Firm Announces Steel Price Hikes

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—The Wheeling Steel Corp. has announced price increases for several of its products effective today—the first anniversary of the steel price hike that led to a clash between some top leaders of the industry and an angry President Kennedy.

GOVERNOR WANTS PROBE

Connally, Carr To Confer Again On Murray Oil Deal

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr planned to confer again today on Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray's involvement in a West Texas oil lease deal.

Connally's office said the governor authorized Carr to issue the statement.

Carr said he hoped to release more information on his investigation today.

The attorney general's statement: "Gov. Connally desires a thorough investigation of this matter so that the people of Texas will continue to have confidence in the integrity of their state government."

I have been personally involved in the investigation all day and we are continuing to push this investigation as thoroughly and as rapidly as possible."

Murray, a member of the Railroad Commission for 16 years,

Wintry Weather Clings To Lakes

Wintry weather clung today to the upper Great Lakes region where thick ice is hampering ice breaking operations to open the spring shipping season.

Early morning temperatures in the nation were in the 20s and 30s from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward and Stevens Point, Wis., had a chill 18.

Mild weather continued throughout the southland.

House Panel Approves Military Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee approved Tuesday a pay increase for all military personnel except those with less than two years' military service, beginning next Oct. 1.

Committee chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., said a House vote on the legislation will be sought during the first week of May.

The increase for active duty personnel would vary with ranks but all retired personnel would receive a straight 5 per cent increase. The cost is estimated at $1.2 billion a year.

In addition to boosting the base pay of service personnel, the bill would increase officers' subsistence allowances by $3.12 a month and ration allowances for enlisted companies under White House pressure.

William A. Steele, president of Wheeling, said "a steady increase in the cost of materials, services and labor" led to the decision to raise prices. He noted that his company had not increased prices since 1958.

The prices of stocks in the leading steel companies rose sharply almost from the opening of trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

A spokesman for the United States Steel Corp., the nation's No. 1 steelmaker and leader in the price hikes a year ago, said in New York that he knew about the Wheeling announcement but did not know of any plan by U.S. Steel to raise prices at this time.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said at the White House that he had no comment on the move by Wheeling.

Arthur B. Homer, board chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Co., the second largest producer, said before the Wheeling announcement that "there's considerable doubt in my mind as to whether the market will support a price increase."

published reports that he grossed $285,000 did not take into consideration the cost of acquiring and developing the leases, "which absorbed most of the proceeds of the sale."

Murray said he has no intention of resigning because he does not think he has done anything wrong. He said he does not think there is any conflict of interest between the lease deal and his job with the oil regulatory body.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston obtained permission of the House by a 122-14 vote Tuesday to introduce a bill that would stiffen the code of ethics act passed in 1957.

Eckhardt said his measure would prohibit "personal investments" by state officials serving on agencies which regulate the investment.

He said it also would prohibit members of the legislature from appearing before state boards, agencies and commissions while the legislature is considering any proposals that would affect the legislators' clients.

Harold Talbot, a member of the board of trustees for the Big Spring Independent School District the past four years, was elected its president during re-organization at the end of the regular meeting Tuesday night.

He replaces Clyde McMahon Sr., who served on the board five years. McMahon did not seek reelection.

Talbot was returned to the board following official canvass of returns of the school election held Saturday. Taking the place of McMahon is Bennett Brooke, who tallied the second highest number of the votes cast.

Other officers elected were Wendell Parks, vice president, and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, secretary. Parks was formerly secretary.

The votes cast in the election were: Talbot 654, Brooke 624, Wayne Basden 334, Ray Thomas 249, and write-ins H. H. Rutherford 15, Clyde McMahon Sr. 1, Harry Mitchell Sr. 1, Demetrio Rocha 1 and Kate Irons 2.

He is expected to confer with leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties to see whether they would support him if he decides to stay on. He would need the backing of both.

He probably will not announce his decision until the armed forces vote is tabulated. That may be another week. Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson is ready to form a government if and when Diefenbaker steps down.

The Liberals won the largest number of seats in the House of Commons but fell five short of a majority. They captured 128 of the 265 seats and the Conservatives took 96. The remainder were divided among the smaller parties—24 to Social Credit and 17 to the New Democrats.

The Liberals could pick up two or three additional seats if the service votes are all in, but there is only the remotest possibility they could get the 133 needed to give them a majority.

Under a precedent established by the late W. L. Mackenzie King, Diefenbaker could continue as prime minister without having the largest party in Commons but it would be necessary for him to have support from other parties. It is customary for the leader of the largest party to form the government.

The post-election crisis was cited by the Mackenzie King case and hinted he might follow that example. He said he planned to re-name prime minister until the new Parliament convenes late next month, although he has been under increasing pressure to resign.

URGED TO QUIT He talked with several of his key cabinet members by telephone Tuesday and was reported to have been urged to quit.

Pearson has acknowledged that Diefenbaker is within his constitutional rights in delaying his resignation. He indicated he will have nothing to say on the matter until the remaining returns are in.

To operate as a minority government the Liberals would have to have support from at least one of the smaller parties. During the campaign, New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas promised to support whatever party won the largest number of seats.

Douglas plans to confer with other New Democratic leaders later this week. He says the next step is up to the prime minister.

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson arrived in Ottawa for a meeting with his deputy, Real Caouette, and said Diefenbaker has neither "the technical nor moral" right to remain in office.

Found Safe

Mrs. Horace Hilliard, 74, is shown at her farm home in Haskell, none the worse after spending two days and nights in lost wandering wearing only a dress. The trail woman left home, where she had lived for the last 56 years, seeking help for her 76-year-old bedridden husband. A daughter arrived at the home and reported her missing and searchers found her some time later. She said she found shelter in an unoccupied house.

Diefenbaker May Try To Keep Office

TORONTO (AP)—Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker flies to Ottawa today for talks that should determine whether he will try to remain in office despite the Liberal party victory in Monday's election.

The 67-year-old Conservative leader called a meeting Thursday of his lame duck Cabinet to consider the question.

He is expected to confer with leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties to see whether they would support him if he decides to stay on. He would need the backing of both.

He probably will not announce his decision until the armed forces vote is tabulated. That may be another week. Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson is ready to form a government if and when Diefenbaker steps down.

Peace Effort Made In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The three-nation International Control Commission flew to the Plaine des Jarres today in an effort to bring peace between neutralist and pro-Communist forces which have been fighting there for the past 10 days.

The commission's trip was part of a diplomatic campaign to restore peace in the area which the United States regards as a prime testing ground of the oft-proclaimed Soviet policy of peaceful coexistence.

A Southeast Asia Treaty Organization show of force also was scheduled as a warning to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction that is threatening to fan the flames of civil war again.

FEW HOURS

The control commission's Indian, Canadian and Polish members planned to stay only a few hours at the trouble scene, 120 miles northeast of Vientiane since Pathet Lao has refused to permit establishment of a permanent truce team there. The mediators hoped to arrange a peace meeting between neutralist Gen. Kong Le and the Pathet Lao military chief, Gen. Singkappo.

A commission attaché made a fast trip to the Plaine Tuesday and reported that the fighting between neutralist and Pathet Lao forces had quieted down.

The commission plans to send a representative to the Plaine daily in an effort to prevent further outbreaks. Repeated Pathet Lao attacks in the past 10 days forced neutralist troops of Gen. Kong Le to withdraw from the town of Xieng Khouang and retreat to the Plaine des Jarres, 120 miles north of Vientiane. The Pathet Lao already controls most of northern Laos. Neutralist and right-wing circles fear they may be getting ready to extend their hold.

QUICK VICTORY

A full-scale campaign by the Pathet Lao probably would mean a quick Red victory—rather than a long war on the Viet Nam pattern—unless the United States and its SEATO allies intervene with large numbers of their own troops. The civil war which ended last year demonstrated that the right-wing army of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan was no match for the Pathet Lao. Resistance by Kong Le's badly outnumbered neutralist troops probably would be short.

Meeting in Paris, the eight SEATO allies made plans for a massive show of force in neighboring Thailand and the South China Sea in an effort to discourage Communist military adventures.

The SEATO plans call for allied troops to re-enter Thailand, which shares a 1,000-mile border with Laos, for ground maneuvers. They were there last year for similar "stop, look and listen" warnings to the Reds.

NAVAL ACTION

SEATO navies also scheduled massive air and sea training strikes in the South China Sea—the biggest ever held there—with the U.S. 7th Fleet heading a beefed-up task force.

Adm. Harry Felt, commander of U.S. naval forces in the Pacific, was in Paris coordinating plans with other SEATO leaders present for the annual ministerial conference.

As co-chairmen of the Geneva conference on Laos, the Soviet Union and Britain have the prime responsibility for keeping the peace.

U.S. strategists in Washington were hopeful that the Soviet Union and Communist China would find it to their own interests to halt the fighting in Laos. The Americans believe that neither of the major Red powers wants to take big risks in Southeast Asia.

Commission Wants Your Opinion On Federal Aid

The city commission wants to find out how Big Spring taxpayers feel about asking for federal grants, and have set an informal public hearing for April 23 at the regular meeting. The hearing will be held after a discussion of a proposed application for federal funds to be used in the construction of Beals Branch trunk sewer line scheduled for 1964 under the Master Plan bond program.

Three commissioners, Paul Kasch, John Stanley, and Arnold Marshall voiced objection to asking for federal aid. Mayor George Zachariah favored asking for aid, and Commissioner W. L. Squeaky Thompson took no stand. The members felt that residents should be sounded out on their feelings about federal aid before submitting the application, through the State Health Department, which must be in by May 1. City Manager Larry Crow told the commissioners that making the application would not bind the city to accept aid even though funds were approved for a federal grant. He said he brought up the question because of the May 1 deadline.

An effort was made in 1962 to get the line installed by the time the new sewage disposal plant was completed. Bids were called for, but rejected because the cost went over the amount allocated in the bond issue for the line. A subsurface water problem was given as the reason for high bids.

The three commissioners speaking against federal aid said they believed Big Spring residents would rather do their own work without taxpayers having to dig into their pockets to pay double through taxes for grants with "strings" attached.

A federal grant of up to $230,000 was approved and accepted for building the new sewage disposal plant.

Ernest Lillard

Ernest Lillard Gets Public Works Post

Ernest Lillard, who has been with the Big Spring public works department since October, 1959 and city engineer since last June, was appointed director of public works at Tuesday night's city commission meeting. He replaces Bruce Dunn who has resigned effective April 30.

