

Aw, Come On, I'm One Of The Guys!

Sea Scouts Arrive Home

Amidst hugs from parents, smiles, and happy greetings of "We knew you'd make it," Big Spring's seven hiking Sea Scouts, three cooks and a driver arrived home Saturday afternoon for a red carpet treatment.

In a special ceremony at the courthouse, approximately 100 relatives, parents, and interested residents looked on as the boys and their two leaders were given certificates, making them honorary members of the Chamber of Commerce, and special patches from the Lone Star Boy Scout District.

The boys who received certificates and patches were: Mike Gilbert, Chuck Smith, Jerry Henry, Dub Clinton, Jerry Cryer, Jerry Lewis, Bob Compton, Bob Husson and Burr Settles, Don Snyder, Ship Skipper, and Andy Anderson, a sergeant at Webb AFB who acted as a driver, also were awarded patches.

Hospital Escapee Held In Wyoming

A 16-year-old escapee from the Big Spring State Hospital was jailed without charge in Laramie, Wyo., Friday night when he appeared at police headquarters seeking shelter. Michael Thomas McNellis, who gave his address as El Paso, was reported to have been in the institution here for some time.

Police Patrolman James Simon said the boy appeared at the Laramie police station seeking a police identification card required for overnight accommodations at a Salvation Army shelter. The officer noted discrepancies in the boy's story and questioned him further. McNellis then gave the account of his escape from the hospital.

The hospital reported the boy's absence to Big Spring police at 8:22 p.m. June 12. The boy told Laramie police he had hitch-hiked from Denver where his father abandoned him as they were motoring to Nashville, Tenn.

Big Spring officials have no record of the boy's activities before he escaped from the hospital.

Macmillan's Men Close Ranks For Coming Debate

LONDON (AP)—Health Minister Enoch Powell, the big question mark in the British Cabinet's stand on the Profumo sex scandal, Saturday fell in behind Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's fight for survival in Parliament. The Conservatives appeared to be closing ranks for the crucial debate opening Monday.

Powell had been reported on the verge of resigning in disgust, an act that possibly would have set off an avalanche of Cabinet resignations—including that of Macmillan himself.

But Powell told a political rally, he was convinced Macmillan acted properly in the whole affair and that he would support him Monday in Parliament. The House of Commons opens debate then on the resignation of War Minister John Profumo who said he lied to Parliament before when he said he had no relations with party girl Christine Keeler. She also was intimate with Soviet Naval Attaché Yevgeny Ivanov.

Powell was one of three Cabinet ministers who wavered for days on the issue. His decision to stick with Macmillan apparently wrapped up the Cabinet and the Conservative party leadership for the stand against Harold Wilson's Labor party in Parliament.

The other Cabinet ministers who held off support for Macmillan were Home Secretary Henry Brooke and Education Minister Edward Boyle.

Lord Poole, joint Conservative party chairman and a chief strategist, told local leaders in Birmingham that, "the prime minister will go into the House Monday supported by all 21 members of the Cabinet."

But it was uncertain that Macmillan could rely on unanimous support of the rank-and-file in the debate on whether security was endangered by Profumo's liaison with Miss Keeler.

Poole's speech warned that the party leadership feels Parliament members will be either with it or against it, with no middle ground.

Macmillan is deeply involved on several counts. He heads the security services, and the opposition Labor party demands to know why he hadn't learned more about Profumo's private life. The Laborites are also demanding to know how Macmillan could support Profumo in a statement which, if he was properly informed by Scotland Yard, he would have known to be false.

The Cabinet, in regular consultation throughout the week, appears satisfied that Macmillan has the right answers to these questions.

BUDDHISTS HEAD OFF RIOTING

Viet Nam Religious Issue Cools Upon Agreement

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's religious-political crisis cooled Saturday after the United States told President Ngo Dinh Diem it was concerned over his dispute with the nation's Buddhists.

Buddhist leaders announced they had reached agreement with Diem's government on all their demands for religious freedom. In turn they agreed to head off a threat of rioting here Sunday at the funeral of an aged monk who burned himself to death to dramatize Buddhist demands.

The Buddhists said they agreed to ban the general public from the funeral services. Tens of thousands of Buddhist followers were gathered in Saigon for the funeral and the government moved several battalions of fresh troops into the capital.

The Buddhists said the government had agreed to their demands in principle and cautiously added that it remained to be seen whether Diem's regime would carry them out.

The U.S. concern arises from a fear that the Buddhist crisis will imperil Diem's war against the Communist Viet Cong.

South Viet Nam is about 80 per cent Buddhist. Diem and other top government officials are Roman Catholics.

A Buddhist spokesman said the government had agreed to these demands:

—Buddhists will be allowed to fly their flag, alone on pagoda grounds and together with "and parallel to" the Vietnamese national flag outside pagoda grounds.

—Buddhists no longer will be subject to threats, accusations, terror or arrest. The government denies the Buddhists are subject to these pressures.

—Buddhists and other religions will be granted rights equal to those enjoyed by Roman Catholicism in South Viet Nam. This will require a change in the national law and must have legislative approval, a process which could take months.

Under a law signed in 1950 by then Emperor Bao Dai, Buddhists were allowed to own only property that is necessary for the accomplishment of religious goals.

The Roman Catholic Church has vast land holdings, much of it in the rich, crop-producing central provinces. President Diem's brother, Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc, controls these lands and their income.

Crash Kills 6 In Family

BERLIN, La. (AP)—Six members of one family died Saturday in a two-car collision near this West Louisiana town.

Killed were a 35-year-old mother, her four children and her 7-year-old niece.

Police said the Bernard J. Darbonne family was driving from Jacksonville, Ark., to Lake Charles, La., to visit his brother.

Darbonne had recently moved from Lake Charles to Arkansas to work at an air base.

Darbonne was seriously injured. The driver of the other car, Wayne Hannen, was reported in critical condition in an Alexandria hospital.

Officers said Hannen passed a truck on U.S. 163 seven miles north of Oberlin and collided with the Darbonne vehicle.

The victims were identified as: Mrs. Pauline Darbonne; her daughters, Susan, 15; Bernagay, 14; and Cynthia, 12; and her son, Dennis, 9; and Catherine Fay Darbonne, 7, daughter of Elroy Darbonne of Lake Charles, a brother of Bernard Darbonne.

School-Religion Decision Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court is expected to rule Monday whether the Bible and Lord's Prayer may be used in public school opening exercises.

The issue—probably the most troublesome in the court's difficult nine-month term—was argued for two days last February. While other big cases have been decided, the justices put off action on the religious question until they now are up to what is expected to be the final court session before summer adjournment.

Three parents in Maryland and Pennsylvania object to the exercises. The parents—one an atheist and the others Unitarians—say the practice violates the Constitution's guarantee of religious freedom and its ban against government establishment of a religion.

The final decision will affect similar school activities in many states.

Last June the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the use in New York public schools of a non-denominational prayer written by state school officials. That decision brought an unprecedented deluge of mail to the justices from all sections of the country.

Arguing in support of the exercise in Maryland's schools, counsel for Baltimore told the high court that to bar devotional exercises would open a Pandora's box of litigation aimed at removing from public life "every vestige of our religious heritage."

Counsel for Pennsylvania argued Bible reading in that state's schools is not a religious practice but an educational practice—done for a moral rather than a religious purpose.

But attorneys for the objecting parents contended that the Constitution "erects a high and impenetrable wall of separation between church and state" which may not be breached by the school exercises.

Jury Convicts Black Muslims

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An all-white jury has convicted nine members of the Black Muslim sect on charges stemming from a bullet-spattered riot in which one Negro was killed.

Six other Negroes were wounded and seven police officers were injured in the downtown Los Angeles disturbance April 27, 1962.

The jury of ten women and two men, deliberating a local record time of 18 days, found two of the 14 defendants innocent. The jurors failed to agree on charges against two others, but one of these was convicted on one count when the jury returned a partial verdict earlier in the week.

Muslim sympathizers and defendants marched militarily from the courtroom when the proceedings were concluded. There were no disorders.

Sentencing of those convicted was set for July 16.

Acquitted were the Rev. John Henry Morris, 32, minister of the Black Muslim temple in Los Angeles, and Raymond Dewayne Willey, 22. Charges against Morris included two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. Willey was accused of assault and resisting arrest.

VERSES APLENTY

Continuing the reply to a letter, we observe that the Lord has repeatedly made it clear that baptism is in the plan of salvation, as truly as is faith and repentance. There are many verses. For example, Acts 22:16, which says, "And now, why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord."

Also there are the verses which say we are baptized "into Christ" (Rom. 6:3; Gal. 3:27). Never does the Bible say we "believe into Christ" or that we "repent into Christ"; but twice it says we are "baptized into Christ." Baptism is the last in a series of related conditions which bring us to

STAMP NEWS

Issue Will Honor Amelia Earhart

By HAROLD C. PERDUE
 Amelia Earhart will be honored by the issue of an eight cent airmail stamp July 24 at Atchison, Kans., scene of Miss Earhart's birth 65 years ago. Amelia Earhart burst into prominence in 1928 when she became the first woman to fly the Atlantic as a passenger. Four years later she soloed the Atlantic and then went on to set a number of speed and distance records until her last flight in 1937, when she was lost in the Pacific during the final stages of an attempted around-the-world flight.

The stamp shows her in flying togs, standing before her Lockheed Electra. Of special delivery size, the vertical brown and red stamp will be issued in panes of 50. The picture is based on a photograph furnished by the National Air Museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

At the unveiling ceremonies for the design, Postmaster Genral Day commented on the difficulties that beset the Post Office in selecting an appropriate city for the first day of issue. In addition to her birthplace, Boston, New York City, Philadelphia and Miami were closely associated with her career. First day ceremonies could be conducted in any of these cities as well as Los Angeles, where she learned to fly, or in Toronto where she was a nurse's aide during World War I.

Collectors may receive first day cancellations by sending their addressed covers, with remittance, to the Postmaster, Atchison, Kansas. These covers should be mailed before the July 24 issue date.

San Marino has issued a beautiful new set of art treasures. The 20 lire reproduces the painting of the veiled Fornarina, now in the Palazzo Pitti at Florence. The 70 lire features Raphael's self portrait. The 100 lire shows a portrait of the Sistine Madonna. The 200 lire depicts a portrait of Maddalena Strozzi, which is now in the Borghese Gallery in Rome.

Israel has commemorated its 15th Independence Day with a set of three new stamps depicting wild flowers. One value shows the white lily which is mentioned frequently in the Bible, and particularly in the Song of Solomon. Another value features the "Tower of Bells" which have rose pink blossoms. The high value of the set features the tulip which grows wild on the coastal plains of Israel.

The Food and Agriculture Organization's Freedom From Hunger campaign has been commemorated by almost every country in the world. News of nations not previously mentioned here include Argentina with a 4 peso stamp showing a hungry child and bowl of milk; Ceylon with two values, 5 and 25 cents; and Chile with a 3 cent and 20 cent issues. China has issued one 10 yen denomination, and France has a 50 cent issue in green and red. The Netherlands have issued two stamps, a 12 cent and a 30 cent in yellow, red, and blue. Portugal has three, 1, 3, 30, and 350 escudos in varying colors with black and gold as background on all. Each of these uses the symbol of three ears of wheat in some way in the designs.

Issues of a different nature include Great Britain's 2½d with two stylized adults holding a child's hand and the 1-3 with three races of children shown. Belgium has reproduced three great works of art on semi-postals. On the 2 plus 1 fr is "The Sowers" and "The Harvesters" on the 3 plus 1 fr both by Breughel; on the 6 plus 2 fr is "Bread" by Anto Carte. Israel has issued two booklets, with Ezekiel 36:29 printed on the tabs.

Moving Gas Poses Major Complication

By MAX SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—The terrain and weather are quite different but oil firms operating in Alaska and Libya face similar problems. The search for oil has led to discovery of huge gas reserves in both areas. Moving the gas to markets presents complications. Population and other factors minimize local demand. Studies are being made to determine how the gas can be moved to distant markets and sold at competitive prices. Pipelines are being considered but current thinking favors converting the gas to liquid form and shipping it by tankers. The chief executive officer of Standard Oil Co. New Jersey, a major operator in Libya, indicated recently the depth of the Mediterranean Sea may rule out pipelines and leave tanker shipment as the most practical method. World Oil magazine published a report on Alaska oil and gas operations and said full development of the major gas discoveries in the Cook Inlet basin will hinge on liquefaction and export of methane. "This is obviously a long-term, expensive proposition," the magazine said. Jersey Standard hopes to sell

Ask Hearing On Imports Revision

WASHINGTON (AP)—One large segment of the oil industry is demanding a hearing on the revision announced this week in the oil import program. The change amounts to a "chipping away at a firm program finally set up six months ago." Dan Jones, lawyer for the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said in asking a hearing for reconsideration of the action. He said the change adjusting allowable import figures, was made without notice or an opportunity for the industry to offer its views. "Based on the announced estimate," Jones said, "imports for the next six months will be 31,600 barrels a day more than they would have been had they been computed on the prior method which tied the import level to 12.2 per cent of production in the like period in the previous year. "One of the pressing needs of domestic oil producers is assurance that the oil import program is a stable program. Jones took exception to the Interior Department's description of the change as a technical revision, calling it a basic revision which places the program on "estimates" which are subject to error and a source of controversy. Of particular concern, he said, was the announcement of elimination of the present requirement for correction of past mistakes in estimates. He said that if no correction is made for erroneous estimates, then there is no firm relationship between imports and domestic production.

219 WORKING UNITS Basin Rotary Activity Slips Into New Decline

MIDLAND—Following two consecutive weeks in which gains were shown in rotary drilling activity, the Friday count of Reed Roller Bit Company tabulated a slight drop for the Permian Basin. On that survey 219 working units were listed, a decline of six from the 225 counted a week earlier. The total on the latest survey was 18 below the 237 active rotaries credited to the West Texas-Southwest New Mexico area on the comparable Friday last year. The positions of the three most active counties—Lea, New Mexico, and Pecos and Ector—continued unchanged on the Friday report. Lea jumped five—from 54 to 59. Mitchell Has Three Field Tests Staked

Three projects have been staked in Mitchell County, all in established areas. Duncan Drilling Co. of Big Spring will dig No. 2 Etta Brown as a Westbrook field project, set for 3,380 feet five miles southwest of Westbrook. It is 2,173 from north and 1,787 from east lines, section 11-29-1s, T&P survey. Texaco has staked No. 7-B Mitchell Fee in the Iatan-East Howard field about seven miles west of Westbrook. It will test 3,530 feet, 1,980 from north and west lines of section 39-28-1n, T&P survey. Texaco also spotted No. 10-C Mitchell Fee in the Iatan-East Howard pool about seven miles west of Westbrook. It will test bottom at 3,530 feet, 660 from north and 1,650 from west lines, section 9-29-1n, T&P survey.

Humble Tests Crane Prospect

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Auda Voe Kemnitz, Southeast Crane County Devonian prospect, eight miles southwest of Crane, is preparing to perforate and test. The wildcat encountered gas, some free oil and oil and gas, drilled mud in drillstem tests between 5,500 and 5,571 feet. It found water at 5,575-5,600 feet. It drilled to 5,790 feet and set 2 1/2-inch casing at 5,785 feet. That pipe will be perforated opposite the section shown by samples and logs to offer the best prospects for making a well. Located 1 1/2 miles southeast of the Kite (Devonian) pool, the operation is 1,730 feet from north and 2,278 feet from east lines of section 74, block X, GC&SF survey.

