INVESTIGATION LAUNCHED INTO DISASTER

Navy Gives Up Hope For Submarine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy had scant hope today of ever unraveling the full mystery of America's greatest submarine disaster—the sinking of the nuclear-powered Thresher with 129 men in the deadly depth of the sea.

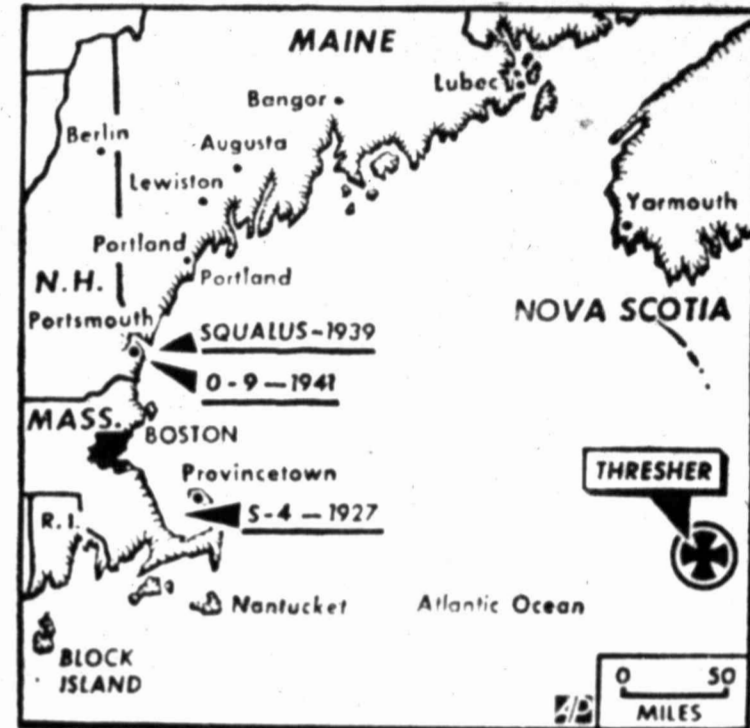

transmission of search units over the horizon, which were transferred by bottom-bounce. In his formal declaration, Korth expressed a fervent hope that the rumors and speculation which have already begun will cease, providing the bereaved families a more stable climate in which to compose themselves and endure their grief.

The Navy, its flags ordered flown at half mast until sunset Monday, went on with the job of trying to learn what happened to the Thresher, which had been the fastest and deepest diving member of its fleet of nuclear submarines.

sure to provoke a cloud of speculation about the moment of disaster. The Navy has had no such experience before. The sinking of the Thresher was the first loss of a nuclear submarine since these ships became part of America's fleet nine years ago.

been complaints about the condition of the Thresher just before it left on its fateful trip. "There was no hint of any concern on the part of the officers crew or civilians about the seaworthiness of this fine ship," he said.

ship," Anderson said, noting that the Thresher had just left the Portsmouth, N.H., naval yards after an overhaul. "To dispel them (the rumors) in my own mind," Anderson said, "I have personally checked with the commanding officer of the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, Rear Adm. Charles J. Palmer, and have been assured by him that the commanding officer of the Thresher, prior to going to sea, was completely satisfied with the ship in all respects."

DISASTER AREA Marked by cross on map

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth acted to still rumors and speculation that any of the 129 may be alive, trapped in the Thresher's hull more than 8,000 feet under the Atlantic. He issued a statement Thursday night after the submarine Seawolf radioed that its sound gear picked up what appeared to be hull noises from a stationary object in the area in which the Thresher was heard from last, at 9:17 a.m. Wednesday.

Other questions ranged over the possibility of foul play. Could Soviet trawlers or submarines have caused the loss of the Thresher? "I certainly rule that out," Anderson said.

Anderson also described sabotage as no more than a remote possibility although "something

Resurrection Changed The Course Of History

EDITOR'S NOTE — Theories to rationalize what happened to Christ between Good Friday and Easter are many. One is that he simply fainted. But the Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Kepler, in this final article of a series on the resurrection's impact for modern times, finds more in the Easter message than do the rationalists. Dr. Kepler's article is taken from his new book, "The Meaning and Mystery of the Resurrection," published by Association Press and copyrighted by the National Board of YMCAs.

By DR. THOMAS S. KEPLER
Emil Brunner recognizes the difficulty one encounters who tries to understand what happened to Jesus at the time of his death and his subsequent resurrection.

"The resurrection is an incomprehensible event, because it represents the inbreak of the eternal world of God into our temporal sphere. Thus it is something which no man can understand or describe, because it is the cancellation of space-time existence."

Such a statement may satisfy the schooled New Testament theologian with his "eye of faith," but others have been more concerned to rationalize the death and the resurrection happenings.

The swoon theory presupposes that Jesus had a suspended animation on the cross, and that after this swoon he was hastened by his friends to a cool cave where he was revived. Such a theory misses the point of the resurrection as an overpowering experience in the lives of Jesus' followers and does not explain what later occurred to Jesus' physical body.

An even more imaginative hypothesis is called the telegram theory, which says that while Jesus was still in the sepulchre he sent spiritual messages or "telegrams" to his disciples, which became their spiritual manifestations of his appearance. Such a theory may give some Christian believers what they feel is the basic spiritual worth of the resurrection, but it still leaves the problem of the empty grave unsolved.

The hallucination theory rationalizes Jesus' resurrection appearances as the result of the tired, excited condition of his friends.

Such a theory might satisfy the conditions of some of the women who were the first visitors to the tomb, but it hardly accounts for Jesus' later appearances to the disciples in Galilee, to the five hundred, to Paul on the Damascus road or to "all the apostles." The oldest hypothesis to explain what happened to Jesus' body is that of the theft theory. The theory holds that Jesus' disciples stole the body and made pretense that Jesus had been resurrected. Such viewpoints fail to explain the continuing power of the resurrection event in the early Church, by which the Christians conquered persecution, martyrdom, ridicule and heresy.

The "history of religions" approach to the death and resurrection of Jesus views these events as similar to the myths from other religions of a dying and rising cult god. It points to the stories as related to Attis, Isis, Adonis and Persephone of the mystery cults which contain the dying and the resurrection of cult deities, and thus considers Christianity as following a similar myth; hence the myth theory concerning the resurrection of Jesus.

Though there may be similarities between facts concerning Jesus' death and resurrection and those of other religions, it still is remembered that Christianity was an historical religion about an historical figure, while Attis, Isis, Adonis and Persephone belong to the realm of mythical figures within the realm of religious mythology.

In recent years, with renewed interest in psychical research, the resurrection of Jesus is viewed by the rationalist as an illustration of spiritual communication between Jesus and those who believed in him. More than half a century ago, F. W. H. Myers delved into this possibility and was led to a belief in direct or telepathic intercommunication between minds or spirits still on earth and spirits departed; and with assertion from knowledge of such psychical data all reasonable men, a century hence, will believe in the Resurrection of Christ."

If spiritual communication is possible between those of us on earth and those who have left this earthly scene, such evidence of communication between Jesus and his followers is not out of the question.

But there is more to be obtained from the "saving event" of Jesus than merely communication with his resurrected self for it is the entire soteriological value derived from Jesus' life, teachings, miracles and death upon which the resurrection puts a seal.

Perhaps the rationalist wishes too easy and too definite an answer to the resurrection event. The resurrection is a numinous experience, lying in the realm of mystery.

The concept of the resurrection lying within the realm of the numinous will of course never satisfy the rationalist. But there are rather hard and terse facts which ought to convince the rationalist of the fact of the resurrection, though its mode must remain a mystery.

Four events within the days following Jesus' resurrection bear evidence to its import: (1) the Christian Church; (2) the New Testament; (3) the setting aside of Sunday as the Christian "sabbath" (4) the Lord's Supper as a sacrament of joy and thanksgiving.

The rationalist must evaluate these four events in the life of the early Christian movement as stemming from the resurrection of Jesus, not as proofs of the mode of Jesus' resurrection, but as evidence of the fact of his resurrection.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ will ever remain a mystery, though at the same time a reality which changed the course of history.

Urges Support For Research, Promotion

LUBBOCK — "No matter how successful we may be in the field of government cotton policy, we still face the gravest kind of problems in building cotton's competitive strength to an adequate level," the president of the National Cotton Council declared Thursday in urging strong support of industry-financed research and promotion.

"This matter of building markets is the primary purpose and function of the National Cotton Council," added Robert R. Coker in an address at a luncheon meeting called by Plains Cotton Growers Association as a Council interest organization.

Ed Lipscomb, Memphis, the Council's director of sales promotion and public relations, then explained the cotton industry's promotional programs in detail, noting that initiation of the recently organized Cotton Producers Institute has virtually doubled total funds available for promoting sales of cotton products.

Coker, a cotton producer from Hartsville, S. C., praised Plains growers for their leadership in building a strong cotton industry.

Pointing out that the plains has the greatest concentration of cotton anywhere in the world, Coker stressed that the area has the biggest stake of any in preserving markets and production opportunities for American cotton. He observed, however, that acreage has been cut to the legal minimum and further cuts will come if the carry-over keeps rising.

The council president said he recognized the need for emergency government action in solving cotton's present problems but emphasized that the long-range hope for competitive strength lies in lower production costs, continued quality improvement for cotton and its products, and aggressive promotion.

Resident's Niece Has Leukemia

Mrs. Johnny E. Jones, Snyder, is in grave condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Fort Worth, where she was taken after being stricken with acute leukemia. She is the former Miss Lynda Bonner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newt Bonner, Snyder.

