Campos Escapes Life Sentence--With Death

By SAM BLACKBURN
The second time worked for Pablo Campos.
The elusive Latin-American, who had such a bitter aversion to being jailed, will not have to go to the state penitentiary for life. He is dead.

Campos hanged himself in his Howard County jail cell Sunday—his second attempt to kill himself succeeding March 24, the slender Campos slashed his right forearm with a razor blade and was found in a pool of blood in another cell just a few yards from where his lifeless body was discovered at noon yesterday.

FLED
On that occasion, he was taken to Cowper Clinic - Hospital for emergency treatment. Placed in a hospital room, Campos fled into the night and was not apprehended until Wednesday of last week. He was returned to the county jail here Friday.

Sunday morning, he was alone in a cell, a short distance removed from his fellow prisoners. Frank Glasscock, jailer, talked with Campos at 10 a.m.

"He discussed his plans to plead guilty," said Glasscock. "He wanted to know if I would contact Gil Jones and arrange for a talk."
A short time before Campos slashed his arm with the razor March 24 he had an almost identical conversation with Deputy Sonny Buzby, who was acting jailer. He wanted to plead guilty, he told the deputy, to the charge of being an habitual burglar. Half an hour later he was on his way to the hospital.

ABOUT 11 A.M.
"I saw Campos again around 11 a.m.," said Glasscock. "Then I went downstairs to help Buzby, who was alone on duty in the sheriff's office. We were in the office when Robert Hill, jail trustee called on the phone."

Buzby said Hill excitedly reported "that Mexican man done cut his throat." Glasscock raced up stairs. Buzby called Sheriff Miller Harris and an ambulance.

Glasscock said Campos was dangling from the makeshift rope which he had quietly plaited from strips of ducking torn from the underside of his cell mattress.

"He had been working on the rope for some time," said Harris. "Most of the ducking on the mattress bottom had been torn out. We had seen to it he had no razor blades or any material of any kind which he could use to take his own life."

Glasscock said the man gasped two or three times after the jailer entered the cell.

NO SIGNS
"We cut him down but there were no further signs of life,"

DISHONOR HAS A HIGH PRICE

Pablo Campos, who hanged himself Sunday, must have regarded a prison term as a major dishonor. Tattooed across his right forearm in black letters was the phrase: "Death before dishonor."
The young Latin-American was facing what seemed certain conviction as an habitual burglar and a life term in the state penitentiary. Perhaps to his way of thinking, death was to be preferred to this "dishonor."

he said. Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace, was called and ruled death due to hanging. The body was removed to the Nalley-Pickie Funeral Home.

Harris called police at San Antonio and asked that relatives of Campos there be notified.

Campos was born in San Antonio Jan. 16, 1933. His home, technically, was still there although he spent a lot of time in Howard County.

He had a long record as a burglar including three convictions which would make him eligible for conviction as an habitual criminal. Such conviction would mean life imprisonment.

Campos had been a fugitive from justice three times in recent history. The first time, freed on bond for burglary, he jumped bail and was sought for two years before being arrested. Returned here, he was released on a new bond and when his case was called for trial a few days later, he was again missing. His bondsmen located him in San Antonio, brought him back to Big Spring and asked to be relieved of responsibility.

JAILED
He was placed in jail and was being held at the time he made his abortive first suicide try. He escaped, the same night, from his hospital room.

Last week, he was picked up by San Antonio officers in a narcotics raid and Howard County officials were notified. Harris went to Bexar County and brought him back.

Campos' body was taken to San Antonio Sunday night. Rodriguez Funeral Home in that city will be in charge of funeral arrangements.

Boll Weevil May Be Facing Armageddon

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are encouraging signs that science may soon have the boll weevil on the run.

If this proves true, it'll be great news to cotton farmers of the country, particularly those in the South and Southeast where the boll weevil exacts a heavy cotton toll.

Agriculture Department experts figure that the boll weevil causes cotton losses of about $350 million each year in addition to $100 million spent annually by cotton farmers in an effort to control the insect pest.

Other experts figure that if the boll weevil could be eradicated or controlled the cost of producing cotton in the South and Southeast could be reduced by as much as five cents a pound.

BIG SUBSIDY
The importance of such a reduction in production costs can be seen in light of the fact that there now is a government subsidy of 8½ cents a pound on cotton exported into world markets—a subsidy which makes higher priced U.S. cotton competitive on the world market.

Much of the research work centers at the boll weevil research laboratory at Mississippi State College.

Testifying recently before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee Byron T. Shaw, administrator for the Agriculture Department's Research Service, requested some of the significant discoveries that might lead to eradication of the boll weevil.

One technique holding promise involves sterilization of the male insect. Shaw said field tests conducted in Plaquemines Parish, La., were successful and showed the plan feasible.

INFERTILE EGGS
In this test, male boll weevils which had been chemically sterilized in the laboratory were released in the field. Female boll weevils that mated with the sterile males laid eggs which did not hatch, thus resulting in self-destruction of the insect population.

Shaw also said that the Mississippi laboratory has isolated a substance in the cotton plants appealing to the boll weevil. So powerful is this stimulant he said that a weevil will eat green beans or cork stoppers treated with the substance.

Scientists are now attempting to produce the substance synthetically with the idea that the weevil might be encouraged to lay eggs on something besides the cotton square so that the hatched larvae would starve to death.

At the Louisiana Agricultural Experiment Station, New Orleans, Shaw said scientists have succeeded in finding a new chemical to eradicate the boll weevil from a small isolated test plot.

RUG SQUASHER
Another possible approach considered by the scientists is a machine which picks up the weevil infested cotton squares or flower buds which fall from the plants. It then beats the squares and the young weevils to a pulp. This, of course, materially reduces the number of weevils which would survive and continue the attack on cotton the following year.

Although one or more of these methods might hold the answer to ultimate control or eradication of the boll weevil, the scientists are cautious in predicting that success is just around the corner.

There are, they say, many laboratory and field problems yet to be solved.

Prisoners Flown Back To The U. S.

21 Americans Freed By Castro

THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING—TRA-LA Are pleasing to this New Haven, Conn., hound

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Twenty-one Americans released from Cuban prisons by Prime Minister Fidel Castro were flown back today to the United States.

At first glance, the men appeared in good condition as they climbed out of a Red Cross plane that delivered them to Homestead Air Force Base south of here.

James B. Donovan, New York attorney, returned with the prisoners, completing what he said would be his last mercy mission to the Communist island.

Richard Allen Pecoraro, 30, of Staten Island, N.Y., was taken from the plane the minute it landed and was rushed by ambulance to a hospital.

BABY FOOD
The plane on which the Americans arrived had flown to Havana earlier today, carrying 11,500 pounds of baby food—part of the $3 million in foods and medicines that Donovan traded Castro for the 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners.

Among relatives waiting at the Homestead base was Austin F. Young, of Palm Beach, Fla. His son, Austin Jr., a former U.S. Army colonel, entered the Isle of Pines prison in December 1959, after being convicted of attempts to form an anti-Castro army in the hills of Pinar del Rio Province.

Young made one trip to Havana but failed in an effort to see his son. The prisoner's mother remained in Palm Beach, suffering from an illness complicated by worry over her son.

Most of the Americans were sentenced on charges of counter-revolutionary activity. Seventeen of them are known to have been held in a special compound on the Isle of Pines.

GOODS DELIVERED
The Red Cross announced that with the cargo delivered in today's flight and by the freighter American Surveyor now unloading in the Havana harbor, $38 million in goods will have been delivered to Castro.

Donovan said 1,000 Cuban refugees will leave Cuba on the American Surveyor.

Donovan called release of the Americans "an act of clemency on the part of the Cuban government" and indicated this may be his last mercy mission to Castro's island.

"It does not involve any further pledges of drugs, medicines or baby food to the Cuban people," Donovan said.

Donovan flew to Havana Saturday aboard a DC6 airliner chartered by the American Red Cross.

The plane carried 15,400 pounds of ransom food and drugs promised Castro when he released the 1,113 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners last December.

IN TELEGRAM
Donovan announced Cuba's agreement to release the Americans in a telegram to a breakfast of the New York City police department's Holy Name Society. He had been scheduled to speak at the breakfast.

Donovan said that in addition to the American prisoners and the 1,000 refugees being brought to Florida this week, other releases may follow.

"The Cuban government is reviewing the cases of political prisoners and I have submitted petitions on behalf of many," he said.

"Persons having information why clemency should be exercised in behalf of a particular prisoner should forward such information directly to the minister of the interior in Havana for review."

Medicare, Voting On Legislature List

AUSTIN (AP)—Medical care payments to the aged and voter registration headed the list of major issues before Texas lawmakers today.

Close behind was committee consideration of spending and taxing bills, two of the biggest items of the legislative session.

The Senate debated but took no action last week on Sen. W. T. Moore's proposed constitutional amendment to let the legislature make direct payments to needy persons 65 and older under the federal Kerr-Mills Act.

Moore tried to kill his proposal and lost by a 22-8 vote after the Senate voted an amendment to require federal standards in enabling legislation setting up a care plan.

He said the amendment would let several groups, including optometrists, receive payment for treatment not eligible under his original version.

The House postponed until today consideration of a bill to set up a permanent voter registration system.

This measure similar to one rejected by the Senate, would require a person to vote at least once every four years to retain permanent registration.

Bakers of an annual registration system indicated in advance they would try to substitute a Senate-passed bill for the House measure.

The Senate bill would require a voter to register each year and pay a 25-cent fee. Opponents have dubbed this a "two-bit poll tax."

Proponents of annual registration have contended their system would head off widespread election frauds. Backers of the permanent system say their plan will encourage maximum voter participation.

A registration bill, if passed, would become law only if a proposed constitutional amendment eliminating the poll tax as a requirement for voting gets legislative and voter approval.

This afternoon the Senate State Affairs Committee scheduled a hearing on a House-passed $32.9 million tax bill.

It would take away exemptions allowed on outer clothing costing less than $10. This provision would raise $15.4 million in a 26-month period beginning July 1.

