Supreme Court Cuts Race Barriers In Memphis Parks

Gradual Plan Insufficient, Say Justices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court called today for desegregation of parks, playgrounds and other city recreational facilities in Memphis, Tenn. The court ruled on an appeal by 11 Negroes who said the principle of allowing time for desegregation of public schools, as fixed by the Supreme Court in 1955, should not be applied to use of public recreational facilities.

Justice Goldberg delivered the unanimous decision. Memphis has been upheld by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio, in the city's stand that it could provide for gradual admission of Negroes to parks and other recreational places.

The Circuit Court, in rejecting a complaint by the 11 Negroes, cited "the past and present process of the continuing plan of desegregation now being peacefully and harmoniously worked out by the city; the unquestioned good faith of the officials of the city and its park commission."

But the Negroes argued that problems involved in school desegregation did not exist in the case of recreational facilities. They said their constitutional rights were "personal and present."

In argument of the case before the Supreme Court, the Justice Department supported the contentions of the Negroes, saying that Memphis public authorities "failed to make any case at all that delay was warranted by serious obstacles standing in the way of desegregating the city's recreational facilities."

"There is nothing about public recreational facilities," the department added, "to suggest that their desegregation would present insuperable problems."

Memphis officials contended "many administrative problems as well as other difficulties would be created by immediate and total integration of all facilities, which could be avoided by a planned, orderly system of desegregation."

Goldberg's opinion declared that constitutional rights of Negroes to use Memphis parks "are to be promptly vindicated."

Justice Harlan delivered the 5-3 decision. Justice Brennan wrote a dissenting opinion, joined by Justices Douglas and Goldberg. Chief Justice Warren wrote a separate opinion concurring with the result reached by the majority.

Purpose of the attempted bribery was alleged to be to influence Davis to conceal sales and receipts and any cabaret tax due on the bar and lounge of the inn. Lopez was sentenced in federal court in Boston to one year in prison.

School Argument Doesn't Apply

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court declared unanimously today that its 1955 decision that public schools must be desegregated with all deliberate speed does not mean that there can be indefinite delay in elimination of racial barriers.

The court's declaration was in an opinion written by Justice Goldberg in a decision which specifically called for immediate desegregation of parks, playgrounds and other city recreational facilities in Memphis, Tenn.

However, Goldberg also made a reference to schools, declaring: "Given the extended time which has elapsed, it is far from clear that the mandate of the second Brown decision requiring that desegregation proceed with 'all deliberate speed' would today be fully satisfied by types of plans or programs for desegregation of public educational facilities which eight years ago might have been deemed sufficient."

Goldberg then went on to assert for the full court: "Brown never contemplated that the concept of deliberate speed would countenance indefinite delay in elimination of racial barriers in school, let alone other public facilities not involving the same physical problems or comparable conditions."

At another point, Goldberg declared: "The basic guarantees of our Constitution are warrants for here and now and, unless there is an overwhelmingly compelling reason, they are to be promptly fulfilled."

The Memphis park case, Goldberg said, presented no obvious occasion for warranted delay. "Desegregation of parks and other recreational facilities does not present the same kinds of cognizable difficulties inherent in the elimination of racial classification in schools."

IN COURT RULING

Wallace Loses His Battle To Halt U.S. Intervention

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court rejected today a suit by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to bar use of federal troops in Birmingham.

The governor asked the high tribunal to declare President Kennedy violated the Constitution by sending troops into the state for possible riot duty in Birmingham racial troubles.

Wallace said neither he nor the Alabama Legislature had asked for federal troops and contended such a first step was necessary under the Constitution. The governor asked the court also to declare unconstitutional a post-civil war statute under which the President acted, and the Constitution's 14th amendment.

The Supreme Court in a brief order said the motion to file the governor's complaint was denied. "In essence," the high court's order said, "the papers show no more than that the President has made ready to exercise the authority conferred upon him by 10 U.S.C. Section 333 by alerting and stationing military personnel in the Birmingham area. Such purely preparatory measures and their alleged adverse general effects upon the plaintiffs (Alabama and Wallace) afford no basis for the granting of any relief."

The section referred to in the order is a post-Civil War law giving the President authority to order troops to suppress disorders in states.

Justice White took no part in today's action. This made the court's vote 8-0. In dismissing the governor's complaint, the court made no reference to a request by Wallace that it declare the Constitution's 14th amendment invalid.

Wallace filed his suit in the Supreme Court on May 18. A brief submitted to the high court by the governor said the President's troop order was "an exercise of personal power" and asserted Mr. Kennedy's action "if tolerated by this court would in effect create a military dictatorship."

A reply brief by the Justice Department asked the court to reject Wallace's suit as being without legal foundation. The President has statutory and constitutional authority to send troops into action as he sees fit and without waiting for a request from a state, the department brief said.

In the Alabama case, it said there was no occasion for court review because Kennedy did nothing more than deploy about 3,000 soldiers to Alabama bases. Last week about 500 troops were removed from the area. The group included a rifle company and a military police unit.

On May 24, the Justice Department petitioned the U.S. District Court at Birmingham to prohibit Wallace from interfering with enrollment of Negroes at the University of Alabama. The Birmingham court set a hearing for June 3.

ILL-FATED VEHICLE ROLLS ON DRIVER
Donald McClary becomes city's second traffic fatality

Ice Cream Truck Driver Is Killed

Donald McClary, 25, of 2000 W. 3rd, was killed Monday morning when his small ice cream truck rolled over on him after it and a pickup had collided.

He was dead on arrival at Cowper Clinic-Hospital at 11:45 a.m.

McClary was driving a Pied Piper Ice Cream truck west on Laurie Street when his vehicle, and a pickup driven south by Jessie T. Summers, 3614 Calvin, were in collision at the Laurie-Calvin intersection in southwest Big Spring.

The ice cream truck turned over, threw McClary out, and then rolled on his body, police said. Summers jumped out of his pickup and turned the ice cream truck off McClary while the vehicle was still rocking.

McClary made his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. McClary, 2000 W. 3rd. He was born in Cottle County Feb. 13, 1938, and the family moved to Big Spring in 1944.

Funeral arrangements are pending at River Funeral Home. Survivors, in addition to the parents, are: Three sisters, Mrs. Florence Montgomery, Waterloo, Iowa, Mrs. Anna Osborn, Waco, and Mrs. Margaret Dobbs, Big Spring; two brothers, Jerry McClary and Floyd R. McClary Jr., both of Denver.

The death was the fourth fatality in Howard County and the second in the city in 1963.

Telephone Top Rural Community

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Telephone, a town in Fannin County, has been selected as the top rural community in Texas for 1963, and will receive the $500 first place award in the Texas community improvement program, the Texas Extension Service said today.

Other top winners were Flint-Gresham in Smith County, a $450 winner; Colmesneil in Tyler County, $350; and North Alamo in Hidalgo County, $250.

Walker appeared in Shreveport Sunday night and told a 900-member audience that he had different strategic positions in the Little Rock and University of Mississippi desegregation incidents.

He said he was in Little Rock on Army orders and on the "wrong side." While at Oxford, he was on the "right side," Walker said.

Walker and Hargis drew applause in Shreveport with an attack on the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Kennedy administration, the United Nations, the National Council of Churches and liberalism.

Walker referred to the NAACP as Bobby Kennedy's agency for stirring up trouble, while brother President John Kennedy will back up riots with troops.

Hargis blasted liberalism which he said was the same as socialism which in turn was the Siamese twin of Communism.

New Grains Bill In Hopper

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to provide a new wheat and feed grains program this year, plus farm acreage retirement similar to the old soil bank program, was introduced in the Senate today with bipartisan support.

The measure would supplant the feed grains program President Kennedy signed into law last week.

Wheat farmers decisively defeated last week a proposed new rigid control program for wheat. It had been designed to work with the extension of the voluntary feed grains control program.

Sponsoring the bill are Sens. Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., a former secretary of agriculture; George Aiken, R-Vt., senior Republican on the Agriculture Committee; Spessard Holland, D-Fla.; and Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa.

Rightists Plan Talks Tonight

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—"Operation Alert" will be sounded here tonight when former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker and Tulsa, Okla., evangelist Billy James Hargis present their speaking program.

Walker appeared in Shreveport Sunday night and told a 900-member audience that he had different strategic positions in the Little Rock and University of Mississippi desegregation incidents.