Mrs. Jones is the niece of Mrs. T. R. Rose and Kenneth Geer, 1226 E. 15th, and L. S. Bonner, 1216 E. 16th, both of Big Spring. She was stricken about a month ago. She and Mr. Jones have an 8-month-old daughter and are expecting a second child this summer. Mrs. Jones was 18 years old last week.

A fund to be known as the "Lynda Jones" fund has been launched in Snyder to help take care of expenses. Firemen in Snyder started the drive with a $200 contribution.

CRUCIFIXION FORETOLD

"... By the knowledge of himself shall my righteous servant justify many; and he shall bear their iniquities. Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; because he poured out his soul unto death, and was numbered with the transgressors; yet he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors" (Isa. 53:11, 12).

He was numbered with the transgressors when He was condemned as a criminal and executed as one. He prayed for the transgressors when he said from the cross, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Psalm 22:16 foretold that they would pierce His hands and feet, which is accurately descriptive of crucifixion. All this was foretold 750 years before it happened. House Passes State Tax Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—The House sent the Senate Thursday a tax bill aimed at meeting 1964-65 spending plans heavily loaded with increases for higher education.

Backers of the $32.9 million proposal snuffed out all 20 attempts to change the bill. It passed 131-12.

The bill provides for: Removal of the sales tax exemption on outer wearing apparel costing less than $10, to bring in $15.4 million.

A 2 per cent tax on motor vehicle sales, instead of the present 1.5 per cent, to bring in $6.4 million.

And, extending the corporate franchise tax for one year, to bring in $11.1 million. The income figures are for a 26-month period.

Opponents tried to take out the sales tax and franchise tax changes.

Another attempted change was to increase the tax on beer from 1 to 2 cents per bottle.

Other attempted changes would exempt the YMCA and the YWCA from the sales tax and add veterinary and livestock medicines and non-prescription drugs to the list of sales tax exemptions.

Backers said the new tax revenue would finance spending plans as outlined in the Senate-passed $3.1 billion appropriations bill.

The House rejected Thursday Senate amendments to the spending bill and asked for a conference committee. The Senate measure proposes $66 million more in spending from the general revenue, including $47 million for higher education.

Both houses adjourned until Tuesday.

Soft Approach May Avert Trouble Over Steel Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's conciliatory plea for restraint in price advances raised hopes today that another government vs. industry battle may be avoided.

No producer pledged its support of the President's plea for restraint. But none rushed to post even the kind of "selective" price increase which Kennedy did not oppose.

In a terse announcement the dominant producer, United States Steel Corp., said it is making "a continuing study of steel price matters" and will have no statement until after Easter.

The President declared his stand Thursday, two days after Wheeling Steel Corp. posted increases on six steel products and thereby raised the threat of a 1963 re-enactment of last year's struggle.

ELEMENT OF WARNING

Kennedy's statement had an element of warning: He will again oppose any "general across-the-board increase." It was also, in effect, an offer of compromise: The government cannot object to "selected price adjustments up or down, as prompted by changes in supply and demand."

Kennedy urged "similar restraint" on the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers. But labor experts say that by agreeing to some price adjustments, he may have eased the way for a wage increase this spring. The union can call for wage talks after April 30.

There was widespread speculation in Congress and among lesser administration officials that Kennedy had taken quiet soundings which satisfied him that the steel managements would not make broad and inflationary price advances—which might in turn provoke high wage demands.

The stock market surged up and several steel issues hit 1963 highs. Analysts said investors apparently either thought Kennedy had given the steelmakers a license to go gunning for price boosts or, more probably, felt he had headed off another struggle with great steel corporations.

KEPT SILENT

The latter kept silent, however, and out in West Virginia the 11th-ranking producer, Wheeling, still sat alone with its $6 a ton average increase on several major products.

Steelmen generally agreed that unless major companies post matching increases within the next week or so, Wheeling would have to rescind its new price schedule.

Kennedy did not indicate in his statement how he felt about Wheeling's price boosts. Neither Wheeling nor the rest of the industry could know how extensive "selected" increases could be before the administration would view them as "general" increases.

Whether for this reason or others—including the urgent question of competitiveness with foreign steel, now making deep inroads in the U.S. market—the steel companies were moving cautiously. Many were closed today, in observance of Good Friday, and like U.S. Steel were unlikely to act until after Easter.

Kennedy's statement was handed out to a throng of waiting reporters just before he took off for Palm Beach, Fla. It said the administration is "watching closely the possibilities of an across-the-board increase."

Judge Refuses Change Of Venue For Curry Case

EASTLAND, Tex. (AP)—A change of venue for the murder trial of Nathan Curry, 17, was refused Thursday by Judge Turner Collier.

Curry is charged in the beating and stabbing death about two years ago of Mrs. Florence Hussey, a church secretary and a divorcee whose body was found in her home near Curry's Cisco residence.

Defense lawyer John Watts of Odessa used 71 witnesses to testify the youth could not get a fair trial here.

The state sent 60 witnesses. Collier, refusing the change of venue, said he knew the Curry family and would like to be relieved of the responsibility of the trial. But, he added, evidence produced in the hearing gave him no recourse but to refuse the venue change.

Watts, after the hearing, said, "This is a cinch for a reversible error. If the boy is convicted, I will appeal and use the reversible error in my appeal."

X15 Tried Out As Mapping Plane

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Technicians are scanning photos taken by the X15 in the rocket ship's first high altitude fringe-of-space flight as an aerial mapping plane.

Air Force Maj. Robert Rushworth piloted the craft to an estimated 73,000 feet Thursday. The X15 streaked across the desert at 2,795 miles per hour with a camera sunk in its underside.

Purpose of the test was to measure distortion caused by supersonic shock waves and the friction-heated air flowing past the fuselage.

The Air Force said temperatures on the fuselage climbed to 800 degrees Fahrenheit during the flight.

SIC SOUTHWESTERN INVESTMENT COMPANY

Speaking of Eye Care and Eyewear... What Do You Expect in Professional Service and Cost?

These days, with the cost of everything still on the rise, you would like to find ways of reducing money output without loss of quality in the products and services you require. Especially, most people are aware of the high cost of necessary professional health services, such as eye care and eyewear. Most everyone would like the opportunity of having competent eye examinations and, when required, eyewear of excellent quality, without excessive cost.

If you are such a person, and have not yet given TSO the opportunity of serving you, now is the time to think about what TSO provides. It's also time to think about how it compares from a quality and cost standpoint with what you are now receiving.

When a TSO Doctor of Optometry examines your eyes, first a case history of your eyes and vision is recorded. Next, your eyes are examined internally for any evidence of disease or defect, such as glaucoma or cataract. Then, for visual abnormalities, such as near or farsightedness, astigmatism or muscle imbalance. If the need is indicated, glasses or—if preferred—contact lenses are prescribed and expertly fitted for the clearest, most comfortable vision possible. TSO's well-known standard of quality in eyewear is your best assurance of this.

TSO provides these outstanding services at most reasonable cost. Finest quality single vision glasses, including professional eye examination, lenses and frame are as low as $14.85. Bifocals, as low as $17.85. Single vision Micro-Sight contact lenses are $65, complete with professional eye examination and fitting. Bifocal contact lenses are also available at a reasonable cost. Convenient credit terms are available if desired. Guard against eye disease and poor vision with an annual, professional eye examination at TSO.

Narcotics Is Theme At Forum

Capt. Walter Eubanks and Patrolman Sam Fuller were guests of the Junior Woman's Forum Thursday in the Hospitality Room of Texas Electric Service Co.

The officers presented a display of drug samples and showed slides pertaining to narcotics. A question and answer period followed their talks.

Mrs. B. R. Newton presided during the business session. She announced that the forum had won first place with its press book at the Western District convention in Monahan. The book will now compete on a state level. Also first place was won by its public affairs report.

PARTY REPORT

Mrs. E. C. Smith reported that $25 of the proceeds from the benefit card party held recently would be donated to the March of Dimes. An end-of-school party was planned for children at the Westside Recreation Center.

A joint installation ceremony will be held May 16 in the home of Mrs. J. R. Redden for new forum officers and those of the new club sponsored by the group.

Cohostesses, Mrs. Ernest Welch and Mrs. Horace Rankin, served refreshments to 13 including two new members, Mrs. Don Robbins and Mrs. Earl Zetsche. Guests were Mrs. Harold Ross from Fort Worth, and Mrs. Donald Lovelady.

On April 25 the group will meet in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Building.

MRS. ROBERT MACUM PHELAN

Miss Salyer Bride Of Robert Macum Phelan

The marriage of Miss Enyd Frances Salyer of Forsan and Robert Macum Phelan was solemnized at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at St. Mary's Episcopal Church The Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector, officiated in the double ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Salyer of Forsan. Phelan is the son of Mrs. Charles M. Phelan, 1404 11th Place, and the late Mr. Phelan.

White chrysanthemums and stock were altar arrangements forming a background for the nuptial scene. Traditional music was provided by Miss Elsie Willis, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white cotton satin brocade sheath with matching jacket. A pearl tiara secured her veil of illusion. She wore the engagement ring which was matched by the wedding ring, the set being that worn by the bridegroom's great-grandmother. Her pearl necklace was her grandmother's. She carried a white Bible with a bouquet of gardenias and feathered carnations.

Miss Rachael Phelan, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. Her dress was of blue and yellow embroidered cotton, and she carried a nosegay of yellow gladiolus.

George G. White served as best man. Ushers were Gary L. Walker, John R. Schwarzenbach and Don W. Edwards of Slaton.

