THE 'CITY OF BIG SPRING'

Officers, Citizens Admire New Jet

Civic leaders joined with officers of the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron and Lockheed Aircraft officials at Webb AFB today to admire the "City of Big Spring," first of the squadron's new aircraft—the F-104 Starfighter.

Noon ceremonies were delayed due to base training schedule flights, but this only gave the officials an opportunity to get a better look at the sleek new craft, which is the fastest climbing, highest altitude fighter in the NORAD inventory of air weapons.

Here to welcome the new craft to Big Spring were Major General Thomas J. Gent Jr., 32nd NORAD Region commander, and Col. Archie J. Knight, commander of the 4752nd Air Defense Wing, Oklahoma City, of which the 331st FIS is a unit.

Lockheed Aircraft, Burbank, Calif., builds the craft—often dubbed "missile with a man in it." Company officials here this morning included Tony Levier, director of flight operations; Neil Harrison, manager of customer service division; Eric Miller, photographer; R. S. Faulkner, chief pilot of fighters; and E. Harris, transport pilot.

Mayor George Zachariah and Chamber manager Carroll Davidson headed up the city delegation.

Lt. Col. Jack Price, commanding officer of the 331st, landed the first craft here shortly after noon and gave the visitors an opportunity to look the aircraft over at close quarters. Following the inspection, the officials went to the base Officers' Club for a social hour and luncheon.

The Starfighter, with speed capability of 1,400 miles per hour, replaces the F-102 Delta Dagger here. The squadron has flown the F-102 since April, 1960. The new F-104 will give the pilots increased capability in performing its air defense mission in support of NORAD.

Most of the 331st personnel have been re-trained in the F-104. Few re-assignments and little change in strength resulting from the new plane are anticipated.

Negroes Plan Strategy In Birmingham

In Case The Shaky Truce Breaks Down

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Negro integration leaders went into a strategy session today to map new demonstration plans in the event a shaky truce falls apart.

A spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said a second meeting was planned between the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Ralph D. Abernathy, Fred L. Shuttlesworth and some persons uptown.

The identity of the "persons uptown" was not revealed, but the indication was that they were white leaders with whom negotiations have been conducted.

Eddy Birmingham residents wanted to learn whether the month-long desegregation drive finally was ending.

A 24-hour moratorium on the protest marches by many hundreds of Negroes during the past few days ends at noon Eastern Standard Time.

Negro leaders voiced hopes that a settlement of racial differences might be reached soon.

The truce almost collapsed a few hours after it started when two of the integrationist leaders were jailed briefly, but it weathered that crisis.

Negro leaders announced the 24-hour truce Wednesday as heavily reinforced police patrolled the streets, quiet in sharp contrast to the crowd scenes of recent days.

The word came shortly before President Kennedy's news conference in Washington. The President said he was gratified by progress in what he described as "an ugly situation."

It was a quiet lull in an explosive situation in which more than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested since the protest demonstrations began April 3.

TOKYO (AP)— Communist China accepted Thursday a Soviet proposal to hold talks in Moscow to discuss ideological differences between the two countries, the New China News Agency reported.

President Keeps A Close Watch

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy kept a close watch today on a shaky truce in racially troubled Birmingham, Ala.

The President hailed at his news conference Wednesday the government induced accord that temporarily halted integration demonstrations in the city. And he made clear that he prefers limiting Washington's role to conciliation.

There have been no federal violations, the President said, and so "our efforts have been focused on getting both sides together to settle in a peaceful fashion."

Still, it is known that if the truce snaps—it did for a few hours Wednesday night—the White House has considered several ways of getting deeper into the crisis.

Before the news conference, the White House announced that "every avenue of executive authority is being explored with reference to racial difficulties in Birmingham, Ala."

While Andrew Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, did not amplify this announcement, it was learned that the President's civil rights advisers were discussing several possible ways of federal intervention.

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—A spectacular but minor flash fire injured three workmen Wednesday on the $45-million Polaris submarine Woodrow Wilson at a Nagy construction yard.

Pope's Health Continues To Cause Concern

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The health of Pope John XXIII continues to cause concern at the Vatican.

The worry was heightened Wednesday with unconfirmed reports that he had had a brief relapse of his serious illness of last November, but had quickly recovered.

The Baltimore Sun said today, "It is generally accepted in Vatican circles that the Pope has cancer, that he knows it, and that he does not expect to live a long time. Reportedly the malignancy involves the stomach."

In the past, the pontiff's doctor has denied the Pope has cancer.

It was learned that his doctor, Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, who lives in Bologna, came to Rome Wednesday night. Vatican sources said he was on a regularly scheduled visit to the Pope and had not been summoned on an emergency basis.

Since his serious illness, the Pope has resumed an active schedule and is looking forward to the completion of his Ecumenical Council later this year.

But there is a feeling among Vatican prelates that he has not fully recovered from his illness.

The exact nature of the Roman Catholic ruler's illness has never been disclosed. The only Vatican communique describing it said he had a stomach disorder that caused serious anemia.

No information was made public on what the stomach disorder might be. Nothing has ever been said about his subsequent condition, including whether the anemia has been overcome.

He is known to have a chronic prostate condition, but the stomach disorder was believed to be a separate ailment, possibly an ulcer.

Pope John's age—almost 81—causes added concern. So do his frequent statements of his readiness to die.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Trustees of Fort Worth schools agreed Wednesday night to give up fighting a court order for integration of classes.

Estimate Of Russians In Cuba A 'Minimum'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today the official estimate of 17,500 Russians still in Cuba is "perhaps a minimum figure" and "strategic weapons may or may not be now in Cuba."

An interim report of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee on its investigation of the Soviet military buildup in Cuba and last October's missile crisis said, "The continued presence of the Soviet expedition in Cuba can now be seen to be a most effective shield against either internal revolt by native insurgents, or invasion by external forces from any source."

The 34-page report of the subcommittee, headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., also warned that the presence of the Soviets in Cuba "affects adversely our nation's image and prestige."

"Our friends abroad will understandably doubt our ability to meet and defeat the forces of communism thousands of miles across the ocean if we prove unable to cope with the Communist threat at our very doorstep," the subcommittee said.

The report said: "Assuming without deciding that all strategic weapons have been withdrawn, there is the ever-present possibility of the stealthy reintroduction of strategic missiles and other offensive weapons, using the Soviet forces still in Cuba as camouflage and security for the activity."

The subcommittee said intelligence chiefs, on the basis of their judgment that all strategic and offensive weapons have been removed, "do not believe that the Communist forces in Cuba now present a direct aggressive military threat to the United States or Latin America.

"Strategic weapons may or may not be now in Cuba. We can reach no conclusion on this because of the lack of conclusive evidence."

As to the number of Soviet personnel in Cuba, the subcommittee said some sources—primarily refugees and exile groups—estimate the number may be as high as 40,000.

The report continued: "Bearing in mind the lack of hard evidence on the question and the substantial underestimation of last fall, we conclude that no one in official United States circles can tell, with any real degree of confidence, how many Russians are now in Cuba and we are of the opinion that the official 17,500 estimate is perhaps a minimum figure."

Jim Whittaker Was First On Top Of Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The American who got to the top of Mt. Everest May 1 was James W. Whittaker, 32, Redmond, Wash., the expedition disclosed today. He was accompanied to the top by Sherpa Nwag Gombu, nephew of 1953 Everest hero, Tensing Nor-gay.

Whittaker is a climber and a equipment officer. He is a Mt. Ranier National Park mountain guide who has been climbing since he began as a Boy Scout in 1943.

An expedition disclosed the following names for the forthcoming attempt on the summit by the traditional south route:

Harry C. Bishop, 30, Washington, D.C.; Luther G. Jerstad, 28, Eugene, Ore.; Richard Pownall, 35, Denver, Colo., and Sherpa Girmi Dorja.

All were believed to be resting at the base camp today.

Bishop and Jerstad had been scheduled to follow Whittaker and Gombu if they failed in the May 1 attempt, the spokesman said.

Expedition leader Norman G. Dyhrenfurth and his longtime personal guide, Ang Dawa IV, were not trying for the top but were in support of Whittaker and Gombu in case they got in trouble, the spokesman added.

Dyhrenfurth, 45, climbed to 28,100 feet behind Whittaker and Gombu. He said today from the base camp that the May 1 climb was a miracle because the climbers did it in high winds and extreme cold.

Numerous Cuts Reported In Ocean Cable To Thule

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon said today there have been numerous instances of cuts and breaks in the ocean-bottom communications cable to Thule, Greenland, site of a ballistic missile warning station, but none appear to have been deliberate.

Six instances since the fall of 1961 were listed by the Defense Department in reply to questions by reporters. The most recent was sometime between April 2 and 9.

"Causes have been icebergs, trawlers (using net devices which scrape the bottom), and storms," a spokesman said.

"There has been no known case of any deliberate act on the part of any nation's trawlers to cut cables."

"Reconnaissance planes are flown continually over areas where cables are located to warn trawlers. This is done by dropping leaflets, on which warnings are written in many languages."

The Pentagon's statement was in response to inquiries about a copyright story by the Newhouse newspapers' Advance News Service which said the cable was cut mysteriously at least eight times last year.

The story said an investigation was demanded by the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee after it learned that hydrographic charts showing the cable locations are in the public domain and "had been given to the Russians."

The charts can be bought from the U.S. Navy Hydrographic Office at Suitland, Md.

The cable, operated for the government by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., is one of several circuits linking the ballistic missile warning station with the United States and with a similar station at Clear, Alaska. In each case of breakage in the Thule cable, alternate circuits were used, and contact with Thule remained unbroken, the Pentagon spokesman said.

Stock Market Shows Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—A heavy wave of trading pushed the stock market toward a new 1963 high today, then gains were clipped as trading moderated early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon registered a substantial gain of 1.0 at 271.8 with industrials up 1.5, rails up .6, and utilities up .3.

First hour volume totaled 1.64 million shares, the largest in weeks.

C-City Expects Thousands For Tumbleweed Festival

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Thousands of West Texans are expected to visit here this weekend for the fourth annual Tumbleweed Festival.

Normally considered the bane of the farmer's existence, the lowly tumbleweed will be exhibited as a commercial product and hold the center of attention.

Festivities begin with a luncheon Friday to honor Judge Robert W. Calvert, Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, and James Shepherd and Robert Shepherd, former residents.

Judge Calvert will be the speaker for the luncheon, to be held at Civic House at noon. The Texas Tech Choir will entertain.

The Mitchell County Bar Association will honor Judge Calvert and the Shepherds at a reception Friday at 3 p.m. in the Baker Hotel. A dinner for visiting attorneys is scheduled at 6 p.m., also in the hotel.

Climaxing the day's activities will be the selection of Miss Mitchell County in the high school gym. Seventeen girls are competing for the title and the winner will be the Mitchell County entry in the Miss Tumbleweed contest Saturday.

A party is slated for the contestants Friday afternoon at the Baker Hotel, and the contest begins at 8 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the Brooks Sisters, Denton; The Silver Strings, Colorado City; the Dwight Tomb Combo, Colorado City; and the Tech Choir. All but the choir will also be on the Saturday night program.

A rehearsal for the Tumbleweed Queen contest is slated at 10 a.m. Saturday in the gym. A noon luncheon and 6 p.m. dinner will honor contestants, judges and the queen committee.

The Tumbleweed Queen will be crowned Saturday night from a field of 11 or more contestants. Miss Tumbleweed will receive an expense-paid weekend in San Antonio and will be entered in the Miss Universe contest at Cleburne. She will receive a scholarship to the John R. Powers School of Modeling in Dallas.

Out of town entrants include Bonnie Jean Belda and Brenda Sorrells, both of Big Spring; Joy Lynn Hicks, Rotan; Betty Morgan, Snyder; Judy Margaret Frye, Anson; Lynda Norlane Forrester, Midland; Juanna Dee Pinkerton, Stanton; and entries from Abilene and Odessa.

The contestants will ride in the 3 p.m. Tumbleweed Parade Saturday which features dozens of floats made of tumbleweeds and designed by Porter Richardson. Other attractions in the parade include antique cars, sheriff's poses, bands and military units.

Haitian War Threat Eases

NEW YORK (AP)—The special peace committee of the Organization of American States delayed its return to Haiti and the Dominican Republic today, apparently convinced that the threat of war between the two Caribbean neighbors is no longer serious.

The main concern appeared to be whether the threat of revolt in Haiti would prompt Dictator-President Francois Duvalier to launch sweeping, bloody reprisals against foreigners, particularly Americans, and suspected opponents.

The anti-Duvalier underground has threatened an uprising by May 15. Meanwhile the OAS is without authority to intervene in what is essentially a domestic Haitian affair.

Gonzalo, Facio of Costa Rica, head of the OAS council, told newsmen in New York Wednesday night that it may be 10 days before the committee goes back to the troubled island of Hispaniola.

"The committee almost certainly will return," Facio said. "But just when and what their agenda will be hasn't been decided yet."

The special committee was set up last week after Duvalier's police invaded the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince in search of Duvalier opponents who had taken refuge there.

Dominican President Juan Bosch moved troops to the border and threatened military action, but a visit by the OAS committee calmed the situation.

Facio said the OAS will study a report from Alberto Zuleta of Colombia, a committee member who stayed behind and was expected back from Santo Domingo today.

"We're also evaluating other information before deciding when the committee will return," Facio said. "We're getting reports on the situation of those in asylum in Port au Prince and on the Haitian internal situation."

Haitian Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers conferred with Facio and members of the OAS committee Wednesday night in New York and told them he will try to end his government's hostile acts against 22 political refugees still in the Dominican Embassy.

He also promised the committee to press Duvalier to give safe conduct out of the country to the refugees, who were put under protection of the Colombian Embassy after Haiti broke relations with the Dominican Republic last week.

At the height of the crisis, Duvalier pledged to let 15 of the 22 refugees go and to allow the other seven to transfer to the Colombian Embassy. Instead he ringed the Dominican Embassy with troops, and Bosch has demanded that all 22 be allowed to leave the country.

About 60 Duvalier opponents are in other Latin-American embassies in Port au Prince. No open move has been made against them.

Chalmers told newsmen Monday night in Port au Prince that little by little all the refugees in all the embassies would be allowed to leave Haiti. None has been given safe conduct, however.

No-Man's Land

A helmeted Dominican soldier, armed with an automatic weapon, faces Haitian soldiers across a ten-foot-wide strip of earth—No Man's Land—separating the quarrelling Caribbean countries. The Organization of American States and the U.N. Security Council called meetings to discuss the tense situation between the two nations who share the island of Hispaniola 50 miles from Cuba.