He said he was in Little Rock on Army orders and on the "wrong side." While at Oxford, he was on the "right side," Walker said.

Daring Air Stunts Viewed By 4,000

Fearless pilots using planes of a bygone era Sunday afternoon staged a display of airmanship and daring before an estimated 4,000 spectators at Howard County Airport.

Harold Krier and Charles Hilliard brought excitement to the spectators early in the show as they opened it with maneuvering such as many of the viewers had never seen before.

Later, when stalls, loops and spins were beginning to draw yawns, Hilliard brought the spectators alive again with a comedy of flying as it should not be done. Low ground to the north and east of the airport made this demonstration even more exciting as time and again Hilliard in his light craft disappeared below the horizon.

The sky acrobats performed against a background of white clouds which did not interfere with the show. The wind, however, was not especially favorable, as Bill Sweet, announcer, pointed out and the two parachute jumps made by Leslie "Reds" Didget had to be made with onlookers turned toward the sun.

Static and aerial displays and shrimp served on the grounds were a prelude to the performers by the National Air Show. Cessna, Beechcraft and Piper dealers brought in new commercial craft. The shrimp was served piping hot by the Y's Mens Club. Webb Air Force Base provided four T-37's for fly-bys.

"We do not have a total count on the proceeds, but $1,415 was taken in at the gate," Kenneth Pace, assistant Chamber of Commerce manager, said. The event was sponsored by the Chamber as a means to call attention to the local airport and to commercial flying as an important transportation aid.

Spectators turned out early and by 1:15 p.m. the line of traffic extended perhaps a quarter-mile along the Snyder Highway. Auxiliary Police Boy Scouts, members of the Highway Patrol and Sheriff's Office kept the flow of traffic moving well towards the parking areas and there was little wait for most persons.

Despite the recent threat of the invocation of such military might to suppress the sovereignty of Alabama, the resolution added, Wallace "has taken the position that he will obey his oath of office and resist the military conquest of the State of Alabama by the United States Army—no matter what the consequences may be to him personally."

It appears, the resolution said, "the military might of the United States is about to be invoked to suppress constitutional rights of the sovereign State of Alabama, just as bayonets, tear gas and military might were used to suppress the constitutional sovereignty of the State of Mississippi."

Moist Air For Texas

Commissioners Interview Engineer Post Applicant

Howard County Commissioners Court was interviewing David L. Hogan, Athens, Monday afternoon in a special session of the court.

Hogan, for many years with the Texas Highway Department, is an applicant for the long vacant post of county highway engineer. He is currently engaged in building a dam near Athens.

Lee Porter, county judge, said that the applicant contacted him several weeks ago for an interview. Rufus Stallings, one of the commissioners, was not present at the morning session with Hogan, and the interview was delayed until 2 p.m.

Hogan was taken on a quick tour of the county barns and inspected some of the county road equipment.

Porter pointed out that the unexpected death last Friday night of Joe Wesley Barbee, with the road and bridge department for 38 years, left a big gap in the administrative function of the department. Barbee was road supervisor and had been with the county since 1928.

The county engineer office has been vacant for over two years. Advertisements have been inserted in a number of professional journals in an effort to find an engineer. Hogan's application is one received in response to these ads.

Moist Air For Texas

Moist Air overran Texas Monday promising warm, muggy weather for all of the state.

The Weather Bureau, however, said the only rain expected was a few showers in East Texas and in scattered sections of Southwest Texas.

Gov. George C. Wallace has vowed a stand-in-the-door policy to maintain segregation in Alabama's schools. He has said he will be on hand personally to block admission of a Negro at the university for the term beginning June 10.

Two suits are involved in the public school litigation before Lynne. The first, filed in 1960, attacks Alabama's pupil placement law, which has been upheld on its face by the U.S. Supreme Court. The law gives local school boards broad authority in assigning pupils to schools.

The second, filed last year, seeks an injunction wiping out the entire segregation system in Birmingham schools. Both are class actions, which means they seek relief on behalf of all Negroes. Negro leaders planned a meeting during the day in outwardly calm Birmingham.

About 500 riot-trained federal soldiers have been pulled out of a Montgomery base, 90 miles south of Birmingham, but 2,500 federal troops remain at Tuscaloosa, 60 miles east.

The troops were sent to Alabama by President Kennedy after May 12 bombings and rioting in Birmingham.

In developments elsewhere: An estimated 35,000 persons packed Wrigley Field at Los Angeles for a three-hour rally for civil rights. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Southern integration leader, shared the stage with several Hollywood stars. King urged that President Kennedy personally escort the two Negro students to the white university units.

Ku Klux Klan Wizard Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala., said at an Atlanta rally of the robot order that the KKK will join Gov. Wallace in standing in the door to prevent integration of the university.

The Louisiana Legislature gave final approval to a vote of censure for what it called a federal threat of "government by bayonet" in Alabama.

A parade of about 12,000 persons, most of them Negroes, was staged Sunday along San Francisco's Market Street in a demonstration demanding an end to Birmingham's troubles, and calling for an end to racial bias in the California city.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy meets today with theater owners to discuss dropping of racial barriers in Southern movie houses. Albert Pickus, board chairman of the Theatre Owners of America, said in Stratford, Conn. "I can't say if they will accept total integration."

The University of Mississippi's only Negro student, James H. Meredith, said in Washington that he had detected little change in white student's attitudes toward him. He said this will continue "so long as this issue between the state and federal government is unresolved."

A parade by about 100 North Americans in Havana protested "abuses against Negro citizens in Birmingham," the Cuban radio said.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

(16 Questions by The Casino Times)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

AK6 ♠ A852 ♣ A7 ♣ AJ10 ♠

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 2 ♠ 1 ♠ Double

Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—This is a close choice between two no trump and three clubs, but your own preference is three clubs.

Two no trump appears to be a slightly drastic bid with only 18 points and a partner who may have nothing. If your partner makes any move over your raise to three clubs, you are then in strategic position to contract for game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

AK752 ♠ KJ83 ♣ K53 ♠ 2 ♠

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1NT Double

Pass 2 ♠ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The partner has promised no great strength, he nevertheless is presumed to have an evenly balanced hand. You, therefore, have splendid defense against the adverse contract, and a penalty double is recommended. The king of diamonds is somewhat more impressive by virtue of its location over the opponent who has shown strength.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AKQ965432 ♠ J5 ♠ 84 ♠ J

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have some support for hearts; partner may have none whatever for spades. He knows that you consider your hand of use only with spades as trump; nevertheless, he has chosen to bid four hearts. Without information to the contrary it is our practice to assume that partner knows what he is doing.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AKKQ92 ♠ A6 ♣ AJ7 ♠ 952

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1NT Pass

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—With a conservative partner you may bid six no trump. With an aggressive partner, four or five no trump.

What do you bid now?

A.—With 18 points in high cards alone, a vigorous effort should be made to reach game. It seems to me to be a tossup between a jump re-bid to three spades and a raise to two no trump.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

10753 ♠ Q9742 ♠ A6 ♠ KJ

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Your hand has a valuation of about 12 points. Since partner has opened and made a free raise, he can hardly have less than 15. The partnership assets, therefore, clearly amount to sufficient for a game, and you must not place any further strain on partner.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

J632 ♠ A9753 ♠ J2 ♠ Q6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Double ?

Double ?

What do you bid?

A.—An immediate bid of one heart is recommended. If you choose to pass, the bidding may become too involved for you to get into the auction subsequently.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

AA1074 ♠ 65 ♠ KQJ5 ♠ A92

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Make up your mind to bid a slam. The best bet is to bid three diamonds temporarily, just to allow for the case in which partner happens to have four of that suit. If he supports it, bid a slam in diamonds. If not, bid a slam in high no trump.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

962 ♠ AJ43 ♠ J6 ♠ AQ102

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

3NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—With a conservative partner you may bid six no trump. With an aggressive partner, four or five no trump.

Hand Of Hoffa Union Seen In Crystal City

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP)—Manuel Palacios, dark-skinned owner of a Crystal City tavern, leaned against a stack of beer cases. His voice was soft, with a heavy Spanish accent.

"These people did one big thing for us," he said. "They taught the Mexicanos of Crystal City to overcome fear. Fear was our big problem. Some people had lived here for 50 years and never voted. They were just afraid."

"These people" are members of the Political Association of Spanish-Speaking Organizations who spent four months preparing Mexican-American residents to vote in the city elections April 2.

