Japs Doubt Red Ship 'Torpedoed'

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese government and shipping officials expressed doubt today of claims by Chinese sailors that their freighter, the pride of Communist China's merchant fleet, was torpedoed and sunk by an unidentified submarine in the East China Sea. The Japanese tended to blame the sinking on a submerged reef off South Korea or floating mines which Red China laid during the Korean War. A Navy spokesman said no Japanese or American submarines were in the area when the freighter met disaster. The ship was the 11,482-ton Yue Jin Ho, making an inaugural trade voyage to Japan with 14,000 tons of corn and other products. Relaying a report from Japanese rescuers, Japanese maritime officials said the Chinese crewmen claimed their ship was followed

Titan Explodes During Launch

VANDEMBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A Titan I intercontinental ballistic missile exploded today during an attempted launch at this coastal installation, the Air Force reported. A spokesman said no one was injured and that damage to the silo lift facility appeared slight. The explosion occurred at approximately 2:15 a.m.

Senate Delays Action On House-Passed Tax Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate delayed action today on the House-passed $33 million tax bill. Senators began debate on the measure and defeated seven amendments before recessing until 2 p.m. Recess came in the midst of debate on an amendment to retain the sales tax exemption on clothing costing less than $10. Senators defeated amendments to extend the franchise tax one more year, an $11.1 million item, and to apply the sales tax to all alcoholic beverages, a $9.9 million annual increase in revenues. The House tangled in hot argument over a Senate-passed bill that would make San Angelo Junior College a full senior, state-supported college. Next on the House calendar was another Senate-approved bill to elevate Pan American College at Edinburg. Pan American is a four-year school now but only the first two years are state supported. Sen. George Moffett of Chilli-cothe and Rep. Bill Heatly of Paducah, chairmen of the Senate-House conferees working on the appropriations bill, met Wednesday and agreed on ground rules for committee work. Moffett said the first committee meeting will be Friday morning. Senate passage of the tax bill without amendment would clear the way for prompt action on the spending measure and would lend support to the current early adjournment talk. The tax bill went out of the House after representatives tried more than 20 unsuccessful amendments. Supporters defeated eight proposed changes in the Senate State Affairs Committee. The bill contains three major provisions: Elimination of the current sales tax exemption of clothing purchases less than $10—a $15.4 million item. An increase of the motor vehicle tax from 1.5 to 2 per cent—$6.4 million. And a one-year extension of the corporation franchise tax—$11.1 million. The House gave tentative approval late Wednesday to a Senate-passed bill setting up an annual water registration system. However, representatives first tackled on several major amendments. The controversial 25-cent registration fee, dubbed by opponents as the "two-bit poll tax" was taken from the bill by a 72-69 vote. Also adopted was an amendment to require all voters, including those over 60, to register. Under present law, and the Senate version of the registration bill, persons 60 and older who live in counties with less than 10,000 population were exempt from obtaining exemption certificates or registering. Wednesday night, the House State Affairs Committee approved two measures backed by Gov. John Connally. One would abolish the Texas Commission on Higher Education and set up in its place a Commission on Excellence in Higher Education. The bill would replace the present 15-member commission with a group governed by six persons. The other Connally backed measure, by Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria, would create a Little Hoover Commission in Texas to study economy in state government. Cory estimated that $10 million could be saved in the next three years with such a commission. The committee also approved a resolution allowing the 49th Armored Division to construct a monument on the state Capitol grounds.

PEACE TEAM EXITS

More Heat In Haiti Is Feared

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Diplomats feared today that the departure from Haiti of an Inter-American investigating commission would be followed by new and bloody repression of President Francois Duvalier's political foes. Concern also spread because Duvalier's regime had offered safe conduct out of the country for only 15 of 22 Haitians who took asylum in the Dominican Republic's Embassy during a weekend wave of terror. The Dominican government was expected to insist that all 22 be allowed to leave, prolonging the crisis between the two neighbors on the island of Hispaniola.

FURTHER TALKS
The five-nation mission from the Organization of American States planned to fly today to Santo Domingo, the Dominican capital, to discuss the question of the refugees with President Juan Bosch and continue its investigation. Informed sources said the Haitian government was refusing to let alleged leaders of plots against Duvalier leave the country but was willing to allow those considered lesser conspirators to go. Duvalier's government reportedly made a similar offer with regard to nearly 100 others who have taken refuge in the embassies of Brazil, Chile, Venezuela and Ecuador. Duvalier raised the threat of new repressions in a speech Tuesday night to a rally of 10,000 supporters.

ULTIMATUM
"Those who are uncertain about what to do had better put themselves on my side," he declared. "At the moment when it becomes necessary to go into the streets, I will go with presidential guards and popular forces. The machine will crush the opposition." Tension and fear gripped Haiti's ramshackle capital. Four explosions were heard in the Beau Boeuf section Tuesday night. Shortly after units of Duvalier's militia raced through the area and the sound of firing was heard. More arrests were reported. The home of Clement Barbot, a friend of Duvalier who broke with him and vowed to seek his overthrow, was put to the torch. Barbot was believed hiding inside the country. The United States sent another protest to Duvalier, complaining that the American Embassy's first secretary was halted in his car Tuesday night. Guards forced him to stand with his hands raised in the glare of his car's headlights until he identified himself.

15 KILLED
Diplomatic sources said at least 15 persons were killed Friday and Saturday, and there were rumors many more died. Duvalier's crackdown appeared aimed mainly at 64 army officers he dismissed last week. He reportedly believes they were to be the spearhead of a revolt. In Santo Domingo, the Dominican foreign ministry issued a statement denying that Foreign Minister Andres Freitas had told the OAS mission he had word of an offer by Duvalier to Fidel Castro's regime of bases in Haiti. The foreign office said Freitas instead told the OAS group that he had information Duvalier was offering bases to "anti-Castroites to provoke an attack or an irregular Castroite attack from Cuba in Haiti." Freitas also had been quoted as charging that Duvalier had close ties with Communist nations and had entered into some sort of arrangement with Czechoslovakia.

IRON CURTAIN
The foreign ministry said with regard to that point that Freitas had charged Duvalier has "been dealing with iron curtain countries in political and economic negotiations, the significance of which at the present moment is obvious." The Associated Press, which had erroneously reported Freitas' statements, was unable to obtain comment on the charges from Duvalier or other Haitian officials.

Feat Was Accomplished On May Day

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Two members of the American expedition reached the summit of Mt. Everest Wednesday, a radio message from the base camp said today. The two Americans, who were not immediately identified, followed the British in 1953 and the Swedes in 1956 in the conquest of the 29,028-foot summit of the world's highest mountain. The message said they reached the top at 7:20 a.m. Greenwich Time 2:20 a.m. EST. The report confirmed that the expedition had climbed the final 1,300 feet and reached the summit on schedule. The base camp had expressed belief earlier that bad weather had delayed the climbers. A break in radio communications held up word of the successful ascent. Latest news from the base camp Wednesday was of bad weather on the mountain during the afternoon. Attempts to get more news from the base camp Wednesday night were frustrated by radio equipment trouble at Katmandu. This was remedied today by Lt. Col. William E. Gresham, American military attaché and amateur radio operator who is handling the contacts. An 18-man crew set up Camp Six at 27,800 feet Tuesday to prepare for a May Day assault on the summit. The snow-covered peak is less than a half-mile vertically from Camp Six but can be reached only by a longer, roundabout route. The base camp said there had been no movement by the second and third assault parties Wednesday, an indication of turbulent weather on the heights. One group was at Camp Five, 26,000 feet up, and the other at Camp Four at 24,800 feet. They had been moving up a day behind the first team to make assaults of their own on the summit in sequence. The timetable called for the four-man first team, including one or more Sherpas, to spend Tuesday night at Camp Six. A spokesman said all four climbers might reach the top, depending on the weather and their own physical condition. Expedition policy keeps secret the identity of the climbers in all three assault groups until they have returned to safety.

OTHERS HALTED
Eight Negroes who planned a similar demonstration from Attalla were arrested Wednesday and charged with breach of the peace. They are being held in jail at Gadsden, Ala. The Freedom Marchers who started their walk from Chattanooga, Tenn., spent the night huddled in sleeping bags and blankets on the floor and pews of a little white frame church at Hooker, a northwest Georgia community. Hooker population 400, is about two miles from U.S. 11 along which the demonstrators are walking. The Mount Calvary Baptist Church is in the midst of a Negro community. But white persons live nearby, and some of them dropped in to speak to the five white men and the five Negro men. Most of them said they came because they were curious. Gary Brock, 19, white stock clerk in a food market, said "I just came by to see what was going on. The people here, you know, are just like they are in any other part of the South. They just don't like it." Jim Hickson, 31, a white electrician, walked into the church and introduced himself to several of the Negro men. They shook hands. "I'm not prejudiced," Hickson said, "but I think you're fighting a losing battle. Kennedy couldn't change Wallace's views on this business and I'm sure this won't."

He referred to Atty Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's visit to Alabama Gov. George Wallace last week. A group of white men and women stood in the dirt road about 30 feet from the church. They were invited inside. "They wouldn't come in here for anything," said Brock. "This is a Negro church." Dade County Sheriff Allison Blevins stopped briefly but declined to talk with newsmen. He said earlier he was making no special arrangements as the marchers go through his county. The marchers met with jeers along the route from Chattanooga to the Tennessee line, about nine miles. Two Tennessee troopers in a patrol car accompanied them to the Georgia line. There were no officers at the Georgia side of the line. Most of the hecklers cried "nigger lover" at the marchers. A handful of gravel was thrown at the marchers from a car. Many Negroes along the highway waved gaily. Five of the marchers are members of the Congress of Racial Equality and five belong to the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. Robert Gore, 31, a member of Core, led the march most of the way. He carried a sign which said "Equal Rights to All—Mississippi or Bust" on one side and "Eat at Joe's—Black and White" on the other side. Moore was carrying a similar sign when he was killed at Attalla. A white grocer, Floyd Simpson, was charged with murder earlier this week in the slaying of Moore, also white. James A. Dombroski of New Orleans, executive director of the Southern Conference Educational Fund Inc., sent a telegram to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama calling on him to "protect the rights" of the eight Negroes arrested near Attalla.

PLEA TO GOVERNOR
Dombroski described the arrest of the eight as a "tragic miscarriage of justice" and urged the Alabama governor "to use your good offices to secure the release of the young idealists whose forthright witness to conscience will be remembered long after their jailers are forgotten." Earlier Al Lingo, Alabama Safety Director, said the marchers from Chattanooga would be arrested and charged with disturbing the peace in his state. They expect to reach the Alabama state line sometime Friday or early Saturday.

TO CHANGE RESIDENCE Nixon Will Join New York Law Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today he is joining a New York law firm and will change his residence from California to New York City on June 1. The Republican announced his plans in a statement issued from his suite in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. He did not meet the press personally and there was no elaboration. The statement gave no indication of whether Nixon has any plans for a political career in New York. New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has been mentioned prominently as a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination next year. Nixon was defeated for the presidency in 1960 and for the governorship of California last year. Nixon's statement, issued by an aide, said: "On June 1, 1963, I shall move my residence to New York City and shall become counsel to the firm of Mudge, Stern, Baldwin & Todd. After I have met the six-month residence requirement of the New York law I shall apply for admission to the New York bar. When admitted to the bar, I shall become a general partner in the firm. Pending my admission to the New York bar, I shall engage principally in matters relating to the Washington and Paris offices of the firm." The aide said Nixon would have no further statement and did not plan an interview. Nixon's statement followed a television report that he planned to move to New York. Earlier, Walter Cronkite said on his Columbia Broadcasting System news program that Nixon would join the law firm of Mudge, Stern, Baldwin and Todd and that a realty firm had been asked to find a New York home for Nixon and his family. The law firm had no immediate comment. Nixon told newsmen he had dinner Wednesday night with William P. Rogers, the former attorney general, and then smilingly noted that Rogers was associated with a New York law firm. The firm is Royall, Koegel & Rogers. He denied, however, that he had any intention of using New York as a political base. "As for using New York as a political base or intersecting myself into local politics, you may quote me as saying emphatically it is not so," Nixon said.

Integrationists On 2nd Leg Of March

TRENTON, Ga. (AP)—A group of "Freedom Marchers" sets out today on the second leg of a walk through the Deep South as a protest to segregation. The marchers drew jeers and insults their first day out. They are retracing the steps of Baltimore postman William Moore, who was shot to death near Attalla, Ala., April 24. The group faces probable arrest in Alabama. OTHERS HALTED Eight Negroes who planned a similar demonstration from Attalla were arrested Wednesday and charged with breach of the peace. They are being held in jail at Gadsden, Ala. ## Stock Market Rises Slightly

NEW YORK (AP)—Strength in selected issues gave the stock market a slight rise early this afternoon in moderately active trading. Gains of most key stocks were fractional. Many were unchanged. The major steelmakers showed scarcely any price movement despite Crucible Steel's decision not to follow along on price boosts for certain specialty steels. Motors were narrowly mixed. Oils and rails moved ahead on balance. The market had a mixed opening but gradually edged to the upside as the session wore on. The news background continued encouraging and included plans of auto builders to build close to a record monthly total of cars this month. A drop of construction expenditures in April, however, was on the discouraging side. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 6 at 27.8, with industrials up 1.1, rails up 4, and utilities up 2.

Idea Of A National Lottery Pushed By N.Y. Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — To Rep. Paul A. Fino, there's only one way to cut taxes, reduce the national debt, and still have enough money for schools, housing, disabled veterans, and health care: Adopt a national lottery.

