6 4

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Pass Pass 1 ♠

Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Partner has obviously passed values which amount to a fair sized trap but, in view of your unbalanced distribution, a no trump contract should be viewed with suspicion and an effort should be made to elicit a spade preference from partner. The suggested call is three clubs or three diamonds if you prefer.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ K Q 10 9 6 2 ♣ A Q 7 5 ♠ 9 7 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—With a void in diamonds we would not relish a no trump contract and would recommend a bid of four spades. This holding in the circumstances is more or less self-sustaining; an alternate call is four clubs, which we might be inclined to try if we had an honor in the suit.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ Q 10 6 2 ♣ 7 3 ♠ A 8 6 4 2 ♠ A K

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass

2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. While your values are ample for a game effort at no trump a further exploration bid may be made at no cost. Partner might have a four card spade holding which he temporarily suppressed in favor of showing the heart stopper. Your bid will offer him all sorts of chances.

News Drought Comes To End For New York

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City's 114-day newspaper strike has ended with the roar of high-speed presses and the busy sounds of 19,000 newspaper employees back at work.

A series of labor disputes had shut down the papers for nearly four months and cost the city's economy an estimated $250 million.

News-hungry inhabitants of this news-making city bought up the papers almost as fast as the presses could print them. Normally, 5½ million copies are printed daily, but the sale of today's editions was more than brisk.

"I never sold papers so fast in my life," said a Bronx news dealer. "I was passing them out like a robot."

Two morning papers—the Times and Herald Tribune—returned to the stands Sunday night at double their prestrike price. The papers said greatly increased costs forced a rise from 5 to 10 cents, the first increase since 1946.

The other morning papers—the tabloid News and the Mirror—remained at a nickel. The afternoon papers retained their prestrike prices—10 cents for the Manhattan papers and 5 cents for the Long Island Press and the Long Island Star-Journal. The Press, which published its Long Island edition, throughout the strike, raised its Sunday price from 15 to 20 cents.

The newspaper shutdown—longest and costliest in this city's history—began Dec. 8 with a strike of printers. It ended Sunday when 317 photoengravers—members of the last of three unions that joined the strike—voted to accept a new contract with the Publishers Association of New York City.

H-SU Band Plays At Graham Rally

TOKYO (AP)—The Hardin S. Union University Cowboy Band from Texas played Sunday at a mass rally organized by Billy Graham's evangelistic group.

About 200 Japanese non-Christians responded to a challenge to "receive Christ" after the service. The band from the Abilene school opened the rally, attended by 5,000 persons, by marching down the aisles of the auditorium playing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Of the 200 foreign Baptists visiting Japan in connection with the crusade, about 160 are from Texas.

The sermon was given by J. T. Ayorinde, general secretary of the Nigerian Baptist Convention. Graham is ill in Hawaii and will not be able to take part in the 150 meetings scheduled in Japan.

HINDRANCE TO UNITY

"Once upon a time two men in a church had a disagreement. In the heat of argument over certain principles, each felt keenly the need to 'win' in order to save face. So, neither one budged an inch. When it became evident that the disagreement could not be solved, the man with fewer supporters among the membership felt compelled to go his separate way... but not completely separate. He took with him all who would accompany him."

"Only by pride cometh contention" said Solomon (Prov. 13: 10).

"Just as pride sometimes divides us by insisting on its own way, so does it keep us divided. Once we take a position at odds with others, we will defend it, right or wrong, at all costs. Pride sees to that. If all could forget the desire to have their own way, save face, and nurse a sensitive pride, unity would most likely be possible." (From Firm Foundation).

Mercy Mission

Dr. Kenneth Kenigsberg playfully pokes 7-year-old Jesus Antonio Lopez of Mexico in the ribs as the doctor tells newsmen how an international mission of mercy saved the boy's life. The boy's gall bladder ruptured when he was hit by a small truck last Jan. 17. Mexican doctors thought he had sclerosis of the liver and sent him home to die. U.S. authorities heard of the case and got the boy to Los Angeles, Calif., where Dr. Kenigsberg and his staff at Children's Hospital took over.

First Family Visits Famed Gettysburg Battleground

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy took advantage of a balmy Sunday to visit the famed battlefield of Gettysburg where the North threw back the greatest offensive of the South a hundred years ago and brought the Civil War to its turning point.

Like other tourists they also peered with interest at a certain white brick and stone residence near the western edge of the battlefield—the home of former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Eisenhowers are vacationing in California.

The Kennedys, their daughter, Caroline, 5, and Undersecretary of the Navy Paul Fay and his wife and children spent the weekend at the presidential hideaway in the Catocin Mountains near Thurmont, Md.

After mass, an auto expedition got under way for Gettysburg, 25 miles away. Kennedy took the wheel of the dark blue convertible and piled most of the party into it. Two of the three Fay youngsters trailed along in a station wagon driven by a Secret Service agent.

By pre-arrangement a stop was made at the edge of the battle-

Bleak Outlook For Refugees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A fresh report from Cuba that guerrilla forces are weak and lack arms left a bleak outlook today for Miami's exile colony, already discouraged by the United States crackdown on commando raids.

"There is no strong underground or guerrilla movement in Cuba—despite what you hear," said Carlos Penin, former schoolmate of Fidel Castro and now coordinator of the People's Revolutionary Movement.

His report came on the heels of a weekend crackdown on Miami's anti-Castro groups. Some 18 exile leaders were told they could not leave Dade County, which includes most of metropolitan Miami.

It also was reported that the Coast Guard and the Immigration Service were increasing their efforts to prevent forays against Cuba such as two recent attacks against Soviet ships.

In Washington, the State and Justice departments announced jointly Saturday that the United States would "take every step necessary" to make certain American soil is not used as a base for Cuban refugee raids on Cuba and on Soviet shipping.

Officials indicated that the main legal weapon they would use against hit-and-run raiders would be the American neutrality law, which provides penalties up to three years imprisonment and $3,000 fine for taking part in "a military or naval expedition departing from the United States" to attack a nation with which the United States is not at war.

One Cuban leader, who asked that his name not be used, said: "This is the last straw. No invasion. No government in exile. No jobs and now, no more attacks on Castro."

A spokesman for the Revolutionary Study Directorate, Jose Antonio Lamusa, said, "If these restrictive orders are going to completely snuff out outside action against Castro, internal rebellion will become almost impossible in Cuba."

Prime Minister Fidel Castro said over the weekend it will take his armed forces "a few more weeks" to wipe out rebels operating on Cuban territory.

DANA WYNTER

Fashion Sense Means Decisions Are Right

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — "Being well dressed begins with a definite point of view," Dana Wynter says. Dana, who is often honored for her taste in clothes, contends that high fashion confuses some people. "Extreme styles are for those who can afford to discard their wardrobe every season. Otherwise you must take time to find out what is best for you. The reason people don't have a fashion sense is because they avoid making decisions."

"Ask yourself what clothes are best for where you live, what you do and how much you have to spend. If your wardrobe is built within these limits, you will never mean, 'I don't have a thing to wear,' and you won't, if you buy or impulse because something is cheap, at sales because something is a plain price, or piecemeal without a plan."

