HERBERT HOOVER
 Former President seriously ill

Hoover Slightly Improved But Condition Is Serious

NEW YORK (AP) — Doctors reported former President Herbert Hoover slightly improved today but still in very serious condition.

Pace Resigns As C-C Staff Member

Kenneth Pace today announced his resignation as assistant manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

He told directors of the organization in their regular meeting that he is accepting a position as manager of the Chamber of Commerce at Taylor, Texas, effective July 15. Pace has been on the local C-C staff since April, 1962, coming here from Paris, As aide to Carroll Davidson, he has been in charge principally of membership efforts and many special promotional projects.

Pace said the Taylor organization had made him an offer last Saturday.

A morning medical bulletin said the 88-year-old Hoover's heart beat was more regular than Sunday and a low-grade fever had subsided.

"Mr. Hoover spent a comfortable night," said the bulletin, signed by four doctors.

"His general condition remains very serious. There has been no further bleeding from the gastrointestinal tract.

There is slight improvement compared to yesterday, in that his fever is less and his heart action is more regular."

Hoover underwent an operation for cancer last August.

Maritime Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Maritime Union said today that it had tied up 10 ships with picket lines in East, Gulf and West Coast ports.

Court Knocks Out Required School Religious Recitations

Church-State Amendment Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 8-1 today it is unconstitutional for a state to require Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

Holding that requirement of such practices — common in a preponderant majority of the states — violates the "establishment of religion" clause of the Constitution, the majority rejected an argument that the exercises are essentially moral teachings and not religious practices. Justice Clark, who wrote the court's main opinion on two cases coming from Maryland and Pennsylvania, declared:

"Nor are these required exercises mitigated by the fact that individual students may absent themselves upon parental request, for that fact furnishes no defense to a claim of unconstitutionality under the establishment clause."

"Further," Clark said, "it is no defense to urge that the religious practices here may be relatively minor encroachments on the First Amendment."

The breach of neutrality that is today a trickling stream will in all too soon become a raging torrent and in the words of Madison, "It is proper to take alarm at the first experiment on our liberties."

He had declared that the First Amendment requires that the government be completely neutral where religion is concerned.

Clark added that nothing the court said today would bar study of the Bible or of religion "when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education."

But he reiterated that the school exercises in the Maryland and Pennsylvania cases did not fall into these educational categories. Rather, he asserted, "they are religious exercises required by the states in violation of the command of the First Amendment that the government maintain strict neutrality, neither aiding nor opposing religion."

Justice Goldberg wrote a separate opinion concurring with the majority. Justice Harlan joined in Goldberg's separate opinion.

Shorter separate opinions concurring with the majority were written by Justices Brennan and White.

Bank Merger Ousted Under Anti-Trust Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today merger of the Philadelphia National Bank and Girard Trust Corn Exchange Bank, both in Philadelphia, would violate anti-trust law.

The case was the first in a series in which the Justice Department has attempted to stop the mergers of banks on anti-trust grounds.

Justice Brennan delivered the majority decision.

Justice Harlan dissented in an opinion in which Justice Stewart joined.

Justice Goldberg in a separate memorandum said he dissented from the court's holding that the Clayton Anti-Trust Act applied to the proposed merger, but added, "I wish to make clear that I do not necessarily dissent from the judgment invalidating the merger."

Plans for merger of Philadelphia National and Girard Trust were held in abeyance pending the decision. The merger had been approved by the U.S. comptroller of the currency.

The plans called for a new institution having assets of $1.75 billion and deposits of $1.6 billion.

Steel Talks Enter A Decisive Stage

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Efforts by steelworkers to improve their contracts with basic steel enter a decisive stage today with a meeting of union officers.

A gathering of the United Steelworkers Union executive board will be followed Tuesday with a meeting of the USW's wage policy committee.

The action is viewed as a turning point in the union's attempt to write new provisions into current contracts. There appear to be two possible courses of action.

The USW could accept contract revisions hammered out in weeks of discussion by the informal union-management human relations committee.

Or, the union could elect to demand a reopening of formal negotiations on current pacts and thus take a shot at winning even better contract changes than those offered by the companies in the human relations talks.

A reopening of negotiations would bring the first head-on encounter of the union and the companies since the unsuccessful attempt by some producers to boost prices in April 1962, and the selective price increases last April.

The abortive attempt for a $6 across-the-board price hike in 1962 was beaten down by stiff White House pressure and the refusal of some major steelmakers to go along with the increase.

Last April, producers posted price boosts on selective items and President Kennedy offered no opposition. He said the increases were non-inflationary. Even at that, some of the increases collapsed under market pressure.

The USW feels its members deserve a bigger piece of the basic steel dollar. This was made clear by Otis Brubaker, head of the USW's research department, in testimony before the Joint Senate-House Economic Committee.

Brubaker said it is abundantly clear that, on a unit basis, steel price increases have outrun employment costs.

Figures indicate, he added, that in the 1940-1962 period steel price increases have outrun employment costs by a significant margin.

Aside from Brubaker's remarks, the union has remained remarkably silent on just what it is shooting for. Likewise, the companies have said little or nothing about the issues discussed by the human relations committee.

It is generally believed the USW is most interested in seeking greater job security for its members in basic steel, an industry which has been pushing hard for higher productivity through automation. In the past few years, union officials have played down wage demands in favor of contract provisions aimed at preserving jobs.

Board Votes Denton School Desegregation

DENTON, Tex. (AP)—The Denton Board of Education voted today to end racial segregation in all grades of Denton public schools beginning in September.

The resolution was passed unanimously and came without court action or pressure from any group.

"I am confident this is the right thing to do, just as I am confident that the overwhelming majority of the public will agree," said board president Raymond Wheeler.

The resolution means that any student in any of 12 grades may attend any of the 11 schools in the district provided he is formally transferred from one local school zone to another.

The school administration indicated transfer requests would be liberally granted.

Approximately 11 per cent of the Denton school enrollment of 5,307 is Negro. Last year 610 Negroes and 4,967 whites attended Denton schools.

Signing In

ROTC cadets—191 strong—arrived at Webb AFB Sunday morning and were assigned to flights and quarters. The first cadet to sign in was James T. Bunkley, Pasadena, Tex., at 8:17 a.m. The cadets are here for the annual summer training program, the first of two sessions scheduled.

Wilson Opens British Debate

LONDON (AP) — Opening debate in Britain's biggest political scandal of the century opposition leader Harold Wilson accused Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of "gambling with the national security."

Wilson, 47, said the illicit affair between resigned War Minister John Profumo and party girl Christine Keeler and its outcome were "a triumphant success for the Soviet espionage authorities."

He declared this was true if only because of its impairment of confidence between Britain and its allies.

"Either the security services knew and deliberately withheld the information from the prime minister—in which case heads have to roll—or they did not know, and if they did not it is a fair question to ask why," said Wilson.

GREAT SHOCK

Replying for the government, Macmillan acknowledged that "a great shock has been given to Parliament and indeed to the whole country" by the Profumo affair.

"To me as head of the administration," he told the House, "what has happened has inflicted a deep and bitter and lasting wound."

"I find it difficult to tell the House what a blow this has been to me for it seems to have undermined one of the very foundations on which political life must be conducted."

The Macmillan government was expected to survive the debate. But informed sources said Macmillan probably will quit later in the year.

Macmillan was confident after apparently rallying his entire Cabinet and most of the Conservative party to meet the onslaught of criticism over his handling of the government sex and security scandal.

WON SUPPORT

Political sources said Macmillan won sufficient Conservative party support by threatening to dissolve the government if he failed to get the confidence vote he wants at the end of the debate.

They said he warned he would advise Queen Elizabeth II to dissolve Parliament and call a national election. Opinion polls show that an election now would mean a Conservative disaster.

These sources said Macmillan also indicated he probably would resign as party leader by fall to make way for a younger man if rebellious party members fell into line.

The party's joint chairman, Lord Poole, said Macmillan would have full Cabinet backing. Health Minister Enoch Powell, once reported ready to resign from the Cabinet, added his support.

Profumo resigned last week. He admitted he had lied to Macmillan, his colleagues and Parliament when he told them in March there was nothing improper in his relationship with the red-haired party girl.

SHARING LOVE

During his affair with Miss Keeler in 1961 she also was sharing her love with Capt. Yevgeny Ivanov, an assistant naval attaché at the Soviet Embassy. The Labor party contends the triangular relationship was a grave security risk because it placed Profumo open to blackmail.

In its first comment on Ivanov, recalled to Moscow some time ago, the Soviet Union denied that he was mixed up in the affair.

The news agency Tass said it was authorized to call allegations against Ivanov "malicious inventions" apparently linked to the British domestic political battle.

London Airport security police stopped Miss Keeler's 18-year-old friend, Mandy Rice-Davies, from boarding a plane to Majorca.

Farmer Committee Meets To Settle Cotton Issue

DALLAS (AP)—A committee of farmers reconvenes today to review a request from the company that bought Billie Sol Estes assets for reinstatement of cotton allotments cancelled by the government.

The hearing before an Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Board was transferred from Pecos, home of the West Texas whose farm-based empire collapsed last year.

The government cancelled Estes allotments on 3,181 acres, charging he got them illegally through sale-leaseback agreements with farmers who lost allotments because such public works as lakes and highways took their land.

American Grain Co. wants to retain the allotments, a valuable part of the assets it bought from Estes' creditors.