Marathon Oil Company No. 1 Indian Basin Unit, Eddy County, N.M., wildcat, 22 miles northwest of Carlsbad, developed gas and salt water in the Bend sand at 9,000-90 feet. A two-hour and 50-minute drillstem test was run on that zone. Gas surfaced in two minutes, mud in 22 minutes and salt water in 30 minutes. During a 30-minute gauge the project produced gas at the daily rate of 102,800 cubic feet and flowed 5.08 barrels of water. Recovery, when the tool was pulled, was 8,500 feet of salt water. The venture is drilling below 9,098 feet in a 10,200-foot Morrow sand contract. It already has shown as a gas-condensate discovery from the Cisco-Canyon and indicated possible production in the Strawn. The Cisco-Canyon pay is between 7,344 and 7,530 feet, while the Strawn shows were encountered at 8,588-8,680 feet. The prospector is 1 1/4 miles northwest of the three-well Indian Basin (Cisco-Canyon and Morrow) gas-distillate field and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 10-21s-23e.

This is the 3rd in a series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of these employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its acres of workers who have contributed their time through so many years toward the success of the Company.

JACK F. ELLIS

Cosden began to make polystyrene in June, 1958. Capacity of the plant has since been expanded and product quality is at its peak now, thanks to team work. Happy to be part of the team is Jack F. Ellis, No. 1 Operator, who has been assigned to polystyrene from the beginning.

When Ellis joined Cosden on January 23, 1948, as a yardman, he was soon a truck driver for maintenance. Moving into operations, he worked at the Dubbs, crude unit No. 1, catcracker, poly plant and styrene unit before the polystyrene project.

Although born in Davis, Oklahoma, he was reared at Norton, Texas. On Thanksgiving Day of 1946, he married Christine Bowen of Ballinger. They have settled on a half acre on the Sterling City Route, where he has room for a vegetable garden as well as for raising chickens and two milk goats. Fishing beckons him occasionally.

There is ample play area for the two Ellis children, Janet Kay, 6, and Jack Jr., 13. A prospective ninth grader at Forsan school, Jack Jr. is presently in the Teenage League as a member of the Optimists Team.

Ellis served briefly on the board of trustees for Elbow school before its consolidation with the Forsan district.

Noodle Creek Project Reports New Potential

A new potential has been reported for C. L. Norsworthy Jr., of Dallas No. 2 M. E. Puryear, 3 1/2-mile west extension to the Rough Draw, North (Noodle Creek) pool in Southeast Kent County, 16 miles south of Jayton. It flowed 229 barrels of 40-gravity oil in 24 hours through a 16-64-inch choke and from perforations at 4,114-25 feet, after treating with 500 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 320:1. Earlier the well had reported a 24-hour pumping production of 77 barrels of oil from perforations at 4,075-78 feet. It is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 361, block 2, H&TC survey.

Morris R. Antwell & Associates of Hobbs, N.M., completed No. 2-D Shannon as the second producer and a one-location north extension for the recently opened Vaughn (Yates) sand pool in Crockett County, 12 miles northwest of Ozona. It pumped 9.86 barrels of 28-gravity oil, plus 95.1 per cent water, from perforations at 1,065-90 feet, after a 10,000-gallon fracture. The location is 990 feet from south and 1,926 feet from east lines of section 2, block UV, GC&SF survey. The pool opener, the same operators No. 1-D Shannon was finished earlier this year from a daily production of 13.83 barrels of 28-gravity oil, pumping on perforations at 1,052-1,154 feet.

Locations for a wildcat and a steepout to production have been staked in North Pecos County. Ray Morris Exploration Company of Odessa No. 1 James (formerly Shearer) is scheduled as a 3,800-foot stratigraphic core test to the Leonard zone of the lower Permian. It is 2,173 feet from southeast and 467 feet from northeast lines of section 103, block 10, H&GN survey and nine miles southeast of Imperial. The location is one-half mile east of the shallow Fromme area. The Atlantic Refining Company No. 1-A-43 Neal is planned as an 11,500-foot outpost to the southwest side of the Coyanosa (Wolf-camp) pool. The drillsite is 5 1/2 miles south of Coyanosa and 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 43, block OW, TTRR survey. Midwest Oil Corporation of Midland No. 1 McCamey is to be drilled as a 3,400-foot Delaware sand wildcat in North Reeves County, three miles northeast of Orla. The location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 16, block 56, T, 2, T&P survey and 1 1/2 miles southwest of the Tunstall Delaware sand area.

Rutter & Wilbanks Brothers of Midland are preparing to complete No. 1-A Maxey as a Yates sand dry gas discovery in Gaines County, six miles southeast of Seminole. Perforations at 3,570-75 and 3,778-83 feet were washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and after swabbing kicked off and flowed at the daily rate of 200,000 cubic feet. Those intervals then were treated with 500 gallons of mud acid and after cleaning up flowed at the maximum rate of 300,000 and minimum rate of 250,000 cubic feet daily. This prospect is a re-entry of the former T. M. Evans No. 1 Maxey, depleted San Andres producer from 5,558-5,613 feet in the San Andres. It is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 82, block G, WTRR survey and three Shaeen & Sons of Abilene drilled to 3,785 feet and set 4 1/2-inch casing at 3,505 feet for a completion attempt through perforations at No. 1 Joseph F. Wilhelm, Manard County Strawn sand prospect. Production was indicated in a drillstem test at 3,410-21 feet, when 2,285 feet of 28-gravity oil and 310 feet of mud-cut oil was recovered in a drillstem test. It is 15 miles northwest of Menard, 2,187 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 6, block C, Fred Speck survey and one mile west of 3,200-foot Canyon production in the Elhelm Lane multipay area. Lee O. White of Fort Stockton is preparing to fracture the Palo Pinto with 10,000 gallons and test that section through perforations 2,270-86 feet in No. 1 J. Estes and P. Etha Adams wildcat re-entry in Sutton County, 30 miles east of Sonora and one location northeast of the depleted Fort Terrett Ranch (Pennsylvanian) pool. The project, originally drilled by E. B. Fletcher of Dallas to 3,988 feet, and abandoned in 1951, is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 66, block A, GWT&P survey. Kem Merren and W. C. Montgomery of Midland will drill No. 1 Skelly as a one-mile east outpost to the Adair (San Andres) pool in North Gaines County, 15 miles south of Brownfield. The location is 660 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 15, block C-31, PSL survey. The operation is contracted to 4,950 feet. T. D. Humphrey Jr. of Dallas No. 1-C W. F. Martin is projected to 5,680 feet as a one-location southwest steepout to the two-well Davan (Strawn sand) pool in South Stonewall County, 12 miles southwest of Aspermont. The drillsite is 467 feet from north and 2,250 feet from west lines of section 2, block U, T&P survey.

Nation Drilling Falls By 27

Rotary drilling in the United States showed another decline during the week ended June 10, dropping by 27 units to 1,532 from the 1,559 recorded the previous week. The tabulation is a weekly count by Hughes Tool Company as reported to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors. A month ago the tally was 1,537 units, only five above the latest. The most recent count is 75 below the 1,607 recorded June 11, 1962. Louisiana showed the largest gain during the week, going from 26 a week before to 283, a gain of 15 rigs. Texas had a decline of 26 rigs to 479. Texas, like the nation, is down significantly from a year ago when there were 553 rigs, 74 more than were recorded June 10.

A breakdown on the Texas drilling showed: South Texas and Gulf Coast inland waters 10, South Texas and Gulf Coast land 142, South Texas and Gulf Coast offshore zone, North Texas 46, Texas Panhandle 35, East Texas 35.

Are So-Called "Bargain" Eyeglasses Really A Bargain?

Have you ever heard this famous quotation: "Quality Is Remembered Long After The Price Is Forgotten"? This is true. Of course, this doesn't mean that real values shouldn't be looked for whenever they truly exist. But, there is a difference in real value and so-called "bargains"...and this is especially true when it comes to eye care and eyewear.

So-called "bargain" eyeglasses may, in fact, not be a bargain at all. Unknown to the purchaser of so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, some important elements could be left out of the lens prescription, or a special type of bifocal or trifocal lens may be omitted, just to cut the cost of making the glasses. These omissions could result in strained eyes, discomfort and improper vision. Also, inferior quality frames might be used which could reduce the wearing comfort as well as the useable life of the glasses.

There is no good reason for risking priceless eyesight and comfort on so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, when real value in professional eye care and eyewear is available at famous

Texas State Optical. For the past 27 years hundreds of thousands of people throughout Texas have learned to rely on TSO for outstanding professional eye care and finest quality eyewear at reasonable cost. At TSO, your eyes are carefully examined by an experienced Doctor of Optometry...both for internal evidence of disease or defect and for visual abnormalities. If glasses are needed, an accurate prescription is formulated and they are prescribed and fitted to meet your exact visual requirements, and to give you the best vision and utmost comfort. If you need single vision glasses, your cost is as low as $14.85, including examination, finest quality lenses and frame; if you require bifocals, your cost is as low as $17.85, complete, with examination, lenses and frame. Convenient credit is available at no extra cost.

The next time you need professional eye care and finest quality eyewear, see the dependable TSO Doctor of Optometry in whom you can place complete confidence and trust for the care of your eyes and your vision.

The Jacksons will go first to Anderson, Ind., arriving June 18 to attend the International Convocation of the Church of God. This will be the beginning of a several thousand-mile trip.

Town Changed A Lot Since Kirby Lived Here

Patrick D. Kirby, 73, spent Friday attempting to pinpoint places and names familiar to him more than half a century ago.

But he admitted, Big Spring had all but gone off and left him since he attended school here in 1907. Mr. Kirby, now of Miami, Fla., had come here to accompany Maj. and Mrs. L. W. Canning back to Miami. The Cannings had been visiting their son, Harold Canning, and family here, and Mr. Kirby, a close friend, came out for the return trip when he learned they were from a town he had known in his youth.

When their father died, Patrick Kirby and his brother, Gerald, came to live with their uncle, Jim Kirby, on a ranch near Grandfalls. There was no high school in the area, and the nearest accredited one was in Big Spring.

"I can't for the life of me remember the name of the people we boarded with," he said. "Seems to me like it might have been Leatherman." From his description, the family must have lived in the 200 block of either Nolan or Goliad Street.

Mr. Kirby got to visit the "big spring," which then flowed spasmodically and was a favorite picnic spot. He had trouble picking out the school site, finally concluded (correctly) it was where the United States Post Office is now located. Streets weren't much help to him, because "we didn't have too many streets as such in those days."

When he was graduated in 1907, he more or less lost touch with Big Spring. Many of the pioneer ranch names in West Texas, particularly the near-Pecos country, are still familiar to him. He enlisted in the Navy in World War I, and because he could write French, was assigned eventually to headquarters in London. He also was privileged to be working at Versailles during the peace treaty negotiations and recalled ruefully how Wilson's 14 points were shredded day by day.

Back in Dallas, he learned the estate of his uncle, who had died in the meantime, had been dissipated by drought and had investments. He took a job with Western Union, went later to California and about a dozen years later to Florida. He would like to return some day and retrace the journey they once made up the Pecos to the Old Butterfield fort site near the Guadalupe Peak and where the ranch had its line camp.

JUNIOR COLLEGE

Almost Certain To End Year Within Budget

Howard County Junior College is almost certain to complete its year well within its budget. Already, the funds received almost equal budget estimates and the summer sessions are still to go. Disbursements projected to cover the remaining two months of the fiscal year are within estimates.

Receipts through May aggregated $486,656 against estimates of $478,003. However, the receipts included $8,898 in revolving funds. Local current tax collections of $243,496 had exceeded estimates for the entire year by $4,049.

Disbursements stacked up like this: Administrative $3,135 in May, $29,658 for the year and $10,062 under budget allotments for the year; general, $953 in May, $12,366 for the year, $4,888 under; instructional administrative, $2,780 for May, $27,418 aggregate and $9,966 under; instructional $19,525 in May, $164,768 aggregate and $54,230 under; activities, none in May, $67-36 aggregate and $173 under; public services, none for year and $597 under; library $2,338 in May, $17,171 for year and $4,663 under; plant maintenance $8,222 in May, $61,631 aggregate and $18,368 under; athletic $1,557 in May, $20,647 aggregate and $615 under; student activities $2,115 in May, $5,322 aggregate, $3,147 under; capital outlay, $1,060 in May, $18,401 aggregate and $9,359 under.

Expenditures from the general fund thus amounted to $41,693 in May, $357,684 aggregate. To this was added $30,229 transferred to other funds and $17,868 advanced to the automotive mechanics course, which is totally reimbursable. During the month $35,163 ($27,000 in bonds and $8,116 in interest) was expended from the interest and sinking fund, leaving a balance of $65,345 in this account. Another $20,000 is due to come out of it before the end of the year.

Two Injured In Car Crash

Franklin D. Machust, 25, Sweetwater, and Ryan Kirk Alworth, 23, 206 W. 7th, were taken to the Howard County Hospital Foundation with injuries received in a one-car accident Saturday morning.

The driver, William E. Stribling Jr., 1401 Sycamore, failed to make the turn at the intersection of the Snyder highway and IS 20 by-pass about 1:45 a.m.

Machust received a broken right ankle and Alworth had head and neck injuries. Neither was reported serious. Stribling was driving a compact car.

Two other accidents, investigated by Big Spring police Friday, with locations and drivers of vehicles involved, were: Eighteenth and Grez, Homer Mack Ward, 2001 Johnson, in a City of Big Spring car, and Milton Don Schlicht, 1704 Yale, at Avant Grocery on Lamesa Highway, Placido Hernandez, Lubbock, and parked car owned by Juan Ramirez, 304 NE 12th.

The Ward-Schlicht collision, report was made for records only as no damage resulted.

Deep In Hurricane Time But No Big Blows As Yet

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

In case you hadn't noticed, Texas is 16 days deep in the hurricane season without even a hint of one of the big blows.

In fact, Texas hasn't had a hurricane in more than a year and a half, and it certainly needed this breather after Hurricane Carla hit in September 1961.

The U.S. Weather Bureau officially calls June through October the hurricane season.

Hurricanes and tropical storms are named after women, spawning some bad jokes as always, and if your name is Ariene, Beulah, Cindy, Debra, Edith, Flora, GINNY, Hannah, Irene, Janice, Kristy, Laura, Margo, Nona, Orchid, Portia, Rachel, Sandra, Teresa, Verna and Wallis, you may hear some more bad jokes directed your way.

For these will be the names of hurricanes this year in the order listed.

The Weather Bureau has four sets of names which will be used in rotation, meaning that in 1967 the same names will come up again probably.

However, you will never see a hurricane named Carla again. The name of a major hurricane is retired. The name replacing Carla on the list is Clara.

Carla swept the Texas coast but the warning system was so good residents had time to flee.

This led to one of the great migrations of history, with coastal residents jamming highways inland bumper to bumper to flee the storm.

They were fleeing high water pushed up by the hurricane rather than the winds, although the wind can result in fatalities like a tornado.

Even then, 34 persons lost their lives by Weather Bureau calculations. Estimates of financial loss ran as high as $500 million. The Red Cross said at least 205,000 persons had their homes destroyed or damaged.

Still, it was not the biggest or worst hurricane in some respects. The greatest natural disaster in American history occurred at Galveston Sept. 8 and 9, 1900. The island was covered by high tides, with a loss of from 6,000 to 8,000 lives—there was no way to count them all.