Astronaut Cooper Set For His Orbit Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. has his "ditty bag" packed and the Mercury travel agency has ticketed him for the most extensive round-the-world tour ever planned for an American.

Next Tuesday, if the present schedule holds, Cooper will rocket into space on an intended 22-orbit mission lasting 34 hours 19 minutes. His only luggage will be a lunch box of bite-size tidbits and dehydrated food and the ditty bag—a packet for storing cameras and miscellaneous items.

A glance at the flight plan reveals these highlights: Cooper's "Faith 7" spacecraft will travel nearly 600,000 miles and cover more than one million square miles of the earth's surface—at altitudes ranging from 100 to 170 miles.

TO COVER BIG AREA

As Cooper circles the globe, he will traverse all areas between 32.5 degrees north and 32.5 degrees south latitudes, which in the Western Hemisphere extends roughly from Charleston, S.C., to Santiago, Chile, and in the Eastern Hemisphere from Shanghai, China, to Sydney, Australia.

He will pass over parts of five continents, North and South America, Asia, Africa and Australia, Africa and South America will be crossed frequently.

Cooper will be the first U.S. astronaut to fly over Red China, spending a total of about 45 minutes over the Communist nation on passes lasting from four to eight minutes during orbits No. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 22. Should an emergency force a landing in China, America could be faced with a diplomatic headache.

If it's a clear day, Cooper will be the first American space pilot to peek behind the Iron Curtain. As he crosses above Afghanistan on the 10th and 11th orbits he briefly will be within a couple hundred miles of the southern Soviet border—within easy viewing distance from his sky-high vantage point.

OVER U.S.

Cooper's crossings of the United States will be confined to the extreme southern area on orbits No. 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Near the end of 1, 3, 16, and 18 he will be practically over his present home in Houston, Tex. If it were possible, he probably would wave to his wife Trudy and two teenage daughters, waiting anxiously below.

Faith 7 will be out of communications range of the Mercury tracking network for periods up to an hour during orbits 4, 5, 6, 19, 20 and Atlas booster is scheduled to blast off between 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time. If the flight goes the full distance he will land in the Pacific Ocean southeast of Midway Island between 6-19 p.m. and 8-19 p.m. Eastern Standard Time the next day.

Primary recovery areas, which will have greatest concentration of ships and planes, will be southeast of Midway and east of Bermuda in the Atlantic. Each spot covers several orbital paths.

If there is trouble, an effort will be made to keep the astronaut aloft until he can land in a designated area to expedite recovery. If the emergency is so great he has to be brought down where planned recovery force is stationed, contingency recovery measures would be initiated.

LOT OF PLANES

Such a situation—in which Cooper might have to wait hours to pickup—would involve use of civilian and military planes and ships of the United States and many other nations not specifically assigned to the mission. A total of 28 U.S. parascue teams will be stationed around the world to fly wherever needed.

The assigned recovery force includes 27 ships, 125 aircraft and more than 19,000 persons, most of them shipboard personnel.

The reason for Bell's document, it was stated, is not to take issue with Clay, but to explain to responsible officials what AID's stand is on a foreign aid figure and why.

Clay Foreign Aid Idea Not OK By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is making it known that it does not agree with Gen. Lucius D. Clay's recommendations for further cuts in foreign aid program.

For David Bell, foreign aid chief, has written a memorandum stating that the entire $4.5 billion President Kennedy has requested for foreign assistance in the coming year is needed, despite Clay's urging for additional reductions.

Clay, chairman of a presidential advisory committee on foreign aid, has been testifying at congressional committee hearings on the Kennedy request for the coming fiscal year starting July 1.

Clay has said the amount could be shaved to $4.3 billion, or perhaps to $4 billion, if certain economies are made in the Alliance for Progress program.

Officials said Wednesday night that Bell had sent copies of the memo to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high ranking authorities in the State and Defense Departments and in Bell's own Agency for International Development.

The reason for Bell's document, it was stated, is not to take issue with Clay, but to explain to responsible officials what AID's stand is on a foreign aid figure and why.

JFK SOUNDS NEW WARNING

No Middle East Aggression

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has posted a new warning against aggression in the rest- less Middle East, pledging swift U.S. counteraction in an effort to reassure both Israel and the Arab states.

In a five-point policy statement at his news conference Wednesday the President, however, ignored specific proposals made in Congress for a formal U.S. treaty to guarantee Israeli-Arab frontiers.

"In the event of aggression or preparation for aggression whether direct or indirect," Kennedy said, "we would support appropriate measures in the United Nations (and) adopt other courses of operation on our own to prevent or put a stop to such aggression."

Missile Is Success

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force says the seventh of a series of Minuteman missile launches into the Pacific has been successful.

The solid-fuel missile was launched Wednesday from an underground silo at this test facility by a Strategic Air Command crew.

The target area was not disclosed.

which, of course, has been the policy which the United States has followed for some time."

Two developments in the Middle East have created concern in Washington and in Israeli government circles in recent weeks. One is the recent decision by Egypt, Syria and Iraq to form the United Arab Republic. Coupled with this have been demonstrations in Jordan against the government of King Hussein and in favor of the Arab unity movement headed by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The other development over a longer period of time has been Nasser's program of arming Egypt with modern weapons including rockets reportedly being built with the aid of German and other European scientists.

These two developments have aroused fresh fears in Israel of an eventual Arab military effort to smash Israel. The danger has been discussed publicly and some days ago Prime Minister David Ben Gurion informally suggested either a U.S. guarantee or a U.S.-Soviet guarantee of Israel's frontiers.

U.S. policy makers say privately that this country intends to avoid any action in the uneasy situation which would seem to put the United States definitely on either side in the controversy. Officials here say that Israel has the most effective military force in the area and they expect this situation to continue indefinitely. They cited the fact that the United States agreed last fall to sell Hawk missiles to Israel as a means of helping to preserve the power balance between that country and the Arab states. So far no missiles have actually been delivered but authorities said the deal is going through on schedule.

The President outlined these five points of basic policy under which the United States:

Supports social, economic and political progress in the area. Supports "the security of both Israel and her neighbors."

Seeks "to limit the Near East arms race which obviously takes resources from an area already poor and does not really bring any great security."

Strongly opposes "the use of force or the threat of force" in the area.

Seeks "to limit the spread of communism in the Middle East which would, of course, destroy the independence of the people."

ENCOURAGING

"According to the Associated Press, the school board of Pasadena, a suburb of Houston, has taken a very effective step in the right direction. . . . Action was taken to 'slow down the rapid development of children' . . . The new rules forbid social activities that would require or encourage dating . . . The board . . . ordered cheer leaders, hand twirlers and drum majorettes to wear more modest uniforms . . . In an age in which everything goes, this is indeed a heartening sign. . . . Indecent and immodest clothing has become so common that men and women walk the streets and enter the stores and roam the beaches in a way that would bring a blush of shame to the cheeks of anyone with moral standards at all." (From the Firm Foundation, 5-7-63.)

We rejoice in these signs of encouragement; and our appeal is to the individual that he be not conformed to this world" (Rom. 12:2), regardless of what his community or his school may do. of credit for a good defensive campaign by South would have overcome all resistance.

North opened the bidding with one diamond and South responded with one spade. When

North rebid his diamonds at the into no trump. The three spade

call at this point is not in the nature of a sign off, but rather an acceptance of partner's invitation to go game. A heart

three card trump support and offers the responder a choice of contracts. Since South had a five card suit, he proceeded to game in spades.

The nine of diamonds was opened and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer proceeded to cash the king and ace of hearts and then ruff his remaining heart in dummy. Next the king of clubs was led but West shrewdly withheld his ace permitting the king to win the trick.

On the club continuation, West captured South's queen with the ace in order to switch to a spade, and declarer was helpless. If he put up the ace of trumps, he would be unable to get out of the dummy without permitting his opponents to get in to draw North's last spade. He actually chose to finesse the jack of spades, but East won the trick with the king and a spade return killed the club ruff. South ended up losing two clubs, one diamond and a spade.

Declarer had two cards which he wished to trump in the dummy—the third heart and the third club. It is all a question of timing and, since the heart ruff can be effected whenever he wishes, South should concentrate his initial efforts on the club suit. At trick two the king of clubs should be led from dummy. West will presumably duck this trick, win the club continuation and then shift to a trump. Declarer must refuse the finesse and put up the ace of spades from dummy. A heart is led to the king in the closed hand in order to ruff a club. Now a second heart is led to the ace in order to trump away the losing heart. In all, South loses a spade, a diamond and a club.

President Sees More Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy predicts a new round of nuclear testing by the United States and the Soviet Union unless a test ban treaty is negotiated this year—which he doubts. If the prediction comes true, Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday, it "would be a great disaster for the interests of all concerned."

ing prospects for a ban last December, Kennedy said there has been no sense of movement since then. "I am not hopeful at all," he said, and expressed fear that progress must come soon or "perhaps the genie is out of the bottle and we will not ever get him back in."

measure of optimism about efforts to end what he termed "an ugly situation in Birmingham, Ala."

Huntsville branch of the University of Alabama. "This, of course, does involve the federal government," he said. And, he reminded that Gov. George Wallace has threatened to physically and personally bar integration at the university, Kennedy said he hoped everyone would obey court orders "whether they agree with them or not."

Asked if he would endorse the move by white and Negro families in Knoxville, Tenn., to visit each other in their homes, Kennedy said: "I think it would be very helpful, and you can start right here in Washington, D.C., where this is greatly needed."

Two overseas crises also were discussed: Kennedy said that while Soviet Premier Khrushchev has reaffirmed a pledge to support a neutral and independent Laos, a recent attack on International Control Commission helicopters by the Pathet Lao "indicates that they are not at the present time living up to this commitment."

Asked if economic or diplomatic sanctions should be used against the Haitian regime of Francois Duvalier, Kennedy said the Organization of American States is doing right by sending a special group that will try to keep peace between the Dominican Republic and neighboring Haiti.

Kennedy hopes to cover "the entire waterfront" in a weekend conference at Hyannisport, Mass. with Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson. The "waterfront" includes such items as defense, trade, and investment on which Kennedy and Pearson's predecessors, John G. Diefenbaker, were asked about reported disagreement of some Pentagon brass at the actions of their civilian bosses.

Temperatures In State Rise

By The Associated Press

Temperatures headed upward across Texas again Thursday. There was no rain anywhere in the state, but the Weather Bureau looked for a few thundershowers in extreme Southwest Texas. Clouds hung low over Central Texas. It was clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Although many areas received drought-breaking downpours last weekend, a severe lack of moisture still gripped the Houston vicinity. Vegetable farmers and stockmen said they face heavy losses unless 2 to 3 inches of rain falls within the next 10 days.

Houston's last appreciable rainfall was 1.71 inches Feb. 17-18. It has measured 7.16 inches since Jan. 1, half the normal 14.25-inch fall.

Cooler air was headed into the Texas Panhandle and forecasts promised somewhat lower temperatures there by Friday.

Top readings Wednesday varied from 81 degrees at Galveston to 95 at Dalhart and 97 at Presidio.

Critical Period

BOGOTA, Colombia, (AP)—Brazilian criticism of the Alliance for Progress was rapped Wednesday night by a Latin-American labor leader who noted that Brazil has received more than $4 billion in U.S. aid since World War II.

Lawyers Argue Integration Suit

AUSTIN — Lawyers argued Wednesday before the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals a suit, involving integration of Georgetown schools.

The suit by C. J. Kreger and members of a "Better Schools Group" against the Georgetown School District challenges the board's right to spend public funds for a new 12-grade school for Negroes. They charge the money would help "perpetuate segregation."

with the building program. Wednesday's hearing was an appeal to that decision.

Georgetown voted $325,000 last year to finance the building program.

Officers Claim Police Dogs Were Legitimately Employed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Sheriff Melvin Bailey and Birmingham Chief of Police Jamie Moore said trained police dogs were used when Negroes began demonstrating in the streets because the officers had to get in close. He said the dogs were not used until the crowds of Negroes became so big. Photographs of the dogs, lunging at Negroes, have been transmitted all over the United States and the world. Probably no aspect of the dangerous racial strife in Birmingham has stirred so much reaction. "When the crowds grew so big," Bailey said, "the dogs were the only things restraining them. There were too few men. "But to use the dogs, you have to get in close. In that way, one officer can disperse knots of people that he couldn't handle by himself." He said one of the dogs had been stabbed. Bailey and Moore said they learned months ago that Negro leaders were planning to try to enforce desegregation in Birmingham. "We immediately began discussing how law enforcement agencies would meet the problem," Bailey said. Along with police tactics, the two officers said they began working through civic clubs and other organizations urging the members to stay away from the scenes of the disturbances. "We quietly passed the word that the worst thing that would happen would be for this thing to turn into a race riot," they said. One of the characteristics of racial strife in the South has been that, when disturbances break out in any given community, white extremists from the nearby countryside and other communities generally come onto the scene. In Birmingham, the officers said, there hasn't been a single clash between a white man and a Negro. It has been solely the officers and the demonstrators. Bailey said he told audiences in the Birmingham area months ago that they were "entitled to law and order but to leave it to the law enforcement agencies if there is trouble." Is there a possibility of mass clashes between white persons and Negroes now? "There is always the possibility of race riots," Moore said. "But I would say that if people on both sides—especially the whites—remain as considerate of the problem as they have been up to now, there is not a very great possibility." Both officers said they consider it a miracle that no one has been killed or seriously injured so far in the disturbances.

Bar Association Meets May 18
The Howard County Bar Association will meet May 18, John Burgess, president, said today. Burgess, elected president at the last meeting, said that several matters are in need of discussion. One is the scheduled state conference of association presidents in Austin May 25. Burgess said that he had not made up his mind whether to attend or not. Other new officers of the association are Joe Jackson, vice president; and John R. Coffee, secretary-treasurer. The bar meets at noon at the Codden Country Club.

Sadler Testifies He Does Not Owe Claimed U.S. Taxes

FORT WORTH (AP) — State Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler testified Wednesday he does not owe $125,258 in income taxes and penalties as the Internal Revenue Service claims.

His lawyers contended in U.S. District Court that he actually overpaid his taxes by $4,588 in 1954-57.

Sadler was on the stand for more than an hour Wednesday, the first day of the hearing. It is expected to last through Friday.

