Blastoff

Cooper Flashing Toward End Of 22-Orbit Flight

Superbly Performing Pilot Will Come Down In Pacific Late This Afternoon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper, nearing the end of his record U.S. space flight, completed his 19th earth orbit east of Nicaragua at 1:59 p.m. EST today and swung into the No. 20. Cooper, spirits high and condition excellent after more than a day in space, raced toward completion of his marathon 22-orbit mission. Recovery forces were primed for an afternoon landing in the Pacific Ocean. Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft zipped into orbit 19 in the early afternoon. If no hitch developed, capsule reverse rockets were to fire at 6:02 p.m. EST east of Shanghai and the craft was to descend to a parachute landing 80 miles southeast of Midway Island at 6:20 p.m. — EST — 12:20 p.m. Midway time. That would be 34 hours and 16 minutes after the Air Force major's Atlas booster rocket blazed away from Cape Canaveral to start him toward a record U.S. man-in-space flight. As the dramatic journey neared an end, it was obvious Cooper was in high spirits. Voice reports from the capsule were crisp and clear.

JFK Science Advisor Sees Pesticide Peril

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's top science adviser said today contamination from uncontrolled use of pesticides and other poisonous chemicals is potentially a much greater hazard than radioactive fallout. Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner declared emphatically, however, that "I'm not saying it is the situation today." He told a Senate Government Operations subcommittee that no one really knows yet the full story of the effects of pollution. Wiesner gave the testimony at the start of hearings by the subcommittee on the entire range of pollution, including fallout from nuclear testing, pesticides, contaminating effects of some detergents, fumes from motor traffic, and others. It will consider the possible need for better government controls.

The President's Science Advisory Committee which Wiesner heads reported Wednesday that 150 Americans—half of them children—are killed each year through misuse of powerful pesticides. The committee recommended speedy federal action to protect humanity and wild life by assuring more judicious use of chemical pesticides and stronger laws to control them.

Angelo College Bill To Be Signed

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally is to sign at 11 a.m. Friday the bill making San Angelo Junior College a state supported senior college in 1965. A large San Angelo group is expected at the ceremony in the governor's reception room. The governor signed the bill Tuesday adding Pan American College at Edinburg to the state system. Both college bills passed last week.

Air Tanker Bases Will Be Closed

OTTAWA (AP)—Two of the four U.S. air tanker bases in Canada used for refueling flight bombers will be closed by July 1, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin announced. The bases at Frobisher on Baffin Island and Fort Churchill, Man., will be turned back to the Canadian government for civilian airports. Martin said they are no longer needed because of new longer-range tanker planes. The U.S. bases at Cold Lake and Namao in Alberta will be kept in operation.

formance topped anything by a U.S. astronaut so far. His use of the fuel and oxygen supplies of his Faith 7 spacecraft were excellent. As his 16th orbit began, Powers reported that Cooper had 70 per cent of the fuel supply remaining in Faith 7's automatic control system, 90 per cent in the manual system. In his first 24 hours aloft, he consumed only 25 per cent of his primary oxygen supply and none of his emergency supply. However, Powers said absolutely no consideration was being given to a possible extension of the flight past 22 orbits. Schirra said he had spoken to Cooper's wife, Trudy, in Houston, this morning and that she told him she had awakened about the same time her husband apparently awoke.

GOOD SPIRITS She wished to know when she could listen in again on the special radio installed in the Cooper home for the conversations between her husband and Cape Canaveral, Schirra said. He added, "She's in good spirits." Cooper went to sleep about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday night, after talking with astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., who is aboard the tracking ship Coastal Sentry off the coast of Japan. Tracking stations kept silent through the night. And then at 5:26 a.m., Powers said, trackers in Mueche, Australia, "heard a familiar voice, and it was that of Gordon Cooper." Cooper reported that he had some discomfort during the night when his spacecraft heated up. But he said he adjusted the temperature setting and went back to sleep. Powers said the astronaut reported that "as far as he was concerned everything on the spacecraft was nominal."

Orbit Log
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Here is the orbit-by-orbit log of Gordon Cooper's space flight, following the blastoff at 8:04 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Wednesday. Orbit 1—8:18 a.m.—The first pictures of Cooper were televised to earth. 9:31 a.m.—Cooper told astronaut Virgil I. Grissom at Guaymas, Mexico, that the flight was "quite a thrill." He reported seeing the earth's haze layer. John H. Glenn Jr.'s "firafies," or bits of frost glistening in the sun, and the lights of Perth, Australia. (See ORBIT, Page 8-A, Col. 7)

HELLO DOWN THERE "Hello down there! Did I take pictures, pictures, pictures!" Cooper exclaimed to communication Virgil Grissom on the ground at Guaymas, Mexico. Then he reported the horizon in the east before sunrise and after sunset. Scientists believe the color pictures will prove a theory that the phenomena is caused by the sun's rays reflecting off dust clouds.

JUBILANT SCIENTISTS Early in the flight, and while Cooper, 36, chatted his way from sunset to sunset as if he did this sort of thing every day; the earth-bound technicians and scientists were jubilant. After describing the operation as a "textbook flight," "perfect" and "beautiful," they described

BIG SPRING MEN ARE AT PICKUP AREA

At least two Big Spring men are aboard the USS Kearsarge, the aircraft carrier assigned to the pickup area for Astronaut Gordon Cooper in mid-Pacific. They are A. A. Hicks, son of Mrs. J. D. Jackson, and F.N. Tony P. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Morris, 1008 Nolan. Hicks entered the Navy in December, 1961 and most of his service has been aboard the carrier. Morris entered the Navy in September of 1961. He worked for Girdner Electric prior to that.

Race Imbalance In Schools Ordered Out

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—State Education Commissioner Frederick M. Raubinger ordered the Orange School Board today to end extreme racial imbalance in its Oakwood Elementary School. In a decision creating a precedent for New Jersey schools, Raubinger said that although there was no intentional segregation of Negroes at the Oakwood school, the 99 per cent Negro enrollment there "constitutes under New Jersey law a deprivation of educational opportunity for the pupils compelled to attend the school." Raubinger did not tell the school board specifically how to balance the enrollment at Oakwood school. Raubinger ordered the board to submit a plan to him for approval by July 1 and to put it into effect for the 1963-64 school year. The issues in the Orange case were similar to those involved in Englewood where the Lincoln Elementary School has a 98 per cent Negro enrollment. The Englewood case also is before Raubinger. Hearings have been completed and briefs are due to be filed by the attorneys next month. The Englewood case has been marked by two years of demonstrations, controversy and sit-ins.

Duvalier Insists He Will Not Flee

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haiti's Dictator-President Francois Duvalier insists he will remain in office despite reports abroad that he is planning to flee his rebellion-threatened country. "Haiti will continue under my administration," Duvalier told American correspondents summoned to his palace Wednesday in an apparent effort to scotch reports he intended to flee. By showing himself unscathed, Duvalier, 56, scored a victory over enemies who had sworn to kill him rather than let him begin a new presidential term. Duvalier's constitutional term of office expired Wednesday, but he declared himself re-elected for six more years after a rigged ballot two years ago.

Duvalier's regime plans a splurge for his inauguration May 22. Haitians throughout the countryside are being herded into trucks and carts to Port au Prince. "CONTRIBUTING" The people also are being forced to "contribute" to help defray expenses of the inaugural celebration. "Papa Doc," as he is known to the Negro Haitians, may survive that day, too, but foreign observers of Haiti's troubles give him no more than another year at the helm of his impoverished, fear-ridden little nation. Clemeur Barbot, once Duvalier's right-hand man, has sworn to kill his former chief and is at large somewhere in Haiti with a band of underground fighters. Haitian exiles abroad have been reported planning invasions of the country. The other nations of the hemisphere are solidly opposed to his dictatorship though as yet they have not been able to agree on any action against him. Despite the opposition, Duvalier exuded self-confidence as he appealed for better relations with the United States but made plain he would not tolerate outside interference in his rule. AMERICANS HIT Duvalier assailed the "shortcomings of certain men" in the United States "who should have directed their efforts toward understanding Haiti and its people." He added, however, that relations between Haiti and the United States are easier at the moment. He said he would like to see much longer, it likely will be embarrassing to the United States. Washington has made no secret of its desire to see him fall, and the tenacious little man would be in a position to say he defied the northern colossus. An investigating committee of the Organization of American States was due here today to inquire further into the Haitian crisis, but Duvalier has no intention of letting it probe charges of repression inside the country. "The Haitian government certainly cannot permit any meddling by any state or superstate in its internal affairs," he declared. "I have already said that it would be unthinkable that anyone might want to reproach a chief of state for defending his government—born of national sovereignty—against armed subversion, against aggressive forces and against subversive actions. "Were a chief of state so lax as not to defend his country, that he would have betrayed his mission to govern."

The OAS mission ostensibly is still working to end the crisis that nearly touched off war with the neighboring Dominican Republic, but that crisis has largely evaporated. Dominican President Juan Bosch mobilized troops two weeks ago to bolster demands for safety of Haitian political refugees in the Dominican Embassy. Bosch later pulled back his troops.

Armed Forces Weekend To Open With Luncheon

The Armed Forces weekend celebration at Webb Air Force Base opens formally Friday, when staff officers at the Base are hosts at a noon luncheon. A crowd of some 200 people from the Big Spring area is expected to hear an address by Brig. Gen. Pinkham Smith, deputy chief of staff and deputy director of operations, Headquarters USAF, Washington. Armed Forces day open house is from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday. General Smith was due to arrive in Big Spring late this evening, will also remain overnight Friday, then go to Lubbock Saturday for a talk at Reese AFB.

BRIG. GEN. PINKHAM SMITH

General Smith's last assignment before going to the Pentagon was at Abilene, where for some 15 months he was at Dyess AFB as commander of the 819th Strategic Aerospace Division. Prior to that he had been chief of staff at 15th Air Force headquarters, March Field, Calif. General Smith has had a long and distinguished career with the Air Force; much of this time has been spent in the field of strategic bombardment. He saw World War II action, with the 20th Bomber Command in the China-Burma-India Theater as a B-29 pilot. Before the Japanese surrendered he had accumulated 140 hours of combat flying time in the air. In the Far East he participated in the bombing of targets in Tokyo and Bangkok. The general was on Guam with the 20th when the war ended and he was selected, along with several other promising young officers, to work on the project "Operations Crossroads," the USAF's continuation of the atomic tests. General Smith is a graduate of the Armed Forces Staff College, and the Air War College. He is a command pilot, and has more than 4,000 hours of flying time to his credit. He was born in Pelham, New York, but attended high school in Watertown, Conn. He was a student at Princeton University from 1933 to 1937. Upon graduation from the Princeton ROTC he was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the Field Artillery Reserve.

The following June General Smith entered the Army Air Corps as an Aviation Cadet; following his graduation from the advanced school at Kelly Field, he joined the 19th Pursuit Squadron in Hawaii, 17.

The Lydia E. Pinkham Co., of Lynn, Mass., was founded by the general's great-grandmother and is still owned by the family. The general wears among numerous others the Air Medal, the Bronze Star, the Commendation Medal, with one oak leaf cluster; the Asiatic Pacific Campaign Medal, with seven Bronze Battle Stars, and the AF Longevity Award with four Oak Leaf Clusters.

HE'S A MISER "You sure are a miser on consummables," Shepard said. "You're saving things very well." During the 16th orbit, Mercury Control Center at Cape Canaveral evaluated the condition of the astronaut and spacecraft systems and then waved Cooper's Faith 7 past a go-no-go decision point over Australia. "Roger, very good," was Cooper's reaction when the tracking station at Mueche, Australia, relayed the good word. If anything had been amiss, Cooper would have been ordered to fire his spacecraft reverse rockets over the eastern Pacific for a landing in the Atlantic Ocean.

Control center officials reported the pilot was "in excellent condition. He is strong, his attitude is good and he is managing his systems excellently." Cooper, 36, an Air Force major, completed his first 24 hours in space shortly after 8 a.m. while whirling eastward in his 16th orbit. During that time, he got a good night's rest of about 7½ hours. NO DREAMS "Did you have any dreams?" Cooper was asked as he passed near Cape Canaveral not long after he awoke. "Negative," he replied. "I slept too soundly." Cooper wasn't saying much. "I think he must be saving words for posterity or something," said Col. Powers, the voice of Mercury Control. But as a pilot, Cooper's per-

Thompson Illness Delays Setting Of Oil Allowables

AUSTIN (AP)—The absence of veteran Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson delayed today the scheduled setting of June oil production allowances. Commissioner Ben Ramsey held the hearing alone. "We will send a transcript of the hearing to the commission and act at a later date in time to comply with the statute," Ramsey said. Ramsey said Thompson is in Amarillo. Ramsey refused to comment, when asked if Thompson is ill. Thompson, 70, was absent from his office from April to November last year because of illness. He has given no thought to resigning because of ill health. Five major companies asked the commission to retain a 28 per cent production formula for June. The commission has used the 28 per cent of capacity pattern for three consecutive months. Two purchasers nominated on a 29 per cent basis, two on 27 per cent and three on 26 per cent. One nominated on a 25 per cent formula. Ramsey said after the hearing that the June allowable figure will be announced early next week. Under the 28 per cent formula, June production would be limited to 2,845,818 barrels a day.

Nominations included: 29 per cent—Sun Oil Co., 108,093 barrels; Texaco 140,000. 28 per cent—Atlantic refining, 80,930; Mobil 235,500; Shell 163,000; Humble 398,235; Gulf 206,700. 27 per cent—Sinclair, 102,800; Indiana 244,000. 26 per cent—Standard of Texas, 33,600; Cities Service, 82,000; Continental 26,500. 25 per cent—Phillips 121,815. Buyers' nominations were 2,523,970 barrels a day, an increase of 10,129 from May. The Bureau of Mines forecast for June demands was 2,560,000, up 20,000.