PAID OFF
There were paid off when five citizens of Mexican descent defeated long-time incumbents in a dramatic upset, and formed the first all-Latin City Council in this southwest Texas town.

Some Latin Americans have for years been elected to the councils of border cities such as Laredo, Tex. They even dominate politics in Zapata County and some small Texas border towns. However, they never before had participated in the government of Crystal City. Their overthrow of the established "Anglo" regime was a spectacular success.

The campaign in Crystal City—PASO's first concentrated effort to win an election in Texas—began back in November. Association representatives and members of the Teamsters Union met to plan a poll tax drive among the Latin-American citizens who comprise 80 per cent of the town's 9,100 people.

THREE-TO-ONE

By January 31—the poll tax deadline—the qualified voters with Mexican-American names outnumbered the "Anglos" almost three-to-one.

From then through April 1, association and teamsters men held rallies, private meetings and voter education programs. More votes were cast than in any other election in the city's history. The Anglo government was turned out of office completely. The city manager subsequently resigned, and a Latin-American was named to his place. The Teamsters Union is the bargaining agent for the vegetable cannery that is Crystal City's largest industry. PASO's leaders say frankly that they might not have succeeded without Teamsters' Union help. But they say the union's role was only advisory.

MAJOR ROLE

However, indications are that the teamsters played a major role, in order to pave the way for organization of farm labor and food processing workers. Juan Cornejo, business agent for the Teamsters local in Crystal City, was chosen by his fellow councilmen-elect to be mayor. Not long afterwards, Cornejo charged that Texas Ranger Captain A. Y. Albee had "roughed him up" in the City Hall. The mayor filed a $15,000 damage suit. Albee, who had been stationed in the city to keep order, denied the allegation. Some association members seem convinced the Crystal City success will be repeated in other areas of the Southwest. But there is some dissent.

NO STEAM-ROLLERS

"We don't want to be identified with any group that uses steamroller tactics," says Claro Carreon of San Antonio, a PASO member for a year. "That's obviously what went on in Crystal City."

Carreon said he also dislikes the autonomy of state and local chapters of PASO, a loosely knit organization formed in Phoenix, Ariz. in February, 1961.

The national president, Dr. Hector Garcia of Corpus Christi, Tex., said he did not know of the Crystal City plans until he read of them in a newspaper. PASO got its start during the 1960 presidential campaign, when Viva Kennedy clubs popped up among Spanish-speaking people. Leaders of the clubs, impressed by the turnout for Kennedy, decided in Phoenix to form a national organization. It now has chapters in Texas, California, New Mexico, Nevada, and Illinois (Chicago).

TITULAR HEAD

Titular head of PASO in Texas is Albert Pena Jr., a lawyer of 45 who is a Bexar County (San Antonio) commissioner. Asked about steamroller tactics, he replied: "We were happy to see a 95 per cent vote in Crystal City. If this is a steamroller, then we need steamrollers all over the country, because this is democracy in action."

C. Guard Hopes To Salvage Boat

GALVESTON (AP)—The Coast Guard hoped today to be able to salvage one of its patrol boats that sank off Galveston's East Beach in a fishing attempt to rescue a fishing boat.

The 52-foot fishing boat "Johnny Grasso" ran aground Saturday and was battered to pieces by the surf and ground swells.

The patrol boat took on water and was nearly submerged in attempting to transfer pumps to the stricken craft Saturday night. Two large winch trucks were not able to pull her ashore. Joe Grasso Jr. of Galveston, owner of the fishing boat, estimated her value at about $12,000. There were no injuries aboard either vessel.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

British Guiana Harried By Tense, Spooky Calm

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—For five weeks British Guiana has brooded in a spooky, tense, shuttered calm of bitter deadlock between the Marxist Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan and 40,000 workers idled in a general strike.

As food ran short, many feared hunger-motivated rioting might break out. Others looked for a return to work.

The TUC called the strike over a labor bill which it said would give Jagan's government power to determine which bargaining unions the employers should recognize. His foes suspected he sought control over labor in a move toward a Castro-like dictatorship they said he would impose if British Guiana gained independence under his rule.

The TUC wanted Jagan either to withdraw the bill or accept safeguards for independent representation on the proposed labor relations board. Opposition politicians wanted Jagan to resign. The U.S.-educated, 45-year-old dentist of East Indian origin refused to quit office. But in a week he was reported bowing to labor's demands for amendments to his bill.

But there were a few demonstrations squelched with tear gas at Freedom House, headquarters of the People's Progressive party.

Weaver Web Is Re-Tangled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco and Oakland police have re-tangled a web of Weavers who wandered.

Richard Weaver, his wife, Julia, and their daughter, Mechelle, 4, were strolling along San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf on Saturday.

First, Mechelle disappeared into a crowd. Weaver went looking for her. Coast Guard, State Harbor Patrol and San Francisco police forces were summoned by Mrs. Weaver, when neither husband nor daughter showed up. She didn't know her husband had found the child.

The reason she didn't know was that father and daughter were unable to locate Mrs. Weaver. Weaver to tell her. Weaver and Mechelle, unaware of the searching still going on, went home together.

Oakland police found Weaver and the child in Oakland and notified San Francisco. San Francisco police were unable to tell Mrs. Weaver the happy news, though. They couldn't locate her. She had taken a bus home, arriving to find her husband out looking for her.

"We're going to leave one another notes or something from now on," she said.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Tornadoes Crunch Through Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Tornadoes crunched through Oklahoma Sunday, causing widespread and heavy damage.

Two persons were seriously hurt. Dozens suffered minor injuries.

The heaviest damage was in the tiny village of Bowlegs, 70 miles southeast of here. Just about every one of the town's 70 or so houses was damaged. Several were destroyed. There was one reported injury but the victim was not hospitalized.

A band extending along Oklahoma City's eastern fringe also was severely battered and separate tornadoes caused the most severe injuries. At least 18 houses were destroyed or damaged heavily.

Mrs. Louise Tetchinsky, 93, was critically injured when a tornado shoved over her mobile home northeast of Oklahoma City. Another tornado dipped to the ground, split in half and the twins zigzagged around Choctaw east of Oklahoma City.

There, Mrs. Bessie Braman, 76, was critically hurt. Her mobile home also was blown over. Tornadoes also were reported on the ground near Canton in northwest Oklahoma and near Panama, 18 miles southeast of Fort Smith, Ark.

Heavy hail, ranging up to baseball size, and torrential rain accompanied the twisters.

It was the worst outbreak of severe weather this year in Oklahoma.

National Guard and Civil Defense officials patrolled streets of Bowlegs and police patrolled the Oklahoma City suburb to prevent looting.

John Sowers, police chief at Seminole, 5 miles north of Bowlegs, said the town had 10 or 12 minutes warning and residents headed quickly for storm shelters, thus averting extensive injuries.

Winds also lashed Seminole, causing property damage. Weoka, Holdenville, Roscoe, Bethel, Harjo and Tecumseh — towns which surround Bowlegs — also reported property damage.

At Midwest City, an Oklahoma City suburb, several persons reported they suffered bruises from chunks of hail the size of baseballs. A tornado dipped to the ground in the vicinity.

Another tornado was seen near Edmond, another Oklahoma City suburb. One car was whipped off the road, causing minor injuries to its occupants.

THERE IS A GOD

That God is sustaining the universe men throughout history have agreed. God is a personal God; his redemptive love was expressed through Christ. He calls men to obedience: this Christians accept by faith.

Just as true religion begins with dependence on God, it begins to disintegrate when men go off in all directions to obey their Maker on their own terms. We can see the result of human, subjective religion by looking at Communism. Instead of faith in God, there is insistence on dialectical materialism; instead of the Christian race, there is a production race.

To whatever degree religious faith is devised by men exclusive of the will of God, to that degree religion is certain to fail.

Christianity, on the other hand, claims an objective standard—Jesus Christ, who declared, "No one cometh unto the Father, but by me" (Jno. 14:6).

C. Guard Hopes To Salvage Boat

GALVESTON (AP)—The Coast Guard hoped today to be able to salvage one of its patrol boats that sank off Galveston's East Beach in a fishing attempt to rescue a fishing boat.

The 52-foot fishing boat "Johnny Grasso" ran aground Saturday and was battered to pieces by the surf and ground swells.