The other two provisions of the revenue measure would raise from 15 to 2 per cent taxes on automobiles, a $6.4 million item, and extend the corporate franchise tax for one year to April 1, 1965, raising another $11.1 million was sent to each senator's office before this bill was debated," Hardeman said.

2. There was a Harris County delegation including Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe, which appeared at a Senate committee hearing to seek corrections in the bill.

There was not one single witness from Harris County at the Senate committee hearing," the senator said.

3. The most dangerous new feature of the bill is the one requiring that a person arrested and taken before a magistrate and that if this is not done, evidence obtained from him cannot be used.

"This has been the law for years," Hardeman said, "at least since 1879."

Hardeman Criticizes News Stories On Bill's Passage

AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo criticized today some published stories concerning passage of a bill to recodify the code of criminal procedures.

"The Senate is being subjected to undue criticism," he said, "and this body's integrity is at stake."

He said in a special Senate speech that published stories "have absolutely mistaken what happened in this Senate."

Examples of what he called errors in stories about passage of the measure through the Senate included statements that

1. There was no copy before the senators when they voted on the bill. "The bill was mimeographed and at least one copy was sent to each senator's office before this bill was debated," Hardeman said.

2. There was a Harris County delegation including Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe, which appeared at a Senate committee hearing to seek corrections in the bill.

There was not one single witness from Harris County at the Senate committee hearing," the senator said.

3. The most dangerous new feature of the bill is the one requiring that a person arrested and taken before a magistrate and that if this is not done, evidence obtained from him cannot be used.

TRUTH IS BEST WEAPON, AMERICANS BELIEVE

U. S. Battles Communist Propaganda

EDITOR'S NOTE: A vital weapon in the Communist arsenal is the propaganda battery. How it is fired and how the West tries to match it is examined in the following article.

By STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—From Radio Hanoi in English: "U.S. imperialists. Noxious chemicals." From Radio Moscow in Tokinese: "Executions." From Radio Havana in Spanish: "Bacteriological warfare. Merchants of blood and death."

These charges and words of abuse are Communist cannon in the cold war.

They belong to an arsenal that includes millions of books, thousands of feet of film, magazines in 20 languages, traveling clowns and Armenian folk dancers.

All are used in the relentless, massive psychological warfare devised and executed by the Communist world.

LESS MASSIVE
This warfare is matched, although some say in a less massive and relentless way, by the United States and its allies.

Some Americans believe the Communists in their psychological warfare, have an unfair advantage, that the Reds lie in their teeth and some of the unsophisticated people of the world gobble up the lies.

If this belief were complete fact, battling Communist propaganda would be a simple matter. The United States and its allies would broadcast the truth. Truth eventually would catch up with utter falsehood. No one ever would believe the Communists again. But battling Communist propaganda is not a simple matter.

"Fabrications are part of Communist propaganda," says Orem Stephens, director of research and analysis for the U.S. Information Agency. "But the propaganda doesn't hinge on them. In general, Communist propaganda is based on the truth or some part of it."

NEGROES IN U.S.
As an example, Stephens cites the Communist propaganda campaign about the attempts of Negroes to register as voters in Greenwood, Miss.

The Communists do not have to fabricate always. They simply find articles written by Americans critical of the situation, Stephens says, and then quote the articles on Radio Moscow.

The current furor over weed-killers in South Viet Nam also illustrates the complexity of battling Communist propaganda.

For weeks, Communist North Viet Nam has accused the United States of using noxious chemicals to destroy vegetation, cattle, and—according to one broadcast—even people in South Viet Nam.

Moscow, Peking and Havana have picked up this propaganda line.

The United States and South Viet Nam have countered by explaining that planes are spraying jungle areas with weed-killing chemicals to destroy leaves and prevent Viet Cong guerrillas from hiding under the jungle brush.

PEASANT'S EYE-VIEW
The Communist propaganda line may exaggerate the situation, and Radio Havana certainly distorts it by crying "bacteriological warfare," but many peasants in Viet Nam may have difficulty in seeing any difference between what the Communists call noxious chemicals and what the Americans call weed-killers.

Although USIA stresses that the mass of Communist propaganda uses truth, other specialists believe that the small amount of fabrication must not be ignored.

At a recent congressional hearing, for example, J. Leonard Reinsch, an Atlanta television executive, testified that, while touring Africa, he heard a Communist radio accuse the United States of developing a germ that will kill colored people while leaving white people unharmed.

Reinsch, who is chairman of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Information, said the charge, though ridiculous, might sound pretty good to an unsophisticated black man.

RADIO COMPARISON
During 1962, the Communist nations broadcast 2,846 hours a week to other areas of the world, using most of the important vernacular languages, including Kurdish, Hindi, Urdu, Swahili, Hausa, Mandarin and Armenian.

USIA's Voice of America countered with 761 hours a week, using some but not as many of the vernacular languages. This American effort, however, was swelled by the broadcasting of American allies.

The British Broadcasting Corp., for example, broadcast 615 hours a week and France 440 hours a week. In addition, one private agency, Radio Free Europe, broadcast 451 hours a week, and another, Radio Liberty, 568 hours a week, both aiming at the East

Ex-Cop Quizzed In Coed's Death

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Ballistics tests were being run today on a gun taken from a man accused of raping a girl in the desert northwest of Phoenix, forced a 19-year-old boy to get in the trunk of the vehicle and raped the youth's 17-year-old date.

Paul Curtis Achee, 31-year-old former Arizona highway patrolman, was being questioned concerning slaying of Miss Jane Langdon, 21. Officers said Achee denied any knowledge of the murder.

Achee was arrested early Sunday at his Phoenix home.

Sheriff's Capt. Tom Kirkham said Achee admits he approached a parked car Saturday night in the desert northwest of Phoenix, forced a 19-year-old boy to get in the trunk of the vehicle and raped the youth's 17-year-old date.

Highway Patrolman Neal McLeod, who arrived at the scene of the rape shortly after it occurred, recalled giving Achee a traffic ticket in the area a short time earlier. This led to Achee's arrest.

Kirkham said a .38 caliber revolver was found in Achee's possession. This is the same caliber as the three slugs found in Miss Langdon's body.

Officers also noted the scene of Saturday night's rape and the place where Miss Langdon was slain are six miles apart.

Miss Langdon, a Texas Christian University coed and daughter of a Texas judge, was sexually assaulted shortly after arriving in Phoenix March 21. Her body was found March 23 in a prospector's tunnel.

Achee said he can account for his time during this period.

Kirkham said no concrete link had been found to the Achee with the Langdon slaying, but questioning would continue. A search of Achee's home turned up nothing, the officer said.

Steel Company Reduces Price

COATESVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Lukens Steel Co. announced today it is withdrawing price increases announced last week on its plate steel. It said the failure of its two competitors in the specialty steel production to match the increases necessitated the action to keep Lukens competitive.

Lukens had raised prices $5 a ton on carbon steel plate and $7 on alloy steel plate, produced also by U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, giants of the industry.

Today's action by Lukens returned all its steel prices to the levels they were at last week.

Five Midland People Hurt

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Five persons from Midland were injured Sunday night when a private plane crashed at a landing strip near a restaurant east of San Angelo.

The Beechcraft Bonanza was demolished.

Investigators said the four passengers were flying from Midland to the Lowlake Inn to eat. They were piloted by Ray Howard, 48, of Midland.

Howard and one of the passengers, Robbie Williams, 25, were hospitalized at San Angelo. They were not in serious condition although the pilot suffered a broken leg.

Treated and released were Mary Horne, 25, Miss Patricia Martin, 25 and Gene Johnson, 23.

The crash occurred about 10 p.m.

Alpha Chi and Mu Kappa chapters of Big Spring were the hostesses groups for the luncheon and afternoon sessions. The invocation and welcoming message was made by Mrs. J. W. Dickens of Mu Kappa. The acceptance and response was given by Mrs. Bill Watson, Kappa Gamma, Midland.

"April Showers," the luncheon theme was stressed in table decorations of blue net with bouquets, umbrellas and sachet bags in blue and yellow. A spring arrangement and decorative umbrella centered the main table.

Following the regular course of business Mrs. Brad Bradley, district educational director, Mu Iota, Fort Stockton, reported that the Alpha Chi Chapter, Big Spring received the first place award in January for its program on local industry; a second place in February for the program on Big Spring schools, tied for second in March on its program in city government. First place award for February and March went to Kappa Gamma, Midland, for its overall yearly scope of programs.

Three top-rated chapters in the district were named as Kappa Gamma, Midland, Alpha Chi, Big Spring, and Alpha Psi, Midland.

Mrs. Glyn Mitchell, Alpha Chi, was chosen to represent the district at the state convention to be held in May, as the outstanding ESA of the year.

Mrs. Bob Kennedy, Beta Eta, Midland, was chosen second, and Mrs. Pat Teague, Mu Delta, Crane, was third.

Iota Psi of Snyder received the award for having the most members present.

District officers elected were Mrs. Bill Watson, Kappa Gamma, Midland, president; Mrs. Truett McCabe, Delta Beta, Andrews, vice president; Mrs. Paul Crenshaw, Kappa Gamma, corresponding secretary; Miss Faydene Hart, Iota Psi, Snyder, recording secretary; Mrs. Rober R. Hamilton, Alpha Chi, Big Spring, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles McFadden, Mu Delta, Crane, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Lela Seal, Midland, junior past president of the state council, and Mrs. Clell Clar, Andrews, the state recording secretary, were the state officers attending

Glenn Proposes Space Data Center

NEW YORK (AP)—Astronaut John G. Glenn Jr. proposed today creation of a national information center into which would be channeled the vast new quantities of space age information.

The Marine lieutenant colonel, first American to orbit the earth, made the proposal in a speech prepared for delivery to editors and publishers at the annual Associated Press meeting.

Glenn said that while a national information center "can be initially organized to cope with the inundation of space information, it can pave the way in many fields toward 'use systems' of our knowledge, not just 'file systems'."