Brownsville was nearly destroyed in 1880. Indianola suffered destruction twice, in 1875 and 1886.

Small boys with dreams of pirates may disagree, but the only hurricane known to do anybody any good was the one in the fall of 1818 when four of Jean Lafitte's ships sank or ran aground.

The Weather Bureau lists these as Texas' worst hurricanes:

1. September or October 1818, when Lafitte's ships were lost or damaged.
2. Mouth of Rio Grande, 70 died, Aug. 6, 1844.
3. Indianola destroyed, 176 lost, Sept. 16, 1875.
4. Brownsville nearly destroyed Oct. 12-13, 1880.
5. Indianola destroyed second time, Aug. 19-20, 1886.
6. Galveston, the big one, Sept. 8-9, 1900.
7. Half of Velasco destroyed and 41 lives lost, July 21, 1909.
8. Tides 12 feet tall inundate

Galveston, 275 deaths, Aug. 16-17, 1915.

9. Corpus Christi, 20 dead, Aug. 18, 1916.

10. Near Corpus Christi, 284 died, Sept. 14, 1919.

11. Near Brownsville, 40 lives lost, Sept. 4-5, 1933.

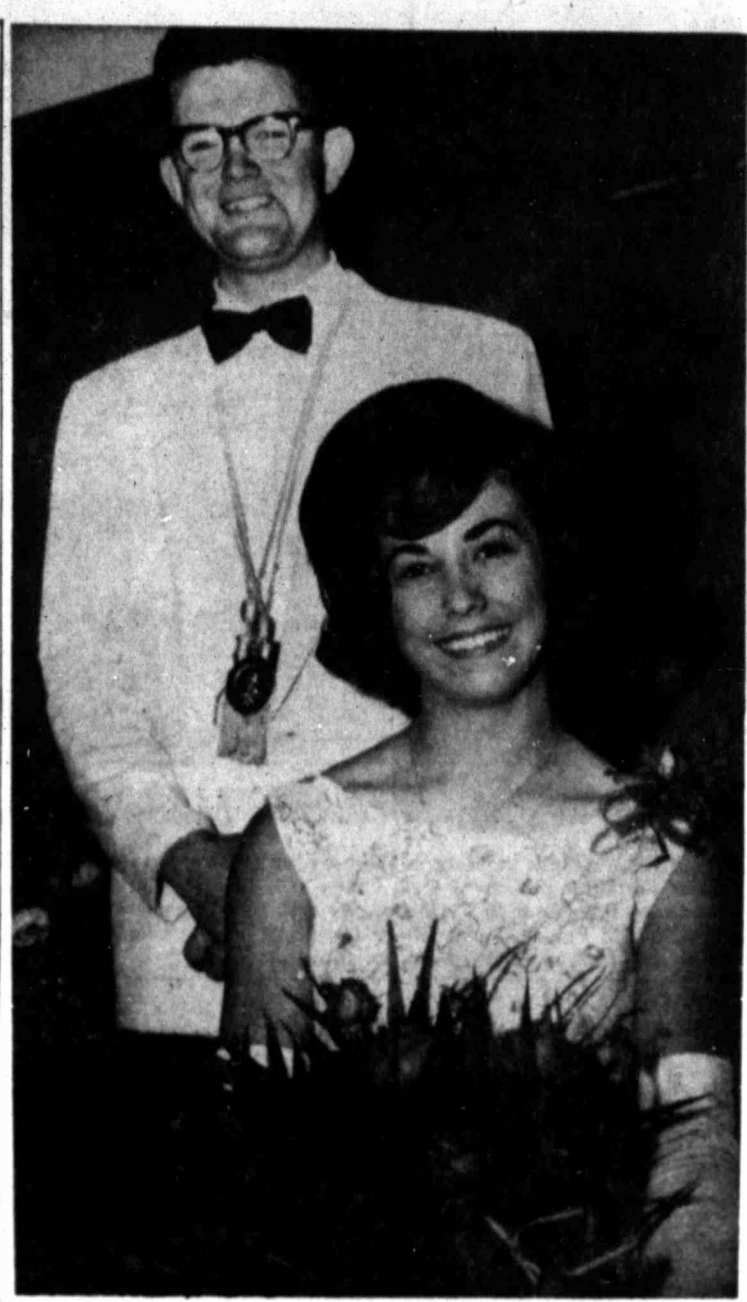

12. Winds up to 150 m.p.h. hit Matagorda Bay with tides 14.7 feet, eight lives lost, Aug. 30, 1942.

13. Near Galveston, 19 lives lost, July 27, 1943.

14. Port O'Connor, winds of 135 m.p.h., three persons killed, Aug. 26-27, 1945.

15. Winds of 135 m.p.h. at Freeport, high tide 11.4 feet above normal on Houston ship channel, two lives lost, Oct. 3-4, 1949.

16. Carla, Winds of 175 m.p.h., tides 18.5 feet, 34 lives lost, Sept. 8-14, 1961.

DeMolays Pick Odessa Girl As Sweetheart

Judie Brown, Odessa, was named West Texas Area Sweetheart for the Permian Basin District, Order of DeMolay, Saturday night during the annual dance at Cosden Country Club, climaxing the district convocation of G. M. Roe, Odessa, as her escort.

Thirteen of the 18 West Texas chapters brought 275 persons to the weekend convocation in Big Spring. Regular DeMolay programs were reviewed and the work outlined during the sessions at Howard County Junior College.

Winds Rip Ackerly Area

Heavy winds and rain, accompanied by what one resident described as a tornado, ripped through the farmland west of Ackerly about 4 p.m. Saturday, causing severe damage to one house and destroying a seed house on another farm. Several electric company poles were blown down.

The roof was torn from the George Burns house, about three miles west of Ackerly, causing damage estimated at $6,000. Mr. and Mrs. Burns were in Temple Saturday where he is getting a checkup at Scott and White Hospital. The house was completed only three months ago.

FAA Flying Tests Will Be Offered Here

All interested residents are invited to take various FAA flying tests here June 26, according to S. Sgt. David Thomas, who has arranged to have an examiner at Webb AFB.

Persons interested in taking any FAA test should contact Thomas by Wednesday, so he can advise the examiner on which tests to bring. Exams will begin at 8 a.m. in the Academic Building at Webb.

Mrs. Jackson Dies Saturday

JUNIOR MISS BIG SPRING
Joanna Patterson admires trophy

Beauty Pageant

most from this pageant, what would you say?

Miss Morris' answer: "It would be a lesson my mother told me over the years—that a quitter never wins and a winner never quits."

Answers of the other finalists were witty and reflected intelligence, and their talent demonstrations left a high hurdle for the winner to cross.

Miss Kee was cute and confident as she presented a Broadway-style show of three talents—piano, voice and organ.

Dana Tesson was expert and fast with her twirling routine.

Dorinda Medford did well with her piano presentation of "Star-dust."

Sandra Baker was incisive, hard-hitting and controversial in the reading of a paper she had written for this occasion. It was a well presented scorching and satirical protest against America's retreat from reality.

Miss Compton had a soothing voice, the kind one can relax and dream on, in her rendition of Gershwin favorites.

Ilameta Carr, one of the finest actresses this city has produced, was a real treat in her scene from George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan."

The fast pace of the pageant helped somewhat to relieve an audience sweltering under a heat and humidity unusual for West Texas.

Also helping to pass the time between acts, while judges were totaling points, and simultaneously making a big hit with the audience was the reigning Miss Texas who made an impromptu talk on what the pageant meant to her.

One of the points Miss Rudd made was in the difference between a beautiful girl and a pretty girl—the former being one with a radiance and sparkle from within, and that pageants such as this have helped hundreds of girls to come out of their shells into proper ladyhood.

In this sense Miss Rudd said, "each of these girls is a winner."

Women teachers from eight states are enrolled in the current mathematics institute at the Texas Women's University in Denton.

Purpose of the institute, which is sponsored by the National Science Foundation, is to assist teachers in improving their professional competence. Dr. H. C. Miller, director, said.

Included is Mrs. Lynn Calvert, 405 Hillside, Big Spring, mathematics teacher at Goliad Junior High School. Mrs. Calvert is secretary of the Big Spring Classroom Teachers Association and a sponsor of the student council. She holds the bachelor of arts degree from Austin College.

Julia Fallon, 10 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Fallon, 1402 Wood, was resting well Saturday in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock where she was under treatment for a head injury.

Julia, riding in company with four companions west of town Thursday, was thrown from her horse and knocked unconscious. She was flown that evening in a Cossden plane to Lubbock to a brain specialist. Reports indicated a skull fracture and severe concussion, but Saturday she had regained consciousness and was resting well.

Robert Owens, Victoria, visited Saturday with members of the Howard County Commissioners Court. Owens, an engineer, had been invited to meet with the court relative to the vacancy in the county road engineer's post. Two others have conferred with the court in recent weeks.

STANTON (S.C.)—The Courtney High School graduating classes of 1946-47-48 held a class reunion at the City Park here Saturday. Eldon Welch was the secretary of ground on its $450,000 general hospital building, an urgently needed unit and possibly the last major structure due there for quite some time. During the week a $32,000 warehouse and three $20,000 staff residences were blue pencilled out of the appropriations bill by the governor.

Our city had the honor to be host Saturday to the West Texas area convales of the DeMolay order. Around 300 fine young men came here for the affair, the first held here in a long, long time.

The Aggies, recovered from the recent traumatic shock of seeing co-ed admitted to A&M, staged another of their successful scholarship banquets. Jack Roder Jr. was picked for the scholarship, which has been the means of helping many young men to tackle their higher education. Everyone kids, the Ags, then admires them for their get-up-and-go.

Encouraged by the response that three previous projects under the continuous paving program, the city last week gave the green light to a fourth section. This is all signed up, another 34 blocks will be added to the system of paved streets.

A couple of veterans on the police force moved up a notch last week. Stanley Bogard was elevated to captain, succeeding Walter Eubanks who became chief at Sweetwater. Bob Husson stepped up to sergeant.

Northwestern Sterling County appeared to have another Wolf camp strike. Shannon & Sons No. 1 Sellers found 35 barrels of oil in one hour from the Wolfcamp (6,870-90). This venture is about 20 miles northwest of Sterling City and 1 1/2 miles south of the Triple M Wolfcamp. Field located last year by Cosden.

The first Big Spring Open Golf Tournament last weekend proved a really successful affair, it also proved to be a Big Spring affair in part for Frank Powell of this city, teamed with Jack Montgomery, Fort Worth to blister the course and take home first honors.

The Citywide Recreation Program got under way with unusual response, something in excess of 500. Actually, youngsters of school age can still register, and perhaps many more will now that several Vacation Bible Schools are heading down the home stretch.

Nathan Allen Jr., who with his family visited his mother, Mrs. N. J. Allen, last week, presided over a livelier meeting than had been planned recently by the Murray Young County Improvement Association, which he heads. Murray had sent a statewide contest sponsored by private electric companies and Texas A&M. Just as Allen called the meeting to order in the Murray Community Center, Assistant County Agent Carl Barnhill, lifted his chair. Underneath was a coiled rattlesnake. Instantly, the center, particularly the stage, was almost cleared. The snake was dispatched to the happy hunting grounds, and Allen received the $100 check, somewhat shakily, from S. B. Harbison, Texas Electric service manager at Graham.

The conclave to elect a new Pope opens in the Sistine Chapel Wednesday.

In the last months of his life, Pope John tried to build bridges of understanding with the Communist East.

The progressives in the 82-member College of Cardinals want to follow Pope John's lead without loss of momentum. The traditionalists are said to prefer a pause to make sure no traps have been set for the church.

The informants said that all the cardinals seek the same goals but differ in their assessments of the way world diplomacy is moving.

The clouds have lifted somewhat in the past 10 years, particularly in Poland where 20 million Catholics make up the church's largest community in the Communist world.

Informants said the cardinals showed great interest in the views on the church's future which Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, primate of Poland, brought with him to Rome.

Rites Monday For Retired AF Officer

Funeral for Maj. Roy H. Black, U.S. Air Force retired, who died Thursday night, will be held at 5 p.m. Monday at Nalley-Pickle Chapel. Chaplain Neil F. Wolfe, Webb AFB, will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

A 21-year veteran of the Air Force, Maj. Black retired April 30, 1963. He was attached to Headquarters Squadron 92nd Strategic Aerospace Wing, Fairchild AFB, Washington, as radar navigator.

He was a member of the Harrisburg, Pa., Baptist Church, and a member of the Spokane, Wash. Masonic Lodge No. 34.

The major was a member of the first class completing training at the Big Spring Bombardier School and was a bombardier during World War II. He met the former Marieb Menger here and they were later married. He was born Jan. 8, 1922, in Phillipsburg, Pa.

Survivors include the widow, a son, Roy H. Black Jr., and a daughter, Deborah Black, all of Big Spring; his mother, Mrs. Joseph A. Black, and one brother, Lex I. Black, both of Harrisburg, Pa.; four sisters, Mrs. James M. Connell, Butler, Pa. and Mrs. Fred Arnold, R. W. Wine and Mrs. Paul D. Hart, all of Harrisburg.

Palbearers will be Malcolm Patterson, Morris Patterson, Dr. Howard Schwarzenbach, Clyde Angel, Walton Morrison, and Joe Pickle.

IRON CURTAIN FREEDOM

Future of Red Policy Big Factor In Pontiff Election

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In electing a new Pope, the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church will consider the future of Vatican policy toward communism and how to win more freedom for the church behind the Iron Curtain, informed sources reported Saturday.

Sixty million Roman Catholics live under Communist rule. Thus the cardinals will keep them in mind when they decide whether to choose a man in the progressive order of Pope John XXIII or to select a traditionalist to lay heavy emphasis on the church's opposition to communism, the informants said.

The conclave to elect a new Pope opens in the Sistine Chapel Wednesday.

In the last months of his life, Pope John tried to build bridges

of understanding with the Communist East.

Cardinals Go Inside Sealed Chapel Soon To Name Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church seals its cardinals inside the Sistine Chapel next Wednesday in the biggest conclave of all time.

They will stay locked up until they have elected the successor to Pope John XXIII.

No one expects them to spend three years at the job, as once happened.

Nor is it likely they will equal the one-day record conclave of 1929, when Pope Pius XII was chosen.

The cardinals almost certainly will need several ballots and several days to find Catholicism's 262nd supreme pontiff. Filling Peter's chair after the beloved Pope John will be difficult.

Almost 82 cardinals will swear aloud, each time they cast a ballot, that they are voting for the man they think "according to God would be elected."

The new Pope, seventh in the 20th Century, will be chosen in the 15-Century Sistine Chapel made famous by the brushes of Michelangelo, Raphael, and Botticelli. Pope John voiced his most stirring appeals for world peace under the Sistine's vaulted ceiling frescoes of man's creation and fall by Michelangelo, paintings darkened by 450 years of candle smoke and incense.

The cardinals can choose any male Catholic, even a layman. Benedict IX was 12 years old when elected in 1032. But almost certainly Pope John's successor will be a cardinal. He also will be Italian, in all likelihood.

Twenty-nine of the princes of the church come from Italy. The other 53 are from 30 countries. Tradition and the numerical superiority of the Italians leaves little chance for any cardinal born elsewhere.

But the time has never been more ripe for the first non-Italian member who lives a modest and almost ascetic life; Giacomo Lerario, 71, archbishop of Bologna; and Francesco Roberti, 73-year-old member of the curia.