The patrol boat took on water and was nearly submerged in attempting to transfer pumps to the stricken craft Saturday night. Two large winch trucks were not able to pull her ashore.

Joe Grasso Jr. of Galveston, owner of the fishing boat, estimated her value at about $12,000. There were no injuries aboard either vessel.

Time Becomes Important Factor To Agriculturalists

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Showers, downpours, high winds and hail caused concern among Texas agricultural producers during the week, as time becomes an important factor.

Many areas still had a critical shortage of moisture, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

He said conditions have been changing almost daily but that the Coastal Bend, the upper Gulf Coast, most of Central and East Texas and the Panhandle and parts of far west and southwest still report shortage of moisture.

Showers over the Panhandle failed to supply the moisture needed to get range plants growing and revive crop prospects. Up to 90 per cent of the dryland wheat in some counties has been abandoned; ranges are poor; and feeding is still on.

SOUTH PLAINS

General rains covered the South Plains Tuesday. Dryland counties now have enough moisture to complete planting. Most counties had rains of an inch to three or more. Extensive hail damage was reported in the Bailey County area. Areas receiving three inches or so of rain will have to do considerable replanting. Rains extended from Amarillo into the Big Bend area.

Half the Rolling Plains counties had sufficient soil moisture. Wheat harvesting is general. Cotton planting varies from 5 to 90 per cent complete. Pecan casebearers are showing up.

Scattered rains improved the situation in far West Texas. High winds damaged young cotton. Ranges are improving. Grains are ripening, alfalfa is being baled and sheep shearing is about over. Screwworms were found in several counties.

GOOD PROSPECTS

Weekend rains in the San Angelo area, up to 1.50 inches, improved range and crop prospects. Livestock are in fair to good condition and sheep shearing is about over. Pecan casebearers appeared.

Moisture in Central Texas ranged from short to very short and some stock tanks were dry and most were low. The grain harvest has started with prospects only fair. Some oats are being baled. Corn is tasseling and grain sorghum is in the boot stage. Both need rain. Cotton looks good. Pastures are green but short.

Moisture is fully adequate in most of North Central Texas where some wheat has been harvested. Farmers are baling hay, cultivating and poisoning cotton. Ranges are good.

Moisture is getting short in Northeast Texas where hay is being harvested and cotton and corn are making good growth. Pecan and fruit prospects are good. Pastures are average.

MOISTURE SHORT

Moisture is very short in East Texas. Ranges are below average. Twelve cases of screwworms were reported.

Some improvement was noted in the southeast, or Upper Gulf Coastal District. Some farmers waited for rain. Rice looks good. Pastures are short. Crops have been revived where rain fell.

Spotted showers helped some of the South Central Texas but much of the area remains critically dry. Marketing of livestock increased. The harvest of a light flax crop, about half of normal, is about over. Cotton is blooming. Thrips and fleahoppers are causing damage.

Spotted rain over the northern half of the far South Texas gave temporary relief but the entire district needs a general rain. Much sorghum had been abandoned in the Coastal Bend due to the drought. Dryland cotton is holding up surprisingly well.

Assassination Threat Is Hazard Of Middle East

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — "On mornings when I see him buckle on his revolver, then I realize there are people who want to kill my husband."

With this comment to a friend, King Hussein's English-born wife reflected his own thoughts about the possibility of assassination amid the antagonisms of the Middle East.

He has called it an occupational hazard.

He began telling a diplomat "When they kill me," then he changed the sentence to "If they kill me," and added "It will be a shot in the back."

As a key figure in the surge of Arab unity, Hussein in his 10 years on the throne has never been a more likely target for assassination than in recent weeks.

Hussein, 27, is also a key figure in peace Arab experts and United Nations officials speculate that his assassination or overthrow might send Israel lunging across truce lines into Jordan and rekindle the Arab-Israeli war.

Forces working against Hussein are not ready to face the Israeli threat, but their activities have triggered Jordan's worst political crisis in years.

Riotous demonstrations swept towns on the west bank of the Jordan River last month, and gunfire rattled the streets of Jerusalem.

Hussein restored order. A feeling of unrest continues and the problems that started the trouble have not been solved.

The flareup was ignited in Cairo, where President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the new revolutionary ruiners of Iraq and Syria agreed to form a new United Arab Republic. Nasser has made it clear the federation is for republics only, with no place for monarchies.

Arabs, including King Hussein, long for unity with a passion that is difficult to describe. Years of bickering, mistrust and savage quarrels have kept them from achieving it, and many Westerners think they never will.

JFK's Father Undergoes Surgery

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father, rested at his home today from minor weekend surgery and the extraction of two teeth.

Kennedy, 74, had a small skin growth removed from his arm at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis Saturday morning by Dr. Samuel F. Marshall of Boston and Newton.

Kennedy returned to his ocean-front home after the surgery. He is recuperating here from the stroke he suffered in Palm Beach, Fla., 17 months ago.

Mrs. Murray And Her Children

Mrs. Madalyn Murray, an atheist whose suit to ban Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in Maryland public schools is before the Supreme Court, poses with her children in their Baltimore home. They are 17-year-old Bill Murray, a confirmed atheist and a petitioner in the suit with his mother, and 8-year-old Garth. Mrs. Murray says since the case went to the Supreme Court last October she has been blacklisted and can't get work. (AP Wirephoto).

Mother Pursues Her Atheistic Court Efforts

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — What kind of a woman is Madalyn Murray? Some day soon you should be seeing her name in stories about a Supreme Court decision on her suit to ban Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in Maryland public schools. And you may wonder what sort of a mother brings up her children without a belief in God, what sort of a woman Madalyn Murray can possibly be.

Well, to look at her, a plump, jolly-looking woman with blonde hair turning gray and a laugh almost girlish, you'd think that here's a housewife whose most daring thoughts are indexed in her recipe file. In the dining room of her colonial red brick home, boxes are stacked high with letters which she and fellow atheists in Baltimore answer—many on a mimeograph machine in her basement. William Moore, the postman who was shot to death in Alabama last month while on an integration pilgrimage, spent many evenings working on the correspondence. Mrs. Murray was brought up a Presbyterian. Her mother, who lives with her, is still devout, and the family held religious services last January when her father died.

Dr. and Mrs. Dick O'Brien of Houston, formerly of Big Spring, and Mrs. W. T. Gambill of Stamford are here for the graduation of their grandson, Clinton Gambill. They are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gambill.

Springtime And Music Couples' Dance Theme

By KATHLEEN DOZIER
Trees in blossom, a wrought iron bench and green lawn formed a ballroom scene at the Settles Hotel where the Couples Dance Club held its spring formal Saturday night. The ballroom entrance was a latticed arch and picket fence entwined with flowers.

Tables were centered with small parasols which were placed to hold generous servings of popped corn. On the buffet table and elsewhere in the ballroom were patio lamps which lent a multi-colored glow to the scene.

Some 100 members and their guests danced to the music of Dale White and his combo.

Formal attire was resplendent with color, marked with a number of all-white, after-five and formal gowns. Among the latter were remarkably flattering sheaths worn by Mrs. Kenneth Pace and Mrs. Joe Gunning. Chiffons and other wispy fabrics were noted, especially the lovely turquoise worn by Mrs. R. L. Heath and the toast-toned dress Mrs. Arlis Ratliff chose for the occasion.

Mrs. Elmo Phillips was most attractive in a lace and ribbon frock in blue and white, while Mrs. Bob Rogers complimented the scene in an orange cotton dress styled with spaghetti straps and white trimmed, full skirt.

Mrs. Al Carter's white silk was fashioned with full pleated skirt, and blue was the color of Mrs. George Thorburn's swirl-skirted gown. A cotton classic for the evening hours was that worn by Mrs. James Tidwell.

group were the officers, Fred Stitzel, president, and Joe Hayden, vice president, Ray Boren, secretary - treasurer and their wives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed headed the decorating committee which was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Phillips.

Garbage Disposers Pose Controversy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A housewife in Detroit dumps her table scraps down the kitchen sink—as she is required to do by city ordinance. Her counterpart in New York City is forbidden by ordinance to do that. The city's drainage system has to struggle as it is after a torrential rain and can't take on any more household waste.

Jasper, Ind., says it saved $12,000 a year in garbage collections by ordering all homes to use a disposer gadget under the kitchen sink—not to mention the $420,000 for a modern treatment plant it had been ordered by the state to build, or else.