By this, he explained, he meant that highly technical information would be more easily understood and thus would be better applied in everyday living.

"The effect on business and industry alone would probably far surpass the initial outlay of such a system, since an American businessman with a new idea needs little prodding," Glenn said.

Of his own field, Glenn said the immediate purpose of the nation's space program is "providing transportation to new areas and return."

"None of the manned space programs of the future is merely to prove that man can adapt and is reliable or can live aboard a space craft," he said. "The long range 'pay-off' comes when we start using these capabilities to learn new things."

But he emphasized: "We have developed an 'information gap' between the discoverers or the researchers and those who would normally make use of such information."

The astronaut also urged research into ways of increasing our mental capacity to absorb the additional knowledge made available. He noted that the average person, according to psychiatrists, uses only seven-tenths of one percent of his mental capacity.

After reviewing the National Aeronautics and Space Administration program to put a man on the moon, Glenn commented: "We are certainly aware of the 'race' aspects of the lunar mission, but I feel the program is completely worthwhile even if there were no such place as Communist Russia."

"We cannot possibly pinpoint all the advantages and benefits that will accrue, but research and exploration have always had a way of paying off in the future, far beyond any expectation, and this is the grandest exploration of all time."

Shot To Death

By The Associated Press

Harry Wilson, 28, San Angelo Negro, was shot to death in his home Sunday night. His wife, Marie Wilson, 34, surrendered a .22 caliber pistol and was charged with murder. Police said Wilson recently was released from prison after serving 2½ years of a 5-year robbery sentence.

Youth Admits Strangling Death Of 6-Year-Old Boy

McALLEN (AP)—Police Chief C. D. Mussey said early today that a 14-year-old boy has admitted strangling Roberto Rodriguez, 6, during a sex attack.

Mussey reported the teen-ager, held for juvenile authorities, signed a statement giving details of how he throttled the small boy and tossed the body into an irrigation canal.

Roberto, son of Mrs. Enriquez-Landees, disappeared Saturday night. Searchers found the body in a canal about three blocks from his home Sunday.

Authorities at first theorized he drowned. They investigated after a pathologist discovered marks on the throat of the dead boy.

Mussey said the 14-year-old told questioners that Roberto screamed during a sex attack beneath a vegetable packing shed and he strangled the smaller boy to silence him.

"I have these feelings that come on," the police chief quoted the prisoner as replying when asked why he committed the attack.

"My head starts to feeling funny and I have this uncontrollable urge."

Mussey said officers became suspicious of the boy in custody, a husky 5-foot-4 fifth grader, because "he was quite active in the search."

"In fact," the police chief continued, "he found the little boy's pants under a packing shed near the canal. We became more interested when he found an impression in the grass along the canal as if something might have slid in at that point."

"We looked over in there and saw what looked like a body. The 14-year-old offered to go in and get it. When he got it out, it was the 6-year-old."

Police questioned the fifth grader briefly at the time, Mussey said, and quizzed him more extensively Sunday afternoon.

Two lie detector tests by a state police expert "both indicated very conclusively that he was telling the truth when he admitted the killing," Mussey said.

HCJC Netters Go To Finals

Karen Butler and Kay Butler almost carried Howard County to a tennis tournament at the University of Texas in Austin Saturday. They made it to the finals before bowing to Judy Goodwin and Wanda De Hart of Odessa College, 9-7, 6-3.

Tigers Launch Another Season

With more than three decades of continuous playing to their credit, the Big Spring Tigers opened another season Sunday with Mayor George Zachariah doing the honors by throwing out the first ball.

Tigers Open Season With No-Hitter, 21-0 Victory

In all their more than three decades of playing the Big Spring Tigers never began a season more auspiciously than Sunday. They not only crushed Colorado City CYO 21-0, but in the process two pitchers threw a no-hitter. The visitors never got a man past first base, and that only happened once in the first when D. Garcia got aboard on Boadella's error in the fourth and sixth when men walked.

hitters found the range and laid down a barrage of 17 hits and batted in as many runs. Mendoza and J. Fierro had a hot day, each clubbing out three hits and scoring four runs. J. Martinez, Arista, Holgin and Rogers each connected for a pair of hits, and J. Fierro, Perez, Holgin and Rogers got homers.

Two bases hit Mendoza (Terry), J. Fierro, 2 Arista, 2 home runs, J. Fierro, Perez, Holgin, Rogers, scores base, Holgin, off. Two bases, Colorado City 2, Tigers 16, errors Colorado City 11, Big Spring 1, umpires E. Camba, Griffin.

Lakers Still Hanging On But Celtics Need Just One

BOSTON (AP) — "We're still very much alive." Those words came from a very happy man—Los Angeles Lakers Coach Fred Schaus—but they had an ominous tone. Schaus was happy, all right, but he was already looking ahead to Wednesday night when the Lakers entertain the Boston Celtics at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles had lost 12 consecutive road games going back to Feb. 13 of this year. The Celtics, thwarted at a fifth straight title, still lead — three games to two — in the best-of-7 series. The seventh game, if needed, is scheduled for Boston Saturday night.

Big Response To JUCO Tournament

The weekend brought a flurry of entries in the National Junior College track meet here May 17-18, and all signs point to a big field. Coach Red Lewis of Howard County Junior College, who directs the meet, got invitations into the mail the latter part of last week. Monday he had these entries:

South Plains of Levelland seven men; Coffeyville, Kans., eight men; Hutchinson, Kans., 12 men; Phoenix, Ariz., 18 men; Decatur three men; Lubbock Christian, nine men; Wharton two men; Garden City, Kans., six men; Iola, Kans., eight men; Snow College of Ephraim, Utah, three men; San Jacinto of Pasadena, one man; Pueblo, Colo., 10 men.

Fresh Reinforcements Due To Battle Derby Favorites

Whether they produced a Derby starter remains to be seen. On My Honor, owned by the Ambush Stable of Mike and Jack Stein, Los Angeles, made like Silly Sullivan when he came from six lengths behind the pace to capture the California Derby.

On the other hand, Russell A. Firestone Jr.'s Jet Traffic took a long early lead at Gulfstream, then held on to beat R. F. Benninger's In the Pocket by a nose. In The Pocket was closing in with every stride at the finish of the 7-furlongs.

are good that the Derby May 4 will have two unbeaten colts to pick between Candy Spots, pride of California owned by Rex Ellis, and current favorite for the 1 1/4-mile Derby, has won all six of his races, including the Santa Anita and Florida Derbies this year.

Monterey Hangs On To Golf Spot

ODESSA — San Angelo won Saturday's battle but lost the two-day Class AAAA golf war. The Bobcats, who trailed by 13 strokes in the regional golf meet after Friday's round, blazed through with a four-man team total of 304 for the best round Saturday. But it still left them in fourth as Lubbock Monterey won the regional with 617. Monterey's Saturday score was 310.

Big Spring Men Win Three Races

Big Spring men won three places in the Concho Valley Timing Association contests Sunday at Wall. Donald Reed took the I sportsman's trophy, while from the Aces Auto Club Travis Anderson won the C sportsman's and Glenn Cavitt won the A compact stock event. The next round will be the regional matches in Hobbs, N. M. on May 5.

Bailey, Reynolds-Bishop Winners

Charlie Bailey won the first fight for 110 handicap in the Big Spring Golf Association match play against par Sunday. He was 3 up on par. Second flight honors with 11 plus handicap was split by Lefty Reynolds and Rex Bishop with even par. The next tournament by the association will be May 4-5, a partnership affair with two flights again for 110 and 11 and up handicaps.

Stears To Face Odessa Tuesday

Nursing a 1-7 conference record, the Big Spring Steers return to the baseball yards here Tuesday against Odessa High. The Steers lost previously to Odessa after seemingly having iced the tilt. Jack Roden is due to get the nod for pitching chores.

Palmer Enters Texas Open Today

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Arnold Palmer was due to be the only member of golf's big three among the touring professionals streaming into San Antonio today for the $30,000 Texas Open. Palmer will be seeking his fourth straight championship. Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, the other two of the terrific trio, won't play here, they said Sunday at Houston, where the $50,000 Classic wound up with Bob Charles, New Zealand southpaw, the winner.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Jerry Green, the hard-working golf pro at the Big Spring Country Club, says he probably pulled a rock when he set the date for the last pro-am meet here. As it turned out, it was held in competition with the annual Lamesa Invitational tournament and Jerry wouldn't intentionally do anything to hurt the Lamesa meet.

Ed Hendley, one of the players on Dick Turner's winning team in the local pro-am, is the fellow who started Johnny Pott on the pro golf tour.

Hendley formerly resided in San Angelo, now calls Midland home. He plays golf at the Ranchland Hills Country Club over there. Pott lived in East Texas at one time. Born in Cape Girardeau, Mo., he attended college at LSU. He now calls Shreveport, La., home but represents the Gulf Hills Dude Ranch and Golf Course, Miss., on the tour.

Johnny was the 16th leading money winner on the tour in 1962. His total winnings amounted to $30,403.78. Pott never won any of the big ones last year but he finished second at San Diego and in the Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth.

Pat Brown, who has been hitting the baseball hard and pitching well for Odessa Permian this season, is only a sophomore. He's also a sprinter on Permian's track team, has a 9.8 clocking this spring.

Ronnie Overby, HCJC's splendid little pole vaulter from Snyder, waged a long and determined fight against a severe bone disease (leggperthes), an oftimes crippling ailment that had him on crutches over a period of two years, before he turned to track.

Ronnie took up vaulting his sophomore year at Snyder on the suggestion of his father, Eugene Overby, who himself had been a vaulter at one time.

Larry Mauldin, HCJC's other vaulter, has been bothered this season, so Ronnie has had to go it alone much of the time. He hopes to clear 14 feet this year for more reasons than vanity's sake. He reasons such an achievement would enable him to get a scholarship at a senior college. He has designs on transferring to North Texas State University in Denton when he gets through here.

Overby's best jump since he arrived on the local scene is 13-2 and that represents quite an improvement over his blue ribbon effort in high school—two feet, as a matter of fact. If he can add another 24 inches to that by the time he leaves a senior college, he'll be perfectly satisfied.