"I would rather have an original than my dressmaker made from a pattern than buy a copy of a French dress that was made in a hurry with loose seams and hemlines that come back from the cleaners longer in one place than another."

Dana practiced this advice when she was a struggling actress in London.

"I designed one simple black velvet dinner gown that I wore everywhere. It appeared different because of the different styles I wore. I bought handsome fabrics and fringed the ends. When columnists mentioned I was at a party in turquoise, white or some other color, it was the same dress. They were describing my styles."

"The first investment for anyone who wants to build a fashion sense is a long mirror so that you can get an overall picture of yourself. You should also use a full-length mirror when trying on a hat—never make your decision sitting down. You should see yourself from the front and back."

"Have you chosen your Easter bonnet yet?"

"Two of them. One to wear to church and one to a party late in the afternoon. I love hats. They will never be replaced no matter how hard the hairdressers try. I wouldn't think of traveling without one, and I am sorry the cocktail hat is not more popular; they are so feminine and give a new lift to the same old dress. Once I went on a flying personal appearance tour with one suitcase and three hairboxes."

Dana has just finished "List of Adrian Messenger" for Universal-International, and mentioned that even on the screen she refused to wear clothes with stays.

"If a dress is well made, I don't think they are necessary, and I don't like cinches either. They also look unnatural," she said.

We chatted about accessories and she said, "In London I used to economize on meals to be able to afford a handsome leather bag."

"It is important to limit your basic colors so that the same shoes and bag can serve every costume. In completing the fashion picture, don't forget that your hose and shoes should blend—not be something that stands out."

High score went to Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Parker of Garden City. Second high went to Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wilkerson, Garden City, who were guests. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster of Sterling City will be host and hostess for the next meeting.

Longer Life For Mounted Mirror

Unframed architectural mirrors, those practical decorating standbys which add space and light to any room, will give the best service if they are mounted properly.

When installing mirrors flush to a wall surface it is important that the wall area directly behind it is dry. This is especially true when dealing with fresh plaster, as dampness in time can have a damaging effect on the silvering of the back of a mirror. As a safeguard, the wall should be covered with waterproof paper or the plaster sized to seal out moisture.

Wherever possible, the mirror should be mounted slightly out from the wall to allow air circulation.

Piano Ratings At Festival

One hundred eighteen entrants participated in the piano festival held in the auditorium of Howard County Junior College Saturday. The all-day event was sponsored by the Big Spring Piano Teacher's Forum.

Judging was by Miss Mary Dunn of Lubbock.

"RELIABLE PRESCRIPTIONS"

Taylor Believes That Absence Adage Works

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Does absence really make the heart grow fonder?

Handsome movie star Robert Taylor, a box office favorite for three decades, thinks it does even when you are, as he is, married to a beautiful girl.

He and actress Ursula Theiss have been married nine years. "Married people need to get away from each other occasionally for one reason or another," he says, "but they should also have vacations and recreation together."

Whereas he likes "to jump in the car with another guy and a couple of dogs and take off on a little hunting trip," he also enjoys having Ursula with him on outdoor trips as often as possible.

"She likes to do the things I do though I suspect sometimes that she'd rather spend a weekend seeing three movies. She's crazy about movies," he says.

Many women don't take to the outdoors at all, but they shouldn't keep their husbands from it, if that's what they want, Taylor says.

TRY IT FIRST

Still, many women do not realize how much fun it can be until they try.

"Ursula didn't cherish the idea, but I put my foot down to start off with," Taylor says laughing, "and pretty soon she took to it. She likes dogs and horses so the rest came easy."

Ursula earned her camping wings when they went on "one camp deal" that was absolutely murderous. She didn't squawk as much as I did," Taylor says.

Contrary to the picture most people have of Hollywood marriages, many of them are long-lasting and bolstered by the companionship that the outdoors affords.

Reorganization Of Lawettes At Party

A supper was held Friday evening by the Lawettes at the Wag-on Wheel Restaurant when new officers were elected.

The new chieftess is Mrs. Bill Baker; secretary is Mrs. Betty Condray; and Mrs. Graydon Howell, publicity chairman.

Twenty members were present. Date and hostesses for the next meeting will be announced soon.

Happy

Carolyn Ann Lima wears a happy smile as she makes her return trip to Goree Prison Farm for women as stays of execution were granted to her and Leslie Douglas Ashley. She had arrived an hour earlier at the Huntsville prison to wait for the reprieve or the electric chair. Lima and Ashley had been convicted of the torch murder of Houston real estate man Fred A. Tones.

$2-Trillion Economy Seen By Year 2000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has ample resources to support a $2-trillion economy by the year 2000 and apparently can continue to grow far into the 21st century.

This was the conclusion of a bulky and authoritative report published today by Resources for the Future, Inc., after a five-year study.

The depletion of resources, gloomily foretold by many after the great chewing-up of materials in World War II, has been pushed far ahead by science, discovery and advancing technology, the privately supported research organization said.

It painted these highlights in its picture of the year 2000:

—Land looms as the greatest shortage—space to accommodate the homes, businesses, travel and recreation of an end-of-the-century population of around 331 million. There are now 188 million Americans.

CROPLAND

—Cropland will be ample to produce food — and troublesome farm surpluses—far into the future. Other identified demands for land add up to 50 million more acres than there are in the 48 continuous states; some land will have to be put to two or more uses.

—About 244 million autos—possibly three for every two adults—will be plying the streets and highways.

—Some of the vehicles may be auto-planes, safely operable in the air as on turnpikes. Some may be powered by batteries, recharged by household current; others may run on chemical fuel cells.

—Whatever the motor fuel, there will be enough to run the cars at no great increase in cost. There will be enough materials to meet the estimated demand for 26 million new cars a year—about four times today's output.

—Americans will be eating more meat, especially beef, and less wheat. They will grow taller while consuming fewer calories, and will wear fewer and lighter clothes—including, perhaps, some disposable garments made of paper.

—The atom will provide more energy than coal, but coal use will still be growing.

TWO-HOUSE FAMILY

—The two-house family will be common. More and more Americans will have a city home and a country home, or a winter house and a summer cottage.

—Spendable income of the middle family, after taxes are paid, will be $11,000 a year, instead of today's $5,000.

—Total national output, now around $560 billion a year, will have climbed above $1 trillion by 1980 and then doubled to more than $2 trillion by 2000.

Water will be a shortage problem for the West and a quality problem for the East, the researchers found. More dams and reservoirs on eastern rivers will be needed to ensure enough dependable flow to purify the sewage and industrial waste, or flush it into the sea.

In the West, the study indicated, many areas may be obliged to curtail irrigation of crops if they hope to continue their rapid population and industrial growth.

Scouts Partake Of Defense Test

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—"Man, I don't think I ever want to see another graham cracker."

Michael Randall, 12, of Joplin, Mo., summed up the feelings of 822 Boy Scouts who stumbled out of a civil defense shelter Sunday after a 36-hour survival test.