RECEPTION

A reception was held afterward in the Blue Room of the Cosden Country Club where guests were registered by Mrs. G. L. Dykes, sister of the bride.

The refreshment table, appointed with silver, was spread with a white Chinese cloth of filet lace and embroidered linen squares. White flowers filled the silver epergne centering the table.

Mrs. Doug Davis and Mrs. Vernon Byrd were members of the house party.

Out of town guests attending were Mrs. Clyde P. Rice of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Dykes, Big Lake; Mrs. Enyd Duncan of Borger and Mrs. Vernon Byrd of Iraan, Texas.

WEDDING TRIP

Following the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For travel, the bride chose a green sheath and white accessories. She wore the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

A graduate of Iraan High School and Howard County Junior College, the bride is now attending North Texas State University. She is a member of the Association of Childhood Education and the Canterbury Association of the Episcopal Church.

The bridegroom, after graduating from Big Spring High School, attended HJC and North Texas State. He is now stationed with the U.S. Army Security Agency at Fort Devens, Mass.

The bridegroom, after graduating from Big Spring High School, attended HJC and North Texas State. He is now stationed with the U.S. Army Security Agency at Fort Devens, Mass.

REHEARSAL DINNER

The rehearsal dinner Wednesday evening was given by the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hanson in the Blue Room of the Cosden Club.

Members of both families, the wedding party and several close friends were those who attended. The couple presented gifts to those serving as attendants.

The Message We Preach

What is the message of the church? Almost all will admit that the message of the church of the twentieth century must be the same as the message of the church of the first century.

As the New Testament unfolds the pulpit of the early church, what is revealed as to the theme of its sermons?

(1) Not politics. While the New Testament taught Christian responsibility to the governments, yet never do we read that its pulpits were dedicated to political reform. The message of the church today should not be political in its essence.

(2) Not Social Gospel. While the Bible taught that Christians should be concerned about the poor and destitute, yet this was not the basic message of the early church. The "Social Gospel" was an extreme attitude toward the mission of Christ. His work of healing and social improvement was secondary, not primary. In His mission, the church today is not basically bound to alleviate all the poverty and ignorance of the world.

What then was the message of the first church of Christ? Paul states that he preached "Jesus Christ and Him crucified." I Cor. 2:2. The message of the early church was the message of Christ, the Great Redeemer. His love for man; His value of the soul; His plan of salvation and the fulfillment of His promises. The gospel emphasis is state of the soul, not the body; the spiritual life, not the physical existence. This is the message we preach!

The Northside church of Christ (601 N. Runnels) welcomes you!

Anniversary Observed By Altrusa Members

Altrusans were reminded of the organization's 46th birthday Thursday at noon when their regular luncheon was held at Coker's Restaurant. The president, Mrs. H. D. Cowden, gave a brief account of the club's founding in 1917 at Nashville, Tenn. She pointed out that when this year's president takes office in July, she will serve as the fourth Texan in the office of international president. A cake, in keeping with the observance, served as a centerpiece. Mrs. Modesta Simpson was introduced as a guest, after which Mrs. Cowden extended the Abilene Altrusans' invitation to attend an anniversary tea to be held April 21. Mrs. Loyd Wooten will attend as a representative of the Big Spring unit.

Robertsons Visiting In South Bend

COAHOMA (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Robertson and their sons, Leslie and Kevin, left Thursday afternoon for South Bend where they will visit with his brother and family the Jack Robertsons. They will visit over the Easter holidays with her parents, the J. H. McCannies, in Longview.

Mrs. Chester Kiser, Mrs. Ross Roberts of Sand Springs and Mrs. Don Allen, Coahoma, were in Lubbock Wednesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Anderson. The Andersons are former Coahoma residents and are parents of a second child, a girl, born April 10, weighing 7 pounds and 10 ounces. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Anderson (Coahoma), and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kiser of Sand Springs.

Mrs. W. A. Wilson was in Merkel this week to visit her daughter and family, the Johnny Zitterkoffs. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, of Midland visited this week in the E. A. Richters' home.

Knott Schools Are Dismissed

KNOTT (SC)—The local school dismissed Thursday for the Easter holidays, will resume work on Tuesday, April 16.

College students coming home for the holidays will be Judy Roman from H-SU in Abilene and Neva Jackson from Texas Tech in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Nichols Jr. and children of Elbow were recent guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Harrell.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John McGreggor were Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Owens of Brady.

Mrs. L. O. Shorter is a patient in Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital and will undergo surgery.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem. The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a soft power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It feels like nothing on but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" is the peak achievement of the design-geniuses, Olga... Be "Suddenly Slim" today in either girdle or panty version. Featured at—

U.S. Senate Holds First Secret Session In 20 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has authorized the purchase of $15-billion worth of military hardware after clearing the galleries of visitors and holding its first secret session in 20 years. Guards stood at the doors of the Senate for four hours and 19 minutes Thursday and newsmen waited in the corridors as, within, senators debated the merits of tacking on $196 million to speed the Nike-Zeus antimissile system. The verdict was no, by a lopsided 58-16 vote. Then the doors were thrown open and by voice vote the Senate authorized the expenditure of $14,951,491,000 beginning July on missiles, aircraft, Navy ships and research and development for them.

The figure approved by the Senate is $904.9 million below the House's procurement authorization and $407.2 million below the administration's request. Included in the Senate bill is $363.7 million to begin building two more huge jet RS70 reconnaissance strike aircraft, sought by the Air Force—funds the administration did not request and has indicated it would not spend.

The differences between the Senate and House must be compromised, probably by a conference committee, before the authorization can go to the President.

Actual funds must be provided later in a separate appropriations bill.

The secret session—first since 1943 when a group of senators reported on a tour of World War II fronts—was forced by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C. He wanted to use secret military data to argue that failure to start production on Nike Zeus parts might pave the way for a Soviet sputnik-like surprise.

Thurmond's effort on behalf of the antimissile was turned back after the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Sen. Richard

B. Russell, D-Ga., supported Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's view the production should be delayed until an improved weapon, Nike X, is tested. Russell also helped defeat on a 48-22 roll call vote a last-ditch effort by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, to add $134 million for two nuclear attack submarines similar to the lost Thresher.

Russell told his colleagues Thursday night that the 1943 closed meeting "failed of its purpose." And Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., sharply criticized the ancient Senate closed-door rule.

Very little was discussed behind closed doors which could not have been discussed publicly, Morse said.

The military procurement authorization passed, the Senate recessed until Monday. It will transact no business then nor at another session Thursday, taking what amounts to an Easter holiday.

Baptist Temple Slates Revival

Baptist Temple has fixed the dates of its spring revival for April 28-May 5. Freddie Gage, Houston, will be the evangelist. He is said to be especially effective with young people, his own experience of conversion having been dramatic and leading to the ministry. Times of services will be announced later, said Rev. James Puckett, pastor.

Heat Victims

MONTERREY, Mex. (AP)—The death toll in a heat wave climbed to 12 with the deaths of 6 more children Thursday.

Easter Season Looking Good For The Retailers

NEW YORK (AP)—Easter looks as if it is going to be one of the most colorful for fashion paraders and the most prosperous ever for merchants.

Women's dresses, coats and hats are as gaily hued as Easter eggs. And the men are going in for livelier plumage, too.

The National Retail Merchants Association says it expects retailers to ring up a 3 per cent gain in sales over last year, which was a record-breaker.

Warmer weather in most sections of the country sparked a sales increase as the shopping season reached its climax.

There were soft spots scattered around the country. In some areas cold weather lingered and discouraged buying. In some cities, where integration is a burning issue, merchants were apprehensive about boycotts by Negroes. The possibility of a steel strike was believed to have held back buying in some industrial cities.

Capt. Irvin J. Smith was recently assigned to the operations section of the 331 FIS at Webb AFB from 319 FIS, Bunker Hill AFB, Ind. Capt. Smith was a flight commander in the 319th, which flew the supersonic F-106 "Delta Dart."

Capt. Smith is from Weaverville, Calif. and his Air Force career spans 18 years, as an enlisted man and an officer. He has served with the Tactical Air Command, Air Rescue Service, Air Training Command. Before his assignment to the 319 FIS, he was in exchange duty with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Capt. Smith lives temporarily at 1408 Johnson, with his wife, Jeanne, and two of three sons, Dennis and Thomas. His oldest son, Terry, is attending the University of California at Berkeley, completing his freshman year.

Auto Industry Labor Peace Seen

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP)—It's a good bet that the automotive industry and the United Auto Workers union will set up joint committees this year to explore problems they'll be called upon to settle at the bargaining table in mid-1964.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, proposed it. Chairman Henry Ford II of Ford Motor Co. likes the idea. American Motors Corp., only member of the industry with a profit-sharing contract, welcomed the suggestion.

General Motors Corp. will sit down with the UAW Monday to talk about starting talks early. Ford will do the same Tuesday, and Chrysler Corp. on April 25. Current three-year contracts were signed in 1961. Those with the big three run to Sept. 1, 1964.

that with AMC to the following Oct. 16.

In proposing joint management-union study committees last month, Reuther said: "We believe the time has come when management and labor... can no longer afford to defer consideration of the many complex problems that confront them until actual bargaining begins."

Ford told a reporter this week the joint committees "could accomplish much good."

Edward L. Cushman, American Motors vice president, said: "It was indeed in this very spirit that we proposed in 1961 what is now the American Motors-UAW Conference as a continuing mechanism for increased communications and understanding."

General Motors and Chrysler have limited their comment to agreeing to discuss setting up pre-negotiation study groups.