Bob Stephenson, Stanton's champion quarter miler, is a cousin of C. A. Tonn of Big Spring.

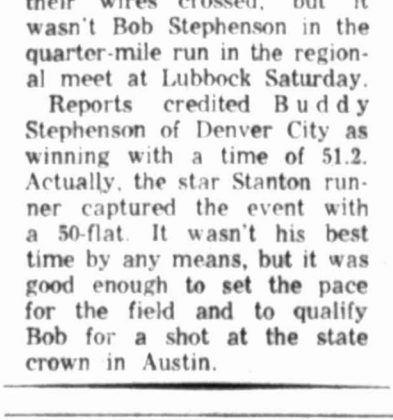

Borger's baseball team raised a few eyebrows in this area recently by beating Lubbock Monterey. Monterey is the team which dealt misery to all the District 2-AAAA clubs in exhibition tilts.

YMCA Swimmers Capture Places

Big Spring YMCA swimmers won six places in swimming events held in a regional YMCA meet that drew 200 contestants Saturday at San Angelo. Linda Cathey won fifth place in the 100-yard free style. Ginna Swift sixth in this event and fifth in 50-yard, Sherry Woolley fifth in breast stroke, Barbara Hobbs sixth in 50-yard free style. Also competing from here were Carry Rizzell and Catherine Crenshaw. Accompanying the team members were Ernie Hobbs, coach, Mrs. Jack Cathey and Mrs. Ed Swift.

STEPHENSON IS WINNER

STANTON—Somebody got their wires crossed, but it wasn't Bob Stephenson in the quarter-mile run in the regional meet at Lubbock Saturday. Reports credited Buddy Stephenson of Denver City as winning with a time of 51.2. Actually, the star Stanton runner captured the event with a 50-flat. It wasn't his best time by any means, but it was good enough to set the pace for the field and to qualify Bob for a shot at the state crown in Austin.

Hickman Pulls Mets Out Of NL Cellar

By The Associated Press Said Casey Stengel to the Milwaukee Braves: "You know that trade we were talking about, the one for the feller who plays in center field for me, who everytime you saw him this spring he was hitting the ball over the houses back of the palm trees in left field and you wanted to give me your catcher for him? Well, forget it."

So the Braves can forget about Jim Hickman—if they can. That will take some forgetting. Hickman drove in seven runs with a 450-foot double and two homers, one a grand slam, as the Mets won a doubleheader from the Braves Sunday 8-5 and 9-2. The double win gave the Mets four straight for the first time in their history, and lifted them out of the National League cellar for the first time since last May 23. The San Francisco Giants held on to the top spot with a split against the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs won the opener 4-1 and the Giants the second game 3-2.

Aguirre Gets Off To Running Start

By The Associated Press If any critics still think Hank Aguirre was a flash in the pan last year when he led the American League pitchers, they are referred to the latest batch of statistics. Aguirre, the new Yankee killer of the Detroit Tigers, has started three games, won three games, and pitched three complete games. His earned run average unofficially is 1.67, better than his leading 2.21 of last year.

For 10 years I have been dreaming of a spring when I would get off to a good start and win four or five games early," Aguirre said during the training season at Lakeland, Fla. "I never had a chance. Last year Aguirre didn't start a game until May 26. He got his chance only because Frank Lary's arm was hurting. In 1959 he had been sent back to the minors and went through the minor league draft that fall with nobody willing to gamble the draft price on him."

In the second game, the Cards spotted the Phillies four runs in the first inning and then roared back against Art Mahaffey, with Dick Groat driving in four runs. Ron Fairly carried the big bat for the Dodgers against the Colts. He drove in three runs in the opener, hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning of the second and then broke a 5-5 tie in the last of the ninth with a bases-loaded single.

Baltimore racked up bonus baby Sam McDowell in the first inning while Barber coasted home with his third victory. Then Donovan, making his first start in 10 days, cooled off the Birds and snapped their four-game winning streak by beating Robin Roberts.

Bouton had some shaky moments for the Yanks but retired the last nine batters in succession for his first victory. Terry was slammed for five hits and four runs in 12 1/3 innings. Tom Tresh homered for the Yanks.

Bob Miller, who was 1-12 as a Met last season, ran his unscored streak to 21-23 innings for the Dodgers in the opener before he was chased in the sixth. However, he got the victory, his first of the season.

Baltimore traded shutouts with Cleveland and remained a half game ahead of the pack in the American League. Steve Barber blanked the Indians with four hits, 7-0, striking out 11 and Dick Donovan retaliated with a four-hitter 2-0 against the Orioles.

It was the same story in Chicago where Minnesota's Jim Roland, a 20-year-old rookie southpaw making his first start, shut out the White Sox 7-0 with three singles and four runs batted in.

Lee won his second for the Angels but he needed help in the ninth when the A's had two on with two out. Jack Spring retired pinch hitter Hayward Sullivan to end the game.

NICKLAUS, PLAYER SKID

HOUSTON (AP) — Sponsors of the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic were searching for a formula to prevent a fifth straight playoff and they found one in the form of Bob Charles, a left-hander from New Zealand.

Charles, 27, not only halted the Classic's playoff habit but he won the $10,000 in top money with a 72-hole record 268. He also became the first left-hander to win a PGA-sponsored tournament.

The New Zealand—11 under par and three strokes in front after the first three rounds—needed a one-under 69 final round Sunday to turn back thrilling challenges from Fred Hawkins, a veteran pro, and amateur Homero Blancas, the son of a greenskeeper at Houston's exclusive River Oaks Country Club.

New Zealand Bank Clerk Wins Houston Classic

Charles, the new PGA champion, had to settle for a 71 and $3,000 for a fourth-place 273 after posting three bogies and three birdies on the front nine and two bogies and one birdie on the final nine.

Nicklaus, the new Masters champion, had to settle for a 71 and $3,000 for a fourth-place 273 after posting three bogies and three birdies on the front nine and two bogies and one birdie on the final nine.

Gary Player, who also held 5-1 odds Thursday with Nicklaus, came back with a fourth-round 67 and a 283 for $400, his lowest finish and money take of the year.

Hickman's grand slam won the first game for the Mets. He hit it in the eighth inning off Claude Raymond, with the Mets trailing 5-4. Ed Kranepool, 18-year-old rookie first baseman, singled Duke Snider home in the sixth inning of the second game for the go-ahead run off Lew Burdette.

A hysterical, confetti-throwing crowd of 26,775 whooped it up at the ancient Polo Grounds during the long afternoon.

Hickman now has 11 hits, seven for extra bases, and 11 RBI in nine games. He is batting .344, and all three of his homers have come off the Braves.

Willie Mays and Willie McCovey each hit the fourth home runs for the Giants in the second game, and Tom Haller's single drove home the winning run. In the opener Ken Hubbs singled home the Cubs' first run and homered in the fourth.

Tony Gonzalez doubled off the scoreboard in the 10th inning to drive in the winning run for the Phillies in the opener against the Cards.

Lee won his second for the Angels but he needed help in the ninth when the A's had two on with two out. Jack Spring retired pinch hitter Hayward Sullivan to end the game.

Gary Player, who also held 5-1 odds Thursday with Nicklaus, came back with a fourth-round 67 and a 283 for $400, his lowest finish and money take of the year.

Top Men In South Africa

South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, right, and Minister of Justice Balthazar Johannes Vorster, left, are top men in South Africa's government. Together they have been stiffening the determination of the white minority in South Africa to stand and fight for what they now hold.

South African Clouds Gather

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE
DAR ES SALAM, Tanganyika (AP)—South Africa has a heritage today of fear, hatred and guilty conscience. Hatred is the oldest of the three elements. Fear is increasing, and so, apparently, is a widespread feeling of guilt among the whites who rule the country. These are the impressions of this correspondent, who has just left South Africa after a three-year assignment there.

Antigovernment sabotage is increasing. Police drives against Poqo, the African underground terrorist organization, bring headlines. But Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government has many guns, and is making and buying more daily. Furthermore, South Africa still has a row of white-ruled states between it and the wave of nationalism that has turned nations to the north over to black rule.

STAND AND FIGHT
Since the Congo explosion of nearly three years ago it has been stiffening the determination of the white minority to stand and fight for what they now hold.

Verwoerd's government has quadrupled military police spending in recent years, expanded those two forces and opened new plants for manufacture of small arms and ammunition. It is buying abroad the warships and planes it cannot manufacture.

Now 10,000 trained men are ready to smash any internal revolt or to repel any African nationalist Communist invasion. The reason the government gives for its record peacetime arming: "Thousands more can be called up on short notice. In nearly every sizable town police reserve corps and vigilante groups could spring into action the moment the new nationwide command-police communications network spreads an alarm."

BLUNT INTENTIONS
The militant determination of Verwoerd's Afrikaner nationalists is repeatedly expressed with bluntness, to hold vast and enormously rich South Africa as a last remnant of "Christianity and Western civilization against a reversal to primitiveness and chaos."

Backing up Verwoerd is his tough minister of justice, Balthazar Johannes Vorster. He is regarded as the No. 2 strongman next to Verwoerd, swinging the cogwheels of alleged saboteurs and subversives, black and white.

White liberals say Vorster is one of the biggest obstacles to chances for an eleventh-hour peaceful solution to South Africa's racial problems.

Vorster, 47, was interned as a Nazi sympathizer during World War II. For years he held off joining the National party because he considered its policies too tame on racial and other issues. He became minister of justice in August 1961.

DRAGON SLAYER
The press supporting the government depicts him as a slaying St. George slaying dragons labeled "liberals - cryptocommunist."

For the past year Vorster has been on the attack against what he calls "the white inciter who lurks behind the black saboteur." His police round up hundreds of Poqo suspects. They bring dozens of Africans into court on sabotage charges — some facing possible death sentences.

The Ministry of Justice has imposed house arrest for terms up to five years and silenced scores of South Africans of all races. The ministry is pushing efforts to seal off the three neighboring British protectorates of Basutoland, Swaziland and Bechuanaland.