At an earlier hearing, a former committee upheld some of the allotments and confirmed cancellation of others. American Grain is appealing the cancellations.

If the committee decides for Estes, his creditors will receive $528,928 in penalties which the Agriculture Department levied against Estes. The government has withheld the fine from what it owed Estes for storing grain under the surplus commodities program.

The government indicated earlier it would continue its claim that American Grain has no right to appeal or participate in the hearing because the cancellation was against Estes.

Strong Winds, Rain Skip Across County

More rains fell on Howard County and the area Sunday night, accompanied by strong winds. The rainfall was measured up to three-quarters of an inch in the Luther area, but Big Spring's official gauge caught only .29 inch.

Kentwood, on the southeast edge of the city received 4 inch and Webb AFB, to the southwest, measured 17 inch.

The Texas Electric Service Co. gauges had 3 inch at the plant and 2 inch at the switching station. The Snyder plant had reported 9 inch and the Champion Creek station, 2 inch.

Other area reports included 2 inch at Moss Creek Lake; traces at Coahoma, Elbow and Lomax; 3 inch at Vealmoor; 7 inch at Knott and 5 inch north of the town; 8 inch at Luther; 25 inch at Chalk; 2 inch at Forsan; and 2 inch at Lees Store.

Cooler weather will continue through tonight for the Big Spring-Howard County area, according to forecasts. The high temperature for today and tonight will be in the low eighties.

Low tonight will be between 55 and 60 degrees. Scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers are forecast today and Tuesday.

Tuesday's temperatures are expected to rise between 85 and 90 degrees.

At 11 a.m. Monday, the lake rose to elevation 2255.21 feet, an increase of 1 of a foot for the morning. It had dipped to 2255.00 last week before showers began to raise the level slightly. Then came heavier rains Saturday evening in the Ackerly area which feeds into the Colorado, followed by more showers Sunday night.

The Sunday rain was accompanied by strong wind which broke out a few pumphouse windows and did some damage to cabins.

Other lakes in the area were unaffected. Lake Colorado City, the Texas Electric Service reservoir southwest of Colorado City, was unchanged at elevation 2068.00 and Champion creek, across the Colorado to the east, was at elevation 2,058.50.

Reports on Powell Creek Lake showed it to be 19 feet, 11 inches at the spillway, and Moss Creek Lake is at 34 feet at spillway, two feet short of the top.

Weather Deaths

By The Associated Press

Rains ranging up to 7 inches fell in portions of Texas Sunday and Monday, causing two bus crashes and at least two deaths.

A 6-inch rain occurred near Hereford in the southwest part of the Panhandle.

Among the deaths blamed on the weather was that of James Ray Whitworth of San Antonio.

The fatal bus collision occurred Monday near Houston. Gale Griffin, about 6, was killed. The chartered bus was taking a group of youngsters and their sponsors to Tennessee from the South Main Baptist Church. Thirteen children suffered injuries.

Conquered Killer

Lobo is a giant of a dog, half mastiff, half boxer. Once he was a killer. Any animal that dared venture into his domain was in danger. That was before he found the kitten. Lobo came to his Tucson, Ariz., home carrying an unweaned cat and carefully placed it on the floor for the family to see. Now he cuddles his adopted child in his two front legs, and growls at anyone who acts as if he might take it away from him. When he moves, he opens his mouth wide, closes the jaws gently around the kitten's head, and walks. Lobo has been tamed.

Brother Of Slain Negro Takes Over

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The brother of slain Medgar Evers took over as Negro civil rights champion in Mississippi today and pledged to work for "the equality of all men."

Although Charles Evers, 40-year-old brother of the assassinated field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People did not disclose his policies in detail, the ferment in the Negro population was such that many onlookers had a sense of foreboding.

Sunday was a comparatively quiet Sabbath. Four young Negro women walked quietly into St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, across the street from the governor's mansion, and were allowed to remain throughout the service. However, at three other churches—Central Presbyterian, First Baptist and First Christian—Negroes were turned away.

At St. Andrew's the four Negro girls, clad neatly in summer frocks and carrying Bibles, listened from a rear row as the rector, the Rev. Christoph Keller Jr., read a passage from the First Epistle of John.

"If a man say I love God and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

Noting man's achievements in space, the minister said:

"In the field of human relations, what have we accomplished—fear, tension, suspicion and a tragic death in the community?"

He referred to the so far unsolved killing of Medgar Evers by a rifle bullet last Wednesday. He was shot in the back as he stepped out of an automobile near his home.

The body of Evers, a World War II veteran, sped today to Washington for burial in Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday.

A white hearse took it to Meridian, about 100 miles from here Sunday and there it was transferred to a Southern Railway train bound for Washington. "Oh Lord, Lord, Oh, Lord," a Negro woman screamed as the hearse entered the railway yard. A crowd of 100 Negroes singing mournfully, held a special goodbye service.

At Clarksdale, Miss., police arrested eight Negroes who paraded before two white churches carrying signs such as "Grant Into Us Our Freedom." Integration leaders said there would be demonstrations every day until a committee to study racial problems is set up.

In Jackson, it was announced that Charles Evers, a Chicago physical education director, would take over his late brother's post temporarily. He said his acceptance of the position grew out of a pact with his brother.

"We agreed that if anything should happen to either one of us, the other should carry on. I will fulfill that pact."

He said he would lay special stress on getting Negroes registered to vote.

Flash Flood Hits In Utah

A savage flash flood roared down the North Fork of the Duchesne River in northeastern Utah Sunday, cutting a 50-mile path of destruction.

A 10-foot wall of debris-filled water crashed through the campsite of the Richard L. Brown family, sweeping away their three sons and a family friend. One of the boys, Bradley Gale Brown, 4, drowned.

Volunteer crews plugged leaks that threatened the collapse of an earthen dam near Lander in central Wyoming, ending a threat to the community of 7,000. The level of the lake backed up by the dam 30 miles south of Lander on the Popo Agie River fell two feet after being swollen by heavy rains over the weekend.

The Utah flood carried away two other Brown boys, Rickie Lee, 8 and Steven Ferris, 5, and their friend, Robert Timmons, 16. Timmons, awakened by the roar in the tent in which they were sleeping, saw a wall of mud rushing toward him. He grabbed Rickie. The pair were carried 15 feet, landing on a pile of rocks. Steven made safety by himself.

DOES BAPTISM SAVE?

There is no merit in baptism. Only by God's power can we be saved. "... The gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Rom. 6:23). This gift is conditional, however. The Lord has given the sinner commands to obey before He saves him. Christ is the "author of eternal salvation to all them that obey him" (Heb. 5:9). Many people, while admitting that faith, repentance and confession are conditions to salvation, deny the possibility of a fourth condition. If there can be three conditions (or even one), there can be four; and yet salvation be by grace. While none of these conditions save in the sense of meriting salvation, they all save in the sense of being determining factors in one's salvation—in the sense of being conditional to salvation. In this sense, baptism does save; and the Bible makes the exact statement that "baptism doth also now save us" (1 Pet. 3:21).

U. S. Racism Harvest For Red Propaganda

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
An AP News Analysis

Racial violence in the United States gives the world's Communists a golden harvest of propaganda. They are making the most of it.

Newspapers and radio in Communist-ruled countries from China to Cuba have seized enthusiastically upon the events in the U.S. South.

The Communists tell the people of their own countries and the world that what is happening in the United States proves that claims of American freedom and democracy are fraudulent, that American leaders are hypocrites, that American "ruling circles" secretly plot brutal suppression of minorities.

Red propaganda machines are trying to see to it that the events in the United States do Americans and their system the most harm possible. The messages are pounded out day after day in broadcasts to Africa and other areas populated by colored peoples.

States is factual and restrained. But the general tenor of Soviet coverage seems aimed at convincing the Soviets that minorities in their nation—and all working people—are far better off than ordinary people under the American system.

How effective is this propaganda? One example: Friday, in North Korea, a U.S. general asked a Communist general for information on two U.S. pilots forced down in Red territory. The American asked the Communists to "act like men living in the 20th century." The North Korean whipped out a photograph of a police dog lunging at a Negro in Birmingham, Ala., and snapped that it was "the true picture of what you call civilization."

Here is just a scattering of samples of how Communist propaganda in the month since the outbreak of disorders in Birmingham has been using U.S. race troubles.

Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper of the U.S.S.R.: "The outrages committed by racists against people who are denied human rights just because of the black color of their skin evoke indignation in the whole world, and especially in countries of Africa and Asia. The wolfish laws of capitalist society lie at the bedrock of its foreign and domestic policy."

Investia, the Soviet government paper: "No hypocrisy by Washington officials can hide the obvious fact that they have no intention of really stamping out racism. There is a link between the racist outrages in Alabama and the entire Washington policy."

Neues Deutschland, Communist organ of East Germany: "Day after day, people in the United States are being abused, humiliated, tormented, oppressed because their skin is darker than that of their white fellow citizens. President Kennedy who is now preparing to visit Europe as a 'crusader for democracy' could eliminate it if he concentrated the power of his office on it."

U.S. DENOUNCED

Red China: "Federations of trade unions, youths, students and others are passing resolutions denouncing the United States government. Said a typical Chinese broadcast: 'This battle is a fresh reminder to the people of the whole world of the hypocrisy of U.S. democracy and freedom, and serves to expose the Kennedy administration's duplicity. President Kennedy plays a despicable role in the racial discrimination and persecution.'"