The boys were supposed to live on CD survival crackers. But there weren't enough, so graham crackers were issued—eight to a meal, with only water to wash them down.

Ronnie Hailey, 11, Joplin, was asked what he got out of the test. "A weak stomach," he replied. The shelter was the unfinished basement of Our Lady of Ozarks College. During the test, the boys earned merit badges in first aid, and took courses in radiological monitoring and communications.

DEAR ABBY

Mama Knows A Few Things

DEAR ABBY: My mother had a miserable childhood and she wants mine to be worse. I am almost 15 and I am treated like a two-year-old. My mother won't let me go in cars with boys, and when I try to explain to her that ALL the girls my age are allowed to, she accuses me of talking back to her. Please Abby, help me explain this to my mother.

NO RIGHTS

DEAR NO: A daughter who thinks her mother wants her to have a "more miserable childhood" than her own needs to have a few things explained to HER. If you mother forbids you to go in cars with boys, accept her decision without an argument. You might resent her holding you back now but, take my word for it, you will thank her later.

DEAR ABBY: Occasionally you print letters in your column from wives or friends complaining of a man's health food addiction. Don't these people know how lucky they are? I wish MY husband would stop at a HEALTH bar for a glass of carrot juice after work. I wish he would come home with a six-pack of wheat germ. How wonderful it would be to be married to a man who loved his family so much he wanted to take good care of his health so he would be around to see his children grow up.

ALCOHOLIC'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three years and it never occurred to me to mistrust my husband, but here is my story: Last week I went to visit my parents, who live 200 miles away. I stayed three days. When I returned, my neighbor (we live in an apartment) told me that my husband had brought a young woman to our apartment and they went in at 5:55 p.m. and came out at 7:15 p.m. When I asked my husband about it he said he had invited a co-worker to see our apartment because she was decorating hers and wanted some ideas. I have been nervous and upset ever since. Does it take an hour and 20 minutes to look at four rooms?

NERVOUS AND UPSET
DEAR NERVOUS: When a woman is seeking ideas for decorating, an hour and 20 minutes is no time at all. The greatest danger in your marriage at the moment could be your neighbor. She sounds like a trouble-maker.

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3355, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Security Chief Of Israel Quits

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Israel's long-time security chief has quit, apparently in a dispute with Premier David Ben-Gurion over what to do about German rocket scientists working for the United Arab Republic.

Informed sources said Ben-Gurion objected to attempts to dictate foreign policy by the cloak and dagger boss whose name still is concealed by rigid security precautions.

The premier also reportedly opposed direct action tactics against the German scientists along the lines of the kidnapping of Adolf Eichmann from Argentina. The security chief engineered that, and it had international repercussions.

Two alleged Israeli agents were arrested in Switzerland last month and accused of conspiring to kidnap a German missile scientist employed by the U.A.R.

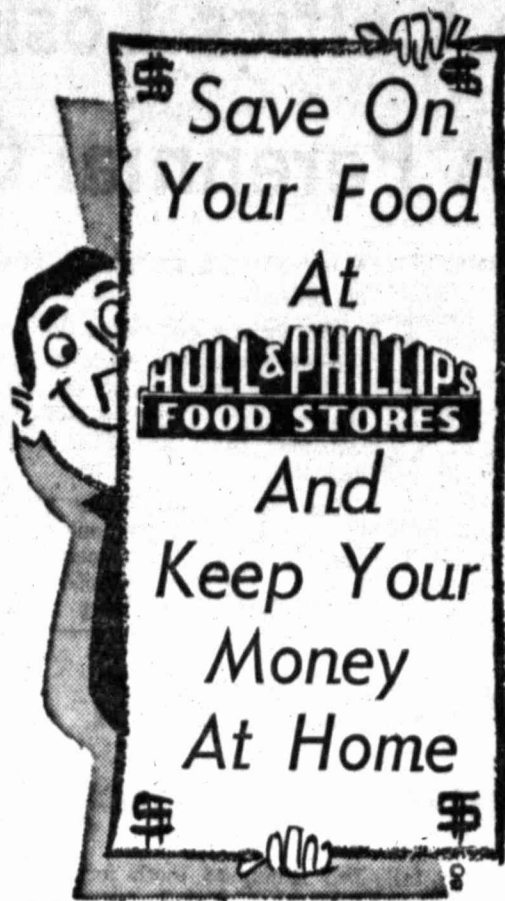

The independent Jerusalem Post said Ben-Gurion did not agree with attacks in the Israeli press on the West German government for not preventing the employment of its nationals in U.A.R. arms plants. The premier held the security chief responsible for the press campaign, the Post said.

Despite the shift in the intelligence high command, the Post said Ben-Gurion told a Cabinet meeting Sunday night he intends to continue pressing for West German action about the scientists. The premier reportedly said he considers their work for the U.A.R. dangerous to Israeli security and fears it could tempt U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser into an attack on Israel.

The Israeli Foreign Ministry has asked the West German government to call home the scientists, but Bonn has said it is unable to interfere because they are private citizens.

A government spokesman said Ben-Gurion repeated his support for Foreign Minister Golda Meir and her actions in the case. This apparently disposed of rumors she would resign.

The outgoing security chief has held the job for 10 years. He had been in top intelligence posts before that, both for the Israeli government and for the Jewish community in Palestine before Israel.

Motorcycles, Scooters Are Ready For Summer Riding

Spring is in the air and the temptation to take to the road for pure pleasure, in the open, and with fast, economical transportation, might lead to thoughts of a Harley-Davidson motorcycle or motor scooter. The 1963 models, including eight pleasure types, are still the talk of cyclists. Cecil Thixton Motorcycle and Bicycle Shop, at 908 W. 3rd, is waiting to give you information on, or show you, these models.

The man who has to use some sort of transportation to and from his work thinks of economy. During the spring and summer months the weather is ideal for open-air riding and the two-wheel vehicles are no problem when parking space is limited.

Young men like some of the sport models for outings, fishing, hunting, picnicking, and all kinds of them may be equipped to carry double, and have new type saddle bags for carrying all the necessities for outings.

The Harley-Davidson line is featuring the new "Glide-Ride" swinging arm rear suspension on the Pacer and the Scat. The two 175 cc. two-stroke single cylinder motorcycles, have the pivoted arms for suspension to maintain proper chain adjustment throughout its travel and it is controlled by two coil springs. Both machines have new style handlebars in the 1963 changes, along with redesigned saddles and larger chain guards and rear fenders.

The Scat differs from the Pacer in having a "tuned" exhaust system, ball and control levers, 18-inch wheels instead of 16-inch, and off-the-road tires. It is also available in a trail riding model with a larger rear wheel sprocket and smaller transmission sprocket to provide more "dig."

Two improved Sprints are also shown this year. They are both 15-cubic inch, single cylinder motorcycles. Internal improvements, loved by motorcyclists, include a "beefed up" lower end bearing, lightweight racing tappets, improved oil filter, larger capacity oil pump, provision for tachometer drive, and redesigned shifter spring. A re-styled gas tank is also visible externally. The big change in the Sprint-H is the new extra-large chrome air cleaner with a replaceable filter cartridge.