Two members of District 24 of the Texas Graduate Nurse Association look over an array of nurses caps on display in a downtown show window. This is one of several exhibits arranged by the nurses in observance of Texas Graduate Nurse Week, proclaimed by the governor and by Mayor George Zachariah to focus attention upon the role that graduate nurses play in the ministry of health. The local district membership is confined to Howard County.

Commission Gives Approval To Several New Ordinances

Several ordinances were approved by the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday night, some on second reading but most of them received first readings. An amendment to the electrical code will require all evaporative water coolers, placed less than eight feet from the ground, to be grounded. The ordinance will prohibit the use of plastic tubing for water service. Copper, or other approved tubing, will be required on future installation. The ordinance was passed on emergency reading, because of recent reports of serious injuries and deaths occurring from electrical shocks when people came in contact with ungrounded air conditioners. An amendment to the building code requires an extra payment of $5 for each re-inspection where builders fail to meet code specifications. Zone changes approved on first reading of ordinances were: South of Marcy Drive and west of Birdwell Lane, for Clyde Brown, change from residential to retail; 14 blocks east of Goliad and north of Marcy, from residential to planned district, and for multifamily, for Marshall Fields; Lot 3 in Coronado Hills, around the old swimming pool from residential to multifamily. The third reading, which had been delayed for more information, changing the southeast corner of the Wason Road and Parkway Road intersection from residential to planned district for neighborhood service, was approved for E. C. Smith and Ted Groebel. The second reading of ordinances permitting on-premises consumption of beer at the northeast corner of Galveston and Third, and at the Sands Restaurant, were approved. The commission approved purchase of 60 steel boxes for collection of overtime parking tickets in the business area. An ordinance was authorized to set up specifications. These will include amounts of fines, if paid within specified hours, and locations. The Fine-O-Meter system, manufactured by the Duncan Co. of Oklahoma, will cost $1,050, and envelopes $16.50 per 1,000. The city had budgeted $1,600 for purchase of the mailing type envelopes being used for overtime parking violations, and the commission felt that a saving could be made in the overall cost, to reduce the amount required to install and use the system. Roy Anderson, city purchasing agent, said the cost for postage on the present mailing envelopes ran around $450 per year, and that most of that could be saved. He proposed setting up the collection boxes in the parking meter areas with approximately two to the block. An ordinance annexing one acre, north of the Berea Baptist Church and west of Wason Road, at the request of A. S. Goodwin was passed on first reading. The property is adjacent to present property in the city. Ten lots, in the Highland South Addition No. 3 west, were approved for annexation on first reading. A subdivision plat, submitted by Ike Robb, had been approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission. The property is on the slope of South Mountain and west of Goliad. A request for annexation of a lot on the mountain, owned by Wayne Basden, was denied because the area had not been platted. The owner requested annexation of a 10-foot strip, from the Highland South Addition No. 3 West, up the mountain, and to include the lot.

ALL POWERFUL
One of the attributes of God is omnipotence. Christ has this attribute of deity. He is called "the mighty God" (Isa. 9:6). We are also told in Neh. 9:6 that God alone made the heavens and the earth and all things therein; that He preserves them; that the host of heaven worship Him. Now these things are all true of Christ. Col. 1:14-17 declares that all things in heaven and in earth were created by Him, and "by Him all things consist" ("all things hold together"—RSV). Also the host of heaven worship Him (Heb. 1:6; Rev. 5:11-13). The omnipotence of Christ is seen again in that He raised Himself from the dead (Jno. 2:19-22).

New Contract Ends Boeing Labor Fuss

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The AFL-CIO Machinists' Union's acceptance of a new contract with the Boeing Co. spells the end of 10 months of bickering and three threatened strikes at the big aerospace firm. For the 41,000 hourly workers to whom it applies, the pact spells financial reward and an end to uncertainty. Best estimates Wednesday after word the contract was approved 14,205 to 4,688 in last Friday's balloting was almost $30-million in salary increases during the three-year life of the agreement, with an average retroactive pay of about $200.

In the Seattle-Renton area, where the firm is headquartered and where about 31,000 of the affected employees work, it means that about $5 million will be pumped into the local economy in a special payday June 21.

Both sides hailed the agreement after votes were tallied in Washington, D.C. Boeing President William M. Allen said he was "pleased." "I am hopeful the entire Boeing team will now work together," he said. Harold J. Gibson, Machinists' vice president, said the union "views approval of the Boeing agreement as a major step toward industrial harmony in the aerospace industry."

The acceptance brought praise from union leaders in Wichita, Kan., where workers last month helped shape an 877-vote defeat of a proposal much like the one finally approved. The contract provides boosts of 22 to 32 cents hourly improvement in employe rating, union security and other benefits. Present scales range from $1.90 to $3.27 an hour. First pay raises will appear in June 7 checks. The retroactive pay, amounting to about $7 million for all the affected workers, dates back to Sept. 16 when the old contract expired. It will appear in June 21st paychecks.

Odessa College Bill Revived

AUSTIN (AP)—A bill to create a state senior college at Odessa came back to life in the Senate Wednesday. Its sponsor said he will ask its consideration Friday or Monday.

Senators voted against the bill, 13-15, Tuesday. They voted Wednesday, however, to erase the vote. Sen. W. T. Moore of Bryan objected, saying Sen. Galloway Calhoun of Tyler as presiding Senate officer had neglected to ask for "no" votes. Calhoun replied that "The ayes have it." Sen. Frank Owen of El Paso said he would seek a vote in the next day or so. The bill was also revived in the House. Rep. George Cook of Odessa failed, 82-36, in his first attempt shortly after the House passed measures creating state senior colleges at Edinburg and San Angelo. However, the House voted 69-68 Monday tentatively to approve the Odessa bill. The bill would elevate Odessa Junior College to four-year state-supported status. It would become the state's 23rd senior college in 1965.

South's two spade overcall of his opponent's opening one no trump bid is a calculated risk which is warranted by his distributional holding. A pass would run the risk of being shut out altogether and a chance to score might well be lost. When North jumped directly to game, East doubled.
West opened the six of clubs. East put up the ace of clubs and continued with the queen which declarer ruffed. It appeared to South that the diamond suit was more readily establishable than hearts, so at trick two he led a small diamond and finessed North's queen. East was in with the

Huge Forts Still Intact

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—British soldiers used to sing: "We're going to hang our washing on the Siegfried Line."

You can still hang out your laundry on the massive German defense installations of World War II. Nine-tenths of them remain more or less intact. It would cost too much money to remove them. Across the German-French border in France, the Maginot Line is still there, too. It is even kept in shape. French and Germans, who built these fortification systems a quarter of a century ago, now appear to be politically closer than at any time in the past 1,000 years.

AMITY PACT
Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Charles de Gaulle have signed an amity pact. German soldiers train in France; their French allies are stationed in Germany. French military authorities say they see no future need for the Maginot Line, but it could be put back into operating condition with little effort.

They are unwilling to let the installations fall into ruin. After all, the Maginot Line cost 500 million prewar dollars. World War II left Maginot practically undamaged. German troops invaded France via neutral Belgium and rolled up the Maginot Line forts from behind, meeting no resistance.

After the war, the location of the forts in remote forest land, far from supplies, labor and markets, made them undesirable as factories, a suggestion to use them for storage of NATO supplies also came to nothing.

GHOSTLY CHUNK
The Maginot Line remained as a ghostly chunk of military bric-a-brac. It includes 25 big forts and hundreds of lesser positions. Small maintenance crews periodically visit the installations, keeping machinery ready to run and making sure no looters are around.

The Siegfried Line, also largely untouched during the war, was earmarked for demolition by the Allies. The sentence was too difficult to carry out. Ten thousand bunkers of steel and concrete, miles of "dragon

Last Cruise Of Vacation Ship Leaves Few Elated

CHICAGO (AP)—It's the last cruise from this port for the last survivor of the once flourishing Great Lakes vacation fleet. "No one feels very elated about that," comments E. J. Goebel, president of the Georgian Bay Lines. The firm's good ship S.S. South American leaves Chicago Friday for the traditional tulip festival in Holland, Mich. After this trip the South American will ply between Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Duluth. The 2,300-mile round trip cruise runs until Sept. 15. There is a nostalgic sadness about the departure of the 331-foot, 450-passenger vessel. The Georgian Bay Lines formerly operated two ships, the S.S. North American and the S.S. South American. The North American was sold to a group of Erie, Pa., men who plan to operate her as a ferry between Port Burwell, Ont., and Erie. Built in 1914, a year after the South American, the lake craft has logged about a half century of pleasure cruising on the world's largest inland body of water. The 100-mile Lake Erie trips

Two Men Burn To Death In Crash

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Two men burned to death and another suffered serious injuries Wednesday in a head-on crash of two gravel trucks at an Interstate 45 construction site just north of here.

J. E. Dowda of Houston and M. L. Street, a Louisiana resident who had relatives in Huntsville, perished in the flames. C. R. Sommers, 29, of Conroe suffered second degree burns over most of his body. He was taken to a Houston hospital. J. D. Burks, paving foreman for Austin Road Co., said a witness reported one truck met an auto containing two women and severed, striking the other truck. Both trucks turned on their sides and burst into flames.

Famed Olympic Timers Here

The world renowned Longine timers, used to clock events in the Olympic Games and most other headline athletic events around the world, have been obtained by Zale's Jewelers here for use in the National JC Track and Field meet, which starts Friday. Zale's was shipped 18 of the watches, six of which will be displayed at the downtown store. The timers, insured at $500 each, will be returned to New York immediately after use in the cinder show. Here Bob Rogers and J. D. Jones of the ABC club admire the timers. Jay Lebowitz, manager at Zale's, is at the right. The ABC club is co-sponsor of the National meet, along with HCJC. Lebowitz ordered the watches three months in advance to make certain they were reserved.

Bob Hendley Stymies Cards Behind Braves

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee's Bob Hendley made like Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Koufax didn't.

While Koufax was making his first appearance since pitching a no-hitter against San Francisco, Hendley stole the spotlight by hurling the Braves to a 9-3 triumph over St. Louis Wednesday night and coming within two outs of matching the Koufax 4-day-old masterpiece.

Hendley got Julian Javier on a grounder to open the ninth, but pinch-hitter George Altman touched first when Frank Bolling booted his grounder.

That seemed to unsettle Hendley, who was then tagged for a triple to right center by Curt Flood for the first St. Louis hit.

Before Hendley regained his composure, the Cardinals had two more hits and three runs. But nothing could dim the performance of the 24-year-old left-hander, who pitched probably the finest game in his three seasons in the majors.

Koufax was touched for 11 hits, but struck out 12 and won his fourth in a row when Ron Fairly drove in the decisive run with a two-out single in the 12th inning and gave the Dodgers a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia.

In other National League action, first-place San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 4-3, Cincinnati beat Chicago's Cubs 10-2 and the New York Mets won Houston 7-4, ending the Colts winning streak at six.

After Flood's triple got things started for the Cards, Dick Groat followed with a single, Charley James was safe on an error by Denny Menke and Groat scored the third run on Ken Boyer's single before Hendley worked out of the jam. Menke homered for the first Braves' run in the third inning and Milwaukee continued to pound Curt Simmons, who lost his first after five victories.

Fairly's run-producing single gave Koufax his fifth victory in six decisions. The Dodger southpaw had been lifted for a pinch hitter at the start of the inning after striking out 10 or more in a game for the 43rd time. Jim Gilham scored the winning run after singling and moving to second on a passed ball. The loss went to Johnny Klippstein, 1-2.

The Giants broke a scoreless tie against loser Don Cardwell in the fifth after Orlando Cepeda led off with the inning's only hit, a pop fly that dropped in short center. Cardwell, now 1-5, walked winning pitcher Juan Marchal to force in one run and hit Felipe Alou to force in another before Bob Bailey bobbled Willie Mays' grounder and let in two more runs. Marchal brought his record to 5-3 with Bob Bolin's relief help.

QBC Starts Ducat Sales For Grid Game Tuesday

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will kick off its campaign for the sales of tickets to the May 25 football game between the 1963 high school team and the Exes following a breakfast of ducat vendors, which will be held in the Phillips 66 Cafe on West Highway 80 at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

The sales teams will consist of two persons and everyone who would like to participate in the campaign can feel free to attend the breakfast. The job of canvassing the downtown area will start about 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Ducats for the game will sell for $1 (adult) and 25 cents (student). Proceeds from the engagement go toward the support of all athletic teams fielded by the local public schools.

The booster organization, working as it never has before this early in the year, hopes to finance several of its projects planned for this fall with receipts from the Saturday night game.

A color guard from Webb will be on hand to raise the flag prior to the engagement. There will be a massive entertainment at half time, lasting 20 minutes, at which time the bands of the senior high and two junior high will parade and provide background music for a 500-voice choir recruited from all public schools here.

In addition, there will be three special track events featuring the cream of junior high talent here, two of which will be staged immediately prior to the 8 p.m. game and the third scheduled for half time. All the races will finish in front of the stands.

R. C. Moore and Tommy Henry will be in charge of the track phase of the program. The boys are now in training for the spectacle.

Tickets for the football game will also be on sale at McAdams Drug Store, 18th and Gregg Street; Dibrell's Sporting Goods Store, the senior high school, Golland and Runnels junior highs, and at the State National Bank (John Currie).

Jimmy Felts and Roy Bennett of the QBC are heading up the ticket sales committee while Jess Slaughter will be in charge of the ticket takers at the game. The DeMolays will have charge of the concessions and program sales at the contest and will share in the profits.

Two ticket sellers for the gate booths have been lined up by Currie. Two more are needed and can volunteer by calling Omar Jones of the QBC.