Under Reuther's proposal, the committees would be confined "to assembling relevant data and to exploring and studying objectively and in good faith the problems that we will face when bargaining begins." Their discussions would be off-the-record and they would have no power to bind either party.

Reuther said that labor and management "must share a mutual concern for the preservation of free collective bargaining" and added that breakdowns "have led to considerable public irritation and growing demands for government intervention."

The union isn't slated to firm up its 1964 contract demands until it meets in special convention here next April. But Reuther has given every indication that No. 1 likely will be profit-sharing with the big three—GM, Ford and Chrysler—who have fought him down on this in the past.

In its first year at American Motors, the UAW's profit-sharing contract rolled up $9.7 million, with $6.5 million going for improved fringe benefits and $3.2 million being divided among 23,000 production workers in company stock.

Murray Links Slant Probe With Fuss Over Own Case

AUSTIN (AP)—William J. Murray Jr., railroad commissioner until two days ago, indicated Thursday night the East Texas slant hole investigations may be linked with recent publicity on his holdings in an oil deal.

Asked by a local television interviewer why he thought his part in a 1958-60 West Texas oil deal was brought out during the past week, he replied:

"I don't know. Presumably it comes out of the East Texas affair. I don't question that those who brought pressure on me during the East Texas investigation would seek any methods to discredit me."

As commission chairman last year, Murray was in the forefront of the state's investigation of the slant-well oil scandal. Published reports at that time quoted Murray as saying that a private investigator had been hired to "dig up dirt" on him and others to thwart the East Texas investigation.

Murray resigned Wednesday, effective immediately, after an investigation by Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr into Murray's earnings from an oil lease in Throckmorton County three years ago while a commission member.

Murray said he sold out at a "nice profit" but gave no figure. Carr said Thursday he was turning the case over to Travis County Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell since "further investigation will concern possible violation of penal statutes, and these matters come within the jurisdiction of local law enforcement officers and prosecutors."

Blackwell said he would present the case to the Travis County Grand Jury.

Murray, who appeared on KTBC-TV Thursday night with his wife, said he welcomes a grand jury investigation of his actions while a commissioner.

"Here's an opportunity for a grand jury to find if there is anything to indicate an improper action. Bribery statutes apply to everyone."

"I welcome an investigation of the grand jury if they will make one," he said.

He said he will stand by his decision to resign.

"I think that it is in the best interest of the commission and the industry which I love," he said.

Gov. John Connally, who accepted Murray's resignation, has said he wants to study closely the job of replacing Murray before appointing someone to fill the post. Murray began a six-year term in January.

Already seeking the appointment is C. W. Brown, McCamey, an independent oil operator and active campaign worker for Connally.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1	3	Double	Pass
4	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

West's opening lead in today's hand apparently deprived declarer of access to the dummy's assets. His isolation was not long lived, however, for he presently devised a method for securing the help of the opposition.

South opened the bidding with one heart, and West used his favorable vulnerability status as protective cover for a pre-emptive jump overall of three clubs. North, holding eleven high card points, felt constrained to take some action and, lacking a fit with partner, he chose to double.

Altho South held four clubs, he feared that, with his highly distributional holding, the profit to him on defense might not prove to be adequate. He therefore jumped directly to game in hearts which was doubled by East.

West opened the king of clubs and East ruffed away the dummy's ace. A small diamond was returned and South was in. He cashed the ace of hearts on which West discarded a diamond. Declarer found himself confronted with the loss of yet another heart trick and apparently three clubs as well for, with the ace of clubs gone, there was no way to reach the North hand to obtain discards.

The only immediate consolation for South was the realization that, when East got in with the king of hearts, he would be unable to put his partner in to cash his good clubs. But, if East could not make a play for West, perhaps he could be induced to lend some assistance to the declarer.

South cashed his top diamonds and then played the queen of hearts. East won the trick with the king and then exited with the eight of hearts. This round of trumps was taken and now the declarer deliberately threw East back in again by leading the deuce of hearts. Whether the latter shifted to a diamond or a spade, South would be in the dummy to dispose of his losing clubs on North's high cards.

Vatican, Reds In New Spirit

By GERALD MILLER
An AP News Analysis

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Communist camp, where anti-religion is a basic belief, has given a rousing welcome to Pope John XXIII's encyclical "Pacem in Terris" (Peace on Earth).

Without waiting for word from Moscow, the major Communist parties of Western Europe greeted the Pope's call for peace and disarmament.

The encyclical and the reaction are symptomatic of the new spirit developing between communism and Roman Catholicism.

It has become increasingly clear in the past six months that the Vatican is attempting an entirely new approach to communism, displaying a willingness to talk with Communist governments on non-theological issues.

The Soviet world likewise has shown a desire for a new and less hostile approach to the church.

Without mentioning communism by name, Pope John's encyclical said that under certain conditions Catholics could work with persons who reject Catholic doctrine. The Pope said that political movements change with time even though the basic philosophies remain the same.

Commenting on the encyclical, the French party organ L'Humanite voiced "immense satisfaction."

The Italian party organ L'Unita talked of "a spirit of negotiation."

None mentioned the encyclical's reaffirmation of the church's bedrock opposition to Communist philosophy and methods.

Though Pope John opened the door to practical cooperation in the effort to achieve world peace, he kept it tightly closed against Communist dictatorship.

In contrast to the scorn which Josef Stalin displayed toward the papacy, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has spoken well of Pope John in public at intervals since 1961.

Concrete evidence of the change in relations between the Vatican and the Kremlin came six months ago when two Soviet Orthodox churchmen came to the Vatican Ecumenical Council as observers. It was the first formal contact between the churches since the 11th century.

The Soviets made another overture to the Vatican in February by releasing Archbishop Jose Slipyi, primate of the Ukrainians, after 18 months in Siberia.

Last month the Pope received Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexi Adzhubei, and his wife in private audience. It was the first papal audience ever given to a top Communist.

Khrushchev at the same time sent congratulations to the Pope on the award to him of the Balzan Peace Prize. The premier warmly praised the Roman Catholic ruler as a man of peace.

Speculation grew that Khrushchev and the Pope might meet if plans for the premier to visit Italy materialize.

Town To Close Its Speed Trap

FORT WORTH (AP)—The new City Council of Watauga has moved to end "speed trap financing" of the small Fort Worth suburb.

Mayor pro-tem V. V. Siedman said Thursday traffic fines once reached $2,800 in a single month and the speed trap argument has been "a right smart bone of contention" for two years.

The council voted 4 to 2 last night to:

Temporarily suspend its corporation charter.

Hire a city manager at $1 a month.

Sell a 1963 police car bought last month but not yet delivered.

Order Police Chief Jess Alspaugh to stop using his personal car for patrol work. The car is unmarked but carries red lights and a radio, which Alspaugh was directed to turn in.

Dissenters were two holdover councilmen, Dale Judge and Bill Marshall.

Watauga is on busy U.S. 377.

Estes Cotton Decision Is Due

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—The State Agricultural and Conservation Service says a decision on the Billie Sol Estes cotton allotment case will be announced April 18 at Odessa.

The farmers committee will disclose the decision to lawyers for the government and the American Grain Co.

The committee recently heard evidence in Fort Stockton. Lawyers for American Grain, which bought the Estes assets, contended his allotment deals were made in good faith.

"And let us all to meditation." Shakespeare

DAILY GUIDE—There is a strong accent today on Mercury and Neptune, a combination much in keeping with the Christian significance of today. Spiritual values and the expression of beauty, sacrifice, and unselfishness are emphasized. The negative side is one of rumor, false expression, and vague confusion. One must be wise to know one from the other.

This is not a good day for business ventures. Be wary of what you write and say, and of believing others. Solitude and quiet will be more fruitful than restless seeking to satisfy sensations.

The weekend brings a feeling of gradually working out of the "winter of our discontent." Things are on the more forward and the pace will be even more rapid in the coming weeks. Tomorrow can bring some disappointing news, and transportation can be delayed. Allow more time to do what you have planned. Sunday can be of mixed enjoyment because there is a strong accent of conflict, especially concerning groups of people. Keep plans simple.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, ARIES! While recent events may have upset your plans these days of difficulties with loved ones or friends, or special groups, will soon be over. In the next few weeks try to solve these problems and be ready for some quick changes in either your work or health in June. Avoid allowing these changes to cause nervous reaction. Personal alliances can be a little difficult in August. Handle finances with care in October. You are starting this month a favorable year, because Jupiter will be making his once-in-twelve-years transit of your sign. This is the time to collect for past efforts, and can be most satisfying socially, financially, and romantically.

Senators Split On Youth Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas senators split Wednesday on the 50-34 roll call vote by which the Senate passed the youth employment bill. Ralph Yarborough, Democrat, voted for the bill. Sen. John Tower, Republican, voted against it.

Texas congressmen voted 15-8 for the House bill to make $40 million available for an accelerated public works program. The measure passed, 229-194.

A Devotional For The Day

Jesus, knowing that all was now finished, said (to fulfill the scripture), "I thirst." (John 19:28. RSV.)
PRAYER: Dear Lord, Thou didst suffer unspeakable agonies of body and spirit while bearing our sins on the cross. How can we show our love and gratitude to Thee, Lover of souls? Take our lives as sacrifices and make them pleasing in Thy sight. Help us to bring others into Thy kingdom to share Thine eternal salvation. In Thy name we pray. Amen.

(From The "Upper Room")

For Convenience, But Be Careful

Street traffic signs are being changed this week as a new thoroughfare plan of moving traffic rapidly from one part of the city to another is inaugurated. For most of us, it means more alertness behind the wheel as we travel familiar paths about our daily duties.