The big boy of sportsters is the two 55-cubic inch two-cylinder motorcycles, the Sportster H and Sportster CH. They have a new third gear ratio which gives them a closer interval between third and fourth gears for smoother, faster shifting. The third gear transmission ratio in the Sportsters has been dropped from 1.381:1 to 1.221:1, giving an over-all drive ratio in third of 5.56:1 for the Sportster H and 5.85:1 for the CH. Both are more useful for riding in traffic than the former gearing. Both machines also have new kick start pedals.

The big boy of the new Harley-Davidson line is the luxurious, 74-cubic inch Duo-Glide. It comes with a new rear brake with linings, one and three-quarter inch-wide, providing 40 per cent more contact. The rear wheel brake cylinder has been redesigned for less pedal pressure in operation.

The Topper H, a new motor scooter, retains the two-stroke engine and transmission, and other features but has a new seat upholstered in weatherproof Hypalon plastic.

If it is a motorcycle or motor scooter you are looking for, or if it is just a fine bicycle, see Cecil Thixton at 908 W. 3rd.

Cactus Paint Is Special

Everything is beginning to bloom out as the first day of April rolls around and Spring is in the air.

The home with paint beginning to crack or peel or look "dingy" should be made to look like some of the flowers growing around it and about the only way to get that new look is with a new coat of Cactus paint.

Cactus, a local industry, manufactures paints for homes, both interior and exterior, business buildings, and all uses, to stand up under the West Texas weather conditions, including the dust storms.

A lot of testing, and analyzing, goes into the work before a paint is put on the market, and it must meet high standards before Cactus Paint Co. approves it for use.

If you want a room painted to match the rest of the house, a Cactus job will give you what you want. If you need a color not shown on the color cards or charts or if it is one of your own choosing, Cactus men can help you. Paint serves two purposes in its use. One is to give a desired appearance on the outside and inside, and the other is to preserve building materials.

Cactus has men experienced in making paints. They know what basic ingredients must go into the mixture in addition to the colors. They know what is required to make the paint stand up in all kinds of weather.

Cactus paints are available at local lumber yards and hardware stores. A telephone call to Cactus Paint Manufacturing Co., AM 4-8922, will get you the information needed for giving that home or building a "new look" for Spring.

Plan To Marry

Virginia Graham, eldest daughter of Evangelist Billy Graham, posed in Geneva, Switzerland, with her fiancé, Stephan Tchividjian, son of a Swiss financier. Miss Graham and Tchividjian plan to be married May 3 in Montreux, Switzerland, at the home of the bridegroom-to-be. Miss Graham is 17. Stephan is 23.

Robot Tax Collector Rears Head

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Taxpayers tempted to judge on their April 15 federal returns should think again. They may be up against a formidable combination, including:

1. A robot without any feelings. 2. A bureaucrat who admires the logic of Aristotle. 3. A gal whose eyes change from blue to green depending on what color eye shadow she is wearing.

These are among the workers in a small, modernistic building here in the Shenandoah Valley apple country. The building houses the national computer center of the Internal Revenue Service.

The robot, or computer, is checking millions of tax returns from the Eastern seaboard. By 1966, it will be prying into returns from all over the nation—an estimated 78 million, including individuals and businesses.

RAW DATA

Raw data—such as the figures on your return—are punched on cards in regional offices in Atlanta and Philadelphia. These cards transfer the information to magnetic tape. The tape—about 55,000 tax accounts on a reel about a foot in diameter—is then flown to Martinsburg.

Then the computer goes to work. Fed the raw tape, it checks against a master file to see whether a taxpayer has filed all returns lawfully due, whether he is up to date on payments and whether there is anything suspicious about him.

Then the machine produces another tape for shipment back to the field. This can automatically write notices that a person owes money, that he must produce his papers for an audit, or that he is even with the government.

When the computer sends out a notice requiring an answer, it begins counting the days, and if a taxpayer does not respond in time it fires off a sterner warning.

SLAPS LIENS

It can alert revenue agents to slap a lien on the old homestead or—oh yes—it can automatically write a refund check if necessary.

In charge of this awesome setup is not a high-domed scientist as you might expect—but an English major from Bowdoin College, class of 1940, John E. Stewart by name. He is an unusual bureaucrat, in that he takes pride in the small size of his bureau, 78 persons in addition to the robot.

The machine is important, he says, but far more important are the people attending it. They don't necessarily have to have advanced university degrees.

"But they must have an aptitude, an ability to do some abstract reasoning—like the logic of Aristotle, a master philosopher of ancient Greece. Above all, they have to be able to get along with other people, because this is a team job."

South Vietnamese Convoy Ambushed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A large Communist unit ambushed a government convoy 110 miles east of Saigon Saturday and gave it the worst mauling South Vietnamese forces have suffered in months.

The Reds killed 28 Civil Guardsmen and wounded 22. Four were missing. The Communists got away with only one known dead, although others were reported killed in an air strike after the ambush.

of the team is a 20-year-old secretary, a looker named Miss Naomi Hoopes. She does not claim to understand the computer thoroughly, but she is in thorough accord with its philosophy.

A PROPER GIRL

"I think everybody ought to pay his proper taxes, no more and no less," she said. A newsman with a passion for detail remarked that he had no trouble figuring out that her hair is brown, but was puzzled by the color of her eyes.

"That depends on the dress I am wearing and the eye shadow," she explained. "Today I am wearing a beige dress and green shadow. Therefore the eyes are green. Is it all right with you if I go back to work now?"

It turns out that checking on tax cheaters is not the sole reason for the computer, though an important one. Even if everybody were 100 per cent honest, Internal Revenue would drown in a sea of paper work as the population expands. Hence the resort to automation.

Automation has its limits, however. Officials explained that the quality of the computer's work depends on the quality of the data fed into it.

GARBAGE?

Neil Hoke, administrative assistant to Stewart, quoted an adage of computer men: "Garbage in, garbage out."

The computer is lightning fast, but in some ways is pretty dumb, Hoke said. To show how dumb it really is, it does not charge premium pay for overtime as any self-respecting union workman would. In fact its wage rate plummets when it labors overtime. Hired out by IBM, it charges a standard wage for the first 176 hours a month, then the rate drops to 40 per cent.

As might be expected, the heartless revenue service takes advantage of this and keeps the robot going 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Its monthly pay is pretty good, though—about $85,000.

The human staff is divided into shifts, so that people keep the computer company even in the still watches of the night.

Not that the machine isn't smart in some ways. It has a vast memory, for one thing. Also there are some things it won't stand. If a tape is damaged, say by the imprint of a human fingernail, the machine balks and stops. This helps prevent some long unemployed man in Tuscaloosa from getting a shock in the form of a million-dollar tax bill.

By the time the computer center is in full operation in 1966, about 500 miles of tape will be stored here: enough to stretch from Martinsburg to Boston.

HAS DUPLICATE

However, it would do no good for some tax dodger gone berserk to blow this place up to foil the revenue service. A duplicate master tape is kept in a "remote" location. It is not secret that the remote location is, at present, Washington. But nuclear energy being what it is, officials plan to move it somewhere else, perhaps a cavern deep in a mountain.