Government lawyers issued a subpoena for Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr as a witness after Sadler testified.

Sadler's legal staff, headed by Wright Matthews of Dallas, denied the Internal Revenue Service's accusation and asked the court to order a redetermination of his tax status.

Most of Sadler's testimony, under questioning by government lawyer Harold Rogers of Dallas, centered around a $200,000 legal fee he received July 30, 1956, as co-counsel in a probate court suit to break the will of the late Murray Case Sells in Gregg County.

The government claims Sadler owes $14,955.41 for 1954, $126.42 for 1955, $108,334.14 for 1956 and $1,802.96 for 1957.

The case is being heard by Judge Howard Dawson Jr.

The government alleged that the bulk of money sought from Sadler was due for 1956, when it says Sadler reported only $150,000 of a big legal fee for tax purposes.

Rogers claimed Sadler set up a trust fund which was "a fraudulent scheme" to avoid having to pay taxes in 1956 for the remaining $140,000.

Disputing this claim, Sadler's lawyers said the money in the trust fund was set up and not released until Jan. 5, 1957, because he anticipated a suit by another attorney in the case to claim part of his agreed fee.

Matthews further claimed Sadler was advised by his accountant that money in this trust fund did not rightfully belong to him until 1957 and therefore was not taxable until then.

Sadler admitted under questioning by Rogers that he had made loans from the escrow money which the accountant said he did not own at that time.

Other witnesses included French Robertson, Abilene oilman who sold Sadler about $55,000 worth of oil leases in late 1956; Warren Moore, Tyler lawyer and former U. S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Texas, and C. J. Watts of Oklahoma City, whose law firm was co-counsel with Sadler in the $750,000 settlement for the Gregg County case.

Carr was paid $5,000 in legal fees for aiding Sadler one day in the Gregg County case, Sadler testified.

Last White Rajah Of Sarawak Dies

LONDON (AP)—Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, 88, the last white rajah of the North Borneo territory of Sarawak, died today after a long illness.

Except for the period of Japan's World War II occupation, the Brooke family ruled Sarawak as the world's only white rajahs from 1840 until 1946. In that year Sir Charles ceded the territory of 40,000 square miles and 500,000 people to the British government.

Sarawak was given to the Brooke family by the Sultan of Brunei in 1840 in appreciation for the help of James Brooke, Sir Charles' great-uncle, in quelling a rebellion. He became the first white rajah.

Bexar Commissioners Rap Pena For Crystal City Acts

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The Bexar County Commissioners Court by a 4-1 vote adopted a resolution Wednesday condemning one of its own members for participating in the Crystal City election April 2.

In the Crystal City election, a council was elected made up solely of persons of Mexican descent. The overthrow of the established political leaders has caused charges that various outside groups are trying to tilt the new council how to run Crystal City.

This Could Mean Life Or Death For Cooper

TOKYO (AP)—If all goes well, an encouraging word radioed from the U.S. ship Coastal Sentry will be the last thing astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper hears before he begins the crucial re-entry phase of his space flight.

The Coastal Sentry, now moored in Nagasaki Bay is to steam into the Pacific Saturday and take position 300 miles off Kyushu Island to monitor and possibly control Cooper's re-entry.

Cooper, 36, an Air Force major, is scheduled to lift off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., next Tuesday and orbit the earth 34 hours before landing in the center of an armada of ships in the Pacific off Midway.

The 22-orbit flight, the longest by an American, has as one of its primary objectives a close study of how well an astronaut can function during prolonged periods of weightlessness.

Coastal Sentry scientists led by America's first world-orbiting astronaut, John H. Glenn Jr., will form the last link in a chain of tracking stations positioned around the world to monitor Cooper's flight and to report back to Cape Canaveral.

If Cooper is unable to fire his spaceship's retro-rockets and slow it for re-entry, Glenn will fire them electronically from his ship control position in an attempt to guide the craft down through the earth's atmosphere.

Glenn will have the advice of two space physicians and electronics experts. While within range of the Coastal Sentry, Cooper will be watched by Glenn's team on television. This will be the first use of television to relay pictures from an American spaceship to earth.

Dr. White Heads Baptists

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Rev. K. Owen White, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Houston, was elected president of the Southern Baptist Convention today.

Dr. White is chief spokesman for a group of fundamentalists which has pressed for the elimination of liberal doctrinal teachings from the denomination's six seminaries and other agencies.

His election came on a third ballot in the convention's annual assembly after the withdrawal of the top man on the first ballot, threw the convention into an unprecedented lull.

The object of the campaign on the third ballot was the Rev. W. O. Vaughn Jr., of Little Rock. Dr. White, 60, is a native of London. He has been in Houston 10 years and formerly was at Gainesville, Ga., Atlanta, Washington and Little Rock.

Dr. Carl Bates, Charlotte, N.C., withdrew after leading the first ballot. Dr. Bates did not explain, but it was reported that the board of deacons of his Charlotte church persuaded him he is needed at home.

Dr. White ran second on the first ballot. Dr. White led on the second ballot. Dr. Vaughn was second.

Dr. White introduced two recommendations which touched off a liberal-fundamentalist struggle at the 1962 assembly in San Francisco. Study Planned On Garbage, Sewage Plant

Two engineers are in Big Spring today for consultation with city officials about sanitation problems in garbage disposal and the sewage treatment plant program.

Dr. F. J. Zuben Jr., chief engineer of sanitary engineering for the Texas State Health Department, inspected the present dump grounds and possible sites for a change of location.

"Dr. Zuben is checking our operations and site today, and will make recommendations," City Manager Larry Crow said this morning. "We anticipate recommendations for immediate steps to improve our present operations and suggestions for a long-range program of garbage disposal."

Bill London, consulting engineer with Forrest and Cotton, was expected in the city today to discuss recent developments at the disposal plant.

"Our immediate concern is to get the new plant completed and in operation. It is virtually complete but inspections and tests must be made. Work was held up several days when suppliers shipped items not meeting specifications," the city manager said. "The contractor had to ship them back and reorder."

The new plant will give ample time to evaluate problems caused when the old aeration and sedimentation structure floated out of the ground Sunday," Crow said. "A lot of planning is needed to get the unit back in operation. The new plant will relieve an overload on present units at the old plant."

The big structure rose nearly three feet after it was drained for remodeling. Sub-surface water, about three feet below the surface, forced the concrete unit up following Sunday's rains.

Eight police officers escorted the group and helped them across intersections. A police motorcycle led the marchers from the Catholic Sacred Heart School to Combs Grade School, where some parochial school students had registered last week.

Demonstrations by parents of parochial school children who want their children to ride public school buses began last week in central Missouri and the St. Louis area. They protested action by Missouri's Legislature which has tabled a bill giving the parochial school students the right to ride public school buses.

The protests, including enrollment of parochial students spread across the state in a few days. Principal Herbert White met the marchers in Florissant today at the door and directed those who wanted to register for next fall to the school gymnasium.

GOP Leaders Dine Tonight. At $1,000 Each

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders from around the country dine tonight at $1,000 a plate—and take a new look at a couple of potential presidential nominees.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will have a chance to show their political wares at the dinner, which party officials hope will raise more than $400,000 for the 1964 congressional campaigns. The gathering also provides an opportunity for informal discussion among the party leaders about the political future of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

DIVORCE ISSUE
He had been considered almost a sure bet for next year's GOP presidential nomination until doubts were thrown on his prospects by his divorce 14 months ago and his marriage last Saturday to a divorcee, Margaretta Fuller Murphy.

He canceled out of tonight's dinner because he's honeymooning in Venezuela. However, he sent in his check for $1,000. Romney is down to make one of the brief speeches at the dinner, while Goldwater will be the guest of honor. Originally the dinner was billed as a "salute to Goldwater," honoring him as former chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee.

But later the title was changed to "salute to the Senate"—apparently in the interests of party unity.

There was no sign that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower would attend the affair.

Eisenhower has not publicly proclaimed his choice for the nomination; he has said merely that he would support the man the Republican convention chooses.

WON'T ATTEND
Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania will not attend because of prior commitments in his home state.

A number of other governors will be at the dinner, plus members of Congress and others prominent in the party.

Victor A. Johnston, director of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said it appeared the dinner would gross more than $400,000.

This is small compared to the $1 million plus which the Democrats raised at a $1,000 dinner and $100 foodless gala last January. But then the Democrats had things going for them that the Republicans haven't—including a president in the White House, big majorities in Congress and a lot of top officeholders.

Telstar Carries TV To France
NEW YORK (AP)—American color television went to France Wednesday night via Telstar 2, the latest communication satellite in space. The French reported excellent reception.

Telstar 2, launched Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, transmitted eight minutes of color tape on its eighth orbit, but because of the satellite's position, the French picked up only three minutes of it. Selected from a Bell Telephone Hour program, the part of the show seen in France featured ballet dancers and music.

The program went from NBC in New York by land line to the Andover, Maine, ground station, and then 9,000 miles into space to Telstar 2.

The color telecast was followed by a black-and-white repeat of Tuesday night's initial relay. The French termed this transmission extremely good. It also was picked up in England, where reception was described as good.

Warm Weather In Broad Areas

By The Associated Press
Unseasonably warm weather covered broad areas of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today after Wednesday's midsummer temperatures in many cities.

The mercury stayed in the 60-70 degree range during the night in most areas. Readings in the 80s and 90s were reported Wednesday in many sections as a strong flow of warm air from the Southeast fanned across sections from the Atlantic to the Rockies.

Temperatures in the 50s and a few 40s were reported this morning along northern border areas from New England to the Plains. Similar marks prevailed in the northern and central Plateau region and the northern Rockies. Hottest spots were in the southwest Desert region with readings in the 70s and 80s.

Record high temperatures for May 8 included 99 in Dodge City, Kan., 91 in Chicago and 90 in St. Louis and Burlington, Iowa. It was 101 in Phoenix, Ariz.

There were a few wet spots during the night and early morning. Showers fell in southern New England, with drizzle in northern Vermont. Co-Op's Power Demands Down Demands for power eased slightly during April in comparison to the same month a year ago, operating report of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative shows.

Power sales amounted to 8,936,014 KWH, a modest decline from the 9,176,163 April peak reached last year. Showers the first and last of the month dulled irrigation pumping slightly.

Sales for the first four months aggregated 22,862,115, ahead of the 21,172,341 for the same period last year.

At the end of April, there were 2,382 miles of lines energized, a gain of five miles for the month, making the total 37 miles more than at the same time last year. There were 5,203 members connected, a gain of 54 for the month and 313 for the year. Density of members per mile rose to 2.18.

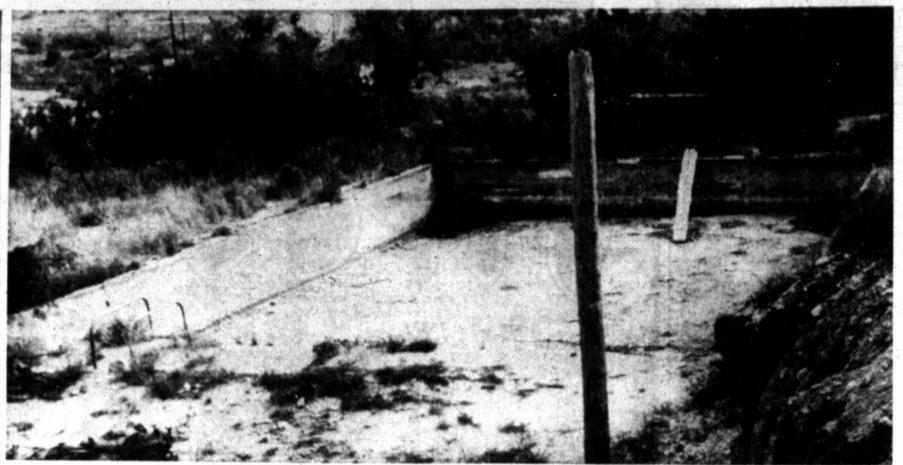

Criticism Rapped

TOKYO (AP)—U. S. Navy Secretary Fred Korth said today the Navy may face a critical period of ship obsolescence in five years unless there is "greater recognition of our needs" in 1965 appropriations for new ships.

Korth, who arrived Wednesday on a Far Eastern tour, told newsmen the proposed 1964 budget provides for 41 new ships and 35 conversions.

PROGRESS ELIMINATES EARLY DAY SWIMMING POOL
Bulldozers have covered over once popular "Jones Tank"

Time, Progress Engulf First Swimming Hole Here

By SAM BLACKBURN

The crumbling walls of Big Spring's first official swimming pool disappeared last week under the roaring power of a bulldozer.

Marshall Fields, developer of real estate in Sections 4 and 5, Block 32, township 1-south, ordered the workmen to level off and fill in the old Theo Jones "tank" which in the early 1920's was the town's "pay" swimming pool.

Older residents remember the place well. It occupied a corner of land across the road from the Jones residence. Jones, a dairy operator, built the rectangular concrete tank as a water storage facility to help irrigate his lands. He had a sizeable family of youngsters and they found the big pool fine for swimming.

Naturally, the Jones kids had friends, naturally, too, these kids gravitated to the tank. Before he could do much about it, although it is not recorded that Mr. Jones ever tried to stop it, the tank was teeming with youngsters.

Eventually, he decided to accept the situation for what it was. He put up shelters where the bathers could dress and undress, fenced the area and began charging for the use of the pool.

Willard Sullivan, city druggist, recalls paying his quarter on many occasions for the privilege of swimming in the cool water. A windmill pumped a steady stream of new water into the reservoir. No one bothered about such things as "filtration" or "chlorination." No one worried over the issue of whether or not the pool was "sanitary." Apparently Mr. Jones kept a weather eye on the water and when it seemed to have about served its time, he closed the gates, opened the line and let the pond drain out. The water made its way to his garden patch.

WORD SPREAD
"When Mr. Jones refilled the pool, the word spread fast," one old timer recalled. "Kids began trekking from town to the tank by the dozens. You nearly had to wait your turn to get in the pool."

It was about three miles from the homes of many of the pool's young patrons. The only way to get there in those days was to walk.

"On a hot day," Joe Pickle, who was one of the place's most loyal patrons said, "by the time you walked to the pool, you were really ready for a swim."

Lee Porter, county judge, was another youngster who found the swimming good at the pool.

"Most of the swimming was by boys," he recalls. "However from time to time, there were parties of girls who showed up. Usually, when this happened, the boys would be barred and the females had the pool all to themselves."