Mentioned more and more among non-Italians is Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, the 57-year-old archbishop of Vienna was Pope John's trouble-shooter in dealings with Iron Curtain countries on possible church-state agreements.

Another is Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, 67, who shared Pope John's enthusiasm for seeking Christian unity. The Armenian-born prelate is head of the Vatican missionary-directing agency and an expert on Russian affairs.

Cardinals Koenig, Montini and Urbani are considered progressives. Cardinals Agagianian and Confolonieri have been described as moderates. Cardinal Lerario as a moderate-progressive, and Cardinal Roberti as a neutral.

School Trustees May Alter System

By JOE BEYER

Trustees for the Big Spring Independent School District are currently fighting their own peculiar "battle of the bulge."

In this case, it is the problem of coping with a burgeoning school population, and at the same time, not being able to vote a bond issue to finance expansion.

One possible solution now being studied is a changeover to a four-year high school. At the two past trustee meetings, the advantages of the several forms of school system organization have been discussed with more discussion slated in the future.

TWO ARRANGEMENTS

There are proponents for the setup under which the school is now established—six elementary grades, three in junior high and three in high school. Others favor a six-two-four arrangement.

The traditional method of organizing the nation's schools has been in the form of eight elementary grades and four secondary grades, each housed in a separate school building. Superintendent Sam M. Anderson, told trustees at the last meeting, "However, during the 1920's the six-three-three system gained ground and has been accepted in most cities of large size."

One of the main reasons for returning to a four-year high school is economy.

"That is the only difference that I can see," Sebron B. Williams, assistant superintendent, said. "I do not believe the results of one organization are better than another, even though I favor the six-three-three arrangement because I have been associated with it more during my teaching experience."

SEPARATE

The concept of a separate junior high school has found acceptance in many states, especially the more urbanized areas. However, there are differences in organization. There are proponents for both the three-year junior high and the two-year junior high.

The organization which has six elementary grades, three junior high and three senior high grades is based on theories of child growth and development which hold that various degrees of readiness to learn specific concepts and skills takes place at varying rates. Proponents claim that the three-year junior high school provides the better educational program. Opponents believe that the plan entails too much expense and that students are subjected to the high school academic and social program too early.

Opponents of the six-three-three year system who favor the junior high school usually join the ranks of backers for the six-two-four year organization. The philosophy behind this system is that ninth grade should be a part of high school, which it is with respect to graduation credit and courses required for graduation.

OFFERED TWICE

The six-three-three organization requires that virtually all courses taught in the ninth grade be offered again in high school as trailer courses for students who may have failed to pass them previously or otherwise missed them. Also, it requires that laboratories and other facilities which are not required for elementary schools be provided at both senior and junior high.

One of the purposes of the junior high school—to separate the students from older pupils who have more adult social patterns—has become meaningless in most schools today, critics of the school say. Junior high school students have most of the activities of high schools, such as proms, dances, annuals, etc.

However, there has been a trend recently to curtail such activities, leaving new experiences for the student to take part in at the high school level. An example is the recent attempt to "slow down the rapid social development of children" by the Pasadena School Board in Houston by ordering an end to many social and athletic activities in intermediate schools.

RECOMMENDS

Although he would normally favor the six-three-three arrangement, Anderson said that at this time he must recommend the six-two-four system because of financial problems.

With the shortage of funds for building, economy may play a great part in the final decision. Some of the ways in which economies could be brought about were pointed out in April, 1961 by former superintendent Floyd W. Parsons. They still hold true.

According to Parsons, the four-year high school would eliminate duplication of courses at both high school and junior high by cutting down on the number of trailer courses which must be offered in high school. It would permit better coordination at secondary levels and cut personnel requirements slightly.

At the same time, the four-year high school would probably improve the athletic and music programs and eliminate the problem of basis for eligibility to enroll in high school, he said.

MORE FACILITIES

To make the changeover, additional facilities would have to be built at the high school, which last year faced a peak enrollment of more than 1,200 pupils. This would solve the population problems at junior high schools for at least a few years. On the other hand, the argument can be made that this would only be delaying the problem and in a few years more facilities will have to be added at either or both locations.

To remain under the present organization means that more facilities must be made available at high school and both junior highs. Once the decision is made about the form the school will take, the method to relieve crowding has resolved itself.

Positive Steps In Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—While racial troubles continued in the spotlight, the Justice Department reported Saturday that in 143 cities "some positive, visible steps" in voluntary removal of racial barriers has been taken since May 22.

The cities, all of 10,000 or more population, are in the 11 former Confederate states plus Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Oklahoma.

The department identified none of the cities in which action has been taken.

The department has been checking closely on the progress of desegregation since Atty Gen Robert F. Kennedy and other Justice Department officials began a series of conferences May 22.

Sessions have been held with representatives of hotels, restaurants, theaters and retail stores to persuade them to act voluntarily and promptly in striking down racial discrimination.

In releasing figures on a background basis—meaning the information was not to be attributed directly to any one individual—one department official said:

"It is extremely encouraging. It shows that the South is not monolithic. Many Southerners who are just as dedicated to the traditions of the South as others recognize that these changes have to be made."

A department spokesman cautioned newsmen against treating the figures with undue optimism. "The tough ones are tough," he explained.

The department has been keeping close tabs on 244 cities in Southern and Border states.

These cities are divided in three categories. The first includes 169 cities which the department feels can be desegregated without difficulty.

The second includes 40 cities where the department feels desegregation can be accomplished, but in which it thinks business groups must act together, rather than individually.

The third category includes 35 cities—"like Jackson," one official said, obviously referring to Jackson, Miss. These cities, a spokesman said, either have an adamant mayor or a strong segregationist organization such as a Citizens Council unit.

The department's figures show the following steps in desegregation since May 22:

Lunch counters—61 cities; theaters—41 cities; hotels—22 cities; and restaurants—67 cities. The department feels that desegregation steps are imminent in theaters in 26 cities, hotels in three cities, and restaurants in eight cities.

The department regards as "some positive, visible step" in desegregation the elimination of any racial bar. It could mean a single lunch counter or the employment of one Negro girl as a sales clerk in a retail store.

In addition to the 143 cities where some desegregation has been brought about, the department's reports lead officials to believe that some kind of agreement looking toward desegregation later has been reached in 27 Southern and Border cities.

Not included in the reports are desegregation steps taken prior to May 22. In some of the 143 cities listed as having taken desegregation steps since then there have been prior removal of some racial barriers.

Theimer is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, and a native of Oklahoma City where he was graduated from high school. Mr. and Mrs. Theimer and four sons have moved to 1517 Tucson. They are on the last week of his vacation and he will begin work here Monday.

Service Paper Has Red Face

WASHINGTON (AP)—Somebody apparently forgot to brief editors of a service newspaper on the official line that American soldiers are advising and supporting South Viet Nam's anti-Communist forces—not fighting.

It's been rectified, but not before a warlike front-page photograph published in the Army-supervised Pacific Stars and Stripes caused considerable distress at command level.

Under the heading "Pouncing on a Viet Red," the photograph in the May 26 edition showed a helmeted American helicopter crewman pointing a rifle against a half-naked Communist captive while frisking the frightened-looking man, identified in the caption as a Viet Cong soldier.

The caption did not mention any participation in the raid by South Vietnamese troops, although the job of U.S. helicopter outfits there is to carry native soldiers on strikes against the Reds.

The Pacific Stars and Stripes—whose masthead describes it as "an authorized publication of the U.S. Armed Forces in the Far East"—is published in Tokyo and distributed to American service people throughout Asia.

The May 26 issue was seen by U.S. authorities in Viet Nam, and they reportedly reacted.

Asked what steps had been taken, the Army said: "The Pacific Stars and Stripes has been notified that such pictures do not portray the U.S. Army in its true role in Viet Nam and are detrimental to the accomplishment of our mission there."

The Army said it is "not aware of any reprimand to the Stars and Stripes organizations, or any member thereof, for the use of the picture."

Steelworkers Are Expected To Announce Wage Policy

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers union's long silence ends this week. Meetings of the union's Executive Board and Wage Policy Committee are expected to shed some light on what improvements the USW is seeking in its contracts with basic steel. The union can reopen negotiations on current contracts at any time.

The board meets Monday, the Wage Policy Committee on Tuesday.

For weeks now, the joint union-management Human Relations Committee has been meeting off and on. No union or company official would say what issues were discussed or if any progress was made.

So, on the surface, the gathering of the union's chief officers could be a beginning or an ending.

It's possible the efforts of the Human Relations Committee bore fruit. On the other hand, there's a possibility the talks got nowhere. Thus, the USW may have summoned its lieutenants to muster psychological pressure.

Speculation hits many possibilities. Some say new contracts are in the bag. Others say neither side has bent. Another view is that substantial agreement has been reached, leaving only the finishing touches.

Freeman Proposes Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman last week envisioned an eventual expansion of the experimental food stamp plan to cover about 12 million as many needy persons as now participate in it.

The annual cost of the program, he said, would increase from about $50 million now to about $360 million.

The experimental food stamp plan proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has not reached Howard County, according to Mrs. Delaine Crawford, County Home Demonstration agent.

Mrs. Ruby Philips, director of the County Welfare Association, said she had received no information about it. The association distributes surplus foods to local needy persons, a program which would probably be eliminated with the new plan.

Freeman made the comments in testimony prepared for a House Agriculture Committee hearing on a bill to give the plan permanent legislative status.

At the present time, it is being operated on a pilot basis with 327,752 persons in 42 areas in 21 states participating.

Under the plan, needy persons buy government food stamps with the usual amount of money they spend for food. They get additional stamps free of charge. Freeman said that participants now pay about $6.10 for stamps worth $10. The stamps are used to buy domestically produced foods at stores. The government redeems the stamps through banks.

We estimate that, with a continuation of current economic conditions, a stamp program could be expanded over a period of years to about four million needy persons, Freeman said.

This would amount annually to a cost of about $360 million. However, since this program would be replacing the current direct distribution program for needy families, we estimate that about two-thirds of this amount would be offset through curtailment of this latter program.

Under the direct distribution program, the department donates surplus foods to state and local welfare agencies for distribution among the needy. More than six million persons are receiving these donations.

Freeman said the stamp plan would have the advantage of eliminating the dual food distribution set-up existing under the direct distribution plan. That is, distribution would be centered completely through commercial food outlets, eliminating welfare setups.

Palmer Leacing By Two Strokes

By WILL GRIMSLEY
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—Comebacker Arnold Palmer shot into a two-stroke lead over surprising Bobby Nichols with a 68 for 205 after 54 holes Saturday, and dove bogies killed the hopes of sore-necked Jack Nicklaus and South Africa's Gary Player in the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic.

Nichols, 27-year-old Louisville pro who shared the halfway lead with Palmer, rescued his sagging game on the final holes for a 70 for 207. He missed a 7-foot putt for an eagle on the final hole.

Nicklaus, his aching neck protected from the cold wind and occasional rain by towels and a heavy sweater, took a double bogie six on the 15th hole after wrestling with a tent and finished with a 71 for 212.

Player, the other member of the Big Three, saw his game fall in tatters. He took consecutive double bogies on the 11th and 12th holes, three-putted three greens and wound up with a 74 for 213. One stroke back of Nichols at 208 was Paul Harney, slender, graying New England professional who shot a third round 66.

Tied at 209 were Canada's Al Balding and cigar-chomping Joe Campbell, who had 70s.

Going into Sunday's climactic round, with a $25,000 first prize at stake, four players were bracketed at 210. They were Bill Collins, with 68; Dow Finsterwald, 71; Gardner Dickinson, 71, and Art Wall Jr., 72.

Billy Farrell, 27-year-old son of a famous golfing father, fired the tournament's hottest round, a 5-under par 65—and went into a tie at 211 with former Open champion Gene Littler, ex-PGA king Jay Hebert and Jacky Cupit.

Ben Hogan had a 73 and was well back at 215.

Palmer, who quit the tour a month ago to brace his slumping game, showed overpowering form which won him the 1960 U.S. Open, two British Opens and three Masters championships in a career that rocketed him to the pinnacle of all golf.

He brought the 6,550-yard par 70 Westchester Country Club course to its knees with booming drives and almost flawless iron play. A little more obedient putter would have given him a fabulous round, in the low 60s. He missed a half dozen putts of makeable size.

Nicklaus, the reigning U. S. Open and Masters champion, continued the tournament despite an attack of muscle spasms in the neck which struck him Friday.

Two doctors, Dr. R. B. Hadley and Dr. James Sudbury, were always at his elbow and the roly-poly Columbus, Ohio, youth gulped nerve-relaxing pills during the round.

Meet On The Air

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—The final round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m., CST.

Clay-Cooper Go May Play To 55,000

LONDON (AP)—American heavyweight Cassius Clay and British champion Henry Cooper meet in a 10-rounder at London's open air Wembley Stadium Tuesday—and it looks as though the 21-year-old Louisville loudmouth already has talked himself into a record.

Promoter Jack Solomons confidently predicted that the fight would be a 55,000 sell-out.

Such a crowd would be a record for British boxing. The previous best was the 54,000 at the world light heavyweight championship fight between American Gus Lashkevich and British Freddie Mills at London's White City Stadium July 26, 1948. If the fight is rained out, it will go on Wednesday or Thursday.

The 21-year-old Clay, who talks as fast as he moves about the ring, arrived in this country May 27 with five fingers extended, an indication that he would dispose of Cooper in five rounds.

The Louisville fighter has a reputation for predicting the round in which his opponents will fall. Since then he's produced a million words like "I'm too quick for Cooper. . . He's a tramp, a no-good, a bum." On another occasion he said: "I'll annihilate Cooper. I'll ruin him. It's too bad."

Cooper has restricted himself to training quietly with the remark: "Let Clay keep on talking. He'll be breathless by the time he gets into the ring."

But Clay's big talk—talk that earned him titles like the "Louisville Lip" and "Gaseous Cassius"—has earned columns and columns of publicity and plenty of space on television.

Result: Both fans are divided about it all—some love him as a great showman, others claim he's just a big show-off and should button his lip.

HOUSTON IS VICTIM

Juan Marichal Authors No-Hitter For Giants

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants pitched the third no-hitter of the major league season Saturday as the Giants edged Houston 1-0 after a bitter struggle with Dick Drott. It was the first no-hitter for the Giants in 34 years.

Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers threw a no-hitter at the Giants May 11 when Marichal was on the losing end 8-0, and Don Nottebart of the Houston Colts set down the Phillies with no hits in a 4-2 victory May 17.

DAVENPORT MARICHAL

The Giants were held to one hit, a single by Willie Mays with two out in the first, until they finally broke through for a run in the eighth. Jim Davenport led off with a double to left. After Matty Alou was called out on strikes and Marichal flied out, Chuck Hiller came through with a double to the right field corner, scoring Davenport with the big run.

The last previous no-hitter by a Giant was thrown by Carl Hubbell May 8, 1929 against Pittsburgh.

Marichal, a 25-year-old right-hander from the Dominican Republic, had pitched two one-hitters previously.

Marichal and Drott duelled on virtually even terms through seven innings.

The San Francisco hurler issued two walks, the first to Al Spangler in the fifth after retiring 14 straight batters, and then got Bob Lillis to ground into a force play. Bob Aspromonte walked with one out in the seventh but the next two Houston batters flied out.