The new plan may require alterations in familiar traffic patterns and all of us should watch all corners for new signs. Any morning, a new stop sign may pop up where we whizzed by the day before.

The benefits of a thoroughfare plan outnumber any temporary inconveniences, but it takes the full cooperation of motorists to realize them. The plan is in the experimental stage and some changes may be reversed after a trial period.

If your motoring takes you on or across Eleventh Place, Fifteenth, Main, Sixth, Douglas, Lancaster or several others, you will begin noticing changes from today on. There will be more traffic controls in some cases, less in others.

At the same time, street construction in some parts of city requires extra careful driving. Machinery may inadvertently dart into the street, pavement is lacking in some areas, and ditches have been dug near the shoulders of the streets in others.

These are the marks of progress and sometimes become irritating when we are in a hurry. At worst, they are only temporary and at best, most of us can adjust our driving routes around them.

With construction problems in some areas and new traffic plans in others, careful driving is the only answer to avoiding tragic and expensive automobile accidents. To solve that problem, it takes all of us working together.

Other Side Of The Coin

Due to its attendant publicity, it is often summed up that our younger residents are in trouble more often than not, and that they spend their spare time "twisting" and visiting the local drive-in places. While this may be true for some, it is certainly not true for all or even most.

A good example of this is the awards program held for members of local Scout troops Wednesday evening. Aside from the personal honor won by various boys, the program points out that many youngsters are working toward worthwhile objectives in our community, both for themselves and others.

The Scouting program here touches 1,400 boys and a large number of our families. We often think of Scouting as a program of outdoors and play, but it carries an underlying goal of character building, strength of faith, and citizenship training. In addition, it often brings father and son closer together in activities of mutual interest, binding a family relationship that sometimes is lost in our modern world.

Longtime Scouters often point to significant events of their lives which they attribute to training received in this program. Most often, adult leaders in Scouting are men who are returning to the program some of the benefits they reaped as youngsters, themselves.

Scouting is one important aspect of our community life, whether we are directly involved or not. And it reminds us that many of our youngsters are coming along toward roles of leadership and responsibility in the community in this and several other fine programs for our boys and girls.

Marquis Childs Organized Action Against Liberals

WASHINGTON—The Senate class of '58 facing the test of '64 is already on the march to try to prevent the likely swing away from what was for the Democrats the high water mark of five years ago.

Most of the class are liberals who in their respective states face an attempt by highly organized reaction to cut them down. Wyoming offers a fascinating laboratory of the technique being used against at least a half-dozen '58ers.

WITH A POPULATION of less than 350,000 Wyoming has two senators as provided for every state under the Constitution, including New York and California each with more than 17,000,000 people. Sen. Gale McGee, up for re-election next year, has explained to his fellow '58ers how right-wing money from outside Wyoming has been concentrated in the state to try to knock off a liberal senator.

The John Birch Society has gained more or less open control over the Wyoming legislature. As a result, the legislature has adopted all of the resolutions and constitutional amendments being pressed by rightist organizations. The American Farm Bureau Federation in the state aided and abetted this effort.

John Birchers went into action. The familiar tactic of the midnight telephone call repeated at intervals of 15 minutes was used, as McGee explained to colleagues likely to face a similar situation. He has never openly been called a Communist, since he would welcome a chance to bring suit for slander or libel. But the innuendo is widely spread.

AS HE HAS FOUGHT back McGee has drawn fire from the Republicans. They accuse him of using the smear technique in linking the GOP with John Birchism. There is other evidence that, as the extremists fight not only the Supreme Court and the federal income tax but the fluoridation of water and even mental health clinics (an attempt at literal brainwashing), a reaction has set in. After the right-to-work amendment was adopted by the legislature 102 Republicans went to the courthouse in Cheyenne to change their registration.

THIS SAME reaction to the fanatical right has been observed elsewhere. Reports from the national stamping tour of the Reverend Hargis and Gen. Edwin M. Walker say that the crowds have been out-sized and for the most part they seem to be made up of previous converts to right-wing orthodoxy.

Yet in states such as Wyoming, South Dakota, Montana, Utah and Minnesota, where liberal '58ers are up, organization money can possibly turn the tide. Last year a conservative Republican, Millard Simpson, defeated the incumbent Democrat, John J. Hickey, serving two years of an unexpired term. In 1960 the total vote for President in Wyoming was 139,000. Richard Nixon carried the state by a majority about 14 per cent over the Kennedy vote.

FOR MANY YEARS Wyoming was represented in the Senate by the late Joseph C. O'Mahoney. He has become a widely recognized authority on the economy and the relationship of monopoly to economic growth and control.

Billy Graham

Although I joined the church more than three years ago there isn't much difference in my life. Please tell me what is wrong?

There could be several reasons. When you joined the church, did you become a Christian through faith in Jesus Christ? Joining of the Church is an act of association with others who are Christians, it is a fellowship of believers, of people who believe in Christ as Savior and make Him the Lord of life.

For that reason it is essential that you recognize Christ as the Son of God and your Savior from sin. But Christian experience begins here, not stops.

The Bible says: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold all things are become new."

When Christ comes and lives in your heart, your desires, hopes, pleasures should center in Him. He should be first in everything. This does not mean that we will not be tempted for as long as we live in our present bodies we will be subjected to temptations.

But it does mean that we now have Christ to help us when temptations come and He will give the strength to overcome and show the way to escape. It is possible that you have noticed no difference in your life because you have neglected daily prayer and Bible study. No one can grow without food to eat, water to drink and air to breathe. No Christian can grow spiritually without daily prayer to God and study of His Word. Try this after you have surrendered your heart to Christ and I promise you there will be a great difference in your life.

James Marlow Days Of Unfinished Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—These are the days of unfinished business when everything is moving but nothing has arrived and when what sounds like a bang could end in a moan.

Arabs are getting together, NATO is looking up, Laos is looking down, Viet Nam seems uncertain, there's a pause in Korea, Communists are upstaging one another, Congress is floundering, and no one knows where prices are going.

Laos is on the edge of civil war. The two-year-old military junta in Korea, under American pressure, has agreed to let the people vote for a civilian government but it's by no means certain that in the end they will.

Israel, Egypt test-fired two rockets. Saudi Arabia and Jordan, both anti-Nasser in the past, don't know what to expect next. Neither does Israel. For that matter, neither does Egypt. Syria and Iraq don't know, either.

PRESIDENT Kennedy, who reported a refugee invasion of Cuba two years ago, has backed so far away from a repetition of it that he forbids refugees in Florida to make hit-run raids on Fidel Castro's island from American shores.

Even Castro in a television

What Others Say

IN VIET NAM the war against Communist guerrillas has slowed down, American and Vietnamese officers say, because President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime fears American support for its declining.

The American position up to now has been that Diem is the only anti-Communist leader strong enough to hold the nation together. But Dictator Diem has been strongly criticized in this country which gave him $2 billion in aid.

The 15 Atlantic allies in NATO are going to set up a common nuclear force. But the details are missing. Working them out will take some doing. Wrangles look sure. Less sure is that the whole thing will mean much.

At least it got the Russians mad but that's not much news since they're pretty mad most of the time about something, including the Red Chinese, who were their partners.

During a weathered week, when the only thing millions of Americans could do to pass the time was to watch TV, they were cruelly informed by the industry that TV shows will be longer, though not necessarily better, next year.

There will be few half-hour shows left other than comedies and thrillers. Hour-long shows will be commonplace and two-hour shows no novelty. ABC will produce a 90-minute cop and robbers series. Dr. Ben Casey is asking for 90 minutes to complete his hospital rounds next season, but the network is doubtful that Americans can stand it without heavy sedation.

Some years back, when television was just beginning to boom, alarmists predicted that we would soon be a nation of non-reading, flabby and goggle-eyed idiots, undone by the 24-inch screen. The networks, it appears, certainly plan to do their bit toward this end.

To Your Good Health Former Mental Patient Needs Friendly Help

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I was recently furloughed on a year's trial after four months of treatment in a mental hospital.

I am only 19 and not ready to be shut off from the fun in life. However, the young friends I know would say I am, after being in "that place."

Older people seem to be more understanding, but I don't want to associate only with them. I wish my friends could see for themselves what a wonderful place these hospitals are, and what a great job the psychiatrists are doing. No one is immune to mental or emotional illness.

How can I make my young friends realize that I am no longer sick? I haven't yet been asked to a movie or a bowling match by any of them, and I am getting a little depressed again.

If you print this letter some of my friends may see it and realize.

—CAST ASIDE

Well, son, things may not be as gloomy as you think.

First, I agree that it would be fine if everybody knew more about mental hospitals and mental health. But it takes time to learn — it takes time. And it's true that nobody is immune to mental or emotional illness.

The important thing, though, is that in these days a great deal more is known about treatment, and recovery is much more rapid.

However, what about you, and your problem? You say nobody has asked you to go to the movies or to go bowling. But have you asked any of them? Try inviting some friends to your home first.

In fairness, remember that your friends, knowing only that you have been in the hospital, have no idea how much (or how little) you have changed. They don't know what to think. Perhaps they OUGHT to realize that, aside from an interval of illness, you are the same as before and are interested in the same things. But they don't.

Invite one of your friends to go to the movies, or to go bowling because you want to get back in practice. It's a two-way street, this business of friendship.

It won't take long for the word to get around that you're the same young fellow you used to be. And by doing this, you'll be making it easier for somebody else who experiences what you have experienced.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any danger in using plastic containers for vegetables, soups and stews? With some, there seems to be a peculiar taste.—M.F.N.