But thus far the New York Republican's one-man fight—he calls himself the No. 1 advocate of a national lottery—has been stymied by what he calls hypocrisy and pussyfooting by Congress.

Fino, however, is a determined man and this week's signing of a state lottery bill by Gov. John N. King of New Hampshire has reinforced that determination.

"It breaks the ice in this country," Fino said in an interview. "There's no question that the New Hampshire action will have a tremendous impact on members of Congress. It will provide impetus for Congress to take a second look at the national lottery bill."

The lottery bug first bit Fino in 1953—the year the St. John's University Debating Society with Fino as one of its members argued this question: "Shall we have a municipal lottery?"

When Fino was elected to the New York State Senate after World War II, he spent six years arguing unsuccessfully what he felt were the merits of a state lottery.

He introduced his first national lottery bill in 1953, the year he came to Congress. He has introduced similar bills every two years since.

"It's only a question of time before the government does something about it," Fino said. "The New Hampshire action is the catalyst that will get this thing going."

Fino contends a lottery would be the easy and painless way to raise $10 billion in additional revenue yearly because it would feed on the natural gambling urge of the American people.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee where revenue bills are sent after introduction, has asked the Treasury Department for its lottery views.

Fino said, however, that the Treasury previously had rejected it on grounds the American people are unsympathetic and it would be an unsuitable substitute for taxes.

Ah? A Cool Day In May

By The Associated Press
Unseasonable cool weather, with light snow in some areas, chilled much of the eastern third of the nation today but a warming trend appeared on the way.

Brisk northerly winds fanned cool air from eastern Pennsylvania northward into New England. Snow fell in scattered sections of Pennsylvania and Vermont. Rain ended in eastern Maine as the storm that spread from the Midwest moved out to the Atlantic. Clear weather was reported in most other sections in the eastern half of the nation.

Freezing weather was confined to isolated areas from Ohio and West Virginia northward through mountain areas. The 30s prevailed in the northern Appalachians with the 40s in most other parts of the Northeast and the east central states southward to southern Georgia.

Temperatures in the Midwest moderated after Wednesday's cold.

Cloudy and wet weather covered wide areas in the western half of the country. Fairly heavy rain fell along the northern Pacific coastal region while showers dampened the northern and central Rockies and in sections of the Dakotas and Nebraska. Snow fell in higher elevations in the Rockies.

Tornado winds hit the Roswell, N.M., area during a severe thunderstorm Wednesday as a line of thunderstorms rumbled across western sections of the Plains. The storms broke out with the arrival of warm air from the Gulf northward through the Plains states.

Tornado winds also struck near Wray, Colo., and telephone poles and lines for a half-mile stretch along a rural road were splintered and torn. Sheriff Ernest L. Price said a tornado apparently hit the area, which is 10 miles west of the Kansas border and 166 miles east of Denver.

Two Allowed To Plead To Lesser DWI Charges

Two defendants charged with DWI second offense, whose cases were slated to be laid before the grand jury Wednesday, were permitted to plead guilty to lesser complaint of DWI in Howard County Court.

George A. Prescott was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and to serve 30 days in jail. He was given credit for the time served—said to be about equal to the jail sentence.

Loyce Todd, brought before Judge Lee Porter, announced to the obvious surprise of Wayne Burns, county attorney, that he pleaded "not guilty." Burns told him if this was his desire, that the matter would have to be replaced before the grand jury for their consideration and decision.

Todd later changed his mind and asked if he could enter a plea of guilty. Told he might do so, he was fined $150, costs in the case and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail.

Graham Says He's Not Interested

MONTREUX, Switzerland (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said today he is not interested in any political office.

Graham was commenting on a report by the Dallas Times Herald that oil millionaire H. L. Hunt is thinking of supporting him for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. Hunt later said he did not favor anyone for the nomination and said it wasn't likely the evangelist has political ambitions.

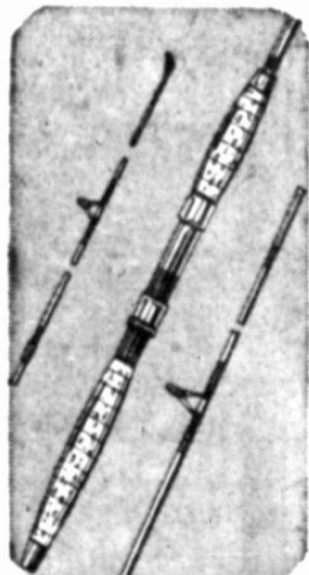

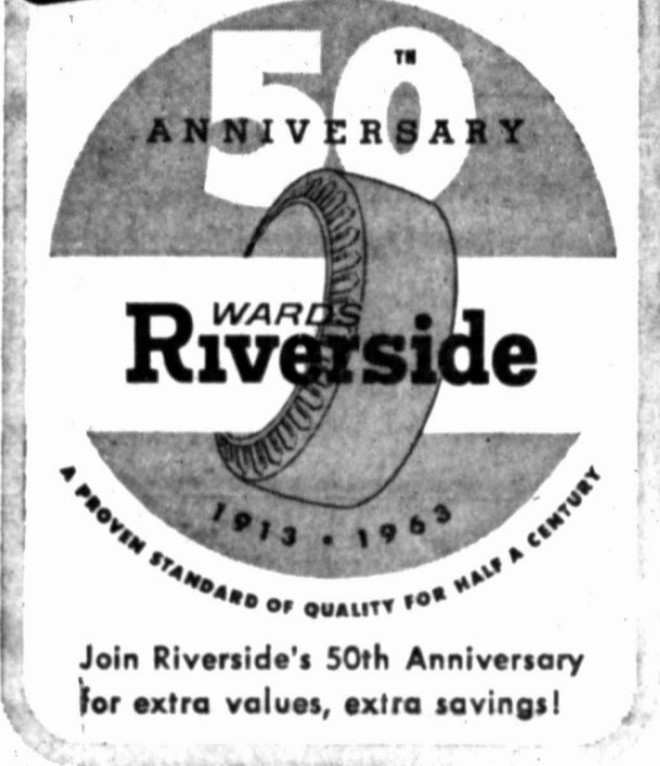

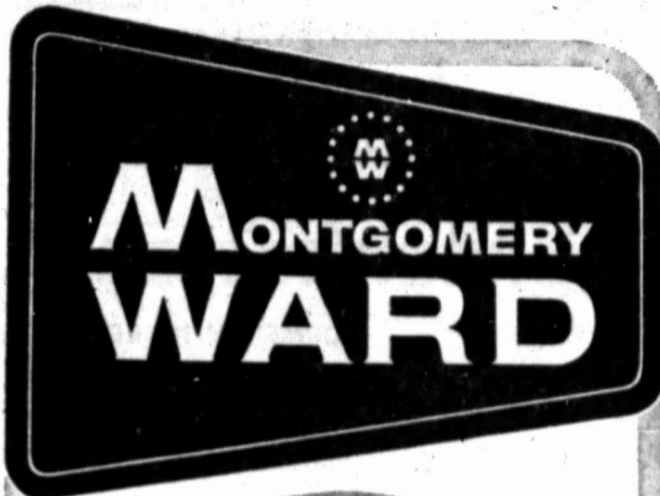

"I have a much bigger job as preacher of the Gospel as long as the Lord gives me breath," Graham is here for the wedding Friday of his daughter Virginia to Stephan Tchividjian, son of a Swiss financier.

Hunt Says He Is Backing Nobody

DALLAS (AP)—H. L. Hunt, multimillionaire oilman, said Wednesday he currently does not favor anybody as a candidate for president in 1964.

Hunt made the statement following published reports that he was interested in supporting evangelist Billy Graham for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

The bidding:

South West North East
 1NT Pass 6NT Pass
 Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♣

The key to successful defense often hinges on a simple analysis of the information presented during the auction. By counting out declarer's holding on the basis of his opening bid, West in today's hand was able to contrive a plan that lured South to his downfall.

North and South reached their small slam in no trump on a straightforward addition of their high card assets, and West opened fire with the ten of clubs. Declarer could count 11 top tricks as soon as the ace of diamonds was disclosed. There were three prospects for a 12th: (1) If East has the ace of diamonds, repeated diamond leads from dummy will force him to play it before South releases any of his honor cards in the suit; (2) If diamonds break three-three, declarer's long diamond will set up; (3) If all else fails, South can fall back on a fi-ness for the queen of hearts.

In order to test his prospects in the proper sequence, South won the opening club lead in dummy in order to play a diamond. The queen was put up from the closed hand, and West followed without undue delay with the four of diamonds. The North hand was reentered with a spade in order to play another diamond. South played the king this time and West once more permitted declarer to win the trick.

Inasmuch as the ace of diamonds was apparently located in the East hand, declarer crossed to the dummy again and led another diamond in order to set up the fulfilling trick. When East showed out, the true situation was of course revealed but, unfortunately for poor South, it was too late for him to do anything about it. West withheld his ace of diamonds no longer, and he hastened to cash out the setting trick in that suit.

What inspired West to defend in this adroit manner? By merely adding his six high card points to the dummy's revealed 18, he could readily determine that South required every one of the missing 16 points to justify his one no trump bid. This meant, of course, that, if two diamond tricks were not sufficient to swell declarer's total to the required 12, a tailor made heart finesse was available to him. In order to steer his opponent away from a play that was bound to succeed, West had, of necessity, to paint a false picture in the diamond suit. His success was well deserved.

Hoffa Looks Beyond U. S. For Teamster's Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa says he doesn't want to confine himself to the United States in his efforts to increase the effectiveness of the Teamsters Union.

He wants European unions to agree not to handle shipments that might affect a Teamsters strike in return for a similar pledge by the Teamsters, he told the House Merchant Marine Committee Wednesday.

Hoffa made the comment in response to a question and did not elaborate on it. A Teamsters official said later no such agreements are being actively pursued at the moment.

It was a new role for Hoffa, who is usually defending himself or his union against some charge when he comes before a congressional committee. This time the committee just wanted to get his views on labor legislation. And it did.

On strikes—"Strikes aren't the worst thing in the world. They let off steam and bring about understanding. When management brings in scabs and breaks a strike you don't hear anyone calling for legislation. But as soon as a strike is successful everybody gets in the act."

On compulsory arbitration: "You can't make people do something they don't want to do. You can't contain the spirit of people by writing laws."

On cooling-off periods before a strike can be called: "They're of no value. We just use them to stimulate the men so they'll take the same action later. And we make the increases retroactive, anyway."

Hoffa read a prepared statement expressing the Teamsters Union's abhorrence of compulsory arbitration then was questioned at length by committee members. Some of the exchanges:

Q. Do you have a complete belief in our free enterprise system?

A. One thousand per cent.

Q. Could the government run the trucks and railroads in an emergency?

A. I don't think they can run anything.

NO DIFFERENCE

Q. Would you be influenced by public opinion in a long strike?

A. Not one way or the other.

Q. The rice millers say they lost $10 million because of the dock strike last December and January. Is that an emergency?

A. Suppose some people lose money? What they want is a law that will let them continue to pay wages a man can't live on. And as soon as the growing season is over the workers are laid off. They suffer a lot more than the millers.

Q. Did you know that in New Orleans they had to get a court order to unload perishable cargo?

A. If they had spent as much time talking to the union they probably could have gotten an agreement to unload it. But that's not the way they do things in New Orleans. You can always get a court order for anything anti-union there.

Q. What would you consider a national emergency?

A. A war. That's the only reason there should be no strikes.

NOT INVOLVED

Q. When does a strike affect the national economy?

A. The national economy's not involved in any strike, only an industry. When Ford or General Motors change models and lay off thousands that affects the national economy more than any strike. Low wages affect the national economy, not strikes.

Q. Would you ever call a nationwide trucking strike?

A. Never, because we couldn't win it. We'd never strike more than half because we know the competitive nature of transportation. That's why we've been able to make our strikes work. Because we know this business.

DID HIS BEST TO PREVENT A BIG STINK

The animal warden did his best to prevent stirring up a stink. He was only partially successful.

A Northside resident called him to capture a skunk, which was under her house. Tussling with the creature in close quarters did not appeal to him, so the warden asked her to call back when the skunk came out.

She called back, the warden visited the house again, but still the skunk was secure under the house.

On the third call, the skunk had crawled out and the warden, with the help of a policeman, captured him with no mishaps. But the resident was still mad because the warden didn't crawl under the house in the first place.

'Mental Health' Shows Questioned

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—During the current television season, there has been one hour-long dramatic program, "11th Hour," focusing on the problems of mental illness and the mentally ill, but all of the medical shows have frequently moved into that area.

Next season, there will be a second entertainment program about psychiatry, "Breaking Point," and if that is popular with audiences, there will undoubtedly be others by 1965. Meanwhile, there is real concern about this "entertainment" treatment of the delicate subject, particularly among psychiatrists and psychologists.

Last month broadcasting representatives met with mental health professionals for two days at West Point, N.Y. to try to find a way to eliminate some trouble spots.

Dr. William Menninger, keynote speaker at the sessions, perhaps summed up best psychiatry's fears about the effect of these shows.

"The public must be led to see mental illness in its true light, as an illness," he said in part. "And the mentally ill as sick people in need of help—not as some kind of strange, weird persons."

"To portray the mentally sick person as characteristically violent or dangerous is wrong; and to portray the psychiatrist as a person who can cure mental illness in some quick, magic way is also wrong."