A Moscow broadcast to East Africa: "If the U.S. government really wanted to, order would be restored in Alabama and Mississippi in 10 minutes, but Washington does not want to curb the racists. In fact, U.S. ruling circles are organizing and directing actions of racist hoodlums in the South and across the whole country."

A Tass, Soviet news agency, dispatch circulated in Europe: "Profiting from the connivance of federal authorities, the racists are mustering their forces and increasing terror against the Negroes who have risen to fight for elementary rights."

The sheriff said Mrs. Rose, who was carrying about $4,000 cash when she was arrested and that Rose had a larger amount.

Rose was in jail here awaiting an appeal on revocation of a prison parole. He had served three years of a 15-year robbery sentence from Dallas when he was paroled.

Admiral Cites Importance Of Nuclear-Armed Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Claude V. Ricketts said today the Russians "would be incapable of preventing retaliation" from a fleet of Polaris missile-firing ships operating under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations and the Navy's top expert on the proposed multilateral NATO nuclear force, made this confident statement in an exclusive interview.

It was his first such interview since returning June 8 from London. There, he explained to British naval and government officials the U.S. Navy's thinking on the proposed force of merchant-type vessels to be manned by mixed crews from some of the 15 NATO nations.

The British have been pictured as skeptical about the concept.

In fact, except for the West Germans, no NATO nation has demonstrated any readiness to contribute cash and men to such a nuclear force.

Challenging the doubters, Ricketts contended a ship-borne Polaris force would have "a high degree of survivability" — meaning ability to elude any Soviet attack.

IMPOSSIBLE

The Navy's second-in-command argued it would be impossible for the Soviets to pinpoint all or even a considerable number of the Polaris ships in the millions of square miles of ocean in which such vessels would roam.

This was the basis of Ricketts' assertion that the Russians would be unable to prevent this force of about 25 ships from launching their 200 or so missiles at Soviet targets if war came.

"We of the U.S. Navy have made a very thorough analysis of all of the military facets of this question," the three-star admiral told an AP reporter.

"We have come to the very definite conclusion that this would be a very effective force. We are convinced that our conclusions are right."

Ricketts disclaimed any role as salesman for the multilateral plan — one London paper called him a "Polaris peddler" — but said he went to London to answer whatever questions the British had in mind concerning the technical and strategic aspects of the proposal.

He stressed he did not get into political questions or the issue of money contributions.

U.S. THINKING

Meanwhile, it was learned from other knowledgeable sources that current U.S. thinking follows these lines:

—The cost of building and operating a force of some 25 Polaris surface vessels mounting about eight missiles apiece would be substantially less — perhaps $1 billion less — than the $5 billion mentioned in the past.

—The proposed NATO fleet would be built over a period of six or seven years.

—The Polaris launching ships would be constructed in the yards of the participating countries, which would provide a means of offsetting some of the cost of joining the force.

—Command of the vessels and the composition of their crews would probably be allocated in proportion to national contributions. Under present prospects, them with defensive weapons. Escorting warships would add heavily to the cost of the force and would draw attention to the Polaris ships.

The U.S. Navy agrees that crews of mixed nationality would pose critical problems in the close confinement of submarines but the experts believe the problems are much less severe on surface ships.

American officials foresee no trouble in maintaining proper safeguards against premature firing or in developing the machinery for rapid response.

As they view it, the problem of command and control is no more complicated than that which they say has been successfully overcome with other weapons systems under NATO.

Whether such ships could roam the Atlantic and Europe's coastal waters undetected, whether the surface ships would have to be escorted to protect them from air or submarine attack, whether they would have to carry anti-aircraft guns or missiles to defend themselves, and whether a mixed crew would present serious problems of compatibility and efficiency.

BLENDED STRATEGY

U.S. authorities are counting on the surface Polaris ships to blend into thousands of merchant-type vessels plying the Atlantic and Mediterranean on any given day.

It's the U.S. view that the Russians would face an impossible task in locating and trailing each of the Polaris ships, and keeping an accurate fix on them so as to be able to strike all of them at one time.

There is no plan to escort the Polaris surface ships, or to arm

Parole Violator Shoots Himself

WACO (AP) — Ernest Rose Jr., 40-year-old parole violator, shot and seriously wounded himself Sunday because he thought he had killed a deputy sheriff while making a daring break from the McLennan County jail.

The deputy, O. D. Jackson, was shot only in the hand and shoulder during the Saturday jailbreak. He was not hurt seriously.

Rose was found critically wounded in a clump of weeds within the Waco city limits Sunday by Texas Rangers, who received a telephone tip that he was ready to give up.

When officers arrived, Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples said Rose whispered that he had shot himself because he heard he had killed the deputy.

Rose lapsed into unconsciousness as he was taken to Hillcrest Memorial Hospital. Doctors found he had been shot in the side.

Meanwhile, Rose's wife, who was arrested Saturday night, was released on bond after being charged with intent to murder and aiding a prisoner to escape.

Justice of the peace John Cabanis originally set bond at $50,000 on each of two charges. Later he reduced the amounts to $12,500 on each charge.

Sheriff C. C. Macey said Mrs. Rose set the escape when she drove up to the jail in a new car. Rose obtained permission to go to a car port outside the jail on pretense of signing papers for purchase of the car, Macey said. Jackson accompanied the prisoner.

The sheriff said Mrs. Rose, who weighs only about 85 pounds, apparently slipped a gun from her purse to Rose, who then turned it on Jackson.

Jackson snatched at the gun and in an ensuing scuffle was wounded. The one shot fired nicked him in the hand and the slug lodged in his right shoulder.

Rose and his wife sped away in the new car, which was later found abandoned on a farm road near Waco. It contained two .22 caliber rifles.

Officers were told that Rose had spent the night in woods near Waco and was driven to the city about dawn by a farmer.

Rose's wife was arrested at the home of an elderly Waco Negro woman a few hours after the escape.

Cabanis told newsmen Mrs. Rose was carrying about $4,000 cash when she was arrested and that Rose had a larger amount.

Rose was in jail here awaiting an appeal on revocation of a prison parole. He had served three years of a 15-year robbery sentence from Dallas when he was paroled.

Several Roads Flooded As Rains Hit West Texas

By The Associated Press

Near cloudbursts hit two areas and soaking rains ranged across most others from the Panhandle-Plains of West Texas eastward Sunday and early Monday, flooding several roads.

A southbound cool front churned up the boisterous weather, and vicious winds unroofed a church and toppled trees in San Angelo.

By Monday morning showers and light rain also had developed in southern sections of the state as the cooler air reached the upper Texas coast. Other showers continued to push eastward across North Texas, losing force as they progressed.

The heaviest downpour was a 5.36-inch deluge on the Charlie Dankworth Ranch near Paint Rock, east of San Angelo.

Amarillo on the storm-plagued Texas coast. Other showers continued to push eastward across North Texas, losing force as they progressed.

To the south, Canyon measured 3.20 inches U.S. Highway 87 between Canyon and Happy was closed by high water for a time, and several other roads flooded in the same general vicinity.

Farmers in Western Castro County, who already had replanted several times, again saw hail beat young cotton flat. At least some said it now is too late to get another crop into the ground.

Numerous points received 1.5 to 2 inches of rain from the Panhandle into extreme East Texas, where the wind broke telephone lines in parts of Jacksonville.

The moisture and the cool front brought at least temporary relief from summery heat in northern areas of the state, but forecasts called for temperatures to start back up Tuesday.

Showers were expected to continue into the evening in western and southern sections of Texas, and a few more were in prospect Tuesday in the west.

The mercury hit 106 degrees Sunday at Presidio in the West Texas Big Bend Laredo recorded 103, Junction 101 and Austin, Houston, Lufkin, San Antonio and Wink all 100.

CITES PERSONAL REASONS

Ben-Gurion Quits Long Service As Israel Leader

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — David Ben-Gurion, prime minister almost continuously since Israel was founded in 1948, has resigned for personal reasons.

A government spokesman said he also will relinquish his seat in Parliament but will remain as head of a caretaker government until a new one is formed.

Speculation spread that the 76-year-old leader resigned Sunday because of criticism in Parliament over his handling of a security case. But a communique issued after a Cabinet meeting said Ben-Gurion's reasons for quitting were "not connected with any state problem or event."

One source said that when the Cabinet pressed Ben-Gurion for the reasons he replied, "I am keeping them to myself."

The security case involved German scientists developing nuclear rockets for the United Arab Republic. An Israeli security chief, who never was identified, resigned last March because of differences with Ben-Gurion. Opposition parties demanded an open debate on the resignation, but Ben-Gurion's Mafai party averted it.

Two Israeli agents on trial in Basel, Switzerland, on charges of threatening a relative of a German scientist in Egypt, testified last week that Egyptian factories were turning out nuclear rockets to menace Israel.

The trial produced a feeling that the security chief had been vindicated and that this induced Ben-Gurion to resign.

Once before, Ben-Gurion resigned under heavy fire but returned to office after heading a caretaker government. He quit in January 1961, in a controversy involving former Defense Minister Pinhas Lavon. The dispute reportedly centered on policy toward Egypt and a security leak. Details were never disclosed.

Ben-Gurion has headed seven of the nine Israeli Cabinets since the state was founded in 1948.

He took a respite in 1954 because of "spiritual fatigue." Moshe Sharett took his place in heading the fifth and sixth Cabinets. Sharett is not considered likely to succeed Ben-Gurion.