Merchants Suffer Defeat, Webb Triumphs In Debuts

The Big Spring Merchants suffered a shocking defeat at the hands of E. C. Smith Construction in first round play in the Big Spring Fast Softball league at the City Park Wednesday night.

PEKAR

Spec Franklin blanketed the Merchants, favored to cop the crown, limiting the losers to a mere three hits. He fanned seven and did not pass a batter.

Smith's team feasted on the offerings of two Merchant hurlers, Don Washburn and Marion Tredaway, collecting nine assorted blows.

Melvin Lindsey, Tito Arenzibia, Charley Hale and Franklin of the winners hit doubles in the contest.

Manager Buck Drake unloaded a two-baser for the losers, who were playing without their star pitcher, Billy Paul Thomas.

Smith's started off with six runs in the first inning and tacked on four more in the fourth.

Webb AFB, led by Bob Pekar, downed Morton's Foods, 12-2, in the other game.

Pekar had a big night, driving out two home runs, a double and

Three Pee-Wee Teams In Loop

COAHOMA — The Classic Beauty Center will sponsor one of three "pee-wee" baseball teams in the Coahoma Boys' league, which launches play May 27.

The Classic Beauty team will be managed by Charles Parrish. Coahoma Beauty Shop and Rick's Snac Bar are combining to sponsor one of the clubs, with Bill Milliken as pilot. Marvin's Grocery of Sand Springs is the third sponsor, with Roland Beal as manager.

The pee-wee teams, designed for boys six to eight years of age, will play Monday and Friday of each week.

What can anyone say about a newspaper strike?

Stores and newspapers can't do without each other.

We all knew it, but it took the costly New York strike to remind everybody all over again.

"The daily newspapers and retail stores are equally dependent upon each other for the success of their enterprises."

"The stores were not able to mount an effective fashion campaign without the daily newspapers."

"...it is essential to stimulate consumer interest through massive newspaper advertising or a generally depressing effect on sales will set in. The recent strike was aptly called 'a creeping disaster'."

"The downtown area of any major city is a unified shopping center whose prosperity depends upon the traffic-pulling power of big store advertising. When this advertising is not present, as in the recent newspaper strike, the entire area...feels the effects."

"Without advertising, especially newspaper advertising, retail merchandising would be in a chaotic state."

"There is no substitute for the daily newspaper as the major medium for retail advertising."

and finals in most field events will be staged Saturday morning while the rest of the finals are on tap Saturday night. Phoenix, Arizona, which has a 24-man squad, remains a slight favorite to cop the team title.

Next to Texas, the state of Kansas has the best representation in the meet, with six schools entered. They are Ark City, Coffeyville, Dodge City, Hutchinson, Iola and Garden City. Over 40 schools have entered boys here but some of them will be represented by no more than one entry.

Patterson Poised To Recruit Boys

AUSTIN (AP)—Jack Patterson, Texas' new track coach, has been in town only one day and he's anxious "to move on down the road" recruiting high school athletes to bolster the school's sagging track program.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

John Nunley, the Ark City, Kansas, boy who is capable of breaking Les Steers' 25-year-old record in the high jump in the National JC Track and Field Meet here this weekend, was a Juco All-American selection in football.

JOHN NUNLEY

The 5-foot-11, 170-pound sophomore has signed a letter of intent with the University of Oklahoma. John's grandfather, Bill Phillips, lives in Big Lake. Nunley is one of ten boys coach Reece Bohannon is entering in the local meet — and quite probably is the club's best bet to win a first place trophy.

Obie Bristow ran into trouble on the 18th green in his first round match in the annual Permian secondary next season. He's only a sophomore now. Jim Cashion, the Permian mentor, says the Panthers will rely less on power and more on passing next fall, now that Mike Love is through with high school eligibility.

The Panthers are due to make use of their great speed and run wide a lot of the time. Probably Permian's best bet for all-district honors will be end Royce Berry, who now stands 6-3 1/2 and weighs 195.

Bernard Rains, a teacher in the local public school system who will tutor a YMCA adult golf class this summer, was proud of a golf round he shot at the Munny last weekend.

Bernard had eight pars and a bogie for a 37 on the first nine and started the second nine in an unspectacular manner, shooting a par and two bogies on the first three holes.

Charley Morton, an all-district basketball player for Odessa Permian the past season, will attend Southeastern State College in Durant, Okla., on an athletic scholarship next fall, as will Ed Gardner, the Odessa College cager.

Toby's Defeats Kent Oil, 7-3

Toby's won its second Texas Little League decision in five starts by beating Kent Oil, 7-3, here Wednesday night.

Ray Leos, the winning flinger, yielded only four hits, struck out 11 and walked six. Leos, Mario Moncada, Victor Hilario, Billy Joe Woodruff and Claude Tucker collected the safeties for the winners. Hilario hit for three bases and Moncada and Tucker each had doubles.

Patterson is a native of Merkel, Tex., and graduate of Rice, where he was a hurdler and captain of the 1939 track team. He started coaching at San Angelo High School in 1941 and in 1944 he went back to Merkel for a year.

In 1945 he moved to the University of Houston. He was track coach there 11 years before taking over at Baylor in 1955.

His teams won Baylor's first Southwest Conference track championship in 1960 and repeated in 1962 and this year.

Yankees Drub Devils, 8-5

The Yankees, scoring all but one of their runs in the first two innings, kayoed the Devils, 8-5, in National Little League activity here Wednesday night.

Jackie Tibbets and Bobby Pickle teamed up to fashion the mound victory, limiting the Devils to three hits between them.

Tibbets, who opened on the mound, fanned five and walked seven. He received credit for the win.

The Devils matched the Yankees' three runs in the first but the winners came right back to record four tallies in the second.

Jackie Fletcher and David Pickle each had two hits for the Yanks, who collected seven in all. Pickle drove in a total of four runs.

Bud Merrick, Bill Merrick and Johnny Hedges connected safely for the Devils.

Terry Darden stole home in the fourth inning with what proved to be the winning run as the Stars toppled the Pirates, 5-4, in an American Little League game here Wednesday night.

It was Darden's second time to steal home in the contest. Ray Lynn Wright and Bill Davis to pitch the win, Wright getting credit for the victory. He toiled five innings, fanning six and walking four. The 11-year-old had full counts on batters on six occasions.

Astronaut Story In Words And Pictures

Mrs. Cooper Plans To Fly To Hawaii

HOUSTON (AP)—Mrs. Gordon Cooper began preparing today to fly to Hawaii for a reunion with her husband at the end of his 22-orbit space flight.

The preparations for the flight to Honolulu, where the Coopers were married, began after Cooper got a green light to shoot for the full 22 orbits as planned.

A spokesman for Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center said Mrs. Cooper and her two teen-age daughters will leave Houston at 10:05 a.m. Friday and leave Los Angeles at 2:30 p.m. on a Pan-American Airways flight for Honolulu.

Mrs. Cooper awoke at 4:45 a.m., the same hour Cooper awoke while over Australia.

The daughters slept another hour and then resumed their radio-TV watch. The mother and daughters sipped coffee and orange juice until the 22-orbit signal was received. Then Jan. 13, the youngest, prepared scrambled eggs and bacon.

Dr. Charles Berry, astronaut physician at Cape Canaveral, Fla., telephoned their home early this morning to advise Cooper's family: "Everything looks fine."

Mrs. Cooper hoped to listen to her husband's voice by means of a special radio receiving set tuned to his spacecraft frequency. He was due to be within range during his 15th to 19th orbits around the world.

As he continued to make space history she planned a flight of her own.

Mrs. Cooper, a pretty brunette, said she planned to take her teenage daughters with her when she flies to Hawaii Friday for a reunion with Cooper on his 34-hour, 22-orbit flight ends in the Pacific as scheduled.

Trudy Cooper saw on television Wednesday what she termed a "beautiful" launch for her husband's Faith 7 capsule. She and her two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13, talked with Cooper by telephone just before the near-perfect blastoff at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The family watched the launching on four television sets in their brick and stone ranch-style home 25 miles east of downtown Houston.

Following the launching Mrs. Cooper entertained wives of other astronauts. In all, the wives of 10 astronauts—old and new—visited the Cooper home.

There Are 2 Kinds Of Orbits

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—When is an orbit not an orbit? When is a revolution of course. Except that even then it's called an orbit.

Confused? Well, relax—it isn't bothering astronaut Gordon Cooper and it boils down to semantics anyway.

An orbit for Cooper is one of two things—both of them different.

A Keplerian orbit is a complete circle from one point in space around and back to that same point in space again.

But experts at Mercury Control—for simplicity's sake—have used a different measure.

They drew an imaginary line, north to south, through Cape Canaveral, and measured an orbit as the amount of time it takes Cooper to make it once around and cross that line.

The earth rotates in the same direction that Cooper is flying—to the east—and he has to travel a little more than a full circle each time to cross the Cape Canaveral line. Experts at Mercury Control call this an earth-fixed orbit—or a revolution.

The Keplerian orbit takes about 88½ minutes. The earth orbit takes five minutes longer, about 93½ minutes—the full circle plus the amount of time it takes to catch up with the Cape Canaveral line.

Cooper's flight—advertised by NASA as a 22-orbit mission—was figured on the basis of almost 22 of the earth-fixed orbits or revolutions. In the traditional sense, he is traveling more than 23 of the circular or Keplerian orbits before he returns to earth.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, Mercury public affairs officer, said today the Keplerian orbit is a "point to point in space which has no relation to the earth beneath it."

"NASA begins each orbit count on Faith 7 at the same point in space directly overhead the geographical spot in which the spacecraft was injected into orbit."

Passes Over Texas By Astronaut

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper's space flight timetable called for him to pass over Texas on three orbits today.

Orbit 16, Houston, 8:13 a.m.

Orbit 17, Dallas, 9:47 a.m.

Orbit 18, Beaumont, 11:21 p.m.

Wednesday he passed over San Antonio and Houston during orbit 1. El Paso and Dallas during orbit 2, and Houston during orbit 3.

Even After Five Shoots, Watchers Still Excited

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—As the seconds ticked away, one could feel the mounting tension at Cape Canaveral. It was in the background bustle. It was in the voices of the television and radio commentators, in spite of their best efforts to be brisk and business-like. And it was inside the millions of people who for 24 hours had waited and watched to see the Faith 7 and its human cargo boosted into space.

Later, in the continuing reviews and recaps, on all three major TV networks, through the afternoon and evening, it was merely interesting to see—once again—a huge missile roar into the sky. By then we knew that the launching had been practically perfect and the capsule was in, as they said, "the textbook orbit." But watching it live was something else entirely, even after five other shoots. The viewer's palms were moist, his breath was short at the critical moment.

Unfortunately, the television broadcast from the tiny, slow-scan camera inside the capsule, was so fuzzy that the uninitiated could identify little of anything. One gathered that it was the helmet and head of the astronaut at the upper left of the picture but it could have been any object. Maybe it will be better next time.

Throughout the day, the networks followed the flight's progress. There were bulletins on the half hour and there were printed news on the screens, otherwise occupied by the endless parade of time-killing light diversion. Thus we at home knew in remarkable detail the temperature inside the capsule, even inside the suit, the moment the astronaut tried some exercises, started some experiments and even when he decided to eat lunch.

Is He Awake Or Asleep?

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Call it nonchalance, or just easy going, but sometimes—with in the privacy of his sky cabin—it's hard to tell whether astronaut Gordon Cooper is awake or asleep.

Even in the last tense minutes, waiting to blast off, Cooper may have dozed off.

Again—in some quiet moments as he approached the California coast on his second orbit—Cooper dropped off to sleep again.

Finally after 12 hours and 40 minutes in space, Cooper reached the 10-hour period circumscribed as a "don't call me, I'll call you" time in which he could rest undisturbed by calls from the ground.

It took him barely five minutes to relax to the point where his doctors could say it appeared he was asleep.

The doctors say Cooper was very near sleep, if not actually dozing at a time during the last 60 minutes of his countdown.

They watched on the instruments as his breathing rate fell to a sleeping pattern of about 12 breaths a minute, and his heart indicated sleep too.

They got the same report from the astronaut's body Wednesday night as he passed over Ascension Island, about five minutes after his rest period began.

Being considerate fellows, they didn't ring him up and ask if he was asleep.

Unlike most bosses, space officials don't look down on this kind of catnap on the job. Also unlike most bosses they can tell whether an astronaut is dozing because the space pilot's body is wired with sensors that tattle on him—take his electrocardiogram, breathing rate, temperature and so forth.

Actually his doctors were happy to see him napping earlier in the flight because it indicated he would have little trouble sleeping during the rest period.

Asked if it was all right for Cooper to drop off that way, Operations Director Walt Williams said, "Why not?"

Astronaut coordinator Donald K. Slayton was asked whether Cooper likes to sleep on the boat when he and his fellow astronauts go fishing.

"We all do," Slayton said protecting astronaut anonymity, "when we're not catching any fish."

Slayton doesn't think it strange that a man can sleep a hundred or so miles above the earth.

Cooper has done little talking during the flight—but then he's sparing of words anyway.

Williams said Wednesday night: "Did he sound sleepy? 'I don't think he's sleepy at all. As far as slowness of talk, this boy was

Unlined Disposal Pits Banned In Two Area Counties

AUSTIN—The Texas Railroad Commission is entering an order which will ban the use of open unlined surface pits for disposing of oilfield salt water in Menard County and in parts of Schleicher County.

The action, which will become effective Nov. 1, followed a hearing April 2. Besides Menard County, the order covers the parts of the F and H (Cisco) Field extending into Schleicher County. The commission found that disposal of brine in pits has or threatens to contaminate the cretaceous formation bearing fresh water in the county. The Menard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 asked for the hearing which resulted in the order.

Ed Reed, Midland hydrologist, said fresh water supplies had not yet been contaminated, but he predicted they would with an estimated 1,250 tons of salt going into the soil daily.