Daubing of antigovernment slogans in public places is punishable by six months in prison. Slogan painters working at night use indelible paint for "Hang Vorster" and "Vorster is a Nazi" signs on bridges and walls in Johannesburg, Cape Town and Durban.

NO APOLOGIES
Vorster's reply to charges of repressive laws and actions: "I have no apologies. I get my power from a democratically elected parliament."

It is Nationalist-controlled and white-dominated.

Dr. Jan Steytler, leader of the opposition Progressive party, charged recently that the Verwoerd government can maintain the present situation only on a basis of force. He said the government planned it that way and if it deemed it necessary would impose a complete dictatorship.

"Our nonwhites will not accept for all time in complete docility what is happening to them in South Africa today," he warned.

The liberal-minded Johannesburg Star, and English language paper, says power is not enough and efforts must still be made toward some kind of racial harmony.

TRAGIC TREND
Laurence Gandar, editor of the Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail, sees the present trend as tragic. He says the Verwoerd Afrikaners, having failed to achieve unity English-descended whites, now are "forcing this unity—on a war footing—against the black menace."

A combined note of plaintiveness and determination is increasing among many South African whites who are not ardent nationalists.

When this correspondent left South Africa a surprising number of whites said farewell along these lines:

"Now don't say too harsh things about us after you've gone. Remember our problems. Remember we built up this country, and not the blacks."

"If we had to give it up, where would we go? The Belgians from the Congo could go back to Belgium, the French from Algeria back to France, the Dutch from the East Indies back to Holland. We've got no place to go, and that's why we have to stay—and fight, if necessary."

Here's What The Average Legislator Looks Like

By PEGGY SIMPSON
AUSTIN (AP)—The face of a legislator:

He's about 41, a Protestant and married, has college training and is a native Texan.

That's just an average, of course, of the 150 representatives and 31 senators who make the state laws. They have individual quirks that they don't list on the file cards.

The three women, one a senator, are far outnumbered, and so are the seven Republicans in the House.

As most Capitol secretaries know, 25 representatives and 2 senators are single.

The House member's experience averages 2½ years. Discounting the 69 freshmen members, the average rises to 4½ years.

Senators, of whom 14 came up through the House of Representatives, have an average experience of 9½ years.

The senator averages 6 years older than his House colleague, 44 compared to 38.

Nearly half, or 70 House members are in their 30s. Eight are 25 or younger, 4 are older than 60, and 43 are between 41 and 60.

The oldest senator is 68, the youngest 31. In the House, the oldest member is 74, the youngest 21.

Methodist lawmakers have a slight edge over the Baptists. Records show 52 Methodists, 45 Baptists, 19 Presbyterians, 15 Episcopalians, 15 Roman Catholics, 10 Christians, 7 Church of Christ members and 5 Lutherans. Most have always lived in Texas.

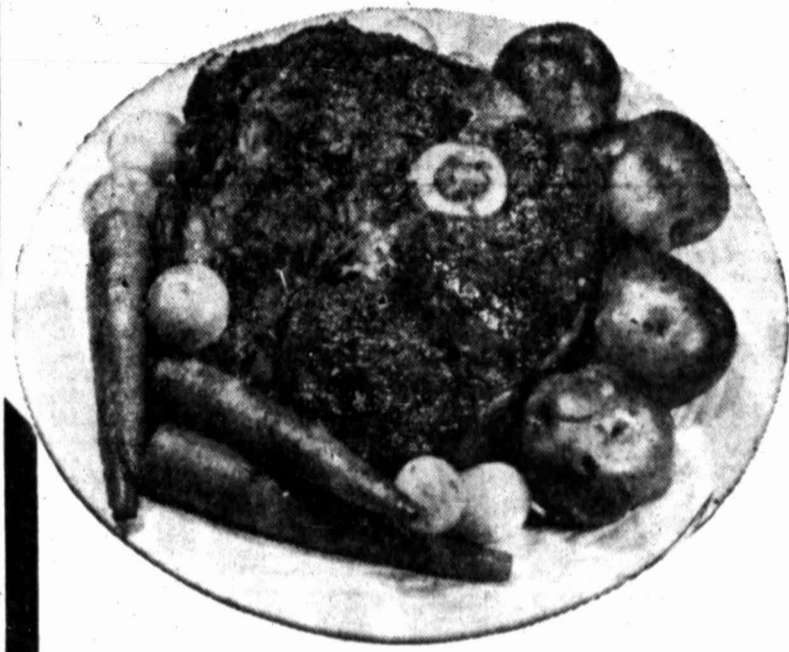

Records show that 131 of the House members never have lived outside the state and of those who have, only 9 spent more than 10 years outside.

The same is true for senators. There are 61 lawyers in the House and 20 in the Senate. There are 28 in farming-ranching in both houses.

A dozen are educators, 10 are in insurance, 7 are students, 5 list newspaper or radio-TV experience, 4 are oilmen, and 3 are openly retired.

As for education, 28 senators and 109 representatives say they have college educations.

Former Yale President Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A Whitney Griswold, a lean, dedicated Yankee who brought a new look at the Yale University campus during his 13 years as president, is dead at 56.

Griswold, a champion of academic freedom, liberal arts, modern architecture and higher pay for teachers, died at his home Friday of cancer.

Lubbock Station Proposal Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—An FCC examiner has recommended that Mid-Cities Broadcasting Corp. be authorized to operate a daytime radio station in Lubbock.

The station would operate on 500 watts power and 1420 kilocycles.

Examiner Herbert Sheriman recommended also that the commission deny a competing application by La Fiesta Broadcasting Co. for the same facilities.

This Was A Sneaky Trick

LOWELL, Mass. (AP)—Main's best friend has turned out to be a stool pigeon, Lowell police reported last week.

It all started Tuesday night when police received a report of a stolen car. Officer James P. Tsaffaraf spotted the car and as he approached it, three boys fled. Tsaffaraf said he found a dog inside the car. He returned the car to the owner, who lived nearby, but was told the dog didn't belong there.

The dog was taken to the Humane Society overnight and released late Wednesday. Tsaffaraf, riding in a cruiser, followed the dog as it headed for downtown Lowell.

The dog came upon a group of boys on a street corner, jumped on one of the boys and was greeted lovingly.

Tsaffaraf called the boy aside for questioning.

Two 12-year-olds and a 16-year-old are due to appear in juvenile court in connection with the theft.

Alger Award For McCall

WACO (AP)—Baylor University President Abner McCall will receive a Horatio Alger Award May 15 in New York, Kenneth Beebe, president of the awards committee, said.

McCall and 10 other American men who overcame humble beginnings to achieve success will receive the awards.

McCall, a native of Perrin, Tex., was 3 when his father died. His mother farmed to provide for her four children, but when her health failed they were placed in a Masonic home and school.

McCall graduated as valedictorian and won a scholarship to Baylor.

He taught law at Baylor and earned his B. A. degree in the process. After a brief law practice, McCall returned to Baylor as a teacher. In 1948 he became dean of the Law School.

During this period he was also named to the state Supreme Court by Gov. Allen Shivers. In 1959 McCall was appointed executive vice president of Baylor and from this post was advanced to the presidency in 1961.

Oilers Off 10 Per Cent

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission reported a total of 141 oil well completions the past week making a total of 2,707 for the year compared to 3,068 in 1962.

There were 55 gas well completions and 92 dry holes.

The weekly commission report showed five oil wildcats, nine gas and 42 dry holes.

There were two successful tests in Dist. 7-C and one each in Districts 4, 7-B and 9. There were three gas wildcats each in Districts 3 and 4 and one each in Districts 7-B, 7-C, and 8.

There were 61 oil wells and four gas wells plugged.

Music To Dance To

Two-year-old Terri Tillman, like most little girls, can't help dancing when the band starts to play. Terri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brad Tillman, finds the brick streets of Savannah's historic Factors Walk just the place to try out a few steps to the music of the Savannah High School band during an art festival.

Kennedy's Home Nears Completion

ATOKA, Va. (AP) — Workmen have put the stucco exterior on the new weekend home President John F. Kennedy is building in the Virginia hunt country.

Though the home Mrs. Kennedy planned with such care is nearing completion, it now looks as though its owners won't get to use it for some time.

Mrs. Kennedy, expecting a third child, has announced she will go to Cape Cod sometime in May to remain in seclusion until her child is born in late August.

There's also the problem now that the Kennedys built their home with just two bedrooms planned for the two children they already have, Caroline, 5, and John Jr., 2.

There's no room set aside for any more children unless they double up, use the guest room next to that of the President or take up one of two rooms in a maid's wing. The Kennedys will have to do some space juggling in the 7-bedroom, 5 1/2-bath new home.

OTHER DECISIONS
Homebuilder Jacqueline Kennedy, meanwhile, has some other decisions still to make about decor. Once the suntan-colored, hand-applied exterior stucco has dried, she'll have to tell the painters what color trim she wants.

Inside, the colors for every one of the 10 rooms, kitchen and baths will require the First Lady's attention. The word from the White House, though, is that it is "basically going to be white."

There is also the matter of bookshelves for the library, a cozy room with a fireplace, but no place as yet for the Kennedys' books.

The weekend retreat, scenically located high on a hill known as Rattlesnake Mountain, is being built with much secrecy. It has been off limits to reporters and photographers, protected "round-the-clock by the Secret Service."

Turning in off route 50 at Atoka and following the Atoka road about a mile, the tourist can get

Executed

Spanish Communist leader Julian Grimau Garcia was executed before a firing squad in the courtyard of Carabanchel Prison in Madrid. He was convicted of military terrorism during the Spanish civil war. Police sources said the Spanish government carried out the execution despite a clemency plea from Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Fires Strike Eastern U.S.

A weekend of raging brush fires and building blazes took at least six lives, left many hundreds homeless and caused millions of dollars worth of damage in the bone-dry eastern area of the country.

The Weather Bureau in New York said the first substantial rain in the stricken area is expected in Pennsylvania and Maryland tonight.