Most prominently mentioned as a possible successor is Finance Minister Levi Eshkol, 68, regarded as the No. 2 man in both the cabinet and the Mafai party.

Close friends indicated Ben-Gurion plans to retire to a settlement in the Negev Desert to write his memoirs and write on Jewish history.

In Caverns Of The Law

TOWNSEND, Tenn. (AP) — Sometimes you jump right out of the frying pan and into the fire. Two University of Tennessee students were rescued from Scott Gap Cave Sunday — then charged with exploring in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park without a permit.

The two spelunkers — cave explorers — John Cathey, 21, of Jackson, Tenn., and James Gibbs, 22, of Martin, Tenn., had been trapped 24 hours before the Blount County Rescue Squad pulled them out of the 60-foot-deep cave, eight miles west of this east Tennessee town.

A search party of about 50 persons, including the Blount and Knox County rescue squads, park rangers, and university officials and students, had searched for them since midnight Saturday.

The number of kids it holds has never been settled.

The Volkswagen Station Wagon is a good four feet shorter than conventional wagons. Yet it holds more than the biggest wagon you can buy. (Herbert, stop that this minute!)

It holds an army of kids. Or eight adults. None of them skinny. The seats are five feet wide. All of them tall. The seats are higher than in conventional wagons. (Herbert, don't you dare!)

Take out the middle and rear seats, and you can carry a seesaw, a slide, a rocking horse. (Wait till I tell your father!)

Keep the rear seat in and you can still carry bigger, bulkier things than you could in a conventional wagon. A crib or a baby carriage. A chest of drawers. An open playpen. They fit easily through the wide side doors. (Herbert!)

All the way back behind the rear seat, there's room for 9 or 10 pieces of luggage. Easy to load or unload through the back door.

Now the Volkswagen Station Wagon has a new more powerful engine — 25% more horsepower for quicker pick-up and higher top speed. You get this extra power without burning extra gas.

It also has bigger brakes and a larger clutch to go with the more powerful engine.

And up front there's a new individual drivers seat that adjusts to give you all the leg room you need, along with a new oversize passenger seat. A new fresh air heater/defroster.

You'll find all of these new things in the VW Deluxe Station Wagon (shown with sunroof and 23 windows, or in the standard model).

Either are perfect for people with lots of kids.

Or just one like Herbert.

DEAR ABBY

It's Up To The Pupil

DEAR ABBY: The school just called to tell me that they were going to keep my boy back. That means he will have to take the fifth grade over again. I asked if he would have the same teacher next year and they said yes. I told them they were making a big mistake because if she couldn't teach him anything in one year, she sure couldn't do it in two. What do you think of a school system like that?

HIS MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Don't assume that your son's failure to pass was the teacher's fault. If a pupil is willing to learn, ANYBODY can teach him. If he's not—NOBODY can.

DEAR ABBY: I saw a man on a train reading a book entitled "DEAR ABBY" and he sure seemed to be getting a big kick out of it. I suppose you write it. Send me the book and if it's any good I'll send you a check.

HAROLD
DEAR HAROLD: Send me the check and if it's any good I'll send you the book.

DEAR ABBY: Three of us women who work in the same office have a problem. It's the fourth woman. She exaggerates so much, it's pitiful. Anything we have done, she has done better. If one of our children gets an honor, hers has had a bigger one. As for diseases, just mention one and she has had it. Only she had it longer and it was almost fatal. When I told her that my daughter had four impacted wisdom teeth extracted, she said HER daughter had SIX impacted wisdom teeth extracted. How do you put a woman like that in her place?

HAD IT
DEAR HAD IT: Sumner down and let her talk. People who tell such whoopery away from home are used to being ignored. They feel the need to be "important" somewhere. Be kind.

DEAR ABBY: "Only Human" sounds like my husband. I certainly am as cold as Alaska. Know why? He takes a bath once a week, wears the same socks all week, has four teeth, but won't go to a dentist. Sometimes he smells so bad I can't sleep. If the men who have "frigid" wives would take stock of themselves, they wouldn't need advice.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A public drive to get the newly formed extreme leftist political party, the People's Electoral Front, recognized as a party failed to gather the required 2,500 persons Sunday.

The party's leaders charged that police frightened prospective members away.

Front leader Arul Ugalde said the gathering of 2,500 persons at a public meeting was a requirement to be registered as a political party in the federal district.

In a heated speech during which he claimed Mexico's present government was exploiting the people and that the country was under foreign economic domination, Ugalde declared:

"Sabotage prevented the required 2,500 persons from being at this gathering. Police agents scared them off."

Security police, wearing plain clothes, circulated through the crowd as Ugalde spoke. Squads of the city's riot police stood by in sight of the meeting place, a plaza on the edge of the downtown district.

Officials said they were there solely to maintain order.

Ugalde urged the front's followers to turn out next Sunday and "bring the others with you." Estimates of the number present ranged from 1,000 to 2,000.

The front was formed recently by a group of leftists. They include leaders of two movements which have approval of former President Lazaro Cardenas, the National Liberation Movement and the Independent Campesino Central.

Although Cardenas, a prominent pro-Communist, has taken no public stand on the front, he has allowed his name to be associated with it.

U.S. Military Keeps Eye On Space Venture

WASHINGTON (AP) — American military leaders are keeping a watchful eye on the Soviet Union's latest space venture—a feat that evoked little surprise or concern elsewhere in the capital.

A rendezvous of cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova with cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky would have high military significance. It could indicate an ability to replace crews of vehicles used as space patrols and an ability to inspect orbiting vehicles for nuclear armaments.

Shooting down a satellite in wartime might not be a difficult task, some military experts believe. But before a decision to destroy a suspicious satellite were made, an inspection would be desirable. Space rendezvous could provide the means.

Other than the possible military significance of the twin space shoot, the orbiting of a woman caught the most attention here and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., the starting point for American space flights.

TYPICAL REACTION
Typical of the congressional reaction was the comment of Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the Senate Space Committee. "I'm not surprised," the New Mexico Democrat said when told of the launching of Miss Tereshkova. "There isn't any reason why women can't go up into space."
Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, said "It doesn't surprise me that the Russians want to pull another spectacular by putting a woman into space. It shouldn't interfere with our scientific program. I don't want to downgrade their achievement, but it doesn't mean we have to follow suit."

A note of concern was sounded, however, by a member of the Senate committee, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, who said, "This is a further indication that the Soviets are ahead of us in space."

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, O. B. Lloyd Jr., said the United States has no current plan for putting a woman into space. Such a prospect, he said, is "way down the road."

At Cape Canaveral, space agency personnel had no official comment on Miss Tereshkova's flight, but privately they saluted the achievement.

Jerry Cobb, an Oklahoma City pilot who was the first of 13 American women to pass physical tests comparable to those for male astronauts, said, "It's a shame that since we are eventually going to put a woman into space we didn't go ahead and do it first."

No Controversy On Congress List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bruised by a major slapdown last week and concerned over revival of a conservative coalition, administration leaders are keeping the congressional docket clear of controversial bills this week.

A batch of relatively non-explosive measures is scheduled for the House, which last Wednesday defeated President Kennedy's area redevelopment by a 209-204 vote. It was the second big victory of the year for the conservative coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Previously it had ganged up to deny the President authority to create new Cabinet-level departments.

A companion area redevelopment bill is on the Senate calendar and there is a remote chance it may be called up this week.

Today the House considers a bill to provide office space and clerical help for presidents-elect between the time of their election and their inauguration. In the past the cost of these necessary transitional activities has been borne by political parties and individuals.

Also on the House schedule today if time permits are several bills dealing with the Federal Housing Administration, health benefits for retired federal employees and retirement benefits for employees of the architect of the Capitol.

The annual appropriation bill for the State, Justice and Commerce departments and the federal judiciary is scheduled for House debate Tuesday. It faces no major opposition although the efforts will be made to trim its $1.8 billion total.

For the balance of the week the House will consider bills to suspend the equal time provisions of the Federal Communications Act for the 1964 presidential campaign and to limit expenditures on veterans' hospitals.

The annual defense appropriation bill is slated to emerge from the House Appropriations Committee Friday.

The Senate's program for this week is very similar to its docket of last week—not much of anything.

Just when more major legislation will hit the congressional floors will depend on an appraisal by leaders of the renewed strength of the conservative coalition and the potential effect of the forthcoming civil rights fight.

Piling up in committees and nearing completion are bills dealing with tax revision and reduction, foreign aid, assistance for education and job opportunities for young people.

Utah fish and game officials added a black note though. They said probably all of the fish in the river—a sportsmen's paradise—were killed by the wild waters.

Trout On Menu

DUCHESENE, Utah (AP) — It will be trout on the menu tonight for many residents of this northeastern Utah town tonight.

The receding waters of a flash flood on the North Fork of the Duchesne River Sunday left hunreds of fish on dry land. Area residents quickly scooped them up. Many weighed as much as five pounds.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were

National Figures Talk Over Racial Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional and religious leaders gathered at the White House today to hear appeals from President Kennedy that they act to improve the lot of Negro Americans.

The separate sessions are part of Kennedy's two-pronged attack on inequality: Using persuasion of private citizens to try to speed desegregation, sounding out key members of Congress prior to dispatch of his civil rights legislative package to Capitol Hill later this week.