All the workers here seem to enjoy the automated life, though some have reservations about the fully automated lunchroom. There is a machine to serve cold sandwiches, another machine to heat them up, etc.

Asked how she liked this food, Dorothy McCullough, receptionist, said without enthusiasm: "It's all right for a while. I guess, but I don't think I could eat it every day."

She often carries her lunch. So does Naomi, but the day the reporter interviewed her, she wasn't eating any lunch. On a diet.

A Devotional For The Day

Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect. (Romans 12:2, RSV.)

PRAYER: O God, give us grace to see ourselves in the light of Thy revealing truth. We confess our love for Thee. May we have a deeper desire to forego the easy wayward path and choose the straight and narrow way that leads to the abundant life made possible for us through Thy Son our Savior. In His name we pray. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Be Good Citizens—Vote

If you are a resident of Big Spring, you get your first opportunity Tuesday to cast a ballot.

Three names are on the ballot for two places for city commissioner, and you owe it to the men offering for these places as well as to your community to cast a ballot.

In the absence of a hotly contested election with perhaps some side issues, the temptation is to stay at home. One of the tests of good citizenship is whether you will go to a little trouble to do what you ought always to do—vote when the polls are open.

Before the week is out, another test will come with the school elections. There are contests in the Big Spring election, in many of the other districts of the county, and for the two places on the Howard County board of trustees.

Voters should make an effort to familiarize themselves with those offering for these important posts. If you share the view that these are indeed important places, then you will make it important enough to go to the polls.

New Flareup

The Cuban situation has flared again, and it likely will not be the last time. Like a smoldering heap, stirring and poking will cause a flame to pop out here and there. Whether the aggregate mass reaches the kindling point is something none may know unless it does come to that.

Incidents within themselves are serious but not immediately critical except that any one of them might be the thing that would trigger something infinitely bigger. A pattern of these acts, such as two firings off the bow of our boats and one firing which our planes executed at a Russian vessel, might be construed as warlike actions. In turn, this might lead to more stringent blockade measures, which, under international law, also may be termed as warlike actions.

One of the serious risks is that Castro, like a swaggering dwarf, will keep extending himself in an effort to say to his people and Latin America that he is not afraid of the big man. It's like an upstart challenging the veteran town marshal.

The situation is complicated by the presence of Russian military personnel and material on Cuba. Withdrawal of these forces has been too slow. On the other hand, as slap-happy as Cubans have been, who is to say that without restraint they might not resort to some irresponsible and foolhardy act with them? This is certainly a matter of concern for us, and indirectly one of serious concern to Russia, who is responsible for shaping this explosive situation. While our distress in trying to exercise patience may be a source of satisfaction to the Reds, they must also be uneasy about not only what could and would happen to their men and material, but what could happen if the whole thing suddenly got out of hand. And it could.

Interference In Others' Affairs

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy, in agreeing to meet at the White House with Harold Wilson, head of the British Labor party, is treading on dangerous ground. For Mr. Wilson has announced that he is bringing a 14-point program outlining British government policy in the event that the Labor party wins the coming election.

WILL MR. WILSON be able, on his return to England, to tell the British voters in the coming campaign that, if he becomes Prime Minister, he has had assurances from President Kennedy concerning certain points in the program that may be developed as between the two countries? Isn't this a direct interference by the President in the internal political affairs of another country? What sort of precedent does it establish in international relations for the future?

IT IS TRUE there have been visits of courtesy heretofore during this and preceding administrations when distinguished visitors—including the head of the British Labor party—have come to Washington, or prominent members of Congress have gone abroad. But one will look in vain in the records to find a formal conference on a concrete set of proposals that are publicly announced as the basis for future policies between our government and a foreign government and are presented just in a few months prior to an election contest in one of the two countries.

SUPPOSING Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck—opposition leaders in the Senate and House, respectively—took a trip to London and discussed with Prime Minister Macmillan the Skybolt affair or just what should be done about nuclear deterrents? Supposing they conferred at Paris with General de Gaulle and assured him that the Republican party would handle foreign policy more to his advantage than the Democratic administration? If this happened and if an election were near, maybe both the British and French governments would decide to wait before taking further steps on a given question, and hence important moves in foreign policy with the incumbent administration here might be deferred or given up altogether.

IN 1959 A STATEMENT was made by a prominent Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in an interview published in a Soviet government weekly, declaring that relations between the two countries must be improved at all costs and that, if the Democrats defeated the Republicans in the 1960 election, there would be substantial changes in American foreign policy.

WHAT MR. WILSON, the British Labor party leader, is doing—in laying his election program before President Kennedy and presenting it as future government policy—would be a violation of federal law here if attempted by an American in a personal visit or by written communications with officials of a foreign government. The Logan Act—which was passed by Congress in 1796, shortly after the republic was founded—provides criminal penalties for any citizen who, "with-out authority of the United States, directly or indirectly commences or carries on any correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States."

Such activity carried on by an individual prior to his assumption of office in government would still be covered by the law. It is part of what might be termed an unauthorized negotiation.

MAYBE THE BRITISH do not have such a law, but the mischief that can be done by collusion of any kind between an existing administration here and the leader of a major party in a foreign parliament is plainly apparent. It makes the United States, for example, a participant in an election campaign in another country. It tends to cause hard feelings. For certainly the ministry which is in power in England doesn't have a representative presence at the White House conference to argue its side or to answer any comments made by the President.

The State Department's unfortunate intrusion recently into Canadian politics by a tactless statement in the middle of a political crisis in Ottawa is an example of how seriously relations can be damaged when a government becomes involved in the internal affairs of another country.

INFORMAL CONTACTS are always possible, of course, at the ambassadorial level or in visits by opposition leaders from abroad with some of the subordinate officials of the State Department.

But a conference between the President of the United States and the head of an opposition political party of a country like Great Britain, just before an election, is certainly not conducive to good relations between the governments or the peoples of the two countries.

Billy Graham

The practical aspects of Christianity appeal to me. It seems to me that so many people have a religious faith with a system doctrine. Wouldn't it be better not to become involved in a complicated theology and just do good and go to church? R. G.

If it were that simple, I know many wonderful people who would meet your requirements. The trouble is, we judge these good people by our standards, and our standards are all "man made" and imperfect. We are so accustomed to imperfection that we are willing to accept a low standard. God demands far more than this. He demands perfect conformity to a holy law, and no one has kept that law but Christ. For this reason, a scheme of redemption is indispensable. Man must be saved by the sacrifice of Christ in order to meet the requirements of God. You are quite right, however, when you call for a good life. Those who have nothing more than a system of theology are certainly lost. A true faith in Christ and the way of life through faith will transform the life so that those who are Christ's are new persons.

'YEAH-BUT IT'S MY 100 MILLION BUCKS'

James Marlow

Who Investigates Congress?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Who polices the policeman? Nobody. Who investigates Congress which can investigate the whole area of government? Nobody.