Lillard is a native of Howard County. He was graduated from Texas Tech, Lubbock, with a degree in civil engineering and was employed for some time by Louis Jean Thompson, consulting engineer, before going to work for the City of Big Spring. He is married and the Lillards have one daughter.

Lillard has played an active part in the engineering work done on paving programs and in the Master Plan bond program.

City Manager Larry Crow, in recommending Lillard, told the commission he felt Lillard was in a position to step into the job without adjustment time. The commission authorized Crow to seek a qualified man as city engineer to fill the place vacated by Lillard.

Lillard's salary was set at $675 per month, the same as Dunn's. Lillard told the commission it was his desire to make the best possible director of public works. He said he felt it was a privilege to take on the responsibilities of the post.

A formal resolution was noted for Bruce Dunn, expressing the commission's appreciation for his work as director of public works.

Humphrey replaced evangelist Billy Graham on the program, co-sponsored by Texas and Japanese Baptists. Graham was unable to attend because of illness.

The crusade closed here with a total of 479 Japanese conversions.

Highway Deaths 'Senseless Record'

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SENSELESS RECORD: President Kennedy's Committee for Traffic Safety has presented a report on highway accidents in the nation last year: 41,000 dead, 1.5 million disabling injuries, 3 million less serious injuries and estimated economic losses of about $7 billion.

The President, in receiving the committee's report Tuesday, called it "a senseless record and a distressing waste of human resources."

In a special statement Kennedy said "there is no single answer to the national traffic safety problem" but that his committee is working hard on it.

EASTER VACATION: President Kennedy and his family fly south late today for an Easter vacation at Palm Beach, Fla.

The White House said it knew of no plans for the President to receive any official visitors while he is away from Washington. He plans to remain in Florida at least through Monday.

BIG GOVERNMENT: Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges offers this simple reason for government growing bigger by the day: There's a demand for it.

Therefore, Hodges told a House Civil Service subcommittee, "we can probably never do more than make a reasonable dent in the cost of our federal structure."

RIFLE PRODUCTION: A Pentagon decision is expected within the next month on whether to halt production of the M14 rifle. The Marine Corps and most Army units have been equipped with the rifle which has cost more than $130 million to develop and produce since 1957. Some Army units in the Pacific and Alaska do not have the weapon, which utilizes the standard cartridge for NATO ground forces.

Secretary of the Army Cyrus K. Vance told the House Armed Services committee earlier this year that "it may well be that we will move to procurement of substantial numbers of another type of rifle for specified units."

MISSION IN MAY: The astronauts' chief spokesman says preparations for the next Project Mercury manned space flights are "very satisfactory — very good" and are on schedule for an early or mid-May launch.

Air Force Lt. Col. John H. Powers told a luncheon meeting Tuesday that astronaut Gordon Cooper recently completed a simulation of his planned 22-orbit, 34-hour flight in the Navy centrifuge at Johnsville, Pa.

One Cancer Is Yielding

By ALTON BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Writer

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — One deadly cancer in children is yielding now to a triple treatment, a famous cancer doctor reports.

An antibiotic, surgery and radiation are destroying all visible signs of this cancer, known as Wilms' tumor of the kidney, in 81 per cent of child victims, said Dr. Sidney Farber of children's hospital, Boston. One boy is alive and well six years later, other children seemingly well for two to five years thus far.

Recounting progress to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers, Dr. Farber also announced initial success in preserving and using an element in human blood—platelets — to combat hemorrhages which are the main cause of death in children with acute leukemia or blood cancer.

He said banks of platelets may become generally available to help treat acute leukemia and acute anemia, and radiation sickness from X-ray treatment of cancer or exposure to nuclear weapons.

The apparent cure rate of the kidney cancer had recently risen to 40 per cent through surgery and radiation, Dr. Farber said. But 60 per cent of children still died, mainly because the cancer had spread to their lungs.

Now the antibiotic, Actinomycin B, has joined the battle. For the first time, all signs of a solid tumor in children are being eliminated fairly regularly.

Eighty-one per cent of youngsters receiving the combined treatment between 1957 and 1960 are alive and well.

The Ann Arbor, Mich., girl wrote Caroline Kennedy, but the White House declined, explaining, "you can imagine how ugly the lawns would look."

Big Steel Battle Scars Deep, Still Show Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wounds from the "Big Steel battle" were deep and the stitches still show.

While businessmen have gingerly accepted the Kennedy administration's peace offerings, they keep a wary eye on the smoke signals.

Tuesday night, on the eve of the first anniversary of the clash over steel prices, there was a new puff on the horizon. Wheeling Steel Corp. announced it will raise, as of today, the price of several of its steel products.

There was no reaction from the White House.

Since that furious struggle a year ago, President Kennedy has gone far toward repairing his relations with business — although he'll never turn Wall Street into a Democratic precinct, and never expected to.

NOT ALL BAD
Many industrialists who now are cashing in on the $2.5 billion of benefits from Kennedy's 1962 tax program—benefits that went to business exclusively—do admit nowadays that he can't be all bad.

President Lyndon B. Johnson's U.S. Chamber of Commerce told The Associated Press that Kennedy showed "manifest interest in the private sector of our economy" after the steel blow-up.

But he made it clear that there is no second honeymoon for Kennedy and business.

The patching-up of relations began to come unstuck in January, Plumley said, because of Kennedy's big spending budget, the costly dock strike settlement, and what Plumley called a hodgepodge tax reduction plan whose business benefits, in his opinion, are too little and too long deferred.

The U.S. chamber leader added: "The President said this was not the winter of his discontent. For businessmen, it has been the winter of our disappointment."

Plumley's disappointment is matched in other, and more surprising, quarters. Kennedy's good friends in organized labor have grown restive about what they consider his preoccupation with profits, incentives and investment.

COOLED OFF
Some administration aides, eager for more works, welfare and education programs, have had to be cooled off with the promise that Kennedy will get around to their causes after he "gets the country moving again."

Roger M. Blough, board chairman of the United States Steel Corp., ran afoul of Kennedy's wrath April 10, 1962, when he dropped into the White House to announce a $6 a ton increase in the price of steel.

The increase came on the heels of the smallest wage settlement the United Steelworkers Union had signed in years and after Kennedy made personal pleas to both sides to hold the wage and price lines. Other leading steelmakers quickly upped their prices to match "Big Steel."

The outraged Kennedy countered with a public denunciation of what he called their "unjustifiable and irresponsible defiance of the public interest." He mobilized an awesome array of government pressures, including the threat of antitrust action and the withholding of government contracts.

In 72 hours the once-solid front of the steel titans caved in. Two important producers, Inland and Kaiser, refused to join the price parade. The industry leaders were forced to rescind.

SOME AGREED
Some businessmen agreed with

Farm Labor Day

Thursday, is Farm Labor Day in Howard, Martin, and Glasscock counties. Leon M. Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission in Big Spring, said the purpose is to get farm workers who are looking for jobs, and farmers who are looking for workers—together to discuss jobs.

Kennedy that the increase was ill-conceived—especially for an industry that was losing markets to lower-priced foreign steels and rival metals — and ill-timed, in view of the national effort to cure a grave payments deficit and stay competitive in world markets.

But many businessmen felt Kennedy had badly overplayed his hand in using the government's vast political and economic power to deny businessmen the right of making their own decisions, or even their own mistakes.

Kennedy's public prestige soared. Business reacted differently.

The stock market—already skidding from the inflated highs of the "Kennedy bull market" of 1961—went into a tailspin and crashed on "Black Monday," May 28.

There were other reasons for the collapse, including some scandals in the American Stock Exchange which touched off a major investigation. But even administration officials admitted that Kennedy's blow to business confidence made Black Monday blacker.

Kennedy launched what some wags called a kind to business policy. Federal agencies got quiet instructions to play up their activities in support of business. The Kennedy economic program—mostly planned before he took office—was already in motion. Some elements, like the depreciation move, were speeded up.

Better Jobs For Negroes

By DON MCKEE Associated Press Writer

Better jobs are opening up for Negroes in the South but the drive for equal employment practices is in slow motion. One state has taken official steps to end job discrimination.

Militant Negro groups, often using boycotts as levers, and a federal directive against discrimination in U.S. contracts, have forced many large Southern firms to adopt nondiscriminatory policies, upgrade Negro workers and desegregate plant facilities.

More Negroes are finding jobs as policemen, firemen and bus drivers—jobs that a few years ago they could not get.

But one of the roots of the problem is the large number of unskilled Negroes. Employers turn down many Negro applicants for this reason.

"It is a problem, but not an insoluble one," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Atlanta Negro leader.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS

"But if government and industry don't do something, the social problems are going to increase," he said. King suggested a vigorous retraining program, more trade schools and state laws against discrimination in hiring practices.

"Lack of opportunity is still the basic problem," he said. "Negroes have been denied apprenticeship training. I can see the argument on high levels, such as engineering. But many of the jobs where we confront discrimination are not that highly technical—where with a few months of training anybody could do the job."

The only Southern state to recognize the problem officially is North Carolina. Gov. Terry Sanford announced in January a five-point program aimed at equal employment for Negroes.

Sanford set up a 24-member council, called on county and city governments to follow suit at the local level and set up a conference of businessmen to discuss the problem.

TIME HAS COME

"The time has come for American citizens to give up this reluctance, to quit unfair discrimination and to give the Negro a full chance to earn a decent living for his family and to contribute to higher standards for himself and all men," Sanford said.

In other Southern states, the problem has been tackled more indirectly by the government or through private organizations.

Florida has started a campaign to educate an estimated 261,400 illiterates with educational television, family programs and vocational training centers.

Aimed at all low-income groups, the Dade County program was designed to help Negro workers whose livelihood has been threatened by a big influx of Cubans. Dade has four trade centers, three opened since last fall, for night study by Negroes.

SPECIAL BUREAU

In Virginia, the Council on Human Relations, a private group, has set up a special job opportunity bureau with an advisory committee of businessmen.

Council president, Dr. Aubrey N. Brown Jr. of Richmond, said the project as a pioneering effort could have great significance in the South.

The bureau set up confidential discussions with firm executives about their problems; consultant assistance, and eventual job interview and placement by the bureau.

Elsewhere, the action has been piecemeal with most changes negotiated between local Negroes and businesses.

In Atlanta, Negro ministers forced nondiscrimination agreements from six bakeries and two big food processors. One woman, turned down because she didn't know how to run a comptometer, studied three weeks at the manufacturer's plant and got the job.