On the other hand, there is the problem of the people who must provide dramatic entertainment. Drama, even drama about psychiatry, must have action, conflict, a beginning—and an upbeat ending. After all, it is commercial television.

Perhaps the oil-and-water qualities of the two are what led another speaker, William Dozier of Screen Gems, to suggest that the answer lies in producing "less, not more, television programs on the subject of mental health."

He criticized "splashing the television spectrum with ill-defined ailments and facile remedies" in shows "conceived primarily for dramatic and audience-getting effectiveness."

His answer to the problem was, rather than entertainment shows, documentaries and actuality programs dealing with the subject on a professional level.

Meanwhile, producers of all the medical programs including "11th Hour," work with physicians and specialists in an effort to make the detail authentic. But even so, it is often—nay, usually—necessary to use dramatic license. The conference was a beginning, and no conclusions were reached.

CBS has Peter Ustinov and Anthony Quinn for a special dramatic special next season, a play adapted by Ustinov from a short story by Ustinov, to be directed by Ustinov.

Pat Carroll will appear in about 19 "Danny Thomas Show" episodes next season.

Recommended tonight: "The Voice of Charlie Post" ABC 10-11 (Eastern Daylight Time)—repeat of a Premier Theatre episode, candidate for an Emmy award.

BUILDING or BUYING A NEW HOME?

YOU'LL WANT TO KNOW ABOUT THE ADVANTAGES OF A FLAMELESS ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

There's no better time than right now—while you're planning your new home—to discover the wonderful benefits of a flameless quick recovery electric water heater. Besides the dependable hot water supply you'll get, here are other reasons you'll be glad you chose electric:

FAST—High-speed electric heating elements are immersed in the water, heating it and not the tank. The tank is insulated all around—including the bottom—to prevent heat loss.

SAFE—Flameless electric water heating gives you peace of mind. No flame to blow out, no pilot light to worry about.

CLEAN—No by-products of combustion. No unpleasant fumes. No flue to accumulate soot. An electric water heater is as clean as an electric light.

SILENT—No annoying start-up or shut-off sounds. No noise at all while water is being heated. A flameless electric water heater is completely silent and carefree.

INSTALLS ALMOST ANYWHERE—Because a flameless electric water heater needs no flue, it can be installed almost anywhere in the house, close to the point of greatest use. This saves long pipe runs and waste due to water cooling in the pipes.

Dr. Bishop To Be Recognized

PLAINVIEW — Dr. J. Ivy Iyioy Bishop, professor of religion at Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, will be singled out for recognition at the 75th anniversary luncheon of the Women's Missionary Union May 6 at Kansas City. Recognition will be accorded Dr. Bishop for his service to the WMU in promoting Royal Ambasador work from 1943-53. He is the only man ever employed by the Baptist women's organization for promotional work. The WMU was responsible for RA promotion before the boys program was taken over by the Baptist Brotherhood. He wrote the "Guide for Counselors of RA Chapters." He was founder-editor of Ambassador Life and began the camping program for Young Men's Mission Conference for boys 15 and older.

Birth Control Plan Stirs No Imitations

CHICAGO (AP)—The new Illinois program of birth control aid for relief recipients has attracted nationwide attention—but, thus far, has produced no imitation.

The Illinois program is operated by the Illinois Public Aid Commission. Any woman on relief who has a husband or child can apply for a physician's advice on the rhythm method or prescriptions for contraceptive preparations or devices, with the bills to be paid with public cash.

The system went into operation April 1. During the first two weeks at least 25 women applied. The Illinois plan has been attacked, especially by Roman Catholics, on grounds that it would give contraceptives to mothers who are unmarried or separated from their husbands.

PARING COSTS
The Illinois program is aimed at paring rising costs. About 425,000 persons are receiving some form of public assistance. The Illinois commission is seeking $700 million for the next two years.

A bill for an Illinois-type program has been offered in Wisconsin by State Sen. Davis Donnelly, a Democrat from Eau Claire. He stated: "Eventually we've got to come to something like this in all states."

WHERE'S THE END?
Sen. Weingand has noted that California is contributing about $80 million to the Aid to Needy Children program during the current fiscal year and that the contribution may rise to almost $95 million next year.

An Associated Press survey also shows there is some participation by one level of government or another in scattered birth control programs. They are relatively small. Most of them are concerned with protecting health, not reducing future welfare rolls.

Teams From 13 States Enter National Meet

Teams in the 1963 National Junior College Track and Field meet, scheduled to be staged here May 17-18, will come from at least 13 states.

Teams in the meet while Kansas will have nine, Oklahoma, Colorado and Michigan three each, Nebraska two and Arizona, Utah, Missouri, Florida, Wyoming, Idaho and Oregon one each.

This will be the third straight year Big Spring has hosted the show. Co-sponsors are the American Business Club, which will furnish the personnel to run the meet, and Howard County Junior College.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

WITH TOMMY HART

Promoters of the $15,000 Odessa Pro-Am Golf tournament say it costs them $40,000 to stage their meet. Sunny Edwards, once of Our Town and now of Ruidoso, N.M., will team with Odessa's Tommy Tucker in the Odessa meet. Another player at Odessa will be T. A. Avarelio of Fort Worth, who competed in the Big Spring Invitational last September.

JIM CORBETT

Ossie Alvarez, very popular when he played second base for the Big Spring Longhorns league entry, went to hit 500 times for the Mexico City Reds in the Mexican baseball league last season.

He wound up hitting .292. Ossie scored 90 runs over the year. Only five players in the league denied the plate more times. Only Ronaldo Camacho of Puebla played in more games than Alvarez—129 to Ossie's 128.

Max Schmeling probably was right when he remarked recently that "they don't make fighters like they used to." Max was suggesting that today's fisticuffs don't want to pay the price in reaching peak condition.

Consider Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons, who once made the famed remark "The bigger they are, the 'arder they fall." His specialty was chopping down with his fists men who outweighed him by 30 to 140 pounds.

At 157 pounds he was the lightest man ever to win the world heavyweight boxing championship in the gloved Marquis of Queensberry era.

He was the first man to gain crowns in three weight divisions—Henry Armstrong turned the trick later. He didn't win the lightweight title until he had reached the age of 41.

Fitz's disgruntled opponents referred to him as a freckled freak—and he might have been that. He stood just short of six feet tall, with the shoulders and upper body of a giant and the spindly legs of a sandhill crane. His cast-iron tough, skinny arms were inches longer than those of the ordinary man, giving him a tremendous advantage in reach.

However, he didn't stand back and pick off opponents as they waded in. Instead, he was usually on the attack. Ruby Robert once kept a young lion, with which he wrestled. The lion couldn't take the rough treatment when he departed this mortal coil. Fitz had the skin stuffed. He kept it in his home.

Fitzsimmons was a Cornishman, born in England in 1862. His family moved to New Zealand and he did his first boxing there and in Australia. He didn't arrive in the United States until he was 27.

He was a complete unknown but he made such progress that within eight months he was matched with the middleweight champion, Jack Dempsey (the non pareil), not to be confused with the heavy-weight great of a later era. The fight was all Fitzsimmons' and he scored a knockout in the 13th round.

Fitzsimmons never did lose the 160-pound championship but vacated it four years later to compete in the heavier classes.

There was some doubt at the time about who the heavy-weight champion was. Jim Corbett had "deeded" the title to one Peter Maher.

Fitzsimmons was matched with Maher in Texas but the state had anti-boxing laws so they fought across the Mexican border Feb. 21, 1896.

In the early moments, Fitz looked like a rank novice against Maher but his approach was a pose. Entirely deceived, Maher stepped in to finish off his foe. Fitzsimmons swung a hard uppercut and hit Maher so hard that Peter struck the floor flat and bounced into a sitting position. There he remained, shaking as if with palsy, until he was counted out.

Corbett wouldn't stay retired. He had a low regard of Fitzsimmons' talents and once spat in Robert's eye, when the two met by chance in a New York hotel. When they were finally matched at Carson City, Nevada, March 17, 1897, Corbett refused to shake his opponent's hand.

Corbett proved no match for the Cornishman. Fitzsimmons delivered a 14th knockout blow that became famous as a "solar plexus punch." Corbett clamored for a rematch before he left the ring but Fitz would have none of it.

"If you don't fight me, I'll lick you every time we meet on the street," Corbett shouted.

"If you ever lay a hand on me outside the prize ring," Ruby Robert shot back, "I'll kill you." He meant it, too.

Fitzsimmons retired from boxing two years but couldn't stay retired. He staged a comeback against Jim Jeffries, who outweighed him 50 pounds, and dominated the early action, only to lose via a knockout in the 12th. Still later, Fitz knocked out one Ed Dunkhorst, who outweighed him 140 pounds. The fight lasted only two rounds.

Fitz fought his last bout in 1914 at the age of 51. His ring career spanned 33 years, a length exceeded only by Daniel Mendoza, a bare knuckle fighter who retired in 1820.

Most Traded Players Are Faring Poorly

NEW YORK (AP)—Traded players have proved one thing during the first month of the major league baseball season—why they were traded.

Except for a handful, such as Luis Aparicio and Al Smith of Baltimore, Larry Jackson of the Chicago Cubs, Bob Miller of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Don Nottebart of Houston, Don Leppert of Washington, and Dick Groat and George Altman of St. Louis, players who were swapped last winter have not distinguished themselves.

Pete Runnels, for example, is batting .210 with Houston. He led the American League last year, hitting .326 with Boston. Bill Skowron, the slugger traded by the Yankees to the Dodgers, is hitting .228 with only one home run.

Roman Mejias, who went to the Red Sox in the Runnels trade, is batting a microscopic .136. Dick Stuart, the Pittsburgh slugger swapped to Boston, is at .254. Joe Adcock, dealt by Milwaukee to Cleveland, is hitting .222. Duke Snider, ex-Dodger with the New York Mets, is at .190.

Ron Hansen, the new White Sox shortstop who figured prominently in the multiple player swap between Baltimore and Chicago, is at .228 after a big night Wednesday. Dave Nicholson and rookie Pete Ward, who accompanied Hansen in the deal, are at .207 and .220, respectively.

Aparicio and Smith, the key new Orioles in that major trade, are doing very well indeed. Aparicio is batting .307 and leads the American League with six stolen bases. Smith is doing even better at .338. Groat, obtained from Pittsburgh, and Altman, obtained from the Cubs, have had a lot to do with the Cards' fine showing. Altman is hitting .368. Groat is at .353 and doing his usual job at shortstop.

Leppert, an ex-pirater, is the leading Washington hitter with a .340 average. Four homers and 11 runs batted in.

Except for Jackson, Nottebart and Miller, the traded pitchers seem to be faring just as poorly as the majority of traded hitters. Jackson is 3-2 with a 2.00 earned run average with the Cubs, and Miller is 2-1 with an under 2.00 ERA with the Dodgers. Nottebart is 3-0 with Houston. But Bob Turley is 0-3 with the Angels, Tracy Stallard 0-3 with the Mets, Don Cardwell 1-2 at Pittsburgh, and Jack Fisher 1-2 with San Francisco.

Of the 20 pitchers traded during the winter, only Jackson, Miller and Nottebart have won more than one game.

Belinsky Handcuffs New Yorkers, 5-3

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bo Belinsky, the Los Angeles left-hander finished what he started for the first time this season Wednesday night, limiting the New York Yankees to four hits while George Thomas hit a grand slam homer that gave the Angels a 5-3 victory over the world champions.

Belinsky pitched probably his finest game since his no-hitter against Baltimore last May 5. He allowed the Yankees' first hit when Roger Maris singled with one out in the fifth and ran into serious trouble only in the ninth when the Yankees scored their third run on a walk and singles by Harry Bright and Tony Kubek. Then he avoided a photo-finish by getting Jack Reed to ground out for the final out.

Orlando Pena's four-hit pitching and a 15-hit Kansas City attack subdued Cleveland 11-3 and kept the A's in first place.

Tom Cheney struck out 12 and allowed only seven hits as Washington downed Detroit 4-1 while Ray Herbert started Chicago off to a doubleheader sweep over Baltimore with a 7-0 four-hit first game job. The White Sox took the nightcap 6-4. Boston walloped Minnesota 14-5 to round out the schedule.

George Thomas took care of Yankee starter Ralph Terry, now 3-2, in the first inning when he tagged his grand slam following singles by Billy Moran, Lee Thomas and Leon Wagner.

The Indians' runs came on homers by John Romano in the eighth and Joe Adcock in the ninth. Wayne Causey led the Kansas City attack with three hits, one a homer off loser Gary Bell.

The Tigers got the first earned run off Cheney this season on Gus Triandos' run-producing double in the sixth. Cheney's batterymate, Don Leppert, provided the key hits for the Senators with a homer in the second and a double that snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh.

Herbert retired 15 Orioles in order. The White Sox knocked Robin Roberts out in a two-run sixth in the nightcap, moving ahead 4-2 on Floyd Robinson's homer and a squeeze bunt by Sherm Lollar.

Chuck Schilling hit a two-run homer as the second-place Red Sox lashed 16 hits against Twins' starter Jack Krackie and five relievers. Eddie Bressoud also homered for Boston. Earl Wilson got credit for the victory.

McArdle's victory, which came after Canada's Don Bertola triumph and Venezuela's Rafael Romero Sandres won the 200-meter in a photo finish, ruined Suarez' bid for a third successive Pan-Am crown.

McArdle's clocking of 29 minutes, 52.1 seconds broke the Pan-Am record of 30:17.2 set by Suarez in Chicago in 1959.