And so it goes with the garbage disposer industry across the nation.

Some, like New York, fear the overtaxing of the city sewers. Some worry about what the addition of more bacteria and grease may do to their treatment plants. The 150 or so communities that require the under the sink garbage disposers stress the collection savings and the curbing of disease spreading by insects and rodents. They insist that the addition to the grease and bacteria problem at treatment plants is comparatively small.

Among the makers are Waste King Corporation of Los Angeles, In-Sink-Erator Manufacturing Co. of Racine, Wis., General Electric, Westinghouse and National Rubber Machinery Co., of Akron, Ohio.

Quinten A. Hammes, president of In-Sink-Erator, estimates there are 7,500,000 disposers now in use. He says the average life expectancy is seven to ten years so that a replacement market is building up. The industry also counts on placing more in the new homes that are still going up at a sprightly rate.

Industry sales—city ordinances notwithstanding—have varied with the rise and fall of the general economy, and especially with the number of housing starts. In many cities ordinances on the subject require disposers in new homes, but leave them to the discretion of owners of older homes.

DAILY GUIDE—The moon in Leo today and tomorrow gives some last minute pressures on problems which have not been solved.

For those with their troubles behind them there are some pleasant social accents. Arians should take advantage of opportunities, and Sagittarians can have things go smoothly.

In general, this is not the time to start any very important projects. Work out details, but hold off culminating negotiations or signing agreements until next Friday at least. It will be well to have things under control from this point on; there can be some explosive action coming along which could be exciting, distracting, or even bring some crisis.

The emphasis is shifting now from Leos, Aquarians, Taureans and Scorpios somewhat, and will bring renewed activity to Virgos, Geminians, Pisceans and Sagittarians. The first four still have some hardships to bear, but they will have less trouble stirring them up. The second group have swift, unpredictable situations developing.

Rather too much friction and contrary obstacles tomorrow to be pleasant.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, GEMINI! The days now can be filled with unusual expectation, and soon you will probably either make some change, or have some change thrust upon you.

This could be some sudden breaking of ties in domestic life, or change of home. You, yourself, could do something very untraditional. If young, it might be the right time to leave home and go out on your own. Some declaration of independence is to be expected. Generous friends stand by you, and older contacts are a source of strength to you. Keep cautious during the next few days.

You are to have this revolutionary influence in home conditions for some years.

It's A Frameup

A couple of thrushees expecting a family addition built their nest atop the antlers of a deer at Vindinge Deer Park in Denmark. The birds apparently felt it a good spot to construct the nest while awaiting the arrival of their offspring. Actually it's only a picture of a deer, one of many animal photographs in a permanent exhibition at the park. One of the thrushees—probably momma—can be seen in the nest, upper left, which actually rests atop the frame of the photograph.

NBC, CBS Split Honors Evenly

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC and CBS split the honors even Sunday night when the Emmy statues were passed out—each network garnered 12, with ABC trailing with three.

Most interesting aspect of the awards, voted by members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, was the way the awards fell. NBC picked up the lion's share in the news and public information areas. CBS was tops in entertainment, particularly in drama and comedy.

The industry's No. 1 award for "program of the year" went to NBC's "The Tunnel," the gripping documentary program filmed during the actual digging of a tunnel under the Berlin wall and subsequent escape of many persons from East Germany to freedom. The program also won two other Emmies, one of the year's best documentary and another to correspondent Piers Anderton for his reporting on the show.

But in terms of sheer numbers of awards, CBS' "The Defenders" came off best—with five statuettes. It was voted the best dramatic series; E. G. Marshall won for the best continuing performance, and it received other awards for writing, directing, and film editing.

CBS' "Dick Van Dyke Show" won three best-of-class awards, for the best comedy show of the year, for Carl Reiner's writing and for John Rich's direction.

Comedienne Carol Burnett won twice—for her "Carol and Julie at Carnegie Hall," best musical variety show of the year, and for outstanding performance in variety or musical shows. Also, viewers had a chance to see her new husband, Joe Hamilton, who produced the show.

Chet Huntley and David Brinkley were honored for their news program, while Brinkley picked up an extra Emmy for his "journal."

Shirley Booth—again—won an Emmy for her continuing comedy performance in "Hazel."

Altogether there were 30 categories in which gleaming golden statuettes were awarded, plus some special awards. One went to the late Dick Powell for his contributions to television as an actor, director, producer and executive. All this took time and the NBC program, scheduled for 90 minutes, ran closer to an hour and three-quarters.

Generally it was an interesting show. Joey Bishop in Hollywood as head master of ceremonies kept things moving lightly and amusingly as the program shifted between the West Coast, Arthur Godfrey in New York and Chet Huntley in Washington.

A few recipients—as always—felt the urge to thank long lists of team members for their contributions, but generally the acceptance speeches were brief and to the point.

Police Investigate School Break-Ins, Other Burglaries

Break-ins at the Washington Place Elementary and the Goliad Junior High schools were investigated by Big Spring police early this morning. Two thefts from automobiles also were investigated Sunday.

The doors to Rooms 14 and 3 were found open at the Washington Place School. The desk in the first room indicated that someone had prowled in it. Bill Grey, maintenance supervisor for the schools said a rock had been thrown through a door of the home economics room at Goliad Junior High. Grey said a check today would have to be made to see if anything was taken.

A spinner-edger, used for floor sanding, was reported taken from a panel truck of the Davidson Floor Covering Co., while the truck was parked at the home of L. A. Gray, employe, Sunday. The edger was valued at $200.

Two floor mats and four hub caps were reported stolen from a car owned by Charles Peugh, 406 W. 17th, while parked in front of his house.

Senate Faces Activity Flurry Before Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate faces a three-day flurry of activity before closing down late Wednesday for an extended Memorial Day weekend. The pace in the House will be more leisurely.

An $840-million program dealing with the problems of mental illnesses and mental retardation heads the Senate's list today. Democratic leaders said they knew of no strong opposition to the measure—a high-priority item on President Kennedy's 1963 program.

Up for Senate debate Tuesday will be the second of the regular money bills for the next fiscal year—a $985-million Interior Department appropriations measure. Senate leaders plan to follow this with a must bill for this week—a stop-gap increase in the national debt limit to tide the Treasury over for the next few months. The present $305-billion ceiling would be raised to $307 by the bill until June 30, and thereafter to $309 billion temporarily.

The House has a light schedule for the week. Its only announced business is a bill to extend the Mexican farm labor program for two years. The measure is to be considered Wednesday.

The mental illness bill would authorize federal grants to the states and to universities over the next 10 years.

The money could be used to help build community health centers for prevention, diagnosis and treatment of mental illness; to aid in staffing of such centers; to help build centers for research on mental retardation; and to aid in construction of facilities for treatment and care of the mentally retarded.

Another provision would extend for three years a current program of federal aid to universities for training of teachers for the deaf, the mentally retarded, and for those handicapped in other ways.

Senators Urge Test Ban Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., teamed up in a surprise move today in suggesting the United States offer the Soviet Union an agreement to ban atmospheric and underwater nuclear tests.

The two Democrats, who differ sharply over the adequacy of Kennedy administration proposals for a comprehensive treaty banning all nuclear weapons testing, found common ground on a first-step proposal.

They proposed a resolution asking Washington to offer Moscow an agreement to halt tests that "contaminate the atmosphere or the oceans." Twenty-two other Democrats and six Republican senators signed the resolution with them for introduction in the Senate.

Humphrey and Dodd emphasized the resolution would impose no restrictions on underground testing or on testing in outer space which would not contaminate the atmosphere.

Dodd, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, paid high tribute to Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic leader, as "a champion of peace and disarmament." He called the Minnesotan "the logical candidate" for the next Nobel Peace Prize.

The resolution stipulates that if the Soviet Union refuses to sign the first-step agreement, "we commit ourselves before the world to conduct no nuclear tests in the atmosphere or underwater so long as the Soviet Union abstains from them."

But it specifies that in committing the United States to such a moratorium this government should bear in mind the Soviet record of "deceit and bad faith" and maintain its testing facilities in a state of constant readiness so it will not be caught napping if the Soviets should suddenly resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere or underwater.

Humphrey and Dodd did not see entirely eye-to-eye on whether the agreement they proposed involved any risks. Humphrey, in his prepared speech, declared that "atmospheric and underwater tests are readily detectable."