Soviet Spy Ship Near Monitor

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A Soviet trawler of the type the Soviets use for electronic snooping was sighted today near a U.S. ship monitoring astronaut Gordon Cooper's space flight, an informed source said.

A U.S. destroyer sighted the trawler in international waters in the general vicinity of the American ship Coastal Sentry, which is monitoring Cooper's flight and may control his re-entry at the end of the 22-orbit flight.

The trawler's mission has not been determined, the source said.

Dual Government Plan Is Praised

AUSTIN (AP)—The dual plan of government in which state and federal governments have separate functions is the greatest "safety valve" ever devised, former state and U.S. Sen. Earle Mayfield said today.

Mayfield spoke to the Texas Senate by invitation in a resolution sponsored by Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo.

Orbit Log For Cooper

Orbit 2
11 a.m.—Cooper said, as he passed over California, "I had a little nap."

Orbit 3
11:29 a.m.—Cooper released a small sphere with two bright flashing lights for an experiment in judging distances as the sphere drifted away from the capsule.

Orbit 4
12:46 p.m.—Mercury Control said Cooper was off on a "textbook flight."

2 p.m.—Trudy Cooper heard her husband's voice in their Houston home and said it was "most reassuring."

2:02 p.m.—Asked if he had yet sighted the flashing light sphere, Cooper said, "Affirm. I was with that little rascal all night last night."

Orbit 5
3:01 p.m.—Mercury Control said Cooper's use of electricity and fuel were lower than called for in the flight plan.

Orbit 6
5:07 p.m.—Cooper, over Hawaii, disclosed he had tried to deploy and inflate a balloon, but that it was a failure.

Orbit 7
6:07 p.m.—Cooper was told he could try for 17 orbits.

Orbit 8
7:34 p.m.—The capsule cabin temperature had stabilized at about 67 degrees. He discussed with Zanzibar, Africa, a discrepancy in his cabin clock.

Orbit 9
8:47 p.m.—Cooper told the Rose Knot Victor tracking ship about 3,000 miles off the Chilean coast that he was starting his rest period.

Orbit 10
10:32 p.m.—Cooper continued drifting in a rest period.

Orbit 11
1:02 p.m.—Cooper apparently was asleep as he passed over the ship, Costa Sentry, south of Japan.

Orbit 12
11:22 p.m.—Telemetry to Canton Island showed 82 per cent of the automatic fuel left and 90 per cent in the manual fuel system.

Orbit 13
12:01 a.m.—Cooper was over the tip of Brazil and presumed asleep.

Orbit 14
1:01 a.m.—Cooper had been in orbit 16 hours and 38 minutes, nearly the halfway point of the projected voyage. Referring to his sudden increase in heartbeats, Mercury Control said "The thought now is that Gordon perhaps awoke and reset one of his suit temperatures because it had risen approximately 20 degrees."

Orbit 15
Over Kano, Nigeria, suit temperature had dropped back to normal.

Orbit 16
1:31 a.m.—Past the halfway point now, Cooper still slept. Asked how he kept the sunlight out of his eyes, Mercury Control said there was a curtain that could be drawn over the capsule window.

Orbit 17
3:31 a.m.—With the capsule in drifting flight, telemetry showed Cooper still in "sleep configuration."

Orbit 18
5:26 a.m.—The Muecha, Australia, tracking station "suddenly heard a familiar voice and it was that of Gordon Cooper." The astronaut said he had slept "pretty good." He confirmed that he had some discomfort with the suit during the night, but had corrected it quickly.

Orbit 19
6:05 a.m.—Talking to Cape Canaveral, Cooper said he did not have any dreams.

Orbit 20
6:32 a.m.—Cooper told the Zanzibar tracking station he had used only 25 per cent of his primary oxygen supply and that he had not yet eaten anything since waking up. Asked how he felt he said: "Just fine. Excellent."

Orbit 21
7:31 a.m.—Mercury Control reported fuel and supply factors were well above expected levels. Auxiliary oxygen supplies had not even been touched.

Orbit 22
7:44 a.m.—He soared on over the Atlantic.

Orbit 23
8:25 a.m.—Muecha, Australia, station relayed word from Mercury Control Center that Cooper had a go-ahead for a full 22-orbit mission. "Roger, very good," the astronaut commented.

Orbit 24
8:30 a.m.—Using a 35mm robot still camera, Cooper snapped pictures of the zodiacal light, a nebulous glow seen on the horizon at sunrise and sunset, and the colorful airglow layer above the horizon.

Orbit 25
9:02 a.m.—The pilot oriented Faith 7 so he could take a series of eight horizon pictures for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. MIT will use the photos to determine if the horizon can be used as a guidance reference for returning missions.

Orbit 26
9:21 a.m.—He began orbit-long period of drifting flight over the Atlantic.

Orbit 27
10:54 a.m.—Orbit started east of Georgia. He reported all systems excellent.

Orbit 28
12:02 p.m.—He told astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter at Hawaii tracking station that everything was "progressing smoothly."

The two-week school will begin June 10. Sessions will be held each morning from 9 to 11:45 o'clock. "Walking with God" is the theme of the course. The selected lessons in graded workbooks will provide learning experiences designed to broaden and deepen understanding of the nature of God, strengthen faith in Christ as Saviour from sin and to instill the desire to live the Christian life.

CWF Event

Displaying the symbolic hats created for the style show presented by members of the Christian Women's Fellowship are Mrs. James Calmes, Mrs. Donald Robbins and Mrs. Fred Lancaster. The hats were decorated with various items representing phases of work in which CWF members participate.

With her is Mrs. Don Wiley, retiring president, who served as narrator. Plans accompaniment was provided by Mrs. Bob Simpson. The show climaxed the workshop attended by approximately 70 women. Following registration, a coffee was held in the church parlor and the noon luncheon was served in Fellowship Hall.

Silhouettes For CWF Theme Of Style Show

By JO BRIGHT

As models stepped through a picture frame, Mrs. Don Wiley narrated the style show, "Silhouettes for CWF" which climaxed the district workshop and luncheon held Wednesday at the First Christian Church.

Mrs. Wiley said that the church woman is a busy person in her community, who not only is engaged in the activities of her church, but is active, as well, in civic, social and family affairs. Modeling ensembles suitable for any of these activities, CWF members wore hats depicting some phase of their church work.

Mrs. Frank Rice appeared in a three-piece denim and gingham patio costume. The wrap-around skirt of egg-shell denim was lined with the same material as that of the blouse. Matching shorts completed the outfit. The clock, money and praying hands which decorated her hat represented talents to be given to CWF.

MISSION ENDEAVORS

A pink silk shantung sheath, modeled by Mrs. Don Williams, featured fuchsia colored tulips appliqued at the waist. Her pearlized pumps were pink and her white bag was beaded. The CWF yearbook, a small globe and Bible fastened to the brim of her sailor hat depicted the program chairman's job with mission endeavors.

Mrs. Luther Bean chose a bone silk shantung suit with pockets and buttonholes placed in a diagonal design. Added accent were the bone buttons and three quarter length sleeves. A notepad, pencil and stamps were among the items decorating her CWF secretary's hat.

A fortune in crisp bills and a small coin tree added interest to the treasurer's hat modeled by Mrs. Fred Lancaster. She wore an original creation of brocade in shades of beige—a bare-backed dress for evening and a jacket fashioned with a mandarin collar. The garment material was a gift to Mrs. Lancaster from her son and daughter-in-law when they were stationed in Japan.

Mrs. Dick Wilson walked between the luncheon tables wearing a sundress the color of summer, in shades of yellow. Mrs. Wilson was her own clever seamstress, constructing a small umbrella of matching fabric. Garden plants decorated the large coolie hat to depict planting the seed of worship through daily devotions.

PATRIOTIC

A striking brunette, Mrs. Donald Robbins had a patriotic look with her red, triple knit suit, the jacket piped in white and brass buttons. Stars covered the crown of her Panama straw hat and small waving flags reminded CWF members to give service on local, national or world-wide levels.

Mrs. Earl Zetsche created a beatnik mood in her Espresso Coffee Set. The dress length avocado gingham shirt was worn over Bermuda shorts of poplin. Rimming her hat were tiny dolls from foreign countries to remind members that they could read of world mission work in "World Call."

A green and white full skirted frock of dacron whipped cream was made and modeled by Mrs. Russell Hoover. The sleeveless dress looked cool and simple, its only trim being a flat tailored bow centered on the belt. The birthday cake, Easter eggs and duffel bags dotting her picture hat represented United Council projects.

Dressed for junior camp was Mrs. James Calmes in white cable-knit pants and yellow shirt. Bright blue and yellow trimmed her big straw hat which was topped with a teacup and saucer to represent the hospitality chairman's job.

Mrs. Don Young chose a gold-toned pima cloth dress of her own creation. The scarf from her dress hat was draped over a shoulder. Fastened to the hat were miniatures of a baby, car, telephone, pets and pencil as symbols of the busy mother who takes time for her church.

THE CAREER WOMAN

The personification of the busy career woman was Mrs. Nina Carter, dressed smartly in a sheath of white crepe trimmed in navy blue and red. Calculator, tape, paper clips and quills banded the crown of her hat to depict a working woman who also works for her church.

The impressive finale of the show featured two models, Mrs.

pins will be presented at that time.

"What shall we tell our children about the use of money?" was the question asked by Mrs. Robert Lee in presenting the program. She was assisted by Mrs. Burchett, who spoke on freedom of the use of money. Scriptures pertaining to the topic were read by Mrs. Royce Womack, with an open discussion following.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Joe Kitching and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Browder.

Tom Rosson, modeling the powder blue linen sheath she wore at her son's wedding; and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Rosson, appearing in the bridal costume of five years ago. The embroidered swiss organdy wedding gown featured a tiered skirt extending into a chapel train. Mrs. Rosson, the new CWF president, wore her bridal costume as a symbol that all women should strive for purity and let their love for the church shine as love shines from a bride's eyes."

Representing the future generation of workers were Kimberly and Kristina Wilson, daughters of Capt. and Mrs. Dick Wilson. They wore identical pink organdy dresses, trimmed front and back with Swedish embroidery over cotton lace.

Guests were seated at a U-shaped table covered with white linen where small spring hats were placed among fern down the center. The head table was centered with a crepe paper doll based in an arrangement of white daisies and pink carnations.

Military Men Make Mark In Business Life

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising ramrod straight from his chair, Gen Lauris Norstad, former military commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, apologized for a few papers on his broad walnut desk.

"I've only been on the job a short while," he said, "so you see it's pretty cluttered."

The expanse of desk may have seemed disordered to a precise military man. It would, however, pass inspection from any businessman. Norstad is a businessman now.

His office is on the 14th floor of a Fifth Avenue skyscraper where he presides as president of Owens-Corning Fiberglass International, a business far removed from military affairs.

RECENT BIG NAME

The handsome, 56-year-old combat and diplomatic veteran, is a recent big-name military man to step into a top industrial position.

Before him marched Douglas MacArthur, Chester W. Nimitz, Anthony C. McAuliffe, Lucius D. Clay, Omar N. Bradley, James M. Gavin and other generals and admirals.

Obviously, despite their lack of experience in the world of profits and losses, military men are considered good businessmen. Why?

"My work," said Norstad, "was not technically military. In the service you control tremendous capital investments and you have to come up with your budget. You have a structure similar to what you have here."

Then, more militarily, the retired general explained how it was possible to work the same way within both corporate and military systems.

"First," he said, "you determine the facts. Then you determine the alternatives."

He continued: "There is no substitute for educating yourself, for knowing more about a subject than anyone else. I might be stupid, but I've never learned a substitute for this."

MILITARY WAY

Gen. Clay, director of the Berlin air lift, former president and chairman of Continental Can Co. and now senior partner in the investment firm of Lehman Corp.,

explained military confidence this way:

"The advantage of a military education is that you must do what you are assigned. This means that you tackle many projects for which you are not equipped but in which you must do a good job."

Gen. McAuliffe offered this explanation:

"Few people appreciate that the military is big business. For any commander his military requirements are relatively minor."

McAuliffe, a handsome man with a twinkle in his eye that must have been with him that day at Bastogne when he answered a German surrender demand with "nuts," is now a vice president of American Cyanamid Corp., a huge chemical firm.

EXPERIENCED

"I ran a post exchange in Europe that sold $175 million worth of goods a year, published one of the biggest newspapers in Europe — Stars and Stripes — and managed a $2-billion construction program," he said.

McAuliffe, who was the top Army man in Europe and later assistant chief of staff, does notice differences. Can a military organization and a corporation be run the same way?

"Of course I say they can but my superiors don't agree. In both areas you deal with people." But, he adds, you can't give orders in business with the same finality as you can in the service.

Gen. MacArthur still presides at board meetings of the Sperry Rand Corp., Gen. Bradley is chairman of the Bulova Watch Co., Gen. Gavin heads the Arthur D. Little research firm, Gen. J. Lawton Collins is an executive of the drug firm, Pfizer & Co. and Admirals Nimitz and Arleigh A. Burke are corporate directors.

Such highly informed men are needed by corporations that work with the military.

Military business is big business. In 1961 the military contracted for $22.9 billion of business within the United States alone.

The fact is that in so-called peaceful days, far removed from bullets and battlefields, there are great administrative similarities between corporations and military units.

Desegregation Pact Has Backing Of Businessmen

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A desegregation pact aimed at ending this industrial city's racial unrest has the backing of some of Alabama's most prominent businessmen.

Their names were disclosed Wednesday night amid reports of a budding boycott of stores by white persons opposing the racial agreement.

Both white and Negro leaders say they will stick to the agreement despite efforts to influence white shoppers to boycott downtown merchants.

Negroes, who launched a boycott a year ago in their campaign for desegregation, are appearing in greater numbers in the stores, but merchants report fewer white shoppers. The merchants are worried, and some say the city's economic plight, already bad, is becoming more serious.