On the voluntary front, Kennedy already has met with business and labor groups with several governors and a week ago in Hawaii with the nation's mayors. Another session with governors is planned for Tuesday, and there have been reports he will meet with educators Wednesday.

The President called in congressional leaders last week. This morning's repeat session comes amid signs that civil rights supporters still lack the votes to kill the filibuster Southern senators are almost certain to mount in opposition to Kennedy's legislation.

House passage of some form of civil rights legislation is regarded as likely. The story is apt to be different in the Senate, for an Associated Press canvass indicates leaders cannot count on marshaling the two-thirds of those voting to shut off debate.

Those who have changed their minds, those who were absent a year ago and those who remain doubtful, they could add up 64 votes. This would be three short of the 67 needed to curb debate if all 100 senators voted.

The 10 senators who voted against cloture last year, or whose predecessors did, and now indicate they are willing to vote to shut off debate to obtain passage of any meaningful measure they feel would help prevent further racial violence include:

written by Justices Brennan and Douglas.

Justice Stewart wrote a dissenting opinion.

Stewart's dissent said he felt the records in the Maryland and Pennsylvania cases were so "fundamentally deficient as to make impossible an informed or reasonable determination of the Constitutional issues presented."

KEY TARGET

The Dixie senators' key target probably will be an expected administration proposal calling for legal steps to prevent discrimination in public places and private businesses. The Kennedy program probably will include, too, proposals to strengthen voting rights, authorize the attorney general to legally speed school integration and to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

FAVORING CLOTURE

Three Democratic senators absent when the 1962 vote was taken but recorded their favor of cloture are Frank Church of Idaho, Warren G. Magnuson of Washington and Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Five who indicated they remain likely to oppose cloture, include Democrat Alan Bible of Nevada and Republicans Wallace F. Bennett of Alaska, Daniel B. Brewster of Maryland, Carl Hayden of Arizona and Ralph Yarborough of Texas.

Whites Criticized For Halting Talks

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A Negro leader strongly criticized white leaders today for breaking off racial negotiations, saying the whites "were plotting like Judases and resorting to political manipulation."

Mrs. Gloria Richardson of the Cambridge Non-Violent Action Committee, also called a mass rally of Negroes for tonight and urged that National Guard troops be kept in the community.

Mrs. Richardson said the Negroes' reply was delayed until today "because we felt Sunday a most inappropriate day to reply to such a dastardly statement issued by the white political structure of this city and county."

Williams' Fund Nearing Goal

Friends started a fund three weeks ago to send Kenneth Williams to a clinic in Denver, Colo., for physio-therapy, and now the goal is looming in sight.

Williams was left paralyzed after being injured in a fall while performing as a clown for the Big Spring Junior Rodeo three years ago. Since then he has regained the use of his arms.

With some signs of feeling returning to his lower limbs, Williams has hopes that additional treatment might help. Friends set a goal of $700 and response has been so generous that about $500 has been received.

Cosmonauts Come Close in Orbits

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's mixed space duet logged its first 24 hours in joint orbit today. An official announcement said that on their first orbit the male and female comrades moved to within three miles of each other.

As they entered the second day of their joint flight, the world's first woman cosmonaut, Valentina Tereshkova, 26, still was flashing smiles for Soviet television and Lt. Col. Valery Bykovsky performed a stunt in his cabin.

The woman cosmonaut sent a salute to the United States.

Miss Tereshkova went into orbit at 12:30 p.m. Sunday and made radio contact with Bykovsky a half hour later.

Then they messaged Khrushchev.

"Dependable radio communications have been established between our space ships. Are at close distance from each other. All systems in the ships are working excellently. Feeling fine."

Miss Tereshkova appeared to be enjoying her experience keenly. Strapped to her space couch, she smiled frequently as she was speaking into a microphone attached to her helmet.

Obviously aware she was being watched by television viewers all over the Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc nations, she waved gaily at the camera.

At one point she watched as a pencil drifted—weightless in space—before her eyes.

SOVIETS JUBILANT

Announcement of her long-rumored flight electrified Moscow. Jubilant Soviets hovered over their television sets to live shots of the dimpled blonde and her space ship flickered on the screen.

"This is Seagull, this is Seagull," her excited, high-pitched voice crackled over the airwaves as she began each transmission. Soviet cosmonauts use birds' names as their call signs. Bykovsky calls himself "Hawk."

Arab Unity Plan Asleep, Nasser Willing To Wait

CAIRO (AP) — The ambitious plan for Arab unity agreed to by Egypt, Iraq and Syria hardly two months ago is now a sleeping beauty—lovely to look at but deadly cold.

Prince Charming, in this case Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, shows no immediate signs of bestowing the kiss that might arouse the princess.

Fresh from morale-boosting trips to Algeria, Yugoslavia and Addis Ababa, Nasser made no effort on his return to hide his disillusionment with maneuverings in his own neighborhood. He now tells visitors he is willing to bide his time and remains confident of eventual Arab unity — on his own terms.

parent sense of contradiction—charge that Bitar's regime is nothing but a facade for military rule.

In Iraq, Iraqi President Abdel Salam Aref—has not yet made the political pilgrimage to Cairo—says relatively little but proceeds rapidly to plant Ba'ath supporters in key posts and does his best to strengthen the less well-entrenched Ba'athists in Syria.

In Egypt itself unity commands a questionable following, particularly since the previous Egyptian-Syria union went sour.

In Iraq, the strong Kurdish minority is still battling for its own autonomy and wants union with no one. The Shiite Moslems, making up 50 per cent of the remaining population, want no domination from the Sunni Moslems of Cairo. Only in Syria is Nasser's view of unity clearly evident.

Fiction Better Than Documentary

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — An NBC camera crew, following a San Francisco detective for 21 days and nights attempted to patch together a realistic portrait of police work. Unfortunately for reality, Jack Webb in "Dragnet" and the detectives in "The Lineup" did it better or, at any rate, more satisfactorily.
The real-life detective in Sunday night's "Show of the Week" got around a lot to a slashing to a strangling, to the aftermath of a fight, to jail, to interrogation rooms, to Skid Row. He kept questioning people—some of them obviously drunk—but he almost never let them answer his questions.
We never learn anybody's name or what they've done, except for one professional thief, called Skinny Richard from whom the detective got no information at all.
It seemed apparent that most of the time the detective was talking cautiously for the camera, explaining things that didn't need explaining, moralizing earnestly, and trying to keep suspects or witnesses from saying anything libelous or incriminating.
At hour's end our detective had obtained one statement and located a missing witness, but had a lot still hanging fire.

Common Market Meeting To Show How Wind Blows

BRUSSELS (Belgium AP) — A two-day meeting next month could tell whether the major nations of Western Europe will move ahead now toward forming a single country like the United States, or mark time until President De Gaulle leaves the scene.
The meeting originally scheduled to start Monday, has been postponed because of memorial services for Pope John XXIII that day officials said. They rescheduled the meeting for July 10 and 11.
The delegates are high policy makers and foreign ministers of the six lands in the European Economic Community. These are France, West Germany, Belgium, Italy, Holland and Luxembourg. They are known as the Common Market.
Among those due are Foreign Ministers Maurice Couve de Murville, who is De Gaulle's trusted mouthpiece, and Gerhard Schroeder, widely expected to be the next-but-one leader of the West German government.
Conspicuously absent — any spokesman for Britain.
For years after the movement toward unity began, no British government could make up its mind to join. In July 1961 Prime Minister Harold Macmillan finally announced he would start talks. After 18 months De Gaulle stopped them, Britain, he said, still had too many ties to the United States and the Commonwealth to be a full member of the European Community.
That was in January. Since then De Gaulle has made his veto stick.
The other five members struck back by virtually paralyzing the movement toward unity. At stake were issues of farm prices and markets, highly important to French peasants and to the basic economy of a United States of Europe.
Europeans who want to move faster seem doomed to disappointment. They now have to think about 1965, when De Gaulle may retire, or 1966, when Common Market rules provide that he can be ousted.
The July meeting may also act on a problem that sounds like a minor one but which can tell a lot about the kind of union the West Europeans want to form. The issue is the customs duty in West Germany on American frozen chickens.
To protect European farmers against foreign competition, the Common Market has devised a system of variable levies for some farm imports. In less than a year, it pushed the duty on American broilers from 5 cents to 13 25 cents a pound. The United States brought heavy pressure to get the duty down, but less than three weeks ago the Common Market ministers raised it again.
There has been some hope lately that the West Germans may be ready at this meeting to make at least a token reduction in the chicken duty, as sweetening for President Kennedy's visit.

A Devotional For The Day

Thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord. (Deuteronomy 6:18.)
PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for Thy love and watchful care over us. Help us to exercise faith in our daily walk in life. Grant us the power needful to surmount all the trials and difficulties of life. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

How Did It Happen?

After several sessions of hacking away at the task, the legislature last session finally passed a measure revising the criminal procedure code. In the confusion of the close of the session, the wrong copy of the bill was sent to the governor. Because this did not represent the will of the legislature and contained some obviously bad sections, the governor vetoed the bill.

A tremendous amount of work, time and expense thus went down the drain.

How did this happen, and what steps can be taken to prevent a repetition of something of this sort in the future?

Was it due to a mistake brought on by hurry, or, as has been charged, by dishonesty or inefficiency in the engraving room? Or was the mistake committed by a member of the Texas Senate?