Decathlon winner Martin, poker-faced former pole-vault champion from the University of Oklahoma, used his specialty to wrap up the grueling, two-day, 10-event contest.

Martin collected 1,122 vital points by clearing 14 feet, 11 1/2 inches, and wrecked the bid of the first day leader, Venezuela's Hector Martinez, and Canadian champion, Doug Gardner.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The search for desert gold—actually $60,000 in silver money—begins today when 27 selected golfers set forth in the first round of the Tournament of Champions.

This is the 11th annual tournament and the roll is studied with top names, all of whom qualified for the winner's purse of $13,000 by winning one or more major PGA tournaments in the past 12 months.

Never shy at placing a betting price on any sporting attraction, the Las Vegas chance takers agree on one point: Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer are the favorites—at odds of 4-1.

Matson Poised For State Meet

By JACK KEEVER
AUSTIN (AP)—Texas schoolboys are primed for an assault on track and field records at the annual University Interscholastic League state meet here Friday and Saturday.

Of the 14 overall records, regardless of class, three appear in real danger and seven more could fall.

Four appear safe, season records indicate.

A certain record-breaker seems to be the Pampa giant, Randy Matson, who has dominated the shot put and discus in every meet he's entered this year. Matson has hurled the discus 199-4 this year, almost 15 feet farther than his record toss in the 1962 state meet. His season best of 66-7 in the shot put is two feet farther than he heaved it last year for a record.

The third record that could fall is in the 880-yard run where Austin's John Moss has a 1:53.8, one second above the overall record set by Lamesa's Gene Westmoreland in 1962.

Events where this year's entries have at least a shot at the UIL records are in both relays, the 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, the mile run and the broad jump.

The best time for the 440 relay is 41.5 by Andrews in 1960, while Odessa Permian has this year's low, a 42.0. Dallas Thomas Jefferson set the other relay record, in the mile, with a 3:16.1 last year. The best time in that event this year is Dallas Hillcrest's 3:18.0.

Charles Mitchell of Childress has done 9.5 in the 100 and could challenge the record of 9.4 set last year by Baytown's Don Parkhurst. Hillcrest's Marshall Edwards also could top Eddie Southem's great 47.2 for the 440, a record set in 1955. Edwards has a 47.7, while Steve Langham of Thomas Jefferson has a 47.8.

Even the oldest UIL record, a 20.5 220 by Olton's J. Frank Daugherty in 1953 is in trouble if Dallas Sunset's James White

Martin Wins Decathlon

SAO PAULO, Brazil. (AP)—Only Yankee strategy which sprung loose a balding, Irish-bred mite, and a high-flying Sooner with iron muscles kept American track men from a Black Wednesday disaster in the Pan-American Games.

Amidst explosion of four Pan-Am records in five men's events contested Wednesday, 5-foot-8, 125-pound Pete McArdle, a 34-year-old New York mechanic, soundly trounced Argentina's defending 10,000-meter champion, Osvaldo Suarez, and Oklahoma's 'J. D. Martin won the decathlon in record-breaking style.

Otherwise, the Yankees were belted out of the gold medal picture in three of their specialties—the 200-meter sprint, 800-meter run and the 400-meter hurdles—by a Venezuelan, a Canadian and an Argentine.

The track and field forces rested today, awaiting the final 10 men's and four women's events Friday and Saturday. Despite Wednesday's reverses, the big Yankee all-sports battalion counted a whopping total of 76 gold medals with a lot more to come.

McArdle's victory, which came after Canada's Don Bertola triumph and Venezuela's Rafael Romero Sandres won the 200-meter in a photo finish, ruined Suarez' bid for a third successive Pan-Am crown.

Dodgers Routed By Vets, 15-1

The Dodgers were routed, 15-1, by the VFW in National Little League play here Wednesday night.

The Vets collected a total of ten hits, including three by David Wagner.

The Dodgers were limited to a solitary hit by two VFW pitchers. That safety occurred one out deep in the final inning.

Hospital Plans Are Expanded

DALLAS — There is a small, dedicated spot in Dallas that has changed the lives of nearly 25,000 youngsters from nearly every community in the state—and now it discloses new plans to do more.

This is the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, which has helped that many children since it opened its doors 40 years ago. President is John McKee, prominent civic and business leader.

Some of the energies which for years went into the rescue of polio victims are now being put into studies of congenital malformations or birth defects. Hospital officials announce that several new case studies have been begun this year that may help shed light on why some 6,000 Texas babies every year are born with defects.

Doctors are continuing their work in rehabilitating children who have been crippled by one or more of hundreds of different birth defects and diseases. Treatment is free to all who are admitted.

Nuclear Center

PARIS (AP)—The semi-official French News Agency, in a dispatch from Papeete, Tahiti, today quoted a Gen. Thiry, the head of a French civil-military mission, as saying a nuclear test center will be located on Mururoa Atoll, near Tahiti.

He said it will be functioning in three years. The Tahiti group of islands is part of French Polynesia and is about 5,000 miles northeast of New Zealand.

Rotarians To Attend Assembly

Big Spring Rotarians will participate today in the assembly of District No. 573 at the First Methodist Church in Littlefield.

Heading the group is Ben Johnson, president, and others are Leon M. Kinney, J. B. Apple, the Rev. Don Hungerford, Ralph McLaughlin and Dick Reams.

Johnson is in charge of the international service section. Purpose of the assembly, which follows on the heels of the recent district conference in Shamrock, is to instruct officers of Rotary Clubs in the four areas of service: club, community, vocational and international service.

The Beauty Pageant's Not Such A Bugaboo

It's that time of year again. Time, that is, for attempting to convince local beauties that the annual Miss Big Spring Pageant isn't all that frightful.

Each year, the sponsoring Jaycees encounter difficulty in signing up enough contestants to make the pageant into a truly enjoyable show. This is particularly true of the senior division. Experience has shown prospective contestants to shy away for these principal reasons:

1. A natural coyness, a convince-me-and-win-me sort of attitude, that's been around since Old Adam's better half found her Garden repossessed.

2. Frightful imagery in the minds of the potential entrants of the sheer horror of walking out in front of all those people—which is plain old-fashioned stage fright.

3. A professed conviction by the prospect that she lacks the face and figure even to qualify, much less win, place or show—generally, the more attractive the girl, the more vehement her doubtful doubting.

4. A seemingly honest conviction by the prospect that she has no talent, since she can't sing or dance with professional aplomb. Talent, to be demonstrated on stage during the pageant, counts heavily in judging the winners.

OTHER REASONS
In addition to the above, the girls give various other reasons—many of them personal and therefore understandable. Also, there is a tremendous amount of rationalizing on the part of girls who are fearful and don't want to admit it.

One of the more subtle reasons for hanging back, one often unknown to the girl herself, is a fear of losing. Aside from the personal category, none of the above reasons can be justified by the facts. The personal category might include such items as objection to appearing onstage in a swim suit, conflicting schedules, or, as one girl put it last year: "I just plain don't want to be in your ol' pageant."

THE ANSWERS
The usual objections may be countered thusly:
1. This is not a situation in which to be coy—either one signs for the pageant or one doesn't. The pageant is not a screen test.

2. Stage fright afflicts everybody, it can be unlearned only by experience, and—take it from those who have participated in previous pageants—walking onstage is an excellent way of dispelling those nasty fears.

3. Some girls are not physically attractive, but in this day of hair styling, makeup, and whalebone, almost everyone can be attractive. It is not necessarily the winning that brings the greatest rewards for contestants; most in the past have learned gracefulness and poise through the experience which enhances their attractiveness, even if they did not bring down a title.

4. Talent, or the claim of lack thereof, is such a big bugaboo mainly because most prospective contestants think of talent as the show business type—some form of singing or dancing or related activity. That this is not true is shown in the roster of winners, whose talents have included sewing, cooking, horseback riding, dress design, modeling, art, mathematics—just about everything but the show business type of talent. The latter is not excluded, but judges see too much on movie and TV screens to be impressed with show business talents unless they are really outstanding.

IT'S PROPER
Under the personal heading, some girls refuse not because of any scruples they can pin down but from a vague disquiet about the propriety of a beauty pageant, especially the swim suit parade. The local pageant is a part of the Miss America contest, and both are extremely rigid in keeping out noisome elements. Every effort is made to keep the annual competition on the highest possible plane. Those who simply do not appear in public in short attire have made their choice, but for others there need be no fears as to propriety.

That's about it for this year. So, if you qualify, now is the time to rush right down to see Jack Orr at the First National Bank or Edith Gay, at the Chamber of Commerce, for an entry blank.

'Evil Land' Is Now Setting For Religious Film

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
PYRAMID LAKE, Nev. (AP)—The Paiute Indians have a name for it—Evil Land.

Nothing but the scrubbiest of brush grows here. The flat desert land slopes gently to the placid, deep-blue lake. The plainness of the landscape is relieved by dramatic outcroppings of rock and bulbous monuments created by eons of mineral springs.

George Stevens chose this barren place to depict ancient Capernaum beside the Sea of Galilee. Here he is nearing the end of filming what is planned as his masterpiece, "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

It will be the most expensive film ever made entirely in the United States. The projected cost was $10 million; the finished product may double that.

SMALL CITY

A small city has been erected on this dismal plain. Three hundred film workers are housed in luxury trailers, rented from an Air Force contractor in Idaho, and in aluminum-sided shacks, built from the floor up.

Huge tents contain the mess hall—the food is well above average for film locations—wardrobe and makeup departments and theater.

The logistics of the operation are enormous. Everything has been planned, from the ancient (fiber-glassed) boats that line the shore to the piles of fish (plastic) drying on rocks. Weathered gates and temples were built next to the lake, blending amazingly into the landscape. A menagerie of biblical animals has been assembled.

The logistics of the human actors is more complex. Max Von Sydow, who plays Jesus, and the young actors who portray the apostles have been present throughout. Other performers come and go, and their availability must jibe with their own schedules.

Standing by at this location were Joseph Schildkraut, Sal Mineo and Shelley Winters. One cast problem was presented by Joanna Dunham, the English actress, who plays Mary Magdalene. The scenes of her stoning were being hurried because she is eight months pregnant.

MANY EXTRAS

Busloads of extras, some of them card dealers, are brought each morning from Reno, 50 miles away. Others are recruited from the ranks of the Paiutes, on whose reservation Pyramid Lake stands.

Churchill Announces He's Quitting Politics

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons is losing its greatest son.

After 60 years of triumph and trial in the mother of Parliaments Sir Winston Churchill announced Wednesday he is quitting politics because of his health.

The 88-year-old statesman's regretful decision evoked deep feeling of sadness throughout Britain that he felt he had to go and pride in all that he had done.

"We will never see his like again," said many.

The old war horse, slowed by age and physical decline, said he will not be a candidate in the next general election, due by October 1964. He will remain a member of Commons until Parliament is dissolved before the election.

Churchill wrote his Conservative supporters in his electoral district of Woodford that his accident last year when he fell and broke his left thigh, "greatly decreased my mobility, and it has become difficult for me to attend the House of Commons as I would wish."

"I need not tell you with what sadness I feel constrained to take this step," he said.

Churchill's 60-year career in Commons was unmatched for brilliance and achievement.

Fram a brash, outspoken striping legislator of 26, he rose to immortality in his own lifetime.

He made a shaky start, failing in his first race for Commons in 1899. He made it the next year. Except for two years in the political wilderness, when he was voted out of office in the 1920s, he has been a member of Commons ever since. Prizing himself on being a "child of the House of Commons," he declined a peerage to remain there.

His career included nearly every cabinet office except foreign secretary. The highest prize came when he was 65, on May 10, 1949. His unheeded prophecies of peril had proved correct and Britain faced defeat from the Nazis. He took over the reins of government from Neville Chamberlain and three days later, in his first speech as prime minister, offered his people "nothing but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

It was the first of the many majestic, memorable and defiant speeches that were to rally Britain and the democracies. His oratory became a war weapon. His matchless phrases passed—like much of Shakespeare—into the day-to-day language.

In 1945, with victory at hand, the British voters turned their backs on him and elected a labor government. For six years he headed the opposition. In 1951 the Conservatives were returned to office and Churchill at 77 became prime minister again. But his health was waning and in 1955 he stepped aside for Anthony Eden.

In recent years his appearances in the House have grown fewer and fewer. He last spoke there on his 87th birthday, Nov. 30, 1961. As he walked in and sank into his usual corner seat, the House rose in cheers.

The old man, deeply moved, got up and said:

"I am very grateful to you all." The Yorkshire Post suggested today a unique reward: Making Churchill the first honorary member of Parliament. The United States showed its appreciation last month by making him an honorary citizen.

Wide Rains Bring Relief

By The Associated Press

Welcome, widespread showers brought relief Thursday to sections of the state the Weather Bureau says are suffering the worst drought in nearly a half century.

Light showers dampened parts of the Rio Grande Valley, with Brownsville reporting 7.2 of an inch and McAllen .45 of an inch.

The Weather Bureau said non-irrigated lands in that area urgently needed rain for proper growth.

Late Wednesday, widespread rains, generally measuring about a quarter of an inch, fell over the South Plains. Muleshoe reported .70 of an inch and Lubbock .24.

The Weather Bureau had said the most critical areas are the Coastal Bend where cotton and sorghums are suffering from extremely dry soil and on the Plains north of the Canadian River where large acreages of dry land wheat are being abandoned.

North Central Texas, which received 4 to 7 inches of rain last weekend, was dotted with showers early in the day. Rain fell from Wichita Falls to Mineral Wells and eastward toward Fort Worth. The forecast was for widespread showers through Friday, with temperatures warming.