Just how long the pool operated is uncertain. Most of those who made use of its facilities think it folded sometime soon after the 1920's were ushered in.

The records show that Jones disposed of the land to C. L. Barnes, in February, 1919. Pickle, Porter and a few others recall that Barnes continued the operation of the swimming place for a time. How it happened to be closed down, no one seems to remember. It could have been as an aftermath to a tragedy which occurred at the site.

INJURED

A young boy, more daring than his comrades, climbed up on a cliff which adjoined the pool. He plunged off. The dive broke his neck and the youth was a helpless cripple from that time on.

The tank, nearly buried in undergrowth and half filled with drifting sand, was forgotten. As time passed, the area began to develop. Birdwell Lane was paved and extended southward. Kentwood and other additions in the area built up. Fields acquired the land and began improving it.

Months ago, he levelled off the site just to the north of the old pool but the pool itself remained dreaming away in the brush and weeds which surrounded it. Now Fields has plans for the land where it stood.

"I hated to see it go," he said, "but it was in the way."

COVERED

So the bulldozers moved in, the aged concrete walls collapsed and the dust obscured the site—blanketing out even more completely the physical reminder of another day. The haze of dust whipped up by the machines matched the dimming memories of the men, who as boys, once regarded the Jones Pool as the "best place to swim anywhere."

Race Mingling Idea Fostered

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—This mingling of Negroes and whites wasn't done under court order. It happened because they made a decision to meet each other on equal terms.

This was "Project Friendship," or, more simply, a schedule of visits between Negroes and whites in Knoxville. It may have been a one-shot thing, but the group which sponsored it hopes not.

In response to a question at his news conference Wednesday, President Kennedy suggested that such a project might improve race relations in Washington.

About 160 white and Negro families volunteered to participate in "Project Friendship" in Knoxville. It began Sunday when Negroes visited whites, and vice versa, with no more in mind than a display of friendship.

"Our visit with a doctor and his wife was just delightful," said Mrs. Robert Harvey, a Negro whose husband is a college math professor. "We talked about everyday things, nothing unusual. Just like friends."

The project was planned by several persons of different faiths who were interested in creating understanding between the races.

Merrill Proudfoot, a white member of the group and a college professor of religion and philosophy, said the visits were arranged with "people who have a conscience on this race problem."

Through ministers and personal contacts, the group solicited white and Negro families to participate. A screening committee parried ones with similar economic and educational backgrounds.

Each family received an information card describing the family it was meeting. A formal invitation was issued, and the get-together arranged.

One misconception, Proudfoot said, was cleared up by the visits. "The misconception being that when people of different races get together, they have to talk about something special."

"We hope there will be a continuing interest in this type of racial friendship, and it is possible we will arrange more visits, although it isn't planned now," Proudfoot said.

Three School Choirs Schedule Concert

One hundred and 50 young singers, accompanied by an instrumental ensemble, will join in climaxing a concert of three choirs Friday evening. The occasion is the annual spring program of the Big Spring High School, the Runnels Junior High School and the Goliad Junior High School choirs; the time and place are the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Each of the three choirs will present brief programs, then they will join to present the memorable work of Randall Thompson, "The Last Words of David." This work was commissioned in 1949 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra for Dr. Serge Koussevitzky in honor of the 25th anniversary of his directorship. It was first performed Aug. 12 of that year by the Berkshire Music Center Choirs and the Boston Symphony and was used as the finale to the documentary film, "Tanglewood" in the "Voice of America" Series.

John Ernest Kennedy, 60, 1610 Nolan was taken to Howard County Hospital Foundation by River ambulance following a two-car accident in the 2400 block of West Third at 3:34 p.m. Wednesday. Kennedy complained of back and neck pains, and was in shock following the collision. Mrs. Kennedy said he did not rest well in the hospital Wednesday night, but was hoping to get home following X-rays today. He is a star route mail carrier. Driver of the second vehicle was C. P. Cooper Jr., 34, of 403 NW 5th Cooper's car was in collision with the rear of the Kennedy station wagon. Locations of other accidents investigated by police Wednesday, and drivers of vehicles involved, were 300 block of Goliad, Bobby Ray Armstrong, 1600 Settles, and Hollis Leslie Shady, 911 Lancaster, 1200 block West Third, 2nd Lt. Intelligence Gap In Cuba Claimed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. surveillance of Soviet military activity in Cuba has been curtailed and an intelligence gap is developing, the Miami Herald said today. In a dispatch from Washington, the Herald cited three instances of decreased intelligence-gathering: 1. Low-level reconnaissance flights have been suspended since Feb. 9. 2. High-level U2 reconnaissance flights are being kept at a minimum. 3. Anti-Castro guerrilla reports are being stifled by the U.S. crackdown on American-based raids against Cuba. Military leaders in Washington were described as upset over three developments in Cuba about which they feel they have insufficient information. The appearance of a large number of Russian tents, some of them big enough to enclose a missile and its launcher. Heavy transport traffic to and from areas where large caves are known to be. Cuba exiles have long maintained that the Russians are hiding missiles in Cuba's numerous caves. Construction of a rail line to a major Soviet camp area. These showed up in recent high-level photos, but beyond bringing the disturbing discoveries to light no detailed information has been obtained—due to the lack of low-level reconnaissance flights, the drastic curbs on raiders and the adverse effect that has had on contacts with, and the operations of, the underground," said the Herald article. The newspaper said the slowdown in intelligence gathering is the result of what it called President Kennedy's determination that nothing be done to rock the boat in Cuba. Congressional leaders have been told that the President believes his conciliatory course will lead to the withdrawal of more Russian troops from Cuba, the paper said.

Suit Filed As Result Of Wreck

Charles Ray Smith, whose address is given as 402 Bell, has been named defendant in a $70,300 damage suit filed in 118th District Court. Simon Chavez, Big Spring, is the plaintiff. He alleges that on Feb. 9 his car and that of the defendant collided on North Gregg. As a result of the collision Chavez claims injuries he received entitle him to $70,300 damages.

Police Check Two Thefts

Thefts of a lawn mower and a purse were investigated by Big Spring police Wednesday afternoon. The lawn mower was reported stolen from the rear of the Roy Wheelless home, 710 W. 4th. He told officers he used the 21-inch mower Tuesday. Mrs. R. W. McNew, 507 Douglas, said a coin purse containing $14 in currency was taken from a bedroom dresser some time Wednesday. Entry was made through an unlocked back door.

Lions Salute Carothers

Downtown Lions recognized one of their own, Louis Carothers, Wednesday as the incoming governor of District 2A. Responding to a standing salute, Carothers reminded that it was a club honor and that several of the district appointments would have to come from the club. A quartet of young musicians from the high school band performed playing a difficult selection featuring woodwinds. In addition, Sylvia Edwards was well received in a descriptive piccolo solo. In the ensemble were Jimmy Burleson, oboe; Sylvia Edwards, flute; Aron Hughes, clarinet; Carol Odum, bassoon; A. J. Perkle, French horn; and Candy Bacus, piano. A ladies night affair for Tuesday at 7 o'clock at the Cosden Country Club will feature an address by Tom Kirkham, said James Tidwell, president. The dinner will take the place of the regular meeting next Wednesday. On June 5, Lions will have their children and grandchildren as special guests, and the Runnels High Dixieland Band will be on hand to help supply entertainment. Induction of officers is set for June 12. Avery Falkner reported progress on the miniature golf course project at the Big Spring State Hospital, and Tidwell said that with the district convention past, operations would be stepped up.

Work Plans Discussed For Halfway House Residents

Plans to put more Halfway House residents to work were made Wednesday during a meeting of the board of directors for the organization. At present only three of the nine occupants of the house are working regularly, with others taking occasional work as it becomes available. Advertising by the group has resulted in many calls from citizens needing yard work, but often the callers have neither equipment nor transportation. Bennett Brooke, president, pointed out. This problem will be remedied shortly. Equipment can be purchased.

Floyd Reibold pointed out. The group agreed to look around for a truck or other form of transportation which can be purchased cheaply. Standard rates for work will be set, depending on whether the patients must furnish their own equipment and transportation or whether the employer will provide it. Brooke pointed out that the Halfway House has been incorporated as a charity organization and that all donations made to the group are tax deductible. The rehabilitation project gives patients an opportunity to make the transition from hospital to normal living in a semi-sheltered atmosphere. They must support themselves. At present there are nine occupants of the house, with a maximum capacity of 10. Inability to work consistently brought on some financial difficulties at first because some patients could not pay their full portion of the cost of the project. Each should pay $81 a month.

Deadline Near For Transfers

Walker Bailey, county school superintendent, warned that time is nearly over for making application for transfers from one school district to another. Only 12 applications for transfers have been received at his office so far. The deadline is June 1. Last year, 109 transfers were processed.

Graduation Set For Two Schools

GAY HILL—Graduation exercises for the 8th grade graduates of Gay Hill and Center Point Common School districts will be at 8 p.m. May 16. The 14 graduates from the two schools will receive their diplomas as climax to exercises planned in the Gay Hill auditorium. Darrell Flynt, principal of the Elbow school, is to be the guest speaker. Walker Bailey, county superintendent, will be master of ceremonies. Eight of the graduates are from Gay Hill and six from Center Point.

and at this time only about two-thirds can do so. However, since the Halfway House was incorporated, its debts have been paid and prospects for the future are excellent. It has now been in operation one year. A need for air conditioners for the present building was pointed out. The group meets again June 12, this time at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant. Present at this meeting at Coker's Restaurant were Brooke, Reibold, E. A. Fivewash, Mrs. Ernest Nelson, Randall Polk, Lee Porter, the Rev. V. Ward Jackson, Mrs. James Watts and D. M. McKinney, a guest.

Man Committed

A Big Spring man, ruled an alcoholic, was taken to the Wichita Falls State Hospital Wednesday by Deputy Sonny Buzby. He had been ordered committed to the institution by the county court. Transfers are not required, he said, where a boy or girl plans to attend another school in the same district where they are now in school. For example, boys and girls in one elementary school in Big Spring who will go to another in the city next fall, need no transfer. The parents of other children, who must attend a school next year different from the one he is now attending, must come to the office in person and fill out an application for transfer. Such applications have to be made before June 1.

best sellers

Tops on everybody's best seller list is the daily newspaper. On an average day a daily newspaper is bought by 86.4% of all U.S. households and read by about 90 million adults and 9 million teenagers.

It's not surprising that the newspaper is such a best seller. No where else can you find out so fast and in such detail what's going on in the far corners of the world or just around the corner in your own hometown.

The newspaper is the best source for shopping information, too, and that makes it a "best seller" as far as advertisers are concerned. People need to know what's for sale... for how much... for how long... and at whose store. They find out in the newspaper.

(From The 'Upper Room')

A-l-l A-b-o-a-r-d

The jet transport age has produced its own kind of dreamer. Individuals and sometimes whole families who park near the end of busy airport runways and watch and listen as the great silver machines take off for the far places.

This may strike the survivors of the golden age of the Iron Horse as a rather sterile venture into dreamland. They have memories of a more circumscribed but a more exciting era.

They remember the train-callers, their boyhood idols, who brought romance to the lofty chambers of many a railroad station waiting room. It was in the days when public address systems were unknown. But the rich, resonant tones of the train-caller rose above the hum of conversation, the clatter of baggage wagons, and the other undefinable noises of a waiting room.

In Southern Pacific station in New Orleans the caller would be announcing the departure of the "Sunset Limited" which was about to be ferried across the Mississippi River to Atchafalaya to begin its journey westward. "Morgan City," the caller would begin in a voice that filled the waiting room, and with "Lake Charles, Beaumont, Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Phoenix, Los Angeles and San Francisco. A-l-l A-b-o-a-r-d . . . Or in New York's Pennsylvania Station you were invited to a shorter journey by the caller: "The advance section of the Congressional, Baltimore and Washington only, track 17, East Concourse, now ready to depart. All aboard, please."

Or in Chicago stations you were summoned to board the Union Pacific's "Empire Builder," the New York Central's "Trail Blazer" or "Twentieth Century Limited," or the Illinois Central's "Panama Limited" or Santa Fe's "Chief" or "Super Chief."

The two soft "highball" whistles from the steam locomotive, the first hesitant "chuffs" from the smokestack, the clouds of white steam from the pistons and finally the never-to-be-forgotten rhythmic chuffing of the locomotive and the clackety-clack of wheels against the rail joints as the train moved into open country. Never forgotten, too, was the faraway moaning of the locomotive whistle, warning of its approach to crossings, demanding right-of-way on parallel steel lines that seemed to meet at the horizon.

The bright memories of the Iron Horse remain, even in a day when pleasant-voiced women whom you never see, call you to a trip around the world instead of across a continent, in a brightly lit airport terminal.

Parallel Studies

Studies are being made as to how best to restore an aeration and sedimentation basin which "floated" out of the ground during the weekend at the city sewer plant.

It is a ticklish situation, and until efforts to force it back into place by weight of fluid can be assessed, it will be difficult to ascertain the extent of damage. At this time it may be determined if the structure will be suitable for its intended purposes, also the cost of the incident.

While the engineering-studies are being made how best to restore the basin to usefulness, there ought to be parallel studies as to whether this sort of thing is unusual, is attributable to forces beyond ordinary control, or whether the pressures of a water table on an empty basin should have been foreseen or could happen again.

"MOTHER, here's some good news. My big pet blacksnake in the basement has just had kittens. Now we can have snakes all over the house."

"NOW THE BILL I have introduced assumes that Congress has the power to legislate, and then it provides for accelerating one hour all over the United States during three months—June, July and August."

"But where did we get our time in the days of Jefferson? What is the function of the Naval Observatory? Why is it that everybody now has to follow the lead of the stock exchange and the brokers in New York and have five months of daylight-saving time when nobody wants five months of it except them? It means that you would get up in April before daylight, and children would have to go to bed before dark."

"ALTHOUGH ONE of the measures before Congress would delegate legislative power to a federal agency to fix the time, a dispute is arising as to whether, under the Constitution, legislative power of this kind can really be delegated by Congress to any agency whatsoever."

"UNDOUBTEDLY, the pressure for more and more daylight-saving time has grown in recent years due to the desire of people in certain sections of the country to have the use of more daylight in the spring and summer months. The farmers have for the most part disliked the plan. The objection in Congress is not to daylight-saving time itself, but to the lack of uniformity in the whole system. If Congress were to legislate and adopt a formula which applied uniformly throughout the country, there would not be any objection to daylight saving, as such. It is the length of the daylight-saving period and the tendency of states to split into two zones which are causing the difficulty."