TRADE SCHOOLS

Trade schools are the answer, said Clarence Laws, Dallas, Tex., field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"The Negro needs this training, worse than anyone," Laws said, "since only one in 12 finish high school and only one in 25 finish college."

In Alabama, the initial move on job opportunities was creation of a program by the State Coordinating Association for Registration and Voting, composed of Negroes.

"This is the first time, as far as I know, that any organization in Alabama has set out to do something about equal employment opportunities," said one of the group's leaders, Orzell Billingsley Jr. of Birmingham.

A border state, West Virginia, created by legislative act in 1961 a human rights commission which has achieved some success in opening up jobs and public accommodations.

With growing concern among Negro leaders, King said the problem often is seen as a vicious cycle—"no training, no job" but "no job, no training."

ISAIAH 53

About 750 years before Christ came Isaiah prophesied of him saying, "He was despised, and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief; and as one from whom men hide their face he was despised; and we esteemed him not. Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and Jehovah hath laid on

Sprigs Of Beauty

Mrs. Johnnie Ransom, 709 Ohio, plants runners of Bermuda in her back yard during Clean-Up, Fix-Up, Paint-Up Week. For the past few weeks she has been busy re-arranging trees and landscaping the yard. Future plans include a barbecue pit and small garden.

Clean-Up Campaign Pushed In Lakeview

Clean Up, Fix Up, Paint Up Week is a serious project for the Lakeview Parent-Teacher Association. Its members have been conducting a drive for several months. Additional emphasis, however, is being placed on the work this week, according to Mrs. A. B. McManus, chairman of the cleanup committee. Beautification of the North Side is being done street by street. Results of the drive are visible already. Yards show dirt which has been spaded recently and dotted with sprigs of Bermuda. Fences have gone up around yards and old fences are being repaired and painted. Alleys are being cleaned and racks for garbage cans are becoming more in evidence. "We are trying to get the residents to buy the racks about 8-10 at a time so they can save money," Mrs. McManus said. Residents of Ohio and Pine streets are taking the most active part in the campaign at this time, but reminders of the drive are being sent into homes from which children attend Lakeview Elementary and Junior High Schools. "Much more activity can be seen now than before and we are putting special emphasis on cleaning up, fixing up and painting this week," Mrs. McManus said. "But we are working on it as a long-term project," she stressed. She noted that most of the work is done in the evenings and on weekends when parents are home from their jobs.

Conventions To Get Attention

Luring conventions to Big Spring, the main project for 1963 of the tourist and convention committee of the Chamber of Commerce, received another boost Tuesday afternoon during a regular meeting.

Members of the committee voted to send questionnaires to civic and service clubs and individuals to find out when organizations to which they belong hold annual meetings. Efforts will then be made to get these meetings held in Big Spring. Each person attending a convention spends almost $30 a day during the interval, adding significantly to the economy of the convention city.

The Big Spring Rodeo Association was granted permission to install small signs advertising the rodeo. They will be placed along the road signs which the committee has situated along US 80 in an effort to channel traffic to that highway and eventually to or through Big Spring.

C. A. Rose, chairman, and Ed Fisher, vice chairman, announced that another annual payment of $900 on these signs comes due in July. This will be the second of three payments.

Coahoma Roping Club Organized

The charter roll of the newly-organized Coahoma Roping Club will be closed after April 21, it has been announced.

Facilities for the club are underway now east of Coahoma and north of US 80. The club hopes to acquire about 40 calves as roping stock. Corral and chutes will be in shape probably by the time the charter member list is closed. The charter fee is $25, and it is due to cover the activities for the year. Those wishing to join the club may leave their fee at the Coahoma State Bank.

President of the club is Lawrence Davis, and other officers are Herzie Read, vice president, Raymond Phillips, treasurer, and R. A. Foster, secretary.

DEAR ABBY
Hop To It, Sonny Boy

DEAR ABBY: My mother is my problem. She saves junk! She filled up two rooms of our house with junk and now she is starting to fill up a third. She saves old Christmas trees, burned-out light bulbs, old clothes, shoes, boxes, even broken toys. I go to school and don't have time to clean up the house. I am ashamed to ask anyone over because I'm afraid they might open the wrong door. How can a 12-year-old boy get his mother to throw out all that junk? She is okay in every other way.
READY TO LEAVE

DEAR ABBY: Don't wait for Fire Prevention Week to dig into those junk-filled rooms. Get up early one Saturday morning and go to it. Separate the worthless junk (old Christmas trees, burned-out bulbs, rags, etc.) from items that could be restored (old clothes, broken toys) and give your Salvation Army a ring. Ask your mother to approve your sorting job and let the trash man haul the junk away. And stay home. Mothers need sons like you.

DEAR ABBY: Another girl and I share a four-room apartment for which we split all the expenses. We both work days and have to get our laundry and housecleaning done in the evenings. Do you think it is fair that I do all the work while she sits on her 160

Cooler Air Enters State

By The Associated Press
Cooler air moving into the Panhandle promised to take the edge off a late spring heat wave in northern areas of Texas but no relief was in sight farther south Wednesday.
The mercury shot up to an official 107 degrees Tuesday afternoon at Laredo, one of numerous points posting record highs for the date.
Unofficial marks in simmering South Texas included Alice and McAllen 104, Cotulla 103, Beeville 102 and Kingsville 101.
Waco was runnerup to Laredo with 101 among readings reported by the Weather Bureau.
Junction and San Antonio recorded 99, Austin and Victoria 98, Dallas, Fort Worth, Mineral Wells and Presidio 97, Abilene and San Angelo 96, Childress and Lufkin 94, Brownsville and College Station 93 and Corpus Christi, Houston and Wink 90.
Top readings elsewhere ranged down to 77 at Galveston.
Forecasts promised scattered thundershowers Wednesday night in the north part of the Panhandle and by Thursday afternoon throughout the northern section of Northwest Texas. Little change in temperatures was in prospect Thursday.

Iraq Taking Its Students From Communist Areas

MOSCOW (AP) — Iraqi's new anti-Communist government has begun mass withdrawals of its students from the Soviet Union, Iraqi Embassy sources disclosed Tuesday.
The sources said the Ministry of Industry in Baghdad has ordered 47 students it sponsored to return home as soon as possible. The students are studying nuclear power techniques. The Iraqi Ministry of Health ordered four of its students home.

France Holds Open Cooperation Door

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle is reported holding the door open for eventual strategic cooperation between France's projected nuclear striking force and the forces of the other North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.
Qualified sources in Paris report French atomic bombs and superatomic atomic bombs will begin rolling along production lines this fall.
De Gaulle's attitude on an Allied nuclear force and on other issues has resulted during the past few days in easing somewhat the crisis in NATO and has raised hopes in the Kennedy administration of avoiding a worsening split.
President Kennedy has an opportunity today to survey the NATO situation in a National Security Council meeting. Another possible topic of debate in the secret policy-making council was the threatening situation in Laos created by an outbreak of fighting between neutralist and pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in Paris for a meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, conferred for 70 minutes Monday with De Gaulle. It was the first such high level U.S.-French conference since De Gaulle blocked Britain's entry into the Common Market last January and rejected President Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles.
Rusk's meeting with De Gaulle was described in diplomatic reports to Washington as entirely cordial. They covered a variety of subjects ranging from the Far East to Cuba.
De Gaulle's attitude is now interpreted here as reflecting a desire on his part to avoid unnecessary irritations, despite basic policy differences, in French-U.S. relationships.
The French leader is reported to stand by a statement he made at a news conference in mid-January that France would not refuse technological or strategic cooperation with its allies when it has constructed its own atomic force. De Gaulle considers it too soon to undertake any specific commitments.

In Paris, sources said French scientists have perfected prototype types of an operational bomb and

Retiring Teachers Here Will Receive Special Recognition

Cash and time off were voted Tuesday night as special recognition for teachers who have worked many years teaching pupils in local schools.

Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District, at their regular meeting, approved a special plaque or certificate for teachers retiring with 10 years of service in the local district.

A start was made in re-vamping school policies with presentation of a set of proposed bylaws for the board of education. By action of the board, the presentation was construed as the first reading.

The first draft of a proposed board policy and administrative regulations on community use of school facilities was presented for study by trustees.

Trustees voted unanimously to stay with the policy of the board against zoning changes which would allow operation of lunch rooms near public schools.

Guest speaker was Frank A. Patterson, Jr., Phoenix, Ariz. who is currently conducting a three-day customer relations and sales clinic here.

Scurry, Fisher Counties Seek Junior College

Snyder-Petitions calling for a two county junior college are being circulated in Scurry and Fisher counties today.

Dr. Marvin Baker, president of South Plains College at Levelland and formerly associated with Howard County Junior College, told a meeting here Tuesday night about the operations of his school.

Badger Robertson, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee backing the move, said the two counties have 7,000 scholars. He said the petition must bear the names of at least 10 per cent of the qualified voters of the two counties.

The petition asks that a junior college be established; that a board of trustees be empowered to levy and collect taxes, not to exceed 40 cents on each $100 valuation, to construct, maintain and support the college; and that seven trustees at large be elected.

A Devonian discovery has been indicated for Martin County at Texas Crude Oil Co. and Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. No. 1-253 Knox located about 12 miles north of Tarzan.

On drillstem test of a section between 11,750-922 feet, tool was open two hours and recovery was 11,098 feet of free 40-gravity oil. There was a strong blow for 10 minutes with gas surfacing in 50 minutes. No water was produced.

The 30-minute initial shut in pressure was 5,050 pounds and 20-minute final shut in pressure was 4,620 pounds. Flow pressures ranged from 700 pounds to 3,800 pounds.

Operator picked the Devonian at 11,906 feet. Present plans are to deepen the well an additional 25 feet and take another drillstem test. The hole is now bottomed at 11,922 feet.

Location is 6,310 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west lines of league 253, Ward CSL survey.

One Of McNamara's Band Is New Ford President

DETROIT (AP)—Arjay R. Miller, a scholarly appearing Nebraskan with a strong background in finance, was named president of Ford Motor Co. today.

Miller succeeds John Dykstra who is retiring because of age. Dykstra will be 65 next week.

Charles H. Patterson, who has been vice president of Ford's basic manufacturing group, was named to the long-vacant post of executive vice president.

Miller, 47, was one of Ford's original whiz kids, a group of 10 Air Force statistical officers who joined the automaker in a body during its postwar reorganization.