Violent weather in the Big Bend country late Wednesday brought 1.20 inches of rain to Marfa in 20 minutes. Marble - size hail covered the ground 2 inches deep.

"My hair is healthy and photographers have told me it was outstanding so I decided to call attention to it by going blonde. But this was a mistake because I discovered I had a brunette personality. People expected me to be a sort of life-of-the-party girl, and I didn't feel this way, so I tinted it back to my natural shade."

"I have tried wearing my hair many ways, and I have discovered the most simple hairstyle is the most difficult to achieve. It takes a master craftsman to cut hair so that it has design and shape. Never underestimate the importance of your hair cut."
"When I set my hair, I use a variety of rollers and brush it out so that it is flattering around my face. And I don't use a hair spray that coats. The spray I use is water-soluble, and it's not expensive—for sometimes the cheapest are best."

As an afterthought, Sandra said, "And don't open bobby pins with your teeth. Teen-agers have a habit

KNOTT (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gill have had as their guest her father, John Freeman, of Carlsbad, N. M.

Table Settings Are Guest Tea Feature

All the beauty of May Day was portrayed in table arranging by members of the Big Spring Garden Club when they entertained for the club and their guests at a tea in the First Federal building Wednesday afternoon.

Members of the social committee, Mrs. Norman Read, Mrs. Garner McAdams, Mrs. Granville T. Hall, Mrs. Robert Polk and Mrs. Lloyd Branon, were hostesses for the affair.

Mrs. J. E. Hogan, president, and Mrs. Allen Hamilton, vice president, greeted the guests.

Punch was served by Mrs. J. D. Elliott. The table, arranged by Mrs. Hogan and Mrs. Deila Agnell, was covered with a floor-length cloth of pink organdy. In keeping with the theme of the day an elevated May Pole with streamers of pastel satin ribbons served as the decor. The ribbons extended to small colonial arrangements of fairy miniature pink roses and deeper shades of pink with boxwood foliage. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

Other table settings displayed were one for a teen-age Coke party prepared by Mrs. Clyde Angel. She chose a drawwork casual cloth in shades of beige, brown, blue, green and gold and the napkins were of bright yellow. The focal piece was a peeled branch held in a wicker basket and based in foliage and large white daisies. From the branches hung May baskets made of straw matting and holding small white daisies, miniature snapdragons, and greenery.

Mrs. J. D. Elliott arranged a table for an informal coffee and chose to use blue as a predominant color. The blue linen cloth was a complement to the china of white with blue trim. Flowers were fashioned into a tall off-center arrangement and consisted of pale lavender and yellow iris along with columbine, yellow roses, salvia and miniature snapdragons.

A large nosegay of deep red rosebuds with a border of mock orange blossoms was used by Mrs. Hayes Stripling to center her table for a dessert bridge. At each place was a miniature nosegay, a replica of the centerpiece. The cloth was of Madeira linen and the service was crystal and silver.

Houseparty members in addition to the officers and members of the committee were Mrs. Agnell, Mrs. Stripling and Mrs. J. P. Dodge.

Mrs. Keithley Judges Piano Students Today

Adjudication of 146 piano students in this region will begin today when Mrs. J. W. Keithley of Escondido, Calif., presides at the hearings sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers. Auditions will be held through May 9 in the auditorium of Howard County Junior College.

Rhythm, accuracy, tone-quality, phrasing and pedaling are among the 32 points considered in rating piano playing. Each student plays from memory two to ten numbers and all above elementary stage are required to pass a test on scales and cadences. The auditions are conducted privately to put the students at ease.

Mrs. Keithley, a native Texan, began her career in the National Guild of Piano Teachers as an entrant in 1931 at Abilene, Texas. She received a Bachelor of Music Degree at Hardin-Simmons University, under the direction of the Dean of Music, Irl Allison, founder of the National Piano Playing Auditions. A teacher for many years, Mrs. Keithley is currently attending classes of Dr. Reginald Stewart, artist teacher at the Music Academy of the West at Santa Barbara, Calif.

Teachers whose pupils are participating in National Auditions in Big Spring are Mrs. Fred Beckham, Mrs. Chester Barnes, Miss Roberta Gay, Mrs. Nell Frazier, Mrs. Sherlene Heinze and Jack Hendrix.

MRS. J. W. KEITHLEY

Also Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, Mrs. R. L. Morris, Mrs. Wanna Tarbet, Miss Elsie Willis, and Mrs. Dick Mitchell of Garden City. Students of Mrs. R. L. Morris who are playing today are Leandra Bearden, Coye Burton, Gloria Gale, Deanna McWhirt, Patricia Poitevin, John O'Brien and Connie Randle.

Study Course On Mending Offered

For better looks and longer wear, reinforce, mend, and repair garments before they become threadbare. That's good advice anytime. But don't let garments look mended.

If you're not familiar with good mending techniques, you can find help in a correspondence course from the Pennsylvania State University. Worn trouser cuffs and knees, coat and jacket elbows, and pocket edges will look like new when correctly mended with good workmanship.

Mends described in the course may be used on fabrics of wool, cotton, or manmade fibers. Correct pressing and stain removal procedures are added features of the course.

For further information write Correspondence Courses, 202 Agricultural Education Building, University Park, Pa.

PARK MEETING

The Friendship Seven Sunday school class of the Trinity Baptist Church will meet in the city park at 6 p.m. Friday for an ice cream supper.

Date Is Changed

The Friendship Club meeting announced for May 6 at the home of Mrs. H. F. Jarrett has been postponed until May 13.

Alcohol No Respector Of Status Of Living

TORONTO (AP)—At the mention of a woman alcoholic, the image of a grubby, immoral and irresponsible woman springs to the mind of some people. This is unfortunate because this stereotype prevents many women from seeking help for their drinking problem, and often even admitting that there is a problem, says Margaret Cork, chief social worker at the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto.

The woman alcoholic comes from every social economic and cultural background. She may be the company president's wife, the middle class suburban housewife, the unmarried career girl or a criminal, but this is what so many people fail to understand.

"I often hear people say 'My wife can't be an alcoholic because she brought up our children well and the grandchildren adore her,'" says Miss Cork.

EMOTIONAL CAUSES
Today the finger is often pointed at the suburban housewife but "Women in suburbia are really no different than women in other social environments who drink, such as the woman who drinks after her husband dies or the woman who drinks after her children leave home." They are all sublimating their isolation, loneliness or other emotional problems by turning to alcohol.

Miss Cork describes the alcoholic as a person who uses alcohol consistently to the point where it begins to interfere with their marriage, their home and their work. There are very few cases of alcoholism that do not have underlying emotional factors such as anxiety and discontent.

It is an "insidious thing which creeps up on the normal healthy person," she says, because only between five and 10 per cent of alcoholics were pathologically ill when they began to use alcohol.

One of the first danger signs of alcoholism is a change in her ways of thinking.

She begins to think she needs a drink before she goes out, and decides whether or not she will attend a certain function on the basis of whether or not alcoholic beverages will be served.

Soft And Slender

Soft contours and a flattering square-cut neckline make this one of the best little sheaths in the season. No. 3230 comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 14 takes a mere 2 1/4 yards of 35-inch fabric; sleeveless, only 2 1/4 yards of 35-inch.

CHANGES HABITS
Her social habits may also begin to change. She may wish to associate only with those who drink, look down on those who do not drink and begin to withdraw from the usual things of her life. Rationalization of drinking is another danger sign.

Because the woman alcoholic tries to hide her drinking from a scornful society, her alcoholism is quite advanced when she seeks help and added to her initial emotional upset are the feelings of shame, remorse, guilt and fear resulting from social rejection. Often her illness will have progressed as long as 20 years before she will seek help, says Miss Cork.

KINDS OF HELP
There are many kinds of help a woman worried about her drinking can receive.

She should consult an unbiased professional person such as a marriage, family or mental health counselor rather than her mother-in-law, her sister or a neighbor who drinks and enjoys it. More and more women are seeking professional help for their drinking problems today and more is being learned about the causes of alcoholism among women, says Miss Cork.

Save That Can For Making A Flower Pot

Don't throw away that empty can. With a little imagination and time you can transform an empty food can into an attractive flower container in a color to match or contrast with the flowers of the season.

The trick is to cover empty cans with colorful, decorative adhesive covering. The result: dozens of striking flower arrangements. You might arrange bright red roses in a 16-ounce fruit can covered with red and white checks. A giant-sized juice can covered with lilac adhesive makes a striking container for a mixed bouquet of lilac and mock-orange branches.

To cover a can, cut a strip of adhesive two inches wider than the height of the can and long enough to go around the can. On the backing sheet of the adhesive, draw straight lines one inch from the top and one inch from the bottom of the adhesive. Make a fringe by snipping at quarter-inch intervals from the edge of the adhesive to the one-inch lines.

Peel off the backing and apply the adhesive to the can. Stick the fringe strips to the bottom of the can, and turn the fringe inside at the top of the can.

In making flower arrangements, remember that the container should measure no more than one-third the height of the finished arrangement. Use frozen juice cans for small bouquets, giant-sized cans to hold flowering branches.

Mrs. Carter Is Speaker

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Mrs. Roy Carter was guest speaker for the meeting of the Women's Federated Missionary Society Monday evening in the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. W. E. Bednar, society president was in charge of the business session and Mrs. Ronnell McDaniel, program chairman, brought the devotion and introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Carter gave some original poems and told the story of "The Littlest Angel."

Members exchanged gifts during the social hour when refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. V. M. Gill, Mrs. Vena Lawson and Miss Myrtle McMasters.

Hyperion Officers Installed At Club

An installation dinner for new officers of the 1946 Hyperion Club was held at noon Wednesday in the Blue Room of Cosden County Club.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Bennett Brooke, who presented each officer with "vitamin pills" appropriate to her office. The new officers are Mrs. Wes Shouse, president; Mrs. Rene Brown, vice president; Mrs. Grant Boardman, recording secretary; Mrs. Wayne Basden, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Johnson, reporter; and Mrs. Ralph Hughes, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Hughes, retiring president, thanked the members for their cooperation during the year.

Committee chairmen appointed by Mrs. Shouse were Mrs. Brown, program; Mrs. Gil Gingold, social; Mrs. Brooke, ways and means; and Mrs. Paul Meek, telephone. Mrs. Charles Rainwater was welcomed as a new member.

Attend Services

Out-of-town relatives who were here for funeral services for Mrs. Ella Hampton Sunday were Wade Hampton, Hampton, N. H.; Mrs. Edna Goodson, Hallerman AFB, N. M.; Mrs. Virginia Stewart, Houston; Mrs. Becky Young, Wichita Falls.

Birthday Boy Likes A Change Of Menu

By JO BRIGHT

The menu today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larson Lloyd, 2206 Roberts, may include strained liver, mashed vegetables, pureed fruit and homogenized milk.

It is sure to include angel food cake, a departure from the usual diet of Larson Jr., in deference to his birthday celebration. The curly-haired youngster is a year old today—and anxious to sink his seven teeth into something more challenging than prepared baby food.

Mrs. Lloyd is the former Margaret McAdams, a professional Girl Scout worker for 12 years. She was the executive director of the West Texas Girl Scout Council at the time of her resignation two years ago.

In 1960, during a European tour, Mrs. Lloyd dined at restaurants famous all over the world, as well as sampling the more simple fare offered at Scout hostels which she visited when time allowed. The tortoni recipe, deliciously rich, which is given today, is one she obtained in Italy in that country during the Easter season. Mrs. Lloyd was impressed with the scene at St. Peter's Square in Rome when over 20,000 people gathered to be greeted by Pope John XXIII. In Switzerland, she was a guest at the Girl Scout international chalet in Odellboden.

Lloyd, vice president of the Security State Bank, leaves household management to his wife, but when food preparation moves outdoors, he becomes chairman of the hickory board—and barbecue director.

Guests who gather on the patio at the Kentwood home, have a view of rugged, untouched land where salt cedars grow near a draw. The Lloyds purchased land extending past the ravine in order to preserve the native beauty of the scene, which includes a tiny island where one tree grows with a look of gnarled loneliness.

Mrs. Lloyd's method of cooking is determined by the requirements of the low-fat diet her husband is restricted to. She uses little grease, and no whipped cream or egg yolks. In preparing cranberry sauce, or breakfast fruits, she uses sucaryl instead of sugar.

Shopping trips are made once each week, except for items such as fresh milk or bread. Quick to explain that she is not complaining, Mrs. Lloyd said that her husband's habit of buying by the case occasionally presents a storage problem. Her cupboard runneth over quite often.

Here are recipes the Lloyds like to use.

ORANGE-PINEAPPLE ICE
1 1/2 cups unsweetened orange juice
1 1/2 cups unsweetened pineapple juice
1 cup non fat dried milk
2 1/2 tbsps. of sucaryl

Blend powdered milk with fruit juices. Add sucaryl. Place in ice cube trays for cube sized portions. This makes a good summertime substitute for ice cream or sherbets and has almost no calories or fat content.

MEDIUM HOT BARBECUE SAUCE
1/2 cup Worcestershire Sauce
1/2 cup vinegar
2 cups water
5 tbsps sugar
1/4 lb. butter
Mix ingredients and heat until butter is melted. Apply with small pastry brush while meat is cooking. Use this sauce on both chicken and beef.

MRS. LARSON LLOYD AND LARSON JR.