Dodd said "there is at least a serious possibility that certain types of atmospheric tests could not be effectively monitored from positions outside the Soviet Union."

Other sponsors of the resolution were Democratic Senators E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening, Alaska; Quentin N. Burdick, N.D.; Frank Church, Idaho; Paul H. Douglas, Ill.; Joseph S. Clark, Pa.; Clair Engle, Calif.; Philip A. Hart, Mich.; Daniel K. Inouye, Hawaii; Gale W. McGee, Wyo.; George S. McGovern, S.D.; Lee Metcalf, Mont.; Wayne Morse and Maurice B. Neuberger, Ore.; Frank E. Moss, Utah; Edmund S. Muskie, Maine; Jennings Randolph, W.Va.; Abraham Ribicoff, Conn.; John Sparkman, Ala.; Ralph Yarborough, Tex.; Eugene J. McCarthy, Minn.; and Estes Kefauver, Tenn.

Republican signers were Sens. Clifford P. Case, N.J.; Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits, N.Y.; Winston L. Prouty, Vt.; Hugh Scott, Pa., and Peter H. Dominick, Colo.

Uneasiness News Target

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—An uneasiness that stirs beneath the consciousness of the people of the United States should be the target of newsmen, Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth said Sunday night.

Korth spoke before an award banquet of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism society.

He said the nation's uneasiness is not the uneasiness of men who fear they cannot solve great problems, "but rather the uneasiness of men who are not exactly sure what the problems are."

Newsmen can help, he said, by helping the people fight such uneasiness.

"This is one of our greatest perils, and one in which you gentlemen can provide the greatest assistance," Korth said.

"Contradictory rumors, conflicting reports, propaganda, the pleas of those with an axe to grind, the very complexity of so many of the issues confuse and perplex us."

"Prophets of doom foretell disaster and defeat and the unformed have easy solutions to everything."

New York's Executive Mansion To Get First Lady

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's executive mansion soon will have a First Lady in residence for the first time in more than two years.

The new Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, 36, will take up the duties of hostess in the century-old mansion, which has seen little official social life in the last 26 months.

The governor, 54, and his wife, married May 4, have announced plans to live in the 30-room mansion and on the Rockefeller estate in Westchester County, pending renovations for what is expected to be their principal residence, a huge apartment overlooking Central Park in New York City.

The last time a First Lady of the state was at the mansion was a grim event.

The Republican governor and his first wife, died from the red brick, turreted house into the early-morning cold on March 3, 1961, as fire swept through the building.

The first Mrs. Rockefeller climbed down a ladder to safety in her night clothes, never to return.

A little later, she entered a hospital in New York City for what was described as a minor operation. Her absence from the governor's side at official functions and trips was thereafter explained by his aides as a question of health.

Later that year, it was announced the Rockefellers had separated and would be divorced.

Meanwhile, Rockefeller directed that the executive mansion be restored. He rejected proposals for construction of an official governor's residence in more suitable surroundings than the rundown neighborhood where the stately mansion now stands.

"It is a comfortable building to live in," he said, "wonderfully adaptable for entertaining and receiving large groups. The Albany residents who live in the vicinity of the mansion have been most friendly to us."

He also noted that the mansion had "a great tradition" and "many great Americans have lived there." The former residents included Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt, all of whom moved from the mansion to the White House, an achievement Rockefeller has wanted to duplicate.

Restoration of the mansion eventually cost nearly $600,000.

A Devotional For The Day

Your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, "This is the way, walk in it," when you turn to the right or when you turn to the left. (Isaiah 30:21. RSV.)
PRAYER: O God, take possession of our will that we may be ready always to say, "Speak for thy servant heareth." In the name of Christ, who was obedient to Thee, even at the cost of His life. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

California's GOP Role

California, now first in population, may not be able to assume its anticipated role as the first political power in the nation as early as the 1964 national elections. And former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who thinks it will many have provided the main reason why it won't.

With President Kennedy's Democratic recommitment certain, California's impact on the shape of national politics in 1964 must be exerted through influence on the choice of the Republican nominee. If he had remained in California, Nixon may have retained enough political strength to be a decisive force in California's choice, and hence on the GOP National Convention's decision. But his move to New York has left California Republicans in a muddled scramble that could result in an uncommitted delegation of doubtful potency.

Nixon, who has believably ruled himself out of any candidacy, obviously still hopes to have a hand in the Republican presidential nomination through the influence he assumes he retains in California politics. He is plugging the California presidential primary—"The only open primary in a major state"—as the essential testing-ground for any GOP aspirant and pledging to support the winner. To the degree that Nixon's support might be considered decisive in that test, he would thus hold leverage in the 1964 Republican choice.

However, if former Sen. William F. Knowland should run as a favorite-son candidate, a current speculation, both the primary and Nixon's influence would be minimized. And if a free-for-all primary battle is not avoided, it could split California's loosely held together Republican Party so badly that the state's voice in the national convention would be faint beside that of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's New York. All in all, it is doubtful that California Republicans must appreciate the departed Nixon's remote control effort at king-making, however flattering it may be to their state's national political status.

Case Needs Clearer Statement

Advocates of an all-out space program may not gain popular support unless they can state their case more persuasively. Without popular support the program will inevitably run into great fiscal difficulty in Congress.

There has never been totally convincing answers for instance, to this question: Why should we spend $20 billion or more to put a man on the moon? What is more, there is a sharp difference of opinion within the scientific community itself on the advisability of the manned moon program. There are eminent scientists who argue that the same scientific discoveries can be made by instruments landed on the moon, and at much less cost than a manned flight.

The fault has been one of lack of communication. The basic scientist who seeks the origin of matter and the nature of the universe is not prepared, psychologically speaking, to argue his case publicly. The challenge of the unknown produces its own compulsion. The urge to reduce matter to its ultimate, indivisible particle and to define the limits of outer space is irresistible.

It will not be enough to ask the American people to accept the space program on faith alone. For our system tends to produce skeptical men and women who are prone to wonder and to ask if some special interest, rather than the public good alone, is involved in the vast expenditures of money and more precious scientific manpower.

Advocates of the space program had best preoccupy themselves immediately with the cultivation of a better public understanding of what they are doing, and why.

Richard Starnes

Some Chores To Do At Home

'Richard Starnes' column is appearing in this space while I'm Bobbing in on vacation.

Now that we have all been assured that man can endure weightlessness, it is to be hoped that some agency of government will soon conduct experiments proving that he can also survive gutlessness.

There is no wish to detract from the brave young men, American and Russian, who have flashed through the heavens in man-made satellites. But nothing they have done can contribute to the solution of the acute disabilities afflicting man.

WHAT IS THE good in landing a mimeograph machine on the moon if we lack the genius to soften one human heart in Birmingham? Fly-by-wire is a splendid achievement, but what will we do about the young people coming into the labor force every week, or the others who lose their jobs to automation every week?

The Russians can orbit twice as many men twice as many times as we can, but they cannot produce enough food to feed themselves or enough fiber to cover their nakedness.

A WISE MAN once said, "Those who corrupt the public mind are just as evil as those who steal from the public purse." From the lofty viewpoint of historical hindsight we scorn earlier cultures who diverted people from insoluble social and economic problems by staging chariot races. But will we in turn be scorning a thousand years from now substituting only spacecraft for chariots?

I want to know for example, if my children must grow up with the knowledge that an unshakable Communist redoubt exists in the Caribbean. The answer I get is that there will be a parade in New York for Washington, or Cocoa Beach for the purpose of celebrating a cosmopolitan I inquire into the nature of the economic burden my grandchildren will curse me for, and some oily bureaucrat tells me I'd better get off my sputzplatz and onto the moon before some unwashed bolshevik beats me to it.

WELL, DAMN IT, I'm not a going yet awhile. First I want to see when the campaign promises to ease the despair of six million Americans in the starved Appalachians will be redeemed. Everyone whom wants to go to the moon should go to Harlan, Ky. first. Life on Mars?

First I want to know if we'll ever succeed in finding life on Earth.

ALL SYSTEMS are Go in Mercury Control, or so we are told, but there is no bland, disembodied voice telling us why, in 5,000 years, all systems have been No. Go when human government tried to face up to its real problems. Can we build enough Saturn launch vehicles to send the world's excess population on one-way rides to space? I ask the question, and my reply is the voice of Shorty Powers telling me that Gordo Cooper's blood pressure is dandy. How about my blood pressure, Shorty?