Colleagues who study exactly such matters as these give me a flat "no." There is no danger.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of this helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — The Teen-age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Passing Knowledge

The planarian is a fascinating beast. Ordinarily, one would hardly give a second thought to a fresh water flatworm, but the creature made the news recently in a way to make Pavlov turn pale. (Pavlov was the father of the conditioned response, otherwise known as brain-washing.)

SEEMS SOME AMERICAN scientists put some planarians into experimental situations and got results which threatened the whole structure of psychological theory.

Flatworms, for all their lack of brains, were able to learn to a certain, severely limited degree. Turned loose in a plastic tunnel system, they had dual choices of entering a lighted or a darkened tunnel—with water only in the lighted tunnel.

THE EXPERIMENTERS were amazed that planarians could learn even so much as to distinguish light from darkness, much less connect that difference with the presence or absence of water. Yet, the worms turned.

So, the scientists decided to poke around a bit. One of their brainstorms resulted in some excess and overly educated worms being chopped up into little bits and fed to their fellow planarians.

LATER, THE CANNIBALISTIC worms proved shockingly adept in the maze, even though they were new to the experiments and had never before been exposed to learning of any kind. Control experiments established that new planarians fed on chopped-up brothers who had had no training were just as difficult in the maze as any other type.

Obviously, this was a case of knowledge being passed on through the gastrointestinal tract. It could not have been more electrifying had the planarians recited Relativity in Latin.

ALL SORTS OF THOUGHTS are opened up by this discovery. Maybe human cannibals had something after all, in believing they could gain courage by eating a slain enemy's heart, or wisdom by eating his brain. Maybe people could will their best traits to their beneficiaries, thus allowing the human race to build up its finer points by a sort of distillation. Maybe stock raisers could mix regular feed with powdered champion steaks and eventually produce the world's best steaks. Maybe—

BUT, NO. It was not to be. A rather literal minded experimenter put the damper on his fellows with a new discovery. Seems planarians have mobile cells, sort of like our white corpuscles, that move independently through the planarians' bodies including the gut, and find one worm about as cozy as another. They are not digested when eaten, merely joining the other corpuscles that are already there. The corpuscles act not only as digesters and scavengers, it was learned, they also help make up part of the poor planarian's rather scattered brain.

They took their knowledge with them.

Inez Robb Just A Sociable Call

The decision of the Soviet Union to accept the United States' proposal for a direct telephone line between the White House and the Kremlin could open up a profitable new era of communication between the two nations.

The necessity for such a "hot line" in this nervous nuclear age became evident to the Chief Executive and his advisers during the Cuban crisis. Either the party line in the Kremlin was always busy or someone had left the receiver off the hook.

NOW THAT THE decision has been made that the executives shall have a direct line, it is of utmost importance that neither man be forced to dial 11 to 15 digits before he reaches the party of the second part. Otherwise, the missiles will be off the pad and the ball game will be over before the two can say "Hello. Don't do it!"

It is easy to imagine the President, all alone by THE telephone, flipping through the newspapers that he reads more and more and enjoys less and less. Without warning the phone bell shrills to life. Simultaneously the Chief Executive grabs it like a teenager trying to beat his sibling to the draw, and stretches his other hand toward the "alert" button.

"HELLO, HELLO!" he barks. "Whatever it is, don't do it! Let's see if we can't settle this by negotiation. There never was a good war or a bad peace." A great man said that, Benjamin Franklin, a founding father. And, remember, anything you can do we can do better, nuclearwise.

"Hello," says the voice from the Kremlin. "Don't be so jumpy. So what's new? I'm only calling sociable. My Nina has gone off to a meeting of the Kremlin Culture and Recreation Club. Cell 10. This is a big place. The magazines are all old. A man can feel lonely. We got a saying, too. 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' So I'm calling friendly."

"WELL-L-L-L, glad to hear from you!" says the White House. "I can appreciate your problem. Jackie is out tonight, too, meeting with the American Arts and Marts Society. This is a big place, too, and they've found another room to do Millard Fillmore. I think. Anyway, it's a difficult period."

"I read in papers you got new dacha," says Moscow. "It's good a man should get away from his troubles to the country. Only, why you choose rattlesnakes for weekends? Maybe they make Congress look good by Monday, eh? That's Russian joke!"

"THAT'S NO JOKE," says Washington. For the next five minutes, the two men discuss the weather. It's lousy in both capitals. Then Moscow says:

"Mr. President at your last press conference, some hoodlum reporter says I got troubles and asks what you think. And you said you supposed I have my good months and my bad months, like everyone else. Now—"

The White House breaks in:

"NOW, NOW, Mr. Premier, you know how those things happen. We have a proverb in this country. 'You have to take the bitter with the better.' You surely understand, with your son-in-law a newspaper man and a news manager in his own right. You have to give the boys something to print. I didn't intend to hurt your feelings."

"It isn't that, Mr. President," says the Kremlin. "What I want to know is how did you know? That's what I want you should answer me. How did you know? I read you got a news leak in the Pentagon. Maybe I got a leak in the Kremlin. Better we should trade information. I'm always the last to know. It's a situation shouldn't happen to Stalin."

THE WHITE HOUSE replies: "We have a proverb in this country. 'It's always darkest before the dawn.' So cheer up. Now, this conversation is running into money. I have to think of the taxpayer. Is there anything I can do for you?"

"That's why I called," answers the Kremlin confidentially. "I ask, you got room in United States for one more refugee? Maybe Nina can come, too."

David Lawrence GOP Interest In Goldwater

WASHINGTON — There's something rather sensational going on today in national politics—a ground swell for a presidential candidate 16 months before the nominating convention.

This has happened at various times in past history as other aspirants—who had attracted headline attention and built up a substantial number of votes in the months before the convention—were swept aside by a widespread sentiment that emerged from the grass roots in favor of a "dark horse" candidate.

SENATOR BARRY GOLDWATER of Arizona has been mentioned intermittently during the last two years as a possible Republican nominee for 1964, but until recently his name was never taken seriously by disinterested observers—nor by some of the veteran politicians. Something has developed, however, in political discussions across the country during the last six months which indicates clearly that Barry Goldwater will enter the next convention with the support of what might be called the backbone of the Republican party's strength in the nation. He is going to be as important in the next convention as Wendell Wilkie was in 1940, but for different reasons.

THIS WRITER was among the first to mention Wilkie as a possible candidate at least a year before the convention, but the New York business executive wasn't regarded then as even a potential candidate. It was taken for granted that a businessman could not be nominated. Yet, just about 90 days before the balloting for a nominee was at hand, the regular organization Republicans began to take him seriously. He had not made any big speech-making campaign. He had not gone into any primaries. It was simply a case of an "image" being presented to the Republicans that seemed to fit the situation at the time.

SENATOR GOLDWATER says tactfully that he hasn't made up his mind to make an organized effort to win the nomination. He is right to avoid giving the impression of a self-seeking politician. In the meantime, he talks frankly, bluntly and unequivocally. If the Republican delegates like what he says, he knows they will consider him. If his views do not fit the current problems, they will disregard him.

Mr. Goldwater has said enough already, however, to win sizable support among the rank-and-file and the leaders of his party in the West and in many parts of the East. The South is for him because he has put the "civil rights" issues in perspective and yet has maintained a position that is in line with the Republican record in Congress. He might really break the attachment of the "solid South" to the Democratic party today and also win over many Northern Democrats who have a realistic understanding of the issue involved in the "civil rights" debate.

WHAT HAS lately aroused, on the other hand, a noticeable enthusiasm for Senator Goldwater throughout the country is his forthright comments on the Cuban problem. He has managed to sense correctly the true state of public opinion—the mood of the average voter. His criticisms of the administration's hesitancy and wavering policies, which he describes as timid, have won considerable applause.

But it isn't any one issue that makes a candidate seem a plausible choice. It is, first of all, the impression he conveys of fundamental honesty and common-sense judgment. Next in importance is his penetrating analysis of all the basic issues. In the case of Mr. Goldwater, there is a feeling that he has the courage of his convictions and understands the Republican party's attitude toward "New Dealism," "New Frontiersm" and those administration policies which harass businessmen and impair their confidence in economic progress—something necessary for industry to have if the economy is to expand and jobs are to be created to relieve unemployment.

MR. GOLDWATER'S growing strength means that the major factions in the Republican party will have to undergo an "agonizing reappraisal" of just how strongly they are ready to support the fundamental principles of the party today and how articulate and effective a versatile and forthright man like Barry Goldwater could be.

Christ Is Risen

THE EVENTS WHICH OCCURRED BETWEEN THE DEATH OF JESUS AND HIS FIRST APPEARANCE ON EASTER SUNDAY

Scripture—Mark 15:42—16:8.

By N. SPEER JONES

THIS YEAR, as we turn once again to the Easter story, we will discuss some of its technical aspects, including the location of Christ's tomb.

Mark reminds us that Christ was crucified on the day before the Jewish Sabbath, or on the day of Preparation. This term means that on that day all the cooking for the Sabbath had to be done. The Sabbath began at sunset on Friday and extended through Saturday.

After Christ died, Joseph of Arimathea asked Pilate for His body. Pilate could not quite believe that Christ was dead already, and asked the centurion for his report, for—horrible to relate—death by crucifixion often took as long as four days. Joseph was in a hurry to get the body as soon as possible, for when sunset came, all work—including the activity of burying Christ—would have to be suspended until after the Sabbath.