SCALLOPED POTATOES
3 to 4 thinly sliced, peeled raw potatoes
1 tbsps. minced onion
3 tbsps. butter
1 1/2 cups milk, heated
Salt

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Arrange potatoes in layers in greased 1 1/2 qt. baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with salt, minced onion and dots of butter. Pour hot milk over top. Bake uncovered about 1 1/2 hours or until tender.

TOASTED COCONUT TORTONI
4 pkgs. vanilla pudding mix
1 cup sugar
4 cups evaporated milk
4 cups water
1 qt. whipping cream
4 tps. vanilla
4 cups flaked coconut, cut and toasted

Combine pudding mix, sugar, milk and water in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Chill. Whip cream and fold with vanilla into pudding.

Four mixture into refrigerator trays. Set control for coldest freezing temperature. Freeze 1 hour.

Then spoon into bowl and beat with egg beater until smooth, but not melted. Fold in 3 cups of the coconut. Return to tray or spoon into paper cups. Sprinkle with re-

STARTED CAREER, TOO

Losing Weight Made Great Cook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Feature Writer
Acquiring a svelte figure after being a Stylish Stout won't a now youthful-looking grandmother, Elaine Ross, a career as a cookbook writer and food consultant.

It was Elaine's husband who finally persuaded her to lose weight. He promised her a trip to Europe if she made a serious effort to count calories. That did it. Says Elaine, "I was fascinated by epicurean food, and my first trip to Europe had spurred this interest. I wanted to go back. So I worked out low-calorie versions of foods I really liked and lost a lot of weight."

So successful was Elaine at the task of devising recipes that she wrote a cookbook on the subject of reducing and enjoying it. By this time Elaine knew her way around the food world and when a friend, impressed by her culinary abilities, asked her to co-conduct a cooking class Elaine said a big Yes. Out of that experience Elaine co-authored a book on party meals; next she did a solo with a book on European desserts.

New comes Elaine Ross's latest offering, "Small Meals for Company," published by Hearst's Press. Designed for small or large groups, this cookbook has delightful menus and recipes—some of them time saving—plus serving notes for all seasons of the year.

Wherever Elaine goes she gathers ideas. One of the most interesting and delicious recipes in "Small Meals for Company" was borrowed from a friend of Elaine's daughter. This is a Greek cookie that uses whole cloves in a fascinating way, and we think you'll enjoy it as much as we did when we tried it in our own kitchen.

KOURABIEDES (Koo-rah-bee-ye-deez)
1/2 lb. sweet butter
3/4 cup confectioners' sugar
1 egg yolk
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. ground cloves
Whole cloves
Confectioners' sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream the butter with 3/4 cup confectioners' sugar until almost white. Beat in the egg yolk. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and cloves, add to butter mixture, and blend to a smooth dough.

On a lightly floured board, roll dough to a thickness of 1/4 inch. Cut into desired shapes, insert 1 whole clove in the center of each cookie, and place, 1 inch apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake for 20 minutes, or until pale gold. Remove from oven, and while the cookies are still hot, dust generously with confectioners' sugar.

A Batch Of Cookies For Spring

Just because it's spring, and because we happen to love homemade sweets, we decided to bake a batch of butter cookies. No sooner were they out of the oven and properly decorated than we called in a few neighbors, fixed a large potful of coffee and had ourselves a kaffeeklatsch.

That informal, spur-of-the-moment-visiting time of year is with us again. Since these Chocolate Butter Cookies are the company kind, they're likely candidates to keep on hand to serve with coffee. The designs on top, swirled on with pink and yellow frosting, look as pretty as spring roses against the dark cookies.

As for the coffee, it's naturally fresh and fragrant to match the season. And let there be plenty of it—enough for hours of relaxing coffee talk.

CHOCOLATE BUTTER COOKIES

3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 cup breakfast cocoa (not a mix)
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1 cup butter or margarine

Mix and sift flour, cocoa, cornstarch and sugar. Cream butter to consistency of mayonnaise. Add flour mixture a little at a time, blending well after each addition. Divide into 4 portions. Wrap each in foil. Chill thoroughly. Work with one portion at a time, keeping others in refrigerator. Shape quickly into 1-inch balls or force through pastry tube in desired shapes. Flatten balls by pressing with floured tines of fork in both directions. Bake at 300 degrees for about 20 minutes, or until done. Cool on racks. Decorate with tinted frosting. Makes about 2 dozen small cookies.

Meats Are Good Buys This Week

By The Associated Press
Beef's hard to beat for economy eating this weekend.

Ribs of beef are offered at 55 cents a pound in the New York area by one national grocery chain. In the Los Angeles area, ribs are off as much as 3 cents from a week ago.

In most shops over the nation other beef items featured include round and chuck roasts, hamburger, stew meat and cold cuts. Pork is also attractively priced, including chops, loins and loin roasts, smoked shoulders, bacon, sausage and spare ribs.

Chickens are a third main course offering among economy competitors, though their prices may be lower in a few weeks.

Milk and cheese products also have been easing down. Cottage cheese is a special bargain in many stores.

Among the fresh vegetables featured regionally are spinach, peas, parsley, eggplant, pole beans, green peas, sweet corn, blackeye peas and okra.

Prices are also holding low for carrots, cabbage, celery, cucumbers, onions, potatoes and lettuce.

Fruit counters highlight watermelon, cantaloupes, apples, bananas and strawberries.

Safflower Oil For Dieters

Safflower oil, now widely available, is getting a good bill of health.

It's one of the polyunsaturated oils that tend to lower blood cholesterol. According to Dr. Frederick T. Zugibe, author of the recently published cookbook, "Eat, Drink and Lower Your Cholesterol," McGraw-Hill, the advantage of using safflower oil is that it contains more polyunsaturated fatty acids per calorie than any of the other similar oils.

Recently we used safflower oil in two salad dressings to accompany fruit salad. One was a French dressing, and one mayonnaise. If you want to try safflower oil in French dressing, use your own recipe or a mix. If you'd like to make mayonnaise with safflower oil, here's the recipe we used.

SAFFLOWER MAYONNAISE
3 egg yolks
1/4 to 1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. paprika
Pinch of cayenne
4 tbsps. cider vinegar
1 1/2 to 2 cups (14 to 16 ozs.) safflower oil

Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored; beat in salt, mustard, paprika, cayenne; slowly beat in the vinegar. Beat in part of the oil, 1/4 teaspoon at a time, making sure that it is combined before adding next amount.

When mixture has thickened, beat in remaining oil, 1 teaspoon at a time in the same way. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

Refrigerate in a tightly covered jar. Store several hours or overnight before serving to allow flavors to blend.

SPICED PEARS

Home Spiced Pears In Practically No Time

By The Associated Press

When some future culinarian historian gets around to recording the food folkways of the 60's, he may be amused by the wiles and wit of today's short-order cooks.

Take the business of pickling and preserving. Once the big event, in home kitchens, of each season's harvest, its trademarks were huge copper boilers and wooden paddles. These accoutrements finally became completely outmoded when the pressure canner came in. This new era flourished during World II when women were encouraged to preserve fresh food, using whatever sweetenings were at hand.

How life has changed. Nowadays short-order cooks recapture, in quick and easy ways, some of the nostalgia of old-time sweet and spicy flavors from the preserve kettles. They go so far as to use some of the mainstays—stick cinnamon and whole cloves—of grandma's preserving, adding these spices to commercially canned fruit.

That's exactly what we did recently when we put together some spiced pears to serve with a Sunday dinner main course of spring lamb. A pleasant change from the ubiquitous mint sauce!

To fill out this menu you might accompany the lamb with new potatoes boiled in their jackets and doused with butter and fresh dill. For a green vegetable you might choose peas partnered with mushrooms or fresh asparagus.

SPICED PEARS
1 can (1 lb. and 13 or 14 ozs.) Bartlett pear halves
1 stick cinnamon
8 whole cloves

1/4 cup lemon juice
3 thin slices lemon
Drain pear halves reserving syrup. Slowly heat syrup with cinnamon and cloves until simmering; simmer for about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice. Pour over lemon

Chicken Is Delicious

Our latest version of Country Captain, one of the most popular of all chicken recipes.

JANE STREET COUNTRY CAPTAIN

1 broiler-fryer (cut in 10 pieces)
1/2 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. each pepper and paprika
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 large clove garlic, crushed
1 1/2 tps. curry powder
1/2 tsp. dried crushed thyme
1 can (1 lb., 3 oz.) fancy quality tomatoes
3 tbsps. currants (soaked in hot water and drained)
Mango chutney and salted almonds

Wash and drain chicken; roll in flour mixed with salt, pepper and paprika. Lightly brown chicken in large skillet in butter; remove. Add onion, green pepper, garlic, curry powder and thyme to skillet; stir over low heat with wooden spoon to get up drippings. Add tomatoes, including liquid in can.

Bake browned chicken in sauce (in skillet if handle is heat-proof or can be removed) or in a baking dish in which the chicken just fits in one layer, in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 45 minutes. Stir in currants and serve with chutney and almonds. Makes 4 servings.

The dog to gain his private ends.
Went mad and bit the man.
The man recovered of the bite.
The dog it was that died.

Oliver Goldsmith
DAILY GUIDE—Stay out of trouble today because there can be some deliberate knocking of chips off shoulders by the irrelevant. People are likely to rub one the wrong way in small matters, not enough to worry about really, but you will worry and fret. A mentally stimulating day for those who are quick and skillful in adapting to changes.

Virgians will find it a day almost too busy to be comfortable. They are moving into a period in the next few weeks when things just start happening, so they should be prepared for fast moving events.

A father nervous agitation is likely to be felt by Virgians, Gemini, Sagittarians and Pisceans. The first and the last signs worry too much so they will anticipate by crossing all the bridges a hundred times. The two middle signs will swing into this pattern of changes with happy relief to be on their way. All four signs can expect an accent on major changes by early June.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, TAURUS! Things should be looking up now, but during this month do not skip any necessary steps to clear up pending problems. Get set for some exciting new adventures which can lift you out of the rut in the coming years. June could bring you a taste of new freedoms and greater opportunities for personal expression. Let your originality have a chance, and be ready to seek new directions for your talents. It will not be all fun, there is still the test of your ability to stay on top in your profession, career or place in life. Watch out for difficulties in personal relationships in October.

Another Entry In Art Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The soaring market in first class old masters has been marked by another entry in the record books.

"The Merry Lute Player," a masterpiece of the 17th century Dutch painter Franz Hals, brought a bid for $600,000 at the Parke-Bernet Galleries Wednesday night from London art dealer Edward Speelman, who sat at the London end of an open telephone line terminating in the auction rooms. Speelman did not indicate whether he was acting as agent for anyone. One gallery official said it was believed a private collector in England was involved.

The price was an auction record for a Hals, and the highest price ever paid at this American auction.

"The Merry Lute Player," 35 1/2 by 29 1/2 inches and painted about 1627, was one of 24 paintings auctioned from the collection of the late Oscar B. Cintas, a Cuban sugar and railroad magnate and one-time ambassador to the United States, who established a foundation to assist artists of Cuban lineage. In 46 minutes, the sale netted $1,280,500.

Cintas had paid $127,000 for this picture when the John R. Thompson collection was sold at Parke-Bernet in 1944.

Why such a big jump? And why have there been some high prices for old masters in recent years? Inflation is only part of the story. Art experts say the real explanation is simple. Most of the top items have been gathered into museums, and few come on the market any more.

106 Applications From Texas For Federal Funds
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Commerce Department said today 106 applications are on file from Texas cities and counties seeking funds under the accelerated public works program. Texas requests total $22.9 million. Over the nation, total requests total $1.3 billion. Projects will be selected by the secretary of commerce.

Americans Help Stricken Village
McALLEN, Tex. (AP)—Americans are responding with food, drugs, clothes and money to stories of illness and famine in the northern Mexico farming village of Alazan. Contribution centers have been set up all over Texas and plans are being made to fly and truck the goods into Mexico. The response followed publication of news stories detailing poverty and sickness in the area.

Two Injured In Accidents

Minor injuries resulted from two of five accidents in Big Spring Wednesday. Richard Bolling King, 19, was taken to Webb AFB Hospital by a River ambulance. He was treated for bruises and released. Gene Hernandez, 18, was taken to Cowper Clinic-Hospital by a Nalley-Pickle ambulance and treated for head bruises and released.

King was riding a motor scooter west on East Fifteenth at 4:45

Bus Overtakes, 38 Students Hurt

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A school bus overturned near Greensboro Wednesday, injuring 38 of the 48 Negro students aboard.

Seven of those injured required hospitalization, but none was reported in serious condition. The others were treated and released.

The bus skidded while making a 90-degree turn and went over a 15-foot bank, overturning. The student driver, Arthur Daniel Gee, 16, told policemen the brakes failed.

Wedding, Classroom Bells Not Sweetest Harmony

AUSTIN—Wedding bells and classroom bells do not necessarily produce the sweetest harmony for college couples, a University of Texas dean reports.

Contrary to the frequently heard belief that marriage acts as a stabilizing factor and makes the student buckle down, we find marriage seldom makes a good student out of a poor one," Dean of Students Glenn Barnett points out in an article in the May issue

No Sackcloths And Ashes?

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Shaved heads of 60 freshman Aggie Cadets showed up Wednesday in protest over an edict to allow women students in the formerly all-male school.

Col. Joe Davis, Corps commandant, said no disciplinary action was taken at once. He said improper haircuts were violation of Corp policy.