Mays singled to short in the first and died there as Willie McCovey fanned to end the inning.

Marichal faced only 29 batters. He finished with a flourish, striking pinch hitter Pete Runnels and Brock Davis to end the game as his teammates mobbed him and the crowd roared.

Three Boys Sign To Attend HCJC

Coach I. L. (Red) Lewis of Howard County Junior College expressed himself Saturday as being extremely well pleased with the calibre of track and field athletes he has signed to date.

Among the latest to line up under the Jayhawk banner are Johnny Haire of Southland High, located near Lubbock, a sprinter; Tom Carter, McCamery, and Jimmy Langdon, Fort Worth.

Haire is a sprinter who won blue ribbons in both the 100 and 220 in meets at Sundown and Leveland, as well as in the district and regional meets the past season.

Haire has been clocked in ten seconds flat in the 100 and 21.7 in the 220. He placed fourth in both events in the State meet.

Carter, a hurdler, also plays basketball and has been named to play for the South in the All-Star game in August.

Carter set a new high hurdles record in the Carlsbad (N.M.) Relays, covering the distance in 15.1

seconds. He beat that by 3 of a second in the Wildcat Relays, however, for another new mark. He set still another record (15.1) in the Clovis Relays and tied a school record in the district meet, when clocked in 14.6. He was second in that event.

He cut still another 1 second off that in the state meet. Wind-aided, his best times in the hurdles are 14.2 and 19.4.

Over the season, he won first places in the low hurdles in the Carlsbad Relays, El Paso Invitational, Wildcat Relays and Clovis Relays and blue ribbons in the low hurdles at El Paso, Wildcat Relays, Clovis and Hobbs.

In basketball, he was all-tournament at Hobbs, was an all-district tournament and was honorable mention in the state tournament.

Langdon, who wasn't active last season because he changed schools, ran a 9.9 hundred as a sophomore.

Lewis said he had only about two more scholarships to give.

After a Friday night defeat to the Devils the VFW nine bounced back against the same team Saturday afternoon with a 3-0 shutout on the strength of Daniel Wooden's two-hit pitching in the National Little League.

Wooden's bid for a no-hitter was spoiled on a fourth inning single by David Talbot and a sixth inning bingy by Charles West. He posted three strikeouts.

Ailing Nicklaus Seeks 2nd Open Links Crown

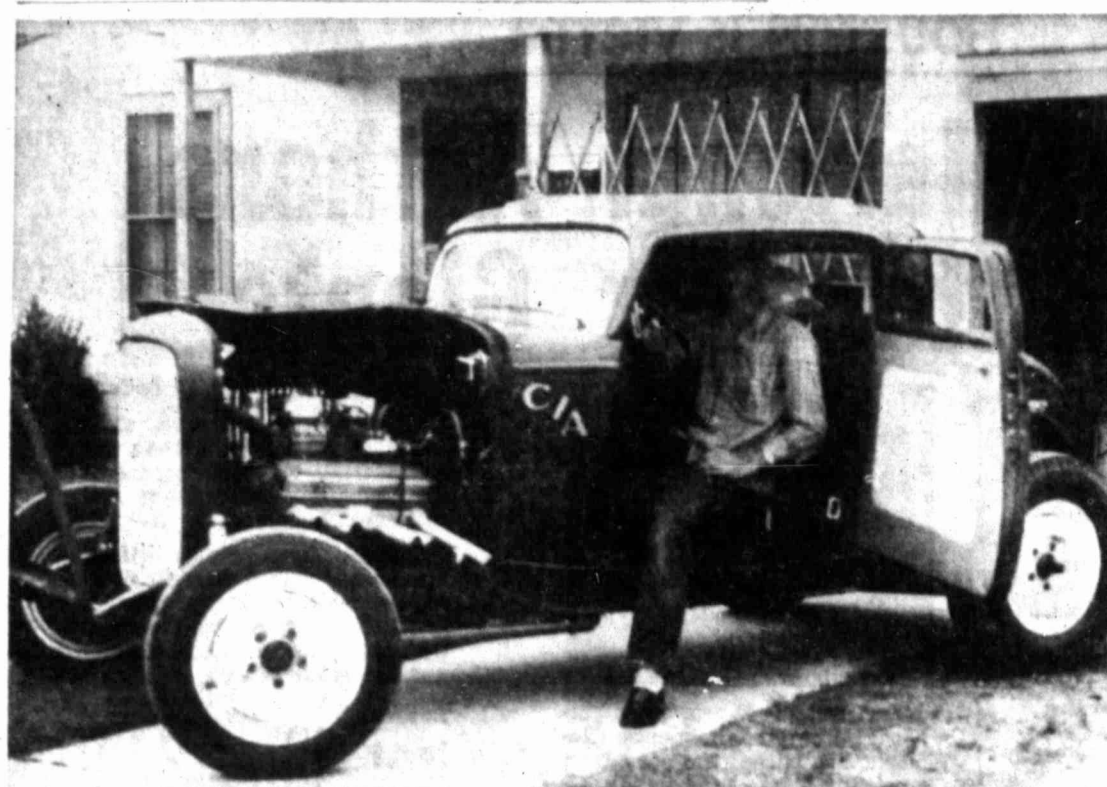

By ED TUNSTALL
BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Many years ago, a Boston strong-boy named John L. Sullivan boasted he could lick any man in the world. Come Thursday in a setting different though not far removed, an Ohio muscle man named Jack Nicklaus pits his talents against the world's best golfers at the U.S. Open Championship.

Nicklaus won't rupture the eardrums as did Sullivan three-quarters of a century ago when he was heavyweight champion. But the 23-year-old Nicklaus, confidently shares the opinion of many in golf world who believe he will repeat as the open champion.

The stage for the combat is the Country Club in Brookline, where exactly 50 years ago Francis Ouimet ended British domination of the game. It won't be easy, what with the course a trying 6,900 yards of deceptive fairways, treacherous rough and tiny greens.

And not only must Nicklaus and his rivals battle what nature and golf architects have designed, they must also be ready to face the most demanding of schedules—18-hole rounds on Thursday and Friday and the tortuous 36-hole finals on Saturday.

No one in the impressive field can be discounted, particularly with Arnold Palmer and Gary Player among those present. Palmer, who lost to Nicklaus in a playoff for the Open crown last year, hopes to be at the peak of his game, a peak he shared alone before the arrival of young

Drag Enthusiast Is Dedicated Person

By PAT WASHBURN
Maybe you're a 16-year-old hot rod fan and with an all chrome machine and red striping or maybe you're a 50-year-old grandma with a Model T and a back seat driver's license, but you don't know what speed really is.

And if you ever met him on the sidewalk you'd probably never take a second look because he's just typically all-American and with his 3.8" frame he doesn't stand out in a crowd unless he's on a soapbox.

But some Saturday or Sunday if you're in Hobbs, San Angelo, Amarillo, or Denver and you hear the roar of mighty motors and smell some burning rubber, you might remember his face if you saw it.

and money on it. And if a boy is going to race seriously he's not going to go out and run his car up and down the city streets and tear it up. Pat said last Tuesday while pointing out a beat-up Ford coupe that won 11 of 12 races last year.

Not many people have gone this far and stayed on the ground but Pat Porter has come pretty close. He's a short 25-year-old with a quick smile, sandy colored hair that waves in the breeze and Irish brown eyes that twinkle like stars.

Before every race Pat begins by donning a flame proof suit to which he adds a pair of ordinary leather driving gloves, some thick eye protective goggles, and a $30 foam rubber padded crash helmet.

And if you ever met him on the sidewalk you'd probably never take a second look because he's just typically all-American and with his 3.8" frame he doesn't stand out in a crowd unless he's on a soapbox.

Pat said. "If you've ever been left standing at a stoplight in a cloud of dust you know what he means. But these teenagers are hardly moving compared to some of the big dragsters that Pat's seen."

But some Saturday or Sunday if you're in Hobbs, San Angelo, Amarillo, or Denver and you hear the roar of mighty motors and smell some burning rubber, you might remember his face if you saw it.

He waited for this to sink in and then went on. "It takes approximately two gallons of fuel every time he makes a run and that nitro-methane costs $50 a gallon. They estimate that that car puts out a 1000 horsepower."

So in an old grease-coated garage with a few dim lights, Pat works far into the night on his cars and engines that will run in only 10 or 12 meets in the next year and that probably won't roll more than 40 to 50 miles under their own power since they'll be taxed to all the races.

He waited for this to sink in and then went on. "It takes approximately two gallons of fuel every time he makes a run and that nitro-methane costs $50 a gallon. They estimate that that car puts out a 1000 horsepower."

U. S. Should Field Great Olympic Team

There are bound to be little flareups, since enmity between the two principals is quite deep, but there is every indication that the United States will have its top Olympic team next year.

331st Victory Skin Endures In Loop Here

Standings: W. E. 4, 1. Texas Electric 3, 2. Pioneer Natural Gas 2, 3. Pioneer Natural Gas 2, 4. Parkway Food 1, 5.

American Softball League action was heavy Friday night as three games were played. Hester's took a 9-7 decision from Skateland.

Bob Riceman pitched all five innings for Hester's and got the win, although he gave up five hits and seven runs. He struck out seven and walked two. L. Heinze was charged with the loss.

Billy Rogers collected three hits in three times at bat for a perfect day at the plate.

In Forsan's win, James Blake was credited with the win as his teammates backed him up with a 10 hit attack. Frank Long was the loser for Pioneer Natural Gas.

Frank Philly and Blake each tagged three hits for the winners. Long got two RBIs for Pioneer Natural Gas.

In the last game, the 331st kept in first place in the league on the strength of Ernest Barbee's pitching.

Barbee, who went all the way, had no strikeouts or walks but he limited the Texas Electric nine to four hits and two runs. Larry Johnson was charged with the loss as he twirled an eight-hitter but was knocked for 12 runs.

Lynwood Arthur and Clyde Rowan picked up three hits each for the 331st while O. F. Priest and John Berry tagged two bingles apiece for the losers.

Sting Rays Win Over Bear Nine

Bruce Bright and Jeff Bartlett combined to pitch on the mound Friday night in the American Minor League as the Sting Rays out-sizzled the Bears, 13-9.

The two moundsmen were given some insurance runs to work with when the Sting Rays exploded for 12 runs in the first frame. The Bears were handicuffed with only one hit by Greg Greco.

Bright got credit for the win while Don Thompson the starter, was tagged with the loss.

Jeff Wickline and Zane Anderson each had a perfect three-day at the plate and scored six of the Sting Rays runs.

Comets, Daggers Triumph In International League

The Comets beat the Talons, 9-4, in the first game of an International Little League double-header Friday night while the Daggers needed a last inning rally to pull out the second game from the T-Birds, 5-3.

Charles Huff was the winning pitcher for the Comets in the first game as he twirled seven strikeouts and gave up six hits. Frankie Peralta was the loser.

Ricky Harrison had a big hit at the plate for the winners as he went four-for-four and scored three runs.

In the second six inning game, Dietz In Slump But Still Leads Dick Dietz, El Paso's hammering outfielder, returned to normalcy last week—he finally fell below 400—but he still leads the Texas League in batting by a 20-point margin.

Arlo Engel, a teammate of Dietz, had a big week, slashing 13 hits in 27 times at bat, including three home runs. He holds second place in hitting with a .371.

Dietz is hitting .391. Dietz also leads in runs with 61 and has the most hits with 75.

Engel has batted in the most runs, with 27, and has the most total bases—147.

Joe Sparks of El Paso leads in doubles with 23, James Wynn of San Antonio tops in triples with 8 while Jose Cardenal of El Paso is the pace-setter in home runs with 21.

The top pitcher is lefthander Pat House of Austin, who has won 7 out of 8 and also leads the league in earned run average with 2.08.

Wally Wolf of San Antonio is the strikeout leader with 71.

San Antonio is barely ahead in club fielding with 968.52 compared to 968.50 for Tulsa.

In club batting, however, El Paso is far ahead with .311. San Antonio is second with .277.

Alligators Could Be Nearing Extinction

By The Associated Press
It's a pity, writes Ed Holder, but "the alligator, one of the most beneficial animals in the coastal marsh, seems destined to extinction."

Holder, outdoors editor for the Port Arthur News, says "the alligator is the victim of outlaw market hunters—greedy men who let nothing stand in their way of making an extra buck."

Holder says gators benefit man and wildlife by eating rough fish such as gar, keeping trails open through which water can circulate and making depressions in the ground which hold water during droughts.

The Game and Fish Commission reports 29 new game wardens have been stationed across the state, all recent graduates of the warden training school at Texas A&M College.

Rick Graf, Dallas, and Jay Moody, Sherman, found fishing to their taste at Lake Texoma recently, pulling in 40 catfish, one weighing 57 pounds.

The first blue marlin has been caught off Port Aransas. The fish, taken by W. P. Hamilton of Seabrook, weighed over 250 pounds.

Professional boat drivers from the Southwest will meet on Lake of the Pines in East Texas June 16 for a series of races.

A Parks Board official is waging a small war against raccoons which are stripping his fruit trees near his Lake Austin home. At first he tried flares, tin foil and other gimmicks to hold off the thieves, then he set traps. His catches mostly have been possums, and the weary official thinks the raccoons are steering the possums into the traps so they can feed unworried.

Freepport's Chamber of Commerce is planning for the annual fishing fiesta July 4-7. Prizes and trophies will be awarded in 35 categories.

A program to rebuild the artificial snapper bank off Port Aransas is under way. The program began when Port Aransas Boatmen's Association put down $1,000 for the job.

The annual Lake Belton safari, a fishing tournament which drew 312 contestants last year, is set for June 23. Two Silver Trol motors will be the big prizes.

Some fishing outlooks: Texoma—Fishing generally slow during daylight hours, but anglers taking sand bass, blackcat and small channel and blue catfish at night.

Grapevine—Blacks and sand bass picking up.

Lake of the Pines—Crappie and bream biting good; blacks slow.

Possum Kingdom—Channel cats hogging the spotlight with a group of five anglers taking 117.

Caddo—Crappie and bream hitting bridge.

Bridgeport—Medium and small crappie biting, especially at night.

Freepport—Some of season's best fishing expected.

Port Aransas—Fishing improving, particularly kings and sails.

Port Mansfield—Lots of snapper, reds and trout being taken.

Galveston—Good kings, lings and speckled trout catches reported.

SMITH'S SET DOWN WITHOUT SAFETY

BY BILLY THOMAS
The Big Spring Merchants fished past E. C. Smith, 3-0, in soft ball action at Webb Air Force Base Friday night while Morton's took the second game of the doubleheader by beating Webb, 6-4.

Billy Paul Thomas, the winning pitcher for the Merchants, faced only 25 men over the seven inning stretch as he hurled no-hit, no-run ball. He struck out 12 and walked three.

Joe Sharpnack collected three RBIs as he pushed Pete Cook across the plate in the first, third, and fifth innings for all of the Merchants' runs.

In the second game, Morton's out-hit Webb, 10-6, and that provided the extra punch in the 6-4 win.

Cotton Mize was the winner as he twirled the distance. Bob Pekar was tagged with the loss.

John Terry and Jerry Coffee connected for home runs for the Morton nine while Bob Pekar hit one out for Webb as he had a perfect three-for-three night at the plate.

Standings: W. E. 4, 1. Texas Electric 3, 2. Pioneer Natural Gas 2, 3. Pioneer Natural Gas 2, 4. Parkway Food 1, 5.