Once the governor vetoed the measure, Attorney General Waggoner Carr said that the source of error was not a moot question and therefore there was no point in pressing an investigation to fix the blame. Forgetting the incident is the too-easy way. If the attorney general won't or can't investigate the matter, then perhaps the Senate itself can pinpoint the circumstance and fix the responsibility for this error. To be sure some repetitions might be at stake, but so are methods of doing business in the legislature.

Originality And Ignorance

The notion that language is anything the people make it has a certain logic. The logic collapses under the impact of what actually happens to language when rules and precedents are shrugged off and ignorance substitutes for knowledge.

It is often claimed that when people come up with new ways of saying things they are unconsciously enriching the language, and that this is unreservedly good. It is not good if the change reflects, not originality, but mere lack of understanding.

When people say "softenize" for "soften" they show that they don't know their language. When they take short cuts in the name of color, they do not display originality but ignorance.

When a doctor says, as one did on the occasion of the Cooper orbiting, that the astronaut "egresses" from the capsule—thereby making a verb of a noun instead of using one of the verbs meaning to come out—that contributes nothing to the language.

And so on. The English language is a remarkably strong, supple instrument for conveying thought. Usage born of carelessness and ignorance weakens and cheapens it. Though our language need not and should not remain stagnant, changes should be accepted only as they improve on tested methods of expression. "Different" is not a synonym for "better."

The Other Side Of The Coin

WASHINGTON — Broadcasting companies are supposed to make available "equal time" for discussion of public issues by both sides. Yet the President of the United States is permitted to use virtually all television networks and radio stations for a public speech while a spokesman of the opposition is given no opportunity to present his side of a controversy to that same audience immediately afterwards on the same evening.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY addressed the nation on Tuesday night on the subject of widespread disturbances over racial questions. The same broadcasting facilities which were furnished to the President, at the request of the White House, were not given to a spokesman of the opposition viewpoint in Congress for his side of the controversy.

property by process of agitation, demonstration, intimidation, law defiance and civil disobedience. . . . of the land should symbolize respect for law, whether it be legally enacted ordinances of the meanest hamlet in the land or the written word of our national charter—the Constitution.

"I was, therefore, shocked to hear the President justify, if not encourage, the present wave of mass demonstrations accompanied by the practices of sitting or lying in public streets and blocking traffic, forming human walls before the doors of legal businesses and assaulting with deadly weapons officers of the law whose only offense was undertaking to maintain order and protect private property.

Is The Trip Worth The Trouble?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The main point in the dispute over President Kennedy's trip to Europe next week—has been criticized for it—comes down to this: Is it worth the time and trouble? Probably not.

It doesn't figure to do any harm either. But it's about the most poorly planned trip Kennedy has made.

McGeorge Bundy, one of his top White House assistants, said Sunday the journey had been under consideration for a year. But since the consideration started things have changed in Europe and at home, too.

HE'LL FLY TO Germany next Sunday and then go to Ireland, the home of his ancestors, and then to Britain and Italy but not to France. The purpose is to pep up the Western alliance.

Since President de Gaulle of France has shaken the alliance more than anyone or anything, he would seem the one who most needs talking to. But De Gaulle didn't ask Kennedy to stop by.

The President will be leaving here at a time he calls critical for this country, meaning the racial dispute.

It hasn't subsided Kennedy will set out for Europe not long after handing Congress a package of civil rights bills which will start such a fight that Congress may be here till next winter.

Germany, Britain and Italy—from the standpoint of long-range talking to the government leaders there—are pretty much in a short-range and gummy kind of condition.

IN GERMANY Kennedy will talk to Chancellor Adenauer who may quit in another couple of months. So Kennedy will also have to talk to Ludwig Erhard, who is slated to be Adenauer's successor. This then, in no funny sense, will be double-talk.

It's Hard On Cats

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

The average bridegroom today is about 2½ years older than his bride. In 1900 the age difference was four years.

Civic rebuilding programs are sometimes hard on animals as well as displaced people. A humane organization reports that the razing of a six-block area here left 400 cats homeless.

Douche For Medical Purposes Only

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about feminine hygiene.

Dear Dr. Molner: A woman take a douche unless otherwise advised by her doctor. At what age should a mother advise her daughter to start douching?—MRS. D. M. G.

The overwhelming opinion among gynecologists is that the douche should be used for medicinal purposes only, and that it is not necessary or even advisable generally.

Medication may be necessary for minor (or even not-so-minor) infections of one kind or another, and the douche is an excellent way of applying it. But douching is not automatically a necessary form of hygiene when one is in good health.

and non-irritating solution of a teaspoon of salt to a pint of warm water, if you insist on a douche whether you need one or not.

When a medicated douche is prescribed, it should be taken lying down in a tub, and the solution allowed to run in slowly. The genital outlet can be closed a bit by finger pressure, to allow some distention of the vaginal tract and thus permit full effect of the medication.

Your daughter should be told what a douche is and how it is done as part of her general education. It is surprising how many women don't know how to go about this procedure when advised to do so. As to a douche for hygiene, forget it.

fissure of the lower bowel? I have been going to the doctor, and using suppositories and mineral oil, but nothing seems to help. Will it finally heal?—MRS. N. S.

Your doctor can answer that better than I can. If it is gradually healing, stick with the present program. If it isn't—then having it corrected surgically is the answer. Removing the fissure permits fresh tissue to heal more readily.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would it be harmful for a girl of 13 to shave her legs?—G. W.

No.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

If You Don't Drive Or Drink

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Mrs. E. H. Warner of Des Moines stopped at a market where she isn't known, to buy some meat. Then she discovered she hadn't enough money in her purse.

She asked the market manager whether he would cash a check.

He asked for her driver's license; she didn't have one. He asked for her state liquor purchase permit book; she didn't have one.

She observed: "I guess it's very difficult to cash a check if you don't drive or drink."

The store manager grinned and said: "Aw gimme the check."

Around The Rim

The School With No Grades

This and that:

In San Mateo, Calif., there is an elementary school with no first grade, no second grade and no third grade.

Next year it won't have a fourth grade.

It is one of a little handful of that state's schools trying out what many educators believe to be one of the most promising new ideas in education—the "ungraded primary" or "skill level" school.

CHARLES ECHTERNACHT, principal of the school, says such a set-up is harder for the teachers but seems to be better for the students.

How does it work?

The idea is not, unlike what some people think, to eliminate goals of achievement for the youngsters. On the contrary, more attention is given to the child's actual level of skill than before.

The school has no report cards but students are watched closely for the amount of progress they show and conferences between teachers and parents are welcomed.

IF YOU WANT to take good color pictures, don't let your camera bake in oven-like areas of your car on trips, experts on the subject advise.

The camera and its precious film will heat up in a hurry in places like a glove compartment, the trunk or in the rear window.

Best treatment for the camera is to roll it in a towel and place it on the floor behind the front seat, where the sun won't hit it.

FILM ITSELF can be kept in the main compartment of a refrigerator until used, for best results. But don't put it in the freezing compartment.

Don't open and use the film immediately after removing it from the refrigerator, however. Allow an hour or two for the film to warm up to room temperature.

I LIKED THE story about the fellow who was commenting to a friend about a fast-talking salesman he ran in to. Said he:

"That fellow is too slick for me. Sold me a lot that was two feet under water. I went around and demanded my money back."

"Did you get it?" he was asked.

"Get nothing," the fellow replied. "He sold me a motor boat."

The Devil's Advocate

WASHINGTON — "Devil's Advocate: One who urges the devil's case against the canonization of a saint."

Before we put the halo on Federalized science, plant a diadem on the brow of Project Apollo and thrust every glamour-struck adolescent to a course in graduate school, we ought to make sure that there aren't compelling reasons for doing just the opposite.

THIS STARTLING but salubrious thesis was recently presented to the somewhat dumfounded Senate committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences. The witness was a languid, unorthodox scholar, Dr. Philip Abelson, a Carnegie Institute geophysicist and the editor of "Science."

He recommended to the Senators that they have access to a panel of non-interested scientists who would serve as Devil's Advocate to argue against projects recommended by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), the Defense Department and other governmental agencies. He thought this would be a good way to save billions of dollars, as well as many man-years of boondoggling spectaculars in space. Afterwards, Dr. Abelson told this reporter:

"I DON'T CARE so much about the money I'm concerned with the harm that money can do."

Evidently too much money, too much confusion and too much crash-programming have already done colossal damage, and will do more unless sternly and miraculously checked.

NASA is one of several get-rich-quick Federal scientific outfits which has gone into the universities and industries with an unlimited hunting license for talent. One result is that men of genius have been diverted in large numbers from biology and the battle against human diseases into physics and the lure of moon-shooting.

PROJECT APOLLO, the manned trip to the moon, is a premature and ill-conceived venture, to Dr. Abelson's way of thinking. He took a straw vote among the readers of his magazine, contacting only those scientists with no self-interest in NASA. The result was 110 to 3 against the Administration's prized lunar program.

For all anybody knows, said Abelson, the moon is surfaced with quicksand, which would swallow up a manned vehicle, with a sticky mud which would prevent the lunar vehicle from returning, or with a radio-active crust, which would explode from a hard impact. All these theories have been advanced by reputable moon students.

THE WAY TO TEST these theories is with instrument-bearing missiles and satellites, of which we have a great store. They are far cheaper to launch and far more reliable in their reporting than human beings are.