He is the second from the group to reach the top spot. The first was Robert S. McNamara, who served two months in 1960 before moving to Washington to become secretary of defense.

Although conforming strictly to the standard auto industry practice of retirement at 65, confirmation of Dykstra's impending departure was regarded as a mild surprise. He became president two years ago this month. At that time Ford spokesmen indicated to questioners he might not quit automatically when he reached his 65th birthday.

Board Chairman Henry Ford II told a questioner Tuesday Dykstra will retire this month.

Miller, 47, was reported to be Ford's third highest paid officer in 1962 with a bonus just under $300,000. Ahead of him were Henry Ford II and Dykstra.

A UCLA graduate in banking and finance, Miller worked for the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco before going into military service. He met McNamara while attending the Air Force Statistical School at Harvard.

Miller and Wright became Ford vice presidents in May 1957. Wright took over as general manager of the huge Ford Division and moved to his present job when McNamara became president.

Dykstra, a native of the Netherlands, has been a manufacturing man all of his life. He is a skilled diemaker and was manufacturing manager of Oldsmobile before he joined Ford in 1947.

Wright, 50, has a background as a statistician and a lawyer. With Ford he has been in purchasing, manufacturing and in charge of sales divisions.

The new president will be the seventh in the 60-year history of Ford and the fourth from outside the Ford family. John S. Gray

Sir Winnie Is Now A Citizen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill stands along among all men as an honorary citizen of the United States.

Now in the evening of a great career, the 88-year-old Briton took an unprecedented stride into history when President Kennedy signed a proclamation Tuesday. It made him the first person ever to become an honorary American citizen by an act of Congress.

Kennedy described Churchill's status as "a distinction shared only by the Marquis de Lafayette" but the situation of the French hero of the Revolution was not precisely parallel. Lafayette had honorary citizenship in Maryland and Virginia, and adoption of the Constitution made U.S. citizens of all citizens of the colonies. There was no direct action by Congress in Lafayette's case as there was in Churchill's.

In the President's view, it was something more than a reciprocal arrangement.

"By adding his name to our rolls," he said, "we mean to honor him—but his acceptance honors us far more. For no statement or proclamation can enrich his name now—the name Sir Winston Churchill is already legend."

In the view of the man who was prime minister in Britain's most dangerous days, the acclaim of this "mighty and benevolent nation" underscored the unity of the English-speaking peoples.

HIS ANSWER

"In this century of storm and tragedy," he said in a message to Kennedy, "I contemplate with high satisfaction the constant factor of the interwoven and upward progress of our peoples. Our comradeship and our brotherhood in war were unexampled. We stood together, and because of that fact the free world now stands."

NEW YORK (AP)—The prestigious television documentary and public affairs show has developed into a vehicle to explore the big, the serious, the important issue. Although many of them are very well done, the viewer wishes they could be lightened occasionally by humor or by a subject less vital than life or death.

CBS' News Department, in one of its far-too-rare sallies into the yeasty areas of life, promises just such a program Thursday night. It is called "In the Mouth of the Wolf," and is a documentary about Parma, Italy, which has such a passion for and knowledge about opera that it can only be compared with Brooklyn's former feelings about the Dodgers.

During Parma's grand opera season, a performer is allowed just one mistake. Groans are heard after a second and if there

Resurrection, Immortality Not Interchangeable Terms

EDITOR'S NOTE—Human life exists in space and time. But does it continue to exist beyond space and time after what we know as death? Viewing this question as a problem in logic, the Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Kepler outlines three philosophical arguments and possible answers. This is an excerpt from Dr. Kepler's book, "The Meaning and Mystery of the Resurrection," published by Association Press and copyrighted by the National Board of YMCAs. It is the third in a series of five articles.

By DR. THOMAS S. KEPLER
Modern Christian man who believes in the continuity of life beyond the experience of death, whether it be that of the immortality of the soul or the resurrection of the body, resorts to a number of solid arguments to establish his faith.

Mainly he looks at the nature of God, called "Father" by our Lord, whose qualities of mercy and wisdom make it obligatory for God never to annihilate the immortal nature of his children. If this God is both moral and full of grace, immortality is a necessary postulate.

Secondly, the experience of the human race, especially as seen through expressions of the great world religions, has shown the universal belief and hope of man's eternal nature. Different religious cultures hold diverse views of life after death, but the common belief and hope are nevertheless there.

The conservation of values in the universe is a third argument which has convinced some of life's eternal continuity.

If energy is conserved in the universe, how much more necessary it is that minds of men be conserved, if this be a rational universe, runs the argument. Especially if the universe is encompassed by the Spirit of God, such a preservation of values in terms of personalities is pre-supposed.

If man, after his years of struggle to achieve purpose and meaning, is destroyed at death, one could only cry out, "What infinite waste!" Hence from the purpose of man's creation is deduced the assurance of his immortality. Along with the arguments of God's merciful purpose for man making immortality obligatory, the Christian holds the resurrection of Jesus in the New Testament as his cardinal argument for belief in life after death. For many this argument is all-sufficient for faith in life continuing beyond the grave.

IMMORTALITY

As modern man speaks of "life after death," he occasionally uses terms such as "immortality" and "resurrection" as synonyms, employing them interchangeably. The two terms, however, in their original usage have different connotations.

"Immortality" belongs to Greek thought and relates to the fact that the soul continues in existence apart from the body after the body dies. The soul belongs to the eternal world, while the body belongs to the temporal world.

Immortality is thus not so much a gift from God as an accomplishment of man and deals with man's emancipation from his temporal body. Hence "immortality" is not a term used in the New Testament, for the focusing point of New Testament thought is that of the bodily "resurrection" of Jesus, not the mere survival of his soul after his bodily death.

RESURRECTION

The resurrection of Jesus and of "everyman" is a gift of God, who in the life beyond the grave gives man another body, namely one that is "glorified" or "spiritual." New Testament thought never conceives man's continuity beyond the grave apart from some kind of "body."

Immortality and the resurrection have one characteristic in common, according to Ian T. Ramsey: "At the outset let us recognize that all doctrines of a future life, whatever their variety, are alike in one important respect. They all arise as so many versions of one answer to a general logical problem which everyone who formulates religious language must face. The problem is this. In acknowledging any religious topic whatever, we acknowledge something which exceeds spatio-temporal."

The resurrection of Jesus as a "mystery" left its influence upon men living in the spatio-temporal world of Jesus' day. In the centuries which followed, however, it was an event which was grasped by "faith-knowledge" rather than by empirical knowledge.

Men themselves do not contain the quality of deathlessness, but must receive it as a gift from God if they are to overcome the destructive power of death (I Cor. 15:53-4). Jesus Christ's death and resurrection have shown man a hope and a way by which the corruption of his human life has been effectively overcome (II Tim. 1:10; Rom. 8:1-2).

While the Christian man to a large degree "earns" the award of eternal life by asserting his faith in Christ, the greater meaning for man's inheritance of eternal life is through God's grace extending him this gift.

Mental Health Week Slated

Mayor George Zachariah has proclaimed April 28-May 4 as Mental Health Week in Big Spring, coinciding with National Mental Health Week.

Civic clubs are joining in the observance by holding their meetings at the Big Spring State Hospital where panels will explain something about mental illness and its treatment.

"Because we have the honor of being the home city for a state hospital," said the mayor, "Big Spring has more than a passing interest in mental health. In addition, we realize that this is as important as physical health and in either case an understanding of the problem is the first step toward achieving improvement."

Most of the clubs will have luncheons, but the Evening Lions Club will maintain its evening time while the Optimists and Big Spring Pastors Association will have breakfasts there.

In addition, on the evening of April 25th, Joanne Forrest will interview Dr. Preston Harrison, hospital superintendent; Dr. Frankie Williams, member of the staff; Chaplain Max McGuire; and Dr. J. H. Burnett, president of the Volunteer Council, on her television program.

Other activities are being shaped for the week, said Mrs. Hila Weathers, volunteer coordinator.

Youth Employment Bill Faces Stiff Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's youth employment bill faces stiff and possibly prolonged Republican opposition in the Senate today but Democrats claimed the votes to pass it if they can get to a final roll call.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called his colleagues in two hours early and promised a night session if necessary to get action. Mansfield said he was determined to pass the high-priority administration measure before an unofficial Easter recess begins Thursday night.

However, Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., quarterbacking the Republican opposition to the legislation, declared he would have a lot to say about the bill and that his GOP colleagues would propose numerous amendments.

Prouty declined Mansfield's bid to put into effect a debate limitation agreement—the usual way to speed floor action. This requires unanimous consent.

Kennedy proposed the bill when Congress met in January as a partial solution to one of the nation's severe problems—the high rate of unemployment among youths in the 16-21 age bracket. About 700,000 of these were out of school and out of work last year. The measure would operate through two programs—a federal youth conservation corps and a hometown public service corps. The bill survived the first Republican move Tuesday, an attempt by Prouty to shut it to the interior committee for as much as three weeks.

This was beaten 58 to 29 but it did not necessarily indicate eventual passage. Several Southern Democrats who voted against the move said they still would oppose the measure.

Then, apparently hoping to pick up a few votes, Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., proposed a $20-million cut in the first-year authorization of $120 million. This easily carried 65-21.

The administration had announced that, in any event, it planned to ask only for $100 million for the initial year of the program.

Exiles Refuse To Let Chief Quit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban Revolutionary Council rejected today the resignation of its president, Jose Miro Cardona, and said Miro would continue to head the anti-Castro exile organization. The grave-faced, heavy-set former Havana law professor was prompted to offer his resignation as a token of a clash with the Kennedy administration over its Cuban policy.

State Senate Gives Study To Money Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—State senators gave hurried study today to provisions of a $3.1 billion appropriations bill before taking the measure up for debate this afternoon or Thursday.

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, asked his colleagues to examine the 350-page appropriations measure speedily so that action can be taken.

The spending bill, reported out of the committee Monday, substitutes for a House version. Traditionally, the Senate offers its draft for that passed by the House and the final bill is written by a conference committee.

Hazlewood told the senators Tuesday if they were not ready to act on the bill today, he would ask consideration Thursday.

It provides for an outlay of $456 million in general revenue funds over the next two years, $66 million more than for the current biennium.

A $47 million hike for state colleges, including $15 million for the University of Houston, accounts for the bulk of the increase in spending.

The House scheduled debate on a $32 million tax bill for Thursday. It postponed a scheduled debate on a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 until April 23.