Golf Gear Is Needed Here

Do you have an old or unused putter stuck in your golf bag or lying around the place?

Or do you have any golf balls you aren't going to use?

The Downtown Lions is anxious to receive either for use on the miniature golf course it has constructed at the Big Spring State Hospital. Doug Ward, general chairman, said that the course soon will be completed and that putters and balls would be needed for patients to use it.

The first element of the course, located in front of the general hospital building, spells out "Lions Club." The sides are all curbed with concrete, and the greens area will be finished in golf course felt over a concrete slab base.

Those who can help by furnishing a putter or balls are asked to contact Ward at 2205 Alabama (AM 2-7245) or (AM 4-4661 and ask for him).

Action Urged In Americas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two ex-presidents of Latin American republics, surveying operations of the hemisphere Alliance for Progress program, recommended Saturday the establishment of a new inter-American agency to push Latin American economic and social development. Former presidents Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil and Alberto Llerenas Camargo of Colombia, agreed that more vigorous action appears necessary. Appointed by the Organization of American States as elder statesmen to make the study, they filed their reports at a special Saturday session.

LEAGUE OF FATHERS

SI HIJO, asi fue, que mas puedo hacer? Yes son, what else can I do?—the question asked by Guy Lara of his son, Lupe. The two take time out from a Texas League game to discuss a difference of opinion—an interlude frequently indulged in. But, a good argument is surpassed only by a good game, they say.

HE'S THE UMPIRE in this pre-game session at home—Lt. Col. Thayne Thomas. His sons are T. L. Jr., left, and Grant. As chairman of the Youth Activities Council at Webb AFB, Col. Thomas is in charge of the International League which includes teams at Webb and surrounding area. T. L., an out-fielder with the Sabres, has an older sister, Laura.

TOO YOUNG to know that he doesn't meet the Little League standards, Michael Lynn Robinson, 20 months, has a cap and feels adequately prepared for joining the bat-swinging forces. Jerry Robinson is manager of the Stingrays in the American League, although it will be a few years before his son is on the field.

League Of Fathers Is Loved And Lauded

By KATHLEEN DOZIER
 Maybe not the youngest, the oldest nor the most publicized fathers in town, but certainly among the proudest and the busiest are the Little League dads honored today — Father's Day.

Proud, too, are the Little Leaguers themselves who would tell you:

"Funny sort of guys, these dads. They can be the sweetest, especially at the ball park. There, they get to be just regular fellows. They can yell louder, talk the biggest and heckle the strongest of anyone when it comes to baseball. They really get with the gang in the summertime. Another thing, at the park, they aren't thinking of mumps. If these trousers aren't clean and creased, their hair mussed and stuff like that, and they sure look good to the boys in those ball caps. Course, back home they get to being the same old dads again — telling you what to do and what not to do. So you just have to put up with all that 'til the next evening when a game is on and then they loosen up again. It really would be great if baseball lasted all year long."

Then there are the coaches who don't have a boy, some not even a girl. Now, they are regular fellows, too. You'd think that they wouldn't know so much about kids, not having any. Guess they know just about everything, especially about playin' ball. Of course, there are one or two of the coaches who have boys, but they're too little to play with the League. Now, their dads will sure enough help them along when the time comes. They are sure lucky, but guess we're all pretty lucky, huh?"

Anniversary Idea

The traditional month of weddings, June, is also the anniversary of a host of weddings of last year.

One sentimental way for a husband to remember the first anniversary is to send their wives the same flowers they carried at their wedding.

Father's Fairest

Smith Family's Move City's Noticeable Loss

Families come and families go, but in the community each has its place that cannot be filled by another. Such is the case with many of the Air Force families, and this week the departure of Maj. Charles A. Smith and family will leave a noticeable void on East Street. This is meant both literally and figuratively, since the major and his wife have four young loves—Sue, 18; Louise, 17; Sally, 12, and last and least, Tina, the five-year-old.

The Smiths' departure date is Friday. They will go to San Antonio, where at Randolph AFB Maj. Smith will be the assistant chief of the Public Information Division of the Air Training Command, where Sue will seek a secretarial position. Louise and Sally will enter school, and Tina will remain with her mother at home. Recently purchased at 3603 LaRue Drive.

FROM PHILIPPINES
Arriving in Big Spring three years ago from the Philippines, the Smiths were immediately at home here, or so they felt. Mrs. Smith's father, Walter Jackson, rides in and out of town each week from El Paso, a T&EP schedule he has had for many years. Also, her grandmother, the late Mrs. Minnie Jackson lived in Big Spring until her death a few years ago. "There was an attachment to Big Spring before we ever arived, because everyone was so wonderful to my family during my grandmother's illness," Mrs. Smith explained.

Maj. Smith assumed his public information duties at Webb, as well as Masonic and civic activities. The three older girls entered school and soon made names for themselves in the baby-sitting circles, and Mrs. Smith attended to her schedule as wife, mother and guardian of the home.

But, Mrs. Smith's accomplishments were not limited to the home. She resumed her work with the American Red Cross. She is said to have one of the brightest faces ever to grace the uniform of a Gray Lady, with three of the coveted red stripes on her sleeve.

No novice at this business, Mrs. Smith was capped as a Gray Lady at Clark AFB, Philippine Islands in 1960. She served a six-month tour at that base before coming to Webb. At Clark she served in many capacities—sometimes as an escort for patients from the hospital to the theater; at other times she had charge of the coffee cart from which she served during her mid-morning tour of the wards; on occasions she performed personal services such as writing letters for patients or doing their shopping.

Renee, to those who know her best, has done much the same type work at Webb, before the membership of the Gray Ladies chapter was large enough to give each member a special job, she doubled up. Now, she finds it difficult sometimes to get in the full 100 hours—the minimum requirement for active membership.

DIVIDES TIME
Since coming to Big Spring, Mrs. Smith has divided her time between the VA and Webb hospitals. When these two failed to satisfy her insatiable desire to "help out a little," she joined other volunteers in manning the polo stations and helping the staff with out-patient service.

"Gray Ladies are a dedicated lot," Mrs. Smith has discovered. "If you don't love the work, or worry about the hours you put in, you have no business wearing the Gray Lady uniform." She admits she worries about the hours sometimes, but her worry stems from the fact that she's afraid she won't get in enough hours to keep that uniform.

When everything is shipshape in the new San Antonio home, she will begin chalking up the hours there. Here, her work will be carried on, but she will not be replaced.

by Lewis. One hundred and 50 guests were served.

JULY 26

Plans Made For Settlers Reunion

Groundwork was laid Friday for the 38th Annual Howard and Glascock County Old Settlers Reunion. The festivities will include the traditional barbecue, fiddler's contest and dance.

The event will be staged July 26 at the Old Settlers Pavilion in City Park.

The initial preparation was made at a meeting Friday afternoon in the Howard County courtroom. Only a handful were present. Jess Slaughter, president of the association, said. More are expected for a meeting scheduled July 10 to form committees and make final plans for the event.

Slaughter, Morgan Martin and Joe Hayden were appointed to the donations committee.

Last year's crowd put away 2,000 pounds of beef, 10 goats, and several kettles of beans and son-of-a-gun stew, and about that same amount of food will be prepared again this year, Slaughter said.

Included on the morning's agenda will be a speech by State Representative Ed Carpenter at 11 a.m. During the afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m., an open fiddling contest will be staged. Registration begins at 8 a.m.

The evening will be highlighted by a dance at the pavilion at 8 p.m. Music will be provided again this year by Texas Shorty, world champion fiddler, and Sam Roberts Band, a local group.

Another pick-up for children has been arranged at the E. C. Smith office in Suburban Heights area. The pick-up will be at 8:45 a.m. on Tuesday and Friday.

For those children attending Vacation Bible Schools, a second swimming session will begin June 24 followed by a pre-school swimming session beginning July 8.

In individual activity totals, the Fun Club enrolled 463, swimming 186, and arts and crafts, 124. Fun Club and arts and crafts are still open for attendance.

Morning activities include tumbling, Trampoline and other outdoor activities. Craft classes are making bird cages from coat hangers, plaster mold paintings, copper enameling and mosaics. Regular YMCA activities will continue in the afternoon.

Junior College Trustees Weed Agenda Thursday

Howard County Junior College trustees weeded through an agenda Thursday and found that most of the items would come up in the next meeting, likely July 11.

For one thing, the tentative budget for the 1963-64 school year will be presented and a date for public hearing established.

For another, bids may be sought for replacing the gymnasium floor.

For still another, some decision may be reached relative to the authorization for bids on a language laboratory.

Trustees adopted a resolution memorializing the services of the late Dr. C. W. Deats as a member of the board. "He was esteemed by his associates, loved by his many friends, and respected by all," said the resolution. Dr. Deats had served almost 10 years on the board, and his death creates a vacancy which may be filled at the July meeting.

The matter of insurance on loose equipment will be settled at the July session, trustees said. So will the selection of a depository for the district.

Civilians Get Cash Awards

Four civilian personnel recently received award certificates and checks up to $305 in the Civilian Military Suggestion Awards Program. The awards were presented by Col. George E. Franks, M&S Group Commander, and Lt. Col. Lloyd J. McNeil, chief of maintenance.

Personnel receiving the awards: Erwin R. Ownbey received a check for $305. His suggestion improved the method used to transfer J-45 engines from the transportation stand to the engine build-up stand.

Gordon V. Williamson was granted an award of $65 for a suggestion which improved the method used to replace the intake seals on T-38 aircraft. The new method saves one-half the man-hours as compared to the old method.

Leslie H. Steward received a $25 check for a suggestion that improved and eliminated safety hazards on the M32A-10 generator sets self-propelled assembly.

Raymond A. Livezey was presented a check for $15. His suggestion improved the J-45 engine front frame carbon seal puller.

Bales produced with GIBREL

PLANT GROWTH SUBSTANCE

$50-75 more profit

Four years' field experience confirms that GIBREL makes extra cotton. In 1962 the average was 68 pounds per acre and some top producers made up to 200 pounds extra lint. These extra pounds from spraying GIBREL cost a low 6¢ per pound. Bales produced with GIBREL may look the same as others at the gin BUT they pack extra easy profits.

As added incentive you'll get your crop earlier because GIBREL keeps cotton green and growing in spite of the stress of fruiting or drought. GIBREL promotes wider branching, added bolls and heavier boll loads. Obviously you can't increase your cotton acres but you can increase the pounds of lint per acre with GIBREL. In actual dollars, GIBREL for spraying costs $4.00 per acre. Fifteen added pounds of lint per acre pays for this program. You stand to gain much more. What other production practice gives you a better payoff? You can spray versatile GIBREL by airplane or ground rig. For a single application use 1/2 to 1 pint of GIBREL per acre when squaring starts. A spraying lasts up to three weeks so it's generally better to use GIBREL a second time and get six weeks of continuous boll development.

Now just one more important fact. If you're like most cotton growers, you won't be able to see the extra cotton in your fields. BUT that low cost lint sure shows up at the gin! Remember GIBREL this year—the non-toxic growth-stimulant, chemically related to the naturally occurring growth hormones. It's fully field-tested to provide earlier cotton maturity; cheap insurance against early freeze-up; and plenty of 6¢ cotton. Make sure your dealer has GIBREL. Then show your neighbors how to overcome the allotment handicap.

A Devotional For The Day

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. (Matthew 5:16)

PRAYER: God, our Father, help us to make Christ real in our day-to-day living. Teach us to look more earnestly to Him in the molding of our life's objectives. These things we ask in His name. Amen.

(From The "Upper Room")

Gratifying Program

A source of gratification is the manner in which the continuing assessment paving program has been accepted here.

The city commission last week gave the green light to Project Four, which would add another 3435 blocks to the city's paving system if all property owners sign for the improvement. While some of the streets listed represent simply a laudable desire by property owners to upgrade their property and their neighborhood, many of them propose to close bad gaps in our existing paving, for example Stadium from Settles to Tulsa, Parkway Road from Wagon to Suburban Heights, Birdwell Lane to 25th Street.

Under existing programs a number of gaps on similarly arterial or heavily traveled streets are about to receive the finishing touches of paving. These will make all the difference in the world not only to the scores—even hundreds—of drivers who traverse the streets daily, but to the comfort of people who reside on or near the streets.

There are a number of other projects which are in need of consideration, for instance those which have old road or county road asphalt strips such as on South Scurry Street.

Paving is still one of the best buys that the city and a property owner can make.

Don't Take A Chance

Perhaps in the old days the "big spring" from whence our community got its name was the only swimming hole around here. It may well have taken its toll in drownings, but in our memory the drowning of the past week was the first to have taken place there.

The pool is not within itself hazardous, although after rains it collects considerable water in the basin. The danger lies in unsupervised swimming, such as was the case last week.

This is the danger in swimming in the tanks and pools which have filled up in the wake of recent showers. Parents will be wise to caution their children over and over to avoid these swimming holes. There are simply too many supervised places where youngsters can now swim for them to take this sort of chance. Nor are fees prohibitive, and in most cases swimming fees can be had for those who absolutely cannot afford it.

The incident should be a warning to all of us now that the summer season is here, for the pull of the lakes is strong. Never go in the water alone, never go swimming without someone available to pull you out, never gamble on swimming further than you are absolutely certain you can make; never go in a boat without wearing a life preserver; never cut corners on water safety.

Marquis Childs Crisis Abroad - As Well As At Home

ROUN — In the unending columns in the European press devoted to America's racial crisis the European reader can hardly escape a sense of a great nation on the verge of civil war. While this may or may not be justified by events themselves or by the reporting of those events brought into sharp focus, those who urge this as a reason for President Kennedy to cancel his European trip overlook a crisis in another field that is at least as grave.

IN HIS AMERICAN University speech the President indicated how crucial it was to try to prevent a new series of nuclear tests by the two nuclear giants, which would step up the arms race very possibly past the point of no return. But he stopped short of disclosing the deeper nature of the crisis and the reasons for it, which are concealed by the highest secrecy label.

The United States in September of 1961 began a massive intelligence breakthrough. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that this altered the balance of power in the world or, at any rate, a new relationship in the power balance was made evident.

IN WASHINGTON recently when many of the NATO foreign ministers and the NATO ambassadors assembled after the Ottawa conference the following exchange occurred. One of the NATO ministers said to Secretary of State Dean Rusk: "Three years ago you were talking about the missile gap and the bomber gap. You told us at the Athens meeting a year ago and now you've told us again that you know your nuclear superiority is in a very extraordinary degree. If you were wrong before how do you know that you're right this time?"

"All I can say to you," Rusk replied, "is that we know."

WHAT HAS LONG been clear is that when one side or the other in the so-called balance of terror achieved a significant breakthrough the mercury in the crisis thermometer would shoot sharply up. Perhaps that time is not here and not as of this month or next month. But the Soviets, by starting a new series of tests to expand and develop their weapons of mass destruction, could signal the start of such a time.

This was the urgency in the President's speech and in the decision to try at a "high level" conference to make one more effort to reach a test-ban agreement. The chances for success cannot be considered too bright.

DISCUSSING THE President's European trip and the difficulties he has encountered in arranging it, some of his close associates in Washington speculated several weeks ago that he might consider a direct confrontation with Khrushchev on the test-ban question. This was conjecture. But it cannot be ruled out, and particularly in light of the President's warning against confronting an adversary with the choice between humiliating retreat or nuclear war.

Little more than three years ago the shooting down of a U-2 reconnaissance plane deep in the heart of Russia presented Khrushchev with a crisis that his hard-line enemies in the Communist bloc were quick to exploit.