Showers were forecast for today in parts of Pennsylvania, Connecticut, upper New York State and Virginia.

Three members of a New Jersey family were missing. Police said they may have burned to death when a forest fire engulfed their home.

Emergency crews moved from one scarred spot to another to restore electricity, telephone service and water supplies.

Emergency shelters were provided for many families. Others were taken in by relatives and friends.

From Maine to Virginia, thousands of firemen fought blazes. Most of the fires were reported extinguished or under control today.

More than 30 homes were destroyed or badly damaged and about 300,000 acres were blackened in raging brush fires, whipped by high winds, on New York City's Staten Island and in New Jersey.

Ten square miles of Staten Island were burned over.

The greatest devastation in New Jersey was in the southern part of the state.

Bernard Bartlett, assistant state fire warden in New Jersey, called the fires "the worst I can remember in the 30 years I've been with the fire warden's office."

High Winds, Temperatures Dry The Soil

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — High winds and temperatures took their toll of soil moisture in all sections of Texas. Though farmers were busy, rain is needed in all except local areas, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Crops in South Texas lack moisture and also suffer from extreme heat. Feeding and prickly pear burning still are necessary. Insects are beginning to appear in cotton. The flax harvest is just beginning. Rain is urgently needed.

Rain is needed in all except Calhoun and the north tier of counties in South Central Texas. The drought is critical in many counties.

FIELD WORK
Farmers are busy in the upper Gulf Coast District and field work is making rapid progress. Cotton is up to a good stand. Some corn is knee-high. Early rice is up; pastures are improving; oats are in the dough stage. Some counties need rain.

Soil moisture was adequate in East Texas. Ranges were improving but some were still below average.

Moisture was spotted in Northeast Texas where corn, grain sorghums, vegetables and melons are being planted. Pecan and fruit trees look good. Pastures are up to average.

Rain is needed in North Central Texas where crops are suffering. Pastures are providing some grazing. Feeding is declining.

Moisture is very short in the western counties and short to adequate in the eastern counties of Central Texas. Oats are making some progress but need moisture.

Corn and sorghum are up, cotton planting is progressing. Grazing is short; stock tanks are low; some are dry. Sheep shearing goes on.

A general rain is needed in West Central Texas. Sorghum is being planted in the counties which got the heaviest April rains. Winds are sapping the moisture swiftly. Sheep shearing is well along.

BETTER CONDITIONS
Livestock and range conditions are improving in far West Texas from rains but some feeding is continuing. More rain is needed.

Barley is heading; up to 40 percent of the cotton has been planted in some areas. Sheep shearing is on. The lamb and calf crops are good except in the Kinney County area.

Moisture is needed in 13 counties and adequate in 9 of the Rolling Plains District. Wheat is heading; sorghum planting is general; and cotton planting has started.

Drought in all South Plains counties except Lynn, Dawson, Howard and Bailey counties was reported. Equipment for cotton planting was being readied. Range cattle were in average condition.

Moisture is very short over the entire Panhandle. Dryland wheat is in real need of rain. Some damage to dryland wheat in the northern counties from blowing sand and lack of moisture continues. More wheat is being plowed up.

Sheriff Ouster Suit Is Mistrial

BEAUMONT (AP)—Dist Judge Wilbur Hunt of Houston has declared a mistrial in the case in which the state sought permanent removal of Jefferson County Sheriff C. H. Meyer.

Meyer was suspended and the ouster suit, charging him with official misconduct and incompetence, was filed after a legislative committee probed vice and gambling activities here at the start of 1961.

A jury returned a verdict covering only part of the issues in a trial before Hunt which ended three weeks ago. On this basis of these findings, defense lawyer Gilbert Adams moved for a judgment favoring Meyer.

As special counsel for the state, W. G. Walley countered with a motion for a mistrial.

The case now must be heard again. Meyer will remain under suspension.

Minister Dies

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Roy L. Smith, 75, widely known Methodist minister and former editor of the Christian Advocate, died Saturday.

Congress Has Little To Show For Four Months Of Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress will have to work harder if it is to produce a respectable batting average before this session ends. Returning today from a 10-day Easter vacation, Congress had little to show for the almost four months it has been in session.

It has enacted eight public laws, the more prominent of which extended the draft and made Winston Churchill an honorary citizen.

There are no signs of a big legislative push in the offing, but Senate and House leaders have served notice that there will be little time-off if the legislators want to wind things up by Labor Day.

The House has not held a session since April 11. The Senate held two brief and non-productive meetings since then.

The official "Status of Major Bills" lists only two of the dozen or more annual appropriation measures on the way toward enactment. They provide funding for the Interior Department and the Treasury-Post Office Department. Both have passed the House only. Despite the widespread clamor for budget-cutting, the House trimmed only $250 million from the $7.1 billion requested by the President in those two bills.

Then it reversed its field and added $450 million to a supplemental money measure for the accelerated public works program.

The only major bill near enactment is the annual authorization measure for procurement of missiles, aircraft and naval ships. It has passed both branches and is awaiting a compromise agreement.

The Senate has passed bills providing for a mass transportation system, preservation of wildness areas, and establishment of a youth conservation corps. All three are in House committees and could run into trouble in the Rules Committee, which directs the flow of bills to the floor.

For this week, the Senate's biggest order of business probably will be action on the President's nominations for officers of the Communications Satellite Corporation. The House docket, a little heavier, calls for votes on a bill to provide federal aid for medical and dental schools and a bill to extend the feed grains control program.

Aside from the annual appropriation bills, there are two other "musts" on the 1963 congressional docket. One would grant the President's request for tax reductions, the other would continue the foreign aid program. Both are nearing completion in House Committees.

VW Adds Power To Trucks And Station Wagons

Volkswagen has announced availability of a 25 per cent more powerful engine for its trucks and station wagons. The new engine will provide increased versatility and reserve power for the box-shaped vehicles which pioneered a new concept in multipurpose transportation.

The new engine has a 91.1-cubic-inch displacement and develops 50 horsepower compared with the 72.7-cubic-inch displacement and 40 horsepower of the standard engine. Both engines are of traditional Volkswagen design with four horizontally opposed air-cooled cylinders.

The company explained that there is no plan to make the larger engine available in Volkswagen sedans. "There is no need," the announcement stated, "for greater horsepower in our sedans as they already exceed turnpike speed limits and have more than adequate acceleration for city driving."

Brakes on the more powerful trucks have been increased in size to provide ample safety margins at the higher speeds. Brake lining area with the new VW engine is 150 square inches, up from the 96 square inches of the standard version.

Go To Funeral

The Rev. Curtis Smith and family will go to Del Rio today to attend the funeral, at 4 p.m. Tuesday, of Mrs. J. M. Jones, Rev. Smith's grandmother. Mrs. Jones died at 9:15 p.m. Sunday in a Del Rio hospital.

A Devotional For The Day

We know that if the earthly frame that houses us, today should be demolished, we possess a building which God has provided — a house not made by human hands, eternal, and in heaven. (II Corinthians 5:1, NEB.)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to know the reality of eternal life given to all who are Thy followers. May we, in trust, know now the warm, rich beginnings of this life. We pray in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Problem Of Population

If population control is a controversial issue in this country, even in relation to aid to underdeveloped countries, it is an explosive one in Latin America. But the issue is one which cannot long be denied concerned attention in that region.

Organization of American States health officials are meeting in Washington this week on ways to implement the Alliance for Progress goal of increasing Latin American life expectancy five years by 1970. Conference officials note that a 50 per cent reduction of high child mortality — "within our grasp" — would increase life expectancy by 10 years.

At the same time, the United Nations Social Commission has received a report estimating that Latin American population, now some 200 millions, will triple by the end of this century. The region's 2.9 per cent population growth rate, highest in the world, will run to 3 per cent in the next decade. It is already outstripping the area's overall economic growth rate, as bolstered by U.S. aid, and matching increases in food output.

The U.N. report notes that Latin

America is not immediately threatened by overpopulation, as it has only one-fourteenth of world population on one-seventh of the earth's land area. But much of Latin America's land area is of only high-cost, low-yield utility; and the problem is not one of natural potential, but of capacity to organize resources and develop economies and social and political structures that can cope with the imminent needs of a rapidly growing population.

No humane mind would think of discouraging the public health measures sure to increase life expectancy in Latin America. But it should be realized that the sustained high birth rate and rapidly dropping death rate characteristic of an emergent society pose the grave question of whether economic development can catch up with population growth in the critical period of transition without the help of some measure of population control. This issue is simply not being faced in the inter-American system, but it is obvious that it cannot be safely ignored.

Near Misses

Here was a commercial airliner with 57 persons aboard, cruising at 25,000 feet en route from Boston to Detroit. An Air Force jet fighter suddenly appeared on a collision course. The airliner pilot threw the big transport into a sharp dive.

Passengers were tossed about, and a few were hurt. But thanks to the prompt evasive action, a disaster was averted. The narrow escape of those aboard the airliner and the Air Force plane underscores, once again, the inadequacy of the present air traffic control system. The fact that thousands of planes fly millions of miles without mid-air collision should not be allowed to obscure another fact — that air traffic control is not fully abreast of developments in flying. The rise in the number and speed of flights puts too much of a strain on the system. Occasional breakdowns, such as the recent one on the Boston-Detroit run, are the result.

This is not for lack of trying. Federal agencies are pushing hard for a better system. But the government could shoulder recently accorded a new method of warning against collision suggests that an even greater sense of urgency is needed. Traffic control from the ground is not enough. It should be supplemented with some device that would at least warn pilots of imminent collision and that might, at best, send planes automatically into appropriate evasive action. There are too many near misses. There are bound to be more of them as aircraft numbers and the speed of aircraft go on increasing.

David Lawrence The Government And Steel Prices

WASHINGTON — Americans pride themselves in the belief that they have a "government of law." But the news dispatches of the last few days cast doubt on whether in certain instances such a system really prevails.