The national education craze, coupled with moon-lure, he said, is saturating the grad schools with second-rate minds, and lowering the general standards. NASA's drive to maximize scientific fellowships is a fraud because virtually all talented scholars can get fellowships anyhow. NASA's horning-in only supplants scientific support, which is already in being.

WHEN DR. ABELSON finished, Senator Hickenlooper remarked that the needing scholar was quite a Devil's Advocate himself. Nobody present would deny that. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Europe Needs Her Mufflers

After five weeks in Europe, from Madrid to Salzburg, I have managed to slip past the customs a basic conclusion about mankind's greatest boon.

It is not the glory of the Renaissance that Florence represents, or the rule of law that Rome bestowed on man or the glorious flow of waltz and schmalz from Vienna, but a simple and basic invention of modern man—the muffler.

NOT THE KNITTED muffler that all male Britishers hang around their necks in winter as their chief protection against Arctic cold, but the sublimely efficient mufflers with which the law forces all Americans to deaden the noise of their motors.

The muffler-less motors of Europe have put an end to conversation, much less sleep. I can remember a time when Europeans looked pityingly at men from the New World as they boasted that their conversation was one of civilization's finest flowers.

BUT A EUROPEAN who made such a boast today would have to make it at the top of his lungs and then would probably be met with "What's that? Can't hear a word you're saying?"

To which the boasting European would, in all probability, answer irritably, "How's that? Speak louder, man!"

TO THE EUROPEAN the unmuffled motor represents the song of the spheres. It is music to his soul. The idea of tuning it down, much less turning it off, is unthinkable. The wild mating cry of the Vespa, as it races down Rome's Via Veneto, is echoed along the Langarno and hurled back from every ancient wall in Italy.

But Italy merely sets the standard. The only feasible method of communication any place on the continent today is via smoke signals. The human voice simply will not carry above the unmuffled roar of never-ending traffic which is, after all, a positive indication of Europe's present prosperity.

IF VOX HUMAN does carry, in an unexpected traffic lull, one is apt to hear an irritated American husband shouting, to an unexpectedly appreciative audience, "I can't slug every guy who pinches you!"

Since it is useless to hope that Europe will ever throttle down and adopt the muffler, I hope the muffler will adopt me. That is, can some American genius adapt the muffler to the human ear? Is it possible that a small, transistorized muffler can be invented to shut noise out of the auditory tract?

AMONG MY FRIENDS is one who first suggested that hearing aids be built into eyeglass frames. He called to patent his idea and lost a fortune. But I toss my ear-muffler suggestion into the public domain. All I ask is that it be perfected and put on the market before I next leave home. It could prove a greater boon to tourists than paper hankies and wash-and-wear.

One further thought on European traffic: Any American community that employs a traffic expert, as does New York City, should prevent him at any cost from going to Europe to study its traffic problems.

YOU THINK we have traffic problems at home, honey? Wait till you see Europe's traffic! All it's got is problems. Compared with traffic jams in any major European city, those in any comparable American city are a breeze. Study Europe's traffic problems? That way lies madness. If any American traffic expert starts talking up a European trip, my advice to his civic employers is to shoot him in the legs. (Copyright, 1963, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Billy Graham

QUESTION: If God directs and allows everything that happens to a Christian, what happens between God and a Christian when a sin is committed?

E. P.

ANSWER: I believe the best answer to your question has to be answered by reference to an illustration. I ask you this question—what happens to the father-son relationship in everyday life when the son does something that is displeasing to the father?

The Bible does not tell us that we are going to live free from sin as long as we are in this body. The Bible says, "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us" (1 John 1:8).

Actually what will happen is that there is a rupture that takes place in our fellowship, and this fellowship is not completely restored until confession of that sin is made. In other words, we may still be sons of God without enjoying the fellowship that sons rightfully should have. There are thousands of Christians that do not have the joy and peace that fellowship with God brings. There is no joy or ecstasy quite like that of daily fellowship with God. Try it!

Miss Hogg Is Married Saturday

LAMESA (SC) — Kayron Evelyn Hogg and Jimmy Don Barron repeated nuptial vows in a garden ceremony Saturday at 7:30 p.m. with R. A. Gorline officiating the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Hogg and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Barron.

The couple repeated their vows under an archway of greenery centered by wedding bows flanked with white doves. The bride approached the archway down a curved walk and through an arch of greenery and white bells.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional wedding gown handmade by the bride's mother. The gown was of white embroidered silk organza over kitten satin. The basque bodice was highlighted by a hand-beaded Sabrina yoke attached to a high Victorian inset of organza, complemented by long pointed sleeves. The full, deep-pleated skirt of organza flowed into a train accented with white satin rosettes.

Her bouffant chapel veil of silk illusion was attached to a tiara of pearl blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped by a bouquet of feathered carnations and a white orchid.

Miss Theda Joyce Hogg, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Burl Barron, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held. Guests were registered from Lamesa, Truth or Consequences, N. M., Stephenville, Albany, Lubbock and Abilene.

For traveling the bride wore a three-piece suit of aqua linen with white accessories. She wore a white orchid from the bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home in Lamesa after a short wedding trip.

The bride is a spring graduate of Lamesa High School and is employed by the Dawson County Public Library. The bridegroom, also a graduate of LHS, is employed by Modern Implement Co. here.

Powell-Barraza Rites At La Fe Mission Church

Miss Peggy Razo Barraza became the bride of Bennie D. Powell in a double ring ceremony held at 8:30 Sunday evening in the La Fe Baptist Mission Church. The Rev. R. B. Murray, pastor of Crestview Baptist Church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Barraza, of Big Spring, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dixon, of Savannah, Ga.

Forming the altar background, a large basket arrangement of gladioli and pink chrysanthemums was flanked by candelabra holding white tapers.

Vocal nuptial selections were presented by Miss Linda Fowler, accompanied at the piano by Miss Patsy Scott. Miss Scott also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal full-skirted gown of embroidered lace featuring a scalloped neckline and short fitted sleeves. Matching lace mitts extended over the elbow and ended in petal points over the hands. Her waist-length white veil of illusion fell from a tiara encrusted with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a white orchid centered in a cascade of feathered white chrysanthemums.

Miss Idaline Barraza, of Fort Worth, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Diana Salame, Miss Nora Puga and Miss Linda Salame. All wore identical pink sat sheaths. Their shoulder-length pearl embroidered veils fell from white headbands. Each carried a cascade style bouquet of white carnations and pink chrysanthemums.

Christopher Lemon, a cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer. Serving as best man was Eugene Cook, North Little Rock, Ark.

Groomsmen were John Finch, Clearwater, Fla., and Charlie Adams and Bill Farmer, both of Cairo, Ill. Ushers were Gilbert Barraza, brother of the bride, and Joe Acosta, cousin of the bride, who also lighted the altar tapers.

A reception was held in the church hall with the couple in the receiving line. The bride's parents and the feminine attendants.

The refreshment table, laid with a white lace cloth, featured the white three-tiered cake which was decorated with pink roses. The wedding bouquets served as the centerpiece.

Presiding at the register was Miss Mary Elma Perez, of Fort Worth. Members of the house party were Mrs. Elizabeth Salame, Mrs. Luz Abreo, an aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Carmel Abreo.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perez and family, San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, Carlsbad, N. M., and Van Horn.

For the wedding trip to Atlanta, Ga. the bride's traveling costume was a yellow jersey suit and white accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Savannah, Ga.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, where she was a member of the band, volleyball team and FHA.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Savannah High School and has been a member of the Air Force, stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

Six Girls Die In Crash

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—The girls must have seen the flashing lights, witnesses said.

But the car carrying six Youngstown girls home after a swimming party drove into the path of a speeding freight train early Sunday, killing all six girls.

Two boys, following the girls' car on motor scooters, told police that flasher lights were working at the crossing in nearby Geneva, when the car pulled onto the tracks, directly in the path of the Nickel Plate Road train.

The 89-car freight smashed the car into a tangle of twisted metal, and stopped a mile down the track with part of the car under the engine.

The victims, all close friends, were Sylvia Sanker, 18; Jennie Angelo, 21; Darlene Muzenic, 21; Sondra Van Sack, 18; Juliane Palko, 20; and Barbara Cowan, 19.