Commission Mayor Arthur Hanes and Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor have called on white residents to boycott the downtown merchants in retaliation for the desegregation pact.

A spokesman for a citizens committee said release of the names of 77 persons asked to participate in efforts to solve the city's racial problems was designed to avert further violence and to head off a large scale white boycott. The spokesman said "only a few" of the 77 did not participate in the committee's efforts. They were not designated.

In Montgomery, Gov. George C. Wallace, an avid segregationist, accused President Kennedy of setting up a military dictatorship by sending special troops into Alabama for possible use in Birmingham. The governor promised to file a suit in federal court to test the legality of the President's order.

Kennedy ordered 3,000 combat-trained troops to Alabama bases for possible use in Birmingham after bloody rioting erupted in the city last weekend.

A Negro integration leader, the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth Jr., was convicted in City Court of parading without a permit in a mass march April 12. He was sentenced to 180 days in jail, fined $100 and released under an appeal bond of $2,500.

Legislators Delay Agency Fund Split

AUSTIN (AP)—Lawmakers trying to work out a way to distribute $3.1 billion to Texas agencies over the next two years put off finishing the job today until at least Monday.

Conference committees had plugged steadily to a goal of completing the bill by Friday in order to have it on the legislators' desks by Monday.

Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin said, however, that the committee now plans to work over the weekend and hopes to begin the two-day process of printing the huge bill Monday.

This still would give both houses time to act on the measure and adjourn May 21, three days earlier than the automatic 140-day deadline.

On tap today were a local and uncontested bills calendar in the House and continued efforts in the Senate to clear minor legislation off its long calendar.

House members passed and returned to the Senate Wednesday a proposed constitutional amendment to eliminate the poll tax requirement for voting.

The House amended the measure to provide that it would go before voters next November instead of November, 1964, and would make the ban effective in December.

A conference committee working on a voter registration law to replace the poll tax, in event the amendment becomes law, met.

Rep. Don Heflon of Sherman said the conferees agreed on all parts of the annual registration measure except a 25-cent fee desired by senators.

"We are stuck on the 25-cent fee," Heflon said. "It looks like we (the House) may be asked to accept it."

The House sent two other proposed constitutional amendments back to the Senate Wednesday.

One amendment would provide $150 million to continue the veterans' land loan program and the other would lift the ceiling on needy aged, blind and disabled payments from $52 to $60 million. Like the poll tax proposal, both were amended to be voted on next November.

Another proposed constitutional amendment to let the state issue $200 million in bonds for loans to local agencies trying to attract industry won tentative approval 73-65. It requires 100 votes in the House for final adoption.

Rep. George Macatee, Dallas Republican, called the loans pro-

Wirtz Predicts No Rail Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz predicts that a nationwide railroad strike threatened for June will be averted by the carriers and railroad unions.

The railroads and the operating brotherhoods are at odds over the carriers' intention to overhaul work rules to eliminate what the lines say are unnecessary jobs.

Wirtz spoke Wednesday at a conference on automation sponsored by the American Foundation on Automation and the New York City Central Labor Council.

Good Buys This Week In Texas

By The Associated Press

More spring vegetables are arriving at Texas pro-markets this week, says the Agricultural Marketing Service.

With increased harvests in South Texas and other areas, most markets are receiving an abundance of cabbage, green beans, sweet corn, cucumbers, okra, blackeye peas, peppers, and yellow squash. Prices in most areas are lower. Tomatoes are more abundant and lower.

Fall potatoes remain in excellent supply as the harvest advances rapidly. Radishes are higher at some points.

Watermelon supplies are up. Prices are modest.

Apples, especially winesaps, and bananas are in the best-buy spot. Grapefruit and orange shipments are on the wane. The first plums and peaches from East Texas have showed up in some markets.

Larger eggs, broiler-fryers, beef and pork are available in abundance at economical cost. Supplies of milk and all dairy foods are reaching toward their June peak.

CRINKLY COOKIES FOR MIDDAY MEAL

Man-Size Cookies For A Man With A Lunchbox

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associates Press Food Editor

The lunchbox tribe is increasing. According to a survey made last year millions of adult workers take along their mid-day meal.

If you pack lunches for a man, one thing is sure: fruit and cookies are fine to include. So here's a new cookie recipe for you to try.

These cookies come out of the oven looking so professional that your family may think they come from a bakery. They have the amusing crinkled top that used to appear on cookies bought at "the general store."

Want to know the secret of those crinkles? There's an excess of baking soda in the recipe. However, we hasten to add that the butterscotch morsels included in the rule overcome any after-flavor the extra soda produces.

During baking the cookie dough puffs up, but by the end of the oven period it becomes flat and crinkly. The soda also helps to produce an extremely crisp cookie that stores well.

LUNCHBOX COOKIES
2 1/3 cups sifted flour
2 tps. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1-3 cup shortening
3/4 cup sugar
1 pkg. (6 ozs.) butterscotch pieces
2 eggs

Heat Basket

deep-fat frying, heat the basket for a moment in the fat before putting the food to be fried in it.

Use Fresh Fruit For This Cake

An easy-to-mix batter for cake layers.

STRAWBERRY CREAM CAKE
2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 tps. double-acting baking powder
1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup less 2 tps. water
4 large egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt

Sift together the flour and baking powder. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; with a pastry blender cut in the sifted dry ingredients until fat particles are very fine. Stir in the water. Beat egg whites and salt until stiff and fold in.

Turn into two 8-inch layer cake pans; bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out on wire racks; turn right side up; cool. Layer together and top with strawberries and whipped cream.

FOR TEEN-AGERS

A Simple Cake To Bake, Turns Out To Be Special

With little or no help, here's a cake the youngest teen-ager can make, and delicious enough for any party! To make the cake, choose your favorite chocolate cake mix (or a special recipe) making two 9-inch layers. Frost with this honey-flavored frosting, a perfect accompaniment for chocolate cake.

As a crowning touch, cover the sides of the frosted cake generously with the new packaged moist toasted coconut. This time-saving coconut is something you will want to use often on other desserts, on salads, candies, and as an ingredient as well!

COCONUT HONEY FROSTING
2 egg whites
1/2 cups granulated sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/3 cup water
2 tps. light corn syrup
2 tps. honey
1/2 tsp. vanilla
3/4 cup moist toasted coconut
Combine egg whites, sugar, salt, water, corn syrup, and honey in top of double boiler. Beat 1 minute until thoroughly mixed. Cook over rapidly boiling water, beating constantly with sturdy egg beater (or at high speed of electric mixer) 7 minutes.

Remove from boiling water. Add vanilla and beat 1 minute or until thick enough to spread. Frost cake and pat moist toasted coconut around the sides. Makes 5 1/2 cups frosting or enough to generously cover tops and sides of two 9-inch layers.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

Cooks Of The Week—Every Week At Webb

By JO BRIGHT

- 6,941 lbs. beef
- 3,496 lbs. fowl
- 21,227 lbs. vegetables
- 3,442 dozen eggs
- 1,887 lbs. butter
- 6,850 gals. milk

—and don't forget to pick up bread—4,696 loaves!

There is a young man in Big Spring who might jot down just such a grocery list every month. He is 2nd Lt. Edwin M. Saiki, chief of the Food Service Division, Webb Air Force Base. Lt. Saiki, 23, a native of Hawaii, earned a degree in secondary education from the University of Hawaii in 1962. Through the Air Force ROTC, he received a commission and was assigned a month later to head the food service at Webb Air Force Base.

Under his direction, Webb's Food Service Section was lauded recently for finishing second in the Air Training Command's 1963 Hennessey Award quest. The award recognizes the Air Force installation that excels in its overall efficiency in the preparation and serving of food to its personnel.

In Air Force Regulation 146-1, is this definition: "Food service is the science of applied food technology dealing with human nutrition, dietetics and the management and operation of food establishments which prepare and serve food.

In other words, Lt. Saiki and his staff provide an answer to the eternal question, "What's for supper?"

The staff includes T. Sgt. A. E. Taylor, food service technician. Working with him are an administrative clerk, a food service accountant, two supply clerks, three bakers and 21 cooks.

Closing ranks against the enemy—in this case, obesity and indigestion—these men in the food service division follow an efficient procedure in providing nutritious, attractive meals for base personnel and civilian employees.

MASTER MENU
Following a master menu, issued six months in advance from the Department of the Army and the Air Force in Washington, D. C., a base menu planning board meets monthly to consider any necessary changes in the prescribed food plan. For instance, on June 7, 1963, fresh rhubarb has been deleted from the breakfast meal and flounder, added to the supper meal.

Changes are not made according to personal whim, but rather are related to availability of supplies, monetary considerations and nutritional values.

Two dining halls are operated under Lt. Saiki's direction. Each has a seating capacity of approximately 250.

Four meals are served daily. Breakfast hours are from 4:45 a.m. to 7:30 a.m.; dinner from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.; and supper from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. To accommodate crews on night duty, a midnight meal (breakfast) is served from 10:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Box lunches are prepared and delivered to personnel who cannot be relieved of duty during serving hours in the dining hall.

WORK SAVERS
The old bag-a-box of kitchen drudgery has almost been eliminated by Air Force efficiency. The spacious kitchen area is designed for smooth operation, where one stage of meal preparation flows smoothly to the next.

Three walk-in refrigerators are used for storing meats, vegetables and dairy products. All meats arrive at the base in frozen form, cut and trimmed, ready for cooking. If roast beef is on the menu, it's likely that five boxes of the meat will be used, each containing six or seven average size cuts—about 275 pounds of roast. If a tossed salad accompanies the main dish, at least 25 heads of lettuce will be used.

In almost constant use are four cooking ovens and three bake ovens. Steam pots will hold 40 gallons of vegetables and mixing bowls will blend approximately that much dough—or mashed potatoes.

A mechanical marvel is the vegetable chopper that slices, dices or cubes whatever is fed into it at thickness that can be adjusted at the touch of a finger.

Remember the cartoons depicting KP duty as one mountain of potatoes as opposed to one GI armed with nothing more than a small paring knife? Forget it. In the Webb kitchen, that paring knife is as obsolete as the P-51. Now you just dump the whole sack of spuds in a mechanical peeler. Five minutes and it's all over.

Apprentice cooks are trained on the base. Most come to Webb straight from basic training at Lackland Air Force Base. They work in three shifts on duty from nine to 10 hours.

Grocery "shopping" is done twice a week, on Tuesday and Friday. A daily subsistence report is submitted to the commissary officer 10 days in advance, which gives an estimate of how many men will be served for each meal. Supplies are stored until the time of use. Nothing is prepared in advance—only on the days it is to be served.

Left-overs? The Air Force is as thrifty as any budget-striving

Freezer Waffles

Wrapped appropriately, home-made waffles take to freezer storage. When you are ready to serve the waffles, pop them into your toaster. Have the waffles golden rather than dark brown when you bake them so they won't get over-done in the reheating and toasting.

Strawberry Cheese Pie Easy To Make—No Bake

The deliciousness of this Frozen Strawberry Cheese Pie belies the ease of its preparation. For the filling just three simple ingredients are used—cream cheese, sour cream and frozen strawberries. The graham cracker crust is also easy to make and is a perfect contrast to the creamy richness of the filling. If your taste for strawberries is hard to satisfy, use an extra package of frozen strawberry halves to spoon over individual helpings of the pie.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY CHEESE PIE
1 pkg. (8-ozs.) cream cheese
1 cup sour cream
1 pkg. (1 lb.) frozen strawberry halves, thawed
1 baked 9-inch graham cracker crust

Soften cream cheese. Add sour cream and blend well. Then beat until creamy. Thoroughly fold in strawberries. (Mixture will be thin.) Spoon mixture into pie crust. Freeze until firm—about 5 hours. Remove from freezer at least 15 minutes before serving. Serve with additional thawed strawberry halves, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

GRAHAM CRACKER CRUMB CRUST
Combine 1 1/2 cups fine graham cracker crumbs and 1/4 cup sugar. Add 1/4 cup softened butter or margarine and mix well. Press firmly with back of spoon over bottom and sides of 9-inch pie pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 8 minutes. Cool before filling.

First Time

The prelate bishop of Manchester, N.H., the Most Rev. Ernest J. Primeau (right) and the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Hall, Episcopal bishop of New Hampshire, have a head table discussion, prior to the Most Rev. Primeau's speech—believed to be the first time a Roman Catholic bishop addressed an Episcopal diocesan convention at Trinity Episcopal Church at Claremont, N.H. The prelate said the "organic unity of all Christian churches" is the ideal and ultimate aim of the Ecumenical Council which he attended in Rome last fall.

Showdown Looms On Canada Policy

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's decision to accept nuclear weapons appeared headed for an early challenge as Canada's new Parliament assembled today amid traditional pomp and ceremony.

No political fireworks were expected at the opening meeting, however. The chief business was the speech from the throne, outlining the new Liberal government's legislative program. Opposition leaders will get a chance Monday to deal with the nuclear issue when they answer the throne speech.

The throne speech usually is read by the governor general, but Chief Justice Robert Taschereau was chosen to substitute for ailing Gov. Gen. Georges Vanier.

Forecasts said the speech would place heavy emphasis on measures to boost Canada's economy. The federal budget will not be submitted until mid-June.

ONLY MINORITY
Because the Liberal party has only a minority of the House of Commons seats the debate on the throne speech will have unusual significance. The government could be toppled by a vote of no confidence. Political observers generally predict that the opposition leaders will strike out vigorously at the nuclear decision announced in Hyannis Port, Mass., last Saturday but that they will not try to bring down the government.

The Liberals hold 129 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. The Conservatives have 95 seats; the Social Credit 23 and the New Democratic party 17. There is one independent Social Credit member.

The Conservative leader, former Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, has been silent since he stepped down after the April 8 election. He met with his party members in caucus Wednesday to plan strategy and is expected to deliver a fighting speech Monday.