"SO WE WENT on until 1918, and then, partly as a war measure and partly as whatnot, we passed a law fixing standard time zones—four zones, and we split Georgia. All of Georgia has since been put in the eastern zone. Now we have a map that was published last year by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and it establishes what we now know as four standard time zones. A bill has been prepared by the ICC that would permit each of these four areas to have two fast zones and two standard zones in each of the four zones, or 16 zones. Well,

Billy Graham

QUESTION: If God loves us so much why do we have to be reconciled to Him? Why does He not just save us and be done with it?

ANSWER: The holiness of God, against which sin is so terrible, demands that a way be found whereby sin is cleansed and forgiven so that we can come into God's holy presence. Sin separates man from God—a reconciliation is then necessary. But the holiness of God is matched by His love and He has provided everything for the sinner. The Bible tells us: "And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to Himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given us the ministry of reconciliation; to wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation." We can never understand the necessity of such reconciliation until we see something of the holiness of sin. Nor can we be reconciled without faith in Christ, who made the reconciliation for us. This new relationship is the work of the Holy Spirit in our hearts, enabling us to repent of sin, return from it and put our trust in Christ as redeemer. You ask why God does not "whosoever" will believe but we are not puppets; God does not force salvation on anyone. It is His free gift but we must receive it! There are we reconciled to God.

James Marlow

Kennedy And The Land Mine

WASHINGTON (AP)—All through his news conference President Kennedy stepped gingerly on the subject of racial strife in Alabama as if he were leading an expedition on tip-toe around a land mine.

Then it suddenly popped—or it sounded like a pop—because of clumsy Alabama timing. Negro leaders themselves disagreed on whether they heard an explosion.

Kennedy kept quiet this past week while day after day Negroes by the thousands in Birmingham put on massive demonstrations for equal treatment and thousands of them were jailed.

Tuesday night through an aide he expressed hope the increasingly dangerous problem could be settled peacefully. Then less than 30 minutes before he faced his news conference Wednesday came the word.

Negro leaders announced a 24-hour truce in the demonstrations. Kennedy told the newsmen, "We can hope that tensions will ease" and this episode would remind all communities how urgent it is that "all bars to equal opportunity" be removed as promptly as possible.

Then came that popping sound which may turn out to have been an explosion.

The Rev. Martin Luther King and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy were leaders in a Negro demonstration April 19. They were arrested and charged with parading without a license. They were also leaders in the recent massive demonstrations.

Both were involved in the 24-hour truce arranged Wednesday. Shortly after it was announced, perhaps during Kennedy's news conference, they went to trial in Birmingham's City Court on the April 19 charge.

Both were convicted and sentenced to 180 days in jail, plus a $100 fine, plus costs. The fat was in the fire all over again.

Three of her front teeth are coming in crooked. But I think that in three years—and for $750—I can straighten them out nicely."

"Answer the phone, will you, Mom? I'm busy studying this book on the boyhood of Abraham Lincoln. What a square he was!"

"I don't care what the kids did. I've had a hard day at the office. I've been punishing, you punish them up and sew on the button, Mom, or I'll be late to school."

"MOTHER, dear, could you please help me with this homework problem in algebra? While you're working it out I'll watch television. They've got a real keen program on, and I'll just die utterly if I don't get to see it."

"Stab me with a knife, Mother, shoot me with a gun—but please, please, please don't make me wear an old-fashioned dress like that to school. Everybody in class will laugh at me. I'd rather be dead, dead, dead."

"What a soft snap women have today. Why, my grandmother used to take in washing to help out the family."

"It's Mrs. Spieker on the phone, Mom. She wants to know if you can drive around and pick up three or four more parents on your way to the P-T-A. meeting tonight."

"PLEASE DON'T let Dad see my report card, Mom. He'll kill me—I just know he will."

"I'd love to help you with the dinner dishes, Mother dear, but right now I have to call Jane and ask her about this history quiz we're going to have tomorrow. You wouldn't want me to flunk it, would you?"

"So what if the meal does get cold, Mom? I ain't really hungry anyway."

"Is it my fault somebody stole my bicycle? You could make Dad buy me a new one—if you really wanted to. He'll do anything you ask him to."

"Now I want to get one thing straight once and for all: I'm the boss in this family."

"I DON'T see why you complain about being so tired. Why, my grandmother worked 16 hours a day, lived to be 80, and never had a labor-saving device in her life."

"What do you do with all the money I bring home to this house—pour it down the drain or just throw it away with both hands?"

"If you want new wallpaper, honey, you'll have to hang it yourself. Maybe you can get the kids to help out. It's about time they learned to do something useful."

"Mother dear, could you drop whatever you're doing and drive over to Jane's house and pick up some new records—and the store's four whole blocks from here!"

"Putting on a little weight, aren't you, honey? Maybe you don't get enough exercise just lying around the house all day doing nothing."

"No, it is not related to cancer. It is mostly a matter of body build, and the "dropped" organ may or may not result in symptoms. Surgery is not required."

NOTE TO MRS. J. B.: No, bad tonsils have nothing to do with causing brain tumors.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Low Blow To The Red Man

Once again, the Red Man is coming out second best to the White Man, with a little aid from the Yellow Man.

THE INDIANS complain that bogus "Indian" art is being sold throughout the West to tourists, grabbing a major portion of the market from real Indian handicrafts. Tourists, for the most part, will buy jewelry, pottery and blankets with only the seller's word for where it was made. All of it, of course, is pushed as the real stuff, made by real Indians.

Much of this bogus material is imported from Asian countries, but some of it is made here. Adding to the perplexity of the problem, many Indians have lowered their standards and joined in the growing market for cheaper, non-authentic goods.

ONE ASPECT of the problem is that there are many shops in the West offering genuine Navajo blankets, whereas the Navajo do not make blankets. Many tourists come home with a blanket, certain it is authentic from Indian loom and handiwork. He would do as well, and a lot cheaper, to buy it at home.

The Department of the Interior is attempting to crack down on bogus work, but there is little that can be done. The only protection for the Indian is that bogus operators can be prosecuted if they represent their goods as genuine. They get around this in many ways, calling their stuff "Indian style," "Indian type," or "made in Indian country."

THE BOGUS WORK far outnumbers the genuine to meet the demand. Also, it is often cheaper. As a result, many tribes are losing their only source of income.

Defenders of true Indian art are hopeful that the tourists will learn something about handicrafts before he buys, but little chance is held out that this will solve the problem.

More serious than the loss of money is the loss of the Indian's craft; his willingness to lower standards to meet the market demands could eventually destroy the heritage of native art. Government anthropologists consider this a real danger.

MEANWHILE, the tourist continues to pick up so-called Indian worked silver, which is lighter and more ornate than the real thing; cheap enamel painted pottery, far inferior to the glazed work of real Indians; and "Navajo" blankets. And the Indian is forced to continue depending on the government for his sustenance, as his own means of livelihood slips away, taking the only native American culture still extant on this continent.

A Matter Of Public Conscience

It is one woman's opinion that no church should have to depend even for partial support on bingo and no public school system for its maintenance on a state lottery based on horse racing.

This attitude stems from that puritanical conscience which got rather short shrift from the President recently when he noted that the lingering Puritan spirit in the 20th Century America—still takes an old-fashioned attitude toward the national debt.

STILL, IT SEEMS doubly sad and disheartening that one of the rock-ribbed New England states, progenitor of the Puritan conscience, should now resort to a lottery to help support its public schools.

It is difficult to associate a lottery with the pride and independence of the citizens of whom the state's great citizen, Daniel Webster, wrote:

"MEN HANG OUT their signs indicative of their respective trades: shoemakers hang out a gigantic shoe; jewelers, a monster watch; and the dentist hangs out a gold tooth; but up in the mountains of New Hampshire, God Almighty has hung out a sign to show that there He makes men."

Is it possible that the influx of outlanders—New Yorkers and Bostonians and other city folk—has had a debilitating effect on New Hampshire? These alien elements have been sneaking into New Hampshire for years now, buying up the picturesque little farms and the colonial houses on the edge of her lovely villages—buying them up as summer and weekend refuges away from the maddening crowds.

NEW HAMPSHIRE is surely one of the most beautiful states in the Union. It is not surprising that it has attracted creeping exurbia.

Nonetheless, it is disappointing that a New England state should choose the easy way out via easy money to meet the $4,000,000 tax gap in its public-school budget.

EVER SINCE World War II, moralists, philosophers, economists and even some politicians have been warning this country of the dangers of "easy money" and its lax ethical consequences, especially among the young.

There are still a lot of old gaffers around who can remember being taught at home, at church and at school that man had to work for what he got; that "in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread."

BUT "SWEAT" became a nasty word a long time ago and now the most tasteless teevie advertising is trying to abolish it altogether. "Sweat" disappeared from the language about the same time that the "fast buck" appeared in it. Just what and how does one teach a dollar, a lottery scholar? of the dignity of labor and the virtues of hard work when his free public education is paid for by the fast bucks of legalized gambling?

How will the stern, rock-bound New England conscience answer that question, providing it is still stern and rock-bound?

THIS ESSAY is written in sorrow rather than anger. If New York—the richest city in the richest state in the richest country in the world—cannot adequately support its public schools, New Hampshire, which has always been noted for its character rather than its wealth, is more to be pitied than scorned.

New York City's 1963-64 budget fails the public-school system, as such budgets have in the past, despite the pleas of the Board of Education and the public—and despite the imposition of an oppressive new four-cent sales tax that bears down hardest on those least able to pay it.

THERE ARE those who would deny that there is any crisis in public education in the United States, but the situations in New Hampshire and New York are too widespread and too common to be swept under the rug.

PAT CROWLEY

A Dream Comes First, Then Make It Reality

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — "You have to have a dream of beauty to make it a reality," Pat Crowley told me when I remarked that she was so much prettier now than when we first met.

"I came to Hollywood straight from a Broadway show. Working before cameras and doing live productions are quite different. I was afraid of glamour. I didn't want to compete on a beauty level, and I was almost indifferent to improving my appearance. I wore my hair too severe, and I didn't know any of the little tricks that make a flattering difference."

The make-up man at NBC came to powder Pat's face before she played a scene for "The Eleventh Hour" TV series.

"I have an oily skin," Pat explained. "I used to have to change my make-up several times a day, but not since I discovered these little pads of paper that act as skin blotters. You press them lightly against the oily areas around the nose, chin and forehead. They absorb the surface oil without disturbing the make-up. I never go anywhere without them. They are a great time-saver."

because now my make-up, even in hot weather, lasts all day."

Whether you have oily, dry or normal skin, you'll find much information in Leaflet M-86, "What Every Woman Should Know About Cosmetics." For your copy send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 54, California.

Lary, Tasby Back In Minor Leagues

By The Associated Press
With former Detroit ace Frank Lary heading the list, more than a score of ballplayers were heading for the minor leagues today, victims of the annual May roster trimming in the majors.

By noon, Eastern Daylight Time, all major league clubs were required to be down to the 25-man player limit. The big league rosters will remain at that figure until Sept. 1 when the limit is eased again.

By far the most active of the teams was the Tigers, pre-season picks as American League contenders who have been struggling to avoid last place.

Much of the Detroit problem has been due to the inability of Lary to approach the form that made him one of the top right-handers in the league. Hampered by a sore arm last season and rusty because of limited work this year, Lary heads to Knoxville of the South Atlantic League to try to pitch his way back in shape.

Some of the other "name" players involved in the cutdowns were outfielder Willie Tasby of Cleveland, optioned to Jacksonville of the International League; right-hander Eli Grba of the Los Angeles Angels, sent to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League; and veteran catcher Hank Foiles, released by the Cincinnati Reds.

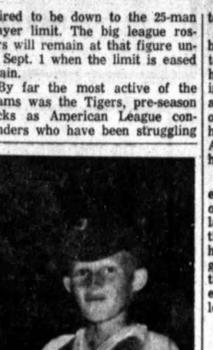

Head coach and Athletic Director Darrell Royal and Lovorn are in Fayetteville, for the conference track meet.

The student newspaper, The Daily Texan, said today that reports of Lovorn leaving leaked out two weeks ago when a Waco newspaper said a few days later that Patterson was coming to Texas.

Lovorn at first denied he had resigned but confirmed that he threatened not to sign another contract with Texas if there was any substantial cut in financial support for Texas track scholarships. Royal denied that any such cut had been planned.

"According to various sources, Lovorn was on his way out and was given a chance to resign rather than be fired, but he exploded the whole thing with his own comments," the Daily Texan said.

Willie Davis On Rampage

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
One of the Los Angeles Dodgers' big concerns this season has been the hitting slump of Tommy Davis, who led the National League with a .346 average and 153 runs batted in last season. He's been hampered by leg injuries and is hitting only .227.

But Willie Davis, sometimes called the other Davis, suddenly has taken up the slack. In the last four games, Willie's had seven hits in 15 times at bat and has driven in five runs.

It's no coincidence that the Dodgers have won three of the four, including an 11-5 decision over St. Louis Wednesday night. Willie had two homers and a triple in that one, driving in three runs and scoring the one that broke a 5-5 tie.

San Francisco opened a two-game lead over the standings with a 12-5 victory over Milwaukee's slumping Braves. Cincinnati edged Houston 3-2, the Chicago Cubs bombed Pittsburgh 9-5 and New York's Mets downed Philadelphia 3-2.

Joe Nuxhall Stops Colts

CINCINNATI (AP) — Veteran southpaw Joe Nuxhall scattered seven hits Wednesday night and pitched Cincinnati to a 3-2 victory over the Houston Colts.

Singles by Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman in the fourth set up a two-run hit by catcher Johnny Edwards.

The Colts closed to within one run with an unearned marker in the seventh after Leo Cardenas muffed Bob Aspromonte's ground-er. Singles by Howie Gosch and Carl Warwick brought him home. Cardenas had started the Reds off in the first inning with a lead-off triple, scoring on a sacrifice fly. Houston matched that in the second on a walk, single and sacrifice fly by Warwick.

Victory in the fifth and deciding game of a series also gave Sam Houston a spot in the NAL post-season playoffs. Sam Houston is 13-7 for the season, the same as Sul Ross.

Necktie Party For A Dummy

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas announced today that a new track coach was being hired on the university campus early today.

A crudely stuffed pair of pants and shirt strung high up a power line pole. A scrawled sign said merely "Coach Jack Patterson."