A government department head must get rid of his stock before the Senate lets him take office to prevent conflict of interest. Example: to prevent his profiting from some corporation he may have to do business with.

But a member of Congress, who may deal with a federal agency about some rich constituent with a money interest in the agency's ruling, doesn't have to get rid of anything to reveal his total income.

FIVE YEARS ago the late Sen.

Richard Neuberger said in the New York Times:

"I fear it has a corroding effect on government generally when a member of the President's Cabinet can be ordered to jettison his corporate portfolios by senators who themselves may be dabbling in oil, cotton futures, television, hotel chains or uranium."

If federal commissioners are to be pilloried for accepting airplane tickets to Palm Beach, how can senators and representatives continue profitable associations with law firms, retained by banks, railroads, labor unions, and utility companies?

There were others in Congress before Neuberger, and there have been others since, who called for a conflict-of-interest law that applies to all members of Congress as well as to officials of government's executive branch.

Now again a number of men in the Capitol are concerned about continuing criticism of members of Congress for misuse of public funds in their travel, conflicts of interest, and putting relatives on their payrolls.

LAST WEEK Rep. William J. Dorn, D-S.C., introduced a bill calling for a strict ethical code in Congress: full accounting of all travel expenses, publication of all income and assets, with criminal penalties attached.

Three times in recent years Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., offered bills to prevent conflict of interest by congressmen and top government officials.

He will do it again Wednesday with a measure which would require congressmen and all government employees with salaries of $15,000 or more to report their sources of income, gifts of $100 or more, assets, and liabilities yearly to the comptroller general.

Dorn said, "We have investigated every activity of the federal government. Now it is high time the Congress adopt a code of ethics which would warrant the respect not only of the nation but of the free world."

Nobody knows how much income a member of Congress has above his salary. He doesn't have to reveal it.

As Neuberger put it: "Members of the Senate and House can own a sea vessel, buy any securities they please, negotiate to run their grazing herds on public lands, and be very much interested in carrying on the business of trade and commerce."

Furthermore, they can accept speaking fees. Some of these fees not only run to $1,000 or more but are offered by organizations and groups directly interested in issues pending before Congress."

He called this a double standard of morality.

Heart Murmur Should Not Prevent Tooth Extraction

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I have a heart murmur. Would it be safe to have some teeth pulled?—MRS. R. W.

It is fair to surmise that you have been told by your doctor whether your heart murmur is of the harmless type, or whether it indicates some fault in the organ.

Where a murmur is of such significance that the patient has been warned, the warning usually (not always, of course) implies that a valve has been damaged, this is rheumatic fever.

A valve so damaged is vulnerable to any further attack of the germ which causes rheumatic fever, a variety of the streptococcus.

Since extraction of a tooth can be accompanied by the release of germs into the blood stream (an infected tooth socket means the presence of germs) it is wise to take some precautions to protect the damaged heart valve against further harm.

Fortunately this can readily be done. One of the sulfa or penicillin drugs should be taken before the extraction and for two or three days afterward to suppress such germs and thus protect the heart.

If such an infection does reach the heart, it is known as subacute bacterial endocarditis. Except for the necessity of being careful in that regard, I see no other reason why a heart murmur should interfere with any necessary extraction.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you have a remedy for quitting smoking without telling me not to smoke? I've tried twice and it just didn't work. Will power is a virtue I don't happen to have.—MRS. W.

No, I don't know of any way to give up smoking without giving up smoking. Nor do I have any happy little pills that will take the place of will power. You can have will power if you want it enough to develop it. You're old enough to stop thinking in terms of fairy tales and get back into the world of realities.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is cirrhosis of the liver the same as cancer? Can it be cured?—C. C.

It definitely is NOT cancer. It can't be cured, but with proper care it often can be controlled for many years. Cancer can occur in a cirrhotic liver, however, just as it can occur in any other organ.

Dear Dr. Molner: When you recently wrote about a child being born Mongoloid, I didn't know what you meant. Webster says: "Mongoloid, resembling, or characteristic of, the Mongols; a person having Mongoloid traits or characteristics." I can see no reason for this causing death. Would you explain?—D. W. H.

Mongolism or "being born Mon-goloid" refers, medically, to particular type of defective child. The cause is obscure, but it is known that an extra chromosome is present—47 instead of the normal 46.

Such a child's features (depending on the degree of the particular case) are Mongoloid in appearance: Position and angle of the eyes, thick lips, stubby fingers, and others.

Such children are mentally retarded—again, the degree of this varies. They are also of less than normal height. While this defect is not in itself a cause of death, such children have less resistance to infection; many die in infancy or childhood. Some also tend to have heart trouble. Especially with modern health care, a good many now are growing to adulthood.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald requesting my booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

For Longer Honeymoons

One thing and another:

Rev. D. G. Ashton, vicar of St. Mark's, Basford, Stoke-on-Trent, England, advocated in an article written for his parish magazine recently that a person getting married needs at least a month off without loss of pay.

"I ALWAYS THINK it is a thousand pities when two young people are married that they can only scrape a week together for their honeymoon. I often wonder whether the seeds of the breakup of many marriages are not sown in those few days of early wedded life through a hasty and frustrated honeymoon," he wrote.

"Surely at this one most important event in their lives, an event which is unlikely to be repeated, society can spare them a while and let them really enjoy themselves without the worry of money?"

REV. ASHTON also suggested that husbands be given several days off without forfeiture of pay on the arrival of the couple's first child as "it is obviously an anxious business for him and it is distressing to see him endeavoring to keep his job going throughout this difficult period."

A CHICAGO MAN named Robert C. Cross offers the following suggestions on how to play office politics, entitling his piece How To Succeed Without Deserving It.

Here are some of the rules he sets down for the game:

1. Be a hypocrite. Playing the game well calls for clever deceit.

2. When the boss asks why a certain job isn't done, turn quickly to a competitor-employee and say sweetly, "Gee, I thought YOU had done this long ago."

3. STEAL IDEAS. If you hear a good one expressed by a fellow worker during off hours, hurry back to the office, and hand it to the boss—as if it were your very own.

4. Watch the boss closely. If he likes "yes men," be one. If he doesn't, maybe you should be one anyway—but carefully.

5. Teach your wife the game so that she knows the right clothing to wear at gatherings where your bosses or fellow employees are in attendance. Also coach her in safe topics of conversation and which boss to smile at the most.

IF THE BOSS has relatives working for the company, pay particular attention to them. A favorite nephew can influence the "old man" a lot.

7. If you hear the boss speak angrily to a fellow worker, perk up your ears. Find out what the boss is distressed about and be sure to mention it to him in the near future so that he can be angry with your competitor all over again.

8. KEEP AN EYE on older employees; they're most vulnerable. Say such things as "Good old Fred, he must be slipping. He used to do his job in two days. Now it takes him a week." Then laugh as if you were joking.

Slandered In The Cannibal Market

We Americans, who only asked to be loved, are gradually becoming accustomed to insult from abroad. But I, for one, think the British overstepped the bounds last week when a member of the House of Lords declared that we Americans are no longer a gourmet item wherever the cannibal elite meet to eat.