Solon Thinks Homeowner Due More On Condemnation

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP) — When the government condemns a man's home for such uses as highways and reservoirs, it should consider more than the fair market value, says Rep. Lindley Beekworth (D-Tex.).

He has introduced a bill to provide that an agency in determining the price to be paid for a home take into account the same considerations a family would weigh in determining whether or not to sell their home voluntarily.

The Commerce Department, asked for comment on the bill's provisions that the homeowner's values be weighed, said:

"These considerations include proximity to churches, schools and other areas or places, as well as improvements such as landscaping and decorating . . . Your attention is invited, however, to the fact that the federal courts have consistently held that just compensation does not go beyond the fair market value of the property at the time of the taking."

AROUND THE CAPITAL:
Tourist literature distributed by the Texas State Highway Department is proving popular with eastern visitors to Texas congressional offices.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, whose vigorous pace and health must provide encouragement to others who have had heart attacks, told Editor Wes Izzard of Amarillo that swimming helps to keep him in shape.

Izzard attending a San Jacinto Day brunch at the Johnson's home with other Texans here for an editor's convention, made a comment to the vice president concerning the estate's attractive swimming pool.

Johnson commented he swam the length of the 50-foot pool 25 times without stopping that morning.

And, he added, he tries to get in a morning and evening swim regularly.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, the first Texan of Mexican descent ever elected to Congress, brought his 87-year-old father, Leonides, to the White House to meet President Kennedy. The Chief Executive escorted father and son around his office and the adjoining rose garden.

The President smilingly asked the father if he was a supporter of Vice President Johnson who had arranged the White House visit. The elder Gonzalez, who speaks with a pronounced Spanish accent, replied: "Kennedy and Johnson, si!"

Kennedy promptly responded: "Arriba! Arriba!" which, roughly translated, means "hooray." The response brought a broad smile from the man who had fled with his wife to San Antonio in 1911 as the result of a revolution. Unable then to speak English, Gonzalez served for 40 years as editor of La Prensa, a Spanish language newspaper in San Antonio.

The Highland Park creative dance choir recently flew to Washington from Dallas to make two appearances. Directing the group was Virginia Stone, Highland Park High School math teacher who formerly was on the secretarial staff of Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.). In the group were Sandra Graham, Jim Rockwell, H. C. Maiden III, Susan Schoeller, Patsy Alleyne, Bob Maxson and Bette Strong.

Japan Crusade Decisions Soar

TOKYO (AP)—Leaders of the Texas Baptist-supported Japan Baptist New Life Movement evangelistic crusade report the number of decisions for Christ has soared to 17,907.

The third week of city-wide campaigns and local church revivals throughout Japan closed Sunday with 6,899 decisions recorded in 40 meetings.

The final week in the crusade is under way, with 46 revivals and city-wide campaigns scheduled through Sunday.

Leaders of the movement said Tuesday the 6,899 decisions last week was the biggest number reported during any one week.

DEAR ABBY

Diagnosing The Doctor

DEAR ABBY: I am a nurse and I see things many other people don't see. For some time I have been watching the comings and goings of a young married woman. She "visits" the hospital frequently so that she can see a certain doctor, who is also married and has a family. This young woman has a fine husband and a lovely home. The entire hospital personnel is aware of the situation, and even the doctor tries his best to get rid of her. Don't you think someone should speak to this woman's husband so he can straighten her out? We'd appreciate your advice before something terrible comes about.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I have yet to see the doctor who wasn't able to "get rid" of a woman without my help. Leave the woman's husband alone. If you really feel that someone should "straighten out" the woman—suggest it to the doctor. And he might straighten YOU out.

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter wears size 20 dress. If I have pie or cake in the house, that's what she eats for breakfast. I have four other children and a husband to feed, so I can't make only non-fattening meals for her alone. If I cook spaghetti and meatballs, I have to lock up the leftovers or this daughter will finish it. I've had her to doctors who put her on diets but she never sticks with any of them. She has no willpower. She is driving me crazy. What should I do?

TIREDD MOTHER

DEAR TIREDD: Your daughter should see a doctor who treats "emotional disorders." That is what's causing her to eat compulsively. Unless your daughter is treated for the CAUSE of her overeating, she will never stick with a diet.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 12 years to a man who absolutely refuses to try anything new when it comes to food. When we are invited out to dinner, if it isn't meat and potatoes, he won't even touch it. I have tried to interest him in molds, fish, chicken, salads, casserole dishes and desserts, but it's futile. I finally threw away my cook book. What is wrong with a man like that, and how can I cope with it?

GAVE UP

DEAR GAVE UP: He probably frightened him with a soufflé when he was young. Just keep on feeding him meat and potatoes at home. And when he dines out, let him sit in the corner and suck his thumb.

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A Devotional For The Day

When the apostles at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent to them Peter and John. (Acts 8:14. RSV.)

PRAYER: May we never be guilty, our Father, of placing a stumblingblock in the way of any who seek to worship Thee in spirit and in truth. Help us to keep in mind always the example of the apostles as they carried out Thy command to "make disciples of all nations." In Jesus' name. Amen.

Current Problem One For The Future

Residents in southeastern Big Spring understandably have been concerned if not upset over the operation of a plant exhausting great volumes of dust and air fumes.

The facility, converting rock and asphalt into hot mix for street topping is located about three blocks outside of the city limits, limiting municipal control. County authorities said they had no statutory authority to deal with the problem. In both instances, the avenue of approach was suggested on a private basis. Individuals affected, however, felt that it was a community responsibility and that one person should not be obliged to bear the inconvenience and expense of seeking legal relief on the grounds of a nuisance or of damage to property. Contractors operating the plant, when advised of the matter, exhibited understanding and cooperative spirit by trying to operate only when winds were favorable, but a rapid shift in wind direction caused concern to mount again. From the contractor's point of view, a project had been bid in good faith and once started, a disruption could prove extremely costly. Fortunately, the situation apparently is short-ranged, for the street job is nearing completion.

This is something, however, which could happen again in the non-man's land just outside corporate limits. Perhaps an exhaustive study now would suggest some practical policy for the future. No one wants to run up construction costs or to cause operational inconvenience, but by the same token the public convenience and health must also be considered.

Inviting More People To Come

One of the accomplishments of the current legislature and Gov. John Connally is the enactment of measures which may help bring more people to Texas.

Final action on some of the program may come this week in the Senate, but it is likely that funds will be provided when the Senate takes action on a tax bill voted previously by the House.

Part of the program deals with stepping up promotion of tourist appeal. A second part is to step up efforts at industrial promotion.

The Padre Island bill will open the way to development and exploitation of what should become an increasingly greater tourist attraction. Going hand in hand with the step is the creation of a Texas tourist development agency.

The combination of the Game and Fish

Commission and the State Parks Board into a new agency for wildlife and parks development should undergo other efforts. The governor asked for $2,491,000 for the biennium for the new consolidated agency, which is about five times the present expenditure.

Sights of the new office of economic development and the Texas Industrial Commission have been raised, and with private contributions supplementing state funds, around $200,000 should be available as a start in this direction. Whereas the tourist measures are designed to stimulate a major industry from our visitors, the economic development program is designed to bring in new permanent residents.

No Unity On Southeast Asia Threat

WASHINGTON—Ten years is just a moment in history—at least it looks that way to the Soviet government, which has used up a whole decade to carry on a series of aggressions in different parts of the world.

The Communists in 1945 grabbed seven independent countries in Eastern Europe and half of Korea. They are still striving to get the other half. In 1953 they began to get control of North Vietnam and now ten years later they are in the process of taking over South Vietnam as well as Laos. They have their eyes on the Middle East and North Africa. They have a foothold today in Cuba and are driving to establish similar bases in important countries in Central and South America.

MEANWHILE, the West is disunited. Its quaking officials cry out, "Who wants a big war?" So they continue to "negotiate" for the peace that never comes.

It was in the year 1953, after the Korean armistice had been signed in July, that the then Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, said in a public speech to the American Legion convention:

"A single Chinese Communist aggressive front extends from Korea on the north to Indo-China in the south. In Indo-China a desperate struggle is in its eighth year. The outcome affects our own vital interests in the Western Pacific, and we are already contributing largely in material and money to the combined efforts of the French and of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia."

"COMMUNIST CHINA has been and now is training, equipping and supplying the Communist forces in Indo-China."

By the spring of 1964, the Western powers had agreed to a conference at Geneva to discuss the unification of Korea as well as the Indo-China problem. This correspondent went to Geneva to cover that conference.

"Peace," said Secretary of State Dulles at the opening of the conference on April 28, "is always easy to achieve—by surrender. Unity is also easy to achieve—by surrender. The hard task, the task that confronts us, is to combine peace and unity with freedom."

IT BECAME obvious that France was not willing to internationalize the war over Indo-China. The United States was naturally reluctant to do the job by itself. This correspondent wrote in July 1964:

"So now, with Red China in the process of virtually annexing North Korea in defiance of the U.N. resolution declaring her an aggressor and with a virtual annexation of the rich areas of Indo-China, the Communist coalition is advancing to its biggest triumph. . . . It is an hour of great tragedy for the free world."

IN THAT same year, on September 10, this correspondent wrote:

"Predictions were widely published in the press by realistic observers that, after the armistice in Korea was signed, the military energies of the Communists would be turned toward Indo-China. Solemn warnings were issued by the United States government that this must not be permitted to go unchallenged if it happened."

"But the Communists disregarded all warnings and stepped up the war in Indo-China. The French and British governments favored appeasement and left America isolated. When the Indo-China armistice was signed, there was another wave of satisfaction expressed by the Pollyanna spokesmen of governments that at least the world was going to see an end of fighting."

"BUT THE Communists haven't stopped fighting. They now have started another war—this time against Formosa. . . . Again there is a disposition throughout the free world to minimize it as just a few raids in and around a few small islands."

SINCE THOSE DAYS, the situation in Formosa has periodically quieted down. Some American military forces are, however, still bogged down in the area and cannot leave it. Substantial numbers of American armed forces are at the moment being concentrated in Southeast Asia. The Soviet game is to keep United States military strength scattered all over the world. The setting up of a military base in Cuba was designed to publicize the threat to Latin America which in turn will require a large concentration of America's armed forces in that part of the world, too.

THE TRUTH is the people in the Western world have seemed to care very little about what happens in Southeast Asia. The relationship of this area to the Far East and to Red China's ascendancy has never been clearly appraised by the peoples of the West. Nor has it been realized that the continuous aggressions in Southeast Asia—endangering India and Pakistan—are part of the Communist plan of world conquest which could go on for a half-century. The Communists aren't in a hurry. They feel they can wear out the West's will to resist.

The Dream Of Greatness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two men alive at the same time, Sir Winston Churchill and Woodrow Wilson, believed from their early years they were meant for greatness. Both were right.

Both were almost obsessed by belief in their power to sway difference between them—in their nature and in their image in history.

THEY SOUGHT and found their fulfillment in politics. Wilson did it in eight years, Churchill in five, Wilson in World War I, Churchill in World War II.

Churchill, 88, feeble, in a wheelchair, announced Wednesday he would not seek re-election to the British Parliament where he had held a seat 61 years. He had actually been in politics every year of this century but for two years failed to get elected.

But because of his mistakes, temperament and bad judgment he was a political has been until in 1940 he was made prime minister. In the five years of the war he became one of the great figures in history.

The years before and afterwards were secondary. He will be remembered as a warm, down-to-earth, very human man who, through his undisciplined will and the sunlit imagery of his language, expressed what millions felt but few could express.

WHEN HE led Britain against Germany everyone on earth could understand him, even the Germans, when he talked of fighting the Nazis on the hills and beaches and promised only blood, toil, tears and sweat.

Wilson died at 67 in 1914. He led the presidency of Princeton to become the governor of New Jersey from 1910 to 1912. From 1913 to 1921 he was president.

He did so well that last year a poll of 75 American historians listed him as one of the five great presidents. The others were Lincoln, Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Jefferson.

When he died, he had been out of the White House three years. He, too, was feeble, wrecked by a stroke that hit him near the end of his presidency.

HE WILL BE remembered as an idealist whose dream of a League of Nations, which his country did not accept until more than two decades after his death, might have averted World War II, if it had been accepted in his lifetime.

men's minds. So both practiced oratory by the hour in their formative years, in their rooms and in the fields. In this both were right only part of the time.

Yet, it was in their use of the language or persuasion that Churchill and Wilson revealed the is bad for her—except salads, which she eats by the bucket. Most of her waking hours she spends parading around the house in borrowed old high heel shoes. She can tell you how old Paul Anka and Brenda Lee are, but she never heard of Bing Crosby. She can spell the word "scientist."

When she brings home a report card marked "excellent" in four subjects, she is so proud she can't sleep and wakes up hollow-eyed. So do her parents.

The phone bill goes up month after month. But somehow you don't mind. It's exciting for you to know so many of her classmates want to talk with her.

She gets up early on Sunday to go to church. She is very interested in religion. She likes to say grace before meals. She speaks of God as if He were a neighbor. She shouts in anger less often, but cries more easily. She can't stand to see an animal in pain.

She plants onions and potatoes in water because she hungers to see things grow.

She keeps tadpoles and feeds them lettuce, and can't wait until they turn into frogs.

She begins to hoard money, collect stamps, and keep souvenirs of all kinds.

One day she says, "Daddy, did you ever watch me play jacks?" She shows you how she can pick up one to 10 jacks and never miss catching the bouncing rubber ball.

You feel the parental tears start as you watch her, because you realize she is letting you know in her own quiet way that this is a good-by to her childhood.