The girls left Youngstown Saturday morning to visit a friend's lakefront cottage. They had planned to stay overnight, but later decided to return home for Father's Day, a relative said.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(12 bids by the Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ 2 ♣ K Q 8 4 ♦ K J 10 7 6 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—This hand is worth about 12 points in support of hearts, and the suggested call is a jump to three hearts. This would be an overbid in case you had not passed originally, but if partner has made a shaded bid, he need not go on.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ J 2 ♣ Q J 9 5 ♦ Q 10 7 6 ♣ K Q 6

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—A response of two no trump is our choice. This is not up to the standard of a two no trump response but, in view of the previous pass, such a call may be made with 11 or 12 points. This hand contains 11, plus some slight values in the way of intermediates. In this situation, a jump to two no trump is not forcing.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ Q 5 4 ♣ A 10 9 7 5 3 ♠ 7 6 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♠ 1♥ 2♠ 3♥
4♥ 4♠ 4♥ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—In this situation, we would fear that the enemy can fulfill their slam contract and would choose to make a sacrifice bid of six hearts, but preparatory to doing so we would make a call of six diamonds so that if the enemy proceeds to seven clubs your partner will be apprised of your void in diamonds. Naturally, if doubled it is your purpose to return to six hearts.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ K Q J 5 4 ♣ K Q 4 5 4 ♦ K 2 ♣ Q

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass
2♥ Pass 4♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four no trump. A Blackwood call is recommended. It is not improbable in view of partner's strong bidding that he has three aces. If so, you should be willing to contract for slam. There is no real danger of getting overboard, for surely partner would not do such strong bidding without two aces.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ 10 6 3 ♣ A 7 4 2 ♦ A K 6 4 ♠ Q 3

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass
2♠ Pass 2♦ Pass
3♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four clubs. Since you have better than an opening bid, you should make one more try for game. It is true that partner has twice signed off, but that does not alter the fact that he still retains his opening bid. Your hand is more than an opening bid and the recommended call is four clubs. It is hard to visualize a hand on which a 10 trick contract would not be safe on this sequence of bids.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ K 2 ♣ Q 10 2 ♦ A Q 10 4 ♠ A Q J 8

The bidding has proceeded:
East South

What do you bid?
A.—Our choice is for a bid of one no trump, which is preferred to the double for the reason that you have not ample preparation for the major suits. If partner chooses to bid hearts voluntarily, you will be prepared to support the suit.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ 7 3 ♣ Q 9 5 ♦ 5 3 2 ♠ K 10 7 6 4

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ 2♦ 2♥ Pass
2♠ 3♦ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner has not sufficient values to justify voluntary action. Partner's hand is limited to some extent by the fact that he failed to double but merely responded as cheaply as possible with another suit. He probably counted on you for this much when he reentered the auction.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ 10 9 7 5 ♣ K 2 ♦ 10 9 8 5 ♠ Q 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ 2♦ 2♥ Pass
2♠ 3♦ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three aces. Partner must take your raise with a grain of salt inasmuch as you were unwilling to raise to two aces in the previous round. In view of your previous pass and the fit in partner's suit, you may take the liberty of raising.

Stalin's Ghost Mocks Soviet's Creative Folk

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Stalin's ghost will mock Soviet leaders when writers, artists and other creative people assemble this week to hear that the freedom they almost had was only a mirage.

A meeting of tremendous importance for Russians and the Communist world opens Tuesday under sponsorship of the Soviet Communist Central Committee.

This "June Plenum" will be watched by the West for signs of Premier Khrushchev's status as party and government leader. Conceivably, a sullen rebellion of intellectuals and youth could threaten his position. Old-line Communist conservatives may well blame him for undermining the party's monolithic authority.

In speeches, Khrushchev let it be known that Stalin—the man he denounced in 1956 as a mad murderer—was really a good Communist at heart.

HIS 'MERITS'

He told one meeting of ideological workers this spring: "The party gives its due to Stalin's merits. We are still of the opinion that Stalin was devoted to communism. He was a Marxist. When Stalin was being buried, many people—including myself—had tears in their eyes. These were sincere tears. Although we knew about some of Stalin's shortcomings, we trusted him."

Why this sudden restoration of Stalin as a Marxist? Khrushchev supplied the answer. Creative workers had to learn there was only one line and it had to be followed.

The elimination of Stalin's "personality cult," said Khrushchev, "is far from meaning that allegedly the reins of government have been loosened, that the public ship is sailing according to the will of the waves and that everybody can act on his own and do as he pleases."

What's wrong with the party? The de-Stalinization began with Khrushchev's secret 1956 speech to the 20th party congress opened a dam for a torrent of long-suppressed ideas. Conservative-minded Communist leaders, reared in the faith and stonily opposed to deviation from doctrine were worried. The system they built under Lenin and Stalin required unswerving obedience to a line handed down from the top.

PARTY POWER

Ideology is an instrument of party power; to be used as circumstances dictate. Sudden flip-flops must be accepted unquestioningly by Communists or of whose movement will be endangered.

Khrushchev said that "peaceful coexistence in the field of ideology is treason to Marxism-Leninism." That "our party will not tolerate attacks on monolithic unity."

By ideological coexistence, he apparently means that Western ideas are infiltrating Soviet youth and intellectuals, that they are getting bourgeois ideas, a private property psychology, that they are careless in their collective work. All this endangers the authority of the party in the U.S.S.R.—and, ultimately, in the world.

Ten Years Ago East Germans Erupted Into Bloody Revolt

BERLIN (AP)—The pent-up fury of an oppressed people erupted into bloody violence. They demanded freedom and justice. This was East Germany, June 17, 1953.

For a fantastic 24 hours, the people threw off the shackles of communism in East Berlin and 27 other communities.

It was in vain.

Soviet tanks, artillery and infantrymen beat down the first mass revolt in the Communist bloc. About 120 people died, hundreds more were wounded. Red courts worked overtime, handing down 6,321 years of hard labor to more than 1,000 demonstrators, of whom 52 still are behind bars.

The East German Communist police turned over to Soviet military authorities 131 persons never heard from again.

Soviet firing squads shot 17 Germans, executed 18 of their own troops for refusing to follow orders in crushing the revolt.

Monday, West Germany will again pay tribute to the victims. A torchlight parade will move through the workers' districts of West Berlin. Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, who is to become chancellor in the fall, will speak at a rally. It is an official holiday.

Today, East Germany still is ruled by guns. The East German regime has 200,000 men under arms.

"But if anything ever happens, they will not be able to trust us because we are fed up," a young East German army private told a Western reporter.

The Communists have insured themselves against such an eventuality. About 300,000 Soviet troops remain stationed in East Germany. Killings still are frequent as desperate people try to reach freedom.

Food is short, although the people are not starving. Farmers are angry because of the forced collectivization. Workers are resentful because of ever increasing pressure to work harder for less pay.

"Many of us would go against the government if we had the slightest chance of success," a man told this reporter at the East German city of Leipzig a few months ago.

"But we saw what happened in 1953 and in Hungary," he added bitterly. "If the Russians would slaughter us like pigs..."

Selecting Pope No Easy Task

By JAMES M. LONG

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The next Pope almost certainly will be an Italian, probably will not be a member of the entrenched Vatican Curia, and likely will be between 63 and 73 years old.

But whether he will be one of the so-called progressives following the road opened by Pope John XXIII, or one of the conservatives who oppose such a course will be the big question before the conclave of cardinals opening here next Wednesday. He might be a moderate belonging to neither group.

Fixed church rules prohibit anything like campaigning in the days between the death of one Pope and the election of another.

But there is speculation about the outcome on every tongue in every newspaper, and even among the highest church circles in this capital of Catholics.

MAIN GUESSES

The main guesses are these: The most likely choices are Giovanni Cardinal Urbani, who succeeded Pope John as patriarch of Venice, and Giacomo Cardinal Lecaro, archbishop of Bologna. Urbani is 63, youngest of the favorites.

Too Much Moisture Plagues West Texas

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Rains and turbulence plagued South Plains farmers during the week while the drought deepened in eastern, coastal and southern areas.

Rain is urgently needed, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in these dry areas for both crops and pastures. Dry, open weather would be welcomed in the overly wet areas.

Dryland crops in South Texas suffered in another week of no rain. Irrigated cotton and grain sorghum are looking good. Ranges are declining.

South Central Texas was critically dry. Some corn is being cut for fodder. Sorghum is suffering, cattle feeding is increasing; herds are being culled, and calves marketed early because of the drought. Some counties are asking to be added to those eligible for emergency feed programs. Stock water is low.

Unless rains fall soon, upper Gulf Coast farmers and stockmen will have more heavy losses. Cattle and pastures are below average. Some areas have no grazing. Early watermelons have been harvested. Fleahoppers are moving into cotton. Rice prospects are fair.

Moisture in East Texas is short to very short and pastures are below average. Some cattle were losing weight and generally are in only fair condition. Only one case of screwworms was reported during the week.

Moisture in Northeast Texas where the hay harvest has started. Cotton, corn and sorghums are making good growth. Pastures are average.

The grain harvest in North Central Texas sped up with 80 to 95 per cent of the wheat out in most counties. Cotton, corn and sorghums are looking good but insect damage is reported. Pastures and livestock are in good condition.

Moisture in Central Texas is generally adequate except in southeast counties. A fair out crop is about harvested; sorghum is heading and corn is in the roasting ear stage. Peanut planting is still on. Crop prospects were generally favorable. Pastures are green and about average.

Moisture is adequate but it is being depleted rapidly in West Central Texas. Some cotton has been planted a third time and is now making good growth. Peanut planting is moving ahead. Stock water is needed in many areas.

Moisture generally is favorable for range grass growth in far West Texas. Cotton and sorghums are growing rapidly. The grain harvest is about over. Alfalfa is ready for the second cutting.

Rolling Plains moisture is adequate. Replanting should be completed soon.

Replanting of about 40 per cent of the South Plains cotton crop

SPECIAL STUDY On Oil Flow

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Interstate Oil Compact Commission members will hear a preliminary report on a special study aimed at adopting a uniform method of setting oil production allowances when they meet next in December.

The commission, which ended a four-day meeting in New Orleans the past weekend, remained fearful that the federal government seeks more regulatory control of the oil and gas industry.

Encouraged by the Interior Department, the commission has ordered a survey of varying oil and gas conservation laws in the production states.

The information would be used in drawing up recommendations toward adopting a standard method of setting oil production allowances. A final report on this program is scheduled to be submitted next year at a meeting in Billings, Mont.