WHEREAS WE were once a premium item in cannibal markets, the British, even without the tariff protection or aid of the Common Market, are now much preferred by the discriminating cannibal. Lord Shackleton told his peers:

It is a sad day when the representative of an old friend and ally feels he is free to get up in Parliament and boast that "Britons are rather more edible than Americans. Cannibal chieftains in Polynesia no longer allow their tribes to eat Americans because the cannibals say American fat is contaminated."

LORD SHACKLETON blueprinted his vicious libel by adding, "Recent figures show that we, the British, have only two parts per million of DDT in our bodies, whereas the figure for an American is about eleven parts per million." He would have the world believe, particularly the cannibal world in which we Americans were once considered the rarest delicacy, that we are no longer fit for the table.

It is absurd for his lordship to try to destroy exciting world markets by saying that cannibals can stomach the British but not we Americans. Lord Shackleton only makes himself ridiculous in the eyes of thinking gourmets when he infers that cannibals could possibly prefer Britons, fattened on Brussels sprouts, to corned Americans.

LORD SHACKLETON did not dare even imply that his countrymen are tastier than Americans. The sole purpose of his speech, as even a child can see, was to plant suspicion in the cannibal mind, downgrade the American product, and create a new market for "Buy British."

If Americans are to receive justice in this instance, it will be through gourmets of the world who face a steady diet of suet pudding if Lord Shackleton goes unchallenged. Unless he is checked, this titled blowhard will soon be claiming that his countrymen can make coffee!

HOWEVER, if honor is to be satisfied and the cannibal market maintained, this country's bet would be to turn the case over to the nation's great chemical industry. If the American chemical industry will mount even half the attack on Lord Shackleton that it did recently on Rachel Carson, then his lordship is already over the hill.

Miss Carson, in her latest book, "The Silent Spring," inferred more or less what Lord Shackleton said in the House of Lords, that is, that DDT and other chemical preparations in common use as weed killers and insecticides are polluting or poisoning the atmosphere for man and beast.

THE FEELINGS of the chemical industry were terribly, terribly hurt by the forthright conclusion of such a distinguished author as Miss Carson. Consequently the industry moved in as a man to run Miss Carson into the sea, from which she originally came.

The industry has not been completely successful with its Carson campaign. But Lord Shackleton is another matter. He is an ungrateful foreigner, to begin with. It is one thing for a distinguished hometown girl to infer that Americans, thanks to DDT and all that, aren't fit to eat. But it is something else again when a foreign braggadocio says the same thing and tries to corner the cannibal market for his own countrymen.

SET THE chemical industry on his trail, say I, and let Lord Shackleton stew in his own juice.

Congress Isn't What It Used To Be

WASHINGTON—Several of President Kennedy's henchmen—among them McNamara, Sylvester and Roosevelt—have recently taken a few licks from congressional committees, but the situation should not be misunderstood. It isn't the Executive Branch which is on the defensive. It is Congress, which is pinned to the ropes, although fighting back with uneven spurts of ferocity.

SECRETARY McNAMARA'S ordeal shows how far we have moved into an age where decision at the executive level far outpaces debate at the legislative level. I do not think this is a desirable state of affairs, but it has to be reported nonetheless. The heyday of the lawmaker seems on the wane. The voice of the technician is heard in the land. Whether it is arming the nation, conquering space or mastering the budget, the expert from the Executive Branch not only states the problems, but brings in the solutions.

SOME YEARS AGO, Candidate Kennedy, speaking of the White House, told a reporter in much-quoted words, "That's where the power is." The President today could add a corollary by nodding toward Capitol Hill and saying: "That's where the power isn't."

Although McNamara has been roughed up in the McClellan Committee's probe of the TFX aircraft contract, there never has been much doubt as to the outcome of the hassle. The aerodynamic complexities, as well as the economic extrapolations, are just too overwhelming for Congressional comprehension.

THE DOGGED McClellan may get his teeth into the facts. Some of the air-minded senators like Symington, Jackson and Goldwater may have informed opinions as to whether General Dynamics or Boeing should build the TFX. Other senators may even feel qualified to act as referees in the continuous tug-of-war of the multi-billion dollar contracts.

But Congress as a whole is not competent to make decisions of this magnitude—and Congress knows it. It will pommel the Secretary out of resentment and frustration. But there is not the slightest prospect that Congress would dare substitute its own judgment for that of McNamara's.

THEN THERE'S Arthur Sylvester, McNamara's chief of information, who has been catching it on both ends of Capitol Hill. He stands charged with manipulating the flow of information to suit the purposes of his bosses. Sylvester is a man of strong will and sensitive feelings. He has offended congressmen and senators from the very beginning of his tenure, and they have dealt him stinging punishment—which he feels. Ten years ago he was a congressional committee member which could, and did, last subordinate into submission or out of office.

THIS MAY HAPPEN to Sylvester, but it's doubtful. Not so much because he is tougher than his predecessors, but because the arm which wields the lash is noticeably weaker. Sylvester's ability to survive this long is a manifestation of where the power lies.

Franklin Roosevelt Jr.'s nomination to be Under Secretary of Commerce can only be described as an abomination. It affronted public opinion, the press and political morality. He did not, for many reasons, deserve confirmation, and everybody knew it. But the Senate Commerce Committee, which a few years ago broke the career of a far better man, Lewis Strauss, simply sputtered—and caved in, as did the Senate.

CONGRESS ISN'T what it used to be. The big, and perhaps the impossible, problems seem to soften its will to the point where even small and manageable problems are muffed. Here in the springtime of everlasting renaissance, one must never abandon hope. But it's hard to look upon these performances and believe that there's much life left in the old lion of Capitol Hill.

On The Spot

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP)—A woman walked into a butcher shop and ordered a dressed chicken.

The butcher finally came up with a rather scrawny bird but the customer shook her head. "I want a larger one."

He looked again, couldn't find another chicken, and brought out the same one—quoting a higher price.

"That's fine," the woman said. "I think I'll take both of them."

"The uncertain, glory of an April day!"

Shakespeare
DAILY GUIDE—We should be able to see some prospects ahead of the warmth of spring thawing many of the problems of the cold war, of giving us a general feeling of being able to meet our problems with more optimism. In spite of the fact that Mars is now moving directly and thus creating much more activity of an aggressive nature, we will see that it is better to have something we can really get our teeth into, than to sit on the sidelines in frustration.

The month of April does not offer any major aspects which should worry us. The overall picture for the month is one of uncertainty, some confusion of motives and objectives, and some danger of propaganda to deceive. However, we have lived with this for a long time, and should have learned by this time not to believe all we hear or all we read. Just keep a certain reserve regarding news, rumors, gossip, especially in the second half of the month.