Pearson went ahead with plans to arm Canada's Bomarc missiles with American nuclear warheads and CF104 low-level jet bombers in Europe with nuclear bombs.

The prime minister announced negotiations with the United States will start in a day or so to work out the detailed agreement covering the weapons.

VIOLENCE TOPIC

The U.S. and Canadian governments also scheduled talks on violence against Canadian ships in American ports on the Great Lakes.

The Labor Department said U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz will visit Ottawa Friday for a preliminary meeting with Canadian Labor Minister Allan J. MacEachen. On Tuesday MacEachen and President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress will meet in Washington with Wirtz and President George Meany of the AFL-CIO.

The Seafarers International Union of Canada, expelled from the CLC in 1960, is battling with the CLC-backed Canadian Maritime Union for supremacy on Canadian lake ships. CMU-manned ships have been attacked repeatedly or boycotted in U.S. lake ports.

Tower Lashes Cuban Policy

Senate: Passed and sent to governor bills making possession of burglary tools a felony, making the Department of Public Welfare responsible for locating fathers of deserted families, removing a four-year residence requirement for persons employed by the Department of Public Welfare, letting the University of Texas and Texas A&M use marine equipment confiscated by the Game and Fish Commission, returned to House with amendments a bill giving the University of Houston power of eminent domain.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Wednesday night that Organization of American States has been weakened by the administration's "refusal to act to prevent the encroachment of a foreign power in the Western Hemisphere."

He said the Kennedy administration has no strong, well-defined Latin American policy.

Dallas Judges Not Averse To Cameras In Courtroom

DALLAS (AP)—Poke a television or still camera into a Dallas courtroom while a trial is in progress and chances are excellent the judge will let you shoot.

Unlike jurists in many parts of the country, Dallas criminal and civil district judges have announced they favor allowing photography in their courtrooms. There are, however, some dissenters.

The question of photography in court has long plagued the nation's judiciary. Recently the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association refused to change its suggested rule which would prohibit any camera work in court during trials and even during recesses.

The ban is contained in the controversial Canon 35, which has never been adopted by the Texas Bar Association.

The state bar's judicial committee decided the question is better decided by each judge for his own court.

In Dallas, most judges allow cameras in their courts as long as the photographers do not disrupt proceedings.

Three judges, however, do not permit cameras.

The three, Clarence A. Guitard of 14th Civil District Court, F. B. Davenport of 116th Civil District Court, and Charles Long Jr. of 124th Civil District Court, all permit pictures before proceedings begin and during recesses.

Among those who permit pictures while a trial is under way, Judge Owen Giles of 60th District Court commented, "In over 10 years as a trial judge, only one time have I had to tell the bailiff to tell photographers to be quiet."

Judge Paul Peurifoy of 95th District Court said, "I have always felt a judge who has control of his court can control news media."

Legislator-Lawyer Ruling Is Studied

AUSTIN (AP)—The Supreme Court took under consideration Thursday whether state judges should be forced to delay trials involving legislator-lawyers.

Arguments were on an appeal of a ruling by Dist. Judge Herman Jones of Austin that a mandatory trial delay law is unconstitutional.

The 20-year-old statute requires judges to delay until 30 days after the end of the legislature any case in which a legislator is a lawyer if it comes to trial during a legislative session.

Jones ruled April 27 that the law unconstitutionally deprives courts of the discretion to determine the necessity for each delay.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Joe Long told the court that compelling judges to delay such cases is "a usurpation of the power vested in the judiciary under the Constitution."

Lamesa Rotary Plans Space Program

LAMESA (SC)—A three-pronged space program has been planned for Lamesa by the Rotary Club in connection with its first annual inter-city meeting Friday.

Rotary president Walter H. Collins announced Saturday that two top echelon officials from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston have been obtained as speakers for three separate programs.

Raymond E. Hassett, conference and special events officer of the spacecraft center, and Edward A. Armstrong, aerospace engineer of the Gemini project, will conduct the sessions.

A program is planned for junior high school students at 10:45 a.m. Friday and the two NASA officials will be at senior high at 1:25 p.m. that day.

The inter-city Rotary banquet is slated at the high school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. with Rotary clubs from Andrews, Seminole, Denver City, Brownfield, O'Donnell, and Tahoka invited.

Photographers To Hold Meet Here

Barr Photocenter will be hosts to the May meeting of the Central and West Texas Photographers Society May 19. The meeting will be held at the center, 708 Eleventh Place, beginning at 2 p.m.

Frank Homme, Breckenridge, is president of the society, Frank Brandon, Bary Photocenter photographer, is now secretary-treasurer and will be the incoming president.

W. E. Dewy, Master photographer, Borger, will speak on the subject of "Children."

Franco-German Pact Approved

BONN, Germany (AP)—The lower house of the West German Parliament overwhelmingly approved today the French-German friendship treaty providing for cooperation between the longtime enemies.

The treaty now goes to the upper house—the Bundesrat—where approval is certain.

The treaty envisages close cooperation in diplomatic, defense and cultural matters. It provides for regular meetings between the chiefs of state of government as well as between the foreign, defense and education ministers.

Poage Wants Congressmen To List Travel Expenses

By TEX EASLEY
 AP Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco, who makes no secret of his travels abroad at government expense, supports a bill that would require members of Congress to make a strict accounting of their expenses on such trips.

 In a discussion preceding House passage of the bill, Poage told his colleagues: "As one who has done quite a bit of traveling and as one who will probably do more traveling and, as one who believes in the desirability of congressional travel at home and abroad, I want to point out there never have been the kind of rules a good many members seem to think there had. "Maybe some members have not followed the rules but the existing rules do require an accounting. I have thought that requirement was a good thing. I have always filed such accounts. . . . I think it is a desirable thing to require the additional reporting which is provided in the terms of this joint resolution."

 Decrying the adverse effect on Congress because of the conduct of a few, he said:
 "Actually there are those who are trying to destroy our form of government by discrediting the legislative branch."
 "They have often been able to be improper use of counterpart funds. Indeed this has been done in cases where full accounts were on file."

 "As for my personal travel expenses, I have attended several of the meetings of the Interparliamentary Union. That organization for the last several years has operated with a bonded fiscal officer making the expenditures and preparing expense accounts. The members do not make major personal expenditures. I think that that fact has been widely misunderstood."
 Then, referring to criticism of congressmen who take their wives to such assemblies, Poage added: "It is true that as in most international meetings the presence of members' wives is quite important, and the President himself has authorized their transportation on the government plane which is normally available, there is no extra cost to the government and the members have paid their wives' hotel and similar expenses. . . . I hold cancelled check evidencing my reimbursement of the government."

AROUND THE CAPITAL:
 The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee is quietly conducting a survey of various federal agencies to find out what policies are in force regarding the initial hiring of older persons, those 40 and over.

 The study is in line with a resolution introduced by Rep. Lindley Beckworth, D-Tex., on the opening day of the current session.
 The Texan long has been pushing for more widespread employment by the government of persons in their 40s and 50s.
Ceremony Set
PUEBLA, Mex. (AP)— President Adolfo Lopez Mateos will preside for a ceremony Friday marking the anniversary of the end of a siege of Puebla. Many businesses will close for the day.

Goldwater Asks Halt To Fund-Raising

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says he has asked three California GOP groups to stop raising presidential campaign funds for him.
 Goldwater said Wednesday he had written two organizations of volunteers notifying them he isn't a candidate for the 1964 nomination and that he wants them to halt any fund collection for that purpose.
 To avoid embarrassment of individuals involved, he didn't name the groups. He said he had reported a third organization was collecting funds, but didn't know its name so had written a GOP county chairman asking him to act.
 The action by Goldwater was somewhat similar to that taken by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in calling off the efforts of former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to organize a nomination drive for the New Yorker in California.
 Goldwater insisted he was acting only in line with his repeated announcements that he is only running for reelection to the Senate next year.
 "We are still sending back Goldwater for President" checks that come in," he said. "Of course, we're glad to keep contributions made for the senatorial campaign."
 Behind that, Goldwater said he has continued to refuse any help from groups who are trying to "draft" him for the national nominations.
 The Arizona senator professed ignorance of internal moves to realign the Republican party organization in California since former Vice President Richard M. Nixon decided to move to New York.
 Speculating on this situation, Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., predicted in a statement Wednesday that GOP former Sen. William F. Knowland might head an undecided slate of delegate candidates in the next June's primary.
 Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., maintained silence about the party realignment in his state. But it was obvious that he expects to be a convention delegate.

Luxury Home Center Of Fuss

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)— Lawyers are wrangling in U.S. Tax Court over a $500,000 luxury home in Dallas which has door chimes playing "When The Saints Go Marching In."
 Builder-owner Martin Mayrath erected the dwelling in the middle 1950s; it also boasts glass-walled bathrooms and a six-car garage.
 Judge Howard A. Dawson Jr. of Washington is hearing a request by Mayrath that the Internal Revenue Service review claims that he and his former wife owe $81,496.50 in income taxes for 1955 through 1957.
 The IRS disputes a Mayrath claim that he's entitled to $147,797 tax credit on the total cost of the house. Mayrath testified he's due this credit for research demonstrating his ideas about the use of concrete, glass and plastics in home construction.

Death Penalty Ban Voted Down

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—The Vermont Senate has defeated a bill to abolish capital punishment for first offense murder convictions.
 The bill would have banned the death penalty for persons convicted of a first offense of murder but not for persons convicted of killing a police officer.
 The Senate defeated the measure 15-14 Wednesday after the judiciary committee added the police officer exception to the measure passed by the House.

Flood-Stricken Kentucky Area Still Home To Many

By SY RAMSEY
AP Special Report
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Why do they stay in the poverty-stricken, flood-wracked mountains of Eastern Kentucky? The typical answer of the natives comes from a gaunt, unemployed miner near Harlan, bailing water out of his shack after recent devastating floods: "Buddy, this is home. There's nowhere else I wanna go." The census-takers report differently. In 1950 there were 900,000 people in a 32-county area comprising a more populous slice of picturesque Appalachia. Today there may be 650,000. Says John Whisman, head of one county the unemployment rate is 22 per cent in another 81 per cent of families earn less than $3,000 a year. Although no politician dares say so publicly, the area is a drain on Kentucky's financial resources. The brutal reality is that too much of the Appalachian region is engulfed in economic misery and inertia. Bert Combs, who rose from humble origins in the area to become Kentucky's present governor, says candidly there are some residents "who just don't have enough initiative to do anything else." But he says another stay-at-home group "has some sort of feeling it's the land of their birth and they ought not leave as long as there is any hope." Jimmie Thompson, who left the tiny hamlet of Wayland for government work, gives this explanation: "The mountains are like a drug. It's a beautiful place to live in the summertime and for generations and generations these people have lived there. "Poverty and misery is a part of life to them. They expect it. As sure as winter ends, the floods come and they go through the same miserable cycle." Floods in March chased more than 30,000 Kentucky families from their homes and caused mil-ions of dollars damage. "My 90-year-old grandmother has five children living elsewhere, all wanting to take care of her in comfortable homes," Thompson said. "But do you know what she says? 'When they carry me from here it'll be to my grave.'" Whisman, who comes from Clay City, another tiny Appalachian town, says: "These are the kind of people who fight for a homeland. They consider natural disasters just another enemy and they won't be pushed around. "And, remember this: It's not easy to leave when you have a large family, no cash, no known destination and no assurance of work." The official hope is that Eastern Kentucky, if it gets adequate federal flood protection and state attention, eventually will lift itself into a prosperous tourist area. At least one acute observer thinks not. "I doubt if it would do any good for the area if the entire budget of Kentucky was poured into Eastern Kentucky in the next five years," says Harry M. Caudill, a Whitesburg lawyer and conservation champion.

DAILY GUIDE — This is a powerful day. Be sure you know what you should do, and stand ready for the consequences. For those courageous and strong, this could be the time to take a stand. Once taken do not weaken in the next few days, and through the following week. This will not be an easy period even for those not involved in problems. This is not a time for petty issues so do not fritter away energy in needless worry or complaints. Think big and act accordingly. Aquarians, Leos, Taurians and Scorpios are put to the test. Arians and Pisceans should be able to come up with a wealth of talents, and find opportunities to expand conferences with important people. However, this is no time for timidity or fear. If things appear too difficult, either wait, or move forward with conviction. Don't muddle or be disorganized. Big news can be made today and tomorrow. Contact those at the top.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, TAURUS! You can hope to emerge from frustrating circumstances which may have held you frozen in action in the past months. June can suddenly bring stimulating events to bring new freedom and a lift. In the years ahead you will have new talents and be more creative, popular socially, and have wider contacts through travel. The tests in career matters remain a major issue so do not cease to work harder to maintain your place in life. Other people must not be accepted entirely on face value as there can be hidden motives behind their promises. Some behind-the-scenes helpful support can result in greater personal expansion next year.

Debt Ceiling Lift To Come Up For Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders plan to bring a debt limit raising bill to a vote before the debt bumps against the present $305 billion lid. The Treasury expects this to happen before the end of the month.

The bill squeaked through the House 213 to 204 Wednesday as opposing Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats put on their most impressive show of strength in the present Congress. Democrats predict another close success in the Senate.

During Wednesday's debate fiscal conservatives insisted the Kennedy administration could be forced to trim its spending if the bill were defeated—or a Republican substitute continuing the present ceiling indefinitely were adopted.

Without any congressional action, the debt limit would drop automatically to $285 billion July 1.