House passage Tuesday sent to the Senate bills to:

Put regulation of boxing and wrestling under the Department of Public Safety instead of the State Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Require a person be "actively seeking work" before being eligible for unemployment compensation.

To increase from 12 to 14 the age at which children can leave school to work.

And to provide for establishing of rehabilitation districts for teaching handicapped or mentally retarded children.

Both houses passed their own versions of bills to require prescriptions for buying paregoric. After a two-hour talk by Sen.

W. T. Moore of Bryan, the Senate set for consideration Tuesday a bill to let the University of Houston receive state aid for its graduate school.

Another filibuster type talk of about two hours by Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, preceded the Senate's tentative approval of a bill to forbid flying the United Nations flag on state buildings. However, senators then refused 18-9 to suspend the rules for final action.

The Senate passed to the House bills to:

Provide home economics textbooks for public schools.

Consolidate four Railroad Commission funds into one.

Provide jury trials for condemnation procedures instituted by water districts.

Require those selling pre-need funeral plans to put 90 per cent of the money collected into reserves.

DAILY GUIDE — A strong current of energy loose today so plan to either be very confident and steady, or retire to the sidelines if the current seems too strong for you to venture. Ingenuity, inventiveness and swift action can pay off, but one needs to be very sure one's motives are ethical. Pressures can be put on some issues, so the news items will bear watching. Negotiations and conferences can move along constructively, but deceptive factors may develop tomorrow.

Do the important things which need steam to get them on the move, remembering that this favors short-term matters which can be put through right now.

Avoid harsh methods, conflict, or temperamental outbursts. There is still atmospheric disturbances to be expected around this period.

Each time former eclipse points have been triggered earthquakes, fires and storms have followed this year. Big fires have marked these months since last October while Mars has been in the fire sign Leo.

Some negative feeling creeps in tomorrow; slow down.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ARIES! Immediate concern should be to keep relationships with social friends and loved ones smooth. Until June some difficulties may be accentuated, but in early June some surprises and changes make you turn your attention to working conditions, or in conditions which affect those who work for you or with you. Do not let pressures cause nervous reactions. Personal relationships in August may present some rough going, but you are fortunate in being in a good position to win out. Older ties will give you the best support at this time, so turn to these older people. A Devotional For The Day

Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done. (Luke 22:42.)

PRAYER: O Father, in whom we have faith, to whom we pray, and for whom we live, help us to be faithful and courageous. Assure us that victory will be ours as we pray in sincerity, "Not my will, but thine, be done." In Jesus' name we ask. Amen.

Special Action Merited

Texas backed into the matter of poll tax repeal, and now time may run out before the 1964 general elections come around. It will take some doing and probably some expense to avoid a lot of unnecessary confusion.

Last year Texans expressed their approval of abolition of a poll tax, but this actually involves the resubmission of a concrete issue to that effect in the form of a constitutional amendment. The legislature has before it proposals for abandoning the poll tax for a system of voter registration, and presumably this will be passed in some form. To become wholly effective, however, it will have to be approved by the voters at a constitutional amendment election.

There might be no occasion for a special election except that there is now pending an amendment to the federal constitution which will do away with the poll tax as a requisite for participation in federal elections. Already it has 29 votes of ratification by the states, and its approval is a foregone conclusion.

If Texas does not take special action, it could be treated to the spectacle of two sets of qualifications for voting in the 1964 elections — one for federal offices, one for state and local offices.

A special election, therefore, would be proper. Unless we miss our guess, there likely will be a few other proposed amendments to consider at the same time. Hardly a legislature convenes but that it does not conjure up a few amendments before it adjourns.

Sir Winston

The Congress voted and President Kennedy fixed his signature Tuesday to an act that confers upon Sir Winston Churchill honorary citizenship in the United States.

This is an extraordinary action, but then Sir Winston is an extraordinary person. Few will question that he is one of the great men of our time and that history will rank him high among the great of the ages.

Once addressing the Congress, Sir Winston, then the prime minister of Britain, observed whimsically of his appearance in the House that had his father been an American rather than his mother, "I might have made it on my own."

There are many characteristics which have endeared him not only to his own people, but to this nation and others of the free world. His great eloquence is one; his perception and unflinching faith in the righteousness of his own cause is another; his stubborn courage is still another.

None, however, exceeds his matchless power to inspire others to fight for the cause of freedom and honor, and to fight on and on and on.

The Broader View Of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON—"Foreign aid" is just a headline phrase to millions of American readers. To Congress, it is a perplexing segment of an already top-heavy budget. To the taxpayers, it is either an unnecessary expense or an expenditure that at least needs cutting.

Actually, "foreign aid" is the most costly and perhaps the greatest adventure in humanitarianism and unselfishness that any single nation has ever undertaken in world history.

EVEN IF THE program stopped tomorrow, the record of the United States, so far as altruistic purpose is concerned, would outshine what any other nation has ever attempted.

But the question today is what to do about financing all this for the future. President Kennedy tactfully appointed a special commission to make a study and a report.

BUT EVEN SO comprehensive a report as was recently submitted by the committee headed by General Lucius Clay does not come to grips with the problem of how to deal with this relatively new and baffling challenge in world history. Nor did the Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, by his lengthy and earnest statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee last week, meet the real issue. It is this: Should the United States do the job virtually alone?

Stated briefly, a major question is not how much the United States can give away each year but whether the strategy behind the giving is well conceived and whether it is an attempt to do too much with too little.

SECRETARY RUSK oversimplifies the argument by pointing to the areas in the world where America's financial assistance has had fruitful results in the sense that Communist influence has been diminished. He made a serious mistake, however, in the following comment in testimony before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs:

"There is nothing that the Communists want more than to see the 'Yanks go home'—not only from Western Europe, but from the Mediterranean, South Asia, the Far East, Latin America, Africa, everywhere. If we Yanks come home, the Communists will begin to take over. Why any American would want to co-operate with that global strategy is beyond my understanding. But that is what sharp cuts in our foreign-aid program would mean."

THIS IS AN erroneous interpretation of the speeches and statements of those who have wanted the "foreign aid" program revised. For the principle itself has been widely approved. What is doubted is whether the United States is administering the program efficiently and whether the American taxpayer has resources enough to continue aid to 95 countries in the world on the scale of the last decade and a half.

The cry that if billions aren't spent, "The Communists will take over" has a hollow sound today. The impression is conveyed that the United States is buying friendship with dollars not only in the Americas but throughout the world. The feeling prevails in the underdeveloped countries that if the United States doesn't furnish money, the Russians will. One side is played off against the other.

THE UNITED STATES, by its projects, cannot change the habits of human nature and produce intelligent leaders and democratic institutions merely by supplying funds or by the work of thousands of boys and girls in the Peace Corps. Missionaries from many countries have for decades been helpful in the slow process of bringing civilization to lands where savagery has prevailed. It isn't a "foreign aid" task for the United States alone. The United States may have to assume military leadership in providing missiles and other weapons for defense of the free world, but the American people do not have the sole duty or obligation in the realm of world philanthropy.

THE COMMUNIST impetus to the "liberation" and "independence" movements have been effective in Africa and Southeast Asia only because no over-all plan of "foreign aid" coincident with the gradual withdrawal of European "colonialism," was launched.

The "foreign aid" problem is not just a contest with the Soviet government. It is a project for all of the free nations together, and the sooner some common sense is applied to the organization of the whole project on a multi-nation basis, the quicker will the various countries in the underdeveloped category be started on the road to real progress without the rivalries and blackmail and extortion that characterize so many of the "foreign aid" programs of today.

Billy Graham

What do you think about people who claim to be Christians, go to church regularly but gossip about people for making a mistake? This is what keeps people from going to church. I'd rather these so-called Christians wouldn't speak to me. P. R.

True Christians do not gossip about people, nor do they condemn them for their mistakes. Jesus said to a very sinful immoral woman, "Neither do I condemn thee; go thy way and sin no more." I take it that you are the one who had made the mistakes which people are gossiping about. Let I condone you, or give you comfort in your sins, let me remind you that social condemnation is one of the prices we pay for wrong conduct.

You can't expect people to respect and admire you when your life is all wrong. Remember, God will not judge you by the standard of these people; you mention. He will judge you by the standard of His own Son.

Is your own life Christ-like? Have you availed yourself of the wonderful grace of God?

Finding a beam in the eye of your critics will not make you one degree better. You may even, by comparison be as good or better than those who condemn you, but if you haven't accepted Christ, you are under the judgment of God. We would all do well to stop quibbling about the weaknesses of others and settle our account with Jesus Christ.

Quiet, Lover

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Mario Teluchi, a restaurant headwaiter, has a poodle, Lover, that gets lonesome and barks while Teluchi is at work. Then, neighbors complain.

So Teluchi arranged a direct phone connection to his apartment, with amplifiers on each end. Now, Mario listens to the phone at intervals, and if Lover is barking, he commands, "Quiet, Lover!"

'NOW LET'S FIGHT IT ALL OVER AGAIN'

James Marlow

The Caribbean Witch Doctor

WASHINGTON (AP)—It is almost two years since the United States got mixed up in one of the worst farces in its history. If it had been planned for his benefit, it couldn't have helped Fidel Castro more.

He looked like a soft touch but wasn't. Now, since the Soviets moved in to protect him, he looks unmovable. The United States, which sought to destroy him, now tiptoes around him.

About 1,500 Cuban refugees, with American backing, invaded their homeland April 17, 1961, to get rid of Castro. He smashed them, jailed about 1,200, and finally released them last year for a handsome ransom.

FROM ALL of this it might seem he could consider himself safe now. He probably doesn't. There is a bit of the Caribbean witch doctor about him. All who touch him get hit with a curse, friend or foe. Both the United States and Russia suffered humiliation from getting tangled with him. The events flowing from that disastrous act of invasion took strange turns.

This country — but principally President Kennedy, who took responsibility for the invasion—has been rendered self-conscious not only by the invasion failure but the dismal nature of it.

It shocked some people around the world to see the United States take part, even though in the background, in an attack on a neighbor. Some were shocked because it failed, others because it was handled so wretchedly.

RUSSIA suffered an embarrassment from which it probably has not yet recovered when, after sliding missiles into Cuba, it crawled out of a showdown with Kennedy by pulling its missiles out.

But Russia wasn't all loser. It shoved about 22,000 Soviet troops into Cuba with the missiles and perhaps 14,000 are still there. Since any attack on Cuba now would involve them, and Russia, their presence discourages invasion.