Today is excellent for communications, conferences with the higher ups. Use your imagination in regard to thinking about details of business and home. Watch out for aggression or arguments tomorrow.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ARIES
You start now to help the help of Jupiter so don't delay expanding in every direction. This is the year for you to collect and win the applause you deserve. It is a good year for marriage, for social popularity, for travel, and practically for any ambitious enterprise. You can't sit back and expect things to fall in your lap. Soon some adjustments and changes can be expected in your working environment, in your job or skills, or in the people who work with you or for you. Older ties can appeal to you now as they will give you the stability you need for new adventures. Keep a sharp eye on finances as you could overlook some drain on security funds.

Sen. Mansfield Outlines Plan For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mike Mansfield outlined today a nose to grindstone legislative program he said could bring a September adjournment of Congress.

Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, professed in an interview to be satisfied with the progress being made by committees in efforts to bring major proposals of President Kennedy to the Senate floor for showdown votes.

"The record of this Congress is not going to be judged on the amount but on the quality of legislation it passes," Mansfield said. "I do not expect too much major legislation but what we do consider will be of vital interest to the country."

The Montana senator said a leadership survey of committee activity indicates that "at the rate we are going, we will get all major legislation to the Senate floor by late summer." Saying he was "very satisfied" on that score, he added that if the Senate stays on the job Congress should be able to finish its work in September.

MASS TRANSIT
Mansfield called up Kennedy's $500-million mass transit bill as the first of a series of measures on which he will seek action. He gave it only a "fair chance" of passage.

The Democratic leader said that after disposal of the measure he will ask the Senate to act on Kennedy's nominations of directors to head the new Satellite Communications Corporation. They have been held up while Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., prepared a protest against confirmation.

Mansfield listed the administration's youth employment bill, which has drawn strong Republican opposition, as another measure to be pushed to a vote before Easter. He said it will be followed by a wilderness bill similar to a measure on which the last Congress failed to act.

Mansfield intends to keep the Senate at work up until Good Friday and wants it back on the job the following Monday. Agreement has been reached among leaders to let the House take an Easter vacation from April 11 to 22.

With routine bills on its calendar today, the House will consider Tuesday the $935-million Interior Department money bill. It will be the first of the supply measures to face a Republican drive to cut Kennedy's $98.8-billion budget. Thursday the House will have before it the $6-billion Treasury-Post Office bill.

LEFT OFF
Mansfield left off his priority list for passage this year the President's measure to provide health care for the elderly through Social Security taxes.

Mansfield said Senate hearings will start late in April on an omnibus aid to education measure.

The Democratic leader said the timing of congressional adjournment obviously will depend on final action on President's proposal to cut taxes and revise the internal revenue laws.

Lads Set Fire But Save Cats

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Three small boys set fire to an elderly widow's home, fled in panic and returned through smoke and flames to save her 20 cats Sunday night, police reported.

Officers said a boy, 10, told them:

He and his companions, 8 and 6, saw Mrs. Esperanza Williams, 70, leave. They entered the house to play with the cats and found a cup of matches in the kitchen.

They set a series of small fires, just for the fun of putting them out. One blaze got out of hand and they fled.

"Then I remembered the cats were inside," officers quoted the 10-year-old as saying. "I ran back and let them out."

Firemen said the blaze caused $5,000 damage.

Crash Kills 4

By The Associated Press
Four persons died in a head-on highway crash just west of Smithville Saturday. The victims were George Showers, 54, of Baytown and his wife, Helen, 48, and two soldiers stationed at Bergstrom AFB at Austin, Eziquio Juarez, 20, and Johnson Thomas, 21.

Magnificent Music Heard On Network Video Channel

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the television season's finest moments arrived Sunday as the NBC Opera Company presented an English language adaptation of Bach's "St. Matthew Passion."

The magnificent music dominated the hour and three quarters taken by the first part of the oratorio. It is, of course, the Easter story based on the account of St. Matthew in the New Testament of the Bible. The English words were simple, moving and understandable. All the voices were of fine quality.

It was staged with taste and imagination almost like a pageant. The costumed singers were placed against backgrounds and in settings that gave the production drama and life. The camera moved from closeups to broad shots providing variety for the eye.

The spectator had a real emotional experience. The second part will be broadcast on Palm Sunday next week.

One hates to quibble about such a program, but it was tucked into the NBC schedule at a time when probably, comparatively few persons were watching—1:30 p.m. Johann Sebastian Bach was not concerned with television and its demands for neat hour and half hour programs. An early afternoon period was undoubtedly the only 105-minute spot NBC could find.

Even if next Sunday is a warm bright spring day, even if the lawn does need reseeding, even if dinner is delayed, do try to see the second half of this fine production.

ABC is going to revive the big money quiz program. After weeks of saying that a program called "100 Grand" was just one of about 50 programs under consideration the network has finally decided to try it next season. It will have an all-time high top prize of $100,000 and is the first new show of that type to find a network spot since the big fix scandals of 1959.

It will occupy the 30 minutes on Sunday nights currently filled by the "Voice of Firestone" which departs, and will be followed by a serial biography of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Fair Exchange returned to CBS last week, cut from one hour to 30 minutes playing time. Surgery, alas, has done little to help the early season entry. It was retired suffering from low ratings.

One of its old charms was low-key humor, leisurely paced. In half hour form it shoots confusingly and often between the New York and London families and doesn't have much time for humor in either place.

Iraqi Students Leaving Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—Iraqi students are walking off Soviet university campuses and heading home despite pleas from Soviet authorities and their own government to stay.

To prevent an exodus, the Iraqi Embassy is severely limiting the number for whom it will buy plane tickets. So far only 50 have been approved.

Cultural attache Mahmoud Shukri said the students are leaving because of the violent Soviet campaign against Iraq's new Communist-purging government.

Russia Curbing Police Brutality

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has cracked down drastically on police brutality.

Two policemen were sentenced to death in Krasnodar, on the Sea of Azov, for fatally beating a secretary of the Young Communist League they had arrested.

Dirt Collecting Not As Easy As Mud Pies

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Little Catherine O'Connor, a second grader at St. Francis School here, figures she has until the third grade to hit pay dirt.

The blonde, blue-eyed 7-year-old has been trying to collect soil samples from the 50 states—but her rate of success seems to indicate that collecting dirt, a natural talent in boys, is hard work for a girl.

As part of a school science project, she wrote chambers of commerce in the largest city in each state for soil samples.

"I just need a little bit. About a tablespoon full," she wrote laboriously — writing is still a new thing with her. Her father, Dr. Gerald A. O'Connor, a physician at St. Joseph Hospital and a professor at the University of Michigan, had 50 copies of the letter made after he saw how much time the first one took.

She got an immediate response—but not much dirt. Letters in reply contained Confederate money from Charlotte, N.C., brochures on gambling in Las Vegas, and living in Minneapolis, letters of sym-thy and promotional pamphlets. Her science project was judged best in her class—despite the fact that it contained soil samples from only 13 states and an explanation for the missing 37.

Five more states have dishd up some dirt since Mrs. O'Connor said.

The biggest response came from Charlotte, where a University of Michigan journalism graduate, Roger E. Honkanen, wrote a story on her request in the Charlotte News.

The mistake apparently was in writing to big cities, her mother said. "For instance, the Los Angeles chamber sent an official-looking letter saying it regretted not having facilities to comply with her request."