The House-passed bill would raise it immediately to $307 billion, then on July 1 to $309 billion, effective through Aug. 31. Before then, it is generally expected, the ceiling will have to be raised again, especially if Congress passes President Kennedy's tax cut legislation.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd of the Senate Finance Committee tentatively scheduled a session for next Wednesday on the debt ceiling. Although the Virginia Democrat personally opposes increasing the limit, he is understood to have promised prompt handling of the bill, following a personal appeal by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

The nine-vote margin by which the House passed the bill matched the closest previous administration victory in the present Congress, on a feed grain program. In Wednesday's roll call, Republicans held almost completely firm. Only former Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts joined the Democrats in voting for the bill, while the Democrats lost 32 votes, mostly from the South.

Slight Error In X15 Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—There was a slight error—one degree in the flight angle—as the X15 research plane rocketed through the sky on a friction-heat test.

The plane hit an estimated 3,886 miles per hour. And reached an altitude of 123,000 feet—186 m.p.h. faster and 25,000 feet higher than planned. The one-degree error was blamed.

But it didn't affect the experiments performed by the ship, which was equipped Wednesday with a small probe which pops from the fuselage to measure the airstream flow past the speeding plane. The readings obtained are to be used in determining the rate at which stainless steel plane skins can be expected to heat from air friction.

Piloting the X15 on the 11-minute flight was John McKay of the National Space Agency.

A Devotional For The Day

Unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required. (Luke 12:48.)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to be aware that Thou art the giver of every good and perfect gift. Thou hast continued to bless our lives, though we do not deserve Thy divine blessing. Forgive us of our selfishness and self-centeredness. Grant that we may give our best and do our best for Thee. In Jesus' name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

A Most Unusual Thing

Texas Electric Service Co. has done something which is rare, if not unprecedented in these days of rising costs and prices.

The company has received approval of the City Commission in substantially reducing electric rates. The average residential user will receive an 8 1/2 per cent reduction in charges, or about $1 on a $11 monthly bill. There will be cuts also for commercial and industrial customers.

Two years ago the company received permission to adjust rates upward. With this help, major expansions and improvements were launched, and now that the hump has been passed, TESCO is passing back to its customers the savings effected by these improvements.

This is, it seems to us, a good example of enlightened industrial statesmanship. Moreover, it demonstrates clearly that the cliché about big corporations constantly fattening the profit columns at the expense of consumers is not so. On the contrary, here is a big business which, through its own ingenuity and venture, has managed to operate more economically and efficiently and voluntarily shares the savings with its customers.

What makes this all the more impressive is that electric rates have been kept almost constant for the past generation. The nickel cigar has long since gone the way of all commodities, but the nickel will buy about as much power now as before the war—and it's a lot more plentiful and dependable.

Ladies, Please Take Notice

The Chamber of Commerce has mailed several thousands of questionnaires (a copy has been carried in the Herald) to women of this area in an effort to ascertain the possibility of an employment pool.

We hope that this will not be taken lightly by women of the area because so much depends upon information to be gained from a sufficient number of replies. Basically, what is wanted is an expression of whether women are or may be interested in employment.

The results will go far toward establishing an employment pool. Industries considering the city will use this as a basis of making decisions on whether a survey of their own is warranted, or indeed if there is ample woman power to operate certain types of industries.

So if there is a woman in the family who is interested in employment, or who believes that some day she may be interested in a job, please encourage her to return the filled-out form promptly.

No Basis For Federal Troops

WASHINGTON — When Sen. John F. Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency in 1960, critics said he was youthful and impulsive. They will say the same thing as they read that Mr. Kennedy issued a statement Sunday night ordering federal troops to mobilize in Alabama to deal with future rioting or local disturbances.

THE PRESIDENT didn't think this one through. In the case of the disputes with Gov. Faubus at Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 and Gov. Barnett at Oxford, Miss., in 1962, there was at least an alleged basis for the use of federal troops—a supposed unwillingness on the part of the local authorities to obey a federal court order. But Mr. Kennedy himself told his news conference only last week that no federal statute was involved in the controversy at Birmingham. Nor have there been any federal court orders whatsoever issued in this case.

NOW THE President is in the position of having nevertheless threatened the use of federal military power to deal with local disorders that may arise. There is not the slightest legal basis for the use of such power under the Constitution unless requested by the state government. No statute grants such authority to the chief executive under the circumstances which have been reported from Alabama. For anyone in the government to order the use of federal troops or any part of the Air Force for any purpose not sanctioned by the statutes is in itself a penal offense. A federal law says:

"Whoever, except in cases and under circumstances expressly authorized by the Constitution or act of Congress, willfully uses any part of the Army or the Air Force as a posse comitatus or otherwise to execute the laws shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

THE "UNITED STATES Code Annotated" for 1963 contains a footnote referring to an opinion of the Attorney General dated Nov. 7, 1957, which says "the President's authority to use federal troops under Sections 332 and 333 of Title 10 is not impaired by this section."

But this was an opinion rendered in connection with the use of federal troops where a federal court order had been issued. There is a dispute among informed lawyers as to whether troops can ever be used to enforce even a court order and they contend that it is really the responsibility of U.S. marshals. At least in that case a controversial legal point was involved.

SO THE WHOLE action of President Kennedy rests on the foundation that he described in his public statement—namely, "rioting, personal injuries, property damage and various reports of violence and brutality."

But it is not the function of the federal government to maintain order inside a state unless there is an "insurrection" against the United States. To preserve order is the responsibility of a state. Indeed, in the same morning newspapers in which the American people read of the President's orders to dispatch federal troops to the Birmingham area, there was published a message to President Kennedy from the governor of Alabama, George Wallace. It was sent an hour after the President's announcement was made and read in part as follows:

"THE CONSTITUTION of the United States . . . states that the federal government may send troops to quell domestic violence upon application of the state legislature or the governor of a state."

"The legislature of this state has made no request, nor have I. May I ask by what authority you would send federal troops into this state? . . ."

"The situation is well in hand and law and order prevail . . . Your complete by-passing of state officials and me as governor are affronts not only to me as governor but to the people of Alabama."

AN EXAMINATION of the federal statute cited later by the President—Section 333 of Title 10—shows no justification for the use by the President of federal troops just to quell a local disturbance or to prevent one from arising. It applies only if a state government refuses or fails to grant protection. This hasn't happened.

The President in his reply to Gov. Wallace says, in effect, that he didn't intend to use federal troops in Birmingham, but only wanted to warn the state authorities that they had better maintain order and prevent violence. If any threat to use such power is vested in the President, he can at any time intimidate a governor or mayor or local official, or he can mobilize troops to threaten reprisals and punishment if anyone in a local government doesn't do his bidding. This is an autocratic power the exercise of which the framers of the Constitution specifically sought to prevent so that no dictatorship could arise in America through the threat to use military force.

IF MR. KENNEDY feels that he has the power to prevent violence anywhere in the country, then it will be asked why no federal troops were mobilized or why the same threat of military force was not utilized before Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his associates organized the demonstrations which, in turn, aroused the antagonism of other citizens and thus produced the conditions under which local disorder arose.

If the President actually has the power of prevention, the time to start is before the local police and the paraders clash or threaten to become involved in riots. There is a right, of course, to a peaceful demonstration, but anything which produces a disturbance is subject to police action by the local and not the federal authorities.

STEEL MILL: President Kennedy has endorsed construction of a $512-million steel plant for the Indian government at Bokaro.

The project assumed controversial proportions when the presidential committee on foreign aid headed by Gen. Lucius Clay criticized construction of the plant under government rather than private auspices through the use of U.S. aid funds.

The project apparently had been temporarily shelved, but Kennedy said, "I think it would be a great mistake not to build the Bokaro plant. 'India needs that steel,' he added.

A Lot Of History In TVA

WASHINGTON (AP)—Back in President Washington's day U.S. Army engineers poked around in the Tennessee River, studying it. Next Saturday President Kennedy goes down to the river to celebrate an anniversary.

Between the two men were a lot of history and people, particularly these five presidents—the two Roosevelts, Wilson, Coolidge and Hoover—and a senator, George W. Norris of Nebraska.

The first Roosevelt, Theodore, made such a big thing of conserving this country's natural resources—and boosting irrigation and reclamation—that some historians consider it his greatest achievement.

BUT IT WAS something he did in a positive-negative way that has special significance in Kennedy's visit this week. He vetoed a bill for private power development at Muscle Shoals, a 37-mile stretch of rapids in the Tennessee River.

He argued the government should develop the power made available by dams built to improve the stream.

Came World War I and the need for a lot of munitions. Under Wilson a munitions plant was built at Muscle Shoals and a dam, called Wilson, was started to provide power for the plant and improve navigation in the river.

For 15 years after the war there was a great debate: What to do with the plants? Private companies wanted to buy but they offered too little. Norris came into the picture.

He thought the Muscle Shoals properties should be operated publicly. Out of this thinking came the idea of a Tennessee Valley Authority to benefit the whole region. He steered two bills through Congress.

COOLIDGE vetoed the first (1928) and Hoover the second (1931). Their objection: That TVA would mean government competition with private enterprise.

"That," Hoover said, "is not liberalism, it is degeneration."

But Franklin D. Roosevelt became president March 4, 1933. Within the next few months he signed it into law May 18, 1933.

Kennedy's visit to Muscle Shoals next Saturday is to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the creation of TVA. Norris had later proposed seven other TVA-type programs for other parts of the country but all failed.

TVA, administered by three directors in Tennessee and not out of Washington, was created to help a region. Other dams and power projects may have multiple purposes but they're not like TVA whose expressed purpose was

TO PROVIDE power, flood control, and navigation. Two historians, Samuel Eliot Morison and Henry Steele Commager, went so far as to say that of all the New Deal measures TVA was possibly the "most important for the future."

It serves an area involving seven states. There are now 31 dams in the TVA system—nine on the Tennessee River and 22 on its tributaries. The U-shaped river, which begins at Knoxville, Ky. and then up to Paducah, Mo. where it joins the Ohio.

The Tennessee is navigable for 650 miles because of the locks in its dams, and its channels. TVA plants sell electric power wholesale to municipalities and cooperatives in an 80,000-mile area, thus keeping down the price.

Floods are controlled because water can be held back by the dams in reservoirs. TVA plants experiment with and produce fertilizers which industries get free on a TVA license. In addition to all this, there are lakes with 10,000 miles of shoreline for outdoor activities.

Paper Clip Salt Mine

NEW YORK (AP)—Compared to the sweatshops of the past, the modern business office would seem a healthy place to earn a dollar.

It is comfortable, air-conditioned and so well lighted one can work out a crossword puzzle on the job surreptitiously without danger of eye strain.

But for some reason most offices resemble battlefield aid stations. They are full of the walking wounded and incipient stretcher cases.

Naturally, many of the illnesses of the white collar worker are imaginary. He invents them to help pass the time. If you have ever labored in a paper clip salt mine, here are a few swivel chair hypocholesterics you may find familiar:

"Fridayitis" — This guy draws his pay on Thursday so he can have a longer weekend to spend his money.

"Mondayitis" — Very popular with suburbanites this time of year. Also called "The Green Thumb Disease." Victims complain of dizziness and backstrain. Cause: Too much Saturday and Sunday gardening.

"Fridayitis-Mondayitis" — This fellow is mad at the corporation and phones in sick two days a week so he can look for a better job on company time.

"Two Buck Emacius" — The office gambler looks like he is suffering from a wasting disease. Actually he is merely suffering from starvation, because he loses all his money at the racetrack.

"Florence Nightingale Syndrome" — The boss' secretary is a mother hen who clucks constantly over the illnesses of others.

"Cleanliness Complex" — He has a phobia that everyone else in the office is trying to push their germs off on him. If you sneeze within 75 feet of him, he rushes to the company medical office, has his throat sprayed, and lies down for an hour.

"Old Grumpy Himself" — Whenever the boss falls ill, the nature of his malady is regarded as top secret. But whatever it is, the nearest hospital is a week of golfing in Florida.

The trouble with office hypocholesterics is that when anyone comes down with a disease a doctor can actually diagnose, he crawls painfully to work, even though he feels at death's door, for fear everyone else will feel he is malingering.

Freezing Treatment For Peptic Ulcers New

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion of the method of freezing peptic ulcers that I have recently heard and read about? Where is the nearest hospital equipped to do this? — I. G.

Yes, I've heard about it, read about it, and discussed it.

It is a new technique and an imaginative one. But it is not a quick and easy way of ending everybody's ulcers.

There are indications for the use of this method, chiefly ulcers which bleed, or cause intractable pain.

It should not be used on just any ulcer. The freezing treatment has to be properly performed or there can be complications. It requires both specialized skill and equipment. Consequently it is not inexpensive.

On the average, it is not yet known how long results can be expected to last, and neither can it possibly be known, until some years of experience are available, how often the procedure can be repeated.

Perhaps we could compare it, philosophically anyway, with drastic reducing diets which make the patient shed some weight, but do not teach him how to keep it off afterward.

Thousands upon thousands of ulcers have been healed as a result of conservative treatment, and in the process patients have learned a few basic things such as how to live more sensibly.

I'm not opposed to new and better and sometimes easier ways of solving our health problems. I am, however, distressed about the feeling that everything can be made easy. It can't. Life isn't like that.

I know that some doctors (and not without reason) have raised against articles on novel methods which have emphasized the dramatic aspects but have not pointed out the limitations.

I think these new discoveries should be reported, but with reasonable restraint.

The freezing technique is an example. It has been effective in cases which have defied simpler treatment. But simpler treatment, for a variety of reasons, should be tried first.

To the question of "where is the nearest hospital equipped to do this?" I beg off. "I.G." lives in a metropolitan area. The doctor treating his ulcers can tell him—and also decide whether such treatment is warranted.

Or if "I.G." does not have a doctor and hence isn't getting the proved conventional treatment for ulcers—why not?

Dear Dr. Molner: You wrote that exercise is good for people with high cholesterol. Would dancing be harmful? I am 60 and have hardening of the arteries. — M. H.

Exercise is one of several conditions involved. Loss of weight, diet and medication are others.