In this sense they're a blessing for Castro. He may feel the blessing is mixed. He can't help feeling that if he ever stops tooting the Russian line, the Russians in Cuba will dispose of him.

There is the possibility that Russia had two reasons, not connected with any real threat to the United States, for putting the missiles in Cuba:

1. IT WAS a good excuse to put troops in, too, for while they're a discouragement to any kind of American invasion they are also a control on Castro.

2. Strictly for bargaining to agree to pull its missiles out of Cuba if this country agreed to do the same with its missiles in Turkey and Italy.

Nevertheless, not long after the Russian missiles were hauled away from Cuba, this government announced it was pulling its missiles out of Italy and Turkey.

The reason given was that they are no longer needed now that Poland, submarine and moving around under the Mediterranean with their missiles are better bases than the stationary ones in Italy and Turkey.

Syphilis Can Be Congenital, Not Hereditary

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D. I am being taken to task, quite legitimately, by technically-minded readers who protest that syphilis can be congenital, but cannot (as I incorrectly said) be hereditary.

The way the subject arose was via a letter from a man with the disease who wanted to know if it "could be hereditary," because he knew of no way, other than that, by which he could have contracted it.

What he meant boils down to this: Could he have been born with the disease? And the answer is "yes." A child can be born with syphilis.

Doubtless I should then have explained that there is a difference between congenital and hereditary.

Hereditary governs our basic constitution. We tend to be tall or short because our ancestors were. Color of hair, eyes and skin is a matter of heredity. Some diseases are hereditary. For a couple of examples, heredity strongly influences diabetes; it passes on such defects as hemophilia, or failure of the blood to clot properly.

A congenital defect, on the other hand, is one that occurs through some accident or influence during pregnancy. Consider the "thalidomide babies." They started out to be normal, but the drug intervened, and caused a deformity before the babies were born—and AFTER they had acquired their hereditary traits.

Aside from the matter of using the correct word, all this becomes important to us, in a practical sense.

A child is never born with syphilis simply because the parents may, at one time, have had it.

A child can be born with syphilis for only one reason: The germ is present while the baby is still in the womb. Syphilis is a germ-caused disease. There is no way of getting it without transmission of the germ.

For years the proportion of babies born with syphilis has been from one to two per cent, but there is no real excuse for this except that people do not take proper measures for adequate treatment.

This risk alone is sufficient reason why women should begin getting medical care as soon as they are pregnant, rather than waiting until the time of birth is near. If syphilis is detected, treatment with antibiotics or other drugs can protect the child from the disease even though, in some cases, the mother may not be entirely cured.

Treatment after birth can protect the child, too, and the number of infant deaths from this cause has declined to a very low figure.

If a woman does not have the disease and is not exposed to the syphilis germ throughout the time of pregnancy, her child will not have it. She may have had it, and been cured. The child still cannot be born with the disease because the germ is not there. I repeat, it is congenital, not hereditary.

Headaches? You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin cover cost of handling.

Dr. Molner is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Around The Rim

Pepe May Be Back

When No. 3 son and I make our daily inspections at this season of the year to take a census of each new bud, I have mixed emotions upon beholding the first tender shoots on the faithful fig below our south window.

ACTUALLY, I WANT the fig to do well, as it generally does, and I look forward to the time it will fruit. Alone of my clan, I actually am fond of figs and Mama humors me by cooking up a few jars of preserves from the yield.

The thing that has me gun shy dates back about a couple of decades, and I can thank a former neighbor, Cecil McDonald, for this trauma. During the early days of the late war, he inveigled his mate, Helen, into raising chickens. This would solve the meat shortage, he figured, and there was really nothing to it. She found out different the first time it rained and her kitchen turned up full of cheeping chicks. We found out something else some time later.

THAT WAS WHEN Cecil and Helen returned late one evening and the car lights caught a culprit in his chicken pen. Alas, the culprit was black with a white streak down the middle of its back and bushy tail. Cecil ran for his .410 shotgun and the polecat ran for a nearby foxhole the kids had dug. Cecil, a bloodhound by nature, tracked the critter down in no time at all. The first inking he had was when we heard the shot ring out; the second inking was when a tidal wave of fragrance moved downward to our boudoir. For a frantic moment, we thought the Germans had struck with poison gas. Finally, when we could breathe, we called upwind to submit our surrender.

AS I SAY, neither Mama nor I quite forgot that episode. It all came back with instant and perfect clarity about a year ago when our noble dog, Stubby, set in on an unnatural course of barking. We thought someone might be prowling, so we peeked out the window. There, in the bright moonlight, sat Monsieur Pepe le Phew quietly and somewhat tolerantly eyeing Stubby. Yet when noble friend darted in beyond the bounds of prudence, Pepe seemed a little twitchy.

"Stubby!" we scolded. "No! Quiet, dog! Quiet!"

THIS EMBOLDENED him, and he bared his fangs and inched closer. Pepe stiffened.

"Stubby," we pleaded softly. "Please, pretty dog!"

This added to his confidence, and in desperation I hooted it for the back door and called in dulcet tones: "Here Stubby, nice dog, faithful friend! Come in the house, Stubby!" He understood this magic word "house" and came bounding around the corner to the back door, quivering and proud.

We returned to peering out the window, and Pepe serenely returned to his place under the fig bush. Tenderly, we lowered the window on that side and hoped for the best.

ONE NIGHT, some time later, we were telling the Ray Eblings, our neighbors, about this episode.

"Right here is where that skunk was," I said, pointing to the fig bush. Stubby came charging up, and to put on a good act, took up his fierce barking. I pulled back a limb to demonstrate further, and in the glimmer of light from Ray's carport we could discern Pepe le Phew, seemingly calm despite an interruption of his fig feast. I lowered the limb and fled.

So, with the prospects of another fig crop, there is the possibility that Pepe may be back, and who knows whether his puckering string will be as steady as before? —JOE PICKLE

Only Heaven Helps The Working Girl

La, heaven to which we poor working girls have been looking for protection through the ages will no longer have to do the job all by itself!

The United States Chamber of Commerce has just stepped up and volunteered to aid heaven in its task. Nor is that all. The chamber, above and beyond the call of duty, is going to protect us working girls even from ourselves.

THE CHAMBER has just gone on record before a U.S. Senate Labor subcommittee as opposed to equal pay for women. It opposes on the most lofty grounds any and all legislative to require equal pay for equal work by women. The chamber's noble stance is inspired by its deep concern for the welfare of working girls who, it contends, will be fired wholesale if equal pay ever becomes the law of the nation.

William Miller, a vice president of Stewart-Warner Corporation of Chicago and a spokesman for the chamber at the Senate hearing, declared that if an employer "must pay an equal salary, he always will hire the man except in most unusual circumstances."

THEN, thinking only to protect the working girl, Miller added that if industry had to pay women equal wages it would eliminate "thousands and even hundreds of thousands of job opportunities for women."

It's lovely, simply lovely, to have Miller and his kind in the United States Chamber of Commerce on our side, ready to fight to keep us in jobs no matter how discriminatory the pay.

WELL, SIR, I can scarcely express my gratitude for such chivalry. It is wonderful to see big, handsome men fighting to keep my sex at work, no matter what the savings in dollars. However, I'd of course me would rather take the cash, if I can have my druthers, and let the chivalry go. This doubtless shows how lost to reason I am. But I will take my chances at being fired.

So, I have a hunch, will all the other working girls that Miller and the Chamber of Commerce graciously threaten to fire if equal pay ever becomes a reality.

WHO'S AFRAID of the big, bad wolf? Especially after dodging him in offices from coast to coast? And if he wants to fire American working women wholesale rather than pay decent or fair or equal wages, let him, and then see how he gets along without us, or where he can recruit sufficient replacements?

About 35 per cent of all American women are in the country's labor force. Every third worker in American industry is a female. The 1963 World Almanac, quoting statistics compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Labor, says there were 23,059,000 women employed in this nation in 1962. Employed males numbered 46,505,000.

IF MILLER AND the United States Chamber of Commerce plan to fire every third worker in the United States vineyard, rather than pay equitable wages, something's gonna give. And if won't be women. It will be industry, which could no more do without the millions of women involved in it than it could find the necessary men to replace them.

I WOULD LIKE to see the working women of this country beat Miller and the chamber to the punch. It would be a fine and salutary lesson if every working woman in the United States left her typewriter, computer, bench or machine on June 2 and stayed home for a week. Then let the country see how Miller and the chamber manage to keep the wheels going. Let even 10,000,000—much less 23,000,000—women walk off the job and see what paralysis follows in the business world.

Working girls beware the rabbit punch and keep your eyes on heaven. It is still your only protector.

Let The Ideological Blood Flow

WASHINGTON — Politicians, like prima donnas, are seldom friendly with their rivals, no matter how chummy they seem to be in public. The refreshing exception to the rule of clashing temperaments and catty disparagements is Senator Barry Goldwater's genuine and undisguised friendship for his arch Republican rival, Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

THIS IS NOT a stage play camaraderie. In fact, the Senator ducks public appearances with the Governor for the darndest reason—Barry draws attention and applause away from Nelson, and the Arizonian doesn't think that's the way to treat a friend. But they see one another in private and have some good masculine guffaws about national affairs. Whenever Rocky comes to Washington, the two have breakfast together in the Governor's baronial hideaway here. Goldwater admires Rockefeller's proven ability to run the Empire State with reasonable economy.

ALL THIS poses a question that becomes more vital as months roll by. Can this pair tangle in a skull-cracking battle for the Republican nomination? The conditions of the world, the nation and the Republican party are shouting out loud for just the kind of a fight that these two men ought to stage. Richard Nixon was telling some of us the other day in Washington that the Republican primary next June in California is just where the Rockefeller-Goldwater bout should be staged.

CALIFORNIA Republicans are as Liberal as Chief Justice Warren and so conservative that the right-winger, Joe Shell, took one-third of the votes from Nixon in last year's primary. The news coverage will be immense because the New York Times now has a West Coast edition and the Washington Post has a news exchange arrangement with the Los Angeles Times.

There just couldn't be a better forum for Goldwater to match his ideology against that of Rockefeller. Moreover, if Nixon is right, the Republican who runs against Mr. Kennedy will have these three issues left over from the nip-and-tuck battle of 1960.

1. Cuba. JFK was going to "do something" about Cuba, but whoever dreamed that he would allow it to become a base for Russian troops and weapons—and become a privileged sanctuary, protected by the American and British Navies for Fidel Castro?