LAST OCTOBER the Soviets tried secretly to place missiles in Cuba, 90 miles from America's shores, as though they could in this way offset a known and menacing alteration in the balance of terror. The President behaved with great calm and restraint and the crisis passed.

It would be fortunate if America's house was in order so that the President could devote his full time and energy to world affairs and the threat of nuclear war. In the '30s President Roosevelt wrestled with the problems of a great depression and more or less ignored the rise of Nazism and the threat of German conquest.

THE NUCLEAR CRISIS involves all of America's allies. Indeed, it involves all of mankind. If the President were to put this aside pending a "solution" of the racial problem and signal his intention by cancelling his European trip he would be bound to concentrate on the single question of race so long as he was in the White House. What Harry Truman called the impossible office of the Presidency makes many and conflicting demands on the man who occupies it, and particularly at a time when the bills for past errors and neglect all come due at once.

Doggone

GRiffin, Ga. — A new push-button spray produced by a local firm is stopping ferocious dogs in their tracks, with no lingering ill effects.

The product is composed of oleoresin capicum, the most active ingredient of cayenne pepper, in a base of light mineral oil. It is squirted in a stream that reaches 15 feet and creates a temporary burning sensation in the eyes, nostrils or mouth.

Discovered by two professors at the University of Georgia, the repellent has been recommended for anyone coming in contact with vicious dogs—postmen included.

Billy Graham

QUESTION: Is there any particular preparation we should make for prayer? I sometimes feel that I rush into the Presence of God without due reverence and preparation. What do you suggest?

ANSWER: Prayer, sincere communion with God, is the noblest act and exercise of man. Our Lord, talked a great deal about prayer, and was, Himself, an expert in the art of praying. He said, "When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door pray to the Father which is in secret, and the Father which seest in secret shall reward thee openly."

When He said, "When thou hast shut the door," I don't believe He meant merely a door of wood. I believe that He meant that we were to shut our resentment, malice, envy, and everything that might hinder our communion with our heavenly Father. Prayer comes naturally to a clean heart.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek has said, "The Generalissimo refuses to pray to God unless he is attired in his best uniform, for he thinks that it is an insult to God not to be dressed in one's very best when engaging in prayer."

We may not be able to approach God attired in a general's parade uniform, but we can be attired in humility, clothed in reverence, wearing the badge of true repentance, and I am sure that God will be ready to meet us if we are thus prepared.

'LET'S SEE—WHAT ELSE COULD WE SACRIFICE?'

J. A. Livingston Summer Doldrums Bring On Some Worry

The summer doldrums are here. The decline in steel production has already sent tremors through the stock market and some optimists are wondering: Have we been over-optimistic?

But Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, is unmoved by this flutter of weak hearts. He thinks business is "basically good."

HE BASES this on the uptrend in plant and equipment outlays, residential construction, and government undertakings — federal, state, and local.

"At the start of 1961," he told me, "we thought there would be a moderate expansion throughout the year. If I were asked now, I'd change the adjective from 'moderate' to 'solid'."

Yet, Heller isn't satisfied. Employment still hasn't increased sufficiently to reduce the rate of unemployment. Nearly 6 per cent of our workers are out of jobs. As President Kennedy put it in the Economic Report: "We need to run just to keep pace" with the influx of persons entering the labor force.

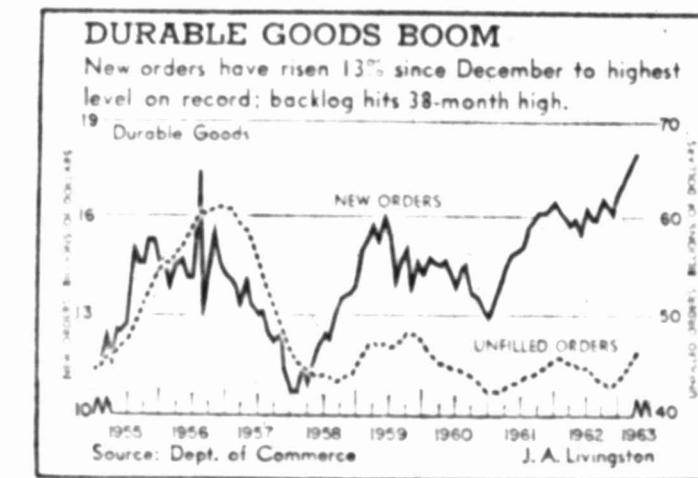

CURRENT apprehensions about the business outlook can be readily explained. The steel industry has had such a raw time — production in the first six months has run at an annual rate of 120,000,000 tons. The all-time high in output was 1955 at 117,000,000 tons. So some comedown seems inevitable, especially since part of the strength was inventory building — insurance against a shutdown.

In the same tenor, the automobile industry has been selling cars joyously. The car-buying public continue its 7,000,000-a-year spree — at the 1955 rate.

SOME ECONOMISTS argue increases in youngsters reaching driving age and in families moving up to two- and three-car status, have lifted demand to a new level.

But the skeptics want to be shown. If the industry puts two good years back to back, think of the year to follow.

Several questions plague business analysts. What's to keep industrial activity advancing? Where is the big shove coming from? Aren't consumers bound to be a little less free with their money?

IN THE FIRST six months of the year, the consumer provided the big oomph. Personal expenditures increased more rapidly than personal income. Can that last?

Generally, families save from 6 per cent to 8 per cent of their income. But lately their savings have dropped to the bottom of that range. They've gone into debt to buy autos and other high-ticket items. So some economists argue there'll be a swing the other way — toward saving, toward paying debts. Expenditures will drop relative to income. And the economy will be deprived of consumer upthrust.

THESE apprehensions are both seasonal and understandable. When nature puts on her grandest show for human beings, when flowers bloom and trees exfoliate, the human body tends to rest from its winter and spring exertions.

The economy, which means you and I, has come far and fast in the last year. That's why the recession talk so prevalent in January and February has faded. To be sure, the expansion has not been great enough to reduce the unemployment rate to the administration's interim objective of 4 per cent.

HOWEVER, these gains in the last 12 months can't discount-

Around The Rim Fatherly Advice, Not Recorded

It's a prerogative, if not a duty, of fathers to pass on words of wisdom to their sons. This, in the scheme of things, is to help the offspring meet that crisis in his life that Father knows is bound to come.

Today, of course, Fathers are supposed to take it easy, and be relieved of the responsibilities of parenthood. But day in and day out, the Old Man, has got to be able to pass on helpful advice.

ONE NEVER KNOWS just what a particular Father will tell his own son. But surely there are well-known figures who had well-chosen remarks from their sires. The parental remarks made to these individuals never turned up in the history books.

NOAH—Just be sure you've got that thing watertight. The world is depending on you.

SOLOMON—Don't be a smart-aleck, son. Everybody knows that a mother is not going to let her child be cut in half.

NAPOLEON—I hope you like living in solitude on an island, boy.

JULIUS CAESAR—If you're determined to write, son, write it so the kids will never understand it.

EDWARD VIII—You're going to keep messing around with women until you lose your crown.

JOHN PAUL JONES—If you're as smart as a son of mine ought to be, you'd get off the darned ship when it begins to sink.

COLUMBUS—So what have you got when you find the other side of the ocean? Nothing, that's what!

GEORGE WASHINGTON—Everybody's teeth give them trouble in later life, boy. Just find a good dentist and stay with him.

GENERAL CUSTER—Let's face it, son, one of these days you're going to see more red than anybody ever did.

GENERAL GRANT—Just don't let your whiskey drinking interfere with your fighting.

ABE LINCOLN—You think you're going to grow up, be President, and have a lot of troubles. Just try to look at the fellow following you by 100 years, and your troubles will turn to peanuts.

MUSSOLINI—One of these days, you'll have the world upside down, or vice versa.

JUSTICE EARL WARREN—One of these days, you'll have your country upside down.

GENERAL M'ARTHUR—If I've told you once, I've told you a hundred times, don't overstay your welcome in any one part of the world.

HARRY TRUMAN—You may run into a job that's too big for you, but you can bluff your way out of it.

IKE EISENHOWER—You may whip into a job that's too big for you, but you can golf your way out of it.

JOHN F. KENNEDY—Now remember, you must always look out for your younger brothers.

BARRY GOLDWATER—You can try for any position you wish, but I think you'll do better in right field.

RICHARD BURTON—For heavens' sake, never let anything interfere with your acting career.

EDDIE FISHER—Well, you'll win a few, and you'll lose a few.

CASEY STENGLER—Some people just naturally have to lose more than they win.

GODD COOPER—Son, I hope you'll always keep your feet on the ground.

—BOB WHIPKEY

Holmes Alexander The Anglo-Saxons At Bay

WASHINGTON — In the Sixties of the Twentieth Century the Anglo-Saxons, only two decades from their finest hours of World War II and still the best bulwarks of human freedom, often seemed to their enemies to be in full flight away from the pride and virtues of their heritage. Even the term "Anglo-Saxons" applied to them by the great Frenchmen, was received as if it were a slur instead of a compliment. There was an unseemly eagerness by the Conservative Prime Minister and the Democratic President to try to crash the European Common Market, where they plainly were not wanted.

THE SAME TENDENCY was evident in the President's domestic policies. After encouraging Negro racists and rioters into a rebellious demand for instant reforms (many desirable, some impossible), the President traveled as far as Hawaii to plead with the Mayors to give way before the threats of the minority race. Whether this attitude represented magnanimity on the President's part, or whether it was fear of rising violence, or both, there was little in history to recommend it as a regular practice. Rapid retreat in the face of menace is not a good way to run a nation or to conserve the wealth and glories of a great society which has, by a wide margin, been the most generous and kindly one on earth.

IN THE SIXTIES, also, the decadence at the top of Anglo-Saxon morals and ideals became too glaring to go unnoticed. Occurring almost simultaneously in Britain and America were flagrant scandals of café society adultery by a Conservative Cabinet Minister, and in America the June-and-November romance of a young-ish mother and a married Republican Governor.

The Anglo-Saxons hadn't been around all these centuries without knowing that statesmen, like the rest of us, get afflicted with the Seven Year Itch. Hamilton's affair with Mrs. Reynolds and Cleveland's well-known wild out did not blot their reputations as political aristocrats. But the Profumo scandal carried a definite security implication, and it followed the recent Vassal case of homosexual seduction of a lesser British official who sold out to the Russians.

THERE WERE enough precedents and accompanying evidences of perversion and irregularity in the ruling classes of Britain to indicate a decline of shocking depth and magnitude. The Rockefeller divorce and remarriage were up at the presidential possibility level, where they seemed to defy long-standing public opinion that a First Family ought to set an example in rectitude, or at least in discretion.

The enemies of the Anglo-Saxons throughout the world undoubtedly watched all this in glee, asking whether this vigorous, inventive and reigning race was merely rotten at the top, or whether it was rotten clear through. These enemies must have been given some pause at the general reaction of the American and British people who very clearly did not condone what their leaders were up to.

THE SIXTIES, more than ever, appeared to be a juncture in Time for the Anglo-Saxons. It was a place where their road would take them into the Dark Ages—or possibly into a Renaissance.

David Lawrence New Legislation Is Necessary

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy completely disregarded the words of a federal statute when he federalized the militia of the state of Alabama last Tuesday.

The Congress of the United States passed a law a number of years ago which was formally revised on August 10, 1959, stating that the National Guard could be called into federal service whenever the United States "is invaded or is in danger of invasion by a foreign nation," or whenever the President "is unable with the regular forces to execute the laws of the United States."

THIS SAME LAW—Section 3500, Title 10 of the U. S. Code—defines explicitly how the state militia shall be federalized. It provides that the President "may call into federal service members and units" of the National Guard of any state, but says that "orders for these purposes shall be issued through the governors of the states."

Inquiry at the office of Governor Wallace at Montgomery, Alabama, has brought forth the information that Mr. Wallace did not receive any order from the federal government to federalize the militia of the state of Alabama.

WHAT HAPPENED, of course, was that the federal authorities sent the order directly to the state militia and bypassed the governor.

The governor of the state of Alabama, moreover, was not "in rebellion" against the federal government, but simply testing a court order to determine its constitutionality. The proper procedure for the federal government was to have U. S. marshals serve an order on the governor. If he refused to obey it, the federal government could carry out the usual legal processes to bring him to trial on contempt charges. If he were convicted, then punishment would be meted out by the court.

Mr. Kennedy, in his television speech Tuesday night, said:

"ONE HUNDRED years of delay have passed since President Lincoln freed the slaves, yet their heirs, their grandsons are not fully free. They are not yet freed from the bonds of injustice."

But in those "one hundred years of delay" the Supreme Court of the United States has been handing down decisions which have been accepted by many people as "the law of the land." It was not until 1896, however, that the first case involving the segregation issue under the Fourteenth Amendment was raised for decision by the Supreme Court of the United States. The high court ruled then — in the famous case of "Plessy vs. Ferguson" — that "separate but equal" facilities fulfilled the "equal protection" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment for purposes of transportation. This was interpreted in subsequent decision of the Supreme Court to mean that "separate but equal" facilities in other fields — including public schools and colleges — were also constitutional.

IN THE 38 YEARS preceding 1954, Negro leaders and their lawyers challenged from time to time the correctness of the Supreme Court decision of 1896. Were the Negro leaders violating "the law of the land" by challenging that decision? Was the Supreme Court itself guilty of "delay" in the 58 years from 1896 to 1954 when it failed to accept the contention that the public schools should be desegregated?

If the Negro leaders had not challenged the decisions and had not refused to accept as final the rulings which kept Negroes out of certain schools, there never would have been cases brought before the Supreme Court to furnish the basis for the 1954 desegregation decision that reversed the 1896 ruling.

THE PRESIDENT'S proposal for "civil rights" legislation in connection with segregation, is the first that has been proposed by a chief executive since the Supreme Court in 1954 ordered desegregation of the public schools under the Fourteenth Amendment. There has been a lengthy debate among lawyers generally as to whether a Supreme Court decision is adequate to force desegregation, and President Kennedy has at last accepted the view that legislation is necessary.

To Your Good Health Expectant Mothers Should Be Careful Of Drugs

By JOSEPH G. MOJNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. MoJner: I have read that expectant mothers should not take ANY sort of drug — even aspirin.

I have had one normal delivery and two miscarriages. I believe I am pregnant again, so I want to be careful. I have deferred going to the doctor because I know he will want to put me on a diet. I don't want any pills or shots as I have heard they have been blamed for deforming babies.

Other women want to know about this, too—Mrs. P. H. and Friends. Such repercussions from the thalidomide tragedy go on and on. Where, in some cases, women are so frightened that they put off going to the doctor—well, I have a strong feeling that this can do more harm than would come from any medication they might possibly take.

Yes, I, too, have heard and read warnings about medications. But perhaps I was listening for another phrase which you may have missed. I have heard some authorities say, in essence, "It would be safer if women took no medicine at all, early in pregnancy, except under a doctor's direction."

A very eminent physician said in a recent lecture that OVER-

USE of drugs could cause some deformities. This doesn't mean that the results would be tragic and severe deformities such as were caused by thalidomide. It must also be remembered that although thalidomide caused a great many such cases, some pregnant women used it and yet had normal babies.

One reason is the time factor. The great danger is in the first three months, the period in which the fetus is in its tiny formative stages. That is why, for example, German measles is feared in the first few months but seems to have scant if any danger in the last five months or so.