Numerous newspapers have said recently that Patterson, track coach at Baylor, is slated to replace T. J. (Froggie) Lovorn.

Head coach and Athletic Director Darrell Royal and Lovorn are in Fayetteville, for the conference track meet.

Walters Missing In Net Tourny

WACO (AP) — Jerry Walters, the Texas Longhorns' top singles ace, was not entered as play because today in the Southwest Conference tennis tournament.

Walters said he would not play because he needs to spend some time with his books. He indicated some other Texas netters would miss the tournament for the same reason.

The absence of Walters left Fritz Schuck of Rice, Jack Kornath of Texas and Daryl Allison of Texas Tech favored in the singles.

Tom Holworth, who defeated Schuck in the finals for last year's championship, did not return to Southern Methodist this year.

Umbricht, Former Cancer Patient, In New Start

CINCINNATI (AP) — The long wall ends tonight for big Jim Umbricht whose pitching career was in jeopardy because of cancer. He will be in the bullpen for the Houston Colts against the Cincinnati Reds.

Umbricht, 32, says he feels fine, anxious to get back to pitching. How will opposing players treat him? Can he charge off the mound and field a bunt? How will he react the first time he had to slide?

"I'm not too worried," he grinned. "I might not get on base, the way I hit."

Tourney Deadline At Abilene Nears

ABILENE — Entry deadline for the 1963 Abilene Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament is May 12. It was reminded Monday by William Bane, tournament chairman.

Kennedy Raids The Icebox, Cuts Finger

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has a wounded finger as evidence that, when it comes to slicing bread, he would make a good butcher.

The President showed up at his news conference Wednesday with a small bandage on the middle finger of his right hand.

Asked for an explanation, he said: "I cut my finger when I was cutting bread, unbelievable as it may sound."

Presidential aides said Kennedy suffered the self-inflicted wound a week ago today when he raided the icebox for an early afternoon snack.

One White House staff member who sees the President almost daily said he was surprised to learn at the news conference about the cut.

Another said he observed a bandage on the presidential finger last Friday but hadn't seen it again until Wednesday.

"A great deal of attention has been paid to little things that occur," said the reporter who asked Kennedy about the bandage. He said this is the case because of the President's regular appearance before television cameras at news conferences.

It was three months ago that another "little thing"—a red spot on the President's left cheek—was first noticed at a news conference. The White House explained this as the result of medical treatment for a thickening of the skin in one area over the cheekbone. The spot now is barely noticeable.

AEC Planning Nuclear Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission says an above ground nuclear blast—the first announced in the United States since last July 17—will be detonated at the Nevada test site this month.

The shot will be one of two small ones scheduled for May, the AEC said.

A chemical type of blast will be set off in conjunction with the surface shot to compare effects. The purpose of the underground shot was not disclosed.

The three explosions all will be a kiloton—1,000 tons of TNT—in power.

Angelo College Bill Approved

AUSTIN (AP)—The legislature boosted the number of state senior colleges Wednesday to 22, the largest total in the nation.

Opponents of bills to create four-year state supported colleges in San Angelo and Edinburg immediately predicted a financial deficit would result.

House members approved the measures after an afternoon session filled with emotional speeches. They now go to Gov. John Connally for signature.

Both colleges will come into the state system in 1965. The new Angelo State College currently is the two-year San Angelo Junior College. Pan American at Edinburg already is a four-year school, but receives state aid only for the first two years.

The House passed and returned to the Senate a bill establishing an annual voter registration system to replace the poll tax.

If finally passed, this bill would become law only if a proposed constitutional amendment eliminating the poll tax requirement for voting wins House approval and voters then agree.

The bill would levy a 25-cent registration fee as originally passed by the Senate. Representatives eliminated the fee.

The House likewise approved about 90 local and uncontested bills.

Senators passed and returned to the House a bill to allow production of up to four times gas allowable during peak demand periods, with the over production to be made up during slack times.

The House version would permit production of up to five times the allowable, but the Senate set the figure at two times allowable except for threatened emergencies, when it could be increased four times.

Most of the Senate session was taken up with a minor filibuster by Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston on a shell dredging bill.

Schwartz quit talking when the Senate accepted his substitute for a House bill. The senator's bill would require dredgers to prove their operations would not harm oyster and other sea life before the Parks and Wildlife Commission could issue a permit.

Also returned to the House with amendments was a bill to require automobile service club operators to register with the secretary of state and pay a $100 license fee.

Alazan Folk Receive Help

ALAZAN, MEXICO (AP)—Thousands starving in this small northern Mexico area because of drought waded mud and water Wednesday to reach food and clothing donated by North Americans last week.

An estimated 6,000 to 8,000 farm dwellers watched last week as the soil from which they scratch a meager livelihood blew through the air.

Wednesday, nine days later, there was mud and water for miles. It was left by hard rains that broke a two-year drought.

Hundreds have been driven from their homes, but no official estimate of the number has been made.

At least 3,000 thronged irrigation canal banks as trucks moved along the roads beside the canals distributing food. These were the only passable roads in the area.

People gathered to push, pull, shove and shout for recognition. When they received a parcel of beans, corn, lard or other food, most shouted "Gracias."

Some residents have left the flooded area to live with relatives or friends. Others moved to high ground and pitched camps.

The nearest town is Rio Bravo, where food donated in Texas, New Mexico and California is stored. Last week it was about 30 miles and a one-hour drive to Alazan. Because of the flooded dirt roads and washed out bridges, the trip Wednesday was about 45 miles and took almost two hours.

Alazan is about 45 miles south of the Rio Grande and 45 miles upstream from Brownsville.

The governor of Tamaulipas, Praxedis Balboa, said no more American help is needed. He said Mexico has the situation in hand.

Roping Site Is On West Highway

The show, which will also feature other ropers, will get under way at 2 p.m. The match is being promoted by Roy Chapman and Jay Dement.

Admission fee has been set at $1 per person. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

New Murder Shakes Boston

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A curtain of fear hung over the Greater Boston area today in the wake of the brutal slaying of a 26-year-old music student found in her apartment off Harvard Square.

The body of Miss Beverly Samans of Beckley, W. Va., a graduate student at Boston University who was preparing for an audition with the Metropolitan Opera Co., was found Wednesday night.

The slaying revived fears caused by the eight unsolved stranglings of women in Greater Boston since June.

Dr. Peter A. Delmonico, medical examiner, said cause of death was a stab wound through the heart. There were 15 stab wounds on the body, he said. "A person who would inflict brutality of this sort was not of sound mind," Delmonico said. The doctor said there was no evidence of rape.

Two kerchiefs and a nylon stocking were knotted around the victim's throat in an apparent strangling attempt. But "they did not cause death," the doctor said.

He placed the time of death as sometime after 11 p.m. Sunday night. A neighbor reported seeing the victim alive at about that time. Miss Samans' body, clad in a negligee, her hands tied behind her back, was found on a bed in her two-room apartment by police after they were called by Oliver Chamberlain, 33, an acquaintance of the girl.

Police said Chamberlain told them another man, not identified, called him and said he had received no response at the girl's apartment.

There was no sign of a struggle or of forced entry, police said. They found the front door unlocked.

The brunette student, who lived alone was last reported seen Sunday, police said.

The Atalanta is skippered by Gaston Shoemaker. His crew consists of William Weston, Howard Cole Jr. and David Andre. Andre is the Mississippian.

They first sailed from Lisbon last Jan. 17 but a day later were beaten back by storms.

Texas Industry Is In A Great Ferment

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series on Texas' economy.)

By ROBERT E. FORD
DALLAS (AP)—Texas industry is in a great ferment as it expands and diversifies to keep abreast of changing demands. Workers, too, are facing adjustments. Their greatest problem is to find more education and training in an age when science and automation are growing fast. School dropouts, for instance, find too late that they are unwanted. Men who study employment trends fear a hard core of unemployables is developing among the poorly educated and untrained.

On the other hand, automation can replace a man — who then finds a lifetime of learning is useless unless he can find a job in a similar non-automated plant. Texas workers have not been badly hurt by automation yet, although the man without a job would disagree.

Automation is hurting Texas less than other states so far because many Texas plants are new and were built with automation. Thus they created jobs rather than diminished them.

But when these and the older plants are replaced, they can be expected to use fewer workers to produce more goods. Industrialists are working hard to make the state's economy grow, which would provide more jobs among other things. But no one knows whether they can create enough work for increasingly larger generations. New industry is very fine, says Roy Evans, secretary of the Texas AFL-CIO. He wants to go further by making more money circulate in the economy.

LIBERAL LAWS
Evans advocates more liberal unemployment compensation and a state minimum wage law.

"There are over 400,000 employees in Texas making less than 75 cents an hour," he says. The unions also are fighting the commuter situation. The AFL-CIO claims as many as 50,000 Mexican nationals commute into the United States daily to work, taking jobs away from U. S. citizens.

El Paso, for example, has 5,000 Mexican textile commuters taking $12 million a year into Mexico. Automation is being felt strongly right now in oil, clerical work such as banking and insurance, and farming.

Automation in oil has been progressing for years with no sudden, industry-wide dislocations of workers. Banking and insurance are rapidly becoming automated, but all indications are that few persons have lost jobs.

Farm automation may be the biggest job killer of all. Strangely, Texas is not suffering from farm mechanization-automation now.

MEXICO HURT
It is Mexico that has been hurt. And Mexico considers the wages that its contract laborers (braceros) bring home an important part of that nation's economy. At the height of the bracero program, as many as 450,000 Mexicans poured into Texas.

Then Mexico and the United States signed treaties raising the bracero wage rate. Farmers in Texas turned to U. S. migrant labor.

Or they turned to mechanization. Last year, only 25,000 braceros worked in Texas, the Employment Commission said.

The government says 94 per cent of the cotton was harvested by hand labor in 1950. Only 32 per cent will be picked by hand this year.

Vegetable harvests are being mechanized rapidly. Citrus picking may go to machines shortly. The AFL-CIO estimates the state has 364,000 farm workers — laborers, not owners. This is nearly 10 per cent of the state's labor force.

A large number of these are migrant workers. Unemployment figures drop sharply when crop time comes. Migrants fan out over the United States to work, then return to winter along the Mexican-Texas border.

A good many are of Mexican descent, their children poorly educated because their school year is shortened when their parents head for the fields. Many speak English so poorly they have trouble finding and keeping any job except manual labor. The migrants and their children, whether of Mexican or other descent, face a dark economic future. No one has proposed any sweeping, practical solution. Right now the future is bright. Crops are growing, migrant workers are in demand, all sorts of workers are needed.

To show how well Texas fares, look at the insured unemployment percentages.

The figure in Texas is 3.5 per cent. The national figure is 5.7 per cent. It is 5.8 in Louisiana, 7.4 in Arkansas, 5.7 in New Mexico and 5.9 in Oklahoma.

And with the state's tremendous growth rate, widespread unemployment may never come.

Revenue Fund Shows Surplus

AUSTIN (AP)—For the first time in more than nine months, the Texas general revenue fund shows a surplus.

State Treasurer Jesse James said Tuesday the fund had a balance of $222,402 at 2:20 p.m. The deficit was $59 million April 30 and last showed a surplus Sept. 1, 1962.

New Kind Of Boy Scout Springs Up

By DAVID FARMER
AP Special Report

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new kind of Boy Scouting has taken root in California. Like a friendly vine, it's spreading.

The new idea is called Special Interest Exploring, and it gives boys in high school a chance to explore their future.

Scout officials say there are a dozen of the new kind of posts going full blast in Southern California. Others are planned as far east as Phoenix, Ariz.

Special Interest Exploring is for boys in their last two years of high school. It got started because, as a Scout official said:

"We've long had the traditional Explorer program for boys 14 and 15 years old. But we've been losing the boys at 16, a key time in their lives."

HERE'S HOW

Here's how the new plan works: A group of men—like the local police department, bar association or insurance firm—decide they want to show some boys the inside of their occupation.

Then they get the local high school to round up some suitable boys, and start a post.

Law Explorers Post 122 in Newport Beach is a case in point.

Nine lawyers, a municipal judge and a city attorney got together and formed it.

They called in speakers from the University of Southern California Law School. The group toured the law school and examined its library, sat in on classroom sessions and a moot court, and got some insight into the school's entrance requirements.

A former FBI agent shepherded the post through the local FBI offices.

The boys took a look around the Los Angeles Civic Center, with its California Supreme Court chambers and federal District Courts.

They explored their way through lunch with the Los Angeles County council and dropped in on big private law firms.

The Scouts also have paid visits to Army and Navy intelligence offices, a prison and a juvenile hall.

"The average young man in high school has no idea what he wants for a career," says Jack Fishburn, who is a vice president of the Bank of America, and a scouting enthusiast.

"Today, there's increasing pressure on a boy to decide his future," said Fishburn. "So we started Special Interest Exploring."

ANOTHER REASON

There's another reason behind the new idea.

"Young men of the present have very little conception of the working of the United States' free enterprise system," Fishburn said.

"A lot of them have weird ideas that the profit motive is evil, and that government should provide jobs for everybody."

"We want them to learn the true meaning and importance of free enterprise."

Fishburn said a group in East Los Angeles plans a post that will teach young Mexican-American boys to operate gas stations. Another is concerned with farming.

The typical special interest post has 25 or 30 boys. It functions during the school year, usually with a couple of instructional meetings and a field trip each month.

Open Door Policy Now Prevails At Reed Home

By JO BRIGHT

Almost every Friday Mrs. Gartha Reed, 408 Circle Drive, casts an anxious eye on the linen closet, takes a quick inventory of the pantry, and counts the beds—again—in hopes that she's missed one. Ten out of 10 times she hasn't!

It's understandable why the number of places that a weary head may find rest becomes a matter of concern in the Reed home. That's where "home-coming" happens every weekend. The young adults in the family are obliging who heed the call of the open road back home at every opportunity.

Ruth, 21, is a senior student at Texas Christian University and Carolyn, 19, is completing her freshman year there. Jimmie, 20, is a sophomore music major at Hardin-Simmons University.

The Reed clan is a friendly type. Naturally, as any mother knows, with out-going children you get incoming guests. Mr. and Mrs. Reed don't always know who—or how many—their weekend guests will be, but the young people are always welcome.

There was one weekend, however, when a nearby motel profited from the overflow.

Mrs. Reed does most of her cooking on weekends using recipes that are basically simple and adaptable to the number being served. The girls do some cooking, mostly desserts such as cookies or cake.