2. "GET THE country moving again": JFK was going to do this in a big way, but now there are more unemployed than ever, and the President himself foresees many more millions of jobless people by 1970.

3. American prestige abroad. The President was going to lift it, but Latin America is in revolt, France is huffy, Canada is furious, Britain is sulky and Castro is insolent as never before.

THE WORLD, the country and, of course, the GOP needs a man to challenge this Kennedy record. There's no call for Goldwater to work up a grudge fight. In Jack Dempsey's autobiography, the old Mauler tells us that some of his bloodiest battles, with Bill Brennan, for example, were fought against devoted friends.

So, we'd better hope that Goldwater and Rockefeller will pretty soon shake hands and come out fighting. For the good of mankind, they should do nothing less than beat one another's brains out.

Merkel Badgers Grab 6-A Track Triumph

Wylie's Dean Clark emerged as the individual star but Merkel mounted enough team strength to win the District 6-A track and field meet here Tuesday afternoon.

The Badgers scored a total of 153 1-3 points to unseat Rotan as the team titlist. Rotan was second, with 113 points; followed by Roscoe, with 99 1-6; Wylie, with 83 1-2; Jim Ned, 25; and Coahoma, with 24.

Clark captured individual scoring honors with a total of 48 points. Clark won both hurdles, the 220 and pole vault and finished second in the broad jump.

Nine records fell in the meet and another was tied.

Merkel's combination of Jack Reynolds, Wayne Hester, Johnny Harris and Roger Moore shattered the sprint relay mark, covering the distance in 44.85.

Clark covered the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.9 and the lows in 20.5 for new mark. In addition, he cleared 11 feet 3 inches in the pole vault and shattered the 220-yard dash mark with a 22.9 clocking.

Merkel's Roger Moore contributed to the record-breaking efforts when he cleared 22 feet in the broad jump.

Tom Holland of Wylie high jumped 5 feet 8 inches for still another new mark.

Rotan's Howard Van Loon flung

the discus 153 feet 9 inches to break his own record by over 11 feet and tied his own standard in the shot put with a toss of 54 feet 2 inches.

The meet was run off in near-perfect weather.

Coahoma qualified one boy for regional. He is Mike Mosley, a freshman who pushed Roger Moore of Merkel in the 440 and wound up second.

Coahoma had the satisfaction of winning the junior division, tallying a total of 154 1-3 points.

Merkel was second, with 108; followed by Wylie, 97; Roscoe, 64 1-2; Jim Ned, 39; and Rotan, 17.

Wylie Star, Coahoma Frosh

Midland Bulldogs Tip Big Spring, 7 To 5

MIDLAND — Midland High surged for two runs in the sixth on their way to a 7-5 District 2 AAAA baseball victory over Big Spring here Tuesday afternoon.

The Steers return to action at home Thursday, meeting Abilene High in a 4 p.m. contest. The engagement was originally booked for Saturday but was moved forward due to the upcoming holiday.

Big Spring now boasts a 14-conference record. Midland is 3-2. Butch Parks and Bill Addison paced Midland to its victory. Addison, who relieved Bob Stanley in the second inning, received credit for the mound victory and helped his own cause by belting three hits in as many trips. Parks drove out a first inning double that accounted for Midland's first run.

Jeff Brown slugged another mighty home run for Big Spring, his 12th of the year. The Midland fences are deep but his drive easily cleared the barrier. The smash came in the fifth with the sacks deserted.

Buster Barnes collected two singles for Big Spring, which picked up singles runs in the first and second innings, added another in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Charley West singled for Big Spring in the seventh but died on base.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Golf prospects are looking up at the local high school.

Norman Patterson is the only regular of the present team returning in 1964 but Jody Thompson, a part-time regular the past season, will be back and two boys now in the ninth grade, Kenneth Patterson (Norman's brother) and Randy Thomas should be a big help to the Steers next spring.

Kenneth and young Thomas, by the way, both played football.

Coach Dan Lewis of the Steers fingers Odessa Permian as the golf team to beat next year. The Panthers have all their present regulars returning.

Bill Ferrem, who operates a sports trophy house in Midland, will serve as starter of the first annual Big Spring Open Golf tournament, scheduled here June 8-9.

Among latest entries in the two-day show, which could turn out to be the biggest thing of its kind in this area, include C. A. DeWees, Arlington; C. G. Griffin, Brownfield; Frog Koger, Frank Powell, Jack Montgomery; R. S. and David McCullah, Zolie Boykin, Arch Ratliff, Bill McClendon and Eddie Acri.

DeWees formerly was pro of the Big Spring Country Club and has many friends here. Griffin turned pro after he left here.

I see by the papers where burglars raided the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Co., warehouse in Chicago.

All they took were 31,272 golf balls—valued at $40,000.

The story fascinates me. How could anybody steal 31,272 golf balls, without hauling them away in the Queen Mary?

NCAA football, which again can be seen locally on TV next fall, will be sponsored in part by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company. That's the same concern which has contracted for the 1963-64 winter pre-Olympic and Olympic games starting Oct. 15.

Was it fancied or was it real—did you sense that golf buffs were pulling against Arnold Palmer in the Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga. last week?

Perhaps Arnie's Army is turning on him. Nothing is more fickle than the sports fan.

Bum Phillips probably would have stayed on as head coach at Texas Western College in El Paso, if the board had come through with raises for his assistants.

Phillips, who quit for the $11,500 a year coaching job at Port Neches High School, had been assured by some college officials that his aides would be raised $500 a year each.

Some of Phillips' helpers at the El Paso school were working for virtually nothing, outside of room and board.

Texas Western has a financial problem with its athletics, because it costs so much to recruit players—it is so far removed from areas where an abundance of football is played. The scouts have to stay away from school for long periods at a time, for that reason.

Warren Harper was named Tuesday to succeed Phillips. Harper agreed to come here as an aide to Emmett McKenzie a few years ago but was held to a contract in Amarillo.

Forsan High School is completing its most successful athletic year in the history of the school. Teams there have won seven district championships in various sports.

Rough Fish Are Taken At Falcon

MALLEN — Rough fish removed from Falcon Lake, up the Rio Grande from McAllen, is expected to insure better luck for West Texas fishermen, who besides Lower Rio Grande Valley people, are the chief anglers on a Falcon.

A Mexican netter caught 11,000 pounds of gar, pike and buffalo in five days, and sold them in Mexico for seven cents a pound. Some of the gar, which destroy thousands of white and black bass, crappie and catfish, weighed upwards to 150 pounds each. The fisherman set his net a few hundred feet from the hydro-electric plant water intakes at the dam.

Tribe Impressive In League Debut

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians, with an assist from the Canadian Air Force and plan 5BX, are away winning, taking their opener with a four-homer salvo as the American League baseball season began to run full throttle.

Using "ballplayers nobody ever heard of," the Indians belted 20-game winner Camilo Pascual solidly Tuesday for a 5-4 opening day victory over Minnesota that had new Manager Birdie Tebbetts chirping.

Tebbetts borrowed the 11-minute calisthenic program labeled plan 5BX by the Canadian Air Force, and instituted it in spring training to get the Indians prepared for a quick getaway. There's no doubt his nobodies got away quick.

The nobodies included Jim Grant, who pitched a seven-inning, and homer hitters Woodie Held, John Romano, rookie Max Alvis and newly acquired Fred Whitfield.

Said Tebbetts in somewhat of a challenge: "Cleveland has some ballplayers, but nobody ever heard of them. They will."

Joe Pepitone made himself heard for the New York Yankees, cracking two homers and a double in support of Ralph Terry's sixth pitching as the world champions got started with an 8-2 triumph at Kansas City.

In other American League openers, the Chicago White Sox edged Detroit 7-5 behind newly acquired Pete Ward and Hoyt Wilhelm and the Los Angeles Angels defeated Boston 4-1 behind Ken McBride's four-hitter. Baltimore and Washington, who opened Monday, were not scheduled.

Tebbetts put plan 5BX into operation the first day of spring training. He explained he picked the Canadian exercises because "they not only condition you, they improve your agility, strength and coordination." Nobody is about to argue with that at the moment.

The Indians' first three runs came on solo homers by Romano in the second inning and Whitfield and Alvis in the fourth. Then, in the seventh with the score tied 3-3, Alvis led off with a double and Held crashed a 415-foot homer that put the game out of the Twins' reach. Grant was touched for solo homers by Lenny Green and Vic Power.

Pepitone's slugging paved the way for Terry, who received 13-hit support against a Kansas City team that seemed to have little going for it besides beautiful, tradition-breaking green and gold uniforms. Elston Howard also homered for the Yankees, tagging loser Diego Segui with one on in the fourth. Rookie Bill Bryan and newcomer Chuck Essegian connected for the A's.

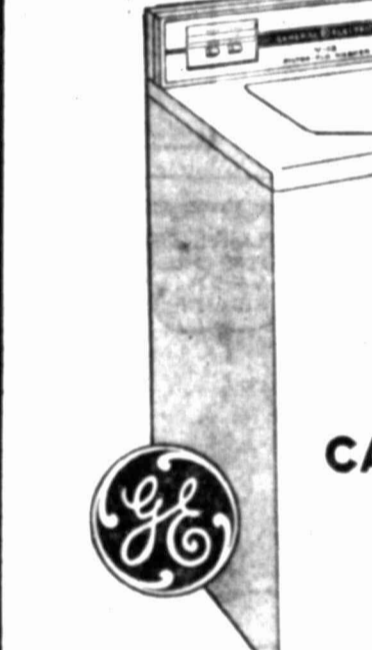

Ward lined a three-run homer in the seventh inning off loser Jim Bunning, wiping out a 5-4 Detroit lead and Wilhelm came on and retired the last nine men in a row to protect Frank Baumann's victory. Both Ward and Wilhelm were acquired by the White Sox in an off-season trade with Baltimore. Gus Triandos, also acquired from the Orioles, homered for the Tigers.

The Angels wrapped it up against Red Sox starter Bill Monbouquette with a four-run fifth inning uprising capped by Lee Thomas' three-run homer. The first run came across when Jim Fregosi reached second on a two-base throwing error by Ed Bresnold and eventually scored on Billy Moran's single. Carl Yastrzemski's homer in the seventh broke up McBride's shutout bid.

Big Fuss Over A Wayward Bus

YOUNG, Ariz. (AP)—The great fuss over the wayward bus is over. A two-state search for a busload of 10 high school students and five adults from Young ended in a Harbor City, Calif., motel Tuesday night.