How about the blood pressure of an American who waded ashore at Omaha Beach, and now has to step off the sidewalk in Woolhat, Miss. because his skin is black? What does the science of telemetry tell about his condition? And what does that do to him to do it?

WHERE IS MY back-up pilot to tell me what to do when a nine-year-old daughter asks me if we shouldn't be building a fallout shelter in the basement? All I can do is kiss her goodnight and tell her no fallout is going to get her as long as I'm around. It's a lousy answer, and she knows it, but she knows I can't do any better at the moment, so she lets it pass.

Our values are wrong, corrupt, distorted. Our politicians lack the courage to do their duty, so they turn like hogs on barbeque spits, warming themselves in the glow of a simple test pilot who is not afraid to risk his life for what he conceives to be the job at hand.

CHARIOT RACES did not prevent Rome from the corruption that brought her down. It is unrealistic to expect space races to succeed any better.

Billy Graham

When Jesus was on the cross He said, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." Do you believe that this prayer was answered, and that all men who sin against God are forgiven?

I do not believe that God the Father ignored the dying prayer of His Son. But forgiveness, in the broad sense of the word, can only be granted where it is desired. In other words, if a man is not repentant he cannot be forgiven. When we speak of men "accepting Christ", we mean that they accept the pardon and forgiveness which He freely offers.

There are cases on record where men condemned to death have been offered pardons but refused to accept them. When a pardon is rejected, the sentence becomes mandatory.

Jesus Christ our Lord obtained forgiveness on the cross for everyone who accepts it. But this does not imply that those who reject His pardon are relieved of their guilt. Reconciliation to God is contingent upon our attitude toward God's Son, and toward our own sin. If we spurn the Pardon, then we must bear the burden of our guilt.

Could Be An Agonizing Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—This limping year, in which Congress has dragged its feet and the big powers look like bears in a slow waltz, may yet be memorable and even tense at home, if not abroad.

Racial barriers, caught between the Supreme Court decisions against state-imposed segregation and Negro demonstrations against segregation in all its forms, are crumbling in the South.

BUT EVEN by year's end they will still be far from eliminated. Because of white resistance to the crumbling and Negro insistence upon hastening it, racial explosions in the South could turn this into an agonizing year.

And it can't even be guessed what will happen in Alabama if Gov. George C. Wallace insists on delaying a federal court order—and President Kennedy uses troops to back it up—to admit Negroes to the University of Alabama.

In Congress this has been a dull, slow time. From the beginning of his term Kennedy has leaned over backwards to get along with Southern Democrats, even when they hurled roadblocks at some of his programs, like medical care for the aged.

On other programs they've been of help to him.

BUT THE pleasant relationship may turn sour and the help diminish if he really pushes hard for civil rights measures with teeth at the very time he's hoping Congress will give him the kind of tax cut program he's pleaded for.

Southern opposition to civil rights legislation, with the filibuster and all the dragged-out days and nights that means, could keep Congress in session on into fall.

And if he does push for civil rights bills, Kennedy will have to think of what Southern antagonism will mean to Democratic party unity in 1964 and his chance for a second term.

Abroad, this year has been a kind of stumbling time for both the United States and its allies on one side and communism on the other.

PREMIER Khrushchev, h a s avoided new crises. His time seems to have been taken up with

1. Recovering from the bang to his prestige—after being forced to pull his missiles out of Cuba last fall—and perhaps pondering some other strategy of tit-for-tat to make the United States back on something.

2. Trying to avoid a violent break with his Red Chinese critics while trying to rally world Communist opinion to his side before he has a showdown with the Chinese Communists. Some kind of showdown seems certain.

Meanwhile Kennedy has had his hands full trying to preserve allied unity—both on trade and defense—after French President de Gaulle cracked it at the seams with his tactics.

So the Kennedy administration has been wrestling with its allies over tariffs while offering plans, which sound far bigger than they look, for a NATO nuclear force.

In short, this first half of 1963 has been pretty much a time of preparation for the last half.

Tranquilizers Aid In Mental Treatment

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has been in a mental hospital four times in the last seven years. He has been home now for 13 months and is taking a 100-mg. tablet of thiorazine three times a day.

When I suggest that he see a doctor about whether he needs to continue the medication, he says he will just stop taking it himself. I am afraid for him to do that because it might result in a recurrence of his illness. He is listless and sleeps much of the time.—Mrs. J. M.

That other tranquilizers are much used—and of value—in relaxing the everyday stresses for people with emotional problems. Sometimes these drugs are the difference between a patient going home or having to stay in the hospital.

I can think of a case or two within my personal experience of patients refusing to take medication, of this or any other type, with disastrous results.

Most, however, realize the importance of the extra help afforded by the medicine. This is a major factor in recent advances in mental health. We ARE getting more patients home sooner, and keeping them well for longer and longer periods.

I would, therefore, be very much opposed to your husband stopping the medication, or having the instructions from a doctor, and preferably from a psychiatrist.

Isn't it possible for him to go back to the hospital to see the doctors there, say every few months? Not to stay, not even overnight, but just a call in the office. You might write to the hospital and ask whether a visit would be advisable, or whether there is a clinic or a psychiatrist closer to your home.

Your husband's listlessness is not surprising since the tranquilizers and in some cases the underlying emotional problems may both contribute to this. It is possible that a different dosage might be better for him. Regulation of the amount of any drug is important.

The patient himself rarely is a good judge of the correct amount. What he can tell the doctor about how he feels is a very useful guide but it isn't the whole story.

With mental illness even more than with most physical illnesses, periodic checkups afterward are the best insurance against a relapse.

Dear Dr. Molner: Twice after tooth extractions dentists have told me I'm a "bleeder" and have given me prescriptions to coagulate the blood. It is not so serious that I might bleed to death from a scratch, but I note that I have more trouble than most people stopping the blood. What can be done about this? What about diet?—O. H.

A rather detailed blood analysis (more than just a simple count) would be necessary to see whether you have a defect in the natural clotting mechanism. If so, special treatment may be indicated.

A full and well-balanced diet milk (for the calcium content) and adequate Vitamin C.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible, uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

Around The Rim

Push-Button Lockup

Off the cuff: An eastern firm has come up with a locking device that doesn't require a key. All it has is a row of five buttons and a small knob on the door or drawer of cabinets, vanity, hi-fi cabinet or what have you.

To lock it, you push any or all five buttons, individually or collectively, in any order you want, and flip the knob to the left to lock.

To open it, you tap the buttons in the same order and twist the knob to the right. You have a choice of 1,000 combinations that you can change in seconds without dismantling or tools.

It'll retail for less than $10.

SOME ONE has also developed a pocket-sized knife sharpener that doesn't look like one. How many people do you know who carry pocket knives that would cut hot butter?

This little plastic tool has a tempered steel sharpening unit imbedded in one end. It weighs less than half an ounce and measures no more than 2 1/4 inches in length. It is available for about 70 cents.

A POLICE CHIEF in a west coast city fell heir to a rather unusual case the other day. The net result was that he had to suspend one of his patrolmen for five days.

Seems the officer was dispatched to pick up a theft suspect but he had a problem: He was committed to attend a Little League organizational meeting at the same time.

He tried to solve the problem by picking up the bad guy.

RATHER THAN head straight back to the station, however, he took the accused thief to the small fry baseball meeting with him and handcuffed the alleged criminal to a chair during the meeting.

An hour and a half later, he showed up at headquarters with the suspect.

The thief proceeded to holler, complaining that being made to sit through a Little League meeting constituted cruel and unusual treatment.

A RESPONSIBLE mortician once told me that Big Spring was regarded as a "better town" in his line of work than is Midland.

Reason: Midland is principally a "young man's town" where the incidence of death is lower than it is here. —TOMMY HART

Driving People Into Employment

WASHINGTON — Labor Secretary Wilbert Wirtz may yet shape up as the administration's Rookie of the Year.

Not a flashy figure like his predecessor, Arthur Goldberg, Wirtz does have a certain glint of originality and sincerity not common among bureaucrats. He was good enough a while back to write a guest column in this space, and astonished his host by opening with a quotation from the British highbrow, John Ruskin. Lately, in testimony before Senate Committees, the Secretary has sometimes seemed to be testing his toe in the water of skepticism.

This is dangerous, as Admiral Anderson learned to his sorrow. But I write this column to encourage Wirtz to be bold in the name of truth and patriotism.