Further, the turbulence of Jerusalem in the years after the crucifixion, including its siege and capture 40 years later, would not be conducive to the preservation of the memory of the place, especially since the Christians there retired to Pella before the siege and it is not certain whether any of the disciples returned afterwards.

It was the emperor Constantine who made the first concerted effort to rediscover the tomb. Newly converted to Christianity, between 325 and 336 A.D. he had Bishop Macarius look for the site and constructed the Church of the Holy Sepulchre over the supposed spot. To do so, he had to tear down a temple to Venus erected there by Hadrian about 135 A.D. About 280 feet east of this Macarius discovered three crosses, one of which supposedly had the power of healing the sick. Over this spot, Constantine

GOLDEN TEXT

"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! By His great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."—1 Peter 1:3.

It was Joseph's own tomb that he put Christ in. In those days, tombs were often cut out of the natural rock in the manner that Joseph's was, leaving an opening perhaps two feet wide by four feet high. This opening was usually sealed with a rock set in a trough at the base, removable with the effort of several men, so that other bodies could be buried there later (there was often room for 10 or so).

For years, the location of this tomb, as well as the location of Golgotha, the place of crucifixion, has been argued by scholars. The chief difficulty in establishing this is that apparently the followers of Christ quite rightly turned their attention, after the Resurrection, away from the tomb and toward the continuing living presence of the Lord, and the work that was to be done.

There is nothing in the writings of the first three centuries that indicates that the tomb erected an even greater church, a polygonal building with a domed roof. Both of these original churches can be seen in an ancient mosaic in Rome.

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre over the supposed site of the tomb, has disappeared by the 8th century. The Church of the Holy Sepulchre was severely damaged, but was reconstructed after the capture of the city in the Crusades, and remains on the site today.

There is no real evidence to prove that the Church of the Holy Sepulchre stands over the actual tomb, but of the other suggested sites, no other has more claim to be the true one. We know that the sites of both crucifixion and entombment must have been outside the city walls, for the dead were always buried outside the city. But the site of the wall of that part of the city at that time has never been determined; we know only that the later wall there was not begun until 41 A.D.

PIONEERS IN RELIGION
Rev. and Mrs. Walter Kornelsen, African missionaries

Missionaries Tell Of Africa

The story of the spread of religion in Africa was told recently at the Assembly of God Church here by the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Kornelsen, who spent nine years in the field.

Rev. Kornelsen used colored movies and slides in presenting his program Sunday evening.

Rev. Kornelsen began his service in West Africa by serving a three-year term in Liberia as an airplane pilot and special mechanic. On his second term there he was transferred to Nigeria, one of the most advanced mission fields of the Assemblies of God. The Kornelsens have had a part in the opening of 139 churches during the past nine years.

Nationals in Africa have been converted and trained to pastor churches. The revival begun in the eastern regions of Nigeria has spread into villages where no missionary had ever gone previously.

Revival Set At Forsan

A spring revival will begin Sunday, at the Forsan Baptist Church, and will continue through April 21. The Rev. Kenneth Andross, pastor of Westside Baptist Church, Big Spring, will be the visiting evangelist. The Rev. Billy Rudd, associated pastor of East Fourth Baptist Church, Big Spring, will be visiting song leader.

Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. during the week, with prayer groups and the booster band meeting at 7 p.m.

"Much work and prayer have been put forth by many members, with the hope that our church will experience a genuine revival," the Rev. Carl Lee, pastor, said.

Dr. Jimmy Allen Subs For Rev. Polk

In the absence of Rev. Robert F. Polk, who is on a preaching mission in Japan, Dr. Jimmy Allen will be guest speaker at the First Baptist Church for the next two Sundays.

Dr. Allen is director of the Christian Life Commission of Baptist General Convention of Texas. He is a graduate of Howard Payne College and earned the Doctor of Theology degree in Social Ethics from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. The two most recent pastors he has held, before going to the directorship of the commission, were First Baptist Church, Wills Point, and Cockrell Hill Baptist Church, Dallas. He has written many articles that have appeared in his denomination's publications and is recognized as an outstanding leader in the field of Christian Sociology.

"LENT"

I do not mean to write without fitness, propriety and decorum in saying this, but truth sometimes bluntly and plainly spoken can often help: we are often moved as a herd of cattle, in drives, not knowing from whence we came nor whither bound. Today is an example as people by large numbers profess to observe Lent, the forty-day period of fasting immediately preceding Easter. Lent is derived from Anglo-Saxon "Lencten" meaning spring; originally it lasted forty hours. I want to pause in writing to say that if you KNOW the Bible and respect its authority this all seems rather strange as indeed it is; why the number forty connected with this Lent or spring observance? It is reasoned that Christ lay in the tomb for forty days; and that also since He fasted forty days that IT WOULD JUST BE A GOOD IDEA to have such an observance!

Such is the hollowness of the doctrines and commandments of men. Let us reason a bit, that which proves too much proves nothing; Jesus preached a sermon on a mount, should we through the centuries crystallize this into a religious observance, into a tradition which, like all traditions do, tend to make void the actual commands of God? Good Friday and Ash Wednesday are similarly without any warrant whatsoever from the Word of God.

Jesus rode a donkey, shall this become an annual tradition as the palms have? My point is one of seeking to set before us all that we must DO what and ONLY WHAT the Bible commands and that we have no right, nor privilege to establish traditions from something Jesus did, "If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God,"—1 Peter 4:11.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Ever hear of the first batter in an inning being walked intentionally by the pitcher?

That's what happened in the Odessa Permian-Big Spring game here the other day, and the strategy backfired on coach Carl Cook of Permian, who ordered that Jeff Brown of the Steers be passed to first.

Brown, who had hit a mighty home run his previous trip to the plate and who has already set an all-time record for round-trippers hit by a Big Spring High School player, went on to score the winning run, with the help of a sacrifice and an error.

Big Spring athletic teams have been getting some rough receptions around the conference, for some reason so quite clear.

It appears the Steers are going to have to prove themselves all over again in all sports—with "hard-nosed", no-nonsense play.

Joey Giambria, who lost that nationally televised fight to Joe Denucci in Boston last Saturday night, is the same fellow who visited here several times a couple of years ago—seeking ring action.

Giambria has beaten world middleweight champion Dick Tiger on two occasions but that was before Tiger lifted Gene Fullmer's crown.

Golf continues to hold a wide lead in the sale of sporting goods equipment, according to a recent statement by the Athletic Goods Manufacturers' Association.

Last year, golf equipment, with total sales of $99,474,644, represented nearly three times the sales of its closest competitor—baseball.

In 1961, about five million golf balls were sold.

H. Boyce Hale of Big Spring, who will serve as ASA District 7 (softball) commissioner, has hopes of organizing an umpires' association for the sport.

He says it's a lot harder to find and hire a competent base umpire than it is a plate architect. He says very few base officials know the positions to reach on crucial plays.

District 7, incidentally, embraces Mitchell, Scurry, Borden, Dawson, Martin and Glasscock Counties, as well as Howard.

He is one of three district commissioners named by the ASA people for this area. The San Angelo district has H. M. Chastain as its czar while George (Scotty) Auld will serve as commissioner of the Midland district.

State commissioner of the organization is W. W. Kethan.

Wilt (The Still) Chamberlain, the basketball bean-stalk, weighed 300 pounds last September—shortly before starting play with the San Francisco Warriors in the NBA.

He likes to carry 240 pounds but more than likely will weigh around 260 during basketball season.

James Dixon, the former Odessa golf pro, is now pro of a course being built at Marfa. His son, Jerry Dixon, who has also turned pro, will assist him.

W. W. Kethan, state commissioner of the organization, is a former professional basketball player who played for the Los Angeles Lakers and the San Francisco Warriors.

New Strike Zone Is Boost To Cheney

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Tom Cheney, a poor man's Sandy Koufax, may have been handed the key to the strikeout storehouse when the strike zone was enlarged.

The fireballing right-hander in his first start allowed only one hit—an infield single—and struck out 10 while Don Leppert provided support with three consecutive homers in Washington's 8-0 victory over Boston Thursday night.

Cheney could be the American League's answer to Dodger Koufax now that the strike zone has a few extra inches.

"Tom's fast ball rises," says Manager Mickey Vernon, "and he'll be getting a lot of strikes this season that previously just missed the strike zone."

Cheney, 28, 7-9 last year with 147 strikeouts in 173 innings, overpowered the Red Sox, allowing only two base runners. Ed Bressoud beat out the only hit to deep short in the fourth inning and Bob Tillman drew a walk in the sixth.

It was a pitcher's day all around. Don Mossi tossed a two-hitter as Detroit whipped Cleveland 6-1. Milt Pappas allowed only five hits in Baltimore's 4-1 triumph over the New York Yankees and Hoyt Wilhelm protected the Chicago White Sox' 3-1 decision over the Los Angeles Angels with four innings of shutout relief.

Leppert, the Senators' catcher homered against starter and loser Ike Delock in the fourth inning, hit a three-run shot in the sixth and finished with a bases empty blast in the eighth.

Bressoud's hit was a wicked shot to left that shortstop Ed Brinkman just managed to reach Brinkman fired in the direction of first base but had no chance to get Bressoud on the clean hit.

Mossi had a perfect game for 6 1-3 innings before Indians' rookie Tony Martinez bounced a single off the glove of Dick McAuliffe. The left-hander lost his shutout in the ninth on an error, Gene Green's pinch single and a force out. The Tigers put it out of reach early, tagging Dick Donovan for four singles in the first inning, including run-scoring hits by Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash.