Again and again the public has been given the impression that somehow the President of the United States today has the power under law to approve or disapprove of steel prices. When the announcement was made a week ago that a small steel company had raised its prices, there began to appear dispatches from Washington and Palm Beach which reported widespread conjecture as to whether the White House would interfere and squelch the price rise.

VIRTUALLY ALL the steel companies, one by one, now have announced their decision to follow the first company, but each has applied the formula of a price rise a little differently on a "selective" basis.

Does the President really have any power to forbid price rises? There is no law that says so. If the steel companies follow one another in a certain course of action, can they be prosecuted? The laws are not clear. There is some reason to believe that it is a possible violation of existing federal laws for several companies in an industry to conspire to raise their prices, and by the same token it is said to be unlawful for them even to reduce prices in concert.

SUPPOSING, however, the companies do not consult one another but each one actually arrives at a judgment independently, can that action be prosecuted? The answer is that existing law is vague, and this point has never been clearly interpreted by the Supreme Court. There is one law which says that it is a crime to sell goods at "unreasonably low prices for the purpose of destroying a competitor." The Supreme Court has recognized that a company might have a "legitimate commercial objective" such as "liquidation of excess, obsolete or perishable merchandise or to meet a lawful equality low price of a competitor."

BUT THERE apparently are risks in reducing prices as dangerous as in raising prices. If companies follow each other, what is their motive? Each company that is operating on a narrow margin may feel it should go to a higher price if its competitor does. It is the larger companies which by keeping prices down, can drive a small company out of business.

Economic law—the natural circumstances that govern supply and demand—should, of course, prevail. But in recent months another factor far more potent than economic law itself somehow has gotten into the picture. It is the power of the President of the United States to threaten companies with grand jury investigations if the administration happens to dislike a rise in prices at a particular time.

WHEN MR. KENNEDY in the last few days decided to acquiesce in what are called "selective" price increases in the steel industry, he took a constructive step which will do more to improve the business situation than even a tax cut could do.

Confidence on the part of the business world is a difficult thing to measure. Its absence is readily apparent, and its presence is a material factor in encouraging business planning and business expansion.

WHEN MR. KENNEDY this time refrained from using presidential influence on the price-making machinery, he, in effect, proclaimed throughout the business world a message of encouragement. It could change the whole trend in business generally and bring the stimulus that has been lacking during the last 12 months.

But, it is often asked, will not the price increases bring inflation? The answer is to be found in examining the experience of the past with price increases. Somewhat they do, and sometimes they cannot stand up against buyer resistance. But even so, a moderate rise in the cost of materials doesn't always lead to a corresponding price increase by the users.

Billy Graham

I am a young Christian but I have found that some of my old friends shun me. Why is this? Does this mean that I will always be unpopular? F.W.

A native of Kittyhawk said of the Wright brothers: "I knew as soon as I saw those boys that they were different from the folks down here. They had an idea. It possessed them. I used to listen as they argued by the hour. I didn't understand what they were driving at, but I saw that they meant business. I knew that they would get there."

Anyone who stands out from the crowd; anyone who is distinctive will be shunned, at least for the time being. That is human nature. If you want to be popular, just conform to the crowd and be a meaningless face. Read the biographies of great men, and you will find that they were considered "outcasts." Not because they were undesirable, but because the rank and file can only understand mediocrity.

No, this slight by your friends doesn't mean that you will always be unpopular. When they "dig" you; when they see that what you have is lasting and that you are perfectly sincere, then they will begin to ask what you've got that they haven't, and then you can tell them.

The Bible teaches that we Christians are a "peculiar" people.

'AWRIGHT—BUT STOP REMINDING ME'

James Marlow Kennedy-Nixon Debate On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is now just as vague as President Kennedy on how to get communism out of Cuba. The history of these two men on this subject is a history of unhappy contradictions.

The former vice president in the 1960 campaign publicly opposed intervention in Cuba. But later he said he had been for it all the time and said he opposed it only to cover up preparations then going on for an invasion.

And even while he was secretly backing the invasion he said publicly if such a thing happened it would give Premier Khrushchev an excuse for moving into Cuba and thus put the United States in an awkward position.

HE WAS a good prophet. There was a U.S. backed invasion, Khrushchev subsequently moved in. His troops there have put the United States in an awkward position. That's why, apparently, Kennedy and Nixon are vague on what to do next.

Nixon also said during the campaign while he wanted to intervene, he was saying the opposite, that it was Kennedy who wanted to intervene. Kennedy denied he had any such thought although he talked of assisting the rebels.

Yet it was Kennedy who later, as president, backed the invasion which failed. And it was Nixon who supported him in this disaster.

Kennedy, during the campaign, insisted this government should not handicap anti-Castro rebels in this country. But as president he now bars them from using American soil for hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

BOTH NIXON and Kennedy in the campaign insisted this country should not intervene against Fidel Castro in Cuba in violation of the U.N. charter and inter-American treaties which prohibit intervention.

But Kennedy said later the doctrine of non-intervention could stand in the way of the United States in protecting its own security. Now Nixon, not mentioning treaties, calls for action without saying how or what kind.

Nixon told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Saturday: "We must no longer postpone making a command decision to do whatever is necessary. The administration must be willing to take the risks I long ago recommended that the risks of inaction are far greater than the risks of action."

HERE'S the record: On Oct. 22, 1960, Nixon, charging Kennedy had called for an American-backed anti-Castro revolution, called this "shockingly reckless" because it would mean intervening in another country's internal affairs.

On Oct. 22, 1960, Nixon, charging Kennedy had called for an American-backed anti-Castro revolution, called this "shockingly reckless" because it would mean intervening in another country's internal affairs.

Nixon said: "Do you know what this would mean? We would violate right off the bat five treaties with American states" and the U.N. charter. This country, Nixon said, must keep its treaties and act legally.

Then he added this. Intervention would be a "direct invitation to the Soviet Union to intervene militarily on the side of Castro. This gives them the excuse they have been waiting for, because now they can say very easily 'What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.' We can't play it both ways."

"They could say we can't object to the Soviet Union moving into Cuba under the Monroe Doctrine — we could at the present time (1960) — if the United States is attempting to intervene and move into the internal affairs of Cuba."

KENNEDY DENIED this the next day. He said: "I have never advocated and I do not now advocate intervention in Cuba in violation of our treaty obligations."

But he had suggested this country "assist" the rebels and that they should not be "constantly handicapped" by American government authorities.

Nevertheless, the invasion occurred in April 1961, and Kennedy took full responsibility for it. As it was collapsing he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that year on April 20:

"This country would not hesitate to meet its primary obligations, which are the security of our nation, if it should ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-intervention merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action."

THE NEXT day, Nixon publicly backed Kennedy for supporting the invasion which flopped. But it wasn't until he wrote his book, "Six Crises," published in March 1962, that Nixon undertook to say how he secretly felt in the campaign of 1960 when he was opposing intervention.

He said he was for an invasion all the time but said the opposite only to conceal the fact that the Eisenhower administration was then training Cuban rebels for an invasion of their homeland.

And, Nixon said in his book, Kennedy knew in the 1960 campaign all about the invasion preparations because he had been briefed by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The White House promptly denied this and so did Allen Dulles, who was head of the CIA in 1960.

Around The Rim Backward And Upside Down

Off the cuff:

I notice a service vehicle running around town bearing the letters of the firm it represents but printed backward.

It's an eye-catcher, all right, and serves its purpose for most everyone takes time to read it, whereas they might ignore the average truck with lettering decorating its sides.

In Cologne, Germany, not long ago, a grocer named Werner Beni was upset when he got to his store and discovered that carpenters had put up his new shop sign—upside down.

He summoned the workmen to correct the mistake but by the time they got there he had changed his mind.

The upside-down sign attracted such attention that his grocery business had almost doubled.

"I'm just not successful at it," he explained.

He has tried three times to drown himself, but the water was too cold. There are two chairs and a desk on it. In front of the platform are folding chairs, in uneven rows. The room is filled with party faithful whose deep agitation should be obvious across the footlights.)

"ORDER, ORDER!" cries the chairman, a dignified, middle-aged man in a button-down suit. "This meeting has a grave matter to consider and we must come to order! I have called this emergency meeting to give us a chance to discuss this sudden new crisis confronting our party, and to consider means to counter it."

"Fat chance," cries an embittered young man in the front row. "They've already got the Spock vote sewed up, lock, stock and barrel! And with the population explosion in the suburbs—"

"AND DON'T think they won't get the grandmother vote!" interrupts a tweedy young matron. "Why my own mother—"

"It's a typical, diabolical plot," cries a distraught man in the rear, "and don't try to tell me Bobby didn't mastermind it!"

The chairman hangs the gavel. "ORDER!" he pleads.

"This will be the first child born to a President in office in almost seventy years," calls a Wall Street type with executive brief case. "This will be the second child ever born to a President in office, and the other one was a Democrat, too, Esther Cleveland. Why can't our party—"

"THAT'S WHAT I want to know," interrupts the embittered young man. "Haven't we got what it takes to—"

The chairman belabors the gavel. "Before I was so rudely interrupted," he says, "I was about to ask if our party can produce a 1964 candidate who might, just might, in an election year, duplicate the opposition's feat."

"Well, we have Rocky—"

"MAN! HE ISN'T even married!" snorts the Wall Street type.

"How about Barry?"

"Well, he already has four—"

"I thought a conservative's quota was two—"

"Order! ORDER!" cries the chairman. "This is not time for levity, ladies and gentlemen. We must consider the good of the party!"

"How about George Romney?"

"He's got some cute grandchildren."

"THAT ISN'T the same as children."

"But President Eisenhower got a lot of mileage out of his grandchildren, and there's lots of grandparents. The number of senior citizens is increasing every year—"

"So is the number of Kennedys!"

"Order! ORDER!"

"How about Dick Nixon?"

"He had his chance in '60, and I'm not in favor—"

"I TELL YOU it's going to be murder in '64. This new baby will just be at the culst, vote-getting stage, learning to walk and say 'Da-da—'"

"And if it's a girl and half as cute as Caroline, the voters won't care if there's a missile on Staten Island or a tax cut in the offing."