FOR EXAMPLE, the Secretary has somewhat gingerly pointed to the pestion of the voluntarily unemployed. There are somewhat more than 4 million Americans permanently without jobs, but at least three categories could have more jobs than they are accepting.

Possibly the biggest of these is in household service. The jobless rate here is less than five per cent (a little below the national average), but the demand for maids, cooks, butlers, chauffeurs, baby nurses and bottle washers is still higher than the supply. It is common knowledge that housewives need servants in the domicile, though Wirtz thinks the need may be overstated. Nevertheless, he put his finger on the reason why jobless Americans turn down domestic service jobs: social status.

FALSE PRIDE, of course, is the crux of it. The attitude of our national leaders toward equality-for-all has certainly fed that snobbish inhibition. An Administration truly interested in the manpower problem ought to tackle the servant problem in the offing—but not as many buttons as there are people who ought to be wage-earners.

IF HIS DOUBTS are justified, there is all the more reason why the Administration's manpower manipulators should be more honest about humble jobs. It would be a bright day for the Republic if the President would frankly urge people to find work that calls for putting their hands into soap suds and garden dirt.

There may be a lot of push-button jobs in the offing—but not as many buttons as there are people who ought to be wage-earners.

A Confused Judiciary

WASHINGTON — When there's a confused judiciary, there's bound to be a confused public. And how can anyone tell what "the law of the land" really is today when the judges themselves contradict each other in a matter of a few hours?

This, the first editions of two New York City newspapers—which reach many subscribers or newsstand buyers in Washington—said in their headlines Thursday morning:

"U. S. JUDGE rejects appeal to reinstate Birmingham pupils"—New York Times.

"Court won't bar pupil ousters"—New York Herald Tribune.

Yet this wasn't the fact very long. A few hours later, these same newspapers were telling their readers in later editions in New York City that a U. S. circuit court of appeals judge had, on the same day, overturned the earlier ruling.

THE CASE in question arose when the Board of Education of the City of Birmingham ordered the suspension of the 1,081 Negro students in the public schools who had been arrested on May 7, during street demonstrations, on the charge of parading without a permit. The city's policy has been to take such action against any student who is arrested for any reason until the charges are disposed of in the courts.

U. S. District Judge Clarence W. Allgood, who was appointed by President Kennedy, issued a ruling in which he said:

"THIS COURT feels that the Board of Education of the City of Birmingham in its disciplinary problems deserves no interference from this court so long as it stays in reasonable bounds."

Judge Allgood said he had been assured that suspended pupils would be given "A speedy, fair and comprehensive hearing," and he added:

"This court was shocked to see hundreds of school children ranging in age from 6 to 16 running loose and wild without direction through the streets of Birmingham and in the business establishments."

"IT IS DUE to the patience and good judgment of the people of Birmingham and the police officials particularly that no one was seriously injured on May 7, 1963, when the demonstrators were city officials of Birmingham to parade within a certain designated area, and the hundreds of school children in the parade refused to stay within the boundaries of the parade area, broke through the police and for some 45 minutes ran wild over the city of Birmingham."

Judge Allgood stated further that he had been advised by the school authorities "that the suspension or expulsion of no child will be upheld by the school board, after a hearing, due to prejudice, anger or retaliation." He continued:

"THE COURT feels that this is borne out by the fact that the school board, in adopting its policy, at the same time stipulated that all students, whether expelled or suspended, would be allowed to make up in summer school the work that they had lost."

A few hours later on Wednesday evening, Judge Elbert P. Tuttle, of the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, issued a ruling at Atlanta, Georgia, ordering the Birmingham school superintendent to tell the suspended pupils they could return to their classes Thursday morning even if the school superintendent had to advise them over the radio. Judge Tuttle said his order does not affect the right of school officials to discipline any students for "acts of actual violence or actual breaches of the peace other than parading without a permit."

He declared that the students were "legally arrested for exercising this constitutional right."

"WHAT HARM would it do," asked Judge Tuttle of the superintendent of school's attorney, Reid Barnes, "to put these children back in school while their appeal is pending?"

"According to the superintendent of schools," replied Mr. Barnes, "it would cause a breakdown of discipline and morale."

So now the federal judiciary, in effect, takes charge of a city's educational system and decides how children shall be disciplined. Yet there isn't a word in the Constitution which gives the federal government any such power over the educational system in any state.

BUT THE confusion isn't confined to the South. Just across the Potomac from Washington, another federal judge, Oren R. Lewis, handed down a decision on Wednesday which, for the first time, emphasizes "equal rights for whites." He ordered the commissioners of the District of Columbia to give white prisoners at the Lorton Reformatory a chance to decide whether they want to sleep in an all-white dormitory or in one for both whites and Negroes. The policy for the institution had been that only the Negro prisoners could decide for themselves whether they wanted to live in an all-Negro dormitory or an integrated one. No such right to make a choice had been granted by jail officials to the whites.

YET "THE LAW of the land" is supposed to be quite clear nowadays so the citizens will always understand and obey what the courts tell them lest federal troops be mobilized "to enforce a court order." But what shall parents throughout the country think when they are refused a choice between integrated and segregated schools for their children? Are there to be "equal choices"? Only in the federal government's jails.

DEAR ABBY

Might Start A Vogue

DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me what is the matter with the fashion world today? I am planning to be married this summer. I have been all over town trying to find a dressy fitted suit in which to be married and there is not one to be had. Everything I have seen has a short boxy jacket, which is too sporty. Now I am not criticizing Mrs. Jackie Kennedy, because she looks good in short boxy jackets, but why does every woman in the country have to dress like Jackie Kennedy? I am sure I am not the only woman who feels this way. I admire her, but I don't want to dress like her. I will get married in a burlesque dress before I buy one of those boxy suits. Please, Dear Abby, come to our rescue and get the fashion world on the ball so we can have a variety of styles to choose from. OUT OF VOGUE

DEAR OUT: If a store doesn't have what you want, ask the buyer to order it for you. If he can't order it, find yourself a pattern and make it. If you can't sew, find someone who can. If you give up and wear a "burlesque" you will still look like Jackie Kennedy. I understand that's what she's going to be wearing this summer.

DEAR ABBY: I am the treasurer of the 11th grade at my school and I sort of lost $42.69, and I don't know what to do. Could you please give me some advice? Thank you. WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: As treasurer of the class, the responsibility of the money is yours. Sort of "horror" it from your father and pay him back if you have to work all summer.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and have been going with this guy for four years. We planned to be married in June but he got his papers to take a physical and, after 21 days, they can draft him any time and want to get married, stay home and work until he's out of boot camp, save the allotment checks and then join him when he gets stationed. He wants to wait two years and then get married. I say if he loves me as much as I love him, he'll marry me now. It's not a money problem. He has a big sum in the bank. What do you advise me to do? Please print this. Many of my friends are having the same trouble. NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: A girl who has to convince her boy friend that he should marry her is usually sorry if she wins.

Severe Storms Hit Wide Area

By The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms pounded parts of Oklahoma today after the most violent weather of the year struck the central part of the state.

One twister damaged two farm homes near Pittsburg, Kan.

Heavy hail and rain hit many areas in Oklahoma as the storm spread into sections of Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, western Alabama and Mississippi.

There were other wet spots during the night and early morning. More showers fell from northwestern Montana to the eastern Dakotas while rain continued in parts of Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. Heavy rain drenched sections of the Dakotas Sunday.

Showers and rain also fell in southern sections of the Ohio Valley, eastern Tennessee, western parts of the Carolinas, western Virginia and the East Coast in central Florida.

Hundreds Visit 'Miracle' Site

ALICE, Tex. (AP) — An old wooden cistern where a woman claims she saw a vision of the Virgin Mary last month attracted hundreds of persons to a farm near this South Texas city Sunday.

The cistern is on the farm of Tony Botello, Jr., about seven miles north of here. Roads were packed in the area Sunday and officers would not make an estimate on the number of persons who visited the farm.

Jack Butler turned a field near the Botello farm into a parking lot and was getting $1 a car from motorists.

Mrs. Botello, 35, said she saw the life-size image of the Virgin Mary on the morning of April 17.

Last Sunday, the Jim Wells County sheriff estimated the number of visitors to the farm at about 5,000 persons. Other public officials said that before Sunday's huge crowds, about 20,000 persons had gone to the Botello farm.