Reed, sales manager for Gosden helps his wife prepare meals when barbecue is on the menu. Besides for chickens and steaks they often use outdoor cookery on turkey and roasts.

Mrs. Reed knew little about cooking when she married. Never at home in the kitchen, she was downright uncomfortable the day her upside-down cake took that position on the oven door. She bought a good cookbook and began a home study course. The self-taught chef gets few complaints these days.

Cooking in large quantities, Mrs. Reed utilizes her freezer to save time and food. Money is saved, too, when meats and frozen products can be purchased at special prices and stored for later use.

The place of honor in the Reed kitchen is occupied by that modern mechanical marvel, the dishwasher. "There is no pleasure comparable to owning one," said Mrs. Reed. This is her second, and she plans never to be without one again.

Here are recipes on which she's received compliments.

JAN HAGEL (Cookies)

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 sticks butter
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 pkg. sliced almonds
Mix flour and butter with cool hands. Form into ball and cool in refrigerator for about 5 minutes. Roll out the dough and place on slightly greased cookie sheet. Spread the cinnamon and sugar over the dough and then the sliced almonds. Press lightly into dough. Bake at 350 degrees for about 25 minutes. When done cut into squares.

MEAT BALLS IN MUSHROOM SAUCE

1 lb. ground round

MRS. GARTHA REED

1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1 onion minced or grated
1 egg slightly beaten
4 tbsps. minced parsley
1/2 cup cream of mushroom soup
Mix together all ingredients and form into very small balls. Brown in butter. Remove to casserole. Combine remaining mushroom soup with 1 cup sour cream, 1/4 cup sherry and 1 can mushrooms. Cover and cook in slow oven for about 40 minutes. Serve over cooked rice.

CHERRY SALAD

1 pkg. cherry gelatin
1 can black Bing cherries
1 coke
1 small pkg. cream cheese
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Drain juice from cherries and heat with coke. Pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add cream cheese, cherries and nuts. Pour into ring mold. When ready to serve arrange on salad greens and fill center with cottage cheese.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI

1 hen
1 onion
1 can mushrooms
1 can tomatoes
1 tsp. cominos seed or powder
Slice onion and brown in butter. Add the mushrooms and brown slightly. Run tomatoes through sieve and add to onions and mushrooms with the diced chicken and cominos. Mix together and pour over 1 box cooked Italian spaghetti. Simmer 45 minutes. Good served with grated Parmesan and

A Frosting Or Filling

So delicate in flavor, so creamy-soft in texture, is this chocolate frosting to freeze that you can use it as a filling as well as a topper for cakes. It's delicious on cake layers whether they are made by your own recipe, from a cake mix, or bought from the store.

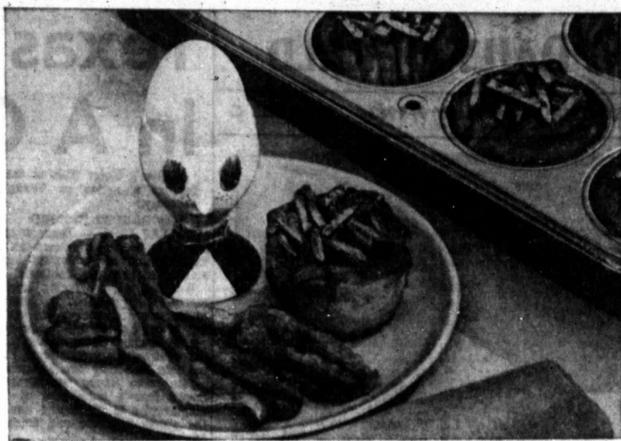

Use this frosting at once, or freeze it for the future when you want a luscious cake topper in a hurry. It's the type of frosting that takes to debonair swirling for decorative effect, and it's easy to vary with nuts or coconut.

CREAMY SEMI-SWEET FROSTING
1 6-oz. pkg. 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1 jar (7 1/2 oz.) marshmallow cream

Melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels and butter over hot (not boiling) water; blend well. Remove from heat. Gradually add evaporated milk, stirring until smooth. Let cool to room temperature. Add marshmallow cream and beat until smooth. If desired, vary filling by adding nuts or coconut.

Yield: Filling and frosting for two 8 or 9-inch cake layers or frosting for 24 medium cupcakes.

To Freeze: Turn into freezer container, seal. When ready to use, let frosting stand at room temperature until soft enough to spread, approximately 1 hour.

QUICK CINNAMON BUNS

How To Keep A Family Happy-Serve Them A Beautiful Brunch

Almonds, a favorite of all good cooks, are great embellishers. Here are some reminders of the ways they may be used when you want to keep your family happy by varying everyday dishes.

Next time you make a frosted cake, add this garnish. Dip one end of blanched whole almonds in melted semi-sweet chocolate, then insert the nuts—chocolate tip up—in the frosting. Delightful to look at and delicious to eat.

Youngsters usually adore "porcupines." Soften cream cheese and beat with a little milk or cream.

Arrange a pear half (fresh or canned) with the rounded side up on a lettuce leaf. Frost the pear halves with the cream cheese and insert almond "quills."

Plain sugar cookies taste extra good when they are given this treatment before they are baked. Brush the rolled-out and cut dough with slightly beaten egg white; sprinkle with a mixture of sugar, grated lemon or orange rind and finely chopped almonds.

Almonds give steamed rice great texture and flavor contrast. Just stir toasted slivered almonds into the cooked rice at the same time you add butter.

So many green vegetables—peas, snap beans, broccoli and asparagus—benefit from almonds. Add the blanched slivered almonds to melted butter and pour over the cooked vegetable.

Custard-type puddings—vanilla, chocolate and butterscotch—with their bland flavor and smooth texture take to a crisp almond topping.

Sunday brunch coming up? You can make almond-cinnamon buns in a hurry and they'll be freshly baked. Serve them with eggs and bacon; men usually like these because they're not too sweet.

ALMOND CINNAMON BUNS
1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds

Fancy Fish For Friday

Here's a new fish recipe you'll want to try.

FISH HENRIETTE

4 whole fish (about 1/2 lb. each)
Salt and pepper
4 bay leaves
4 tbsps. butter
4 small onions (sliced thin and separated into rings)
4 small-carrots, pared and cut into thin sticks

Have fish scaled and cleaned; heads and tails may be left on or removed. Wash and dry fish; place each on a separate piece of foil large enough to wrap it in.

Sprinkle inside of each fish with salt and pepper; place a bay leaf, a dot of butter, a few onion rings and carrot sticks in each; pile remaining butter, onions and carrots on top and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Make 4 individual packages of the fish, using drugstore folds and rolling up ends. Place packages in a jellyroll pan. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 25 minutes. Slit open packages with kitchen scissors and turn back foil; serve in foil. Makes 4 servings.

Infra-Red Broiling

Infra-red broiler burners are new. They provide intense, even heat for outdoor as well as indoor broiling and barbecuing. The patio chef will like infra-red because it furnishes quick heat that's easily controllable even outside weather conditions aren't ideal.

Some of the new burners—without any modification whatever—can be used with natural, manufactured or L.P. (bottled) gas.

COOL COMBINATION

New Asparagus Salad Is Chilled In Tart Marinade

"Different" salad recipes are hard to come by. But here's one you may never have tried.

And here's how this particular rule was developed. Several years ago a friend gave us one of her favorite salad combinations—fresh snap beans cooked only until tender-crisp and dressed with oil, vinegar seasonings and grated Parmesan cheese plus a topping of sliced radishes.

This year we tried the snap-bean salad trick on fresh asparagus with great success. The asparagus is cut in short lengths and cooked rapidly with a pinch of sugar. Don't omit that sugar! It really points up flavor. Then the asparagus is given the same treatment as the beans, but the radishes are omitted.

To have this salad at its best, choose a fine-flavored Parmesan cheese and do exactly as the recipe directs—add half of it just before serving.

Another caution: Don't overcook the asparagus. It should be slightly crisp. Just remember that in 16th century England, when the vegetable was called "spurge," it was said to be "delicious eaten raw with oil and vinegar."

SNOWFLAKE ASPARAGUS SALAD

1/4 cup olive oil
2 tbsps. white vinegar
2 lbs. asparagus
Boiling water
1 1/2 tps. salt
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. white pepper

Warm Tarts Make Apples A Dessert

Bake this tart shortly before serving because it's best warm.

APPLE TART

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine
4 ozs. cream cheese
3 cups drained canned apple slices
1/2 cup cultured sour cream
1/2 cup confectioners sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Sift together the flour and salt. Stir butter and cream cheese together until blended; work in sifted dry ingredients. Roll out 1/3-inch thick.

Fit and pat into a 9-inch pie plate; make a slightly high fluted edge but not on rim of plate. Arrange apple slices in a circular overlapping pattern over pastry; spoon over sour cream. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon.

Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven 10 minutes; continue baking in moderate (375 degrees) oven for 20 minutes or until pastry is browned. Serve quite warm, sprinkling with extra confectioners sugar.

Good Side Dish For Grilled Hamburger

Hamburgers take on a new interest when they are served with this delicious vegetable and fruit combination.

FRIED ONIONS AND APPLES

2 cups onion rings
2 cups sliced unpeeled cooking apples
2 tbsps. bacon fat
1/2 tsp. salt
Freshly-ground pepper to taste
Two medium-size onions will make the 2 cups called for; apple slices should be about 1/2-inch thick. Heat the bacon fat in a skillet and add the onions, apples, salt and pepper. Cover and cook gently until tender—about 15 minutes.

Turn several times with a wide spatula being careful not to break apples. Remove cover and cook until onion rings are yellow—about 5 minutes. Serve over hamburgers. Makes 4 servings.

Buffet Biscuits Are Idea For Springtime Brunches

The versatile buffet biscuit can make many appearances this spring as a delicious and economical delicacy.

For the buffet brunch, biscuits are the ideal main course served with a choice of jams, jellies and spreads. For a luncheon buffet, biscuits are the ideal light bread but can also serve as a substitute for toast when serving chicken-salading, meat toppings and meat salads.

The dainty tea biscuit for afternoon entertaining will be a charming newcomer and is tasty served with selections of deviled ham spread, cream filled dips and marmalade.

Light, tender, flavorful biscuits can be testimonies for a fine cook and the mark of a thoughtful hostess.

But the important item to the busy hostess and homemaker is preparation time for biscuits. Biscuit dough prepared with self-rising flour introduces an important time-saving factor. Biscuit dough can be prepared ahead of time and held over to be used as needed. With the reserve leavening action the time lapse between preparation of dough and the actual bake is no longer critical.

For buffets, parties, and entertaining, this is quite an important factor. Biscuit dough can be prepared the evening before. The first serving can be baked as guests arrive and fresh servings can be brought from the oven as needed. Left-over dough can be stored in the refrigerator for family meals.

The special bite-size shape for buffet biscuits is accomplished by using a small cookie cutter or rim of a jar or glass to cut biscuit dough.

TINY BUFFET BISCUITS (Six dozen)

4 cups self-rising flour
1 cup shortening
1 1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. sugar (optional)
Cut shortening and sugar if used; into self-rising flour. Add milk. Stir until well blended or until dough follows spoon around bowl. Taking approximately one-third of the dough at a time, roll out on well floured board until about 1/4 inches thick. Fold over in half and roll lightly again. This fold and light rolling insures biscuits that will break open perfectly for spreads.

Cut dough with small cookie cutter or rim of bottle or jar. Repeat procedure with remaining dough. Place tiny biscuits on cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven (325 or 350 degrees) for ten minutes.

This recipe can be used, of course, for regular breakfast or mealtime biscuits. The above recipe makes approximately 40 regular size biscuits. The ingredients can be divided in half for 20 regular size biscuits. Dough can be stored in refrigerator, then biscuits can be baked and served as needed for separate meals.

Any Way You Look At Adam Powell, He's Controversial

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "That Adam! Goodness, I was in church with my mama the day Mattie Powell carried him in. Oh, what a pretty baby! We were crazy about him from that minute on. We always let him do as he pleased, that Adam!"

The old woman chuckled and then saw Adam Clayton Powell Jr. enter the nave of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in his black robe with its scarlet embroidery. She returned from the recollection of a Sunday 54 years gone. She chuckled again and tsk-tsked, scandalized at all the notoriety given her pastor.

Later, in his church office, the Rev. Dr. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., U.S. congressman from Harlem, leaned back in his swivel chair, drew a deep puff of smoke, launched a smoke mushroom toward the peeled paint of the dirty ceiling and laughed with great delight.

"That's just the way so many of those old folks still see me," he said. "They still think of me as a little boy."

Little boy or no, there are some angry people who feel he is too big to be playing with matches. There is also a smoldering blaze in Congress over Powell's European junket a year ago.

In the midst of the resulting shock waves, Powell sat in elegant ease, talking candidly about such things as power, ambition, motivation, popularity, and love. They've accused him of playing into the hands of segregationists, playing footsie with the left wing, playing loose with the taxpayers' money, playing Don Juan with the women, playing cheap with Negro dreams and hopes, playing politician when he could be a statesman. What does he say to this?

"I don't want Negroes to segregate," he replies. "I do want them to run their own organizations. I think Negroes have to do it if they are going to get anywhere."

His enemies—Negro or white—are apt to be dismissed by Powell as "racists" or as "high-society, ivory-tower Negroes feeding at the white man's trough."

He sees criticism leveled at him in Congress as a campaign involving much more than a hatred for his race.

"I must be of tremendous importance—or a tremendous threat, for such pressure to build up," he says.

Threat comes closest, he thinks. It's an idea further expounded by one of his right hand men who said: "Adam invaded the power structure of America prematurely for a black man. He didn't come pussyfooting in on gum-soled shoes but on iron cleats."

"I'm chairman of the Education and Labor Committee," Powell emphasized. "This is right in the power structure. For example, I got a call recently from the White House asking me to come up. Get that, asking me, not telling me."

Powell's tone implied that without him the meeting would have been meaningless.

Powell, the popularity kid has no peer at a chummy gathering of friends.

Powell in the pulpit has a voice that is gentle, reasoned. He seems in communion with a higher Power, as though he is hovering between mortality and immortality. As the service ends, he comes to the floor of the church, holds his arms lifted in invitation, and bids lambs who may have strayed from the church to come forth.

"Take my hand," he says, gently. "Come, take my hand."

Powell of the people is Adam. The people in Harlem have a proprietary way of using his first name, of letting it come off their tongues.

Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to break the color bar in big-league baseball and now a business executive, was among the first to criticize Powell. On this point, he wrote an open letter saying: "The people who were your enemies and ours—the segregationists—are probably thinking very highly of you right now, although they probably have contempt even for an enemy who would desert his own cause."

Powell denies he is embracing the Black Muslim movement, an organization devoted to extreme Negro nationalism, and adds that he disagrees with one of its high leaders, Malcolm X, but respects his right to his own opinion.

In the Senate, John J. Williams, Republican from Delaware, has accused Powell of wasting taxpayers' money to go on a European junket with two beautiful women in his retinue, being delinquent in income taxes, and in general being an authority on "adult delinquency."

Powell's House colleagues scarcely found joy in the attention given such congressional fringe benefits as junketing and having a kin or two on the payroll. Punishment was simple—and painful.

He was hit in the exchequer. Appropriations for his committee were cut drastically, and he was told exactly how to disburse the money. He had to close his New York office.

There has been additional maneuvering which could cut his authority in half. This would be done through simple surgery—cutting Education and Labor apart and creating two committees.

Negroes selected at random in Harlem, were asked to name three of their leaders who have done or are doing most in expressing Negro aspirations and fighting for Negro goals. Not one failed to mention Powell, and about half named only Powell.

In Powell's inner circle it is freely felt that he speaks not for Negroes of Harlem, or New York, or the United States, but for all the nonwhites of the world.

Where others are hesitant or reticent, Powell is almost effervescent.

He was told about a parishoner who thought that as a minister there was something amiss in his having three living wives.

"I've been unfortunate in my choice of wives—which is obvious with the single exception of Yvette. She's fantastic," Powell says.

Women, he admits, delight him. "I like women. But to tell the absolute truth they amaze me. I know they go goo-goo around me and it honestly amazes me. I ask myself sometime, 'Why me?'"

There are cynics among Powell's critics who think he has long-range plans to get into Puerto Rican political life and that he's already paving the way.

DEAR ABBY

Better Try A Thaw Job

DEAR ABBY: I am married to the coldest woman this side of Alaska. I'll bet she hasn't kissed me in two years. I met a cute little woman who is just what the doctor ordered. Am I justified? A man is not made of wood, you know.

ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: I KNOW a man is not made of wood. (Just his head.) The cute little woman may be "just what the doctor ordered," but she is NOT what fortune dealt you nor what your pastor delivered. Forget her, and try to thaw out your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a factory with many girls. One day last week one of the girls had what she called a "Charlie Horse" in the calf of her leg. Our foreman (a married man of about 55) said his wife got them all the time and he knew how to get rid of them. Well, this girl (she is also married) let the foreman massage her leg! That very evening all the other girls went home on time and the foreman asked this one girl with the "Charlie Horse" to stay. She got an hour's "overtime" pay. What do you think about that?

WORKING GIRL

DEAR WORKING GIRL: I would have to know more about the girl, the foreman, the "overtime"—and you.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that women cannot bear to see a happy, moderately well-to-do bachelor enjoy his freedom without wanting to ruin everything for him by getting him married to a "lovely woman" (either themselves or a friend) who is looking for a lifetime of support, or a father for her noisy, spoiled brats? I am 41 and perfectly contented to remain a bachelor for the rest of my life. And I know many other bachelors who feel the same way. I wish these women would leave us happy, hard-working bachelors alone once we have refused their advances on the subject of marriage. You probably won't publish this, but if you do, sign me—

J.

DEAR J.: The next time a woman tries to interest you in marriage (for herself or a friend) recite your little speech to her and that will be all, brother!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "J": The easiest way to teach children the value of money is to borrow it from them!

Many Texas Communities Apply For Federal Grants

By TEX EASLEY AP Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas communities have applied for $22.9 million in federal grants under program for which Congress has virtually completed action to make an additional $450 million available. Fifteen of the applications are for grants of a half million dollars or more each and 48 seek between $100,000 and $500,000. The Texas share of the expected appropriation probably will be about $14 million. The state received $10.3 million out of the $400 million appropriated last year. This was for allocation to 63 projects in areas where varying degrees of unemployment exist. The grant funds are largely allocated for water and sewer projects and with few exceptions local interests match the grants. Here are the Texas applications for grants of $500,000 or more: Laredo, new community buildings, $500,000 and water system improvements, $1.5 million (Laredo's Del Mar district has a separate application on file for $100,000 for water system improvements); Texarkana, water system improvements, $1 million (additionally two separate applications seek funds for recreational facilities at Texarkana reservoir, one for $230,000 and one for $105,000, and still another seeks $400,000 for kitchen and dining hall facilities at Texarkana prison.); Houston County, road grading Brady, McCullough County, highway improvements, $325,000. Nacogdoches, addition to and remodeling of city memorial hospital, $600,000, and $757,050 for addition of 153 beds at Mother Francis Hospital. Rusk, waste treatment and water resources, $870,000. Sabine County, highway improvements, $707,000. Shelby County, highway improvements, $560,000 (other applications seek lesser sums for similar work in the county.) Tyler, repair of utilities, $1,914,000. Port Arthur, water system, $248,000, and sanitation improvements, $787,000. Nederland, highway improvements, $650,000 (Nederland also seeks $363,000 for water system improvements). Texas City, sewage treatment plant, $653,300. AROUND THE CAPITAL: A rumored "purge" campaign of Democratic leaders against a dozen Southern congressmen apparently has backfired as far as the three Texans on the list are concerned. Reps. John Dowdy, Joe Kilgore and Omar Burleson all say they have received much mail on the subject since the list with their names were included in a list recently carried by the New York Times and other newspapers. The party's national committee chairman, John Bailey, has said he knows nothing about the rumored "purge." Dowdy in a letter to his East Texas constituents wrote: "Now, because I will not be a puppet, responding promptly to the jerks of the strings in the hands of a puppeteer, the Yankee liberals have put me on their purge list. I feel the purgers have paid me a compliment, even if it is left-handed, by saying I am opposed to socialism, exorbitant taxes and deficit spending."

Treacherous Gorge Will Be Harnessed

VIENNA (AP) — A treacherous gorge of torrential Danube waters between Yugoslavia and Romania will be turned into a giant lake to help shipping and give the two countries the second-biggest power plant in Europe. Under an agreement expected to be concluded next month, Yugoslav and Romanian experts will start a joint $200-million project in the Iron Gate Strait within seven years. It calls for a dam and power station with an annual output of 10.7 billion kilowatt hours, nearly as much as Russia's Volga River plant. The dam will raise the level of the Danube upstream for about 75 miles, flooding the Romanian town of Orsova and a dozen villages on both sides of the border. The population of 25,000 will be resettled. The Danube, blue in Johann Strauss' waltzes, is gray to most beholders. It rises in Germany and runs 1,750 miles, touching the capital cities of Vienna, Budapest and Belgrade. The Iron Gate is at an inverted "U" of the river as it flows between Romania and Yugoslavia just before entering Bulgaria on its path to the Black Sea. At the Iron Gate the river foams into whitecaps as it whirs over jagged rocks between cliffs 120 yards apart. Parts of old shipwrecks are still in the rocks. The Roman emperor Trajan built a road around the gorge for his conquering legionnaires 1,800 years ago. Twice a year, during dry summers and in winter, the water level drops to a few feet, barring the underwater reefs and nearly blocking ships. With the artificial lake holding more than 35 billion cubic feet of water, the rocks will remain deep under the surface throughout the year. While the hydroelectric plant is to be financed by the two governments, $100 million more will be contributed by other Danube countries for a system of locks and chambers to raise and lower ships between the lake and the downstream part of the river. The entire project is to be completed by 1972.

DAILY GUIDE — A lively day when anything can happen to break the routine. In general, all the signs should begin to note an outbreak of action in some department of their lives. For the Virgoans the pace can be breathtaking. Pisceans may experience changes through alliances, both marital or business, or can enjoy new opportunities and freedom, or experience the breaking off or making alliances. Taurus and Capricornians should find freedom to express themselves in new ways; travel and social contacts bring stimulation. Leo and Aquarians can expect changes in finances. For Scorpio, changing social ties. Cancer can be stimulated by changing daily routines and new ideas. Libra and Aries need to avoid nervous tensions which could effect health. There is still the possibility of extra activity causing some friction through tomorrow. The general pace of life quickens.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, TAURUS! If you have not already solved problems regarding changes at home base and those of career, now is the time to make decisions and take action. You need to have the decks cleared for action early next month, but some unexpected events could jolt you out of your rut next week. Move fast now, but be wary of making your work or health the target in August and September. From now on for a long time you should have opportunities to be more individual and expressive, and to enjoy social or romantic popularity. Work hard to maintain high standards in career so you can reap benefits next year, which promises to be a banner year for you.

School Dropout Peril Attacked In Galveston

GALVESTON (AP) — The school dropout problem looms large, and a group in Galveston is trying to do something to correct the situation.

A teacher's organization reported that only two out of five Texans who enter the first grade graduate from high school.

The organization here is called "Dropouts Anonymous," a name taken from the alcoholics' reform group.

The University of Texas Medical Branch, the public school system and local businessmen cooperated in helping form the group. Hendrik Lindt, instructor in psychiatry at the Medical Branch, and his consultant, Dr. R. B. White, associate professor in the department of psychiatry, helped promote the organization.

BETTER MOUSETRAP
Speaking of Club No. 1, which celebrated its first anniversary recently, Dr. White said, "We set out to build a better mousetrap and it snowballed on us. However, it's too early to talk of success. It will take at least three years before we can say anything specific about that."

Who are the members of this group? They fall into three categories: Actual drop-outs who are still out of school, those who have dropped out and have returned or are being trained for a trade, and some who have not dropped out but who attend meetings to help out.

Thirty young people whose average age is 17 have come in contact with the group since it began 12 months ago. Those who are dropouts have several reasons for being so.

INWARD PROBLEMS
Outwardly, it was a problem of getting along with others, especially with accepting adult authority. Inwardly, it can usually be traced to family problems such as low finances or broken homes, Dr. Lindt said.

Only two have deficient intelligence quotients.

Their rebellion against authority is manifest in poor attendance in school, discipline problems or general lack of interest.

"By no means are they all juvenile delinquents," Dr. Lindt stressed. "They have assets which need to be developed."

There are people in the club who are not dropouts but good workers in school. Their reason for being there? A genuine interest in the other person and a way of showing the dropout that he is worth something and can be accepted.

INTEGRATION ISSUE
The idea of forming the group occurred in 1961 with the question of possible problems with local school integration. Dr. Lindt said.

Meetings were held with the social action committee of the Unitarian church, local Negro leaders such as councilman T. D. Armstrong and Central High school principal Dr. L. A. Morgan, and student council members from Central High school. Approval was gained from the school board and superintendent Dr. Morgan Evans for the formation of Club No. 1 at Central.

The schools furnished Dr. White and Lindt with lists of discipline problem students, dropouts and potential dropouts, and those about to be expelled. Student council members volunteered aid in getting these people to come to meetings.

WORD IS PASSED
The word is passed to gather around the conference table where each has a chance to discuss something.

"It is a directive type of group psychotherapy and an example of rehabilitation in the community," Lindt said. "In this way the dropout problem is always brought out."

While the purpose of the group is not to act as a job bureau, the aid of J. D. Miller, counselor for the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, and Mrs. Margie Mabry, interviewer, have been enlisted in locating apprenticeship openings.

Lambdin has helped with legal aspects and conferences have been held with some of the parents.

Harry Charters Leads Rodeo Hands In Winnings

DENVER—Harry Charters Jr., Melba, Idaho, leads all other rodeo cowboys in money won so far this year. Charters, 28, hiked his seasonal take to $10,518 with a second place finish in steer wrestling at the first annual Pacific Indoor Rodeo, worth $1,121, and took over all-around cowboy title standings for the first time in his competitive career.

Joining pro ranks in 1959 at 34, an age when most rodeo contestants already are glancing toward the sidelines, Charters won the steer wrestling championship that same season, was runner-up last year.

The 6-foot, 6-inch, 240-pounder displaces another Idaho cowboy, Dean Oliver, of Boise, as current contender for the all-around championship, the game's most sought-after crown which annually goes to the big winner in two or more events.

Oliver, 33, although dropping back in all-around charts, came up with a third-place, $565 grab in calf roping to claim the front in that event's national tally, with a total of $9,837.

Five times world champion calf roper, Oliver had been trailing Sonny Davis, 28, since the Kenna, N.M., roper had broken out on top at Denver's National Western rodeo in January.

Leaders in various events are: All-Around — Charters, $10,518, and Oliver, $10,236; saddle broncs — Guy Weeks, Abilene Texas, $6,584, and Marty Wood, Boness, Alta, Cal., $6,064; barrel racing — Don Mayo, Denver, Colo., $6,425, and John Hawkins, Twain Harle, Calif., $4,606; bull riding — Dickie Cox, McKinney, Texas, $6,812, and Harold Carroll, Draper, Utah, $5,538; calf roping — Oliver, $9,637, and Sonny Davis, Kenna, N.M., $9,193; steer wrestling — Jim Bynum, Waxahachie, Texas, $7,357, and C. R. Boucher, Burkburnett Texas, $6,980.

Mail Obstruction Guilty Plea Brings A Fine Of $100

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Gonzales man who worked 33 years in the post office there was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $100 after pleading guilty to obstruction of mail.

Entering the plea before U.S. Dist. Judge Ben Rice was Hilmar Nagel, 52. He admitted taking a letter addressed to the Gonzales postmaster.

Postal inspectors in arresting Nagel last month said about 75 letters were involved in the offense from February, 1957, through March, 1963.

The inspectors alleged Nagel was intercepting complaints from the Postoffice Department in Washington to the Gonzales postmaster regarding his failure to perform duties with which he was charged as the assistant postmaster, a job he held for the last six years.

Nagel was arraigned on only one letter.

Rice refused to dismiss the second count of the information against Nagel, which dealt with another letter.

Truman, Baptists Trade Greetings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman exchanged birthday greetings Wednesday with the annual assembly of the Southern Baptist Convention.

It was Truman's 79th birthday anniversary. The Southern Baptist Convention was organized 113 years ago Wednesday.

The former President drew a big round of applause and some scattered amens when he said he was proud to be affiliated with the organization because it practices rule "from the church up and not from the top down."

An overflow crowd of more than 12,000 messengers — delegates — and visitors at the assembly gave Truman a standing welcome and sang "Happy Birthday" to him.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly is expected to admit oil-rich Kuwait next week as the 111th member of the United Nations.