Cholesterol doesn't directly have any bearing on the amount of exercise you can take. If one has a hard condition, certain exercise might be inadvisable. So ask your doctor about the dancing.

WORRIED: No, there is no danger of a man with cancer of the prostate passing the disease on to his wife.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment for this pest, write in care of The Herald, for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Frankie Wasn't A Total Phoney

I always assumed that the novel "Frankenstein" was the fruit of Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley's imagination, with proper changes by Hollywood when the horror story was printed on celluloid.

It came as a shock to learn that the story and the fantastic Dr. Frankenstein were based on a real person. Well, almost anyway.

BACK IN THE 16th Century, a medical doctor with the misspelled name of Theophrastus Bombastus von Hohenheim was conducting a series of grisly experiments with human corpses, and it is now believed he had a measure of success. He was a Swiss physician and died in 1541 after compiling a volume—"One Hundred and Fourteen Experiments and Cures"—under a pen name almost as mouth-filling as his own, Philippus Aureolus Paracelsus.

The book fell into the hands of Mrs. Shelley and she was fascinated. She researched the man after a study of the book and published her novel, "Frankenstein," in 1818.

PARACELUS (von Hohenheim) was centuries ahead of his time. He was one of the first men to think that animal tissue, if properly processed, could replace dead human tissue or trigger the growth of new tissue in human beings. This, of course, is the method currently being used and publicized by Dr. Paul Niehans to rejuvenate Germany's President Konrad Adenauer, and novelist Somerset Maugham.

For many years, Paracelsus experimented with cadavers which he purchased from city morgues. Although he had many disappointments, one night he reported "one of the corpses stirred, emitted a hoarse groan and twitched its arms and legs for a full minute."

THE DOCTOR won great renown for himself in various cities of Europe where he lectured and practiced. He had a great influence on his own century, despite the fact that his egotism brought disfavor from many of learned men of the era.

But to his work, Mrs. Shelley applied a bit of imagination and constructed one of the great horror stories of all time. Even in this unlikely case, the old bromide about truth being stranger than fiction appears to hold true.

Murrow Sticking With The Men

It is doubtless in the interests of national security that one of the most attractive men in the national administration has failed to reply to some queries I sent him weeks ago.

While I must bow to the judgment of that debonair star of press, radio, television and government, Edward R. Murrow, head of the United States Information Agency, and while I understand that men must stick together, nonetheless I wish he had replied to my letter even if he could not divulge the secret information for which I yearned.

YOU MAY REMEMBER that early in March, the U.S.I.A. released the results of a survey, taken in 1960, on the status of the American woman among our ever-loving European allies. Once more, our European friends selected the American woman as Miss International Typoid Mary, without a redeeming feature to her name.

In "the interests of national security," it was announced the results of the poll had been held up for two years. By spring of 1962, with more ICBMs and Polaris missiles becoming operational every day, the U.S.I.A. decided it was safe to announce that overseas the American woman is regarded as "lazy, oversexed, domineering, frivolous and lacking in good taste."

NOW IT OCCURRED to me that what is sauce for the goose is Hollandaise for the gander. And that an enterprising newsman would be curious to know if the U.S.I.A. was as eager to know what Europeans thought of the American male as well as of the female. So I wrote to Mr. Murrow and asked, among other questions:

"Since the United States Information Agency troubled itself to take a poll of European opinion of the American woman, would you be good enough to tell me if you have ever taken a similar poll with regard to European opinion of the American male?"

"IF YOU HAVE taken such a poll, will you be kind enough to send it to me as soon as possible—always providing that this information would not be inimical to the safety of the United States?"

"If you did not or have not yet taken a poll of European opinion with reference to the American male, will you be good enough to tell me why you have not done so?"

"IS THIS NEGLECT, an oversight on the part of the agency, or is it protective of the American male?"

"If you have not taken such a poll, do you plan to do so?"

"I would be most grateful for a brief explanation of why the agency felt it was necessary or pertinent to take a poll concerning the European attitude toward American women."

"What did such a poll add to national knowledge? Or how is it to be used as a guide to the future? Do you plan to reform the American woman or the European audience? Or, is it possible that the result of this poll will be an embargo on passports for American women who wish to travel or live abroad?"

"ALSO, I WOULD BE grateful for an explanation of why no similar poll was taken with regard to the American male, providing such a poll was overlooked."

Well, sir, time's a-wastin' and I have as yet had no letter of either acknowledgment or explanation from Mr. Murrow in his smoke-filled Washington pad. As I said in the beginning, to answer my questions is undoubtedly not in the public interest, at least of American men. Probably every blessed page of this particular poll is marked "TOP, TOP SECRET!"

Or, maybe, I should have enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The End Of Accommodation?

WASHINGTON — It may be that the Age of Accommodation ended last May 8th when the President told us he was "not at all hopeful" about getting a nuclear test ban treaty with Russia.

This is a good time to assess the dangerous and deceptive optimism which Mr. Kennedy, as candidate and later as President, dangled like an eye-pleasing bauble before the American people.

MR. KENNEDY'S nuclear policy statement was made October 9, 1960, in a letter to former Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas Murray. As to the Geneva disarmament talks, then already two years old, Candidate Kennedy said that, if elected, "I intend to prescribe a reasonable but definite time limit within which to determine whether significant progress is being made."

The implication was, and Mr. Kennedy often verified and repeated it, that talks would stop when there was no further hope of getting a treaty. The talks have dragged on till now, continuing the delusion that an agreement with Russia is a possible and desirable thing.

WHERE DID Mr. Kennedy come by this delusion? Well, shortly after the 1960 election, his close advisors, Professors Jerome Wiesner and W. W. Rostow, headed for Moscow to attend the sixth renewal of the notorious Pugwash Conference, inaugurated by Bertrand Russell, originally financed by Cyrus Eaton, attended by such abject accommodationists as Linus Pauling, the Pugwash get-together of peace-mongering scientists is like the famous amusement conference at Munich raised to the Nth power.

RANGED AGAINST Rostow and Wiesner, and some other American volunteers, from November 27-December 5, 1960, was a phalanx of 21 Russian scientists, economists, historians and militarists. Among them were Toppchiev and Federov, Kapitza and Emryanov, top figures in what amounts to the Soviet Ministry of Science. General Talsenski and Admiral Isakov were there as leading military strategists. All the Russian delegates, along with representatives from Red China, were disciplined servants of the World Communist State. Rostow and Wiesner, though representing a President-to-be, had no authority or instructions from any branch of the American nation. All confrontations of Americans and their enemies are contests of sorts. In this one, our side was untrained and overmatched to say the least.

BACK FROM this strange conclave, Rostow and Wiesner entered the Kennedy Administration as intimate policy advisors to the President. They had brought home, as was subsequently learned, the fragile, all-but-inexpressible belief that Russia would welcome a ban on nuclear testing—

DEAR ABBY

Be Fishing Partners

DEAR ABBY: Another man and I went on a weekend fishing trip. When we came into my home, he met my wife for the first time. When he looked at her, his eyes grew wider, then he turned to me and said, "You must be nuts to leave a beautiful thing like that alone for the weekend." Do you think I was? LIKES TO FISH

DEAR LIKES: I don't know about THAT weekend, but the next time you go fishing be sure to take the same man with you.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think that diabetes runs in a family? Our son is getting married to a girl who has diabetes. There are three in her family who have it. There are two in our own family who have it, although my sons doesn't. They would like to have four children. The girl says there is a good chance the children would be born with diabetes, but that is the chance my son must take as he has been told of her condition. What is your advice?
YOUNG MAN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your son and his future wife should sit down with a physician and discuss the matter thoroughly with him. Diabetes most certainly does "run" in the family. And when it exists in BOTH families, it is doubly dangerous.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just had a heated argument. He came home one evening last week and told me a large company (one he does business with) was having a "dinner." When the night of the "dinner" came, I found out that just a salesman and an assistant buyer were taking him out for dinner and he didn't know where. I say a "company dinner" consists of quite a few men. He says it can be for two or three or more. Please put your answer in the paper as he wants everything in writing, and it may lead to a divorce.

DEAR "P": Your problem is plainly NOT how many guests make a "company dinner." Your husband may not have described his dinner engagement accurately, but what's the difference? It WAS a business dinner, wasn't it?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO FOOL": Be a little more patient. You never know what kind of battle the next person may be fighting.

Yes, Abby will send you a personal reply if you send her a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your problem.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Dry Weather In Most Areas

By The Associated Press
Rain splashed across areas from the western Middle Atlantic region westward to the northward Plains today but dry weather prevailed in most other parts of the nation.

Little temperature change was reported. The weather pattern again was cool and dry in most northern areas and warm and humid air in the southern half of the country.
The rain belt from eastern areas extended through the Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valley, with the most severe weather from northeastern Kansas through northern Missouri into southern Illinois. Heavy rain, hail and damaging wind storms hit scattered areas. Flash flooding was expected to develop in northeastern Kansas in the wake of heavy thunderstorms.
Temperatures in most northern sections were generally in the 40s and 50s, with some 30s in border areas. The 60s and 70s prevailed in the major part of the southern half of the country, with higher marks in the southwest Desert region.

Alabama Governor Spurns Luxury For The Simple Life

By REX THOMAS
AP Special Report
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)— Like other governors, Alabama's George C. Wallace can ride in plush comfort in a chauffeur-driven shiny, black limousine.
But more often you can see him sharing the front seat with a uniformed highway patrolman in a smaller, economy-model state car, or driving his own. He uses big No. 1, the custom-built Cadillac, only when special occasions demand a measure of ceremonial formality.
At midday, instead of dining at the ante-bellum executive mansion, Wallace often stands in line with other state employees in the basement cafeteria at the capitol. His lunch usually costs about 65 cents.
NO FANCY LIVING
"I've never been used to fancy living," explained the lawyer from a rural county, "and I don't see why it's necessary now."
Wallace, 43, scorns the official limousine because, he says, it's expensive to operate.
Necessity if nothing else made him thrifty. After his father died, his mother worked in a sewing room to support four children.
There were lean years at the University of Alabama law school where he waited on tables, cleaned up the kitchen and drove a taxi.
"I never had money to waste," Wallace philosophized, "and I'm certainly not going to waste someone else's money."
The governor's mother, Mabelle Wallace, was an employee of the State Health Department long before he was elected, and she still is.
SAVE MILLIONS
When Wallace ran for governor —after a career as assistant attorney general, legislator and judge, he told campaign crowds he would save millions of dollars in a four-year term by prudent spending of tax money.
Since his inauguration last Jan. 14, he has:
Banned the use of state cars for personal business—especially for hunting and fishing and football trips—and ordered the highway patrol to watch for violators.
Put 1,000 of the state's more than 4,000 automobiles up for sale.
Prohibited the use of anything but regular gasoline in most state cars.
Asked the legislature to cut his own office budget more than $100,000 for the coming fiscal year.
Sold one of the state's two palatial yachts and ordered the other used only as a harbor boat to attract new business to the port of Mobile.
Instructed department heads to buy and sell equipment only on competitive bids, and announced later that the new policy would save perhaps $1 million a year on highway maintenance materials alone.
LIQUOR REVENUE
Outlawed politically appointed liquor agents—some of whom made upwards of $50,000 a year—and promised to funnel into the state treasury the commissions once paid by distilleries to the agents for sales to the state-operated liquor system.
A teetotaler, Wallace has sworn that no whisky or other alcoholic drink will be served in the executive mansion while he is in office.
Wallace, an ardent segregationist, is known, too, for his outspoken defiance of the federal courts and his promise to disobey any school integration order.
If conservative Southern Democrats bolt the national party in 1964, as they have twice done in recent years, Wallace has been mentioned as a possible states rights candidate for president in hope of corraling enough electoral votes to control the balance of power.

First Family 'Discovers' Camp David

WASHINGTON (AP)— President and Mrs. Kennedy have "discovered" and grown to love what may be the only place in the world where the nation's first family can enjoy complete privacy.
This unusual retreat is Camp David, Md., a Navy-operated reservation atop one of the Catoctin Mountains some 65 miles north of Washington.
Although three earlier presidents used the camp, Kennedy and his family only began making regular visits this spring—more or less as a matter of necessity. But now they can hardly tear themselves away, even to go to the usual Kennedy summering spot at Hyannis Port, Mass.
The first family's newly found love of Camp David was understood to be an important factor in Mrs. Kennedy's decision, announced Wednesday, to delay her summer trip to Hyannis Port from May until late June or July.
Here is perhaps the principal reason why the Kennedys have come to look forward to their weekends at Camp David:
The heavily wooded reservation encompasses 129 acres surrounded by a high wire fence closely patrolled by armed Marine guards. This means that, within the vast compound, Kennedy and members of his family can roam freely without Secret Service agents at their elbows—or even within sight.
That's why Camp David may be the only place in the world where an American president can walk for miles and never see another human being.
In addition to this rare privacy, the camp affords a wide variety of recreational facilities for the President and his family. There is an athletic field, a swimming pool, two tennis courts, a bowling alley, a multi-tee, one-hole golf course, and a skeet shooting range.
And there is Aspen Lodge, a large rustic home with a glassed-in porch, outdoor terrace and eye-catching view of mountains and valleys.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Plans to exhume the body of national hero Venustiano Carranza—dead for 50 years—and place his heart in a monument were announced Tuesday.

Brine Disposal Rules Relaxed

AUSTIN (AP)— The Texas Water Pollution Board liberalized requirements Wednesday for oilmen whose operations require disposal of salt water.
An operator will have 90 days after a salt water disposal problem appears to satisfy the board's demands for safe disposal. Remedies previously were required within 30 days, with some exceptions.
Salt water can rise to the surface along with oil. If disposed of carelessly, it can contaminate underground or surface water supplies.
Under the new rules, operators who do not comply within 90 days are subject to fines of $100 to $1,000 for every day of violation.