All hands were reported safe. The bus driver, W. H. Merchant, principal of the high school, said the bus wasn't missing at all.

The bus left this tiny central Arizona community Saturday for an Easter vacation trip to Disneyland, Marineland and the San Diego Zoo.

Arizona authorities began a two-state search after members of the group failed to telephone their families Saturday night. The parents understood they were to get nightly phone calls, authorities said.

Merchant told police there was no such agreement. Besides, he explained, there were only a couple of telephones in Young, and it was often impossible to reach the town.

Adding to the confusion, police said, was the group's decision not to check in at the Long Beach, Calif., hotel, where they had reservations. Merchant said they decided to stay at a motel in nearby Harbor City because the Long Beach hotel was perilously close to an amusement area and sailors out on the town.

Police said they found the missing Arizonans after getting a phone tip from someone who had heard about the missing bus and spotted it in Harbor City.

Merchant told officers they plan to go to San Diego Thursday, then return home Friday or Saturday.

The management at the motel refused to let newsmen talk to the Arizonans. "There's been too much commotion already," a spokesman said.

Mathematicians may argue as to which line of play offers the better percentage prospect for success in today's hand. In the absence of a sophisticated calculator like Univac or an

IBM machine, the only recourse is to rely on simple common sense. We heartily subscribe to South's plan of campaign here in which he refused to bank all his hopes on a single possibility.

North's direct jump to four spades is the proper action on a distributional holding with strong trump support and less than ten high card points. This is a descriptive call and not a shut out bid. If partner has a hand with sufficient high card strength, he is at liberty to proceed.

West led the king of diamonds followed by the ace. When his partner played the deuce and then the five, denying a doubleton, West shifted to the queen of clubs. Declarer took the club in his hand with the king and promptly played the ace and ten of hearts, ruffing in dummy.

The queen of spades was led and, when East played the four, South paused to reflect. If he took the finesse and it lost, he was automatically set since a club loser would be unavoidable. Altho the finesse for the king is the superior percentage play holding ten cards of a suit, South chose to put up the ace from his hand. This was his reasoning: 1. There was a chance that he might drop a lone king. 2. Even if the king did not fall, he could still succeed provided that the hand with the king of spades had no more than two clubs.

When the trump king withstood declarer's efforts, he proceeded to ruff out his last heart. The ace of clubs was cashed, followed by a trump. West was in with the king of spades and was obliged to lead a diamond. South ruffed in the dummy as he discarded the losing club from his hand.

Pope Pleads For End To Arms Race

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII appealed today for an end to the arms race and for the United Nations to be given the structure and means to safeguard world peace.

In an encyclical titled "Pacem in Terris" (Peace on Earth), the pontiff called for reduction of arms stockpiles, a ban on nuclear weapons and a general agreement eventually on "progressive disarmament and an effective method of control."

The Pope warned that the "conflagration" of war "may be set off by some uncontrollable and unexpected chance."

He added: "Even though the monstrous power of modern weapons acts as a deterrent, it is to be feared that the mere continuance of nuclear tests, undertaken with war in mind, will have fatal consequences for life on the earth."

The Pope called for the deterrent of arms equality to be replaced by universal acceptance of the fundamental principle "that the true and solid peace of nations consists not in equality of arms but in mutual trust alone."

Writing as the "vicar on earth of Jesus Christ" and as "interpreter of the very profound longing of the entire human family," the pontiff beseeched "especially those who have the responsibility of public affairs to spare no labor in order to ensure that world events follow a reasonable and human course."

Pope John indicated he hoped the United Nations eventually might become a strong world authority. But he did not specifically mention what "peace-keeping means it should have at its disposal, such as a police force."

He said: "A public authority having worldwide power and endowed with the proper means for the efficacious pursuit of its objective, which is the universal common good in concrete form, must be set up by common accord and not imposed by force."

But the pontiff said nations were "right in not easily yielding in obedience to an authority imposed by force, or to an authority in whose creation they had no part, or to which they themselves did not decide to submit by conscious and free choice."

Pope John said a supra-national world authority must be considered because national leaders in the modern world are "on a footing of equality" and are "no longer capable of facing the task of finding an adequate solution to the problems."

"It is our earnest wish," the Pope continued, "that the United Nations—in its structure and in its means—may become ever more equal to the magnitude and nobility of its tasks, and that the day may come when every human being will find therein an effective safeguard for the rights which derive directly from his dignity as a person, and which are therefore universal, inviolable and inalienable rights."

"This is all the more to be hoped for since all human beings, as they take an ever more active part in the public life of their own political communities, are showing an increasing interest in the affairs of all peoples, and are becoming more consciously aware that they are living members of a world community."

Co-Op Meets Record Demand

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative was kept busy in March supplying a record amount of power to its members.

Sales amounted to 6,285,290 KWH for the month, the biggest March on record for Cap Rock. This brought to 13,926,101 KWH the sales for the first quarter of the year, compared with 11,996,178 for the same period of last year.

Sale of power for March of 1962 amounted to 5,082,658.

Pre-watering for planting in Martin County accounted for the big surge in power demands in March.

At the end of the month, there were 2,377 miles of line energized, a gain of six miles for the month and well above the 2,311 for a year ago. There were 5,149 members connected, an increase of 37 for the month, also considerably above the 4,821 members connected at the end of March 1962.

Books Closed On Baffling Murder Case

ROME (AP)—The tides of 10 winters have washed away the simple wooden cross that marked where Wilma Montesi's body was found on the black sand beach at Ostia.

Police admit they have closed the books on Italy's most baffling murder mystery.

Three outstanding figures accused in the 20-year-old girl's death all were found innocent. One has faded back into the shadows of Rome's dolce vita night life; one rose to artistic prominence with his modern music; one died, a sick old man.

10 YEARS AGO
It began 10 years ago today when dark-haired Wilma, a carpenter's daughter from the wrong side of the River Tiber, put on a party dress and went for a walk with her mother and sister.

The mother and sister spotted a movie that looked good and went into the theater. Wilma walked on alone—to death in a scandal that shocked all Italy and nearly toppled the government.

Wilma's body was found next morning on fashionable Ostia Beach. She still had on her party dress and panties embroidered with teddy bears. Missing only were her garters.

Investigating Judge Raffaele Sepe, after three years of inquiry and preliminary hearings, pictured Wilma as a girl from a modest family who wore expensive clothes—a girl who liked parties with men who liked girls.

In the trial Wilma's parents denied this.

"She was a good girl," said her father, Rodolfo. "She would never have gone in a car with any one—not even God."

"She was a saint," said Wilma's mother, Maria.

Prosecutor Cesare Palmentieri accused Gianpiero Piccioni, jazz pianist son of Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni, of homicide for allegedly abandoning Wilma on the tide-swept beach "believing her to be already dead."

He accused the self-styled Marquis Ugo Montagna, Rome boulevard baron, and Rome Police Chief Saverio Polito of trying to cover up the crime.

At the climax, Mario Scelba, then prime minister, won a vote of confidence in a first-fighting session of Parliament. Communists and Socialists called him and members of his government "friends of the friends of Montagna, the influence man."

Tommaso Pavone, chief of Italian police, resigned. Attilio Piccioni quit as foreign minister to direct his son's defense.

Now Piccioni is back in the Foreign Ministry. His son, cleared of ever having known Wilma, won last month's award for composing the best music for Italian films in 1962. Ex-Rome Police Chief Polito died of diabetes four years ago at 82. Montagna, now 52, is back in the boulevard life, a shadowy, little-mentioned figure.

The "Black Swan" girl of the sensational trial, slinky-figured Anna Maria Caglio, failed to crash the movies, but married a film technician.

She threw the courtroom into an uproar with six hours of testimony describing nude sex parties and drug orgies. She said they took place at Montagna's Capocotto ("Cooked Head") hunting lodge, along the beach near where Wilma's body was found.

DRUG RING
She said Wilma died at such a party. Anna Maria Caglio called her ex-lover Montagna the "brains of a drug ring" and said young Piccioni was its "assassin."

It was May 28 of 1957 when three judges at Venice finally acquitted Piccioni, Montagna, Polito and nine minor defendants.

State prosecutor Palmentieri had thrown up his hands telling the court: "Wilma's death was not an accident. Neither did she commit suicide. But there is absolutely no proof against any of the defendants."

He turned bitterly against his own witness, Anna Maria Caglio, calling her a "perfidious woman."

ON THE SHELF

SCIENCE AND HISTORY.

By Ernest Cuneo, Duell, Sloan and Pearce. $3.95.

By The Associated Press

The author certainly has a novel approach to history.

And even if the traditional historians and historian-philosophers raise their eyebrows at what he has to say, he gives the reader a lot of provocative ideas. His book speaks in layman's language and presents some pretty fascinating ideas.

Cuneo's basic premise is that people (he calls them "men-in-numbers") act differently from individual human beings, and that furthermore their behavior falls into patterns. The behaviorists would agree with him on this, but he goes a step farther. He finds that mass behavior follows principles closely resembling many of the observed principles of the physical sciences.

Using analogies, he finds there is a relationship between expanding nations and as expanding gas in a chamber; that the tendencies which historians call "the balance of power" are very much like the polarization which leads to mistosis of the living cell into two cells; that "the law of the conservation of energy can usefully be applied to the analysis of civilizations"; and that the laws of motion, energy and propulsion may be expressed in terms of the conscious and subconscious impulses of men and nations.

Cuneo also has some caustic and deflating things to say about the traditional definitions of a nation, as developed by desk-bound historians, and a refreshing way of tossing off the more grandiose intellectual concepts of Spengler, Hegel, Marx, Toynbee and others as theoretical fabrications lacking deplorably the principles of Baconian investigation.

The author is no professional historian with ivory tower notions. He has been a journalist, attorney and author. He writes pragmatically. But who knows? He may have struck upon some ideas that will clarify the muddy obscurities of the professors.

He has written a volume that is interesting and full of intellectual yeast.

—MILES A. SMITH

who told an unbelievable story. Wilma's father testified his daughter suffered from eczema. He thought she might have gone to Ostia, taken off her garters to bathe her feet in the salt water, fainted, and drowned.

Police laughed at this explanation. But for all they have been able to prove in 10 years, it might be the truth which prosecutor Palmentieri had said was "lost in a labyrinth of lies."

It turned out that even the wooden cross on the beach was false. It had been supposed that the cross was placed there in loving memory by Wilma's friends or family. Actually, a photographer put up the cross to dramatize a picture; X marks the spot.