Next year she won't be playing with jacks.

She is growing up—and growing away.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done for cold sores? I frequently break out with four or five of them on my lip. Some people believe it to be hereditary and others think it is a nervous condition.—J.M.

Neither heredity nor nerves is the cause. It's a virus (herpes simplex). There is considerable medical opinion to the effect that some people are exposed to it in childhood but do not acquire any immunity to it as they do to other germs. The virus remains (according to this belief, which is plausible) and breaks out into a new cold sore when resistance lags, as when you have a cold, get too tired, eat. A smallpox vaccination stops the trouble for some people. For others, it doesn't, and the application of a drying agent, as a camphor lotion, is about all that you can do.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes and sources for it? I have had ultra-violet treatments for it, but still have some spots left. Will this infection come back

When A Girl Grows Up

NEW YORK (AP)—It's amazing how age does tell on younger people.

They get older so fast. My daughter, Tracy Ann, who will be 10 next month, seems to me all at once to have taken great strides toward adulthood.

Although there were earlier moments when I yearned for it, now that it is happening I am suddenly unprepared.

How do you tell when a modern child is growing up? Well, in many ways. Such as:

She no longer thinks it is the height of sophistication to use the word "stupid."

It isn't absolutely necessary all ways to shout everything at the top of one's voice. Enthusiasm is more muted.

She would rather cook corn-bread than skip rope.

Her quarrels with her mother are no less intense, but they are fewer—and they have more fun together.

One moment she says boys are a nuisance and the next moment she brags that every boy in her class secretly likes her.

She keeps tadpoles and feeds them lettuce, and can't wait until they turn into frogs.

She begins to hoard money, collect stamps, and keep souvenirs of all kinds.

One day she says, "Daddy, did you ever watch me play jacks?" She shows you how she can pick up one to 10 jacks and never miss catching the bouncing rubber ball.

You feel the parental tears start as you watch her, because you realize she is letting you know in her own quiet way that this is a good-by to her childhood.

Around The Rim

The Cisco Kid Rides Again

I have nothing personal against Cisco, Texas. For all I know, it probably is a fine town in which to bring up children, attend church and discuss politics at the corner drug store. But this vicinity will forever leave the bite of gall in my memory. It is another chapter in the growing book we are writing about our car misadventures.

While on a recent weekend tour back East, (that's Big D), my good wife Joyce heard a tapping noise in the engine, between strains of a song about a Magic Dragon that was roaring from the radio. She suggested we have someone look at it. Being in light mood and attentive to her every whim, I acquiesced and pulled into a service station. The attendant called his mechanic, who—so help me—was plowing a field behind the station.

HE LISTENED to the engine purr, then frowned as though he just got a whiff of the fertilizer recently spread generously over the countryside. He pulled a rag from a pocket, wiped away the grease on his hands, the sweat on his brow, then blew his nose into it. The suspense was building up. "Well," I said trembling, "What you think?"

He looked off into the sky with studied expression, as though he were computing the distance to the moon. Finally, he came back to earth and gave me a Ben Casey look. "You've got at least two inserts out." By this time a chorus of his friends had gathered close around. All joined in a spirited cacophony of agreement: "Yet, you got at least two inserts out." One individual piped up cheerfully: "Or maybe more."

I FINALLY GOT through to these guys that I didn't have the slightest idea what an insert was nor where they could have gone. I was merely interested in getting the heap patched up and be on my way. My statements really brought the house down. They had me believing I was the greatest comedian in the business. A finally getting control of himself, the Farmer-Mechanic lectured me on some Facts of Life: a car without inserts is in serious condition, a patch-up job would require at least two days, he wouldn't guarantee the job for more than two miles, and it would cost me $125. I didn't know much about inserts, but believe me, he had my attention. And all the time, his gallery was nodding agreement with every pronouncement.

IT WAS MY MOVE, and the gallery turned its attention to me, each face with a curious expression, obviously wondering what I was going to do. I surely looked the same way, because I was also wondering what I was going to do. Leaving them puzzled over why I didn't break down in tears, I walked over for a chat with Joyce. She reminded me she was in no condition for a 150 mile hike and asked why I couldn't fix it. It was my turn to laugh.

My tool chest includes one old nail file, two discarded license plate bolts, a piece of tin foil, assorted bits of electrical wire, a burned fuse, a broken screwdriver, and a pair of pliers, all nestled under a blanket of rust. And the motor had to be pulled out of the car to do this job.

LUCKILY, it was dark and I had no flashlight or probably I would have tackled the job regardless. So we decided to tow the car home, and by some miracle, made it safely. The inserts have been installed—thanks to our kind-hearted banker—and I have a couple of those that were "out" in my desk drawer for old times sake.

And somewhere out near Cisco, one of my favorite mechanics is probably plowing away, waiting for my next gamble out of town.

Education For Housewives

TUCSON, Ariz. — In this best-of-all possible nations one of our most annoying and mistaken cliches is that higher education is lost on women who choose matrimony rather than a career behind a desk, a counter or a computer.

Too many parents and their advisors are convinced that "it isn't worth the money or the bother" to educate a girl, no matter how bright and gifted, if "she is just going to be a housewife."

AN IRREVERENT "NUTS" to such sentiments. After a long, admiring look at the coeds at the University of Arizona, I am more than ever convinced that no education is ever lost on anyone capable of absorbing it.

It is astounding to think that educated women who choose to marry and to devote her energies to a husband and a family will enrich beyond measure, her home and her community. And what enriches a community enriches the national life.

TO SAY THAT education is "wasted" on the girl who marries is to downgrade marriage and debase that institution. Especially in this so in a day when "Fortune" and other bibles of big business terrify half the women in the country by documenting the fact that corporations no longer start a young man up the corporate ladder until his wife has passed some esthetic company test.

It is astounding to think that education is "lost" on a wife and mother, the keystone of the home whose preservation is the core of our religious, political and economic beliefs.

THESE CONVICTIONS are more firmly held than ever since I spoke recently at the annual Women's Day ceremony at the University of Arizona. No one could fail to be impressed by the honor lists read by Dr. Karen Carlson, dean of veracity. He "jumped out the window," as public speakers describe the tactic. The secretary reached for the shining example of Colonel John Glenn, who rebuked a young ruffian for throwing a beer can on a lawn and then threw a hammer loop on the youth for attacking him. "That took more courage by Glenn," said the secretary piously, "than his orbital flight."

THIS KIND of humbug, I'm afraid, is why Hodges hasn't quite worked out as the administration's star soprano in a chorus of hairy-chested basses. The secretary is featured as poor-boy makes good, businessman-politician, the morality man amid political pragmatists of the pay-no-vote-leave school.

LADD PLUMLEY, however, as a New England cavalier has taken our town like a born-and-bred boulevardier. When he came to Washington last year, he wore a boiled collar which gave him a stiff appearance. He discarded it, along with some other starchiness of manner. He was made a member of the National Press Club and, as he told us, furthered his education at the Men's Bar, where we circulate for after hours' shop talk. Plumley left us on this bon mot:

"I WAS PLEASANTLY surprised to discover among this erudite group whose IQ was high but whose chests have sagged a mite, that the principal topic was the same here as the rest of the world over."

Touche and farewell, Mr. Plumley. (Distributed by McNight Syndicate, Inc.)

Views From North And South

WASHINGTON—Retiring President Ladd Plumley (Worcester, Mass.) of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and Secretary Luther Hodges (Leaksville, N. C.) of the Commerce Department both entertained the press at separate luncheons last week on cocktails, beef and food for thought. It was New England vs. Southerner, with a strange twist. The New Englander in this instance was the sophisticated cavalier while the Southerner was the moralizing puritan.

THEY BOTH discussed President Kennedy's contrasting attitudes toward steel price-hikes — his furious denunciation in 1962 and his laissez-faire acceptance in 1963. Plumley reminded us he'd predicted last year that the President's bawling out of the steel magnates would never happen again. By implication, JFK is an impulsive man who makes mistakes, but not a fool who makes them twice.

Hodges said that there was an ethical issue last year because of Big Steel's implicit or actual promise to trade a strike settlement for stable prices. That is, no ethical outrage by steel in '63; ergo, no presidential tirade.

BUT PLUMLEY found a different steel prices by throwing a public tantrum. This year he let prices respond to the discipline of the free enterprise market system, and within two weeks the hiked prices had mostly dropped to previous levels.

Both Plumley and Hodges discussed taxes. The Chamber of Commerce man agreed with a questioner that the nation was improving its economic health despite the administration's mauling and heckling of businessmen. But he declared that an improved national economy still needed a complete overhaul of the tax system.

HODGES WAS in no position to disagree with the President's tax plan (lower taxes, higher spending), but was asked an embarrassing question on honesty-in-government. Since he couldn't either defend or denounce the New Frontier's record for

Hot Issue In Congress On Labelling Of Packages

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—Hot controversy boils over this question: Does Congress need to pass another law to keep American housewives from being deceived by the packaging and labeling of products they buy in today's markets?

Sen. Philip A. Hart, a mild-mannered Democrat from Michigan, contends such a law is much needed—and a bill he has introduced has brought the question into sharp focus.

The Senate's Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, denounced the bill as "just another harassment of industry."

Hart calls his bill a "truth-in-packaging" measure. He says it is designed to make sure that manufacturers of foods and other household products compete "on the basis of price and quality—not on packaging gimmickry and deception."

Dirksen, senior GOP member of the subcommittee, argues that present laws give federal regulatory agencies ample authority to protect consumers against deceptive practices.

This also is the view taken generally by industry spokesmen of the bill which has the endorsement of the Kennedy administration.

At stake in the dispute are market basket items on which American consumers spend about $70 billion a year.

The bill is the outgrowth of an investigation begun by the Senate Antitrust subcommittee about two years ago, with Hart presiding. Hart says he first got interested in the subject because of gripes by his wife and women employees in his office.

Extensive hearings were concluded last week. In a statement at the windup, Hart cited what he termed "irrefutable testimony" that the packaging and labeling revolution of the past decade has resulted in competitive practices that are bad for the economy, bad for the businessmen and bad for the consumer.

Opponents contended passage of the bill would be bad for the economy, businessmen and the consumer.

What are the complaints? They include protests about package blurbis such as "ten cents off regular price;" odd shapes and sizes of packages; fractional weights and measures; uses of terms like "jumbo" and "super" which may be misleading; and statements of net weight or contents in small type and in colors that blend with the package and are hard to find.

There was much testimony that a housewife would have to equip herself with a slide rule and a magnifying glass if she hoped to select the best buy among the vast array of goods on market shelves.

But industry witnesses said the housewife was being underrated. They said also that manufacturers know they are compelled by the law of survival to please the customer.

Furthermore, they said the ingenuity of American industry in responding to the shift from the corner grocery store to the supermarket has produced prepackaged goods that are more useful, more attractive and more economical.

Hart says the measure is intended "to restore rational buying to the market place."

Major Finding Reported In Tooth Study

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—It required considerable effort to do it, but researchers finally caused tooth cavities in dog-faced baboons.

And in so doing they may have discovered that tensions cause gum decay, which is the major reason for loss of teeth.

Dog-faced baboons, whose teeth are very similar to humans even to the same number, never have natural cavities.

So Dr. O. M. Reed and Donald Masters began trying to find out why. They are conducting their studies at the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education.

Object is to see if they can provide the same immunity to cavities to humans as well as learn how to strengthen human teeth and gums.

The dentists isolated a healthy female baboon whose teeth and gums were in excellent condition and tried to create a cavity.

They cracked her tooth enamel in one spot.

And while patiently waiting for a cavity to form—one finally did—they began to see a strange, unexpected change in the animal's gum condition.

She developed a severe case of periodontal disease. This ailment includes not only infection of the gums but the destruction of the supporting bone structure.

This came about although the animal had the same diet and living conditions as before.

With one exception: She was isolated from her fellow baboons.

We are forced to speculate the change may have been due to the stress of isolation," the dentists said.

They isolated a second baboon and observed the same gum deterioration.

"Could stress, then, be a major villain in human periodontal disease, too?"

The dentists give a cautious, "Maybe."

An interesting medical theory holds that all body tissue reacts to stress. Drs. Masters and Reed said. But they pointed out that many more baboons will have to be tested before even a tentative conclusion can be reached.

Senate:

Passed to the governor bills to exempt from the state inheritance tax foreign nationals' bank deposits and to permit the State Hospitals Board to contract for research in mental retardation.

House:

Voted to force a committee to report a Senate-passed proposal aimed at giving legal rights to women; tabled a measure to put "Land of Manana" on license plates; gave tentative approval to a measure setting up a free annual voter registration system.

School Enrollment Still Continues In Steady Decline

Six weeks of steady decline has brought enrollment in Big Spring public schools to 7,315 pupils. The latest tabulation April 26 showed a decrease of 14 pupils.

During the past six weeks enrollment has dropped by 98 students. The high of the school year was noted Nov. 30, 1962, when 7,484 pupils were on the rolls.

Secondary grades again showed the largest drop, going down 10 to 2,797 students. Elementary grades dropped by four to 4,354. There was no change in the 164 enrollment for special education.

By school the student populations and changes were: Airport 463, no change; Bauer 503, up one; Boydston 515, down one; Cedar Crest 297, down one; College Heights 526, up two; Kate Morrison 254, down one; Lakeview 207, no change; Marcy 535, no change; Park Hill 275, down two; Washington 776, down two;

Gollad 889, down one; Lakeview Junior High 67, down one; Runnels 725, down six; and Senior High 1,116, down two.