I do not understand the reference to "pills or shots" in today's letter, unless it ties into the diet—that Mrs. P. H. is overweight and anticipates drugs to curb her appetite.

Sensible dieting isn't going to hurt her or the baby. But I would be cautious about use of diet-repressing drugs because they are among those raising suspicion. The same applies to cold preparations which often contain antihistamines. And some others.

We have perhaps changed from being too carefree about medicines to being unduly cautious. After all, millions of perfect babies have been born during the years in which nobody thought twice about taking an aspirin for a headache.

I heartily agree with the present caution—especially in the early months of pregnancy. Much self-medication is unnecessary anyway. The least amount which will do what needs to be done is the best amount. Check with your doctor before taking medicines. It is the best way of playing safe.

Dear Dr. MoJner: Is it harmful to drink water that is commercially softened?—J.A.S.

No, with the exception that there may be considerable sodium. This must be avoided by people on a low-salt diet but is perfectly harmless to anyone else. Some don't like the taste of softened water, but that's entirely a matter of preference.

Dear Dr. MoJner: I have chronic leukemia. I take care of my three little grandchildren, one a baby. Is it contagious? I wouldn't hurt them for anything.—GRANDMA

Of course you wouldn't — and there is no indication that leukemia ever has been transmitted from person to person.

How To Lose The Pork Barrel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. says he was once momentarily confused with another well-known figure who had a famous father.

During a recent visit to Japan, he said in a speech last week to the Woman's National Democratic Club, an American official introduced him this way:

"And now our featured speaker, a man with a famous father—Nelson Rockefeller."

assured in most classes. Besides judging of mounts, there will be Western pleasure riding, barrel racing and pole bending.

Entry is restricted to members, but any person wishing to take part may do so by paying the $2.50 annual family membership fee, plus 25 cents for each class entered. Information may be had from C. H. Harrison, president; Johnny Nobles, vice president; Grace Todd; or at the Lumber Bin.

Prime purpose of the event is to give youngsters a chance to show their mounts regardless of pedigree, although there will be one class for registered animals.

The general classes will be for fillies with classes for 1963, 1962, 1961 and aged mares; the same for stallions and geldings. The breakdown in the registered division will be identical, and this will hold also for Shetlands.

Although most youngsters will show their horses, parents may go into the arena to work with children they consider too small to work alone.

There are two age divisions in the club, one for riders 19 years and younger; the other for those over 20.

At the regular meeting of the club Monday, Joe Click used four mounts to demonstrate how to show, and he also explained points on which they would be judged.

Disney Has Sequel To 'Old Yeller'

One of the biggest and most successful casts in Walt Disney history was signed for hard-riding roles in Disney's fast moving feature motion picture, "Savage Sam."

Brian Keith, who was acclaimed as the earthy, quick-on-the-draw hero of "The Westerner" TV series, and displayed his flair for comedy with Hayley Mills in Disney's all-time top box office hit, "The Parent Trap," is back in the saddle as rugged frontiersman Beck Coates, leader of a band of Indian fighters.

Tommy Kirk, one of the busiest and most versatile young actors in Hollywood, is Disney's good luck charm. He has appeared in 14 features and over 100 TV shows for the Burbank producer, all of them successful. After receiving critical acclaim for his comedy roles in "Bon Voyage" and "Son of Flubber," Kirk essays a straight dramatic role as the unstoppable Texas pioneer, Travis Coates, in "Savage Sam."

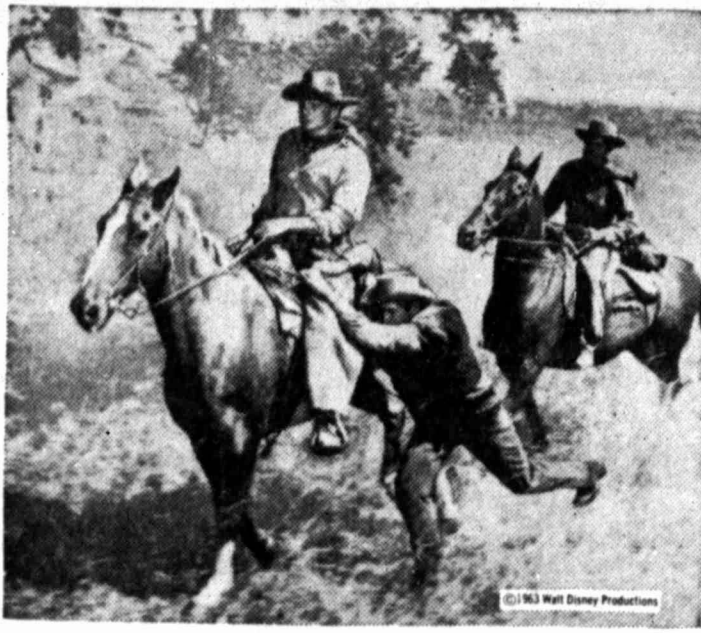

Kevin Corcoran, who like Tommy Kirk and Jeff Young recreates a role he originated five years ago in Disney's "Old Yeller," is probably the most experienced actor of his age, since Jackie Coogan. He has played major roles in 20 features and 85 TV shows during the past nine years—most of them for Disney. As mule-headed, tough-as-leather Arliss Coates, Kevin turns in his most effective role to date, bettering the mass scene-stealing of the "Swiss Family Robinson" day.

Pretty, 18-year-old Marta Kristen culminates one of the most heartwarming, real-life Cinderella stories in Hollywood history with her first movie part as pioneer girl Lasbeth Seary. Marta was adopted from an Oslo, Norway, orphanage by a Wayne University, Detroit, philosophy professor 12 years ago. She was discovered when her parents came to California on sabbatical leave.

Dewey Martin was first signed by Disney to play the title role in the "Daniel Boone" TV series. Remembering the handsome actor's physical prowess and dramatic ability, the Burbank producer recalled him to portray the gentleman gunfighter from Virginia, Lester White, in "Savage Sam."

Huge, likeable York, who started out for Disney as the legendary keelboat king Mike Fink in the "Davy Crockett" TV series, and has done several other roles since, returns again to recreate the part of shifty, blustering Texan Bud Seary in the frontier drama.

The strong supporting cast includes Rafael Campos as the Henry Fonda and Maureen O'Hara are a devoted couple in the Warner Bros. outdoor thriller, "Spencer's Mountain." The film is showing at the Ritz Theatre under a special preview arrangement.

Burl Ives Gains New Fans In Everglades Film

Burl Ives, America's foremost singer of folk songs, legitimate theatre star, top-bracket nightclub and recording headliner and motion picture actor, has gained several million additional fans as the result of his film, "Wind Across The Everglades," a Warner Bros. release in Technicolor, today at the State Theatre. Oves co-stars in the Schulberg Production with Christopher Plummer.

Ives, born Burl Igle Ivanhoe Ives, is a descendent of Illinois farmers, river boat gamblers and circuit preachers. He learned the songs of early America from a pioneer grandmother.

Losing interest in football shortly after arriving at a mid-western college, Burl left the gridiron. He hit the road with his guitar and 15 cents in his pockets.

A year of dish washing in a New York cafeteria helped defray the cost of singing and dramatic lessons. Two years later, in 1938, he won a featured role in the Broadway musical, "The Boys From Syracuse," which proved a hit and secured Burl's future. He next had a principal role with Vera Zornina in "I Married An Angel."

World War II saw Ives drafted into Irving Berlin's great musical revue, "This Is The Army." He was in uniform for four years.

Following V-J day, he received his first starring role, "Sing Out, Sweet Land." Burl also started making recordings. He's since waxed 267 discs, all top-sellers.

Next came some more shows on Broadway, a global concert tour, the authorizing of six books and Hollywood stardom. His motion pictures include "East of Eden," "The Power and the Prize," "Desire Under the Elms," "The Big Country" and "Wind Across The Everglades."

Burl is married to Helen Ives, who is also his manager. They and their one child, 12-year-old Alexander, live in a large New York City apartment when Burl is not movie-making, concert-touring, or skipping one of the family's two big sailboats from Manhattan to California.

More Needed For Adult Classes

Three more students are needed to round out a second table for bridge instruction in the YMCA's adult informal education classes. Francis Flint, Y secretary, said today.

The class, along with others in the program, began last week, but new students will be accepted until the table has been filled. Classes meet each Tuesday from 9:30-11 a.m. The fee for Y members is $3 and $7.50 for others. The golf instruction class needs several more applicants before instruction can begin, he said. Additional students can also be taken for art instruction. More information about the classes, meeting time, etc., can be obtained from the Y.

Scouts Leave

The Webb-sponsored Scout Troop 146 left at 4 a.m. today for summer camp in the Davis Mountains. Twenty-eight Scouts, accompanied by M. Sgt. Gordon Seals, scoutmaster, and C.M. Sgt. Charles Levindski, assistant Scoutmaster, are making the annual week outing.

The Scouts will return to Webb June 23.

James Garner Had Odd Steps To Stardom

It's not as far from pumping gas to modeling swim trunks as it is from modeling swim trunks to starring in motion pictures. James Garner made both leaps, with one stop in the middle to become a television star.

Garner stars in "Up Periscope" coming today to the State Theatre. In the Warner Bros. drama, filmed in Technicolor and WarnerScope, he shares honors with Edmond O'Brien and a beauty named Andra Martin.

Garner was playing gas pump jockey when he discovered that he could pick up a few extra bucks by helping to publicize a well known brand of swim suits, which eventually led him onto the stage, which eventually and inevitably led him onto the screen.

Although Garner's television success has been based on the character of a free-wheeling gambler of the West known as "Maverick," his screen career has been more or less confined to roles in uniform.

His first stage role was in uniform—as a naval officer in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial." His first screen role was in uniform—the Air Force in "Toward the Unknown." He was in an Army uniform for "The Girl He Left Behind," then as a Marine in "Sayonara." He was boosted to stardom in the uniform of "Darby's Rangers," and he continues his stardom as Navy lieutenant in "Up Periscope."

At least "Up Periscope" has one small hook to Garner's pre-dramatic career. He shows up on the beach in a swim suit, looking every bit as stalwart as he did a few years ago when he stopped pumping gas to promote beachwear.

This Explains A Lot Of Things

TORONTO (AP)—A Toronto psychiatrist says the person who claims to get along on only a few hours sleep nightly is fooling himself. He gets his sleep during his apparently waking hours.

Prof. John W. Lovett-Doust explained last week at the annual meeting of the Canadian Psychiatric Association that the person who spends a relatively short time in bed at night picks up the missing sleep during the day every time his mind wanders. "Day-dreaming is sleep," he declared.

THE GREEK GOD TRITON
Holds up cliffs for Argonauts

Legend Of Jason Is Told In Movie

Charles H. Schneer's production, "Jason and the Argonauts," the Columbia Pictures release which arrives at the Ritz Theatre Friday, re-creates the Jason legend. The $3,000,000 adventure classic, in Eastman Color, stars Tom Armstrong as Jason and Nancy Kovack as Medea.

The story of "Jason" carries forward with Jason's return to Thessaly to claim his rightful kingdom twenty years after his father's murder at the hands of Pelias. To regain the throne, Jason seeks the counsel of the gods. With their help, he builds a ship, The Argo, and sails for the land of Colchis to find the famed Golden Fleece, whose magical powers can bring peace to the land. The voyage, with a crew of the bravest and strongest warriors in all Greece is full of unexpected dangers.

Co-starring with Tom Armstrong and Nancy Kovack is British actor Gary Raymond; Laurence Naismith, a character actor; Niall MacGinnis; and British actress Honor Blackman.

Searching for the proper locales in terms of scenic authenticity, to film the Jason legend, producer Schneer himself made a 5,000-mile land, air and sea odyssey following the routes of Jason's voyage according to classical scholars and historians reconstructing the legend's geography, and he scoured Italy's scenic Mediterranean coast for a likely place to set up production. Finally the producer came across the tiny fishing village of Palimuro, 300 miles south of Rome. It was exactly what he was looking for, with miles of sweeping landscapes, rockribbed coastlines and golden beaches.

Ray Harryhausen served as associate producer, with Don Chaffey directing the Morningside Worldwide film from the screenplay by Jan Read and Beverly Cross.

WHAT IS A FATHER?

Fathers are men...and they come in all shapes and sizes. A Father is a person who, after you have asked your Mother and She says, "ask your Father," and you Say, "Mother says it's OK.", he lets you do it. He sometimes doesn't hear so well... especially when he's reading a newspaper and you have something important to ask him.

All Fathers worked "just awfully" hard when they were little boys and walked "just miles" to school sometimes tell little children not to do something because they just don't know how absolutely essential it is to do it...but if they are talked to in a real understanding and confidential manner, they generally can be made to see things your way! Most fathers, in their day, were fine ball players... either pitchers or shortstops. All were captains of their teams. They could out-run, out-jump, out-work and out fight anybody their age and size.

Fathers are all real good sports...they are very patient with you when you are teasing them (kinda like we are doing now) because they know we only tease them if we love them. After all, you are not supposed to be seriously sentimental with a grown man...it would embarrass him to death. What is a Father?...He's the everything...he is!

DEAR ABBY

Check With Your Daughter

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who has three children, all under 12, divorced her husband three years ago. She had no choice, as drinking, gambling and women took the food out of their mouths. She started going to a therapist for treatment and counseling. He is not a doctor, and I never did understand what qualifies him to practice. My daughter has paid him $100 a month for two years, and she seems to be getting worse instead of better. She goes to him three nights a week while her children get their own meals and stay alone until midnight. Wouldn't a good therapist tell a mother to stay home with her children? They are developing emotional problems because their mother is so irritable and on edge and is gone so much. How can I find out more about this "therapist" without causing trouble? I think he is a faker.

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR CONCERNED: Assuming he WERE a faker, and you could prove it, you would accomplish nothing unless you first gained the confidence of your daughter, and together you investigated this "therapist." I read where one woman became so enchanted with "Dr." Ben Casey that she admitted that she didn't care whether he was a "real" doctor or not—she'd let him operate on her. Try to convince your daughter that she'd be wise to investigate her therapist's background and qualifications before continuing with him.

DEAR ABBY: We gave one of the girls in our office a bridal shower and then she broke off the engagement. Instead of returning the gifts she passed a note around the office asking each of us to list our gift and how much we paid for it, saying she wanted to refund the money. Have you ever heard of this being done, and do you think it was proper?

ONE OF THE GIRLS

DEAR ONE: No, but that doesn't mean it is improper. Perhaps the girl used her gifts and cannot return them, so she's doing the next best thing. Don't be critical of her. She's having enough problems as it is.

DEAR ABBY: My best friend is a widow, aged 52. She was just told by her doctor that she is pregnant. Her boy friend is separated from his wife, but not divorced. Her only income is $108 per month social security from her dead husband. She asked me what to do so I am asking you.

HER FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: If your friend is interested in finding a Home For Unwed Mothers in her area, tell her to write to me and I will help her. In the meantime, she should see a lawyer to determine what her "boy friend's" responsibility is to her and her child.

DEAR ABBY: My parents are getting very crabby in their old age. Every time I want to do something, they think of a million things that can go wrong. I have been talking this over with my friends and they tell me their parents are the same way. Parents today are too strict about everything. My parents were always this way but they seem to be getting worse. What can I do?

PRISONER

DEAR "PRISONER": You can thank your lucky stars that you have parents who care enough about you to worry about the million things that can go wrong—before they do.