The lone Yankee run against Pappas came on Mickey Mantle's fourth inning homer that tied the score 1-1. But John (Boog) Powell outdid Mantle in the power department, snapping the tie in the fifth inning with a two-run homer off loser Whitey Ford before hitting a solo shot in the seventh inning that wrapped up the scoring.

Wilhelm, 39, was touched for only two hits after coming on for winner Joel Horlen when the Angels put the first two men on in the sixth. Wilhelm retired the side without damage. Floyd Robinson homered for the White Sox in the fourth, then walked and eventually scored the deciding run in a two-run sixth on a force out. The loser was Bo Belinsky.

Score To Stay In Baseball

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP)—Hilly Score's retirement from baseball lasted just four days.

The hard-luck left-hander will continue in the game, he said Thursday night, under assurances from the Chicago White Sox that he'll be recalled to the major leagues if he does well in the minors.

Ed Short, the White Sox general manager, called me several times urging me to reconsider, Score said at the home of his mother here in confirming Al Lopez' announcement in Los Angeles that he would report as scheduled to Indianapolis of the International League.

"Many friends of mine made the same plea. When he assured me that if I do well at Indianapolis the White Sox will recall me, I decided to go back. I didn't want to quit."

Score, 29, had announced his retirement Sunday night after the White Sox had optioned him for the second straight year to Indianapolis.

Score, six years ago one of the top left-handers in baseball, has been struggling to stay in the majors since he was seriously injured by a line drive off the bat of Yankee infielder Gil McDougald in 1957.

Last year he was 10-7 with Indianapolis and Lopez and the White Sox gave him another spring training trial. But although he allowed only eight hits in 13 1-3 innings in exhibition games, he walked 17 batters and Lopez decided he needed regular work in the minors to regain his control.

Score said he would report to the Indianapolis club in time for the team's opener at home next Tuesday.

Giants Lose Alou Due To Injury

HOUSTON (AP)—The San Francisco Giants bought a pitcher and lost an outfielder Thursday.

Left-handed reliever Jim Constable, a Giant back in 1958, was purchased from Milwaukee, and Matty Alou was sent to San Francisco after his right knee collapsed under him for the second time this year.

Alou was running in the outfield prior to the Giants' 7-1 victory over Houston when the knee gave way, just as it did a month ago during an exhibition game.

Dr. Floyd Jurgensen, an orthopedic surgeon, was to examine the knee today in San Francisco to see if an operation may be necessary.

Constable, 29, was acquired for about $25,000 and will join the Giants Saturday in Chicago. He was 16-4 at Toronto of the International League in 1962.

Rebels Defeated By Permian, 10-3

MIDLAND — Odessa Permian trounced Midland Lee, 10-3, in a District 2-AAAA baseball game, dropping Lee out of a tie for first place.

Lee now has a 4-2 conference record while the win was Permian's second in a row, after four straight defeats.

Pat Brown hurled for the Panthers, yielding but six hits. He also hit a home run and a double to power home six runs.

Gary Player Leads First Round Play In Greensboro

By KEN ALYTA GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A first round Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament lead of one stroke on a five-under-par 66 is not to be sneezed at.

But Gary Player, the little battler from South Africa, can't help it.

He's sneezing and sniffing his way around the Sedgfield Country Club course battling a severe hay fever attack, his first in seven months, while fending off the challenge of a field of 150 rivals.

Gary made it with the help of three pills and five handkerchiefs in Thursday's first round of the 72-hole, $35,000 affair.

His 32-34 round of five birdies and 13 par put him a stroke ahead of Lionel Hebert, the former PGA champion who has been showing signs of snapping a year-long slump.

"My chipping was fantastic," Player noted. "I missed three greens, but chipped in from 35 feet for a birdie two on the third hole from a difficult position above the hole and almost holed two other chips on holes where I made my pars."

With Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus not here, Player is carrying the banner of the "big three" alone.

He has his work cut out for him. In all, 26 men broke par and 13

Dambrosky Leads Wolves To Win

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Larry Dambrosky held the Sweetwater Mustangs to two hits, as the Colorado City Wolves won their first 3-AAA game, 4-1.

The Wolves conference record is 1-2.

Denzil Pendergrass and Bill McGuire had two hits apiece to pace the Wolf hitting.

Danny Lewis started for the Mustangs and was relieved in the second by Benny Pace.

Charlie Houston completed the Wolf battery, while Steve Fargay was the catcher for both Mustang hurlers.

Brown Is Named Olympic Trainer

COMMERCE — Delmer Brown, trainer and track coach at East Texas State, has been named a trainer for the 1964 United States Olympic team by the U. S. Olympic committee.

The Olympic games will be held in Tokyo, Japan, Oct. 10-22, 1964.

Coach Brown will be one of six trainers with the team, but the others have not yet been announced. Three other trainers from Texas have been named to previous Olympic teams: Frank Medina of Texas University, Eddie Hajecki of Rice and Elmer Brown of Texas Christian University twin brother of Delmer.

Coach Brown is a registered physical therapist and a charter member of the National Training Association. He has been track coach and trainer at ET since 1954 except for three years at Texas Tech in a similar capacity.

Before that he was trainer at Baylor University for seven years, a trainer for the Pittsburgh Pirates and a high school coach at Breckenridge, Port Arthur and Goose Creek.

He held school records in all running events from the 100 through the 440 and in the broad jump while an undergraduate at North Texas State. He ran in a medley relay team that set a world record in 1938. His 220 record of 20.7 seconds in the Lone Star Conference stood from 1937 until broken by R. L. Lasater, freshman sprinter for the Lions, last spring. He was named to the All-American track team in both 1937 and 1938.

Shaus Predicts Win For Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Fred Shaus says his Los Angeles Lakers can and will beat the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association's championship series starting Sunday afternoon in Boston.

The Lakers swept by the St. Louis Hawks Thursday night 115-100 to win Western Division final playoff 4-3. Los Angeles out-rebounded the Hawks 67-39 and out-scored them in every period.

Fifth Time Was A Charm

Gregory Peck, who went to the post four times as an Academy Award nominee and failed to win, pats the golden Oscar statuette he won on his fifth nomination. He was named best actor of the year for his work in "To Kill a Mockingbird." At left is Mrs. Peck as they attended a celebration party following the awards ceremony in Santa Monica, Calif.

Clean Up Week Participation Encouraged By Marcum, Fox

Civic pride shows up in the appearance a city presents tourists, visitors, prospective business and persons who are contemplating making their residence there, according to Dr. Carl Marcum, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

With this in mind, he joined other local leaders in urging local participation in Clean Up Week. He urged each citizen of Big Spring to do his part in the effort to give the city a pleasing appearance.

"We want new business and new industry. Runtown entrances to the city, shacks which clutter yards and vacant lots grown up in weeds and collecting trash are not good," he pointed out.

"Improving the community's appearance is an aid to economic growth. Tourists are more likely to stop, visitors may want to return and settle down in the city, and an attractive city rates high with industrial prospects," he added.

A clean city is also a healthier community than one cluttered with debris. Fox, supervisor of the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit, said urging participation in the campaign.

Uncovered garbage and trash cans provide food for rats and flies, Fox said. Also, they are unsightly when their contents are strewn over the area because a dog has overturned the can in a search for food.

The lids alone are sometimes difficult to acquire, but several stores in Big Spring are stocking them, especially now as a part of their work in the current clean up effort, Fox said.

Perhaps the greatest hazard, however, is presented by lumber and debris which is stacked with no planning. It presents a fire hazard, ruins the lumber and makes an excellent, protected breeding ground for rats and mice.

Stagnant pools or ponds and swampy areas should be drained to hold down the mosquito infestation. This includes eliminating such articles as cans, old tires or other items which can catch rain and provide the mosquito a breeding ground.

"Mosquitoes can multiply in a hurry," Fox said. "If we get rid of the rain we need, there will be plenty of places for them to breed and we will have enough mosquitoes without making it easy for them."

Even though Fix Up, Paint Up, Clean Up Week is almost at a close now is a good time to get started on a project even if it will extend beyond the weekend. Improvement in a city's looks is a continuous job, both stressed.

DEAR ABBY

But It Does Look Funny

DEAR ABBY: I am a young 34 widow, attractive and well-built. I live alone with my two small children. I am dating but not engaged to a widower ten years older than I. He comes to my house many mornings for coffee before work. Then he runs in for lunch quite often. He frequently hunts after work until dark, so on those nights he stays in about 10 and stays until midnight.

On the weekends we take trips (we take my children) and in order not to have to stay all night we leave here about 3:30 in the morning and get back about 2:00 a.m. We are responsible people and are not doing anything wrong, so why can't my nosy neighbors keep their big mouths shut? Why do they always think the worst?

INNOCENT

DEAR INNOCENT: When a man is seen entering and leaving your home at all hours of the night and morning, you can't blame the neighbors for thinking the worst. However, if you have nothing to be ashamed of and no reason to explain—don't.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please help me to find a young man who is in the Army? It is absolutely necessary that I locate him as soon as possible. All I know about him is his name, the branch of the service he is in and what he looks like. If there is any charge, I'll be glad to pay for it. Thank you.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Write to: The Adjutant General Department of the Army Washington, D.C. —and good luck. If he is still in the service they will find him. No charge.

DEAR ABBY: You were so right to advise that plumber's wife to go with her husband when he gets those "emergency" calls from lonesome widows at night. My husband used to answer those calls until I got wise. A cagy widow with leaky pipes almost washed the foundation out from under my marriage.

PLUMBER'S WIFE

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARK: Do not assume that your enemy's enemy is your friend.