"God help us! I can just see the pictures of her holding the new baby on Macaroni while Charlie stands guard!"

"I WANT to warn you now, if I lose the Spock vote, the dog-lovers' vote and the pony vote, we're up the creek and—"

"Well, I don't care. I think it's mighty sweet to have a baby in the White House."

"Treason! Throw her out!" Confusion reigns.

"Order! Order!" begs the chairman. "ORDER!"

Holmes Alexander An Iron Halo For McNamara

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Time was when a man would throw the mantle of statesmanship about himself—though not always convincingly—by expressing undying fealty to the Hoover Commission, established nearly 15 years ago to achieve economy in government.

By no means did all who professed the religion of streamlined efficiency ever practice it—certainly not with any provocative success. But now, at last, there is a public servant of whom it can be said, an excellent authority, that he has taken the Hoover Commission gospel to heart—and done his mightiest to practice it.

DEFENSE SECRETARY McNamara, who has been getting his lumps in other respects, deserves the iron halo for a prodigious feat of applying the Hoover recommendations—and some others by the General Accounting Office — to the $50-billion-a-year business which he heads at the Pentagon. It should not cost him one whit of commendation as an economist that his judgment on weapons like the TEX, or his special pleadings for the administration's botched-up Cuban policy, have been seriously questioned. McNamara may run a "monarchy" in his department. He may be in monumental error in phasing out manned bombers or we have war-proved missiles. But as an ink-stained bookkeeper of the nation's biggest departmental budget, the secretary should get a national huzzah.

McNAMARA HAS thrown out the old Quartermaster method of purchasing non-weapon supplies. Formerly all three services bought what was needed to feed and clothe the troops. McNamara instituted the Defense Supply Agency, one purchaser instead of three. Close to 3,000 jobs have been eliminated by this plan.

There are other McNamara efficiencies, having to do with reporting and accountability, but these examples will suffice. By the end of this fiscal year, the secretary will have squeezed Pentagon spending by about $2 billion; the savings will accumulate in two years to $3.5 billion.

"He is the first secretary," said Douglas plainly, "to put into effect the recommendations of the Hoover Commission."

In those words, there is praise indeed.

to obtain many military items. But McNamara began by ordering an arbitrary five per cent cut in negotiation. Where negotiated contracts were unavoidable, McNamara abolished in many cases the "cost-plus" system. Under "cost-plus," a contractor spends freely and receives a profit over and above expenses. As a substitute, McNamara has used the "incentive price" system. Under "incentive price," a contractor receives a bonus if he can reduce the estimated cost by efficiency.

Down By The Old Mill

TALHEQUAH, Okla. (AP)—The Cherokee Indians who brought corn to be ground at the Biting Springs mill 128 years ago might recognize it today.

The old mill, one of the few water-operated mills left in the Southwest, still grinds corn between white granite grindstones, brought from France.

Production is small—less than a couple of hundred bushels per year—but the water-ground corn meal is packaged and sold throughout the country. The miller now is Mrs. Golda Unkefer, who bought the mill in 1950 and restored it.

The mill was established in 1838 to grind corn for Cherokee Indians. It got its name from Dr. Nichols Biting, a doctor and counselor to the Cherokees who lived on the site, in the Cookson Hills southeast of here.

McNAMARA has successfully reduced the number of negotiated contracts under which the Defense Department has paid excessive costs for many years. There are instances in which negotiation, rather than competitive bidding, is the only way

To Your Good Health Gamma Globulin Injections Fight Germs

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old son was sick constantly, had high fevers, and respiratory infections, until he was given gamma globulin injections.

The treatments have been stopped, but he has a cold now and I am afraid his resistance is getting low. What causes the gamma globulin level to be reduced?—MRS. E. S.

Our blood has or acquires certain particles which fight disease germs. That's how vaccination works. The vaccine is a modified (sometimes killed) germ which, however, has the ability to instigate the growth in the blood of the particles which can combat that particular type.

These protective particles, or antibodies, concentrate in a portion of the blood serum, the liquid part of the blood, which we call gamma globulin.

This much we know. Some of the further explanations of the whole process remain unknown, but are being studied intensively.

Obviously many of us have acquired immunity to various diseases. This immunity is lodged in the blood—in the gamma globulin.

Therefore, if when a person has been exposed to some disease, we inject gamma globulin (either from a person already known to have acquired immunity to that disease, or from a group of people, at least some of whom have such immunity) we give the recipient the temporary benefit of this ability to combat germs, or infections.

This has been done with polio, is being done with measles and infectious hepatitis. It helps—temporarily. The injected gamma globulin does not remain indefinitely.

I don't know why your own little boy is deficient in this respect.

Whether he lacks sufficient gamma globulin, or merely has not developed sufficient antibody particles within the gamma globulin, becomes too technical a problem.

He received temporary support in his defenses against colds and such infections. It may be that, with such help, he has since been able to establish his own defenses which will be more long-lasting.

His defenses will be built only as he is exposed to the various germs which exist, and he develops antibodies to fight them.

We cannot always tell why some people can develop these defenses faster than others. But only a fairly short number of years ago we wouldn't have known that gamma globulin injections would help.

A complete answer is not yet possible. But you and your son are profiting by one phase of our constantly increasing health knowledge.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is wrong

DEAR ABBY

Reply From An Expert

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor who goes through our garbage to seek out whiskey and wine bottles. Then she spreads it all over the neighborhood while spouting religion. One day I got angry enough to tell her that Christ drank wine, too. She replied, "Christ drank only grape juice!"

Knowing that you have access to the thinking of learned people, could you please tell me where in the Bible it says Christ drank grape juice instead of wine? Thanking you, MRS. E.

DEAR MRS. E: I can best answer your letter by quoting a learned friend:

"Dear Miss Van Buren: I am not sure that I qualify as one of the learned people to whom you have access, but I am happy to give you such information as may be helpful. Your correspondent's neighbor has John the Baptist confused with Christ. Nowhere in the New Testament does it say that Christ drank only grape juice. There have been many attempts to prove that Christ was a total abstainer. Such attempts involve an ignoring of Jewish social custom and the obvious meaning of the Greek and Hebrew words involved. No reputable scholar would take these suggestions seriously. References include St. Matthew 11:18, 19; John 2:3 ff.; Luke 5:29 and Luke 7:34, which indicate that there were overly pious people who criticized even Christ himself.

Sincerely yours,
The Rt. Rev. Allen W. Brown, D.D.
Bishop, Diocese of Albany, N.Y."

DEAR ABBY: Please convey this message to the woman who wrote to you and signed herself "Cheated" because her husband never gave her a wedding ring. I still have the wedding ring my husband put on my finger 31 years ago. You can have it if you want it. Two years ago my husband left me for another woman. I finally gave him a divorce. So you see, a wedding ring doesn't mean a thing.

DAILY GUIDE—Rather a difficult day on the whole, but if you tackle your chores knowing they will present some obstacles to overcome, you may be able to come out a winner. Details can be troublesome. Delays may hold up transportation, messages, and the news may be disappointing. Avoid fatigue by trying to fight. This is the day before a New Moon so energy is at low ebb. Go easy, and take a new start after tomorrow.

The New Moon is in Taurus and will accent extra action for those born in that sign. In the coming weeks they will need to keep close tabs on details of correspondence, all paper work, telephoning, transportation and in general dealing with people. Criticism and some confusion can slow things down, while at the same time other factors will be urging them to hasty action.

One aspect this week will work towards a very socially pleasant weekend, but weather could be doubtful and create trouble if some spots.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, TAURUS: You will be going into a less rigid pattern in June, so clear up pending problems by then. Domestic conditions will be less chaotic, although the pressures due to career matters will remain. Also personal relationships including marital or partnership arrangements, will continue to be somewhat confused from time to time, especially in October. In June some sudden events regarding friends, loved ones, social contacts, or the expression of your talents can give you a big lift and opportunities to move in new directions. You will then be able to progress, preparing for what should prove to be a lucky year in 1964.

Tower Will Stop Leaning

PISA, Italy (AP)—The Leaning Tower of Pisa will get a $3.2 million foot lifting during the next four years—to keep the lean right where it is.

Engineers and geologists fear that otherwise the tower, increasing its tilt by a quarter-inch every 10 years, may become the toppling tower by the year 2100.

Prof. Letterio Donato of the University of Pisa civil engineering faculty outlined an elaborate stabilization project at the end of a recent national hydraulic and geodetic convention here.

Donato made a series of subterranean soundings with electronic equipment a few years ago. On the basis of those findings and further study by experts, the new program calls for:

1. Sinking two huge steel screens into the unstable soil from opposite sides of the famous bell tower at a distance of 150 feet. The idea is to keep the ground perfectly still during successive stages.
2. Planting eight pneumatic caissons in an outer ring 185 feet from the tower at a depth of 36 feet below sea level. Each caisson will be 53 feet square.

3. Removing the old supporting soil under the tower as far out as the steel screens, taking out an accumulation of concrete and rubble shoved underneath during the centuries in an effort to stop the steadily increasing lean.
4. Replacing the earth and building a new foundation under the tower according to modern techniques of substructural engineering.

Rome Notes Its 2,716th Year

ROME (AP)—The Eternal City celebrated its 2,716th birthday Sunday with special ceremonies at the Campidoglio, Rome's city hall.

Mayor Galuco Della Porta gave medals and scrolls to municipal workers and journalists. Speeches were made commemorating at most three millennia since the legendary Romulus founded Rome on the River Tiber's swamplands in 753 B.C.

Because of a law banning his ilk from the United States, Magoo had been slated for the heave-ho May 1 by the Department of Interior.

Highest Paid Auto Executive

DETROIT (AP)—Frederic G. Donner, chairman of the board of General Motors Corp., received $791,475 last year to become the highest paid executive in U.S. automotive industry history.

The federal income tax man took a major share of Donner's earnings, however. A company source estimated Donner would pay $682,065 in federal taxes, leaving him with $109,410 net earnings.
